'Nobody loves me,' shouted the man whose home address was testimony of his human state

DALLAS (AP) — Horrified witnesses told police the young man shouted pitifully "Nobody loves me" then walked into the middle of a busy intersection, lay down on the street and waited the oncoming traffic.

Just before a car struck him, witnesses said the 6-foot-tall man raised his head to the level of the bumper of an oncoming station wagon. Police said the victim, identified as Bill Haynes, 34, was dragged 25 feet after the impact and died.

Officers said they consider the death a suicide, although a formal ruling has not yet been made by the medical examiner pending a toxicology report.

"He was a very lonely man, a man who needed much guidance," said Helene Frye, 55, who said she had known Haynes four years. "He was a brilliant man, even though he didn't have much formal education."

The victim's brother, Thomas Haynes, 32, of Phoenix, Ariz., said, "It just doesn't sound like him at all. I grew up with him. He always had a good personality. He was a super salesman with a knack for talking to people."

Thomas Haynes said his brother was one of eight children born in Logan County, W. Va., to a coal miner. He said his brother had plenty of friends in school, served in the Navy, and more recently traveled around the country, taking one sales job after another.

Haynes was married and the father of two children, his brother said. Police investigator Gerald R. Robinson said officers had not talked to the victim's widow.

"As far as we're concerned, it is a suicide," Robinson said. "He lay down in the middle of the roadway and was struck by a car. Witnesses told the man to get out of the road, but he shouted back, 'Nobody loves me.'

"I'll say one thing — the guy had guts," Robinson said.

About 15 witnesses saw the death, according to police. They said Haynes had spent the night drinking and going from bar to bar. Bystanders told police for a while he played like a bullfighter with passing cars on busy Cedar Springs, darting into their paths and waving an Army camouflage jacket like a matador's cape.

"He'd never kill himself," said Thomas Haynes.

But Robinson said, "I can understand why his family wouldn't believe it. That's the case with nine out of 10 suicides."

Police said Haynes' identification card showed he was a salesman. It gave his address as 2022 Lonesome Circle.

Iran's Khomeini won't talk to special American envoys

The Associated Press

Tehran Radio said today Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini will not receive two special envoys sent by President Carter to seek the release of some 60 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

The broadcast monitored in Kuwait said that before Iranian authorities start talks with the United States, "Washington should first extradite the shah," a cancer patient in a New York hospital.

It said the newly appointed Islamic Revolutionary Council and other Iranian officials had "no authorization to meet with the two Americans who carry a message from the American President Carter to Khomeini."

The State Department said it has urged the remaining 300 to 400 U.S. citizens in Iran to quietly leave the country. The two Americans were taken from the Hilton Hotel in Teutonia that two Americans were taken from the Hilton Hotel in Tehran that two Americans were taken from the Hilton Hotel in Tehran and put with the hostages at the embassy. BBC television also reported Americans were being rounded up around Tehran.

Revolutionary leader Khomeini, in an interview with West German television in Iran, blamed the embassy takeover on the U.S. government, which has refused to extradite Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. "In my opinion only the United States is guilty in the present situation," Khomeini said in the interview.

Khomeini said that not only had the United States given protection to the shah, hospitalized in New York with cancer, but it had treated "with vulgarity" Iranian students who have protested his presence in America.

Iran's Revolutionary Guard called on "all forces in Iran" to be prepared to face any moves against the country, the Gulf News Agency reported from Tehran. The agency said Iran would remain without a prime minister pending presidential and parliamentary elections and that former Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan and his resigned ministers attended a meeting of the revolutionary council Tuesday night.

But that report conflicted with one from State Department officials, who Mustapha Shamran, a former Iranian defense minister, was asked today to form a new civilian government.

Iran's oil minister, in an interview broadcast on Tehran radio monitored in London, denied reports of a halt in oil exports to the United States. "This report is completely false and the spreading of such reports indicates the existence of conspiracies against the Iranian revolution," the oil minister was quoted as saying.

Reports of the oil cutoff led to a "panic" on the European spot market, the German economics news agency VWD reported.

Landowners' bid denied without public hearing

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

RANKIN — The Upton County Water District scrapped a public hearing requested a month earlier by landowners protesting their inclusion in the taxing district and denied more than 150 landowners their request to be excluded from the district here Tuesday night.

There was no discussion on the unanimous denial after board member Billy Rankin moved that the landowners' request "be overruled and denied."

Adjournment, again unanimous by the five-member board, immediately followed.

And the landowners, fearful that the water district might over tax them and garner their water rights, immediately called a meeting in the courtroom and decided to file a law suit against the district.

"We don't think the district is legal to start with," said Dallas attorney Paul Phy, who represents the landowners. "They (water district members) didn't afford the landowners the right to be excluded from the district."

Many of the landowners, organized through the Upton County Landowners Association, are farmers and ranchers in the rural areas of Upton County. Others live outside the county.

The landowners, who had formally presented petitions to the board Oct. 2, had expected to explain their viewpoint to the board Tuesday night. But the gist of the petitions, even if considered by the board, wasn't discussed.

"I'm glad we live in a democratic nation," sarcastically cried Mike Ratliff, a landowner-farmer, just after adjournment in which all but one — Bud Poage — of the water board members bolted from the courtroom. With them went the board's attorneys, John Menefee of McCamey and Pete Tart of Dallas, and the board's consulting hydrologist and engineers.

Although displeased with the board's decision, the landowners were not surprised at the ruling. Earlier that day, they already had planned their new route — the lawsuit — should their request be turned down.

"It makes me that much madder and more determined," said Benedum farmer Frank Evridge, vice president of the Upton County Landowners Association. "That's the most chicken — thing I've seen," St.

Demos retain control in cities, win in Mississippi and Kentucky

The Associated Press

Cleveland Mayor Dennis Kucinich is out after two years of battling the city's bankers and his own party establishment. But Democrats retained control of other big-city governments and withstood spirited statehouse challenges in Mississippi and Kentucky.

Kucinich, who had survived last year's recall vote and two defaults on the city's debts, lost decisively to George V. Voinovich, Ohio's Republican lieutenant governor.

Even in defeat, Kucinich was still fighting. "We sacrificed the mayor's office because we refused to bow and serve to the money power of this community," he said in a defiant concession speech late Tuesday.

The final tally gave Voinovich 94,407 to 73,505 for Kucinich, who told his subdued supporters, "We stood up for the people against the corporations that are attacking the consumers every day."

Voinovich said he hopes Cleveland will have a new era of "understanding and cooperation" while he is mayor. "I'm confident we have the resources in this community to become a great city again," he told supporters.

Political novice John Y. Brown was elected governor of Kentucky, while political veteran William Winter captured the Mississippi statehouse.

Democrat Kevin White won an unprecedented fourth straight four-year term in Boston. And in Philadelphia, former Democratic U.S. Rep. William J. Green will succeed flamboyant, law-and-order Mayor Frank Rizzo.

In Minneapolis, Donald Fraser scored a comeback for the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party with his election as mayor of the city he served as congressman for 16 years.

San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein, appointed after Mayor George Moscone was slain last year, faced a Dec. 11 runoff with second-place finisher Quentin Kopp, a city supervisor. Final unofficial tallies in the 10-person race gave Ms. Feinstein a narrow lead with 81,115 votes to Kopp's 77,784.

Another runoff is in store in Houston, where Democratic Mayor Jim McConn finished first but will have to battle Councilman Louis Macey, his chief critic in city government, on Nov. 20.

Democrat William Donald Schaefer won a third term in Baltimore. Republicans Tom Moody in Columbus, Ohio, William Hudnut in Indianapolis and Margaret Hance in Phoenix, Ariz., were returned to office.

Ted Wilson, a Democrat, won re-election easily in Salt Lake City. Richard Hatcher, who was the first black elected mayor of a major city, easily won a third term in Gary, Ind.

Incumbent Democrats Doug DeGood in Toledo, Ohio and Maurice Ferre in Miami and Republican Mayor Lewis Murphy in Tucson, Ariz., also won.

Midlanders OK two issues in very light turnout

Fewer than 5 percent of the total number of registered voters in Midland County turned out Tuesday to pass two constitutional amendments and defeat one in the statewide general election.

Of the 32,000 registered voters in Midland, only 1,393 persons cast a ballot in the election, and that includes the 79 that voted absentee.

Proposed amendment number one passed easily, 839 to 545. This would change the authority of approving notaries public from the county clerks' offices and hand it over to the secretary of state's office. It also would provide for four-year terms for the notaries, instead of the current policy of two years.

The second proposed amendment was defeated locally, 556 for to 824 against.

This amendment was the more controversial one on the ballot with Gov. Bill Clements, the League of Women Voters and State Sen. Pete Snelson opposing it.

The bill would have given the State Legislature power to review the rulemaking policies of agencies under the executive branch. Snelson had argued that it thwarts the separation of powers theory with the legislative branch taking control over part of the executive branch.

The third proposed amendment barely received Midland county's approval with 712 in favor and 671 against.

This amendment would allow the state of Texas to sell general obligation bonds to guarantee loans to qualified borrowers wanting to purchase farm and ranch real estate.

Snelson had favored this amendment, saying it would provide the money to young people wanting to enter the agriculture business. The average age of the farmer is going up, and it is difficult for people to obtain an agriculture loan today without a great deal of security, Snelson had said.

Selling $10 million in bonds would be sufficient for guaranteeing loans totaling $100 million.

All precincts in Midland County were in favor of the first amendment with the exception of one polling place, and that was at the Midland County Exhibit Building where precincts 16 and 25 voted.

Three polling places favored or were tied in their opinion of the second amendment. The 14 voters who cast a ballot at the Exxon Midkiff Camp were tied in their opinion of the issue. Those who voted in precinct 0 at the fire station on North Edwards Street barely passed it by one vote

Texas electors fail to establish clear trend in statewide voting

The Associated Press

Texas voters soundly expressed their independence at the polls during Tuesday's off-year elections, hiring and firing local officials and approving or rejecting bond issues without setting any clear trends.

Voters approved two amendments to the constitution, but rejected a third. One incumbent mayor was ousted, one mayor pro-tem lost in a recall vote, and Houston's mayor was thrown into a bitter runoff.

Voters in Tarrant County showed what they thought of the treasurer's job — they eliminated it. But in Dallas County seven controversial bond proposals blasted by activists as benefiting only the wealthy sailed to approval with surprising ease.

The only issue common to all ballots in Texas were the three proposed constitutional amendments. Voters defeated the one that would have granted the Legislature the power to veto state agency rules and regulations.

Proponents of Proposition 1, which would appoint notaries public statewide instead of county-by-county, garnered 65 percent of the vote in late returns.

Voters rejected Proposition 2, which would have granted the Legislature the veto power, by a 52 percent to 47 percent margin. Proposition 3, aimed at preserving family farms through a $10 million state bond program, seemed destined for passage with 54 percent of the vote favorable.

At 12:20 a.m. today, with 252 of 254 counties reporting, 240 complete, the results were Proposition 1 — 283,266 for, 149,654 against; Proposition 2 — 202,699 for, 221,760 against; Proposition 3 — 233,552 for, 196,928 against.

The state constitution has now been amended 232 times since it was adopted in 1876.

Incumbent Jim McConn was the frontrunner for re-election in the Houston race for mayor, but failed to receive a majority and was forced into a Nov. 20 runoff with his bitter political opponent, Councilman Louis Macey.

The Houston City Council, increased in size from eight to 14 members, gained its first Hispanic in State Rep. Ben Reyes, a Democrat. Three blacks also won council seats, as did five of seven incumbents. Another incumbent was leading, and the other was headed for a runoff.

Tarrant County voters approved by a three-to-one margin a measure that would abolish the county treasurer's office. The vote was 2,320 to 726. But a Tarrant County tax limitation proposal failed by a vote of 16,193 to 10,085.

In Dallas, all seven issues in a $54.6 million bond package were passed. The biggest vote against the tax-supported bonds for a variety of arts facilities, the Dallas Convention Center, roads, storm drains and downtown improvements, came in East Dallas, but voter turnout was only about 15 percent. The favorable vote came in North Dallas, where turnout was as high as 30 percent.

In Austin, a $5 million bond proposal to build an office building and garage in Travis County passed by a vote of 8,952 to 5,391.

Jurors weigh fate of Cullen Davis

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An 11-member jury began deliberations today in the retrial of millionaire Cullen Davis on charges of trying to hire a man to kill his divorce judge. The jury will consider 12 weeks of testimony and two days of fiery final arguments. The panel, reduced to 11 members because one juror broke her leg and had to drop out, received the case Tuesday night but decided to wait until today to start deliberations. The jury must decide if Davis is innocent or guilty of either of two charges — solicitation of capital murder or conspiracy to commit capital murder. Both charges carry penalties of five to 99 years or life in prison. A Houston jury deadlocked 8-4 for conviction last January in Davis' first murder conspiracy trial. More than 130 persons crammed into the courtroom and halls Tuesday to hear summations from defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes and prosecutor Jack Strickland.

Kennedy's candidacy announced

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, decrying the "lack of a clear summons from the center of power," today announced that he is challenging President Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination. Kennedy, heir to a modern political legend, became the third brother to seek the White House. The family "turned out in force for his speech at historic Faneuil Hall where Kennedy accused the Carter administration of failing to set national goals. Kennedy said he questioned "no man's intentions," but charged there is a conflict of direction in the administration. "Fear spreads that our leaders have resigned themselves to retreat," the Massachusetts senator said. "This country is not prepared to soundretrite. It is ready to advance. It is willing to make a stand. And so am I." Kennedy has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate in every election since 1968. But today's announcement marked his first entry into the quadrennial race. On Thursday, California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., is to enter the race for the Democratic nomination, and on Dec. 4, President Carter is to announce his quest for re-election. Kennedy launched his first bid for the presidency — once held by his late brother John F. Kennedy — with help from his famous family. His wife Joan and their three children were seated beside him, and in the first row at Faneuil Hall were Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and Ethel Kennedy, widows of John and Robert Kennedy, along with Kennedy sisters Patricia Lawford, Eunice Shriver and Jean Smith. Also in the front row was Mayor Jane Byrne of Chicago, who was wooed by President Carter before she endorsed Kennedy. The most dramatic moment of Kennedy's announcement came during the question and answer period when a reporter, noting that Kennedy and his wife have been living apart, asked if he would campaign for him. Kennedy supporters in the crowd booed when they heard the question, but Kennedy motioned for quiet and then, turning to his wife, who was seated behind him to his left, said, "Joan." Smiling, wearing a violet dress, Mrs. Kennedy stepped to the microphone to cheers and applause. "I look forward to campaigning for him," she said, her voice quivering. "And not only that. I look forward very, very enthusiastically to my husband being a candidate and being the next president of the United States." Meanwhile, a statement said that Kennedy underwent a physical examination several days ago and is in excellent condition, and disclosed he had successful surgery for minor skin cancer on June 22. And in a report on taxes, Kennedy said he paid $315,508 in U.S. income taxes last year. His adjusted gross income was $702,697. In his announcement speech, Kennedy criticized the domestic policies of the Carter administration. While never mentioning President Carter by name, Kennedy's references to the Democratic incumbent were unmistakable. "I question no man's intentions," he said. "But I have a different view of the highest office in the land — a view of a forceful, effective presidency, in the thick of the action, at the center of all the great concerns our people share."

board's ruling. "A lot of people were roiled here," Pyeatt said. "You couldn't have asked for anything more to get the people all of one mind." Landowners leader Mike Ratliff exhorted his fellow protesters: "Don't pay that (water district) tax when you pay your (county) taxes." The water district was created by an act of the Texas Legislature and did not require a vote of the people. However, any proposed bond issue would. Most of the board's 40-minute session was taken by the board's consulting water experts — Reed, Dennis and Haner — explaining Rankin's and McCamey's water plight and possible solutions. Culver Home expected to reopen soon

Midland County's Culver Youth Home, a minimum security detention facility for juveniles, probably will be back in operation by the end of next week. Juvenile Probation Officer Grover Green said this morning that the county is reviewing four applications for the position of house parents at the facility, located at 3800 N. Lamesa Road. The 11-year old facility has been closed since Oct. 8 when the last couple serving as house parents resigned, according to Green. The officer said the couple indicated the job was too confining. But he acknowledged this morning that the salary paid house parents may be too low. The juvenile probation officer said he will meet Monday with County Judge Bill Ahders and county commissioners to discuss salary for house parents. Presently, a couple is paid $672 per month for serving as house parents in the facility. That salary increases to $746 a month after six months, Green noted. All expenses of the house parents are paid by the county with the exception of clothing, Green said. The job requires that the house parents be in the facility 24 hours a day, five days a week, he said. If the house parents work seven days instead of five per week, they are paid an additional $60, Green noted. Although the county has experienced difficulties in finding new house parents, Green said, "I believe we'll be able to open it up by the end of next week." Employment officials in Midland told the county that another reason it is difficult to find new house parents is the county's low unemployment rate, Green said. Since the Culver Youth Home has been closed, juveniles taken in to custody in Midland have been housed at either the county jail or the city jail. Last year an average of six juveniles per day were housed in Culver Youth Home, Green said.

Judge delays decision on admission of documents in trial of physician

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The judge in the attempted capital murder trial of Dr. Archie Burkhalter delayed a decision today on whether to admit into evidence the letters and diary of a convicted hit man. State District Judge Darrell Hester on Tuesday called the papers of S.J. Wilburn "damning" and said prosecutors would have to prove their theory of conspiracy between the Pasadena doctor and Wilburn in the Feb. 15 shooting of a South Padre Island man. "I spent three hours last night reading all this," Hester said today. "It was very easy to rule on this in the Wilburn case since he wrote them." Burkhalter is accused of hiring Wilburn and Scott David Minnick to kill John Hensley, a witness against the doctor in a kidnaping case. Hensley survived a rifle blast in the face but was blinded. At Wilburn's trial in July, prosecutors used letters written to Wilburn's girlfriend and a diary he purportedly kept of his plans to shoot Hensley.

ART BUCHWALD At last, here's answer to nuclear garbage problem

WASHINGTON — If you talk to most governors (Jerry Brown is the exception) they're all for nuclear energy. But there is one problem — no governor wants to accept the nuclear waste that is produced by the energy. Everyone thinks it should be buried in another state.
Since we only have 50 states, our options as to where to dump the stuff are limited.
Nuclear waste is not your everyday garbage. Its life is anywhere from 10,000 to 50,000 years. While it doesn't give off any smell, it radiates like mad and there doesn't seem to be any canister which will hold it more than a couple of decades.
What's the answer? A broker friend thinks he has it.
"We must make nuclear waste a precious commodity like gold or silver and have people start speculating in it. The government could hold an auction on the waste, and then the commodity people would begin dealing in futures. A pound might start off at $100, and then the speculators would take it from there. In a good market I could see it going up to $500, with delivery in six months."
"Wouldn't the traders be afraid of taking delivery on the nuclear waste they bought?"
"Commodity speculators never know what they're dealing in," he said. "To them it's all paper. Do you think they have ever seen a soybean or a pork belly? All they're trying to do is make a killing and if they can't make it in silver, they'll make it in garbage."

"But eventually someone is going to be stuck with the nuclear waste."
"You don't understand the people who play the commodity game. They never believe they're going to be the last guy in line. They always hope to unload the commodity before delivery time. If someone gets stuck, it's his tough luck. He'll have to bury it in his own back yard."
"His wife won't like that," I said.
"Commodity speculators don't think about their wives. If they did, they'd never be in the business. Look, I've got this thing all worked out. Once you put nuclear waste on the market everyone is going to believe it must be valuable or people wouldn't be speculating in it. If nuclear waste goes up and the dollar goes down, you'll have people all over the world trying to buy in. The Arabs will figure there must be something to the waste or we wouldn't be selling it at auction. The gnomes of Switzerland will recommend it to their clients, and pretty soon all the big banks will start stockpiling the waste in their safes."
"If we get everyone buying it, we could wind up with a shortage."
"It's a good plan," I agreed, "particularly if the OPEC countries start demanding to be paid for their oil in nuclear sludge. How do we get it off the ground?"
"The first thing we have to do is persuade the President to go on television and say the country is running out of nuclear waste and unless we all conserve, there will be none left 100,000 years from now. That's all the speculators will need to dump their holdings in wheat and start gambling in radioactive garbage."

Rising crime rate

It isn't the least bit encouraging to read that serious crime in the United States in the first half of this year increased 9 percent over the comparable 1978 period.

Uniform Crime-Reports' figures released by William H. Webster, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, revealed that crime reported to law enforcement agencies rose 8 percent in the April through June quarter after rising 11 percent in the first three months of the year.

Atty. Gen. Benjamin R. Civiletti had this to say regarding the reported figures:

"Although the increase was not as drastic as reported for the first quarter, the statistics continue to show a disturbing increase over last year. Law enforcement must persist in our efforts to prevent crime."

This most certainly is true, but law enforcement can't do the job alone. Law enforcement officers at all levels need all the help they can get from the general public. Public support is essential if law enforcement is to do the job expected of it. This is why the "Citizens Against Crime" program staged here recently was of such community-wide significance. The movement, in order to be really effective, must be presented on a continuing basis.

During the first half of 1979, according to the FBI statistics, violent crime — murder, robbery, forcible rape, and aggravated assault — rose 13 percent, while the property crimes of burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft increased 9 percent.

"As recently as a year ago," FBI Director Webster said, "the declining crime figures were encouraging, but the current statistics indicate crime continues to be one of America's most serious national problems. We must intensify our efforts to devise new measures to halt further regression."

Among violent crimes, murder was up 9 percent, forcible rape and aggravated assault each rose 11 percent, and robbery increased 15 percent.

Increases in the property crime category were 7 percent for burglary, 10 percent for larceny-theft, and 13 percent for motor vehicle theft. No data was available for arson, a recently designated Index crime.

It is somewhat disturbing also to note that increases in total crime were reported by cities and counties of all sizes, ranging from a low of 6 percent in cities with more than one million inhabitants to a high of 12 percent in each of two city groupings between populations of 10,000 and 49,999.

The volume was up 12 percent in the Southern States, 10 percent in the Northeastern States, 8 percent in the Western States, and 7 percent in the North Central States.

This, then, is a problem which should gain and hold the rapt attention of all Americans.

INSIDE REPORT: Teddy Kennedy leans toward spring knockout

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite public claims by his lieutenants that they expect a prolonged war of attrition for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy privately plans a quick knockout of President Carter by the end of March.

Kennedy spelled this out in a telephone call to Gov. Hugh Carey of New York when he asked Carey to go along with state Republican leaders in pushing for a March 25 presidential primary rather than a later date. Besides wanting to quickly compensate for any Carter primary wins in the South, the senator explained, an early win in New York fits his strategy of delivering a spring knockout punch to the president.

Carey went along with Kennedy, without argument. Although some key figures in the Kennedy apparatus still suspect the governor harbors dreams of being Jimmy Carter's eastern Catholic vice presidential running mate in 1980, Carey surely will endorse Kennedy. In fact, he has proposed putting some of his key operatives in Kennedy's Washington campaign headquarters.

CARTER'S BUDGET PITFALLS

President Carter's budget officials are warning him that if he goes along with defense-oriented senators for increases in military spending, he will immediately be squeezed by other departments for similar budget increases.

But Carter has little choice in the matter. He is willing to go far to satisfy demands for higher military spending as the only conceivable way to gain Senate approval of the arms control treaty (SALT II).

That will automatically rule out fulfilling Carter's pledge of dramatically reduced budget deficits. With the principle of a balanced budget down the drain, the president's other big-spending constituencies — particularly the Department of Health and Social Services (formerly HEW) — will feel free to demand equal treatment.

WATCH IT, ANATOLY

Shortly after President Carter backed away from his demand that the Soviet combat brigade be taken out of Cuba, one of his closest aides told Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin: Now don't you go sending any Soviet naval task force into the Caribbean if you want the (SALT) treaty ratified. Dobrynin just smiled. The point the White House aide was trying to make was that if Moscow tweaks Uncle Sam's nose again this soon after the combat brigade crisis, the Senate would refuse to ratify SALT.

REAGAN TROUBLES

Backstage problems in the Reagan campaign were hinted at with the easing out as Ronald Reagan's Florida campaign chief old pro Patrick Hillings of California.

Hillings, a former congressman from California and one-time political intimate of Richard M. Nixon, worked closely on the 1968 Nixon campaign with Reagan campaign manager John Sears. It was Sears who brought Hillings into the Reagan operation to run the campaign for the critically important March 11 primary in Florida.

It was also Sears who recently informed Hillings that Charles Black, Reagan's director of field operations, wanted a home-grown Florida Republican in charge. Sears hinted he would have been happy to keep Hillings but that Black insisted on the shift.

THE REAGAN QUEST

The constant quest by Ronald Reagan's campaign for big-name moderates has been concentrating on a key politician in a state that has become central to campaign manager John Sears' strategy: Republican State Chairman Frederick K. Eibel of Connecticut.

Although Eibel told us he has not decided to back Reagan and may not endorse anybody, senior Reagan officials believe negotiations to bring him aboard are near fruition. Sears has made Connecticut a symbol of Reagan's ability to show that he can win in a northeastern industrialized state with a non-conservative tradition.

SAY IT AGAIN, HAM

Eyes boggled in the senior White House staff meeting one recent morning when Hamilton Jordan, the White House chief of staff, warned against continuing the talk about presidential politics that had dominated the session.

"No more politics, please, said a straight-faced Jordan. We're on the taxpayers' business in this house, not campaign politics. Discussion of political problems dealing with the 1980 election, Jordan went on, should take place in the Carter-Mondale 1980 campaign headquarters, not the White House."

The talk quickly shifted to the people's business. Just five minutes later, it went back to Topic A: How could Carter beat Teddy Kennedy?

Mrs. Carter's staff

The Jimmy Carters went to Washington pledged to reduce government personnel as a means of reducing the federal budget. But all that largely has been forgotten in the intervening years.

Rosalynn Carter may or may not have been as deeply entrenched in budget reduction promises as was her husband.

Anyway, her personal staff is said to be the largest organized by a president's wife. It is reported that Mrs. Carter's staff costs the taxpayers $650,000 a year for aides to plan her travels and promote the Carter image.

Her permanent, full-time staff, since January 1977 has increased to 21 persons. This compares with Vice President Walter Mondale's staff of 26. It is larger than the staff of a number of White House officials. Betty Ford is said to have had a personal staff of 12 persons.

Rosalynn Carter's staff includes two staff directors, three personal assistants, four press secretaries, three social secretaries, two project directors, one researcher, five schedule and advance assistants and an additional assistant. Mrs. Carter also has separate staffs who handle her correspondence and all White House entertaining.

An $18.2 million annual appropriation for White House salaries and expense funds the staff expenses.

It all adds up to a lot of staff personnel and a lot of YOUR tax dollars.

NICK THIMMESCH

Mamie had very strong will; she had thought life through

WASHINGTON — Mamie Eisenhower was worth listening to. The trouble was when Ike was alive, she was careful not to talk publicly too often, and after he died, few of us tried to find out how she was doing or what she had to say. Mamie was frail, her health often fragile, but she had strong will and had thought life through.

I spent a day with her in the Bicentennial summer of 1976 when she made a rare public appearance by riding on the Freedom Train from Gettysburg, to York, Pa. McCann's had assigned me to interview her for an article commemorating her approaching 80th birthday. I had never met her, and my recollections were that she was Ike's smiling, attractive partner, bland of remark, the proper Republican woman. I was to learn something.

The Freedom Train, pulled by an ancient steam engine, crawled slowly across the countryside, so Mamie had time to see the clusters of people in fields and in small towns. They waved and their mouths formed the word "Mamie," causing her to beam. "Look at those faces," she said. "It makes your heart warm. I am fortunate, because most widows are forgotten."

Ike was her life, and everybody asked about their years together. But Mamie knew something of the depth of human personality. "When people remark how close I was to him, well, of course we were close," she said. "But you never really know a person; you only understand them. Nobody knows anybody else's inner thoughts." She saw Ike as the head of the house, as the man who deserved to come home to her and dinner and a pleasant evening with no heavy discussion of the military or the Presidency or politics. She had a keen sense of divided responsibilities; his was work and hers was home and hearth.

Mamie said when he asked, "What should I do about this situation?" she usually turned the question away. And if he ventured toward her territory, he was in trouble. When Ike sent a memo to a White House staffer about menus, Mamie countermanded the order. When the Gettysburg farmhouse was being redone, Mamie caused extra expense by changing plans. Ike could only gnash his teeth. When Ike wanted to try a Caribbean vacation, Mamie knew it would be best to go to Augusta as usual, and they did.

She believed in the old values. For Mamie, the home was the center for the family. She said children should be given leeway to find themselves, but not before age 20. There is too much leniency with children today, she said firmly, and too much freedom in their dress, especially in church. She was glad that her son John phoned her every week, but she wasn't sure most mothers got such calls. And she wondered about the feminists.

"I don't know about this Ms. business," Mamie told me. "God made you to have children. I feel sorry for people who don't."

She didn't like the way the country was going, either. "We emphasize money too much," she said. "There is no aristocracy in America, only people who are money crazy."

"We've lost the art of doing a good job. There's no competition these days. Clerks don't want to wait on you. I hope the younger generation can change this."

Though she defended the old-fashioned way, Mamie said she wouldn't give advice to the new generation. "What worked for Ike and me might not work today," she explained. One of her happinesses back in 1976 was, "I'm so glad that I don't have to put my teeth in a glass of water every night."

Mamie never claimed she was Ike's quiet strength, but his friends knew she was. Her speech was Midwest accented, and she seemed to epitomize sweet domesticity, but Mamie came from a sophisticated, wealthy family and knew the way of the world. Farmer boy Eisenhower did not.

"It would have been Col. Dwight David Eisenhower, if it weren't for Mamie," Kevin McCann, Eisenhower's speechwriter, once told me. "In her early years, Mamie was a broadening influence on Eisenhower."

In the Fifties, Ike and Mamie were so popular that gossip became a certainty. Her heart was damaged by rheumatic fever in childhood, and she was afflicted with Meniere's syndrome, an inner ear disorder which affected her balance. So sometimes she was an unsteady walker and had to lean on Ike, and gossip spread that she drank too much.

In her declining years, Mamie was increasingly alone. Sgt. John and Dolores Mooney, the black couple who worked for Ike and Mamie for many years, retired. She tried to cook her own meals and wound up mostly with TV dinners. She saw fewer visitors. Friends finally persuaded her to take an apartment in Washington, but she only spent a few weeks in it each winter. She felt a duty to stay at the farm out of respect for Ike.

"I miss him terribly," she told an interviewer. "I come down to the porch and remember how he would paint and I would sit and play solitaire. We didn't say a word, but we were together. It was companionship. I had to steel myself to being lonely many times when he was gone — he was away three years once (World War II). But it was so hard to steel myself when he was really gone."

In her last weeks at Walter Reed Hospital, Mamie couldn't speak or even write messages — the stroke was that disabling. She was waiting to go to Abilene to be put beside Ike.

Nowadays, wives of public men like Mamie seem out of fashion. But in their time there was no more popular couple than the Eisenhowers. Tom Stephens, Eisenhower's White House appointments secretary, once told me why. "Ike and Mamie," he explained. "They're like people you know."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Additives often necessary for enriching certain foods

Dear Dr. Solomon: Why do foods have to be enriched? Don't the natural foods contain vitamins and minerals? — Faye.

Dear Faye: Vitamin and mineral compounds are used to supplement the vitamins and minerals already present in some foods, such as the B vitamins, which are added to flour and bread. In other cases, the nutrients literally are added to the food. If you read the label on your breakfast cereal package you will see that it is probably fortified with virtually all the vitamins and minerals listed under the government's U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances.

Amino acids may also be added to foods. This is especially important in the case of those compounds that are not manufactured by the body and therefore must be obtained from foods. The amino acids required by humans generally can be obtained from animal products, including meat, poultry, eggs and milk.

Plant foods, on the other hand, are low in at least one of the essential amino acids. As a result, vegetable protein requires the addition of such compounds as tryptophan, leucine, lysine and methionine in order to bring it to the level of protein obtained from animal sources.

The addition of vitamins and minerals to a food product does not necessarily make it superior to an unfortified food. In fact, if a person's diet already includes adequate amounts of nutrients, the additional vitamins and minerals serve no useful purpose, since the body can use only what it needs. In some instances, too much actually may be harmful. For example, excessive amounts of vitamins A or D can be toxic.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I used to look forward to breakfast. But all this scare talk has taken the joy out of it. First my doctor told me to cut down on eggs because they are high in cholesterol; now I read that the nitrate in bacon may cause cancer. I'd try bread and water for breakfast, but I'm pretty sure that as soon as I begin to enjoy it, I'll find out it is bad for me. — Andrew.

Dear Andrew: Let me bring a spot of good news to your breakfast table. As you suggest, scientists have warned of a possible link between nitrosamines and cancer in laboratory animals. This has prompted the Department of Agriculture to change federal meat inspection regulations, as they relate to the curing of bacon.

The amendments authorize use of lactobacilli, microorganisms that generate small amounts of lactic acid. The lactic acid, in turn, lowers the nitrate level in the bacon. Nitrates lead to the development of nitrosamines.

Ms. Carol Tucker Foreman, assistant secretary of Agriculture, says that lactobacilli are safe. They occur naturally in all meats and are added to cheese and yogurt, among other foods, to prevent spoilage.

Automation alters jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most people expect automation in the working place will force many employees to change jobs if they want to keep working, according to a recent study.

A survey by the American Council of Life Insurance shows that "56 percent of the respondents agree with this notion, while 16 percent disagree and 26 percent express no strong opinion."

Oil from tanker burns, stains Texas beaches

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Intermittent explosions have spoiled firefighters' efforts to snuff out a blaze on a tanker grounded in 40 feet of water and leaking oil onto Texas beaches.

Officials promised a new assault today on the crippled vessel.

Oil leaking from some of its 36 storage compartments has already stained several miles of the upper Texas coast, prompting the Coast Guard to press heavy-duty containment equipment into service.

The ship was disabled in a fiery collision with a tanker six days ago near this Texas port. Thirteen sailors were killed and another 19 victims remained missing and presumed dead.

Efforts to quell the blaze aboard the tanker Burmah Agate have consisted mainly of spraying her decks with water from a distance. But Tuesday, a Dutch-based team of professional firemen got close enough to pour fire-retardant foam on the blaze. However, they were pushed back three separate times when explosions rocked the vessel.

"They continued despite the explosions, and apparently had made substantial progress in putting out the fire," said Coast Guard spokesman Richard Griggs.

"But their supply of foam ran out and they were forced to return to port to get more," he said. "About the same time, the fire rekindled, becoming as bad as it ever was."

The Coast Guard prepared for the possibility that the oil spill from the tanker might reach major proportions by bringing up pollution-control equipment from Port Aransas that had been used on the crude that reached Texas beaches from the runaway Mexican well, Ixtoc I.

Officials estimated that 15,000 to 20,000 barrels of crude oil had spilled into the waters of the Gulf of Mexico since the collision. As explosions rocked the vessel daily, the Coast Guard feared that more of the tanker's 390,000-barrel cargo might be loosed into the water.

"The present condition of the tanker presents a potential for a much larger spill," Griggs said.

Lt. Gabriel Kinney said about 25 percent of the cargo already has been lost, but the continuing fire has consumed about 90,000 barrels.

Griggs said the ship owners have accepted responsibility for the spill and are taking care of firefighting and clean-up operations. He said the Coast Guard was monitoring the efforts to make sure all precautions were being taken to ensure the safety of the coast.

Two London women die bound, gagged in shotgun blast

LONDON (AP) — Two wealthy, attractive, 39-year-old women were murdered by shotgun blasts as they lay bound, gagged and naked in separate beds in a quiet

English country mansion, police said.

Detective Superintendent Tom Brooks, leading 100 policemen in the inquiry, said: "It was a brutal and macabre murder and we don't know the motive."

The victims were discovered by a relative late Monday in a 16th century house near Congleton in Cheshire County.

Ann Carryer, mother of two, and Elizabeth Christine Blood, mother of three, drove separately to the house to sort possessions left by Mrs.

Carryer's mother who died recently.

Mrs. Blood was killed on her birthday. The two women were both wives of company executives and had been friends.

Bob West to quit Big Spring post

BIG SPRING — Bob West is expected to submit his resignation from the Big Spring school board at the board's regular meeting at 5:15 p.m. Thursday.

West, whose resignation will become effective Nov. 15, is moving from Big Spring to Dallas.

The board has the option to leave the position open or to appoint a replacement for West until the April 1980 elections, according to Schools Superintendent Lynn C. Hise.

In other business, the board also will choose members for the Tax Appraisal Board. The school board can select two members of the five-member county appraisal board.

Board members also are expected to approve the federally funded Title IV-B budget for library books and supplies and approve an increase in substitute teachers pay from $25 to $30 per day.

Trustees also will hear a report from Hise on a proposed research project by a Rochester, N.Y., dentist who plans to study the effect of the element lithium in water in preventing tooth decay.

If his project is funded, the dentist wants to make a study of tooth decay in students in Big Spring because lithium appears in water where there are gypsum deposits, Hise said.

Third accused recruiter freed on abuse charges

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The third Army recruiter acquitted of charges stemming from the military's investigation of alleged widespread recruiting abuses says he is bitter about his court-martial but plans to stay in the Army.

Sgt. 1st Class Harvey Lloyd was acquitted Tuesday after the jury deliberated for about 20 minutes.

"I am bitter about the fact that command apparently picked us out to be punished and just dropped us to the wolves," he said after the verdict was announced. "I think there are a lot of people higher up that need to be talked to."

Sgts. 1st Class Marshall Brent Jackson of Charlotte and Clyde J. Waltman of Winston-Salem were found innocent of similar charges last week.

More than 200 recruiters nationwide have been relieved of their duties as part of the Army's investigation of alleged recruiting fraud.

Lloyd, former Charlotte Station commander, was found innocent of failing to notify superior officers of malpractice by subordinate recruiters, possession of illegal test materials and threatening a subordinate.

He took the stand in his own defense and told the court that as a new field recruiter he was puzzled that he had to test twice as many people as other recruiting officers to come up with recruits who could pass the entrance test.

Those who failed the test were retested, no matter how low they had scored; he said. And on retests the scores were better.

"There was no way a man could get that smart in 30 days," Lloyd testified.

Lloyd said he discussed tests with the recruiters at weekly meetings and told them one enlistment was not worth their career.

Expert says pilots pushed too much

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — An aviation safety specialist contends that a series of crashes by Eastern Airlines before a 1974 crash here occurred because pilots were flying under pressure from corporate officials to meet schedules.

C.O. Miller, 55, of McLean, Va., a private consultant, testified in U.S. District Court Tuesday that nine crashes from June 1972 to the Sept. 11, 1974, crash near Charlotte's Douglas Municipal Airport had one common denominator.

"The predominant thread is what we in our trade call the 'press-on theory,'" Miller said. "Due to a pressure exerted by management, or a policy, stated or otherwise, that it is important to meet schedules and get on the ground."

Miller was the first witness in the civil trial of the five remaining lawsuits resulting from the crash of Eastern Flight 212 near Charlotte that killed 72 persons. There were 10 survivors.

Two survivors and the estate of a deceased passenger are suing Eastern for nearly $20.5 million in damages. They contend Eastern failed to correct safety problems it uncovered in the investigation of its nine previous accidents. They say if Eastern had acted, Flight 212 would not have crashed.

Eastern and its 19 insurance companies filed counterclaims for nearly $25 million against the Federal Aviation Administration and four air traffic controllers, saying their failure to monitor the descent of Flight 212 contributed to the crash.

Miller testified Tuesday that most of the nine accidents, which killed 99 persons and injured at least 89 others, demonstrated a "lack of crew coordination and cockpit discipline."

Former South Korean president freed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Former South Korean President Yun Po-sun was freed today after being held under house arrest since 1976. Yun had not been permitted to receive visitors since Oct. 23, three days before the assassination of President Park Chung-hee. He said his release signified an easing of Park's repressive policies.

Yun called for free elections to choose a successor to Park. Otherwise, he warned in an interview with The Associated Press, "there will be great trouble."

Yun, one of Park's leading critics, also urged the release of all political prisoners. The 82-year-old former president called on the National Assembly to revise the constitution and schedule free presidential elections "as soon as possible."

"We have suffered nearly 20 years under Park's regime," he said. "We really need change. Otherwise it will be too late. We can't stand any more."

The legislature reconvenes Nov. 15. Yun, who was deposed by Park in a military coup in 1961, said popular opposition makes it impossible to follow constitutional provisions for choosing a new president.

Those provisions, written by Park in 1972 under martial law, provide that the nation's electoral college choose the next president in 90 days, without debate or campaigning. Should that procedure be applied, Park's successor would be chosen, in effect, by the small group of civilian and military officials in charge, informed political sources said.

Yun said he expects to meet with the leader of the opposition New Democratic Party, Kim Young-sam, and other opposition leaders, as well as government figures. However, he refused to say which party or candidate he would support in new elections.

The former president is under a suspended five-year prison term imposed in 1976 after he, former presidential candidate Kim Dae-jung and others signed a manifesto urging Park to resign and calling for constitutional reform.

Bolivian colonel considering plan to form junta, hold May election

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Col. Alberto Natusch is considering a proposal that he form a junta with two members of Congress, sharing the power he seized in a coup, and hold a presidential election as scheduled in May, congressional sources report.

The proposal was made by 20 leading members of Congress who met Tuesday night with Natusch. The colonel went into conference with his top military associates to consider the proposal, said a congressional source who asked not to be identified.

"The conversations are arriving at a happy end," said Auxiliary Bishop Genaro Prata in a radio-TV report on the government stations. He had been mediating between Natusch and the congressmen.

He urged tin miners, peasants and others opposed to Natusch "to avoid all acts of violence that can throw into irreparable danger the talks that are arriving at a happy end."

Presidential elections were to have been held in May after an interim term by Walter Guevara, Bolivia's first civilian president in a decade who was overthrown by Natusch Thursday after only 10 weeks in power. Congress elected Guevara to a one-year term last summer after neither of the two leading candidates in the July presidential election could muster a majority in runoff voting in Congress.

Dozens of priests and nuns were to gather in La Paz today, and one priest said they would draw up a "strongly worded denunciation" of Bolivia's new week-old military dictatorship.

La Paz's streets were generally free of gunfire Tuesday for the first time since Saturday, but troops supporting the colonel attacked peasants and miners at two points in the provinces, military and union sources said.

At Achacachi, 60 miles northwest of La Paz, soldiers and air force planes on strafing runs put down a peasant uprising, a high-ranking officer said.

Miners battled soldiers at Bolivia's richest tin lode, the Huanuni mine, 175 miles southwest of the capital, union sources said. The country's 35,000 tin miners have declared an indefinite strike to protest the coup.

Casualties were not known in the clashes Tuesday, but more than 60 persons have been killed by pro-Natusch soldiers since the coup.

A general strike continued in La Paz. Less than 10 percent of the food stores were open Tuesday. Most other stores, factories, banks and restaurants remained closed in the city of 700,000.

Almost the only vehicles on the streets were tanks and troop trucks. There was a few minutes of firing by soldiers and armored car cannons in slum areas Tuesday morning, but most of the city was calm. Demonstrators also were absent from the streets for the first time since Saturday.

Army and union sources said Natusch forces have begun rounding up labor leaders and military officers who oppose the colonel.

Meanwhile, 97 American tourists left by plane Tuesday. Some had been stranded in Bolivia since the coup.

Gunmen kill prison officer as he waits for Belfast bus

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen believed to be Irish Republican Army guerrillas killed a 20-year-old prison officer as he waited for a bus in the center of Belfast today, police reported.

The officer was hit four times in the chest by two gunmen who walked up to him at the bus stop, a police spokesman said. Other travelers saw the shooting.

Police did not immediately identify the victim, but said he was a wages clerk at Belfast's Crumlin Road Prison and was married only two months ago.

He was the second Crumlin Road prison officer assassinated in two days and the 14th slain since the outlawed IRA's "Provisional" wing began killing prison officers three years ago.

WORLD NEWS

Tanks, troops mark Soviet revolution

MOSCOW (AP) — Tanks, rockets, missiles and thousands of Red Army troops rumbled through snow-whipped Red Square today to mark the 62nd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Defense Minister Dmitri F. Ustinov said Soviet armed forces will defend "peace and socialism." Strong winds whirled the snow through the square and against the red brick Kremlin walls, as Soviet leaders reviewed the parade from Lenin's mausoleum. President Leonid I. Brezhnev, 72, wearing an overcoat and lambswool hat, returned the troops' salute and stayed until the end of the parade.

Absent from the reviewing stand was Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, 75, who has not been seen in public since Oct. 17. Western diplomats believe he is ill.

Thousands of soldiers and sailors, including crack units of marines, airborne commandos and border troops, marched snappily through the square in 28-degree temperatures. The snow, described by a radio commentator as a "blizzard," made visibility difficult.

Leftists agree to truce

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftists agreed to a 30-day truce with El Salvador's new military-dominated government and ended their occupation of two government buildings, freeing 30 hostages they had held for two weeks. Then they joined a victory march through downtown San Salvador.

Juan Chacon, 22-year-old leader of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc that took over the Labor and Economics Ministries Oct. 24, said the government asked for a "reasonable time" to meet the Bloc's demands. He said his organization, a coalition of workers, peasants and students, agreed to 30 days.

Arnoldo Alfonso Majano, one of the two colonels who overthrew President Carlos Humberto Romero in a military coup Oct. 15, said: "We have broken with the past. We are trying to change the structures and the concepts that were so mistaken."

Nureyev breaks toe

BERLIN (AP) — Ballet star Rudolf Nureyev broke a toe on his right foot while performing in West Berlin, officials of the Berlin Opera Ballet said today.

They said Nureyev finished the performance of "The Nutcracker" Monday night despite the pain. It had been his last scheduled performance of his appearance here.

After the ballet, the 41-year-old Nureyev was taken to a West Berlin hospital for treatment. Doctors advised him not to perform for at least four weeks.

Nureyev has flown to Paris where he was scheduled to dance in 20 performances of a new ballet, "Manfredo."

Gunmen kill police chief

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Four gunmen believed to be political extremists shot and killed an Istanbul police chief early today, police reported.

The four ambushed Ali Yasar Gunaydin, chief of the homicide section of the Istanbul Security Department, in a low-income suburb of the city, officials said.

A police patrol traded shots with the four and captured one of them wounded, they said. The three others fled.

Police launched a manhunt for the killers.

The 'coldest man alive' dies of natural causes at age 64

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Warren S. Churchill, who gained nationwide attention as the "coldest man alive" in 1973 when his body temperature dropped to 61 after a lake accident, has died at age 64.

Churchill collapsed Tuesday night while walking his dog near his home, and died a short time later at a hospital. Dane County Coroner's Investigator Philip Little attributed the death to natural causes.

On April 5, 1973, Churchill and two other marine biologists for the state were making a fishing site survey in Madison's Lake Wingra when strong winds capsized their small boat.

The three stayed afloat in the 40-degree water for 1 1/2 hours before they were rescued.

Family requests memorials for MMH

Memorials for Robert L. Pendleton, 63, who died Monday in an Odessa hospital, should be directed to the Midland Memorial Hospital Foundation or the National Kidney Foundation of Texas, his family has requested.

Critics see little hope of killing missile soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of the MX mobile missile see little chance of killing it this year, but hope to start building momentum to scrap the weapon before its deployment in the mid-1980s.

The first measure of Senate support for the $33 billion system will come when the Senate returns to work — perhaps later this week — on legislation appropriating $131.7 billion in 1980 for the military.

Awaiting action will be an amendment by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to delete $670 million put in the bill at President Carter's request for engineering and development work on the MX.

The Senate began debating the bill Tuesday but put it aside at the end of the day to resume work on synthetic fuels energy legislation.

Hatfield's staff says it counts no more than 20 votes for his amendment.

Dr. Roger Farr, president of the International Reading Association, will discuss testing and accountability in reading at a luncheon sponsored by the Permian Basin chapter of the association Friday at 11:45 a.m.

The luncheon meeting will be in the Holiday Inn on U.S. Highway 80 in Odessa.

Farr authored the 1978 edition of the widely used Metropolitan Achievement Standardized Test and the Laidlaw Basal Reading Series.

He currently is the director of the Henry Lester Smith Center for Research in Education at Indiana State University and is a professor of education. He has been the director of the reading clinic for diagnostic and effective remediation of reading problems at New York State University.

He was the keynote speaker at the Texas International Reading Association Annual Convention last year where he spoke on accountability in a talk entitled "Who is to Blame and What Can the Professional Reading and Administration Do To Improve This Problem?"

Cost for the luncheon is $6.50 which can be paid to Marsha Samponaro at 1009 Neely Ave.

He was retired and had lived in Abilene five years before moving to Buffalo Gap in 1971. He was an Army veteran of World War II. He was a member of the Buffalo Gap Church of Christ.

Harbor won't be very busy

EGG HARBOR CITY, N.J. (AP) — It's been a long time since a boat docked here, so the new harbor master of Egg Harbor City — 10 miles inland — doesn't expect to have much to do.

Joe Wimberg, 63, a chemical salesman, cornered 54 percent of the vote Tuesday to defeat incumbent Charlie Mancuso, a 66-year-old retired linen truck driver, for the municipal job.

The tiny city is on the Mullica River at Landing Creek. But no one remembers a ship ever docking here. And during their campaigns, the two men agreed there was not a lot for a harbor master to do.

Mancuso promised to wait for the city to build a harbor, and then "go out there and supervise."

Six windows broken in house

Six window panes at the front of Jack Cobb's residence, 2918 McDonald St., were broken out Tuesday night by shots fired from a B-B gun, Midland police reported.

Persons suspected in the criminal mischief were observed leaving the scene in a white 1957 Chevrolet, according to police reports.

The Tuesday incident, reported to police about 9:40 p.m. by Cobb, caused damage estimated at $100, police said.

Bessie Justice

SPUR — Bessie Justice, 81, of Crosbyton, sister of Roy Bennett of Big Spring, died Tuesday in a Crosbyton hospital after a brief illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Norris Taylor, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Spur Cemetery directed by Campbell Funeral Home.

The Gorman native was married to George W. Justice Feb. 14, 1914, in Carbon. He died May 6, 1956. Mrs. Justice was a member of First Baptist Church and the Order of the Eastern Star.

Other survivors include two daughters, a son, two brothers, two sisters, eight grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Doma Hayes

DEL CITY, Okla. — Services for Doma Hayes, 78, of Del City, Okla., mother of W.L. Hayes of Midland, were Monday in the Del City Church of Christ with John Stewart and Ed LaBough officiating. Burial was in Granite City Cemetery directed by Bill Eisenhour Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hayes died Saturday after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Hayes was born in Granite on March 10, 1901, and moved to Del City in 1952. She was a member of the Del City Church of Christ.

Other survivors include six sons, a daughter, a brother, two sisters, 29 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild.

Court upholds sentence on man who escaped

He only had two days left

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An appeals court on Tuesday upheld a five-year prison sentence for a former Midland jail prisoner convicted of escaping two days before his scheduled release after 16 months in jail.

The ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals involved Roy Haskell Owens, who escaped from his cell at the city jail in Midland, Texas, on Aug. 21, 1978.

Owens got drunk after somehow getting whiskey in his cell — authorities do not know how. After running out of liquor, he crawled through an air conditioning duct to the jail roof and jumped off, breaking both heels.

Owens hobbled off to a bar for a few more drinks, went to a girl friend's home and was arrested within three hours.

When he escaped, Owens was winding up a federal term for interstate transportation of a firearm. After a week in a hospital he was released as scheduled, but then he was indicted on a federal charge of escape.

Owens pleaded innocent by reason of insanity due to intoxication, but a jury convicted him and the judge imposed the maximum punishment of five years in prison.

Owens appealed, saying the sentence was excessive, but the appeals court said there was nothing it could do. The jury verdict was supported by evidence and the sentence was legal, the court said.

"Considerations of mercy and leniency must be addressed to the court below," the appeals court said. "This court has no authority to reduce sentences."

...FRED BAKER, director of public works for the city of Midland, last week was named Outstanding Public Works Director of the Year by the Texas Municipal League.

This award goes to three public works directors each year in the state of Texas. This marks the first time Baker has received the award.

Known state-wide for her ability in the art of porcelain painting is Louise Jones of Midland, who made a demonstration and presentation this week before the Midland Porcelain Art Club. (Staff Photo)

Porcelain painter demonstrates art

The popular art of porcelain painting was demonstrated by Louise Jones of Midland at this week's meeting of the Midland Porcelain Art Club. The group met at the Midland Woman's Club.

Mrs. Jones, who returned this past week from making a presentation to the Porcelain Art Convention in New Orleans, La., demonstrated the painting of fruits during the morning session, using currants as her example. "I especially like to paint fruit because I enjoy color and can use more color when painting fruit than with other subjects," she said.

She often combines flowers with fruit in her work and displayed several pieces at the meeting.

Mrs. Jones gave club members tips on a new technique in china painting, in which designs are wiped out from a solid black background, fired and painted with color. She painted orchid thistles on a black background during her presentation.

Mrs. Jones has taught china painting throughout Texas and in Midland for a number of years. She is a demonstrator each year at the State Porcelain Art Club of Texas convention and is a charter member of the Midland Porcelain Art Club.

She is a member of several professional organizations and is director of the Mo-Ranch School of Porcelain Art in Kerrville.

Thirty members of the club attended the meeting. Faye Kelley won the special prize of a china painting of currants. Velma Lane won the table centerpiece, an artwork of a Pilgrim man and woman designed by Ann Johnson, club president.

In a business meeting, plans were made for the club's annual Christmas party set for Dec. 2 in the home of Mary Frances Houpt, 1407 Princeton. Members will exchange gifts of blank china.

Create styles in apartments

Copley News Service

Just because you are living in an apartment doesn't mean that you can't begin to create a decorating style for yourself.

You probably know what type of home you eventually want and have a general idea of your taste in furnishings. If you begin now buying versatile major furniture pieces, by the time you move into a house, all you will need are new accents.

Furniture buying should be approached with a plan. Decide what pieces will be appropriate for your apartment and buy them first. However, keep in mind items that will work equally well in your eventual house floor plan.

Some first choices might be a medium-sized sofa 72 inches to 84 inches long, two armless chairs and two ottomen. The two modular chairs can be pushed together as a chaise lounge with the ottomen used in front of a fireplace once you move into a home.

A good-sized coffee table 36x36 inches also would be something that could be used in any living room.

Pick basic color schemes and add bright accents in toss pillows, skirted tables and accessories. The skirted tables can be used in an apartment living room now and moved into another room once you have a house.

For the dining room, consider a round or oval table that can be expanded with extensions. For now, your apartment dining area may necessitate leaving the leaves out and using only four chairs.

This type of table can be expanded through the use of leaves to fill a large dining room in a home. At that time you may wish to add a host and hostess chair.

Another major piece that will be flexible no matter where you move is an armoire or a tall chest. For now, use it in the living room to house a stereo, television set or to serve as a bar. Later on, it can be moved into a bedroom, den or dining room.

Mrs. Cassidy is a native Midlander and a practicing attorney.

DePrang feted at showers

Diane DePrang, bride-elect of James Daniel Hurst, has been honored with two miscellaneous parties.

A shower was given in the home of Mrs. Roy D. Jobe. Other hostesses were Mrs. Berlie Dunn, Mrs. Larry Hill, Mrs. Kyle McLeod and Mrs. Danny Spinks.

Sondra Yadon's home was the setting for another shower, including hostesses Mrs. Greg Belt, Mrs. Paul McCain and Mrs. Gilmore Williams.

A lingerie shower was also given by Shirley Applin and Mrs. Jerry McConnell.

Are you sick and tired of that job?

By MARTIN GERCHEN
Copley News Service

Work can really make you sick, says a Canadian business consultant.

Physically sick, says Bruce Small, because of chemicals found in modern offices that can affect up to 90 percent of those who work in them.

The "chemical age" has produced a new breed of patients whose sensitivity to chemicals causes or contributes to chronic ailments that range from migraine headaches to foot cramps, doctors have found.

"My own observation is that 90 percent of the population may suffer some minor effect from low-level chemicals," Small said. Allergists say that at least 17 percent of the population is demonstrably affected by chemicals.

The range of what can happen to people depends on the offending substance and the person exposed to it, Small said.

Some chemicals in today's offices can trigger sneezing or headaches or actually cause mental acuity to decrease to the point where a normally bright employee becomes dull and stupid, he said.

The ability to think of sentences and write them down can also be adversely affected by chemicals that act upon certain people, Small said.

Sometimes people are viewed as having done their job for so long that they are dull at it, but Small believes that the worker can be reacting to long-range chemical exposure that dulls ability.

As an example, he cited the fact that in old offices people sat on plain, wooden chairs. They are gone now, replaced with mainly plastic seats. Some people are so sensitive to the chemicals in the plastic that they fall asleep at work, Small said.

When a cushion was placed on the seat, these same people no longer got drowsy and fell asleep, a clear sign that the chemicals in the plastic affected them, he said.

Small learned the hard way that he gets a sore throat if he holds a telephone for a long period of time. Chemicals in the plastic bother him. So he carries aluminum foil with him and wraps phones with it.

Aluminum foil has been found by allergists to be an effective barrier to many chemical agents, Small said.

Standard business machines found in many offices can and do emit odors that carry chemicals into the systems of workers, he said.

Copier machines, for example, emit gases into the air and onto the copies they produce that can have harsh effects on people around them, Small said.

The way to determine if copier fumes are a culprit is to have a company doctor check the employee and then place the employee in a closed office with a copy machine and make another check within 30 minutes to see if any symptoms have shown up.

DEAR ABBY

Won't take Noah for an answer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As a pro who gets paid for writing scripts, articles, etc., I must be nuts writing to you. However, I can't resist pointing out your misuse of the expression, "lucked out." You wrote (in praise of Gamblers Anonymous): "Many compulsive gamblers have LUCKED OUT by joining this wonderful group of people."

According to the Dictionary of American Slang (Wentworth & Flexner) "lucked out" means "to be out of luck" or "to have met with ill fortune or disaster."

You probably won't pay attention to this anyway. — MARINA DEL REY NORT

DEAR NORT: According to Webster's New World Dictionary of the American Language, "lucked out" means "to be lucky" or "to have things turn out favorably."

So, regardless of whether one buys my authority or yours, it would appear that I "lucked out" either way.

DEAR ABBY: Last night I watched a baby die.

The child was 11 months old and strangled on a piece of apple. The baby's mother was away and the child was being kept by a girl down the street.

By the time the babysitter arrived at our house, the child was probably dead. There were 10 people at the house were I was, and only one knew what to do. The rest of us watched helplessly and horror-stricken the hopeless efforts to revive the dying child.

The baby's mother, who will never live down the fact that she was not there; the 14-year-old baby-sitter who will never forget the fact that she could not help; and the 10 of us who will never forget the tragic consequences of that night, cannot be helped by the fact that this such a common occurrence.

The child was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital despite a two-hour effort by the paramedics when they arrived.

Abby, if only one person will take the time to learn CPR — cardiopulmonary resuscitation — and what to do in a case like this, then my letter will not be in vain.

But in any case, should there be a next time for me, I will know! — DEBBIE IN COSTA MESA, CALIF.

DEAR DEBBIE: Thank you for writing. Readers, CPR instruction is free. For information concerning time and place of classes, contact your local Red Cross or Heart Association.

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you in her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby in care of this newspaper.

Fitness evaluations given

The Women's Health Fitness Center at Central YMCA offers fitness evaluations for women.

The evaluation allows the staff member to assess the individual's fitness condition by measuring body composition, muscle strength and endurance, aerobic capacity and flexibility.

The fitness evaluation is an integral part of a new member's program and the results allow the member and staff member to design a program which will meet each individual's needs.

Betty Cerf, WHFC director, said, "The variety and number of classes which we offer fulfill the requirements for each individual, whether that individual is in excellent or poor condition."

Bracelets make good stocking stuffers

By ELLEN APPEL
Copley News Service

Bracelets are ideal stocking stuffers. Whether you have spare hours for macrame designs, or minutes for thread-wrapped bangles, you can have an armful of bracelets by holiday time.

With the enormous variety of yarns, threads and cords available today, your handmade accessories can be as attractive as well as easy to make. Today, most cities throughout the country have specialized fiber shops, selling shiny synthetic silks and hundreds of novelty cords that are ideal for contemporary bracelets.

By using nylon cords, tiny beads and a simple twist knot, macrame bracelets can be delicate, feminine and fashionionable. For a bangle, colorful embroidery threads are perfect.

Whatever your choice of fibers, bracelets make wonderful gifts... if you can bear to give them away. Here are directions for two contemporary bracelets:

MACRAME BRACELET: Materials: Five and one-half yards cord (No. 18 nylon cord is recommended), small, round and cylindrical beads, barrel clasp, cork, plastic foam, or other knotting board, T-pins, scissors and ruler.

STARTING: 1. Cut three 1.5-yard cords. 2. Thread cords through barrel clasp. Even up ends. 3. Wrap one-foot cord around other cords as follows:

4. Loop one end of tiny beads and a simple twist knot, macrame bracelets can be delicate, feminine and fashion-

Thread wrapping cord through the loop (a). 8. Pull other end of wrapping cord to secure loop beneath wrappings (b). 9. Pin barrel clasp to knotting board.

KNOTTING THE BRACELET: 1. Make a square knot as follows: Bring right cord over center cords and under left cord. 2. Bring left cord under center cords and over right cord (c). This completes a half-knot. 3. Bring left cord over center cords and under right cord. 4. Bring right cord under center cords and over left cord. 5. Pull outside cords to tighten the completed square knot.

6. Separate cords into two groups of three cords. 7. On each group, make six half-knots (except knots to twist). 8. Slide on a round bead, cylinder and another round bead. 9. Make six more half-knots. 10. Using two cords from each group, make one square knot (3). 11. Repeat steps 6 to 10 until bracelet is six to seven inches long, depending upon wrist size. 12. Make a square not, using all cords (d).

FINISHING: 1. Thread ends through empty loop on barrel clasp. 2. Follow steps 3 through 8 of Starting directions. 3. Trim ends.

BANGLE: Materials: Plastic, wood or cardboard bracelet from a variety store, craft shop or plastic supply outlet, six-strand embroidery thread, double-faced tape and scissors.

DIRECTIONS: 1. Line inside of bracelet with double-faced tape. 2. Starting inside the bracelet, wrap thread around bangle. Press end into the tape. Wrap threads closely together. 3. Change thread colors as desired.

P.S. For instructions for four necklace and bracelet projects from beads and cords, send 50 cents, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ellen Appel, in care of your newspaper, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, Calif. 92112.

Versatile bags feature new fabrics and styles

NEW YORK (AP) — With people more than ever on the go, handbag and luggage manufacturers are coming up with innovative ideas to suit their travel needs.

Today's bag serves many purposes: it's a carry-all; it's a weekender; it's an overnighter; it's a super-bag. And just like other fashions, luggage has gone style-conscious.

"Whether it's a vacation, a spur-of-the-moment weekend jaunt or a business trip, the consumer demands that these travel bags look fashionable, and the industry has filled this requirement," says Erica Fineberg of the National Handbag Association.

It's a new kind of luggage for a new kind of lifestyle, she points out. "No longer are bags traditional in styling," she explains. "Now they take on a variety of shapes in new fabrications. Travel bags today are almost a seasonless item, going anywhere from a weekend of skiing to a day at the beach."

Colors vary from neutrals to bold new brights. Neutrals range from beige corktones, brawny tints of tobacco tan, to mink brown, while brights appear in vivid red and blue.

Leather or vinyl edges fabrics such as canvas, linen or nubby-surface materials, with flashes of chrome yellow, magenta, purple and electric blue often spicing up nylon cire and shiny oil-cloths.

New fabrics to take the rough treatment most travel bags are subjected to are lightweight, abrasion-resistant and easy to keep clean, Ms. Fineberg notes.

Softer, unconstructed shapes make for versatility, giving the traveler room to expand or to fold up the bag when not in use. Detachable shoulder straps add to ease in handling.

These multipurpose bags are no longer relegated only to travel. The varied styles, ranging from satchels and duffel bags to small valises, will be taken to the tennis courts, used to pack a picnic or filled with last-minute weekend extras.

The smaller sizes in lightweight nylon are becoming increasingly popular among women as a capacious handbag.

Krueger begins 'bridge-building' work as ambassador to Mexico

By SOLL SUSSMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bob Krueger is pointing to symbols of better U.S.-Mexican relations as he officially begins his new job as ambassador-at-large for Mexico.

"I guess I'm a lot more interested in building bridges than I am in building fences," the former Texas congressman said Tuesday as he was sworn in for the post.

The ceremony in sumptuous State Department quarters followed by four months President Carter's nomination of Krueger as the nation's first ambassador-at-large responsible for the affairs of only one nation.

It also followed — by a year almost to the day — Krueger's loss to incumbent Republican John Tower in a tight Senate race last fall.

The coincidence did not go unnoticed in the crowd made up primarily of Democratic and Krueger loyalists from Texas.

"Sometimes we get different celebrations than we expect, but we still get a good celebration," Krueger said, reminding those present of their foiled plans for a victory party last year.

Krueger moved into the State Department in July but the Senate did not vote to confirm his appointment until Oct. 22.

Opponents said the position would add an unnecessary layer to the bureaucracy. Some claimed the appointment was designed to keep Krueger's name before the electorate until the time came for a new election.

The ambassador does not deny future political ambitions.

"I've won five political races and I lost one by three votes in a thousand. I've lost the only race I'm ever going to lose and I haven't run my last," Krueger said in an Associated Press interview before the ceremony. "But I'm not running for anything right now."

As ambassador-at-large, Krueger will spend most of his time in Washington coordinating any actions in the federal bureaucracy that affect U.S.-Mexican relations.

Krueger said the job is needed because many decisions thought by the United States to be "domestic" have international repercussions because of the border.

The activities range from immigration to trade, from energy to tourism.

Mexico's growing strength, largely a result of its oil and gas wealth, should be a source of "great satisfaction" to the United States, Krueger said.

"The potential for a qualitative improvement in our relationship exists," he said. "I think the relationship will have growing pains. Any change or movement involves some friction, and there will be some."

Busing opponents elected in Boston; Recount pending

BOSTON (AP) — Two opponents of court-ordered busing have been elected to the Boston School Committee, but veteran busing opponent Louise Day Hicks faces a recount battle in her city council bid.

Boston has been the scene of repeated racial violence stemming from court-ordered busing to achieve racial balance.

Mrs. Hicks, 60, twice a candidate for mayor at the height of racial disorder in Boston, clung to her City Council seat by five votes, according to final unofficial tallies Tuesday.

Unofficial totals in the battle for the last of nine seats on the council showed Mrs. Hicks with 54,387 votes to 54,382 for Patrick F. McDonough, 54, who was seeking his 11th term on the council.

If the official count expected Friday shows the same slim margin, McDonough will ask for a recount, said an aide, Phil Murphy.

In 1976, Mrs. Hicks became first woman president of the City Council and in 1970 was elected to Congress.

"Judge Garrity, here I come," cried Elvira Pixie Palladino, 46, an East Boston housewife, after winning back the school committee seat she lost in 1977. She has vowed to fight to end the busing ordered in 1974 by U.S. District Judge J. Arthur Garrity.

"My election shows this is a swing back to conservatism," she said.

"The people are fed up with liberalism. The people want a return to safe schools."

The campaign was marked by racial violence that began when a 15-year-old black high school football player, Darryl Williams, was shot and paralyzed.

Fine or grounding recommended for Braniff Airways, FAA-reveals

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration says Braniff Airways should be fined $1.5 million for flying passenger jets that are not airworthy and that it may ground the planes if Braniff does not improve its performance.

The FAA said Tuesday in recommending the fine that it would consider grounding the fleet if the alleged violations continue during a special one-year surveillance period.

"The violations in question appear to reflect a basic pattern of continuing disregard of federal aviation regulations on the part of Braniff management by using improper and unapproved maintenance procedures, by operating aircraft that had not received required inspection, and by failing to keep adequate records of repairs performed..." FAA Southwest Regional Director C.R. Melugin Jr. said Tuesday.

The FAA cited 10 major violations and several minor ones.

Braniff denied the allegations in a statement. "This notification... appears to be a new FAA practice," it said. "We understand, however, we will now have the opportunity for our technicians to meet with the FAA and we are confident that we can satisfy any questions they might have about any alleged discrepancies."

Melugin said several FAA violations involved the operation of Boeing 747 and 727 and Douglas DC-8 aircraft that "did not meet applicable airworthiness requirements for scheduled airline operations."

However, Melugin said he still flies on Braniff planes "once or twice a week. They're not going to fall out of the sky."

He said the most serious violation was that Braniff flew six flights on a 747 jumbo jet even though its main cabin door would not operate properly. Melugin said the problem was so bad Braniff assigned a mechanic to those flights to open and close the door.

Among the other alleged violations were:

—Operation of a DC-8 on 447 flights over an 11-month period following improper repairs on a crack in the engine pylon. Braniff continued to operate the aircraft after it had agreed with federal inspectors the repairs did not meet FAA approval, the agency said.

—Numerous flights using planes that had not been repaired or were inadequately repaired after sustaining damage resulting from blown tires and, on one occasion, taxiing into a fuel tank.

—More than 30 flights conducted over water when emergency life rafts had not received the required safety inspections.

Melugin said Dallas-based Braniff expanded its routes 65 percent in the last year, hired several hundred new pilots and, at present, flies 125 planes a day compared to less than 50 a year ago.

But he said the company "did not increase its maintenance capability with the increase in service."

Braniff spokesman Jere Cox disagreed. Braniff has "the finest maintenance, the highest skilled technicians and (we) give our fleet of modern jet aircraft the most meticulous care of any airline in the industry."

Melugin said Braniff has 20 days to pay the fine, provide the FAA with additional information to rebut the allegations or, if the questions can't be resolved, take the matter into federal court.

Parents' attempts to clean Hawaii's schools opposed

HONOLULU (AP) — A union official hinted at possible confrontations if parents attempt to cross picket lines to clean up restrooms so public schools can reopen next week.

"The plan... is creating a potentially explosive situation at every school site throughout the state with the teachers and students caught in between," said Barbara Nagaue, president of the Hawaii State Teachers Association.

The plan was announced Tuesday by state officials to reopen a majority of Hawaii's schools, which have been closed since Oct. 26 because of unsanitary conditions resulting from the strike by school janitors.

Gov. George Ariyoshi has urged parents and concerned citizens to turn out in force at their local schools Thursday night for a meeting to determine the feasibility of using volunteer janitors.

Charles Clark, superintendent of education, denied the planned volunteer program would be striking breaking.

"We are only trying to provide the essential services that the court has already ordered," referring to repeated but ignored court orders that strikers return to state and county jobs designated as "essential" for health and safety.

Results of Thursday night's meetings will be presented Friday to the state Board of Education who will determine if it is practical to use volunteers to help reopen the schools, Clark said.

Hawaii's 7,700 state and county blue-collar workers went on strike Oct. 22, in a dispute over a new two-year contract.

California schools to open; Classes canceled in Ohio

By The Associated Press

Six high schools in Daly City, Calif., scheduled classes today for the first time in 10 weeks, but Cleveland's entire public school system, nearly empty since a strike began Oct. 18, will be formally closed.

Cleveland Board President John Gallagher and Superintendent Peter P. Carlin ordered the shutdown for the duration of the strike by the 5,000-member teachers union. They made the announcement following the second day of hearings in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court on a suit brought by a teacher seeking an order to shut down the system.

The board had declared the schools open since the strike started, even though only a few hundred of the system's 92,000 pupils tried to attend classes. The financially pressed system has saved an estimated $350,000 a day in teacher salaries by declaring the schools open. Teachers will not have to be paid for days that must be made up to meet state requirements since schools were declared open during the strike, officials said.

Talks recessed Saturday after teachers rejected a board offer.

Only 131 pupils reported for class Tuesday. The board has offered a 6 percent pay increase. The teachers, who now average $16,466 a year with a $9,928 starting salary, have demanded a 14 percent increase.

In Daly City, a contract, approved by a three-to-one vote Tuesday, gives 301 teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District a 9.5 percent pay raise and bans strikes for its duration, union spokesman Tom Fitzpatrick said.

Dole, Bush and Connally all lash out at Kennedy

The Associated Press

Sen. Robert Dole says Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is a man "who would rather be president than right."

George Bush says Kennedy has a "consistent record that favors a bigger and bigger federal government."

And John B. Connally says Kennedy's presidential bid translates into "opportunity unlimited" for Republicans in next year's elections.

The Republican National Committee served up five $1,000-a-ticket fund-raising dinners across the country Tuesday night. Featured speakers — presidential contenders themselves — turned on Democrat Kennedy for dessert.

Political rhetoric aside, GOP officials said the "Countdown to Victory" dinners held a year in advance of the 1980 elections, raised an estimated $650,000, far short of a scaled-down $1 million fund-raising goal.

"All the dinners around the country were not as successful as we'd hoped they would be," said Connally, who spoke to a dinner crowd in New York estimated at about 180. Officials had hoped to sell 750 tickets to the Manhattan dinner alone.

Illinois officials said they sold about 70 tickets to the dinner in Chicago, where Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee spoke.

The biggest turnout was in Washington, where a couple of hundred people turned out to hear Dole, a Kansan.

No information was available immediately on attendance at the events in Houston, where Gen. Alexander Haig was speaking, or in Detroit, where Bush was joined by the party's chairman, Bill Brock.

One GOP presidential hopeful, Sen. Larry Pressler of South Dakota, was upset at not being asked to attend one of the five events. He arranged a $10-a-person franks and beans dinner at a Washington restaurant instead.

With the dinners falling by coincidence on the eve of Kennedy's formal declaration of his candidacy, the GOP contenders clearly had the Massachusetts senator on their minds.

"Let's tell our fellow citizens that, if you think presidential inexperience can be expensive, wait until you get the bill for Kennedy nostalgia," Dole said in a double-edged barb at both the president and his challenger.

And when California Gov. Jerry Brown enters the race next week, Dole said, the Democratic campaign will consist of "a voice from the past, a drawl from the present and a beep beep from outer space."

Bush predicted Carter would defeat Kennedy, adding, "No one is going to be able to rise a wave of nostalgia and old politics to the White House."

"He has been a leader in proposing new federal programs that would increase government spending, increase taxes and stimulate an already shocking rate of inflation," Bush said.

For his part, Connally spoke mainly about the economy, calling for income tax cuts, adjusting tax rates to discourage inflation, allowing faster tax writeoffs for business equipment and removing taxes from savings account interest that is reinvested.

On the subject of the Democrats, the former Texas governor said what "Ted Kennedy and Jimmy Carter are doing to each other is more than we could have dreamed of doing to either a few months ago."

Carter-Kennedy debate scheduled for Jan. 7

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will plunge into election-year activities by squaring off in Iowa at a newspaper-sponsored debate.

The president has accepted an invitation to the Jan. 7 forum sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune, a White House official said Tuesday.

Kennedy, who is challenging Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, also has accepted the invitation, the Des Moines Register confirmed.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who is to announce his candidacy for the party nomination Thursday, has not been invited because he "has not mounted any campaign here that is discernible," according to James Gannon, executive editor of the Register and Tribune.

Iowa will be the scene of important Democratic and Republican caucuses Jan. 21. A debate among GOP hopefuls is planned by the two newspapers Jan. 5.

"I think it's appropriate to have the debate. I've always debated in the past," Kennedy said Tuesday, adding, "I think anybody who seeks the presidency should debate, and I'll look forward to that opportunity."

Okies see silver lining

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. George Nigh may have the last laugh when Gat Han, a Caddo County buffalo, winds up on the training table of the University of Texas football team.

Gov. Nigh lost a bet with Gov. Bill Clements of Texas on the football game in Dallas Oct. 13 between Oklahoma and Texas.

Nigh bet a buffalo against a steer on the outcome of the game.

The Oklahoma governor said that Gat Han is a Klowa Indian name which means, "We got beat."

His final destination is the training table.

But there is one good thing about it, for Oklahoma fans.

Gat Han is a 14-year-old bull that weighs about 1,800 pounds and is probably just as tough and about as tasty as a nose guard's shoulder pads.

State employees take the day off Tuesday

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 100,000 state employees — taking advantage of a 105-year-old statute — took a day off to vote Tuesday.

The 1874 law was passed by legislators in an era when going to the polls could kill a full day.

But since the early 1960s the Legislature has used a special provision of the general appropriation bill to set holidays. Election day was left off the list.

Legislative Budget Board member Bill Wells said the feeling was that the holiday rider on the appropriations bill was not in conflict with the 1874 holiday statute.

"We believed the Legislature could limit the holidays to less than those in the statute," Wells said Tuesday.

However, the issue came up at a debate this year concerning the addition of June 19 — Emancipation Day in Texas — to the list of official holidays. According to a legislative parliamentarian, an appropriation bill rider could not take away holidays given to the state employees by the general statute.

State employees now have 15 holidays — plus Christmas Eve and the day after Thanksgiving, which the Legislature grants through the appropriation bill.

"I think there probably are too many (holidays)," said one government worker.

A handful of state employees worked Tuesday. Speaker Bill Clayton required the House staff to be on the job. Also putting in a full day were employees of the Legislative Budget Board, the Legislative Council and the Legislative Reference Library.

President Carter gives First Lady Rosalynn Carter a goodbye kiss on the White House Lawn Wednesday morning before she headed for Thailand to visit Cambodian refugee camps. (AP Laserphoto)

Mrs. Carter leaves for Thailand to observe the 'horrible tragedy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Rosalynn Carter left for Thailand today, sent by her husband "to observe at first hand the consequences of the horrible tragedy occurring there."

The president's wife will visit camps holding refugees fleeing from Cambodia. "I want to go to see what our whole country can do to help," Mrs. Carter said before leaving Washington just after dawn.

"It's important we maintain our commitment to all the starving people there, regardless of their affiliation" with the deposed Pol Pot government or the Vietnamese-backed regime, the president said at a departure ceremony on the White House south lawn.

He said he was asking his wife to assess the bureaucratic obstacles to sending food and medical supplies into Cambodia.

Mrs. Carter was being accompanied by Dr. Julius Richmond, the U.S. surgeon general, and Jean Young, wife of former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young.

The delegation is expected to return to the United States on Saturday.

Carter said his wife was carrying a personal message to the Thai government and royal family expressing his appreciation for Thailand's help to hundreds of thousands of refugees despite its own limited economic resources.

The president said the warring factions in Cambodia have presented "unwarranted obstacles" to the delivery of food to the starving population.

He said the tragedy of Cambodia, with half of its population since 1971 dead, is of "unbelievable proportions."

The United States has pledged $68 million in aid — more than one-half of the original estimate of needed assistance — and Carter said "we are ready to do more."

"We have no political motives," he said. "We have one single commitment: to stop the suffering and starvation."

Mrs. Carter speaking briefly, said, "This is a tragic situation and our whole country is concerned." She then drove to nearby Andrews Air Force Base for the approximately 24-hour flight to Bangkok, with refueling stops in Alaska and Japan.

While in Thailand, Mrs. Carter will confer with Prime Minister Kriangsak Chamanand and with members of his cabinet. She is also expected to meet with King Phumiphon Aduldet and Queen Sirikit.

Among the officials accompanying her is Richard Holbrooke, assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs. Mrs. Carter said Tuesday, when her trip was announced, that she and the president had discussed last week what to do about the situation of the 300,000 refugees, who are victims of malnutrition and other diseases.

She said a U.S. official, whom she did not identify, suggested over the weekend that the president make the journey. But Carter could not make the trip and his wife was asked to lead the mission.

Conviction was wrong, so he hijacked plane, lawyer says

CHICAGO (AP) — A Serbian terrorist already convicted in a bombing conspiracy hijacked a plane on the eve of his sentencing last summer because he believed his conviction was wrong and he knew he faced a long prison term, his attorney says.

The statement was made by defense lawyer P. Sveinbjorn Johnson in opening arguments Tuesday in the U.S. District Court trial of Serbian nationalist Nikola Kavaja on charges of air piracy and bail jumping.

"... A serious act (hijacking) was committed by Kavaja, but we must look at his mental condition at the time he committed the act. Did he have sufficient control of himself?" argued Johnson. "He felt deeply and sincerely that his conviction was wrong ... and knew he faced a long sentence. He loves his homeland."

Johnson said Kavaja was obsessed "about oppression in his homeland" and "a deep feeling was developed about communism while he was in the Yugoslavia army" serving as a pilot in the air force.

Prosecutor Robert McAllister said Kavaja passed through security at New York's La Guardia Airport with explosives strapped to each ankle, hijacked a jetliner and eventually planned to crash another commandeered plane into Marshal Tito's Belgrade headquarters.

McAllister told the jury the devices were simulated explosives used by the Army in war games and were made of cardboard and plastic.

McAllister said that after the jetliner, en route to Chicago with 137 passengers and crew had been airborne for about an hour on June 20, Kavaja, 46, of Patterson, N.J., emerged from a washroom holding a device in each hand and took over the craft.

FBI agents and police negotiated with Kavaja as the plane was parked for several hours on an isolated area of O'Hare International Airport. He finally released the passengers unharmed, detained the jet for another five hours, then took off with the same crew for New York.

Lawmaker's pledge heartens backers of aid for Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of government aid for the beleaguered Chrysler Corp. are encouraged by a key lawmaker's pledge to support the proposal as part of a plan to build fuel-saving vehicles.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House Banking Committee, made the pledge as a banking subcommittee prepared to hear testimony today on the administration's plan for $1.5 billion in Chrysler loan guarantees.

Scheduled witnesses were Treasury Secretary G. William Miller and Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Reuss said Tuesday he will vote for the administration bill if an amendment he proposed is adopted. His amendment would call for the government to devise a plan to provide continued jobs for Chrysler employees and at the same time produce "super gas-economizing subcompact cars and mass transit equipment, including buses and commuter rail."

To get the loan guarantees, Chrysler would have to convince the government it is able to carry out such a plan.

The administration bill conditions the $1.5 billion on Chrysler's raising a corresponding amount independent of the guarantees.

Reuss had said earlier that he was "extremely skeptical" of government support of Chrysler, which he predicted will lose more than $1 billion this year.

Rep. James Blanchard, D-Mich., principal House sponsor of the loan guarantee plan, said he was "delighted" by Reuss' announcement.

"I think it's a plus for us, especially in the full House, where some liberal members feel Chrysler has not done enough for fuel economy," Blanchard said.

Blanchard said he would offer the Reuss amendment himself when the subcommittee takes the bill up for action Thursday.

A check of subcommittee members showed at least 10 of them, a majority of the 18, either support the bill outright or say they are inclined to do so.

Lung cancer now ranks as No. 2 killer of women in the United States

NEW YORK (AP) — Women who smoke are getting older, and their lungs reflect the damage, the American Cancer Society reports. Lung cancer, ranked eighth among cancer deaths in women in 1961, now ranks as the No. 2 cancer killer among U.S. females.

"Women didn't begin smoking in earnest until much later than men, but now their lung cancer statistics are matching the earlier rise among males," Lawrence Garfinkel, ACS vice president for epidemiology and statistics, said Tuesday.

More than 100,000 Americans have lung cancer, the society said. Smoking is responsible for 83 percent of the cases in men and about 43 percent in women, it reported. In 1980, 117,000 Americans will be struck by the disease, it added.

Lung cancer, which ranked eighth as a cause of female cancer death in 1961, will kill an estimated 26,000 women in 1980.

And another 32,000 new cases will be diagnosed next year, the society said.

The new information, contained in the society's annual publication, "Cancer Facts and Figures," also showed that the survival rate for all stages of lung cancer is very low.

Lynch's visit to U.S. to have symbolic impact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The week-long visit to the United States by Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch is expected to have more political than diplomatic significance.

Officials at the State Department and Irish officials agree that Lynch and President Carter are most concerned with the symbolic impact the visit will have on their domestic constituencies.

Lynch was to begin his U.S. visit today, arriving at Newport News, Va.

For Carter, it represents a chance to demonstrate his concern for the situation in Ireland and his determination not to concede the votes of Irish-Americans to his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Kennedy, according to aides, will not meet with Lynch in Washington or in Boston, one of the cities the prime minister will visit next week.

For Lynch, the visit will reaffirm the Irish government's support for elements in the United States that support a peaceful settlement to the strife in Northern Ireland, as Carter has done.

Navy ship rescues 43 Vietnamese boat people

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A U.S. Navy ship rescued 43 Vietnamese boat people who had gone without water for several days, the Navy said.

Several of the 36 men and seven women picked up by the amphibious transport ship Dock Juneau on Tuesday evening about 50 miles northeast of Singapore were reported in poor condition. They had left Vietnam 31 days earlier.

A spokesman said the Dock Juneau was headed today for Pattaya Beach, south of Bangkok, Thailand.

U.S. 7th fleet ships have rescued 846 Vietnamese since July when President Carter ordered increased efforts to find and assist the boat people. The Navy said patrol planes have guided merchant ships to the rescue of another 991 of them.

Bandido member 'guilty' of firearms violation

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Bandido motorcycle club associate, arrested by FBI agents seeking the gun used in last year's ambush of a federal prosecutor, has been convicted of federal firearms violations.

U.S. District Judge John W. Peck found Daniel A. Thomas, 43, guilty on 10 counts Tuesday after Thomas waived a jury trial.

FBI agents had received a tip that Thomas was hiding a gun similar to the .30-caliber automatic carbine used in the Nov. 21 assault on then Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr.

The agents did not uncover that weapon in the Aug. 8 raid on Thomas' house, but did find 10 other guns. Thomas, a convicted felon, is not allowed to possess firearms.

In an affidavit used to obtain the search warrant, FBI Special Agent Gregg Van de Loo said the informant had been approached by members of the Bandidos to help kill Kerr.

The document also said Kerr selected members of the Bandidos in a police lineup as his assailants. Kerr escaped a hail of bullets by ducking behind the dashboard of his car.

There have been no arrests in the case, however.

Dugas' ex-wife to take stand?

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors seeking the death penalty for convicted killer Ovide Joe Dugas, 33, hope to call Dugas' ex-wife to the stand today during the punishment phase of the trial.

Jurors deliberated an hour and 17 minutes Tuesday before finding the Port Acres defendant guilty of capital murder in the death of a 3-year-old boy slain execution-style along with his parents and grandparents last year.

The bodies of the five victims were piled in a common grave near Winnie in Southeast Texas after they were each shot in the back of the head during the July 4 weekend.

The trial was moved here on a change of venue from Beaumont.

Dugas' ex-wife, Mary, is the daughter of the grandparents slain in the massacre, and prosecutors said after Tuesday's session she could tell about the violent nature of the defendant.

But Jefferson County District Attorney James McGrath said the judge may not allow him to call the former Mary Dugas to the stand.

Dugas' accomplice in the 1978 slayings, Linda May Burnett, 31, a housewife with three children, was tried earlier this year and sentenced in March to death by lethal injection for her part in the killings.

Dugas and Mrs. Burnett were tried specifically for murdering the little boy, but they are also accused of killing the child's parents, Elmer and Martha Phillips of Woodward, Okla., and his grandparents, Bishop and Ester Phillips of Winnie.

Dugas' brother Richard testified in the trial that his brother blamed his wife's parents for his marital problems.

Richard Dugas said his brother bragged about the killings, saying he and Mrs. Burnett kidnapped the family, marched them to pre-dug gravesites and shot them.

In his final arguments McGrath branded Dugas a "butcher and an undertaker."

His voice cracking with emotion, McGrath stood right next to Dugas and said "He gave them no chance. When you look at all of this, it took planning, premeditation, deliberated premeditation, to carry out this diabolical thing this man did."

Defense lawyer Bruce Smith spoke only briefly, urging jurors to weigh the evidence without being influenced by their emotions.

The final state witness was Dr. Stanley LeBer, the pathologist who performed autopsies on the victims.

He testified that each died of gunshot wounds, fired from about 10 inches into each of the victims' heads.

"It was my conclusion that the infant died as the result of two gunshot wounds to the head," LeBer said. He said he performed the autopsies July 10, 1978, after the bodies had been exhumed from the grave, about 10 miles from the Phillips' home.

Seating of jurors in Bundy trial begun

LIVE OAK, Fla. (AP) — Three jurors — including one who says he thinks Theodore R. Bundy is guilty — have been tentatively seated for Bundy's trial on charges of murdering a 12-year-old North Florida schoolgirl.

Bundy, a former law student already under a death sentence for the murders of two Florida State University sorority sisters, is being tried here for the kidnapping and murder of Kimberly Dianne Leach, who disappeared from her Lake City, Fla., school 21 months ago. Her body was found under a hog shed in April 1978, two months after she vanished.

As jury selection opened Tuesday, Circuit Judge Wallace Jopling rejected initial attempts to excuse Esther Sullivan, Craig Lamb and Kenneth Bonds, though all said they had extensive knowledge about Bundy.

"I thought he should be put away for it," Lamb said when questioned by defense attorney Victor Africano. "I thought he ought to have the chair."

However, Lamb said he could give Bundy a clean trial if selected for jury duty.

Bonds, a feed company employee, said he, too, could get rid of preconceived notions about Bundy's involvement in the case. But he also said talk has been rampant around town about possible penalties for the 32-year-old defendant.

"I reckon I partially agreed with them," Bonds said. In addition, he testified he knew of Bundy's conviction of kidnapping in Utah and his indictment in the murder of Dearborn, Mich., nurse Karyn Campbell in Colorado.

"In a joking way, I probably expressed that a person charged with that much surely must be guilty of some of it," Bonds said. Other talk he described included a possible appearance by Bundy in Jacksonville.

Sentencing scheduled for man convicted of 'cancer murders'

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Steven Roy Harper, who prosecutors say set out to commit "the first murder by cancer," faces life in prison or death in the electric chair.

Harper, who was convicted of two counts of first-degree murder for poisoning two persons with a cancer-causing rocket fuel additive, was scheduled to be sentenced today in Douglas County District Court.

Nebraska law sets the sentence for first-degree murder as either life imprisonment or death in the electric chair.

Harper was convicted Oct. 5 of murder in the deaths last year of Duane Johnson, 24, Omaha, who married Harper's former girlfriend, and Johnson's infant nephew, Chad Shelton.

PUBLIC INVITED

Archie Dennis Jr.

Whether Archie Dennis Jr. steps to the microphone on stage in front of thousands in Budapest, Hungary as part of the Billy Graham Crusade team or the pulpit of a small country church, it only takes moments to realize that within this man God has birthed a song—a unique song born from his personal experience and daily walk with Jesus Christ.

In July 1972 Dennis accepted an invitation from world-renowned Billy Graham to perform as guest soloist at the Cleveland Crusade. Since that time he has been a regular guest with many crusades recently returning from his 26th trip abroad. His tours have taken him to Africa, Brazil, Switzerland, Japan, India and the Philippines. Archie will soon be returning to the Royal Albert Hall in London for another engagement as well.

Henry Davis, a product of Howard University in Washington D.C. has been Archie's accompanist for six years and between tours has written some of Archie's best loved songs like "I Believe in God" and "You'll Never Be the Same Again."

Archie's sensitivity to the Spirit of the Lord has been evidenced in the response to this performance all around the world. At the Billy Graham crusade in October 1977 in Cincinnati, he received a standing ovation for "God Bless America."

Americans tally $300 billion credit card, loan debt

'Retrenchment' later in year feared result of nation's massive borrowing

By EILEEN ALT POWELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in history, Americans owe more than $300 billion for credit card and other installment loan purchases.

The $300 billion mark was passed in September as consumers increased their debt by a record $4.45 billion for the month, according to a report issued Tuesday by the Federal Reserve Board.

In fact, Americans at the end of September owed $303.9 billion on their bank, retail store and gasoline credit cards and for loans written on automobiles and mobile homes.

The statistics do not include the more than $750 billion that the nation's families owe for their homes.

Installment loans, excluding mortgages, passed the $200 billion mark in May 1977, government records show. They topped $100 billion for the first time in December 1969.

Economists have been watching the debt figures closely because some fear Americans are taking on more loans than they can handle. Others fear that heavy borrowing now will force retrenchment in future months, just the opposite of what would be needed to spur the economy should it fall into recession.

A Federal Reserve Board economist, who asked not to be identified, said consumers appeared able to handle the heavy debt load so far.

"Finance companies, which tend to be the first to feel problems, are not reporting unusual problems with delinquencies," the economist said. "And remember there are many more two-income families these days."

The new debt total resulted from record borrowing in September of $28.6 billion, up 3.8 percent from August. At the same time, Americans paid off $24.2 billion, which was not as much as the record $25.1 billion in installment loan payments in August, the Federal Reserve report showed.

Much of the new borrowing was related to auto loans, which rose 10 percent from August to September to $8.4 billion. September is a month in which many auto dealers offered rebates in an effort to spur sluggish car sales.

In other economic news Tuesday, President Carter's chief anti-inflation adviser, Alfred E. Kahn, said the president's prospects for re-election in 1980 may hinge on his administration's ability to slow inflation.

"If the president is defeated, I think it will be overwhelmingly because we have failed to bring inflation under control," Kahn said after a speech at the National Press Club.

Kahn also said he was not optimistic that inflation would drop below its double-digit rate in the near future.

"I now see that we are in a situation in which the price of energy could continue to increase in the months ahead at these incredible annual rates," he said.

The prices consumers pay for petroleum products have risen between 50 percent and 60 percent this year in the wake of higher prices charged for crude oil by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The increase in energy product prices has added at least 4 percentage points to the government's Consumer Price Index this year, Kahn said.

If crude oil prices rise as much next year as they did in 1979, it could push the nation's inflation rate above recent gains, he predicted. Prices currently are going up in excess of 13 percent, the worst inflation rate in more than three decades.

Meanwhile, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported that the effective interest rate on mortgages for new homes jumped to a record 11.18 percent in early October.

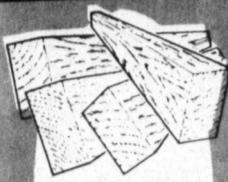

The increase from 11.02 in September marked the 24th consecutive month in which mortgage rates have risen, according to the bank board.

The report also showed that interest rates on mortgages for previously occupied homes rose from 11.2 percent in September to 11.3 percent in October.

And rates could go still higher in coming months because of action taken recently by the Federal Reserve to tighten credit, the board warned.

Sutter wins NL Cy Young

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Cubs reliever Bruce Sutter, who tied the National League record for saves with 37 last season, today was named winner of the NL Cy Young Award for 1979.

Sutter pitched for the Midland Cubs in 1974 and 1975 and his 14 saves in 1975 not only led the Texas League but were the key to the Cubs drive for a Texas League pennant.

Sutter, who came within one save of the major league record set by John Hiller of the Detroit Tigers in 1973, narrowly defeated 21-game winner Joe Niekro of the Houston Astros in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The forkingballing right-hander earned 10 of the 24 first-place ballots to become the second NL reliever and the third in baseball history to win the prize. Mike Marshall won it for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1974 and Sparky Lyle of the New York Yankees took the American League honor in 1977.

Sutter also received six second-place votes and four third-place votes for a total of 72 points, with five points awarded for first-place mention, three points for second and one for third.

Niekro was second with 66 points. Strikeout champion J.R. Richard of the Houston Astros was third with 41 points, followed by Tom Seaver of the Cincinnati Reds (20 points), Pittsburgh Pirates reliever Kent Tekulve (14 points) and Phil Niekro of the Atlanta Braves, who was sixth with three points.

Sutter appeared in 62 games for Chicago, compiling a 6-6 record and a 2.23 earned run average in 104 innings. He struck out 110 batters and walked only 32 in becoming the second member of the Cubs to win the Cy Young. Ferguson Jenkins won it for Chicago in 1971.

Joe Niekro earned nine first-place votes and Richard garnered four, with Tekulve collecting the other.

Joe Niekro, along with brother Phil, led the NL in victories. He had a 21-11 record in 38 starts with 11 complete games and a 3.00 ERA.

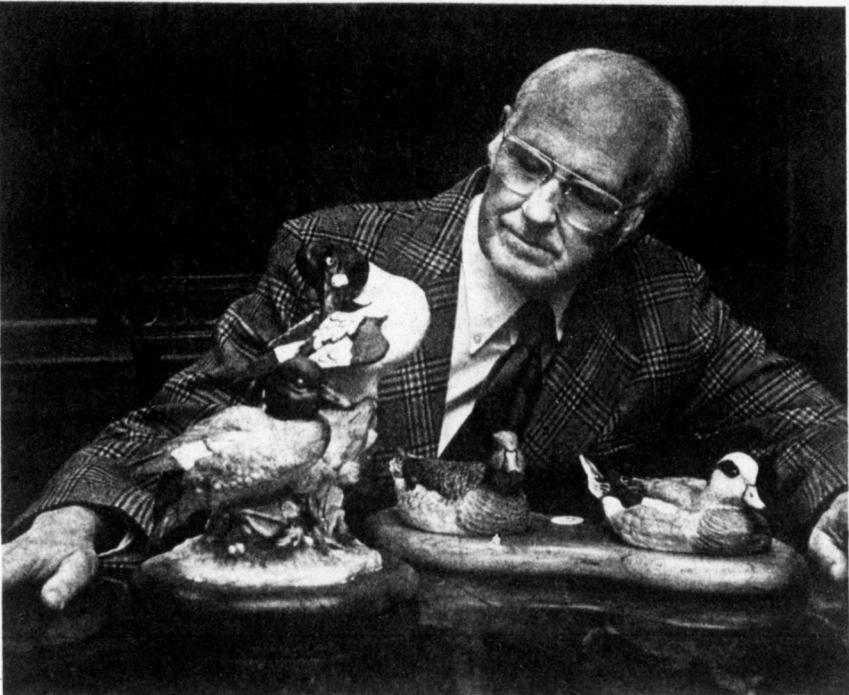

Richard led the NL in strikeouts with 313 while building an 18-13 record and finishing with an ERA of 2.71.

In 1977, Sutter amassed 31 saves to tie the club record set by Ted Abernathy in 1965 and his 1.35 ERA led NL hurlers who pitched 200 innings or more. He added 27 saves in 1978.

Sutter also had 10 saves in 52 games during the 1976 campaign — his first in the major leagues — giving him 104 saves in just under 3½ seasons with the Cubs.

DU auction slated tonight

A fund-raising dinner for Ducks Unlimited is scheduled for 8 p.m. today at the Petroleum Club. A social hour will precede the dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Highlight of the evening will be the auctioning of litographs, ceramics, a DU shotgun (Weatherly pump) and local donations by Midlanders. Eight-five per cent of the money raised will go toward maintaining wetlands, primarily in Canada, where the ducks feed, Tracy Clark, head of this year's program arrangements said. Last year the Midland DU chapter raised $14,000.

What's a rutgers?

Folks in Tennessee don't have to ask any more

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

On Saturday, before Rutgers' game against heavily favored Tennessee in Knoxville, Coach Frank Burns read his team the following from a local prediction column:

"People around here just don't know a lot about New Jersey and the East, and I guess I have been asked a hundred times this week, 'What are rutgers?' Some people seem to think that they are something like mathematics or physics. Others say that they always come in groups, and that it is impossible to find just one rutger by itself. One housewife told me that she bought a pound of them at the supermarket last week for 59 cents, but they must have been on sale because another lady said that she usually pays 89 cents a pound for them. This one man who has been up East told me that he doesn't know exactly what rutgers are but he's pretty sure that they are quite a bit like yonkers. Now if I just knew what yonkers were."

The folks in Tennessee still may not know that Yonkers is a city just north of New York, but they're fully aware that Rutgers is the State University of New Jersey.

You see, Rutgers was supposed to be a breather for Tennessee-between Alabama and Notre Dame, but instead Tennessee was a breather for Rutgers between William & Mary and Army. The score was Rutgers 13, Tennessee 7.

"It's the best win I've ever had in my coaching career," Burns concedes, "and it has to be somewhat of a help to our program. At least for one week people will think we can play with anyone."

The triumph was no fluke. Rutgers out-gained Tennessee — a team that led No. 1-ranked Alabama 17-0 two weeks earlier before losing — 388 yards to 257. Tennessee Coach

Johnny Majors called it "probably the most convincing whipping I've ever had a football team experience. We were fortunate we were not beaten worse on the scoreboard."

"A lot of things were on our side," Burns says. "We were roughly 20-point underdogs going against a great university which has one of the best football traditions in the United States before a great group of fans. I can't say enough about those people."

"A friend gave me some back copies of the Tennessee papers last week. There was a quote about how it was homecoming down there and Rutgers was supposed to be cannon fodder. It gave our team a little added incentive."

And then Burns takes a page from Joe Paterno's book and plugs Eastern football.

"It's another game that proves the East plays better football than it's given credit for. Army beating Stanford earlier in the season proved the same thing. The East is really fooled by other parts of the country saying how good they are."

NEBRASKA HAS not had a national champion since Bob Devaney's teams won consecutive titles in 1970-71. From his current vantage point as Nebraska's athletic director, Devaney can cast a discerning eye on the 1979 Cornhuskers, ranked second nationally with an 8-0 record.

He likes what he sees.

"To this point, they're every bit as good," Devaney says, comparing the present Cornhuskers to his powerhouses. "The season's not over yet and I wouldn't say they look any better than those '70-'71 clubs, but they look just as good."

Tulane Stadium doomed, but SWC helped make it famous

She stands alone, forlorn and neglected, in sometimes water-warped New Orleans, once the pride of the Deep South, now an eyesore soon to be ushered into oblivion with as much deliberate haste as possible.

The once Grand Dame will soon go the way of such historic sports landmarks as the Polo Grounds, Ebbets Field, Forbes Field and the rest to make room for progress, but the memories will linger on...they are all there from ecstatic happiness to end-of-the-world despair.

Once the cherished goal of the nation's football elite, Tulane Stadium, the world famous Sugar Bowl, has lingered on in semi-retirement the last five years, used only by high schools and small colleges, who have cavorted to the silence of 70,000 vacant seats where once holiday-mood throngs of 80,000 made it a sports mecca.

Tulane University played its home games there and will use the ground where once she stood for campus expansion and improvements, but, of course, it was as the Sugar Bowl that she gained her fame.

It began without fanfare, Tulane beating Temple, 20-14, in 1935, making it the third oldest of the major bowls. Whereas the Orange Bowl, started in 1933, struggled through its early years with then unknown Miami University against the likes of Buck-early recognition, it was also the SWC that gave the fledgling bowl prestige. In 1939, Davey O'Brien and TCU nailed down their national championship with a 15-7 win over then powerful Carnegie Tech. And a year later, Jarrin' John Kimbrough and Texas A&M made it back-to-back national titles for the SWC with a win over Tulane.

In 1946, Bob Fenimore's Oklahoma Aggies beat St. Mary's and Squirmin' Herman Wedemeyer, 33-13, a battle of All-Americans. Wedemeyer is now a regular on Hawaii 50 and one of Fenimore's teammates was Neill Armstrong, currently head coach of the Chicago Bears.

In 1947 Georgia spoiled New Year's Day for Charley "Choo Choo" Justice and North Carolina, 14-6, and in '48 Texas' Bobby Layne gunned down Harry Gilmer and Alabama, 27-7. This was where Bear Bryant's Kentucky team spoiled things for Bud Wilkinson and his unbeaten Sooners, 33-7, in 1951.

And in an otherwise unnoteworthy game, the color line was broken in 1956 when Pittsburgh brought a black player into the big saucer in the Bayou and the 7-0 loss to Georgia Tech was lost in the tension and controversy that proceeded that momentous occasion.

In 1959 LSU and Billy Cannon dominated.

Take one last look, the Sugar Bowl, historic past or no, isn't long for this world. (Photo by Ted Battles)

MHS seeks state tennis crown

Although the weather lately has been more conducive to football, the Midland High tennis team finds themselves ready to enter the state team tennis tournament, which Friday begins a two-day run in College Station.

The Bulldogs qualified for the 16-team field by finishing second to Abilene Cooper in the regional meet several weeks ago.

According to first-year Midland coach Cindy Hazen, the Bulldogs took some people by surprise at region.

"We were unseeded," said Hazen during a recent interview. "They didn't expect us to make the top four."

And, said Hazen, that's the way the Bulldogs will likely have to do it at College Station.

"Tough" and "real, real intense" were the words Hazen chose to describe the upcoming event. "We'll be doing great if we finish in the top four," she said.

Hazen openly admits the Bulldogs are young, inexperienced and lacking depth. Plus, there are no more Jeff Bramletts or Vicki Vasiceks, the superstars that often carried Midland High to success in this tournament.

Still, the underdog Bulldogs might be heard from.

There's no doubt people like Lance Armstrong and Richie Houdek can play. And on the distaff side, Karin Farquhar and Caroline Kirwan can hold their own with most.

But in a team tournament of this sort, depth is very important. So the likes of Vee Ann Atinipp, Monica Blair, Kris Farquhar, Renata Hasek, Charlene Bynum, Ted Schweinfurth, John Martin, Brent Burchard, Chris Nichols and David Bartus will have to be sharp.

Hazen admits as much, but adds a touch of optimism that no doubt was developed by the Bulldogs' showing at region.

"I knew we weren't expected to do much at region, but I felt like we could," she said. "If we all play really well (at state), I'm hoping we should make the top four. We can't go any way but up."

Holtz bristles over remarks

Mike Mosley, 6-2, 180-pound junior quarterback from Humble, won AP SWC Offensive Player of the Week honors after rushing 18 times for 65 yards, running one and 24 yards for scores and completing 10 of 15 passes as Texas A&M beat SMU, 47-14, Saturday...

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said that any SWC spokesman who comments on officiating should be accurate in his remarks. He was referring to Tom Turbillville, assistant SWC information director, who was asked about two controversial plays in Houston's 13-10 victory over Arkansas. Both plays occurred in Houston's fourth-quarter drive for the winning field goal and, on both occasions, the officials ruled that the Houston players did not fumble and Turbillville said he had heard other SWC officials say some calls that went against Arkansas in the Houston game were "close, but correct." Holtz said that reports made by SWC evaluators generally are private matters, "but if an individual is to go on the air and make a report on what the observer reported, then I certainly think that it should be accurate evaluation..."

Trojans win the close ones

By KEN PETERS AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Cal Coach John Robinson has been particularly pleased this season with the Trojans' ability to win close games, and he also considers that the strong point of his team's next foe.

"Washington is a very resourceful football team," Robinson said Tuesday at his weekly meeting with reporters. "They have that ability to compete in close games."

The fourth-ranked Trojans and 15th-rated Huskies clash in Seattle next Saturday, with the conference title and Rose Bowl berth the probable victor's spoils.

Southern Cal is atop the Pacific-10 standings with a 4-1 record and are 8-0-1 overall, while the Huskies are 4-1 and 7-2. Although both teams will have one more Pac-10 game remaining, Saturday's contest will probably decide the conference championship. Southern Cal could, however, make it to the Rose Bowl with a tie against the Huskies, then a victory over UCLA in the final regular-season game.

Robinson is expecting the worst from the weatherman in Seattle.

"Whatever it does, hail, sleet or snow, we've got to find a way to win," he said. "There isn't any key to the game; no one thing will decide it. It's a match of two teams who've shown they can win in a variety of ways."

The Trojans' last two trips to Seattle, in 1975 and 1977, game day was cold and rainy — and Washington won.

"I think the last time the sun was shining was when Southern Cal played up there was in 1917," Robinson quipped.

"But weather conditions, things that you have no control over, they're not that big a deal," he continued. "I don't think anybody can honestly say they lost a football game just because it rained."

Washington has lost star tailback Joe Steele to an injury, but Robinson said he doesn't believe it will affect think it will have that much effect on the Huskies.

Noll delighted with Steelers' progress

The Pittsburgh Steelers are flying high 10 weeks into the NFL season and stand up well to past Super Bowl championship clubs, according to Coach Chuck Noll. "I think this team, as it's moved into the season, has better concentration." The Steelers are first in scoring this season with 264 points and first in interceptions with 21. They have outscored the opposition 94-28 in the fourth quarter, when many games are settled. Sunday quarterback Terry Bradshaw hit 17 of 25 passes in the game. His four touchdown throws and his 311 passing yards were both regular season highs, a performance that rivaled only his Super Bowl XIII game last January when he passed for four touchdowns and 318 yards...

The prevent defenses is designed to stop the big play, but for the New York Giants all it prevented was a fifth straight victory Sunday against Dallas. "The prevent defense is designed to surrender the short yardage, kill the clock and keep people inbound with eight defenders in the coverage," explained Giants defensive coordinator Ralph Hawkins. It didn't work. Staubach hit Drew Pearson for 27 yards and Tony Dorsett took a screen pass 32 yards on the final drive. "We were trying to prevent the big pass play by putting eight people back," Coach Ray Perkins said. "By getting the extra guy back we were trying to make the big play or interception, which we have done."

NFL Report

New York used the prevent three weeks ago after Harry Carson returned a fumble for a touchdown in the last two minutes against Kansas City. The Chiefs then marched right back down the field on the Giants prevent but couldn't get in the end zone. Last week the prevent defense led to an interception against Los Angeles that iced the game. Most NFL coaches advocate the prevent, although it only seems to give the offense new life. "You want to bend but you don't want to break," safety Beasley Reece said. "Very few teams can drive 70-80 yards down the field. All I can give you is the theory..."

Cleveland Coach Sam Rutigliano says his players will have nobody to thank but themselves if they make it to the playoffs. The surprising Browns came from nine points down late in the fourth quarter Sunday to beat Philadelphia 24-19, raise their record to 7-3 and boost their hopes for their first postseason playoff berth since 1972. "Each game is going to get a little more pressure-packed. We're getting to the point where everybody is jockeying for position and very intense every time out..."

The Washington Redskins, losers the last two weeks, must remember they still are in the competition for a playoff spot in the NFC playoffs, says coach Jack Pardee. "The big thing now is that we got to realize what is taking place, in losing, we haven't lost any ground in our playoff chances. We have to realize that whether it is fortunate, or whether it was bound to happen, or whatever, we're still in good shape to accomplish what we set out the year to accomplish. We have six games left and there is no use dwelling on the past," he said, referring to the 38-7 loss to Pittsburgh Sunday.

Dallas leads the NFC East with a record of 8-2. The Redskins and Eagles are tied for second place at 6-4, while the New York Giants are 4-6. Pardee said he believes 10 victories will "just about guarantee" a playoff spot and nine victories "is very realistic" for making the playoffs...

Midland, Lee girls post wins

Midland High and Midland Lee both took straight set District 5-4A volleyball victories Tuesday night to set up the final game of the year between the two teams at Midland Lee Thursday.

Midland High raised its second half 5-4A record to 4-2 with a 15-6, 15-9 win over Abilene Cooper while Lee is now 1-5 after a 15-1, 17-15 victory over Abilene High.

In junior varsity action, Midland High's Bullpups took a strange 8-13, 8-6, 13-8 win over Cooper while Lee defeated Abilene High, 15-13, 14-12.

Thursday's Midland High-Lee matchup will start at 6 p.m.

Dallas faces tough 10 days

DALLAS (AP) — Now comes the hard part for the Dallas Cowboys: three games in a 10-day span. They play the Philadelphia Eagles Monday night, travel to Washington the next Sunday and play host to the Houston Oilers on Thanksgiving Day.

"That's quite a challenge because every game is a must game for the teams we play," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry Tuesday at his weekly press luncheon.

Landry said he is thankful for a two-game lead over Philadelphia and Washington in the National Conference Eastern Division, but said that can also work as a detriment. "Down deep, anytime you have a pad you don't work quite as hard," said Landry.

"That is human nature. "I've said before that the second half of the season will be tough. We'll have to battle every Sunday. Every game is a must game."

Dallas must play at Philadelphia and Washington and also play host to the New York Giants.

Landry said it was doubtful that halfback Preston Pearson would be available against the Eagles. Pearson missed Sunday's 16-14 victory over the New York Giants with knee and rib injuries and rookie Ron Springs stepped in to catch three passes.

"Preston is the most questionable injury we have," said Landry. "(Linebacker) Thomas Henderson should be back."

Shula isn't happy over schedule

MIAMI (AP) — Even in the National Football League's complex scheduling formula, it is almost impossible for a team to reach the playoffs without ever beating a team with a winning record.

That's why the Miami Dolphins no longer seem to be a leading playoff contender.

"That's been the biggest disappointment of the year," Coach Don Shula said Tuesday, referring to his 6-4 team's 0-3 record against winning teams.

"We felt we had an improved team over last year. But we haven't been able to make the big plays in the big games," he said.

Monday night's 9-6 loss to Houston dropped the Dolphins a game behind New England in the AFC East. It also damaged their chances of reaching the playoffs via the wild card route, as they did last year. They now are tied with Oakland for the seventh-best record in the American Football Conference.

"We have to beat the tough teams," Shula said. "In those games (Oakland, New England, Houston) we could have really helped ourselves in the standings."

Monday, rookie Uwe von Schamann hit field goals of 32 and 51 yards, and the defense was magnificent in the pressure-filled fourth quarter — three times stopping Houston cold.

"Last night was the biggest test for our defense because last year, Houston handed our defense (in 35-30 and 17-9 victories). "That could have been a glorious ending... if we made the plays offensively in the last two minutes, we could be sitting here very happy," Shula said.

Bob Griese was intercepted twice in the fourth quarter, the second time at the Houston 20, and halfback Gary Davis lost the second of his two fumbles near midfield. "I just can't blame the loss of the game on Bob Griese. We had some linemen break down on some assignments, penalties — they weren't as noticeable as Bob Griese throwing interceptions or Gary Davis fumbling," Shula said.

End of road for Sugar

Tom Clements passed to Robin Weber, the tight end from Dallas, to put the ball out near midfield, extracting the Irish from their perilous position. It was only the second catch Weber made all year.

But the game was soon to be switched to the downtown Superdome and the Sugar Bowl fell into disuse as a host for major spectacles and its days were numbered. Sometime this week, it becomes official. Tulane Stadium will be leveled, leaving the Superdome as the only place in town to play. We hope they aren't sorry. After the novelty wears off, who wants to go to the "gym" to watch a football game on a beautiful fall afternoon.

UIL shuffles W T prep districts

The University Interscholastic League's assignments for 1980-1981 will not alter the lineup of District 5-4A members, but other West Texas area leagues were juggled as the UIL created a Class 5A for schools with 1310 students or more. In District 6-A, an eight-team circuit was formed as Greenwood joined Rankin, Sanderson, Wink, Iraan, Balmorhea, Grandfalls-Royalty, Buena Vista in the new alignment. In Class AA, Reagan County lines up with Eldora,

Owls snarl chase in 9-A

Area standings

Table with columns for District, W, L, T, and various team names like Odessa Ector, Monahans, Pecos, Andrews, Fort Stockton.

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

The Reagan County Owls threw a monkey-wrench in the District 9-A machinery Friday night, leaving the area small school district in more upheaval than the turf, turbulence-ridden country of El Salvador.

Coach Melvin Burns' squad, of course, didn't use automatic weapons, explosives or other tools normally associated with a junta or coup d'etat.

Rather, the Owls utilized fullback Kent Burleson's fourth quarter 10-yard touchdown run to defeat previously-unbeaten Junction, 19-17, and toss the circuit into a four-way first place tie.

Reagan County, Junction, Mason and Eldorado all are at 2-1 with two weeks left in the title chase.

Similar situations exist in two other districts. In District 2-AAA, Odessa Ector, powered by their 26-6 blitz job of Andrews, and Monahans, bolstered by their 13-8 nod over Pecos, appear to be heading for a championship showdown. Ector, off this week, is 3-0 while Monahans, facing Andrews, is 2-0. If the Lobos defeat the Mustangs, it'll all come down to the Others. Other Friday action saw Seagraves (5-0) continue to play remarkable football in 5-A as the Eagles manhandled Forsan 52-0. Plains remained in second place with a 28-7 decision over Ropes while Stanton wallopped Anton 43-6 and Shallowater trimmed O'Donnell 15-14.

Nobody in District 3-AAA appears to have the stuff to challenge league-leader San Angelo Lake View. The Chiefs, dormant Friday, are at 2-0, the only unbeaten outfit. Snyder dropped Lamesa from the loop unbeaten with a 16-12 verdict while Brownfield copped their first circuit success, 21-18 over hapless Sweetwater.

District action began in 7-AA and Crane, with a 22-14 victory over Ozona and Kermit, with a 13-7 triumph over Sonora, nabbed the early lead.

Are Huskers better than '71?

(Continued from 1C) For those with short memories, the 1970 Cornhuskers were 11-0-1 and captured the national championship by defeating Louisiana State 17-12 in the Orange Bowl after Texas and Ohio State were knocked off earlier in the day in the Cotton and Rose Bowls, respectively.

A year later there was no doubt about it. Nebraska posted a 13-0 mark and swamped Alabama 38-6 in the Orange Bowl.

"Johnny Rodgers (the 1972 Heisman Trophy winner) probably had an edge on Kenny Brown at wingback, but Brown's not too far behind," says Devaney. "At quarterback, Jerry Tagge had a little edge on Tim Hager as a runner, but Hager is as good a passer.

"This team definitely has more running strength and depth at fullback and I-back. They have two or three I-backs they can interchange and about three fullbacks. We had a couple of fullbacks and one I-back (Jeff Kinney). The receivers are fairly close, although Junior Miller at tight end is more dangerous than our Jerry List.

A Fatal Good Habit

By Alfred Sheinwald

The woods are full of moralists who warn you against wicked habits. Only your favorite bridge guru will caution you against a good habit.

When dummy played low at the first trick East played the ten. Good teachers had taught him to do so, and he had made it his habit to play the ten in such a situation. It was a good habit, but it was fatal to the defense.

South took the queen of spades and led the nine of clubs for a finesse. East could take his king, but South was sure of ten tricks.

ONLY CHANCE

At the first trick East should see what was coming. The only real chance to defeat the contract was to take the ace of spades and return the ten of hearts. The defenders would get three hearts, a spade and a club.

Don't hold your breath waiting for your partner to see the right play in such situations. Just congratulate yourself if he has good habits.

House Texans evenly divided on heat subsidy, refugee aid

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 25 through Oct. 31.

HOUSE MONEY FOR HEAT — The House passed, 290 for and 105 against, a bill appropriating $1.35 billion to help the poor pay heating bills this winter. Added to $250 million already appropriated, the money will provide one-shot payments of up to $400 to poor families. Most of those benefiting will be welfare recipients on the rolls of Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI). The bill (HJR 430) was sent to the Senate.

Members voting "yea" favored the emergency aid program.

ROLL CALL REPORT

Reps. Charles Wilson, D-2; Bob Eckhardt, D-8; Jake Pickle, D-10; James Wright, D-12; Jack Hightower, D-13; Joe Wyatt, D-14; Kika de la Garza, D-15; Richard White, D-16; Mickey Leland, D-18; Henry Gonzalez, D-20; Abraham Kazen, D-23; and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "yea."

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1; James Collins, R-3; Ray Roberts, D-4; Jim Mattox, D-5; Phil Gramm, D-6; Bill Archer, R-7; J. Marvin Leath, D-11; Charles Stenholm, D-17; Kent Hance, D-19; Tom Loeffler, R-21; and Ron Paul, R-22 voted "nay."

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-9, did not vote.

INDOCHINA AID — By a vote of 301 for and 69 against, the House passed a bill authorizing $30 million immediately to feed starving Cambodians and about $205 million in each of the next two years to help bring Indochina refugees to the U.S. The bill (HR 4955) was sent to the Senate.

Members voting "nay" were opposed to the bill to aid starving Cambodians and Indochina refugees.

Mattox, Eckhardt, Pickle, Wright, Wyatt, de la Garza, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "yea."

Hall, Collins, Gramm, Archer, Leath, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler and Paul voted "nay."

Wilson, Roberts, Brooks and Hightower did not vote.

ENERGY MOBILIZATION BOARD — The House rejected, 56 for and 357 against, an amendment to make the new Energy Mobilization Board part of the Department of Energy (DOE) rather than a totally independent agency. The board is President Carter's proposed mechanism for speeding federal, state and local actions to ease the energy shortage. It will, for example, cut red tape slowing the construction of refineries and synthetic fuel plants.

The amendment was offered to HR 4585, later passed and sent to conference with the Senate. The bill creates the energy board over objections of those who see it as an infringement on states' rights and the environment. The attempt to locate the board within the Department of Energy was an effort to restrict its powers.

Members who voted "yea" wanted the new fast-track energy board located in the Department of Energy.

Eckhardt voted "yea."

Hall, Wilson, Collins, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Brooks, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Leland, Hance, Gonzalez, Paul, Kazen and Frost voted "nay."

Roberts and Pickle did not vote.

SENATE FEDERAL JUDGES — The Senate passed, 56 for Street being widened

Widening Big Spring Street between Texas and Wall avenues is being done by South Texas Construction Co. of Corpus Christi, according to an announcement by the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The contract for $59,000 went to the construction company with 30 working days allowed for the project.

The existing street, which is 56 feet wide, will be widened on the east side to provide for a 60-foot roadway. The project should eliminate a bottleneck by continuing the four traffic lanes and a continuous two-way left turn through this area, according to a department spokesman.

In addition to the widening, a cold planing machine will be used to correct blocked drainage along the west curb of Big Spring Street and the south curb line of West Wall Avenue.

Southwest passengers given chance to be heard on issue

DALLAS — Passengers on Southwest Airlines are being given the opportunity to be heard concerning the need for interstate service from Love Field in Dallas.

Flight attendants are offering passengers on all flights an opportunity to sign petitions, which will be forwarded to Washington, D.C., while ticket agents are making petitions available at the gate.

Sales representatives are asking people to sign the petitions on sales calls.

Last spring Southwest gained thousands of signatures from passengers and citizens of Texas and ultimately was granted the Dallas Love Field-

New Orleans route by the Civil Aeronautics Board. "Non-stop service began on Sept. 28, and we are now averaging over 60" passengers per flight," said Howard Putnam, president.

However, Southwest says that legislation was introduced recently by a congressman in the U.S. House of Representatives in which an amendment was attached to an airport financing bill that would prohibit Southwest Airlines and other airlines from using Love Field for interstate flight. The bill is being considered in the U.S. Senate.

"We know from past experience," Putnam said, "that the convenience of Love Field, the frequency and dependability of our service and our low fares are a great benefit to the citizens of Texas and now the citizens of Louisiana."

Supporters of Southwest's Love Field service are being asked to contact U.S. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, John Tower, Howard Cannon and Edward Kennedy prior to a joint meeting of the House and Senate Conference Committee.

Mummy masks popular

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Mummy masks bore little resemblance to their ancient Egyptian owners but helped the deceased gain special recognition, says a University of Michigan art professor.

Margaret Cool Root, curator of an exhibition of the burial artifacts at the university's Kelsey Museum, says the plaster masks attached to mummies identified the spirits of the dead as god-like to guarantee them privileged status in the hereafter.

The exhibition, titled "Faces of Immortality," runs through Feb. 17.

Activists to march

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Leftist activists grieving over the deaths of five of their comrades will be able to carry out their plans for a march Sunday, despite the suspension of parade permits by police.

"We don't prevent funeral processions. We never have," police chief William E. Swing said Tuesday. Meanwhile, 14 suspects charged in the killings of

Silver dollars and half dollars reported stolen

Assorted silver dollars and Kennedy half dollars Tuesday were reported burglarized from a residence at 2613-B Haynes St., according to Midland Police Department records.

The residence, occupied by James R. Leeton, was entered through a rear window, police reported. A dark brown trench coat valued at $250 was reported taken from a Tall City motel room, police said.

Jerry Hyde told police Tuesday that the full length trench coat was taken from his room at the Midland Inn, 3601 W. Wall St.

Doctors not only success tale

WASHINGTON (AP) — With increased temptations from other professions, becoming a doctor is no longer the only way for bright minority students to succeed, says former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young. And because of that, he says, medical school enrollment is declining.

Young said Tuesday that professions such as law and business are dipping into the pool of gifted minority students once reserved for medicine.

And if medicine wants to recoup the loss, it will have to change its image and get more involved in the health problems of the Third World, he told the annual meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

"It used to be that the only way to earn more than $25,000 a year was to go to medical school," Young said. "This is not true anymore."

Young said professions other than medicine have been quicker to see the value of using the cultural ties of U.S. minorities in increasingly important dealings with the rest of the world. Bankers, for example, need no encouragement in having Japanese-Americans dealing with Japan, Spanish-speaking natives representing them in Central and South America and American blacks doing business in Africa, he said.
