Community spirit loss contributes to crime

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The loss of community spirit and the "lost concern" for neighbors in urban areas have contributed to the rising crime rate, thus inhibiting crime-prevention measures, Texas Attorney General Mark White said at a Wednesday luncheon following the "Citizens Against Crime" workshops here.

"People don't get to know each other today," White said, "and what's more, they don't care."

White said crime in Texas rose 3 percent in 1978 and totaled 722,000 incidents of major criminal acts. Of those, 650,000 were committed in cities and towns while 72,000 were carried out in rural areas.

"Most people hold a marked fear for their personal safety and will not walk alone" at night in urban areas, he said.

White suggested a deterrent to crime is in more stringent punishment for those convicted of crimes, particularly violent crimes.

"More emphasis should be placed in more punishment...and must deter criminals from committing more crimes and, most importantly, to protect our citizens."

White said he is pushing for mandatory prison sentences — and not probation terms — for those convicted of violent crimes.

In turning to the Texas Department of Corrections, White contended Texas operates an efficient penitentiary system wherein inmates are involved in work programs, including agriculture to grow their own food.

Texas spends $7.15 a day to room and board each inmate, while California — which allows its prisoners to "lay around" — spends $30 per day per prisoner, he said.

The attorney general described the poor, the elderly and the minorities as among those most hurt — the victims — of crimes.

"Crime hurts those (who are) most vulnerable," White said.

He said crimes often are reasoned by the one committing the act. Risks

Chambliss sentenced to 99 years in prison

By BILL MODISSETT
Staff Writer

An eight-man, four-woman jury Wednesday night found 18-year-old Kelly Joe Chambliss of Midland guilty of murder in the July 18 shooting death of Army Sgt. J.B. England. Chambliss was sentenced to 99 years in prison.

The verdict and punishment were identical to that returned last month for a co-defendant in the case, 20-year-old Raymond Wesley Mathis of Midland.

Jurors deliberated about 2½ hours Wednesday before returning the guilty verdict. At 5 p.m. the jury began nearly four hours of deliberations on the punishment phase of the trial.

Chambliss sat emotionless as 23rd District Court Judge Vann Culp read the jury's decision of a 99-year prison term. Chambliss' mother wept quietly.

During the punishment phase of the trial, Assistant District Attorney Charles Seltzer told jurors Chambliss shot a complete stranger without provocation. Then he went back to the site and "played target practice on his face," Seltzer charged.

Defense attorneys Allen McFall and Eddie Garza, asking for leniency because of the defendant's age, said there would be no rehabilitative effect from a lengthy sentence.

Chambliss had contended he was innocent of the charge. It was the co-defendant, Mathis, who shot the 39-year-old Army sergeant in the early morning hours of July 18 about 10 miles east of Midland on Interstate 20, he said.

Throughout the trial Chambliss had contended when Mathis shot Sgt. England, it took him (Chambliss) by surprise that morning.

But during his September trial, Mathis gave law enforcement officers a statement which indicated it was Chambliss who shot England.

England, on his way from Marion, N.C., to Fort Bliss at El Paso, was wounded three times in the face and once in the left arm, according to testimony during the trial.

He was found by sheriff's deputies about 4:30 a.m. that day, some 20 minutes after the shooting, and died at 5:55 a.m. at Midland Memorial Hospital.

The pathologist who performed the autopsy on Sgt. England testified the man literally drowned in his own blood after being shot on I-20.

Testimony indicated the first shot

United Way at 60 percent

United Way of Midland has achieved 60.02 percent of its $1,017,000 goal for 1980, with a total of $610,442 in pledges collected as of 10 a.m. today.

A full account of contributions was expected to be reported at noon today during a volunteer meeting. This week's total was considerably less than the objective of 90 percent, campaign chairman W.F. "Bill" Orloff said.

"We appreciate all the hard work of the volunteers involved in the campaign, but I am concerned that we are so short of our weekly objectives. I urge all volunteers to conclude their work so that the campaign can be completed successfully on time," Orloff said.

By now, Orloff added, most every business whose employees have not had the opportunity to contribute, Orloff said he would appreciate their contacting the United Way office at 682-4358 or 2101 W. Wall.

An objective of 99 percent of goal has been set for the next volunteer report meeting at noon Nov. 1 in the Texas Electric Service Co. Reddy Room.

Carter encouraged by rally

Says he's not afraid of competition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Encouraged by the first rallying of his troops, President Carter says he isn't afraid of competition in his 1980 re-election bid, even the expected challenge from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Carter told 500 of his firmest supporters at a dinner-rally in a Washington hotel Wednesday night that when he formally announces his re-election plans, "you will not be disappointed."

Kennedy used similar words when he signalled to backers that he plans to oppose Carter for the Democratic nomination next year.

A Kennedy spokesman confirmed earlier Wednesday that the Massachusetts senator will announce next Monday the formation of an exploratory presidential committee, which will make him legally a candidate.

The Kennedy committee will be headed as expected by the senator's brother-in-law, Stephen Smith. But in a surprise move, Morris Dees, national campaign finance director for Carter's 1976 campaign, said Wednesday he has agreed to handle that chore for Kennedy this time around.

Like Kennedy, Carter has not formally announced. He assumed candidate status last March when he registered a campaign committee with the Federal Election Commission, however.

The White House has said his formal announcement will be made Dec. 4.

New state policy to cost Texans millions for gas

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has changed a long-standing policy that will cost natural gas consumers around the state millions of dollars in extra charges.

The Austin American-Statesmen said Thursday the new policy also sets a precedent that allows every gas company in Texas to take advantage of rate increases applied retroactively.

The policy change was adopted at an open but unrecorded conference of the three railroad commissioners in July, the newspaper said. Gas companies can now collect rate increases retroactively to the date the commission received the case, rather than after the increase is approved.

The commission, which regulates the oil and natural gas industry in Texas, hears gas rate cases on appeal.

There is usually a lag of from six months to a year between the time a utility applies for an increase and commission action, the paper said, and that means rate payers could face a year's worth of surcharges.

Lawsuits have been filed by the cities of Irving and Austin within the past month to prevent the commission from allowing higher rates to be applied retroactively. The suits stem from rate increases granted Southern Union Gas Co. of Austin and Lone Star Gas Co. of Dallas in mid-July.

The newspapers said those cases mark the first time the commission had voted unanimously to allow retroactive increases. Since then, the commission has approved 20 other gas utility rate increases, and all had their rates made retroactive to the day they appealed to the commission, a staff member said.

Kennedy tabbed odds on favorite

LONDON (AP) — One of Britain's biggest bookmakers, Ladbrokes, has started taking bets on the 1980 presidential race in the United States, and Sen. Edward Kennedy is the early favorite. President Carter is a close second choice.

The odds include Kennedy 7-4, Carter 2-1, John Connally 4-1, Ronald Reagan 5-1 and Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. 10-1.

Other odds offered by Ladbrokes: ex-President Ford 12-1, Gov. Jerry Brown 16-1, Vice President Walter Mondale 20-1, Sen. Robert Dole 25-1, Sen. Howard Baker 33-1 and Rep. Philip M. Crane 33-1.

Biennial oil pioneer reunion set Saturday in Midland

The 11th biennial reunion of Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers will be held Saturday in the Tall City.

To recognize the many persons who developed the Permian Basin oil and gas industry, the Reporter-Telegram will publish its special Pioneer Edition Friday.

Persons engaged in the petroleum industry, including those who have worked in allied industries 30 years ago or longer are eligible to be called Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers.

The Friday edition is dedicated to those people.

Registration for the day-long celebration will start at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Midland Hilton.

A reception and luncheon will begin at noon in the Hilton, featuring Congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock. Pioneers will tour the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame as well as oil and gas installations in the Midland vicinity.

An informal reception for men and women will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Midland Hilton.

The celebration is sponsored and staged by the Pioneers in cooperation with the Petroleum Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

I would like to complain about three very large dogs that a family on Preston Street has. These dogs are very large and are free to roam the neighborhood (the gate is constantly left open).

I am mainly concerned about small dogs (like ours) and all the small children in the neighborhood.

I have called the Animal Shelter, whose hours are from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and nothing can be done before or after these hours.

With all the concern about rabies, not to mention the bodily harm these dogs could inflict, isn't there something to be done or said that this family contains their dogs? By the way, why isn't this city ordinance enforced? — C.S.

ANSWER: Just contact the Animal Control Center again and give more details on the situation, such as the family with the dogs involved.

Dalton Byerly, director of the center, said the address of the owners would be very beneficial. He also said if an area is considered bad enough, calls are made and citations are issued after the regular hours. He did say this is done only when there is sufficient reason and when it is the best interest (paying overtime to em-

Chevron says it plans dealer price reduction

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chevron gasoline, diesel and heating oil dealers throughout the United States will be paying their suppliers three cents less per gallon effective today, Standard Oil Co. of California has announced.

But a Chevron spokesman said Wednesday the firm is forbidden by law to tell the dealers what to charge for a gallon of gasoline so gasoline pump prices may not necessarily change.

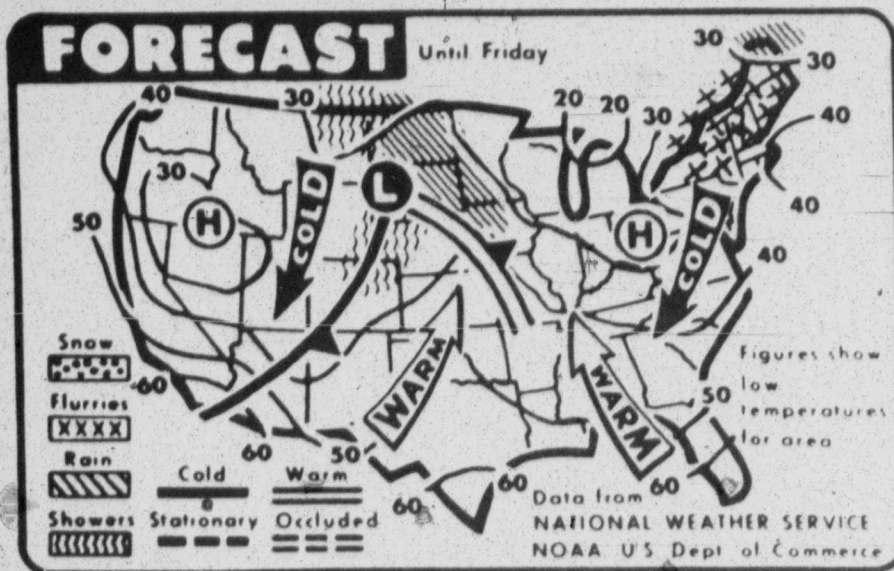

Chevron said the price cut was not required either by Energy Department price controls or voluntary anti-inflation guidelines set by the Carter Administration.

The firm did not provide figures for current wholesale per gallon prices of its various products.

The San Francisco-based company said its reductions "result from a moderating trend in Chevron's costs, brought about by its ability to supply its customers with more products processed in its own refineries."

As a result, Chevron, the nation's seventh-largest gasoline seller, said it "has been able to reduce purchases of costly supplies of finished product it formerly had to buy on the spot market."

Explosion rocks small Kansas city

LATHAM, Kan. (AP) — An explosion ripped through this tiny southeastern Kansas town, killing at least two people, injuring five elderly persons and reducing half the downtown area to a pile of smoking rubble.

More than two dozen Latham, Kan., residents search the rubble that was once the downtown business district. An explosion early Wednesday evening rocked the town, killing two persons.

"I ran outside and saw fire that looked like it was 300 feet in the air," he said.

Butler County Sheriff Dave Williams identified the dead as Kate Bing, 31, of rural Latham, a waitress at the cafe, and the cook, Karla Hodges, 39, also of Latham.

Loan program amended

Includes money for housing rehabilitation

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Midland's low interest home loan program has been amended to provide money for housing rehabilitation, and the package will be presented Friday to two bond rating companies in New York in keeping with the original schedule.

The Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Program originally was designed to provide $35 million in loans to low and moderate income families to purchase or buy a home.

After the program had been approved by the Midland Housing Finance Corp. earlier this month, it was scheduled to be taken to New York City on Friday for a bond hearing.

But members of the Citizens for Fairness in Community Development appeared Tuesday at a Midland City Council meeting and requested the program be redesigned to include funds for home improvements and loans for builders to construct low cost housing.

Members of the corporation met Wednesday with representatives of the citizens committee, said Vice Chairman Don Hellinghausen, after talking with the six local lending institutions who will participate in the program. After consulting with the underwriting firm of Howard, Weil, LaBouisse and Friedrich's in New Orleans, an amendment was added to the program.

That amendment provides that 10 percent of the funds available for mortgage loans be used for rehabilitation loans for the first 120 days of the commitment period. Funds not used during this time will become available for home mortgages.

In a statement released by the housing corporation, the rehabilitation loans will be used to "functionally rehabilitate a residence by improvement or increase of essential living space, but not for amenities unrelated to such improvement or increase."

Through the rehabilitation, appraised value of the property will increase by at least 33 percent of its former appraised value. Maximum improved value of any home after rehabilitation will be $45,000.

Hellinghausen emphasized that refinancing of existing mortgages won't be allowed. "These loans will be given to a first lien situation only," he said.

Carl Clay with the citizens committee said today that although the amendment is a compromise "it is acceptable to us. We see it as a step in the right direction in addressing the needs of low income housing in the city."

When the corporation was established by the City Council to administer the program, one stipulation for it to be implemented is that it must receive a AA rating on the bonds.

But Hellinghausen said the council has since changed its mind, lowering the requirement to an A rating.

Pointing out the $35 million is enough for about 600 new homes and numerous rehabilitations, Hellinghausen said the program "will help the labor market and improve business for local lending institutions."

Contacted at his New Orleans office, Mark Tessier — the underwriter who has been working with Midland on the program — said the housing rehabilitation amendment is possible. "It has been done in other communities."

Rehabilitation had been considered when the corporation was designing the program, Tessier said, but the local lending institutions "weren't ecstatic about it and the issue was dropped."

Lenders prefer to make large loans because their fees are based upon a percentage of the loan origination. Rehabilitation loans are not as large as those for new houses, Tessier explained.

"It costs as much to work on a $100,000 loan as it does a $1,000 loan," he added.

The second request by the citizens committee wasn't feasible, according to Tessier.

Providing loans to builders for homes falls under an industrial development bond financing program, and "the corporation doesn't have the authority to do this. There is also the question of legality if you add it to this program," he said.

No similar housing loan program in the country has included money for builders, the underwriter contended. "It would open a whole can of worms," he said. "We would have to check the financial stability of each builder, because if one went broke the program would be out of business. By adding this program, the marketability of the bonds would be greatly diminished."

Tessier said he expects to receive a rating on the bonds in about two weeks.

$5.5 billion war against drugs slowing, but not stopping trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10-year, $5.5 billion federal war against illegal drugs has slowed but not halted the lucrative drug trade in the United States, congressional investigators said today.

A study by the General Accounting Office reported success in the government's efforts to disrupt some drug supply lines but added that greater commitment and cooperation are needed from government agencies.

"Federal agencies have fought hard to reduce the adverse impact of illegal drugs on American society," the GAO said, noting a drop in drug-related injuries and deaths.

But the agency added: "The drug trade continues to flourish and the problem persists for reasons tied to the enormous supply of and demand for drugs."

In its report, the GAO called for increased cooperation among government officials and a stronger drive to apprehend and prosecute major drug traffickers.

The report complained that the war against the drug trade lacked a comprehensive border patrol plan, suffered from uneven prosecuting efforts and was hampered by the failure of judges to consistently mete out stiff sentences to drug traffickers.

The GAO report was released today at the start of hearings on the drug trade being held by a Senate Appropriations subcommittee on Justice, chaired by Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz. The GAO is the investigative arm of Congress.

Despite its criticisms, the GAO praised "notable successes" achieved by the federal campaign against drug smuggling.

The congressional investigators said heroin supplies have been sharply reduced because of the interruption of smuggling routes from Turkey and Mexico and the cooperation of those countries in reducing production.

"Current indicators suggest that there is a major shortage of heroin in the United States, a significant accomplishment against the nation's No. 1 drug enforcement priority," the GAO said. "However, this and other hard-won successes are short-lived," the GAO said. "Growing areas, shipment routes, trafficking organizations and even the types of drugs abused all readily change and adapt to new conditions."

"Today's concern is that as Mexican heroin availability declines, heroin from Southeast Asia and the Middle East will fill the gap. Some also fear that use of dangerous synthetic drugs will continue to increase."

The GAO said efforts to stem the flow of illegal drugs were also hampered by the tremendous demand for drugs from millions of Americans. The government estimates that Americans spend $13 billion to $21 billion a year for marijuana alone.

"The enormous profits of drug trafficking attract an ample number of entrepreneurs who see opportunities that far outweigh those offered by legitimate businesses," the GAO said.

The congressional agency added that the lucrative drug trade attracts dealers from all walks of life, including doctors, lawyers, accountants, businessmen and entertainers.

Boys rescue baby girl

GLENDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Two youngsters apparently were not supposed to be playing on a vacant lot, but it is lucky they were, police said. They found a newborn baby in a paper bag.

"Two boys were walking across a vacant lot when they heard this paper bag 'crying.' Just a plain brown paper bag. They looked inside and there was this baby," said Lt. Stanley Kobojek.

Doctors said the baby girl was about 4 hours old when discovered Wednesday afternoon. She was taken to a Phoenix hospital, where she was reported doing well.

"I hear they're in a little trouble at home," Kobojek said of the boys. "Someone said they weren't supposed to be where they were. Of course, if they hadn't been there, she would have died."

Perot to find 'easy' drug counties

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Dallas computer magnate selected by Gov. Bill Clements to study the drug situation today said he will gather numbers to show which counties are the easiest for drug dealers to operate in.

H. Ross Perot, speaking at the governor's weekly press conference, said drug dealers are "lazy" and move to counties with "weak law enforcement, weak district attorneys and weak judges."

Clements said, "We do have such counties."

Midland man injured in cycle-pickup collision

Wayne Russell, 30, 1121 E. Peacan, was listed in fair condition today in the critical care unit of Midland Memorial Hospital recuperating from injuries received in a motorcycle-pickup collision Tuesday afternoon.

Russell was westbound on Front Street and a pickup driven by John Franklin Shepard, 49, was northbound on K Street about 2:28 p.m. when the collision occurred, said a police official.

Hospital officials said Russell suffered multiple bone fractures to his hips and legs.

Perot called Austin "one of the centers of drug activity in the state of Texas."

Clements added, "It makes me want to throw up."

Perot said the numbers, to be distributed by what he called local "organizations," are intended to bring pressure upon officials in counties where drug law enforcement is weak.

"It will become good politics" to enforce drug laws, Perot said.

Clements and Perot said the numbers will also bring "mother pressure" — pressure by average citizens — on law enforcement officials who do not vigorously go after drug dealers.

HANDICAPPED

Now, let's join hands

Yes, indeed, voters of the Midland Independent School District had their say at the polls Tuesday, defeating the proposed $10.2 million school bond issue by an almost 2 to 1 count (4,806 to 2,948).

This is the American way. The people have spoken, those at least who took the time to go to the polls, and the public school system will take it from there, doing the best it can with the situation at hand.

At the same time, one cannot blame school board members and administrators for being disappointed, and even somewhat discouraged. Right or wrong, they had worked long and hard in developing the program, which they considered essential, and particularly in getting the various issues before the public in recent weeks. They had said over and over that their sole objective in submitting the bond issue was "to bring our schools up to adequate."

Everything possible was done to get their message across. They should have no regrets in this respect.

The trustees at the moment may feel like throwing in the towel, but they won't. Rather, they will go right ahead, conducting their responsibilities and assignments in the very best interests of the school district at large. This is the way it should be.

But school authorities undoubtedly are wondering just what the people want and are willing to finance in meeting the needs of the school system and in expanding and improving the overall school program.

The results of the election did not eliminate the needs as expressed in the various issues involved. It must be considered a delaying action.

It might not be a bad idea for the school board to call a mass meeting of residents, at the proper time, to explain existing conditions and to gain citizen input in developing a revised bond proposal.

But right now, as school trustees and school personnel adjust to the situation at hand, it would be well for all residents of the community to take a new look at their public school system and its needs, forgetting past differences and what has taken place in the past, as all of us strive earnestly to bring our schools up to adequate.

Our schools are too important in the life of the community and its residents to do otherwise.

Midland, through the years, has been known far and wide for the excellence of its public school system and the high quality of its educational process. Let's all join hands here and now in keeping it that way.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON — We have warned in past columns that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro is working with his Soviet mentors to undermine neighboring regimes throughout Latin America. Now State Department experts have secret evidence of precisely this danger in the sun-blessed, troubled island of Jamaica, just south of Cuba. This follows leftist gains in nearby Grenada and Nicaragua.

U.S. intelligence sources report that Jamaica Prime Minister Michael Manley has been making use of Soviet and Cuban intelligence agents. The disturbing results: He has moved his government sharply to the left in the past year.

The possible drift toward another communist triumph in the Caribbean has caused a major brouhaha at Foggy Bottom. It is the subject of a series of secret memos to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

One confidential memo warns that Manley has "a fairly well-established record of increasingly intimate contact with Soviet KGB personnel in Jamaica." A possibly innocent reason for Manley's ties to the Soviet secret police is suggested in another State Department memo: He may be using the KGB as a counterweight to the real or fancied operations of our Central Intelligence Agency.

The memo explains: "While Manley's KGB contacts are disturbing, his paranoia about the opposition in his own country and possible activities by the CIA is well known. He may simply be looking to the KGB as another source of information on these activities."

But this comforting spy-vs.-spy theory is not borne out by a couple of recent developments. One was a visit to Cuba by Manley's foreign minister, P.J. Patterson, in the course of which he endorsed Castro's positions on everything from the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo to the Camp David accords.

Then Manley himself appeared at the meeting of non-aligned nations in Havana a few weeks ago. In his address, the Jamaican prime minister not only paid elaborate tribute to Castro, but spoke favorably of the leftist government in Grenada and of the Puerto Rican independence movement.

In other words, State Department analysts fear that Manley may be cuddling up to the KGB for ideological reasons. They have one hope for the situation — than Manley may have left his supporters behind when he turned left, and may no longer be in control of his own party. They predict that he couldn't win an election held today, but unfortunately the next election isn't required until 1981.

As for the U.S. response to a Jamaican defection, our reporters Bob Sherman and Ron McRae have learned that the likeliest reaction would be reduction in the massive agricultural aid. Another aid program has been stalled in Congress, and Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., has asked for a General Accounting Office audit of the grants given to Jamaica.

If the administration decides on the drastic step of aid cutoff, it would reverse the position laid down by the State Department in an economic report just one year ago. "U.S. assistance strategy should support Jamaican efforts to recover from the present economic crisis and continue its economic and social development with full participation of its poor majority," the classified report advised.

Meanwhile, the Jamaican question and the way it is handled may provide a clue to the winner of the long-smoldering policy feud between Secretary of State Vance and the president's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski. Brzezinski seeks an uncompromising anti-Soviet line in the Caribbean, while Vance favors a less doctrinaire, more flexible policy.

For now at least, it looks as if Brzezinski has President Carter's ear. The author of the memos on Jamaica, Undersecretary of State for Inter-American Affairs Viron Vaky, has quietly resigned. William Bowdler, a Brzezinski protégé, will replace him.

BOREN'S BOONDOGGLE: An unpublished General Accounting Office report rips into a provision in Medicare Medicaid legislation pending in the Senate, charging that it would strip the federal government of controls it now has over U.S. funds used to reimburse nursing home operators.

The measure is being pushed by Sen. David Boren, D-Okl., as a way of saving money. But the GAO auditors found that the savings would be minimal at best.

What really bothers the GAO is that the Boren provision would allow states to revert to variations of the old system that paid nursing home proprietors a flat fee for services to Medicare patients. This let unscrupulous operators spend as little as they could get away with on their patients, and pocket the money they saved by shortchanging their patients.

Such sleazy shenanigans are often curtailed by federal regulations requiring nursing home operators to file detailed cost reports with the state agencies that disburse Medicare funds before they could get their money.

Of the Boren measure, the GAO warns: "It appears that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would not have authority to disapprove state nursing home payment methods and standards. Enactment would appear to effectively remove HEW from the rate-setting process."

In other words, Uncle Sam would be handing out the money without any say in the way it was spent — or mispent.

IT HAPPENED HERE

30 YEARS AGO (Oct. 25, 1949):

Sgt. Dick Hemingway and Officer Leroy Stewart of the Midland Police Department made the prize catch of their law enforcement careers here Monday night. They apprehended a porcupine in the 1000 block of West Wall Street. The "suspect" is being held at the SPCA animal shelter. It is believed to be a pet strayed from its owner.

Mrs. William Potts was elected president of the Woman's Auxiliary of Trinity Episcopal Church for the 1950 term at a business session in the Parish House Monday afternoon. She will take office in January, succeeding Mrs. John M. FitzGerald.

A neon sign at Mackey Motor Co. was damaged by fire Monday night.

Tragic lesson, indeed

The death of a child is always full of grief and pain for the survivors. How true that is in the case of Chad Green, who died from leukemia recently in Tijuana.

He was only 3 years old, a happy tow-headed youngster whose parents had fled this country in order to have his cancer treated with the controversial drug Laetrile.

The parents thought he had recovered and even refused the chemotherapy treatments prescribed by the same Mexican doctor who gave the little boy Laetrile.

We have upheld the right of adult American cancer victims to choose Laetrile treatment for themselves, even though medical science officially judges the drug to be ineffective.

But, children have rights of their own, including the right to reasonable medical care.

No parents have a right to refuse the kind of medical treatment necessary to save their children's lives.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

1. Apparently Pontius Pilate had his headquarters in an old fortress known as the Tower of Antonia (likely pronounced An-toe-Nee-a). The building where soldiers placed the torturous crown of thorns on the Lord's head, formed part of the fortress. Name it. Mark 15: 16
  2. Jesus advocated a higher standard than the Golden Rule. Quote the Golden Rule and give the higher standard. Matt. 5: 44, 7: 12
  3. What was Peter's first name? Luke 5: 8

NICK THIMMESCH Misuse of federal millions by United Farm Workers Union

WASHINGTON — A citizen can only gnash his or her teeth after reading how seemingly deserving federal programs wind up as fraudulent if not illegal.

If you want to risk such dental exercise, read the first-rate piece of investigative reporting by Patty Newman on how the Feds gave $2 million to provide services to farm workers, only the money was largely spent for the benefit of Cesar Chavez' United Farm Worker's Union. Her article appears in the current Reason, a little-known but valuable magazine published in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Now Chavez is immediately appealing. Who can't sympathize with farm workers? I am for them, whether they are citizens or aliens. They work hard and help bring food to us.

Once exploited solely by employers, today all manner of politicians, righteous bureaucrats and other interlopers prey on these sweetly toilers. Indeed, political celebrities love to spend taxpayers' money to build and expand Chavez' increasingly political vehicle for their own ultimate purposes.

By establishing a network of tax-exempt organizations with emotionally appealing titles (Robert F. Kennedy Medical Plan, Martin Luther King Jr. Farm Workers Fund), the union wangled, for example, $800,000 to build a microwave communication system, supposedly to serve a string of medical clinics and Campesino (sosmelled so bad, though, that 32 congressmen immediately asked the General Accounting Office (GAO) to investigate.

It developed that this taxpayers' money was used to repair and maintain the union's buildings and grounds and to provide kitchens and printing services as well. A second component — a language instruction program — was overstuffed and also provided questionable travel allowances, room and board, and entertainment. It was clearly a ripoff of the taxpayer for the benefit of the union.

According to the GAO report, the director of the farm workers' program at the Department of Labor dissented and voiced concern about a federal program supporting unionization efforts. The Department of Labor is still embarrassed and uncommunicative about the GAO report that California's school system was already providing the language services the union was being paid for.

Newman also reports that $349,000 in federal money subsidizes the United Farm Workers' credit union. The grant application bragged that its loans were at a 1 percent rate, though it turns out that they were 1 percent a month. Moreover, depositors got nothing for use of their money, probably because salaries and expenses were unconscionably high.

Who champions this chicanery at taxpayers' expense? Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) and California's Gov. Jerry Brown, to name two of the ambitious. Brown even waived his governor's right to sign-off approval.

Who is trying to stop it? Rep. Henry Hyde (R-Ill.) for one, who declares: "I am asking GAO for a complete audit investigation. It is outrageous that taxpayers' money is used for a union's purposes."

Who cares? Well, most foundations pursuing the public interest would consider it a sacrilege to look into anything Cesar Chavez does. I imagine that if Newman had gone, say to the Fund for Investigative Journalism for a grant to pursue this story, she would have been laughed out of its offices. As it turned out, Reason, paid her way, and we can all be glad for it.

Investigative journalism should be a tool, not a cause for those who only rake muck on one side of the street.

Greenwood store: 'It's a little bit of everything'

GREENWOOD — The place is for studying, joshing, playing pool, eating, drinking and making merry after school is let out.

It's the store next door to the school. Gina Hughes and Carla Moore were doing their sophomore geometry homework with pencil and notepad. Rocky Pace, a 6-foot-3 school dropout, was playing pool with his 7-year-old friend, Victor Schoonover, a red-haired, cutely freckled fella who's still in school. His mother, Karen Schoonover, was working at the counter. "I'm just a hired hand," she allowed.

AND THE PLACE, the Greenwood Grocery Store, was yet to be bombarded by a motley squad of freshly-showered football players who are convinced that they are No. 1 in their league.

The store was a convenient place for Gina and Carla, both 15, to do their geometry. "Well, I got locked out of my house," Gina explained of her store studiousness. "I didn't have a ride home," said Carla.

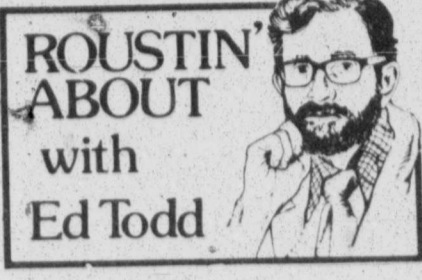

So, they both tolled. Meanwhile, Rocky Pace continued shooting pool with Victor. "That's all I do (shoot pool) and work around the house," he said. The pool table, like the two pinball machines and the electronic race car contraption, provides some indoor entertainment for the kids in the country. Those games and the one with the cue and ball were put in the store about a year ago when Jimmy and Cathy Hardin started running the business.

"It's a little bit of everything," Mrs. Hardin said of the store, and the games give the Greenwood youngsters "something to do."

Like many businesswomen, she views her customers — the school kids and occasional dropouts — with respect due a paying customer. But they're more than that to her. "I'll tell you what," Mrs. Hardin said. "We've got the greatest bunch of kids there ever was."

"The only ones that give us trouble is the town kids," she figured. THE TOWN KIDS, it seems reasonable to say, are those sometime rascals from Midland, about 10 miles away.

The Greenwood bunch is tame. "Really and truly," the storekeeper said, "we've got the best bunch of guys you've ever seen. They're not rowdy. They're great; every one of them. Many from that 'best bunch' bang around the gridiron on Friday nights, knock heads and shoulders, stumble, fall, get knocked down, run and kick around, throw passes, catch some and drop others. Football, like basketball, is a major sport out here. "I try to make every high school game, because I'm really partial to these kids," Mrs. Hardin said. "They're like my own." The clock was nearing the hour of 5. And presently the mighty Greenwood Rangers, clad in their civvies after shedding uniforms and showering. The boys, instead of roaring, just moseyed on in. The white-wash lettering on the store's windows paid homage to the football crews. Later on, the basketball players — guys and gals — will get the laurels.

We Believe in Our Guys!!

The store suddenly became crowded. Not over-crowded. Just crowded. The Rangers are winning more games than they're losing, and that's got to be good.

They beat the Midland High School sophomore unit 31-0 last week, ran over the Fort Davis Indians 34-0, but got blasted 47-7 the week before by the Marfa Shorthorns. "We could have beat them," said split-end Larry Dickerson, who also pegged (jestingly, perhaps) himself as a bench-warmer. "They were just lucky. We got killed by Marfa, and we killed Eort Davis." Six-foot-4 quarterback Tommy Somers, who described himself as the "tallest guy in school," said the team is "great" and considered not (at least not out loud) the victories and defeats.

Phillips Higgins said "Greenwood wouldn't have a football team without sophomores," and Gina said the cheerleaders were "terrific." And quarterback Tom said the yell leaders certainly did their job.

"YOU KNOW HOW hard it is to call signals over their yelling," he said. His brother, Mickey Somers, who dons a football uniform, is editor of the Greenwood school newspaper, the "Raconteur," which is French for "story teller," or so he said. Clay Coston wasn't backward in talk.

"I'm the best catcher...if someone would throw it (the football) to me," said Clay, as he looked to the quarterback. Tommy said he did, but that Clay dropped the ball.

The gang soon left the store; few parted with coins. The Greenwood bunch sauntered outside for awhile before heading home by foot, car and bike.

"It's cool," Tommy Pyle said of rural Greenwood, the school, football and all. "It may be small, but it's not the quantity. It's the quality that counts."

"It's great. It's No. 1."

Greenwood is worth yelling and jumping about. Just ask any of the youngsters who live in and about the rural community 10 miles east of Midland. The Greenwood Grocery Store is the "pit stop" from school to home and in between for many of the kids. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Professors picketing University of Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Professors walked picket lines today in the first strike ever by the faculty at the University of Cincinnati. School officials urged students to report as usual, but early today administrators said they had not yet determined the full impact of the strike at the university, the second largest in Ohio.

Some professors and their students were in their classrooms, but, in other rooms, an ever dwindling number of students sat waiting for their teachers.

"Our professor told us he hadn't made up his mind the last time we had met," said one senior in business finance. "He told us to come and we would find out what he decided."

The striking American Association of University Professors represents 1,800 professors and assistant professors who teach at the main campus, medical, law and music colleges and branch campuses in suburban Blue Ash and Batavia in nearby Clermont County.

"We will do everything we can to ensure, classes and other student activities will take place as usual," said Dr. Thomas Wagner, chief university negotiator. "I certainly wish it hadn't come to this."

The University Student Senate late Wednesday tabled a motion by its president, Ali D'Arrigo, to support the university against the faculty.

"There is no settlement and the strike is on," said union president Lowell Leake when negotiations ended for the night.

Public employees stage walkout in Honolulu

HONOLULU (AP) — Schools cut classes to two hours daily, garbage piled up and state-run hospitals were understaffed as a walkout by 8,000 public employees went into a fourth day today.

Officials on both sides said Wednesday there was little hope of an early settlement in the dispute over wages involving members of the United Public Workers union.

State Superintendent of Education Charles Clark said 31 public schools were cutting back hours because of dirty restrooms. School janitors are represented by the union.

MMH staff attends conference

Members of the Midland Memorial Hospital medical staff and other Midland physicians attended a clinicopathological conference Wednesday in the MMH medical staff conference room.

The program was held in conjunction with the continuing medical education program of the hospital.

Presentation and discussion focused on "focal thyromegaly in a 73-year-old female" with emphasis on differential diagnoses of thyroid neoplasia.

Protocol for the case was prepared by Dr. Durwood N. Clader, and the discussion was conducted by Dr. Roger Traxel and Dr. David Shneidman.

Police officers to stand trial

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three city police officers have been ordered to stand trial on charges they beat Delbert Orr Africa during a confrontation with the radical group MOVE.

Common Pleas Court Judge Charles Durham Wednesday ordered the officers to be tried for simple and aggravated assault and official oppression in the alleged beating in August, 1978 at MOVE headquarters.

Cullen J. Kelly

Cullen J. Kelly, 57, a Midland banker and community leader, died Wednesday in a Midland hospital after a long illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the First Baptist Church with Dr. L.L. Morris of Dallas officiating, assisted by Dr. Daniel Vestal. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Newline W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Pallbearers will be M.W. "Buddy" Branon, E.M. "Red" Little, H.C. Avery Jr., Hugh D. McCullough, Elmore Cook, Wilbur A. Yeager Jr., Clarence Scharbauer Jr. and Paul L. Davis Sr.

Honorary pallbearers will be J.J. Travis of Rockport, Floyd Watson of Pampa, Jno. P. Butler, Charles Priddy and P.D. Sams, both of Midland, and the officers, directors and employees of First National Bank of Midland.

Beverly E. Borron

CRANE — Services for Beverly Elizabeth Borron, 19, of Imperial were to be at 3 p.m. today in the Imperial Community Center. Burial was to be in the Imperial Cemetery directed by Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home in Crane.

Miss Borron died Tuesday in an airplane crash near Sonora.

She was born May 23, 1960, in Fort Stockton. She was a student at Angelo State University. She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Imperial.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Borron of Imperial; a sister, Brenda Borron of Lyubock; two brothers, Bill Borron of San Angelo and Bob Borron of Austin, and a paternal grandmother, Marie Elizabeth Borron of Crane.

Mrs. J. Whiting

Mrs. James G. Whiting, 90, a 20-year resident of Midland, died early today in Trinity Towers following a lengthy illness.

Memorial services are scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity with the Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, rector, and the Rev. Derrill Manley, assistant rector, officiating. Burial will be in the Whiting family plot in Wilton, N.H.

Mrs. Whiting, the former Mabel Denison Baldwin, was born Sept. 29, 1889, in Huron, S.D., and grew up in Columbus, Ohio. She was a graduate of Ohio State University and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She was married on Nov. 6, 1920, to James Goddard Whiting of Wilton, N.H. and West Palm Beach, Fla. He died in 1930.

Mrs. Whiting was for many years the assistant headmistress of a private school in Cambridge, Mass., before her retirement in the 1950s. She moved to Midland in 1959. She was an Episcopalian.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. William F. Pennebaker of Midland; two grandsons, James Whiting Pennebaker of Charlottesville, Va., and Ward Graham Pennebaker of Houston; and a granddaughter, Mary Pennebaker of Charlottesville.

The family requests that memorials be directed to the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity or to Trinity Towers.

Pearl Carlock

Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park directed by Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Mann died Wednesday in a Lamesa hospital after a brief illness. She was a native of New Matamoros, Ohio. She lived nearly all her life in Tulsa, Okla., before moving to Lamesa five years ago.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Raymond Fox of New Matamoros, Ohio, a granddaughter, four great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

John Castleman

John P. Castleman, 68, of Portugal and formerly of Midland died today in Portugal after an apparent heart attack.

Services are pending in Louisville, Ky.

A native of Louisville, he was an independent oil man in Midland from 1953 to 1965 before moving to Portugal.

He was graduated from the Virginia Military Institute in 1930 and served in World War II as a major in the quartermaster corps.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Jane; three sons, John P. Castleman Jr. of Dallas, Breaux Castleman and Michael Castleman, both of Houston, and a brother, William P. Castleman Jr. of Midland.

Some pray for recovery, others for shah's death

NEW YORK (AP) — Some followers are praying for the deposed shah of Iran's recovery from cancer and gallbladder surgery, but others say they hope he will survive only to meet a violent death.

Four Iranian women conducted a prayer vigil Wednesday inside New York Hospital for Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi as surgeons removed his gallbladder. Outside, demonstrators chanted "Death to the shah!"

The shah, whose six-year battle with cancer of the lymph system was disclosed following the operation, was described as "resting comfortably."

During the procedure, doctors sought to determine the extent of the lymphoma, which a team of French specialists has been secretly treating, according to the shah's spokesman Robert Armao.

A spokesman for the hospital, where the shah is in a $300-a-day room surrounded by bodyguards and private security agents, declined Wednesday to give any further clues to his condition.

But Armao said "recovery without complications is anticipated" from the gallbladder surgery. He said the shah, who celebrates his 60th birthday Friday, would be hospitalized for two to three weeks.

Armao said the shah, deposed in January by the revolutionary government of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, had not wanted his long battle with cancer to be known because it would not be "in the best interest of his country."

During the 2½-hour operation, about 150 demonstrators held back by police barricades outside the hospital shouted anti-shah slogans and waved a banner reading "A peaceful death is too good for the shah!"

The shah was tried in absentia and sentenced to death by a revolutionary court in Iran. A $131,000 reward and free-trip-to-Mecca-have been promised to anyone who assassinates him.

The demonstration could not be heard by the deposed ruler or his wife, Empress Farah, who kept a vigil at the hospital while her husband was on the operating table.

The Iranian women in American dress prayed nearby. "The royal family is alone and I just wanted to lend my support," said one, who declined to be identified.

The shah and his wife flew to New York from Mexico late Monday night on a special visa for medical attention. Armao said the trip was planned after the shah's condition worsened two weeks ago and he became jaundiced, causing doctors to suspect gallbladder trouble.

Armao said the surgical team, which included the Shah's personal physician, Dr. Benjamin Kean, removed the gallbladder after finding stones in it, and also removed a stone from the main bile duct from the liver to the small intestine.

He said "analysis of the lymphoma is in progress."

The kind of lymphoma suffered by the shah has not been disclosed, but while some varieties are more dangerous than others, it has become one of the more curable cancers.

Lymphomas such as Hodgkin's disease strike the lymph system that transports the fluid that bathes the body's cells and manufactures cells that help fight disease. Depending on how extensive it is, lymphoma can be treated with X-rays or drug therapy.

More than half the people with Hodgkin's disease can live five years or longer. Non-Hodgkin's lymphomas tend to spring back faster.

Eight more die in clashes in Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Eight more persons died in violent clashes across Turkey during the night, Istanbul newspapers reported today.

In Aydin, in western Turkey, masked men with pistols stormed into a coffee house and opened fire on a crowd of customers, killing a high school student.

In Izmir, Turkey's third largest city on the Aegean coast, two rival-left-wing factions clashed over ideological differences. A high school student was reported killed.

Ambush slayings by suspected extremist terrorists were also reported in Eskisehir, in western Turkey, and in some violence-torn eastern Turkish provinces, leaving six dead.

More than 2,000 persons have been killed in political and religious violence in Turkey since the beginning of 1978.

Vote of approval predicted in Spanish referendums

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — After years of violence by Basque separatists, the Basques and Catalans of northern Spain voted in regional referendums today on the central government's plans to restore some of the home rule dictator Francisco Franco took away from them 40 years ago.

A vote of approval was predicted in both areas. But the fear of violence by the terrorists of ETA, the Basque separatist organization, was expected to reduce the turnout from among the 1.3 million eligible voters in the three Basque provinces in northwest Spain.

There was no organized opposition in Catalonia, and officials predicted a good turnout from among the 4.5 million voters with 67 percent approval.

But official confidence was shaken by the discovery in Barcelona, the Catalonia capital, of a tunnel presumably dug by terrorists planning to blow up an apartment block in which 2,000 army officers and their families lived.

Officials believed the tunnel had been dug by Basque terrorists, not Catalans, because it was like the tunnel ETA dug beneath a Madrid street in 1973 to blow up Premier Luis Carrero Blanco.

The home rule proposals would give the new autonomous regional governments limited control of education and health programs, the courts and police plus a share of local tax collections that now go to the central government. In addition, the Basque and Catalan languages would have official status, and Basque and Catalan culture would be fostered officially.

The plan for Basque home rule was supported by the Basque Nationalist Party, Premier Adolfo Suarez's Centrists, the Communists and the Socialists.

It was opposed by ETA, which is fighting for independence and has slain more than 60 persons this year, and its political front, the Herri Batasuna Party.

Sen. Miguel Castells, the head of Herri Batasuna, said his party's opposition to home rule would continue regardless of the referendum result. He asked the Basques to boycott the vote.

Man found dead in car identified

ODESSA — A 45-year-old man found dead in his car Tuesday morning has been identified as Thomas Francis Wood Sr.

Wood's name had been withheld by police pending notification of the man's wife and relatives in Tucson, Ariz., late Tuesday.

The body of Wood was found in the back seat of his car by employees of an Odessa business about 8 a.m. The car, bearing North Carolina tags, was parked behind the business, according to reports.

There was no evidence of foul play in connection with the death, police said.

Marine burned in freak fire dies; Toll now five

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A severely burned U.S. Marine died today, raising the death toll to five from the freak fire that swept through a Marine barracks last week at a base in Japan.

Officials at the Brooke Army Medical Center burn unit identified the victim as Lance Cpl. Philip E. DuPont, 21, of Bluemont, Va. He had been in critical condition.

Thirty-eight Marines were flown to Brooke's famed burn center on Sunday, but one died en route from Japan.

Investigation continues in $200,000 burglary

Midland police continued their investigation today into what one official described as the largest burglary in recent years.

A source outside the police department estimated the value of the property taken in the burglary at 2609 Lockheed St. to be at least $200,000.

Police declined to comment on the monetary value of the property taken, but noted that it was substantial.

Reported to police Sunday, the burglary resulted in the loss of jewelry and furs, officials said.

No suspects had been uncovered today in the investigation. Police said the burglary appeared to have been done by a professional.

A large number of man-hours are being devoted to following up on several leads in the case, police said.

The burglary apparently occurred while the owners were out of town, police officials said.

Entry to the residence was gained by prying open a metal gate on the fence surrounding the grounds and the rear door to the house itself, according to police.

Jewelry was taken from a safe in the home, and the furs were taken from a closet, police said.

Ector bond election

to go to Supreme Court

ODESSA — The citizens' group contesting the 1978 Ector County school bond election has taken its case to the U.S. Supreme Court with the filing of an appeal late Tuesday.

The appeal to the top court was filed by Odessa attorney Gloria Svanas on behalf of the contestants.

Ector County school attorneys now have 30 days to file a reply.

The contestants, who are claiming their constitutional rights have been violated during the legal contest of the $21.6 million issue approved by voters in December 1978.

The constants have lost in three lower courts.

Indicted Italian financier free on $3 million bail, under guard

NEW YORK (AP) — Indicted Italian financier Michele Sindona was free on $3 million bail and under 24-hour guard today after telling a federal judge he was kidnapped and freed only after he agreed to help "punish" corrupt political figures and rich people in Italy.

Sindona told U.S. District Judge Thomas P. Griesa on Wednesday that the kidnapping had prevented him from appearing for trial last month for alleged fraud that led to the biggest bank failure in American history.

Sindona is accused of looting the Franklin National Bank of some $45 million in 1974, causing its collapse. He also is wanted in Italy for the alleged theft of $225 million from two banks he owned in Milan.

He said he was abducted Aug. 2 by several men, one of whom had claimed to be a friend of Sindona's lawyer in Italy and who claimed to need the financier's help.

Authorities suspected the 59-year-old financier, who had been free in the $3 million bail, had fled to avoid prosecution in the Franklin National case. But Sindona told Griesa he was kidnapped when he went to meet the man who claimed to be his lawyer's friend.

Sindona said the kidnapers, who he said spoke broken Italian, said they wanted him to provide documents and other evidence that would help them bring down the "Christian Democrats (the ruling political party in Italy) and rich people."

"They tried to convince me I was completely a criminal because I was pro-establishment, pro-America — against the leftists, against the people," Sindona told Griesa.

He said he was freed after some 10 weeks only after he agreed to his captors' demands.

When Sindona returned Oct. 16 his bail was not revoked but he was placed under arrest at Doctors Hospital, where he was treated for a leg wound. He said he had been shot in the leg earlier when he tried to escape.

Griesa made no judgment about whether Sindona had actually been kidnapped and continued his bail. But Griesa ordered the financier temporarily confined to his Hotel Pierre apartment in the custody of his lawyers and under 24-hour private guard.

Meanwhile, Sindona's trial was rescheduled for Nov. 26.

Laughing gas could cause trouble

DALLAS (AP) — Dentists and dental workers who chronically sniff laughing gas as they use it in their work could develop liver, kidney or neurological problems, a study released by the American Dental Association says.

The study says dental patients are not endangered, because infrequent doses of laughing gas — nitrous oxide — are not harmful.

The report offered evidence suggesting an increase of specific health problems in male and female dental personnel exposed to trace inhalation anesthetic-sedatives, compared to those who were not," said Dr. William Greenfield of New York City, who did the research.

The ADA released preliminary results of Greenfield's study during the group's Dallas convention, which ends today.

"Significant increases among heavily exposed dentists and female assisting personnel were noted relative to liver, kidney and general neurologic diseases."

The study showed that nitrous oxide was used as a sole inhalation anesthetic in 81 percent of dental administrations, and that the health problems could be associated with its use by itself in dental operations.

The study concentrated on nitrous oxide specifically.

Greenfield said the study showed no statistically significant increases in cancer incidence.

The problems extended to the families of the dentists and assistants, Greenfield said.

"Presence of a reproductive hazard was indicated by an increase of spontaneous abortion in wives of heavily exposed dentists as well as female dental assisting personnel," Greenfield said. "The latter group (female assistants) also showed an increase in congenital abnormalities of their children. No such increase in congenital abnormalities was recorded in the children of wives of... exposed dentists."

Greenfield cautioned that final analysis of data from the survey has not been completed.

The survey was sponsored jointly by the ADA and the Stanford University Medical School, and was supported by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health.

The survey was based on questionnaires answered by 64,209 dentists and dental auxiliaries.

Police turn back demonstrating students

SEOUL (AP) — Police turned back 500 students demonstrating for democracy today as they tried to march out of the Kyemyung University campus in the southern city of Taegu.

There were no reports of violence or arrests in the latest protest against President Park Chung-hee's authoritarian government. Informed sources said 800 policemen were rushed to the campus when the students held a mass meeting and adopted a resolution calling on the government to carry out democratic reforms.

It was the third public manifestation of anti-Park feeling in a southern city this month. Martial law was imposed last week in Pusan and Masan to quell student rioting.

In Seoul, Park's Democratic Republican Party reconvened the National Assembly for the first time in two weeks in an effort to end the political crisis that touched off the riots. But the session lasted only three minutes before another adjournment. It was expected that the assembly would remain closed for the rest of the month while Democratic Republican leaders negotiate with leaders of opposition parties.

All 66 members of the New Democratic Party and three deputies from splinter groups resigned Oct. 13 to protest the expulsion from the assembly of New Democrat leader Kim Young-sam. Kim was expelled by unanimous vote of the Democratic Republicans because of his criticism of Park.

Park Joon-kyu, chairman of the Democratic Republican Party, said earlier this week that the riots were evidence of "considerable dissatisfaction" with the government. He promised the party would review its policies.

But he said if the opposition deputies did not return to the assembly by December, the Democratic Republicans would have to go ahead and consider major legislation, including the 1980 budget. The budget must be approved by Dec. 2.

The party chairman originally said Kim would not be allowed to return to the assembly "under any conditions." Later he said Kim could return if he won a by-election, but no election is scheduled.

WORLD NEWS

Ministers meet on Mideast talks

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel's chief negotiator in the Palestinian autonomy talks flew to London today to meet Egyptian Premier Mustafa Khalil and U.S. envoy Robert Strauss to discuss the future of the stalled negotiations.

"I hope we can prove the momentum continues, and in any case, that Israel is not the cause for what I'd call the 'anti-momentum' in the talks," Interior Minister Yosef Burg told reporters at Ben-Gurion Airport.

"We have to find new methods for making progress," Burg said. "That's the purpose of our meeting in London."

The negotiations on establishing autonomy for 1.2 million Arabs in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip have been held up because of disagreement over the extent of the autonomous administration's authority.

Burg hinted that he would present several new Israeli proposals during the talks, but refused to elaborate.

Party leader stoned

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Raj Narain, head of the major party in India's ruling coalition and a close advisor of Prime Minister Charan Singh, was hospitalized today with head injuries after being attacked by a mob hurling stones and sandals, an Indian news agency reported.

United News of India said Narain, 62, and B.P. Maurya, another leader of the Peoples' Party, were attacked Wednesday night at a political meeting in the northern India town of Kota.

Five other persons were injured when Narain's supporters swung cane clubs at the protesters, who shouted anti-Narain slogans and hurled stones and sandals at him.

No arrests were reported.

Soviet journalist defects

TOKYO (AP) — A 38-year-old Soviet journalist has flown to the United States seeking political asylum.

Defector Stanislav A. Levchenko left Wednesday night after getting permission to enter the United States, the U.S. Embassy said. Kyodo, the Japanese news agency, said he travelled on a Pan Am airliner.

Levchenko had been Tokyo correspondent for the Soviet magazine Novoye Vremya (New Times) since February 1975. A Foreign Ministry official said he left his wife and child in Japan.

The official said Levchenko visited the U.S. Embassy on Wednesday, informed officials he hoped to obtain asylum in the United States and later told the Foreign Ministry and the National Police Agency of his intention to defect.

Names in the news

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Allen Hunter voiced no regret for smacking atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair in the face with a chocolate pie. But he says he hopes it was completely thawed.

Mrs. O'Hair filed assault charges against the Albuquerque man Wednesday. George Morrison, a spokesman for the Bernalillo County district attorney's office said the charges would be investigated.

The incident occurred Tuesday night after Mrs. O'Hair, addressing the newly formed Albuquerque Chapter of American Atheists, asked all Christians to leave the room. About a dozen persons refused.

Hunter, who was sitting in the front row, opened his brief case, removed the pie and hit Mrs. O'Hair in the right side of the face. Police were summoned to remove Hunter and the hecklers.

Hunter, who was not arrested, said he hoped the pie was completely thawed, adding, "She got the Supreme Court to outlaw prayer in public schools while I was a little kid in school. I really first got mad at her back then."

LONDON (AP) — Fund-raising efforts for the Vietnamese boat people will apparently have to get by without a little help from the Beatles.

Ex-Beatle Paul McCartney dashed speculation about a charity concert when he told reporters Wednesday night: "We all talked together, but the Beatles will not be getting together again." They broke up in 1971 but last played together in 1969.

McCartney, 37, who founded the successful Wings group with his American wife, Linda Eastman, after the Beatles broke up, was in town to receive honors from the publishers of the Guinness Book of World Records.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alexander Godunov has performed for the first time since he defected from the Russian Bolshoi Ballet in August. Godunov danced the pas de deux from "Le Corsaire" with prima ballerina Cynthia Gregory on Wednesday for a segment taped for airing on the "NBC Sunday Spectacular" on Dec. 30.

In an interview prior to the taping, Godunov seemed nervous about his American television debut. "I have not danced for months," he said through an interpreter. "That is terrible. Being on stage is necessary in my profession. Otherwise I am dead."

The segment will run about six to seven minutes on the two-hour show, but was taped in five segments at the Goldwyn Studios.

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — The tiny nun whose nickname — "Saint of the Gutters" — is known worldwide after she won the Nobel Peace Prize has come home to her family — the beggars, lepers and hollow-eyed street urchins who haunt the Calcutta ghettos.

Wednesday's reception for Mother Theresa was attended by 5,000 cheering people. The 69-year-old Roman Catholic nun who heads the Missionaries of Charity was awarded the peace prize last week. She has served and nursed the poorest inhabitants of this crowded city for 25 years.

TVA attacks suit filed by Cherokees

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority, saying its embattled Tellico Dam has been discussed in court more than any other federal project, wants a judge to dismiss a suit by Cherokee Indians seeking to halt construction again.

TVA filed a 31-page brief Wednesday attacking the Cherokees' suit and contending the Indians have opposed the dam for more than a decade but only this month raised religious objections to it.

"We think it is clear that under all accepted principles of equity, parties cannot sit back while over $141 million is spent on construction of a project and then — when construction is completed and the project ready to operate — seek to halt it on the basis of religious claims advanced for the first time," TVA said.

U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor has set a hearing for Friday on the Cherokees' motion for a restraining order to prevent TVA from closing the dam's gates and on TVA's motion to dismiss the suit.

Two bands of Cherokees, one in North Carolina and the other in Oklahoma, filed the suit Oct. 12, charging a lake created by the dam will flood their ancestors' sacred burial grounds.

The suit contends that covering graves with water is against Cherokee religious beliefs and therefore violates their First Amendment rights to freedom of religion.

The dam will turn a 33-mile stretch of the Little Tennessee River into a 16,000-acre lake for industrial and recreation development.

TVA last week completed all the work needed to begin impounding the lake.

Lee speech team sweeps awards in tournament

The Lee High School speech team had the highest percentage of wins of the 33 participating schools at the recent MacArthur High School Speech Tournament in San Antonio.

Third-place debate honors in the tournament went to seniors Deanne Durfee and Marvin Moore. Juniors Eric Fryar and John Kimberly and sophomores Kenny Jonsson and Randy Iola tied for fourth place.

Fryar qualified for the Texas Forensics Association State Tournament in oratory while Miss Durfee qualified for the state meet in girls' extemporaneous speaking.

Continental starts new service

Continental Airlines is starting a new service to New York-Newark via Houston from Midland Regional Airport effective Sunday, according to Charles Logue, regional director for the Permian Basin.

The airline plans to operate a daily service with a plane leaving Midland at 6:30 a.m. and arriving at Newark Airport at 11:50 a.m. Return flights will leave Newark at 11:30 a.m. and 6:15 p.m., arriving in Midland at 4:08 p.m. and 10:48 p.m., respectively.

Ex-scoutmaster draws six-month term in killing

MIAMI (AP) — Carmine "Chuck" Falco, the former scoutmaster who set a firearm booby trap in his home and killed a 14-year-old member of his Boy Scout troop, has been given a six-month jail term.

Falco, 31, pleaded no contest to manslaughter Wednesday in the death of Richard Brush Jr. He had described the boy as "my right-hand man, a key leader in my Scout troop."

Falco was sentenced to spend every other week in jail for a year and to two years' probation. Defense attorney Paul Lipton said Falco will appeal.

Before passing sentence, Circuit Judge Frederick Barad heard several character witnesses praised Falco's record of service to youngsters.

"But I must point out to you, Mister Falco, that on July 18 you failed to obey the law with tragic consequences," Barad said.

Falco never denied rigging a 22-caliber rifle to a chair in his living room with the trigger connected to a bathroom door by a string.

"I knew exactly how to set it up, how to scare somebody away," Falco said of the booby trap in an earlier interview.

He said he learned how to set booby traps while in Vietnam. "Unfortunately the only thing the Army taught me was how to use a weapon to destroy an individual in every possible way."

The booby trap was designed to shoot at anyone coming out of the bathroom. The night before the shooting, a burglar had entered Falco's home through the bathroom window.

The night of July 18, Brush, a neighbor, close friend and member of Falco's Scout Troop 85, apparently climbed through the bathroom window and tried to enter the living room.

He died instantly as the rifle fired a single shot into his chest.

"I haven't the slightest idea why the boy broke in," Falco said. "Anything I had I would have shared with him. He was too beautiful a person to do something like this."

Falco's attorneys said the family had been beset with burglaries while Falco and his wife, Kerri, worked at a home for troubled juveniles. Lipton said state law gives homeowners an implied right to defend their homes with deadly force, even when the homes are unoccupied.

"If he'd known it was a kid, he wouldn't have set it," said the Rev. Joseph Carroll, who spoke for Falco at the hearing. "He had been burglarized three times, the last time the day before. He just set the gun, a little single-shot gun, to scare someone."

"Surely, the victim had committed a crime," Barad acknowledged. "But Mr. Falco, did a 14-year-old youngster have to die for that?"

Barad made no official finding of guilt in order to leave Falco without a criminal record.

Falco was sentenced to serve his time in a minimum-security Dade County jail to allow him to keep his youth-oriented club job.

He was released pending a ruling on his appeal.

Brush's father, Richard, interviewed before Falco was charged, said "Richard was a little boy. He was a nice boy. He was an ordinary boy who loved camping. Why he went in that house I don't know."

Wayne County struggling with debt of $19.5 million

DETROIT (AP) — Vital services to 2.6 million residents of Wayne County, the third most populous in the nation, will shrink but will be maintained as the county struggles with a $19.5 million debt, county officials promise.

"But there's no doubt the residents will be affected," Commissioner Alex Pilch said Wednesday. "The courts have to run, clerks have to register people to vote, deeds must be taken care of. People depend on these things."

Commissioners voted Tuesday to lay off 4,825 of the county's 5,300 full-time workers, later recalling 2,400 to their jobs. The county, which missed last week's $2.3 million payroll and isn't expected to deliver $1.8 million in paychecks this week, said it will pay the recalled workers with IOUs.

The rest, Pilch said, will be on indefinite layoff but will be back on the job Dec. 1 when the 1980 fiscal year begins.

However, Assistant Attorney General Milton Firestone said his staff is doing research on the legality of the plan to pay recalled workers with promissory notes.

And representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees were to go to court today to bar the county from using the IOUs and to request a freeze on all county expenditures until employees are paid.

The county is trying to come to grips with a deficit in its $350 million 1979 budget. Hearings on a 1980 budget, projected at $280 million and including wage and salary freezes and the elimination of six departments, begin next week.

In the meantime, county officials must figure out how to get through November.

On Tuesday, Pilch submitted a resolution to the 27-member commission that asks the state to free $12 million in tax advances.

IN A WORLD OF CHANGING PRICES, SINGER PRICES HAVE CHANGED TOO.

While the cost of almost everything keeps getting higher, the cost of sewing with Singer is lower. Earlier this year, we dropped the regular price of this Stylist* machine $30. Now we're reducing it $40 more. So, for a limited time, you can buy it for $70 less than you could last year.

It has a free-arm, 6 built-in stitches, a built-in buttonholer and a front drop-in bobbin — features that help make sewing easier on a Singer* machine.

And today, with the price of clothing skyrocketing, sewing makes more sense than ever. Because for less than half the cost of ready-to-wear, you can stay in style with Singer.

7 POINT TUNE-UP ONLY $9.95

Make sure your machine is in top working order. Bring it to the Singer Store* along with this coupon, before November 3rd. Parts aren't included in this special offer, but all these services are:

- Balance tension adjustment
- Fabric handling mechanism adjustment
- Motor inspection and lubrication
- Threading mechanism cleaning
- Belt tension adjustment
- Wiring inspection
- Machine lubrication

Winning the girl important to coach

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Winning games isn't everything to coach Jim Place. His Beavercreek High School football team has a so-so 3-4-1 record. But his homecoming dating service for bashful running-backs and lonely linemen has posted a sparkling 95-1 mark.

Three years ago, Place decided each of his 93 players would get a date and then the team would go en masse to the homecoming dance.

He's been on a quest for a perfect record ever since. "There's a whole lot more to life than football and Xs and Os," said Place, who recalls the days when he was a defensive end at the University of Dayton and missed going to three of the school's homecoming dances.

"There's a lot more to school spirit and school involvement than winning the big game."

The coach's dating record the first year didn't give Cupid much cause for concern. There were a dozen holdouts. But l'amour, voluntary or otherwise, truly began to blossom in 1978.

By then, there was something called the unofficial Place Compulsory Dating Service, a system whereby the match-making mentor paired up his unwilling stalwarts from a list of willing girls.

The record last year improved to 97-2. This season, with girls' soccer coach Beth Plocker and spirit club advisor Sharon Woods joining the coach's dating staff, "we were a little more organized."

As for the lone blemish on his 95-1 slate, Place said, "He wanted to ask this girl and she wanted to go with him but he just couldn't get up the courage to pick up the phone and call her. It's that fear of calling her up...you know what I mean."

"Once when I was in high school I remember wanting to ask this girl out, then finding myself picking up the phone five times to make that call and putting it down five times because I didn't have the nerve."

That timid pattern continued to plague Place in college.

"All I did was eat, sleep and drink football, but when I became a coach I decided I wanted my players to know that life was more than football and homecoming was a special time for the team to get together and have a good time," said Place, who obviously learned to pick up the phone after all.

He attends the yearly dance with his wife, a former University of Dayton homecoming attendant.

Beavercreek dropped this year's homecoming game 24-20, but Place, perhaps dreaming of a 96-0 dating season next year, appeared unruffled by the loss.

"Hey, even when you lose you can't beat togetherness," he said, "and most of the time we're together."

Search for abducted girl enters third day

DALLAS (AP) — The family of 7-year-old Elizabeth Barclay has offered a $5,000 reward for the safe return of the little girl or the arrest and conviction of her abductor.

A 24-hour-a-day search for the child entered its third day today.

Elizabeth, who is 3 feet, 6 inches tall and has long blonde hair, was abducted Tuesday evening as she walked to a store to buy some ice cream with two other youngsters, her 3-year-old brother Scott Barclay and a 5-year-old companion J.R. Potter.

The two other children were not harmed, but they told police a husky black man in his 30s abducted Elizabeth and threatened to "take her and throw her into the water."

Police scoured all area lakes and creeks Wednesday without success. The brunt of a 35-officer task force was ordered to resume the search at 8 a.m. today, but some officers worked on case throughout the night.

The missing girl lived with her mother, Linda Barclay, at a north-west Dallas apartment. Mrs. Barclay is divorced, but police discounted domestic problems in the case.

"We have questioned her thoroughly, and we're satisfied the abduction has nothing whatsoever to do with...any relationship she has with people," said Police Sgt. D.N. James.

George Potter said he gave his son money for the ice cream. "I said are you going with Scottie's mama, and they said no," Potter said. "I thought, well, nobody is going to bother three kids."

Relatives of the child headquartered at Mrs. Barclay's apartment to wait out the crisis, including the girl's father, David Barclay, who flew in from San Francisco where he works as an Army research technician.

"We've got family from all over who came as soon as they heard — an aunt from Matigorda Bay near Galveston," he said. "My ex-wife has been really distressed. Some of her family is up there with her and some of mine. We're trying to screen all the people who go up to the apartment."

Police Lt. M.P. Southall said detectives were poring over files of known sex offenders "but we haven't been able to connect anybody with this offense. We're doing everything we can think of to do."

Officers checked alleyways, gravel pits, lakes, creeks and rivers, and 13 tactical teams combed the immediate area of the kidnapping searching for the pair. The little girl was wearing white shorts and a white halter top with orange and green dots.

Becky Stevens, Elizabeth's schoolteacher, said the abducted child was a leader in her first grade classroom.

"She's got so much sense — she's an independent little girl — that she probably could take care of herself if given the chance," Mrs. Stevens said. "If Elizabeth never comes back, the children have got to know the truth — they have got to know why."

Authorities charge two men with abduction of Illinois man

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal authorities in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, have charged two men with the kidnapping of an Illinois businessman who was ransomed for $125,000, the FBI says.

David Lynn Pulley, 22, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Thomas Patrick Dugan, 37, of Williamsville, N.Y., were being held in the Linn County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond after appearing Wednesday before a federal magistrate.

FBI spokesman George Mandich said U.S. Magistrate James D. Hodges continued until Nov. 2 a hearing on the charges and possible extradition to Illinois.

The two are accused of abducting Robert W. Strauss, 27, a businessman in McHenry County, shortly after midnight Sunday.

Strauss was found early Wednesday in an abandoned barn in Wisconsin just north of the Illinois line. He was handcuffed and blindfolded, but unhurt.

Strauss was reunited with his wife, Sandra, and two children at his home in Lakewood, a northwest Chicago suburb, where he operates the Communications Leasing Co. The company installs mobile telephones.

The motive for the abduction was not known, but one or both men may have "had some association or knowledge or contact with the victim," Mandich said.

The ransom, wrapped in a package, was left for the kidnappers as instructed at a rural highway site between Algonquin and Antioch. The money had been raised by the family and friends, Mandich said.

Meanwhile, other agents trailed the car with the two alleged abductors to near Iowa City, Iowa, where both were arrested about 3 a.m.

The kidnappers called Mrs. Strauss once they picked up the money, telling where Strauss could be found, then headed west across Illinois on Interstate 80, Mandich said.

FBI agents found Strauss handcuffed to a post at the barn near the southeastern tip of Rock Lake in Kenosha County. The area is just north of Antioch and the Illinois line.

Meanwhile, other agents trailed the car with the two alleged abductors to near Iowa City, Iowa, where both were arrested about 3 a.m.

Murder warrants issued for five

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Authorities have prepared murder arrest warrants for five juveniles in connection with the death of a high school classmate, killed when a congenitally weak artery burst during an after-school beating by six assailants.

An 18-year-old Holmes High School student was also sought, authorities said Wednesday. Arrests were expected today.

Billy Barnett, 15, a sophomore member of the school's Rodeo Club, died Monday afternoon during the attack by six other students from a rival faction.

Barnett and his assailants had just left a school bus that stopped near Barnett's house.

Police at first thought the youth had been beaten and kicked to death, but Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Ruben Santos ruled Tuesday that the ruptured artery, not the blows, killed Barnett.

"The internal examination showed classic, natural bleeding produced by a ruptured aneurysm at the center base of the brain," said Santos, who received numerous angry calls after the ruling was made public. "The artery ballooned out and eventually burst. He was not killed by the blows," he said. "My conclusions are final — death by natural causes."

Santos said the weakened artery could have ruptured while Barnett was playing baseball or watching an exciting football game. But he conceded the beating could have produced emotional excitement in the victim, causing the blood pressure to rise and the artery to burst.

The district attorney's office still views the case as a homicide, First Assistant District Attorney Charles Conaway said Wednesday.

The evidence shows that the youth was assaulted. "So it's not a natural death," said Conaway. "It may be that nobody gets prosecuted, but we're not going to let it drop at Dr. Santos' ruling it was natural death," he added.

Conaway had earlier said the ultimate charges might not be murder, but involuntary manslaughter or assault. Asked why murder was alleged in the juvenile warrants charging delinquent conduct, he said, "We take the position it is as great a crime as we can possibly prosecute under."

The charges might still be reduced, he added.

All six suspects are Spanish surnamed and males, officials said. Three are 16 and two are 15.

Abel Juarez, head investigator in the case, said Wednesday that arrests would be made after a district judge signs the special juvenile warrants today.

State District Judge Mike Machado signed an order Wednesday permitting police to photograph the juveniles in order for witnesses to make positive identifications. Police spent Tuesday taking statements from students on the bus who witnessed the attack. Investigators said they were told the attack stemmed from tension at the 3,100-student suburban high school between "kickers," those who belong to the Rodeo Club and dress in country-and-western style, and "pot heads," those who allegedly smoke marijuana and dress in "hippie" fashion.

Officers said Barnett's cowboy hat had been crushed in an earlier incident and said the youth was attacked because he was a "kicker."

School administrators, who said they had not been aware of any serious tension between rival factions, took steps Tuesday to calm the situation.

Funeral services were scheduled today for Barnett, described by teachers and friends as "a quiet boy who has never been in trouble."

Grand jury to study Medi-Cal allegations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Months after lawmakers restricted searches of doctors' records, a grand jury will begin digging through thousands of documents seized following allegations the state's Medi-Cal program may be losing $1 billion a year to fraud.

Agents from the state attorney general's office, armed with search warrants, seized the papers during March raids on hospitals and the offices of Spectro Health Services and Dr. Edward H. Rubin, who state Health Services auditors say owns a controlling interest in the firm.

An affidavit filed in Los Angeles Municipal Court by the attorney general's office accuses Spectro of soaking Medi-Cal — and taxpayers — for millions of dollars by overcharging for checkups or urging doctors to send Medi-Cal patients unnecessarily to Spectro hospitals.

"The main goal of Spectro Health Services and its related entities is simply to obtain as much money as possible from the Medi-Cal program by whatever means which will deceive the agencies that receive, process and pay the claims," the affidavit charged. The grand jury will begin its investigation next month.

State auditors say they have a document showing Rubin had a 52 percent interest in Spectro as of late 1977. The firm's president, Glen Gold, says Rubin has no interest in Spectro.

Rubin has refused interviews, but after a CBS "60 Minutes" broadcast on Spectro and Rubin's clinics, his attorneys issued a statement on his behalf.

"As lawyers, our ethics require our cases in the courtroom and not in the news media, and it is for this reason alone that Dr. Rubin's vindication will occur through the judicial process if...the attorney general's office decides to present their suspicions in court rather than on television," the statement said.

Medi-Cal, the state's version of the federal Medicare program, provides financial help to low-income and elderly people.

Robert James, chief auditor of the $4 billion program, resigned last month under pressure from Health Services Director Beverlee Myers. James had criticized the state's Little Hoover Commission report charging fraud and bill padding in the program. The chairman of the commission made the $1 billion estimate, based on a Health Services audit, but James argued the estimate was too high.

Legislation stemming from the investigation is in the works, but the only proposal passed so far was the bill which would prevent the type of raid in which agents seized the Spectro and Rubin documents.

The bill restricts searches of records of doctors, lawyers and clergy not suspected of crimes. A court-appointed attorney must accompany police on such searches to insure confidentiality is maintained in the seizure of records.

The investigation was based on a Health Services audit of Spectro, according to attorney general's spokesman Tony Cimarruto. The state also received some information in 1976 from a confidential 1973 report compiled by two members of a Senate health subcommittee chaired by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Kennedy press secretary Tom Southwick said the committee staff did not make a formal report on Rubin, but saved material until legislation Kennedy was backing passed in 1975 and in 1977 turned the file over to the Justice Department. There has been no indication of any federal investigation of Rubin or Spectro.

Former grain dealer enters two guilty pleas

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Robert Johnson, a former grain dealer whose worth was once estimated at $30 million, will be sentenced next month on two counts of interstate transportation of stolen property.

Johnson, 43, clutching a Bible and asking forgiveness, pleaded guilty to the two charges Wednesday. The pleas came in a bargain with federal prosecutors, who said they would drop 13 other charges against the man who dropped out of sight Jan. 3, 1977.

Friends said at that time that Johnson fell from a cabin cruiser in the Gulf of Mexico and presumably drowned. Using an alias, Johnson remained at large for more than two years. But he was stopped for running a stop sign in Rexburg, Idaho, last July 15, and a records check revealed his identity.

He was jailed in lieu of $1 million bond, later reduced to $500,000. Nine months after he dropped out of sight, a federal grand jury charged Johnson with 17 counts of transporting stolen grain across state lines.

Federal grain inspectors had visited Johnson's grain elevators and turned up "considerable" shortages. Some 300 farmers in Texas, Oklahoma and Colorado reportedly lost $2 million because of the shortages.

Soviet ships add to 200,000 tons of food from East European allies

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Soviet ships are ferrying relief supplies up the Mekong River to Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, and the new regime there says it has received about 200,000 tons of food from Moscow and its East European allies.

International relief officials in Bangkok said the vessels presumably enter the river at the coast of southern Vietnam, 200 miles downstream from Phnom Penh.

It has also been announced that Soviet vessels are delivering food and other supplies to Cambodia's seaport on the south coast, Kompong Som.

Western relief officials cannot confirm the report that the Soviet Bloc has sent 200,000 tons of food to the Phnom Penh government. But they assume that the deliveries have been substantial since aid from other foreign sources has been minimal so far.

Three American senators flew back to the United States today saying they had an "extremely encouraging" sign from Phnom Penh about their plan to send truck convoys of food to Cambodia from Thailand.

The senators, James Sasser, D-Tenn., Max Baucus, D-Mont., and John C. Danforth, R-Mo., flew to Phnom Penh Wednesday to discuss with Foreign Minister Hun Sen their proposal to truck 1,000 tons of aid a day to Cambodia.

Radio Phnom Penh quoted Hun Sen as saying that in case of a substantial increase in foreign aid, his government was ready to "study the improvement of our means of reception and transportation and to think about other access routes in case of need."

However, stretches of highway from from the Thai border to Phnom Penh are in poor shape after years of war and neglect. The trucks also might be attacked by the Khmer Rouge guerrillas of ousted Cambodian Premier Pol Pot, who was driven from Phnom Penh by the Vietnamese army nine months ago.

The Vietnamese are stepping up their operations against the guerrillas following the end of the monsoons, and U.S. officials estimate up to 3 million Cambodians are threatened by starvation. President Carter said Wednesday the U.S. government would try to expedite $69 million worth of aid to them to avert "a tragedy of genocidal proportions."

Minister Kriangsak Chommanan cut short a Southeast Asian tour today and returned to Bangkok, pleading ill health and "pressing problems at home."

He was in Malaysia and had been scheduled to go on to Indonesia and the Philippines. The Philippine Foreign Ministry said he was suffering from bronchitis and also that the situation along the Thai-Cambodian border was worsening.

This apparently stemmed from reports that 100 Vietnamese soldiers had crossed from Cambodia into Thailand and then returned. Thai officials had no immediate comment on the reports.

Leftists occupy buildings, hold 134 persons hostage

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Nearly 1,000 leftists occupied the labor and economy ministries and held four Cabinet officials and 130 other persons hostage, demanding higher wages, price controls and release of political prisoners from the junta that took power in El Salvador 10 days ago.

About 100 of the leftists, armed with pistols and machetes, took over the Labor Ministry shortly before noon Wednesday. They seized Labor Minister Gabriel Gallegos Valdes, Undersecretary Maria Teresa de Avile and 30 other hostages.

They demanded release of all political prisoners and information on the fate of some 500 persons they said disappeared while in police custody before President Carlos Humberto Romero was ousted Oct. 15.

They said they would stay until their demands were met. Government spokesmen said the junta will attempt to open talks with the demonstrators.

About 800 other leftists who had been chanting anti-junta slogans outside the Labor Ministry marched into the Economy Ministry about 300 yards away about 1 p.m. They took Economy Minister Manuel Heints, Undersecretary Oscar Menjivar and 100 other persons captive.

They demanded higher wages and government controls to bring down prices on such essentials as rice, red beans and corn, the staple foods for most of El Salvador's 4.5 million people. Prices of the staples have risen 30 to 50 percent in the past six months.

No violence was reported, and the police did not intervene.

Most of the demonstrators were from the Popular Revolutionary Bloc of peasants, workers and students, El Salvador's largest populist group. It has refused to back the new regime and is occupying most of the churches in San Salvador.

The Bloc is pledged to non-violence. But some of its members and other leftists occupied the two ministries in September 1976, and that time the demonstrators held guns to the heads of the ministers until the military government headed by Romero's predecessor met, some of their demands. Then the ministers were freed unharmed and the occupation ended.

On Wednesday about 1,000 persons demonstrated in support of the new junta but their march fizzled out. Up to 10,000 anti-government protesters then took to the streets and 1,000 converged on the ministries.

Relatives of missing political prisoners continued a tent-in at a downtown plaza, meanwhile, demanding information on the fate of their loved ones. Government security forces were told by the junta to stay away from the park and churches and other occupied buildings.

The military has governed El Salvador for 47 years, running the country in close cooperation with the small landed oligarchy that controls the economy. After months of mounting violence by extremists of both the left and right, Romero was ousted in a coup led by two colonels who added three civilians to their junta. But the military is still running things.

U.S. to build fighter plane complexes in Saudi Arabia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department, continuing its effort to help Saudi Arabia revamp its military forces, plans to build $1.5 billion worth of complexes there for advanced F-15 fighter planes.

The proposed construction deal will become final unless Congress rejects it within 30 days.

The project would enhance Saudi Arabia's status as top buyer of U.S. military equipment and services. Saudi arms purchases approved earlier total more than $25.6 billion, including the 60 F-15 fighters that would be housed at the new bases. The planes are to start arriving in Saudi Arabia in late 1981.

The revolution that ended the regime of the pro-American Shah of Iran made Saudi Arabia the main pillar of U.S. defense policy in the oil-producing Persian Gulf region.

Pentagon officials, arguing Wednesday for approval, said "Saudi Arabia remains the cornerstone for attaining U.S. foreign policy objectives in the Arabian peninsula, and adequate F-15 aircraft basing will improve the deterrent capabilities of the Royal Saudi Arabian Air Force."

The F-15 is the U.S. Air Force's most sophisticated jet fighter. Other foreign buyers include Japan, which has ordered 100, and Israel, which has 25 of the powerful twin-engine planes and has ordered 15 more.

Since 1972, the United States has been helping Saudi Arabia modernize its air force, army and navy, and build the necessary support bases and command centers.

The construction proposal outlined Wednesday by the Pentagon calls for upgrading facilities at the Dhahran, Taif and Khamis Mushayt air bases. The United States will provide engineering and design services, prepare construction sites, and build hangars, warehouses, maintenance shops, training and storage areas, shelters to protect the fighters, housing, roads and utilities.

No contractors have been selected yet, Pentagon officials said. In other arms sales notifications to Congress, the Pentagon proposed selling Israel 250 improved Chaparral anti-aircraft missiles for $32.6 million; and providing South Korea with military aircraft spare parts and supplies, as well as four air defense control systems, for $114.2 million.

Chamber starts early breakfast

Members of the Midland Chamber of Commerce who like to start their day early will have an additional incentive to get going early.

The chamber's Early Bird Breakfast for October will be at 7 a.m. Nov. 1 in the Midland Hilton.

Sponsor for the breakfast is the Midland Chamber who is planning some contests for those who attend.

Director explains Young Life program for Midland youth

Steve Partlow, director of the Young Life program in Midland, was the speaker Wednesday noon at the meeting of the Downtown Lions Club in the Midland Hilton.

He explained that Young Life is a non-denominational, non-profit organization for interested high school students. The organization was founded 38 years ago at Dallas, he said. It now reaches into more than 200 communities across the nation, touching 67,000 youths each week, meeting in the living rooms of members. There are no dues, obligations or attendance requirements, the speaker said.

Partlow explained that youths today are concerned with physical attractiveness, which is important in establishing self worth; they need to feel "a somewhat intelligent," and they feel they must have money.

"When one, two or all three of these are lacking in a high school boy or girl, they often feel left out, and then they may start sliding down the long road of despair, often leading to trouble," Partlow said. "It is the purpose of Young Life to reach as many of these kids as possible before they hit that stage."

He said this is the time when Young Life can be most effective by providing care, counseling and guidance for those needing same.

In reviewing the Young Life program in Midland, Partlow said "we help these youths find out who they really are, largely through teaching the basics of the Christian faith."

He said outside contacts are very important, adding that "we go where the kids are."

The organization depends heavily on volunteer leaders, the speaker said.

"We lend to the youths an adult ear, by those who care," he said. Young Life came to Midland in 1976, Partlow said, starting first at Midland High School and later branching out at Lee High. More than 225 youths regularly attend weekly meetings here.

The speaker said Young Life has an active camping program, and makes frequent trips to points of interest.

The Midland program is sponsored by a group including 16 couples interested in the Young Life movement.

Liz Armstrong, a high school student who accompanied Partlow to the meeting, related briefly what Young Life has meant to her. "It has opened my eyes to God and Jesus Christ," she said, adding "it is lots of fun" and excitement.

...PERMIAN BASIN PLANNED PARENTHOOD has a new telephone information service now available in the 17 county area covered by the organization and has classes beginning in fertility awareness-natural family planning.

The information service is available 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Residents outside Odessa should call 1-800-592-4560. Odessa residents can call 332-2833.

The information line has been installed to provide the public with a resource for answering questions in areas of human sexuality, birth control, venereal disease, infertility and pregnancy. Referrals will be made to other community agencies when necessary.

All calls are confidential and the caller may remain anonymous. The fertility awareness-natural family planning classes will teach ways to observe, chart, and interpret natural bodily signs of fertility and infertility.

An instructor has been certified and will offer monthly classes. There is no charge for the first class which is designed to give an overview of fertility awareness methods and Permian Basin Planned Parenthood's program. All other classes are based on ability to pay.

Interested persons can call 1-800-592-4560, outside of Odessa, and 563-2530 for Midland-Odessa residents...

Report on rape in Midland given at Crime Prevention Workshop

By WANDA MOUTON
Lifestyle Editor

"There has been a 21% increase of rape in Midland-over the past five years," said Linda Petree, a captain in the Criminal Division of the Midland County Sheriff's Department.

Scene was the "Citizens Against Crime" workshop Tuesday co-sponsored by the Permian Basin Girl Scout Council and the Midland Crime Prevention Commission.

Capt. Petree conducted the rape workshop, while other law enforcement officers presented programs on drugs, home security and alcohol prevention.

The workshops were held at the Girl Scout Service Center, 901 W. Dengar Ave.

Capt. Petree said that the 21% increase of rape in Midland was also a nationwide statistic. She also suggested prevention methods and showed a film presentation.

"The main interest lies in whether a woman should give passive or active resistance to the rape situation," she said.

"The answer can only be that it depends on the individual concerned, the situation and the rapist," she said.

She cited reports from a Rape Preventive Inquiry in which convicts interviewed stated that women should passively submit because they said that the more the woman fights, the more chance of her being physically abused.

"However, the police department will not give an opinion as to what a woman should do," said Capt. Petree. "She has several alternatives. But, above all, she should remain calm," she added.

"The key word is prevention," she said. "There are many things a woman can do to avoid being the victim of attack."

Studies show that 51% of rapes occur in residences, and a large number occur as a result of hitchhiking.

"In many cases, the rapist personally knows his victim," she added. "Men who rape are from all walks of life and ethnic backgrounds, more than half are under 25, and three out of five are married and leading normal sex lives."

"They commit rape in order to control and humiliate another person—not out of sexual desire," she said.

She also said that studies have revealed that the increase of population is not the primary reason for the increase of rape.

"In Midland, the population is increasing, but we also have a more transient traffic," she explained. "Also, with more women working and in public, there's just more opportunity for rape."

Capt. Petree reported on the November opening of the Rape Crisis Center in Midland.

"The Center will be available to aid rape victims who do not want to report the incidence to the police," she said.

"There will also be aid and counseling available."

The Center will also be providing speakers for programs, brochures and other information. Persons interested in being a volunteer or contacting the center about resources available should call 682-7273, said Capt. Petree.

DEAR ABBY

It's just not Mother's Day

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is for HURT MOTHER, who did so much for her daughter while father did nothing. And now that daughter is grown, mother is treated like dirt, while father is respected and adored. For the first 25 years of our marriage, my husband was either working, sleeping or in taverns, so

I was both mother and father to our children. I was the one who made them wash the dishes, iron their clothes and do their homework. I also punished them when necessary, so, of course, I was the "mean" one. The children grew up to adore their father, but they had many harsh words for me. Our children are now married, with children of their own. They have just begun to realize that their father did nothing that fathers are supposed to do, so when they telephone us, they ask, "Is Mom there?" My husband asks me, "How come they never ask for ME?" I'm reminded of the old saying, "The only ones who don't make mistakes are the ones who don't do anything."

Some day your daughter will realize that — NOT HURT ANYMORE. DEAR ABBY: The letter from HURT MOTHER jogged my memory. She said she had done everything for her children while dad did nothing. Well, if I may be permitted my 2 cents worth: my mother also did a lot for us children, but she spent twice as much time reminding us of it. She also spent a lot of time comparing her children. I am now the mother of two daughters. I do a lot for them, not because I must be a "good mother," but because I enjoy it. I hope that when my daughters have children of their own, their childhood memories of "mother" will be ones of security and love — not guilt and disapproval. — BEEN THERE BUT NOT GOING BACK

Miss Harvey, Umfress recite wedding vows

Rebecca Joyce Harvey and Benjamin Charles Umfress, both of Midland, exchanged double ring vows at 9 p.m. Oct. 17 in Calvary Assembly of God.

The Rev. J. W. Stovall officiated the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. William Jack Harvey, 2703 W. Francis St. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Goldie Umfress, 307 California St.

Honor attendants were Judy Pederson of Midland, matron of honor, and Dennis Kirby of Olney, best man.

Brenda Harvey of Midland attended her sister-in-law as bridesmatron.

Doug Curry Jr., nephew of the bridegroom, seated the guests, and Jack Harvey Jr. of Midland, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Trea Harvey, nephew of the bride, carried the rings and Tonya Curry, niece of the bridegroom, was flower-girl.

After a wedding trip to Dallas and Fort Worth, the couple is living at 3706 Gaston St.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Midland High School, is employed by Midland Radiator Wrecker and Salvage. The bridegroom is an employee of Curry Construction Co.

Let your little goblins have fun with Create-A-Pumpkin Oatmeal cookies.

A Halloween party is brewing with cookies

CHICAGO, Ill. — The night wind howls and the wise old owl hoots in the distance. It's Halloween night and time for a party. The witches brew has boiled and bubbled for days and is ready for the first guests to arrive. The door creaks open and through a maze of cobwebs the first ghost arrives.

If you're planning a Halloween party for your children and their friends, let the little goblins have fun with Create-A-Pumpkin Oatmeal cookies. Witches and ghosts alike will enjoy decorating these delicious cookies with raisins, semi-sweet chocolate pieces, red cinnamon candies and candy corn. Let them personalize their own cookies.

To make these cookies, it couldn't be simpler. Just mix convenient oatmeal cookie mix, water, butter and pumpkin pie spice, form cookies and bake. The cookie mix eliminates extra mixing and measuring (something every goblin's mother will appreciate.)

The trick to this treat is making enough! They are fun to decorate and so good to eat. Make up lots for your party gathering and greet Halloween with a smile!

CREATE-A-PUMPKIN OATMEAL COOKIES

Cookies:
One 18-oz. pkg. oatmeal cookie mix
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 tbsps. water
1 1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
2 tbsps. butter of margarine, softened
2 tbsps. orange juice or milk

6 drops yellow food coloring
3 drops red food coloring semi-sweet chocolate pieces candy corn red cinnamon candies raisins

Frosting:
2 cups confectioners sugar

For cookies, combine all ingredient; mix well. Shape to form eighteen 1 1/2 inch balls. Place on greased cookie sheet about 3 inches apart and 2 1/2 inches from edge of cookie sheet; flatten with bottom of glass coated with sugar to form 2 1/2 inch cookie. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 9 to 10 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool one minute on cookie sheet; remove to wire cooling rack. Cool thoroughly.

For frosting, combine sugar, butter, juice and food coloring; beat until smooth. Spread cookies with frosting. Decorate as desired with raisins, chocolate pieces, candy corn and cinnamon candies to form faces. Makes 1 1/2 dozen cookies.

Meal for two may cause problems

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine And Food Writer

Statistics show that half the households in the United States today are made up of one or two people. This poses a problem: how to find easy and economical dishes to cook in such small amounts.

There are lots of recipes suitable for four, six or even eight at the dinner table, but not many for two.

A friend recently told us of one solution she had hit upon for a couple or a single person entertaining a guest. She turned to the nourishing and versatile banana.

Bananas are the diet mainstay in the East Indies and Central

South America, as well as the Pacific Islands and most of Central Africa. So they must have something going for them. For one thing, nutritionists discovered long ago that bananas sustain life in hot lands better than such tropical starches as arrowroot or tapioca.

And when there is only a small amount of growing space, as on many islands, bananas will support more consumers than wheat will.

Man is not the only fan of the banana. Among other creatures fond of it, there's a tropical American oriole that likes the fruit so much that it is known as the banana bird.

For small households, the banana has been packaged by nature in a size ideal for single or double portions. And this does not apply just to salads and desserts.

One savory main dish I tried recently is the banana squash boat. It consists of a halved acorn squash baked and stuffed with diced bananas, sausage meat, onion, celery, bread crumbs and seasonings. Buttered walnuts are sprinkled over the squash, which is baked only a few minutes.

It is practically a meal in itself, requiring only a tossed salad, or sliced tomato and cucumber plate to round out the repast.

If you are weary of potatoes, rice or noodles as a side dish, try Golden Bananas. Breaded and fried, they are good served with beef, pork or poultry. Here's a recipe.

2 small yellow bananas, peeled
2 tablespoons flour
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/4 cup Italian-seasoned bread crumbs
3 tablespoons vegetable oil

Slice bananas into 1-inch pieces; dip in flour, then egg, and finally in bread crumbs. Heat oil in a medium-size skillet. Sauté bananas till they are golden brown on all sides. Serves 2. Good with a dry, chilled white wine with poultry, or a slightly chilled Beaujolais with beef or pork.

For your information

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Cottage Vegetable Bake makes a delightful supper dish that's as good to eat as it's nice to look at with a golden puff topping. Place a 20-ounce package of frozen mixed vegetables, thawed and drained, in a 1 1/2-quart buttered, shallow casserole. Beat two cups of cottage cheese and one-fourth cup of dairy sour cream until smooth; add two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Add two eggs and beat until well blended. Pour over vegetables and bake 40 minutes in a preheated 350 degree oven. Serves 6-8.

When making white sauce, to remove the saucepan from the source of heat when adding the milk to the butter-flour mixture. Keep stirring with a whisk as you blend milk into the mixture, then return to heat and cook at least one minute after it thickens.

Like a Chocolate Mint

Milk Shake? Blend one pint of vanilla ice cream with six tablespoons chocolate syrup, one-fourth teaspoon peppermint extract, then gradually add three cups of cold milk. Pour into chilled glasses and top with a scoop of peppermint ice cream for four to six servings.

SPECIAL OCCASIONS like Thanksgiving Day add spice to our lives, and they offer a reminder that the special occasional piece can be the one single decorative touch that turns an ordinary room into a special one.

In other words, you don't have to think only in terms of major pieces of furniture to effect big changes in a decorative scheme. A smaller, not-too-expensive piece, such as a distinctive occasional chair, can be just what the decorator ordered!

The occasional chair should be small enough to move around easily, to "pull up" for conversation or extra seating wherever it is needed. But it should also be striking enough, because of its beautiful lines, style or just because it is different, to create an extra focus of attention.

Other occasional or accent pieces can produce the same effect. Remember that occasional pieces can also serve varied purposes. The chair can serve as a desk chair, for example. The small chest can provide needed storage, function as a lamp table, or offer a setting for displaying a collection on top.

When it comes to special occasional pieces, you'll find much to please you when you browse through our furniture collection—quality furnishings by America's finest manufacturers, beautifully crafted for lasting value.

Midlanders use coupons, fish and chicken to cut food costs

By SANDI BREEDEN
Lifestyle Writer

Anyone who dares to walk through an aisle in a grocery store acknowledges what is becoming universal knowledge. It is no secret that grocery costs have soared during the last year and more people are having to watch their food budget to keep costs down. During a random survey this week, most Midlanders asked said they too were cutting down on food costs. Here's how they do it. Mrs. R. D. Hansen, 1402 Louisiana, has cut down on food costs mainly by making the baby food for her baby. "We recently had a baby and I'm making almost all the baby's food with a small food grinder," she said. Baby food is not the only way this mother cuts down on her food budget. "I only buy groceries on Wednesday and I buy major groceries for a two week period," she said. SHE ALSO WATCHES for food specials, uses coupons and keeps fresh fruit in the house. "I have two little boys and the fresh fruit can be served as dessert. This saves a lot of money." On the other side of the picture, Mrs. Steve Miles, 3801 Thomson, said all she does to save on food costs is to look for specials and shop at different stores with foods on sale at special prices. "I buy quite a bit of beef and I'm not going to cut down on it," she said. Mrs. A. W. Dillard, 2516 Sinclair, said she is not doing anything to cut down on food costs either. "I really have not tried to do anything specifically to cut down on food costs," she said. "I have found, however, that for the way we eat, I can buy a tenderloin and there is no waste." MRS. DILLARD ADDED that a tenderloin can be served for three or four meals to her family of three. "I've always watched my food bills," said Mrs. Billy C. Sanders, 3607 W. Storey. "I get as many things on special as I can." "We eat almost anything and we're buying less beef and more chicken. My family is not too fond of fish and we've always eaten pinto beans," she added. Using coupons and comparing prices are Mrs. Arthur S. Ramsey's, Warren Road, way of cutting down on food costs. "I compare prices and use quite a lot of coupons," she said. Using beef in different ways and not having beef every meal helps Mrs. C. E. Gallagher, 409 W. Hamby, save money on her food budget.

"I DON'T CUT down on beef as much as I do other things, but I am using it in different ways," she said. "I try to hit a lot of sales and we eat a lot of leftovers." Mrs. Gallagher said her family has a garden with a lot of vegetables and that has helped her cut food costs. "And when I buy vegetables in the store," she added, "I try to buy fresh vegetables like four for a $1." Eating beans in the winter is another thrifty way she saves money on food. "We don't eat beans in the summer, but we eat a lot of them in winter," she said. Selective pricing, is Mrs. Harold Eldridge's, 2821 Maxwell, saving money on food costs trick. "Before, I just bought what I needed," she said. Mrs. Eldridge said she has gone from beef to using more chicken, pork and tuna. "I also shop for specials," she added. FRESH VEGETABLES ARE more costly according to Mrs. Eldridge. "I prefer fresh vegetables but they are more costly and take longer to prepare so I use canned vegetables," she said. Using coupons and eating more fish and chicken is what Mrs. Joe Nixon, 1408 W. Washington, said she does to help keep her food costs down. "My dad raises chickens so we are eating more chicken," she said. "I also buy food on special and use food and magazine coupons." Mrs. Nixon said her family had a garden in the summer and "put up a lot of blackeyed peas and okra. I also bought a lot of canned vegetables in the summer because they are cheaper than in the winter." Contrary to what most people are doing, her food budget will not be where Mrs. Mike Luker, 4215 Ferncliff, cuts to save money. "I AM NOT cutting down on beef. I feel it's an important part of the meal," she said. "We eat the same food most of the time and if we have to cut down on things, I'll cut somewhere else, not the food bill." Mrs. Luker did say she belongs to a food co-op, but has found it doesn't save her much money, "but we like fresh produce, so we'll continue to be members." Eating a lot of beans, potatoes and hamburger meat is how Mrs. Glenn Sanders, 3105 W. Ohio, is saving on food costs. "I have cut down on buying steaks and roasts considerably," she said. Buying coupons is not one of the ways she saves money, but Mrs. Sanders said she does shop for foods marked down at special prices.

THE BUTCHER

Overcooking pork is a crime committed in the kitchen

By MERLE ELLIS

Maybe it's because pork is one of the best buys in the meatcase these days, and therefore more and more people are making pork a regular part of their diet. Or maybe it's because we have held tenaciously to some of the misconceptions about pork and how it should be cooked. Or perhaps it's just that many of us are in such an awfully big hurry when it comes to cooking anything. For whatever reason, I recently have received an unusual number of letters complaining about pork. "I cooked it according to, so dry it tasted like cardboard." "Pork chops cut thin, so tough the dog couldn't eat them." I would venture to guess that if any of you are having trouble with the quality of the pork you're putting on the table, the fault lies not with the pig but with the way you're cooking it. Thanks to modern breeding and feeding methods, the general quality of the pork that comes to market these days is far superior to that of even a decade ago. It's leaner, more uniform in size and quality, more wholesome and deserving of much better treatment in the kitchen. The most oft committed crime in the kitchen is that of overcooking. It is committed with equal brutality against all kinds of foods, vegetables as well as meat. But pork, it seems, is the most viciously victimized. MUCH OF THE problem stems from old cookbooks. Back in the days when Grandma was a girl, cookbooks recommended emphatically to the point of preaching that pork must be cooked well done. Good advice in those days, when trichinosis was a very real problem. These days, trichinosis is a clinical rarity in man. Years ago, scientists discovered that the trichina parasite is destroyed at 137 degrees and that cooking pork to an internal temperature of 165-170 degrees develops the best in flavor and juiciness. Yet, to this day, many cookbooks continue to recommend cooking pork to an internal temperature of 185. That is far more well done than today's pork needs to be. Don't overcook pork and don't hurry it. Pork roasts will be much juicier and more flavorful if cooked at a moderately low temperature for a longer period of time. A 300 or 325 degree setting produces better results than 350 or 375, but the meat will, of course, take a bit longer to cook through. Boneless roasts will take a bit longer to cook than those with the bone left in, since the bones act as conductors to carry the heat into the meat. The shape and dimensions of a roast are far more important in determining cooking time than is the total weight. Many good roasts are ruined by following the old-fashioned "so many minutes per pound of meat" formula. It just doesn't work, particularly with pork. A six-pound pork loin that is four inches wide and 12 inches long and is roasted for 30 minutes per pound, would take—according to the formula—three hours to cook.

HALF OF THAT same pork loin would be, four inches wide, six inches long, would weigh three pounds and should therefore, cook in half the time. But the "so many minutes per pound" formula does not account for the fact that heat penetrates meat uniformly and it would take no longer to reach the center of a roast four inches by 12 inches than one four inches by six inches. It only has to go two inches to reach the center in either case; weight has absolutely nothing to do with it. An absolute essential for success in roasting any meat, particularly pork, is a good meat thermometer.

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, October 26, 1979
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Changes may affect career goals, employment of affairs, in positive way. Your ambition keeps you on the run. You may run short of cash at times, but in general, the year ahead holds financial promise. Avoid tension or stress; and you should experience no health difficulties. For singles, romance is uneventful, but pleasing. Marital relations are strengthened.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take inventory before going away for weekend. You may find you have overlooked important detail. Action may develop in area that has been dormant. Have basic information available.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Home, property may be involved in day's plan. Spouse needs full details if he or she is to lend support. Cash flow may be temporarily impeded. Young person may be in argumentative mood.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may meet someone who stirs old emotions. Try to keep things in proper perspective. Special friend will lend helping hand. Financial agreement may work to your advantage, but not right away.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Move quickly if engaged in buying, selling—you could turn nice profit. Teamwork is paramount to business success. Personal charisma is at all-time high; capitalize on it!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tend to priorities first. Do not let careless thinking get grip on you, especially in money area. In personal dilemma, you have the right to take the easier path.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Low vitality could indicate need for physical check-up. Consult physician. Postpone difficult business, financial decisions until next week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Realize travel plans may not be practical. Some other responsibility, probably comes first. Reorganize, reschedule. Evening will bring pleasant change.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be ready to welcome some new people or changes. Money pressures apt to slacken. Conservative spending is probably the reason. Romance can be particularly exciting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Welcome opportunity to catch up on necessary paper work. If you spend considerable time at home, a shopping trip to a nearby area could be interesting and a change from your old haunts.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Avoid mixing business with pleasure. Rely on intuition or judgment. Romance is likely to play an important role today. Meeting someone in strange setting will add excitement.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friends may tempt you to invest money in new projects or business. Rely on advice of professionals. Romance is especially appealing. Getting involved too quickly with new person could prove embarrassing later.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Mental pursuits are more rewarding than physical efforts. Distant affairs may become complicated mid-afternoon. Use telephone if possible to circumvent failure. Patience, diplomacy a must.

In politics, it's that early money that gets more money

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cecil D. Andrus, secretary of the interior, didn't wait.

He's already anted up a campaign contribution. And Jimmy Carter hasn't even gone through the formality of saying he'll run.

Press secretary Jody Powell; U.S. Marshal Earle McLaughlin of Burlington, Vt.; James Earl Carter III, son of the president; Anne Wexler, an assistant to the president, and her husband, Joseph D. Duffey, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, didn't wait either.

Each gave $250 to the Carter campaign.

In politics, early money is the best. It provides the wherewithal for a campaign to break quickly from the starting gate; it is the money that raises more money.

A number of those who work in the White House, in U.S. embassies abroad and in the bureaucracy have hurried in to help Jimmy Carter with campaign contributions.

Reports on file at the Federal Election Commission show that John M. Sullivan, a Carter classmate at Annapolis appointed to run the Federal Railroad Administration, also gave Carter $250, as did his wife, his son and his daughter.

Gene Stuckey, a rural mail carrier in Statesboro, Ga., and his wife, Nellie, gave $1,000 each. Stuckey is past president of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers Association.

Of course, most of the $2.4 million raised so far by the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee came from people outside government. And there is nothing in the law to prevent people who owe their jobs to Jimmy Carter from contributing to his campaign.

As yet, there's no accounting for how much money supporters of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy have raised or spent.

Draft Kennedy committees in the 50 states haven't all filed reports. Since they are draft committees and not a candidate's campaign committee, the law makes a distinction.

Draft committees may get up to $5,000 from an individual. Campaign committees may take no more than $1,000 per contributor before the primaries and another $1,000 in a general election campaign. Kennedy will be subject to the same limits when he becomes a candidate.

Among reported contributors to some Draft Kennedy committees are Norman Lear, the television producer, $3,000; Mark Siegel, who once worked in the Carter White House, then quit in disenchantment, $1,000; Ted Ashley, of Warner Brothers, $1,000; and his wife, Joyce, $5,000; Carter Burden, former New York City councilman, $1,250; movie producer Margo Winkler, $5,000; former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, $1,000; Charles G. Bluhdorn, chairman of Gulf & Western, $5,000; and former New York Post publisher Dorothy Schiff, $250.

Movie producer Joseph E. Levine hedged his bet by giving $1,500 to a Draft Kennedy committee and $1,000 to Carter.

Not all of Carter's supporters are big names. Contributions arrived from the executive director of the President's Commission on Personnel Interchange; a member of the Joint Federal-State Land Use Commission in Anchorage, Alaska; the director of the Office of Foreign Disaster Assistance; and a member of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Review Commission. The father and mother of Peace Corps Director Richard Celeste each gave $1,000.

Among Carter's contributors from business are seven partners of Salomon Brothers, a Wall Street firm; three top executives of the Coca Cola Co.; Henry Ford II; Armand Hammer, president of Occidental Petroleum and his wife, Frances; Benjamin Swig, owner of San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel; and the chairmen or presidents of Delta Airlines; the Penn-Central Corp.; General Mills; Honeywell, Inc.; Merrill Lynch & Co.; Columbia Pictures; MCA Corp.; Caesar's World; and Orion Pictures.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

President to install wood-burning stoves as energy drama bit

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is outdoing himself in delivering on a promise to dramatize the search for alternative energy sources by installing a wood-burning stove in the White House.

After making the promise a few months ago, Carter was swamped with manufacturers' offers of free stoves for his use. Result: Five stoves are being accepted, each from a different maker.

Carter, who had solar heating installed for the West Wing water system earlier in the year, is going to put two wood stoves in the White House and three at Camp David, Md.

One stove will be in the president's study in the White House living quarters. Another will be installed in the Cabinet Room.

But banish any thought of Carter and his Cabinet discussing affairs of state around a potbellied stove. The stove destined for the Cabinet Room will slip, rather unobtrusively, into an existing fireplace.

One of the stoves at Camp David will be installed in Aspen Lodge, the president's luxurious yet rustic hide-away.

The Camp David stoves will be hooked up next week and the White House stoves will be installed, with appropriate fanfare, by mid-November.

Technically, the Cabinet Room stove will be the property of the General Services Administration, the one in the study will belong to the National Park Service, and the Camp David stoves will be Navy property.

WHEN CARTER made his first appearance as president at a major league baseball game, at last week's deciding contest of the World Series in Baltimore, bedlam erupted as he made his way into the locker room of the winning Pittsburgh Pirates.

So many fans jammed around the entrance from the playing field to the dressing room that a besieged Carter bodyguard picked up a baseball bat and, simply by looking menacing, kept the throng at bay.

THE TRIP to the game was not without a mishap. In a brief but hectic motorcade that took Carter to a homeward-bound helicopter, a van carrying White House reporters and photographers crashed into the rear of a station wagon filled with Secret Service agents.

Only reported injury: A White House aide suffered a bruised and swollen knee.

Large Energy Dictionary published

America's energy crisis has spawned a new book, according to Energy User News, an industry publication.

The 518-page book is devoted exclusively to energy terms. Its definitions cover all aspects of the field, including petroleum, natural gas, electricity, nuclear power and coal, the newspaper reports.

The book is titled simply, "Energy Dictionary."

LUBBOCK — A high-flying comedy, "Boeing Boeing," is the new attraction at Lubbock's Country Squire Dinner Theatre.

The hilarious farce about a swinging bachelor who keeps three airline stewardesses on the string by keeping close tabs on their respective flight schedules in and out of Paris — and who finally gets tripped up by conflicting schedules — will be the Country Squire's featured offering through Nov. 24.

"Boeing Boeing" has performances at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday each week, preceded by buffet dinner served between 6:30 and 8 p.m. nightly. Table reservations may be made by telephoning the box office, 806-792-4353.

The Country Squire, formerly the Hayloft Dinner Theatre, is located 2½ miles west of Loop 289 just off the Brownfield Road, in extreme southwest Lubbock.

Falk to star in 'The Scout'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Falk will star in "The Scout," an original comedy set against a baseball background.

Howard Zieff will direct "Private Benjamin," starring Goldie Hawn as a woman soldier. Robert Duvall stars in "The Great Santini," based on the life of Marine Corps air ace Col. Don Conroy.

Lawrence Kasdan, who wrote the sequel to "Star Wars," will write and direct an original screenplay called "Body Heat."

An unexpected bonus for visitor Robert, played by Dennis Sullivan, is provided by airline stewardess Judith, played by Nancy Compton, when Robert makes an appearance at the apartment of a swinging bachelor friend. The scene is from "Boeing Boeing," a zany comedy which is the new attraction at Lubbock's Country Squire Dinner Theatre. The comedy will play through late November.

Musical features Blake song hits

LUBBOCK — In 1916, Eubie Blake had already been active for almost 20 years as a stage performer and songwriter. But his great hits such as "I'm Just Wild About Harry" and "Love Will Find A Way" were still to come.

These hits and others from Blake's collection of 1,500 songs are featured in the new-from-Broadway musical honoring the now-96-year-old Blake, "Eubie!," which comes to Lubbock Municipal Auditorium for one performance only on Nov. 7.

Tickets for the performance are on sale daily at the Texas Tech University Center, priced $8, $7 and $5 for the public, and $9, $8.50 and $2.50 for students.

Although he is known for his syncopated sounds of the early decades of the 20th Century, Blake's music, as presented in "Eubie!," spans a lifetime of types, from classic vaudeville music to hot Latin, tango and even gospel music.

After a stint in vaudeville, Blake expanded his horizons to the musical industry, a task that would not be easy for a black man in the early 1920s. However, on May 23, 1921, after a year's hard work, the curtain in the 63rd Street Theatre in Manhattan opened on the musical "Shuffle Along." It was the first show on Broadway ever written, produced, performed and directed by American black people.

The milestone musical introduced jazz dancing to Broadway, plus a blending of ragtime and operetta-type music that became like a trademark for Blake. And, "Shuffle Along" was the first black musical to play in "white" theaters across the United States.

Now, 31 years after normal retirement age, Eubie Blake continues to write songs, fill club dates all over the country and perform on national television.

But despite his reputation and the national recognition gained over the years, Blake did not receive his first "Tony" (Antoinette Perry) Award nomination for best score of a Broadway musical until this year. At age 96, Blake is the oldest nominee in the history of the prestigious Broadway awards.

Big Bend orchestra, chorus to give season's first concert

ALPINE — The Big Bend Chamber Orchestra and Chorus will present the first concert of its 1979-80 season Sunday night.

Programmed for the event, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in Graves-Pierce Gymnasium on the campus of Sul Ross State University, are works by Mozart, Haydn, Beethoven and Brahms. The concert theme is "A Night With the Classics in Music."

The public is invited to attend the event free of charge.

According to Dr. T. Rex Wilson, musical director and conductor, the concert will feature some of "the finest moments in musical history — compositions which have thrilled listeners for centuries."

The orchestra, under the baton of Dr. Wilson, will play one of Mozart's most celebrated works, the famous Symphony No. 40. Another high point of the evening will be the presentation of Beethoven's Symphony No. 1.

Still another highlight of the evening will be the presentation of Brahms' "Songs of Destiny," featuring the 50-voice Big Bend Chamber Chorus. The choral ensemble combines the Sul Ross State University Concert Choir with the Big Bend Community Choir.

The latter ensemble is made up of people of varying ages and occupations from Alpine, Fort Davis and surrounding areas.

Concerts of the Big Bend Chamber Orchestra and Chorus are sponsored jointly by Sul Ross State University and residents of the Big Bend region, with financial support provided by the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

Wilson said that grants received from the state and federal agencies are matching grants.

Therefore, anyone wishing to support the orchestra and chorus in a positive manner is asked to make a contribution to be used to help meet the matching grants. Funds will help defray costs of the Sunday concert as well as for a children's concert in February and a closing concert next spring.

Persons may send their contributions to the Big Bend Chamber Orchestra and Chorus, in care of Sul Ross State University, Alpine 79830.

'October Affair' set for this weekend

KERMIT — The 7th annual "October Affair" art and crafts festival will be held this weekend at the Winkler County Youth Center in Winkler County Park of Kermit.

The fall festival will open at 10 a.m. Saturday, continuing until 6 p.m. on Sunday, the fair will be open from 1 to 6 p.m.

Artists and craftspeople from throughout the Permian Basin and from many other sectors of the Southwest will be on hand to display their creative specialties at the festival, including those from Dumas, Lubbock, Plainview, Sonora, Monahan, Gardendale, Tyler, Fort Worth, Brownfield, Van Horn, Midland and Odessa, Portales, Ruidoso, Jal. Arte sia, N. M., Glendale and Scottsdale, Ariz.

There will be 80 indoor booths at the upcoming fair, offering paintings in all media, etchings and graphics, woodcrafts, dried floral arrangements, tote painting, weaving and fiber art, stained glass, original jewelry, lapidary work, metal art, dolls, ceramics and pottery, Christmas ornaments, and knitting and crochet work.

Demonstrations of various art and crafts techniques will be presented during the weekend and there will be a number of "working booths" where craftspeople will actually be making their creative specialties. There also will be several food booths, offering a variety of snacks.

Houston Grand Opera to feature Beverly Sills

HOUSTON — The Houston Grand Opera has opened its 1979-80 season, a season that will be highlighted with two company premieres and famed soprano Beverly Sills' farewell performances.

The new season opened this past weekend with a production of Giuseppe Verdi's "Otello," featuring Jon Vickers in the title role and with gifted young soprano Gilda Cruz-Romo as the tragic Desdemona. Kostas Paskalis has the part of the evil Iago.

A final performance of this engrossing operatic drama will be presented Friday night in Jones Hall for the Performing Arts in downtown Houston. Tickets for the performance are now on sale at the box office.

HGO's production of "Otello" had given this past Saturday night and on Wednesday night. Those performances featured Herbert Doussant as Otello and Ruth Falcon as Desdemona, with Rodney Stenberg as Iago.

The HGO's new season continues through the winter and spring, with five additional operatic masterworks scheduled for presentation. The operas and their featured performers are as follows:

"Cinderella," by Rossini, featuring Maria Ewing, Rockwall Blake, Paolo Montarsolo and Claudio Desderi, in a production designed by Jean-Pierre Ponnelle and conducted by British conductor Raymond Leppard. English language performances will feature Herbert Doussant.

"Madame Butterfly," by Puccini, with Leona Mitchell, Neil Shiooff and Brent Ellis, conducted by John DeMain. (English language performances will feature Daisy Newman and Jon Frederic West.)

"Don Pasquale," Donizetti's famous comic opera, will be a season highlight since it will feature the incomparable diva, Beverly Sills, in her farewell singing engagements in Houston. Also cast in the production are Donald Gramm and Stan Titus. The production will be staged, directed and conducted by famous Sarah Caldwell, of the Boston Opera.

"Die Meistersinger," Wagner's operatic comedy, will present such operatic stars as Thomas Stewart, William Johns, Ara Berberian and James Atherton. The production will be conducted by Lawrence Foster.

"Regina," an opera by American composer Marc Blitzstein, based on Lillian Hellman famous novel, "The Little Foxes," will be presented as the season closer. The operatic drama will feature soprano Maralin Niska as the grasping and heartless Regina Giddons.

Additional information on the Houston Grand Opera and its exciting new season is available by writing to Houston Grand Opera, 615 Louisiana St., Houston 77002, or by telephoning 713-227-1287.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

New relations pay off in study of cancer

Dear Dr. Solomon: Aside from acupuncture, have our new relations with China given us any new medical knowledge? — Ken.

Dear Ken: The area where our closer relations with the Chinese can pay off is in the National Institute of Health's program of screening plants for their anti-cancer value. James A. Duke, a botanist with the Department of Agriculture, says the Chinese believe strongly in the value of herbal remedies and use more than a thousand medicinal plants. Spiny ginseng, for example, is used to treat cancer as well as bronchitis, hypertension, insomnia and rheumatism, among other ailments.

Dear Mr. McK.: Laetrile is a chemical compound made from the pits of apricots. It was first used therapeutically by Dr. Ernest Krebe Sr. He considered laetrile an essential vitamin and labeled it B-17.

As I'm sure you know, some scientists consider laetrile to be effective in preventing and controlling cancer; others maintain it is worthless at best and may even be dangerous to humans because of its cyanide content. Although it is manufactured and used in many countries, including Mexico, and has been legalized in many states in this country, lack of information about its effects suggest the need for a great deal of caution in its use and much more research.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., in care of the Midland Reporter Telegram. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Dear Dr. Solomon: I was interested to read that the United States and China are sharing medical information. Do the U.S. and the Soviet Union engage in similar cooperative projects? — Mr. F.D.

Dear Mr. D.: The United States and the Soviet Union recently agreed to collaborate in research on eye diseases under provisions of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Program for Health Cooperation. They already cooperate on research in cancer, cardiovascular diseases, artificial hearts, environmental health, schizophrenia, arthritis and influenza and acute respiratory diseases.

Dear Dr. Solomon: We hear so much about the laetrile controversy. I know it comes from apricots, but just what is it? — J.J. McK.

'Character's' work on exhibit

ROSWELL, N.M. — The late Alfred Morang, a New Mexico artist who was regarded as something of a "character" in Santa Fe during the 1930s and early '40s, will be represented with an exhibition of his paintings at the Roswell Museum and Art Center.

The exhibition opens Sunday at the museum and will continue on view through the month of November. The museum is open to the public daily, and admission is free.

A multi-talented man — painter, musician and writer — Morang moved to New Mexico for his health in the 1930s. He immediately became intoxicated with the brilliance of New Mexico's light and its rich and varied colors of landscape, in a way that possibly no painter has seen the countryside before or since. His colorful splashed canvases may be seen during the next month in the Horgan Gallery of the Roswell Museum.

Texas artists will display work at Odessa College

LUBBOCK — Works by three Texas artists will be on display during the next several weeks at Odessa College.

Featured in the exhibition in the OC Fine Arts Building will be approximately 50 works by Jose Martinez, Future Akins and James W. Johnson, all of Lubbock.

A reception marking the opening of the show and honoring the artists will be held from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited.

The show is the first one at OC this season where the public has opportunity to meet the exhibiting artist, said Delmos Hickmott, a member of the OCT art faculty who arranged the show. All works in the exhibition are for sale, he said.

The show is titled "Three Printmakers in Texas" and the works to be shown include serigraphs, intaglios and pen-and-ink drawings.

Martinez holds degrees from Elgin College and Northern Illinois University and has taught at the college level since 1977. He has participated in more than a half-dozen art exhibits in recent years.

Ms. Akins holds bachelor of arts and master of fine arts degrees from Texas Tech University. Her work has been featured in more than 40 exhibitions in the last four years, including shows in Connecticut, Florida, New Mexico, Georgia and Oregon. She presented a lecture-demonstration to Midland Arts Association members several years ago.

Johnson's work has been displayed in Lubbock, Oklahoma City, Carlsbad, N.M., and Coos Bay, Ore. He holds a B.A. degree from New York State University at Oswego and currently is enrolled in the master's program at Texas Tech University.

Robert Klein in a series?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Klein, currently starring on Broadway in "They're Playing Our Song," will star in two one-hour comedy specials for NBC.

Klein's series will also be pilots for possible series. He has appeared in eight movies, most recently as the director in "Hooper."

Sole performers in the hilarious one-act comedy, "Next," currently being presented by Midland Community Theatre, are Jeanne Haralson, left, and Dean McLain. The comedy and two other one-acts, "Adaptation" and "Botticelli," make up a special production titled "Three By Two" which is having performances in Theatre Two, the small arena-type theater inside Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave. Tickets for all performances through Nov. 3 are on sale daily at the Theatre Midland box office, 682-4111. (Staff Photo)

With a little help from their friends

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With the help of the Baltimore O's and the Pittsburgh Pirates, ABC has finally overhauled NBC and moved into the ratings lead. But a crafty former boss and some errors of overconfidence have made No. 1 network vulnerable.

A seven-game World Series gave ABC the season lead in the Nielsen ratings, with games six and seven finishing at the top of last week's ratings. The victory for the week gave ABC a slight season edge over NBC, with an average rating of 19.7 to NBC's 18.9 (each ratings point, the Nielsen folks say, represents about 250,000 homes).

It's been a tough young season for the network that has owned its competition for four years.

Thirteen of ABC's sixteen returning shows premiered this season with a smaller percentage of viewers than they grabbed last year.

Three new shows have fared dismally in the ratings and have already been yanked from the schedule, and proved shows from ABC's stable of sitcoms, while still strong, have slipped from positions of dominance.

Part of the early-season problem was brought on by ABC programmers, whose scheduling derring-do hasn't quite worked out as planned. "Mork and Mindy," for example, was the most successful new show of last year, frequently finishing at the top of the Nielsens, almost always finishing near the top.

ABC moved "Mork" from its comfortable Thursday night slot to Sunday night, in the hope of bumping off Archie Bunker and ruining a perennially strong CBS night. Unfortunately for ABC, "Archie Bunker's Place" followed the popular "60 Minutes."

"Mork" had to follow two new shows, "Out of the Blue" and "A New Kind of Family," which were viewed by an astonishingly tiny audience.

The result: "Archie" hung on to its strong audience, and while "Mork" performed well, it was still drawing substantially fewer viewers than it had on Thursday night.

As a fix-it, ABC has dropped "Out of the Blue" and "A New Kind of Family" and will replace them with some hour-long "Salvage 1's" it had laying around.

ABC's programmers also decided to fool around with Tuesday nights, which had been ABC's happiest evening. They broke up the "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley" tandem, sending the girls to Thursday. Both shows slipped a little in the ratings, but the real disaster was "The Lazarus Syndrome," a new show that ruined ABC's Tuesdays.

"Love Boat," "Fantasy Island," the very popular combination of dramatic placebos, was also broken up, and again, both shows slipped.

ABC has clearly realized the errors of its ways. "Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island" have been reunited; "Lazarus" has been sent on vacation — "pre-empted" as network puts it. The Sunday-night leads into "Mork" have been bumped, and more changes are planned.

But there is a factor at work this season that ABC can do nothing about — a wizard formerly in its own employ and currently working magic at NBC, Fred Silverman. Silverman has so far made good on his promise that this season would feature close competition.

NBC, after a season of whirlwind change and dismal ratings, is the only network that hasn't dropped any programs this season.

It will be interesting to see whether ABC will slip back to its pre-World Series form — about on par with NBC — and whether CBS, a quiet third so far, will begin to mount its usual mid-fall surge, making the competition more interesting yet.

McCamey, Marfa battle for first in District 6-A race

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

You could call it a battle of District 6-A's top offensive team and second best defensive unit or you could call it a contest between the loop's two best passers.

Whatever it's the district tussle between the McCamey Badgers, 5-1-1 overall-and 1-0 in 6-A, and the Marfa Shorthorns, 4-3 for the season and 1-0 in district.

Kickoff Friday night in McCamey is scheduled for 7:30.

Marfa enters the contest as the district's most potent offensive squad, according to recently released statistics.

The Shorthorns have racked-up 2,108 yards of total offense or 301.1 steps a contest.

Of that total, 944 of the yards have come from an effective passing attack paced by Paul Park, who has thrown for 610 yards while completing 37 of 91 attempts. Lando Sanchez has contributed more than 200 yards via aerials and Omar Mediano has chipped-in with more than 100.

Roger Sanchez is Marfa's favorite receiver and so far, he's hauled-in 25 grabs for 498 yards and two tallies.

Concerning the Shorthorn infantry, Park is their top ground gainer with 446 yards on 67 trips with seven touchdowns, and he leads the district in scoring with 56 points.

The leading 6-A hurler — as far as total yardage is concerned — is McCamey senior Raul Arana. He's hit only 21 of 75 attempts but for a credible 628 yards and seven touchdowns.

Not so credible, however, are the nine interceptions Arana has served up.

For the record, McCamey is averaging 281.6 yards of offense a night and they've scored 158 points, second best in 6-A.

Arana's favorite target is senior wideout Billy Ray Terry who has five touchdown catches on a mere nine receptions, which incidentally, average 44.3 yards.

On the ground, Mike Hanks, Ben Ferguson, Brent Rhodes and B. J. Terry provide the punch.

But it's the Badger defense that's been downright ornery lately. They've allowed 55 points this season, far and away the best in the circuit. And their average of 224 yards yielded per game is a respectable second.

This is not to say Marfa is without a defense. The Shorthorns have given up 233.6 offensive yards a night and 109 points on the campaign.

With the teams as evenly matched on paper as they are, the specialty teams may very well be factors. And a feather in Marfa's cap may be punter Lando Sanchez, who leads 6-A with a sterling 41.2 average for 36 kicks.

In the other 6-A affair, the Iraan Braves, 1-5 overall and 0-1 in district, Friday travel to Rankin to meet the Red Devils, 4-2, who've yet to open league action.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. Although Rankin's had their problems offensively, there's no doubt coach Dwayne Turner has an air-tight group of defenders. The Rankin defense allows an average of 143.5 yards per game.

And that has to spell concern for Iraan, a team that's been unable to put much together to date. The Braves dwell in the cellar of district offensive and defensive stats.

Competition in rugged District 9-A enters its second week and there are several dandy games on tap Friday. Reagan County, 5-1 overall and 1-0 in district, takes their balanced offensive and defensive attack to Wall, 2-4 and 0-1 respectively, for a 7:30 encounter.

But the 9-A headliner has to be Junction, 5-1 and 1-0, at Mason, 6-0 and 1-0 and ranked seventh in Class A.

Also on the 9-A docket, Eldorado, 3-3 and 0-1, ventures to Menard, 3-3 and 0-1.

District 5-A Friday moves into their fourth week of action and the premier game should be a headbasher at Plains, 4-2 overall and 3-0, invades Seagraves, 6-0 and 3-0 and fifth-rated in Class A.

The other games have O'Donnell, 1-4 and 1-1 at Stanton, 4-1 and 1-1, for a 7:30 kickoff, while Anton, 0-5-1 and 0-2-1, goes to Forsan, 1-5 and 0-3, and Shallowater, 3-2-1 and 1-2, visits

Ropes, 1-5 and 1-2.

Two conference games Friday are scheduled in both District 2-AAA and District 3-AAA.

The 2-AAA gem sends seventh-rated Pecos, 7-0 overall and 1-0, to Odessa to meet the Ector Eagles, 6-1 and 1-0. The other district engagement has Fort Stockton, 5-2 and 0-1, at Monahans, 4-2 and 0-0. Andrews, 6-1 and 0-1, is idle.

Tenth-rated San Angelo Lake View, 6-1 on the year and 1-0, heads to Brownfield, 1-5 and 0-0 in one 3-AAA contest while Sweetwater, 1-6 and 0-1, is at Snyder, 3-4 and 0-1. Lamesa, 1-6 and 1-0, is dormant.

The only area conference yet to begin district play, 7-AA, has only one team in action Friday as Crane, 3-3, makes the trek to Alpine for an 8 p.m. kickoff.

MC golfers to participate in Pan, Am meet

Participation in the Pan American University Intercollegiate Invitational in Brownsville occupies the Midland College men's golf team this weekend.

The 54-hole event, which annually attracts most of the strong college golf teams in the Southwest, starts Thursday and continues through Saturday.

This will be the final tune-up for the Chaps prior to their own two-day invitational and conference tournament, which is slated for Nov. 1-2 at the Midland Country Club.

The Chaps are the defending conference champions, but are currently in second place by one-half point after two conference tournaments.

The Midland College hosted event is the final conference action for the fall semester. The remaining three tournaments will be played in the spring.

Cope, St. Clair win RHCC tennis tourney

Bill Cope and Bill St. Clair defeated Harold Jones and Jay Cummings in the Ranchland Hills Country Club Men's Doubles tournament, 6-2, 6-4, while Dale Morris and Butch Abendshain won the B bracket.

In the Women's competition, Jane Goodell and Sharon Seay won over Mary Jane Belden and Glenna Blair, 6-1, 6-4, in the A division while Florence Cope and Sara St. Clair won the B division.

Texas League sets 130-game slate.

DALLAS—The Texas League adopted a 130-game schedule, down six games from last year, at its fall meeting here this week. The season will open April 12, a Saturday, and the first half of the split season will conclude June 21.

The second half begins June 23 and ends Aug. 30. The playoff between the first and second half winners is scheduled to begin Sept. 1, a best of three series, while the championship play-off, best of five, begins Sept. 4.

Midland Cubs General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., said Midland would open its season against San Antonio and added, "Despite a long and hot discussion, the rules on playing off-rained out games remains up to the home team."

Lee to host Cooper; Pack takes to road

Midland Lee's girls volleyball team hosts Abilene Cooper tonight while Midland High travels to Abilene for District 5-4A action. Varsity action begins following the 6 p.m. JV matches.

First half champion San Angelo defeated Lee 15-6 and 15-7 in Tuesday's match, dropping the Rebels to 0-2 in the second half. Lee earlier had lost to Odessa.

Midland bowed to Big Spring, which finished in second place during the first half, 11-8 and 15-13. The Bulldogs are now 1-1 in the second half.

San Angelo whipped through the first half in 7-0 style and now has a nine-match streak going. Big Spring was 5-2 the first half.

The Bulldogs are out to improve on their 4-3 record the first half while Lee was 3-4 the first time around.

Pack seeks to rebound at San Angelo

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

SAN ANGELO — Coach Denzie Hays' Midland Bulldogs will have some new faces in the lineup here Friday when they square off with the San Angelo Central Bobcats.

Midland lost the services of offensive tackle Richard Barton, a 200-pound junior who underwent knee surgery Wednesday. Barton suffered the injury late in the Abilene game last week in Abilene.

Matt Carr, a 175-pound junior, takes his place while the Purple Pack will have a new middle guard on defense in sophomore Joe Goebel, a 260-pounder, up from the junior varsity. Actually, the 6-foot-6 athlete has trimmed down and lost some weight and will probably check in at around 245 or 250 tonight for the 8 p.m. kickoff.

Radio Station KCRS will do the play-by-play starting at 7:40 p.m.

"I sure hated to lose Barton, but Carr will fill in nicely and Goebel takes the place of Scott Ballew, a 188-pound junior who is still out with an injury," said Hays.

MIDLAND IS coming off a tough 13-10 loss to a good Abilene High team in a game that was pulled out in the final six seconds by the Warbirds in P.E. Shotwell Stadium after the Pack had held them at the Midland 13 moments earlier.

While Midland was losing to Abilene, Coach Jimmie Keeling's Bobcats pulled off a real shocker over Odessa High, winning 19-17 in Odessa to ruin the Bronchos' homecoming festivities.

"They (Central) have some good backs in Glenn Payne, Doug DeWitt and Kel Crain," said Hays. After all, the Bronchos had given Abilene Cooper a tough game the week before and only lost to Midland Lee, 14-13 two weeks ago.

Another player returns to the Midland lineup after missing the Abilene game due to poor grades and that is Billy Applin, 192-pound senior tailback.

Applin joins quarterback Michael Feldt, fullback Jeff Robnett and wingback Russell Hays in tonight's starting backfield.

ROBNETT IS the leading rusher in District 5-4A. The 175-pound senior has gained 291 yards in 46 carries and has three touchdowns in 5-4A play. On the year, the redhead has 365 yards in 69 carries for an average of 5.1 yards per carry and four touchdowns. Surprisingly enough, Feldt leads the Pack in rushing on the season with 398 yards in 85 carries and four touchdowns.

Applin is next with 84 carries for 244 yards and two TDs followed by Jerry Zachery with 174 yards in 51 carries. Zachery will also see plenty of duty tonight after rushing for 79 yards on 19 carries against Abilene.

The Lineups

in hitting 19 of 42 passes good for three touchdowns while in 5-4A play, the gifted junior has connected on 12 of 26 passes for 177 yards and one TD.

Bill Young has been his favorite receiver with seven catches for 101 yards and one TD while Pat Hickey, the split receiver has latched on to five passes for 58 yards. Young, a 185-pound senior, will start at tight end and Hickey, a 155-pound senior at the wide receiver slot.

HICKEY ALSO plays at a cornerback slot on defense along with Hays and Young is also a starter at defensive end.

Payne gives the Concho Cats plenty of speed at a halfback slot under Keeling, who comes to Central from Lamar Consolidated. Payne returned a kickoff 87 yards last week against OHS and Payne, an 180-pound senior is a good power runner.

Although the Bobcats stand 2-4 on the year and 1-2 in district play, the biggest problem this year has been the lack of size, usually one of Central's stronger points in past years.

Mark Lambert, a 175-pound junior is a good linebacker and there are two tackles on defense with some size in Al Gonzalez (215) and Pedro Santellano (208). They are both juniors.

Greg Kizer, a 195-pound senior, also plays some linebacker and joins the straight-T backfield on occasions.

Midland takes a 4-2 season record into the game with its only losses to Odessa Permian and Abilene to date. The only other victory by the Bobcats was over Austin Anderson in a pre-season battle.

CRAIN IS a sophomore that has plenty of promise. He has rushed for 81 yards in 40 carries while Payne has 127 yards on 48 cracks into the line. Crain has only completed five of 15 passes in league play.

Last year, Midland sacked the Bobcats, 23-14.

Midland's Pat Hickey, two-way starter Friday.

Tech's Hadnot jumps to fifth in NCAA rushing

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 204 yards that Texas Tech fullback James Hadnot accumulated last weekend against Rice made him the nation's fifth-leading rusher, according to statistics released this week by the NCAA.

Hadnot is averaging 132.6 yards a game. Charles White, Southern Cal's fleet halfback, is leading with an average of 166.8 yards per contest.

A.J. Jam Jones of Texas is eighth nationally with 122.6 yards per game, and Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey is 14th at 107.2 yards per game. The only SWC player among the nation's scoring leaders is Texas kicker John Goodson, who has averaged 8.8 points a game with 12 field goals and eight extra points.

Earl Cooper of Rice is the only SWC receiver in the rankings. He has caught 32 passes for 391 yards for an average of 4.6 catches a game, which places him 11th on the list.

Tech sophomore Maury Buford, the nation's leading punter last year, is ninth nationally this week with an average of 43.5 yards. Arkansas' Steve Cox is sixth with 44.2 yards per kick.

Gary Anderson of Arkansas is 14th on the punt return list with 192 yards for an average of 10.7 yards per return. But his 130 yards against Texas Tech is the most any punt returner has had in one game this year.

Five SWC kickers are in the rankings. Goodson's 12-for-17 field goal performance ranks him No. 1 with 2.4

field goals per game. Texas Tech's Bill Adams, who hasn't missed an extra point this year, has kicked 12 of 15 field goals and is third nationally with an average of 1.71 three-pointers per contest.

Ish Ordonez of Arkansas, who is 9-for-9 this year, is sixth with 1.50 per game; Greg Porter of TCU, 8-of-9, is 10th averaging 1.33 field goals per game; and Kenny Hatfield of Houston is 16th with 7-of-11 for .17 per game. Texas is second in total defense, giving up 168.4 yards per contest. The Longhorns rank seventh in rushing defense, fourth in pass defense and fifth in scoring defense.

Houston is eighth in rushing offense with 279.7 yards per game.

Outside the SWC, Texas-Arlington is 12th in rushing with 265 yards a game, North Texas State is sixth in punt returns with 13 yards per return, and Lamar is seventh in kickoff returns with an average of 24.2 yards per return.

Britton, Marburger storm into Women's finals

By RICHARD VINCENT R-T Sports Writer

If Wednesday's results were any indication, there may be a whale of a match in store for today's championship flight finals of the Midland Women's City Golf Championship at Hogan Park Golf Course.

Today's finalists, Susan Britton — a seven-time champion — and Charlette Marburger, each stormed into the finale with cakewalk victories in Wednesday's semifinals.

Defending kingpin Britton stomped Jennie Gooch 5-4 while Marburger strolled past Linda Ballard 6-5.

Although neither of the championship flight winners were pushed, there were some dandy battles going on in first flight play.

Jean Banks pulled out a 1-up triumph over Jo Dickson, while her opponent today, Jane Wyant, also was extended to a 1-up victory over Nina Colter.

Becky Huff and Alice Bullard advanced into today's second flight final, Huff defeating Florence Mailey 3-1 and Bullard trimming Betty Barb 1-up.

In third flight, Pat Cheyney and Sandy Wilkerson gained today's championship match, Cheyney besting Dorothy Melzer 3-2 and Wilkerson stopping Marge Tope 3-2.

Fourth flight action saw Verta Lovelady and Lois Guthrie gain today's final, Lovelady handling Alvina Hill 3-2 and Guthrie clipping Gail McCreary 1-up.

June McLain suffered a close call while Charleen Roseberry cruised as each moved into today's fifth flight final. McLain edged Jeanne Allen 1-up while Roseberry thumped Phyllis Maxwell 6-5.

Sylvia Alvarado and Nancy Milner nary broke a sweat as they breezed into today's sixth flight title tilt. Alvarado nabbed a 4-3 nod over Donna Winborn while Milner scuttled Martha Floyd 6-5.

And in seventh flight, Bernie Cox defeated Jane L. Thomas 2-up while Margaret Stricker shaded Jeanette Campbell 1-up.

Meanwhile, in the nine hole division, Donna Treadway and Kathy Bond gained the championship flight finale, Treadway clipping Mary Davis 4-2 and Bond claiming a 2-up verdict over Rita Boe.

Nine hole first flight action had Leah Sutcliffe and Barbara Larsen earn berths in the finale, Sutcliffe beating Rosa Lee Neiberger and Larsen needing one extra hole to stop Jean Conner 1-up.

Virginia viewers unhappy over Saturday telecast

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

Last Saturday in Virginia was neither the time nor the place to hold a meeting of Notre Dame's subway alumni. While the rest of the country was being given the tradition-rich Notre Dame-Southern California game, two ABC affiliates in Virginia were stuck with the epic struggle between Norfolk State and Virginia Union.

The huge majority of college football fans in these two markets were furious. They felt they were the network's sacrificial lambs, thrown to the lions because ABC's contract with the NCAA requires airing four Division II games a year.

The Norfolk State-Virginia Union game, a Division II clash between two predominantly black schools, both undefeated at the time, was a classic case of ABC's football programmers fitting an oval peg into an oval hole. ABC wants its Division II games to involve high-ranked, quality teams, who don't play in the big-city markets. For example, Delaware, a small college football power, is rarely on because ABC won't sacrifice the big Philadelphia TV audience.

ABC also is sensitive to charges that its money only goes to the major college football programs, allowing the rich to get richer while the underpublicized black schools never get the exposure or money.

ABC was happy because Norfolk State and Virginia Union fit all the prerequisites. The two schools also were happy; they received attention and the standard $15,000 given Division II teams for the honor of playing in front of ABC's cameras. Only the football fans in Virginia were booing.

And the two stations — WVEC in Norfolk and WXEX in Richmond — were caught between a rock and a hard place.

"We were swamped with complaints," said Tom Chisman, president and general manager of WVEC, the 48th largest market in the country. "We have a very cosmopolitan group of viewers. There aren't a lot of natives. But there is a tremendous amount of military and government personnel here, and they come from all over. Our viewers would much rather watch USC and Notre Dame; they're football fans."

Chisman, who speculated that more than four times as many viewers in Norfolk would have watched USC-Notre Dame than watched Norfolk State-Virginia Union, did have discussions with ABC officials in New York.

"We said we were catching a fit down here, and we wondered whether anything could be done," he said. "We recognize that ABC has an agreement with the NCAA. We know the rules of the game. The NCAA has to be concerned about all its schools. So we realize that if we draw the lousy game every now and then, that's just tough."

There was no rest for the WXEX switchboard operator, either. About 180 negative calls were received by the Richmond station. No. 56 in the country. About 50 supportive calls came in after the situation was publicized in the local papers.

After the Division II game, both stations aired the North Carolina-North Carolina State game. Walsh would have preferred to miss this half of the doubleheader, and ABC could have shown Norfolk State-Virginia Union later in the day. But WVEC, bordering on North Carolina, was gung-ho on N.C. State-North Carolina, so ABC went with the wishes of the larger station.

ABC also got a lot of heat for showing Grambling-Jackson State in Texarkana, instead of Texas-Arkansas last Saturday. Arkansas Sen. David Pryor called ABC to ask if anything could be done. "My walls are being beaten down," he said.

A petition was circulated in Texarkana, quickly attracting 10,480 signatures. But a judge, unable to find anything illegal, denied a request to force ABC to show Texas-Arkansas on KTBS, the Shreveport, La. station that feeds Texarkana.

Not everybody, however, is against preempting national games for local contests. This Saturday, WHYN in Springfield, Mass., will be the only ABC station broadcasting the Division II game between hometown schools Springfield and American International, instead of Houston vs. Arkansas.

"We think it's great for the station and the fans," said Jim Kontoleon, WHYN's vice president and general manager. "We haven't received a single complaint."

Houston-Arkansas is not big box office in Springfield. Besides, many homes in Springfield can pick up the ABC affiliates in Hartford, Conn. or Boston, which will have the national game between the Southwest Conference's two undefeated teams.

"It's kind of prestigious to be singled out," said Kontoleon.

Cards, Cowboys like those good old days

Maybe if you been around long enough, you can remember back to the days when there were no commissions for sports at the kindergarten level. It was junior high before there was anything faintly resembling order and high school before things really got organized.

Your old man didn't care what sport you played as long as the chores were done and there were no Ds on the report card. Moms, geez, were they naive. They couldn't tell the difference between a football and baseball...and, what's more, didn't want to know. It all smacked of barbarism.

Still, there were team sports, between neighborhood teams and games were always hotly contested. So much so, that there was seldom a loser, or at least both teams went home convinced they had won...after the traditional fight that broke things up.

Somehow, when Dallas and St. Louis get together, it brings back memories. Both teams may have a lot of respect for one another, but there's always a fight near the end.

Sunday was no exception. Cardinals wide receiver Pat Tilly and Cowboys' defensive back Aaron Mitchell wound up throwing punches off the ground out-of-bounds after a pass completion. Before more than two punches were thrown, the combatants were surrounded by teammates ready to join the melee.

It had all the earmarks of a Pier Sixer before the officials broke it up. About that time Dallas offensive lineman John Fitzgerald arrived in all of his 6-5, 260 pounds of bearded, brooding meanness. He demanded of the back judge, "What's the matter with you guys, can't you control the game and make these football players behave."

You could almost tell from the sick smile on the official's face that he didn't know whether to throw a flag for insubordination, find a place to hide or laugh it off, surely John was funning.

Although no one was hurt, Tilly was upset, remarking, "Aaron Mitchell is going to give the Cowboys a bad name."

Shed a tear for Roger Staubach, the footloose Dallas quarterback, who can't escape his past...or his present. It seems the relentless press brings up the subject of Roger's running at every postgame interview and Staubach's patience in handling the tiresome subject is remarkable.

Sunday's inquisition was prompted by a nine-yard run that gave Dallas an important first down on the St. Louis 10 and set up his touchdown pass to Tony Hill. Roger dove the last few yards for the yard marker, enabling the Cowboys to go for the score rather than settling for a field goal.

Someone asked about the wisdom of it and "Does Coach Landry scold you about taking chances like that?"

"Not if I make a first down," he responded nimbly in the face of the reporter's blitz.

"Tom never talked to me about my running. He may make some comments during the film, but I haven't changed. How are you gonna change something you've been doing for 11 years in one week?"

Staubach adds, "I can still run, but I run less, and that's good. I don't like to ram into those guys out there. Some of them are pretty big. I'm not dumb. It may look like it sometimes, but I'm not."

Staubach still feels running the football, even at the advanced age of 37, is an asset. "If I can get out of bounds or slide, I do. I don't like to slide if I'm near a yard-marker. If I'm out in the middle of the field, maybe that's all right. But honest, guys, I'm running less."

One writer persisted, "As valuable as you are to this club, how can you take the risk? Those guys really take a whack at you."

"Danny White's paying me to run," end interview.

Walton is out again

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Injury-prone Bill Walton, who has missed 111 consecutive regular-season National Basketball Association games, has his left foot in a cast again and will be lost to the San Diego Clippers for at least a month.

Walton, who signed a record $7 million, seven-year contract with the Clippers last May, was expected to be placed on the injured list today, club officials said.

The development came three days after Walton — considered by many as the NBA's most dominant player — re-injured his foot during a workout Sunday.

Clippers owner Irv Levin said the new injury was diagnosed as a strain of an intertwining ligament that holds the footbones together. The foot is to remain in the cast from one to seven days, Levin said.

Grimsley likes UH over Razorbacks

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

Down in the football-mad Southwest, cowboy country, they play a little game called "Get the Top Gun." It's suicidal. Somebody knocks off the big guy and the knocker-off becomes the immediate target for every brass kid who walks into the saloon.

Texas beats a power-packed Oklahoma. The Longhorns, in turn, get blown out the window by underdog Arkansas. Now Arkansas has to face up to a tough and feisty Houston. It's the week's college football special, matching the country's No. 4 and No. 6 ranked elevens.

Florida State is the only other Top Ten team likely in trouble, facing Louisiana State in the bedlam of Baton Rouge.

Last week's tally: a career high of 46-9. 827, including the Arkansas upset. Season: 266-86, 756.

Houston 17, Arkansas 10. If Coach

Alabama 42, Virginia Tech 14. No. 1, how sweet it smells. The Crimson Tide turns up its nose at less.

Nebraska 38, Colorado 6. Jarvis Redwine, averaging close to seven yards a carry, adds to Chuck Fairbanks' miseries.

Southern Cal 43, California 14. The Trojans are big and deep enough not to allow a letdown after the emotional Notre Dame game.

Ohio State 32, Michigan State 20. Sophomore Ari Schlachter fills the air with footballs — a new Buckeye trademark.

Oklahoma 45, Iowa State 7. The Sooners' speed and power boys run their options behind a line that averages better than 250 pounds.

Louisiana State 25, Florida State 20. The Bayou Bengals, who almost knocked off USC, should shake up the standings with this one.

Texas 28, Southern Methodist 14. With SMU's Mike Ford hors de combat, the Longhorns have a big quarterback edge with Donnie Little.

Michigan 33, Indiana 14. The Wolverines should have some trouble with the Hoosiers' Tim Clifford, a near 60 percent pass completer.

Brigham Young 31, New Mexico 10. BYU's versatile Marc Wilson is heading toward the 2,000-yard mark, mostly by air.

Pittsburgh 19, Navy 6. Pitt's rugged defenders build a trap for Mike Sherlock and spoil Navy's unblemished record.

Auburn 28, Wake Forest 14. Joe Cribbs, Auburn's strong, phantom-hipped tailback, should add to his scoring laurels.

Notre Dame 25, South Carolina 19. Never a letup for the weary Irish. The Gamecocks could be tough if the Irish snooze.

Bearing cost Zimmer month, but he bounced back

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate
The hitter was guessing fastball all the way. But, as he stepped into it, he lost it in the leafless trees in center field. It was a sharp inside curveball. Instinctively, he ducked down over the plate. It was the wrong thing to do. The baseball struck him on the side of the head, dropping him to the ground.

fractured, and he developed a severe blood clot on the side of his brain. That was July 7, 1953, in the first part of a twilight doubleheader between St. Paul, for whom Zimmer played, and Columbus. When Zimmer awoke in the hospital, he thought it was the next day. It was almost the next month. His wife and parents were standing at the foot of the bed. To Zimmer, it looked like nine people. He thought he had been injured the day before. It was two weeks before. But Don Zimmer didn't find out right away because Don Zimmer couldn't talk. When he finally did, it was with a stutter.

DON ZIMMER'S skull fracture found its way into the lore of baseball because it led directly to the adoption of the compulsory batting helmet. For years, it was a part of the Don Zimmer legend that he played with a steel plate in his head. He didn't. Not exactly. What Don Zimmer had in his head were "tantalum buttons," tapered corklike substances inserted in the brain, three on the left side, one on the right side to hold it in place. Thus caparioned, Zimmer set out to do daily joust with the pitchers of the National League. Walter O'Malley to whom Zimmer belonged, as a Dodger farm hand, counseled retirement. So did Buzze Bavasi, the general manager. At the very least, they thought, Don should stand extremely deep in the batter's box.

Don would have none of it. A fiery, aggressive batter who liked to crowd the plate so he could lean out and hit a curveball before it curved, Zimmer gave more than one pitcher in the league a nervous stomach. No pitcher wanted to be the one to dislodge that purported steel plate. Rival managers were not so squeamish. When Don Zimmer hit 17 home runs in the first two months after his return from the long layoff, he recalls hearing "two other well-known managers, so well-known that I won't mention their names," shouting to their pitchers, "Stick it in his ear!" Grins Zimmer. "I took some pretty good shots. I had no time to get gunshy." Don Zimmer had the misfortune to come up in the Dodger chain between the eras of Pee Wee Reese and Maury Wills. A spot you wouldn't want to give to a trampoline act. ZIMMER NEVER did exactly play the game in a bed of four-leaf clovers. The one full year he played with the Dodgers in L.A., he was second on the club in home runs with 17. He and Charlie Neal set a new National League record for double plays. The next year, he and Bobby Lillis and Maury Wills were alternating at shortstop when the manager, Walter Alston, came up to Zimmer one day and said, "I'm tired of experimenting, you're my shortstop." Zimmer was batting in the first inning against Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals that night when he was called out on strikes on an ankle-high slider. He jumped on the umpire. The umpire threw him out of the game. Maury Wills was inserted in the lineup. "He got two hits that night and about five the next day and he was All-Everything that year," Don Zimmer ruefully recalls today.

When he was struck by the inside curveball in Columbus in 1953, Zimmer was leading the American Assn. with 23 home runs and 63 runs batted in, remarkable for July 7. He hit 17 home runs the following spring when he was called up by the Dodgers after Reese hurt an ankle. He was to spend the rest of his career spot-playing, but still hit 91 career home runs in the big leagues. Zimmer kept neither his foot nor his head in the bucket. In 1956, as he was being groomed to take over third base, a Hall Jeffcoat fastball broke his left cheekbone. They didn't make the fastball Don Zimmer wouldn't step into.

his trauma came the batting helmet, there's no telling at what saving of life. Zimmer recently recalled: "When I got hit in the head, and I was in the hospital, Mr. O'Malley and Buzze Bavasi and Fresno Thompson all came to visit me in Columbus. And, when I was lying there, they made it compulsory that all the Dodger organization, minor and major league, wear helmets. It took about another half year to make it compulsory in the National League. I think it took about a year to make it compulsory in the American League." Don Zimmer, hit on the head just as he was perfecting his home run stroke in the American Assn. in 1953, hit on the cheekbone just as he was about to take his regular place in the lineup in the opening week of 1956 and missing the rest of that year, should not be surprised that he has won 97, 99, and 91 in three years with the Red Sox and have nothing to show for it. But every batter who ever hears a fastball go ping! off his batting helmet and never even have a headache, never mind blood running out his ear, should look up and say, "Thanks, Don Zimmer!" If it weren't for Don Zimmer, there might be a lot of guys in the big leagues walking around with corks in their heads instead of their skulls.

WEST TEXAS HUNTING AND FISHING

Striped bass provide action at Lake Spence

Striped bass were biting at Lake E.V. Spence last week, but so were some other varieties. Tops for the stripers was a 14 3/4 pounder, but the biggest fish was a 21-pound yellow catfish. Several respectable catfish also were reported. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Detter and Mr. and Mrs. Walt Wadsworth, Odessa, showed off a 21-pound yellow white Steve Yates, Andrews, had a four-pound, four-ounce striper. Bill Smith, Odessa, took five blue catfish to 10 pounds and Larry Edens, Sweetwater, landed that 14 3/4 striper.

If you like to fish and like money, too, Lake Champion near Colorado City offers the opportunity to combine the two this weekend. Beginning Friday at 6 p.m. through 5 p.m. Sunday, anglers from all over will be competing for cash prizes in a Carp Tournament sponsored by Fisher Park and supported by the city of Colorado City. Ray Windsor, manager of the Fisher Park store at Champion, is the tournament director.

Entrants will be competition in senior (13-and-over) and junior (12-under). Entrance fee is $1 per contestants in the Junior Division and $5 for seniors.

Ever hear of catching a 30-pound yellow cat using nothing but a rock while walking along the shore of the lake and hitting a floating piece of driftwood?

Well, like Pate, Sportsman's Lodge, claims it happened at Oak Creek Lake. The rock stunned the fish and the story-teller claims to have jumped in and dragged the helpless cat ashore. Ahem.

W.A. Cross, Sylvester, didn't use a rock, but dragged in the largest yellow at Oak Creek, a 37-pounder, while Buddy Dyess took a 28-pounder and Wayne Dudley, Blackwell, caught his largest fish ever, a 27-pound cat.

Tommy Houge, Odessa, landed the largest bass, five pounds, nine ounces while Benny Thompson, Sweetwater, landed a four-pound, 12-ounce bass. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Howard, Odessa, caught a sack full of small fish and hooked one that could have been landed if a net had been available. After a 20-minute battle, the huge yellow was worked to the surface, but one surge snapped the line and the fish was gone.

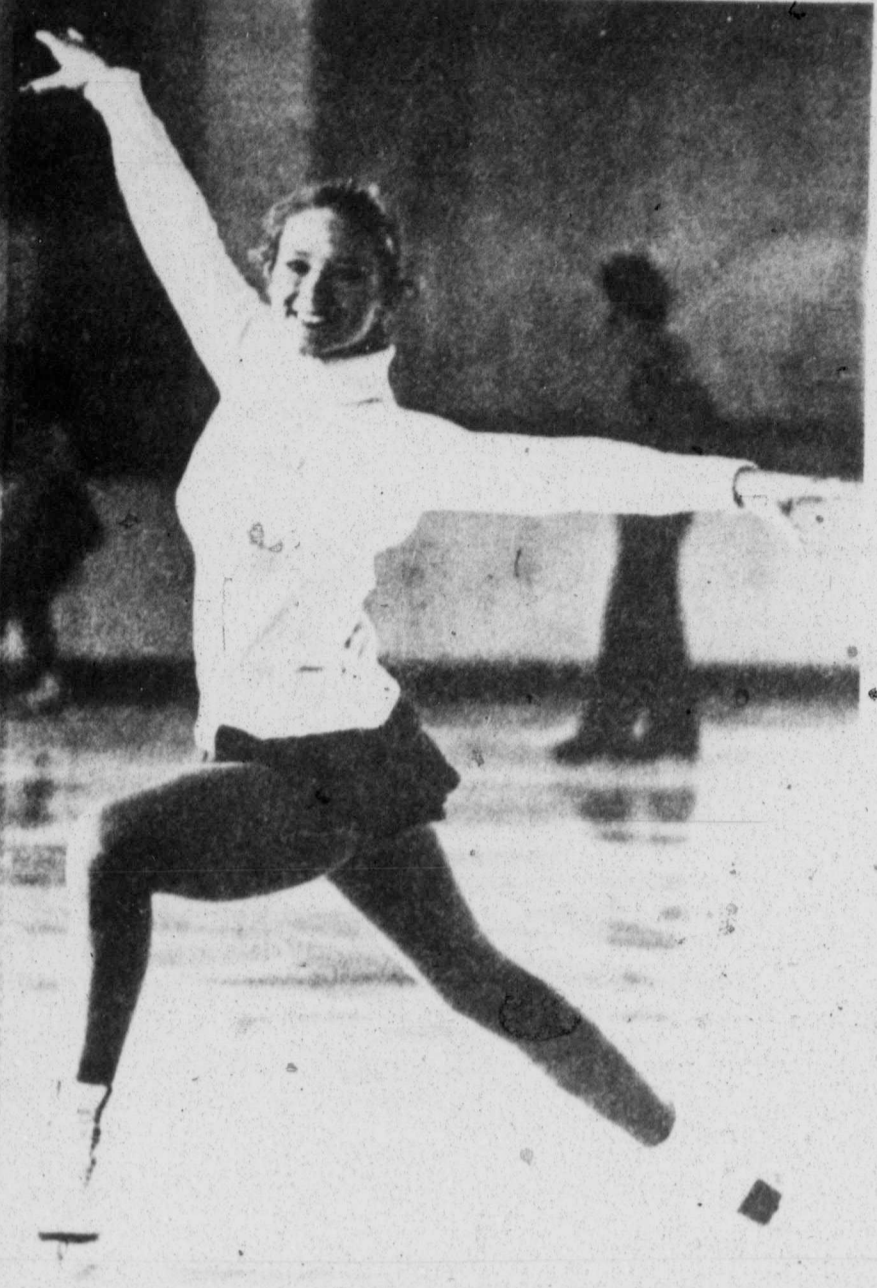

"The big fish are biting," advised Pate. "And it's best to have the equipment handy anytime a bait is put in the water."

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department announced dates and locations for issuance of antlerless deer hunting permits for the upcoming season. Landowners may pick up the permits, which are distributed on the basis of acreage and estimated deer population. This year, more owners of small acreages will be eligible for permits under a new issuance procedure. A landowner who has half the acreage of the issuance rate in that particular compartment or county will be entitled to one antlerless deer permit, according to big game program director Charles Winkler.

For example, in a compartment where the issuance rate is one permit per 100 acres, a landowner with 50 acres will be entitled to one permit. Likewise, a landowner with 150 acres will be entitled to two permits.

A reciprocal agreement between Texas and Oklahoma has established a new Texoma Fishing License which allows holders to fish all waters of the border reservoir. The $5 license will become effective Jan. 1, 1980, says the TWP. Since 70 percent of Texoma's waters lie within Oklahoma, that state will receive 70 percent of the revenue generated by the new license.

Jo Jo Starbuck...prepares for Ice Capades tour.

Faith overcomes diverging careers for Terry, Jo Jo

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Jo Jo Starbuck has lived her life on razor-sharp ice skates and Terry Bradshaw has inscribed his career with football cleats on a hundred grid-irons, and—in the language of the poets—never the twain shall meet.

But it did, and, contrary to the gossip mongers, all is well with their marriage.

"It hasn't been easy," acknowledges Jo Jo, former U.S. Olympic skater and star of Ice Capades. "Husband and wife with conflicting careers. The pressures are tremendous. The challenge is great. But the relationship between Terry and me is very firm."

"We have beaten our problems with faith."

Ms. Starbuck was in New York Monday practicing for her Winter Olympics promotional tour to be followed by a spectacular stage show featuring her and her longtime skating partner Ken Shelley. It opens Feb. 14—Valentine's Day and her birthday—at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

After a two-hour skating session and another two hours of dance instruction, she flew to Pittsburgh to watch her husband quarterback the Super Bowl champion Steelers against the Denver Broncos.

"I go to every game I can," she said, "except the away games. I can't stand the hostility of the crowds. We have one of those giant TV screens in our apartment. I watch it there."

THE MARRIAGE of these sports super stars in 1976 thrilled romantics everywhere but it wasn't long before their conflicting careers got the gossip mills churning. There were repeated rumors of a split.

"People wrote some crazy things," Jo Jo said. "It was never true. Marriage is hard enough for people with no pressures and not in the public eye. With us, it has been deadly. People scrutinizing us. Neither of us has any privacy."

"But we have organized our lives to fit our pressures. Our marriage is stronger for it."

Jo Jo Starbuck began ice skating at the age of nine. So did Ken Shelley, a neighbor's son who met her in ballet class. The two were almost inseparable, going to the same schools and college, skating 1,400 hours a year as a pair, later becoming the best pairs skaters in the United States, Olympic representatives in 1972.

People thought it would make a fine romance, but destiny demurred. "Holding Jo Jo's hand is like holding my own," said Shelley. "We're like buddies," said Jo Jo.

Jo Jo is making her Olympic tour as spokeswoman for Cup o' Noodles soup and Nissin of Japan, which are among the corporate underwriters of the Games.

JO JO will miss the Lake Placid show, however, since she and Shelley will be starring in the ice extravaganza at Radio City, replete with 12 other skaters, 18 singers and dancers and symphony orchestra.

"I quit skating seriously after getting married in June, 1976," she said. "I resigned myself willingly to the role of housewife. But I found it difficult. Terry would come home very tired. I found I couldn't be brilliant every night. It was not total fulfillment."

"When I got a chance to continue skating, I took it. Terry naturally didn't like it at first—he is a home person—but he adjusted. We both have adjusted."

Bradshaw, a national hero as quarterback of the 1975 Super Bowl champions, first saw Jo Jo when he attended an Ice Capades show in Pittsburgh. Friends tried to fix him up with one of the ladies in the chorus. "I want to meet the blonde in green," Terry said, pointing to Jo Jo. Ms. Starbuck declined.

A year later, Jo Jo, learning that the Steeler quarterback like herself was a "Born Again Christian" sought him out. Then came romance and marriage—five months after Bradshaw had won his second Super Bowl.

Blue Jays hire Menke; Columbia coach quits

Denis Menke, former major league infielder and one-time Midland Indians bonus baby in the old Sophomore League, has been named a Toronto Blue Jays coach. Menke, 39, has spent the past two seasons managing Toronto's Class A Dunedin farm team in the Florida State League. He is the first coach chosen by regently appointed Manager Bobby Mattick.

Dallas Cowboys' rookie Alois Blackwell, Houston University, was placed on no-recall waivers to make room for tackle John Dutton. Oregon State fired Coach Craig Fertig, effective at the season's end. The Beavers are winless. Coach Bill Campbell, whose Columbia University football team has lost four of five games this season, said he will step down at the end of the season. "In the past two weeks it became apparent to me that a change is needed at this time," he said, looking back on losses of 35-0 to Princeton and 37-7 to Yale. Campbell, 39, took over as head coach after the 1974 season. Under him, Columbia has posted an 11-29-1 record. The Lions' best season with Campbell as coach was 3-5-1 last year.

The Seattle Mariners are three weeks and $97,000 behind in their rent to King County for use of the Kingdom and club officials say the matter likely will end up in court. Kingdome finance manager May Lui has sent two letters to the Mariners demanding the money or asking for a written explanation as to why it isn't forthcoming. "There has been no response," said Raymond Ferguson of the county's prosecuting attorney's office. "If we don't hear from them by the end of this week, I'll have to get involved. At this time, I have formulated no specific course of action."

The Knicks beat the Indiana Pacers 136-112 Tuesday in an NBA game before an announced crowd of 7,911, lowest in the 11-year history of the new Madison Square Garden. That figure included about 6,700 season ticket holders; only about 5,000 people actually were in the building.

Palmer and Ray Floyd, who carded a 70, dealt Tony Jacklin, Britain, and Baldoينو Dassu, Italy, a 218-202 defeat to give the U.S. a 65-63 lead. Challenger Agub Kalube of Uganda out-punched Japan's Masashi Kudo to win the WBA junior middleweight title Wednesday night.

Jo Jo Starbuck began ice skating at the age of nine. So did Ken Shelley, a neighbor's son who met her in ballet class. The two were almost inseparable, going to the same schools and college, skating 1,400 hours a year as a pair, later becoming the best pairs skaters in the United States, Olympic representatives in 1972.

People thought it would make a fine romance, but destiny demurred. "Holding Jo Jo's hand is like holding my own," said Shelley. "We're like buddies," said Jo Jo.

Royals hire Jim Frey

BASEBALL—Jim Frey, a 16-year veteran of the Baltimore Orioles, was named manager of Kansas City, replacing Whitey Herzog, whose contract was not renewed after 4½ seasons with the American League club. Frey has been hitting instructor for the Orioles since 1970 and, in 1975, took on the added duties of first base coach for Manager Earl Weaver's club.

GOLF—Cell MacLaurin, pursuing her third North and South Women's Senior title in four years, took a three-shot lead over Juanita Petrone with a 152 total.

TENNIS—Second-seeded Gene Mayer trounced David Schneider 6-1, 6-3 and fifth-seeded Stan Smith beat Nick Saviano 7-6, 6-4 in the second round of a $100,000 Vienna tournament. In other matches, Zeljko Franulovic downed Louk Sanders 6-4, 6-4; Pavel Slozil was upset by Pascal Portes 6-0, 2-6, 1-6 and Heinz Gunhardt overcame unseeded Fritz Huehning 6-3, 1-6, 6-2. Raul Ramirez ousted Helmut Stiegler 6-4, 7-5. Johan Kriek beat Jaime Fillol 6-1, 6-3 and Wojtek Fibak downed Ulf Eriksson

Billy Martin in fight?

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP)—Billy Martin, embattled manager of the New York Yankees, both on and off the field, reportedly sent a guest of a suburban Minneapolis hotel to the hospital with facial injuries early Wednesday morning following a "commotion" outside the hotel bar.

However, the Bloomington, Minn., police department says the man has refused to press charges and therefore will remain unidentified. The police also said they were not pursuing the matter.

According to bartender Dennis Halvorson, Martin and a friend, later determined to be Twin Cities restaurant owner Howard Wong, entered the bar at the Hotel de France about 10:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

MHS YOUTH CENTER CHATTER

Monsters to dance on Saturday night

By AMY DAVENPORT, ANGELA TOMPKINS, TRACY BEEBE and BECKY WILSON

HEY, ALL YOU Spooks! Happy Halloween! Okay, everybody come on out to your favorite YC (MHS) Saturday night to our "Bewitching and Boogieing" Dance to the tunes of the YC's monstrously ghoulish stereo system. This "Phantasm" will last from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. All little "Monsters" must have $2 each and a costume (a face mask will do—for some people a mask won't be necessary) to get in on this "Amityville Horror."

The Spookhouse (YC) needs the help of all the little 100 Club "goblins" at the set-up at 10 a.m. Saturday. We know some of you can't be seen when the sun comes up—but make an exception and show up for the clean-up at 2 p.m. Sunday.

LAST FRIDAY NIGHT our Mighty Bulldogs ruffled a few feathers in Abilene but had to bow to the Eagles. The thriller ended in a heart-breaking 13-10 losing decision. However, our Proud Purple Pack will bounce back to top the mangy Bobcats in this week's roundup in San Angelo. Everyone "book" it on down to San Angelo to witness another brutal beating for the victory bone.

Our Jivin' Junior Varsity jumped the baby Abilene Eagles with a score of 7-2. Our Mighty Bullpups are really "diggin'" up those bones and are definitely shaping up for a great varsity next year.

Our volleyball girls "spiked" their balls down the throats of those Permian Pussycats and are now 1-0 in the second half of district play. They are really set up to win tonight at Abilene. All the way to state!

GOOD LUCK to the Choir kids who are trying out for Region Saturday. Solo it to state!

Congratulations to Jill Mutchler, Lee High Homecoming Queen! Sorry you had to lose to those "punk, pathetic and repulsive" Cougars, but your queen is definitely a winner. Good luck this week against the Big Spring Steers. Skin a scrawny Steer!

The DECA Club is selling Cheddar Cheese and All-Beef Sausage to raise money. The cheese costs $4.50 to $10.50, and the sausage costs $5.50. They can be purchased from any DECA member. Chow down. (It's great.)

That's about it for this week. See everyone at the football game in San Angelo and at the Halloween Dance. Pride makes the difference!

Check ya later,
Amy, Angela, Tracy and Becky.

P.S. Welcome home, Gib and Sharon — and good-bue.

P.P.S. — To Scott Ballew and Richard Barton: Get well quick!

P.P.P.S. — To Mr. "C" and Company: Bet you didn't think we'd acknowledge you. You're great!

MC's cake decorating course to start Monday

With the holiday season just around the corner, Midland area residents will be able to participate in an advanced course in cake decorating beginning Monday at Midland College.

Potential students should preregister for the course now as classes are limited to 25 students accepted on a first-come basis. The one prerequisite for Cake Decorating II is that applicants have completed the first course or have prior experience in cake decoration.

Instructor Jody Hawkins will demonstrate the process for making intricate flowers, garlands, roping and the color flow method of decoration.

Students meet from 7 to 9 p.m. each Monday for six weeks, and the course fee is $12.

Beginning Tuesday, Maxine Jarnagin will teach a five-week course in shorthand brush-up.

As the name implies, this course is for those who wish to refresh their knowledge of the method, or those who need to build speed and accuracy. Ms. Jarnagin uses the Gregg system and has designed the study for those with a working knowledge of the subject.

Classes for Shorthand Brush-up are scheduled 7-9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The necessary book may be purchased at the MC Bookstore, and the course fee is $20.

More information may be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

Preregistration may be completed now in room 156 of the MC Administration Building between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, including the lunch hour.

Students meet in room 156-A 15 minutes before the start of the first class meeting.

Zucchini versatile food

TORONTO (AP) — Agriculture and Food. Zucchini is a summer squash that can be cooked, eaten raw or frozen for later use, according to food specialists at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. They advise that since zucchini is a tender vegetable, it requires only a short cooking time and the best methods include steaming.

By Alfred Sheinwold

In some hands success comes from acting like a duck—serene on top, but active below. Clever readers need no further hint to see the best play for game.

South took the nine of clubs and charged ahead with the ace of hearts and a low heart. East took two trump tricks, and South later lost two spades. Not an inspiring exhibition.

South should take the first trick with the king of clubs, cash the ace of diamonds and duck a heart (play low from both hands). If East returns a club (as good as anything), dummy wins and returns a diamond for South to ruff.

RUFFS DIAMOND

South leads a trump to the ace to ruff another diamond, followed by a club to the queen and a third diamond ruff. He continues with the ace of clubs and the ace of spades for 10 tricks. (If a defender ruffed the fourth club, dummy's last trump would win a trick.)

Ducking one trump allows declarer to draw two trumps without allowing the defenders to draw a third round.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, you raise to two spades and he then bids three clubs. The opponents pass. You hold: ♠K 8 7 4 3 ♥10 9 8 ♣K J 8 3 ♦7 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

UAW, Chrysler negotiators continue talks

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Negotiators for Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers union bargained through the night to decide what the union would sacrifice to keep the troubled No. 3 carmaker alive.

The union asserted that the company's request for federal loan guarantees could depend on whether a new contract was reached by the noon deadline today.

Union spokesman Don Stillman said just after dawn there had been "a number of high-level meetings and we're just beginning another one. People think this thing can be settled."

Those meetings were held between the handful of top people on each side, with the rest of the full bargaining teams of about a dozen on each side either working on secondary issues or simply waiting for results.

Meeting reporters shortly after midnight, UAW President Douglas A. Fraser said failure to meet the deadline "would make it difficult for them — I hope."

Reminded that the company's failure to get the guarantees makes it tough on UAW members, Fraser said, "that's why we are going to make a settlement."

Chrysler is seeking $750 million in guarantees, a figure it reduced from $1.2 billion under pressure from the U.S. Treasury. Fraser had breakfast with Vice President Walter Mondale and Treasury Secretary G. William Miller in Washington Wednesday and returned with news that Treasury would soon submit aid legislation without a dollar limit.

"I think that is much better than going in with $750 million or any other specific amount," Fraser said on his return, before beginning the marathon bargaining session.

The noon deadline was imposed last week to force progress in the negotiations. The union has said it will not stage a national strike this year, but said it would spread the word in Congress that the company had "not made the effort that events required."

Also, plant-wide strikes are still possible, and they could be more disruptive at Chrysler than at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. because the company has less duplication of operations.

Asked if a contract would be contingent on Chrysler's success in winning the loan guarantees, Fraser said, "No. The agreement will be between the union and Chrysler Corp. and nobody else."

Chrysler's lack of money slowed the talks, Fraser said. "On some issues that would normally be settled by now they are counting the mills." A mill is one-tenth of a cent.

He emphasized that both sides were making progress. For instance, on the difficult pension issues, there were "none of substance left."

GM and Ford workers won large pension increases over the next three years, and even though the union is making sacrifices, Chrysler pensioners will have to get some increases, union sources have said.

Chrysler executives would not comment.

Chrysler has 110,000 production workers in the U.S. and Canada, 29,000 of them on layoff. Their wages have been on a par with GM and Ford workers for about 40 years.

The GM and Ford pacts will raise the hourly wage of an assembler from $8.67 to $11.32 by 1982, with inflation at 8 percent a year.

Meanwhile, Chrysler's mid-October auto sales were down 24 percent from the same period in 1978, while the domestic industry as a whole was down only 6.6 percent.

Economist suggests wage-price controls

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — As unpleasant as wage and price controls might be in fighting inflation, they are "a better alternative than mass unemployment," economist John Kenneth Galbraith said.

Galbraith said past attempts at curbing inflation through tight money measures had failed, but price controls during the Nixon administration had been successful.

"Those controls were badly administered by people who didn't believe in them," he said Wednesday night. "But even those controls brought inflation and unemployment down below the 5 percent mark."

Galbraith was in Madison at the invitation of the Class of 1950 and the Wisconsin Union Ideas and Issues Committee.

Asked about the failing Chrysler Corp., Galbraith said he had reluctantly concluded that "Chrysler shouldn't be allowed to go under."

Strikes, wildcats reported in Basin

New fields have been opened and wildcat operations staked in Permian Basins.

Getty Oil Co. No. 1 L. S. McDowell Estate, a wildcat nine miles north of Garden City in Glasscock County, has been completed as a Strawn oil discovery.

It completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 65 barrels of 42.5-gravity oil and 10 barrels of water, through perforations from 9,421 to 9,482 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 4,308-1. The pay was acidized with 12,000 gallons and fractured with 89,000 gallons.

Total depth is 10,400 feet and 5.5-inch pipe is set at 10,397 feet. The plugged back depth is 10,302 feet.

Well site is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 41, block 33, T-3-S, T&P survey and two miles northwest of the Deadwood (Fusselman) field and two and one-half miles northwest of the pool's Strawn pay and two and five-eighths miles southeast of the McDowell pool.

The Strawn was topped a 9,400 feet on ground elevation of 2,596 feet. Other tops include the Yates at 1,777 feet, San Andres, 2,390 feet; Wolfcamp, 6,858 feet; Siluro-Devonian, 10,030 feet and Sylvan, 10,274 feet.

GARZA OPENER
Amoco Production Co. of Midland No. 1 Sylvia Winder is a Strawn discovery in Garza County, eight miles west of Post.

The operator reported a daily flowing potential of 460 barrels of 37.5-gravity oil, no water, through an 18 3/4-inch choke and perforations from 8,472 to 8,482 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 9,094-1. The well site is 800 feet from south and 850 feet from east lines of section 1320, block 1, H&O survey and three and one-half miles southwest of the Three Way (Glorieta, San Andres and Strawn) field.

EDDY DISCOVERY
Cities Service Oil Co. of Midland No. 1-AJ Government has been completed as an Atoka-Morrow gas discovery in extreme West Eddy County, N.M., 16 miles southwest of Hope.

The operator reported a daily flowing potential of 244,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a one-inch opening and perforations from 7,604 to 6,617 feet.

The pay was fractured with 30,000 gallons. Well site is four miles south of the Gardner Draw (7,100-foot Morrow gas) field and 2,310 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 8-20S-21E.

DEEP LOVING TEST
American Trading & Production Co. No. 1 Arzo Gas Unit is to be drilled as a 21,500-foot wildcat in Loving County, three miles west of Mentone.

It is 8,100 feet from northeast and 1,100 feet from southeast lines of section 80, block 33, H&T survey. The drillsite is 3/8 mile south of the Moore-Hooper (Wolfcamp) gas discovery.

HOWARD EXPLORER
Flag Redfern Oil Co. of Midland spotted No. 1 Myers as a 10,650-foot wildcat 14 miles northwest of Big Spring in Howard County.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 8, block 33, T-2-N, T&P survey. It is one mile northeast of the discovery well of the Knott, West (Pennsylvanian reef) field and 5/8 mile west of a depleted Canyon producer in the same pool.

REEVES TESTER
Wagner & Brown of Midland No. 1-55 Earl Spring Estate is a new 6,600-foot oil wildcat in Reeves County, nine miles west of Pecos.

It is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from southwest lines of section 55, block 4, H&G survey and two and one-quarter miles northwest of the Block 4 (Atoka gas) pool. It also is two and one-eighth miles northwest of the depleted Hermosa (Fusselman gas) field.

WARD PROSPECTOR
Gulf Oil Corp. of Odessa No. 14 Cawar Field Unit is to be drilled as a 6,300-foot wildcat in Ward County, eight miles southeast of Monahan.

Scheduled as an oil project, it is 7/8 mile southwest of the Cawar (Glorieta) pool which produces at 4,040 feet, and one and five-eighths miles south of the Cawar (Devonian, North) pool which produces at 6,450 feet.

The drillsite is 710 feet from south and 780 feet from west lines of section 13, block B-20, psi survey.

GAINES PROJECTS
Laguna Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 ODC is to be drilled as a 10,000-foot wildcat in Gaines County, four miles southeast of Denver City.

The location is 1,787 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 309, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey. Ground elevation is 3,507 feet.

It is a northeast offset to Laguna No. 1 Robertson, recently completed Wolfcamp discovery which finalized through perforations from 9,464 to 9,477 feet.

Hance casts aye vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock, who represents Midland County in Congress, voted in favor of lifting price and allocation controls on gasoline Wednesday.

The House voted 225-189 in a roll call vote to reverse itself and to refuse to lift price and allocation controls on gasoline, however.

Voting "yes" were 60 other Democrats and 128 Republicans. Voting "no" were 202 Democrats and 23 Republicans.

Saudis may hike yield

LONDON (AP) — Saudi Arabia is considering stepping up oil production by one million barrels a day to 10.5 million in a bid to stabilize prices, says The Economist, the London financial weekly, in its latest issue.

Officially, Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, has promised to keep production at its present record level, 11 million barrels above normal, only until December.

But The Economist said that privately, Saudi oil planners are certain the 9.5-million-barrel level will run through the first quarter of 1980.

"And, more importantly, they are considering producing as much as 10.5 million b-d (barrels a day) for a few months," the magazine said.

The report caused some surprise in London oil circles. One expert said that while it appeared possible the Saudis might be able to step up production still further for a brief period, it seemed unlikely they could sustain higher levels.

The expert added: "More interesting than the Saudis' physical ability to increase production is whether the Saudis might be able to step up production still further for a brief period, it seemed unlikely they could sustain higher levels."

The expert said the Saudis' physical ability to increase production is whether the Saudis might be able to step up production still further for a brief period, it seemed unlikely they could sustain higher levels."

As long as price "leapfrogging" threatens, oil companies will stockpile and spot prices will also increase, The Economist said.

"The spiral is self-perpetuating — until some outside shock takes the steam out of the spot market and makes agreement on a single central OPEC price possible," said the magazine.

"The Saudis are considering supplying the shock. A promise to produce 10.5 million b-d, even for a relatively short period, would produce the sort of change in sentiment needed."

On whether the Saudi oilfields could run at 10.5 million a day, the magazine said: "Probably yes — but only for a limited period, and only if the Saudi government suspends its rule that only 65 percent of the total be light crude."

Politically, the magazine said, the lobby for an increase might be overruled.

"The desire to hold down oil production has always been strong in Saudi ruling circles, and it must have been strengthened by the Iranian revolution," The Economist said.

"But that such a proposal is even being made shows how keen the Saudis are to regain some of their price leadership when OPEC next meets in December in Caracas."

Fuel supply shows drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Supplies of heating oil and gasoline fell slightly last week but remained substantially ahead of inventories at this time last year, the American Petroleum Institute said Wednesday.

For the week ending Oct. 9, supplies of distillate — heating oil — declined to 239.1 million barrels from 239.6 million the previous week.

The Carter administration had asked the oil industry to have 240 million barrels on hand by the end of October in preparation for the winter heating season.

Oil scouts will meet

The Permian Basin Pioneer Oil Scouts Association will hold its 9th biennial "check" meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Elks Lodge, 713 W. Indiana St., reports W. C. Kimball, spokesman for the organization.

Membership in the association is limited to those persons who attended check meetings in West Texas or in New Mexico at any time in the past. "If your think you are eligible, your are," Kimball said.

Reservations will be accepted until Friday morning.

Speaker O'Neill terms oil industry profits 'disgrace'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter threatened today to pursue unspecified proposals that "could be quite punitive to the oil industry" if Congress does not pass a satisfactory "windfall profits" tax.

Carter also said the surge of profits posted by major oil companies in the third quarter "vividly demonstrate the need for a major portion of unearned profits from the oil companies to go into the general service of the American people."

The president made his comments, the first on the oil industry's new financial reports, in a speech to a citizens' coalition having breakfast at the White House before visiting Capitol Hill to push for passage of Carter's tax plan.

It would tax oil company revenues stemming from the presidential decision to remove price controls on oil.

Carter vowed that if he fails to bring the Senate around to supporting a bill stronger than that before the Senate Finance Committee, "we will shift our combat zone" to the House-Senate conference that will work out difference between the Senate bill and a bill more to Carter's liking that the House approved.

If the final measure does not meet his approval, "we'll move toward additional proposals to the Congress which could be quite punitive to the oil industry," the president told the National Citizens' Coalition for the Windfall Profits Tax.

"I will not hesitate to do that if the necessary," he said, without spelling out any specifics.

Referring to the coalition's mission and his belief that the Senate bill is inadequate, Carter said: "I think the aroused voices of the American public led by you is the best possible way we can meet the tremendous influence of the oil lobbyists in Capitol Hill."

Energy and politics were the focus of Carter's public activities throughout the day. He was flying to New Jersey in the afternoon to address an energy forum in New Brunswick and then to attend fundraisers for Democratic Party legislative candidates in East Rutherford.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill called the oil industry profits announced this week "a disgrace to the nation. It's just an absolute and utter disgrace."

Among the third quarter profits was Exxon's surge of 118 percent, to a net income of $1.1 billion. Conoco's profits were up 134 percent and Gulf's up 97 percent.

O'Neill told reporters Wednesday the oil company profit statements "should send a message to the Senate to get a windfall profits tax out and a strong one."

Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., chairman of a House energy subcommittee, said: "Soaring oil company profits are only the tip of the iceberg. When decontrol of prices hits full force, the profits will be much higher."

Charles Schultze, chairman of Carter's Council of Economic Advisors, said the increases were a "pointed reminder of the need for speedy enactment of the president's windfall tax."

The subject made its way into Senate Finance Committee debate Wednesday as the panel continued work on Carter's proposed "windfall profits" tax.

As Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., criticized the profits, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said: "I dare say that more of that (oil company) stock is owned in the Northeast than in Texas, by far."

The committee met to work out the mechanics of a formula to help middle-income persons cope with rising energy costs, but made no decisions.

Although the committee has approved the details of the windfall tax itself, it is still working on the overall proposal, which includes suggested ways to spend the tax money.

The committee-approved tax would produce $442 billion from 1980 to 1990, about half the amount sought in the original Carter proposal.

In a statement distributed at the White House, Schultze said passage of "a substantial windfall profits tax, not diluted by unneeded and unwarranted exemptions, is a critical link in an economically sound energy policy."

"The American people are being asked by their government to pay out billions of hard-earned dollars in higher prices for domestic oil in the interests of a sensible long-run energy policy," he said. "They have every right, in turn, to expect that their government will take steps to insure

Algeria oil price goes up

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Algeria announced Wednesday an increase of $2.77 per barrel of crude oil, making it the sixth member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to boost prices in recent weeks.

The official Algerian news agency said the price would go from the OPEC ceiling of $23.50 a barrel to $26.27, effective immediately, "bringing Algerian crude oil into line with increases announced by other Mediterranean exporters."

It said if Sonatrach, the state oil monopoly, had not raised the prices above the level set by the 13-member OPEC in June, Algeria would have faced a serious loss of earnings.

"The present situation of the oil market, both within and outside OPEC, obliged Sonatrach to correct this price to take account of the new conditions," the agency said.

Senate puts limit on fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Energy Committee voted today to sharply restrict President Carter's ability to impose quotas and fees on imported oil.

The move, opposed by the administration, could jeopardize the president's policy of reducing oil imports over the next several years.

The committee voted 10-8 to require that both houses of Congress approve any presidentially imposed limits on oil from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Carter announced last July an immediate daily import quota of 8.2 million barrels per day. In the meantime, the Treasury Department has been considering ways of enforcing the limit, including fees and tariffs.

177 oil, gas projects spotted in Permian Basin counties

Operators announced locations for 177 oil and gas projects in the West Texas and southeast New Mexico areas of the Permian Basin.

Forty-one of the projects were scheduled in wildcat country, and 146 were staged in proven field areas.

District 7-C of the Railroad Commission of Texas, with headquarters in San Angelo, worked 72 field operations and 16 wildcats.

District 8, with headquarters in Midland, reported 40 field projects and eight wildcats.

Schleicher and Tom Green counties each gained four of the District 7-C explorers, with others being staged in Runtels, 3; and one each in Coke, Concho, Crockett, Menard and Sutton.

Andrews and Howard each gained two of the District 8 wildcats, and Mitchell, Pecos, Sterling and Crane each gained one.

Jan Leasure, a junior high school English teacher from Waukegan, Ill., hands coupons she has saved to a cashier in a Waukegan store Wednesday.

Mrs. Leasure says she has saved $2,400 in the last year by being an "aware consumer." (AP-Laser photo)

Coupon-conscious teacher fights inflation, saves $1,400

CHICAGO (AP) — Jan Leasure figures she has 3,000 money-saving coupons around her house, more than she can ever use. So the 30-year-old English teacher, who estimates she has saved $1,400 in the last year by battling inflation with coupons and refunds, attaches some to each copy of her monthly newsletter, "Refunders Against Inflation" — a publication with its own refund offer.

forms, said Mrs. Leasure. Coupons are cash-off deals on many items, while refund forms can be sent in for cash returns. Most forms are on the packaged product or displayed nearby. "I make the rounds of stores, take notes on refund offers I find and list them in my newsletter," said Mrs. Leasure. "Usually about 200 offers are listed every month — most of them are new, but some are holdovers with a 60 to 90-day expiration date."

Carter loses to Congress in ship battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-year battle between Congress and President Carter over building a $2.1 billion nuclear aircraft carrier is coming to a close with Congress the clear winner.

Carter won the first round last year by successfully vetoing the huge ship. Congress came back with a knockout punch this year by approving the carrier with a landslide margin in the House, leaving little hope that another veto would be upheld.

The ship was included in legislation authorizing $41.4 billion in weapons purchases. The bill, a compromise between earlier versions passed by the Senate and House, was approved Wednesday by the Senate and is expected to be passed by the House by Friday.

Sources say Carter will sign this year's bill. "The nuclear-powered carrier will cost about $477 million more to build than the smaller, oil-fired carrier Carter originally proposed. Supporters of the bigger ship say the rising cost of oil makes a nuclear carrier a better buy in the long run."

In a victory for Carter, Congress agreed to drop a Senate provision of the bill that would have forced the president to lift trade sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Instead, the bill now contains a non-binding "sense of Congress" resolution saying the United States should have unlimited access to strategic and critical materials from Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Overall, the legislation totals $1.3 billion more than Carter requested. The bill includes $6.7 billion for 14 new ships, including the carrier, a nuclear-powered Trident submarine, two nuclear attack submarines and the conversion of an LPH amphibious ship to a light carrier.

In addition, the legislation earmarks $13.6 billion to buy 705 aircraft, $5.1 billion for new missiles and $1.7 billion for tanks and other tracked vehicles.

The aircraft include 30 F-14A fighters, 25 F-18 fighter-attack planes, 10 C-12A utility aircraft, 15 AH-1S helicopters and six A-6E medium attack plane. The administration had requested no money for the utility aircraft, helicopters or A-6E attack planes, and had asked for only 15 of the F-18s and 24 of the F-14As.

It also authorizes $13.5 billion for military research and development, including $670 million requested by Carter to develop the MX mobile missile, and $107 million for civil defense.

Mass murder victim's father sues steakhouse

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The father of a 15-year-old girl killed in the worst mass murder in Oklahoma history is suing the steakhouse restaurant where she worked for $2 million.

June 1978 slayings of the three-member Melvin Lorenz family of San Antonio, Texas.

Another committee member, Wes Gant, the executive vice president of the Oklahoma Restaurant Association, said Verna Stafford's name was mentioned in connection with the reward, but he declined to say if she was included in the committee's list.

Oklahoma City resident Jerry Horst filed the lawsuit Wednesday in Oklahoma County District Court claiming he is seeking to force the Sirloin Stockade restaurant chain to increase its security.

In a related development Wednesday, a committee responsible for distributing a $62,500 reward fund collected after the murders is trying to get help from the court.

Mrs. Stafford was Roger Stafford's wife and the prosecution's main witness against him. In testimony she admitted being involved in a robbery at the restaurant, which resulted in the shootings.

Horst's daughter, Terri, was killed in July 1978 with five other workers in a southside Sirloin Stockade.

The five member committee has recommended several persons, who they have refused to name publicly, to receive some of the reward for their part in helping solve the murders.

In a related development, Stafford was moved from Oklahoma City by county sheriff's officials and was taken to the Lexington Corrections Center Wednesday.

Roger Dale Stafford was convicted Oct. 17 in connection with the incident and was formally sentenced to death Tuesday.

The committee, which includes Oklahoma City police Chief Tom Heggy and Sirloin Stockade official Wes Gant, asked the court Wednesday to help determine which persons should receive the reward.

His conviction in the steakhouse murders is under appeal, but Stafford told District Judge Charles L. Owens Tuesday that he didn't wish to remain in the county jail while the appeal is being processed.

Ship's pilot charged in Cuyahoga collision

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A ship's pilot has been charged by the Coast Guard with failing to sound a danger signal "in a timely manner" before an Argentine freighter's fatal collision with the Coast Guard cutter Cuyahoga in Chesapeake Bay.

The charge was filed as a court-martial was held in Yorktown for the Cuyahoga's skipper, Chief Warrant Officer Donald K. Robinson.

They said Robinson was trying to instruct the cadet who was standing deck watch, take navigation bearings and keep an eye on the Santa Cruz II.

Eleven men aboard the Chesapeake died when the cutter sank within minutes of the collision with the 528-foot Santa Cruz II on Oct. 20, 1978.

Robinson is charged with negligently hazarding his vessel by failing to determine the Santa Cruz II's exact position before turning left into its path.

—Fairchild, then a cadet, said Robinson told him after coming out of the radar room the vessel was eight miles away and it was OK to make a turn.

The charge against John Hamill of Maryland was filed by Cmdr. John C. Midgett Jr., hearing officer for the 5th Coast Guard District, Coast Guard spokesman Fred Maldonado said today. Hamill has 30 days to respond to the civil charge, which carries a maximum penalty of a $500 fine.

The tower was about 170 feet high — about 40 percent complete — when the accident occurred in April 1978. Workers were pouring concrete when the scaffolding pulled loose.

The ensign said he did not inform the captain after he noticed later the approaching ship had two white lights and one red one, which meant it was more than 50 meters long.

Wanted: Gifted psychic to contact Jesse James

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — "WANTED: Gifted Psychic to contact Jesse James. Seasoned pros only. Apply Clay County Parks Department, Liberty, Mo."

Parks Director Stephen Davis asserts he's serious about his plan to use a psychic to ferret out information from the county's most infamous son.

Work resumes at site of fatal Willow Island tower accident

WILLOW ISLAND, W.Va. (AP) — Construction crews have mounted scaffolding and have begun to pour concrete on a section of a cooling tower at a Willow Island power plant where 51 workers were killed last year.

Work resumed Wednesday just below where scaffolding ripped free in the accident, said Phil Cocco, spokesman for Research-Cottrell Inc. in Bound Brook, N.J., the main contractor on the project.

"It just might be a stupid thing to do but, then again, who knows what we might learn," Davis says.

Construction workers laid concrete in rings, one atop the other to form the tower.

Davis admits it will take a real pro in the psychic business, since the famous outlaw has been dead 97 years.

"They started this afternoon on the 27th ring," Cocco said. "The 28th ring was the one that went down," he said.

He's looking for someone with extraordinary mental abilities who might be able to contact James through a visit to the county-owned cabin near Kearney, Mo., where James was born in 1847.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration has cited Research-Cottrell, Pittsburgh Testing Laboratories and United Engineers and Constructors with civil violations of federal safety law in the accident. The citations are being appealed.

His psychic search has been less than successful, so he released word this week that he's on the lookout for someone in the contact business.

Research-Cottrell has made some modifications in its construction method on the tower as a result of the accident. It is using a giant crane to haul material to the top, instead of a cathead system. The cathead system was one of the factors cited by OSHA in a preliminary report on the causes of the accident.

It marks the most unusual research project attempted by his department since it took over as James historians 19 months ago. It was then that the county bought the outlaw's birthplace and 36 acres of land east of Kearney for a historical park.

The cathead system was one of the factors cited by OSHA in a preliminary report on the causes of the accident.

Since then Milton Perry, curator for the historical site, has employed a variety of research methods — poring over books, talking to elderly residents, even digging up the outlaw's original grave in an effort to separate fact from trivia.

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (AP) — A test firing of a cluster of space shuttle engines probably will be delayed up to two weeks after a minute hydrogen leak was discovered in the system, officials say.

"I'm not sure what we could come up with that would have any credibility, but we thought it would be fun to get a group of people (with psychic powers) out at the farm and see what they could come up with," Perry said.

The test firing at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's National Space Technology Laboratories at Bay St. Louis was postponed Wednesday because of the leak, said Mack Herring, spokesman for facility.
