Baird Public School Opens With Large Attendance

The Baird Public School for the 1927-28 term, opened Monday morning, September 12th with the largest attendance in the history of the school, there being 462 pupils enrolled Monday. Many visitors were present at the opening exercises.

Supt. J. F. Boren, presided after singing The Battle Hymn of the Republic. Rev. W. A. Yell, offered the invocation after which Rev. Joe R. Mayes read a scripture lesson and made a brief talk. Rev. Mayes called the attention of the school patrons to the fact that the bible used in the school chapel was badly worn and should be replaced with a new one and started the fund for the purchase of a new bible with one dollar. Supt. Boren stated that the bible now used was presented to the school by C. H. Mahan at the opening of school in 1910 and has been in constant use since that time.

Supt. Boren asked the teachers to come up on the stage, where they were introduced by him to the audience. There are thirteen teachers besides Supt. Boren; a list of them being given in last week's paper.

The school opens with bright prospects for a splendid year's work. Supt. Boren begins his 17th year's work in the school, he having begun his work here in 1910 as Principal with Supt. R. D. Green. He served the school as principal for four years and has since that time been Superintendent. Mrs. Boren and Mrs. Bessie Short each, begin their tenth year's work in the Baird School. Miss Holden and Miss Graham, each begin their third year here and all other teachers are beginning their first work in our school.

The school is badly crowded and just what will be done to relieve the situation, the trustees will have to decide.

COTTON PRICES DEMORALIZED

The demoralized condition of the cotton market is hard on the farmer, merchant and every body else. Last week prices jumped up $10 per bale then on some fake government report fell off and prices are now lower than ten days ago.

Callahan County Rural Schools

The Jackson school on the Highway between Baird and Putnam, opened Monday the 12th with a full enrollment, being the first rural school to start in the county. Mrs. R. L. All schools of the County have employed their teachers and unless delayed by cotton picking practically all schools will be open by the middle of October.

By the close of the coming week the County Superintendent will complete a tour of inspection of the twenty-eight state aid schools of the County and all aid applications will be mailed the State Department by the first of October.

Over fifty high school students of the county are taking advantage of the new high school tuition law in which their tuition is being paid by the state.

This is the highest point of perfection that can be attained by a rural school in the state. Some twenty or thirty schools of the state were awarded these certificates the past term.

All necessary text books for the year are in storage at the Court House, and the children of the county are eagerly awaiting the word from the trustees of the various districts to start to school.

Prospects look bright for a very prosperous school year.

Clarence Percy Now Chief Dispatcher On T & P Railroad

CLARENCE PERCY

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 17.—Entering the services of the Texas & Pacific Railroad in 1896, when he was only 10 years old, C. Percy of 3017 Travis Avenue, has been with that road ever since—thirty-one years. On that time he has been a train dispatcher for sixteen years.

Percy's father was a railroad man before him, and when the boy was 10 years the elder man was operator at Mineola, and the son started work as messenger boy. He started to master the key and, in 1899, when the father was transferred to Baird, the son was employed as yard clerk, continuing his study of telegraphy. At 14 he was put on the "extra board" as an operator, and soon was ordered to Colorado for duty. Next he was assigned to the night job at Baird and later to Dallas as night operator in the general office. He then was 17 and was rated as a first-class railroad telegrapher.

Percy was ambitious to become a dispatcher, and after working several years as "copy operator" in the dispatcher's office at Texarkana, he was promoted to trick dispatcher. In 1913 he was transferred to Fort Worth. Then he served a time in Big Springs and then back to Fort Worth in 1917, where he has been ever since.—Dallas News.

Since the above was published in the Dallas News, Clarence Percy has been made Chief Dispatcher at Big Springs. Mrs. H. M. Bailey, mother of Clarence Percy, still makes her home in Baird.

Clarence began his career as a telegraph operator in Baird when a boy and his friends here are all proud of his success, and we are pleased to publish above tribute to a worthy son of our old friends, his parents.

City Fire Truck Now At Shaw Motor Co.

Frank Buckles informs us that the new Fire Truck is now housed at Shaw Motor Company on the south side of the building where it will be kept until the paving on Market Street is completed, as it would be inconvenient to get the truck out of the station while the paving is in progress. Two firemen are in the building all the time, and Ed Frasier sleeps there at night, and three firemen, Frank Buckles, James Asbury and Reda Dallas, sleep at the Fire Station, so in case of a fire the boys could get the truck out of the Shaw building very quickly. Our fire boys are always on the job and ready at any minute to protect our property.

Chief Jones, Asst. Chief Asbury and Fireman Buckles, made a trip to Fort Worth Wednesday on business for the Fire Department.

FARM NEWS

By A. M. Cooper, County Agent

Field Meeting Held

Mr. E. A. Miller, Grain Sorghum Specialist of the A. and M. College, spent last Saturday in this county and several field meetings were held in co-operation with the county agent in the interest of pure grain sorghum seed. About twenty farmers attended the meeting held at the farm of C. F. Reid and Earl Hays.

Terracing Pays

Mr. Rich Cook has a demonstration that will prove to the most skeptical that terracing will pay. This year on two fields one of which is terraced and one of which is not the yield of the terraced field will practically double that of the unterraced. This is due to the fact that the soil has been saved and the water that fell in the spring was held back and given a chance to soak into the ground.

Pure Seed Wins Out.

F. D. Miller who has been conducting a demonstration in the interest of pure pedigreed maize seed reported to the county agent that the test plot yielded approximately 3 1-2 tons per acre. Other plots of good seed fell below this as it took about 1 1-2 half acres of the others to match this.

Get Rid Of The Old Cotton Stalks.

Farmers should keep in mind the damage that the boll weevil has done this year and make plans now to get rid of the stalks as soon as the crop is gathered so as to reduce the number of weevils that will go into winter quarters. Stalks should be plowed under two weeks before the first frost. Before going into hibernation the weevil must feed constantly and if the cotton is destroyed before that time they will starve to death. The fewer that are allowed to go into winter quarters and come out next spring to multiply the fewer we will have next year to eat up the crop.

Soil saving is one of the biggest problems that the people of this country have to contend with today. Tons of soil is being washed down the creeks and rivers of the country every year.

Terracing will prevent this. Terracing is the construction of levees so built as to cause the water to flow along them slowly and so it will not wash and a greater part of it is allowed to soak into the soil.

Here are some thoughts along terracing and soil saving. What will your land be worth ten years from now?

Are ditches being washed out on the slopes and has the surface soil become thin possibly down to the clay. Terracing will prevent this and in time fill the ditches.

Do you know that the Federal Land Bank places an increased loan value on terraced land of from $5 to $10 per acre, and now requires that all sloping land be terraced before they make a loan.

The washaway of the soil is costing the U. S. $100,000,000 each year.

What is it costing you? Terracing will prevent these losses and can be done at small cost.

—A. M. Cooper, County Agent.

ARMY TRUCKS PASS THROUGH BAIRD

Quite a number of army trucks passed through Baird this week enroute from Fort Hill to Marfa, Texas. Several pieces of field artillery were on the trucks. The A. E. F. boys say that this artillery reminded them of the famous French 75 on the Western front during the World War.

Commissioners Court was in session the first of the week.

RACE OF SLAVES IN CHINA FREED AFTER 550 YEARS

"Lazy Men" Tribe, Descendants of Mongol Conquerors, Are Given Full Citizenship.

Peking.—After being held in bondage for 550 years, the descendants of the Mongols who conquered China in the Fourteenth century and who have been kept in a state of virtual slavery ever since in Chekiang province, south of Shanghai, have been freed by formal edict of Gen. Chiang Kaishek.

From the year 900 to 1127 the Sung dynasty ruled China undisturbed. Then, at the time of the Crusades in Europe, when Russia also was being overrun by Mongol tribes, the Mongols descended from the north and west upon China.

After a long period of civil war and chaos the Mongols founded the Yuan dynasty, with Peking as their capital, in the year 1280. This dynasty lasted less than a century, being superseded in 1368 by the Ming dynasty, which in turn was overthrown by the Manchus in 1644, the latter holding the throne until the republic was founded in 1911.

When the Mongol dynasty collapsed in 1368 and the Imperial Yuan family retreated northwestward to Urga, about 30,000 Mongol garrison troops in Chekiang province were cut off. An imperial edict issued by the first Ming emperor made these Mongols all slaves and, though they have not been subject to personal sale for some hundreds of years, they have been harshly oppressed for five and a half centuries.

For 500 years these marooned Mongols have been officially listed as an "inferior race." They have been debarred from taking part in civil service examinations and have not been permitted to hold public office.

So strong has been the prejudice against them that not a single case of intermarriage with a Chinese has been recorded. In occupations they have been limited to chair bearers, rickshaw pullers, firemen, barbers and shoemakers.

Today these Mongols number about 20,000 at Ning-Po, where they are nicknamed "lazy men." 200,000 live at Chu-Chow and Wen-Chow, where they are called "cheap men," and others distributed throughout the province number 130,000 more and are known as "the nine degenerate families."

Under the new mandate all trades and professions are thrown open to these Mongols; their children may be educated with Chinese children (when and if the war lords release any revenue for educational purposes), and the ban against intermarriage is officially abolished.

Holds Breath 14 Minutes; Student Sets New Record

Middletown, Conn.—A Wesleyan senior, Earl L. Gaylor of Cliftondale, Mass., has established a new world's record by holding his breath for fourteen minutes and two seconds. The previous record was for ten minutes and ten seconds and was made at the University of California in 1916.

Professor Edward L. Schneider of the biology department at Wesleyan vouches for the authenticity of the test. He declares that a graphic record of chest and diaphragm motion over the entire period showed that at no time could air have been taken into the lungs.

Oxygen was used by Mr. Gaylor in preparing for the test. He first breathed excessively over a short period in order to rid the blood of carbon dioxide. He then took three deep breaths of oxygen, the last of which he held for the record time.

Fifth Century Christian Pictures in Cliff Cave

Jerusalem, Palestine.—What is believed to be the oldest extant specimen of Christian pictorial art in Palestine has been discovered in the cave of the Fifth century hermit, Theoctistus, in the desert about ten miles east of Jerusalem.

The interior of the cave had been fashioned into a church, with a mosaic floor and frescoes representing the Virgin Mary, the crucifixion and a group of saints.

D. J. Chitty of New college, Oxford, found the cave, which is in the side of a cliff, and can be reached only by a rope or ladder.

Discover Anesthetic When Flowers Die

Chicago.—Because Wisconsin carnations went to sleep when brought to Chicago, science was able to discover ethylene, a new anesthetic as powerful as ether and less poisonous, doctors say.

Discovery followed an investigation by William Crocker and L. I. Knight, University of Chicago botanists, according to Dr. Arnold Luckhardt of the university's physiology department.

The botanists were called in to explain why carnations wilted when exposed to illuminating gas.

Laboratory work then disclosed the gas possessed the principle of ethylene. Doctor Luckhardt conducted tests, even trying the new anesthetic on himself, before he introduced it to the medical profession.

SOVIETS HIT AT HEAD OF MOSLEM

Russians Attack Islam in Samarkand, Quaint City of Central Asia.

Washington.—Samarkand, venerable city of central Asia, has been the scene of a series of recent clashes between the Soviet apostles of modernism and the conservative religious leaders of Islam.

The quaint city with the melodious name lies about 250 miles southwest of Tashkent, Turkestan, on the Transcaspian railroad.

Perhaps nowhere in the Moslem world, except Mecca, could the Russians have invaded a more hostile territory to attack Mohammedanism, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. According to ancient legend, Samarkand was the head of Mohammedanism and Mecca the heart. Two Arab missionaries visited this region. Hungry, they cut up a sheep and put it on the fire to roast. While the meat was cooking they planned their work. They agreed that the one drawing the sheep's heart from the pot should go to Mecca, and that the one drawing the head should remain at Samarkand.

Samarkand is more than 6,000 years old and once had a population of more than a million. Today it has fewer than 60,000 inhabitants. The Persians once called it the hub of the universe. When Alexander the Great destroyed it, in 329 B. C., it was a prosperous city surrounded by a nine-mile wall, pierced by nineteen gates.

Famous Public Square.

After the Russians took the city in 1868, they built a new city outside its western limits. A long, wide boulevard, shaded by tall poplars, now separates the two settlements.

The native city is a labyrinth of narrow, crooked, dusty streets, bordered with dirty mud walls of courtyards and one-story houses. In the business blocks cluster dilapidated booths, cluttered with edibles and garments. Bearded men and veiled women crowd the streets, dodging camels, donkeys, droshkies and high-wheeled carts, all mud-brown from the dust, while peasants, laden with produce from their farms and gardens, plod along to the public square.

Samarkand's registan, or public square, is one of the most famous in the world. It is the market place, parade ground and meeting place for the inhabitants for demonstrations of rejoicing and protest. Paved with cobblestones, it is inclosed on three sides by mosques where young Moslems are educated. The huge polychrome tile facades and melon-shaped towers, flanked with minarets 175 feet high, are splendid examples of Arabian architecture. Surrounding the courtyard inside each mosque are schools in whose cloisters, 10 by 12 feet, the students live with their instructors.

The fourth side of the square is occupied by ramshackle booths of odd pieces of lumber or tin, or strips of canvas on tall poles. They are filled with vegetables, fruits and other commodities. Near by are other booths where squatting natives sip coffee, smoke cigarettes, and gossip. As a public information bureau the oriental cafe serves the purpose of newspapers. Fortune tellers, professional letter writers and peddlers ply their professions where they find a shady place to sit. The registan also is the Samarkand employment agency.

Brilliant Garb of the Men.

From an elevated position above the surging mass of humanity the riot of color suggests that the natives vie with the rainbow and each other. A man will go hungry for a single garment of brilliantly colored material. Green, red, purple and yellow in all their hues will be seen on the same garment.

In a secluded spot in the old city, perhaps a half mile from the registan, is the tomb of the mighty Tamerlane, conqueror of Asia. It is an architectural gem, its graceful peacock blue dome rising above the dusty treetops.

A large park in the center of the Russian quarter is the hub of the new city, from which wide, well-shaded streets radiate in all directions. They are all paved to the city limits. Then they become mere trails in the desert. Some pass through masses of ruins of Samarkand when it was at the height of its prosperity. One of these roads leads to the citadel, situated on a hill between the two cities. Its wall incloses a subterranean prison, an immense dark chamber about 30 feet deep. Prisoners were let down by ropes and it is said no one ever came out of it. Grooves worn by the ropes can still be seen. The Russians abolished the old-fashioned method of punishing the offenders and have built clean, wholesome and well-ventilated jails.

DRAMA OF GOLD RUSH REVEALED

President's Pardon of Vuco Perovich Bares Story of Strange Life.

Kansas City, Mo.—When President Coolidge granted absolute freedom to Vuco Perovich the other day he ended a drama of the gold rush which reads almost like fiction.

Behind bars 21 years and in the shadow of the gallows, Perovich's spectacular battle for liberty was ended by the Executive pardon. He has not been bitter over the misfortune Fate has heaped upon him. And now, at forty years of age, owner of two barber shops in Rochester, he sees a happy future. Some day he will visit his fatherland, Montenegro, where his father was a nobleman.

He was released from the federal prison November 6, 1926, by Judge John C. Pullock, of the Kansas Federal court, on a writ of habeas corpus. His plea was unusual; he asked freedom or death. If his plea had been allowed he would have been taken back to Alaska and hanged according to a court decree there.

His argument was based on his declared innocence of a murder for which he was convicted. The murder was in 1904. At that time he could not speak English. It was his contention that death would be preferable to an innocent man than a cruel imprisonment.

Judge Pollock held with him, ruling the President of the United States in 1909, William Howard Taft, had no right to commute the death sentence imposed on Perovich by the Alaskan court without the consent of the accused. In his decision, however, Judge Pollock declared justice would not be served by sending Perovich to the gallows after he had served twenty-one years in jail and prison. That point was not decided.

President Taft was asked to commute sentence after Perovich had been in jail four years. He did this by Executive order. Perovich was taken to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to pass the rest of his life. There the young nobleman studied American laws and customs, mastering both language and law. He came across the legal point which proved to be the sesame for his recent release.

He applied to the court and George McDermott, a Kansas lawyer, was appointed to represent him. Then came the presentation of facts in the case. Strangely, time had shifted characters in this drama so that former President Taft was now chief justice of the United States and was called upon to pass upon the legality of his own Executive order that saved Perovich from the gallows. Last May the court held against Judge Pollock, and McDermott and Perovich shaped their application for a pardon from President Coolidge.

Early Life Was One of Ease.

Few of the romantic novels ever written about imaginary principalities in Europe are dotted with stranger and more unusual circumstances than have entered into Perovich's life. His father was chief justice in Montenegro and a friend of King Nicholas. His mother was of the royal family.

As a child Perovich played with the royal children and no expense was spared in his education. At fifteen he could speak eight Slavic dialects and Spanish, French and Italian. A few years later Russia and Turkey became involved in one of the Balkan wars and he enlisted in the Russian army. The youngest officer in the army, he was decorated for bravery and commissioned a lieutenant. When war was over he desired to join a brother who had come to America. Reports of gold in Alaska also attracted him and finally he obtained permission to come.

In Alaska he met an American prospector named Sam. Perovich could only speak a few words of English. They found a claim from which they took $14,000 worth of gold. Then went to Fairbanks, Alaska, to buy machinery so they could take out gold in greater quantities.

One day while Perovich was standing in the door of a saloon in Fairbanks his partner came staggering to him, wounded and bleeding.

"Our claim has been jumped," Sam muttered.

Perovich said recently he hurried back to their cabin and found three men there. He asked for his clothes and other belongings. Answering, the men drew knives and started to attack him. He was six feet tall, weighed 205 pounds and was toughened by months of hard labor. Seizing a huge board, he fought them off and finally obtained his clothes.

A few days later he was arrested on a charge of assault. He was given to understand an assault charge meant little in Alaska.

Accused of a Murder.

While he was in jail pending the outcome of the assault charge, he declares the three men accused him of the murder of an old prospector at a wood chopper's camp to which Perovich had moved after the fight. These witnesses, he declared, produced clothing said to have belonged to the old man and accused Perovich of having threatened to kill the old prospector. The cabin in which the prospector lived was burned and the accusers charged Perovich had murdered him and had burned the cabin to conceal the crime.

Before Perovich knew what it was

HIGH HAT NOT NOW POPULAR

"Stovepipe" in Use Only for Certain Very Formal Occasions.

Baltimore, Md.—The silk-hat controversy ever breaks out afresh. Whether to keep the silk hat—mark of respectability, sign of having arrived at a certain status in this world—or to throw it upon the rubbish heap as a token of an era that is past, that is the question argued periodically.

Canon Donaldson of Westminster abbey launched a recent attack, calling this headgear a "vicious, vile and ugly symbol of the uncivilized Victorian."

Canon Donaldson finds it "hard, unyielding, unconquerable and pretensions," not to mention its "responsibility for the baldness of the late generation." Master batters, however, have insisted all along that it is neither uncomfortable nor unbecoming. If properly made, and a correspondent in the New York press not so very long ago was bold enough to declare: "No hat is more becoming to most men and carries so much refinement and dignity."

"Stovepipe" Still Needed.
Men used always to go to church on Sundays in high hats; they wore them to funerals and weddings. The war and its fashion for tin headwear dug a temporary grave for the two-gallon hat. The peace conference resurrected it. Since then the advent of less formal attire—not to mention recent slang—has tended to eliminate the high hat.

The silk hat is no longer considered essential even to directors' meetings, and the ranks of its most inveterate wearers, the old-time caddy, are becoming thinner every year.

But in most men's lives there occur silk hat occasions, not connected with the opera or Easter services, to keep the stovepipe from disappearing altogether.

Topper Started Riot.
Mayor Walker's inauguration was said to have witnessed the largest collection of silk hats ever seen in the New York city hall, and the year 1926, with its various visits from royalty, gave an unusual spurt to the American trade.

Among the Plymouth settlers high hats covered Pilgrim heads. Beaver has been popular as hat material from time immemorial.

A young man of fashion in Florence is said to have appeared in a tall hat of silk plush in 1700, but few paid attention to the innovation.

When John Hetherington appeared on the Strand with a silk topper in 1797 it was strange enough to start a riot. Hetherington was arrested and fined for wearing his "tall structure having a shiny luster calculated to frighten timid people."

In 1805 the modern top hat appeared on the streets of Paris and from then on it was the rage. When Queen Victoria's consort introduced the Prince Albert coat the immediate future of the silk hat, its perfect accompaniment, was assured.

Broke? You Walk Home From Monte Carlo Now

Monte Carlo, Monaco.—Those who lose their last dollar in the Monte Carlo casino hereafter will be just one trip home poorer than those who formerly found themselves in the same fix.

The reason is that efficiency experts attached to the casino have decided to do away with the "viaticques."

Formerly, when a gambler went "broke" in Monte Carlo the casino would simply supply him with free transportation home provided he asked for it, and the secret service reported that he had lost enough money to justify the expense. The free rides were called "viaticques." It was seldom that a legitimate request was refused.

Scores of gamblers were returned to England each year. Many went to South America and the United States at the expense of the casino.

Wealthy Indian Seeks to Divorce White Wife

Wewoka, Okla.—Money has been accompanied by complexities for Daniel Joshua, Seminole Indian, who from his hilltop home near here has watched this country change from a primitive forest to a field bristling with oil derricks.

Joshua is seeking a divorce from Florence De Roules, a white woman, who he charges kidnaped and married him while he was under the influence of liquor.

The Indian's oil holdings, augmented by the inheritance of land owned by his first wife, are estimated to be worth $100,000.

Despite his wealth, Joshua refuses to purchase an automobile, although he rides in one belonging to his daughter. His favorite mode of transportation is his horse-drawn buckboard. All of Joshua's sixty years have been spent on the same farm.

Deserter Must Pay

New York.—For deserting his wife and three-year-old child in February, 1912, and not supporting them since, Frederick Bunnell of Los Angeles has been assessed $30,000 by a sharp jury.

HURRY-UP MESSENGER BOY LEADS AN EXCITING LIFE

Does All Kinds of Queer Errands Including That of Trailing Husbands.

Kansas City, Mo.—According to Harry, the hurry-up messenger, life's never dull for long at a stretch in his line.

"Plenty of variety, you know," he explains, "and ain't that what makes the world go 'round?"

"Why, only this morning a Jane called up and wanted a boy to get a leech for her. She answered the door herself when I brought it out, and I wish you could see her left blinker, blacker'n that dog George Brown brought in last night. Her old man had hit her, she told me. She didn't seem to mind it much, though. The leech would fix it up in no time, she said.

"Then I got a call from way out South, almost to Waldo. It was a rush call, so I didn't waste no time gettin' out there. And you know what for? To get an old alley cat off the roof of a big three-story house.

"At least it looked like an alley cat to me. But the woman called it a 'prize Persian.'"

Once started, Harry's reminiscences flowed on uninterruptedly. Harry didn't ask for applause. He merely wanted an audience.

"And a week before last a woman paid me 50 cents an hour to stand down by the bus station at Eleventh and Wyandotte to watch the outgoing busses to see if her husband went out. You can guess the rest. Suppose he told her he was goin' out of town on business or somethin'. She wanted to find out if he was what you call trust-worthy.

"Some of the calls are a lot of fun, though. When a guy calls up for a boy to go over to a chop suey joint and get some to bring out to a party. Lotta times they'll tell you to stick around a while, and the more wise cracks you can make the better they like it. That's the time you usually get the fattest tips, too.

"And, say! Maybe you think we don't get the low-down on some of these love affairs around town. Why, I says to myself just the other day, 'Yur a reglar little cupee's first too-tenant.'"

"And I wish I had a penny for every dress I'd hauled out to women goin' to bridge parties and tea parties and the like. And for all the dogs I've taken to be what you call immunized!

"But even at that the game ain't what it used to be in the good old days before Uncle Sam went on the water wagon. Them was the days when the guys was free with their jack."

Engineers and Oilers Are Heroes on Liner

New York.—Heroism of a junior engineer officer and four oilers on the North German Lloyd liner Columbus averted a serious accident in mid-ocean, imperiling the 2,537 lives on board.

In some mysterious manner—possibly by striking a submarine derelict—the Columbus when 1,000 miles out of port, lost a propeller. Released of the heavy load, the engine raced until it blew off a cylinder head.

Antone Weber, fourth engineer, and four oilers crawled through the engine room, filled with steam and while the oilers held his legs the engineer found and closed the steam valve.

The passengers took up a purse for the squad, but Weber refused to take any reward, consenting merely to be trustee of a fund of $850 with which to buy watches for the oilers.

Sentenced to Eight Years in Alabama Flogging

Oneonta, Ala.—A prison sentence of eight to ten years was meted out to Eugene Doss, first of seven men to be tried in the Blount county Circuit court on charges of flogging Jeff Caloway, Oneonta farm youth, several weeks ago. Doss, according to testimony of John Hughes and Oliver Tidwell, was a member of the group of men that went to the Tarrant City klavern of the Ku-Klux klan, donned klan robes and hoods and flogged Caloway. Both Hughes and Tidwell admitted they also were members of the whipping party.

Lumber for 47 Houses Required for Frigate

Washington.—Rebuilding of the Constitution, one of the earliest and most famous vessels of the American navy, now in dry dock at the Boston navy yard awaiting restoration, will require enough lumber to build 47 six-room houses.

Requisitions just approved by the bureau of construction and repair of the Navy department call for approximately 710,000 board feet of lumber. In addition to the lumber a considerable quantity of live oak submerged in the Pensacola navy yard for the last 49 years will be used in rebuilding the frigate.

The oak was stored for preservation in the fresh water of Commodore pond in 1873 to be used in future ship building.

Employer Prefers Dirty Faced Boys

London.—Dirty-faced youths make excellent office boys when given a good scrubbing, the Westminster juvenile employment advisory committee has concluded after numerous experiments.

Some employers prefer dirty-faced boys to begin with. One employer wrote to the committee: "I want an honest little tough with rather dirty knees and a soiled face, and thoroughly understanding that five is a struggle and the devil takes the hindmost. I prefer them (i.e., boys not devils) to be short, sturdily built, either fair and dirty faced, or dark and red faced, with just a suspicion of a cold in the head."

The advisory committee commenting on the request for a "little tough," says: "All employers are not so easy to satisfy, by any means."

Monday evening with a part of The Star force the editor made a trip out on the Bankhead Highway West as far as the Davidson place. The road seems to be completed out that far except the asphalt topping. The road was completed to near the top of the hill west of town, topping and all, on a previous contract. We note that some change was made in grade on last contract near the top of the hill. The new road is straighter than the old from the French place to the Davidson place, two or three short curves have been cut out, which is a decided improvement.

At the Davidson place, we found a locked gate across the road, and we turned, up the cross road there north to the T & P road, west of the city wells; drove down on north side of the railroad to the main reservoir, built while J. I. McWhorter was Mayor. This large well has a concrete top, put on since our last visit. Five pumping stations enclosed with lumber, painted white. These wells which we understand each contain a pump worked by an electric motor. These five wells extend several hundred yards across the old field west of the main reservoir. The water is pumped from each well and flows through a pipe to the main reservoir near the old farm house, and from there to town. The city owns the land on which the wells are located.

All the wells situated along the T & P railroad track from which the city formerly pumped water are abandoned by the city, and no longer used by any one. For years we hoped to live to see the day that the city would own and control its own water supply without dictation from the T & P Company or any one else as to the division of water. It required thirty years to do this, but, it has been accomplished at last, thanks to the present and past members of the City Council of Baird; if they did not always agree among themselves. We want right here to pay a just tribute to one man, now dead and gone to whom as much and perhaps more than any one man is due to the improvement we have in the water system of Baird, that we now have, and that man was Mayor, J. I. McWhorter. He resigned before his last term expired, and did not live to see his cherished plans worked out. For years he gave his mind and best energies to improving the water supply for the town, but died before it was completed. We have seen him up there at the wells working just as hard as any of the laborers under him, to hasten the completion of the work that he did not live to see finished.

The old farm house, near the reservoir, has been torn down, but we did not miss any of the sand or grass burrs so plentiful there in former years. The sand and burrs are there in undiminished quantities. We noticed an old picket yard fence on the old farm bought by the city, that the sand had blown up to within a few inches of the top of the pickets. This old farm cost the city several thousand dollars, bought for the water not the land, because the land never was very valuable seems to be worn out. However it does not seem to have been planted in anything of late years but the spending cotton and corn stalks visible when we were there two or three years ago were mute witnesses of the infertility of the soil but the water underneath is valuable far more so than the richest soil in Callahan County. With water meters and large water mains and increased water supply, Baird has abundance of water for all domestic use and for the second summer has had no scarcity of water. The other summer was when water meters were installed when Judge Bowyer was Mayor. Nearly every other summer Baird experienced a shortage of water. Let people pay for the water used or wasted. The present system cost this Editor about $30 last three months for water wasted on account of leaking pipes, but that is an other story and will write it up later.

W. M. ISENHOWER DIES FROM FALL

Last Thursday we heard of the death of Mr. Isenhower but were unable to learn which one of the Isenhower's that had died. Mr. Wylie, the undertaker, had charge of the interment and was phoned at his residence; Mrs. Wylie answered the phone saying that she did not know the initials of Mr. Isenhower that they called him Mac and that is why the notice appeared that way in the Star last week. We have known W. M. Isenhower for many years, and he has been a regular subscriber to the Baird Star for years. We are sorry to hear of the death of this old time friend.

From the Cisco American we get the following facts about Mr. Isenhower's death that we were unable to secure for last weeks issue.—Editor the Star.

W. M. Isenhower, prominent oil man and large landowner of Putnam, died here at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning as the result of a injuries received in a fall last Saturday. He suffered a broken hip in the fall, and was unconscious until death came early today.

Funeral services are to be held at the Baptist church at Putnam this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Isenhower had lived at Putnam for 43 years. He acquired during that time large tracts of land in Callahan and Eastland counties. At one time last year, he had 53 producing shallow oil wells on one of his Callahan county tracts. He was born in Arkansas January 4, 1850, and came to Texas when a boy. He lived in Cass and Johnson counties in the early days, and was married to Miss Delah Jobe in Johnson county. Three children were born to this union, the only survivor being Mrs. L. F. Threet of Cisco. By a second marriage, however, there are four children surviving, Miss Doris and John D. C. M. and Jodie Fain Isenhower of Putnam. Besides the children and the widow, Mr. Isenhower is survived by a brother, John W. Isenhower of Putnam. Mrs. H. B. Paulette of Cisco is a niece.

Lesson for September 18

THE KINGDOM DIVIDED

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 12:1-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Fidei rostra before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God Punishes a Foolish King.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God Punishes a Foolish King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—The Folly of Pride.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—How to Prevent Divisions.

The movements leading up to the disruption of the kingdom had begun in Solomon's reign. He saw in Jeho-boam the leader of insurrection and endeavored to kill him. Jeroboam fled to Egypt until Solomon's death (1 Kings 11:40). Having been informed by the prophet Ahijah that he was to have ten tribes over which to rule, as soon as he heard of Solomon's death he returned to be ready to take up his work.

I. The Demand of the People
(vv. 1-4).

This was occasioned by the burden of excessive taxation and enforced labor, which was required by Solomon in order to build costly houses and temples for his heathen wives. The people were groaning under its weight.
Upon the accession of the new king Rehoboam, the people, through their leader Jeroboam, came with the request that their burdens be made lighter, promising loyalty to him on the condition of lightened burdens.

II. Rehoboam's Foolish Decision
(vv. 5-13).

1. Rehoboam consulted with the old men (vv. 5-7). These were men of experience who had been Solomon's advisers. Being acquainted with the condition as imposed by Solomon, and knowing the temper of the people, they advised that the people's request be granted.

2. Rehoboam consulted the young men (vv. 8-11). These young men had grown up with him, possibly were his half-brothers, sons of Solomon's many wives. Being thus brought up in the luxury of the harem, they were ignorant of the legal right of the people.
Therefore they advised that the burdens be increased.

3. Rehoboam followed the advice of the young men (vv. 12-15). At the appointed time he announced his purpose to the people. He even answered them roughly, asserting his purpose to increase their burdens and sorrows.
He assumed that it was his right to rule and that it was the people's role to obey regardless of conditions.

III. The Revolt of the Ten Tribes
(vv. 16-24).

Upon Rehoboam's announcement of his rash purpose all Israel cried out,
"What portion have we in David?
... to your tents, O Israel."

1. Rehoboam's attempt to collect tribute (vv. 18, 19). As he endeavored to collect tribute from the ten tribes, Adoram, his tribute gatherer, was stoned to death. So violent was the opposition on the part of the people that Rehoboam had to flee to Jerusalem to save his life.

2. Jeroboam made king over Israel (v. 20). They seem to have lost no time in selecting a head so as to be strong in their opposition to Rehoboam.

3. Rehoboam's attempt to compel the ten tribes to return to David
(vv. 21-24).
To effect this, he assembled his army of 180,000 men. Through the prophecy of Shemaiah, which forbade them to go against their brethren, they were persuaded to return.

IV. Jeroboam's Scheme to Unify the Ten Tribes (vv. 25-33).

1. He established calf worship (vv.
31-33).

(1) He built houses and high places (v. 31). This was against the direct command of God. God had directed His people to destroy the high places and to break down the idolatrous centers. So we see that Jeho-boam, by the demands of his sinful heart, disobeyed God.

(2) He changed the day of the Feast of the Tabernacle (v. 32). The time of this feast was set by the Lord (Lev. 23:33, 34). Jeroboam argued that the change in the time would be better suited to their northern climate, but God, who made the climate, ordained the time of the feast. It was his business, therefore, to obey
God.

(3) Jeroboam himself intrudes into the priest's office. The act of presumption on his part was the climax of his godless acts, all of which grew out of his wicked heart.

REVIEW—THE EARLY KINGS OF ISRAEL

DEVOTIONAL READING—Ps. 105
1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord hath prepared His throne in the heavens, and His kingdom reacheth over all.
PRIMARY TOPIC—What We May Learn From Samuel, Saul, David and Solomon.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Teachings and Warnings From the Quarter's Lessons.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Lessons From Samuel, Saul and David.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Honoring God in Our Lives and in Our Land.

Though the lesson title for the quarter is "The Early Kings of Israel," the great character Samuel should be included. A good way to conduct the review would be to make a character study of the four outstanding persons of the quarter—Samuel, Saul, David and Solomon. Perhaps the most satisfactory method of review will be the summing up of the leading events and teachings of each lesson. The assignments should be made a week ahead, so that the members of the class may recite without hesitation. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for July 3.
Against the protest of Samuel the people demanded a king, in order that they might be like other nations. Saul, of the tribe of Benjamin, was given as best suited to fill the place.

Lesson for July 10.
Because of Samuel's exemplary life as a child, a judge and a ruler, he was able to challenge the people to show wherein he had ever defrauded or oppressed anyone. It is a fine thing when a man in public life can be vindicated against the charge of wrongdoing, either in public or in private.

Lesson for July 17.
Saul's failure brought great sorrow of heart to Samuel. The selection of David from Jesse's sons showed that God looks not on the outward appearance, but upon the heart. David's fidelity as a shepherd boy put him in line for promotion.

Lesson for July 24.
Because David was jealous for and trusted in God he was able to overcome Goliath, who had defied the living God.

Lesson for July 31.
The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan, the crown prince, knew that God had chosen David, therefore he waived his natural rights.

Lesson for August 7.
David knew that God had rejected
Saul and chosen himself to be king.
Though relentlessly pursued by Saul, David spared the king because he was God's anointed.

Lesson for August 14.
When David was made king he desired to bring up the ark, the symbol of God's presence, to the center of the nation's life. Though his desire was worthy, he was not careful to do according to God's way. Doing a right thing in a wrong way is displeasing to God.

Lesson for August 21.
Though God did not permit David to build a house for Him, He did something better; He promised to build for David a house, that is, to establish for him a throne. God does more and better for us than we are able to ask or think.

Lesson for August 28.
Through neglected duty David fell into temptation and grievously sinned.
By means of a parable Nathan the prophet convicted him of his sin upon confession to God forgiveness was granted.

Lesson for September 4.
Because Solomon chose wisdom in order to intelligently reign over the nation, God abundantly bestowed upon him wisdom and riches. God's blessings exceed our asking.

Lesson for September 11.
Solomon's first task after his coronation was building the temple, a privilege which was denied to David his father. Because of Solomon's obedience God manifested His presence thus made the temple holy.

Lesson for September 18.
Rehoboam's pride and arrogance to himself the support of the major portion of the nation.

Girls' Feet Cramped Into Small Shoes

Washington.—The desire to have small feet is by no means confined to the women of China, judging from the report just issued by the American Home Economics association on effects of various types of shoes on the feet of high school students.

A study made by Prof. Katherine Cranor of Iowa State college and by Maude Eastwood Little, covering 311 high school girls, showed that shoes both too short and too narrow were worn by 239. Only 25 wore correct length and 14 correct width shoes.

The shoes were examined as to type, length and width. Next the feet were measured and examined for defects. Only one student was found to have normal feet.

Despite the fact that high school girls are supposed to be of flapper age and tastes, the investigators did not find the high heel much in evidence. Oxfords were most commonly worn, though the older girls wore pumps frequently. Only about 75 per cent of the shoes had been fitted on the wearers when purchased.

Urges Parents to Be "Pals" to Children

New York.—Education will not advance as it should until parents take a more active interest in it for the sake of their children, believes Mrs. Florence V. Watkins, executive secretary of the National Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations.

"Parents haven't played enough with their children," says Mrs. Watkins, who is conducting a course on "the Parent-Teacher movement" in the summer session of Columbia university.

"They have been censors instead of playmates. They should come down from their pinnacles and become their children's pals. Parents, however, are more alive to the possibilities of training the child through the first six years of life. Teachers are more sympathetically inclined to problems confronting the home. Communities have become more concerned in making conditions right for the child."

Hunger Conquers Fear in Park Deer Herds

Washington.—Hunger is nature's common denominator. It tames the wildest deer and brings the stately elk to feed on man-made hay.

In the Kalbar reservation 50,000 deer dart from man's approach in summer, for Montana grass is green and their appetites are appeased. Yellowstone's 10,000 elk stamp in regal fright when the national park is verdant.

But winter comes, and with it forage is curtailed. Starvation stalks the herds. Deer over-reach the Kalbar food supply, nor can they move out, for the Grand canyon halts them on one side and a desert on the other. The wild state wavers, and the deer turn to human friends.

All summer Uncle Sam has mowed alfalfa for his hungry wards. They come for it for food and survive the winter.

Holland Refuses to Yield on Cleanliness

Zaandam, Holland.—Many quaint country traditions are passing in Holland with the widespread adaptation of modern agricultural methods. But scrupulous cleanliness is not one of them. It still is literally true that many cow stables in Holland are carpeted.

The windmills which used to pump the water for much of the scrubbing that goes on are disappearing, however. A national society for the preservation of windmills recently sprung up to counteract the tendency of hard-headed Dutchmen to allow their windmills to fall down for lack of repairs, once they discovered that it was cheaper to use motors.

all about he was charged with murder. The members of the jury were quick to believe the accusers. It was charged in the prosecution that Perovich's lack of knowledge of English was only a pretense and that accusation prejudiced the jury against him.

He was convicted. Then the question arose in the minds of those who reviewed the case that the testimony of the three men might have been prejudiced.

After President Taft commuted his sentence, Perovich became one of the lost legion in the Alaskan gold rush. He heard of his brother who had made a fortune in Alaska and was returning to Montenegro to be married. Perovich refused his brother's offer to forego his marriage and spend his fortune to obtain freedom. His brother went to Europe and never returned, abandoning the case as hopeless after receiving the decisions of the courts.

Released on the habeas corpus plea, Perovich went to Rochester and bought a barber shop with a small initial payment. Before long he had paid for it, and purchased another. Now he has the latter shop cleared and owns a motor car.

Besides his brother who amassed wealth in Alaska, Perovich had three other brothers. They were killed in the World war. Their widows, with eight children, are living in Minnesota. Virtually all the money Perovich earned from special work while he acted as prison interpreter was sent to the widows to support the children. His lawyer estimated that he had sent them almost $2,000.

Leaping Scribe Lures

Bear to Death in Pit

Rock Springs, Wyo.—With an eye to detail acquired in a newspaper office, Robert S. Wilson, Rock Springs newspaper man, recently told a bear story that makes all other similar tales appear no more exciting than crop reports.

And since he had no eyewitnesses Wilson silenced scoffers with steak from the bear he caught inadvertently with the aid of his feet and one of Wyoming's canyons.

Wilson's bear epic started when he covered his typewriter and went to the nearby mountain for a day of peaceful fishing.

He hardly had cast his first fly, Wilson said, when the bear sauntered up. He looked hungry, Wilson added. So Wilson, remembering how he had evaded the left tackle when he was a football star at the University of Wyoming years ago, took to his heels.

The bear gave chase. Wilson kept just ahead of the animal's teeth for about a mile, more or less.

Ahead loomed a small canyon approximately 100 feet deep. Wilson couldn't stop. Momentum and the bear wouldn't let him. So he leaped and landed safely on the other side.

The bear couldn't stop either. But he wasn't so lucky as Wilson. He landed with a crash at the bottom of the chasm.

The bear's carcass, except for the steaks Wilson cut from its flanks, was left at the place where it fell.

Magpies Know When

Poison Is in Food

Del Norte, Colo.—It has been observed that after a spell of poisoning magpies there follows a period of about three weeks when none of the robbing, death-dealing birds are killed. This has raised the question in the mind of Extension Agent T. G. Stewart of Rio Grande county: "Do magpies forget?"

For a time at the beginning of the campaign, magpies take arsenic readily. Then there is a period of abstinence, followed by a renewal of results. Stewart believes that another flock of magpies coming from a new locality where news of the arsenic has not reached are responsible for the renewal of deaths. Those versed in bird lore, however, say the new victims probably are members of the old flock who have forgotten the fate of the other birds, and pay with their lives for this slip of memory.

The United States biological survey has declared war on the devastating magpie family.

Tears Are Disinfectants

London.—Dr. Alexander Fleming of St. Mary's hospital in London has discovered that tears are a splendid disinfectant. One single tear will at once kill millions of microbes if put together in a basin.

Chipmunk Kills Rattler

Then Dies From Poison

Bellefonte, Pa.—A chipmunk, weighing scarcely half a pound, thwarted the plans of foresters near here to witness a battle royal between a rattler and a black snake.

Capturing a rattlesnake 4½ feet long the foresters decided to hold it until a black snake—traditional enemy of the rattler—could be found.

Unable to locate a black snake, the foresters placed a chipmunk in the rattler's den to provide the reptile with a meal. The chipmunk had other plans and, taking the aggressive, literally bit the snake in two.

The chipmunk was bitten during the struggle and died of the poison from the rattler's fangs, but not until it had lived to see its enemy die.

LINCOLN TOMB 500 FEET HIGH

Monument at Springfield with Beacon for Aviators Is Suggested

Springfield, Ill.—A Lincoln tomb and monument 500 feet high, to be surmounted with a powerful searchlight which would serve as a beacon for aviators in Illinois, has been suggested in a carefully worked out plan by Herbert Wells Fay, custodian of the Lincoln tomb and monument here.

Fay's plan would put to an end a charge that the state has been unappreciative of its great statesman as far as building a suitable memorial for him is concerned.

Fay asserts that the present memorial is sadly in need of repairs and entirely inadequate, considering the prodigious increase in the number of tourists who visit it daily. In its place he suggests the construction of a 500-foot monument which would be visible for 20 miles, to serve as the air traffic beacon.

Statue 200 Feet High.

Fay's carefully worked out scheme calls for a competition between architects for a gigantic statue of the emancipator 200 feet in height mounted on a base 200 feet high. The structure would be surmounted by a powerful searchlight to make it visible, at night, especially to air pilots.

The grounds owned by the state, totaling nine acres, are adequate for such a monument, according to Fay. Around the base it would be possible to build a memorial hall to match the proportions of the monument and accommodate Lincoln memorials.

The present tomb and monument were erected in 1874 at a cost of $350,000. The memorial at Washington completed a few years ago cost nearly $3,000,000.

Fay, in presenting his suggestion, declares that 400 people visit Lincoln's shrine daily whereas five years ago the number each week hardly equaled that. Last year 150,000 tourists signed the register at the tomb, whereas in 1920 but 30,000 signatures were attached. It is claimed that recent works on the life of Lincoln, coupled with a general increase in tourist travel in the Middle West, accounts for the increase.

Outlines His Plan.

Fay, in describing his plan for the monument and memorial, says:

"Make three circles of rooms. On the outer wall arrange to record the principal events in Lincoln's life, especially from the cradle until he went to Washington. In frames on the walls and in show cases put pictures of every spot he ever visited, letters and speeches he wrote, things he said, stories he told, friends, documents and surveys he made. A systematic arrangement of all these would give a patriotic thrill to every visitor, American or foreign.

In this exhibit could be shown a copy of every letter, speech, survey or document he made in chronological order. Pictures of every person mentioned and place visited could be shown. There could be shown all publications about Lincoln, authors of books, photos of the scenes and everything. Make it answer every question asked about Lincoln. Have every county of the state represented.

"In the center circle reproduce his birthplace, probably exact size, showing its surroundings. Build in miniature the contour of the country and make it show all the places he frequented in Kentucky.

"Then in the next room faithfully reproduce the Indiana home and vicinity. In adjoining rooms of the center circle show a miniature of the Decatur home of Thomas Lincoln, the Coles county home, and reproduce the New Salem log cabin village. One room could be devoted to the Black Hawk war, showing the contour of each county traveled.

"Rooms could be set aside showing Vandalla, the campaign for congress, Lincoln-Douglas debates, battles of the Civil war, the assassination and funeral. Another room could be set aside to the Lincoln memorials erected in his honor.

"The inner circle of rooms next to the base of the statue could be devoted to a display of paintings of Lincoln, scenes of his life depicted in sculpture and photographs."

Blow Torch Enlisted in War on Fruit Pest

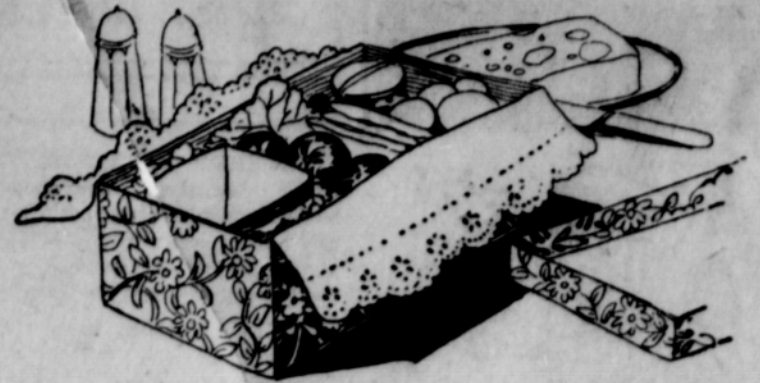

Lansing, Mich.—The state orchard and nursery inspection department has adopted a new method of roguing diseased raspberry plants. The inspectors are using a specialty designed oil-burning blow torch to kill the plants.

Use of the torch has resulted from discoveries by Michigan State college entomologists that the germs of such virus diseases as mosaic, curl, streak and wilt are carried from diseased plants to healthy stock by aphids. Under the old method of roguing with grub hoes, it was observed that the aphids fell to the ground and migrated to healthy plants.

By using the torch to kill the plant before removal the state inspectors also are killing the insects before they have an opportunity to migrate to healthy plants.

E. C. Manderberg, chief of the inspection service, advises growers to have their raspberry plantations inspected by the state, which employs trained men to do the work.

Dainties for the Lunch Box

By CAROLINE B. KING

Culinary Expert and Lecturer on Domestic Science

Switzerland Scones:

Make a baking powder biscuit dough as usual, roll thin and cut into rounds. On half the rounds place thinly sliced Switzerland cheese, sprinkle with paprika and cover with the rest of the rounds. Press together lightly, brush the top biscuit with milk and bake in a hot oven. These are also delicious served hot, with salad.

Stuffed Eggs:

Boil the required number of eggs twenty minutes. Then drop them into cold water. When cool remove the shells. Halve the eggs lengthwise, and remove yolks. Mash these well, adding a little melted butter, salt and paprika. Then for each egg add a teaspoonful of grated Swiss cheese and enough mayonnaise to moisten; add also a few shreds of green pepper or parsley. Fill the eggs with the mixture and put the halves together, roll in wax paper, twisting the ends tightly.

Southern Gingerbread:

Mix together one-half cupful of sugar and one cupful of molasses. Add half a cupful of softened butter or lard and mix well. Then add one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and ginger, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in half a cupful of hot water, half a cupful of sour milk or cream, and two and one-half cupfuls of sifted flour. Beat all hard, then add two well beaten eggs. Bake in a moderate oven and cut in squares. Serve warm with Switzerland cheese.

Fig and Cheese Sandwiches:

Split the figs and place thin slices of Switzerland cheese between. The place between slices of buttered graham bread. Serve with a banana and a glass of milk.

Swiss Salad Dressing:

Place in a fruit jar with a tightly fitting cover one-half cupful of oil, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one-quarter teaspoonful of mustard, one-quarter teaspoonful of paprika, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of sugar, four table spoonfuls of vinegar and one-fourth cupful of Switzerland cheese cut in tiny pieces. Put the cover on the jar and shake vigorously. Serve with apple and nut salad, or use for moistening lettuce leaves for sandwiches. The jar containing the dressing may be carried to a picnic and shaken well just before serving.

Orange Gems:

Cream one cupful of sugar with one-half cupful of butter. Add the yolks of two eggs. Sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour, 2 teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix alternately with one-half cupful of milk to the creamy mixture and flavor with grated orange rind. Fold in the beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in muffin tins and cover with orange icing. Sprinkle a little grated bitter chocolate over the icing before it hardens.

Exhume Shakespeare

for Science, Demand

London.—The body of William Shakespeare may at last be unearthed in the interest of science. For 300 years his grave has been protected by the awe-inspiring verse which says:

Good Friend for Jesus Sake Forbear
To Dig the Dust Enclosed Here,
Blest be ye Man yt Spares These Stones,
And Cursed be he yt Moves my Bones.

But now a movement is on foot to ask for a "reverent and scientific official examination" of the poet's grave and a measurement of his skull.

A British scientific journal, the Antiquarian, calls attention to the fact that while the remains of Ben Jonson, Milton and Cromwell were subjected to indignities, on the other hand, a number of famous men's bones have been disinterred in a manner which made the ceremony a tribute to their greatness.

Here, Rhubarb Cooks,

Is Way to Prepare It

Liverpool.—Rhubarb "fool" is one of the many dishes British culinary experts are commending to housewives who want to make rhubarb "interesting."

This dish is made by serving stewed rhubarb with custard or by putting rucks into a serving dish and pouring the stewed rhubarb over them.

The English domestic science experts say that rhubarb should not be cut into small bits and stewed in a lot of water. It should be left in pieces just as long as will lie flat in a stewpan and only enough water should be poured into the pan to cover the bottom, they advise. Sugar should be added. Then the stewpan should be covered and rhubarb allowed to cook slowly. By this method the stalks can be kept whole and cook chiefly in their own juice.

Harry A. Olmsted, President of the State Fair of Texas, is one of Dallas' most prominent business men and is well known throughout the state, particularly among the newspaper fraternity. He has been on the board of directors of the fair for many years and has served several terms as president in the past, always with success. He is responsible for many of the new ideas introduced this year. Like all of the other directors of the State Fair, he serves without pay.

Roy Rupard, the new Secretary of the State Fair of Texas, has been connected with that institution for about 13 years. He began his work in a minor position in the office and has worked his way to the top, now having the distinction of being the secretary of the largest State Fair in the United States. Mr. Rupard is a man of pleasing personality, keen knowledge of what the public wants to see at a great State Fair and ability to procure it.

DEATH'S CALL

The death angel has again entered our home and borne away our dear old father to that Great Beyond where there will be no more sad farewells.

My father (J. T. Respass) known to some of the newspaper world as "Quilldriver," Uncle "Jimmy" and other names was eighty years, three months and four days of age when the summons came. He came from Georgia, his native state, at an early date. He was married to Miss Mary E. Gilleland January 9, 1882 and to this union were born eight children, four sons and four daughters, all of whom are still living except the oldest son.

He was a good moral man and to a great extent religious; but never became a member of any church until he was sixty-seven years of age. At that age he went to Jacksonville, Florida to attend an old soldiers reunion and from there went to visit friends and relatives in various parts of Georgia. While in this state he visited his old home place and there obeyed the Gospel, being baptised in the "Ole Swimm' Hole" where he and the other boys used to go in swimming. He had waited it seems for a great experience of grace; but while here he related so many experiences that after talking and praying with others received the blessed assurance that he was entitled to a place in the religious world, so became a member of the dear old Primitive Baptist Church. He was a very humble man and quite often too ready to acknowledge the superiority of others less deserving than he. He loved prosperity; but cared very little for riches, always being content to dwell in our humble "cot" because it was home, a very sacred place to him.

His illness covered rather a long period of time (the worst being about seven years) and he rarely ever was impatient or hard to care for during this time. He seemed to gradually grow weaker; but physicians declared they could do nothing for him so he became a sad, humble old man who got farther and farther away from the world. He tried so long as he could to take walk; but quite often these dear sweet friends who have been so kind and loyal through it all, would have to lift him up from where he had fallen and bring him in home. Since the last of December 1926, however, he has needed no one to bring him home for he fell again and was never able to leave his room during the long, dreary winter months; but sat patiently in his old arm chair through all those long winter days and the Spring days when we all liked so much to be out in the open. A few friends called often and he seemed to take no interest in anything until some one would mention some dear old song, especially "Amazing Grace." Then his countenance would beam with mingled tears and smiles. He seemed to enjoy hearing these old songs sung, and several times he tried in his own weak way to sing "Amazing Grace" himself.

By the first week in May his health began to decline more rapidly than ever before and by the fourteenth day we were advised by our physician to call in the loved ones who were living away from home because he knew the poor old fellow had but a short while to live. However the Saviour saw fit to prolong his life for a few weeks yet. He became some stronger but by the first of August his health was again on the decline; and from that time on until September the fourth, he gradually grew weaker and relinquished all claim to earthly ties; and submitted himself to a will power far stronger than his.

It is sad to give up our loved ones and see them buried beneath the cold clayey sod, but "God's will be done, not ours." Then we have a wonderful hope of a happy life beyond the grave. There will be no sorrow there no pains, sickness nor trouble of any kind; but all will be peace love, joy and happiness. That is all this will be if we prepare to meet our God. So let us resist temptation, throw off this yoke of bondage and prepare for that Eternity beyond the dark river of Death. The Saviour has said, "come unto me, all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." Written by his daughter, Beulah Respass.

NORFLEET, A NEW SERIAL STORY

You have heard of Frank Norfleet, the plucky little West Texas ranchman, who was fleeced out of $45,000 by a gang of swindlers. That started the greatest man-hunt ever staged in America and resulted in two dead and 68 in jail. Frank Norfleet, of Plainview, Texas, kept the trail for five years until he had captured his last man.

Then he wrote "Norfleet", the greatest book of its kind (containing actual facts) ever given to the American public. Never has such a prying story been told by such a man.

The Abilene Morning News will publish "Norfleet" in serial form, beginning September 15th.
