U.S.-Iranian crisis deepens worldwide

U.S. returning personnel from 10 of its embassies

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dependents and "non-essential personnel" at 10 American embassies in the turbulent Islamic world are being given a chance to come home at government expense.

The State Department says the "voluntary drawdown" is not an evacuation, is only temporary, and that the embassies in all 10 countries will remain

The department also is advising private American citizens living in the affected countries of its decision, but will not pay for their tickets.

There was no estimate of how many people would return to the United States or how long they would stay. The State Department refused to name the 10 countries, but officials said privately that Iraq, Syria, Lebanon and North Yemen were involved and that Turkey, Jordan and Egypt were not. In addition to those 10 countries, dependents and non-essential personnel have already been withdrawn from Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran.

An official defined "non-essential personnel" as people "whose jobs we can do without for a little while in light of events." Dependents include the families of all embassy employees.

The move was prompted by unrest in the region since the Nov. 4 takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranians who want the United States to return the deposed shah for trial.

The administration ruled out, meanwhile, any negotiations with Iran unless it was assured the talks would result in the immediate release of the 49 American hostages at the embassy.

"Any discussion has to be predicated on the release of the hostages," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Monday. Carter also conceded there was no way the United States could prevent Iran from raising its grievances if the two sides met during a U.N. Security Council Iran's principal complaint is that the United States has admitted the deposed shah. The administration defends as humanitarian its decision to allow him entry for cancer treatment in New York Relatives of some of the hostages met again Monday with David Newsom, undersecretary of state for political affairs, and, briefly, with Cyrus R. Vance,

Carter described the meeting as "part of our continuing close communication with the families about the situation of the hostages and what is being done

Meanwhile, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Iran has virtually quit buying U.S. grain and is having difficulty finding food elsewhere because of its snarled financial situation.

Bergland said Iran's financial status has ebbed sharply as a result of the United States freezing Iranian assets in this country and announcements in Tehran that Iran will not pay its foreign debts.

"My guess is that until the whole matter is straightened out ... the Iranians are going to have an increasingly difficult time getting grain from anybody because of the matter of paying for it," he said.

Senator says Carter will retaliate against Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter will take some sort of retaliatory action against Iran once the American hostages are released from the U.S. embassy in Tehran, a U.S. senator said today.

All of us feel he will do something else," Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said after a breakfast meeting with the president. "There are a whole range of options - not necessarily involving military action.'

Johnston also said Carter considers the honor of the United States more important than the hostages and is not prepared to "do anything" to secure their release. "The president made it clear that the honor comes before the lives of the hostages," Johnston told reporters. He said that Carter does not believe "the slate is wiped clean" by simply releasing the hostages. He quoted Carter as saying his first concern is the honor of the nation. Johnston said the president meant that there were certain things he would not do to secure the release of the hostages, such as extradite the shah. "There are conditions this country will not pay."

Lucius Bunton confirmed as district court judge

Lucius Bunton

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

Lucius Bunton, a 54-year-old Odessa attorney, was confirmed by the U.S. Senate Monday as judge of Midland's U.S. District Court, part of the Western District of Texas.

With that confirmation, Bunton became the first "resident" judge of Midland's federal court. In the past, judges from El Paso or San Antonio have been assigned to handle the Midland district. There has never been a federal judge based in Midland or Odessa serving this district.

Bunton and Harry Lee Hudspeth of El Paso, a U.S. magistrate, were recommended for judgeships by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and nominated by President Jimmy Carter.

Both men were unanimously confirmed by the Senate about 7 p.m. Monday, according to a spokesman in Sen. Bentsen's office.

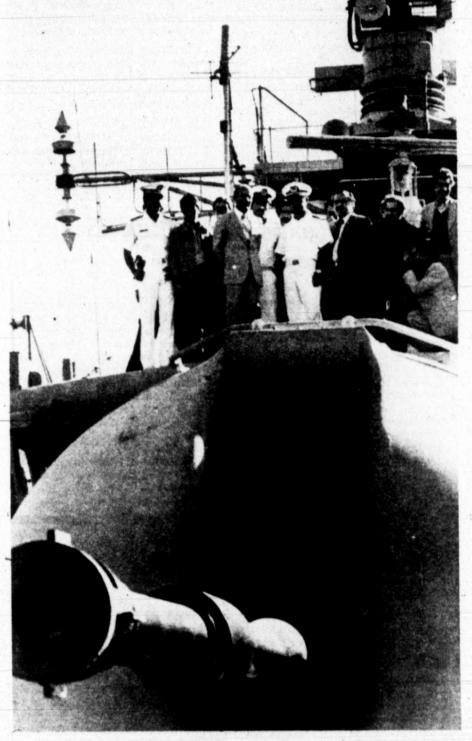

The swearing-in ceremony for Bunton has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Dec. 7 in the District Courtroom on the third floor of the U.S. District Court building here. U.S. District Judge D.W. Suttle is expected to give Bunton the oath of office.

Bunton assumes the position left vacant when former U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. was assassinated in May outside his San Antonio apartment. U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears also decided to take senior status, creating yet another vacancy in the sprawling Western District. A native of Del Rio, Bunton has been engaged in private law practice in Odessa for 20 years. He also served as district attorney of the 83rd Judicial District in Marfa for six years. Bunton on Monday declined to put a

U.N. debate to start despite Iran's objections

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Diplomats readied for a U.N. Security Council debate this afternoon on the U.S.-Iranian crisis, but Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini rejected any Council decision beforehand as "dictated" by the Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim had raised the possibility the Iranians might free their 49 American hostages in exchange for an international inquiry into their charges against the shah.

But Khomeini, in a statement broadcast today by state-run Iranian radio, said an investigation of the shah must be conducted inside Iran. He also said the hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran must be investigated as "spies," but he did not make clear whether he had decided to go ahead with such a

The Iranian leader again denounced what he said was U.S. pressure to have the Council deal only with the hostage holding, and not with Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's alleged wrongdoings.

The students holding the Tehran embassy said today they had rigged mines throughout the compound, apparently fearful of a U.S. military attack. The Iranian armed forces stepped in air, ground and sea activities.

In Washington, President Carter discussed the crisis at a breakfast meeting with members of Congress, and afterward Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said there are things Carter will not do — such as return the shah to Iran — to free

"The president made it clear that the honor (of the United States) comes before the lives of the hostages," Johnston told reporters.

Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., said all the participants at the meeting believed that a "restrained position" is still necessary, and there was "some apprehension" that holding congressional hearings into the regime of the ousted shah would "play into the hands of the Ayatollah Khomeini.

Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, on a self-appointed mediation mission in Tehran, has proposed such hearings. In an interview today with ABC-TV Hansen suggested that Henry A. Kissinger and Chase Manhattan Bank head David Rockefeller be substituted for the embassy hostages.

Kissinger and Rockefeller reportedly helped arrange for the shah's entry into the United States, where he is undergoing cancer treatment at a New York hospital.

The United States wants the Security Council to adopt a resolution calling for release of the hostages. But Waldheim told ABC's Barbara Walters he had the impression Iran and the United States also would agree to an international inquiry into the Khomeini regime's allegations against the shah in exchange for the release of the hostages.

Khomeini and his supporters charge that the deposed monarch was responsible for the deaths of 60,000 Iranians opposed to him during his 37-year reign and that he and his family looted the country of billions.

The Venezuelan government said Iran's acting foreign minister, Abolhassan Bani Sadr, and Iranian Oil Minister Ali Akhbar Moinfar told Venezuela's energy minister, Humberto Canderon Berti, in a meeting in Tehran Monday the crisis could be resolved by trying the shah before an "international jury" made up of one representative each from a Western country, a non-aligned nation and Iran, and eventually a member of the International Court of

But Khomeini's statements today seemed to rule out such a plan. "Any council or court under the direct influence of the United States, and which has its verdict dictated and which welcomes the conviction of our oppressed nation, is unacceptable to our people," Khomeini declared He said any "investigation into the case of the deposed shah and the spies (the embassy hostages) must be carried out only in Iran, because the evidence of their crimes exists in Iran and cannot be transferred abroad."

Earlier, the landowners, represented as a group in the Upton County Landowners Association, had petitioned the five-member water district for removal from the taxing district. That request was denied.

The protesting landowners, mostly rural residents, contend that they would derive no benefit from the district, which would tax them in order to ensure potable water for the Upton County towns of Rankin (population 1,100) and McCamey (population 2,-600). About 900 folks live in the rural areas of Upton County.

Maurer pointed out that Eastern News Distributors' unique specialty is selective distribution to a wide variety of specialized retail outlets where magazines of very special editorial character can reach their markets effectively while at the same time holding returns to acceptable levels.

Joseph R. Pope, president of East-ern, commented: "Hearst's prestige together with its depth of expertise in so many areas of publishing and distribution will be of substantial aid to Eastern in providing the nation's top quality magazines with the growing exposure they deserve and need."

Among Eastern's clients are: Architectural Digest, Art in America, Financial World, Dun's Review, National Review, New Republic, Archaeology, Wildlife, Astronomy, After Dark, Prevention, Films in Review, Foreign Affairs, Art News, Harvard Business Review, GEO, Realities, Atlas World Press, Biblical Archaeology, Interior Designs and

Also last month, Hearst purchased 585,000 shares of Southwest Forest Industries, Inc., brining the total of that company's shares owned by Hearst to more than 1,300,000 or approximately 17 percent of Southwest's outstanding common stock. The company, based in Phoenix, Ariz., produces diversified forest products, with sales of $600 million.

Carter signs fuel bill legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter today signed legislation pro-viding $1.35 billion to help several million poor Americans pay their fuel bills this winter.

The program offers widely differing benefits from state to state. More than half the money will be distributed by state governors under plans yet to be approved.

"We will expedite the distribution of these funds," Carter said as he signed the measure at the White House. Some checks will go out in early January, officials said. Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso, whom Carter invited to speak at the ceremony, praised the new program by saying it "turns a season of concern into a winter of new hope."

The new program, called the "Low Income Energy Assistance Program," will generally give more money to states that have colder win-

The highest benefits, $250 per person, would go to recipients of Supplemental Security Income payments the aged, blind and disabled - in New Hampshire, Iowa, Wyoming, Utah, South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Idaho, Connecticut and Alaska. The lowest payment, $34 per person, goes to SSI recipients in

When Carter announced details of his plan in September, he told a convention of retired people: "This financial help will be for everyone in our country who is most needy. I know you'll appreciate that.'

Among the states receiving aboveaverage aid will be frigid New Hampshire, where the president faces the first primary of the election year.

Carter's original proposal would have paid an average of $100 per person or $200 per family to an estimated 7 million people with income at or slightly above the poverty line. For a family of four, the ceiling for aid would have been $9,000 a year.

But Congress gave governors wide discretion in how the money is to be doled out, making it difficult to predict who will be eligible or how much an "average" recipient will receive.

Combined with $250 million approved earlier, the measure provides a package of $1.6 billion to be distributed this winter by federal and state governments

The cold front that breezed through Midland about 8 a.m. today is expected to push temperatures into the mid-20s tonight, according to the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

High Wednesday is expected to be only in the mid-50s. Today's gusty winds should die down to 10-15 mph by tonight, the weatherman said. Monday's high, for contrast, was a near-record 81 degrees. Record high for the date was set at 83 degrees in 1961. The overnight low was measured at 44 degrees, not even approaching the record low for the date of 16 degrees set in 1938.

While the temperatures should be nippy Wednesday, the skies are expected to be sunny, so the monthly rainfall accumulation will remain at a mere trace and the annual total at 13.25 inches

FAA critics claim computer radar 'chaotic'

By DAVID ESPO

WASHINGTON (AP) - For two days earlier this month, flight controllers at the Federal Aviation Administration's traffic control center in New York were without their computerized radar system. At the FAA center in Cleveland, the computer failed for at least one minute on 143 occasions between May and October. In Atlanta, there were 46 similar failures during the week of Aug. 26. In Indianapolis, there were 24 failures in August, 27 in September and 68 in

In all such cases, critics of the FAA told Congress Monday, the chances of a disastrous mid-air collision increased as controllers turned to older, non-computerized backup radar systems.

"To date, our controllers have salvaged these tenuous situations," said John Leyden of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization. "However, we must recognize that in such a chaotic environment, the probability of error is greatly increased," he told the House Ways and Means subcommittee on oversight. While not denying outage statistics cited by critics, Deputy FAA Administrator Quentin S.C. Taylor told the subcommittee this country's air traffic control system is the best in the world, and noted that many computer failures last less than 60 seconds.

"Recently there have been blanket charges made that system interruptions cause a hazard to aviation safety. It is the exception when such interruptions cause any significant threat to safety," he said.

"While it is understandable that interruptions might raise concern about safety, the reality is that the system, itself, as well as air traffic procedures, is designed to accommodate interruptions without creating

The FAA maintains 20 Route Air Traffic Control Centers to keep track of aircraft flying between airports in the continental United States. Leyden and other critics told the subcommittee the computers that run the radar systems are outdated, poorly maintained and prone to frequent

With respect to maintenance, a spokesman for experts who repair the system said, "Required procedures once necessary three times a day are now relaxed to once a day, those previously required daily are now required on an average of twice a week, those required weekly are now monthly, and so on. Moreover, said Howard E. Johannssen, the replacement system the FAA hopes to install in the mid-1980s will be technologically obsolete before it goes into operation. Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., the subcommittee chairman, charged the FAA was guilty of negligence for not moving more rapidly to upgrade the

"To have the resources available, the monetary resources, yet not call on them, amounts to culpable negligence," he said. Gibbons said the federal Airport and Airways Trust Fund has a surplus of more than $3 billion, yet the Carter administration refuses to seek appropriations large enough to upgrade the air traffic control system. As with any federal expenditures, the appropriation of money from the trust fund must be approved by Congress.

Doctors operate on Shah of Iran to remove last travel obstacle a Canadian radiologist has removed the remaining gallstone from the deposed Shah of Iran but want to keep him under observation here for "the next few days," a hospital spokesman said today.

The successful removal of the gallstone was expected to be the last medical barrier to the shah's being able to travel, which would allow him to leave the United States if he chooses.

Eamon Brennan of New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, where the shah was being treated, said a team led by Dr. H. Joachim Burhenne of the University of British Columbia, removed the stone in an operation late Monday night.

Burhenne helped develop the special non-surgical procedure used on Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. But a statement issued by the hospital today said the shah would not be allowed to leave immedi-"Further studies will be conducted in the next few days to determine if any fragments of stone remain or if cholangitis (inflammation of the bile duct) recurs. The prognosis remains guarded," the statement said.

The hospital said the stone was located in the shah's common bile duct and crushed, "permitting the extraction of several fragments.

Evidently the drill now is to look at the effect of this stone removal, mainly to see if any kind of infection has resulted which might require further treatment ... It's evidentally going to be several days of observation," Brennan said. The hospital said the shah's bile duct became infected after the earlier operation to remove his gallbladder, but that the infection was controlled.

The shah was toppled last February and eventually settled in Mexico. After he came to the United States last month for surgery, militant Iranian students seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran in protest and to demand the shah's extradition to face trial for alleged crimes during his reign. The students continue to hold 49 Americans hostage in the embassy, and the shah's departure for Mexico, some officials believe, might help ease tensions in

NEW YORK (AP) — A team of doctors headed by Canadian radiologist has removed the remaining technique that will be used on Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. Burhenne is chief of radiology at Vancouver General Hospital and on the faculty at University of British Columbia.

In an interview last week, Burhenne said he had been consulted in the shah's case and gave the procedure an 80 percent chance of success. The shah's doctors have given it a 50-50 chance.

The doctors said if it fails, the former monarch might need a second gallstone operation at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, where his gallbladder and other gallstones were removed Oct.

AT WIT'S END Short hair causes sensation

By ERMA BOMBECK

Eight teenage students in England have been suspended from school for wearing their hair too short.

The headmaster said, "This short hair is becoming a cult and I'm deter-mined to stop it! It's a matter of school discipline. All of them can return to school when their hair has grown to an acceptable length."

I took one look at that story and fell to my knees. At long last, there's a new hostility between parent and teenager. With most of us the only time our teenagers will talk is through rebuttals. I chewed around about their long hair for so long I got bored with myself. Every day, same old arguments and same old replies.

Then I zeroed in on tight pants, but baggy jeans came into style and once again we had nothing to talk about with one another.

Oh, I had the usual standards: sloppy bedroom, no gas left in the car, oud music, but nothing "meaningful." A couple of weeks ago, my son walked out the door and there was nothing new to criticize. I felt like I was losing him. Then I read this story. He came in last night and I snapped, "Another

"Mom, we happen to like short hair. We keep it clean and we keep it combed.

"It's not natural to have short hair. You know who you look like? Sandy Duncan! Why can't you wear your hair long like your father?'

"Because I'm not my father. I'm

"The least you could do is comb it and try to keep it in your eyes. I wish the school would make a stand on short hair. If they told you you couldn't play football with short hair I bet you'd let it grow.'

Welfare unbridled

Welfare goes unchecked, the rogue elephant of Washington. Successive efforts to reform and restrain runaway federal welfare programs have eluded every president going back to the time of John F. Kennedy

And small wonder. The nation's welfare constituency has grown so powerful and there are so many trade-offs between competing factions that even a simple reorganization of public assistance programs has become all but im-

Last year, for example, President Carter's bolder-than-usual welfare reform bill collapsed of its own weight after Congress grafted on $18 billion in additional benefits

Now, instead of reorganizing the federal welfare bureaucracy and its 182 programs, some of which overlap or conflict with each other, the White House has quietly sponsored a new bill that simply tidies the messier loose ends of certain aid programs and tightens federal control step by step at the expensive of the states. As usual in approaching the welfare monster, the administration's proposed changes are being pushed as "reforms."

A few days ago, the administration's 1979 welfare reform bill, HR 4904, passed the House with little notice, being overshadowed by events abroad and presidential politics at home. Nevertheless, this was the first time in eight years the House has approved legislation making major changes in the nation's welfare system.

In broad terms, HR 4904 would amend existing law to impose a national minimum level of support for welfare recipients throughout the United States. It would require all states to provide cash Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) that, in conjunction with food stamps, would give each household an income equal to at least 65 percent of the federally defined poverty level of $4,654 for a family of States also would be required to offer help to two-parent families with children when the principal wage earner was unemployed.

In order to win political support in Congress, the administration's bill provided increased federal contributions to state welfare costs by about $900 million. The heightened federalization of welfare under the bill prompted Congressman Barber B. Conable, R-N.Y., among others, to denounce it for leading the welfare program

"in the wrong direction." Despite the wide margin of support for this latest welfare "reform," a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats came within five votes of passing an amendment that would have permitted states to set work requirements for welfare recipients. Unfortunately, such local control is not envisioned as welfare reform by the Carter administration and its liberal allies on Capitol Hill.

But even those forces may not suffice to save HR 4904 in the Senate where Finance Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., awaits, sword in hand.

Sen. Long wants to see work requirements toughened and he favors giving block grants to states to run their own welfare programs. It appears unlikely this welfare bill will escape death or mutilation in Sen. Long's committee - proving that questional reforms are as immune to passage as unquestionable ones.

And so welfare unbridled continues on out of control, increasing by geometric proportion as new programs are added and old ones are liberalized until 59.6 million Americans are estimated to receive some form of welfare benefits. Almost 60 percent of welfare recipients in certain categories are non-poor. Welfare payments are up to about $80 billion annually and total transfer payments are estimated to exceed $250 billion a year.

Is it, we wonder, expecting too much that among the numerous presidential candidates taking to the stump some will come to grips with the welfare crisis that ranks with energy and inflation among the country's most acute domestic problems?

Otherwise, the public treasury may be drained completely.

The gun control issue is a perfect example. The objective is to nullify the second amendment of the Constitution and to disarm the civilian population. I will leave it to you to figure out the motives of the anti-gun nuts who persist in this attempt.

They know, of course, that if they simply ask the American people to disarm, they would get the raspberry. So they have concocted elaborate fictions about the role of the handgun in

This, in itself, is a trick, for if they can establish a precedent for government banning private ownership of handguns, then it logically follows that it can also ban any other type of weapon. The "Saturday Night Special" ploy is merely a refinement, for the same principle applies.

The Second Amendment does not say citizens have the right to keep and to bear only certain types of arms. It says arms. Have you ever wondered why those intelligent and educated founders of this country insisted on including the right to bear arms in the Bill of Rights.

The answer is simple. These men were students of government power and individual freedom and how those two fundamentals intertwine. The Constitution and the republican form of government it created are themselves the best compromise between government power and individual freedom yet devised.

The essence of the American Revolution is, however, that power must reside in the people, not in the government. These men were not only intelligent but also shrewd observers of human nature. They were former British subjects who had revolted against their own government when it had become tyrannical. They had won their freedom with rifles, cannons, and sabers.

In short, they knew that when you get down to the nitty gritty no one has any more rights than he can protect and no one can protect his rights or his family against an armed enemy if he is disarmed.

That's why they spelled out in the Bill of Rights, immediately after the first amendment guarantee of the rights of free speech, a free press, and peaceful assembly that "...the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

They recognized, from personal experience and from history, that a disarmed people are at the mercy of their rulers, a common sense observation that has been demonstrated time and time again in recent years.

Tht's why the disarmers have used the ploy that infringing this constitutional right is necessary to curb crime. The only trouble is that the FBI Crime Statistics do not back up the claim.

The latest edition, 1978, is now out. The most common crime of violence in the United States is aggravated assault. There were over half a million aggravated assults in 1978. Firearms of all types were used in only 22 percent of them

Handguns, the disarmers' special target, were used in less than half of the murders and firearms of all types and shotguns were used in 63 percent of the homicides, which means they killed about 11,000 people - 4,000 fewer people than die from falls

Firearms are a factor in crime. They are used to commit crimes and they are used to prevent crimes. Unfortunately, the FBI doesn't collect data on how many crimes are prevented and how many lives are saved by the legal use of firearms.

Clearly, however, availability of guns is a minor, not a major factor. I will not peacefully relinquish my right to keep arms any more than I would relinquish any other right. I do not choose to exist by permission

WRITE ON:

A world flooded by U.S. paper dollars

By VIRGIL PINKLEY Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - People constantly talk about inflation but few understand its causes and results.

Spending more money every year than we collect and having huge deficits in many municipal and state budgets, as well as the federal one, are the leading causes.

Another is our lack of exports. Last year we exported $144 billion. or a gain of $95 billion since 1972. Nevertheless, in 1972 the U.S. trade deficit was a manageable $6.4 billion whereas last year it had become an unmanageable $28.5 billion industry fall far short of their objectives and our balance of trade grows constantly worse.

This, in turn, is really the primary cause of the dollar problem: Today our paper dollars flood the world and are unwanted.

Think of it. Since 1976, just four years ago, the U.S. cumulative trade deficit has exceeded $80 billion.

Today people, in their effort to get rid of the dollar, are willing to spend up to 400 of them for a single ounce of gold. Of course, as the value of the dollar drops, inflation becomes worse. Inflation was 3.4 percent in 1972, but last year it had jumped to 9 percent, and is now running at an annual rate of about 13 percent. In the last seven years our imports have gone up 3.5 times.

In 1972 the United States was importing 2.3 million barrels of oil a day. Currently it is importing 7.8 million barrels daily

Our oil import bill in 1972 was $4.4 billion, but by last year it had skyrocketed to $40 billion, and it is predicted that by the end of this year it will reach and exceed $55 billion and keep right on going up to at least $70

Virgil Pinkley

The higher the oil prices go seems to have little or no effect on the demand for oil. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries learned this lesson 10 years ago. OPEC, for instance, raised the price 60 percent this last year and is threatening to continue to raise it as long as inflation continues — perhaps several Forbes magazine expresses it this way: "Accumulated inflation is only the symptom. Oil is the disease.

"The situation feeds on itself. The more fanatical OPEC nations -Libya, Iraq, Algeria and Nigeria have already upped their prices of oil and Mexico is on the verge of doing the same. Even Saudi Arabia is warning that as long as the dollar continues to depreciate the price of oil will continue to rise.

"Because of the shrinking dollar the Arab nations are shifting to gold. We have a great deal of gold. Some 270 million ounces at last count. At a rate of $400 an ounce our gold in Fort Knox is worth about $110 billion. But using our gold reserves as money would buy only a little time and not nearly enough to cover the trade deficits for four years.

We are to blame for much of our predicament. We have known for 10 years that we should have developed

GOP governors plan all-out 'inquest,' after crisis ends

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - While agreeing for now to control their anger over policies they think contributed mightily to the hostage crisis in Iran, Republican governors plan an all-out 'inquest" of events leading up to the embassy take-over once the crisis

That was the upshot of two days of meandering political talk by the governors at the Austin, Texas, session. Only Henry Kissinger's speech to the governors brought resounding applause and feverish excitement. But the anger of the Republicans cannot be vented until the crisis ends.

Their No. 1 question for the post-crisis inquest: How could President Carter have left the embassy unprotected at a time of obvious danger when it was well known that Iranian zealots had taken over the embassy only nine months before?

REAGAN AND CHRYSLER

Not even insiders can fully explain how Ronald Reagan, after literally years of preparation for his third and last try for the presidency, had no ready answer for one certain question: Does he favor the proposed federal bailout for Chrysler? At his opening press conference in Washington, Reagan said he needed to study the issue before saying "yes" or "no" to the Chrysler package. Predictably, at a New York City press conference the next morning he was asked whether he had found time for study yet. Reagan insiders decided he had to come to a conclusion. On the third day, in Grand Rapids, Mich., he came out against it.

That position fits the view of much of the business community, including the National Association of Manufac turers, and Reagan's top two congressional supporters: Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York. But other key backers, including ex-Treasury Secretary William Simon, were not happy.

STRAUSS' STATUS

A semi-public hint of tension between Tim Kraft and Robert Strauss over who will run President Carter's. campaign came when Strauss paid his first visit to the president's Washington headquarters. Kraft, a taciturn Carter loyalist, was not even going to introduce expansive political veteran Strauss to the office staff until Strauss requested it. Kraft then referred to him as somebody "who will do some fund-raising Strauss intends to do a good bit more than fund-raising. He regards himself as being in overall command of the campaign, and White House insiders are betting he will end up the winner over Kraft.

TEDDY'S MOBIL MAN

When Mobil Oil Corp. Vice President Herbert Schmertz took a leave of absence to run Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's media campaign, Kennedy's liberal backers winced and President Carter's supporters chortled.

Media consultant Robert Squier, who has produced a half-hour campaign documentary for Carter, decided to rub it in against an old friend: ultra-liberal Kennedy speech writer Robert Shrum. Squier sent Shrum a can of Mobil oil with a notation referring to "your new boss."

A footnote: Schmertz's arrival may have wiped out the last chance for New York-based media wizard David Garth to join the Kennedy campaign. Garth was among those briefing Kennedy before his appearance on NBC's 'Meet the Press," but no contract for the campaign has been signed.

ABC planning soon to air six new prime-time shows

NEW YORK (AP) - ABC, facing a stiff challenge this season from CBS, has rejuggled the time spots for two of its most successful comedies, "Mork and Mindy" and "Laverne and Shirley" and plans to premiere six new series after Jan. 1.

The network, an overwhelming winner in the televison ratings competition last season, also said it will drop three series - "240-Robert," "Detective School" and "Out of the

The new ABC shows include two half-hour comedies, two hour-long comedy-drama programs and a new one-hour detective series, as well as a Sunday evening show the network calls "informational."

The "informational" series, "Incredible Sundays," airing at 7 p.m. EST, will star John Davidson and Jim Palmer, the Baltimore Orioles' pitcher. ABC says the magazine-style show will feature "stranger-than-fiction happenings and remarkable people."

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28

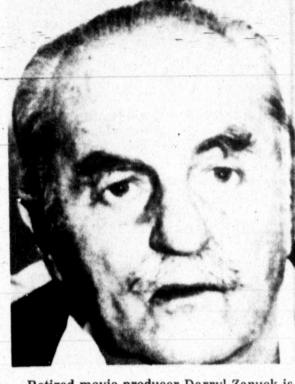

"Incredible Sundays" will be followed at 8 by "Tenspeed and Brown Shoe," starring Ben Vereen and Jeff Goldblum.

"Mork and Mindy," which had been losing its timespot to CBS' "Archie's Place," will give up its Sunday-at-8 position in favor of a spot on the schedule Thursdays at 8.

"Laverne and Shirley" will move from Thursdays at 8 to Monday night at the same time, to be followed at 8:30 by a new half-hour sitcom, "One in a Million," starring Shirley Hemphill as a Los Angeles cabbie who inherits millions of dollars.

Dennis Weaver, who starred on CBS' "Gunsmoke" and NBC's 'McCloud," returns to prime-time as a detective in "Stone." Weaver's new show will be broadcast Monday nights

"Family" returns to the lineup at 10, filling the void left by the end of ABC's "NFL Monday Night Football"

The development of a new drug would be important since millions of people throughout the world suffer from congestive heart failure. The condition results when the heart is unable to pump enough oxygencarrying blood throughout the body. Arteriosclerosis and diseases that directly effect the heart muscle are among the causes. The symptoms

Digitalis is one of the oldest and most useful drugs, and has been used in the treatment of congestive heart failure for almost 20 years. It does, however, have the limitation noted by your physician - the margin between a therapeutic dose and a toxic dose is quite narrow. Thus, physicians often cannot increase the dosage when a patient's heart begins failing because it produces toxic symp-

Dear Flo: Although smoking is a common cause of bronchitis, it is not the only one; air pollution, fatigue, chilling and malnutrition may also be implicated. In addition, asthma and other respiratory diseases tend to increase a person's susceptibility.

The symptoms of bronchitis are low fever, back and muscle pain, sore throat and a dry cough, followed by the coughing up of mucus as the inflammation progresses. Treatment includes rest, intake of fluids and a well-balanced diet high in vitamins A and C.

The body of Cpl. Steven J. Crowley, 20, shot to death when a mob attacked the embassy in Islamabad and set it ablaze, was flown here Monday from West Germany. It was to be taken to New York later today for burial.

As an honor guard unloaded the casket from a transport plane during a torrential rainstorm, soldiers in the area stopped and saluted.

Pallbearers clutched an American flag covering the coffin as winds gusting to 40 mph threatened to yank it away during a brief ceremony.

Without pay raise, DPS drawing 'inferior' recruits

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texans will be protected by an inferior brand of Department of Public Safety trooper who 10 years ago would not have been accepted; much less graduated," Jim Jordan of the DPS training school Monday told a house subcommittee.

Officials from several state agencies told the House Subcommittee on State Personnel Policy that low pay is forcing their best employees to look for new jobs.

Texas Employment Commission statistics show a 28 percent turnover rate for state employees in the fiscal year that ended in September. The rate was the highest since the 31 percent turnover in 1966.

Jordan said the best prospects are attracted by the higher salaries offered by Texas cities and private industry.

Lee Johnson, a DPS trooper at Beaumont, said he surveyed police departments and found the DPS' $1,324 per month top trooper salary is lower than most Texas cities pay their police-

Jordan, talking about the inability to attract good prospects, said: "If you think the last crop was poor, wait until you see the next one. We can't even get anybody to come by and get an

Cottonfield not ruled by sun

The sun was setting on the cottonfield. And there was no sign of a letup of work.

Gary Koonce and his hired hand, Virgilo Martinez Castillo, were running two-row cotton strippers over the knee-high and taller cotton stalks. Mechanical strippers were denuding the dying stalks, which already had lost their protective leaves to the first fall frost.

Scott Spruill, who was perched up in the cab of a boxcar-size module, was operating levers which caused a big, steel foot to compact the raw cotton, which Koonce and Castillo had dumped into the module from baskets on top of their John Deere tractors. They figured that 10 basket loads would fill the module. "Stripping and operating this thing are about the same," Spruill said, as Ed Todd he worked the module's levers up and down. "They both get old in a hurry.... It's been a long day." Occasionally, Spruill would release the levers, and the big flat steel foot would remain still and quiet. And he'd climb from the cab and into the cotton-filled vessel. Using a pitch fork, he'd toss about the cotton and even it out. Then, he'd return to the cab, and the monotonous thud of the steel foot with

The hydraulic press compacted the cotton bolls, which were well mixed with "trash" - stems, the few remaining leaves, burrs, dirt, bits of stalks and fragmented tumbleweeds which had blown between rows. The sun was sinking nearer and nearer the horizon, as Norman Koonce,

Gary's father and chief honcho of the 1,200-acre Triple K Farms operation,

"WE'RE FIXING TO move this thing," he said of the blue whale of a machine — the module. "You'll see it give birth."

Once full and compacted, the blue machine slowly eased forward with the tugging of a tractor. And from the module's womb came forth a 10-ton hunk of cotton lint, seed and "trash." The hunk of compacted cotton would lay inert in the field until one of

Hoot Leonard's truckers at the Midland Farmers' Co-operative gin would come out to pick up the 10-ton hunk and take it to the gin for cleaning, baling and bagging. Meanwhile, Gary Koonce stepped down from his cotton-stripping tractor and leaned against the hunk of cotton.

"THIS THING WILL stand up to 160 mile-an-hour wind before it starts

The Koonces, with loyal help from Spruill and Castillo, have been stripping almost continously - except for food, rest, sleep and repairs - for almost a month. They figure on finishing up within a week's time.

"It all depends with the weather and everything - the humidity," said the younger Koonce. "If it's too wet, you don't strip. It was dry and dark.

And Koonce climbed aboard his diesel-powered tractor and resumed stripping. If his lights picked up tumbleweed or other bulk debris - and they did — he'd stop, climb down from his air-conditioned cab, and cast aside the debris before it became "trash" in the basket and later in the In another instance, he'd stop the tractor, pull a lever, and the tractor ton to settle in the basket above the tractor and make room for more IN THE CAB ONCE again, Koonce, 20, savored a plug of tobacco, hit the would shake like a roly-poly bug on a vibrator. The shaking caused the cotbull's-eye in the brass spittoon to his left, and talked about some "hard luck" he and his dad had had with their new $19,000 module, which replaced their cotton-hauling trailers.

-The new module, while being towed by a two-ton truck up from the Gulf Coast in early October, got lodged in an underpass the other side of San Antonio. "It was so tall," said Koonce, "it got stuck under the un-

-A couple of tires blew out east of Ozona and the module "went to whipping and turned over." The truck followed suit.

'We had problems bringing it back, but it was worth it," figured Koonce. Using the module and letting the ginners pick up and haul the load in for ginning was cheaper in the long run than for the farmer to haul in the cotton in trailers. Besides, many trailers would be tied up for days until the ginners could get around to processing the loads.

The particular 120-acre field Koonce was stripping was the second planting since he starting farming the tract north of Midland last year. The bulk of the Triple K Farms is along the Midland-Ector County line between Midland and Gardendale.

LAST YEAR'S CROP was a disaster even by governmental standards; he plowed it under.

"I made a disaster on it last year," Gary Koonce said. "I had it planted, but it never rained, and there wasn't anything I could do about it."

Before and after this year's planting, it rained.
"Everything hit just right and paid off." He figures on netting a bale or better per acre from the dryland crop. After making a couple of runs down the rows, Koonce had filled the basket, drove the stripper alongside the module and dumped the load. Another bale was harvested. Seemingly, Koonce wanted to continue stripping into the night. But by then Spruill, one of Koonce's chums back in high school days, was tired of running the module. It was getting late, and the workday had been long

"If you can't get it done in seven days a week," Spruill reasoned,

"there's no sense in messing with it."

They shut their engines down and headed home. The sun, signaling another workday, would be up too soon.

Clements repeats his call for rejection of SALT pact

WASHINGTON (AP)-Texas Gov. Bill Clements, linking the Iranian situation and the new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, has repeated his call for the pact to be rejected.

"These issues are a part of the geopolitical situation and they are indeed linked," the governor said. "They are all part of the same; they are a matrix.'

Clements, a former deputy defense secretary, spoke against SALT II at a Capitol Hill news conference Monday. The five top Defense Department officials from the previous administration attended, including former Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld.

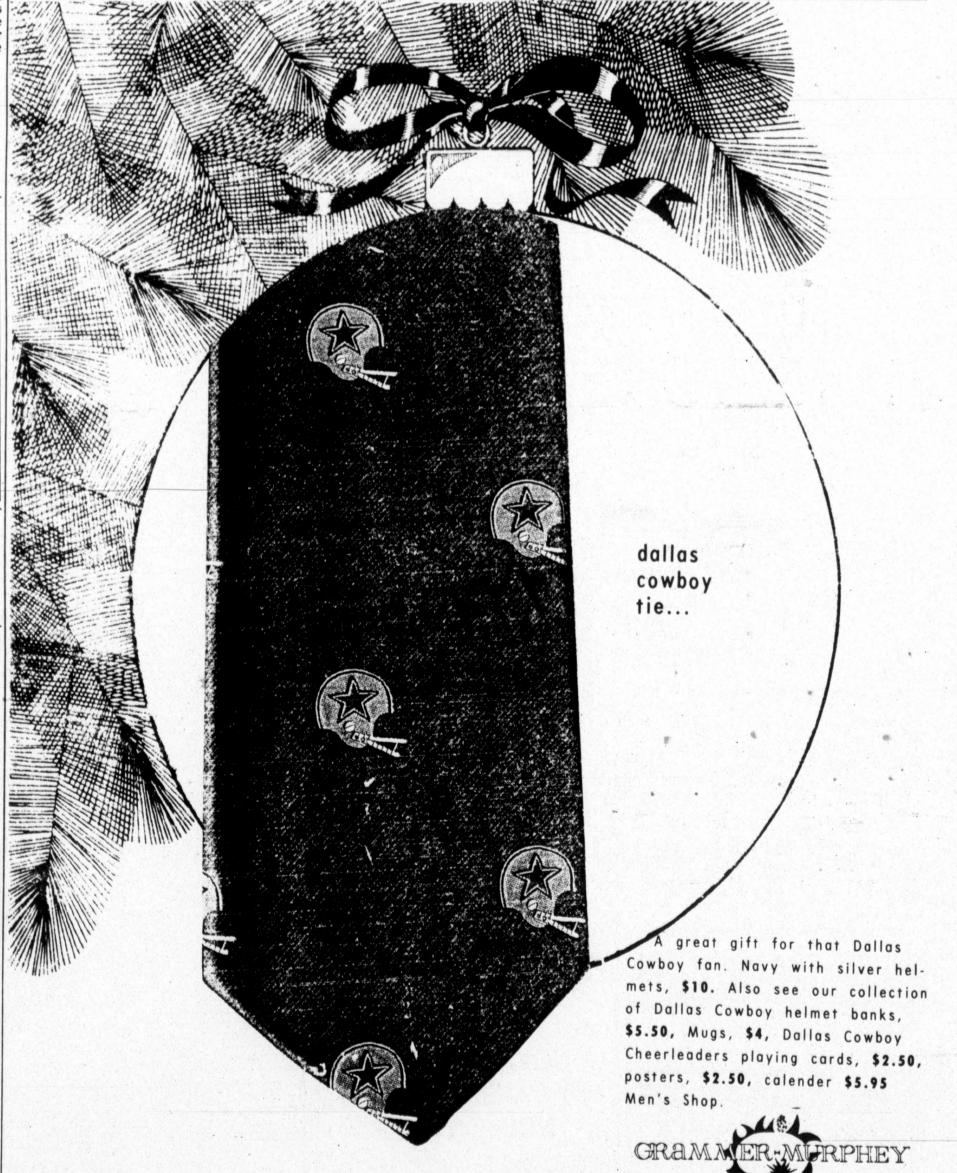

The group charged that the Soviet Union would gain more from the proposed agreement than the U.S. would, and there would be a substantial margin to the American loss

Clements said SALT II should not be considered separately from the complete international picture. He pointed to the presence of Cuban troops in Africa as another example of growing American weakness.

He again declined to "kibbitz" President Carter's handling of the Iranian takeover of the American Embassy in Tehran, saying he sympathized fully with the problems Carter faces in responding to the the crisis.

Clements said the Soviet Union's progress, the American public's tranquility and the U.S. government's casual attitude toward defense "have all combined to bring us to the brink of mortal peril."

The Republican governor said that although he supported a proper SALT treaty during his years at the Pentagon, the treaty now before the Senate is unacceptable without amendments and a significant increase in defense spending.

Zorn riddles Jets, 30-7

Zorn and the Seattle Seahawks can't do anything wrong. They're streaking right along with the best of them in the National Football League.

With Zorn setting two more club passing records in the first-ever Monday night game in Seattle, the Seahawks crushed the New York Jets 30-7 for their third straight victory and fifth triumph in six weeks.

"I'm really confident now," said Zorn. "I wouldn't say I'm in any kind of a groove but I feel like when the receiver makes his move, the ball is going to be there."

"He's a pretty effective quarterback," said Jets' Coach Walt Mi-

Coming off a club record 384-yard passing performance against New Orleans, Zorn once again was in command, picking apart the Jets' secondary behind an offensive line that didn't allow him to be sacked once.

He completed 25 of 32 passes for 285 yards and three touchdowns, including 14 straight completions. The 25 completions and 14 straight completions were Seattle club records.

Because of the strength throughout of the American Football Conference, the Seahawks, now 7-6, will have a hard time making the playoffs in their fourth NFL season.

They virtually have to win all three of their remaining regular season

"All we can do is play like we have a chance," said Seahawks Coach Jack Patera.

"I've got to give our line and our receivers credit," said Zorn. "Our line really has been blocking well and our receivers have been running great routes.' Zorn's touchdown passes were 14 yards to his favorite target, Steve Largent, in the second quarter, 16 yards to running back Sherman Smith in the third period and 11 yards to Sam McCullum in the third quarter. All came on third-and-10 situations. The victory gave the Seahawks a 2-0

Monday night record. They won at Atlanta 31-28 four weeks ago.

"It's great any time you win," said Zorn, "but it's even more fun when you win in the only game of the

"They (the Jets) play pretty con-servatively on defense," Patera said. "They take away the long stuff so you just throw in front of them.'

Richard Todd, the Jets' quarterback, was 19 of 36 for 226 yards and drove his team to a touchdown in the third quarter. Kevin Long tallied for

New York on a 1-yard run. Efren Herrera accounted for Seattle's other points on field goals of 49, 45 and 42 yards.

Three Seattle players were injured. Special teams member Don Dufek broke a leg, offensive guard Bob Newton left the game with a knee injury and guard Tom Lynch suffered a back injury.

Rein denies reported

Rumors have been flying about that Rein is leaving North Carolina State for Louisiana State University's head football coaching position.

"There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that I've been hired by LSU," he said in a prepared statement released Monday night.

The statement was prompted by a report on Durham television station WTVD that Rein was indeed leaving the Wolfpack for the Baton Rouge, teams remain in NFL running

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

With three weeks remaining in the regular season and 10 playoff berths up for grabs, 13 teams still are solid contenders for the National Football League's postseason road to the

And, in its infinite wisdom (not to mention a bit of luck) the NFL has managed to schedule each division contender against each other games which will go a long way toward determining who suits up after Dec. 17 and who goes home to start trimming the Christmas tree.

Based on strength-of-schedule comparisons, it would seem Miami, Pittsburgh, San Diego, Los Angeles and Tampa Bay have the inside tracks to five of the six divisional titles with Washington and Philadelphia given the nod over Dallas for the favorites' role in the sixth. But, then again, teams with winning records don't always beat teams with losing records, do they?

In the American Conference, New England and Miami are tied for the East Division lead at 8-5, Pittsburgh and Houston are deadlocked atop the Central Division at 10-3 and San Diego, at 10-3, leads Denver by one game in the West. Buffalo and Oakland, each at 7-6, and Cleveland, 8-5, are rated outsiders at best for AFC playoff berths.

In the National Conference, Philadelphia is 9-4 and one game ahead of both Dallas and Washington in the East, Tampa Bay is 9-4 and two games up on Chicago in the Central Division and Los Angeles and New Orleans are tied at 7-6 atop the West. No other NFC teams are rated serious playoff contenders.

THE DATES for the head-to-head competition which could decide who's in and who's out when the playoffs begin with the Dec. 23 wild-card round, it's New England at Miami on Nov. 29, Chicago at Tampa Bay on Dec. 2, Dallas at Philadelphia on Dec. 8. Pittsburgh at Houston on Dec. 10, Washington at Dallas and New Orleans at Los Angeles on Dec. 16 and Denver at San Diego on Dec. 17.

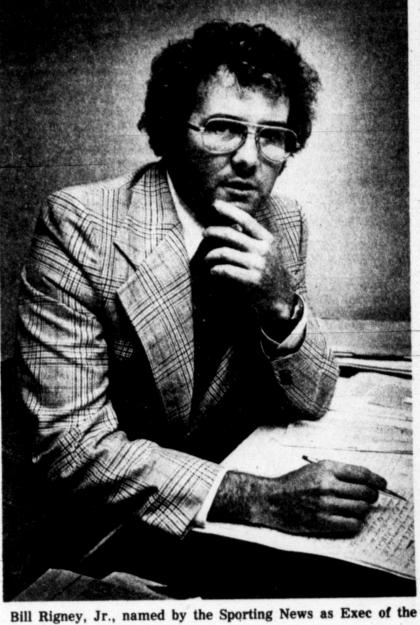

Taking it one step beyond the likelihood that head-to-head games will determine winners and also-rans, and ignoring for at least one more week the NFL's tie-breaking procedures, here's how the strength-of-schedule factor figures into the final three games:

Miami's opponents have a combined 15-23 record to the 19-19 confronting the Patriots. They play each other and the Jets, the difference being that the Dolphins also play 2-11 Detroit while the Patriots face 6-7 Minnesota. Miami plays one road game while the Pats play two.

Pittsburgh and Houston each play one road game, but the Steelers' opponents (Cincinnati the Oilers and Buffalo) have a 20-19 record while the Oilers' foes (Cleveland, the Steelers and Philadelphia) are a strong 27-12. San Diego, which hosts Atlanta and visits New Orleans before taking on the visiting Broncos, has a 29-19 (Continued on 3B)

Rigney named AA Exec of the Year

BY TED BATTLES R-T Sports Editor

Bill Rigney, Jr., general manager of the Midland Cubs, was named Class AA Executive of the Year by the Sporting News today. The St. Louis based national sports publication selected the 34year-old Midland Cubs general manager as top executive in the division that embraces the Texas, Eastern and Southern Leagues. Earlier, Rigney had been named of Executive of the Year in the Texas League.

Bill will receive the award at next week's Winter Baseball Meetings in Toronto. "Dad was as excited as I was about the honor," Rigney grinned. "In 1955, he was named minor league manager of the year, now, 24 years later ... "Dad", of course, is Bill Rigney, Sr., former major league player, manager of the Giants, Twins, and Angels and now special assignment scout and sometime telecaster for the California

Rigney's surprise at the award was genuine. "It doesn't generally go to someone in a city the size of Midland. When it comes to numbers, we can't compete with the bigger cities like El Paso, Nashville and Memphis. But's it's very satisfying because, for one thing, I know the hours it requires.'

Rigney went on, "I think the award is a credit to Midland and the business community. Without their cooperation, we'd be out of business.'

Rigney's fourth season as Cubs' GM finished with a flourish, a new paid attendance record for Midland, which has been a member of the Texas League since 1972. But every year under Rigney, the Cubs' have set a record in season box seat ticket sales, which means while many other GMs may be hunting or golfing during the off season, Rigney is

"Season ticket sales are our bread-and-butter," Rigney points out. "Preseason sales of seats, scoreboard and scorecard advertising accounts for 40 percent of our revenue, so it's a unique operation in a way. I know those 3,000 and 5,000 fan nights are not common here as they are in bigger

Rigney always starts out the year on the premise, "We are going to have a last place club. That's not going to be the differ-ence, but it's how hard we work during the offseason that will determine how successful we are going to be."

Of course, when you have a winning club as Midland did last year with the Cubs' playoff team, it's a bonus that may result in a new attendance record.

Rigney came to Midland as successor to Stoney Feeney, who was moved up to Chicago, after the 1975 season.

It was that year that the Cubs surpassed 600 season tickets sold for the first time and Rigney said the pennant year of 1975 was a big help. "But the season was a disasterous one on the field and it was reflected in the lowest actual attendance in the history of the

However, the Cubs' preseason box seat sales still went over 700 the next year and under Manager Jim Saul the Cubs were competitive, finishing second as Karl Pagel excited the fans with his slugging. Another good year under Saul in 1978 and last year resulted in the Cubs' preseason sales going over 800 for the first

Rigney's goal this year is to sell all 880 box seats. "I think we can do it. We had a good year, made the playoffs and baseball interest has been helped by te success of former Midland Cubs who have made their mark in the majors...Bruce Sutter, winning the Cy Young award; Scot

Castino, Griffin share rookie award

By The Associated Press NEW YORK (AP) - Infielders John Castino of the Minnesota Twins and Alfredo Griffin of the Toronto Blue Jays both expressed surprise after being named co-winners of the American League Rookie of the Year award.

Castino and Griffin received seven votes apiece from a 28-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. Relief pitcher Mark Clear of California, the only rookie named for the midseason All-Star Game, was third with five votes. Relief pitcher Ron Davis of the New York Yankees, a former Midland Cubs' pitcher; first baseman Pat Putnam of the Texas Rangers and pitcher Ross Baumgarten of the Chicago White Sox received three votes apiece. "I never expected it," said Castino, 25, a third

"I am extremely surprised," said Griffin, 21, a shortstop who batted .287 for the Blue Jays, set a team record with 179 hits and also led the club with 20 stolen bases.

"All those other guys did a good job," added Griffin, who is currently playing winter ball in his native Dominican Republic. "I honestly thought Ron Davis would win because of the publicity he gets in Griffin, a switch hitter, was acquired by the Blue Jays from the Cleveland organization at baseball's last winter meetings. After a slow start he came on strong, hitting safely in 24 of his last 27 games and winning Player of the Month honors for Sep-"I was worried in my first month, but I tried to Memo to University of Washington fans: "Okay, fellas, unpack the Winnebago. Tell Aunt Harriet never mind the potato salad. Don't put away the umbrellas. Keep the galoshes handy and the scarves and the Vapo-rub in the overcoats. Get out the longjohns. Tell the folks down to Cle Elum and Puyallup you'll be down for the holidays, after all. Nobody's going anywhere, least of all to Pasadena. Tell grandma nobody's going to get Bob Hope's autograph. Forget about getting on 'The Price Is Right.' Arizona State didn't put the Huskies in the Rose Bowl after all. The game we had to win the Bruins blew for us. See if you can get New Year's Eve reservations at a gin mill in Ballard. Never mind getting your lumberjackets dry-cleaned. They're all right as they are for where you're going to be spending Christmas

Arizona State didn't put SC out of the Rose Bowl by mail, after all. The Bruins couldn't validate the injus-

If it was a game, so is a firing squad. If it was a contest, so was the Christians and the lions. It was supposed to be a "titanic struggle" and, in a way, it was. The Bruins should have brought lifeboats. I have seen bullfights less one-sided.

It wasn't a game, it was a revue. The SC Trojans gave a series of recital performances demonstrating the various ways to score touchdowns. The Bruins were about as important as the trapezes. They were merely the instruments or the stagehands. They occasionally rushed on-stage to re-arrange the scenery for the next performance by the Trojans.

SOME YEARS AGO, when Princeton was a power in the Ivy League, a wag wrote: "Sometime after noon today, two of the finest elevens in the United States will run out on the greensward of Palmer Stadium at Princeton. They will shortly be joined by the Harvard

Well, USC's Trojans kept running the best teams in America out of the Coliseum tunnel. About 40 of them could play for any team in America, including the Green Bay Packers. Let's say the Bruins showed up. That was their first mistake. But not their last. Their quarterback threw a touchdown pass on his first completion. Unfortunately, it was to a Trojan receiver.

The Trojan quarterback didn't need anybody else to throw touchdown passes for him or the Trojans. He did quite well for himself, thank you. Traditional rivals are not supposed to beat each other

49-14. If they score 63 points, each of them is supposed to get at least 30

The Bruins are like the coach who came off the field after a 78-0 licking to explain, "Time ran out on us."

Well, time ran out on the Bruins - in the first quarter. It was the worst UCLA defeat by USC since the days of Howard Jones. For those of you who forget that part of the Howard Jones era, gas was 19 cents a gallon and movies had just begun to talk.

UCLA COACH Terry Donahue didn't feel his team had much of a chance going in. Turns out he overestimated them. "This," is the weakest UCLA team I ever had going into an SC game." They weren't that good. The Trojans acted as if the Bruins weren't there. Most of the time they weren't.

The Bruins had a chance to perpetuate one of the greatest miscarriages of justice since they hanged horse thieves. Because Washington lost to conference member Arizona State — and USC didn't — it would have gone to the Rose Bowl had UCLA beaten SC. If you don't understand it, don't worry. In fact, worry if you do understand it. It can't really be explained. It's like a mystery of faith

UCLA couldn't have been more obliging if a stage director had gone out before the game and said "Now, on this play, Michael Hayes will go 54 yards to touch. You, Bruin No. 5 stand here, the rest of you fellows over there and, on one, everybody goes out of his way. OK! Places everybody!

UCLA guaranteed Charlie White the Heisman Trophy. At least, they tried. If they persist in giving it to Oklahoma's Billy Sims, they at least better put handles on it. Charlie White gained his usual large chunks of real estate. If he owned it in front footage on Rodeo Drive, he'd never have to lift a football again. UCLA assigned their best player to Charlie, Kenny Easley, and Kenny shadowed Charlie everywhere. This strategy kept White to four touchdowns but it left some passing routes open which vagrant thought occurred to the SC quarterback Paul McDonald, who quickly figured that 11-minus-1 equaled 11-vs-10 and 16 helped himself to 199 yard passing - five more than Charlie White rushed for. The stylish southpaw completed 17 of 23 mostly in spots just vacated by Easley. Easley tackled White about 25 times, 11 of them when he had the ball.

But in the long run — and SC had a lot of those — it was the superb performance of the Bruins in support roles that made the day an artistic success for the artists from SC. They should all be given best-supportingrole by artists in a short subject or feature film. Not since Gabby Hayes has any finer performances been good in support of the stars. What Abbott was to Costello, Potash to Perlmutter, Hardy to Laurel or Charlie to Baron Munchausen, UCLA was to SC. The straight man...

While the audiences shouted "Bravo!" or pelted them with roses, SC should have called the Bruins to a curtain call and said demurely, "Without them, I couldn't have done it." And, if Charlie White gets the Heisman, he should at least let them drink from it.

Monterey held a meager 33-31 lead at the half, but spurted to a 24-8 advantage in the third period to blow the game open. Midland High's Margaret Christian led all scorers, however, with 21 points and LaShell Schrock had 11. Four Monterey players were in double digits with Kay Ragus leading the way with 17 points.

In the junior varsity contest, Midland High avenged an earlier loss to Monterey with a 39-38 victory as Tanya Burton hit for nine and Denette Parker for eight points.

MHS will face Canyon at 5:15 p.m. Friday in the first round of the Amarillo tournament. Monterey is also in that tournament along with Midland Lee

In a sophomore contest Monday, Midland Lee defeated Odessa Ector, 55-36, as Suzanne McGaha hit for 15 points and Laurel Belknap scored 11. Lee also won the junior varsity outing with a 56-43 win over Ector as Maudie Akins scored 12 and Lurdez Duran hit for 10. Both Lee units are now 2-0 on the year.

Akers labels UT defensive effort best he's seen

Texas Coach Fred Akers, an assistant coach when the Longhorns compiled a 30-game winning streak, said Monday the Texas defense against Baylor was the best he has "ever been around." after the Steers held Baylor to 87 yards in total offense. Akers said the entire first-team defense and three subs - tackles Kenneth Sims and Steve Massey and end Tim Campbell - had outstanding games. Texas coaches selected tackle Bill Acker, who tied middle linebacker Doug Shankle for the most tackles with 11, as most vaulable defensive player. Johnny "Lam" Jones, who caught eight passes for 198 yards and Texas' only touchdown, was named the most valuable offensive player over freshman quarterback Rick McIvor, who passed for 270 yards, breaking a 30-year-old school record...

Professional baseball may cut down on the number of locally televised games if Congress does not curb the sports broadcasting authority of cable television, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said. Testifying before a House judiciary subcommittee considering copyright legislation, Kuhn said present federal law and regulations permit "uncontrolled importation of distant signal sports telecasts" by cable television systems. "The sports interests cannnot live with the effects" of this, he told the subcommittee on courts, civil liberties and the administration of justice. For baseball, at least, the only alternative may be to change its established telecasting practices by reducing the number of games available over local television stations, this is a result which we earnestly desire to

But the move paid off for the 6-foot-3, 243pound senior from Hinckley, Ohio. He was named Saturday as the winner of the Outland Trophy. "I didn't want to play center," he said after winning the award, given annually to the nation's best interior lineman. "I told the coach, 'I'm a defensive player. I don't know how to

Angry McKay surveys carnage of kicking game

With the anger and frustration of losing behind him, a subdued Coach John McKay sat down for what he called a bitter experience - watching the game films. His Tampa Bay Buccaneers could have been the NFC Central champs, instead, the favored 9-4 Bucs had four crucial kicks blocked — one just before time ran out Sunday and they lost to Minnesota 23-22. The Bucs missed two extra points conversion attempts, a short 22-yard field goal and had a punt blocked which led to a Vikings touchdown. McKay blamed the blocked kicks on a breakdown in Tampa's offensive blocking, but he singled out

McKay stormed off the field after the game, exchanged obscenities with a fan, held an angry news conference, complained angrily about booing from the stand, then walked out in mid-sentence. "I admit I was bothered," he acknowledged. "I'm Irish and when I'm angry, I'm angry. I'm not a politician. Most of the time I regret what I said. If you think I wasn't teed off, you're wrong.' McKay was asked what he said to his players when he went inside. "About what I said to the fella outside."...

For the Miami Dolphins, 1979 has been a frustrating season of wasted opportunities. Despite an unsettled quarterback situation and battered offensive line, the Dolphins are determined not to let New England Patriots' latest bit of largesse slip away The NFL teams play here Thursday night in a game that probably will decide the AFC East title. Both are Miami Coach Don Shula hasn't de cided whether he'll start Don Strock, splendid in Sunday's victory at Baltimore before being sidelined by a blow to the head, or veteran Bob Griese, coming through as a reserve for the first time in his career. Griese, in a slump most of the season, said after the game he thinks Strock should get the Thursday.

The Dolphins have yet to defeat a winning team (except 7-6 Chicago, which had a losing record at the time) and have played their worst in their most important games - New England, Houston, Oakland and Cleveland. Their offense has sputtered and they've been beset by injuries. But the inconsistency of the Patriots, a team that probably makes the transition from the sublime to ridiculous quicker than any NFL club, has kept the Dolphins alive.

"We've had a miserable season, but justice is about to prevail," veteran tackle Bob Kuechenberg said. "It's ironic we're in the position we're in with all the disappointments we've had, now it all boils down to Thursday night (when the Patriots play at the Orange Bowl). We haven't won a big game all year. We're due. I'm not being negative. I'm just stating facts.

We have to rise to the occasion, New England has let us back in the ballgame one time too many, we won't lose again."

Theories abound for New England's latest upset loss. New England's 16-13 overtime loss to an old nemesis, Buffalo altered the Patriots from a playoff favorite in the AFC East to an apparent underdog, based on past performance. If New England had beaten Buffalo, the Patriots could have wrapped up their second straight division title. The Patriots finish the season in New York against the Jets and at home against Minnesota. Miami plays the Lions in Detroit and then the Jets in the Orange Bowl.

As for the blow applied by the surging Bills, Patriots Coach Ron Erhardt said: "We let it get away from us." Some critics now are saying the Patriots under Erhardt - like teams molded by former Coach Chuck Fairbanks - simply lack the spark needed to play well with consistency....

Coach Chuck Noll said emotioncharged hometown fans probably gave Pittsburgh the critical edge in the Steelers' 33-30 overtime victory over Cleveland Sunday. "The crowd probably provided the game's turning point, it was a defensive cheer that did it. It was when they got very loud and came on strong. It was a big Noll praised the performance of his offensive team and said quarterback Terry Bradshaw "did a good job of getting the ball to the right person.' Bradshaw rolled up a career-high 364 yards passing as the team gained 606 yards, the most under Noll. The coach said Bahr "had an excellent day. Matt's kicking is the thing that made the difference." Besides the gamewinning field goal, Bahr booted a 21-yard field goal with 24 seconds left in regulation play to send the game into overtime. Noll said he remains opposed to overtime because of the stress on weary players who already play a full schedule...

By far the most scrambled situation is in the NFC East. Dallas, once considered the conference's strongest Super Bowl candidate, is now the outsider in its own division. The Cowboys, with the visiting New York Giants, a trip to Philadelphia and a visit by the Redskins on tap, have a schedule with 23-16 opponents.

Philadelphia, which hosts Detroit and Dallas and closes out the regular season in Houston, has a 20-19 strength-ofschedule slate. Washington, one game behind Philly, plays at home against Green Bay and Cincinnati before visiting Dallas. The Redskins' foes are a composite 15-24.

THE CONTINENTAL SHORTCUT.

FOUR WAYS CONTINENTAL CUTS THE TIME TO NEW YORK.

Continental has found the fastest way into New York. With service to Newark Airport. Newark's fifteen minutes less flying time than if you head into JFK. It's also in a different traffic pattern. You'll avoid those stackups that happen so often over JFK.

You save time on the ground, too. Newark serves about 15,000,000 fewer passengers a year than JFK. So you still have a good chance of getting your baggage in a reasonable amount of time, without the frustrating delays.

Because Newark is modern and well laid out, NEWARK AIRPORT people are able to come and go without the huge jams you get at most International airports. You can get through the terminal without the shoving, crowding and 3

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market rose today in heavy trading as Chase Manhattan Bank joined the list of banks cutting their prime lending rates. The rally was tempered, however, by investors selling in attempts to make profits on Monday's rapid

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was up 2.65 to 831.40 at noon after rising 16.98 points on Mon-

Advancing issues led declines by a 5-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Chase Manhattan cut its prime rate from 1534 percent to 1514 percent, following Monday's action by Bankers Trust and some smaller banks in cutting their prime rates to 151/2 per-

The interest rate cuts are interpreted by analysts as a signal that the four-month spiral of interest rates has peaked and the rates will now settle back. The Federal Reserve has taken steps in recent months to severely limit growth in the nation's money supply, and those actions have put upward pressure on interest rates. IBM, the NYSE's most active issue at noon, was up 3/4 to 65.

Chase cuts back prime loan rate

NEW YORK (AP) - Chase Manhattan Bank cut its prime lending rate by a half percentage point to 151/ percent today, a step below the level set the previous day by some major banks.

The action came amid indications that most interest rates were headed down, but Chase issued a statement saying it was not predicting further decreases.

"The action we have taken with regard to the prime should not be interpreted as a prediction of the future of interest rates one way or the other," Chase said. "Obviously, however, we believe that this new rate is an accurate reflection of current market conditions. Several banks dropped the rate from a record 15% percent to 15% percent on Monday, and two St. Louis banks went to the 151/4 percent level. Chase, the third largest bank in the nation, was the first major bank to go to the lower prime rate, which is charged by banks to theiir most credit-worthy customers. The prime rate decline reflects a reduction in loan demand by businesses in the last two weeks, as well as play 'excellent' a decline in the cost of borrowing funds. Although some economists think rates have reached their peaks, others caution that because inflation is still high it is possible the rates will voice an opinion, is now riwe again. Some experts thought a peak had

Carter seeking aid to Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's administration is reported to be asking Congress for $75 million in aid to Nicaragua, plus money for Caribbean nations in response to Soviet troops in Cuba. The request, being spelled out to the House Foreign Affairs Committee today, totals $105 million but is so vague that Nicaragua is the only country specified so far, congressional sources said. The sources, who asked not to be identified, said it includes up to $95 million in new and old funds for Nicaragua and other Central American countries and $5 million to $10 million for the Caribbean islands.

The request for aid to Nicaragua is sure to be opposed by some members of Congress who contend the Sandinista rebels who took over Nicaragua's government are Marxists.

But Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher has told Congress its rejection of aid for Nicaragua could encourage a takeover by Marxist, pro-Cuba members of the Sandinis-"Without adequate support for reconstruction, the Nicaraguan government might resort to authoritarian measures," Christopher told the House Appropriations Committee in September.

At that time, President Carter promised Nicaraguan officials U.S. assistance in reconstructing their country but did not set a figure, press secretary Jody Powell said.
"The president expressed the intent on the part of this administration to be helpful in reconstruction efforts and said that a friendly relationship can be built on common interests in defending human rights and pluralist democracy and social justice," Powell said.

The aid for the Caribbean islands was among the steps Carter announced Oct. 2 in response to the Soviet brigade stationed in Cuba.

The congressional sources said the $5 million to $10 million requested for the Caribbean is for military credit sales and military training. The aid was promised by Carter at the same time he announced creation of a U.S.-Caribbean military task force and steps to assure that no Soviet troops in Cuba could be used to attack the United States.

October oil prices rose more slowly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline and fuel oil price increases slowed substantially in October, but overall consumer prices still climbed 1 percent over the previous month, the government reported today

The advance in the cost of living last month was led by a sharp jump in housing costs, including higher mortgage interest rates, home prices and rents, according to the Labor Department. Food prices, which had been level through the summer, rose 0.7 percent in October, just under the 0.9 percent increase of September. The October increase marked the 10th consecutive month in which the Consumer Price Index has risen about 1 percent.

Patrick Jackman, a Labor Department economist, termed it "the same abysmal level we've had, more or less, since the start of the He cautioned that although energy price increases have slowed down, "I wouldn't forecast that this would be the situation in the coming months. ... I don't think anyone expects stability in those prices in the In a related report, the department said retail gasoline prices averaged slightly more than $1 per gallon in October. "This price reflected a small monthly change of only 0.8 cents compared to the August and September increases of 3.7 cents and 3.1 cents, respectively," the report said. Fuel oil prices averaged 85.6 cents a gallon last month, up 0.8 cents from September, for the smallest monthly increase in fuel oil prices this Inflation also is taking its toll on workers' income, the department said. Average weekly earnings, adjusted for inflation, declined 1.1 percent in October and were 5.2 percent lower than in October 1978.

Jackman said that if price increases continue in the next two months at the same rate they did the first 10 months this year, the nation will end the year with a 13.1 percent inflation rate, the worst since price controls were removed after World War II.

The Consumer Price Index in October stood at 225.4. This means goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 sold for $225.40 last month. The October index was 12.2 percent higher than 12 months earlier.

By contrast, the index stood at 211.5 in April. The index rose 1.1 percent. in May, 1 percent in June and July, 1.1 percent in August and September and 1 percent in October. The Labor Department gave these breakdowns:

—The cost of housing rose 1.5 percent in October, the ninth consecutive month of large increases. Mortgage costs were up 1.1 percent; home prices up 1.9 percent and rents up 1.3 percent.

-Medical care rose 1 percent, the largest increase since January. -Clothing costs were up 0.2 percent, reflecting fall sale prices.

-Grocery store prices rose 0.7 percent in October versus 1.1 percent in September. Prices for meats, including beef and pork, poultry, fish and eggs were up. The cost of restaurant meals rose 0.9 percent compared with 0.6 percent in the previous month.

The Carter administration had hoped to hold inflation below last year's 9 percent increase. But in July, it admitted prices would rise at least 10.6

In recent weeks, administration officials have been even more pessimistic. One presidential adviser, who asked not to be identified, said, "I hate to admit it, but 13 percent or more is more than likely."

A 13 percent inflation rate would be the nation's worst since prices rose 18.2 percent in 1946, when wartime controls were lifted.

Oil prices have been — and continue to be — the biggest threat to U.S. efforts to lower inflation, the economists said. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries raised prices for crude oil 60 percent this year, and consumers have seen gasoline and home heating oil costs skyrocket. In addition, the prices of other goods have gone up because it costs more to transport them OPEC members could raise prices again at their Dec. 17 meeting in Caracas, Venezuela. Reports indicate an increase of about 10 percent is being considered. It is not yet known what impact President Carter's decision earlier this month to halt oil imports from Iran will have on prices. The action, taken to remove oil as an issue in bargaining for the release of 49 Americans held hostage in Tehran, could reduce U.S. oil imports by 700,000 barrels a day and drive prices higher.

Bumpers said the real question is whether the American people should have a bigger share of the estimated $1 trillion that will flow to oil producers over the next decade as a result of Carter's decision to phase out price controls on U.S. crude oil. Decontrol will mean increased revenues for producers and higher prices

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., supporting the committee bill, cited estimates that ending price controls with no "windfall" tax at all would increase U.S. production by about 4 million barrels a day by the late 1990s. Passing the House bill would cut that increase to 2 million, Dole said, while the Finance Committee version would mean an increase of 3 million barrels Bentsen said his plan to exempt the first 1,000 barrels of oil produced each day by an independent is necessary to give those operators the incentive they need to increase exploration and drilling.

Independents - producers who don't engage in retail sales and don't refine more than 50,000 barrels a day - drill 90 percent of U.S. oil and gas wells and make 54 percent of the discoveries. Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., contesting the amendment, said it is time for the oil industry and its defenders to "stop trying to squeeze every last dollar of profit" out of Americans and to share in the burdens caused by soaring oil prices.

"If you squeeze too hard," Ribicoff added, the fight will be carried-into the 1980 elections, pitting "the American people against the oil industry." Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D.

N.Y., said Bentsen's amendment would produce no more oil since it would apply to oil that has already been discovered. "People are making money on it already and they will make more tomorrow," he said. But Bentsen said the exemption, by encouraging investors to take the risk necessary for increased exploration, of 1 billion barrels in the 1980s. Domestic production now totals about 31 billion barrels a year.

Extraordinary Value

With home prices spiraling, Idlewilde Village is a great value, affordably priced, within the budget of most homebuyers. If your income was less than $30,000.00 in 1978 or 1979, you may be able to buy under a unique mortgaging program.

Featuring

. 95% financing . Approximately 91/2 % interest . 30 year loan

Apartment dwellers paying as little as $225.00 per month may be surprised to learn that they may be wasting over $600.00 per month by renting, instead of buying.

Don't Delay

Stop by our office at 4501 W. Wadley for a free computerized personal budget analysis, or write P.O. Box 5185, Midland, Texas 79701.

Duplex ownership gives many people the opportunity to buy their first home, with the tenant helping pay the mortgage.

...But Hurry, these homes will not be available for long!
