Iranians issue threat against 60 Americans

By The Associated Press

Iranian demonstrators threatened today to execute some 60 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran if the U.S. government tried to rescue them. Meanwhile, Iranian Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan resigned and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini told his Revolutionary Council to take over the government.

The Carter administration said it expects authorities in Iran to honor a pledge by the fallen Bazargan government to protect the safety of Americans.

"The U.S. has been given assurances by the authorities in Iran that the safety and well-being of Americans will be protected. The U.S. expects that these assurances will be honored," said a four-paragraph statement issued by the White House.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said at mid-morning that the administration still did not intend to use military force to free the embassy hostages.

"Are you still ruling out the use of military force?" Powell was asked.

"Yes," was his one-word reply.

Powell would say only that President Carter held an unscheduled meeting on the crisis with his senior foreign policy advisers at the White House beginning at 8 a.m. EST. A White House official who asked not to be named said a statement would probably be issued later today at the State Department.

Asked about the death threat, State Department officials had no official comment. "You're dealing with a mob. It's not surprising that some of them would say that," one official said.

Officials said that despite the resignation of the Bazargan government, they were still dealing with the Foreign Ministry through America's chief representative in Iran, Charge d'Affaires L. Bruce Laingen.

He had been negotiating with Bazargan's government at the Foreign Ministry since Sunday when the demonstrators seized the embassy and demanded the extradition of ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, now hospitalized in New York undergoing treatment for cancer. The U.S. government refused to meet the demand.

"Any military or non-military attempt by the U.S. or its agents in Iran to free the American spies held as hostages in their embassy will cause their immediate execution," the demonstrators said in a broadcast message.

A West German radio broadcast from Tehran also said other Americans, employed by private U.S. firms in Iran, were being rounded up by armed Iranians and taken to the U.S. Embassy grounds.

The U.S. government had ruled out any military intervention, fearing this would endanger the hostages.

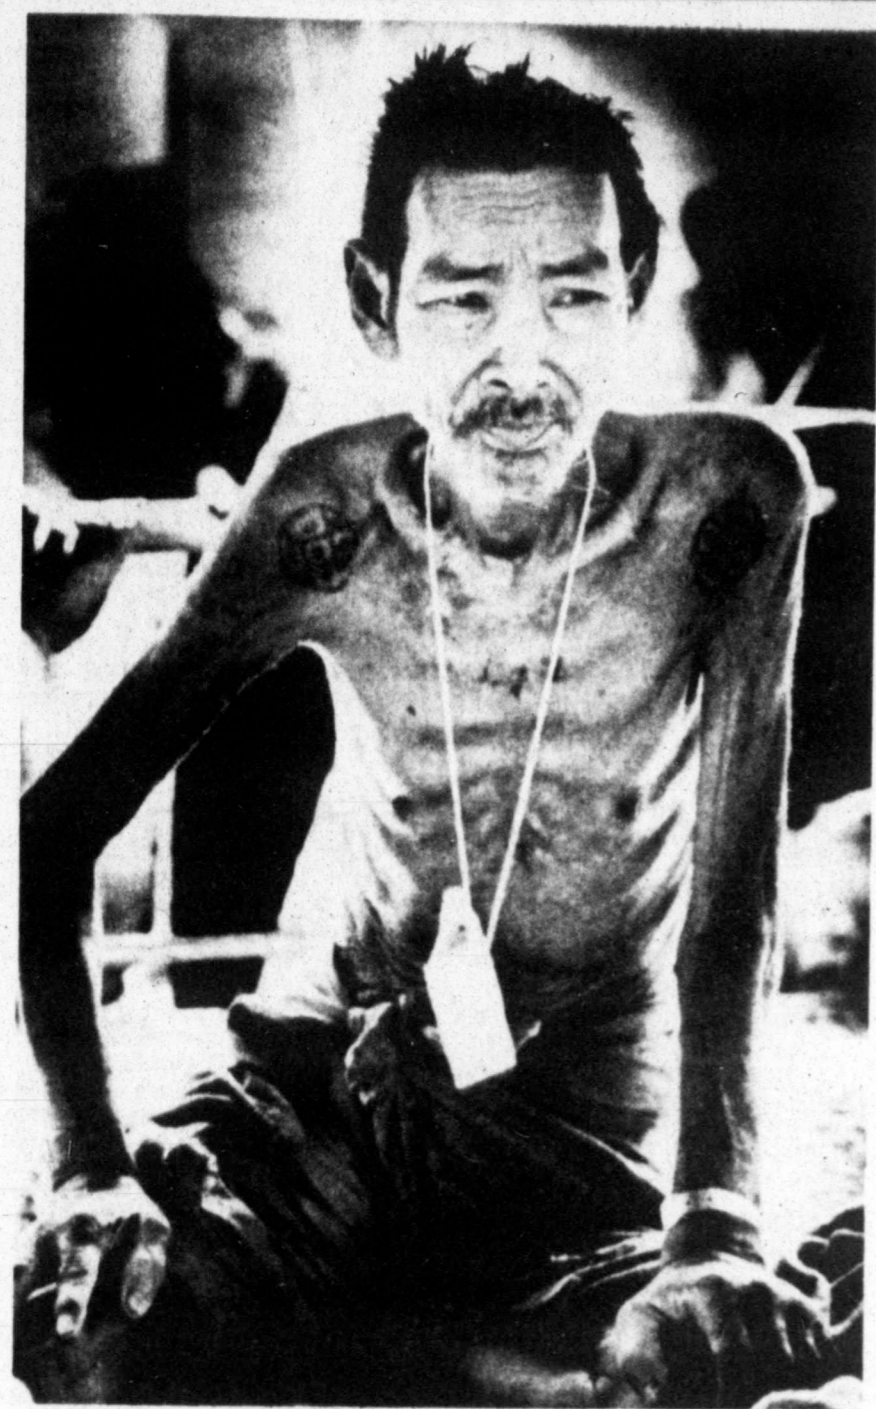

John Wheelock, a State Department spokesman, said "we have no indication from any of the people we're been dealing with that they're no longer speaking for the government."

Wheelock said that even if the revolutionary council takes over, lower-level officials would remain in place and the U.S. government would deal with them.

Regarding the hostage situation, Wheelock said: "It's absolutely no dead center. It's not getting any worse or any better."

The demonstrators at the embassy also threatened Laingen today, telling him to come out "from your hiding place" and surrender as soon as possible "because your secret (wireless) contacts with Washington will be of no help."

Hassan Tabatabai, an official of the premier's office in Tehran confirmed that Bazargan, who has headed the government since the successful conclusion of the Iranian revolution last February, resigned because of Khomeini's escalating anti-American campaign. Tabatabai, reached by telephone from The Associated Press office in Nicosia, Cyprus, cited "developments over the past few days as well as (Bazargan's) physical tiredness."

Nations pledge aid to starving refugees

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and other U.N. members have pledged $210 million in emergency aid to Cambodians threatened by starvation and disease inside their war-torn country and in refugee camps in Thailand.

The United States reaffirmed its $69 million donation at a day-long conference Monday, but U.N. officials declined to give a breakdown for other countries, saying they were made in various forms and covered different time spans.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said of the $210 million pledged, about $160 million would go to Cambodia, where some 2 million persons face starvation and epidemics. He said most of the remainder would go to Cambodian refugees in Thailand.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told the conference the U.S. contribution included $30 million pledged by President Carter, $9 million in aid for refugees in Thailand and $30 million in additional aid now going through Congress.

"Some issues transcend politics," Vance said. "This is one of them."

"Clearly there are differences among governments on the political situation in Kampuchea (Cambodia). But all of us must put those differences aside as we ask all the authorities involved in Kampuchea to turn away from calculations of political and military advantage and turn to the overwhelming human issue that is before us."

Outside the U.N. headquarters, more than 100 demonstrators from all over the United States also called on the United Nations to take urgent steps to prevent the Cambodian refugees from starving.

"We are crying out for help for the Cambodian people; otherwise they will become extinct," said In Tam, premier in the Lon Nol government that held power before the communist regime of Pol Pot took power in April 1975.

Vietnam invaded Cambodia on Christmas Day, overthrew the Pol Pot government two weeks later and installed a pro-Hanoi regime headed by Cambodian Communist Heng Samrin.

Pol Pot guerrillas have been fighting a losing war against the invaders and the Heng Samrin forces ever since, and the fighting has created tens of thousands of refugees.

The Heng Samrin government said Monday that from now on it was "ready to receive whatever quantity of humanitarian aid ... without political conditions."

Rosalynn to visit Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Rosalynn Carter will come to Thailand this week to visit Cambodian refugees, and meet with the king and queen of Thailand, a Foreign Ministry source said today.

Mrs. Carter was to arrive here Thursday evening and depart Saturday, the source said.

In Washington today, a White House official said Mrs. Carter will visit refugee camps on behalf of her husband, President Carter, who last month pledged $69 million in refugee assistance. Emergency legislation to provide relief funds is being rushed through Congress.

Light voter turnout expected

Texans balloting on three constitutional amendments

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Election officials expect less than a 10th of Texas' eligible voters will go to the polls today to decide on three more amendments to the state's much-amended constitution.

The polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

The Texas Constitution has been amended 230 times since it was adopted in 1876.

Results on the latest three proposed changes will be gathered by the Texas Election Bureau, an unofficial voting agency financed by Texas newspapers and radio-television stations.

What happens to the three constitutional amendments proposed by the 1979 Legislature could depend largely on the voter turnout in a number of Texas' big cities with local elections and bond issues also on the ballot.

The Texas secretary of state's office estimated no more than 500,000 would vote. This would be only 9 percent of the 5.75 million registered voters.

The proposed constitutional amendments would:

1. Make the appointment of public notaries statewide instead of county-by-county and increase the terms from two years to four years.

2. Allow the Legislature to review, and if necessary suspend or repeal, any rule adopted by an administrative agency.

3. Set up a $10 million bond program to help preserve the family farm by the state guaranteeing land purchases.

Probably the largest vote will come from the Houston area where Mayor Jim McConn is seeking a second two-year term against eight challengers. Voters there must also select 14 city council members from a field of 88.

A Nov. 20 runoff is expected for the mayor's race and for at least 10 of the council posts.

Brownsville and Cameron County also have local elections.

In Fort Worth, there is a referendum to place a ceiling on property tax increases.

There are bond issues to attract voters in Dallas, Austin and Jefferson counties.

More has been said about Proposition No. 3 than the others, although Proposition No. 2 has been the most controversial.

If approved by voters, Proposition No. 3 would let the commissioner of agriculture create a Farm and Ranch Loan Security Fund and issue up to $10 million in general obligation bonds. The state would guarantee up to 90 percent of the amount due. The loans would be made by private lenders but the state could help the farmers pay back their loans, charging 6 percent interest. An applicant must have lived in Texas at least five years and must have farm and ranch experience and training.

Proposition No. 2 would authorize legislative review of rules and regulations made by state agencies. It passed the House and Senate easily but drew opposition from Gov. Bill Clements and the Texas League of Women Voters. There also were a number of newspaper editorials opposing it.

Opponents claim the proposed change would encroach on the separation-of-powers principle that divides the executive branch from the legislative branch. The women voters said it might allow a small group of legislators to block administrative action just because they did not like the governor or his appointees.

Proposition No. 1 drew little attention. Basically, it would take record-keeping out of the county clerk's office and place it with the secretary of state. At present, when a notary public moves from one county to another he loses his official position.

Polling places listed

Few voters are expected to hit the polls in Midland County to cast a ballot on three constitutional amendments.

Polling places were to be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the following locations:

No shortage of candidates in today's Houston election

HOUSTON (AP) — Light to moderate voting was reported today as Houston residents voted for mayor and a city council that was being enlarged from eight to 14 members.

The sky was overcast but no rain had fallen by mid-morning. There was no shortage of candidates, nine for mayor and 88 for council positions.

Mayor Jim McConn is seeking his second two-year term, and political observers have said he should lead the ticket, although a Nov. 20 runoff appears certain.

His two chief challengers are Councilman Louis Macey, 44, and Leonel Castillo, 40, former Houston city controller and recently resigned commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The reconstructed City Council has caused some concern among voters as to how to cast ballots.

In years past, the eight City Council members were elected by a citywide vote. But, the U.S. Justice Department found Houston in violation of the federal Voting Rights Act because recently annexed areas were predominantly white.

The department approved a new plan whereby the council was increased to 14 members, five to be elected at large and nine from specific districts.

This means each voter can cast a ballot for six council members. Absentee voting has fallen below the figure of two years ago and election officials blame that on the new system. This confusion could cut into the turnout today.

Water fight on in Upton County

RANKIN — The city people essentially will be pitted against the country folks at 7 p.m. today, when the Upton County Water District board convenes in the courthouse here to consider petitions in which about 100 Upton County landowners are seeking to be stricken from the Upton County Water District.

The water district, a countywide taxing entity, was created in 1977 so that bonds could be issued to finance waterworks to provide the 4,600 residents of Rankin and McCamey with water.

But about 75 county landowners, including some of the county's 900 rural people, farmers and ranchers among them, attended the Oct. 2 water district meeting to present petitions and to request at a public hearing to be removed from the district.

The landowners, represented by the Upton County Landowners Association, contend that they are not in favor of causing the county's major towns "to fade away" due to a lack of water.

The landowners want the cities to have adequate water, but not at their expense and at the jeopardy of the landowners' water rights, says Linda Dusek of Midkiff, president of the landowners' association.

"The bill (creating the district) gives the five-member water board the authority to condemn underground water rights from the private landowners" outside the two cities, she says.

The water district is considering moving underwater to McCamey-Rankin from south of Upton County in the Bakersfield area. At one time, the district board had considered joining the Colorado River Municipal Water District to tap onto lake water. Both solutions to the cities' water problems would cost millions of dollars.

At present, Rankin and McCamey get water from wells which are either drying out, have low output or the water simply isn't potable.

Dallas attorney Paul Phy is representing the landowners. Representing the water district are Dallas attorney Pete Tart and Upton County Attorney John Menefee of McCamey.

GAO completes its study of food distribution practices

WASHINGTON (AP) — In one country, healthy children receive free U.S. food while those who need it go hungry. In another, the food is stored in dirty, insect-ridden warehouses.

Congress is considering a $679 million food program this year, compared with $573 million in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30.

Another Marine dies

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The toll in the freak fire last month at a U.S. Marine base in Japan has risen to nine with the death of a young Marine from Colorado, medical authorities say.

Officials at Brooke Army Medical Center's burns unit identified the latest victim Monday as Lance Cpl. Orlando E. Sandova, 20, of Pueblo, Colo.

Oil reaches Galveston

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Large patches of heavy and light oil from a crippled tanker covered the beaches of Galveston Island today, the Coast Guard reported.

Another series of explosions also rocked the ship overnight. "We have pretty extensive oil coverage all along the beaches of Galveston Island. There are places that are unaffected and it varies in intensity from mousse to very light sheen," said Lt. Gabe Kinney, operations officer at the Galveston Coast Guard Station.

The oil is coming from the Burmah Agate, which has been afire since Thursday when it collided with the freighter Mimosa near the entrance to the Galveston Ship Channel.

Two more bodies of crewmen washed ashore at Galveston today, bringing the confirmed death count from the crash to 13. Another 19 sailors are missing and presumed dead.

Periodic explosions have hampered efforts to control the continuing fire on the Burmah Agate. Fireboats have maintained a round-the-clock water barrage.

The latest round of explosions again caused the fireboats to scatter, but no injuries were reported.

Kinney said the latest explosions occurred throughout the early morning hours. "I wouldn't really call them minor, but I wouldn't call them major, either," Kinney said.

On Monday, Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Richard Griggs said Navy equipment would be put in place at Galveston "in the event we have to deal with a lot of oil. There is a lot of oil still on board that tanker."

The Navy equipment is the same that was used against oil seeping from a blown-out Mexican well in the Bay of Campeche. That well continues to leak oil into the Gulf, and several South Texas beaches have been stained by it.

Remains of the empty freighter Mimosa, which was heavily damaged and burned in the collision, on Monday was towed to a Galveston shipyard where its owners will determine what to do with it, Griggs said.

Three early-morning explosions shook the Liberian-registered tanker Monday, forcing fire boats to pull back.

Oil from the Burmah Agate, which carried 400,000 barrels of light crude oil, stretched 100 miles on the surface of the Gulf of Mexico and washed ashore in four places on the Texas coast during the day, including one four-mile stretch at West Beach. Officials said the stubborn fire aboard the ship prevents them from boarding her and stopping the oil flow.

Tug boat captains hired by the tanker's British owners worked through the night spraying water on the disabled ship in hopes of preventing further eruptions.

"They're drenching her with water, trying to cool the decks down," said Coast Guard Lt. J.G. Don Zelazny. He said there was a danger of more explosions "unless we can get those decks cooled down."

Al Capp, creator of Dogpatch clan, dies at 70 years of age

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Al Capp, the cartoonist who brought to life for millions of readers the world of Dogpatch, U.S.A., while earning a special place in American folk culture, is dead at the age of 70.

Al Capp

His comic strip "Li'l Abner," which Capp used to lampoon hypocrisy and political hot air with hillbilly bluntness, was laid to rest two years ago, after 43 years in the world's newspapers.

Capp, who died Monday, created the dim-witted and big-footed Li'l Abner; blonde, busty Daisy Mae; scrappy, pipe-smoking Mammy Yokum and the all-giving Shmoos.

He made American institutions of the bumbling detective Fearless Fuddick, Kickapoo Joy Juice, Lower Slobovia and Sadie Hawkins Day — the day the maidens of Dogpatch chased after the town's bachelors.

Capp, who suffered from emphysema, died in Mount Auburn Hospital near his Cambridge home, his attorney, Alvin Hochberg, said. Capp's death came almost two years to the day after his retirement.

"A humorist has one duty — to be funny," he said on his retirement. "Some are funny about kids, some about dogs, some about mothers. I chose fraud. Whatever was fraudulent, I attacked."

Started in 1934 in the Depression, "Li'l Abner" became an immediate success, spreading to more than 900 newspapers around the world. The strip became the basis for a hit Broadway musical in 1956. Capp earned $500,000 a year at his peak of fame.

"In his prime, he was one of the two or three greatest cartoonists this country has ever produced," said David Manning White, a Virginia Commonwealth University professor and specialist in the comics.

"For myself, I never did anything as well as I hoped," Capp said two years ago. "Maybe no artist does."

His outrageous satire of blowhard politicians, like his baby-kissing Sen. Jack S. Phogbound, and greedy businessmen, personified in his Gen. Bullmoose — "What's good for Gen. Bullmoose is good for the U.S.A." — made

At least 15 demonstrators killed by troops favoring Bolivian coup

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Troops supporting Col. Alberto Natusch's coup killed at least 15 demonstrators against military rule, raising the death toll in La Paz to more than 60 in five days as the new military strongman resisted congressional pressure to resign.

Soldiers and armored cars blasted away at student demonstrators in the downtown area Monday with small arms and cannon fire. Then the soldiers moved into hillside slum areas, and firing continued into the night as flares illuminated the shanties. Armored car cannon and small arms fire could be heard coming from the slums today.

A Roman Catholic priest reported a woman candy vendor was killed by a soldier firing his automatic rifle from a distance of 20 feet.

Downtown streets were nearly impassable because of paving-stone barricades thrown up by demonstrators protesting the coup. A general strike that has shut down businesses, factories and mines since the coup last Thursday was extended until Friday, but dozens of shops opened today and more taxis and buses were moving than in the first days of the strike.

Union sources said the government began rounding up labor leaders Monday night, including the administrative secretary to the country's top labor leader, Juan Lechin. They said Lechin was in hiding.

The sources said the country's 35,000 tin miners have gone on strike indefinitely and that miners at the richest tin lode in Bolivia, the Huanuni mine, had fought with soldiers. No further details were known.

Natusch's coup ousted President Walter Guevara, Bolivia's first elected civilian president in nine years, and the colonel proclaimed himself president. Guevara and his cabinet went underground.

Natusch also dissolved the Congress elected in July but allowed it to reconvene Monday and in talks with members indicated he might resign. But a congressional source said after shifting back and forth, the colonel finally said he wanted Congress to

Short course on commodity trading to be conducted today in Midland

A special short course on the commodity trading boom will be conducted by economists from Stotler and Co. of Chicago from 7 to 9:30 p.m. today in the Midland Hilton.

The course, offered at no cost, will offer insight into trading such commodities as cattle, cotton, hogs, gold, silver, copper, wheat, corn, treasury bills, platinum, cocoa, sugar, coffee and international currency.

"The commodities futures market can provide you an excellent opportunity to make additional income or to protect present higher prices for your agricultural products," according to Dr. Walt Rogers, one of three economists who will be conducting the course.

The course will afford an introduction to techniques of investing and hedging commodities.

"It appears that it will be extremely wise to hedge the grains and cotton and to 'long' hedge feeder cattle in the next few days and weeks," Rogers said.

Joining Rogers in conducting the course will be Don Bartell and Mark Rogers.

A similar course will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Nov. 15 in the Inn of the Golden West in Odessa.

Answer Line

P.O. Box 1650, Midland 79702

I recently was in the restaurant at our beautiful new airport. I wished to order breakfast and was informed that breakfast was served only through the buffet line. For example, if you wished to order a fried egg, nothing doing!

This is a bad set-up and I am sure many of our out-of-town visitors would agree. And the price of the buffet is $3.25.

Is there any way of having this policy changed and brought in line with the otherwise modern airport? — B.K.

ANSWER: Hoyt Morgan, owner of the restaurant at Midland Regional Airport, says the breakfast policy of the restaurant had to be changed in keeping with the new early security checks required of passengers in order for them to reach the concourses in time to catch their flights.

There were times, Mr. Morgan said, that 15 or 20 persons would order breakfast from the menu, get a call to report for security and have to leave the restaurant before receiving their orders.

The buffet line, which, of course, is faster service, was the alternative. Mr. Morgan also said the restaurant does try to serve special orders to customers on diets for one reason or another. There always are breakfast rolls, doughnuts and cereals for those preferring not to go through the buffet line.

At the present time, the restaurant does not have the personnel to do both the buffet and menu. After 10 a.m., orders may be made from the menu.

Is there any place in Midland which recycles bottles, jars, etc.? I have heard of places which do this type of thing. In some cases the glass is ground fine and is added to asbestos for paving purposes. The ground glass prevents excessive skidding by cars on pavement, I understand. It seems to me that glass is another valuable resource and should be recycled for use again. — L.M.

ANSWER: We checked with glass dealers in Midland, who think the idea of recycling glass is a good one, but they knew of no place in the area which does this.

One dealer spokesman said that several years ago a truck "came through" Midland, collecting used glass, but transported it to a company in Tennessee for recycling.

Will you please tell me what connection, if any, exists between the students of the Midland Independent School District and the Junior Assembly? Is there a connection between the Junior Assembly and the Youth Centers?

The same questions apply to the Cotillon. I am a taxpayer and contribute to the United Way, and I've been informed that neither one of the organizations involve minorities in any way.

Naturally, I am curious as to how these organizations can function through the schools and youth centers, if this allegation is true? — C. Lott ANSWER: These dance groups you mention are private invitational, social organizations, which are not affiliated with the Midland Independent School District or the Youth Centers.

The facilities of the Youth Centers at both Midland and Lee High Schools are rented by the groups for dances.

According to Marvin Rasco, manager of the Midland Youth Center, the groups have to pay the rental on a use-basis, in other words, each time the facilities are used.

Rosman mayor in hiding after KKK death threats

ROSMAN, N.C. (AP) — Buford Posey, mayor of this tiny, virtually all-white mountain community, says he has gone into hiding after receiving death threats because residents learned he worked as an undercover agent against the Ku Klux Klan.

Posey disappeared Monday night after receiving death threats when The Asheville Citizen published a story Monday about his 1960s undercover work against the Klan, the newspaper said in today's editions.

Posey told the Citizen, in a telephone interview, he had received threats warning he would be shot if he attended Monday's meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

The Citizen published a story Monday in which Posey revealed how he'd come to this Transylvania County town of 400 to avoid execution by the Klan in Mississippi.

He told the newspaper he'd worked as an undercover agent to help convict Klansmen responsible for the deaths of three civil rights workers there, and said he came to Rosman to hide with Dr. Edward Gaine Cannon, a doctor who founded the Albert Schweitzer Hospital at Balsam Grove.

Posey's claim that he was an undercover agent could not immediately be confirmed.

Posey, 54, was appointed mayor of Rosman last May when mayor Andy Mull resigned. He had been running for election to his first full term unopposed.

But Alderman R.G. "Cotton" Galoway said Posey, a Democrat, would be opposed in today's vote by a write-in campaign for former mayor Bill Cathay.

And at Monday's board meeting, Posey's board voted to fire him because of the story in the Citizen. Town Clerk Catherine Chapman said the vote to fire Posey was unanimous.

The mayor was invited to Monday night's meeting, and said he got as far as the door with a rifle but decided it best not to enter. "Would you go to a lynching party if you were the guest of honor?" he asked a reporter.

Carter orders Justice probe of rally deaths

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department, acting under orders from President Carter, is expanding its investigation of Saturday's slaughter at an anti-Klan rally as organizers of the demonstration prepare to mourn their dead.

Police continued to search for at least one more suspect and a white Ford compact, which was seen in a video tape of the shooting.

Meanwhile, 14 men charged in the shootings were ordered held without bond after a judge termed them "imminently dangerous to others in the community." A probable cause hearing was set for Nov. 20.

The men sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "God Bless America" outside the courtroom of Guilford County Chief District Judge Robert Cecil. They were led into court handcuffed together in pairs.

Twelve of the defendants face an additional murder count, police said, following the death Monday of another shooting victim, Dr. Michael Nathan of Durham.

At the White House, press secretary Jody Powell said Carter had directed the attorney general to cooperate in the investigation, and the Justice Department had established a special unit to investigate the violence, dispatching two dozen FBI agents to the scene.

"The resurgence of the Klan is a matter of concern to the president," Powell said.

Police Chief William E. Swing said six of the suspects identified themselves as members of the Ku Klux Klan and three said they were members of Nazi groups.

Three white men and a black woman were killed Saturday at a "Death to the Klan" rally organized by the Communist Workers Party, U.S.A. Nine other persons were injured when gunmen drove up to the rally and opened fire. Two remained hospitalized on Monday.

Swing said a fifth murder count would be filed against the 12 men now charged with four counts of first-degree murder and a conspiracy count. Two others are charged only with conspiracy to commit murder.

Swing said police have confirmed that "seven or eight" cars associated with the attacking gunmen drove through the area of the rally. All but two had left the scene when the shooting erupted, he said, and one of the two remaining cars — a white Ford compact visible in video tapes of the event — remains at large.

Texas attorney general sues to halt prison KKK

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Attorney General Mark White has filed suit to prevent state prisoners from forming "radical groups" such as the Ku Klux Klan while they are serving time.

White's class action suit was filed Monday in state district court on behalf of the Texas Board of Corrections.

The board adopted a rule Oct. 7 prohibiting prisoners from forming certain organizations and subjecting inmates to disciplinary action if they violate the rule.

An assistant attorney general said White filed the suit in hopes of having the board's rule validated by a court.

The suit claims Frank X. Leahy, who is confined in the Ramsey Unit at Rosharon, "recently has undertaken activity in connection with the organization and establishment of a Ku Klux Klan or Klan-related organization within TDC (Texas Department of Corrections), and he already has threatened (the board) and TDC officials with a lawsuit ... if (it) adopted the rule at issue — as it now has."

White's suit says the rule "was intended to permit TDC to prohibit activities by inmates as part of or on behalf of racially divisive organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan and organizations having no reasonable relation to the rehabilitation of TDC inmates, but which instead tend to encourage disruptive and illegal behavior within TDC or extortionate and illegal activities outside of TDC through connections with other present or former TDC inmates."

Asked for further comment, White issued a statement through information director Mary Hardesty which said the suit "is a basic effort to regulate the internal operations of the prison system and to prevent the organization of the Ku Klux Klan and other radical groups which might challenge the safety of the inmates."

White said he wanted "to maintain peace and order in the internal operation of the system and to prevent an organization whose only intention would be to abuse the rights of the inmates."

He said the suit was not intended "to impair legal or constitutional rights in any way but to prevent organization to the detriment of other inmates."

PUBLIC INVITED

Archie Dennis Jr.

Whether Archie Dennis Jr. steps to the microphone on stage in front of thousands in Budapest, Hungary as part of the Billy Graham Crusade team or the pulpit of a small country church, it only takes moments to realize that within this man God has birthed a song—a unique song born from his personal experience and daily walk with Jesus Christ.

In July 1972 Dennis accepted an invitation from world-renowned Billy Graham to perform as guest soloist at the Cleveland Crusade. Since that time he has been a regular guest with many crusades recently returning from his 26th trip abroad. His tours have taken him to Africa, Brazil, Switzerland, Japan, India and the Philippines. Archie will soon be returning to the Royal Albert Hall in London for another engagement as well.

Henry Davis, a product of Howard University in Washington D.C. has been Archie's accompanist for six years and between tours has written some of Archie's best-loved songs like "I Believe in God" and "You'll Never Be the Same Again."

Archie's sensitivity to the Spirit of the Lord has been evidenced in the response to this performance all around the world. At the Billy Graham crusade in October 1977 in Cincinnati he received a standing ovation for "God Bless America."

Salute to MGF Corp.

Officers and directors of the Midland-based MGF Oil Corp., from Midland, Fort Worth, Sapulpa, Okla., San Antonio, Fayetteville, Ark., Dallas and Nashville, Tenn., hold the spotlight in the Tall City today, and Midlanders are pleased to welcome the out-of-city visitors, while honoring the entire group.

The MGF group will be the guests of honor at a reception given by The Midland Wildcat Committee from 5 to 7 p.m. today in the Petroleum Club.

A.F. Giebel, chairman of the board, and R.O. Major, president, chief executive officer and director, both of Midland, head the delegation.

Other Midland officials include W. Phillip Marcum, executive vice president and director; B.W. Page, senior vice president, finance secretary and director; David N. Fitzgerald, director; Joe C. Gourlay, senior vice president, engineering; J. Stephen Guyton, vice president, exploration; Marshall Mason, vice president, and Michael L. Pollard, treasurer and assistant secretary.

Those from out-of-city, all directors, include J.O. Strahan, Fort Worth; W.H. Craig, Sapulpa; William O. Bowers III, San Antonio; John L. Maguire, Fayetteville; John M. Davis, Dallas, and William D. Killen, Nashville.

It is great to have such a distinguished group of oil industry and business leaders assembled here on this particular occasion, and it is hoped that their sessions here will be productive, rewarding and enjoyable.

MGF Oil Corp. was started here not too many years ago now as a small, independent operation. It, like a number of other such companies, has met with tremendous success and now ranks among the larger, independent oil firms operating in the Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico, and beyond.

The corporation merits the snappy salute directed to it on this occasion.

Unfounded fear

The American Medical Association (AMA) reacted with predictable consternation recently to the ruling by the Federal Trade Commission that physicians cannot be prohibited from advertising their fees and services. Experience most likely will demonstrate that the AMA's fears are unfounded.

Two years ago the American Bar Association (ABA) expressed similar concern over the U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting lawyers to advertise. ABA officials worried aloud that commercial advertising would benefit unscrupulous lawyers at the expense of their more principled colleagues. The advertising of fees in particular, said the ABA, might lead to a deterioration in the quality of legal services.

There is, as yet, insofar as we know, no evidence that anything of the sort has happened. What does seem apparent is that the growing volume of legal advertising has served the public by enhancing competition in the marketplace. Fees for standard legal services in many cities now are subject to healthy competitive pressures. Consumers also may benefit from advertising that identifies a lawyer's area of specialization.

Why should advertising work any differently in the medical profession? The practice of medicine is a service for which the benefits are related to the costs. The more consumers know about both, the better.

The AMA's concern over unethical advertising is justified. But existing laws and regulatory agencies already provide adequate safeguards against this type of consumer fraud.

The likelihood, then, is that advertising in the medical profession will yield results similar to those it has produced in other fields: Namely, greater consumer knowledge and corresponding competitive pressure to produce the best possible product of service at possibly lower costs.

A CHANGING WORLD: Japan stands firm against Soviet Union

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

TOKYO — Japan might teach President Carter how to deal with the Soviet Union.
Tokyo's strategy, with strong economic and technological muscle to support it, is one of politeness, patience, no bombastic rhetoric and stubborn refusal to bend to Moscow's demands and lures.

Japan has a "Cuba" problem with the Reds, too, in the recent Soviet troop displacements on four northern islands that historically and legally belong to Japan (Shikotan, Kunashiri, Etorofu and the Habomai group). Russia seized these islands, part of the Japanese prefecture of Hokkaido, two days before the end of World War II and still refuses to evacuate them. The islands are called the Northern Territories, and they are symbolic of Japan's refusal to bow to Moscow "peace" overtures. The Soviets seek an economic treaty with Japan, they want more Japanese help in development of Siberian resources and they want to move Japan away from its increasingly close association with mainland China.

They also demand Japan give up its close military association with the United States.
However, the words of the Japanese Foreign Ministry's expert on Russia, Kenzo Oshima, lay Tokyo's policy directly on the line — and without the initial threats that Mr. Carter tossed at the Soviets over the Cuba troop disclosures, threats that failed.
"There will be no final solution until the Northern Territories are returned to Japan," Oshima said in an interview. "These islands are historically and legally Japanese, they never have been a part of any other nation. This may be a long process for us and, as you know, we have no final World War II peace treaty with the Soviet Union, but we shall persist. And our relations with your country make up the basis of our foreign policy."

John Pinkerman

In response to a specific question, Oshima said the Soviets are vulnerable on the matter of removing troops and returning the islands to his nation. "We have extended credits to the Soviets," he said, "and we have provided technical assistance and without a solution to the Northern Territories matter, Japan has no intention to commit itself to any new treaty of a political nature such as was proposed in January 1978 by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko."

Oshima, in analyzing Soviet intentions, said Japan is not frightened but is watching carefully increased Red military activities in the Western Pacific and along the shorelines of Asia. "We don't see any direct threat to Japan," he said, "and so far we see no reason to be unreasonably alarmed, but we are watchful."

He also noted tartly that the only foreign policy Moscow has often appeared to be a military one. "They place most reliance on military actions," he said, "while the United States, Japan and other Western nations look at things from a much wider standpoint. Also, relatively speaking, nobody likes the Russians, they are not economically strong and they lack the political and economic means to influence other nations."

Even with such a wary approach to

CHARLEY REESE Natural limits to pace of growth are enumerated

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — The worst thing about inflation is that the solution is so politically painful that most politicians will do everything they can for as long as they can to avoid stopping it.

You don't have to be a genius to know how to stop inflation. You do three things: (1) you balance the federal budget and abandon deficit spending as a policy except for genuine national emergencies; (2) you reduce the supply of money until it is roughly equivalent to the supply of goods and services, and (3) you convince the public, by binding actions, that the government is abandoning inflation as a policy.

You see, it's simple. What isn't simple is persuading politicians and even ourselves that it must be done. The result of doing these things, at least temporarily, would be a lot of business failures, a lot of unemployment, and an abandonment of the notion that there is no limit to how big and how fast our economy can grow. Politicians who forced through such a program would almost surely be defeated at the next election and that's why they would rather wring their hands, blame consumers, unions, Arabs, businesses and even God, and sometimes go to war before taking such dire steps. (To a professional politician nothing is more horrible than defeat.)

Some people blame our present dilemma on evil conspiracies but I think it can be traced back to two ideas. One is that we ought to grow economically much faster than natural market forces allow. The other is that we must have at all times full employment.

You see there are natural limits to the pace of growth. Let's take cars, for example. Suppose you are a dealer in a market with only 100 people. Out of those 100 people, probably 20 can afford to buy a car for cash. If there is no credit, then that's all you can sell until those 20 people decide to buy again or until some of the other 80 people save enough money to buy.

However, if you are willing to finance one-half the purchase price, you'll be able to sell more than 20 cars. If you offer 100 percent financing, you can probably sell to all 100 people.

That's the route we chose to take. Consequently, we have the easiest credit system in the world. There is, at all times, a continuous flow of billions of dollars in our economy from employer to employee to creditors.

In such a system, the spectre of widespread unemployment is indeed horrible, especially if you happen to be a creditor. Widespread unemployment interrupts the flow and if it lasted long enough, I suspect would topple the whole house of cards.

A crusty old banker once told me there are only two kinds of people in the world — those who pay interest and those who collect it. Of the two categories, I suspect collectors of it have the most political clout.

Therefore, it's not surprising that the federal government has adopted a policy of full employment at any price. That meant that everytime the economy showed a perfectly natural tendency to adjust itself, the government resorted to deficit spending and the central bank opened up the money spigot. Unfortunately, both of those actions inflate the economy and in a cumulative way.

Unfortunately, too, the more they were used, the less effect they had so that the intensity of the pump priming increased. To bolster the effort to keep everybody in a position to pay their bills, income maintenance programs were instituted.

Now all of us, creditors and debtors alike, are trapped in a web we jointly spun. None of us wants to bite the bullet — not consumers who have things they really can't afford; not businesses who sell to people they really shouldn't be selling to; not bankers who lend money they really shouldn't be lending, and not to government which does things it really can't afford to do.

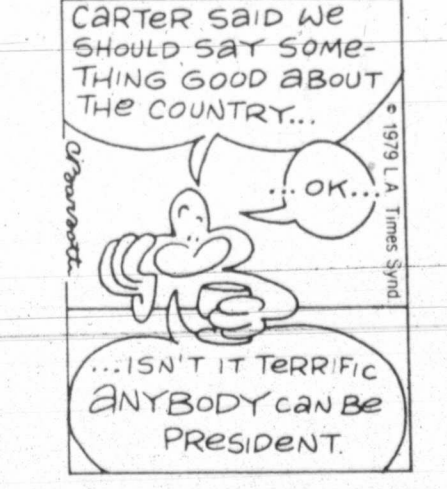

Inflation, like heroin, feels good at first and it is easy to get hooked. The trouble is there inevitably comes a time when you face the choice of destruction or quitting cold turkey. Our time as just about come.

Let's get Big Government off our backs. Let's send Washington a message. Let's tell the bloated bureaucracy we're fed up. Let's let Exxon bale out Chrysler.

And with the money left over, let's let Exxon bale out Cleveland.

Let's take a positive look at oil company profits. Sure, they were only 200 percent during the last quarter. But they can do better. I just know it.

Everyone loves a winner and I'm going with Big Oil. When did the U.S. Treasury ever show a 200 percent profit? Since you can't knock success, I'm moving to Exxon. It sounds like a great place to live.

Stand up for your country, that's what I say. Exxon — right or wrong! Texaco — love it or leave it!

INSIDE REPORT: Big John planning Southern ambush of Reagan's bandwagon

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

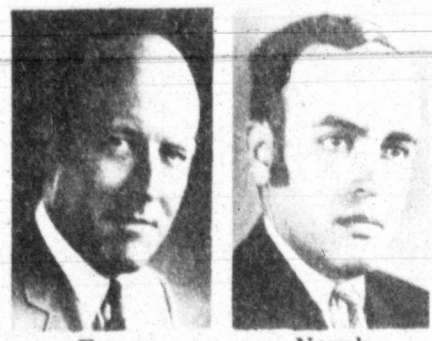

COLUMBIA, S.C. — John B. Connally's southern ambush of Ronald Reagan's presidential bandwagon is being planned not for the highly publicized March 11 Florida primary but three days earlier in a South Carolina election that has been overlooked nationally.

Working quietly, Connally is planning a media extravaganza costing nearly $400,000 (out of the $600,000 spending limit for the primary election). The goal: to exploit a potentially grievous Reagan blunder in permitting South Carolina's Republican delegates to be picked by primary instead of convention.

For Connally, what happens in this state's first Republican presidential primary could prove to be his making — or breaking. If front-runner Reagan heads south after winning opening rounds in the Iowa caucuses and the New Hampshire and Massachusetts primary elections, Connally must hurt him in Dixie. If he fails to do that, Connally will be finished and Reagan all but nominated.

Tackling Reagan in Florida never did look all that promising. Nor do primary elections, also March 11, in Alabama and Georgia offer anything like the same impact as South Carolina on March 8. This home state of Sen. Strom Thurmond has the Deep South's strongest Republican party.

Thus, when the South Carolina party decided in August to hold a presidential primary and backed on a

Evans Novak

$1,500 entrance fee to keep out adventurers, Connally was handed a perfect setting to ambush Reagan.
With no competing Democratic primary and no party registration so that every voter can vote, the turnout could be as high as 100,000 (compared to 35,000 in the 1974 Republican governor's primary). Connally could draw well from conservative Democrats — better than Reagan. Yet, ironically Reagan helped set the primary stage himself.

Reagan's reasoning was based on fear of the immense party influence of Thurmond and former Gov. James B. Edwards. Reagan operatives worried that in precinct and district caucuses followed by a party convention, Thurmond and Edwards might swing delegates to Connally. Their party power would then undercut Reagan's dedicated precinct workers.

With both Thurmond and Edwards refusing to make early endorsements of Reagan, the simple way to short-circuit their influence would be a primary election. That exactly coin-ceded with the hopes of South Carolina party officials. They figured that the expected stream of Democrats into the Republican primary could generate major political dividends.

Reagan's operatives failed to foresee that Connally would seize on the new winner-take-all primary. Reagan has wound up risking a dramatic statewide loss to Connally with major national overtones merely to protect himself against a no-win, no-loss verdict, the worst conceivable result for him of a state convention.

Edwards, the most emotionally pro-Reagan southern Republican in the 1976 Ford-Reagan shootout, is shifting toward Connally. Although he resists Connally's request for a public endorsement and told us "I haven't made up my mind yet," intimates are betting he will end up campaigning for Connally.

Thurmond has also stayed out. But Thurmond's young, attractive wife is known to favor Connally over Reagan. Moreover, Thurmond told one political ally here before Sen. Edward Kennedy entered the Democratic race that "if Teddy gets the Democratic nomination, Connally has to be our man."

Charles Black, Reagan's national field director, may have inadvertently pushed Edwards and Thurmond toward Connally by tapping freshman Rep. Carroll Campbell Jr. as state campaign chairman. Although he is a bright young Republican comer, Campbell has become a red flag to Thurmond and Edwards.

Edwards' grievance: When Campbell lost as candidate for lieutenant governor (while Edwards was winning) in 1974, he played a cozy game with Charles (Pug) Revenal, briefly Edwards' Democratic opponent until ruled off the ballot. Edwards never forgot.

Campbell's first act after being named Reagan's chairman did not conciliate Thurmond. On a state tour, Campbell dropped hints that his new eminence made him the state's top Republican.

Connally plans 10 full days in South Carolina, including stumping in such small towns as Aiken and Anderson. That effort is essential against Reagan, the South's most popular Republican. But the task of protecting that reputation is assuming a larger dimension today for a front-runner who cannot reveal southern weakness without undermining the foundation of his national party strength.

Forget school Friday; Just go to Abilene

Well, Rebs, last Friday night just didn't seem to be our night. But we're still proud of you, Rebs, so, guess we'll have to get 'em next year over here on our field.

Hey, Rebs! This is what we've been waiting for, a short week, with a big victory at the end! Don't go to school Friday, but do go to Abilene to see the Rebs "Erase the Eagles!" Do it Rebs, and "Amble over Abilene!"

AND BAND: (Rifles, Flags, and Twirlers) this is a sincere note from a former Panther, you did a fantastic job, and made the Panther Band look BAD! Band, if we couldn't win the game, at least we won halftime!

Rebels: Our pep rally was good, but the spirit could have been better. So everyone come on out to the pep rally Friday at 10:30 a.m. as we travel to Abilene to take on those Abilene Eagles. We need that great Rebel support to back up that Mighty Rebel Express because we, "Never give in till the very end!" We love you, Rebel men, and we're behind you all the way!

Oh, by the way, you don't even have to leave town to see our Stonewall Brigade "Eliminate the Eagles," so just go on over to Memorial Stadium Thursday night, and watch as our Mighty Rebs "Abolish Abilene!"

Congratulations to our student council for its great organization of the "Car Bash." Thanks goes to Renee McDowell for thinking of the idea, to Eric Fryer for the organization, and to Tonya Phiffer for pulling it off. Also thanks to the Key Club for bringing the car. It really went over great, and everybody bashed MOJO in true Rebel style! (Roxie, does your mother care about what happened to your car?)

REBELETTES: Tomorrow morning at 7:45 it's time for a squad meeting. So set your alarm a little earlier, and come on up and get your points!

Rebs, if you missed the first Young Life Meeting Monday night, be SURE to come next Monday. So if you're young and enjoy life, come join in and see if you like it.

Juniors: Be sure and pick up your class rings on Wednesday and Thursday. Seniors, if you haven't ordered your graduation invitations, do so this week.

Congratulations, JETS! We heard you had a successful Car Wash last Saturday. It's amazing, that when Travis Stice helps with something, all the girls go to watch????!! Also, this year Lee High has the largest JETS club in the state, but now that we've shown them what we can do with our numbers, let's show them what we can do with our brains. So everyone, please go by Mr. Standerfer's room and sign up to go to San Angelo to enter the test.

Understandable enough, our Rebel enthusiasm was not up to par Friday night at the dance; so to make up for it come on out Friday the 16th and celebrate our victory over the Bulldogs!

B.C. says: Thanks to John Holmes and Willie (the Y.C. custodian) who set up for the dance Friday. Thanks to Verne Dwyer and his son Tom (future Reb) and to the Butler's for their help. Greg and I put the tables together, and Kim Williams toted chairs. Guess you weren't interested in dancing after the Midland-Lee game.

To the Bulldogs, you must have been saving yourselves for Cooper — so give 'em —!!!

Well, Rebs, Wednesday is "Hump Day" and only Thursday to go; hang in there and try to make the trip to Abilene to see our Mighty Express "Attack Abilene!"

Until next week, Karen, Gina Leigh Anne

Postscripts: Happy Birthday to Phyllis Pete, Karen Kalil, and Rudy Corrales. (How does it feel to be legal?) Phyllis, keep waiting, maybe that dream man will show up next time. Karen Mosley, do you always fall down? M.H.S. twirlers, flags, (Carrey, Leigh Neil, and Shiela) you truly made a fantastic showing at halftime last Friday night! Marla, thanks for the advice!

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE What Can Beat You?

By Alfred Sheinwold

When your contract seems safe ask yourself: "What can possibly beat me?" Then see if you can protect yourself against that danger.

South took the ace of hearts and led a spade to dummy's queen. When East discarded the seven of clubs, South prepared to return to his hand by giving up a heart. West returned his singleton diamond, took the next trump with the ace and put East in with a club to ruff a diamond return. Down one.

PREVENT RUFF

After seeing the trump break, South should see that only a diamond ruff can beat him. He can prevent the ruff by removing East's entry before West is ready to ruff.

Declarer should lead a club from dummy at the third trick. West still has a diamond, and East will never again be in the lead. South can get to his hand safely to lead a second trump and will make the contract without further problems.

DAILY QUESTION

You bid one diamond, and partner responds one heart. The opponents pass. You hold: ♠ K Q 5 ♥ 7 4 3 ♦ K Q 10 6 3 ♣ K 10. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no-trump. Show that you have opened a minimum balanced hand. A raise to two hearts should show extra strength or unusually good hearts.

A POCKET GUIDE TO BRIDGE written by Alfred Sheinwold is available. Get your copy by sending $1.25, including a stamped, self-addressed No. 10 envelope, to Sheinwold on Bridge, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1600, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

British freighter capsizes, sinks

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — A British coastal freighter capsized and sank in heavy seas in the English Channel today and 13 of the 15 persons aboard were feared dead.

Only two were picked up alive after a six-hour air and sea search near the Isle of Wight, off England's south coast. A rescue helicopter pilot said the chances of those still missing were "very, very slim." A third person originally thought to have been rescued turned out to be a lifeboatman slightly hurt in the search operation, officials said.

Krueger will be sworn in WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Texas congressman Bob Krueger was scheduled to be sworn in today as the nation's first ambassador-at-large for Mexico.

The ceremony at the State Department follows his Oct. 22 confirmation by the Senate, four months after President Carter nominated him for the post.

As ambassador-at-large, Krueger will spend most of his time in Washington.

The job includes coordination of all activities throughout the federal bureaucracy that affect U.S. policy toward Mexico, including energy, immigration and trade.

Krueger, of New Braunfels, served two terms in the House before losing a tight Senate race last fall to incumbent Republican John Tower.

He moved into State Department quarters in July and began work with U.S.-Mexican issues before Senate confirmation.

AT WIT'S END Marching to a different drummer

By ERMA BOMBÉCK

In 1955, I gave birth to a child who "marched to a different drummer." I predicted then if he didn't shape up he'd go to the unemployment line or the boys' industrial school.

As a child he wandered away from home to see parades...got his arm caught in a construction pipe...and figured out if he coughed on his brother's cupcake, he got an extra dessert.

He sold our cancelled checks door to door, registered us for a free ham (and a visit from an encyclopedia salesman), made the first overseas phone call by direct dialing from a private home without directory assistance, and made history by catching a broken leg at camp.

In 1966, I wrote that parents are awed by genius, adjust to the average child, and are compassionate toward the slow learner. But the child who stands apart and is none of these things only puzzles, confuses, and tries their patience.

They fear for the future of this rare, unpredictable child who is not only out of step with the world, but if there's a puddle or a pile in front of him...will step in it.

What has happened to this child-turned-man whose destiny filled me with apprehension?

He lost his billfold in the Grand Canyon, but the trip back to look for it "was worth it." He forgot birthdays, but when he remembered, the gifts were warm and personal and melted your heart. He set a record for having a tape deck installed and stolen within three hours, but held no malice. He left his space maintainer in a sandwich he was reheating in the microwave oven, but paid for a new one with his own money from his paper route. He borrowed the car and when the radiator boiled over, poured Orange Crush in it, but he was contrite.

His mail consists of brochures from causes and needs all over the world. His desk is scattered with unpaid traffic tickets and his billfold holds three duplicate driver's licenses. He runs his car on E, writes 35 checks a week, and has never bought a bottle of shampoo in his entire life.

I have never heard him say, "I'm too busy to talk to you." Never heard him complain, "The world is rotten." Never known him to be intolerant.

He dreams impractical dreams. He tries the patience of Job. But with his childlike trust and his zest for living, who am I to say that the drummer he marches to will not take him to the stars?

Daring swimwear in mood of '80s

By NATALIE BEST
Copley News Service

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. — Monika Tilley, the nation's No. 1 swimwear designer who created the Cheryl Tieg fishnet spectacular in the '70s, has launched a new, daring swimsuit collection for the '80s called The Laguna Shores line.

Introduced at this Southern California resort community's posh new time-share vacation spa by the same name, the Laguna Shores bathing wear opens a variety of new vistas for the wearer and the viewer. From high thigh cuts to plunging necklines and scooped-out backs these barely there suits are trend setters for the new decade.

As one show observer put it, "They wouldn't dare introduce these suits anywhere but the beach...the runway isn't ready for this."

The dramatic bright colors do give an illusion of more fabric than the dainty suits contain.

One multicolor creation is a series of triangular patches...an azure blue pennant over the right breast, a lavender haze pennant over the left side, a bright coral pennant at the midriff, and a black and lavender pennant front and back to form legless panties. It's called "Kaléidoscope."

With at least half of the collection showing bare legs up to the hip and even to the waist the so-called French cut is here to stay, replacing the bikini suits on U.S. shores.

Tilley of New York and Vienna who designs for Elon of California, a San Diego-based swimsuit manufacturer, believes swim wear should be made to wear...in the water, that is.

"All of my suits contain 80 percent nylon and 20 percent Spandex which means they cling to and move with the body," she says. "They are constructed for action, fit and comfort. Their beauty and daring are simply symbolic of the times."

Another form-fitting one-piece maillot called "The Laguna" suggests the ocean waves in three shades of blue. A provocative, two-color, off-the-shoulder mini-maillot stresses the long-legged look and is named "The Good Life," for Laguna Shores' new vacation ownership concept, something new for California's coastline.

A black and white classic-line suit is enhanced by the large square cover-up in polyester floral print with a black and white border.

The scarf can be worn as a skirt, a shawl, a crisscross torso topper or a bandeau for the "Seascape" suit.

Horseradish not related to horses

By B. FRANCIS KLEIN
Copley News Service

Horseradish has nothing at all to do with horses and it's not even a radish. It's from the wild mustard family. Originally from Britain, this vegetable has a long white tap root and it's strong in smell and taste. There are no known mild varieties.

While the horseradish root is growing, if you pick off some of the tender fresh leaves from the top of the stalk it's like eating young fresh bamboo shoots. But when it's been grated or ground or even dehydrated, and, you get a little bit more than you need, you'll know and right now.

The root is most commonly used in processed form for sauces and as a condiment, but ask anybody who has ever grated fresh horseradish root, and they'll tell you that it brings tears to your eyes. On movie sets, when the performers are required to shed a few tears, they take a whiff of freshly grated horseradish. Works every time.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She can't defrost another's icy heart

DEAR ABBY: When I was 6, my mother, a widow, died. The state put me in an orphanage and found a family to legally adopt my two little sisters. (They were 3 and 4 at the time.)

I want to establish contact with my sisters, but so far I've had no success, even though I was able to contact their adoptive mother. My sisters are 19 and 20 now, and they live with their adoptive parents in another state.

First, I wrote to their mother, explaining who I was, and asking her permission to write to my sisters. My letter was never answered, so I called and asked if she ever received my letter. She said, "Yes, I got it, and why don't you mind your own business and quit trying to mess up my daughters' lives?"

I told her politely that I didn't want to mess up their lives, I just thought that since we were blood sisters they might want to know me because I remember them and still love them very much.

She said, "Please leave them alone and find somebody else to love!" Then she hung up on me.

Abby, I am a respectable married woman. My husband advised me to forget about trying to see my sisters, but he agreed to abide by your decision. — DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: Your sisters should be allowed to decide whether they want to be contacted by you. The agency that arranged their adoption can contact them. Seek their assistance.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from a patient who was left undressed on a hard examination table for an hour reminded me of how I once taught a fancy Park Avenue gynecologist a lesson.

He left me on the examination table, in a chilly room, for what seemed an eternity. I was naked except for a short hospital gown slit up the back.

I finally got off the table and wandered out to his waiting room (which was filled with patients) "looking for the doctor."

What a picture I must have been: half naked, barefoot, with this short gown, open in the back, flying in the breeze!

Well, a nurse grabbed me and escorted me back to the examination room, and you can bet the doctor was there in less than a minute. — STILL LAUGHING

DEAR STILL LAUGHING: I'm laughing, too. But I don't recommend that method of getting the doctor's attention.

DEAR ABBY: I was particularly interested in the letter from the man who loved his parents, but it tore him up to visit their graves, so he never went. His sisters and brothers went often, which made him feel guilty, so he asked you if he should go for "appearances sake." Thanks for saying, "The poorest reason to do anything is for 'appearances sake.'" I agree.

My sister and I fell out over an argument we had about how much to spend on our mother's casket.

When we were shown a $6,000 coffin (with an innerspring mattress!) I burst out laughing, even though I was sad and heartsick at the time.

My sister was all for putting our whole family into debt to give an expensive funeral just so people wouldn't think we were cheap. We had some bitter words about it. We finally settled on a nice coffin for $1,500, which was plenty.

I've left instructions with my family to spend the absolute minimum on my funeral. When a poor family goes into debt for a fancy funeral, it's usually because they feel guilty about the way they treated their loved one while he was living, and are trying to make it up to him after he's dead. — NO FANCY FUNERALS

Make old-fashioned fabric-lined baskets for Christmas gift-giving

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

Do you just cart them over there in a plain brown wrapper? Not on your life! You tote them in style in a pretty fabric-lined basket.

The following instructions are for a round or an oval basket with a grip handle on each end. For your fabric choose calico or gingham with an old-fashioned flavor.

Piece 1 (bottom) — Cut two of Piece 1 the same size and shape as the inside bottom of basket. Add one-fourth-inch allowance for seam allowance on all sides. Stitch two short ends together, baste near raw edges.

Piece 2 (sides) — Cut one Piece 2 as wide as the basket is deep and as long as one-and-one-half times the circumference of the basket. Add one-fourth-inch seam allowance on all sides. Stitch two short ends together in one-fourth-inch seam.

Piece 3 (ruffle) — Cut one Piece 3 eight inches wide and as long as twice the circumference of the basket. Stitch two short ends of Piece 3 in one-fourth-inch seam. Fold Piece 3 lengthwise wrong sides together, bringing raw edges even. Baste near raw edges. Run a row of basting stitches along each long edge of Piece 2.

Draw up basting along lower edge to fit bottom circle Piece 1. Draw up basting along upper edge to fit circumference of basket.

Ruffle or gather raw edges of Piece 3 to fit gathered top edge of Piece 2. Stitch Piece 1 to bottom edge of Piece 2. Stitch Piece 3 to top edge of Piece 2 except at location of handles. These two areas are left un-stitched. Bind the handle openings with bias tape.

For trim, stitch narrow color-coordinated ribbon over seam where Piece 3 and Piece 2 join. Attach small ribbon bows near each handle.

Slip lining into basket, putting handles through openings, and away you go to Grandmother's house.

Nuclear waste procedures 'supervised'

SEATTLE (AP) — Nuclear waste dumps and shipments of low-level radioactive waste are being more closely supervised, a federal official said in a copyrighted story in today's editions of The Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Eleven inspectors have been added to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's staff of 64 inspectors who check facilities which handle radioactive materials, William J. Dircks, director of nuclear materials safety for the NRC, told the newspaper.

Hospitals, laboratories and others found to be shipping wastes improperly will have their federal waste-handling licenses suspended, Dircks said in an interview Monday. He said violators may be forced to shut down their nuclear operations "if the (shipping) violations are gross enough."

The tighter restrictions were to be outlined by federal officials meeting today in Washington, D.C., with Washington Gov. Dixy Lee Ray, Nevada Gov. Robert List and South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley.

The three states contain the nation's only commercial disposal sites for low-level nuclear waste. Miss Ray and List have shut down their state's dumps because of safety violations, and Riley has announced that South Carolina won't accept wastes that normally would have gone to Nevada and Washington.

The resulting backlog of low-level waste produced around the nation is a "serious problem" and "within a matter of several weeks it will become acute," Dircks told the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Other changes in government inspections will include visits by inspectors for at least three to five days per month in the three states.

NRC may ask abandonment of plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission says nuclear plants in areas too populous to be evacuated quickly during a crisis might have to be abandoned.

"It's a possibility," Joseph M. Hendrie told a House energy subcommittee Monday.

He said a number of existing plants are located in densely settled areas and that quick evacuation would be difficult if not impractical.

Two plants in this category are the Indian Point plant north of New York City and the Zion plant near Chicago, Hendrie indicated.

However, he stressed that he wasn't recommending either plant be shut down now. He said that was a decision that "we're not up against yet."

Another commissioner, John F. Ahearne, suggested that steps short of closing a nuclear plant might first be considered in such instances — such as sharply cutting a plant's generating output.

In fact, he said he would be surprised if he didn't see such steps taken as the government moves in the near future to make the nation's 70 operating nuclear plants safer.

Meanwhile, the NRC on Monday announced that a freeze on licensing new nuclear plants — imposed shortly after the March 28 accident at Three Mile Island — is being extended at least until spring.

Hendrie said the added time is needed so the recommendations of the presidential commission on Three Mile Island can be fully examined by policy makers.

Four plants scheduled to go into operation by the end of the year will be directly affected. By next spring, the number will increase to seven.

In all, 92 plants are now in some stage of construction.

Industry spokesmen criticized the delaying action.

"We're distressed," said a spokesman for the Atomic Industrial Forum, the prime trade association representing the nuclear industry.

The spokesman, Carl Goldstein, said the action fails to recognize the "many remedial steps that the industries and utilities have taken since the March 28 accident" at Three Mile Island.

Mike Segal, a spokesman for the Edison Electric Institute, which represents electric utilities, said the delay will mean the use of expensive replacement energy.

"It's going to affect the consumer quite a bit," Segal said. And he said any attempt by the NRC to close existing nuclear plants would "compound the problem by shutting down a plant that is supplying what is relatively cheap power."

"If we can't use nuclear and the Environmental Protection Agency won't let us burn coal, there's no other choice than burning oil," Segal said.

THE CONTINENTAL SHORTCUT.

FOUR WAYS CONTINENTAL CUTS THE TIME TO NEW YORK.

- Continental has found the fastest way into New York. With service to Newark Airport, Newark's fifteen minutes less flying time than if you head into JFK. It's also in a different traffic pattern. You'll avoid those stackups that happen so often over JFK.
- You save time on the ground, too. Newark serves about 15,000,000 fewer passengers a year than JFK. So you still have a good chance of getting your baggage in a reasonable amount of time, without the frustrating delays.
- Because Newark is modern and well laid out, people are able to come and go without the huge jams you get at most International airports. You can get through the terminal without the shoving, crowding and delays that cut into your time.
- You can get into Manhattan about 45 minutes faster from Newark than from JFK. That's according to the Official Airline Guide.

not us. So you spend far less time caught in time-consuming traffic.

Finally, Continental saves wear and tear on your soul. We've grown up giving warm, friendly service. We take the extra steps that make flying something more than an airborne bus ride. Call your travel agent, company travel department, or Continental at 563-2100.

Winning Oilers are robbed

MIAMI (AP) — The Houston Oilers' coaches were yelling angrily in the post-game locker room, but the Miami Dolphins' locker room was quiet — an angry quiet.

Three field goals by Toni Fritsch and some costly Dolphin turnovers enabled the Oilers to escape the Orange Bowl with a 9-6 victory Monday night.

"We played good when we had to," Coach Bum Phillips said after the game.

Suddenly, one-by-one, Phillips' assistants began shouting as they discovered their lockers had been stripped of watches, wallets and rings during the game.

"I've heard of poor losers but that beats everything," Phillips said.

The victory marked the fourth time this season a Fritsch field goal provided Houston's winning margin. He tied the game with a 46-yarder to open the second quarter, broke the tie with a 48-yarder with 5:05 left in the third quarter, then opened a 9-3 lead with a 39-yarder just before the quarter ended.

"Toni, I think, is the best kicker in the league," Phillips said of the 34-year-old Austrian who has hit 15 of 17 field goals this season.

ROOKIE UWE von Schamann belted field goals, of 32 and 51 yards and was warming up for a potential game-tyer with two minutes left and the Dolphins at the Houston 20. But on second-and-7, linebacker Gregg Bingham picked off a Bob Griese pass at the 15 and returned it 54 yards to clinch the game.

Griese, under fire through most of what's been one of the worst slumps of his 13-year career, said: "Of course, that's the worst thing in the world that could have happened in that situation. I didn't plan it that way. Bingham just made a great play."

Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini, no stranger to criticism, agreed.

"It was one of those things: he had the guy open and made the throw. But Bingham gambled and made the interception. Knowing Bob Griese, he could make the same throw 100 times and it would not happen again," Pastorini said.

Griese's teammates weren't as quick to defend.

"We just choked up. We didn't challenge them with our play calling. We played a contender and we choked up. We played conservative instead of taking the challenge to them," said wide receiver Duriel Harris.

Harris set club records the previous week with 10 receptions for 180 yards but didn't catch a pass Monday while fellow wide receiver Nat Moore had just two receptions.

"I only got the ball thrown to me twice all night," Harris said. "I know what I can do to help this team, but if I don't get the ball I can't help. It's frustrating to work hard all week in practice for this."

"We took what they gave us — the short stuff to the backs. They were double covering the wide receivers," an annoyed Griese said. "I'm getting tired of hearing grumbling from my own team."

GARY DAVIS, in the starting lineup while halfback Delvin Williams recovers from two broken ribs, fumbled twice: at the Houston 15 in the second quarter and at the Houston 48 in the final quarter.

"There's no excuse for the way I played. It really bothers me that I didn't do the job when I had a chance to," Davis said.

Ironically, Davis was the training camp roommate this year of fullback Leroy Harris until Harris was traded to Philadelphia. Harris fumbled twice in the Dolphins' 17-9 loss to Houston in a wild-card playoff game here last season.

Formidable Earl Campbell, slowed to 41 yards the previous two weeks as he recovered from a thigh bruise, gained 121 yards

Tide widens No. 1 margin

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Alabama widened its lead over runner-up Nebraska today in The Associated Press college football poll while Ohio State jumped past Southern Cal and Houston into third place and Baylor, Clemson and South Carolina cracked the Top Twenty for the first time this season.

The Crimson Tide of Alabama, winners of eight in a row this season and 17 straight overall after defeating Mississippi State 24-7, received 46 of 66 first-place votes and 1,290 of a possible 1,320 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Nebraska, which edged Missouri 23-20 on a field goal in the final 3½ minutes, received four first-place votes and 1,190 points. Last week, Alabama led the Cornhuskers 46-7 in first-place ballots and 1,235-1,176 in points with 63 voters participating.

Ohio State, fifth a week ago, surged into third place by trouncing Illinois 44-7. The Buckeyes, who have outscored their last four opponents 192-13, received eight first-place votes and 1,154 points. That was enough to push them past Southern Cal, which dropped from third to fourth with seven first-place votes and 1,151 points despite a 34-7 triumph over Arizona.

Houston, a 21-10 winner over Texas Christian, nevertheless slipped from fourth to fifth. The Cougars received the other first-place vote and 1,093 points.

Oklahoma moved up from seventh to sixth with 911 points following a 38-7 victory over Oklahoma State. Meanwhile, Florida State skidded from sixth to seventh with 897 points after needing three touchdowns in the final period to pull out a 26-21 triumph over unheralded Cincinnati.

Rounding out the Top Ten, in the same positions as last week, are Texas, Arkansas and Michigan. Texas defeated Texas Tech 14-6 and received 857 points, Arkansas totaled 818 points for a 34-7 drubbing of Rice and Michigan polled 748 points after a 54-0 rout of Wisconsin.

The Second Ten consists of Brigham Young, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Purdue, Washington, Auburn, Baylor, Clemson, South Carolina and Wake Forest.

Last week, it was BYU, Pitt, Notre Dame, Wake Forest, Purdue, Washington, Tennessee, North Carolina, Penn State and Auburn.

Baylor, idle last weekend, made the Top Twenty with a 6-2 record while Clemson crushed Wake Forest 31-0 — dropping the Demon Deacons from 14th to 20th — and South Carolina edged North Carolina State 30-28.

Tennessee fell out by losing to Rutgers 13-7 while North Carolina was beaten by Maryland 17-14 and Penn State bowed to Miami of Florida 26-10.

Akers sees no defensive battle

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Coach Fred Akers will tell Houston this much about his game plan for Saturday: The Longhorns will not base their attack on quarterback sneaks and off-tackle plays.

Asked at his weekly news conference Monday if he thought the crucial Texas-Houston game in the Astro-dome would be a defensive struggle, Akers said:

"Defensive games come about when you run quarterback sneaks, go off-tackle and then punt. I don't know about them, but we don't plan to do that. That's not their style, either."

In its 8-0 season, Houston has scored 188 points and allowed 90. Texas, 6-1, has tallied only 138 points, but its defense has given up only 54.

Akers said the only thing that bothers him about playing indoors against Houston in the Astrodome is "you can't get enough people in."

The capacity is listed as 54,000-plus, which is nearly 30,000 fewer than saw the Texas-Houston game in Memorial Stadium here last year.

Houston won that game, 10-7, to win the Southwest Conference football championship. A victory over Texas on Saturday could enable the Cougars to repeat as the host team in the Cotton Bowl.

"The biggest difference in the two teams is they're undefeated and we've lost one," Akers said.

Texas lost to Arkansas, 17-14, and Houston edged Arkansas the following week, 13-10.

Students stood in long lines for tickets Monday, and there were early indications that 9,500 reserved seats for a closed circuit telecast of the game here also would be sold.

Texas defeated Texas Tech, 14-6, last Saturday with Texas alternating three quarterbacks — sophomore Donnie Little and freshmen Herkie Walls and Rick McIvor.

Akers said he pulled Little after he got "rattled," threw an interception and almost had another pass intercepted.

Asked if he would use three quarterbacks against Houston, Akers said, "We have no definite plans. We will do anything we can to move the football. Whatever substitutions need to be made to move the football, we'll make them."

Akers said Mike Baab, the top sub at all five interior line positions, underwent surgery to repair a torn ligament in his knee and will miss the remainder of the season.

Starting tackle Terry Tausch had a strained knee; guard Joe Shearin had a bruised pelvic bone; defensive tackle Steve Massey had a bruised thigh; halfback A.J. "Jam" Jones strained his shoulder; and receiver Les Koenning had a hamstring strain.

"I hope all hands are well," said Akers. "Now's the time we need to be."

Akers said Texas coaches had selected sub halfback Brad Beck as the outstanding offensive player in the Tech game and end Ron Bones as the best defensive player.

Beck scored Texas' second touchdown on an 11-yard run, and Bones had 17 tackles, including 10 unassisted.

Bucs now team foes love to beat

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Coach John McKay says his Tampa Bay Buccaneers, once the National Football League's easiest pushovers, now have the distinction of being the team that others love to beat.

That message was all too clear in Sunday's upset loss to Atlanta.

"There seems to be something when a team that's going bad sees us coming to town that brings out the best in them and the worst in us," McKay said. "I can tell (you) we played a very lackluster game."

While the Bucs remain the surprising leaders of the NFC Central Division, McKay says he's worried his players are becoming complacent.

"Our team has played well in games with an obvious challenge, like the (Los Angeles) Rams, or games in our division," he said. "I am disappointed that we haven't seemed to reach the level of professionalism where we can give a consistently strong performance each week."

The Bucs, 7-3, have played their best games in crucial contests with the Rams and division foes Green Bay, Chicago and Minnesota. Despite the letdown against Atlanta, McKay noted his team still holds a two-game lead over Chicago in the division and a three-game stretch over Minnesota.

"Two weeks ago, we would've been satisfied to win two out of three on this road string, and if we can defeat Detroit (Sunday) we can accomplish that," McKay said.

McKay cancelled his weekly Monday news conference to spend more time viewing game films. He has until Thursday to activate his son, wide receiver Johnny McKay, and fullback Jimmy DuBoise. The two 1978 starters have been listed as physically unable to perform all season.

McKay must either place them on injured reserve for the remainder of the season or make room for them on the roster.

He didn't give any indications, but it seems unlikely he will activate either, although receiver Isaac Hagins hurt the Bucs when he fumbled and dropped a potential touchdown pass against Atlanta.

"As one of the players said, the dropped pass didn't beat us, but by the same token it did not help us win," McKay said.

Defensive end Wally Chambers suffered a hyperextended knee in Sunday's loss, but the injury was not considered serious.

"It's a long season," McKay concluded. "We didn't expect to go 16-

Big catch, big trophy for Eagles' Carmichael

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Like Eagles wide receiver Harold Carmichael, the trophy is big — 23 feet, 9 inches tall and big enough to get a line in the Guinness Book of Records. The trophy went to Carmichael after he caught a pass against the Cleveland Browns Sunday, the 106th consecutive National Football League game in which he's had at least one catch.

The feat broke the record set by Dan Abramowitz, who played for New Orleans and San Francisco from 1967 through 1973. But the Eagles went on to lose 24-19 to the Browns, leaving the 6-foot-8 Carmichael with mixed emotions.

The pass that broke the record was a flanker screen from quarterback Ron Jaworski in the first quarter.

After the catch, officials stopped the game and Carmichael got the ball, a kiss from his wife, a bouquet of 106 roses, the trophy, and a standing ovation from a crowd of 65,000.

Carmichael's streak began in 1972 against Washington in the fourth game of the season. And since then he's caught a total of 371 passes for 5,469 yards and 51 touchdowns.

The Eagles contributed the giant trophy, which was built by a local company.

"I couldn't believe that trophy, I just couldn't believe it," Carmichael said. "I think it's going to the Hall of Fame in Canton (Ohio)."

Carmichael knew one place the monster wouldn't go — his home.

JIM MURRAY

Believe it or not, Trojans really have quarterback

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

A lot of people are surprised when football player Paul McDonald is introduced to them as "the quarterback of the USC Trojans." They didn't think the Trojans had one.

I mean, who needs quarterbacks when you have an annual Heisman Trophy winner in the backfield, where everyone who carries a football can run 9.5 and guys score six touchdowns against Notre Dame without getting their pants dirty?

At SC, Trojan lore speaks of "The Thundering Herd," "Student Body Right," "The Wild Bunch," "23-Blast," or "The Heisman." Quarterbacks don't count at SC. I mean, who was the quarterback when Johnny Baker kicked the field goal to beat Notre Dame? Who was, or were, O. J.

Simpson's quarterbacks? Mike Garrett's? Clarence or Anthony Davis? Old time alums get tears in their eyes remembering Cotton Warburton or Erny Pinckert, or Gaius Shaver, Jon Arnett, Aaron Rosenberg or Black Jack Smith, but if you mention Steve Sogge, they say, "Who?"

Only one quarterback ever gets sung about at the reunion campfires. In the 1939 Rose Bowl, Doyle Nave, a fourth stringer, came off the bench to defeat Duke, which had gone 588 minutes that season without being scored on. He completed four straight passes for the most dramatic victory ever. Nave played only one minute in that game, which made a total of 29 minutes that year. Not enough to letter, even.

If you want to become a great actor, you go to the Old Vic in London. If you want to become a great singer, you go to La Scala in Italy. If you want to become a general, you go to Prussia.

And if you want to become a great quarterback, you go to Stanford, or Cal. USC is the citadel of the tailback. The man with the ball runs with it there. The quarterback is just a kind of complicated waiter.

SO, WHEN Paul McDonald — after being hotly wooed by Cal, New Mexico and other schools whose only chance to win is a lot of "Everybody Out for a Long One!" — opted for USC, his friends thought he didn't understand the situation, albeit that would be the first one Mac has not understood.

"Listen, Mac!" they told him desperately, "the longest pass you're going to make at SC is a yard and a half — and it will be backward. Your longest completions will be two-yard pitchouts to the trailing back." They warned him he was going to make more handoffs than a short-order cook in a diner. He'd be better off going to Dartmouth, for crying out loud. "A cigarstore Indian would serve just as well for a quarterback at SC," they suggested. "All they require of a quarterback there is that he get out of the way of Charlie White."

Quarterback at SC, they implied, was a good place for a guy hiding out from the law. "Look," they added, "everybody heard of O. J., and A. D., and 'Racehorse' Russ" and Morley Drury, but did you ever hear of George Murphy, Dean Schneider, Troy Winslow, Jim Contratto or Willbur Robertson? Hardly. They were all quarterbacks.

They knew Paul McDonald was not SC material anyway when he showed up on campus and was timed in the 40-yard run in 5-something seconds. At SC, even the tackles move faster than that. Even the tuba player does. Cornerbacks have to go backward faster than that. With McDonald's speed, he would be lucky to break a huddle in time on this team.

SO, IF there was ever a guy who seemed destined to go up to Stanford and throw 50 to 60 passes a game — or a half — and lose 55-21, that would seem to be Paul McDonald. SC needed McDonald like Siberia needs snow.

He was left-handed, to boot, but at SC that wouldn't matter. What he would have to do there would hardly require hands at all. He was the football equivalent of a doorman. Or a butler. He held coats for people, so to speak.

So, when Paul McDonald elected to go to SC, a lot of people considered it was a singer going to Germany, a soldier to Italy, or an actor to Hollywood. A waste of talent.

Passers, like great soloists in any art, tend to prefer decent parts for themselves, never mind the picture. You don't get a John Gielgud by promising him a terrific supporting cast. You don't get a Caruso by telling him that the soprano will be as good as he is. Or the baritone better. In fact, you may lose him that way. No one wants to share a scene with Lassie. Spencer Tracy doesn't want to share billing with Laurence Olivier, or John Wayne with Gary Cooper. No quarterback wants to be surrounded by Heismans.

So, what is Paul McDonald doing in a backfield with walking Heisman Trophies and a whole bunch of future NFL rookie runners of the year? What kind of a cameo role is that for a Star? A gifted scientist might prefer not to lose himself in the corporate mazes of duPont or General Electric, a crack salesman might prefer not to be just part of a territory for General Motors.

While McDonald is not exactly an organization man, neither does he insist on a star on the door nor all the lines in the play. He did want to go with an old established firm. He wanted the act public. "First of all, SC goes to the Rose Bowl a lot," he explained. Also, on ABC a lot. "Next, they told me they were going to change the whole emphasis here."

THEY WERE going to let the quarterback out of the closet, is what they were going to do. They were going to let him come to the dance with the others. Coach John Robinson assured McDonald the position was no longer going to be just the office boy's.

SC is not exactly an aerial circus now. But McDonald put the ball in the air 67 times in two games, SC-Notre Dame, and SC-Cal. And Paul McDonald, the thinking man's quarterback, came to the astonishing conclusion that the perfect spot for a quarterback to be was in the SC backfield.

"With all those Heismans running around, and speed burners," he notes, "receivers tend to be wide open a lot. The other guys have to overplay the run, you see." It's havoc for defenses, that way. They not only have to watch for Student Body Right, and Student Body Left, but now, Student Body Deep.

At future alumni rallies, the colloquy may well turn out to be "Now, let's see, who was the tailback the year Paul McDonald completed all those passes? Can't think of his name at the moment — but he won the Heisman Trophy."

ENMU's Goode strikes Tall City talent vein

BY TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

Okay, now, on Saturday nights, what college football score is asked for more than any other? Texas, Texas Tech, Texas A&M, Oklahoma, Alabama, Notre Dame, USC...it's gotta be one of them, right? Wrong.

Most asked for is, "Hey, how did Eastern New Mexico University do?"

Surprised, who wouldn't be, but it's a built in Midland, and West Texas, by a Midlander football team. So, maybe the widespread interest doesn't equal that of a Texas or Oklahoma, but there are a lot of kinfolk out there interested and one reason they call is that the ENMU scores are sometimes hard to find until Sunday morning, and when you have a youngster playing, you don't want to wait that long.

Dunny Goode is the coach at ENMU, his first season after developing New Mexico high school powerhouses at Clovis, and Dunny was a stand-out tailback for Midland High back in the late 1940s and later went on to Hardin-Simmons University where he led the nation rushing.

The Midlanders on the Greyhounds include reserve safety Craig Heineman, 6-0, 175; Ricky Johnson, 5-11, 175 reserve halfback; John Marks, 6-0, 185, halfback; Shane Fletcher, 6-0, 220, linebacker; Dwight Washington, 6-1, 180, tackle; Rodney Taylor, 6-0, 250, guard; and Brook DeWitt Reeves, 6-2, 220, linebacker.

In addition to the Tall City players, three Odessans, Mike Moore, Permian; Tommy Sager, Permian; Tom Strickland, Permian, were recruited by Moore.

Putt Powell, the veteran Amarillo sportswriter, notes, "Eastern New Mexico has more Amarillo players on its roster than West Texas State."

Heineman, Johnson, Fletcher and Taylor are freshmen while Marks is a sophomore who started for games last year and has been starting this year.

Johnson, Taylor, Marks and Washington went to Midland Lee while Heineman, Reeves and Fletcher are from Midland High.

Apparently, recruiting his old home stomping grounds has paid off for Dunny. Although first seasons usually are rebuilding years, Goode's Greyhounds were 4-4 after beating Panhandle State, 43-18, last weekend.

But overall, Miami's defense was solid, holding Pastorini to 25 yards passing and three times stopping the Oilers without a first down in the thrilling fourth quarter.

"Our-defense played their guts out, getting the field position many, many times for the offense to score some points," said Coach-Don Shula. "But we really hurt ourselves with fumbles and interceptions. The interception at the end was the only thing we couldn't let happen and we did."

The victory kept the 7-3 Oilers tied with Cleveland, one game behind Pittsburgh in the AFC-Central. The Dolphins, 6-4, fell a game behind New England in the AFC East.

NFC gets break, no games with AFC

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The National Conference gets a break next weekend — no games against the American Conference.

When Commissioner Pete Rozelle decreed that what the National Football League needed was "parity," the current balanced scheduling formula was devised.

What he neglected to do, though, was move a chunk of the AFC into the NFC. That would provide parity.

For the past five seasons, the old American Football League (plus Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh) have knocked the stuffing out of its elders. This year the imbalance is worse than ever, with the AFC already guaranteed at least a tie in interconference play.

Thirty-six of this year's 52 interconference games have been played. The AFC has won 26 and lost just 10, meaning that even if the NFC wins all the rest, it gains only a split. So a sixth straight AFC "win" seems inevitable.

Only in the first two seasons following the AFL-NFL merger and 1970 realignment, did the National Conference display superiority over the new kids on the block, winning the two season series 27-12-1 and 23-15-2. (Incidentally, the three old NFL teams shunted into the AFC were more of a hindrance in those years, the Colts, Browns and Steelers compiling a composite 8-10 interconference record in 1970-71).

IN 1972, the AFC eked out a 20-19-1 edge, thanks in part to 3-0 sweeps that season by Miami, Oakland and New England (Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh were a composite 3-6 then). And in 1973 each conference won 19 games with two ending in ties.

Since then, however, the AFC dominance has been overwhelming — a 138-86 record for a .616 winning percentage through last Sunday's games.

In the past two weekends, the AFC-NFC record has been a whopping 11-1, with the Los Angeles Rams' 24-0 mauling of the Seattle Seahawks the only "blemish."

The year-long domination is reflected most vividly in the various divisional expansions (particularly among wild-card combinations being shuffled around) as playoff time approaches.

In the AFC, here's how things looked heading into Monday night's Houston-at-Miami game:

NEW ENGLAND led in the East with a 7-3 record, Pittsburgh was 8-2 atop the Central Division and Denver and San Diego shared first place in the West, each at 7-3. Miami was 6-3 in the East, Cleveland 7-3 and Houston 6-3 in the Central and Oakland 6-4 in the West.

So, excluding anyone at 5-5 and under as candidates for the conference's five playoff berths, the AFC has eight teams over .500.

In the NFC, if you discard teams at .500 or below, you've wiped out one entire division and virtually all of another one. Only in the East is there respectability, with Dallas at 8-2 and Philadelphia and Washington and Philadelphia each at 6-4. In the Central Division, Tampa Bay leads at 7-3.

That's the four teams with better than break-even records. Adding the .500 clubs brings in Chicago, the runnerup in the Central Division, and New Orleans and Los Angeles, the co-leaders in the West.

And you wonder why the AFC has won six of the last seven Super Bowl games, eh?

Bowden gets 5-year contract

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Putting to rest rumors he was about to switch jobs, Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden has signed a five-year contract worth over $500,000 to stay on as head of the Seminole football program.

Bowden and Florida State President Bernie Slinger announced the agreement Monday. Bowden is to receive an annual salary of $52,000, a guaranteed annual profit from his weekly television show of $55,000 and an annual personal expense account of $10,000.

The total — the largest ever for an FSU football coach — is guaranteed to be at least $117,000 yearly and can exceed that if the television profits are higher than $55,000.

"I wanted something that would fortify me in the bad years because you're not always going to have good years," Bowden said. "This is it."

Pack seeks 4th 5-4A win tonight

Midland High's girls volleyball team will be seeking to up their record to 4-2 for the second half District 5-4A race when the Bulldogs host Abilene Cooper tonight while Midland Lee will be attempting to break into the win column for the first time at Abilene High. JV matches are scheduled for 6 p.m. and varsity matches at 7 p.m.

Midland High defeated Odessa in its last outing while Lee bowed to Permian. However, as the race moves into its final week, San Angelo, 29-3, winner of 15 straight, and Big Spring, 5-0, in the second half, clash in a showdown Thursday. But first, the Bobcats must travel to Permian tonight while Big Spring hosts Odessa.

San Angelo won the first half title, edging Big Spring.

DOE makes charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department charged today that nine large refining companies may have violated oil price-control regulations by amounts totaling nearly $1.5 billion.

The department's special counsel, Paul Bloom, announced the issuance of "notices of probable violation," which allege the violations but are not conclusive findings. The companies will have an opportunity to respond to the charges, which stemmed from intensive auditing over the past 22 months.

Audits of other companies are due for completion by the end of this year and Bloom said more enforcement actions are expected.

The notices alleged that the nine companies tried to recover costs not eligible to be collected from consumers under federal regulations or which were not substantiated in eligible categories.

The largest allegation was charged against Mobil Oil, which the department said tried to collect $274,672,000 it was not entitled to.

Violations totaling $211,600,172 were alleged against Shell Oil. The other companies and the amounts of the charges against them were: Amerada Hess, $88 million; Atlantic Richfield Co. (ARCO), $58 million; Chevron USA, $117.2 million; Conoco, $46,051,205; Gulf, $80,090,000; Standard Oil of Ohio, $179 million; and Sun Oil Co., $129,707,850.

The alleged violations concerned non-product costs, meaning refining costs apart from the oil itself, from August 1973 through 1976. The department said non-product costs normally account for about 12 percent of the cost per gallon of gasoline.

It said that with the latest notices, the department now has charged violations totaling $6.4 billion against 35 of the largest refiners.

Several of the nine firms said they planned to comment on the latest action later today.

Rejected environmentalists win delay in lease auction

BOSTON (AP) — Environmentalists and state officials, rejected by an appeals court, asked the U.S. Supreme Court today to halt the opening of bids for the sale of oil-drilling leases in the fishing-rich Georges Bank off the New England coast.

A federal appeals court in Boston refused about 11:20 a.m. to issue an injunction blocking the lease auction.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

of drilling sites, but delayed the sale in Providence, R.I. until at least 2 p.m.

The Massachusetts attorney general's office immediately asked Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan in Washington to delay the auction until the appeals court could consider their case on its merits.

The injunction was refused by Judges Frank Coffin and Levin Campbell of the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The appeal had been filed by the states of Maine and Massachusetts and the Conservation Law Foundation of New England — a coalition of environmentalists and fishermen.

Larry Parnell, spokesman for Massachusetts Attorney General Francis X. Belotti, said Assistant Attorney General Stephen Leonard was in Washington to seek Supreme Court review of the case.

Earlier, the Interior Department had delayed the scheduled opening of bids pending a ruling by the appeals court.

The sale has been delayed several times by environmental objections.

The Interior Department wants to lease drilling rights on about 660,000 acres of the area, broken into 16 tracts, for up to $1 million for each tract. Each tract is roughly nine square miles.

Federal officials estimate that 123 million barrels of oil and 870 million cubic feet of gas lie under the ocean bed in the Georges Bank.

They hoped the bidding would be more spirited than at the lease sale earlier this year of sites in the Baltimore Canyon area off New Jersey.

Iranian oil cutoff could bring lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say it is difficult to gauge what the effect would be of a cut-off of Iranian oil shipments to the United States.

Such a cut-off, threatened Monday by Ali Akbar Mo'Infar, the Iranian oil minister, could conceivably bring back gasoline lines and odd-even sales. Or it could have no impact at all, the officials said.

The minister said oil exports to the United States would end if Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the religious revolutionary leader, wants them stopped.

U.S. experts believe a deliberate cut-off aimed solely at the United States could well have less impact than the production interruption that resulted from last winter's revolution.

Total American imports of oil from Iran have fallen from the 800,000 to 900,000 barrels a day the United States lost when shipments halted last winter to about 700,000 barrels now, the Energy Department estimates.

And if Iran halted only direct exports to the United States, other Iranian oil would still get through. In July, only 387,500 barrels a day were imported directly from Iran, the department reported. In August, the direct imports totaled about 500,000 barrels a day.

Broader action would be needed to stop the estimated 200,000 to 300,000 barrels of Iranian oil that reach the United States daily as heavy fuel oil refined in Curacao, the Bahamas, the Virgin Islands and elsewhere.

To halt that flow, Iran would have to stop all oil shipments to those nations, which are not the targets of its displeasure.

If Iran merely sold the U.S. share of its oil to other petroleum-importing nations, the oil they would normally purchase elsewhere would be available for export to the United States.

If all Iranian oil were denied the United States, the loss might amount to about 7 or 8 percent of U.S. imports, or less than 3.5 or 4 percent of total U.S. oil supply.

But the cost to Iran of cutting its daily production by an equivalent of the 700,000 to 800,000 barrels ultimately reaching the United States, the officials point out, would be at least $9 million a day at recent prices.

At worst, such a large-scale cut-back could mean a return of the gasoline lines, odd-even sales days, and purchase limits experienced in parts of the country earlier this year.

But the experts also point out that the United States is now less dependent on Iran and more dependent on Saudi Arabia, which has made up most of the continuing shortfalls in Iran's post-revolution production.

These experts say Saudi Arabia and other producing nations now hold the most important keys to the U.S. oil supply. The impact of an Iranian embargo would be worsened if they cut their own exports, and virtually nonexistent if they increased them.

But the cost to Iran of cutting its daily production by an equivalent of the 700,000 to 800,000 barrels ultimately reaching the United States, the officials point out, would be at least $9 million a day at recent prices.

At worst, such a large-scale cut-back could mean a return of the gasoline lines, odd-even sales days, and purchase limits experienced in parts of the country earlier this year.

Mostly fruitless drilling in the canyon, drew only $40 million in bids. The first Baltimore Canyon sale garnered bids totaling $1.3 billion.

The Georges Bank, located about 100 miles off the coast of Massachusetts, is adjacent to the Baltimore Canyon area, where oil companies have spent about $1.6 billion for leases and drilling and have little to show for it.

Sixteen of the 19 wells drilled in the canyon have turned up nothing, and the discoveries made by the other three have been negligible. And while the area was once touted as a possible boon to New England oil and natural gas supplies, oil companies have now all but given up on the Baltimore Canyon.

Another Atlantic Ocean offshore area, the South Georgia Embayment, off the Carolinas, also has been a bust, and some of the disappointment about the results there and in the Baltimore Canyon has dulled the excitement over the possibilities of the Georges Bank.

"This is a new area, but some of the glister has been taken off the East Coast offshore," said one oil industry source. Although he would not guess specifically about how much the Georges Bank bidding would be, he said, "If I were betting, I'd say it would be mediocre."

The federal government has 45 days to decide whether to accept a bid. Oil companies would have to spend an additional 6 1/2 to 8 months to acquire permits and surveys of the underwater tracts before any drilling could begin.

Employee strike settled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strike by 14 employees of the AFL-CIO labor federation has been settled following a brief walkout, union officials say.

The employees, on the staff of the AFL-CIO's Food and Beverage Trades Department, walked off the job Monday in a dispute over higher wages. The strikers, who decided against picketing, were members of a newly organized staff union that was negotiating its initial contract with the AFL-CIO. Details of the settlement, reached Monday night, were not announced.

Virgil Groat of Lamesa is a leader for an American Cancer Society stop-smoking program. "You might quit (smoking) for one reason, but you'll stay quit for another," he says. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Ex-smoker helping ACS campaign

Like any habit, smoking 'chain' can be broken

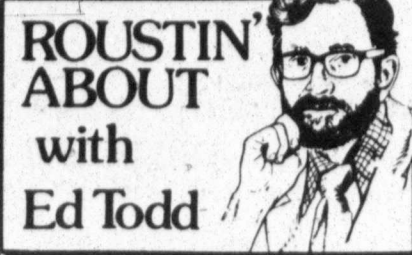

LAMESA — The quit-smoking "kick" has been around for about as long as roll-your-own and ready-roll cigarettes have been on the market. But that doesn't make quitting smoking any easier. Smokers get hooked.

Ex-smoker Virgil Groat knows that, and he doesn't try to force anybody to quit puffing. He strongly recommends abstinence and suggests a how-to approach to kicking the habit.

"Smoking is a habit; it is not an addiction," Groat told a group of six ex-smokers who had volunteered to learn how to help smokers become exes in an American Cancer Society program.

"It does (adversely) affect every part of your body — your stomach, heart, digestive parts, lungs." He didn't say that giving up tobacco — or any habit, for that matter — was a cinch. But he did say that a determined decision to quit, for reasons ranging from aesthetics to health, would help make a smoker an ex. Just wishing wouldn't, however.

What about nicotine? Isn't it, like tar, the villain? Tar stains and clogs the lungs and inhibits breathing, right? Sure. And addictive nicotine "makes" you continue smoking. "No," Groat reiterated. "All nicotine will do is raise your blood pressure and makes you feel differently; coffee will do the same thing. He brewed a pot of coffee for the ex-smokers.

Ms. Wilson kicked the habit four years ago but, like Roustin About, tried smoking again and, incidentally, became ill.

"I DON'T HAVE TIME TO BE THIS SICK," SHE SAID. "Plus, I don't want to get lung cancer; it's a terrible way to die."

But, as group leader, Groat said the stop-smoking program of the ACS doesn't use the "shock" approach in helping others to lay those cigarettes down. Rather, it strives to give a person insight into his character, his psychological and behavioral needs, why he smokes and why he might want to quit.

"These people have worked for years developing this habit. We're not going to give them a fast, easy remedy," Groat said.

And although about 80 percent who participate in the stop-smoking program eventually quit smoking, some don't. And that should not be viewed as a failure.

"If you can give them the tools to stop smoking, you've accomplished a lot," Groat said.

Groat again emphasized a basic principle used to help smokers, who want to, to kick the habit.

"Smoking is a habit; it is not addictive. That's foremost. We teach them why they smoke."

RRC revises requirements for Whalen Lake samplings

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has decided to require daily sampling of brine discharges into Whalen Lake in Andrews County rather than twice-a-day sampling.

requirements set out by the commission. The order required that a floating boom be placed around each brine discharge point and required the operator of the disposal facilities to sample and test the water for oil and grease twice daily.

The commission also voted Monday to relax its requirement that a floating boom be placed around each brine discharge point.

Monday, the commission said Whalen Corp. must contain oil and grease by installing a floating boom or by constructing a containment pit "or by any other means adequate to ensure the early discovery and prevention of any discharge or any visible oil or globules or grease into the main body of the lake."

On Oct. 23, 1978, the commission banned the disposal of brine into the lake. The agency had reports of substantial oil and grease pollution in the basin.

The commission said the water level in the lake is so low that installing a floating boom would be impractical if not impossible.

In July 1979 the commission adopted a temporary order to let Whalen Corp. of Dallas use the lake to dispose of brine if the company would meet 13

Massages help prevent bedsores

Dear Dr. Solomon: My aged mother is bedridden after a fall. Why are the nurses so careful about massaging her body and concerned about her skin being kept dry? — Ms. E.S.

ly. Common sense suggests avoiding acids or spicy foods that you find exacerbate the condition, and application of a mild astringent (such as alum) may provide relief.

Cancer Foundation, reports that approximately 700 men become victims of breast cancer each year. This compares with about 90,000 women. American Cancer Society statistics show that approximately one-third of the women die from the disease compared with about one-half of all male patients.

Dear Ms. S.: One of the dangerous side effects of a lengthy stay in bed may be bedsores. These result from pressure on a bony part of the body, such as the elbow or hip, that restricts the supply of blood to that area. This, in turn, may cause tissue to be destroyed.

Dear Dr. Solomon: In one of your columns, you wrote that increased smoking among women in recent years is reflected in an increase in lung cancer. What about the reverse? Are there any diseases generally thought to be associated with women that also affect men? — Mr. G.F.

Keats, himself, underwent a radical mastectomy for breast cancer. He advocates breast self-examination for both men and women, and notes that about 90 percent of the lumps found are benign, and that 85 percent of cancerous lumps can be cured.

To prevent bedsores, it is necessary to relieve the pressure on those parts of the body. One way is to use protective padding; additionally, it is necessary to keep the skin to improve circulation, and to keep the skin dry and clean. A well-balanced diet with sufficient protein, vitamins and calories also is essential.

Dear Mr. F.: Mr. Lawrence Keats, a trustee of the Male Breast

Dear Dr. Solomon: For some time I've been plagued with sores inside my lips. I don't know how I get them or why they later disappear. I've been having a bland diet recently since spicy foods seem to make the condition worse. Is there a name for what I have, and is there any treatment for it? — Carol

Dear Carol: From your description, it appears you are suffering from canker sores. These are shallow sores which usually are found on the mucous membrane inside the lips or cheeks. They may cause some burning and a slight swelling of the inner lining of the mouth.

The sore will feel tender if pressure is placed on it and, as you have found, may be painful when spicy foods are eaten. The sore will last from a few days to as long as three weeks and then heal spontaneously, with no scarring.

Why canker sores appear is not known, but emotional stress and food sensitivity appear to bring them on. There is no recommended treatment, and the sores will disappear spontaneously.
