Pakistani troops rescue 100 Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pakistani army units rescued about 100 besieged Americans from the U.S. embassy in Islamabad today, freeing them from a mob of perhaps tens of thousands who had stormed the diplomatic compound, the State Department said.

The Americans saved in the dramatic roof-top rescue were evacuated to the British embassy.

A Marine guard stationed at the U.S. embassy in Islamabad was killed in the initial melee, department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

Pakistani authorities cooperated with American officials throughout the crisis, he said.

Parts of the embassy building were set afire by the mob, but the unidentified Marine was the only known American casualty, said another State Department spokesman, Thomas Reston.

"They are getting them out through the roof," Reston said of the army rescue of the Americans.

All of the trapped Americans, possibly numbering as many as 100, were freed by the military units from a third-floor vault in the embassy where they had taken refuge.

Other Pakistani mobs burned the American centers in Lahore and Rawalpindi, he said.

Some members of the Islamabad mob were armed with rifles and shotguns, Carter said. He said possibly tens of thousands were in the streets outside the compound.

The vault on the third floor was described as a large room, with a steel reinforced door. It has an escape hatch to the roof, but Carter said some of the mob may be on top of the building.

Carter said the embassy attacks apparently were sparked by an ambiguous report from Saudi Arabia suggesting that non-Moslems were involved in a takeover of a holy mosque in Mecca.

Unlike the siege at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, which had the support of the Iranian government, the attack on the Islamabad embassy is unauthorized by Pakistani authorities, he said.

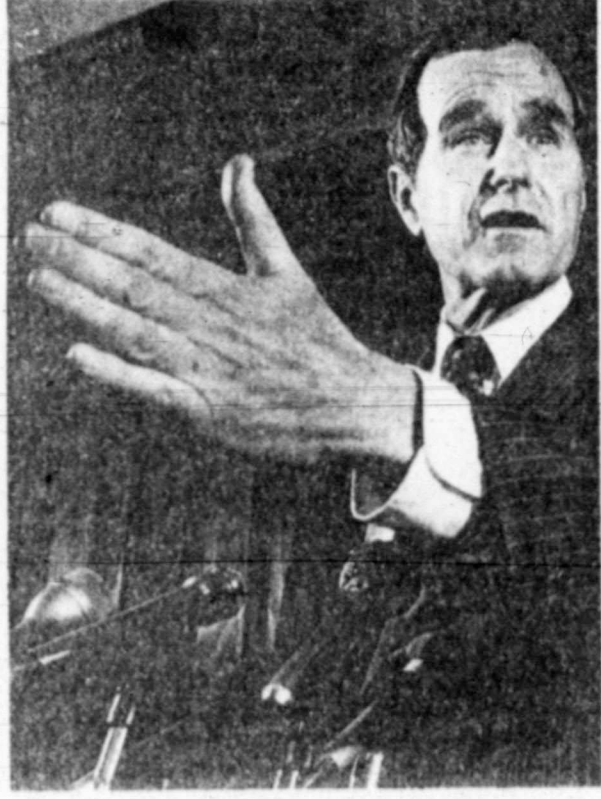

"There is no evidence to suggest anything but a mob without government support is involved," Carter told reporters at a news briefing called on short notice.

After the incident at Mecca, he said, Secretary of State Cyrus R.

Vance ordered a message sent to all embassies to take additional precautions. Carter said a second, and urgent, message followed it.

Vance called President Carter at Camp David, Md., at 4 a.m. to give him news of the assault, White House press secretary Jody Powell said.

Powell said the president had no plans to return to the White House from his mountaintop retreat, where he plans to spend Thanksgiving.

Bush sees 'edge' with experience

Candidate answers questions on Iran, SALT II, inflation

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

His experience in business, foreign policy, intelligence and legislative politics should give George Bush the edge over his opponents in seeking the Republican nomination for president, the former Midlander claimed Tuesday during a news conference.

Bush (not to be confused with his son, George W. Bush of Midland) answered questions on hostages in Iran, SALT II, inflation and foreign policy asked by local and national news media representatives at Midland Regional Airport.

He reneged judging President Carter too harshly on his handling of the 49 hostages remaining in Iran, saying, "I know the sensitivity of the situation."

Bush has served as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations and Chief of U.S. Liaison Office in the People's Republic of China.

"I hope Carter is successful in getting the hostages out of the situation," Bush said, referring to the last word that the 49 Americans may be tried in Iran as spies.

"The world opinion is on the side of the U.S.," he said. "But the U.S. is up against an anarchy in Iran which has no respect for the law."

Bush believes the U.S. should have a foreign policy "so convincing as to minimize the risks of this type (hostages in Iran). You must make the international community realize terrorism won't work."

While serving as ambassador to the U.N., Bush claimed he "really fought the battle to get the U.N. to act against international terrorism," but the world body was hesitant to take such a step.

Bush, who started an oil company in Midland and later expanded it into Houston, feels the country could use a windfall profits tax, but only if coupled with a plowback provision and other provisions.

The plowback provision would call for each oil company to use a certain amount of the profits for new exploration.

He proposed a policy to increase the use of coal and synthetics as energy sources. "We can't live on oil and gas alone and unreliable foreign oil," he explained.

Bush attributed the unusually large profit figures released by the oil companies to the higher prices being charged for crude oil by the oil cartel known as OPEC, or Oil Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The SALT II treaty being debated in Congress isn't acceptable in its present form, charged Bush, who also headed up the Central Intelligence Agency at one time.

The treaty should be changed and reworded to include "verifiable reduction of arms," he said.

"The 13 percent inflation rate and 15 percent prime interest rate is 'wiping out every person,'" he said, pledging to strive to lower these figures.

One way, he reasoned, would be by restricting government spending and excessive growth.

He would like to see a balanced budget, Bush said, but not by raising taxes. Instead, it also should come through limitations in growth of government spending.

Although Bush has started out in the race for president much like Carter did — as a dark horse — Bush cited his two terms in the House of Representatives as a basis for experience in dealing with Congress, something which Carter didn't have.

"Carter was so far from the outside — he didn't know how Congress worked, he didn't know about foreign affairs — and he needed a lot of on-the-job training," Bush charged.

The former Midlander announced his candidacy for president in early May, giving him a chance to obtain name identification in the states by the time primaries roll around, he said.

"We set out a strategy plan months ago and it's working," he claimed, citing victories in straw polls in three states, including Maine.

And his third-place finish in Florida behind opponents Ronald Reagan and fellow Texan John Connally has been rated as a victory, Bush said.

Looking ahead to the Democratic convention, the oilman said Carter will win over Edward Kennedy.

"Kennedy is out of step with the mood of the country today. He's a big spender, soft on defense and left of George McGovern," he commented.

Comparing himself with the other Republican contenders, Bush added, "I have a good, clean, honorable record and I'm ready to serve eight years into the 1980s."

Republican governors agree on energy issue

By DON McLEOD

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There are only 18 Republican governors, but they came away from their annual convention convinced they know the way to a GOP comeback — hanging the energy problem on the Democrats.

"This will be a battle cry. It will be a crusade," Ohio Gov. James Rhodes said Tuesday. "And I know the Republican candidates will start speaking out after this meeting concerning energy."

"If we can solve the energy problem," Rhodes said, "we will elect a Republican congress and also a Republican president."

The Republican Governors Association concluded its three-day meeting Tuesday by adopting a resolution charging the "national administration and the Congress have failed to respond to the nation's energy crisis."

"The people of America suffer from crippling inflation and unemployment and a weakened national defense because of our over-dependence on imported oil," the governors said.

The resolution called for maximum and immediate production and use of domestic oil, gas and coal reserves, development of nuclear energy and relaxation of federal environmental and land-use regulations.

Gov. James Thompson of Illinois invited governors from other energy producing states, or any others who want to join the crusade, to meet in Chicago "to see that this resolution is followed up and implemented with our congressional delegations."

No date was set for this energy war conference, but Thompson said it should be held "shortly."

Gov. Lee Dreyfus of Wisconsin said he is "not so sanguine about urging the federal congress. I think we have to go over their heads to the people."

"The present energy problem as espoused by Washington is a political fraud on the people, and I think the opportune time for the Republican Party is 1980," Roodes said.

"This is a basic issue for us in 1980," agreed Gov. Albert Quie of Minnesota.

Former secretary of state Henry Kissinger also said in a speech to the governors that weak leadership by the United States encouraged situations such as the crisis over Americans taken hostage when the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was seized Nov. 4.

Iranians continue American protest

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini whipped up mammoth anti-American demonstrations across Iran today as part of his campaign to pressure the U.S. government into surrendering the deposed shah.

Hundreds of thousands chanted "Mar bar shah, mar bar Carter" — "Death to the shah, death to Carter" — as they marched in orderly, well-organized columns through the streets of Iran's capital.

The religious leader of the Iranian revolution hardened his threat to try as spies the 49 Americans still held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. The Carter administration responded with its first veiled threat of military action and ordered the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and five escorting warships to the Indian Ocean. Another U.S. task force led by the carrier Midway is already in the area, about 600 miles south of the Persian Gulf.

In Pakistan, a mob of young Moslems today attacked the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad and another group burned down the U.S. Information Center in nearby Rawalpindi. No casualties were reported. The attacks were in retaliation for the seizure Tuesday of the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, site of Islam's holiest shrine. Although the invaders of the mosque were reported to be members of a Moslem sect linked to Khomeini's Shiite Moslems, the Pakistani mobs blamed the United States.

Khomeini seized on the incident to further his campaign against the United States. In a broadcast statement today he said it was "not far-fetched to assume that this act has been carried out by criminal American imperialism...and international Zionism."

Saudi sources at the Arab summit conference in Tunis said Saudi troops today assaulted the Moslem fanatics holding the mosque and recaptured most of it. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

The turnout for the day's demonstrations in Iran was expected to be the biggest since the jubilant celebrations that greeted Khomeini on his return from exile last February. Estimates of the crowds in Tehran ranged up to 2 million, or about half the normal population of the capital. The huge festive crowds marched to the occupied U.S. Embassy and were exhorted by religious leaders.

Along with their chants against the shah and President Carter, the marchers sang in praise of Khomeini, shook their fists in the air and shouted "Allah Akbar" "God is Great."

Light planes dropped leaflets over the marchers declaring that the American hostages were spies.

A Tehran Radio report, monitored in London, said the marchers had adopted a 17-point resolution calling for a continued struggle against American and demanding that the U.S. hostages be tried and punished in Iran unless the United States sends back the shah, who is being treated at a New York hospital.

The march started early in the morning and continued under bright sunlight. Each column carried its own Islamic banners, flags and placards bearing Khomeini's portrait. Males old and young were in the lead, followed by women and children. The women wore the traditional chador, the black head-to-toe veil.

There were people of all ages and all walks of life, from simple country folk to smartly dressed young men. Soldiers in camouflage uniforms joined the march, but they carried no arms.

Khomeini in a radio-television address Tuesday called on his millions of followers to demonstrate against American "imperialism" today, the first day of the Moslem holy month of Moharram and the beginning of Islam's 15th century.

The national television service added fuel to public indignation over the U.S. government's refusal to hand over the ailing shah by broadcasting films of troops and police firing on rioting opponents of the monarchy last year. After the broadcasts, thousands in Tehran climbed to their rooftops, and the city rang with cries of "Allah Akbar."

Varied holiday schedules planned for schools, offices

Some workers in Midland will get only one day off for Thanksgiving while others will have from two to five days to celebrate the eating of turkey.

Banks and savings and loan institutions are closing their doors Thursday only and will re-open on Friday for normal business.

State employees will have Thursday and Friday, plus the customary weekend, free to eat turkey and the leftovers before showing up at the office on Monday.

Federal workers, though, have only Thursday to gobble up the Thanksgiving meal before waddling back into the office on Friday.

The U.S. Postal Service will operate on a normal holiday schedule Thursday in observance of Thanksgiving Day.

Midland's Post Office will make no residential, business or rural deliveries that day, according to a spokesman.

There will be special delivery service, however, and holiday collections, the spokesman said.

There is a self-service postal unit in the lobby of the Main Post Office at 100 E. Wall St. which is open 24 hours a day for customer convenience.

The schools are taking the longest holiday. Midland students began celebrating as the school doors clanged shut Tuesday afternoon. However, teachers did have in-service training scheduled today. Teachers, students and other personnel won't be required to appear back on the schools' steps until Monday.

The Reporter-Telegram's Thanksgiving Day edition will be published and distributed Thursday morning to give employees a full Thanksgiving holiday with their families.

The regular metro and home editions will be combined in one edition with regular publication schedule resumed on Friday.

'Extra' expected

The Reporter-Telegram's annual Christmas Opening Edition, published on Thanksgiving Day, is traditionally one of the biggest newspapers we publish and that will be especially true this year.

Thursday's Thanksgiving Day edition will contain 128 pages packed with holiday shopping tips and filled with advertisements from Permian Basin merchants who will be offering Christmas gift ideas.

The newspaper will be published as a morning edition in order that most employees may have a full holiday with their families. However, to serve our readers the circulation and classified advertising departments will be open until noon.

Circulation calls should be placed to 682-5311 while the classified department can be reached by dialing 682-6222.

Union service begins at 7:30

The traditional union Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches is scheduled tonight.

The ecumenical event will begin at 7:30 p.m. in St. Ann's Catholic Church, corner of West Illinois Avenue and North M Street, and will be open to all residents of the community.

A massed choir made up of singers from various participating churches will present special music under the direction of Edward Leps. Organists will be Marilyn LaRue and George DeHart.

At the service, the first lesson will be read by the Rev. Raul Infante, pastor of El Calvario United Methodist Church, and the second lesson by Marti Garza from St. Ann's Church.

The Psalm reading will be by the Rev. Bob Netherland of Asbury United Methodist Church, and the Holy Gospel will be read by the Rev. Larry Grimm of First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Robert Ford, who moved to the city last June to become pastor of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon at the service. His sermon title is "The God Who Blesses," with text from Psalm 147.

The Litany of Thanksgiving will be led by the Rev. David Baker, pastor of Hope Lutheran Church. The offertory meditation and prayer will be led by the Rev. Mitchell Williams of First United Methodist Church, and the Rev. Fred Webster of St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

The prayer of thanksgiving and the benediction will be presented by the Rev. Joseph Schley, new rector of St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Clifford Blackburn is the host pastor for the union service.

A worsening crisis

Although the near-anarchy that prevails in Iran admits to no organized government in the conventional sense, the Iranians are, nevertheless, skillfully orchestrating their confrontation with the United States over the fate of U.S. hostages held captive in the American Embassy. Such skill, and the cynicism that we see accompanying it, bode ill indeed for the future.

On the 16th day of this crisis and amidst a growing world outcry, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and his Revolutionary Council decided to show their "Islamic mercy," as they expressed it, by releasing black and women hostages. First off, two Marine sergeants of the embassy guard and a secretary were paraded out to parrot Iranian propaganda before a carefully contrived news conference for 200 reporters and cameramen representing the world's media.

A few hours later, 10 more hostages — four women and six blacks — were brought before another news conference prior to being flown to a U.S. military base in West Germany.

Even as the Iranians were demonstrating their mercy to American blacks and women, they indicated they would bring their remaining American prisoners to trial on spy charges. And, as though to give credence to this ominous intention, the so-called "student" mob holding the hostages detained two women and one black male along with the 46 white American males. Obviously, if the new spy scenario were to have credence, charges would have to include a cross-section of embassy personnel. Might not questions be raised if only white American males were accused?

The latest Iranian maneuvers brought an appropriate no-nonsense response from Washington, including a statement that the decision to free only blacks and women would not "split the United States by sex and race." A welcome underscoring of this assessment came from Vernon Jordan, a U.S. black leader and president of the National Urban League, who predicted the cynical Iranian attempt to lure American blacks from loyalty to their country would fail.

The pro-Iranian statements by some of the released hostages, particularly the two Marine Corps sergeants, was discomfiting for Americans — recalling the large number of defections by U.S. POWs during the Korean war. A Marine is a Marine is a Marine and his countrymen ought to be able to expect him to demonstrate his traditional manhood under stress.

The unfortunate statements just made by hostages may turn out to be only curtain-raisers for what is to follow should the remaining captives are placed on trial. This alarming prospect looms because the so-called "students" are believed by knowledgeable observers to be, in fact, members of a radical, left-wing organization.

The American prisoners may be subjected to the sophisticated Marxist techniques of brainwashing that, we know from history, can produce shocking, self-destructing confessions. Moreover, we should be prepared for a strange phenomenon of our time wherein some terror victims, especially hostages, tend to identify and become sympathetic with their captors.

In other words, the threatened trial of American hostages in Tehran, in violation of centuries-old traditions of diplomatic immunity, could become a degrading, humiliating spectacle altogether intolerable for the United States — a development where national interests could possibly transcend even the personal safety of the hostages. To guard against such an eventuality, Washington should give meaning to the strongest possible warning to Tehran by such action as beefing up the U.S. naval presence in the Indian Ocean for a possible naval blockade of Iran.

We would be less than candid if we did not share our belief that the Iranian crisis will become worse, maybe much worse, before it can get better, if it ever does.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Big drug firms use scare tactics

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Tribal witch doctors use fright masks and mumbo-jumbo incantations to intimidate their superstitious patients. A growing number of U.S. pharmaceutical firms are using the same deceptive scare tactics to protect windfall profits which would make even an oil executive blush.

Greedy drug companies have played a major role in sending the cost of medical care skyrocketing out of reach for millions of elderly and disadvantaged Americans. Since 1975, the cost of prescription drugs has soared by 30 percent, while those who need them most survive on fixed starvation-level incomes.

The industry's rake-off has been threatened recently by an increasing consumer awareness that generic drugs, which are sold by chemical name and are not protected by lucrative trademark laws, can be obtained at a fraction of the price of the heavily advertised brand-name products of big pharmaceutical operators.

We've reported how the big companies resorted to clever ruses to discourage smaller competitors from using generic names, while charging millions of dollars more for equal, but more expensively labeled products. Now we've discovered shamelessly misleading promotional campaigns designed to frighten doctors and pharmacists from dispensing cheaper generic drugs. Here are just a few of the questionable tactics we've uncovered:

— McNeil Laboratories, manufacturers of a prescription brand-name painkiller called Parafon Forte, wrote pharmacists across the country warning that substituting generic equivalents of their product was against the law. Outraged Food and Drug Administration officials protested the claim as untrue and demanded a retraction.

McNeil responded with a weak rejoinder contending that while the government backed the generic substitute as legal, the firm's lawyers were of a different opinion. The company's legal beagles had implied veiled threats of legal action against pharmacists who might prescribe the less expensive generic substitutes.

— Pfizer, a profiteering titan in the drug industry, sent promotional material to physicians on its anti-dizziness drug, Antivert, which has several generic equivalents. Pfizer claimed their own tests showed 10 of 17 generic products failed to meet potency standards.

But FDA investigators discovered that 64 generic samples had been tested by Pfizer, making the true failure rate less than 15 percent. Pfizer's propaganda was branded as

ART BUCHWALD

The company spokesman has most important post

WASHINGTON — The most important position in any large corporation is that of company spokesman. He is the person put out front when the corporation is accused of some misdeed or violation of the law. My friend, Prof. Heinrich Applebaum, who teaches a course in corporate spokesmanship at the Stonewall School of Business, let me attend one of his classes the other day.

There were three dummy television cameras in the room to simulate an actual press conference.

Applebaum said, "All right, Bensing. You will play the spokesman for the Windfall Oil Co. Marx, Rogers and Clurman will be the reporters from the networks. The Department of Energy has just released a report that Windfall has bilked its customers out of $1 billion. Start the questions."

"Mr. Bensing, the DOE says that you overcharged your customers by $1 billion. What do you say to that?"

Bensing wet his lips. "It's a dirty, contemptible lie."

Applebaum broke in: "No, Bensing, a company spokesman must keep his cool under media questioning. Your response should be, 'We don't wish to comment on the matter until we've read the charges.'"

"Yes, sir," Bensing said.

Applebaum said, "That may not get you off the hook, but it's a good start.

Art Buchwald

Marx, throw a tough question at him."

"Since 1974 you've overcharged the public $5 billion," Marx said. "Do you intend to return any of that money to your customers?"

Bensing answered, "These are vindictive charges made by a vindictive administration whose one aim is to get a large tax on all oil profits."

"Very good, Bensing," said Applebaum. "How did you come up with that one?"

"I saw it on the Cronkite show last night."

"Push him hard, Rogers," Applebaum yelled.

"Mr. Bensing, you took an ad in the newspapers last week explaining that Windfall was only making half a cent on a gallon of gasoline, yet your profits were up by 234 percent. How did you make all the money?"

Bensing looked puzzled. "I didn't understand the question."

Applebaum yelled, "That's not good enough! The cameras will close in on your face and everyone will know you're lying. Does anyone know what Bensing should say?"

The class was silent.

Applebaum said, "You should say your gas stations made most of their profits from Coke machines. Also that you raised the cost of going to the washroom from 10 to 15 cents, which is keeping within the price guidelines."

"Will they really buy that one, Professor?"

"They will if you say it with authority. And one more thing, Bensing, watch what you're doing with your hands. TV cameramen always like to shoot an oil spokesman's hands when he's answering a question. It's a dead giveaway that you're trying to cover something up. Clurman, it's your turn."

"Mr. Bensing, the people think the oil companies are ripping them off. The report from the DOE seems to confirm this. How can you establish your credibility?"

"You've seen our TV commercials. It's up to the public to decide whether they want to believe Bob Hope or some flunky who works for the government."

"Bravo," said Applebaum. "I'm giving you a B- I might have given you an A if you weren't perspiring so much. Remember this: A spokesman for a large corporation must never sweat on television."

The professor continued, "All right, class, your assignment for tomorrow is to prepare a statement for the Foul Chemical Co., defending itself against charges by Mike Wallace on '60 Minutes' that it dumped nerve gas into the Central Park Reservoir, which caused everybody in New York City to stop brushing their teeth."

Mark Russell says

We must figure out how to get at the estimated 700 billion barrels of coal and oil shale deposits locked in the mountains of our Western states. The secret to energy security is to put Wyoming in your tank.

Seven hundred billion barrels is four times the size of Saudi Arabia's reserves. One problem is that after mining the coal and shale the West will look like Saudi Arabia.

The question is this: Do we continue bowing to OPEC, or do we want a flat Colorado?

What are we willing to pay for energy? Can we sacrifice the Rockies? Can John Denver learn to get high on strip mines?

C'mon, America, we can do it. Let us beat our swords into plowshares, our ski slopes into 20 weight, and our mountains into high test.

HEMISPHERE REPORT:

Press threatened in Caribbean, Latin American countries

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Copley News Service

William Giandoni

"It is a rare privilege for any newspaper to have the prime minister and his cabinet lead a demonstration against it outside its buildings," Oliver Clarke declared in the precise way that would be expected of a graduate of the London School of Economics.

"And have them share the platform with one of the leaders of the two Communist parties in Jamaica," he added for emphasis.

Clarke, clearly, is concerned about developments in his native Jamaica, a former British crown colony, as well as in the other countries in the Caribbean and in Latin America.

Although he just turned 35, Clarke has been managing director of the company that publishes The Gleaner, the principal independent newspaper in Jamaica, for three years now.

The island nation's drift away from the democratic camp troubles him.

Clarke said Jamaica Prime Minister Michael Manley spelled out Jamaica's foreign policy directions in the speech he delivered to the summit meeting of the Organization of Non-Aligned Nations that President Fidel Castro hosted in Havana in September.

Manley spoke then of "the right of the Puerto Rican people to self-determination and independence" from the United States. He said non-aligned nations should "support those who struggle for Puerto Rican independence, regardless of whether they are in the minority at this time. ..." Manley denounced the U.S. "blockade" against Cuba, and talked of "the recovery of Guantanamo Bay," where the United States has had a naval base since before Cuba became independent in 1903.

What concerns Clarke more immediately, though, are the words and deeds of the ruling People's National Party, of which Prime Minister Manley is president, that affect his company's publications. The only other national newspaper on the island, The Daily News, is owned and operated by the government, as are the radio and television.

He told the recent meeting of the Inter American Press Association in Toronto, Canada, that events in Jamaica have been such that "can only be interpreted that there now exists a concerted and well-organized program designed to — even by the most moderate interpretations — influence the activities of the Gleaner Co. and its publications."

What Clarke said about the government and ruling party in Jamaica, which is widely reputed to be a "democratic" country, was echoed by editors and publishers from other countries, too.

Luis Teofilo Nunez, editor of El Universal, Caracas, Venezuela, for example, noted that in his country, which has enjoyed fame as a democracy since the dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez was overthrown in 1958, the former minister of culture sought to impose unacceptable regulations on the communications media. The newspapers protested vigorously, and the minister was thereupon named Venezuelan ambassador to the Sandinista regime in Nicaragua.

Other Latin American newsmen also told of instances of governmental attempts to limit freedom of the press and information, but a thornier problem is that faced by editors in countries where terrorism is or has been rampant.

In Argentina, for example, Riobo Caputto, editor of El Litoral, Santa Fe, was held under house arrest for publishing a dispatch from Nicaragua in which an Argentine terrorist leader outlined his plans for future guerrilla activities in his homeland. The detention of Caputto and two other Argentine newsmen was ordered under terms of a security law that was passed years ago.

Similar legislation, prohibiting publication of what the government considers subversive materials, exists in other countries, too.

El Salvador was the case most heatedly discussed during the IAPA meeting.

Jose Dutriz, publisher of La Prensa Grafica, and Enrique Altamirano, publisher of Diario de Hoy, both of the City of San Salvador, explained that the laws in their country banned publication of such as the manifesto of the Marxist terrorists who recently kidnapped two U.S. businessmen.

The terrorists demanded as part of the ransom that two full newspaper pages be devoted to their statement which included denunciations of the Salvadoran government, of capitalism, of U.S. imperialists, and applause for the Sandinista revolution in neighboring Nicaragua.

Although the statement was not published in El Salvador, it was printed in several U.S. and Latin American newspapers and, Dutriz reported, reports from abroad on the kidnappings and the manifesto were published.

Dutriz complained that not all the news coverage the United States has been getting from El Salvador during the recent outbreaks of violence, that led to the overthrow of the government of President Carlos H. Romero, was "objective." He said that on occasions of violent clashes between demonstrators and authorities, foreign correspondents "are there with their cameras before us. They know what is going to take place. They are tipped off by the leftist extremists to the acts of violence."

By the time the week-long IAPA conference ended, there was a new governing junta ruling El Salvador:

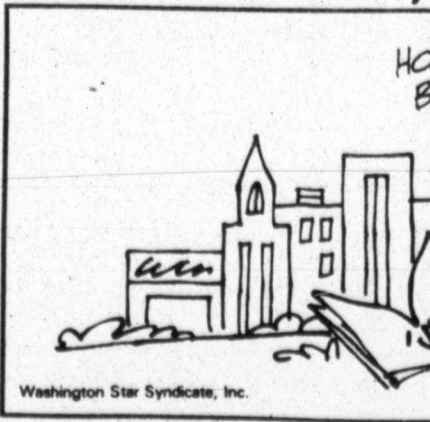

But as Raul Kraiselburd, youthful editor of El Dia, La Plata, Argentina, pointed out, "Terrorism is becoming a matter of daily life." He recommended that the IAPA consider the subject, not just with reference to El Salvador, but to all of Latin America.

Kraiselburd probably has a better understanding of the consequences of terrorism than any other Latin journalist. He took over direction of El Dia after his father, David, was kidnapped by a terrorist group and was shot to death when authorities raided the hideout in which he was being held.

Houston mayor withstands verbal attack, wins election

By ROB WOOD

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Jim McConn withstood a bitter verbal attack from Councilman Louis Macey to win re-election, and now will preside over a council with the first women and first Hispanic in Houston's history.

McConn kept his support solid in the white middle-income precincts and picked up a giant share of the voters in the black and Hispanic sections to win the runoff. In some black areas, McConn won as much as 80 percent of the vote.

Macey's strength came from the affluent and Republican strongholds.

Although it was a nonpartisan election, Macey had the backing of most GOP voters, while McConn was the choice in Democratic precincts.

With 346 of 355 precincts reporting, the vote was: McConn 87,033, Macey 68,653.

The hotly contested mayor's race took the spotlight, but perhaps more significantly, the runoff changed the face of the City Council.

Two women won council seats, the first to do so in the history of the nation's fifth-largest city.

Eleanor Tinsley, former Houston School Board president, stunned incumbent Frank E. Mann, a 20-year veteran, by some 13,000 votes.

Christin Hartung, a 38-year-old former county judge's aide, defeated insurance executive Don Hogan, 37.

The council face-lift actually began in the Nov. 6 general election.

State Rep. Ben Reyes became the first Hispanic to serve on the council and the black representation rose from one to three.

One other incumbent, Johnny Gossett, easily won re-election Tuesday.

About 25 percent of the 666,000 registered voters marked ballots.

"This was a smashing victory that indicates the confidence in the McConn administration I am looking forward to working with the new council," McConn said of the outcome.

Macey said he would not concede "until the last vote is counted. But, if I lose, I will worry about it for about 15 minutes, go to sleep, and get up and start planning a campaign for two years from now."

In the runoff campaign, McConn was endorsed by the three black and one Hispanic councilmen-elect.

This apparently won for the McConn camp most of the vote received by Leonel Castillo in the first election into the McConn camp.

Castillo, former city controller who resigned recently as commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, received 23.6 percent of the vote Nov. 6.

Judge hands grain dealer 17-year prison sentence

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Citing the "human weakness for greed," a federal judge Tuesday sentenced former Iowa Park grain dealer Robert Johnson to 17 years in prison for interstate transportation of stolen grain.

"It is so great to see someone go from rags to riches," U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon said. "So sad to see that individual end up in a different light... we get back to that human weakness for greed."

Mahon sentenced Johnson to 10 years on one count and seven on another, with the terms to run consecutively.

He also accepted a plea bargain agreement under which an additional 11 counts against Johnson were dismissed in return for his guilty plea.

Johnson was penitent, and vowed to pay back farmers whose grain was lost in the episode.

His bizarre saga began in January 1978, when he was reported missing from his boat during a cruise in the Gulf of Mexico.

Governor Clements basks in light of Kissinger praise

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements basked in the warm light of recognition today after Republican governors backed his "Texas Position" on energy and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger awarded him high praise.

The governors unanimously adopted an energy resolution Tuesday calling for decontrol of oil and gas prices to stimulate domestic production, the keystone of Clements' "Texas-position."

The assembly of governors also called for a change in federal rules inhibiting the use of coal.

Kissinger addressed the governors, and took the opportunity to pay homage to the host.

"We couldn't have gotten through

One staffer said Rhodes asked for language that would "make the Republicans 'look like heroes' to the American people."

"If we follow this, we can elect a Republican president and a Republican congress," he told the governors.

Gov. Lee Dreyfus of Wisconsin said the governors should "go beyond Congress" in pushing for an energy program that would provide independence from OPEC.

"We ought to go over their heads to the people," Dreyfus said.

Besides decontrol and plow back of windfall profits into energy production, the governor said it was "imperative" to adopt a national policy calling for:

— Conversions of oil burning generators and boilers to coal, the use of coal in new industry and modification of existing environment that inhibit the use of coal.

— Expanded construction of nuclear power plants but with "reassuring safety standards" and "appropriate safe disposal" of radioactive wastes.

— Development of precise goals for domestic energy production for each year of the 1980s "so the people can measure the nation's success or lack of it."

Alaska's treasury full

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — While Northeastern cities hover on the edge of bankruptcy and inflation licks at local governments across the land, Alaska's treasury is bursting with a spare $1 billion.

The unexpected bundle arrived because of Alaska's oil treasure on its North Slope. The price of Alaska oil is tied to the prices posted by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — and those prices have risen and risen again.

Royalties and severance taxes paid on oil leaving the state account for 70 percent of the Legislature's annual revenues.

This year alone, the price boosts have been translated into a $1 billion budget surplus. That is enough to pay normal operating expenses — and then issue each Alaskan a check for $2,700.

Analysts say the surplus could total $27.8 billion in the 1990s.

Six months ago, those same state analysts were predicting Alaska could go broke by the mid-1980s as Prudhoe Bay production tapered off. Now bureaucrats are scratching their heads over what to do with the windfall. Alaska's 400,000 residents, however, have plenty of ideas.

They have flooded newspapers and politicians with letters suggesting the money be spent to help the handicapped, build a Swiss-style ski resort at Mount McKinley, develop hydroelectric energy, provide free transportation and free education.

They have suggested construction projects ranging from a natural gas pipeline to a municipal golf course in Anchorage. They want loans given for business, industry, agriculture, tourism and housing.

The Anchorage Times assigned a

"Billion Dollar Editor" to keep track of letters on how to "Help the Governor Spend a Billion."

Dorothy Wilhelm of Anchorage promptly wrote: "Dear Editor: What to do with the billion dollars? 1. Do not let the legislators get their hands on it."

Not surprisingly, some are urging the state to either abolish its individual income tax or give citizens tax credits based on length of residence in Alaska.

"I don't believe the state should be in the business of saving our budget surplus, but should disperse it to Alaska residents," Dennis Bottorff told the Fairbanks Daily News-Miner.

State officials are not enthusiastic about the idea of doing away with the state individual income tax.

Deputy Commissioner of Taxation Joe Donohue said he felt it would be too risky to run state government on an unpredictable and fluctuating oil income. He said, for example, that the state would be "strapped" for funds if the trans-Alaska pipeline were shut down for any longer than one month.

Gov. Jay Hammond favors a system of tax credits in which money would be returned to taxpayers based on length of residence in the state.

Lifelong Alaskans agree. Many resent "outsiders" from other states who came to Alaska only to make money in the oilfields or on pipeline construction.

Dennis Jennings of Fairbanks said a way should be found to "return the oil revenues to ourselves and at the same time keep our state income tax rates high enough to soak the carpetbaggers that are taking their income out of state."

ENERGY

the crisis in 1973-1976 without the strong hand of Bill Clements," said Kissinger, who was secretary of state in the Nixon and Ford administrations while Clements was deputy secretary of defense.

The energy resolution also endorsed Clements' concept that "resulting above normal revenues be plowed back into domestic energy production of all energy firms."

Clements' press secretary, John Ford, said the governors' position was adopted without any need for "behind the scenes salesmanship," even though several governors come from consumer states that produce little or no oil.

Ford said Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio visited with the staff members who wrote the resolution and persuaded them to toughen the language, which blames the Carter administration for the current energy problems.

Committee okays bill

By MERRILL BROWN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday narrowly approved a bill restricting the right of the 18 largest oil companies to acquire other large companies, particularly outside the energy field.

The 8-to-7 vote was a victory for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the Judiciary Committee and candidate for next year's Democratic presidential nomination, who has been a leading sponsor of the bill.

But the victory seemed likely to be more show than substance, since even supporters said the bill had at best an uncertain future on the Senate floor, while the House has taken no action on the subject.

The bill in part reflects senatorial indignation at this year's rising oil prices and record oil company profits.

Its basic purpose is to force the companies to use more of their resources for energy exploration, less for diversification into other sectors of the economy. In recent years, almost all the major oil companies have bought up large companies in energy and other fields. Their non-energy acquisitions have ranged from copper mines to department store chains to newspapers.

The bill would prevent oil company purchases of nonenergy-related firms with assets of $50 million or more. It also would bar acquisitions of energy-related firms with assets of $100 million or more.

An exception to the ban would be transactions that would enhance competition or materially "increase or substantially promote energy exploration, extraction, production or conversion."

Under the proposal, judgments about oil company acquisitions would be made by the attorney general, under the Clayton Act, which deals with mergers and which the legislation would amend.

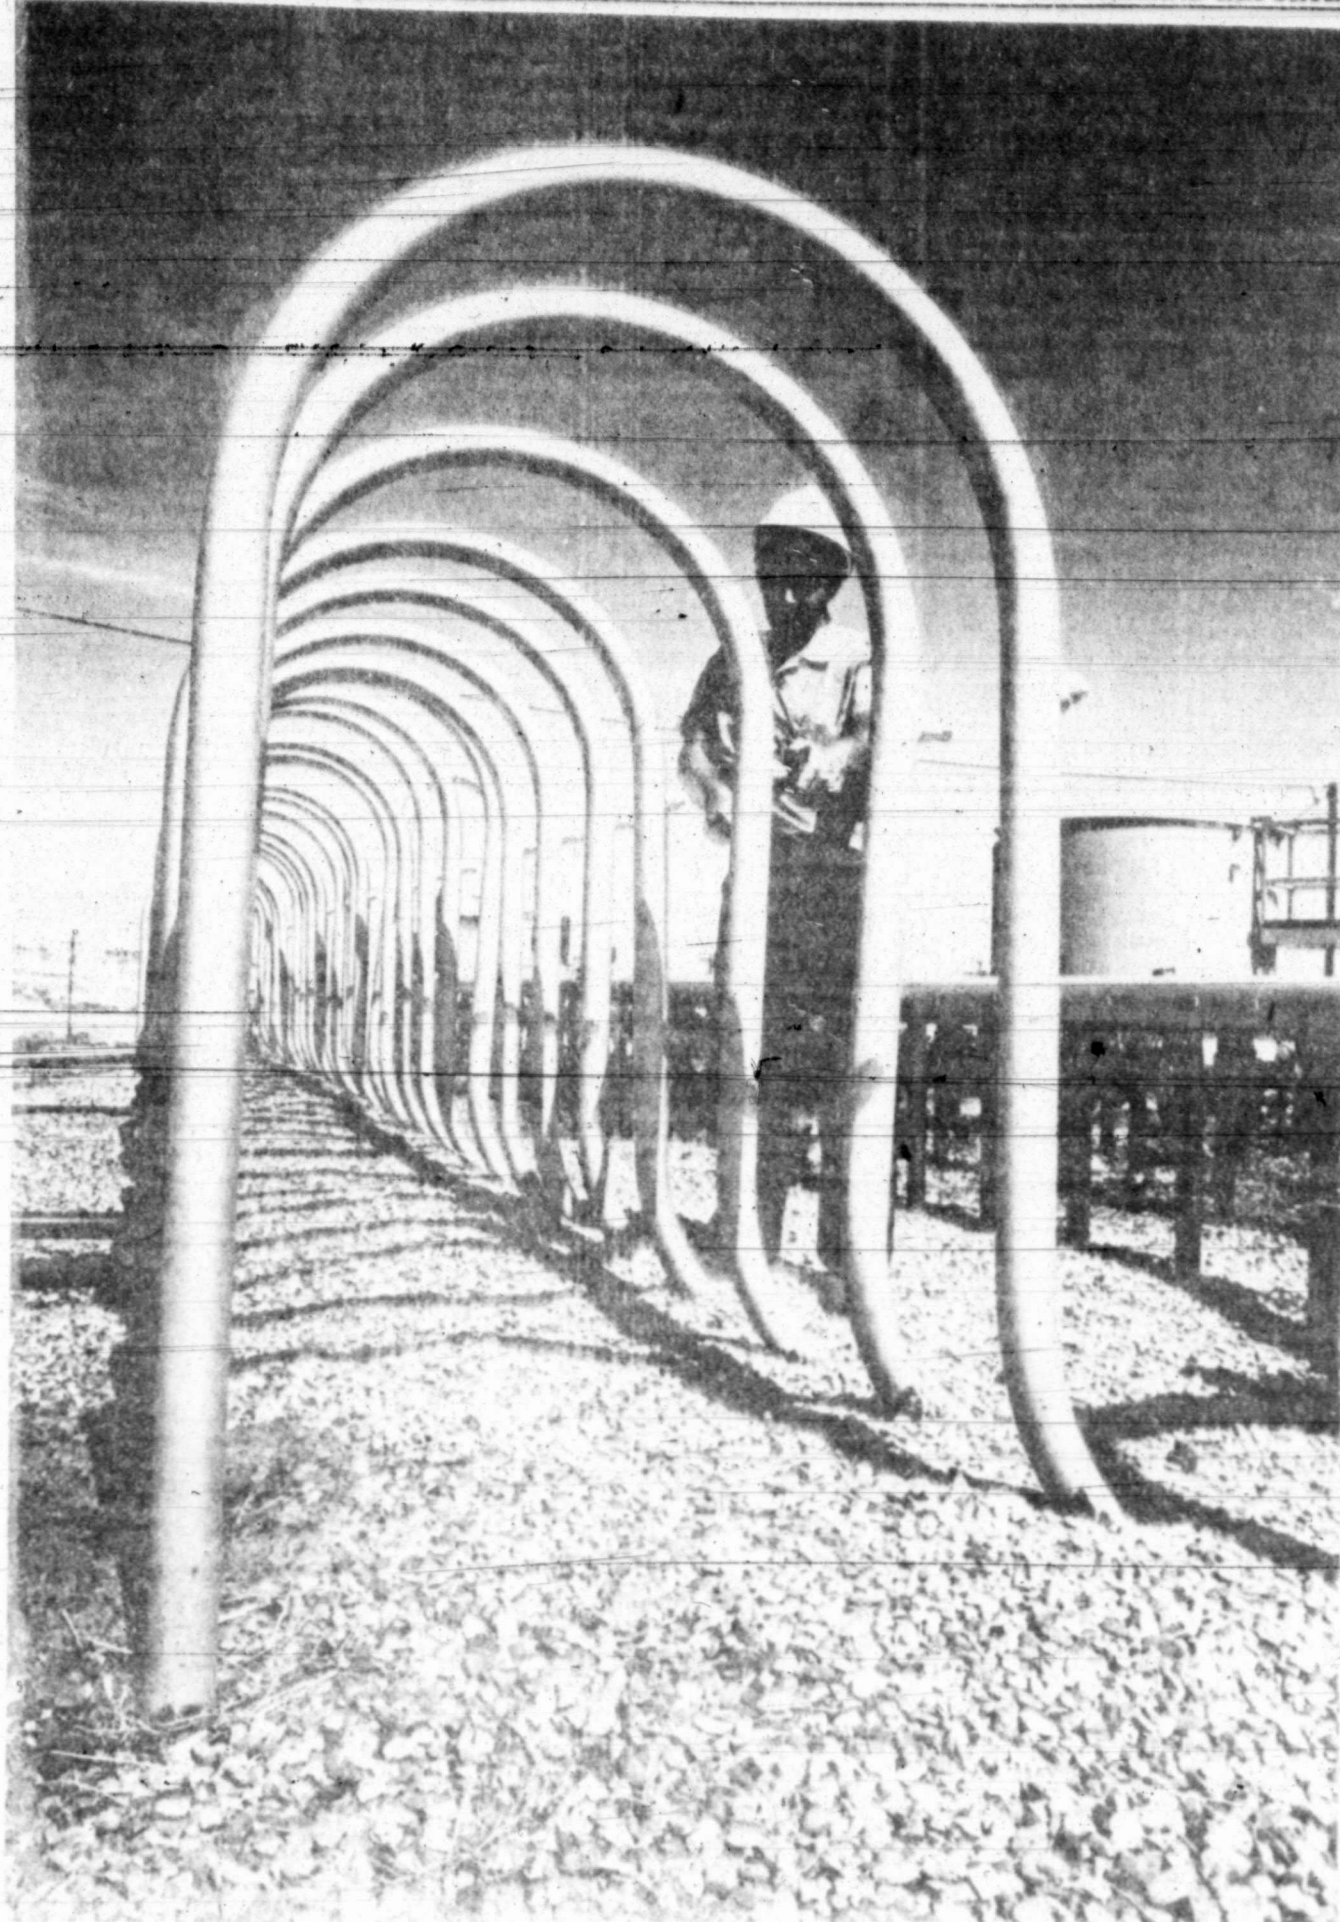

At the close of a stormy, 2 1/2-hour hearing on Capitol Hill, committee Democrats, with the exception of Howell T. Heflin of Alabama, approved the bill after a series of amendments were considered.

The most controversial amendment was a proposal by Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., that would have prevented the acquisition of a large firm by an oil company unless its energy investments in the previous year exceeded company profits. The amendment was defeated, 8 to 7.

The bill's supporters used the hearing and the legislation as a forum for venting their frustration with oil company profits and lobbying techniques. "I'd be willing to go this way (vote for the bill) just to stick it in their left eye," said Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., who complained of contradictory statements by oil company witnesses before the judiciary and finance committees.

The Finance Committee considered an oil "windfall" profits tax, which is now before the full Senate.

Biden said the oil firms told the Judiciary Committee that the bill, in hindering diversification, would prevent them from making deals they need for survival, while at the same time they told the Finance Committee of their need to retain capital for development of new oil sources.

Monsanto schedules 10,600-foot test in Andrews area; field work reported

Monsanto Co., operating from Midland, announced location for a 10,600-foot well with 7.5 miles north of Oyster City in Glasscock County.

It is No. 1 Carter, 1,390 feet from south and 650 feet from east lines of section 1, block 24, T-3-S, E-8-P survey.

The site is two and seven-eighths miles southwest of the Deadwood West (Strawn oil) pool and 3/8 mile west of depleted Wolfcamp production.

CROSBY TEST

United Company of Lubbock filed application to drill the two projects in the Crosby County portion of the Hopple (Clear Fork) field, 10 miles south of Lorenzo.

The No. 2-1042 Wheeler is three-quarters mile east and slightly south of production, 1,980 feet from north and 680 feet from east lines of section 1042, block 1, H&OB survey.

The No. 1-1042 is three-quarters mile east of production and 680 feet from north and east lines of section 1042, block 1, H&OB survey. Both projects are scheduled to 5,000 feet.

GAINES SITE

WTG Exploration, Inc. of Midland announced plans to drill the No. 2 Bennett Estate as a location east extension to the three-well Seagraves, South (Shuro-Devonian) field of Gaines County.

Location is 1,667 feet from north and 2,173 feet from west lines of section 3, block C-35, PSL survey, six miles southwest of Seagraves.

Contract depth is 13,200 feet and Holiday Drilling Co. of Midland has the contract.

VAL VERDE PROJECT

Phillips Petroleum Co. of Odessa will drill the No. 2-F Cauthorn as a three-quarter mile stepout to the Vregrone (Strawn gas) field, 22 miles northeast of Juno.

Scheduled to 10,300 feet, location is 2,043 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 12, GC&SF survey abstract 2737.

CROCKETT RE-ENTRY

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland will re-enter and plug back to 6,600 feet for completion attempt as a Pennsylvania detrital oil producer, three-quarters mile south and slightly east of that pay in the Tripoli multipay field of Crockett County.

The No. 1-C Mann State is located 20 miles south of McCamey, 2,925 feet from south and 467 feet from north-west lines of section 4, block B, GC&SF survey. Originally drilled by Shell Oil Co. as

No. 1 Moon State, it was plugged at 3,107 feet and abandoned in Feb., 1973.

TOW GREEN EXTENDER

Brushy Creek Drilling Co. (formerly Duncan Drilling Co. of Big Spring) has announced potential test in the No. 15-A-1, T. Clark as a one-half mile northeast extension to the Water Valley (San Andres) field, eight and one-half miles west of Water Valley.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 9 barrels of 26 gravity oil and 25 barrels of water, through perforations from 1,392 to 1,100 feet, after an acid treatment of 2,000 gallons.

Total depth was reached at 1,552 feet, where 4.5-inch casing is set. Location is 330 feet from north and 2,350 feet from west lines of section 32, block 5, H&TC survey.

SEA PROJECT

Morris R. Antwell of Hobbs, N.M., will drill the No. 1 Lucky Larry as a location north offset to the No. 1 Landady, undesignated Morrow oil discovery well, six miles south of Caprock.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,890 feet from east lines of section 5-12-32r. Contract depth is 11,300 feet.

NOLAN RE-ENTRY

Morris R. Antwell will re-enter and clean out to 3,940 feet for recompleting attempt as the fourth Rowna & Hope, Northwest (Canyon sand) producer.

The No. 1 Re-entry, Rowna & Hope, reef producer in the Rowna & Hope field, is five and one-half miles north-east of Roscoe.

Originally drilled to 6,765 feet, production was through perforations from 6,280 to 6,158 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,973 feet from west lines of section 35, block 26, T&P survey.

CRANE TEST

Southland Royalty Co. of Midland will drill the No. 1-20 Bryant three-eighths mile northwest of production in the Crane County portion of the Crawar (Devonian, North) field, six miles southeast of Monahans.

Scheduled to 6,900 feet, location is 770 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 20, block B-18, PSL survey.

WARD WELL FINALS

Clayton W. Williams Jr. of Midland filed potential test on the No. 2 Barbara Williams, one location northwest of the same firm's No. 1 Barbara Williams on the west side of the Scott (Delaware oil) field of Ward County, two miles south of Barstow.

Operator reported a pumping potential of 15 barrels of 37.4-gravity oil and 133 barrels of water, through perforations from 4,873 to 4,929 feet.

The pay section was acidized with 2,000 gallons and the gas-liquid ratio is 1,857-1.

Total depth is 5,307 feet, where 5.5-inch casing is set.

Location is 467 feet from northeast and 1,700 feet from northwest lines of section 35, block 23, H&TC survey.

PECOS TESTS

John H. Hendrix Corp. of Midland will drill a northeast offset to the No. 1 ARCO, reopener of Ellenburger production in the Pecos Valley, field of Pecos County.

The No. 2 ARCO-IRT is scheduled to 4,585 feet in the Pecos Valley (Devonian 5400) field, one mile northwest of production, 690 feet from northeast and 1,980 feet from northwest lines of section 36, block 3, H&TC survey, seven miles southwest of Imperial.

Sobio Natural Resources Co. of Midland spotted location for the No. 3-62 Canon, five-eighths mile northeast of production in the Yucca Butte, West (Strawn) field of Pecos County, 12 miles west-northwest of Sheffield.

Scheduled depth is 8,700 feet, located 1,539 feet from south and 664 feet from east lines of section 63, block A-2, TCRR survey.

ANDREWS EXTENDER

Tucker & Baumgardner of Midland completed the No. 1 Mourning Dove as a one-half mile northeast extension to the Wemac (Wolfcamp) field of Andrews County, three miles east of Andrews.

On 24-hour pumping test it made 80 barrels of 10.4-gravity oil and 20 barrels of water, through perforations from 9,077 to 9,126 feet.

The pay section was acidized with 1,500 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons. Gas-oil ratio is 587-1.

Drilled to 9,500 feet, 4.5-inch casing was landed at 9,248 feet. Plugged back depth is 9,207 feet.

Location is 1,050 feet from north and 1,600 feet from west lines of section 1, block A-44, PSL survey.

ECTOR WELL FINALS

Amoco Production Co. completed the No. 1-BG David Fasken three miles southeast of production in the Fasken, South (Atoka) field of Ector County, eight miles northwest of Odessa.

Operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 68 barrels of 41.5-gravity oil and no water, through a 10/64-inch choke and perforations between 10,536 to 10,650 feet.

The pay was acidized with 6,500 gallons and the gas-liquid ratio is 4,662-1.

Total depth was reached at 10,882 feet, where 5.5-inch casing is set, and plugged back depth is 10,835 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 35, block 41, T-1-N, G&MMB&A survey.

Corporate profits 'rebound'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Profits of U.S. corporations rebounded in the third quarter while the nation's overall economy proved even more resistant to recession than first believed, the government says.

However, government economists said Tuesday the much-anticipated recession still is on the horizon.

And they cited blemishes in the corporate profit picture that could portend reduced incentives for businesses to invest and for people to buy stock.

THE COMMERCE Department reported that corporate after-tax profits in July, August and September increased from the second quarter at an annual rate of 6.2 percent. They had declined about 2 percent in the previous quarter.

The department also said the gross national product, after being adjusted for inflation, increased at an annual rate of 3.5 percent last quarter, rather than 2.4 percent as originally estimated.

That easily offset a 2.3 percent decline in the second quarter.

THE GNP — the total output of goods and services — was at an annual rate of $1,434.4 billion in the last quarter compared with $1,422.3 billion in the second quarter, the department said. Both figures are adjusted for inflation to give an accurate comparison in actual growth.

"The upward revision will delay the advent of the recession to some extent," said Commerce Department economist William Cox. "But it's still a bounce back from the second quarter's depressed level."

That second quarter decline caused many economists to say the nation had entered a recession.

Many economists believe the GNP will fall during this quarter due largely to rising oil prices, the eroding income of Americans and tight-money policies that have pushed interest rates skyward.

THE 6.2 percent increase in after-tax corporate profits was calculated on raw figures that went from an annual rate of $139.3 billion to $147.9 billion, the Commerce Department said. Before-tax profits in July, August and September increased from $227.9 billion to $242.5 billion, a 6.4 percent rise.

A large portion of the increase was due to sharply higher overseas profits by U.S. oil companies and banks, the Commerce Department said.

However, U.S. automakers suffered large earnings losses in the third quarter, said Kenneth E. Petrick, a Commerce Department economist.

MANY OTHER companies that produce long-lasting consumer items also recorded a decline in profits, he said.

Corporations use their profits basically in three ways: to replace inventories and worn-out equipment; to pay stockholder dividends; and as retained earnings that can go to expand their business.

Because of inflation, Cox said, much of the third-quarter profits went to replace inventories and equipment at much higher prices than the original items had cost.

"After taking these inflation-ridden costs into account," he said, "companies had slightly less profit remaining (than they did in the second quarter) for distribution to stockholders and for investment in expansion projects."

THAT IS A bad omen for the future, said Jack Carlson, chief economist of the National Association of Realtors and a former official of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Dividends are a lure for people to buy stock. If dividends dwindle, stocks can lose their attractiveness to some people.

Anthony Hopkins (left) stars as the captain of the Mayflower and Richard Crenna stars as the leader of the Pilgrims in "Mayflower: The Pilgrims' Adventure," a drama special about the harrowing journey across the Atlantic, Wednesday, Nov. 21.
"Captain Jones is an interesting character," Hopkins said. "He's a fairly straightforward guy. He could be played dark and villainous, but he really isn't. To him, the Pilgrims are only cargo. He warns their leader, Brewster, who is played by Richard Crenna, that he thinks of them as cattle, but he also has a grudging respect for them."

Veterans may get late honors

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Survivors from a U.S. Army platoon who played a key role in the Battle of the Bulge during World War II may receive the Medal of Honor despite military rules.

Five veterans of the battle met informally here Monday and Tuesday to discuss how many of the 20 living former soldiers would receive the honor.

Lyle Bouck, the platoon's lieutenant, says his recommendations will be made to the Department of Defense after the Senate and President Carter approve a change in an Army rule that places a two-year statute of limitations on issuing the award.

The group meeting here represents members of an intelligence unit credited with holding back the first column of advancing German tanks, paratroopers and SS troops.

Historical accounts say the platoon stopped the enemy troops in the Belgian Ardennes Forest for 24 hours enabling the 9th division of the 1st Army to regroup.

The Army never confirmed the action and the two-year time limit on the award elapsed in 1946, says Bouck, of St Louis, Mo.

Bouck says the men did not realize the importance of their actions until historical accounts were published in the 1960s.

He said the platoon and some congressional leaders are seeking the rule change.

Platoon member Carlos Fernandez, of El Paso, says the standoff between his unit and the Nazi forces was the first taste of combat his group faced.

He said the platoon, which had run only intelligence missions, ran out of ammunition and was captured. Jim Jenkins, also of El Paso, says he was held in a prison camp four months after the battle.

Calling it "a unique situation," Bouck says, "I have always felt many of these men should have been decorated, but they never have."

Another platoon member, Vern Leopold, said he thought most of his fellow soldiers were killed in the battle. Jim Silvola, of Ocala, Fla., also attended the meeting.

Boylor first Angel to win AL MVP

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Don Boylor became the first member of the California Angels to win the American League's Most Valuable Player Award when the outfielder-designated hitter was made an overwhelming choice today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Boylor collected 20 of a possible 28 first-place votes from the special BBWAA committee to win by a runaway margin over outfielder Ken Singleton of the American League champion Baltimore Orioles.

The California slugger, who led the Angels to their first title ever in the AL West with a league-leading 139 RBI, 36 home runs and a .296 batting average, piled up 347 points to 241 for Singleton.

Third baseman George Brett of the Kansas City Royals was given two votes for first place and a 226-point total for the third spot.

Boylor, Singleton and Brett were the only players named on all 28 ballots.

Boston's Jim Rice, last year's MVP, finished fifth in the voting with 124 points, behind teammate Fred Lynn's 160 1/2.

The 30-year-old Boylor's offensive totals also included 33 doubles, three triples and 22 stolen bases. The California slugger, one of the first crop of free agents in 1976, signed with the Angels on Nov. 16 of that year.

Singleton, 32, who had three first-place votes, had a .295 average that included 35 homers and 111 RBI.

Brett had a big year with the Royals, finishing second to Lynn in the AL batting race with a .329 average that included 23 homers and 107 runs batted in.

Mike Flanagan, the Cy Young Award winner from Baltimore, collected the remaining first-place votes and finished in sixth place with 100 points. He was the only pitcher to finish in the Top 10.

Rounding out the Top 10 in the voting were outfielder Gorman Thomas of the Milwaukee Brewers with 87 points, second baseman Bobby Grich of the Angels with 58, catcher Darrell Porter of the Royals with 52 and infielder Buddy Bell of the Texas Rangers with 48.

The 28 voters on the poll are made up from two sports writers in each AL city.

Racquet Club takes 2nd in Pro-Am meet

The Midland Racquet Club took second place in the first annual Pro-Am Tennis Club championship round-robin tournament at Austin's Lakeway Tennis Club. Eight teams entered.

Representing the Racquet Club were pro Neill McClung and members Jim Hill, Vin Farquhar and Barry Beal. "We lost to two points in the finals to Cliff Drysdale's Lakeway team," McClung said. "It was a round-robin format in which all eight teams played one another, so every match counted toward the final total."

Monterey girls level Bulldogs

LUBBOCK — The Midland High girls absorbed their first basketball loss of the year here Tuesday as Lubbock Monterey ran to a 75-50 victory.

Midland High is now 2-1 on the season and will host El Paso High at 6 p.m. Friday in the MHS gym.

Kay Etheridge and Kerry Etheridge paced the Monterey victory with 19 and 15 points respectively.

Margaret Christian, last year's leading scorer for the Bulldogs, led MHS with 18 points while LaShell Schrock pumped in 11 markers. Those were the only two in double figures for the Rebels.

Monterey took a 36-34 win in the JV contest. Diane Hogan scored nine and Connie Caton six to lead the MHS cause. The Midland JV is now 0-2 on the year.

Midland High (50) Schrock, 5-1-11; Moroney, 0-2-2; Rock, 1-0-2; Christian, 6-4-8; Truinder, 1-2-1; Armstrong, 1-0-2; Littlefield, 0-2-2; Miller, 2-3-3; Smith, 1-0-2. Totals: 12-18-56. Lubbock Monterey (75) Etheridge, 7-5-19; Meers, 5-4-1; Muhlrad, 8-2-14; Etheridge, 3-4-15; Rags, 4-2-14; Crow, 2-4-8. Totals: 28-17-75.

Lee girls defeat MHS

The Midland Lee girls won two games over Midland High Monday in basketball action between the sophomore and junior varsity teams.

The Lee sophomores took a 56-42 victory over MHS as Suzanne McGaha scored 11 points and Lardes Duran 10. Velanda Royals led MHS with 10.

In the JV contest, Lee won a 43-40 decision as Kelly Watson pumped in 13 points and Maudie Akins 11. Kim Guyton led MHS with nine.

STANTON — Before the opening center jump at Buffalo gym Tuesday night, the locals were discussing how badly the Midland Lee Rebels of District 5-4A were going to stomp the Class A Stanton Buffaloes.

"You better have an adding machine to keep track of the points," said one Buff-watcher.

There was also talk of calling Amnesty International. Someone even mentioned having Gov. Bill Clements come to Stanton to declare the town a disaster area.

But as things turned out, it was the Rebels who were downright atrocious for three quarters.

In the fourth quarter, however, the taller, quicker and deeper Rebels awakened to outscore the Buffs 34-14 enroute to a 78-46 victory that really wasn't as impressive as it looked on the scoreboard.

For instance, the scrappy Buffs — with only two workouts behind them heading into the clash — doggedly fought off Lee's fullcourt press and did quite a remarkable job on the boards, due largely to the skywalking of 6-foot junior Lewis Henry.

It wasn't enough, though, as Lee, behind strong second half efforts from Tim Walker and Danny Rabb increased their record to 1-1 for the young season while the defending District 5-A champion Buffs dropped to 0-1.

Walker, a muscular swingman, meshed 14 points for the night while the slender Rabb showed several nice inside moves on his way to 13 markers. Tim Fisher added 10 for the winners.

Game scoring honors, however, went to Stanton's Craig Eiland with 15 points. Most of Lee's first quarter offense consisted of jacking-up low percentage jumpers from downtown.

And while Lee was dialing long distance, Stanton streaked to a lead they would own only two times during the game.

Kangaroos hog TIAA individual grid honors

Austin College took the lion's share of football honors this season in the TIAA with quarterback Larry Shillings was named offensive player of the year, Price Clifford was tabbed defensive player of the year, Ty Quick the outstanding lineman of the year and Coach Larry Kramer was coach of the year in balloting by TIAA coaches...

Terms were not announced, but the multiyear pact reportedly will provide Perez, who will be 38 next May 14, more than $1 million.

Cowboys pick by 3 1/2 in 'Texas Super Bowl'

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Pittsburgh will regain sole possession of the National Football League's AFC Central Division lead this week if Harrah's Reno Race & Sports Book is accurate in its predictions. The legal book picks the Steelers by 11 over Cleveland Sunday, while the Oilers are 3 1/2 point underdogs to Dallas in a Thanksgiving Day game. Pittsburgh and Houston currently are tied for the division lead at 9-3.

Reagan, Big Spring win

Reagan County defeated Crane, 69-44, in the basketball opener for both schools as Byron Bitner led the Owls with 11 points and R. Fort pumped in 11 for the Cranes.

In the girls game, Reagan made it a sweep with a 40-38 win as Monica Armstrong and Tina Colbert scored 12 points each for the winners. Big Spring rallied in the second half to defeat Pecos, 64-54, as D. Poss scored 16 points for the Steers and Tim Walker's 12 led the Eagles.

Doomsday Jr... just a memory, now

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Wide receiver Butch Johnson ticked off the names: Ed (Too Tall) Jones, Jethro Pugh, Charlie Waters and Thomas Henderson.

"Let's see, we've lost the stronside of our defense now," said Johnson. "Doomsday Junior. R.I.P."

With Thomas Henderson's sudden departure Monday, the Dallas Cowboys face the distasteful task Thanksgiving Day of trying to stop Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers with a patchwork defense.

"Doomsday has ceased to exist," said Johnson. "It's all on the offense now. We've got to dominate the game, control the ball."

Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday that Mike Hegman will start in Henderson's stronside linebacker spot against the Oilers. He said recently acquired John Dutton could be in Jones' old defensive end post. At left tackle, where Pugh used to hold forth, Larry Cole could move in for Dave Stalls.

Of course, Randy Hughes has been subbing for the injured Waters, out for the season with an injury.

"I think our defense can overcome all these problems," said Landry. "We have good backup people. I have a lot of confidence in them." But Landry didn't have confidence anymore in Henderson, who was fired outright rather than demoted.

"I decided he couldn't function (on the bench)," said Landry. "It would have been hard for him to handle a second string role. His ego is such that he needs to start. I definitely thought it would affect the team with him on the sidelines."

Landry told the fifth year player he was going to be put on waivers but the controversial Henderson, who had held the media spotlight at the Super Bowl in January, announced his retirement at an emotional press conference.

"Yesterday was a trying day," said Landry at his weekly press conference, "but I believe we'll get things back in the groove."

Houston Coach Bum Phillips was asked on a telephone hookup Tuesday if he wanted Henderson and he replied: "If a guy can't get along one place the chances of him getting along somewhere else are not too good."

Landry said Tuesday that injured defensive right tackle Randy White is "the least likely (player on the team) to play."

Rookie Robert Shaw will start at center in place of injured John Fitzgerald.

Cowboys ready to shuck turkey role

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer After a month of playing like turkeys, the Dallas Cowboys are ready to kick the stuffing out of somebody. Say hello to the Houston Oilers.

Here are the Oilers, coasting along with a four-game winning streak and a share of the American Conference Central lead with Pittsburgh. And here are the Cowboys, sagging with three losses in their last four games and locked in a three-way tie with Philadelphia and Washington for first place in the National Conference.

They would seem to be two teams headed in opposite directions and their paths cross Thursday as the main course of the National Football League's Thanksgiving Day feast following the Chicago-Detroit appetizer. The suspicion here is that being at home against their intrastate rivals will wake up the Cowboys ... just in time.

Last week's 9-5 left the season's log at 104-62 for .627.

The picks: DALLAS 31, HOUSTON 24: The challenge is there for the Cowboys

USC, Bama, BYU still in picture

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Southern California, Alabama and Brigham Young haven't rejected Fiesta Bowl feelers and they remain the top choices to oppose Pittsburgh according to executive director John Reid. "We haven't asked for a firm commitment, of course, but we have let it be known that if the opportunity presents itself, they will be asked," Reid told a reporter Tuesday.

Top-ranked Alabama goes to the Sugar Bowl if it beats Auburn Dec. 1.

Southern California could clinch the Rose Bowl by defeating UCLA on Saturday. If it loses, Washington will represent the Pac-10 against Ohio State.

Brigham Young also has a Saturday date — with San Diego State — and will represent the Western Athletic Conference in the Holiday Bowl against Indiana if it wins.

and they must respond now. The departure of Hollywood Henderson should shake them up sufficiently to get by the Oilers.

Remember that in spite of all their troubles, the Cowboys still have the NFL's No.1 offense and the NFC's top passing game. Houston doesn't specialize in close-to-the-vest football and if this becomes a shootout, the Cowboys could prosper.

CHICAGO 20, DETROIT 7: The important difference here is that the Bears have the incentive of a winning streak and possible playoff berth while the Lions are playing out the string.

Detroit has been dreadful, losing 11 of 12 games while the Bears have won four straight and are 7-5, two games back of Tampa Bay in the NFC Central. So this game is important to Chicago and just another day at the office for the Lions.

Plans set for West Texas Chamber confab

Plans for a West Texas Chamber of Commerce executive committee session and District VI membership meeting to be held here Jan. 17-18 were mapped by Midland's WTCC directors, meeting with John Barnes, WTCC membership director, Abilene, Tuesday at the Midland Petroleum Club.

Joe Kloesel, District VI vice president and president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, presided at the session.

Other Midlanders present were Larry H. Byrd, Harry Clark, L. Roy Prescott, Doug Henson, Spencer Blocker, Fred Tyler and W. H. "Bill" Collins. Ed Hagan, Tony Martin and Emil C. Rasmussen are the other Midland directors in the regional chamber.

Plans call for the Jan. 17 district meeting, a dinner session, to be held in the new Midland Center, with all WTCC directors, members and prospective members from throughout the district invited to attend. The district includes Andrews, Martin, Howard, Ector, Dawson, Borden, Winkler, Gaines and Midland counties.

The executive committee will be held the following morning in the district meeting room of the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Bob Perkins of Alpine is president of the regional chamber.

Banking Board OKs new state bank

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Banking Board has approved an application for a new state bank in Gainesville, despite opposition from two other banks in that city.

The North Texas Bank & Trust proposed capital of $200,000,000 and reserves of $200,000,000.

The proposed directors are J. J. Miller of Valley View, Michael Stinson and Roger Souder of Fort Worth, William Souder of Hurst, and Mildred Saylor and Charles Saylor of Gainesville.

Opposing the application were the First State Bank of Gainesville and the Gainesville National Bank.

New AFL-CIO president brings startling changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lane Kirkland, despite his professed allegiance to the durable policies of George Meany, is quickly bringing some startling changes to the AFL-CIO.

Within 24 hours of succeeding Meany as president of the labor federation, Kirkland broke twice with his mentor.

—He openly beckoned the outcast Teamsters and other independent unions to return to the AFL-CIO.

—He suggested that the all-male executive council, which sets policy for the 13.6 million-member federation, abandon a long-time custom that effectively has blocked women from serving on the council.

Officials of the AFL-CIO, which ended its convention here Tuesday, believe Kirkland's move is only beginning to change the course of the organization, which in its first 24 years knew only Meany as president.

A faithful student of Meany's for 30 years, Kirkland is expected to put considerable emphasis on organizing non-union workers, an area Meany largely ignored. During his tenure, the unionized portion of the nation's workforce fell steadily.

Kirkland is more conscious of organized labor's public image than was his gruff, 85-year-old predecessor, and likely will cultivate better relations with the media, particularly television.

He has promised to be an efficient business manager and streamline the organization by bringing in young talent, modern technology and new ideas.

He is encouraging debate and disagreement during meetings with his executive council, which used to defer to Meany on important issues.

Kirkland is planting seeds of change even as he insists he is committed to the programs and policies established long ago by Meany. When Kirkland discusses what appears to be a new policy, he notes that it has his predecessor's support.

Some colleagues say Kirkland believes his views are akin to those of Meany on all major issues. But others say the new labor leader is unwilling to acknowledge a break in policy out of the deep respect and awe he has for Meany, whom Kirkland regards as a father figure.

"This convention is a tribute to Meany, and no one, least of all Lane, wants it marred by dissension or a repudiation of past policies," explained one union president.

Another official said, "George's spirit is too thick in the air. Nobody wants to appear anti-Meany."

One of the most significant changes occurred during the summer, when Kirkland, then secretary-treasurer, was running the federation in the absence of the ailing Meany.

It was Kirkland who negotiated an agreement with the Carter administration to end a year of bitter fighting between President Carter and Meany.

Under the accord, the administration has made organized labor a partner in the development of economic policy in exchange for labor cooperation with the government's anti-inflation efforts.

Both sides hailed the accord as unprecedented and a testament to Meany's leadership. In private, both sides said the agreement was a tribute to Kirkland's skills as a negotiator.

Illinois governor says Chicago should use good credit rating

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson says the best solution to the Chicago Board of Education's financial problems is for the city to use its good credit rating to borrow money for the school district.

Thompson warned Tuesday that the school board must get its finances straightened out soon in order to reduce the threat of payless paydays in the coming months.

He said an emergency bill-out he authorized last Monday that allowed the district's 50,000 employees to be paid today cost the state $1.2 million in interest. He said the state could not afford to repeat its generosity.

The school board voted unanimously Monday to delay paying its $41.5 million payroll in order to pay other bills. But Thompson came to the rescue by allowing it to collect $55 million due in December two weeks earlier.

The crisis was defused when Thompson authorized state Comptroller Roland W. Burris to transfer $120 million from the general revenue fund to the school aid fund.

Acid smog may be bigger problem than the acid rain

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Rain falling through air pollution over Los Angeles is as contaminated as the East Coast's notorious "acid rain," scientists say, but a bigger problem in sunny Southern California may be acid smog.

The acid smog — acid dripping as tiny water droplets or gas from the haze that often envelops the cars, industries and homes of the Los Angeles basin — has the same effect as acid rain, said Howard M. Liljestrand, an environmental engineer.

"An acid is an acid once it gets into the ecosystem. It doesn't matter whether it's through raindrops or aerosols or gas," he said.

Liljestrand, now at Cal State Los Angeles, said two years of research while at the California Institute of Technology showed, "The concentrations of (falling acid) are very comparable with a number of areas on the East Coast."

The acids are formed in the atmosphere from sulfur oxides, released mainly by coal and oil-fired power plants and industries, and nitrogen oxides which come out of automobile exhausts.

Liljestrand and Caltech's James J. Morgan tested rainfall from nine sites around the Los Angeles area in 1978-79 and from one Pasadena site for two years before that. They collected data on dry acid by exposing flat, sticky plates to the atmosphere.

The average acidity of rainfall in the basin ranged to more than 10 times as acidic as clean water in clean air. Light rain once fell on Pasadena that was nearly as acidic as vinegar, he said.

Liljestrand said in an interview that no health or other problems have been found that can be blamed specifically on the falling sulfuric and nitric acids.

But in the Northeast and in Scandinavian countries, scientists have reported damage to stone buildings and severe damage and death among fish in lakes contaminated by acid rain.

Liljestrand said his study was aimed at identifying the problem and "the next step is to figure out what's happening to the ecosystem."

He noted that the existence of acid rain in the United States was discovered scarcely five years ago and damage estimates are still being compiled.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE Getting Your Wish

By Alfred Sheinwold

One of life's little tragedies is not getting what you want. Another is getting it. It wouldn't seem there would be much hand to prove it.

East doubted the star for an annual feud when his hand was played in a North American team championship some years ago. East got his wish when West led a low diamond.

Reading the double and the opening lead, Lagarde asked Eric Murray played low from dummy. East ruffed and returned a club to make dummy ruff. South led a trump to his hand, ruffed another club in dummy and then returned with the king of spades to win the trump.

SQUEEZED

West couldn't keep protection in both spades and diamonds, so South scored 1600 points for ruffing the doubled slam.

At the other table of the match, West led a club, and dummy ruffed. Declarer now foolishly led dummy's ace of diamonds and was minus 1500 points before he knew what he had done.

It makes you wonder whether it pays to get what you ask for.

Night of partying, ends in 23-year-old's death

DALLAS (AP) — A night of drinking and partying ended in death for a 23-year-old woman who moved to Dallas only a week ago.

Police found the body of Cheryl Ann Kaiser, formerly of Racine, Wis., in a creek behind a bar in Northeast Dallas.

Authorities said Miss Kaiser died of strangulation and drowning, and tests were made to determine if she had been sexually assaulted.

Officers said it was possible the woman was strangled while her head was being held under water, accounting for the dual cause of death.

A co-worker reported Miss Kaiser missing Tuesday morning.

First of 48 nuke protest trials begun

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys lined up expert witnesses to testify today at the first of 48 trials associated with the occupation last June of the Comanche Peak nuclear plant near this North Central Texas town. Special Prosecutor Tommy Altaras made quick work of the state's case Tuesday, hammering home the state's contention that the protesters ignored legal means of voicing their displeasure with the plant. Altaras fired a rapid series of questions at defendant Mavis Belise. "Have you ever filed for an injunction to stop this nuclear plant from being built? Have you ever filed a class action suit? Have you ever run for public office? Have you developed any alternative method of producing energy?" Altaras asked. Drawing a negative response to each of the questions, Altaras told Miss Belise, "Then you did not tell this jury the truth when you said you had tried all other reasonable and available means before going out there." "They were not effective (means)," she answered. Defense attorneys indicated they would call expert witnesses to support their contention that the protesters occupied the plant because they were compelled by the plant's inherent dangers to trespass. Miss Belise, 35, of Dallas, is the first of 48 members of the Comanche Peak Life Force to go on trial for the June 10 non-violent occupation of an isolated sector of the nuclear plant. A similar demonstration is scheduled for this Sunday at the plant. An earlier mass trial ended in a mistrial June 29 when a Somervell County jury deadlocked 4-2 for acquittal on the misdemeanor criminal trespass charges.

Chrysler loan plan 'in trouble'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's plan for a $1.5 billion government loan guarantee to prop up the Chrysler Corp. is in serious trouble as the Senate Banking Committee winds up its hearings. Statements during the hearings and a telephone check of senators' offices indicated that Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., has picked up little support for the administration proposal he is pushing.

Bankers were being questioned at today's final session of the hearings on their willingness to support the No. 3 automaker. Chrysler expects to lose $1 billion this year and faces the threat of bankruptcy. The Senate Banking Committee is scheduled to begin voting Nov. 29 on amendments to the administration bill. The corresponding committee in the House has already approved it, and floor action is expected early next month.

Here is a rundown of the 15 members of the Senate panel and their positions on the administration bill: —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., committee chairman, has vigorously opposed government help for Chrysler, saying it would set a precedent for other failing firms. —Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., has missed most of the hearings because of other Senate business. An aide, asking not to be named, said Williams hopes to find a way to save Chrysler, but wants to be sure taxpayers will be adequately protected from loss. —Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said through a spokesman he has not made up his mind. —Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., opposes the bill and said Tuesday he will offer a substitute plan, calling for $1.5 billion in loan guarantees to firms which could make something out of Chrysler's assets and to other innovative, viable firms. —Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., is reported by an aide to be undecided. Riegle is the principal sponsor of the bill. —Sen. Paul S. Sarbanes, D-Md., has been noncommittal.

—Sen. Donald W. Stewart, D-Ala., said he could not vote for the bill but thought "possibly" the committee would come up with an alternative he could back. —Sen. Paul E. Tsongas, D-Mass., described himself as in a swing position. —Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, said Chrysler and its employees must be willing to put up more of their own resources to get his vote. —Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, has made no statement. His press secretary, Allen Balch, said, "If Chrysler's problems are shown to be caused primarily by federal regulation as opposed to poor management, he would probably support some kind of aid with very definite restrictions." —Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., has argued consistently that more private capital should be raised before the government steps in. —Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., was described as undecided. —Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan., has made no statement at the hearings. Her press secretary indicated she was undecided. —Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., has sharply criticized the proposal.

New Bell rates take effect; Approval came on Tuesday

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. today placed into effect new rates that are expected to raise the company's income by $138.7 million. Bell spokesman Dale Johnson said the detailed tariffs, carrying out rates authorized Nov. 9 by the Texas Public Utility Commission, were approved Tuesday by the commission's staff. Johnson said it would be a while before customers started feeling the full impact of the new rates. The commission said Bell could increase rates for basic residential service by $1.15 a month and for basic business service by $3.45 a month and raise the price of pay telephone from 20 cents to 25 cents. In addition, Bell will raise prices for a variety of business telephone services such as Centrex and PBX. Johnson said the increase in basic residential and business rates will be applied immediately, but it would be about a month before bills show the impact of the increase.

For example, he said, a residential bill dated Friday will have added to it a pro-rated share of the $1.15 increase for two days, he said. Johnson said the telephone company would have to modify each of the thousands of pay telephones in Texas to take advantage of the nickel increase in the cost of a coin-operated telephone call. "It will take a minimum of two weeks," Johnson said.

MC to seek bidders for computer system

Midland College trustees Tuesday agreed to advertise for bids for a new computer system and approved spending more than $34,000 for black out curtains for the windows at Chaparral Center. The decision to let bids for an in-house computer system, estimated to cost between $67,000 and $128,000, came after board members heard a report on the growing needs of the computer technology departments at the college. The report, presented by Dr. Charles Wakefield, chairman of the technical studies division of the college, and Dale McMurray, a member of the computer technology advisory committee, also recommended increasing deges offered in the computer technology field. The curtains for Chaparral Center, which will block out sunlight from the high windows around the 5,000-seat multi-use auditorium, will cost $26,782 from an Oklahoma City supplier. Another $7,500 will be paid to Midwest Electric Co. of Midland for the electrical work to open and close the curtains. The bid was the result of a second bidding process for the curtains. The first set of bids produced only one estimate of $50,000 for the curtains alone. In other business, the board agreed to pay half the cost of installing a traffic light at Garfield Street and Chaparral Circle. The city of Midland denied the college's request to permanently open the Wadley Avenue entrance to the college, but agreed to install the traffic light, trustees were told. The Wadley entrance is open now only for traffic from shows at Chaparral Center and other special occasions. Trustees also heard a report on their accreditation process from the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges. The college is completing its self-study for the accreditation now, and a visiting committee from the association will spend four days at the college in April. Final approval is expected in December 1980.

Publisher's efforts to control newspaper group opposed

MELBOURNE, Australia, (AP) — Rupert Murdoch faced mounting opposition today to his $142.5 million bid to win control of the country's biggest newspaper group, the Herald and Weekly Times Ltd. If successful, Murdoch's bid would give him control of more than 70 percent of Australia's news media. Herald group chairman and chief executive, K.D. MacPherson, today announced a one-for-two bonus share issue and a record $22.6 million company profit for the latest year. The increase is a rise of 15.9 percent over last year's profit of $19.5 million. Murdoch owns several newspapers in Britain and the United States, including the New York Post. At the same time Australia's Trade Practices Commission called on Murdoch's News Ltd. group to stop its bid so the commission can investigate the takeover "immediately" and urgently. The commission believes the bid is likely to contravene the Trade Practices Act. Printing unions also called today for members to stop work at the Herald and Weekly Times building in Melbourne to protest the takeover bid. MacPherson announced the Herald group's fightback at a press conference in Melbourne. He said he had no hard feelings against Murdoch but warned: "He is not going to get hold of this company." The bid has also drawn severe criticism from Australia's federal parliament, with members calling for an inquiry to halt an impending Murdoch monopoly of Australia's news media. Today's moves against Murdoch, make it unlikely he will succeed in his bid.
