Bill killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday killed an emergency money bill needed to keep the government operating past Sunday. Senators were angry over the House position on abortion financing and a congressional pay raise.

The action, on a vote of 55-9, means the bill now must start all over in a House committee — a time-consuming process.

The Senate action on the continuing resolution came despite the pleas of Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., that the Senate simply amend the compromise report and send it back to the conference with the House.

But several senators objected to that maneuver and their objections blocked Byrd from pursuing his approach.

Byrd himself originally voted not to kill the bill but then changed his vote and urged other senators to reject it.

Man hospitalized

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A palsied college student who vowed to kill himself in front of 30 hostage classmates and kept police at bay for three hours was committed to a state mental hospital Friday.

At a hearing in Chancery Court, Judge Len G. Broughton ordered Louis M. Posey, 27, to undergo psychiatric evaluation at Lake Shore Mental Health Institute in Knoxville.

Posey was charged Thursday with illegally carrying a weapon and held in lieu of $10,000 bond, but no arguments were heard Friday on the weapon charge pending the evaluation.

Collar missing

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The ceremonial, bejeweled collar worn by Yale University presidents during official occasions since 1903 was reported missing Friday from its vault, Yale officials said.

The ornate, heavy necklace-like trapping is made of silver and gold gilt, trimmed with sapphires and small diamonds.

Its replacement value was listed at $12,500 in 1964, but Yale Secretary Henry Chaucey says the real value is more like $100,000.

Chaucey's secretary, Mary Brainard, discovered at about 9:30 a.m. that the collar was missing from its box in a vault in Chaucey's ground-floor office.

Boy sought

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Authorities searched in four states Friday for a 2-year-old asthmatic boy and his teenage babysitter, while the youngster's embittered father said he regretted ever taking the suspected kidnapper into his home.

"I wouldn't help nobody no more," said Charles Moksheski, the father of Jamie Moksheski, who was last seen Tuesday morning. "I just hope to hell she has enough sense to know if that kid gets sick she gets the kid to a doctor."

Armed security troops of the Irish Army, moved into position near a fence surrounding the Dublin, Ireland, airport Friday morning, are among those awaiting the arrival of Pope John Paul II. On Monday, the pope will travel to the United States. (AP Laserphoto)

Final preparation made for historic papal trip

VATICAN CITY (AP) — On the eve of a historic journey to Ireland and the United States, Pope John Paul II prayed at the tomb of his brief-reigning namesake Friday, reflecting on death and the "joy of faith" and preparing for his mission of peace in a violence-torn world.

Ireland, devotedly Catholic, was in the throes of a papal fever. Thousands of faithful streamed down across the border from Protestant-dominated Northern Ireland to get a glimpse today of the first pope ever to visit their land. And authorities made final checks on the tightest security operation ever mounted on an island long troubled by nationalist and sectarian turmoil.

From Ireland, the pontiff heads Monday to America, where New York's Cardinal Terence Cooke, in a welcome message, said his seven-day

U.S. visit "has captured the attention of the entire nation."

The pope's final day at the Vatican coincided with the first anniversary of the death of his predecessor, John Paul I, the cheerful "smiling pope" who reigned a mere 33 days. The pontiff celebrated a commemorative Mass at St. Peter's Basilica, then descended to the basilica grotto and placed flowers and prayed at the tomb.

The testament of John Paul I was his "joy of faith," the pope said in the homily of the Mass, attended by 20,000 people.

The former Cardinal Albino Luciani, felled by a heart attack at age 65, "left before he could begin his pontificate," John Paul II said. "Death never surprises the man who lives with faith."

John Paul II takes off this morning aboard a special Irish jetliner bound for Dublin, where he will be welcomed by Irish air force fighters flying in the formation of a cross and by an expected one million Irish assembled in a Dublin park for a memorable papal Mass.

The pope, who visited Latin America and his native Poland earlier this year, has called his trip to Ireland a "pilgrimage for peace and reconciliation."

Peace is expected to be a main theme of the pope's visit to the United States, especially next Tuesday in New York, when he addresses the U.N. General Assembly, where Pope Paul VI issued a "No more war, no more war" plea 15 years ago.

John Paul declared Thursday he will play an active role in the establishment of "permanent and effective" peace in the world.

Anti-inflation guidelines altered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration announced minor changes in its anti-inflation standards Friday after reaching agreement with the AFL-CIO on a program that will give organized labor a voice in plotting the nation's economic strategy.

Carter praised the so-called "national accord" with the labor federation as "a forward step" in the battle against inflation.

Later, his Council on Wage and Price Stability issued slightly revised guidelines for the second year of the anti-inflation program.

The council said the first-year pay standard, which called for wage increases of no more than 7 percent, will remain in effect until a new advisory committee recommends changes on Oct. 31.

But the price standard will tighten slightly starting Monday, with businesses urged to meet a two-year, cumulative standard and seek fewer exceptions.

"The council will continue to use the basic structure of the first-year standards, with modifications to correct specific problems and to broaden public support for the program," the council said.

The council, which oversees the voluntary guidelines, admitted that the changes were minor. The most significant change was creation of a pay and a price board to make recommendations on future guidelines changes.

The economic accord, approved by a unanimous vote of the AFL-CIO executive council earlier in the day, outlines vague goals on inflation, energy and employment that both the Carter administration and the 14 million-member labor federation hope to meet.

The accord assures organized labor a voice in the anti-inflation effort, a voice it felt it had been lacking in the first year of the administration's program. The AFL-CIO had been calling for mandatory price controls and challenged the first-year guidelines in court.

Carter — who will need labor support to fend off a possible challenge by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., for the 1980 presidential nomination — said the nine-page pact would have "the broadest possible impact in order to fight against inflation."

Going back to a morality theme he used in his recent major address on energy, Carter told a news conference that "ultimately, if not curbed, infla-

Carter to discuss troops in Cuba in Monday speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will make a broadcast report to the nation at 9 p.m. EDT Monday on his plans to deal with the presence of Soviet combat troops in Cuba.

The White House press office announced the address Friday in a one-sentence statement which said the speech would deal with "issues connected with the Soviet combat brigade in Cuba."

Carter planned to put finishing touches on his address at his Camp David retreat. He was scheduled to fly there Saturday afternoon, returning to the White House sometime Monday.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance cleared his weekend schedule as members of the administration continued their discussions on the Cuban situation, sources said.

The State Department said Vance on Friday afternoon cancelled a speech scheduled Saturday in New Haven, Conn., and a subsequent trip to Panama, where he was to have been part of an American delegation at ceremonies Monday marking the first effective day of the Panama Canal treaties.

Carter had first attempted to schedule the address for Sunday evening, according to a White House source. Later, another aide, who also requested anonymity, said the Monday night time was picked in part to give the president the largest possible audience.

Meanwhile, in his first public remarks on the situation, Cuban President Fidel Castro echoed earlier Soviet statements by saying that the Soviet troops on the island are part of a "military instruction center installed in Cuba 17 years ago, and both the CIA and former U.S. administrations knew it."

Speaking at a Havana news conference Friday, Castro accused Carter of being "dishonest, immoral and insincere."

He said the military facility was established at the end of Cuban missile crisis in October 1962 "in conformity with the spirit of the agreement signed that year."

Castro also accused Carter of creating "an artificial crisis." Carter convened a formal 90-minute meeting of his National Security Council early Friday, following by less than 12 hours an informal conference involving the same group of key advisers.

"It is a very calm and deliberate process that's proceeding in a timely but not a hurried fashion," said a senior Carter aide who asked not to be identified. He predicted the president's report "will merit and receive the support of the people of this country."

Carter has said that if negotiations with the Soviets fail, the United States would act on its own to change the "status quo."

Vance gave Security Council members an hour-long briefing Thursday night on his negotiations with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, which apparently failed to resolve the dispute. Earlier, Vance and Carter met privately for 30 minutes.

White House officials said no further Security Council meetings were planned prior to the broadcast but reported Carter and his advisers would be holding a series of sessions, separately and together, in the next two days.

Although U.S. officials did not entirely rule out possible further contact with the Russians, Powell said he knew of no plans for a new meeting with Gromyko, who was returning to Moscow.

A White House source, when asked about the impact of the troop dispute on the fate of the strategic arms limitation treaty, said Carter would prefer to campaign for re-election with a SALT II treaty ratified by the Senate but added that if necessary, the president will "campaign for it."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government index designed to forecast economic trends continued to show weakness in August, the Commerce Department said Friday.

The department's Composite Index of Leading Indicators "is telling us the economy is sluggish, but doesn't give us any clue to the magnitude" of the problem, said department analyst Adren Cooper.

Meanwhile, the government reported that the nation's 4,700 federally insured savings and loan associations posted their worst August savings flow rate since August 1974, when the nation was in its last recession.

Savings deposits increased $729 million last month, only about half the increase of the previous month, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It was the worst inflow since December, which traditionally is low because people withdraw their funds for holiday shopping.

And the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks said net deposits at savings banks fell $500 million in August. It was the fifth consecutive monthly decline, the trade group said.

The savings flow figures are important because they give a clue about how much money the thrift institutions will have available to lend out in mortgages in future months.

His menu includes money-saving weeds

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP) — Carmen DiPalma learned something during the Depression that's still saving him money. He eats weeds.

"I love to cook exotic things," he says. His culinary skills run to rose petal omelets, tiger lily fritters and cattail burgers.

He said he began eating weeds when his father died in 1936, leaving his mother, who could neither read nor write English, with four young children to support.

"My mother was born and raised in Italy where they, of course, did not have supermarkets," said DiPalma, a former chiropractor who now reads water meters for the city. "They ate what they could find out of necessity. It was that or don't eat at all."

He said gathering the right kinds of weeds can mean significant savings on the food bill. In a nearby field he gathers a weed which he substitutes for $3-a-pound coffee.

"I feel great about that," he said. "I am getting something for nothing."

Meany plans retirement

By OWEN ULLMANN

WASHINGTON (AP) — An ailing 85-year-old George Meany, the undisputed patriarch of the American labor movement for the past quarter-century, announced Friday he is retiring as AFL-CIO president in November. Meany, whose gruff voice has counseled and chastised eight American presidents, has been in failing health since April, and his retirement had been expected within the labor movement.

HIS DECISION was relayed to reporters by AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland, 57, who is considered a virtual certainty to succeed Meany as president of the powerful 14-million-member federation at its convention in mid-November. Kirkland announced Meany's decision after emerging from a special session of the AFL-CIO executive council, which unanimously endorsed an accord with President Carter on a new voluntary wage-price guidelines program that organized labor will help shape.

Although a sharp contrast to Meany in style, the scholarly, soft-spoken Kirkland is the AFL-CIO president's alter ego on policy and is expected to pursue the federation's liberal positions on domestic issues and conservative stances on foreign policy.

KIRKLAND, who has been the AFL-CIO's No. 2 man for the past decade and Meany's personal choice as successor, told reporters of Meany's decision at a news conference called to announce the agreement with Carter. Kirkland said Meany telephoned him Thursday night with his decision, but gave no reason.

Asked if he intended to seek Meany's job in November, Kirkland, a former merchant mariner from South Carolina, said, "Yes." Union leaders who sit on AFL-CIO executive council said they were not surprised to learn of Meany's decision. They also said Kirkland seemed assured of election to a two-year term.

Meany, who had been scheduled to preside over the council meeting Friday, remained at home with a minor ailment, aides said.

IMMEDIATELY after his retirement was announced, praise poured in from both friends and longtime antagonists.

"George Meany has given unparalleled service to the nation and its working people," said Labor Secretary Ray Marshall. "The American people owe him a great debt of gratitude." R. Heath Larry, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said he and Meany have had many differences, "but these were always articulated openly and with rectitude. We salute him and wish him well."

MEANY WAS a principal figure in the merger of the AFL and CIO in 1955, and has served as its first and only president for the past 24 years. As the autocratic head of the federation, the cigar-smoking, onetime Bronx plumber has been the most dominant force in organized labor. In that role, he emerged as one of the most influential and durable shapers of American economic, foreign and social policy. His post also made Meany a principal factor in the selection of Democratic presidential candidates.

Since the spring, however, Meany has been slowed by the twin afflictions of advancing age and frail health, although aides said his

Midlander pleads guilty

A 29-year-old Midlander was given a two-year deferred judgment Friday after he pleaded guilty in 238th District Court to a charge of unlawful possession of tetrahydrocannabinol.

Claude Mark Maloney, 810 Stanolind Ave., was sentenced by Judge Vann Culp, who also ordered Maloney to pay a $200 fine.

The charge had been filed against Maloney after he was arrested Aug. 30, 1979.

The case was prosecuted by Assistant District Attorneys David Joers and Richard Davis.

Maloney was represented by defense attorney Randall Lundy.

mental faculties remain sharp.

MEANY HAS NOT made a public appearance in five months and has visited his office only occasionally since April because of a painful arthritic hip forced him into a wheelchair.

There has been speculation for the past decade that "Mr. Labor" would retire, but the rumors took on new seriousness in March, when Meany's wife of 59 years, Eugene, died and he was hospitalized briefly for a recurrence of a chronic bronchial condition.

In mid-April, Meany injured his leg in a golfing accident while vacationing in Palm Springs, Calif., and was hospitalized. A stay there caused his arthritic hip to act up again.

"It's not that he's in such bad physical condition," said Ernest Lee, Meany's son-in-law and an AFL-CIO official. "It's just that he recognized that the job requires enormous physical energies" that he no longer has, Lee said.

LEE SAID MEANY made up his mind on his own — without any pressure from anyone else.

Increasingly in recent years, Meany's critics in the labor movement

have been calling on him to retire. They said the job should be turned over to a younger man who could refurbish organized labor's "old-man" image.

But Meany spurned those retirement calls, retorting that he would step down when he was good and ready.

At his last formal news conference in February, he was asked whether he was thinking about retiring.

"I'm thinking about it all the time," he snapped. "I've been thinking about it for a number of years. I'll keep thinking about it — for a number of years."

MEANY WAS BORN Aug. 16, 1894, in the Harlem section of New York City to a large family of devout Irish Roman Catholics. He followed in his father's footsteps as both a plumber and union activist.

He became president of the New York Federation of Labor in 1934, and was subsequently elected secretary-treasurer of the old American Federation of Labor.

A member of the War Labor Board during World War II, Meany became president of the AFL in 1952.

Three years later, on Dec. 5, 1955, Meany was unanimously elected president of the just-formed AFL-CIO. He was elected to 11 subsequent terms, all without opposition.

Meany has advised presidents since Franklin D. Roosevelt lived in the White House, and he was never one to mince his words or actions when he was unhappy with the nation's chief executive.

IN 1971, MEANY agreed to serve on a pay board under the Nixon administration's mandatory wage-price controls program, only to quit the panel six months later, charging the program was pro-business.

Pilot program receives honor

The Law-Focused Education program piloted in the Midland public schools has been recognized by the U.S. Office of Education, according to information received by the district's communications office.

The local program, Law in a Changing Society, has received validation through a system called the National Diffusion Network. Purpose of the network is to identify effective programs that have been developed with federal funds by local districts or individuals and to make information about the programs available to other school districts.

Programs approved and validated for the diffusion network are described in a book entitled "Programs That Work." These books are sent to state facilitators in all 50 states.

Another benefit of validation, school officials added, is the option to apply for further funding from the National Diffusion Network.

Law in a Changing Society is a program for social studies classes. Featured in grades three, five and seven through 12, students receive special instruction on constitutional issues and the functioning of our legal system from faculty members who have received specialized training.

Midland attorney Ted M. Kerr, an initiator of Texas State Law-Focused Education, Inc., served as the organization's first president and is credited with its success throughout the state, school officials said.

Responsible for the Law in a Changing Society program and its implementation here is Bertha Mae Starks, social studies coordinator for MISD.

Both Mrs. Starks and Kerr still serve on the state LFE board of directors.

Davis witness testifies he feared Pat Burleson

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A defense witness said he solicited protection from millionaire defendant Cullen Davis' defense team because he was afraid of his former friend and roommate, Pat Burleson.

Convicted rapist Jodie Mack Oliver, 30, said he and Burleson were close friends and lived in Burleson's downtown Fort Worth karate studio until February, when the friends split up and Oliver moved out.

On cross-examination, prosecutor Jack Strickland asked Oliver if he had become "pretty good friends" with Burleson.

"He kind of took care of you in a lot of ways?" Strickland said.

"He sure did," replied the stocky, blond witness.

"In point of fact, that relationship became sort of like father and son," Strickland continued.

"Yes, sir," Oliver said.

Davis, 46, is charged with scheming to hire the murder of his divorcee, Joe Eldson, and others during the summer of 1978.

The Davis defense team contends Davis is the victim of an elaborate frame-up concocted by key prosecution witness David McCrory, Burleson and Davis' ex-wife Priscilla.

Oliver told jurors he sought protection from the FBI and from the U.S. Marshal's office, who told him they had no jurisdiction in the matter. The witness said he did not call the federal agencies until after he received $1,090 from the defense team for transportation and living expenses while he was in hiding in East Texas.

Oliver said he left Burleson because he became afraid for his life "when I was asked what kind of acid would burn a body up or where to hide a body," he said.

Strickland asked why Oliver thought that reference was a threat to his own life.

"I had observed certain things that happened and heard things to the point that if I thought I knew too much, I might be the one," he replied.

Oliver said he talked to district attorneys' investigators before entering the hospital, but refused to talk to them when he was released two weeks later. He said a defense-hired private investigator picked him up at the hospital.

"You found out that the prosecution would not offer you anything but protection, no money," Strickland said.

"Thereafter, you went right back to your sugar daddy, isn't that true?"

Lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes objected to the question and Oliver was not allowed to answer.

Oliver earlier testified Burleson told him on the eve of Davis' Aug. 20 arrest that "they're going to do it to Cullen Davis tomorrow. They're going to kill him or arrest him."

The next day, Oliver said Burleson handed him a note that said "It's going down now."

"You did not mention the note or the conversation in Houston did you?" Strickland asked.

"No, sir," Oliver said.

"In fact, you told no one until after you received the $1,090?" the prosecutor continued.

"Yes, sir. That's true."

The Houston proceeding ended in a mistrial earlier this year when jurors deadlocked in favor of conviction 8-4.

Judge rules jurors may hear tapes in McInnis disbarment

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Tapes of nine conversations in which Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis allegedly planned a man's slaying will be heard by jurors in the prosecutor's disbarment trial, a judge ruled Friday.

Over objections from McInnis' lawyers, State District Judge Joe B. Evins said the State Bar of Texas may use the tapes as evidence in its attempt to strip the district attorney of his law license.

The bar alleges McInnis engaged in unprofessional conduct by trying to arrange a murder.

The taped conversations took place in April and May of 1978 in the Hidalgo County jail.

McInnis allegedly asked Daniel Rodriguez to arrange the murder of Noe Villanueva and dispose of the body.

"We don't give a (blank) if he ain't found, but it would be just as well if he wasn't, wouldn't it?" McInnis told Rodriguez according to an FBI transcript of one conversation.

The intended target, who was not killed, was once married to a woman McInnis represented in a child custody case.

Evins listened to the tapes privately

Wednesday before deciding if the jury could hear them.

One of McInnis' lawyers, Jack Skaggs, argued his client was illegally tricked on the tapes. Rodriguez has testified he suggested to McInnis that they kill Villanueva, but the inmate said he never intended to go through with it.

Skaggs also said the obscene language and racial slurs on the tapes would prejudice jurors against McInnis.

"The jury will not understand why a district attorney would engage in a conversation of this type with a prisoner," Skaggs said.

McInnis has claimed he went by the jail to discuss Rodriguez' parole and possibly to get information on other criminals.

According to the FBI transcripts, McInnis spoke of his relationship with the U.S. Marshal's office in Houston.

"You know, I used to have some pull with those goddamned marshals. Well, I've probably still got some with the deputies, but they appointed some ol' nigger boy to U.S. Marshal now," McInnis said in the transcript.

Mizzou Tigers ready to show UT Longhorns

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Fourth-ranked Missouri and fifth-ranked Texas, who haven't met since 1946 when Tom Landry scored the game's final touchdown, tangle Saturday in an intersectional joust that has all of Columbia, Mo., in a tizzy.

Faurot Field seats only 60,000 but temporary bleachers and a grassy hillside should balloon the crowd to a record 75,000.

Texas, which holds a 6-4 edge in a series that started in 1896, is a one-point pick but the Tiger players are sure to be sky high.

"We haven't played an emotional game yet, but we'll have to this week to beat Texas," said assistant coach Bob Bratkowski.

OFFENSIVE tackle Dave Guender of Mizzou says "I'm looking forward to it. I think I play better against a team that's highly ranked."

Running back Bob Meyer says "There's no doubt they're a great team, especially defensively. Somehow, we haven't been keyed up enough in the first half—and if we can't against a team like Texas, we never will."

The Longhorns are looking for a tough time against the Tigers.

"They are tough and physical and so are we," said Texas Coach Fred Akers. "It should be a heck of a contest."

BAYLOR AND Texas Tech battle at Waco in the only Southwest Conference game of the day. The Red Raiders were one-point favorites. Tech tied 14-14 with Arizona last week while Alabama routed Baylor 45-0.

"They (The Red Raiders) embarrassed us last year," says Teaff. "They manhandled our defense. We had cleat marks all over our chests from James Hadnot stomping on us. And they are a better team this year. That doesn't sound too good for a team coming off a 45-0 defeat."

"I've said all along that this team has a oneness and a character and that's on the line this week," said Teaff. "I'd flat out say this is the most important game of the year for us."

IN OTHER games, 19th-ranked Southern Methodist was a field goal nod over Tulane; Houston was a prohibitive favorite over West Texas State; Texas Christian was a slim choice over Texas-Arlington, Arkansas was a 21-point selection over Tulsa; Texas A&M is a 10-point nod over Memphis State, and Oklahoma is a prohibitive favorite over Rice in Houston.

The SWC is 10-5-1 against outside competition. "Alabama was an embarrassment to us," said Baylor quarterback Mickey Elam. "We're just going to have to put that behind us."

"But now we know that the rest of our games, except for one, are conference games and it's like a whole new season."

When Texas Tech and Baylor clash, the Frank Pollard (30) finds out on attempted the only Southwest Conference squabble at action can be rough and tumble, as Bears' sweep. The Red Raiders and Bears clash in Waco today. (Staff photo)

It's just another typical SWC race, isn't it?

It's shaping up as a typical Southwest Conference season. You know the kind, easy to figure. Texas, of course, all the way. The national polls say so and so do the soothsayers who know the SWC best.

And, naturally, the Longhorns will confirm it by beating Missouri in Columbia today. Coach Fred Akers wishes it could be so cut and dried, especially after scanning the shenanigans going on around the rest of the league.

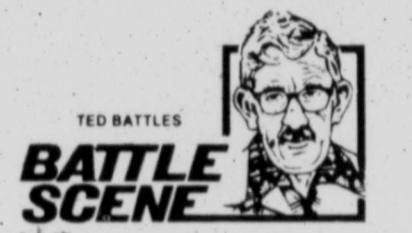

The Texas Aggies lose a screamer to Brigham Young...and accidents do happen. But then they lose to Baylor in a game that counts. So, all the Aggies had to look forward to last week was the slaughter at University Park, thankfully in the seclusion of the Nittany Mountains.

And slaughter it was, only it was nationally ranked and No. 1 hopeful Penn State that was butchered and more decisively than the 27-14 margin might hint.

After beating A&M, Baylor fans might even had upset in mind against No. 2 Alabama last week and if the Crimson Tide really rubbed it in, it might climb to 21-0...but lordy, not 45-0.

Texas Tech, after playing top-ranked Southern California tough, is still looking for its offense, beating New Mexico with a tough-fibred defense and glad to escape Tucson with that 14-14 tie with Arizona.

SMU, the SWC sleeper, the glamor team of the media with the passing tandem of Mike Ford and Emanuel Tolbert, not to mention the freshman running sensation Eric Dickerson, is still unbeaten, but is keeping its fingers crossed after the loss of Ford. Dickerson, plagued by injuries, is only the No. 3 rusher. In Tulane tonight, the Mustangs get their toughest assignment to date. Starting two weeks after most other teams, Texas is heading into the Tigers' den when it plays Missouri today. Mizzou, although it has been a long time since it ruled unchallenged in the Big Eight, has a habit of yanking the rug from under national powers in early season games...ask USC, Alabama and Notre Dame.

The Steers are strong defensively, but the Iowa was a little shaky against Iowa State...Missouri 17, Texas 14.

Elsewhere... Baylor 21, Texas Tech 17—The Raiders have won only three of the last 14 played in Waco and the Bears should come on stronger than a fraternity house laundry.

SMU 28, Tulane 22—The Mustangs Mania continues unabated another week.

Arkansas 21, Tulsa 7—Last week it was Oklahoma, this week Arkansas. What's a nice little Hurricane doing in a spot like that.

Texas A&M 35, Memphis State 14—After last week, the Aggies couldn't possibly...no, perish the thought...

TCU 27, Texas-Arlington 20—Horned Frogs break into win column after two losses.

Oklahoma 42, Rice 7—Probably a conservative estimate.

Michigan State 17, Notre Dame 14—Spartans always point for Irish and are tough for the South Bend bunch even when they aren't going good...and this is a strong MSU team, they say.

USC 17, LSU 10—Trojans have been prepared for the crowd noise at Tiger Stadium, but Mike? No matter, Charles White should be the difference.

Nebraska 14, Penn State 7—Aggies will be watching this one closely to see just how good they are, and naturally pulling for a Lions' win.

Now for the toughies—North Carolina 27, Army 0; Houston 35, West Texas State 3; Brigham Young 29, UTEP 14; Stanford 23, Boston College 7; Purdue 24, Oregon 9; Georgia Tech 18, William & Mary 12; Alabama 47, Vanderbilt 6.

Owls suffer first loss

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

BIG LAKE — Reagan County was fallen from the unbeaten ranks.

Coach Jerry Hopkins' Sonora Broncos threw up a rock-ribbed defense and took advantage of five turnovers to take a 10-7 victory over the Owls in a Class AA non-district football battle Friday night.

Hopkins, former head coach at Midland High School, brought his Broncos into the game with a 1-1-1 season record compared to Coach Melvin Burns' crew which had won three straight with victories over McCamey, Ozona and Iraan.

Sonora turned loose Eddie Favila, Rex Surber and Johnny Doan against the Owls and the Broncos responded with a potent ball-control ground attack which racked up 282 yards.

Favila, a quick-darting 150-pound senior, led all rushers for the night with 143 yards in 36 carries while Surber, a 155-pound junior, added 57 yards in 22 carries and Doan 72 on only six carries.

SONORA'S DEFENSE was rugged in holding the usually high-scoring Owl offense to only six first downs with four of those coming in the first half.

Kent Burleson, a hard-running 165-pound senior, had a great night for the Owls with 110 yards in eight carries. One was a great run of 43 yards and the other, a 58-yard touchdown jaunt in the third quarter to get Reagan County back into the game after trailing at halftime, 10-0.

The Owls only had 133 yards via the infantry rout and 10 through the airways as quarterback Mickey Tom Owens, completed one of eight passes and had three aerials picked off by the alert Bronco secondary. In fact, Doan picked off two of the passes and teammate Kent Cagle the other and they came at key times in the hard-hitting contest. Doan also picked off a Johnny Mitchell pass too.

Reagan County only had the ball for 22 plays from scrimmage in the first half to give you some idea of the ball-control-type game the Broncos enjoyed while taking a 10-0 lead to the dressing room at intermission.

Sonora kicked off to the Owls and Reagan County was unable to move the ball, but the Broncos drove 77 yards in only nine plays to get on the scoreboard first. Favila had runs of 17 seven, nine and 12 yards to key the time-consuming drive and it was the latter run to the Owl 24 that set up the first score of the evening.

DOAN CAPPED the drive by racing 24 yards for the touchdown with some crisps blocking by the Bronco forward wall. David Creek spilt the uprights to give Sonora a 7-0 lead with 6:45 left in the opening period.

This seemed to anger the Owls who promptly marched from their own 25 to the Sonora 18 where Doan picked off an Owens pass, blunting the drive which featured Burleson's brilliant yard scamper to the Red Hoss 20.

Great defensive play by Wesley Barton and Enrique Sanchez, made things rough for the Owls before the interception, Sanchez, by the way, suffered a broken right forearm in the third period and was taken to the hospital.

Following Doan's first interception of the night, the Broncos had the ball for 19 plays which literally ate up the clock and they capped the ball-control drive by adding a field goal by Creek after the Owls were offside on the first attempt from 25 yards out. The next one was banded through by the left-footed kicker, making it 10-0 in favor of Sonora with 7:02 left in the first half.

The frustrated Owls took the kick and after a 45-yard return by Donnie Moore, Sonora picked off Owens' pass at the Bronco one and then the visitors held on to the ball for 10 more plays.

Johnny Mitchell got off a booming 61-yard punt for the Owls, pinning Sonora on its own 10, but Doan broke for 12 yards and two first downs later, Surber punted away to the Owl 42.

On the first play following the punt, Burleson scampered 58 yards to paydirt, to make it 10-6 and Byron Bitner boomed through the PAT making it 10-7 with 2:19 left in the third period, giving the Owls plenty of time to pull out a victory.

McCamey stuns Eldorado, 14-7

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

McCAMEY — The McCamey Badgers pulled off two successful goal line stands and produced enough points for a 14-6 victory over a stubborn Eldorado team here Friday night in a battle of Class A football teams.

McCamey showed enough offense in this one to produce a runaway, but they failed to convert some ground gobbling drives for scores and came away with a heart thumper for a victory. The Badgers are now 2-1-1 on the year while the Eagles fell to 2-2.

McCamey's Raul Arana (100 yards rushing), Ben Ferguson (85) and Brent Rhodes (73) gave the Badgers some ground power with all three breaking for some long and exciting gains, but Eldorado managed to stay in the game and had the Badgers wondering if the homecoming tilt would come out the way the schedule said it was supposed to.

McCamey moved to the 11-yard line in the first period without scoring, but came back with a 65-yard march to paydirt on their next possession when quarterback Ernest Velasquez hit end Billy Ray Terry with a four-yard scoring strike. Ferguson keyed the drive with gains of 16, 12 and 11 yards. Arana added the extra point for a 7-0 lead on the second play of the second period.

The Badgers put the game away on their first possession of the third period with a 63-yard drive as Rhodes scored on a sweep from 11 yards out. Rhodes had a gallop of 29 yards in that drive and Ferguson had one of 12 yards. Arana's kick was good again.

Eldorado moved to within 7-6 with five seconds left in the half when quarterback Randy Morrison hit end Ed Willoughby with a five-yard scoring toss. That score was set up by a 36-yard pass from Morrison to back Tommy Martinez.

However, Eldorado missed a chance at two points on the conversion when Terry jammed up a sweep attempt.

The Eagles were also stopped twice inside the 10-yard line of the Badgers. Once in the second period when Velasquez knocked down a would be pass from Morrison at the eight yard line and again in the fourth quarter when Velasquez was defending against a Morrison pass from the six-yard line. Eldorado's Keith McCormick dropped a touchdown pass from Morrison two plays earlier from the six.

McCamey outgained the Eagles in rushing yardage by a 267-117 margin, but Eldorado kept in the game with 130 yards passing from Morrison. Morrison, however, threw three interceptions and completed only seven of the 28 aerials he attempted. It was a game filled with air balls, and the excitement went to the end with Eldorado trying to crack a Badger defense that bent, but wouldn't break when it counted.

Slippery Rock finds itself in fish bowl

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Rock rolled into town Friday, confirming for any doubters that there really is a Slippery Rock.

Now the question is: Can they play football?

"I'm so frightful we won't do well," Coach Bob DiSpirito said Friday. "All of a sudden, we find ourselves in a fishbowl."

DiSpirito and his 68 players will get a chance to show their stuff Saturday when they meet some Pennsylvania rivals, the Shippensburg State Red Raiders, before an anticipated 70,000 fans at the University of Michigan Stadium.

The game was brought to Ann Arbor by Michigan Athletic Director Don Canham as a way to make money for his own athletic program while the hometown Michigan Wolverines are playing in California. Some of the proceeds, at $5 a head, also will go to the two Pennsylvania teams.

Scores of the Slippery Rock games have been announced to the delight of the customary 100,000-plus fans at Michigan Stadium for years on football Saturdays. Even better than announcing the score would be to bring the Rock to Ann Arbor, Canham figured.

He sees the contest as developing into a "showcase for small college football."

"We may have a funny name, but we want people to enjoy our football. We like to have fun with the name, but

Holmes climbs off canvas to batter Shavers into defeat

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes got up from two knockdowns and battered an exhausted Earnie Shavers into submission in the 11th round Friday night to retain the World Boxing Council heavyweight championship in a savage brawl at Caesar's Palace.

It was a war, and both fighters looked like they were fighting in slow motion in the last couple of rounds.

The end came after Shavers absorbed 20 or 30 punches to the head in the 11th round. Referee Dave Pearl lifted Holmes' hand in victory as Shavers staggered to the ropes, his hands at his side. The time was 2:00.

Holmes didn't look like a winner until the 11th round. He went down in the seventh and again in the ninth, but Shavers didn't have the strength to keep him down or to put him down again.

Holmes was in control of the fight through the first six rounds, as he made use of his hand and foot speed, using all the ring. He tired Shavers.

Then, suddenly, with about 45 seconds left in the seventh round, Shavers shot a short right hand to the side of the jaw that dropped Holmes in a neutral corner. The champion jumped up immediately but obviously was hurt.

Shavers moved to the attack, but he was so tired he couldn't take full advantage. He landed some punches in the final seconds, but so did Holmes as both men staggered about the ring.

Holmes seemed to get his rhythm back in the eighth round when he landed several good jabs and six or seven head shots.

In the ninth, Holmes landed a right, a left-right and another right to the head that drove Shavers into the ropes. Several more head shots including four good right hands and a one-two moved Shavers across the ring.

Suddenly, Shavers threw a roundhouse right that caught Holmes and put him down. He got up at four and lasted the round.

Holmes, who weighed 210 pounds to 211 for the 35-year-old Shavers, hurt the challenger with two rights and a left-right in the 10th. Referee Pearl suddenly waved Holmes away, then quickly waved him back. The referee explained between rounds that he had mistakenly thought the bell had rung.

The two men stumbled out for the 11th round, their trunks covered with blood from a cut over Shavers' left eye, pain and exhaustion etched on their faces. But the 29-year-old Holmes had more left than Shavers.

He battered him at will with both hands as Shavers had difficulty keeping his hands up. His legs were just as leaden as his arms.

At one point in the 11th, Holmes turned to Pearl and said, "Stop it."

A few seconds later, Pearl did, as Shavers stood helpless along the ropes, his bid to become the second oldest heavyweight champion in history foiled.

Jersey Joe Walcott was 37 when he knocked out Ezzard Charles in 1951 on his fifth try at the title.

Shavers was trying for the second time, having lost a unanimous 15-round decision to Muhammad Ali Sept. 29, 1977.

champion. Mike Weaver had given Holmes lots of trouble before Holmes knocked him down in the 11th and stopped him in the 12th last June 22.

But the Weaver fight must seem like a laugher to Holmes after what he went through with the power-punching Shavers Friday night.

Holmes and Shavers had to share the card with Sugar Ray Leonard, who scored a one-round knockout, and Roberto Duran, who scored an easy 10-round decision. But as talented and flamboyant as these two welterweights are, they couldn't steal the thunder from the big men on this night.

After 10 rounds, Holmes was comfortably ahead on all three judges' cards. Judge Al Miller had it 98-91, Lou Tabat had 98-89, and Harold Buck had 98-90.

The Associated Press had it 97-92 in favor of Holmes.

Despite the big lead, victory was anything but certain for Holmes, and the crowd knew it as it cheered both men.

But when Shavers came out for the 11th round, he just didn't have anything left.

Holmes, as in the Weaver fight, summoned up all his resources when he was in trouble, and while the victory might not have been artistic, it was impressive for the poise and courage displayed by the champion.

He got up twice and he refused to stop punching even though Shavers refused to go down.

Holmes was paid $2.5 million and he earned every penny for the victory that boosted his record to 32-0. It was the 23rd knockout for the champion from Easton, Pa.

Shavers, whose $300,000 purse hardly seemed enough for the gallant effort he put forth, goes back to his new house in Mecca, Ohio, with a record of 58-8-1. It was the fourth time he was knocked out, although he was on his feet at the end.

Wilfredo Gomez got the show going before a crowd of about 4,500 at the Caesar's Palace Sports Pavilion with a 10th-round knockout of Carlos Mendoza in defense of the WBC super bantamweight championship. Gomez, of Puerto Rico, who weighed the class limit of 122, knocked Mendoza, 120 1/2, of Panama, down with a right hand early in the 10th, then put him down again. The fight was stopped at 2:29 with Mendoza on his feet.

It was Gomez's 26th victory by knockout. Shortly before the first knockdown, referee Richard Greene consulted with Nevada Athletic Commission officials about a tear in Gomez's right glove. Gomez was allowed to continue.

Leonard was supposed to get a tough test from Andy Price of Los Angeles in a scheduled 12-round defense of Leonard's North American Boxing Federation welterweight title. But a slashing 11-punch series to the head put Price, 147, down and out at 2:52 of the first round, and Leonard, 146, of Palmer Park, Md., had his 25th victory in an unbeaten pro career.

He will fight Wilfredo Benitez for the WBC welterweight championship in Las Vegas on Nov. 30.

Duran, of Panama, the former lightweight champion now campaigning as a welterweight, kept on the pressure to outpoint Zefernio Gonzalez of Pico Verde, Calif. The 5-foot-7 Duran, 149, landed some hard shots but was unable to seriously hurt the 6-foot Gonzalez, 149 1/2. It was Duran's 67th victory against one loss.

Ponies top Tigers to stay unbeaten

SNYDER—Andrews' Mustangs struck for two first half touchdowns and they proved as good as gold in the current economy as the 2-AAA contender beat Snyder's Tigers 14-8 to boost their record to 4-0 for the season.

Andrews struck in the first period when quarterback Keith Brooks found tailback Ruben Acosta with a 13-yard scoring pass with 7:46 left. The kick for point failed and the Mustangs led 6-0 after driving 62 yards in nine plays.

The Ponies' next score was a bolt from the blue as Brooks took a punt and high-tailed 74 yards for a score with 3:28 left in the half. Brooks then made up for that first conversion oversight by flipping the two-pointer to tight end Chuck Fuson.

Snyder averted a shutout with 56 seconds left in the game when quarterback Mike Roemisch passed nine yards to tight end Trussell Thane and then tailback Keith McClain ran the two pointer. The Tigers hiked 63 yards in 12 plays.

Bobby Degrate was the leading rusher for Snyder with 100 yards in 23 carries and while the Tigers never seriously threatened to win after Brooks' punt return, the 3-AAA team was stymied by turnovers on its first three drives.

Snyder showed an edge in first downs, 13-10, rushing, 125-112, and passing, 96-85. The Tigers are now 2-2 for the year.

Mets sweep pair against St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gil Flores tripped and scored on a throwing error by right fielder Keith Hernandez in the 11th inning to give the New York Mets a 7-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and a sweep of their twilight doubleheader Friday. Doug Flynn drove in three runs with three singles and Joel Youngblood had two hits and scored three times as the Mets won the opener 6-2.

In the nightcap, the Cards' Garry Templeton doubled and singled as a right-hander to become the first player in major league history to total 100 hits from each side of the plate in a single season.

Garvey slam drops Astros from running

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Steve Garvey slugged a grand slam home run in the bottom of the eighth inning to lift the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-5 victory over Houston Friday night, eliminating the Astros from the National League West race.

With the setback, Crane dropped to 2-2 while Tahoka improved to 2-1.

Tahoka tumbles Cranes, 33-14

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

Following a fumble late in the first by Crane's Joe Sherman, Tahoka took over at the Golden Crane 21. Eight plays later, quarterback Todd Brown scored from six yards out. The kick failed but the 'Dogs led 6-0 with 11:04 in the second.

After a punt, Tahoka began another scoring drive from their 14. Oages and White did most of the damage, getting good yardage every play. White sprinted the final 13 yards and following Kevin Elmore's extra point, Tahoka was up 13-0 with 4:08 before intermission.

Then in the third quarter, Tahoka struck like lightning. With second and 11 at their 34, White popped through the line then hit the afterburners, scooting 66 yards for the tally. Elmore's kick ran the count to 20-0 with 8:29 in the third.

Crane's offense continued to sputter and after they failed to convert a fourth and one at their 37, Tahoka was once more in business.

Eight plays later, Brown bootlegged and was wide-open as he scampered the last 16 yards untouched. The kick failed but the Bulldogs prevailed 26-0.

Finally, Crane got a chance after recovering a Bulldog fumble at the Tahoka 24. Greg Cunningham's 11-yard keeper got the Cranes moving and three plays later, Sherman knifed across from the one. Johnny Gonzales' kick made the score 26-7 with 10:57 in the game.

However, Mr. White was to be heard from again. After Crane fumbled a punt, the 'Dogs took possession at the Golden Crane 29. You guessed it, White zoomed the distance for Tahoka's final tally. Elmore's kick made it 33-7 with 8:17 to play.

Crane's last score on a ten-yard pass from Cunningham to Mark Pahl with 16 seconds remaining. The kick was good.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds clinched a tie for the National League West title Friday night by beating the Atlanta Braves 3-0 as Cesar Geronimo hit a solo home run and then tripled and scored his next time at bat. The victory gave the Reds a three-game lead over the second-place Houston Astros, pending the outcome of the Astros' game at Los Angeles later Friday night.

Rookie Frank Pastore, 6-7, was the winner, firing a four-hitter. He struck out seven and walked only one. Buddy Solomon, 7-14, was the loser.

Geronimo hit his fourth home run of the season with one out in the third inning. He tripled in the fifth and scored on a two-out single by Dave Collins.

The Reds added another run in the eighth inning on a sacrifice fly by Johnny Bench after consecutive singles by Dave Concepcion and George Foster.

The Reds trailed Houston by 10 games on July 4 but caught the Astros and moved into first place for the first time on Aug. 28. The lead switched hands five times before Cincinnati assumed first place for keeps on Sept. 11.

Pirates' magic number now two

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Parker hit a two-run homer and Jim Bibby pitched a four-hitter to lead Pittsburgh to a 6-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night, reducing the Pirates' title-clinching magic number to two in the National League East. The rain-interrupted victory, coupled with second-place Montreal's 3-2 loss to Philadelphia earlier Friday night, raised Pittsburgh's division lead to two games. Pittsburgh can clinch the title by winning its last two games with the Cubs, no matter how the Expos fare the rest of the way.

Phils dim Expos' playoff hopes

MONTREAL (AP) — Keith Moreland singled home Greg Gross in the 11th inning as the Philadelphia Phillies capitalized on sloppy fielding by Montreal for a 3-2 victory Friday night, dimming the Expos' playoff hopes.

With two out in the 11th, Gross reached third when his grounder skipped past third baseman Larry Parrish for an error and left fielder Warren Cromartie overthrew second base another error on the same play. Woodie Fryman, 3-6, issued an intentional walk to pinch hitter Greg Luzinski before Moreland hit a 2-0 pitch for the game-winning single. Ron Reed, 13-8, who worked the final 12-3 innings, got the victory.

Montreal had taken a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Andre Dawson poked a one-out double into the right-field corner, stole third and scored when John Tamargo lined a single that dropped in front of right fielder Bake McBride to score Dawson.

The Expos added a run in the fifth. Parrish stroked a leadoff double in the end and scored two outs later when Warren Cromartie ripped a double under the outstretched glove of left fielder John Poff.

Philadelphia tied it in the sixth when Mike Schmidt powered his 45th home run of the season far beyond the left-field fence. The blast came with two out and drove in Pete Rose, who had led off the inning with a solid single to center.

TV only place to watch playoffs

By THOMAS BOSWELL
The Washington Post

There's only one proper place to watch the baseball playoffs and World Series — on television. For the regular season, go to the park. Snorf up that atmosphere, enjoy the panoramic game. But in October, get down to business.

Who wants to be in the upper deck when the pennant's on the line? Turn on that tube. Gimme those instant replays.

Nothing, usually, is worse than baseball on TV. The game's greatest attendance blessing is that it is vastly more pleasant in person than on the crunched screen. The diamond simply refuses to be put in a box.

From the first day of the playoffs, all that is removed. A raw edge returns. The championship series mix the visceral intensity of football with the unabashed subtlety that distinguishes great baseball.

Our autumn desire is to get close to the game: to see it tactically from the inside. For that purpose, TV is better than the manager's seat. Baltimore skipper Earl Weaver always says he doesn't care if he is ejected from a game, because "I see it better back in my office on TV."

Perhaps only during the post-season are baseball games worthy of the sort of pitch-by-pitch scrutiny by fans that becomes second nature to the players themselves.

Granted one assumption — that playoff and Series ball is worth a fan's full attention — then the only valid way to watch the post-season is with the TV sound turned off.

Put on some music, then watch the game. You will be shocked by what the reflective, undistracted eye can see.

BASEBALL is the game that most demands watching, and most respects it. It is also the American sport that least requires what passes for broadcast "commentary."

Sure, an NFL game is aided by audio. The game is arcane. We need help. But this is old-fashioned American baseball. Who needs explanations? Least of all in October. These aren't mystery teams. Even a surprise division winner will have been totally masticated by the media long before the first pitch.

By all means, listen to the pre-game shows. Any news tidbits, any actual information, will be packaged there. After "Play ball," little but blather news. Even if you miss some minutiae, so what? With the sound off, what you see will be what you get, not a forced vision that you share with 50 million other video slack jaws.

In silence, the scales are removed from our eyes. We are forced to watch, to evaluate for ourselves, to be intelligently involved. The grace of familiar movements becomes apparent again.

Study faces. Look for distress or pressure. The dead time between pitches turns the field into a portrait gallery.

All the mannerisms of ingrained defeat, or composed confidence, become visible. Suddenly, we see thorough the cheerful dishonesty of announcers to the artistry of cameramen. Let their work speak.

Above all, don't be afraid to be partisan. Remember, dugout expectations are high expectations. Make them your own.

Don't fall for the "nice try" syndrome of announcers who sugar-coat failure. Be harsh in your own mind, even hypercritical. That'll get you about halfway to the viewpoint of an Earl Weaver.

AT THE tactical level, we are blessed with the center field camera. Use it to analyze pitches. The true "book" on a hitter only comes into play when there are players already on base.

With the bases empty, the pitcher will work as he prefers, expressing his style. In a jam, he will pitch as he must: exploiting weaknesses, relying on scouting.

Above all, in post-season, watch for emotional and psychological shifts. Baseball games have far fewer crisis points and key plays than most sports. That's why they play 162 games — so the averages will speak the truth.

In post-season those few vital plays — like Reggie Jackson's defections of a throw with his hip last year, or Graig Nettles' defensive marvels — land like a blow to the solar plexus in the other dugout. One or two plays, which change the outcome of one game, can alter an entire Series. And every player knows it.

If you find baseball in silence a little like work, don't fret. Aren't most worthwhile things that way? By experiencing a fraction of the concentration and pitch-by-pitch involvement that players feel, you have a chance to share in that most accessible of American games.

"Get in the game," as players admonish each other in the dugout. No one can do it for you.

McKimmey birds win

Todd McKimmey's racing pigeons placed first and second in a 105-mile race from Ozona to his loft in Big Spring in the season's second race sponsored by the Midland Racing Pigeon Club.

McKimmey, who entered 13 birds, also placed first and second in the opening race from Ozona on Sept. 15.

His top bird flew 1,297.13 yards per minute.

Others in the race were from Midland.

Placing follows: Grady Abernathy, third; Howard Abernathy (AAA Loft), fourth; Grady Abernathy, fifth; John Cox, sixth and seventh; T.L. Stall, eighth and ninth; Howard Abernathy, 10th; Betty Woodruff, 11th and 12th; J.A.L. Foster, 13th and 14th; Jim Shepherd, 15th and 16th; B.A.S. Loft, 17th and 18th; R.M. Huddleston, 19th and 20th; The Red Barron Loft, 21 and 22; and Lori Evans, 24th and 25.

The next race will be from June.

Tanana without fastball, like Earp without gun

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate
A pitcher without a fastball is like Wyatt Earp without a gun, a leopard without spots, a meal without wine. The rest of you better be awful good.

All pitchers lose their fastballs. But, usually, about the same time they lose their hair and teeth. Frank Tanana lost his when he was 24, barely past teething. At 24, you usually don't have anything to fall back on. Most young pitchers never try to throw the ball around anybody, just by them — or through them.

The jokes were endless: "Frank Tanana's fastball was arrested for loitering." "Frank Tanana's fastball would not be allowed in the fast lane on the Santa Ana Freeway." "Frank Tanana's fastball was thrown out of the game the other night because it came up to the plate with cobwebs on it." "Frank Tanana doesn't throw his fastball anymore, he just mails it." "The new rule requiring pitchers to pitch every 30 seconds is unworkable in Frank Tanana's case. He can't get the ball up there that fast." "Frank Tanana didn't lose his fastball, a gopher ate it." "You don't need a radar gun to clock Frank Tanana's fastball, an hourglass will do."

FRANK TANANA'S fastball was considered just faster than a glacier. It almost needed tugboats. You didn't catch it, you docked it.

Some pitchers never have a fastball. Others, like Tom Seaver or Warren Spahn, have learned so much about pitching by the time it's gone, they don't need it. But in Tanana's case it was like sending a kid to war with a pair of wirecutters and a screwdriver — or going through Indian territory with a can opener.

Worst of all, it not only hurt to look at it, it hurt to throw. The curveball hurt even worse. "The shoulder capsule has a tendency to constrict, and you see it doesn't allow freedom of movement in the joint," Tanana explained the other night as he sat in a locker room waiting to pitch the most important game the California Angels have ever played. "You have to try not to 'short-arm' it."

Also, to try not to scream.

The ballplayers call it "location." The old-timers called it "control." It's a technique of pitching that relies on something every oculist in the world knows. Every human being has a "blind" spot, an area in the field of vision where an object disappears. Pitchers without fastballs probe for this spot. And the pitches batters can see, such as the slider, are just what they don't expect. A ball moving 95 miles per hour doesn't necessarily have to fool a batter. One going 60 mph better be a total surprise — like a visit from your mother-in-law.

Frank Tanana kept serving up unpleasant surprises to the Kansas City Royals the other night. Every pitch was like finding a man in your closet — or a stranger in a dark alley, or your car stolen. It was a masterful exhibition of the art of pitching. He didn't pitch the ball up there, he smuggled it. It was like opening packages all night for the Royals and getting hit in the eye by a rubber snake.

GOD DOESN'T give you everything. He probably gave Tanana's fastball to some kid in the Sally League, and five years from now, that kid will come along to complain he was given the wrong part of Tanana, and would it be OK if he swapped the hummer for the locator?

Tanana has pitched only one complete game for the Angels this season. When he took the mound Tuesday night, he was like a father taking his kid to the woods. He knew it was going to hurt him more than it was the kid. "Pain and I have become very close friends," Tanana smiled as he pulled on his cap and glove the other night. "We'd miss each other too much to part for any length of time."

Tanana had pitched only 79 innings this year. Realistically, he expected to add only seven or eight to that Tuesday. He pitched nine. He pitched the Angels into the West pennant in the American League. He was like one of those old carnival fighters who stands in one spot, with his hands down, and dares them to hit him, and if you do it, you win a cigar. The Kansas City Royals got no cigar from Frank Tanana.

Anybody can play four aces. Anybody can double $100 million. Anybody can saddle Secreariat. But only men like Grover Cleveland Alexander, Carl Hubbell, Warren Spahn — and Frank Tanana — can win pennants and championships by pitching them where they ain't, and leaving the middle of the plate to those kids whose arms don't hurt — yet.

IN THE 1934 All-Star game, a famous incident occurred when Carl Hubbell struck out five of the mightiest batters in the American League. He did it not with fastballs but with pitches that barely stayed aloft after fanning. Lou Gehrig came growling to the dugout. "You might as well swing," he told his teammates, "it ain't going to get any higher." In the upcoming playoffs, the Baltimore Orioles batters may very well come back to the dugout growling, "You may as well swing, it ain't going to get any faster."

Top Twenty head-butting promises upheaval

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

There's going to be an upheaval in The Associated Press Top Twenty this weekend but don't hold your breath waiting for any stunning upsets.

The reason for the shakeup is because 10 members of the Top Twenty will be in action against each other and something's obviously got to give.

Top-rated Southern California visits No. 20 Louisiana State for a night contest while in afternoon games fifth-ranked Missouri entertains No. 4 Texas, No. 6 Nebraska hosts No. 18 Penn State, No. 7 Michigan State is at No. 15 Notre Dame and No. 14 Ohio State at No. 17 UCLA.

The Ohio State-UCLA clash will be nationally televised (ABC-TV, 3 p.m.) as the second part of a college football doubleheader. The first half consists of six regional games, with Penn State-Nebraska going to the largest audience.

ELSEWHERE, runner-up Alabama visits hapless Vanderbilt to open defense of its Southeastern Conference crown, third-ranked Oklahoma is at Rice under the lights while a few miles away eighth-rated Houston entertains West Texas State in a night game. Back in the daylight, No. 9 Washington plays host to Fresno State and No. 10 Purdue is at home against Oregon.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 Michigan visits California, No. 12 Florida State is at Virginia Tech, Tulsa at No. 13 Arkansas, Wake Forest at No. 16 North Carolina State and No. 19 Southern Methodist at Tulane for a night contest.

Southern Cal and Alabama share the nation's longest winning streak at 11 games but USC Coach John Robinson says his Trojans "are playing one of the better football teams in America" in LSU.

Tailback Charles White, who gained 153 yards against Minnesota in less than a half last week after sitting out one game with a bruised shoulder, figures to move up from 10th place to eighth on the all-time NCAA rushing chart.

White, who has 3,987 career yards, trails Joe Washington of Oklahoma by eight and LSU's Charles Alexander by 48. He is 203 behind Jerome Persell of Western Michigan and a typical White season should move him past everyone except Tony Dorsett of Pitt. Runner-up Archie Griffin of Ohio State is not out of reach at 5,177.

LSU, WORKING on a modest two-game winning streak, cracked the Top Twenty for the first time this week and Coach Charlie McClendon undoubtedly is given to understatement when he says that "USC should be a good test for us both offensively and defensively." It remains to be seen whether LSU can reciprocate.

Texas and Missouri are meeting for the first time since 1946 and whoever arranged this game couldn't have picked a better year. In the last meeting, Texas' Bobby Layne had one of his finest days, scoring four touchdowns and passing for two more while completing 11 of 12 passes for 234 yards.

Texas opened its season a week ago by downing Iowa State 17-9 after trailing 9-3 at halftime. Missouri has outscored the opposition 89-8 in the second half en route to a 3-0 record.

"We have to be ready to play the game when it starts," says Texas Coach Fred Akers. "Missouri is farther along in their program than Iowa State is. They have proved three times already that they are certainly one of the top teams in the country."

"They are an improved football team with a lot of experience. They have a great young quarterback (Phil Bradley) who runs and throws well and he's very opportunistic. They have a very well-balanced attack, with some big running backs. In fact, they are big overall. Their defense has been impresive. They are tough and physical and so are we, so it should be a heck of a contest."

Earl Bruce...his Bucks face Bruins.

SO SHOULD Penn State-Nebraska, a series which resumes after a 21-year lapse. According to Coach Joe Paterno, Penn State was "horrible" in losing to Texas A&M last week and Nebraska wasn't much better in coming from behind to edge Iowa 24-21.

"I'm a mazed that we can play that bad and still come back to win," says Coach Tom Osborne.

Notre Dame came through its first two games with a victory (Michigan) and a loss (Purdue) and faces its third consecutive Big Ten power in Michigan State. The Irish hope to have quarterback Rusty Lisch ready after he missed Purdue with an ankle injury.

"The Michigan State game is always a tough one for us because of the great rivalry involved," says Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine. "From what we've seen, Michigan State is every bit as good as Michigan or Purdue. They're coming in here unbeaten and they have obvious hopes of winning the Big Ten and going to a bowl game. It'll take a superb effort on our part to stop a team like that."

"I think the Purdue game (28-22) told us that our defense still needs some seasoning, but experience seems to be the necessary ingredient there with the number of young people we have in the lineup."

Ohio State, under new Coach Earle Bruce, also has hopes of winning the Big Ten and, while UCLA is a nonconference opponent, the Bruins have defeated Big Ten foes Purdue and Wisconsin and should tell the Buckeyes just good they are.

California and Wake Forest, both unbeaten, are two of the nation's surprise teams thus far, with Cal boasting Arizona State and Arizona among its victims and Wake Forest owning a stunning upset of Georgia. If they can defeat Michigan and North Carolina State, respectively, both must be taken for real.

Cooper scores Hogan Park ace

By REX WORRELL
Hogan Park Golf Pro

The greens overseeding project at Hogan Park Golf Course has been completed and the crew began mowing greens again Thursday. The new grass seems to have established a pretty good turf for winter play. They are, however, still slow to put on as the mowing height is 5/16 of an inch. They will be kept lower in a couple of weeks...

We had a hole-in-one this week by Keith Cooper, a perfect seven iron into the old 16th and new 13th hole, a 155-yard par three. Witnessing the feat were Billy Carter, Billy Harris and Russell Freeman. Congratulations, Keith, on a fine shot...

The starting time procedure at Hogan is being revised due to numerous instances where people are not honoring their reserved times. The new procedure will be: starting times will be accepted for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays for three-four or fivesomes only, starting the Friday preceding the weekend or holiday and in person if prior to 6 a.m. Beginning at 6 a.m., times may be reserved either by telephone or in person. Only one time will be permitted each call or person. Reservations will be closed at 8 a.m. and all other times will be available on a first-come-first-serve basis...

Starting times for weekdays will be assigned by the Golf Shop staff at the time of registration. All players will be paged to the tee by the staff or directed to use the ball rack. Players with starting times need to check in with the golf shop staff 10 minutes prior to their assigned time...ready to play...

Foursomes are expected to turn in order of finish, and it is important that a minimum of time be spent at the turn in securing drinks and food. Abuse of this minimum time will be required allowing the following group to play through, and the group in violation of minimum time will be called to the tee when an opening exists...

MacPhail grills Martin

NEW YORK (AP) — American League President Lee MacPhail was denied by Martin, who said he had given Kammeyer five $20 bills to share with two fellow pitchers, all of whom were ineffective pitching against Cleveland Sept. 18.

MacPhail has requested reports from Marty Springstead, the first base umpire in Cleveland Sept. 18, and home plate umpire Vic Voltaggio. The AL president has received Springstead's report but not Voltaggio's, Fishel reported.

Herman suggests trade for Winfield

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Diego Padres should trade Dave Winfield in a drastic first step at rebuilding, says batting coach Billy Herman. On Friday, Winfield agreed.

"That's probably a fair assessment," said the big right fielder, the National League leader in runs batted in. "But there are two things you have to consider. One, what team is going to give up two established players to obtain me, realizing they might only have me for just one year?"

"And, two, there aren't very many other teams I would be willing to go to." Herman, a former major league manager and All-Star player who will at the age of 70 when the regular season ends Sunday, said San Diego is "going backward instead of progressing" but he contended Manager Roger Craig isn't to blame.

The Padres need help at second base, third, center field, left field and behind the plate, Herman said in an interview Thursday in Cincinnati.

Trading Winfield, he said, is "the only quick way to turn this team around."

"I know San Diego fans would scream about it and you could hardly blame them because Winfield is an outstanding player," he added.

"But if you made a good deal for him and picked up at least a couple outstanding ballplayers in return, that would be a start. Being strong at two positions is better than being strong at one."

Winfield, in San Francisco for a series with the Giants, will be in the final year of his three-year contract next season.

In an interview, Winfield said:

Fishing with Plastic Worm requires special techniques

By JON CHASE

I have fished with the plastic worm for quite a few years now and I am convinced that it is the single most productive lure on the market.

The sad thing is that the worm is also one of the hardest lures to fish properly. Hundreds of fishermen have thrown up their arms in disgust because of "that — plastic worm!"

From my own trial and error learning sessions and from observing other fishermen, I have noticed several major flaws in the techniques of many aspiring plastic worm fishermen.

MANY PEOPLE try to fish the worm with a limber rod and wonder why they miss the majority of their strikes. A stiff rod is a must to drive the hook home because, when a bass takes a worm, he usually does so slowly. The single worm hook must penetrate, not only the mouth of the bass, but often one or two layers of the worm itself as it is "bunched up" by a mouthing fish.

Along with a stiff rod, most worm fishermen insist on a free spool casting reel. The casting reel will handle the 20-25 pound test lines that are necessary to horse a large bass out of the brush.

Even more important than the proper rod and reel, is the worm rig itself. I personally believe that the spinner type pre-rigged worms are a waste of money. The time proven favorite is the single hook self-weeded worm rig with a slip weight. When rigged on a 4-0 or 5-0 straight hook, the worm should hang sprout from your line with no bend in the worm. This type rig can be cast and "worked" in the most natural manner of any I know.

A COMMON fault of many beginning worm fishermen is that they can hardly wait to get the worm back to their boat so they can cast again. I have seen some begin reeling before the worm gets near the bottom and retrieve it faster than they would a plug with "built-in" action.

The secret to worm fishing is an agonizingly slow retrieve, using an up and down rod tip action. As the worm is alternately raised and lowered off the bottom, every effort should be made to keep as much slack out of the line as possible. This tight line gives the fisherman the "feel" of the bottom, and with practice, even the lightest of strikes will be detected.

THE HARDEST thing for the novice worm fisherman is to resist hitting back when a bass first "taps" the plastic worm. As soon as the tell-tale rap of a bass pecking at the worm, the fisherman should stop reeling and let the bass pick up the worm. When a couple of feet of line has been taken by the fish, the hook should be set with as much shock and force as possible. This involves what could be described as a violent and rapid upward and rearward raising of the rod tip. The hook can not be set with too much force. As soon as the bass is hooked, he should be "horsed" until he is in open water. A six-pound bass can break a 20-pound line if he gets leverage on brush or a stump.

FINALLY, A worm must be put where the bass live. Don't cast beside an underwater tree. Cast right in the middle of it and let the worm crawl over the limbs and fall back to the bottom. Many bass are taken as the worm clears a limb or brush pile. In short, cast right in the middle of the spots that you could only fish with a plastic worm.

With a little patience, anyone can become an accomplished worm fisherman, and you can tell by the weight of your stringer when you're fishing the worm right.

FALL IS in the air and the hunters and fishermen are in hog heaven.

I heard from my brother-in-law, Ralph McCain of Odessa, that he has been tearing up the dove on a place west of Odessa. Brian Moore of Midland called the other day and said that he had been on a combination teal and dove hunt last weekend and had limited on both for two days of hunting. Brian was hunting a ranch north of Andrews.

The bass fishing has picked up on area lakes with Keith Long of San Angelo taking a limit of bass last Wednesday from Lake Nasworthy. He caught the fish in four to 10 feet of water on Lunger Lures and purple Flip Tail worms.

Tracy Vega of Del Rio took a limit of bass to 7 1/2 pounds on Amistad this past Saturday. He was fishing shallow brush and all his fish fell to a Rebel Crankbait in a Crawfish pattern.

The fishing should continue to improve until the cold weather hits and the dove hunting will probably pick up with an influx of northern birds.

Lee, MHS run in OC X-country

ODESSA — The high school cross country season opens here at Floyd Gwinn Park at 10 a.m. today. The cross country run is sponsored by Odessa College.

Both Midland Lee and Midland High will have teams entered. The junior varsity run is set for 10 a.m. and the varsity runners will begin at 10:30 a.m.

MHS coach Ed Nixon will have seniors William Hollingshead and William Hopper leading the way for the Bulldog varsity along with juniors Willie Ross, Edward Stotello and Kevin Yates. Sophomore Greg Stotello is also on the varsity.

The MHS JVs will send Robert E. Mills, Henry Krusekopf, Billy Miles, Jerry Navarrette, Frank Ochoa, Jamie Paredes, Terry Taylor, David Weyman, Kevin Griffen, Ben Glenn and David Sturrie into the race.

Nancy's 10 bird binges ties for 1st at Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Heavy favorite Nancy Lopez Melton fired a record 10 birdies en route to a 6-under-par 66 and a tie for the second-round lead at the Ladies Professional Golf Association's $150,000 Dallas Open Friday.

"I didn't count the score," she said of a remarkable front-nine performance. "I told myself to start the back nine at even par and play one hole at a time."

Melton started the day five shots off the lead but birdied seven of the first eight holes and finished with 10 birdies, an LPGA single-round record.

She slipped briefly on the back nine with a bogey and double-bogey, but finished with birdies on 17 and 18 to tie Jan Stephenson for the lead at 137, 7-under-par.

Stephenson, an Australia native who now lives in Fort Worth, Texas, led after the first round and shot a 1-under-par 71 to retain a share of the second-round lead, despite bogeys on the last two holes.

"I'm hot, I'm mad and disappointed," Stephenson said at the end of round two. "I really played well but had to mess up on the last two."

"Now I'll have to go home and sleep on it. It wouldn't have been so bad if I'd had two bogeys early in the round because I could have done something about them. This way, the holes had run out."

Melton, seeking her eighth tour title in two full years of competition, used just 11 putts on the front nine. She missed the LPGA nine-hole record by one shot and was one short of the LPGA record for consecutive birdies in a round.

Sandra Post, last week's LPGA winner, was in second place, three shots off the pace with 140.

A shot back was Vicki Ferguson who posted a 1-over-par 73 Friday.

The field was trimmed to the low 70 scores, plus ties, for Saturday's third round at the Bent Tree Country Club. The final round will be Sunday, with the winner pocketing $19,500.

Lyle out in front

LONDON (AP) — Sandy Lyle, 21-year-old English professional golfer, is nearly 3,000 points ahead of all rivals in the European Order of Merit with only one tour event still to be played. He has won close to $86,400 during the season.

Lyle has 39,017 points. Second in the list is Sevvly Ballesteros of Spain, the British Open champion, with 36,330 points.

J.A. expanding Project Business

Junior Achievement is expanding its Project Business program in Midland's two freshman schools this year.

From a pilot project of 11 classes with 290 students last year, the goal has grown to 20 classes with 525 students for this school year.

Project Business is designed to teach ninth graders the free enterprise system by bringing businessmen from the community into the classroom.

In addition to weekly presentations by the business consultants, the groups take tours of local businesses and explore career possibilities.

The 20 classes will be spread over two quarters.

Ten Project Business consultants and four history teachers from the freshman schools will hold an orientation meeting for the first quarter's sessions Nov. 16.

Weekly presentations for the first quarter's 10-week project will begin Dec. 3.

Spring quarter classes will begin March 10. Orientation for those consultants and teachers will be Feb. 22.

The Project Business program is sponsored jointly by J.A. and the Midland public schools. Local businesses donate funds for extra materials used in the classes.

J.A.'s Project Business committee, chaired by Fred G. Middleton, currently is lining up sponsors and consultants to carry out the program.

The schedule for this year's project was decided in a recent meeting called by Dr. Douglas Brown, assistant superintendent of schools.

Also attending were Dr. Robert Carter, chairman of the social studies for MISD; Sally English and Dayle Binnion, department heads at the two freshman schools, and Gary D. Petersen, executive director of J.A.

Naked came he, and naked he went

HINSDALE, Ill. (AP) — Naked came the stranger, and naked he went, and police still haven't found him.

A man clad only in a right sneaker approached two Hinsdale homeowners early Friday and asked for the clothing, police in the western Chicago suburb said.

The homeowners, probably more out of shock than tight-fistedness, refused. The man fled and the Hinsdale residents called police. Police say the same man appeared again later, trying to break into a darkened Hinsdale house. But the residents woke up, and the man fled again.

He last was seen running down a suburban street, police said.

Police car kills child at play

CHICAGO (AP) — A 4-year-old boy riding a toy bicycle on the sidewalk near his home was struck and killed by a police car involved in a high-speed chase.

Rogelio Romero, who was playing with several friends on the sidewalk, was run over Thursday night after the police car hit a third car that got in its way then jumped the curb. The boy died in Children's Memorial Hospital about half an hour after the accident on the North Side.

The accident ended a chase that began when police said they saw a car carrying three teenagers speeding down an avenue with neither license plates nor a city vehicle sticker.

David Welch, 19, of Chicago, whom police said was the driver of the car, was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign, speeding, eluding police, reckless driving and driving without a city or state license. Officers said speeds during the chase were 60 to 70 mph.

Police said the teenagers' car swerved and narrowly avoided hitting the third car, which the police car then struck. Police said the teen-age driver fled, but turned himself in later.

The officer driving the squad car was not charged in the boy's death.

Wildflowers now thrive along Ohio's highways

By The Associated Press
Wildflowers may conjure up thoughts of sprawling, peaceful rural fields, but horticulturalists say they are thriving in a most unlikely place in Ohio — along 19,000 miles of state-maintained highways.

Thanks to the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74 and the fuel shortages since, the state has drastically reduced its program of mowing alongside highways.

Left alone, the undeveloped areas near the roads have become a haven for bright orange butterfly milkweed, yellow black-eyed Susans, delicate white Queen Anne's lace and other colorful wild plants, says Robert E. Tatman, Ohio Department of Transportation horticulturist.

"We didn't plan this," says Tatman, surveying wild growth in an area along Interstate 71 that hasn't been mowed in two years. "This is nature. It's a side benefit from reduced mowing."

One measurable benefit, Tatman says, is the reduced erosion provided by the growth. Erosion is not as likely now as with a ground cover solely of grass, he says.

The wildflowers in these winding meadows have to be hardy to withstand the assault of noxious fumes, road salt, and litter, Tatman says. Under the reduced-mowing program, the state currently cuts along the edges of the median and the shoulders of the road, leaving the rest of the right-of-way alone. Formerly, Tatman says, the entire area was mowed regularly.

Mass-spraying of herbicides has also stopped, again a result of budget restrictions. "With our budget, we respond mainly to complaint areas," Tatman says.

The complaints most often come from farmers near the highway who fear that certain noxious species are threatening their crops. Thistles and broadleaf weeds, for example, weaken the soil structure when they take over an area, Tatman says, so they are usually sprayed or cut.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

The Wrong Complaint

By Alfred Sheinwold

It never happens in real life, but at the bridge table people argue about the wrong thing. North grumbled about overbidding after today's hand, but South's actual error was in the play.

East took the queen of diamonds and returned the deuce of clubs to the ace. South led an artful queen of spades, but West stepped right up with the ace and led a low club for East to ruff. West later took the setting trick with the queen of clubs.

FOOZLES PLAY

It wasn't wrong to get to four spades with the North-South cards. South foozled matters in the play.

Instead of leading a trump at the third trick South should take the top hearts, ruff a heart, ruff a diamond in dummy and ruff the last heart. Only then should he lead a trump.

West can take the ace of trumps and give East a club ruff, but East must then lead a diamond. South discards his last low club and ruffs in dummy, assuring the game.

Consumer groups wary about Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocates are adopting a wait-and-see attitude toward President Carter's effort to upgrade consumer programs in federal departments.

Mark Green, who heads Ralph Nader's Congress Watch organization, said the order "may fail, but not to try would be an abdication."

The order requires each department to appoint a high-level consumer official to participate in formulating policies and supervise department and agency consumer programs.

Green and Kathleen O'Reilly, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America, acknowledged the order is a step forward for consumers. But they cautioned that its significance will be determined in practice.

"We support it," Green said. "It is a needed small step toward solving the problem of business having hundreds of avenues to federal regulators and consumers having few or none."

"Consumers are grateful for any way their voice can be increased in agency decisions," said Ms. O'Reilly, adding that she will watch to see whether the order leads to increased consumer involvement in agency proceedings.

Work on the order began after Congress defeated a Carter-backed bill to set up a federal consumer protection agency, the president said. The order was drafted by Ester Peterson, Carter's chief consumer adviser.

It will not result in any additional cost because funding for the programs will come from the departments' existing budgets, said Ed Cohen, an aide to Mrs. Peterson.

Under the order, each department will be required to have a fulltime consumer official, whose staff will participate in all decisions and help draft legislation the department will propose to Congress. The consumer official will report directly to the agency head.

The consumer offices also will be directed to develop methods for handling consumer complaints and use them to identify problems in department operations.

Americans among fire's victims

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Fire swept through a tourist-packed hotel before dawn Friday, filling it with poisonous fumes from burning plastic and killing 25 persons, authorities said. Among them was an American beauty queen and two other members of a U.S. tour group that had switched from another hotel at the last minute.

The dead Americans were identified as tour guide Ellen Wight, 24, of Bath, Maine, who was Miss Oklahoma in 1977, and Donald and Frances Fraser, an elderly couple from Kennebunk, Maine. Most of the other dead were believed to be Yugoslavs, returning from a pilgrimage to Poland's Roman Catholic shrine of the Black Madonna at Czestochowa, and tourists from elsewhere in Europe.

Eighteen other persons, 12 from the same Maine tour group, were hospitalized, mostly for treatment of smoke poisoning. None was in critical condition. Another American, Stephen Ransom, was listed as one of those hospitalized, but he told reporters he was staying at the hospital with his wife and was not in need of treatment.

The death toll was the worst in a fire in post-war Austria.

Authorities and eyewitnesses said the fire in the four-story Am Augarten Hotel erupted with an "explosion-like sound" shortly after 5 a.m. in the ground-floor reception area and swiftly spread to the upper floors through elevator shafts. The male receptionist on duty later was found dead.

Fire officials said most of those killed apparently were overcome in their sleep by fumes released by the burning of plastic floor and wall coverings.

An Interior Ministry official investigating the blaze said he traced the source of the fire to a wastepaper basket in a room used by hotel doorkeepers. He did not elaborate on the possible cause of the blaze.

Witnesses said dozens of panicked guests, trapped in their rooms, leaned or hung from their windows, screaming for help. City officials said Miss Wight jumped from her upper-floor window and later died of injuries from the fall.

Many of those who escaped said they were awakened by the sound of screams or fire engine sirens.

Ransom, 71, of Newcastle, Maine, said he and his wife opened their second-floor window and waved a flashlight so firemen could reach them with a ladder.

The intense blaze — it bent some of the steel rails in the elevator shafts — was brought under control within an hour by the 120 firemen and 30 trucks that responded. But firemen said they believed most of the victims were dead even before the fire engines arrived.

Dr. Wilhelm Holzabeck, a Vienna University forensic specialist, said it appeared that those who died probably never awakened. "They must have been unconscious after 10 to 20 breaths," he said. "The poisonous fumes and smoke gas... led to rapid death without those affected ever becoming aware of the danger."

In Maine, Eva Wight, co-owner of the Wight Travel Agency, which organized the tour, and mother of the dead woman, said it was tragic chance that brought the group of 32 Americans to the Am Augarten.

"They were scheduled to stay in the Hotel Avis, which is also in Vienna, but for some reason they probably hooked up with another tour group and went to this hotel where the fire was," she told a reporter. "It's just one of those things that can happen on a chartered tour."

Her husband, Carl Wight, 51, who was also on the two-week trip, was rescued by firemen uninjured. Most in the group were retired people from the Bath-Brunswick area.

Mrs. Wight said the tourists' travels had taken them through Switzerland, Venice and Austria. They left Innsbruck by bus for Vienna Thursday, and were scheduled to fly back to Maine Sunday night.

They spent Thursday night at Vienna's Prater amusement park.

Authorities said all 57 rooms of the medium-class Am Augarten were filled. Police said 106 persons were in the hotel at the time of the fire, including 90 guests.

Identification of the dead was made difficult by the loss of hotel registration records in the blaze.

The hospitalized Americans were identified by Viennese officials as William and Beulah Crosby; Albert and Marietta Parker; Ransom's wife, Ida; Constance and Eugene Coughlin; Dorothea Thurston; Melissa Fitzgerald; Iladek and Roland McIntosh, and Roberto Manson-Doyle. All were suffering from smoke poisoning except Manson-Doyle, who suffered a back injury.

WE CAN PROTECT YOUR HOUSE WALL TO WALL.™
LIST IT WITH RED CARPET.
When your house is on the market and mechanical things start to go wrong, it can make you downright nervous. And it can make your house more difficult to sell. That's why we offer the Red Carpet Wall to Wall Protection Plan. It's a good incentive for your buyer because it covers defects in appliances, plumbing, heating and electrical systems for a full year. And it's great protection for you during the listing period. Best of all, it makes your house stand out from the crowd. Talk to us about Wall to Wall protection, it might make your house sell faster. Talk to Red Carpet We Protect.

Pens of Power

"Now... what a story!" "Now, there's a real article." So go our reactions to writing that stimulates. But, before a word is written, a good writer must first have something to say and know how best to say it.

Poe, Shakespeare and Margaret Mitchell... they had something in common... pens of power. They had the rare gift of being able to transport readers into another world of beauty, drama, or history itself. Passing years cannot dim the luster of their immortal works.

Yet, long before the days of those great authors, four other writers spoke to a needy world through their pens. They wrote about a man from Nazareth whose life changed the world. Divinely inspired, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John still testify today to the truth of the ever new story.

Share the experience of the Holy Word of God this Sunday.

RELIGION IN THE NEWS

Presbyterian named associate director TCC

AUSTIN — A Presbyterian executive who has assisted congregations in community ministries and programs on hunger will become associate director of the Texas Conference of Churches (TCC) in mid-October.

She is Linda B. Team of Fort Worth, who will staff the TCC's divisions of education and church and society, and additionally will carry other administrative responsibilities.

Her election was announced recently by Rev. Dr. James C. Suggs, executive director of the TCC, which is a statewide organization of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox jurisdictions.

Ms. Team will leave her post as associate general presbyter of Grace Union Presbytery. That organization, as its title implies, is a union presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. (PCUS) and the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. (UPCUSA). She has been a staff member of the union organization and one of its predecessors for the last five years.

"We are delighted that Ms. Team is coming to our staff," Dr. Suggs said, "because her experience and commitments equip her superbly to provide staff support to divisions working on social concerns and education."

The church and society division is the TCC's most active program unit, dealing currently with such diverse concerns as equity for farm workers, criminal justice and domestic hunger.

Mr. Team will also be working with the education division as it shifts its focus from issues in public education to the strengthening of in-church education.

In her present position with Grace Union Presbytery, headquartered in Dallas, Ms. Team has provided staff services to the Division of Presbyterian Ministries. She has worked with the responsible committees and personnel in such areas as campus ministry, camp operations, Mexican-American affairs and community outreach ministries.

Currently, she serves as chairperson of the joint staff cabinet made up of all presbytery and synod staff members of the Synod of Red River of the PCUS, and the Synod of the Sun of the UPCUSA. She also is editor of the presbytery page of the synod newspaper, The Presbyterian.

Gospel meeting plans under way

Golf Course Road Church of Christ, 3500 W. Golf Course Road, is making final plans for its fall gospel meeting.

The "Fall Family Focus" will begin Sunday and continue each night through Wednesday. Sunday services will begin at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night events will begin at 7:30 p.m. The public has an invitation from the Golf Course Road congregation to attend the services.

Bob Barnhill, minister of a Fort Worth Church of Christ, will be speaker at the special services. "Crisis in the Home and Society" will be the general theme of his messages.

The Sunday night service will be a special youth emphasis, open to all youth of the community as well as to all adults.

MMA will hold luncheon meeting

The Midland Ministerial Alliance will hold a luncheon meeting Thursday.

The 11:45 a.m. meeting will be in First Baptist Church. H.A. Tuck, director of public relations at Midland College, will be the speaker.

Mormons to eliminate some of church's meetings

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Mormon Church, whose members often joke about the number of meetings they attend, is beginning a program to eliminate some church gatherings and shorten others.

In the most-dramatic change in Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints programs in modern history, the plan would limit regular church meetings to a three-hour block on Sundays.

For the first time in modern times, all members of the family would attend all church meetings at the same time. Presently, some meetings are attended by the whole family, but others are held separately for men, women and children.

Leaders of the family-oriented church say the new schedule would allow women more time with their families and permit church members more time for community activities.

Pope's visit can 'call world back to senses'

NEW YORK (AP) — An American Jewish leader says that Pope John Paul II's visit to the United States can help rejuvenate the spirit of Americans and "call the world to its senses."

He comes in the midst of a "pervasive anxiety and downbeat mood" among Americans and "at a time when the entire human family feels in its bones a universal malaise," says Rabbi Marc H. Tannenbaum.

Tannenbaum, director of interreligious affairs of the American Jewish Committee, met with the pope last March in the Vatican. He said there is powerful symbolism in the fact that the pope arrives in Boston on Oct. 1, the Jewish day of atonement, Yom Kippur.

It is a day of "repentance and renewal," he says. Citing the pope's sturdy faith and fight for human rights under both Nazism and communism in his native Poland, Tannenbaum adds: "Such a commanding personality has the capacity to call the world to its senses — to turn away from nuclear disaster and moral anarchy and to turn toward human unity. All of us have a stake in that urgent message being heard and acted on."

Evangelist will hold revival

ANDREWS — Dr. Ed Robb, a United Methodist evangelist, will be in the pulpit for special revival services next week at Means Memorial United Methodist Church of Andrews.

Robb, former pastor of St. Paul United Methodist Church in Midland and of several other United Methodist churches in this region, has for a number of years headed the Ed Robb Evangelistic Association and has preached widely in the U.S. He also has led evangelistic campaigns abroad.

The Andrews revival will begin Sunday and continue with services nightly through Wednesday. The public has an invitation to attend all services.

Special music at the revival will be provided by Gabriel, an ensemble composed of Jeff Walter and Robin Lyle.

Grand Prairie pastor to speak

Leonard Sissons, pastor of a church in Grand Prairie, will be guest preacher during Sunday services at Trinity Baptist Church, corner of West Cuthbert avenue and Austin street.

The public is invited to hear the visiting minister during the morning worship hour beginning at 11 o'clock, or the evening service at 6.

Singles meeting to be next week

A conference for single persons, sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches, will be held next week-end at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave.

The conference theme is "Celebrating the Single Life." Purpose of the gathering is to provide an occasion for single persons to become aware of each other, to strengthen one another in unity, to discover self-affirmation as members of churches and other organizations, and to provide opportunity to feel accepted and capable as singles.

The conclave begins Friday and continues Saturday and Sunday. Persons may pre-register by sending the pre-registration fee of $5, along with a $2 fee for luncheon at noon Saturday, to P.O. Drawer 2438, Midland 79701. Participants also may register at the doors at 7:30 p.m. Friday or at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. Additional information on the conference is obtainable from the Rev. Larry Grimm, a member of the staff of First Presbyterian Church, 684-7821.

The conference's keynote speakers, the Rev. Dodie Possell and the Rev. Ed Savilla, will offer, respectively, courses on sexuality and singleness and on spirituality. Saturday workshops will include "Freeing Myself From the Stereotypes of Single Life," "Warning Signs of Drug Abuse in Children," "Grouping as Singles in the Church" and "Single Parenting."

Single persons of all faiths and denominational affiliations will be welcomed at the conference, including singles who are widowed, divorced or never married.

REV. ROBERT HARRISON

Evangelistic emphasis begins

Special services will be held next week at Midland's First Church of the Nazarene, 1208 W. Wall Ave.

The evangelistic emphasis will begin Wednesday and continue through Sunday, Oct. 7.

The speaker at services at 7:30 p.m. weekdays and at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Oct. 7 will be the Rev. Robert Harrison, widely known evangelistic speaker who has been called the "gospel magician."

According to the Rev. Harold Quarles, host pastor, Harrison is a dynamic speaker who appeals to all age groups. He uses special magic and techniques of illusion to illustrate his Bible-based messages, Quarles said.

Harrison has pastored churches in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Michigan and has conducted gospel meetings and evangelistic services from Central America to Canada. He holds both B.A. and M.A. degrees from Bethany Nazarene College in Oklahoma, and he has completed classwork on a master of religious education degree.

The congregation and pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene are inviting the public to attend the special gospel services next week.

City churches host meeting

Midland's two Christian (Disciples of Christ) churches, First and Memorial Christian churches, this weekend are hosting an area meeting of the denomination's Christian Youth Fellowship.

Young people from numerous cities and towns in this region, representing the Central Area CYF, which comprises 55 Disciples congregations in an area extending from Midland to Wichita Falls, arrived in the city Friday night. The conclave, called a Fall Rally, was to begin this morning with a breakfast fellowship and devotional meeting in First Christian Church.

In place of a keynote speaker, the young people will view and discuss a series of films, including "To Kill A Mockingbird," "The Old Man and the Sea," and others.

A variety of fellowship and recreational activities will occupy the youth later today, and there will be an old-fashioned barn dance and barbecue tonight.

Being Catholic has been act of rebellion for Pope John Paul II

By The Associated Press

A "star from the east," a "one-man band," "Hurricane Wojtyla," a "Renaissance man." These are some of the sobriquets applied to a visitor coming to the United States next week, Pope John Paul II.

"He is a phenomenon," says the Rev. D.P. Noonan, a Paterson, N.J., priest who was on the pope's trips to Mexico and Poland. He added that the pope is "the most colorful complex character" to lead the church since the unpredictable apostle Peter.

A poet, sportsman, philosopher, linguist, diplomat, one-time actor and sometimes guitar-strumming folksinger, as well as theologian and pastor to pastors, the pope also has been termed, in a special sense, a "rebel."

"Today, the papacy itself spotlights the rebel function in society," historian Edward Cuddy of Daemen College in Buffalo, N.Y., writes in the current Catholic biweekly, Commonweal.

He notes that for the former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, being Catholic has been an "act of rebellion," first in an illegal, underground seminary, helping rescue Jews under the Nazis, and later in resourceful opposition to the atheist regime of communist Poland.

Whatever rugged sort of mettle those experiences forged in him, he has since becoming pope a year ago shown that he is his own man, robust, confident, at ease with himself.

Commonly, he breaks with Vatican protocol, welcoming unscheduled callers, dropping unannounced into offices to chat with the help, wading into crowds, taking a swim, donning Indian feathers, joining kids in a songfest.

"touch," the pope also is a disciplined intellectual, widely recognized in scholarly circles before he became pope.

He has specialized in "phenomenology," a philosophical approach that finds the special reality of persons directly in individually experienced events — in conscious action and "realized relationships" with others. He had presented papers on the subject for numerous academic congresses before becoming pope, and lectured on it in this country at various universities, including Harvard, the University of Wisconsin and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Nuns could become leaders

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The incoming president of the Leadership Conference of Women foresees nuns moving from being "obedient daughters" in the church to being "obedient leaders."

Sister Theresa Kane told some 600 nuns: "We have a responsibility to use the power with which we have been entrusted."

Obverse English: fly in the oatmeal

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

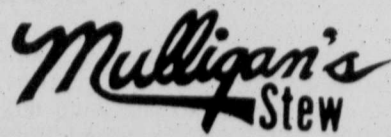

NEW YORK (AP) — "Boston," advised the lady pump jockey at the service station on the Interstate, "is 207 miles as the snow flies."

The leaves had hardly begun to fall, but Obverse English, the verbal ability to hit the nail square on the thumb, knows no seasons.

Linguicide, the murdering of the Mother Tongue in imaginative ways that would have intrigued Dame Agatha Christie, continues to cut down our society's cliché population so that even the most durable seem to be an endangered species.

On the Amtrak down to Washington the other day, the barman in the club car asked me if I would settle for "a domesticated beer."

The man sitting across the aisle from me was sure it would rain before we got to Baltimore. "Those clouds look very anonymous," he said, looking out the window at the barracks of the Aberdeen Proving Ground, which reminded him of "a very funny antidote."

My traveling companion must have had something to do with the U.S. Senate, because he said the first time he heard it, he "went into proximities of laughter."

Obviously, Obverse English is spoken in the highest places.

After reading a previous column on this linguistic phenomenon, Mrs. Isaac Heller of New Orleans informed me that former Mayor Robert S. Maestri, who presided over the Crescent City in Huey Long's day, is credited with saying, "Waiter, this time bring me a big cup of that demi-tasse coffee."

Down at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, Texas, Drs. Lois and Selma DeBakey, sisters of the famous heart surgeon, have dedicated their lives and professional careers to teaching doctors and medical students how to address their patients in clear, simple English.

They call the fondness that medical men have for long Latinized words, pompous phraseology and terrifying (to the patient) circumlocutions "medicant, also known in science's own muddy lingo as "lalopathy, logorrhoea, verdigeration and glassolia."

"The malady," writes Dr. Lois, a frequent foe of scientific cant and jargon in medical journals, "seems to be pedagogic, induced by educational institutions, and is highly contagious."

Doctors, already historically famous for their undecipherable handwriting, are also renowned now for the obfuscating, traumatized prose that the DeBakey sisters monitor and collect the way other specialists study cancer slides or their brother reads cardiograms.

"Patients no longer have 'operations,'" notes Dr.

Lois in a clinical assault on clinical language, "they have 'multiple surgeries' and when they do, they are 'surgerized.'"

In communications or lack of same with the patient, doctors seem to think that no practitioner worth his stethoscope or his tax accountant should diagnose a headache when cephalalgia sounds so much more ominous or refer to insomnia as anything less scientific than agrypnia, which undoubtedly is much more expensive to treat. Similarly, vomiting comes across on the medical charts as "emisia," fever at "pyrexia" and the toothless codger being treated for cholelithiasis — gallstones, to the layman — is "endentulous," which is why he has trouble with "deglutition" or swallowing.

For doctors talking like this is a clear case of copodyskinesia, which is the unclear way of saying an occupational neurosis.

Despite their ponderous pedantries, the sawbones seldom operate with surgical precision when the Queen's English is wheeled into the theater.

In case histories documented by the DeBakeys, they have been guilty of such grammatical butcherings as:

"Being moribund on arrival at the hospital, the doctor could do nothing for the patient."

"His pelvis was fractured by being thrown from an automobile."

"There were four deaths, only one of which lived more than 2 months."

It is difficult to determine whether they are at their most frightening in attempting to be too folksy: "We decided to sit on the patient a while," or too ambiguous: "The intern had noted that the patient was unresponsive in bed."

Physicians are fond of piling on adjectival nouns in pouncing on an ailment already festering with abbreviations and Latinized shop words, as in the case of "RNS virus-induced immunoglobulin productive system malignancy."

I don't have the faintest idea what it means, but would certainly faint dead away if the verdict was pronounced over me.

In sports circles, the Chair of Classical Obfuscations previously held by such eminent phraseologists as Dizzy Dean, Casey Stengel and Yogi Berra has now been assigned to the inimitable Danny Ozark, baseball's maestro of the mangled metaphor.

"I will not be co-horsed," he once said to describe his independence from front office interference, but allowed that he enjoyed "a great repertoire with my players."

Problems with spitball pitchers, like problems with the language, he confessed, "are beyond my apprehension."

Long may he rain.

There's cash in those ashes

By SAM HARTZ

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's cash in ashes. Ask the National Ash Association, whose 25 members rake in nearly $100 million annually from 70,000 tons of what many people envision as only the No. 1 spread for icy sidewalks.

And a bigger haul is in sight. Earlier this month, President Carter called for tripling of coal-burning by 1995 to reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil. That would mean more ashes.

"We're gratified by the president's goal," said John Faber, executive director of the worldwide group that includes companies in England, France, Spain, Canada and Australia.

Some European nations are more advanced in ash research, says Faber, but this country isn't exactly standing still.

Transformed by science, coal ashes wind up in building blocks, landfill, roadbeds, plastic furniture, sandblasting materials, roofing granules, asphalt, automobile parts and structural fills.

Not to mention bowling balls and beer filtering devices.

One exotic form of ash may go into space. Extremely strong and light substances called conospheres have been tested and approved for the nose cones of space shuttles. At $500 a ton, they could be one of the cheaper ingredients of the multi-billion-dollar NASA project.

Even clinkers aren't clinkers in the world of commercial ashes.

"We sell about 40 percent of them," said Faber. "Treated with cement, they form a base for skid-control materials that take the place of sand and salt on roads."

These aren't your huge clinkers — they're about 1-4 to 1-2 inch in diameter.

Faber threw in a bit of history: "Coal ashes are almost identical to volcanic ashes that were used 2,000 years ago in building the aqueducts and coliseums of ancient Greece and Rome."

But ashes have come a long way since then, and the end isn't in view. To coordinate technology, an international ash utilization organization will be developed within the next six months. Ash seminars and meetings are held regularly.

There's another bonus from ashes, consumers.

And since most producers are coal-burning utilities, profits from ash sales lead to smaller electricity bills. "Savings could amount to several billions of dollars after we reach 40 percent utilization in about five or six years," said Faber.

Currently, only 25 percent of total ash production can be used in trade. That leads to a question that has plagued the industry since its start and will get thornier as coal burning increases:

Where do you stash big caches of ashes?

"They go into what we like to call storage," said Faber. "You have to expect some big mounds of ashes around in places." But he noted ashes often improve eyesore locations through covering and filling in.
