In Search of the Rogue Cat

It's been said Midland is in the heart of good fishing lakes — just drive 300 miles in any direction. There is, however, one fishing hole where the catfish are biting, and it's about 10 minutes from downtown Midland. Sunday's West Texas Life has the story.

A Charity Caper

The secret password is "money," and those who have it are welcomed into a not-so-secret yearly ritual in Aberdeen, Scotland. In Sunday's Reporter-Telegram, Staff Writer Kay Hord tells what some Scots will do for money, especially when it's going for charity.

Supporting the Schools

No one worked harder for Tuesday's school bond election than school trustee Parker Humes. Yet the resounding defeat hasn't dimmed his enthusiasm for Midland or its schools. See Sunday's Reporter-Telegram for an insight into a determined optimist.

South Africa denies it used nuclear device

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa today denied U.S. intelligence suggestions that it set off a nuclear device, calling the report total nonsense verging on science fiction.

And in Washington, a senior American defense official appeared to step back from those suggestions by saying "there is no independent evidence that would link a particular country" with the suspected explosion more than a month ago.

Dr. J. Wynand de Villiers, president of South Africa's Atomic Energy Board, said the report indicating South Africa might be on the brink of joining only six other nations in the world's known atomic arms club was "complete nonsense."

"I have no knowledge at all of such an explosion," he said. "If there was anything of the sort, my first reaction would be that some other powers might have undertaken a test, but it was definitely not South Africa."

Foreign Minister Roelof F. Botha declared, "I know absolutely nothing about this matter, whatsoever."

"Why don't you ask the Russians or the Chinese, or even the Americans," Botha asked sarcastically. "South Africa is not Antarctica. We might even be talking about Australia or New Zealand."

"It is a particularly vast area in which the phenomenon is supposed to have taken place. If the Americans don't know what is going on, I suggest they first make sure of their facts before they run away with the idea."

"It might even have been the rebirth of Venus. I suggest that the Americans ask Neptune for a report..."

Botha said the United States, "as leaders of the Western world... should not panic so easily..."

U.S. officials told reporters in Washington Thursday night they had evidence South Africa may have exploded a nuclear device in the atmosphere last month.

The officials said the indicators were picked up by a reconnaissance satellite, and were not conclusive. But they said their evidence indicated a "low-yield nuclear explosion occurred on Sept. 22 in an area of the Indian ocean and South Atlantic, including portions of the Antarctic continent and the southern part of Africa."

But the U.S. defense official, briefing reporters in Washington today, sought to back away from the earlier intelligence reports that targeted South Africa as the likely source of the suspected explosion.

And this official, who spoke under ground rules barring use of his name, said the blast may remain a mystery.

A second knowledgeable U.S. government source also told The Associated Press: There is no reason whatsoever to implicate South Africa in this. "Asked exactly what had occurred, this source replied: 'No one really knows.'"

Elsewhere in Washington, meanwhile, Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of the House subcommittee on Africa, termed the reports "deeply disturbing" and said his panel will conduct a hearing on the matter next Monday.

Oil pioneers gathering for 11th biennial reunion

Men and women who were engaged in some phase of the petroleum industry in this vast region of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico 30, 40, 50 and more years ago began arriving today to attend the 11th biennial reunion of Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers here Saturday.

The celebration, which is expected to attract a record attendance of more than 500 persons from across the nation, will be headquartered in the Midland Hilton.

The registration desk, staffed by members of the Midland Desk and Derrick Club, will open at 9 a.m. Saturday on the hotel's mezzanine floor.

The reunion is sponsored by the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers.

in cooperation with the Petroleum Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

A men's get-together is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. in the hotel, to be followed by a men's luncheon in the hotel ballroom.

Congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock will be guest speaker at the luncheon. The congressman, a former member of the Texas Senate, will be introduced by Hamilton McRae, veteran Midland attorney and president of the first Permian Basin Oil and Gas Association in the pre-World War II years.

Joe Kloesel, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the visiting Pioneers to the Tall City. The invocation will be voiced by C.W. Brown, pioneer McCamey oil operator. W.H. "Bill" Collins will serve as master of ceremonies.

A sherry reception-luncheon for the women is scheduled at noon in Midland Country Club, with Mrs. W.A. Yeager Sr. and Sally Patteson in charge. Buses will leave the hotel for the country club at 11:45 a.m.

Tours of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame and of Midland and vicinity are scheduled during the afternoon. Buses will be at the hotel at 1:30 p.m. for these activities.

The concluding event will be an informal reception scheduled from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Hilton Ballroom, instead of at the Petroleum Club as

Consumer prices up 1.1 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pushed by higher prices for food, fuel and housing, consumer prices increased 1.1 percent in September as inflation continued above a 13 percent annual rate, the government said today.

At the same time, it reported that the purchasing power of workers' paychecks declined another 0.7 percent during the month and was down by 4.4 percent from a year earlier.

There was nothing in the September price report to indicate any improvement in the nation's highly disturbing rate of inflation. It matched August's 1.1 percent increase and was the ninth month this year that prices have increased by about 1 percent.

OVERALL FOOD PRICES, including restaurant meals, climbed 0.9 percent during September, the biggest increase in five months, and grocery store prices were up 1.1 percent. Food prices had shown little or no increase in the previous three months.

Fuel prices rose sharply again during the month, with home heating oil up 5.6 percent and gasoline prices advancing 3.1 percent to a national average of 99.8 cents a gallon for all types.

The overall cost of housing rose another 1.2 percent, with home mortgage financing up 1.8 percent, partly the result of government efforts to slow the economy by increasing interest rates.

However, even larger increases in mortgage costs probably lie ahead, because the latest actions by the Federal Reserve Board to push interest rates to record levels will not show up in the Consumer Price Index for another month or two, said Patrick Jackman, a Labor Department analyst.

Jackman said consumer prices have increased at a 13.2 percent annual rate during the first nine months of 1979, meaning that if the same trend continues through December, that would be the total increase for the year.

It would be the highest inflation for any year since 1946, when prices were up 18.2 percent after the government lifted wartime price controls.

THE LABOR DEPARTMENT said its Consumer Price Index stood in September at 223.4 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods and services priced at $100 in 1967 had risen in cost to $223.40 last month.

Prices had increased 12.1 percent in the 12-month period ending in September.

Jackman said the worsening of food prices again following four months of improvement clouds the outlook for an easing of inflation in coming months.

The Carter administration originally had forecast an easing of consumer prices to below a 10 percent rate by the end of the year.

"It's not a very pleasant forecast... I don't see us getting worse, but it looks like we'll be staying right around where we are, with the highest rate of inflation since World War II," Jackman said.

THE INCREASE IN FOOD PRICES in September resulted largely from a 2.7 percent rise in fruit and vegetable prices and higher prices for beef and eggs. Food prices had been unchanged in August.

The Labor Department said the 5.6 percent increase in fuel oil prices brought the total rise for the 12 months ending in September to 36.1 percent, the result of price increases for crude oil imposed by oil-exporting nations.

The average price of home heating oil was 84.8 cents a gallon in September, up 4.8 cents from August and up 30.3 cents from December 1978.

The decline in workers' spendable earnings continued a trend that has been under way for a full year, with inflation and higher taxes steadily eroding the buying power of paychecks.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, such as Federal Reserve Chairman Paul A. Volcker, have said recently that Americans must accept lower living standards as the price for controlling inflation.

The report on the sharp rise in consumer prices in September came a day after the chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, Charles L. Schultz, said Americans face continuing inflation of 8 to 9 percent for at least the indefinite future.

Steadily worsening inflation in the economy caused the Federal Reserve Board to take drastic action on Oct. 6 to slow growth of the money supply and boost interest rates to help contain the upward price spiral.

Carter's mortgage efforts boost interest rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has moved on several fronts to ease the nationwide mortgage money crunch, but at the expense of further boosting record high interest rates.

A federal official who requested anonymity said Thursday's steps will make money available for a while, "especially so lenders can make good on commitments. But who is going to borrow at the rates they'll have to charge?"

The supply of mortgage money is expected to grow as a result of revised Federal Home Loan Bank Board regulations which:

—Lower the minimum amount of money thrift institutions must keep in reserve, thereby freeing up to $2.4 billion that can be made available for mortgages.

—Give savings and loan associations permission to greatly expand their borrowing from "outside sources," starting in 60 days. Those sources could include such things as commercial banks and mortgage-backed bonds.

In a related move, the maximum allowable interest on single-family home mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration was raised a full point to a record 11.5 percent. For multi-family dwellings, the ceiling was raised from 10 percent to 11 percent.

Ceilings on Veterans Administration loans also rose 1 percent to 11.5 percent.

It was the second time interest ceilings on federally insured mortgages have been raised in the last month by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

High interest rates on non-federally insured mortgages, now at 14 percent in some states, may increase before turning around, said several housing analysts.

After the first of the year, one said, "I think we will start seeing interest rates coming down."

The actions by HUD and the bank board, which regulates the nation's 4,000 federal savings and loan associations, came as mortgage money has all but dried up.

Savings and loans are losing deposits, which they use to make mortgages, to other institutions and investments offering better returns, such as money-market mutual funds.

In addition, mortgage bankers, who write most government-backed mortgages, have had trouble finding investors for mortgages carrying interest rates lower than other available investments.

Some housing experts said the FHA ceiling increase should make it somewhat easier for mortgage bankers to sell mortgages to their investors.

Although the actions are designed to increase mortgage money availability, they will not do so in all cases.

One expert said mortgage lending will not pick up in the 20 or so states with mortgage interest ceilings, which are set at 12 percent or less.

And, even if mortgage money is available, many people will find it out of their reach at the higher interest rates. The monthly payment on a $50,000 mortgage with a 30-year term carrying a 10.5 percent interest rate was $458. That payment on the same loan with an interest rate of 11.5 percent interest goes to $496.

and what chemical overcame the men.

Greg Stout, 29, of Stinnett, one of the workers in the refinery's Unit 22 when the poisonous fumes belched from a pipeline, said it was hydrogen disulfide gas.

"I recognized it from the smell," said Stout, who helped rescue other workers overcome by the fumes until he was also stricken.

Stout said the first man killed, Fran McGahan, 29, of Fritch, was working on a platform two stories above ground in the refinery when he was overcome by the fumes.

Toxic fumes at Borger plant still unidentified, officials say

BORGER, Texas (AP) — A refinery worker says the poisonous gas that leaked from a pipeline, killing two men and injuring 11 others, smelled like rotten eggs and was probably tetrahydrogen disulfide gas.

But plant officials at the Phillips Petroleum refinery near this Panhandle city where the accident occurred Thursday said they don't know what toxic substance caused the accident or where it came from.

Federal investigators were summoned to the refinery today to try to determine how the accident occurred

White House officials praised Byrd's endorsement of SALT, saying in a statement that no member of the Senate has shown "a greater and more thoughtful concern for our nation's security than Senator Byrd."

He wound up, he said, with two minor reservations, both of which were resolved by assurances in writing from the president after a White House meeting Monday.

He said one concerned the nation's commitment to properly fund intelligence agencies involved in verification; the other was over the Senate's right to consent to any extension of the treaty's protocol after Dec. 31, 1981.

UAW gives Chrysler Corp. 'break;' Nomination likely

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — The United Auto Workers union has given financially sick Chrysler Corp. a break at the bargaining table and its president is headed for the company's board room in return.

The UAW, in an unprecedented contract agreement, will defer raises and corporate pension payments and give up paid holidays to aid the company with a package of concessions worth $403 million, the union said Thursday.

In return, Chrysler said it would nominate UAW president Douglas A. Fraser for a seat on the board of directors and give the union a voice in pension fund decisions.

"We did break with 42 years of tradition and history," Fraser said in announcing the pact with the nation's No. 3 carmaker. Bargaining lasted more than 25 hours and more than three hours past a noon deadline, set up to speed negotiations.

The company's chief negotiator, William O'Brien, said he was "very pleased" with the contract.

Chrysler is seeking $750 million in federal loan guarantees. It estimates it will lose $1 billion in 1980, and will use the union concessions as a selling point to convince Congress it needs help.

In the tentative contract, the union agreed to defer $203 million in wages and benefits and, as announced previously, to defer for one year $200 million of this year's payment to the pension fund. Union members will get no paid days off other than vacation in the first year, compared with eight days for GM and Ford workers.

Fraser said Chrysler workers would return to parity with their counterparts at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motors Co. in the third year of the pact, which must be ratified over the next two weeks.

The union already has reached agreements with Ford and GM.

The pact also gives the union two long-sought social goals: the right to recommend investment policy for part of the pension fund, and the right to recommend investment sanctions against some companies it may designate for their South Africa policies.

In the most radical break with tradition, though not part of the contract, the company said in a statement that Chairman Lee A. Iacocca will submit Fraser's name to the board's nominating committee. Approval seemed assured at the May shareholder's meeting.

Hostage's death a case of 'mistaken identity'

DALLAS (AP) — The two police officers thought it was the gunman they saw running from the area where three people were being held hostage. The man they shot to death was one of the hostages, authorities said.

Police Chief Glen King called it a tragic case of mistaken identity and Thursday placed the two officers on indefinite leave for their own good.

King said the officers spotted a man who "began to run in a crouch," and twice called for him to stop.

"He failed to do so and from a distance of approximately 75 feet they fired on him," King said.

"Because of the traumatic nature of this, because the innocent person's life was lost in it and because of the effect this likely will have on their mental and emotional conditions, I am placing them on leave...to be sure everything is in order as far as they are personally concerned," King said.

Police said the gunman, who surrendered after Page was killed, had abducted his wife and a child from his mother-in-law's home about 8 a.m. The mother-in-law called police, who followed the gunman as he marched his family down the street at gunpoint.

Page happened to be getting into his car when the group approached. Police said the gunman pointed his pistol at Page and ordered him to drive them away from the area. When one officer tried to hide behind a car, the gunman fired at him.

Page backed the car across the street into a neighbor's front yard and leaped out in a daring escape attempt. Police said Page had run about 35 feet when he was hit in the head, leg and buttocks by gunfire from officers Randall Jackson, 35, and James Brigdon, 32.

Salute to Oil Pioneers

A grand, glorious and thoroughly enjoyable weekend is upcoming in the Tall City of Midland as Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers stage their 11th biennial reunion, with headquarters established in the Midland Hilton.

It truly is one of the most enjoyable events one could imagine, as the Pioneers get together to visit and swap yarns of yesteryears in the oil patch which is the Permian Basin.

The celebration is scheduled all day and well into the night Saturday, and already many of the Pioneers are on hand to join in the festivities. Downtown Midland is due to be a lively place on Saturday, as the spirit of fun and fellowship prevails.

It will be "Howdy, you old so-and-so, I haven't see you since the last reunion," and "How-are you and where in the world are you hanging out now?" as the Pioneers greet each other in the hotel lobby, on the streets or parking lots, or in the stores. There will be a lot of hand shaking and back slapping going on throughout the day, and everyone will be having a fun time.

This is what makes the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers Reunion one of the liveliest and most heart-warming celebrations staged every other year in the Tall city.

Midland and Midlanders are delighted to be the hosts for the biennial celebrations. It is fitting that the reunions should be held here since many of the Pioneers live, or have lived or done business in this Headquarters City at one time or another through the years. The Pioneers also have played a most important role in making Midland the Tall City it is today.

A men's coffee, luncheons for both men and women, tours of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame and of Midland and vicinity, and a reception for both men and women are on tap for Saturday, but mainly just visiting and reminiscing will be the top attractions. And this actually is what the reunion is all about.

Things are quite different in the Permian Basin today than they were 50, 40 and 50 years ago, particularly from the standpoints of roads, communications, accommodations, equipment, financing and on and on. It was a bit rough in most spots, but complaints of hardship seldom were heard as the Pioneers went about their work of forging a great empire through the finding and producing of oil and gas, which many persons in those early days said were non-existent in the region. But thanks to the hard work and dogged determination of the Petroleum Pioneers, their dreams and goals were realized. And what a difference the results of their efforts have made in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico. Progress long has been the keyword in this region, and the Petroleum Pioneers largely are responsible for it.

So, it is HATS OFF in a snappy SALUTE to the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers, along with a most cordial WELCOME to Midland on this particular occasion.

The Pioneers, although looking back momentarily during the reunion, continue to look ahead in their typical pioneering spirit to even greater progress in the future.

Nixon, Carter: Brother troubles

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Like Richard Nixon before him, Jimmy Carter has tried quietly, if futilely, to be his brother's keeper. Both presidents used the all-seeing, all-knowing federal apparatus to keep an anxious watch on their errant brothers.

In the loneliness of the Oval Office, Nixon and Carter shared a personal penchant for secrecy and sublimation. Yet both had their souls tested by overindulgent, overly talkative brothers whose loud cracks and voracious appetites caused political embarrassment.

The two wayward brothers, Donald Nixon and Billy Carter, also had much in common. They shared a weakness for easy money and an indiscretion about how they acquired it. Both also recognized the financial advantages of having a brother in the White House.

In fact, both got their names linked with man-about-the-world Robert Vesco, who allegedly skipped the country with hundreds of millions of dollars belonging to other people. Apparently, he was willing to share a few million with insiders who had the right White House connections.

In the early 1970s, President Nixon asked White House aide John Ehrlichman to keep tabs on Donald. The harassed Ehrlichman did his best to prevent Donald's indiscretions from bubble-gumming in his brother's face.

In the late 1970s, President Carter asked White House aide Tom Beard to try to keep Billy out of trouble. Beard's most delicate task was to soft-pedal Billy's dealings with the Libyans, who have granted arms and asylum to some of the world's most notorious renegades.

We have just learned, for example, that the White House was alerted a year ago that Billy had accepted an all-expenses-paid trip to Libya. There was worry inside the White House over his intentions and his traveling companions. So in the strictest confidence, Beard asked the State Department to monitor the visit and, if possible, to restrain the fun-loving, beer-swilling Billy.

Instructions were flashed to the U.S. embassy in Libya "to greet Georgia delegation, to learn members' names and to alert them to sensitive nature of U.S.-Libyan relations."

Billy arrived in grand style, with eight Georgia politicians and businessmen. They traveled first-class, stayed at the best hotels and were shown around Tripoli in chauffeur-driven cars. The Libyans picked up all the bills and handed out gifts. The cost was estimated at over $50,000.

Meanwhile, embassy officials dutifully took Billy aside and cautioned him about rocking the diplomatic boat. Charge d'affairs William Eagleton cabled back: "Billy Carter has told us that he will refrain from making any political comments, and this has been borne out thus far. For example, in reply to a long welcoming speech at the airport, Billy shook hands and most amiably said, 'Thank you.'"

Intelligence sources told us that Billy spoke to the Libyans privately about lifting the freeze on eight trans-

CHARLEY REESE U.S. funding solar energy projects in Saudi Arabia

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — It goes without saying that the American consumer is being assaulted by rising world oil prices which, according to the Saudi Arabian oil minister, can no longer be controlled even by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

The latest price-increases made by a number of countries will result in worsening inflation, prolonged high interest rates, and eventually a deeper recession.

Therefore, you, as an American consumer, will be happy to know that Martin Marietta Corp. has just been given the green light to build the world's largest solar photovoltaic power system to provide electrical service for two small communities.

This is one of five solar energy projects funded by $50 million American tax dollars. There is one hitch. The solar project is being built in Saudi Arabia. That's right, the communities which will receive the solar-generated electricity are in Saudi Arabia which just happens to float on a sea of oil and petro-dollars.

This is a project personally initiated by President Jimmy Carter after a meeting in June 1977, with Crown Prince Fahd. It is a unique project, the only one in which the United States and another nation are splitting the costs ($50 million each) and splitting the results of all research. Any new technological development which comes out of Saudi Arabia and is financed by this program will be available to Americans and vice versa.

Other projects under way include a desalination plant in Saudi Arabia, research and development on a solar-powered cooling system, research studies in Saudi universities, and an exchange program.

Pardon me while I laugh. Saudi Arabia, in addition to being rich at our expense, is a backward, near-Mideval state ruled by one family which imports labor to run the oil fields. I doubt if we will gain much technological expertise from a kingdom which still beheads and mutilates offenders of its religious laws in a dusty public square.

Nevertheless, the fact that American taxpayers who are suffering from high gasoline prices, high heating oil prices, high taxes and high electrical bills are financing a solar energy project in the very country which played a key role in precipitating the energy crisis does prove a point.

No, I don't mean that President Carter is a dope. I mean it proves that if you wait for a political solution on the international level you will wait even longer than you will wait for the national debt to be retired.

To be exceptionally fair to the State Department, foreign policy decisions involve more elements than just energy prices so that decisions, when viewed from strictly an energy standpoint, can often seem as crazy as building solar energy plants in Saudi Arabia.

Domestic politics are almost as crazy. A sizeable constituency distrusts American oil companies more than it does the Soviet Union. Some politicians are convinced that the answer to high oil prices in Libya is to slap controls on oil prices in Texas. A potent environmental faction thinks we ought to be burning candles and riding in buggies anyway. If you talk about a trade embargo, free trade lobbyists unseath their knives and if you mention wheat, the humanitarians get on your case.

I think there will be no solution to the energy crisis until the American consumer uses up his huge reserves of patience. Then perhaps we can form an angry consensus, flush the federal government of incompetents, and formulate a rational approach to energy based on free market principles.

Until then, we'll tax Texans and kiss Saudis.

Weather is wonderful

And speaking of the Permian Basin, my what marvelous weather we are having at this particular season of the year.

Cool nights, followed by mild, calm days add up to beautiful, enjoyable weather, and this is but another great asset which this great section of the country justifiably may brag.

And the wonderful part about it is that this fall is not a great deal different from those of the past. The fall season always is one of the most beautiful of the year in Wonderful West Texas and Southeast New Mexico.

Yes, we like and appreciate spring, but it sometimes has a certain bluster which is not always appreciated by some of the residents. But it always is good to come out of the cold into warmer weather, which brings on fresh growth and greenery.

The summers and winters in the region aren't all bad either, by any means. In fact they are moderate and pleasant, compared to most other regions.

In fact, our day-in-and-day-out weather, year-round, is hard to beat anywhere.

The region very well could do a lot more bragging than it does about its excellent weather, regardless of season.

INSIDE REPORT:

Ford ended Republican Cherry Orchard Syndrome for 1980

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Early this month at his retirement home in the Southern California desert surrounded by political advisers, Gerald R. Ford passed by his last real chance to run for president in 1980 — clearing away the unreality that has hovered over his party's nominating process.

Like so many critical political decisions, this one was not spelled out. Ford ended the meeting by merely saying he would re-examine the situation next spring — when it will be too late to do anything. Dreams of Jerry Ford returning to the White House may yet dance in the former president's mind, but scarcely in anyone else's.

That quickly introduces reality for substantial numbers of Republican leaders who view the prospective nomination of Ronald Reagan with dismay. Now that the possibility of an easy rescue by Ford is gone, they face a long-odds struggle to stop Reagan that will require lots of skill and even more luck.

So apparently ends the Republican Cherry Orchard Syndrome for 1980. Journalist Murry Kempton once compared moderate Republicans fighting the inevitability of Barry Goldwater at the 1964 national convention to improvident Russian aristocrats fighting financial ruin in Chekov's "The Cherry Orchard." In both cases, they counted not on their own meager resources but on imaginary outside help that never arrived. For much of the subsequent 15 years of political decline, that has been the position of the moderates.

The Cherry Orchard Syndrome reappeared this year when anti-Reagan Republicans, instead of rolling up their sleeves for a candidate of their choice, waited for Ford. Even veteran South Carolina Republican Harry Dent, a former Nixon aide and an anti-Reagan conservative, was saying, "The man who will win the nomination has not yet entered the race." That could only mean Ford.

Ford was obviously anxious to be president again, but not to slug it out with Reagan in primaries. Thus, as we reported earlier, Ford's political counselors decided to put it to him squarely: If he wanted to stop Reagan, he must run in the primaries; if he wanted to run, he must begin now.

Attending the meeting at Ford's Rancho Mirage home near Palm Springs were five operatives from his 1976 campaign: Rep. Richard Cheney of Wyoming, Ford's former chief of staff; Washington lawyer Dean Burch, former Republican national chairman and Nixon aide; Washington lawyer John Marsh, a former Virginia congressman and Ford aide; California political consultant Stuart Spencer; Michigan pollster Robert Teeter.

Nobody specifically urged the former president to run. But this course seemed favored at least by Spencer and Teeter, who suggested Ford could deliver a staggering blow to Reagan in the New Hampshire primary Feb. 26.

Ford responded by deciding not to decide: Let's wait until spring — after New Hampshire. It was a fuzzy way of saying no.

The impact was immediate. Spencer quietly passed the word on the political circuit to forget about Ford. The Bailey-Deardourff political consulting firm, which handled Ford's 1976 campaign and was ready to do the same in 1980, entered serious negotiations to join Sen. Howard Baker's campaign instead. And in Columbia, S.C., Harry Dent changed his tune.

Dent now acknowledges that only somebody actively in the field can possibly overtake Reagan. Instead of Ford starting off even with Reagan, this somebody will have to first break away from the rest of the Republican pack and then close the huge gap with Reagan.

The best guess among Republican politicians (particularly anti-Reagan southerners such as Dent) of who will break way is John B. Connally. He recently displayed his political audacity and ability to project himself nationally with his Mideast plan and exploitation of Chappaquiddick. George Bush hopes to break away with impressive early 1980 performances in Iowa and New Hampshire. If Bailey-Deardourff actually takes over, Baker's campaign may find a coherent strategy to develop his popularity potential.

But even if a challenger does break way from the pack, the task of overtaking Reagan is more difficult than catching Goldwater was in 1964. Unlike Goldwater, Reagan is immune from attack as an extremist. His sole liability is his age, and that can be exploited only by Reagan's own blunders, not by frontal assault.

In this Republican cherry orchard, there will be no miraculous rescues from an Eisenhower in Paris or a Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. in Saigon or even a Jerry Ford at Rancho Mirage. If the Harry Dents want to stop Reagan, they must fight uphill with what they have (Connally, in Dent's case). Whether he meant to or not, Ford has made that clear in time for his supporters to substitute realistic plans for fantasy.

We erred in a recent column in reporting that Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania changed his vote in the finance committee to a pro-industry position on an "upper-tier" oil amendment to the "windfall" profits tax bill. Actually, Heinz voted late, after the issue had been settled, against an amendment for higher "upper-tier" taxes.

Cancer spreading through shah's body

NEW YORK (AP) — The deposed shah of Iran, marking his 60th birthday today, took "with style" the news that cancer is spreading through his body, say doctors who are recommending he stay in the United States for up to a year for treatment.

"There is some potential for recovery," said Dr. Hibbard Williams, physician-in-charge at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, where Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is resting under guard in a $300-a-day room following removal of his gallbladder.

Doctors first diagnosed lymph cancer in the former Iranian ruler six years ago. But the surgery Wednesday confirmed a different form of cancer that is spreading but does not involve other organs.

With chemotherapy, the shah should have a 60 percent to 70 percent chance of surviving several years or more, doctors said Thursday.

The shah will begin treatment with anti-cancer drugs in three weeks, when he has recovered from the gallbladder operation, doctors said.

"I would want this patient to be in the United States for six months, maybe a year," said Dr. Morton Coleman, the hospital's associate director of chemotherapy.

Coleman said the shah was first diagnosed as having chronic lymphatic leukemia, a slow cancer of the white blood cells most common in men over 50. The same disease afflicts the shah's mother.

Tests show he has now developed a more virulent form of lymph cancer called histiocytic lymphoma, Coleman said. This cancer spreads more rapidly and is more difficult to treat.

Dr. Burton Lee, a lymphoma expert at New York's Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center who is not involved in the shah's case, said the six-drug treatment planned by Coleman "is an extremely aggressive approach for this man-at this time. I'd have to think the shah was quite sick to warrant it."

Side effects can include hair loss, vomiting, nausea, diarrhea, mouth ulcers and weight loss, Lee said.

According to Coleman and other doctors, the shah took anti-cancer drugs after his disease was first discovered, and the treatment seemed to work.

Chanting, shouting anti-shah demonstrators display placards as they picket across the street from New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center Wednesday. The deposed shah, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, and his security men occupy three $300-a-day rooms on the hospital's 17th floor. (AP Laserphoto)

WHO claims elimination of smallpox

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smallpox, for centuries one of the world's most dreaded diseases, finally has been whipped.

The World Health Organization planned to declare today that the disease has been eradicated and is no longer a threat to anyone on Earth.

Today marks the second anniversary of the last reported case of naturally-transmitted smallpox, diagnosed in Merka, Somalia. It also ends WHO's self-imposed time deadline for certifying the disease has been eliminated.

WHO established international commissions to assess the progress toward smallpox eradication in Somalia, Kenya, Ethiopia and Djibouti. These commissions, the last of their kind, were reporting to WHO's director general today. It was anticipated that they would certify the Horn of Africa, where those countries lie, to be free of smallpox.

Standard Oil donates funds for cable cars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of California has donated $1 million to help fix up the city's antiquated cable car system, Mayor Dianne Feinstein says.

The oil firm is the first corporation to contribute to the drive to raise private funds for the restoration of the idled cable cars, Mrs. Feinstein said Thursday.

She said the money will be placed in a special trust fund and will be used primarily for engineering and planning.

City officials have said a complete overhaul of the century-old, 10.5-mile system will cost more than $1 million. The city has applied for a $32 million federal grant, with the remainder of the money to be raised from the private sector.

DPS troopers seek transfers

Patrolmen cite personal reasons

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two state troopers, the focus of a bitter dispute between Atascosa County officials and the Department of Public Safety, are seeking transfers on purely personal reasons. But a DPS official indicates there will be no immediate transfers.

DPS Capt. Randol Gilmore said here Thursday that patrolmen Earl Conaway, 32, and Albert Rodriguez, 26, filed their transfer requests before county officials demanded that the DPS transfer them or move its entire six-man operation out of the county-owned command post.

The DPS vacated the building and suspended routine traffic patrols in the rural South Texas county on Oct. 1 rather than yield to the demands.

The six troopers, working out of their homes, are answering only emergency calls in Atascosa County and confining their routine traffic patrols to adjoining counties.

The two troopers had spearheaded a drunken driving crackdown that Gilmore credited with cutting the county's traffic death rate in half. But it also resulted in drunken driving charges against sons of two prominent local politicians, including the county commissioner who sponsored the eviction resolution.

DPS officials feel the eviction order stemmed from those arrests. That allegation is denied by county officials, who claim Rodriguez and Conaway "harassed and abused" residents.

Gilmore said both troopers had personal reasons for requesting transfers.

"It's an internal matter," he said. "Conaway's family lives in San Antonio and he lives in Pleasanton. He wants transferred to San Antonio. The Rodriguez situation is similar. He wants to move to Austin.

"They wanted transferred before the Atascosa County officials tried to get them transferred out of the county," Gilmore added. "There are policies and procedures to be followed. Also, they're supposed to be in an area for a year before they can be transferred."

Rodriguez began working in Atascosa County last April and Conaway was stationed in the county last May.

County officials collected numerous statements from residents with complaints against the two troopers and turned them over to DPS Director Col. Wilson Speir.

But a DPS internal investigation turned up no serious violations against the two troopers, the DPS announced Tuesday in Austin.

Speir has said Conaway and Rodriguez would be left in Atascosa County while DPS and county officials attempt to resolve the situation.

Gilmore and County Judge O.B. Gates said there have been no recent negotiations. Gates said the results of the internal investigation "were about what we expected."

Gates and county officials deny that the eviction order stemmed from the drunken driving arrests of Plez William Hall, son of Pleasanton Mayor Travis Hall, and Thomas J. Tausch, son of Commissioner Smith Tausch.

The six troopers also felt racism aggravated the problem, since Conaway is black and Rodriguez is Mexican-American. Officials in the rural South Texas county also denied that charge.

Suspect held in kidnapping

DALLAS (AP) — Police held a man today who fit the description of the kidnapper of a 7-year-old girl who has been missing for four days, but officers admitted they were not optimistic about the possible suspect.

"Chances are very slim that he will be the suspect," said Police Sgt. John Adamcik. "He's just another one of many people that fit the general description of the (kidnapper) and drive an automobile that may generally fit the description."

Elsewhere, police continued to search the city for blond Elizabeth Barclay, the first grader abducted Tuesday night as she walked to the store to buy some ice cream with her 3-year-old brother and a 5-year-old boy.

The two little boys told police a husky black man in his 30s whisked Elizabeth into a black or gray 1974 Buick. Her playmates said the man told them, "I'm going to take her and throw her in the water."

The potential suspect was arrested Thursday night as they searched for 1974 dull gray Buicks.

Students won't back striking professors

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Student Senate at the 38,000-student University of Cincinnati has voted "not to support a strike of indefinite length" by professors seeking higher pay.

The 10-7 vote Thursday came at the end of the first day of the strike that delayed midterm exams for some students.

Negotiations on non-economic issues recessed without agreement Thursday night and were to resume again today.

University officials were eager to see how many teachers reported to their classrooms today. Only a third of the classes were held Thursday.

"It's a different academic roster of classes and faculty," said spokesman Ken Service, noting that some instructors who were to report today were not scheduled Thursday. "It will give us a better reading of what the situation is," he said.

Officials of the union, the American Association of University Professors, said they hoped as many as 900 professors would join the strike. University officials said they plan to keep the school open.

Student Senate President Ari D'Arrigo said that if instructors were not back in the classrooms by Monday, student leaders would go to court seeking to force them back. She also said the students would seek tuition refunds if there is a prolonged strike.

Midlander indicted on four robbery charges

Midland's growth slowing slightly

Midland's growth has slowed slightly in the past year, Midland Chamber of Commerce directors were told Thursday, but the city is still experiencing a net growth in family units.

While the city experienced a net increase in 1978 of 93 to 95 families per month, that rate is down to about 63 families per month so far in 1979, according to Grant Billingsley, manager of economic development for the chamber.

Other indicators of growth are down as well, including new residential and commercial building permits.

Thanks to inflation, however, valuations for the residential permits were up by a strong 20 percent so far this year, indicating Midland may surpass the record set last year for total valuations for new construction, Billingsley noted.

Airline boardings are up 7.5 percent, and bank deposits have increased almost 15 percent, Billingsley added.

Moreover, unemployment is down while the total labor force has increased this year, he said.

In other business, the chamber heard brief reports on a membership drive set for November, an advertising campaign under way to improve the image of the chamber, the Petroleum Pioneers meeting, Crime Prevention Week, industrial development, Leadership Midland and the Midland school district's unsuccessful bond election.

They also heard a report from George Veloz who was appointed this month to the 60-member National Small Business Administration advisory board. Veloz's term on the board will begin Jan. 1.

U.S.S.R., South Yemen sign friendship treaty

MOSCOW (AP) — A new 20-year friendship treaty between the Soviet Union and Marxist South Yemen calls for economic and military cooperation between the two countries, according to a text of the agreement published today.

The treaty was similar to one signed last November between the Kremlin and South Yemen's Red Sea neighbor, Ethiopia.

Both documents provide for military cooperation and for mutual consultations in case of war or war threat.

Ethiopia and South Yemen are strong Soviet allies in the strategic Red Sea area. Western sources say Soviet military forces have received the right to use facilities in both countries.

The treaty between the Soviet Union and South Yemen states that the two nations will "continue to develop cooperation in the military field."

"In the event of the appearance of situations creating a danger to peace... the sides will strive to immediately contact each other with the goal of coordinating their positions in the interests of the removal of the danger or the res-

United Way reaches 62.6 percent

As of noon Thursday, United Way of Midland had achieved 62.6 percent of its $1,017,000 goal for 1980, with a total of $636,800 in pledges collected.

This week's total was considerably less than the objective of 90 percent of the goal, campaign chairman W.F. "Bill" Orloff said Thursday during a noon volunteer report meeting.

"We appreciate all the hard work of the volunteers involved in the campaign, but I am concerned that we are so short of our weekly objectives," Orloff said. "I urge all volunteers to conclude their work so that the campaign can be completed successfully on time."

Orloff also said that by now almost every business should have been contacted by a United Way volunteer. If there are any businesses whose employees have not had the opportunity to contribute, Orloff said he would appreciate their contacting the United Way office at 682-4358 or 2101 W. Wall St.

AT WIT'S END

Neighborhood of creativity

By ERMA BOMBECK

I never approach Halloween that I don't remember my first brush with discrimination.

I've never told you this before, but I was the first "no-talent" mother to integrate a neighborhood of mothers who were art school graduates. When I looked at the house the realtor tried to warn me. He said, "See that mailbox next door to you? The one with the flowers and butterflies hand painted? Mrs. Walters did that free hand."

A bit farther down the street he pointed to another house and said, "Isn't that a clever play area with the Peter Pan motif? Mrs. Tierney did that. She's very handy with tools. In fact, all the women in this neighborhood can make anything out of nothing."

I was undaunted. You can't keep a person out of a neighborhood just because they don't have imagination. When they knew me, they'd learn to love me and to accept me for what I am. I was wrong.

Their cakes at the bake sale made mine look like sliced bread. Their garbage cans were hand painted with cartoons and cute sayings. Their hedges were clipped and shaped to look like farm animals. Their hand smocked yokes for their daughters' dresses were everywhere and macramé hung from every porch.

They turned old discards into museum pieces, decoupage until they fainted and looked the other way the Christmas I bent a coat hanger, twisted nose tissue over it and called it a wreath.

But it was Halloween that did me in... that single day when your children turn to you for imagination and creativity... the one day of the year when you must transcend phantasy.

There was something about the hand-carved pumpkin in the window across the street I couldn't put my fingers on. Then I realized it had capped teeth.

The porch on the other side of us had a replica of Ray Bolger right out of the Wizard of Oz. When the doorbell rang I was greeted by a parade of monsters, pirates, queens, animals, ballerinas and space ships right out of the wax museum. My daughter came.

Corduroy 'in' for fall fashion

COLLEGE STATION — Look for corduroy fabrics at the top of the list for fall fashions, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Corduroy is usually made of cotton, but some are blends of nylon or polyester and cotton. It may be knitted or woven, she points out.

Corduroy is a napped fabric which makes the fabric look darker and richer when the pile runs up and lighter when the pile runs down. Determine the pile direction by running your hand over the fabric. The smooth-feeling direction is the one to go by.

In planning a garment, use a simple pattern so the emphasis is on the plushness of the fabric, the specialist recommends.

In buying corduroy, select yardage for a nap fabric.

home in tears when everyone wanted to know what she was doing running around the street with a grocery bag on her head.

I learned a lesson that night. You may exist in a clever neighborhood, but you can't be happy there. They'd have to bus me in to get me back.

Chinese women throng to cosmetic counters

PEKING (AP) — "Everybody loves to be beautiful," giggled a 19-year-old People's Liberation Army soldier as she dabbed a potent perfume behind her ears and carefully stuffed a bottle of the fragrance into a yellow purse.

The young woman was one of hundreds who thronged the cosmetics counter at the Peking City Department Store recently, pushing each other, thrusting out their coins, and sampling the beauty secrets that would make Venus smile.

The boldest — but only a few — bought lipstick. The PLA soldier, too shy to give her name, bought a 3-yuan ($1.50) bottle of Maxam brand perfume, the top of the line. A salesgirl said, however, that the biggest seller is the 2.05-yuan fragrance: "Thunder in Springtime."

"Putting on makeup and perfume is more popular now," said the military lady of the adornments that once drew proletarian scorn as being frivolous.

"Women wear it if they want to," she said, linking arms with her girl friend. "I wear it when I feel like it," said the young woman, who was wearing pale orange lipstick.

There was a glimpse of a bright orange sweater under her shapeless green uniform; a small gold and pearl pin was at her throat, and on her wrist was an ivory bracelet. From beneath her cap peeked curled bangs.

A billboard outside the store, Peking's largest, shows a pretty woman with her hair in a permanent and wearing a scoop-neck yellow sweater extolling a conditioning face cream.

Inside, the two clerks could hardly keep enough in stock. A man with a red and gold "super salesman" pin kept handing out 120 different kinds of lotions, potions and creams — a carnival-colored, heavily scented trove that would gladden the heart of any little girl getting her first makeup kit.

A harried salesgirl without makeup said the billboard outside — just put up for China's 30th anniversary — had caused a run on her counter, which did 3,000 yuan, (about $1,250) business in one day.

The salesman said the fastest selling product was Maxam royal jelly skin protection cream that makes the skin "soft, fresh and smooth."

Make the rounds of PTA carnivals for Halloween

All ready for the Crockett Halloween carnival, sponsored by the school's Parent-Teacher Association, are the carnival chairmen, from left, Maria Rodriguez; Diana Collazo; Wilburn Buttery, Crockett principal, and Elisa Garibay. The items on the table are some of the prizes that will be given in the booths. (Staff Photo)

'Tis the season for spooks and goblins. And for PTA carnivals and fall festivals.

Many of Midland's schools are preparing events that will involve entire families and show a financial return that will provide schools with those necessary "extras" for the remainder of the school year.

The carnivals also provide a fun and safe Halloween atmosphere for children and their families.

Food, games, arts and crafts are but a few of the items offered at the various schools.

SOUTH AND DEZAVALA Elementary Schools both will open their carnivals at 6 tonight and close at 9.

Seven elementary schools have scheduled their carnivals for Saturday.

Ben Milam's doors will be open between the hours of 6 and 9 p.m.; Crockett, 6 to 10 p.m.; Bonham, 5:30 to 9 p.m.; Henderson, 6 to 9 p.m.; Travis, 4 to 8 p.m.; Washington, 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. and Pease, 8 to 9 p.m.

CROCKETT WILL HAVE a variety of booths to enjoy including Monster Mouth, Makeup, Darts, Lollipop Tree, Cake Walk, Toy Walk, Fish Pond, Soul Train, Coke Toss and many more.

All Crockett booths open at 6 p.m. except the makeup booth which opens at 4:30 p.m.

Booth prizes will be stuffed toys, animal banks, canes, flexible animals and others. According to Elisa Garibay, "Every player wins a prize. No one walks away empty-handed."

Food booths will feature Gorditos, homemade Burritos, hot dots, cake, candy, cupcakes, pickles and soft drinks.

Tickets will go on sale at 5 p.m. Saturday at the school office.

HENDERSON CARNIVAL will offer a variety of 21 booths, including refreshments, novelties, a spookhouse and two new activities, the "Disco" and the "Soccer" booths.

Game and refreshment tickets will cost 20 cents each and will be sold at the door.

Advance tickets will be on sale today from 3 to 4 p.m. for a special six for $1.

Carnival chairman Sandy Haskell, on behalf of the Henderson PTA, invites everyone to participate in Henderson's "best ever" Halloween carnival.

TRAVIS WILL FEATURE the Cake Walk, Duck Pond, Candle Shoot, Disco Dancing, Bean Bag Toss, Dart Throw and Doll Walk. Pony rides will be offered for the first time this year, according to Arlena Johnson, carnival chairman.

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the King and Queen of the carnival. A boy and girl will be chosen from each homeroom to represent the students. The winners will be determined by the candidates collecting the most votes.

PEASE BOOTHS will open at 6 p.m. with fun and games for kids and adults.

A nice prize will be given away. Tickets for the games can be purchased at the door.

Volunteers are still sought to help at the carnival. Interested persons can contact Reva Harris at 683-3052.

Prisoners aim at preventing crime by young children

JAMESTOWN, Calif. (AP) — They're about as far off-Broadway as actors can get, but 11 prison inmates here are presenting some uncomfortable realism through skits aimed at convincing youngsters that crime doesn't pay.

"What you just saw is as real to life as you're ever going to see," Robert Drush tells the audience of juvenile hall inmates in Modesto, west of here, after a skit in which an inmate is slashed with a knife. "Eight guys a year get killed in state prison; many, many more get hurt."

Drush speaks from considerable experience. He's serving six years at Sierra Conservation Center here for robbery and, at age 36, has spent 15 years in state prisons.

Drush, an award-winning speaker, has been addressing juvenile offenders for some time but received a jolt last January that committed him to increase his efforts. While making a speech at the Stanislaus juvenile hall, Drush encountered his stepson.

"He told me he wanted to be a professional thief just like dad," Drush recalls. "I knew I had to do something more. I've spent my life taking from society without any regard for other people's feelings. And now I'd like to spend some time giving back."

After watching an improvisational acting group perform at the minimum-security prison, Drush got the idea of forming a troupe of inmates to dramatize various types of prison incidents to youth groups.

Study shows why teachers quit

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Why teachers continue in their careers or quit after the first year was the focus of research toward a doctorate in home economics education at Oklahoma State University.

Rachel A. Anderson, Sulphur Springs, Texas, made a regional study of home economics teachers from Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Missouri.

Among the reasons given for dropping out of teaching were wanting to go into another career, finding no job available, wanting to have a family, frustration, pressure, financial reasons and the amount of time required for teaching.

DEAR ABBY

She suspects a roommating

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I recently became engaged to a wonderful young man who lives in another city. I was very happy until he informed me that he had decided to share an apartment with a woman co-worker until we get married next year!

He assures me that the arrangement is strictly a financial one — that he prefers to live with a woman that he already knows is honest and reliable than to advertise for an unknown male.

Although I want to trust him, I can't help feeling resentful.
He tells me that when I come to visit, I will be convinced that there is no romantic involvement, but I don't know if I can reserve judgment until then.
I am debating between giving him an ultimatum and trusting him implicitly.

When I mentioned this to him, he told me that the trouble with me is that I have never learned how to take criticism.
Abby, my mother is the "West Coast Distributor for Criticism," and I have had plenty of it, so I think I know how to handle it, but the way my husband finds a flaw in everything I do is driving me up the wall!

We've been married only a year, and I can't see myself taking 20 or 30 more years of his petty faultfinding.
He never miss your column. I hope you print this and he sees it before it's too late, and my self-worth is completely destroyed. — HURT IN LONG BEACH

DEAR HURT: Don't rely on a few lines in my column to communicate the hurt, anger and frustration you feel. Choose the proper time to vent your feelings, and encourage your husband to vent his. "Every animal revenges his pains upon those who happen to be near" (Samuel Johnson). Chances are that your critical husband is hurting, too.
DEAR ABBY: My son has been married for two years now and, would you believe, I have never seen my daughter-in-law in a dress. Never!

She wears jeans in the daytime, and when she gets dressed up, she wears pants suite. She's a nice looking girl and I think she would look so much more feminine in a dress, I don't think she owns one.
She's not sloppy, she just likes pants, I guess. I mentioned to my son once that I had never seen his wife's legs, and he just laughed and said she had two like everybody else, and that was the end of it.
Should I say something to her about it? I wouldn't be mean. I would just tell her she would look so much prettier in a dress. She's a motherless child and needs someone to teach her how to dress. — W.V.A. MOM-IN-LAW

DEAR MOM: Your daughter-in-law has the right to wear what she wants, and she obviously prefers pants. You've mentioned your preference to your son — that's enough. Unasked-for advice is seldom appreciated.
The teen years are the questioning years. Abby has the answers to all your questions in her booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know." Write Abby in care of this newspaper. Enclose $1 and along, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope.

Cosmetologist replacing hairdresser
ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The title "cosmetologist", is the most definitive description for today's hairdresser, according to the 68,000 member National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.
"Today's licensed cosmetologists do much more than dress hair," says NHCA President William J. Ware of Louisville, Ky. "They provide skin care and cosmetic care and advice. They work with chemicals to curl and color hair. They also give manicures and pedicures and total-fashion advice."
"In each state, we are licensed as cosmetologists to provide total beauty care, and we now believe it is time to be recognized for what we are legally licensed to be — cosmetologists."

Documents reveal Scientology 'spies'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newly released documents show the Church of Scientology operated like a well-run spy agency that infiltrated government offices and picked the file cabinets bare at the Internal Revenue Service.

Federal prosecutors disclosed in the documents that church operatives were employed at the IRS and the Justice Department, that a tax agency meeting was "bugged" and that thousands of documents about the church were stolen.

So many records — 15,000 at one point — were taken from the IRS that the very process of reading them bogged down the spy operation, according to the documents.

The documents, which were seized in a 1977 FBI raid on the church's Los Angeles offices, are part of a criminal case against nine church leaders.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey was expected to hand down verdicts today for the defendants based on a written record he ordered the government to submit along with the seized church documents.

Under a plea bargain arrangement, each defendant agreed to accept a conviction on one criminal count while maintaining his or her right of appeal.

The 28-count indictment charges defendants with conspiring to steal and stealing government documents about the church, including IRS files on Scientology's tax-exempt status.

The church describes itself as "an applied religious philosophy which believes that man is a spiritual being who is basically good." Church officials — claiming 5 million members worldwide — believe that through counseling, "an individual can better deal with his own life and take responsibility for the world around him."

Church members communicated in written codes, used terms like "eyes only" and operated under a table of organization that included a commodore, staff guardian and operations officer, the documents show.

The documents, ordered released by Richey Thursday night, showed directives coming down through channels, always addressed and signed with only a first name. They gave detailed instructions of government offices to be entered and documents to be taken, copied and returned to files.

One church memo listed 136 government agencies that were to be infiltrated by Scientology members. They included the administrative office of the U.S. courts, the CIA, the executive office of the U.S. attorneys, the FBI and many U.S. embassies and consulates abroad.

Another memo told how to do it. "You should have a story already made up that will be plausible should you be asked what you are doing," it said. "A story that you would tell a guard on your way into the building may be entirely inappropriate if you're caught with your hand in the file cabinet."

"And it will make a difference if the person questioning you is a cleaner, guard, employee... So think it out before you go in."

One church document described an elaborate scheme to hide the theft of secret IRS records. The plan called for creating an "incident of a psychotic staff member in the IRS who mails out IRS files to the persons/groups mentioned in their files."

Among the recipients, the plan said, would be the Church of Scientology, which would then have a legal reason for demanding full IRS files.

Several documents indicate that the church operatives did their jobs well. One church leader, upon learning of the theft of IRS documents, said, "Such news brings joy to my heart. Absolutely fantastic. I can't wait to see the data."

Stafford faces new murder trial

PURCELL, Okla. (AP) — Roger Dale Stafford — already convicted of murdering six steakhouse workers and sentenced to die — will face a preliminary hearing Dec. 18 on three new first-degree murder charges.

The 27-year-old Alabama drifter pleaded innocent Thursday to charges of murdering Air Force Sgt. Melvin Lorenz, 38, his wife Linda, 31, and son Richard, 12. The members of the San Antonio, Texas family were gunned down and robbed near here while driving to a funeral in North Dakota.

Stafford, chained hand and foot, wore a white prison uniform as he was led into Associate District Judge J. Kenneth Love's courtroom for his arraignment. His mustache was shaved and his hair was cut short.

Stafford is currently confined in a prison in nearby Lexington. He will be transferred to Death Row at the state prison at McAlester to await his preliminary hearing.

District Attorney Kay Huff will seek three new death sentences against Stafford in the June 22, 1978 killings of the Lorenz family.

Mrs. Huff said she filed the new charges against Stafford to be sure he would not be freed in the event his steakhouse murder conviction is reversed on appeal.

Stafford received six death sentences Tuesday for the murders of six Oklahoma City Siroloin Stockade workers during a $1,300 robbery on July 16, 1978.

The father of three was sentenced to be put to death on Jan. 17 by drug injection for the steakhouse massacre. However, lengthy appeals will make it impossible for the execution to be carried out on schedule.

According to an Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation report, a revolver used in the Lorenz killings was also used in the steakhouse murders. In addition, the OSBI claims that a revolver stolen from Lorenz was used in the Siroloin Stockade bloodbath.

Defense attorney J. Malone Brewer said he will make many of the same motions in the Lorenz case that he made in the steakhouse murder case.

The key motion will seek to bar testimony by Stafford's estranged wife, Verna, 26.

Brewer argued unsuccessfully in the steakhouse murder case that a wife cannot legally testify against her husband.

At the steakhouse trial, Mrs. Stafford testified she watched in horror as Stafford and his late brother, Harold, opened fire on the six victims in a meat locker.

In the Lorenz case, Mrs. Stafford will once again be the star prosecution witness against her husband of seven years, Mrs. Huff said.

The prosecutor said Mrs. Stafford has told authorities she and Harold Stafford were also present at the Lorenz murders.

"There was only one gun involved in the shooting of the Lorenz family and that was used by Roger," Mrs. Huff said, summarizing what she said Mrs. Stafford has told authorities.

If Stafford is ordered to stand trial in the Lorenz murders, Brewer said he will seek to have the trial moved to another county to avoid heavy pre-trial publicity.

Mrs. Huff said she will oppose the change of venue motion.

Break-in on plane probed

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The Secret Service is investigating a break-in on the Air Force plane being used by first lady Rosalynn Carter on a New England trip.

Press secretary Mary Hoyt said Mrs. Carter was forced Thursday to drive from Boston to New Hampshire when it was discovered that two compartments on the plane had been broken into.

A "security precaution could have been compromised" on the plane, which had been parked overnight at Logan International Airport, said Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner in a telephone interview from Washington. "We were unable to determine in a brief period whether or not, in fact, it had been."

Warner refused to go into detail and said any talk of tampering with the DC-9 jet was premature. The plane was parked overnight at the Butler Aviation terminal about half a mile from the Logan Airport main terminal. Butler had the contract for refueling the plane.

A spokesman for Butler said his company did not provide security for the aircraft. It was not known if the plane was otherwise guarded.

Mrs. Hoyt said in Portland, where the first lady concluded a two-day trip, that Mrs. Carter's party was told "someone had broken into the electronics compartment and the baggage compartment."

She said "the Secret Service wanted to be absolutely sure it was safe and to investigate what had happened."

Mrs. Hoyt said the first lady's party traveled by car to a meeting in Somersworth, N.H., about 50 miles north of Boston.

Pro-abortion demonstrators march down a Madrid street Thursday in one of a series of nationwide protests of the trial of 11 women in Bilbao, Spain, on abortion related charges. The case has brought both the nation's criminal code and Roman Catholic family life under attack. The Madrid demonstration like others broke up before police clubs. But more demonstrations are expected today and over the weekend. (AP Laserphoto)

Demonstrations expected over trial

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — The trial of 11 Spanish women accused of having or performing abortions, which sparked feminist demonstrations across Catholic Spain, was suspended indefinitely today when one of the defendants failed to appear in court.

More than 2,000 women demonstrated outside the criminal court building in this Basque capital as three judges called the case and then suspended it. No date was set for resumption of the trial.

Defense lawyers said the defendant whose absence prompted the suspension had been missing for more than four months. They suggested the court postpone the trial to avoid further confrontations over the abortion issue.

Abortion is illegal in Spain, where Catholicism is the state religion. But a wave of pro-abortion rallies swept the nation Thursday, and feminists, demanding amnesty for the defendants, had promised more protests today and during the weekend.

In a clash Thursday in downtown Madrid, police drove buses at a marching column of 600 feminists, then pursued the fleeing protesters with clubs and smoke grenades. Several demonstrators were injured. It was the second pro-abortion rally there in five days.

Demonstrations by women also were reported Thursday in Valencia, the Canary Islands, the resort island of Majorca and the university town of Santiago de Compostela, where police chased 100 women from a city hall sit-in.

A spokeswoman for a group calling itself the Assembly of Women said she expected hundreds of feminists from around the country to demonstrate today in Bilbao, 200 miles north of Madrid. At least 20 women planned to chain themselves outside the courthouse, she said.

The 11 women being tried faced prison terms ranging from six months to 60 years. They include the woman alleged to have performed the abortions, her daughter, who allegedly assisted in the operations, and nine women who confessed to having undergone the procedure.

The women who had the abortions have 17 children among them and say they could not afford larger families. They argue too that government health programs offered them no alternative.

Defense lawyers said they would try to use the trial to change the penal code, arguing that none of the women involved could get birth control help from the state.

Premier Adolfo Suarez's government was said to be embarrassed by the trial, but it was barred from intervening by Spain's new constitution guaranteeing an independent judicial system.

OAS hears report on children of government-kidnapped parents

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Children of thousands of persons believed kidnapped by government agents are being placed in institutions or put up for adoption instead of being turned over to relatives, according to a report by the Inter-American Human Rights Commission.

The report presented Thursday to the 9th general assembly of the Organization of American States called the treatment of the children "a particularly grave aspect" of the problem in Latin America.

It also urged member nations to apply international pressure for an accounting of the missing persons.

"We can't just forget about them," said commission chairman Andres Aguilar of Venezuela. "Where are they, if they are still alive?"

Neither the report nor Aguilar spelled out where the disappearances are occurring. But there was little doubt that the reference was to Argentina.

Last summer, Amnesty International accused Argentina of gross violations of human rights and released the names of more than 2,500 persons it said have been kidnapped by Argentine security forces and disappeared in the past three years.

Human rights organizations in Argentina estimate that as many as 20,000 people may have disappeared for political reasons since the 1976 coup that brought Gen. Jorge Rafael Videla's administration to power.

After the report was read, the delegate from Grenada, Dessima Williams, told the hushed delegates:

"It appears that we

She added, "We come here every year and inform governments of our displeasure over these things. It gives us the feeling that we are talking to deaf ears."

Outside the hotel where the delegates were meeting, an estimated 10,000 persons demonstrated peacefully against the American plan to sell some of its tin reserves.

The Bolivians claim that America's planned sale of 30,000 tons of tin will lower the price on the international market and damage Bolivia's economy. Bolivia's principal export earnings come from sale of the metal.

Dispute threatens cleanup of nuclear dump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal aid to clean up a radioactive waste dump in New York is being threatened by a dispute over which of Uncle Sam's pockets the money should come from.

The first $5 million toward "decommissioning" the mothballed nuclear fuel plant in West Valley, N.Y., was approved Wednesday by the House of Representatives as part of the Department of Energy's $7.8 billion budget for 1980.

In the Senate, however, the funds are being considered with the Defense Department's budget, and there has been no sign the two houses are ready to agree on which department should wind up handling the program.

"I'm concerned that we could come up with nothing," said Rep. Stanley Lundine, D-N.Y., whose district includes the Nuclear Fuel Services Inc. plant about 30 miles from Buffalo.

Lundine said Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who heads the Senate Energy Committee, objects to making the clean-up part of the Energy Department's responsibilities.

"He feels there is more money in defense, while the energy budget is a little strained right now," Lundine said. Lundine has said the clean-up will cost $130 million over the next 10 years, an estimate some other congressional analysts have called too low.

Lundine does not want the project given to the Defense Department.

"Frankly, if it's a Defense Department project, there's less likelihood it will have to meet the strictest standards of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Environmental Protection Agency," he said.

The West Valley plant was opened in 1966 as the first facility in the nation designed to reclaim used nuclear fuel for reuse. It closed in 1972, with the company blaming new government regulations for its inability to operate at a profit.

Fraternity skit draws fire

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — A committee at Augustana College will consider what to do about a fraternity skit that depicted two young men dressed as Ku Klux Klan members and another in blackface and chains, a college official says.

Harold Sudelius, vice president of academic affairs, said Wednesday a complaint about the incident will be considered at the human relations committee's next meeting. He said he expected a final decision in about two weeks.

The local chapter of the NAACP asked Augustana on Wednesday to disband the Beta Omega Sigma fraternity because of the skit.

The skit, in which the man in blackface is pulled by a rope down a street, occurred Friday during a homecoming parade staged by members of the fraternity. The parade was unofficial and did not have the sanction of the college.

Committee again votes to weaken windfall profit tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee closed out its work on President Carter's "windfall-profits" tax in the same way it began: voting on an effort to weaken the tax.

But this time, oil-state senators fell short. The committee, which earlier agreed to five major exemptions that cut the tax in half, rejected an attempt by Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., to slash an additional $1.6 billion.

However, before voting Thursday to send the bill to the full Senate for debate, the panel accepted a Dole amendment exempting from the tax any oil owned by nonprofit schools and medical facilities. As a result of gifts, some of the nation's most prestigious institutions receive royalties from oil fields. Aides were unable to estimate how much revenue the Dole amendment would cost.

Despite renewed pleas from Carter and reports of soaring oil-industry profits during the last quarter, the committee made no effort to toughen the tax, which would apply to price increases starting next year.

Speaking at the White House to a citizens' group supporting a strong windfall tax, Carter said that unless the final tax is strong enough, "we'll move toward additional proposals to the Congress which could be quite punitive to the oil industry."

Carter was not specific. But aides have said repeatedly that if the final tax is too weak, the president probably would re-impose federal price controls on the oil industry. He could take such action without congressional approval.

Major elements of the Finance Committee bill would:

—Impose a tax of 30 percent to 75 percent, depending on the age and location of the oil field, on future increases in domestic crude oil prices. Economists predict prices will rise to world levels — currently about $22 a barrel — because of Carter's decision to phase out federal price controls on oil.

—Set aside money to pay for an $11 billion freeze in Social Security taxes

Area field test activity

Gulf Oil Corp. of Midland has announced plans to drill the No. 15 Crawlar Field Unit, one location south of Glorieta oil production and one mile south of Tub oil production in the Crawlar multipay field of Crane County.

The 5,300-foot test is eight miles northwest of Crane and 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 13, block B-20, PSL survey.

Sun Oil Co. of Midland will re-enter and plug back to 3,020 feet for completion in the Bayview, West (Glorieta) field of Crane County.

The firm's No. 1 A.R. Eppenauser is one-quarter mile south of production and 951 feet from northeast and 660 feet from northwest lines of section 5, block 6, H&TC survey, nine miles south of Crane.

TERRY COUNTY

The Corrigan (Fusselman) field of Terry County gained its seventh producer and a location west extension to that pay.

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. of Midland filed potential test on its No. 1 Phillips to flow 252 barrels of oil and no water, through an 8 1/4-inch choke and perforations from 11,542 to 11,559 feet, after an acid treatment of 2,300 gallons.

Gravity and gas-liquid ratio were not reported.

Total depth was reached at 11,560 feet, where 5.5-inch casing was set.

Location is 467 feet from north and 2,273 feet from west lines of section 1, block C-38, PSL survey, 12 miles southeast of Wellman.

The same firm's No. 2 Phipps has been scheduled to drill one location west and slightly north of the No. 1 Phipps, 12 miles southeast of Wellman.

Contract depth is 11,700 feet and location is 467 feet from north and 1,807 feet from east lines of section 1, block C-38, PSL survey.

HOCKLEY TRY

Ike Lovelady, Inc. of Midland has filed application to drill the No. 1 Dobkins as a south offset to his recently completed No. 2 Hayden Baker in the Anton, South (St. Ann) field of Hockley County.

Scheduled to 10,200 feet, location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 64, block A, R.M. Thompson survey, six miles south of Anton.

KING SITE

Sojourner Drilling Corp. of Abilene will drill the No. 2-G T.B. Masterson Estate as a northeast offset to the same firm's No. 1-G T.B. Masterson Estate, recently completed in the Prudence (Atoka gas) field of King County.

Location is 1,900 feet from south and 1,410 feet from east lines of H&GN survey No. 1, 15 miles northeast of Guthrie.

Contract depth is 6,300 feet.

in 1981. This does not ensure such a tax cut; it means simply that if Congress votes a Social Security tax reduction, the money would be available from oil industry taxes to pay for it.

—Earmark half the bill's revenue — or about $70 billion over the next decade — for helping Americans earning under $22,000 a year cope with higher fuel costs. Welfare recipients would receive fuel assistance of $120 to $767 a year. Higher amounts would go to those in the coldest states. The Senate and House have approved a different formula for helping the poor through this winter. Thus, the plan proposed by the Finance Committee probably would apply only to future years.

—Authorize $23.5 billion worth of tax credits over the next decade to encourage homeowners and businesses to save oil. For example the current tax credit of up to $300 for home insulation and other weather-proofing measures would be expanded to cover installation of fuel-efficient furnaces. Businesses would benefit by switching from oil to solar and wind power.

—Earmark $15 billion to improve transportation efficiency, which could include building a better car and modernizing rapid-rail transit.

—Repeat a 1976 "reform" of the income tax on inherited property at a cost to the treasury of $3.3 billion over the decade. The repeal amendment was tacked onto the windfall bill in an effort to overcome Carter's opposition to the proposal.

Trial of Germans rekindles painful debate on French role

PARIS (AP)—The trial of three Germans alleged to have organized the extermination of French Jews has rekindled the painful debate here over what role the French played during the annihilation.

The subject surfaced last spring when the Hollywood television series "Holocaust" was screened here and was born again in a heated debate in the press triggered by the trial in Cologne, West Germany.

On trial for allegedly sending 73,000 French Jews to their death in Auschwitz are Kurt Lischka, 70, the former deputy occupation chief of Paris, and two ex-SS men, Ernst Heinrichsohn, 59, and Herbert Hagen, 66.

Their trial opened shortly after a French court, in an unrelated action, decided in favor of pursuing criminal action against Jean Leguay, a top police official during the Nazi occupation of France.

Leguay, 70, has been indicted for allegedly helping round up 12,884 Paris Jews for deportation to concentration camps.

The arrested Jews were held in an indoor bicycle racing stadium, or velodrome.

The so-called Velodrome Roundup is considered the most notorious manifestation of the infamy Frenchmen would like to forget—collaboration with the Nazis.

Leguay insists he "never had any concern from 1940 to 1944 other than to protect the French from their occupiers," and "I am aware of having succeeded at that, given the limited means at our disposal."

The latest debate blew up in the pages of the respected newspaper Le Monde, with an article by journalist Annie Kriegel calling wartime France "pale, chilly, egoistic, Machiavellian or deady indifferent to the tragic destiny of the Children of Israel."

Pierre Bourget, author of a book about the Nazi occupation of Paris, was quoted as saying Ms. Kriegel's assessment "appears, in general, to be correct." But in an article in Le Monde, he went on to defend his country's behavior, touching off a flurry of letters to the editor.

Bourget was quoted as saying the average Frenchman suffered so much under occupation—from hunger, concern for imprisoned relatives, allied bombings and uncertainty about the course of the war—that it left him indifferent to the fate of others.

He was quoted as saying only "an infinitesimal number" of Frenchmen knew that Jews were being exterminated. They believed they were simply being repatriated to Eastern Europe, from where most of them had immigrated.

The French, he was quoted, spent the war "in political hibernation, waiting for the war to end and for the allies to get them out of their predicament."

Among the many letters printed was that of schoolteacher Jean-Claude Cappel, who wondered how France would react if someone suggested that the German people should be forgiven for the Nazi horror because they too suffered during the war.

He asked whether it was not time "for France, which is so quick to judge the past of others, should turn to its own with a little more realism and a little less complacency."

Garage Sale. Yard Sale. Whatever term you use it's an enjoyable and profitable experience. It's your opportunity to "clean out" while you "clean out." You'll become re-acquainted with your neighbors and meet new friends, and the fresh air is good for your health.

Check your attic, basement, garage and closets for good, but no longer useful items. Furniture, tools, the list goes on and on. Every item should be priced, of course. You may want to combine your sale with a friend or neighbor. Choose your days, get your signs ready and place your ad in the Classified section. Your ad should list a few key items, give the date, time, and good directions.

A friendly Classified Ad Visitor will help you work your Garage Sale ad for maximum results.

Oakland takes wild win over Chargers

OAKLAND (AP) — The last time the San Diego Chargers beat the Oakland Raiders twice in a season was in 1965. It's liable to be a while longer if Thursday night's game is any indication.

The Chargers came into the Oakland Coliseum leading the National Football League's American Conference West. After a nationally televised 45-22 rout, they are still leading, but not by very much.

"You can't beat the Raiders in Oakland," said defensive back Lester Hayes, who picked off a crucial first-half interception and generally made life miserable for San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts.

THE CHARGERS would no doubt agree. Although Fouts threw for a record fourth straight 300 yards passing, his team trailed almost from the outset and on only two occasions seemed on the verge of getting back in the game.

The first time, with Oakland ahead 14-0, Fouts tossed the ball up for grabs in the end zone and Hayes picked it off. Oakland went on to raise its lead to 21-0 before San Diego could score.

"(John) Matuszak was sitting in Dan's face and he didn't see me," Hayes said of the first-quarter interception. "Dan just threw it and I was there."

Fouts did connect with John Jefferson for a 57-yard touchdown in the second quarter, but the Chargers still trailed 24-6 at halftime. They cut that to 24-15 early in the third quarter on a field goal and TD after an onside kick, but then came Ira Matthews.

THE ROOKIE from Wisconsin appeared to have made a mistake when he took a kickoff four yards deep in his own end zone. But he came roaring up the right sideline, cut back against the grain and scored the longest kickoff return in team history. "I haven't felt this good since college," Matthews admitted. "The first thing I did when I got to the end zone was look back to see if there were any flags. It was set up as a right return and it happened to pop over."

The runback took the steam out of the Chargers and even though Fouts threw for more than 300 yards again, he was outplayed by Oakland's Ken Stabler.

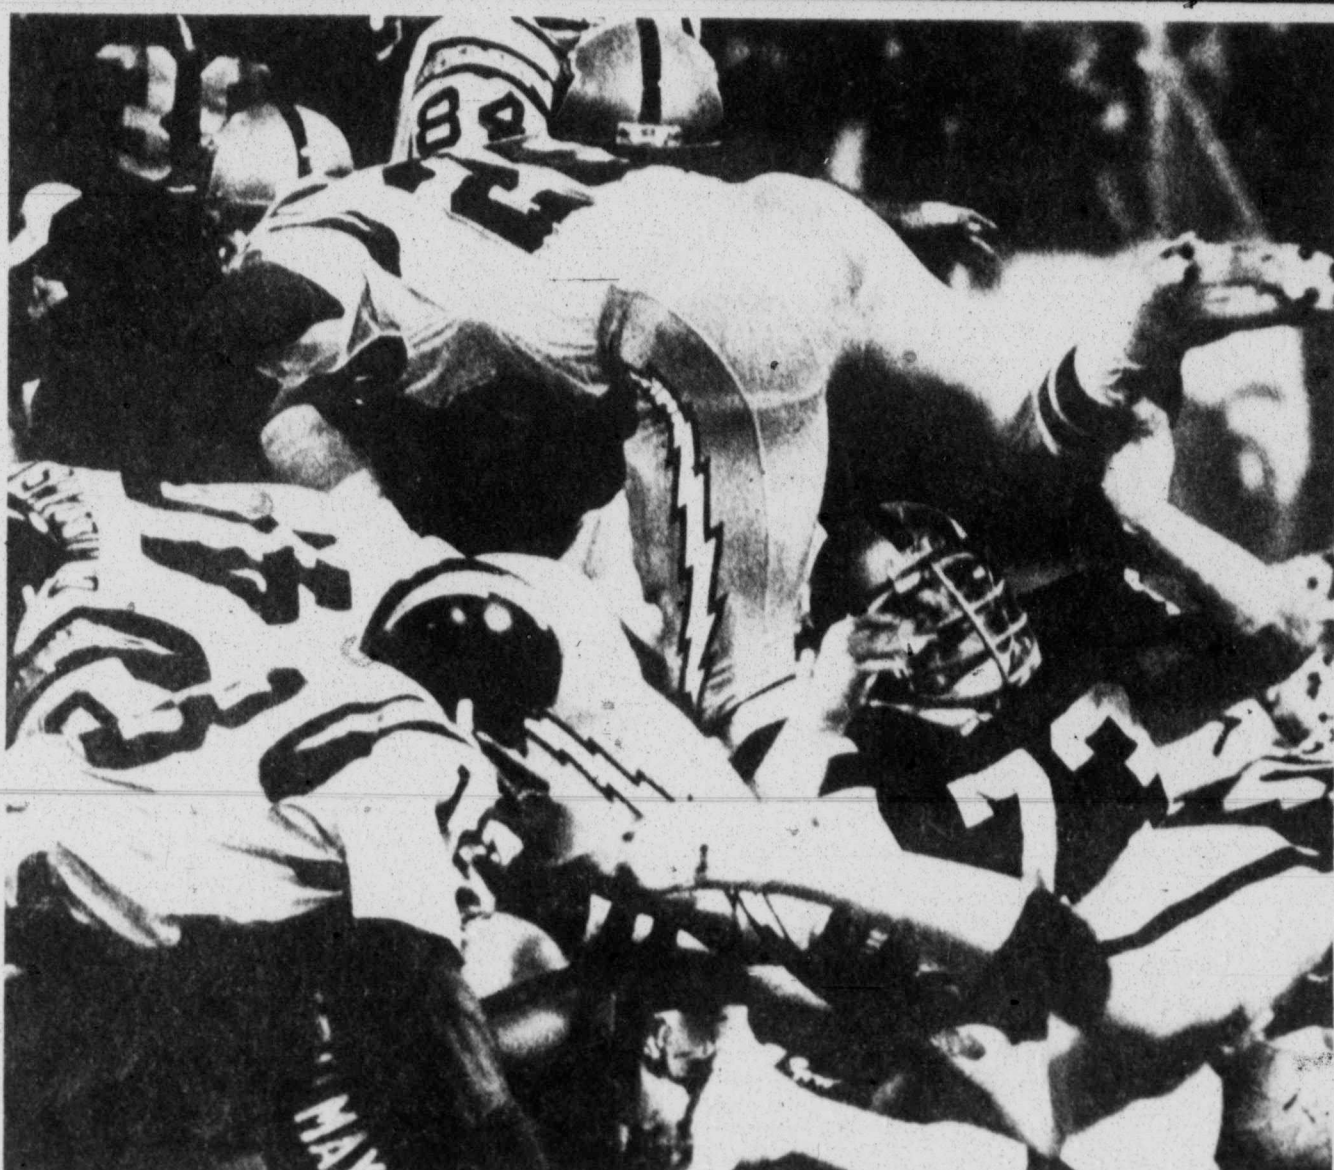

"Kenny called his game," Oakland's Gene Upshaw said. "He didn't get into a passing duel with Fouts."

Stabler was 13 of 17 for 212 yards, one touchdown and no interceptions. Fouts was 21 of 37 for 303 with two interceptions and the same number of TDs.

Ironically, in two of the four games in which Fouts has thrown for more than 300 yards, his team has lost.

"Individual records like that don't mean very much," the quarterback said after the loss. "It probably should say, 'The San Diego Chargers threw for 300 yards four games in a row.' It's a team game and I'm just disappointed we lost the game."

The loss left San Diego with a 6-3 mark, half a game ahead of Denver and a full game ahead of the Raiders in the AFC West.

Raiders. Mitchell only picked up two yards on the play. Action came in the first period. (AP Laser-photo).

Crippled Rebels try Steers

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Tonight's 8 p.m. date in Memorial Stadium with the Big Spring Steers was supposed to be one of the breathers on the schedule for the Midland Lee Rebels.

After all, Big Spring has lost 34 straight District 5-4A games. That's a long losing streak by any standard. But things haven't come easy for Coach Gil Bartosh's Rebels this year, and tonight's encounter with the Steers may be a rougher road to travel than it should be.

THE REBELS will be without four offensive and five defensive starters

MIDLAND LEE OFFENSE

MIDLAND LEE DEFENSE

BIG SPRING OFFENSE

for the date with the Steers, including quarterback Gary Butler, who has been Lee's only starting quarterback for the last two seasons. But then again, what else is new. The Rebels have faced the injury bug all year and still own a 5-1 record, still owning a shot at the 5-4A crown.

Lee has had enough injuries this season to last through a 10-year span, and it has Bartosh concerned. "We've had players learning three to four positions this year to just stay on the field against our opponents. We get one well and then lose another two or three for a couple of weeks. It has hurt our timing of offense especially, and we are having trouble gaining any consistency. I think that is why we haven't scored many points this year."

BUTLER, WHO played at about 50 per cent capability last week against No. 1 Abilene Cooper with a very bad ankle, has not responded this week and will miss tonight's game unless he is just absolutely needed. That causes a double problem since Barry Corley will have to start his first game at quarterback and give up his defensive free safety role where he has been invaluable.

Guard Keith Brown (ankle), tackle Clyde Smith (charlie horse) and tight end Tom Williams (knee) will also miss action on offense. Larry Ledbetter will get his first offensive start of the year at tight end while tackle Billy Gilliland and guard Charlie Coleman will be starting for the second week in a row. Fullback Mark Thompson, one of the keys of the Lee offense this year, will start, but he is still slowed with a thigh injury.

THINGS ARE even worse defensively. Both defensive ends, Williams and Bill Dern, are out. Dern has a bad back. Wade Colburn, a junior, will get his first start at one slot while Anthony Johnson, who has a lot of playing time, will start at the other end. Smith is also missing at linebacker and Craig Ellis will play there, but James McGarrity, another linebacker, will play but still has a pinched nerve.

Junior David Piccolo will get his first start of the season at free safety in place of Corley, who moves to the offense and tackle Clifton Barnett will start the first time this year in place of two-way starter Brown.

It all sounds like a soap opera script. There seems to be no end to the injury drama.

"The kids have overcome a lot of adversity this year, and we expect them to do it again against Big Spring," Bartosh stated. "This is a snakebit bunch of kids, but they keep coming back. That has to be to their credit and poise. We expect a tough game against Big Spring. They can move the ball and they have improved over the last couple of weeks."

They have fine receivers and David Coffey is a quarterback that can throw and run on you."

Big Spring coach Ron Logback is optimistic about the game with the Rebels saying, "For us every opponent is tough, but we have to believe that we can beat Lee if we play good sound football. I think our kids have a lot of pride. Against Midland High we didn't do anything well and looked awful, but they came back and played pretty good against Permian. I have to believe that our program is on the right track. Our kids are beginning to learn that it's not who you play on Friday night, but how you play that counts."

Britton captures eighth City women's golf title

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

It is now very apparent that there are only three ways to keep Susan Britton from winning the Women's City Golf Championship — a.) Run her out of town. b.) Bar her from playing in the event. c.) Bring in a hot shot amateur ringer from out of town, who plays better than Nancy Lopez.

SINCE MIDLAND women have not gone to such drastic measures yet, Susan Britton is again the city champ. Since she has now won eight city titles, it may be time to think about one of the above.

Britton made a shambles of the city finals Thursday at Hogan Park, winning a 7-6 match play victory over Charlotte Marberger. Just in case you don't know about match play scores, that's seven holes up with only six left to play. And if that isn't clear, just think in terms of domination. That's what Britton is all about on the T&I City golf scene — domination.

MARBERGER COULD have played the role of the hot shot ringer from out of town since she has lived in Midland only a year and has played golf here since only last May, but she was no match for Britton. But then again, who has been? Georgia Bray once beat Britton for the city title, but that was so long ago that even Britton had a memory lapse of just when that was.

"I know this sounds terrible, but I really don't know how many times I've won this thing, or when I lost last. I know Georgia beat me one year and I didn't play a couple of years there, but I really haven't kept up with it," Susan stated. So, we can add another way to keep her from winning. Just let her decide not to enter.

Susan was at her best in the championship match, and that spelled trouble for Marberger right from the beginning. Britton did not lose a hole in the match and owned an insurmountable four-hole lead through the first six holes of play.

By the time she made the turn, she owned a one-under par 35, which brought a smile and a, "Hey, this is fun. I don't have a 35 very often." And that was probably enough right there to send Marberger to thinking of next year.

BRITTON PUT it away on hole No. 12 with a par while Marberger had a bogey. Susan went on to finish with a 73 and Marberger had an 83.

Charlotte, despite the final round against the likes of the young legend, had a super tournament. She won medalist honors on qualification day with an 85 and won two matches in the championship flight. "An 83 is pretty good for me, but Susan was just super. There's not much you can do about that," Marberger said.

WHILE BRITTON was scorching the Hogan course with a large following, Donna Treadway was quietly winning the nine-hole division championship with a 4-3 victory over Kathy Bond.

The most exciting match of the day, however, came in the sixth flight where Nancy Milner narrowly downed Sylvia Alvarado, 1-up after 20 holes. That proved to be the only extra hole match that went for a championship.

There were only two other very tough and go matches. Alice Bullard won a 2-1 decision over Becky Huff to win the second flight and Charleen Roseberry won by the same margin over June McLain in the fifth flight.

Other flight champions were Jean Banks, first flight; Sandy Wilkerson, third flight; Lois Guthrie, fourth flight; and Bernice Cox, seventh flight. Leah Sutcliffe won the first flight competition in the nine-hole division.

NELL KIMBALL won the Cry Baby flight with a card playoff over Jo Dickson and Louise Cleary.

MC netters lose matches

ODESSA — The Midland College women dropped two matches Thursday in the opening day of play in the UTPB Women's Team Tennis Tournament.

Bock picks Steelers over Cowboys again

By HAL BOCK

Dallas against Pittsburgh. Playing as they are on the Sunday before Halloween, you might suspect this matchup is the ghost of Super Bowl XIII. Instead, though, it could very well be a preview of Super Bowl XIV.

Either way, the result will be the same. Pittsburgh has beaten the Cowboys twice for the world championship and even though there's less at stake in the midseason meeting, the Steelers should prevail again.

Last week's 8-6 ran the season's record to 71-40 and a .640 percentage. The picks:
-PITTSBURGH 24, DALLAS 20: John Dutton makes his debut for the Cowboys. It's too bad he can't play in the secondary where Terry Bradshaw should clean up.
-WASHINGTON 28, NEW ORLEANS 17: Jack Pardee must be a magician. How else can the Redskins keep on winning?

NY JETS 17, HOUSTON 14: Look for Earl Campbell to be subpar. The new Jet spirit produces this upset special.

BUFFALO 20, DETROIT 10: Both teams are in a spin but Bills have more offensive weapons available.

NEW ENGLAND 31, BALTIMORE 7: Patriots' defense leads the NFL in every department. Colts' don't.

ST. LOUIS 16, CLEVELAND 10: Rookie Otis Anderson could make a lot of yards against Brown defenders.

MINNESOTA 24, TAMPA BAY 14: This is an important NFC Central matchup and if the Vikings plan on winning the division again, they'll have to win.

LOS ANGELES 21, NY GIANTS 17: The Rams are dragging with injuries right now but they'll beat the

Holtz calls Cougars top team in country

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
No matter what the rankings say, Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz believes he is playing the nation's No. 1 team Saturday. And the way the Houston Cougars have been playing lately, they may be.

"There's no doubt about it, they're the best team in the country right now," Holtz says. "But that doesn't mean they're going to win Saturday. I'm not conceding this to anyone."

"But they are the best team — offensively, defensively, kicking game, attitude-wise — that I've seen in this (Southwest) conference since I've been here."

HOUSTON IS No. 6 in The AP poll. Holtz's Razorbacks are tied for fourth with Ohio State after a 17-14 upset over powerful Texas last Saturday.

The Razorbacks ran right at Texas' highly rated defense in a second-half drive that produced the winning field goal. Holtz doesn't plan to do the same with Houston.

"There is no way in the world to take Houston and pound them," he said. "There is no way to beat this team running between the tackles."

BRILLIANT DEFENSE has played a big part in Houston's 6-0 record thus far. That's quite a change from the offense-oriented teams that Yeoman used to produce there.

"There is no question we're a little different," said Yeoman, now in his 18th year as Houston coach. "When we were independent, you go a lot on statistics. We used to fling the ball around all over the place and take some gambles that conceivably were not the percentages."

"I'm more restrained in my activity now that we're in the conference," added Yeoman. "I'm a little more considered in my calls. Not as wild and woolly."

Meanwhile, the nation's No. 1 team, Alabama, will see action against Virginia Tech in another busy college weekend. Elsewhere, it's Colorado at No. 2 Nebraska; No. 3 Southern Cal at California; Michigan State at No. 4 Ohio State; Iowa State at No. 7 Oklahoma; No. 8 Florida State at LSU; No. 9 Texas at SMU; Indiana at No. 10 Michigan; New Mexico at No. 11 Brigham Young; No. 17 Navy at No. 12 Pitt; No. 13 Auburn at No. 18 Wake Forest; South Carolina at No. 14 Notre Dame; East Carolina at No. 15 North Carolina; Northwestern at No. 16 Purdue and No. 20 Washington at UCLA. No. 19 Tennessee is idle this weekend.

GIANTS from force of habit. MIAMI 30, GREEN BAY 14: Bob Griese will play and the Dolphins, as usual in the Orange Bowl, will win. PHILADELPHIA 27, CINCINNATI 20: Harold Carmichael needs a catch to match the NFL consecutive game streak for receivers of 105. He'll get more than one for the Eagles.

DENVER 13, KANSAS CITY 7: The Chiefs are still in shock over The Fumble II and the Broncos need a breather after running into the Steelers on Monday night.

CHICAGO 17, SAN FRANCISCO 13: Bears have lost five of six, which is bad. The 49ers have lost seven of eight, which is worse. SEATTLE 34, ATLANTA 14 (Monday Night): Remember when the Falcon defense was among the NFL's best?

Messenger Stakes on tap Saturday night

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — There can be one pacing Triple Crown champion this year, but Hot Hitter is favored to become a two-thirds champion by winning the $185,225 Messenger Stakes at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

The 3-year-old colt by Strike Out, who has won 13 of 16 starts and $734,702 this year, is the 3-1 morning line choice to annex this final leg of the Triple Crown that drew a surprising large field of 12.

Alabama battles Tech

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Coach Bill Dooley says his Virginia Tech football team is on the way, but the problem is that Alabama is already there.

"I'm going to be realistic," said Dooley. "We're building a program and we've got a ways to go and Alabama is one of the established, traditional powers in college football."

The Gobblers, 4-3 in Dooley's second year at the helm, go against the No. 1 team in the nation at Alabama's homecoming Saturday, not a good spot to win their first game in 10 contests with the Crimson Tide.

"Virginia Tech always beats us but we always win," said Coach Bear Bryant, hoping the Gobblers will be the 200th Alabama victim since he took over in 1958. "We should win the game but we have to play well."

He said after Alabama rallied for a 27-17 victory over Tennessee last Saturday that his 6-0 Tide "is a champion now," able to defeat any team if it can get all its players well.

"I've seen them on film," said Dooley, "and they are the No. 1 team in America."

"How many players in the country, of all those who play the game, ever get a chance to play against the best team? It's an honor for our team to get this opportunity."

Bryant said he is impressed by VPI's Kenny Lewis, "a terrific running back with excellent speed," and Mickey Fitzgerald, "a huge full-back."

Lewis has 583 yards, an average of 5.6 a run, while Fitzgerald is averaging 5.1 with his 343 yards.

But they will be facing a team that averages giving up only 4.3 points a game, best in the nation.

A VPI defensive standout, tackle Doug McDougald, has a bruised thigh and may not be ready. The Gobblers need all the defensive help they can get to halt the nation's No. 1 rushing offense, 373.3 yards a game, and No. 1 scoring machine, 41 points a game.

Tarkenton's purple jersey now replaced by suit

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The familiar purple jersey is gone, replaced by a pinstriped suit or, once in a while, a gold blazer. Inside it, Fran Tarkenton no longer has the room to scramble. He sits behind a desk most days and, on an occasional Monday night, squeezes into an ABC television booth to analyze the game he helped reshape.

HE DOES it dispassionately. He no longer is part of the system, and he doesn't miss it at all.

Being one of the greatest quarterbacks in National Football League history was just a job, a way of life, the same as being the head of Behavioral Systems, Inc., the management consulting company he created nine years ago, or being the analyst on Monday night football games, a job he shares this year with Don Meredith.

"People think Meredith and I have tugs at the heartstrings about the game," says Tarkenton, who turned scrambling into an offensive weapon. "It's not really true. It's not the same as if we were involved in it as a player. Not the same at all. I don't have any special feelings about it at all."

THE MOMENT when a player sheds his helmet and pads for the final time can be traumatic. He is thrust back into the "real" world, where his life is far less regulated, his paychecks are much smaller and his spotlight much dimmer. For Tarkenton, though, the transition was smooth.

"I was involved in commercials for a long time, I started my own company nine years ago — I've been a businessman all my adult life," he said. "I can't understand these players who spend their off-seasons playing in celebrity golf tournaments and things like that. I'd go crazy just doing that."

"Besides, it was hardly an emotional problem leaving football because someone didn't ask me to leave. It was my own decision."

"Emotional problems? Well, there's nothing like having to take a football team for 16 weeks, trying to direct that team, to make something of it. That's a kind of scrutiny few other people come under. That's a long haul, life or death every week. That type of pressure doesn't exist in other things."

Fezler, Ziegler holding to slim Disney Golf lead

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Forrest Fezler and Larry Ziegler, a couple of long shots leading the $250,000 National Team Golf Classic by a single stroke, believe they've got the key to success.

"Drive straight and hit a lot of putts — that's our strategy," said Ziegler after he and his partner combined their talents for 11 birdies and an 11-under-par 61 over Disney's 7,197-yard Magnolia course Thursday.

THAT WAS good for the first-round lead in the best-ball event, but Fezler and Ziegler had little breathing room, with three two-men teams a stroke behind and another four duos another stroke back in the quest for the $45,000 first prize in the last PGA event of the year. Eleven teams were at 8-under 64.

"It's easy for me when Larry hits the ball so well," said Fezler, who won only $11,427 for the year and is just getting over a bout with mononucleosis. Ziegler has done a bit better on the PGA tour, standing 98th with official winnings of $38,546.

FEZLER MADE six birdies and Ziegler five enroute to their sparkling score in a tournament that features 104 teams and usually has been won by a pair of tour rabbits or unknowns.

At 62, one stroke back of Fezler-Ziegler going into today's second round, were veteran Jim Colbert and youngster Mike Sullivan. George Burns-Ben Crenshaw and Gary Koch-Curtis Strange.

Behind them at 9-under-par 63 were the teams of Tom Purtzer-Howard Twitty, Mark McCumber-Dan Sikes, Lee Elder-Buddy Gardner and George Archer-Jim Simons.

Strange, winner of last week's Pensacola Open, said he had suffered a setback earlier in the week but did not let it affect him Thursday since he is trying to help Koch win an exemption from qualifying next year. The winners split a $45,000 first prize and get the all-important exemptions if they don't have them.

"It's hard to come from behind in this tournament. I feel all fired up again now," said Strange, who let Koch carry the first-round load with seven birdies.

Colbert and Sullivan fired six birdies and two eagles on the tough 6,951-yard Palm course, being used along with the Magnolia for the first two rounds.

Colbert, who said he has a daughter about Sullivan's age, jokingly remarked that he didn't "feel that we have much of a chance — an old veteran and a young kid ... We don't have much in common. Don't even have much to talk about."

ELEVEN TEAMS were tied with 8-under 64s for fourth place, including Miller Barber-Dan January, Gibby Gilbert-Grey Jones and Jim Mitchell-Vic Regalado.

Last year's champs, Wayne Levi and Bob Mann, were tied with 12 other teams, at 7-under 65 after the first round.

MC women 2nd in golf

The second and final day of the Midland College women's Fall Invitational Golf Tournament was highlighted by a new competitive course record for Midland Country Club.

Mary DeLong of Texas Tech University fired a 70 Thursday to break a long-standing 72 by Pat Garner. DeLong's record came as competitors played from the executive tee markers, making the course play at 5,946 yards. She used her record-breaking second round to guarantee the medalist trophy with a two-day 147.

Texas Tech won the 36-hole event with a team total 631. Host Midland College was second with a 659, followed by the University of New Mexico with 679 and Temple Junior College with 692.

Placing as runnerup medalist was Robin Wohlman of Texas Tech with a two-day score of 159.

MC team entrants, with their second round and total scores, were Wendy Goodwin, 77-162; Debra Kargetta, 80-162; Sheryl Guthrie, 79-167; Jamie Gossett, 87-172; and Maria Haasch, 88-176.

Scores for three individual entrants from MC were Cheryl Bunton, 93-188; Dawn Edwards, 93-188; and Toni Hunter, 98-202.

Next competition for the Chaparral women golfers comes Nov. 12-13 in a tournament hosted by Temple Junior College.

Roth nears mark during PGA tour

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Mark Roth is on track to breaking his own one-year earnings record on the Professional Bowlers Association tour.

The right-hander from North Arlington, N.J., already has topped the $100,000 mark in earnings for the third straight year. He raised his 1979 earnings to $106,617 by taking home $11,000 for winning last weekend's $85,000 Kessler Classic in Greenwood, Ind.

With three tournaments remaining this year, Roth has a shot at breaking his own tour mark of $134,500, set last year.

Earl Anthony of Kent, Wash., remained in second with $86,440 and Marshall Holman of Medford, Ore., third with $82,560.

Joe Berardi of Pearl River, N.Y., who lost to Roth in the Kessler finals, moved into fourth place on the earnings list with $64,895. George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., is fifth with $64,750.

Green's kickoff not new record in NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — It now turns out that Roy Green of the St. Louis Cardinals did not set a National Football League kickoff return record last Sunday, the league said Thursday.

Green originally had been credited with a 108-yard return in the Cardinals' 22-13 loss to Dallas. But a review of game films by the league revealed that the runback was 106 yards instead of 108.

The 106 yards ties the NFL record for a kickoff return which is shared by Al Carmichael of the Green Bay Packers, who did it against Chicago in 1956, and Noland Smith of the Kansas City Chiefs, who did it against Denver in 1967.

Penguins down Canadiens, 8-5

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Penguins used to bring out the worst in Pierre Larouche.

Thursday night, they brought out the best in him.

Larouche, a onetime disciplinary problem in Pittsburgh, gave his former team plenty of trouble again as a member of the Montreal Canadiens, scoring four goals to lead an 8-5 victory.

Larouche put on his big show with the aid of a strong line that included Guy Lafleur and Steve Shutt, who not only scored his 250th career goal but registered four assists.

"I don't feel any extra pressure playing on that line," said Larouche. "As long as I get the ice time, I feel good."

About his superb linemates: "They do their own things. They've been doing it for a few years. I don't think I make any big difference in their play. I'm just happy to be out there."

In the night's other NHL games, Philadelphia defeated the New York Rangers 5-2 and Detroit blanked Buffalo 4-0.

Larouche's goals included the tie-breaking shot in a four-goal third period for Montreal. The goal, at the 5:27 mark, gave the Canadiens a 5-4 lead and they put the game away with goals by Lafleur, Shutt and Larouche again.

Larouche's two earlier goals, both coming in the first period, had helped the Canadiens force a 4-4 tie with Pittsburgh through the first two periods.

Orest Kindrachuk and Gary McAdam scored twice each for the Penguins, with the other goal coming from Nick Libett.

Flyers 5, Rangers 2

Rookie Brian Propp and Reggie Leach scored in an 11-second span of Philadelphia's three-goal third period, leading the Flyers over New York.

Propp got behind the Rangers' defense, took a pass from Leach and fired a 20-footer over the left shoulder of New York goalie John Davidson to break a 2-2 tie at 9:11 of the final period and give the Flyers their eventual winning goal.

Leach made it 4-2 at 9:23, reaching a loose puck behind the New York defense and flipping it over the goalie's right hand.

"That was a great effort on his part," Rangers Coach Fred Shero said of Propp's tie-breaking goal. "He wouldn't have scored if he didn't want the puck. I'll take those types of guys anytime."

Red Wings 4, Sabres 0

Vaclav Nedomansky scored two of Detroit's four power-play goals and Jimmy Rutherford registered his first shutout of the season as the Red Wings downed Buffalo.

Reed Larson and Errol Thompson also scored power-play goals for the Red Wings, who went into the game at Detroit's Olympia Stadium having scored on only two of 23 power-play attempts.

Ector-Pecos tilt heads area lineup

Three games in the area tonight could definitely qualify as major clashes and each could go a long way in helping to determine district champions.

The first — and probably the best — has Junction at Mason in the 9-A headline game of the week and possibly the season. Mason enters the game ranked in Class A and unbeaten while Junction has only one setback to mar their otherwise perfect record.

THE CRYSTAL BALL says Mason will remain undefeated after posting a 14-12 victory over Junction.

If that didn't make your heart to skip a beat, then how about those high-flying Pecos Eagles going to Barrett Stadium in Odessa for a good, old battle with the Ector Eagles.

To say the least, Ector has surprised a lot of people with their fine play to date, but one has to wonder just how long they can keep up.

Pecos appears to have too much and should garner a 13-10 triumph over Ector.

In the other contest, 5-A favorite Seagraves entertains Plains, a team which has pulled the carpet out from under other teams successfully, including last week's 10-9 shock job on Stanton.

But realistically, there's no way Plains — even though they're 3-0 in district — should be in this one. Seagraves has posted more shutouts than you can shake a stick at and I believe they'll notch another after bombing the Cowboys 28-0.

Stanton, by the way, should get back on the winning track in 5-A with a 24-6 nod over hapless O'Donnell.

Two area outfits get it on tonight in 6-A. The Rankin-Iraan fray looks to be a blowout, with the Red Devils to take a 35-0 verdict while McCamey will have a little tougher time but still be successful with a 20-9 decision over Marfa. I think the Badgers defense will be too strong for Marfa's explosive offense.

REAGAN COUNTY of 9-A will certainly be keeping an eye on the Mason-Junction game but the Owls also have some business to take care of themselves. And they should with a 25-7 victory over Wall.

Crane of 7-AA faces yet another non-district assignment and I like the Cranes — especially with their new found offensive expertise — to stop Alpine 13-10.

ROUND THE REGION — Monahans 20, Fort Stockton 15, Lake View 30, Brownfield 10, Snyder 43, Sweetwater 6, Anton 12, Forsan 6, Shallowater 23, Ropes 7, Eldorado 12, Menard 9.

Stargell World Series MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — They filled a ballroom at the plush Waldorf Astoria with 25 years of World Series thrills and memories.

From 1955, there was Johnny Podres, who pitched the seventh-game victory over the New York Yankees and delivered "next year" at last to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

From 1968, there was Mickey Lolich, who emerged from a season in the shadows to pitch three victories for Detroit over St. Louis.

From 1970, there was Brooks Robinson, whose magic glow at third base demoralized Cincinnati and helped Baltimore to a World Championship.

And from 1979, there was Willie

Stargell, the latest member of this exclusive club. To join, you have to be the Most Valuable Player in the World Series.

Stargell earned his way in by hitting .400 with three home runs, seven runs batted in and 25 total bases as Pittsburgh came off the deck to defeat Baltimore in seven games.

"It was a satisfying, exhilarating experience," said Stargell.

Stargell's Series started in weather more suited for football than baseball, but the guiding spirit of Pittsburgh's "Family" hardly noticed the climatic conditions.

"Hey, I'd tread water in the Pacific for nine innings to play in the World Series," he said.

Stargell had played in the Series before. He was Pittsburgh's left fielder in 1971 when the Pirates beat Baltimore in another seven-game Series that served as a showcase for the many talents of Roberto Clemente.

That year, Stargell batted .208 — a far cry from his 1979 production.

Clemente dazzled in the 1971 Series — hitting, fielding, running and throwing with a reckless abandon that stamped him as the MVP. He died tragically 14 months later when his mercy airplane, bound for flood victims in Nicaragua, crashed off the coast of Puerto Rico.

The memory of Clemente was with the Pirates as they faced the Orioles in the 1979 Series.

"Roberto is a part of me, my outlook and my approach to the game," said Stargell.

Many of the current Pirates feel the same about Stargell, the man they call "Pops." He relishes his role as leader of their family.

Clemente's widow, Vera, represented her late husband Thursday at the 25th anniversary Series MVP banquet sponsored by Sport Magazine and major league baseball. She posed happily with Stargell.

"That was a different team," said Stargell when asked to compare the 1971 champions with this year's Pirates club. "This is a new group of individuals which had the same determination and desire and put it together. I'm proud to be able to have been a part of two different World Series champions."

Bullpups, Williams post 28-20 win

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

The Midland High Bullpups came from behind in the final period here Thursday night to take an exciting 28-20 victory over the San Angelo Central junior varsity football team in Memorial Stadium.

Talback Wesley Williams led the Bullpups to their fifth victory in seven games by rushing for more than 200 yards on 35 carries. Williams scored three touchdowns as Central was dropping to a 0-6 record on the year.

IT WAS a nip-and-tuck battle with Midland taking a 6-0 lead with 10:12 left in the first period when Williams scooted 18 yards for his first of three TDs. Brandt Moffatt had put the Pups into business with a fumble recovery at the Bobcat 33.

Rams' Perry lost for month

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cornerback Rod Perry of the Los Angeles Rams, who injured his knee in the National Football League season opener, was placed on the four-week injured reserve list by the club Thursday.

The Rams then announced the signing of veteran Ken Ellis, 32, who played in two Pro Bowls with Green Bay and has been with several clubs during recent seasons.

Ellis, a 10-year veteran, went to Southern University.

Perry was the Rams' co-leader in interceptions last season with eight.

76ers waive Eric Money

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers waived veteran guard Eric Money Thursday and reactivated rookie guard Clint Richardson, the National Basketball Association team announced.

The 6-foot, 170-pound Money had a five-point-scoring average in the first six games of the season and played an average of 13 minutes in each game. He is in his sixth season as a professional.

Richardson, a 6-foot-3, 195-pounder from the University of Seattle, missed the first six games with lower back strain. He had a 6.7 scoring average coming off the bench in six preseason games.

The extra point was blocked, but Midland had a 6-0 lead.

Central stormed back to tie the game on a seven-yard run by Batla Weston, but the PAT also failed, making it 6-6 with 6:20 left in the first period.

SAN ANGELO took a 12-6 to the dressing room with a second period touchdown when Weston scored on a six-yard pass from quarterback Mike Flores. The run for the two-pointer failed, however.

At halftime the Midland Freshman and San Jacinto bands entertained, giving the game more of a varsity atmosphere.

Williams got the Bullpups back into the game in the third period with a beautiful 33-yard TD jaunt. The pass for the two-pointer failed, however, making it 12-12 with 8:56 left in the period.

Tackle Kevin Gustin stole the ball from quarterback Scott Sears and rambled 45 yards with the fumble for the Bobcats to make it 18-12 and Kenny Love scored the two-pointer for a 20-12 lead with 6:12 left in the third period.

THERE WERE more fireworks to come when Williams skipped 38 yards for another Pup TD and this time, Sears hit Jim Gunnels with a pass for the two-point conversion to tie the game, 20-20 with 5:22 left in the game. Joe Goebel, who usually kicks the extra points, has been moved up to the varsity and was unavailable for extra point duties.

Midland pulled out the victory and it was a big fourth down play that netted the win. Sears hit Barr Bolger on a fourth day play with an 11-yard pass and in three plays, the Pups scored the winning touchdown when Hipolito Zarate scampered 17 yards to paydirt. Williams passed to Wayne Sims for the two-pointer on a halfback pass for the 28-20 margin of victory with 6:14 left in the game.

Midland plays the Odessa JV in Odessa next Thursday at 7 p.m. in its next outing.

McGuire to stay at South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Most of the University of South Carolina basketball players have accepted the departure of their coach, Frank McGuire, after next season.

And so has the venerable McGuire, who said after the announcement Thursday, "I've got a hard nose and a tough heart and I love basketball."

The team had threatened to quit en masse if the university's Board of Trustees had gone ahead with a purported plan to dismiss McGuire today. Instead, university President James B. Holderman and trustee chairman R. Markley Dennis Sr. said the 65-year-old McGuire would stay for the season.

McGuire said Thursday his 14 players agreed to accept an agreement between his attorneys and school officials that he would leave the university June 30 "as per terms agreed upon."

McGuire has maintained that his contract allowed him to coach until he reached retirement age of 70. An informed source indicated McGuire would be paid for the remaining four years of his contract.

The only man to win 100 games at three schools, McGuire appeared resentful Thursday that his career at South Carolina will end after 16 years.

Asked if he were bitter toward the trustees, McGuire replied, "I don't have to answer that."

And to a question about the settlement, he said, "I'm not mentioning anything, just that I'm satisfied."

Reports that McGuire had turned down an offer of a $75,000-a-year public relations post as a special assistant to Holderman were confirmed.

Pack, Rebels will win

Last weekend was the first of the 1979 schoolboy season that this corner dropped below 80 per cent in picking 55 games.

Their were lots of upsets, but missing three out of four District 5-4A games sure didn't help the ole average did it?

Anyway, last week it was 43 correct and 12 incorrect for a 78.2 or 78.2 percentage and on the season it reads 249 right and 49 wrong for an 83.9 per cent.

Going to have to do better this week in order to stay above the 80 per cent mark and there are some tough games from which to choose.

So without any more stalling here are this week's picks:

MIDLAND LEE entertains the Big Spring Steers and to say that Coach Gil Bartosh's outfit are the walking wounded would be a mild understatement. Quarterback Gary Butler is out along with several others and they need to mend for next week's Permian game. Big Spring has lost 34 straight 5-4A games and the Steers will lose No. 35 here tonight, 28-7, as junior quarterback Barry Corley gets his chance.

BOB DILLON

MIDLAND HIGH hopes to bounce back from last week's disappointing 13-10 loss to Abilene High as the Bulldogs hit the road for a game with the San Angelo Central Bobcats in the Concho City. Central Applin will be back in the lineup and Coach Dennis Hays' crew should bounce back to post a 21-7 victory to win their fifth game of the season in seven outings.

ODESSA HIGH and Abilene wait until Saturday night to square off in W.T. Barrett Stadium in Odessa. The Bronchos are a lot better than their record indicates and I have a feeling that they are going to bust lose. OHS to 40-21-8 victory over the Warriors.

ABILENE COOPER takes on Odessa Permian tonight in Abilene. Naturally, the No. 1-ranked Cougars are favored to win and by some experts as much as 20 points. Not so! The Mojo defense is still tough and if the Panthers can stay away from nagging mistakes, they can beat the Cougars for the eighth straight year. Going with Permian to win, 17-16, to help Lee get back into the title chase. Roy Dunn's toe will be the difference.

OTHER GAMES: El Paso and over El Paso High; El Paso Austin to dispose of Burges; El Paso Coronado to win sixth straight since losing to Permian; El Paso Irvin over Bowie; Bel Air in wild one over Eastwood; Amarillo over Caprock; Pampa over Tascosa; Plainview to bounce back against Hereford after losing by 10 points to Monterey last week; Monterey to down cross-town rival Lubbock High easily; Carrollton-Turner over Wichita Falls High; Denton over Rider; Arlington Heights over Pashal in a dandy; Western Hills over Trimble Tech; Wyatt over Poly Saturday; Arlington over Haltom; Richmond over Arlington Sam Houston; Lamar over Burleson; Trinity Eules over Duncanville; L.D. Bell over Grand Prairie; Irving over Nimitz; Corsicana over Mesquite; Bryan Adams over Lincoln; Skyline over Spruce; Carter over Kimball; South Oak Cliff over Pinkston; Plano over Denison; Highland Park over Greenville; Lake Highlands over Richardson; Sherman over Berkner; Lufkin over Pine Tree; Tyler Lee over Nacogdoches; Longview over Texarkana; Bryan over University of Waco; Killen over Round Rock; Temple over Richfield; Conroe over Humble; Stratford over Hastings; Westchester over Spring Branch; Kashmere over Yates; Baytown Sterling over North Shore; Smiley over Aldine; Port Arthur over West Orange Stark; Port Neches-Groves over Port Arthur Lincoln; LaPorte over Clear Lake; Galveston Ball over Pearland; LaMarque over Alvin; Brazoswood over El Campo; Victoria over Calhoun; Austin Reagan over Travis; Alice over Corpus Christi Moody; CC Ray over Kingsville; Judson over Laredo Nixon; SA Jay over Clark; SA Churchhill over MacArthur; SA Lee over Clemens and Seguin over Roosevelt.

Martin denies hitting man during argument

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The question of whether New York Yankees Manager Billy Martin did or did not slug an Illinois man during an argument in a Bloomington hotel lobby remains unanswered today.

Martin says he didn't. And, while there are a number of people who figure he did, none of them is saying so outright.

The man best qualified to answer the question — Joseph Cooper, 52, of Lincolnshire, Ill. — was keeping his mouth shut and all shut.

It matters because Yankees owner George Steinbrenner has warned Martin that he must refrain from fighting and be on his best behavior if he wants to keep his job.

Cooper, police, hospital and hotel officials all acknowledge that Cooper received 15 to 20 stitches in his lip following an incident in the lobby of L'Hotel de France about midnight Tuesday. At issue is whether he fell — as Martin contends — or if he was struck by Martin.

Cooper did not press charges so Bloomington police called to the hotel did not conduct an investigation. Their report said, however, that "complainant was struck following an argument."

Martin's statement that Cooper fell hasn't been refuted directly by anyone, although a hotel security guard who filed a report on the incident but did not witness it — said he didn't believe Cooper could have sustained his injury in a fall.

The only known eyewitness, bellhop Steve Holland, has refused to comment.

Steinbrenner told reporters he hasn't had a chance to determine the facts.

"There certainly are two conflicting stories," he said, "or, actually, only one story — Billy's — and nobody has refuted that." Steinbrenner said, "Nobody else has said anything concrete to the contrary, have they? I've had his word he'd stay out of fights and I believe him until he proves me different."

Asked what effect the incident would have on Martin's job security if the allegations are true, Steinbrenner said, "I can't speak to that right now."

In his statement, Martin said he and a friend entered the hotel bar Tuesday night after he checked in at the hotel. Two men, one of whom was Cooper, came over and struck up a conversation.

"I listened to this one guy (Cooper) for a while talking baseball," Martin said. "Then I decided I didn't want to talk baseball anymore and left. He must have followed me out of the bar because, as I was walking in the lobby, I turned around and saw this guy lying on the floor."

NCAA will investigate Arizona State

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has been asked by the president of Arizona State University to investigate the school's football program, "in an attempt to bring to light all potential violations ... as expeditiously as possible."

The request by Dr. John Schwada was announced after receiving sworn statements alleging a conspiracy against ousted football coach Frank Kush.

The statements given to Schwada came from four current Arizona State players and one former player. The Associated Press obtained copies of notarized, sworn statements from quarterback Steve Bratkowski, tight end Marshall Edwards, running back Arthur "Turtle" Lane and former defensive back Darrell Gill.

John Mistler, a split end, also provided Schwada with a sworn statement, although a copy was not immediately available.

The statements called for Kush's reinstatement and demanded "reasonably quick" action.

In his statement, Lane said he was offered a bribe for damaging testimony against Kush and threatened with "bodily harm" if he continued to support the ex-coach.

The Arizona Republic, in a copyrighted story appearing in today's editions, said the NCAA began its probe before Schwada requested it.

Cooper-Permian game stealing 5-4A thunder

The Abilene Cooper-Odessa Permian shootout in Abilene tonight not only steals the thunder from the rest of District 5-4A, but as well as the state as more than 16,000 fans are expected in P.E. Shotwell Stadium for the big confrontation.

Permian has beaten Cooper for seven straight years and the Cougars along with the state football polls feel like Ray Overton's crew finally will beat Mojo.

Cooper has the No. 1 offense and Permian the No. 2 offense in 5-4A while John Wilkins' Panthers are the top defensive team in the league and Cooper is No. 2, so it shapes up as a great battle with the winner taking the inside track to the state playoffs.

Cooper has the likes on Terry Orr, John Slaughter, Keith Pantalion, David Williams, Greg Berry and Lanny Dycus while Mojo counters with Kelly Howard, Ricky Reynolds, Alan Hainline, Bryan Lambert, Steve Slater and Tim Hendrix.

In other games tonight, Midland Lee entertains Big Spring; Midland is in San Angelo for a date with the Bobcats and on Saturday night, Odessa High entertains Abilene in W.T. Barrett Stadium.

Lee still is in the running with a 2-1 loop record while OHS and Big Spring stand 0-3 and Abilene also sports a 2-1 reading, so the Eagles are also in the running to see who catches Cooper and Permian.

Fran Tarkenton now wears pinstriped suits

HE IS best known these days for being the "other" third man in ABC's booth, the analytical voice that slips in between Frank Gifford's play-by-play and Howard Cosell's commentary when Meredith isn't around.

He does it well. How long he does it, though, depends on how long it takes him to become bored by it.

"I don't want to be a professional announcer. I'm just there to add some color, give the viewer an extra something else. Every sport on TV needs an expert, somebody who's done it. I like listening to Tony Trabert when I'm watching tennis.

"The announcer should be a pro. He doesn't have to be a jock, but it doesn't mean he can't be. Gifford and Pat Summerall, they were athletes who set out to be professional announcers and now they are. I don't have any desire to be an announcer on a full-time basis."

But that doesn't stop him from offering opinions on others — like Cosell.

"Howard projects different things to different people," Tarkenton said. "I enjoy working with him. He's thoroughly professional. He's great for sports. He's made a tremendous contribution.

"THE THING you have to realize is that for the last couple of years he's had more exposure on national TV than anybody — prime time 60 or 70 times a year. More people see and hear him than perhaps anyone else. Anyone in that situation will create conversation.

"And he makes statements, takes stands. That's good. But when he does that, he's going to alienate someone. You can't please everyone."

Munson crash still undergoing studies

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Attorneys for the estate of former New York Yankees catcher Thurman Munson has hired a Tempe, Ariz., consulting firm to investigate the Aug. 2 airplane crash in which Munson was killed.

Eugene Okey, an attorney representing Munson's estate, said Thursday he has hired Crash Research Inc., a company that studies airplane and vehicular crashes, to conduct tests on the charred wreckage of Munson's Cessna Citation Jet.

The 15-member research team, some of them from the University of Arizona, also will check the airworthiness of other Cessna Citation aircraft, Okey said.

No lawsuits have been filed in connection with the incident.

Munson, 32, was killed after the airplane crashed as he practiced takeoffs and landings at the Akron-Canton Airport. Two passengers were able to escape from the wreckage.

Earlier, investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board ruled out mechanical problems in its investigation of the crash.

Okey said the Munson estate has taken possession of the remains of the jet and the research team has been in Canton to obtain parts from the plane.

Milwaukee wins seventh straight

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Off to a division-leading 7-1 start, the Milwaukee Bucks say their catalyst is on the bench when the game starts.

"He's the best sixth man in the league," said Coach Don Nelson, referring to 6-foot-5 guard Junior Bridgeman.

Trailing 61-53 at the half, the Bucks, behind Bridgeman's fourth quarter explosion, overtook the San Diego Clippers 118-115 for their seventh consecutive National Basketball Association victory Thursday night.

In Thursday night's only other NBA game, Pete Maravich scored 21 of his 31 points in the third quarter, including a pair of three-point goals...

Bridgeman scored 18 of his 22 points in Milwaukee's 39-point final quarter as the Bucks choked off high-scoring Lloyd Free down the stretch.

"We were having trouble putting points in early," said Bridgeman. "I didn't have a feel for the game until the fourth quarter. We got the momentum then and that was the difference."

"We played Free super," added Nelson. Free, who leads the NBA in scoring, led all scorers with 30 points, but only had four in the final period.

Milwaukee went ahead 97-95 with 7:36 remaining in the fourth quarter and, after an exchange of two-pointers, took the lead for good at 4:48 on a basket by Brian Winters.

Winters led the Bucks with 23 points as Milwaukee registered its fourth victory on the road.

Levin's remarks came after the Clippers put Walton on the five-day disabled list with a strained foot ligament.

year. Milwaukee finished in a tie for third place in the Midwest Division with a 38-44 record, 10 games behind the Kansas City Kings.

Without Bill Walton's services for the eighth consecutive game, the Clippers got a 15-rebound effort from his backup, Swen Nater, and an 11-point, 13-rebound performance from Jerome Whitehead.

Marques Johnson added 20 points for Milwaukee, 12 in the first quarter.

Jazz 113, Bulls 105... Adrian Dantley led Utah with 35 points, but it was Maravich's third-period outburst which broke the game open.

Ricky Sobers led the Chicago with 33 points.

Indians add three to player roster... Cleveland (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have added three players to their Triple-A affiliate, Tacoma, to their major league roster, raising it to the 40-man limit.

The Indians Thursday bought the contracts of three baseman Mike Champion and pitchers Tom Brennan and Rich Borchers from the Tugs.

Tulsa's mall a grassy delight

It's a chance to watch the 'real' action

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Transforming dingy, decaying downtown streets into parklike pedestrian malls has proved to be the most unexpected delight from municipal government since New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia read the funny pages to the kids over the radio.

Now the derelicts and the deadbeats can sip their muscatel in a pleasing, pollution-free environment of splashing fountains and floodlit trees, then sleep the morning away under weatherproof, glassed-in arcades on benches generously provided by the taxpayers.

The hippies have a grassy oasis in the concrete jungle upon which to park their rucksacks and guru-garbed bones and light up smokeables not covered in the surgeon general's caution reports.

Grippers, drifters and occasional wallet-lifters can float among the shoppers, buoyed by the thought that they only have to outrun a cop and not a squad car.

Secure from traffic hazards, there is room here for baby carriages, skate boards, rampaging urchins and the shoplifter's free-form 100-meter dash.

Downtown Tulsa has one of the nicest, most democratic malls this peripatetic picker at the portable Underwood has ever paused to picnic from a paper sack upon.

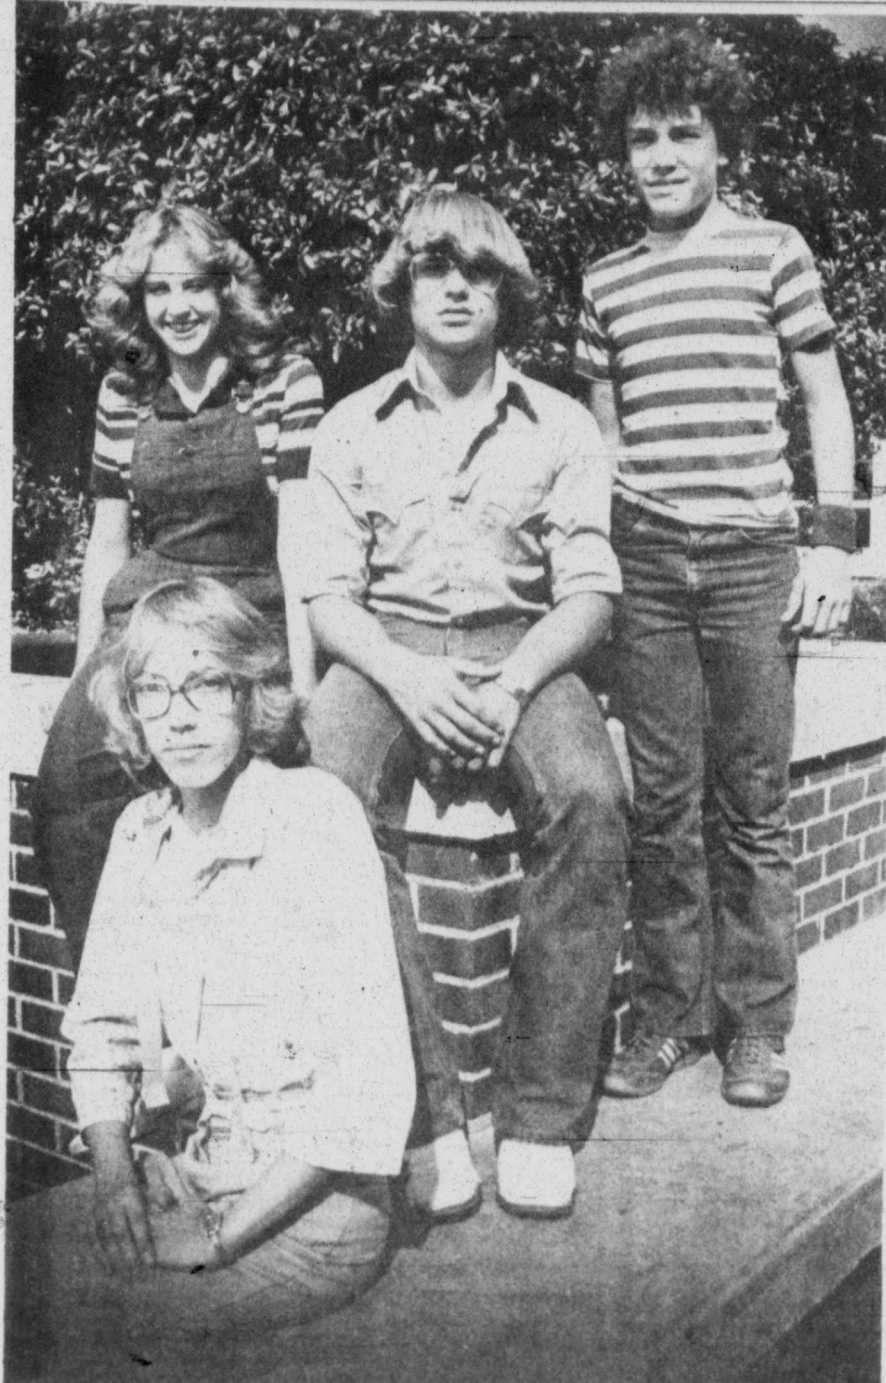

There is room upon the mall here for an infinite variety of human life: hard rock bands, street corner bible thumpers, leotarded lovelies shilling for a health clinic, shoppers scrimmaging over a bargain, lovers holding hands by a waterfall temporarily out of repair, old men storing up the noonday sun against the advance of winter, girl-watchers timing the advance of a slashed skirt with the wind off the Arkansas River, kids playing hopscotch on the brick walk, convention delegates (like me) seeking succor from the stifling air (note the avoidance of the pejorative "hot") in the meeting rooms of the nearby hotels and a few double-knit, three-piece financial types playing hookie from their aeries in the Sooner Federal building because they'd sooner look at the girls.

One noon, as I proceeded along the mall, a folk singer with electronic guitar was braying into a mind-obliterating bank of hi-fi speakers, totally wiping out a nearby sidewalk evangelist who had kept his megaphone at "the audience rejection level" so as not to offend the unsaved.

All in all, the mall cost about $3 million and has been open for strolling for slightly over a year and a half. It not only saved downtown Tulsa, but it regularly provides for free the best show in town: humanity in review.

Group opposes growth of bird-of-prey refuge

By BOB LEERIGHT

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — As 150 people, two falcons and a golden eagle looked on, opponents of a plan to expand a bird-of-prey refuge presented Gov. John Evans with the spindly legs of a fawn purportedly killed by one of the birds the area would protect.

The Idaho Land Board hearing this week was called after the federal government asked the state to give up 43,619 acres of land to help expand the Birds of Prey Natural Area along the Snake River from 32,228 acres to 719,914 acres. Of this, 515,000 acres would be federal land.

Two prairie falcons and a golden eagle were brought by Morlan Nelson, a Boise expert on falcons and eagles, who said the Birds of Prey area "is so unique it can't be matched anywhere in the world, and we are quibbling about a few hundred thousand acres of land."

At the conclusion of testimony opposing the expansion, Rex Moyle of Star presented Evans the four legs of a fawn he said had been killed by an eagle.

State Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said if the expansion is made it would provide 800 acres for every bird living in the protected area.

Yarbrough, who ranches near the border of the bird protection area, said residents of the area supported establishing the area early in the 1970s "only after its size was whittled down to the present 32,000 acres. Now the federal government comes in and is proposing to enlarge the area to include area along 81 miles of the river. They haven't played fair."

Former Oregon Gov. Tom McCall said the Birds of Prey area "is that type of a project that comes around once in a billion years." McCall represented the Nature Conservancy, which he said had invested $500,000 to acquire land for the Birds of Prey area. "The board should ponder one thought: Conservation is reversible, exploitation is not," he said. "This is a tremendous opportunity. I hope you attack it non-politically, thinking of the future."

Strategists attack hiring record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strategists in the Carter presidential campaign are ready to mount an attack on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's record for hiring minority workers. Sources close to the trust of informal advisers."

Southwick, Kennedy's spokesman, demurs.

ANALYSIS

Carter campaign believe the president's record is so superior to Kennedy's that this issue could decide which man gets the traditional black vote that both camps consider crucial to winning the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

But while there are opportunities, there are also pitfalls for the Carter camp in such a strategy, since blacks are hard to find among Carter's closest advisers.

Further, Kennedy's aides dispute the case. "You'd think that they could come up with better points to make," says Kennedy spokesman Tom Southwick. "I don't think anyone has a stronger civil rights record over the past 17 years than Kennedy."

But one black Democrat, a state party official allied with Carter, argues that hiring records "will be a big issue in the black community."

In his view, Carter and Kennedy are so close on issues of concern to blacks that black Democrats might decide between the two on the basis of hiring records.

"Carter has a record on black appointments in top administration jobs that goes beyond rhetoric," says the Carter partisan, who declined to

Governors won't take political heat

WASHINGTON (AP) — By deciding to stop or cut nuclear waste shipments into their states, three governors are signaling Washington they are unwilling to take the political heat for a national problem.

Nevada this week closed the second of the nation's only three low-level waste dumps.

A burial site in Washington state has been shut down for three weeks. Shipments to the only other site — in South Carolina — are expected to be curtailed next week.

Spokesmen for the nuclear power industry say the problem is not immediate for them since power plants have on-site storage capacity. But some officials say hospitals and research facilities will run into storage problems within a few weeks.

LEONARD FREEMAN, president of the Society for Nuclear Medicine, called it "an immediate crisis for nuclear medicine," which is used thousands of times a day to diagnose and treat diseases, including cancer and heart illness.

Some hospitals already have asked doctors to curtail the use of radioactive materials because of expected storage problems.

The sudden militancy by the governors of Washington, Nevada and South Carolina is an attempt to force the Carter administration to play a stronger role in the disposal of low-level wastes, an issue which could be crucial in an election year.

Almost daily, trucks have brought wastes from commercial reactors, hospitals and research laboratories around the country to the only commercial burial sites available.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON X-ray benefits may outweigh risks

Dear Dr. Solomon: With all the emphasis on the possible dangers of radiation, I would think hospitals would avoid the use of X-rays with newborn infants. Yet, my niece, who recently gave birth to a premature baby, tells me X-rays are used in the intensive care unit set up for infants. How do you explain this? — Mrs. S.L.A.

Dear Mrs. A.: First I think we must distinguish between never using X-rays and minimizing their use. Although radiation exposure does have a potential for harm, no responsible person would suggest that radiographic procedures be eliminated completely. The question we are always asked to decide is: What are the benefits of taking X-rays in a specific case? What are the risks? Often the benefits warrant taking the risks.

Obviously I have no way of knowing the extent of radiation exposure in the hospital where your niece gave birth. However, researchers from the Indiana University School of Medicine suggest that newborn infants are not exposed unnecessarily. Their conclusions were based on studies of the radiation exposure of 133 newborn infants in an intensive care unit.

Dear Dr. Solomon: There is so much controversy over the value of acupuncture that the average person doesn't know what to believe. Has anyone thought of doing research on the use of acupuncture with animals to see if it works? — Carl

Dear Carl: Since 1875, the National Association for Veterinary Acupuncture has been conducting research on the medical treatment of animals with the use of acupuncture. The director of the Veterinary Project of the National Acupuncture Association, John Ottaviano, reports that he used acupuncture successfully on a severely injured kitten. After six years, the animal is full-grown, healthy, and has had a litter of kittens. Dogs, horses and other animals have also been treated by this method. Perhaps through observing the results when acupuncture is used on animals, we will eventually understand more about its use on humans.

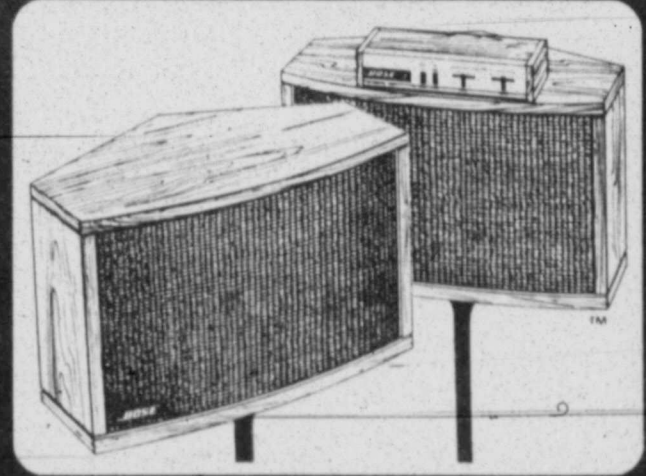

Dear Dr. Solomon: When I was hospitalized recently, most of the doctors who came to see me every day were foreign born and had been educated in another country. I wonder if these foreign doctors know their business. — Mr. G.S.

Dear Mr. S.: Researchers from the Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health, who compared foreign medical graduates with American-educated doctors, say they found no real difference in ability between the two groups. However, they did find differences in where the physicians practiced.

Foreign medical graduates were more likely than those educated in this country to treat economically disadvantaged individuals. They also were more apt to work in a public institution, such as a Veterans Administration hospital, rather than in private practice, research or administration.

In 1963, foreign medical graduates comprised one of every 10 physicians in the United States; today that figure is one in five.

Ellenburger oil reported in Upton well

MARCH 6, 1949 — An important Ellenburger discovery, classed by many observers as a major development, has been assured at Magnolia Petroleum Co. No. 1-A TXL, North-Central Upton County wildcat, 30 miles south of Midland, and approximately one-quarter mile south of the Midland County line.

During 18 hours of flowing through a 1/2-inch choke, the well produced 1,219 barrels of 53-gravity oil, and no water.

That was at the average rate of 67.7 barrels per hour, or 1,624.8 barrels per day. Gas-oil ratio is 1,420-1. Flowing tubing pressure during the test period ranged from 900 pounds to 1,100 pounds. Flowing casing pressure was between 400 pounds and 200 pounds.

The production came from perforated section at 12,700-760 feet. That zone had been washed with 1,000 gallons of mud acid.

During the first 60 minutes after the flow had been put on a 1/2-inch choke, the production was 60.86 barrels of oil, and the production during the last hour of the 18-hour test was 64 barrels. Highest flow reported during the entire period was 78.45 barrels in the third hour of the test.

Operator was to continue the flow on the 1/2-inch choke until a full 24-hour test had been taken. That was to end at 12 noon Saturday.

After the end of that period, the drillpipe through which the well had been flowing will be pulled. A packer set between 12,760 and 12,780 feet will be removed. That will allow the perforated section at 12,780 to 12,820 feet, which had flowed an average of 11 barrels of oil per hour, to be produced along with the zone at 12,700-760 feet.

Tubing will be run, and the two zones of perforations will be washed with acid to clean up. Then the well will be put on production and completed as the deepest oil producer in West Texas. It is on a plugged back total depth of 12,826 feet.

Operator will not perforate or test the top 170 feet of pay in this discovery which is between the top of the Ellenburger at 12,630 feet and the highest of the present perforations at 12,700 feet.

Neither is anything to be done at this time about testing the producing possibilities of the Wolfcamp of the Permian, a Pennsylvanian lime, and the Devonian. Each of those formations showed production when they were drilled through.

The discovery is located 660 feet from north and west lines of section 31, block 40, T-4-S, T&P survey.

Drilling of three offsets, one by Magnolia to the north and one to the west and one by Phillips Petroleum Co. to the northwest is due to start in the near future.

Informed sources think, on the basis of available information, that the Ellenburger structure around this new well likely will cover a large area.

Those observers have the opinion that the Ellenburger production probably will extend a considerable distance into Midland County.

Bob Sutton district boss

MARCH 20, 1949 — Bob Sutton is the new district landman for Cities Service Oil Co. in the Permian Basin. He is now on the job in the company's office in Midland.

Sutton succeeds Joe G. Sauer who resigned to become an independent oil operator.

Independent oilmen seeking answer on imported crude

HOUSTON, MAY 8, 1949, (AP) — Independent oilmen still want Congress to answer a question:

"Are domestic petroleum markets to be surrendered to foreign oil?"

The mid-year meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America last week in New Orleans concentrated its attention on demands to curb foreign imports.

President Fred W. Shield, San Antonio, said the federal government soon must choose the course to follow with respect to petroleum.

Each barrel of foreign oil brought into the United States, he said, still means the shutting in of another barrel of domestic production.

Russell B. Brown, Washington, the IPAA general counsel, repeated demands for "definite legal restrictions" on petroleum imports.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines released statistics on imports of crude oil in January and February.

Crude and refined products imports for the two months were placed at 35,947,000 barrels, an increase of

J. W. Starr in IPAA post

JAN. 30, 1949 — J. W. (Johnnie) Starr, owner of Starr Gas Company of Midland, has been named a director of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Starr's election was announced Friday at a meeting of the officers and executive committee of the organization in Wichita Falls.

Robert L. Wood of Midland, vice president of the IPAA for West Texas, attended the session.

He reports that much concern was expressed at the meeting regarding the dangers which the domestic oil industry is facing as a result of the increasing amounts of oil now being imported into this country from Arabia and other foreign countries.

Wood said that the nationwide independent organization may shortly ask President Truman and the U.S. Congress to take action to limit the quantity of oil which can be imported.

He asserted that much misleading information has been circulated which has caused many people to get the idea that the United States was running out of oil, and that foreign oil should be brought in so domestic crude could be saved for emergencies.

Three awards announced

APRIL 2, 1949 — Service awards have been made to three employees of the Midland office of Continental Oil Company in recognition of 20 years of service with the company.

The presentation of gold-plated, diamond-studded pins, were to Harry Miller of the production department, Charles D. Vertrees of the geological department, and Elmore L. Mount of the geophysical department.

Previously, Continental has awarded pins with diamonds to all employees with 25 or more years of service, one diamond representing each five-year span. The current awards, replacing lapel buttons, bring the 20-year employee into the "diamond class."

Oil stories reprinted

All stories on this page are reprinted from the 1949 issues of The Reporter-Telegram. The dateline on each story designates the day the story first was published.

Throughout this Petroleum Pioneer Edition will be found stories on the early days of the oil industry in the Permian Basin as reported by The Reporter-Telegram.

There are also stories by current members of the R-T staff on several of the pioneers who helped to make the news in 1949 and other early years of the petroleum industry.

Firm makes staff changes

APRIL 10, 1949 — Several changes recently have taken place in the staff of Amerada Petroleum Corp. Midland office.

Roland S. Lakson of Rapid City, S.D., is a new geologist with the concern. At present he is assigned to the scouting department in Midland.

He was graduated last March from the South Dakota State School of Mines with a degree in Geology.

Elmer S. Lynn, Amerada geologist formerly serving in the Midland scouting department, has been transferred to the company's production station at Monument, N.M.

T. C. Frick appoints two

APRIL 24, 1949 — Tom C. Frick, chairman of the Permian Basin Section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, has announced that two members have been appointed to the program committee and one to the membership committee of that organization.

Program committee now consists of W. N. (Bill) Little of Midland, with Tide Water Oil Company, chairman; Ed Shakely of Midland, Shell Oil Company, and F. L. Converse of Midland, Stanolind Oil and Gas Company.

Those on the membership committee are Joe Chastain of Midland, Bethlehem Supply Company, chairman, and James C. Wright of Odessa, Garrett Oil Tools.

Salesman joins Welex

MARCH 27, 1949 — W. W. Wilson, well-known in the oil industry of the Permian basin, has joined Welex Jet Service, Inc., and will do sales and contact work for that concern.

He will continue to live in Midland and will work out of the company's recently opened district office in Odessa.

Welex is credited with originating the jet method of perforating oil well casing, and oil bearing formation, with the shaped charge.

Licenses to use the method have been issued to a number of other concerns which operate in this and in other oil regions.

Engineers will meet

MAY 8, 1949 — The Permian Basin Section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Hotel Scharbauer in Midland at 6:15 p.m. May 16.

H. D. Murray of Midland, district petroleum engineer for The Texas Company, will present a paper entitled "Selection and Maintenance of Lease Production Tanks in Sulphide Areas."

J. W. Graybeal of Midland, assistant division petroleum engineer with Humble Oil & Refining Company, will lead a discussion following the paper.

Prepared discussions by Aaron Ginsburg, Gulf Oil Corp.; Ken Williams, Shell Oil Company, and Ike Mayfield, Sivalis Tanks, all of Odessa, will be presented.

Skirmish to open on tidelands issue

WASHINGTON (AP), MAY 9, 1949 — Opening of a new skirmish in the multi-billion-dollar battle over oil-rich tidelands was scheduled Monday afternoon in the Supreme Court.

Texas and Louisiana take the position the court should not let the United States file suits against them which seek to establish federal control over submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

If the United States can do this to Texas and Louisiana, their attorneys say it can do the same thing to 19 other coastal states and possibly the seven states bordering the Great Lakes.

They said they foresaw years of tangled litigation.

The United States previously won a Supreme Court ruling that the federal government possesses "paramount right in and full dominion and power" over submerged lands off the California coast. That ruling was given two years ago, but disputes over it still are unsettled.

The justices were told bills to give the states clear title to submerged coastal lands have been introduced in Congress by 31 senators and 23 representatives.

The Supreme Court, Texas argues, should not permit itself to be drawn into the controversy further when Congress is trying to settle the issues.

Price Daniel, attorney general of Texas, submitted a brief outline of the state's arguments. In it he said:

"What is vital for this court to consider is that the entire matter of the disposition of the coastal submerged lands has been presented to Congress, and that both sides in the controversy are urging Congress promptly to adopt a national policy concerning the whole matter."

Daniel recalled that President Truman has urged Congress to establish a program of federal control over submerged oil reserves.

Ironically, the government's request to bring suits against Louisiana and Texas were filed by a native son of Texas — Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

And Daniel's brief said Clark, on March 12, 1947, issued a press statement saying Texas owned and retained all the lands within its boundaries, including the marginal sea area. The statement was issued the day Clark argued the California Tidelands case before the Supreme Court. In part, it read:

"Whatever the decision of the court may be in the California case, it would not be decisive of the rights of any other state. Other coastal states are on an entirely different footing."

"When asked regarding his native State of Texas, the attorney general pointed out that Texas had been an independent nation, a republic, for 10 years before joining the union. As a republic it owned all the lands within its boundaries, including the marginal sea commonly called tidelands. This area extended into the Gulf of Mexico and was under the sovereignty of Texas during the republic and was retained by it under the provision of the act of admission (to the union)."

The Dallas News said Sunday Clark has suggested a compromise on the

Midlander talks imports

APRIL 2, 1949 — Congressman Ken Regan of Midland discussed the danger of the present volume of foreign oil imports at the annual convention of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association in Houston Friday.

A former Texas oil man, he states that at the present rate of imports, the efficiency of the domestic industry may be seriously impaired. He said he understands the import trend may force another cut in domestic production from 235,000 to 250,000 barrels daily.

Texas production already has been slashed 750,000 barrels daily since January 1.

He said the nation must rely on the cooperation of the various companies to reduce their imports and "if this doesn't help certain new and specific laws will."

Guy I. Warren of Corpus Christi, president of the TIPRO, says many Texas producing properties have been cut as much as one third this year as a result from the booming imports.

The independents took action at the meeting to endorse a $20,000 increase in the group's annual budget for a fight against the import increases. They also petitioned the Small Business Committee of the House of Representatives to hold hearings in Texas to consider the plight of the independent producer.

tidelands issue. The News said Clark suggested Congress could decide on what percentage of the proceeds from the lands the state should have.

Asked about the report Monday, Clark said his position has not changed, and he has made no new suggestion in the matter.

He recalled that he and former Secretary of Defense Forrestal had suggested to the last Congress that the royalties from oil production in the marginal sea might be divided this way: 37.5 percent to the states nearest the site of production, 52.5 percent to the reclamation fund, with the remaining 10 percent going to the federal government.

Clark pointed out that the 37.5 percent royalty for the individual state would be the same royalty which the states now receive from oil production on federal lands within their boundaries. The reclamation fund is a federally administered pool set up by Congress for the benefit of 17 so-called reclamation states, mostly in the West which are major producers of minerals.

The attorney general said he still believes the marginal sea belongs to the federal government, adding:

"When the Supreme Court said that we have 'paramount rights' to the marginal sea off the coast of California, that means title to me — and everything involved in title to a property, the sea, what lies under it, and the air above."

"I am opposed to giving up any portion of this title. As to the division of royalties, that would seem to be a matter of Congressional policy."

Several changes reported

JAN. 23, 1949 — Several recent personnel changes have been announced by oil firms and oil-industry related companies in the Midland area.

Charles F. Henderson has resigned from the Midland District office of Stanolind Oil & Gas Company and is going out as a consulting geologist.

He had been with Stanolind eight years and was assistant district geologist for the company in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico when he resigned January 4.

Henderson will office at 607 First National Bank Building and will share space with E. E. (Ed) Reigl and Richmond Drilling Company which is operated by Reigl.

Henderson has been in Midland several years and before coming to this territory had experience in East Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas where he worked for Sinclair Prairie Oil Company four years before joining Stanolind and moving to the Permian Basin.

Willis Blackwell has been transferred to Midland as district material supervisor of Oil Well Supply Company.

Blackwell, former manager of that concern's Odessa store succeeds G. Lee Jabj, who has moved to Oilwells headquarters in Dallas. He has been with the company since 1926.

E. R. (Ed) Phillips, petroleum engineer with the oil and gas division of The Railroad Commission of Texas in the Midland District office, has joined the Heep Oil Company in Corpus Christi.

Phillips had been with the commission about five months. He has been replaced by L. E. Gray from Rangier.

Mary Corbin, former secretary to T. P. (Red) Drew, district superintendent of The Texas Company in Midland, has resigned that position and joined the organization of H. F. Gibson in Ardmore, Okla., as an independent oil operator.

Edwin H. Magruder Jr. is a new scout in the Permian Basin District office of Skelly Oil Company. He will cover New Mexico and the north side of West Texas.

He is in the company's land and lease department which is under the direction of H. Hilton Kaderli, district landman.

Magruder was transferred here from Velma, Okla., where he had been working in the Skelly production department for several months.

His home is at Jackson, Miss. He is a recent graduate of the University of Mississippi.

Phil H. Hays will continue to scout the south section of West Texas for Skelly.

J. B. (Jack) Chase is a new member of the Permian Basin division land department of Lion Oil Company. He came here recently from Lion's headquarters office at El-Dorado, Ark., and will work with C. V. Lisman, the company's district landman.

Chase is looking for a house or an apartment. Information regarding such accommodations which might be available should be communicated to him at the Lion office which is in the Leggett Building.

R. S. Anderson, independent oil operator and producer, sits in his office on the top floor of the Wilco Building in Midland. When Anderson first went independent about 1944, he had to rent an old restaurant for office space. (Staff Photo By Brian Hendershot)

Anderson worked famous strike

In 1943, R.S. Anderson was the geologist on the Keystone-Ellenburger discovery well drilled in Winkler County.

Drilled for Amon G. Carter and the Pure Oil Company, the well near Kermit reached total depth at 5,857 feet and completed for 6,000 barrels-a-day natural.

"The well touched off the deep drilling boom in West Texas," said Anderson.

Today, from his office atop the Wilco Building in downtown Midland, Anderson conducts his business as an independent oil operator and producer.

"Basically I'm a geologist," Anderson said.

Educated at the South Dakota School of Mines and the University of Chicago (from which he received his degree in geology) Anderson was graduated in 1930 and moved to Hobbs, N.M. He worked as an assistant to a field geologist "cutting samples and scouting wells" before he took another job, Anderson said.

"I was a surveyor with a seismic company for almost 7 years in Oklahoma, South Texas and Louisiana before moving to Midland," the geologist said.

"I came here (to Midland) with The Superior Oil Company as a geologist in 1936," Anderson said.

Practically every oil company in town was in the Petroleum Building in those days, Anderson observed.

"After the depression when the oil business picked up there was that 12-story building there with all that office space," he said.

"The importance of that building (Petroleum Building) can hardly be underestimated in the fact that Midland became headquarters (for the oil companies) for the Permian Basin," Anderson added.

Anderson worked with The Superior Oil Company for about a year before hiring on as a geologist with Amon G. Carter, then publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"Carter didn't have a big (oil) operation but he had some impressive discoveries in the Wasnon Pool," Anderson said.

Anderson became an independent consulting geologist shortly after the Keystone-Ellenburger discovery well was drilled, he said.

"When I first went independent there weren't many office buildings available (in Midland), Anderson noted.

Anderson's first office was in a building that used to stand where the Main Post Office, 100 E. Wall St., is today.

Increased demand for oil today has made it easier for a geologist to find people interested in joining in a deal for oil production, Anderson commented.

"The greatest frustration in the oil business at the time," said Anderson, "is trying not to run afoul of some of the federal regulations."

Ferguson leaves Phillips company

MARCH 6, 1949 — Onas Ferguson has resigned as head of the geological drafting department of Phillips Petroleum Co. to become an independent oil operator. He had served at that post three and one-half years.

Before going with Phillips, Ferguson was head of the land and geological drafting department for The Atlantic Refining Co.

During the war, he was with the U. S. Engineers, having gone to that connection from the geological department of Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. He joined Stanolind in 1937. Prior to that time, he was with The Texas Co. in the production engineering department at Wichita Falls.

He has been in Midland 12 years and plans to remain here, operating independently in West Texas. He has established an office at his home, 1411 West Tennessee St.

The Petroleum Industry
A Symbol Of West Texas.

The petroleum industry was born about a year before the Civil War... and came about because the American people wanted a source of artificial light that was bright, economical and in good supply. The demand for petroleum products grew and the business spread. Wildcatters began to look for oil in new territories, ignoring risks and hardships. Exploration was highly venturesome and the odds were three hundred to one against bringing in a well which might pay out. But oilmen were highly ingenious, thick skinned and determined. They did not surrender to pressures or setbacks. With their robust appearance and earthy speech, the oilmen took pride in performing dangerous tasks. Oil fever was contagious. Landowners learned what the word royalty meant... and fortunes were made and lost quickly. The oil development in the 1920's in the Permian Basin led to a prosperity the area still enjoys.

Estes got early start as surveyor

By Susan Toth
Staff Writer

R.A. Estes came to the oil business honestly.

More correctly, the oil business came to him.

A native of West Texas, Estes helped his father in his surveying business long before the oil business had come to the area.

He started as an after-school and summer-time helper before he was 10, Estes noted, and was ready to stay busy when the new oil men moved in in 1926.

He helped his father survey the township of Crane, he said, a two- to three-month job to turn a blank piece of prairie into a future town.

"You have to have a corner stake for every block, lot and street," he noted. "It takes a truckload or more of wooden stakes" to lay out a town-site.

THE SURVEYING crew generally camped out at the site until the work was done, even when working on ranches only 10 or 15 miles from town.

"We worked from daylight to sundown," Estes noted. "I don't think you could get anyone to work like that now."

His first job after graduating from Texas Western College (now The University of Texas at El Paso) with a degree in mining engineering was as an assessor for a silver mine in Mogollon, N.M.

The operation — an old mine reopened when silver went up to 75 cents an ounce — closed after about a year, and he returned to West Texas to begin working for Humble Oil and Refining Co. in 1935.

His next 34 years were spent in the civil engineering department of the future Exxon Corp.

IN THAT capacity, he was responsible for construction and laying out camp sites near major drilling sites.

The camps were a mini-society all their own, with fairly strict social structures.

A worker's status could be measured by the size of his house, Estes noted. The superintendent had a six-room house, a pumper had four rooms, and so forth.

The "poor boy camps" were areas set aside to let the roustabouts build their own homes.

During his years in the area, Estes watched the oil business fluctuate from boom to bust and back again.

THE BOOM started in the late 20s, he noted, but floundered when the East Texas fields came in and flooded the market. With oil down to 10 cents a barrel, the West Texas industry subsided, then made a rebound in the 30s and 40s. With the Spraberry boom in the 50s, growth really started in the Midland area.

During that time, Estes served four years on the City Council when the major project was "acquiring an adequate water supply." The Paul Davis water field acquired at that time "was a big boost to the water supply here, he noted.

Estes, who said he's "enjoyed seeing Midland grow and prosper" has helped with that project, serving first on the City Council, later as a member and chairman of the board of High Sky Girls Ranch, a member of the library board and the building committee for First Christian Church during their major construction period.

Since his retirement — he spent four years after leaving Humble with the state in the Occupational Safety division — Estes has stayed busy.

He has completed a number of projects around his home, including building a pottery studio where he works with clays.

HE AND HIS wife, Gretchen, have taken trips with the Smithsonian Institution to such places as Africa and England. And there is a morning coffee meeting with other retired employees of Humble "to talk about each other and current events," he noted.

A long-time observer of the West Texas oil scene, Estes is optimistic about the future of the business here.

While he sees no new major oil finds in the future, advancing technology, he said, should make oil a continuing product in West Texas.

Experts estimate that when an old field is completely depleted, there is as much oil left in the formation as has been recovered.

With a 50 percent recovery rate the best present technology can do, he said, "I don't think any recession they're predicting will have an effect here."

R.A. Estes, a former long-time employee of Humble Oil Co., keeps busy now working on pottery in the studio he constructed behind his home, fix-up projects around the house and traveling with his wife, Gretchen. A native of West Texas, he sees bright prospects for the future of the business. (Staff Photo)

Amerada reports Devonian strike in Southeast New Mexico county

APRIL 2, 1949 — Once again the Devonian has made oil in unproven territory of Southeast New Mexico.

In extreme Central-East-Lea County, approximately 10 miles east of the Lovington field, Amerada Petroleum Corp. has shown strong discovery indications with its No. 1 Hamilton, deep wildcat.

This prospector drillstem tested the Devonian for four hours at 12,455 to 473 feet, recovering 3,414 feet of clean oil and 2,000 feet of water blanket.

Gravity of the petroleum is 45.2 degrees. There was a small amount of gas and no water.

Operator drilled ahead to 12,488 feet, set a packer at 12,472 feet and one last report was running another drillstem test.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 35-16-38e.

Tentative top of the Devonian was called at 12,455 feet. Recent discoveries such as this are leading observers to believe the Devonian is the most prolific oil formation in the area.

Deep Rock opens division office

FEB 6, 1949 — Deep Rock Oil Corp. has opened a division office in Midland. It is at 105 Wilkinson-Egster Building.

F. E. Melott is division manager and geologist. Phillip R. Grant is division landman and Alma Shepperd is office secretary.

The office will supervise Deep Rock's operations in West Texas and New Mexico, and also in north and West Central Texas.

Firm adds to staff

MAY 8, 1949 - The Texas Company has announced the addition of three geologists to the Midland District office staff.

A. P. McConnell Jr. has been transferred to Midland from the Texaco office in the San Juan Basin area.

The company has producing leases in the wason field in Yoakum County and in the Foster field in Ector County.

The concern owns undeveloped acreage in several other Permian Basin counties. It is understood that it will shortly start trying to acquire more properties in the region.

The office now located in Midland was moved here from Wichita Falls. The company will not maintain any organization in that city.

Pool committee officers elected

MAY 1, 1949 — It has been announced that a Benedum field engineering committee has been formed and officers have been elected.

Its membership consists of representatives of several operators in the Permian Basin, and its purpose is to "obtain, coordinate and report factual data pertinent to Benedum field oil and gas reserves."

Officers of the committee are Gilbert C. Thompson, with the Slick-Urschel Oil Co., chairman; Malcolm Abel, with Plymouth Oil Co., vice chairman, and Joe Graybell, with Humble Oil and Refining Co., secretary-treasurer.

Year begins with slash

HOUSTON, JAN. 2, 1949 (AP) — The oil industry began the new year by cutting crude oil production.

Reduced allowances became effective Saturday in Texas and Kansas where conservation-minded state officials say there is no further need for record-breaking production.

The Federal Bureau of Mines last week gave support to the curtailment order by reminding the industry no further increase in stocks of either crude or refined products is necessary to fulfill demand.

Present stocks, the bureau reported, are sufficient to meet peacetime emergencies despite an anticipated six percent increase in demand for petroleum and petroleum products during 1949.

The Texas Railroad Commission cut the state's January crude production allowable by 250,985 barrels daily.

Last Tuesday, the Kansas Corporation Commission placed January's daily allowable at 295,000.

On December 25, Texas had a daily production average of 2,515,700 barrels, Kansas 306,400.

"It is now clearly apparent there will be no petroleum products shortage this winter," said Chairman Jeff Robertson in announcing the Kansas Commission's action.

Domestic crude production for the week ended December 25 averaged 5,640,750 barrels daily, an increase of 355,310 over the week ended December 27 last year.

Of the 22 states listed in the American Petroleum Institute's weekly report, only four — Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan and Nebraska — were producing less crude on December 25 than a year earlier.

Sixteen states showed daily average increases ranging from 10 barrels in Virginia to 171,000 in Texas.

The big four of crude production — Texas, California, Louisiana and Oklahoma — had the largest increases.

With Texas out in front with its 171,000, Louisiana followed with an increase of 42,600, Oklahoma 39,000 and California 31,200.

Proud To Join In This Salute To The Progress Of The Permian Basin

Although retired for several years, Alex Clarke Jr. keeps up with current happenings in the oil business. He got his start in the oil business at Bradford, Pa. (Staff Photo)

Alex Clarke Jr. started his long petroleum industry career in East Coast oil regions

By Lana Cunningham Staff Writer

Alex Clarke Jr. grew up in the oil patch, but not in West Texas.

It was in Bradford, Pa., — an oil center on the East Coast — where he got his first insight into the business. And his father, an electrical engineer by study and a petroleum engineer by practice, led the way for Clarke.

After spending all of his working years in the oil patch in the Southwest, Clarke today is retired from Amoco and resides in Midland — a city where he finally settled down in 1966.

Clarke got his degree from Texas A&M University and stayed in Texas because he likes the state. During his tenure in the business, the engineer said he has seen numerous changes in the petroleum industry.

About 35 years ago, "all emphasis in the Permian Basin was on primary production. The biggest change has been from primary recovery operations to secondary recovery," he said.

THE WORLD OF THE PER-

roleum industry has "exploded and continues to explode" with changes, he noted. These changes include drilling production methods, refining and even the addition of computers.

"The equipment today is much more efficient and requires much less labor," Clarke said.

"Thirty years ago we had a capability of drilling to a maximum of 8,000 feet. Today, we routinely drill to 25,000 feet, and we have the technology to drill much deeper than that."

In the early days of the oil boom, West Texas was recognizable for the many derricks dotting the countryside. After drilling the well, these staturesque-like contraptions were left in place to service the well.

"This is no more, said Clarke. After a well starts producing, there are mobile service units with masts for down-hole service work, he said.

"DRILLING IS SO much faster than it once was," the engineer recalled. "I can remember it taking us 160 days to drill a discovery well in Andrews County field.

Subsequently completed wells would take as little as 50 days."

And shallow wells that once required several weeks to complete now can be done in a week, he added.

Communication has been one of the areas of biggest change, Clarke said. "Today, we practically have instant communication between any of quite a few points in the country. A large company can operate efficiently from Houston. Whereas, years ago you had to have a camp of supervisors and experts on the ground to operate things properly."

During the early years, towns popped up all over the desert-like wasteland. Clarke said many towns were like Wink that were bustling cities at one time and today are "no more than a wide place in the road."

A few towns like Midland, Odessa and Hobbs, N.M., survived the boom to continue growing, he noted.

BECAUSE THERE was no housing in these small towns, the oil companies built for their employees and families houses in clumps and often located far from town, but near the work, Clarke said. Because there wasn't much of a road system in West Texas during those days, the camps had to be close to the job, he added.

He lived in several camps during the early part of his career. Some camps ranged in size from a single house to 50 homes. "The companies started doing away with the camps in the late 40s and early 50s. Very few exist today," he pointed out.

"Oilfield people tended to work hard and play hard," he said. For the first 15 years of his association with Amoco, Clarke said he worked seven days a week every week.

Recalling the bustling town of Wink in the early days, Clarke said the town had oilfield supply stores, repair shops, boarding houses and, I imagine, even a few houses of ill repute.

MIDLAND SEEMS to be busier today than it has ever been, Clarke remarked.

"It's always been a busy city with people running around with maps, making deals. More and more professionals are in the oil business today."

And the petroleum engineer theorized the activity won't slow down any time soon. There is still about 60 percent of the potential oil still in the ground to be taken out by tertiary methods, he said.

"I've always thought this area had great potential."

Veteran Midland oilman says space-age technology has taken over in hunt for oil

For years petroleum geologists in the Permian Basin relied on relatively primitive methods for finding oil and gas deposits beneath the West Texas sands.

No more. Space-age technology truly has come into use in the oil industry during the past two or three years, according to Midland independent oil man and geologist Jerry H. Bartley.

Manager named

MARCH 20, 1949 — B. R. (Bruno) Schabarum is the new general manager of Carl B. King Drilling Co. and C. J. (Dutch) Jenson is the new general drilling superintendent of the same organization.

J. E. (Ed) Warren, president of the company, had handled the duties of general manager until recently, he continues as president, but is relinquishing some of the executive detail on operations.

Warren is also a member of the firm of King, Warren & Dye, independent oil operators, and of Warren & Farris, consulting petroleum engineers.

Schabarum has been manager of engineering and equipment for Carl B. King Drilling Co. and Jenson has been a drilling superintendent.

used in the search for oil and gas is in the form of "remote sensing" photographs taken by an earth-orbiting satellite, Bartley said.

The photographic images transmitted to earth are viewed by geologists, Bartley indicated, who can discern areas which might prove fruitful to oil and gas production.

These areas can then be drilled in the search for oil and gas.

The process is not fool proof. It's "just another tool" for the geologist to use in selecting areas likely to produce oil and gas.

And the tool is a lot different than what petroleum geologists worked with in the 1930s and 1940s, Bartley noted.

Not much information was available to the geologist back then, he acknowledged, and geologists kind of located oil by the "seat of their pants."

Today a lot of information is available and technology has changed the way geologists work. But not all the advancements have necessarily been good, Bartley, 66, believes.

"There's been less technology developed that's useful in the hands of the geologist," he noted.

Too many geologists today, Bartley opined, fail to look at drilling samples in the quest for oil. A lot can be learned by a geologist who takes the time to look at a drilling sample and to smell it and taste it, he said.

Bartley also speculated that the future will bring increased marginal well production in West Texas because of the price of oil. Marginal wells used to be abandoned because they produced so little oil they were not economical.

Today those wells are economical, he said, because of increases in the price of oil.

Another common complaint aired by Bartley and other oil men is that the federal government welds too much control over the oil industry.

"If we can get the government off our back we can do a lot better job," Bartley commented.

After receiving his bachelor of science degree in geology from the University of Texas, Bartley was employed by the U.S. Geological Survey in 1937-38.

He came to Midland July 2, 1938, and was employed by Texas University Lands until 1949. Since that time he has been an independent oil man and geologist.

Bartley and his wife, Bernice, reside at 1705 W. Illinois Ave. They have three children, Bruce of Denver, Colo., Steve of Green Mountain Falls, Colo., and Ann Hogan of Eugene, Ore.

Ranger lured Red Drew

T.P. "Red" Drew read about the Ranger oil boom in his native Georgia in the late 1920s and came to Texas looking for a job in the oil fields.

He started with the Texas Company — now Texaco — in the Breckinridge warehousing and materials department.

He transferred to the production end of the business, starting out as a roustabout and derrick man in 1926 and worked his way up to district superintendent over drilling and production operations in the Permian Basin area of West Texas and New Mexico before his retirement in 1965.

On his way up, Drew served in almost every production capacity in some of the major drilling sites in West Texas.

He was promoted in 1929 to foreman over Crane and Upton counties.

In 1935, Drew moved up to production foreman over field operations for Crane, McCamey, Ector and Ward counties before serving as field foreman in the Slaughter Fields near Sundown in 1940.

After extensive drilling and development progress in that area, he became assistant district superintendent in the Pampa district in 1947.

The next year, he moved to Milden where he served as district superintendent over the drilling and production operations in the Permian Basin area.

Even retirement, however, could not idle Drew.

Since then he has been employed part time with oil field specialty companies, for the past seven years with Diamond Oil Well Drilling Company.

While engaged in his busy career, Drew found time to marry the former Faye Skinner in 1932 in Crane. They have a son, Harold, who is carrying on the family tradition working for a major oil company in this area.

Since he is working only part time now, Drew has time for a number of hobbies, including fishing. An avid baseball fan, he also attends all the Midland Cubs baseball games he can and enjoys watching both baseball and football games on television.

"I am a fan of the Dallas Cowboys," he noted, a popular avocation in this area.

Drew is a director of the Permian Basin Oil Show, and he is a member of the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers.

While there have been many changes in the oil field since he watched the business begin in the 1920s, Drew said, the biggest has been in the amount of government regulation hindering the business.

"When I started, you could produce all the oil you could make," Drew noted. "At the time I retired, we were being allowed to produce on a prorated basis about eight to 10 days allowable per month."

Amoco making huge investment in crude recovery

CHICAGO, Ill. — Amoco Production Co.'s $1.5 billion proposal to inject carbon dioxide into aging Permian Basin fields to recover millions of barrels of oil represents one of the best near-term contributions to solving the energy shortage, according to Amoco President George H. Galloway.

Whether the enhanced oil recovery project proceeds in the vast complex of oil fields straddling the Texas-New Mexico border will depend on results of field tests. If the tests — costing nearly $50 million and scheduled for completion over the next few years — are favorable, some full scale projects to begin producing the otherwise unrecoverable oil could start as early as mid-1984.

"This is a pioneering effort that will require huge initial investments with extremely high operating costs over the 40 to 50 years of the project's life," Galloway said. "While the growing emphasis on synthetic fuels and alternative energy sources is long overdue, projects such as this one illustrate that oil is still the most practical answer to our near-term energy problems."

Studies by Amoco and other companies show that carbon dioxide (CO2) acts as a solvent that overcomes the forces that trap oil in rock pores. This simple gas may help recover a significant share of the approximately 60 percent of oil still beyond the reach of conventional production techniques. How much additional oil will be produced with CO2 injection is a question that will be answered with more accuracy, Galloway said, when Amoco's field tests are more advanced.

"We believe that injecting CO2 into oil reservoirs will increase the recovery of oil," he said. "The total project will take a tremendous capital outlay to develop a CO2 source and to operate enhanced oil recovery projects."

He said the CO2 project represents a 15-year investment in research and development. Galloway pointed out that while synthetic fuels and alternative energy sources are long-term solutions to curbing our dependence on foreign oil, expanding the conventional domestic oil and gas supplies is "the only practical alternative to meet our energy needs in the years immediately ahead."

Despite the economic uncertainties of the project, Amoco is taking steps to develop a source of CO2 in northeast New Mexico. Amoco holds leases on more than 65 percent of the approximately 1.2 million acres in an area called Bravo Dome.

Amoco has drilled more than 30 wells in the three-county Bravo Dome area and estimates that about eight trillion cubic feet of nearly pure CO2 may be recoverable. A 20-well research drilling program currently is underway to further evaluate the field's potential and how best to produce it. Galloway estimated that 1,000 wells could be required to produce CO2.

Interior makes sweeping attack on oil industry

WASHINGTON, MAY 1, 1949 — The need for government regulation of prices for crude oil and products as a permanent, peacetime measure is suggested in a sweeping attack against the oil industry prepared by the Interior Department's program division.

The heart of this new, secret analysis is an accusation that the industry cannot be trusted to set prices that are fair to the public. As a result, says the all-out attack the government should be suspicious of the prices and profits of the industry in past years.

At another point, the broadside attack finds fault with what it called lack of consumer protection against unregulated prices for oil and oil products.

It is critical of "growing concentration" and "monopolistic tendencies," pipeline ownership by major companies, and exclusive dealing at service stations.

It says that complaints of independent oilmen should receive more and sympathetic attention in Washington.

The document blurts that state proration laws leave something to be desired, and suggests a check-up of how they are operating. The drafters recall that proration has been called a price-fixing device.

It suggests end use control in natural gas.

The document was drafted as a proposed commentary by Interior Secretary J. A. Krug on the national oil policy report of the National Petroleum Council.

The new document calls the policy statement an effort to preserve the status quo, says it stresses policies of interest to the major companies, and give only token attention to blocking monopoly within the industry.

While the report has been kept secret, it has touched off a sharp dispute within the Interior Department.

Thus, Robert Friedman, acting director of the Oil and Gas Division, know nothing about the paper until it was completed. He felt he should have been in on it from the beginning, and angrily protested to Krug.

The weight given the report by Interior officials is disputed. Krug, in his first statement about the industry's National Oil Policy report of three months ago seems to reject the price control idea at this time.

Speaking April 28 at the Eastern Division meeting of the American Petroleum Institute, Pittsburgh, he gave this statement.

"The Interior Department is in agreement with the council on such points as the operation of price in a free market, the desirability and necessity for tax provisions designed to fit the peculiarities of oil exploration and production, the maintenance of favorable conditions for capital formation, and the participation of United States nationals in development of world oil resources.

"It disagrees with the council on the proper agency to foster and control exploration and development of the petroleum resources in the submerged lands, on the need for developing synthetic liquid fuels and on several other points."

He commended the council's stand on secondary recovery, unit operation and optimum-rate production.

J. House re-elected

JAN. 30, 1949 — John W. House, West Texas-New Mexico Division superintendent of the Humble Oil and Refining Company, was re-elected president of the Petroleum Club of Midland for 1949.

House, former president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, was among the founders of the Petroleum Club which opened its new club house last October.

Other officers also were re-elected, including Robert S. Brennan, Jr., vice president, and J. P. (Bum) Gibbins, secretary-treasurer. Dan Hudson was re-elected manager.

At another point, the secretary warned against too severe cut-backs, which might lead to a shortage and high prices. He said:

"In conformance with this policy of assuring ample supplies at reasonable prices to consumers, it is the hope of the federal government that both the industry and the state regulatory commissions will avoid not only wasteful production practices but also over-corrective steps that unduly restrict normal supply."

"Over-correction, by reducing allowable production far below the maximum efficient rate, raises the danger that artificial shortages could develop. While the public and others industries and government cooperated wholeheartedly in meeting the oil shortage due to the excess of demand over supply, they would bitterly resent any shortage which was due to an artificial reduction of supply below demand, whether unfounded or unintended. The policy statement indicates opposition of the industry to such a development."

Hughes appoints two executives

JAN. 9, 1949 — Appointment of two men in executive positions in the Midland office of Hughes Tool Co. has been announced by R. E. Kimsey, regional manager for the concern.

Max B. Campbell is the new division sales manager for the division which covers West Texas, New Mexico, North Texas, the Texas Panhandle and West Central Texas.

W. C. (Clyde) McMahan is the new office manager in the regional headquarters.

Campbell succeeds the late Harry S. Rupel as division sales manager. He comes from an assignment in Dallas where he has been doing special sales for the company for about two and one-half years. Prior to going to Dallas, he did sales work in the Permian Basin.

McMahan came from Hughes general offices at Houston where he was assistant office manager in the general sales department.

C. P. Bristol 'interned' as roughneck

C. P. Bristol's pioneer days in the "oil patch" began like that of many: on the drilling rig.

He "interned" as a roughneck in 1927 for Roxana Petroleum Co. And more than four decades later, he retired as vice president for exploration and production for Shell Oil Co.

But if it were not for the influence of his brother, Bristol might have ended up as an architect designing skyscrapers and other buildings, including many "built by oil."

"My brother (W.E. Bristol) was in the oil business," recalled Bristol, "and he told me it was a real good thing to get in to."

"I wanted to study architecture, but he said they (architects) were a dime a dozen, and they were starving to death."

So, Bristol enrolled at the University of Oklahoma, worked in the oil fields during the summers of 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1930 and received the B.S. degree in petroleum engineering in 1930.

"I roughnecked the first summer

(near St. Jo in North Texas), and I was sent to McCamey in '28 doing field engineering work and was sent back in '29 doing the same thing.

McCamey was booming when Bristol, now 71, first went there. "Everybody worked seven days a week from 7 in the morning 'til you got through," he recalled.

Oil gushed in West Texas. "They were flowing," he said of the wells. "They (drillers) gutted them."

Buy many oil producers volunteered to hold production down to 100 barrels a day because the surplus of oil was causing the per barrel price of petroleum to drop.

"Some of them wells would probably flow 100,000 barrels a day," he said.

In the 1930s, Bristol did field engineering work in New Mexico and far West Texas, around Wink, and then at Kilgore in the big East Texas field.

The excess flow of oil caused the prices to drop to 10 cents a barrel, but the oil men needed the scarce money.

The nation was amid the Great Depression.

"Hell, it was the crookedest thing you've ever seen," said Bristol. Those were the days of "hot oil."

"They had oil running out their ears, and oil got down to 10 cents a barrel."

"Remember," said Bristol, "that was during the Depression, and money was hard to come by."

Even at a dime a barrel, a thousand barrels would gross the producer $100.

Bristol left the booming East Texas field in 1933 and was assigned to do engineering work along the Gulf Coast from Louisiana to Old Mexico.

By 1937, he was named a Shell district superintendent in the swamps of Black Bayou, La. "That was swamps out there, and our only transportation was on tugs, boats and barges."

In 1939, Bristol was doing district superintendent work in New Mexico and in the Wascon (Denver City) field. "That's a helluva big field," he recalled.

With the out-break of World War II, Bristol was transferred to Kilgore in East Texas. He was named division manager over East Texas, Arkansas and Northern Louisiana.

In 1947, he was transferred to Houston as chief engineer over Shell's operations in East Texas, the Gulf Coast and Arkansas.

He was made production manager in 1950, and in 1951, he was named production manager over the Mid-Continent (Tulsa) Area.

Bristol became a Shell vice president in 1953, and was transferred to Midland in 1958 to head up exploration and production in the Midland Area. From 1962 to 1964, he took on the added responsibility of heading up the Gulf Coast Area.

Bristol retired in Midland 1968. "Yeah Boy," he said, it (oil industry) has sure been good to me.

"You get satisfaction in, of course, finding new fields and (solving) problems you face in developing fields."

Commission orders slash in production

MARCH 15, 1949 — SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The State Railroad Commission Tuesday ordered that crude oil production in Texas be reduced in April by 234,211 barrels a day.

The commission signed an order designed to produce 1,994,360 barrels of crude daily during the 30-day month of April. All fields were placed on a 19-day production basis except East Texas which will operate on 17 days.

This allowable compares with 2,228,571 barrels daily as of March 12.

During March, the statewide schedule was 23 production days, with the East Texas field 19 days.

It is the fourth consecutive cut to be ordered by the commission at its monthly statewide proration hearings.

January production was slashed 250,000 barrels daily, February 66,000 barrels and March 200,000.

The April order was released by the commission shortly after operators and curde purchases from throughout the state had asked for further reductions in view of surplus stocks and declines in demand.

Unexpectedly, there were few requests that the April cut be concentrated on the vast West Texas area instead of on an across-the-board basis for all fields.

There were few requests Tuesday other than for a general, statewide reduction. A long parade of operators and purchasers commended the commission for its efforts in behalf of conservation and urged continuation of the across-the-board method of reducing production to market demand.

The commission approved a request from operators of the West Texas Howard-Glasscock field that the field be exempted from shutdown days because of water conditions incident to the production of oil.

April's natural gasoline and distillate production was estimated at 255,277 barrels daily, bringing to 2,249,637 barrels the daily allowable for all liquid petroleum hydrocarbons.

Each of the 10 Railroad Commission districts is affected by the reduction, ranging from a minus 81,266 barrels daily in District 8 (West Texas) to a minus 32 barrels daily in District 10 (Panhandle). Only a few fields in the Panhandle are affected by the shutdown order.

Kewanee opens office in Midland

MARCH 20, 1949 — Kewanee Oil Co. has established a district geological and land office in Midland.

Charles M. Linehan is district geologist and William O. Halliburton is district landman. Both had been employed by other companies in Midland prior to joining Kewanee.

The Midland geological land office will handle operations of the concern in West and West-Central Texas and in New Mexico.

Kewanee has maintained a district production office at Odessa for several years. A. J. McGown is district production superintendent. The concern has considerable production in this region, including properties in Crane, Ector, Andrews and Eastland counties in Texas and in Lea and Eddy counties in New Mexico.

Kewanee has been in the oil business 78 years. Headquarters are in Philadelphia. The Midland district will work under the Tulsa division. W. H. Ritterbusch is division manager in charge of the geological and land departments.

The new Midland offices are in the basement of the McClintic Building.

Linehan was formerly on the geological staff of The Superior Oil Co.'s Midland office. He had been with the concern 1 1/2 years. Prior to that connection, he had been in the geological department of Standard Oil Co. of Texas 11 1/2 years.

Halliburton left a job in the land department of Standard of Texas in Midland to take the position with Kewanee.

Mrs. Edelle Daily is to be office secretary in the new Kewanee office. She formerly was with Superior Oil Co., and other oil firms in Midland.

Ryan heads Shell

MARCH 17, 1949 — B. L. Ryan will become manager for Shell Oil Company, Inc., in the Midland area of West Texas and New Mexico Sunday.

He will succeed Bouwe Dykstra, who is being transferred to New Orleans as area manager for the company in Louisiana, Mississippi, and other Southeast states.

At New Orleans, Dykstra will succeed E. G. Robinson, who has been appointed vice president of Shell Oil Co. of Canada, Ltd., in charge of exploration and production.

Ryan, the new Midland area manager, joined Shell in 1920. In 1924 he became land superintendent at Dallas, and in 1933 was named land manager for the Gulf region.

He was appointed regional land manager at Houston in 1947. In that position he coordinated all Shell's land activities throughout the Southwest, including those of the Midland area.

Dykstra has been manager of Shell's Midland area since it was organized in 1946. He has been in charge of all the company's exploration and production activities in West Texas and New Mexico.

He first was employed by the company in 1926. During the early 30s he held various production positions on the Gulf Coast.

Slaughter gasoline plant opens

SUNDOWN, MAY 15, 1949 — The Slaughter gasoline plant — a major gas conservation project on the plains of West Texas — was opened formally Saturday.

Designed and built to help conserve the resources of Texas, the plant will process casinghead gas from the Slaughter oil field. Formerly this gas was flared because there was no use for it in West Texas.

The plant will extract butane, propane and natural gasoline from the gas, and these products and the "dry" gas then will be sold for commercial use. Slaughter plant employs more than 100 men whose annual payroll is well over $350,000.

More than 1,500 guests attended Saturday's dedication ceremonies and barbecue at the plant site, four and one-half miles west of Sundown. They included employees and executives of oil companies operating in the Slaughter field, state officials and civic leaders from the area.

William J. Murray Jr. of Austin, chairman of the Railroad Commission of Texas, was the speaker at the brief opening ceremonies. Also present were Ernest O. Thompson and Olin Culberson, also of Austin and members of the Railroad Commission. H.D. Herndon, president of Saltmount Oil Company, served as master of ceremonies.

Following the barbecue — served by members of the Lubbock and Sundown Lions clubs — the plant was opened to the guests for inspection. Guides showed visitors around the 80-acre plant site and explained the workings of the huge plant.

Owned jointly by eight participating companies, the Slaughter plant will be operated by Stanolind Oil & Gas Company.

Other owners include The Texas Company, Honolulu Oil Corp., Magnolia Petroleum Company, The Devonian Company, Atlantic Refining Company, Saltmount, and Mid-Continent Petroleum Corp.

The plant is in the center of the Slaughter field, in the southwest corner of Hockley County. The field also extends into Cochran and Terry Counties. Nearly 2,000 wells — covering an area of 180 square miles — are connected to the plant.

The Slaughter plant can process 90 million cubic feet of casinghead gas daily, although the field gathering system is designed for an ultimate volume of 120 million cubic feet by the installation of additional processing equipment.

High price check to be 'humdinger'

WASHINGTON, D.C., MAY 15, 1949 (AP) — If plans go as scheduled, the inquiry into "high prices" for gasoline by Sen. Burnet R. Maybank, D-SC, will be a humdinger.

The chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee frankly says "this will be a big investigation and a thorough one" because the price of gasoline is important.

Armed with $60,000 in spending money for this and other purposes just voted, the senator is building a staff to conduct the inquiry. He says:

"With farm incomes coming down and other prices coming down, I can't see why gasoline prices should be going up. Gasoline is quite a factor in the cost of operating a farm."

He referred to a recent price increase of one-half a cent a gallon by three major companies. The South Carolina senator called the boost "unwarranted and unjustified with the oil surplus we have today and in light of the big profits of the big oil companies."

The American Automobile Association, which recently protested the high price of gasoline, is urging the senator on with the price study.

The committee has no power over prices, but a public hearing tends to put the brakes on price hikes.

While Senator Maybank rarely has been unfriendly toward the oil industry, automobile associations are spurring him on toward an investigation. Further, there has been more than one request to the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission to look into gasoline prices.

A. Donnelly elected Honolulu vice president

MAY 29, 1949 — Alden S. Donnelly of Midland, was elected a vice president and a member of the board of directors of Honolulu Oil Corp. at the recent annual meeting of the stockholders of the concern held in San Francisco.

He has been general superintendent of Honolulu's Mid-Continent Division for several years, and will now be manager of operations for the division.

Donnelly has been with Honolulu more than 20 years. After finishing elementary and high schools in Denver, Colo., he attended the Colorado School of Mines, and was graduated from that institution with a degree in Geological Engineering in May 1928. He majored in Petroleum Geology and minored in Petroleum Engineering.

He was employed as a plane table instrument man on surface geology, and later as a surface geologist, for a few months in Colorado, Wyoming and Western Canada, and for a few months between the time of his graduation and his coming to Midland in September 1928 as assistant surface and subsurface geologist on work for Honolulu.

He has been employed as a geologist, scout, development geologist, division engineer, and general superintendent successively since 1928. During all that time, he has been located at the Honolulu's Mid-Continent division headquarters in Midland.

Donnelly is a registered professional engineer in Texas. He is a member of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, American Petroleum Institute, Independent Petroleum Association of America and a fellow in the Geological Society of America.

Sun holds meetings

MAY 23, 1949 — Representatives of the geological, production and land departments of Sun Oil Company from various offices of the concern in the West Texas-New Mexico area held conferences in Midland last week.

Each of the groups held separate meetings, and on Friday all of them combined for a joint session.

Executives of the company from headquarters at Philadelphia, Pa., and from the regional office at Dallas, attended the meetings and participated in the discussions.

C.M. Chase, manager of the Midland District land department; W.H. Conkling, district geologist, and J.B. Hamilton, superintendent of the Midland production department, were host for the gathering.

Humphrey new landman

MAY 15, 1949 — C. B. (Bob) Humphrey is a new landman with Ralph Lowe, Midland independent oil operator, and with other concerns affiliated with the Lowe organization.

In his new job, Humphrey will work with W. C. Mitchell, head of the Lowe land and lease department.

Humphrey resigned as district landman, Barnsdall Oil Company at Lake Charles, La., to come to Midland.

RRC reports 156 oil wells

AUSTIN (AP), MAY 8, 1949 — The Railroad Commission reported Saturday that 156 oil and 14 gas wells were completed last week in Texas. Eighty-eight dry holes were drilled.

Last week's completions brought the state totals so far this year to 2,985 oil wells and 1,389 gas wells.

Berte R. Haigh — Cobwebbs Cloud Memory

Berte R. Haigh remembers how it was

By Richard Mason
Staff Writer

They bounced along in Model Ts or old Dodges, wearing heavy black boots and carrying a rock hammer. And with a plane table, alidade and stadia rod — the mark of surveyors — geologists combed the Permian Basin in the early 1920s seeking the character of underground rock formations in a search for oil.

Today, seismic and electrical mapping techniques are used.

And today, the average depth for oil wells exceeds even the deepest wells drilled 50 years ago.

There has been a lot of change in the oil industry in the 53 years Berte R. Haigh, the former geologist in charge for Texas University Lands, has spent participating and observing the business.

WELL PRODUCTION has soared over what it was formerly, though many geologists believe it is still somewhat less than what it could be if prices were right.

And, like everything else these last 50 years, costs of production have soared skyward.

Those three changes characterize the evolution in the business over the last 50 years, Haigh explains.

His comments were recorded in a four page testimonial at the request of the Reporter-Telegram. The 89-year old retired professor still possesses extraordinary insight into the oil industry, its growth and development, and its character over the last five decades.

EVEN WITH the best techniques of science, oil discovery in those early days seemed to occur almost by chance. But it happened often enough and with enough consistency to propel Permian Basin fields into the forefront in oil and gas production.

The result was evident in the growth of West Texas cities. But an equally important by-product, one seldom noticed by the layman, is the wealth of geological and environmental data compiled on West Texas.

The history of the American West, and the recorded history of West Texas, begins with a history of the land's first surveyors.

"Survey crews were seen everywhere in the Permian Basin wherever there were rock exposures that could be identified and measured," Haigh explains. "However, it soon became evident that, because of a lack of such rock exposures over much of the Basin area, the practical applications of surface mapping methods were somewhat limited and substitute or auxiliary methods were adopted."

THE TIME Haigh refers to is the late 1920s and early 1930s. The methods were the torsion balance, which measures relative differences in the specific gravity of underground rock formations, and the magnetometer, an instrument that records slight variations in the magnetic intensities of underground rock.

Neither was the be-all end-all to discovering underground oil. Picture, if you will, the three-to-five-man crews who operated the cumbersome instruments. The equipment was heavy. And it required several hours of observation at each station.

Introduction of the gravity meter in the early 1930s began to change that. Operated by one man, it was fast and easily as accurate as the instruments used before.

Geologists began, too, in the 1930s to use microscopic and acid bottle studies of samples from drill cuttings to determine the character of that underground rock.

"THIS WAS not always a 100 percent cooperative operation for the reason that several of the old time drillers objected to spending the time and trouble required to secure such (well) samples because those damned, boot-wearing geologists had developed some not-so-smart ideas," Haigh recalls.

It was late in the 1930s that well-logging and seismic techniques were perfected to a sufficient level that the presence of oil, gas and water in a reservoir formation could be determined with considerable accuracy.

The 1930s are watershed years for the oil and gas industry, particularly in terms of technological innovation.

"Before the 1930s, the only method of enhancing the production of an oil or gas well was through fracturing the reservoir formation by explosions of nitroglycerine in the well bore opposite such formations," Haigh explains.

"During the middle Thirties, a method was developed to dissolve portions of the limestone reservoirs with hydrochloric acid and thus increase the porosity," Haigh continues.

AVERAGE WELL depths in the 1930s hovered around 3,500 feet, Haigh says.

"A well drilled during that period to a depth of 8,500 feet was real deep,"

Too, it was during the 1930s that cable tool methods of drilling were superseded by the more efficient rotary drilling technique.

Howard Hughes, with a patent for the rotary drill bit, also began to amass his fortune then.

This is not to say that there have been no new technological innovations since. In the 1950s, a method known as "fracturing" was developed in the Sprberry area, Haigh recalls.

FLUIDS UNDER high pressure are injected into a reservoir formation to enhance the porosity of the formation.

But the biggest change in the oil industry is the change in prices.

"The normal cost of drilling an average depth well was, as I recall it, less than $50,000," Haigh says, "and a deep well would cost up-to, some times, as much as $150,000. During the 1970s, these costs have been $200,000 to $300,000 for an average depth well and the deep gas wells have ranged between $2 to $6 million."

Former University Lands head witnessed many years of Permian Basin oil history

By Richard Mason
Staff Writer

Berte R. Haigh confesses that cobwebbs have clouded his memory box these days. The specifics of things seem to slip out of his grasp.

Haigh, a white-haired distinguished professor (retired) with the University-Lands office in Midland, can forget more things than most people will see in an entire life.

Working in the Permian Basin since the late 1920s, he has witnessed firsthand the oil boom and growth that eventually propelled the Permian Basin to its position as contributor of 25 percent of the nation's oil and gas energy.

Haigh, a former marksman, is a folksy fellow. He often peppers his conversation with phrases such as "brass looking down their chins."

"We've seen lots of changes," he says of progress in the oil field since those first cable rigs began battering the barren Basin landscape more than 60 years ago.

Most of those changes, Haigh explains, relate to the technological aspects of oil field work.

"Up until the early '20s a great deal of exploratory geology consisted of surface work," Haigh says, most of it spent surveying lands. By the 1930s, oil field geologists were studying well samples, and looking for correlations between drilling samples to determine whether there were any hopes for production prospects.

Two other changes that remain prominent in the 89-year old veteran geologist's mind are improvements in technology — such as the use of torsion balances and seismological research and the enormous increase over the last 40 years in the costs of drilling for oil.

That's quite a chunk of history for a man who "fell" into his work in the Permian Basin — almost by chance. Haigh was on his way to Mexico to work in the Potosi mines when chance and the telegraph steered him towards employment as a geologist in West Texas.

It was March 4, 1926, when, at the age of 36, Berte Haigh arrived in San Angelo to begin work for Dixie Oil Co. as a geologist.

He had just received a bachelor of science degree in mining engineering from the (then)

Texas College of Mining and Metallurgy (now the University of Texas at El Paso).

Haigh was stationed in Alpine with a landman. In July, he received a call from his alma mater offering him a chance to become a college instructor for three years. He accepted. At the end of those three years, Haigh says, he opted to stay for three more.

Even though he taught school, Haigh spent his summers as a geologist with the University Lands for the University of Texas system. In 1934, he left teaching to become a fulltime geologist with University Lands office, which was located in San Angelo.

In 1937, that office moved to Midland, where it has stayed ever since. Haigh recalls that the office opened in the J.B. Thomas Building downtown, a facility known to some these days as the Leggett Building.

Haigh soon became assistant geologist in charge, a post he held until assuming the top geological position at the University Lands office in 1954. Haigh participated in a program to set up drilling and leasing procedures for oil exploration on the university-owned lands. Those lands eventually produced millions of dollars with which to operate the University of Texas system.

In 1962, Haigh relinquished his post as geologist in charge.

"I was already two years past the compulsory retirement age. It was up to me to give up the throne," he says.

Haigh became a consultant, or parttime historian for the University Lands office, which is where he can be found most days in Midland.

As a consultant, he began work on a history of the University of Texas Permanent Fund Endowment Lands.

"I've been working on that ever since," he says.

Between 1968-73, he cooperated closely with Dr. Samuel D. Myres who was compiling a history of the oil industry in the Permian Basin.

He has been elected to the Permian Basin Oil Hall of Fame and holds a number of titles and certificates.

Haigh said he will learn in the near future whether his history will be published.

Drake got things going 120 years ago

TITUSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Edwin Drake's steam-powered drill bored into an oil pocket 120 years ago, the first trickle of a petroleum gush that greased America's industrial revolution and forever changed the way people live.

That 69-foot hole, completed on Aug. 27, 1859, was the world's first commercial well and proved for the first time that a dependable supply of oil could be obtained by drilling.

Oil fever spread wildly, scarring the northwestern Pennsylvania countryside with hastily built derricks, shacks and boom towns. It was the beginning of the nation's dependence on oil, a dependence ever more apparent amid the current shortages and rising prices.

Today, oil wells owned by Quaker State, Pennzoil and Kendall still tap underground reservoirs for Pennsylvania grade crude — a high-quality oil particularly useful as a lubricant.

"This is still oil country," said Mike Davidson, tourist guide supervisor for the Drake Well Museum, where 40,000 people come annually to see a board-by-board replica of the crude derrick over the original well.

"You can't drive any of the roads without seeing oil wells," added the 29-year-old Davidson, a student of the oil industry.

Pennsylvania annually produces about 3 million barrels of oil, and had proven reserves of 114.4 million barrels at the beginning of 1978, according to Jim Bryner of the Pennsylvania Oil and Gas Association.

"Production is up 25 percent from last year, so the industry is doing very well," said Bryner, an industry spokesman who thinks oil is still the short-term solution to the nation's energy needs.

"We think we can supply the answer for the next 40 years. In the meantime, we ought to be developing alternatives — solar, coal gasification, etc.," he added.

Ironically, oil was the best alternative to the nation's energy problems in the 19th century.

"There was an energy shortage in the 1840s," said Davidson. "The country was just getting into the industrial revolution. Oil proved to be a safe, easily refinable, cheap commodity."

Originally, oil was an unwanted by-product of salt water wells. One salt well in Kentucky produced 1,000 barrels a day of pure crude, a small amount of which was used for medicine. The rest was thrown out.

The bulk of the early oil used commercially was skimmed off rivers like Oil Creek near Titusville, and the technology was already in place to refine it into kerosene or machine lubricants.

With a demand for a machine lubricant and lamp oil growing, there were about 50 companies making oil by distilling coal tar. And the supply of whale oil was drying.

Drake, an idled train conductor and former clerk, solved the energy problem. Actually, no one knew until Aug. 28 that he had struck oil. And that date is now observed as Oil Discovery Day.

No one kept records, but it's estimated the well produced about 10 barrels a day before it dried up a century ago.

Instant communities, like Pithole, sprang up overnight. After the area's most productive well was drilled in early 1865, the town soon swelled to 10,000. Five years later, the oil stopped flowing and Pithole became a ghost town.

It is still remembered as the site of the first oil pipeline, a 5½-mile trench to the nearest railroad.

Because there was a shortage of wooden barrels, oil was often transported in railroad storage cars or poured into open barges. Much of it was spilled, especially on the muddy roads used by oil wagons.

"There was so much oil in the mud that they say it ate the hair off horses legs and bellies," said Davidson.

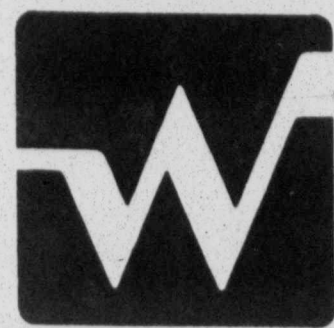

"Or they'd float it down the river in barrels or just poured it into barges pushed downstream by a wall of water. Two-thirds of the oil never made it to market," he added.

Many of the wells thought to be dry actually just lost their natural gas, which forced oil to gush upward. Today, drillers use detergent to wash the oil free from rocks and pump it to the surface.

"I've seen wells literally drilled within inches of each other. This area was pumped out of pressure long before it was pumped out of oil," said Davidson.

"Most of the oil is still here. It could last indefinitely. The problem is getting it out," he added.

Longtime Midland resident Ralph Hickman traces his career in the oil business back to 1926.

He was active in the industry for the next 40 years, until he chose to take early retirement in 1966 from Humble Oil and Refining Corp., now the Exxon Co., U.S.A., and he looks back on his four decades of involvement in the oil business with pride and pleasure.

Like many another oil pioneer, Hickman says he wouldn't have wanted to be in any other business in those exciting, sometimes rough-and-tumble years.

During that 40-year time span, Hickman worked for several oil and gas firms, for Phillips Petroleum and, beginning in 1937, for Humble.

Born and reared in San Angelo, Hickman began working for oil map firms in the mid-1920s and then worked temporarily for Humble when he was fresh out of high school. The company transferred him to McCamey and he worked there for a year or more until resigning in order to attend The University of Texas.

HICKMAN STARTED out studying engineering at UT, then switched to business studies. He also attended San Angelo Junior College, now known as Angelo State University.

After college, during the height of the Depression, Hickman landed a six-month "temporary" job with Phillips. The job lasted seven years and took him to Arkansas. Then, he got the chance to go back to work for Humble in Midland in 1937, and with Humble he remained for the next 29 years.

During his long career with Humble, Hickman was in oil scouting work most of the time, although he also has worked in engineering and geology. "Looking back, I was always pretty happy with scouting work — I always enjoyed the freedom it offered, and the opportunity to see new country and meet lots of new people," he said.

After he went back to work for Humble, Hickman met his future wife, Mary Maude, a native of Waco, who had gone to work for Humble in 1937 as a secretary in the firm's Midland geology offices. She remained with the company until 1947.

DURING THE WAR, Hickman served in the Air Corps in the glider training program. He started his training near Odessa and was transferred to various points in the nation, including Twenty-nine Palms, Calif., and Albuquerque, N.M., before the program was closed down.

Returning to Midland at war's end, Hickman worked in Humble's Midland offices until being transferred to the company's Albuquerque ofices in 1949. Hickman and his wife and son lived in the New Mexico city until 1959, when Hickman was transferred back to the Midland offices.

During his Albuquerque years, Hickman's scouting work took him to the Four Corners area and to other parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado as well. After returning to Midland, Hickman's scouting work encompassed West Texas and much of New Mexico.

Hickman, in recalling the busy years of his oil industry career, reflected that "in those years, I might have had other interests, but I always felt that I had no choice but to put them aside if they interfered with my work. After all, work came first and I always knew that my primary responsibility was to support my family."

Hickman also serves on the local board of the arthritis foundation, and he actively works with VAN, an ongoing program to aid people with sight problems.

He and Mrs. Hickman are active in various outreach programs of their church, the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity. During his Albuquerque years, Hickman served as a member of the Vestry, or governing body, of an Episcopal parish in that city.

The Hickmans have one son, Jack, a talented potter and ceramic artist, who formerly taught art classes at the Trinity School of Midland. He now lives near San Antonio.

New Penn strike seen in Midland

FEB. 20, 1949 — A new pay from the Pennsylvania in West Midland County reached the possibility stage as The Texas Company No. 1 Scharbauer, wildcat one mile south of the Midland Air Terminal, developed oil in small commercial quantities.

After extended testing of the Ellenburger above

13,374 feet, total depth, operator gave up prospects of an oil well in that formation and plugged back into the Strawn lime of the Pennsylvanian. Perforations were shot into the section of pipe at 10,520-635 feet.

Tubing was run to 10,206 feet and the formation opposite the perforations was acidized with 4,000 gallons. Upon swabbing, the venture kicked off and flowed to tanks six hours, producing 90 barrels of fluid.

Breakdown was 62.48 barrels of oil and 27.6 barrels of water. The flow was through a one-half inch choke.

A later five-hour flow ing gauge, however, showed only 3.46 barrels of fluid. It swabbed 79 barrels of fluid in 14 hours, with a shakeout of 33 barrels of water.

Estimated gas volume was 250,000 cubic feet per day. Testing continues.

The possible discovery is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 20, block 10, T-2-S, T&P survey.

James Day one of early WT petroleum geologists

By BILL MODISETT
Staff Writer

When James R. Day came to the Permian Basin in the 1930s, things were a lot different in the oil industry. In the '30s, Day — a petroleum geologist — spent months mapping oilfields in the vast expanse known as West Texas. Such activity was time consuming, physical labor. Roads were primitive, meaning it took more time to get to a location to work than it does today. The terrain itself was a problem, too. In 1931 he spent about two months in a camp east of Tullia mapping a canyon. In those days geologists either rode horses while mapping an oilfield, drove a car where they could or walked, Day said. He did a lot of walking. "That's about the only way you could get around there — by walking or on horseback," Day recalled recently. But that wasn't the only problem facing early-day oil men in the Permian Basin, Day acknowledged. A major problem for a geologist in the oil industry at that time was the lack of information available, Day said. "Nearly all the information that we got was above — say — 5,000 feet," he noted. Deep wells were yet to be drilled. And at that time some counties had only drilled two or three wells. So geologists were kind of groping in the dark in the oil industry here at that time. Fortunately, oil was plentiful in the Permian Basin at that time and fields were developed quickly. As fields were developed, more geological information became available and geologists could more accurately locate drilling sites. Today, information is in abundance. West Texas and the Permian Basin are dotted with literally thousands of drill holes. But with the abundance of information has come another problem. "The bad feature of today is that all the easiest stuff has been picked off," Day noted. That isn't to say there isn't more oil in the Permian Basin, he added. "There's a lot more oil to be found out here, but it's not going to be easy," the 72-year-old independent geologist noted. Most of that additional oil will be found by luck, Day predicted. Surface geology hasn't been real effective in this part of the country, Day noted. The way to find additional oil here is to do a lot of drilling, he said. Day also predicted that some "hidden" oil fields will be located through increased drilling activity. Day is by no means a newcomer to oil field "finds" in this area. He was present when discovery wells were drilled at the Monument, Seminole, Wasson, Means, Barnhart and Todd fields. A 1929 graduate of Texas A&M College, Day worked for Rycade Oil Co. at Houston in 1929 and Amerada & Rycade in San Antonio in 1930-31. In 1933 he moved to San Angelo and began working as a scout and geologist for Amerada Petroleum Corp. He first came to Midland with Amerada in 1935 and although he's done some moving around since that time, he's lived in Midland continuously since 1951. Day, a native of Hereford, became an independent geologist, consultant and oil producer in 1959. He and his wife, Edna, have no children. In 1949 he was president of the Abilene Geological Society and was a charter member of the American Institute of Professional Geologists.

Skelly Oil to open office

MAY 1, 1949 — The Skelly Oil Company will start immediately the construction of a one-story office building at 314 North Big Spring Street here to house its West Texas-New Mexico Division Land and Geological departments.

H. H. Kaderli is manager of the firm's Land and Lease Department, and Allen Ehlers is the district geologist.

The new building will be of fireproof construction, with concrete and steel frame and masonry walls, faced on the exterior with brick and cut stone. It will provide approximately 5,000 square feet of floor space.

The structure is modern in design, combining complete air conditioning for summer and winter.

ter, acoustical treatment in all rooms, and with fluorescent lighting throughout. Floors will be finished in terrazzo and asphalt tile. The interior walls will be finished with plaster.

Plans call for the door frames to be of steel. Flush hardwood floors will be used.

The Davis S. Castle Company, Abilene architectural and engineering firm, planned the building and will supervise its construction.

Von Frellick, Inc., of Midland and San Angelo has been awarded the general construction contract. The Midland Plumbing Company has the plumbing contract, and the Nunn Electric Company of Amarillo will do the heating, cooling and ventilating work.

Loaded with equipment, James Day heads for days work in the Palo Duro Canyon. The picture was taken in 1931.

R. T. German receives Magnolia service award

JAN. 23, 1949 — R.T. German of Midland, division production superintendent for Magnolia Petroleum Company's West Texas division, was presented with a diamond-studded emblem, for 30 years of service with the company, at a dinner in his honor in Dallas, Thursday night.

The dinner was given by A.E. Chester of Dallas, vice president and manager of the producing division of the company. Chester and J.L. Latimer of Dallas, president of the Magnolia companies, spoke during the dinner.

In accepting the award, German revealed that when he was first hired for the company, by the late Charles V.C. Bradley, January 3, 1919 at Olden, Texas, he was promised one day's work. Since then he has been on the payroll of the company continuously. The dinner was attended by 55 executives and supervisory members of the Magnolia headquarters staff.

Of the 30 years German has been with Magnolia, since he went to work at Olden as production foreman, 24 of them have been spent in West Texas.

During that period the Permian Basin has become one of the major oil provinces of the world — which is a far cry from what it was when he first came to this region.

The West Texas producing division of Magnolia, of which German is superintendent and which operates out of headquarters in Midland, extends from Dallas on the east, through to the west lines of New Mexico, and from San Antonio on the south through the Texas Panhandle, and through the north line of the Oklahoma Panhandle and the north line of New Mexico.

District production offices are maintained at Pampa, Electra, Brownfield and Kermit.

After serving one year at Olden, German was moved to Breckenridge, and on November 1, 1924, was made district superintendent there.

Following two years in that job he was transferred to the Beaumont district on the Texas Gulf Coast and put in charge of the company's producing operations in that region.

After one year at Beaumont German was moved to West Texas and made district superintendent of the Crane district, with headquarters at Odessa.

He remained in West Texas until Jan. 1, 1940, when he was promoted to be assistant division supervisor for Texas and New Mexico, with headquarters at Dallas.

Two years later, he was advanced to division superintendent for Texas and New Mexico. In August 1945, when the West Texas division was created which includes all of Northwest Texas and New Mexico, German was moved to Midland and established the division headquarters here.

Firm adds member

MAY 8, 1949 — P. V. Anderson is a new member of the firm of W. D. Anderson & Sons, Midland independent geologists and oil operators.

Other principals in the organization are W. D. Anderson and Paul D. Anderson. Both P.V. and Paul D. are sons of W. D. Anderson.

P. V. Anderson came to Midland from Hattiesburg, Miss., where he was doing geological work for Humble Oil & Refining Company. He recently resigned from that concern.

He had been with Humble in the Texas and Louisiana Gulf Coast areas, and in Mississippi since he secured his degree in Geology from The University of Texas four years ago.

W. D. Anderson is also a member of the firm of W. D. and R. S. Anderson, also consulting geologists and oil operators. That organization, as well as W. D. Anderson and Sons, maintain offices in the same quarters in the Midland Tower.

IGT gets grant from DOE

CHICAGO — The Institute of Gas Technology (IGT) has received a $2.6 million, 20-month contract from the U. S. Department of Energy (DOE) to further define the IGT HYTORT Process for recovering fuel oil or combustible gas from eastern and western U.S. shales by surface retorting with hydrogen.

An IGT spokesman noted that while many of the Devonian shales are potentially as rich as Colorado shales because of their similar levels of organic carbon, Fischer assay tests indicated that only 30-35 percent of the organic carbon was recoverable by conventional retorting, versus 75-80 percent of the organic carbon was recoverable by conventional retorting, versus 75-80 percent in Colorado shale. Experimental work at IGT has shown that oil yields of up to 250 percent of Fischer assay estimates can be obtained from Eastern shale by processing in hydrogen at controlled heating rates, he said.

According to U.S. Geological Survey estimates based on Fischer assay results, total known resources of Devonian oil shale in the eastern U.S. are 100 billion barrels of oil. But under the IGT HYTORT Process the known resources of such shale could yield up to 1,000 billion barrels, the spokesman said.

Oil shale research has been under way at IGT since the 1950's, at first sponsored by the American Gas Association and more recently by the Gas

Research Institute. Following major progress in the small-scale research in the early 1970's, a process development unit (PDU) was constructed that began operation in 1976. The PDU can process one ton of shale per hour.

Finally, California proposed environmental requirements which made it infeasible to build the Long Beach terminal, an integral part of the entire project.

"The efforts to secure the necessary permit to build the terminal had taken longer, when abandoned, than it took to build the entire Trans-Alaskan Pipeline System," said the Professor.

T. C. Frick elected

JAN. 16, 1949 — T. C. (Tom) Frick of Midland, with The Atlantic Refining Company, was elected chairman of the Permian Basin Section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers for 1949 at a meeting held Friday night in the American Legion Hall.

W. N. (Bill) Little, with Tide Water Associated Oil Company, was named vice chairman and J. M. (Jack) Moore, with Dowell, Inc., was chosen secretary-treasurer. Both men are of Midland.

The program included an address by W. V. Linde of Midland, with Phillips Petroleum Company on "Human Engineering" in which he discussed the personality traits and psychological make-up required of men in the engineering profession.

Peterson now in city

JAN. 9, 1949 — L. F. Peterson is a new citizen of Midland. He moved here from Tulsa where he has been assistant chief production engineer in the headquarters offices of Stanolind Oil & Gas Company.

He resigned from Stanolind Jan. 1 and now is connected with W. D. (Dave) Henderson, and J. G. (Guy) McMillian, independent oil operators and producers.

The firm which has been called Henderson & McMillian, has been changed to Henderson, McMillian and Peterson. Offices are in The First National Bank Building.

Peterson was employed by Stanolind 13 years prior to his recent resignation. He worked in the Permian Basin from 1936 to 1941 and had experience in all the fields in Ector County, and in the Slaughter, Cedar Lake, Yates and McCamey areas.

plane skimmed over an array of pump jacks surrounding the serpentine river as Aaron piloted the cloth-skinned, single engine craft to a well site where one of his cable tool drilling rigs was working.

Circling, Aaron checked a lonely windmill to determine wind direction and, cutting back on the plane's throttle, set it down on a tiny strip of caliche near the rig.

The airplane is one of about four planes Aaron has owned.

THE FIRST, an indirect result of the Spraberry boom, was bought in the early fifties when he tired of making a 50 to 60 mile roundtrip south of Midland to check on two cable tool drilling rigs he was operating at the time.

"The roads then were awful," he said, recalling that "there were skads of trucks running — a massive movement of equipment."

"At night to the southeast of Midland there was a big glow from the lights of the 200 to 300 rigs operating there," Aaron said.

A 10-hour trip on dusty caliche roads was cut to a couple of hours when Aaron bought the airplane.

Aaron has another airplane today, but he is still flying out to check on the cable tool rigs he operates in the Permian Basin.

In addition to contracting cable tool rigs, Aaron acts as a kind of drilling broker, subcontracting drilling operations in the area.

BORN IN Pawhuska, Okla., in 1911, Aaron graduated with a B.S. in commerce from Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill.

The years immediately after his graduation were spent working at a variety of jobs.

Aaron returned to Oklahoma and worked in the engineering department of Gulf Oil Company a short time before going back to the northeast to take a job with Sears Roebuck and Company in Chicago, Ill.

Those years were in "the heart of the Depression," said Aaron.

"I was making $15 a week and living at the YMCA," he said.

In 1932 Aaron returned to Oklahoma to work for Phillips Petroleum Company where he met K.S. "Boots" Adams, father of Bud Adams, present day owner of the Houston Oilers football team.

"BOOTS WANTED to start me as a landman, but there were no openings. So I worked with a construction crew building a gasoline plant in Oklahoma City," said Aaron.

One day the foreman of the crew brought Aaron a letter from Adams telling him about a job opening at a bank in Tulsa.

"Boots was looking out for me," Aaron remembered.

The forman was much impressed with the letter from Adams, an upper-level official with Phillips, said Aaron.

When I asked him what he would do, the forman answered, "I'd drop that damn wrench, clean up and go to Tulsa," Aaron said with a laugh.

The bank job lasted a few years before Aaron tired of it and decided to get back into the oil business.

A FRIEND he met at the bank pointed him toward West Texas, Aaron said.

In 1938, Aaron moved to Odessa, then a town of about 8,000 people, he recalled.

Working for an oilfield supply company and making $90 a month, Aaron lived in a room behind the business' supply room.

Rock Glycerin Company, "a nitro outfit I had worked for on week-ends," offered Aaron a job when one of its salesmen quit, he said.

"The job started at $250 per month, plus expenses and a car — I quit the supply company the next day," said Aaron.

Three years of selling and helping the crews shoot wells with nitroglycerin ended with World War II.

WHILE IN New Orleans, La., with the U.S. Navy, Aaron married

Dorothy Woodall, whom he met while working at the bank in Tulsa and "courted by mail."

That was Jan. 1, 1942. Aaron later served aboard an amphibious transport as a disbursing officer during D-Day operations at Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

When he returned to civilian life, Aaron returned to the nitro business, which was quickly folding because "they had figured out how to increase production with hydraulics."

In 1946 a fellow (Owen Shackelford) and I bought some cable tools and began drilling seismic shot holes" scattered over an area "from Pecos to Big Lake," said Aaron.

The two cable tool drillers also managed to get involved in some "top-to-bottom work" as well as remedial work in the Yates field area, said Aaron.

AARON SOLD his share in the cable tool drilling business to his partner in 1950 and got back into the explosives business for a short time in the Four Corner area.

A year later Aaron returned to cable tools, the business he is in today.

"One day I ran into a couple of Phillips people on the street and they wanted to know if I had any cable tools," said Aaron.

They wanted me to "tail-in" behind rotaries at about 7,000 to 8,000 feet, he said.

Drilling in the Spraberry, the idea was to avoid contaminating the formation with drilling mud under hydrastatic pressure by using a cable tool to drill the tail-in, Aaron explained.

"Not very many companies did it that way. Fortunately a few did and it just happens I got in on it," said Aaron.

Superior plans division move

THE WOODLANDS — beauty of Timberloch Superior Oil Co., the nation's largest independent oil and gas producer, will move its Western Division headquarters to The Superior Oil Building, a new five-story office building under construction in The Woodlands, sometime early in 1980.

"This company is joining with the many others who have seen the desirability of working and living in a planned community," said Ed P. Lee, president of The Woodlands Development Corp. "The Superior move will increase the number of employees in The Woodlands to 135 — and brings the labor force to 3,000 full-time jobs," Lee added.

The Western Division of Superior Oil, which is now headquartered in Conroe, is responsible for drilling and production operations in The United States west of the Sabine River. Approximately 240 employees now located at Conroe will be involved in the move to The Woodlands.

Superior Oil joins a growing list of energy-related firms in The Woodlands: Conoco, Exxon Chemical, Resource Drilling, Welltech, Mitchell Energy and Development Corp., and the Texaco Training Center.

"This is the largest lease signed to date in The Woodlands," said John Pogue, The Woodlands Commercial Development Co.'s Director of Office Sales and Leasing. The $4.5 million project is scheduled to be completed in February of 1980.

The exterior of the 81,760 square-foot building will be of energy-efficient bronzed glass, reflecting the forested

Permian Basin pioneers to reflect on bad, good times during early area exploration

Jno. P. Butler — Pioneer President

Many of those hearty men who pioneered petroleum in the Permian Basin from the 1920s onward will be reflecting over the years they explored for, drilled and produced that "black gold."

That time of reflection will be Saturday, Oct. 27, in the annual gathering of the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers.

They will be recalling both "hard" and "good" times in and off the oil patch.

"The old petroleum pioneers," said Jno. P. Butler, a pioneer banker who is president the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers Association, "are having a hard, difficult time realizing that a barrel of oil is now $25 to $30 a barrel. In the early days, it was 10 cents a barrel."

Butler, a banker in Midland since 1927, remembers those early days.

"That was in the Depression days and gas was being flared."

Butler said he expects between 350 and 400 petroleum pioneers at the gathering in the Midland Hilton. U.S. Congressman Kent Hance is to be the featured speaker.

Butler said the program and speaker should be "outstanding."

"And we are prepared to assure everyone of a real, old-timey good time," he said.

Old friendships will be renewed, the "good (and rough) ol' days will be rehashed, and talk of today's energy needs and those in the future likely will be picked over at the meeting.

"It's also hard for people in the oil business to understand why some oil production is still approximately $7 per barrel (instead of $25 to $30) and some of the old gas continues at 50 cents per thousand cubic feet" instead of much higher, which is the trend.

Petroleum production has boomed in the Permian Basin since 1923, when the Santa Rita No. 1 signaled the opening of the first of many of producing oil fields in the Permian Basin.

"In the beginning," Butler said, "the (independent) oil industry pioneer operated under the 'spore boy' rule, which was 'get the well drilled any way you could, and that meant by borrowing pipe, leasing pipe and other equipment and borrowing what money the bank was willing to lend.'"

That latter was — and is — Butler's forte. He is senior chairman of the board of The First National Bank of Midland and has been inducted into the Hall of Fame of the Permian Basin Petroleum-Museum.

Petroleum pioneers include roughnecks, drillers, producers, brokers, bankers and others in the petroleum and associated industries.

And those pioneers living outside the Midland area will be particularly impressed with the economic and building progress in Midland.

"We feel that the non-resident oilpioneer will be well pleased with the progress of the Permian Basin area..." said Butler, "and especially in the development of the Headquarters City" — Midland.

New consultant in Midland

FEB. 13, 1949 — Harry J. Russell Jr. is a new geologist consultant in Midland. He has established offices at 109 Wilkinson Building.

He recently resigned as consulting geologist for the Midland Division office of American Trading & Production Corp. He had been with that concern 18 months.

Russell took his B.S. degree in Geology from the University of Iowa in 1938. He did graduate work at that institution through 1939, and then put in a hitch with the Iowa Geological Survey.

He went from that assignment to a job with Gulf Oil Corp. in Wichita, Kans., and remained there until he went in the Army during the war.

When he left Military service in 1945, Gulf assigned him to Hobbs, N.M., and he worked there until he joined American Trading in 1947.

Basin-coast line project to begin

MARCH 6, 1949 — A pipeline is to be built from the Permian Basin to California by El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. Estimated cost of the project is $100 million.

The line will be capable of moving 250 million cubic feet of gas daily from the Permian Basin reservoirs to the west coast.

The power commission has authorized El Paso to build 247 miles of 30-inch and 26-inch line, looping the concern's present 26-inch line from West Texas and New Mexico, approximately 95 miles of 24-inch line to reach Texas gas supplies, and 102 miles of 26-inch and 17 miles of 30-inch from El Paso's Gila compressor station in central Arizona to the Colorado River near Needles, Calif.

Bixler promoted

MARCH 20, 1949 — George R. Bixler who has been district landman in West Texas for Sohio Petroleum Co. since May 1948, has been promoted to division landman for the concern in Oklahoma City.

Frank Johnson will succeed Bixler in Midland as Sohio's district landman. He comes from Jackson, Miss., where he held the same position in that region.

The West Texas district is a unit of the company's Oklahoma City division, and Bixler will continue to keep in touch with this region on his new job.

T. S. (Ted) Jones is district geologist in Midland for Sohio.

WELCOME

Midland recognizes and appreciates the many important contributions made by the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers. Their dreams and ideas have long provided the impetus for continued progress in the petroleum industry in Midland and the rest of the Permian Basin.

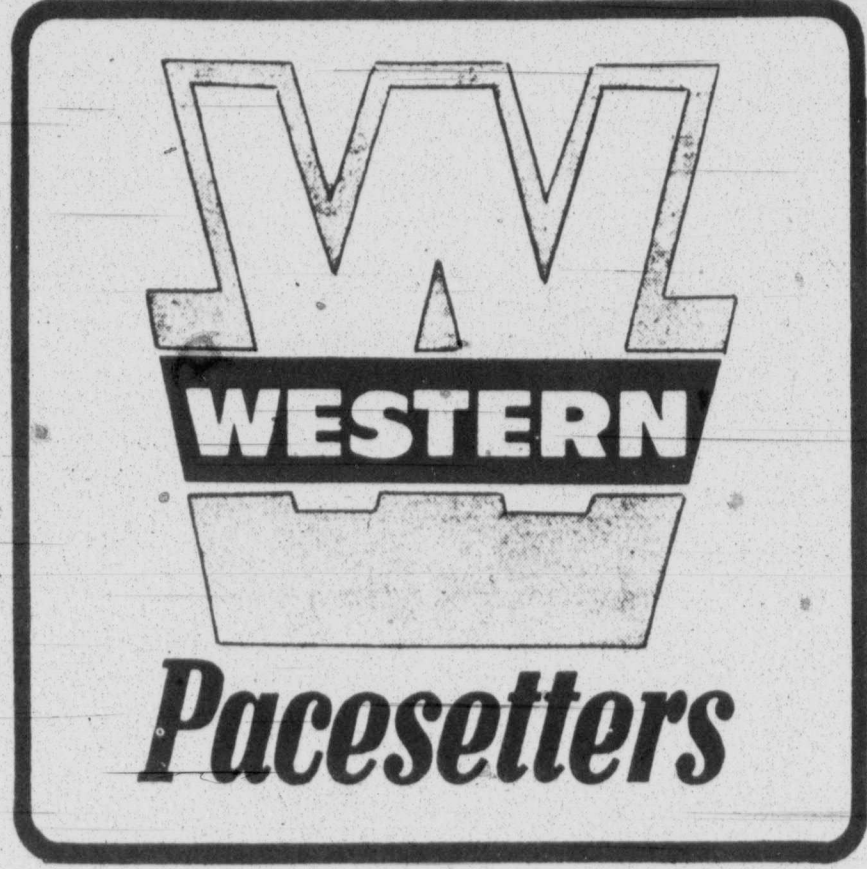

Their examples of courage and determination in an industry vital to the nation's economy have made Midland truly the city where "The Sky's The Limit!"

Welcome to Midland.

Individual Retirement Accounts at First Savings are the sure way to build for a secure retirement, and get a tax break at the same time.

If you're working for a company that does not have a retirement plan and you feel unprotected, then an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at First Savings is the thing for you.

With an IRA, you save for the future at the impressive current interest rate of 8% (effective annual yield 8.33%). Deduct whatever you save - up to $1500 - from you gross income, and defer every penny in taxes on your IRA until you withdraw it, normally after retiring. Then, you'll probably have less income and possibly be in a lower tax bracket.

(NOTE: There are severe penalties for withdrawals before age 59½.)

Here's an example of what an IRA can do for you. If you start an IRA at age 30, and deposit the maximum of $1500 per year until age 65, at the current interest rate, your IRA will be worth over $300,000. That's a tidy sum to start retirement, if you want to retire that young. By the way, your IRA is in addition to standard Social Security benefits. But remember, the deadline for starting or adding to your IRA is the date your taxes are due.

So stop by either First Savings office... downtown at 500 West Wall or San Miguel Square... and let the "FISCAL FITNESS PEOPLE" show you the sure way to save for retirement. It's getting later than you think...

Roy Harris — No plans to retire

Harris came to Midland with ARCO

Roy Harris is approaching what many people consider to be a retirement age: 65.

But the long-time West Texas geologist has no plans to get out of the business.

It's almost as if oil flows through his veins.

If Harris had judged West Texas and the oil business on his first two years here, he probably would be working in another part of the country today.

In August 1945, Harris was transferred by Atlantic Richfield (then Atlantic Refining) to Block 31 in Crane County from Louisiana.

At the same time that Harris and his wife moved to that location, so did 18 drilling rigs. Being the only geologist assigned to that area with the company, "I learned about West Texas fast," he recalled with a chuckle.

Those rigs had been moved in to keep Atlantic Richfield from losing its leases on the University of Texas land. The leases were about to expire, and to keep them the firm was required to have producing wells on the land, Harris explained.

Living right in the field, Harris said he used to tell everyone he "was surrounded by my work."

Crane was the closest town, and that was 10 miles away. At that time, there was no bank or "picture show." For that, the Harrises had to drive 40 miles to Odessa and then there wasn't much to that city, he said.

There was a post office, grocery store and filling (service) station in the gathering of houses called Crane — enough businesses to satisfy the immediate needs, Harris said.

"I worked long days by myself," the geologist said. "When they got it down to two rigs, they (Atlantic Richfield) finally sent me a helper. By that time, we would get our work done by 9:30 in the morning and then sit and look at each other," Harris said with a laugh.

Harris and his wife, Mary Francis (called "Sancy" by her friends), lived in a two-bedroom, asbestos-sided house built by the company. Two other houses were built by the company, but they were a mile apart from each other. "I never could understand why they did that," Harris said, shaking his head.

This separation of houses meant the nearest neighbor was a mile away, he added.

"Our closest neighbors were white-faced cattle and skunks — nice neighborhood," he reflected.

There was no telephone, no television; just the radio for company, he said.

"I call that (Crane experience) my foreign service," he laughed. "It was so entirely different from anything we had experienced that we didn't know how to take it."

Looking back, Harris said he didn't know what kept his wife from leaving. "I had the company car, so I guess it was too far for her to walk out of there," he said jokingly.

Two years later, Harris quit and went to work for Line Oil Co. (now Monsanto) in El Dorado, Ark. But after two years of wet weather and the Arkansas mud, the Harrises decided West Texas wasn't so bad. So they transferred to Midland with Line Oil.

"We decided this (Midland) was a pretty good place to live," he said. But then again, it wasn't at all like Crane.

In 1949, Midland had about 10,000 persons and was "a nice quiet little town," Harris said.

In 1953, Harris became division manager of Anderson-Prichard Oil Co., but left that in 1955 to become an independent geologist.

That wasn't the best time to go independent, he recalled. "The bottom went out in the business. It was rough for a while, but I decided to stick it out."

His decision paid off. Business began picking up in the late 1960s and early 1970s. "Most of us are working harder today than we did 20 years ago," he said.

Throughout his many years in the oil industry, the biggest change

Harris has noticed is the increasing interference of the federal government, he said.

"Our biggest problem right now is more and more regulations and paperwork. Naturally, more taxes have hurt us.

"It's (government interference) hurt our incentive," he continued. "There's still lots of oil left in West Texas. But the big, easy ones (pools) have been found and drilled. We're looking for the little ones now."

Compared to 30 years ago, the oil companies have "more sophisticated equipment to work with than we used to have. All the technics have improved," he said.

Looking back to his first tour of duty in West Texas, Harris said he didn't realize the oil business in the Permian Basin area would "reach this magnitude. From 1970 on we've seen a lot of changes, and I guess we're going to see more."

And as long as "things are stirring, I want to stay in the middle of it," he added.

Midland has been good to him, Harris claimed. "People used to tell me if you ever came out here and took off your shoes and spent a night, you'll never leave."

Harris hasn't left since coming back in 1951.

Occasionally, the geologist looks back at his early days in Crane. "I wouldn't take anything for that experience. But I wouldn't go through it again, either."

Improved drill bit object of contract to Terra Tek

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. — Improved efficiency of diamond drill bits for the energy industry is the objective of a new $149,936 contract awarded by the Department of Energy to Terra Tek, Inc., of Salt Lake City.

Diamond drill bits are widely used in oil and gas drilling operations today, especially in extremely hard rock formations or ultra-deep wells. The diamond bits sometimes last 100 hours or more. However, poor hydraulics (cleaning and cooling) is recognized as a serious problem which reduces drilling rates and increases bit wear.

The project is being monitored by the Bartlesville Energy Technology Center (BETC), DOE's primary petroleum research facility.

C. Ray Williams, BETC's project manager for drilling technology, is DOE's technical manager for the project. Gordon A. Tibbits is Terra Tek's project manager for the contract work.

The work will include the design, fabrication, and drilling tests of full-sized diamond bits which will be specially instrumented to measure a number of drilling data factors that control bit hydraulics, according to Williams.

These include penetration, penetration rate, weight on bit, torque, rotary speed, flow rate pressure at the swivel, borehole pressure, confining pressure, overburden stress, mud temperature and pressure drop across the bit face. These parameters will be measured while drilling under a simulated 8,000 foot depth condition.

The data generated in the tests will be analyzed and compared to data predicted by analytical computer models, which should help make such models more accurate and of greater use to the drilling industry.

Work on the project began October 1, 1979, and the final report is due August 1, 1980. Williams says the completed report will be published and distributed to interested individuals and organizations.

The project is one of several in BETC's drilling technology programs.

University auction brings $1,500,000

AUSTIN, MAY 15, 1949 (AP) — Oil and gas leases were sold on 33,090 acres of University of Texas lands in West Texas at an auction sale here Friday.

Bids totalling $1,508,000 were accepted on the 121 tracts which were sold. A total of 129 tracts, with aggregate acreage of 34,562.9 were offered at the sale. No bids made were rejected, but eight tracts were passed without bids being made.

The average bonus paid for the leases was $45.57 per acre.

The highest bid turned in was The Texas Company's $280,000 offer on a 2,560-acre drilling block in northeast Andrews and northwest Martin counties. This acreage, lying in block 7, calls for a test to 5,700 feet within 180 days from the date of the sale.

Two other drilling blocks also were offered, one in Andrews and the other in Upton County. Everett M. Byers of San Antonio bid $7,500 for the 2,567.4-acre block in northeast Andrews, located in blocks 6, 7, and 8. R. R. Herrell of Midland entered a bid of $6,000 for the 1,943.2-acre Upton block, all in block 15.

The Andrews block requires a 5,700-foot test to be started within 180 days, and the Upton block a 2,500-foot test, also within 180 days from date of sale. Part of the acreage in the Upton block was included in one purchased by Frankel Brothers of Houston for a bonus of $8,000 at the June 1948 auction. It was never developed.

Second highest bid at the auction was made by Phillips Petroleum Company which offered a bonus of $110,000 for lease on 322.6 acres, comprising the west half of section 17, block 12, offsetting production in the Block 12 pool of Andrews County.

Tracts in Reagan County brought spirited bidding, with Gulf Oil offering a bonus of $80,000 for a 159.9-acre plot, the northeast quarter of section 31, block 58; C. H. Murphy Jr., El Dorado, Ark., bidding $62,500 for lease on a like tract, northeast quarter of section 30, block 58, and Humble Oil & Refining Company entering a bid of $40,000 for a 159.8-acre tract, northeast quarter of section 29.

Texas-Gulf Producing Company bid $40,000 on an 83-acre tract, west half of the northeast quarter of section 1, block 48, also in Reagan.

Friday's lease sale also brought these bids, by counties: Martin — $26,000 by Tide Water Associated Oil Company on 160 acres, northwest quarter of section 26, block 7; $25,000 by Seaboard Oil Company on 160 acres, southeast quarter of section 2, block 7.

Crockett and Upton — $52,000 by Gulf on 326.6 acres, west half of section 23, block 5.

Upton — $27,500 by W. A. Yeager and J. M. Armstrong, both of Midland, on 326.6 acres, east half of section 14, block 5.

Reagan — $35,000 by Gulf on 156.5 acres, northeast quarter of section 32, block 58.

Coal-to-oil groundwork laid in Missouri town

LOUISIANA, MO., MAY 9, 1949 (AP) — The groundwork for a new American industry — the conversion of coal to oil and gasoline — was laid here Sunday with the dedication of two big demonstration plants.

About 500 persons, including government officials, military officers, members of Congress and industrial leaders, attended the ceremony.

The plants were developed by the U.S. Bureau of Mines as an answer to the dwindling supply of gasoline and an ever-increasing demand.

Julius A. Krug, secretary of Interior, in his dedication speech, called on private industry to get busy on plants of its own without delay. He expressed hope Congress would pass measures extending credit to that end.

Some of the visiting industrialists, especially oilmen, commented adversely on the project.

They raised doubts as to whether any serious shortage of petroleum is likely for many years to come, but in view of their position as guests, refused to be quoted.

One of the plants cost $10 million and the other half that amount. The buildings are spread out over several acres, with miles and miles of exposed pipe.

The plants will produce not only diesel oil and automobile fuel, but aviation gasoline and a variety of by-products, including alcohols and phenol for plastics. The plants will demonstrate respective merits of two basic processes for converting coal to oil. The two processes are called "coal" hydrogenation and "gas synthesis." By the former, coal is turned into oil by forcing hydrogen into it under great heat and pressure. By the other, coal first is turned into gas.

This city was selected as the site for the plants because of its central location with respect to major coal fields. Also a synthetic ammonia plant erected here for the Army during the war offers facilities readily adaptable to production of synthetic fuels.
