Workers prepare to right the tractor-trailer that overturned about 5 a.m. today on Interstate 20 west of Midland, killing the driver and injuring a passenger. The westbound truck had apparently traveled about 200 yards down the median before flipping over, pinning the driver who was partially thrown through the cab's side window, said officials. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

Airliner crash kills at least 55 in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Western Airlines DC-10 jetliner bound from Los Angeles with 88 or 89 persons reported aboard crashed while landing in fog and smog at the Mexico City airport today, plowing into two buildings, and Red Cross officials said they had recovered 55 bodies from the wreckage.

The U.S. consul said 19 survivors, all injured, were taken to three hospitals. The fate of the others was not known. Nor was it known how many Americans were aboard. Many of the names were Hispanic.

Crew member Eduardo Valencia walked out of the crash with minor injuries.

A Mexican aviation official said the plane touched down on a runway that was closed for repairs and that it struck a parked truck and killed its driver. It was not known whether there were any casualties in the struck buildings.

The airport is considered difficult by pilots, with mountains nearby and with about one million persons living in 20 blocks surrounding the field.

A witness said the crash sounded like a clap of thunder and "there was a big flash of light." The plane was demolished and pieces flew onto nearby houses.

Pedro Jose, a surviving passenger, said:

"It was a normal flight all the way from Los Angeles up to Mexico City airport. Around three or four minutes before we were landing there was a lot of fog around the plane and the airplane sort of rattled up a bit and about a half a minute later it just went flat, just crashed. The plane popped right open and I was around two or three behind the wing so I could get out. Inside the plane there was a lot of fire and a lot of dead people. Right after the accident the seats were right on top of one another and the plane was cracked open."

In Los Angeles, Linda Dozier, director of public relations for Western Airlines, said the ill-fated plane was a backup aircraft that was used because the original plane that was to make the flight needed routine maintenance.

In New York, experts said it was too soon to tell whether the crash of the DC-10 would cause additional problems for the manufacturer of the aircraft, McDonnell Douglas Corp. The company has been in the process of recovering from a 37-day grounding of its DC-10s after an American Airlines plane crashed last May 25th at Chicago's O'Hare Airport, killing 273 persons, the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history.

Some of the dead appeared to be children, witnesses said. In Los Angeles, the airline said the plane had 88 persons, 77 passengers and 11 crew, but there may have been one other person aboard. Officials of the airline here said a list they had showed 76 passengers and a crew of 13.

An immigration official who declined to give his name said the plane was on fire before it landed, that it hit the runway out of control and slammed into a cement block building about a quarter of a mile from the terminal. Other witnesses said the plane then crashed against a building under construction and its roof fell in.

A spokesman for the Mexican Civil Aeronautics Administration, who asked anonymity, said the plane first touched down on a runway that had been closed to traffic for repairs. Western officials said the black box which monitors all the plane's movements had been retrieved intact.

The U.S. Federal Aviation Administration and the U.S. National Transportation Safety Board sent representatives to Mexico City to observe the investigation of the crash.

Weather kills two Texans

Snow, winds, tornadoes, floods hit state

By The Associated Press

Two persons died and eleven more were injured as a massive cold front whipped through Texas bringing thick snow to the Panhandle, high winds and tornadoes to much of the state and flooding to the Gulf Coast.

The dead were identified as Julian Joe Griego, 29, of Amarillo and Nancy Mata, 17, of Tulia. Police said they were struck and killed by a car after they had stopped to help a vehicle that stalled in a snow-filled ditch along U.S. Highway 87.

Two persons injured in the collision were treated and released at a Tulia hospital.

High winds accompanied the snow and Department of Public Safety troopers said several power poles had snapped and fallen across roads in the Dalhart area.

Southwest Public Service officials said eight Panhandle cities were without electric power Tuesday night, including Dalhart, Dumas, Wildorado, Bushland, Vega, Gruver and parts of Borger.

Residents in some of those cities said they gathered at community shelters to keep warm, expecting overnight temperatures below 30 degrees.

DPS patrolmen added there were more than 400 automobiles and trucks abandoned along Interstate 40, between Amarillo and Tucuman, N.M., because of heavy snow which left part of the highway impassable.

The cold front also stirred up strong winds in North and West Texas as it passed through those areas.

Police said five persons were injured in Graham when the winds turned over a mobile home. Authorities reported another injury in a Graham motel, two injuries when a Sherman mobile home was tipped over and another injury in a windstorm north of Mineral Wells.

None of the injuries was serious, but Graham city officials said the pattern of damage in their town, northwest of Fort Worth, resembled the destruction usually associated with a tornado.

Weather observers also reported wind damage in or near Mineral Wells, Bangs, Sanger, Amarillo and Grapevine.

Several helicopters were damaged at Amarillo's airport, and high winds destroyed three airplanes and damaged several buildings at the Stephens County Airport in Breckenridge. Damage there was estimated at $500,000.

As the front reached the Gulf Coast, hitting Houston at the height of the rush hour, heavy rains caused street flooding in Galveston, Beaumont and Houston.

Civil Defense authorities in Galveston said as many as 200 people fled their homes because of the flooding, and reported some houses with as much as four feet of water in them.

A.N. Hendrickson dies at age 78

A.N. Hendrickson, 78, 1209 W. Cuthbert Ave., a longtime Midlander and oil man, died Tuesday evening at a Midland hospital.

Services are pending with Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

He was born April 9, 1901, in Lemars, Iowa, and grew up near Ponca City, Okla. He was graduated from McPherson High School in McPherson, Kan.

In 1926, he moved to Midland to establish a division office for Landreth Production Corporation. He served as a director and executive vice president for the company until 1941 when he became an independent oil operator.

Between 1926-1942, Hendrickson participated in the development of several major pools including Hendricks, Church-Fields, McElroy, Taylor-Link, Penwell, Hobbs, North Cowden, Johnson and Goldsmith.

Hendrickson was married July 27, 1927, to Irma Wraga, daughter of Midland area ranchers. She died in 1969.

He served as mayor of Midland from 1943-1946. Later, Hendrickson served 10 years as chairman of the financial advisory commission for the city of Midland.

He was elected to the board of directors of the First National Bank of Midland in 1944. He resigned in 1952, but was re-elected to the board in 1954 and served until 1978. He also served as chairman of the bank's

Carter still plans cut in oil imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is sticking by predictions it will meet its target for reduced oil imports this year despite a large increase in U.S. purchases of foreign oil in September.

Trade figures released Tuesday by the Commerce Department show the nation imported 260.9 million barrels of crude oil and petroleum products last month, an increase of 6 percent from the previous month.

After subtracting the roughly 7 million barrels of oil products the United States exported, the September figure works out to net imports averaging about 8.46 million barrels per day for the month.

The Carter administration target is 8.2 million barrels per day.

But a White House official, who asked for anonymity, pointed out that the administration target is "an average per day for the entire year." He added that the administration had set its goal knowing "imports were likely to rise in the final months (of 1979) to replenish stocks diminished during the Iran problem."

One man killed, one hurt when truck flips on I-20

A 30-year-old man was killed and another injured about 5 a.m. today when a tractor-trailer truck flipped onto its side on Interstate 20 west of Midland.

Identity of the driver was being withheld by the Texas Department of Public Safety early today pending notification of relatives.

Passenger in the truck at the time of the accident, Michael Brown, 39, of Rightwood, Calif., was treated for a cut scalp at Midland Memorial Hospital. Personnel said Brown was being examined for additional injuries.

The truck, owned by Sambo's Restaurants, was westbound on I-20 east of the intersection with Holiday Hill Road when the accident occurred, DPS officials said.

Driver of the truck apparently was thrown partially through the side window of the cab and pinned beneath the vehicle when it overturned in the center median, a Midland ambulance attendant at the scene said.

The truck flipped over after leaving about 200 feet of tire marks in the grassy center median, witnesses said.

It was not known whether the passenger, Brown, was in the sleeper booth or in the passenger's seat at the time of the accident, officers said.

Cause of the accident was unknown, DPS officials said.

Loaded with frozen chickens, the truck was headed for Santa Barbara, Calif., said a spokesman for Sambo's.

The driver had been employed by Sambo's for several years, the spokesman added.

It's 'hoot' time in old McCamey

By ED TODD

McCAMEY — Jack Tompkins counts himself among those who really do "give a hoot" about McCamey.

He said so Tuesday night. "Be proud of McCamey, protect it, stand up for it," said Tompkins, who grew up here but left little (2,600 population) McCamey for big (million-plus) Houston to find opportunity.

Tompkins, a 1964 "all-American" graduate of McCamey High School, returned to his former hometown to speak at the annual chamber fete, which was attuned to the theme "Be Wise — Give a 'Hoot' About McCamey."

Tompkins, a certified public accountant with a major Houston firm, said McCamey, like all towns and cities, has certain problems. But those problems, like those of an individual, can be surmounted with a "daring and sharing" will and spirit.

He encouraged proper planning to meet goals in community and personal lives.

"We never...plan to fail, but do we fail to plan?" he asked. Biggest is not always the best, and McCamey folks shouldn't "try to make McCamey the biggest city in the world," he said, but rather a "place where the quality is unexcelled."

"Be enthusiastic about McCamey, about West Texas, about your station in life," he told the 125 chamber boosters at the banquet.

Though he has long since fled the relatively sparse West Texas and little McCamey for Texas' No. 1 "peopled" city, Tompkins said the West is unmatched in character.

"I believe the character of West Texans is second to none," Tompkins said.

The people are strong, individualistic and of good character, he said. Tompkins credited his character and success not just to his parents, but to many McCamey denizens, who helped and guided him and gave him council.

He was the valedictorian of his graduating class, lettered in four sports and, noted Bill Little, superintendent of McCamey schools and emcee at the banquet, Tompkins was "the all-American boy." He was voted the "most ambitious" and the "most likely to succeed" by his peers in school, Little said.

Prior to Tompkins' talk, these events unfolded:

Kennedy, Carter endorsements begun

By The Associated Press

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne, saying the public has lost confidence in the Carter administration, has formally endorsed Sen. Edward Kennedy for president, but the governor of Kennedy's home state says he is in President Carter's corner.

Gov. Edward King also said Tuesday that Kennedy hasn't asked for his support for the Democratic nomination for president, and Carter has. "I'm supporting President Carter," King said in an interview a day after a presidential campaign committee for his own state's senior senator was announced in Washington.

The Democratic governor has expressed his support for Carter several times in the past, noting also that a Kennedy candidacy is simply speculation until it is formally announced.

Mrs. Byrne, who originally said she would back Carter, is the first big-city mayor to endorse Kennedy's candidacy. Her formal endorsement Tuesday came three days after she first said she would back Kennedy and 15 days after Carter spoke at a dinner to raise funds for her.

Stephen E. Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law, said at a Washington news conference Monday that the senator will make his formal statement in Boston Nov. 7. Smith also stressed that the committee announced at the news conference "is a campaign committee, not an exploratory committee."

King said Tuesday that, "President Carter, I say it once more, has been very responsive to the needs of the people of Massachusetts."

He referred to "home heating oil, the availability of monies, his help in permitting us to burn coal as we should to help ourselves and the nation, his support of offshore (oil) exploration."

King and Kennedy have never been political allies, and they were bitter opponents over expansion of Boston's Logan International Airport when King headed the Massachusetts Port Authority.

Mrs. Byrne has been close to the Kennedy family since working in the 1960 presidential campaign of John F. Kennedy, the senator's brother.

Mrs. Byrne, ticking off problems such as inflation and soaring interest rates, contended Tuesday that the public "has lost confidence with the job done by the Carter administration."

She said she had hoped she could help Carter's popularity in Illinois by having him to her fund-raising dinner Oct. 15. But polls taken afterward showed no improvement, she said.

During a visit to Chicago by first lady Rosalynn Carter on Oct. 8, Mrs. Byrne said she supported the president. At the fund-raising dinner a week later, she said she would support Carter if the Democratic nominating convention were held that night.

Carter aide calls for political loyalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's campaign manager says he hopes the administration will fire any political appointee found to be flirting with the campaign of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

After watching two Carter administration officials defect to the Kennedy camp, Tim Kraft said he thinks loyalty should count in politics.

A White House official who asked not to be named said it would be no surprise if some others "now on the administration roster switched to the camp of the president's challenger. But he said, "We have had and will have our share of support and endorsements."

Asked whether he thinks the administration should dismiss likely defectors before they publicly break with the president in favor of Kennedy, Kraft replied:

"As campaign manager, I'm not an official member of the administration. But as a political person who respects loyalty, I hope to hell they do."

Kraft commented in an interview Tuesday after former Iowa Sen. Dick Clark said he is leaving the Carter administration to work for Kennedy and J. William Heckman Jr., resigned as deputy assistant attorney general for legislation to join the Kennedy committee.

"As odd as it may appear in the face of what seems to be a Kennedy blitzkrieg, we don't have any sharp adjustments to make. We've got more work to do, we've got more money to raise, but basically we're on schedule. We've always felt like we'd have an opponent."

In related developments Tuesday, the 70,000-member National Treasury Employees Union announced its support of Kennedy and Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne made a formal announcement reaffirming her weekend endorsement of Kennedy.

There was a particular sting to the defections by Clark, who was given a $57,500-a-year job as U.S. coordinator for refugee affairs after being defeated for re-election last year, and by Heckman, a personal friend of Carter campaign lawyer Tim Smith.

In accepting Clark's resignation, Carter noted that he had understood Clark would remain neutral in the 1980 campaign and devote his attention to refugee problems.

However, Clark said in an interview the refugee programs have been overhauled and "it seems as appropriate as any time to make the change."

A Clark spokesman, Bob Miller, said Clark had pledged to remain politically neutral while in the administration, but that he had not promised to remain out of the race indefinitely.

Clark's bolt to Kennedy came one day after formation of a Kennedy campaign committee and announcement that Kennedy would formally announce his candidacy Nov. 7 in Boston.

Mayor Byrne's stand ran counter to a long string of endorsements Carter has been garnering from state and local officials, but the White House and the campaign committee insist it is an isolated case and not a turning tide.

Kraft pointed out that Carter picked up backing from strong majorities of the Democratic mayors and governors at their conventions last summer and that many of them were at a Carter dinner rally here last week.

Other than clamping down on defectors, Kraft sees no major adjustments to the Kennedy threat.

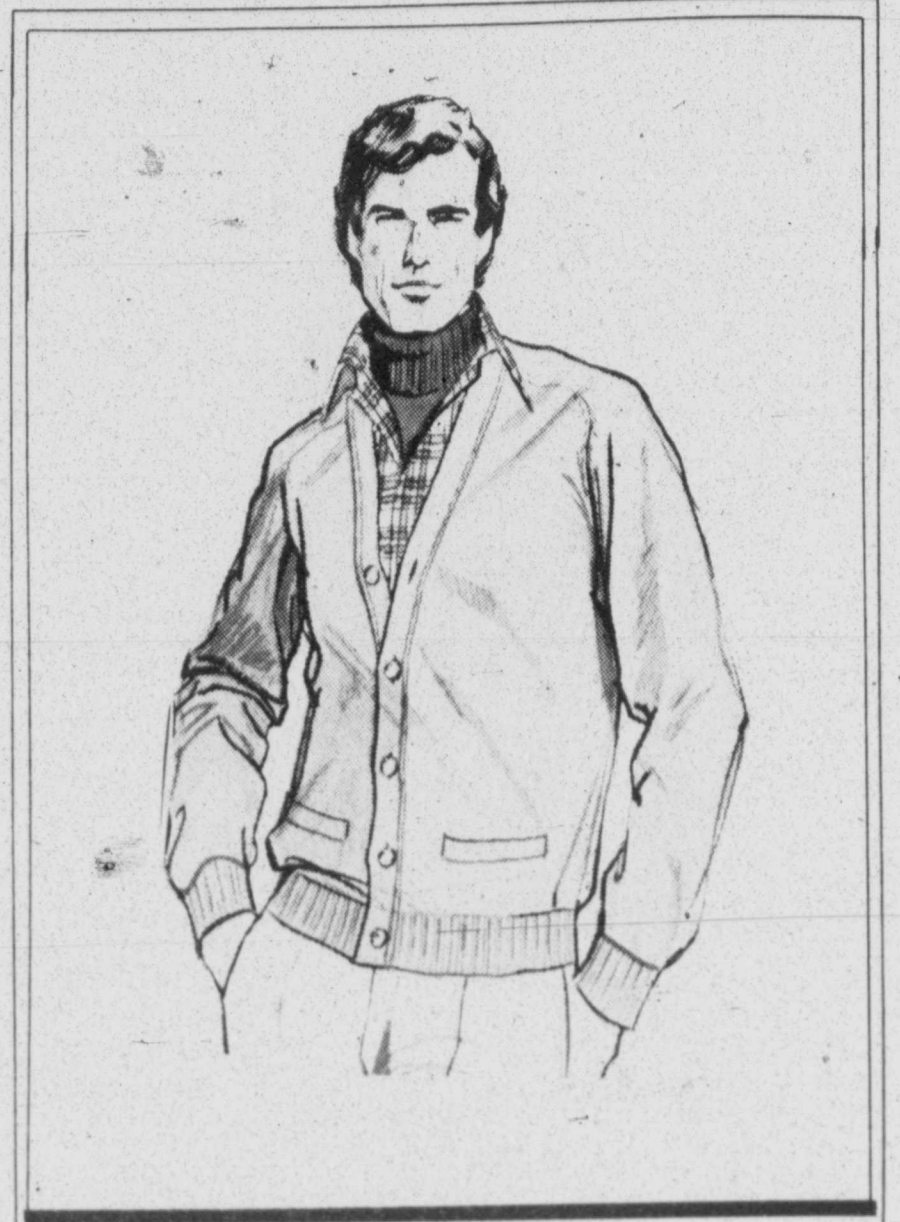

"As odd as it may appear in the face of what seems to be a Kennedy blitzkrieg, we don't have any sharp adjustments to make," Kraft said. "We've got more work to do, we've got more money to raise, but basically we're on schedule. We've always felt like we'd have an opponent."

Public opinion polls show Kennedy ahead of Carter and Kraft said he accepts suggestions that Carter is the underdog.

"I would say we're probably starting out that way," he said. "We're supposed to be behind 3-1 in New Hampshire and other parts of New England, maybe 2-1 in Iowa and other parts of the country."

But Kraft, who ran Carter's highly regarded field operations in 1976, says the long campaign will change that.

Mussolini's widow dies

PREDAPPIO, Italy (AP) — Rachele Mussolini, widow of World War II dictator Benito Mussolini, is dead of a heart attack at the age of 89.

She died at her home here Tuesday. Relatives said she was spry and healthy until a few months ago but never recovered fully after losing a lot of blood during a three-week hospitalization in March.

Mussolini had five children by her, three out of wedlock, two by an Italian woman and one by a French woman. But Donna Rachele never appeared jealous and defended his memory staunchly.

Mussolini and his mistress, Claretta Petacci, were shot by a partisan executioner in 1945.

Officers in Torres case given year and a day

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge who sentenced three former policemen to one year and one day for their convictions in the death of Joe Campos Torres has brought "contempt upon himself," says the head of the state's most powerful Hispanic organization.

Terry Densonp 27, Stephen Orlando, 22, and Joseph Janish, 22, faced a possible maximum term of life in prison for a violation of the young Mexican-American's civil rights that resulted in his death.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling, who was ordered by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals to resentence the officers, Tuesday gave them the lightest prison term possible.

"Judge Ross Sterling is a man who has neither respect of nor appreciation for the discrimination suffered by Hispanics for generations in Texas," said Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens. "We are calling for immediate and meaningful disciplinary sanctions... He has brought contempt upon himself, upon law enforcement and upon Hispanic-Americans."

In May 1977, the body of Torres, 23, was found floating in Buffalo Bayou, which flows through downtown Houston near police headquarters.

He had been arrested a few days earlier during a disturbance at a bar. He was in police custody when he was either pushed, jumped or fell into the bayou.

Carlson E. Elliott, a rookie officer at the time, reported to his superiors that Torres had been taken to the banks of the bayou, slapped around and verbally abused by the other officers.

The three defendants had said Torres was troublesome, had screamed and kicked when arrested and warned them he had served in an Army unit specializing in martial arts. They said Torres either jumped or fell off a 17-foot embankment into the bayou.

The three former officers were sentenced to one year in jail on a misdemeanor conviction and 10-year suspended sentences with five years probation on the felony conviction.

One dead, three missing after ships collide in strait

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Two Soviet ships strengthened for icebreaking collided in a Danish strait today. One of them, carrying scientists to an Antarctic expedition, was in the wrong sea lane and caught fire after the collision, leaving one dead, three missing and 95 rescued, officials said.

They said two of the rescued were seriously burned and four had less serious burns. None was immediately identified.

The Danish naval command said the 9,243-ton Antarctic expedition ship Olenek and the 22,632-ton tanker General Shkodunovich collided in rough seas in the Great Belt, between Zealand and Fyn, Denmark's two biggest islands.

The strait connects the Baltic and North Seas.

The Olenek, which was bound for the Antarctic, caught fire, and the captain at first reported 16 of his crew missing but police later said 11 of them were rescued.

Salesmanship seminar slated

A seminar on salesmanship cosponsored by Midland College, the Small Business Administration and Midland Chamber of Commerce will be from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday in Room 164 in the Occupational-Technical Building at MC.

The seminar is open to the public at no charge.

Leaders strive to save stability

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korean military chiefs and Acting President Choi Kyu-hah are working together to maintain stability, apparently postponing any succession struggle until after the funeral of President Park Chung-hee Saturday.

Political sources said all major decisions are being made at daily meetings attended by Choi, Gen.

Chung Seung-hwa, the martial law commander; Gen. Kim Chong-hwan, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and half a dozen leading cabinet members.

"It's unlikely any power struggle will break out before the funeral," one source said. "It's Korean custom that even enemies make a truce during mourning."

Buttons only sideshow to real issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The buttons boosted "Kennedy in 80" and "Carter-Mondale," but politics was only a sideshow as Edward M. Kennedy and Chip Carter joined folk singer Joan Baez in pleading for money to help end famine in Cambodia.

"All of us know that with the exception of the Jewish Holocaust of World War II, we are facing the greatest human tragedy of our lifetime," Kennedy said. "We must shake the world community to action."

"We must find the means to bluff our way in there with the food and the doctors and the supplies," said Ms. Baez, who toured several refugee camps in Southeast Asia earlier this month. She reports today on what she found to Kennedy's subcommittee on refugees.

"We're ready," said Chip Carter of his father's administration pledge to finance a third of the world's efforts to ease the lot of the starving and homeless. "We're getting a little radical about this," added Carter. "We need you to keep pushing."

More than 300 guests paid $125 each to hear Ms. Baez sing and Kennedy speak, and to mingle with members of Congress, socialites and composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein. The total take was some $40,000.

At an 18th century residence in Washington's historic Georgetown neighborhood, Miss Baez sang "Michael Row the Boat Ashore," and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot." With Bernstein's encouragement, she led the audience in singing "Amazing Grace."

Out in the crowd, Lincoln Bloomfield, charged with coordinating U.S.

relief efforts for the White House, said if necessary a mountain of food will be piled on the Cambodian border to increase pressure on the Cambodian and Vietnamese governments to accept emergency aid.

"There's going to be a blizzard of food and money," Bloomfield said. "I don't think any communist government can withstand this effort. That wasn't true three weeks ago or even a week ago. It's true right now."

"It's late," Bloomfield said. "People are dying. But it's not too late. This famine can be averted."

Given the guest list, it was impossible to keep the evening entirely non-political.

Co-hostess Eunice Kennedy Shriver spoke earnestly of the "human errors of neglect, of selfishness, of a disrespect for individual human rights" that she said cause tragedies such as the spreading Cambodian famine.

Asked about her brother's forthcoming campaign, she replied: "I think this is going to be great."

The president's son, who wore a green and white Carter-Mondale button on the lapel of his suit jacket, said he saw nothing wrong in "showing the flag."

U.S. quietly disassociating itself from 'last of dinosaurs'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is quietly disassociating itself from the rightist military government in Guatemala while planning substantial assistance to Nicaragua and the newly-installed government in El Salvador.

The recent ouster of conservative establishments in El Salvador and Nicaragua, both of which had been in power for more than 40 years, has left the Guatemalan regime virtually isolated.

"One official, who asked not to be identified, called the military-dominated regime in Guatemala "the last of dinosaurs."

The administration has signafed its unhappiness with the Guatemalan government in several ways in recent weeks. Guatemala, for example, was not included in a supplemental aid package for Central America and the Caribbean which the administration will send to Congress shortly.

In contrast to last year, the administration also has decided to exclude Guatemala from next year's military aid request. In addition, the United States abstained on a recent Guatemalan request for a $15 million tourism and industrial development loan from the Inter-American Development Bank.

Officials contend Guatemala's human rights record is not good. They also allege that the regime has engaged in labor union repression and has neglected the country's sizeable Indian population.

The aid package, now being reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget, reportedly calls for $75 million to help Nicaragua recover from war devastation. El Salvador and Honduras would receive $5 million initially and more later on, officials said.

The administration decided to move ahead with assistance to Nicaragua and El Salvador despite political uncertainty in both of them.

Discussing the Nicaraguan situation in a recent speech, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said, "We cannot guarantee that democracy will take hold there. But if we turn our backs on Nicaragua, we can almost guarantee that democracy will fail."

The administration appears to have adopted a similar attitude toward El Salvador, where moderate colonels ousted President Carlos Humberto Romero two weeks ago.

The security problems faced by the new government were dramatized Tuesday when between 400 and 200 armed leftists stormed the U.S. embassy in San Salvador.

It's inflationary, too

Perhaps you hadn't noticed it, but Congress, for the first time in 15 years, seriously is considering a proposal to shorten the work week. Yes, that's correct.

A coalition of supporters, made up largely of labor unions, envisions the proposal to cut the week from 40 to 35 hours as a way to boost productivity and employment levels.

On the other hand, there are those, and we are among them, who view it as inflationary, unnecessary and counter productive. We have an idea that a vast majority of Americans would agree in this respect.

A House of Representatives subcommittee last week conducted hearings on the bill proposed by Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., which would cut the work week five hours by 1983, ban compulsory overtime assignments and boost overtime rates from time-and-a-half to double time. Good grief — and what next?

We agree wholeheartedly with what The Abilene Reporter-News had to say about it:

"Arguments that the shorter work week would boost productivity because workers would be more alert, efficient, energetic and satisfied with their jobs border on being silly. Any American worker who can handle an eight-hour day with a reasonable expectation of remaining alert, efficient and energetic on the job will not be magically transformed into a superworker if the day's length is cut by one hour.

"The 57 million workers (60 percent of the work force) covered by the current 40-hour work week law already enjoy a third of the day for recreation and a third of the day for rest during the work week, plus two days each week away from the workplace."

And in addition to all this foolishness, backers of the proposal won't even consider reducing workers' pay in exchange for reducing workers' time on the job. This very definitely is an inflationary posture.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, the former University of Texas professor, has said he would prefer to see work week reductions through collective bargaining rather than through legislation. Several unions have attempted to follow this route, but with only limited success. So now it seems that they are looking to Washington for help.

We wonder where sponsors of the movement get the idea that a shorter work week would increase employment levels and reduce overtime hours. The idea certainly is marginal at best. Business and industry are careful in calculating the gains to be achieved by working employees past the 40-hour week with the costs of overtime pay. As the Abilene newspaper points out, "Some situations require overtime; simply substituting an additional employee for overtime work is not always practical."

You know very well that if work situations permitted, and if it were more cost-effective to employ additional labor than to order overtime, this would be done.

What this country really needs to bolster sagging productivity levels is eight hours of work for eight hours of pay.

What it very definitely does not need is a shorter work week.

Crack down by FTC

Consumers undoubtedly will be pleased with the Monday announcement that the Federal Trade Commission is getting tough on businesses which send consumers unordered merchandise and then try to collect for it.

The FTC said companies could be liable for civil penalties of up to $10,000 for each law violation.

Warning letters will be sent by the FTC to approximately 100 companies which have been the subject of consumers' complaints. The FTC added that its staff members will investigate companies they suspect are violating the law and recommend action.

This is something about which consumers have been voicing complaint for a long time. The FTC said it receives thousands of complaints annually. The Postal Service, Better Business Bureau and chambers of commerce also have received their share of the complaints.

An FTC spokesman said previous investigations have been dealt with individually. This undoubtedly has helped, but the expanded crack down should be more effective.

Here's why Carter will win Florida primary next year

MIAMI — As disappointed Kennedy activists were painfully reminded, this city, indeed, this state's Southern area, is not Florida, and that's why President Carter will likely defeat Sen. Kennedy in next March's primary.

Carter's two-to-one victory in the caucuses was a badly needed tonic for the politically beleaguered President, but also cleared the charisma-laden air to reveal the realities here. The draft Kennedy enthusiasts who made the mistake of predicting a victory in the complicated Oct. 13 balloting, now talk of hoping to get only 40 percent of the delegates in the spring primary.

The executive director of the Kennedy forces, Sergio Bendixen, is still stunned over Carter's close win in Dade County (Miami) which should have been Kennedy's strongest area. Still, he feels Carter's statewide strength has shrunk to the point he can only be certain of North Florida.

Among the explanations, Bendixen, Phil Hammersmith and Mike Abrams — the key Kennedy organizers — offer for the reversal in Miami are: It rained so hard on caucus day that many of Kennedy's older supporters stayed home out of fear of falling on slippery pavements; the presence of a large, lively, press created an awesome feeling which distracted the poor Kennedy volunteers from doing their jobs.

But then why would slippery sidewalks be easier for Carter's senior fans, and did the glamorous press avoid Carter's workers? Tsk, tsk. Now if Kennedy gives Florida a real go in the primary, he will surely do better in South Florida, and should make a respectable showing in the Tampa Bay and Orlando areas. But while the real, non-Miami Florida isn't as supportive of Carter as it was in 1976, the Southern affinity remains.

In Miami, 85 percent of blacks voting went for Carter, and gave him 40 percent of his total vote. Many of these votes were by people involved in federal-aid programs, so in the primary, with a broader-scale turnout, Kennedy would do better. But he's still up against the Southern black pride in Carter, and, as one black put it:

"Maybe society doesn't like a man who is basically good like Carter, but we do. Northerners seem colder and more intellectual in their concern for blacks. We feel closer to Southerners like Carter who you can tell are emotionally involved." Perceived goodness, by this measure, bests the impressive, but distant, allure.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Hawkish Ziggy sets foreign policy

WASHINGTON — There's an untold story behind the latest Cuban crisis which is rocking Washington's intelligence community to its foundations. At the center of the swirling, top-secret controversy is the real power behind Jimmy Carter's foreign policy, Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Despite vigorous protests from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and top intelligence officials, the determined hawkish national security chief is pushing ahead with a super-secret plan to turn his boss into an implacable Soviet baiter.

Brzezinski saw his best chance of getting the Russians' goat when the issue of Soviet combat troops in Cuba threatened to escalate into a major international confrontation between the world's two superpowers.

Behind closed White House doors, Brzezinski agitated for the hardest possible line against the Kremlin bosses, who viewed the Cuban incident as a giant publicity whoop-dee-doo for United States politicians and, therefore, refused to budge.

For all his supposed expertise on the Kremlin, Brzezinski misjudged the Soviet reaction badly. It was Carter — not the Russians — who would end backing down.

Brzezinski promptly drafted a top-secret memorandum outlining a three-phase program to put the Soviets in their place and restore Carter's damaged prestige. We have seen the memo, and it's a blueprint for reviving the Cold War.

The first phase calls for the propping up of anti-communist governments in this hemisphere, accompanied by a carefully orchestrated campaign to educate the American public to the gravity of the Cuban-Soviet threat to our security.

In the second phase of the Brzezinski blueprint, the United States will initiate a worldwide campaign of propaganda and political pressure against the Russians and Cubans. The CIA will have primary responsibility for covertly generating anti-Soviet propaganda abroad, using every available means, including the Voice of America.

In furtherance of Phase Two, Brzezinski ordered a questionnaire sent to all U.S. ambassadors, instructing them to provide data on Cuban activities in their area that would be used for the propaganda campaign. The questionnaire, labeled Top Secret Umbra, was opposed by Secretary of State Vance and his top aides. Two-thirds of the ambassadors protested the instructions, an unprecedented show of opposition.

But such is Brzezinski's clout with Carter that the White House ordered that the questionnaires be completed.

Phase Three of Brzezinski's grand design would have the United States giving military aid to regimes threatened by Cuban and Soviet military adventures — a process that has already begun in Somalia and Morocco, over State Department objection. Even more provocative is the possibility — now under consideration — of sharing military technology with the Chinese, as a direct threat to the Soviet Union.

Brzezinski's Cold War calculations have aroused widespread revolt in the foreign policy establishment. According to diplomatic sources, Secretary of State Vance has stated privately

ART BUCHWALD Ted Kennedy saved Jimmy Carter by getting in race

WASHINGTON — You would think the Carter people would be terribly upset that Teddy Kennedy is getting into the presidential race. Not all of them. One astute Carter supporter told me:

"This is the best thing that could have happened to us."

"How's that?"
"Well, look what was happening before Teddy went to see his mother, and got her permission to run. Carter was sinking in the polls — all the Washington pundits were writing him off, and the cry in the land was 'Anybody But Carter.' We were very upset by all this, but we couldn't do anything about it. We had Rafshooned the President for a year, and it got us nowhere. Money was drying up and many of us were prepared to start working on the Carter presidential library in Plains, Ga. Then Teddy decided he had to save the country and we were off and running."

"But you had Jerry Brown to run against," I said.
"At the beginning we thought that would be sufficient, but Brown blew it and beating him meant nothing. We're very disappointed in Gov. Brown. We were hoping he would give us more opposition."

"Are you trying to tell me that you Carter people are not worried about Kennedy?"

"Well, you always have to be worried about a Kennedy," he said. "But you must be very pragmatic in politics. Before Teddy, we were faced with a terrible prospect. Carter had to run against himself and you can imagine what that meant. Last time he ran against Washington, and that's how he got elected. The President wanted to do it again, but we explained to him there were some people in the country who thought he was part of the problem. We had no issue until Teddy decided to make his move."

"When you spell it out that way it does make sense."
"We couldn't have planned it better if we had wanted to. We can now go to people who never cared much for the Kennedys and say, 'If you don't give us money, Teddy will take away your three martini lunch.' That's all it usually takes."

"I thought Carter was against the three martini lunch, too."

"He is, but as with most things no one pays any attention to him. If Teddy wants to do away with the lunches people will start taking it seriously."

"I do," I admitted.
"The beauty of it all is that now that Teddy is in the race the media is all excited. When Carter had no opposition it was hard to get him on page 19. Now when Teddy makes a speech the media expects Carter to answer him. Then they expect Teddy to come back and answer him. If Carter won't respond Rosalynn will. The contest between the two of them has wiped out all the Republican candidates."

"The Republican campaign managers are going up the wall trying to get space for their people. The media are treating the Carter-Kennedy confrontation like the Super Bowl. You can't believe what's done for the morale of our people."

"I feel sorry for the Republicans. It looked for a while as if the big dogfight would be in their party. Let me ask you something. Suppose Teddy gets the nomination? Won't that make you feel bad?"

"Not as bad as if Carter got the Democratic nomination and got clobbered by the Republicans. If Teddy beats us at least we can go down with dignity. But without Kennedy, Carter could have been beaten by himself — and that's a terrible way to lose."

U.S. to continue to import Mexican tomatoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that is sure to anger Florida farmers but please American consumers, the Treasury Department concluded tentatively today that Mexico is not dumping vegetables illegally on U.S. markets.

The Treasury will make a final ruling on the dumping claim no later than March 15, a department spokesman said. In the meantime, Mexican tomatoes, bell peppers, cucumbers, squash and eggplant can be exported to the United States.

Had Treasury ruled that Mexico is dumping the produce illegally, supplies probably would have been reduced and prices to consumers increased, said Alfred Kahn, chief anti-inflation adviser to President Carter.

Such a ruling also could have aggravated already shaky relations between the United States and Mexico, which holds vast oil and natural gas resources.

The Treasury ruled in response to claims by Florida growers that Mexico is dumping as much as $200 million in vegetables at prices below the cost of production.

Florida supplies about half of these winter vegetables to American consumers, while Mexico provides the rest.

The Florida growers charged their livelihoods were being threatened by the allegedly unfair Mexican competition.

The Treasury conducted an investigation of Mexican vegetable prices here and in Canada, based on $200 million in sales during the 1977-78 crop year.

The Treasury concluded that the five types of fresh winter vegetables are not being sold at "less than fair value within the meaning of the Anti-Dumping Act of 1921."

Sales at less than fair value generally occur when the price of imported products is less than the price of the same or similar goods sold in the home market or to third countries. In this case, because the vegetables are not sold in Mexico, sales prices to Canada were the determining factor.

Krueger agrees with tomato ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Krueger, ambassador-at-large to Mexico, says he is in complete agreement with a tentative Treasury Department ruling rejecting Florida complaints Mexico is dumping vegetables illegally on U.S. markets.

Krueger said it is difficult to understand how people can expect lower oil prices but higher tomato prices from Mexico.

In a Tuesday speech, Krueger told a group of businessmen tomatoes are Mexico's third largest export commodity and the crop is developed primarily for U.S. markets.

Senate panel wants missiles, regardless of SALT provisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is trying to insure that the SALT II agreement will not stand in the way of deploying U.S. cruise missiles and the MX mobile missile in the 1980s.

The panel was expected to approve a proposal today stipulating that the treaty's protocol may not be extended beyond its scheduled expiration in 1981 without approval by a two-thirds vote in the Senate.

The protocol is not part of the actual treaty but is a related agreement that was negotiated as part of the treaty package when the United States and

Soviet Union hit a deadlock over cruise and mobile missiles.

Russian negotiators wanted to bring the weapons under the treaty, which runs through 1985, but the United States held out for shorter-term limitations. The result was the protocol, which has the same binding force as the treaty but expires four years sooner.

The protocol bans flight testing and deployment of mobile missiles and deployment of ground-launched and sea-launched cruise missiles. The restrictions are not expected to affect U.S. programs.

Amendment absentee voting slow

Absentee voting on three Texas constitutional amendments is going slow, according to the chief deputy in the county clerk's office.

By late Tuesday, the total stood at 54 absentee votes: 45 of those in person and nine mailed into the office, said Ruth Moore.

Last day for voting absentee will be Friday. The general election will be Tuesday.

On the ballot are the following amendments:

— To provide for the appointment of notaries public for the state and for a term not less than two years and not more than four years as provided by law.

— To provide for legislative review of the process of rule-making by agencies in the executive department.

— Authorizing the legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans for purchase of farm and ranch land real estate for qualified borrowers by the sale of general obligation bonds of the State of Texas.

THE ACCIDENT AT THREE MILE ISLAND

The Nail For Change
The Legacy Of TMI

The President's Commission on the Accident at Three Mile Island Tuesday released its report. This is the official cover for that report. (AP Laserphoto)

News reports show 'confusion' of sources, TMI panel says

WASHINGTON (AP) — News accounts of the Three Mile Island nuclear accident were mostly well balanced but reflected the "confusion and ignorance" of official sources of information, a presidential panel has found.

"The effort required (of reporters) to make sense of the story was enormous," the President's Commission on Three Mile Island said Tuesday in its final report to the president.

"It was not like covering a political campaign or an airplane hijacking, where at least the vocabulary of the sources (and) the vocabulary of the reporters are the same," the panel said.

The report noted that news organizations had been accused of sensationalizing the accident, but it said the reverse was true.

"The news media did not present only alarming views, but rather views on both sides of issues related to the accident," the commission concluded. However, it said a few newspapers did present a "frightening and misleading impression."

Housewife Anne Trunk, one of the 12 commission members, took issue with the finding of even-handedness, saying "the public was pulled into a state of terror, of psychological stress."

Mrs. Trunk, who lives near TMI in Middletown, Pa., said network evening news reports "proved to be the most depressing, the most terrifying" and that "confusion cannot explain away the mismanagement of a news event of this magnitude."

The commission found no systematic attempt at a coverup by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission or Metropolitan Edison, the utility that operates the power plant. But a commission task force said there was an unwillingness by sources to be candid with reporters.

When the news media erred, said the task force, "those errors are usually traceable to the sources on which the media relied."

"Official sources of information were often confused or ignorant of the facts," said the report. "News media coverage often reflected this confusion and ignorance."

The task force cited nuclear jargon used by the industry as a handicap in communication and said that for reporters "it was like suffering from color blindness at a watercolor exhibition."

It called Metropolitan Edison and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission "victims of their own reassurances about the safety of nuclear power."

A study of 43 newspapers from across the nation showed papers did not sensationalize or overplay the story," said the task force. "If anything, headlines throughout the first week were more sober than the real confusion at the site and

(at NRC headquarters) in Bethesda (Md.) warranted." The task force said there were two exceptions — the New York Post and the New York Daily News — but gave no specifics.

That estimate could go higher if the plant does not resume operations, the panel says. The commission, which Tuesday released its report on the March 28 accident near Harris-

By H. JOSEF HEBERT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president's commission on Three Mile Island, following up on its broad indictment of the nuclear industry and its regulators, now faces the task of selling its recommendations to Congress and the White House.

Commission chairman John G. Kemeny and several other panel members were to testify today before two congressional committees that will decide what action to take on the group's findings.

One commission source said Kemeny, president of Dartmouth College, is expected to visit Washington over the coming weeks to drum up support for the commission's report.

The 12-member panel, appointed by President Carter last April to conduct an investigation of the March 28 nuclear accident near Harrisburg, Pa., spent six months on the project.

Its inquiry produced a litany of shortcomings in the way the Three Mile Island plant was operated and in the way the industry has been regulated.

President Carter, who accepted the report Tuesday, said he did not expect any quick action.

"Our own assessment and our decisions on what to do cannot be made immediately, and we'll have to be very careful and very methodical on our recommendations to the public," Carter said.

Several commissioners told reporters Tuesday that they feared another serious accident might occur before their findings are used.

"I have this terrible feeling that somewhere out there is another accident waiting to happen," declared Carolyn Lewis, one of the panel's strongest industry critics.

The report concludes: "To prevent nuclear accidents as serious as Three Mile Island, fundamental changes will be necessary in the organization, procedures, and practices — and above all — in the attitude of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) and...of the nuclear industry."

The commissioners said even if their recommendations are implemented, "We do not claim...to assure the safety of nuclear power."

For one thing, the panel recommended that the NRC be abolished and replaced by an executive agency headed by a single administrator.

"The NRC is a headless agency," declared Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt in summing up the panel's criticism. "A debating society is no way to run the ship."

The commission also said future atomic power plants should be located in remote areas, existing plants near populated areas should be required to have special safety considerations, and no future plant should be built or licensed without a federally approved state or local emergency plan.

The investigation, which included seven public hearings and depositions from more than 150 government officials, industry representatives and citizens living near the plant, also concluded:

"The amount of radiation released from the damaged reactor was negligible, but the accident caused 'severe mental stress' among area residents."

"The utility that runs the plant, Metropolitan Edison Co., 'did not have sufficient knowledge, expertise and personnel to operate the plant or maintain it adequately."

"Emergency response to the accident by the NRC, state and federal emergency authorities and utility officials 'was dominated by an atmosphere of almost total confusion.'"

"While operator errors contributed significantly to the accident, problems were compounded by the industry's inability to heed signals from previous incidents, inadequately designed instruments, and unclear procedures."

"News reports generally reflected information obtained from official sources, but false information from those sources and a 'lack of understanding' of nuclear power by reporters left the public 'poorly served.' There was no evidence of a cover-up, however."

Nuclear mishap could cost utility as much as $2 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The utility that owns the Three Mile Island nuclear plant could face costs of almost $2 billion as a result of the accident that put the facility out of service, a presidential commission says.

burg, Pa., said it will cost between $369 million and $728 million to cover emergency management costs and put the crippled reactor back into operation.

The utility, General Public Utilities (GPU), will have to pay an additional sum of between $678 million and $1.1 billion for substitute power while the Three Mile Island facility is out of service, the commission concluded.

The commission report says its overall cost estimate — of between $1 billion and $1.86 billion — will apply only if the reactor resumes operation.

Texas' background theme for Carver Cultural Exchange Center

The arts and crafts, foods, music and dance, recreation, clothing and contributions of Texas are the theme this year for the Carver Cultural Exchange Center.

Parents of Emerson Elementary School's kindergarten students visited the center recently for an orientation and tour of the center's facilities.

The center is the old Carver High School and was reconditioned and opened in the fall of 1977 as a cultural exchange center for pupils in kindergarten through third grade.

Emerson kindergarten students' parents learned from Mrs. Beverly Ihinger, chairperson of the center that each child in kindergarten through third grade will visit the cultural center three times a year to help prepare them for when they will be bused from their neighborhood schools to other schools in accordance with the Midland Independent School District desegregation plan.

A slide presentation of the current theme, Salute to Texas, was shown and Mrs. Ihinger explained the scheduling and procedures for each grade level in the Midland Independent School District.

Joe Cummins, principal of Emerson Elementary School, told the parents of the relationship of the program at the center to the curriculum in the classroom.

Also a part of the program at Carver Cultural Center, these young students will participate in six other cultural exchange activities scheduled during the year, including inter-campus visits within the fourth through sixth grade cluster and joint field trips involving the pupils in the cluster.

The staff at Carver consists of one chairman (a half-time administrator and half-time teacher), five teachers, two instructional aides and one elementary clerk. The principal for the center was designated as the Director of Elementary Education.

There are eight centers used at Carver to demonstrate the particular culture of the year. The centers are social science, language arts, math, art, music, science, cooking and motor development. These centers are planned with multi-levelled games, activities and materials.

VISIBLE WOMAN

Women are more technical-minded than they think

By JANET LOWE
Copley News Service

V. Kilena Loveless is my heroine. She stepped right up and confronted the technical — the modern equivalent of jousting with an evil knight or rescuing damsels from dragons.

Loveless was riding a Washington, D.C., Metropolitan Rapid Transit system train several weeks ago, she and a hundred other passengers.

The subway cars are run by a computer, but an attendant is always in the driver's compartment to open and close the doors at stops, and to override the computer in an emergency. The door between the attendant and the passengers is secured by a lock designed to fend off possible attacks on his person.

But something went wrong with the plan.

The attendant opened his side door and stepped out on the ground to look down the track. The computer didn't know he was gone, and sent the train off, leaving the attendant staring after it in dismay.

The car pulled into the next station and stopped, but the doors didn't open. The runaway subway stopped at the next two stations, and again, the doors stayed shut.

The passengers were beginning to panic. Except V. Kilena Loveless, who pulled a barrette from her hair, picked the picklock and opened the operator's booth. She found the "stop" button, and held the train still in the busy Metro Center station, where all the lines meet. She opened the doors and let the happy passengers escape, though some complained that she hadn't let them out at the right station.

You can't help but admire a person who either has no barrier between herself and technical things, or has overcome the distance between herself and the mechanical. I have the same warm feelings for a friend who repaired her own refrigerator, yet subways and refrigerators are built by human hands. They can be manipulated and repaired by human logic ... so I tell myself. But when confronted with even a task as simple as changing fuses I balk.

Like so many other women, my mechanical ability has been killed with kindness. There has always been a thoughtful father, brother or husband standing by to say "Let me help you with that." And I always let them.

But later on it became apparent that dependence breeds contempt. If they messed up the job or weren't available to do repairs when my schedule needed them done, I felt impatient.

After some thought, it became apparent that I'd be happier and they'd be happier if I did more things for myself. Since then I've been engaged in a steady battle to find my own solutions. It takes time and money to call a repair person for every frayed cord, so I've tried to learn to do some of these things.

And when I did, a revelation came. We women aren't as un-technical as we think we are. If you can type and disassemble a typewriter for cleaning, you have manual dexterity.

If you can follow a pattern and sew a simple blouse, you can follow intricate instructions. Even my husband, who has been an engineer for 20 years, is boggled at the sight of a dress pattern. I'm not used to looking at blueprints, he's not used to looking at pattern prints. Yet there is little difference between the two of them. The real difference exists in our minds, and the barriers we set up for ourselves.

—Just last week, by using ingenuity and an unfolded paper clip, I took a link out of my watch band. The victory was still warm in my heart when I heard about V. Kilena Loveless and the saving of the subway.

DEAR ABBY.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

He's baby-faced, she's infantile

DEAR ABBY: I am four and a half years older than my husband. He's small in stature and has a baby face that makes him look years younger than he is. I, on the other hand, look my age, even though I work very hard at keeping my figure, selecting becoming, non-matronly clothes, and doing everything I can to look youthful.

In spite of all this, my husband hasn't aged a bit since we've been married (22 years), and many people have mistaken me for his mother. Recently, I was asked if our college-age son and my husband were both my sons!

So far, my husband hasn't overheard any of these remarks. We have good communication in other matters, but I haven't been able to bring myself to discuss this with him, or let him know how much it bothers me.

Believe me, I'm doing all I can to look youthful. Now all I need is a sharp, snappy answer ready for people who hurt me in this way. Can you help me? I've noticed that you can really turn a neat phrase, Abby. I need to be prepared the next time something like this happens. — NO SIG. PLEASE

DEAR NO SIG: I don't recommend a "sharp, snappy answer" for those who inadvertently hurt you by speaking their minds. Prepare yourself by adopting a more realistic attitude. Face it, you are married to a baby-faced man who doesn't look his age, and could conceivably be mistaken for your son. Look at it this way: You must have had something very special to have captured a "young man," so count your blessings and develop a tougher hide. (P.S. DO discuss it with him. When sensitive matters are brought out in the open, they lose their sting.)

DEAR ABBY: My father is over 85 but still sharp as a tack mentally, still works every day and is very active. The problem is that Papa drives a car. He shouldn't. He has a license to drive, but he is a danger on the streets.

His vision isn't very good (particularly at night) and I am worried sick that he might kill himself or some innocent person. I've tried to tell him he shouldn't drive, but he is a very proud man, and stubborn, too.

Any ideas on what to do about my problem? — LOVES PAPA

DEAR LOVES: If you love Papa as you say you do, you will quietly report him to the motor vehicle department. They act on such reports to re-test any licensed driver who could be a hazard.

Ginna Hanna, left, new president of Desert Winds Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., takes the gavel of office from the outgoing president, Carolyn Dixon.

Sweet Adelines elect Ginna Hanna president

New officers were installed and a yearly award was presented during the Desert Winds chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., meeting at the First United Methodist Church.

New officers are Ginna Hanna, president; Norma Lowe, vice president; Francis Tomlinson, treasurer; Pat Scarber, corresponding secretary and Lola Barber, recording secretary.

Carolyn Dixon won the Sweet Adeline of the Year award for her outstanding leadership and contributions throughout the year.

New director for Desert Winds Chapter is Walter Wright and his assistant is Pat Woolard.

The club will meet weekly at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays at the Lee High School Choral Room.

Dallasite to appear at meeting

The Book-Review Unit of the Midland Woman's Club will present Joy Davis of Dallas at their Monday meeting.

The review will be held in the Hogan Park Clubhouse, with the social hour beginning at 11:30 a.m. and lunch served at noon.

Ms. Davis has been called a "verbal artist," depicting with words and dramatic action the plots of best-selling novels. Always in costume, she portrays the characters of the book visually, so that they come to life before her audiences.

Ms. Davis presents both fiction and non-fiction, correlating each year's new reviews with current subjects of interest. She is partial to the historical story, the romance and mystery of yesterday's events which still have an effect on tomorrow's headlines.

Ms. Davis' B.A. degree from Mississippi College was received with a double major, one in history and one in journalism. Her experience in dramatics stretches from her college days to the present time.

She has remained active in alumni activities, and in the 1960s was nominated by her alma mater to appear in the publication "Outstanding Young Women of America."

In 1976, Mrs. Davis was nominated for a National Freedom Foundation Award in the category of public speaking for the address "Great American Ideas," which was subsequently requested by numerous civic organizations.

Last year, she filled an even 90 speaking engagements for book clubs, women's clubs, forums and church women throughout the Southwest, and as far away as Wisconsin, Nebraska and Iowa.

Negativism unattractive in children

By DR. WILLARD ABRAHAM, Ph.D. Copley News Service

Q. There is nothing I dislike as much as a complaining child, and I have one! She's 14 years old, and she complains about almost everything -- it's too hot or too cold, meals are too late or too early, the clothing I buy for her is all wrong (although she dresses in the same sloppy style as all of her friends do), nothing seems to satisfy her.

I know exactly where this habit comes from because her father is the same way. Surprisingly enough, her three older brothers are just the opposite, very appreciative of everything that is done for them.

She really likes all of them, so perhaps there is some way that I can use them in helping her get rid of this negative personality. What do you think?

A. It sounds as though you have a daughter for whom too much has been done, without enough responsibilities being given to her. So perhaps that's a place to start, in connection with meals and clothing selection, for example. Then she can begin to bear the consequences of her own decisions.

Her brothers might also be helpful if they will share with her the characteristics they like most in the girls they know. Presumably they will not include her kind of negativism. They could point out to her that such attitudes are destructive in helping her make and keep friends.

The kind of habits she seems to have are difficult to break, but you are right in trying to work on them. They can lead to considerable unhappiness later on.

Read those deli labels

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY Registered Dietitian Copley News Service

Nitrites has become a scary word. In households across the country they are shunned as part of the cancer-causing chemicals infiltrated into our food supply. Bacon and luncheon meats preserved by nitrites have been offered to the public in wide varieties. Choices from bologna and salami to tongue and pressed ham have been the mainstay of millions of sandwiches for generations of Americans. Now, things are changing. A new law has been passed, effective Sept. 20, which should make the consumer beware of their deli meat purchases.

The new law permits meats that formerly were protected from deadly botulism by curing with nitrates to be produced without them and labeled by their common name. Bologna that was uncured by nitrates had to be labeled "uncured bologna." It may sound like a simple change that we, as consumers, need not be concerned with in our purchases and use of such products. It may even sound more appealing to those who are terrified of nitrates, but I must warn you of potential great danger, particularly in the way we have come to handle processed meats in the home.

We have been relatively free of one of the most deadly food poisons known to man. Botulism poisoning was once a common cause of death, before the use of nitrite curing of meats, which killed the botulism organisms.

Now, with the removal of nitrites as preserving agents in some products, we again face the danger of botulism.

The new regulation provides that the labels on nitrite-free products must carry the word "uncured" as part of the product name, and contain the statement "no nitrite or nitrate added." If no other method of preserving such as drying, canning, or pickling is used, the label must also warn "no preservatives - keep refrigerated below 40 degrees Fahrenheit at all times."

The danger lies in the failure of many people to read and understand labels. Busy mothers who grab nitrite-free bologna for school lunch sandwiches, thinking it is better than cured bologna, yet handling it as if preserved, are placing their children in potential danger. If the uncured meat sandwich sits unrefrigerated in a school locker from 8 a.m. until lunch time, nothing prevents botulism from developing.

Nellie Brown displays some of the gifts that will be on sale when the Midland Chapter of the Lubbock Christian College Associates conduct its fall Gift Fair and Bake Sale Friday and Saturday at Dellwood Plaza Mall. This project is held to help in the construction of a tennis court at the college to be called the Walker Court in memory of a longtime member of the Associates and a supporter of LCC, Oza Mae Walker. Baked goods donated by associates and friends also will be for sale as well as LCC cookbooks and flavorings.

Apartment decor that can graduate

By BARBARA HARTUNG Copley News Service

Q. My husband and I married recently and are living in a condominium. We hope eventually to buy a larger home and so the furniture we buy now we'd plan to use in another house.

We like contemporary furniture and I had considered buying a china closet I have been admiring for some time. However, it is such a large piece, I'm wondering if I'd be making a mistake. My fear is that I might not have a good place in another home for it.

Also we want to buy some upholstered furniture. What should we look for that will be flexible for our home now and later? Also what do we need to look for in deciding whether a piece of wood furniture is worth the price? -- F.S.

A. When you find a piece of furniture you fall in love with, it takes great willpower to keep from buying it. But, my inclination would be to forego the large piece and instead opt for some component pieces that would serve as a China closet when put together and would work equally well as end tables, sofa tables and etageres in another setting years from now. Quality pieces such as these would be an excellent start for another home and could be very useful to you now.

The same goes for upholstered pieces. Most frequently a pair of short sofas will be much more flexible and adaptable than one long, heavy sofa.

Birmingham elects black mayor

By KIM N. PRICE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — In the most racially plagued election in its recent history, Birmingham voters turned out in record numbers to elect the first black mayor of this Southern industrial city.

"All the eyes of the nation were on the city of Birmingham," President Carter told Dr. Richard Arrington, educator and son of a sharecropper, in a telephone call moments before unofficial tallies showed Arrington had defeated attorney Frank Parsons by a vote of 44,798 to 42,814.

By pulling an unofficial 51 percent of the vote Tuesday, Arrington became the third black mayor of a major Southern city, joining Ernest Morial of New Orleans and Maynard

Jackson of Atlanta.

"This is a historic occasion for our city because the majority of the voters of this city have chosen who they want for mayor," said Arrington, who told supporters of his telephone call from the president.

"I believe that the decision of the voters in this city says more about how far Birmingham has come. I think the votes will show that we were able to get support from both blacks and whites and I'm very proud of that fact," he said. "I'm proud of the voters because they put aside racial fears. They looked at the campaign based on issues."

More than 87,000 of the city's 118,660 registered voters turned out to vote in the election. In the primary Oct. 9, voters divided along racial lines because of former Mayor David Vann's handling of a shooting incident this summer, and blacks turned out by thousands at the polls Tuesday.

Blacks were angered before the primary when a young black woman accidentally was killed by a white policeman. Vann, caught between firing the policeman or having his police officers strike, finished a weak fourth in a field of seven.

A two-term councilman, Arrington received more than 30,000 votes in the primary, 9,000 less than the combined totals of the other candidates. Blacks hold a 45.6 minority in voting citywide.

Parsons, 38, campaigned as a "God-fearing" candidate and said he would carry "sound Christian principles" into office.

"I want all of you to know we have run a campaign of unity in our city," Parsons told disheartened supporters. "If these votes are certified, I will be the first to congratulate Dr. Arring-

Richard Arrington

I encourage each of you to join in helping the city go forward."

Arrington, 45, serves as the executive director for the Alabama Center for Higher Education, a consortium of black colleges. He stayed away from racial issues and campaigned door-to-door in black and white neighborhoods.

Vann said Arrington, who takes office Nov. 13, will have a tough time for 60 days after his inauguration.

"The test the next 60 days is pulling it together. I think Arrington can do that. I wasn't ready for a black mayor...I wanted a white mayor — me. I think he will do a good job," Vann said.

Blacks total one percent of U.S. elected officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of black elected officials rose by 2 percent last year, the smallest increase in a decade, a new survey shows.

The study by the Joint Center for Political Studies found that there are now 4,607 blacks, including 882 women, among the nation's 490,265 elected officials. That is less than 1 percent of the total. Blacks make up 11 percent of the population.

This new data shows a pause in the constant rate of increase in the number of black elected officials that has characterized the 1970s. The steepest growth occurred between 1971 and 1972, when the number of black elected officials jumped by 22 percent. There was a 4 percent increase from 1977 to 1978.

"While the formal barriers to black political participation have been removed, a variety of more informal and more insidious barriers remain," said Eddie N. Williams, president of the Joint Center.

"Social and economic handicaps in disadvantaged communities limit and undercut effective political participation; racial gerrymandering dilutes the black vote; white voters in many instances are reluctant to support black candidates and in some cases, have held higher standards for performance for black candidates and officials than for their white counterparts," he said.

The Joint Center is a private, non-profit, non-partisan research institution.

About 60 percent of the black office holders live in the South, where 54 percent of the nation's black population lives. Moreover, the South gained 35 new black elected officials last year, the largest numerical increase for any region.

About 21.5 percent of the elected black officials live in the North Central region, where 20 percent of American blacks live. Eleven percent of the black elected officials live in the Northeast, where 18 percent of the black population lives.

The West, where 9 percent of the black population lives, has 11.7 percent of the black elected officials.

Louisiana has the most black elected officials with 334. It is followed by Mississippi with 327, Illinois with 276, Michigan with 272, the District of Columbia with 247, North Carolina with 240, Georgia with 237, California with 227, Arkansas with 226, South Carolina with 222, Alabama with 208 and New York with 195.

One-day real estate seminar slated at Midland College

A one-day real estate seminar, designed to meet educational requirements stated by federal law, will be held Nov. 14 at Midland College.

The class will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in the lecture hall of the Allison Fine Arts Building. Jim Arnold will be instructor. Fee is $5.

"Since this is a required course, we anticipate as many as 200 persons for the seminar," noted James Bramlett, director of community services at the college. "We urge early registration in order that we may accommodate everyone."

Persons wanting to pre-register may do so in Room 156, Administration Building, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, or 6:30 to 6:45 p.m. the day of the class.

The three-hour course meets the requirements listed in Senate Bill 171, Section 4, Subsection K, which requires all applicants seeking their Real Estate Salesmanship license to complete course work on federal, state and local laws governing housing discrimination, housing credit-discrimination and community re-investment.

Additional information may be obtained by dialing 684-7851, extension 347.

Quarterbacks abound in 5-4A

Now having seen every team in the district play at least one game, it appears to me that District 5-4A is loaded with quarterbacks. I thought it might be fun to take a look at some of the headlines.

I don't think I've ever seen a league blessed with so many outstanding quarterbacks. From the eight teams in the league, I would have to rate at least six way above the average mark. And there are several others who could play in just about any league.

I would hate to pick the best of the lot, and that will have to happen down the road when the All-District team is picked. The list is star studded. Loyal Proffitt, Abilene High; Michael Feldt, Midland High; John Slaughter, Abilene Cooper; Kelly Howard, Permian; Gary Butler, Midland Lee; and Billy Rumbaugh, Odessa High.

IT MUST be noted that Butler missed three quarters of action against Big Spring and played with a very bad ankle against Cooper. Howard and Rumbaugh have missed at least one complete district game with injuries and Slaughter has shared the quarterbacking role with Chuck Dycus at Cooper. So it's really hard to get an overall line on the quarterbacks.

However, Midland High's Feldt has produced the most offense with 480 yards passing and rushing. Proffitt comes next with 450 yards and Slaughter has 410. Slaughter has also scored 24 points to lead in that category. The others are Howard, 261; Butler, 231 and Rumbaugh, 213.

Proffitt is the leading passer with 483 yards, but his 63 attempts is almost twice the amount of any other passer in the league. Feldt and Butler are the only two quarterbacks completing more than 50 percent of their passes. Feldt has connected on 18 of 34 for 285 yards while Butler has 16 of 25 for 174 yards. Proffitt has 30 completions to go with his 63 attempts.

Feldt is also the league's best rushing quarterback with 195 yards while Slaughter is next with 150 steps. From there it gets a little crazy. Lee's Barry Corley, who has played only one game at quarterback for the Rebels, comes next with 138 yards rushing. That should give Lee fans some optimism for next season since Corley is only a junior. Dycus has 101 for Cooper, but he and Slaughter have been almost interchangeable and sometimes Cooper uses them both in the same backfield. They did just that several times in the game against Lee.

Feldt, Dycus and Proffitt are all juniors. As mentioned, Corley is a junior as is Johnny Subia of Odessa High. Subia is the one that played so well against Lee when Rumbaugh was out with injuries.

SAN ANGELO'S Kel Crain may not be in the class of the above mentioned quarterbacks, but he is only a sophomore and appears to be improving weekly. Big Spring's David Coffey is only a junior, but he needs help in the offensive line. 5-4A coaches generally think Coffey is both a fine runner and passer.

So, it's easy to see that there is a lot of talent at quarterback in District 5-4A, and by the looks of it, there seems to be no end in sight. A lot of them are going to be back.

Slaughter, Butler, Howard and Rumbaugh are seniors who will be lost and missed. But we will remember and there are still three games left in which to see them strut their stuff. And as far as Slaughter is concerned, he may have a lot more than three games left.

The Cougars are headed for the playoffs — aren't they?

Houston's Grady Turner...Bigfoot loose in SWC?

Flanagan added changeup to win award

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Flanagan picked up an effective changeup delivery, learned how to deal with the news media and wound up as the American League's Cy Young Award winner for the 1979 season.

The 27-year-old left-hander, who posted a 23-9 record for Baltimore's league champions, was a runaway winner in the balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Flanagan received 26 of 28 first-place votes, with New York Yankees pitchers Tommy John and Ron Guidry, the 1978 winner, sharing the other two.

"I'll always look at the award as a team thing," said Flanagan, the fifth Orioles' pitcher in 11 years years to win or share the prestigious award.

"Maybe I was the best pitcher," Flanagan said while noting the Orioles won 108 games in regular and postseason play, "but I was also on the best team."

Flanagan, a native of Manchester, N.H., who was Baltimore's seventh choice in the June, 1973 draft, credited teammate Scott McGregor with turning his season around by teaching him a changeup.

"It came natural from the first time he showed me how to throw it," Flanagan said. "In the first half of the season, if

Incredible Hulk? Hogs met him in UH's Turner

HOUSTON (AP) — After a weekend of wrecking havoc on the Arkansas Razorbacks, Houston Cougar linebacker Grady Turner finally has calmed down. There have been no reports of Turner tackling anyone on the UH campus or splitting trees with his head en route to workouts.

But last Saturday, none could have convinced the Razorbacks that Turner was not the Cougar version of Bigfoot. Turner recovered a fumble that started Houston on its only touchdown drive of the game, intercepted a pass that set up the winning field goal and added 17 tackles.

Turner's performance in only his fifth collegiate start earned him The Associated Press Southwest Conference and national defensive player of the week honors.

"Aside from making 17 tackles, recovering a fumble and intercepting a pass he didn't do too much, just stood around," Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said jokingly.

It's not as though Turner was any secret weapon. Yeoman has known all along the capabilities of the Tyler sophomore, who was redshirted last year. Turner got his chance early this season when linebacker Steve Bradham was sidelined with an infected elbow.

"It was rather hard explaining to Grady last year why he was not playing," Yeoman said. "And when Bradham got sick the feeling was pretty widespread that Grady could do a completely acceptable job."

The Cougars shutout Arkansas in the second half just as they have done with opponents all season. Houston has allowed only two second half touchdowns this season and four Southwest Conference opponents have netted a total of three second half points.

"We don't really rehearse that," Turner said. "We go out with intentions of shutting them out but it seems our motors don't get started until the second half. Our motors are running at the start but I guess we do better when it gets tough."

Turner started the game at right linebacker and moved over to the left side when starter David Hodge left the game with an ankle injury in the second quarter. Turner said he and Hodge were close friends and that Hodge was a great teacher of the art of linebacking.

"I just like to sit back and watch him play," Turner said. "He has the uncanny knack for getting the direction of where the play is going. Once you learn that, the rest is just natural talent and getting to the ball."

And Saturday, the teacher got a chance to watch the pupil.

Yeoman runs scared against TCU

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Yeoman has spent the season teaching his fourth ranked Cougars the one-step-taking each game one step at a time and after seven weeks he doesn't intend to let them stumble over Texas Christian.

When told Tuesday that one UH official already was considering bowl possibilities, Yeoman replied "Tell him that's fine but don't tell me anything about it. The only game I'm concerned with right now is TCU."

The Horned Frogs, 2-5 going into their homecoming game, are much improved, Yeoman said.

"We've looked at the film and unless I'm mistaken, they haven't given up many touchdowns in the last two games," Yeoman said. "They have restricted their offense to the point that they are doing a few things very well."

Yeoman said he wasn't concerned about his team being ready to play the Frogs, 2-5.

"People keep worrying about our frame of mind," Yeoman said. "I think our frame of mind will be fine this week. I think maybe it's the media's frame of mind I should be worried about."

The Cougar defense has done a lot to keep Yeoman from worrying this season. It has permitted only two second half touchdowns all season and four SWC foes have netted a total of three points in the third quarter and none in the fourth period.

"I don't think we've ever been that stingy in the second half before," Yeoman said. "It's a credit to our kids and coaches that they've been able to adjust for the second half."

Earl Weaver...cause of fight

Cooper tells all on 'Sneak Punch' Billy

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Cooper, a 52-year-old marshmallow salesman from Illinois, had kept quiet for a week. He said he didn't want the man, whom he later accused of sucker-punching him, to lose his job.

The man was Billy Martin, twice but no longer the manager of the New York Yankees. Cooper's reason for remaining silent ended Sunday when Yankees owner George Steinbrenner fired Martin.

"The reason I stayed silent so long was I didn't want Martin to lose his job," Cooper said. "But I couldn't stand all the lies that went around."

"I feel very badly about it," Cooper said. "It's something that happens in life that you don't like to see happen."

Cooper, a family man with two sons and a productive sales job, described the scenario leading to "The Punch" late Oct. 23. It was a punch that cost the 51-year-old Martin his job, and perhaps his career in baseball.

"I was in Minneapolis on business, and I had dinner with a business associate at the L'Hotel de France, in Bloomington, Minn.," Cooper said. "After dinner, my business associate asked if I would like to have a nightcap, so we went into the bar."

"The only place open was a section of the bar between Billy Martin and Howard Wong (a longtime associate of Martin). Martin was there, but he had a cowboy hat on, and I didn't really recognize him. But my business associate did recognize him."

"He said, 'Hi, Billy,' and we talked to him about his job and what the future looked like, and so forth. Then I made a statement to Billy that I thought it was a good choice picking Dick Williams (of Montreal) as manager of the year, although I thought Earl Weaver (of Baltimore) did a good job too."

"Billy said, 'They are both — holes, and you're an — hole too for saying it.'"

"Then he asked me what I did for a living, and he asked my business associate too. I told him I was in sales with marshmallows," Cooper said. "They thought it was a big joke, as everybody does. Then he introduced us to Howard Wong and asked if we wanted to meet a millionaire."

"Then Martin mentioned that he thought it was a bad choice that Williams was manager of the year, and he said he wanted to go outside and 'whip your on your —.' It was five $100 bills.

"I still didn't say too much, but he was harassing me, but time comes when pride comes into focus. I put a penny on his $500 and said, 'Let's go.'"

"Between the bar and the lobby is probably about 30 feet, and there's an archway in between. He was ahead of me, and I was behind. As we walked through the archway into the lobby, he abruptly turned and hit me in the mouth."

"I assume all of his fights have been sucker punches."

Cooper wound up with about 15 stitches in his lip and something pretty important to think about, especially for a man from Lincolnshire, a man unused to the limelight that follows men like Martin.

"It's a sad affair," he said, "and I just want it to disappear. I would have forgot about it, and I guess he would have too. But the thing that really upset me were the lies."

Cooper said that the two primary untruths that surfaced during the incident were that he cut his lip in a fall and that he swung at Martin, "which I never did."

With the story all but dying out, Martin also chose Tuesday to release a three-part statement through his agent, Doug Newson.

"One, I have read and heard a lot of things about myself in the past several days that are untrue which have hurt me very much," the statement said.

"Two, I am in touch with the offices of the Commissioner of Baseball and the American League and at my request will be meeting with them to discuss each and every statement and circumstance leading up to and following my firing. I have nothing to hide."

"Three, I do not want or need anymore of George Steinbrenner's so-called help. He should not be allowed to run my life anymore or to interfere with my future in baseball. I will always love baseball and I want the fans to know I will be back."

Martin's reference to "so-called help" from Steinbrenner stemmed from quotes by several friends of the Yankees owner.

"George is worried about Martin getting involved in more serious incidents," a source close to Steinbrenner said. "What happens if another guy falls down and is hurt more seriously or if a guy pulls a knife and kills Billy?"

The source quoted Steinbrenner as saying: "I don't want that to happen to Billy, his family, to the Yankees or to baseball."

Martin's history with the Yankees was one punctuated by punches, squabbles and hard drinking.

Martin first was hired by the Yankees to replace Bill Virdon midway through the 1975 season. On July 24, 1978, Martin resigned shortly after calling Reggie Jackson a liar and referring to Steinbrenner's conviction for illegal campaign contributions to Richard Nixon. Health reasons also were reported at the root of Martin's resignation. They included a drinking problem. Five days after his resignation, Steinbrenner said Billy would be back to manage in 1980.

Last November, Martin punched a reporter in a bar in Reno, Nev., but Steinbrenner said he still could be manager if he stayed out of trouble. Martin was rehired sooner than Steinbrenner planned midway through the 1979 campaign to replace Bob Lemon.

However, "The Punch" in an hotel in Bloomington, Minn., ended his Yankee career, apparently for good.

"It's very unfortunate," Cooper said. "I'm sad about it. I'm sorry for Martin, too."

More than 65 golfers, including 45 Americans, will vie for the first place prize money of $18,750 at the 6,130-yard, par-74 Hanayashiki Country Club course in western Japan.

The field includes nearly all the top money earners, including Americans Donna C. Young, Judy Rankin, Beth Daniel and Hollis Stacy. Other foreigners include Sally Little of South Africa, Jan Stephenson and Penny Pulz of Australia, Silvia Bertolaccini of Argentina, M.J. Smith of New Zealand, Michelle Walker of Britain and Barbara Mizrahi of Indonesia.

Taiwan's three golfers will be headed by veteran Tu Ai-yu and Japan's 16 pros by Hisako "Chako" Higuchi.

FSU resurgence is good and bad news for coach

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State's high-rolling football team now is ranked sixth in the nation, which is both good and bad news for Seminole Coach Bobby Bowden.

The plus is that the Florida State football program, which hit rock bottom with an 0-11 record during the 1973 season, is moving to national prominence and a possible major bowl bid in November.

"We're happy with the ranking," Bowden said Tuesday. "It means we're moving closer to our goal (of a national championship)."

The negative side for the head coach is getting his players back down to earth after they moved to the new ranking with a 24-19 victory over Louisiana State last Saturday. Florida State's seventh win against no losses this season.

"That's the most difficult job for a coach," Bowden said. "We just have to hope that our kids can react with the same enthusiasm they've shown all season."

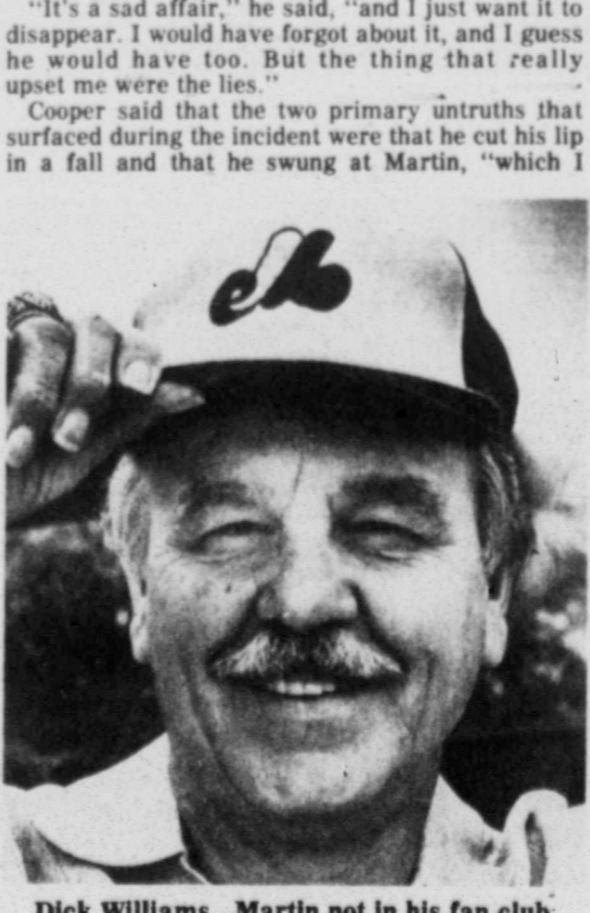

"I don't think the kids seem to be reacting to the pressure of being ranked sixth. We had a good practice

Monday and we'll need more of them this week.

Bowden's job is cut out for him this week as Florida State goes from a regional television victory over a nationally ranked team in front of 67,000 vocal fans at Baton Rouge, La., to a game against the 2-5 Bearcats in front of an expected turnout of 20,000 Saturday afternoon in Cincinnati.

"We have to avoid being upset," Bowden said. "You know we're going to go in there (Cincinnati) as a favorite. Our win over LSU dictates that."

"Our boys will have to prepare just

Dick Williams...Martin not in his fan club.

FSU resurgence is good and bad news for coach

like we prepared for LSU or we're going to be a statistic. You know that every week someone is getting knocked off. Last week Navy and Arkansas were statistics. Cincinnati is going to try to put us right there with them."

The Seminoles had all they could handle last year in Tallahassee when they pulled off a come-from-behind 26-21 victory. They needed a touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter on a fourth-and-22 situation to top the Bearcats.

Chaps to enjoy home course edge

If the home course has an advantage, the Midland College men's golf team hopes to capitalize on it Thursday and Friday. The Chaparrals are hosting the third Western Junior College Athletic Conference tournament of the fall season, along with their annual invitational tourney at Midland Country Club. This is the late tournament for the fall semester, with three more events scheduled during the spring. Going into the tournament, the Chaps are in second place, just a slim one-half point behind New Mexico Junior College. NMJC has 11 points and Midland College had 10 1/2 points. Western Texas has 8 1/2, Odessa College six and New Mexico Military Institute and Frank Phillips College three points each. "We tied for third in the first conference tournament at Frak Phillips College and then won the tournament hosted by Odessa College," noted MC golf coach Delnor Poss. "Our goal is to win our own tournament and go into the last three tournaments with everyone else trying to catch us." The Chaps won their first WJCAC golf title last spring and intend to keep the crown this year. The first day of play at Midland Country Club will be part of the MC Invitational, with scores the second day counting as the conference tournament along with the last part of the individual. With one day of qualifying still remaining, Poss expects to choose his six tourney players from among the following: Jim Julian; Jim Sanchez; Pat Ward; Denny O'Connor; Alan Coe; Grant Spencer; Jeff Lutke; and Craig Day.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Pearson probably will miss Giants Sunday

Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday it will be difficult for injured halfback Preston Pearson to heal fast enough to play against the Giants Sunday and that rookie Ron Spriggs will be readied to replace him. Pearson, quarterback Roger Staubach's favorite third-down pass target, suffered a rib cartilage separation and a strained knee in Sunday's 14-3 loss to Pittsburgh. Landry said Staubach, who suffered a concussion against the Steelers, is having the most trouble with a bruised knee. "I don't know how quick Roger is going to be...he may not be too mobile Sunday." Linebacker Thomas Henderson was the other question mark because of a pulled hamstring. "It may stay with him, I'm not sure," said Landry. "It was a tough game against the Steelers and a very disappointing loss." Out offense had problems. Pittsburgh was just outstanding against the run." Landry cited numerous drops by the receivers as momentum killers, but didn't feel the Steeler secondary intimidated the receivers. Landry said "No, they weren't intimidated. They just had a heck of a time getting away from them. They were bumping and running."

Running back Gary Allen of Hawaii stands 5-foot-9 and weighs 165 pounds, but he tied a WAC Conference season mark Saturday by gaining 202 yards against Texas-El Paso and was named offensive player of the week while San Diego State safety Johnny Moore was named defensive standout for two fourth quarter interceptions that thwarted Utah threats. Darrell Dickey, 19, son of Kansas State Coach Jim Dickey, made his first start at quarterback Saturday, throwing two touchdown passes and leading the K-State Wildcats to a 19-3 upset victory over Missouri and was named Big Eight offensive player of the week. The freshman completed 15 of 25 passes for 187 yards. Six of his completions came on third-down plays with more than six yards to go and he completed seven of eight tosses on K-State's three scoring drives.

The Houston-Texas Tech game has been moved from Saturday, Nov. 24, to Friday, Nov. 23, and will be televised nationally as part of a college football doubleheader and air time will be either 11 a.m. or 2 p.m. Either Washington-USC or another game will complete the doubleheader...

Billy Martin badgered a marshmallow salesman about his occupation and bet $500 against the man's penny that he could whip him in a fight, the St. Paul Pioneer Press reported today. Martin denied publicly that he struck Joseph Cooper of Lincolnshire, Ill., at l'Hotel de France in Blooming Tuesday. The Press quoted a eyewitness who said he saw Martin slap a $500 bill on a bar, heard Martin suggest that Cooper wager a penny and then heard Martin tell the salesman, "I can knock you on your -- and you won't get up," although the witness did not see the fight. Paul Dietzel, LSU AD, says if ABC-TV wants to televise the Nov. 10 college football game between LSU and Alabama, it will at 7:30 p.m., as scheduled, rather than the 11:50 a.m. starting time that ABC wants. Not only do the fans oppose the idea of switching from night to day, he said, but they feel the switch will be both unlucky and expensive. Dietzel said LSU got $42,000 — after splitting the TV swag with SEC members — for switching from a night to day for

Mays can't understand reasoning

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Willie Mays' dark eyes widened in that naive, little boy way of his and he said he didn't understand why he couldn't work for an Atlantic City resort hotel and still wear his New York Mets uniform.

"They say it's because the hotel has a gambling casino," he said. "That has nothing to do with me. I don't know anything about gambling."

"Besides, look at all the owners in baseball who have race horses. That's gambling, too. If you gamble, what difference does it make how you do it?"

Mays' question was being echoed all around the country today — by pin-striped executives having lunch at the athletic club, guys tossing a few beers in the neighborhood pub, kids, taxi drivers and housewives.

Why? Really, why? Commissioner Bowie Kuhn gave his explanation — a forthright dictum that fit nicely the straight-laced corset of baseball — but a majority of people were left confused.

After all, little old ladies fly out to Las Vegas to feed nickels into the slot machines. Secretaries enter office pools at Kentucky Derby time. Kids pitch pennies at a crack in the sidewalk. Churches hold bingo games and preachers are not averse to engaging in a two-buck Nassau on the golf course. Millions play the football cards.

Where does the sin of gambling actually lie? Can you be half pregnant?

Kuhn says this is largely immaterial. The key factor, he insists, is that the one thing baseball has going for it is integrity, which should never be jeopardized.

"The commissioner's main job," he says, "is to protect this integrity at all costs."

Baseball, he reasons, must avoid not only evil but the appearance of evil. It must guard against the slightest intrusion — even if it's a tiny germ — that could ultimately contaminate the whole sport.

Gambling, in his view, is a dire threat. He always, he contends, has opposed legalized as well as illegal gambling and will combat it at every gate. Acceptability of baseball involvement in horse racing was deeply entrenched when he took office in 1969 and there's little he can do to change it.

He can only try to prevent the spread of the infection, which he did 10 years ago by persuading Charlie Finley of the A's and three Braves directors to divest themselves of stock in a company with casino holdings. The Willie Mays affair is the first such case since then.

You can't fault the commissioner's idealism. Baseball still is the great American pastime, a sport that has not sold its soul to the money changers and has remained within reach of the common man.

Nevertheless, it is ludicrous to believe baseball can be insulated from the rest of the imperfect outside world. It is populated by people of wide varieties. It isn't a Boy Scout troop. It is a big money enterprise with pimples and warts. It is grown up. It must face reality. Baseball can't fight the Constitution.

Kuhn cannot be blamed, however, for the sensational treatment of Willie Mays' $1 million-plus contract with the Park Plaza Hotel and the subsequent edict that the "Say Hey" legend must hang up his Mets suit.

The commissioner advised principals months ago that he held the position that — following precedent — it was against baseball's best interests for Willie to work for a casino while in baseball employ.

"I told Willie that he had done nothing wrong," Kuhn said. "I felt I must make no stand public lest something happen later that might taint both Willie and the game."

There was overreaction all around.

Kuhn had hoped to handle the matter discreetly, but journalists and headline writers pounced on the story with vigor that it produced sensational headlines such as: "Mays Banned From Baseball."

Mays has been one of baseball's most talented and exemplary players. It is tragic for him to be made to look like another Shoeless Joe Jackson of the 1919 Black Sox scandal.

Gal dodges her dad, makes grade in football

SEATTLE (AP) — The toughest tackler Sarah Taylor had to get past to make the football team was her father, Don.

"He said, 'No, no way. That's the stupidest thing I've ever heard,'" she recalled.

"Her dad was a little negative at first because he was afraid she might get hurt," said her mother, Anne, "but he's come around and now he's very proud of her."

The 5-foot-8, 146-pound sophomore plays on the junior varsity at Lakeside, a private school, and has seen limited action in four varsity games. Her biggest play was catching a two-point conversion pass in a victory over LaConner.

Taylor and her coaches say boys on the junior varsity have been quicker to accept her than the varsity players. JV Coach Guy Gingell says the reason is that most of the younger players haven't started dating while the older varsity players tend to have a more traditional view of boy-girl relationships.

Sarah dates varsity co-captain Scott Grosse, who plays noseguard and fullback.

In other practices, Sarah is paired with other young players for contact drills. It took even the young boys a while to get used to blocking and tackling her.

"The first time I got hit, the guy said, 'I'm sorry,'" Sarah said. "I just started to laugh."

Crowds have been friendly, too. At Omak, fans hollered, "Put in the girl!"

Sarah is believed to be the fourth girl to turn out for prep football in Washington state and the second to play. Nancy Goss, a senior, played for Anacortes last year.

Attorney to issue opinion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Arizona attorney general probably will issue an opinion that Arizona State University's removal of head football Coach Frank Kush did not comply with Board of Regents rules, the Arizona Republic said today in a story quoting informed sources.

Attorney General Bob Corbin, asked for comment, said research is proceeding and a conclusion isn't due until later in the week.

"The research process is still under way," Corbin said. "What was seen was a preliminary study, which may or may not reflect the final opinion."

Kush denied striking Ruledge or attempting a cover-up.

Bulldogs seek No. 700 against Eastern Big Red

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Big Red to a college football fan usually means Nebraska or Oklahoma, but the Big Red that stands in the way of an unprecedented 700th football victory for Yale is Cornell.

Yale, the only unbeaten major college team in the East this year, faces Cornell Saturday in a key Ivy League football contest that will be televised regionally.

Yale will be seeking its seventh victory without a defeat this season and its 700th football triumph in history. If Yale wins, it will become the first college in the game's history to reach that milestone.

Cornell, on the other hand, would like to inflict Yale's 200th defeat ever and knot this year's Ivy League race when the two teams meet in Ithaca, N.Y.

Yale — with its 699-199-53 all-time football record — has not lost in 11 consecutive games over the past two seasons. But Coach Carmen Cozza is cautious about the game against Cornell, which is 4-2 overall and trails Yale by one game in the Ivy League.

"Without a question, they're the best offensive team we've played this year," Cozza said at a press luncheon Tuesday. "They're definitely much better than last year."

Yale clobbered Cornell

42-14 in New Haven last season with Eli quarterbacks scoring five touchdowns and Ken Hill returning the second half kickoff 100 yards for a score.

Cozza pointed out that Cornell has the top offense in the Ivy League and rushed for 375 yards against Dartmouth last week. Junior swingback Tom Widenkopf gained 247 of those yards on 30 carries.

Yale, meanwhile, still is the top team in the nation in rushing defense (59.2 yards per game) and total defense (153.5 yards per game).

MC hosts net tourney

Fourteen teams have entered the Midland College Fall Team Tennis Tournament which gets underway Thursday on the MC courts and continues through Saturday.

"This is probably one of the strongest fields we've ever had to play at Midland College and it should be great for spectators," said MC tennis coach Brian Gilley. "The North Texas State team won the Texas A&M tournament recently while Southwest Texas State was third last year in the NAIA and UTPB was third in the AIAW."

Teams entered include North Texas men and women, New Mexico Military Institute men and women; Southwest Texas State men and women, South Plains College men and women, Midland College men and women, UTPB women, Texas Tech women, Angelo State women and Hardin-Simmons University men.

In each round there will be six singles and three doubles matches played between two teams. Teams rotate and the team winners are those who win the largest number of matches.

Competing for Midland College's men's team will be Scott Dunn, Russell Houck, Oscar Ontiveros, Sam Rivera, Gabriel Silva, Gerald Sellers and Des Ward.

The MC women's team includes Brenda Burgess, Linda Hankins, Teresa Landry, Leslie Miller, Debbie Smith and Leslie Towry.

Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, pausing after Tuesday's sharp rally.

Gainers held a 6-5 edge on losers in the mid-day rally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

But the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 15.9 on Tuesday, dropped back 3.16 to 820.65 by noon today.

Analysts viewed Tuesday's upsurge as primarily a technical rally rather than a response to any particular positive news.

They noted that investors were still faced with prospects of more increases in world oil prices and record-high interest rates.

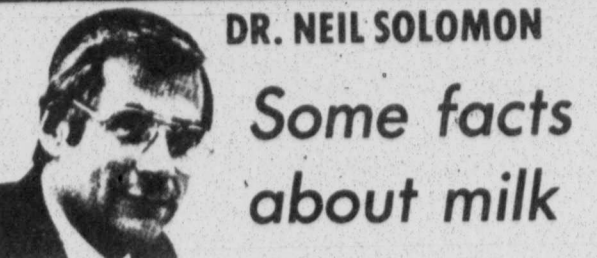

In foreign-exchange markets today, the dollar was mixed, while gold prices rose slightly.

McDonnell Douglas fell 1 1/2 to 25 1/2 after a delayed opening. A Western Airlines DC10 jet on a flight from Los Angeles crashed in Mexico City today, killing an undetermined number of people.

Data General led the active list, off 1 1/2 at 51 1/2 in trading that included a 157,000-share block at 5 1/2. The stock sold off sharply last week when the company reported lower quarterly earnings.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index edged .15 to 57.96. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .33 at 204.21.

Opening-hour volume on the Big Board came to 13.66 million shares at noon, against 12.12 million at the same point Tuesday.

Some facts about milk

Dear Dr. Solomon: Lately, whenever I drink milk I seem to get an upset stomach. I always thought milk was supposed to be the perfect food, and I can't understand why it has this effect on me. — Iris.

Dear Iris: Milk normally is an easily digested food with high food value, but not for everyone. Intolerance to lactase is the result of a deficiency of the enzyme lactase needed to digest the milk sugar lactose. It is unusual for infants to be born with the deficiency. However, adults who generally do not drink milk gradually lose their ability to digest it. Others who may have a low tolerance for milk include patients who have received radiation therapy in the area around their intestines.

There appears to be a substantial intolerance to milk among certain racial groups. Orientals, blacks, American Indians, Jews and Italians, especially those from around Naples, seem to have particularly difficulty digesting milk; northern Europeans, on the other hand, seem most able to tolerate it.

Those allergic to milk may suffer severe stomach cramps and diarrhea because of the undigested sugar, although most adults are not affected by the small amounts used in bread and many desserts. Among the alternatives to milk are fermented products such as yogurt and buttermilk, which no longer contain lactose, and cheese in which the sugar has been processed away.

Although milk is a valuable food, it is no longer considered to be perfect. It contains the three main constituents of food — protein which is of high quality, fat and carbohydrate. While milk is deficient in some vitamins, it is the best single source of calcium.

Pregnant women and nursing mothers are still encouraged to drink a quart a day. Three glasses a day are recommended for growing children, who usually need the nutrients and usually the calories, and for those adults who can tolerate it, a pint a day. Milk products, such as cheese, can, of course, be substituted in the diet.

Milk used to be considered the treatment of choice for ulcers, and was prescribed every two hours to reduce the effects of stomach acid. More recently, however, doctors have come to realize that anything in the stomach will help produce acid, and milk may actually aggravate the condition. Instead, antacids are now prescribed.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What is the difference between "enriched" and "fortified" when applied to foods? — Mrs. D.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Many people use the two words interchangeably. To be more exact, however, "enriched" generally refers to the replacement of vitamins and minerals lost in the processing of foods; "fortified" refers to the addition of nutrients that may be lacking in the diet.

Lone Star information said lacking

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Dallas business consultant claims Lone Star Gas Co. has not provided adequate data to support its request for a $40.9 million annual rate increase.

In testimony prepared for a Texas Railroad Commission hearing, Sam Rhodes of Touche Ross & Co. said: "The company has presented incomplete data to this commission concerning its overall earnings and investment in this proceeding."

Rhodes was hired by a group of Texas cities to investigate Lone Star's rate request.

A consultant for Lone Star testified Tuesday investors think it is riskier to invest in natural gas utilities than in other businesses.

Asked on cross-examination if investors think utilities are a greater risk, President Joseph Brennan of Associated Utility Services replied, "Investors think at this time that non-utilities are less risky — all elements of risk considered."

Brennan and others, such as Rhodes and Senior Vice President Douglas Williams of Lone Star, had previously submitted their testimony in writing to the commission.

Hearing examiner Glenn Johnson said those opposing the rate increase, including 112 customer cities, had indicated they would cross-examine Lone Star witnesses for approximately 35 hours.

Lone Star serves 421 cities and towns in Texas, including those that are protesting the rate increase: Abilene, Brownwood, Bryan, Dallas, Denton, Fort Worth, Gainesville, Kerrville, Palestine, Paris, San Angelo, Vernon, Waco and Wichita Falls.

The Lone Star increase would raise the average residential customer's bill by some $28 a year.

Currently, Lone Star is allowed to pass on to customers only 85 percent of the average cost of gas. It is seeking 100 percent pass-through plus 53.53 cents per thousand cubic feet (mcf).

Philip Brown, assistant director of public utilities for Dallas, said, "The current 85 percent flow-through is the absolute maximum that should be allowed the company."

Thomas James, director of public utilities for Dallas, said "authorization of 100 percent flow-through of increased cost of gas would tend to shift the burden of monitoring costs and checking of calculations of gas adjustment to the customers."

Williams said Lone Star failed to recover $12 million in the 12 months ending in April because of the 85 percent limitation.

"To buy gas knowing you cannot recover your cost is a bad business decision, but the only alternative is not to buy the gas at all which ultimately leads to going out of business," said Williams. "We are not interested in going out of business."

The Commission currently occupies quarters at 1124 South IH 35 in Austin. The approximately 100,000 square foot facility, leased for ten years by the State Procurement and General Services Administration, presently provides adequate facilities for most of the Commission's Austin based operations.

The Thompson Building is located near the State Capitol Building in downtown Austin at 10th and Colorado Streets.

House headed for tough battle on energy projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House appears headed for a tough fight as it decides how sharp to make the tools it gives a proposed new federal agency designed to speed construction of important energy projects.

House members are expected to give approval later this week to a bill setting up an energy mobilization board, which is considered a crucial part of President Carter's energy program.

The House started debate on the measure Tuesday and arranged to continue it today.

While final passage seems assured, one key issue seems likely to divide the House almost evenly: Should the board be permitted to override federal, state or local laws that get in the way of a project?

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas predicted Tuesday that House members ultimately would approve a proposal backed by Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev., to allow waivers of federal laws only, and then only if both houses of Congress approved.

But Wright's prediction was challenged by Rep. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., an opponent of waivers under any circumstances. Wirth predicted the House would back his position.

In a related action Tuesday in Congress, the Senate voted 70-23 for a compromise stripping the president of his unilateral authority to impose quotas and fees on imported oil. Under the measure, Congress could vote to block a president's decision to impose quotas or fees.

However, the president could veto Congress' decision and Congress then would have to override the veto by two-thirds vote in both houses to prevail.

Elsewhere, Deputy Energy Secretary John Sawhill told a House energy and power subcommittee the administration's new energy emphasis is in the field of conservation.

"It is my first priority and the first priority of (Energy Secretary) Charles Duncan," he said, outlining a shift from the production-oriented policies of former secretary James Schlesinger.

Sawhill said the administration is considering setting tougher auto fuel economy standards as part of the shift.

The rival energy board bills under consideration by the House each would create a five-member agency and both bills give the board authority to establish timetables for federal, state and local agencies to meet in deciding whether high-priority energy projects should be built.

But under the version approved by the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, the board would be able to recommend a waiver of any federal, state or local law that might hinder construction. The waiver would be subject to approval by the president and also subject to a veto by either house of Congress.

Under an alternative approach, co-sponsored by Wirth and Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., and more than 100 other House members, no waivers would be permitted. But if any agency failed to meet its deadline, the board could file suit.

The president would then have authority to step in and make a decision on his own if the agency violated a court order to do so or if the court failed to rule within 120 days.

Texas senators far from accord

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 18 through Oct. 24.

HOUSE

SUGAR BILL — By a vote of 158 for and 249 against the House rejected a bill to protect the domestic sugar industry against competition from lower priced imported sugar.

The bill (HR 2172) would have provided higher prices for U.S. sugar and duties on imported sugar. It also would have allowed direct federal subsidies to

ROLL CALL REPORT

U.S. growers and processors of up to $50,000 per year.

Members voting "yea" favored bolstering the domestic sugar industry with higher prices.

Reps. Charles Wilson, D-2, Ray Roberts, D-4, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Mike de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Tom Loeffler, R-21, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "yea."

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, James Collins, R-3, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill Archer, R-7, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jack Byrnes, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, Mickey Leland, D-18, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Ron Paul, R-22, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, voted "nay."

GASOLINE PRICES — The House rejected 189 for and 225 against, an amendment to remove government controls from the price of gasoline and to allow the government-run allocation of gas supplies. Federal price controls, in effect since 1973, are due to be phased out by the end of 1980. This amendment would have immediately removed them and let the oil companies and the marketplace set the price. It was proposed to HR 3000, a Department of Energy bill passed and sent to the Senate.

Members voting "yea" wanted to remove immediately controls from gasoline prices.

Wilson, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Brooks, Pickle, Leath, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Paul, Kazen and Frost voted "yea."

Hall, Eckhardt, Wright, Leland and Gonzalez voted "nay."

De la Garza did not vote.

IS THERE AN OIL SHORTAGE? — The House adopted, 264 for and 148 against, an amendment requiring the Department of Energy to publish monthly reports on the major oil companies' supplies of crude and refined oil. The amendment was attached to HR 3000 (see previous vote).

Members voting "yea" wanted the government to publish the oil data.

Brooks, Stenholm, Leland, Hance and Frost voted "yea."

Hall, Collins, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Gonzalez, Loeffler, Paul and Kazen voted "nay."

Wilson, Roberts, Eckhardt and de la Garza did not vote.

SENATE

SPECIAL AMBASSADOR — The Senate confirmed, 48 for and 35 against, the nomination of former Rep. Robert Krueger, D-Texas, to the new post of ambassador at large and coordinator of Mexican affairs.

At issue was not Krueger but the precedent of creating a second ambassadorial post to deal with a single country. Some senators speculated that the appointment was intended to circumvent U.S. Ambassador to Mexico Patrick Lacey, who later resigned.

Senators who voted "yea" favored Krueger's appointment.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D, voted "yea."

Sen. John Tower, R, voted "nay."

D.C. BUDGET — The Senate approved, 64 for and 19 against, a $1.4 billion District of Columbia budget for the fiscal year which began Oct. 1. The budget is drafted by D.C. Mayor Marion Barry and refined by House and Senate committees. The majority of the budget is raised by D.C. through taxation. About $238 million is the "federal payment" to the capital city. The main issue during floor debate was tough anti-abortion language which the House had attached to the bill.

Senators voting "yea" either were liberals who disliked the tough anti-abortion language or conservatives unsympathetic toward D.C.

Bentsen voted "yea."

Tower voted "nay."

FIRE FUNDS — By a vote of 38 for and 55 against, the Senate blocked a proposed 90 percent cut in funds for rural fire protection grants. This vote killed a motion in favor of the cut.

The amendment was offered to an Interior Department money bill (HR 4930) that was passed and sent to conference with the House. As passed by the Senate, the program provided $30 million annually to the states for grants to benefit rural fire departments.

Senators voting "yea" favored reducing the fire protection outlays.

Bentsen voted "yea."

Tower voted "nay."

Most families borrow for college costs

NEW YORK (AP) — In a growing trend, almost one-third of families with a child recently in or out of college had to borrow money to meet tuition costs, a new poll shows.

In addition, 75 percent of families surveyed by Citibank, a New York-based corporation, said the families met financial hardship in sending their children to college.

The telephone poll of 1,399 families found that 29 percent borrowed in 1979 to help meet college costs, compared with 27 percent in 1978, and 24 percent in 1977.

Among families in the $20,000-or-over income bracket, 73 percent said they expect moderate to severe hardship in paying tuition.

Six percent said someone in their family had dropped out of college within the past five or six years because of financial hardship, and that 6 percent had a child who transferred to a school with lower tuition in the past five or six years, the bank said.

The poll showed that 51 percent said the financial hardship of funding a college education was extreme to moderate, while 24 percent reported slight hardship.

However, two out of three parents with a child in high school or junior high said they expect to send the child to college.

Wright, Bentsen compliment departing Texan Ray Roberts

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth says Rep. Ray Roberts' departure will cause a "real loss to our state" in committee seniority.

Roberts, D-Texas, announced Monday he will not run for another term, retiring at the end of the 96th Congress in 1980.

He is chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee and the Water Resources subcommittee of the Public Works and Transportation Committee.

Wright said Roberts "has served the people of Texas with steadfastness and dedication. ... I am sorry he has chosen to leave Congress, and I wish him well."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said he appreciated Roberts' cooperation.

"No one has worked closer with me to pass legislation of benefit to Texas and our nation," Bentsen said. "He is my good friend, and both the people he represents and I are losing the services of a very able public servant."

Roberts, 67, of McKinney, came to Washington in 1962 to fill the vacancy caused by House Speaker Sam Rayburn's death.

Prospective candidates for his seat include his Republican opponent in past elections, Frank Glenn of Tyler, and Democrats Jerdy Gary of Denison and Ralph Hall of Rockwall.

Roberts' district begins at the Oklahoma border near Sherman and Denison and veers north of Dallas to include Tyler and Longview in East Texas.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Cut Communications

By Alfred Sheinwold

Heroic bridge players are much admired, and their graves are sometimes covered with flowers. If you're not in a hurry for the flowers, look for the kind of practical but unheroic play that assures today's contract.

South thought of refusing the first trick to cut communication between the opponents, but he feared West would ruff the second spade. South therefore took the ace of spades.

South then gave the opponents a sporting chance by leading the king of clubs. West took the ace of clubs and led his other spade. East won and led a third spade, after which West was sure to get the setting trick with the ten of clubs.

EXCHANGE TRICKS

South should take the ace of hearts at the second trick, lead a diamond to dummy and return the queen of hearts. East would have to play a low heart, and South would discard his low spade.

West would get a heart trick, but East would not get his spade trick. South could then draw trumps in comfort.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one heart, you raise to two hearts, and he bids two notrump. The opponents pass. You hold ♠ 10 2 ♥ K J 10 4 ♦ 9 7 4 3 ♣ A 10 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts. Partner asks you to pass or bid three hearts with minimum value for your raise to two hearts, but to bid three notrump or four hearts with maximum value.
