Doctor takes Carter out of distance race

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Carter, trying to beat his own best running time, got visibly winded at the midpoint in his first competitive race Saturday and dropped out on his doctor's orders.

"They had to drag me off," the president said two hours later at an awards ceremony and picnic at Catoctin Mountain National Park. "I didn't want to stop."

Much of the 6.2-mile course — a standard 10 kilometer race — was uphill. While most of the 900 runners walked part of the way or even stopped to rest, witnesses said, Carter kept running.

After passing the 3.5-mile mark, the president's personal physician, Dr. William Lukash, who also was running, told Carter he looked too tired to finish.

At first the president refused, but then reluctantly agreed and was helped into a waiting car and taken back to the presidential retreat in the mountains above this Maryland town.

Washington Post reporter Colman McCarthy, running in the race near Carter, described the president as wobbly and moaning when he quit. He said the president was kept from collapsing by security men who helped him to a nearby golf cart and then to the waiting automobile.

"I looked to my left and suddenly the president began to stagger. His face was ashen. His mouth hung open, and his eyes had an unfocused look," McCarthy wrote in his account of the race. "Even though he ... was no longer making it on his own obviously diminished steam, Carter lunged forward. In mumbled words, he said he wanted to keep going."

When he arrived at the picnic later,

Carter explained that he had run the course four times before with two aides.

"Our best time was 50 minutes, and we were trying to cut that by about four minutes today and didn't quite make it," Carter said.

Wearing blue shorts and a jogging sweatshirt, Carter told the audience that running was "a great thing" and urged them to become "evangelists" for the sport.

One runner, 33-year-old Keith Miles of Washington, said he was surprised when the president passed him at the 3-mile mark.

"It was pretty clear that he was running faster than my pace, and I am in pretty good shape," Miles said. "It was clear that he was pressing, and I thought he was pressing a little too hard."

Later, Miles said, he passed Carter as the president stood with his hands on his knees as Dr. Lukash urged him to quit.

"He (Carter) was saying 'No, let's go, let's go.' But it was clear he was just winded," Miles said.

GOP opts for petition for presidential primary

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Republicans, buoyed by recent Democratic defections in the state legislature but wary of skirmishes within the party, Saturday approved a petition process for their presidential primary.

The process requires potential candidates to gather 5,000 signatures on petitions. State Republican Executive Committee members agreed the process was an "easy one" which will not be difficult for candidates to meet.

Sen. John Tower, delivering the keynote speech before the SREC meeting, called for GOP unity after a nominee is selected. GOP leaders here agreed that John Connally, George Bush and Ronald Reagan are the leading contenders for that nomination.

Tower, saying he was avoiding his usual "Tower unity" speech, called for a "spirited" primary battle ending in solidarity.

"I hope that whatever wounds there might be will heal rapidly after the convention," Tower told the committee.

State GOP Chairman Chester Upham of Mineral Wells said the primary skirmish will draw a million voters to the GOP polls. That would more than double the record 1976 turnout.

Texas Democrats have not yet decided whether they will hold a primary. Several GOP leaders here Saturday predicted that Sen. Edward Kennedy will garner the Democratic nomination.

"It's becoming more clear now who the Democratic nominee will be rather than who the Republican nominee will be," Tower said, referring to Kennedy.

Markers testify to special relationships between men and animals

It's done quickly. The shovel strikes the sod into rectangular pieces, then penetrates the earth.

Within 10 minutes, the shovel strikes caliche — the bottom of the sepulchre.

A rectangular pit has been dug as a mausoleum for a deceased dog, formerly the pet of a Midland family.

Raul Reyes, 27, digs the graves on his lunchbreaks during the week.

On this grave, Reyes is joined by Eduardo Gomez, a co-worker at Resthaven Memorial Park. The noonday sun draws beads of perspiration onto their foreheads as their shovels parcel out the moist brown earth. Their arms glisten in the light.

"It works up quite a sweat," Reyes says. The Midland native has been burying the animals for nearly two decades. The site is located just north of Midland Country Club on the Lamesa Highway.

Around the two-acre cemetery are headstones and markers noting in concrete simplicity the special relayears. By his own estimate, he has dug 200 graves for dogs and cats.

THE GRAVE IS in the pet cemetery, sponsored in Midland County by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The site is located just north of Midland Country Club on the Lamesa Highway.

Another reads "Chico — Hims a Sweet Dog."

THE PET CEMETERY has been in operation since 1948, Jeanette Probandt, president of the Midland County Humane Society, said.

"The only other pet cemetery close to Midland is in El Paso," she added. "We've had burials from as far away as Lubbock."

A burial plot for the family pet starts at $65. It includes the burial container and a concrete headstone. Bronze headstones are available, too, but the cost is greater, Mrs. Probandt said.

"I don't think anyone could spend over $300," she said.

The burials are simple. Often, the family is not present for the act; which is completed without ceremony.

"Very few are there for the burial. Most want to come out later," she said.

RAUL REYES, KNOWN to his friends as "Roy," is the third member of his family to conduct the burials for the Humane Society.

It is a part-time position. Normally, he works with burials at Resthaven Memorial Park during the day.

"I had it set up to where I'd bury dogs on Thursdays," he says, pausing momentarily while preparing the gravesite. These days, the number of burials is such that he must work

LONDON — The highlight of this swiftly-moving, two-week journalistic journey to Europe was a private conversation with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher at No. 10 Downing St., historic home of Britain's prime ministers.

It was in the same room where Winston Churchill received me in 1955 on my way home from the interviews in Moscow with Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders which won for my colleagues and me the coveted Pu-

Texas turkey trots to triumph when Minnesota bird goes awol

WORTHINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Unfeathered friends laughed and cheered their support Saturday as a Texas turkey won the "Great Gobbler Gallop" but Minnesota's entry will get a pre-Thanksgiving chance to redeem himself in a Texas race.

"Ruby Begonia," described as a wild range bird and entered from the Texas town of Cuero, won the seventh annual race held as part of Worthington's 39th annual King Turkey Day Festival.

The Texas turkey had little competition from Minnesota's bird, dubbed "Paycheck" because he was supposed to go so fast.

"Ruby Begonia" covered the two-block course in 57.6 seconds. Meanwhile, "Paycheck" went awol and wandered off course. Seven times the Minnesota bird meandered into the crowd. It took "Paycheck" two minutes, 27.7 seconds to reach the finish line.

The second heat is to be held in Cuero next month. The combined time in the two races will determine the winner.

The race team members—Rich Pederson, Neil Roberts and Lon Lien—promised that "Paycheck's" problems would be corrected by the next race. If not, they warned, the bird won't be around after Thanksgiving.

I have lost my passport. How do I go about reporting the loss and replacing the document? — Mrs. M. F.

ANSWER: A spokesman for the Personnel Office located in the Main Post Office, 100 E. Wall St., says that if you think the passport was stolen, it should be reported immediately to the Midland Police Department.

However, if you believe the passport was lost, say during a move or destroyed with the trash, you need to go to Room 114 of the Main Post Office to fill out Form DPS 64, which is entitled "Statement of Inability to Present Previously Issued Passport." This form asks that you explain to the best of your knowledge how this passport was lost and what efforts you made to locate it.

Also, there is Form DPS 11, which is your re-application for issuance of a passport.

additional days to keep pace. At times the work is unpleasant. There is an odor on occasion. Once, a family was planning to move from Midland and asked Reyes to remove their pet from the cemetery so they could take the animal to their new location.

"I'm not too much for removals," he says. "It's not good for my appetite."

THE DECEASED ANIMAL is kept in a freezer at the SPCA, a kind of sub-zero mortuary which prevents the animal from decomposing long enough to get it buried in the ground.

Reyes wraps the animal in a blanket and sets it in a wheelbarrow — a working man's hearse — for transport to the gravesite.

There is no ceremony. The animal is placed in the grave with its head pointed south.

On a typical day, Reyes had said earlier, he might bury three animals in 30 minutes. Once, he buried eight in one day.

While it may seem morbid to spectators, Reyes notes that it is just another job.

"You get used to it," he explains.

THE TWO WORKERS have finished arranging the animal in the grave. Reyes and Gomez grab their shovels and slowly begin filling the pit.

Mostly there is silence. Reyes and Gomez replace the sod on the grave and tap it into place.

The excess dirt is spread thinly around the surrounding grass.

"That's it," Reyes says. "I'll place the marker on the grave later."

Both men shoulder the shovels and walk back to their pickup. There will be time for lunch before they return to work.

Kennedy says nation's response is encouraging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy calls the nation's response to his potential presidential candidacy heartening and encouraging, and says a 1980 challenge to President Carter would not be divisive because the Democratic Party already is split.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Kennedy said he decided to consider running after concluding that "the divisions that existed in the party and the country existed today ... and they would be there whether I was a candidate or not."

The Massachusetts senator said he hasn't made up his mind yet, but will by January.

He said a factor in his decision will be the support generated by his statement that he is considering it.

"I must say that I've been heartened and encouraged by the responses to date," he said.

Carter supporters, led by Democratic National Chairman John C. White, have said a Kennedy challenge would be so divisive as to make the victor vulnerable to a Republican in the fall election. Kennedy disputed that.

He said past contests for the Democratic nomination "seemed to be in some sense energize the party, bring new people in ..."

Kennedy said his differences with Carter on the economy and other issues are less a matter of policy than one of leadership style. "It's back to whether the people have the sense of confidence that he can deal with these issues, I think that's the matter of deepening and increasing concern to people as we come to the 1980s," he said.

Kennedy was vague on alternative proposals to deal with economic woes. He said he might favor a tax cut soon to deal with increasing unemployment, and more forceful wage-price guidelines to combat inflation.

DEATHS

Nell W. Walker, 79, died Friday in her home at 512 W. Storey Ave. after a lengthy illness. Services will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Gipson Funeral Home chapel in Lufkin. Burial will be in Huntington Cemetery in Huntington.

Local arrangements are being handled by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Walker was born Aug. 5, 1900, in St. Augustine County. She grew up in Huntington and attended Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos where she received her teaching degree. Mrs. Walker later received a masters degree from Texas A&I University in Kingsville. She taught school for 25 years in Harlingen. She moved to Midland in 1976. She was a member of the Memorial Baptist Church in Harlingen.

Survivors include her husband, K.P.; a son, Dr. Kerfoot P. Walker of Tyler; a daughter, Mrs. Edwin F. Nixon of Midland; a brother, E.E. Walton of Houston, six grandchildren, a great-grandchild and several nieces.

week as it was an extraordinarily busy one for her what with the constitutional conference in London that she called to try to solve the Rhodesian problem.

In a turquoise-colored, medium weight silk dress that trimly fit her good figure, the extremely pretty, fair-haired granddaughter of a country shoemaker looked very well indeed.

Although her first four months as prime minister have proved rather hectic, the awesome burden of the job does not show in her face. There was not a tiny wrinkle in her brow, nor a visible line of worry on her soft-complexioned, pink face. She was as energetic and quick-witted as ever, gestulating freely with her lovely, well-manicured tapered fingers. She is delightful to talk with, speaking not at you but with you.

I asked her how she felt about the prospects for the Rhodesian Conference, the holding of which represents her first diplomatic success as prime minister. Despite the threats of some black African leaders to walk out on her at the Lasaka, Zambia, Commonwealth Conference in August, she succeeded in reaching agreement with 38 of the 40 other Commonwealth countries on a new British peace proposal for Rhodesia. With skillful tact, she persuaded the heads of black African governments to pressure the two leaders of the so-called patriotic front, which is waging terrorist warfare against the Salisbury regime, to attend the all-party conference in London.

SHE TOLD ME THAT what she and her foreign secretary, Lord Carrington, hope to achieve at the conference is an agreement with the Rhodesian government and the guerrilla leaders to accept a new constitution for Rhodesia similar to the constitutions the British gave their other colonies when they granted them independence.

If an agreement can be reached on this basis, Prime Minister Thatcher said she would grant Rhodesia legal independence, recognize its government and lift sanctions against it. It was my impression that if the guerrilla leaders, Nkomo and Mugabe, attempt to block such an agreement, she will endeavor to conclude such an agreement with the Rhodesia government and drop Britain's previous policy of attempting to impose the Soviet-supported, Marxist-oriented revolutionary leaders on a Rhodesian settlement.

In an earlier interview which Kingsbury Smith, our national editor, Sy Freidin, our London correspondent, and I had with the present Rhodesian prime minister, Bishop Muzorewa, he made it clear such a solution would be acceptable to him.

However, this solution would involve relinquishment of the 10-year veto power which the white minority now has over changes in the security forces, civil service and judiciary. This privilege was granted by Bishop Muzorewa and other moderate black leaders in order to keep the whites in Rhodesia to maintain economic stability.

WE HAD TALKED earlier, too, with former Prime Minister Ian Smith, leader of the white minority. He indicated he would be willing to consider any alternative plan that would provide adequate protection for white interests.

I told Mrs. Thatcher that we had found both Prime Minister Muzorewa and Mr. Smith very friendly in their attitude toward her; confident she will not sell them out to Nkomo and Mugabe. They both had indicated eagerness to deal directly with her government if the guerrilla leaders reject the British peace proposals. She seemed very pleased with this information, which may have been news to her.

After our brief discussion of the Rhodesian problem, Mrs. Thatcher then asked me, as had the three Scandinavian prime ministers whom Kingsbury, Smith and I interviewed last week — and practically everyone else we have met in Europe — what was going to happen in our presidential campaign next year. I told her my crystal ball was a bit blurred but that most "political observers" at home seem to think Ted Kennedy can have the Democratic nomination if he decides to challenge President Carter, and that it was beginning to look as though he intends to do so.

The uncertainty over our leadership situation is of great concern to most European allied leaders over here. The main item on Mrs. Thatcher's mind, however, is her determination to reverse the socialist trends that have brought Britain close to economic ruin.

THIS FORCEFUL, outspoken, gracious lady, who has been in politics since the age of 24, has surprised a lot of people by quickly proving that her campaign promises were not just rhetoric. Unlike many politicians, you and I could name, she is keeping the pledges she made to persuade the British people to elect her the only woman head of government in the world today.

During the 140 days she has been prime minister, Mrs. Thatcher has moved swiftly to dismantle the structures of socialism built up by the leftist union-dominated labor government that ruled Britain for a decade and a half. They turned the country into a welfare state, almost wrecking the economy with heavy government spending, incompetent management of industrialized industries and the lowest manpower production rate of any nation in Europe.

Confident she can reverse the post-war decline of British society by sharply cutting government spending, increasing profit incentives and reviving the free enterprise spirit, she

Frederic cleanup continues; Storm's death toll climbs

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Chain saws roared in this port city Saturday as workers cleared a three-day pile of rubble caused by the ferocious winds of Hurricane Frederic. Police and National Guardsmen tried to protect and contain the stunned population.

The death toll from the storm also continued to climb as police blamed the fire deaths of a mother and her three children Friday night on conditions caused by the storm. That brought the storm's toll to 12 in Alabama. At least five other deaths were attributed to the storm as it diminished in size and moved northeastward, passing through western New York Friday night.

And Radio Havana reported that Frederic killed 10 people when it passed through the island nation earlier last week. Police in Pritchard said the mother and children, identified as 24-year-old Annie Williams and her children, Eric, 8, Aretta, 2, and six-month-old Michelle, died in a house fire that was caused by "improper cooking."

The Mobile city council established free distribution points for ice Saturday to counter out-of-staters taking advantage of the destruction of parts of Alabama Power Co.'s distribution system.

Police Lt. Vincent Richardson said some ice peddlers from outside Alabama were getting $2 a pound for bagged ice cubes.

Alabama Power said service was still out to about 95,000 people and that a force of 1,100 people was working to restore electricity. The City Council also established a $500 fine for price-gouging. Richardson said there were reports of $400 to $500 generators being sold for $1,200 and chain saws being sold for $400 to $500 over market value.

"If they're going to sell anything in Mobile, they better have a list price book with them," warned Richardson.

has sent shock waves through Britain by the speed with which she has lightened taxes on the successful, curtailed social services, and started to dismantle nationalized industries. She virtually doubled the sales tax to 15 percent in order to cut taxes without increasing budget deficit.

Unfortunately, her do-it-now plan to curb inflation, stimulate productivity and boost economic growth has run into serious difficulties because of the latest OPEC oil price increases, which have spurred inflation and precipitated a worldwide recession.

With inflation expected to hit 18 percent before the end of the year, she will have a difficult time restraining wage increase demands.

IT IS WIDELY believed she may face a general strike before the issue of union power is settled. However, Employment Minister Jim Prior, her chief negotiator with the unions, told us he doubts there will be a confrontation this winter, although he foresees the possibility of it next year or in '81 if the ultra-leftists gain control of the major unions.

The sales tax increase, and government spending cuts have already cost her some popular support. The latest polls show a 12 percent swing since the general elections last May, with labor now 5 percentage points ahead.

Laborites, perhaps wishfully thinking, are predicting she will be replaced by her own Conservative party before her five-year term is over.

But if she succeeds in restoring prosperity in Britain, it could mean a turning point in the history of the western industrialized nations away from creeping socialism and back to the traditional American ideas of free enterprise.

That would make her the greatest woman leader in British history since the first Elizabeth.

Richardson said the looting problem was under control, but that some incidents continued. At least 50 juveniles and 14 adults have been arrested and charged with looting since the storm crashed into the 300-year-old city just before midnight Wednesday.

"We arrested a man with nine pairs of tennis shoes. Not one pair fit him. One guy was running down the street with a fire extinguisher of all things," said Richardson. He said vandals had even stripped insulation from downed power lines and sold the copper wire for scrap metal.

Civil Defense spokesman Jeff Mims said 81 people were arrested Friday night on curfew violations.

Looting was also a problem in nearby Pascagoula, Miss., where police and National Guard officials said Saturday that 15 persons had been arrested since the storm hit.

Team investigating welfare fraud in Permian Basin

By MIKE SLATON
Staff Writer

Welfare cheaters should take cover. Since May, the Texas Department of Human Resources has had an investigative division working in the Tall City to look into allegations of welfare fraud, according to Robert Ortiz, an investigator with the division. Ortiz and his partner, Mike Huckleby, investigated reported cases of fraud in 17 counties in the Permian Basin area. In addition to fraud, they also are involved with the investigation of child abuse, neglect and death. The two-man team also conducts internal investigations in the department. Since May — when their office opened in Midland — through August, the two men have investigated $7,137 worth of alleged fraud against Texas, according to Huckleby. During that same period, the two investigators have checked into alleged fraud totaling $13,723 in the 17-county area, Huckleby added. "Primarily we investigate any state-funded program where fraud is suspected," said Huckleby.

"Foodstamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) are the two major areas in which we are involved," he explained. For instance, said Ortiz, if Jane Doe applies for state assistance, she agrees to report anything that might change her income.

The amount of money she receives is established in the application and that amount is altered if her conditions change, the two investigators explained. "If she takes a job, her husband returns — whatever the circumstances that cause a change in her income — she must report it and have her benefits adjusted accordingly," said Ortiz. If the fictional Jane Doe didn't report her changed income and continued receiving welfare assistance, the investigators said, she could be prosecuted for welfare fraud. Ms. Doe then would have to pay Texas the difference between what the state had given her and what she should have received under the agency's guidelines. In most cases, restitution is all that is demanded, the two men said. However, the decision to prosecute or defer prosecution and accept restitution is at the discretion of the prosecuting attorney, they said. Fraud can be prosecuted under city, county and federal theft statutes, the investigators said. "The main objective," Huckleby emphasized, "is to get reimbursement."

Prodigy case still a tangle

DESOTO, Texas (AP) — A 16-year-old computer prodigy, whose mysterious disappearance from Michigan State University prompted a month-long search, is back with his family, but the case remained a tangle of unanswered questions Saturday.

James Dallas Egbert III was reported missing Aug. 15 at the school's East Lansing campus. Officials there, fearing that he might have been a victim of an attempt to act out an elaborate fantasy game known as "Dungeons and Dragons," combed the maze of steam tunnels under the school.

But William Dear, a flamboyant Texas private investigator hired by the Egbert family, told reporters here Friday that Egbert's disappearance was not linked to the game. He did not, however, offer an alternative explanation.

Dear also refused to discuss the boy's whereabouts since the time he was picked up — at an undisclosed location — at about 5 p.m. Thursday.

He did say the student was in good physical condition, except for minor cuts, when he was found. Dear said an East Lansing woman — whom he declined to identify — had contacted him last week with a tip that eventually led him to Egbert. It was not known where the boy was picked up, or where he was reunited with his family.

The boy's father, James Dallas Egbert II of Dayton, Ohio, told reporters Friday that his son was under a doctor's care — at an undisclosed location — taking sedatives and other medication.

Neither Dear nor the elder Egbert would offer any explanation for the disappearance.

Changes in misdemeanor probation law give 'leeway'

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

meanor probation law enacted by the Texas Legislature earlier this year are affecting the way the Midland County Attorney's office views probation. While County Attorney

Leslie Acker is withholding a judgment on the overall change in the probation law, he acknowledged that his office is utilizing some of the changes.

Those changes became effective Aug. 27. Basically, Acker said, the changes give the county court some additional "leeway" in how it can elect to handle probation in a particular case.

According to Acker, in a "deferred judgment" the judge doesn't enter a finding in the court case; it won't go on the individual's record.

That isn't to say it's a free ride out of the courthouse. If an individual is arrested again for driving while intoxicated, the judgment most likely will go on that person's record, according to the county attorney.

"Shock probation" is a judgment whereby a person convicted of an offense can be incarcerated for a short period of his full sentence so he can see what jail is like and, hopefully, be jolted into going straight, Acker said.

Shock probation has been used sparingly in Midland County, Acker noted. However, he said felony probation officers have told him that a similar program used on felony cases had good results.

Judge bars student-run paper from running hydrogen bomb secrets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge said Saturday night he has signed an order barring a student-run California newspaper from publishing a letter the government contends includes secrets about the hydrogen bomb.

"I've just signed the order," U.S. District Judge Robert H. Schnacke said in a telephone interview from his Hillsboro, Calif., home. He said Justice Department lawyers appeared before him at 5:45 p.m. PDT seeking the temporary restraining order. The case, which involves a letter about the bomb from a self-described amateur expert on nuclear weapons, is the second time this year the Justice Department has sought an order to prevent publication of information on the hydrogen bomb.

Schnacke said the Justice Department planned to serve the order on the Berkeley-based Daily Californian immediately. Californian Editor-in-Chief Tom Abate said he wouldn't comment on the order until speaking with lawyers.

"They (the government lawyers) satisfied me that a TRO was required under the circumstances," Schnacke said, adding the order "suggests in strong terms that they (the newspaper editors) better wait before they do anything."

He said he has scheduled a hearing for Friday on the government's request for a permanent injunction, barring publication of the letter.

Justice Department officials said they filed suit in U.S. District Court here at the request of Energy Secretary Charles Duncan.

Earlier Saturday, another newspaper, The Milwaukee Sentinel, said the Energy Department had asked it to give up possession of its copy of the letter. The Sentinel said it refused to do so, but had no intention of publishing any classified information from the letter.

Officials in Washington said copies of the letter had gone to a number of newspapers and individuals.

According to the suit, the letter was written by Charles Hansen of Mountain View, Calif. Hansen, 32, a computer programmer, has said his hobby is collecting public documents about nuclear weaponry.

For example, depending on the nature of the case, the court has the choice to grant a "deferred judgment," "regular probation" or "shock probation" for a person convicted of a misdemeanor offense. For a fourth choice the judge can require a person convicted of an offense to spend some of his probation sentence in jail.

Such judgments weren't used much before, he noted. "There wasn't enough difference between it and regular probation before," Acker said.

Now, he believes, deferred judgments will be used more frequently in cases such as driving while intoxicated first offenses because the judgment does not go on the individual's record. "We've used it (the deferred judgment statute) some since Aug. 27," Acker noted. That isn't to say it's a free ride out of the courthouse. If an individual is arrested again for driving while intoxicated, the judgment most likely will go on that person's record, according to the county attorney.

"Shock probation" is a judgment whereby a person convicted of an offense can be incarcerated for a short period of his full sentence so he can see what jail is like and, hopefully, be jolted into going straight, Acker said.

Shock probation has been used sparingly in Midland County, Acker noted. However, he said felony probation officers have told him that a similar program used on felony cases had good results.

Midland police grooming cadets as future officers

By KAY HORD
Staff Writer

There's a saying that you're getting old when even police officers begin to look young. In that case, some 25-year-olds in Midland may be feeling the onslaught of old age — that is, if they happened to catch a glimpse of Jack Holloway, Bruce Williams or James Ross. These men who wear police uniforms are only 19. However, the Midland Police Department requires applicants for patrolmen to be 20 years old.

The three are police cadets, and the only distinguishing factors between them and the "real thing" is a slight variation in badges and the absence of a pistol on the cadet's hip.

When outside the police department, the men aren't allowed to have anything hanging from their belt that could possibly be mistaken as a pistol, said one cadet. Flashlights are allowed if the cadet is riding at night with an officer, he added.

Cadets are high school graduates between the ages of 17 and 20 who are interested in continuing their education and becoming law enforcement officers, said Police Inspector J.L. Miles, head of the police department training division.

The program began in October 1975, when the Midland Police Department received authorization to hire four cadets.

The purpose, Miles said, was to obtain potential police officers.

"We thought it might be a good way of doing a young person the favor of paying for his college education plus do the city and department the favor of getting good police officers that already had a pretty good police background," the officer said.

"He'll already know such things as what it takes for a felony complaint, and he'll have a pretty good idea of how to conduct a search at a crime scene."

Miles went on to say that "by riding with commissioned officers, he (the cadet) has a good idea of what goes on out in the streets and is able to form in his own mind whether he wants to continue (in law enforcement)."

"It's a relatively cheap method of giving a young man preliminary training in law enforcement," Miles said. Cadets are not required to ride with officers but can do so in their spare time if they have the inclination, he added.

The men are required to work toward an associate degree in law enforcement and maintain a "C" average in all subjects, according to Miles.

The department pays for the cadet's education — a minimum of nine hours per semester — and provides a part-time job, he said.

For four cadets, $2,400 has been budgeted for educational expenses. During the summer, they work 40 hours a week at the police department, cutting back to 20 during school months. They are paid $3.30 per hour.

"At the department I try to work them in different divisions so they can get an overall idea of what goes on," Miles said. "Primarily though, they work in communications, at the front desk and in identification."

Applicants for the cadet program are required to take the same written examination given patrol officers. The exam is contracted through the state, Miles said.

They also are required to have an oral interview with a board composed of police department officers.

When the program began, Miles said they had about 15 applicants, some from as far away as Abilene. Three men and a woman were chosen — two from Midland, one from Marfa and another from Snyder.

Of the original four, one has completed the program and is an officer for the Midland Police Department. Two others resigned from the program after about a year.

The last, according to Miles, has resigned to continue his education at Southwestern University, Georgetown. But he returns to Midland in the summer and works part-time in the police department.

"I think we will wind up with two of the original four," Miles said. "As soon as the other one finishes his education at Southwestern, I'm hoping he'll return to Midland."

"I think the program's worked excellent, just excellent. Other than the first four, we still have the other three we've hired," he said.

Miles said he hopes to expand the program sometime in the future. "We could use twice as many cadets as we have. They're excellent workers — every one of them."

Carter nixes Chrysler's $1.2 billion request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Chrysler Corp. asked for $1.2 billion in federal loan guarantees Saturday, but was turned down by the Carter administration which said the financially troubled automaker was asking for too much government aid. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller told reporters that the company will have to substantially rework its proposal. Any loan guarantees will have to be approved by Congress, but administration endorsement is considered crucial.

The Chrysler officials, including 13 members of the corporation's board of directors, met with Miller for two hours. They proposed a recovery plan which asks the government to guarantee $500 million in loans immediately and another $700 million on a contingency basis if the company cannot get the money on its own. Chrysler Board Chairman John Riccardo argued that with federal help the company, which is expecting a record loss of $1 billion this year, could begin making a profit in two years. The $1 billion loss would be the largest ever for any U.S. corporation.

But Miller called the company's loan request "way out of line" and said the overall proposal needs to be substantially changed. He told reporters the loan guarantee request was too high and he was not satisfied with Chrysler's reorganization blueprint.

The Chrysler proposal said without assistance "the company faces a peak cash shortfall of $2.1 billion for its new product program" in the coming year with only $900 million of that expected to be recovered.

Briscoe named to board

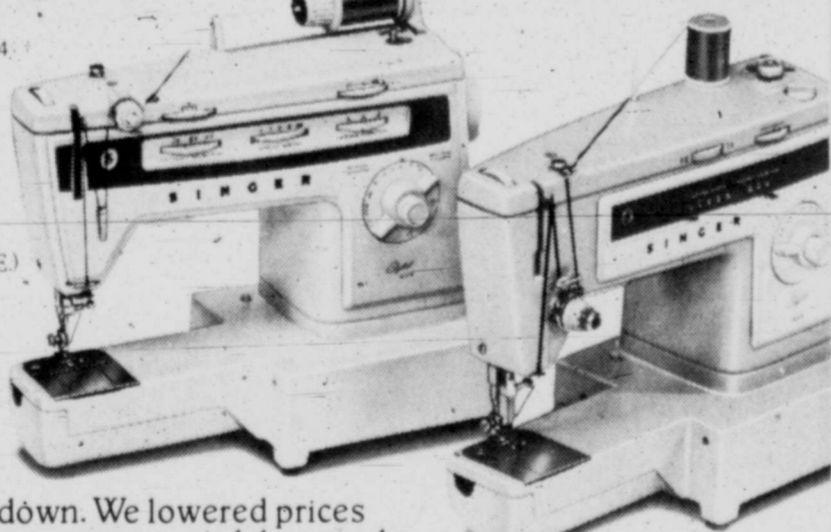

TEMPLE, Texas, (AP) — Former Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde was elected Saturday to the board of trustees of Scott and White Memorial Hospital.

Briscoe, who served as governor from 1973 to 1979, was named to a two-year term. He joins 14 other directors in overseeing operations of the $43 million hospital and clinic.

Scott and White is a 300-acre hospital complex in Temple with more than 300 beds.

Board to review bond election items

Midlanders will hear a final list of items to be included in the $10.26 million school bond election Tuesday when Midland Independent School District board members meet at 5 p.m. to officially call the election.

Trustees will meet in special session in the Administration Building, 702 N. N St., to set the time and places for the Oct. 23 election.

A preliminary report presented last Tuesday indicated the total $10.26 million package would be spent to make improvements to most of the schools in the district and construct a new elementary school in northwest Midland.

Specific issues discussed Tuesday included:

— $5.3 million for expansion and remodeling at Midland High School, including $1 million for purchasing 13 houses next to the campus. Building a new physical education facility and remodeling the current gym into a new learning resource center also is included in the MHS package.

— $1.27 million for improvements at Lee High School.

— $431,000 for vocational facilities to be shared by the high schools.

— $797,400 for other capital improvements, including maintenance and upkeep projects at most of the schools in the district.

— $2.1 million for a new elementary school and related costs.

Trustees indicated, however, that list might change when the final figures are presented Tuesday.

They also said they expected to have firm figures on the effect the bond issue would have on the district's tax rate at the meeting Tuesday.

Author will speak on older citizens

Bert Kruger Smith, author of the books "Aging in America" and "The Pursuit of Dignity," will speak on problems of older retarded citizens at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Opportunity Center, 207 N. A St.

Ms. Smith is executive associate of the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health in Austin.

She will be speaking during the second in the fall series of informational programs sponsored by the Midland Association of Retarded Citizens, said Marion Fisher, MARC executive director. The meeting is open to the public at no charge.

Ms. Smith has been listed in a number of biographical dictionaries, including "The Compendium: Persons of Eminence in Exceptional Education" and "Who's Who in the South and Southwest."

Ms. Smith conducts a weekly radio interview program, "The Human Condition," which is broadcast at 6:30 a.m. Sundays over KNFM radio in Midland.

Those interested in additional information may telephone the MARC office at 682-9771.

Carter Wilson named Miss World America

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, U.S. Virgin Islands (AP) — Carter Wilson, a 23-year-old brunette from Harrisonburg, Va., is the new Miss World America and will represent the United States at the Miss World pageant in London in November.

She was crowned early Saturday after being selected from 50 beauty queens representing the 50 states.

The pageant was plagued by power failures and nearly half of the 1,000 persons in the auditorium of the College of the Virgin Islands had left when Ms. Wilson's name was announced at 2:30 a.m. The ceremony had been scheduled to last two hours but ran for six.

A 5-foot-8-inch business school graduate from the University of Virginia, Ms. Wilson said, "I think I represented a well-rounded all American girl and that is what they wanted."

The New York-based fashion model said in an interview after she was chosen that she collects antique jewelry, does needlework and plays tennis.

General Motors and auto workers didn't want strike

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp., once known as the most unyielding of the nation's automakers in bargaining with the United Auto Workers union, was apparently determined this year to reach a new three-year contract without a strike. So was the union.

The nation's largest manufacturer agreed to a tentative new contract hours before a midnight strike dead-

GM locals will meet in Detroit to review the contract.

Before talks began July 16 on a new pact for 460,000 GM workers, both sides said they hoped and expected to settle without a strike.

Wall Street analysts dismissed those statements as rhetoric and almost unanimously predicted a strike.

The analysts' predictions were based on the often-bitter relationship between GM and the UAW, which includes the sit-down strikes of 1937 over recognition, the record 122-day 1946 strike lost by the union over a penny-an-hour raise, a 67-day strike in 1970 that sparked a national recession and the Lordstown, Ohio, "war" of 1971 over production standards.

"So much for the analysts," said UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone after the announcement Friday night.

"The country needed a shot of confidence," said George B. Morris Jr., GM's top negotiator and company vice president. "I don't know if this is of that magnitude, but in our own little way it should serve to encourage people, despite all the predictions by people who didn't know anything about the situation."

An Analysis

line Friday after a continuous session of more than 25 hours at the bargaining table.

If the contract is approved by local units of the UAW, it will be the first time since 1964 that there has been no strike against the union's target company.

The contract provides robust pension increases over the next three years, some apparently as large as 10 percent a year, for the union's 230,000 pensioners. It also continues the present 3 percent yearly wage increases and the cost-of-living formula and provides more paid time off.

Retired U.S. Navy admiral to speak to Midland Rotary Club Thursday

A retired U.S. Navy admiral will address the Midland Rotary Club on national and international problems facing the United States today.

George W. Anderson of Baton Rouge, La., formerly the supreme allied commander in Europe and an assistant to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will address the Rotary Club during their noon meeting Thursday in The Midland Hilton.

Anderson has had an active life in a number of military and business endeavors. Among his posts are positions as Chief of Naval Operations during the Berlin and Cuban missile crisis. He was appointed ambassador to Portugal in 1963, and remained in that post until he retired from government service in July 1966.

He now serves as a member of the Board of the Lamar Corp., parent company of Lamar Advertising of Midland, Inc. In addition, he is active with various religious and civic pursuits.

He was appointed to the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory board and later named chairman in May 1970 by President Richard Nixon.

Forest fire burning out of control

KALMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP)—A forest fire was reported out of control Saturday after it charred an estimated 1,150 acres in the Winema National Forest about 30 miles north of Klamath Falls.

A DC-7 air tanker owned by Butler Aircraft Co. of Redmond, Ore., crashed Friday night on a 6,500-foot mountain northwest of Klamath Falls after it dropped retardant on the fire.

Authorities said all 12 aboard the plane were killed.

The fire came within a few hundred feet of several homes but the structures were saved, said Forest Service spokesman Jim Wolf.

The blaze destroyed power poles, cutting off electricity to subdivisions in the area.

"Dallas Four" comes to Midland

"The Dallas Four," a talented and lively group of Dallas artists, brings a collection of paintings to Midland for exhibition in the McCormick Gallery at Midland College.

The Dallas Four, whose members are Artyce Colen, Margaret Hagstrom Dunlap, Marilyn Eitzen Jones and Peg Rosenlund, have exhibited in group shows in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. The group's Midland exhibition will continue through Oct. 10, with viewing hours to be 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. each Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each Friday. Admission is free.

The exhibit will open with a reception in the McCormick Gallery between 2 and 5 p.m. today. The public is invited to attend.

The Dallas Four's recent shows have been included in the Longview Art Museum, the Barnwell Art Center in Shreveport, La., the Abilene Fine Arts Museum and the Ponca City Art Museum in Ponca City, Okla.

Board reinstates pharmacist

AUSTIN — The State Board of Pharmacy has reinstated the license of Odessa pharmacist Proby Lee Griffin.

Griffin's license had been revoked by the board due to a conviction involving welfare fraud but the board reconsidered the case at its Aug. 23 meeting.

Roger Hernandez, a pharmacy board staff member, said Griffin has been officially notified of the action.

Drug abuse program director to make presentation

Edward B. Leach

Edward B. Leach, national executive director of the Palmer Drug Abuse Program will make a community presentation at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Lee High School Auditorium. The program, sponsored by the Midland Junior Woman's Club, will include an outline of the PDAP method, conditions in a home that promote drug abuse and signs of drug misuse in children. Tuesday Leach will speak to the Junior League of Midland at a 9:30 a.m. general meeting in Theater Midland. Both meetings will be open to the public.

Leach, who has been executive director of the national PDAP organization since its founding in November 1978, was the first counselor for the original PDAP older group in Houston. He served three years as director of the PDAP program in Dallas before taking his present position. The Palmer Drug Abuse Program, which opened operations in Midland with three counselors Sept. 1, has spread to eight cities in two states since its beginnings in Houston in 1971. From the original six teenagers, the program has grown to more than 5,000 young people and parents participating today.

The program is patterned after the 12 steps of Alcoholics Anonymous and involves five basic actions on the part of the participant: staying chemically free or sober for 30 days, admitting and defining the problem, confessing wrongs, making amends and helping others. PDAP groups are housed in local churches, hospitals or community centers but are independent of these institutions. Midland's counselors will direct two age groups. Bob Savage will serve as director of the Permian Basin Central Office. Sarah Cross will be counselor for the drug-alcohol abusers aged 17 and up. Michele Savage will direct counseling for the 13-17 age group. Another counselor for the younger group should be added to the staff soon, PDAP officials said. The older group will meet in the First United Methodist Church and the younger group will meet in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity. PDAP is funded by private contributions from the community and families participating in the program. Midlanders have contributed more than $50,000 for the first year operation. This will pay salaries for the four trained counselors, office help and the cost of treating each young person seeking help. PDAP services are free to participants. Treatment includes counseling for both the abuser and the parents. Counselors will be available for one-to-one counseling from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. There are regularly scheduled evening and weekend meetings which provide group therapy for participants. A parents group meets regularly to offer support to the families of participants in the program, as well as to parents of young people who have a drug problem but have not become involved in PDAP.

BIG SPRING — The seventh annual Howard County Fair, which will feature agricultural exhibits and the Strates Midwest Shows, will be held Monday through Saturday at the Howard County Fairgrounds.

The agricultural division will include agri-products, barrow show and sale, horse show, roping, steer and heifer show and a goat show.

Features also will include the carnival, a petting zoo, contests, lapidary exhibits and a women's exhibit. J. Arnold Marshall is president of the Howard County Fair Association.

Davis Mountains Cycle Fest set

FORT DAVIS — Cyclists who would like to pedal the 75-mile mountainous Scenic Loop on the highest road east of the Rocky Mountains will have a chance to join the fellowship of other bikers Oct. 6 and 7. This is when the Prude Ranch hosts the second annual Davis Mountains Cycle Fest.

The ride is being sponsored by the Lubbock County Wheelmen.

The Fort Davis Tour begins at 9 a.m. Oct. 6. The route was a "track" for one of the races approved for qualifying Olympic cyclists in 1974.

In addition to the 75-mile ride, there will be 50-, 25- and 10-mile rides for the less conditioned, if not ambitious, cyclists.

A sag-wagon will follow the bikers; a picnic will be provided the riders midway in the feat.

Following the ride, a barbecue supper will be held at the Prude Ranch.

The next day at 9:30 a.m., cyclists may have a go at riding up the two-mile, 17-percent-grade road leading up to McDonald Observatory at Mount Locke.

A bicycle rodeo will be held at Prude Ranch at 9 a.m. that day for boys and girls 12 years of age and younger.

The $10 entry fee per rider to the Cycle Fest provides for the picnic and barbecue and a Davis Mountains Cycle Fest T-shirt. Those finishing the Mount Locke climb will be awarded patches.

Lodging is available at the ranch or at nearby Fort Davis and Indian Lodge at Davis Mountains State Park. Those wishing to stay overnight at the ranch should bring towels and bedrolls.

Prude Ranch is off Texas 118. The 75-mile Scenic Loop follows Texas 118 and Texas 166.

Those interested in the Cycle Fest may write Prude Ranch, P.O. Box 1431, Fort Davis, Texas 79734 or telephone Wayne Hutchinson at 806-744-4189.

McCamey calls bond election

McCAMEY — The McCamey Independent School District's board of trustees has called a two-issue, $6.8 million bond election Oct. 16 to gain voter approval for renovating the school plant and constructing additional facilities.

Proposition No. 1 for $4.8 million calls for remodeling the primary building, the gymnasium at the middle school, the band hall, cafeteria building and the home economics building.

Proposition No. 2 for $1.975 million calls for work on the senior high school library, gymnasium, field house, press box and tennis courts and the building of restrooms at the football field and band hall.

The high school building was constructed in 1961, but the gyms were built in 1929 and 1964. The primary building was built in 1951, 1954 and 1956.

Crane slates baby kissing week

CRANE — Crane Mayor Douglas Damron has declared the week of Sept. 23 to 29 as "Kiss Your Baby" week in Crane.

The declaration is to stress the need for greater public health education and is to help parents recognize symptoms of cystic fibrosis in their children.

County treasurer's cash gone

STANTON — Almost $1,300 has been stolen from the treasurer's office in the Martin County Courthouse. The money, including $612 in cash, was taken apparently from the safe in the treasurer's office.

Saunders said three persons have taken polygraph tests.

"I hope something shows up," he said. "This is really a bad situation."

Midlander gives book to Sul Ross

ALPINE — Lt. Col. (ret.) John L. Sublett, a World War II fighter pilot ace, has given the book "American Fighter Aces Album" to the Sul Ross State University library.

"Someone once asked me how I shot down so many enemy planes," he said, "and I told him they just made the mistake of getting between me and home."

Sublett, who now lives in Midland, is a pilot for Midland rancher Clarence Scharbauer and is vice president of the Fighter Aces Association.

In air combat, he scored eight kills, destroyed one enemy aircraft on the ground and damaged others in his fighter; a North American P-51 Mustang, which he named Lady Ovella after his late wife.

Sublett's 357th Fighter Group downed 59 German aircraft in the war's largest aerial combat engagement on Jan. 14, 1945. Sublett shot down two Me. 109s. Earlier, on Thanksgiving Day of 1944, he was credited with three kills. He was flying as a wingman to John B. England.

After the war, Sublett earned a bachelor's degree in government and history at Sul Ross State University.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government extended its current year-old wage and price guidelines Saturday so further discussions can be held with labor leaders on details of a new program.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability issued a statement saying the revised program would be published by the end of the month. It said the extra time was needed to "complete consultations" on the possibility of establishing advisory committees to help run the program.

A majority of President Carter's economic advisers had urged the president to extend the current guidelines, which were to expire Saturday, in an effort to work out disagreements with union leaders over the new program.

With the extension, said one source who asked not to be identified, the administration hopes to "continue the consultation process with labor" over details of the revised program.

The AFL-CIO has proposed creation of a "pay board" composed of labor, business and public representatives that would have broad powers to set new wage guidelines and alter them as economic conditions change.

The administration, however, wants to keep the authority to set the guidelines and give the pay board only authority to review the program and hear appeals for exemptions.

Labor leaders have opposed the voluntary guidelines since they were proposed last October on the grounds the 7 percent wage ceiling has held down workers' wages while the price standard has failed to slow inflation, which now is running at an annual rate of 13 percent.

The statement issued by the Council on Wage and Price Stability said the revised wage-price plan will be made public by Sept. 30.

"The date of publication (of the revised guidelines) is being postponed to provide time to complete consultations with the public on the possibility of establishing advisory committees composed of private sector representatives to assist in achieving the program objectives," the statement said.

Second robbery charge filed against jailed man

ODESSA — A second armed robbery charge was filed Friday against a 29-year-old man in the Odessa city jail.

Daniel Fierro Gonzalez, arrested Thursday by Odessa police, was in jail in lieu of $35,000 bond Saturday night charged with the aggravated armed robbery of a Sambo's Restaurant and the armed robbery of Pioneer Oil Co., according to Odessa police officials.

He was charged Friday with the Sambo's robbery in Midland. He was charged earlier in the week with the Pioneer Oil robbery.

Truckers set strike hour

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A state leader of independent truckers said Saturday that he expected approximately 70 percent of North Carolina's 2,700 independent truckers to join a strike beginning at midnight Saturday.

Army relieves 74 recruiting sergeants for alleged malpractices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has relieved 74 recruiters so far in a spreading investigation of alleged recruiting malpractices, including coaching enlistees to pass entrance examinations.

Maj. Jeff Cook, an Army spokesman, said eight sergeants in the Nashville, Tenn., district and two in the Chicago area were pulled off recruiting duty Friday.

Meanwhile, Cook said, investigating teams have moved into the Jackson, Miss., district for the first time.

In addition to Jackson, the Army has looked into reported recruiter improprieties in six districts — Charlotte, N.C.; Montgomery, Ala.; Dallas; Chicago; Nashville; and Boston.

To date, the Army has relieved 33 recruiters in the Charlotte district, where the investigations began earlier this year.

Undercover agent shot in Tyler

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Investigating officers declined to release detailed information Saturday surrounding the shooting of an undercover narcotics officer given credit for the biggest drug raid in East Texas history.

Craig Matthews, 32, was shot in the arm and hip Friday and was hospitalized in stable but guarded condition, Tyler police said.

Matthews' undercover partner, Kimberly Ramsey, suffered a minor wound in the arm and was treated and released at a Tyler hospital, the Tyler Courier-Times-Telegram reported in its Sunday editions.

The newspaper said Ms. Ramsey returned fire during the shooting incident near Matthews' mobile home just south of Tyler.

Odessan wins record injury award

RANKIN — An Upton County jury Friday night deliberated nearly three hours before returning a $1.25 million verdict to Lawrence Jones of Odessa for injuries suffered in an oil field accident.

The award was one of the largest verdicts in a personal injury lawsuit tried in West Texas.

Jurors, however, ruled Jones was 40 percent negligent in causing the mishap and cut the award to $750,000.

Jones, 49 when the accident occurred June 24, 1977, was working for Tom Brown Drilling Co. He was in the process of moving a giant oil rig when he was run over and crushed by a large vehicle owned by the McAlister Trucking Co.

He was hospitalized for 60 days, 30 of which were spent in the intensive care unit of Medical Center Hospital in Odessa, and underwent three operations.

Jones was represented by Odessa attorneys Warren Burnett and Ruff Ahders. Perry Davis, another Odessa attorney, represented the defendant, McAlister Trucking Co.

District bar grievance

committeemen appointed

Four persons, including Willie Wilson of Midland, have been appointed to serve as public members of the District 16 Grievance Committee of the State Bar of Texas.

The announcement was made by J. Chrys Dougherty, president of the State Bar.

Serving with Wilson will be Joyce Campbell and Jose Ramirez, both of Lubbock, and Dwayne Herman of Seminole.

District 16 encompasses Lubbock County to the north, Midland County to the south, the New Mexico state line to the west and Scurry County to the east. It includes 13 counties.

Under the State Bar Act passed by the last session of the Texas Legislature, one-third of the membership of the Grievance Committee in each of the Bar districts must be persons who are not lawyers. This provision was added with the idea of bringing public input and consideration into committee deliberations.

MHMR trustees to meet

Trustees of the Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health and Mental Retardation are expected to consider dues for the 1980 fiscal year with the Texas Council of Community MHMR Centers, Inc. when they meet at noon Monday.

The meeting will be held in the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission conference room at Midland Regional Airport.

The board is expected to also consider the 1980 holiday schedule, a request by an employee for outside employment and personnel committee recommendations.

Boy killed in blaze

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A 4-year-old boy whose mother had just begun serving a jail sentence died Saturday along with his babysitter as fire gutted an apartment complex here.

Fire Capt. William Slover said the fire call came at about 5:30 a.m. and that the blaze wrecked the 16-unit, two-story, concrete block complex on the northwest side of this upstate city near Lake Ontario.

About 25 people were left homeless by the blaze, but officials thought there were no other injuries.

FARM-RANCH ROUNDUP

First cotton bale in Dawson County

LAMESA — Dawson County farmer Bobby Hawkins has harvested the first bale of cotton in the county — and perhaps on the South Plains — for the 1979 season.

The bale weighed 460 pounds and was ginned Sept. 8 by Cotton Center Production, Inc.

Hawkins received a $400 check from Richard Gentry, president of the Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce on behalf of the chamber's Demonstration and Awards Committee.

Rangeland responds well

Rangelands in Midland County are "responding favorably" to the recent good rains, according to Dick Hagelstein, district conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Midland.

"Good rains are an essential part of ranching in West Texas, but good grass management is also very important," said Hagelstein.

"Good grasses such as plains bristlegass, sidecoats grama, black grama and others will make good growth before frost and provide adequate forage for winter."

Cattlemen include businesses

FORT WORTH — The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association has extended membership to livestock- and ranch-oriented businesses for the first time in its 102-year-old history.

"We feel that cattlemen and their agri-business partners can deal more effectively with mutual problems and goals by pooling their resources and efforts," said TSCRA President John B. Armstrong.

Membership is $250 per year and is tax deductible.

The mainstream of TSCRA allied industry membership is expected to come from animal-health products suppliers, feed-and-grain dealers, commodity firms, automobile dealerships, equipment distributors, agricultural chemical companies and lending institutions at local, state and national levels.

Cattle on feed down

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A new monthly survey by the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows the number of cattle being fed for slaughter in key beef states as of Sept. 1 totaled 6.84 million head, down 13 percent from a year ago.

Moreover, the report said Friday that placements of new cattle in feedlots last month declined from a year earlier by 24 percent to 1.34 million head, the smallest August placement in four years.

The report covered seven states which account for about 75 percent of the nation's beef output. Feedlot inventories on Sept. 1 in those states included:

Arizona 316,000 head, down 22 percent from a year ago; California 716,000, down 6; Colorado 735,000, down 12; Iowa 1,060,000, down 12; Kansas 1,140,000, down 14; Nebraska 1,230,000, down 12; and Texas 1,640,000, down 14.

Strike could be catastrophic

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Time is running out for settlement of a rail strike that threatens to disrupt marketing of this year's huge grain and soybean crops, says Secretary Bob Bergland of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

It's hard to prove now that farmers have suffered huge losses so far because of the shutdown on the Rock Island's rail system, but Bergland said Friday the strike could be catastrophic if continued much longer.

He said "it can be debated" whether the rail strike has had any significant impact on harvests and U.S. exports.

"I don't think that the cost to the general public and farmers so far has been ... disastrous, but it can get there," Bergland said.

AF to take another look at keeping Goodfellow

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — The leader of an Air Force hearing said Friday the Defense Department has never changed its mind once it decided to close a military base — but that may no longer be true after a long and crowded public hearing on the future of Goodfellow Air Force Base here Friday.

"We're going to go back and take another look at the figures," said Air Force representative Jack Rittenhouse, chief of the group conducting the hearing.

The Air Force earlier announced plans to start shutting down the base beginning in 1980.

Rittenhouse had told a news conference the Defense Department has always carried through with plans to close a military base once it received an independent study justifying the change.

However, a committee appointed by the San Angelo city commission presented figures at the hearing to refute a Stanford Research Inst. report on the impact of closing the base.

The committee, known as the "Blitz Committee," said the SRI study used data as much as three years old in some cases, and its population projection for San Angelo already was proved wrong.

The Blitz Committee said the SRI report projected a population of 73,000 by 1980, while the committee said the city already holds 75,000 people and is expected to grow to 79,000 by 1980.

The committee said the SRI report was wrong when it predicted Goodfellow's closing would have "minimal and temporary" impact on the city.

"Someone in Washington made an arbitrary decision to close Goodfellow and then hired a team to come in and justify this decision," said Blitz Committee member Francile Morrill, who also serves on the city planning commission.

"We certainly need to recognize that the validity of the Stanford Research Institute report is in question," Rittenhouse told the group as the meeting ended.

"We are sincerely interested in getting the facts. You may be assured that no decision has been made."

More than 600 people showed up for the hearing to protest the proposed closure, about four times as many as the original meeting room would hold. Air Force officials then moved the hearing into the City Auditorium.

Death due to rabies

ATLANTA (AP) — A 37-year-old Mexican immigrant died in California of rabies last month, a diagnosis not suspected until after his death, the Center for Disease Control said Saturday.

It was the fourth death from rabies reported this year in which the diagnosis was not made until after death, the center said.

Brush fires add smoke to LA smog

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three brush fires blazed out of control Saturday, charring more than 8,000 acres of Los Angeles County and adding smoke and cinders to the worst smog the area has seen in 24 years.

Hot, dry winds blowing in from the deserts complicated the work of 1,500 men and women on the firelines. But the winds promised some relief from the stinging, polluted air that has been trapped over Los Angeles for nine days, air quality officials said.

The smog was so severe Saturday that Los Angeles city schools canceled all weekend athletic contests, including 25 high school football games. Suburban districts also canceled or rescheduled activities.

Eric Sweetman of the U.S. Forest Service said a 4-day-old fire on Mount Wilson above Altadena was still out of control after burning about 4,100 acres of brush and timber.

He said firefighters hoped to contain the blaze within cleared firebreaks over the weekend and "we hope to have it controlled by Monday at 6 p.m."

Two lightning-caused fires near Palmdale, on the far side of the San Gabriel Mountains from Los Angeles, raged out of control and "these north-east winds have been pushing them and spreading them," Sweetman said.

The two lightning fires cover about 2,400 acres each and are being fought as a single but unconnected blaze, he said. Sweetman said 87 injuries, nearly all of them minor, had been reported among the fire crews.

The seaward winds of 10 to 20 mph blew smoke and cinders from the two Angeles National Forest brush fires over much of the metropolitan area, especially Pasadena and adjoining Altadena. All roads into the forest were closed because of the extreme fire danger.

The reddish-brown smog, produced by industries and the millions of cars that jam the county's highways, was trapped over the nation's most populous county by a stagnant layer of warm air.

The Air Quality Management District declared a "red flag alert" for the weekend, cancelling all burning permits in San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties.

The agency said developing winds might drive some of the smog out to sea, easing the hacking and coughing ordeal of inland residents. The winds also could deposit colorful air over the beaches.

IRA and KEOGH Retirement Plans at First Savings are the sure way to build for a secure retirement, and get a tax break at the same time.

With an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at First Savings you can save for the future at the impressive rate of 8% (effective annual yield 8.33%). Deduct whatever you save - up to $1500 - from your gross income. And defer every penny in taxes on your IRA until you withdraw it, normally after retiring. Then, you'll probably have less income and possibly be in a lower tax bracket.

(NOTE: There are severe penalties for early withdrawals.)

Here's an example of what an IRA can do for you. If you start an IRA at age 30, and deposit the maximum of $1500 per year until age 65, at the current interest rate, your IRA will be worth over $300,000. That's a tidy sum to start retirement, if you want to retire that young. By the way, your IRA is in addition to standard social security benefits. But remember, the deadline is the date your tax return is due in order to get your full tax deduction.

A Keogh Plan works much the same as an IRA except that it is designed for the self-employed individual, whereas the IRA is designed for the individual not covered by a pension or retirement plan. A Keogh Plan permits an annual deposit of up to $7500. With a Keogh Plan, you get the same tax advantages and interest rate as an IRA. However, the deadline for starting a Keogh is December the 31st, and you can make your final deposit on the day you file your taxes.

So stop by the First Savings offices downtown or San Miguel Square and let the "FISCAL FITNESS PEOPLE" show you the sure way to save for your retirement. It's getting later than you think...

Davis trial becomes a battle of tapes

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Like an absurd trench coat story of double espionage, the Cullen Davis murder solicitation trial is beginning to look like a contest between attorneys to determine which side has the best set of secret tapes.

Two tapes recorded with hidden body recorders lie at the heart of the state's case against the millionaire defendant. Defense attorneys introduced a secretly recorded tape of their own this week, with hints that there are more recordings to come.

The tapes have become a standing joke and trial participants have begun to greet each other by talking into the clips and cufflinks as if they are hidden microphones. And as one witness quipped outside the courtroom last week, "I've gotten so evasive in ordinary conversations, wondering if they are recorded, I even hedge when someone asks me what I had for breakfast."

The defense tape — made almost two weeks before Davis was arrested Aug. 20, 1978 — depicts a conversation between defense attorney Steve Sumner and key prosecution witness David McCrory.

Sumner said he hid a small recorder in his briefcase to capture an interview with David McCrory on Davis' multimillion dollar divorce from Priscilla Davis.

STOCK MARKET—NOT THE ANSWER

For the average, unsophisticated investor, there are not many alternatives to real estate when it comes to increasing the value of their dollar investment. Take the other main American investment vehicle—the stock market.

There was a study that showed the results of investing $1,000 a year at the Dow Jones low of each year for 17 years and selling those stocks on December 1 of last year. The $17,000 you would have invested would have brought $19,486 or a gain of $2,486. The capital gains tax would have taken about $945 and the real loss, when the investment is adjusted for inflation, would be $8,620. The study was somewhat distorted because dividends and splits were not included, but it shows that unless you are a shrewd buyer and can pick your stocks, the market is not the answer.

The argument in favor of owning real estate, assuming that it is well located and well maintained, is that its value continues to rise faster than the inflation rate. How much? An average house bought for $25,000 fifteen years ago would bring double that amount, or $50,000, today.

If you have any questions on this subject or any other aspect of real estate, feel free to phone or drop in at DON HARVEY Realtors 702 Andrews Hwy., Phone 685-5333. We're here to help. Come in for your free copy of "Home for living" magazine.

Rick Meyers returns hot shot during Midland Tennis Club Invitational at the Midland High School courts Saturday afternoon. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot).

Meyers, Richter take net victories during MTC play

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

Moments after he and TCU teammate Karl Richter had finished a hard-earned semifinal victory Saturday afternoon in the Midland Tennis Club Invitational Tournament at Midland High, Rick Meyers made a bee-line for the concession stand and ordered himself a large Coke.

Following a long day that started early in the morning and which saw him also gain the men's singles semifinals, the senior who formerly starred for Abilene Cooper deserved a Coke or a Rondo or any darn thing he pleased.

Of his 6-3, 7-6 victory over Trinity's Mark Pinchoff in the quarterfinals, Meyers said, "The first set I played very well. I think he (Pinchoff) was having a little trouble waking up."

Apparently, Pinchoff woke up, because the second set was a dandy. "I could never close his game out," said Meyers, taking a long draw on his Coke.

"But I was confident going into the tie-breaker," said the fourth-seeded singles entry, who disposed of Pinchoff 5-2 in the extra session.

Opposing Meyers in today's 9 a.m. singles semifinal will be Richter, a whiz for Odessa College last season. It doesn't bother Meyers that he'll be facing a cohort.

"It's good that TCU has two players in the semifinals because that means we'll have one player in the finals," said the black-haired lad. "Both of us play the same type of game. Karl has good volleys, good service returns and he's very quick."

Richter advanced with a 6-1, 2-6, 5-2 victory over top-seeded Nduka Odizor of the University of Houston. Odizor was unable to complete the third set because of a recurrence of a knee injury that sidelined him last year.

That wasn't the only casualty that plagued the Cougars. Second-seeded David Dowlen defaulted in the semifinals to third-seeded teammate Joel Hoffman, apparently because he had obligations to play in another tournament. Hoffman will meet the Meyers-Richter winner. Still, it was another excellent day of competition in the annual event. And it all comes to a head today with a full slate of action at the Midland High courts.

Along with the men's singles semifinals, the women's doubles will go down at 9 a.m. The women's singles final, originally planned for 12:30 p.m., is set for 11 a.m. while the men's singles finale is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Completing the package will be the men's and women's doubles finals at 2 p.m.

In the women's doubles, UTPB's top-seeded Barbara Lenberg and Collins will face teammates Diane Kobs and Debbie Phillips in one semi while the second-seeded TCU tandem of Angela Bartzan and Janie Bowen will take on the winner. Lenberg and Collins advanced with a 6-4, 6-2 win over Texas Tech's Regina Bevelo and Jo Crutchfield.

Victi Kerr, a local who's playing unattached, will be in the women's singles final. She gained the big-one with a 5-7, 6-2, 6-1 victory in the semis over Kim Wilson of Trinity. Kerr will meet top-seeded Jill Davis of SMU, a 6-2, 6-1 winner over TCU's Bartzan.

Third-seeded Meyers and Richter copped a pair of doubles matches Saturday. They defeated Boler Bettavere and Derik Segal of Pan American, 6-1, 6-0 in the quarters and stopped Stacy Foster and Paul Nunley of West Texas State, 6-2, 7-6 in the semis.

The third-seeded Horned Frog duo will tangle with teammates Steve Dawson and Gregg Amaya in the finale. Dawson and Amaya defeated Boyd Bryan and Ron Kowal of Texas A&M, 6-4, 6-3 in the semis.

Mike Singletary, a 224-pound All-SWC linebacker, and 210-pound defensive end Andrew Melontree were superb for a Baylor defense that held in check sprinters Curtis Dickey and Mosley.

Melontree recovered a Mosley fumble and made three tackles behind the line of scrimmage for a total A&M loss of 21 yards. Singletary sealed off the middle and halted A&M's most promising second half drive by recovering Brothers' fumble at the Baylor

Cougs nab 14-10 win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston backup quarterback Terry Elston replaced shanked starter Delrick Brown and scored a fourth-quarter touchdown Saturday to rally the 13th-ranked Cougars to a 14-10 victory over the Florida Gators.

The Cougars, who fell behind UCLA 9-0 last week before rallying to victory, had to come from behind again after the Gators took a 7-0 first-quarter lead on a 4-yard run by Florida quarterback Tim Groves.

Houston was a victim of its own mistakes in the first half, but managed to tie the game on a 1-yard touchdown pass from Brown to Eric Herring with 48 seconds left in the half.

When Brown was shaken up on a handoff in the third quarter, Elston came in and directed the Cougars on a game-winning 65-yard drive, keeping for the final six yards with 13:54 left in the game.

Brown had trouble connecting with his passes and was intercepted twice in the first half. Juan Collins' interception in the first quarter set up Groves' touchdown and a second-quarter theft by David Little stopped Houston at the Gator 14.

Groves rallied the Gators to a 30-yard field goal by Brian Clark with 6:26 left in the game on a pair of key third-down plays.

Elston, who finished with 75 yards on 13 carries, had the Cougars on the Florida 6-yard line when time ran out.

Lonell Phea returned a kickoff 38 yards to start Houston's final drive. John Newhouse ran 17 yards for a key gain and Elston ran seven yards on another play.

On Elston's first series at quarterback in the third quarter, the Cougars marched to the Gator 23-yard line where Ken Hatfield missed a 35-yard field goal try.

Terald Clark led Cougar rushers with 93 yards on 18 carries. The Cougars started slowly for the second straight week. Phea fumbled the opening kickoff into the end zone and got back to 1-yard line before he was tackled.

Then on second down, Brown threw an incomplete pass with two receivers open in the secondary and the Cougars punted.

Brown ended Houston's next two possessions with his interceptions and early in the second quarter Hatfield missed a 33-yard field goal attempt.

Clark keyed Houston's first touchdown drive with two runs. One was a 22-yard gain behind a block by Robert Jones to the Gator 43 on third down. The other went 12 yards on a pitchout to the Florida 2.

Elston started Houston's winning drive with a 15-yard pass completion to split tend Hubert Miller.

Austin College wins

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Larry Shillings passed for two touchdowns and kicker Wilson Renfro had three field goals as Austin College beat Trinity University 22-2 Saturday night.

Trinity's only score came when Shillings fell on a fumble in his own end zone for a safety.

Austin College is now 2-0 for the year and in conference play. Trinity is 1-2 for the season, 0-2 in conference.

the board last year and rewrote the individual game offensive records, went into the fourth period with Texas Tech leading 6-0 on 29 and 24 yard field goals by Bill "Blade" Adams.

Texas Tech's defense had rendered New Mexico quarterback Brad Wright null and void while the Lobos' defense, in comparison to 1978, had relegated Tech tailback James Had-not to the role of interested but ineffective spectator.

LAST YEAR, Hadnot set a Tech single game rushing record with 268 yards while Wright's 28 completions for 425 yards were UNM records.

Best drive and deepest penetration the Lobos had in the first half was a nine-play possession that carried 37 yards to the Tech 49, their only intrusion of Raider terrain in the half. Maury Buford's punting and Adams' field goal kicking forced New Mexico to start five of seven first-half possessions inside their own 20.

TECH HADN'T fared much better. An interception of a Wright pass by Fort Stockton's Tate Randle was returned 18 yards to set up an eight-yard drive that brought Adams within field goal range when the drive bogged down at the 12. In the second period, Tech marched 78 yards in 14 plays to the UNM seven from where Adams salvaged three.

Things opened up in the fourth quarter and Tech went on to a 17-7 victory.

Dockery wasn't surprised that the game billed as an offensive orgy turned into a defensive diet. "We could see by the films that New Mexico was greatly improved defensively. They have eight seniors on defense. As for us, we are more experienced than we were last year and didn't make the errors we did then, like 28 missed tackles in the first half. No, we didn't make any special adjustments for Wright's passing. Our coverage was sound and didn't make any mistakes.

Appropriately, Randle proved the hero of the defense that limited Wright, the former Midland Lee quarterback, to eight completions in 22 attempts, intercepting Brad twice, once to set up a field goal and then in the fourth period to launch Tech's lone touchdown drive of 44 yards in which quarterback Ron Reeves scored from the 10.

IT WAS UNM which actually opened the game up by driving some 70 yards to the Tech 10 before stalling early in the fourth period. "It was a great stand," said Dockery. "And when we held it took some momentum away from them."

Dockery felt the last Tech drive of the game, which ended in Adams' third field goal, was a sign of a winner. "That's what USC did against us. They took it down for the score in the last quarter, and you have got to do it in the fourth period in order to have a good team."

Although not as productive as a year ago, Hadnot had a big night with 29 carries for 153 yards, and Dockery praised Adams' kicking. "Three for four isn't bad on field goals and he was kicking off into the end zone."

Porkers stomp Colorado State

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Kevin Scanlon scored one touchdown and set up two other touchdowns with long passes as 17th-ranked Arkansas recorded a 36-3 victory Saturday night over a Colorado State team that frittered away numerous scoring opportunities.

It was the season opener for Arkansas. Colorado State now is 0-2.

On two occasions while the game was in doubt, Colorado State had a first down inside the Arkansas 5 and both times came up empty-handed.

The Rams' first series set the tempo. A 48-yard kickoff return by Alvin Lewis and a 43-yard run by Larry Jones gave the Rams a first down at the Arkansas 3. On first down, Jones — who carried 20 times for 196 yards — fumbled into the end zone and Trent Bryant recovered for Arkansas.

Then, trailing 19-0, the Rams had second and goal at the Arkansas 1 late in the first half. A motion penalty cost the Rams 5 yards and quarterback Keith Lee missed open receivers on two straight pass attempts. Linebacker Steve Douglas ended a fourth down sweep after a 2-yard gain.

Scanlon, who passed for 155 yards on five completions in six attempts, got the first touchdown after Thomas Brown used his speed to gain a first down at the Rams' 6 on a fourth and 2 situation. Brown also turned in an 18-yard run earlier in the drive.

Scanlon set up the third touchdown when he and Roland Sales hooked up on a screen pass that netted 57 yards. Scanlon and Robert Farrell combined on a 52-yard pass play that set up the Razorbacks' fourth touchdown.

Angelo State trips ENMU

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Kelvin Ratliff rushed for 117 yards on 23 carries and one touchdown as defending NAIA champion Angelo State downed Eastern New Mexico, 21-7, in a non-conference game Saturday.

The Greyhounds scored first when Tim McMenamy recovered a blocked punt in the end zone in the first quarter. The Rams evened the score with Joey Sims' 65-yard scoring punt return.

The Rams iced the contest in the fourth quarter when fullback Ruben Fowler scored on an 11-yard run with 4:15 left.

The Rams, now 1-0, extended their winning streak to 18 consecutive games. The loss drops Eastern New Mexico to 1-1.

NMSU topples Miners, 14-13

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A missed extra point and the passing of quarterback Butch Kelly spelled the difference in New Mexico State's narrow 14-13 non-conference football victory over Texas-El Paso Saturday night.

Texas-El Paso, trailing 14-7 in the third quarter, pulled to within one point when David Stone hit Frank Jarzombek with a 15-yard touchdown pass.

However, Steve Folkner misfired on the extra-point attempt, preserving the win for the Aggies.

Baylor surprises Aggies

WACO, Texas (AP) — Baylor exploded for 17 second-quarter points, with Walter Abercrombie flashing 19 yards for a touchdown and Howard Fields setting up another with a 53-yard punt return, as Baylor defeated Texas A&M 17-7 Saturday night.

Mike Singletary, a 224-pound All-SWC linebacker, and 210-pound defensive end Andrew Melontree were superb for a Baylor defense that held in check sprinters Curtis Dickey and Mosley.

Melontree recovered a Mosley fumble and made three tackles behind the line of scrimmage for a total A&M loss of 21 yards. Singletary sealed off the middle and halted A&M's most promising second half drive by recovering Brothers' fumble at the Baylor

30. Defensive back Ken Griffin of Baylor picked up a fumble by George Woodard at the Baylor 33 to halt yet another A&M push. Woodard, a 246-pound fullback, returned to action after missing a year with a broken leg.

Mosley scrambled for 15 and 13 yards and Dickey, apparently down behind the line, spun for 22 to the Baylor 10 on A&M's only scoring drive.

Baylor got the first half bounces by recovering all four of its own fumbles, including two bobbles at its 32 and one at its 23.

Abercrombie had 88 yards in the first half and finished with 137 yards on 27 carries. In his college debut last year, Abercrombie ripped A&M for 207 yards on 18 carries.

Dickey, the nation's sixth-leading rusher, did not start as the result of a bruised back, but gained 50 yards. He raised his rushing total to 3,048 yards for his four-year career and took over fifth place on the SWC all-time rushing list.

Chuck Male (4) of Notre Dame kicks 39-yard field goal in the third quarter of game with Michigan in Ann Arbor Saturday as Greg Knafale (13) holds.

Notre Dame polishés off Michigan by 12-10

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Chuck Male, a walk-on who became Notre Dame's regular placekicker last year, booted a school record four field goals Saturday, rallying the ninth-ranked Fighting Irish to a season-opening 12-10 college football upset over sixth-ranked Michigan.

Male, a 5-foot-11, 180-pound senior from Mishawaka, Ind., in the shadow of the Notre Dame campus, kicked a 40-yarder in the opening period and then brought the Irish from a 10-3 deficit with field goals of 44 yards in the second quarter and 22 and 39 yards in the third period.

However, the triumph was not secured until Michigan's Bryan Virgil had a 42-yard field goal attempt blocked with one second remaining. Virgil booted the ball low and directly into the teeth of the Notre Dame rush.

Male's winning three-pointer with 3:46 left in the third quarter came on the fourth play after Scott Zettek and Tom Gibbons partially blocked a punt by Virgil from his own end zone, and the ball went out of bounds on the 28.

The upset victory — Michigan was favored by a touchdown — enabled Notre Dame to avoid losing its second straight opening game, something that hasn't happened since the school's first two football seasons in 1887-88.

Michigan, which routed Northwestern 49-7 in its opener a week ago, scored on Virgil's 30-yard field goal in the first period and took a 10-3 lead early in the second quarter, when Stanley Edwards' 1-yard run capped an 80-yard drive.

But Notre Dame's young defense, which surrendered 212 yards in the first two periods, buckled down in the second half, although the offense gave the Wolverines good field position several times on turnovers.

Michigan, which hadn't lost a regular-season game to a non-Big Ten team since dropping a 40-17 decision 10 years ago to Missouri. Ironically, Dan Devine, who coached Missouri, now coaches Notre Dame.

The Wolverines made a dramatic effort to pull this one out in the final two minutes after John Wangler replaced B.J. Dickey at quarterback. Wangler completed three passes for 29 yards and took the Wolverines from their 42 to the Notre Dame 20 before linebacker Bob Crabbe threw Edwards for a 5-yard loss, forcing Virgil's ill-fated 42-yard field goal try.

The Irish recovered a pair of Michigan fumbles to set up Male's first two field goals on a perfect 4-for-4 afternoon before a Michigan Stadium throng of 105,111, plus a large regional television audience.

Dickey was jarred loose from the football by Mike Whittington, and John Hanked grabbed it at the losers' 39 with 8:58 left in the second period.

On its first possession of the second half, Notre Dame moved from its 35 to the Michigan five, sparked by the running of Vegas Ferguson, and Male's third field goal chopped the deficit to 10-9.

The Irish didn't get another first down after that, but Dave Waymer's interception on Michigan's first play after the ensuing kickoff gave them the ball at the Wolverines' 20. Michigan's Mel Owens intercepted right back at the two on Notre Dame's first play, but the Wolverines were unable to move, and that series ended with Virgil's costly blocked punt.

A leg injury forced Notre Dame's quarterback Rusty Lisch to the sideline for the final period, and the Irish committed two turnovers in his absence. Ferguson, who gained 118 yards on 35 carries and moved into fourth place on the all-time Notre Dame list with 2,153, lost a fumble at his 37 early in the quarter.

Sooners struggle to win over Iowa

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Rookie Kelly Phelps briefly added some muscle to a disjointed Oklahoma offense as the No. 3-ranked Sooners defeated Iowa 21-6 in a non-conference college football game Saturday.

The Sooners proved to be a sleeping giant as Iowa runner Dennis Mosley and defensive back Cedric Shaw barely missed putting together an upset.

Iowa started the scoring in the first quarter when quarterback Phil Suess hit a short pass to Mosley in the end zone. Then the Hawkeyes protected that lead until only four minutes remained before the half.

Sooner starting quarterback J.C. Watts was shaken up briefly and was replaced by Phelps, who started a Sooner scoring drive with a pass to tight end Forrest Valora for a 27-yard gain. Three plays later Phelps kept the ball and raced 18 yards to set up an easy 1-yard scoring drive by 1979 Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims.

The Sooners finally awakened in the fourth quarter, scoring on a 1-yard run by Watts. Then Sims put it away with a 3-yard jaunt.

offensive charge, picking 74 yards by halftime, compared with Sims' 36-yard performance. Shaw kept things going for the Hawkeyes defensively by blocking a Sooner punt and knocking the ball loose from Sims to give Iowa another possession.

The Sooners lost momentum on two other long drives when kicker John Hoge missed field goal attempts of 47 and 34 yards.

Mills got a 24-yard touchdown on Tarleton's first offensive play, but was trapped for a safety on Tarleton's next series.

Sul Ross took a brief lead with a pair of field goals, but Tarleton got the win on a 6-yard touchdown run by Ricky Bush.

Missouri edges past Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Gerry Ellis, a 220-pound power runner, blasted for touchdown runs of 19 and 24 yards and gained 170 yards in 22 carries Saturday to lead 11th-ranked Missouri to a hard-earned 14-6 victory over Illinois.

Illinois, aided by a pair of key penalties, came right back with a 79-yard touchdown march in 12 plays with Holmes going over from the 3-yard line. But Kirk Bosstrom's attempted conversion was hooked wide to the left.

Missouri dominated play in the first half but the Tigers were unable to score and finally took the lead early in the third period. Mike Holmes fumbled on the second play from scrimmage in the second half and the Tigers needed only two plays to score as Ellis rambled across from the 19-yard line and Jeff Brockhaus kicked the point.

Ohio State posts win

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Art Schlichter ran 32 yards for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter and then passed for a two-point conversion, rallying No. 15-ranked Ohio State to a 21-17 Big Ten victory over upset-minded Minnesota Saturday.

Minnesota, paced by junior fullback Garry White's 221 yards rushing, jumped to a 14-0 first quarter lead and also led 17-7 at the half. But the Buckeyes completely dominated the second half.

White ran 29 yards for a touchdown and also scored on a 16-yard pass from Mark Carlson as Minnesota assumed its surprising 14-point lead.

But Schlichter, who completed 8 of 12 pass attempts and rushed for 86 yards, fired a 38-yard scoring pass to Tyrone Hicks in the second quarter to cut the margin to seven points.

Minnesota's Paul Rogind booted a 44-yard field goal with just six seconds left in the half to make it 17-7.

Calvin Murray scored on a 1-yard run to cap a 37-yard drive following a 32-yard punt return by Mike Guess with 7:24 to go. The conversion attempt was missed, however, leaving Ohio State with a 17-13 deficit, but Schlichter took care of that on the Buckeyes' next series of downs.

The 6-foot-2, 200-pound field general moved his team 73 yards in seven plays, highlighted by a 29-yard pass to Chuck Hunter which gave Ohio State a first down at the Minnesota 32.

On the next play, Schlichter skirted, left end, cut back against the grain and raced untouched into the end zone for the winning touchdown.

Bobby Unser wins another CART race

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M. won his sixth Indy car race of the season Saturday in what may have been his easiest race.

Unser took charge on the 37th lap when Gordon Johncock blew an engine and kept the lead the rest of the way to win the $75,000 Michigan Grand Prix by 10.7 seconds over Tom Sneva.

Unser completed the 150-mile round trip around Michigan International Speedway's two-mile oval in 51 minutes and 22 seconds for an average speed of 175.214 mph. He led twice for a total of 48 laps and collected the first prize of $14,210.

Sneva in second place, collected $10,050 and was the only other driver in the same lap with Unser. Sneva was able to slip into second when Indy 500 winner Rick Mears ran out of fuel on the back stretch of the final lap.

In all, only seven of the 15 starters were running at the end with Mears taking third and collecting $7,180. Mears and Unser drove Penske PC-7 racers for MIS owner, Roger Penske and have finished 1-2 in the last three races of the season. Johnny Rutherford finished fourth and Tom Bagley, driving the Longhorn entry of Midland's Bobby Hillin, fifth. Rounding out the top 10 were: Wally Dallenbach, Steve Krisiloff, Pancho Carter, Bill Alsop and Al Unser, driving the Pennzoil Chaparral of Midland's Jim Hall.

In the first half of the doubleheader, Johncock dove low coming off the fourth turn to nip Bobby Unser by less than a car length to win the International Race of Champions qualifying race.

Johncock finished the 100-mile event in 42 minutes and 59 seconds for an average speed of 139.589 mph. He, Unser, Mears and Rutherford now advance to the series finals in February at Daytona, Fla.

A crowd of nearly 30,000 saw the final event of the season at MIS.

Pack, Rebels own 4-0 mark

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

After football games involving District 5-4A teams Friday, Midland can boast having the best overall record of any city in the league with a perfect 4-0 mark. At least, that's one way to look at it.

Odessa Permian lost to Amarillo, 9-0, to give Odessa squads a 3-1 mark. Abilene High lost the first week to give the Key City a 3-1 reading. Big Spring is 1-1 and San Angelo has yet to find the win column.

Midland's two victories Friday were about as different as night and day with Lee bombing El Paso Austin, 51-13, and Midland High escaping with a 21-14 win over El Paso Eastwood and the Troopers were on the one-yard line when the game ended.

Still, both local coaches, Dennie Hays of Midland High and Gil Bartosh of Lee, were pleased with getting the wins regardless of how they came.

"We improved 100 per cent from last week," was the way Bartosh put it. "The offense showed a lot of consistency. The only thing that ever stopped us was penalties and we will have to correct that. Still, our kids executed fundamentals and techniques better than we thought they would. That was a very encouraging sign."

Hays' Bulldogs had the close call, but the MHS mentor was making no excuses for his team's play. "I thought we played well for 3 1/2 quarters, especially the first half," Hays stated. "It was more of a case of what we did to ourselves than what Eastwood did to us in some situations. We felt like we could handle them going into the game. They were a little better defensively than we thought, but we didn't play all that bad."

Bartosh was asked if he thought the lop sided score might have some harmful effects to his young Rebels, who don't need a case of over confidence at this stage of the year. "No, I really think this game helped us a lot," Bartosh said. "I think it gave our youngsters a lot of confidence and they can see now what it takes to be a good offensive team. We showed a versatile attack and this game will be a good teaching aid for the kids."

Bartosh still noted that his team had room for improvement, despite 51 points. "We have to eliminate the penalties. This was the second week in a row to get over 100 yards in penalties. We're coming up against Plainview, a very good football team, and we can't beat ourselves against a team like that. We did eliminate the turnovers, however, that we had against Snyder and that was a good sign. I think these kids have a chance to be real competitive by district if they continue to improve, and we did get some improvement against Austin. We really dominated the offensive line, and that area looks like its coming along."

Eastwood made a comeback effort late in the game against Midland, and Hays gave a lot of credit to Eastwood quarterback Alex Periera. "You have to give their quarterback a lot of credit. He threw well. We had some people covered at times and he still threw the ball for completions. He set up very deep to pass and it was hard to get the type of pressure we needed on him when he was that deep."

Eastwood moved to the MHS one on a pass interference call with time for one more play in the game. Jerry Dedrick stopped Eastwood runner Derwin Pace at the two. "We had seen Eastwood run that type of play in that type of situation, and we felt we were prepared for it. It turned out to be a big play. It did get a little scary there at the end," Hays said.

Bartosh's troops played so well that it was hard for him to single out top performances by individuals, but he had a good crop to choose from. He was very pleased with the running of fullback Mark Thompson and named him back of the week even though Steve Waldron and quarterback Gary Butler produced more total yardage. Thompson's blocking had the Lee coaching staff very pleased.

Another mild surprise for the average observer was the choice of Tom Williams as the outstanding player of the week. Williams played both tight end and defensive end, but it was his offensive blocking skills that put him at the top of the pack in the view of the coaches.

Others who had outstanding moments were Keith Brown, offensive and defensive lineman; Craig Ellis, linebacker; and Larry Linne, receiver and top specialist. Linne scored 15 points in the game with a TD, six extra points and a 31-yard field goal.

Hays was hesitant to name any players because he didn't have a chance to view his game film Saturday. At any rate, it's fun to be at the top.

Rutgers easy contest for Penn State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Curt Warner scored three touchdowns and accounted for 292 total yards in the best performance by a freshman in Penn State's 92-year football history as the seventh-ranked Nittany Lions opened their season with a 45-10 victory over Rutgers Saturday.

After a 3-3 first period, Warner broke the game open with touchdown runs of 6 and 18 yards and a scoring reception on a 62-yard pass play from quarterback Dayle Tate.

Warner, a 5-foot-11 inch speedster from Wyoming, W.Va., rushed for 100 yards on 12 carries, caught two passes for 71 and returned kickoffs and punts for 119 yards more.

Only two Penn State freshmen, flanker Tom Donovan and fullback Matt Suhey, previously gained over 100 yards in a single game as freshmen.

The 183-pound Warner, unknown to all but those who saw him in preseason practice, came to Penn State with a background of breaking all West Virginia high school offensive records.

Wake Forest upsets Georgia

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Jay Venuto fired three touchdown passes and James McDougald ran for 193 yards as Wake Forest upset 12th-ranked Georgia 22-21 in college football Saturday.

Venuto connected with McDougald on a 9-yard pass for the game-winning touchdown 31 seconds into the final quarter of a sloppily-played game in which both teams suffered seven turnovers.

Venuto, who completed 20 of 34 passes for 273 yards, hit on four of five for 65 yards in an 89-yard drive that erased Georgia's 21-16 lead after three quarters.

Venuto's other two touchdown passes came in the first quarter and covered 16 and 10 yards, both going to Wayne Baumgardner.

The Demon Deacons got a 34-yard field goal from Frank Harnisch in the third quarter.

Don Poage of Midland and John Phillips of Odessa teamed to defeat Lloyd Henderson of Midland and Derek Edmonds of Melbourne, Australia, Saturday in the finals, 7-6, 6-4, to win the Midland Country Club's Chaparral Doubles Tennis Tournament.

The pro division featured a professional teamed with a Midlander, and is one of the top net events of the year at MCC.

Midland's Susan Britton and Trish Bostrom of Seattle won the women's pro division with a hard fought 6-2, 4-6, 7-6 victory over Jean Henderson of Midland and Mary Sawyer of Perth, Australia.

Edmonds and Sawyer are former Midland College tennis stars who have gone on to the professional ranks. Phillips is the popular pro from Odessa.

Panhandle State wins

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Panhandle State defensive end Bob Levinski took part in a fourth-quarter goal-line stand, then intercepted a screen pass for a touchdown late in the game to help defeat McMurry 16-3 Saturday.

Panhandle State also scored on a first-quarter safety and a second-quarter one-yard run by John Cuffin.

Michigan State bombs Oregon

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tailback Derek Hughes ran for three touchdowns Saturday, one of them a 100-yard kickoff return, as 10th-ranked Michigan State swamped Oregon 41-17 in a nonconference college football game.

Tailback Steve Smith ran for a fourth TD and place-kicker Morten Andersen booted two field goals against the scrappy Ducks.

Hughes' electrifying third-quarter kickoff return, which snapped a 33-year Michigan State kickoff return record, broke the game open after the Ducks had narrowed the score to 20-17 on an 8-yard run by tailback Dwight Robertson.

Ogburn hit split end Rich Ward with a 20-yard scoring pass play to make it 17-10. Anderson kicked a 51-yard field goal at the end of the half before Robertson closed the gap.

Pitt rolls past Jayhawks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Split end Ralph Still caught three touchdown passes — two from Rick Trocano and one from freshman Dan Marino — to lead 16th-ranked Pittsburgh to a 24-0 college football victory over Kansas Saturday in the season opener for both teams.

Fullback Randy McMillan, a 230-pound junior college transfer, added 140 yards rushing on 21 carries for Pitt, which held Kansas to minus 17 yards rushing on 22 attempts to spoil the return of Jayhawks Coach Don Fambrough.

Kansas, coming off a 1-10 season, held Pitt scoreless in the first period, but the Panthers erupted for 17 points in a 7:21 span of the second period.

McMillan, who rushed for 110 yards in the first half, set up a 24-yard field goal by Mark Schubert that gave Pitt a 3-0 lead with 3:12 gone in the second quarter.

A series later, Still caught a 20-yard touchdown pass from Trocano, a junior quarterback who led Pitt to an 8-4 record last year.

Marino, Pitt's prize freshman recruit, then replaced Trocano and threw an end zone interception on his first collegiate pass. A series later, Marino and Still connected on a 23-yard scoring play that gave Pitt a 17-0 halftime lead.

In the third quarter, Trocano threw another 23-yard touchdown pass to Still, a senior who caught only one touchdown pass last season.

DEVELOPMENT GEOLOGISTS

Opportunities In Several Expanding Locations

We're Tenneco Oil, a young, aggressive oil and gas company with an impressive track record. In the last few years we have out-performed the petroleum industry in general...and few companies can match our success. Consider these accomplishments since 1973:

- Geophysical expenditures up 36% per year average and
- Total capital expenditures up 42% per year average
- Gas production up 36% (industry down 13%)
- Oil production up 18% (industry down 5%)
- Net operating income has increased at a compounded growth rate of 44%

We're looking for development geologists with a Bachelor's degree in Geology or Geological Engineering with at least 3 years experience in the oil industry. Responsibilities will include:

- Generate low risk prospects
- Plan and evaluate development drilling programs
- Perform geologic engineering studies to determine reservoir description and reservoir properties

If you like a results oriented environment with individual recognition, we invite you to take a look at our opportunities located in all of our expanding locations across the country. 13 BETTER WAYS

1. BACKLOG OF BUYERS: As a leading Broker in your community, your Gallery Broker traditionally has access to buyers for homes as they come on the market. Some of these buyers may be waiting for your home—right now!

2. NEWCOMER PIPELINE: Local industries, satisfied customers, and other spheres of influence recommend Gallery to newcomers who are house hunting in your community.

3. TOTAL EXPOSURE: When you list your home with us, we spread the word. Through local newspaper advertising and in 100,000 copies of our own nationally circulated listing magazine, "Glimpses from Midland."

4. NATIONAL ADVERTISING: Gallery of Homes advertises regularly on major TV and radio networks—also in national magazines. Go with Gallery and you go with a name people know and trust!

5. INVITING OFFICES: Gallery real estate offices are like no others. The warm, uncluttered, living room atmosphere helps make buying or selling a home an enjoyable experience.

6. YOUR HOME IS GLORIOUS COLOR: We showcase your home in our offices by placing a full color photo of it in our famous Gallery illuminated shadowboxes. Next to an in person visit, there's no better way to show off the beauty of a home!

7. PRICING ASSISTANCE: Only you can set the price of your home. But we can be a big help. By telling you what similar homes in your area are going for, and by giving you our recommended price.

8. BUYER SCREENING: Before showing your home to a prospect, we check his or her income, downpayment capability, real needs and motivation. That way, we keep you from being bothered by "sightseers" and other unlikely buyers.

9. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE: To help qualified buyers obtain loans at the lowest possible rates, we keep up to date on the lending institutions. Buyers appreciate our assistance, especially when money is tight!

10. RELOCATION SERVICES: Through Gallery's extensive relocation services (covering more than 5,000 communities), we offer you access to out-of-town buyers who may be interested in your home.

11. THIRD PARTY NEGOTIATING: Prefer to avoid any kind of face-to-face negotiations with a buyer? We'll handle them for you—in accordance with Buyer instructions.

12. FULL TIME SERVICES: Our sales counselors are ready to serve you at your convenience. If evenings or weekends are best for you, we're more than happy to accommodate.

13. TRAINED PROFESSIONALS: Gallery sales counselors are the cream of the crop. They are among the best trained and most dedicated professionals in Real Estate. This can be highly reassuring when you're making a transaction as important as the sale of your home!

We invite you to stop by and find out more about us. Or simply give us a call.
We do our homework.

'Pops in the Plaza' concerts this week

The traditional "Pops in the Plaza" concerts heralding the oncoming season of the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale will be held this week in Midland and Odessa.

The Odessa concert is scheduled for noon Tuesday in the American Bank of Commerce Convenience Center in downtown Odessa. The Midland event, sponsored by The First National Bank, will be in FNB's plaza at the corner of West Wall and Big Spring streets. The concert will begin at noon and conclude by 1 p.m.

Symphony musical director-conductor Dr. Thomas Hohstadt said the concerts will feature light, "listenable" works, musical comedy favorites and musical themes from movies. Hohstadt promises that some unusual instruments will be utilized to provide some unique musical sounds during the two concerts.

Immediately following the conclusion of the plaza concert in each city, members of that city's Symphony Guild will launch annual ticket campaigns; for sale of season subscriptions to the orchestra's six-concert series in each city.

The orchestral season will be launched in mid-October with gala concerts featuring famed duo-pianists Ferfante and Teicher. The season will continue with concerts at intervals during the fall, winter and early spring.

Additional information on the 1979-80 orchestral season, and ticket information, may be obtained by telephoning the symphony business office, 563-0921.

earlier generations of his family. Woodward started his musical studies at age 3 and began the study of cello when he was 12. He began performing professionally at age 16.

IN 1960, he won the Texas regional competition for the best cup of coffee in town (with unlimited refills) at McDonald's.... you did!!

He remained in Puerto Rico until 1965. Woodward obtained a certificate of proficiency in cello from the Conservatorio de Musica de Puerto Rico where he studied with Marta M. de Casals, wife of famed cellist Pablo Casals. He also had advanced study with concert cellist Adolfo Odonoposoff at the San Juan school.

Woodward joined the New Orleans Philharmonic in the 1965-66 season. During the following two seasons, he served as principal cellist of the Mobile Symphony and as a member of the faculty of the University of South Alabama music department, where he was a member of the school's resident string quartet.

Woodward returned to San Juan, P.R., for a year's additional study and while there toured Central America as a member of the Puerto Rico Symphony Orchestra.

Taking time out from music, Woodward enrolled in the University of Alabama in 1969 to work on a degree in com-

Bronze sculptures are to be on display Friday, Saturday

Bronze sculptures by three noted Southwestern artists will be on display Friday and Saturday at Midland's Hanging Tree Gallery, 3201 N. Big Spring St.

According to Carol Swain, director of the gallery, the featured artists will be Terry Gilbreth of Snyder, Bill Craig of Tahoka and Robert Taylor of Snyder.

Gilbreth, an Abilene native who now is director of the Diamond M Museum at Snyder, is widely known as a sculptor specializing in historical scenes, using the "lost wax" technique. Craig is noted for finely-wrought replicas of Western and Southwestern artifacts.

Taylor, who is a practicing veterinarian and a rodeo performer, creates bronzes depicting rodeo events; more recently he has been creating wildlife sculptures that have drawn widespread acclaim.

Mrs. Swain said that the exhibition here this coming weekend will present static displays of bronze sculptures in various stages of completion. For those seeking additional knowledge of the bronze casting technique, a special seminar is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the gallery.

The seminar will be directed by Gilbreth, with assistance from Craig and Taylor. The three-hour event will offer special film and color slide presentations, an informal lecture by Gilbreth, and a "live" demonstration.

The seminar will be free to the public, but enrollment is limited to 30 participants. Persons interested in registering for the seminar may telephone Mrs. Swain at the Hanging Tree Gallery, 684-4721.

An invitational preview of the sculpture show will be held at the gallery Thursday night. The public showing of the sculptures is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both Friday and Saturday. Admission is free. The artists will be present in the gallery both days, Mrs. Swain said.

Just Shake it and Let it Fall Into Place. The Precision Haircut.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's.

Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for fourteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

Visual research group to pay back blind funds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A private non-profit corporation, headed by former officials of the State Commission for the Blind, has agreed to pay $482,254 to the commission.

Travis County District Attorney Ronald Earle, whose office conducted an 11-month investigation into the matter, said Visual Research Foundation will make the payment during the next 12 months.

A state auditor's report showed "contributions" of $13,500 were made to VRF by Hermann Hospital Foundation of Houston. The money was reportedly in return for payments by the commission to Hermann Hospital for blind patients treated at the facility.

Burt Risley, former commission executive director, was listed as a registered agent for VRF. Charles Hoehne, former commission assistant director, was VRF's secretary.

Earle said the "donation arrangement" with organizations funded by the commission continued for about five years. VRF was founded in 1971.

The district attorney said the agreement marks the end of the investigation.

"Our objectives in this inquiry were to preserve the integrity of the Blind Commission and to see that the State of Texas suffered no loss of its public monies. This restitution accomplishes both of these objectives," he said.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Food product labels should tell contents

Dear Dr. Solomon: The federal government seems to be more concerned about what people eat than the people themselves. Don't you feel these regulatory agencies are a little too enthusiastic in trying to force their own views on the public? — Mrs. K.L.W.

Dear Mrs. W.: I question your assumption that the public is not interested in governmental regulations involving food products. While it is true that Americans are quick to protest against what they perceive as excessive governmental interference in their affairs, there is substantial evidence that the public wants protection when it concerns the food we eat.

This evidence stems from a recent effort by three government agencies — the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the United States Department of Agriculture and the Federal Trade Commission — to elicit the public's views on the question of food labeling. In response, the agencies received a total of 10,000 letters, and public hearings attracted large audiences throughout the country.

About 500 people presented very specific ideas about what they felt the government's approach should be regarding food labeling, insisting they have a right to know what the food they eat contains. Many expressed concern about the trend toward processed foods, fortified foods and imitation foods that cannot be distinguished from the real product. In this regard, it was recommended that the law be changed to provide for a clear explanation of how an imitation food differed from the original.

The greatest public interest was directed toward ingredient disclosure. Those who testified at the public hearings indicated that present food labeling is inadequate and requested that the specific sources of fats, oils and sweeteners be revealed. They also wanted colorings, flavorings, spices and preservatives listed in foods such as ketchup and mayonnaise. Some even would like to extend the practice to interstate restaurants with standardized menus, requiring that they list the ingredients in various foods. It was also suggested that accurate information should be available for consumers on special diets.

Regarding salt and sweeteners, consumers asked that the specific amounts added to a product be listed. At present many foods, such as cereals, simply list the ingredients in order of their predominance by weight.

Open dating — with the expiration date clearly marked — was another priority request. Some people even suggested that frozen foods be packaged with an indicator that would change color if a product was stored improperly; others asked grain products show the original milling date of the contents.

One would have to conclude that a substantial segment of the public is very much behind the government's efforts to assure that the food we eat is wholesome and nutritious — and that we know what we are buying.

Scheduled air routes busiest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scheduled airlines now account for 84 percent of intercity public passenger miles in the United States, according to the Air Transport Association.

ATA President Paul R. Ignatius says, "The 1978 air traffic surge has continued through the winter and spring of 1979. There is the prospect that the airlines this year will carry more than 300 million passengers, continuing their predominant role in intercity public passenger service."

Four area convicts released on parole

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Four persons convicted of crimes in the Midland area have been paroled by Gov. Bill Clements on recommendations of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Sergio S. Lascano, convicted of burglary of a vehicle with intent to commit theft in Ector County Sept. 8, 1978, was paroled to Ector County after serving and earning one year and eight months of a five-year sentence.

Manuel O. Harroquin, convicted of burglary of a vehicle and burglary of a building in Midland County Sept. 9, 1977, was paroled to Midland County after serving and earning three years and six months of a five-year sentence.

Jerry L. Nickles Jr., convicted of possession of a controlled substance in Ector County April 14, 1978, was paroled to Hood County after serving and earning three years and two months of a five-year sentence.

Bobby W. Smith, convicted of unauthorized use of a vehicle in Ector County Oct. 9, 1978, was paroled to Bexar County after serving and earning two years of a two-year sentence.

Odessa WIPP hearing postponed until Oct. 1

AUSTIN — The time and place for the Odessa hearing on the proposed Waste Isolation Pilot Project for storage of high-level wastes have been changed by the Department of Energy, the Attorney General's office reported.

Assistant Attorney General Rick Lowerre said the hearing on the WIPP, which would be located near Carlsbad, N.M., had been set for Tuesday, but was changed to Oct. 1.

Lowerre said the hearing will be in the Founders Building Auditorium at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Growth regulators may step up yields with less water use

By CHARLES W. GREEN
Midland County Extension Agent—Agriculture

The warm open weather and the fall-like conditions of the past week caused cotton to begin to dry and mature in the Midland area. May-planted cotton has begun to open. Calves are beginning to be shipped on area ranches, with weights reported good this year. Generally, agricultural conditions continue favorable, with prospects for good crops if fall weather remains good.

A WHOLE NEW APPROACH to increasing plant water use efficiency is about to break ground. Scientists at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station are betting on the possibility of reducing water use by crops grown on the High Plains by 40 percent while maintaining present yields. Better still, they hope to increase yields by over 50 percent with the same amount of water by applying chemical plant growth regulators.

Drs. Charles Wendt and John Abernathy of the Lubbock Experiment Station will soon be evaluating the use of plant growth regulators to increase water use efficiency chemically on High Plains crops.

Herbicides are examples of plant growth regulators which are used by farmers. These chemicals have saved producers on the Texas High Plains millions of dollars on weed control in the past few years.

NEW TYPES of growth regulators have been developed which change the way plants grow and develop. Scientists have recently found that a growth regulator called "PIX" increases cotton yields by as much as 50 percent. Laboratory research in Arkansas has shown that PIX reduced the water use of cotton by 40 percent while still producing the same yield.

It is not known how crops are affected by these regulators. Researchers speculate on whether the chemicals thicken leaves, slow down water use or cause deeper root systems so the crops get more soil moisture. Some of the chemicals also appear to stabilize the growth of the plant under excess water situations.

Another unknown is the influence of these compounds on water use efficiency and the climate and soil conditions under which yield increases can be expected. Wendt and Abernathy will be looking for the answers on how PIX increases water use efficiency on cotton under dryland and irrigated conditions and the potentials of other plant growth regulators to increase the water use efficiency of other crops grown on the Texas High Plains.

NOW IS THE TIME to plant winter annual forage crops for cover and possible grazing in the area. Small grains are probably the best choice of the cool season annuals to plant here, and these include oats, wheat, barley and rye. These four are about equal in forage quality when immature and give similar animal performance in grazing. There is a difference in palatability in the following order (from the most to the least palatable): oats, wheat, barley and rye. These differences present no problem unless livestock have a choice of small grains within the same pasture. For this reason, these grains should not be mixed in a planting.

Oats are widely used for forage production. Many oat varieties produce fast, early growth but are not as winter hardy as other grains. There are some varieties with improved cold tolerance. For the best results, plant early, allow them to reach at least eight inches in height before turning in livestock and rotate grazing when 75 percent of the plants have been eaten in order to allow recovery. Continuous close grazing weakens the root system and greatly reduces forage yields on any type of small grain. Oat varieties recommended for this area include Coker 234, New Nortex and Nora.

WHEAT VARIETIES recommended for the Midland area include Caprock, Sturdy, TAM W-101 and TAM W-103. There are some spring-type wheats that are promising for grain production in Midland County, but these should not be planted before December since they are sensitive to day length. They are adapted for grain only and should not be grazed. These include Bounty 309, Gajene 71 and Calidad.

Barley is more drought tolerant and winter hardy than oats and generally matures earlier. Barley varieties are the most salt tolerant of the small grains. Varieties adapted to our area are Era, Rogers, Tambar 401, Tokak and Will. Spring types for December-February planting include Arivat and Briggs.

Rye varieties generally have excellent winter hardiness and provide good fall and late winter forage production. They mature earlier than other small grains. Elton and Bonel varieties have generally performed well in West Texas, and more recently several synthetic varieties have been released such as Vitagraze, Acco 811, Winter-More, Gro-green and others which seem to be satisfactory.

Judge removes three lawyers from 'Skid Row' stabber case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the trial of Bobby Joe Maxwell, charged in the city's "Skid Row" stabbings, has removed three of Maxwell's attorneys from the case because of a book contract they signed with him.

In dismissing the attorneys, Judge Stanley R. Malone expressed concern Friday over a possible conflict-of-interest created by the contract, in which Maxwell gave his attorneys all rights to a book about himself.

Malone said an attorney might be inclined to neglect his client's defense because an acquittal would make a book about the defendant less valuable. He added he found the contract overemphasized the defense attorneys' financial interest.

The lawyers — Pierpont M. Laidley, Fred H. Alschuler and Walter Alschuler — said they would appeal Malone's order.

"The defense has done everything possible to keep this case from becoming a circus," Alschuler said. "We are the ones who asked for a closed preliminary hearing, and we are the ones who asked for a gag order."

chuler said. "We are the ones who asked for a closed preliminary hearing, and we are the ones who asked for a gag order."

To be a

Volunteer

Sally Steward's volunteer work is definitely for real and she's no stranger to a hoe. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

By WANDA MOUTON
Lifestyle Editor

It's not always easy being a volunteer. It can mean putting in a tough eight-hour day at the office, then spending even more hours as a troop leader for Girl Scouts. It can mean giving up an afternoon a week serving as a tutor for students, a reader for the blind, or a babysitter at a day care center. There's not much glamour in any of it. Licking envelopes, gathering donations, doing "grub" work outside. "I once heard that volunteer service is paying rent to the community in which you live," says Margaret Purvis, a homemaker and a giver of service to many projects in Midland.

FOR INSTANCE, she's a member of the city's Planning and Zoning Commission. She's president of the Permian Basin Perinatal Association and committed to encouraging and promoting good perinatal health care.

She's also on planning and advisory committees and on the board of directors for United Way. She doesn't do it for the glory of it all. There's not much glamour in planning a major education seminar for health care officials and lay people, for example. It's just plain hard work. "It makes me feel vital, you know, like I'm doing something important," says Sally Steward. "I feel like I was meant to do something more than just keep house."

AND SHE DOES. She's on the board of Family Services of Midland Inc., and on the board of United Way.

She is heading an Intermediate Business section in the fall United Way campaign. And she spends countless hours each year with her pet project, the Girl Scouts.

She isn't always a planner. This volunteer is also a "doer" and can often be seen at the Girl Scout Center doing the dirty work of planting trees and scrubbing pots.

But she devotes so much time to the Girl Scouts (and has for over five years) because she believes in it.

"It's relevant," she says. "It keeps me young. And I found out I could do things in giving service that I never thought I could do before."

SCHATZIE TIGHE is one of those who thinks that everyone should give their time and money to their community. But she doesn't just think it. She does it.

She's a volunteer in her church, on the Symphony Guild board, member of the Midland High School PTA and occasionally a house manager for Midland Community Theatre.

There's more. She's a board member of Girl Scouts and of United Way.

She's an advisor to a senior Scout troop and is immediate past president of the Girl Scout Permian Basin Council.

In fact, it was her avid interest in Girl Scouts that led to her work with United Way.

YOU'D THINK BEING the wife of a state senator and owner of a travel agency would keep Sue Snelson busy enough. But she's got a pet project, so important to her that she gives it a big priority in her life. And with the opening of the Salvation Army Mabee Corps Community Center next month, she will see the realization of a dream.

"Salvation Army is the nearest and dearest thing to my heart—I've been involved in it for years," she says.

To get the Center built, she helped plan the campaign in getting funding, volunteered her time in speaking at countless programs, and will continue to be involved in its operation.

"There has long been a tremendous need for day care in this community," she said. "I did what I could to see that this need was met."

These volunteers all have one thing in common. They're on the board of directors for United Way. But they didn't pick up the phone one day and ask for the sometimes unpleasant job of soliciting money. It was perhaps working with one girl scout, or seeing one too many crowded day care nursery that convinced each of them that giving their time to United Way was worth it.

THE UW CAMPAIGN kicks off in Midland Sept. 22. The goal: $1,017,000.

The services it strives to meet include recreational, family rehabilitation, youth needs, educational, child care, health and rehabilitation.

VISA

By PATSY GORDON Lifestyle Writer

The PTA membership drive is well under way in many of the Midland public schools and will be starting soon in the others.

Texas has increased their membership to 696,206 — a 5.8 percent increase over last year and Texas' largest total in 10 years.

Let's not stop now; let's support the national slogan for this year...Participate! All parents, single parents, teachers, principals, school aides, grandparents, aunts, uncles and even older students are urged to join PTA.

Maybe you do not have a child in the public schools. YOU are invited to join anyway. PTA is for everyone.

Cost to join is $1 per person, with life members paying only 40 cents. Your PTA membership gives 40 cents to the state, 20 cents to the national level and 40 cents to the local unit.

Why is your membership important?

To promote the welfare of children, to increase parental and community support for our public schools and to provide a strong voice for children at the State Board of Education, the State Legislature and before the Congress of the United States.

Many people do not understand just what the PTA does for a school, said Gayle Dodson, a second-year PTA president.

"Spread the word this year. We, the PTA, just puts the icing on the cake...we provide the extras that a busy school needs. It is our belief that your child loves having you be a part of his or her school world. He, she and we are encouraging you to get involved.

"Join us today. We need you, and what better way is there for you to know what is going on in your child's school world? You are appreciated! In the Midland public schools as a volunteer. Before you get started this year, we thank you for caring, and we thank you for joining PTA yesterday or today...or maybe tomorrow...but please don't forget to join," said Mrs. Dodson.

...HELP! The 1979-80 tutoring program at Casa de Amigos is in definite need of volunteer tutors. The only limiting factor in the program is the number of tutors; working on a one-to-one basis, only as many children can be accepted as there are tutors.

No special teaching skills are required of the tutors, just an attitude of caring.

An orientation-training session will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Casa de Amigos, 1101 E. Garden Lane.

Please make a difference in a young child's life and join the Casa tutoring program.

For more information, call 682-9701...

...MIDLAND CITY COUNCIL PTA will sponsor a membership workshop at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the conference room of the School Administration Building.

All PTA membership chairmen are urged to attend. Unit presidents are welcome, too.

Groom will be stranger to bride

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Hardeep Singh attends college, works part time and wears jeans just like many other 18-year-old American women.

Ms. Singh also plans to be married later this year, but her marriage will be far different from what is customary in the United States.

She has never met her bridegroom and can't even pronounce his name.

Ms. Singh's parents arranged her marriage five years ago in the custom of upper-caste Sikhs, a monotheistic offshoot of Hinduism. She will be married in her native Fiji Islands to a 22-year-old college student who will emigrate to America after the ceremony.

The young couple will be able to communicate because she can speak Indian and "he probably speaks English," Ms. Singh said.

Even though she has lived in this central California city for 13 years and wants to be a lawyer, Ms. Singh is willing to go through with the arranged marriage for her parents' sake.

"I love my parents and to do otherwise would disgrace them," she said in an interview. "They care for us...I could still be in the Fiji Islands where the life is hard. My parents brought us here so we could have a good education."

Fund-raising spice sale to be held at Fannin School

Fannin Elementary students will begin a fund-raising campaign this week to purchase fold-up tables for the school cafeteria.

The easily folded tables enable the cafeteria to become a multi-purpose facility, a large enough area for motor skill development, a facility for gymnasium activities and an area to house indoor physical education activities.

Under the leadership of the Parent-Teacher Association (PTA), the students will offer for sale extra large bottles of pepper, dried onions, seasoning salt and bacon bits.

Individual bottles sell for $1.75 each and a set of four bottles costs $7.

Persons who are not contacted by a Fannin student who wish to purchase any of these spices can call the school at 683-2621 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. to place an order.

The PTA hopes to replace all existing stationary tables in the cafeteria with money derived from this sale.

Scientists discover a genetic defect in fetuses

BOSTON (AP) — For the first time, scientists have discovered an inherited genetic defect that causes a form of cancer, and they say they can spot fetuses before birth that almost certainly will grow up to have the disease.

Researchers at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston noticed that one family had an unusually high frequency of cancer of the kidney. After more study, they found a specific, inherited fault in the people's chromosomes that apparently caused the illness.

Some scientists believe that all of the approximately 100 kinds of cancer that plague humans can be caused by either inheritance or environmental hazards. Until now, however, they had never been able to spot the genetic mistake that allowed the disease to pass from parent to child.

The research, headed by Dr. Robert S. Brown, was published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

Brown said that through amniocentesis, a prenatal test, doctors will be able to determine before birth whether new members of this family will be predisposed to having kidney cancer.

Inheritance of kidney cancer is rare, and Brown said the genetic accident they discovered may affect only one family. However, the possibility exists that doctors may someday be able to use similar techniques to find the seeds of other kinds of cancer in the unborn.

In an accompanying editorial, Dr. Alfred G. Knudson Jr. of Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia wrote: "If it is true that there are 100 or so cancers and that each occurs in both hereditary and non-hereditary form, then genetic studies of those rare families with inherited cancers could ultimately lead to a catalogue of the 100 or so cancer genes in men. Theoretically, all persons at high genetic risk of cancer could be identified, even in fetal life."

According to this scenario, parents could decide to stop a pregnancy with abortion if it appeared the unborn baby had a high risk of growing up to have cancer.

Researchers are not sure what proportion of cancers are caused by heredity and which are touched off by environmental factors, such as smoking.

In the family that was studied, kidney cancer developed in five men and five women over three generations. The researchers were able to study genetic material from eight of them and found that all had the same genetic mistake. Members of this family have a 50-50 chance of being born with the scrambled chromosomes.

All humans have 23 pairs of chromosomes — strings of genes that control physical development. In the people in the family studied, one chromosome from the third pair was

Altar Society at St. Ann's Church launches year

First meeting of the fall season of St. Ann's Altar Society was held this week.

The meeting began with Mass in St. Ann's Church, said by the Rev. Clifford Blackburn. Coffee was served in the rectory following the service and a business meeting was held.

Plans for the upcoming year were outlined by Betty Jennings, president. Other officers are Ann Josefy, vice president, Donna Repman, secretary; Betty Simpson, treasurer; and Ann Kleine, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Jerry Cappadonna and Evelyn Portele were hostesses, assisted by board members of the society.

SORORITY NEWS

The Iota Beta Chapter met recently in the home of Margie Lanning. President Carol Hall announced that the chapter received a three-star rating from International for the preceding year.

Meals on Wheels and Salad Day for the Midland Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center were among the service topics discussed.

Ms. Lanning gave a program on arts and crafts, after which participants painted ceramics, and tried tating and rug making.

structions clearly stated. Any recipes that are unclear will be disqualified.

Each entry should be clearly labeled at the top with the entrant's name, address, telephone number, the name of the recipe and category entered. Send entries to: "Recipes '79", The Midland Reporter-Telegram, P. O. Box 1650, Midland, Texas, 79702.

Daily aspirin will reduce threat of blood clots

BOSTON (AP) — Half an aspirin a day will greatly reduce the threat of blood clots in hospital patients and may be enough to prevent heart attacks, researchers say.

The study shows that a small sliver of aspirin will prevent blood platelet cells from sticking together and forming clots in the bloodstream. Such clots can be forerunners of heart attacks.

Dr. Herschel R. Harter, who directed the study at Washington University Medical School in St. Louis, said the latest research does not conclusively prove that the household pain killer will prevent heart attacks.

But he added, "Since I did the study, I take my half an aspirin every morning. That and jogging, I hope, will keep me alive for awhile."

The study, published in today's New England Journal of Medicine, is the latest in a series exploring the beneficial effects of aspirin. However, the earlier ones have used much higher doses of the medicine.

A blood clot — what doctors call thrombosis — is a serious, sometimes fatal complication when people are bedridden in hospitals.

In the study, 19 patients took aspirin, and six of them, or 32 percent, developed blood clots. Meanwhile, 25 others took an inactive substitute, and 18 of those, or 72 percent, had clots.

"There's strong evidence, albeit indirect, showing that if you put people on aspirin, you can prevent coronary thrombosis," Harter said in an interview.

Aspirin is the most widely used medicine in the world. Americans take about 50 billion pills containing aspirin each year.

Select proper woods for your wood-burning stove

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wood-burning stoves are rapidly growing in popularity as the price of oil skyrockets and, as in many things, what you get out of these stoves depends on what you put into them.

In selecting wood, the experts say, you should consider species, density, heat value and moisture content when you buy or cut.

Heavier woods have become more popular because they burn more slowly, providing long-lasting heat.

The North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service reports that oak, hickory and maple are preferred woods.

Elm and gum do not give off as much heat, while apple, cherry and peach are difficult to split.

Softer woods such as the pines can give off more heat because of the pitch they contain, but they burn rapidly and won't last as long as the harder woods. The pitch can also contribute to creosote buildup in your chimney.

It is important to burn dry wood if possible so energy isn't wasted evaporating the moisture from the log in the fire.

Dry wood is easier to split, burns better and weighs less than moist woods.

The best solution is to give wood several months to dry while piled off the ground and protected from rain and snow.

"If you are only now cutting wood for this winter, look for dead trees — either standing or fallen down — that have lost their bark," suggested John R. Hornick of the Department of Agriculture.

He added that you can make green wood dry faster by stacking it in a sunny spot and covering it with clear plastic.

Hornick also urged cleaning the chimney at least once a year and suggested that autumn is a good time for this project.

A powerful vacuum may do the job, or a cloth bag filled with straw and weighted with a rock may suffice on some chimneys. Or you may want to consider a professional chimney sweep.

Finally, if you buy wood, understand the measurements you are talking about.

Wood is sold by the cord. A standard cord is a pile of wood four feet high, four feet deep and eight feet long.

Midland Woman's Club begins full season of activities

The Midland Woman's Club will officially open its doors for the season Thursday with an old-fashioned birthday party. The club members and guests will be celebrating 30 years of memories and enduring friendships.

The hospitality committee chaired by Velma Flannery will greet the guests and make welcome new and old members.

Birthday "pearls" will be prevalent and adorn the hall and tables amid party decorations, says Carrie Lou Davis, chairman of the decorating committee. A huge birthday cake will center the reception table. Colorful birthday decorations will set the mood of the festive occasion.

The theme, "Women and Changing Times" has been chosen by the club president, Hazel Smith. The coffee, honoring the charter club members and past club presidents, will begin at 10:30 a.m. and continue through 12 noon at the Woman's Club building at Hogan Park.

The president invites all members to dawn their birthday pearls and introduce a prospective member to the Woman's Club and its many members. Thirty years of progress and growth has developed the club into a mini-cultural center of the Permian Basin.

The birthday party activities will include a display of scrapbooks of yesteryear and music suitable for the occasion.

The creative works of Pat Aycock, artist of the month, will be exhibited. Pat is commissioned by clients in the Permian Basin to design and create wall hangings. This art display exemplifies the art of the Southwest through its coarsely woven fibers accented with vibrant contrasting colors.

Attorneys continue search for Alabamans in 1972 syphilis study

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Attorneys searching for 17 Alabama natives due more than $250,000 from the federal government because they were used as unsuspecting guinea pigs in a syphilis study have been given three more months to complete their search.

U.S. Circuit Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. originally had set a Sept. 18 deadline for locating the remaining participants in the Tuskegee syphilis study conducted by the U.S. Public Health Service.

But in an order disclosed this week, Johnson extended the deadline to Dec. 18. The request for the extension was made by Fred Gray, the Tuskegee attorney who represented the 600 poor, uneducated blacks who took part in the study.

Gray filed a $1.8 billion damage suit against the government after the existence of the study, which began in 1932, was disclosed publicly in 1972. The study was terminated that same year.

The suit was settled out of court in 1974 for a total of $9 million in damages. Most of the 600 participants or their heirs already have received their share of the settlement.

But Gray said recently he has been unable to find any trace of 17 of the participants. And if Johnson had not extended the deadline, their share of the settlement would have reverted back to the government on Sept. 18.

Some 400 of the participants had syphilis but were never told of their disease. The purpose of the study was to determine the effects of untreated syphilis on the human body. The men were persuaded to take part in the study by promises of free meals, transportation, burial, and medical treatment for ailments other than syphilis.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a salesperson selling women's wear in a large department-store. We make the minimum wage and no commission. We take great pains to be polite and helpful regardless of how rude or inconsiderate the customer is. I'm sure thousands of salespeople encounter the same problems that I face daily. As a favor to all of us, will you please print this:

HOW TO MAKE A SALESPERSON'S DAY
If you are approached by a salesperson who offers to help you, ignore her.

Ask if you may take more than the permitted number of garments into the fitting room.

If you are refused, sneak in with an armload and leave the rejects on the floor.

If your makeup soils a garment, don't tell the clerk so she can have it cleaned.

Let your children pull off price tags and chew on your fitting room number.

If you normally take a 14, try to squeeze into a 12. (What do you care if you split the seams? It's not yours.)

Should you accidentally break a zipper or pull a button off, keep quiet. Let the next person who tries it on mention it.

If there's a NO SMOKING sign in the fitting room, light up anyway, and say you didn't see the sign.

If the salesperson is sufficiently conscientious to carefully compare your signature to the one on your charge plate, act insulted.

If you return anything, throw away all the tags and receipt, and demand a cash refund! — HAD IT ALL IN BUFFALO

DEAR ABBY: I believe that nursing a baby is a private affair. If a nursing mother wants to return to her job, she should pump her breasts and put the milk into sterile bottles and place them in the refrigerator for the proper dispensation by the sitter. What do you think? — ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW

DEAR POINT: If the mother can have her child brought to her for nursing (at her own expense) and forego her coffee break for her baby's milk break, I'd go along with it. But demanding that employers provide a special set-up for nursing mothers would be a costly accommodation for which the consumer (or taxpayer) would have to pay, and I'm opposed to it.

DEAR ABBY: My parents were hitters. They never actually beat us viciously, but were quick to reach out and slap when angered, whether punishment was warranted or not. Anger was expressed verbally in our household, too; not rationally, but loudly and often cruelly.

A gentle hint, tough customer

My problem is that I grew up learning this kind of behavior and I can't seem to control myself. My husband, who is fairly even-tempered, is horrified when I reach out and slap his face during an argument. (The rest of the time we have an excellent relationship)

I also can't control my tongue and often say things in the heat of anger I'm later ashamed of.

We're not sure yet if we want children, but I know I'd better clean up my act if we ever have them. Can you tell me how to break these terrible habits? — ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Habits are learned behavior. And what has been learned can be unlearned. When you feel yourself becoming angry — and BEFORE you lose control — leave the room and cool off.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SWINGING IN THE TOWERS": Your suggested 11th commandment, "Thou shalt not get caught," is very catchy, but if you obey the first 10, you won't need an 11th.

Pi Phi benefit sale set

Midland Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club has set Thursday, Sept. 20, as its biennial Invitational Settlement School Sale. The sale is from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. C.S. Hunter, No. 3 Hawthorne Drive.

Handcrafted items from the Pi Beta Phi Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts in Gatlinburg, Tenn., will be for sale, as well as baked goods prepared by the alumnae.

This year there will be two renowned guest artists, Maggy Ryan of Santa Fe, N.M., formerly of Houston, and Mary Jean Fowler of Houston, both fiber artists.

Proceeds from the sale will help support Arrowmont.

General chairmen of the event is Mrs. Ralph E. Williamson. Her co-chairman is Mrs. Neil Rucker.

Other chairmen are: Mrs. Ronald Britton and Mrs. Edwin F. Alstrin, refreshments; Mrs. Steedman Hull, hostesses; Mrs. Watson LaForce Jr., decorations; Mrs. Bobby Page, raffle; Mrs. Charles Callaway, invitations; Mrs. Rucker, baked goods; Mrs. Reynolds Lee Foster, Arrowcraft sales; Mrs. Raymond C. Doss, hospitality; Miss Elaine Magruder, publicity, and Mrs. Pat Baskin and Mrs. William A. Heck, reorders.

Mrs. Michael B. Wisenbaker is president of the alumnae club.

Mrs. Fowler, who was raised in Ames, Iowa, graduated from Iowa State University. She and her husband, James, have three children.

Mrs. Fowler, a craftsman who has studied at Arrowmont, works in woven wall hangings, vests and bags.

She also is bringing works of Arrowmont artists from Houston, including woven jewelry, texture floor pillows and dynamic colored hangings. Some of these artists are members of Fiber Designers and some belong to the Contemporary Handweavers group.

Mrs. Ryan, who has shown her fiber art in the Smithsonian Institute, is a graduate of the University of Kansas.

"My work is done in sueded leathers, using stitchery, feathers, turquoise or unusual stones as embellishment. The pieces are done in a padded, collage manner, or trapunto that has been stitched and stuffed. Because of the warmth and softness of the materials, the pieces should be touched," said Ms. Ryan.

Mary Jean Fowler

Maggy Ryan

Some of her exhibitions and awards include: Houston Art League's Invitational Exhibit in 1976, Creative Stitchers of Texas, Award of Merit, '74 and '76; Star of the Republic Museum, Invitational 1978, Museum Purchase Award; National Architects Conference, Dallas 1978; Nave Museum, Victoria, Invitational Exhibit '79, and Owatonna Arts Center, Owatonna, Minn., Invitational exhibit, '79.

She has been commissioned to do works that hang in Sugar's Restaurant, Houston; Blinn College, permanent collection; Struffel Industries, St. Louis, Mo.; Village Commerce Bank, Dallas, and others.

Arrowmont School lies in a valley at the foot of the Great Smoky Mountains. Here in 1912, the Pi Beta Phi Sorority established a Settlement School, later the largest Cottage Weaving Industry in the United States, and the Arrowcraft Shop.

In 1945, Pi Beta Phi and the Department of Crafts, Interior Design and Housing of the College of Home Economics, University of Tennessee at Knoxville, combined forces to offer a summer craft workshop.

These workshops were offered from 1945 to 1970 when the Arrowmont School was established and moved into its new craft building complex containing over 38,000 square feet of floor space.

This Pi Beta Phi project brings learning and developing skills of native arts and crafts into year-round focus. Instructors of this center, accredited by the University of Tennessee, are master craftsmen, and students are of all ages and of every walk of life. Coming from widespread states in this country, and also from other nations, students attend to either broaden present skills or try new skills for the first time.

The new complex adjoins the former Craft Center, bringing the total studios to seven, for works in jewelry, design, recreational crafts, textile decoration, enameling, weaving and ceramics.

Arrowmont's evening program is enriched by many lectures, seminars, programs of slides and movies. Field trips are organized to visit the local craftsmen, the Cherokee Indian craftsmen and the Craftsman's Fair of the Southern Highlands, Asheville, N.C.

You can do repair on brickwork using water

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

It is folly to think you can quickly become a crackerjack bricklayer merely by reading how it is done. But you can do a fairly good job of repairing brickwork which is permitting the entry of water, usually through openings in the mortar joints.

When mortar begins to deteriorate, it starts to chip, crack or flake and leaves gaps in the joints. Water moves into these openings, gets behind the wall or whatever and causes damage. Close those openings with a mortar mix and you can avert almost certain future trouble. While it is possible to make your own mixture, it is better and easier, in such cases, to use a premixed mortar requiring only the addition of water.

The first step is to remove any loose mortar with a hammer and a cold chisel, preferably a bricklayer's chisel if you have one. Use a wire brush or something similar to get rid of the small pieces of old mortar. Hose down the opening and the surrounding bricks.

Apply the mortar mix with a trowel, packing it in well but being careful not to get it on the outside of the brick. Keep a damp cloth ready for instant use if the mortar does get on the brick despite your care. Shape the mortar to match the corresponding joints, using the trowel, a piece of pipe or anything at all that will do the job. If you do even a moderate amount of brickwork, buy a small jointer for this purpose.

so that the patching mixture does not dry out too quickly. Patches that flake and chip after a short period of time are usually the result of too-quick drying.

When a powdery stain, usually white, appears on the surface of brick, it is called efflorescence. The stain is a salt deposit which has been washed to the surface. Before trying to remove it, repair any possible sources of leaks. Usually the efflorescence can be removed by vigorous rubbing with a stiff-bristled brush. When it can't, a chemical treatment is necessary. Locate a brickyard, tell the dealer what your problem is and buy the necessary chemical. Follow the directions carefully, especially those relating to safety precautions.

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much helpful information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

That's all there is to it, except that you should wet down the patch every day for a few days unless rain takes care of it for you. This helps to "cure" the repair — that is, to keep it moist

Study funded on breast milk

HOUSTON (AP) — A 41.4 million federal research grant for analyzing the properties and functions of human breast milk has been awarded a group of Houston scientists.

Dr. R. Rodney Howell, principal grant investigator and chairman of pediatrics at the University of Texas Medical School-Houston, said at least 19 researchers will be involved.

"No one in the world knows if breast milk is the ideal food for all babies or just some babies," Howell said.

Specialist suggests fluorescent lighting

COLLEGE STATION — Whenever practical, use the more efficient fluorescent lights in place of incandescent lamps, suggests a housing and home furnishings specialist.

One 40-watt fluorescent tube provides more light than three incandescent bulbs, yet uses less electricity, reports Pat Seaman with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Sue Schaeffer of Midland has once again published a book, this one titled "Mine to Choose."

"It's mainly a book on choices that high school girls have to make—guidelines to help them on important issues that will affect their entire lives," explained Mrs. Schaeffer.

The wife of the Rev. Raymond Schaeffer who is pastor of Midland's First Assembly of God Church, Mrs. Schaeffer says that she has a special interest in people of all ages, but especially young people.

The book covers 13 topics, including self-acceptance, developing friendships, career options, dating and marriage preparation.

She has also authored two other books, including "Africa is Waiting," a missionary's biography, and "Young Lives of Judah," a story of testimonies from young Christian Jews.

The Schaeffers are new to Midland, having moved here in June of this year from Fort Worth where he was pastor of a church there.

In Fort Worth, she was district director of the Young Women's Auxiliary in the Assembly of God churches.

In working with single girls in 550 churches, she soon realized her special interest in the youth.

"In doing this, I felt that I should help the young girls in my district see their self-worth, try to pull the best out of them and help them find their place in the world," she said. "It seemed to be a very successful project. I saw that the ones I worked with seemed to just be waiting for someone to help them build their self-esteem."

Mrs. Schaeffer said that a couple of chapters in her latest book discuss building a character instead of putting oneself down. "God made all of us special and I feel it is an important project of mine to make these girls feel this."

She has written articles and songs for several years and published skits, plays and programs, all of a religious nature. She has also written television scripts for religious programs, story lines for movies and newspaper articles.

"One thing opens the door to the next," she says. "I love the communication with people."

She believes her serious writing came about as a calling. "It may not sound sophisticated, but I feel so deeply that I was called to write this book," she said. The Schaeffers have two children, both working in the ministry. Gary Schaeffer has traveled 12 years from coast to coast, working primarily in the evangelical field of music.

Their daughter, Donetta Shockley, travels full-time with her husband Don who is an evangelistic minister.

Mrs. Schaeffer's latest book is published by Radiant Books in Springfield, Mo.

Mrs. Raymond Schaeffer was honored with an autograph party recently by members of the First Assembly of God Church. She is author of a paperback book, "Mine to Choose." Her husband is pastor of the church. (Staff photo by Mike Kardos)

Musicians Club has first meeting

The Musicians Club, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, held its opening meeting of the club year in the home of Mrs. Howard W. Parker, 2205 Winfield Road.

The course of study for the year will be based upon a research paper, "A Brief Historical Survey of Music Related to Art" by club member Mrs. William H. Maitland.

The Spring Musical will be presented March 20 with the assistance of the Midland Woman's Club. Mrs. Robert L. Wise will serve as chairman.

A program of music from the Romantic Period was introduced by Mrs. Jerome Codrington, program director. Performers were Mrs. Hans Roweck, Mrs. Robert F. Ward, Bertha S. Jonson, Mrs. Wise, Mrs. Parker, Jane C. Huddleston, Mrs.

Robert A. Steelman and Mrs. Ray Bristol. Club officers were hostesses for a patio luncheon following the program.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Advice is cheap, but not always right

By Family Services of Midland Staff

In this column, we have sometimes tried to explain the difference between giving advice and counseling. Often troubled people who come to Family Service expect the counselor to tell them exactly how to solve their problems. Sometime they are quite disappointed that no instant solutions are forthcoming.

When they really think about the situation, they will probably remember that they have had lots of advice before, from cousins, in-laws, former classmates and possibly the friendly neighborhood bartender (although current surveys show that few people ask the bartender for any advice anymore, except how to mix a good dry martini.)

Some of the advice has been quite specific. "Bill is a bum...you should leave him and get a divorce." "Johnny is spoiled...if you would be stricter with him his grades would improve." "Your mother-in-law is impossible...just tell her where to get off." Other advice has been more general. "Just use your common sense." "If you'll just grin and bear it, things will probably work out all right." And then there is the person who says: "If I were you I would..."

None of this has been very helpful in the past, and it would be even less helpful in the future.

All of the specific advice has probably occurred to the troubled person himself, and for some reason he has not acted on it. All the general advice is not really advice at all. It's a pious thought which may make the advice-giver feel virtuous, but does nothing at all for the person in trouble.

Advice is cheap...but it also can be very expensive. Because there always is a good chance that it's the wrong advice for the person to whom it is given, and that it is followed, anyhow. In that case, the advice-giver may be responsible for an ensuing disaster.

A counselor works differently. He helps the person with a problem to see the problem and himself from new angles, to consider, and possibly to discard, any number of possible solutions.

When a solution is finally arrived at and acted upon, it's the person's own, figured out by himself, adopted by himself and fitted to his own special situation. And because of this, it's probably the right one for him. That, of course, does not mean it's necessarily the right one for the next guy.

Ole Mother Hubbard (Nell Furgeson) and her dog, "Bowie," (Ann Braun), have appeared again at Bowie Elementary School. They are a team looking for Bones For Bowie, which they interpreted as PTA memberships for 1979-80. The two appeared in each classroom distributing posters illustrating the theme for this year... "Fatten Up the PTA." (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

Teacher Night held at Bowie PTA meet

The first general meeting for the Bowie Parent-Teacher Association was held in the cafeteria with special emphasis being "Meet the Teacher Night."

The executive board, officers and chairmen were introduced by Gayle Dodson, PTA president, and Lynne Keys, spiritual and character chairman, read the poem, "Children Learn What They Live."

The PTA unit presented cash awards to Carolyn Sowell's third grade room for having the most parents to attend from the primary grades and to Betty Berry's fifth grade room.

Parent and Family Education (PAFLE) chairman, Janet Foster, announced that Bowie PTA will sponsor a drug abuse program, which will be presented by the Crime Prevention Unit of the Midland Police Dept., in cooperation with representatives from West Texas Teen Challenge. Officer Steve Otto has set the program for Sept. 17, 24 and 27 in the Bowie Cafeteria and the program will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. each day.

It is stressed that a person does not have to have a child in Bowie Elementary School to be able to attend these PAFLE meetings, which are continued sessions. Interested persons are urged to attend all sessions.

Handbook chairman, Rose Billings, announced that the Bowie handbook is in the process of being assembled, and hopefully it will be on sale at the Bowie Halloween carnival. A cover contest is being conducted at this time in the fifth grades. The primary grades competed in last year's contest.

Evelyn Boles, Halloween carnival co-chairman, reported that the 1979 carnival will be held Halloween night, Oct. 31, with the theme "Disco."

There will be a costume parade at 5:30 p.m. to get the carnival underway, said Mrs. Boles.

Parents are reminded that the main purpose in the PTA Halloween carnivals is to promote safety on Halloween night and to give children a central place to gather to have fun on this special occasion.

Janet Foster, first vice-president and projects chairman, announced that the traditional Bowie Spirit Day will continue this year, which is the wearing of the school colors, red and white, every Friday. She pointed out that Bowie T-shirts will be on sale soon.

A special guest of the Tuesday meeting was "Bowie," the bulldog! Membership chairman, Ann Braun, made an appearance dressed as the school's mascot, promoting the theme, "Bones For Bowie...Fatten Up the PTA", for the membership drive. The state membership drive will continue through Oct. 15. If any PTA members have not joined PTA this year, they are urged to do so today...or tomorrow.

Frank Marlow, Bowie principal, welcomed the parents and announced dates for Public School Week before adjourning the meeting to the classrooms to meet the teachers.

Public Schools Week will be Oct. 1-5 and Bowie will observe the special week by encouraging visitors to visit the school during the week and also with having open house in the classrooms on two special nights. Primary grades will be Monday, Oct. 1, and fifth grades will be Thursday, Oct. 4. On these nights, the teachers will give an outline of the curriculum and activities for the year.

Lost luggage

By ERMA BOMBECK

There isn't a person who takes a trip out of the country who doesn't live in dreaded fear of the LL Experience...Lost Luggage.

I have been on trips where poor devils have been two days ahead of their luggage for the entire trip. You try not to notice the ring around their collar/cuffs/waistbands/hems. You try to feign joy when they show you their newly-purchased toothbrush and dental floss. You are tactful when they squirm uncomfortably in damp underwear that didn't dry during the night.

We have just returned from a trip out of which columns are made. We flew from Phoenix to Los Angeles and our luggage was there. We flew to the Fiji Islands and our luggage was there. We flew to Sydney, Australia, and our luggage was there. Sydney to Perth and it was still with us. From Perth we flew to Adelaide and witnessed yet another miracle.

From Adelaide we shot up to Brisbane and were confirmed believers in the airlines. From Brisbane to Melbourne, our luggage once again appeared.

From Melbourne to Sydney was a piece of cake as our four pieces of yellow luggage came tumbling off the conveyer belt FIRST, no less.

We wavered a bit when we flew from Sydney to Port Moresby, Papua New Guinea, but lo and behold, there it was. From Port Moresby to Madang, from Madang to Goroko and back again to Port Moresby and Sydney, we watched in absolute disbelief as the Bombeck luggage whirled around the carousel.

We watched it being loaded on the flight to Auckland, New Zealand, so its arrival was no surprise. But we knew we were pushing the odds as we breathlessly awaited its arrival in Wellington.

It arrived, but we were worried. We were trying for the Guinness Book of Records and we knew it. I even rechecked my tags with the airline to make sure he had our next stop, Rotorua, but he did and they did and we were ecstatic.

We flew to Auckland and our luggage was there.

We flew to Los Angeles and our luggage was there...bring the total exchange to 18.

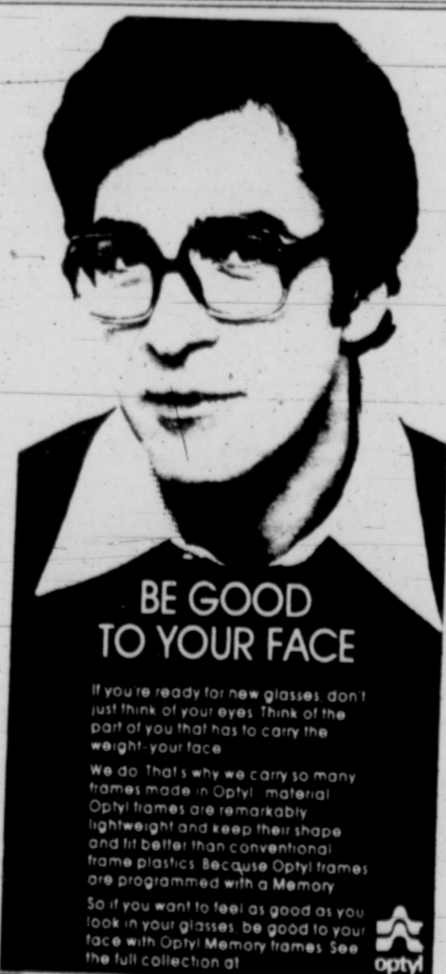

We flew to Phoenix. They lost our luggage.

Women communicators to hear Lynda Bird

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Lynda Bird Robb, chairman of the President's Advisory Committee for Women, will address the national meeting of Women in Communications Inc. Sept. 27-30 in Dallas, the organization announced Thursday.

Mrs. Robb is daughter of the late President Lyndon Johnson and wife of Lt. Gov. Charles Robb of Virginia.

Other speakers will include NBC television correspondent Jessica Sawitch and Kate Rand Lloyd, editor-in-chief of Working Woman Magazine.

Hart seated the guests.

After a reception in the home of the bride's parents, the couple left on a wedding trip. The newlyweds will live in Midland.

QUINLAN-DAVIS

HOUSTON — Suzanne Quinlan of Garland and Benjamin Daniel Davis of Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Davis Sr., 1501 W. Pine St., Midland, exchanged wedding vows at 2 p.m. Saturday in All Saints Church here.

The Rev. Ted Bartninski officiated the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Quinlan of Houston. Honor attendants were Linda Quinlan of Kingsville, sister of the bride and maid of honor, and John Edward Davis Jr. of Austin, who served his brother as best man.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Sullivan of Plano and Mrs. Joseph Hughes of Dallas, sister of the bride. Pat Quinlan of Lake Charles, La., served his brother as usher, along with G.P. Pearson II of Austin.

Groomsmen were Peter LaCrosse of Houston and Robert Cottrell of Aransas Pass.

After a wedding trip to British Isles, the couple will make their home in Garland at 1513 Douglas St.

Attorneys get more time to continue search

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Attorneys have been given more time to search for 17 Alabama blacks owed $250,000 by the federal government because they were used as unsuspecting guinea pigs in a syphilis study. U.S. Circuit Judge

Frank M. Johnson Jr. originally had set Sept. 18 as the deadline for locating the participants, but in an order released Wednesday he extended the deadline to Dec. 18.

A suit was filed in behalf of 600 poor, uneducated blacks who took part in the federal study, which began in 1932 and was disclosed in 1972. The suit was settled out of court in 1974 for a total of $9 million in damages, and most participants, or their heirs, were paid off — except the 17 who are still being traced.

Mark Columbus Day with rich Sherry Cake

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine And Food Writer

Many of our holidays are linked to some food drink, like ham for Easter or champagne for New Year. Why not one for Columbus Day?

The discovery of America is observed each October not only in the United States and parts of Canada, but also several Latin American republics.

It would seem logical to commemorate the exploit of Christopher Columbus with sherry wine, which is made in Spain. Historians tell us that the famous mariner carried casks of Sherris Sack, an early name for sherry, on his voyages and became known among other things as first importer of the classic wine to the New World. It was believed in those days not only that sherry improved in quality on long voyages but also that it had medicinal qualities.

Sherry was closely linked to the early era of this country, long after Columbus made his discoveries. George Washington served the fortified wine at Mount Vernon, and Thomas Jefferson brought back enough from abroad to stock a cellar.

For a Columbus Day dinner with Spanish overtones, try Cocido Espanol, a robust stew containing beef brisket, chorizo sausages, chick peas and assorted vegetables. It can be accompanied with a mixed green salad and topped off with a rich Cream Sherry Cake. Here's a recipe for it.

cake-mix box. Pour batter into greased and floured 12-cup tube pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 50 minutes.

GLAZE
1/2 cup Cream Sherry
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup water

Put ingredients into heavy saucepan. Cook over medium heat, till sugar dissolves. Bring to boil and let boil 30 seconds. When cake is done, remove from oven, cool in pan on cake rack 10 minutes. Pour glaze over cake while it is still in pan and let cake absorb it 10 minutes. Turn cake onto serving dish and serve warm or cold.

your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, September 16, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Employment outlook is bright. You should remain in good health this year. Being flexible may help you come through a tight money situation in good style. Acting on impulse could cause setbacks in business, but may prove advantageous in romance this year. Marriage may be in future if single. Travel could be less productive than anticipated.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Vision of mate, partner helps you to see beyond possible obstacle in your path. Social activity may increase. Romance could develop suddenly as results of last minute invitation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Show appreciation of family ties. Friend could play predominant role today. Picnic in living room or park could enliven day's activities. Do not be drawn into activities which drains your cash reserves. Hobby may provide pleasant diversion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Standing with older family members may rise. Suggestion by spouse could upset your plans, but end result will leave you happy. Romance favored. Visit with person who may be ill, confined.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Morning message has special meaning and is prelude to enjoyable day. Behind-the-scenes support will arouse your enthusiasm for a creative venture. Fortunately, you can mix business with pleasure later today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): This is a day for being with those you love. Family members will applaud your plans. Popularity is at peak during late afternoon. Best relationship is likely your mate or romantic partner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Travel may be frustrating due to Sunday traffic. Be sure alternatives are included in social plans so that all family members are happy. Romance and courtship could be at mercy of caprice. Watch your step!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Home life should be happy and serene. Be certain you take care of correspondence to distant friend. In late afternoon, neighborhood meeting may get your attention. You may be asked to become a leader.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good day to catch up on some needed sleep. Eat lightly and avoid social activities that may sap your energy. Truth is difficult to find in maze of gossip and rumors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Travel and education are important to today's plan. Avoid taking narrow view of differences which divide family members. Mate, partner may be prejudiced. Change of scenery may increase happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may get a second wind as result of changes taking place now. Take advantage of any new opportunities. Rely on your own observations of situation rather than input from others. Find time for relaxation, romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hobby may provide creative outlet for your ideas, energies. You successfully face challenge. Be careful of or you might accidentally hurt or inflict injury on one who cares for you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A relationship may end. Do not be overcome with desire. What happens may not be your fault. Devote energies to building new, more lasting ties with someone who shares your interests, ideals.

Monday, September 17, 1979
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Progress may be slow, but benefits will be long-lasting in year ahead. Financial affairs are due for a lift. Employment situation could be unsettled at times but overall results will be satisfactory. Attention to diet should keep you feeling fine. Avoid impulsive love matches. Romance may deepen and happy times occur.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Better performance may be demanded now. You will be able to rise to the occasion. Be sure that individual who makes promises has the financial backing to make them come true. Romance is underplayed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be yourself and let others know where you stand on important issue. You may need to exercise more restraint when it comes to spending on wardrobe. Be practical and end results will make you happy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A wish may be fulfilled. You may get green light for pet project. Permit others pride in their views. Put off travel plans; it would be wasting money to go away now. Treasure memory of someone who is far away. Romance flowers.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Avoid gambling or speculation. Concentrate on routine matters. Diplomacy and finesse may be required to correct a personal problem. Best relationship may be with an older person.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Most mental and manual aptitudes are well-suited to prevailing trends. Travel and self-improvement are indicated this morning. Home life may not run smoothly. Use more tact with mate and things should improve.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Others may feel that you need to be more strongly motivated. Show them by responding to challenge. Weigh all possibilities before making life choice. You are your own best friend. Take care of yourself and health will improve.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Fine day for shopping for hard-to-find items. Emphasize diet, exercise to keep mentally, physically alert. In the evening refrain from finding fault with young people, especially in public.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You can accomplish more by being unobtrusive. Avoid asking superiors for extra favors. Physical exercise can be a wonderful outlet for pent-up feelings. Social affair is stimulating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A hobby or artistic project could give you great satisfaction. Versatility could increase earnings. Avoid confrontation at work and at home by being more tactful.

Another person's point of view will give you a good perspective.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Today is good time for completing difficult chores. A door will open to you but you will have to take the initiative. An important decision will require changes but will increase the possibility of higher earnings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Maintain your own style; cultivate latent talents. Health is good but worrying about it may increase tension. Atmosphere at home is cheerful. News from an old friend will brighten your day!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be more alert to changes going on around you. You may need more time to complete pet project. Someone may unintentionally mislead you, rely on your intuition. Chance meeting at social event can be beneficial.

CORNER

By MARILYN
DYER

The "quality of life" in your new home often boils down to how well your heating and cooling systems work and whether or not the plumbing is in good repair. Nothing can be more important than the basics, and that applies to the neighborhood and city as well.

In this context, I would like to congratulate the City of Midland on its system of trash and garbage disposal. The Dempsey Dumpsters are the most cleanly and efficient method of refuse collection and removal that we have ever experienced in any city of any size—anywhere. It is relatively inexpensive and eliminates the rat problem and the possibility of animals marauding the garbage cans at night.

IT ALSO HAS ENDLESS possibilities for socializing with your neighbors, but it can present possible anti-social possibilities if you happen to be a beer drinker in a neighborhood of non-drinkers. The smartest thing you can do is "bag" your offerings to maintain anonymity.

Our neighborhood has a gang of pint-size Big Wheel riders who occasionally go on wild forays up and down the sidewalk at 7:30 a.m. on Saturday or Sunday. For some strange reason, one of those plastic monsters turned up in the dumpster. We beg innocence, but it was interesting in that none of the families using that particular one have children that age.

WATER IS ANOTHER BASIC that does not come out so well on the evaluation. Only a few weeks of salty coffee and salty orange juice sent us to the bottled water merchants. The really smart people would buy stock in the bottled water companies because it is used and needed all over the country.

Our water in the Chicago area was so full of iron that turning on the morning shower was a trial of intestinal fortitude because it smelled of iron sulphide. Yuk. Another difficulty was that it immediately turned a perfectly good bourbon drink a disgusting, dark gray color. People admitted using smoke-colored glasses to camouflage it.

The water we drank in the suburbs of St. Louis was from the Missouri River, but downtown they used the Mississippi. I once heard Arthur Godfrey report that Mississippi River water had already passed through 80 human beings before it reached St. Louis. That didn't even include the fact that the South St. Paul stockyards flush their pens into the Mississippi. So you see, we can't complain about a little salt in the water!

I can finally understand the stories, though, about early settlers drilling for water and being disappointed when they struck oil.

Newcomers Club to meet Thursday

The Newcomers Club of Midland will meet in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity Thursday for a "Salad Bar Luncheon."

Each woman will have her favorite salad and recipe. Following the luncheon, a style show will be presented by The Gazebo.

Registration will start at 11 a.m. Reservations should be made by Tuesday. Call 694-7428.

Weddings

CANTER-SNOWDY

St. Ann's Catholic Church was the setting for the 5 p.m. marriage Saturday of Lisa Lynn Canter and Samuel Mark Snowdy.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lora M. Canter and Roger E. Canter of Midland. Mr. and Mrs. Sam H. Snoddy, 2602 McClintic, are the parents of the bridegroom.

Dayna Kirk of Dallas was matron of honor and Scott Welmaker of Midland was best man.

Bridesmaids were Pat Ketter of Denver and LaWana DeWees of Martindale. Groomsmen were Mark Price of Columbia, Mo., and Mike Popejoy of Midland. Seating the guests were Blake Yarborough, Joe Matejek, Jeff Lupardus and Bill Kirby.

A rehearsal dinner was held in the couple's honor in the Mirror Room at Ranchland Hills Country Club.

Mrs. Samuel Mark Snowdy

Mrs. Jeffrey Shawn Davis

ROGERS-DAVIS

Vicky Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Rogers, Midland, was married to Jeffrey Shawn Davis, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Clarke Davis of Winchester, Va., at 8 p.m. Friday in Memorial Christian Church.

The Rev. John Long officiated.

Martha Gilbert of Dallas, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Liz White of Oklahoma City, Okla., was the bridesmaid. Stephanie Rogers, sister-in-law of the bride, was the bridesmatron. Also Jan

Goree of Uvalde and Randy Molinare of Austin.

The father of the bridegroom was the best man. The groomsmen were Clarke Davis of Birmingham, Ala., brother of the bridegroom; Dr. Dan White of Ft. Smith, Ark., Jimmy Swiggett and John Schroth of Winchester. Ushers were Bill Rogers, brother of the bride; Terry Gilbert of Dallas brother-in-law of the bride, and Bobby Giffin of Atlanta, Ga.

After a trip to the Caribbean, the couple will reside in Winchester.

Abortion suit is dismissed

HOUSTON (AP) — A suit seeking to keep a Houston woman from having an abortion was dismissed by a state district judge who said an unborn child in early stages of development has no rights as a person.

District Judge William Kilgarlin predicted this week following the ruling that the U.S. Supreme Court would be hearing an appeal of the decision in the future.

Kilgarlin said the 19-year-old woman seeking the abortion who was identified only as Jane Doe was entitled to have it.

In a related action earlier Wednesday, Harris County Probate Judge Bill Bear dissolved a Sept. 4 order granting temporary guardianship of the woman's 10-week-old fetus to Eileen Brady, a right-to-life advocate.

The suit heard by Kilgarlin was filed by Ms. Brady.

Bear said he had granted the temporary guardianship so "everyone involved" would have a chance for a full hearing in the case.

"My earlier decision had nothing to do with religious or moral issues, but was merely a matter of law," he said.

Bear dissolved his order following a meeting behind closed doors with attorneys for both sides. The conference followed the filing of an action by Jane Doe contesting the appointment of Ms. Brady as temporary guardian.

After his decision, Kilgarlin said he could have refused to hear Ms. Brady's suit, because it appeared to him that she had no legal right to file the action.

"Eileen Brady has no more personal stake in the outcome of this controversy than does any other citizen," he said in court. "But this is a controversy that is ultimately going to have to be decided by the highest court in the land."

Altrusa launches its fall season

Altrusa Club of Midland Inc. held its first regular meeting of the fall season this week in the Midland Hilton.

In business, alternates were named to attend the District Nine Conference to be held in Austin in October. They are Beverly Dyer, Laverne Saunders and Lois Hearne. Clair Krizov was named to attend as delegate in place of Anne Kendall. Also attending will be Shannon Anastasian of the Hilton and Jan Reeder, Chamber of Commerce, to promote Midland as a future conference site.

Roberta Wornall, vocational services chairman, announced plans for another Linen Basket. Beverly Dyer, community services chairman, reported that Crime Check block parties will begin soon. Volunteers for Banana Bingo at the Midland Care Center are needed for Monday nights. She also announced that Astra, an Altrusa-sponsored service organization for teenage girls has received its Midland charter.

The club will hold its next regular meeting Sept. 27 at the Midland Hilton.

Shell Oil boss reports search under way for refueling stop

HOUSTON (AP) — John F. Bookout says the nation must begin a journey toward a more secure energy future.

"We are looking for the refueling stop for the nation in the 21st century," said Bookout, president of Shell Oil Co.

"It's not a journey measured in miles and distance, but one measured in time. We must move from an era, where oil and gas have been plentiful and have fueled our economy, to a new era, where we must get most of our energy from raw materials in other forms."

To reach the refueling stop destination, Bookout said, there is need for a map, a compass, and a fuel gauge.

"At this point, however, we have problems," he said. "First of all, we're floundering for a sense of direction. We don't have the road map. And the compass can't find true north. Perhaps the needle has been magnetized by shifting political policies."

Bookout said there also is need for the nation to agree on what its fuel gauge is reading.

"Many politicians seem to feel our 'tank' of oil and gas is on empty. But there is much more oil and gas yet to be found in the United States. As much again as we have used to date. And we must get on with finding it now."

Bookout said the nation, every day, consumes 19 million barrels of oil for heating homes, driving cars, running factories, generating electricity.

To meet such demand, he added, the nation must import 8.5 million barrels of oil a day in that domestic production accounts for only 10.5 million a day.

"Our jobs, our businesses, our economy, our lifestyle depend on these imports and we depend therefore on the nations that provide them," Bookout said.

But he said, there is no way to control how much oil those nations, primarily members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, will make available.

"That is the root of our problem," Bookout said. "The solution in simple and stark terms is reduce dependence on foreign oil. And the reduction of dependence on foreign oil is quite simply two things, boost domestic production and conserve energy vigorously."

Bookout said he is concerned that President Carter's energy program does not focus sufficiently on the supply problems of the next two decades.

Answers to such problems, he said, involve realistic energy conservation, imaginative use of alternatives to imported oil, and vigorous development of domestic oil and gas.

Bookout said potential supply contracts for natural gas from Mexico and Canada should be finalized promptly and the nation must use its abundant coal resources more extensively.

"As a nation, we must face the problems which have inhibited greater use of coal — environmental concerns, transport problems, plant siting — and deal with them decisively," he said.

On nuclear power, Bookout said the nation must learn from the Three Mile Island experience.

"But we must go forward from it and not retreat in fear," he said.

Bookout said many of the areas where domestic supplies of oil and gas can be found have been posted by the government and are off limits to the oil and gas industry.

"There is a new term creeping into the oilman's vocabulary, 'icebox,'" he said.

"The term refers to a governmental policy which keeps putting more and more land into storage 'safe' from development of any kind. These lands range from Alaska to the Rockies to the Midwest, from onshore to offshore."

Bookout said some of the areas which have been declared off limits by leasing policy, regulation or court blockage could add to domestic supplies very quickly.

As an example, he listed court action by environmentalists in Michigan's Pigeon River area where Shell has had leases and permits to drill a number of wells.

"Pigeon River may contain about 20 million barrels of oil," Bookout said. "We could begin producing that energy in months, not years."

PI data shows domestic drilling trend reversed

DENVER, Colo. — The decline in the rate of domestic drilling for oil and gas has been reversed, Petroleum Information reports.

Well completions during July and August outnumbered those in the same two months of last year, the company said.

At the midyear, well completions were nearly six percent behind the first half of 1978. By the end of August, completions were only three percent behind last year.

Petroleum Information noted that if the present rate of drilling continues through the balance of the year, the total for this year will exceed that of 1978.

Through August 29,528 completions have been recorded. This compares with 30,435 at the same time a year ago. But the July and August totals was 7,586 compared with 7,166 in the same two months of last year.

This increase of 5.9 percent, if maintained, would project a total of 48,888 completions for the entire year.

Footage totals increased, reflecting the increased drilling rate. Total footage cut for the first eight months ran 146.4 million ft. compared to 145.2 million ft. for the same period in 1978. Average depth of all wells completed through August, 1979 was 4,959 ft., 188 ft. deeper than the same period last year. New field wildcats averaged 310 ft. deeper and exploratory wells in and near existing fields averaged 265 ft. deeper than 1978.

All drilling categories have increased success rates for the first eight months of 1979. New field exploration was 19.3 percent successful, up from 17.9 percent a year ago. Other exploration was 50.4 percent successful, up from 47.9 percent. Total drilling enjoyed a 66.9 percent success rate, up from 66.6 percent in the same period in 1978.

Texas evidences the July-August turnaround best. At the end of June, there were 474 fewer well completions in the state than through mid-1978. By the end of August, the state's total of 10,564 wells represented only 91 fewer wells than the same period of 1978.

California drilling dropped 811 completions behind last year's total; the lag may reflect the state's stringent air quality regulations. So far 897 wells have been completed this year.

The northeastern states: Illinois and Indiana—down 156; Pennsylvania—down 113; and New York—down 112; accounted for substantial drops in drilling. Louisiana had the largest numeric gain over 1978, up 170 wells to 2,547.

Other states with large gains include: Oklahoma—up 155; Kansas—up 121; West Virginia—up 85; and Montana—up 55.

Report says DOE worsened shortage

BY ROBERT A. ROSENBLATT
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Unprepared for last winter's Iranian oil cutoff, the Energy Department acted in a "fragmented" manner, issued contradictory statements, and may have worsened the gasoline shortage with its complex regulations, the General Accounting Office said Thursday.

In a sharply critical report, the GAO, an investigative arm of Congress, said that the department has done little to plan for energy emergencies. It called for the creation of a comprehensive blueprint to deal with energy emergencies, and a better system of identifying where the gasoline is — at the refinery, or in the tanks of wholesalers or service stations.

The Energy Department had no immediate comment on the report, which was titled "Iranian Oil Cutoff: Reduced Petroleum Supplies and Inadequate U.S. Government Response."

Iran stopped exporting oil in late December and didn't resume sales until March. The United States suffered a net loss of 600,000 barrels daily, approximately 3 percent of the nation's total oil consumption.

However, "the loss of Iranian oil does not fully explain the gas lines which were evident this summer," the GAO report said.

The 3 percent shortage of crude oil for the nation was followed by reductions as high as 20 percent in the supply of gasoline available to motorists. The cutbacks varied among oil companies.

Further reductions in gasoline supplies may have been caused by Energy Department rules that required setting aside some fuel for certain high priority users, the GAO said. The agency is conducting a separate inquiry to determine if there was hoarding of gasoline, or abuses by high priority customers, or by the wholesalers who supply them.

A mysterious drop in U.S. crude oil production also contributed to the tight supply situation earlier this year, the GAO noted. Oil production normally falls in the cold weather period between October and January, but the reduction last winter was greater than in any of the previous four years, the GAO said.

The American Petroleum Institute has cited bad weather as the cause of the unusual production decline. But the GAO said that temperatures in many of the oil-producing areas were the same or higher this winter than the year before.

The GAO found these other factors contributing to the severity of the gasoline shortage:

— Several major international oil companies cut their supplies to all countries by the same amount, a policy that drained additional oil away from the United States and benefited European nations. One big company, for example, cut its U.S. affiliate's supplies by 101,000 barrels daily, although the company formerly imported only 31,000 barrels daily of Iranian oil.

Oil companies that normally exchanged Iranian crude for other oil to bring into the United States were suddenly deprived of supplies.

The GAO chided the Energy Department for failing to give Congress and the public any "credible, convincing explanations of the status of gasoline, diesel fuel and home heating oil supplies."

The Energy Department had outdated information, relied heavily on oil industry figures, and had virtually no information about supplies held by wholesalers and distributors, who handle about 45 percent of all gasoline, the GAO said.

Basin rotary drilling shows 8-unit increase

Drilling activity in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico, as recorded by Reed Rock Bit Co., showed an increase of eight from the previous week with 279 rigs reported making hole.

The survey counted 271 rigs in the two-state area last week and also a year ago at this time the Reed survey counted 271 rigs.

Lea County, N.M., reported an increase of one and 33 rigs turning to the right.

Eddy County kept second place on the survey with 27 rigs, having decreased activity by three from the previous weeks tally.

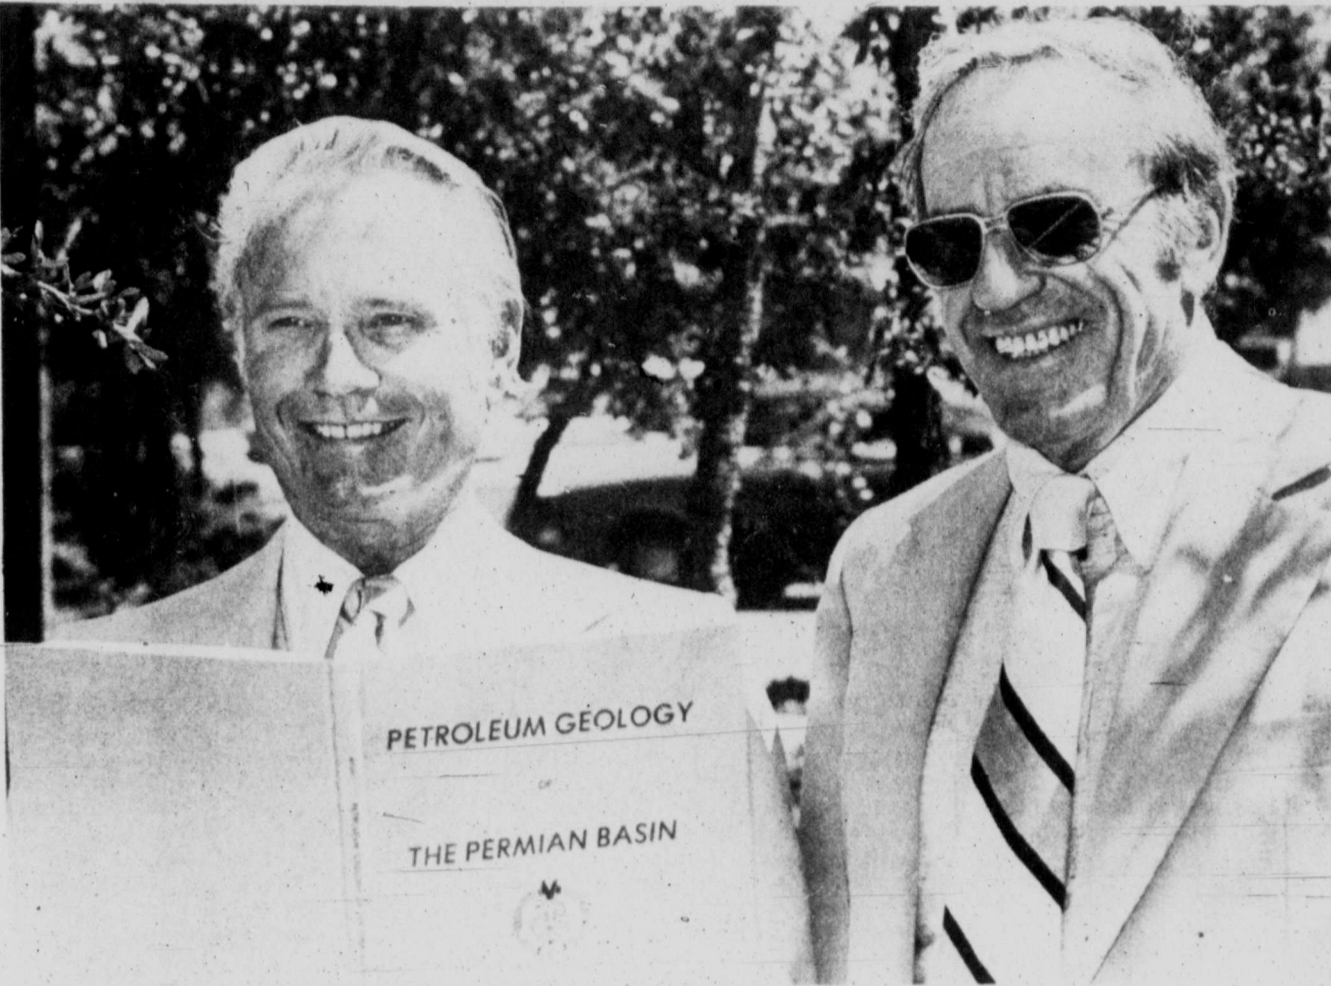

Pecos County, the West Texas leader, reported an increase of five operations and a total of 20 units at work.

Crockett County also picked up activity with 16 rigs making hole, while Ward and Andrews counties each reported 13 rigs. The previous weeks tally also showed Ward and Andrews counties with 13 rigs.

Howard and Coke counties each reported a gain of two units as Howard County showed 11 and Coke with 10.

Laboratory organized

COLLEGE STATION — A coal and lignite research laboratory has been organized at Texas A&M University for a team attack to develop energy from those sources in Texas.

The lignite and coal-related research experience of 50 Texas A&M faculty members led to the lab's formation.

Four major lignite properties are in production, under development or in active exploration within 50 miles of College Station. Lignite is even found under the campus, which is in the middle of a broad band of lignite-bearing formations that extend from Texarkana to southwest of San Antonio.

The lab was approved as a unit of the center for Energy and Mineral Resources by Texas A&M's Board of Regents. Directing the lab is Dr. Earl R. Hoskins, on joint appointment at Texas A&M with the center, geophysics and petroleum and mining engineering departments.

Neely to talk to engineers

A. Buford Neely, staff production engineer for Shell Oil Co. in Midland, will address the Permian Basin section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME Wednesday.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Petroleum Club of Midland.

Neely's talk will be on "Artificial Lift — State of the Art."

Neely will review the history of artificial lift and discuss the developments that have led to the current lift methods. He will review the advantages and limitations of gas lift, sucker rod, hydraulic, and electrical submersible pumping.

He has worked in petroleum production in Texas, Colorado, New York and Holland. He is a graduate of Duke University with a B.S. degree in Mechanical Engineering.

Accounts set program

Bob Madison, director of communications and membership for the Permian Basin Petroleum Association in Midland, will be the speaker at the Petroleum Accountants Association meeting Wednesday at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

The meeting will get underway at 8 p.m. Madison's topic will be "Why the Windfall Profits Tax Is Not Needed."

Madison has been with the PBPA a year. Prior to joining the association, he was news director at KMD-TV in Midland and KOSA-TV in Odessa.

DOE seeks coal money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department says it will ask Congress to provide money for two demonstration projects for converting high-sulfur coal into clean-burning fuels.

The two demonstration plants, at Newman, Ky., and Morgantown, W.Va., would convert 6,000 tons of coal to the equivalent of 20,000 barrels of oil a day.

Fed's efforts under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bureaucratic efforts to stay on top of energy production and management are coming under fire from several sources who say the government should leave well enough alone.

A new energy study, by the nonprofit research organization Resources for the Future, said Wednesday that energy costs seem certain to rise in the next 20 years and government efforts to control prices may make matters worse.

The report recommended letting market forces set energy prices, arguing this would be more efficient than government intervention. It said if prices rise to reflect the market value of dwindling oil supplies, demand will be reduced and the development of other resources stimulated.

"Higher energy costs will hurt, but if properly managed, need not seriously threaten the health of the world's economy," the report said. "It is a dangerous misconception to believe that government can somehow provide dependable, clean, and plentiful energy cheaply."

The report also concluded: —Contingency programs should be developed to cope with anticipated supply interruptions and price fluctuations.

—The hidden costs of imported oil, such as dependency and foreign trade imbalances, may justify expensive import-reducing measures.

—Energy conservation, "often the cleanest, quickest and cheapest way" to deal with rising energy costs, should be encouraged worldwide.

—Technological advances cannot prevent increased energy prices, and should be aimed at developing alternative energy resources.

Meanwhile, a top U.S. oil executive at a world oil conference in Bucharest, Romania, said Wednesday a "bunch of amateurs" in the Carter administration are threatening petroleum supplies with policies aimed at winning votes in the 1980 presidential election.

John E. Swearingin, chief executive of Standard Oil of Indiana and board chairman of the American Petroleum Institute, said oil companies could provide the nation with all the gas and oil it needs if the government left the industry alone. 61n yet another confrontation between industry and government, the Interior Department's awarding of federal oil and gas leases at Fort Chaffee, Ark., has prompted congressional outcry and calls from department officials for changes in the law.

The 10-year leases, for 33,749 acres of land in an area surrounded by active wells, were granted at $1 an acre to the Texas Oil and Gas Corp., without competitive bids.

Under the law, the first qualified applicant is entitled to a lease without competitive bidding if the land does not fall within a "known geological structure" of a producing oil or gas field. Department geologists have defended that classification for the Arkansas field.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said the leases may be worth $10 million and said the firm took advantage of the "ineptness of bureaucracy ... Every oil and gas man in Arkansas would give his eye teeth to bid on those 33,000 acres."

Guy Martin, assistant interior secretary for land and water resources, said the leases were proper under existing regulations.

"We are nevertheless disturbed by the result," he said, adding that the department already has proposed changes in the law that would require competitive bids in most such cases.

Charles E. Moon joins Ortloff

Charles E. Moon has joined the Midland Division of The Ortloff Corp. as a project manager, announced G. W. Rashall, manager of proposals and projects for the division.

Moon has 26 years of project management, engineering, and process design experience in the gas processing, refining, and offshore production industries.

In his new position, Moon is responsible for the management of engineering and construction activities for Ortloff projects. He also is responsible for liaison with clients, as well as proposal coordination efforts.

Moon received his B. S. degree in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Tulsa.

Prior to joining Ortloff, Moon was a project manager with World Wide Construction Services, Inc.

He is a member of Instrument Society of America, and co-author of a patent for a meter measuring chamber design.

SPE to hold noon meeting

The Midland SPE Operations Study Group will hold a luncheon meeting at 11:30 a.m., Monday, at the American Legion Hall on Airport Road.

This will be the first meeting of the group for the 1979-80 season.

Guest speaker will be Joe Chastain with the Artificial Lift Efficiency School located in Midland.

Chastain's presentation will be on the use and interpretation of dynamometer cards.

Application report made

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission's Well Classification Section reported that, as of Sept. 7, oil and gas operators have filed 13,323 applications for new determinations of gas well production and pricing categories under the federal Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

The Commission initiated the well classification program last December pursuant to NGPA mandate and guidelines set forth by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

Through Sept. 4, the Commission had approved 2,337 applications for the requested NGPA producing and pricing categories, according to the section report. Four applications have been denied.

With new discovery, small savers invest in market funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having discovered a new way to earn high interest, small savers are investing in money market funds at a "phenomenal" pace and thereby creating a severe threat to savings institutions, says the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency.

Since the beginning of this year, money market funds have grown from $11 billion to $30 billion and may reach $60 billion by the end of 1979, John Heimann said Thursday.

These funds allow savers to deposit as little as $1,000 and receive an interest currently hovering at about 10 percent, nearly double the rate allowed for passbook savings accounts. Money market funds are different from money market certificates offered by savings institutions. Those certificates require minimum deposits of $10,000.

The growing competition with conventional savings institutions is bound to get even tougher because of a recent decision by the Securities and Exchange Commission to allow more advertising of these funds, Heimann told the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

"Until now, investor knowledge and understanding of money market funds has been extremely limited," Heimann said. "Advertising is certain to increase understanding."

"Furthermore, the money market certificate, by increasing depositor interest sensitivity, has set the stage for depositor acceptance of money market funds as an alternative to traditional deposit accounts," he said. The savings industry is being pummeled by a series of economic events that threaten its survival, many economists agree.

Mutual savings banks, for example, have experienced a $2.4 billion outflow of funds from April through July, said Saul B. Klamann, president of the mutual savings bank association.

Heimann said the industry must take rapid steps to adjust to the greater competition for depositors and the skyrocketing inflation that increases short-term interest rates.

He repeated Carter administration calls for phase-out of Regulation Q, which imposes a ceiling on the interest rates savings institutions can offer passbook savers.

Many savings bank officials favor Regulation Q because it lets thrift institutions pay savers one quarter of one percent more than competing commercial banks.

However, Heimann said that while Regulation Q can afford protection in the short-run, "it is a strategy which virtually guarantees the erosion of thrift institutions" in the long run.

He said thrift institutions will have to become one-stop, full-service banks, a concept gaining growing acceptance in the savings industry. Many money market funds not only offer higher interest for small deposits, but also provide checking services and advice on other investment opportunities.

Looking for flexibility, good wages and benefits but don't want to be tied down? Kelly Services is THE way to go! Call Donna Pollard, the Midland Kelly Supervisor at 682-9748, or visit the new Kelly office at Suite 3-B in the Imperial Shopping Center, 3211 W. Wadley.

Going back to work? Come to Kelly Services

Thinking about going back to work now that the last of the kids has started school?

A lot of people think about rejoining the work force but aren't sure whether they really want to cope with the inflexibility of a full time job to begin with. And it is kind of hard to go back when you haven't worked in a while. You remember everything you did "back when," but you aren't really sure how fast you can do it any more, or even whether the way you did it then is the way it's done now.

For thousands of women and men across the nation, becoming a Kelly Services employee is the ideal solution to the problems of returning to the business world. Kelly Services is an international temporary help company with more than 400 local offices in the United States alone, so almost anywhere you go, you can go Kelly. And Kelly is one of the oldest temporary services in the nation; they have the experience to evaluate your skills so you can get the job best suited to you, and the reputation to ensure that there are plenty of jobs to keep you busy.

When you work for Kelly, you are KELLY'S employee, although you work at other companies' offices and help them in conducting their businesses. Since it isn't an employment agency, you never pay a fee. Kelly pays your salary, the necessary taxes and unemployment insurance, and also bonds and insures you. Kelly also gives you up to four pay raises per year, and is the only national temporary help service of offer PAID vacations.

Additionally, Kelly can offer you both a wide variety of assignments and an incredibly flexible schedule. Because each Kelly office serves hundreds of companies in its area, there are many different types of assignments, from clerical and secretarial to marketing or inventory work. And the assignments last varying lengths of time, from less than a day up to several months — it's up to you. All you need to do is specify to your Kelly Supervisor the general length of assignment you prefer. If you need some time off, just make sure you tell your Kelly Supervisor in advance so she will know what dates you won't be available.

There's another reason to work for Kelly if you're entering or re-entering the job market, you can re-evaluate as frequently as you like as your skills are sharpened on the job. The level of assignments you are offered is raised as your skills improve, and it's a fantastic way to increase your confidence and current experience. With Kelly, you can go as far as you like, as fast as you can.

As a member of the Kelly Services work force, you'll have prestige, pay and benefits offered by no other temporary service. If you move, chances are there will be a Kelly office near your new location. You get a wide variety of assignments to choose from, and you can work when and as much as you like.

Isn't it about time YOU considered a career with Kelly?

Major banks raising prime rates to unprecedented levels

NEW YORK (AP) — In the past two weeks, major American banks have quickly raised their prime lending rates to unprecedented levels — as high as 13 percent. What effect this has on borrowers depends on who is doing the borrowing.

The prime lending rate itself applies to very few borrowers — the most financially solid giant corporations, such as General Motors Corp., Exxon Corp. or American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

But changes in the prime are followed closely by Americans in all walks of life and are widely reported by the media as important news. Here are some questions and answers that will help explain the importance of the prime and its effect.

Q. How does the prime rate fit in with a loan to a mand for credit by business in general? A. The prime is the base from which banks figure the interest rate they will charge for any short-term corporate loan. Short-term means the loan is for a year or less.

Q. What about interest rates on consumer loans?

A. They are much more stable than the prime. Factors that push the prime rate up or down eventually trickle down to the consumer credit part of banking, but the reaction is to expand or contract the amount of credit granted rather than adjust the interest rate. Rates on consumer loans already have hit statutory limits in many states.

Q. What happens to consumer loan rates when the prime climbs so high?

A. Eventually, banks are going to show what Larry Kudlow, analyst at Bear, Stearns & Co., calls the "crowding-out effect." Banks will be lending what they can to businesses at the higher rates. Consumers will be crowded out of the borrowing window.

Q. Is the prime the basis for rates on other types of loans?

A. Yes. The personal loan rate is based on the prime. But these loans are not the consumer-installment loans with which most Americans are familiar. An individual who wants a short-term loan in order to make an investment, perhaps to speculate in land or stocks, will be charged a personal loan rate. This is the prime rate plus some number of percentage points depending on the borrower's net worth and the risk involved in the investment. Such loans generally are available to wealthier people.

Permian Basin Briefs

A pair of 30-year service anniversaries and a 29-year milestone have been announced by Gulf Oil Exploration & Production Co., Western Division, Southwest District, Midland.

R. G. Iverson of Odessa, area production superintendent, completed 30 years with the company Friday.

His career started in 1949 as an engineering clerk with Kewanee Oil Co. Since then he has served as division engineer, project engineer, district superintendent, and district manager.

In 1978, Gulf purchased Kewanee and he transferred to Gulf Oil Exploration & Production Co. in the Goldsmith area as area production superintendent.

O. F. Jones, a lease operator in the Production Department in Odessa, marked his 30th year with the company Saturday.

He began his Gulf career at Juddins as a lease pumper in 1949. He transferred to the Odessa area in 1960 and became a lease operator in 1971, the position he now holds.

R. W. Cotten of Kermit, a lease operator in the Monahans Area of the Production Department, completed his 29 years with the company last Tuesday.

He joined the firm in 1950 as a lease pumper in the Goldsmith Area.

In 1971, he became lease operator in the former Kermit Area, and was transferred to the Monahans Area in 1972.

Several members of the Desk & Derrick Club of Midland attended the three-day 28th Annual Convention of the Association of Desk & Derrick Clubs which ended Saturday in Edmond, Canada.

Among the more than 1,000 members from 103 clubs within the United States and Canada at the meeting were Midlanders Joyce O'Bannon, national delegate; Charlene Hutchison, alternate delegate; Kitty Adams, Nell Blackman, Janet Burch, Doris Cannon, Leigh Cervooskas, Betty Joe Cox, Anne Fleming, Nancy Gray, Juanita Hamm, Janice Jackson, Barbara Kirby, Carmen Landin, Onie McNeese, Pete Minnerly, Elowiese Ruhmann, Marie Sherrill, Evelyn Stapp, Joyce Tedder, Dee Wilson and Pam Wilson.

Monsanto Co. has announced the addition of two persons to its Southwestern Region staff which is headquartered in Midland.

W. F. "Bill" Shackelford Jr. joined the company as a landman.

He holds a B.B.A. degree from the University of Oklahoma.

Shackelford formerly was associated in Midland with a major oil company. He is a member of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen and the Permian Basin Landmen's Association.

Keith N. Phillips now is with Monsanto as a geologist in the Southwestern Region. He earned a B.S. degree from the University of Texas at Arlington.

He also was associated with a major oil company in Midland before joining Monsanto.

He holds membership in the West Texas Geological Society, the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and the Dallas Geological Society.

Gregory Hargreaves has joined the West Texas District office of Texas Oil & Gas Corp. in Midland as a geologist.

He received a B.G.S. degree in Geology from the University of Kansas at Lawrence in 1975.

He currently is completing his masters degree in Petroleum Engineering at the University of Texas at Austin. He is a member of the AAPG, the Society of Exploration Geologists, the Society of Petroleum Engineers and the WTGS.

Dee Hambricht has joined Terra Resources, Inc., in Midland as a team landman.

He attended the University of Arkansas, and for the last 3 1/2 years has worked as an independent petroleum landman in Midland. He is a member of the Permian Basin Landmen's Association.

The company also announced that Bruce A. Gilchrist has joined the firm as a team geophysicist.

Gilchrist is a graduate of Montana State University with a B.S. degree in Physics. Prior associations were with Western Geophysical Co. and Amoco Production Co. He is a member of the Society of Exploration Geologists.

gists, engineers, and independents not trained in petroleum land work, including beginning landmen; brokers and support personnel.

Robert H. Northington, land manager with Moran Exploration, will present the first session which will include an introduction and overview of petroleum land work.

Other sessions will include lease forms, title opinions, leasing, various deals, farmouts, right-of-way and damages, rules and regulations on the federal, state and University Lands levels; unitization, and tax considerations.

"Analysis of Sandstone Depositional Environments" is scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. Sept. 9. Fee for the course is $20.

Dr. Richard J. Moiola, research associate with Mobil Research and Development Corp. in Dallas, will be the instructor.

Tom Lawson

Lawson takes OIME post

ODESSA — Tom Lawson has been appointed vice president — Sales for Oil Industries Manufacturing and Engineering, reports OIME president A.E. Prince Jr.

Lawson is responsible for the national and international marketing of the firm's drilling rigs and related energy industry equipment.

Before joining OIME Lawson was with National Supply Co. 30 years, serving in various capacities in sales and management.

He is a member of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME.

Prudhoe contracts signed

LOS ANGELES — Although financing for the ambitious $10 to $15 billion Alaskan natural-gas line has not yet been secured, nor final government approvals won, five companies have signed letters of intent to buy natural gas produced by Arco Gas & Oil Co. at Prudhoe Bay for 20 years.

The allotments, confirmed by an Arco spokesman Thursday, are:

— 33 percent for Pacific Interstate Transmission Co., a subsidiary of Los Angeles-based Pacific Lighting Corp.

— 20 percent for Houston-based Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. and its subsidiary, Transwestern Pipeline Co. (10 percent each).

— 20 percent for Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., based in Houston.

— 15 percent for the Houston-based United Gas Pipe Line Co., a subsidiary of United Energy Resources Inc., both of Houston. — 12 percent for Texas Gas Transmission Corp., with headquarters in Owensboro, Ky. Arco Gas & Oil, a division of Los Angeles-based Atlantic Richfield Co., has estimated its net share of the Prudhoe Bay gas reserves at approximately 8 trillion cubic feet.

Arco has no role in financing or constructing the pipeline, but Pacific Lighting is one of six partners in construction of the 731-mile segment of proposed pipeline within Alaska's borders. The signing of a letter of intent to purchase gas — Pacific Lighting's first — is "very important as a major development that has to take place before (pipeline) financing can commence," a Pacific Lighting spokesman said. He added that it might "help encourage other companies...to join the (pipeline) consortium."

Separate consortiums will own the four segments in Alaska, Canada (2,023 miles), the western U.S. leg (911 miles) and the eastern U.S. leg (1,117 miles).

Cotton gin trash to be used in alcohol process

PETERSBURG — The two-step hydrolysis process first converts the hemicellulose to xylose sugar, officials said. The residual cellulose then is converted into its constituent glucose.

Wienke said the sugars are separately fermented into ethanol, with one ton of raw material making about 100 gallons.

Byproducts from the process also are useful, Wienke added. The yeast and distillery slop can be used to feed cattle, and the carbon dioxide will be used to enhance crude oil recovery.

Wienke said that trash from gins on the South Plains will be used at the plant. The South Plains, he said, produces more cotton than any area of comparable land size in the world. Trash from the area can support about 10 plants the size of the one in Petersburg, he predicted.

He also said that crop residues, mesquite and oak clearing, and forest thinning in East Texas would allow the state to support 100 or more plants, each capable of producing 4,000 gallons of ethyl alcohol per day.

Wienke said the new process is covered by a family of patents issued to J. W. Jelks, Sand Springs, Okla., inventor. Union is licensing agent for the Jelks technology and conducts feasibility studies of potential plant sites. Jelks and Union have worked together more than 10 years in developing the technical and commercial feasibility of the process, Wienke said.

Graduate Center slates 3 oil-industry courses

The Permian Basin Graduate Center has scheduled three oil-industry related courses.

Each will be taught in the center's classrooms at 105 W. Illinois St. in Midland.

"Oil and Gas Accounting Procedures for Secretaries" is scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays from Sept. 24 through Oct. 29. The instructor will be Bill Kirk, who operates his own taxation and auditing firm in Midland.

Fee for the course is $125. "Principles of Land & Leasing" will be offered from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursdays from Sept. 20 through Nov. 29.

The 10-week course will be taught, with Robert C. Crawford, land manager for HNG Oil Co. in Midland, serving as the coordinator.

The fee is $150 for the entire course, or $20 for individual sessions. The course is designed for geolo-

Oil Industry Notes

HOUSTON—The El Paso Co. announced that a subsidiary of El Paso has acquired from American Quasar an undivided 1/8 interest in approximately 967,000 net undeveloped acres in the Rocky Mountain Overthrust Belt area in Utah, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana, and a preferential right to purchase gas produced from the 7/8 interest retained by American Quasar.

American Quasar received $14 million cash, plus conditional future bonus payments not to exceed an additional $62 million contingent upon the discovery of specified reserves of oil and gas on this acreage.

El Paso will participate in drilling and exploratory work to the extent of its interest, with annual capital expenditures estimated from $3 to 5 million for at least five years.

El Paso's position in the Overthrust Belt now consists of approximately 322,000 net acres available for exploration and 988,000 acres as to which it has a preferential right to purchase gas developed by others.

Sun Company.
Tapp transferred to Sun Gas from Sun Production Co. where he had been senior financial analyst. He joined the Sun organization in Dallas in 1973.

AUSTIN—John G. Soule, chief legal counsel, has been promoted to the newly-created post of general counsel of the Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division, Chairman John H. Poerner announced.

As general counsel Soule has expanded responsibilities in the area of legal advice to the three commissioners on oil and gas matters and supervisory management responsibility over all oil and gas hearings-related activities, as well as all federal programs administered by the Oil and Gas Division. The general counsel, oil and gas, also will provide liaison with federal agencies involved in the Natural Gas Policy Act and Underground Injection Control programs.

Soule became chief counsel of the Oil and Gas Division on June 1. He came to the Commission in 1977 from the Texas Aeronautics Commission where he was general counsel.

HOUSTON—A new oil field pipe department has been established by PAK Oilfield Supply Co., Inc., according to Bob Parrott, president of the Houston-based firm. The new department's personnel include Hollace Bowden, Glen Cochran, and Betty B. Drew.

HOUSTON—James W. North has been named manager of petrochemical marketing for Coastal States Marketing, Inc., a unit of Coastal States Gas Corp., the Houston-based energy supply firm.

Prior to joining Coastal, North worked for Conoco in the Natural Gas Products Department as a financial planning analyst.

DALLAS—William R. Tapp has been named manager, performance analysis in Financial Administration for Sun Gas Co. Tapp will manage the consolidation and analysis of operational plans and budgets and prepare business and performance indicators for the Dallas-headquartered unit of

The Oil & Gas Journal has announced the addition of Robert J. Beck to its staff in the newly-created position of economics editor.

Beck had served 10 years in the corporate planning department of Oil Service Co. of Iran. Before that he was economic research director in New York for Mackay-Shields Economics Inc., and still earlier he was with Wisconsin Telephone Co. as staff economist and statistician.

HOUSTON—Robert Shockley has been named gas purchase contract representative for Valley Gas Transmission Co., Inc.

He has been office manager in Houston for the Keplinger Companies since 1977. He will continue in that post. He began his industry career with United Gas Pipeline Co. in Shreveport, La. He also served with Southern Natural Gas Co. before joining the Keplinger organization.

Land board to offer 1,617 tracts for sale

AUSTIN—The State School Land Board will offer 1,617 tracts totaling 1,210,171 acres at its Oct. 2 oil and gas lease sale, with the board, for the first time, offering those tracts at a one-quarter instead of one-fifth royalty.

The bulk of the offering consists of 943 Gulf of Mexico tracts, totaling 919,767 acres. The majority of those (and other tracts) will be with a fixed royalty of one-fourth, with bidding on the high bonus payment, General Land Office Oil and Gas Operations Director Jack Howard reports.

Also up for bids will be 92 upland tracts, totaling 26,780 acres; 111 riverbed tracts, totaling 7,447 acres; and 471 bay and inlet tracts, totaling 256,176 acres.

Out of the 1,617 tracts, 156 will be offered with a fixed bonus, with bidding on the high royalty, Howard says.

The board increased to royalty on production from State-owned lands from one-sixth to one-fifth as of July, 1974, and now has implemented the one-fourth royalty.

Howard says the board isn't sure what effect the change will have on the amount of money coming in at the Oct. 2 sale, but that it is felt the change will increase the income

Prospects bright for coal slurry lines in mid-1980s

TULSA, Okla.—Prospects are growing brighter that some U.S. coal slurry lines will be built by the mid-1980s, even without a federal eminent-domain law to ease right-of-way disputes with railroads.

The legislative outlook also has improved, reports Oil & Gas Journal in its Sept. 10 issue.

Odds are better daily that Congress, after more than two decades of debate on the issue, will pass the Coal Pipeline Act of 1979 this session of next.

While that legislation would make more lines viable, it wouldn't tackle a more emotional issue hampering slurry projects. Some find it hard to secure rights to western water supplies needed to run their systems, the Journal reports.

The chances improve daily and yearly for the act to pass, a slurry association official declares. The Iranian situation, high cost of transportation by rail, and high cost of electricity to the consumer only make it more necessary, he says.

And the latest Carter administration attitude on coal use can't do anything but help.

He admits, however, that there is no solution in the act to the water-supply problem. That's a matter left up to the states. And in the final analysis, they have veto power.

The easiest thing about a slurry line will be building it, declares another observer.

Consortia or individual companies propose seven slurry-line systems for construction in the lower 48 states.

Those projects, if all of them were built, would cost more than $6 billion and require construction of more than 7,000 miles of big-inch pipe.

The weekly business magazine says three of the projects would originate in the Powder River basin region of Wyoming and Montana. Two others would tap South Central Utah coal. Still another would begin in southern Colorado.

Only one project currently is proposed for the eastern half of the nation. That's a Florida Gas Co. consortium plan which must have eminent domain legislation from the states or federal government before it can move.

One of the Powder River basin projects, Energy Transportation Systems, Inc., has whipped its water and right-of-way problems through long court battles and negotiations with Wyoming state authorities.

Two other Powder River basin projects have been postponed indefinitely—one because water hasn't been secured.

Technical meeting set

More than 8,000 engineers, scientists, and managers from 35 nations will attend the 54th Annual Technical Conference and Exhibition of the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

The conference will examine promising solutions to the world's energy problems, Sept. 23-26, in Las Vegas.

Centered around the meeting's theme "Issues for the 80's" a Management and General Interest session will examine the world energy picture, alternative energy sources, hard decisions facing the industry, and the importance of credibility.

Panelists will include J. E. Swearingin, chief executive officer, Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and chairman of the board, American Petroleum Institute; C. J. Hedlund, president, Esso Middle East; Congressman Jim Santini from Nevada; and a high level spokesman from the U.S. Department of Energy, to be named later.

SPE also will honor six members who have distinguished themselves through outstanding technical expertise and contributions to the society and the petroleum industry. The 1979 award winners, confirmed by the board of directors, will be recognized at the Awards Luncheon, Sept. 24.

Winner of the DeGolyer Distinguished Service Award is Jack Reynolds, former chairman and managing director of Continental Oil Co. Ltd., London.

Gurmeet Brar, T. Fekete and Assoc., will receive the Credric K. Ferguson Medal. The medal

BUSINESS NOTEBOOK

Commission approves data auditing program

BY BILL KIDD Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Members of the Banking Section, State Finance Commission, have approved a Department of Banking proposal to establish a program for auditing the electronic data processing systems of State-chartered banks.

That proposal has been under study for some time, having been recommended because of the increased use and importance of computers in handling bank transactions.

Department general counsel Archie Clayton says that final authority will be sought from the full State Finance Commission later in the year, but that "we don't anticipate much will be in place until Jan. 1."

Under the program, specially trained examiners will be used to conduct the audits, which, were possible, are expected to be in conjunction with similar examinations by Federal regulatory authorities.

Cost of the program is put at $300,000 annually.

Texas Real Estate Commission extended to Thursday (Sept. 20) the time for comments on proposed advertising rules, with a decision expected some time afterwards.

TREC also continues to puzzle over how to implement HB 962, the "residential service company act," which provides that the agency is to regulate firms offering repair and maintenance contracts on residential plumbing, heating or cooling systems, and the like.

The agency did not, however, receive any funds to administer the act, and Administrator Andy James says it will be a matter of shifting existing personnel to that effort.

TREC is preparing applications for companies seeking to be licensed, and will act on those applications, James says.

Savings and loan associations are continuing their hunt for funds, as competition increases in the money market.

One of the recent devices being used is that of mortgage-backed bond offerings, with Houston-based Gibraltar Savings Associations offering $125 million through underwriters Merrill Lynch and Salomon Brothers.

Other associations (such as Houston First, United Savings of Houston, and First Texas, Dallas) also have used that approach, the Texas Savings and Loan League reports.

League Executive Vice President Durward Curlee says his organization is preparing a program on mortgage-backed bonds for presentation at its managers' conference in December.

"It's the same principle as the secondary market," Curlee explains, "you're just selling to the public rather than an institution."

The Proprietary School Advisory Commission has delayed its recommendations to the State board of Education regarding possible changes in Texas rules on proprietary schools, pending the outcome of a lawsuit the Federal Trade Commission.

A decision in that case is expected this month, Janice Boyd of the Texas Education Agency reports.

Texas would be faced with making three major changes in its rules on such operations should the FTC recommendations to the State board of Education stand—providing for refunds to students on a pro rata, hour-by-hour instead of quarter basis; allowing a 14-day "affirmation period" during which students would be able to get full refunds, instead of the three-day period provided in Texas; and instituting disclosure of information such as drop-out rates and types of jobs obtained by school graduates.

In a related area, work is continuing by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System on its labor market information system, which aims at finding out where there are job openings in the labor market, and determining what types of expertise are needed for them.

The program, operating with Federal funding, uses Texas Employment Commission data, and works with public and private education facilities, helping advise students as to what careers may be available to them.

Record high interest rates to hurt housing starts, sales

By KRISTIN GOFF AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Housing construction and sales are expected to fall sharply under the pressure of record high interest rates.

Although housing starts had been expected to decline this year from the boom levels of 2 million or more units in the past few years, the credit-tightening moves by the Federal Reserve may squeeze both lenders and potential buyers more than had been expected.

The prime interest rate — a widely watched commercial ending rate — rose to a record 13 percent this past ready slowing down... I expect that to continue to the balance of the year," he said.

UNLIKE JACOB, who suggests that mortgage interest rates may rise a bit through the end of the year, Harter says reduced demand may result in a slight reduction in interest rates.

Harter also projects a much sharper drop in new home construction through early next year as builders experience difficulty in financing projects and demand for homes continues to fall.

Harter estimates that housing starts will drop to about 1.7 million this year, down 15 percent from 2 million in 1978. By the first quarter of 1980, he believes they'll drop even more, to an annual rate of 1.4 million units.

While that would not be nearly as much as the drastic collapse of the housing market in the 1974-75 recession, it could have broad effects on the general economy.

Chase Econometric Associates in a recent report suggested that the housing downturn could prolong a recession by aggravating unemployment and slowing demand for housing-related purchases, such as appliances.

IN OTHER BUSINESS developments this past week:

—The nation's industrial output fell 1.1 percent in August — the first drop since April — as production of autos and household goods slumped, the government reported.

The Federal Reserve Board report showed that long-lasting consumer goods plummeted 5.4 percent in August, following 1.7 and 1.2 percent declines in July and June, respectively.

Auto and van production fell about 15 percent as carmakers sold off huge inventories of 1979 models with discount programs to dealers and rebates directly to consumers.

American Broadcasting Cos. made a surprise $335 million bid for MacMillan Inc., outbidding a previous offer for the book publisher. Only two weeks before, the toy company Mattel Inc. had offered $329 million for MacMillan.

—The price of gold continued to climb and reached record levels of nearly $345 an ounce on major European market's by the weekend, including a jump of almost $12 an ounce on Friday alone.

The price of gold has jumped more than $40 in less than a month, which dealers say reflects speculation and concern about the Mideast oil situation. Late last year, gold was selling for less than $195 an ounce. Then came the latest oil crisis, pivoting on the revolution in Iran. By mid-May gold had passed $250 and by early August was nearing $300.

Firm invests $1.8 million

During the first six months of 1979, Southwestern Bell invested an estimated $1.8 million in the Midland area to improve local telephone service.

Clay Styles, district manager residence service center, said the mid-year figure represents part of the company's $1.3 billion statewide construction budget for 1979.

"Telephone growth is in a level period right now, but we anticipate a gradual increase in growth for the rest of the year," Styles said.

Since Jan. 1, Midland has gained 2,300 telephones, with another 2,000 expected to be added by year's end. Statewide, Texas represents more than 8 million telephones in the Southwestern Bell territory.

Styles said a large portion of Midland's construction budget is being spent on several major cable projects to expand residential and commercial developments.

Styles added that currently there are several large construction projects under way in the Midland metro area.

"The company also will continue its expansion of Electronic Switching Systems (ESS) throughout the area," Styles said.

On with Tellico Dam

Three lusty cheers for the United States Senate which has voted to authorize completion of the multi-million-dollar Tellico Dam, despite the threat it poses to the tiny snail darter.

This is some of the best news coming out of Washington in a long time. Hopefully, it will clear the way for similar action of other projects of like nature.

The 48-44 vote in the Senate followed the lead of the House of Representatives by agreeing to grant the $115 million dam an exemption from the Endangered Species Act and any other law that might prohibit its completion.

You will recall that work on the dam was halted when it was discovered that its completion could lead to the extinction of the snail darter, a tiny fish whose only purpose is to swim and swim in the shadows of the dam.

Yet the act would have held up completion, perhaps permanently, of the Tellico Dam, which already had cost the taxpayers millions of dollars. It is one of those things which has been most detrimental to the nation's progress ... all because of a little fish swimming around nearby.

It is said, however, that the Senate action may have set the stage for a veto by President Carter of a key appropriations bill. Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus had said previously he would urge Carter to veto any legislation calling for completion of the dam. We do not know Andrus' reasoning in this regard and it is doubtful if he has any substantial reasons other than to uphold the Endangered Species Act, which is proving to be a liability in many respects. Hopefully, President Carter will go along with the will of the House and Senate in this particular legislation. It will be for the overall good of the nation and its taxpayers if he does.

Senators took their action as they debated a House-Senate conference report on legislation appropriating $10.8 billion for the next fiscal year for energy and water projects.

The House of Representatives already has approved the conference report, including the provisions to complete the Tellico Dam project, which has generated intense controversy in Congress over the last 18 months.

You perhaps will recall that the Tennessee Valley Authority has spent $115 million on the Tellico, a project on the Little Tennessee River. It is said that the cost of completing the project is estimated at approximately $19 million.

It would be foolish, indeed, not to go ahead with the project.

A spokesman for TVA said, "Completion of the dam will mean the taxpayers' dollars already spent on the project will not be wasted." And this is important.

At the same time, studies and experiments have been conducted and it appears that the little snail darter which has caused all the trouble, can be relocated in a different but satisfactory environment where it can thrive, swim, multiply and enjoy life to the fullest.

This could be a happy ending to a puzzling story if President Carter will sign the bill as submitted by Congress.

Fusion of effort

The contribution of $60 million from the Japanese government will do more than merely help finance continued research into nuclear fusion at San Diego's General Atomic Corp. It will help reduce the unfavorable balance of payments between the United States and Japan.

It will bring Japanese researchers to the U.S. to gain technical know-how in fusion research. It will strengthen the bond between the two economic superpowers of the North Pacific basin and their peoples. It will contribute to the continuing partnership between the U.S. and Japan as two free nations, skilled in industry, committed to technological progress, turning scientific knowledge to the purpose of a better life for human beings.

It would be a triumphant outcome if Japan, the only victim of the military use of nuclear power, and the U.S., the only country ever to drop an atomic bomb in anger, should cooperate to develop a new form of nuclear energy for peaceful use.

NICK THIMMESCH

Miss Lillian needn't apologize for remarks made at picnic

WASHINGTON — This was the week of the Kennedy frenzy. So it's understandable, I guess, that the pecksniffs made a big deal over Lillian Carter's expressed concern for the celebrated senator's well-being. Alas, we'll experience more such foolishness in the oncoming election year.

Now what did the President's mother say at that Democratic picnic in New Hampshire, where presidential politics watchers studied every word uttered and checked each rise of an eyebrow? What Miss Lillian said was:

"He (Kennedy) assures us he is not going to run. But if he does, I wish him all the luck in the world. And I hope to goodness nothing happens to him. I really do."

Since New Hampshire is the politically sacred ground where the first presidential jousts take place, even a simple Democratic Party picnic draws the high and mighty of political life and their retinues. Some newsman present heard moans after Miss Lillian's appraisal; others heard groans; still others "many" boos, though one correspondent reported "at least one boo."

Whatever the reaction, it was quickly blown up to mean that Miss Lillian had blundered in the most tasteless fashion by obviously referring to the assassinations of the senator's brothers.

Well, Lillian Carter, who had campaigned for both John and Robert Kennedy, had intended no such thing; indeed, if a person thinks it over, her remark was heartfelt and genuine. If the New Hampshire air were not crackling with politics, her concern would have moved people in a warm way.

One quality of old people that I like is the way they often speak candidly because, after all, their great ambitions are behind them, and they usually have something worthwhile to say, if we would only listen.

If a young Carter partisan would have made the remark about Kennedy's safety, it would properly be interpreted as a blow struck in the campaign. No question that the American people are worried that some lunatic is waiting for Kennedy-the-presidential-candidate.

But with an 81-year-old woman it is different. It is right, as she explained later, that her comment only reflected "a mother's concern and that's the first we think about." Anything that Rose Kennedy, 89, says is all right with me, and the same for a man 16 years her junior, Sen. Sam Hayskawa, for whatever he cuts loose with.

All of us, at family gatherings, have heard our senior kin make remarks that broke everybody up, reduced pomposity and made us all feel a little more human.

Miss Lillian, I admit, is out campaigning and in that sense will be judged more critically than great-grandfather or great-grandmother at the Thanksgiving dinner table. She recently made 21 appearances in Florida and, since early summer, has visited several states. She did the Johnny Carson show in July and does not shrink from radio talk shows where all manner of questions are fired at her.

From the time Jimmy Carter's name became familiar, she has been out talking, sometimes in revealing terms, about her children. She has defended Billy, described Gloria as "the most intelligent one in the family." When a reporter knelt down by her at the Democratic convention and asked her why she didn't get along with Rosalynn, she replied: "I think you're nuts!"

Asked at the Washington Press Club how much time she spent in Washington, she cracked, "No more than I have to." Another time she said she didn't "think much" of the Washington newspapers. After receiving many letters from a man in Miami who had all sorts of advice for the President, Mrs. Carter, by her account, wrote him back, saying: "If you know so much, why don't you run for President?"

Lillian Carter may sound feisty, but she is also the woman, who, at age 70, joined the Peace Corps, worked with the poor in India, and was even credited with nursing a leper back to health.

So if she is blunt and outspoken, she is also honest, and in any political season that quality is welcome. Let our elders speak when they want to. I never tired of hearing what Bernard Baruch or Ike or Harry S. Truman or Sen. George Aiken had to say in their dotage.

ART BUCHWALD

Just tourists 'having fun and seeing beautiful Cuba'

WASHINGTON — It's hard to believe that the United States was unaware that there were "3,000 Soviet combat troops" in Cuba. The State Department's story is that our intelligence experts were caught by surprise. It was only after they "re-evaluated" their reports of the past five years that they concluded the Russians were there.

I managed to get one of the CIA's folders containing intelligence information from our man in Havana, a certain Miguel X, which explains why the United States was never sure that there were Soviet troops in Castro's Disneyland.

The first memo was dated August 12, 1974.

"Three thousand Soviet tourists disembarked from the passenger ship 'Lenin' in Havana at 2 a.m. this morning. They were dressed in white wash 'n' wear seersucker suits, wore Panama hats and were carrying East German cameras and Ivanov submachine guns. I inquired of their tour leader, Lt. Gen. Vladimir Sokolov, what they planned to do in Cuba and he replied, 'We are from Kiev-Cuban Friendship Society to see beautiful country, sightsee and do cha cha cha with Cuban girls. We get five-year tour of country for package price of 995 rubles with breakfast included.' 'Do you want me to follow up?' — M.X."

The reply to Miguel X was also in the folder and said, "It sounds like just another Intourist junket to us. If you can get anything you can pin down, let us know. Otherwise, due to budget restrictions, prefer you target, whole thing."

The next memo from Miguel X was dated December 3, 1976.

"Sorry to bother you, but was passing by Manzanillo and accidentally ran into Russian homes with large saucer-shaped electronic equipment on top. Also saw 50 anti-aircraft guns, 200 tanks and heard artillery firing off in the distance. Ran into Gen. Sokolov in a bar in town and asked him how he was getting along. He bought me a vodka and said, 'Tour is going along fantastic. There is so much to see in Cuba we don't ever want to leave.' 'I asked what the saucer-like discs were doing on the mobile homes and he said, 'Is for television. Reception in this part of country is very lousy.' Then I asked him about the artillery firing. 'Is nothing but our people hunting wild boar. Look, we have license signed by Castro himself. Each tourist is entitled to one boar.' 'I can't put my finger on it but I think I was given a snow job. — M.X."

The answer from his superiors in Washington read: "Thank you, Miguel, for your report. We wish you wouldn't bother us with your suspicions that you were being lied to. It's obvious the Soviets have moved into mobile homes to save on hotel bills. The TV story makes sense to us. As for the anti-aircraft guns, they were probably left over from the Bay of Pigs. Because of new cut in budget, would prefer you mail your urgent reports via Mexico and not use straight cable."

The last message from Miguel X was dated May 1, 1979.

"The Soviet tourists held their Fourth Annual May Day Parade in the city of Batabano. Gen. Sokolov, who has been promoted to marshal, was in the reviewing stand with Fidel Castro. I managed to talk to him after the parade. He said he was having the best visit and the only thing he missed was black bread and borscht. He was thinking of opening a Russian-type restaurant which would cater to tourists like himself who were getting tired of Cuban food."

"The tourists put on quite a show for us. They divided themselves between the Red and Blue tour groups. The Blue group tried to capture the beach and the Red group repulsed them with mortars and machine guns. Of course they were using blanks. I don't know why I still think there is more to all this than meets the eye."

The final reply from Washington said: "Please stop wasting your time lolling around the beach with some bathers who just seem to be having a good time and concentrate on any military activity in the country."

Mark Russell says

Richard Nixon sent a check to the Treasury Department to pay for a flagpole at San Clemente which in effect makes the American people recipients of said shaft.

Russian excuses for troops in Cuba vary — from identifying them as migrant farmworkers to a World War II battalion wishing to hold its annual reunion in the tropics.

And you can bet that when our congressmen go down there to see the troops for themselves, they'll be greeted by 3,000 men wearing sport shirts and carrying cameras.

Aerial photographs taken by our intelligence units failed to reveal the presence of the troops. Which is surprising because the Polaroid SX-70 usually takes pretty good pictures.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

Initiative and referendum: You might call it a sad proposition

By BILL KIDD Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Initiative and referendum ("I&R" as it's come to be called familiarly) was something Texas had done without for years, and seemed likely to continue doing without, until Proposition 13.

Of course, electing members of the Legislature is supposed to do that, but some I&R fans contend the process hasn't worked as it's supposed to do. Therefore, they conclude, it's time to allow the citizens to take matters more directly into their own hands, and I&R is a way to do just that.

that such would be the case — and others indicated concern at letting the people who elected them have the power to make broad and sudden changes, which could disrupt state and local government functions.

Texas 13 head and former Attorney General Waggoner Carr calls a "minimum budget" of $125,000. Now those groups, which claim some 45,000 members, are in the process of raising funds and attempting to persuade lawmakers to support I&R in the special session which Gov. Bill Clements has promised he would call on the subject.

Clements aide Jim Kester, former El Paso legislator and county treasurer, says a draft I&R proposal is being prepared and is "pretty well done" — and that after the measure is circulated internally, it will be taken to the Legislative Council to be put into final form, with the measure then going to Clements and then on the Texas 13.

In recent years, the increasing influence of special interest groups has been much discussed, and often condemned. It's hardly odd that successful special interests aren't in favor of turning over to other groups a tool which might be used against them.

POSITIVE THINKING

Friends: they're 'always there'

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The walls of my office in Marble Collegiate Church on Fifth Avenue, New York City, are lined with photographs of friends I have known across the years. When wrestling with problems, or preparing talks and articles, these friends seem to surround me and are helpful indeed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wants letters About service...

To The Editor: I lived in Midland in the fifties for 11 months. I am a disabled veteran of World War Two, was wounded three times in action in the Battle of the Bulge.

To The Editor: On Thursday, Sept. 6, I entered a large discount store in Midland to begin my Christmas shopping. As a mother of three, I had quite a list of toys and other items for which to shop.

To The Editor: I would like to comment on Roberta Rogers's comment on trash. I live on the west side. Our containers are all down on east side and west side in middle.

Who's to blame? For quite some time we have been hearing complaints against the Midland SPCA and for the same time we have been hearing from the head of the SPCA and the Midland Police Department telling us how they do the best they can do as quickly as possible.

Good timing

To The Editor: The Russians certainly picked an auspicious time to allow us to "discover" the presence of their troops in Cuba. The resulting furor will no doubt serve to obscure the more important deficiencies of SALT II.

Extreme care Extreme care should be exercised by the U.S. Congress and Senate regarding why the Soviet troops have been placed in Cuba. They may have been placed there in collusion with the U.S. Administration for help in the passage of SALT II.

Think it over

To The Editor: While sitting here in my recliner, I heard the news man say that Senator Kennedy's family had given him their blessing if he wanted to run for president.

A kind of war

To The Editor: For over 100 years the North has spread the big myth of "The Civil War" and the outlaw renegades of the South. In the South, this trying period is usually referred to as "The War Between the States," and with sound and legal reason.

The Southern States of the United States of America (U.S.A.) were appalled at the nomination of Abraham Lincoln as the 1860 presidential candidate by the Republican Party.

Senior rip-off I feel that something should be said concerning the big rip-off by a photography studio of our senior students. hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a hint for all your readers who knit... I made a very handy and inexpensive holder for all my straight needles. I used two tubular potato chip cans and cut the bottom out of one can. Tape it to the second can and cover the whole thing with adhesive-backed paper. Place the needles inside and top with the plastic lid.

It stands up next to my large knitting bag and all my needles are handy. I usually have at least two articles working at the same time so it saves time searching for the right needle.

The pockets in my knitting bag hold circular needles, tape—measure, gauge markers, etc. In a pencil holder with a zipper, which my son once used in school, I keep my stitch holders, row keeper, scissors and the many other little things a knitter needs to have handy.

Super! Super! Such organization, and you have spent only a few pennies to accomplish it. Hugs for sharing with us.

IT'S IN THE BAG!
DEAR HELOISE:
My granddaughter enjoys playing with all sorts of small

"junk," and also has a fondness for purses.

So I took an old bag and filled it with discards such as film canisters, margarine tubs, an old wallet, pictures cut from magazines, lids threaded on a strong cord and tied securely.

Anything small was incorporated into a unit so even babies wouldn't swallow anything.

As I came across interesting throwaway items, usually plastic, I would add them to the bag. That's the first place the little ones go when they come to my house.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

DEAR HELOISE:
Our children have a fun way to wrap birthday presents using white or colored tissue paper and decorative flowers. Where do we get the flowers? They are cut from adhesive-backed plastic!

It's amazing how much easier it is to hold the ends of the paper in place with a couple of two-inch flowers, and it gives the package a decorative touch when placed at random on it.

A LOVE LETTER FROM KAREN

DEAR HELOISE:
I've read your column for a long time now, and I really like it so I decided to think of an idea myself, and I did. Here it is:
My mother would always throw away the comic section containing your hints before I could remember any of the ideas. So I "tricked" her.
Every week I cut out the "Heloise" part, poke a hole in the corner of the page and string them on a cord. I keep them in a safe place.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
I'm a male of 30 years and for some time now I've been collecting clippings on thoughts for daily living, loving your spouse and friends, from papers, magazines, etc. I've kept them in a scrapbook and every so often would drag them out and read several of them.

Anyway, as I know I'm difficult to live with at times, I thought I'd take those clippings out of the book and hang them on a convenient bulletin board for fast consultation.

When I find I'm getting into one of my moods, I just go to this room and read some of the quotations and I find myself in a better frame of mind. Even if I'm not in a bad mood, just reading some of the thoughts gives me a lift and makes me appreciate life and loved ones more.

I didn't mean to make this note so long, but I just had to tell you about my "Inspirational Board." Sure makes living and loving easier for me.

After browning hamburger meat for use in various dishes, I take it out of the pan with a slotted spoon and drain it in a paper towel-lined bowl.

Then I pour the remaining grease out of the skillet and put the hamburger back in the pan along with the rest of the ingredients.

I know it sounds like a lot of extra hassle, but I think it's worth it to get rid of all those extra calories and cholesterol.

If you haven't tried this, you'll be astonished at how much grease the paper towel absorbs, too. To me, it's definitely worth the hassle.

AT THIS MOMENT, ONE OF THE 'WOUNDED' REDSKINS THROWS BACK HIS BLANKET AND AIMS A PISTOL DIRECTLY AT ANTHONY WAYNE ...

THE TIRED MAN SITS FOR A MOMENT, FEELING SOMEWHAT SHEEPISH ABOUT THE WHOLE THING ...

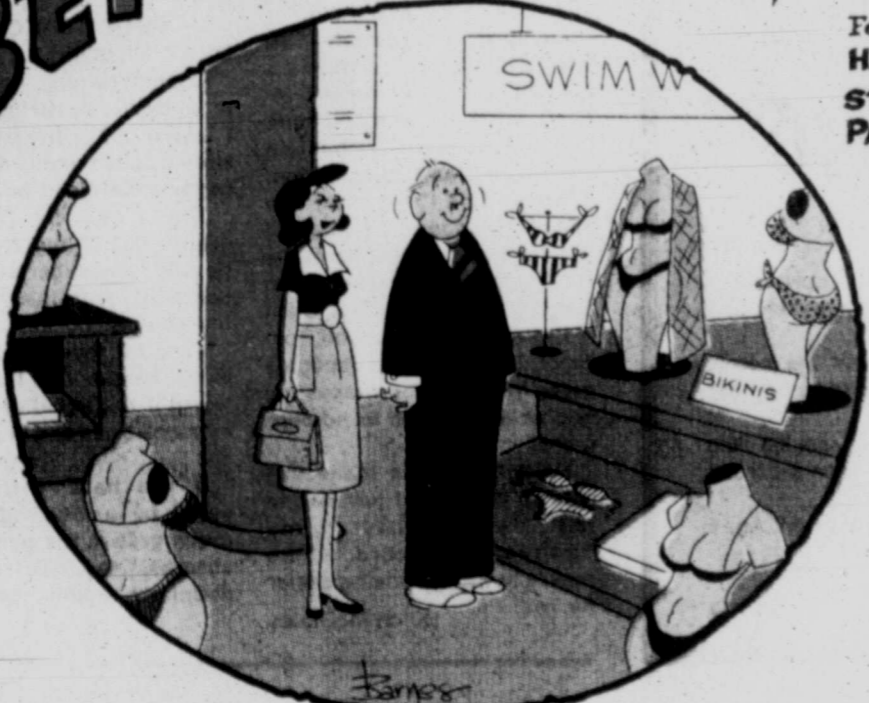

THEN HE HEARS A VOICE FROM THE KITCHEN ...

STEVE, DEAR! WE'RE OUT OF COFFEE!

The BETTER HALF

BY BARNES
Featuring HARRIET & STANLEY PARKER

"Now do you STILL insist that we go stream fishing or do we go to the beach?"

"We've got to choose just one luxury to indulge in - meat, coffee, gasoline or postage stamps."

"Harriet talks to herself, too, but she isn't aware of it. She thinks I'm listening."

"I'm not loafing. I was just overcome by an acute case of autumnal relaxation."

"Well, if it IS a stubborn cold, it has certainly found the appropriate victim."

MRS. REESE, I'M IN TROUBLE! I'M DOWN AT A POLICE STATION! THEY PICKED ME UP FOR DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF ALCOHOL!

WERE YOU DRINKING, BUCK?

I HAD HAD A COUPLE OF DRINKS ... BUT I WASN'T DRUNK! I LOST MY JOB ... AND I WAS DOWN! I'M GOING TO BE HELD IN JAIL OVERNIGHT!

HAVE YOU GOTTEN A LAWYER? I DON'T KNOW ANY...

DO YOU KNOW ONE YOU CAN CALL FOR ME? NO, I DON'T!

WAIT! WHAT ABOUT THAT MR. DRIVER? YOU MET HIM! ISN'T HE A LAWYER? HE CALLED HERE TODAY! HE AND MISS SPENCER WANT TO TAKE STEVE TO THE BALL GAME TOMORROW!

I'D RATHER THEY DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT THIS! HE'S A LAWYER! YOU'RE NOT GOING TO SHOCK HIM, BUCK! I'LL CALL HIM! WHERE ARE THEY HOLDING YOU?

Our Story:
 THE DEAD HORSE HAD KEPT LADY
 ENID WARM, BUT ITS SCENT HAS ATTRACTED THE
 HER KNIFE, BUT ONE BLADE IS NO MATCH FOR ALL THOSE WHITE FANGS!

AS LORD VANOC FOLLOWS GALAN'S TRACKS, HE HEARS THE HOWLING OF THE WOLVES AND URGES HIS MOUNT STILL FASTER.

AT LAST HIS LORDSHIP COMES TO THE END OF THE TRAIL, AND TAKES HIS WIFE IN HIS ARMS. SAFE AT LAST, SHE ENJOYS THE RELIEF OF FAINTING.

GALAN ARRIVES BACK AT THE CASTLE WEARY AND WET FROM THE MELTING SNOW. HE DOES NOT STOP FOR DRY CLOTHES, BUT BEGINS AT ONCE TO ORGANIZE A RESCUE PARTY.

IT WOULD APPEAR THAT GALAN HAS FORGOTTEN NOTHING THAT WOULD ADD TO LADY ENID'S COMFORT. THE RETURN TO THE CASTLE IS LIKE THE TRIUMPHANT MARCH OF A VICTORIOUS WAR BAND.

BUT THE LADIES OF THE CASTLE HEAR HIM COUGH AND POUNCE ON HIM... GIVE HIM A HOT BATH, PUT HIM TO BED AND OTHERWISE TREAT HIM AS IF HE MIGHT PASS AWAY AT ANY MOMENT.

NEXT WEEK - Lord Vanoc Apologizes

REX MORGAN, M. D.

I CALLED DR. NELSON, THE THORACIC SURGEON! FORTUNATELY, HE WAS IN THE HOSPITAL AND WE GOT KAY INTO THE OPERATING ROOM WITHIN MINUTES! THE LUNG WAS PERFORATED BY THE FRACTURED RIBS!

WELL, YOU TELL HER THE CHILDREN ARE FINE --- THAT THEY'VE BEEN NO PROBLEM AT ALL!

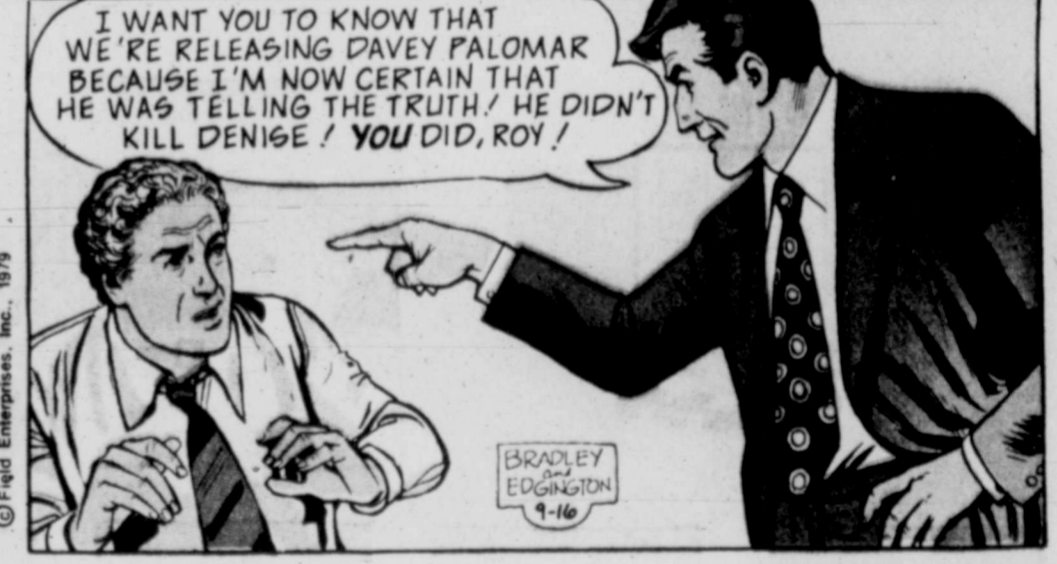

INCIDENTALLY, KAY IS BRINGING CHARGES OF AGGRAVATED ASSAULT AGAINST ROY!

MEANWHILE, AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS GO AHEAD, ROY --- CALL YOUR LAWYER! I'M BOOKING YOU AND WE'LL BE READING YOUR RIGHTS TO YOU!

LOOK, I DIDN'T MEAN TO HURT KAY! YOU DIDN'T MEAN TO HURT DENISE EITHER, DID YOU?

I WANT YOU TO KNOW THAT WE'RE RELEASING DAVEY PALOMAR BECAUSE I'M NOW CERTAIN THAT HE WAS TELLING THE TRUTH! HE DIDN'T KILL DENISE! YOU DID, ROY!

NOW YOU KNOW HOW THE "OTHER HALF" REALLY LIVES, MIKE! WHAT A LAY-OUT!

WHEN MY FOLKS SPLIT, DAD GAVE MOM THE BIG HOUSE IN THE COUNTRY. HE LIVES HERE NOW!

WELL.. IT DON'T LOOK LIKE HE'S HURTIN'!

WHEN YOU ARRIVED I WAS LOOKING FOR SOME CLUE TO BUCK'S DISAPPEARANCE.. I GOT AS FAR AS HIS DRESSING ROOM!

I DON'T THINK ANY OF HIS CLOTHES ARE MISSING! YEAH? JIST HOW IN THE HECK COULD YUH TELL?
