Oil companies' profits draw new criticism

NEW YORK (AP) — Conoco Inc. and Gulf Oil Corp. today joined the list of big oil companies announcing huge third-quarter profits, with Conoco saying its income rose 133 percent in the quarter and Gulf posting a 97 percent gain.

Like the other oil companies to announce big third-quarter earnings gains, both companies attributed most of the jump to increased profits from overseas operations and said little came from U.S. refining and marketing divisions.

Conoco, ranked ninth among U.S. oil companies, said its third-quarter profit was $247.1 million, or $2.30 a share, compared with $105.8 million, or 98 cents a share, in 1978's third quarter. This year's period included a one-time gain of $32.6 million, or 30 cents a share, from a change in British tax law.

Conoco, based in Stamford, Conn., said sales in the quarter rose 41 percent to $3.5 billion from $2.4 billion in the July-September period a year ago.

Fifth-ranked Gulf, based in Pittsburgh, said profits in the quarter were $416 million, or $2.13 a share, compared with $211 million, or $1.08 a share, a year ago. Revenues in the quarter rose 33 percent to 6.74 billion from $5.05 billion.

The profits announced by Conoco and Gulf, coming on the heels of large increases announced earlier by Exxon, Atlantic Richfield and Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, renewed debate about the size of oil company earnings.

President Carter made yet another pitch Monday for his tax on oil company windfall profits, saying that while oil concerns already generate large amounts of money, "they want more. But it's not fair to the American people for them to have more."

Carter was particularly piqued at Exxon Corp., the world's largest oil company, which said Monday its profits had risen 118 percent in the July-September quarter. White House press secretary Jody Powell called the Exxon profits "rather enormous."

Also announcing a big rise in third-quarter earnings Monday was seventh-ranked Atlantic Richfield Co., which said its profits rose 45 percent. Standard Oil Co. of Indiana announced a 49 percent profit gain last Friday, and other major oil companies are expected to weigh in with similarly large increases in earnings this week.

Exxon's profits were "pornographic" to James G. Archuleta, a spokesman for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union. He said Exxon and other oil companies "certainly cannot plead poverty" when the union and the industry begin negotiating later this year on a new wage increase for 60,000 energy workers.

The profits probably will also seem high to Americans who began the third quarter in gas lines and ended it wondering whether they'd have enough heating oil for the winter and what it would cost.

But both Exxon and Arco said profits from domestic refining and marketing units were hampered by price regulations which limited the amount of cost increases that could be passed on to consumers. They said increased earnings from other areas of business were primarily responsible for the big profits.

"The big story is still overseas," Ulyesse J. LaGrange, Exxon's comptroller, said in a telephone interview. "The governments there are recognizing this tight supply situation and they're willing to let their consumers pay more to get their share of the world oil supply. ... In the U.S. we haven't even been able to pass all our costs through."

$6 million U.S. lawsuit filed against SEDCO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government filed suit today to recover more than $6 million for cleanup costs plus an unspecified amount for damages from SEDCO Inc. in connection with a massive oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico last June.

The Justice Department charged that the oil spill was caused by SEDCO, a Dallas oil driller, and that the company's offshore oil rig was unseaworthy and its crew was incompetent and negligent.

SEDCO owned the rig that was drilling the Ixtoc I oil well in the Bay of Campeche in Mexico when a blowout occurred on June 3. The government said the accident caused a discharge of 10,000 to 30,000 barrels of oil a day.

The department said SEDCO neglected to stop or contain the discharge and failed to remove the oil from offshore navigable waters, the 200-mile U.S. fishing zone, or the shoreline.

The claim said the government was forced to clean up the oil spill and reroute traffic in the area and that SEDCO's alleged negligence caused extensive damage to natural resources, property and commerce.

It said the precise amount of damages remains to be determined. The government's charges were filed in U.S. District Court in Houston as a counter-claim to a suit filed by SEDCO aimed at limiting the company's damages to $300,000 or excusing it completely from any costs.

The Justice Department also filed a court motion intended to clear the way for a separate suit against SEDCO that would charge the company with violating the 1972 Water Pollution Control Act and the 80-year-old Federal Refuse Act.

Assistant Attorney General James W. Moorman, head of the department's land and natural resources division, said no decision has been made to file claims against other parties.

Moorman said that matter is being considered by a group representing the departments of State, Interior, Commerce and Justice, the Army Corps of Engineers and the Coast Guard.

Kelly Chambliss testifies Mathis shot Sgt. England

By BILL MODISETT
Staff Writer

Kelly Joe Chambliss, the 18-year-old murder defendant now on trial in 238th District Court here, took the witness stand this morning and testified that it was the co-defendant in the trial — 20-year-old Raymond Wesley Mathis — who shot Army Sgt. J.B. England July 18 on Interstate 20.

Chambliss was testifying as his murder trial entered its seventh day. He took the witness stand about 9:15 a.m. and the defense had completed questioning him about 10:40 a.m.

During his time on the witness stand, Chambliss contended it was Mathis who shot Sgt. England near a rest area on I-20 about 4 a.m. July 18.

Chambliss said he was driving the vehicle in which he and Mathis were riding. He was under the impression the two were going rabbit hunting.

CHAMBLISS SAID HE MISSED the road where they were supposed to turn, but turned around in the rest area. As they were leaving, a parked van pulled on to the highway, almost striking the car the two men were riding in, he testified.

Mathis, sitting in the passenger seat of the car, held a rifle out the car's window and the rifle went off, the defendant said.

Chambliss recalled he was surprised when the rifle went off. He said he looked in the car's rear view mirror and saw the van leave the roadway.

The defendant testified he drove a short distance, then turned around and went back to see if Mathis' bullet had hit the man (England) or just scared him.

When the two got back to the location, he said, Mathis fired some more shots at the man.

Chambliss testified that he did not leave Mathis or ask if he could leave because he was afraid of Mathis.

"Yeah, I was scared of him (Mathis) because I had just seen him shoot someone else," Chambliss told defense attorney Eddie Garza.

THE PROSECUTION team of District Attorney Vern Martin and Assistant District Attorney Charles Seltzer were expected to begin cross-examining Chambliss about 11 a.m.

Mathis, who was convicted of murder in the case during September and assessed a 99-year prison term, entered a statement into his trial that said Chambliss was the one who shot Sgt. England.

Mathis' conviction is now on appeal.

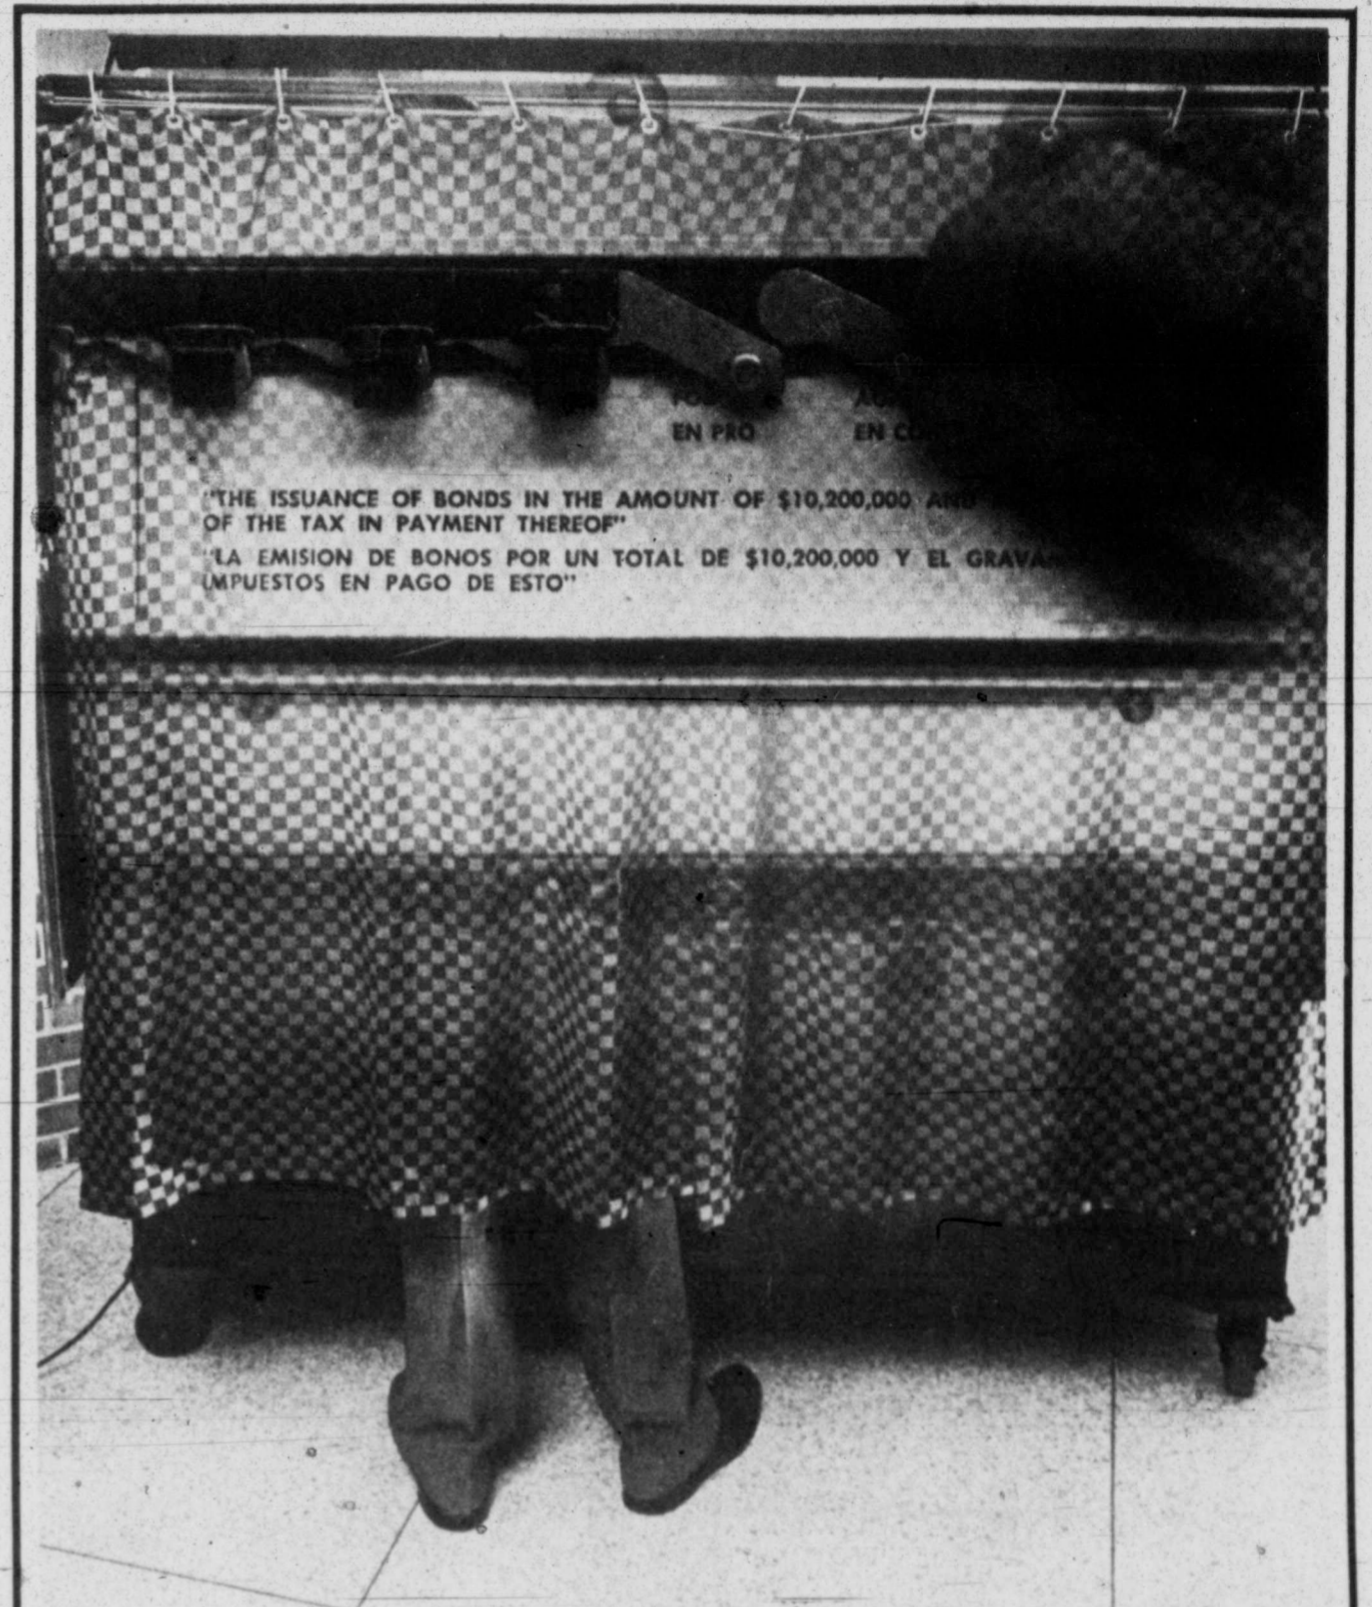

But during Monday's testimony Mathis' sister, Peggy Chambers, testified the two men arrived at her home about 5 a.m. July 18 and that Mathis told her, "I shot somebody" or "I've killed somebody."

HE ALSO TOLD her Chambliss was driving the car at the time the shooting occurred, Mrs. Chambers testified.

Mathis' father, Sterling Mathis, also testified Monday that his son came to his home that morning and said, "Dad, I've killed a man. I've got to run."

Midland voters are letting their voices be heard today, as thousands are expected to cast ye or nay on the $10.2 million school bond election. Polls close at 7 p.m. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Bond issue voting 'fairly heavy'

Voting in today's $10.2 million school bond election got off to a fairly heavy start this morning, with several of the six polling places reporting moderate or better turnouts by noon.

The six polling places opened at 7 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. today.

Balloting at Fannin Elementary School was "real heavy between 7 and 8 a.m.," a poll worker noted. By noon, 547 people had cast ballots at the school, a turnout "very heavy for this type election," a worker said.

Balloting at Lee High School had reached 256 by noon, but one worker here predicted the turnout could reach 700 or more by the 7 p.m. closing time.

More than 300 voters had turned out early at Fire Station No. 4 at Delano Street and Circle Drive, most of those in the pre-work 7-8 a.m. period.

The 150 voters by noon at Fire Station No. 3 at 1710 N. Edwards St. included a bus load of senior citizens, one poll worker noted.

About 150 voters had made the trek to South Elementary School early today in a fairly steady stream, a worker said.

Workers at Fire Station No. 6, Thomason and Midland drives, stayed fairly busy with about 315 voters by noon.

Polling places include:

No. 1 (county election precincts 1, 10, 12) — Fire Station No. 3, 1710 N. Edwards.

No. 2 (county election precincts 6, 7, 9, 20, 23, 27) — Fire Station No. 4, Delano Street and Circle Drive.

No. 3 (county election precincts 8, 14, 26) — Fannin Elementary School, 2400 Fannin Ave.

No. 4 (county election precincts 11, 13, 21, 22) — Fire Station No. 6, Thomason and Midland drives.

No. 5 (county election precincts 4, 15, 18, 19, 28) — Lee High School, 3400 Neely Ave.

No. 6 (county election precincts 3, 5, 16, 17, 24, 25) — South Elementary School, 200 W. Dakota Ave.

China 'most favored'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today extended most-favored-nation tariff treatment to the People's Republic of China and urged Congress to "act as soon as possible" to approve a trade agreement between the two nations.

Carter signed a proclamation extending non-discriminatory treatment to Chinese exports and predicted that the trade package will "strengthen both economic and political relations between the United States and the People's Republic of China."

In letters to the presiding officers of the Senate and House, Carter said of the long-awaited action:

"Conclusion of this agreement is the most important step we can take to provide greater economic benefits to both countries from this relationship. It will also give further impetus to the progress we have made in our overall relationship since normalization of our diplomatic relations earlier this year."

I am wondering about the enforcement of the speed limit on North Big Spring Street. I know there is a 30 mph speed limit from the downtown area on this street, and eventually it is increased to 35 mph, 40 mph and at 45 mph about Scharbauer Drive. My concern is that drivers begin the 40 to 45 mph limit at Louisiana Street and make driving even more hazardous than it already is. Can't something be done about it? — J.K.

ANSWER: Contact the Humane Society of the Permian Basin, P.O. Box 6333, Terminal Station, Midland, Texas 79701.

ATTENTION MRS. TOM MITCHELL: Regarding your earlier question about the parking and driving situation on A Street between Wall and Missouri Avenues where there is a private club.

The parking is currently designated as angle, rather than parallel as you mentioned in your letter. Doug Vanover, Traffic Coordinator for the city of Midland is investigating the possibilities of having the parking in that block changed to parallel, rather than angle. This would eliminate the problem of cars "sticking out" into the street and blocking the lanes.

ANSWER: The Traffic Division of the Midland Police Department has been notified, and there will be a radar check on North Big Spring in the near future. Citations will be issued to the speeding drivers, of course.

Chambliss testifies Mathis did the England shooting

ing their side of the case Monday afternoon after Garza told the eight-man, four-woman jury, "I think what we're going to show you is that it was Raymond Mathis who fired that weapon."

After nearly three full days of testimony, the state rested its case shortly after 3 p.m. Monday.

Defense attorneys Allen McFall and Garza requested a continuance in the case because efforts to locate a potential witness — Robert Crane — have been unsuccessful.

THAT MOTION, HOWEVER, was denied by 23rd District Court Judge Vann Culp.

Deputies testified last week that Crane, about 25, of Waco was in the car driven July 18 by co-defendant Raymond Wesley Mathis, 20, when he was arrested in Ward County.

Crane, a hitchhiker, was detained briefly, but wasn't arrested in connection with the case. Efforts to locate him to testify in the September Mathis trial or the Chambliss trial have proven unsuccessful.

In his opening remarks to the jury, Garza said the defense will call some members of Mathis' family to testify. The defense, he said, will try to prove that it was Mathis — not Chambliss — who shot England about 10 miles east of Midland on I-20.

ADDITIONALLY, GARZA SAID, the defense expects to show that Mathis forced Chambliss to be with him the morning England was shot.

Called as the first defense witness, Abdon Joe "A.J." Vigil testified that he knows Mathis, but not Chambliss.

He said that one night in July he was walking along a Midland street when a car carrying Mathis and two others stopped. Mathis left the vehicle and pointed a gun at Vigil.

The witness said Mathis asked him if he had any money. When Vigil said he didn't, Mathis apologized and told him not to tell anyone about the incident.

Questioned by District Attorney Vern Martin, Vigil said another man came up to him later and told him Mathis had only been playing with him. But Vigil said he didn't think Mathis was playing.

THE STATE'S FINAL witness Monday was Gary King, 49, of Houston, who shared a jail cell with Chambliss during late July in Midland County Jail.

King recalled conversations he had in the cell with Chambliss, who talked of details about the shooting death of England.

According to King's testimony, Chambliss said that he and Mathis went to a truck stop in the early morning hours of July 18.

The two men then drove to a rest area on I-20 where a van was parked "to rob someone." They went up to the van, King said he was told, to ask directions to Odessa. The man inside the van shouted something like, "Don't disturb me."

CHAMBLISS TOLD KING he and Mathis started to leave and the van pulled in behind them. As the van passed them, King said, "Kelly said he shot through the window of the van or shot that man."

The two men turned around and drove back to the site, Chambliss said when he saw that the man was still alive, he (Chambliss) shot the man again, according to King's testimony.

King said he asked Chambliss if the shooting of England was on his conscience. "He said it wasn't on his conscience — that maybe it should be, but that it wasn't."

Brenda England Leake of Asheville, N.C., sister of Sgt. England, took the witness stand early in the afternoon and during an emotional period identified a photograph of her brother.

England, she said, had been in the Army for 13 years and had served three tours of duty in Vietnam. She said that at the time of his death he was traveling from Marion, N.C., to Fort Bliss at El Paso to attend the sergeant-major's academy.

England, 39, died at 5:55 a.m. July 18 at Midland Memorial Hospital after being wounded three times in the face and once in the left arm at a site 10 miles east of Midland on I-20.

Testimony in the trial began last Thursday.

Workers, right, begin pumping out water to repair a six-inch city water main which was broken Monday afternoon when a backhoe digging a trench for an underground Southwestern Bell telephone cable struck the cast-iron main at Illinois and Mariana avenues. The mis-directed water flooded numerous streets, including the intersection at Louisiana Avenue and Garfield Street, below. Apparently residents in the neighborhood did not suffer from a water "outage" due to the mishap, said a city of Midland spokesman. Repairs were to be completed early today. North Loop appraisals under way

By RICHARD MASON Staff Writer

Appraisals on property along the path of the proposed North Loop between Midland and Odessa are moving along on schedule, an independent appraiser told Midland County Commissioners Monday during a regularly scheduled monthly meeting.

"We will meet or beat our deadline," Tom King, the appraiser, said. King said he would have the first appraisal "written and delivered to the state (State Department of Highways and Public Transportation) this afternoon (Monday) for their approval."

Midland County will be acquiring right-of-way for the North Loop project which, when finished, will add another connector road between Midland and Odessa.

King, who entered a six-month contract with Midland County in June, has researched sales in the area along the proposed North Loop to determine market values on property along the highway.

King predicted landowners "will be satisfied" with the county's offers.

"We will have valid and firm market data to justify appraisals," King said.

The appraiser noted that most of the legwork has been completed for making appraisals on the property with an exception of the far eastern edge of the proposed roadway.

Following King's presentation, two representatives from the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation appeared before commissioners to discuss the North Loop, Highway 191 and Spur 217. Spur 217 will provide a westerly entrance to the airport.

Highway officials were seeking agreement on plans for the spur which would provide a one-half mile road from FM 1788 to Midland Regional Airport.

The highway department originally approached the commissioners on the project in 1969, but no action was taken on the item. The highway department still has the road planned and budgeted, but requires that right of way be purchased before the project can get under way.

"We can go to contract on it as soon as we have some right of way," Bill Lancaster, an assistant district engineer with the highway department, said.

Commissioners tabled any action on the proposal because current plans propose that the county assume costs for curb and gutter improvements on the roadway at a cost of $52,000.

Commissioner Win Brown noted that the county did not want to incur curb and gutter costs since the county would not benefit directly from the roadway.

Col. Wilson Banks, aviation director for the city, called the road "the most beneficial approach to the traffic problem out there" and encouraged commissioners to accept the plans.

Banks said the roadway eventually would serve as the main entrance in terms of volume of traffic.

Airport visitors now enter from U.S. Highway 80 on the south side of the facility and drive through an industrial park.

Commissioners, meanwhile, suggested that the city consider annexation of a corridor of property for the roadway.

"All of us would like to see a road in there, but the problem is with the curb and gutter," Brown explained.

The highway department cannot assume costs for curb and gutter work, Lancaster said.

Lancaster added the highway department could "go to contract" in early 1980 on the North Loop road "if the right of way is available."

Commissioners delayed accepting a

Skyride's safety devices 'failed'

DALLAS (AP) — Two safety devices failed to function and a third was never installed on a pair of Swiss Skyride gondolas that dropped at the State Fair of Texas, killing one man and injuring 16, officials said.

Bill Hawkins, manager of the ride, said Monday that a wind monitor designed to stop the tram if winds get dangerously high was "not functioning right, I guess."

The other device that apparently failed was an emergency switch that was supposed to stop the ride if the cable holding the cars dislodged. Hawkins said it "didn't work and we don't know why."

A safety shield that can prevent an accidental release of the grippers holding the gondolas to the cable was never installed on the skyride, officials said. It was installed on many

House OKs measure halting some flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved a measure which, if it passes the Senate as well, would halt interstate service from Dallas' Love Field.

The amendment by House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth, passed Monday, states that no interstate commercial flights are permitted at a satellite airport if authorities of a regional airport and satellite airport oppose them.

The Civil Aeronautics Board approved last month Southwest Airlines' bid to start service between Love Field and New Orleans.

Midland Regional Airport.

High Wednesday should be near 80, but cool temperatures will hold the nights with tonight's low expected to be in the mid-40s.

Today's southeast winds should decrease to light and variable by tonight, the weatherman said.

No clouds mean no rain, and the monthly rainfall total should remain at .91 inch another day. Annual accumulation so far is 13.19 inches.

Monday's high was a crisp 70 degrees, not even approaching the record for the date of 89 set in 1961. The overnight low of 42 was much warmer than the record low for today's date of 33 degrees set in 1936.

Area towns were reporting the same clear cool weather Midlanders enjoyed early today.

Clear skies and cool weather prevailed across Texas today with mild temperatures expected to remain the rule statewide.

Predawn temperatures ranged from the 30s in the Panhandle to the 60s in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Workers today were removing the remaining gondolas from the ride in search of further clues to the weekend accident.

The gondolas will be stored and examined thoroughly in the next phase of the operation, but no conclusive findings are expected for several days, fair spokesman Bob Halford said.

Fair officials said a ride foreman had ridden the skyride Sunday, minutes before two cars crashed to the crowded midway.

One of the gondolas jammed when crossing a support post and then stalled, causing the next three gondolas to strike it, officials said. The two in the middle fell onto two carnival booths.

The officials concluded, however, that the 23 mph wind was not dangerous enough to close the ride.

Closet Republicans may go

Texas Demos may cleanse party of defectors

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Democratic leaders vote Sunday and Monday on a plan to cleanse the state party of political defectors who hold office in the Democratic party but support Republicans.

"This is not an attempt to purge the party of conservatives. It is not a witch-hunt," said Garin Patman, Rules Committee chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee. "But we want to make sure we have the proper procedures to handle the situation."

Mrs. Patman and a subcommittee on "party integrity" met Saturday at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport. Out of the meeting came a general agreement to do something about Democratic defectors.

"We have had a rule since 1971 that says that any person who accepts a party office at any level must agree to support all the party's nominees or be removed from office," Mrs. Patman said Monday.

However, after the 1978 gubernatorial elections when some Democrats supported Gov. Bill Clements, Republican, "it came to our attention that we did not have an exact mechanism."

"I don't think we will go to a form of pledge but we do intend to take steps against anyone who works for defeat of the Democratic party," she said.

Two general agreements were reached, Saturday, Mrs. Patman said.

— First, a party official could be charged with "non-support" if he gave money to the Republican party, served on the steering committee of any Republican candidate, or willingly and knowingly allowed his name to be used in any news release or advertisement for a Republican candidate.

— Second, a procedure for appeal was needed. "This is still being drafted, but it probably will call for a precinct or county chairman to investigate any charges of non-support and report to the county committee for action," she said. "Afterwards, the person involved, if he wanted to, could appeal it to the county committee or even to the state committee."

Mrs. Patman said the subcommittee on party integrity will meet Sunday in Houston to go over the draft of its report, and then make recommendations to the Rules Committee at 2 p.m. If the procedure is approved, it goes to the full state committee at its Monday session.

Connally defends his Palestinian plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally has defended his call for a Palestinian state and a U.S. military presence in the Middle East by saying a cut-off of Middle East resources could lead to "absolute chaos and consternation" in the West.

At the same time, Connally, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, reassured Israel and American Jewish leaders who have objected to his proposals that the "moral commitment to protect the borders of Israel must continue under all presidents."

Connally discussed reaction to his Middle East policies during a question-and-answer period Monday night after a speech to the 66th annual convention of the National Foreign Trade Council.

His speech did not mention the Middle East controversy. It dealt with the future of foreign trade and accused the Carter administration of failing to follow through on gains in the foreign trade balance.

The gains, Connally said, resulted from his policies as Secretary of the Treasury in the Nixon administration.

During the question-and-answer period Connally blamed the presence of Soviet troops in Cuba on what he called "a policy of appeasement and weakness this administration has been following since before it came into office."

Predicting "more revolution and more unrest" in Latin America, Connally added:

"Somewhere the United States has to draw the line. I've seen nothing to indicate that this administration is going to do it."

When the question of his Middle East policy was raised from the floor, Connally quipped, "I thought maybe I'd covered it fairly well."

"But let me say in all seriousness that the Middle East is the crucial vortex of danger in the world."

Saying the United States is "committed by a moral imperative, by a treaty, by a moral commitment" to Israel's security, he added:

"Israel must understand that the United States has other interests. Israel must understand that the United States has a legitimate right to pursue the interests of America throughout the world, including the Middle East." Connally said he disagreed with former U.N. ambassador and CIA director George Bush, who also is a candidate for the GOP nomination, that a stronger U.S. military presence in the Middle East could lead to a confrontation with the Soviet Union.

"I think the real confrontation may come if we don't move into the Middle East," he said.

In his formal speech, which was met with frequent applause by the business group, Connally accused the Carter administration of "aimless drifting in our international economic policy."

"Our dollar is weak in part because we have not mounted an aggressive trade program to support it on the world market," Connally said.

Two senior citizens, Simon Pepper and Jessica Sherman, played by Shepperd Strudwick and Teresa Wright, plan a crafts fair to raise money to buy a place of their own and Opie Cross (Cheryl Arutt) is the teen-ager who helps them with the difficult decision in "The Rocking Chair Rebellion," airing on "NBC's Special Treat," Tuesday, Oct. 23.

Teresa Wright won the 1942 Best Supporting Actress Oscar for "Mrs. Miniver." She was nominated for Best Actress honors the same year for "The Pride of the Yankees."

Kennedy refuels talk he will seek nomination

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy has again fueled speculation that he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination in an address to cheering Philadelphia crowds at a fund-raiser for mayoral candidate William Green.

"I'm not here because of the number of delegates, 168, that Pennsylvania will send to the Democratic convention," he insisted with a grin as 3,400 applauded at a $100-a-plate dinner Monday night for the former congressman.

Green is favored in the four-man race to succeed Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, a former policeman barred by law from seeking a third term. Democrats have controlled City Hall since 1951.

"I'm not here because of Pennsylvania's 27 electoral votes. I'm here because I love Billy Green," Kennedy said.

Then he added: "But it won't be the last time I'll be here. I'll be back when Billy Green is mayor, and when I come back I might talk about somebody else who is a candidate for another job."

After dinner, and the $250-per-person cocktail reception that preceded it, the Massachusetts senator was driven to what was billed as an old-fashioned political rally in South Philadelphia where nearly 5,000 had congregated at a catering hall.

"You go out and ring doorbells, and do the work, and you know what will happen?" Kennedy shouted at the happy, excited crowd that was kept from crushing the podium by police and secret service agents.

A voice cried out, "You'll be president!" and then a chant was started "we want Kennedy" and many began waving "Kennedy for President" signs.

Flushed by the warm night, sweat pouring down his face, he said, "In the next few months I might be knocking on your door."

Chiles to be GOP keynoter

ODESSA — H.E. "Eddie" Chiles, founder and chief executive officer of the Western Co. of North America, a former Midlander and an outspoken advocate of the private enterprise system, will be the keynote speaker at the Ector County Republican fund raising rally, Nov. 10.

Tickets for the event, co-sponsored by the Ector County Republican Party and the Ector County Republican Women's Club, are available at $10 each from any member or by calling Bill Shaner in Midland at 685-1831.

Chiles, a 69-year-old petroleum engineer, founded the Western Co. in 1939 with his cousin as an oil well service company in Seagraves, backed by a borrowed $8,000.

In 1948, after buying out his partner's share, Chiles moved the company to Midland. While in Midland, he was active in civic affairs, serving on the board of directors of the Midland Chamber of Commerce and the Midland City Council.

In 1959, Western moved to Fort Worth where corporate headquarters remain.

Western is now the nation's largest independent oil well servicing company and plays a significant role in the worldwide offshore drilling industry.

Chiles earned his petroleum engineering degree from the University of Oklahoma in 1934 and worked as a sales engineer for Reed Roler Bit in Houston from 1934 to 1939. He was named Engineer of the Year by both the Permian Basin and the Tarrant County chapters of the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

Currently, Chiles is best known for his radio commercials expounding the merits of the private enterprise system, which, he feels, is in imminent danger.

Absentee voting begun on three amendments

Absentee voting on three Texas constitutional amendments is into its second week.

The voting began last week and will continue through Nov. 2 for the following amendments:

— To provide for the appointment of notaries public for the state and for a term not less than two years and not more than four years as provided by law.

— To provide for legislative review of the process of rule making by agencies in the executive department.

— Authorizing the legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans for purchase of farm and ranch land real estate for qualified borrowers by the sale of general obligation bonds of the State of Texas.

A total of seven absentee ballots Monday had been mailed by the county clerk's office, and 22 ballots had been filed in the clerk's office.

Surprise in Japan

Pollsters, political pundits and leaders of the Liberal Democratic Party in Japan all received a severe jolt from the Japanese electorate recently.

They all had confidently predicted the ruling LDP would win a sizable increase in the party's seats in the House of Representatives, but Japanese voters, in a relatively light turnout, decided otherwise.

LDP candidates won only 248 seats, the same number they held going into the elections and a long way from the 170-odd they had expected to gain. As a result, the LDP, while remaining by far the largest party in the House, was returned without a clear majority.

The LDP now will be able to run the government only by carrying on as it has unhappily for some time. This means getting the cooperation of independents who see things the LDP way and by bargaining with opposition parties on legislation.

Even within the LDP discipline this will not be easy because Prime Minister Mesayoshi Ohira, who seems likely to retain his post, is weakened and has lost prestige because he failed to lead his party to the anticipated election gains — his reason for calling the yearly elections. Thus the prospects are for a government that will have to operate through compromises and be unable to act strongly or decisively.

Japan is manifesting an affliction prevalent in most of the industrialized democracies — electorates so contentious and independent-spirited they give no parties big enough majorities to permit the pursuit of consistent, long-range programs and policies.

In such circumstances neither fail enough to get turned out nor succeed enough to prove themselves and gain new support.

The LDP's comparatively poor showing after 34 years in control of the Japanese government seems attributable mainly to voter apathy, concern about the prospect of higher taxes, and lingering resentment over the Lockheed and other scandals that rocked the party under former Prime Minister Kakui Tanaka three years ago.

Foreign relations are said to have figured very little in the elections. Although the Communist and Democratic Socialist parties made impressive gains, from 17 to 39 and 29 to 35 seats, their wins do not signify a disruptive trend. Their numbers are too limited.

Observers agree the Japanese are reasonably satisfied with their generally prospering and peaceful condition and their country's increasing stature in the world.

The recent vote was reproof for the LDP, a manifestation of dissatisfaction, but not a signal that upsetting change is wanted. Things have been made more difficult for the LDP, but given the traditional capacity of Japanese political groups to maneuver and adjust, it should be possible for government to proceed along established lines with reasonable prospects of stability and success.

The United States obviously would have been happier with an election result that returned a stronger and more secure government. But there will be satisfaction that, according to present LDP plans, Prime Minister Ohira will remain at the helm.

Under his tenure Japan has gone quite a distance toward opening its economy to trade penetration by the United States and other Western nations.

If a severe world recession does not interfere, Ohira should now be able to oversee the continuance of the more liberal trade policies his government recently initiated.

And that's the way it is in Japan today, following the recent balloting.

Vance, Brzezinski are at it again

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The "odd couple" of American foreign policy are at it again. One of the worst-kept "secrets" of the Carter administration is the friction between Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and the president's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Everyone in the administration passionately denies the rumors of a Vance-Brzezinski conflict. But high-level sources have confirmed the rift. Brzezinski, obviously backing for the kind of power that his predecessor Henry Kissinger enjoyed under Presidents Nixon and Ford, repeatedly overrules Vance's more pragmatic approach to international problems by pushing the kind of "hard line" favored by Kissinger.

"Whenever Dr. Brzezinski has a problem, he thinks, 'What would Henry do?'" — top official told us. The most recent surfacing of the Vance-Brzezinski policy feud involved the government of Chilean President Augusto Pinochet and its responsibility for the brutal assassination of Chilean exile leader Orlando Letelier in Washington three years ago last month. One of the convicted hit men in that brutal murder, expatriate American Michael Vernon Townley, testified that he wired Letelier's car with explosives on orders from the head of Pinochet's secret police, Gen. Juan Manuel Contreras. Brzezinski persuaded Carter to get tough with the Chilean dictatorship, demanding that the Pinochet regime extradite General Contreras and two other secret police officials for trial in the United States.

Vance privately opposed the Brzezinski hard line, pointing out that as a practical matter no country is likely to extradite the head of its secret police on a murder charge. It would be as if the United States agreed to ship the director of the Central Intelligence Agency to a foreign country to stand trial for illegal undercover activities carried on by U.S. spooks.

Vance argued that we couldn't reasonably expect more from the Chilean government than a face-saving disciplinary action against Contreras — who was forced to resign from his army post. In his usual button-down style, he urged that any demand for extradition be low-key enough that the inevitable rejection would not lead to a complete rupture of U.S.-Chilean relations.

But Brzezinski felt that the notoriety surrounding the Letelier murder — and public outrage at the idea that foreign agents could assassinate someone on the streets of the national capital with impunity — made a tough stance mandatory. So the demand for Contreras' extradition was made publicly, and when it was rejected by the Chilean supreme court, Carter was forced to recall our ambassador to Chile, pushing relations with the Pinochet regime to the breaking point.

The Letelier murder may be the cause of still more problems in U.S. relations with other Latin American countries. We have persuasive evidence that the assassination was planned and carried out as part of a secret "Operation Condor," an international murder ring run by a secret consortium of half a dozen South American dictatorships with headquarters in Chile.

CHARLEY REESE

Faith in God, country and fellow man termed essential

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — One of the questions I ponder most is why the country isn't working the way it used to. You know how it is: we can't seem to get anything done and we can't seem to agree on anything. Well, I think I've discovered the answer.

What started me thinking was a speech by Adm. H.G. Rickover, the crusty old father of the nuclear Navy. He was talking about the problems of energy and the environment and why they aren't being solved.

Well, you know Admiral Rickover. He doesn't play word games. He blamed three groups: (1) Media; (2) special interest outfits, and (3) "so-called experts."

He accused all three of distorting reality for their own selfish motives. He said the media does it to sensationalize their stories; the special interest groups do it to dramatize their political goals, and the so-called experts do it to make headlines and win government grants.

He cites examples and makes his case in all three categories, but what struck me was the fact that all three categories were guilty of the same sin: pursuing their own goals in such a narrow and selfish manner that they showed no regard for either the truth or the welfare of their fellow citizens.

This brought to mind a statement made several years ago by Jerry Coffee, one of our POWs in Vietnam. In his solitude and pain, Jerry said he had concluded that there were four elements necessary for survival: faith in God, faith in your country, faith in its institutions, and faith in your fellow man.

It's taken me some years to understand what a profound statement he made. It's easier to understand, however, if you look at the contrary. What do you have if you have no faith in God, country, institutions, or other people? You have a prescription for the disintegration of the human mind because it would be a rare ego which could survive in a state of such extreme isolation.

Nihilism — the belief in nothing — has to lead on an individual level to death and on a political level to apathy or rage — to the dropout or to the terrorist. For that reason then, it is a serious offense to poison a fellow human being's faith.

And that's what we're doing in this country. It's become a fact. Fiction writers do it when they spin tales of demented generals and sinister corporations; communists and patriots do it when they argue their respective theories of evil conspiracies; consumerists and environmentalists do it when they make wild charges and impugn others' motives; scientists and academics do it when they exaggerate and dramatize for publicity's sake; we journalists do it when we sensationalize or hammer so hard on failure we forget to report success; lawyers do it in pursuit of verdicts; and politicians do it in pursuit of headlines.

We have made an industry out of creating doubt in people's minds and it's no wonder they are, as Admiral Rickover said, "uncertain, distrustful and confused."

So long as they remain in that state, no consensus is possible and so long as no consensus is possible, no important political decisions can be made and so long as no reasonable political decisions can be made, none of the physical problems can be solved. The technology, the brainpower, the financial resources sit there waiting to be mobilized and directed.

Well, it's a problem each of us must solve. We can't simply close our eyes and pretend that all is well in the world. That's not true and we know it. Admiral Rickover supplies part of the answer: perspective. In receiving and dispensing information, we must keep our perspective. We must give up the cheap shot, the hyperbole, and the half-truth.

The second part of the answer is that we must enlarge our sense of responsibility so that we become conscious of our neighbor's consciousness. We take for granted that a person has a right to his life and his property; we should also recognize his right to have faith in his God, in his country, in his institutions and in his fellow man. We should not carelessly or maliciously endanger that faith.

After all, there is a God; our country is a great one; the great majority of people are decent; and our institutions can be made to work. The first step toward solving any problem must be the belief that it can be solved.

INSIDE REPORT:

Unexpected anti-oil votes by GOPers set off shock waves

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The politically significant aspect of Senate Finance Committee maneuvering on the "windfall" oil profits tax is not unsurprising gains by the oil industry but unexpected anti-oil votes by Republicans, setting off shock waves from corporate boardrooms to political backrooms.

The modest good news for the oilmen is that the Senate committee's tax bite is less severe than the House-passed version. The painful bad news is that this is no thanks to the committee's eight Republicans. On key issues lost by oil, the Republicans split 6-to-2 against the industry.

The 6-to-2 GOP margin meant the committee said "yes" to higher taxation on "old" oil (pre-1973 embargo) that was passed by the House; "no" to an exemption for all "stripper" (small) wells; "no" to an exemption for all independent drillers. These votes mean that unless unexpectedly changed on the Senate floor, the Senate bill is sufficiently similar to the House bill to block any compromise version that would not risk killing the new exploration and production.

Besides an agonizing reappraisal of whether their Washington lobbyists are earning the big money paid them, oilmen also are pondering the value of firm ties to the Republican party. The Republican senators, supposedly devoted by party policy to the supply-side economics of rising production, have split into consumer-state and producer-state camps regardless of party label or economic ideology.

Evans

The golden cord linking oil and the GOP has been stretched thin. Republican National Chairman William Brock and Senate leader Howard Baker have expressed concern to the finance committee members. Oil state Republican senators are charged, with the issue reaching the weekly closed-door meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee. Republican fund-raisers and petroleum contributors are reassessing 1980 election finance plans.

The seeds were planted back in January when vacant GOP seats on the finance committee were filled. Three staunch allies of the oil industry were gone — Nebraska's Carl Curtis and Wyoming's Clifford Hansen, both retired; Nevada's Paul Laxalt transferred to more pleasant duties on the appropriations committee.

Replacing them was Malcolm Wallop, a Wyoming conservative, but also two liberal Republicans: Pennsylvania's John Heinz and Minnesota's David Durenberger. Although that meant for the first time in memory a majority of finance committee Republicans were from consuming states, there seemed no reason for industry concern about President Carter's windfall profits tax.

A politically unpopular president boosting a high-tax redistribution of wealth seemed abhorrent to Republicans formally committed to business incentives through tax reduction. One of those consumer-state Republicans, Sen. William Roth of Delaware, is co-author of the Kemp-Roth tax reduction bill and the Senate's leading proponent of supply-side economics. Finally, the stolid Curtis had been succeeded as the committee's senior Republican by a forceful oil ally: Robert Dole of Kansas.

But in fact, only Dole and Wallop heeded pleas by wildcatters to encourage exploration by exempting them from the tax placed on big oil. Roth astonished lobbyists by reminding them Delaware is a consumer state; in other words, geography is thicker than ideology.

Dole proved that while he is incomparably more adept at one-liners than the departed Curtis, he is considerably less skillful at guiding the committee's Republicans. De facto leadership unexpectedly was assumed by Rhode Island's liberal John Chafee.

That geography smothered ideology was brought home in ironic fashion by freshman Sen. Max Baucus of Montana, a liberal Democrat whose election last year mortified business interests. But Montana produces oil; Baucus voted consistently pro-oil in the finance committee.

On an amendment to exempt "upper-tier" oil (from wells drilled after the 1973 embargo), the vote was first 10-to-10 (with a majority of Republicans opposed). Baucus then entered to cast the deciding vote for the exemption. Only after that did Republican Heinz change his consumer-state vote against the exemption to an unneeded vote for the exemption. The lobbyists were not enchanted.

That typified a Republican performance which led one oil industry executive to describe himself to us as "disgusted and disheartened." Apart from millions of words they have printed in the Congressional Record about cause and effect between taxes and productivity, the Republicans are proving that the economic indicator they really follow is their finger in the political wind.

Team of explorers discover tribe living in 'stone age'

LONDON (AP) — A team of explorers on a round-the-world expedition has discovered a primitive tribe living in "stone age" conditions in the jungles of Papua New Guinea, a reporter with the expedition said today. The 15 to 20 members of the tribe live in the central highlands, an area known for cannibalism, said reporter Martin White of Press Association, the British domestic news agency. White said the expedition came across the tribe in a valley while examining the unmapped upper reaches of the Strickland River. Tribesmen, communicating in a four-language process of English, local pidgin and two native tongues, said the explorers were the first white men they had seen and almost the first strangers from outside their own valley, White said. He said nine members of the tribe were being held on cannibalism charges in jail in the nearby town of Nomad. "There may be more unknown tribes in this area," expedition leader Roger Chapman said. In a dispatch from the coastal town of Lae, White said the tribesmen live in stone age conditions although they use a few metal hunting axes bartered from neighboring villages. Chapman said his team called in an Australian airforce helicopter to leave the area and the tribe "just clutched their pigs — their most prized possessions — and looked on amazed as we lifted off."

Two convicted of murder in hijacking in which 34 died

LOD, Israel (AP) — An Israeli military court today convicted two young Palestinians of murder in the worst terrorist attack in Israel's history, the March 1978 bus hijacking in which 34 Israelis died. A three-judge panel announced its verdict in a military courtroom in Lod, 10 miles southeast of Tel Aviv. Haled Hussein, 18, and Hussein Fiad, 19, who were convicted on all 13 charges sat expressionless as the verdict was read. The military prosecutor did not ask for the death penalty, and life sentences were considered likely. Sentencing was set for Thursday. In defiant statements to the court after their convictions, Hussein and Fiad reaffirmed they acted in behalf of the Palestinian cause. Hussein and Fiad were the only survivors of an 11-member guerrilla band that landed on the Israeli coast March 13, 1978. The Palestinians seized a bus full of Israelis on a weekend excursion, and the bloody rampage along the coast-

No pursuit of IRA, say hawks

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Hawks within Prime Minister Jack Lynch's Fianna Fail Party plan to introduce a motion in Parliament Wednesday condemning a secret agreement he made to let British military helicopters from Northern Ireland fly five miles into the Irish Republic in "hot pursuit" of IRA guerrillas. The hardline faction, which is pressing for British withdrawal from strife-torn Northern Ireland, is demanding Lynch scrap the agreement made last month by Irish Foreign Minister Michael O'Kennedy and the British cabinet minister for Northern Ireland, Humphrey Atkins, following the assassination of Earl Mountbatten by the Irish Republican Army. The British wanted the right of hot pursuit for their ground troops, but that was politically impossible for Lynch. The Fianna Fail hawks are led by Health Minister Charles Haughey, who is considered Lynch's chief rival within the party. Lynch fired him in 1970 after he and another government ministers were charged with smuggling arms to the IRA's Provisional wing. Later Haughey was cleared and made a comeback.

Crisis threatens spy bases

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A demand for $2.5 billion in military aid and Turkey's new political crisis threaten to delay an agreement insuring the continuance of U.S. spy bases in the Soviet Union's southwestern neighbor. There is no threat to close the bases again, but an official of the Turkish Foreign Ministry said the United States wouldn't be allowed to use them indefinitely unless a formal agreement is concluded. Four installations that monitor Soviet space centers, nuclear tests and Black Sea fleet movements reopened a year ago following the repeal of a ban on American arms sales to Turkey. A one-year permit for their operation expired Oct. 9, but the Turkish government extended it for three months. Negotiations resume Nov. 5. Premier Bulent Ecevit resigned last week following heavy losses in a midterm election Oct. 14. His chief opponent, former Premier Suleyman Demirel, probably won't be able to put together a majority, and a general election may be necessary. This period of political uncertainty could delay the conclusion of a treaty after other issues are resolved.

The accord, known as the Defense Cooperation Agreement, appeared close to conclusion a month ago. But Turkey added a list of military hardware it wants over the next five years to modernize its 500,000-man armed forces, which anchor the southeastern flank of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Crime prevention needs public's help: Craddick

By PATSY GORDON
News Staff

Midlanders must get involved and find out what's happening around them, State Rep. Tom Craddick told members of the Kiwanis Club on Monday.

The meeting, held in The Midland Hilton, kicked off the second annual Crime Prevention Week in the Tall City, sponsored by the Midland Crime Prevention Commission.

Craddick said the purpose of Crime Prevention Week is to make citizens more aware of increased crime in the county and city and to show what they can do to slow it down or even prevent it. "But the public's help is needed," said the lawmaker. The people must accept their responsibility, he added.

Craddick compared crime statistics in 1978 with those reported through September of this year. The results are:

Assault, 150 last year, 172 this year; auto burglary, 266 and 171; auto theft, 225 and 228; murder, 6 and 10; rape, 19 and 13; robbery, 24 and 24; residential burglary, 385 and 313; business burglary, 276 and 262; vandalism, 1,083 and 845; and theft, 646 and 659.

Craddick mentioned that one reason for the increase in Midland's crime rate is the big turnover of people. "The type of people coming in have something to do with the increase," he said.

Craddick listed some of the bills introduced in the legislature that will help fight crime. One is an insurance bill that calls for a 20 percent reduction in home insurance if a crime prevention group gives a homeowner suggestions on how to make his home secure and the homeowner follows them.

Some of the suggestions include marking property and installing better locks or some type of maximum security.

A bill passed by the State Legislature on speeding tickets states a violator cannot be rated higher on insurance. Craddick's said he feels the violator has been fined according to law and should not be penalized again by the insurance company.

Concerning maximum security, Craddick explained that since the Crime Prevention Unit of the Midland Police Department went into effect, of the homes surveyed by the unit all but three have been burglarized.

Sgt. Lalo Camarillo of the Crime Prevention Unit told the Kiwanis that his unit will go into a citizen's home to help give better maximum security to the residence.

He pointed out that it takes only about 45 minutes to complete the survey. But if people have questions he or Officer Steve Otto will answer them.

Home security will be one of the workshop topics at a seminar slated Wednesday at the Girl Scout Service Center, 901 W. Dengar Ave. The workshops will begin at 9 a.m. Other topics will include rape, alcohol prevention and drugs.

Attorney Gen. Mark White will speak at a noon luncheon scheduled immediately after the workshops.

Both the workshops and the luncheon are open to the public. The workshops are free of charge and the luncheon is $4 per person.

MC music instructor wins Authors and Publishers award

Don Haddad, music instructor at Midland College, has been named recipient of a 1979-80 American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers award for several compositions. He also received the award last year.

"These awards ... reflect our continuing commitment to assist and encourage writers of serious music. They are granted by an independent panel and are based on the unique prestige value of each writer's catalog and the performances of his compositions which are not reflected in the survey of performances," according to ASCAP president Stanley Adams.

Haddad, who joined the MC music faculty in 1977, is renowned both as a French horn player and as a composer of a diverse range of music for brass ensembles, woodwind ensembles, jazz groups and mixed groups.

Panelists who selected this year's award recipients were Frank Battisti, chairman of the music education department at the New England Conservatory of Music; Richard Dufallo, music director and conductor of Twentieth Century Music at the Juilliard

School of Music; Dr. Edwin Heilakka, director of the division of music education of the Music District of Philadelphia; Milton Katims, artistic director of the School of Music of the University of Houston;

Ursula Oppens, noted pianist and founding member of the Speculum Musicae, and Dr. Paul Wohlgetmuth, choral conductor and chairman of the Department of Fine Arts at Oral Roberts University.

Venezuelan minister raps Marine landing

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The U.S. Marine landing last week at Guantanamo Bay was "an excessive demonstration of force" that undermined the credibility of the United States and demonstrated that the U.S. government can err dangerously in its evaluation of crises, Venezuela's foreign minister told the Organization of American States today.

Jose Alberto Zambrano, in a speech prepared for delivery to the 9th OAS general assembly, said relations between his country and the United States were "solid and cordial."

But he said the landing of 1,200 Marines at the U.S. naval base in Cuba in response to the presence of several thousand Soviet combat troops in Cuba was "unfortunate because the excessive demonstration of force in a situation difficult to qualify as an authentic crisis undermines the credibility of the United States, which is responsible for maintaining world peace, and can result in dangerous errors of evaluating possible future situations of true crisis."

Zambrano added that the U.S. military exercise tended to polarize the countries of the Caribbean.

Group wants end to martial law

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Opponents of President Park Chung-hee called today for an immediate end to martial law in Pusan, imposed last week after violent anti-government demonstrations.

Government officials said the military rule decree would be lifted in "a couple of weeks."

In Pusan, the martial law commander eased the 10 p.m. curfew to restore the usual midnight-to-4 a.m. curfew, which is imposed across the country except for a few places.

A dissident group led by former President Yun Po-sun issued a statement demanding that troops be withdrawn from Pusan and nearby Masan; and saying the government should seriously consider and recognize the real causes for the recent disturbances.

The National Alliance for Democracy and National Unification said "violent expedients" would not be able to stifle the people's sentiment against the Park regime.

Kim Young-sam, leader of the opposition New Democratic Party, whose expulsion from the National Assembly sparked the four days of riots in the two southern cities also demanded today that the government lift the emergency decree of 1975 which outlaws criticism of the government or constitution.

"I am willing even now to go out to tell the people to calm down and wait if they (Park and his ruling Democratic Republic Party) make a firm commitment for a new constitution," he said.

Park acknowledged that last week's riots showed there was considerable dissatisfaction with the government. But he denied the ouster of Kim was a major factor.

Will Morocco get U.S. weapons?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's decision to arm Morocco with potent helicopters and powerful reconnaissance planes could run into stiff resistance in Congress.

"Friendship does not obligate us to support a war that cannot be won nor a cause that is not just," Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said Monday after the announcement.

Solarz, chairman of the House North African subcommittee, said the decision is incompatible with U.S. principles and interests.

But at the State Department, a high official told reporters the arms will make King Hassan strong enough to negotiate a settlement over the phosphate-rich, and potentially oil-rich, former Spanish Sahara.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said the arms were insufficient for Hassan to gain a victory.

The king, considered a moderate by U.S. policy makers, claims the territory for Morocco. His troops held two-thirds until Mauritania, an ally, withdrew last summer.

The Moroccans then pushed into the remaining third. Their claims have the quiet support of Saudi Arabia. But Hassan is locked in a war with the independence-minded Polisario guerrillas, who have backing from Algeria and Libya.

Along with the helicopters and planes will go U.S. training in use of the new equipment and in counterinsurgency methods. But that depends on Congress not vetoing the sales, as it has authority to do.

Solarz said in his statement: "The decision will encourage intransigence rather than flexibility. It will prolong the war rather than shorten it."

The New Yorker said Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ohio, who is chairman of the House Middle East subcommittee, has supported his position.

West took the queen of spades and saw that declarer could surely win two hearts, four clubs and three spades. The only hope for the defense was to take four diamond tricks at once.

SHREW LEAD

West therefore shrewdly led the king of diamonds.

East had to play the deuce of diamonds since a signal with the ten of diamonds would cost a trick.

In theory, East's deuce of diamonds told West: "Switch to another suit. I'm not interested in diamonds." But West knew that one isn't always dealt the right cards for encouraging signals. West continued diamonds, and East defeated the contract.

Time to recover, Rebs, and get ready to tackle those Big Spring Steers, and this Friday night at Memorial Stadium. You played a good game against Cooper, and we're really proud of you, (especially since YOU are the only team that has scored against the No. 1 ranked team in the state). Keep your spirits high, 'cause we're still got some tuff teams to take on.

Well, like Varsity, like J.V., our Stonewall Brigade also had a frustrating day, as it also lost to Copper 10-3. Just wait 'til Friday, Rebs, when we take on those Steers!

If you didn't see it you really missed a spectacular parade as our band, floats, Rebelettes and cheerleaders filled the air with that traditional Rebel Pride. Following our fantastic parade our Rebels burned that Cooper Cougar, as the spirits high, the bon fire was ended as our Lee High Chorale sang Dixie.

Saturday night, our homecoming dance turned out to be a great success as our D.J. played those disco-tunes, as feelings of emotions filled the air with reunited friends of yesterday whose friendship will last forever.

As our reigning beauty of Rebeland was crowned for the year, Jill Mutschler, was selected as our homecoming queen of Dixie Land. With the four runners up as our dutchesses, Melinda Cravens, Phylis Pete, Jennifer Rankin and Lisa Sherrod, our court truly glistened with beauty as they rounded the field for the final showing. Congratulations, girls!

B.C. says: 100 Club, remember to set up for Co-tillion Thursday. Junior Council (all but one) be here Friday a.m. to put the Y.C. back in order. Junior Council and 100 Club be here Friday afternoon to set up for the Victory Dance Friday night. Everyone be here Saturday at 10 a.m. to put the place back in order.

Get ready to Boogie Down once again Friday night immediately following the game, as we celebrate another Victory in Rebeland. Be sure to be there Saturday afternoon in Big Spring as our Stonewall Brigade destroys those Steers.

Congratulations to our Rebelettes who won the decoration contest. First place locker was Wade Colburn; second was Gary Butler and third was Joe Windsor. The lockers looked great, girls; keep up the good work!

So everyone come out to the Pep Rally Friday morning as we get hyper and go crazy to see who is going to win the spirit stick!

Thanks, Grapevine, for the records to make our Dixie Disco great!

Until next week!

Texaco, Tenneco discover Baltimore Canyon gas zone

By PETER MATTIACE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Industry and government officials say it's too early to tell if Texaco and Tenneco have discovered the first commercial gas field off the coast of the eastern United States.

Texaco said Monday that its leased semi-submersible rig Ocean Victory struck natural gas about 105 miles east of Atlantic City. Technicals made the discovery during the first test near the bottom of the 15,699-foot hole.

The latest strike is only 1.5 miles south-southwest of a "significant" natural gas discovery reported by Texaco in August 1978. It is also only 1.1 miles northwest of a discovery by Tenneco of gas and oil in the same well in May and June.

Texaco spokesman James F. Robertson refused to say whether Texaco and Tenneco geologists believe they have tapped the same gas reservoir.

Robert Goff, the Atlantic area oil and gas supervisor for the U.S. Geological Survey, said it is too early to tell whether the firms have discovered the first commercial gas field off the eastern United States.

"There's a lot of economic analysis to be done," Goff said. "There will probably have to be a lot of additional holes drilled before they can determine whether they can set a platform out there and begin production."

But another Interior Department official, who asked not to be identified, said "we may be getting close" to the first commercial field.

"With a little further testing, we might find that there's at least one commercial gas field in the mid-Atlantic," the official said.

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., a major Northeast supplier, has said proven gas reserves of at least 2.5 trillion cubic feet would be needed to bring the gas ashore profitably.

There have been 16 dry holes reported in the Baltimore Canyon Trough geological formation since exploratory drilling began 19 months ago. Seven oil companies have given up on the area, at least temporarily.

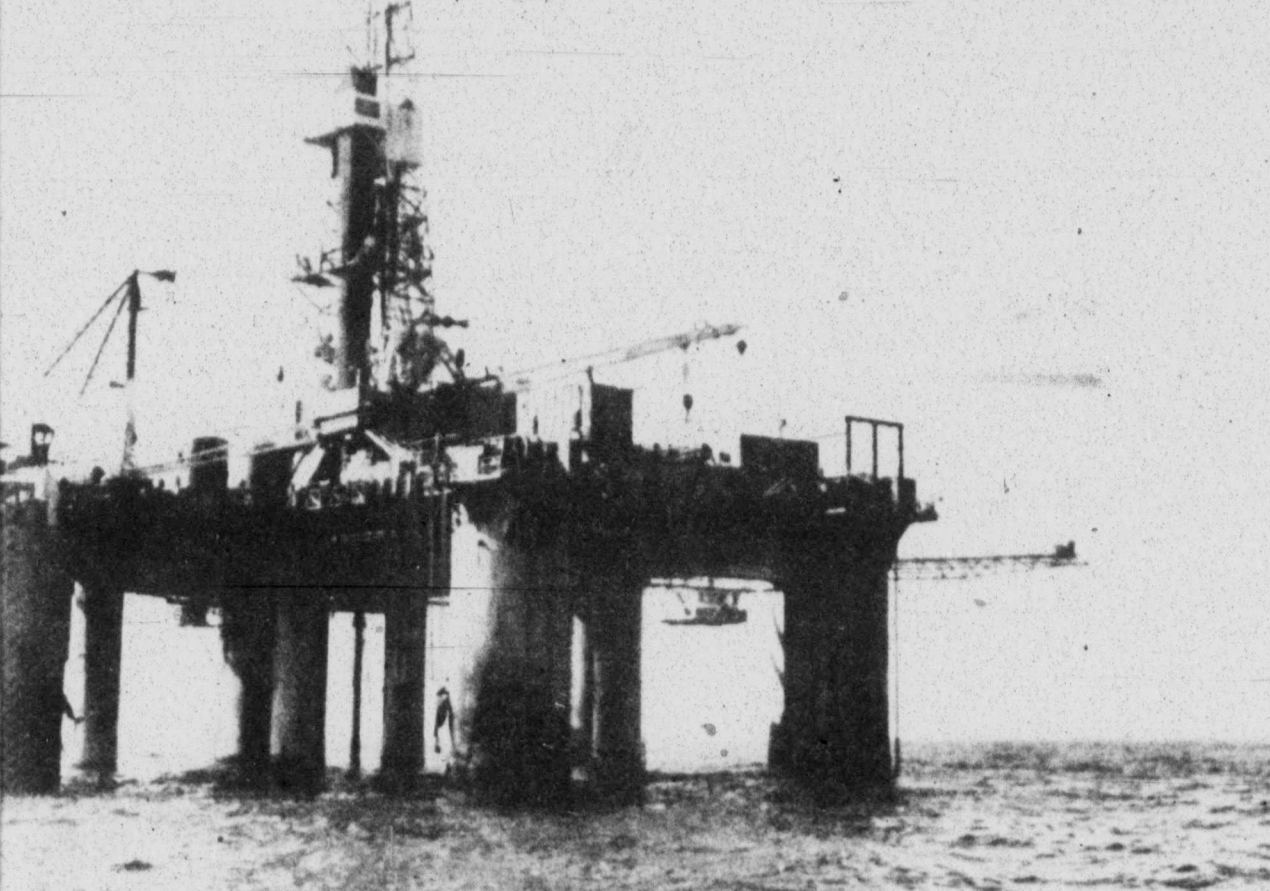

Texaco said the natural gas flowed at a rate of 5.5 million cubic feet a day, less than the 7.5 million cubic feet reported in the first Texaco well and also much less than the 12 million cubic feet reported in the Tenneco strike.

Texaco also said the well yielded hydrocarbon condensate, a natural oil-like byproduct of deep natural gas finds, at a rate of 18.2 barrels a day.

The three gas strikes were made more than 13,000 feet below the seabed, Texaco said it would test for gas and oil at higher levels in the hole.

Texaco said it would then move the Ocean Victory a few miles to the north in an further attempt to determine the size of the reservoir.

Texaco is the only firm still drilling off the mid-Atlantic. Murphy Oil Co. of Arkansas plans to begin its first exploratory well in mid-December about 30 miles southwest of the latest find.

A flare burns brightly on the Texaco semi-submersible drilling rig "Ocean Victory" during the testing of natural gas in the Baltimore Canyon trough area off Atlantic City, N.J., recently. Texaco announced Monday that it has struck natural gas, the third such strike in the area, at a depth of 15,500 feet. (AP Laserphoto)

The latest Texaco attempt, its third in the area, was a "confirmation well" to determine the extent of the gas reservoir. A second confirmation well about 1.5 west of the first strike was reported dry on March 12 "without encountering oil or gas in producible quantities," the company said.

The Texaco well was actually drilled just within the boundary of the nine-square-mile lease tract owned by the Tenneco group. The Texaco and the Tenneco groups split the estimated $19 million cost of the latest well.

Texaco holds 31.5 percent of its tract, which also includes Getty Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Allied Chemical Corp., Transco Companies Inc. and Freeport Minerals Co. The Tenneco group also includes a subsidiary of R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc.

The U.S. Geological Survey recently estimated there may be about 4.1 trillion cubic feet of recoverable natural gas and 600 million barrels of recoverable oil off New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

The latest estimates, which have been revised downward several times in recent years, would mean that the area could supply all of the nation's gas-needs for only about two months and all its oil needs for only about 30 days.

In January, a consortium of 11 oil companies led by Chevron discovered a "significant" quantity of natural gas below 15,744 in a well about 30 miles southwest of the Texaco-Tenneco strikes.

The well was being drilled to gather geological information for the participating companies and not to find gas or oil. The government, however, said the strike showed "potentially good reservoir sandstones and organic-rich source rocks."

As is practice with such wells, the hole was capped and abandoned without significant testing for reserves.

Scurry, Cottle gain tests

Independent Exploration Co. of Houston spotted No. 2 Webb as an 8,300-foot wildcat in Scurry County, 6.5 miles southeast of Snyder.

It is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 89, block 3, H&GN survey. Ground elevation is 2,284 feet.

The site is one location south of Independent Exploration No. 1 Stella Mae-Fenton Webb, recently struck, 8,300-foot wildcat.

COTTLE TEST

Perkins-Prothro Co. of Wichita Falls No. 1 Martin is a new 5,000-foot wildcat in Cottle County, 18 miles northwest of Paducah.

It is 2,628 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of F. P. Knott survey No. 10 and two and one-eighth miles west of an 8,023-foot dry hole. It also is two and seven-eighths miles west of the Cee-Vee (Canyon) field which produces at 4,708 feet.

Wreaths come packaged individually, with decorative pine cones and Christmas-red ribbon, and make unusual gifts, especially for someone who "has everything."

The annual wreath sale provides funds for many programs and services for the retarded citizens of Midland. Persons wishing to order Christmas wreaths may call 682-9771 or send orders to the MARC office, 2701 N. A. Checks should be made to MARC. All contributions are tax deductible.

The MARC office, 2701 N. A., is the focal point for Texas Special Olympics training, a sitter-companion service, the Pop Bottle weekend social club, monthly mothers' meetings for parents of children enrolled in MISC special education classes, meetings open to the public offering information programs on retardation, and a summer residence camp for retarded citizens. An on-going information and referral effort is also head-quartered at the MARC office.

...THE MIDLAND MUSIC TEACHERS ASSOCIATION finalized plans during their recent meeting for their annual Duet Festival, 1-4 p.m. Nov. 3 to be held at various music teachers' studios throughout town.

Students participating in the festival will receive a certificate and a rating.

Mrs. C.J. George, student affiliate chairman, announced during the meeting that the Midland Student Affiliate poster received first place at the Texas Music Teachers Association held in June at Corpus Christi.

EXPLORER SCOUT POST 19 OF MIDLAND is featured in the November issue of The Western Horseman, the world's leading horse publication.

The scout post was featured because of its uniqueness. Here are some excerpts from the magazine article written by Bill Sloan.

"The word 'scouting' may call up mental images of small boys in khaki uniforms and red neckerchiefs tying knots, building fires Indian style, and helping senior citizens across streets. But for the 21 young members of Explorer Scout Post 19 of Midland, Texas, scouting means many horseback hours in the rough back country where the southeastern corner of New Mexico cuts into west Texas.

"Post 19 is unusual for a couple reasons. It is (as far as anyone has been able to determine) the only 'western heritage' Explorer unit in the United States, and as such is the only one concentrating on horses and horsemanship as its primary challenge and activity. It's also one of few co-educational posts around the country. Many Explorer units are still made up entirely of boys, but Post 19 includes 10 teenage girls along with its 11 young male members.

"Although all the members of the post are from the urbanized Midland-Odessa area of West Texas, many of them own and train their own horses and have been riding since early childhood. And in the four years since the post was organized, several of its graduates have tested their skills on the rodeo circuit.

"The idea for this special approach to Scouting originated with J.W. 'Dub' Watley and his wife, Joy, both of whom serve as post advisors. When Dub became involved in Scouting 15 years ago as the scoutmaster of a regular Boy Scout troop, he was asked to help care for the herd of horses on the 6,000-acre Buffalo Trails Scout Ranch in the rugged and remote Davis Mountains, 150 miles southwest of Midland. Watley began spending a couple of weekends each month at the ranch, and was immediately thankful he had previous ranching experience during his younger days in Dickens, Texas."

These students at Midland Christian School are practicing for the balloon shaving booth to be available, along with many other booths, at the school's annual Fall Fun Festival, slated from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday. Having fun are, from left,

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Some people sure have evil minds. (Including you!) Why should anyone suspect Beverly of hanky-panky because she leaves home at 6 a.m. for a 15-minute drive to a job that doesn't begin until 8 a.m.?

I'm not due at my job until 8 a.m., but I always get there at 7 a.m. That's the only time of day I don't have to put up with ringing telephones and kids yelling and fighting. The office is quiet, and I use the time to organize my day's work.

Also, I take the bus, and it's never crowded at 6:30 a.m., the traffic isn't as heavy, and I never have to stand up.

I can't see dashing through the office door just before the clock strikes 8 the way most of my co-workers do. Some are so nervous they arrive at 8 a.m., prepare coffee and sit around drinking it until 8:30! — NO SLACKER IN TWIN FALLS

DEAR NO SLACKER: Let's hear it from Dottie.

DEAR ABBY: I must come to the defense of Beverly, the perfectly groomed, beautiful woman who leaves her house at 6 a.m. for a 15-minute drive to an office where she isn't due until 8 a.m.

A reader asked what she did with all that extra time. He even hinted that perhaps she arrived at work disheveled — and with a few spangles missing.

Well, I leave my house at 5:50 a.m. and arrive at 6:10 a.m. for an 8 to 1 job because I like it that way!

I make no stops and arrive as neat as when I left home. No one is at work, either, in case you might think I'm meeting someone there.

Early birds are ruffled

I set things up for my day's work, and if I have something special that requires my full concentration, I prefer to do it then. I also read my newspaper in peace and quiet.

I'm sure there are many others who arrive at their jobs early for legitimate reasons. — DOTTIE

DEAR DOTTIE: You're right, of course; and I need not look far to find one. My devoted secretary, Katie Beal, who has been with me for 23 years, isn't due at her desk until 8 a.m., but bless her, she's frequently there at 7. (She calls herself, "Abby's Irish Rose.")

DEAR ABBY: I have a strange (and touchy) problem. We recently retired and moved to a lovely resort town. In the six months we've been here, we've had five different couples from all over the country visit us. Some stayed a weekend. Others longer.

Our guests use a sofa-bed in the library where all our books are kept. Several days ago my husband and I were discussing a certain book, so I went to get it. It was gone. In fact, on the same shelf I saw four "holes" where four other books had been. I hate to think that one of our house-guests had taken these books, but there is no other explanation.

I have made a practice of writing my name in the flyleaf of all my books, but, of course, the flyleaf could have easily been torn out.

My question: If I should visit the home of one of these guests and see a book I'm sure is mine, should I ignore it, or say something? And if you think I should say something, what should I say? — DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Don't ignore it. Say, "I see you were so fascinated with my book that you took it home to finish it. May I have it now?"

CONFIDENTIAL TO MOTHERS OF CHILDREN UNDER 7: For a treasury of easily understood information about nutrition, health care, discipline, and how to get along with your child, I recommend Nancy M. Thurmond's wonderful book, "Mother's Medicine." (At all good book stores.)

Houses have doctors, too

In this era of specialization, even houses have their own special doctor. He's called a roofing contractor.

And because his area of expertise is as unfamiliar to a person as that of a medical doctor, a person must be careful when selecting a specialist to operate on the upper of his home.

It's important that the roofing contractor is trusted, rather than feel he's trying to take advantage by performing unnecessary surgery and transplants just to pad his bill.

To help select a roofing contractor, here are some tips.

(1) CHECK CREDENTIALS. Call the Better Business Bureau. Also, find out if the contractor is a member of any local organizations, like the local roofing or remodeling contractors association. They can also recommend contractors.

(2) CHECK REFERENCES. Ask for a list of previous customers. Call them to see if they were satisfied with the work, and ride-by their homes to take a personal look.

(3) GET ESTIMATES. Request bids from at least three contractors. Be sure the contractors are bidding on the same material and quality of workmanship.

(4) PAYMENT FOR THE WORK. Reliable contractors will not require final payment until work is completed. Common practice is to request 50 percent down, and the balance upon completion.

Once the specialist is selected, insist on a written contract. This document is the best assurance that the job will be completed as expected. It is also recommended the following items be spelled out:

Precise materials to be used, including brand names.

Precise work to be done.

Completion date of the job, and any penalties if not done.

Warranties on the material.

Installation method — to meet local building codes and to be in accordance with manufacturer's instructions.

Who is responsible for cleaning up afterward.

Whether or not the contractor is adequately insured — for his own personnel and for your home.

Total price, including the exact method of payment.

Also, remember the law allows cancellation of any contract signed in a home within 72 hours of signing.

Police outside the Nevada State Prison early Monday wrestle with a man protesting the execution of Jesse Bishop. The man is identified as Ross Brymer, a former prisoner and friend of Bishop. The ACLU and several church organizations also protested the death. (AP Laserphoto)

A hoax, or the truth? Bishop carries murderous tale to grave

By BRENDAN RILEY
CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Police say it's possible. His family calls it a hoax. But the truth about 18 alleged murders was locked — perhaps forever — behind Jesse Bishop's half smile as he sat down in the Nevada gas chamber and died.
Bishop, executed early Monday for killing a man in a Las Vegas casino in 1977, concocted a bizarre story about 18 other murders as part of an elaborate escape plot, a family spokesman says.
The spokesman — Bishop's older brother who declined to be named — said Bishop "just wanted an opportunity to get outside and try to escape." He termed the police report about the slayings — released shortly after Bishop's execution — "pure, unmitigated b.s."
Authorities never gave the tough-talking convict a chance to lead them to any graves. Instead, they agreed to Bishop's demand that the information not be released until after his death.

Judge sets January execution for Stafford, denies new trial

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A judge on Tuesday sentenced Roger Dale Stafford to die Jan. 17 for murdering six steakhouse workers during a $1,300 robbery.
"I'm innocent, I didn't do this crime," Stafford said before the sentencing by District Judge Charles Owens. The judge had the choice of either accepting the jury's recommendation that Stafford be executed or of ordering a new trial.
Oklahoma law specifies that executions be carried out by injections of lethal barbiturates.
But lengthy appeals of Stafford's conviction in the July 16, 1978, mur-

Celina cheerleader, paralyzed since August, dies early today

DALLAS (AP) — Cindy Morris, 17, a Celina High School cheerleader paralyzed from the neck down in a fall last summer, died early today of internal bleeding, Presbyterian Hospital officials said.
"She developed complications during the night and died of internal hemorrhaging at 2:05 a.m.," said Presbyterian spokesman Bill Mays.
Cindy, the daughter of Celina School Superintendent Perry Morris, was the object of fund-raising activities in her hometown of Celina, billed Cindy Morris Day, one month ago. Local residents held a bake sale, a magic show, a garage sale, kissing booths and games to raise money for Cindy's soaring medical bill. More than $50,000 was raised while she was in the hospital.
"Everybody has been real good," said Morris. He said Cindy, who was stricken with cancer of the kidney at the age of 7 and had been cured, kept her spirits high until the end.
"We feel like Cindy is in a better place now. She's happy now. She's walking now. She had said that she would walk again — either here or in heaven," he said.
Morris said Cindy died when a blood vessel in her neck ruptured and "she just bled to death." He said the artery had been weakened by a breathing device inserted in her neck, without which she would have suffocated.
Cindy was injured in August during a cheerleader workout in Celina, a small town in Collin County north of Dallas. She broke three vertebrae, and doctors said she would never walk again.
Morris said her death was painless. "She went real fast."

Judge imposes six life sentences on confessed 'Hillside Strangler'

By RICHARD DE ATLEY
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quietly repeating, "Yes, I did," Kenneth Bianchi admitted taking the lives of five women in the "Hillside Strangler" slayings that terrorized Los Angeles and was sentenced to six life prison terms.
"I wish I had the power to run the sentences consecutively, but in this state they must be merged as a matter of law," Superior Court Judge William B. Keene told Bianchi as he imposed the terms Monday.
Bianchi's pleas were part of a bargain struck with authorities, allowing him to escape the death penalty for strangulations here and in Washington state in exchange for his testimony against his cousin, Angelo Buono.
Buono had been scheduled to be arraigned in connection with 10 of the slayings after Bianchi was sentenced Monday, but his attorney won a two-week delay. Attorney Ronald Bain later said he may ask to have the case removed from Southern California, where the killings occurred between October 1977 and February 1978.
The killings were called the "Hillside Strangler" slayings because the victims were found dumped on slopes around Los Angeles and Glendale. All the victims were young women.
Bianchi, a former security guard, also pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to commit murder and kidnap — which brought another life sentence — and to one count of sodomy, for which he received a five-year term.
Each count stated Bianchi committed the crimes "in conjunction with" Buono, a Glendale upholsterer.
"I am satisfied with what's been done," Deputy District Attorney Roger Kelly said after Bianchi was sentenced. "Now we will be able to prosecute Mr. Buono, and that gives me a great deal of satisfaction."
Bianchi was ordered to the California Men's Institution at Chino to begin serving his prison term. Under state law, he will be eligible for parole in seven years.
Meanwhile, a Rochester, N.Y., newspaper reported Bianchi's mother and stepfather had moved from their home there to an undisclosed location in an effort to escape reporters and the notoriety of Bianchi's confessions.
"She's gone through hell," a neighbor, who was not identified, told the Times-Union. Said another: "Everybody was asking questions about her son, saying factless things that hurt her deeply."
On Friday, Bianchi told a Bellingham, Wash., court he strangled two Western Washington University coeds. He received two consecutive life sentences there.

After Bianchi's plea and sentencing in Superior Court, Buono made a brief appearance in Municipal Court, where his arraignment on 24 felony charges was continued to Nov. 5. No plea was entered during the appearance.
Because "special circumstances" are alleged in Buono's case that could result in a death sentence if he is convicted, Buono was held without bail in county jail.

Brennan says he's considering retiring from Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan Jr. confirmed today that he is considering stepping down from the nation's highest court this summer.
Through a court spokesman, Brennan said he has given "some thought" to retiring at the end of the court's current term in June or July.
The Washington Post, in today's editions, quoted unidentified sources as saying the 73-year-old Brennan has told former law clerks he will reach some decision about his future in December.
Court spokesman Barrett McGurn stressed, however, that "the justice has made no decision to retire. He has, however, given some thought to the question of retiring."
The Post said Brennan indicated he was giving serious thought to retirement during an annual reunion with his former law clerks last Saturday night. The Associated Press could not obtain confirmation of Brennan's remarks.
The newspaper said Brennan indicated to others that his wife's ill health is a factor in his considerations.
"The whole tone of the evening was as if this was the last (reunion)," an unnamed person who attended the function told the Post.
Brennan, appointed in 1956 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, has been on the court longer than any of the other current justices.

Escapée, accomplice held in Kansas

COOPER, Texas (AP) — Delta County Sheriff Benny Fisher was en route to Kansas early today to pick up a jail escapee and his accomplice.
The pair, along with another jail inmate, fled the Delta County Jail in Northeast Texas, early Sunday. The third man, Johnny Beavers, was captured Sunday in Bonham.
He said Alfred Norman "Butch" France Jr. and Jimmy D. Nipp had waived extradition.
France, a trusty, let Beavers out of his cell when Nipp came to visit them in jail about 1 a.m. Sunday, Fisher said. He said France also helped with dispatch duty.
France, 38, of Cooper, was in jail awaiting transport to the Texas Department of Corrections to serve a life sentence as a habitual criminal. The escape was his third since May 1978. He had been convicted of burglary, and faces trial on forgery and escape charges.

Watson denied parole

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Charles "Tex" Watson, a former Manson family member, has been turned down by a three-member parole board in his second bid for release from the California Men's Colony.
Watson was found unsuitable for release Monday from the prison where he is serving a life sentence for his involvement in the 1969 Tate-LaBianca slayings in Los Angeles.
Watson will come up for parole review again next year, said Gary McComber, executive officer of the Community Release Board in Sacramento.
As the man who once referred to himself as Charles Manson's "lieutenant for killing," Watson was convicted in 1971 of seven first-degree murder counts.
The 33-year-old former high school athlete claims to be a born-again Christian and has served as associate pastor of the prison chapel since 1976. He was married last Sept. 7 on the prison grounds to 21-year-old Kristin Svege of San Luis Obispo.

THE CONTINENTAL SHORTCUT.

FOUR WAYS CONTINENTAL CUTS THE TIME TO NEW YORK.

1. Continental has found the fastest way into New York. With service to Newark Airport, Newark's fifteen minutes less flying time than if you head into JFK. It's also in a different traffic pattern. You'll avoid those stackups that happen so often over JFK.
2. You save time on the ground, too. Newark serves about 15,000,000 fewer passengers a year than JFK. So you still have a good chance of getting your baggage in a reasonable amount of time, without the frustrating delays.
3. Because Newark is modern and well laid out, people are able to come and go without the huge jams you get at most international airports. You can get through the terminal without the shoving, crowding and delays that cut into your time.
4. You can get into Manhattan about 45 minutes faster from Newark than from JFK. That's according to the Official Airline Guide.

not us. So you spend far less time caught in time-consuming traffic.
Finally, Continental saves wear and tear on your soul. We've grown up giving warm, friendly service. We take the extra steps that make flying something more than an airborne bus ride. Call your travel agent, company travel department, or Continental at 563-2100.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Dialysis can be arranged

Dear Dr. Solomon: My wife would very much like to visit her family in Paris for our 25th wedding anniversary. My problem is that I'm on hemodialysis. Is there any way of arranging for temporary dialysis in a foreign country? — Mr. S.G.

Dear Mr. G.: The National Assn. of Patients on Hemodialysis and Transplantation publishes a booklet, "Dialysis Worldwide for the Traveling Patient," which lists facilities for temporary dialysis in the United States and abroad. The organization stresses the importance of prior application and the need to furnish a physician's recommendation for treatment. For full information, I suggest you contact Ms. Margaret Diener, NAPHT's executive director, at 505 Northern Boulevard, Great Neck, N.Y. 11021.

Dear Dr. Solomon: When our oldest son started college this fall, it was the first time he was living away from home. Although I feel confident about the kind of person he is — a good student with many friends and varied interests, and a good son and brother — I am concerned about the college environment, particularly the use of drugs, which I understand is widespread. Is there anything I can do to help make sure that he doesn't get involved with drugs? — Mr. and Mrs. L.V.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. V.: Apparently you've done quite a bit already. The type of person you describe is not likely to get involved with drugs to any significant extent.

Dr. Leon Wurmser, director of the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program at the University of Maryland, says that compulsive drug use generally reflects serious individual and family pathology. From what you say about your son, this description does not seem to apply to him or to your family.

In his book "The Hidden Dimension," Dr. Wurmser lists four characteristics of family life that foster the use of drugs: aggressive and sexual overstimulation, lack of consistency, deceptiveness and intrusiveness. Reading between the lines of your letter, I don't think you have much to worry about.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Has the civil rights movement of the past several years made any difference in the life expectancy of blacks in this country? I wonder if they might be catching up to whites in this category. — Rod

Dear Rod: There is evidence that blacks are living longer than they were a decade ago, but I can't say how much of this is attributable to the civil rights movement. The National Center for Health Statistics reports that the difference in life expectancy between whites and blacks has been reduced from seven to five years in the past decade. In 1977, life expectancy for whites at birth was 73.8 years; for blacks and other races, 68.8 years.

In all, there were 10,000 fewer deaths in the United States in 1977 than there were in 1976. Heart disease continued to be the major cause of death, accounting for 719,000 of the 1.9 million deaths during 1977; cancer was the second leading cause. Women continue to outlive men by about eight years.

Approval of marijuana use comes too late for lobbyist

By JENNIFER GAVIN

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Keith Nutt was breaking the law each time he smoked marijuana to ease the pain of his cancer treatments. Just hours after he died, the state of Michigan made his remedy legal.

Nutt, 23, the first cancer victim in Michigan to publicly admit smoking marijuana, died Monday before Lt. Gov. James Brickley's signature made Michigan the latest state to allow the use of the drug for medical reasons. Nutt had lobbied for the legislation.

"I feel very strongly that this was Keith's greatest contribution to his fellow man," Mae Nutt, Keith's mother, said in a telephone interview from the family's home in Beaverton. "I just hope the public health department implements it as fast as possible."

"I'm very sorry about his death," Brickley said. "But I hope his relatives and loved ones can take some comfort. I think this is a very humane piece of legislation and will certainly help those who need all the help they can get."

Nutt told a state Senate committee in March that use of the drug eased the side effects of the chemical treatments for his disease.

"Smoking marijuana helps relieve the nausea and helps me eat," he said. "I don't feel I should have to go outside the law to get something that helps me."

Debra Negen, a 21-year-old leukemia victim from Grand Rapids, was instrumental in getting the bill through a House committee two weeks ago. She told the lawmakers chemotherapy could make her vomit up to 15 times in 5 hours.

The minister's daughter said members of her family scoured the streets for her marijuana at the risk of arrest to ease the "living hell" of cancer treatments.

The bill signed by Brickley in the absence of Gov. William Milliken was sponsored by Rep. Stephen Monsma, D-Grand Rapids. It allows the use of marijuana by cancer chemotherapy patients and by victims of glaucoma.

Dick Klaver, an aide to Monsma, said it may take four months or more for the state Department of Public Health to draw up plans and receive federal approval to dispense marijuana medicinally.

Under the new law, patients can use the drug only after their doctors and the state health department agree. They can buy marijuana only through state-designated drug stores.

Panel to urge update of nuclear regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission, calling nuclear power dangerous, will urge a re-vamping of the way the federal government regulates the nuclear industry, commission sources say.

But the commission, wrapping up a six-month investigation of the accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant in Pennsylvania, stopped short of calling for a halt in future construction or licensing of plants or interfering with the operation of existing reactors.

The final touches on the panel's report were completed Monday after three days of closed meetings. During the sessions, commission members remained deeply divided over whether to call for a moratorium on future plant licensing until their safety recommendations could be acted on.

The commission, whose 12 members were appointed in April by President Carter to investigate the March accident, will present its findings and recommendations to the White House Oct. 30.

The recommendations will only be advisory. But Carter has called the panel's task "one of the most important ever undertaken," and its suggestions are expected to strongly influence the nuclear industry.

None of the commission members or more than 50 professional staff members would comment publicly on the draft report. But according to several sources who asked not to be named, the panel's recommendations and findings will include:

—A reorganization of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, abandoning the current five-member regulatory panel and putting in its place a single administrator along the lines of, for instance, the Environmental Protection Agency. The presidential investigators, during seven public hearings and in private comments, have strongly criticized the NRC, saying the agency has trouble with internal communications and has not given safety a high enough priority. The NRC makes all its decisions by a majority vote, a procedure the agency's own staff says is cumbersome during an emergency.

—Require the federal government to renew nuclear power plant licenses at regular intervals. A plant is currently licensed only once, although the certificate can be revoked.

—Require future power plants to be located in "low population zones," which would mean reactors could not be placed close to major cities. Currently, there are power plants north of Chicago and New York City.

—That news media coverage of the Three Mile Island accident was generally accurate, based on information provided by federal officials and utility spokesmen.

—That utility officials as well as both federal and state authorities were ill-prepared for a nuclear accident such as occurred at the plant near Harrisburg, Pa., and that emergency procedures needed to be improved significantly.

The presidential panel, headed by Dartmouth College President John G. Kemeny, calls nuclear power "dangerous" numerous times in the report's overview, said the sources.

But it does not suggest nuclear power should be abandoned.

In a straw vote last week, at least six commissioners, including Kemeny, supported a recommendation that all new construction permits be halted until the group's findings were implemented by the president, Congress or industry. Some commissioners also favored a moratorium on future plant operating licenses.

But, the sources said, the six members could not get a majority to go along with the construction moratorium last weekend. They finally decided to leave the issue as "a matter to be reviewed" in the future, they said.

The sources also said the cost of the accident will be much higher than previously predicted by the plant's owner, General Public Utilities, if the crippled reactor is to be put back in service.

The investigators concluded, based on Stanford University study, that the overall cost of the accident will be $1 billion to $1.68 billion if the plants opens again.

Protesters seek lower health costs

WASHINGTON (AP)

— Older citizens brandishing copies of their medical bills were converging on Capitol Hill today to press for adoption of legislation designed to hold down hospital charges.

The House Rules Committee is scheduled to take up the legislation soon to clear the way for action by the full House later this month.

President Carter, who has been trying to get the hospital cost control bill passed by Congress for two years, says rising hospital fees must be capped before the nation can effectively fight inflation.

His bill would set guidelines for increases in hospital expenses and impose mandatory revenue controls on hospitals that fail to stay within them.

Debra Cloud, a spokeswoman for the ad hoc leadership council of aging organizations, said participants would fan out after the rally and go to congressional offices to seek support for the legislation.

Real Steelers stand up

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Denver Broncos' timing was off. They met the wrong team at the wrong time.

"The real Pittsburgh Steelers showed up tonight," quarterback Terry Bradshaw said after a revitalized Pittsburgh crushed Denver 42-7 Monday night in a National Football League game.

"They kicked our fannies. We got humiliated," said Denver quarterback Craig Morton.

The week before, the Steelers fumbled nine times in a 34-10 loss in Cincinnati. It was the worst Pittsburgh defeat in nine seasons, dating back to a 29-3 loss to Houston in 1971.

BUT BRADSHAW passed for 267 yards and two touchdowns in the nationally televised game and Franco Harris rushed for 121 yards and two more scores as the Steelers dealt the Broncos their worst loss since 1968, when they were thumped 43-7 by Oakland.

"That's the Steeler team I know," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll. "We were better in all departments. We got after it much better than we did last week. I think to a man we had everyone functioning the way we have to for us to win in this league."

The Steelers had been limited in practice in previous weeks by injuries. But last week, Noll had a virtual return to training camp, complete with conditioning runs and no-fumble drills.

IT PAID OFF as the Steelers climbed to 6-2 and into sole possession of first place in the AFC Central Division.

The Broncos, meanwhile, slipped to 5-3 and into second place behind San Diego in the AFC West. And Denver Coach "Red" Miller was downright displeased.

"We were outplayed, outcoached and very embarrassed in front of a lot of people," Miller said. "Not just here, across the country."

"This was the worst, most humiliating defeat in the 30 years I've been associated with football. And I don't like it. I don't know how anybody could stomach that and live with themselves."

By halftime, the Steelers held a 28-7 lead.

IN THE FIRST quarter, a 56-yard run by Harris set up an 11-yard touchdown pass from Bradshaw to Lynn Swann, back in the lineup after missing two games with a hamstring pull.

In the second quarter, Bradshaw's passing set up a pair of short touchdown runs by Harris and another by Sidney Thornton.

"Ever since the league went to a 16-game schedule, every team has a lot of ups and downs," said Denver linebacker Bob Swenson. "Last week, Pittsburgh was down. This time we were."

Bradshaw, who hit 18 of 24 passes, added a 17-yard scoring pass in the final quarter to Thornton. And Steeler rookie Anthony Anderson bolted 10 yards for his first pro touchdown with 26 seconds left in the game.

Denver managed its only touchdown in the first quarter on a 64-yard pass play from Morton to Haven Moses. Despite the lopsided score, Morton hit 16 of 31 passes for 261 yards, just six less than Bradshaw.

"We moved the ball well, but we didn't get many points," Morton said. "That's very discouraging. There's not much you can say except they really beat us. They scored a lot. We didn't."

THE STEELERS finished with 530 offensive yards compared to 329 by Denver. On the ground, Pittsburgh netted 236 yards, compared to Denver's 53, and the Steelers did it without their usual trap blocking.

"Most games, we'd trap our grandmother if she was there," said Bradshaw. "But not tonight. We went straight at them. We went back to basics, big men against big men. And I think that surprised them."

Meanwhile, the Broncos left here sounding like the Steelers did the week before.

"It's back to the drawing board for us, back to basics," said safety Bill Thompson. "It's a bitter pill to swallow. But we've got to get going and get ready for next week."

The Steelers figure to stick to basics this week as they prepare to meet Dallas here Sunday.

"We played fundamental football tonight, Steeler football," said linebacker Jack Ham. "Before, we had guys banged up and we were practicing half-speed, and all of a sudden we were playing half-speed."

"But last week in practice, the guys were keyed up. We had a great week, a super week. We were decking people in practice and we were ready to play tonight."

"Now, we have to go back and practice that same way."

Forgotten Cowboy 'D' makes Cards remember

Just as the offense drew the plaudits for its execution of the Los Angeles Rams a week earlier, praise was heaped on the Cowboys' defense for its effort in the 22-13 win over St. Louis Sunday.

It's as though the defense had been on vacation, but really the Cowboys' defense has come up with four creditable defensive performances in a row and really, eliminating the disastrous first period at Cleveland, five in a row.

But one thing seems to be clear, the defense is jelling. Coach Tom Landry and the players all seem to agree with that.

A TEAM WHICH had a league low seven sacks after four games, has flected opposition quarterbacks 12 times in the last two games.

"I think we are coming together," says veteran tackle Larry Cole. "St. Louis was hurt a little bit, but we are moving and we can make the plays. I think it started halfway through the Cleveland game and since then we have been building confidence in our ability to play."

But Cole believes you see that throughout the NFL, at least among the teams that will make it to the playoffs. "About this time of year, they are getting better."

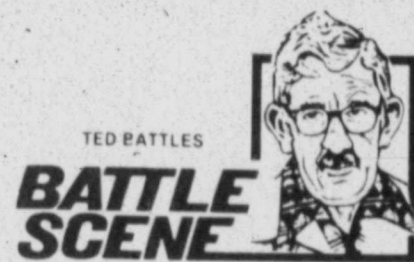

As for O.J. Anderson amassing more than 100 yards against Dallas, the second week in a row, a rival back has done it and the second time this year that the St. Louis rookie has gone over 100 against Dallas, Cole says, "It's a funny thing about running backs. You don't have to give them a lot of years of experience. They either have it or they don't. And Anderson, even though this is his first year in the league, is one of the best out there. He's up there with Campbell, Payton and Dorsett."

COLE FELT THE pressure exerted on St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart was vital in the Cowboys' success.

"He has such a quick release, you can't afford not to keep the heat on him. I think our secondary is more comfortable now working together as a unit."

There was a time after the loss of Charlie Waters for the season, that the coordination of the defensive secondary had all the ear marks of a Chinese Fire Drill. It wasn't helped any by the loss of Ed "Too Tall" Jones to the heavyweight boxing ranks and his 6-8 pass rush or the retirement of savvy old pro Jethroe Pugh. But now the unit performs, helped no little by a more effective pass rush, as the Rams' Pat Haden and Cardinals' Hart will attest.

HART BLAMED some of the Cardinals' problems on mistakes and penalties, but you would have to say their defense stopped us. They blitzed normally against us, so I guess you'd have to say their defense is stronger because we didn't score as much against them. I don't know why they had so much pressure, but let's just say their was more pressure than usual."

Cole pointed out that the early moments of the game were critical and perhaps revealed Dallas' the maturity Dallas might not shown a few weeks ago.

"They came out with a wing in the backfield and we had to make quick adjustments. Sometimes you encounter something new like that and you are down 14-0 before you can adjust."

AS FAR as the Cowboys' defensive unit is concerned, Roy Green's 108-yard kickoff return just didn't happen. Or at least, they weren't going to shoulder the responsibility that belonged to the specialty unit.

"I don't believe they scored a TD on our defense," asserted three-sack man Randy White. "We are going out and thinking about stopping people instead of worrying about what they are going to do."

Linebacker Bob Brunenig also subscribed to the Green-touchdown-wasn't-our-fault theory. "They scored only six points, two field goals. There was mass confusion early in the game and in the first quarter because they did come out with some new formations we were not ready for and we were off balance for a while. When that happens, you've got to apply a defense that will contain it until you find out what they are trying to accomplish, and that may take a couple of series."

Off in a corner, overlooked, as usual, linebacker D.D. Lewis was confiding to a few close friends and probably relatives, that Tom Landry had grave misgivings going into the game. "He was scared that we were fooling around a little too much during the week and hadn't concentrated. Of course, you never know. You practice good sometimes, and play bad. And then you practice bad and play good. But we weren't looking past this game, because St. Louis is good. They should be 5-2 instead of 2-5."

Kurt Allerman, the linebacker from Penn State, who probably didn't play in five losing games during his entire college career, doesn't like losing and may have summed up the frustration of the Cardinals. "It is obvious there are little things that we are not getting done to get over the hump. We're making too many mistakes. I don't know what it do about. I don't know what all it will take to get us back over the winning hump, but we have to do something. I'm dang tired of losing."

Alabama retains first spot, Longhorns topple in grid poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Defending national champion Alabama held onto first place today in The Associated Press college football ratings while Nebraska moved into second place and Texas, last week's runnerup, skidded all the way to ninth.

Alabama, a come-from-behind 27-17 winner over nationally ranked Tennessee, received 52 first-place votes and 1,341 of a possible 1,360 points from a nationwide panel of 68 sports writers and broadcasters.

Nebraska, which trounced Oklahoma State 36-0, moved up from third place to second with six first-place ballots and 1,266 points. Southern California, which was No. 1 until a 21-21 tie with Stanford a week ago, whipped Notre Dame 42-23 and climbed from fourth to third with nine first-place votes and 1,198 points.

The other first-place ballot went to Ohio State, which clobbered Wisconsin 59-0 and vaulted from sixth place into a tie for fourth with Arkansas with 1,089 points. The Razorbacks, 10th last week, upset Texas 17-14.

Despite a 37-10 triumph over Southern Methodist, Houston slipped from fifth to sixth with 1,070 points. The Cougars meet Arkansas this week-end.

Akers blames self for upset

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas' failure to land an early knockout punch against Arkansas cost Texas the game Saturday, says Coach Fred Akers.

Akers, however, took the blame himself Monday for the 17-14 loss.

No. 10 Arkansas upset second-ranked Texas at Little Rock, Ark., when a 51-yard field goal kick into a strong wind failed on Texas' last play.

"I don't think we completely let go of the Oklahoma game soon enough,"

Akers said. "Somewhere down the line I failed to get the team fully ready for that (Arkansas) game."

Texas had defeated Oklahoma 16-7 the previous week.

Referring to scoring opportunities in the first quarter against Arkansas, Akers said, "We had our chances to get things settled right then. If we had, I don't think there would have been a problem."

However, Akers told his weekly news conference, "It's time to tighten our belts and not sit around sucking our thumbs. We have a tough conference race — we're not out of this thing. I hope our team can learn from that (loss) and overcome whatever we have to win this thing, because I think we still have a chance."

Asked about his controversial decision to try for a field goal, rather than a first down, on fourth-and-10 at the Arkansas 34, Akers said:

"They only had 30 yards to defense and could put a lot of people in a lot of places. They had more defenders than we had receivers. The field really gets small when you down there trying to find openings. ... We could have tried one of those 'Hail Mary' passes but that's really rolling the dice. We felt our chances at a field goal were much better."

He said John Goodson had been kicking field goals of up to 57 yards into the wind in practice before the game, but he "hit the ball so poorly — it just never had a chance."

Asked about an unsuccessful 41-yard Goodson field goal attempt in the first quarter, Akers said a team manager stationed behind the end zone to retrieve the ball said the ball "went right over the bar (upright) — it was very close."

"What's the rule?" Akers was asked.

"It depends on which field you're playing on," he replied.

On fourth-and-19 quarterback Donnie Little had hit Johnny "Lam" Jones with a 23-yard pass for a first down on Texas' final futile drive, and Akers was asked if he thought at that point Texas would win.

"Yes, I thought we had a chance to win, I really did."

The noisy Arkansas crowd quieted momentarily after the play, and Akers said, "I'm sure a lot of them thought, 'Here it comes again.'"

The drive stalled at the Arkansas 34, however, and Goodson's "knuckle ball" kick was short and wide left.

Akers said all three of Texas' starting backs were injured in the Arkansas game, with A.J. "Jam" Jones apparently the most likely to miss the Southern Methodist game on Saturday.

Jones' reinjured his shoulder and was scheduled for an X-ray. Little aggravated a muscle strain in his chest that is expected to prevent him from throwing in practice, and LeRoy King bruised his hip.

Second-team halfback Carl Robinson suffered a shoulder separation and will be sidelined for up to three weeks, Akers said. Sub linebacker Mark Martignoni has a shoulder bruise that will keep him out of the Southern Methodist game.

Sophomore Rodney Tate, 6-foot and 180 pounds, will work out at Jones' position, and Brad Beck and Kermit Goode will get additional training at running back.

Neither Beck nor Goode have played this year.

Although ABC-TV chose linebacker Chuck Holloway as Texas' outstanding defensive player, Texas coaches selected tackle Steve McMichael for the honor.

Akers said McMichael had 21 tackles, including 15 unassisted. Twenty-one tackles "is almost unheard of" for a lineman, Akers said.

Center Wes Hubert, who graded in the high 80s, became the first lineman this year to be chosen by the coaches as the best offensive player.

"I felt we could win the ball game, regardless of where we played or anything else," said Akers. "But we didn't play well enough to win, and that fact is glaring."

Abilene Cooper still No. 1, Jasper drops in prep survey

By The Associated Press
Jasper lost on the field and at the ballot box last week to drop from the No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll while last week's Class 2A leader, Pittsburg, won a narrow victory but lost out to Childress in the rankings.

Jasper, which lost to Little Cypress-Mauriceville on a 34-yard field goal by Don Richards with two seconds left in the game, fell to No. 8 this week as Kerrville Tivy rolled into the No. 1 position after a 41-0 rout of Pleasanton.

Abilene Cooper in Class 4A and China Spring in Class A meanwhile continued to lead their classifications but Pittsburg, which edged New Boston 14-7 last week, finally gave way to the heated chase by Childress.

Childress trailed Pittsburg by only two points in last week's balloting and reached the top this week by a 178-172 point margin. Pittsburg polled 11 first place votes to four for Childress.

San Antonio Randolph lost its second game of the season, a 10-0 shutout by Boerne, and dropped from the 2A list to make room for No. 9 Medina Valley, 7-0.

Cooper defeated No. 9 Midland

Lee 28-14 to drop Lee from the poll and Killen disappeared after a 22-8 loss to Bryan. Plano, ranked third last week, dropped to eighth after a 3-0 loss to Richardson.

Klein, No. 9, and San Antonio MacArthur, No. 10, replaced the two 4A dropouts. Klein is in the same district with No. 3 Conroe and MacArthur faces a tough test this week against San Antonio Churchill.

San Angelo Lakeview, rated eighth last week, fell to 10th this week behind No. 8 Jasper and No. 9 Cuero after a narrow 6-3 victory over Snyder.

Glen Rose, fourth last week, jumped ahead of Hawkins in the only change in the Class A top 10.

Midland Lee narrowly missed the top 10 in 4A with 16 points while Odessa Permian had 11. Lewisville and Lubbock Monterey also received mention.

Bay City, 5-1, received 16 points in the 3A voting while Raymondville got 14, including one first place vote, and defending state champion Brownwood got 10.

Barbers Hill, which received 24 points, almost edged out Hondo for 10th place on the 2A poll. Unbeaten Boyd and Montgomery also received consideration on the Class A ballot.

1978 Triple Crown winner Affirmed is retired before rematch with Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Affirmed, thoroughbred racing's 1978 Triple Crown winner, has been retired to stud, ending all speculation — even Bud Delp's — that there would be a match race with Spectacular Bid.

Trainer Laz Barrera announced the decision Monday at Aqueduct. It was a decision that he made for Harbor View Farm's Louis Wolfson, and it came one race earlier than expected. The 4-year-old son of Exclusive Native was expected to start in Saturday's $250,000 Turf Classic at Aqueduct.

The timing of the announcement apparently was influenced by Affirmed's distaste for running on grass. He worked a mile Sunday under jockey Laffit Pincay. The time was slow, and Pincay said the colt was cautious and uncomfortable with the surface.

Delp, trainer of Spectacular Bid, had been campaigning for a match race with Affirmed. Contacted at his home in Laurel, Md., Delp said: "I'm disappointed, naturally. My first concern is that Affirmed was healthy, and they assured me that he was."

Bid and Affirmed were locked in a close duel for Horse of the Year honors until Affirmed beat Bid by three-quarters of a length in the Jockey Club Gold Cup Oct. 6 at Belmont Park in Affirmed's last race.

"They're going to rest with their laurels, and they hope he will be voted Horse of the Year," Delp said. "I think we're still in the running."

Affirmed, syndicated last year for $14.4 million, is thoroughbred racing's only $2 million winner — earning $2,393,818 in his career with 22 victories, five seconds and one third in 29 starts.

His duel with Spectacular Bid for horse racing's MVP dominated the attention of racing enthusiasts in 1979, but Affirmed will be remembered best for his stirring rivalry with Calumet Farm's Alydar.

Alydar finished second to Affirmed in each of the 1978 Triple Crown races, by margins of 1½ lengths, a neck and a head.

Utah Jazz nab first NBA victory

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Jazz Coach Tom Nissalke, basking in the warmth of his club's first National Basketball Association win since moving to Utah, assured Jazz fans there will be more. But he backed up a qualifier.

The Jazz, playing the only NBA game scheduled Monday, squeaked by with a 110-109 victory over the Bill Walton-less San Diego Clippers. Recently acquired forward Bernard King sank a 5-footer with 12 seconds left to ice the win.

"If we continue to play with that intensity, we'll get our share of games," Nissalke said.

The first-year Utah coach may have been beginning to wonder. The Midwest Division Jazz had dropped their first four games of the young season since moving from New Orleans in the spring. And attendance at the 12,000-seat Salt Palace — 6,122 turned out Monday night — has been less than inspiring.

After King's bucket, San Diego guard Lloyd Free missed a 15-foot jumper, rebounded his own shot and put up a 10-footer. But that missed too. A pair of Clipper tip-in attempts also failed.

Nissalke said the Jazz planned to double-team Free in the final seconds "if he came off a screen, and it worked. Free is just an amazing player. He can do so many things."

The hot-shooting Clipper guard took game-scoring honors with 33 points. Shue said the absence of Walton, who stayed in San Diego with his sore left foot and has yet to play a regular season game, couldn't be blamed for the loss.

"He hasn't been working out for a month so I doubt it would have made a big difference had he been here," Shue said. Forward Sidney Wicks also remained home nursing a pulled groin muscle.

Nissalke said a key to Utah's future success may be the 6-foot-7 King, who came from the New Jersey Nets three weeks ago in exchange for center Rich Kelley.

"I'm pleased that Bernard is starting to play well. And he's doing really well defensively as well," Nissalke said. "We didn't especially design our last offensive play for King, but it worked out he got a good shot."

King finished with 16 points. Guard Pete Maravich was high for the Jazz with 28 and Adrian Dantley added 26.

King's winning basket followed by 15 seconds a 15-foot jumper by Clipper reserve Freeman Williams as the two clubs traded the lead in the final two minutes. Williams had 21 and Joe Bryant 14 for San Diego, 24.

Shula tabs Bob Griese as Dolphin QB starter

MIAMI (AP) — Don Shula has quickly answered one question — Who will start Sunday? — by naming Bob Griese to start at quarterback again.

But the answer to the larger question — What's wrong with the Miami Dolphin offense? — still escapes him.

Speculation that Griese would be replaced by Don Strock arose again Monday in the wake of the Dolphins' 28-13 loss at New England. But Shula, also noting that Strock on Sunday aggravated knee and ankle injuries suffered four weeks ago, said Griese is still his man.

"I'm going to start Bob," Shula said. "I'm sticking with him, hoping he can get it back together, not for one quarter, but for four quarters."

Strock replaced Griese with 7:13 left Sunday and the Dolphins trailing 21-13. Strock, playing for the first time since being injured, fumbled the center snap. Two series later, linebacker Mike Hawkins picked off a Strock pass and returned it 35 yards for the clinching touchdown.

"In retrospect, maybe I pulled him (Griese) too soon," Shula said. "I just second-guessed myself on that decision."

Shula said Griese will start against Green Bay with Strock available as a substitute "depending on how much work Strock gets this week."

"I'll also try to get (Guy) Benjamin some more work this week so he could be ready to play if Strock is hurt and I went to a substitution," Shula said.

Strock, 6-foot-5, 220, appears stronger and, when healthy, more mobile than the 6-1, 190-pound Griese. Griese's forte has been precision passing and masterful play-calling. But he's been intercepted nine times this season and hasn't been moving the offense well.

The Dolphins' offense, scoring at its slowest pace since 1970, has produced nine touchdowns behind Griese, compared to seven scored in Strock's six-plus quarters.

Another alternative is second-year quarterback Benjamin. But Shula hasn't felt Benjamin, who had an appendectomy Aug. 25, has been ready.

"The quarterback is the leader of the offense in our system. He does the play calling," Shula said. "It's just been a tough year offensively. We're not getting that consistency."

USOC has trouble figuring bill for national sports affair

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The United States Olympic Committee, snarled by red tape and hampered by poor ticket revenues, still has not been able to give Colorado Springs a bill for the National Sports Festival II held here in August.

The city guaranteed $285,000 for the Sports Festival but the USOC likely won't know until Dec. 1 how much of that the city will have to come up with, said Barron Pittenger, USOC director of special events.

"There's no question in my mind that we will require some of those funds," Pittenger said. "My guess is that it will be less than $200,000. But I can't give you an exact amount."

"One problem has been late or incorrect billings for airline tickets and equipment, Pittenger said.

"We're still working on our billings," he said. "It's just been an awful lot of paperwork involved. There are a lot of loose ends."

Although the festival was considered by many an athletic and competitive success, it did not meet financial expectations, particularly in ticket sales.

"We budgeted for $250,000 in ticket sales and we only had $220,000," Pittenger said.

The Olympic Committee has its headquarters and training facilities in Colorado Springs.

Beavers relieve Fertig

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State University football coach Craig Fertig was fired Monday, effective at the end of the season.

Fertig and Oregon State University President Robert MacVicar said in a joint statement that Fertig will be relieved of coaching duties and will accept reassignment at his current salary for the rest of his contract that runs until the end of 1980.

"The duties were not specified," Mr. Fertig agreed that he would assist in all possible ways in the transition to the new coach who hopefully will be named before the end of November, the statement said.

"Mr. Fertig wishes to reaffirm that he has not resigned as head football coach and that he will continue to function as the leader of this aspect of the university's athletic program with full authority to manage the football program until the end of the current football season," the statement continued.

The action came on the recommendation of the university's athletic board and Athletic Director Dee Andros on Oct. 10.

MacVicar did not return to the Oregon State campus from a business trip in Mexico until last Thursday.

MacVicar appeared in the Beavers' dressing room Saturday and commended Fertig on the team's performance following a 24-14 loss to San Jose State.

Fertig, former star quarterback at University of Southern California, became Oregon State coach in December 1975. His teams have won seven, lost 33 and tied one.

Fertig insisted all along that he would not resign, saying he would not quit on his team, which is winless in seven games this season.

Southern California and the Fighting Irish

College football's best rivalry?

By JIM MURRAY
(c) 1979, The Los Angeles Times Syndicate

It is a matter of record, as you know if you've been watching "Knut Rockne, All-American" on the late show, that when George Gipp rose up out of his death bed and said to Rockne, "Coach, someday when the going gets rough, and the boys are up against it, tell them to win one for the old Gipper," he didn't mean the Southern California game, he meant Army. At least, Rockne said he did.

It is a matter of record, that when Knute Rockne delivered his famous halftime locker room speech, "Fighting Irish? Well, you guys can tell grandchildren you're the first Notre Dame team that ever quit," it was not a Southern California game, it was Northwestern.

It is a matter of record that, "One Play" O'Brien's one play was against Army. Army figures in most Notre Dame legends. Army was the villain in the movies about Notre Dame.

BUT IT IS a matter of record, also, that the most durable and most widely exciting series Notre Dame has ever engaged in are the Trojan wars.

Army has long since dropped its role as a continuing opponent of the Irish after drawing some severe drubbings of late. The Ivy League has largely declined the issue. Yale last played Notre Dame in 1914. Princeton dropped out in 1924 after absorbing two licks. Dartmouth couldn't even handle weak wartime Notre Dame teams in 1944 and 1945, losing 64-0 and 34-0. Pennsylvania, more stubborn than most, finally threw in the towel after losing 42-7 and 46-14. Even back in the 30s, Penn was losing 60-20 and 49-0 to Notre Dame. The Big 10 plays Notre Dame as little as possible. Ohio State hasn't scheduled them since 1935.

But the Irish-Trojan series is football's finest hour. The best game I ever saw was the 1974 SC-Notre Dame game — 55-24. The best game I ever listened to on radio was the 1931 SC-Notre Dame game — 16-14. And, maybe, the best game I ever watched on television was Saturday's SC-Notre Dame game at South Bend — 42-23.

THE THING ABOUT SC-Notre Dame is, they never bore you to death. It's never one of those grimy, diddling defensive battles, like two woolly mammoths locked in a struggle in a tar pit. It's football the way it should be played. They constantly put 50, 60, 70 points on the scoreboard. Saturday they even produced 1,000 yards between them. In the days when Notre Dame's coach was Ara Parseghian and SC's was John McKay, it was like watching a clinic in offensive football. It made the pro game look like shuffleboard on a world cruise, dominoes at the California Club.

The very first SC-Notre Dame game was 13-12. The next one was 7-6 and drew 120,000 fans to Soldier Field in Chicago.

The wily Rockne first scheduled Southern California in 1926. In those days, the only person from Southern California anyone had ever heard of was Charlie Chaplin. But Rockne's teams in those days were called "The Ramblers" because, as a loner, they disdained joining any conference, and Rockne always wanted to put the show on Broadway, to play the Palace as it were. He scheduled West Point at the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium in New York, where he orchestrated the celebrated "Subway alumni." He played Navy in Baltimore, he played anybody he could in Chicago's vast amphitheatre, and, as a show biz ham himself of the first order, he hankered to put the show in front of the Hollywood crowd. If Rockne were alive today, he would find a way to play Vegas, I'm sure.

Rockne got a car named after him playing Chicago. He got 100 testimonials out of playing New York. But he got movies made about him playing in Los Angeles. He was flying to L.A. to make an instructional movie short when he was killed in a plane crash.

THE LAST GAME Rockne lost was to USC. The last game Rockne won was over USC.

In those days, Notre Dame's was a lineup of coal miners' sons, steel puddlers and railroad men. USC's were the descendants of the Anglo-Saxons who came West in wagons. Everybody on Notre-Dame had a last name that ended in an "I," "O," or "Y." Everybody at USC had first names like "Marshall," "Grenville," "Orville," or "Gaius."

Rockne put the team on the map. Without the Notre Dame game, USC would probably be an Iowa State, today.

When Rockne died, USC was one of the few clubs which didn't seize the excuse to drop Notre Dame. Rockne had first recommended his friend, Howard Jones, then at Iowa, for the head coaching job at USC. Having gotten him the job, he did him the favor of scheduling him. Jones was not a man to forget a favor, and neither were the university administrators who came along after him.

More than 120,000 people watched Notre Dame and SC play in Soldier Field in 1927. The largest crowd in the history of the L.A. Coliseum, 104,593 saw the 1947 Notre Dame-SC game. Rockne built a 60,000-seat stadium with his football revenues on campus, but he also built chemistry labs, a golf course, new dormitories, and his successors following his precepts, have made Notre Dame almost as powerful financially a private institution as Harvard. USC is also able to compete with publicly-financed institutions, thanks in no small measure to football revenues.

THE FOOTBALL fortunes of USC, thanks largely to the enormous population influx which would see people in the numbers of the entire population of Cincinnati moving in here annually, have outdistanced Notre Dame's of late. But the games, like Saturday's 42-23 outburst have lost none of their luster. The random recent sampling shows games like last year's 27-25, to say nothing of recent years of 49-19, 38-28 and 45-23. And then, of course, there was the year of the Great Mistake when Ara Parseghian's team defeated SC, 51-0, and it was to be seven years before they would defeat SC again.

Saturday's SC-Notre Dame game was in the grand tradition. Over 1,000 yards total offense, dazzling runs, a trademark of this series, acrobatic catches.

But if the Trojans start going back to South Bend to trim the Irish at home as they did Saturday, will it be Notre Dame's turn to start thinking about dropping Southern California from the schedule?

Now, what kind of a part would that be for Pat O'Brien? If Notre Dame ever tried that, look for a ghostly, staccato voice to echo through the locker room at the half. "Call yourselves Fighting Irish, do you? Running away from a good scrap? Why, in my day, we ran those Hollywood sissies right back to their surfboards. You drop them off the schedule and you can tell your grandchildren YOU'RE the first Notre Dame team ever to quit. Remember, that day at Northwestern, that team went out and won the game in the second half. You quitters don't even want a second half." There's precedent for a voice from above. In the 1930 game, Notre Dame quarterback Frank Carideo said that an unknown voice from the bench had told him to use a critical play. "How do you know it was an 'unknown' voice from the bench?" he was challenged. "Because," answered Carideo, "it was a lady's."

And that, too, was part of the mystique of the Irish-Trojan wars.

No, tennis star John McEnroe hasn't found a new way to play his game, rather he's sweeping the court of dirt thrown by spectators during his match for the Puma Trophy in Rome Sunday. McEnroe said it was doubtful he'd attend meets in Rome next year. (AP Laserphoto)

Blackwell cut loose by Pokes

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League placed second-year running back Alois Blackwell on no recall waivers Monday to make room for defensive end John Dutton, recently obtained from Baltimore in a trade.

Blackwell, a second-year back from the University of Houston, had not carried the ball this year.

In his rookie season, the 5-foot-10, 195-pound Blackwell carried the ball nine times for 37 yards.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said, "He is a pretty good back. Somebody will get him."

The Cowboys gave the Colts No. 1 and No. 2 draft choices in 1980 for All-Pro Dutton, who had a contract dispute with management and did not report to the team.

LUBBOCK — Midland High's Donna Repman Saturday was second of 140 runners in the Lubbock Invitational cross-country meet with a time of 12:22.4.

Next was Lisa Harrison, seventy-sixth, while Becky Miller was seventy-eighth, Eleanor Scott seventy-ninth and Jamie Walton 102nd.

Mike Williams may never forget costly fumble that hurt the Chiefs

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

There were 53 fumbles in the National Football League last Sunday.

No matter what you tell Mike Williams, he'll never think about the other 52.

No matter how you console him, he'll always blame himself for Kansas City's loss to the New York Giants.

And — Joe Pisarcik, Larry Csonka and Herman Edwards notwithstanding — he'll always be known around Arrowhead Stadium circles as the guy on the Chiefs who committed The Fumble.

IT WON'T MATTER to him that Pat Haden fumbled the ball for Los Angeles and San Diego's Wilbur Young ran it 3 yards for a touchdown.

It won't matter that Houston's Ronnie Coleman fumbled the ball and Cornell Webster of Seattle ran it 55 yards for a touchdown.

It won't even matter that this fumble, unlike the one perpetrated by the Giants upon their unsuspecting fans last Nov. 19, was a perfectly understandable one.

All that will matter to young Mr. Williams is that at 6:01 p.m., CDT, Sunday, his world caved in on him.

"Everybody's with me, which I'm grateful for," he said, "but that doesn't take away from what happened. I hate this feeling!"

THE FUMBLE WAS a copyright of Pisarcik and Csonka, the quarterback and fullback who conspired to give Herman Edwards the shock of his life — i.e., a 26-yard touchdown run with 20 seconds to play in Philadelphia's 19-17 victory.

It was a totally inexcusable one, you may recall. All the Giants had to do was fall on the ball. They didn't even need a first down. Nobody hit Pisarcik. He just tried to give the ball to Csonka's elbow.

The Chiefs' situation was entirely different. Nearly two minutes on the clock and a first down a necessity, with New York ready to use its time outs. Fall on the ball! It would have been tantamount to Kansas City falling on a sword.

When Mike Livingston gave Williams the ball, blitzing New York linebacker Brian Kelley was already on top of them, ready to try and strip it from the kid's grasp.

HE DID — AND AS it had for Edwards, the ball bounced perfectly for Harry Carson, another Giants' linebacker. Without breaking stride, he rumbled 22 yards into the end zone for the winning touchdown in New York's 21-17 victory.

"Brian really stuck him," Brad Van Pelt, another of the Giants' linebackers, said of Williams. "The fumble was justified. Last year it was a wonder."

And Giants' center Jim Clack acknowledged, "In truth, it can happen to anybody."

The Chiefs, too, lined up behind Williams.

"It wasn't that play that lost it for us," said running back Tony Reed. "But everyone is going to point at Mike and say that. That's not fair. We should have been 25 points ahead of them."

JAN STENERUD, Kansas City's placekicker, pointed out: "There are 45 people on a team and everyone of them has a bearing on whether we win or lose. This is a team game and I know that's a cliché but it's true. You win as a team and lose as a team."

Stenerud is particularly well equipped to talk about that sort of thing. He remembers when teammates were telling him that an entire team, not one player, wins or loses — after he missed a chip-shot field goal that would have given the Chiefs a 1971 playoff game, ultimately won in double overtime by Miami.

Ted McKnight, who was shaken up on an earlier play and replaced by Williams, said he "went up to him and tried to tell him, 'Don't worry, that we should have had them down 20 points and it shouldn't have made any difference. I wanted to make him feel a little better. But what can you say at a time like that? What can you say? I went by to let him know that I have an idea what he was feeling. It just seems we weren't supposed to take this one.'"

Will Erxleben return to form?

Highstepping halfback B. J. Terry of McCamey is rounding into mid-season form, as evidenced by the one touchdown he scored Friday night in the Badgers' 33-6 District 6-A victory over Iraan. The fleet junior was injured earlier in the campaign but seems to have shaken the malady. (Staff photo by Bruce Partain)

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans Saints coaches say it doesn't look like million-dollar kicker Russell Erxleben will return to the lineup by Sunday, even though he's punting well again.

Erxleben, the 11th player chosen in this year's National Football League college draft, is under a contract estimated to be worth $1 million over three years.

He suffered through a frustrating preseason hampered by a back pain that wouldn't let him kick with his usual power. That seemed to have cleared up by the final game of the preseason, and he was 2-for-2 on field goals and punting well in the season opener against Atlanta.

But before the next game, he pulled a hamstring muscle in his kicking leg and wound up on the injured reserve list. He ran, worked on weights and finally began light punting drills.

"He can punt, but he hasn't kicked field goals or kickoffs," Coach Dick Nolan said. "He started to kick a bit, but he had a little soreness — probably just due to inactivity."

"I told him that before he goes back into the lineup, I want him to be able to kick a 50-yard field goal and kick off."

"That's not to say he'll be kicking field goals, but we want him to be fully recovered. Who's to say he won't go in there and have it come back on him.

"I won't know for sure about Sunday until later in the week, of course."

Garo Yepremian has been kicking for the Saints, hitting four-of-four field goal attempts to extend his NFL record for consecutive successful kicks to 20. He was tied with two others at 16 when he joined the Saints after being cut by Miami.

Rick Partridge has been handling the punting duties, averaging 41 yards a boot but lacking Erxleben's spectacular hang time.

Special teams coach Whitey Campbell said nobody would take any chances on bringing Erxleben back too soon.

"We don't want him to go out there and reinjure it, and all of a sudden we don't have a punter against Washington," he said.

"The main thing now is can he get it off in time. This kid (Partridge) is getting it off in 2.1 seconds."

"We just want to be sure we get it off."

For the first time in the team's 13-year history, the Saints are atop the division standings midway through the season. New Orleans and the Los Angeles Rams are tied at 4-4 for the Western Division lead in the NFC.

"The only time you get excited is when you're leading at the end of the season. And that's a long, long way away," Nolan said. "We still have a long way to go." Quarterback Archie Manning said much the same thing: "It's too bad they don't give out playoff spots at the halfway point of the season. Then we'd really have something to celebrate."

Raiders' 'Kong' Hadnot nears 1,000 yard mark

DALLAS (AP) — James Hadnot, the guy you see on all those King Kong posters around Lubbock, is back atop the Southwest Conference rushing statistics after the Texas Tech senior rushed for 204 yards Saturday against Rice.

Hadnot needs only 72 more yards for his second straight season with better than 1,000.

He'll have to wait two weeks to try for the 1,000-yard mark because Tech is off a weekend before traveling to Austin for the Red Raiders' Nov. 3 meeting with Texas.

Hadnot has averaged 132.6 yards per game. A.J. Jam Jones of Texas is second with an average of 122.6 yards per game while Curtis Dickey of Texas-A&M is third with 107.2.

Hadnot also leads in tandem offense with an average of 135.4 yards per game rushing and receiving.

Arkansas' Kevin Scanlon leads the SWC in passing with a rating of 149.8 points.

The No. 1 receiver is Rice's Earl Cooper, a running back, who has caught an average of 4.6 passes per game.

In the team categories, Houston leads in total offense with an average of 376.2 yards per game.

Texas leads in total defense, allowing 168.4 yards per game.

Shavers fights injuries

NEW YORK (AP) — Earnie Shavers suffered serious eye damage during his loss to World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes last month and has undergone delicate surgery, the New York Post reported in its Monday editions.

The Post said it had learned that Shavers had surgery on Oct. 11 to repair a torn retina. A spokesman for Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore confirmed that Shavers was a patient there, but would not comment on report he had undergone surgery. The Post also said that Shavers' boxing career might be over.

Shavers could not be reached for comment. But the newspaper quoted him as being optimistic, if uncertain, about his future.

"They'll release it in a couple of days when all the tests are in," Shavers was quoted as saying about his plans.

There has been speculation that Shavers was blinded in one eye, but the boxer joked with the Post about it, saying, "I'm blind in both eyes. No, don't believe that. Those people don't have to worry as long as they're not paying my bills."

"I'll be in the ring in six months. I can't believe the progress I've made. I could leave here tomorrow. I want to straighten out those rumors," Shavers was quoted as saying.

The Post said the specialist who had performed the surgery, Dr. Ronald Michels, would not discuss the nature of the eye injury. "Earnie has asked me not to reveal anything," Michels said.

Shavers has four daughters and lives in Mecca, Ohio. Shavers, who lost to Holmes by knockout Sept. 28, needed stitches near both eyes after their bout. He told the Post he did not have any vision problem until he returned to his home after the Las Vegas fight.

About three days later, things looked blurry," Shavers told the Post. "I went to Cleveland to get it checked out, and they sent me here. I got stuck (thumbed) in both eyes. I got thumbed in the left eye in the third round and the eye closed right up."

The Post said Shavers' manager-trainer, Richie Giachetti, had advised his fighter to quit.

"I don't think he should fight anymore," Giachetti said. "Not after the punishment he took from Larry."

Losing streak concludes for hard-luck Tornadoes

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

It seems that all things really do come to those who wait. And nobody has waited any longer than the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes.

Following six straight reversals — several of them caused by their own hand — the Tors Friday night finally experienced the thrill of victory, a 7-2 decision over the Sweetwater Mustangs.

And — believe it or not — the triumph left Lamesa, 1-6 for the season, in a deadlock with San Angelo Lake View for first place in District 3-AAA.

Also notching district-opening victories Friday were Reagan County of District 9-A and McCamey of District 6-A.

Coach Melvin Burns' Owls put together a nifty 35-0 whitewash of Menard as seniors Mickey Tom Owens and Kent Burleson contributed heavily. Owens intercepted three Menard passes and threw two touchdown strikes while Burleson, one of the area's premier runners, notched 118 yards on the ground.

REAGAN COUNTY, 5-1 overall, is in a three-way tie for the 9-A throne room with Mason and Junction.

Meanwhile, McCamey had their high-octane offense in overdrive enroute to a solid 33-6 spanking of Iraan. Brent Rhodes, B. J. Terry, Mike Hanks and Raul Arana ran wild over the Braves as the Badgers increased their overall mark to 5-1-1 and their district log to 1-0, which ties them with Marfa for loop leadership.

Several outfits were tagged with league setbacks including Andrews, which absorbed its first defeat of the season.

The Mustangs ran smack dab into Pecos and the Eagles emerged with a hard-fought 14-3 victory. Pecos raised their overall mark to 7-0 and grabbed an early lead with Odessa Ector in what promises to be an exciting District 2-AAA pennant chase. Andrews topped to 6-1 overall with the defeat and 0-1 in district.

Things went from good to bad for the Stanton Buffaloes in their drive for a shot at the District 5-A crown as they were shocked 10-9 by Plains. The Cowboys blocked a Craig Eiland field goal attempt late in the contest to seal the victory. Stanton's 2-1 in 5-A and 4-1-1 for the year while the surprising Cowboys are 3-0 in the circuit and 4-2 overall.

Two clubs squared-off in non-conference assignments and each came away with a victory. Rankin of 6-A needed Dennis Black's fourth quarter 69-yard scoring romp to insure a 22-18 verdict over pumped-up Wink that gives the Red Devils a 4-2 register. The Red Devils rushed for a whopping 316 yards, which may be a sign they're geared for a charge at the 6-A title.

IN THE other non-district tussle, Crane apparently found the formula for paydirt as the Golden Cranes walloped Van Horn 32-7. Brian Cunningham and Kevin Thompson each accrued more than 100 yards rushing in the Cranes' most impressive offensive showing to date as the 7-AA club increased their overall reading to 3-3.

Other nonconference action — all involving 7-AA teams — saw Fabens trim Kermit 17-16, Alpine scuttie Ozona 14-0 and Sonora shade Cathedral 14-7.

As far as the district races shape up, a dogfight appears in the offing in 2-AAA, especially after Ector's convincing 27-7 dismantling of Fort Stockton, which sent shock waves through the Petroplex. The Eagles, 6-1 overall, and Pecos' Eagles are each 1-0 in the loop.

Over in 3-AAA, Lake View did it with mirrors again, this time nipping Snyder 6-3, as the Chiefs and Lamesa are deadlocked for first.

Seagraves continued their remarkable play, blasting Anton 48-0, to go 3-0 in 5-A and 6-0 overall. They're definitely the team to beat.

Also in 5-A, Shallowater rebounded from two straight losses with a 40-0 decision over hapless Forsan while O'Donnell side-stepped Ropesville, 7-0.

Knotted with McCamey in 6-A is Marfa, a 30-21 winner over Clint, while in 9-A the other two tilts saw ranked Mason dump Eldorado 21-7 and Junction-ship past Wall 20-6.

New England's Clayborn withdraws appeal of fine for battle with scribe

NEW YORK (AP) — New England Patriots defensive back Raymond Clayborn, fined $2,000 by Commissioner Pete Rozelle as a result of his altercations with sports writers, has withdrawn his request for an appeal, the National Football League confirmed Monday.

Clayborn threatened Bruce Lowitt, an Associated Press sports writer, after the Patriots' 16-13 overtime loss to Pittsburgh in the teams' Monday night season opener. The following Sunday, after the Patriots beat the New York Jets 56-3, Clayborn threatened and poked Boston-Globe sports writer Will McDonough in the eye and the two scuffled briefly.

Rozelle announced the fine Oct. 2 following a hearing.

Clayborn, through the NFL Players Association, said shortly thereafter that he would appeal the fine. But last week he changed his mind and, the NFL confirmed, said he was withdrawing his request for an appeal.

A young demonstrator crouches, holding a revolver after snipers fired from a hilltop and buildings into a crowd of anti-government demonstrators Monday. Witnesses reported two persons were killed and many others were wounded. Authorities said the shooting may have developed because of a split between factions that oppose the new junta. El Salvador's new regime labeled 'moderately leftist'

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — El Salvador's new military-civilian junta has named a cabinet, choosing liberally from many groups long opposed to the right-wing government overthrown last week. The five-man junta, of three civilians and two colonels, on Monday appointed Ruben Zamora, a Social Democrat, minister of the presidency, a key cabinet post. The foreign relations ministry went to a Christian Democrat, Hector Darra Hirez, who left immediately for a meeting of the Organization of American States in Bolivia. Named defense minister was Col. Jose Guillermo Garcia, one of the group of military officers involved in the Oct. 15 coup that toppled the government of Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero. He was the only army officer named to a cabinet position. Earlier Monday, gunmen fired from hills and rooftop positions at anti-government demonstrators. Witnesses said two persons were killed. Rival leftist groups appeared to be feuding during the march that began in the industrial suburb of Soyapango and ended with shooting here. The leftists are split over the question of recognizing the new government which has labeled itself moderately leftist. Some radicals are demanding that a Marxist government be put in place. One guerrilla group, the L.P. 28, had announced a "truce" to give the new government time to carry out promised reforms. On Monday, however, the group pulled back from that position and occupied a church. The government has said peaceful demonstrations will be permitted, if permits are granted first. Monday's demonstrators apparently did not have such permits.

Shah hospitalized in New York for 'extensive' tests

NEW YORK (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, deposed ruler of Iran, was hospitalized today at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center for "extensive medical examinations" for an undisclosed ailment, an adviser said. Pahlavi was installed in a three-room suite and surrounded by tight security, said the hospital's vice president for public affairs, Eamon Brennan. Brennan said shortly before 9 a.m. that the patient was resting and the nature of his illness and his condition had not yet been classified. "They've not begun diagnostic tests yet and it's unlikely there'll be any results to report before this time tomorrow, if then. He'll undergo all the usual tests — blood, urine, radiology, but no one's being more specific than that," he said. William Greene, hospital administrator, said the shah was admitted about 11 p.m. EDT Monday, an hour after he slipped into New York at LaGuardia Airport aboard a Gulfstream twin-engine jet. Seven hours after the shah's arrival, one of his senior advisers released a statement which did not reveal the shah's ailment. "His imperial majesty has come to United States to undergo extensive medical examinations at New York Hospital. The shah and members of his family are optimistic that the outstanding medical care available in the United States will diagnose his ailment and provide a cure," the statement from Robert F. Armao said. "The shah will not make any public statements nor hold any news conferences. For now he has authorized me to say that he is grateful President Carter and the United States government for making him welcome. To the extent that it is practical and advisable, efforts will be made to issue timely reports on the shah's condition," the statement said. Life magazine in its current edition reports the shah, who has been tried in absentia in Iran and sentenced to death, has been unhappy that his face is so recognizable and has had his agents talk to plastic surgeons about a change. Life said the shah, who is the target of death squads organized by revolutionary court judge Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali, has denied its report. Khalkhali has offered a bounty for the shah's execution. The shah has been living in Cuernavaca, Mexico, since he was forced to leave Iran in February following a revolution.

Khomeini's authority slowly eroding

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini warned renegades in Iran's ruling council they are "splitting up" the revolutionary regime by opposing his supreme power. The uprising for self-rule in Kurdistan continued, further eroding his authority. Tehran Radio said Khomeini told the enemies of his Islamic republic their writings and speeches against him were "more damaging to Islam than the guns" of the Kurdish rebels. "You cannot stand against the nation." The broadcast said the 80-year-old Khomeini, who ousted Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's government in February, declared: "Our nation must wake up."

Economy main issue in election

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Danes were electing a new Parliament today in sunny but freezing weather. The main issue was the economy and the main rivals were the Social Democrats and the non-socialist bloc. Some 3.7 million voters had to choose between 1,089 candidates representing 12 parties for 175 seats. Four more seats are divided between Greenland and the Faro Islands. About 100,000 voters have already voted by mail, indicating a turnout of about 88 per cent could be expected — the same as in the last general election in 1977. Some 300,000 will vote for the first time. These are the voters between the ages of 18 and 20. The voting age was reduced from 20 to 18 last September. Polling stations opened at 9 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m. Results are expected shortly after midnight. It was the fifth general election since 1971, and virtually the only issue was how to get the country out of its financial crisis. The election was called by Prime Minister Anker Joergensen after the collapse of a year-old coalition between his Social Democrats and their traditional rivals, the Liberals. The partnership founded over their differences on how to tackle the economic problems. With pollsters widely disagreeing on the outcome, it seemed unlikely that there would be any marked change in the political power groupings. The race was essentially between the Social Democrats and a group of four non-socialist parties led by the Conservatives and Liberals. Whatever government emerged it was likely to be, as usual, a minority one, dependent on the whims of small parties to get its policies accepted. In the old Parliament the Social Democrats held 65 of the 179 seats. The Liberals held 21. Conservatives 15, Center Democrats 10 and the Christian Party 6 for a total of 52 seats for the non-socialist alliance. The anti-tax party of Mogens Glistrup had 26 seats.

UTPB art members win awards

Art faculty and students of The University of Texas at the Permian Basin walked away with several awards at the Midland Arts Association's annual Fall Regional Art and Craft Exhibition presentation recently. Pamela Price, assistant professor of art, received a $100 award for an oil painting, according to John VanAuker, president of the association. "I'm honored to have received an award in this exhibition, but I am even more excited about the fact that several of our students also took awards," Ms. Price said. Carla Poindexter, a recent graduate of the UTPB art program, was awarded $100 for a watercolor. Her brother, Robert Poindexter, senior art major, earned the $100 award for a pastel. VanAuker said. Pam Griffin, senior, took a $50 award for an oil, and Susan Randle, junior, was given honorable mention for a drawing. Stanley Marcus, chairman of art, commented, "I'm very pleased the students did so well. I think it reflects their deep commitment to art and dedication to hard work. "I think the show was exceptional, one of the best I've seen in this area."

The 1979 presentation was held in the Fine Arts Building at Midland College. The art work will be on exhibit in the McCormick Gallery there through Nov. 2.
