

Senators launch assault on oil depletion allowance

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Buoyed by back-to-back votes adding as much as $27.5 billion to the "windfall-profits" tax, several senators are launching a new assault on a tax break long cherished by the oil industry — the oil depletion allowance.

Actions taken by the Senate Tuesday would increase the windfall tax to about $157 billion over the 1980s, still considerably below the $277 billion passed by the House and favored by President Carter.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., was asking the Senate today to add $14.6 billion to the bill by denying the industry the oil depletion allowance on any price increases that are subject to the new windfall tax.

The depletion allowance is available on many minerals but is especially lucrative for the oil industry. It allows an oil producer not affiliated with a major oil company to deduct 22 cents from his federal income taxes for each $1 earned from the oil business.

"This $14.6 billion subsidy would come at a time when it is needed least, at the expense of taxpayers, and with no assurance of increased oil production," Leahy said.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., portrayed the Leahy amendment as another effort to punish the oil industry for recent high profits. The government "cannot continue to punish the industry and the producing states and still expect increased oil production," Dole said.

In a blow to the oil industry Tuesday, the Senate: —Agreed to an amendment that would increase the windfall tax by $22.5 billion by increasing from 60 percent to 75 percent the tax rate on "new" oil.

generally that from fields where production started between 1973 and 1979. —Accepted a proposal to phase out the tax in the late 1990s, rather than in the late 1980s as the Finance Committee had recommended. Changing the phase-out formula would add an estimated $3 billion to $5 billion to the tax in the 1980s. And, depending on the path of oil prices in the future, it could cost the oil industry an additional $60 billion or more in the 1990s.

The vote increasing the tax rate on new oil was 58-35 and came on an amendment by Sens. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., and John Chafee, R-R.I. The change was supported by the Carter administration.

New oil, most owned by the giant oil companies, accounts for about 60 percent of current U.S. production of crude oil. Under the amendment, the tax would take away 75 percent of price increases above the current price of about $13 per barrel.

The vote changing the phase-out schedule for the tax was 68-26 and came on an amendment by Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y.

Carter decided earlier this year to phase out price controls on domestic crude oil in an effort to increase production and reduce reliance on imported oil. That decision will cost consumers an estimated $1 trillion through 1990. Carter recommended the windfall tax to take a portion of that money from the oil industry.

In turn, the government would spend the tax revenue on developing non-oil fuels, improving the nation's transportation system and helping poor Americans pay rising energy costs.

U.N. move rejected

But conciliatory tone noted

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The students holding 50 Americans hostage in the U.S. Embassy today rejected a Security Council appeal for their immediate release, but Tehran state radio took a more conciliatory tone, saying the U.N. action "left the way open for negotiations."

It was one more sign of conflict between the hard line adopted by the embassy militants and the approach of Iranian officials toward the month-old crisis.

On Tuesday, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime made new and stronger threats against the captives. Meanwhile, the U.S. Navy carrier force south of the Persian Gulf doubled in size.

The Security Council resolution was adopted Tuesday on the fourth consecutive day of a debate in which every speaker called for the release of the hostages. Iran boycotted the meeting, claiming it was rigged in favor of the United States.

The resolution contained no condemnation of the Iranians. Besides the appeal on behalf of the hostages, it called on Iran and the United States to "resolve peacefully the remaining issues between them" and urged them to "exercise the utmost restraint" and refrain from "the threat or use of force."

A spokesman for the embassy militants said of the appeal for the hostages' release, "Since the Security Council is obstructed by the United States, it is obvious it would say such things because it is the defender of the superpowers and embarked on its deliberations according to the orders it received."

"As it is also obvious that the United States has great influence on this council, which has nothing to do with the oppressed people of the world, its opinion is worthless as far as we are concerned and will not affect us in any way," he told The Associated Press by telephone.

But Tehran Radio, in the first semi-official commentary on the resolution, seemed to stress its positive aspects — from the Iranian viewpoint — ignoring the call for the hostages' release.

"The Iranian government has not been condemned and the United States has been warned, indirectly, against military intervention, and this has left the way open for negotiations," the radio said.

The radio commentary also contrasted with previous statements by Khomeini rejecting any decision by the Security Council in advance as dictated by the United States.

The Iranians seized the embassy and those inside it on Nov. 4, demanding that the United States surrender deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran for trial. The Carter administration refused and on Tuesday joined the 14 other Security Council members in unanimous adoption of the resolution urging the release of the captives.

Pentagon officials said six U.S. warships led by the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk had arrived in the Arabian Sea, joining another such force headed by the carrier Midway. This put more than 135 planes within reach of the entrance to the Persian Gulf and the oil tankers moving to Iran.

Embassy in Libya to close

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided to suspend operations at its embassy in Libya until Col. Moammar Khadafy's government agrees to pay for damage caused by demonstrators, it was learned today.

In the interim, the 10 American diplomats in the country will remain at their post. Technically, relations have not been cut.

But they could be, a U.S. official said, if the Khadafy government does not accept responsibility for the ransacking and burning of the embassy in Tripoli last Sunday by some 2,000 demonstrators supporting the Iranian takeover of the U.S. embassy in Tehran.

Some of the demonstrators carried placards supporting Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the spiritual leader of Iran, where 50 Americans have been held hostage since Nov. 4.

All of the Americans in the Tripoli embassy escaped from the mob unharmed.

The Libyan foreign ministry apologized on Monday for the incident, but the Carter administration rejected the apology as inadequate, in part because the Libyans did not offer to pay for the damage.

U.S. officials implied the Khadafy government had supported the attack, and relations with Libya were said to be under "active review."

Libya is this country's third leading source of oil imports, expecting to sell the United States about $6 billion worth this year. However, administration officials said America's "honor" takes precedence over the nation's oil needs.

Government to meet with relatives of hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is settling in for an indefinite standoff in its efforts to free 50 American hostages held in Tehran, Iran.

Relatives as far away as California will be flown here at government expense for a briefing Friday from Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

"It's a status report," said one U.S. official, who requested anonymity.

"It's not a question of presenting good news or bad news," he said of the session, to which one member from each of the hostages' families has been invited.

Vance also plans to scuttle most of his trip to Europe next week if the deadlock is not broken. He had planned stops in West Berlin, Romania and Yugoslavia besides attending a NATO meeting in Brussels, Belgium.

Meanwhile, there were indications that the deposed Shah of Iran may remain indefinitely in a suite of apartments at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas.

"He'll be convalescing for a while," Chris Godek, a spokeswoman for the Shah, said.

Privately, administration officials admit a lack of progress in efforts to find Mohammad Reza Pahlavi a home in another country. Some have begun to talk of his American stay as "open-ended."

And, with the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in its 32nd day, there was no sign of a break in the American negotiations with Iran through unspecified third parties.

Some officials had anticipated headway once the Shiite holy season ended and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's new Islamic constitution won landslide ratification.

Both events passed without any noticeable progress.

In the past, the State Department has held briefings for hostage relatives living in the Washington, D.C., area. The department's Iran "task force" also calls a member of each family daily.

But Friday's session will be the first effort to bring together relatives of all 50 hostages.

Invited, also, are relatives of W.

Bruce Laingen, Michael Howland and Victor Tomseth, the three American diplomats confined to the Iranian foreign ministry in Tehran.

Iranian militants, who have said they will kill the hostages if the United States attempts a military rescue, are threatening to execute the captives "if they fail to cooperate," a White House official said Tuesday.

The official, who asked not to be named, refused to say when the threat was made. Nor would he specify the kind of "cooperation" the Iranians demand of the hostages.

He said the hostages "have been threatened with execution if they fail to cooperate with their captors," adding, "You can assume that I don't mean cooperation just...in routine matters."

The statement, the first by a U.S. official that the hostages had been threatened with execution, was said to result from reports that some of the hostages have been questioned by professional interrogators.

Iran crisis at-a-glance

By The Associated Press

Fifty Americans have been held captive at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4, when militant Iranian students took it over to demand the return of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi for trial. Here are today's highlights:

Hostages and Iran

The students at the embassy rejected a Security Council appeal for the hostages' immediate release as Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime made stronger threats against the captives, saying the captives would certainly be tried.

The students said the United States controlled the Security Council session, which Iran had boycotted. The Security Council appeal was unanimous, but the resolution contained no condemnation of Iran.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Navy carrier force south of the Persian Gulf doubled in size.

In Washington

White House officials indicated that the militants were threatening the hostages with execution if they did not "confess to the charges of espionage and pro-shah activity being drawn up against them."

Jimmy Carter's re-election campaign began, but the president said: "My campaign travels must be, for a time, postponed" because of the crisis. Carter passed up a fund-raising gala at a Washington hotel only a few blocks from the White House.

Meanwhile, the administration appeared to be settling in for a long standoff, calling relatives of the hostages to the capital for a briefing on Friday.

The Soviet Union

Claiming the United States is using "crude military and political pressure" against Iran, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda said "Washington has decided to intensify the crisis and turn it into one of the most serious international conflicts of the postwar era." It said in a commentary, "A dangerous and alarming situation is shaping up."

The Shah

Citing the possibility of violent clashes, officials in San Antonio, Texas, banned marches by both anti-shah Iranians and pro-American Ku Klux Klansmen during the exiled ruler's visit.

City Manager Tom Huebner and other city officials said Tuesday they would not permit marches the two groups wanted to hold on Friday.

Meanwhile, the recuperating Shah was under heavy guard when he took advantage of sunny, autumn weather to stroll the golf course at Lackland Air Force Base, sources said.

The public

Rhode Islanders were asked to pray and fast today for the 50 American hostages held in Iran, while flags flew at half staff in Maine, church bells tolled in Massachusetts and a nationwide mail-in protest gathered steam in Maryland.

The Institute of Psychoenergetics in Brookline, Mass., said it planned a worldwide meditation session for "peace and harmony in the Mideast" on Dec. 22. The group tried unsuccessfully to "think" the Skylab space station into a safer orbit on May 21.

Supreme court to decide lawsuit against Midland

AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court today agreed to decide a case involving the city of Midland over whether a city can be held financially responsible for accidents occurring at intersections where brush, trees and weeds block a driver's view of side street traffic.

It set a Feb. 13 hearing in a case filed against Midland by the parents of a youth who received brain and spinal cord injuries in a June 10, 1976, collision.

A Midland jury found that Calvin Keith Jezek, 16 at the time of the accident, was entitled to $975,000 from the city for his injuries. But the trial judge entered judgment for the city.

The El Paso Court of Civil Appeals agreed with the trial judge and said Midland was not liable for clearing away brush and weeds that obscure the view at intersections.

Jezek was injured in a collision with a pickup truck at Turner Road and G Y Lee Road. The truck, approaching from Jezek's left, slammed into Jezek's 1971 Ford Pinto about 60 miles per hour.

Midland City Attorney Joe Nuessle said today that the streets where the accident occurred are dirt roads south of Interstate 20. The county had bladed one road several years ago after a farmer had deeded the land to the city, Nuessle said.

Some time later, the county bladed another dirt road to intersect with the first. The city then annexed the area.

Nuessle said the city contends that until it accepts those streets as being part of the city plan, it isn't responsible for upkeep of the roads.

If the city accepted all roads already graded when it annexes a piece of land, Nuessle said it means farmers can decide the city's street system, which isn't good city planning. This essentially is the city's argument in the case, he added.

The court of civil appeals cited a 1952 Texas Supreme Court decision that while cities must maintain their streets in safe condition, this does not include keeping a clear side-to-side

"The rule is sound," the appeals court said.

It said the street itself was safe and "it is only when you have another car involved that there is any danger."

Attorneys for Jezek said in their appeal to the Supreme Court, "A blind intersection must, after all, be recognized as a far greater hazard to even the most cautious street user than the pothole in the street surface."

They said a safe street means a street that is safe when normal traffic is present.

"Rather than maintain the streets in question, the city chose to simply sit back and watch accidents occur. It would be a safe statement to say that for the price of (Jezek's) medical bills alone, the city of Midland could remedy each view-obstructed intersection within its city limits for many years," the appeal says.

Farmer will continue fight against shunning

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Farmer Robert Bear, acquitted of abducting his wife, says he will continue his crusade against Reformed Mennonites who cast him out of the strict religious sect and made his family sever all ties with him.

"I would say it's a victory of sorts. But I'm still not free, my wife is not free, nor are my children free," Bear said after a Cumberland County jury found him innocent Tuesday of charges of simple assault and false imprisonment.

"I'm losing wars and not winning many battles," he added, his chiseled features showing obvious relief after he wept openly while defending himself in court.

Bear, 50, who was excommunicated seven years ago for criticizing church leaders, insisted he is not giving up hope of winning back his wife, Gale, 41, and six children because giving up is "what causes suicide."

"I consider you very fortunate, Mr. Bear," said Judge Harold Sheely after he read the verdict, which was returned after just over an hour of deliberations. "Had I been hearing this case without a jury, I would have found you guilty of false imprisonment."

Though unsure of his next step, Bear did not rule out abducting his wife again. "I'll need to think about that," he said, adding that he expected to be found guilty.

Bear said he still loves his wife and meant her no harm. "I just pity her more. She and our children are much more victim than I am," he told reporters.

Acting as his own attorney and his only defense witness, Bear admitted snatching his wife at a farmers market in August and intentionally holding her in his truck for about 30 minutes.

But he defended his actions by saying that he wanted to expose the greater evil of shunning — a 400-year-old sanction that bans all members of the ultra-conservative church, including his wife and family, from having any business or social contact with him.

Because of the ban, Bear said the only way he can talk to his wife is in a courtroom. Mrs. Bear was not present in the courtroom Tuesday, but on Monday, the first day of the trial, she testified that she had been sexually assaulted once by her husband and feared him.

Bear's only emotional response to the verdict was shaking hands with Taylor Andrews, a public defender appointed by the court as standby counsel.

But he used a handkerchief and his meaty, farmer's hand to wipe away tears during his testimony and closing arguments.

18-year-old given probated sentence

An 18-year-old Midlander was assessed a two-year probated prison sentence Friday after he pleaded guilty in 23rd District Court to a charge of criminal mischief.

He was also ordered to pay $1,057.91 in restitution.

Randall Lynn Craddock, 2205 Humble Ave., was sentenced by District Judge Vann Culp.

Craddock pleaded guilty to an act of criminal mischief Aug. 26 this year which resulted in damage to two vehicles belonging to W.B. Weaver.

The case was prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Richard Moore.

Craddock was represented by attorney John Hyde.

10th Christmas dance to benefit youth ranches

Midland's 10th annual Cowboy Christmas Dance will be held Dec. 15 from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. in the Midland County Exhibit Building on East Highway 80.

The dance, a benefit event, is sponsored by the Southwestern Livestock Auction of Midland, with proceeds going to West Texas Boys Ranch at Tankersley and the High Sky Girls Ranch at Midland. The public is invited.

Stars of the entertainment world who will be here for the dance include Norman Wade, Tommy Alsop and Tagg Lambert, all of Nashville, Tenn., and Freddy Frank, band leader.

Joe Morris and the Permian Playboys will furnish the dance music.

"No matter what you do, you can't free me. Only death can free me," he sobbed to the jury. "What I tried to remedy was far greater than what I had caused. What I tried to do was reunite the family."

Bear had been married for 14 years before his excommunication in 1972. His wife left with the children in 1973. The church does not condone divorce.

Husband will follow wife if she's excommunicated

By JUDY GIBBS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The husband of Mormon equal rights advocate Sonia Johnson says that if his wife is excommunicated from the church, he'll leave it too.

"Whatever they do to her, they have to do to me — I told the bishop that," said Richard Johnson, a former Baptist who credits his wife with his conversion to Mormonism.

Johnson was interviewed by telephone Tuesday at his Sterling, Va., home.

Mrs. Johnson, the 43-year-old co-founder of Mormons for the Equal Rights Amendment, was tried Saturday night by a Mormon bishop's court at the church's Sterling Park Ward. Bishop Jeff Willis has not announced a verdict.

Mrs. Johnson says she was charged with undermining the authority of church leaders, preaching false doctrine and hindering the church's missionary work.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has declined to comment on the charges or the trial, except to say that Mrs. Johnson's support of the ERA alone would not be grounds for her excommunication. The bishop has denied her support for the amendment was part of the trial.

The Mormon Church opposes the ERA because, church leaders say, it would undermine the family and lead to a unisex society.

Johnson said if he and his wife both leave the Mormon Church, their four children — ages 5 to 16 — will continue to be members. But he said the children are "awfully bitter right now."

Mrs. Johnson was in New York Tuesday taping television interviews. Her husband said four witnesses testified at Saturday night's excommunication trial, which he said lasted just five minutes over the 1 1/2 hour limit set in advance by Bishop Willis. After the trial, Johnson said Willis and his two counselors conferred behind closed doors for 45 minutes before announcing that the verdict would be delivered at a later date.

House fire battled

Midland firemen quickly extinguished a house fire at 1508 S. Marshall St. Tuesday morning.

The fire, at the home of Ramon Cerdantes, caused moderate damage to a bedroom, according to Midland Fire Department reports. Curtains and a mattress in a bedroom of the residence reportedly were burning when fire-fighters arrived.

Firemen used 25 gallons of water to extinguish the blaze about 9:48 a.m.

Fire Marshal Herb Bloomer said the blaze was thought to have been caused by children playing with a cigarette lighter at the residence.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Harry R. Hughes will announce Wednesday that the state plans a civil suit against former Gov. Marvin Mandel if he does not return or fully pay for $50,000 worth of furnishings Mandel allegedly removed from the Governor's Mansion, the Baltimore Sun says.

The Sun, in Wednesday's editions, quoted unidentified sources as saying Mandel improperly removed furniture, china and other valuables from the Governor's Mansion that are worth in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Mobil refinery blaze expected to burn out

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — Officials say they expect the fire at a Mobil Oil Corp. refinery to burn itself out today, more than 30 hours after it began with an explosion that killed three persons.

One refinery worker was killed when one tank first exploded Monday night. A second worker and a passing motorist, who also were engulfed by the flames, died from burns Tuesday at a Torrance hospital.

Torrance Fire Department Capt. Gerald Goins said late Tuesday the fire was limited to one gasoline storage tank that had been burning since the initial explosion.

Another loud explosion jolted the refinery Tuesday afternoon after a crude oil pipe ruptured near the burning gasoline tank. The explosion was felt by officials at city fire department headquarters more than a mile away. Oil spilling from the broken pipe caught fire, but Goins said the flames were quickly extinguished.

"The only fire at the refinery is the one in the unleaded gasoline tank," said Mobil spokesman Ed Fulham. "It (the tank) is practically crumbled to the ground, but the fire is contained within its shell."

The tank's shell had buckled to about 15 feet in height from 25 feet under the intense heat, Goins said. About 150 firefighters still were fighting the blaze late Tuesday.

"If they can put enough foam on to smother it they will," said Mobil spokesman Ed Fulham. "If not, they'll just let it burn itself out."

Investigators can't explain nuke loss

ERWIN, Tenn. (AP) — Federal investigators say they have found no hint that at least 20 pounds of bomb-grade uranium was stolen, but they concede they can't otherwise explain the disappearance from a nuclear fuel processing plant.

James Partlow, chief of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's materials control licensing branch, said Tuesday that NRC and FBI investigators have exhausted just about every possibility in their attempts to find the missing uranium.

"There isn't much left to look into," Partlow said. "Where we go next is not quite decided. That's something the commission will address next week."

The NRC ordered Nuclear Fuel Services Inc. to shut down its Erwin plant Sept. 17 after a two-month inventory for June 18 through Aug. 14 showed a shortage of at least 19.8 pounds of Uranium 235.

Partlow said that, although his office has not received a formal report yet, the FBI has found no hint that the material was stolen or removed from the plant illegally.

Investigations also have found nothing to indicate that the missing uranium is connected with a strike by the plant's employees during all but 10 days of the accounting period, he said.

Government investigators have declined to say exactly how much of the uranium is still missing, citing national security reasons.

However, a portion of the shortage turned up in a re-inventory last month, Partlow said, however, the amount still unaccounted for is above the 19.8-pound limit allowed by the NRC before a shutdown is ordered.

"We have, to the extent possible, looked for any mistake that might be made in bookkeeping or measurements and we haven't been able to find any," he said. "That's not to say they aren't there, but we've come up empty."

NRC records show the plant had an accumulated inventory loss of 246 pounds of highly enriched uranium from 1968 through 1978. Physicists say it would take 39 pounds of the material to make a bomb.

The plant, owned by Getty Oil Co., fabricates fuel for the Navy's nuclear submarines and research programs. It remains closed.

'Who' dedicates Buffalo concert to Cincinnati dead

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The British rock group The Who, shaken by the deaths of 11 fans, received a standing ovation from a sellout crowd here after dedicating their concert to those who died in Cincinnati.

"We lost a lot of family yesterday," singer Roger Daltrey said at the concert Tuesday night. "This show's for them."

With that, The Who went on to give a two-hour performance before 17,300 fans. There were no reports of problems.

Amid tight security, doors to the auditorium were opened an hour earlier than scheduled and admittance to Memorial Auditorium was by ticket for reserved seats.

The Cincinnati concertgoers were killed Monday night when a crowd stormed Riverfront Coliseum in a rush for the best of the unreserved seats at a concert by the group.

While aware of what happened in Cincinnati, ticket holders here had no fears that a similar tragedy would occur.

"This is a reserved seat concert," said John Riva, 17, of Thorold, Ontario. "It's not general admission. If it were general admission, anyone could go through. This way, it doesn't matter if you're the first guy or the last guy. You still get your seat, right?"

As he spoke, plainclothes and uniformed police and security guards shepherded the crowd into the auditorium.

Men with megaphones urged the concertgoers to have their tickets out early to avoid bottlenecks at the doors. Twelve turnstiles were operating at two large entrances.

About 240 security guards — twice the usual number — were on hand, at an extra cost of $8,000, said Edward Tice, vice president of Harvey & Corky, the promoters.

"The Who is paying for the extra security. They volunteered it," he added.

After showing a promotional film of their new movie "Quadrophenia," the group appeared before the packed house.

"You all know what happened yesterday," Daltrey said. "There's nothing we can do. We feel totally shattered. But life goes on."

No incidents marred the performance, in which The Who sang both recent and old hits, including selections from their rock opera, "Tommy."

Candle-carrying concertgoers mourn dead

By BILL VALE

CINCINNATI (AP) — Candle-carrying concertgoers returned to Riverfront Coliseum to mourn the deaths of 11 young persons crushed in a rock concert stampede as city officials sought to explain why the accident occurred and how to prevent future disasters.

Politicians, city administrators, police, lawyers and coliseum officials set up committees Tuesday to study the crowd problem that led to the deaths and 22 injuries Monday night as thousands surged into the building for a concert by The Who.

And Mayor John Kenneth Blackwell promised laws requiring only reserved seats, use of more doors and better crowd control at future events. Two rock concerts scheduled at the coliseum later this month were postponed indefinitely.

Meanwhile, The Who's performance in Buffalo, N.Y., Tuesday night came off with no problems as doors to the auditorium were swung open an hour earlier than scheduled amid tight security.

The group, which did not know of the deaths while performing Monday night, was reportedly shaken by the tragedy. "This show's for them," singer Roger Daltrey said Tuesday night.

But the mayor of Providence, R.I., another stop on The Who's multi-city tour, canceled the British rock group's Dec. 17 performance, and Boston officials were studying the issue.

Officials in Pontiac, Mich., said they expected no problems at a concert by The Who on Friday at the Silverdome, but have decided to depart from normal procedures and not allow anyone without a ticket in the parking lots or elsewhere on the stadium grounds.

Cincinnati Safety Director Richard Castellini said police recognized the potential danger at 6:30 p.m. Monday as thousands of persons without reserved seat tickets lined up waiting to get in.

"Police asked the promoter to open up but he said the group was late and that he couldn't open," Castellini said. The promoters, Electric Factory Concerts Inc. of Philadelphia, said they would have no immediate comment on the specific allegation concerning the doors.

According to City Councilman Jerry Springer, two banks of doors — or 16 in all — were opened between 7:15 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Waiting fans heard the band warming up and stormed the building, thinking the concert had begun, Blackwell said.

were shown, the band began playing about 8:20 p.m. as scheduled, and many in the crowd did not know what had happened.

"So far the blame for last night's incidents have been placed solely on the concertgoers' shoulders," said Mark Parchman, 19, who led a candlelight "demonstration of concern" of more than two dozen young people Tuesday night.

"This allegation is both untrue and absurd," he said. "The real fault lies in the short-sightedness, apathy and complete lack of concern for the well being of the concert patrons."

Lt. Dale Menkhaus, who headed the police detail at the concert, filed a written report saying he had suggested that more doors be opened, but was told the coliseum didn't have enough ticket takers.

"One of the many tragedies of last night is that somebody saw what was happening, had the right remedy, and yet didn't believe he had authority," Springer complained.

"There was not one gate crasher there," said Greg Roth, 19, another marcher. "You just can't get 18,000 people through two doors in 45 minutes."

One 'weak' Soviet tank division ordered to leave East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet tank division stationed in the historic East German town of Wittenberg began returning home today as part of the partial troop withdrawal announced by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

East German television transmitted a live report from the city made famous by association with Protestant reformer Martin Luther, showing Red Army tanks aboard railway flatcars and thousands of East German civilians watching.

A row of Soviet troops in military overcoats and fur hats stood near the flatcars and smiled and waved at the crowd, which pushed forward near the rail line in city 45 miles south of Berlin.

Western reporters and cameramen invited to the ceremony by East Germany's foreign ministry stood nearby.

The East German commentator described the tanks from the 6th Guards Tank Division as "middle-sized, T-series, modern." He said the train carrying them was "a train of hope and good will."

U.S. Officials in Washington said Tuesday the division was one of the weakest and most poorly equipped of the some 20 Soviet divisions stationed in East Germany.

Brezhnev announced Oct. 6 in East Berlin plans to withdraw 20,000 troops and 1,000 tanks from East Germany over the next 12 months as a gesture of good will.

The withdrawal began one week before NATQ was scheduled to decide in Brussels on deploying new U.S.-built, medium range nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

Moscow apparently hoped to contrast its gesture of peace with NATO's "war plans" and increase pressure on Western politicians to foresake the missiles.

Wittenberg was the site Tuesday of a "friendship meeting" between members of the Soviet garrison and East German officers and functionaries.

During the festivities, Gen. Ivgeni Ivanovski, the Soviet commander in East Germany, said the Kremlin was preparing to withdraw its troops as a major step toward military detente in Europe.

He thanked the East German leadership for "your permanent concern for the Soviet soldiers and your help for the Soviet forces" in the country.

Werner Felfe, the senior East German official at the ceremony, paid tribute to Soviet support and warned of NATO's "dangerous plans" to station medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

He said such a move would upset the military balance in Europe.

Oil worker, wife found shot, dead

HOUSTON (AP) — The bodies of an offshore oil worker and his wife were found Tuesday in their apartment in Nassau Bay.

Police said Francisco Doimeadios, 37, had been shot once in the head and his wife, Virginia Ann, 26, in the chest.

An apartment manager and a relative said they found the bodies when they entered the apartment because the couple had not been heard from since Nov. 28.

Shakaa not deported, returns home triumphant

NABLUS, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Israel canceled a deportation order against the militant Palestinian mayor of Nablus today and allowed him to return home in triumph.

The decision marked a turnaround for Israel, which was strongly criticized by the United States and the United Nations for moving to expel the 48-year-old mayor, Bassam Shakaa.

Shakaa, who had been jailed since Nov. 11, was greeted by thousands of celebrating Nablus residents and pelted with rose petals when he returned home.

"In fire and blood we redeemed you, Bassam," the crowds shouted. Shakaa then went to his home.

"I am very, very happy," Shakaa told friends and relatives who rushed to his house to hug and kiss him. He said he was back at work as mayor "today, from now."

Israel's military governor, Brig. Gen. Binyamin Ben-Eliezer, in announcing the surprise decision, said Shakaa was freed on condition that "his functions will be limited to municipal matters."

"I sincerely hope that this decision of mine will contribute to a deepening of the understanding between us in the spirit of the process of peace in which we are now involved," the general said.

Ben-Eliezer said he had just talked with Shakaa. "I made it clear that he must limit his functions as mayor to municipal matters charged to him under the law, and that he must act within the framework of the law," he said.

The general said the mayor had declared he was against "acts of murder of innocent people" and that he opposed acts of violence. It was Shakaa's alleged support for the Palestinian terrorists who killed 34 Israelis in an attack on a bus near Tel Aviv in March 1978 that sparked the public controversy and his proposed deportation.

The 29 mayors of towns and cities on the West Bank and in the Gaza Strip resigned to protest the Shakaa case, which also spurred a series of Arab demonstrations against the Israeli occupation. The mayors had said they would withdraw their resignations if Shakaa was freed and allowed to return to office.

The Shakaa case stemmed from a routine meeting between the mayor and an Israeli general. Israeli newspapers reported that during the meeting the mayor expressed support for the Palestinian terrorists who took part in the bus attack on the Tel Aviv coastal road.

As the case developed, it became clear Shakaa's remarks had been misinterpreted, but by then Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government had decided to expel him to an Arab country.

Although Israel never released any official charges to back up the deportation order, press reports quoted government sources as alleging that Shakaa organized resistance to Israel in the West Bank and had been associated with terrorist activities.

Ben-Eliezer said the security grounds for the expulsion order were well founded, but a military appeals board had decided to re-evaluate the case.

The general said he had consulted with his superiors and "I decided to cancel the expulsion order. ... For the good of the city of Nablus and the good of the Shakaa family."

Bougadis charged in bomb attempt

DUNCANVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Duncanville man said he didn't sleep well Tuesday night after being told his jewelry store was the alleged target of a bombing-for-hire.

James Bougadis was arraigned and freed on $100,000 bond on charges of trying to hire someone to blow up Paul's Jewelers, owned by Basil Shamburger.

Bougadis owns International Jewelry, also in Duncanville.

Special Agent William Dwight of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau also signed a complaint against Bougadis. That complaint said Bougadis tried to hire an ATF informant to blow up Shamburger's store.

According to an ATF affidavit, Bougadis "indicated he would rather the store be blown up with dynamite than burned up, because the owners could not get reopened in time for the Christmas trade."

Shamburger said he does not know Bougadis.

"I'm just kind of dumbfounded about it," he said.

We ask you to judge Exxon's profits by what we're spending to develop energy.

Exxon's profits during the first nine months of this year were $2.93 billion.

During this period, Exxon also invested more in its business than ever before in its history — $4.3 billion.* This huge amount of money came partly from profits, with the rest coming mainly from depreciation (money set-aside to replace facilities which wear out) and other sources.

How was the money spent?

- $3.1 billion was spent to develop energy resources including oil and natural gas, coal, uranium, solar energy and synthetic fuels.
- $0.7 billion was invested in facilities to transport, process, and deliver energy to our customers.
- $0.3 billion was invested to produce petrochemicals.
- Investments outside of energy and petrochemicals were a little less than $0.2 billion, or 5% of the total!

In recent years, about half of Exxon's investments have been in the U.S. They have paid for such major projects as our share of the Trans-Alaska Pipeline, and the expansion of our Baytown, Texas refinery. In 1979, Exxon is exploring for oil and natural gas in 30 states, and in recent years, has undertaken costly exploration off the coasts of Florida, Georgia, New Jersey, Louisiana, Texas, California and Alaska.

Major foreign projects include the upgrading of refining capacity in Europe, production from the Canadian Athabasca Oil Sands, and the development of new oil and gas discoveries in the North Sea, Australia and Malaysia.

Are discoveries outside the U.S. important to Americans? They certainly are, because new supplies of energy — from whatever source — reduce dependence on current sources.

Ours is a business that involves big risks and big investments. Since profits provide a large part of the money needed to do the job, a continuing healthy profit performance is essential to meeting the energy needs of consumers — now and in the future.

This does not include the acquisition of Reliance Electric Co. at a cost of $1.1 billion.

Exxon has consistently invested more than it has earned. During the last ten years, more than 95% of the total has been spent developing energy sources of many types, and petrochemicals.

Major businesses raising millions to aid Olympics

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The selling of the 1980 Winter Olympics is in full swing, with a mammoth marketing effort that is expected to raise nearly $50 million to help pay the cost of the Games at Lake Placid, N.Y., next February.

There are sponsors, suppliers and licensees. The list of products with either the official Olympic symbol or mascot runs from A — ashtrays — to Z — zipper pulls. In between, there are belts and bandanas, jackets and jerseys, posters and plaques, spoons and scorecards. There is even, after a fashion, an official toilet paper.

According to spokesmen for the Lake Placid Organizing Committee and Capital Sports, Inc., the agency that is handling the merchandising details, there are 103 sponsors, 75 suppliers and 106 licensees.

Here's how it all works:
Companies which donate a hefty chunk of cash get the right to call themselves "official sponsors" of the Winter Olympics. Dave Jeffrey, deputy director of marketing for the organizing committee, said the average payment is "in the area of $100,000." Coca-Cola paid more than $1 million, according to Thomas Mahaffey of Capital Sports. ABC Sports Inc., which paid over $15 million for the rights to televise the games, is the single biggest sponsor.

Companies which donate products or provide services for use at the Winter Olympics — food, clothing, snow-removal equipment, etc. — get to describe themselves as "suppliers." Some sponsors, including Coca-Cola, are also suppliers. The items involved range from dairy products — from Borden, Inc., of Houston — to paper towels and toilet tissue — from American Can of Greenwich, Conn.

Companies which manufacture products for retail sale with the five-ringed symbol of the Lake Placid

Olympics or with the official "Roni Raccoon" mascot are licensees. They pay a royalty equal to 10 percent of sales in exchange for the use of the symbol or the mascot. While most of the merchandise manufactured by the licensees is being sold directly to the public, some of it is going to other marketers who, in turn, are using it in their own promotions, offering patches, stickers and buttons in exchange for box tops or labels.

Jeffrey said the revenue from the tie-ins for the Lake Placid Organizing Committee is expected to total $47 million — enough to cover the administrative expenses of staging the games. The overall cost of the events at Lake Placid, including construction of the dormitories that will house the athletes and will later become a federal prison, is expected to reach about $200 million.

No one knows how much the individual sponsors, suppliers and licensees will make for themselves thanks to the promotions. Thus far, said Mahaffey, the sportswear and clothing items are selling "very, very well." The response for gift items like mugs has been mixed, he said, adding that the biggest market for many of the novelties — key chains, decals, etc. — will be at the Games themselves. Prices range from pennies for things like the decals to about $75 for some of the sports wear and crystal products.

Only one manufacturer of a particular product can be a sponsor. Ford Motor Co., for example, is the only automobile company with the right to call itself an "official sponsor." Individual teams, however, also have sponsors. So you may see another automobile listed as the official car of the U.S. ski team, for example.

Are there any items that won't carry the Olympic imprint? "Things that are not in good taste," said Mahaffey.

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Liza Minnelli and her theatrical manager Mark Gero are off on their honeymoon following a brief ceremony at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in Manhattan.

They were married Tuesday in a private ceremony attended by a small group of friends that included the actress-singer's father, film director Vincente Minnelli and Elizabeth Taylor, who stood in during the ceremony for the late Judy Garland, Miss Minnelli's mother.

It was Gero's first marriage and the third for Miss Minnelli. Gero, 28, and Miss Minnelli, 33, slipped into the Park Avenue church through a side entrance to avoid a small group of fans outside.

The actress' father, who flew in from Los Angeles, would not disclose the couple's honeymoon plans, but said "they are going away for a couple of months." He said they would live in New York.

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — President Carter's 33-year-old nephew, convict William Carter Spann, is a pauper and hopes to sell interviews after he is paroled on Christmas Eve, says Spann's wife.

Spann, who has dubbed himself "the bad peanut," is the son of the President's sister, Gloria. He will be freed from the Vacaville Medical Facility after serving three years of an 10 years-to-life sentence for armed robbery.

"Willie and I don't have a penny," said Jan Frey Spann, an insurance broker who married Spann behind bars in April. Mrs. Spann said some articles written about her and Spann "make it seem like we're loaded. He doesn't have a profession or a job, and he hasn't gotten a cent from the family."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Phil Silvers has filed a libel suit seeking $10 million from the weekly tabloid, The National Enquirer, because it described him as a "has-been."

It is the third multimillion-dollar lawsuit filed in Los Angeles Superior Court by Hollywood celebrities against the tabloid in the last two weeks.

On Monday, comedian Paul Lynde filed a libel suit protesting statements made about him. Actress Shirley Jones and her husband, Marty Ingels, filed suit last week objecting to remarks about their marriage.

In his suit Tuesday, Silvers claimed the description of him as a "has-been" in a story and a photo caption in an edition last October has hurt both his reputation and his feelings.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Tennis player Arthur Ashe, who suffered a heart attack earlier this year, has been hospitalized again with what a hospital spokesman described as "mild chest discomfort."

The 36-year-old Ashe "definitely has not had another heart attack," Memorial Hospital spokesman Charles Butler said after the 1975 Wimbledon champion was admitted Tuesday. Butler said he expected Ashe to be released today.

Ashe, who has a home in Miami, was brought to the emergency room by a friend after consulting with his New York cardiologist by telephone, said Dr. David Chinoy.

Ashe, whose condition was listed as satisfactory, said later Tuesday, "I did not have a heart attack and I am in no pain. It was a problem of inactivity, a change in routine. I feel fine."

He suffered a mild heart attack July 31 while conducting a tennis clinic in New York and has not played competitively since.

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Michael Learned, in town to film scenes for the CBS TV movie "Nurse," is getting married to longtime boyfriend and writer Will Parker.

Miss Learned, of "The Waltons" television series, and Parker had intended to marry in Los Angeles, but opted for the Big Apple on Dec. 18, after filming is over.

"Nurse," based on the novel, is scheduled for airing early next year.

Grass, timber fire threatens homes in Montana community

ROUNDUP, Mont. (AP) — A wind-whipped grass and timber fire damaged at least two homes and threatened 10 more as it moved through an area near this southeastern Montana community, officials said.

The majority of the fire has slowed down... The wind has died down an awful lot, but it's still up to 20 to 25 mph," Floyd Fisher, Musselshell County undersheriff, said late Tuesday.

"There's not much a person can do until that wind really dies down quite a bit," he said. "If the fire just keeps going through the trees, and there's nothing you can do with it."

No injuries were reported, Fisher said. A witness said it started to snow late Tuesday night, and the moisture, combined with the decreasing winds, had slowed the fire's progress. Fisher said authorities originally warned persons in about 50 homes located in the grasslands east of town to be ready to evacuate if the fire came their way. However, he said the flames passed by most of the houses without damaging them.

The fire started about noon Tuesday 1 1/2 miles east of Roundup along U.S. 87, Fisher said.

He said the exact cause of the blaze hadn't been determined, but that it was possible that winds gusting up to 70 mph could have fanned sparks from an old coal slag pile burning underground.

The fire had burned a path about 14 miles long and 2 1/2 miles wide by late Tuesday and Fisher said about 35 firefighters still were on the lines fighting the blaze.

In bill dispute, utility still plans to cut power

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Duquesne Light Co. still plans to switch off electricity in the financially ailing borough of Aliquippa the day after Christmas unless the borough pays an overdue bill, the utility says.

But Duquesne spokesman Dick Dwyer said Tuesday the lights could remain lit on Dec. 26 if some other arrangement is worked out.

Dwyer denied an earlier report that the utility had reached a compromise with the Beaver County municipality, which has piled up $242,375 in back utility bills since 1975.

On Monday night, Aliquippa Mayor John Ross told about 75 persons at a borough council meeting that he and utility officials had worked out a conditional agreement last week that would extend the service until February.

"We have no agreement with the council at this time," Dwyer said Tuesday.

Scientists predict Alaskan quake

By ROBERT LOCKE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two Columbia University scientists, using a new formula they developed, say a great earthquake will hit a barren stretch of the Alaska coast within six years.

"We stress, however, that...this forecast should be treated with caution and reviewed as new data become available," Omar Perez of Columbia's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory told a meeting of the American Geophysical Union here Tuesday.

But in an earlier interview, he said he was very confident of his data concerning what's called the "Yakataga seismic gap," a sparsely populated area about 100 miles southeast of Valdez. He said if everything works as expected, the big quake could come anytime between now and the end of 1985.

Co-worker Yash Aggarwal said the exact time of a coming earthquake cannot be predicted by the method, "but we can tell where an earthquake is likely in the next few years and then you can pay more attention to short term" changes that might narrow the danger.

The seismologists base the forecast on a characteristic sequence of seismic events they identified in 13 of 14 previous large quakes they studied. The sequence involves a period of quiet along an earthquake fault, a concentrated burst of tremors, then another period of quiet before the big one hits.

This is the first time they've tried to use their data on a future quake and, Perez concedes, "We don't know what the rate of false alarms is with this..."

The sparsely populated Alaskan area, last shaken by a major quake in 1899, has been identified as a high-risk region that's likely to experience a quake of about 8 on the Richter scale.

The famous San Francisco Earthquake of 1906 has been estimated at about 8.3 on the scale, which measures ground motion as recorded on seismographs.

Perez and Aggarwal estimated the earthquake would have a Richter magnitude between 8.1 and 8.5, based on past behavior of the region and the area likely to be involved when the 90-mile gap breaks loose.

The concept of seismic gaps has recently become a hot topic among earth scientists. A gap basically is a stretch of an active fault that has been unusually free of quakes. Strains and stresses build dangerously in such locked sections until they are finally released, usually as an earthquake.

Aggarwal and Perez said such quakes seem usually to be preceded by several years of little or no seismic activity. The quiet is broken by a burst of small quakes concentrated near the epicenter of the coming jolt, near the ends of the gap or both.

Chinook winds hit two states

By The Associated Press

Chinook winds gusting to 100 mph tore into parts of Colorado and Wyoming, whisked 27 cars of a Union Pacific train from their tracks, scattered large trucks and roofs and blacked out cities.

No injuries were reported from the Chinooks, the warm, dry winds that blow down from the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains.

The eastbound Union Pacific train derailed about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday when the winds gusting to 100 mph blew 27 empty, covered hopper cars from the tracks on Sherman Hill about 28 miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo., railroad spokesman Diek Lohr said.

A Colorado Highway Patrol spokesman said four semi-tractor trailers were blown off the highway near Wheatland and a motor home, a pickup truck and other vehicles flipped over on highways near Cheyenne.

Power was suspended around Sheridan, Wyo., and Boulder, Colo., after transmission lines were toppled. A Sheridan County sheriff's dispatcher said shingles were blown from the tops of numerous houses and her office received a few reports of roofs being blown off homes.

Boulder, situated at the mouth of a mountain canyon, appeared to be the hardest hit, with gusts of 100 mph, according to police spokeswoman Deedee Langer. In Northglenn, gusts to 50 mph were reported, a National Weather Service spokesman said.

Miss Langer said police were swamped by reports of property damage caused by the winds. She said numerous burglar alarms were triggered by wind gusts, and south Boulder experienced a power outage.

"Officers are wearing their helmets to protect their heads from objects flying all over. Headlights on police cars are getting shot out when they come in contact with the objects (stirred up by the winds)," Miss Langer said.

Paul Duval, a meteorologist for the National Weather Service, said the winds were the result of a strong, southeasterly wind flow that swooped through the eastern mountains. The pattern was expected to continue intermittently throughout this week, he said.

The warm winds, which flow along the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, boosted temperatures into the 60s late Tuesday night, compared to readings in the teens and near zero in the central mountains, Duval said.

Gale force winds hit Majuro Atoll

HONOLULU (AP) — Gale force winds and heavy surf have pounded Majuro Atoll in the Marshall Islands for a second time in a week, leaving some 5,000 to 7,000 residents homeless, authorities say.

Reports from amateur radio operators reaching Honolulu and Guam said six persons were injured, none seriously.

The winds and waves of up to 20 feet first hit the atoll Nov. 27, causing damage that has been estimated at $26 million. The wind and waves returned again over the weekend.

A radio report from Marshall Foreign Minister Tony Debrum said at least 4,000 residents on the eastern tip of the atoll were evacuated to the western side, and that more than 3,000 others were without food. It said some businesses sustained heavy damage and stores were closed.

If relief did not arrive soon, there would not be enough food to last more than five or six days, Debrum said.

Air Force planes from Guam, the Philippines, Hawaii and the U.S. mainland already were brining in tents, foodstuffs, water and other supplies.

Normal communication with the area was disrupted although University of Hawaii officials said they had received a radio report that 144 buildings on Majuro, most of them homes, had been destroyed and 172 others damaged.

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, on a tour of Micronesia, left Guam Monday for Saipan and from there was to go to Ponape and Majuro.

Andrus announced in Honolulu over the weekend that President Carter had declared parts of the Marshalls a major disaster area, following the first heavy seas and flooding.

Majuro is the district center of the Marshall Islands, 2,400 miles southwest of Hawaii.

USDA still sees farm income dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is not budging from its recent prediction that farm income may take a big nosedive next year.

In a brief summary of a new analysis to be published later this month, the department said Tuesday "there are no new developments in the current economic situation that significantly alter last month's forecast" for farm income and food prices next year.

Last month USDA predicted 1980 farm income could plummet by as much as 20 percent from this year's estimate of a near-record $32 billion.

Food prices are expected to gain an additional 7 percent to 11 percent, with an 8 percent increase seen most likely at this time.

A spokesman, who asked not to be identified, told a reporter the 1980 farm income situation will not be analyzed further in the full outlook report due for release in a week or two. Income prospects were "described in some detail" last month, he said.

Farm income — whether it's gaining or declining — is always an election-year issue on the rural campaign trail.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for example, last week in Iowa referred to USDA's prediction of reduced farm income in 1980 when he attacked the Carter administration as having a "legacy of toil and trouble" for the nation's farmers.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland replied that Kennedy showed "an ignorance of farm realities."

Last month USDA officials said the possibility of farm income dropping by as much as 20 percent is based on an assumption inflation will outpace any gains in gross sales receipts.

In its latest report, USDA said, "Demand for agricultural commodities will remain strong through the first half of 1980 despite slowing economic activity."

Prices for major crops "will be influenced by the level and quality of grain and oilseed crops harvested this winter and next spring in the Southern Hemisphere, as well as crop prospects and harvests next summer and fall in the Northern Hemisphere," it said.

Walhalla, S.C., officials have lost a round in their effort to force Geneva Riggins to get rid of the 38 hogs she keeps at her home.

Circuit Judge Sidney Floyd dismissed on a technicality a complaint by officials of the town of Salem which sought to force Mrs. Riggins to remove the hogs from her home in a residential area.

Mrs. Riggins said she would be ready to fight any renewed legal efforts to evict her hogs. "I've got a six-ounce (piglet) and an eight-ounce in my family room right now I'm going to raise on the bottle," she said.

Prices this year generally higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices farmers receive for their products are generally higher than they were a year ago, but the latest government figures show a wide variation among specific items.

According to the Agriculture Department's overall index of prices farmers receive, the average in November was up 10 percent from the same month a year ago.

Broken into categories, prices of meat animals were up 10 percent from November 1978; vegetables were up 12 percent; dairy products, up 10 percent; and feed grains and hay, up 16 percent.

But prices of poultry and eggs were down 1 percent from a year ago, and oil-bearing crops, such as soybeans, cottonseed, flaxseed and peanuts, declined 2 percent.

Further, within the groups of commodities, variations exist that make it difficult to generalize about prices.

For example, in the meat animal group — which had a 10 percent price gain over November 1978 — beef cattle prices were up 24 percent to an average $64.20 per 100 pounds last month from $51.90 a year ago.

But hog prices, which are included in the average for all meat animals, declined by more than 27 percent to $34.40 per 100 pounds from $47.30 a year earlier.

The report, issued by USDA on Nov. 30, provided another method of looking at farmers' prices and how those stack up from year-to-year as well as among the individual commodities.

In that comparison, the USDA translates its latest price figures into a parity equivalent, the old formula that roughly illustrates what prices would have to be to give farmers the same buying power they had in a base period, 1910-14.

For example, corn prices on American farms last month, according to the preliminary figures, averaged $2.31 a bushel. But if corn had been at 100 percent of parity, the price would have been $4.26 a bushel. Thus, the November corn price was only 54 percent of parity.

A year ago, corn brought farmers $2.02 a bushel or 53 percent of the parity price then of $3.80 a bushel, price has risen.

Only 11 of the 31 commodities priced by USDA last month showed an increase on the parity scale from a year ago. Nineteen declined in terms of parity equivalent and one was the same.

Rural development funds sometimes go unused

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some northeastern and midwestern states consistently fail to take advantage of all the money they are entitled to under federal rural development programs, according to a group of House members.

State officials might not be fully aware of the programs, the congressmen said.

The two regions have 41 percent of the nation's rural population but only 28 percent of the rural households with incomes below the official poverty lines, the Northeast-Midwest Congressional Coalition said.

Population and poverty are two principal factors in the legal formulas used to distribute funds under the Farmers Home Administration rural-development programs.

A 43-page study released this week by the group said that the 18 states in the regions received 34 percent of the 1977 community water and waste treatment money and 32.8 percent of the business and industrial development funds between 1974 and 1978.

New England has consistently exceeded its share of business and industrial loans and grants because of a few states' ability to get large amounts, the study said. Mid-Atlantic states have consistently gotten smaller industrial grants than they could have, it added.

Rep. James L. Oberstar, D-Minn., co-chairman of the group, said, "Local officials might not be aware of the existence of some ... programs or the availability of funds."

More due crop insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's "all-risk" crop insurance will be available in 150 additional counties in time for next spring's planting season.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Monday the addition of 150 counties is the maximum permitted under current law.

Consumer office set up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new consumer office is being set up in the Agriculture Department.

W. Neill Schaller, who has been head of extension services in the department's Science and Education Administration since July 31, 1977, will be special assistant for consumer affairs in the office of Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

Officials said Monday that Schaller's new assignment will be effective on Dec. 9.

Schaller was born in Stamford, Conn., and reared on a farm near Lynchburg, Va.

STANTON — Services for Sidney Bryan Steen, 84, of Stanton will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Church of Christ in Stanton with Derald McWhorter, minister, officiating.

Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery directed by Gilbreath Funeral Home.

He died Tuesday in a Big Spring hospital following a lengthy illness.

Steen was born July 25, 1895, in Wintthrop, Ark., and moved to Stanton 42 years ago from Wink. He was married to Della Purves Nov. 4, 1936, in Colorado City. He was a retired farmer and a World War-I veteran.

Survivors include his wife, a foster daughter, Marie Noskina of Odessa; a sister, Minnie Warren of California; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Cora S. Turner

STAMFORD — Services for Cora Sample Turner, 78, of Avoca, mother of Clyde Turner of Midland, were Tuesday in the Avoca United Methodist Church. The Rev. R.H. Mexner, pastor of Hawley United Methodist Church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Mike Shaffer, pastor, and the Rev. Charles Gafford, pastor of the Avoca Baptist Church. Burial was in Spring Creek Cemetery directed by Stamford Funeral Home.

Mrs. Turner died Saturday in an Abilene hospital after a long illness.

She was born Oct. 22, 1901, in Jones County. She was married to R.S. Turner Nov. 20, 1950, in Avoca. She was a school teacher in Jayton and Borger for 20 years. She was a member of the United Methodist Women and Avoca United Methodist Church.

Other survivors include her husband, three sons, two daughters, a brother, 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Ethel Kisinger

SEYMOUR — Services for Ethel Beatrice Ewing Kisinger, 79, of Red Springs, mother of Shirley Harmon of Midland, were to be at 2 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church in Red Springs with the Rev. Randal Parks, pastor, officiating. Burial was to be in Benson Cemetery in Red Springs, directed by Seymour Memorial Funeral Home.

She died Monday in a Seymour hospital after a short illness.

Born Oct. 23, 1900, in Limestone County, she had been a resident of Baylor County for 46 years. She was married to Carl Edward Kisinger Feb. 8, 1920, in Baylor County. She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Red Springs. She was a member of the American Legion Women's Auxiliary of World War I and the Red Springs Community Club. Her husband died Nov. 15, 1965.

Other survivors include three sons, three daughters, two sisters, 24 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Lou E. Speegle

CISCO — Services for Lou E. Speegle, 65, of Cisco, mother of Mrs. Gilbert (Lynda) Casbeer of Midland and Wayne Speegle of Big Spring, were to be at 2 p.m. today in Cisco Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Joe Philpott officiating. Burial was to be in Scranton Cemetery.

She died Monday in a Cisco hospital after a lengthy illness.

Born Dec. 22, 1913, in Texas, she was married to Johnny Speegle Feb. 18, 1934, in the Van Horn community near here. She had lived here most of her life and was a seamstress for Boss Manufacturing until her retirement. She was a member of Mitchell Baptist Church.

Other survivors include her husband, three sons, a brother, a sister, nine grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Bank president, wife held hostage

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A bank president and his wife were held hostage at their home early today by two armed men who forced the husband to take $100,000 to a drop point.

The money was never picked up, however, and the couple was not harmed.

Britain, guerrillas moving toward agreement on cease-fire terms

LONDON (AP) — Britain and guerrilla leaders moved toward a compromise today on four main issues holding up a cease-fire agreement in Zimbabwe Rhodesia, reliable sources said. The truce is sought so that a new government can be chosen in orderly fashion.

Highly placed officials who declined to be named said the compromise was drawn up by Commonwealth Secretary-General Shridath Ramphal and approved by British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, the peace conference chairman, before being presented to Patriotic Front co-leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe.

Informants said Nkomo was prepared to accept the terms and only Mugabe's agreement was awaited. If the plan is approved, Britain hopes to immediately send a governor to Salisbury to run the country during a transitional period for elections, to be monitored by a Commonwealth force.

The current Salisbury government, led by black Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, has accepted Britain's proposals for a new constitution during the 13-week-old talks here, but has not ruled on the cease-fire proposals.

The major elements of the compromise, as reported by the officials, were:

—The size of the Commonwealth military observation force, which Britain had limited to 1,000 men, would be raised to at least 1,200. There would be a provision for reinforcements.

—All assembly points for Patriotic Front guerrillas, and all bases used by the Salisbury government's forces, would be surrounded by military monitors in order to reduce dangers of surprise attack.

—All five Zimbabwe Rhodesian airfields would be surrounded by Commonwealth troops, who also would be called upon to control all ammunition stocks.

—There would be an explicit provision stipulating all "external forces" must leave the country. This is intended to cover the withdrawal of hundreds of South African airmen and troops known to be in Zimbabwe Rhodesia even though the Pretoria government has denied their presence.

Late last week Carrington presented a British plan he portrayed as the final British position on cease-fire arrangements, and he called on Nkomo and Mugabe to take it or leave it.

The Front leaders stood firm on their own proposals, but then Ramphal stepped in to try to narrow the differences.

Ramphal said the peace conference was in the final stages which "demand extreme sensitivity."

"A spirit of understanding and minimal accommodation on all sides will make agreement possible. That is what the final stage of the conference is all about — fine-tuning agreement between all the parties — an inordinately necessary process in this case, for only with such agreement is a lasting settlement possible," he said.

Britain is making what many believe is the last attempt to bring peace to its breakaway colony, which has been embroiled in guerrilla war for seven years. In that time, more than 20,000 persons have been killed.

Former Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, a white, broke with Britain in 1965 to head off black rule, but by 1978 when Smith moved toward black rule, the guerrilla war effort had crippled the Rhodesian economy, hampered by international sanctions imposed after the break from Britain.

UAW leaders getting Carter's full support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local leaders of the United Auto Workers, seeking aid for the Chrysler Corp. without a wage freeze, are getting encouragement from the Carter administration but little support in Congress.

Members of the UAW's Chrysler Council, made up of officers of union locals at Chrysler plants, lobbied House and Senate members Tuesday, urging aid for Chrysler and opposing the wage freeze approved by the Senate Banking Committee.

The Senate bill calls for $1.25 billion in federal loan guarantees to Chrysler, to be matched by $2.75 billion obtained independently of the guarantees through a three-year wage freeze and other means.

UAW president Douglas Fraser said after a meeting of the Chrysler Council Tuesday that the council would not approve the proposed wage freeze.

An estimated 300 council members attended the meeting.

The Women's Health Fitness Center at the Central YMCA offers several classes per week in aerobic exercise.

The main emphasis of this class is aerobic or cardiovascular conditioning. In addition, repetitious exercises are given for toning isolated muscle groups. There is a warmup and cool down period included in each class.

This class offers the optimum benefits of exercise, plus the fun of moving to music, said Betty Cerf, instructor.

In order to understand cardiovascular conditioning, one must view the heart muscle like any other muscle in the body. The heart must contract more than the usual amount per minute at rest to increase its strength and efficiency. With consistent training of this nature, the individual will notice increased stamina, loss of inches and possible weight loss. As with any fitness program, it is best to start slowly and increase the intensity of the exercise moderately.

DEAR ABBY
Fed up with spoiled hams

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In response to AC-TRESS, who criticized those in the audience for rushing out of the theater the minute the performance is over instead of sticking around for all the curtain calls:

I go to the ticket window, lay down my hard-earned money hoping to get my money's worth in entertainment. I sit through the performance, then down comes the curtain. End of show. Then I get up and leave.

Why should I either remain in my seat or stand up and keep applauding those egomaniacs and shouting "Bravo!" like a nincompoop? I paid THEM to perform for ME. I should be applauded for buying the ticket. Without me, and others like me, they would be in the unemployment line because those ego-loaded showoffs would rather starve to death than do menial work.

Why should entertainers be treated like gods? Have you ever heard of three curtain calls for a neurosurgeon? — JOE S. IN SALEM, N.Y.

DEAR JOE: No. But it could be "curtains" for the patient of a neurosurgeon who turns in a poor performance!

DEAR ABBY: About six months ago my husband started acting nervous and preoccupied. He also started working late at his office and on weekends — something he rarely did.

We've been married 16 years, have a nice family, and have often said that ours was one of the few really "good" marriages we knew of.

A week ago, I received a phone call in the middle of the afternoon from a woman who refused to identify herself, but said she thought I should know that my husband was having an affair with a young woman who works in his office. Then she mentioned the woman's name. I recalled my husband telling me that he had employed a young, unmarried woman by that name about a year ago. I fell apart.

When my husband came home, I told him about the call and knew from his reaction that it was true. I cried. He cried, too, and then confessed that he had had an affair with her, but broke it off two weeks ago, telling her it was a regrettable mistake, and he would get her a job elsewhere. He said she seemed to accept his decision. Then he asked me to listen in on the telephone extension while he called someone. I did. I recognized the voice at once as the woman who had phoned me! She called, hoping I would throw my husband out and give her a clear field!

I've forgiven my husband, but I'm still hurting some. I'm glad I didn't act foolishly in haste. Perhaps some other wife will be wiser for my experience.

If you print this, please don't use my name. — GETTING OVER IT

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to LONGING FOR MOTHERHOOD was the worst! She wanted a baby but had no husband or boyfriend, so she was considering asking a fellow to do her a favor and father her child. You told her "scrap the idea!" Why?

If a woman wants a baby, why should she have to marry a man she may not love just to have one? If she's longing for motherhood, married or not, that's the time to do something about it.

Today a woman has the right to have an abortion if she wants one, so why shouldn't she have the right to

Christmas miracles occurring still, some 2,000 years later

Copley News Service

Did you know that miracles happen at Christmas? It seems that an Eastern family had a daughter who was born with both a physical and a mental impairment.

The child was dearly loved and gave the family much in return. In fact, she never accepted a gift without returning one, too.

She suffered much physical pain and mental anguish from cruel jokes of her schoolmates. Yet she didn't stay angry or hold a grudge. She was the one to comfort those who were ill or in trouble.

More than anything she loved Christmas with the wonder and excitement of a child. It was just before Christmas one year when she died a painful death from kidney poisoning.

A delicate poinsettia plant was placed on her grave on Christmas morning. The plant glistened like a crimson jewel for three long, cold weeks, though you might expect it to freeze and wither instantly.

This incident seems to re-create the story of the poinsettia. A poor boy picked a weed along the way to the nativity shrine and as he placed it before the Christ child, it suddenly burst into a dazzling flower.

City PTA convention-goers successful with resolution

Twenty-seven Midland PTA delegates and principals recently attended the 1979 state convention of the Texas Congress of Parent-Teachers Associations held in Amarillo.

The highlights of the meeting were the installation of newly elected officers, workshops and the adoption of proposed resolutions and legislation.

Keynote speaker was Mrs. Carolyn Warner, superintendent of the Arizona Department of Education. She spoke on "Response-Ability."

Also addressing delegates was Dr. Robert N. Fortenberry of Jackson, Miss., national PTA vice president of Region IV and superintendent of Jackson public schools. He discussed "Improving Public Education through Parental Involvement."

Workshops were conducted on membership, proposed amendments, proposed legislative program, parliamentary procedure, physical fitness, proposed resolutions, new perspectives on school vandalism and violence, parental involvement, the gifted child, resolving parent-teacher-child conflicts, parenting and others.

A resolution submitted by the Midland City Council of PTAs concerning personal products advertising was adopted by the resolutions committee.

The local council contends that hygienic products are highly sexist and designed to personal use, the advertisements violate personal standards of taste and aesthetics and may cause embarrassment.

The resolution also states that the guidelines of the National Association of Broadcasters are either vague or unenforceable and that continued public advertising of personal products violates the PTA's object of securing "for all children and youth highest advantages in both mental and social education."

The Texas Congress will request the National PTA to prohibit such advertising promotions at its convention and to petition the Federal Trade Commission to cease the advertisement of personal products through the non-print mass media, using the powers of the Federal Communications Commission.

Other resolutions adopted were: the raising of the minimum age for purchase of alcoholic beverages, submitted by Irving City Council of PTAs; opposition to pornographic materials, submitted by East Central ISD Council of PTAs at San Antonio, and one calling for the Texas Legislature to do all in its power to encourage the vigorous prosecution and reporting of all criminal cases where the sexual abuse or serious injury of a child is involved. The Texas PTA also will urge that no parole be granted to sexual offenders where children are concerned. The latter resolution was submitted by the East Central Council.

Also adopted were amendments submitted to proposed legislation. The Bryan City Council of PTAs is seeking the revision of Section 109.33 to prohibit licensing of establishments for sale of alcoholic beverages within 500 feet of all elementary and secondary school premises.

The Irving City Council of PTAs is hoping to strengthen the PTA's position opposing the sale of drug paraphernalia by seeking legislation to redefine drug paraphernalia. The following items were adopted for consideration during the 67th session of the Texas Legislature:

—Improving teacher salaries in Texas to be more in line with the national average.

—Providing comprehensive programs for gifted and talented students in public schools.

—Implementing legislation to improve attendance in public schools.

Local delegates to the convention and their schools were Patti DeFrance, city council; Elisa Garibay, Crockett; Margie Titus, Pease; Judy Innes, South; Sandra Kelly and Kerry Kay Cook, Fanning; Rita Wilkes; Mary Cosby; Jackie Hamilton, Geri Green and Lyn Hightower, Burnet; Gayle Dodson, Bowie; Kay Sowers, Emerson; Helen Jenkins, Washington; Wanda Hayes, South; Sherry Prescott and Judy Cummins, Lamar; Diana Collazo, Crockett; Carrie Salazar, Ben Milam; Kathy Sanchez, De Zavala, and Karen Kitto, Travis. Principals participating were Joe Cummins, Emerson; Lee Roy Shannon, Lamar; Bill Sherman, Washington; Jack Hightower, Travis; and Carl Pirkle, South.

Mrs. Edward Carrell of Midland served on the committee to approve minutes, as chairman of the election committee and a member of the publications and jewelry sales committee.

Rankin bridge winners are told

RANKIN — Mrs. Margie Smith was hostess to Rankin Bridge Club Thursday.

Mrs. Velma Lane won high and also traveling prize for being the last to bid and make game. Mary Manville was second high and Janice Hyatt was third high.

The menu was completed for the dinner and all-day bridge play to be held with the Midkiff Bridge Club in the home of Mrs. Estee Smith, member of the Midkiff club.

The two clubs are joining together for the annual all-day bridge play starting at 9 a.m. Dec. 13.

Newtimers play bridge

Newtimers Bridge Club met for bridge and a luncheon at the Ranchland Hills Country Club.

Guests were Mary Lu Bishop and Agnes Eden. Winners were Helen Owen, first; Doris McClure, second; and Claudette Wilhite, third.

The club meets on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at the country club. Persons interested in joining can call Mary Renton at 697-1859.

AAUW International Group hears program on China trip

The International Group, Midland branch, American Association of University Women, met in the home of Jeanette Oei, 2201 Bedford Ave. Co-hostess was Beth Mitchell.

Chairman Kay Sprecher chaired a discussion on adopting the Salvation Army's Christmas project, "Dress-A-Live-Doll."

Irma Underwood, in silk Oriental dress, presented a program of slides from her trip to China last year.

Next meeting is a cocktail party for members and their husbands. Hostess will be Betty Neart, 2804 Durant.

Theories indicate women inferior to men

ODESSA — While many of America's psychologists speak out strongly in support of women's rights, a University of Texas at the Permian Basin psychology professor says they often teach, almost in the same breath, that women are inferior to men.

Dr. Joel Greenspoon, UTBP professor of psychology, says some psychological theories currently being taught throughout the United States actually contribute to discriminatory practices against women.

"The American Psychological Association has adopted a strong endorsement of women's rights, and in 1977, their support of the Equal Rights Amendment was heavily underscored by the rejection of convention sites in states that had not ratified the ERA.

"These actions would suggest that psychologists are ardent advocates of equal rights for women. However, I believe that various psychological theories support the position that women lack the 'characteristics' and 'traits' necessary to compete successfully with men in today's world," Greenspoon said.

"Moreover, I contend that these theories establish differences between men and women that preclude the development of programs that could, perhaps in time, eliminate these differences."

He said these "traits" and "characteristics" often have little to do with sex but are the result of a history of past experiences. They amount to nothing more than stereotypes.

Greenspoon, who delivered a paper on "Sexism and Psychological Constructions" at a recent meeting of the American Psychological Association in New York City, noted, for example, that emotionalism might be considered a "feminine" trait, when the behavior may have been learned because it has enabled the person to avoid further conflict.

He said psychologists should concentrate on behavior and its cause rather than on so-called "traits" or "characteristics," which may be labeled "masculine" or "feminine."

"There are probably as many differences among women as between men and women in their reaction to a particular situation," he added.

"So long as psychologists continue to crank out research that shows that men and women differ in 'characteristics' or 'traits' that are not related to behavior, it will be possible to justify a wide range of discriminatory practices," he said.

"Though much has been written about sex-role stereotype as well as the stereotype of men and women, there is a failure to recognize the kind of research that characterizes this area has tended to maintain these forms of stereotype," Greenspoon added. He said these difficulties could be eliminated if psychologists looked at what people are doing rather than who they are.

Christians now matchmaking

DENVER (AP) — Eugene Snyder is in the business of matchmaking. Christian matchmaking, that is. Born-again Christians.

With classified ads which run each Sunday in area newspapers, Snyder helps match persons who prefer to date only Christians.

He's been accused of discriminating against non-Christians and of having an "elitist" organization.

"Sure, some people feel that way," he said in an interview. "It's not that we think there aren't any good people who aren't Christians. But people like Christians need to associate with people who understand their point of view."

Though the business started "agonizingly slow" last June, it has since picked up and about 100 persons have paid the $70 yearly fee (or $40 for six months) to join Christian Matchmakers. So far the introductions haven't resulted in any marriages, but there has been one engagement, Snyder said.

Those who respond to the ad in the personal classified section are asked to fill out a form answering questions about their lifestyle, marriages, background, education, and a rating list on such areas as punctuality, outgoing qualities, friendliness and interests. They are also asked what qualities they want in another person.

Snyder, 58, then works at matching persons and, when he does, he calls both parties. With their permission, "I give the gentleman the lady's name and phone number, but not the address."

He said he allowed unlimited introductions if the person isn't pleased with Snyder's matching. He maintains the files for one year.

He has gotten calls from persons as young as 15 and as old as 68. Most have been divorced. Right now he has more women than men on the rolls, but "we have more men in the 20s category," he said.

He gets calls from all sorts of persons, "warehouse workers to corporate executives," as he puts it. Snyder said Christian singles have a difficult time finding partners because "none of them want to go to bars. And until recently churches didn't provide singles a means of meeting people."

HEW says colleges must give women share of money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said it will require the nation's colleges to either give women athletes their proportional share of scholarships or face federal action for violating a law against sex discrimination.

But HEW Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris, in a major revision to the guidelines previously proposed for a section of law called Title IX, said colleges will not be required to equalize per capita spending on male and female athletic teams.

If 70 percent of a college's athletes are male, they are entitled to 70 percent of the scholarship aid, but women must get 30 percent, she said in remarks prepared for a news conference.

Under the guidelines proposed a year ago by Mrs. Harris' predecessor, Joseph A. Califano Jr., colleges would have been forced to provide a proportionate share of their total athletic spending for women athletes.

Mrs. Harris said that under her new guidelines, colleges still must "make athletic benefits available in an equitable way" to women, but they need not be identical to the support given men's teams.

She said that in weighing whether a college's athletic program violated Title IX, HEW civil rights investigators will consider such factors as equipment, scheduling of games and practices, travel and per diem expenses, coaching and even the publicity given male and female teams.

Mrs. Harris said the benefits need not be identical for men's and women's teams. But she said: "Colleges that provide new equipment each year for all their male teams and used equipment only for their female teams, for example, violate this standard."

Last year's proposed guidelines touched off a storm of controversy, particularly from colleges with major football programs. HEW's new guidelines will take effect as soon as they are published in the Federal Register. No time was set aside for public comment.

Mrs. Harris called the new policy interpretation "a sensible, flexible policy that clearly provides colleges and universities with the guidance they requested on how to comply with the athletic provisions of Title IX."

It covers high school sports as well as college intramural, club and intercollegiate athletics. Most of the uproar over Title IX has been at the college level.

Title IX is part of a 1972 law that bans sex discrimination in all federally supported education programs, not just athletics. The long-running dispute over sex discrimination in college athletics has pitted feminists seeking changes in the treatment of female athletes, against school administrators and coaching staffs who often have resisted what they considered an assault on football.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association and many individual schools have sought exemptions from the regulations for football. They argued that it was a money-making sport that often supports other athletic activities. But recent NCAA figures show that about 80 percent of all collegiate football programs lose money.

Mrs. Harris' "final" guidelines for compliance with a 1972 anti-discrimination statute will eliminate the per capita spending requirement in such areas as sports publicity, game scheduling, equipment, practice sessions, distribution of per diem and travel allowances, coaching assignments, availability of coaching, medical and training services, and such facilities as locker rooms.

HEW will now give colleges and universities more details of what is expected in each of these categories. The treatment of male teams will be compared to that of female teams in each area to determine whether er women are being discriminated against.

The policy is an interpretation of Title IX of the 1972 Civil Rights Act, which bars sex discrimination in any educational activity supported by federal money.

HEW published the act's first enforcement regulations in 1975 and has spent a good deal of time since explaining what the regulations mean. The new policy statement is the final installment in that process. Mrs. Harris' announcement comes eight months behind schedule due to a storm of controversy over the tentative guidelines and the firing of Califano, who issued them in 1978.

Women's participation in collegiate athletics has increased markedly since the sex discrimination law was passed. But by 1978, three out of four college athletes still were men.

While Mrs. Harris has the responsibility for issuing the clarifications, it likely will be Education Secretary Shirley Hufstедler who enforces them.

Mrs. Hufstедler, whose nomination was confirmed last week, probably will be sworn in

Sorority to give party at Trinity Towers

The Preceptor Alpha Omega chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, will host a party for residents of the Health Care floor of Trinity Towers Thursday. A youth group from Alamo Heights Baptist Church will provide the entertainment.

The sorority met in the home of Mrs. Wanda Cunningham, 2801 Stutz Drive, for a business meeting and cultural program.

Plans were made for a Christmas dinner in the home of Mrs. Katie Williams, 2601 Ward St., Wednesday. Also, plans were made for a couple's party in the home of Mrs. Mary Carrens. The drawing for the Spirit's Basket will be held then.

Cultural program was presented by Margaret Lawrence from the book, "Reflections of Our Lives." She discussed her childhood around Albany where she was born.

Guest was Mary Severson, a Preceptor transferee who has recently moved to Midland from Plainview.

'Women's work' not for this woman who is a mechanic

Copley News Service
LOS ANGELES — The classified ad promised an oil change, a lube job and basic auto care done in your own driveway by Mel's Mobile Maintenance.
Nothing unusual sounding about that. No doubt the ad was placed by some enterprising young man trying to make a buck.
Actually, there is something unusual here. Mel, is actually Melissa Ohlsson, a 24-year-old child of the Palms Verdes horse set who, years ago, realized that "little girls have no fun."
And this, in a round-about manner, is what led her to seek employment in mobile maintenance. That and a burning desire to pay for her new four-wheel-drive pickup and college tuition, in that order.
However, what is most interesting here isn't the fact that Mel can put any car up on her portable ramps and drain its oil and generally take care of its esoteric parts. What's most interesting is Mel herself.
She's so clear-eyed and healthy, she looks like an actress playing a tomboy in a soft-drink commercial.
The truth of the matter is Mel's for real.
Dressed in non-designer, worn-smooth jeans, western-style shirt and honest-to-goodness cowboy hat and hiking boots, she's the epitome of the down-home girl. Only in her case the hard edges have been cut away.
And all this because one day, way back in elementary school, she was sitting on a sidewalk with her best pal watching the girls playing jacks while the boys groused around in the dirt after a football.
"I decided then and there I wasn't going to be one of those little helpless things in a dress and play jacks for the rest of my life," she says, her face crinkled into its permanent squinting into-the-sunshine smile.

So came a life of self-imposed ostracism from the female world as she dashed off with her male friends to learn how to ride and train horses and do everything else young ladies just didn't do with such obvious abandon.
Then came her dirt-bike phase and a dirt bike purchased surreptitiously by selling her saddle.
This was followed by some raised eyebrows when she wanted to take wood shop instead of home economics.
"Heck, I already knew how to cook and take care of my hair and nails. I was ready for something interesting."
As a by-product of riding around on horses and heavy metal, she learned a good deal about both which lead her one day, while trapped behind a fast food counter, to seek employment where her skills lie, under a car.
"I went down to a gas station in Redondo Beach and asked for a job. Of course, I had to prove that I knew what I was doing, but they hired me on."
And even though she knew what she was doing, she'd get the people who would ask to see a male mechanic.

Tiring of that, she broke into the aerospace industry in the maintenance department, just she and the guys oiling the heavy machinery of the Space Age.
Then, even though she had promised herself that she'd never go to college and never learn to type and risk having to take a job in a dismal typing pool, she turned around on herself and took up the books.
But she took up geology, an outdoor profession, one that she hopes will lead her into something interesting and dirty, like looking for oil shale.
In the meantime she has to pay the rent and buy the parts needed to beef up her truck's suspension. Both needs seemed to call for a job.
Of course, her husband — a mechanic — offered her a job as a housewife, but changed his mind when he realized that a housewife's salary wouldn't pay for her somewhat unusual and expensive tastes.
This is where Mel's Mobile Service comes in. She gets to stay outdoors and work on things she knows about, charging $22 for complete maintenance.

Door made for people who need to slow down

Copley News Service
Thirty-five women a week pay $1,800 each for the legendary services of the Golden Door.

With a five-month waiting list, this famous health spa in Escondido, Calif., has proven that strenuous workouts and fresh, healthy, low-calorie foods are worth seeking out — especially when combined with beautiful surroundings and a helpful staff to take care of details.

Modeled after Japanese inns of yesterday, the Door is supremely uncluttered, quiet, and unobtrusively elegant. Designed with zenlike perfection, the total picture is almost monastic. One expects to catch a glimpse of Buddhist monks meditating among the award-winning gardens.

Founded by Deborah Szekely, the Door was designed for people who work hard and have trouble slowing down. She wanted to help them achieve balance. She says, "The French phrase 'reculer pour mieux sauter' comes the closest to expressing the essence of the Golden Door: to draw back in order to make a better leap forward."

Szekely incorporated a non-stop program of massages, herbal wraps and facials (the ratio of employees to guests is 3 to 1), yet guests earn that pleasure with good hard work. Balance.

Each relaxing break from exercise is carried out with attention to detail. For example, during facials, oiled hands and feet nestle cozily in warm mitts. In addition, eyelashes are tinted, eyebrows are lifted, nails are manicured and a slippery avocado oil is lathered on hair and left for 24 hours.
The body is treated internally with lots of water, fresh juice and pure simple food grown on the property. Low-calorie cuisine is beautifully prepared by chef Michel Stroot who knows that visually stimulating food makes less seem like more. Guests dine on many small, individually served courses and are encouraged to eat slowly. Elegant Japanese china and place settings are changed at every meal.

Even though the Door does not put maximum stress on logging weight, the guests seem to thrive on the conversations, children, husbands and WEIGHT LOSS. Every disappearing ounce is duly noted and happily dismissed. So determined are some women to lose that they consume a mere 500 calories a day. However, most choose the 700 or 900 calorie diets. (The delicious Golden Door recipes are available in Szekely's book, "Secrets of the Golden Door" by Bantam.)

Fitness Director Chris Silkwood cares more about the exercise habits women form, rather than how much weight they lose in just one week. "We're more concerned with teaching movement — how NOT to take the simplest route. We break movement down. You might say we teach the movement of movement."

The Door's day-to-day directorship falls under the guidance of Annharrriet Buck, a brilliant young woman gifted with organizational ability, an ease in speaking to large groups and a capacity to produce whatever a guest needs.

"I know these women work hard," she says. "They don't have the energy to cope with little things. There's a powerful impact from seeing yourself without your normal trappings, without your makeup or hair fixed. So we look after everything."
And indeed they do. Even clothing is provided. Women dine casually in look-alike kimonos or robes. Most of them comment that the relaxed air of the Door is one of its real pleasures.

What other reasons bring them here? Because they've reached their burnout point in work and want solitude without loneliness. Or because a husband gave the week as "a dream of a lifetime." A few come every six months and consider it a terrific life insurance policy.
One woman said, "I come because I can do anything I want here."
The famous also relax behind the Doors: Cher, Natalie Wood, Barbra Streisand, Olivia Newton-John. Vera, the linen designer, has enjoyed 32 stays. She may be going for the record, but if so, she hasn't made it yet. The most visits anyone has paid the Golden Door is an amazing 38!

Your horoscope

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have chance to lay foundation for future gains. A bonus may come early and be larger than you expected. Pay some bills, but invest at least part of it in savings account or treasury bond.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may be in mood to make candy or cookies for Christmas presents. Deadline for mailing packages is now. Avoid being indiscreet in conversation, thereby protecting a valued relationship.

Vegetable is a spice

Copley News Service

Saffron is the world's most costly spice, but it's really a vegetable. It's a tuberos plant, and the part that is costly is the "stigma" or pistil tip, the minute tip of the inside of the blossom. It takes about 90,000 stigma to make a pound of saffron.

When dried, saffron is used as a flavoring, a cosmetic, a fabric dye and as a medicine.

Historians say saffron was in use in biblical times and was mentioned in the Song of Solomon. Saffron was among the precious spices and herbs that the pharaohs of Egypt used. They had their bodies anointed with oil of saffron. It is believed that the ritual of mummifying utilized a concentrate of the oil of saffron.

It has an excellent aroma, and the color and flavor are strong. Add some to your next pot of rice or to cooked seafood. Adventurous cooks like to use it on a macaroni and cheese casserole, but remember, a little goes a long way.

Connally ends restraint, speaks out about Iran

HOUSTON (AP) — Republican presidential candidate John Connally says the government of the shah of Iran made mistakes but he would prefer it to the present regime of the Ayatollah Khomeini.

"I don't know what went on in Iran," Connally said. "He (shah) ruled that country for 30 years and I'm sure he did many things that this country would disapprove of. But if we had a choice between the two of them, we got a worse deal with the present regime."

Connally ended his restraint on the Iran crisis Tuesday, saying the United States should seek to isolate the nation of Iran diplomatically, economically and politically if Americans being held hostage are put on trial.

Connally also termed statements about the shah by Sen. Edward Kennedy unfortunate.

"I have exercised restraint in speaking out on the Iranian situation, but it has now reached the point of such gravity that we should publicly say to Iran and to the world that the hands of the President are not tied and that he has the support of the American people for whatever action he deems necessary," Connally said.

Connally said Kennedy's statement that the shah ran a violent regime in Iran and stole billions of dollars from his country was unfortunate.

"It is noteworthy that members of the Khomeini government were seen gleefully clapping on television when they heard Sen. Kennedy's statements," Connally said. "It clearly gave them great joy because it gave them hope of some division of the U.S. government."

"They interpreted Sen. Kennedy's remarks in this vein."

Connally said he had no criticism of President Carter's handling of the crisis. "This is just my statement on the crisis and in no way is a criticism of the president."

Connally read the statement at a news conference following a speech to the American Hotel and Motel Association.

"The mere suggestion that our diplomatic people would be subjected to the emotional decisions of such a kangaroo court violates every precept of international law, diplomatic immunity and basic human justice," Connally said.

"If indeed, the (Iranian) foreign minister is correctly quoted and pursues this course, the United States will have no choice but to attempt by every means available to marshal support of the nations of the world to completely isolate the nation of Iran diplomatically, economically and politically."

Connally, a former governor of Texas, said he was not uncomfortable that the shah is presently in the state at Lackland Air Force base in San Antonio.

Romney retired, but not sidelined

By EDWARD K. MILLER

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — George W. Romney, retired auto executive and former Michigan governor, cabinet member and presidential hopeful, is busy these days working in the Mormon church, but he refuses to stand on the political sidelines.

"All the candidates have been here, they've asked for my support," the 72-year-old Republican said in a recent interview at his sprawling home in this posh

Detroit suburb.

The former chairman and president of American Motors Corp. and Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, says he supports George Bush for the GOP presidential nomination "because he has a broader background than the others. He's been in business, in government." Romney is honorary chairman of the Bush campaign.

He and Lenore, his wife of 48 years, greet visitors in his tiny den, which is lined with books on politics, volunteerism and automobiles; dozens of photographs and drawings of cars crowd for attention on the wall. The Bible rests on a table near his chair.

"Most of my time now is spent working for the church," said Romney, always an active Mormon and now a regional representative for the church, a job that takes him throughout Michigan and northern Ohio.

Romney delights in recalling how, two decades ago, he brought small cars before the American public and said they made sense.

"The Rambler was the first successful small car. It brought the company to a level of prosperity and changed the character of car use in this country," said.

Had the small car experiment failed, Romney said he was willing to take the blame for the demise of the company rather than seek government help.

Last month he told the Senate Banking Committee that government regulation of the auto industry should be relaxed, but that federal aid for another automaker, struggling Chrysler Corp., should not be granted. Even with aid, he said, the No. 3 automaker probably would not survive unless regulations were cut back.

It was one of his rare public appearances. Romney has not ruled out stepping from the shadows for Bush, his "longtime friend." A whistle-stop or two, maybe more. He isn't sure.

But the temptation may be great, for in his picture of Bush as a well-rounded man, perhaps, Romney sees a bit of himself.

"I've had the good fortune of having been involved in every basic sector of American life," he said of government service, the auto industry and "the voluntary sector. I'm now in the third sector of my life."

It was a cadre of volunteers led by Romney and his Citizens for Michigan that led to a new streamlined state constitution and, with his reputation at AMC, propelled him to the governorship in 1962.

Ten years ago, while at HUD, he formed the National Center for Voluntary Action, and remains chairman today. Recently renamed Volunteer: The National Center for Citizen Action, it is a clearinghouse for private aid agencies such as United Way.

Romney was a front-runner for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination. But his lead evaporated after he made a controversial statement that the Pentagon brass "brainwashed" him during a tour of Vietnam.

Promoter begins 'docudrama' on Chappaquiddick incident

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — An automobile accident which took the life of a young woman — an accident which has plagued Sen. Edward M. Kennedy ever since — is the subject of what promoter Glenn Stensel bills as an $800,000 "docudrama" entitled "Chappaquiddick."

The film, scheduled for release during the height of presidential campaigning next summer, concerns a 1969 accident in which Mary Jo Kopechne drowned when a car driven by the Massachusetts Democrat plunged from a bridge into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island.

Miss Kopechne had been a campaign worker for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

It would be Stensel's first movie — one of a new kind of Hollywood film, produced for less than $1.5 million intended for viewing at drive-ins and suburban theaters.

The actor-turned-producer said he began filming Oct. 1 at Chappaquiddick, off the Massachusetts coast. All the locations involved in the accident were filmed by a camera crew during five days of shooting.

Although Stensel said he wants to proceed "secretly, casually, quietly," with the project, he's been vocal in his public pronouncements, causing Hollywood speculation about his finances.

"I've got enough to start the picture," he insisted.

Goldschmidt approves funds for Chicago area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt, who recently threatened to cork the flow of federal dollars to Chicago, has approved $24.8 million for road-building in the six-county suburban area surrounding the city.

Still chilly to Mayor Jane M. Byrne over her support for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential bid, Goldschmidt refrained Tuesday from releasing money for projects within the city limits.

One reporter at Goldschmidt's news conference asked if the funds represented "an apology" to the mayor.

"Oh, no," Goldschmidt said. "I wouldn't want to characterize it that way."

But he told reporters, "The affairs of Chicago continue to get timely and expeditious treatment from the Department of Transportation."

The $24.8 million approved by Goldschmidt represents part of the state of Illinois' share of $450 million formerly earmarked for the north leg of the Cross-stown Expressway, a project abandoned in 1977.

A department spokesman said of the city's requests for its share: "The projects are still in the pipe."

Goldschmidt left some doubt about when they would get out of the pipe.

"I haven't changed my mind about dealing with the mayor," he said. "As a personal matter, I just don't want to deal with her."

Baker shifting campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard Baker is shifting his attention to eight states with early primary elections in an effort to improve his standing in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination, aides say.

Baker, the Senate's Republican leader, plans to spend all his time away from the Senate campaigning primarily in the Midwest and Northeast, campaign aides said Tuesday.

The Tennessee senator had planned to spend part of his time in the Senate as minority leader. That task will be filled by Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska.

Baker's campaign has been beset by organizational problems. Bernie Windom, the campaign's political director, resigned Monday.

Two weeks ago, Wyatt Stewart, former fundraiser for the Republican Congressional Committee, replaced Donald Sunquist as campaign manager. Since then, there have been a number of other staff changes.

In shifting his attention to the Northeast and Midwest, Baker will, for the most part, be leaving his native South to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and former Treasury Secretary John Connally.

Aides identified the eight states in which Baker will be seeking support as Iowa, Arkansas, Illinois, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut and Wisconsin. Puerto Rico also is on the list.

"We never said we would win all the early primaries," said campaign spokesman Tom Griscom.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

We are planning changes that will increase some rates to six countries and introduce a lower international dial rate to ten countries.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company (AT&T) has filed a new schedule of overseas rates with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) which accomplishes the introduction of international dialing to 10 additional countries. This brings the total of internationally dialable countries to 74. The scheduled changes include rate increases for 10 countries and selective rate increases to 6 of those countries for calls billed on the United States mainland, to bring the overseas rate structure more closely into line with the domestic structure. In addition, it will, be possible to dial Aruba, which already has rates at the International Dial rate level. These changes are scheduled to become effective on February 17, 1980.

Increases in day and Sunday three-minute rates for five countries.

American Samoa and Bolivia The Sunday three-minute Operator Station and Person rates will be increased from $6.50 and $9.00 to $8.00 and $12.00.

Indonesia The Sunday Person rate will be eliminated, and the day three-minute Person rate will be increased from $12.00 to $13.50.

Liberia The Sunday three-minute Operator Station rate will be increased from $6.75 to $9.00. The three-minute Person rate will be increased from $12.00 to $13.50 for the day rate period and from $9.00 to $13.50 for the Sunday rate period.

Paraguay The Sunday three-minute Person rate will be increased from $9.00 to $12.00.

Increases and decreases in the three-minute and additional minute rates to one country.

Panama The day three-minute Operator Station rates applicable to Rate Zones 1 and 2 will be decreased from $4.80 and $5.40 to $4.00 and $5.00. The day three-minute Operator Station rate for Rate Zone 3 remains unchanged. The rates for the evening rate period and the night, Saturday and Sunday rate periods will be increased as follows: for Rate Zone 1—from $3.60 and $2.70 to $4.00 for Rate Zone 2—from $4.05 and $3.00 to $5.00, and for Rate Zone 3—from $4.50 and $3.30 to $6.00. The additional minute rate for night, Saturday and Sunday Operator Station calls for Rate Zone 2 will be increased from $.85 to $1.00 and from $.95 to $1.20 for Rate Zone 3.

Collect Calls

Operator Station collect calls to the French Antilles and Guyana will be eliminated. Person collect calls will continue. These changes are in conformity with the prevailing overseas practices. All collect calls to Bolivia will be eliminated, because Bolivia has suspended collect calls to the United States.

International Dial rate

With the introduction of International Dial rates on February 17, 1980, customers can save approximately 10 to 44 percent as compared to the current lowest three-minute day call. The following table compares the lowest existing rates and the new International Dial rates.

	Operator Station		International Dial
	Initial Period	Additional Minute	Initial Period	Additional Minute
American Samoa	$8.00	$2.35	$6.00	$2.00
Bolivia	6.00	2.35	6.75	2.25
French Antilles	5.00	1.50	3.60	1.20
Rate Zone 1	6.00	1.80	4.35	1.45
Rate Zone 2	8.00	2.35	5.85	1.95
Rate Zone 3
Guyana	6.00	1.80	5.40	1.80
Rate Zone 1	8.00	2.35	6.75	2.25
Rate Zone 2	3.00	2.60	6.75	2.25
Liberia	9.00	2.60	7.35	2.45
New Caledonia	4.80	1.40	3.00	1.00
Panama	5.40	1.95	3.75	1.25
Rate Zone 1	6.00	1.75	4.50	1.50
Rate Zone 2	9.00	2.60	7.35	2.45
Rate Zone 3
Romania	12.00	3.40	7.25	2.45
Indonesia	12.00	3.40	6.75	2.25
Paraguay

It is important to note that customers calling from areas not presently equipped for international Dial will benefit from the lower dial rates even though the call would have to be completed by the operator. However, if the customer requests special operator assistance or special billing, the Operator Station rate would apply.

Kennedy charged with making political deal on death penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of capital punishment are charging that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy made a political deal with death penalty supporters to secure passage of a bill overhauling the federal criminal code.

A spokesman for Kennedy denies it.

The issue came up Tuesday after the Senate Judiciary Committee, of which Kennedy is the chairman, approved the criminal code and then adopted a separate measure instituting capital punishment for murder, treason, espionage and fatal airplane hijackings.

Although Kennedy voted against the death penalty measure, opponents of capital punishment said they were surprised that the issue was taken up at all.

"This really is going to cause the American Civil Liberties Union to mount a major campaign against the criminal code," said John Shattuck, director of the Washington office of the ACLU.

David Landau, an assistant to Shattuck, said,

"It was just a political deal that was cut by Sen. Kennedy to get the criminal code bill out of committee."

Ken Feinberg, Kennedy's chief assistant dealing with the criminal code, denied that there was any agreement to vote on the death penalty measure Tuesday in return for approval of the code bill.

Feinberg said Kennedy was simply honoring a public agreement made two years ago that there would be a committee vote on the death penalty issue before the code went to the floor. In return for that agreement, death penalty advocates agreed not to demand that capital punishment be part of the code itself.

Shattuck said the ACLU objects to many provisions of the proposed criminal code, including federal obscenity measures it says are too sweeping and proposed laws against obstructing government activities.

But he said the ACLU's main objection was the "last-minute" consideration of the death penalty bill "without any hearings and without any notice that it was coming up."

"The ACLU is now prepared to urge senators to vote against the criminal code and the death penalty bill," Shattuck said. "We will also oppose further action on the criminal code bill in the House of Representatives."

Although there are already federal laws calling for capital punishment, they do not comply with constitutional standards laid down in recent years by the Supreme Court.

The Senate panel approved the criminal code by a vote of 13-1 and the death penalty by a vote of 7-4.

Before approving the code, the committee agreed to retain, at least for the present, provisions that sharply reduce the penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., had sought to eliminate these provisions, arguing that new evidence indicated marijuana is dangerous to health.

Kennedy argued that

Police investigating reports of three thefts

Midland police on Tuesday were investigating three theft reports in which items valued at more than $500 were taken.

David Harris, 1113 E. Cowden Ave., reported the theft of two dogs valued at $300 from a storage shed at his residence.

Harris reported the theft at 8:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Margaret Green, 407 1/2 S. Lee St., reported the theft of six watches valued at $100.

She reported the theft at 7:02 p.m. Tuesday.

Police also were investigating the reported theft of a two-foot air impact wrench valued at $119.95 from Hargrove Automotive, 1600 W. Front Ave.

Education witnesses bring case for extended programs

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Four more education witnesses bring their case for extended bilingual programs to a Tyler courtroom today following contentions from a Dallas administrator that Hispanic youths are not receiving an adequate education.

The federal government is suing the state of Texas in an attempt to have bilingual education provided in grades kindergarten through 12.

Texas now requires instruction in Spanish for kindergarten through third grade if 20 more students in a particular grade speak a language other than English. Bilingual classes in fourth and fifth grades are not mandatory.

"The Texas Education Agency needs to commit itself to providing education for all students as stated in its goals," Angel Gonzales, director of bilingual education for the Dallas Independent School District, testified Tuesday.

The American GI Forum and the League United for Latin American Citizens have joined the federal government in the suit before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice.

Gonzales said the state board of education, TEA and its commissioner have failed to provide equal education for non-English-speaking students. They have also failed to provide the training and research needed to support sufficient bilingual programs, he said.

"The third grade is not a magic word in arguments that the state should provide such education in kindergarten to 12," he said. "If a child is blind, we do not wait until there are 20 blind children to provide education.

"We must do same for the child with a learning disability...lack of English," Gonzales said.

The superintendent of one of the most heavily Mexican-American school districts in the state Tuesday said 10,000 of the 18,000 students in his district are enrolled in a bilingual education program.

"There needs to be a real commitment by the legislature, the TEA (Texas Education Agency) and all levels to support bilingual education," said James Vasquez of the Edgewood Independent School District in San Antonio. "The money provided by the state is insufficient. The teachers are not equal and the materials are inadequate."

Noting the high dropout rate among Mexican-American students, Vasquez urged the state to extend its bilingual program past the third grade, but would not say how far past the third grade the program should go.

"Children learn at different rates," he said. "We cannot have false standards."

A third witness, Dr. Roger Shuy, a linguistics expert at Georgetown University, did not take the stand as scheduled. An attorney said he would not be called later.

Irene Torcerello of the University of Houston, Dr. James Lehman, superintendent of the Eagle Pass schools, Dr. John McFarland, dean of the education college at Texas Woman's University and Maria Montemayor, a Houston student were scheduled to testify today.

Midland's Junior Miller is All-America

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Junior Miller, the giant Nebraska tight end who was a former football and basketball star for Midland Lee, topped The Associated Press 1979 All-American football team.

Also named to the honor squad was a backfield that accounted for 8,677 yards and includes running backs Charles White and Billy Sims, the last two Heisman Trophy winners.

White, the latest in a long line of great Southern California tailbacks, led the nation in rushing and all-purpose rushing and wound up the regular season as the second leading ground-gainer in college football history. He was one of seven players named to the AP team for the second year in a row.

Joining White, the 1979 Heisman winner, on the All-America team for the second year in a row are Sims, the Oklahoma flash who won the 1978 Heisman and was runnerup to White this year, and center Jim Ritcher of North Carolina State, winner of the 1979 Outland Trophy as the nation's best interior lineman.

OTHER REPEATERS from the 1978 All-America team are defensive end Hugh Green of Pittsburgh and defensive backs Kenny Easley of UCLA and Johnnie Johnson of Texas. Oklahoma linebacker George Cumby, a first-team pick in 1977 who didn't make it last year, also became a two-time All-American. Joining White and Sims in the star-studded backfield are Marc Wilson, Brigham Young's record-setting quarterback, and George Rogers of South Carolina, the nation's No. 2 rusher behind White.

White, who missed one game and half of another with a shoulder injury, carried 293 times for 1,803 yards — his per-game average of 180.3 set a Pacific-10 Conference record — and scored 18 touchdowns.

Rogers rushed for 1,548 yards on 286 carries for a 140.7-yard average while Sims was fourth with 1,506 yards on 224 carries and led the nation in scoring with 22 touchdowns.

WILSON, ONE of a handful of collegians to pass for 7,000 yards in a career, completed 250 of 427 attempts for 3,720 yards and 29 touchdowns. He lost 140 yards rushing but still was the national total offense leader with 3,580 yards.

Miller is the tight end while Ken Margerum of Stanford is the wide receiver. The interior line consists of Ritcher, tackles Jim Bunch of Alabama and Greg Kolenda of Arkansas and guards Brad Budde of Southern Cal and Ken Fritz of Ohio State.

Margerum caught 41 passes — he missed one game — for 733 yards and 10 touchdowns, while Miller, an outstanding blocker, caught 21 passes for a whopping 409 yards and seven touchdowns in Nebraska's ground-oriented attack.

THE REST OF the defensive unit is composed of end Jacob Green of Texas A&M, tackles Steve McMichael of Texas and Jim Stuckey of Clemson, middle guard Ron Simpkins of Florida State, linebackers Ron Simpkins of Michigan and Mike Singletary of Baylor and back Mark Haynes of Colorado.

The elite squad consists of 16 seniors and six juniors — Hugh Green, Easley, Margerum, Rogers, Simpkins and Singletary.

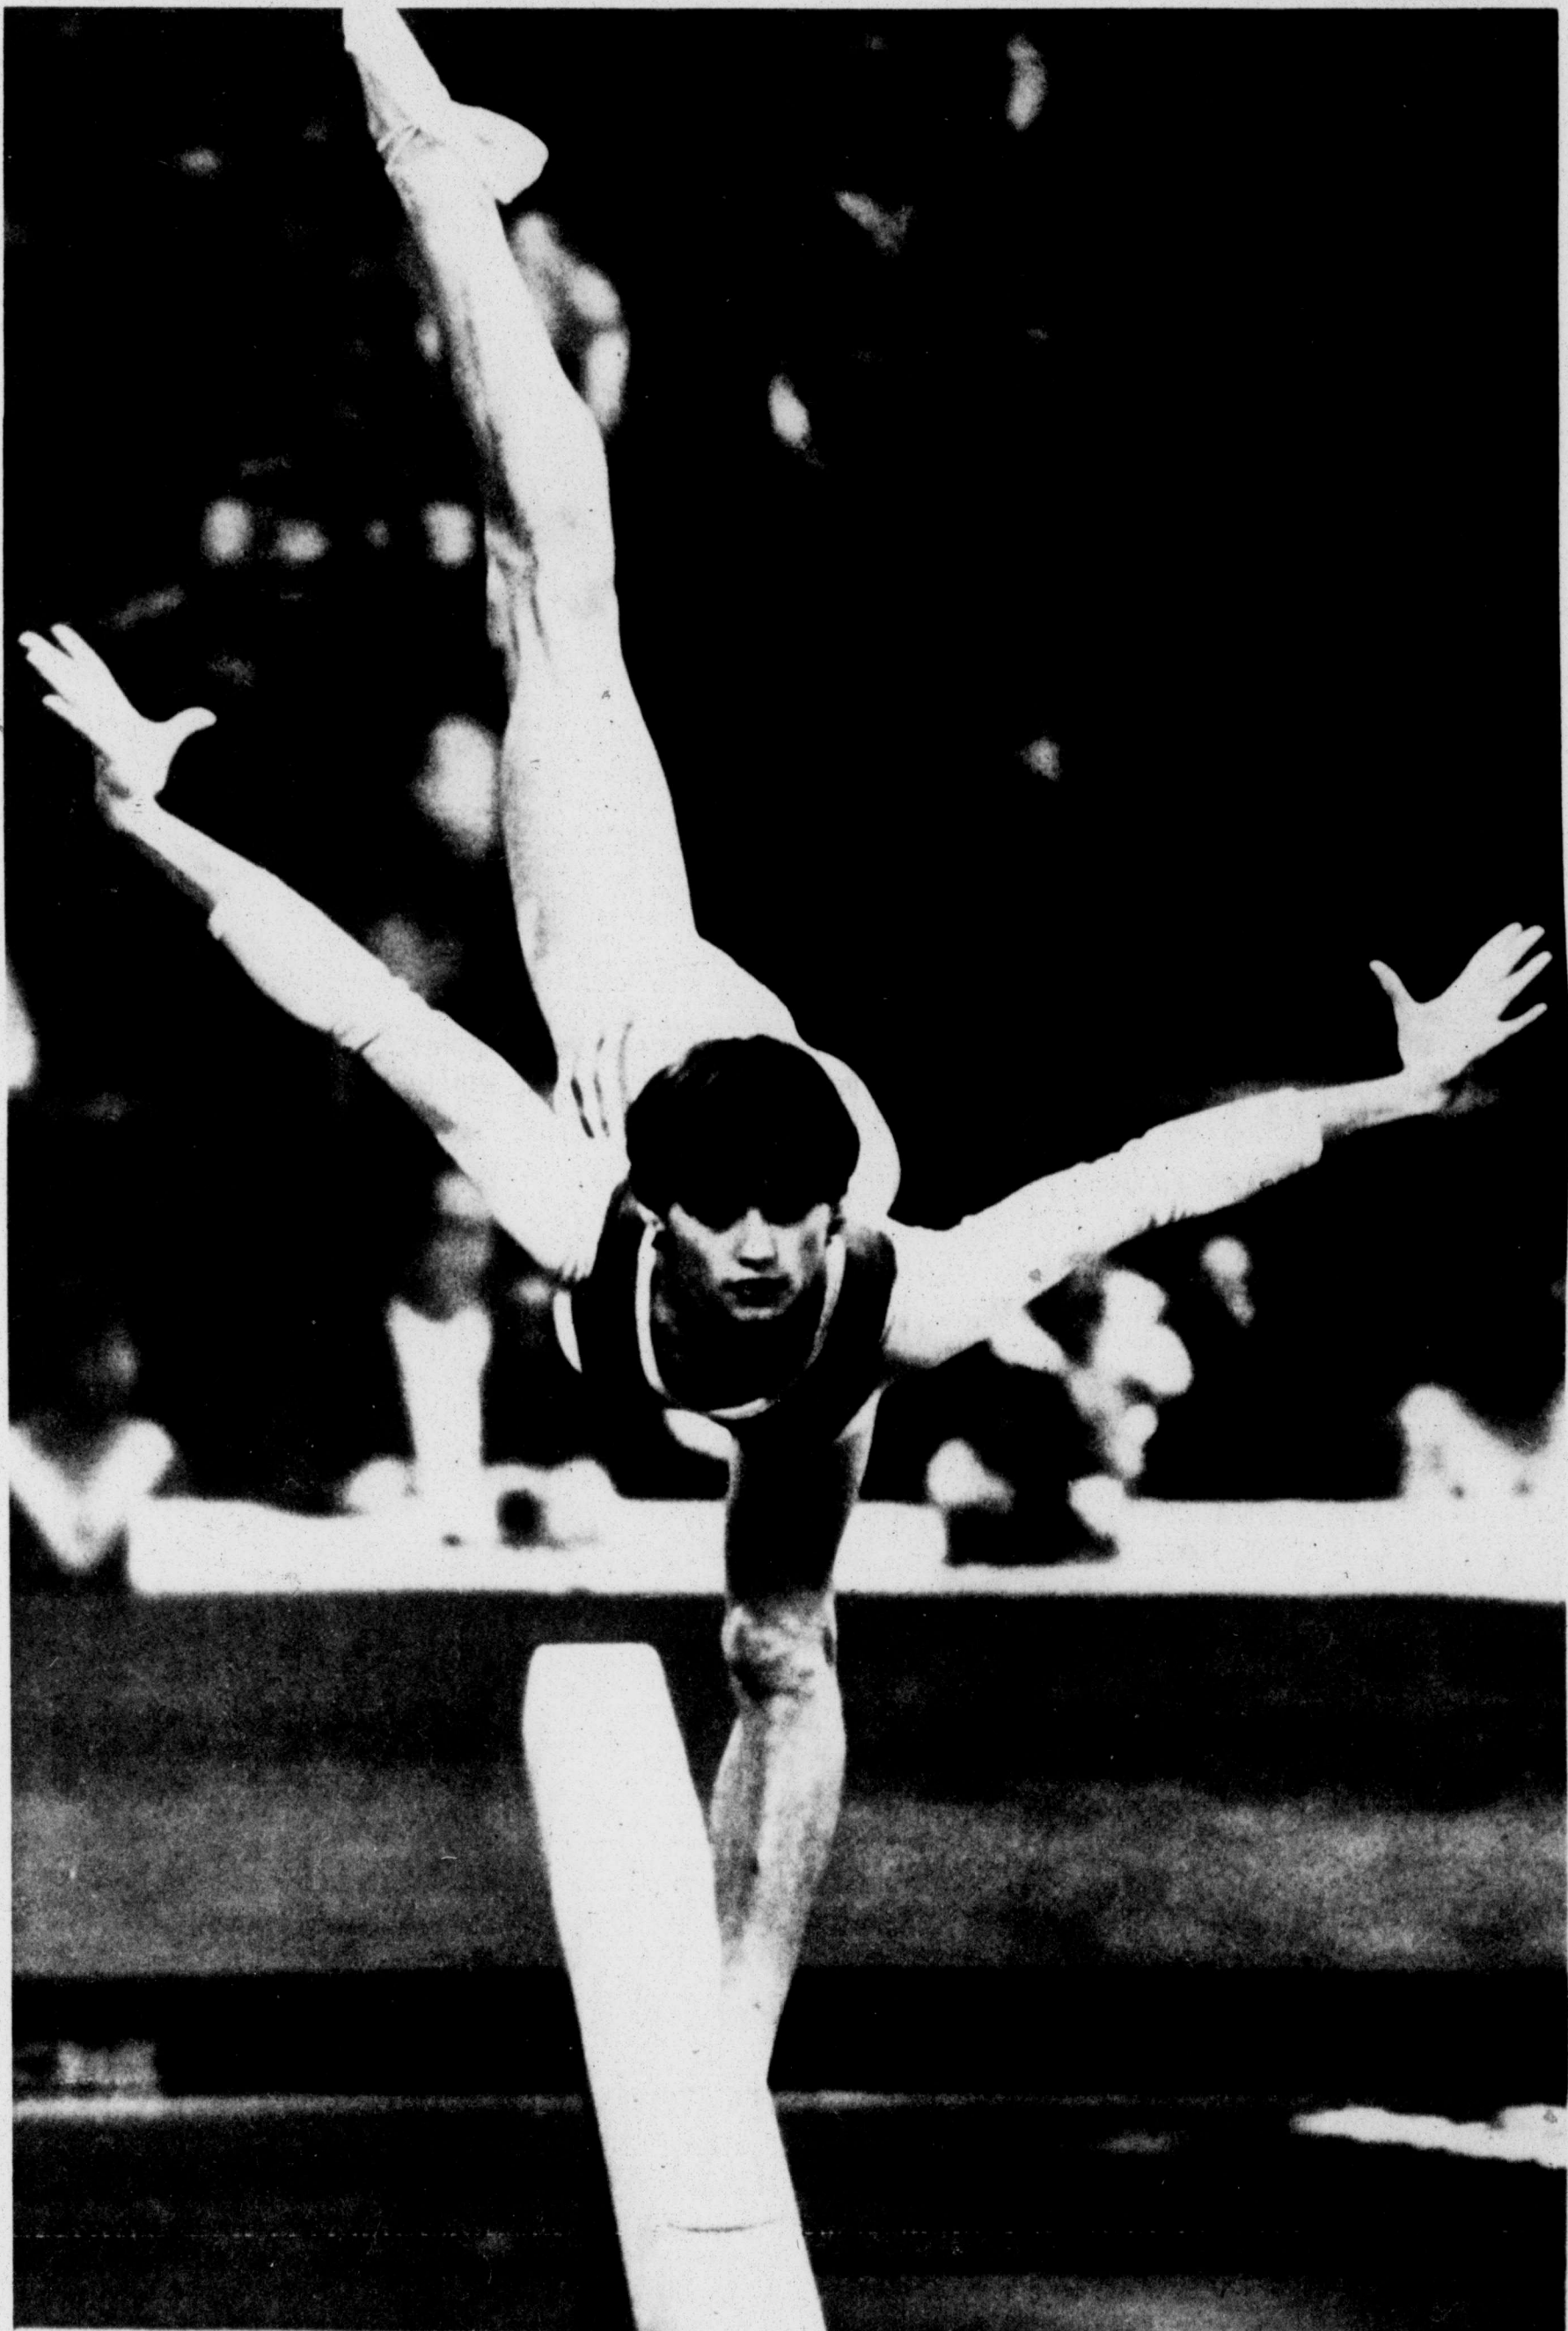

The AP All-America team will be featured on the Bob Hope Merry All Star Christmas Special on NBC-TV, Thursday, Dec. 13, from 9-10 p.m., EST.

Cowboys keeping eyes on East foes

IRVING — Some theorize that the reason the New York Giants were able to drive 79 yards in 18 plays for a touchdown while consuming 10 minutes and 16 seconds of the first quarter clock here Sunday was because the Dallas Cowboys were too busy looking for scores from two other NFL games that afternoon.

Of course, that's stretching it a bit, but it is no secret that the Cowboys were watching when the results of the Washington-Green Bay and Philadelphia-Detroit game came pouring into Texas Stadium. And there was a groan or two when they saw what they didn't want to see.

The Cowboys, naturally, were hoping for some help from Green Bay or

TERRY WILLIAMSON

Detroit. After all, Philadelphia, Dallas and Washington are banging heads to see who can come out with the NFC Eastern title, or at least a wild card berth for the playoffs. All three could be in the playoffs if the cards fall just right, but all three would like to skip the wild card tag.

Washington came from behind to defeat Green Bay while Philadelphia pulled a route over the Lions. That leaves the Eagles with a one-game lead over Dallas and Washington.

To keep things simple, Dallas can win the division title by winning the last their last two games against — who else — the Eagles and Redskins.

So right now, the Cowboys have their eyes on Philadelphia since they face the Eagles Saturday at 11 a.m. in Philly. The Eagles have already beaten Dallas once this year. It doesn't sound good for the home front, but the Pokes remain optimistic.

"We've talked a lot about winning our last three games, and one of them is now out of the way," Dallas wide receiver Drew Pearson said after the 28-7 win over the Giants Sunday. "But I'll tell you one thing, the Eagles caught our attention when they put on the scoreboard that they had scored 44 points. I think we may have to play the best game of the year to beat them. They are a very emotional team and they are playing super right now. I think a lot of credit has to go to Coach (Dick) Vermeil. Philadelphia has never played before like they have this year."

Quarterback Roger Staubach sees the game with the Eagles much the same as Pearson. "It's really tough to have a must win situation against a team that is playing as well as the Eagles are right now," the Dodger said while combing on the hair that is showing a little more gray these days. "But we need the win, and we really can't concern ourselves with how Philadelphia is playing. We have to win. It's really pretty simple, but it hurts to think about it sometimes."

The real zinger, however, was saved for coach Tom Landry. One reporter went right to the heart and asked, "If the Cowboys play as well as they did today (against New York), will that be enough to beat Philly?"

Landry replied, "I don't know. If you could tell me how well Philadelphia is going to play Saturday, then I could answer your question."

Landry immediately went on, however. "It sure has all the makings of a championship game, and I think everyone wants to be in the position to play in a championship game. At this stage of the game, we need every game. If you don't, you will stay home Christmas while the others are in the playoffs."

"The tables started to turn started to turn at the Thanksgiving game (a loss to Houston in which Landry thought the Cowboys played well), and now we are back on even keel."

Dallas vs. Philadelphia will be the continuing weekly saga of "As the NFL Turns."

Wood, Tennessee join forces to stop St. John's in big-time cage clash

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

St. John's, with victories over defending national champion Michigan State and Oral Roberts, took its No. 9 ranking to Tennessee and ran smack into Howard Wood.

"Tennessee is as good as they say, and tonight they were super," St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca said after the Volunteers crushed his Redmen 97-80 Tuesday night in the only college basketball contest involving a member of The Associated Press' Top Ten.

"They completely dominated the boards, the ball and the game," Wood, a 6-foot-7 reserve center, came off the bench to score a game-high 25 points, including 18 in the second half.

The Vols jumped out to a 14-4 lead before St. John's got its first field goal, finally narrowing the gap to 47-38 at the half. Early in the second period, St. John's closed to within seven points three times before Wood led a 14-point Tennessee rally.

"We made a little run at them, but after that they were completely in charge," Carnesecca said.

Politics overshadows performances in meet

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — You can't make it to the top ten in the 20th World Gymnastics Championships unless you can debate as good as you can run and jump.

That is unless you are the new kid on the world stage of sport like China.

Protests were lodged late into the night Tuesday by such teams as Russia, America, East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Romania.

The general consensus was that the judges were awful. There were a flurry of huddles and some scores were changed, none drastically. No team took a walk like Romania did in these championships in 1977.

Through it all the Chinese women's teams captured the hearts of the fans with their bright smiles and waves. When tiny Yanhong Ma hit a near-perfect 9.95 in the uneven bars, the crowd in Tarrant County Convention Center rose in a standing ovation.

The Chinese, making their first appearance in these championships since 1962, seemed just proud to be here and finished sixth after the compulsory events behind Russia, Romania, East Germany, the U.S., and Czechoslovakia.

Romania's Nadia Comaneci, who won three gold medals at the 1976 Olympics in Montreal when she was 14, showed exceptional power and grace Tuesday as an older and wiser performer.

She only made one mistake — in the floor exercise — and finished with a 39.500 point total to take the lead over Russia's Nelli Kim, who was 39.300. America's best was Leslie Pyfer way back in 11th place with 38.750.

Russia took the lead in the team race by the narrowest of margins over the Romanians, 194.925 to 194.250. The Soviets have dominated the team competition for decades but were in a fight when the competition reached the optionals Thursday night.

Men's optional competition was to run late tonight with Americans Bart Conner and Kurt Thomas chasing Russian Alexander Ditiatin.

Russian, Japan and the U.S. were running 1-2-3 going into tonight's optionals which, added with the results from Monday's compulsories, will determine the team medal winners.

To USC's White, Heisman means many things

By RICHARD HOFFER

(c) 1979, The Los Angeles Times
LOS ANGELES — USC tailback Charles White has come a long way since he first stepped on campus four years ago. He's come (and gone) 5,598 yards by one measure of reckoning, miles by others.

The same athlete who once pointed to the glassed-in Heisman Trophy in Heritage Hall on the USC campus, and promised to win "two or three of those," has matured into a team player, one who would rather credit the offensive linemen in postgame interviews than talk of his own achievements.

White, now a senior and finally the Heisman winner he dreamed he'd be, acknowledged feelings of both personal pride and team achievement Monday after it was announced that he had easily outdistanced last year's winner, Billy Sims of Oklahoma, in the Heisman voting.

"I'll always treasure this as a team accomplishment," White said. "But I'm putting it in my house."

AND THAT IS where it belongs. Although White couldn't have done it without his line and couldn't have achieved such prominence outside of the "USC environment" (coach John Robinson's term for USC's tailback oriented offense), it is also clear that White's individual achievements have been immense this season.

He gained a nation-high 1,803 yards in 293 carries for 18 touchdowns. He averaged more than 180 yards rushing a game, almost 40 yards more than the No. 2 rusher. What's more, he's gathered those numbers despite missing a game and a half due to injury, and long periods of two other games because of ruts.

When White gained 194 yards in 35 carries to help beat UCLA two-weeks ago and to help the Trojans to another Rose Bowl berth (their third in four years) his claim to the Heisman — "I feel I deserve it" — no longer seemed brash but realistic.

ANYWAY, his self-confidence was largely confirmed by 1,050 writers from six geographical regions. White received 453 first place votes and 1,695 total points. Sims, who won it as a junior last year and was bidding to become only the second football player to win two (Archie Griffin won it in 1974 and 1975), finished a distant second with 82 first place votes and 773 points.

"I really felt Billy showed a strong comeback, especially in the Nebraska game," said White, who became the seventh straight running back to receive the honor.

"I watched the Nebraska game (in which Sims gained 247 yards) on television before we played UCLA and all I thought was, 'Billy Sims.'" Despite Sims' big finish (he gained 282 yards against Missouri the week before, the Sooners fell to 1,506 yards rushing this season after leading the nation last year. But his career average of 7.09 yards per carry is a record for backs with at least 500 rushing attempts.

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer said, "I am disappointed that Billy did not receive the Heisman Trophy. This does not change in any way my opinion that Billy Sims is the finest football player in America."

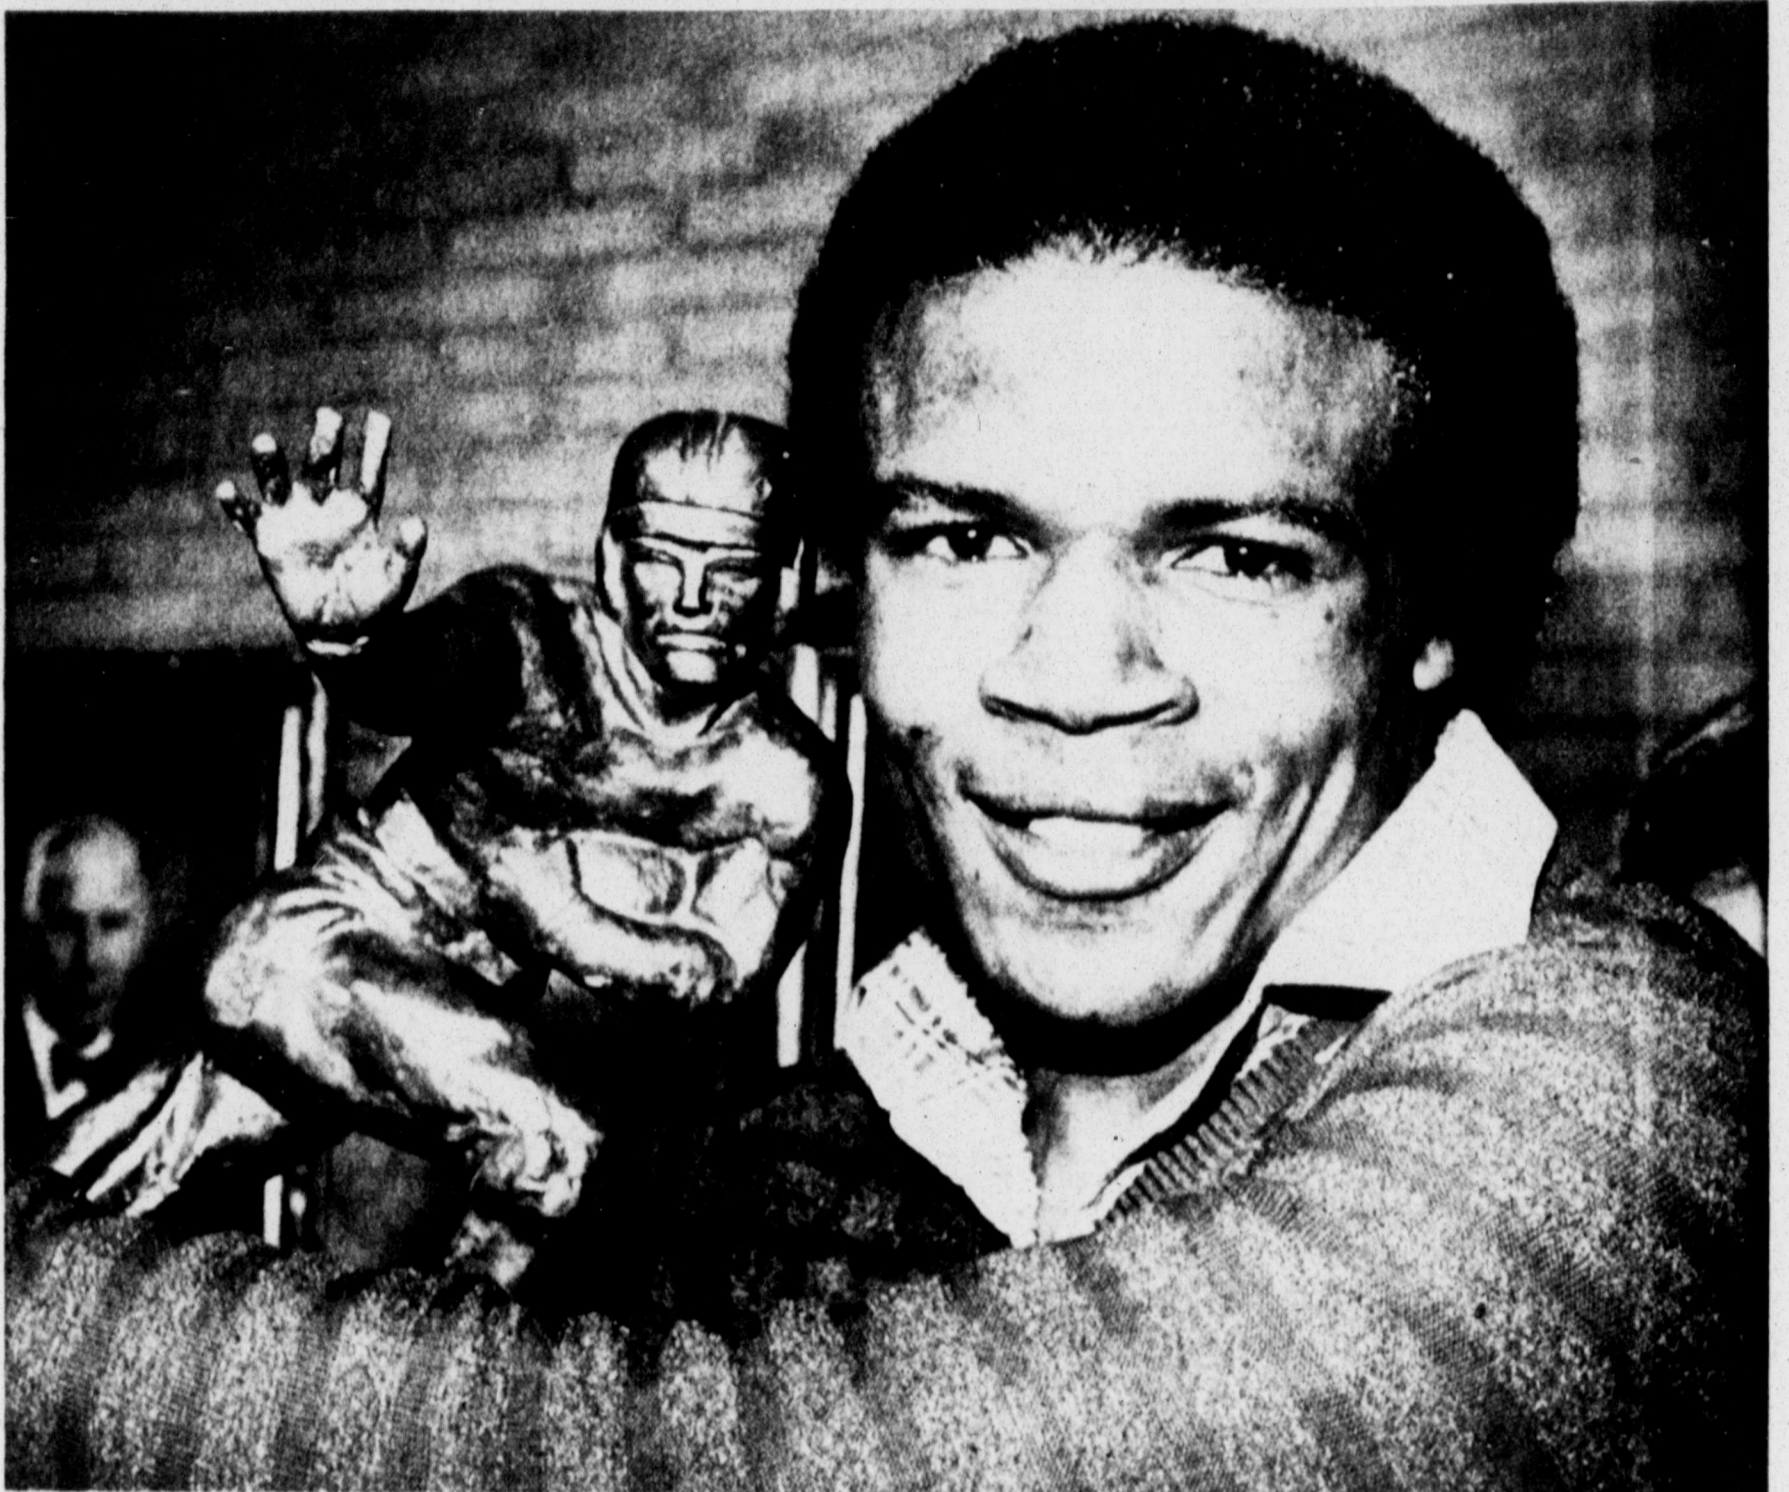

SWITZER'S contention pales in comparison to Robinson's. Robinson, who came to USC as head coach the same year White emerged as "the recruit," once called his 185-pound workhorse, "the greatest football player in the world."

Robinson was no less effusive Monday. "You don't get involved with greatness that many times," Robinson said. "That's what this means to me, just to be involved with greatness."

Robinson again praised White's competitiveness, noting that the former Los Angeles Tri-City Player of the Year played as hard in practice as in games, and as hard without the ball as with it. "It's phenomenal to me how hard he plays," Robinson said. "He's a maniac. To see how durable and competitive he is, just check his fourth-quarter stats."

SEVERAL times during the season, White exploded for more than 100 yards in the final quarter.

Another measure of White's competitiveness was his ability to have big days in important games. He rushed for 261, scoring four touchdowns against Notre Dame, he rushed for 198 yards in a close game at Cal, and for 243 against Washington, in

Turner blazes in Texas win

BOSTON (AP) — Freshman guard George Turner scored 25 points and Ron Baxter added 19 as the University of Texas basketball team rallied to beat sharp-shooting Harvard 85-73 Tuesday night at Boston Garden.

In the first game of the double-header, John Bagley scored 16 points and fellow guard Dwan Chandler added 14 as the unbeaten Boston College basketball team routed Fairfield 77-53 for its third victory of the year. Center Joe Beaulieu also scored 14 for the winners.

The Crimson shot 71 percent from the floor in the first half, holding the defending Southwest Conference champion to a 42-42 halftime tie.

Lee girls defeat Maidens

Jackie Ratliff hit a pair of free throws with seven seconds left Tuesday night to help seal a 54-51 victory for the Midland Lee Rebels over the San Angelo Lake View Maidens in a girls basketball game in the Chaparral Center on the Midland College campus.

It was a come-from-behind win for the Lee girls who trailed 11-7 at the end of the first period, led at halftime, 24-22 and 40-38 going into the final period when the Rebels outscored their visitors 14-13 to post the victory.

Lesha Watkins and Judy Taylor led the way for Lee with 15 and 12 points while Lynda Rogers and Cindy Goltz were the big guns for the Maidens with 20 and 16 points respectively.

No. 1 Buckeyes are underdogs

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Ohio State, which jumped into the No. 1 spot in the AP college football poll this week, is the underdog New Year's Day in the Rose Bowl, according to odds released Tuesday by Harrah's Race & Sports Book.

Third-ranked Southern California is a 7½-point pick over the Buckeyes. Meanwhile, No. 2 rated Alabama is a 6½-point choice to dump No. 6 Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

Harrah's picks No. 5 Oklahoma to smash No. 4 Florida State by 8 points in the Orange Bowl, No. 7 Nebraska is a 3-point choice over eighth-ranked Houston in the Cotton Bowl and undefeated Brigham Young's strong air attack is expected to prevail over Indiana by 7½ points in the Holiday Bowl Dec. 21.

Also, No. 11 Texas by 7 over No. 13 Washington in the Sun Bowl Dec. 22, Penn State by 3 over 15th ranked Tulane in the Dec. 22 Liberty Bowl, LSU by 7 over Wake Forest in the Tangerine Bowl Dec. 22, Missouri by 2½ over No. 16 South Carolina in the Dec. 29 Hall of Fame Bowl, No. 18 Clemson by 4 over No. 19 Baylor in the Peach Bowl Dec. 31, and No. 12 Purdue by 6½ over Tennessee in the Blue Bonnet Bowl Dec. 31.

In the National Football League this weekend, the oddsmakers predict Dallas will dump Philadelphia by 3½, creating a three-way tie for first place in the National Conference East. The third team involved, Washington, is a 6-point choice over Cincinnati.

In other games, Denver is picked by 3 over Seattle, Chicago by 4 over Green Bay, St. Louis 3 over the New York Giants, Miami 7 over Detroit, Los Angeles 3 over Atlanta, Minnesota 2½ over Buffalo, Baltimore 2 over Kansas City, San Diego 3 over New Orleans, Oakland 2½ over Cleveland, Tampa Bay 3½ over San Francisco, New England 3 over the New York Jets and Pittsburgh by 3½ over Houston.

A total of 29 fouls were called against Lee compared to 15 for Lake View and Lee lost the services of Tanna Parrish and Watkins with five fouls in the final period. Parrish left the game with her fifth foul with 7:25 remaining in the game and Watkins picked up her fifth one with 2:54 remaining.

Lee used the fast break to great advantage midway in the final eight minutes with Taylor hitting three baskets, mainly on feeds from Watkins.

Free throw shooting kept the Maidens in the ragged contest as they hit 17 of 30 charity tosses.

With the victory Lee is now 6-3 going into Friday and Saturday's Tall City Girls Basketball Tournament in the Lee Gymnasium. Lee drew a first round bye and will not play until 7:30 p.m. Friday against Amarillo High.

Lake View is now 5-3 on the year with the loss. The Maidens won their preliminary junior varsity game, 43-42 with a shot at the buzzer the difference. Besides Lee and Amarillo, other teams in the Tall City Tourney this weekend include Midland High, Lubbock Estacado, San Angelo Central, Borger, Midland Christian, Lubbock Coronado and both the what was originally the Rose Bowl showdown.

Of course, it's hard to define a big day for White. He averaged 196 yards his last nine games and an incredible 214 his last six. College football's No. 2 career rusher (with 5,598 yards, second to Tony Dorsett's record of 6,082 yards set at Pitt). White was considered to have an off day if he carried fewer than 40 times for fewer than 200 yards.

White, who was heralded on the USC media guide cover as a Heisman Trophy candidate, seemingly fell out of the running when he bruised his shoulder in the second quarter of the season opener, at Texas Tech. He gained just 39 yards that night and did not play in the team's second game at Oregon State. And in two of the next three games, he was yanked early when it appeared that USC would win big.

But he came back in midseason, gaining fewer than 194 yards only once.

White, in looking back on his career at USC, conceded that he might have come in a bit too cocky. But he said that he was a fast learner. "I'll never forget that first practice," he said, describing the one-on-one drill that is reserved for all so-called hotshots.

"Gary Jeter welcomed me, I'll never forget it. After that, I didn't want any part of the Heisman."

He got one all the same. Maybe not as many as he thought he wanted, but certainly as many as he needs.

Bulldogs, Rebels grab 5-4A volleyball honors

BIG SPRING — Midland Lee and Midland High each placed one player on the 1979 District 5-4A All-District volleyball team, which was picked here by the league coaches.

Midland High's Jan Smith and Lee's Lori Breeding received berths on the 12-girl team. Miss Smith is a junior, but will be moving from Midland soon.

Miss Breeding is a senior. Jan played for MHS coach Jo Ann Martin while Breeding was a member of Lee coach Linda Weikel's team.

San Angelo dominated the elite selections with four players receiving honors, including Pam Snyder, who was named as the Most Valuable Player in District 5-4A.

NEW YORK (AP) — The manager of middleweight fighter Willie Classen says he considered stopping the tragic bout in the fourth round but was discouraged by one of his cornermen and therefore allowed the fight to continue until the fatal 10th round.

"I just didn't like the way he was missing in the fourth round," Marco Minuto said Tuesday in a hearing before the State Senate Committee on Investigations Taxation and Government Operations. "I said to Mike, 'Give me a razor, I'm going to cut off his gloves.'" But Mike (Capriano) said, "Don't worry about him. The kid's a beast. He can stand up with anyone."

Minuto, 30, was the lead witness at the hearing which was called to probe the state's system of licensing boxers, managers and ring officials and to investigate the death of Classen, 28, who died five days after fighting Wilford Scypion in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum on Nov. 23. Minuto testified for two hours.

Minuto also testified that a month and a half before he died, Classen ignored a doctor's order to seek treatment for double vision.

Classen never again complained of the double vision, Minuto said.

Jones gets kick-boxer

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboy defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones, who has been unimpressive in compiling a 3-0 professional boxing record, will meet kick-boxing expert Jim Wallace of Tucson, Ariz., Friday night Dec. 14, in Memorial Auditorium here.

The 6-4, 250-pound Wallace is the reigning All-American Martial Arts champion.

Wallace had a 10-1 record as an amateur boxer, and is 5-2 with five kayoes as a heavyweight in the pro ranks.

The bout is scheduled for six rounds.

Alabama fans up in arms over poll

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a new experience for some of those answering the telephones — their first obscene calls. No heavy breathing, but a lot of language that many Marine drill sergeants would have envied.

Not all the irate calls to the Associated Press Tuesday night included a blue vocabulary, but the sentiments were the same. "Alabama was 'jobbed' in your poll," was a typical sentiment of the more than two dozen callers.

They were upset that Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide was dropped out of first place in the final regular season rankings and replaced by Ohio State.

IT WAS explained to each caller that: "We just counted the ballots. The voting was done by a panel of 67 sports writers and broadcasters all over the country."

"Well, I ain't gonna call them," said the gravel voice with a drawl of the deep South. "But, you can tell them all for me."

The man suddenly must have thought better of the advice he was about to impart, and added: "I put them that left off Alabama in the same boat with that Ayatollah fella."

His reference apparently was to the eight voters who left Alabama out of the top three.

NOT ALL THE callers were from Alabama or the South.

Bob Thurston, a Northern Arizona student from Flagstaff, Ariz., said: "Alabama would wipe the field with Ohio State." Thurston, though, said in his heart he felt Southern Cal, No. 3, should be No. 1, but still felt, "Alabama was treated unfairly."

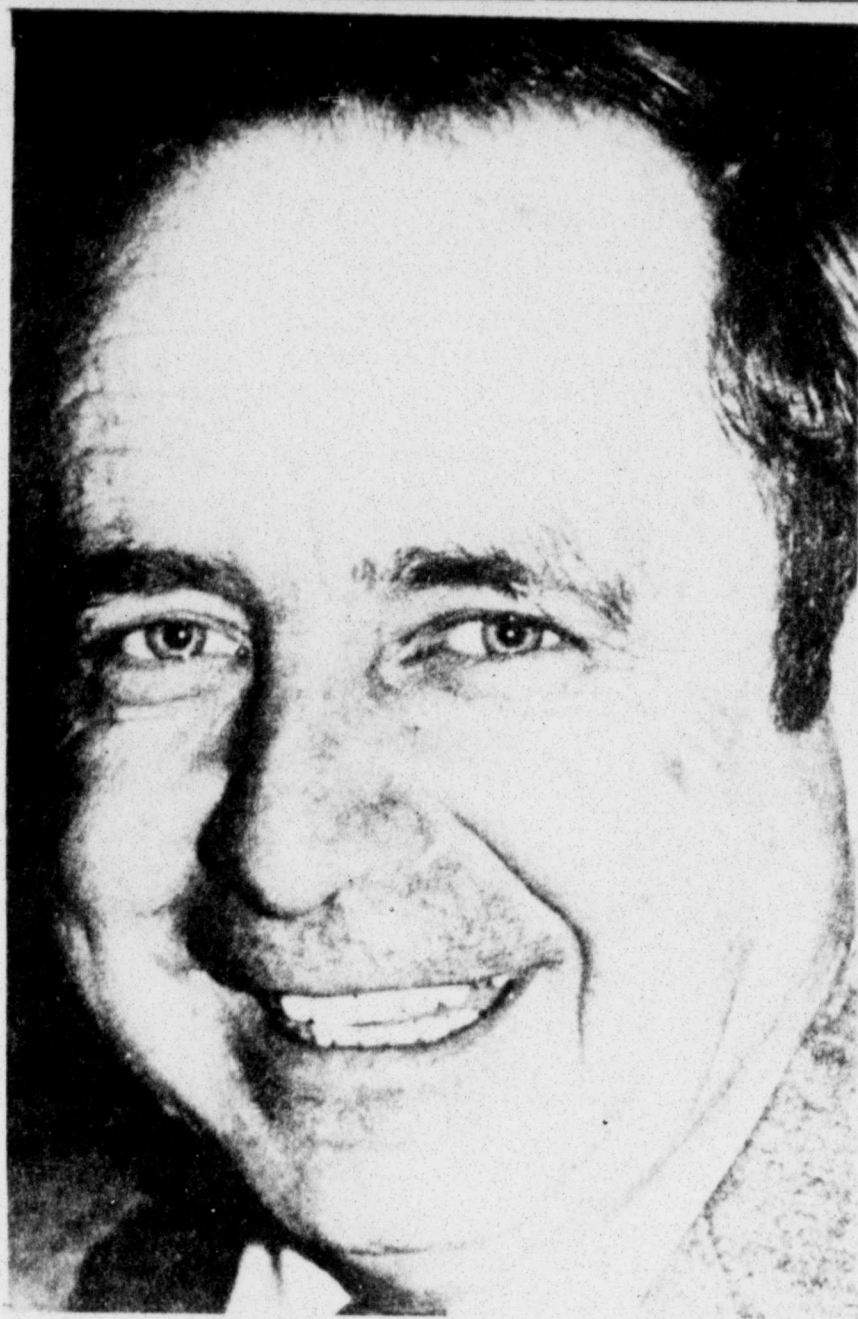

Bill Harper of Montgomery, Ala., said he had placed the long distance call just to get it off his chest. "It's another reason why there should be a playoff to determine the champion," he said.

One caller demanded a recount. When told the ballots had been double and triple checked, he insisted: "I'll post a financial bond to get another count."

BRYANT DID NOT call. He said, though, he was not upset at the outcome. "It's not going to change our game plan for the Sugar Bowl."

Alabama (11-0) will play sixth-ranked Arkansas (10-1) in New Orleans, and Ohio State (11-0) will meet third-ranked Southern Cal (10-0-1) in the Rose Bowl.

A final poll deciding the national championship will be taken after the bowl games on New Year's Day.

Why is this man smiling? Because he's Earle Bruce, the Ohio State coach whose Buckeyes surpassed Alabama for the No. 1 spot in the final Associated Press football poll. Many Alabama fans were disappointed with the vote and openly expressed their feelings on the subject. (AP Laserphoto)

Auerbach reconsiders three-point play stand

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Red Auerbach was one of the more outspoken opponents of the three-point field goal rule when it was proposed last summer, but the president of the Boston Celtics may be having second thoughts.

A trio of three-pointers, two by M.L. Carr and one by Chris Ford, helped the Celtics edge the Detroit Pistons 118-114 in overtime Tuesday night in the National Basketball Association.

Cleveland led by 15 points at half-time and maintained that margin going into the final period but could not hang on down the stretch. Carr hit from three-point range with 31 seconds left to bring the Celtics close, then connected again from deep in the left corner at the buzzer to tie the score at 104.

"When the last play started, I saw there were eight seconds left on the clock," Carr said. "I just hurried to the three-point line and hit it. How sweet it was."

The Celtics fell behind again in the five-minute overtime until guard Chris Ford connected on a three-point field goal with 18 seconds left, putting Boston ahead to stay 116-114.

"We were horrible for the first 36 minutes," said Ford. "Then we played great in the last quarter and in overtime. We won't be able to live like that."

"I was out of my mind at half-time," said Celtics Coach Bill Fitch. "I was speechless. We ran plays that I've never seen before."

Carr led the Celtics with 22 points, while Detroit's John Long took game honors with 32.

In other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers edged the San Diego Clippers 115-112, the New York Knicks topped the Phoenix Suns 118-114 and the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the San Antonio Spurs 127-121.

Boston's victory raised its record to 19-5, tops in the NBA.

Bob McAdoo added 29 points for the Pistons and Bob Lanier hit for 23 to replace Dave Bing as Detroit's all-time leading scorer with 15,238 points in his NBA career.

The loss spoiled a big day for Richie Adubato, who was told before the game that he would be coaching the Pistons for the rest of the season. Adubato has been interim head coach since Dick Vitale was fired last month.

"This is the most heart-breaking defeat I've ever experienced," Adubato said. "It's tough to accept. They made three three-point goals in a row to beat us and that's about a 20 percent shot."

Cavs 115, Clippers 112

Mike Mitchell scored half of his 24 points in the fourth quarter, including a jumper with 1:27 to play that put the Cavaliers ahead to stay. Cleveland, playing at home, was 19-for-24 from the foul line compared to 3-for-7 for the Clippers.

"We didn't get to the foul line at all," complained San Diego Coach Gene Shue. "That's what lost it for us."

Did he blame the referees? "You know I'm not going to say that," he responded. "I've been around for 80 years."

Knicks 118, Suns 114

Bill Cartwright, New York's 7-foot-1 rookie center, capitalized on the absence of Phoenix pivotman Alvan Adams due to a bruised foot and scored a career-high 36 points and grabbed 13 rebounds as the Knicks beat the Suns. Guard Michael Ray Richardson added 28 points, also a career high, and had 12 assists, nine rebounds and three steals.

Neither team ever led by more than seven points and the lead changed hands 20 times before Richardson put the Knicks ahead to stay 107-105 with a 12-foot jumper with 3:15 to play.

Veteran guard Earl Monroe, who came off New York's injured list Tuesday, shot 1-for-8 for two points in his season debut.

Paul Westphal led the Suns with 35 points, shooting 16-for-25.

Lakers 127, Spurs 121

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 29 points and Norm Nixon had 27 as Los Angeles beat San Antonio. The Lakers led most of the way but needed three free throws by Nixon and two by Abdul-Jabbar in the final 27 seconds to turn back a Spurs rally.

San Antonio's two-time scoring champion, George Gervin, sat out the game because of a bad back. Larry Kenon topped the Spurs with 36 points and 17 rebounds.

Top runners win honors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles White of Southern California and Billy Sims of Oklahoma, the past two Heisman Trophy winners, will be honored Friday night at the 42nd annual football awards dinner of the Pigskin Club.

White and Sims, members of the Associated Press All-America team, will be honored as co-outstanding offensive players of the year.

Tackle Bruce Clark of Penn State will be honored as defensive lineman of the year and running back Perry Harrington of Jackson State will be honored for what was described as "outstanding leadership and achievement on the football field."

Phil Murphy of South Carolina State and LaRue Harrington of Norfolk State were honored as players of the year in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference and the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association, respectively.

Coaches to be honored are John Robinson of Southern California in the National Collegiate Athletic Association, Willard Bailey of Virginia Union in the CIAA and Clarence Thomas of Morgan State in the MEAC.

Perry Bolger, Johnson spark Bulldog triumph

LEVELLAND — The Midland Bulldogs, behind the hot shooting of Perry Bolger and Herbert Johnson, took a 64-58 victory over the Class AAA Levelland Lobos here Tuesday night in a non-district basketball game.

Bolger ripped the cords for 28 points and Johnson added 17 more as Coach Jack Stephenson's Purple Pack chalked up their ninth victory in 11 outings.

Big gun for Levelland Jerry Birdsong with 20 points.

Midland took a 22-11 first period lead, but the Lobos battled back, especially in the second half to outscore the Bulldogs, 33-25 to make it interesting.

Bolger hit 10 field goals and eight free throws while Anthony Carroll was also in the double figures with 12 points for the Pack which plays Lubbock Dunbar in the Chaparral Center at Midland College Friday night.

Midland's junior varsity remained unbeaten in seven games with a 76-66 victory over the Levelland JV. Don Sharnowski scored 16 points followed by Wade Johnson's 15 points and Kevin Griffin added 12 more to the attack for Coach Eddie Shirley's outfit.

The Midland sophomores made it a clean sweep for the evening, taking a 74-63 victory over the Levelland sophs with Jim Gunnels and Scott Louderback scoring 18 points each for the winners. Bobby Gotovac added 15 and James Johnson 13 more.

MIDLAND (64) — Hickey 1-0; Johnson 8-17; Matlock 2-0; Bolger 10-28; Brown 0-1; Carroll 5-12; Totals: 28-144.

Lobo officials fear widespread scandal

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — University of New Mexico officials fear there may be more than one ineligible player on their basketball team, says a university official.

"We strongly suspect there are several players who are ineligible to play," said Tony Hillerman, assistant to university President William E. Davis.

UNM officials initiated an internal probe last week after the FBI revealed it was conducting an investigation into possible transcript-fixing involving a junior college transfer.

Revelation of the federal investigation led to the indefinite suspensions of head basketball Coach Norm Ellenberger and his chief recruiting assistant, Manny Goldstein.

An affidavit filed last week in federal court by the FBI said that the case involved Lobo player Craig Gilbert. UNM officials have ruled him ineligible because he is lacking credits. Gilbert was a transfer from a California junior college.

The affidavit contained comments from a tape-recorded telephone conversation between Goldstein and Ellenberger. The conversation, recorded by police, included statements by Goldstein to Ellenberger that Goldstein had arranged to provide Gilbert with an associate of arts degree from Oxnard Junior College.

The Albuquerque Journal, however, said in today's editions that it had learned from a high-ranking UNM source the names of two players who may be ineligible. The Journal said the unnamed source identified the two as Larry Hubbard and Larry Tarrance.

Tarrance has not played in New Mexico's first two games. Hubbard did not play in the Lobos' loss at Colorado Saturday night, but played in Tuesday night's 112-110 victory over West Texas State.

In an additional development Tuesday, a Lobo booster said he had a copy of a junior-college embossed seal made for Goldstein.

Bill Blackstad, a member of the Lobo Club and owner of Gordon Printing Co., said Goldstein asked him about a year ago to make a Mercer County Community College seal. Blackstad said he ordered the seal struck at The Valliant Co.

In the affidavit, the FBI said it intercepted an envelope in the Los Angeles mail addressed to Oxnard College that contained a Mercer transcript in Gilbert's name embossed with the Mercer seal.

The alleged transcript gave Gilbert credit for work at Mercer, although the FBI said it had found "no indication" Gilbert ever attended the Trenton, N.J., school.

Vermeil respects Dallas Cowboys

By TOM DeCOLA Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — There won't be any spicy quotes from them opposition on locker room walls at Philadelphia or Dallas this week as the teams prepare to do battle Saturday for the National Football Conference Eastern Division top spot.

To hear Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil tell it, his charges are okay, but they're not in the Cowboys' class: "I don't think we're that good a football team. I still think they're (Dallas) the best team in the NFC."

LANDRY ON THE Eagles: "They (the Eagles) do everything well."

One thing the Cowboys don't do well is leap into the air in jubilation after a touchdown.

Wide receiver Drew Pearson tried in Sunday's 28-7 victory over New York. He leaped. He hurled the ball into the stands, ignoring the $100 fine attached to such largesse. He flopped to the ground with a hurt knee and is questionable for the key matchup against the Eagles.

"His knee is pretty bad," Landry said Monday. "You never know when they start running, whether fluid will develop. Right now, he's questionable."

"What can I say?" Landry asked. "He's already said it. He doesn't want to spike the ball anymore."

Pearson already has notched 1,006 yards and lately has been the Cowboys sparkplug. In Dallas' 28-7 victory over the Giants Sunday, he caught three touchdown passes.

LANDRY SAID Butch Johnson would start in Pearson's place if the latter can't play.

Dallas trails Philadelphia by a game going into Saturday's matchup.

The Eagles have clinched at least a wild-card playoff berth, but the Cowboys can still win the division by beating the Eagles and Washington.

Downhill skiing begins

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — Marie-Therese Nadig, Switzerland's former double Olympic gold medalist dominated the world elite in the season's first World Cup downhill ski race today, beating Cindy Nelson of Lutesing, Minn., by one-third of a second.

In the first race of the 1979-80 Olympic season, 19-year-old Laurie Graham of Canada provided the main surprise by overcoming the handicap of a very low starting position to place third, 1.22 seconds behind Miss Nadig.

She was followed by another low-seeded starter, Heidi Preuss, 18, of Lakeport, N.H., who placed fourth, 1.68 seconds behind the winner. Miss Preuss beat Austrian superchampion Annermarie Moser-Proell by one-tenth of a second.

Moser-Proell finished fifth.

Other U.S. finishers in the field of 47 were Holly Flanders of Manchester, N.H., ninth in 1:23.12; Maria Maracich of Sun Valley, Idaho, 29th in 1:24.98; Cindy Oak of Orchard Park, N.Y., 31st in 1:25.18; Viki Fleckenstein of Syracuse, N.Y., 33rd in 1:25.23; and Roxanne Toly of Park City, Utah, 43rd in 1:25.70.

The race, the season's first warm-up for the Lake Placid, N.Y. Winter Olympic Games, was run in brilliant sunshine and virtually perfect snow conditions.

The rarified atmosphere at the top of the heap is new stuff to Philadelphia, but Dallas has been there many time before.

A BIG EDGE for Dallas, right? Nope, says Landry. "They do everything well. They'll have very little stage fright."

Nor does Vermeil see a letdown for Philadelphia because they have made the playoffs. "Our goal was to win 10 games this year, and we've won them. But I can't picture this team letting down."

Landry said such do-or-die games are fun.

"You always look forward to these games," he said. "It's there for you to take. It should be a great challenge. Everybody needs to meet the task."

He said a close contest is probable. "It should be a strong and even game. Who knows how a game will turn?"

Dallas assistant Ermal Allen said the resurgent Cowboys must do three things to beat Philadelphia: stop Montgomery, stop receiver Harold Carmichael, and pressure quarterback Ron Jaworski.

A month ago, they didn't do much in those areas.

The Eagles dumped the Cowboys at Texas Stadium, 31-21, before a national television audience.

"We were fortunate to beat them," Vermeil said.

Former M-Cub in big trouble

Oakland A's outfielder Joe Wallis, a former Midland Cub, was charged with resisting arrest after he allegedly tried to flee from a patrolman who was issuing him a traffic summons. Police said Wallis, a resident of a St. Louis suburb, was driving his 1977 Porsche with California license plates when he was stopped at 1:30 a.m. Thursday for improper vehicle registration. Police said Wallis, 27, should register his car in Missouri. A pursuit began when Wallis sped off while the patrolman was writing a summons, authorities said. The patrolman said he followed Wallis, at speeds exceeding 50 mph, through residential neighborhoods until Wallis pulled into his driveway and drove into his garage. When the patrolman pulled into the driveway and drove his car partially into the garage, Wallis closed the garage door on the patrolcar, police said. Wallis was arrested and taken to the St. Louis County Jail where he was booked on suspicion of resisting arrest. Police said Wallis refused to take a breathalyzer test. Police also issued traffic citations charging Wallis with driving while intoxicated, speeding, and careless and imprudent driving. Warrants charging him with resisting arrest were issued on Monday. Bond was set at $500.

Free agent Willie Horton was named Tuesday the American League's outstanding designated hitter for the 1979 season. Playing with the Seattle Mariners, Horton collected 180 hits in 646 at-bats to lead the AL's designated hitters in both categories. He batted .279, batted in 106 runs and scored 77 runs. He hit 29 homers and five triples in accounting for 296 total bases. The announcement came at the annual baseball meetings. This marks the second time Horton has captured the award, jointly sponsored by the AL and the Manchester, N. H., Union Leader and based on a poll of writers, broadcasters and public relations directors. Previous winners, starting in 1973, were Orlando Cepeda of Boston, Tommy Davis of Baltimore, Hal McRae of Kansas City, Jim Rice of Boston and Rusty Staub of Detroit.

Baseball's Hall of Fame is going on the road. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said the traveling exhibit will be sponsored by the Gillette Company. Samuel Schell, president of the company's razor blade division, said the company would spend approximately $200,000 underwriting the exhibit to be shown at shopping malls around the country. Proceeds will be used for a dual purpose: (1) Augment the Hall of Fame Building Fund to finance enlargement and modernization of the museum in Cooperstown, N. Y., and (2) Raise funds for the U.S. Olympic Committee. Current plans are for the exhibit to visit 40 malls, beginning in Pompano Beach, Fla., Jan. 20. It will tour the South in early 1980 and be coordinated with the spring training in Florida in February and March. The exhibit will include, in addition to film and slides, artifacts from Cooperstown, such as Lou Gehrig's glove, the bat used by Ted Williams for his 300th home run, the scorecard of Bob Feller's first no-hit game and Babe Ruth's old locker, uniform and bat.

Viking great Jim Marshall to retire

Minnesota Vikings veteran defensive end Jim Marshall, who has started a National Football League record 280 consecutive games, announced his retirement Tuesday. Marshall said he will play the last two games of the regular schedule for the Vikings before hanging up his jersey after 20 seasons in the NFL. "It's time to retire and make way for the younger players," Marshall told a news conference. Marshall said younger players, like defensive end Randy Holloway, are ready to step into starting roles for the Vikings. Marshall was a member of the vaunted Vikings' defensive front four of the late 1960s and early 1970s, which became known as the Purple People Eaters.

Steve DeBerg will be the San Francisco 49ers' starting quarterback again when the team plays Tampa Bay on Sunday. "We've got to go with the guy who has made our offense function this year," Coach Bill Walsh said Tuesday. Joe Montana, the rookie from Notre Dame, got his first National Football League start in last Sunday's game at St. Louis but played just the first half and was unimpressive. "Everybody on this club knows he can play better than he did Sunday," said assistant coach Sam Wyche. DeBerg threw a pass for the 49ers' only touchdown, but a late drive ended when he allowed an interception and the 49ers went down to their 13th defeat, 13-10.

Local YMCA tankers trim foes

The Midland YMCA recently defeated the Lubbock YMCA, 487-419, in a dual swimming meet at the Y pool. The Midland team won first place in 27 events. Those managing first place finishes were Kris Schleuder, three; Karen Schleuder, two; Kim Waddell, five; Andy Yockey, two; Brandon Dismukes, one; Buddy Ritchie, five; Alyssa Archer, five; Machaell Lankford, three; and Sonny Frazer, one. Miss Archer also had a state time of 24.04 in the 25-yard backstroke. Other team members who placed in the meet for Midland were Jerrett Lamb, Tom Brown, Mandy Graham, Barry Keller, Bradley Brown and Morris Conner.

Olympic preparations continue

State workers finished icing some of the curves on the Olympic bobsled run Tuesday, and the first sled of the season was scheduled to test the track Wednesday morning. A spokesman for the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee, Bill Brewster, said one sled would be sent down from the halfway point along the mile-long course to test ice that workers began applying last week. Actual training for the U.S. bobsled team that will compete over the course in the Olympics in February was not expected to begin until Thursday. A thick sheet of ice was applied to the bottom of the track over its entire length last week and early this week. Tuesday morning, workers for the state of New York, which owns the facility, were applying ice to the finish curve and at several other places.

Holmes, Tate title bout may become a reality

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiations are underway to match Larry Holmes against John Tate in Detroit for the world heavyweight boxing championship, says a Detroit attorney.

Ed Bell said Tuesday that he and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young met in Las Vegas, Nev. over the weekend with New York promoters Don King and Bob Arum and came away "encouraged to pursue" the matchup.

The March fight would be held in the new Joe Louis Arena, named for the former world heavyweight champion.

HOLMES HOLDS the World Boxing Council heavyweight title and Tate is the titleholder of the World Boxing Association.

Bell said he and Young received no commitments from King and Arum but said he is "fairly confident" the bout can be staged.

King has Holmes under contract and Arum, who promoted many of Muhammad Ali's fights, controls Tate.

"It's a matter of one or both bending enough to put their champions in the ring together," Bell said. SHOULD THEY fail to get a matchup, Bell said, "Holmes definitely will have a title fight here late March."

Bell is an agent for several professional athletes in Detroit and in 1978 took over management of Leon Spinks after Spinks upset Ali to gain the championship.

All's crown was recognized by both the WBC and WBA, but Spinks' victory caused a split between the sanctioning bodies. The WBA recognized Spinks but the WBC held back when Spinks refused to fight Holmes and instead granted Ali a rematch.

ALI WON, then retired, leaving the WBA title open. Tate won it by defeating Gerrie Coetzee in South Africa.

The WBC in the meantime, gave Holmes its title without Holmes stepping into the ring.

Young reportedly is interested in landing the fight in Detroit to show off the arena, which is part of the city's riverfront convention complex.

Breaking NFL ties no easy job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League's system for breaking ties to get into the playoffs could produce bad blood, cheap shots and injuries, says Washington Coach Jack Pardee.

Pardee's main concern is the use of net points in all games as one of the steps to break ties, a factor that could be used to decide a wild-card berth in the National Football Conference this season.

He said the net points factor puts a coach in a "no-win" situation, where he might be forced to risk injuries to key personnel in a bid to run up the score.

"Say you've got a game safely in hand and you have to leave John Riggins in to run up the score and he gets hurt," Pardee said. "It just doesn't make sense."

"Once you're approaching the end of a game and you've got a 17- or 20-point lead, you should be running down the clock. I don't believe in getting more."

Pardee came under mild criticism Sunday when he declined to go for another score in the final minute of the Redskins' 38-21 victory over the Green Bay Packers, although net points could decide the playoff spot if

Washington and Chicago each finish 10-6.

Earlier this season, Washington went for a field goal in a similar situation in their 34-20 victory over Dallas, raising the question of the Redskins' "rubbing it in."

"You get caught in a no-win situation," Pardee said. "If you get three more points, you're accused of running up the score. If you don't and it comes back to haunt you, you're accused of being dumb."

"What this system does is encourage blow-outs. When you've got a 40-0 lead you're supposed to pour it on St. Louis or the 49ers. There's nothing competitive about it."

The Washington coach said the rolling-up of scores leads to frustration on the part of the losing team.

"When we got the field goal in the final seconds against Dallas, one of their guys rammied into our kicker (Mark Moseley) and holder (Joe Theismann). That comes from frustration and I can understand that."

"What it does, though, is open the door to cheap shots. What do you lose when they sock you with a 15-yard penalty when you're already far behind?"

Pardee said he understands the problems of breaking ties and suggested that if points are to be a factor, they should be used only in divisional games.

"It should be used for head-to-head situations and not for all games," he said.

Under the NFL format, revised a couple of years ago, points in head-to-head competition no longer are a factor. Instead, the provision has been broadened to cover more games. If two clubs tie within a division, best won-loss percentage in common games becomes a factor before getting to net points. However, the "common games" factor is not taken into consideration as the wild-card tie-breaker if teams come from different divisions, thus putting a heavier emphasis on net points.

Washington expecting slim Sun Bowl payoff

SEATTLE (AP) — The University of Washington will be losing money when it travels to El Paso, Texas for the Sun Bowl, but athletic department officials say the trip is a long-term investment.

The estimated cost of sending the football team, band and support personnel is between $240,000 and $250,000, said Mike Lude, Husky athletic director.

Lude said on Tuesday the expenses will not be covered by Washington's share of the Sun Bowl purse, which "won't be less than $205,000 and might be as much as $225,000."

The deficit was assured when it was decided to send the band to the game, even though the Sun Bowl does not require schools to bring their bands.

The largest single expense is $105,000 for chartering two airplanes and $35,000 to cover room and board for the Husky contingent.

Despite the lack of profit, Lude said "going to the Sun Bowl is an important investment."

"Going to a bowl does have a fantastic effect on intangibles that prove to be tangible," he said, listing season ticket sales, fund raising, recruiting and university prestige.

Omens, portents keep scribblers busy at this time of year

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — It's year-end prognostication time on pundit's row. They're burning the midnight oil right now in think tanks across the land.

This is the hallowed time of year when columnists everywhere assume the meaningful miums and emit the sonorous sounds of seers studying the stars and scanning statistics to forecast the future.

A pen pusher who can't presage tomorrow's headlines isn't worth the day-old fish his opinions are discarded in, as Lord Chesterfield or Benjamin Franklin or someone knowledgeable like that once said. Omens and portents are part of the scribbler's trade, but this year the future isn't what it used to be.

What with the dawn of a brand new decade and the start of yet another presidential campaign to ponder and predict, the resident sages in their editorial eyries are sucking their thumbs down to the nubble, which is way below the knuckle, puffing on their pipes to the last nicotine glow of conjecture, daydreaming far into the night, and poring over entrails, ouija boards, tarot cards, crystal balls, gris-gris (the dust that gathers on top of grave stones), tea leaves, Census Bureau reports, old party platforms, straw vote polls and other reliable indices of probability to determine in as scientific a manner as possible what's around the corner for us all in the 1980s.

Having recently emerged from this deeply meditative cocoon in my own booklined wine cellar, I am in a position to lift the curtain a bit on the coming decade for the anxious reader.

Here then are my divinations of events, trends and trivia about to happen in the next 10 years or less:

The mini-skirt definitely will make a comeback. Inflated textile prices and labor costs in the garment industry will force hemlines higher in the '80s, but legs will be more spindly because of rising food prices.

Billy Martin is punched out by a lady sportscaster and rehired in an emotional scene on Old Timers Day by a near-bankrupt George Steinbrenner as the slumping Yankees languish a half-game out in second place.

City Bank raises its prime interest rate to 37 1/2 per cent and forecloses on the New York Subway System as Mayor Koch rents his garments (for a paltry $2 an hour) on the steps of City Hall.

The run-away best seller is Harold Robbins' "Too Late the Unguentine," a searing saga of sun scorched lovers on a French nudist island searching for identity and a little shade.

The Oakland baseball franchise will be moved to Xenia, Ohio, with intermediate stops at Little America, Wyoming and Ottumwa, Iowa.

OPEC ministers, meeting in a Las Vegas jacuzzi, raise the price of crude to $3.75 a pint, with 5 cents deposit on the bottle.

Too-Tall Jones wins the World Boxing Association's version of the heavyweight crown on a foul in the ninth round after an uppercut to the tibia by Mesuggera Ray Rabinowitz, the southpaw White Hope from the west bank of the Hudson. Telling it like it was, Howard Cosell concludes that "Rabinowitz just couldn't get his momentum going."

New Broadway musicals at $40 a balcony ticket, include revivals of Victor Herbert's "The Gold Bug," which ran for one week in 1896, George M. Cohan's "The Talk of New York," with Burt Reynolds signing Victor Moore's star mantle, Sigmund Romberg's "Blossom Time," inaugurating the singing career of Cheryl Tiegs, and Jerome Kern's "Oh, Boy!" (1917; book and lyrics by P.G. Wodehouse), which racks up a million single sales for the litting "Nesting Time in Flatbush."

At the Cannes Film Festival, Francis Ford Coppola unveils his master work, "Apotheary Now," offering the critics seven different endings. Based on Joseph Conrad's "The Shadow Line," the five-hour long (not counting the choice of endings), 90 million dollar epic, which took 84 months to film, tells the story of a pill-popping pharmacist from Paducah who sits out the Vietnam War in the backroom of an all night drug store after hiring a double to answer his draft call. Filmed on location in Penang, Malaysia, which was rebuilt to look like downtown Paducah, the ambitious flick stars Captain Kangaroo in his first serious role. Coppola terms his pharmaceutical fantasy "a statement on the moral dilemma of pacifism."

Alabama coach Bear Bryant is carried off the field after winning his Record TV listenership ratings are racked up by the political debates between Rose Kennedy and Miz Lillian, anchored by Dinah Shore.

Latest fad sweeping the nation has football fans turning off the ABC-TV picture to concentrate on Howard Cosell's mellifluous prose undistracted by subliminal game statistics.

Dynamite Dora Dunbar, Women's Heavyweight Boxing Champion, demands a title match with W.B.A. champ Too-tall Jones, after telling Dick Cavett, "basically I'm a very vulnerable person."

Census plans said unfair to migrants

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Numerous Texas migrant farmworkers will go uncounted by the 1980 census unless the U.S. Census Bureau changes its ways, a congressional subcommittee has been told.

"A serious undercount will have a devastating economic impact on the already bleak existence of migrant farm workers," Jose Camacho of Texas Rural Legal Aid said.

Federal dollars for a variety of health, education and job programs for migrants are distributed according to migrant population.

Camacho testified before the U.S. House Subcommittee on Census and Population, which is conducting hearings in several states on ways to make sure the census counts all Americans.

Besides federal funds, fair representation in Congress and the Legislature are at stake in an accurate count. "The procedures presently set up by the Census Bureau will put us no closer to answering the question of how many migrant workers there are, where they live and what is their social and economic status," Camacho said.

In fact, Leo Estrada, staff assistant to the bureau's deputy director, told the subcommittee next year's census forms don't even show migrant farmworkers as an occupational category.

Camacho said the census should ascertain the permanent residence of migrant workers so their home counties will get credit in distribution of both federal funds and seats in law-making bodies.

Problems arise not only because many migrants will have left Texas by census day, April 1, but because census takers often don't know Spanish and are unacquainted with migrant living patterns.

For instance, he said, not all "colonias" — migrant settlements in South Texas — have been identified, "much less mapped," by the government. Camacho said migrants board up their houses when they hit the migrant trail, and a census taker "probably will list these housing units as vacant."

U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., a subcommittee member, recommended that migrants and minorities apply for census taker jobs in order to get a better count of their neighbors.

He and Rep. Bob Garcia, D-New York, subcommittee chairman, criticized the Census Bureau for failing to list migrant farmworkers as a job category on the standard census form.

Ford said the lack of a common definition of migrant farmworker has enabled federal agencies to use whatever population estimates best fit their dollar and program needs.

Latest sweetener under FDA study

Dear Dr. Solomon: With all the controversy about saccharin, I've decided to play it safe and not use it. But there was another artificial sweetener that was supposed to have been developed. Why hasn't it been made available yet? — Ginny

Dear Ginny: You probably are referring to Aspartame, an artificial sweetener that is said to be about 200 times sweeter than sugar. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved its use in July 1974, but there were subsequent objections concerning its safety. Questions were raised about whether Aspartame caused brain tumors in rats or contributed to mental retardation, brain damage or other undesirable effects.

The FDA has decided to establish a three-member scientific Board of Inquiry which will be responsible for recommending whether Aspartame should be approved. The importance of the decision is seen in the fact that the Board of Inquiry is the first ever convened by the FDA. Its purpose is to provide a forum for the discussion of scientific issues. Whether the procedure will continue to be used will be determined by its success in clarifying the Aspartame situation.

The new FDA Commissioner, Dr. Jere Edwin Goyan, will use the Board's findings to decide whether to approve or withdraw approval for the sweetener.

If approved, Aspartame would be marketed as a "table-top" sweetener and for use in dry beverage mixes to which water is added. The application now being considered does not include use of the sweetener in diet sodas.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A neighbor of mine is being treated with iodine for goiter. Does the human body ordinarily contain iodine? — Mrs. A.M.C.

Dear Mrs. C.: Iodine is what is known as a trace mineral, and amounts to about 0.0004 percent of a person's total weight. As I have seen in my patients, an iodine deficiency may cause goiter as well as lead to hardening of the arteries, obesity, nervousness and irritability.

Women who have an insufficient intake of iodine during their adolescence and when pregnant are at risk of bearing children suffering from cretinism. This is a congenital disease that shows itself in the child's physical and mental retardation. These symptoms may be reversible if treatment with iodine begins soon after the child is born, otherwise the retardation becomes permanent.

Dear Dr. Solomon: If fiber is supposed to be so beneficial, why isn't it simply added to various foods? — Russ

Dear Russ: This would be possible to some extent — for example, with breakfast cereals — but in most foods, it would not be acceptable to the consumer. To be of any benefit, fiber would have to be added in amounts that would change the appearance of the food, the way it tastes and its consistency and texture. Moreover, fiber is sufficiently available in foods such as cereals, fruits and vegetables, so that its use as an additive is unnecessary in a properly varied diet.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Upside-Down Finesse

By Alfred Sheinwold

Since bridge players are taught to lead toward strength you may deceive your opponents by leading away from strength. That temporary deception may let you sneak home.

You win with the queen of hearts and see that you need two diamonds. If you get to your hand with a club to take a normal diamond finesse you'll lose to the queen and the heart return will set up West's suit. West gets his ace of diamonds in time to defeat the contract.

UNUSUAL LEAD

Try leading dummy's low diamond at the second trick. East will assume you're leading to the ace in your own hand and he will therefore play low.

West must win the first diamond and can't afford to continue hearts. You have time to lose a diamond to the queen. The defenders get their two diamonds, but they cannot rip the hearts.

If the ace and queen of diamonds were exchanged, you'd lose the first diamond to West's queen, but you'd still be safe since West would be unable to return a heart.

DISCO has crooks 'dancing'

By MIKE STANTON

DETROIT (AP) — Operation DISCO has some crooks dancing to a different tune.

A police-operated fencing detail, the Detroit Investigation to Stop Criminal Operations, has put six Midwest auto theft rings out of business and led to the recovery of $1.2 million in stolen property, Detroit Police Chief William L. Hart said.

Authorities arrested 33 persons Tuesday and sought 20 others in connection with the nine-month investigation, the fourth police sting operation the city has run since 1977, Hart said Tuesday.

Most of the suspects face charges of concealing and receiving stolen property, but three also are charged in the October holdup-slashing of a Detroit Free Press circulation manager, said Thomas McGuire, Wayne County assistant prosecuting attorney.

Since 1977, the four operations have led to the arrest of 225 people and the recovery of about $9.8 million in stolen property, Hart said.

McGuire said 94 percent of those arrested in the first three Detroit stings were convicted, and 99 percent of the stolen property recovered was returned to its original owner.

Undercover city police and U.S. Customs agents posed as fences in a "warehouse type" front in northwest Detroit, where Hart said the property crime rate is high. Monitored by videotape cameras and other electronic surveillance equipment, the agents made 189 transactions for stolen goods and gathered evidence that led to the issuance of 136 warrants against 53 people.

Operation DISCO is the 91st police sting operation financed by a grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration since 1974, police said.

The national sting program has recovered more than $235 million in stolen goods at a cost in "buy money" of $6.2 million, or about six cents to the dollar, according to Hart. He said more than 7,000 people have been charged with crimes including theft, murder, rape, kidnapping and arson.

Bus ambush dangerous shift by Puerto Rican underground

By BEATRIZ RUIZ

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The ambush of a U.S. Navy bus in which two sailors were killed and 10 men and women wounded signaled a dangerous shift in tactics by the Puerto Rican independence movement.

The change resulted from the growing strength of the movement for Puerto Rican statehood.

"The extreme-left groups are feeling suffocated and time is running against them," said one source in the federal government. "If Puerto Rico becomes a state, then it will be too late for them to do anything."

For the past decade, pro-independence terrorism has been mostly a matter of haphazard bombing of U.S. government buildings or property of mainland companies, usually at night when the buildings were empty.

Of some 50 bombs planted in the past year, nearly half were dismantled unexploded, and those that went off did minimal damage. But after the ambush Monday, the three underground independence groups that claimed responsibility warned that they were "not playing at war" and were prepared to carry their struggle to its "ultimate consequences."

In past votes, the Puerto Ricans have overwhelmingly rejected independence and have chosen to continue as a U.S. commonwealth. Now a pro-statehood governor, Carlos Romero Barcelo, is waging a vigorous campaign to make the island the 51st state within the next decade.

The pro-independence forces are working against the deadline of a plebiscite in 1981 in which their cause stands no chance against commonwealth or statehood. Apparently the terrorists have decided that their only hope is to cause enough trouble to force cancellation of the vote.

Puerto Rico's first presidential primaries this winter are putting additional pressure on them. Republican hopefuls have begun to parade their candidacies and are pledging to make the island a state. One advocate of independence expressed the fear that the primaries would be "an irrevocable step on the road to statehood."

Eighteen different clandestine groups have claimed responsibility for the bombings of the past year, but an FBI source said the terrorists are a small, cell-like nucleus working under diverse names. They were trained in Cuba and took part in the Angolan civil war as "observers," one official source reported.

In contrast to the amateurism which has characterized many of their earlier attacks, the ambush of the Navy bus was a professional affair that was carried out in less than a minute.

The three groups that claimed responsibility were the Armed Forces of Popular Resistance, the Volunteers for the Puerto Rican Revolution and the Puerto Rican People's Army, also known as the Macheteros.

They joined forces for the first time to set a series of bombs on Oct. 17 in San Juan and in U.S. cities, the latter in coordination with the mainland-based FALN, the Armed Forces of National Liberation.

Until then, the FALN had no known links with any island group.

In the past two years, the three local groups have claimed responsibility individually for the theft of 700 pounds of explosives, the theft of a large supply of weapons from a police armory, killing a policeman and taking 10 Navy men hostage in a bar that they burned after freeing the sailors.

Police hunt four Georgia convicts

MILLEN, Ga. (AP) — Police were looking for four Georgia convicts today after one of the prisoners picked up a gun while being treated in a public hospital and led four others, including three convicted murderers, to freedom, officials said.

One of the five was recaptured Tuesday near Dublin in Laurens County, less than three hours after the 5 p.m. escape, said prison spokesman Lucy Miss Justus.

The inmates were among 12 being returned to the Georgia State Prison at Reidsville after treatment for various illnesses at the Talmadge Memorial Hospital in Augusta.

One of the five produced the gun. The inmates then took two guns from their guards, handcuffed them and the seven other inmates to trees alongside Georgia 121 in Jenkins County and fled in the prison van, authorities said.

"Obviously it was planned some time beforehand and had to be with outside assistance," said prison spokeswoman Lucy Justus. "The pistol almost had to be picked up in the area of the hospital."

"We don't know which one of them had the gun," she said in a telephone interview.

The van was recovered near Dublin, Miss Justus said.

Bethlehem Steel finds 18 'minor' PCB leaks at plant

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Bethlehem Steel Corp. found 18 small PCB leaks at its Sparrows Point steel plant, according to a report the company sent to state environmental officials.

The leaks were described as "minor" by Leroy Jonas, regional chief of enforcement for the Water Resources Administration, who released the details of Bethlehem's report Tuesday.

"This does not mean that there are PCBs all over the place," he said. The federal government has banned most uses of PCBs — polychlorinated biphenyls — because of the health risk involved in their use. The chemical compounds, found to cause cancer in rats, can still be used in insulating fluids contained within electrical equipment.

The state Water Resources Administration asked Bethlehem to survey its electrical equipment following the discovery of a small PCB spill at the plant in October.

"Any PCB leak that gets into the environment or exposes people is a potential problem," said Jonas. He said, however, his agency probably will not recommend any fines or action against the steel company because "the way they've explained it, there doesn't appear to be a problem."

In a letter sent to the Water Resources Administration, Bethlehem reported inspecting 136 electrical transformers and 617 smaller capacitors that contained PCBs mixed with other insulating fluids, Jonas said.

The company proposed a program to inspect for leaks, to repair faulty equipment and to clean up spills, according to Jonas.

Jonas, who said it would have taken his agency "months" to complete an inspection of the plant for PCBs, said he intended to send a state inspector to Sparrows Point to go over the company's findings.

Earlier this year, Food and Drug Administration officials discovered PCB-contaminated feed had reached 17 western states and two foreign countries. More than a million eggs and thousands of chickens were destroyed.

Superior Court Judge asked to halt Los Angeles busing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Both the Board of Education and the anti-busing group Bustop have asked Superior Court Judge Paul Egly to halt mandatory busing in the Los Angeles School District because of the passage of Proposition 1.

In separate briefs filed Tuesday, they charge that extensive white flight has made desegregation impossible. Bustop says mandatory busing has the effect of "busing minority students from one minority segregated school to another."

Both briefs claimed that the California Constitution, as amended by Proposition 1, now forbids mandatory busing. Proposition 1 passed overwhelmingly in last month's statewide election.

Before Proposition 1, the state constitution required segregated schools to be integrated regardless of cause. Proposition 1 requires the state to follow federal standards, which have allowed court-ordered busing only when segregation has been caused by deliberate actions of school districts.

Impact of private support in fight against cancer, hospital's message

HOUSTON — The impact of private fund support in the fight against cancer will be the message William F. Roden of Midland will carry to Texans as a regional director of The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute's new annual fund committee.

The annual fund campaign is a project of M.D. Anderson's Board of Visitors, a group of nearly 100 concerned citizens interested in promoting quality cancer patient care, research, education and prevention.

Members of the Board of Visitors have actively assisted in furthering the goals of M.D. Anderson since 1957.

"The Annual Fund campaign will emphasize unrestricted gifts which help provide M.D. Anderson with the flexibility to meet new challenges on a timely basis," said J.K. Jamieson of Houston, who chairs the board. "Donations may be used to develop new, more effective cancer therapy through clinical research or underwrite laboratory research that will enable scientists to better understand cancer."

"These funds also help provide educational opportunities for a wider range of health-care professionals or to launch new programs in cancer prevention," he said.

"Contributions from the community have made the crucial difference between adequacy and excellence in the services M.D. Anderson has been able to provide more than 145,000 persons with cancer," said Dr. Charles A. LeMaistre, president of M.D. Anderson.

The annual fund campaign, under the leadership of Harlan Crow of Dallas, is a project of a group of associate members of the Board of Visitors. Roden became an associate member of the board in 1979.

MC schedules evening short courses

Midland College has scheduled two evening short courses beginning Tuesday. These will be the final courses of the fall semester.

Defensive Driving, taught by Larry Freeman, meets from 7 to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for three evenings only.

Students who successfully complete the course and receive their certificates may be eligible for a discount on automobile insurance.

The cost for Defensive Driving course is $15.

A second three-evening course titled "Kitchen Decor" also meets on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Ellen Hinson discusses ways to renovate outdated or dull kitchens and emphasizes the use of materials already available.

Fee for the course is $6.

Students may pre-register now in room 156 of the Midland College Administration Building between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. The office will remain open during the lunch hour.

Those taking the courses should meet in room 156-A 15 minutes before the start of the first class meeting.

The upcoming spring session short courses begin in mid-January. A bulletin listing the course schedule will be issued soon, MC officials said.

City building permits move closer to record

Building permits for 1979 have inched closer to the 1978 record total of near $87 million as $85 million had been recorded by the end of November, according to the city Building and Inspections Department.

Building valuations for November reached $3,764,371. This was far below the figure in November a year ago of $6,663,372. But there were more permits issued this year — 109 — compared with only 100 issued last year.

The 11-month total for 1979 of $85,247,335 reaches above the total for the same period in 1978 of $83,676,102.

Fewer permits have been issued so far this year — 1,400 compared to 1,498 in 1978.

Of the permits issued in November, 52 went for single family homes for a total of $3,055,090. Only one was issued for a duplex to be valued at $46,000. Three went for mobile homes, $28,500.

Four new signs are going up at a cost of $12,800, according to the permits. One new insurance office building valued at $260,000 will be added to Midland's office space. And an amusement park swimming lake will be dug at a cost of $50,000.

Eight businesses took out permits for alterations estimated to cost $169,300. Residential alteration permits should total $142,681.

Teleconference set today at hospital

Hysterectomy is the topic of the weekly teleconference to be broadcast from 2 to 3:30 p.m. today at Midland Memorial Hospital.

This is the tenth of a series of 90-minute medical teleconferences MMH is providing at no charge to participants. This series is especially for persons over 55.

Presenting the program will be members of the faculty of The University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio. Teleconference is broadcast over a network of two-way audio systems with reception and transmission, similar to the quality of radio.

Interested persons wishing additional information should call Mrs. Ellen Kennedy, RN, inservice director, at 685-1645.

RINGING THE BELL

Mennonites may complete integration of all-black town

With BOB TIEUEL

For almost two years, Mennonites in the colony just east of Boley (Okla.) State School for Boys have faced possible deportation because of immigration restrictions. And as the Oklahoma City Daily Times recently put it in a full page of pictures: "Mennonites Are Feeling at Home in Boley."

Ironically, the State School for Boys for many years had an all-black personnel as well as inmates, but this is true no more. One Boley leader told this correspondent that whites are nearly equal in both areas today, and the Boley schools have whites on the administrative and teaching staffs.

A growing number of young people in Boley believe that they boast of Boley being an all-black town is nearing an end and that the town will become an example of a well-run, multicultural town.

der blocks. Others are constructing attractive dwellings suitable for the most modern suburb. The group butchers its own hogs, bakes its own bread and raises its own vegetables.

MENNONITES HAVE their origin in a religious sect formed in Switzerland in 1525, according to Wayne Cox of the Times. Called Anabaptists during the reformation because they opposed infant baptism, stressed believer baptism and placed a strong emphasis on biblical theology, the group was persecuted and split into sects which wandered over the European continent.

Many older members of the group now living near Boley were born in Canada. High land prices and fear of military conscription prompted them to migrate to Mexico, when a threat of violence in Mexico pushed them to Texas and Oklahoma. Interestingly enough, wherever they have gone in the two states, they have been well received.

And in Boley, they continue to thrive through rigid adherence to the Christian work ethic. Sundays are devoted to worship. Perhaps they will bring a new spirit to Boley and vicinity.

OUR THANKS GO to the many individuals, organizations, business institutions and just plain folks from Oklahoma, the Southwest and the nation for their many varied and kind expressions of sympathy during the illness and recent death of Mrs. Nodie E. Tieucl of Boley, our mother.

Three-year-old Dusty Lee Patrick stares out from mother's shoulder prior to surgery at Cincinnati, Ohio, for the removal of several cancerous tumors. Doctors say the next two years will determine whether Dusty survives her bout with cancer. (AP Wirephoto)

Conference hears medical ontologist

Dr. J. Richard Williams Jr., medical ontologist from the Sammons Cancer Center at Baylor University Medical Center, was to be the guest speaker at the monthly multidisciplinary conference at Midland Memorial Hospital today.

Currently the director of the Tumor Registry and Board at Sammons, Williams was previously in private practice in Odessa. He is a graduate of Tulane Medical School in New Orleans, La., and has been associated with the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., and the Harvard Medical School in Boston, Mass.

Williams was to speak on "Staging and Treatment of Hodgkins Disease." Midland physicians Dr. Gregory W. Bartha and Dr. David Shneidman also were to take part in the conference.

The program, held in conjunction with the Midland Memorial Hospital Cancer Committee, is part of the continuing education program.

Seven courses offered at MC interim session

Seven courses are being offered during the Interim Winter Session at Midland College Jan. 2-11, according to Dr. Raymond Yell, dean of instruction.

"The interim session is designed to provide an opportunity for students to complete a three-hour college credit course in just two weeks of intense study," Yell pointed out.

Students will register and begin classes at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 2, and complete the course with a final examination Friday, Jan. 11. They will attend class from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

each weekday and Saturday, Jan. 5, during the interim period.

Classes offered during the interim session include History 2301, United States History to 1877; History 2302, United States History from 1877; Psychology 2301, Introduction to Psychology; Sociology 2301, Introduction to Sociology; English 1302, Composition and Literature; Government 2302, State and Federal Government; and English 2303, Technical Writing.

Additional information about the Winter Interim Session may be obtained by contacting Yell at 684-7851, extension 171 or 177.

Elementary school principal named officer in state group

Joe Cummins, principal of Emerson Elementary School, was appointed third vice president of the Texas Elementary Principals and Supervisors Association at a recent meeting of the orga-

Most House Texans back curbing FTC, EPA power

HOUSE

CURBING THE FTC — By a vote of 321 for and 63 against, the House passed a bill to curtail the authority of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). The bill (HR 2313) was sent to the Senate. It contains a "legislative veto" provision which, if it becomes law, will enable either house of Congress to prevent by majority vote any FTC action against an entire industry. The FTC was created in 1914 to combat unfair and deceptive business practices. Members voting "yea" favored the bill limiting FTC powers.

ROLL CALL REPORT

Reps: Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, James Wright, D-12, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Tom Loeffler, R-21, Ron Paul, R-22, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, voted "yea."

Reps: Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Henry Gonzalez, D-20, voted "nay."

Reps: Phil Gramm, D-6, and Martin Frost, D-24, did not vote.

CONGRESSIONAL VETO — The House adopted, 278 for and 121 against, an amendment permitting Congress by concurrent resolution to veto any regulation issued by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. Such regulations usually concern unsafe pesticides and often are criticized by agribusiness and other sectors of the farming community.

Concurrent resolutions do not require a president's signature to take effect. The amendment was attached to HR 3546, passed and sent to the Senate. Members voting "yea" wanted Congress to be able to cancel certain EPA regulations.

Hall, Wilson, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Paul, Kazen and Frost voted "yea."

Eckhardt, Brooks, De la Garza, Leland and Gonzalez voted "nay."

Arab, African U.N. members support U.S. call for release of hostages in Iran

By JOHN BAUSMAN

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Arab and African members of the United Nations, in an unusual show of support for the United States, are calling for the release of the American hostages in Iran.

Frequently in the past they have been part of Third World groups that opposed the positions taken by the United States. But the seven African and two Arab delegates who spoke in the first three days of the Security Council debate on the U.S.-Iranian crisis all censured Iran's violation of the principle of diplomatic immunity.

Said Ambassador Leon N'Dong of Gabon: "Despite our sympathy for the cause defended by the Iranians, we are bound to regret the fact that the diplomatic personnel of a mission, as well as its premises, should be the object of aggression and violation."

"I can understand the grievances of the Iranian people," said Ambassador Blessing Akoporde Clark of Nigeria, "but to understand that is not to approve the methods the Iranians have selected to redress their deeply felt grievances."

"We earnestly implore the government and the people of Iran to release the American hostages without further delay and unconditionally."

Winston A. Tubman of Liberia said the Iranian seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and those inside it might do irreparable damage to "the very process by which peaceful intercourse among nations is made possible."

"If...the world is allowed to become an unsafe place for diplomats to pursue their noble calling, mankind would quickly become engulfed in a dark barbaric world too dangerous to contemplate," he warned.

Ambassador Kamanda wa Kamanda of Zaire said the nations of the Third World were most endangered by the Iranians' flouting "internationally recognized and established principles."

"Small and medium-size states, which are the most numerous and most vulnerable on earth, would ultimately be the major victims of any disregard of the objective rules and principles of the United Nations Charter and of international conventions which guarantee order and justice in international relations," said Kamanda.

One of the two Arab speakers, Abdalla Yaccoub Bishara of Kuwait, in opening the debate pointed out that "passions that have been suppressed for three decades and have recently found an outlet are bound to be strong, deep and spontaneous."

But he, too, called for the immediate release of the hostages and suggested that the council authorize Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim "to set up a consultative body that may assist in identifying abuses and violations of human rights that took place in Iran under the past regime" of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

The other Arab speaker, Ahmed Esmat Abdel Meguid of Egypt, expressed dismay at the bad image the Iranian action was giving the Moslem religion and in effect accused Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and his followers of violating the tenets of Islam.

"All Moslems are concerned and even disturbed by certain adverse propaganda which Islam is receiving at present," he said. "...A general impression could mistakenly develop that Islam condones such practices as the taking of hostages....Islam is a religion of justice and not of revenge....Islam is a religion of tolerance...."

"The weight of world public opinion should be harnessed to persuade the authorities in Tehran to free the hostages immediately."

Ambassador T.J.X. Muvamba of Malawi said his government could see no justification for the seizure of the American diplomatic personnel although it "fully takes note of Iran's grievances." He also accused the United States of "threatened flexing of military muscle" and said the council should appeal for the "withdrawal of all the lethal weaponry of destruction which has now been deployed in the Persian Gulf."

RAILROAD MONEY — By a vote of 54 for and 41 against the Senate tabled and then killed an amendment to apply $10 billion of the windfall profits tax to the revitalization of the nation's passenger and freight railroad systems. The amendment was proposed to the oil taxation bill (HR 3919; see previous vote). The $10 billion was to have come from the $128 billion of the windfall profits tax on oil revenues expected to raise between 1980 and 1990. Already, in an energy conservation move, the Senate has agreed that up to $40 billion of the tax will go to mass transit programs.

Senators voting "yea" favored earmarking part of the windfall profits tax yield for rail development. Bentsen and Tower voted "yea."

WINDFALL EXEMPTION — The Senate voted 53 for and 41 against to exempt most oil pumped by companies involved only in the production aspect of the oil industry from the proposed "windfall" tax on increased oil profits.

The amendment was offered to HR 3919, which was headed for approval and conference with the House. The first 1,000 barrels per day produced by each so-called "independent" would be exempt from the new tax on additional profits resulting from the abolition of price controls.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex, sponsor of the amendment, said independent producers need a tax break to finance exploration. "It is not a question of doing anyone a favor," he said.

Senators voting "yea" favored exempting most production by independent producers from the windfall profits tax.

Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted "yea."

What has happened to the despots of last year?

The ill and exiled shah of Iran lies in a Texas hospital bed, his fate riveting world attention because of 50 Americans held hostage in his name.

But the 10 other rulers who tumbled from power this year have all but vanished into the shadows.

Since the beginning of the year, the mighty have fallen at the rate of one a month. The countries they ruled span the globe. Many of their names now stand for terror, torture and corruption: Pol Pot, Somoza, Amin, Bokassa.

Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi fled Iran Jan. 16 in the face of a revolution fanned by the religious fervor of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

He went to Egypt, then to Morocco, then to the Bahamas. It seemed he was welcome nowhere. Finally, with the help of Henry Kissinger, the 60-year-old shah and his family settled in Mexico on June 10.

He lived in splendor in the mountain resort town of Cuernavaca at Riveroll House, which has rented for $13,500 a month. The estate has a large swimming pool and is staffed by six cooks, five gardeners and two maids.

But the shah will not be returning to those sumptuous surroundings when he leaves the Air Force hospital in San Antonio, where he went Sunday. He had been recuperating in a New York hospital after having gallstones removed and receiving cancer treatment.

On Nov. 29, the Mexican government announced it would not renew his six-month tourist visa, which expires Dec. 9. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has offered the shah asylum.

Khomeini supports the students who took over the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4 and took 63 American hostages, 13 of whom have been released. The students are demanding the shah be sent to Iran, and where he goes next could determine what happens to the hostages.

The toll of the world's despots began on Jan. 8, when Cambodian rebels backed by Vietnamese forces seized the capital of Phnom Penh and ousted Pol Pot, whose government is believed to have killed between 1.2 million and 4 million Cambodians.

With Chinese help, Pol Pot still fights against the Vietnam-backed regime now in Phnom Penh. That regime condemned him to death in absentia in August. No one is certain Pol Pot is still alive, but Western sources say he has withdrawn into the Cardamom Mountains of southwestern Cambodia.

—March 13: Prime Minister Eric Gairy of Grenada, accused by his opponents of murder and fraud, learned while visiting in New York that he had been ousted in a coup.

—April 11: Idi Amin, Ugandan "president for life," fled Kampala just ahead of Tanzanian troops and Ugandan rebels. Amin is accused of killing 200,000 people during his eight-year rule.

In May, Amin told a Philippines magazine he lived in a villa in Tripoli, Libya, surrounded by 50 bodyguards, perhaps under house arrest. He attacked Western media for portraying him as "an impoverished ape. ... Whether they agree or not, this face is the most beautiful in the world. My mother and wives tell me so."

—June 4: Junior air force officers in Ghana overthrew the 7-year-old military government of Lt. Gen. Fred Akuffo, who was executed on June 26.

—July 17: Anastasio Somoza, 53, whose family had ruled Nicaragua since the 1930s, resigned the presidency and fled. Months of fighting between his National Guard troops and Sandinista rebels left more than 200,000 people dead and made refugees of one-fourth of Nicaragua's 2.5 million people.

Somoza settled in Asuncion, Paraguay. He lives in luxury with servants, three Mercedes and a swimming pool. Somoza says he wants to be a farmer. He has looked at property in Villarica — a mansion where another exile lived in the 1950s — Argentine dictator Juan Peron.

—Aug. 8: Francisco Macias Nguema Givogo — who in a decade of terror in Equatorial Guinea killed tens of thousands, including almost all the country's intellectuals — fell to a military coup. He fled but was captured in a village several days later. He was executed Sept. 29 after a trial held in a decrepit movie theater whose last show had been "Cry of Death."

—Sept. 14: Afghanistan President Nur Mohammed Taraki, whose Soviet government was dogged by a bloody Moslem rebellion, was fatally wounded in a palace shootout in Kabul. He was thought missing until October when an Afghanistan radio broadcast said he was buried in the family graveyard.

—Sept. 21: Jean Bedel Bokassa of the Central African Republic — who in 1976 proclaimed himself Emperor Bokassa I of the Central African Empire — was driven from power with French help.

Bokassa, 58, implemented such medieval punishments as cutting off ears and clubbing criminals to death. He was accused of ordering the slaughter of 100 children who protested wearing school uniforms.

Bokassa was granted asylum in Ivory Coast, which has refused to extradite him on charges of embezzlement, mass murder and cannibalism.

—Oct. 15: Carlos Humberto Romero, president of El Salvador, was overthrown when army rebels seized four key military barracks. Romero served half of a four-year term before leftist agitation and violence directed against his regime led to the coup.

—Oct. 26: South Korean President Park Chung-hee, 62, who himself seized power in a coup in 1961, was shot and killed in a plot led by Korean Central Intelligence Agency chief Kim Jae-kyu.

Door knockers vanishing from Beacon Hill houses

BOSTON (AP) — Police are investigating the case of the disappearing door knockers on Beacon Hill, one of Boston's oldest and most fashionable neighborhoods.

All over the downtown area, residents opened their front doors last week to discover their brass strikers missing.

Thieves, apparently operating in early morning darkness, literally ripped off more than a dozen of the brass knockers from brick townhouses, police said.

Among buildings victimized was the small apartment house where Massachusetts Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill owns a condominium.

Police Deputy Superintendent Anthony Leone said Monday that some of the door knockers were antiques, and most were valued at more than $100.

"Every once in a while it happens," said Rosamond Gifford, head of the Beacon Hill Civic Association's Law Enforcement Committee. "They harvest door knockers and copper drain spouts."

Mrs. Gifford, who also lost a door knocker, said residents of the neighborhood are irritated and angry.

"I told one of my most liberal neighbors that I'd like to find somebody doing that, and he said, 'Yes, if I found them, I'd probably put the knocker right through their head.' If he'd do that, I guess my conservative friends would probably just shoot the guy."

FTC attempting to cause bail price drop in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says the price of bail in Texas may be lower as a result of its agreement with two bail bondsmen's associations.

The commission announced Wednesday that the Texas Association of Professional Sureties, of Odessa, and the Association of Professional Sureties of Houston had accepted the agreement which prohibits price fixing.

A complaint prepared as part of the agreement alleged that the groups established uniform percentages for bail fees and members were then pressured to abide by the percentages.

A minimum percentage was included in the code of ethics, the complaint said.

A bail bondsman receives a fee for posting bond for a defendant in a criminal trial. The fee normally is a percentage of the bond.

The complaint also alleges that at regular meetings the members of the associations discussed prices. Bondsmen charging lower prices were named at the meetings and possible actions against them were discussed, the complaint said.

The agreement is open for public comment until Feb. 5. The FTC then can issue a final order or withdraw its acceptance of the agreement.

Study group says: CIA guilty of domestic biological warfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA conducted biological warfare tests in the streets of New York City in 1955 and 1956, a group that studied agency records said today.

The Church of Scientology said its 3-month-long analysis of CIA financial records indicate that the intelligence agency spread an unidentified substance through the tailpipe of a specially modified automobile.

The CIA also outfitted suitcases with aerosol devices that could spread bacteria or chemicals, but the Scientologists said they could not tell if those devices had been used.

The agency declined official comment on the Scientologists' assertions.

The test was code named "Operation Big City," and came 10 years before previously disclosed tests in which the Army released bacteria in the New York City subway system.

In both cases, a substance was reportedly released into the atmosphere and then tests were made to see how it spread.

The Scientologists obtained their evidence through the Freedom of Information Act.

The material consists mostly of heavily censored expense accounts for the project, showing the purchase of such items as nose filter plugs, and new exhaust equipment to fit the car for a "dissemination study." One receipt was marked "car wash, contamination."

A CIA official, who asked not to be identified, said: "You can take these separate little receipts and make them into anything you want."

Brian Anderson, director of the Scientology study, said the receipts were connected by such notations as "Op BC" or "Big City," and he conceded that the evidence was "circumstantial."

"It is possible that everything cited here is mere coincidence" or that there was no such test," he said. But he said the CIA should release further records of the project to show if that is true.

West Texas areas gain wildcat tests

Permian Basin operator's staked wildcat tests in Crockett, Tom Green, Coke, and Menard counties.

CROCKETT VENTURES

Wessely Energy Corp. of Dallas will drill the No. 1 Shannon Estate as a 9,500-foot Ellenburger wildcat 1/2 mile east of the Enconrado (Pennsylvanian detrital) 22 miles northwest of Ozona.

Location is 2,130 feet from south and 2,050 feet from west lines of section 6, block 2, GC&SF survey.

C.F. Lawrence & Assoc. of Midland will plug back to 2,100 feet for tests as a wildcat at its No. 1-A Harwood, opener of the Harlow (San Andres and Grayburg) field, 16 miles east of Iran.

Location is 467 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 7, block GG, H&OB survey.

TOM GREEN ACTIVITY

Delta-Gulf Inc. of San Antonio spotted the No. 1 J.W. Johnson as a 6,000-foot wildcat one and three-eighths miles south and slightly west of the lone

MGF to offer stock shares

MGF Oil Corp. of Midland announced it has filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a registration statement relating to the proposed offering of one million shares of common stock.

Net proceeds from the sale will be used to reduce bank debt. Drexel Burnham Lambert Incorporated and Bateman Eichler, Hill Richards Inc. have been named managers of the underwriting group.

Field work announced

Amoco Production Co., operating from Levelland, announced plans to drill the No. 145-A Ellwood, one location northwest of the dual Canyon and Strawn discovery well of the Smyer, North field, four miles northwest of Smyer.

Location is 2,290 feet from north and 2,530 feet from west lines of section 32, block A, R.M. Thompson survey.

Scheduled depth is 10,200 feet.

REAGAN SITES

Cola Petroleum Inc. of Midland spotted location for two tests in the Reagan County portion of the Calvin (Dean) field, 12 miles northeast of Stiles.

The No. 1 Wooten is five-eighths mile south of production, 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 139, block 2, T&P survey.

The No. 2 Wooten is seven-eighths mile southeast of production, located 1,880 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 139, block 2, T&P survey.

Both projects are scheduled to 8,300 feet.

EDDY AREA

Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia, N.M., will drill a 9,835-foot undesignated Morrow test, a twin to old oil production in the Dayton, East (Grayburg) field, one mile southwest and the same distance southeast of the Atoka, East field.

Scheduled as the No. 1-MH Rio Pecos Federal, location is 1,980 feet from south and 1,100 feet from east lines of section 29-18s-27e, 12 miles southeast of Artesia.

CROSBY RE-ENTRY

Adams Exploration Co. of Midland filed application to re-enter and clean out to 4,000 feet for test as a one-half mile west extension to the Royce (Strawn) field.

Originally drilled by Sunray DX Oil Co. (now Sun Oil Co.) as No. 1 J.R. Canning, a wildcat failure at 4,257 feet, it was drilled "tight" and abandoned in 1962.

Operating as the No. 1 Julie, location is 477 feet from south and 2,060 feet from east lines of section 52, block 8, H&TC survey, 11 miles southwest of Eden.

UPTON RE-ENTRY

A.G. Kasper of Midland will re-enter and plug back to 8,100 feet for test as a Strawn oil producer and a location southwest extension to that pay at its No. 2 J.H. Shirk.

The well was drilled to 10,075 feet and currently produces from the Ellenburger in the Fradean field of Upton County at a rate of 44.6 barrels of oil per day.

Well site is 11 miles northeast of McCamey, 330 feet from south and west lines of section 23, block 2, MK&T survey.

SCHLEICHER GAS TEST

T.C. Meador of Eldorado filed application to drill the No. 17 Meador as a Henderson gas test, one-half mile northwest of the two-well Henderson oil area, and as an upper Canyon and upper Henderson oil tests, surrounded by production in those pays in the Velrex field of Schleicher County.

producer in the J.W.J. (Canyon) field, 4.5 miles east of Christoval.

It is 660 feet from north and 1,787 feet from west lines of section 7, block 24, H&TC survey.

A second wildcat in Tom Green County is Texcan Resources Corp. of Houston No. 3 Jones, 6,000-foot test one location south of its No. 1 Jones, a 6,675-foot failure and four miles northeast of the Atkinson (Strawn and San Angelo) field, six miles west of Christoval.

Location is 800 feet from south and 700 feet from east lines of L. Yarborough survey No. 35, abstract 7639. Ground elevation is 2,103 feet.

A third wildcat was staked by International Western Oil Corp. of Amarillo as a 6,000-foot try 1.25 miles east of the depleted Eliza Baker field, three miles west of Orient.

The No. 1 Gladys Lewis is 2,616 feet from north and 4,372 feet from east lines of section 6, G.D. Bell survey, abstract 5218.

COKE PROJECT

J.A. March of Dallas announced a 7,000-foot wildcat, one location east of a 6,925-foot failure and two miles southeast of the Fort Chadbourne multipay field, and 2.25 miles southeast of C. Copeland (Ellenburger) production, eight northwest of Bronte.

The operator's No. 1 Raper is 760 feet from south and 2,425 feet from west lines of section 336, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

MENARD WILDCAT

Morrow Resources Inc. of Odessa spotted a 2,400-foot wildcat, three and three-quarters mile-northwest of the Bar F (Cross Cut) field, nine miles northeast of Menard.

The No. 1 Russell Callan is 467 feet from south and east lines of section 19, BS&F survey, abstract 166.

The new location is 3,105 feet from north and 1,900 feet from east lines of section 1216, TCRR survey, 16 miles northwest of Eldorado.

Contract depth is 6,850 feet and the field currently has one Henderson gas producer.

CROCKETT OUTPOST

James L. Lamb Jr. of Midland announced location for the No. 4-39 Todd, as a five-eighths mile outpost to the Howard Draw (Shallow oil and gas) field of Crockett County.

Location is 16 miles northwest of Ozona, 4,800 feet from south and 2,240 feet from east lines of section 39, block WX, GC&SF survey. Contract depth is 1,250 feet, with ground elevation, 2,325 feet.

NOLAN SITE

Yates Exploration Co. of Laredo will drill the No. 2 Ash, one location west of Canyon oil production, one-quarter mile northwest of dual Canyon oil and upper Canyon oil production in the JMM field of Nolan County.

Location is 2,600 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 7, block 1-A, H&TC survey, 14 miles southwest of Maryneal.

MENARD ACTIVITY

The Wilhelm Lane (Canyon and Canyon 3100) field of Menard County gained its ninth and tenth producers with the reclassification to two former gas wells by M. Brad Bennett Inc., Robert K. Hillin and NRM Petroleum Co. of Midland.

The No. 1-101 Jacoby is three-quarters mile east of production and was reclassified to pump 1.5 barrels of oil and no water, through perforations from 3,046 to 3,049 feet.

Location is 1,750 feet from north and 1,472 feet from west lines of Hooper & Wade survey No. 101.

The same firm's No. 3-101 Jacoby is one and three-eighths mile east of production, and reclassified for a pumping potential of 1.2 barrels of 35-gravity oil and four barrels of water, through perforations from 2,992 to 3,004 feet, after an acid treatment of 1,000 gallons.

It was previously finalized as the second Canyon 3100 gas producer for a calculated absolute open flow of 650,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

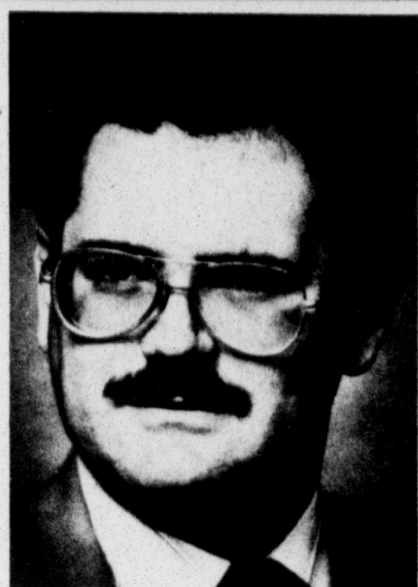

Location is 1,794 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of Hooper & Wade survey No. 101.

The 5750 Canyon oil pau in the Bloodworth, Northeast field of Menard County was extended five-eighths mile southwest, with the completion of Petroloer Exploration Inc. of Abilene No. 3 Durham, 10 miles northwest of Robert Lee.

Operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 96 barrels of 46-gravity oil and no water, through an 8/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,655 to 5,662 feet.

The producing zone was treated with 500 gallons of acid and fractured with 1,200 barrels.

Also scheduled as a 6,700-foot wildcat, it drilled to 6,665 feet and 5.5-inch casing was set at 6,162 feet. Plugged back depth is 5,795 feet.

Dr. William R. Almond

Dr. Almond on program

The West Texas Geological Society will hold a luncheon meeting at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Midland Hilton.

The speaker will be Dr. William R. Almond, Petrology Research Manager with Cities Service Co.'s Energy Reserve Group in Tulsa, Okla.

Dr. Almond was first employed with Cities Service as a research geologist in 1974 after earning his Ph.D. in Geology at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Dr. Almond is an AAPG Distinguished Lecturer and will present a paper entitled "The Impact of Diagenesis of Exploration Strategy and Reservoir Management."

The cost of the luncheon is $6.00. Members and guests must make reservations by telephoning 683-1573 not later than 12 noon, Friday.

Irion strike potentials

Alford Petroleum Corp. of the Woodlands completed the No. 1-790 Winterbotham as a Wolfcamp discovery, one location south of Canyon D oil production in the Irion County portion of the Dove Creek multipay field, 10 miles south of Knickerbocker.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 90 barrels of 45.2-gravity oil and no water, through perforations from 5,173 to 5,180 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid.

Drilled to 7,450 feet, 5.5-inch casing is set at 7,302 feet. Plugged back depth is 5,230 feet.

The following tops were picked on ground elevation of 2,433 feet: Wolfcamp, 5,173 feet; Canyon, 6,471 feet; and Strawn, 7,138 feet.

WARD TESTER

Gulf Oil Corp. of Monahans will drill the No. 1056 Hutchings Stock Association 1/2 mile northeast of production in the Wagon Wheel (Pennsylvanian) field of Ward County, two miles southeast of Wickett.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 5, block O, G&MMB&A survey.

Contract depth is 9,900 feet.

Getty agrees to settlement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Getty Oil Co. has agreed to a $75 million settlement in a suit brought by the Department of Energy charging that the company violated federal price regulations.

The Los Angeles-based company agreed to make a $25 million cash payment into a fund to aid economically disadvantaged persons in meeting higher energy expenses this winter, company officials said Tuesday.

Getty also agreed to reduce by $50 million a "bank of unrecovered increased costs" — costs that are eligible to be passed through to customers at a later date.

It was the first such settlement of its kind and the DOE has not determined how to distribute money in the fund.

The DOE has brought similar charges against other major oil refiners. But previous settlements usually have involved a rollback in future prices instead of a direct cash payment.

Also Tuesday, Mobil Corp. announced a victory over the DOE in a pricing dispute.

The Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals upheld a U.S. District Court ruling in Beaumont, Texas, that the DOE acted improperly in its refusal to allow Mobil to include in its prices more than $200 million in costs.

After the ruling, Mobil chided the DOE for being "strangely silent" when "the courts tell them they are wrong."

Deep Pecos project among new Permian Basin wildcats

Sanchez-O'Brien Minerals Corp. of Laredo announced plans to drill the No. 1 Glenn W. Hillger as an 8,000-foot wildcat, also 1/2 mile southeast of Blacklock Lake, East (Wolfcamp) production, nine miles northwest of Garden City in Glasscock County.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 13, block 35, T-3-S, T&P survey.

PECOS WILDCAT

HNG Oil Co. of Midland will drill No. 1-11 Hudgins as a 14,500-foot wildcat, one and seven-eighths mile southwest of a 13,685-foot failure and three miles northwest of Devonian gas production in the Elsinore multipay field of Pecos County.

Well site is 2,384 feet from north and 2,496 feet from west lines of section 11, block 180, TCRR survey, 25 miles southeast of Fort Stockton.

LEA WILDCATS

Sun Oil Co. of Oklahoma City, Okla., will drill an 11,700-foot wildcat operation one location west of Wolfcamp production and two miles northwest of Devonian production in the Denton field of Lea County, two miles southeast of Prairieview.

The No. 1 J.C. Maxwell is 1,101 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 27-14s-37e.

NuCorp. Energy, Inc. of Hobbs, N.M., will deepen to 13,000 feet for tests as a wildcat at the No. 1 Mona Wilson, 2.5 miles northeast of Devonian oil production in the Garrett, West field of Lea County.

Originally drilled by Hondo Oil & Gas as the No. 1 Wilson, old total depth is 9,048 feet.

Location is 990 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 21-16s-38e, five miles north of Knowles.

GARZA PROSPECTOR

Fisher-Webb, Inc. of Abilene spotted a 7,850-foot wildcat one mile west and slightly south of the Swenson-Garza, Northeast (Canyon) field and 1/2 mile north of Ellenburger production in the Swenson-Barron field of Garza County.

Operating as the No. 1 Lewis, it is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 15, block 2, H&GN survey, 10 miles northeast of Post.

DAWSON EXPLORER

R.H. Engelle of San Antonio will drill a 12,000-foot wildcat operation, 3/4 mile south of the depleted Fusselman discovery well of the Willene field and one and 3/8 mile northeast of Smith (Spraberry) production, two miles west of O'Donnell.

The No. 1 Cecil Holt is scheduled 853 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 70, block A, EL&RR survey.

Ike Lovelady, Inc. of Midland will attempt to reopen the Lindsey (Strawn) field of Dawson County, 14 miles west of Lamesa.

The No. 1 Lindsey is 853 feet from south and 2,173 feet from west lines of section 132, block M, EL&RR survey.

Contract depth is 11,500 feet, with ground elevation, 3,026 feet.

RUNNELS WILDCATS

Lloyd Patton of Fort Worth will drill a 4,200-foot wildcat, 3/4 mile south of the depleted Big Ed (Gardner oil) field and one and three-eighths mile northeast of the current lone producer of the Rowena, North (Gardner oil) field, five miles southwest of Ballinger.

Operating as the No. 1 Elsie Henkhaus, location is 467 feet from south-east and 2,000 feet from southwest lines of A. Kienecke survey No. 418, abstract 335.

Hanco Exploration & Development Co. of Dallas will drill No. 1 W.F. Minzenmayer as a 4,600-foot wildcat, 1/2 mile south of the N.A.M. (Fry oil) field, 5/8 mile southeast of Gardner oil production in the Wilmeth, South (Gardner) field.

Location is six miles west of Winters, 1,600 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 58, block 63, HT&B survey.

A third Runnels County wildcat was spotted by Hanson Corp. of Midland as the No. 1 Willingham, 4,350-foot test, 3/8 mile north and slightly east of the Palo Pinto opener and lone producer of that pay and 1,500 feet east of a 3,918-foot failure, nine miles northwest of Ballinger.

Well site is 2,025 feet from north and 2,330 feet from east lines of Robert Ownes survey No. 436, abstract 394.

Allen Garrett of Artesia, N.M., staked location for a 2,200-foot cable tool wildcat in Eddy County, six miles northeast of Artesia.

It is No. 1 Leon-State, 660 feet from north and east lines of section 32-16s-27e.

IRION EXPLORER

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland spotted location for a 6,800-foot wildcat in Irion County, 5/8 mile southwest and northwest of Canyon D production and one and three-quarters mile northwest of Cisco oil production in the Dove Creek field, nine miles southeast of Mertzon.

The No. 1-G Winterbotham is 330 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines of J.H. Weisheit survey No. 782.

TOM GREEN TESTER

A shallow 990-foot explorer has been set in Tom Green County, one and five-eighths miles southwest of the XQZ (Palo Pinto) field and 7/8 mile east and slightly north of the depleted San Angelo opener of the Knickerbocker (Palo Pinto) field by Doralex Energy Inc. of San Angelo.

The operator's No. 1 E.E. Foster is located 709 feet from south and 676 feet from west lines of Indianola Railroad survey No. 1.

One-half mile north-northeast of the new wildcat, the same firm's No. 1-A Peggy Bollinger, scheduled 990-foot wildcat, is recovering sulfur water through Clear Fork perforations between 451 and 455 feet.

FISHER PROBE

R.L. Adkins Corp. of Sweetwater will drill the No. 1-B Wickham as a 5,000-foot wildcat, one location northwest of the opener and lone producer of the Wickham (Strawn Reef) gas field, four miles west of Noodle.

The new test is surrounded by producer in the Fisher County portion of the Raven Creek (Strawn, Noodle Creek and Canyon) field, 6,097 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of George Creath survey No. 221.

Senate subpanel hears chilling report on dramatic upswing in U.S. car thefts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "dramatic upswing" in car thefts is causing federal investigators to increase law enforcement efforts, FBI Director William H. Webster told a Senate panel Tuesday.

"We currently have 632 theft rings and 'chop shop' operations under investigation, more than at any time in our history," he told a Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee.

Many stolen cars are taken to secret garages where they are chopped into parts that are sold to legitimate body shops and salvage yards at high profits, the FBI director said.

Webster said that since 1967, when anti-theft devices were first placed on automobiles, the rate of car theft has increased at an average of 41 percent per year. "At this rate, this year's losses traceable to vehicle thefts will exceed $4 billion," he said.

"The chop shop industry has grown, particularly in your part of the country," Webster told Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

In addition to cars, thieves steal farm machinery and pickup trucks for their parts, he said. The problem exists in rural areas as well as cities and organized crime has entered the field in some areas, Webster testified.

"If it remains a lucrative business, these criminal groups will attempt to establish even more control. There have already been 14 gangland-style slayings in Chicago and at least four in New York linked to suspected takeovers" of theft rings, he said.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said something must be done to fight the "swarm of locusts out stealing cars."

Webster endorsed Percy's bill that would require identification numbers on the body parts favored by chop shop operators. If the bill becomes law, the choppers could no longer deal in unnumbered, untraceable parts. And although removal of the number might conceal the vehicle's origin, this itself would draw suspicion, he said.

Webster also supported a legal change to classify trafficking in stolen motor vehicles and their parts as racketeering activities. This would aid prosecution by making chop shop operators face heavy fines, long prison sentences and possible forfeiture of businesses tainted by racketeering, he said.

"This would discourage some and would allow us to hit many of the others hard enough to bring this situation under control," the FBI director said.

Uncommon Duplex Homes At Uncommon Duplex Prices

Truly Unique Design

Wall-to-wall carpeting, new dishwasher, range/oven, garbage disposal, washers and dryers, plus a fireplace.

Extraordinary Value

With home prices spiraling, Idlewilde Village is a great value, affordably priced, within the budget of most homebuyers. If your income was less than $30,000.00 in 1978 or 1979, you may be able to buy under a unique mortgaging program.

Featuring 95% financing, Approximately 9 1/2% interest, 30 year loan

Apartment dwellers paying as little as $225.00 per month may be surprised to learn that they may be wasting over $600.00 per month by renting, instead of buying.

Don't Delay

Stop by our office at 4501 W Wadley for a free computerized personal budget analysis, or write P.O. Box 5185, Midland, Texas 79701.

Duplex ownership gives many people the opportunity to buy their first home, with the tenant helping pay the mortgage.

But Hurry, these homes will not be available for long!
