

Vacationing Carter stays in touch with the world

ABOARD THE DELTA QUEEN (AP) — Appearances to the contrary, President Carter really is on vacation. Why else would he sleep until 7 a.m., two hours later than normal? Why else might the meticulously punctual president be late, yes late, to a picnic of factory workers?

Monday was a typical vacation day for Carter, if any day spent cruising down the Mississippi River on a 53-year-old sternwheeler can be called typical for a president of the United States.

It mixed jogging, reading, paperwork and a leisurely review of the news with more than 30 minutes of handshaking.

He abandoned ship at 7:30 a.m. for a half-hour jog alongside the river, climbing over the teak railing of the Delta Queen as it waited its turn to go through Lock No. 11, just north of Dubuque, Iowa. A White House steward was waiting with a white towel when the perspiring president returned to what has been dubbed "Steamship One."

For the next hour, according to aide Frances Voorde, the president did paperwork.

Each morning he receives a daily intelligence briefing relayed over sophisticated communications gear from the White House as well as a news summary that includes a review of reports of his activities.

"He is in touch with everything he has to be in touch with," Ms. Voorde said. But she and other White House staff members are keeping only a casual eye on the president.

Carter had just a glass of juice for breakfast and spent the period from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at a shoreside rally in Dubuque. He walked down a line of people about one-quarter of a mile long, shaking hands with hundreds of area residents, patting little girls on the head and posing with a goat bearing a sign reading: "Conserve energy. Get a perpetual motion lawn mower."

"He's very intelligent," the president said of the shaggy animal. First lady Rosalynn Carter shook hands, too, until the president approached her from behind and said, "Rosalynn, we've got to go."

As the boat left Dubuque, the president donned shorts, shed his shoes and relaxed in a lounge chair with his eyes closed, taking in the sun on the afterdeck. Then, it was lunch in the dining room with fellow passengers and a generally quiet afternoon, interrupted only by his greetings to a crowd at Bellevue, Iowa, at Lock No. 12.

Amy, the president's 11-year-old daughter, spent much of her afternoon talking to other youngsters and exploring the boat with them.

The day ended when the president was greeted by some of the most enthusiastic crowds he has encountered, first in Savanna, Ill., then across the river at Sabula, Iowa; then at Fulton, Ill.; and finally, after midnight, at Clinton, Iowa.

Carter was up by 6:30 a.m. today to go jogging along the riverbank while the Delta Queen was stopped at a lock near Davenport, Iowa.

In the first two towns, crowds had gathered on the riverbank to watch the Delta Queen pass, but Carter had the boat stop so he could wave, be seen and deliver a condensed version of his energy conservation speech.

American strength still on the farm — Reagan Brown

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

ST. LAWRENCE — America's strength lies in its rural areas, where agriculture is foremost, Reagan Brown, commissioner of the Texas Agriculture Department, told an estimated 500 farmers and their families here Monday night.

"We need to build (more) St. Lawrence — the little communities. That's where our strength is," Brown said.

He was feature speaker at the annual barbecue-supper meeting of the St. Lawrence Cotton Growers Association, made up of some 200 fami-

California is ahead of us, and they've got lots of English walnuts," he said.

Brown's spirited talk, except for the jokes, bordered on an old-fashioned tent-revival preaching in its enthusiasm.

"The Holy Bible says, 'Stir the spirit,'" and Brown said he was out to do just that in the name of Texas agriculture.

He said he and his staff are flying to California this week to see what farmers in that state are doing in terms of production.

"We're going to be No. 1 in agriculture," he said. "Agriculture is our No. 1 strength."

"Nothing ever happens in America

Brown said his intent is to make Texas No. 1 in agricultural production. "We're going to be No. 1, maybe this year. We passed Iowa..., and only California is ahead of us, and they've got lots of English walnuts."

lies in and around the St. Lawrence, Midkiff, Stiles, Garden City and Benedum communities.

St. Lawrence is about 45 miles southeast of Midland.

Brown, who peppered his comments with country-humor jokes about preachers, Aggies, farmers, a Monsignor and a dead turtle, said Texas farmers personify the work ethic.

"If you don't work, you don't eat," said the 57-year-old commissioner. "I believe that."

"If you're farmers, you've got to produce, to sell," Brown said. "There are hungry people in this world, and they've got our dollars."

Brown said his intent is to make Texas No. 1 in agricultural production. Currently, the state is in the No. 2 slot in agricultural output behind California.

"We're going to be No. 1, maybe this year. We passed Iowa..., and only unless we sell something."

Brown lauded rural residents. "And common folks like you and me are builders of eternity."

Brown classified humanity in groups: "You are either a stepping stone or you are a stumbling block."

Brown, who grew up on a farm in East Texas, said he felt comfortable mingling with country people.

"If I didn't fit in with you farmers and your kind of people, I don't know where I would fit in."

Despite what economists and seers predict, Brown said he envisions a bright future for America.

"We've got the greatest country in the world. We've got the greatest strength. We got the greatest military (force). The only one thing that can beat us is ourselves."

Brown said he views America's future optimistically.

"If you get to the point in your life where you think there's not a future — only the past — you're in sad shape."

Brown said the country is not in trouble as concerns pollution.

"We've got clean air and water."

Brown related that to his multiple functions as Texas' agriculture commissioner.

"We are guarding our environ-

U.S. may not offer resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Carter steams down the Mississippi, his senior advisers are gathering at the White House to plan American strategy for the U.N. debate on the Palestinian issue.

That strategy, admitted Robert Strauss, the president's special Mideast negotiator, may be to offer no U.S. proposal whatsoever.

Strauss told reporters on his return from Israel and Egypt Monday that he found "considerable hesitation" in both countries about a number of possible American approaches he suggested in talks with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

"We might conclude to do nothing," Strauss said.

This would appear to be in accord with Israel's strong resistance to any U.S.-led effort to modify longstanding Security Council resolutions on the Mideast. Somewhat surprisingly, Strauss found Egypt backing the Israeli view, possibly because a U.S. split with the Begin government could upset continuing peace talks.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was chairing today's meeting with Strauss, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser. Vance interrupted his vacation at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., to try to settle on a U.S. position in time for the opening of the U.N. debate Thursday in New York.

Strauss ended his mission without blaming either Israel or Egypt for the U.S. dilemma. He called them "good and strong partners" in the peace process and said he found they were making even more progress in their negotiations than he had expected.

But as to the Security Council debate, where the United States is likely to face strong Arab demands to acknowledge Palestinian "rights," Strauss said he returned without any recommendation for Carter.

"I do not know what he is going to decide," the special envoy said.

The goal of the White House meeting is to produce recommendations for Carter's approval by Thursday morning.

Already ruled out is any U.S. support for Palestinian statehood. Carter is on record against it and, in any event, the administration would risk a break with Israel if it did not veto any resolution calling for a Palestinian state.

However, one approach weighed by Strauss in the Middle East was a U.S. resolution supporting Palestinian "rights" but not defining them. Statehood proponents could then claim U.S. backing, but that would be a matter of their own interpretation.

Security Council resolutions on the Middle East implicitly recognize Israel's right to exist within defensible borders and deal with the Palestinian issue wholly as a refugee problem.

Official U.S. policy since 1975 has prohibited any negotiations with the Palestine Liberation Organization, seen by most Arab nations as the sole legitimate representative of the Palestinians, until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist. The policy was adopted at Israel's insistence.

Second oil slick assault expected

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Leaders of an oil spill task force say they'll use an expected two-day "cease-fire" in the advance of history's largest oil spill to prepare for a second assault.

Coast Guard officials Monday night said reconnaissance flights showed only "a couple" of patches of sheen within 80 miles of the 100-mile-long Padre Island, which took a major greasing last week.

Huge concentrations of the crude oil from a crippled Mexican offshore well cover thousands of square miles of the western Gulf of Mexico, but remain more than 100 miles south of Texas. The northerly flow of the oil is expected to stall at least until Wednesday as winds and currents calm.

"It looks like we may be in for a period of two to three days with nothing significant coming out of the beaches," said Coast Guard Capt. Roger Madson, commander of the task force.

An official of Pemex, the Mexican government oil company that was drilling the Ixtoc I well in the Bay of Campeche, said Monday that the company hopes to cap the well this week — more than three weeks ahead of schedule. The well blew out June 3.

On Padre Island, more than 100 laborers, armed with rakes, shovels and plastic trash bags, worked Monday to clean the goo from dozens of miles of multi-million-dollar Texas tourist beaches fouled last week.

The oil has washed up on more than 50 miles of the glistening white beaches, cutting tourism by about 50 percent during peak vacation time, according to Chamber of Commerce officials.

The Coast Guard is taking initial steps toward defending the difficult two-mile-wide Cavallo Pass into Matagorda Bay, some 100 miles up the coast from Corpus Christi. Officials have also begun strategy for the defense of Galveston Bay, just southeast of Houston.

The defense strategy is to sacrifice beaches on the barrier islands and protect the inlets into fertile bays and lagoons, which could be devastated by the oil. The inland bays harbor many rare species of wildlife and are breeding grounds for shrimp and other key commercial marine life.

$4 million hail damage reported to cotton crop in Stanton area

By BILL MODISETT
and DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writers

Hail battered farmlands near Stanton late Monday afternoon, causing an estimated $4 million in damage to the farmers' cotton crop there.

Rain and hail also hit Midland, Garden City, Andrews and Lamesa, reports this morning indicated.

Hail in the Stanton area followed a one-inch rainfall that began about 5:25 p.m. Monday, according to reports.

Bob Deavenport, manager of the Farm Bureau Insurance Service in Stanton, today said the hail — reportedly ranging in from marble-size to golf ball-size — damaged cotton on some 10,000 to 15,000 acres in Martin County.

The hail reportedly followed a path starting at Stanton and moving northwest.

Deavenport said the cotton crop was extremely good before the hail-storm and estimated losses due to the hail at $400 per acre.

A Stanton city official said hail and high wind in that community caused damage to rooftops, fences and trees, and blew down a construction project on the city's north side.

Winds were estimated at 60-70 mph.

Three storms actually hit the city, the official said. Storms came from the east, west and south, the official recalled, bringing rain, high winds and hail. The storms subsided about 10 or 10:30 p.m.

Roy Gossett, a Stanton cotton farmer, today said the hail hurt most cotton crops in that area including his.

"I had some hail insurance," said

Gossett, "but it's not like making money."

A spokesman for the Dawson County Farm Bureau said a hailstorm in the northwestern part of that county early Monday morning caused severe damage to crops.

No estimates on monetary value of the damage had been given by this

Why the high cost of the Emergency Medical Service operated by the city of Midland? — S.E.S.

ANSWER: According to Glen Harris, training chief of the Midland Fire Department, officer in charge of the Emergency Medical Service, cost is determined by the operational expenses of the service, including the cost of drugs, fuel, maintenance, salaries, etc.

"Due to the expense involved, the city is unable to operate free ambulance service, unfortunately," Harris said.

Charge for an ambulance trip to the hospital in Midland is $40. The charge is the same for transfer from, say, one hospital to another. For out-of-city transfers, the cost remains at $40, plus $1 for every mile to the destination, with a $15 charge for the return trip, said Harris.

"In cases where the ambulance is contacted for a trip to a local doctor's office, in situations when the ambulance is asked to stand by, there is a $25 per hour waiting fee," he said.

The city currently has five ambulances, with one smaller model designated exclusively for transfers because of its fuel economy. There are 18 staff members, including paramedics or Emergency Medical Technicians, who operate on three shifts.

Collections for the ambulance services are made by the city of Midland, not by the Emergency Medical Service staff.

My neighbors next door have two large dogs, they look like Great Danes. They are huge and they have five puppies, which are almost as large as an average dog.

And these dogs jump upon my fence and they are sleeping on my side and have dug the dirt out from under the fence. I am a widow woman and cannot get anyone to do work for me, and if I could, it costs money.

They let the pups out at night and you should see the mess. I can't go on that side of the house. They jump up on my fence and act like they could eat me up. The fence is swaying now.

Please tell me what to do. I'm not picky, but I am neat, and these dogs should be in the country. — I.M.

ANSWER: Suggest you contact the Midland Police Department, 683-4281, and relate your problem to the dispatcher. The department will send an officer to talk with the neighbors in question and attempt to remedy the situation. There is a city ordinance which prohibits owners of dogs from allowing them to run free. They are to be kept in the yards or homes or on leashes.

I have noticed children hitting tennis balls against a chain link fence surrounding tennis courts at Ulmer Park.

Are the city tennis courts locked for security or other reasons? Seems that if the courts are for public use, the gates should not be locked to prevent children from using the backboard and courts inside. — T.N.

ANSWER: Wayne Kohout, director of the City of Midland Parks and Recreation Department, was contacted and he sent a man immediately to check the gates at the Ulmer Park courts, and they were unlocked.

Kohout said the courts are locked only when there has to be maintenance work done, and it has been a year since the gates at Ulmer were locked for this reason. Maybe the gates just appeared to be locked to the children, or, maybe, they prefer the volley returns from a chain link fence.

"We certainly don't want any of the gates to city tennis courts locked to prevent their use. However, there are some courts located next to Wadley-Barron Park which are locked, but these are privately owned," Kohout said.

Jaycee chapter goes to court to keep name

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The local Jaycees chapter, ousted by the national organization for admitting women, has gone to federal court to defend its use of the name "Jaycees." Edward N. Cahn that he would be helping the national organization discriminate against women if he barred the Philadelphia group from using the name. The national organization contends the name Jaycees is a registered trademark and that the local group no longer has any right to use it. The U.S. Jaycees revoked the Philadelphia chapter's charter in 1973 after the local organization defied national policy by admitting women. The U.S. organization has filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking to force the local group to stop using the name Jaycees. "The U.S. Jaycees is asking the court to use its power to enforce the policies of discrimination," argued Bruce A. Cohen, lawyer for the Philadelphia chapter.

DETROIT (AP) — Rape victims aren't suffering as much abuse from officials and more offenders are being prosecuted and convicted under Michigan's new Criminal Sexual Conduct Statute, according to a recently completed survey. The 1974 law "has definitely improved things, but the battle is still far from won," said Jeanne Marsh, an associate professor at the University of Michigan and principal author of the $100,000, two-year study. Police received special praise for their increasing sensitivity to victims of sexual assault. "There were some police who conformed to the villain stereotype, but there were many others, who, if I were a victim of rape, I'd be happy to have them take my case," said Marsh. Based on data from 1972-77, the study said prosecution for first-degree criminal sexual conduct increased by 30 percent under the new law. Convictions jumped from 62 percent in 1972 to 90 percent in 1977, the researchers reported. The statute classifies rape as a violent crime rather than a crime of passion and expands the categories from one to four, thereby allowing more types of assault to be prosecuted. It removes life imprisonment as the maximum penalty for conviction, in response to judges and juries who found that sentence too severe. The law was intended to shift the burden of proof from the victim to the suspect, eliminating the life-endangering provision that the victim must "resist to the utmost." "In the past, defense attorneys raked women over the coals," Marsh said. "Thus, anyone whose judgment wasn't impeccable — someone who hitchhiked, for instance — was viewed with skepticism by law enforcement officials. She couldn't hope to get any justice." "Now these cases are less likely to be dropped. As one prosecutor in the study said, 'It's no longer a crime to be stupid.'" In addition, the survey of 170 police officers, judges, prosecutors and defense attorneys reported that 27 percent of those questioned think rape charges are more often fabricated than other criminal charges. Half the defense attorneys and 29 percent of the officers agreed with that contention, Marsh said.

ORANGE, Texas (AP) — Authorities worked early today to stop the flow of propane gas to a ruptured pipeline that exploded, killing one man and injuring another.

Two men operating a bulldozer accidentally struck the pipe Monday. One was thrown off the machine by the force of the blast and injured.

The bulldozer operator, Roy David Hunter, 36, of Orange died in the explosion and fire. Authorities, kept by intense heat from getting near the bulldozer for hours, found Hunter's charred skeletal remains shortly after midnight.

Officials said his body was near the center of the explosion, 75 feet from the bulldozer.

Floyd Grasty, also of Orange, was reported in good condition at Orange Memorial Hospital.

Intense heat kept authorities from recovering the body of the man believed killed, said sheriff's Capt. Joe Freeman.

Orange County deputies said three homes in the area were evacuated due to danger of another explosion. Freeman said another pipeline was within 10 feet of the crippled line.

Gas to the Cities Service line was cut off at Orange and Vidor, but enough propane remained in the pipe to keep the blaze burning out of control. Gas technicians worked into the night trying to plug the pipe three miles on either side of the blaze.

Cities Service connection foreman Willis Wyche said that once the special plugs were in place, it would take five to six hours more before the fire would burn itself out.

One witness to the blast said flames shot 400 feet into the air.

Panel approves one, denies one application

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Savings and Loan Commissioner Alvis Vandygriff has approved an application by Home Savings Association of Odessa for a branch office, but denied a similar application by First Savings and Loan of Midland.

Home Savings' application was to establish a branch office at Parkway Boulevard and East 42nd Street in Odessa.

First Savings had sought to establish a branch office in Stanton.

Priest's supporters not surprised man confessed

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Supporters of the Rev. Bernard T. Pagano gasped as Judge Andrew D. Christie announced that another man had confessed to the armed robberies for which the Roman Catholic priest is being tried. But they said later they were not surprised.

Pagano's friends, who have packed the small Wilmington Superior Court room during his two-week trial on charges of being Northern Delaware's "Gentleman Bandit," say they expected something like this all along.

"I'm not the least bit surprised," said Marge Seebode of Cambridge, Md., where Pagano was assistant pastor at St. Mary Refuge of Sinners Church when he was arrested in February on five armed robbery charges and one of attempted robbery.

Pagano was accused then of being the mild-mannered, well-dressed robber who used a small chrome-plated handgun during the heists that netted the robber $1,185.

Mrs. Seebode is a leader of the Friends of Father Pagano group that claims to have raised nearly $12,000 toward his defense with the help of Wilmington attorney Carl Schnee.

"We knew something like this would happen. My faith was never shaken all along," said Mrs. Seebode, who admitted she "collapsed at my desk and cried" when she heard the news.

Attorneys for the 53-year-old priest were preparing to present their defense Monday, a week and a half after testimony began, when Christie made his announcement.

"An unexpected development was learned a few minutes ago that a man in Pennsylvania confessed to committing all six crimes," Christie said.

"The court will need some time to evaluate whether to interrupt this trial," he said before excusing jurors until Wednesday.

Supporters of the priest, many of whom have made the 160-mile round trip between Wilmington and Cambridge daily during the trial, broke into cheers and sobs and crowded around him.

But before the court recessed, Ronald W. Clouser, 39, of Brookhaven, Pa., appeared with his attorney, Saul Segan of Philadelphia.

"I'm authorized to say by my client that he has admitted involvement in those acts with which Father Pagano... was wrongly charged," Segan said.

Clouser, who identified himself as an industrial engineering coordinator, has not been placed under arrest in Delaware, but is free on $5,000 bail in Pennsylvania pending sentencing for three armed robberies to which he pleaded guilty.

Attorneys were scheduled to meet with Christie late today to discuss whether Pagano's trial would proceed or if the charges against Pagano would be dropped and filed against Clouser instead.

During Clouser's courtroom appearance Monday, Pagano leaned over and chatted briefly with the man who, despite being 14 years his junior, closely resembles him.

The case against Pagano, now free on $30,000 bond, depends heavily on eyewitness identification and all seven robbery victims called to testify in the trial have pointed to Pagano as the bandit.

Six WT counties get wildcat sites

Six West Texas counties have gained wildcat locations.

Estoril Producing Corp. of Midland spotted location for an 11,500-foot wildcat in Gaines County, 22 miles west of Seminole.

The project is No. 1-18 Collett, 2,394 feet from south and 250 feet from east lines of section 18, block A-10, psi survey. It is in the depleted Hobbs, Southeast (Devonian) area and one and seven-eighths miles northeast of the field's depleted San Andres discovery.

KENT EXPLORER

Arden Oil Corp. of Midland will drill its No. 1 Williams as an 8,000-foot wildcat in Kent County, 10 miles east of Justiceburg.

The location is 1,900 feet from south and 2,000 feet from west lines of section 57, block 5, H&GN survey and one and three-quarter miles north of the Pollan (Ellenburger) field discovery.

BORDEN WILDCATS

A pair of wildcats have been staked in Borden County.

Westland Oil Development Corp. of Houston No. 1 Bert Dennis and others has been staked as an 8,500-foot wildcat seven miles northeast of Gail.

The prospector is 467 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 14, block 30, T-5-N, T&P survey.

It is 3/8 mile northwest of the Rafter Cross (Wolfcamp oil) pool and 1/4 mile northwest of depleted Ellenburger production.

Laguna Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 Arba Lura is a new 7,600-foot wildcat in Borden County, nine miles northwest of Gail.

Operator will spud 933 feet from south and 2,000 feet from west lines of section 38, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey.

The site is 5/8 mile northwest of the Borden (Carmack) pool discovery and 5/8 mile east of the Borden (Spraberry) pool.

CROCKETT TESTER

Texasgulf, Inc., of Houston staked its No. 1 University as a 10,000-foot wildcat nine miles southwest of Big Lake in Crockett County.

It is 2,980 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 23, block 12, University Lands survey and 5/8 miles northwest of the shallow Weger, West field.

It also is two miles southeast of the depleted Lyman (Joins and Fusselman) pool.

UPTON WILDCAT

Coquina Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 Half is to be dug as an 8,400-foot wildcat in Upton County, 15 miles northeast of Rankin.

The drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block Y, GC&SF survey. Ground elevation is 2,675 feet.

The site is surrounded by Spraberry Trend Area production and is two and five-eighths miles northeast of an undesignated Wolfcamp discovery and the same distance northeast of Fusselman and Ellenburger production in the Benedum pool.

IRION PROJECT

Cola Petroleum, Inc., No. 1-S Tankersley is a 1,500-foot wildcat in Irion County, six miles southeast of Merzton.

It is a twin to marginal production in the Crash (Canyon) field and one and three-quarter miles northwest of the depleted Winterbotham (San Angelo) pool.

The drillsite is 545 feet from north and 1,017 feet from west lines of section 4, GC&SF survey, abstract 1099.

Lo-Vaca report due

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. and its customers have worked for a year adding final details to a complex settlement of more than $1.6 billion in suits against the natural gas supplier.

The Texas Railroad Commission scheduled a progress report today on the agreement that was worked out after Lo-Vaca customers filed suit to block skyrocketing prices the company charged for gas.

Under the plan, Lo-Vaca will be spun off from its parent company, Coastal States Gas Corp., and renamed Valero Energy Corp. The new company would be headquartered in San Antonio.

Consumer groups complain the government's actions in detecting violators don't go far enough.

Of about 5,000 pricing complaints made to the Energy Department from mid-February to the end of July, government auditors found 2,020 violations, said Ms. Novick. Of those, 1,307 operators voluntarily rolled back prices and paid $164,271 in fines. Administrative actions are underway against the remaining 713.

Another complaint by consumer activists is that current guidelines do not require station operators to post their price ceilings as long as they prominently display a statement saying their prices are under the limit. Consumer groups want the actual ceiling price placed on pumps.

Cities on the department's list are: Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Portland, Ore., San Diego, San Francisco, Seattle and St. Louis.

Wildcat operations have been announced in Chaves and Eddy counties in southeast New Mexico, and discoveries have been reported in Lubbock and Nolan counties, and a wildcat has been spotted in Kimpble County.

The Coronado Exploration Co. of Albuquerque, N.M., No. 1 Corihel-Federal has been staked as a 13,400-foot Morrow wildcat seven miles northeast of Loving in Eddy County.

The project is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 5-23s-29c. It is two miles north of Amoco Production Co.'s No. 1-17 Teddy, an unnamed Morrow gas discovery which produces from 12,534 to 12,552 feet.

Wellsite is 1,452 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 62, block 23, T&P survey and 7/8 miles southeast of a depleted, undesignated Mississippi discovery and one and three-quarter miles northwest of the Estaban (Ellenburger) pool.

The hole is bottomed at 6,970 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom.

The Ellenburger was topped at 6,958 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,424 feet. Other tops include the Canyon sand, 5,410 feet, and the Strawn lime, 6,400 feet.

Deep port meeting set

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Deepwater Port Authority was to meet today to consider the terms of a federal license to build a $1.2 billion offshore crude oil terminal 26 miles south of Freeport.

Lawyers have been studying the document since Wednesday when it was granted, subject to assurances involving financing and oil spill liability, by the Department of Transportation.

The 2.5 million barrels a day terminal would be used by supertankers too large to enter U.S. harbors.

The port authority applied for a license to build a state-owned terminal last August, less than five months after Seadock, a consortium of private companies, terminated a six-year, $20 million effort to build the terminal.

Seadock lost 52 percent of its financial backing when Exxon, Mobil and Gulf withdrew, blaming too much federal regulation under the license DOT offered to private industry in early 1977.

If all goes well, however, Seadock's work could expedite construction of a state facility.

The port authority has negotiated an agreement under which it will pay Seadock $11.1 million for the engineering data and construction plans it had developed before closing shop.

The $11.1 million would come from some $1.2 billion in tax exempt revenue bonds the authority plans to sell to finance the overall project without use of state funds.

Bob Casey, chairman of the port authority board and a former Houston congressman, has talked in terms of possibly having the project in operation by mid-1983.

Once a license is in hand, however, much work would still have to be done before the bonds could be sold. Use agreements must be negotiated with oil companies to use the terminal for receiving foreign oil for transfer by pipeline to refining centers.

The offshore terminal would be linked by two 52-inch pipelines with an onshore facility with 22 million barrels of storage capacity.

Jack Allen, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said the proposal "betrays an appalling lack of basic information on the subject it addresses.... The subject of energy development on public lands would be better if left to those who know something about it — not Ralph Nader, and not his 'non-experts.'"

The consumer and labor leaders compared their proposed government corporation with the Tennessee Valley Authority. TVA, they said, serves as "a yardstick with which to measure the excesses of private corporate performance."

Their proposal was similar to several others made in recent months by other labor leaders.

Douglas Fraser, president of the United Auto Workers, called last May for a public energy corporation that would "give those robbers some competition."

Two weeks ago, the AFL-CIO executive council said the oil industry should be nationalized if U.S. oil companies fail to serve the nation's best interests.

The new proposal for a government energy corporation also was endorsed by Kathleen O'Reilly, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America; William Hutton, president of the National Council of Senior Citizens; and these union presidents: J.C. Turner of the International Union of Operating Engineers; William Wimpisinger of the International Association of Machinists; William Wynn of the United Food and Commercial Workers; Jerry Wurf of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees; and George Hardy of the Service Employees International Union.

"We certainly don't want them to know who to contact about our gas supply contracts and then go out and buy out from under us," McClendon said.

Brown said he owns several natural gas wells and works for gas producers in other matters but was representing only consumers in the Lone Star case.

Hearing Examiner Glenn Johnson said he would decide by today if Brown and representatives of cities and consumer groups could participate in the Lone Star case. He said he would rule today on a request from several cities to postpone a scheduled Sept. 25 formal hearing on the case.

Lone Star has asked for an increase in its gate rate, the amount the company charges for fuel at the beginning of each city's distribution system. Increases in a gate rate, similar to a wholesale price, usually are passed along to customers.

Cities regulate the retail price of natural gas but the Railroad Commission sets gate rates.

Cities contesting Lone Star's request include Fort Worth, Abilene, Wichita Falls, Arlington, Waco, Denison, Childress, Commerce, Temple, Denton, Garland, Killeen, Bryan, Paris and Palestine.

Business leaders making pitch for national company

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, instead of private oil companies, should produce and distribute energy resources found on public land, a group of consumer and labor leaders say.

Eight leaders signed a letter to President Carter Monday calling for a government energy corporation. Consumer activist Ralph Nader wrote the letter and obtained the other signatures.

"Much of the nation's proven and potential energy resources, particularly oil and gas, is situated on federal land," the letter said.

"The great energy wealth of the federal lands should redound to the people who own it, not the corporations who lease it, largely on their conditions," it said.

Asked for a response, spokesman Jim Dailey of the American Petroleum Institute said: "We're against government interference in any guise or government operations in the petroleum industry because their record hasn't been too good in fields like Amtrak and the Post Office."

"Of course, the petroleum industry must serve the public interest. The essential question is how to serve it. It is not served by continued government interference and intervention, both of which inevitably lead to further and further reliance on OPEC oil."

Jack Allen, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said the proposal "betrays an appalling lack of basic information on the subject it addresses.... The subject of energy development on public lands would be better if left to those who know something about it — not Ralph Nader, and not his 'non-experts.'"

Another complaint by consumer activists is that current guidelines do not require station operators to post their price ceilings as long as they prominently display a statement saying their prices are under the limit. Consumer groups want the actual ceiling price placed on pumps.

Cities on the department's list are: Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Portland, Ore., San Diego, San Francisco, Seattle and St. Louis.

Wildcat operations have been announced in Chaves and Eddy counties in southeast New Mexico, and discoveries have been reported in Lubbock and Nolan counties, and a wildcat has been spotted in Kimpble County.

The Coronado Exploration Co. of Albuquerque, N.M., No. 1 Corihel-Federal has been staked as a 13,400-foot Morrow wildcat seven miles northeast of Loving in Eddy County.

The project is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 5-23s-29c. It is two miles north of Amoco Production Co.'s No. 1-17 Teddy, an unnamed Morrow gas discovery which produces from 12,534 to 12,552 feet.

Wellsite is 1,452 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 62, block 23, T&P survey and 7/8 miles southeast of a depleted, undesignated Mississippi discovery and one and three-quarter miles northwest of the Estaban (Ellenburger) pool.

The hole is bottomed at 6,970 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom.

The Ellenburger was topped at 6,958 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,424 feet. Other tops include the Canyon sand, 5,410 feet, and the Strawn lime, 6,400 feet.

Six West Texas counties have gained wildcat locations.

Estoril Producing Corp. of Midland spotted location for an 11,500-foot wildcat in Gaines County, 22 miles west of Seminole.

The project is No. 1-18 Collett, 2,394 feet from south and 250 feet from east lines of section 18, block A-10, psi survey. It is in the depleted Hobbs, Southeast (Devonian) area and one and seven-eighths miles northeast of the field's depleted San Andres discovery.

KENT EXPLORER

Arden Oil Corp. of Midland will drill its No. 1 Williams as an 8,000-foot wildcat in Kent County, 10 miles east of Justiceburg.

The location is 1,900 feet from south and 2,000 feet from west lines of section 57, block 5, H&GN survey and one and three-quarter miles north of the Pollan (Ellenburger) field discovery.

BORDEN WILDCATS

A pair of wildcats have been staked in Borden County.

Westland Oil Development Corp. of Houston No. 1 Bert Dennis and others has been staked as an 8,500-foot wildcat seven miles northeast of Gail.

The prospector is 467 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 14, block 30, T-5-N, T&P survey.

It is 3/8 mile northwest of the Rafter Cross (Wolfcamp oil) pool and 1/4 mile northwest of depleted Ellenburger production.

Laguna Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 Arba Lura is a new 7,600-foot wildcat in Borden County, nine miles northwest of Gail.

Operator will spud 933 feet from south and 2,000 feet from west lines of section 38, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey.

The site is 5/8 mile northwest of the Borden (Carmack) pool discovery and 5/8 mile east of the Borden (Spraberry) pool.

Government issues gas price guide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Motorists in 20 major U.S. cities who suspect their local service stations of price-gouging now have a rough government guide to legal gasoline prices in 20 major U.S. cities.

The Energy Department released the price list Monday, cautioning that the figures were valid as of Aug. 6 and were subject to change since then. Some stations may have gotten special exemptions to the general pricing rules as well, it said.

The list is part of the department's effort to monitor the prices of gasoline being charged by the nation's more than 175,000 service stations.

But Michael Podhorzer of the Consumer Federation of America charged that penalties for pricing violations and the chances of being discovered are so remote "people are not afraid of being found in violation."

And the department itself acknowledged it has had only 50 auditors working on complaints of retail gas prices. However, the department added that an additional 150 should be in the field soon in response to President Carter's recent order to increase the size of the auditing staff.

Federal rules have regulated the price of gas at retail stations for the past five years. The latest reported ceilings range from a low of 86.2 cents a gallon for regular in Dallas to almost $1.15 a gallon for premium in New York. The maximum prices are based on the wholesale gasoline price paid by the station operator plus taxes and a maximum margin of 15.4 cents a gallon to cover overhead and profit.

Despite the federal controls, government officials say it would be virtually impossible to conduct widespread monitoring of prices for possible violations.

"It would be just like auditing every taxpayer," said Dianne Novick, a spokeswoman for the Energy Department.

With the releasing of the maximum price list, the Energy Department's David J. Bardin urged motorists to notify the department if their gasoline costs more than the legal ceilings.

"We can now provide consumers with a more accurate guide to the maximum legal prices that may be charged for gasoline in various parts of the country," said Bardin, administrator of the department's Economic Regulatory Administration.

The department's toll-free telephone hotline for consumers to pass on their price complaints is: 800-424-9246.

Consumers who use the list to try to spot price gouging will find prices vary widely from city to city and among the 10 oil companies included.

For example, the difference in the legal ceiling on a gallon of regular gasoline in Chicago varied earlier this month from $1.0057 for Shell to $1.0813 for Mobil, a variation of about seven cents.

Shipping and other cost variables cause the ceiling on regular to differ by as much as 17 cents from city to city.

And, some stations — in fact, some states — can boost prices an addition-and 5/8 miles northwest of the shallow Weger, West field.

It also is two miles southeast of the depleted Lyman (Joins and Fusselman) pool.

UPTON WILDCAT

Coquina Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 Half is to be dug as an 8,400-foot wildcat in Upton County, 15 miles northeast of Rankin.

The drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block Y, GC&SF survey. Ground elevation is 2,675 feet.

The site is surrounded by Spraberry Trend Area production and is two and five-eighths miles northeast of an undesignated Wolfcamp discovery and the same distance northeast of Fusselman and Ellenburger production in the Benedum pool.

IRION PROJECT

Cola Petroleum, Inc., No. 1-S Tankersley is a 1,500-foot wildcat in Irion County, six miles southeast of Merzton.

It is a twin to marginal production in the Crash (Canyon) field and one and three-quarter miles northwest of the depleted Winterbotham (San Angelo) pool.

The drillsite is 545 feet from north and 1,017 feet from west lines of section 4, GC&SF survey, abstract 1099.

Lo-Vaca report due

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. and its customers have worked for a year adding final details to a complex settlement of more than $1.6 billion in suits against the natural gas supplier.

The Texas Railroad Commission scheduled a progress report today on the agreement that was worked out after Lo-Vaca customers filed suit to block skyrocketing prices the company charged for gas.

Under the plan, Lo-Vaca will be spun off from its parent company,

Young supporters urge rapprochement

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Black supporters of Andrew Young are meeting with an Israeli official today to urge recognition of Palestinian rights after saying they support the rights of both Jews and Palestinians to national homelands.

Campaigning for Israeli-Palestinian rapprochement in the wake of Young's resignation as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, officials of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference were to meet with Israeli U.N. Ambassador Yehuda Z. Blum. They were also to hold a news conference, meet with New York Jewish leaders and address a rally of black groups at a Manhattan church.

Nachum Shai, a spokesman for Blum, told a reporter the SCLC delegation sent word to the ambassador that it wanted to "clarify our support for the PLO's human rights to establish a state." But at a news conference Monday SCLC president Joseph E. Lowery would not go beyond endorsement of the Palestinians' right to a homeland.

The SCLC leaders had lunch Monday with the Palestine Liberation Organization's U.N. observer, Zehdi Labib Terzi. Lowery told reporters: "We communicated to Mr. Terzi and his associates our support for the human rights of all Palestinians, including the right of self-determination involving among other things their homeland."

Lowery said they urged that PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat "give consideration to the recognition of the nationhood of Israel...whereby steps can be taken that would lead to peace and reconciliation."

He said his delegation also asked the PLO to consider "a halt to the violence that has inflicted hurt, death, destruction upon far too many of God's children in the Middle East."

"We think," he declared, "that God is moving in this whole situation to lead us to peace and reconciliation."

Lowery conceded that Young's resignation was the "catalyst" for his group's attempt to bring the Israelis and Palestinians together. But he said American blacks are concerned about the Israeli-Palestinian stalemate because a cutoff of Arab oil shipments to the United States "will have a devastating effect on everybody but it may have a fatal effect on black areas."

Young, who was administrative assistant to SCLC founder Martin Luther King Jr., said on Sunday that the U.S. government's refusal to deal with the PLO was "kind of ridiculous" because communication with it is essential to advance the cause of peace in the Middle East.

Shai said Israel would continue to reject any PLO participation in the Middle East peace-making process and would insist that the U.S. government live up to its commitment to have no dealings with PLO representatives until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Young was forced to resign after the Israelis leaked word of a meeting between him and Terzi which he tried to pass off as an unplanned social encounter. Later, he admitted that he had arranged the meeting to get the PLO's consent to postponement of a pro-Palestinian resolution that Kuwait is bringing before the Security Council.

Israel rejected U.S. proposals to try to head off the resolution with an amendment to Security Council Resolution 242, the basis for all Middle East peace negotiations, and the Kuwaiti resolution is expected to be introduced in the council Thursday.

The U.S. amendment would have recognized the "legitimate rights" of the Palestinians, the language of the Camp David agreement, while the Kuwaiti resolution calls for recognition of the Palestinians' "rights of self-determination, national independence and sovereignty in Palestine."

Young will be presiding at the council meeting as Security Council president for August, and a vote on the Kuwaiti resolution is expected Friday. The State Department is certain to instruct him to veto it.

Carter considers hospital bill major surgery; Analyst says it's Band-Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter considers his hospital cost control bill a centerpiece of the fight against inflation, but a private analyst suggests it would be no more than a Band-Aid.

A study published by The American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research says the spiraling cost of health care is fueled in large measure by tax and insurance policies that ease the pain of a big medical bill.

Carter's cost control proposal, rejected in the last Congress, is headed for the House next month. The House Ways and Means Committee has approved it; the hospital industry and some Republicans vow to fight it, and the Senate Finance Committee has refused to consider a similar measure.

SO THE PROSPECTS for enactment are clouded at best. And the study by Jack A. Meyer, formerly with the Council on Wage and Price Stability, says the bill wouldn't put more than a temporary lid on soaring hospital costs anyway.

The cost containment bill would impose mandatory price controls next year for hospitals that flunk a complicated three-phase test. In effect, there would be three sets of guidelines: national, state and hospital-by-hospital. A hospital exceeding all three would face controls unless it could convince the government it faced special circumstances.

And as Meyer noted, few hospitals would not argue that their circumstances are special. "The end result emerging from the passage of this legislation would most likely be a barrage of administrative appeals and possibly lawsuits," he says.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, the national guidelines would permit an average increase in hospital expenditures — and costs — of 11.3 percent this year. The administration had aimed for a 9.7 percent ceiling, but inflation has worsened since the program was drafted.

THE IDEA IS to get hospitals to stay within the voluntary guidelines this year lest they face mandatory limits in 1980. The budget office figures that without government action, the cost increase this year would be about 14 percent.

Meyer writes that the current proposal has so many "exclusions, exceptions and contingencies as to make it unlikely that it would have any bite."

But he said even if it worked as designed, "the proposal would seem capable of producing only short-term, illusory results." He said hospitals might well choose to cut, change or spin off services to stay within the guidelines, instead of trying to do it by making the health-care system more efficient.

"By glossing over the underlying forces driving spending, this bill would bypass the chance for meaningful reforms that promise a less expensive way of providing the same services," he says. "In the quest for quick results, it might achieve 'progress' by cutting back on the quality of health care."

MEYER ARGUES that real progress will require a change in the system of incentives that now tend to push health-care spending upward. When the insurance company is going to pay anyhow, there is no pressure on the doctor, the hospital or the patient to hold down the bill.

He describes it as a sort of vicious triangle:

- 1. The consumer enrolls in a health insurance plan, gets a tax break on the premiums and actually has an incentive to make use of his coverage because he's paying for it anyway.
2. When he goes to a doctor or a hospital, "the providers of health care order services in almost unlimited fashion with almost unchecked authority."
3. INSURANCE companies which have borne inflated costs simply pass their increased burden back to the consumers by raising their premiums.
Meyer suggests that if the government is going to do more than "paper over or postpone the problem," it has to change the system so as to create incentives for less costly health insurance and care.

Executions continue; 22 publications closed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime executed 18 more Kurdish rebels early today, closed down 22 publications and expelled three more foreign correspondents.

It also said two German correspondents have been recalled to Tehran from assignments in the provinces and will be ordered out of the country.

The execution of the Kurds raised to 29 the number put to death in a crackdown by the fundamentalist Muslim strongman on the fight by Iran's ethnic minorities for autonomous home rule.

Radio Tehran said 13 men were executed in the western town of Paveh, where Kurdish rebels and government forces fought for three days last week.

The broadcast said Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkali, sent to the Paveh region to try the rebels, found them guilty of "corruption on earth and fighting against God and his prophet."

A firing squad executed five others in a prison courtyard in Kermanshah, south of Paveh, after an Islamic tribunal convicted them of taking part in the fighting, the radio report said.

Eleven other Kurds were executed Saturday night a few hours after government reinforcements regained control of Paveh from armed Kurds who took over the city five days before.

Radio Tehran also reported the execution in Khoramshahr, the Persian Gulf port, of two former agents of SAVAK, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's secret police. This raised to 445 the number of executions announced since the overthrow of the shah in February.

Khomeini ordered more army reinforcements to Kurdistan Province to bolster undermanned garrisons as Kurdish attacks were reported on government installations in several towns in West Azerbaijan to the north. The ayatollah attacked the Kurdish Democratic Party, which he banned Sunday, as "the party of the devil" and charged it was "in collusion with the United States and international Zionism."

"It is your religious duty to abstain from joining or assisting the Kurdish Democratic Party and it is also your religious duty to support the armed forces of the country," he told the country's four million Kurds.

The Kurds are Sunni Moslems, the majority sect in the Moslem world, while Khomeini and most of Iran's Persian majority are members of the rival Shiite sect. But the ayatollah assured the Kurds: "In the Islamic Republic of Iran there will be no difference between Shiite and Sunni believers."

Meanwhile, Tehran's Islamic prosecutor ordered 22 newspapers and magazines closed for failing to follow an Islamic line or criticizing religious leaders. Among them were Mardom, the Communist Party paper, other leftist papers and satirical weeklies.

Two leading Tehran dailies were closed two weeks ago when the stringent new press code went into effect. The press law is expected to affect hundreds of publications in the provinces.

Three more foreign correspondents also were ordered to leave the country and two German reporters, who were not identified, will be told to leave, the Ministry of National Guidance said.

Those expelled were Townyn Mason of the British Broadcasting Corp., Andrew Whitley of the Financial Times of London, and Jerome Dumoulin of the French newsweekly L'Express.

A Ministry official said the expulsion was the result of Khomeini's recent order for the provisional government to act in a more revolutionary manner.

Dumoulin said he was expelled for an article he wrote about the wave of executions and the political climate in Iran. He said the officials called the article "insulting to the revolution and the people of Iran."

David Lamb of The Los Angeles Times, Yousef Ibrahim of The New York Times and an NBC-TV crew were expelled from Iran earlier.

Bishop will fight stay of execution

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Confessed murderer Jesse Bishop says he's passed his most recent psychiatric examination and is ready to fight lawyers trying to stop his Aug. 27 execution.

Bishop said in an interview Monday that he underwent lengthy psychiatric examinations over the weekend and got "the green light" from a psychiatrist called in by prison officials.

A federal judge has scheduled a hearing Thursday in Las Vegas on a public defenders' petition to block Bishop's trip to the gas chamber, and Bishop said he will be there to oppose the petition.

A prison spokesman confirmed Bishop, 46, sentenced to death for killing a Las Vegas casino patron, would be flown from the Maximum Security Prison in Carson City to Las Vegas for the hearing.

Acting Prison Superintendent Howard Pyle also said Bishop's spirits and appetite are good, adding that he is smoking cigars, eating meals such as a lunch Monday of corn beef hash and oysters, and is taking "light" tranquilizers.

"This hasn't changed me mentally. It hasn't affected me at all," Bishop said.

"I don't really give a damn about their gas chamber," he said. "I can think of things I'd rather do... but the point is, I can accept this, too."

Bishop said he still feels it would be more "cruel" to stay his execution than to let it proceed on schedule. He said he would prefer a life prison term but doesn't see how he could get a commutation.

The admitted slayer, heroin addict and robber said he was "guilty beyond all doubt" and he wouldn't ask the state Pardons Board to commute his sentence because "I won't beg and that'd be begging."

The Clark County Public Defender's Office contends Bishop was illegally sentenced to death and that the execution should be blocked. The gas chamber here hasn't been used since 1961.

But Bishop, housed in a Death Row holding cell just 20 feet from the chamber, said the public defenders "have no right to file any legal documents on my behalf." He also said he agrees with the Attorney General's office, representing prison administrators, that the defenders lack standing to bring their court action.

Thirty-one men have been executed in Nevada by lethal gas — a method pioneered in the state in 1924.

If the execution is carried out, it would be the second in the nation this year. John Spenklink was electrocuted in Florida's electric chair last May despite a battle by death penalty opponents.

That followed the January 1977 firing squad execution of Gary Gilmore in Utah, after Gilmore repeatedly refused to authorize appeals of his death sentence.

Orientation to be held on mortgages

The Midland Housing Finance Corp. will sponsor an orientation session at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in City Hall on the Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Program.

Those interested in the program can hear the details at the meeting in City Hall's Conference Room located in the basement.

Purpose of the session will be to give the full background and requirements relative to possible participation of financial institutions, such as savings and loan institutions, mortgage companies and banks in the program. There will be a full discussion on all phases of the program by financial and legal representatives who are familiar with the program.

Midland Housing Finance Corp. is a non-profit organization approved by the city of Midland and recommended by the Midland Housing Authority to assist middle income families in securing mortgage funds at lower than existing interest rates.

Charter members of the group are Harry Clark, Fred Kester and Gene Abbott. Potential heads of lending organizations who would be interested in participating and who have not received an invitation should telephone Fred Kester, 682-0011.

Death of Wrigley heiress ruled as 'an act of suicide'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wrigley chewing gum heiress Carlisle Higholt, described by neighbors as having been despondent and reclusive since the death of her son, apparently committed suicide, authorities said.

"The coroner's report shows that she died of a single wound, apparently self-inflicted, and that the death was an act of suicide," said county sheriff's spokesman Mike Santander, adding, "sheriff's investigators have found nothing to conflict with that finding."

On Friday, a maid and Mrs. Higholt's 4-year-old adopted son discovered her pajama-clad body slumped on a bathroom floor, a single stab wound in her chest. Investigators found no evidence of robbery or break-in at the home, located in the wealthy seaside suburb of Rolling Hills.

Neighbors described the 40-year-old heiress as a shy, fearful woman who became reclusive after her 2-year-old son died four years ago of apparent heart problems. Shortly after his death, Mrs. Higholt and her husband, Howard, a radiologist, adopted another son and moved a mile away.

"All she had cared about was her baby. She didn't care about anything else — including her appearance," said Chico Bernstein, who lived near the Higholts' former Rolling Hills home. "She always dressed in pajamas..."

Mrs. Bernstein said that before the boy died, Mrs. Higholt had confided her fears he would be kidnapped because someone had called threatening to do so.

The Higholts attended few social events after their son's death, neighbors said.

They were married eight years ago in Pasadena, where the heiress had attended private schools as a child. Tournament of Roses President Phil Lawson said that although he regularly invited them to attend the annual event, the couple seldom responded. Tournament of Roses offices are located in the Wrigley family's old Pasadena mansion.

Mrs. Higholt was the granddaughter of James R. Offield and Dorothy Wrigley Offield. William Wrigley Jr., Mrs. Higholt's great-grandfather, was owner of the Chicago Cubs and the William Wrigley chewing gum empire.

It was not immediately known how much of the Wrigley fortune she inherited.

Magazine editor, director honored

NEW YORK — Marcus Morris, managing director and editor-in-chief of the National Magazine Co., Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of The Hearst Corporation, is the recipient of the Periodical Publishers Association Presidential Award.

The PPA is the British equivalent of the Magazine Publishers Association in the United States.

Morris was voted the award "in recognition of distinguished editorial and business achievements over 30 years of magazine publishing."

He joined Hearst in 1960 as National Magazine's editorial director. In 1963, he was named managing director and editor-in-chief.

Morris and his wife, the former Jessica Dunning, reside in London.

New state law to give Midland jurors double pay

Inflation has boosted the price of nearly everything in recent months, but it's a new state law that will give jurors an increase in the salary they receive for serving on a jury.

Midland's jurors and grand jurors will get a raise next Monday. How much their fee will be hiked hasn't been determined yet, according to County Judge Bill Ahders, but it will be at least double what it currently is.

The new state law governing salaries for jurors becomes effective Monday. It requires that jurors be paid $6 to $30 for their services.

County commissioners discussed the impending change at their Aug. 13 meeting, but postponed action when Judge Ahders suggested that he solicit suggestions on a pay scale from the county's prosecutors and judges.

Monday, Judge Ahders said he had talked with most prosecutors and judges here and that he will recommend a salary of $10 per day for jurors who actually serve on a jury and $6 for those who are called on a jury panel, but not chosen to serve for one reason or another.

He said he also will recommend that grand jurors' salaries be increased to $10 per day.

Currently, in Midland, petit jurors who serve and those who are called but not chosen for a jury get the same across-the-board salary — $3 per day. Grand jurors are paid $5 per day.

Judge Ahders said he believes jurors who actually serve on a jury should be paid more than those who are called on a jury panel but not chosen.

Many employers in Midland pay an employee's salary while that employee serves on a jury. Other employers pay the difference between what the county pays for jury service and the employee's salary.

But, the judge noted, a self-employed person called to serve on a jury actually loses money while serving. In effect, that individual actually pays to serve on a jury, he noted.

SHERIFF'S SALE THE STATE OF TEXAS COUNTY OF MIDLAND WHEREAS, on the 27th day of February, 1979, in Cause No. T-3871, in the District Court of Midland County, Texas, wherein Midland Independent School District, City of Midland, Texas, the State of Texas and the County of Midland, Texas were Plaintiffs, Impleaded Party Defendants, and Intervenor, and recovered judgment against Cruz L. Reyes, Defendant, for taxes, penalties, interest, and cost against the hereinafter described property...

WHEREAS, on the 13th day of July, 1979, by virtue of said judgment and the mandates thereof, the Clerk of the above mentioned District Court of said county did cause to be issued an Order of Sale commanding me as Sheriff of said county to seize, levy upon, and sell in the manner and form as required by law, the hereinafter described property...

And I will, on the first Tuesday in the month of September 1979, the same being the 4th day of said month, at 2:00 p.m. at the south entrance to the Midland County Courthouse, the highest registered bidder for cash, provided however, that none of said property shall be sold to the owner of said property directly or indirectly or to anyone having an interest therein or to any party other than a taxing unit which is a party to this suit for less than the amount of the adjudged value of said property or the aggregate amount of judgments against said property as a whole, whichever is lower, subject also to the right of the Defendant to redeem same in the time and manner provided by law and subject also to the right of the defendant to have said property divided and sold in less divisions than the whole.

Said sale is to be made by me to satisfy the judgment rendered in the above styled and numbered cause, together with interest, penalties, and cost of suit, and the proceeds of said sale are to be applied to the satisfaction thereof, and the remainder, if any, to be applied to the law directs.

DATED at Midland, Texas, this 14th day of August 1979.

Dallas Smith, Sheriff, Midland County, Texas

By W. T. Mitchell Deputy (August 14, 21, 28, 1979)
