Pilot was warned he was over wrong runway

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Flight controllers warned the pilot of a Western Airlines DC-10 that his landing lights were over a runway closed to traffic moments before the plane crashed at the Mexico City airport, killing 75 persons, according to a transcript of the tower-cockpit conversation released today.

The accident "was definitely not structural; there's no question about that," FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman said in Washington earlier.

"Everybody didn't die right away. Some were trying to get out....They were crying 'Help, Help!' then they were either calm or something must have happened to them."

The transcript, released here by Mexican aviation authorities, said the cockpit was warned the plane was left of the flightpath.

"Only a little," was the reply. The last message from the tower, according to the transcript, was: 'Sir... the controllers directing the pilot say... your landing lights are over 23-left. That runway is closed to traffic. The correct one is

'Ok, understood, 605," was the last message from the cockpit, followed by the noise of the crash as the plane hit a truck and crashed into two

The conversation was in English but Mexican authorities released a Spanish version.

Seventy-two of 89 persons on board the plane from Los Angeles and three on the ground were killed in the crash.. Seventeen others aboard Flight 605 survived. Three were in intensive care, nine were reported in satisfactory condition, and five were released after first-aid treatment.

"Everybody didn't die right away," said Pandora Drickersen Scott, 19, of Chico, Calif., a passenger who survived the crash. "Some were trying to get out. Some of them ... they were crying 'Help, Help!' then they were either calm or something must have happened to them.'

In Washington, the FAA officials said after talking with Mexican officials that the crash was caused by an "unknown approach-and-landing error.'

Among those killed was Ken Luycoff, 31, a news producer for ABC, who was en route to El Salvador to cover the political violence there. Two of the injured in intensive care, Rafael Martinez and his wife, Rocio, were from Los Angeles. The third was a Mexican, Ernesto Legoretta.

Bolivian military attempting to get government control

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) - Elements of the Bolivian armed forces took over the presidential palace, other key buildings and the airport today in a coup against the 11-week-old government of President Walter Guevara.

A communique broadcast over La Paz radio stations said the coup was led by Col. Alberto Natush, commander of the Bolivian military college, was for "the peasants and workers," and that new military commanders would be named.

The Guevara government's press office also broadcast a communique saying the coup was "pro-Chilean and with Pinochet," a reference to Augusto Pinochet of Chile who ousted Marxist President Salvador Allende of Chile in a right-wing coup in 1972.

There were unconfirmed reports that Guevara had taken refuge in the Venezuelan Embassy.

Guevara's son, reached at the family home in a La Paz suburb, would not say where his father was, but he said he had talked with military commanders in Cochabamba and in Santa Cruz in eastern Bolivia, and that they said they would resist the coup.

Guevara's son, also named Walter, told the reporters that a military policeman of the presidential guard came to the house at 2 a.m. to report "unusual military activity.

The president's son said he and his father went to the presidential palace a few minutes later, found nothing unusual and returned to their home.

But about 3 a.m., the president's son said, about a half a dozen armored cars were reported en route to the center of La Paz, where they soon surrounded the presidential palace, the foreign ministry, other key buildings and intersections.

Natush forces also surrounded the Guevara family residence and refused to let anyone leave. The reporters were allowed to go only when they said they were in La Paz to cover the ninth general assembly of the Organi zation of American States

The international airport also was occupied by pro-Natush troops and no flights were allowed in or out. His forces also were posted throughout the La Paz, on practically every street corner in the business and government district.

Guevara, elected by the Congress after a stalemate election, took office from Gen. David Padilla on Aug. 8. Padilla took power Nov. 24 and one of his first decrees was to call for Padilla. "Yes, but it is a big armed forces," he replied.

Asked if the country was near another military coup, he said, "When people are on the brink of a crevasse they hope they don't fall in." The coup was believed to have been precipitated by Guevara's plans to shake up the Cabinet and include at least one member of the Nationalist Democratic Action Party of Gen. Hugo Banzer.

Freeman guilty of manslaughter

By BILL MODISETT

Thirley "California" Freeman was found guilty Wednesday of voluntary manslaughter for the Aug. 13 shooting death of 34-year-old Robert Armsted

The decision came from a 10-man, two woman jury in 142nd District Court.

The punishment phase of the trial started at 9 a.m. today. Freeman, 55, had been charged with murder in connection with Roseberry's death, but had pleaded innocent. The jury deliberated two hours before returning a guilty verdict to

Freeman on the lesser charge of voluntary manslaughter. Roseberry was shot to death outside the Texas Bar, 805 E. Texas Ave., about 9:40 p.m. Aug. 13. Witnesses in the trial, which began Monday with jury selection, testified that Freeman and Roseberry had argued that day in the bar. Policemen testified they were called to the bar three times that day in reference to disturbances involving the two men. On one of the occasions, Freeman had been cut with a knife and was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital for treatment Testimony indicated it was Roseberry who cut Freeman.

Other witnesses said they saw Freeman fire three shots at Roseberry late in the day, two after Roseberry had climbed underneath a parked car outside the bar. Freeman, who took the stand Wednesday, said Roseberry had approached him in the bar that day and, in an attempt to borrow money, threatened Freeman. Roseberry stabbed Freeman outside the bar and dragged him around, Freeman testified

The defendant said he shot Roseberry later that day because he feared for "I didn't want to kill him. I didn't want to hurt him," Freeman said.

'(But) when he came around the car, I figured I didn't have no choice," he added: "That (shooting) was the only choice I had, because I couldn't whip him no other way. I had a funny feeling he was going to do something to me.' Freeman is being represented by attorney Trey Lohmann.

The case is being prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Richard Davis, assisted by Assistant District Attorney Charles Seltzer.

United Way at 72 percent

Midlanders have pledged $730,181, or 71.79 percent, toward the United Way goal of $1,017,000 for 1980, as of 10 a.m. today.

Total contributions pledged for the week were sche duled to be tabulated today at a noon meeting of volun-

Campaign chairman W.F. "Bill" Ortloff said the pledges which have been returned to the United Way office indicate that giving has increased this year. But, he added, results from many Midland firms have not yet been reported by campaign volunteers. He urged all workers to finish their contacts and report the results to the United Way office as soon as possible.

The next volunteer report meeting is scheduled for noon Nov. 8 in the Texas Electric Service Co. Reddy Room, with an objective of 90 percent of the goal set for that meeting. The United Way awards luncheon will be held at noon Nov. 15 in the American Legion Hall, 501 Air Park Road.

Singer and rhythm guitarist Paul Stanley, who appears in concert with a star painted on his face, were flown to California early today with "throat problems," according to a New York public relations firm handling the rock group's tour. Julie Stiegman, spokesman for the public relations firm, said the group's road manager had been up with Stanley all night.

On motion by Midlander, Baptists avoid controversy

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Delegates to the Baptist General Convention of Texas decided Wednesday to let a religious textbook controversy be settled without their guidance.

The delegates voted to let trustees at Baylor University decide whether to use "People of the Covenant," written by the university's Religion Department chairman, Dr. Jack Baylor trustee Dr. Jimmy Draper, a church pastor in Euless, objected to the book, claiming it "does not attribute the Bible to God.'

In the book, the story of Adam and Eve is said to be symbolic and the story of Jonah and the great fish is called an allegory.

The motion to let Baylor settle its own controversy was offered by the Rev. Daniel Vestal of Midland, and passed with little dissent, although one voting delegate who asked for debate on the motion was ruled out of

At one point, Draper spoke to the voters in favor of Vestal's motion,

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A second U.S. Marine has died at Brooke Army Medical Center's burn treatment facilities of injuries received in Japan.

The Marines were hurt when a typhoon struck a Marine base Sept. 19, bursting a fuel storage tank and causing the fatal fire.

A Brooke spokesman said 35 Marines remained at the burn treatment center. Of those, he said 17 were in critical condition, 7 serious and the rest estisfactory.

saying he would abide by the Baylor trustees' decision.

Earlier, the delegates chose Dr. Carlos McLeod of Plainview as president of the convention, which was to conclude its annual gathering today.

McLeod said the controversy over the book arose from different interpretations of the Bible's infallibility and "inerrancy," but said those are not issues that should concern the convention

"We're not here to fuss over inerrancy but to commit ourselves to teaching the word fo God," said McLeod, pastor of Plainview's First Baptist Church

McLeod, 50, defeated three other candidates for the convention presidency on the first ballot. He succeeds Dr. Milton Cunningham of Houston, a two-term convention president.

He said his victory was not the result of politics.

no one aboard. If she were to collide with one of those oil wells, we'd really be in trouble.' The Coast Guard said shortly before noon the fire was out on the bridge of the Mimosa and it hoped to drop some men aboard via helicopter to see if they can bring it under control. Fire was still reported aft but not on the bridge. Ed Kolenovsky, AP staff photographer who flew over the collision area at mid-morning, said, "The freighter was on its anchor chain but moving in a circle under its own power. A tugboat was on either side, trying to move in and get the freighter, completely burned from bow to stern, under control. It was still burning in the cabin area at the stern. An oil drilling rig was off to the northeast but did not appear to be in any danger because of the distance.

"You could see only about half the tanker because of smoke but it was still burning, with flames along the waterline almost the entire starboard length of the ship. It was listing to a minor degree but was pretty much upright in the water."

Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. George

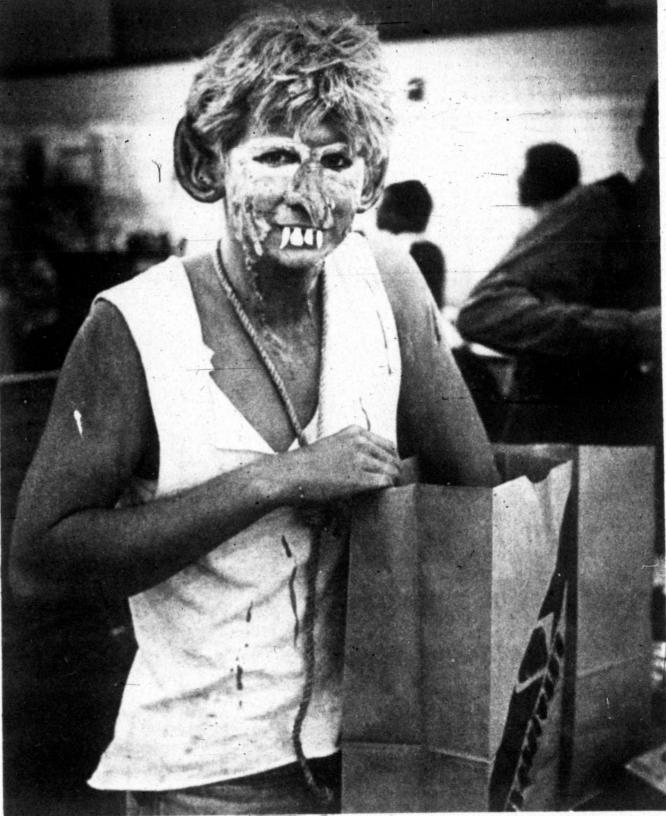

Davis said, "We've got oil and fire all over the place out there.'

The Coast Guard said tugs would attempt to get behind the freighter and either ground it or move it away from the drilling rigs. Waters in the area are about 40 feet deep. Private boats joined Coast Guard vessels and helicopters in rescuing crewmen from the site about four miles east-southeast of the eastern tip of Galveston Island. Four-foot seas rolled gently under clear skies.

The Coast Guard said the ships involved were the Liberian-registered tanker Burmah Agete and a Greekregistered freighter, Mimosa, sailing out of Cyprus.

Mamie Eisenhower dies at 82

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former first lady Mamie Eisenhower died peacefully in her sleep early today at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Mrs. Eisenhower, widow of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, would have observed her 83rd birthday on Nov. 14.

Doctors attributed Mrs. Eisenhower's death at 1:35 a.m. EST to heart failure, hospital spokesman Peter Esker said.

As her husband planned, Mrs. Eisenhower will be buried beside him in a small chapel on the grounds of the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan. The funeral will be Saturday after-

Mrs. Eisenhower, in delicate health and bedridden for months, suffered a stroke Sept. 25, 1979, and was brought to the hospital here by ambulance from her farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

The stroke paralyzed her right arm and impaired the use of her right leg. She began physical therapy almost immediately. Just as the world knew America's 34th president by the homely childhood nickname of "Ike," so was his wife recognized simply as "Mamie." Her trademark - from youth through old age, no matter what the fashion - was the way she wore her hair in bangs across the forehead. In a condolence statement, President Carter called Mrs. Eisenhower "a warm and gracious first lady" who "carried out her public and private duties, despite a lifetime of fragile health, in a way that won her a special place in the heart of Americans and of people all over the world." Lady Bird Johnson, widow of President Lyndon Johnson, said Mrs. Eisenhower "endeared herself to the world as the general's partner. I remember her easy warmth and the vivaciousness that she brought into the room on the many occasions that I' knew her.'

Mrs. Eisenhower had lived alone and lonely on the farm, at the edge of the Civil War battlefield, ever since her beloved Ike died in 1969. Their marriage, begun when he was a young lieutenant in the Army, had lasted nearly 53 years.

"I miss this man of mine: he was my life," Mrs. Eisenhower would tell interviewers.

Since Eisenhower's death, his son John and his wife Barbara, and her four great-granddaughters. The Eisenhowers' only other child, four grandchildren, the children of a son named Doud Dwight, died in 1921 of scarlet fever at the age of three.

Eisenhower, a West Point graduate reared in Abilene, Kan., and Mamie Doud, who grew up in wealth in Colorado, were married on July 1, 1916, the day he was promoted to first lieutenant. She was always behind him, if not at his side, as Eisenhower rose through the ranks to five-star general and Supreme commander of the allied war effort in Europe in World War II.

Board may recommend hike in college tuition

AUSTIN (AP) — A tuition increase might be in the offing for students at tax-supported universities and junior colleges.

The Texas College Coordinating Board "probably will consider" a tuition increase recommendation at its January meeting, said Dr. Kenneth Ashworth, state higher education commissioner.

"There is a lot of talk among board members that this is something they should look at," Ashworth told reporters Wednesday.

Only the Legislature can change tuition rates, but a recommendation from the board would carry considerable weight. College costs are rising at a time when lawmakers have cut state taxes and are under pressure from Gov. Bill Clements to make further reductions.

The next regular legislative session is in January 1981, but Clements plans to call a special session next year.

Ashworth and Beryl Milburn, coordinating board chairwoman, were interviewed after a meeting of the Special Committee on Higher Education Financing, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Ashworth told the committee average tuition and fees at Texas state universities and junior colleges rank 46th in the nation and would rise to only 39th - between Louisiana and Tennessee - if tuition were Tuition is $4 per semester hour, with a minimum of $50 per semester. Fees vary among the universities and junior colleges.

Educators criticize report on federal programs

HOUSTON (AP) - The annual meeting of the American Council on Education opened with controversy as a panel of educators criticized a report recommending changes in programs affecting the nation's colleges and universities.

The report by the Sloan Commission on Government and Higher Education was submitted to the conference Wednesday by Dr. Karl Kaysen, commission vice chairman and research director.

He said the report, which took two years to finish, was written with the "bleak facts" of declining enroll-ments, the "grim outlook" of shrinking revenues and the increasing regulatory role of government in mind.

"Both federal and state governments look less like helpful partners and more like unfriendly policemen,'

Recommendations made in the report included:

- Establishment of a Council for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education within the newly created Department of Education. The council would absorb eight agencies that now enforce 17 different affirmative action and equal opportunity laws. -

- Periodic review of the quality of educational programs at all public colleges and universities to be used by budget-conscious legislators in their deliberations.

- Establishment of a new audit agency in the National Science Foundation to review federally supported research in the nation's colleges and universities.

-Substitution of a federal National Education Loan bank to make unsubsidized, long-term loans to students and their parents for the present Title III program, which offers assistance to "developing" institutions.

Panelists reviewing the report were critical of its recommendations, how-

Legion's tax status to be challenged in court

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - A district court appeal here will challenge a state statute that exempts

American Legion posts from paying taxes. The City Council voted to allow the city attorney's office to appeal the ruling which states the local American Legion post did not have to pay the city $10,000 in back taxes.

Vicki Byrnes, assistant city attorney, said the city filed against the post when it refused to pay the back taxes. She said the post never applied for a tax

When the case went to district court, the American Legion's defense was based on a Texas statute that automatically exempts it from taxation.

Ms. Byrnes said the judge ruled for the post but did not properly consider attorney general's opinions that have said the statute is unconstitutional.

She said no cases have set a precedent in the issue. A survey showed most Texas cities have collected taxes from local Legion posts, she added.

He who lives by sword

In a sense, South Korea's Park Chung Hee was the architect of his own demise. His doctrine of strong presidentfal rule inclined increasingly in recent years toward a thinly disguised dictatorship. And by surrounding himself with subordinates who shared his penchant for brutally tough politics, Park might even be said to have encouraged a climate that in turn nurtured the ultimate extremism of assassination.

JAMES N. ALLISON (1902-1975)

. The tragedy of all this is that it seemed so unnecessary. By almost any measure - and certainly by the prevailing standards of the developing world - Park Chung Hee was an able, even gifted administrator.

Over the course of his 18-year rule. South Korea grew from one of East Asia's poorest countries into an industrializing dynamo justifiably envied throughout the Third World. Economic growth has averaged 10 percent per year since 1961, among the highest sustained growth rates in the world. Per-capita income has increased 400 percent, manufacturing has grown by about 17 percent per year, and exports have surged ahead by some 40 percent each year since 1961. And all this in a country with a few natural resources and a crushing defense burden.

Social gains have been no less impressive. South Korea's literacy rate of 90 percent is the highest in Asia outside Japan. Most farmers own their own land and social services are spread throughout the population.

It's no wonder, then, that Park enjoyed a broad base of support among the rural peasantry, the burgeoning business sector, and the armed forces. Arguably, Park might have retained electoral office indefinitely without benefit of the centralized powers he seized by rewriting the constitution in 1972. The darker course on which. he then embarked led to harsh repression and, ultimately, to that fatal volley of gunfire.

What all this portends for the United States is, at the moment, as murky as the power struggle even now under way in Seoul. Clearly, Park's strongarm rule was an embarrassment to successive American presidents. Yet, just as clearly, the stability, economic progress and military strength fostered by Park's rule are essential to American security interests in the Far East.

South Korea's location has given it an integral role in the defense of Japan, and the security of both nations is guaranteed by the United States.

Whether Park's successors can build on his successes while avoiding his excesses is a question nearly as important to Americans as it is to South Koreans.

Door was opened wide for Nazis

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - In the nightmare that was Nazi Germany, the most unforgivable criminals of all were the men of science who put their skills and knowledge at the service of Adolf Hitler and his insane genocidal

Trained to serve humanity, they should have had a better grasp of right and wrong than the homicidal, moronic thugs of the SS who did the actual butchering. Yet it was German scientists who developed the massmurder techniques the SS used, and who performed unspeakable "experiers-of-war and other helpless vic-

Ironically, the politics of the Cold War gave these scientists the best chance of any Nazi criminals to escape punishment for their actions. Their expertise was a salable commodity in the East-West competition that sprang up before the ashes of defeated Germany were even cool.

Suppressed government documents detail an outrageous program, codenamed "Paperclip," under which hundreds of Nazis - including alleged war criminals - were welcomed into the United States with no regard for their past service to Hitler. The still-secret documents were turned up by Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., whose judiciary subcommittee is looking into "Paperclip" and related programs.

The intent of the "Paperclip" program was to recruit German scientists and technicians before the Soviets snared them. Ostensibly, strict background checks were to be run on the recruits and their families to make sure no war criminals were given sanctuary in this country.

In fact, however, the secret documents indicate - and other sources have confirmed — that in many cases no security checks at all were made. This laxity by federal authorities enabled Nazi criminals to settle in the United States, secure from prosecution for their atrocities. A few of these scientists have been accused of performing pseudo-medical experiments on Jews, inside sources told our associates Gary Cohn and Jack Mitmulative effort by the U.S. government to bring some of the worst kinds of Nazis into the United States regardless of their backgrounds," a congressional investigator told us after examining the suppressed docu-

A less extreme view was given by another knowledgeable source, who said the intent of the operation was benign - to expedite the clearance of needed scientific talent - but the way it was carried out was a disaster. "It was an error of judgment," he said.

Whether "Paperclip" was deliberately used to smuggle known Nazi criminals into this country, or was merely bungled, the fact remains that federal authorities violated immigration laws in their zeal to recruit the German scientists

One restricted document, for example, states: "Frankly, we reached the conclusion that, as a matter of fact, they are being brought here as civilians without regard to the immigra-

When one government official madethe reasonable suggestion that the German scientists should be permitted to come here only on regular visas, he was quickly overruled on grounds of "expedience," the documents show. Hundreds of scientists and their families, some with neither passports nor visas - and some with well-documented ties to Nazi activities - were ferried to the United States on troopships carrying American GIs home for discharge. Others were brought to Canada and Mexico and sneaked into the United States.

building him a new one.

In one instance cited in the documents, an American escorting officer pulled a gun and threatened a government official who questioned the propriety of allowing a group of German scientists into the United States.

Once in this country, the German scientists were given lucrative jobs in American industry. Some even received security clearances to. work on sensitive defense projects.

The suppressed "Paperclip" files raise disturbing questions about a report last year by the General Accounting Office, which concluded that there was no widespread conspiracy to obstruct investigation and prosecution of Nazi war criminals.

The GAO report did acknowledge that the CIA, the FBI and the Defense and State Departments had indeed arranged for suspected Nazis to gain refuge here, and then used them as sources of information. But the GAO report played down this use of warcrimes suspects by U.S. agencies.

The "Paperclip" documents show that the involvement of the U.S. government with alleged Nazi criminals was far more extensive than previously believed.

Footnote: We'll have further revelations about Nazis hiding in the United States in future columns.

NICK THIMMESCH Florida, a bellwether state, looms big for GOP hopefuls

TAMPA - Florida is especially important to GOP presidential aspirants. Its size, its early primary and the fact that it has hundreds of thousands of "closet" Republican voters among its registered Democrats make it a state where the appeal of a Republican candidate can be put to

The Republican who wins the Florida primary has always been his party's nominee. This verity is not lost on Reagan supporters who saw President Ford win the 1976 primary in a bit of an upset. Moreover, the GOP presidential nominee has won Florida in five of the last seven elections. Finally, Florida is a good bellwether state. Every candidate who, carried Florida since 1952, except Richard Nixon in 1960, was elected Pres-

In demographic terms, Florida has a bit of New York and New England, a chunk of the Middle West, a plenitude of minorities, particularly Latinos, and a good piece of the South and the border state area. Florida is close to being an authentic microcosm of the republic.

That's why Ronald Reagan's operatives here are happy he is the frontrunner in a large field of Republican aspirants, and why they hope to keep him there. He easily won the recent straw - a strange exercise - and will capture the lion's share of delegates at next month's state GOP conven-

After all these years, Reagan's ime fimally seems to have come in Florida. Those aging loyalists who cheered his celebrated TV speeches for Barry Goldwater in 1964, who rooted for him when he was California's governor and half-challenged Nixon in some primaries, and saw him lose narrowly to Ford will stick with him all the way.

Pat Hillings, a convivial former California congressman, has the major responsibility for Reagan's Florida campaign. He claims that all his troops are in place, that once Reagan visits the state with some frequency his ready campaign machine will function, and there will be no doubt whom the state belongs to.

"Connally is too heavy-handed," Hillings says. "He's been in here many times, spent twice what we did (Hillings admits to $246,000) and will be lucky if he wins one district next spring. Connally's not a Democrat, not a Republican, he's an opportunist. Just turn down the picture on your TV. listen to Connally - it's L.B.J. coming through.

"We're low key right now, but we're better organized. They can talk about Reagan's age, but that doesn't mean anything down here. It's in Washington, D.C., where they go up to Reagan with a magnifying glass to check how big his pores are or what his hair looks like. He can't help it if his hair doesn't turn gray - his father's didn't

If Reagan is the smiling, set-piece general, confident of eventual victory, John Connally is the Gen. George S. Patton, eager to break through, volatile and capable of stirring restless Republicans who want to win the 1980 election and not just reaffirm loyalty.

"If I didn't think Connally would win, I wouldn't be involved," says William Markham, a principal Connally worker who is also a county official in Broward County (Ft. Lauderdale). "I don't believe in secondbest. Connally works hard and has the guts to take positions on issues. He knows what he's doing. The country is ready for that.' Another Connaily worker, Duncan Bowman, 27, agrees with the notion that Connally's style differs sharply from Reagan's. "Connally is more evangelical," he says. "Reagan is low key, cut and dried, robot-like. Connally takes vigorous stands. Reagan is tired. Connally is more contempo-

Because they loom big, Reagan and Connally dominate the field, though Rep. Phil Crane showed surprising strength in the straw balloting. Sen. But even Baker's central Florida coordinator, Oscar Juarez in Orlando, admits that leadership vote has had a "devastating effect" on Baker's chances, and Juarez now pushes to get Republicans to vote for Baker as a second prefer-

All these Republican aspirants know that conservatives exert their greatest strength in primaries, but that it takes a broader based GOP candidate to beat a Democrat for the Presidency. Reagan has that conservative kind of support in Florida, but Connally's people argue that their man would do far better against the Democratic nominee. The Connally people have a tough chore in Florida. If they can pull an upset, Reagan would be sorely wounded, and Republicans everywhere would have to go through an agonizing reappraisal.-

McCAMEY - There's no place like home: Tis cliche-ish, but true.

Home generates much warmth if it's the place where you really want to return. Otherwise, it's a bore and is no home at all.

To some, home is McCamey. But to the casual passer-by from some blue-ribbon town manicured like a country club or from a smog-ish progressive city, McCamey may appear as a dusty town born out

Well, this town of 2,600 souls doesn't pretend to be all-American in looks. But on the inside, it is a proud black-gold city that got its start when wildcatter George B. McCamey brought in a discovery well

The town boomed like mesquite grows in a wet season and grew to 10,000 or more folks by the late 1920s and early 1930s.

Though oil production can be described as optimistic, the town's population is down, in part, because today's sophisticated machinery and electronics have replaced many hired hands.

It's something like Jack Tompkins, a McCamey product who returned home for a day or so to sing the virtues of small towns, particularly this West Texas town: "The prospectors tell us, 'Gold is where you

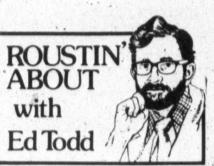

And gold — success by whatever name — might be right here. He was talking about individual growth through the courage to be "daring and sharing" and to "do just the best that you can."

Towns, like a big family striving for prosperity and harmony, benefit from individual growth.

Another fellow who loves to write about the glories, both wishful and real, of McCamey is Weems S. Dykes, minister and poet.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) - Rep. Claude Leach, D-La., accused of buying votes to win his seat in-Congress, says it would have been silly to do so because there is no way to find out how people mark

"I never attached any significance to the 'commercial vote," said Leach, who told a packed courtroom Wednesday he never paid for a vote.

"Yes, I have heard of vote buying through the years but I never provided any money to buy a citizen's vote," he said. "I have heard of people using half pints of whisky or gin to buy votes. It wasn't limited to any one area, or to Leesville."

Leach and law partner Edwin Cabra, assistant district attorney at Leesville, are accused of buying 440 votes in Leesville at $5 each in the Nov. 7, 1978, general election

Each is charged with one count of conspiracy and 10 of buying votes. Each vote buying charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a Leach, a Democrat, edged Republican Jimmy

Salvadoran troops repel mob of 300

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Salvadoran troops backed by armored cars used tear gas to repel a mob of 300 leftists attacking the American Embassy in the second day of street violence in the capital-

There were reports that the embassy's Marine guard joined in the tear-gas barrages Tuesday. But embassy spokesman Vitas Dambrava denied this, saying, "Our Marines did not respond to the attack." However, reporters counted 20 helmeted men, apparently Marines, on the roof of the three-story

The State Department said two Marines were slightly wounded. There was no report of casualties among the mob or the troops. At least 24 persons were killed and about 100 were wounded the day before in gun battles between leftists demonstrating against the new military-civilian junta and security

The embassy and its grounds occupy an entire block surrounded by a high wall and metal fences. The leftists chanted "We will take the embassy!" and distributed leaflets saying "Down with imperialism" and "We want to live in peace" as they marched on the compound. The troops and armored cars responded immediately.

Witnesses said they heard four shots fired during the 15-minute confrontation, and Dambrava said there was some gunshot damage to the embassy. Some of the leftists tried to climb the wall but were driven off, and a gasoline bomb was thrown into an embassy garden but caused no damage, officials

JERUSALEM (AP) - Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government decided today to comply with a supreme court order that a controversial West Bank settlement be removed and ordered a search for a

Cabinet secretary Arieh Naor said the Cabinet held a "general discussion concerning the policy of settlements" and that the government would move the Elon Moreh settlement within the time limit set by the court "in full accordance with the law." Israel's supreme court ruled on Oct. 22 that the Elon Moreh settlement near the Arab town of Nablus was to be removed within 30 days.

Naor said the government has no plans to submit legislation to counter the court order.

Israel Radio said Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon, leader of the pro-settlement faction, offered Begin a compromise Wednesday that would link removal of Elon Moreh to government approval of 16 new West Bank settlements over the next year. #### Hua, Mrs. Thatcher sing 'duet'

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda today accused the leaders of China and Great Britain of singing an anti-Soviet "duet" during their talks in London.

Senior Pravda commentator Yuri Zhukov charged that Chinese Communist Party leader Hua Guofeng's comments about the Soviet Union were similar to those voiced by the "noisy figure" of British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

He noted Hua's praise of a "belligerent anti-Soviet speech" given recently by Mrs. Thatcher and expressed concern about the possibility that Britain might sell military equipment to China.

In remarks prepared for a dinner Tuesday with the British leader, Hua alluded to Mrs. Thatcher's statements that the West should take immediate action to counter the Soviet threat.

China buys former Sheraton

NEW YORK (AP) - The Chinese Government has purchased a former Sheraton motel and is readying the 20-story building for its United Nations officials, officials say.

The 450-room motel, built in 1962, had been vacant for two years. It was purchased from Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Philadelphia, but the purchase price was not disclosed.

The Post Office, which runs the state telephone service, said the typical bill being sent to 22 million homes with telephones will be $168 for three months, nearly three times the usual sum.

mural, lost for 400 years, has been discovered hanging in a gallery in Italy, says a Duke University art professor.

"The Battle of Anghiari" was found beneath a Giorgio Vasari fresco in the Pallazzo Vecchio in Florence, Italy, said John R. Spencer, chairman of the art department at Duke.

He said tests conducted by him and Travis New-ton, an art historian at Harvard University, led to the discovery. Spencer and Newton were to hold a news conference today to announce the find.

Spencer said da Vinci began work on the painting in 1506, about the same time he started the "Mona

"It has been lost 400 years," he said Wednesday.
"If there's much of it left, it is going to be a very important discovery.'

The two Americans have not seen the work, "but we are quite convinced" it is genuine, Spencer

It differs from a fresco, a painting involving water colors on plaster, in that da Vanci used "an oil or a resin, we could not be certain which," instead of water, he said.

Italian art experts have begun working to uncover the hidden mural. As yet there is no report on the condition of the work Spencer described as a "careful and very painstaking task."

Da Vinci was commissioned in 1503 to portray an event in the history of Florence, and he chose the battle of Anghiari, where Florentine forces defeated opponents from Milan.

The work is familiar today because of preliminary sketches and copies done by later artists.

Vasari, who did the fresca, was a 16th century Italian painter, historian and architect.

The Los Angeles Times SALT LAKE CITY -Sitting erect at the crude plywood and pine workbench, Gabrielle Kundert started, with a gentle smile, at the curved and contoured piece of white maple that her skilled hands were slowly transforming into the back of a classic viola. As she worked, a man passing by the former mom-and-pop grocery store in downtown Salt Lake City paused to look in the windows at Miss Kundert and the other students of the Violin Making School of Ameri-

Each year scores of young people apply for admission to the school. It takes four years to graduate and only 32 students study at a time.

The students, most of them in their 20s, are bright, artistic people who would rather earn their keep repairing violins than pushing paper in an office, selling cars or any other less manual and less artistic trade.

EACH STUDENT makes an average of 10 violins and other string instruments while in school, keeping the first and the last. The others are sold for prices ranging from a few hundred dollars to as much as a thousand dollars or more. Other than tuition, this is the school's only source of income, according to Peter Paul Prier, the German emigre who founded the school in 1972.

The students work at their own pace, although they are pushed constantly to work efficiently, quickly. They are taught theories of violin making, music history, how to draw pictures and, if they don't know already, how to play the Prier, 37, attended the Mittenwald violin-making school in Germany as a teen-ager and came to the United States to work in a violin repair shop.

A PROFESSIONAL violinist as well as maker and repairer of fine violins, Prier hopes to produce a generation of American luthiers whose talent, skill and dedication will rival those of the best Italian and German artisans.

'What this school offers you is a chance at immortality," said Lisbeth Nelson, 25, of Cheyenne, Wyo., who has studied under Prier for three years. "If you are good enough, the world's violinists will know it for a couple hundred years.'

Prier insisted that "anybody - anybody can learn to make violins if they have enough patience and endurance."

But those who achieve 84 or more of the 89 points that are measured in the construction of a fine violin are as rare as a Stradivarius.

THESE POINTS include placing the f-holes in exactly the right place so that they allow the proper tone to flow from the body and also joining each glued piece of wood perfectly to the next.

When an instrument is finished, the student strings it and presents it to Prier, a demanding inspector whose trained eyes, ears and fingers quickly notice even the most minor and skillfully finessed flaw.

"Patience is the Number 1 factor," Prier said. "If you don't have patience, no matter of talent in the hands can make up for it."

In Prier's school students learn every aspect of violin making. They fashion most of their own hand tools, they make varnish with gums and resins imported from tropical jungles, and they mix their own

Technology offers sight-saving options for cataracts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cataracts
— a leading cause of blindness have for decades been treated mostly with thick, bothersome and often unsatisfactory eyeglasses.
But rapidly developing technology

now offers a sophisticated range of sight-saving options such as permanently implanted plastic lenses, long-wearing contact lenses and even sur-gically reshaping the eye itself.

Although all three procedures are being used successfully in certain cases, "these are not perfected techniques," said Dr. Dwight Cavanagh of the Emory University Medical School

What we are talking about is the cutting edge of new developments in helping people. ... We need lots more work and lots more research," he told a recent symposium here sponsored by Research to Prevent Blindness

"The exciting thing," said Dr. Walter Stark of Johns Hopkins Medical School, "is that now we have additional modalities which allow us a higher percentage of happiness in our patients. Surgeons are now provided with interesting alteratives to what used to be a very simple problem: 'You just got glasses.'"
The panel of doctors stressed that no single procedure will solve all problems. The choice depends on the patient and doctor.

"The mistakes," Cavanagh said,

"come in applying a particular mo-dality to the wrong patient for the wrong reason at the wrong time. This is called medical judgment."

In cataracts, commonly associated with aging, the clear lens in the eye becomes cloudy. When the condition is severe, blindness results and the defective lens must be surgically re-

Half a million cataract surgeries were performed in this country in

If vision is to be restored, the lens must then be replaced. Thick cataract glasses, which usually produced a distorted picture of the world, have been the traditional replacement and still are used in most cases.

Contact lenses, similar to those used for less drastic vision problems, also are commonly prescribed. But many elderly persons are unable or unwilling to tolerate the daily care required of the lenses.

Permanent replacements — plastic lenses surgically implanted in place of the natural equipment — first were developed about 30 years ago. Early disasters surrounded the "intraocular lens implants" with a controversy that still lingers.

Dr. Robert Drews of Washington University Medical School in St. Louis said, however, "We are hearing today the dying gasps of those who condemn lens implants out of hand because they are being buried under a sea of data showing the usefulness of this technique for some of our patients." He said modern implants are infinitely better and safer than the early lenses, "which were very crude" and led to frequent problems. Last year, he said, 110,000 lens implant operations were performed in the United States and the surgeons

"put them in because they were getting good results." Cavanagh said recent improvements in contact lens design allow contacts to be worn continuously for up to three months before they must be removed and cleaned. The new lenses "are as different from these

(conventional) lenses as color television is from black and white."

One advantage of the new lenses, he said, is that "if one gets into trouble with a piece of plastic on the surface of the eye, the cure is very simple you pinch it between your fingers and you throw it away. But if that piece of plastic is sewn inside the eye (as an implant) then you have another prob-

"He also said contact lenses can be easily upgraded as more advanced versions become available A more experimental procedure, rarely used in the United States, is very demanding microsurgery to actually reshape the curvature of the cornea, the transparent coating over the colored part of the eye.

Magna cum mean graduate turns out to be 'pussycat'

SEABECK, Wash. (AP) — Dutch graduated from guard dog school last winter magna cum mean — a toothy terror trained to bite first and bark later, which is exactly what Brian Childers and Jerry Boyd wanted.

Today, however, the Beware of Dog sign is good for a laugh. Dutch has become a long-haired lover whose mauling extends only to an occasional flower bed — and his owners have filed suit to regain the money they say they spent for a killer that turned out to be a pussycat.

Argued Gaston Hooks, owner of the guard dog school, on Tuesday: "That was a great, A-1 dog when they got him but they turned him into a pet. The dog's spirit is broke now."

Childers and Boyd thought their problems with burglars were over when they bought the German shepherd from Hooks Guard Attack Dog Training in February. But, they said, one day last March they came home to find the garage door kicked in and the door from the garage to the house bashed in as well.

Dutch, his tail a-wag, was in the garage the whole time.

BOSTON (AP) - Mental patients have the right to reject drugs and seclusion ordered by their doctors, except when the patients present a danger to themselves or others, a federal judge has ruled.

U.S. District Judge Joseph L. Tauro's 160-page decision, issued in a class action suit brought by patients at Boston State Hospital, found that those committed to a mental hospital have a constitutional right to a say in their treatment.

But Tauro said the hospital staff could use forced seclusion and medication "where there is a substantial likelihood of ... extreme violence, per-

Tauro rejected the patients' request for $400,000 in damages, noting that although the forced treatment violated the patients' constitutional rights, the treatment itself was sound.

'Dogs loaded for Bronchos

By ANGELA TOMPKINS, TRACY BEEBE, BECKY WILSON and AMY DAVENPORT

YAHOO, ALL YOU Mighty Bulldogs! Let's start off this month of November with a bang as we meet the Bronchos at 8 p.m. Friday at Midland Memorial Stadium. All you Bulldogs mosey on down to the stadium and watch the bone-breakin' roundup. The Dogs won another Dog Bone for Victory Dish last Friday at San Angelo. The Dogs got revenge and heartily hacked the Bobcats' Homecoming, 30-7. That was "True Grit," men.

After a week of tricks, come for a treat at the Victory Dance after the game Friday night. All you Coca Cola Cowboys lasso you a gal and get along down to the ole VC correl down to the ole YC corral.

The Head Honcho (Rasco) wants to thank all who attended the Halloween Dance Saturday night and sincerely hopes everyone else had fun wherever else they were. Y'all really missed out. Mr. Death is $25 richer as winner of the Best Costume award. Con-

ATTENTION, ALL 100 CLUB Wranglers! Did you know that all of you who sign up to work after school and never show are getting points deducted? That 100 points is hard to come by, and it's getting even harder for YOU. But you've got a second chance. Setup for the dance is 4 p.m. Friday, and cleanup is 2 p.m. Saturday. If you make those, you are on your way to cleaning up your own act. Besides, it may help the Head Honcho hold on to his hat!

If you hadn't gathered, Friday is Western Day—Yahoo! All you dudes, wear your kicker boots and cowboy hats and come help YIP and YELL as we prepare to brand the Bronchos at Friday's Pep Rally. Come on. After last week, we are really proud and ready for an even better show. We're burnin' daylight at 8 p.m.

WHO'S BETTER THAN Dolly, Willie, Waylon and Jerry Jeff, the MHS Choir soloists? They ventured to Odessa Permian last Saturday to individually compete for the All-Region Choir. The hard-working kids who made this elite choir are Michelle Sutton, Cynthia Davis, Teresa King, Diane Winkler, R.L. Pertile, Kelly Patterson and Angela Jones as second alternates. Those who advanced to pre-area are Deidre Madison (1st soprano), Angela Tompkins and Melinda McLain (2nd soprano), Carol Blaschke (1st alto), Sheila Pruitt (2nd alto), Scott Morris and Eric Fry (2nd tenor), Tom Boswell, Frank Garramone and Matt Carr (2nd bass). They must learn a whole new set of music and compete again for area as the competition gets stiffer. Good luck, everyone. We're behind you all the way!

CONGRATULATIONS to all whiz kids! The National Honor Society inducted 102 new members last Monday night. These students have to maintain a 3.5 or above grade point average as well as an unmarred conduct record. These students should be recognized as some of Midland's outstanding representatives. Again, congratulations!

THE VOLLEYBALLERS will rope the Broncs tonight in the MHS gym. Everyone come watch the fireworks as the girls spike those balls like Guns-To all Tennis Bums who are headin' down for the level and go for it! The drama students are busy getting "Our Town"

under way, and it is really lookin' good. Good luck to those going to the tournament in Odessa.

Hop on the bandwagon and buy a fruit cake from the MHS Band. Mighty good grub, gang. By the way, you guys really show 'em up at the games. We are proud of ya. Keep up the good work!

Don't forget to come join in on the rodeo as the growling Bulldogs bust the Bronchos on blazing sad-

Get along, little Doggies! Angela, Tracy, Becky and Amy

POSTSCRIPTS: Speaking of grueling (ghouling?) events, the MHS Choir scared the devil out of Midland. A special thanks to Choir boosters. We love

Great job last week, Rebs! Hope the score looks the same for you against those puny Panthers.

Obscenity trials labeled tax waste

HOUSTON (AP) - After an adult videotape salesman was found innocent of a commercial obscenity charge, a woman juror said such trials are a waste of

"It was a waste of people's time, man-hours, and our tax dollars," said juror Dixie Barnes, 34, an oil company personnel coordinator.

"It was the first X-rated film I've ever seen. I've always considered myself a little bit of a prude, but I wasn't offended.

The jury of three men and three women deliberated an hour Tuesday in returning the verdict in the trial of Bob Richardson, 36, who had been charged with selling an obscene videotape, "Erotic Boutique," to an undercover police officer April 11 for

The jury saw the film that includes heterosexual and homosexual scenes.

The other women jurors indicated agreement with Ms. Barnes.

Bonnie Bryant, 30, a secretary, said people the jurors associate with "aren't particularly shocked about this kind of film."

"An older jury because of their own prejudices may have returned a guilty verdict," she said. Debra Hess, 28, a school teacher, said her parents told her they would have done the same thing the

Larry Williamson, 29, the jury foreman and an oil company financial analyst; said the film was a borderline case and trials are the only way to find out what most people think is obscene. "Values are changing," Williamson said. "We feel the individual should retain as much freedom of choice in this society as possible."

Sherman Ross, a defense lawyer, said the jurors were "indignant-thinking people who did not want the district attorney's office to tell them what should happen in the privacy of their own home.

Ross and prosecutor Bill Harmon called the Tuesday verdict significant. Harmon said he will have to reconsider other films awaiting trial.

Mind you, those who keep the statistics are being cautious, but there is no mistaking the fact that there has been a 5.7 percent increase in births nationally during the first five months of this year. And that was followed by a 7.9 percent increase for the month of June, the last month for which statistics are

What's surprising about that number is the fact that it came so far in advance of the yearly September boom, the normal byproduct of the festive holiday season.

The American Hospital Association figures indicate the masses spawned during the last boom are finally getting around to having babies of their own.

"It seems to me," says Mandy Thomas, nursing coordinator for Torrance Memorial. Hospital's Post Partum Department in suburban Los Angeles, "that women have reversed the process somewhat.

'Instead of having babies and then beginning a career, many of our new mothers are having careers, then having the babies in their later childbearing years.

Though there are no statistics available on the exact ages of new mothers, there are some hard and fast statistics on birth numbers.

Where a year ago the Torrance hospital staff was wondering at an alltime high of 225 births for August, this year they were flabbergasted by 315 births.

And with new doctors being admitted to the staff all the time, bringing with them new patients, the number is expected to at least stay the

When it was mentioned here a few weeks ago that the 1976 Bernkasteler Dokter Trockenbeerenauslese was selling in the United States for $285 per fifth, I got a few phone calls. One person said I was kidding. (I wasn't, It's $285 for 25 ounces.) Another asked where the wine could be bought. (I said "You're kidding.") A third asked what a Trockenbeerenauslese was. Hard to describe. Honey comes close. Nectar is approximate. Better yet, why not try one? No, you don't have to spend $285 to do so. Chateau St. Jean, that marvel of a wine operation in Sonoma, Calif., has made a TBA (as it's abbreviated) that may be the finest ever made in the United States and, some feel, rivals the greatest ever made in Germany. At only $22.50 a half bottle.

Yes, it sounds like a lot of money, and I'm not recommending you rush right out and buy a couple of cases, but for all who have read about the classic TBAs of Germany, here's one that is almost afford-

BACKGROUND: The three levels of "classic" German Rieslings are Auslese, Beerenauslese (also called BA) and TBA, and the quality of each depends on the amount of residual sugar left after fermentation and on the amount of botrytis that affected the grapes on the vine.

Botrytis is a fungus that shrivels the grapes and concentrates the flavors while retaining the fruit,

It is called 1978 Chateau St. Jean, Belle Terre Vineyards, Individual Dry Bunch Selected Late Harvest Johannisberg Riesling. The grapes were 100 botrytis affected and the sugar of the grapes at picking was 43 percent.

Richard Arrowood, the artist responsible for this gem, is a winemaker of uncanny ability. He thinks this TBA, as he is not permitted to call it, may be the second best he's ever made.

"I like the character of the Mosel," said Arrowood. "The Rheingaus are richer, but they don't have the delicacy of the Mosels, and that's what I'm aiming for."

The wine is amazingly rich and honey-like. It's so viscous that it just coats the side of the glass like a sheet. Its dark, amber color and its incredible lush taste last in the mouth for such a long time it's a crime to eat anything with it.

THIS IS DESSERT. Pure and simple. After a fine_ meal and a light dessert, this wine, served in small amounts to guests around a fireplace, is the perfect denouement for an elegant repast.

"I'm very pleased how-it turned out," said Arrowood, humbly. "We can, in California, produce wines similar in style to the best of the Rheingau, the Nahe and the Mosel. My vineyard manager and I went to Germany a few months ago and we learned quite a bit. One of the tricks we're using is

'The Germans have a very high crop level. For all varieties, Riesling and Muller-Thurgau and the rest, they average 7 tons per acre of grapes. Now, we're getting 4.5 to 5 tons per acre, and that's high by California standards.

"We want the crop to hang on the vine as long as "One of the big problems in making this style of wine elsewhere is the grape ripens too soon and you don't get as much character as you should." Arrowood began making luscious late-harvest

Rieslings in 1974. He shudders a bit, however, at use of the phrase "late harvest." "We picked one crop in September because they were ripe," he said. "That's not a 'late' har-

BUT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT, which approves, what goes on wine labels, has decreed that some foreign terms may not be used. This includes phrases like BA and TBA. "But the public knows what those phrases mean," Arrowood argued. "They are used in Austria, Switzerland, Hungary, France

When the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms ruled that TBA could not be used on the front label, Ch.-St. Jean began printing a back label that had TBA identified as "Totally Botrytis Affected." The BATF said no to that, too. But Arrowood plans to re-open the case; feeling BA and TBA are terms Americans understand.

Earlier it was noted this '78 TBA-style wine was the second best Arrowood ever made. The best is an unreleased 1978 Individual Dry Bunch Selected Late Harvest Riesling from the Robert Young vineyard.

Dazzle them with turkey creations

NEW YORK, N.Y. - It's easy to love a lavish turkey dinner with all the extras-but somehow the leftovers always taste twice as good. The standbys are terrific-like a hot sandwich served open-faced, a sturdy stew or creamed turkey a la king. But here are two new and different ideas to consider: Turkey Pilaf and Turkey Tricorns.

The pilaf is a mixture of rather plain foods that turns out a sophisticated main dish with just a hint of wine flavor from the addition of dry sherry. It's basically a rice dish with a vegetable blend and a hearty amount of diced, cooked turkey. We've added Accent to the one-skillet preparation to help give the turkey a fresh "first day" taste and to blend the ingredient flavors.

TURKEY TRICORNS

2 tbsps, butter or margarine

1 tbsp. flour 1/2 cup milk

1 tbsp. instant minced onion

1 tsp. chopped parsley 1/3 cup chopped nuts

1/2 tsp. Accent 2 cups diced cooked turkey 1 pkg. (9 1/2 oz.) refrigerated crescent rolls

Melt butter in saucepan; blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and begins to boil. Stir in onion, parsley, nuts, flavor enhancer and turkey; mix well. Unwrap crescent rolls. On each triangle, place 1/4 cup filling. Fold points of triangles together, pinching to secure. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 375 oven 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven. Serve hot with gravy or cranberry sauce.

YIELD: 8 tricorns or 4 servings.

TURKEY PILAF

3 tbsps. butter or margarine 1 cup diagonally sliced celery 1/3 cup chopped onion

2 tbsps. chopped parsley

3/4 tsp. Accent 3 cups diced cooked turkey 1 can whole mushrooms, undrained

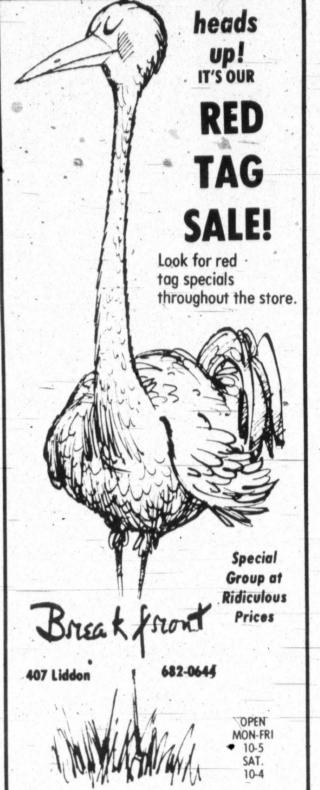

1/3 cup dry sherry 1/8 tsp. hot pepper sauce 1 1/2 cups cooked rice

pnch dried leaf thyme

2 tbsps. toasted slivered almonds (optional)

In large saucepan, melt butter, add celery, onion, parsley, and flavor enhancer. Cook until celery is crisp-tender. Add turkey and mushrooms with their liquid, sherry and hot pepper sauce. (Cook rice according to package directions, substituting chicken broth for water.) Combine rice with turkey mixture; add thyme. Cook over medium heat just until heated through. Spoon into serving dish. Sprinkle with slivered almonds.

YIELD: 4-6 servings.

The package, which must be approved by Congress, is about double what the administration previously has indicated it would recommend to keep Chrysler from bankruptcy.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller was outlining details of the loan guarantee plan — the largest in U.S. history — at a news conference today

The White House has been under increasing pressure from some members of Congress to puts its proposal on the table before Chrysler's financial troubles become insurmount-

The automaker's third quarter losses, announced Tuesday, were a staggering $460.6 million, the largest deficit ever for any American corporation. It brought the firm's losses for the first nine months year to $721 million. Losses for all of 1979 are projected at about $1 billion.

The administration's proposal is in line with others circulating among members of a House subcommittee studying the bailout.

Sources who asked not to be identified said the panel, which was beginning work on shaping the legislation today, had before it proposals for $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion in loan guarantees.

thes.

The administration aid package approximates the $1.2 billion in loan guarantees Chrysler officials had sought in September. The company subsequently trimmed its request to $750 million after Miller said $1.2 billion was too high.

The administration altered its stance after reviewing independent consultants' reports that $750 million would not be enough to keep the company afloat.

Details of the administration proposal were outlined to United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser Wednesday night at a White House meeting that was intended to have been kept secret.

Also at the session were Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Miller, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and Stuart E. Eizenstat, President Carter's top adviser for domestic affairs.

Fraser was summoned from Kansas City, where leaders of UAW locals at Chrysler plants endorsed a proposed three-year contract providing an estimated $403 million in savings to the automaker because of UAW concessions on wages and pensions.

The contract, which also gives Fraser a seat on Chrysler's board of directors, must be ratified by the company's 110,000 UAW-represented workers

Miller said in an interview Tuesday that Chrysler will be forced to file for bankruptcy unless there is the "firm prospect of help" from the government within the next two months.

Decrease in grocery prices noted

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Shoppers got a rare break at the grocery store during October, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey that showed the first drop in prices since June.

The decrease — two-tenths of a percent in the average cost of a random selection of food and non-food items — was only the third decline this year. Prices have increased in each of the other seven months of 1979, with the sharpest boosts coming during winter and spring.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list after the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

THE LATEST CHECK SHOWED that the marketbasket total increased at the survey store in five cities last month and decreased in eight cities. The average rise was 3 percent and the average drop was 2.3 percent. On an overall basis, the average marketbasket bill at the checklist stores was two-tenths of a percent lower at the end of October than it was at the

The news was not all good, however. Consumers found higher prices for breakfast staples like butter, eggs and milk that partially offset declines in the cost of meat.

The rises reflect increased demand that has risen faster than the supply. Milk production, for example, is expected to be about 1 percent larger than in 1978, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. But consumers have been turning to cheese and other milk products as an alternative source of protein to expensive meat, keeping demand and prices high. An increase in government price supports for milk also has boosted prices at the farm and the supermarket.

THE OCTOBER DECREASE in the marketbasket bill compared with a September increase of four-tenths of a percent and an October 1978 rise of 1.7 percent.

Looking at today's prices and those at the start of the year, the AP found the marketbasket bill at the checklist store increased by just under 6 percent during the first 10 months of 1979. The only declines came in February, June and October.

The food component of the market-basket has been responsible for much of the increase. When the food items in the marketbasket were tallied separately, the AP found that the total at the checklist stores was up an average of 7.3 percent — more than one percentage point higher than the total for the food and non-food items together.

THE GOVERNMENT HAS predicted that retail food prices — for food at home and in restaurants — will rise about 11 percent during all of 1979. That compares with an increase of about 10 percent in 1978. The first official prediction of 1980 prices is due on Nov- 5, but the chairman of the USDA's World Food and Agricultural Outlook and Situation Board indicated he is optimistic.

The chairman, J. Dawson Ahalt, said the supply picture is good and added: "With large suplies, food price increases in the first half of 1980 should moderate somewhat from the early 1979 pace, although continued inflation is expected to push up the costs of producing, processing and marketing food."

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed more decreases during October than during September. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

THE DAY OF THE WEEK on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, eggs cost more one place than another. Comparisons were made only in terms of percentages of increase or decrease.

ages of increase or decrease.

The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics involving U.S. farm-produced foods. The department says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tornato sauce, milk, frankfurt-ers and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Wholesale prices show increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for energy products and 1980-model cars helped push wholesale prices up 1 percent in October, the government said today.

The overall increase, following a 1.4 percent surge in September, occurred despite a 0.1 percent dip in wholesale food prices.

Although food-price decline was a hopeful sign for inflation-weary consumers, few other figures in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index signaled an end to the persistent price spiral.

John Early, a Labor Department economist, said "November and December could be pretty much a repeat" of the October performance.

PRICES AT THE PRODUCER level — one step short of retail grocery, drug and department store shelves — have accelerated at an annual rate of 12.3 percent in the first 10 months this year, Early said.

That could make 1979 the worst since 1974, when producer prices went up 18.3 percent, he said.

Changes in the Producer Price Index are watched carefully because they often show up after a month or two lag at retail stores.

Retail prices in September, the most recent month available, were 12 percent higher than in September 1978. And they have been rising at the fastest rate since 1946, when the government lifted World War II price controls.

MOST OF THE OCTOBER increase was blamed on rising energy costs, which pushed the prices of non-food items up 1.4 percent, the largest jump for one month this year.

Gasoline prices were up 5.1 percent for the month and home heating oil rose 4.7 percent, the report said.

Early noted that "this is less than the 6.2 percent (for gasoline) and 7.9 percent (for heating oil) of September, but not by much."

Energy prices, in fact, were 60.5 percent higher in October than they were in the same month last year. This reflects, in good part, the crude oil increases imposed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries since the start of 1979.

PRICES FOR 1980 PASSENGER cars, reflected in the index for the first,time, rose 0.6 percent last month after declining for several months during the nationwide car sales

Food prices came down in large part because of drops in the wholesale cost of meat. "Prices for beef and veal and pork turned down after rising sharply a month earlier," the report showed. "Prices alsotturned down for eggs, processed fruits and vegetables and dairy products following September advances."

The Producer Price Index in October stood at 223.7. That means that goods that cost $100 at wholesale in 1967 cost $223.70 last month.

The figure was 12.1 percent higher than in October 1978.

THE INDEX REPORTS PRICES on three levels: the wholesale, or finished goods, level at which goods are ready for sale to the final user; the intermediate level, where they have received some processing; and the crude level, where goods have not yet gotten any processing.

The October report showed intermediate goods up 1.8 percent, the largest amount since October 1974.

Crude goods were up 1.5 percent

following a 2:1 percent rise in September.

Both intermediate and crude good price increases likely will help push the finished goods index up in the final the finished goods index up in the final months of the year, Early said.

However, a report released Wednesday by the Agriculture Department indicated there could be some relief from rapidly rising food prices in future months. Agriculture officials said the prices farmers get for raw products declined 2 percent from September to October.

PRICES AT THE FARM LEVEL were lower for cattle, hogs, calves, soybeans, corn and broiler chickens, the report indicated. However, they were up for milk, oranges, grapefruit and wheat.

Last week, a senior Agriculture economist, J. Dawson Ahalt, said "some moderation" in the rate of retail food price increases is expected for the rest of this year.

Still, the department's economists expect food prices to be 11 percent higher at year's end than they were at the beginning.

IN OTHER ECONOMIC NEWS:

The Commerce Department reported Wednesday that a surge in orders for defense goods helped push new orders for the nation's factories up 3.9 percent in September to $148.2 billion.

It was the largest monthly increase since a 4.1 percent rise in October 1978 and nearly doubled August's rise.

One-third of the $5.6 billion increase in September came from orders placed by the Department of Defense for military goods, Commerce analysts said. "This increase coincides with the end of the government fiscal year," the report said.

The value of manufacturers' inventories rose 0.8 percent in September to $220.8 billion. It was "the smallest monthly increase in the book value of their inventories this year," the report said.

And shipments increased 0.6 percent to $143.2 billion in September, compared with a 0.9 percent rise in August.

The ratio of inventories to shipments stood at 1.54, the same level it has been at since June.

Applications for the program will be approved on a first comefirst served basis, said Mrs. Sheeler.

As citizens and taxpayers of Midland County, we have entrusted to you the responsibility of overseeing the education of our youth at Midland College. Because the citizens of Midland County voted bonds, you have oversight of the Chaparral Center. We commend you for past actions you have taken to protect and conserve the high ethical and moral standards associated with Midland College.

The example set by performers at Chaparral Center will undoubtedly have a lasting effect on the character, morals, attitudes, etc. of our youth for years to come. Groups that promote immmorality, sexual promiscuity, drugs, violence, etc. have no doubt already sown seeds that will continue to be reaped for some time in the minds of our youth. We believe our community would suffer from the performance of "Kiss and similar groups."

As responsible board members and leaders of this community, we trust you will find a way to protect our community from the influence of groups of this kind. We appreciate your attention to this matter of concern.

Dear Dr. Solomon: When I was with the Peace Corps overseas, I was surprised to see members of the family accompany a patient to the hospital. A wife, for example, might cook for her husband and serve as a nurse for him. While I would not expect cooking privileges to be provided to families of hospitalized patients in this country, it does seem as if some relatives might be able to help care for a spouse, child or parent, especially if this would cut hospital costs. I think these "backward" people have a pretty good idea; what do you think? — Mr.

Dear Mr. S.: I think the plan is worth testing, and that is just what is happening at the New York University Medical Center. Under the cooperative care program, a friend or relative will be permitted to share the patient's room in an effort to reduce nursing costs. The center hopes to cut charges by as much as 40 percent a day.

The experimental program will include patients whose long-term lifestyles will have to undergo change because of their illness — diseases such as heart attack or stroke, diabetes, emphysema and nephritis. Both the patient and family member will be trained so that they will be enabled to deal with chronic disease. At the end of a five-year trial period, the program will be evaluated by the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine was told by her doctor that she has hypoglycemia. I must have it, too, because I have the same symptoms. What would you suggest I do for it? - Connie.

Dear Connie: I would urge you first to see a physician and not attempt a self-diagnosis. You may be correct, but a disgnosis of hypeglycemia cannot be made based only on the patient's symptoms.

Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) is not a disease but a symptom of some underlying condition. It could be a result of stomach surgery, tumors of the pancreas, liver disease, alcoholism or the onset

Symptoms vary widely. Some patients experience weakness, sweating, shakiness, rapid heartbeat and faintness. Another type of gthe disorder may cause headache, mental confusion, personality changes, visual disturbances and muscular weakness. In its severe form it may result in convulsions and coma.

The diagnosis of hypoglycemia is based on three criteria: a low blood sugar level when symptoms are experienced, symptoms characteristic of low blood sugar, and relief of symptoms when the patient takes some form of sugar. High insulin levels during periods of low blood sugar help the physician confirm gthe diagnosis.

Hypoglycemia is a relatively rare problem. Even if some of your symptoms match those of your friend, they may indicate an entirely different disorder. Moreover, it is never a good idea to diagnose yourself.

Snoring humorous unless you're victim

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Retiree Robert Crossley's mailbox is occasionally filled with letters from folks looking for a cure to a problem they've slept through all their lives.

A Pittsburgh man writes: "If this doesn't help I am going to try decapitation.' From Northridge, Calif., comes the tale of woe of a man who has "been ordered to leave hotel rooms in the middle of the night."

And the broken homes were summed up in the letter from Wynnewood, Pa., that said: "Papa snores so loud that I mistake the sound for a brontosaurus with hiccups.'

"It's humorous, unless you're a victim," says Crossley, a 68-year-old retired engineer who sells a electric collar guaranteed to shock snoring out of you. "It's resulted in murder, broken marriages and everything else."

Crossley decided a cure was needed about 10 years ago when his own snoring woke him up. He read about a Florida girl whose long bout with the hiccups was cured by electric shock aversion therapy.

Crossley took a tinkerer's route to a cure. He bought toy electronic components by the handful and worked for four hours a night for about 18 months. "I'm not an electronics man," he said of his hit-and-miss research. "I was like the monkey at the

What Crossley came up with was a collar with a microphone that picks up the snoring sound. A sound-activated switch then triggers a shock. It doesn't hurt much - it doesn't even wake the snorer - but it's enough to form a mental block against snoring, Crossley says.

The prototypes were not as sleek as the vinyl-covered model he now assembles in his mobile home and sells for $69.95. The original model - the one that broke Crossley of the snoring habit — looks like a long, menacing blackjack that cures snoring by

Crossley says there are over 300 patented snore cures. Some are restraining devices that attept to make snoring a physical impossibility. There's one that's a ball you sew on the back of your pajamas to keep you from sleeping on your back.

"The nearest thing to mine was an electronic gadget with a mike that would shake the bed," he

Doctors have estimated that one in eight persons snore, says Crossley. Some doctors recommend earplugs or separate rooms as the best cure.

In his search for the perfect cure, Crossley did a lot of reading about snoring. When asked what causes it, he looked around the room and recalled the re-"I don't know," he said.

Postpone Enjoyment By Alfred Sheinwold

A mature person is able to postpone enjoyment. A mature bridge player should be able to postpone winning a trick.

South took the ace of clubs at the first trick. Very im-

Declarer then drew trumps and led three rounds of diamonds. East returned a spade, and South lost a inesse. Back came a club to the king, and East led another spade. Down one.

South complained that he'd have made the contract if West won the third diamond if East had the king of spades or if East had the jack of spades. North amiably pointed out that if South's grandmother had wheels she'd have been a trolley car.

LET WEST WIN

South should let West win the first trick with the queen of clubs. Declarer takes the next club with the ace, draws trumps and leads three rounds of diamonds.

East wins and leads a spade, whereupon South loses a finesse. But West is then stuck. If West returns a spade, South gets a free finesse; and if West returns anything else, dummy ruffs while South discards a spade.

Cancer-stricken clown Jack Thum Wednesday manages a smile while entertaining children at Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center in Chicago. He holds his adopted great-granddaughter Lisa and is assisted by his granddaughter Julie. (AP Laserphoto)

Dying clown presents what may be last show

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) - They helped Jack Thum into his clown suit and wheeled him out on the hospital auditorium stage. As 400 school children cheered and laughed, the dying clown blinked back tears.

It was not just another hospital visit by Thum, who estimates he has performed before sick and ailing children more than 2,000 times in his 23 years as a professional clown.

Thum now is confined to the hospital, perhaps permanently, with cancer spreading through his body. Doctors told him in July 1978 he had less than two years to live because of spreading lung cancer.

"I'll go out making people laugh," he said. And he kept performing at benefits and such as long as he could. But radiology and chemotherapy treatments have made his bones so brittle he may break a leg just trying to stand, doctors said.

"I can think of nothing more beautiful than making the kids laugh, being a clown for them for probably the last time," he said before being taken to the auditorium of the Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center. A small plastic tube ran into his body from a glass container, giving him liquid food continuously. He no longer can eat.

He gave a brief show of little magic tricks and jokes. His 15-year-old granddaughter, Jackie, also was in her clown suit to help out. "I will carry on as Jackie the Clown when he is gone," she said. "He has been teaching me since I was eight." Halloween was proclaimed by Mayor Jane Byrne as "Jack Thum"

Day in Chicago. In a brief speech to the audience, Thum told of the honor to have a special day like Halloween. "I thank you all for coming and for letting me perform as best I can," he said. "God bless all of you and I wish you many happy years ahead. Earlier in his hospital room, Thum lay in bed as his wife, Shirlee, made up his face as she has done before each of his performances since he became a clown - a big, red smile, arched eyebrows, a red, bulbous nose and sequin hearts like teardrops under his eyes. Then they helped him into his patched, baggy clown suit, his huge red and white shoes, his red, curly wig, and his hat of sprouting flowers. 'You've got to keep looking forward and try not to think about your pain and agony," he said. Then Thum lowered his voice and told a friend to come

"The doctors say I am much worse," he said. "Through the night Monday they gave me transfusions. I didn't think I was going to make it to

"I don't like to admit it, but I really think this will be my last time in my clown suit."

Back-to-work order issued in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's 167,-000 public school children have missed a week's education, traffic lights are on the blink and "good angels" are cleaning public restrooms as public blue-collar workers march picket lines throughout the

Meanwhile, Circuit Judge Harold Shintaku issued a back-to-work order Wednesday to 2,500 workers considered essential to public health and safety. The union said it would notify its members of the order and it would be a matter of "individual conscience" whether the members obeyed.

The walkout began Oct. 22 when contract talks broke down. The 7,700 striking state and county workers include school janitors and cafeteria workers, garbage collectors and nonprofessional hospital workers.

Hawaii's multi-million dollar tourist industry, which is the backbone of the island economy, has yet to suffer appreciably because of the strike. 'As a matter of fact, we have yot to receive our first complaint about it," said a spokesman for the Hawaii Visitors Bureau, who added the only real impact on the tourist thus far is vi-Thousands of people pass through the major airports each year, and transportation officials had asked travelers to go to the bathroom before heading to their jets. The state hired a private janitorial firm to slip into Honolulu International Airport late Tuesday to pick up rubbish and clean restrooms

Acting state transportation director Jack Suwa declined to name the company and said the work was done by "good angels and menehunes (Hawaii's version of leprechauns)."

The striking workers, who average $840 a month, were demanding wage increases totaling nearly 40 percent over two years when negotiations broke down. The government's latest offer was for a little more than 20 percent wage hike over the two

Gov. George R. Ariyoshi, who cut short a Far East trip because of the strike, says he fears capitulation to the blue-collar workers' demands would prompt other public employee unions that have yet to ratify new contracts to demand more money.'

Federal mediator Gayle Wineriter, who said an effort at reopening the bargaining Monday was fruitless, has scheduled another meeting between the two sides for Friday

Superintendent of Education Charles Clark says schools will not reopen until the "essential" workers have returned to their school jobs to clean and maintain at least some of the restrooms.

With city traffic light maintenance workers among those on strike, a growing number of intersections here have malfunctioning signals, creating problems during rush-hour traffic. And as mounds of uncollected trash grow, firemen are responding to about four times the normal number of rubbish fires.

Milwaukee Road suspends service

CHICAGO (AP) — The financially ailing Milwaukee Road suspended rail service over nearly half of its 9,500-mile system after a federal judge denied a government request to delay suspension until Tuesday.

The suspension involves 2,500 miles of track from Miles City, Mont., to Tacoma, Wash., 2,200 miles of track in southern South Dakota and central Iowa, and short lines in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Upper Michigan and Illinois. It became effective at 11:59 p.m. CST Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge Thomas McMil-1 len on Wednesday denied a request by Interstate Commerce Commission attorneys to postpone the suspension to give Congress time to-pass legislation which would have kept the entire system running until Feb. 15, 1980.

Attorneys for the line said the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks had sent court-appointed Milwaukee Road trustee Richard B. Ogilvie a telegram suggesting the union might call a strike on the rest of the line if the suspension were carried

Union officials would not comment on their plans, but there were no reports of disruptions shortly after the suspension went into effect. McMillen, who is presiding over the line's reorganization in federal bankruptcy court, authorized the suspension last week.

In Washington, meanwhile, there was no headway made in efforts Wednesday to resolve differences between House and Senate bills that would delay suspension of service over the 4,700 miles of track.

A provision in the House measure for $75 million in loans and $7.5 million in grants to assist employees who will be furloughed as a result of the suspension met objections in the Sen-

Henri Rush, associate general counsel for the ICC, told McMillen the commission would not use its "directed service" power to order other railroads to take over the affected track 'unless the legislation falls through.'

McMillen said he rejected the ICC petition because "this court has no assurance when and if such legislation will be passed into law.

"In the meantime, it is clear that the whole system should not be operating and clear that the longer that the entire system is in operation, the longer it will take to come up with a solvent core.'

Ogilvie previously submitted a plan to the court to cut the railroad to a Midwestern "core," to be renamed "Milwaukee II," in order to return the line to financial solvency.

After announcing his decision, McMillen urged the ICC to grant a request by the line to reroute traffic on the affected lines and advised the commission not to delay its order for directed service.

Couple dies in snowbound auto

By SUSAN GUFFEY

CAMPO, Colo. (AP) - Ray and Mary Sawyer died in their car, holding hands, as the season's first storm, pushed by 90 mile-an-hour winds, whipped 12 inches of snow into huge

"I don't want to go this way," Mrs. Sawyer wrote in a note stuck in their car's glove compartment.

Sawyer, 59, and his 56-year-old wife were found by a trucker Wednesday, dead of asphyxiation. The Roswell, N.M., couple's car was just a few yards from dozens of other stranded travelers who had gueued beside the two-lane highway two miles south of here beginning about 9 a.m. Tues-

The line of stranded vehicles was dominated by about two dozen semitrailer trucks, most of them en route to Colorado from Texas. And the line included a Continental Trailways bus with 15 passengers bound for Denver from Amarillo, Texas.

The blizzard conditions prevented even snowplows from reaching the stranded until after dawn Wednes-

Aboard the bus, said driver H.G. Moore, "there was a lot of singing and praying to get through the night." Rescuers had to chip away more than 3 inches of ice from the bus door at mid-morning Wednesday.

There were a few anxious moments when a diabetic passenger needed food and water, Moore said. The problem was solved by pooling the other passengers' snacks and bychipping ice from outside the one small window they could open.

The passengers were in good spirits as they prepared to continue their trip Wednesay afternoon, although Ruth Herrin of Fowler, Colo., admitted she "did a lot of thinking about my family last night, and it was just wonderful to see that sun this morning."

Henry Nanny of San Angelo, Texas, was hauling 86 head of cattle to a Colorado feedlot, and said he spent most of his snowbound hours worried about the animals in the trailer behind him. Seventy-two survived, he said. Cattle are worth about $500 today, he noted, "and this is quite a dent for someone like my buddy, who lost 50 of his 92 out there.

In Campo, farmer Alvin Jenkins lost 90 of his 200 hogs when they huddled together by a fence and were suffocated by snow.

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Arnold Miller may retire as president of the United Mine Workers Union because of internal problems within the union, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette reported

Newly isolated pneumonia agent strikes those taking certain drugs

BOSTON (AP) — A dangerous type of pneumonia that seems to strike people who take large doses of common corticosteroid drugs may be a previously unrecognized form of the respiratory disease, researchers

Between July 1977 and April 1979, 13 cases of the disease have been found at two hospitals, and seven of the victims died.

Doctors who isolated the bacteria are calling the newly discovered disease "Pittsburgh pneumonia agent." They say it is the first new form of pneumonia discovered since the outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in Philadelphia three years ago. "Whether this is something that has been going on for years that we just haven't recognized is a real possibility," Dr. Richard L. Myerowitz said in a recent interview. "My gut suspi-cion is that, like Legionnaires' disease, it is not new."

The illness was first noticed at Presbyterian-University Hospital in Pittsburgh and later at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville. Separate reports by doctors at the two hospitals were published in today's New England Journal of Med-

All of the victims were taking corticosteroids, medicines frequently given to treat cancer and rheumatoid arthritis, and to protect transplant recipients from rejecting their new organs. Doctors have long known that these drugs leave patients vulnerable to infections.

Among the most common corticosteroids are cortisone and prednisone. Myerowitz, one of the Pittsburgh researchers, says PPA pineumonia is probably not confined to the two hosLike other kinds of pneumonia, symptoms of PPA pneumonia include fever, coughing and fluid in the Myerowitz said only people who take corticosteroids orally or intravenously seem to be in danger of catching PPA pneumonia. He said cortisone injections in joints to ease arthritis or cortisone creams to treat acne do not carry this risk.

The seven victims died despite doses of the antibiotics that are usually given to treat pneumonia. However, Myerowitz said test-tube studies later showed other drugs may be effective in treating the disease. Of the 13 patients who caught the disease, 10 were receiving corticosteroids for kidney transplants, two for cancer and one for shingles.

The Pittsburgh doctors said they are not sure how the pneumonia germ is spread, but there seemed to be no single source of infection at their Legionnaires' disease erupted at an American Legion convention in 1976. In the initial outbreak, 29 people died. But since then, many cases have appeared elsewhere, and doctors discovered that it was a previously unrecognized form of pneumonia.

The researchers said the Pittsburgh pneumonia agent is distinctly different from the bacteria that

Judge halts enforcement of new Illinois abortion law

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge has temporarily halted the enforcement of a new state abortion law just one day after the General Assembly overrode Gov. James R. Thompson's Judge Joel M. Flaum of U.S. District Court issued a temporary retraining order Wednesday in a classaction suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union. A separate, but similar, suit also was filed on behalf of two downstate abortion clinics and three doctors.

The new law establishes a broad range of controls over abortions in Illinois. It prohibits a woman from getting an abortion within 24 hours after being diagnosed as pregnant, and requires a doctor to certify that, in his judgment, the operation is nec-

The measure also requires that a doctor inform the woman's husband before the operation is performed and that a minor's parents be similarly

Merle Royce, ACLU attorney, urged Flaum to act speedily. "Under this law there cannot be any doctors performing abortions in this state today. There are hundreds of women out there right now waiting to have abortions...and their doctors are caught on the horns of a dilemma between criminal prosecution and violation of their medical ethics.'

Hospitals must find alternative ways to dispose of radioactive waste

NEW YORK (AP) - Hospitals and research centers - some with just weeks of storage remaining - must seek new ways to dispose of low-level radioactive waste now that the sole remaining commercial dump will cut its capacity in half.

South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley announced Wednesday that the storage site at Barnwell, S.C., which handles 80 percent of the low-level waste in the United States, will cut the volume it accepts gradually over the next two years. First reductions will come this

The other two commercial waste dumps, at Hanford, Wash., and Beatty, Nev., had been closed earlier by their governors.

As a result, doctors and hospitals that use radioactive isotopes have warned they may run out of storage space in four to six weeks, and many are exploring other ways of dealing with the waste.

Columbia University, for example, is considering compacting some of the 20 barrels of nuclear waste it ships each week to reduce the volume. James Summers, assistant radiation safety officer, said the South Carolina decision "is just going to force us to go into it further.'

About 60 percent of low-level radioactive wastes come from commercial nuclear reactors, but most of the rest comes from tests, diagnosis and therapy based on radioactive materials.

A State Department official, who did not want to be named, said the buildup of supplies likely will pressure Cambodian officials to reverse their rejection of a U.S. plan to speed the process by trucking supplies in from Thailand.

'What we've got is a very large bottle pouring through a very small funnel," he said.

The official was referring to 6,000 tons delivered since last Friday and 4,000 tons arriving - all of it part of an international drive to save 2 million to 3 million Cambodians from

A State Department tally shows a dozen countries have pledged a total of $137 million for the effort, more than the estimated $111.3 million cost for delivery of 165,000 tons of supplies in six months.

The tally shows private relief organizations are delivering 11,000 additional tons and individuals are contributing additional money.

And the money children across the country collected Wednesday night in the annual "Trick or Treat for UNI-CEF" campaign is pledged this year to the Cambodia effort. # Martial law commander in Korea emerging as the strongest figure

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - Gen. Chung Seung-hwa, the army chief of staff who automatically became martial law commander after the assassination of President Park Chung-hee, is emerging as the strongest figure in post-Park government, informed sources said today.

Chung wielded considerable power as chief of the 560,000-man army before the assassination last Friday. Insiders say he now is one of the most influential members - and may be the most influential — of the small committee running the government, a group that includes Acting president Choi Kyu-hah and other key military and cabinet officials.

Chung increased his power by having his deputy, Lt. Gen. Lee Hui-sung. named acting head of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency, a key source of Park's power during his 18 years of authoritarian rule. Lee replaced KCIA chief Kim Jae-kyu, named by the government as the master mind of the assassination plot and the man who shot Park and his chief bodyguard. And the investigation into the assassination is headed by the defense security chief, Maj. Gen. Chon Doo-hwan, who nominally is a subordinate of the army commander

Chung's status is also being enhanced by the latest, still-unofficial version of the assassination, which portrays him as a hero who resisted the KCIA chief's efforts to draw him into the plot and instead had him arrested.

The official account which the government released Sunday said Kim had been plotting for some time to kill Park and his chief bodyguard and confidant, Cha Chi-chul, because he was out of favor with the president and feared he was about to lose his

But this version is very vague about the period immediately after the assassination during a dinner at a KCIA restaurant near the presidential residence. There were reports that Kim and Chung were seen together shortly after the assassination, raising suspicions that the army chief was involved in Kim's plot.

Some suspicions remain that Chung could have had prior knowledge of the plot because of his very close personal relationship with Kim and his proximity to the scene of the slaying, informed sources said. But because of Chung's very powerful position, most Korean informants are reluctant to say anything negative about him.

Meanwhile, laborers were at work in the capitol preparing for Park's state funeral on Saturday.

Andrews, Ector clash with eye on 2-AAA title

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

Bill Shipman and Ralph Johnson were pulling no punches.

Wednesday afternoon, each candidly stressed the importance of Friday night's pivotal District 2-AAA matchup between the Andrews Mustangs and Odessa Ector Eagles.

"We feel that if we can win this particular game," said Ector coach Johnson, "we'll have a very good chance of winning the district. This is because we will have only one game left and we'd have a lead. The rest of them would have to catch us."

Shipman, the second-year Andrews taskmaster, tossed in the do-or-die syndrome.

"If we don't win it, we're out of the district race," he said flatly. "If we beat them, everybody's in it." Kickoff at the Mustang Bowl in

Andrews is set for 8 p.m. The mathematics of this thing are simple enough. Ector brings a 2-0 2-AAA and 7-1 overall mark into the contest while the Mustangs enter at 0-1 in district and 6-1 overall. Currently, the Eagles and Monahans are the only unbeatens in the circuit. Keith Brooks, who's completed more than 50 percent of his passes for 541 yards and seven touchdowns, and junior tailback Van Pearcy, a splendid runner, defender and punter, are the keys to the Andrews attack, according to Johnson. "Keith Brooks at quarterback," explained Johnson, "he's only a sophomore and he performs like a seasoned senior. On top of that, you have to contain Van Pearcy, who's one of the fastest players in Texas. If we can control Brooks and Pearcy, our chances of winning the game are very good."

Shipman declared the Eagles "are pretty balanced all-around." Still, he'll likely have eyes posted on brilliant Ector tailback James Ricks, who's galloped for 879 steps on 107 trips for a super 8.2 yards a crack. And he's scored 13 times, often on long, breakaway-type romps.

But Ricks isn't all Ector boasts. Quarterback Bruce McCowan can run or throw and Chris Walker complements Ricks quite well.

So far, Ector's played a schedule equal to wrestling a grizzly bear. Their last three foes were ranked San Angelo Lake View, defending district champ Fort Stockton and, last week's 14-6 victim, Pecos. Phew.

And Johnson said Andrews would be better than any of them.

"They'll (Andrews) be a little more dangerous than Pecos," he said. "We really feel Andrews is better than Pecos. We just want to pull our bruised and battered bodies together for one more big one."

Meanwhile, Shipman's squad may be as healthy as they've been in a while. "We'll probably be about the best we've been," said Shipman. Brooks will be at 100 percent for the first time since the Snyder game. And (guard) Donnie Munsell is moving a lot better than he has."

Elsewhere, Reagan County finds their back to the wall in 9-A in what's shaping up as one of the area's most competitive districts.

The Owls are at home Friday for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff against Junction, a team cruising along atop the district standings with a 2-0 mark. Reagan County brings their 1-1 ledger into the

Let Owl coach Melvin Burns explain. "We feel like, you know, that this is the biggest ballgame we've played up to this point and we definitely have to win to stay in the district race," he said.

It was just a week ago that Junction upset previously unbeaten Mason while the Owls were self-destructing in a forgettable loss to Wall.

"No doubt Junction is the number one team right now," said Burns. "They've been a big play type of football team and it's been a big reason for their success. With the talent they have, they can score from anywhere. We're not going to be able to make mistakes against Junction and still stay in the game."

Other games Friday involving local teams have Lamesa hosting Snyder at 7:30 p.m. in a 3-AAA affair while Crane opens District 7-AA play at home at 8 against Ozona, Stanton travels to Anton for a 7:30 District 5-A collision and Rankin entertains Clint at 7:30 in a District 6-A encounter. While Andrews and Ector fight it out in Andrews, Monahans puts their

2-AAA hopes on the line against Pecos in what should be a battle royal. Brownfield and Sweetwater tangle in the other 3-AAA contest. In 5-A, Shallowater's at O'Donnell. powerful Seagraves hosts Forsan and

Plains goes to Ropes. Joining Rankin in 6-A action will be

Iraan and Marfa, who'll play at Iraan. The 9-A docket shows Menard at

Look who's excited about Cowboys

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Harry Carson is trying to be low key about Sunday's Giants-Cowboys game, but teammate Terry Jackson can't help but get excited.

"It's almost impossible not to be," Jackson said. "Not necessarily because we've won four in a row, but because we're playing Dallas. They're perennially in the playoffs, send 10 guys to the Pro Bowl every year. I wouldn't be any kind of person if I wasn't emotionally ready."

Carson, however, is trying to keep the game and the Giants four-game winning streak in perspective.

"It's just another game. The only difference between Dallas and Los Angeles is the Rams are in Los Angeles and the Cowboys are in Dallas," Carson said. 'Dallas is no big deal, they're just a team. We just had to get that first win, get over the hump and get the psychological lift from winning.

Carson admits winning makes it a lot more enjoyable going to work every day.

"It's more fun, we're just playing and having fun," he

"I was saying we're going to win some games, we were not counting ourselves out," said Carson, an All-Pro middle linebacker who is now an inside

The Giants, 4-5, are gearing up for their biggest game in seven years. The hated Dallas Cowboys, who have beaten the Giants nine straight times, visit Giants Stadium Sunday.

"The fans can go crazy, but the fans don't play," Carson said. "I'm taking it like it's just another game — I'm serious. I'm not thinking about .500, just winning another game."

New York has knocked off Tampa Bay, San Francisco, Kansas City and Los Angeles after dropping the first five games of the season.

"I never had a doubt in my mind as far as the talent we have here," Jackson said. "Now that we're doing it, people realize the potential is there, it was just untapped."

The Giants are relatively healthy except for linebacker Brad Van Pelt, who is doubtful with a bruised rib cage received in the 20-14 victory over Los Angeles. Van Pelt didn't work out. Wednesday but hopes to

When Gary Shirk caught this TD pass against Rams Sunday to clinch their fourth straight victory, the Giants suddenly began to take themselves seriously.

Staubach's future...is it worth risk?

After last Sunday's 14-3 loss to Pittsburgh, one has to be concerned over the future of Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach. It's not his playing ability that is the area in question. Roger probably can go on for another two to five years, or maybe, as Danny White claims, "Until he's 68. Or as Roger tells me, 'don't worry, Danny, you'll be starting as soon as Mexico City, Tokyo, Rangoon and Bangkok are members of the NFL.

It's more a matter of risk. When Steelers' tackle L.C.Greenwood belted Roger in the final period, it was the third or fourth time this year that Staubach was left prone after a hit. Last year it happened twice, at least. Once Roger was out so long it gave cause for serious concern.

At 37, Staubach has lost some of the quickness and guile that enabled him to avoid the solid force of a tackle in his earlier scrambling years to jump up unshaken. That's not unusual. After all, how many 38-year-old running backs do you see in the NFL. For most, even the best, 30 is the time to think about the heart and slippers.

And, if there is a risk involved, is it worth it? Staubach long ago achieved about every honor that can be bestowed on a college or pro quarterback during a long and illustrious career. We hate to see the day come when Roger hangs'em up. He's the kind of class individual that presents the NFL at at its best. But frankly, we are worried about him...

Tex Schramm, Dallas Cowboys' president, observed that when punter Danny White threw the pass from deep in his own territory against the Steelers Sunday, "It surprised everybody in the stadium...except the Pittsburgh Steelers."

And in the St. Louis Cardinals' postgame probe a week earlier, specialty team member Doug Cosbie was asked if specialty team coach Mike Ditka who is known to have a short fuse and long temper, said anything after Roy Green's NFL record 108-yard kickoff return. "No," said Cosbie, "He didn't say a word. He just stood there and stared at us for about a minute and a half. That was worse.'

To our list of Midlanders playing major college football, add Herb Pearce, former Midland Lee standout, a freshman at Texas Tech, and Keith Bishop, another ex-Rebel, who would be playing at Baylor if he hadn't suffered a preseason injury. We can't believe those are the only two we missed in a roundup last week. How about some help out there?...

For those in the Cotton Bowl, it was college football at its best, a fastpaced, action packed thriller until national television joined the Texas-Oklahoma game from the World Series eight minutes into the second period and then it was as though the Longhorns and Sooners had run into an invisible glass barrier. The game crept at a snail's pace thereafter...

Doug Russell, the Midlander who won a couple of swimming Gold medals in the Mexico City Olympics, was one of the ex-Olympians at an Olympic fund-raising dinner in Atlantic City recently. Doug's picture will appear in a future issue of Life magazine. After finishing a championship career at the University of Texas-Arlington, Doug coached at UTA and in Amarillo and now is living in San

When writers asked Bear Bryant what he was thinking when Alabama trailed Tennessee 17-0, he said, "I was wondering how in the world I could explain it to you writers."...

Drag-strip operator spills beans on Kush

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) -Drag-racing strip operaor Rick Lynch says ousted Arizona State University football Coach Frank Kush asked him to set up a non-profit organization to funnel cash to players.

"He told me, 'We need to get financial help to establish a walk-on program.' He said he wanted me to be the bag man. 'We'll raise the money and you get it to the kids,' he told me," Lynch said Wednesday.

"He said that with ASU going into the Pac-10, it would be impossible to compete with some of the stronger schools because of the (NCAA's) 30-scholarship rule," Lynch said.

Lynch has been accused by Kush of disrupting the football program and conspiring to have Kush removed, allegations that Lynch denies.

Kush, one of the most successful college football coaches in history, was not available for comment on the latest develop-

In Tempe, his successor, Bob Owens, an assistant under Kush, said he was aware of the Lynch organization, known as the Fallen Angel Foundation, but his understanding was that "it was a non-profit foundation designed to help Arizona students. "That was the way it was explained to me by Lynch," Owens said.

Owens said he was directed to the organization by Kush and told it was not in violation of NCAA regulaions. The Arizona Republic, a Phoenix newspaper, said the payments - apparently made to seven or eight players - could be in violation of National Collegiae Athletic Association rules that govern college athletics. Fred Miller, Arizona State athletic director, acknowledged that the gifts are among irregularities being investigated by the NCAA. The NCAA probe was announced last week by school.

Miller announced Kush's removal Oct. 13, accusing him of attempting a cover-up in the case of former ASU punter, Kevin Rutledge, who filed a $1.1 million suit against the school and Kush. Rutledge claimed Kush punched him and harassed him into relinquishing his scholarship

The Fallen Angel Foundation supplied players with $6,500 in grants and gifts at Kush's request, Lynch told The Phoenix Gazette. Legislative sources told the Republic the money total may run as high as $9,000. The organization was incorporated in August 1978 by Lynch and others. The ASU teams are nicknamed the Sun Devils and booster groups have adopted names playing on the nickname.

Pinup admits 'Night of Passion' with ring champ

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Mercedes Kornfeld, a white pinup queen who claimed she spent "a night of passion" here with World Boxing Association champion John Tate, was released from iail Thursday. She was arrested Wednesday on what police said was an unspecified passport violation. Police denied that the arrest had anything to do with South Africa's apartheid laws which forbid sexual relations between whites and nonwhites. Her friends said the a 24-year-old Austrian national, a model in South Africa before opening her own modeling agency, was released before noon after spending the night in a police cell and that she was back in her Johannesburg apartment.

Kornfeld and her recounting of her alleged "night of passion" with Tate after he defeated South African boxer Gerrie Coetzee in a 15-round decision Oct. 20 for the WBA title vacated by Muhammad Ali, are featured prominently in South Africa's two major Sunday newspaper this week.

The Sunday Times and the Sunday Express, which normally provide a heavy diet of low-brow features and bikinied teeny boppers, gave lavish front-page display to Kornfeld's claims.

Under South Africa's apartheid race segregation laws, it is illegal for whites and non-whites to have sexual relations or marry.

But a police spokesman denied that her arrest had anything to do with her amorous anecdotes.

Super Bowl preview?

Don't tell other teams in the NFL

By BRUCE LOWITT

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Ask a pro football fan which two teams played in the last Super Bowl and which two will be in the next one and the odds are you'll get the same answer.

In more than one corner of the country, Sunday's game here between the Dallas Cowboys and the Pittsburgh Steelers was hailed not so much as a rematch of Super Bowl XIII as a preview of Super Bowl XIV.

It's as though 26 teams were being kissed off seven games from the start of the playoffs.

"Oh, yeah?" a bunch of them snort. "Sez who?" Detroit? San Francisco? You can make a case for ignoring them and a few other clubs who are just about resigned to playing out the schedule. But Tampa Bay? Houston? Washington? Cleveland? New England? Philadelphia? San Diego? And others? One little bounce of the ball can send one or two of them flying into Pasadena next January while unceremoniously bouncing last year's Super Bowl participants into oblivion for another

AND THE Cowboys and Steelers know it all too well. "Usually a team that plans on being in the Super Bowl is certain not to be there," Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach said after the 14-3 loss to the Steelers. "If you plan to be there, you're sure to be knocked out of the running." His counterpart on Pittsburgh, Terry Bradshaw, also downplayed the significance of the meeting. "Just another game," he said. "One of 16. Sure, it's nice to hear people say it's a preview, 'cause if it is it means we'll be in Pasadena. But we don't think that way. We can't afford to." "Maybe we'll be in it again and maybe Dallas will, too," added Lynn Swann, the Steelers' lithe receiver. "But even if that's the case, you can't say the Super Bowl will be like this game. There's none of the pressure, none of the distractions. This game didn't prove anything, except that this time we played a little better than they did." Only one other team has a record as good as the 7-2 owned by Dallas and Pittsburgh. That's Tampa Bay. Anothe Bucs aren'trabout to concede anything to the Cowboys and Steelers.

"A couple of weeks ago the world champions got beat - beat bad," Tampa Bay quarterback Doug Williams said, reflecting on the 34-10 pounding Pittsburgh took in Cincinnati. "You can have a bad game anytime, now or in the playoffs. If it happens then, "You don't win this game just on talent. You win on breaks, too. Cleveland has a lot of talent but maybe not quite as much as Dallas. But they beat up on the Cowboys. You've got to have talent to get into the playoffs, but after that ...

People forget that while some teams are winning, others are growing, maturing," says one of Williams' teammates, linebacker David Lewis. "It's almost always just a matter of time, like with us."

EIGHT TEAMS are within one game of matching the 7-2 of the Steelers, Cowboys and Bucs.

"There's seven more games and a couple of playoffs that are going to decide whose in the Super Bowl," says Joe Theismann, quarterback of the 6-3 Washington Redskins. "And if you look at the way things have been going for a lot of teams so far, well, it's a long season yet.

Philadelphia is tied with the Redskins in the National Conference East, one game back of the Cowboys, "Anything can happen," says Eagles linebacker Bill Bergey. "So many times you hear the old cliche, 'On any given Sunday ...,' but it's true. Hey, we beat the Steelers (17-14) a few weeks ago.

"Listen, if you want to talk about who's the odds-on favorites for the Super Bowl, maybe you've got to go with Pittsburgh and Dallas. They've been there before, been there more than anybody else. But you can't just ignore everyone else. Says offensive tackle Leon Gray of Houston, one game back of Pittsburgh in the American Conference Central race: "I think saying they're going to be in it is a loaded statement. If everybody thinks they're the only two teams in the league, why don't they just schedule 'em every other Monday night?" "There's a lot of teams with a shot at it. Nobody's packing their bags. OK, Dallas and Pittsburgh are certainly the teams you look for in the playoffs, but a lot of others will be there, too. One little mistake and maybe one of them will be out of it after one

ANT ADS do more!

The last time the New York Giants played what could be called a big game, rookie quarterback Phil Simms was in the 10th grade. That was 1972, the year the Giants went 8-6. The only big games they've had in succeeding years was for jockeying for better position in the draft, but Sunday, when the surging Giants meet the banged up Cowboys, the Giants will have a lot on the line. Four victories in a row have improved their record to 4-5 and with the NFL wildcard setup, the playoffs are not out of

"Going for .500 against Dallas at home. That's probably the biggest game we've had around here since, well, I don't know, maybe 1972," said

NFL report

Doug Van Horn, a 13-year veteran offensive tackle. "The playoffs? Heck, I don't know why everybody avoids saying that. But that's why we all show up in the first place. I don't think it's such a far-fetched idea."

Sunday's 20-13 victory over the Rams seemed to have convinced the Giants they're for real. Four interceptions, an incredible goal line stand that included two plays from the half-yard line, and increased confidence in Simms, have turned the Giants around...

Coach Jack Pardee still believes it will take at least nine victories — but most probably 10 — to gain a spot in the NFC playoffs and he thinks his Redskins' chances are good."I still think that you better figure on 10 if you want to get in, Nine might make it. I certainly wouldn't put any written guarantees on a nine-win record getting there."

Pardee cited teams such as Tampa Bay, New Orleans and the New York Giants that won Sunday and others that lost, including Dallas, Philadelphia and his own Redskins as still strong contenders. "That's the reason all the playoffs aren't going to be decided this week, it's going down

The Philadelphia Eagles, battered more mentally than physically after two straight losses, Coach Dick Vermeil said, "Most of my players suffer when they make a mistake, and I'm going to add a little bit to it, there's no doubt self-doubt creeps into your mind when you do a lousy job. But I think we have the character and the motivation to turn it around. If not we'll just keep on getting beat."

Vermeil said he didn't believe last year's 9-7 squad that won a playoff berth was as talented as the current Eagle team, and he scoffed at a suggestion his players might be stale from too much hard work on the practice field...

Despite a cozy three-game NFC Central lead, Coach John McKay isn't ready to concede his Buccaneeersare on their way to the playoffs. 'We've got seven games left to play and there have been a lot of teams that lose their last seven." Asked if his players might think they can coast the rest of the way, McKay said: "I'm not concerned with our team getting overconfident. If we had a tendency to become overconfident, #### we had it knocked out by two teams." He was referring to New Orleans and the New York Giants, who engineered consecutive upsets after the Bucs won their first five contests...

The Rams may be down but not dewntrodden, warns Coach Ray Malavasi. "We're not out of it, not by far. Don't count us out," said Malavasi, whose club is under .500 this late in the season for the first time in seven years. After winning six straight division titles, the Rams have lost three straight games to drop into second place in the NFC West behind New

With veteran running star Greg Pruitt recuperating from knee surgery that will keep him sidelined the rest of the season, Coach Sam Rutigliano will keep a line open to Allan Webb, the team's director of pro scouting who keeps track of the unemployed around the NFL. "There are only a handful of guys out there good enough to consider," Webb said.

Dr. Williams never keeps his dental patients waiting

By JIM MURRAY Los Angeles Times Syndicate You're supposed to visit your den-

Weather makes hunting a battle for survival

By MICHAEL HOFFMAN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Despite the fact that each year the newspapers are full of stories about hunters getting lost, injured, even dying because they were totally unprepared for the weather, it keeps on happen-

So far this fall there have been several deaths reported as a result of exposure during hunting trips for deer and elk in the western mountains. In one case, search parties in Wyoming found the body of a hunter who did not even have matches to light a fire and whose warmest piece of apparel was a sweatshirt. He had been caught in an early-season snow-

There's no reason for any person to enter a wooded, desert, or mountain area without a compass, fire starter, knife, rudimentary first-aid gear, proper clothing, food, the means to provide emergency shelter and the knowledge of how to use these

Nearly all of the above, plus a few other important pieces of survival equipment, will fit into a large pocket or a small pack.

A basic, easy to put together survival kit ought to be carried by every outdoorsman or woman. The cost of such a kit can be minimal. The cost of not having one cannot be measured.

Most of the things needed to make up the barest kit can fit into a tin adhesive bandage container. A candle, any medications required regularly, some nylon line, waterproof matches, a couple of candy bars, a wire saw and a folded square of plastic sheet.

Naturally, the outdoorsman already has a sharp knife either on his belt or in his pocket, a compass and a large bandana that can be used as a bandage if necessary.

If needed, the candle can be used to help get a good fire going; the roll-up wire saw, with rings on each end, can be used to cut firewood; the matches and candy bars are self explanatory.

That plastic sheet can probably do with a bit of explaining. To begin, you can use a piece of plastic to sit on in snow without getting wet. Fill it with snow and shove it inside your parka and you can melt something to drink. And you can use it as a patch for clothing torn in a fall.

One of the best of the easy to handle survival kits is a small pack containing all of the above, a so-called sportsman's blanket that folds to a three-by-five packet and can be used as a makeshift shelter, topographic maps of the area you are hunting, a water bottle or canteen and enough food to get you through a couple of

The pack might be a teardrop design daypack or a belt pack. Either one is easy to handle, weighs little and won't get in the way.

One other good survival tool is to make sure someone knows the general area in which you'll be hunting and when you will be coming back.

Getting into the woods is only half of a good hunting trip. Getting back out is the other, more important, half.

annually. You see, they have this appointment with Dr. John M. Williams who offices mostly not in some skyscraper medical center but in the middle of the left side of the Rams offensive line.

Dr. Williams' appointment calendar is filled clear through to next January and maybe beyond. He gives very personal care to his patients, none of whom he ever keeps waiting. A dental hygienist might be a little appalled at the procedure. First, Dr. Williams knocks his patients down. Either that or he sticks his head in their stomachs for a period of up to five to seven seconds and tries to push them back. He does not administer novocaine first.

Of course, all this attention is free but you can see why a visit to this dentist is even more traumatic than usual to these worthies. I mean, they don't arrive at the dentist's office with a toothache - but they sometimes leave with one, to say nothing of a headache. Still, Dr. John Williams is almost the only guy who can loosen your teeth on the field — and then correct the problem in a chair later. Not everybody can get on his schedule. You have to belong to a certain group to get on his appointments twice a year — the San Francisco 49ers, the Atlanta Falcons or the New Orleans Saints

It's not unusual to see a dentist at a Ram game every Sunday afternoon. But not many of them show up in pads and helmet. Not many of them lean across the line of scrimmage and say "I'll try not to hurt you" to a 275pound defensive tackle.

A "two-minute drill" might mean a lot of fast huddles, out-of-bounds passes and quick counts to most football players but to Dr. Williams it can mean getting a cavity all cleaned out in a hurry with a new 10,000-rpm dental tool. He is the only guy in the NFC West who isn't merely trying to distract an opponent when he ways "You really ought to get that third molar looked at. The gum line is receding. You may be in for big trouble." The guy, of course, is in for big trouble anyway. Williams goes 6-3 and 256 pounds. Other linemen are as afraid of him as - well, say, a visit to

It is hard to say, when he suits up, whether Williams is on his way to a football game - or a duel in the park. He wears the strangest mask this side of a fencing academy. It is designed, however, not to keep out an epee but a fingernail. John Williams' flat profile exposed his eyes, in the early days of his career, to the probing fingers of such resident football ophthalmologists as San Francisco's Tommy Hart and Atlanta's Claude Humphrey.

Presumably, they were probing for corneal irregularities. In any case, their nails regularly scratched John's cornea. Being a form of medical engineer himself, John helped devise a mask which could keep even a mos-

Williams is a member of one of the most exclusive clubs in the world the offensive linemen of the National Football League. These are the unsung stalwarts of the game who labor as anonymously as secret agents in a foreign capital. But they are as skilled as master plumbers. And as in demand.

Offensive linemen are the most patient of athletes. Slow to anger, coldly efficient, they are as unflappable as an English butler, as calculating as a guy who makes his living on a riverboat with a deck of cards, and a guy who is capable of doing the same thing over and over until he gets it. perfect. It's ideal training for dentist-

John Williams is almost a stereotype. Soft-spoken, reasonable, almost gentle. A student of the genus pro football player would have no trouble spotting his position in an instant. John would inspire immediate confidence even in a guy who st; tm sm his ofice with a towel wrapped around his chin and knotted on top of his head and his jaw swollen from a throbbing

Offensive linemen don't make great plays. They make the high-percentage plays. "We have one big advantage," explains Dr. John Williams. "We know what the count is, when the ball is going to be snapped, and where the play is going. We have all the elements of surprise built in. The other guys have to react to us. It's our job to see they do it too late."

It is said a tackle is a fullback with his brains beaten out. But John Williams is a fullback with his brains beaten in. He was a fullback in Ohio back when the University of Minnesota stole him from right under Woody Haves' eves. "I was a fullback at Minnesota till my senior year," says John. "You might say I ate myself out of the position.

John was drafted No. 1 by Baltimore in 1968. He was moved to offensive guard by coach Don Shula, where he helped lead the Colts to their 1970 Super Bowl victory. Williams played out his option in 1972, the year Carroll Rosenbloom swapped the Baltimore Colts for the Rams. You play out your option by agreeing to play for 90 percent of your former salary, then you sell yourself to the highest bidder over the offseason. The Rams were not the highest bidder but they were in a position to meet the compensation demands of the Colts.

When John came to Los Angeles, he found his position filled by Tom Mack, a perennial All-Pro. Not entirely to his satisfaction, he was moved to offensive tackle. While the move was only three feet geographically, it was like being transferred to Copenhagen careerwise. This year, with the retirement of Mack, John returns to his old, familiar, Super Bowl position.

He has the contemplative attitude of a man who plans to live a long time, the words "steady" and "consistent" are more used to describe John Williams than "flashy" or "unpredictable." While most players spend the offseason hunting or fishing or surfing or discoing, he went to the University of Maryland Dental School. On long plane trips when other players are perusing Playboy, John will be studying abscesses.

Dr. Williams hangs out his shingle in Minneapolis these days. If you're ever passing through the Twin Cities, and your incisors begin to throb, or your wisdom teeth impact, you could do worse than look him up in the white pages. And any NFC - or even AFC - middle-linebacker can telll you, Dr. John M. Williams is quick, thorough, professional, and, to be sure, pain-

Offensive linemen learn never to rush things. They are tidy, methodical, and, above all, quick to spot weaknesses. And anyone who has no trouble opening holes in the Dallas Cowboys, should have no trouble opening ones for gold inlays. When the dentist says "Open wide" on the field, they do. Besides, his fees shouldn't scare you. He's the only dentist who makes more money after office hours. Also, it's reassuring: he's the only dentist who doesn't spend the winter in Palm Springs.

Houston's Ken Hatfield was named AP Offensive player of the week in the SWC after his winning field goals against Arkansas.

offensive nod

Hatfield was once again the deciding force last Saturday when he kicked a 19-yard field goal with 1:12 left in the game to complete Houston's 13-10 victory over Arkansas. While most collegiate kickers go through a series of physical and mental gymnastics on the sidelines prior to their kicks, Hatfield says he's better off playing defense and not thinking too much about kicking. "When I miss, I just change shoes and go back out, and play defense," Hatfield said. "If you miss, you can't stand around and be mad at yourself and put pressure on yourself the next

Seattle rookie sometimes forgets

SEATTLE (AP) - Michael Jackson, a rookie linebacker with the Seattle Seahawks, has to keep reminding himself that he belongs in the National Football League.

There's a tendency for a first-year player, he admits, to stand around in awe of the big-name players he watched on television as a collegian.

"To me," he said, "the hardest thing to do as a rookie is to get it out of your mind that you're playing against pros. In high school and college, you sat around and watched television and saw all the pro guys.

"You said to yourself, 'I wonder what it's like playing against them.' Then when you finally get to play against them, you find you're almost in a state of shock because you're going against all these great pro play-

Cooper appears safe from pursuit

District 5-4A resumes Friday night, featuring the rich traditional rivalries between the Midland and Odessa schools, and tradition is about all the district has to squabble about as the race enters its last three weeks.

Abilene Cooper, ranked No. 1 in Texas AAAA circles, virtually tucked away the title beyond reach by beating Odessa Permian, 14-3, last week, which means the Cougars, with wins over Permian and Midland Lee, their closest pursuer, would have to lose two games to blow it.

That doesn't seem likely, not if the Cougars are truly No. 1.

But as far as the Tall City schools are concerned there is more pressing business at hand than fretting over the remote possibilities of a title in 5-4A. Midland High plays Odessa High at Memorial Stadium with an 8 p.m. kickoff.

Coach Dennie Hays' Bulldogs won last year, 15-7, but Odessa has won four of the last six.

It's a game that quite often defies the form chart, but this one won't. It looks like a toss up on the basis of comparative scores, although Midland walloped San Angelo last week while the Bobcats upset the Bronchos, 19-17, the week before. The series stands 36-31 in favor of the Red Hosses. Odessa Permian holds a decisive 15-3 edge over Midland Lee, but again this one looms as a close contest. The Panthers' tough defense makes the Black Cats a slight favorite in Fri-

Odessa. Permian won 14-3 last year in the game that decided the 5-4A title while Lee's last victory was 14-13 in 1976 and the Rebels' most decisive win was 34-7 in 1974 while Permian's biggest margin was 49-6 in 1969.

day's game at Barrett Stadium in Cooper should continue its winning ways against Big Spring. The Steers haven't won in 35 straight 5-4A games and their last victory was over Cooper in 1974, 12-7. Cooper has won 12 of the last 13, but for a time must have wondered if they ever beat the Steers. Big Spring won the first five meetings between the teams, so despite the Cougars' recent domination, trails 12-6 in the series.

San Angelo owns a 14-13-1 edge in the series over Abilene. Abilene won 21-15 last year while San Angelo was the winner in 1977 and 1976 by 17-14 and 27-0 margins.

Huntsville tailback heads Texas prep grid honor roll

By Associated Press Huntsville Coach Joe Clements' scrapebook of individual performances by Hornet tailback Lloyd Archie got another entry last Friday in a 32-6 victory over Channelview.

Archie's touchdown runs went 8, 1, 44 and 61 yards and his TD pass was for five yards. The versatile senior also doubles as a defensive safety and intercepted his fifth pass of the seaeffort earned Archie mention in Archie has rushed over 100 yards in seven of Huntsville's eight games. He gained 88 yards against Houston Furr and did not play in the second half.

For the season, Archie has 1,249 yards rushing on 196 carries and has 164 yards on eight of 13 pass completions. He has scored 19 rushing touchdowns passed for three more, kicked 23 extra points and one field goal to account for 140 of the team total 225

Race for Roses could get thorny in Pac-10 chase

By The Associated Press

The race for the Roses in the Pacific-10 is "an absolute mess" now, says Southern Cal Coach John Robinson, who hopes his third-ranked, unbeaten Trojans can simplify things by winning their last three conference games, but now there's a new compliction. The Pac-10 Council meets Thursday to decide if Arizona State and Washington have violated playereligibility rules, which could lead to forfeits by both teams. If ASU has to forfeit its league victories, for example, Oregon, 2-2 now, would be back in the title race...

Oklahoma State's 30-17 triumph over Kansas was accomplished with 12 nonscholarship players on the Cowboys' 55-man traveling squad. In addition, eight others were awarded scholarships since arriving at OSU five of them this season - and 13 members of the first two units were Quarterback Jay Venuto set four records in leading amazing Wake Forest to a come-from-behind 42-38 victory over Auburn. In completing 23 of 40 passes, Venuto broke Norm Snead's single-season mark of 270 attempts and Mike McGlamrey's record of 153 completions. His 358 yards passing were school and Atlantic Coast Conference standards and gave him 2,000 yards through the air, surpassing Snead's 1,676 in 1960..

sibility that a rule violation occurred during Saturday's Indiana-Michigan game ... but don't expect Michigan's 27-21 triumph to be reversed. The rule in question states that "a runner may hand or pass the ball backward at any time except to throw the ball intentionally out of bounds to conserve

The game was tied with six seconds to play when Michigan's Lawrence Reid took a swing pass from John Wangler and then hurled the ball out of bounds, stopping the clock. On the next play, Wangler threw a 45-yard touchdown pass to Anthony Carter, giving Michigan a 27-21 victory. The reason it will stand is Rule 1-1-3, which says that the team with the largest score at the end of the game is the winning team and the score is final. There is no protest procedure in college football.

If the officials had decided that Reid threw the ball out of bounds intentionally, they should have penalized Michigan 5 yards and started the clock when the ball was ready for only since 1966. Originally, it prohibited only forward passes from being thrown out of bounds to stop the clock. "Then people started getting smart and throwing the ball backwards," says Dave Nelson, secretary of the NCAA Football Rules Committee.

'Actually, the score was reversed in the famous Dartmouth-Cornell fifthdown game of 1940, but it was an act of the two schools. Cornell "won" the game, but a review of the films determined that the winning touchdown came on an extra down. Cornell officials decided to offer the game to Dartmouth, never believing the offer would be accepted. Cornell Coach Carl Snavely believed it, saying something to the effect that "I know Blaik (Dartmouth Coach Earl "Red" Blaik); he'll accept it." He did, and the game is listed as a 3-0 victory for Dartmouth ...

This happened recently. A team lined up for a field goal attempt but the holder discovered he didn't have a tee. He ran toward his bench, hellering for a tee. It was thrown to him, but he ignored it and took off for the end zone, where he caught a touchdown pass from the intended placekicker.

"He was behind the line of scrimmage and legally in motion away from it," says Nelson...

And of course you remember a couple of years when Illinois complained that Michigan's cleats were too long. The umpire measured them and found them to be three-quarters of an inch, or one-quarter inch too long.

What Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, seeking every advantage for his team on Illinois' grass field, had done was put two washers between the cleat and the sole of the shoe. The cleats themselves were the proper half-inch in length. The rule now reads "one-half inch from the tip of the cleat to the sole.

Nielsen Co. branches out into pay-TV market

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The A.C. Nielsen Co., whose famous numbers figure so largely in the tube-watching options of a nation, has entered the pay-TV market. I wondered why

The purpose of the Nielsen ratings, as I had understood it, was to determine how many people watched a certain show on commercial television, the numbers being used to set advertising rates.

Pay television, as I had understood it, featured uncut and uncensored programs without commercials (with that latter aspect being pay-TV's orightest feature). Since ratings are used to set advertising rates, and since there is no advertising on the major pay-TV services, then what is the need for ratings on pay-TV?

Dave Harkness, Nielsen's marketing manager, has many reasons. I figured he might. Advertising agencies, pay-TV companies, ABC, NBC and CBS, he says, all bought Nielsen's first report on pay-TV.

Harkness says that pay-TV networks, such as Home Box Office, want the report to determine which of their programs were best-liked, and for scheduling purposes.

Advertising agencies, he said, wanted the Nielsen report to see how extensively pay-TV has diminished the clout of the biggest national advertising medium, commercial TV. The networks, he said, were interested for the same

The "potential threat" factor, he called it. Yet, I can't think of Nielsen ratings without thinking of commercials, even though Home Box Office, Showtime and other pay-TV services insist they are not even thinking about selling advertisments.

"We are very seriously committed to not having commercials," says HBO's Robin Ahrold. He says that HBO has its own expert research staff, and that the company bought the Nielsen report solely to confirm the findings of the HBO

Still, it's hard to imagine those Nielsen numbers just sitting around on a research desk, generating no money. The Nielsen pay-TV report, compiled last February and released in the late-summer, showed that pay-TV was competing strongly with the commercial networks. Pay-TV was as close in the ratings to NBC as NBC was to the leader, ABC. The ratings also showed that television sets were used more in homes with pay-TV.

This suggests commercials. Ron Kaatz, of the J. Walter Thompson advertising firm, agrees. His agency was among the firms that bought the Nielsen pay-TV report, because pay-TV is "definitely seen as a potential advertising

KERRVILLE - Artist applications are being sought for the 1980 Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair at Kerrville.

Sponsored by the non-profit Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation, the fair is the official Texas arts and crafts showcase. It annually brings more than 35,000 art and crafts enthusiasts to the tree-shaded fairgrounds along the banks of Quinlan Creek on the campus of Schreiner College in Kerr-

Each year, more than 200 artists and artisans are invited to show their creative specialties in a country fair atomosphere. Educational exhibits and demonstrations are also featured.

The fair is limited to Texas residents, and no commercial or manufactured items are allowed. An application form, along with exhibitor information, may be obtained by writing to Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation, P.O. Box 1527, Kerrville 78028.

The duet teams can attain a maximum of 100 points. In the auditions, 90 to 100 points is a I rating, 80 to 89 points is a II rating, 70 to 79 is a III rating.

Students are judged on such things as memorization, accuracy, rhythm, interpretation and ensemble. The auditions will be held throughout the day Saturday in the studios of various MMTA members.

Artist plans Christmas show

BALLINGER - F. Delaney, well-known Western artist from Midland. is presenting his 1979 Christmas show, titled 'Art For Everyone," today and Friday at Ballinger's Farmers and Merchants State Bank.

Delaney was one of the first "accepted" oil field artists in this region. He paints the oil field and oil activities, from past to present, in "photo-realistic"-type paintings.

The artist's windmill paintings are gaining in popularity, and his everpleasing West Texas landscapes are eagerly sought by many area collectors. He frequently combines windmill rig and pumping unit in one painting to express harmoney as it exists in this region's landscapes.

Delaney paints exclusively in watercolor, believing that this medium seems to bring out the warm earth tones of the West Texas landscapes, and better captures the bleached sky tones." His works are in many oil company and corporate offices in Midland, San Angelo, Odessa and elsewhere in this region.

Delaney has been employed by a major oil company for more than 30 years. He has had many sole art shows in Midland and throughout West Texas and New Mexico during the years that he has been painting actively.

Kents may be suspended during mid-crisis after show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Randolph Mantooth continues the Kent family chronicles in "The Seekers." But after that, the Kents may be suspended in mid-crisis.

The two-part, four-hour production airs in early November on stations belonging to the Operation Prime Time network. The group has not ordered any more films from the Bicentennial series by author John

If "The Seekers" does especially well in the ratings, however, it is possible OPT may order the next book in the series, "The Furies." It picks up at the cliff-hanging climax of "The Seekers."

The first of the series, "The Bastard," aired in May 1977, and "The Rebels" followed in May 1978.

In the meantime, OPT, a coalition of television stations organized to purchase original movies, seems to be veering away from costumed drama toward more contemporary produc-

Future shows include "Top of the Hill," written for TV by Irwin Shaw; "Condominium," from the novel by John D. MacDonald; "The Tourist," from the novel by Gerald Green; "The Dream Merchants," from the novel by Harold Robbins, and "Gossip Columnist."

In "The Seekers," Mantooth plays Abraham Kent, who is a disapointment to his father, the hero of the first two books, and a failure at everything he puts his hand to.

"In the last 15 minutes he is a loser," said Mantooth, "but basically he is a seeker. I liken it to my father's attitude in World War II. Everyone knew what they were for - survival. Then in Vietnam, the goals became less clear.

Description:

Hance lauds Frost's efforts on oilfield wastes amendment

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Kent Kance today praised Rep. Martin Frost, D-Texas, for his successful bid in the House Rules Committee to allow consideration of an amendment to exempt drilling muds and oilfield wastes from Environmental Protection Agency hazardous waste regulations.

Frost pushed the amendment by Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev., through the Rules Committee to insure its consideration by the full House membership. The amendment requires the EPA study oilfield wastes to determine their impact on human health and the environment rather than automatically include them under itş hazardous waste management program. "Concientious studies of oilfield wastes will confirm that they are not hazardous and that they were unnecessarily included within the EPA regulations governing the Hazardous Waste Management program," said Hance. "The Santini amendment had been held up since May and Congressman Frost should be commended for pushing it through for full House consideration.

"We fully supported Congressman Frost on the measure and compliment him for his leadershp and the bi-partisan support the amendment received from both Democrats and Republicans on the Rules Committee," said the 19th District congressman.
"The prospect of full House approval of the Santini Amendment also looks excellent. In addition, Sen. (Lloyd) Bentsen sponsored a similar proposal in the Senate which really increases our chances of including the amendment in final passage into law."

The Santini Amendment has drawn strong support from the Independent Petroleum Association of America which has cited the good record of pollution abatement by the onshore oil industry.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE Even Hamilton Jordan may have to pay

WASHINGTON (AP) - In another month, Hamilton Jordan and other top aides to President Carter will begin paying $32.50 a month for the privilege of parking inside the White House

Carter's principal assistants hold assigned parking slots right be-side the White House West Wing., For many years, these slots have been provided free of charge as a fringe bene-fit to presidential aides.

Last April 1, Carter announced that regular fees would be charged for these and thousands of other parking spaces allötted to federal workers in the Washington

If parking costs money, Carter reasoned. bureaucrats might be motivated to take public transit or join car pools. The objective, of course, is to save energy. Carter said the fees would be imposed Oct. 1 but, perhaps predict-ably, the red tape involved has delayed implementation of the fee system until Dec. 1.

At $32.50 a month, staff chief Jordan's parking tab will be a bargain. Commercial rates near the White House run to $5 a day or more in many

Although located closest to the seat of power, parking spots like Jordan's won't be the most expensive under White House jurisdiction. The stiffest charge - $80 a month after 12 months will be levied a block away at the underground garage in the New Executive Office Building.

The $15 price advantage at the White House is compensation for exposure to rain and snow.

JORDAN apparently developed a mighty thirst during the recent "Friends of Carter-Mondale" dinner here. The presidential assistant repeatedly left the hotel dining room and went to a nearby press room to guzzle. His beverage of preference: Coca-Cola.

ONE OF the most hazardous chores a White House staff aide can perform is to walk into a press center crowded with expectant reporters and begin distributing texts of major presidential speeches or docu-

Agency 'war' under way

BOSTON (AP) - Attorneys trying to stop the sale of offshore oil leases on Georges Bank say a "war" between two federal agencies over control of the rich fishing area has ignored the consequences of a possible

The charge of inter-agency squabbling came wednesday as lawyers representing Massachusetts and a coalition of environmentalists and fishermen asked U.S. District Judge John J. McNaught to block the planned sale of oil leases next week in Provi-

"The decision to sell the leases has ignored the uniqueness of Georges Bank," said Douglas Foy, an attorney representing the Conservation Law Foundation of New England. "The primary motive between the sale has been an administrative war between two federal agencies over the administration of Georges Bank. This has led to a breakdown in the regulatory process.

The U.S. Interior Department wants to lease 116 tracts totalling 660,000 square acres to firms interested in drilling for oil.

Critics have charged that the lease sale does not offer sufficient protection for Georges Bank, a 20,000 square miles of some of the richest fishing grounds in the world.

Assistant Attorney General Stephen Leonard detailed charges that the Interior Department took steps this summer to block a proposal that fishing grounds be declared a marine sanctuary by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

NOAA rejected Georges Bank as a marine sanctuary on Sept. 21, clearing the way for the oil sales.

'The inference to draw is that the secretary of interior was in a headlong rush to get the sale done by the fall of 1979, and everything was done to fit that pattern," said Leonard.

Foy also questioned the sale of oil leases in the fishery, which produces some 250 million pounds of fish a

He argued an environmental impact study by the U.S. Interior Department minimized the dangers of oil spills from the offshore wells.

"It grossly underestimates the potential damage to the fisheries," he said. "Oil introduced to this environment would be circulated through it for months at a time.' The federal government originally planned to put the offshore tracts up for bid in 1978, but U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. issued an injunction against the lease-bidding process in January of that year. The injunction was lifted last February, after Congress updated the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act to assure tougher standards for drilling operations.

House members go to bat for state, local energy laws

By DAVID ESPO

WASHINGTON (AP) - House members, heeding the pleas of elected officials back home, are making it clear they don't want a proposed new federal energy board casting aside state and local laws. By the overwhelming margin of 415-1, the House voted Wednesday to keep a proposed Energy Mobilization Board from having authority to waive state and local lawy as it hastens construction of high priority energy projects. House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas, arguing for passage of the provision, said it would keep state laws "sacrosanct."

"Let it be understood that, we are not going to be overriding any state law," he said.

The same proposal would permit certain federal laws to be set aside, subject to approval by the president and both houses of Congress. But opponents promised an attempt to reverse that provision.

The House Commerce Committee voted earlier this year to permit federal, state or local laws to be set aside in the interest of constructing non-nuclear energy facilities deemed particularly important to the country.

But governors, mayors, county commissioners and state lawmakers all lobbied to reverse that position.

The House vote Wednesday came soon after debate started on the bill, the main purpose of which is to create a powerful new federal board to cut red tape that often retards work on controversial energy projects. The legislation is considered to be a crucial part of President Carter's energy program and final approval of some version of the bill is regarded as a virtual certainty. A similar bill has already cleared the Senate.

In contrast, a second important ingredient of the president's program - a government energy corporation - is running into opposition from an unlikely coalition of oil companies and environmentalists. Carter has asked Congress to establish an Energy Security Corp. to handle the government's role in financing COCHRAN COUNTY development of a multi-billion-dollarsynthetic fuels industry.

But representatives for the American Petroleum Institute, Mobil Oil

Bank, drilling 6038 feet in shale. Corp., the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the Sierra Club and the National Wildlife Federation, joined by five senators, held a news conference Wednesday to announce their opposi-

Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., labeled the proposed corporation "a horrible idea. Rep. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., agreed, saying that two years ago Congress created a new Energy Department to encourage development of new sources of energy. "Now we're being told the Department of Energy can't handle the synthetic fuels job, he said. Joining Armstrong and Schmitt in opposing the plan were Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Gary Hart, D-Colo and Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo..

On the subject of the mobilization board, the House rejected an attempt by Rep. Tom Corcoran, R-Ill., to strip the planned agency of its independence by placing it inside the Energy Department. The vote was 357-56.

Texas shrimp not harmed

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Scientists at Texas A&M University say they have studied dozens of reports, and can find no evidence that the Mexican oil spill had any adverse effect on Texas shrimp production.

'To our knowledge there have been no Texas shrimp caught that have any signs of oil contaminaton," said Dr. Ranzell Nickelson, a seafood technology specialist with the university's Sea Grant Marine Advisory pro-

An offshore Mexican well in the Bay of Campeche blew out June 3, polluting the Gulf of Mexico with millions of barrels of crude oil. The spill threatened major damage to Texas tourism and fishing until seasonal gulf currents shifted and shoved the oil slick back toward Mexico.

"We were just plain lucky," said Nickelson. "The spill never really made it to Texas, but that doesn't mean the Texas marine industry hasn't been hard hit."

Nickelson said, though, it will be difficult to assess the spill's long term effects because when shrimp die, they sink to the gulf floor instead of floating to the surface, as fish do.

Pemex, the Mexican oil monopoly, has slowed the oil flow but continues efforts at capping the well complete-

Under the legislation, the board would have authority to designate non-nuclear energy projects, such as synthetic fuel plants or pipeplines, for so-called "fast-track" handling by federal, state and local agencies.

The board would have authority to impose deadlines on agencies, forcing them to decide swiftly whether to grant construction permits.

While the general idea of such a bill enjoys wide support, House-members are divided over precisely what powers to give the board.

Crime poll reveals most Texans think courts hinder enforcement

HUNTSVILLE - Four out of five Texans believe the law." rulings by courts in the area of law enforcement have hindered police in their efforts to control

This was one of the findings of the latest Texas Crime Poll, a survey of opinions and attitudes in the area of Criminal Justice. It was conducted by the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston State

A total of 1,530 Texans from 180 counties participated in the survey. Thirty-four percent said court rulings have "severely hindered" police and 45 percent said such rulings have "somewhat hindered" police.

Dr. Victor G. Strecher, dean and director of the Criminal Justice Center, agreed that courts have made it extremely tough for police by limiting the practicality of obtaining admissions of guilt and by overestimating the availability of scientific

After committing a serious offense, most humans feel guilt and some compulsion to confess, said

"We shouldn't carry the (rights) warning to such a level that we virtually dissuade him or her from talking at all," he said. "Protecting a person from that person's own impulse to confess should not be part of

The Permian Basin Chapter of the Gas Processors Association has awarded two $500 scholarships, Stewart Young, Scholarship Committee chairman

Michael E. Stogner, senior, New Mexico Tech, and James M. Stephenson, junior, Texas A&M University were awarded the scholarships which are raised by tax deductible dues to the local GPA orginiza-

Courts have also assumed that police have scientific evidence-gathering capabilities that they may not

"It's still basically detective leg work, statements and eye-witness identification that we use in our trade, much more than physical evidence scientifically prepared for presentation. We're moving in that direction, but we're not there yet."

Another poll concerned the use of deadly force by policemen. Almost all of the respondents (92 percent) indicated that police should be allowed to use deadly force to protect themselves from serious

Moreover, almost three-fourths (74 percent) indicated that police should be allowed to use deadly force "to stop someone who is running away from a violent crime" and 69 percent said "to prevent crimes of violence."

Forty-one percent indicated that police should be allowed to use deadly force "to stop someone who is running away from a major crime against property," and 34 percent indicated its use should be allowed "to prevent major crimes against property

(for example, burglary or auto theft).' Strecher said it is obvious that people want deadly force used to protect them, but do not consider that it might be used against them. He is also concerned that police not be forced to make split-second judgments on the risk of life and its relation to property

"In the judgment of most police executives at this time, unless you know you have a serious offense, and unless you know that a person is likely to remain dangerous if left to escape and be at large, you really shouldn't use deadly force," said Stecher,

"The problem is that policemen don't get these situations with big signs on them, and cue cards to read from saying "This is a serious offense'," he

Downtown Lions hear Harold Smith

Harold Smith, supervisor of customer services for and a 22-year veteran of Texas Electric Service Co., spoke during the Wednesday noon meeting of the Downtown Lions Club in the Midland Hilton.

Introduced by Lion Jim Chapman, Smith,who was accompanied by Kathleen Gilluly of his staff — spoke on the subject "Operation Tighten Up." He suggested methods of conserving energy and cutting down on energy bills.

Smith explained that wasted energy is expensive and said that many times big energy users in the home are big energy wasters.

He said that energy can be saved through setting the thermostat properly on air conditioning and heating units and water heaters, changing filters on a regular 30-day basis, fixing dripping faucets and using fireplace dampers

The speaker also suggested tightening up homes through the use of weather stripping, caulking, storm windows and insulation. Smith also cited over-regulation by the federal

There can be little doubt that the continuing cost of lights, gas, heat and other public utilities are the major problems facing a great number of black people in the United States. The reason is simple: Income for black Americans is generally well below that of our white brothers, and the gap continues to widen with every passing day.

RINGING THE BELL

It is a fact of life that even today if it were not for the aid from local, county and state budgets, in our inner cities especially, thousands of poor people and blacks would face tragic times in the winter cold as well as in the burning heat of summertime.

It is quite fitting then, for example, that in response to the wishes of more than 400,000 New Mexicans and with the personal backing of Gov. Bruce King, the New Mexico Public Service Commission has issued the Consumer Bill of Rights (General Order 34) which promises to have far-reaching impact on all of the state's consumers of services from public utilities, according to the Hobbs Daily News

One of the prime provisions of the New Mexico Bill of Rights is to protect the life and health of the elderly, the frail and the handicapped by stipulating that utility services may not be cut if any resident's life would be endngered by the cutoff. Other issues addressed are equal payment billing plans, if desired, at any time of the year, no security deposits for customers with good credit, and plans of

CHIMES: Without a doubt, the

C.M.E. Church is to be congratulated for producing one of the finest, most attractive and informative "Ninth Quadrennial Assembly Souvenir" programs we have ever observed by any black Methodist denomination. It was presented at their August meeting, with the host church being Phillips Temple of Los Angeles with Rev. W.S. Graves the host pastor. The meeting had as its theme: "Serving the Present Age — a Call for Christian Vision, Action and Change."

TO BISHOP Nathaniel Linsey of the New York, Washington and Carolina conferences: Thanks so much for your kind and encouraging letter. It is so good to know that you look forward to "Ringing the Bell" with me regularly. And please inform Bishop B.W. Doyle that we hope he, too, is still "Ringing the Bell" and that we still love him. Mom sends hello and kindest regards.

Halloween mishaps claim six lives

By The Associated Press

Four Halloween trick-or-treaters and the mother of one of them were killed in three separate accidents, and a 17-year-old youth died when a man fired shots at a group of Halloween vandals, police said.

A 12-year-old Brooklyn youth, Sandy Carter, who ran into the street to avoid a shower of eggs thrown by other youths was hit by a car and killed, police said. The driver was arrested because he fled the scene, the officer said.

In Philadelphia, a 5-year-old boy who was abducted Wednesday on his way to a Halloween party dressed as Superman was found unharmed after being held for several hours, according to police.

And a bandit dressed in a mummy's mask held up a Bank of America branch in Beverly Hills, Calif., and made off with an undetermined amount of cash.

Homicide detectives took a 40-yearold man into custody in the shooting in Kansas City, Kan., which left a sec-ond teen-ager wounded, police said.

Authorities said the man, who was not identified, told them a group of eight to 10 youths had thrown rocks through the front window of his home, spraying glass into the living. The man said glass hit him and his infant

When the man went to the front porch of the house and yelled at the youths, they responded by throwing stones at him, police said. After the group started to move toward him. the man fired a .22-caliber rifle and fired it twice at the youths, who scattered, police said.

The dead youth was identified as

Anthony Smart of Kansas City. In Louisville, Ky., a woman and her small daughter were struck and killed by a hit-and-run driver Wednesday night as they were trick-or-treating, Jefferson County Police said. A suspect was arrested a short time later and charged with two counts of mur-der, police said.

Two Hazleton, Pa., teen-agers out trick-or-treating were killed when they were hit by a car pulling around a tractor-trailer, which had stopped at an intersection to let them cross, said officials.

Meanwhile, a 21-year-old Philadel-phia man was arrested Wednesday and charged with kidnapping in connection with the abduction of Tre-maine Ballard. Police said the boy was found unharmed on a park bench after the boy's father was instructed to leave $75,000 at his variety store. The ransom was not paid.

Enrique Solis, 32, and his girlfriend, Maria Rodriguez, were walking along a street in Queens, N.Y., when a gang of eight to 10 youths surrounded them, police said.

Police officer Frank Paulson said Miss Rodriquez heard them say, "Trick or treat."

"Her boyfriend told her to stand back and not get involved," Paulson said. "Then there were some words and she heard what she thought was a firecracker. Then she noticed that her boyfriend was bleeding."

Solis underwent surgery early today for a bullet that pierced his arm and a lung. He was listed in serious

"In some neighborhoods they hit you with chalk on Halloween," Paulson said. "Here, they shoot you."

Philip Crane's wife arrested for animal-control violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wife of Republican presidential hopeful Phi-lip M. Crane faces misdemeanor charges after allegedly refusing to permit authorities to quarantine the family dog after it bit a young boy.

Arlene Crane, whose husband is a House member from Illinois, was freed on $100 bond last Saturday after being charged by authorities in suburban Fairfax County, Va., with violating animal-control laws. The violations carry a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine upon conviction. Mrs. Crane declined to comment and was quoted by the Washington Star as saying: "I fully expect you will print a bunch of junk, anyway." Her lawyer said he considered it to be a minor matter.

The Star said the Crane dog, an 80-pound mixed Labrador, playfully jumped for a ball being carried by 6-year-old Christian Schmidt, knocked the boy from his bicycle and bit his right wrist. County government spokesman Ed-mund L. Castillo told the Star that an

Height limit waived for 6-foot-10 Marine

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) - A former college basketball center has fought his way into the U.S. Marine Corps, overcoming objections that he does not meet "established physical standards."

Robert Ashley, 23, weighs about 225 pounds and stands just under 6-foot-10, nearly four inches over the maximum height for officers. On Wednesday, the office of Rep. James Abdnor, D-S.D., announced that the Marine Corps waived the height requirement and that Ashley will begin boot camp in February. The Marines rejected Ashley's application last month, although he said he had completed all other requirements for induction and passed all tests with above-average scores. "That was what let me down more than anything," Ashley said in an interview Wednesday. "It wasn't that I wasn't smart enough or couldn't pass my tests or that I was unqualified in any other way. I was just too "But I figured that it was just the rules," he said, "and that if I showed an interest, they might reconsider. If you want something badly enough, you've got to be prepared to ask twice.'

So Ashley, the starting basketball center for South Dakota State University who graduated last summer with an engineering degree, began writing letters. One letter went to Sen. George McGovern, who helped set up a program called "basketball diplomacy," in which the SDSU basketball team toured Cuba two years ago and the Cubans visited South Dakota the fol-In another letter to Abdnor, Ashley said the Marine Corps was a tradition in his family, pointing to an uncle, John Patrick Flynn, who retired as a lieutenant colonel after 20 years with the Marines. "Before he passed away this spring, he showed everyone what it was like to contribute to something you believe in," Ashley wrote. "He was a POW during the Korean War. He always presented himself as the ideal American. I want to have the chance to follow his example." "It's something I want to do," Ashley said. "It's something I want to

But he said his younger brother isn't as committed to a career as a Marine - which may come as a relief to the military bureaucrats in Washington, D.C. Joe Ashley, a former high school basketball star in Pierre and now a freshman at Iowa State, is 7 feet tall.

Salem woman released by two prison escapees

SALEM, Ore. (AP) - A Salem woman held at knifepoint by two Oregon State Penitentiary fugitives says the convicts let her go after telling her, "we don't kill mothers."

"From what I've heard since about their history, I was lucky to be let go. To me it was nothing short of a miracle," Debra Godwin, who has two children, said in an interview Wednesday.

Oregon State Police continued to search today for the inmates, the first to escape from within the penitentiary in 26 years. Authorities said the duo got out Tuesday by having themselves upholstered inside a couch. Police said the convicts disappeared from sight after abandoning Ms. Godwin's car that night in northeast Salem.

Superintendent Hoyt Cupp identified the fugitives as Delbert Fuston, 56, and Wayne Strickland, 49, and said both were repeat offenders.

The couch was taken by truck with other prison factory furniture to a warehouse right outside the gate. Cupp said the inmates cut their way out with upholtery shears, stole a warehouse truck and sped off the prison grounds.

Carter opposing newspaper chains bill WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is opposing estate tax law changes designed to prevent purchase of independent newspapers by chains, a Treasury Department offi-Harry Gutman, deputy tax legislative counsel for the department, told a Senate Finance subcommittee Wednesday the carry on.'

changes would cost the government millions each year and benefit only a small group. He also said the bill "would, at best, make it less expensive to pass newspapers from generation to generation.

The bill's supporters say the measure is intended to correct a market situation in which big companies are virtually alone in having the ability - and the willingness - to pay high prices for locally owned newspapers. Gutman said the measure "does nothing" to remedy that

The key provision of the bill would allow a local newspaper owner to set up a tax-exempt trust to pay estate taxes, which are based by the Internal Revenue Service on market value.

The bill's prime sponsor - Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C. - says when owners of independent newspapers die, heirs face huge estate taxes, large cash offers and little financial incentive to maintain the papers' independent status. "They are selling out at a rate of one a week to chains," he

A congressional estimate says the bill would mean a government revenue reduction of about $10 million annually.

Gutman says the proposal would require the government to pay a large share of the tax liability for a measure that provides special relief for only one group of small businessmen."

Morgan said he was supporting the bill "not for the benefit of the newspapers themselves, but for the people of this country." In another development, the Senate has approved legislation that would save U.S. newspapers and magazines millions of dollars in postal costs. The legislation was offered late Tuesday by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., as an amendment to a much smaller postal measure. Randolph said he sought postal rate relief for "the small weekly and daily community newspapers" and "the small magazine journals of opinion."

The legislation also covers the first 250,000 mailed copies of a newspaper or magazine - enough to include the entire mailing lists of most publications.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, told a handful of colleagues on the Senate floor that cost estimates for the measure range from $12 million to $16.5 million a year. He noted the eventual cost in lost postal revenue could be "somewhat lower," however, because those estimates don't take into account recent U.S. Postal Service discounts.

The amendment was approved on a voice vote, and then the bill it was attached to - a measure estimated to cut $3 million from the rates for certain children's publications - was passed with no objection.
