U.S., Mexico to discuss spill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter plans to talk to Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo about damages to the Texas coast from a Mexican oil spill last month, administration officials say.

But Carter will raise the touchy subject in a context that will invite Lopez Portillo to assert Mexican claims from what it considers environmental violations by the United States, they said.

The officials, who asked not to be named, said they expected "environmental questions" to be on the agenda when the two presidents meet at the White House Friday and Saturday.

That could include the question of damages from the blowout at a Mexican oil well off the Yucatan Peninsula last month. The oil spread to Texas beaches.

But it also would include longstanding Mexican grievances, such as the salinity of the Colorado River as it flows from the United States to Mexico. Mexico contends that excessive water extraction by the United States leaves the water too salty for drinking or irrigation by the time it reaches them.

The officials said talks on either topic would be exploratory, addressing the question of whether the two countries will make a serious effort to resolve their differences through negotiations.

The question of oil spill liability became a touchy one last month when Robert Krueger, the newly designated administration coordinator for Mexican affairs, told reporters the administration wanted to talk to Mexico about liability.

The Mexican foreign ministry quickly responded that Krueger had breached international etiquette by making the U.S. desire for talks public before broaching it to Mexico.

Moreover, the Mexicans said, there was no recognized international law giving Mexico liability. The statement said Mexico was not prepared to discuss the matter further at that time.

The administration has not issued a formal estimate of damages from the spill.

Put up or shut up, says Bill Clements

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said today Attorney General Mark White should stop threatening lawsuits against SEDCO and Pemex over the oil spill that soiled Texas beaches "and let these issues cool."

Clements said if White would back off, "I feel confident Mexico will assist in the oil spill cleanup and in meeting the damage claims."

In his first Capitol news conference since returning from an overseas agricultural trade mission, Clements said, "The beaches are clean, and the environment has been protected — the inside waters of the Laguna Madre have not been damaged."

"Turning a disaster like this into a political circus serves no purpose," said Clements, apparently reading from a prepared statement.

He noted that in his absence White had been talking about suing SEDCO, the international oil well drilling company founded by Clements, and Pemex, the Mexican national oil monopoly.

"There seems to be no end to his talking about it," said Clements.

Wednesday, Clements said on a television panel show that if White thinks he has a suit against SEDCO, he should go ahead and file it "and get it out of the political arena."

Clements said White's talk of lawsuits might have precipitated SEDCO's own legal action to limit its liability under a 19th Century maritime law.

"Whether SEDCO or anybody else, they have got to protect themselves," he said.

He reiterated he was not consulted by SEDCO before it filed the action to limit liability nor was he involved in the Mexican contract to provide a SEDCO drilling rig. He said SEDCO began negotiating with Mexico in 1976, when he was with the U.S. Department of Defense.

"One of these days, you are going to accept the fact I have nothing to do with SEDCO," said Clements.

Clements said he was considering adding to next year's special session the subject of appropriating $1 million to advertise Texas beaches to the tourist trade. He said he might be able to find the money in the budget without needing to include it in the special session call.

He made a point of introducing representatives from the Texas Shrimp Association as he said both federal and state agencies have found no contamination in the shrimp crop from the oil spill.

"Everything is fine," Clements said of the shrimp harvest.

The governor also said the news media bears some responsibility for the decline in the tourist trade at coastal resort areas.

The beaches are clean, he said, and "I think you have an obligation to the people of Texas and the people of the Gulf Coast to make that clear."

The governor is a founder of SEDCO, but his interests in the company have been placed in a blind trust while he is in office. The company now is directed by his son, Gil Clements.

Both Clements and SEDCO officials have denied the company had anything to do with the drilling operation on the Mexican offshore rig.

Clements told the panel that he had consistently said, "If we keep our voices down, remain calm and see how things turn out, I have every confidence the Mexican government would do what they should do as a good neighbor and help us pay for it."

Police investigating beating death

Midland woman apparent victim of robbery

By MIKE SLATON
Staff Writer

Midland police today were investigating the beating death of a 48-year-old Midland woman after her body was discovered this morning near an eastside bar where she worked.

Leona White, 109 S. Lee St., apparently was a robbery victim, police said.

Her body was found by police about 6:19 a.m. today lying in tall weeds bordering the railroad tracks behind Price's Bar, 903 E. Illinois Ave., police said.

An 18-year-old man was taken into custody about 8:30 a.m. today at a local motel in connection with the incident, police said.

Employed part time as a bartender at Price's Bar, Ms. White was supposed to have closed the business about 1 a.m. today, according to police.

When she did not return home as expected, a friend of hers went to the bar looking for her, he told police.

Her car, spattered with blood, was parked beside the bar when the friend arrived, he told police.

The friend told officials he then called police.

When police arrived at the scene, they found personal items believed to have come from the woman's purse scattered on the ground near her car and a trail of blood and drag marks leading away from the scene, police said.

Following the trail, police said they crossed the bar's parking lot to the bushes where the woman's body apparently had been dragged, officials said.

She had been hit several times in the head, police said.

A metal pipe about 24 inches long was confiscated by police today.

Police said the pipe may have been the instrument used in the beating of the woman.

Dorr gets eight years, big fine

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two West Texas businessmen, one a millionaire, each have been sentenced to eight years in prison and each ordered to pay $36,000 after being convicted in federal court of masterminding a drug-smuggling scheme.

John R. Dorr, 40, a Pecos millionaire and independent oil operator who had maintained offices in Midland, and John Grant Passmore of El Paso had been convicted here earlier this month on charges stemming from a scheme to smuggle several hundred pounds of Mexican marijuana into the United States.

U.S. District Judge D.W. Suttle assessed the sentences Wednesday. He fined Dorr and Passmore $25,000 each and ordered them to split $22,000 in prosecution costs.

Testimony at the two-week trial showed that Dorr, whose net worth was placed at $2 million in a presentment report, financed the operation and Passmore helped make arrangements in Mexico to import the marijuana.

One shipment was aborted when an airplane loaded with marijuana became stuck in a Mexican lakebed and burned, testimony showed.

Another shipment resulted in the arrest of key government witness Terry Wayne Fagan when he landed a plane loaded with 966 pounds of marijuana on a New Mexico landing strip.

Fagan testified that Dorr paid $192,000 to a charter service in Midland for the airplane that burned.

Defense attorneys said they plan to appeal the convictions.

Following his arrest, Dorr was released under a $150,000 bond. Passmore's bond was set at $100,000.

Chamber pays tribute to Snelson, Craddick

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

If it hadn't been so short, the event could have been called a roast.

But, held during the lunch hour in the middle of the week — and without a social hour to precede it — Appreciation Day for State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson and State Rep. Tom Craddick was lighthearted without being lengthy.

"Appreciation" was the key word for the theme, with "praise" following a close second.

About 400 Midlanders turned out for the barbecue luncheon of ham, beef, sausage, potato salad, pinto beans and iced tea as a sign of their support for the two who have served Midland for a combined total of more than three decades.

Snelson, a Democrat, served four years in the Texas House of Representatives from 1960-64. Since then he has served as state senator for the 25th Senatorial District to rack up a total of 19 years as a legislator from this section of West Texas.

A native of Ward County, Snelson's work in the Texas Legislature has included appointments to the Intergovernmental Relations Committee, Senate Oil and Gas Committee, Legislative Budget Board and the Senate Education Committee.

Craddick, a Republican, is in his 12th year as representative from the

I would like to say we have enjoyed your articles. Even the things we have no personal interest in give us a good view of our fellow Midlanders.

I was wondering if perhaps someone might have the pattern and instructions for making a "Muppet" type doll (puppet) that was made by a church group or ladies' group in Midland about two years ago. I met one of these "little girls" shopping for hair in the yarn department. I have looked for instructions on such ever since, but haven't had any luck. I would appreciate any information on making them.

Thank you, and continue the column. — Judith Pare

ANSWER: If any of our readers happen to have the pattern and instructions for a "Muppet," we know Ms. Pare will be appreciative.

Now what cluck would steal 217 frozen, plucked chickens?

How many ways can a chicken be cooked? With 217 frozen cluckers in their clutches, unknown persons may soon be looking for a way to vary a steady poultry diet.

Mike Sanchez, manager of Church's Chicken of Midland, 202 S. Midkiff Road, reported the theft of the plucked pullets to Midland police Wednesday.

Police said the business apparently was entered through a locked back door by someone with a key.

In addition to the chickens, which were both whole and cut up for frying, three aluminum pans and a plastic trash container were reported taken from the business, police said.

Total value of the merchandise reported stolen was $842.60, according to reports.

GOLDEN FLEECE

$39,000 to study social change among the Sherpas of Nepal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today the government has been "foolish enough to send taxpayers' money to the ends of the earth" by financing a study of mountaineering, social change and Buddhism among the Sherpas of Nepal.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, Proxmire said he was giving his Golden Fleece of the Month award to the National Science Foundation for spending $39,000 on a project he said should be "at the bottom end of the list of priorities."

Proxmire gives the award to what he considers the biggest, most ironic or most ridiculous example of excessive government spending uncovered each month.

The study he picked this month came about because a student of the Sherpas noticed that their Buddhist religion had become more orthodox as their employment as mountain guides increased. The object of the study is to determine whether one caused the other.

I hope you realize what fantastic two men we have representing us in Austin,' he told the audience of about 400. As visual proof of that appreciation, the college unveiled framed color photographs of a recent aerial view of the higher learning institution. These graphics were given the legislators to hang in their offices. President of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, Joe Kloesel, presented wrapped packages to each legislator to show appreciation for the men's work. Al Dillard, president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, noted that with Snelson and Craddick, Midland has good representation in the House and Senate. 'You can get all the help you need from them.' Looking at Craddick, Dillard added with a chuckle, 'Tommy has a knack of hiding all the bad bills back in a subcommittee which consists of just one — him.'

Claims figures show some autos safer than others

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of an insurance industry highway safety institute says claims figures indicate some automobiles are safer than others — even among those in the same size range. The survey of injuries from accidents involving 1978 model automobiles affirms the general perception that passengers are more likely to be injured in small cars than larger ones. But William Haddon Jr., president of the Washington-based Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, said Wednesday the more significant finding concerns the disparity among cars in similar categories. For example, in the two-door subcompact field the Chevrolet Chevette had the fewest claims against it — 104 per 1,000 insured vehicle years, compared with the Honda Civic's 144 injury claims. 'These results... show that there obviously are huge differences in the degree of crash protection manufacturers build into different automobiles,' said Haddon. 'The fact that some cars have had such comparatively high claims frequencies is even more tragic when you consider that technology to far better protect people in crashes has been readily available for years.'

Cullen Davis trial judge clamps down on Haynes

FORT WORTH (AP) — The judge hearing the Cullen Davis murder solicitation trial clamped down hard on Richard 'Racehorse' Haynes today as the defense lawyer tried to tie this trial to the millionaire's divorce case. 'We're not going to hear a bunch of trash like we heard from Priscilla,' State District Judge Gordon Gray told Haynes outside the presence of the jury. Davis' ex-wife Priscilla finished her testimony Wednesday under hostile questioning by Haynes. 'That was just a waste of time. I'm not going to let you make a circus of a district court,' Gray said. 'I'm not going to try the divorce case in this court.' The witness on the stand at the time was Mark Hill, an attorney with a law firm that represented Davis in his divorce. Haynes claims there was a conspiracy among Priscilla and other key state witnesses to hike up her divorce settlement. 'If you have any evidence of a conspiracy... put it on,' the judge told Haynes. 'The only thing you've tried to do at this point is try the divorce case.'

Warm afternoons, cool nights should continue

Midland should be slipping into fall the easy way with the temperatures slowing dropping by degrees over the next few weeks, said the weatherman. Meanwhile, skies should be fair through Friday with warm afternoons, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. High Wednesday was a balmy 92 degrees. Record high for that date is a scorching 105 degrees, set in 1977. Overnight low today was 55 degrees, warmer than the brisk record low of 42 degrees set in 1942. Low tonight should be near 60 degrees while the mercury is expected to hit near 90 degrees on Friday.

Mayor Kucinich predicts Cleveland will be out of default in nine months

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich has made the first payment on $14 million in overdue bank loans and says the city should be out of default in nine months. Kucinich, accompanied by finance director Mary T. Medvick, met on Wednesday with BancOhio National Bank Senior Vice President Michael S. Hrick. She carried more than $3.75 million in checks for principal and interest payments to six Cleveland banks. Hrick was handed a batch of checks, which the mayor said totaled $124,998.75 in principal payments, plus $2,444.44 for 22 days' interest. BancOhio National held $500,000 of the notes on which the city defaulted last Dec. 15. Ms. Medvick then hand-delivered checks for five other banks. Declaring that his fiscal problems were inherited from previous administrations, Kucinich said the initial payment was made possible by a 50 percent increase in the city's payroll tax, which was approved by Cleveland voters last February. 'The mayor faces a five-way race in next Tuesday's non-partisan primary. Kucinich fought for three months to get his installment repayment plan approved by the City Council. The council leadership is backing Majority Leader Basil Russo against Kucinich in the primary election.'

Farmers voice gripes on water pollution

LUBBOCK — No one got satisfaction...or so it seemed.

And the water problem remains. Cottonseed plant operator Rex Dunn of Seminole is still upset over water table, surface water and soil pollution from oil field spills and brine injection.

"I appeared before the Railroad Commission," he said at a Waterwatch Workshop here, "and all they do is referee disputes between the oil companies and run interference" when the oil industry is criticized for pollution.

U.S. Department of Agriculture conservationist Bud Fountain of Temple figured oil has a place in the economy and in West Texas.

"That oil in Texas pays lots of people," he said, "and like it or not, that's why it gets all that attention."

Fountain offered Dunn nothing he wanted to hear.

"The Railroad Commission (of Texas) told me that same thing...told me 'You'll have to go talk to somebody else.'"

And so he did. Dunn, like a handful of other farmers and environmentalists, on Tuesday voiced their viewpoints on water pollution and other water problems in West Texas in a workshop sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency. He sought relief from the state water board.

Coats charged. "They don't do anything but punt. They punt on the first down."

Before the day-long meeting had peaked and subsided, Coats produced a document showing that the Railroad Commission of Texas "is solely responsible for the control and disposition of waste and the abatement and prevention of pollution of surface and subsurface water resulting from activities associated with the exploration, development and production of oil or gas..."

Underground water Coats used for irrigation has been polluted by oil field waste, he said, and that water has ruined some of his farm land.

He wanted — and wants — relief to stop further contamination.

Coats was irate. So, too, was Lubbock farmer Charles Wood, but for a far different reason.

Cloice Whitley, one of the more eloquent of the bureaucratic speakers, asserted that "farmers tend to overdo what they do," such as over-watering, particularly in the water-blessed Rio Grande Valley, and apply too much fertilizer and too much pesticides.

"YOU ABSOLUTELY have no good farm practices (in the Valley)," said Whitley.

And Whitley said "wasteful" farmers "drive Rolls-Royces and Mercedes-Benzes as their foreign cars."

And even before Whitley could leave the podium, answer a few questions and get seated, angered farmer Wood abruptly rose, took the floor and pointed directly across the room to Whitley.

"I resent your statement that 'farmers are wasteful,'" blared Wood.

Whitley didn't entirely back up. "If you need one pound of fertilizer, you use two," he said.

But he did clarify: he said he did not mean to describe all farmers as wasteful. "All farmers are not that way," Whitley said.

"I just wanted the point clarified," Wood said.

And Whitley said that he does know of a sugar-cane farmer who drives a Rolls-Royce limousine.

Wood said he isn't wasteful with irrigation water. "I can't afford to turn on the pumps," he said.

"It (the Valley and West Texas) is just as different as night and day."

"The farmers down there have all (the water) they want..."

AMONG THE AGENCY people at the workshop were Sam Nott of the EPA water division in Dallas; Dr. Peggy Glass of the Texas Department of Water Resources; John Promise of the North Central Texas Council of Governments, and Ken Kramer of the Sierra Club, San Angelo. Also speaking was Henry Turney, a Dublin farmer.

"Those of you who are agency people," Ms. Higgins said in opening the workshop, "I hope you will speak up. Now is your chance and be honest about it...It's harder for you agency people, because Big Brother is watching."

IT'S NOT ANYTHING but a football game."

Rock Island service to resume soon

CHICAGO (AP) — Union officials say a 60-day federal takeover order may mean that full service will resume on the Rock Island Line's 13-state freight service as early as Friday.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the takeover Wednesday so that stranded farm shipments could begin moving again on the 7,000-mile system in 13 states across the Midwest and Great Plains.

The Kansas City Terminal Railway Co., a switching line jointly owned by the Rock Island and 11 other railroads, was ordered to form a management team for the Rock Island system today.

The team's first action would be to assure striking Rock Island workers that they would receive prevailing wages if they return.

Howard Kenyon, vice president of the United Transportation Union, said Wednesday that UTU members would be restored by Friday.

Spokesmen for the other striking union, Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, were unavailable for comment late Wednesday on whether their members intended to return immediately.

Earlier Wednesday, Vice President Walter F. Mondale said the rare action taken by the ICC would bring an end to the Rock Island shutdown and allow trains to "start moving early next week."

Mondale said swift resumption of service is "absolutely crucial" to the health of the Midwest's farm industry, which he estimated has been losing $4 million to $5 million a day because of the strike.

The Rock Island hauls about 10 percent of all grain moved by rail.

While the ICC was acting, the UTU was ordering its 2,500 members to report for duty immediately.

However, Fred Kroll, president of the BRAC, refused to order his 1,600 members back until receiving assurances that the Kansas City Terminal plans to take back all the strikers "at the wage now prevailing in the industry."

The 4,100 strikers had defied a 60-day back-to-work order issued by President Carter last Thursday because the unions said the Rock Island lacked the cash to pay the workers $4 million in back wages or to restore full service once the walkout had ended.

In its order, the ICC said Kansas City Terminal could pay the strikers prevailing industry wage rates rather than the lower rates the Rock Island had been paying if the new operator determined it had to pay the higher wages for the workers to return to their jobs.

The ICC estimated the cost of restoring service for 60 days at $50 million — a tab that will have to be paid by taxpayers with federal funds.

House evades issue

The House of Representatives ignored compelling evidence to the contrary when it decided there was no need to require the peacetime registration of young men as a part of a standby selective service system.

Instead, 250 members of the House took the easy way out by rejecting registration and urging the president to study the issue — a shopworn Washington dodge which effectively defers the entire question of mobilization requirements and related military manpower problems until 1981, long after most House members will have survived next year's election.

It is important to remember that the question before the House was not whether to scrap the all-volunteer military and reimpose the draft. Rather, the House was to decide whether to require young men to register with selective service in the absence of the draft. Peacetime registration would do no more, or less, than facilitate a rapid callup in the event of war or an extreme national emergency proclaimed by the president.

However much of the opponents of peacetime registration choose to see it as the first step in re-nouncing the all-volunteer military, the case won't wash. A better argument can be made that peacetime registration is essential to continuation of the all-volunteer military. In any case, a peacetime draft is a separate question and ought to remain so while the healthy national debate over it continues.

The need for registration, however, is clear cut. Largely as a result of the absence of the draft, the nation's reserve military strength has declined drastically since 1973. And because the reserves are so badly under strength, the essential ability to provide rapid and adequate reinforcement of active duty forces in an emergency has been seriously eroded. All the more reason, then, for a standby selective service system capable of locating and inducting large numbers of men in a hurry.

Does the United States possess such a capability? Absolutely not. The all-but-moribund selective service system employs exactly 98 persons. Think of this for just a few seconds. It's absolutely frightening.

Further, no records have been maintained on potential draftees since 1973. In a crisis, the selective service system would have to start from scratch. And you know what that means in government.

Last year's mobilization exercise by the Pentagon proved that it would take three months to a year to assemble the necessary records, induct recruits, train them, and get them to the front. This despite the Pentagon's stated requirement for large numbers of replacements within 60 days of a mobilization order.

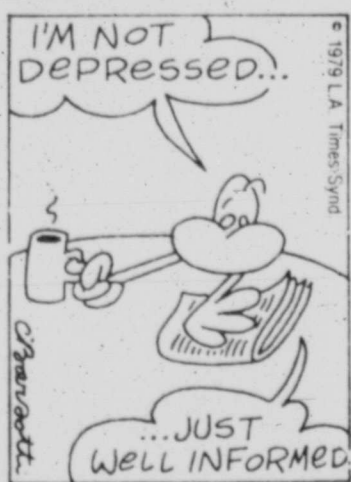

In short, the 1978 exercise spotlighted a critical weakness in this country's ability to resist large-scale aggression, in Western Europe for example, without resort to nuclear weapons.

Regrettably, the House of Representatives chose to ignore these compelling considerations. Certainly, the representatives were aware of them. The facts had been presented and stressed. Once again the majority put votes ahead of the nation's security and general welfare. They must be held accountable.

Even more unfortunate is President Carter's refusal to accept the proof provided by his own Defense Department. Carter has waffled on peacetime registration and, no doubt, many House members found the vacillation of the commander in chief ample justification for their own squeamishness.

But none of this will change the facts. And the facts are that this country's ability to mobilize manpower in the face of war or extreme emergency is woefully lacking. We can only hope that we will not have to face such emergencies.

Columnist discovers Sunday gasoline lines in D.C. region

WASHINGTON — For several weeks now, the word around this area was that there was plenty of gasoline again, so take down the red (no gas) and green (yes, gas) flags, drop the odd-and-even day routine and resume the enjoyment of the great American sport of freeway motoring.

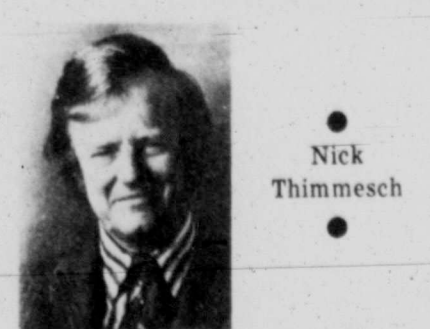

But last Sunday, a glorious day, while driving back from a necessary mission some 40 miles north of here, I noticed that my gas gauge was low, so I looked for a station, assuming that all was well and many would be open.

I pulled into one where cars were stopped next to the pumps, popped out to do the self-service chore and, lo, discovered that the station was closed. We motorists looked at each other sheepishly and drove off, one by one.

And then for miles I encountered one turnaround sign after another: "Closed...No gas today...Pumps closed." Then I spotted something I hadn't seen in many weeks — an open station with a gas line two blocks long. Then another and another. "Oh, no, are we back to that?" I asked myself.

We really aren't. It is just difficult in some areas to find stations open on Sundays. But what hasn't changed is the American addiction to driving when and where a person wants to and the gasoline needed to satisfy that addiction.

Now comes the news that will unnerve all who mainline with gasoline and heating oil — and that's nearly every American — that the government's program to spur production of heating, oil is causing sharp price increases and might cause gas lines to develop next spring. Egads.

Oh how dependent we Americans are on our beloved petroleum. It suddenly occurred to me once more that the Arab oil-producing nations really do have us over a barrel, and I wondered why, if they are so passionate for the Palestinian cause, the Arabs don't pull off an accused embargo as they did in 1973.

Before probing this unhappy prospect, it must be pointed out that currently we are importing about 44 percent of the petroleum we consume in the United States, and that 39 percent of that 44 percent comes from Arab nations. This means that about 17 percent of all the petroleum we use is supplied by Arabs. That is hardly the bulk of it, but considering that the fall of the Shah's Iran caused us to lose the source for only 5 percent of our consumption, and thus threw our distribution system into greater disorder, well, the loss of 17 percent could cause chaos for we mainliners.

After seeking the best intelligence on this question — meaning Arab and U.S. sources plus my own personal recollections — I can offer a few

WHAT KIND OF MAN READS "PROGRESSIVE"?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Under federal investigation from two sides, Hamilton Jordan has been portrayed as a disorderly, fun-loving fellow who peers down blouses, ignores parking tickets by the dozens and snorts cocaine at wild parties. He has also been accused in the Robert Vesco case of scheming with disreputable confederates toward improper ends.

The harassed White House straw boss has fought back, bristling and aggressive. He has denied vehemently that he has ever partaken of illegal drugs or that he had any knowledge of the conspiracy to fix the Vesco case.

But in a society accustomed to instant, intensive media coverage of celebrities embroiled in public disputes, he can't seem to escape the spotlight. Associates say he sometimes becomes despondent and listless, despairing of the battle but not knowing how to end it.

The accusations against Jordan, meanwhile, keep bubbling up. He has now been accused of sniffing cocaine not only at a New York discotheque but at Beverly Hills parties. The White House has responded by disparaging the witnesses.

One of the most damaging witnesses is Barry Landau, a Manhattan, who submitted a five-page handwritten affidavit on the New York incident. He had encountered Jordan at Studio 54, a chic disco, where the White House aide "said he wanted to see where the famous basement caves were and if he could obtain some cocaine," attested Landau.

The White House dismissed Landau as irresponsible, called his affidavit a "concoction" and claimed Jordan didn't even know the man. Yet the day after the alleged coke-snorting, Jordan arranged for President Carter to send a telegram to Landau's behest to a potential client he was courting. The telegram, sent in care of Landau, congratulated actress Luci Arnaz on her opening in "Annie Get Your Gun."

Landau's personal papers, which the investigation has dredged up, reveal he was on a first-name basis with other Carter intimates. The papers include a diary reference to a breakfast with first lady Rosalynn Carter, a handwritten thank-you letter from the president's mother, Lillian Carter, and a friendly letter from the president's sister, Gloria Carter Spann.

The diary shows that Landau, accompanied by actress Ruth Warrick, had breakfast with the first lady on April 30, 1977. The White House acknowledged the visit but described it as "a ten-minute courtesy call."

The letter from Miss Lillian, dated Oct. 3, 1977, is addressed to both Warrick and Landau. "Dear Ruth and Barry," it begins. "You know how disoriented I am. How lovely of you both to provide me with the lovely flowers...and all that great food."

The letter from Gloria, dated Oct. 31, 1977, is addressed to "Dearest Barry" and signed, "Love, Gogo." The president's sister is known among intimates as "Gogo."

Landau's personal notes also include a reference to the Studio 54 incident. The notation states cryptically: "Ham. 54...C." Landau has told investigators that the "C" refers to Jordan's request for cocaine.

The White House denies in the Vesco case are also beginning to come

ART BUCHWALD Campaign strategy: here's one 'sure fire' approach

WASHINGTON — Many congressmen and senators who have to run for office next year are in serious trouble. Their constituents are unhappy and they feel that somehow Congress is to blame for a lot of their woes.

Therefore, we may see them campaigning on foreign issues rather than domestic ones. This could be a dangerous time for Americans and the world. In order to win an election many sane legislators are willing to get the voters riled up about different parts of the world which only seem to be a threat to our national security during an election year.

I attended the strategy meeting of Congressman Larry Bilge and his campaign staff the other day and it was enlightening.

"Larry," his manager said, "the poll results just came in and the people in your district are sore as hell about energy, inflation, and unemployment, not to mention the price of coffee. We got problems."

"Don't tell me," Bilge said. "I was home last weekend and my own mother told me she doesn't think I should have a raise. And I support her."

The manager said, "The thing we have to do is avoid the issues that are bugging the voters and bring up new ones that they haven't thought of."

"Give me the scenario," Bilge said.

"Okay, you're going to a town

meeting in Daisy Country next week. The first thing they're going to ask you is why they have to pay 90 cents a gallon for heating oil."

"What's my answer?"

"You can't do anything about heating oil until the United States gets the Soviet troops out of Cuba."

"Do I want to go to war with Cuba?" Bilge asked.

His press secretary replied, "That decision is up to the President, but the time has come to stand up to the Soviets and say, 'No withdrawal — no SALT.'"

"I got it. Now what happens when they ask me what Congress intends to do about inflation?"

"Tell them," his speechwriter said, "that the real danger to this country is not inflation but the Panama Canal Treaty, which you voted against. Say that you are not going to allow a two-bit dictator in a banana republic to push this country around. The time has come to fish or cut bait."

"I like that phrase," Bilge said. "Let me write it down."

The campaign manager referred to his yellow pad. "Okay, now we have a large unemployment problem in the district ever since the Cannibal Radio Co. pulled out and moved to the Sun Belt. Some wise guy is probably going to ask you what you intend to do about jobs."

"There's one in every crowd," Bilge said.

"You tell him the reason they don't have jobs is because we have a missile gap with the Soviet Union, and by 1985 we will be a second-class power. Unless the United States wakes up to the military threat from Moscow the unemployment rate will soar in this country and the economy of the Free World will collapse without the Communists firing one shot."

"So much for the unemployment problem. What do I do when they ask me about the high cost of medical care?"

"You bring up the Cuban troops in Angola. There are now 50,000 Cuban troops in Angola pointing a dagger at the entire African continent, and if Castro doesn't pull them out soon you intend to see that Congress does."

"I know they're going to complain about foodprices."

"Your answer to that," the press secretary said, "is that if the Vietnamese don't do something about the boat people you are going to urge the President to wipe Hanoi off the face of the earth."

"That should do it," Bilge said. "If this doesn't prove I'm concerned with their problems, nothing will."

Mark Russell says

The Presidency is too big a job for one person so the least we can do is put a schizophrenic in the White House — then, when the polls come out, half of him will always be ahead of somebody.

Our forefathers didn't know about cocaine and breeder reactors and couldn't imagine the complexity of today's society. They were only concerned with living and dying — not nuclear power, technological advancement and dull and dingy hair.

The National Anthem of this generation would be written by Paul Anka as he watches the rocket's red glare from the deck of the Love Boat.

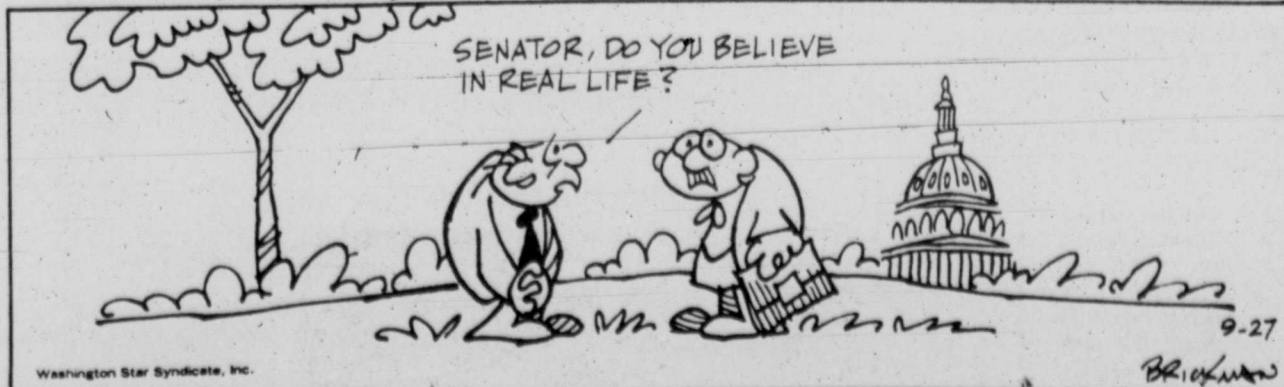

If "Profiles in Courage" were to be written today, it would be about a snail darter.

In the '70s, Patrick Henry would say, "Give me liberty — or give me my RC."

Radioactive barrel is safe

BEACH, N.D. (AP) — A barrel of low-grade radioactive material, pulled from a burning truck before it could rupture, was sitting today in the basement of the fire station that serves this town of about 1,500.

"Someone from Pacific Intermountain Express (trucking company) was here and said he would send a truck to pick up the barrel," Beach Fire Chief Don "Monk" Gilman said late Wednesday.

"He didn't tell me when the truck would come, but he promised it'll be here soon."

Officials had feared the barrel holding the non-explosive material — a combination of uranium 235 and thorium 232 oxide — might rupture and contaminate the area.

"We were prepared for the worst, and fortunately it didn't occur," said the Health Department's Gene Christianson.

The fire broke out when a wheel in the cab of the truck — which also was carrying Bibles and gift wrapping paper — broke and apparently ignited a fuel line.

Soviet troops discovered on Japanese islands

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. intelligence report says the Soviet Union now has a division-size force of 10,000 to 12,000 troops on four islands claimed by Japan 40 miles off the northern Japanese coast, Defense Agency officials reported today.

Foreign Ministry sources said Japan would file a formal protest with the Soviets if the report is confirmed.

According to the U.S. information, up to 2,000 additional Soviet troops have arrived on the island of Shikotan, bringing to 10,000 to 12,000 the total force on the four islands, which have been held by the Soviets since the closing days of World War II, the Japanese defense officials said.

One official said the Defense Agency "agreed there was information that there was a possibility of Soviet troops in Shikotan."

Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira said today the report had not been verified, but he said "appropriate" diplomatic steps would be taken if it is confirmed. He spoke to reporters during an election campaign appearance.

Japanese Foreign Ministry sources said these steps would amount to a formal protest to the Soviet Union.

Japan lodged earlier protests when the Soviets placed troops or military facilities on the contested "northern territories" islands off Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island.

A spokesman for former island inhabitants today told a news conference 220 members of his group planned an appeal to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim for the islands' early return to Japan. Spokesman Mitsuo Yanami said they would "take our case to as many U.N. ambassadors as we can," at a rally in New York on Oct. 8.

The defense officials said it was the first time since 1960 that the Soviets had been reported putting troops on Shikotan, an 85-square-mile island 42 miles offshore.

Political analysts here say the buildup may be a response to Japan's signing of a peace treaty with China last year and the normalization of U.S. relations with Peking.

The reported new deployment probably occurred in August when three 5,000-ton Soviet freighters sailed into the island's harbor, defense officials said. It appeared to raise yet another obstacle to Japan's hopes for regaining custody of the islands.

The Japanese news service Kyodo today quoted Moscow Radio as saying in a broadcast monitored here that the Soviet Union "has the right to undertake construction work — either military or civilian — in any part of its territory."

National Guard seizes tritium from company

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Acting on Gov. Bruce Babbitt's orders, National Guardsmen have entered the American Atomics Corp. plant and seized radioactive tritium in an action the company called "absolutely crazy."

The company said Babbitt's order for guardsmen to pack and remove the radioactive substance could endanger Tucson residents.

The plant, which used tritium to make luminous watch dials and signs, was shut down in June after $300,000 worth of food intended for school children was found to be exposed to radiation.

Babbitt said the company was moving too slowly to decommission the plant, and said he was afraid security problems might pose dangers that could end with the release of radiation.

The company has maintained that the levels of radiation involved do not pose any hazard. And Wednesday, Babbitt said American Atomics attorney Harold C. Warnock reiterated "his oft-repeated position that nothing is wrong and that the whole situation is a red herring."

The $500,000 worth of tritium, much of it inside glass tubes, will be removed to a location as yet undetermined for burial, processing or release.

"Don't worry, it (the site) will be identified when it's picked within 24 to 48 hours," Babbitt said. "There's no special secrecy attached to this operation."

The order came as a surprise, since the company agreed July 11 in hearings before the Arizona Atomic Energy Commission to surrender its license to handle tritium and to decommission its plant in 100 days.

Babbitt said there had been a break-in about a week before his order and that the plant lacked effective security.

"The fire protection was jury-rigged and in the event of fire or a breach of security it would have put a community of 500,000 people at risk of exposure to enormous masses of tritium," he said.

American Atomic president Peter J. Biehl blamed red tape for the delayed decommissioning.

BOSTON (AP) — A new study in the New England Journal of Medicine says that despite earlier promising results, large doses of vitamin C will not cure cancer.

Researchers at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., tested vitamin C on patients with advanced cases of cancer. They concluded, "We were unable to show a therapeutic benefit of high-dose vitamin C treatment."

Tom Caffarella, Biehl's assistant, refused to stay at the plant after state officials and Tucson police arrived. He called the order "absolutely crazy" and said he feared someone could push the wrong valve.

Anti-nukes to continue campaign

VERNON, Vt. (AP) — Anti-nuclear activists say they are prepared to continue their campaign against the Vermont Yankee nuclear plant "indefinitely" following the arrest of 33 more protesters for blocking the plant's gate.

Wednesday's demonstration was the second attempt in four days to disrupt the 540-megawatt reactor's annual refueling.

"The burden is on us because it's clear that the state is not going to act to shut this plant down," said John Warshaw of the Vermont Yankee Decommissioning Alliance, which organized the demonstrations.

The arrests came as state officials were still trying to process the last of 167 demonstrators arrested at the plant Sunday. Like the majority of their predecessors, most of those arrested Wednesday refused to give their names to police.

But in contrast to Sunday's demonstration, when many protesters had to be carried away after shouting down police warnings, the demonstrators sat silently in front of the gate.

Labor, Carter wage agreement reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders, the sharpest critics of President Carter's voluntary wage guidelines, have reached a tentative agreement with the administration on a liberalized set of guidelines for next year, government sources report.

Under the agreement, labor leaders would help operate the new voluntary anti-inflation program through their membership on a "pay board," which also would be composed of business and public representatives, said the sources.

The sources, who asked to remain unnamed, said the agreement was fashioned after extensive negotiations between Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO, and Treasury Secretary G. William Miller.

A formal AFL-CIO endorsement of a new anti-inflation program must await action Friday by the federation's full executive council. AFL-CIO President George Meany announced Wednesday that he was summoning the 33 union presidents who sit on the council to a special session to consider the program.

A vote of approval by the counsel would represent a major victory for Carter, who has lost substantial political support from labor leaders over the past year because of their displeasure with his anti-inflation program.

Sources refused to discuss the revised program in detail until after the AFL-CIO executive board reviews it. But they said the current 7 percent annual wage guideline would be loosened and the pay board would be given a meaningful role in overseeing and revising new wage guidelines.

The sources also said the agreement with the 14-million-member AFL-CIO may be revised further, and that the government is still trying to win support from business leaders.

Carter's voluntary wage-price restraint program begins its second year next month. The guidelines established last October held wage and fringe benefit increases to 7 percent a year, and price increases to 0.5 percent below a company's average increases during 1976 and 1977.

Organized labor complained from the start that the guidelines would succeed in suppressing worker wages but not prices. That is what has happened, labor leaders now complain. They add that a 7 percent wage ceiling is unfair to workers with consumer prices soaring at 13 percent a year.

The administration, which considers labor support vital for any anti-inflation effort to succeed, had planned to propose new guidelines by Sept. 15, just before the program was to end its first year. But the administration decided to extend the current guidelines so it could continue negotiating with labor leaders on a program they would back.

A major sticking point during the talks involved how much authority the pay board would have in setting and altering wage guidelines. The AFL-CIO had demanded broad authority to set the guidelines as the price for its support, but the administration had opposed granting the board such sweeping powers.

A pay board was last established by the Nixon administration in 1971 to help administer its mandatory wage-price controls. However, Meany and other labor leaders resigned from the board a few months later in protest of what they said was a program slanted in favor of business.

United Way resists change

ODESSA — Planned Parenthood will stay in the 1979-80 United Way fund raising drive despite protests from some Odessans.

The board of directors of the fund drive voted 22-3 Wednesday to keep the health counseling agency as one of 14 member agencies.

More than 1,000 people had signed four petitions and 28 letters protesting the support of Planned Parenthood because it offers abortion counseling as part of its services.

Planned Parenthood also receives support from the Midland United Way.

Carter-Kennedy fencing goes on

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his own hand, President Carter has told Sen. Edward M. Kennedy he meant no reference to Chappaquiddick when he said he himself could handle a crisis without panic.

Kennedy says he appreciates the gesture.

But the fencing goes on. Kennedy, appearing at a $1,000-a-plate party fund-raising dinner hours after a presidential aide delivered Carter's note Wednesday, said he "was glad to get it."

Kennedy said he did not consider the note an apology.

Presidential press secretary Jody Powell said the note was an "explanation" following what the president called "grossly exaggerated" press accounts of the remark, made Tuesday night at a "town meeting" in New York City.

A participant at the meeting had mentioned Kennedy and then asked Carter how he intended to "inspire" voters. Carter replied:

"We've had some crises where it required a steady hand, a careful and deliberative decision to be made. I don't think I panicked."

Powell disclosed the existence of the hand-written note in a conversation with reporters. He said the president also sent Kennedy, D-Mass., a verbatim transcript of the town meeting.

Kennedy, at a reception before the dinner, said he considers presidential leadership a legitimate issue and intends to make it, not Chappaquiddick, one of the major issues of the campaign — if he runs.

"Were I to be a candidate," Kennedy said, "I'd be talking about the issues which are most in the minds of the American people and I think that's also what he'd want."

In the past, the White House has said that if Kennedy challenges Carter, the president would not make an issue of Kennedy's reaction to the crisis conditions when the senator drove a car off a bridge at Chappaquiddick, Mass., in 1969, resulting in the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

Carter followed Kennedy's appearance at a poolside reception with a dinner speech laced with appeals for party unity. Carter said the party had carried the country through a depression, two world wars and a commitment to help the poor in the 1960s "united."

"Now we must face the challenge of 1980 as a united Democratic Party," he said. "With selfish divisions among ourselves, our voice is fractured and cannot be clearly heard."

As for his leadership, the president said, "We have never avoided a single difficult issue, no matter what the political consequences might be."

He then delivered a laundry list of his administration's accomplishments from civil service reform to the fact that "not one single American life has been lost in combat" since he took office.

Lynette Young, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack W. Young, has been selected Junior Lioness of the Week. She has a 3.4 grade average at Midland High School, where she is a senior. She is on the Student Council, is football secretary and a member of the First Presbyterian Church and the Symphony Debs.

Financial fallout multiplying for nuclear power industry

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Fears of a nuclear catastrophe have abated in the six months following the accident at Three Mile Island. But financial problems have continued to mount for General Public Utilities Corp., owner of the damaged $1.3 billion Pennsylvania complex.

Its nuclear complex at Three Mile Island is still shut down — and may be for some time — and that means higher rates for its customers not only near the plant but in other parts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The accident cannot help but further slow nuclear development by other utilities, and some would argue — though it is disputed — that this will mean higher electric bills for many. GPU, the nation's 17th-largest utility, also has cut its stock dividend and payroll and is borrowing $200 million in a period of sharply rising interest rates to stay solvent.

Profits in the first seven months of the year were off 27 percent from 1978's level, and the value of a share of GPU stock has slumped from $17.75 the day before the accident to around $10 today.

The utility also is looking for a new president of Metropolitan Edison — the subsidiary that runs Three Mile Island — to replace Walter M. Creitz, who resigned in late August to handle "special assignments" for GPU.

"We're still in a kind of state of uncertainty as we work our way out of the Three Mile Island problem," GPU

President Herman Dieckamp said in a recent interview.

At J. Ray McDermott & Co. Inc., whose Babcock & Wilcox subsidiary built the damaged reactor, conditions haven't changed much since the accident March 28. The nuclear power business was weak well before the accident and remains depressed, but McDermott officials have said the company has no plans to leave the field.

The offshore oilfield construction industry, McDermott's other major field, also is "under extreme pressure," Chairman James E. Cunningham said recently as the company was reporting a 43 percent earnings drop in the quarter ended June 30.

Cunningham and other McDermott officials have refused to comment on several federal class-action suits filed by Harrisburg-area residents against it and Babcock & Wilcox. But both Babcock & Wilcox and a Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff report have contended that plant operator errors were major causes of the accident.

GPU "continues to work" with Babcock & Wilcox, and "keeps evaluating the question" of a suit against the reactor builder, Dieckamp said. But for now, its prime concern is restoring the complex to normal.

GPU still doesn't know when the damaged reactor at the complex near Harrisburg will be decontaminated, although the utility estimates the job could take about four years.

And it may be more than a year before the other Three Mile Island nuclear power unit, undamaged but closed since the accident, will be returned to service. The delay in restarting the undamaged No. 1 reactor may mean higher rates next year for GPU's 1.5 million customers in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

GPU is spending $26 million a day to replace the power lost in the Three Mile Island shutdown, up from $24 million a day last spring due to recent oil price increases.

It based recently approved rate increase requests in Pennsylvania and New Jersey on a return to cheaper nuclear power by January, with its most recent increase a $70 million increase in mid-September for customers of its Jersey Central Power & Light unit. That raises the average residential customer's bill by 8.1 percent to $39.37 a month.

The costs of building and maintaining the damaged No. 2 reactor, meanwhile, have been removed by state regulators from customers' rates and are being deducted instead from GPU's earnings.

And with Nuclear Regulatory Commission hearings into the status of the No. 1 reactor scheduled for February, GPU now believes the undamaged unit won't be running before "September, or perhaps January 1981," Dieckamp said.

"We'll probably have to be reviewing the fuel adjustment clauses," which allow the passing-on of rising energy costs to consumers, "in both states," he said. "The current clauses do not include Three Mile Island being out in 1980."

Hollywood dropout makes comeback after 52 years

COSTA MESA, Calif. — Joey Marion McCreery Lewyn is a Hollywood dropout. Fifty-two years ago she had a successful career going, as silent film actress Marion Mack. But it was wrecking her marriage, so she quit. Now, after years of obscurity, she has been rediscovered. The whole thing, she will tell you, amuses her.

"I hadn't gotten a fan letter for 50 years," she said recently. "Now they come from Japan, Norway, New York. People ask me to be on television shows, to come for film revivals. It's amazing."

Joey Lewyn, alias Marion Mack, is 77 and retired from her third career — selling real estate in Orange County, just south of Los Angeles. A widow for 10 years, she spends most of her time painting oil portraits of friends and relatives, and swims every day to keep in shape.

She hasn't been to Hollywood — just 40 miles away — or seen a movie in quite a while.

This warm afternoon, as she sits in the living room of her home in Costa Mesa, Mrs. Lewyn is talking about her past life in Hollywood.

She gave up her acting career in 1927 — the last film she made was a Buster Keaton's leading lady in "The General" — because her husband didn't want her to be away from home so much. She became a successful screenwriter with her producer husband until the late 1940s. Then she decided to chuck the whole scene.

"I'll tell you the truth," Mrs. Lewyn said. "I had had so much acting and writing that I just wanted a change. So I went into real estate. I was quite successful at that, too. And I got a big kick out of it."

"Of course, I had to change my whole mode of living. We owned big houses and three Rolls-Royces. But when I came down here, I didn't have the big houses to entertain in. I did miss my friends in Hollywood. But I just changed my life style."

"And all these years no one knew about me," Mrs. Lewyn added. "I guess everyone thought I was dead. But I can assure them I'm not. I had two heart attacks last year and had only a 10 percent chance to make it, but here I am."

Mrs. Lewyn says she didn't know anyone was looking for her until seven years ago when she got a phone call from Paris and a man asked if she was Marion Mack.

"I hadn't even heard that name in years," Mrs. Lewyn said. "I was shocked for a minute. Then I thought it must be one of my friends playing a joke on me."

The call was no joke. It was the end of a 10-year search by New Yorker Raymond Rohauer, a film historian and collector who usually hunts for lost films, not people.

"She finally admitted she was Miss Mack," said Rohauer, in Los Angeles recently on business and to see Mrs. Lewyn. "I had looked everywhere. Exhausted the usual sources. Then a woman in Los Angeles named Lewyn said there was a member of the family living in Switzerland who was related to her. I called the lady in Switzerland while I was in Europe and she told me Marion lived in Costa Mesa. She was in the phone book."

Rohauer eventually convinced Mrs. Lewyn, who had just retired from her real estate business, that she should come out of seclusion and go on tour with him to promote Buster Keaton film festivals. Since then, Rohauer and Mrs. Lewyn have toured through the East, Northwest, Canada, Europe, Japan and the Middle East.

AT WIT'S END

Inclined to practicality

By ERMA BOMBECK
I am absolutely fascinated by the boy King Tutankhamon, whose tomb was uncovered 56 years ago revealing treasures never imagined.

The very idea of being buried in an apartment stocked with 5,000 dazzling works of art, sculptures, alabaster vases, perfumed boxes and gold chariots is beyond comprehension.

This country has never been big on taking it with them, but the other night as I was pondering the possibility it occurred to me that it wasn't a bad idea.

Unlike the woman who wanted to be buried with a phone "just in case she got a dial tone," I am inclined to be a little more practical. Not that I'm ready to go, but when I do, here's a list of things I want to take with me.

Job sharing called workable alternative

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Not everyone in the labor force needs or wants a full-time job. That was a problem in the past. But more and more workers, and their employers, are getting involved in "job sharing."

New Ways to Work, a non-profit organization with offices in San Francisco and Palo Alto, was organized in 1972. It sponsored the first pilot project involving job sharing in the United States, said Barney Olmsted, co-founder of the organization.

What is job sharing? Ms. Olmsted says it's one permanent, full-time job, shared by two people who generally split working hours, job responsibilities and fringe benefits.

She says job sharing is an important alternative to the traditional 9-to-5 job for many workers, including divorced parents; widows or widowers with children; elderly workers not quite ready to retire; men and women who want to continue or complete their education; and full-time employees who want to trade work for more leisure.

The job-sharing project grew out of our identifying the fact that over 30 percent of our clients on a consistent basis were interested in career-oriented, part-time work and couldn't find it in their fields," she said.

New Ways to Work handles about 1,200 clients a year. Ms. Olmsted said about 4,000 clients in the past three and one-half years had been interested in job sharing.

A national survey by New Ways to Work, covering 240 job sharers representing 135 jobs, found that 65 percent of those sharing jobs had decided to try it while already employed; 33 percent had jobs that involved supervising other workers; some were in high-level jobs with salaries exceeding $25,000; and most were eligible for employee benefits.

Ms. Olmsted said the "typical" job-sharing client at New Ways to Work had at least a few years of college and was a professional worker, "although we do have a number of people come in for blue-collar jobs, assembly-line jobs."

The types of jobs now being shared across the United States, according to a New Ways to Work brochure, now include city planner, engineer, program developer, career counselor, probation officer, social worker, teacher, secretary, administrative assistant, and librarian.

DEAR ABBY

She won't stand for seat-savers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The practice of "saving seats" needs some guidelines much like the guidelines for tipping. I recently attended a graduation exercise where two people arrived early and "saved" 20 seats in the front row for the rest of the family who arrived one minute before the activities started!

At least 500 people walked down to the front row during that time, thinking those seats were available.

Because no guidelines exist with regard to this practice, all persons honored the "Sorry, these seats are taken," explanation.

May I suggest a rule? One person may save ONE SEAT ONLY in public places.

Because this situation occurs frequently, your comments would be greatly appreciated. — NO SEATS IN LINCOLN, NEB.

DEAR SEATS: Your suggestion makes a lot of sense. But a trend has to start somewhere; I'm willing. How about you? Readers!

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a very affectionate man. Don't get me wrong, I'm not complaining; I'm lucky, but I think there's a time and place for everything. My problem is that Henry will pinch me on the behind, or make a grab for me in front of the kids, and it makes me very uncomfortable.

I don't mind being patted and pawed when Henry and I are alone, but I get embarrassed when he does it in front of the kids. When I tell him how I feel about this, he says it's good for the kids to see this kind of thing at home, and it's nothing to be ashamed of.

I agree, kids should witness love and affection between parents, but isn't there a limit? and if so, where is it? —THE OBJECT OF HIS AFFECTIONS

DEAR OBJECT: Love and affection are indeed beautiful. And children who witness it at home are blessed. But the limit is reached when you begin to feel uncomfortable.

Retired Stanton teacher to be honored Saturday

STANTON — Former school students of Caledonia Daugherty at Stanton will honor Mrs. Daugherty at a reunion scheduled here Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Daugherty was the first black teacher at Stanton, coming here in 1935 from Big Spring. She taught here until retiring in 1954. She continues to reside in Stanton.

Mrs. Daugherty recalls that the first black school was in the St. James Church building on Stanton's South Side. Later, a one-room cinder block school building was erected and in later years another black teacher joined Mrs. Daugherty at the school.

Still later, there were five teachers. In those years, students in grades 9 through 12 were bussed to Midland's Carver High School, she said.

Saturday's reunion will begin at 3 p.m. in the Cap Rock Electric Co-op auditorium in Stanton. The afternoon will be highlighted with visiting, reminiscing and a barbecue meal.

A group of Mrs. Daugherty's former students residing in Midland have formed a committee to coordinate plans for the homecoming and reunion event. They include Erma Dawson, Mary Tippens, Vetta Johnson, Osiaphene Walker, Tonjie Hunter and Lois Mitchell.

At the reunion, the Rev. Johnny Mitchell, pastor of Midland's Antioch Baptist Church, will be the featured speaker.

A former student of Mrs. Daugherty's at Stanton, Mitchell will lead the tributes to be paid to the long-time teacher by her former students residing in numerous cities and towns in this area, and in other sectors of the state.

A large turnout of former students is expected for the event.

Rules for lighting up your life

By BARBARA MAYER AP Newsfeatures

A rule-of-thumb when professionals design a residential lighting system is to provide for three separate sources of light in each room.

General illumination comes from a central source, such as a ceiling fixture (and from the windows in the daytime). Task lighting is set wherever it is needed to provide light for specific tasks, such as desk work, reading or cooking. And mood lights provide decorative accents — on tables, for example, or by illuminating a painting, or by reflecting furniture and plants to make interesting shadows.

To duplicate the results obtained by professionals, consumers should steer clear of a single, powerful light source. Instead, purchase several lamps or a track system to provide a mixture of general and task lighting from a variety of sources.

Whatever you do, don't try to light the entire room equally. "In a well-lit room, there should be some dark areas," explains George Kovacs, a lighting manufacturer. "Shadows create interest and drama," he adds.

Luckily for consumers, lighting types available to the buying public have recently expanded greatly. In addition to the standard incandescent ceiling fixtures and lamps, special lamps exist for virtually every purpose. Wall washers bathe an entire wall in light; pin lights illuminate a single small area. Fluorescent fixtures tuck under cabinets to provide excellent task lights. Uplights, which are made to be set on the floor, cast a circle of light upward, creating interesting shadows when set behind objects.

Then there is track lighting, that most useful modern product. Track lighting does not differ in kind from other types of lighting. But it does differ in function. The track organizes the lighting for greater flexibility.

It is a system which contains in an electric raceway, or a track, all the wiring and other elements needed to produce a light. A variable number of individual lamps can be attached to the track which can be mounted on the ceiling or wall or recessed into either.

Once the track is up, a variety of lamp types is available to illuminate specific areas.

The greatest advantage of track lighting is its flexibility. The track puts the light exactly where it is needed. Then, if needs change, the lights can be reattached elsewhere on the track.

According to one lighting retailer, a moderately competent do-it-yourselfer can install a surface-mounted track system from an existing outlet box on the ceiling or wall.

A good-quality system might run about $100 with three fixtures and eight feet of track.

Home Furnishing News

By Terry Hodges

RELAXED ELEGANCE is probably the mood and effect most homemakers strive for long for in furnishings. It is a result that can be achieved with many different decorative styles, from Mediterranean to modern.

Large pieces, with their strongly dominant lines, are, interestingly enough, relaxing and reassuring. With their massive proportions, they are often exceptionally comfortable and functional, which adds to the relaxed mood.

Beautiful woods are also both elegant and inviting, as furniture craftsmen have known for centuries. Finely crafted details, so popular in furnishings from French Provincial to hand-carved Mediterranean pieces, draw the eye and hold it, creating a restful effect. Psychologists tell us that sitting and looking at a beautiful object is an excellent way to relax and dissolve tensions.

Materials, too, can be elegant and at the same time invite you to sit down and make yourself comfortable. Soft velvets, which have returned to popularity, are just one example.

You'll find just the right furnishings to create that elegantly relaxed mood you want in your home when you inspect our new displays. Our trained home counselors can help you coordinate your needs, your furnishings and your budget!

On meat and the pubs in England

By MERLE ELLIS

Took the family for a bit of a trek about England this summer. Had a smashing good time and returned with a resolve not to complain quite so bitterly about the price of anything here in America. We really are quite well off. Petrol at 1 pound, 25 pence in England translates to over $2 a gallon in our language. And "rump steak" (that's English for top sirloin) is well over $5 a pound.

There is one thing they have over there, however, that I wish we had over here — pubs. In the evening between 6 and 11, an English pub is very much like one of our neighborhood bars. Folks drop around for a drink, toss a few "arrows" (darts), and talk of the high price of petrol. But around noon, an English pub is possibly the place to go for the best, most satisfying, least expensive meal to be found on either side of the Atlantic.

Every village has at least one pub, and when they open, farmers, merchants, tradesmen and all nearby tourists head for the nearest one for lunch. Most of them — certainly those that serve the best lunch — seemed to be family-run operations. Pop, casually dressed in shirt and tie (that's casual in England), "pulled pints" at the bar and called back the food orders to Mums in the kitchen. The fare ranged from the simple "ploughmen's" (a hunk of good cheddar, a hunk of good bread, a sliced tomato and a pickled onion) to fish and chips and some of the best tasting casseroles and meat pies I've ever tasted.

Here are a couple of recipes from the English country pubs that appealed to me, not only because they are good, but because they are inexpensive to prepare. My family of four enjoyed many such meals in countless English pubs for but little more than two pounds, and that included two pints for "Pop."

Most every pub has some version of shepherd's pie. It's a simple hearty dish consisting of a sort of hamburger stew topped with a layer of mashed potatoes. It's also a good way to use up leftover roast beef.

SHEPHERD'S PIE

1 lb. potatoes
1/4 pint beef stock
1 lb. cooked minced beef (The English call ground beef, minced beef, but you can just as well use leftover roast cut in small cubes or ground.)

2 tomatoes, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
2 T. butter
1 egg, beaten
Salt, pepper

Peel and cube the potatoes and cook them in salted water until tender; drain and mash. Sauté the onions in butter until they are limp, then crumble in the ground meat and cook through. If the meat has been previously cooked, simply dice or grind it and stir it into the onions. Add the tomatoes and seasonings. Turn the mixture into a casserole and top with mashed potatoes.

Brush the top with a little beaten egg and bake in a 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. Serves 4.

Almost any leftover vegetables — peas, diced carrots, lima or string beans — can be added if you have them on hand. One pub served shepherd's pie with sliced, cooked potatoes rather than mashed for the topping. Use your imagination and your leftovers to create your own version.

Pastes, not to be confused with pates, often appear as English pub lunch fare. These, too, offer great opportunities for turning little bits and pieces of leftovers into delicious and attractive luncheon food. Here is a recipe from a delightful little book by Simone Sekers titled "Pates, Terrines and Potted Meats." I found a copy in a bookstore in London, and I'm not sure if it is available in the U.S. If it isn't, it should be. It could teach us a lot about making good use of leftovers.

HAM AND CHICKEN PASTE

6 oz. cooked chicken
4 oz. cooked ham
5 oz. soft butter
Salt
Freshly ground pepper
Pinch fresh thyme
1 bay leaf
Clarified butter

Mince the ham and chicken finely and blend with the soft butter until thoroughly mixed. Season to taste with the salt, pepper and chopped fresh thyme (or tarragon in season). Put the bay leaf at the bottom of the pot and pile in the paste on top. Allow it to stand in the kitchen for an hour before sealing with clarified butter and storing in the refrigerator. Serves 4 to 6.

They wrote 'Better' Than Store-Bought'

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

About a dozen years ago I began including in my columns an occasional feature on "Copycat Cooking."

Each such column offered a home-made version of a food usually bought in markets. Sometimes I duplicated a packaged food that could be improved in a home kitchen by including the highest quality ingredients and by excluding artificial flavors and coloring. Occasionally I featured packaged foods — such as English Mint Caramels — that were excellent but unavailable in the United States.

Now comes good news for cookbook collectors. Helen Witty and Elizabeth Schneider Colchie, two superlative cooks, have written a book on "making at home — and making better — some of the mass-produced foods that seem to have been born on market shelves." Both women have done extensive and authoritative work in the field of food writing, editing and researching, and their book "Better Than Store-Bought" (Harper & Row) reflects their experience.

The two met when they were working on the innovative "The Cook's Catalogue." Discovering that they were both fascinated by the idea of developing home recipes for foods usually purchased, they decided to write "Better Than Store-Bought." They worked on their cookbook for three years — testing alone, tasting together, then cross-testing. And discussing their results endlessly, determined to make their recipes extra-special.

FOOD

When I asked Helen Witty about the problems of collaboration, she said "Nit picking! One day Elizabeth and I sat in my kitchen facing four different batches of bagels we had baked. While we eyed them, broke off pieces to taste and generally made a mess, a visiting artist friend quietly sketched us. When we saw how he pictured us we broke up laughing — we couldn't have looked more solemn had we been discussing a world-shaking event."

To give you a taste of "Better Than Store-Bought," here's Helen and Elizabeth's recipe for Marinated Artichoke Hearts. Compared to the bought product, it's thrifty to make at home.

MARINATED ARTICHOKE HEARTS

1 package (10 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts, thawed
5 cups boiling water
1/4 cup white wine vinegar
1/4 cup water
1 clove garlic, peeled but left whole
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1 1/2 teaspoons coarse (kosher) salt
1/2 teaspoon dried basil
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
1/8 teaspoon dried red pepper flakes
1/4 cup olive oil, or as needed
1/4 cup vegetable oil, or as needed

New Date Oat Cookies now better than ever

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Ages ago, at my request, you gave a recipe for drop cookies made with oats, sour cream and dates. I baked them regularly for my children's after-school snacks. (Now my children are at college!) Recently I thought of those cookies and wondered whether you had a richer version of them that my coffee-time guests would enjoy. — COOKIE BUFF.

DEAR COOKIE BUFF: No sooner asked for than given. Here's your recipe. — C.B.

NEW DATE OAT COOKIES

1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup butter or margarine, at room temperature
3/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 large egg
1/2 cup commercial sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup quick-cooking oats
1 cup unpitted fresh-style dates (pitted and scissors-cut crosswise about 1/4-inch wide)

1/2 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
Gated rind of 1 or 2 oranges (1 or 2 packed teaspoons)

Stir together flour, baking soda and salt. Cream butter and brown sugar; add egg, sour cream and vanilla and beat until blended. Add flour mixture and beat until smooth. With your fingers mix oats, dates and walnuts to separate the pieces of dates that stick together; add to batter with grated orange rind; with a spoon mix well. Drop by level tablespoonfuls, about 1 inch apart, onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until tops are lightly browned — about 11 minutes. (The bottoms of the cookies should look well-baked and be a medium brown in color.) With a wide metal spatula remove to wire racks to cool.

Consumer programs upgraded

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is upgrading consumer programs in all federal departments.

Carter signed Wednesday an executive order designed to elevate federal consumer programs from minor roles within agencies to a position where consumer officials share in making all policies.

Esther Peterson, Carter's special assistant for consumer affairs, told reporters before the signing: "Consumer affairs in the government have now moved above the complaint-handling level, the 'repair the zipper' stage. With this step, we have moved into influencing policy."

The executive order directs the 12 federal departments to appoint a high-level official to work full-time on consumer matters and report directly to the cabinet secretary.

Each of the new officials is to supervise the consumer programs of his or her department and participate in making policy, a change from the role of federal consumer offices established during the Ford administration.

Mrs. Peterson said a White House study of these offices found that some do little but serve a public relations function. "It revealed a very confused consumer presence in the federal government. Some programs were very good and some were very poor," she said.

Under the order, the consumer officials in each department will be required to:

— Hire a consumer staff that will participate in developing all agency policies, such as helping draft legislation the department will propose to Congress.

— Devise ways consumers themselves can participate in developing all agency rules and programs.

— Develop systematic ways to handle consumer complaints.

Study shows sexes differ in some reasoning areas

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Eighth-grade girls tend to have trouble with reasoning because their spatial ability is not as well developed as that of boys the same age, Janet Sawyers says research toward her doctorate in home economics at Oklahoma State University here showed. "It appears that spatial ability is more important than verbal ability in solving higher-level problems," said Miss Sawyers, who defined spatial ability as ability to manipulate objects in space mentally — similar to solving problems in geometry. In her developmental study of sex differences in verbal, spatial and logical reasoning, she looked at fourth-graders, eighth-graders and college students. She also found differences in reasoning ability among college students, with males more able than females to solve problems involving ability to reason, to integrate parts and to see the whole picture. After group testing about 230 students, Miss Sawyers selected equal numbers of males and females with varying spatial and verbal ability for a follow-up study. She found the difference in spatial ability showed up strongly around adolescence. "The reason it doesn't show up before may be the type of reasoning children do doesn't draw on that kind of ability," she explained. "When children reach adolescence, reasoning greatly develops but females don't seem to develop this ability as fast as males," she notes. "Channeled along verbal lines because they talk earlier, better and faster, females tend to take a more verbal approach to things when it is not always advantageous to do so." As to why males have greater spatial ability than females, she said, "We encourage males to be more active — to manipulate toys, build with blocks and have physical contact with things. "When males reach adolescence and need to manipulate objects mentally, they have already developed an ability they can draw on to help them reason and solve problems logically." Miss Sawyers believes her research has practical implications for curriculum in early childhood education. "Parents and society often push traditional paper and pencil activities on children at young ages," she says. "Many times we have to defend having learning centers and active participation in our schools. The curriculum is almost entirely verbal and passive with almost no regard for developing spatial ability." She thinks males catch up with females in verbal ability because it is stressed at school and in the home. "You have to pick up spatial ability incidentally or on your own," she said. As recently appointed director of the Child Development Laboratories at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., Miss Sawyers plans to continue studying sex differences in ability in active learning-center programs versus those with passive types of activities.

Official says more women in dentistry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Until recent years there hasn't been a preponderance of women in the field of dentistry or, for that matter, in any health profession outside nursing. But all that is changing because of shifting economic circumstances, a larger role for women in the working world, and because of women like Patricia Cormier of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Dental Medicine. "When I came here four years ago, we had something like four women in a class of about 107, or so," said Mrs. Cormier, who recently took over as associate dean of the dental school. This year, she said, 25 percent of the graduating class was composed of women. "The rise has been clearly monumental," she said.

In announcing her appointment in August, Dean Walter B. Cohen said he believed Mrs. Cormier was the first woman non-dentist to hold so high an administrative position. Mrs. Cormier, who joined the staff in 1973, has a bachelor's degree in dental hygiene and a doctoral degree in developmental psychology from the University of Virginia. She was named assistant professor of periodontology (which deals with supporting structures around the teeth, such as gums) and organized a special program to train people with low IQs to be dental aides. The Bridgeport, Conn., native who lives with her husband and three children in suburban Haverford, says women are becoming more aware of opportunities available to them in medicine. At the same time, the humanities, a traditional academic stronghold for women, are not as lucrative and a teaching degree is not a sure bet on the job market, she said. "For the first time they (women) are realizing that they can combine this kind of professional life with marriage and a family," Mrs. Cormier said. According to the American Dental Association, women enrollment in dental schools went from less than 1 percent in 1968 to 13.5 percent in 1976, and the trend continues. "An increasing number of dental hygienists are becoming dentists," Mrs. Cormier said, noting that in Europe women have always been prominent in the field. "For one thing, there's a different kind of system (in Europe)," she said. "There is a two-tier level of dentistry." Under this system, most of the routine tasks such as cleaning, fillings and teeth-pullings are performed by women, she said, while men tend to dominate oral surgery. Mrs. Cormier believes that many women are, as she was, attracted to dentistry because it provides an opportunity to help people. "I believe that it's one of the few ravages of humankind that is controllable. It's a disease phenomenon about which you can do something," she said. "With other diseases, the experience of failure is very high."

High Plains water well survey scheduled

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Water Resources next month will begin an intensive field survey of water wells in the High Plains area of Texas, including wells in Midland County, in an attempt to evaluate the extent of the Ogallala Aquifer.

The survey, due to begin in early October, is part of a multi-state study on the aquifer, which underlies most of the South Plains and stretches as far north as Kansas.

Measurements to the water table from the land surface will be made every 10 square miles to determine the depth and extent of the water aquifer.

The TDWR has been involved in several surveys of water level on the High Plains for a number of years. Annual readings on those surveys are available from the TDWR.

Measurements will be made in privately owned wells across Texas.

Midland, Ector, Andrews Martin, Howard and Glasscock counties will be surveyed under the program.

Survey shows gasoline supplies, prices rising

HOUSTON — Of a total of 15 service stations surveyed this month in the Midland-Odessa area, 53 percent closed at 8 p.m. on weekdays, 20 percent closed at 6 p.m. on Saturdays and 40 percent closed on Sundays.

Meanwhile, gasoline availability in Texas has improved dramatically since Labor Day, according to a survey of the American Automobile Association.

But gasoline prices also have risen about a half-cent per gallon each week during the month of September, the association said.

The first of a series of monthly surveys of 390 service stations conducted by the association shows that 35 percent of the stations are now staying open later than 8 p.m. on weekdays, compared to 30 percent when AAA issued its 17th and last weekly Fuel Gauge Report at the end of August.

Fifty-four percent of the stations are pumping gasoline on Saturday nights, compared to 44 percent in the earlier survey. Thirty-eight percent are open on Sundays, the same percentage as in August.

According to AAA, the survey revealed an increase in the number of stations open 24 hours a day, from 5 percent of the total to 6 percent, and a sharp decrease in the number of stations out of one or another grade of fuel, from 7 percent in August to 2 percent this month.

Gasoline prices rose from 1.5 to 2.5 cents per gallon in the three weeks between the surveys. Current average full-service prices, with previous survey prices noted in parentheses, are regular 92.5 cents per gallon (90.3); unleaded 95.9 cents (94.1); and premium 97.9 (95.4).

Average self-service prices are regular 89.5 (87.7); unleaded 93.2 (91.7); and premium 95.0 (93.1). The average price of diesel fuel is 95.6 cents per gallon, compared to 93.3 in the earlier survey.

Ireland's Chieftains set performance for pope

By The Associated Press

The Chieftains have performed for presidents, prime ministers and a host of other dignitaries through the years, but the Irish folk music group will hit its professional zenith Sept. 29 when it plays for an expected 1 million people, including Pope John Paul II.

The pontiff is scheduled to celebrate an open-air Mass in Dublin's Phoenix Park that day, at the start of a three-day papal visit to Ireland.

"We're all over the moon," said the Chieftains' leader, Paddy Moloney, from his home in Dublin. "We're happy, honored and thrilled."

Moloney said the Chieftains will greet the pope with "Carolans Welcome," based on traditional music of the 17th century Irish harpist, Torlogh Carolan, a blind man who repaid kindness with songs performed to harp accompaniment.

Other traditional Irish music is to be performed at the Mass, Moloney added. The Chieftains were selected after talks involving representatives of the Irish government and the Vatican, said Charles Comer, the group's representative in New York.

Comer added the pope, known to play the guitar and sing folk ballads of his native Poland, is said to be something of a fan of the Chieftains. "They say he has a couple Chieftains albums in the Vatican," Comer said. The Mass in Dublin begins a nine-day papal visit to Ireland and the United States.

Moloney and the Chieftains — named for the Irish chieftains who gave the country its earliest music — go back about 20 years, when four musicians got together in a Dublin pub.

Over the years, the group has grown from four to seven members while cutting eight albums, scoring a number of movies and stage productions, and touring the world several times.

TWC grants El Paso Products permission to discharge sludge

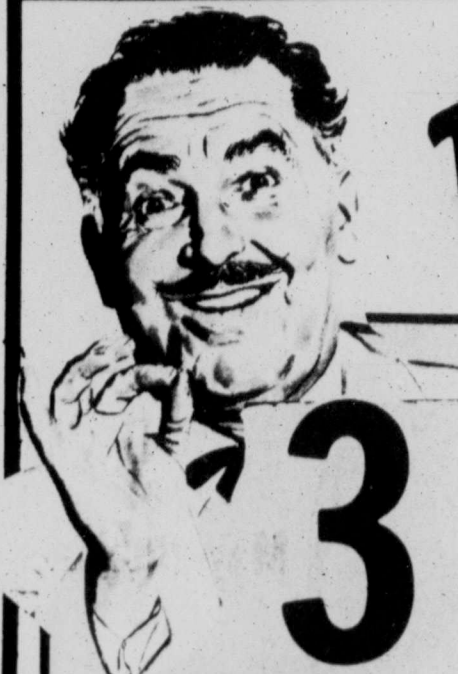

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Water Commission has granted El Paso Products, Odessa, permission to discharge 20 million gallons of sewage sludge and treated domestic wastewater.

The TWC authorized the one-time discharge following a hearing Monday in which no opposition was voiced to the proposal.

The discharge will come from the company's fire water holding lagoon to the El Paso Sludge Lagoon, also known as the Old City Landfill.

TWC hearing examiner Larry Soward said there was discussion whether the discharge would violate a court order limiting the use of the landfill, but that issue was decided in favor of the discharge.

Treasury task force promoting failing Anthony dollar coin, $2 bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imagine, if you can, a world without dollar bills; a world where the new Susan B. Anthony dollar coin holds sway with a little help from a $2 paper note.

Several members of the House Banking Committee would prefer not to, despite the recommendation of a government task force.

Two House banking subcommittees conducted a hearing Tuesday on the Susan B. Anthony dollar, in circulation since July 2. And members weren't happy with the new coin.

"Based on my survey, the American people don't think the dollar coin is worth a plug nickel," said Rep. Thomas Evans, R-Del.

Rep. Joseph G. Minish, D-N.J., observing that the Anthony dollar has been termed the "Edsel of the monetary system," added, "Unfortunately, it's becoming more and more evident, with each passing day, that the new coin is a flop."

Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., expressed displeasure that the government has hired a public relations firm to promote the coin.

"It may be all right for Colonel Sanders to spend millions of dollars a year promoting his chicken, but I don't want to see the Treasury spending taxpayers dollars to promote its turkey," said the Illinois Democrat.

The coin, slightly larger than a quarter, is more expensive to produce than a dollar bill, but cheaper in the long run because it lasts longer. Officials estimate the government could save up to $50 million dollars a year through greater use of the coin, a point made at the House hearing by representatives of the Treasury, Mint and Federal Reserve.

Despite the potential savings, the dollar so far has not caught on with consumers.

Rep. Mary Rose Oaker, D-Ohio, a strong backer of legislation passed last year to mint the coin, told the House subcommittees it will take more time for the public to become acquainted with the coin. She warned Congress against "orchestrating a premature burial rite."

While subcommittee members were heaping scorn on the Anthony dollar, the Treasury was releasing a task force recommendation for wider use of the coin.

The task force, comprised of officials from the Treasury Department, the Mint, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the Federal Reserve, said the $1 bill should be systematically replaced with the Anthony dollar.

The report said the half-dollar coin should be eliminated, suggested that pennies be made of a "cheaper aluminum alloy" if copper prices continued to rise, and said plastics, more durable than paper, should be studied for future use as American currency.

TESCO gives reliable service despite obstacles: Marquardt

ODESSA — Despite obstacles imposed by the federal government, Texas Electric Service Co. has been able to provide its customers with reliable service when and where they need it, TESCO President W.G. Marquardt of Fort Worth said Wednesday night at the company's annual Quarter Century Club banquet in the Pan American Ballroom here.

"Our job is to be there when people need us," he told the more than 500 people at the banquet honoring TESCO employees who have worked for the company for 25 or more years, "and if we do a good enough job, they don't even notice us."

Marquardt noted that "government rules, regulations and restrictions" are the blockades that are "keeping us from solving the energy problem."

"They're killing us and our customers on price, too," he said. Marquardt said the bureaucrats are about the "biggest reason" why TESCO has needed recent rate increases.

"If we didn't have massive federal over-regulation, and runaway inflation fueled by federal policies, we wouldn't have needed the rate increase we've been asking for... And I bet you, we wouldn't have had the long lines at the gas stations last summer, either."

"A lot of the time, the things government dictates cost a whole lot more than they're worth," he said. "And often they don't reflect what the people really want."

"Federal policies and inflation are forcing our costs up," he said. "And we must have rates that will keep us financially sound," Marquardt said. "You won't find a better electric company anywhere, and that didn't happen by accident."

In turning to TESCO's latest surge at providing power in the future, Marquardt said the Comanche Peak nuclear plant will help the company to provide good, reliable service.

He also said TESCO and Rockwell International are conducting a study on converting one of TESCO's gas-fueled generating units into a partially solar-powered generating system.

"Although I know it's just a feasibility study now, I'm kind of excited about the possibility of generating part of our electricity from a solar installation," he said.

Marquardt referred to the TESCO work force as the public's "silent partner."

"An electric utility is a little different than most other businesses," he said. "Butchers get compliments for good steaks. A mechanic gets special thanks for making your old jalopy run again," he said.

"Our business is a little different, in case you haven't noticed. When's the last time somebody visited your home and said, 'Say, that's really great electricity you've got there.'"

Marquardt said "that kind of thing" — reliable electric service — just doesn't happen.

Marquardt recounted some of the more salient feats, such as repairs following the Wichita Falls tornado, by TESCO service people.

"You folks who went up there really did a fine job," he said. "And before that, the Dallas ice storm put on some heavy demands, too."

"Thanks, folks, for some mighty hard work under some pretty demanding conditions," Marquardt said. "And I want to thank the wives and kiddos, too, for being so willing to share you with us during those extra long days."

Marquardt pointed the excellent safety record at TESCO's units at Midland, Odessa, Monahans, and Andrews.

"It's good work like these things that are the heart of our business. Good people do good work. Good people make good decisions. Good people, working together, make an unbeatable team. And if we're not unbeatable, we're darned close to it."

Among the TESCO employees honored at the banquet were Midlanders W.F. "Bill" Newby and J.O. Dewberry. Both are new members of TESCO's Quarter Century Club.

Newby is an engineering technician. Dewberry is a distribution dispatcher.

Texas Electric Service Co. President W.G. Marquardt of Fort Worth is flanked by W.F. "Bill" Newby, left, and J.O. Dewberry, both of Midland. Newby and Dewberry are among the latest members of TESCO's Quarter Century Club, which recognizes TESCO employees of 25 or more years.

Midland woman gets four years

A 25-year-old Midland woman was sentenced to four years in the Texas Department of Corrections after she pleaded guilty in district court here to a charge of possession of heroin.

Connie Fay Hart, 1204 E. Missouri Ave., pleaded Tuesday in 238th District Court and was sentenced by Judge Vann Culp.

She was charged along with 29-year-old Lemanzel Finley Jr., 704 S. Benton St., and 38-year-old Willie D. Whitfield of Midland after Midland police officers reported stopping the vehicle Whitfield was driving at the intersection of Carver Street and Indiana Avenue July 2.

Officers reported that a search of the vehicle revealed both substances believed to be heroin and marijuana.

The case was prosecuted by Assistant District Attorneys David Joers and Richard Davis.

Ms. Hart was represented by defense attorney Jim Eubank.

No pay raise for Congress until after elections: Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today voted to prohibit any pay raise for Congress from going into effect until after the 1980 elections. Senators then took up other provisions of an emergency appropriations bill which contains the sensitive pay raise issue, which probably will have to be worked out by a small band of House and Senate negotiators. The bill before the Senate contained no funds for any raise in the pay of congressmen and senators, although it did contain money for a 5.5 percent salary increase for 22,000 senior government officials and federal judges. If passed in the form recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee, the final bill will have to be worked out by a House-Senate conference committee. The Appropriations Committee decided unanimously Wednesday to reject a $3,200 boost in pay for members of Congress. There was no word on when the actual bill containing the pay raise would be passed. The amendment ordering a delay in any pay raise was offered by Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla. It means that the 5.5 percent pay hike approved by the House Tuesday for all members of Congress could not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1981, even if the Senate were to agree to a raise. Stone said he did not believe Congress should raise its own pay and that his amendment would prevent that. Under his proposal, he said, any increase voted by the present Congress could not go into effect until a new Congress is elected in November 1980. Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, told his colleagues the Stone amendment enables voters to decide "whether you are worth that money."

If the pay raise issues goes to a House-Senate conference, the question of whether a raise is included in the final compromise would depend on which group of negotiators — those from the House or those from the Senate — was more adamant in its position. Compromises recommended by House-Senate conferences are not subject to amendment when they are brought back for a final vote; it is a simple yes or no vote. Since the emergency funding bill must be passed before the new fiscal year begins next

U.S. interests to be fully protected, assures Vance

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told Latin American nations today "we will assure that our interests are fully protected" in the dispute over Russian troops in Cuba. In a major foreign policy speech to the Foreign Policy Association, Vance said the troops raise concern Cuba will exploit internal tensions in the hemisphere. He gave no indication what retaliatory measures the Carter administration might take if negotiations with the Soviets fail. Vance spoke hours before a critical session here with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

"We are seeking to resolve, by diplomatic negotiations with the Soviet Union, questions raised by the presence of these forces," he said in his prepared speech. In contrast to the tough line taken by some other administration officials, Vance said the dispute with the Soviets should be kept "in proper perspective." He said the U.S.-Soviet relationship goes much deeper, with a number of significant interests at stake. But he affirmed a determination by the United States and its hemisphere neighbors to resist "outside interference in their internal affairs."

Montreal pitcher Steve Rogers feels the pain of a pennant race Wednesday after he gave up a homer to Phil Garner of the Pirates with Bill Madlock,

Jim Rice still has goal

By The Associated Press

Boston slugger Jim Rice thought that when he collected his 200th hit of the season, making him only the 17th major league player in history to accomplish that feat three times in a row, his goals for the year were over. He was wrong.

"I wanted the 200," Rice said Wednesday night after rapping a run-scoring single in the first inning, helping the Red Sox beat the Toronto Blue Jays 6-4. "I don't normally set goals, but it was the only thing left to shoot for after we were knocked out of the (American League East) race."

But Rice had a surprise waiting for him. He then was informed that he needed only one more home run to become the fifth player in the history of the majors to hit 40 home runs and have 200 hits in two consecutive years.

The last player to do it was Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia A's in 1932-33. The others were Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees in 1923-24, Chuck Klein of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1929-30 and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees in 1930-31.

Very exclusive company. Ruth, Gehrig and Foxx all are members of baseball's Hall of Fame and Klein is acknowledged as one of the game's outstanding hitters.

Rice has four games left to hit his 40th homer of the season and match those all-time greats. The Red Sox play home against Toronto tonight and are at Detroit over the weekend for three games.

"Now, I've got something more to shoot for," said Rice, who last year became the first American League player to amass more than 400 total bases since Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees did it in 1938.

Rice, the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1978, finished the year with 406 total bases as he won the league's slugging title with a .600 percentage.

This year, Rice's teammate, Fred Lynn, is the slugging leader. Lynn raised his slugging percentage to .639 and his league-leading batting average to .337 with two doubles, his 41st and 42nd of the year, against Toronto. He also drove in two runs.

Orioles 13, Tigers 2
"That's really something, wins No. 1,000 and 1,100 in the same season," exalted Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver after the Orioles had won their 101st game of the year.

"Yes, I hoped when the season began that I'd get both in the same year. I figured that it was what it would take to win our division and I was right," added the field boss of the East Division champions.

The Orioles gave Weaver his 1,000th victory on opening day in April. They gave him No. 1,100 against the Tigers with the help of homers by Eddie Murray, Benny Ayala and Doug DeCinces.

Royals 4, Angels 0
Frank White smashed a two-run homer, a triple, a double and a single while Dennis Leonard pitched a five-hitter and struck out eight as the Royals defeated California's West Division champions.

Although the game was meaningless in the standings, a sellout crowd of 40,565 was at Anaheim Stadium, increasing the Angels' home attendance to 2,523,575. The 1948 Cleveland Indians were the only other AL club to draw more than 2.5 million in a season.

Yankees 6, Indians 3
Ron Guidry earned his 12th victory in his last 13 decisions and his 18th of the season with a seven-hit, 11-strikeout performance against Cleveland. Guidry also leads the AL in earned run average with a 2.82 mark.

Oscar Gamble supplied the power for the Yankees, driving in four runs with a double and a homer.

Mariners 8, Brewers 1
Bruce Bochte knocked in five runs with his first career grand slam homer and a sacrifice fly as the Mariners capitalized on the most of their opportunities.

Seattle collected only five hits, while the Brewers had 11 off Mike Parrott, who went the distance in winning his 14th game.

Rangers 5, A's 2
Texas scored all its runs in the seventh inning, the last two on Mickey Rivers' ninth homer of the season. Steve Comer limited the A's to five hits, including homers by Wayne Gross and Jeff Newman, in winning his 17th game.

White Sox 6, Twins 5
Jim Morrison walked leading off the 10th inning, stole second, moved to third on a fly ball and scored the winning run on a balk by Minnesota reliever Mike Marshall.

Marshall's appearance was his 89th of the season, an American League record.

Rusty Torres smacked a two-run homer for Chicago while John Castino and Ron Jackson hit solo homers for the Twins.

Larry Holmes won't see the same Earnie Shavers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes will not see the same Earnie Shavers he easily beat last year when he defends the World Boxing Council heavyweight championship Friday night, says the 35-year-old Shavers.

"When the horse gets so old, you can't teach that horse new tricks," the 29-year-old Holmes said Wednesday.

In their first fight, Holmes won a one-sided 12-round decision that earned him his title-winning shot against Ken Norton.

"I hurt him in the second round with one punch," said Shavers, who contends he was bothered by managerial problems and was not in top condition for the first fight. "If I had thrown combinations, it would have been over. This time I will, I will knock him out in five rounds."

"I don't really believe Shavers has the punching power he says he has," said Holmes, who also feels he will

Phil beats brother Joe, but he isn't proud of it

By The Associated Press

Phil Niekro is one guy who doesn't like to give his younger brother a beating.

He especially felt bad about it Wednesday night.

"I'm not proud of what I've done," Phil said after outdueling his brother Joe in what amounted to a family affair.

The result was a 9-4 victory for Phil Niekro's Atlanta Braves over Houston, dampening the Astros' hopes for the National League West title.

The defeat left the Astros 2½ games behind the Cincinnati Reds, who defeated the San Diego Padres 4-3. The combination reduced Cincinnati's "magic number" for clinching the West crown to merely two games.

"It was a very emotional game," said Phil Niekro. "The whole day was emotional. I think once he (Joe) got out of the game and I didn't see him, it became a different game for me and I wanted it."

"It was one of the few times I really didn't feel like I wanted to go out to pitch in that situation where a team was trying to stay in the race," Niekro added.

The triumph provided Phil with his third 20-victory season. Joe Niekro, already a 20-game winner, was visibly crushed by the defeat.

"It was a big game, it really was, and I didn't do the job," he said, shaking his head. "I let the game get out of hand early. We scored four runs and that should be enough to win. I just didn't do my job."

In another big game Wednesday night, the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped Montreal 10-1 and took a 1½-game lead over the Expos in the NL East.

Phil Niekro helped himself by driving in four runs. He belted a two-run double off Joe to open the scoring in the second inning as the Niekros became the first brothers in National League history to record 20 victories in the same season. Joe has a 20-11 record.

Atlanta's Niekro also became the first NL hurler in 74 years to win 20 and lose 20 in the same year. Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox posted a 24-20 record in the American League in 1973.

Phil Niekro also had a two-run single in the fifth inning when the Braves built their lead to 7-1.

Gary Matthews drove in three runs for Atlanta with a single and a two-run homer, his 27th of the year. Barry Bonnell drove in the other two Braves' runs with a pair of singles.

Phil Niekro gave up eight hits, walked one and fanned six, moving into a tie with Sandy Koufax on baseball's all-time strikeout list with 2,396.

Reds 4, Padres 3

Dave Collins' RBI single capped a two-run rally in the eighth inning as Cincinnati defeated San Diego. Collins' single came after doubles by Ray Knight and Helty Cruz had tied the game off loser Randy Jones, 11-12.

Tom Seaver, 16-6, pitched eight innings for the victory before leaving the game for a pinch hitter. Tom Hume finished for Cincinnati to earn his 17th save.

win inside the 15-round limit.

Shavers earned his second title shot — he was outpointed by Muhammad Ali in 1977 — by stopping Norton with a two-fisted onslaught in the first round last March 23.

"Norton got up for my fight," said Holmes, who beat Norton on a split decision. "He never got up for anybody else again."

Shavers promises to be a puncher in control Friday night. "I'm beginning to think now," he said. "I'm not trying to kill a guy with one hand any more."

Shavers also promises to use all the weapons in an arsenal that has enabled him to score 56 knockouts in 58 victories against seven losses and one draw.

"Larry hates to be jabbed back," said Shavers, acknowledging that Holmes has an excellent left jab. "I've got a very good jab and I'm going to use it."

Dave Winfield and Gene Richards had hit solo homers to power the Padres into a 3-2 lead going into the eighth.

"I told Cruz that if he got in, I'd hit him in," said Collins. "After he doubled to drive in Knight with the tying run, he reminded me from second base that I was supposed to get him in."

Pirates 10, Expos 1

Phil Garner and Tim Lincecum drove in three runs each and Bruce Kison scattered seven hits to lead Pittsburgh over Montreal. The victory reduced Pittsburgh's number for clinching the East to four games.

It was the last regular season meeting between the two teams. The Pirates won 11 of 18 games and they won't meet the Expos again unless the division race ends in a tie.

Kison, a clutch stretch-run pitcher in his nine-year Pirate career, raised his lifetime September record to 22-6 before a near-sellout crowd of 48,665 at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh.

"It's not over with yet, but they are in a heck of a position," said Montreal Manager Dick Williams. "It was a tough one — they thoroughly got to us."

Zimmer rehired despite 'boo-birds'

BOSTON (AP) — Don Zimmer will return as manager of the Boston Red Sox in 1980, but there will be plenty of changes in player personnel before the team opens Florida training next spring.

Ignoring countless "boo-birds" and harsh critics of Zimmer, the Red Sox gave their rotund manager a solid vote of confidence Wednesday night before a 6-4 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

"It's an old saying, but he didn't do any pitching or hitting," General Manager Haywood Sullivan said in spiking persistent reports that Zimmer faced the ax. "Everyone has to take responsibility for what happened this year."

Trailing Baltimore by just two games in the American League East at the All-Star Game break in mid-July, the Red Sox faded badly. With four games left, they are 22-36 in the so-called second half.

"I understand that when things go bad people want a change, but as far as we're concerned there never was a need for one," Sullivan said. "Things dictate themselves. The man respects the players and the players respect the man."

"It's great news," said Boston leader Carl Yastrzemski, who was embarrassed when, on the night he got his 3,000th hit, Zimmer was booed, along with Sullivan, during ceremonies on the field. "The man has done his job. The team has let him

Phillies 11, Cardinals 5
Philadelphia scored seven unearned runs in the third inning, including a three-run homer by Tim McCarver, en route to a home season-ending victory over St. Louis.

Pete Rose's 23-game hitting streak, longest in the majors this year, was stopped when the Phillies' star went hitless in five appearances.

Winner Steve Carlton, 17-11, worked seven innings while Silvio Martinez, 15-8, took the loss.

Mets 8, Cubs 3

Richie Hebner drove in four runs with a homer and a double to lead New York over Chicago. Hebner, who extended his hitting streak to nine games, hit his 10th homer of the season in the first inning after Donnie Moore walked Lee Mazzilli. The Mets chased Moore in the fifth with four runs, two of them on Hebner's double.

Dodgers 8, Giants 4

Run-scoring singles by Dave Lopes and Bill Russell in the fourth inning led Los Angeles over San Francisco. The Dodgers entered the fourth trailing 3-2. Then Von Joshua started the winning rally with a single and stole second. After pinch-hitter Vic Davalillo beat out an infield single, Lopes' hit produced a tie and Russell's single sent the Dodgers ahead to stay.

down."

"It's just great," said third baseman Butch Hobson. "I don't know of any other manager I'd rather play for."

"I'm happy for the man," said fiery shortstop Rick Burleson, who publicly defended Zimmer with sharp words last week. "They did the right thing."

"Sure, I'm tickled pink, but never once did I think I was going to be fired," Zimmer said with a smile after a closed-door huddle with Sullivan. "This has been a frustrating season because of injuries and pitching problems, but now we can look ahead to next year."

Zimmer, promoted from coach to manager when Darrell Johnson was fired in July 1976, actually has a contract running through 1980. After that, it's self-renewing each spring. However, the wolves have been on him relentlessly, blaming him for the Red Sox' woes.

"Don will be back next year and, hopefully, we'll give him the players to become a strong contender," Sullivan said. "We're thinking of changes, including some involving name players. We have things in mind, but, of course, you have to wait to see how they work out."

"Our immediate priorities have to be pitching and catching. One might resolve the other, but again we have to wait and see."

televised and says that promoter Don King gave him $450,000. Shavers is getting $300,000, the same amount he got for fighting Ali.

Also on the card are top welterweights Sugar Ray Leonard and Roberto Duran, WBC super bantamweight champion Wilfredo Gomez and heavyweights Jimmy Young and Michael Dokes.

Leonard, of Palmer Park, Md., will fight Andy Price of Los Angeles and Duran, of Panama, will fight Zeferrino Gonzalez of San Jose, Calif., in two scheduled 10-rounders that will be televised live.

The ABC telecast will from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. EDT.

Gomez, of Puerto Rico, will defend against Carlos Mendoza of Panama in a bout that will be taped for television.

Buckner thinks Franks left looking like 'fool'

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Buckner says Herman Franks left as manager of the Chicago Cubs "looking like a real fool" after publicly lashing out at him and other players.

The Cubs' first baseman said he met Tuesday with Franks after seeing a copyright story in the Chicago Tribune that morning in which his former boss said he was "nuts," self-centered, and jealous of slugger Dave Kingman.

They met for a half hour and Franks "never apologized for saying those things," Buckner said.

"He apologized that it got into the paper, but I think he did a rotten thing by even saying those things at all."

Franks, who had been expected to step down at the end of the season, resigned Monday morning after The Associated Press quoted him Sunday as calling players "crazy" and as saying he would resign. Coach Joey Amalfitano was named interim manager.

Among Franks' criticisms were that Buckner only cares about himself and not about the team.

"I thought he was the All-American boy. I thought he was the kind of guy who'd dive in the dirt to save ball games for you," the Tribune quoted Franks as saying. "What I found out, after being around him for awhile, is that he's nuts. He doesn't care about anything except getting a hit."

Sitting before his locker Tuesday in the Cubs' nearly empty clubhouse before a doubleheader with the New York Mets, Buckner said, "Have you ever seen a rip job like that? ... He'd better come down here and give me an apology before the whole team."

Franks didn't. He said he came to the clubhouse Tuesday in case anyone wanted to talk to him.

"I liked Herman," said Buckner. "I thought he was a nice man. I think this all came out because of his frustrations. I'm not here to knock him. But I would feel that a man of his intelligence would want to go out with a little more dignity than that. It's a shame that he's going out looking like a real fool over this whole thing."

In the interview, Franks also criticized catcher Barry Foote, reserve outfielder Mike Vail, and second baseman Ted Sizemore, who was traded to Boston during the season, and said Kingman was "flaky."

Buckner also criticized Tribune sports writer Dave Nightingale, who wrote the story, for not asking him about Franks' statements.

Buckner denied those remarks.

"Nobody's been in the dirt more than me or broken up more double plays. This thing hurt me more than anything else," he said.

He admitted he got upset after making outs but added that "nobody cares less about personal statistics than I do. I wanted to get a hit every time up for the Cubs, not for me."

He also said that he and Kingman "get along fine" and that "there's not one ounce of jealousy in me toward Dave, other than that I wish I could hit home runs the way he does. He's the most valuable player on this team this year. It's a shame all this had to be written because I don't think I deserved it." Buckner said that he would like to stay with the Cubs next season but that if Cubs executive vice president Bob Kennedy "feels the same way about me that Herman does, I wouldn't want to stay here. If I felt the players on this team felt I was not trying to win, I'd hang 'em up. If somebody tells me I don't try to win, he should have his head examined."

Plagued by injuries in his first two seasons with the Cubs, Buckner batted .284 and .323. He was hitting .282 with 14 home runs and 65 runs batted in heading into the final games of the year. The Cubs, contenders in August, faded and are in fifth place in the National League East.

"I didn't have a great year but I didn't do that badly either, and I'm not going to take all the credit for this bad season. I think Herman deserves a little credit, too, because he made a lot of mistakes, just like the rest of us," Buckner said.

"There was definitely a lack of communication on this ballclub the whole year. The guys didn't think they could talk to Herman. I got along great with Herman my first two years here. I had a couple of arguments with him this year and I'll take the blame for those. But that should have been between Herman and I."

Crane's Cranes are ready to fly

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

Even before the first down of schoolboy football was played this season, Crane coach Mike Patterson knew it wouldn't be easy pickings for his Golden Cranes.

After all, Patterson wasn't named head coach until the summer. And a new offense and some other wrinkles had to be installed. Patterson was the first to admit the defense would have to carry the load early.

Well, here it is almost four weeks into the campaign. And according to Patterson, the waiting may be over for the District 7-AA Cranes, who tangle with Tahoka of District 5-AA Friday night at 8 in Crane.

THE CRANES have notched two straight victories and raised their record to 2-1-0. The recent triumphs have been important.

"In the Marfa football game," said Patterson via telephone Wednesday, "we moved the ball well offensively but couldn't score. In the Ochoma ball game, we felt like our group of kids came together as a football team because we had to come back with 14 seconds left to win. We've improved and we're about where we ought to be right now."

Patterson seemed concerned with Tahoka's potential to score although the Bulldogs enter the contest 1-1, including a 28-14 loss to Class A Stanton.

"Tahoka has a fine football team. They have size, strength and real good speed overall. It's going to be a tough job on us to contain their speed," explained Patterson.

ON THE OTHER hand, Patterson would like to see his team's veer offense collect some yardage. Currently, the Cranes are on the bottom of 7-AA offensive statistics with 447 total yards or 149 a contest. Interestingly, however, the Cranes aren't far off the pace in passing yardage, trailing loop leader Sonora by only nine yards.

"I think we definitely have a chance of moving the ball against them," said Patterson. "We've been fairly successful throwing the ball and we're getting better each game."

Defensively, Crane has had few problems, except for the loss of talented lineman Rodney Rimer, felled for the campaign with a knee injury, according to Patterson.

For the record, the Cranes rank second in 7-AA defensive stats, allowing 640 total yards for a 213.3 per game clip. If there's a weakness, it may be against the run and that's where Tahoka should be toughest.

PATTERSON SAID the Cranes defeated Tahoka 7-6 last year. Likely, it'll be the same type of affair this season. "I think it should be a good game," said Patterson.

Although two area outfields are dormant this week, several other nifty encounters are on Friday's agenda.

Andrews of District 2-AAA puts their 3-0-0 mark on the line when the Mustangs travel to Snyder for an 8 p.m. contest with the 2-1-0 Bulldogs of District 3-AAA. It could be a shootout as Snyder, ranked high in preseason surveys, seems to finally be on track while the Mustangs will try to shake the effects of last week's extremely close call with Seminole.

MEANWHILE, Reagan County's Owls will try to go 4-0-0 when the Big Lake school of District 9-A entertains District 7-AA Sonora, 1-2-0, in an 8 p.m. engagement.

An 8 p.m. tussle involving a couple of Class A units will go down in McCamey as the District 6-A Badgers, 1-1-1, try to regroup against District 9-A Eldorado, 2-1-0. McCamey, at the bottom of 6-A team offensive and defensive figures, opened the season with an impressive win but has lost and been tied in its last two assignments.

Also on the docket, luckless Lamesa invades Hobbs, N. M. for a 7:30 p.m. MDT fray. The Golden Tornadoes came close to victory No. 1 last Friday and still might get it against a not-too-tough Hobbs crew.

Off this week are the District 6-A Rankin Red Devils, 2-1-0, and District 5-A Stanton, 2-0-1. All 5-A teams are idle and embark on district play next week.

This unidentified Chicago Cubs fan hangs his head as the Cubs go down in defeat, 8-3, to the Mets during Wednesday's last home game. The fan might symbolize the thoughts of all fans of non-winning teams as the baseball season draws toward a close. (AP Laserphoto)

Midland College will host zone tournament

Midland College will be the site of the Major Zone Tennis Tournament Oct. 13-15, according to MC coach and tournament director Brian Gilley.

Entry deadline is Friday, and persons wishing to enter should contact Gilley at Midland College in the Physical Education Building or by calling 684-7851, ext. 183 or 199.

This is the second year for the zone tournament to be held in Midland and sponsored by the Coca-Cola Company.

"Due to the size of last year's tournament, we are limiting the field only to the championship division and 21 years of age and under division for both men and women in singles and doubles," Gilley said. Last year, the men's singles was won by Kim Kettleton of San Angelo and the women's singles title went to Lisa Yap of UTPB. Both are expected to defend their crowns.

The Major Zone Tournament allows players to earn statewide and national rankings each year from the United States Tennis Association and the Texas Tennis Association. Players are required to play in at least four sanctioned tournaments annually in order to be eligible for rankings.

The top amateur, collegiate and high school players in West Texas are expected to be on hand for the tournament.

Defending champs run into Hill

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

The La Porte Bulldogs had momentum, inspiration and Bubba Hill working in their favor last week against defending state Class AAAA champion Houston Stratford.

The momentum came from a 3-0 record and No. 2 state ranking, the inspiration came from two losses to Stratford last year, once in regular season and again in the state quarter-final playoffs.

All that remained for Hill to do was rush 305 yards on 32 carries and score on runs of 56, three and 30 yards in a 26-23 victory over the defending state champions.

Hill's effort against tough competition earned him mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll along with three other junior runners who were key factors in their teams' victories.

Troup's Leroy Ellis helped the Tigers vault into the No. 10 Class A ranking in The Associated Press

Schoolboy Football Poll with 311 yards rushing on only 18 carries and touchdown runs of 57 and 75 yards in a 41-0 shutout of Rusk.

Victoria Stroman's Ronnie Thomas victimized a Corpus Christi team for the second time this year, rushing 202 yards on 21 carries and scoring on runs of 60, 3, 20 and 29 yards and getting a fifth touchdown on a 61-yard screen pass play.

Thomas earlier rushed 166 yards against Corpus Christi Moody and had 243 yards a week ago against Austin Crockett. Stroman beat Corpus Christi Carroll 41-27 last week.

Pint-sized Falls City running back Paul Pawelek, 5-6, 145, needed only 14 carries to gain 297 yards and score on runs of 9, 77, 10, 93 and 47 yards in a 51-6 victory over Lytle. Pawelek now has 595 yards and eight touchdowns in three games for the No. 2 ranked Beavers.

Hill took up the slack in the La Porte offense when quarterback Ricky Byars suffered a sprained ankle and couldn't practice last week. Byars rushed 44 yards on 18 carries but spent most of his time pitching to Hill.

"He's that one type of back with the God-given talent to make the cuts and find the hole without thinking and doing all this while going north-south, he always goes north-south," said La Porte Coach Carroll Lundin.

"We had super offensive line blocking but Bubba did a great job in the secondary. His second effort was just outstanding."

Stroman Coach Mike Howell said Thomas, 5-9, 165, was an Archie Griffin-type runner. "He doesn't have the exceptional speed but he has balance and he doesn't give up."

Ellis also plays defensive safety for Troup and has five interceptions in three games, including one against Rusk.

"He's about a 4.7 in the 40 yard dash," said Troup Coach Bo Wilson. "There are a lot of 4.7 guys around but Leroy keeps his feet moving and he has good moves downfield. He's just a natural runner."

Garcia to keep job CLEVELAND (AP) — Dave Garcia will remain as manager of the Cleveland Indians next season, it was reported today.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said an official announcement is expected by this weekend when the Indians wind up the 1979 season with a home series against the American League East Champion Baltimore Orioles.

Garcia, 59, a veteran coach who managed the California Angels for parts of 1977 and 1978, was elevated to manager of the Indians after Jeff Torborg was fired earlier this year.

Junior High gridders continue action today

Junior High football continues today with a pair of ninth grade games on tap in Odessa.

Midland Lee White shares first place with the three Odessa Permian feeder schools — Nimitz, Hood and Bonham with 2-0-0 records after two weeks of action in the 9th grade standings.

Today, Midland Lee Maroon (0-1-1) takes on Odessa Crockett (0-2-0) at 6:55 p.m. at Joe Coleman Field on the Odessa High School campus while at the same time, Midland Purple (1-1-0), battles Bonham (2-0-0) at the Odessa Permian practice field.

Greenwood Rangers face MHS sophomores The Greenwood Rangers, coming off an impressive 48-0 massacre of Sands last Friday, will tangle with the Midland High sophomores tonight at 8 at Greenwood.

Greenwood, a local team not affiliated with a district and playing their first varsity schedule, will be trying to improve their 2-1 record against the Bullpup yearlings.

Then on Saturday, Nimitz (2-0-0) is at Midland Gold (0-2-0) in the Tall City at 10 a.m. while Lee White (2-0-0) squares off with Hood (2-0-0) at Permian at 2 p.m. In the other 9th grade tilt, Odessa Bowie (0-1-1) battles Odessa Ector (0-2-0) at Ector at 2 p.m.

In the 8th grade race, Midland, Alamo and Goddard share first place with Odessa Crockett and Nimitz as all four won opening season games last week. Hood, Bowie, Blackshear and Midland San Jacinto all stand 0-1-0 to date while Bonham had an open date last week.

Eighth grade games Saturday find Hood at Alamo, Bonham at San Jacinto in Memorial Stadium, Blackshear at Bowie while Goddard and Crockett face each other at OHS. Midland games start at 10 a.m. and Odessa contests at 10:30 a.m.

In 7th grade games Saturday, Alamo Scarlet is at San Jacinto Green in a 10 a.m. kickoff while in other games at noon, San Jacinto White battles Goddard Red at Goddard and Alamo Grey entertains Goddard White.

Slippery Rock to get a big day in the sun

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa. (AP) — The little college in this little town, the one everybody mentions with a wink and a smile, will have the last laugh this weekend.

America is about to discover a truth patiently explained on T-shirts sold at the campus bookstore.

"Yes there is a Slippery Rock." Not that it has been a secret. Fan clubs across the land gather in taverns every fall to wave pennants and sash allegiance to the Slippery Rock football team. Go, Rockets!

"Still," said Zane Gray, the bookstore proprietor, who has an inkling about rib-nudging names, "you would be surprised how many people believe Slippery Rock is really just a put-on."

Well, hang on for a bulletin: Next Saturday the dauntless Rockets will meet a rival Pennsylvania team, the Shippensburg Red Raiders, on neutral turf.

They will play upon the holy gridiron of the University of Michigan stadium, which seats 100,000 worshippers, and this thinking of the 5,700 students on this smug campus is that little of Slippery Rock just might fill that Big League joint.

As a gesture to the college whose cute scores it traditionally announces in the course of its own heroic Saturday struggles, the University of Michigan offered the use of its stadium. Noblesse oblige.

Now it is Slippery Rock's turn to wink. Student entrepreneurs have brought up heaps of items from the bookstore beating the magical name

Idea of Bayou wait on roians

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

The "Week After" is college football's "Monday Morning Hangover." It's deadly. When a heavily favored team or one with an extended winning streak gets upended, it is almost impossible to get it motivated the next Saturday.

This is the stuff of which upsets are made — that plus complacency. These are lessons learned agonizingly by Colorado, Georgia and Texas A&M, the Aggies before bouncing back against Penn State.

This rule of thumb bodes trouble this week for Notre Dame and Penn State. Complacency could be the stumbling block for mighty USC: Beware the Idea of the Bayou.

Last week's score: 44-12, 786. Season: 115-32, 782.

Louisiana St. 23, Southern Cal 20: Home fervor fed by Trojan over-confidence pose a nightmare for No. 1 Charles White & Co.

Jacksonville lures Colts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Colts owner Robert Irsay says he has received "the first financial offer of any substance" from officials in Jacksonville, Fla., in an attempt to lure the National Football League franchise there.

Irsay said Jacksonville, Memphis and Los Angeles are the three cities in the running for the team.

Irsay met with Mayor Jake Godbold and the Chamber of Commerce's sports commission Wednesday and received a financial plan from the city to raise $6 million a year over a 10-year period from ticket sales and stadium revenues.

In addition, Irsay was promised Gator Bowl renovations including 40 sky-boxes, a new press box and a 40-acre site for training facilities.

The offer, however, fell $2 million short of what Irsay had asked for last month when he was given a welcoming party by 45,000 fans in the Gator Bowl.

At a press conference after the meeting, Irsay said it was "not a matter of if I move the Colts, but where I'm going."

Irsay added that he plans to attend the October meeting of the NFL owners to seek permission to move the team, and later he would submit the proposals from the three cities to the owners for approval.

Meanwhile, Baltimore Mayor William D. Schaefer said Wednesday he was irritated to hear reports that Irsay is again threatening to move the team.

Irsay has said he will make definite plans on a move by Oct. 31 if there are no commitments by then to improve and expand Memorial Stadium.

Schaefer said Irsay's requests aren't "totally unreasonable," but "if he said he's going to take the team out as of Oct. 31, that would irritate me."

Schaefer made his comments after the Board of Estimates approved a $25,000 architectural study of the stadium to see how to meet Irsay's demands.

Irsay has said he wants 59,000 "good" seats — all with unobstructed views — at the stadium. It is estimated there are now about 30,000 to 45,000 "good" seats.

Lopez invades Dallas with charm

DALLAS (AP) — Should Nancy Lopez decide to leave professional golf she should sell Dale Carnegie books on how to win friends and influence people.

The comely 22-year-old super star of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour doesn't know the meaning of vindictiveness. She is all peaches and cream.

Plus, the lovely, soft-spoken former resident of Roswell, N.M., who has dominated the tour and captivated the fans in her brief 27 months on the cash circuit, leads in money winnings, $174,252.

She will be going for her 17th title in the $150,000 Dallas Open under way at Bent Tree Country Club here. She has banked more than $400,000 in 16 tournaments.

The dark-eyed beauty, who married Ohio sportscaster Tim Melton a few months back, launched her career on the Roswell municipal links, won a dozen big amateur tournaments and then entered the University of Tulsa.

She left in July 1977 and became an instant success.

Her achievements drew criticism in the press from some players, but she harbors no resentment. Conversely, she has nothing but praise and apparent admiration and friendship for her four competitors.

She denies jealousy from other tour players and thinks most of the resentment was fabricated in the press.

"I know so many writers concentrate on my game when I am an also-ran and fail to recognize the play of those who are winning, or finishing in front of me," she explained.

Ms. Lopez expressed a desire to win the U.S. Open. "If I can win that one I will have achieved my major golf victory."

Since her marriage, she has cut down on tournament play. She said she wants to have children but does not believe in it is the time.

"I'm too young, but in the future there are children in our lives," she said.

Although she has never played the Dallas tour, she is considered the woman to beat for the $20,000 first prize. She was here for the 1977 tournament, but withdrew when her mother died.

The 72-hole Dallas tournament runs through Sunday.

Yankees still lead AL in controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, banished to fourth place and playoff exile, may still lead the American League in controversy.

In the span of some 12 hours Wednesday, the Yankees faced an investigation by the American League, a warning from the umpires and two published reports of the turmoil that seems to follow them.

One thing the club accomplished without incident was the signing of a third baseman Graig Nettles to a three-year contract that one team source said was worth a total of $1.2 million.

The AL said it was investigating Wednesday's report in the New York Times that pitcher Bob Kammeyer had been ordered to throw a "brush back" pitch to the Indians' Cliff Johnson and that the pitcher had been handed $100 after leaving the game at Cleveland on Sept. 18.

New York's other problem involved negotiations with shortstop Bucky Dent, the 1978 World Series hero who claims the Yankees reneged on a three-year contract offer after team President Al Rosen resigned.

The brushback story, by author Gay Talese, claimed Kammeyer had received a signal for a pitch close to Johnson's body from catcher Bruce Robinson, who received the order from Manager Billy Martin.

The Times story also said Kammeyer, removed from the 16-3 loss one batter after his shoulder-high pitch hit Johnson, then was handed five $20 bills by Martin, Talese's story said the Yankees' batboy, standing next to Martin in the dugout at the time, had heard clearly the manager's expressed desire that Johnson be "knocked down" and indicated the money had been a reward for carrying out the order.

Martin later admitted giving the pitcher $100, but only so Kammeyer, Paul Mirabella and Rick Anderson — two other pitchers also routed in the 13-run loss — could "get drunk and forget about today and come back strong tomorrow."

Johnson, who had hit two home runs prior to being hit with the 2-2 delivery in the fourth inning of the game, was traded from the Yankees months after his clubhouse scuffle with reliever Rich Gossage in April. The scuffle resulted in a thumb injury that required surgery and knocked Gossage out of action for three months.

Johnson seemed to believe the report that Martin ordered him hit.

"The people I'm angry at can destroy me," he said, "so I'm not talking. But I'll be able to do what I have to do when I do it."

AL spokesman Bob Fishel said the investigation would include a full report from the Yankees, along with statements from club officials and the umpires who worked the game. Martin is to appear Friday morning at the New York office of AL President Lee MacPhail.

"It's a joke, that hearing," Martin said.

Prior to Wednesday night's Yankees-Indians game at Yankee Stadium, umpiring crew chief Marty Springstead warned both clubs against throwing at opposing players.

Meanwhile, Dent's contract situation remained cloudy.

The Yankees denied the New York Post story in which Dent claimed Wednesday the team had withdrawn its offer when Rosen resigned.

The report said Dent's attorney, Nick Buoniconti, had agreed with Rosen on the terms of a three-year pact with an option for a fourth.

The club then released a statement quoting Rosen as saying: "We were never in agreement on the contract for Bucky. We had made an offer, and there was agreement on some points and disagreement on others. The offer was on the table and Buoniconti never got back to us with his acceptance."

"You cannot leave an offer on the table if there is not total agreement," Rosen's statement said. "The table must be cleared for another offer."

RINGING THE BELL Soul City (Boley) a 76-year dream

With BOB TIEUCL

To the Hon. Benjamin L. Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, New York, and other black business, religious and civic leaders of the nation:

Dear Sir: You recently wrote: "Like so many dreams of the 1960s, hard times have befallen Soul City. Not so much for lack of vision, dedication and ability by those directly in charge, for the competence of the managers is beyond dispute. Their credentials remain impeccable."

"Yet Soul City is being turned into a nightmare because the federal government has decided that it will not continue funding the project. This is a pattern with which blacks are all too familiar."

Although the project was being developed by blacks, Floyd R. McKissick, the former director of the Congress for Racial Equality, conceived of the Soul City idea a decade ago as a dramatic example of black enterprise. North Carolina Gov. George Scott, who joined Mr. Romney in announcing that the federal government would provide a $14 million guarantee for Soul City bonds, pledged full cooperation in providing manpower training for the new industry that would be created in the town.

"With this warm support for a black capitalism showcase, McKissick pushed ahead. In the meantime, however, the national mood changed. A white backlash set in... with a mounting massive drive to turn the clock back on civil rights gains. Then on June 28, 1979, the word came from above that the government would not provide the remaining $4 million in credits because the agency no longer considered the project economically viable. The area itself just didn't work out, and there was not a large enough market to draw from, stated the government."

"IT HAS BEEN reported that more than 433 million has been spent by the federal government on projects connected with Soul City, located in Warren County, North Carolina. North Carolina's conservative Sen. Jesse Helms, seeking to demonstrate fiscal irresponsibility in the creation of Soul City, had charged that McKissick has spent some $26 million to put up 33 homes, yet as you say, Director Hooks, perhaps this charge "sadly begs the question."

You state that much of the $33 million spent so far includes roads, water, sewage and electrical systems, recreational and health facilities which have benefited more than 82,000 people of all races in the region.

You have issued a nationwide call for "blacks across this nation to join the battle for Soul City's survival," and we are certain that many will, including this department. We hope that representatives of many ethnic groups in our nation will join in this massive effort to save Soul City.

In the meantime, Mr. Director, we hope that you will in the near future, issue another call to battle to come to the aid of a Soul City in Central Oklahoma that was born in the pangs of segregation and depression and whose founders some 76 years ago dreamed of one day "we will be free." We speak of the largest black-oriented town in America today — Boley, Okla.

"IT IS GOOD to see the leaders of the NAACP, the National Urban League and other black organizations in this country take a new look at the Soul Cities of our great nation. Do we need more or do we need to strengthen those we have already? Have Soul Cities served their day, and should we look in the direction of developing and building All-Soul towns and cities in America where every man, woman and child who desires to do so can make a contribution to the ongoing of our country?"

Their privileged escorts will be Junior Council and 100 Club presidents, Gerard Alcala and Andy Britton. They will be featured in the MHS Homecoming Parade Thursday, Oct. 4, at 3:30 p.m. Miss Wilson and escort will be riding in Burgass Stengl's 1957 T-Bird, and Miss Rasco and escort will be in Caryl Marburger's 1977 T-Top Grand Prix. Our sincere thanks to these people for the use of their cars.

The unlucky people who did not make Sunday's meeting need to check with those who did, especially lunch workers.

Barrio Project: a Spanish oasis

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer

Next door to Tony's Food Center on the West Side of San Antonio, it is back-to-school time for students of the Barrio Education Project. The students, aged 16 to 70, will spend three hours per evening, three days a week learning a subject that should have been second nature to them: how to read and write in Spanish. Some will learn to hold a pencil correctly for the first time in their lives. Carolina Pena Rodriguez, 30, a former migrant worker and now a teacher and executive director of the project, isn't much impressed with the argument that illiterate Hispanic-Americans, whose everyday language is Spanish, can't make it in America unless they learn to read and write English, and phase Spanish out of their lives.

"We teach literacy in Spanish. That's what's unique about us," she said in a recent conversation. It is a tiny effort — only about 60 persons have taken literacy classes so far. But Ms. Rodriguez insisted numbers were never the chief concern.

The lives and experiences of her pupils are the textbook. "We use their words. The materials we use are the materials the people bring. Often the theme of a class is family. We discuss a word like 'mama', and what it means to them. We put words together on a blackboard, take them apart, mix them together."

Illiteracy among Hispanics in San Antonio is epidemic. Of a total population of about 700,000, slightly more than half the city is Spanish-speaking — and Ms. Rodriguez said a random survey showed 63 percent of adult Hispanics cannot read or write either Spanish or English.

Mexican-Americans, many of whom become migrant workers at a very early age, leave school earlier than any ethnic group in the nation, according to a recent Ford Foundation study on illiteracy. "It's depressing, but it's to be expected because our school system here is not geared to working towards literacy in Spanish," Ms. Rodriguez said.

The Barrio project differs from federal programs and most private groups tackling illiteracy in another key respect: no one here claims literacy is an automatic key to jobs or prosperity.

"We never claim to be a force in changing the economic situation, but we can change how people see themselves," said Ms. Rodriguez.

Literacy in Spanish is seen instead as the vehicle to affirm a cultural heritage and build pride in the Hispanic community. It is, she said, "a tool for self-determination."

The project, and Ms. Rodriguez's involvement in it, dates back to 1975 when the focus was classes on childbirth and health care. One aim was to improve conditions for Hispanic patients in the city's hospitals.

There remains a heavy orientation toward the problems of Hispanic women. Said Ms. Rodriguez: "Women provide the backbone of our families. Our classes deal with information about their bodies and who they are."

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Fee parking soon to end for aides

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House could soon be surrounded by a forest of parking meters if officials can't think of a better way to collect parking fees from members of President Carter's staff.

Under a Carter directive, free parking for federal employees, including those who work at the White House, will end Nov. 1. After that, Uncle Sam is supposed to collect the equivalent of commercial parking fees from government workers.

The plan will help reduce the federal deficit, if only minutely, but the major rationale for it is to encourage energy conservation by discouraging employees from driving to work.

One plan that has been discussed at the White House would call for installation of parking meters along neighboring streets and at other locations, some inside the White House fence, that are reserved for parking by Carter aides.

The eyesore will be avoided, however, if having parking meters along the stately driveway that leads to the main White House entrance on Pennsylvania Avenue. And that's a good thing politically, too, because driveway spots often are used by visiting members of Congress.

Should meters be installed on closed-off West Executive Avenue, where the president's highest-ranking assistants park, what will be done about Vice President Walter F. Mondale? He has a reserved spot there. One can imagine Hamilton Jordan leaving his work periodically to feed coins into a meter, but the vice president?

Planning for the shift to park-and-pay is being coordinated by Hugh Carter Jr., the president's cousin.

PRESIDENT CARTER was not the only casualty of the now-celebrated Catoctin Mountain mini-marathon.

Rosalynn Carter was waiting near the finish line when she received word that her husband had dropped out of the race. Uncertain about the state of the president's health, Mrs. Carter hurried to a waiting White House car.

In close pursuit was Frances Voorde, Carter's assistant appointments secretary. Ms. Voorde, a mainstay of the White House softball team but no runner, took a bad tumble. Now she gets around on crutches, one leg in a cast, because of torn ligaments.

WHEN CARTER'S Air Force aide, Maj. Robert Peterson, learned that the president had come close to collapse after running about 3½ miles, he exclaimed, according to a White House functionary: "I don't know what the fuss is all about. I dropped out after two miles."

WHO'S IN CHARGE here?

Shortly before congressional heavyweights from both parties emerged from a recent unannounced meeting with Carter on Soviet troops in Cuba, the White House press office professed to know nothing about the session.

Minutes later, however, ropes were strung across a White House driveway to pen in news photographers already awaiting the emergence of the conferees.

Who ordered the ropes? A White House police officer reported the directive came from the office of Chief Usher Rex Scouten, not the press office.

THAT SAME DAY, repeated inquiries to the press office about a rumored meeting between Carter and Democratic Gov. Edwin Edwards of Louisiana produced nothing more than blank looks.

In early afternoon, however, Edwards emerged to say he'd had lunch with Carter — and might support Republican John B. Connally for the presidency in

NEW YORK (AP) — Most television viewers are familiar with the fruit of Garry Marshall's labors, but very few know much about how shows like "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley" are produced, and why they are as immensely successful as they are.

"Shows like those, and others, are so seamless and beautifully crafted," says Nick DeMartino, an independent producer based in New York, "that it often seems as if they spring full-blown on the tube."

"As a matter of fact, they are written and rewritten; sometimes several times, rehearsed and passed through the censors, and performed before an audience with the same care given a stage play."

DeMartino is one of three creators of "Sitcom," a half-hour look at the situation comedy, to be broadcast by stations in the Public Broadcasting Service network beginning the night of Oct. 3. As with most PBS programs, air date and time may vary.

"SITCOM" IS THE work of Television City Productions, with Wendy Apple the producer-director, Megan Williams the producer and DeMartino the executive producer.

"The idea behind the project," DeMartino says, "is to show viewers who are by and large familiar with the end product how the situation comedy is made, and explore some of the creative issues involved."

"The program is structured as a documentary," he says, "but it's in the sitcom style, a half-hour with commercial breaks."

And though the producers' pursuit of the subject is a serious one, the content often is amusing.

"It is a serious look at the business of the situation comedy," DeMartino says, "in the context of Garry Marshall on roller skates, skating between sets of his several shows."

INDEED, "SITCOM" features appearances by the stars of "Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley," and "Mork and Mindy," and the concluding segment is based on the final taping of an episode of "Happy Days."

The "commercial" spots are the work of humorist Marshall Efron, one-time star of PBS' "Great American Dream Machine," who discusses TV ratings in one segment and television's business side in another.

Executives from ABC and Paramount TV, the comedies' production company, also are interviewed.

"The idea," says DeMartino, "is that people who might not regularly watch public television will tune in to see some of their favorite stars, like Robin Williams and Henry Winkler. And they'll learn something about a part of television that is so important to them."

DeMartino says he and his colleagues had been trying for about two years to launch the project, and initially suggested to PBS a series of six hour-long documentaries. "Television in America."

"WE CHOSE TO DO the situation comedy and Marshall for the half-hour show with the small amount of money we could raise," he says, "primarily because the program form and Marshall were among the most prominent in television."

"Sitcom" was scheduled to follow by at least a day ABC's broadcast of the "Happy Days" episode on which the final segment is based.

DeMartino says the objective of "Sitcom" was not to judge the value of the situation comedy, or to answer its critics, "but it asks the questions, why does the form attract so many people,

'The King and I' goes into second weekend

ODESSA — "The King and I," the season-opening attraction at the Permian Playhouse of Odessa, goes into its second weekend with a performance at 8 p.m. Friday. It will be followed by a Saturday night performance, also beginning at 8.

The colorful and tuneful musical by Rodgers and Hammerstein stars Buster Tiemann as the King of Siam and Jane Ann Crum as the Welsh schoolmarm, Anna Leonowens. They are supported by a large cast.

Admission to the musical is by season membership card only, with no single tickets available for purchase. The season memberships are on sale daily at the theater, 310 W. 42nd St. The box office telephone number is 362-2329.

'Passion of Dracula' opens soon

"The Passion of Dracula," a new and highly theatrical version of the Dracula story, will open at Theatre Midland a week from tonight to continue Midland Community Theatre's 1979 season.

The MCT box office opened today to accept seat reservations from MCT members. Tickets for all performances of the drama will go on sale to the public next Monday. The box office telephone number is 682-4111.

"The Passion of Dracula," written by Bob Hall and David Richmond, is a new and dramatic retelling of the original Dracula story written by Bram Stoker in the late 19th Century. This new version closed in New York recently after an extremely successful run of more than 700 performances.

"The Passion of Dracula" has all the elements important to the standard spine-tingling Dracula tale - mysterious deaths, female victims found bloodless, a beautiful young girl in a trancelike state, with tiny marks on her neck, the imported medical expert who discovers the truth, the fearless young journalist who falls in love with, and risks his life for, the lovely young lady. And, certainly not least, is the aristocratic count with his gallant air, his intense, burning eyes and his hypnotic charm.

Rival Jocks

As Quincy, Jack Klugman — race horse owner and avid racing fan in real life — investigates a jockey's death, it soon begins to look like homicide, in "Dead Heat," NBC's "Quincy," airing Thursday, Sept. 27.

At the track, Quincy accidentally overhears an angry exchange between rival jockeys Julio Ruis and Billy McGinn. Shortly after, Ruis is found in a stall, apparently trampled to death by a horse.

Government to develop wind-driven generators

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Wind-driven electric generators are an "infant industry" that the federal government hopes to develop into something bigger and better, a Rockwell International spokeswoman said Tuesday.

Sharon Abresch spoke to a briefing, sponsored by the Texas Public Utility Commission, on a U.S. Department of Energy project to test small wind-driven power plants.

A PUC memorandum said Rockwell, which manages the project under contract with the energy department, will locate two of the Small Wind Energy Conversion Systems in Texas.

"We are dealing with a small infant, cottage industry in the majority of cases, and the objective of the DOE is to develop it into an established industry in this country," Ms. Abresch said.

One objective is to reduce the cost of manufacturing the wind systems because "right now, the first cost is prohibitive," she said. Rockwell's and DOE's goal, she said, is to lower the capital cost by 66 percent and increase the service life of a wind generator to 15 to 30 years.

Collect the Evidence

By Alfred Sheinwold

Proverbs may not guide you reliably today. Should you strike while the iron is hot or look before you leap? You let East win the first diamond but win the diamond return. You then take two rounds of trumps, but stop when the jack drops. Does West still have the ten of hearts? Or does East have the 10-8? Play a few more tricks before you commit yourself.

RUFF SPADES

You take the top spades, ruff a spade, lead a club to the ace and return another spade. If East followed, you could discard a club, but when East discards, you can safely ruff. Now lead your other club.

You may get a safe ruff with the nine of hearts. But if East wins the second club and leads the eight of hearts you must make up your mind. By then you know that East started with only two diamonds and only three spades. It is highly probable that East held four trumps, and you have a better reason for finessing than if you had tried to decide earlier.

TABC reports revenue increase of $19 million

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission statistics released Monday show commission revenues increased by almost $19 million during the recent fiscal year.

The numbers also show that taxes collected at border entry points dropped by $52,826 during the year ending Aug. 31.

Mike McKinney, executive assistant to the ABC administrator, said the increased revenues reflect inflation and increased consumption. The total revenue for the fiscal year was $193,496,099.

Commission records also show a large increase in the number of licenses and permits granted. The commission issued 81,161 licenses and permits during the year. That figure is up by 6,963 from the previous year's total.

The decreased income from border points could be a result of less international traffic. McKinney said U.S. Customs reports show decreased traffic — particularly at Laredo. The decrease also reflects a procedural change in the way members of the military pay taxes on alcoholic beverages brought into the state, McKinney said.

The commission conducted 5,040 audits during the year and brought in $2,518,274 in delinquent taxes.

So long, Baker Hotel; Thanks for the memories

By KATHLEEN CARROLL

DALLAS (AP) — She stands silent now, price tags spelling out her worth like the sidewalk hostesses that sometimes frequent the streets outside her doors.

The elegant Baker Hotel, one of the grand dames of Dallas hotels is suffering the indignities of sale, public clearance and ultimate destruction. She has been sold to Southwestern Bell which plans to erect a spanking new office building on the spot she has occupied for more than 50 years.

Her doors have been closed forever to honeymooners, partygoers, high school prom dancers and civic club luncheons.

And for the first time in memory, she will stand silent in the heart of the wild Texas-OU all-night street party

Oct. 5, a melee over which she has presided for decades.

No water balloons will sail out her windows under the frantic, drunken celebration that precedes the Texas-Oklahoma football season and signals the opening of the State Fair of Texas each fall.

But even now, she teems with activity, probably not to her liking. Crews from National Content Liquidation, Inc., crawl about her innards, tagging everything salvagable for the 45-day public sale that opens Wednesday.

"We're selling everything, the paneling, ceilings, doors, floors," said NCL president Clem Long. "When we leave here in 45 days, you'll have a skeleton of a building."

You could almost feel the great lady shudder.

Gracious to the end, even the tags on her chandeliers have not dimmed her stately presence. And she was hospitable enough to allow some sloppy memories to creep into a recent tour.

Elevators slide up and down their chutes in the silence, their wood-paneled interiors waiting in the lobby for guests long gone.

Their wrought-iron doors (not yet priced) will make great coffee tables, Long predicts.

The brass banisters leading from the lobby, now smooth from a million gloved touches, are priced at $18,000. Two gold and fake marble pyramids will go for $250 (the pair).

Upstairs there is no creamed chicken, no cold rolls in a basket, not even the hint of a green pea in sight in the giant meeting room. Brown-rimmed plates are stacked and marked for sale, rows of copper steamers gleam under massive crystal chandeliers ($6,500).

A line of typewriters, adding machines and vacuum cleaners (waiting for price tags) from the most out-of-date to the most modern, chronicle the nuts-and-bolts operation of the hotel's crew.

A steel and brass gate ($60) closing a marble employee staircase to the public now gapes open. The stairs, Long said, will be sold, too.

Beyond the gala trappings, the Baker has retained the musty, disinfected air-conditioned smell of public accommodations that seep from the walls of each room.

The beds that hold tears, beer, coffee and the secrets of wedding night bliss have been denuded of their linens. The dressers, desks and chairs are dusty, their 1960s blonde finish gleaming through the film.

The smell of hair spray and the stain of lipstick permeate the ladies room just outside the Terrace Room on the 17th floor. There, amid chocolate brown, silver and green geometric designs, couples once nuzzled to an almost-forgotten band.

A chord on the white-lacquered Baldwin grand piano ($1,650) bounces off the windows overlooking downtown and is absorbed in creamy drapes ($110 each).

The ballroom ironically looks out over the long-time rival Adolphus Hotel, and downtown buildings part for a direct view of the modern chrome-and-glass Hyatt Regency on the edge of town.

An elevator comes when beckoned. Back in the lobby, visitors sign out with a guard and exit past the once busy Baker's Dozen coffee shop and through the only unlocked door onto the bustling street.

Goodbye, great lady. And thanks.

He learned how to crash, not fly

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Navy Lt. Sam Vickers and his passenger — a University of Texas student being recruited for flight training — escaped injury Monday when their World War II-vintage T-34B plane crashed on takeoff.

"They've taught me how to crash. Now I'd like for them to teach me how to fly," said Billy Garrett, a senior majoring in aerospace engineering.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Scientists working on Tay-Sachs

Dear Dr. Solomon: Our local community center recently sponsored a screening program for Tay-Sachs disease. If a person is found to have the disease, can anything be done to cure it? — Mrs. F.R.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: A cure for Tay-Sachs disease has not yet been found, but scientists are working toward that goal. Dr. Roscoe Brady, chief of the developmental and metabolic urology branch of the National Institute of Neurological and Communicative Disorders and Stroke, is one who has reported slow but steady progress.

Tay-Sachs is a genetic disease caused by lack of a specific enzyme. If the missing enzyme can be identified, it may be possible to inject it into the patient so that normal metabolism can be restored. So far 10 enzyme deficiency diseases have been identified.

Work has progressed slowly because there are intricate technical problems involved. Most of the research has been conducted in animals, but some clinical enzyme replacement has been done in humans, with moderate success.

Dr. Brady probably has made more progress in the treatment of Gaucher's disease, also caused by a missing enzyme, beta glucosidase. So far he has injected the enzyme into seven patients, with mixed results. Although a breakthrough in the treatment of Tay-Sachs disease is not imminent, the methods of achieving a cure seem well established.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What is the function of minerals in our bodies? — Cathy.

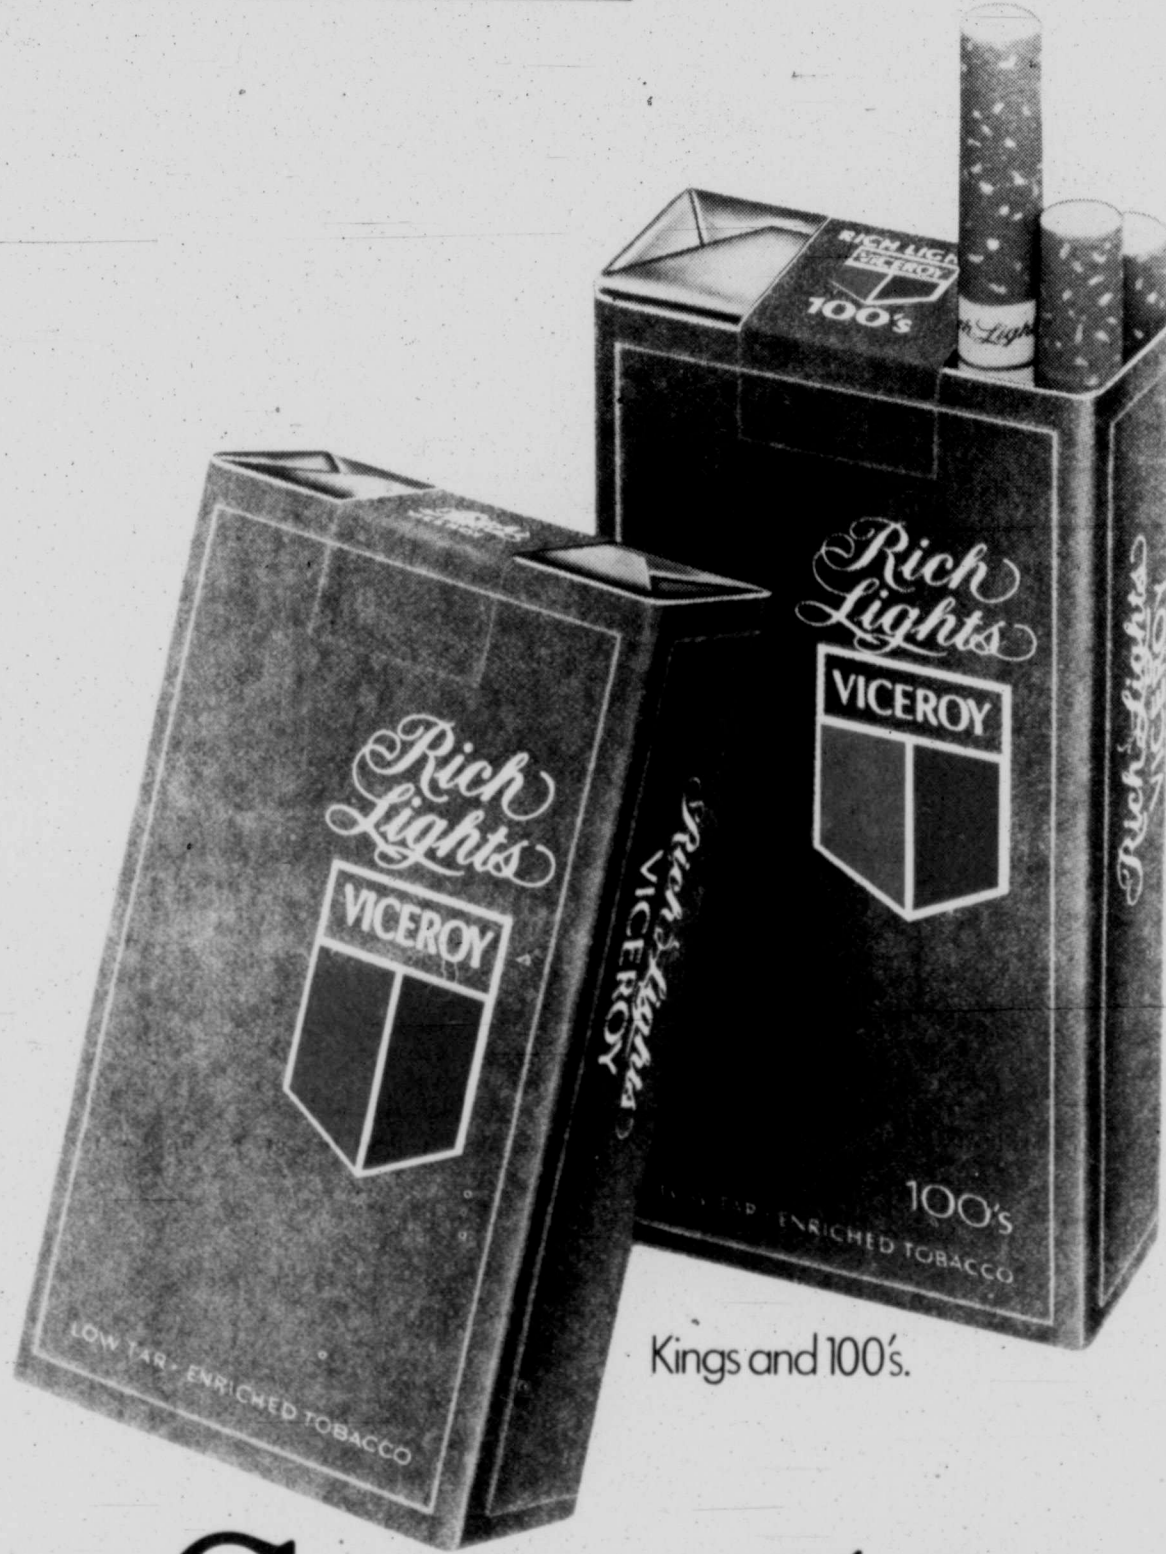

Dear Cathy: Minerals are essential for good health, and an insufficient supply can bring on numerous deficiency diseases. Minerals serve two general purposes in the body — building and regulating.

The building functions involve the skeleton and soft tissues, while the regulating functions affect various systems, such as heartbeat, metabolism, blood clotting, nerve responses and the movement of oxygen from the lungs to tissues.

Minerals needed by the body in relatively large amounts include calcium, phosphorus, sodium chloride, potassium, magnesium and sulfur. The body also requires other minerals in very small quantities. These "trace element" minerals are iron, manganese, copper, iodine, zinc, cobalt, fluorine and selenium.

The mineral our bodies require the most is calcium. Almost all the calcium, up to two or three pounds, is found in the teeth and bones. Everyone needs calcium throughout life, but particularly growing children, pregnant women and mothers nursing their babies.
