Rental housing 'in crisis,' congressional panel reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Severe problems in the rental housing market threaten a 30-year-old national goal of "a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family," congressional investigators report.

The General Accounting Office said rental housing, where 35 percent of American families live, is in a crisis that requires immediate attention from Congress and the administration.

Reagan thinks crisis 'avoidable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential contender Ronald Reagan said today he supported President Carter's actions in the Iranian crisis, but believes the administration should have done more last year to keep the Shah of Iran in power.

Without mentioning the name of any Iranian leader, the former California governor said, "There were certain leaders that could have been separated from their followers." He did not elaborate.

Reagan, 68, was asked whether his age should be an issue in the campaign. "The whole thing about the issue of my age will be resolved when people see I can go the distance," he replied.

Reagan announced his candidacy in New York Tuesday night in a speech taped for television in which he advocated statehood for Puerto Rico and called for transfer of many federal functions to state and local governments.

Reagan's entry brings to 10 the number of Republicans seeking the job. He then set out on a five-day, 12-city campaign swing through most of the early primary states.

A videotape of Reagan's speech was seen in most parts of the nation and the candidate delivered a live version to a packed hotel ballroom.

Both Reagan's call for granting Puerto Rico statehood and for transferring certain functions of the federal government to states and communities echo proposals voiced in 1976.

President Gerald R. Ford, the last Republican in the White House, proposed statehood for Puerto Rico shortly before leaving office.

Reagan now says: "I favor statehood for Puerto Rico, and if the people of Puerto Rico vote for statehood in their coming referendum, I would, as president, initiate the enabling legislation to make this a reality."

Reagan also advocated closer ties with Canada and Mexico, including establishment of a North American accord, and permitting officials of these neighboring governments to sit in on high-level U.S. policy sessions.

Government 'lacks confidence,' speaker tells Lamesa chamber

LAMESA — The bureaucratic government has turned "business into a lightning rod of criticism" because of its many bunglings and blind actions, W.G. "Bill" Marquardt, a Fort Worth electric energy executive and nuclear-power advocate, said here Tuesday night.

Marquardt, who came down on the government and its critics alike, spoke to 330 chamber boosters at the annual Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce banquet, which honored Lamesa's newest industry, Prophecy of Lamesa, a manufacturer of women's apparel.

But he said government, which, like business and politicians, increasingly is losing the confidence of the people, can make a turn-around to regain its credibility and shed criticism.

Meanwhile, the bureaucracy stumbles, and "government credibility has nose-dived," Marquardt said.

"People have lost faith in their government.... The people are skeptical. "Never mind that the right hand doesn't know what the left hand is doing," said Marquardt, president of Texas Electric Service Co. and the Texas Atomic Research Foundation.

"Neither one knows what it is reaching for...." But Marquardt admonished the American citizenry and the business community to "straighten out" their own problems before casting stones of guilt toward the government.

"The bureaucrats have gained control, and they are trying to wreck it, but we've got to be darn sure that our own house... (is in order) before we straighten out the government."

Marquardt nevertheless cited bureaucratic inconsistencies, such as: —Promoting anti-smoking campaigns, while President Jimmy Carter tells tobacco farmers what a great job they're doing.

—Inhibiting nuclear-power plant safety. "The government is so preoccupied with regulations... that they're becoming a negative factor in nuclear safety." He turned to the Three Mile Island nuclear-power accident. "We want safety," he said. But without nuclear-power and the implementation of coal to fuel power generators, "the lights simply will not stay on."

Though no instant panacea is at hand, Marquardt did suggest some positive action to improve the country's inner-workings and to get government out of free enterprise. —"Take the time, make the time, for careful reflection. Look for flaws and weaknesses...to (help) make government intervention totally unnecessary...if we clean up our own house... —"Avoid isolationism...meet with the troops."

—Put common sense in the bureaucracy by becoming "activists in the political arena."

—Monitor congressional and bureaucratic activities. "Take time to write your congressman."

—And Marquardt encouraged people to strive toward being "right proud" of their government "instead of poking fun at it. A lot of times, it's easier to take pot shots."

Before Marquardt's address, outgoing chamber president Richard Gentry recounted the year's accomplishments, including the Prophecy plant to supplement the cotton economy here and a "shop-Lamesa-first" campaign. And incoming president Dewayne Lee said he was looking forward to an "exciting year."

Carl Abady, president of the Dallas-based Prophecy, and chamber leader Dorothy Haney described some of Prophecy's fashions modeled by five Lamesa women. "We are very proud of the quality garment which we deliver to our accounts," Abady said. "We're delighted to be here (in Lamesa)," he said. "We're darn proud" of the plant. "We're here to stay."

In other activities, Gerry Brown was named recipient of the chamber's "Top Hand" award, and Benny Green was given the Top Hand consolation prize. Both are Lamesa policemen. Lamesa attorney Ray Renner emceed the event, which was "jazzed up" by Western swing music played by "The Drifters."

White says Clements can't transfer committee

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements had no authority to transfer the Governor's Committee on Aging to the Department of Community Affairs, says Attorney General Mark White.

However, White said in an opinion Tuesday Clements could appoint the executive director of the department as presiding officer of the Committee on Aging.

Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, chairman of the House Human Services Committee, asked for White's opinion, which has the force of law.

Clements advised the executive director of the Department of Community Affairs on Aug. 15 that he was transferring the committee to that agency "in the interest of greater efficiency."

His announcement said the functions and personnel of the committee, which was a separate agency under the governor's office, would be moved immediately to TDC headquarters. White said the committee was established in 1965 as an "independent entity" and was designated as the state agency to handle federal programs for the aging that are not the specific responsibility of another agency. In 1971, White said, TDC was created "to assist local governments in providing essential public services for their citizens in overcoming financial, social and environmental problems." He said the 1979 Legislature had failed to enact a bill naming the committee, along with a number of other agencies, as one "considered to be under the control of the governor."

Injuries claim Midland woman

Karin Welch, 21, 1601 1/2 W. Illinois Ave., died today in Midland Memorial Hospital of injuries received in a car accident Sunday.

Police reports indicated Ms. Welch was attempting to cross the street near an intersection in the 1500 block of W. Texas Avenue about 10:21 p.m. Sunday when the accident occurred.

The car involved in the accident was driven by Sharon Sue Brown, 1011 W. Kentucky Ave., police said. The victim had been in the intensive care unit of the hospital with head injuries, two broken legs, internal injuries and a broken pelvis. Services are pending.

Slight warming trend expected

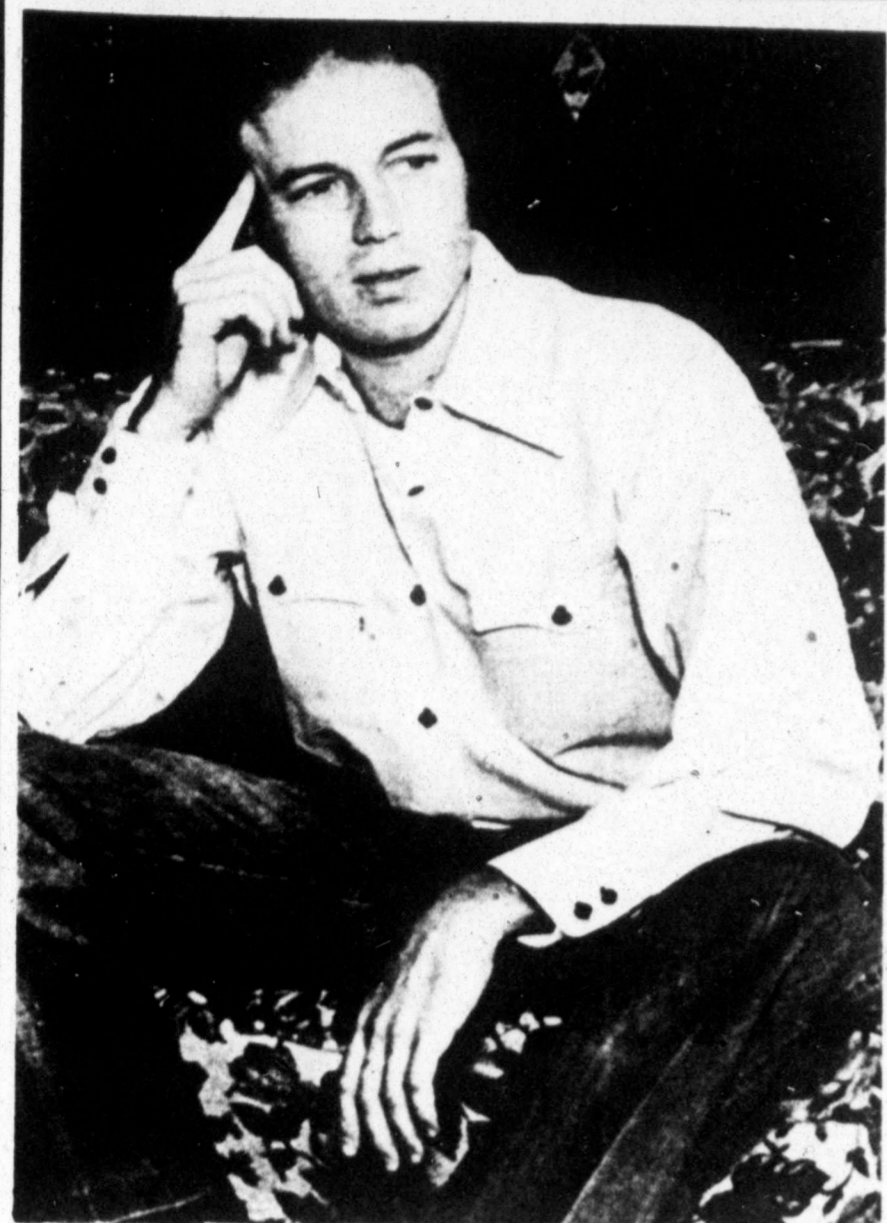

Temperatures should be slightly warmer Thursday, according to a spokesman at the National Weather Service, but don't turn off the electric blanket just yet. Low tonight is still expected to drop into the mid-30s while the high Thursday is expected to reach the mid-60s, according to the weatherman. The high Tuesday was 62 degrees and the overnight low was 31 degrees — well off the record 83 degrees set in 1973 and 13 degrees set in 1976. Winds tonight should be southerly 5 to 10 mph.

Kim King...he escaped from the U.S. Embassy in Iran.

'I didn't realize how lucky I was until I got out'

CLATSKANIE, Ore. (AP) — A man who says he is one of nine Americans who escaped from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran while it was being seized by Iranian students says he just walked away in the initial confusion of the siege.

"I didn't realize how lucky I was until I got out," says Kim King, who was in a building on the embassy compound trying to replace a lost visa on Nov. 4, when 98 persons were taken hostage. About 60 of them are Americans.

After three hours in which U.S. Marines fired tear gas and pushed away a man attempting to climb in a window, the crowd dispersed. King said he and eight other Americans walked out a door that opened onto the street.

"If we exited on the compound side, we would have been nailed," he said. The other Americans — one woman and seven men, including two Marines — probably are "lying low" in Tehran, he added.

King, 26, was interviewed by telephone Tuesday night from his parents' home in this northwestern Oregon town, where he arrived Sunday after stops in New York and Washington, D.C. He said he was debriefed in Washington by the FBI and State Department officials.

State Department officials contacted Tuesday by The Associated Press refused to confirm or deny King's story.

There is an "80 percent chance this thing will blow over without any problems or bloodshed," King maintained.

"The majority of the Iranians are sick about (the hostage-taking)," he said. "Ninety percent of the Iranians are not anti-American."

"I knew the situation at the embassy was symbolism. Away from the embassy on the street there was no problem at all," he explained. "There's no witch-hunt for foreigners."

King said he later went to Iranian customs, where an official provided him with exit papers after levying an $800 fine for over-staying his visa.

He caught a British Airways flight to London, then flew to New York where he was met by the FBI. King said he was flown at government expense to Washington, D.C., for a debriefing.

King said he had been in Iran about six months after a European tour that began in March. To earn money, he said, he took a job teaching Iranian businessmen conversational English.

Demonstrators in Texas fan anti-Iranian feeling

The Associated Press

Demonstrators across Texas fanned the fires of anti-Iranian sentiment, burning the Ayatollah Khomeini in effigy, staging a silent vigil for American hostages and threatening Iranian-American citizens.

Carrying placards reading "Iran is a four-letter word" and "Let's Play Cowboys and Iranians," demonstrators marched outside the Iranian Consulate for the fifth day Tuesday and burned the Ayatollah Khomeini in effigy.

In Beaumont, about 100 Lamar University students put on, white armbands Tuesday, vowing not to remove them until the Americans were freed by Iranian students.

The armbands bear the number "62" in red, the number of Americans believed held captive inside the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

And in Dallas, restaurant owner Abbas Bagheri said his family has been threatened and his two businesses vandalized since the Americans were taken hostage 10 days ago.

Bagheri said someone spray-painted "Kill the Iranians," "Iranians go home" and "The place is gonna burn" in 2-foot green letters outside his two plush establishments.

"I'm scared. I feel bad. I don't think I've done anything to deserve this," said the 41-year-old naturalized American. "I started in business and I worked real hard. I paid my dues."

Another naturalized Iranian-American, Said Nassar, said he neither "condemns nor condones" the situation in his native country.

"Deep down, I feel badly." But, he added, "At least I can go out in public without anybody being able to tell I am from Iran."

Munir Bayoud, head of the Arab League Information Center in Dallas, said he also has been threatened.

"They began attacking me at home during the weekend," he said of the telephone threats. "The Arab sources, including the Palestine Liberation Organization, are trying with their best efforts to settle the matter of the hostages. Therefore, we do not deserve any nasty calls."

Houston protest organizer J.D. Richardson said he was carrying a bullet-proof vest to Tuesday's demonstrations because of threats on his life.

Stronger steps urged by Texans

By The Associated Press

Business and congressional leaders in Texas have applauded President Carter's decision to halt Iranian oil imports and urged the White House to take stronger steps to insure the safe release of Americans hostages in Tehran.

Iranian students ordered to report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration says it expects American colleges and universities to cooperate with immigration officials seeking out Iranian students violating the terms of their visas.

Foreign nationals in this country on student visas are subject to deportation unless they are actually enrolled in school fulltime.

Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti issued a formal order Tuesday requiring an estimated 50,000 Iranian students to report to immigration officials within 30 days.

The students may report either to district offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service or immigration representatives on campuses before Dec. 14.

David W. Crosland, acting head of the INS, said that there have been "no negative responses" from any colleges.

Crosland said refusal to cooperate could result in the colleges losing their federal certification to accept any foreign students.

The administration decided to determine the status of Iranian students in response to the crisis in Iran, where students are holding at least 60 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Iranian students may be deported from the United States if they are not carrying a full course load or have not paid tuition through the current semester.

The Texas Wheat Producers Association, in a message to the president Tuesday, urged Carter to stop U.S. wheat exports to the Arab nation until Iranian students release the 60 Americans.

And in Washington, Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen said they have asked the president to halt military training of Iranian students in the United States and return them to their native country.

"The Texas Wheat Producers Association has strong policies against using food as a diplomatic weapon and food embargoes as an economic tool except in the case of national security," said Bill Nelson, executive vice president of TWPA.

However, "in so much as Texas and United States wheat has continued to be sold to Iran as a balance of payment medium to offset oil imports... Texas wheat producers... would support you in a decision to stop sales of wheat to Iran."

Tower said he wrote Defense Secretary Harold Brown, asking for a report on the training of Iranian students at American bases and any plans to change their status.

"Over a period of time, I have become increasingly concerned about training of Iranian students by the Department of Defense," the Republican senator said.

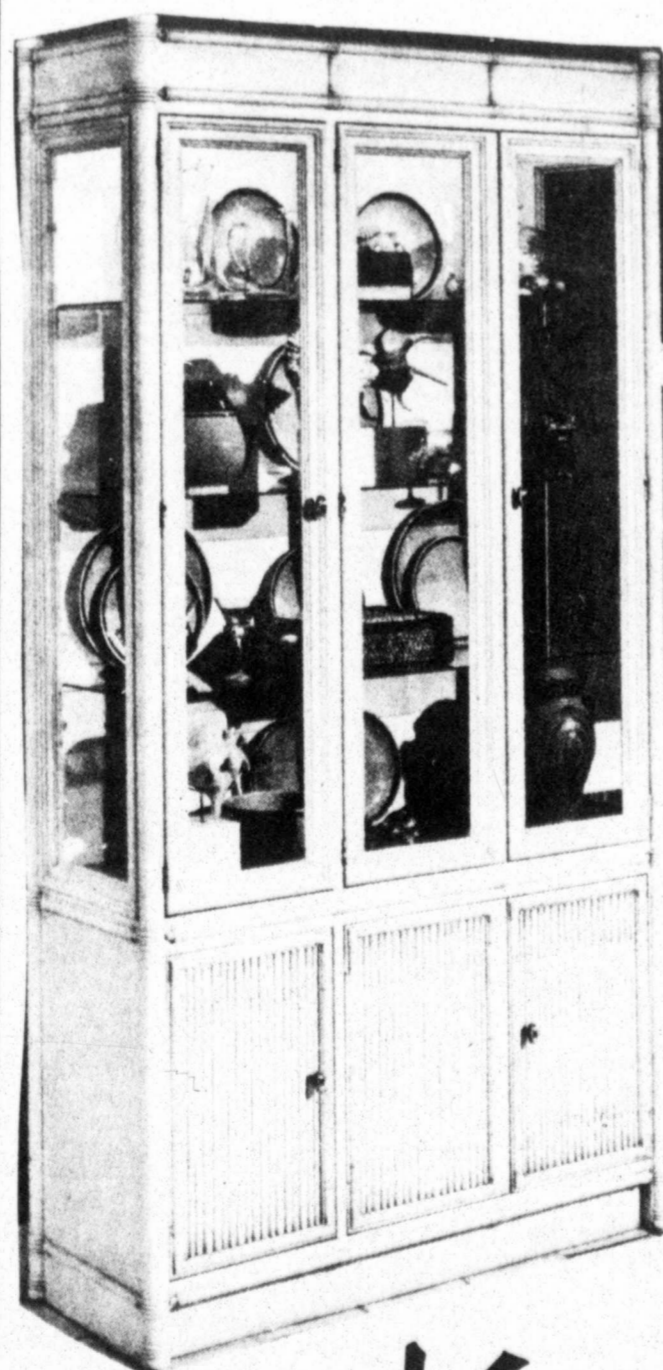

"With the current situation in Iran, it is my belief that a natural follow-on to the action by the president yesterday in cutting off our oil imports would be a cutting off of student training and return of the students to Iran."

Bentsen, a Democrat, also told a news conference Tuesday that he had asked the White House to halt the military training and to return the students and their dependents to Iran.

"There is absolutely no reason for us to continue to train fighter pilots... for a renegade government that is holding American diplomats hostage in Tehran," he said. "I have called on the administration to put a stop to this military training, to do it as quickly as possible and to send the trainees back to Iran."

School board eases requirements

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

Midland school trustees Tuesday agreed to lower graduation requirements for low achievers and use federal tax money to purchase an expensive computer assisted education pilot program.

They also heard a report that more than 45 percent of high school students are enrolled in vocational programs here.

The board agreed to allow students enrolled in the Coordinated Vocational-Academic Education program, a plan designed to keep potential dropouts in school through vocational programs, to substitute one year of CVAE in the ninth grade for one year of the two-year high school science requirement.

Students qualify for the CVAE program when they are working at least one year behind grade level in at least one course. About 30 students in each of the freshman schools are enrolled in the program, school officials said.

Before the change in policy, CVAE students postponed a year of science until the junior or senior year because of the two-hour CVAE block at the ninth grade when physical science usually is taken.

Because of the vocational programs they enroll in throughout high school, the students were allowed only two free electives in high school, school officials noted.

Trustee Joyce Sherrod asked the requirements be relaxed even more since the vocational student faced four required courses in the 10th grade.

"By the time the CVAE youngster gets to the 10th grade, he's been fairly well carried along. At the 10th grade, he faces nothing but solid subjects."

"By then, they're getting to be 16, and if they can't see that light at the end of the tunnel, they're going to quit. We lose many, many of them early," she said.

Students who do not follow the vocational track throughout high school will be required to make up the extra science requirement, according to Dr. Doug Brown, assistant superintendent.

Trustees also heard a report from Charles Thompson, vocational coordinator for the schools, that showed enrollment in all vocational programs was up 16 percent over last year.

A survey indicated almost 41 percent of students at Lee High School are enrolled in vocational classes, while 45.56 percent of those at Midland High School are in the vocational program. Those figures do not include students in industrial arts or business education programs, Thompson said.

Among his recommendations for the vocational program, Thompson suggested the CVAE horticulture program at Midland Freshman School be dropped next year until a suitable facility can be built.

A new greenhouse for the program was included in the $10.2 million school bond election turned down by voters Oct. 23. The program currently is housed in the Bunche Elementary School building.

He recommended the program be changed to a CVAE home and community services program or furniture repair and upholstery program so the facilities can be used more effectively.

Final recommendations on the plan will be presented later in the school year, trustees were told.

In other business, trustees agreed to apply for $25,000 to $28,000 to lease equipment for a computer-assisted education program in Alamo Junior High School. Title I funds for the program will be provided by the federal government.

Alamo is the only junior high school to qualify for Title I funds, and the use of federal tax money will give the district a chance to try out the program without committing local taxes to the expensive equipment, school officials said.

Trustees also agreed to work with the city parks and recreation department to use the San Jacinto Junior High School gym at a reduced cost for a men's industrial basketball league.

The city requested paying a flat $250 fee for use of the gym three hours per week through the 10 weeks of the program. The schools' regular non-commercial fee is $25 per hour, a $600 dollar difference over the 10 weeks.

School officials, however, agreed to rent the facility for "our absolute break-even cost" for the league. Major cost for the facility is for a custodian to oversee the gym for the three hours.

Armored van taken from bank

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A thief slipped into an unattended armored van parked in front of an Amarillo bank and drove off with about $100,000, authorities said.

The heist occurred Tuesday about 9 p.m. while a guard employed by Amarillo Security Control, Inc., was making a delivery at Amarillo National Bank, said Edwin Fitzhugh of the Amarillo Police Department.

Fitzhugh said the vehicle was left unattended for about three minutes. Neither the money nor the van have been recovered.

Authorities also believe the theft may be linked to a hit-and-run accident about six blocks from the scene of the robbery, Fitzhugh said.

To ski or not to ski...

In nearly anyone's book there are at least two essentials for snow skiing: snow and a hill.

Midland has neither but that hasn't stopped some die-hard "schussers" in the Tall City.

Flatlanders Ski Club, hosting its annual Dryland Ski School Nov. 17, is a collection of such people — people dedicated to dreams of a foot of fresh powder snow in a land of blowing sand.

They set up the Dryland Ski School to initiate novice skiers in equipment and basic skills of skiing before January finds them on the edge of a snowy precipice without a pole.

Set for 10 a.m. on the slopes of the northwest corner of Wadley-Barron Park, the Dryland Ski School is open to everyone. All equipment will be furnished by Ski Skeller of Midland.

Clements sets Midland visit

Governor Bill Clements will be in Midland Thursday night to deliver the keynote address at the annual "Executive Night" meeting of the Permian Basin Chapter of the Bank Administration Institute, Tony A. Martin, president of the Midland National Bank, announced Tuesday.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Midland Hilton, Martin said.

The governor will be accompanied by his wife, Rita. A local reception in their honor will follow the meeting.

House Texans oppose fixing welfare floor

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Nov. 1 through Nov. 7.

HOUSE

WELFARE BILL — The House passed, 222 for and 184 against, a bill making major changes in the federal-state welfare system, including the establishment of what amounts to a guaranteed minimum income for recipients of Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). The bill (HR 4504), estimated to cost the Treasury at least $3 billion annually, was sent to the Senate.

ROLL CALL REPORT

The minimum income would be achieved by setting a floor under what states can pay to AFDC recipients. Beginning in 1981, no state could pay less than 65 percent of the federal poverty level (today, 65 percent of the level is $4,700 for a family of four). Thirteen states, all in the South and Southwest, now have AFDC payments of less than 65 percent of the federal poverty level.

Members voting "yea" favored the bill.

Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-8, James Wright, D-12, Richard White, D-16, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Abraham Kazen, D-23, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "yea."

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-4, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, Jack Hightower, D-13, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Tom Loeffler, R-21, and Ron Paul, R-22, voted "nay."

Reps. J. Marvin Leath, D-11, Kika de la Garza, D-15, and Mickey Leland, D-18, did not vote.

NO WORK, NO WELFARE — The House voted, 200 for and 205 against, to reject a Republican substitute for the welfare bill (HR 4904; see previous vote). The GOP proposal would have allowed a work requirement for welfare recipients and provided states with block grants with which they could fashion their own welfare systems subject to certain federal controls.

Members voting "yea" favored the work requirement and block grant approach.

Hall, Wilson, Collins, Roberts, Gramm, Archer, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler and Paul voted "yea."
Mattox, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Wright, Hightower, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "nay."
Leath, de la Garza and Leland did not vote.

FRONT-DOOR GI BILL — The House adopted, 236 for and 115 against, an amendment to use the student loan program to attract better educated volunteers to the military. By entering certain fields of active or reserve duty, holders of student loans would have up to $1,000 (or 20 percent, whichever is higher) of their loan forgiven by the government. The amendment was attached to a bill (HR 5192) extending the Higher Education Act of 1965, passed and sent to the Senate.

Members voting "yea" favored the use of student loan forgiveness as an incentive to military service.

Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Eckhardt, Brooks, Leath, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Hance, Gonzalez, Loeffler, Kazen and Frost voted "yea."
Hall, Wilson, Collins, Pickle and Paul voted "nay."
Wright and Leland did not vote.

SENATE

AIRCRAFT CARRIER — The Senate rejected, 20 for and 72 against, an amendment to kill a $2.1 billion appropriation to build what will be the fifth nuclear-powered aircraft carrier in the U.S. fleet. This vote killed an amendment to delete funding for the Nimitz-class carrier. It came during debate on a defense appropriations bill (HR 5359) later passed and sent to conference with the House.

Senators voting "nay" wanted to build another nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.
Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted "nay."

'SYNFUEL' — The Senate rejected, 37 for and 57 against, an amendment to scale down a proposed synthetic fuels program. The vote left intact a plan to set up an Energy Security Corporation that would spend $20 billion to create a synthetic fuel industry through price supports, government purchase agreements, direct loans, loan guarantees, joint ventures with private firms and government ownership of production plants.

The amendment, offered to a bill (S 932) headed for final passage, would have substituted a less ambitious $3 billion plan administered by the Department of Energy and without direct loans, joint ventures or government-owned plants.

Senators voting "yea" favored a less extensive synfuel program.
Tower voted "yea."
Bentsen voted "nay."

NOW ACCOUNTS — By a vote of 37 for and 51 against, the Senate rejected an amendment preventing banks and savings and loans from paying interest on checking accounts without the approval of the states in which they operate. The amendment, proposed to a bill (HR 4986) permitting "NOW accounts" at federally chartered financial institutions, would have limited such accounts to states where state-chartered institutions could offer competitive services. Its effect would have been to slow the spread of interest-bearing checking accounts. The bill was passed and sent to conference with the House.

Most senators voting "nay" favored the nationwide spread of NOW accounts.
Bentsen voted "yea."
Tower voted "nay."

Dyslexia believed due to brain abnormalities

BOSTON (AP) — Researchers have found evidence that dyslexia, the learning disorder that affects the reading or writing of an estimated 10 to 15 million Americans, may be caused by abnormalities in the brain, it was reported Tuesday.

Neurologists examined the brain of a 20-year-old dyslexic man killed in an automobile accident and found "striking" abnormalities only in the section of his brain considered responsible for language function. The Boston Globe reported in Tuesday's editions.

"Dyslexia has been thought to be a psychology problem, but it is really a neurological abnormality," said Dr. Anthony Galaburda, who conducted the research with Dr. Thomas Kemper at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston.

"Our study shows for the first time there are actual differences in the anatomy of the brain of a dyslexic person."

Dyslexia most often manifests itself in reversed reading of words and letters, but it may also affect writing. It frequently affects children with above-average intelligence.

'Crib death' linked to brainstem study

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sudden infant death syndrome, the mysterious crib killer responsible for as many as 10,000 infant deaths each year in the United States, can be diagnosed and perhaps prevented, researchers say.

SID syndrome, also known as "crib death," is characterized by the sudden, unexpected death of seemingly healthy infants up to a year old.

Doctors say the syndrome may now be diagnosed and studied through a technique that reveals abnormalities in the brainstem, which is responsible for breathing and some other automatic functions.

In a report in the current issue of the Cleveland Clinic Quarterly, doctors report on application of the technique called Brainstem Auditory Evoked Potentials, or BAEP, to research on crib death.

The Cleveland Clinic doctors said the testing resulted from a theory that many infants who suffer episodes of severe breathing stoppages during sleep subsequently become crib death victims.

Studies have shown that many "near miss" babies, those revived by vigorous stimulation or mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, had certain abnormalities in their brainstems, doctors said.

"The BAEP test is to the brainstem what the EKG is to the heart and the EEG is to the rest of the brain," said Dr. James P. Orloski, assistant director of pediatric and surgical intensive care. "It looks at how the electrical activity in the brainstem reacts to a clicking stimulus."

The study presented 10 case results, and Orloski said 14 other infants have been studied since the report was released.

"To almost a perfect degree, the 24 'near miss' infants have shown abnormal results" on the BAEP test, the doctor said.

He said results of the clinic's research have been confirmed at other institutions. "We're really getting quite excited about it."

Orloski said it was hoped that by screening normal infants, "We may be able to predict potential SIDS victims."

The cause of SIDS and brainstem abnormalities is not yet clear, but Orloski theorized that it might be traced to an immature brainstem.

"Perhaps this is why the incidents of SIDS disappear after one year of age. The brainstem may have matured by that time," he said.

The clinic said treatments and therapies were being tested to try to correct brainstem abnormalities, "perhaps by speeding up the brainstem maturation process."

Universe only half as old as believed?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — An apparent mistake in a mathematical yardstick means that the universe is only half as old as previously thought and could upset many theories about the evolution of the cosmos, astronomers say.

The three scientists who discovered the discrepancy say the heavens are only 9 billion years old, not 15 billion to 18 billion years, the usually accepted belief.

The rule in question is Hubble's Constant, the number astronomers use to figure the distance between objects in space. One astronomer at Harvard and two in Arizona found that the constant, which is the ratio of speed to distance, should be almost twice as large as previously thought.

"If the Hubble Constant is about twice as big as it was thought to be in the past, that means that the age of the universe has dropped down to 9 billion years," said John P. Huchra, a staff member of the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics.

Furthermore, he said, "The distance to the furthest point in the universe is the velocity of light times the age of the universe. Since we have now scaled down the age of the universe by a factor of two, that means that everything is half as distant."

This information is apt to be upsetting to scientists who have used the 15 billion-year estimate to work out theories about the development of the spheres.

"There is going to be a lot of scrambling and trying to make sense of things if this result is correct," said George B. Field, head of the astrophysics center. "I think the first response of the scientific community will be to verify it and, frankly, to attack it and look at all the weaknesses in the argument."

Field, who says he tentatively accepts the researchers' conclusions, noted that some stars are currently believed to be as old as 15 billion years.

Anti-nuclear rally marks anniversary

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — About 80 persons gathered at Kerr Park in downtown Oklahoma City Tuesday evening to sing, chant, listen and light candles at an anti-nuclear rally on the fifth anniversary of the death of Karen Silkwood.

Dr. Micho Kaku of City College of New York was the featured speaker at the two-hour rally, sponsored by the Silkwood Memorial Committee.

It featured a sing-a-long led by Holly Near, poetry readings and a candle-lighting ceremony in memory of Ms. Silkwood.

Ms. Silkwood, a lab technician at Kerr McGee's Cimarron plutonium plant, died five years ago Tuesday night in a car crash near Crescent that her union contends was not an accident. She reportedly was taking documents outlining alleged safety violations at the plant to a union official and a New York Times reporter.

Dr. Kaku told newsmen at a press conference at the Will Rogers World Airport Tuesday afternoon that Ms. Silkwood's fight against the nuclear industry had become an example to other anti-nuclear protesters.

More nuclear physics professors are speaking out against nuclear power, Kaku said. Many are risking chances of losing tenure and chances of economic reprisals, he said.

Gas rate hike suspended by Railroad Commission

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission Monday suspended for 120 days a gas rate increase proposed by Southern Union Gas Co. in unincorporated areas near seven cities served by the company's distribution system.

Affected are areas around Monahans, Pecos, Pyote, Barstow, Thortonville, Wickette and Wink.

The suspension was ordered "so that the adjacent cities will have time to consider identical rates proposed by Southern Union for customers within the cities," the Railroad Commission reported.

The proposed rates would change a monthly gas bill of seven McF (1,000 cubic feet) from $15.39 to $18.19 per month.

The suspension begins Nov. 26, the effective date proposed for the rate increase.

"CITIZENS FOR REAGAN IN '80"

"Three years of the Carter Presidency has brought us the fall of Afghanistan, the give-away of the Panama Canal, the sell-out of Taiwan and the collapse of Iran.

As icing on the cake, we now face the prospect of a SALT II Treaty negotiated by the Carter Administration, which would virtually assure permanent Soviet nuclear superiority over the United States.

But we're not going to let that happen. We're not going to let this generation or future generations live in a world where the Soviet Union is the most powerful nation on earth.

We're not going to allow runaway inflation to turn frugal, hard working Americans into paupers.

And we're not going to let the vital quest for American energy independence be turned into a multi-billion dollar bureaucratic mess.

We can change the philosophy of leadership in this country because our current leadership has completely lost touch with the needs, the hopes and the desires of the American people."

"Citizens for Reagan in '80" is an independent campaign effort by a highly respected political action committee — Fund for a Conservative Majority.

Not bound by government restrictions which limit Reagan's campaign expenditures in each state, the Fund for a Conservative Majority can receive individual contributions of up to $5,000 per person each year.

FCM is actively working for the NOMINATION and ELECTION of Ronald Reagan and also helping to capture conservative control of the Senate in 1980.

After the nomination, "Citizens for Reagan in '80" will continue its political and fund raising activities to elect Ronald Reagan President of the United States.

Terry Bradshaw and JoJo Starbuck

Names in the News

PITTSBURGH (AP) — JoJo Starbuck forced her mother to stop smoking, told her husband, Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw, to chew tobacco only away from home, and now wants all of Pennsylvania to go cold turkey.

Miss Starbuck, four-year star of the Ice Capades and a two-time Olympic ice skating champion, is Pennsylvania chairwoman of Thursday's "Great American Smoke-Out" sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

As a non-smoker, she says she doesn't know firsthand what it's like to quit. But Miss Starbuck, 28, forced her mother to kick the habit by threatening to give up a blossoming skating career at age 18.

"Gross" is how Miss Starbuck describes her husband's tobacco-chewing. And about his cigar smoking, she says: "It's something I can't handle. But he doesn't do it around me."

The three-time Super Bowl winning quarterback got hooked on post-game victory cigars by Steeler owner Art Rooney, she says.

"Terry knows I don't like it. He doesn't do it at home though. Only at meetings at the stadium. That's been a big improvement."

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The son of the "Desert Fox" has become an honorary citizen of Cairo.

Manfred Rommel, son of Nazi Germany's Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, was made an honorary citizen of Cairo Tuesday during a meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Rommel, who is the mayor of Stuttgart, West Germany, arrived here Sunday to join representatives of the former warring nations to honor the dead of the Battle of El-Alamein.

His father lost his first major battle at El-Alamein to Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Bernard Montgomery 37 years ago. It was a turning point of the war.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dolly Parton says she thinks her bizarre appearance makes her look "like a '50s hooker."

But the singing star said she likes to think her outlandish style makes her look pretty.

Miss Parton, who is given to garish, figure-hugging clothes, 5-inch platform spikes, exaggerated cleavage and oversized synthetic wigs, said in the December issue of Ladies' Home Journal, "I know I look like a '50s hooker."

But she likes it. "If I saw somebody else in this outfit, I'd probably think, 'Good Lord, look at that gaudy awful lookin' person!' But I like to think I look pretty," she said.

Miss Parton commented, "If I wore the right amount of makeup, the right hairdo and simple, basic, beautiful clothes, why I'd just feel like a dishrag. I'd feel naked."

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Hartman and her husband, Tom, have been reunited again.

Louise Lasser, who starred in the television series "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," went backstage at Broadway's Ethel Barrymore Theater to see Greg Mullavey, who appears in the play "Romantic Comedy." Lasser played his wife in the television show.

Other dressing rooms at the theater were also busy Monday night when Ingrid Bergman stopped by to chat with Tony Perkins, who stars in the play, and Dinah Shore visited with Perkins' co-star, Mia Farrow.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — British actress Judy Carne, the "sock-it-to-me" girl on the "Laugh In" television series, has sued her ex-husband, contending his poor driving led to an accident in which she suffered a broken neck.

The accident occurred in June 1978 when the car in which Miss Carne was traveling crashed into a utility pole in Bucks County, said the U.S. District Court suit filed Tuesday.

Biker dead in shootout with officers

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — It all started innocently enough when Patrolman Michael Young stopped two youths Tuesday morning to question them about the orange, 10-speed bicycle they were riding.

Authorities said one youth suddenly pulled out a .357-caliber Magnum pistol. Then the shooting rocked the sedate residential street. When the midday drama was over three hours later, the gunman was dead and three officers were wounded, one critically.

A fourth officer escaped with only a bruise when a gunshot struck his bulletproof vest.

Javier Sanchez, 19, was gunned down by police SWAT team officers about noon Tuesday after he shot Young and later ambushed SWAT officers from the house in which he was hiding, officials said.

SWAT Sgt. Coy Boone, 34, remained in critical condition early today after being shot point-blank in the head and neck. Patrolman Oscar Gallo, 30, also a SWAT officer, was listed in satisfactory condition with a gunshot wound to the arm and Young, 25, was in fair condition with wounds in the left hand and left thigh.

The second youth, who fled when the shooting started, was still being sought today, police said.

The drama unfolded on the residential street about 200 yards from Wheatly High School, just south of downtown San Antonio. Wheatly's 1,900 students, who normally would have been flocking out of the school building for lunch, were kept inside the building as shots rang out outside.

Authorities said Young apparently wanted to question the two youths about the bicycle they were riding double when he stopped them about 10:15 a.m. Sanchez then allegedly shot Young twice and fled into the row of small frame houses.

The wounded officer was able to radio for help and the SWAT team was dispatched.

Police Inspector Marion Talbert said a search of one house turned up nothing. "Several" SWAT officers then approached the back door of a second house.

KMOL-TV film footage shows that Boone was tearing away the screen from the door when the gunman pushed aside a mattress, stuck the pistol through the door and began firing.

Talbert said the SWAT officers then gunned down Sanchez, who fell out the door.

Mayoral candidate blames cross-burning on kook, crank

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Black mayoral candidate W. Otis Higgs Jr. has dismissed the idea of Ku Klux Klan involvement in a cross-burning in his front yard, blaming the incident instead on "some kook or crank."

"I think it was some outsider — some person standing on the sidelines trying to take advantage of the political situation," Higgs said Tuesday, two days before he faces incumbent Wyeth Chandler in a run-off election.

The 42-year-old attorney and his wife were awakened early Tuesday by a rock crashing through their living room window. Higgs said he looked out the window and saw the flaming cross propped against a tree in the front yard.

Mrs. Higgs said she called the fire department and police. The couple's two children — Stephanie, 14, and Christopher, 6 — also were in the house. No one was injured.

Chandler blasted the incident as "childish behavior...not representative of Memphis."

"There are always a few rowdy individuals that take it upon themselves to try to play a role in every election," Chandler told City Council members during an executive session Tuesday.

Chandler asked the council to authorize a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the cross-burning. That idea was rejected, but the council did adopt a resolution which condemned the act as a "reckless display of lawlessness."

As a precautionary measure, Chandler said he directed Police Director E. Winslow Chapman to ask the FBI to begin around-the-clock surveillance of both candidates' houses and campaign headquarters. Police also will watch the houses and headquarters, the mayor said.

Chandler, 49, an attorney and former city councilman, is seeking a third term as mayor of Tennessee's largest city. He led a five-man field in the Oct. 4 election with 74,428 votes.

Higgs, who lost to Chandler by nearly 30,000 votes in the 1975 runoff, ran second to the mayor in October with 72,202 votes.

Burkhalter's ex-wife tells of abduction

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Until Tuesday, Laurita Hensley had not seen her ex-husband, Dr. Archie Burkhalter, since he allegedly kidnapped her Oct. 24, 1978, from her South Padre Island condominium.

She nervously avoided looking at him as she began testifying Tuesday in Burkhalter's attempted capital murder trial.

But she could not refrain from staring at the Pasadena, Texas, physician after testifying he once threatened to kill her husband, John Hensley.

Hensley was blinded when shot in the face Feb. 15 outside his condominium.

Burkhalter is charged with hiring two men to kill Hensley, who is a witness against the doctor in the alleged abduction.

She said Burkhalter came to her South Padre Island residence before she married Hensley.

City, nurses reach tentative agreement

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — Negotiators for the city and nurses at Quincy City Hospital today reached a tentative settlement expected to end a week-long sickout by nurses at the municipally owned facility.

The tentative agreement was reached shortly after 6 a.m. following 11 hours of bargaining, according to negotiators for both sides.

There was no immediate indication whether nurses would return to work before the ratification vote on the contract scheduled tonight. Details of the settlement were not released.

About half the hospital's registered nurses have participated in the protest. The hospital has continued to function, with a reduced number of admissions. The union represents 371 part-time and full-time nurses on the hospital staff.

Hospital officials estimate the labor dispute is costing the facility $30,000 a day because it has forced a curtailment of new admissions.

The 360-bed city-owned hospital diverted emergency cases to other institutions when the sickout started, and barred non-emergency cases. Emergency patients were admitted again to the hospital starting Sunday.

The nurses have worked without a contract since July 1978. Their salaries range from a minimum $234.75 a week to $286.68 after 10 years.

The city had offered a $5 weekly increase in January and another $5 in April. The nurses asked parity with pay raises of 6 percent to 10 percent they say have gone to nurses in nearby hospitals.

65 remain hospitalized in school 'poisoning'

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — Only 65 of the nearly 300 children and school employees stricken with vomiting, cramps and diarrhea after eating in a school cafeteria remained hospitalized today, officials said.

Most were expected to be sent home today. None was in critical condition. A bacteria apparently prompted the mass illness, medical authorities said.

A press conference was scheduled for this afternoon by state Health Department officials at which they were expected to announce the exact cause of the illness.

"It apparently was food poisoning and most likely a staph condition — contamination of food," said Dr. Julius La Croix Jr., one of the physicians who treated those hospitalized.

School was canceled again in Hugo today.

Individual Retirement Accounts at First Savings are the sure way to build for a secure retirement, and get a tax break at the same time.

If you're working for a company that does not have a retirement plan and you feel unprotected, then an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at First Savings is the thing for you.

With an IRA, you save for the future at the impressive current interest rate of 8% (effective annual yield 8.33%). Deduct whatever you save - up to $1500 - from your gross income, and defer every penny in taxes on your IRA until you withdraw it, normally after retiring. Then, you'll probably have less income and possibly be in a lower tax bracket.

(NOTE: There are severe penalties for withdrawals before age 59½.)

Here's an example of what an IRA can do for you. If you start an IRA at age 30, and deposit the maximum of $1500 per year until age 65, at the current interest rate, your IRA will be worth over $300,000. That's a tidy sum to start retirement, if you want to retire that young. By the way, your IRA is in addition to standard Social Security benefits. But remember, the deadline for starting or adding to your IRA is the date your taxes are due.

So stop by either First Savings office . . . downtown at 500 West Wall or San Miguel Square . . . and let the "FISCAL FITNESS PEOPLE" show you the sure way to save for retirement. It's getting later than you think . . .

President Carter wants to extend U.S. sanctions against Rhodesia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter wants to continue U.S. economic sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia while the contending factions in that country try to work out a peace settlement, administration officials say.

Under congressional statute, the sanctions would expire at midnight tonight unless Carter declares it in the national interest to maintain them.

Congress has the right to overturn Carter's decision by simple majority vote of both houses within 30 days, but administration officials said they believe Congress will agree to retain the sanctions as long as the London negotiations continue.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the main argument for keeping the sanctions is that no final solution to Zimbabwe Rhodesia's seven-year civil war has been reached at the London peace conference.

The Carter administration has tried to steer a neutral course in the Zimbabwe Rhodesian conflict, and one official said a move to end the sanctions would raise questions about U.S. impartiality.

"The most neutral thing we can do is not to lift the sanctions," he said.

The London talks, now more than two months old, have made substantial progress although the Patriotic Front guerrilla group and the government of Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa still have not worked out terms for a cease fire and for elections leading to independence.

With the 1980 presidential campaign getting underway, Carter's decision is likely to have political ramifications.

Many conservatives in Congress have supported an end to the sanctions since the biracial government took office last spring. But black leaders look on the Carter decision as a test of his commitment to black majority rule in southern Africa.

Randall Robinson, executive director of TransAfrica, a black group which tries to influence American policy toward Africa, said Tuesday he thinks the sanctions should be kept in place until after the transition period in Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Otherwise, he said, the United States might be accused of trying to favor Muzorewa and his white minority followers.

Secret defense committee decides to expel mayor from West Bank

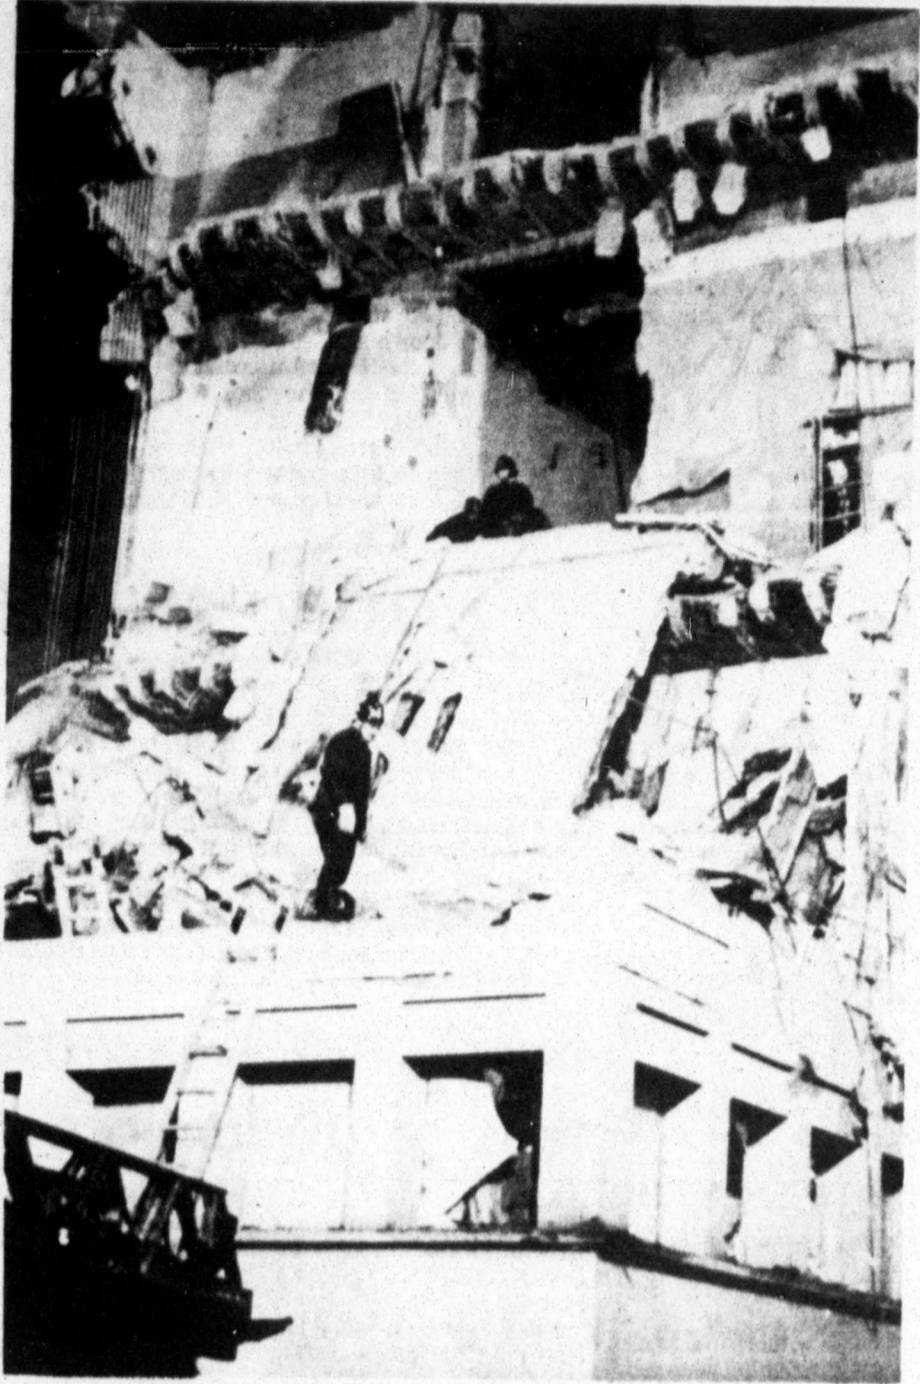

JERUSALEM (AP) — A committee of Israel's cabinet decided today to expel Nablus Mayor Bassam Shakaa from the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, the government announced.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's cabinet met as the secret ministerial defense committee to consider Shakaa's case, which left the government in a tough quandary.

If the firebrand Nablus mayor is expelled, the West Bank is expected to erupt in a spasm of anti-Israeli violence — an embarrassment while Israel is negotiating the terms of Palestinian autonomy with Egypt and the United States.

But the government would appear weak if it backed off from its earlier decision to banish Shakaa, who said he understood the motivation of Palestinian guerrillas who ambushed a busload of Israelis in March 1978, leaving 34 dead in the worst terror raid in Israel's history.

Authorities search through the rubble of a demolished wing of the city hospital in Parma, Italy, Tuesday after a gas explosion ripped through the building. ## Hope dims for more than 20 missing in explosion rubble

PARMA, Italy (AP) — Workers today rescued three women buried more than half a day in tons of rubble from an explosion that demolished a wing of the city hospital. Hope dimmed for about 20 others missing. Seven bodies had been recovered.

Police said one of the women, Angiolina Bedotti, was in good condition; the second, Erminia Bigi, was in serious condition, and the third, 77, who had undergone surgery before the blast, was close to death. She was not identified. Firemen working under spotlights in driving rain and occasional snow removed each of the women from piles of debris after hearing faint cries of "help us, help us."

Cranes were brought in to remove concrete pillars from the mass of masonry, beds and hospital equipment.

The missing included three nurses, patients and relatives who were visiting them.

The cause of the explosion had not been determined. Investigators said it may have resulted from leaks of oxygen or other medical gases or from a malfunction in a high-pressure machine used to sterilize surgical equipment.

Elsa Righi said she was feeding her daughter soup when she heard "a sharp hissing sound followed by an explosion. Then it seemed like the end of the world."

Hospital officials said there were 1,650 patients, an unknown number of visitors and 800 staff members in the hospital at the time of the blast. Police Chief Enrico Toldo said it sounded "like a huge bomb."

The explosion ripped through four floors in one wing of the E-shaped hospital, demolishing the third-floor operating room where two open-heart operations had been performed minutes before. The wreckage crashed down into the intensive care ward on the ground floor.

"Flames shot out of the building," said a nurse, "the walls seemed to expand and then collapsed."

Man charged in decade-old slaying

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — A former Haverhill man is undergoing a psychiatric examination today after being charged in the decade-old sex strangulation of a 13-year-old Boxford girl.

Charles E. Pierce, 58, pleaded innocent Tuesday in Essex Superior Court to charges of murder and assault with intent to rape in the death of Michelle Wilson, who was taking a bicycle ride on Nov. 22, 1969 when she disappeared.

The court ordered the examination before further proceedings.

The police said the girl's family now lives in Texas where her father, Donald Wilson, is a financial adviser to the Dallas Cowboys.

Pierce had been taken into custody over the weekend in Tampa, Fla., and is being held without bail in the Essex County House of Correction in Salem.

Assistant District Attorney Bob Weiner said Pierce was secretly indicted by an Essex County grand jury last June. The case was developed from a tip from Florida authorities, Weiner said.

Pierce had been convicted of indecent assault on several teen-age girls in Florida and faced a 10-year prison sentence, according to the Essex County District Attorney's office.

A divorced father of two, Pierce was described by police as a former Haverhill restaurant cook and occasional carnival worker.

The Wilson girl's partially clad body was found in a ditch a day after she disappeared 10 years ago. Police said she had been sexually molested, beaten and strangled.

The body was found about three miles from her home after a search by some 250 neighbors, volunteers, police and firefighters.

On the afternoon of her disappearance, she had left home on her blue bicycle, accompanied by a girlfriend.

His bodyguard was killed instantly when a grenade fragment hit him in the head.

The attack occurred as Ambassador Ephraim Eldar's car drove up to the Israeli chancellery shortly before 10 a.m. Police said the 55-year-old ambassador was saved by staying in the car, but a bullet broke a bone in his right forearm and another wounded him in the thigh.

Eldar, who also suffered shrapnel wounds along the right side of his body, was listed in satisfactory condition after undergoing surgery at Lisbon's Santa Maria Hospital.

The radio quoted the caller as saying the group was opposed to "capitalism and imperialism as represented by Zionists." The caller pledged other, unspecified attacks.

Police, meanwhile, set up checkpoints on border crossings, airports and maritime departure points on orders of Prime Minister Maria de Lourdes Pintasilgo and said they were looking for two men in a white car. They did not elaborate.

Unknowns claim ambush

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — An unknown anti-Zionist group claimed responsibility for a grenade and sub-machine-gun ambush that wounded Israel's ambassador to Portugal, killed his bodyguard, and injured three other persons.

Portuguese national radio said a group calling itself the International Militant Workers telephoned and claimed responsibility for Tuesday's attack.

The radio quoted the caller as saying the group was opposed to "capitalism and imperialism as represented by Zionists." The caller pledged other, unspecified attacks.

R-E-L-I-E-F needs more study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television commercials do not lend themselves to the kind of detailed health warnings the government is considering requiring for non-prescription antacids, a federal official says.

James P. Greenan, presiding officer of the Federal Trade Commission's inquiry into the matter, issued a report Monday rebuffing advocates of the proposed requirement.

Without saying the inquiry should be stopped, Greenan's 187-page report said the subject "needs more study." The inquiry was started in April 1976.

The issue is whether the warnings required on labels for over-the-counter antacids also should be required in advertising. Greenan said most of the ads are on television and would not not easily accommodate the warnings.

The warnings apply to consumers who should not use certain antacids, including those with kidney disease, those on salt-restricted diets and

Service club talks bylaws

Altrusa Club of Midland, Inc., held its November meeting in the Midland Hilton, with a Thanksgiving theme used in table decorations.

The bylaws committee was in charge of the program, and Jolly Schram, chairman, was introduced by vice president Elizabeth Grimm.

"As an ex-school teacher, my theory is 'when in doubt, test,'" said Ms. Schram. She presented a true or false program on the club's bylaws that involved the members.

Anne Kendall, chairman of Altrusa information committee, announced that an orientation-initiation for new members to be held at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 29 at her home, 2702-B N. Pecos St. Myrtle Bearden, club president, emphasized the importance of all members attending, as well as those to be oriented. "This can be used as a makeup meeting for those who have missed regular club meetings," said Ms. Bearden.

Mary Alice Tidwell, District Nine treasurer, presented the club with an American flag, which will be used at all club meetings.

Guests welcomed were Pam Roden, Anita Blackford, Jackie Ehrlich, Betty Gillespie and Margie Allen.

The club's next meeting will be a Christmas party to be held beginning at 7 p.m. Dec. 18 at Ranchiand Hills Country Club. The hospitality committee, chaired by Ann Hicks, will be in charge of arrangements and the program. Members are urged to bring guests.

those with allergies to milk. The ads now usually contain only the statement, "Use only as directed."

Advocates of the requiring the advertising caution say consumers learn more about the products through frequent television ads than they do by reading labels. For that reason, they say, the warnings should be used in ads.

Greenan noted that the warnings apply to small groups of the population. Warnings broadcast to everyone could cause those who could benefit from antacids to avoid them, he said.

There are "significant questions concerning how and under what circumstances disclosures of medical information directed to specific risk subgroups of the population are appropriately made in mass media advertising," he said.

Antacids are drugs used for treating "heartburn" and "acid indigestion." According to testimony at the FTC hearings, nearly 50 percent of Americans use over-the-counter antacids.

Greenan's report will be followed by another from the FTC staff. The reports will be used by the five commissioners in deciding whether to issue a rule. That decision is not expected before mid-1980.

Midlanders join nation in the Great American Smokeout

"Several Midland businesses are joining the nation's smokers in giving up cigarettes for 24 hours Thursday, the day of the Great American Smokeout.

Those who have encouraged their employees to make the pledge are Arco, KRIG Radio, Pioneer Natural Gas, and several of the banks, according to David Floyd, local chairman of the Smokeout.

"Several school employees have also made their pledge," he added. "KRIG employees are donating to the American Cancer Society the money that they would ordinarily spend on cigarettes," said Floyd. This is the radio station's third year to participate in the event.

Surgeon General Dr. Julius B. Richmond has urged the nation's smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours Thursday.

"More than 30 million American men and women have quit smoking cigarettes since 1964 when the Surgeon General's Report linked cigarette smoking with lung cancer, heart disease, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema.

"Solid scientific evidence has shown that smokers are sick more often and die earlier than nonsmokers. Last year, more than 5 million Americans stopped smoking for just one day — the Great American Smokeout — and many were still not smoking one month later.

"This year again, you have a chance with millions of others to stop smoking for just one day to show your desire to quit and in recognition of the health risks of smoking. On Thursday, the American Cancer Society is sponsoring the Great American Smokeout to encourage you to show your determination to quit for one day in the hope that you will quit for good," he said.

Texas Governor William P. Clements has also designated Thursday as the day of the Great American Smokeout in Texas.

"The past two year's demonstration of success suggests that the Great American Smokeout, while light-hearted in approach, has potential for improving the health of the people of this state," he said.

"Today, 15 years after the first Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health, the reasons for quitting are even stronger than they were in 1964. The evidence of the health risks of smoking is now overwhelming," said Surgeon General Richmond.

"We now know that smoking has grave health implications for women — especially pregnant women and teenagers. Smoking habits that are started during the teenage years shape a lifelong habit of cigarette consumption. Smoking during pregnancy has significant adverse effects on the health of the unborn child," he said.

"As Surgeon General and as Honorary Chairman of the Great American Smokeout, I urge all Americans to take part in the Great American Smokeout and make Thursday the first day that you find the willpower to join the growing number of Americans who have quit smoking."

AT WIT'S END

Fathers and the empty nest

By ERMA BOMBECK

I read an interesting study the other morning that stated more and more fathers are experiencing the "empty nest" syndrome.

"We are living in a time of house husbands, father images, and husbands who share the burden of child raising," the survey said. "It's not uncommon for fathers to be depressed, and feel empty and restless when their children leave home."

"That," I said putting down the paper, "is a bunch of horsefeathers."

"I don't think it's horsefeathers at all," said my husband. "What you're saying is that I don't share the same love and concern for our children that you do. Why, I miss all four of them."

"We only had three" I amended.

"Are you sure? No matter. There isn't a day goes by that I don't think back on the good times we had as a family. Remember that wonderful summer we camped on the Atlantic Ocean and dug for clams? We all sat around the campfire and ate them like popcorn."

"It wasn't the Atlantic Ocean. It was Lake Larvae and it WAS popcorn because you couldn't find where the clams hid."

"Whatever. I really miss those kids. There were a lot of fun times and a lot of trying times. I miss those, too. Remember when our second-born came to me and said, 'Dad, will you teach me how to drive?'"

"I'll never forget it. You sent him to the Kamikaze Driving School and it set us back $175."

"Gosh, those were good times—the broken legs—the broken skulls—the million and one emergencies that are parenthood."

"You never showed up for an emergency in your life!"

"But I called! Didn't I call?"

"Look, I know you love your children, but somehow men just don't get as involved in the lives of their children as mothers do."

He stood up stiffly. "I'm going to tell you something I've never told you before. I don't know why. Maybe I'm so macho I didn't want you to think I was weak or soft, but when my little girl walked out that door and said, 'Bye, Dad,' something in me died. I remembered the little po-nytail and how we were always looking for rubber bands on doorknobs, little dolls crumpling underfoot, grape bubble-gum kisses and that wonderful feeling when she threw her arms around my neck and said, 'I love you, Daddy.' You never knew the pain when she left. If you did, you never showed it."

"I never showed it because she never left it. She's still at home."

He was silent a minute. Then he said, "Are you sure?"

Newborn quads named

DENVER (AP) — Quadruplets born to Forrest and Marty Garrison, a week old, are "doing just super" and have all been named.

The boy, Forrest Jr., was named immediately after birth.

"Baby A will be Brittany Morgan, Baby C is Emily Nicole and Baby D is Jessica Ann," Garrison said this week from St. Joseph Hospital where his wife and the quads are staying.

The quads were delivered Wednesday by Caesarian section four to six weeks premature.

"They're doing just super, real well," Garrison said. He said doctors estimate mother and the quads will all be home within two to four weeks.

"And three of them are so healthy it wouldn't surprise me if they were earlier," Garrison said.

Retired woman general testifies for combat women

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired woman Air Force general testified today that women can fly combat planes and serve on combat ships but aren't strong enough for ground combat.

Retired Maj. Gen. Jeanne M. Holm told the House military personnel subcommittee that women can be trained to stand the strain of combat as well as men.

She said women also can handle combat jobs that require skill rather than muscle.

But she said, "I have a great deal of difficulty with women serving in ground combat."

major war, women would probably be needed primarily for the traditional jobs of nursing and clerical work.

"I know that people say women should be taken out of the traditional jobs," she said. "But clerical work is where the need is."

During the Vietnam war, secretaries were in such short supply that the military hired civilians for the work, Gen. Holm said.

She said the need for nurses is so great that they were very nearly drafted near the end of World War II.

The retired general also said good commanders can prevent high pregnancy rates in units with men and women.

She said there are two needs: practical sex education on how to deal with the situation and high morale.

Low morale causes high pregnancy rates because "that is a woman's way of escaping. Men turn to drugs and drinking," Gen. Holm said.

She said there is some harassment of women in the military but that also can be avoided by a commander working with his or her subordinates to keep up morale or work out problems.

"The No. 1 concern is physical strength," Gen. Holm testified. "Every member of a ground combat team must support the team equally to come out with a minimum of casualties."

She said there are women who are strong enough for ground combat but "they are a tiny minority."

The retired general was lead-off witness at the subcommittee's hearings on the role of women in combat.

She said women specifically could be combat pilots, serve on combat ships, launch missiles and, possibly, handle some artillery jobs.

But she said that in a

'Texas Trees' program topic

IRAAN — The Mildred Parker Garden Club's guest speaker recently was Mrs. Bruce Johnson of Loraine and a member of the Colorado City Garden Club. She presented a program on "Texas Trees" and illustrated her talk with her sketched trees native to Texas.

Mrs. Johnson, a master flower show judge, has given programs on various phases of arranging, especially kinetic arrangements and landscape design.

A salad luncheon was served, with Mrs. J.E. Coles and Mrs. M.P. McBee as hostesses. Out-of-city guests were Mrs. J.B. Hilliard, Mrs. R.B. Cain, Mrs. J.L. Taylor and Mrs. Lynn Halbert of Colorado City.

The meeting and luncheon was served in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church here.

DEAR ABBY

Buy-a-bride: $25,000 down

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I'm a 24-year-old woman with an important decision to make. I met a very wealthy man who wants to marry me. He bet me $25,000 to $1 that I would NOT marry him before Christmas Day, 1979!

titled to only $1 million. His family gets the rest. Also, if HE wants out of the marriage, HE will pay me $10,000 for every month I've lived with him. But if I want out, I get nothing. In the meantime, he agrees to provide me with a car of my choice, all the clothes I want, and $1,000 a month pocket money.

chance that the gift was NOT received. I work in the department of the post office where packages are undeliverable because the address a) has "fallen" off or b) has become smudged and cannot be read or c) is incomplete, wrong or illegible. ## Pomegranates are real taste thrill

Copley News Service

The pomegranate - did you ever eat a pomegranate out of hand? If you can peel it, and get into the pulpy mass of seed without getting all of that bright red juice all over yourself, you're in for a real taste treat! With the pomegranate, you just eat the seeds along with that juicy red membrane that surrounds each seed.

Pomegranate juice is a basic ingredient in making grenadine, and it's leatherlike skin houses one of the most versatile fruits that exist.

Use the fruit juice over bland-looking cut-up canned fruits, and if you want to make pink lemonade, this is the fruit to do it with.

Have yourselves a taste thrill, with pomegranates.

Handicapped drivers battle for lowered insurance rates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A deaf insurance man from Houston says the way many motorists drive these days they might as well be deaf.

Carey Shaw told the State Board of Insurance Monday deaf drivers learn to be more careful than other drivers. His comments came as the board began two days of hearings into the problems faced by the handicapped when they try to get insurance.

"Hearing drivers cannot hear with the windows closed and when they turn on the air conditioner and the radio," said Shaw, who told the board he has been in the insurance business for 50 years.

He also told the board he has evidence of insurance companies refusing coverage to deaf drivers.

Dr. Michael Moore, acting executive director of the Texas Commission for the Deaf, agreed that not being able to hear may not be much of a handicap to driving.

"What difference does it make? If the radio is on full-blast and the windows are rolled up (drivers with no hearing problems) can be just as deaf," he said. "Research has shown deaf drivers are just as good risks as any normal, able-bodied, red-blooded American."

The board heard from witnesses with various disabilities. Many said they had trouble getting insurance and pay high rates.

An engineer for the Texas Transportation Institute told the board studies show handicapped drivers are not more of a risk on the highway. "There is no evidence these folks can't drive as well as you and I... and sometimes much better," Roger Koppa said.

Koppa said several states report better driving records for handicapped persons than for non-handicapped motorists. He also cited studies that have shown handicapped drivers are involved in more accidents.

He said a New York study failed to take into account that many handicapped persons live in New York City — where accident rates are higher for all drivers.

Koppa said a Texas study showed handicapped drivers received "significantly" fewer tickets.

Roby Dollar, an actuary for several Texas insurance companies, said the firms are willing to work with the board to help the handicapped. However, Dollar said equal rates for all applicants would be unfair. Dollar said such a system "would discriminate against the better risks, who are in the majority."

A woman crippled by cerebral palsy — but healthy otherwise throughout her life — told the board she could only get insurance by joining a travel club with a group plan.

A San Antonio woman told of her bout with a mild form of epilepsy. An insurance company refused to put her on a group plan despite a doctor's letter that said her life would not be affected by the disease. She later took out an individual policy at a high rate.

"I never knew I had a handicap until I applied for insurance," Linda Taylor said.

Everybody wants 'Bama for Bowl

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Every bowl wants Alabama ... and every bowl could be disappointed. In all the guessing over which bowl Alabama will go to, no one seems to realize it's possible for the Crimson Tide to be shut out of a bowl.
A lot of things are possible in the wild and crazy bowl picture, much of which should fall into place Saturday if Georgia, a four-time loser, beats Auburn and becomes the Southeastern Conference's representative in the Sugar Bowl.
That would free the Orange and Cotton Bowls to invite No. 1-ranked Alabama. The Crimson Tide probably would favor Miami over Dallas since the Big Eight, whose champion hosts the Orange Bowl, currently has a higher ranked team than the Southwest Conference, which sends its champ to the Cotton Bowl.

MORE ABOUT that later. What if Auburn beats Georgia? The Sugar Bowl would then have to wait for the Alabama-Auburn game Dec. 1. If Alabama wins or ties that one, the Tide goes to New Orleans. But should Auburn — which is on probation and can't go to a bowl — win that one, too, Georgia would back into the Sugar Bowl and Alabama would back into Tuscaloosa. All the other bowls would be filled by that late date and Alabama would have to stay at home.

Now, let's say that Georgia beats Auburn. Would you believe the following conversation come Saturday evening?
"Coach Bryant, how about coming to the Orange Bowl to face the Nebraska-Oklahoma winner?"
"Aww, hay-ull, we ain't worth a damn jes' 'cause we edged Miami 35-0. That ol' Howard Schnellenberger outcoached me every way known to man. But if y'all really want us, tell ya what ah'll do. Ah'll poll my seniors Sunday mornin' and see if they want to play in Miami."
"Sorry, Coach, we've got to know now or we'll invite Florida State."
"Decisions, decisions."
"I wouldn't mind asking them to wait a day, or even a week," Bear Bryant said Tuesday, "but I don't think they'd do it."

AS USUAL, bowls, schools and conferences have been breaking the no-contact-before-Nov. 17 rule left and right and some teams are signed, sealed and delivered. But many of the commitments are contingent on victories, not only this weekend but also down the line.
The Rose Bowl is the only game not holding its breath. Southern California will be the host team for the 10th time in 14 years and either Ohio State or Michigan will be the Big Ten's representative for the 12th year in a row. Ohio State will go if it beats or ties Michigan on Saturday ... or if Purdue beats Indiana. Don't ask why; just believe it.

IF ... IF ... IF. That's what it all comes down to.
If Alabama and Ohio State and Nebraska and Southern Cal and Texas and Arkansas ... and Georgia ... keep winning, the four major bowls probably will look like this:
Orange — Alabama vs. Nebraska. Rose — Ohio State vs. Southern Cal. Cotton — Arkansas vs. Oklahoma. Sugar — Georgia vs. Texas.
But don't be surprised to see some changes, depending on the results of the next few weeks. All bowls have alternatives.
THE WORD is that the Sugar and Cotton Bowls have agreed to split Texas and Arkansas. But if Texas loses one of its last three games — don't forget the Longhorns must face Baylor and Texas A&M — and the SWC ends in a Houston-Arkansas tie, the Cotton Bowl could get Houston ... and Arkansas could get shut out of a major-major bowl with a 10-1 record.

Midland High's Repman seeks berth at state

LUBBOCK — Donna Repman will be carrying the colors of Midland High here Saturday in the Region I AAAA girls cross country meet, and she is hoping to earn a state berth in Austin.
The Region meet will be held Saturday morning at Mae Simmons Park, and the top two team entries and top five individuals will earn state berths.
Repman earned the right to enter the regionals after winning the District 5-4A cross country title last weekend in San Angelo where she wiped out the field. However, things will not be as easy here with the likes of El Paso's Patsy Norman in the field.
Norman is a near legend in Texas high school cross country ranks. She is a two-time state champion already and will be seeking her third title as a junior this year.

Repman faced Norman this year in the Tall City Invitational run at Hogan Park. "She beat me by about 15 seconds in that meet," Repman remembers. "She is a very good runner and it will really take something to beat her."
Repman has run the Mae Simmons course before this year, placing second.
Donna has put in a lot of workout time and miles preparing for the regional meet. She runs five miles in the morning before school and three miles in the afternoon. "I guess I have been running for 45 minutes to an hour in the morning and another 35 minutes after school," she stated.

Tech's Robin Wohlman shot a 76-76-152 for medal honors while while MC was led by Maria Haasch's 83 on the final day. Other scores for the Chaps, finishing up their fall schedule, were Debra Kargett, 86; Wendy Goodwin, 87; Cheryl Buntun, 87;

Sheryl Guthrie, 90.
MCC Partnership golf scheduled for Saturday
The Midland Country Club will hold a two-man partnership low ball golf tournament for members Saturday.
The tournament will be a one-day event. Members wishing to enter should call or sign up at the club pro shop.

Are Willie, Keith really MVP?

By BERT ROSENTHAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Both Willie Stargell, the 38-year-old wonder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and young Keith Hernandez of the St. Louis Cardinals said they were satisfied with sharing the National League's Most Valuable Player Award for the 1979 season.
But did either one really deserve it outright or not at all?
According to the 24-man voting committee — two from each of the NL's 12 cities — of the Baseball Writers Association of America, there was no separating the two players in total points. In the balloting, announced Tuesday, each received 216 points.
However, the breakdown in the voting was quite curious. Stargell received 10 first-place votes, three seconds, four thirds, one fourth and two sixths. But what is difficult to comprehend is that four writers completely ignored him, meaning they did not think he was even among the 10 most valuable players in the league.
Hernandez, on the other hand, was the only player named on all 24 ballots, collecting only four firsts, but eight seconds, seven thirds, two fourths and three fifths.

STATISTICALLY, THE 26-year-old Hernandez far outshone Stargell, except in home runs. The Cardinals' first baseman played in all but one of his team's 162 games, led the NL in batting with a .344 average, in doubles with 48 and in runs scored with 116, was second in hits with 210, tied for third in game-winning hits with 16 and fifth in runs batted in with 105. He also hit 11 triples and 11 home runs in 610 at-bats.
Stargell, used judiciously by Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, appeared in 126 games, had 424 at-bats, 60 runs scored, 119 hits, 19 doubles, no triples, 32 homers, 82 RBI and batted .281.

But the Pirates won the NL East Division championship, and Stargell, affectionately nicknamed "Pops," was their inspirational leader and their key man down the stretch when they held off the Montreal Expos. St. Louis finished third, 12 games behind Pittsburgh.
Not coincidentally, the four writers who failed to recognize Stargell on their ballots — Mike Littwin of the Los Angeles Times, Tim Tucker of the Atlanta Journal, Kenny Hand of the Houston Post and Harry Shattuck of the Houston Chronicle — all covered Western Division teams and did not see the Pirates' slugger play after Aug. 29.
Littwin, Tucker and Hand all thought the Pirates had a more valuable player than Stargell. Littwin's choice was relief ace Kent Tekulve. Tucker's selection was center fielder Omar Moreno, and Hand preferred right fielder Dave Parker. Shattuck was not available for comment.

"I TOOK GREAT CARE in writing my ballot and decided that Stargell driving in 82 runs while batting fourth for that team would not put him in the top 10," said Littwin. "I thought Kent Tekulve was the most valuable player on the Pirates because they came around when he came around."
"I think without Moreno, the Pirates never would have won their division," explained Tucker. "And if you think Moreno is the most valuable player, then you can't vote for Stargell for most valuable player."
"In my opinion, Dave Parker was the Pirates' most valuable player," said Hand, who said that he was visibly miffed that his name was publicly revealed. "He had better stats (statistics than Stargell)."

Hand admitted, however, that statistics can be misleading. "If you went by stats, Joe Niekro (the Houston Astros' right-hander) should have been the Cy Young winner." Instead, Chicago's Bruce Sutter, a six-game winner with 37 saves, edged Niekro, a 21-game winner, for the Cy Young Award as the league's outstanding pitcher.
With the vote so divided — eight players received at least one first-place vote and a total of 28 players were nominated — many questions arise, including: Should there be voting for only first place instead of spreading the balloting out to the top 10?; How much weight should be applied to statistics and how much to other factors?; Should there be a most valuable player for the East Division and another for the West in each league?
Also, since this was the first time in the 49-year history of the prestigious award that the voting ended in a tie for first, how do you split up the honor?

"WHAT ARE WE GOING to do, break it in half?" asked the happy Stargell, who had finished a close second in the voting to both Joe Torre in 1971 and to Pete Rose in 1973.
Kidding aside, the two-time bridesmaid, the hero of the Pirates' NL playoff and World Series triumphs, said he did not think he would be named MVP this time in the balloting based on regular-season performances.
"I thought it would go to the guys who played every day," confessed Stargell, the captain of the Pirates and considered a sentimental choice by some observers this year. "I'm happy for myself and I am happy for Hernandez ... I know what kind of a player he is."

Asked about the four writers who overlooked him, Stargell said politely, "I don't want to get into the negative side of it."

Keith Hernandez

Willie Stargell

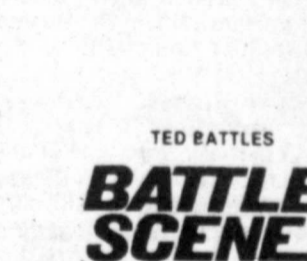

"I'm glad we could share it," said the slick-fielding Hernandez. "I figured the sentiment was with Willie and he's deserving. I thought I'd finish second or third. I felt the year I had was deserving of an MVP, but Willie had a great year too, and he's the leader of that ballclub."
"The fact that it's a tie makes it all the better, because Willie's a great man and it's an honor just for me to have my name next to his."

Outfielder Dave Winfield of the San Diego Padres finished third with 155 points, followed by third basemen Larry Parrish of the Montreal Expos (128) and Ray Knight of the Cincinnati Reds (82). Parker, last year's MVP, was 10th this time.

It's time to ask, What's wrong with Cowboys?

It wouldn't be football season, at least not in Dallas, if the campaign didn't reach that exasperating stage when one fan turns to another with tears in his eyes and pleads, "What's wrong with the Cowboys?"
It has become almost as much of a ritual as summer camp or the national anthem before kickoff ... or the annual trip to the Super Bowl.
It's a question even the Cowboys ask and sometimes answer, like halfback Tony Dorsett did after Monday's 31-21 end-of-the-world loss to Philadelphia when he disillusioned a lot of believers who might never have suspected.
"We're human. We're not infallible. We're gonna make mistakes," blasphemed the one-time Heisman Trophy winner from Pittsburgh who next will admit he doesn't run on water.
"It's like baseball, you have slumps and we're in one now, but we'll come out of it."
Although Dallas fans have come to expect victory over Philadelphia as guaranteed in the pact signed in the City of Brotherly Love back in 1976, it really wasn't, you know, although Dallas fans can't be blamed for thinking it was. After all, when you are 19-2 against an opponent, there's a tendency to take them for granted, no matter how much Tom Landry may wring his hands with worry.
Tony's worry is that the Cowboys are being plagued by "inconsistency" and he defies anyone to say the Cowboys weren't ready to play Monday night against the Eagles. "We just got behind on turnovers. The offense was pretty good. We were trying to get the rushing game going, but when we fell behind, we had to use some other means to try to catch up."

Review of the Eagles' victory prompts one to wonder whether the Eagles could have pulled it off without the help of Dallas' mistake-prone specialty teams.
The first Eagles' touchdown came after Philadelphia twice had to relinquish the ball on kicks, a punt and missed field goal, both were wiped out by penalties which gave the Eagles a second chance. The Eagles got the ball in the first place when Dallas, ahead 7-0, drove menacingly toward the Philadelphia goal when Dorsett lost a fumble, something which hadn't happened in eight games, believe it or not.
Roger Staubach and Tony Hill wouldn't allow such generosity to go unrewarded and neither did Ron Jaworski and Harold Carmichael.
Then, Steve Wilson fumbled a punt return and John Walton seized the opportunity to whistle a 29-yard touchdown pass to Charles Smith while acting as a fillin for Jaworski, temporarily hors de combat.
Unfortunately, Danny White, a backup for Staubach in the late stages of the first half, didn't have the same luck trying to find a needle in an Eagle defensive haystack. And even Coach Landry was second-guessing himself for not accepting a penalty on the previous play when Tony Franklin, the rookie from Texas A&M, booted a 59-yard field goal. Tom later admitted, he didn't think Franklin could kick one from that far away ... no one else ever had against Dallas.
The last 10 points came in the fading moments of the half and made it 17-7. It was to climb to 24-7 before things got better, thanks no little to 83 yards on six punt returns by John Sciarra, who also had a 54-yard erased by a penalty. What really hurts is that Sciarra doesn't do this for a living. He was merely filling in for injured Wally Henry.
As Landry noted in the wake of disaster, "If your opponent plays errorless football, then you have to match them or get beat," which is something the Cowboys obviously weren't doing Monday.
Most fans counted the Cowboys out when they failed to exploit an opportunity at the Eagles' 37 with five minutes into the final period, leaving the stadium in droves. What they missed was a frantic comeback in which Dallas shaved the lead to 24-21 before Wilbur Montgomery finally nailed it down with a 37-yard run with 1:01 left, set up as Dallas gambled desperately for victory.
And early departing fans might have missed the most dramatic comeback since that memorable game against San Francisco back in the early 1970s if a controversial call had gone the Cowboys' way when Jaworski was trapped on his five, fumbled and the ball was picked up on a run into the end zone, a sequence seemingly backed up by instant replay which showed Jaworski was not down when he fumbled.
Referee Gene Barth's official explanation was that the quarterback was in the grasp of the "first player. At that point, under the rule, play is dead. You blow the whistle to protect the quarterback. I did not see the ball come loose until the second player hit the quarterback."

Seagraves wins 5-A, but rest of titles up for grabs

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

Seagraves captured their seventh consecutive District 5-A football crown Friday night, but several other districts remained closely contested. The Eagles bopped Stanton 35-19 to run their district mark to 6-0 and their overall ledger to 9-0 in earning the 5-A crown. In other 5-A action, Shallowater upset Plains 20-7 while O'Donnell handed Forsan 20-7 and Ropes blanked Anton 14-0. Meanwhile, Rankin's 3-0 upset loss to Marfa enabled McCamey, a 30-0 winner over Clint, to take a giant step toward the District 6-A title. However, McCamey and Rankin battle this Friday in McCamey, and the Red Devils aren't out of the championship picture yet. In District 9-A, Reagan County's hopes of loop crown were dashed by Mason as the Punchers branded the Owls 20-7, dropping the Big Lake bunch to 2-2 in the circuit while Mason and Junction, a 16-14 winner against Eldorado, each improved to 3-1. One other 9-A clash saw Wall trim Menard 14-6.

San Angelo Lake View put the wraps on the District 3-AAA crown with a 34-6 thumping of Sweetwater. The Chiefs are 3-0 in district and 8-1 overall. The other 3-AAA affair saw Brownfield humble Lamesa 14-12. In District 2-AAA, Andrews gained a little pride with their 14-7 upset of title-contender Monahans. The Lobos, however, will play for the loop crown Saturday night when they travel to Odessa for a matchup with the undefeated Ector Eagles. Pecos, also playing for pride, nudged Fort Stockton 16-13. There's one heckuva mess in District 7-AA where three teams — Crane, Kermit and Sonora — have championship potential. Kermit went to 2-0 Friday with a 35-0 blitz of Ozona while Sonora shamed Crane 14-6 in a whale of a contest. The Golden Cranes must beat Kermit Friday for any title threat.

Ex-Army coach finds Divinity load heavy

BOSTON (AP) — The workload is rugged, the money's running low, and Homer Smith — the former Army football coach — is thinking about getting a job.

"I'm accepting donations," jokes the 48-year-old Smith. He is about to complete his first year as a graduate student at Harvard's Divinity School. But to Smith, fired by West Point brass the Monday after Army's loss to Navy last season, his financial situation is no laughing matter. He may have to return to work "to restock the pantry. I'm facing some financial facts of life."

The money he had set aside for his master's degree in theological studies is disappearing faster than expected. Not that any colleges are likely to jump at the chance to hire the former Princeton star as a coach. When Smith left West Point, he unloaded charges of recruiting violations against Army. The NCAA still is investigating.

Smith says he occasionally hears from former coaching colleagues but hasn't had any feelers from administrators seeking football messiahs.

Meantime, Smith says he's enjoyed his year at Harvard. He lives with wife Kathryn in a Cambridge, Mass., apartment and is working on a hard-to-explain project with which "I want to earn my living."

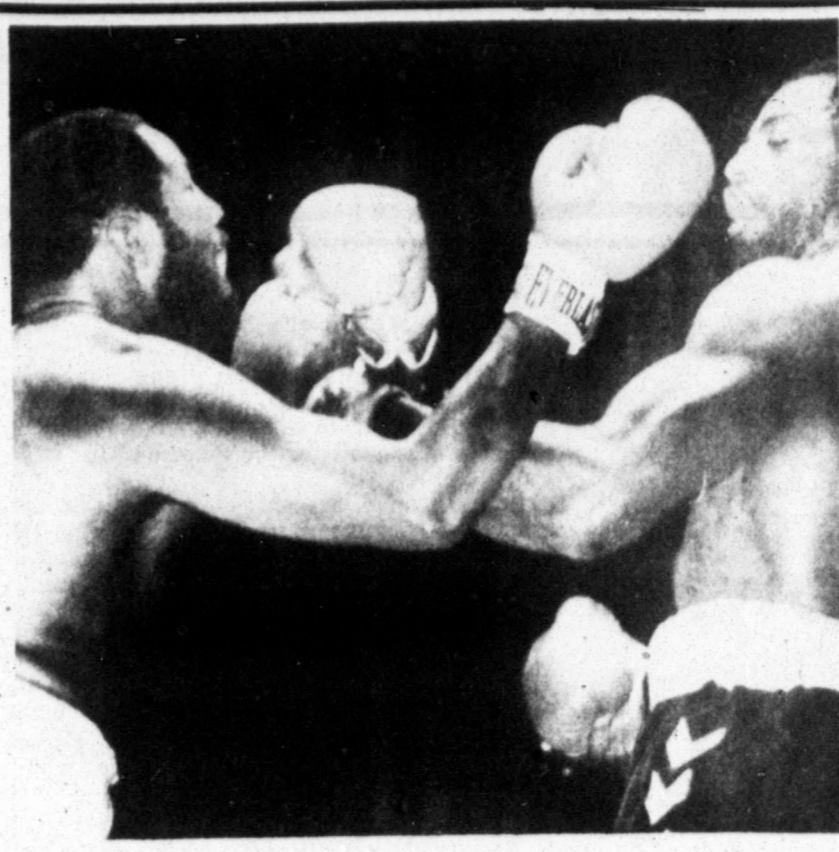

international academic offering that would require students of many nations to exchange solutions to world problems — to "describe harmony 20 years from now." Smith has trouble explaining just how this could be parlayed into a career.

"I love football no less than I ever did. I miss it painfully. But my project has me absorbed," Smith says.

He adds that some of his course work has been harder than he expected. In fact, there's so much homework, Smith says he doesn't have time to watch football — though he did turn out to root for Princeton against Harvard.

"If I started enjoying anything outside, I'd be in trouble with my studies," he says. "I'm overwhelmed by work and loving it. Three of my nine courses still flattened me."

Smith still can boil when discussing his charges against West Point, but adds: "I'm not attempting to pursue it." His experience as a football player and coach have helped in the classroom, Smith says. "You learn to tell yourself to hang in there in football, and that's what I have to do here. I looked up during a midterm exam and saw all these students writing away and I said to myself: 'Home, there are some bright people here. You better get get with it.' I have my heart set on getting this degree."

Despite KO, Too Tall's career is on the ropes

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ed "Too Tall" Jones put Abdullah Muhammad on the canvas, but the ex-football player's fledgling ring career still seems to be on the ropes.

A disappointed crowd of 4,200 booed after referee Bobby Ferrara stopped the lackluster bout Tuesday night at 44 seconds of the sixth round.

Although the 6-foot-9, 248-pound Jones completely dominated his smaller opponent, cut Muhammad's eye and won his second fight without a loss, most ringside observers were unimpressed.

"I think you're expecting too much of me," the former all-pro defensive end for the Dallas Cowboys told reporters in his dressing room.

His manager, Dave Wolf, added: "Everybody is coming in and asking 'What's wrong?' When you win, people should ask you, 'What's right?'"

Jones, 28, won at least four of the first five rounds and decked Muhammad in the sixth with a right hand that many saw as a push.

Muhammad's went down and his head hit the canvas hard. Seconds later, Ferrara stopped the bout.

"The man quit in the sixth round," Wolf said. "He quit because he was being punished."

The question of whether there was a punch there at the end, I think, is less relevant than the fact that he was way behind, and he was being battered and he was cut.

"Regardless of how he hit the ground, the fact was that the fight was very one-sided and Ed beat another experienced professional."

Jones admitted that, as in his first win, a split-decision over Jesus "Yaqui" Meneses on Nov. 3, "I was dropping my right, not jabbing properly."

He towered over the 6-3, 214-pound Muhammad, 29, who fought mostly from an awkward peak-a-boo crouch. When Muhammad tried to bore in, Jones merely wrapped his arms around the smaller man's shoulders and held him in a vice-like bear-hug.

"Muhammad hit me with some good body shots but he never hurt me," Jones said.

He scored mostly with left jabs, but missed the great majority of his punches. Nonetheless, by the end of the fight, Muhammad was badly bruised and his trunks were splattered with blood.

He cut Muhammad's left eye in the fifth round. Jones said he opened the cut with a left hook but Muhammad said it was an elbow.

Cooper scores another KO to remain on top

By Associated Press

While a classic struggle between Spring Klein and Conroe occupied center stage in Class 4A last week, Abilene Cooper methodically kayoed another opponent to retain its season-long No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll.

Cooper, which defeated Midland 35-0, joined Kerrville Tivy in Class 3A, Childress in 2A and China Spring in 1A in holding onto their top billings going into the final week of the regular season.

Conroe and Klein, both unbeaten powers in District 16-4A, fought to a 14-14 tie with Klein getting credit for the victory with two more first downs.

Conroe, ranked No. 3 last week, dropped to seventh this week and Klein jumped from seventh to fifth. Both have 8-0-1 records.

There were only two losses among the 50 ranked teams and both occurred in Class 2A where No. 6 Hays Consolidated was upset by Boerne 24-14 and No. 8

Kenedy lost to No. 5 Hallettsville 21-0. Both losers dropped out of the top 10 and were replaced by Refugio and Van, both with 9-0 records.

Haskell dropped from the No. 2 to No. 6 in Class A after a 21-21 tie with Quanah.

Pettus took over sole possession of the No. 10 spot following a 40-0 victory over Charlotte.

Wolfe City defeated Whitewright 7-6 but still dropped from its 10th place tie.

Steers, Hogs eye Sugar Bowl

So could Ohio State if the Buckeyes lose to Michigan AND Indiana beats Purdue, although that would make the Buckeyes awfully attractive to the Cotton Bowl.

And what does the Cotton do if Texas makes it to Dallas and Nebraska beats Oklahoma? A Texas-Oklahoma Cotton Bowl is out of the question because it would be a rematch of their October war. Houston will wind up somewhere, but says one bowl source, "Nobody wants them; they've got the old Arizona State syndrome."

Some other items: —The Gator Bowl will grab Florida State if the Seminoles don't get the Orange Bowl. —The Fiesta Bowl would like to match the Big Eight and Big Ten runners-up — a SWC team also is a possibility — but Michigan would prefer not to play on Christmas Day. Ohio State doesn't care.

—Clemson would like another trip to the Gator Bowl but the Gator people might not want the Tigers three years in a row. Notre Dame is not out of the question for Jacksonville, although the Fighting Irish might stay home this year.

—The Liberty Bowl is said to be leaning toward Pitt ... and vice versa ... and might invite Clemson, if it beats Notre Dame, although there are other candidates. The Hall of Fame Bowl would like Clemson, which has a huge following.

—Washington is said to be Sun Bowl-bound. —The Holiday Bowl would love to match Brigham Young's Marc Wilson against Purdue's Mark Herrmann — "On your mark! Get set! Throw!" — but Purdue is rumored to be Bluebonnet Bowl-bound, perhaps against Baylor, while BYU has games against Utah and San Diego State and could miss out as the Western Athletic Conference's Holiday Bowl rep.

—If the Bluebonnet gets Purdue, the Holiday Bowl might try to sell Indiana fans on a two-sport trip because the Hoosiers' basketball team plays in the Cabrillo Classic Dec. 28-29.

—The Garden State Bowl would like Saturday's Temple-Penn State winner as its host but Penn State might not look on it as a true bowl trip. Could Joe Paterno, Eastern football's biggest booster, turn down a bowl designed to feature an Eastern team?

—And how about this one: if Georgia doesn't clinch a Sugar Bowl berth this weekend, the Gator Bowl is thinking about waiting until Dec. 1, hoping Auburn beats Alabama and the Crimson Tide will be available.

"It's worse than ever," says one source. "The New Year's Day bowls can't line things up, and if they don't, no one else can. I guess by Saturday night there'll be three or four things that will make you say, 'Oh, my God! I can't believe it.' It always happens that way."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Tanner, Solomon win matches

TENNIS—Roscoe Tanner ousted Geoff Masters of Australia 6-3, 6-3 in the opening round of the $75,000 Taipei Open while Pat DuPre eliminated Australian Colin Dibley 6-1, 7-6; Bob Lutz beat Hans Simonsson of Sweden 6-4, 6-1; Butch Walts defeated Tony Graham 7-6, 6-4; Mark Edmondson of Australia whipped India's Sashi Menon 6-3, 6-2 and Australian Brad Drewett downed Mark Turpin 6-3, 6-2. Harold Solomon scored his 12th straight victory over Britain's Mark Cox, 7-5, 6-3 and moved into the second round of a $175,000 Wembley tournament.

TRACK AND FIELD—The National Running Data Center confirmed that John Cederholm of the Boston Athletic Association and Andrea Chiappetta of the Millrose Athletic Association set U.S. road running records for 50,000 meters in a Sept. 16 race at Brattleboro, Vt., setting records of 2 hours, 56 minutes, 43 seconds for Cederholm and 3:46.34 for Chiappetta. The British Amateur Athletics Board said it does not have enough evidence to take any action against British athletes accused of receiving illegal payments. However, it asked for information on a meet held in Gateshead last year. Newspapers have reported that U.S. hurdler Edwin Moses, British distance star Sebastian Coe and other top British stars who completed there took cash payments in addition to travel and living expenses.

BOWLING—Warren Nelson grabbed a 45-pin lead over first-round leader Ed Ressler after two rounds of a $130,000 Professional Bowlers' Association tournament finishing the round with a 1,889 pin total for a two-round pinfall of 3,765. Joe Hutchinson is eight pins farther back in third place while Dave Kappel was fourth, 100 pins off the lead. Louie Moore was fifth, six pins behind Kappel at 3,659.

HORSE RACING—Don't Be Short, $4.20, romped to a seven-length victory over Continental Cousin in the feature at Sportsman's Park... T.V. Hill, $6, overtook Best Man for a two-length victory in the $22,000 Youth Handicap at Laurel... Big John Taylor, $2.60, scored a three-length victory over Michael's Edge in the feature at the Meadowlands.

Too much, too soon? Sun Devils, Angels bring gold and Lucifer's curse

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State University's football controversy may be a case of growing too big too fast under the Midas touch of Athletic Director Fred Miller and the Sun Angel Foundation, observers say.

The Sun Angels, a 13,500-member athletics booster organization that produces about $1 million a year to aid the Arizona State program, threatened to suspend its stadium and golf course construction aid after Miller suspended football Coach Frank Kush.

Later the foundation's president, Phoenix jeweler Harry Rosenzweig, said the aid wasn't being suspended, it was being deferred until the foundation could determine what effect Kush's ouster had on fund-raising.

Nonetheless, said Karl Wochner, president of the Arizona State Alumni Association, the foundation's action "may very well reflect a serious problem which has been growing right under our feet for some time ... the tail may be wagging the dog, financially and otherwise."

House Majority Leader Burton Barr, R-Phoenix, said things were growing at a proper rate in 1975 when the Sun Devils wound up ranked No. 2 nationally. "Then things started getting accelerated," Barr said.

"Anytime you're driving that hard to be No. 1, you'd better watch out," Barr added. "Some people are just under too much pressure."

But Miller said that "if someone is criticizing you for being too successful, we accept the criticism." "Athletics is one of the few areas capable of getting public support for a university," Miller said.

THE LEADING edge of the controversy emerged when a former Arizona State punter, Kevin Rutledge, sued Kush, the university and others on grounds that the coach had struck him and that mental and physical harassment by Kush and others had driven him into giving up his football scholarship and quitting the team.

Kush denied the charges. Then, on Oct. 13, Kush called a news conference to say he had been fired by Miller because Miller didn't believe his denial. Miller, at his news conference later in the day, said he had suspended Kush as coach because Kush had attempted a cover up.

Within three weeks, the NCAA was investigating the whole football program, the state was looking into criminal allegations that ticket sales and money had been mismanaged, the Pacific-10 Conference was examining the question of eligibility of eight Arizona State players, and Kush had filed his own suit against Miller and others, seeking $40 million on grounds he had been denied due process.

'Things started getting accelerated...The whole thing went too fast. The Regents...wanted to go to the Pac-10 and to win more championships. That meant more and more pressure for money and victories.'

A number of players, the school's president, Arizona's attorney general and various legislators also had been drawn into the situation — as had dragstrip promoter Rick Lynch, the man Kush contended had engineered his ouster.

John Wadas, associate athletic director who, as head of business affairs for the department, holds the purse strings, saw the loss of Kush mostly in terms of losing a super salesman — with other salesmen available.

Internal analysis, Wadas said, would show a situation where, sooner or later, Kush would be out in any case. "We built kind of a monster," Wadas said.

Other officers of the organization founded in 1973, when Kush was considering a pro football coaching position, are Gene Felker, executive secretary of the Sun Angel Foundation, and Keith Turley, Arizona Public Service Co. board president.

THE ARIZONA Star, Tucson's morning newspaper, said in analyzing how it all came about, "Miller recognized the Phoenix area of the early 1970s as a mother lode and helped create his own gold rush.

Arriving in 1971, the Star said, Miller persuaded car dealers to loan cars free to head coaches and assistant football coaches. He also added 122 seats to the stadium, which then seated about 50,000, bringing in an additional $49,810 in revenue. Soon the stadium was growing to a capacity of 70,000 at a cost of about $10 million for the addition.

And today, season ticket sales have swelled to 56,000 and attendance to an average of above 67,000. FOOTBALL TICKET sales are expected to total about $3.3 million this year, plus nearly another $1 million from the Sun Foundation's purchase of season tickets and subsequent resale with an additional membership fee, the Star said.

With department revenue expected to surpass $4.7 million because of the football program's two recent television appearances, football itself accounts for about 86 percent of the total, the Star said. The Sun Angels had pledged $1.2 million for construction of a golf course plus $800,000 to help enlarge the football stadium to 86,000.

Tucked away in the Legna Foundation, named by reversing the spelling of angel, is an amount which one of the foundation's officers, Phoenix First National Bank President Ed Carson, says is not far from $80,000.

Legna Foundation's stated purpose is to provide deferred compensation for Kush, who is listed as its president. Kush is its sole employee, Carson said, and his job "is to promote sports in Arizona and at ASU."

Bethany hopes magic beats AC

LINDSBORG, Kan. (AP) — Bethany's three-year unbeaten streak was marred by a playoff loss last year to Missouri Valley, and the Swedes would like to keep that from happening again.

Coach Ted Kessinger, the man often credited with building the Swedes from a good team to a championship one, is making no assumptions, however. He points out that Austin plays in the strong Texas Intercollegiate Conference, "and we all know that Texas football is excellent football."

Kessinger doesn't dwell on his team's 29-game regular-season winning streak, at present the longest in the United States. He doesn't dwell on this year's 10-0 record or the Swedes' No. 1 ranking in the NAIA final season poll.

"Humility is a very important part of our character as a team," he said. "We're just a good football team that is very concerned about our opponent and our program."

The wrath Bethany can muster was felt last weekend by Tabor, the first regular-season victims of the unbeaten Swedes. The Bluejays, the second-place team in the conference with a 7-1 league record, lost 65-8 in the lopsided contest.

"They stung us early with a touchdown on the first play," said Tabor Coach Dan Thiessen. "It was one of those things where they caught us by the shorts, and that was it. They have a pretty good team."

"Their strength is that they have a very tenacious defense and a good passer," Thiessen said. "The passer is Mark Eggers, a solid 6-foot-5, 220-pound senior and a man not easily sacked."

"We had him stopped several times and he still completed the pass," Thiessen said. "One time there were two guys on him at once, but they didn't bring him down."

The NAIA's year-end figures show Eggers third nationally among Division II quarterbacks both in individual total offense and passing. He averaged 211 yards a game with 19 touchdowns and just 11 interceptions, with a 57 percent completion mark.

Little named AP player of week

Texas Coach Fred Akers went on at some length about quarterback Donnie Little's performance against Houston, then summed it up — "the results were on the scoreboard." Texas ruined Houston's bid for a perfect season with a 21-13 victory as Little scored twice and directed a 27-yard drive capped by A.J. "Jam" Jones' touchdown run. For his performance, Little, a 200-pound sophomore, was named the AP offensive player-of-the-week in SWC football. Texas cornerback Derrick Hatchett, who intercepted two Houston passes, was voted the outstanding SWC defensive player.

His statistics were not the most impressive ever rolled up by a quarterback: seven of 20 passes for 90 yards and 16 rushes for 14 yards, but Harold Bailey threw two touchdown passes and caught a third, and was instrumental in Oklahoma State's converting five fourth-down gambles against Colorado all of which earned the senior quarterback Big Eight offensive player of the week.

Former Army football coach Tom Cahill was dropped as coach at Union College here as Athletic Director Richard Sakala announced Cahill's five-year contract would not be renewed in January. The Dutchmen were 3-5 this year, and 12-27-1 under Cahill... Carnegie-Mellon, having completed the first undefeated and untied season in its history and champion of the Presidents' Conference for the third straight year, has been named winner of the 1979 Lambert Bowl, annually given to the outstanding small college team in the northeast.

Miami Dolphins' owner Joe Robbie is considering a proposal to build a 70,000-seat stadium north of Miami and partially pay for it by selling 300 seats for $50,000 each. Robbie, who has vowed to move the Dolphins from Miami's Orange Bowl when their contract expires in 1986, said the estimated $50-million construction cost would include $35 million in bond money and $15 million from investors. He said the most likely site for the proposed stadium would be in southern Broward County, 15 miles west of Fort Lauderdale.

Houston's Bill Yeoman will coach the West in the 55th Shrine Game scheduled Jan. 5 at Stanford. His staff includes Terry Donahue of UCLA and LaVell Edwards of Brigham Young.

The Cleveland Indians' 1980 spring training schedule has an international flair. It features games with three Mexican clubs and a Japanese team. The 31-game exhibition schedule, which was announced Tuesday, also includes five games with San Francisco in a renewal of baseball's oldest spring training rivalry.

New York obtained 31-year-old third baseman Eric Soderholm from the Texas Rangers in exchange for an unspecified number of players to be named later. Soderholm started the 1979 season with the Chicago White Sox and was traded to Texas in June, with the Rangers giving up pitcher Ed Farmer and first baseman Gary Holle. Soderholm, a right-handed batter with a career major league batting average of .262 since coming up with Minnesota in 1971, hit .262 with 10 home runs and 53 runs batted last year...Pete Ward, 39, former Chicago White Sox third baseman, has been named manager of the Iowa Oaks of the American Association.

The Florida State-Florida and Georgia-Georgia Tech football games have been changed so they can be televised by ABC on Thanksgiving weekend. The Florida State-Florida game at Gainesville was moved from Saturday, Nov. 24, to Friday, Nov. 23. The kickoff will be at 12:07 p.m., EST, and the nationally televised contest will be followed by Texas Tech at Houston, also on national TV. Kickoff time for Georgia-Georgia Tech in Atlanta on Saturday, Nov. 24, will be either 12:50 p.m., EST, or 4:07 p.m. The game originally was scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 1...

Jim Colletto, Fullerton State's football coach for the past five years, announced Tuesday that he was resigning effective at the end of this season. The Titans, with games remaining against Idaho State and Long Beach state, have a 2-7 record this season, and are 1-3 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. Under Colletto, Fullerton State has a 16-37-1 record.

Alamo nails 8th grade crown

Midland Alamo nailed down the 8th grade football championship last week even though there is one more weekend of action before the season comes to a halt. Alamo blasted Odessa Bonham, 42-8 to finish with a 7-1-0 record. Midland Goddard is next with a 5-1-1 record and has a game Saturday with Odessa Bowie in Odessa.

Odessa Nimitz won the 9th grade championship with a 79-6 victory over Midland Lee Maroon Saturday as the Admirals finished with a perfect 9-0-0 record in giving up only 33 points on the year. Next came Odessa Hood and Odessa Bonham with 7-2-0 and 6-3-0 records. All three schools are feeder teams for Odessa Permian. Midland Purple wound up fourth with a 5-4-0 record.

In the final weekend of the 7th grade race, Goddard Red and Goddard White finished one-two. Red wound up unbeaten in eight games while White finished with a 7-1-0 mark. The only action left this week is in the 8th grade race with Odessa Blackshear taking on Bonham at Blackshear; Goddard at Bowie; Odessa Crockett at Hood and Odessa Nimitz taking on Midland San Jacinto at Memorial Stadium in Midland. San Jacinto is 4-3-0 on the year.

In 7th grade B-team games played Tuesday in the Tall City, Alamo ripped San Jacinto White, 36-0 and San Jacinto Green posted an 8-0 triumph over Goddard. In final games Saturday in the 8th grade Midland City Conference, Trinity's A-team is at Alamo B and Midland Christian A Goddard B and San Jacinto B had wound up its season.

Billy Sims...more to life than just football.

Sims dreams of quiet and garage back home

By BOB BONEBRAKE

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A velour shirt, which looked for all the world like a mechanic's grease rag, hung from his back pocket as Billy Sims mapped out a road from fame and fortune to a garage in Hooks, Texas.

While in Hooks he milked cows, worked in a filling station, lived with his Aunt Sadie and became the second most productive high school runner in history by rushing 7,738 yards and scoring 516 points during three years playing for the Hooks Hornets. He gained more than 100 yards in all 38 high school games he played in.

claiming he wants to be retired from professional football "by the time I'm 30." It is obvious he has thought a lot about his upcoming pro career and he said he has even had several phone conversations with his former college roommate, Outland Award winning offensive lineman Greg Roberts, who now plays with Tampa Bay.

"I've always loved to work on cars. It just might be a good business to go into." The life goals he outlined seemed remarkably easy to attain for a nationally known sports personality on the verge of signing what will undoubtedly be a lucrative contract with a professional football team.

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer's frequent calls and visits convinced him to come to the University of Oklahoma. At OU his career stalled for a time as injuries kept him out of the limelight.

"I been talking to Greg about what going to happen," Sims said. "He told me it's not a whole lot different than college, except that they all try to intimidate rookies a lot. But I've taken that kind of stuff before, so I can do it again."

"In fact, I've been thinking a lot about building a house back in Hooks."

When the next Heisman winner is announced Dec. 3, following the Nov. 30 balloting, he could become only the second player in history to win two of the awards.

This year, his production as a Wishbone offense running back would be the envy of most any other running back, but hasn't been enough to keep many Oklahoma fans from wondering what happened to last year's Heisman Trophy winner.

"You know, to tell you the truth I'll be glad when all this is over with," Sims confided. "It was always a dream of mine that I would be able to make something out of myself. It's not really the money, although I won't turn that down."

"You know coming from a small town and all I didn't just want to bum around all my life. But I really don't want to be a football player all my life."

Will his performance this year help him win that second Heisman? "Lots of people think I'm kidding when I say this," he said. "But, I'm really not all that concerned if I win another one or not. I've already got one, so what do I need another one for?"

HE DOESN'T anticipate a lengthy career.

JIM MURRAY Prize ring very fussy about little guys' weights

By JIM MURRAY Los Angeles Times Syndicate

It should come as no surprise to anyone who has followed it for any length of time, but boxing has an identity crisis. In an era when there are hardly enough fighters to go around as it is, we have two champions and two jurisdictions in each division. As if this were not enough, we also have synthetic divisions.

It is an act of faith in the sweet science that, below the weight of 180 pounds, the difference of a pound or two can mightily affect the outcome. Accordingly, we can have a 265-pound Primo Carnera being manhandled by a 190-pound Joe Louis, but boxing commissions would never allow a 129-pound featherweight to do battle with a 132-pound lightweight.

Henry Armstrong seemingly obliterated these arbitrary boundaries when, as a slightly overblown 126-pound featherweight champion, he also won the lightweight and welterweight championships. This failed utterly to impress prize fight managers, who would rather pit their boys in the ring with a hungry wildcat than an opponent with a two-pound pull in the weights.

So it was, in the 1920s that the fight game, with gyms full of overflowing fighters, inaugurated "junior" divisions. These were hybrid categories for guys too big to fight featherweights, but too little to fight lightweight, or too big to fight lightweight, but too little to fight welterweights.

tions of boxing, which run the sport a little like the Red Queen ran Alice's Wonderland. If a prominent drawing card like the Philippines' Flash Elorde comes along and cannot win a legitimate division title, they create one for him. It's all good clean fun, and, of course, television likes titles, anyway.

Under any other name, the "super featherweight" division is just the old "junior lightweight" jazzed up for show biz. It was reincarnated largely as a tribute to a human jaguar called Roberto Duran. So long as Roberto was the lightweight champion, featherweight titlists who outgrew the poundage had no interest in growing up to be lightweights. So long as Duran was the champion, the pay might be good, but the headaches afterward weren't.

An ersatz class is just right for Bobby Chacon anyway, since Bobby's career generally has seemed to fall between two chairs. There are two Bobby Chacon's, anyway. One is a dazzling boxer with speedy hands, fast footwork, and a bewildering display of combinations to the head and body.

THIS BOBBY Chacon once knocked out Danny (Little Red) Lopez with ridiculous ease in a non-title fight. The other Bobby Chacon makes his fight like a guy waiting for a bus, is as easy to hit as a batting-practice pitch, and absorbs more punches than a time clock.

Bobby is the only fighter I know who has a pet crow. To go along with his pet snake. Not many fighters have to postpone fights because of a spider bite, either. Presumably, Bobby's spider got off the leash. Bobby holds the world record for postponing fights anyhow. Bobby, you see, is a trencherman, and his real enemy is not out in the ring, it's in the gym — the scale.

If you look in the Ring Record Book for 1975 you will see an entry which says that Ruben Olivares knocked out Bobby in two rounds that year. He didn't really. The knockout was self-inflicted. In the hours between the weigh-in and the fight, Chacon stopped at a restaurant and polished off several helpings of escargots and lobster with drawn butter, not your average prefight meal. When Bobby went around in round two that night, he stayed there — lest the white wine come up with the fish.

On another occasion, Bobby was fighting an otherwise undistinguished opponent named Dave Sotelo and was winning rather handily. The egg fo young and sauteed squid were resting easily in his stomach when he suddenly ran into a paving-brick right hand. Bobby won but doesn't remember the last two rounds of that fight, which is just as well, particularly if he can't stand the sight of blood.

If Chacon defeats Arguello, he will either become the 11th junior lightweight champion in history — or the second super-featherweight champion. You have a choice. The "junior" divisions by any other name are still in pugilism's ghetto, but Bobby thinks he is now in a position to take his rightful place alongside the immortals like Benny Bass, Tod Morgan, or even the peerless Pinkie Mitchell himself. He has a shot at it.

They abolished the divisions in the early 1930s, largely because of public apathy. So far as the fight mob was concerned, "junior" was something you called the guy you sent out for coffee. Never mind there was a bonafide need for gradations in the ladder of pugilism.

Unaccountably, in an age when there is a dearth of qualified pugs, when certain standard divisions are moribund, the overseers of the game saw fit to reinstate sub-titles.

This time, they did not make the mistake of identifying them as "junior." The "junior lightweight" division today is the "super-featherweight." We are in the age of the "super" star, the "Super Bowl," so we have the "super" featherweight, or the "super" lightweight. The successors to Benny Bass and Tod Morgan and Mushy Callahan are no longer "juniors." But they fight for the same bauble.

Now, 16, at the Forum, Alexis Arguello and Bobby Chacon fight for the title once fought for by the immortal George (KO) Cheney.

NOW, FIGHT fans all know John L. Sullivan was the first of the modern heavyweight champions, and defeated Jake Kilrain for the honor. But only the most dedicated fight Filbert would know that Johnny Dundee was the first of the modern junior lightweight champions, defeating George (KO) Cheney for the honor. Dundee was known in that innocent pre-antidote era as "The Scotch Wop." History does not record what KO Cheney's sobriquet was or even whether the "KO" was an insult or a compliment.

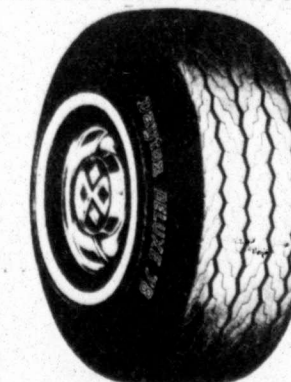

Like Dundee, Alex Arguello was once the legitimate featherweight champion of the world, a title which has come down in a relatively unbroken line of succession from the original George Dixon, known, of course, as "The Chocolate Drop." No one is sure either whether that was a tribute or a commentary.

"Junior" divisions — or "Super" divisions, if you will — are periodically abolished by the jurisdiction of boxing.

Forty years of dreams and sweat die beneath bulldozer and tears

Nellie McCall takes a final look out the back door at her 91-acre farm before federal marshals evicted her Tuesday. The 75-year-old widow wept as her daughter walked her off the land condemned for the Tellico Dam. Hours later the Tennessee Valley Authority demolished the home her husband built 40 years ago. (AP Laserphoto)

LOUDON, Tenn. (AP) — Forty years of dreams and sweat have died beneath a bulldozer's blade as the Tennessee Valley Authority crushed the last two homes standing in the way of its Tellico Dam. The bulldozers arrived Tuesday hours after federal marshals evicted the last two of 341 farmers whose land was taken for the 38,000-acre, $130 million federal project. By nightfall, the barn and white frame house that the late Asa McCall had built for his wife in 1939 and the home where postman Beryl Moser was born 46 years ago had been demolished. "It looks like this is about the end of it," Moser said as three carloads of marshals escorted him from his home. "I still feel the same way about it I did 10 years ago: To hell with the TVA." On the opposite bank of the Little Tennessee River that soon will become a 16,000-acre lake, Nellie McCall already had packed her belongings when the marshals arrived. "I haven't got too long here so it doesn't make any difference," the 75-year-old widow said. "It's awful that this thing has happened, but it has. I'm resigned to it now." Crying, she clutched the arm of her daughter and said she did not know where she would move as they walked away from her 91-acre farm. Within two hours vans hired by TVA were moving her belongings out.

The W.B. Ritchey, the other hold-outs, packed their furniture Monday after their attorney told them TVA had agreed to not interfere if they left voluntarily.

All three families had refused government checks totaling $216,000 mailed to them when their land was condemned — the Ritcheys and Mrs. McCall's in 1974 and Moser's in 1971. The checks are still on deposit with a federal court in Knoxville.

The dam was finished several months ago after Congress and President Carter exempted it from the federal Endangered Species Act and ordered its completion "not withstanding any other law."

Supreme Court Justice William Brennan on Tuesday rejected a plea by Cherokee Indians for an injunction to prevent TVA from closing the gates. Justice Potter Stewart and the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati rejected the same request last Friday.

The Cherokee contend a lake over their ancient capital and burial grounds violates their First Amendment rights of religious freedom. An appeal of Knoxville federal judge's dismissal of their suit is pending in the Cincinnati court.

The dam was begun in 1966 as a land-use project to bring jobs to three depressed counties by creating lake-shore sites for industry and opening the Little Tennessee River to barge traffic.

It was stopped in January 1977 when the courts ruled that it would illegally destroy the snail darter, a rare 3-inch fish discovered seven miles upstream from the dam in 1973.

Chrysler faces crisis in raising $1.5 billion in matching funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the House Banking Committee prepares to act on government aid to the Chrysler Corp., the ailing auto giant is assured of only $203 million of a needed $1.5 billion in matching funds.

"All the rest is, one way or another, not tied down yet," Deputy Treasury Secretary Robert Carswell told the committee Tuesday.

Investment banker James Wolfensohn of Salomon Brothers also testified that the $203 million in wage concessions from the United Auto Workers is the only firm commitment. Salomon Brothers is a leading New York investment banking firm advising Chrysler on financing.

Wolfensohn said negotiations with bankers and other sources for the additional money are "an area of great concern and difficulty."

"Unless they see some evidence of light at the end of the tunnel, the existing sources of financing will disappear and the company will fold," he said. Chrysler has said it expects to lose more than $1 billion this year.

The committee set aside today and Thursday to act on an administration proposal that calls for $1.5 billion in loan guarantees, provided Chrysler comes up with the same amount from non-federal sources. By their statements and previous votes on the issue, at least 17 of the 43 committee members have indicated they are likely to approve the measure.

Gerald Greenwald, executive vice president of Chrysler, gave this rundown of where the company is hoping to get the needed $1.5 billion: From the UAW whose members are voting on their new contract — $203 million. Workers at two Chrysler plants turned down the contract, but union officials said other locals were approving the agreement and ratification was expected.

From the state of Michigan in tax breaks — $160 million.

From other states with sizable Chrysler plants — more than $100 million.

Austin architect to be key speaker at program at Museum of Southwest

Architect Wayne Bell of Austin will be featured speaker Thursday morning at a program at the Museum of the Southwest.

Bell, an associate professor in the School of Architecture at The University of Texas, will speak on "Texas Preservation Update" at 10 a.m. in the Turner Memorial Gallery of the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri Ave.

Bell's talk is sponsored by Las Manos — "The Hands" — a volunteer service and support organization of the Museum of the Southwest. The program is open to all interested persons.

Bell is a graduate of The University of Texas. He is a former Midland resident, having been associated with the architectural firm of Neuhardt and Babb here from 1960 to 1964. In addition to his teaching duties at UT, Bell also is a partner in Bell, Klein and Hoffman, architects and restoration experts in Austin.

Bell has to his credit numerous architectural restoration projects in the state, including the historic Windale properties in central Texas. He has served as director of the Windale Historical Center since 1975.

Secretary Harris says HEW can oversee dress code rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris is reversing her predecessor's policy so the government can challenge school dress codes that discriminate against girls or boys.

Mrs. Harris is expected to announce this week that HEW once again may use anti-discrimination laws to oversee personal appearance regulations, sources who asked not to be named said Tuesday.

The plan to abandon use of those laws as they might apply to dress codes was the idea of former HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

The most common abuses of personal appearance rules cited by opponents of Califano's policy involved regulations limiting the length of boys' hair. Other examples included rules barring girls from wearing slacks to class.

Mrs. Harris' decision means HEW's Office for Civil Rights again will review complaints of biased personal appearance rules at schools receiving federal money. Title IX of the Civil Rights Act forbids sex discrimination at institutions receiving federal money.

The object of the enforcement effort is to make sure locally drafted regulations treat boys and girls equally. Califano's plan was to relinquish the government's enforcement powers over personal appearance codes by rewriting the federal rules.

Mrs. Harris intends to withdraw the regulations and a notice is to be placed in the Federal Register within the next few days, the sources said.

Living Buddha now lives it up

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

LHASA, Tibet (AP) — A Living Buddha, the only one I ever met, has promised to send me a prayer wheel.

Prayer wheels seem to have gone into hiding since the People's Liberation Army came over the mountain wall in the 1950's to reclaim Tibet for China. The only one we saw during our travels in Tibet was the enormous motorized prayer wheel in the Potala, the Dalai Lama's former winter palace, and it was broken. Two Tibetan girls in traditional costumes were working on the gear mechanism but lost interest when we appeared with our cameras. They retreated into one of the 10,000 chapels in the high-rise palace that, outside of the surrounding snow capped mountains, is the Roof of the World's main scenic attraction.

There were no prayer wheels to be had in the tiny shops run by the Nepalese merchants along Parkor Street, the octagonal-shaped street that surrounds the Jokka Kang Cathedral in downtown Lhasa. Like their cousins back in Katmandu, the merchants here, who still have a picture of the king of Nepal hanging in their stalls, once did a thriving business in prayer wheels, death and devil masks and ornate carved Tibetan beer mugs and spittoons.

NOW THE shops didn't seem to carry much of anything, except some rusted canned goods and sacks of barley, but our Chinese hosts were quick to point out that the shoppers no longer had to bow deep, stick out their tongues and start trembling as a sign of awe and respect when a living Buddha or a high lama passed by.

One wily Nepalese vendor, who sold me a package of Chinese cigars called "Great Wall" and almost as old and crumbling, promised to come to my guest house later that night with a prayer wheel. He never showed up, but a Living Buddha did.

None of us stuck our tongues out or trembled perceptibly, but we shook hands all around. He was dark-haired, handsome and wore a wine-colored shawl or robe draped over one shoulder, an expensive wool pullover sweater and a white Western-style shirt open at the collar. The Living Buddha had come to dinner as part of the nightly entainment and education that our hosts from the New China News Agency always arranged for us.

THROUGH two translators, who took the dialogue from Tibetan to Chinese to English and back again, Pabala Geliangjei told us he was 39 years old and had been chosen as a Living Buddha at the age of 3 back in his native Chiang-du, 800 miles to the east.

Tibet, he said, had somewhere between 20 and 30 Living Buddhas "chosen in many ways: by drawing cards, drawing lots, dreaming dreams, by wizards, by having the ghost of a Living Buddha fall in a certain position." Final approval these days, he added, "goes to the central government."

This Living Buddha seemed highly in favor of that arrangement. An obvious enthusiast for the Peking leadership, he said he had been elected chairman of the local liberation committee at the age of 10. In those days it took three months and four days to journey to Lhasa, but now since the Chinese had built a highway across 14 of the highest mountains in the world it took only four days. Comrade lama Pabala was currently serving as vice chairman of both the national and the Tibetan People's Consultative Conference.

HE SAID he knew the Dalai Lama well, had met him many times and "would like to see him return. If he returns as a patriot, then the government and many people would welcome him."

About halfway through the meal, in the course of lighting up an American cigarette, which he favored above Chinese brands, the Living Buddha stunned us listeners by announcing that he "no longer believed in the religion."

He said he had dropped out of the celibate priesthood in 1962 to marry and now had three children. Religion, he explained, was no longer relevant to the Tibetan way of life. He still wore the robes however and suffered the adulation of those who revered him as a Living Buddha.

The Living Buddha, it soon became apparent, was a bit of a living-it-up Buddha. He immensely enjoyed the food, the cigarettes, the comradeship and the gift of a cigarette lighter, which he pocketed in the folds of his robe.

THEN HE got to his

NASA planning 1985 mission to examine, chase two comets

By WARREN E. LEARY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American space agency wants to send an unmanned craft into space to get a close look at Halley's comet and then tag along with one of its smaller relatives.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday that the four-year mission to the comets Halley and Tempel 2 would be launched in 1985, when Halley next comes near Earth, if Congress approves.

NASA said the craft would send back the first close-up photos of these spectacular bodies and significantly add to man's knowledge of them.

The space agency formally is asking scientists to propose experiments as a prelude to more detailed planning.

The spacecraft would be launched by the American space shuttle in July 1985, to coincide with the long-anticipated return of Halley's comet, last seen from Earth in 1910.

Halley, the most famous comet, is a cold collection of ice, gases and dust that goes around the sun about once every 75 years. As it approaches the sun, the comet heats up and trails dust and gas in a tail millions of miles long.

The plan calls for the craft to fly by Halley four months after launch and fire an instrument-packed probe to the comet's head. This probe would analyze material in the comet and take close-up pictures as it passed within 930 miles of the dense nucleus in the head.

After passing within 81,000 miles of Halley, the main craft would swing off to rendezvous with Tempel 2, a smaller comet that orbits the sun every 5.2 years.

The spacecraft would close in on Tempel 2 a couple of years later and could be brought to within 30 miles of its nucleus. If all goes well, the probe would stay with the comet for a year or more, obtaining detailed pictures and measurements on a journey around the sun.

Tempel 2 will be easier to catch and pace because its orbit goes in the same direction as Earth's while Halley orbits in the opposite direction, the agency said.

NASA has asked the European Space Agency, a consortium of 11 nations, to build the small probe that would spin off to Halley's Comet.

Daniel H. Herman, manager of NASA's planetary programs office, said in an interview that the Europeans are very interested in the project, but won't decide formally on the proposal until January.

NASA estimated the cost of the mission at between $350 million and $450 million, depending upon the experiments chosen. If the Europeans decide to join the effort, they would pay about 20 percent of the mission cost, Herman said.

Scientists have long wanted to probe a comet, believed to be composed of well-preserved remnants of the material that formed the solar system. In 1977, NASA dropped plans for a more complex Halley rendezvous mission because of budget pressure caused by the space shuttle and other projects.

Grocery coupons mean money to El Paso man

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Grocery coupons may be just a piece of paper to most consumers, but to Frank Sullivan, 51, is president of Coupon Redemption, Inc., a clearing house operation with offices here and a plant just across the border in Juarez, Mexico.

The company employs 600 persons at the Juarez plant to process more than 2 million coupons daily, Sullivan said. Each clipping is counted by hand.

"The grocers accumulate coupons until they have enough to make it worthwhile to redeem them. That's when they ship them to us," Sullivan said.

From the El Paso office, the coupons are transported to Mexico where they are separated, logged, counted, re-logged, re-counted and shipped off the manufacturer who issued them.

"We make our money off the handling fee," Sullivan explained. "The manufacturers pay the face value of the coupons plus a 5-cent handling fee on each coupon."

The company pays grocers face value on the coupons plus a portion of the handling fee within 30 days of receipt.

"If they want the money immediately, then they just get the face value and we keep the whole handling fee," Sullivan said.

So why not bypass Sullivan and ship the coupons directly to the manufacturer?

"At the grocery store level, it's next to impossible for the store to sort out these coupons from different manufacturers and invoice them," he said.

Risks Are Unavoidable

By Alfred Sheinwold

It may be possible to go through life with the blankets pulled up over your head, but you can't play bridge that way. Spooner or later you must take a chance.

East should bid four spades instead of doubling four hearts. He would make four spades despite West's ghastly hand. If South bid five hearts, East could then double.

East was just as stodgy in the defense against four hearts. He took the king of spades and made a "safe" trump return. This was so safe that it gave South the contract.

South drew trumps and led diamonds. Whether or not East took the ace of clubs, South could discard two clubs on dummy's diamonds. East got only his three aces.

East must lead clubs at the second trick, hoping that West has the jack. East thus gets two club tricks, barely defeating the contract.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Obese children adjust poorly

Dear Dr. Solomon: My next-door neighbor has a teenage son who is grossly overweight. With all the junk foods he eats, and the hours he spends sitting in front of the television set, it's no wonder he's fat. Are children who live outside the crowded cities, in places which offer kids more to do, less inclined to be overweight? — Ms. D.A.

Family instability, as well as a basic lack of knowledge about nutrition, can lead to obesity in children.

Another Johns Hopkins physician, Dr. David Paige, has found that even some infants under three months of age are being overfed, and that the rapid introduction of a wide variety of proteins constitutes poor feeding habits. He comments that fat babies become fat children, and fat children become fat adults.

The dynamics underlying obesity can be very complicated. Attributing the problem to television or a lack of recreational facilities ignores the basic problems.

Dear Dr. Solomon: How can I tell which foods are fortified? — Mrs. J.G.D.

Dear Mrs. D.: Food products to which nutrients have been added must carry this information on the package. Food and Drug Administration

Dear Ms. A.: According to one authority, at least, obese children can be found all over the United States, and television, crowded streets, and lack of recreational areas have nothing to do with it. Rather, Dr. Maria Simonson, who heads a health and weight program at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, finds that the really obese child suffers from deep emotional problems that influence both eating behavior and personality development.

Children who eat to excess often show hostility, anger and frustration, and sometimes it is necessary to treat these emotional factors before any real weight loss can be achieved. These children may be using fat as a security blanket to protect themselves from situations they feel they cannot cope with. Frequently the child's parents also have to be involved in the treatment process.

Dr. Simonson says that 30 percent of the children born in the United States are obese, and 30 percent of obese children come from broken homes.

The Precision Haircut
(And why it might be right for you.)

If you hate the way your haircut disappears the day after, come to Command Performance where we specialize in the precision haircut.

Precision haircutting is our technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. So, as it grows, it doesn't lose its shape. And because the hair is cut to fall naturally, you don't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

The precision haircut with shampoo and blow-dry costs just fourteen dollars for guys and gals. We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. No appointment is needed, just come in. And you'll see that precision is right for you.

Auction try set Dec. 18

BOSTON (AP) — The federal government will make another attempt on Dec. 18 to auction oil drilling rights in the Georges Bank fishing grounds off the New England coast, a spokesman for the Department of the Interior said Tuesday.

Bids will be requested and opened in the Biltmore Hotel in Providence, R.I., where the sale was postponed Nov. 6 after U.S. Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan ordered a delay.

The justice acted after Francis X. Bellotti, Massachusetts' attorney general, and the Conservation Law Foundation appealed rulings by the U.S. 1st Circuit Court of Appeals and the U.S. District Court in Boston allowing the sale. Bellotti and the environmental group opposed the sale as a danger to the safety of the fishing area, one of the world's richest.

The full U.S. Supreme Court later upheld the lower courts' rulings against the environmentalists, but a new appeal is scheduled in the Boston-based appeals court early in December.

Notice of the new sale schedule will appear Friday in the Federal Register, according to Edward Essertier of the Interior Department.

The government is required to give 30 days notice of the sale.

A total of 116 tracts amounting to 660,409 acres located from 63 to 157 miles off shore will be offered.

More than 300 bidders were in Providence last week when the sale was postponed.

Mexico says its 1982 crude recovery goal to come early

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Mexico will reach its 1982 goal of 2.25 million barrels of crude oil production next year—two years ahead of schedule—Jorge Diaz Serrano, director-general of Mexico's national oil company, Petroleros Mexicanos said Tuesday.

Because Mexico is "sold out" until then, Diaz Serrano said it will not be able to increase the amount of oil, (more than 500,000 barrels a day, or about 3 percent of U.S. consumption) which it sells to the United States in order to compensate for part of the City's Municipal Assistance Corp., told the conference that a $1 a gallon federal gasoline tax is mandatory in order to significantly reduce consumption.

Although, he said, "No one in the world will believe that we are serious about energy with $1 per gallon gas" when the price is between $2.70 and $3 in the rest of the world.

Rohatyn, a senior partner with the New York-based investment banking firm of Lazard Freres & Co., said the United States is heading toward bankruptcy much the same way New York City was just a few years ago.

"The United States is undergoing a continued, gradual bankruptcy whereby its debts are never paid down but continually stretched out, to be repaid in the future with currency worth less and less. Economists call this inflation; it is a polite word for gradual bankruptcy," he said.

Any successful program to reduce the inflation rate must include reducing energy consumption and changing taxation policies to encourage investment rather than consumption, as well as bringing business, labor and government together in a "true partnership," he said.

Three wildcats scheduled

Operators spotted wildcat operations in several West Texas areas.

New Reserves Group, Inc., of Midland staked a pair of 7,200-foot wildcats in Dickens County.

The No. 1-392 Karr is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 392, block 1, H&GN survey and three miles southwest of Dickens. The ground elevation is 1,447 feet.

Drill site is one and three-quarters miles northwest of a 7,265-foot dry hole.

New Reserves Group No. 1-237 Harris will be drilled six miles east of Spurr and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 237, block 1, H&GN survey.

Ground elevation is 2,232 feet.

The location is 7/8 mile northwest of a 6,550-foot dry hole and one mile south of the Croton Creek, South field which produces at 4,679 feet and one and seven-eighths miles northwest of the Girard (Tannehill) field which produces at 4,401 feet.

TERRY WILDCAT

Tomlinson Oil Co., Inc., operating from Midland, will dig No. 1 French as a 5,300-foot wildcat in Terry County, 13 miles southeast of Brownfield.

The prospector is 2,120 feet from north and east lines of section 20, block C-38, PSL survey. Ground elevation is 3,146 feet.

It is 5/8 mile southeast of a 3,300-foot failure and 1.25 miles northwest of the Welch, North field which produces at 5,000 feet. It is 1.5 miles northeast of the Corrigan field which produces at 11,475 feet.

Strategy changed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Texas Oil and Gas Co. of Dallas reportedly has changed its strategy in a legal battle to recover oil and gas leases to 33,000 acres at Fort Chaffee.

The company filed a lawsuit seeking to recover the leases, but a federal judge at Washington refused to grant a temporary restraining order Nov. 2, the day after the leases were canceled.

An attorney for the company said Tuesday that Texas Oil and Gas would file an amended complaint challenging Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus' authority to cancel the leases, the Arkansas Democrat reported in today's editions. The attorney asked to remain unidentified, the newspaper said.

The leases were granted to Texas Oil and Gas, without competitive bidding, for $1 per acre per year under a program designed to spur gas exploration.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., has said that the government could lose millions of dollars if competitive bids were not taken on the leases.

U.S. District Judge Joyce Green stated Nov. 2 that the propriety of the cancellations would be decided by the court after both sides in the case have an opportunity to present their positions.

loss from Iran. Mexico's current crude oil production level is about 1.8 million barrels a day, he said.

Speaking at the 31st Annual Business Outlook Conference at a Los Angeles hotel, Diaz Serrano said that although Mexico plans to sell the United States a smaller portion of its exports, the amount will rise as total production increases. He said the United States now receives 86 percent of the crude oil exported by Mexico. Unlike many Middle Eastern countries, Diaz Serrano noted, Mexico does not have the capability to increase its oil production quickly.

The next step for his country, the oil executive said, is to intensify industrialization efforts in order to create more jobs. Mexico also is concentrating on increasing the size of its petrochemical industry and raising its refining capacity.

"We want to convert (oil) income into the industrialization of our country... We are interested in international markets and in increasing foreign trade," Diaz Serrano said.

RK sets site near Lamesa

RK Petroleum Corp. of Midland No. 1-5 Dean is to be drilled as a 10,800-foot wildcat six miles east of Lamesa in Dawson County.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 5, block 2, TTRR survey. It is 7/8 mile southwest of an 8,950-foot failure and one and three-quarter miles northeast of the Key, North (Spraberry upper) discovery well.

Ground elevation is 2,939 feet.

HOCKLEY TEST

Amoco Production Co. will drill a deeper pay wildcat in the Levelland field of Hockley County, three miles west of Loveland.

The project, No. 5-E M. P. Davies, is 400 feet from north and 1,000 feet from west lines of labor 24, league 71, Val Verde County School Land survey.

IRON WILDCAT

Beico Petroleum Corp. of Houston No. 1121 Sugg is a new 9,500-foot wildcat in Iron County, 11 miles north of Barnhart.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 112, block 14, H&TC survey. It is two miles north-west of the Sugg (Ellenburger and Cleark Fork oil) pool and surrounded by Spraberry Trend Area production. It also is 5/8 mile west of the Ela Sugg (Wolfcamp gas) pool.

LEA PROJECTS

Three field area projects have been announced in Lea County.

Maralo, Inc., of Midland No. 1-16 Maralo-State will be dug in an undesignated area eight miles southwest of Jal.

Scheduled on a 3,800-foot contract, it is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 16-26S-36E.

Natamas North America, Inc., of Midland No. 1-24 State Communitized has been spotted as a 13,900-foot test in the Antelope Ridge (Morrow) pool of Lea County, 16 miles northwest of Jal.

Cattle prices down again but not retail beef cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary figures by the Agriculture Department show that cattle prices declined by more than 3 percent last month, but that retail beef prices held about steady.

According to the figures, market prices of U.S. Choice-grade steers averaged $65.90 per 100 pounds in October, down from $68.16 in September.

The report, which officials describe as tentative, showed that the all-cut retail price of beef was nearly $2.27 a pound, 0.1 of a cent higher than in September.

As a result, according to the figures, the so-called farm value of a pound of beef sold lower in retail stores than in September while the middlemen's share increased, reflecting larger margins between the producer and the consumer.

In a related report, USDA estimated total red meat production last week at 757.5 million pounds, a gain of 3 percent from output a year ago.

Beef production, at 398.6 million pounds, was down 10 percent from a year earlier. A decline also was shown for veal, down 21 percent to 6.2 million pounds.

However, pork output rose 27 percent from a year ago to 347.1 million pounds. Lamb and mutton production also increased, up 12 percent to 5.6 million pounds last week, the report said.

'Natural' pest killers sought by scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometimes it may seem a bit forward of government scientists to investigate the sex habits of insects in hopes of finding ways to control destructive crop pests.

The goal, of course, is to come up with "natural" or biological killers so farmers do not have to rely so much on hazardous and costly chemical pesticides.

This time it's the Mexican bean beetle. The experiment involves what the Agriculture Department delicately describes as "a social disease" spread by amorous beetles.

"The social disease is actually a parasitic mite that lives on the beetle's body," a department report said Tuesday.

"One hundred times smaller than the beetle, the mite feeds on the undersides of its host's wings and waits for an opportunity to crawl into another beetle. That chance arrives when the beetles mate."

Consequently, the mating process is "an excellent dispersal system" for passing the deadly mites on to other beetles, the report said.

Mexican bean beetles were described as "the worst insect pest of bean crops" in the United States, including soybeans, limas and snapbeans.

The tiny parasitic mite, however, does not occur naturally in this country and was imported for study from Central America, where Agriculture Department entomologist Floyd Smith observed that "in fields where the beetles were not destructive, close to 100 percent of the bean beetles were infested with the mites."

Smith and Robert F. Schroder, also an entomologist at the department's laboratory in Beltsville, Md., said their tests show the mite does not infest beneficial insects.

If further research is satisfactory, the mite may work in tandem with another natural enemy against the beetle, a non-stinging parasitic wasp imported from India in 1973. The wasp has done well but does not survive harsh winters.

"Each spring, state departments of agriculture in Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, South Carolina and Virginia must redistribute the tiny beetle fighters," the report said.

"In north and central Florida, and southern Georgia and Alabama, researchers predict that the wasp will have to be released every two to three years."

The wasps lay their eggs in the larvae of the bean beetles. The young wasps then eat their way out, killing the larvae.

"You can't expect to have enough wasps in the fields when the beetles emerge from hibernation," Smith said. "By the time the wasps increase their numbers sufficiently, the beetles have a head start."

That's where the mites come in. They stay with the beetles through the winter and are ready when spring's warmth wakes up their unwitting hosts.

"The mites suck the lifeblood of the beetles, reducing their vitality and ability to lay eggs," the scientists said. "With the wasps attacking the larvae, and the mites the adults, the two parasites should complement each other well."

U.S. opening trade office overseas to boost farm sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is opening another trade office overseas in an effort to boost the sales of American farm products in the Middle East.

The office was being officially opened today in Manama, Bahrain. It will serve as a "focal point for export sales promotion and as a home base" for U.S. exporters and representatives of states wanting to develop their export efforts in the region, says the Agriculture Department.

Thomas R. Hughes, head of USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service, said the new agricultural trade office — the first in the Middle East — will oversee operations in Bahrain, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Syria, Jordan and Iraq.

Those countries imported about $600 million worth of U.S. agricultural products in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, he said.

Hughes and Robert H. Pelletreau Jr., U.S. ambassador to Bahrain, were among those attending the opening.

Safety on accident prone line improved, despite derailment

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, the nation's most accident prone line for the past several years, has a vastly improved safety record in 1979 despite another derailment this week in Molino, Fla.

"They have made progress," said Joseph Walsh, head of the Office of Safety of the Federal Railroad Administration.

"They've been extremely cooperative and we have seen a downturn in the number of accidents on the L&N. Unfortunately this Florida accident came along," he said Tuesday in a telephone interview.

The improvement in the L&N's safety record shows most dramatically in accident figures reported by the railroad to federal authorities. In the first nine months of 1979, reportable accidents totaled 328, down 42.5 percent from 570 accidents in the period in 1978.

For all 1978, the L&N had the nation's worst rail safety record, with 768 reportable accidents — 6.52 percent of the 10,991 accidents reported industrywide.

Reportable accidents include mishaps causing at least $2,900 damage.

Federal regulators and L&N officials found the latest accident in Florida especially dismaying because they feared the railroad's progress in the past year would be overlooked.

Preliminary findings by the FRA show the Molino mishap was caused by a "washout" of a portion of track running just north of Pensacola, the result of recent heavy rains.

It was "an act of God, not track connected or human failure," said Joe Beckman, an L&N spokesman.

The 22-car derailment Sunday caused a fire in six tank cars carrying liquid propane. The tanks were punctured with explosives Tuesday to release the propane in a giant fireball. About 500 persons within a 2½-mile radius evacuated, but there were no reported injuries.

Northern Florida has been the scene of some of the L&N's worst accidents the past two years. Last April, an L&N train derailed in Crestview, leaking ammonia and chlorine and forcing 5,000 persons from their homes. In May 1978, an L&N train derailed near Mossy Head, leaking anhydrous ammonia. In November 1977, an L&N derailment near Pensacola ruptured a tank carrying anhydrous ammonia, causing two deaths, 46 injuries and the evacuation of 2,000 persons.

The stretch of track between New Orleans and Chattanooga, Fla. where these accidents — including the latest — occurred has gotten special attention from federal inspectors and the railroad this year.

The L&N says 51 miles of rail and 874,200 cross ties have been replaced on the stretch so far this year.

Its improved safety record this year is in part due to an emergency order of the FRA imposed in February and lasting four months. Among other things, it put a 30 mph speed limit for hazardous cargo on L&N's entire 6,500-mile system.

A federal judge struck down the order as too broad in June.

Walsh said the railroad this year also has taken voluntary steps to upgrade equipment and improve the safety consciousness of its employees. Both were sharply criticized in past federal studies.

"I honestly think that this is one railroad line where we were making some real progress," said Walsh.

Bergland talk says poor countries need more interdependence now

ROME (AP) — More and more people are suffering from malnutrition and hunger and no long-term relief is in sight, the head of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said today. The U.S. delegate said poor countries should do more to help themselves.

"It is my sad duty to report that on the basis of most criteria, the (food) situation has deteriorated further in the last two years — it is in fact grim," Director General Edouard Saouma told the 20th FAO conference.

In an accompanying report, Saouma said poor rainfall in the Soviet Union and India this year has cut into the world's grain harvest and depleted food reserves. He predicted the global harvest this year would be 4 percent below last year's record crop.

Saouma called on all food aid donors to follow the lead of the United States, Canada and the Scandinavian countries and agree to a new and enlarged Food Aid Convention aimed at helping poor countries.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told nearly 100 agriculture ministers and hundreds of food experts from 146 countries attending the conference that poor countries need to do more to help feed their own people.

Bergland said an "increasing global interdependence" must be matched by "a greater acceptance by all nations of shared responsibility for our world poor and our world hungry." American farmers provide 57 percent of world grain exports, and FAO reports predict that America's role as the world's breadbasket is expected to increase sharply over the next 20 years.

The FAO estimates 400 million people suffer from serious malnutrition, which, according to the FAO, means they do not receive enough calories to "carry out normal functions in (their) daily lives."

Saouma's report said "even if we make the most enormous efforts to increase food and agricultural production," some 250 million people still will be starving by the year 2000.

Bergland added: "External assistance is effective only if the developing countries are firmly committed to giving the food and agriculture sector higher priority in their own development plans."

"The developing countries must commit more of their resources to agricultural development and provide greater incentives to their food producers."

"They must consider policies and investments to increase employment in rural areas so that the small farmer and the landless poor can earn enough to buy the food they need."

Bergland said the United States believes "our energies must be directed ... toward accelerating food and agricultural production, especially in the low-income, food-deficit countries."

Also needed is increased support for international agricultural research and stepped-up efforts to protect valuable croplands from erosion, depletion and degradation, he said.

Pope John Paul II called Monday for a new global strategy to fight hunger and said "all needy people have the right to receive food without having their dignity undermined."

The pontiff said that "the struggle against hunger cannot be fought merely with sentiments — sporadic and ineffective outbursts of indignation."

Farm exports rising say U.S. spokesmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm exports are setting records each year and could double again by 1985, according to some U.S. farm spokesmen.

"We have got to begin thinking and working for a national export goal. Farm exports should contribute in the range of $65 billion to $70 billion by 1985," said Winston Wilson, president of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

Exports of crops, meat animals and various products were valued at about $32 billion for the year that ended Sept. 30, a 17 percent increase in value. The volume of exports increased only 3.9 percent.

The total was about double the value of agricultural imports, leaving a $16 billion surplus to partially offset a $40 billion deficit in trading of other goods, such as oil.

Wilson and others made their predictions Tuesday at an exhibit and briefing in the Capitol sponsored by the Agricultural Council of America.

The council is a private group formed in 1973 to improve farming's image at a time of rapidly rising food prices. Highlighting the exhibit was a "scale of trade," with farm commodities offsetting imports such as oil, automobiles and electronic equipment.
