257 believed dead in crash

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) - An Air New Zealand DC-10 carrying 257 persons on a sightseeing flight to Antarctica crashed into a volcano on the edge of the icy continent today, authorities reported. All aboard, including 12 Americans, were believed killed in one of history's worst air

U.S. Navy search planes spotted the wreckage on the slopes of smoldering Mount Erebus, near the U.S. research station at McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, some 2,000 miles south of New Zealand.

"It looks as though it burned. No survivors have been sighted. They ... are expecting a complete fatality," said Petty Officer Mike Hatcher of the U.S. Navy Support Group Headquarters in Christchurch, New Zealand.

The airline said the 237 passengers aboard the DC-10 included 46 foreigners - 12 Americans, 24 Japanese, 7 Australians, 2 Britons and a Canadran. The rest were New Zealanders. They paid $359 for what was supposed to be an 11-hour flight from Auckland to the coast of Antarctica

Few airline disasters have surpassed the death toll in today's Antarctica crash. The on-the-ground collision of Pan Am and KLM jumbo jets at Tenerife airport in the Canary Islands in March 1977 took 581 lives, and the crash of a Turkish Airlines DC-10 near Paris in 1974 killed 346

The crews of Navy helicopters sent from McMurdo reported they were unable to land at the crash site because of violent updrafts of wind around the 12,400-foot volcano, the New Zealand Search and Rescue Cen-

The Navy said the plane crashed about 2,500 feet up the slopes of the active volcano, which is in the center of Ross Island, where the McMurdo base also is situated. The island is just off the Antarctica coast, and the volcano is within sight of the McMurdo base.

"The wreckage was on the back side of the mountain," Hatcher said. "It was spread over an area of about 200 yards."

The Air New Zealand sightseeing planes regularly fly close to the volcano on their non-stop round trips to Antarctica from Auckland.

The cause of the crash could not be determined immediately. The McDonnell Douglas DC-10 has had structural problems, including one that caused the crash of an American Airlines flight in Chicago last May

Air New Zealand said it understood the jetliner had completed its sightseeing run and was on its way back north to New Zealand when radio contact with the plane was lost at 2 p.m. (8 p.m. EST Tuesday). It was then still over Antarctica, about 30 or 40 miles from McMurdo.

The loss of radio contact was blamed on sunspot activity and did not cause immediate concern. But at 8 p.m. the airline announced the plane was an hour overdue for a refueling stop at Christchurch, on New Zea-

The airline announced at 10 p.m. (4 a.m. EST) that the plane was lost. It said its fuel would have been used up half an hour before.

The U.S. base at McMurdo Sound took charge of the search for the missing plane, and sent up five aircraft: two C-130 Hercules, a C-141 Starlifter and two helicopters. The Navy said one of the planes sighted the wreckage at 1 a.m. Thursday (7 a.m. EST).

There is almost perpetual daylight on Antarctica at this time of the

The Starlifter that took part in the search had flown Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia from Christchurch to McMurdo Sound for a flight Thursday over the South Pole commemorating the first flight over the pole 50 years ago by his famous polar explorer uncle, Adm. Richard E. Byrd. Air New Zealand said it had never lost a passenger before.

U.N. debate on Iran in doubt

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - A Security-Council meeting set to debate the U.S.-Iran crisis Saturday night was thrown into doubt today by reports from Iran that the revolutionary government was undecided whether its acting foreign minister would at-

An Iranian spokesman in Tehran said Acting Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr "probably" would not attend the council session. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who has rejected in advance any council decision, summoned Bani Sadr and other members of the ruling Revolutionary Council to consider strategy.

The 15-nation council launched its public consideration of the crisis with a 16-minute session Tuesday afternoon at which it heard speeches by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Council President Sergio Palacios de Vizzio of Bolivia. Then it adjourned until 8 p.m. Midland time

Saturday. In other developments:

- Doctors for ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in New York said he was recovering from surgery and is expected to leave the United States within 10 days. Militants holding 49 American hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran are demanding the shah return and stand trial for alleged crimes against the people

The Islamic Republic of Iran filed suit in New York state court seeking $20 billion it claims the shah and his wife "misappropriated, embezzled or otherwise diverted for his own use..." The suit also seeks $61 billion in compensatory damages for the revolutionary regime, which replaced the shah in February.

— A court in Essen, West Germany granted Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. an order that could lead to the seizure of Iran's 25 percent interest in the giant West German firm, Fried give a nationally broadcast news conference tonight, called upon Americans to demonstrate publicly against the hostage-taking and to express their outrage at what he called Iran's "blackmail" attempt.

Waldheim called on the United States and Iran "to avoid any action which could inflame" the situation further. Palacios de Vizzio urged Iran

The spokesman said the U.S. bank sought the order because of "an alleged claim of $40 million" against the Iranian government. Pending further West German court action, Morgan could assume Iran's share estimated $100 million share in the enormous industrial conglomerate. On Monday, Morgan won a U.S. federal court order which would allow ot to seize $66 million in Iranian holdings in the United States.

- In Tehran, ambassadors from 12 nations met with Bani Sadr to urge the release of the hostages. Austrian officials in Vienna said the envoys represented Austria, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand.

- President Carter, preparing to to release the American hostages, renewing an appeal he made on behalf of the council on Nov. 9. Iran's U.N. Mission had said Bani Sadr would be in New York for the start of the debate Saturday night.

Khomeini, in a statement broadcast Tuesday, said any council resolution would be "dictated" by the United States. He also appeared to reject the only proposal for council action that has surfaced so far, a package deal in which the Iranians would free the American hostages and end the occupation of the U.S. Embassy.

In exchange, the council would create an international commission to investigate his charges that Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was responsible for the death of "nearly 100,000 martyrs" and with his family and other associates plundered the Irani-

The ayatollah lumped together the charges against the shah and his charge that the American hostages were spies, saying any "investigation into the case of the deposed shah and the spies must be carried out only in Iran." He added that the hostages must be put on trial within the "spy den," his term for the embassy.

Iran had sought to delay the council meeting until next week while the United States demanded an earlier public session to call again for the release of the hostages. The United States also wanted to speak at the meeting, but after the council president made his new appeal U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry told a news conference: "We came out just where we wanted to."

State Department officials in Washington said the U.S. government was willing to wait through the end of this week for U.N. action and the time had not come for a showdown. But President Carter scheduled a news conference tonight and told a group of Democrats at a meeting in Washington Tuesday: "I wigl protect the honor of our country and will not under any circumstances yield to blackmail."

Iran's chief U.N. representative, Jamal Shemirani, told the council debate on the crisis would not be 'opportune and productive" until after the Shiite Moslem days of mourning Thursdai and Friday for the founder of the sect, the Prophet Mohammed's grandson Hossein.

Part of Cuthbert may be one-way

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Residents pleading for their safety along a busy thoroughfare apparently won their case Tuesday as the Midland City Council voted to go one-way on a section of West Cuthbert Avenue despite protests from nearby busin-

Approved on first reading during a regular session in City Hall Council Chambers was an ordinance making Cuthbert Avenue one-way going west from Ward to Garfield Street.

Complaints about the two-way traffic included too much speeding, cars passing and hitting other vehicles and no room to park cars on the narrow street. Mrs. Jim Schroeder, 2600 W. Cuthbert Ave., remarked a car traveling at a high rate of speed hit the front of her house about 12: 30 a.m. in September and "damaged it considerably." Joe Nuessle dropped his title of city attorney to become a citizen for a few minutes to plead with the council to "do something now about the situa-He explained that cars had run into two bedrooms of his house which faces Cuthbert, once with his daughter in bed asleep. Another time he had just left a bedroom when a car ran into the house. And his wife recently was involved in an accident on Cuthbert as a result of one car trying to pass another, he added

An attorney for Handy Hut at 2703 W. Cuthbert Ave. contended the oneway traffic would cause business to decline. Those sentiments were echoed by Greg Baker, representing Stadium Sports Center, 2040 W. Cuth-Giffert Alstrin with Western State Bank, 1030 Andrews Highway, suggested the one-way street would become more of a race track than it already is.

Martha Gould of 2303 W. Cuthbert Ave., who favored the one-way plan, remarked to the lawyers that "some of us is going to have to be dis-

Councilman Tom Sloan and Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. agreed on a proposal to lower the speed limit on that section of Cuthbert to 20 mph, install ceramic buttons in the street to warn people of the lowered speed limit and have that section patroled carefully

But the other members of the council preferred the one-way street idea, basing their opinion upon the projections given by city staff that the 7,000 cars per day would be cut to 3,500.

A second reading on the ordinance will come at the council's Dec. 18 meeting. If the council doesn't change its mind then, the section of Cuthbert will become one-way by the first of

In other action, the council approved three bus loading zones for MidTran, a public transportation system slated to begin early next year. These zones will be on the corner of Loraine Street at Wall, across the intersection on Wall Avenue and on the north side of Texas Street at Big Spring Street.

Purchase of eight fare boxes for the seven buses was approved. The extra fare box will be utilized in case one goes bad, the council was told.

Relocating two light poles at Cubs Stadium and installing 144 box seats received the council's unanimous approval. Bill Rigney Jr., representing the Midland Cubs, said the light poles are obstructing view and taking up space where more box seats could be

The Cubs sold 825 box seats last year, reaching the "saturation point," Rigney said. Agreement with the city says that the Cubs will split

Taxpayer revolt hurting poor most, study says

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) - The recent rash of tax-slashing laws is a sign of a taxpayer revolt that has been brewing for years - and that already has cut the proportion of local and state spending in the gross national product, a Rand Corp. report says.

The report also suggested that the tax-cut movement may — as its opponents have contended - hit the poor and disadvantaged hardest, and may increase the loss of "home rule."

Anthony H. Pascal, head of the group that prepared the report, said Tuesday that while the national anti-government spending mood was put into the limelight by measures like California's Proposition 13, "these tax limitation laws are just voter verification of something that had been going on for some

The report, part of a $180,000 study sponsored by the Ford Foundation, noted that of the 25 states with fiscal limitation laws, 16 have adopted them since 1975. The California measure, passed in a landslide vote last year, cut property taxes 57 percent statewide. There is accumulating evidence that the growth period in local government is coming to an end, or at least peaking," the report said. Aside from passing tax and spending limitation laws, the report added, voters are also increasingly reluctant to approve bond issues or elect free-spending officials.

While federal, state and local government spending is still on the rise, researchers at the Rand research center found the rate of increase has slowed from an annual average of 11 percent between 1969 and 1975 to 9.4 percent between 1975 and 1979.

In the last four years, the report added, the percentage of the GNP made up of state and local government spending has fallen for the first time in 30

City won't apply for federal funds

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Midland essentially lost another $1 million in Community Development funds Tuesday when the City Council voted 3 to 3 on a motion to apply for the aid.

Without a majority vote, the issue failed.

For the fourth consecutive year, a requirement by the Department of Housing and Urban Development that the application include a Section 8 rental subsidy plan in the CD applica-tion proved to be the source of irritation for the council. In arguing against the measure, Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. labeled those government strings "blackmail."

This is the third year in a row the council has not even submitted an application. The last time it did apply, in 1976, the council refused to add the rental subsidy program and HUD rejected the application.

The amount of funds allocated for Midland this year was $1,067,000, according to Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development for the city.

Before hearing comments from the public concerning the application, Angelo said the council had hoped that with Patricia Harris moving from the head position of HUD to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Section 8 requirement would change.

But, after checking with Texas' congressional delegation, Angelo said he was told that not only is Congress going to retain the idea, but it might be stricter in the future concerning rental assistance.

Betty Sheeler, who is working as director of Midland County's Section 8 program, said she has seen a lack of "enough rental housing that is safe, decent and close to a moderate price. There are lots of people who will never be able to own a house and are spending one-half to three-fourths of their income for housing that is meager.

Mrs. Sheeler explained that although the county rental subsidy program began Nov. 2 — less than a month ago — she feels it is a workable "There are not as many flaws in it as I was told there would be," she commented. "I feel it (Section 8) can work in Midland because of the size of the city. It's not like a Chicago or Dallas. And it's (the program) not that difficult to administer well. Don Hellinghausen with the Midland Housing Association pointed out there is "an enormous problem in the rental area here. We can't find a local solution for it." Conceding to the government red tape involved, Hellinghausen added, 'We're irate at the bureaucrats too. But the need (for housing) is great among people not able to help them-

Pointing out the increased amount of industry locating in Midland, Mary Hinkle, director of Casa de Amigos, said it also means more people need housing. And not every one of these (See CITY COUNCIL, Page 4A)

Carter hopes news conference will convince Iran of solidarity

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, appealing to America's sense of honor, hopes to rally public opinion and to convince Iran of American solidarity during tonight's primetime news conference.

At the news conference, scheduled for 9 p.m. EST, Carter is expected to insist anew that the United States will not yield to "blackmail" by militants still holding 49 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Carter said Tuesday that the honor of America is at stake in the embassy seizure, and said the hostages have been threatened at gunpoint and forced to make statements in which they did not believe.

Speaking to a group of Democrats working for his re-election, he said, "This is a reprehensible thing, a disgrace to every person who believes in civilization and decency.

"I will protect the honor of our country and will not under any circumstances yield to blackmail,' Carter said.

White House and State Department officials are saying meanwhile that they want to keep the 24-day-old Iranian crisis on "hold" until the U.N. Security Council meets again Satur-

The administration fears Iranian leaders believe they can "win some battle for American public opinion and that the American people will end up supporting their demands" for a trial of the deposed shah, said a White House official, who asked not to be quoted by name.

The official said Carter hoped to dispel that impression at his news

The president chose his most stately setting, the East Room of the White largest possible audience. Ordinarily, Carter holds news conferences in the afternoon in an auditorium of the Executive Office Building.

U.S. officials said Tuesday it is possible some useful discussions could take place this weekend if Iran's foreign minister, Abolhassan Bani Sadr, shows up for the U.N. debate on the embassy siege.

"If we see him walk through the door in New York, it will be more hopeful than if we do not see him walk through the door," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

He said if Bani Sadr's presence has the "side effect of allowing some kind of contact between leading representatives of that government and ours, that might be useful under certain conditions.

That was something of a shift in the U.S. position, which had previously ruled out any negotiations unless Iran agreed to release the hostages unconditionally Iran's leaders initially demanded that the president return the shah for trial on charges of murder and plundering the national treasury. Bani Sadr has said subsequently it would "improve the climate" if the United States would agree in advance to allow some sort of international tribunal hear the revolutionaries' charges against the deposed ruler.

But while the administration seemed to be moving quietly toward private talks with Bani Sadr, the president himself appeared to be escalating the war of words between himself and Iran. Even before his afternoon comments about American honor, Carter had told Democratic congressional leaders at a breakfast meeting that the release of the hostages by Iran will not "wipe the slate clean" between the two nations. That remark sent Carter's chief spokesman, Jody Powell, scurrying to deny that the remark meant Carter intends some sort of punishing action against Iran whether or not the hostages are eventually released unharmed.

Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., attended the breakfast with the president and told reporters later: "He did not suggest what further action might be taken, but I think all of us feel, including the president, that he will do something else after the hostages are released ... There are a whole range of options - not necessarily involving military action.'

Shah doing well

NEW YORK (AP) - The former Shah of Iran was doing well after the removal of a last gallstone and could have his doctors' blessing to travel in the next few days, doctors and officials at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center say.

The shah underwent a special non-surgical procedure Monday night to remove the gallstone, which was the last medical obstacle to his departure from the United States.

But his doctors said Tuesday they wanted to keep him under observation for several days to make sure he doesn't get an infection and to be certain no further stones appear.

Grain loading halted

By The Associated Press

The loud, passionate street protests against Iran appear to have yielded to a stronger, more subtle vigil for the Americans held captive in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Dock workers in Galveston said Tuesday that all loading of grain on ships destined for Iran has been stopped in an apparent food boycott.

Anti-Iranian feeling running higher than the 'legal limit'

By The Associated Press

The burning of the Stars and Stripes - a common sight these days at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran - highlighted a pro-Iranian demonstration in Michigan while the government warned that anti-Iranian feeling was running higher than the legal limit.

The flag was burned outside the Selfridge Air National Guard Base near Mount Clemens by 25 demonstrators. On the base, meanwhile, five men clambered into the office of the commanding colonel and demanded he call Washington and read a statement that said, "Return the shah to face the wrath of the Iranian peo-

Col. Raymond Even said, however, that he was unable to make the call because the protestors had cut his telephone lines and that he and his aide were freed when they said it was

The five were taken into custody for questioning by the FBI.

Protesters' spokesman Rene Lichtman said the burning of the American flag would be one of many. "Flagburning will be increasing as the American people learn what's going on in Iran," he said. In Washington, Rep. Douglas Applegate, D-Ohio, introduced a bill in the House to deport any alien "who in any way desecrates or defiles the American flag.'

Flag-burning can now bring a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Iranian flags have been burned at several American demonstrations decrying the situation in Iran, where followers of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini are holding 49 American hostages in the U.S. Embassy.

The Iranians say they will release the hostages only if the deposed Shah of-Iran, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, is extradited to Iran from his New York

Civiletti advocates restraint towards Iranians in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti is urging Americans not to vent their frustration over the U.S. Embassy seizure on Iranians living in this country, and warns that the Justice Department can "do no less" than prevent and remedy illegal discrimination.

While Civiletti acknowledged Americans' "justifiable anger" over the stalemate in Tehran, he advocated restraint in a statement issued

Citing news reports that some Iranians have been fired from their jobs, expelled from universities and denied public accommodations, Civiletti warned, "This conduct is not prop-

Anti-discrimination laws "forbid treating people differently in such areas as employment, public education, housing, credit and public accommodations like restaurants and hotels," he said, reminding Americans that those laws protect non-citizens as well as citizens.

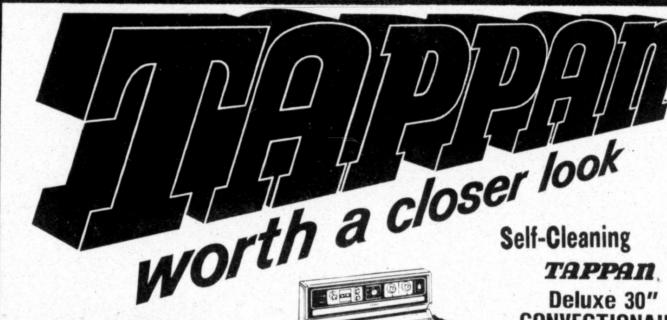

"It is the role of the Justice Department to go to court, when necessary, to prevent and to remedy illegal discrimination. In the current situation.

we must do no less," Civiletti said. Those wishing to express their concern about the situation in Tehran should send letters and telegrams to the Iranian mission at the United Nations, he said.

Crisis boosts enlistments

(AP) - A Marine Corps official says the Iranian hostage crisis has boosted Novermber enlistments in Connecticut and western Massachusetts by more than 50 percent over last year.

But Army, Navy and Air Force recruting officials in Connecticut said they have not noticed any increase in inquiries about enlisting.

Bill granting 'tax relief' to Patriots criticized

By ROBERT PARRY

WASHINGTON (AP) - A member of the House Ways and Means Committee says a bill to grant tax relief to the owner of the New England Patriots football team amounts to "a $3 million gift."

Rep. Fortney Stark, D-Calif., criticized the bill Tuesday after it was approved 6-3 by the Ways and Means

Cold snap to continue

The current cold snap should continue at least through Thursday, according to the weatherman. Clear and cold is the forecast from the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport. The high Thursday is expected to be in the upper 40s, with the low tonight dipping to the mid-20s.

Today's northeast winds should become light and variable by tonight. Tuesday's high was a chilly 59 degrees, well below the record for the date of 85 degrees set in 1945. The overnight low of 26 was a full 10 degrees above the record low of 16 set in 1976

Rain was left out of the forecast again, leaving the rainfall total for November at a trace and the 1979 total at 13.25 inches.

A fast moving cold front moved into the Gulf of Mexico early today, bringing with it a surge of cold Arctic air covering most of Texas.

Some light snow flurries were reported during the night in northwest sections of the Texas Panhandle and most of the state had clear skies and cold temperatures.

Highs were to range from around 40 in the Panhandle to the middle 70s in far South Texas. Most of the state was to have highs in the 50s.

subcommittee on select revenue. The bill now goes to the full committee.

The bill would benefit Patriots' owner William H. Sullivan by altering the effective date of a 1976 tax revision that was designed to close a "loophole" in the depreciation laws affecting professional sport fran-

The proposed change would permit Sullivan to use the old tax rules to reduce his taxes for 1980, 1981 and 1982 by a total of $3 million. Supporters of the bill claim Sullivan was unfairly hurt by the 1976 tax revision because he had committed himself to buy out the team's two other owners in 1975 when the old law was in effect. However, Sullivan fell under the new law because the deal was not completed until 1977. The bill would exempt from the revision a principal stockholder of a sports franchise who on Dec. 31, 1975, was committed to purchasing more than 50 percent of a team's stock and who completed the purchase by March 1, 1977.

Sullivan is the only owner of a professional sports franchise who would qualify for the tax relief.

"I have the feeling that it's a $3 million gift to the owner of the New England Patriots," Stark said in a telephone interview.

Stark said Sullivan apparently was counting on "powerful friends" in the Massachusetts congressional delegation to make up for bad tax advice he received four years ago.

The bill, introduced by Rep. James M. Shannon, D-Mass., has the support of the Carter administration, which deemed the proposed tax relief "equi-

Supporters note that the House Ways and Means Committee did not begin considering the 1976 tax revision until late October 1975, after Sullivan was committed to buy full ownership of the National Football League team.

Woman arrested by agents

WASHINGTON (AP) - A woman carrying a knife and yelling was seized by Secret Service agents today after she rushed into the reception room of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Senate office. She was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

One of the agents who seized her was nicked in the wrist by the knife. At the time of the incident, which occurred at about 9:40 a.m., Kennedy was in his office, which is separated from the reception room by an outer office.

Kennedy, who recently announced his candidacy for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, said he was unaware of the incident until he was told about it later by one of his assis-

"It was an incident that I understand is being handled by the Secret Service," Kennedy said.

The woman was identified by the Secret Service as Suzanne Osgood, 38, of Boston. She was arrested with help of Capitol policemen, who led her down the hall with her hands behind her back. She was taken into custody by the Secret Service, which has been assigned to protect Kennedy as a presidential contender.

Richard Burke, Kennedy's executive assistant, said that when the woman entered the reception area, "she let out a yell" and drew a knife from under her coat. None of the witnesses to the incident could say what the woman yelled. Burke said there had not been any similar incidents in Kennedy's of-

Inspector Gilbert H. Abernathy of the Capitol Police said the woman was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and removed for questioning by the Secret Service in downtown Washington.

Mary Ann Mikulich, a receptionist in Kennedy's office, said, "I was sitting at my desk when a woman came in with a big hunting knife just yelling at the top of her voice.

Rick Burke, Kennedy's administrative assistant, said Miss Mikulich rose from her seat and fled the room and Secret Service men apprehended

U.S. Steel announces cutbacks affecting workers in eight states

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) - U.S. Steel said it was cold hard economics, but the news of another mill shutdown was a blow to the heart of beleaguered Youngstown.

"We feel clobbered" said Bob Vasquez, union leader of the 3,500 workers who will lose their jobs when the company's Ohio and McDonald Works here are phased out.

In all, 13,000 U.S. Steel employees in 16 plants in eight states will be thrown out of work as part of the cutback announced Tuesday

But the cutback may be hardest on Youngstown, which was devastated two years ago when Youngstown Sheet & Tube closed its plant here and 4,000 workers were suddenly on the Community groups tried unsucess-fully to take over that plant and save the jobs. The economic ripple reached almost every business in the Mahoning Valley. Social workers said the town might never recover. The day of the Youngstown an-came known as "Black Monday." Now there's a "Black Tuesday" to go with it. In the other steel towns affected, there was bitterness. Bill Morris, nouncement in September 1977 be-mayor of Waukegan, Ill., said, "We think U.S. Steel milked our community and then ran.

Mayor Frank Logue of New Haven, Conn., said, "I'm really disappointed and angry that U.S. Steel did not respond to four different attempts we made to see if they would sit down with state and local officials to work out their problems.

In Pittsburgh, company chairman David Roderick said, "The operations being terminated at this time have become noncompetitive for a variety of reasons, including operating cost, unfairly priced imports or excessive environmental spending require-

The Environmental Protection Agency in Washington insisted that anti-pollution requirements were not to blame.

The company said the closings will result in an earnings loss that will wipe out the $300 million it has profit-

they wanted.'

Mayor J. Phillip Richley said the closings emphasize "what we have been saying for months. Diversification is the only way for the valley to go; we cannot rely on basic steel as our base any more."

Federal financial assistance for U.S. Steel not foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is not likely to step in with financial assistance or to urge U.S. Steel Corp. to change its mind about closing 16 facilities around the nation, a Commerce Department official said today

The official, who asked not to be named, said the Carter administration was concerned about the steel giant's decision to lay off some 13,000 workers in plant closings in eight states on economic grounds. But, the official said, "the plants are diffused in a large number of locations. And these (shutdowns) would be normal operating adjustments if not collected together and announced as a total.

He said Youngstown, Ohio, would be among the hardest-hit areas because the loss of U.S. Steel's Ohio and McDonald Works follows by only two vears the closing of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube plant. The earlier closing cost 4,000 jobs, and the U.S. Steel shutdown will mean the loss of another 3,500 jobs, union officials say.

The administration has urged Congress to approve a $1.5 billion loan guarantee program for the financially troubled Chrysler Corp., the nation's 10th largest corporation. At least 130,000 Chrysler jobs hang in the

But the government is likely to remain neutral in the case of U.S. Steel, the nation's 15th largest manufacturer, the official said. Even in Youngstown, he said, "it's a marginal operation and it's very questionable whether it would be sound economics" to help.

OSHA recommends possible criminal prosecution in death of steelworker

BALTIMORE (AP) - Federal safety officials have recommended possible criminal prosecution of Bethlehem Steel Corp. managers in the gassing death of a steelworker early this year.

The federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration issued the recommendation following a special investigation of a state study of a January carbon monoxide leak that killed a worker at Bethlehem's plant on Sparrows Point.

OSHA reported finding evidence indicating the company had committed a "willful" violation of safety standards that led to the accident. "There is no question in my mind that it (circumstances surrounding the plant leak) was criminally willful," said Bart Chadwick, director of OSHA's Baltimore area office. A spokesman for Bethlehem, who did not receive a copy of the report, said there would be no comment at OSHA was called in by a local steelworkers' union after the Maryland Occupational Safety and Health agency declined to cite the company following its investigation of the inci-

The federal agency decided on the basis of interviews with workers, scrutiny of company records and consultations with engineering experts that Bethlehem knew of carbon monoxide problems and could have done something to prevent gas accidents.

OSHA said that since a six-month statute of limitations had run out, the state agency could not cite the company directly for the fatality. But OSHA told the state it "may still wish to consider whether a criminal action is appropriate...since an argument can be made that a fatality was coupled with a willful violation.

Chadwick said OSHA would expect the state agency to initiate the recommended action, which would entail sending the case to the state's attorney's office "for possible criminal prosecution against the management or supervisors responsible."

Earl R. Barley, 52, died when a seal at the plant blew, allowing poisonous gas to escape from a pipe. Six other workers were poisoned by the colorless, odorless gas as they tried to resuscitate Barley, who they thought had suffered a heart attack. They recovered.

Old people bad drivers, says State Insurance Board

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Old people are worse drivers than other adults, says the State Insurance Board's chief of auto insurance.

The board held a day-long hearing Tuesday into insurance problems of the elderly. Earlier this month, it conducted a similar hearing on difficulties of the handicapped.

Several spokesmen for the elderly told the board insurance companies discriminate against old people, denying them coverage because of their

Ernest Cabe of the American Association of Retired Persons said most reports he had seen show old people have fewer accidents than other

"When you are over 65, about all you use your car for is to go to church or to the store," he said.

Donald O'Brien, chief of the board's auto insurance division, said he checked with statisticians during the lunch hour to determine whether the elderly were, in fact, safer drivers.

Board statistics for 1975-77 show that persons 65 and over "are not better drivers. They are worse drivers ... than other adult drivers." Old people, however, have better driving records than those in the under-25 category, O'Brien said

Testimony also delved into abuses in the health insurance and industrial life insurance fields.

Gary Greif of East Texas Legal Services urged "much more regulation" of industrial life agents and policies. Industrial life policies are those whose premiums are payable weekly — usually to a agent who collects in person - or are for less than $1,000 and payable at least

She said she had learned that the board was unable to take any action because the policies are legal.

sometimes seen during chase scene

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) - During the past four months, Seldom Seen Sr. was seldom seen. But today the Japanese snow monkey is back in his zoo home, 50 pounds heavier and, no doubt, happy about leaving behind the world of bright lights, barking dogs and screeching children.

"He was very scared," said Denise Lesher, owner of the garage where the 7-year-old fugitive was captured Tuesday. "He was being chased by dogs and kids and quite a few peo-

Elyria Chronicle-Telegram reporter Bruce Vernyi led the chase after the newspaper got a tip that Seldom Seen, who escaped from the Columbus Zoo 110 miles away in June with his offspring, Seldom Seen Jr., had been spotted in some bushes on the town's east side.

Vernyi got just a glimpse of the elusive 90-pound monkey before Seldom Seen disappeared again. He sent an appeal to the newsroom for more

Vernyi said the monkey, described as about the size of the average 6year-old child, was sighted again several blocks away, jumping around playfully on the roof of patrolman Robert Lesher's home.

By this time, the chase involved three police cars, three newspaper editors, three reporters, two photographers, a copy girl, and several members of a CB club - along with the assorted dogs and children.

Seldom Seen scooted into the garage. His pursuers closed the door behind him and called the zoo. Keeper Tom Steele, who arrived a couple of hours later, slipped under the door with a net to bring the monkey down from the rafters while 60 spectators and television camera crews waited outside.

"It was hard to corner him, but he didn't bite. He was pretty gentle," Steele said after wrestling the monkey into a portable cage.

Seldom Seen Sr. and Seldom Seen Jr. had eluded pursuers in several parts of northern Ohio since making their escape. Seen Jr. was captured two weeks ago in a barn in Upper

Unacceptable intrusion

It is good to know that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is on record as strongly opposing the so-called "National Employment Priorities Act of 1979." Hopefully, many other organizations throughout Texas and the great Southwest are voicing opposition to the proposal.

The name of the act in itself is enough to throw most anyone off base. The act, however, is more commonly referred to as the "Plant Closing or Relocation Act." This is something more readily understandable.

Ed Coltharp, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber, says WTCC views the proposed legislation as a direct attempt by certain Northeastern and Western industrial areas to stop the flow of industrial jobs to Texas and other states offering a healthy climate for industrial growth. More than that even, it is an unacceptable intrusion by the federal government into the management decision process.

Coltharp says the stated purpose of the act is to prevent or minimize the harmful economic and social effects of unemployment on employees and on local governments when business concerns undertake changes of operation. This amounts to nothing. more or nothing less than government control...and we have much too much of that already.

According to the definition as stated in the act, a business concern means any business employing 50 or more persons with minimum gross sales or business of

The WTCC explains that if the legislation is passed as presently written, businesses meeting the criteria making them subject to the act would be required to file notice with the Secretary of Labor, affected labor organizations, employees and local governments of intent to make changes in their operations which would adversely affect 15 percent or more of their employees. Furthermore, advance notice would range from 24 months for businesses with 500 or more employees down to six months for those employing less than 100. And on top of that, once a business has terminated the employment of a part of its work force meeting criteria making it subject to the act, it would be required to pay 85 percent of the salary of each person put out of work for up to a year. Furthermore, this would not affect the individual's eligibility to draw unemployment compensation.

Where a change of operation would result in loss of revenue to taxing entities, the business would also be required to compensate for taxes which would be lost.

Such legislation as this is difficult even to imagine. Yet, it really isn't too surprising that certain interests in the Northeastern and Western industrial areas would be putting the pressure on Congress to pass such an act. Individuals and organizations in this part of the country, which has many attractions for industrial development, must make every effort to sidetrack the measure.

The implication was clear. So Sporkin called some of his young assistants on the carpet and instructed them in no uncertain terms that it simply isn't proper to use lawyers they're litigating against to seek they have to start so early?' 'It takes a lot of organization to run for President of the United States. The candidates have to campaign earlier every four years or they won't have a chance.

"Couldn't they have waited until January 1 so we all could have a nice Christmas?"

"Perhaps. But the public doesn't have any money left after Christmas to give the candidates. When you're running for office you have to tap the people before they waste all their money on toys and gifts for their families. Come on, Bascomb, get your things together and I'll jog home with "No way," he said. "I have a low pain threshold. I just can't watch those guys on television every night telling me how they're going to save the country.

'Who says they're the best and the brightest?

They do, or at least their staffs tell them they are. But that isn't important. What is important is that the people are given an opportunity to listen to what these men have to say, so we can decide which one of them is qualified to handle the problems that beset the nation and the world."

"But they're not saying anything," Bascomb growled.

"It's too early for them to say anything. Right now they're just talking to the people who will give them money, so they're telling them what they want to hear. Once they get the money they'll get down to the "What issues?"

"Things like love of country, the evils of inflation, military weakness, the problems of the poor, the search for a better life for all the people, and of course crime in the streets. "If it's all the same to you, I'd rather stay in my cave until it's over.'

I was starting to get angry. "Listen to me, Bascomb. We're all in this together. If I have to listen to the rhetoric, so do you. That's the price we pay for a free society. There is no such thing as a free lunch or a free presidential election. If you want a President you have to go through the time-honored rituals we've set up to select one. What would happen if everyone crawled into a cave just when the campaign started?"

"I've got plenty of room if you'd like to join me," he said. "It's really great. You can't get any television reception at all.'

Million missing from bank vault

EDISON, N.J. (AP) - About $1 million in cash and checks has been reported missing from a basement vault at the First National State Bank, police say.

The money was taken to the bank by guards from the Edison Armored Car Service at 5 p.m. Saturday. The loss was discovered Monday morning, said police.

Police suspect it may have been an inside job and are questioning bank employees. The FBI also is investigating the disappearance to determine whether a federal crime has been committed.

The missing deposit contained receipts from local stores and busin-

There were no signs of a forced entry into the bank, the basement or the vault, said police.

Only the guards have access to the small vault, where they store deposits before giving them to bank employees the next day.

Police are reconstructing the regular route of the armored car and questioning customers to determine the exact value of the receipts.

Garwood presses military court to dismiss Vietnam charges

Garwood said the charges should be dropped because:

—He was unable to take advantage of needed physical and mental help since under military law his conversations with the doctors could be used against him in a trial.

-Military authorities have refused to let him withdraw money from the $145,000 he has coming in pay and allowances, meaning that "he would be financially incapable of preparing a timely defense.'

-The military needlessly reinvestigated his case and delayed in ending it. He said in the eight months since he was charged, the Marines had taken "not a single further procedural step" to move the case toward dismissal or a trial.

Without his consent, he said, the Marines extended his enlistment and "I have absolutely no doubt that the charges are the products of enormous personal hostility.

The Marine Corps had no comment on Garwood's petition, saying the case still is under investigation.

He said in a deposition that after his capture on Sept 28, 1965, he was forced to live in a totally foreign environment; English became a weak, second language; and he had to relearn such fundamental things as tying shoelaces and shaking hands. He said on his return to the United States, he was the target of irresponsible public attacks.

"A member of Congress publicly called for my conviction and jailing, although I had not yet even been tried," Garwood said.

"The media published as established fact the claim that I had voluntarily stayed in Vietnam ... the initial public response showed enormous hostility," he contended.

A federal complaint charged Hill with interfering with the flight crew by assaulting, intimidating and threatening them with a large hunting

Cancer patients plead for oil, life

But they just turned their backs on us'

LONDON (AP) — With three hours to go before Charing Cross Hospital would have run out of heating oil because of a strike, cancer patients threw blankets over their bathrobes and took to the streets.

Their mission was to convince 55 striking maintenance men to allow oil trucks through the picket lines. Without the fuel, Britain's foremost cancer clinic would have to close its doors.

"We told them we were cancer patients and were ashamed of what they were doing," Kathy Barker, a 37-year-old mother of two, told The Associated Press. "But they just turned their backs on us." Mrs. Barker has cancer of the uterus.

One picket confessed he felt sorry for the patients, but Carol Bostwick, 42, who had surgery only a week ago, cried to him: "Obviously you're not sorry enough because our lives are still at stake.'

Mrs. Bostwick had to have a nurse help her to stand, and another patient coughed up blood as he braved the cold with 200 white-coated doctors and nurses and pleaded with the pickets to end their five-week hospital blockade.

Besides oil, supplies of oxygen, food and even light bulbs were running out. Patients were taking cold baths and with the working staff were eating leftovers to conserve the hospital's resources.

'It's been like a war-time siege," a nurse complained. And a patient, Peter Harebottell, 17, who has abdominal and lung cancer, commented bitterly: "It is warmer near the pickets' fire than it is in our hospital.'

Three oil tanker trucks slipped past the pickets Tuesday night and gave the hospital enough fuel to last until the weekend. But whether this will end the strikers' stranglehold is not clear. The hospital needs 14 more oil deliveries to restore its fuel reserves to nor-In the House of Commons, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher pledged any necessary action — including sending in troops — to see the supplies

"I think we are all appalled and repelled by the scenes outside Charing Cross Hospital," Mrs. Thatcher said. "They show a callous disregard for common humanity." The dispute, like many British strikes, began with what seemed a minor incident. A maintenance man was fired after he refused to install an air filter in an operating room, on the grounds that carrying it even by elevator was not part of his job. That prompted a wildcat walkout by the engineering staff. The Trades Union Congress, umbrella group for British unions, is urging the strikers to go back to work. Doctors and nurses are keeping an around-the-clock "counter-picket" in an attempt to keep supplies coming.

Nurses in starched white caps and dark blue capes huddled in the chilly darkness sipping steaming coffee on their picket line late Tuesday and on into today. They cheered when the tanker trucks made it past the nearby

Some angry hospital staff workers smashed the strikers' posters and destroyed their makeshift sleeping huts. The working staff and strikers regularly swapped taunts and jeers.

Because of the strike, the hospital transferred some patients to other facilities, and said it could not accept any new cases. More than half the 850 beds at Charing Cross are empty. Premature babies are now nursed beside cardiac cases, and the halls of this once bustling, highly modern facility are silent and eerie.

But the cancer patients were hardest hit because many need special treatment available only at Charing Cross.

The official announcement of Bunton's confirmation came Tuesday morning, although the U.S. Senate unanimously confirmed his appointment Monday night.

The Senate also confirmed Harry Lee Hudspeth, an El Paso U.S. magistrate, as a federal judge in the Western District of Texas which includes Midland.

Both men had been recommended for appointment by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and nominated by President Jimmy Carter. Two vacancies remain in the sprawling Western District.

The 14 percent drop in choral music enrollments this year, she said, could be due to a lack of recruiting, and that will be increased this spring.

Other recommendations included adding courses such as music and art appreciation for the non-performing students, designing courses to appeal to ethnic minorities and adding sections for vocational and work-study students such as business speech that will fit into their schedules.

In other business, the school district got a straight A report on its auditing procedures.

Representatives from the accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. told board members they found "no conditions that we believe to be material weaknesses," in their recent audit of the school books.

Mohawk and Sioux varieties of pecans and a native nut won grand champion plaques and blue ribbons in their respective divisions in the third annual Midland County Pecan Show that concluded Tuesday in Dell-

A batch of "backyard" Mohawk pecans produced by C.A. Gray was judged No. 1 pecan in the in-shell division. Reserve champion in-shell pecan was a Wichita variety shown by Bill Barrett.

Grand champion shelling pecan was a Sioux produced by Dr. John Foster. Reserve champion shelling nut was a Western Schley produced Thelbert Hanson showed the grand champion native pecan, and Kasy Arnold produced the reserve champion native.

SHOW ENTRIES totaled 170 batches and represented more than 20 varieties and classes of pecans. The 1978 show attracted 147 entries, and the 1977, show drew 82 competing batches of nuts. "I'm enthusiastic about it," said David Harris, president of the Midland County Pecan Growers Association. "We had just a super show excellent nuts. The show was co-sponsored by the pecan association and the Midland County Extension Service. 'It was an excellent show," said R. B. Henderson, one of the show's boosters and a member of the association.

Morris Davis was show chairman. Judging the show were Dr. Kenneth Lindsey, an agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service district office in Fort Stockton, and Dr. Michael Kilby, a TAES horticulturist in El Paso.

"THE QUALITY WAS outstanding this year," said Kilby, who has judged the previous Midland County shows and other pecan shows statewide. "The quality was improved this year, and most (pecans) were better in quality than in other areas.' Kilby and Lindsey weighed, cracked, shelled, scrutinized and evaluated 10 pecans from each 40-pecan batch. First-place pecans in each class and variety will be entered in the regional show in San Angelo Dec. 11-12. Champion and reserve champion pecans in each variety will be in the running for plaques and ribbons in the 1980 state show.

Rather than tasting the kernel, judges look, feel, touch and sometimes cut into the nut. "There's too much personal preference" in taste to permit taste-testing to be a step in the judging process, Kilby said.

Charles W. Green, the Midland County agricultural agent, was pleased with the turnout and quality of the show.

'No," he said, "there's no question about it. We've got the biggest and best (show) ever" in the 21-county TAES District VI between Big Spring and El Paso. "Looks like we've got some good, quality entries. We've got the biggest (show) of them all this year, according to Mike (Kilby),'

"There's no telling how many single trees there are," commented Travis Harney, assistant county agent.

After a one-year wait, winner named in congressional race

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) - Democrat Tom Daschle has been declared the winner of the nation's closest 1978 congressional race - more than a year after South Dakota voters cast their ballots.

The South Dakota Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that Daschle, seated in the U.S. House in January, did indeed defeat Republican Leo Thorsness by 110 votes.

Daschle originally was certified winner of the election with a 14-vote margin. Recounts and challenges stretched that margin to 105 votes before the state's high court, at Thorsness' request, took the case.

1,084 disputed ballots. After two recounts, the vote totals examined by the justices gave Daschle a 64,651-64,-546 lead. The high court, terming its decision

"landmark," ruled that states have the right to decide election questions.

Attorneys for Daschle had argued

The justices examined each of the that only Congress can make the final decision on who will be seated.

Thorsness, who moved to California to take a job as political fundraiser for Litton Industries, said he was not surprised by the outcome. The former Vietnam prisoner of war had never conceded defeat to Daschle. "I'm not really jumping up and down, but it's not an unexpected outcome," he said.

For Daschle, the ruling was cause for celebation. Daschle said he and his wife, Laurie, would break open a bottle of champagne saved since election eve last November. "We both waited so long for this,"

Troops pilfer aid, mine rice fields, refugees say

NONG SAMET, Thailand (AP) -Cambodian refugees, part of a current mass exodus from their homeland, claim that Vietnamese troops are pilfering international food aid, mining rice fields to prevent harvesting by Cambodians and providing only starvation seel rations in the countryside.

The refugees, who reached this bor-der area after mid-November, said they had received virtually none of the foreign aid that has been sent into Cambodia over the past two months. Almost all said the believed Vietnam, which invaded in January to set up a pro-Hanoi government, was trying to exterminate the Cambodian

Their accounts could not be independently verified. Access to Cambodia by Westerners is extremely limited. But a French Parliament delegation which was permitted to travel across Cambodia said on its return to Paris Tuesday that international food aid "seemed to us to be deliberately diverted away from its objectives....We fear that the elimination of the Khmer (Cambodian) people is continuing.

However, Nicolas Sommer, a spokesman in Thailand for the International Red Cross, one of the distributors of food aid to Cambodia, said: "We have no indication that there has been a wholesale diversion of international aid." But he and a spokesman for another aid distributer, the United Nations Children's Fund, noted that with fewer than 15 Red Cross and U.N. officials in Cambodia it was impossible to make detailed checks of food distribution. Although the refugees interviewed by The Associated Press came from Cambodian provinces as far apart as Kompong Cham and Prey Veng in the east bordering Vietnam to Battamwith Thailand, their stories were similar.

They claimed that: -Rice fields in many areas have been sown with mines and some farmers have been shot by Vietnamese soldiers for entering the fields. The Cambodians were told rice would be harvested by proper authorities to insure future stocks and seeds.

-There was wholesale diversion of food and other international aid earmarked for the civilian population to the estimated 200,000 Vietnamese troops in Cambodia or to Vietnam itself. Soldiers sometimes came at night to confiscate distributions made during the day. Foreign-donated food was available in the markets of some provincial towns but had to be exchanged for gold, meat or produce.

-Cambodians in the countryside and towns were generally given red corn rather than rice as rations, which the refugees said were far smaller than the meager ones handed out during the now ousted Communist Premier Pol Pot. The refugees said that only in Phnom Penh. Cambodia's capital, were rations adequate and these were distributed to officials of the new Vietnamesebacked Communist regime of President Heng Samrin.

Red Cross and U.N. officials have said in the past that the lack of transportation has made aid distribution difficult in the countryside.

(State Department officials in Washington said reports of a widespread diversion of relief supplies have come so far from a few refugees and therefore have to be regarded as inconclusive. One State Department official said the department had received reports of the mining of rice fields "bwt we cannot confirm that they are accurate." Another War bang on the northwestern frontier ington official said, however, "Anything you are hearing from the refugees coming out is pretty accu-

> "The Vietnamese want to kill us all by taking away our rice," said Suon Saroen, a farmer from Kompong

One Western analyst here, who said he has spoken to a number of recent escapees, commented: "Whether it's a policy of genocide or because they are having a hard time trying to control the Cambodians, it sounds like the Vietnamese are trying to eliminate them.

When the Vietnamese invaded Cambodia and set up a new government last January, most refugees expressed gratitude that the four-year reign of terror by Pol Pot had ended.

Russian navy doubles operations in Far East, while U.S. spreads ships

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Russian navy has doubled its operations in the Far East this year while the U.S. Navy has spread its available ships to cover crisis missions in the Indian Ocean-Arabian Sea area.

This was highlighted in a new intelligence analysis of growing Soviet naval activity in the Far East coinciding with diversion of U.S. aircraft carrier strength from East Asian waters into the xindian Ocean following the taking of hostages in the American embassy in Tehran.

The United States has sent two powerful carrier task forces totalling 14 ships from the western Pacific and South China Sea into the Indian

This has left the U.S. Navy temporarily without any aircraft carriers in the entire western Pacific region. The carrier Coral Sea is expected to arrive from the U.S. West Coast to fill that gap, at least partially

In a related matter, a U.S. official who asked not to be named said Tuesday that the Soviet Union is sending jet fighters and other arms to North Yemen, adding a new element of concern in a region already troubled by the holding of American hostages in

Earlier this year, the United States speeded up delivery of anti-tank and anti-aircraft weapons to North Yemen after fighting broke out with South Yemen.

Then last week, North Yemen said it would not permit its territory to be used for any operation against Iran.

"We have expressed our concern to North Yemen," a U.S. official told The Associated Press. "We don't want them to be under any illusion they can play both ends against the

In the view of American specialists who asked not to be named, the two most significant changes in Sovie Pacific Fleet operations this yea. have been the beginning of Russian naval warplane deployments to Viet nam and flights into the South China Sea, a strategic stretch of ocean.

Another major change finds Russian naval units using ports along the Vietnamese coast so frequently U.S. analysts believe Russia now has a major foothold there.

Missile alarm system fixed to prevent more false alarms WASHINGTON (AP) Military Command Cen-firmed" almost immedi-

- The Pentagon says its experts believe they have fixed the U.S. missile alarm system to prevent false alerts like the one that recently sent 10 U.S. and Canadian jet interceptors scrambling to meet a nonexistent bomber attack

President Carter and Congress were advised Tuesday of the corrections. Officials declined to elaborate on changes made in the system. Defense Secretary

Harold Brown ordered the investigation that led to those corrections after an apparent computer malfunction was blamed for the false Nov. 9 alarm of a Soviet missile attack.

Officials said at the time that a test tape simulating such an attack was fed into a computer at North American Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Due to an apparent mechanical malfunction, the tape was transmitted to other military commands and federal agencies, the Pentagon said.

The error was corrected within six minutes and word of the alert did not reach the president or Brown, according to the Pentagon.

In an updated account, Pentagon officials said senior government leaders were not notified because within about a minute of the alert, NORAD had advised the National

The Robert Mondavi dest son Michael is Winery, here the epicenter of the Napa Valley, frequently facetiously referred to as "the navel of Bacchus," is more accurately often dubbed "California's test-tube winery" because of its founder's unrelenting drive to wrest more and more from the grape's potential in wine. When he broke away from the family winery, the pioneer Napa Valley Charles Krug Winery, re-established by his father, Cesare Mondavi, in 1943, Robert Mondavi, at age 54 in 1966, was already cognizant of those potentials. He employed designer Cliff May to draw up plans not only for a winery but a whole complex which would include public areas where there might be an exposition of all the related arts of good living associated with wine. In the widely publicized family feud, now happily settled without further court problems, Peter Mondavi, Robert's brother, is in full charge of the Charles Krug Win-

Many attempt to quit

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, WED., NOV. 28, 1979

An estimated 18.2 million Americans, including more than a million Texans, tried to quit smoking Nov. 13, the date of the Third Annual Great American Smokeout, according to figures from the American Cancer Society.

The results were compiled through a nationwide survey of 2,224 households.

Of the 4,907 adults in the households surveyed, one-third were cigarette smokers. Of that group,

35 percent were reported "trying to quit" on the morning of the Smokeout, ACS officials said

In Texas, 137 households in 13 cities were surveyed by volunteers before noon Wednesday.

The Texas figures indicated 40 percent of the smokers, or 1.2 million, were trying to quit, but the sample was too small for an accurate projections, the cancer society reported.

Hawaii Public Works Union to ballot on returning to jobs

The 7,700 people who do the mundane and dirty work for Hawaii's taxpayers will decide this week whether or not they want to return to those jobs for $100 a month more this year and another $100 monthly increase next year.

For the nearly 900,000 people who call these tropical islands home, it means at least one more week of the dirty work going undone

Officials of the United Public Workers union started informational meetings Tuesday to explain the settlement reached in federal mediation last week, a settlement described by UPW State Director Henry Epstein as "the best we could do at the time.'

However, the union's full negotiating committee Saturday voted 82-2 to recommend that the membership reject the

But he was optimistic that the rank-and-file would approve the new two-year contract during the statewide vote than begins today and runs until Saturday

"I think they are just getting used to the idea that this is what's in the settlement and this is what appeared to be the best we could do at the time," he said.

Oregon surfer attacked by shark

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - A 26-year-old surfer rode a whitewater wave to safety, then collapsed, bleeding profusely, after being attacked by a shark described as at least 10 feet long.

Hospital officials said Kenny Doudt of Reedsport, Ore., was in critical condition when he was admitted with wounds to the chest and abdomen, but was in satisfactory condition after 2 hours of surgery. He initially was treated at Seaside General Hospital, about 10 miles away, where a spokesman said he had a large bite on his left flank and some broken

Doudt was surfing Sunday morning at Cannon Beach on the northern Oregon Coast when he was attacked. A companion, Jack Bird, said he heard Doudt yell and then saw a shark "at least 10 feet long" attack him, thrashing around with Doudt in his mouth

"The shark was pushing at Kenny and his tail was thrashing back and forth on top of the water. I started paddling and looked back, but couldn't see very much because water was splashing all over," Bird

After the shark released him, Doudt pulled himself back on his surfboard, caught a wave and floated toward shore, Bird said 'Kenny rode in on his board after the shark attacked. He did it himself. He fell off as he got in towards us, and we picked him out of the water," said another surfer, Josh Gizdavich, 23, of Seaside. Witnesses said Doudt was conscious, but bleeding heavily. Cannon Beach Fire Chief Gary Moon said Doudt's surfboard appeared to have "teeth marks 13 or 14 inches across. Duncan Law, research director at the Oregon State University Seafoods Laboratory in Astoria, Ore., said several types of man-eating sharks inhabit Pacific Northwest coastal waters but that attacks on humans are "extremely rare."

In September, 1976, a surfer was attacked near Winchester Bay on the southern Oregon Coast. The shark bit the surfboard, but the surfer swam

Computer error blamed for wide power outage

By The Associated Press

Officials of the federal Bonneville Power Administration have blamed a computer for triggering a temporary power loss to about 260,000 customers in more than half a dozen Western

The outage Tuesday afternoon started at the Grand Coulee Dam in eastern Washington and cut through a section of the Pacific Northwest power grid from eastern Washington through Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Montana, Utah and Arizona.

A computer responded to an erroneous signal and directed gates to drop at the dam, shutting off the water that moves the generators and causing a loss of 800 megawatts of power, BPA spokesman Gene Tollefson said in Portland. BPA technicians were trying to determine the source of the

Except for isolated areas, Tollefson said, backup lines automatically fed power into the weakened lines and few outages occurred. He said the power disruptions were in isolated spots spread over a large area.

The drop-off in power from G Coulee shut off electricity to 130,000 customers in the Boise and Twin Falls, Idaho, areas and to about 15,000 eastern Oregon consumers in Burns, John Day and Baker for 20 minutes to Sixteen skiers were trapped on ski lifts at the Bogus Basin Resort near Boise when the outage occurred. Power was restored about the time the last skier was taken to safety.

Tollefson said four utility substations in Eugene, Ore., were knocked out, and 12,000 customers lost power for up to 40 minutes.

More than 50,000 customers in the Missoula and Butte, Mont., areas were without power, most of them for about 20 minutes, but some rural areas were without power for four

Also, 20,000 Puget Sound Power and Light Co. customers in Bellingham, Wash., lost electricity for five to seven minutes, and copper and aluminum manufacturing plants were affected at Spokane; Anaconda, Mont.; The Dalles, Ore.; and Vancouver, Wash., Tollefson said.

The drop-off in power consumption in Montana and Idaho apparently caused an overload in Denver, cutting off electricity to several thousand customers for about 20 minutes, Tollefson said.

BPA officials said the outage affected a high voltage line into Arizona, but Tollefson said apparently no customers were affected. Several thousand rural Utah residents also

Flouride contamination may have caused patient's death

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) - Health officials say autopsy results will help determine if a large amount of fluoride mistakenly dumped into the city's water supply was involved in the death of a kidney patient.

The fluoride, up to 15 times the normal amount, contaminated a dialysis machine in a local clinic where the 65-year-old victim was being treated, the officials said Tuesday.

Seven other patients at the clinic, Bio-Medical Applications of Annapolis, reported feeling sick after using the machine, officials said.

Charles Yost, health educator for Anne Arundel County, said the dead man had received treatment on the machine Nov. 13, two days after the water was contaminated.

Yost said the autopsy results, expected today, should help show whether the fluoridation acted as a toxin and caused a shock to the body. He said the fluoride contamination has not been listed as a cause of the Yost said fluoride in high levels can cause vomiting and nausea in healthy persons, but he added there is "no literature to back up the claim it can harm dialysis patients.'

The water supply of Maryland's capital city was contaminated after a valve was left open Nov. 11, allowing excess amounts of fluoride to flow into the system during a backwash, Yost said. The incident was not discovered until the next day when the valve was shut off, he said

Dr. J. Howard Beard, health officer for the city and county, said fluoride levels reached up to 23 parts per million compared with "a desired level of 1-1.5 parts per million."

'No clues' seen in couples' death

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Investigators say they have no clues in the double slaying of a Fort Worth couple found shot to death at their northeast side residence by their 14year-old son.

Police estimated Cecil Lancaster, 56, and his wife, Geraldine, 52, had been dead about four to six hours when their bodies were discovered by their son Scotty at about 4 p.m. Tues-

Lancaster, 56, appeared to have been shot in the right temple and in the stomach. His wife, Geraldine, 52, was shot above the left ear, police said.

Mrs. Lancaster also appeared to have been strangled by an electrical cord pulled tightly around her neck. Police said a cord also was wrapped loosely around Lancaster's neck. The couple's auto was missing, but police discounted robbery as a motive because of several hundered dollars in cash left at the scene.

the port side off," said Lt. Scott Laburn. "That's probable, but we don't know for sure because of the darkness. We've sent a helicopter out this morning to look at it." The tanker Burmah Agate has been grounded in 40 feet of water about five miles from this busy port since it collided Nov. 1 with a freighter. Thirty-two men were killed in the crash and explosion.

The Burmah Agate, which carried 390,000 barrels of oil, has been afire and spilling oil since the collision, and sporadic explosions have foiled efforts of firefighters.

But Laburn said the loss of the port side would probably not make the oil spill worse.

"Most of the tanks on that side were already gone. It probably didn't release any more oil," he said.

Laburn said the chopper sent to inspect the tanker would also inspect beaches at Bolivar Peninsula, where oil from the disabled ship was headed

Lt. Don Zelazny said heavy seas washing over the burning tanker Tuesday forced the oil out of the hole in the vessel, and it was being carried north by winds and currents.

He said it was expected to hit the peninsula beaches early today.

"We don't know how much will reach the beach," Zelazny said. "After we take a look at it, we'll mobilize the equipment needed to ciean it up.'

Repair of washed-out road planned

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — While searchers looked for the body of a fifth victim, state officials planned emergency repairs to a gaping section of highway that sent at least three vehicles into a flood-swollen tributary of the Bouquet River.

Four bodies and the wreckage of two cars and a pickup truck were recovered Tuesday after a motorists reported seeing one of the vehicles swept from the undermined roadway.

Troopers said a 10-mile stretch of state highway 9N was closed today. A 200-foot-long section was washed out Monday night after heavy rains bloated the normally tranquil stream

State Department of Transportation officials Tuesday said they hoped to have repairs completed

Seven firefighters injured in blaze at warehouses

BALTIMORE (AP) - Seven firefighters were injured early today, none seriously, in a blaze that caused at least $100,000 damage to two furniture warehouses here, fire officials said.

Deputy Chief Bert Bedford said 260 firefighters and 60 pieces of equipment turned out to fight the fire, which was reported shortly after midnight.

"She was off and running when we got here," the deputy chief said, adding that flames engulfed a one-story building and spread into a larger blocklong two-story warehouse next to it.

"The buildings were gutted," Bedford said. "All the contents are gone. We have no idea of the

The injured firefighters were taken to Mercy and Johns Hopkins hospitals. Bedford said the most serious injury was a possible broken jaw.

Bedford said noxious fumes were released from burning polyurethane padding in the furniture. He said early reports that toxic chemicals were stored in the warehouses were not substantiated.

The warehouses were located in an industrial area abutting the waterfront in Fells Point.

One of the recovered bodies was that of Dr. Thomas F. Tanneberger, 30, a Westport veterinarian and a member of the U.S. bobsled team who had hoped to compete in the 1980 Winter Olympics at nearby Lake Placid. Also killed were Kevin Doyle, 15, and Wayne Fenimore, 28, both of Elizabethtown, and Steven Daniels, 18, of Westport.

Trooper T.J. McDougall identified the missing man as Ludwig Huttig of Elizabethtown, an auto dealer who was Daniels' employer.

"It was like a nightmare," said Timothy Marvin, one of two survivors. "Torrents of water...just unbe-

Marvin and Peter Frisbee, both 32 and of Elizabethtown, were injured in the accident. Marvin said he, Frisbee and Tanneberger were on their way to Lake Placid, 20 miles away, when they hit the

"I was driving and the next thing I know we were nosediving into this crater," Marvin said from a hospital where he was treated for shock, exposure and bruises. "Then we hit. That's the only part I'm foggy about.

He said he could feel his vehicle being pulled downstream and managed to get out through a window. "The minute I got out, the water tore me downstream. It tore my jacket off. It seems like I went for miles, but I know I didn't.

Marvin said he grabbed a tree and held on as other trees were swept downstream. More than an hour later, rescuers pulled him to shore.

Tanneberger had planned to try out for the U.S. Olympic bobsled team. Marvin, an alternate at the 1978 world championships at Lake Placid, and Frisbee, a member of the 1976 U.S. Olympic team at Innsbruck and a Lake Placid alternate in 1978, were all candidates for the team.

Troopers said Doyle and Daniels were passengers in a car driven by Huttig. They said Fenimore was in a third car that crashed into the gaping hole left when the road gave way.

"We have a preliminary estimate of $100,000 to make repairs," said Keith Tarr-Whelan, a spokesman for the state Department of Transportation, noting that the freshet also destroyed a bridge approach and a retaining wall.

Even before the flood, some officials had expressed concern about moving large numbers of cars through the mountains to the Olympic Games in February. The washout of N.Y. 9N and damage to other roads in the area made of repairs a matter of immediate concern.

Future dimmed by uncertainties

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Those who foresee in the 1980s a rediscovery of old economic values, such as the importance of profits and the necessity of the work ethic, aren't getting much encouragement from events.

There are many such optimists in business and investment life, and some are risking reputations that took years to develop. They reason that the chaos and uncertainty of the 1970s just cannot con-

Having tried other methods, Americans will return to what works. They will save, thus providing capital for expansion; they will reduce their demands on the marketplace, and prices will tend to stabilize.

Or so it is hoped. Business hates uncertainty, because it adds to existing risks, and so the hope is that with stability the entire economic community will be able to lay out plans and work toward them.

This will not result in a boom, they say; in fact, some look forward to a rather sluggish rate of growth as just the antidote to all the ups and downs of the 1970s. Boom leads to bust; it cannot be tolerat-

Instead, these seers say, America will be satisfied with straightening itself out. We will put our finances in order. The federal government will cease to grow; the budget finally will be balanced.

That theme, or something akin, is found in a segment of long-range forecasts now circulated by, among others, an economic consulting firm, several insurers and one of the biggest investment ad-

Wishes, however, do not command events, and the hoped-for pattern isn't emerging from the loom. As the new decade nears, all the threads are grey and the pattern is one of question and exclamation

FAA charges Braniff with safety violations

DALLAS (AP) - Braniff International Airways has 21 days to answer charges lodged against it by the Federal Aviation Administration for alleged violations of maintenance safety regulations, an FAA spokesman says.

Braniff was charged Nov. 6 with operating aircraft that "did not receive required inspection" and with failing to keep adequate records of repairs per-Braniff has until Dec. 17 to respond to the allegations, FAA spokesman George Burlage said Monday after an extension was granted the airline. He said it was "routine" to grant extensions in cases where serious allegations have been made.

"Braniff is in the midst of preparing a very detailed reply, which will hopefully answer any questions the FAA might have," Braniff spokesman Jere Cox said. The FAA, following a 14-month investigation, recommended the airline be fined $1.5 million, the

500-winner Al Unser leaves Hall, joins Hillin

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

Even though Al Unser claims his home as Albuquerque, N. M., he has been an adopted Midlander of sorts. After all, he drove Jim Hall's Chaparral-Lola to the Indianapolis 500 title in 1978 to give Midland some national

Well, Unser is still a Midlander of sorts after some shocking news in the racing world this week. Unser has left the Jim Hall team, but has signed a new working agreement with Midland's Bobby Hillin, principal owner of the Longhorn Racing Team.

No word was given by Hall or Hillin of the reason why Unser made the move, but Hall is now in the process of replacing Unser with another driver. Unser will replace Tom Bagley as the principal driver of the Longhorn

"When we found out that Al was available, we made him an offer and he accepted it," Hillin stated Tuesday. "We are really excited about Al driving for us. I think this makes us a very competitive unit now, but then again, I guess the pressure will be on us to win, and that's exactly what we

Unser, a three-time winner of the Indy 500, will lead

Longhorn Racing's assualt during the 1980 Indy-car racing season. Unser will debut the radically new Longhorn LR-01 "ground effects" car in the PPG Automotive Indy Car World Series competition, beginning with the nationally televised season opener at Phoenix, March 2.

The LR-01 is being designed by Ed Zink of Knoxville, Tenn. It will incorporate design technology acquired from Williams Grand Prix Engineering, located at Didcot, Oxfordshire, in England.

Unser, a competitor in Indy-type cars since 1964, has a total of 36 victories in that category, second only to A. J. Foyt. His Indy victories came in 1970, 1971 and 1978. The 1978 victory was Hall's first trip to Indy. In 1979, Unser led the Indy 500 most of the race until mechnical problems forced the new "ground effects" machine of Hall out of the

The Unser and Hall combination was unbeatable in 500-mile races during the 1978 USAC campaign. The team was the first to win the Triple Crown of racing that year with victories at the Indy 500, Pocono 500 and California 500. Unser's Indy-car winnings exceed $2.5 million during his career.

"We are enormously pleased to sign Al," Hillin said. "His credentials as a racing driver are impeccable and so are his interests as a businessman.'

Hillin has been an Indy-car owner since 1976 and has participated in two Indy 500 runs. He had two cars in the 1977 race, but both finished out of the top 20. Last year, with Bagley aboard Hillin's Longhorn entry, the team managed a ninth place finish in the Indy 500. That was really the first serious endeavor to win the Indy race.

"I'm really excited about the Longhorn car," Unser stated. "I believe it can give us a competitive edge. And Longhorn is a professional team, on and off the track.'

Hillin started his racing endeavors several years back in the sprint car and championship dirt competition. But he has always had his eyes on being a competitive force in the Indy-car circuit. He feels he is ready to live up to that goal now. One thing is for sure - his team has shown steady improvement at each step they have taken, and with the new car and nationally prominent driver on hand, they could be close to something big.

'We literally searched the world for the best combination of driving, car design and team management. I believe the team we assembled is unequivocally able to meet our goals for 1980 - to win," Hillin said.

Zink has been a designer and builder of racing cars for almost 30 years. Most of those cars have been openwheel road racing designs and they have recorded 11 various road racing championships.

Zink's new Longhorn car design will incorporate the 'ground effects" design technology pioneered by Patrick Head for the Williams Grand Prix Engineering's FW-07 Formula One car, which was driven by Australian Alan Jones and Swiss born Clay Regazzoni, who won five of the last seven events in the 1979 Grand Prix Formula One

The Williams FW-07 features an extensive wind-tunnel tested areodynamic design, which employs air drawn under the moving car to generate downforce on the tires for more adhesion and greater cornering speeds. The first of the new Longhorn LR-01 cars will be ready for pre-season testing in

The testing will be under the direction of George Huening, the team's chief mechanic for the past year. Huening will coordinate the fabrication of the team cars in Indianapolis by Jackie Howerton. Huening will also supervise their participation and development throughout the 1980 sea-

Hall is planning another Indy-car assault of his own, but he is now looking for a driver to replace Unser, according to wife Sandy Hall.

"Al has left us, but we are looking for another driver at this time," she said Tuesday. That was the only com-

Midlanders sweep Chaps whip SPC, Pack rips Levelland

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

The best way to get at the heart of Tuesday night's unique tripleheader basketball bill at the Chaparral Center is to say that the Midlanders busted the Levellanders on all fronts, and in the process, the scoreboard got a rugged workout.

Midland College, those court blurs which went past in green streaks, opened the Western Junior Athletic Conference race with a never look back 118-84 victory over South Plains College to run their season record to 7-0 on the year. That was one Levelland team down the drain, and Midland High buried another with a 95-74 victory over the AAA Levelland counterpart in a ho-hum affair. And the MHS junior varsity got in on the act with a sound 77-64 win over the Levelland JVs.

THE CHAPARRALS, now 1-0 in conference action, never let their game with the Texans have any makings of a contest as they ran, gunned, and passed their way past some misty eyed Texans. It was enough of a beating to file charges.

Five Chaps hit in double figures, two more came close with eight points and everyone on the team had a hand in running SPC silly.

Robert Tate, this year's leading scorer for the Chaps, again led the way with 29 points, but one wonders how many he would have scored if he had played more than the equivalent of a half. It didn't seem like he scored that often, but he ran points in like he was shooting a machine gun when he did score in spurts.

AND HE had a lot of help. Chucky McGill, who is not the same player of a year ago - he's much better chunked in 19 points; Charles Johnson, the former Midland High star who still wears the name of Dr. Death honestly, flipped in 16 markers; Kenneth "Big Time" Young, who still dunks with a flurry but this year from about four more steps out, hit for 15; and giant Kevin Willingham, who wears muscles for bones, canned 14 more. Tim Shelby hit for eight, but it seemed like more. And Paul Donalson, who played little, came off the bench for eight points in the final few minutes. Guard Jeff Ray scored only two points, but he had enough assists to earn high point honors.

The Texans got 23 points from an impressive postman Jackie Vaughn, who played at Class A Silverton, but SPC couldn't keep up with the Chaps when they went over six minutes with only one basket from the field in the first half. The Chaps' defense shut off

THE 5-1 Bulldogs tormented their foe much the same way. Impressive postman Anthony Carroll scored Midland's first 12 points in the first period and ended the game with 20. Herbert class of West Texas, finished up with 16 second half points for 23 on the night, Darrin Matlock looked good with a 10-point effort while Horace Brown got 11, including a class dunk.

Eleven Bulldogs got in on the scoring act and had the Loboes so befuddled that Levelland once helped Midland High score two points. Ron Anderson, so suprised after a rebound, put it in the Midland hoop. Ah, when things are clicking.

The contest was marred by 59 fouls, especially in the first half. Levelland scored 26 points on free throws, but missed 22 more. However, Jerry Birdsong had a good outing against the Bulldogs with 27 points, nine coming at the charity line.

Mike Velasco led the MHS Bullpups with 18 points and Don Sharnowsky added 16 as the MHS JV ran to a 3-0 season record.

Oh yes, Levelland won all the half time outings, but you would have had to been there to understand that one. South Plains (84)

Cawley advances

MELBOURNE (AP) - Top-seeded Evonne Goolagong Cawley of Australia, gathering strength after a bout of influenza, advanced to the second round of a $100,000 dollars women's tennis classic here Wednesday.

Cawley, 28, survived a three-set battle with American Sharon Walsh before emerging the victor, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2 in her first match in her native country in more than two years.

Cawley said later she had caught the flu from her 21/2-year-old daughter and that was why she had been unable to play on Tuesday.

Arkansas' Scanlon helps Holtz fool experts in SWC

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

When Lou Holtz came to Arkansas from North Carolina State, he brought along a young quarterback from Beaver Falls, Pa., who had only played one game for him.

But the Arkansas coach and Kevin Scanlon made magic during the 1979 Southwest Conference football sea-

Arkansas surprised the experts by earning at least a tie for the championship. One of the big reasons: Senior quarterback Scanlon.

They were the headline performers on Wednesday's Associated Press 1979 All-SWC football team as selected by the nine head coaches.

Every ballot listed Scanlon at quarterback and he was selected as the Offensive Player of the Year over Texas Tech's 1,000-yard runner James Hadnot six votes to three. Holtz was named SWC Coach of the Year by his peers. Mike Singletary, Baylor's magnificent junior linebacker, was the Defensive Player of the Year.

Arkansas' Gary Anderson and Texas A&M's Johnny Hector, two swift freshmen running backs, shared the Newcomer of the Year award, offensively.

Defensively, it was Texas Christian frosh linebacker Darrell Patterson as Newcomer of the Year.

Holtz said of Scanlon: "Basically he didn't play for me at North Carolina State except for one game. The key was getting him to do things we wanted him todo, not the things he wanted to do and I don't mean that derogatogreat touch and awareness. Don Breaux, the Razorback quarterback coach, said "A quarterback has to be able to take what the defense gives him and not feel that he has to throw 10 to 15 yards downfield to have a successful passing game.

"He is one of the better ones I've been fortunate enough to work with in that respect. One of the greatest comforts to a coach is to be able to predict how a quarterback is going to perform in a certain situation. If you can't, you have severe problems. We have a pretty good feeling how he is going to perform.

Padres get Cash, offer Texas Perry for Oliver

The San Diego Padres' reconstruction project isn't over yet. After the acquisition of Dave Cash from Montreal, the Padres are reportedly dickering for the Texas Rangers' Al Oliver, a career.300 hitter, offering Gaylor Perry and another player. To get Cash, the Padres gave up outfielder Dan Briggs and former No. 1 draft pick Bill Almon. Rookies Sam Perlozzo and Tim Flannery are expected to challenge Cash at

A SWC official apologized to TCU Coach F.A. Dry for an incorrect call made by a referee Saturday in TCU's football loss to Texas A&M. With TCU trailing 2-0, and the ball on the Aggies' 18-yard line, third-and-12, TCU quarterback Kevin Haney was sacked. A&M was called for defensive holding, a 15-yard penalty or half the distance to the goal. But when referee Dixon Holman marked off the yardage, he did so from the point Haney was tackled - not from the line of scrimmage, as he should have.

So instead of third and 3 at the A&M 9, it was third and 15. TCU failed to make the first down, attempted a field goal which was blocked, and A&M went on to win, 30-7...

Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, who spent the weekend reevaluating "America's Team" including its coach, said Tuesday the Cowboys received an A-plus for attitude. But in other areas including the play-calling, Landry said, "The grades were not very good. Hindsight is of no value except to learn. I tend to get better (at play calling) as we lose more games. We had the best attitude we've had this year (in the 30-24 Thanksgiving Day loss to Houston)." That puts David Stalls, Dallas' 12th man on the field during a punt that gave Houston a second chance for the game-winning touchdown, on the

Giants' turnaround brings end to laughter

By GARY MYERS -EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - The apparent turnaround by the New York Giants has served to erase the almost comical front office feud of a year ago except in the mind of one man, Wellington "It's a time I won't ever forget, but one I don't want to discuss," Mara said. "I felt I knew what had to be done and how to attain it.'

What had to be done was select a new general manager to replace Andy Robustelli. The problem was that Wellington and his nephew Tim Mara both own 50 percent of the Giants and couldn't agree on a new man.

The public shootout between the two men has probably caused irreparable damage to their family relationship.

business relationship - I'm completely satisfied.

The Maras eventually plucked George Young from the Miami Dolphins organization as general manager. Young then chose Ray Perkins, the highly regarded offensive coordinator of the San Diego Chargers, as

But not before fans burned tickets, hung Mara in effigy and caused great embarrassment to a proud organization.

"In my opinion, the public criticism had no effect whatsoever in the changes that had to be made, other than putting some pressure on," Mara said. "You don't need someone else to tell you how bad your business is going.

The business began to go sour Nov. 19, 1978 when the Giants lost a game, the "Fumble Game," against the Philadel-

Then came the firing of Coach John McVay, Robustelli's resignation and the battle with nephew Tim. They just couldn't agree on Robustelli's replacement. It all came to a head Feb. 8 when a news conference was called. First Wellington Mara spoke, left the room and Tim made the unkindest cuts of all. "I want to have a winner. Well wants to do it his way. Well's way has had us in the cellar for 15 years," Tim Mara said then. "If he conducts business as usual, that's what I'm afraid of.'

Tim was speaking for the fans and became a hero of sorts. Wellington remained the villain. It's something that still

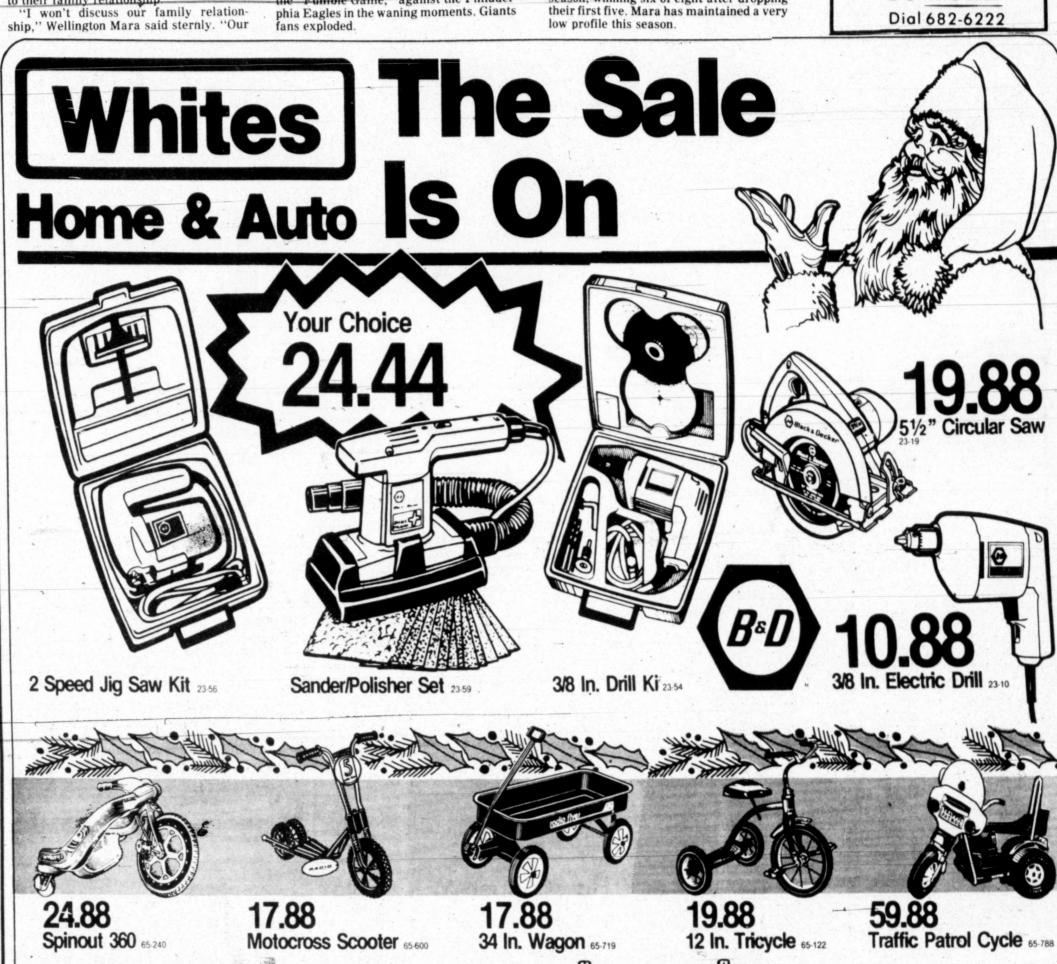

The Giants are one of the most improved teams in the National Football League this season, winning six of eight after dropping

"I feel as though my role is the same as the five years Andy was here," he said. "It's not what some people thought but it's what I thought. I miss the close association with the players and coaches I always had. But we're improving and I think we'll continue to improve.' That's consolation enough for Mara after the public embarrassment he went

"It always bothers you when someone says something unkind about you, Mara said. "I don't like it but it shouldn't change your judgment on things."

House Texans want no federal ceilings on hospital costs

WASHINGTON - Here's how Texas members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days before the Thanksgiving recess.

HOUSE CONTROLLING HOSPITAL COSTS — By a vote of 234 for and 166 against, the House killed proposed federal ceilings on hospital costs. This vote substituted a voluntary price-watching mechanism for mandatory federal price controls. It created a 15member presidential commission to oversee and reinforce hospitals' voluntary efforts to slow the rise in their bills. The bill (HR 2626) was sent to the Senate.

The mandatory controls scuttled by this vote would have been triggered when hospital costs nationwide rose by a certain percentage. In 1980, for example, a hike of more than 11.6 percent would have activated the ceilings. Hospitals in violation were to have been heavily fined. The Carter administration favored the plan, and the American Hospital Association and American Medical Association Members voting "nay" favored federal ceilings on hospital costs.

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Henry

Gonzalez, D-20, voted "nay."

Reps. Ray Roberts, D-4, James Wright, D-12, and Kika de la

SOLAR PROJECT - The House passed, 201 for and 146 against, a bill to spend $25 million this year on research that would be one small step toward developing solar energy satellites. The research would be in addition to a $16 million study due to be completed in 1980. Such satellites would gather energy from the sun and convert it to a major supply of electricity on earth. The bill (HR 2335) was sent to the Senate.

Advocates say solar satellite development is a high-risk, high-promise venture that the nation must seriously consider if it is to achieve energy independence. Foes like the concept but caution against rushing headlong into the most expensive military or civilian project ever undertaken by the government - a $70 billion research and development venture, according to the Office of Management and Bud-

SENATE

WINDFALL PROFITS - The Senate rejected, 32 for and 58 against, an amendment to cut from 75 to 60 percent the tax rate on "windfall profits" from so-called old oil. Such profits accrue to oil companies as a result of ongoing removal of federal controls from the price of domestic crude oil.

Old oil, that discovered before May 1973, accounts for about one-third of domestic production. It was selling at $6 per barrel before gradual decontrol was begun this year. Now it is rising toward the world market price, which is $23 and rising. The amendment, offered to an oil-taxation bill (HR 3519) still under debate, was favored by the oil industry and opposed by the administration.

Senators voting "nay" facvored the higher windfall profits tax.

Sens. John Tower, R, and Lloyd Bentsen, D, voted

Bentsen voted "yea. Tower voted "nav."

Inflation also nips at Christmas trees

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

The countdown to Christmas has begun and shoppers can add another item to the list of things that will cost more this year - Christmas trees.

The National Christmas Tree Association says prices for live trees will be about 5 percent to 7 percent higher than they were last year. Association spokesman Donald L. McNeil blames the increase, which the growers describe as "nominal," on transportation and handling costs.

McNeil says prices for good-to-top-quality trees should range from $2.50 to $3.50 a foot. He also said. however, that there will be more trees available at the top end of the price scale than at the bottom

In contrast to last year, when there were spot shortages of trees, the 1979 supply is expected to be adequate to meet the demand. The growers association predicts about 30 million live trees will be sold during the upcoming holiday season. Calvin Frelk, a Merrillan, Wis., grower who is president of the trade association, said that Americans spend an estimated $450 million a year on natural trees.

Artificial and real trees are now about equal in popularity. Artificial trees - McNeil, admitting to bias, prefers to call them "fake" - made a splash in the late 1960s and early 1970s, but the real variety has regained some of its popularity in the past five years.

Studies conducted for manufacturers of artificial trees indicate sales are expected to reach $115 million a year by 1980. The studies also show people are choosing more expensive varieties of artificial trees, with some of them costing $60 or more. Over half the buyers cite convenience as the reason for preferring artificial trees.

The most popular type of real tree is the Scotch pine, which accounts for 37 percent of the market, according to the growers association. It has needles which occur in clusters of two and are usually twisted, 11/2 to 3 inches long and blue or grayishgreen in color.

The Douglas fir - picked by 35 percent of buyers is the second favorite. You can recognize this species by its horizontal branches, flat, short needles and blue-green or dark yellow-green color.

You have to shop carefully to get the most for your money. In some areas, you can save by going out to the country and cutting your own tree. In the cities, however, you generally have to rely on someone else's efforts.

Lobbying blitz wins independents Senate victory

By ROBERT PARRY

WASHINGTON (AP) - Independent oil producers won a $10 billion exemption from the "windfall-profits" tax by luring some of the Senate's leading liberals into the same fold with traditional oil industry supporters.

On a 53-41 vote Tuesday, the Senate defied President Carter and decided to free from the tax the first 1,000 barrels of oil pumped daily by the nation's 12,000 independent operators. The exemption would reduce the tax's revenue by $10 billion by

The vote followed an intensive lobbying campaign that saw about 100 independent oil men coming to Washington to buttonhole at least 75 of the Senate's 100 members, a representative of the group said.

C. John Miller, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said the lobbying blitz helped win over some liberal and moderate Democrats who might otherwise have been expected to vote against the exemption.

'The facts are starting to come through to some members of Congress who had favored a massive tax," said Miller, an independent oil producer from Michigan.

The operators argued that by leaving more money in the hands of independent producers, the United States could increase its oil production by 300,000 barrels a day by 1987.

The producers also tried to meet with senators from their home states in an effort to defuse the image of operators as

Sen. David Pryor of Arkansas was one moderate successfully wooed by independents from his state. "They're not the (oil industry) guys we see on TV," he said. "They're the guys out there actually trying to find more oil."

Other moderate and liberal Democrats who voted for the exemption were Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas Birch Bayh of Indiana, Donald Riegle of Michigan, Gary Hart of Colorado, Frank Church of Idaho and Walter Huddleston of Kentucky

Asked the reason for the senators' votes, most of their spokesmen cited the expectation of increased oil production and the need to help smaller producers in an industry dominated by giant corporations.

Robin Carpenter, McGovern's spokeswoman, said the senator's vote was influenced by a recent congressional study showing that a lesser "windfall" tax would lead to higher produc-

Hart's spokeswoman, Kathy Bushkin, said her boss favored the exemption because it would help the small producers and thus boost competition within the oil industry.

Senators who opposed the amendment saw the issue differently.

"This amendment is a giveaway," fumed Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "It is our way of saying that the oil lobby is the strongest force in this nation — stronger than the Congress, stronger than the presi-

In an interview, Miller vowed that the independents would continue their fight to weaken the "windfall" tax when it goes to a House-Senate conference committee to reconcile the Senate's bill with the tougher House

"We're going to push it every hour of every day," said Mill-

Miller noted that the independents, who drill 90 percent of U.S. exploratory wells, reinvest 105 percent of their gross income in oil development. He said that pattern would continue if the exemption won final congressional approval.

The president proposed the "windfall" tax to reclaim part of the additional revenue that will go to oil companies as a result of his decision to decontrol the price of domestic crude

Soviet Parliament approves reduced economic targets

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Parliament met today to approve reduced economic targets for next to be routinely approved by the 1,500 members of the year after President Leonid Brezhnev reported that Parliament, or Supreme Soviet, calls for industrial this year's grain harvest — the worst since 1975 — is 48 million tons short of the goal and oil output is off 10 million tons.

Because of the low harvest, Western specialists expect the Soviet government may buy all 25 million tons of corn and wheat the U.S. Department of Agriculture will allow to be sold to the Soviet Union in the 1979-80 fiscal year.

U.S.S.R. to lower military spending

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union announced today that its military spending in 1980 would total 17.1 billion rubles, 100 million rubles less than this year's defense budget.

Soviet Finance Minister Vasily F. Garbuzov told a Soviet parliamentary session that the decrease about six-tenths of one percent — was "proof of the good will of the Soviet Union to significantly reduce international tension and embark upon true detente.

At the current official exchange rate, the 17.1 billion ruble military budget for next year would equal $26.2 billion. It amounts to 6 percent of the total 1980 Soviet budget of 284.6 billion rubles, or $435.4 billion. Western specialists say that published Soviet figures on defense spending are deceptively low because many military costs are hidden in otherbudget appropriations. In addition, it is not known how much individual pieces of military equipment actually cost the Kremlin in ruble terms.

According to the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, in 1977 actual Soviet military outlays were estimated at about $140 billion, calculated on the basis of what the Soviet Union's equipment and personnel would cost in the United Donald Burton, chief of the CIA's military economic division, said this month that over the past nine years the Soviet Union has outspent the United States by $300 billion in overall defense activities.

The U.S. defense budget for fiscal year 1980, which began on Oct. 1, calls for outlays of $122.7 billion. This is a 9.6 percent increase over 1979, including rises for inflation.

In 1981, Pentagon spending is expected to rise to about $140-145 billion.

Chinese crack down on Democracy Wall

PEKING (AP) - Chinese parliamentarians have cracked down on the so-called Democracy Wall, demanding "resolute measures" to deal with Peking's bulletin board of free expression.

Criticism of the 200-yard-long stone and plaster wall, often used by Chinese dissidents to air their views, came during a meeting Tuesday of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress, China's Parliament. The meeting was chaired by Communist Party

Vice Chairman Xu Deheng, considered to be the nation's leading legal expert. The criticism received front page play in Peking's major newspapers, indicating the attacks had the approval of government leaders The severity of the criticism suggested that the days of the Democracy Wall as a forum for the may be numbered.

The scaled-down economic plan, which is expected output to rise by 4.5 percent in 1980 over this year's

The growth target for this year had been 5.7 percent over 1978. But Soviet economists have estimated the growth actually achieved at about 4.2 Percent

Nikolai Baibakov, chief of the state economic planning organization, presented to parliament members a series of production targets for 1980, many of them lower than those envisaged in late 1975 when the Soviet Union announced its 1976-80 econom-

BAIBAKOV said oil production is targeted at 606 million tons for next year, against an original goal of 620-640 million tons for 1980. Steel production is planned for 150 million tons, compared to 160-170 million tons originally planned.

Baibakov said production in 1979 fell short of targets in steel, coal, oil, mineral fertilizers, synthetic chemicals, paper,non-ferrous metals and some consumer goods and food products.

Brezhnev confirmed earlier predictions of a poor harvest in a speech Tuesday to a closed session of the Communist Party's 250-member central commit-

The 72-year-old president blamed "bottlenecks and shortcomings" for the economic troubles. But Western analysts blamed the grain shortfall on a record cold winter in 1978-79, particularly in Western Siberia, Kazakhstan and northeast of the Ural Mountains; wet weather during the harvest and shortages of storage and drying facilities.

TASS, THE OFFICIAL Soviet news agency, said Brezhnev told the committee 1979 was "perhaps the most difficult year" of the 1976-80 five-year planning

"The assignments for 1980 are lower in a number. of aspects than those for the five-year plan," said

He stressed some good news, including construction of more than 1 billion square feet of new housing in the past four years and an increase of more than 13 per cent in per capita income in the same period. But bad news predominated.

Brezhnev said the 1979 grain harvest totaled 178 million metric tons, 48 million below the target of 226 million. Oil output reached 585 million tons; the goal was 595 million. Last year's harvest was a record 237.2 million tons, while oil output was 572 million

ELECTRIC POWER production was 1.245 billion kilowatt hours, 20 million kilowatt hours short of the target. Production of natural gas did better; at 400 billion cubic meters, it was 4 billion cubic meters short.

Brezhnev called for more "initiative at the grassroots level." But he continued to maintain the basic principle that "a socialist economy is inconceivable without strengthening the principle of centralism."

The nation's top economic official, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, has been out of public sight since Oct. 17 and rzportedly is ill. His chief deputy, Nikolai A. Tikhonov, a 74-year-old economic planner, was elevated Tuesday to full membership in the Communist Party's ruling Politburo, presumably to help improve economic management.

Western analysts speculated that the move put Tikhonov in line for the premiership. But a s Soviet official discouraged speculation that the change would be made during the current Supreme Soviet meeting. Tikhonov's promotion brought the Politburo back up to 14 members. The party central committee named Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the 48-year-old party democratic-minded, the rebellious and the eccentric secretary for agriculture, to replace Tikhonov as one of nine candidate Politburo members.
