Iran's Khomeini says U.N. settlement call was 'a step forward'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and his foreign minister were reported by the official Iranian news agency today to feel the U.N. Security Council's call for a negotiated settlement was "a step forward" in resolving the U.S.-Iranian crisis.

In other developments, members of Iran's Turkish minority seized facilities of the state-run broadcasting company in Tabriz, capital of the largely Turkish Azerbaijan Province. But tension eased after two days of clashes in the the holy city of Qom; 100 miles south of here.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh disclosed the apparent softening of Khomeini's stance on the resolution after meeting with him in Qom, the official Pars news agency said.

Quoting Ghotbzadeh, the agency said: "Regarding the U.N. Security Council decision, we of course have noticed that this is not a resolution condemning us.... This resolution is a step forward."

Observers said the reported stance of Khomeini and Ghotbzadeh was the most moderate yet by revolutionary leaders during the month-long crisis. Last week Khomeini rejected in advance any steps taken by the Security Council, alleging that it was controlled by the United States.

Ghotbzadeh's statement made no mention of the resolution's call for the immediate release of 50 American hostages held in the U.S. Embassy and did not outline possible negotiations for their release. The Security Council resolution, adopted unanimously Tuesday, asks the two nations to show restraint and negotiate a settlement to the crisis, which began with the Nov. 4. occupation of the embassy by militants demanding President Carter send ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi back to Iran to stand trial for alleged crimes against the people.

Carter has refused to extradite the shah and on Sunday the ousted monarch was flown to Lackland Air Force Base in Texas from a New York hospital he entered Oct. 22 for cancer and gallbladder treatment.

Ghotbzadeh tempered his reaction to the U.N. resolution, saying "We arenot very satisfied with it because they have not condemned the shah. Altogether this is a step forward and a better decision than the previous

He was apparently referring to a Nov. 9 statement issued with the unanimous consent of the Security Council calling for release of the hostages

The embassy militants rejected the appeal Wednesday as "worthless," but Tehran Radio said the U.N. resolution still left the door open for nego tiations

Today was the second straight day of clashes in Tabriz, 300 miles northwest of Tehran, and Qom between Khomeini's backers and followers. Ayatollah Mohammed Kazem Shariat-Madari.

Shariat-Madari led religious oppo sition to the monarchy during Kho-meini's 15-year exile. He had voiced concern over Iran's new Islamic constitution, saying it did not give Iran's minorities enough autonomy and concentrated too much power in Khomeini's hands. Shariat-Madari is also leader of the substantial population of Turks living in Iran's Azerbaijan region.

The new Islamic charter, proposed, by Khomeini as a basis for his Islamic Republic, was approved by an overwhelming majority in voting this week. It gives Khomeini power for life. Both religious leaders appear to in essential agreement on most provisions in the charter.

During a shooting incident in Qom Wednesday, a member of Khomeini's revolutionary guards and one of. Shariat-Madari's personal guards were killed and eight other persons were wounded, informed sources said.

About 300 of Shariat-Madari's supporters gathered in Qom, saying two of their comrades had been killed and vowing revenge.

Revolutionary guard leaders in Tehran issued a statement strongly denying they were involved in the Qom incident, and urging unity with our brothers and sisters in Tabriz and in other Azerbaijan cities ...

No casualties were reported today, and tension eased in Qom after Kho-

By The Associated Press President Carter applied new pressure and domestic trouble broke out in Iran as 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy spent a 33rd day in of militant Iranian students. Here are the highlights:

In Washington

President Carter was said to be hoping a policy of economic denial -"turning the screws a little tighter" every few days - will induce Iran to free the hostages.

Carter reportedly told about 100 House members Wednesday night at the White House, of a series of economic measures he is prepared to take to end the crisis

The administration apparently hopes to enlist the support of several U.S. allies in Europe, all major consumers of Iranian oil. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance may travel to Europe next week to try to line up support for new American initiatives. A high-level State and Treasury Department mission was sent to Europe on Wednesday.

Trouble in Iran

Supporters of Iranian ruler Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the man behind the anti-U.S. feelings in Iran, and the religious leader of the country's Turkish minority clashed in the holy city of Qom for the second straight day

Wednesday night one man was shot dead in clashes between Khomeini and Shariat Madari supporters in Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran, where the hostages are being held.

Shariat-Madari's followers were protesting that the state radio and television distorted his criticism of the constitution, approved in a national referendum this week, giving sweeping powers for life to Khomeini.

The ailing shah

Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, resting and playing chess in the unseasonably warm San Antonio, Texas, sun, ruled out four nations often mentioned as possible havens - Egypt, South Africa, Panama and The Bahamas.

And a spokesman said the shah, recovering from cancer treatment and gallstone surgery, is withholding comment on the taking of hostages at the embassy and on allegations against him until after the Americans are freed

His admission to the United States triggered the embassy takeover on Nov. 4

American protests

New York City cab drivers promised to shine their headlights and Rhode Island gasoline station owners started handing out white flags as the American hostages in Iran spent their 32nd day in captivity.

Meanwhile, Alger Hiss, one of the most celebrated targets of the 1950s' "Red Scare" said the treatment of Iranians in the United States reflected the kind of feeling he hoped had vanished with the era of Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

"John feels the United Nations should boycott Iran financially and politically and in every kind of way." - Mrs. Nellie Connally meini paid an afternoon visit on Shariat-Madari and said "plotters" were responsible for the trouble. He said he "never had differences" with Shariat-Madari.

"Do not quarrel between yourselves and focus on the one and only enemy It is your religious duty and national responsibility to concentrate on the confrontation with the United States," Khomeini said in a state radio broadcast to the nation.

The demonstrators in Tabriz said they were angered by broadcast satements attributed to Shariat-Madari appealing for calm, saying they would only believe the remarks were authentic if they heard them from Shariat-Madari himself.

The protesters also were angry over official referendum returns, still coming in, which claim endorsement of the constitution in the province. The constitution fails to meet the minority's demand for more autonomy:

Rationing or higher tax? Carter's advisers want one or the other

WASHINGTON (AP) - There is a "growing consensus" among President Carter's advisers that he should

"It boils down to choices between rationing or taxes," the official said in an interview Wednesday. He did not want to be identified.

The official said a decision has not been made among Carter's advisers on whether even to recommend the tax to the president. He said some advisers remain skeptical that either a gasoline tax or gasoline rationing would work to reduce consumption.

He said other options are also still under consideration, including establishment of oil import quotas. But he stressed there is "a growing consensus" in favor of either taxes or ration-

-INSIDE TODAV-

Congress earlier this year approved legislation that would allow rationing when there was a 20 percent reduction in supplies. The administration would have to go back to Congress to change that legislation if it wanted to impose rationing to encourage conservation.

CBS News reported Wednesday night that the Energy Department has come up with a standby rationing plan to handle a 20 percent gasoline shortage. That plan would reportedly give ordinary motorists about threequarters of their normal usage. For the alternative rationing plan to force conservation, CBS said, the department is studying two options.

County still searching for Culver house parents

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

Although Midland County's Culver Youth Home was expected to be reopened in mid-November, the facility remains closed

The youth detention facility has been closed since Oct. 8 due to a lack of house parents.

The man heading up the search for new house parents, Juvenile Probation Officer Grover Green, said Wednesday he is investigating the backgrounds of two sets of applicants. Green added that he hopes the minimum security detention facility for juveniles will be able to reopen short-

The salary paid house parents by the county has been one problem, Green conceded Wednesday

Of six initial sets of applicants, the county has yet to find new house parents.

"Most of it was the salary," the juvenile probation officer said. Three of those applicants indicated the salary was too low and two other sets wanted a situation in which the husband could work an additional job outside the facility.

But there are other factors, Green said

"I really think the whole thing is that jobs are plentiful around here and everybody has got them a job,' Green noted.

While the facility remains closed, juveniles detained by law enforcement personnel in Midland County are being housed either at the Midland City Jail or Midland County Jail.

Asked if such an artangement presents a problem for the county, Green replied, "It's just a matter of not wanting to keep them in jail if we can possibly help it."

Green had said in November that an average of six juveniles per day were housed in Culver Youth Home last year.

Midland County pays a couple $672 per month for serving as house parents at the facility. That salary increases to $746 per month after six months

Green said he and Midland County commissioners have discussed possibly increasing the salary. But the commissioners wanted him to first interview the last two sets of applicants and then, if house parents could not be found, discuss the salary again.

"Both these prospects look pretty good," the juvenile probation officer noted

But apparently these last two sets of applicants may be the county's final hope before it has to take another look at the salary situation.

'We just haven't had anybody else apply," Green added. For their salary, a couple is expected to be at the facility 24 hours a day, five days a week. If the house parents work seven days a week instead of five, they are paid an additional $60. All expenses of the house parents are paid by the county with the exception of clothing.

Temperatures to swing up as cold front effects diminish

Temperatures should begin to take a swing upward Friday as the effects of a cold front that passed through the Permian Basin on Wednesday begin. to diminish The weatherman said the high Fri-

Swearing-in ceremonies for Lucius Bunton of Odessa as the first "resident" judge of Midland's U.S. District Court are scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday in the district courtroom on the third floor of the George Mahon Federal Building

Bunton, 54, was confirmed by the U.S. Senate last week as a new federal judge in the Western District of Texas. He had been recommended by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and nominated by President Jimmy Carter.

U.S. District Judge William Sessions of El Paso is expected to be on hand to administer the oath of office to Bunton.

Other federal judges expected to be present for the ceremony include. Judge Adrian Spears and Judge D.W. Suttle, both of San Antonio, and Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth of El Paso.

Bunton said U.S. District Attorney Jamie Boyd and Assistant U.S. District Attorney Wayne Speck, both of San Antonio, also may be on hand. The public is invited to attend the ceremony, Bunton said.

Judge Hudspeth of El Paso was confirmed at the same time as Bunton, but Hudspeth's swearing-in ceremony was conducted elsewhere.

Prior to the appointment of Bunton, federal judges from El Paso or San Antonio were assigned to courtroom duty in Midland. Now, however, Bunton will serve as a resident federal judge here with primary responsibilities for the Midland-Odessa Division of the Western District, the Pecos Division and one-quarter of the El Paso Division.

A native of Del Rio, Bunton was in private practice in Odessa for 20 years prior to his appointment. He also served as district attorney of the 83rd Judicial District in Marfa for six years.

Former MHS student given probated sentence in robbery of student

A 17-year-old former Midland High School student has been handed a five-year probated prison sentence after pleading guilty Wednesday to the Oct. 26, 1979, robbery of a fellow student at the high school.

Richard D. Shelton, 209 N. Donald St., was scheduled to go on trial Tuesday morning in 142nd District Court here, but changed his plea to guilty about 9 a.m.

Shelton entered his plea in front of an eight-woman, four-man jury which then deliberated about a half-hour before returning the five-year probat ed sentence.

Shelton, a student at the high school at the time of the incident, was charged with the robbery of a younger male classmate at Midland High School Oct. 26.

According to police reports at the time, the younger student was assaulted by two fellow students and robbed of a small amount of change.

One of the victim's teeth was knocked out during the scuffle in the robbery, police reports indicated.

A second person charged in connection with the case, 18-year-old Curtis Ray Deary, 1709 N. Edwards St., has not been tried yet.

Medical diagnostic care in Midland took at surge forward this year when Midland Memorial Hospital acquired an electronic see-all C-T brain-scanner, which does "things nothing else will do.

That claim came from Dr. William P. Trotter, chairman of radiology at the hospital, who, along with neurosurgeon Dr. William L. McGavran, gave Midland Downtown Lions Club an accounting of the $325,000 machine's diagnostic marvels Wednesday in the Midland Hilton.

'We wanted one (machine) that was very reliable and had pin-point accuracy, and we got it" through funds donated to the hospital, Trotter said of the C-T instrument. In medical jargon it is called the "neurological computerized-tomographic" machine. It's also referred to as the cat-scanner

The machine provides live, in-color views of the brain.

"You can look at the brain and everything in it," Trotter said. "We can make a diagnosis and make it fast" without the "danger of some other methods," he said, "and it's safe

McGavran noted that the C-T scanner, which is restricted to head-area probing, is used in cases such as head injuries, suspected tumors, strokes and other blood clots on the brain, and severe headaches. ("Nature's still the best cure" for strokes, McGavran said.)

With the C-T scanner, there is no "chance of serious injury" which sometimes is associated with such procedures as those employing catheterization and the spinal tap, which "is very painful," said McGavran.

The patient is as sick as a dog for three or four days afterward. It is very painful." Those means are longer used for head examination in the Midland hospital, he said.

Videotape of shah's walk 'taught military something'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Videotape depicting the shah of Iran taking a stroll at Lackland Air Force Base "showed the military it is possible to get in shooting distance," says the news director of the station that aired it.

News Director Bob Rogers of KENS-TV said Wednesday the videotape aired Monday night may have taught officials at Lackland Air Force Base a lesson.

A source at the base, unimpressed with cameraman Joe Dunca quietly arrived Sunday to continue his recuperation.

Robert Armao, the shah's top spokesman, confirmed only that the shah was among the three persons in the group shown on the videotape. The white-haired man identified asthe shah wore a white suit. Armao said Wednesday that the

Shah to answer 'vicious charges'

He's waiting for hostages to be freed, advisor says

By GREG THOMPSON

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The shah of Iran, a monarch with a $131,-000 price on his head and no kingdom. plans to answer vicious allegations against him, but only after the American hostages in Iran are freed. says his senior advisor.

Robert Armao also said Wednesday that the deposed ruler will not be going to 'n Panama, South Africa or The Bahamas - three countries ru-mored to be potential permanent homes. The shah has ruled out Egypt because of the delicate Middle East situation, Armao said.

Armao's comments to reporters were the first public announcements since the shah slipped into heavily guarded Lackland Air Force Base early Sunday for an indefinite period of recuperation from cancer and gallstone treatments in New York.

"It has been very hard for him to remain silent with the accusations being hurled at him," said Armae.

"The shah continues to pray for the safe return of the American hostages, and for his country. For him to say more at this time would be insensitive and inflammatory.

As Armao spoke, Iranian students at San Antonio College were telling reporters that the shah was a mass murderer and said his presence here s comparable to harboring Adolf Hitler. The new Iranian regime also claims the shah plundered the counry for billions of dollars.

"The shah eventually, when this crisis ends and the hostages are safe and sound, will be speaking out on the situation," Armao said. "He'll assume a prominent role in answering those accusations." Militant Iranian students in Tehran hold 50 American embassy employees hostage and demand the return of the shah for trial. The United States government has refused and is aiding the shah in his quest for a permanent place to live. Egypt has offered asylum. Armao said the shah fears he would inflame the Middle East situation if he moves there.

Armao said the stay at Lackland is temporary, but added, "At the moment, we have no time frame for his departure.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, resting and playing chess in the unseasonably warm Texas sun, has ruled out four nations often mentioned as possible havens - Egypt, South Afri-ca, Panama and The Bahamas, a spokesman says.

But the shah is withholding comment on the taking of hostages at the U.S. Embassy in his homeland and on allegations against him, at least until after the Americans in Iran are freed, adviser Robert Armao said Wednes-

"The prognosis at this time is very, very good," Armao said of the shah's health prospects. "Of course, lymphatic cancer is a very serious illness and could reoccur at any time."

The shah is housed in comfortable, barracks-like visiting officers quarters - which are sealed off by layers of Air Force security.

Humor helping in Israeli classrooms

By CHRIS CELEK

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Lively classroom banter helps school children learn more and score higher on intelligence tests, according to a Tel Aviv University psychologist.

Dr. Avner Ziv said in a recent interview with The Associated Press he is trying to persuade teachers to brighten up their lectures with a joke or two because his research shows that students will reand arithmetic you the inspiration and courage to be creative," Ziv. said. "And laughter makes you less aggressive and more receptive master abstract concepts, Ziv said. He devised several tests to measure senses of humor and conducted experiments with controlled groups of college students enrolled in statistics courses.

Professors participating in the research delivered the same lectures and gave the same examinations to different sets of students. In one humor test, however, a statistics class had its lectures spiced up with jokes and cartoons related to their studies while

Students also can be taught humor and actually become wittier if teachers take a lighter approach at the blackboard. Ziv maintained. "You can't make a Woody Allen out of everyone, of course, but you can encourage humorous expression.

Most psychological research deals with mental illness and the darker side of human behavior, which he said depressed him and made him wonder. why his colleagues never studied laughter.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is there any difference in meaning between "obesity" and "overweight?" - Ms. A.G. Dear Ms. G.: In the patients I see I define overweight as being 10 to 20 percent over your ideal weight for a person's age, sex and body build. Obesity refers to a weight at least 30 percent above the ideal. People who fall between 20 and 30 percent above their ideal weight I refer to as preobese. The American Medical Association claims that at least 10 percent of all adult Americans fall into the 'obese'' category.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Three years ago I had my tubes tied because i thought I would not want any more children. Last year - for reasons that I won't go into - 1 had the operation reversed. Although my doctor tells me the reversal was successful, I have been unable to become pregnant. Is it possible that the original operation caused some permanent damage that will prevent my having another child? - Mrs. N.V

Dear Mrs. V .: It is possible that the sterilization procedure has affected your ovaries. Dr. Eva Radwanska, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, has suggested that when the Fallopian tubes are tied or burned, the blood supply to the ovaries may be restricted. As a result, ovulation may be affected.

When the tubes are burned, part of the surrounding area that normally delivers blood to the ovaries may also be destroyed. Similarly, when the tubes are tied, blood vessels surrounding them are often drawn up, cutting off the blood supply. The result may be that the ovaries do not work as well as they used to. If the procedure is done immediately after a pregnancy, when the area is stretched, it is less likely to cause this damage

Dear Dr. Solomon: Three years ago, an uncle of mine had electric shock therapy because he was severely depressed. Although the treatment helped him at the time, it resulted in some loss of memory. He has now become very depressed once more, and has not responded to drug therapy. Is there any way a person can benefit from electric shock therapy without suffering the side effects? - May.

Dear May: There is some preliminary evidence that corticosteroids may help avoid the loss of memory due to electro-convulsive therapy (ECT)

Drs. Ervin Varga and Arthur Sugarman, psychologists at the Carrier Foundation in New Jersey, gave desamethasone to depressed patients both before and after each of three to five ECT treatments. Sixteen hours later, the patients showed no confusion or amnesai, although all had suffered the temporary kind of amnesia that commonly occurs immediately after ECT. All patients were relieved of the symptoms of depression at the time they left the hospital.

November food prices increase by highest amount in five years

WASHINGTON (AP) - Food prices jumped by the highest amount in five years last month, helping to push overall wholesale prices up 1.3 percent, the government said today.

November's 2.6 percent increase in food prices at the wholesale level offset the smallest rise in energy costs since February, the Labor Department reported.

The food price boost — the largest since a 4.2 percent rise in November 1974 - came primarily in the meat category, with processed poultry prices shooting up 21.5 percent. Beef, veal and pork prices also increased sharply after declining in October, the department said.

The overall 1.3 percent increase follows a 1 percent rise in October and 1.4 percent jump in September.

So far this year, prices at the wholesale or producer level - one step short of retail store shelves - have accelerated at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 12.8 percent.

That virtually guarantees that 1979 will be the worst year for inflation at the producer level since 1974, a Labor Department economist said.

Wholesale price changes are included in the Producer Price Index, which reports prices at three levels:

the wholesale - or finished goods level, when goods are ready for sale to the final user; the intermediate level where they have received some processing; and the crude level, where goods have not yet received any processing.

Changes in the Producer Price Index are watched carefully because they often show up at the consumer level in a month or two.

Retail prices are rising at more than 13 percent a year, the fastest rate since 1946 when the government lifted World War II price controls. The Labor Department said prices for finished energy goods in November increased 2.5 percent, the smallest monthly advance since February

There was a marked slowdown in the price advance of home heating oil, which rose just 0.1 percent last month after a 4.7 percent jump in October. Gasoline prices went up 3.4 percent last month after jumping 5.1 percent in October, the department said. Price increases also slowed for passenger cars and mobile homes.

While energy price increases moderated somewhat last month, news for the year is more gloomy. Energy prices were 62.7 percent higher in November than they were one year earlier, the department said.

In addition, food prices at the producer level increased 8.9 percent over the 12-month span.

Prices for all other finished goods rose 9.3 percent during that period and prices of equipment for producing goods went up 8.6 percent.

The Producer Price Index in November stood at 225.9. That means that goods that cost $100 at wholesale in 1967 cost $225.90 last month.

Food prices had edged down 01 percent in October, and the 2.6 jump last month came as a surprise, said a Labor Department economist who asked not to be identified.

"It appears that meat prices were depressed in previous months, as supplies ran high. We may have been living on borrowed time," he said.

In addition to meat and poultry prices, prices were also up for roasted coffee, fresh vegetables, macaroni and sugar in consumer-size packages. the department reported. Prices declined for fresh fruits, milled rice and fish.

The Labor Department economist pointed to what "might be good news downs the line," a relatively small price increase for intermediate goods which increased 0.9 percent last month, only half as much as in Octo-

The department reported that crude material prices rose 2 percent in November, half a percentage point higher than October and about the same rate as in September.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that consumers can expect near record supplies of meat and poultry next year with a resulting slowdown in price increases.

"Retail meat and poultry prices may increase more slowly than the rate for all food," the department's outlook board said. "While prices for all food items are expected to increase by 7 to 11 percent in 1980, meat price gains may be limited to only 4 to 6 percent.

The department forecast last month that 1980 food prices overall may gain 7 percent to 11 percent, with a boost of about 8 percent most likely. It is projecting an 11 percent increase in food prices for 1979.

After months of optimistic forecasts, key Carter administration economists now say inflation at the retail level - measured by the Consumer Price Index - will exceed 13 percent this year

Welcome, Judge Bunton

Midland and area residents extend congratulations to Lucius D. Bunton III of Odessa on his appointment as a resident judge for Midland's U.S. District Court, while at the same time welcoming him to his new court assignment here

The native West Texan, born at Del Rio and reared at Marfa and the ranch country of Presidio County, will be sworn into office at 2 p.m. Friday in the U.S. District Courtroom here by U.S. District Judge William Sessions of El Paso

The popular jurist, well-known and highly respected throughout the Southwest and beyond, has been in private practice for 30 years. He served as district attorney of the 83rd Judicial District at Marfa for six years prior to entering private practice at Odessa 20 years ago. He is a former member and president of the Board of Education of the Ector County Independent School District, and is also a veteran of World War II.

Bunton is the first "resident" judge the Midland-Odessa Division of the federal court's Western District has had. Thus, it may be said that the Midland court has come of age.

As Judge Bunton told The Reporter-Telegram's Bill Modisett in a recent interview, the major effect of having a resident judge here will be that Midland "will have a more active court because I will have more time to devote to the docket here." He anticipates an increase in the filings here. This, of course, was the original intent in creating the court here, to more conveniently serve the needs of this region and to relieve excessive dockets of other courts in the Western District.

Bunton was recommended for the judgeship by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, nominated by President Carter and unanimously confirmed by the U.S. Senate. Wise decisions and actions prevailed all the way.

All best wishes are extended to Judge Bunton as he assumes his new, important, lifetime position here

WASHINGTON - Israeli officials believe that the ill wind of the Iranian hostage crisis will blow some good their way, according to top-secret cables from U.S. diplomats in Jerusa-

The way the Israelis see it - or at least the way American diplomats are reporting the Israeli's viewpoints - the Iranian situation will force the Carter administration to adopt a more pro-Israel policy in the Middle East takeover, until long after the hostages are released.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

The Israeli confidence in 'eventual U.S. asquiescence in the consolidation of Jewish settlements on the West Bank - which the Carter administration has strongly opposed - may to. some extent be offset by our diplomats' irritation at the pragmatic way the Israelis have sought to capitalize on the Iranian crisis, sources told our reporter Ron McRae.

In fact, according to the secret officials American Embas meini's false charges that the United States and Israel were responsible for the attack on the holy shrine in Mecca.

Khomeini's wild allegation was, in fact, the real cause of the attack on our embassy in Islamabad, the death of two Americans and the terrorization and evacuation of hundreds of U.S. Embassy personnel and their families.

BUNGLED BRIEFING: Jimmy WILL American Jewish leaders took another turn for the worse after a recent White House briefing which was hopelessly bungled, according to several of the participants. Several weeks ago, about 30 Jewish leaders were summoned to the White House for a confidential Middle East presentation by trouble-shooting Ambassador Robert Strauss and other top Carter aides Much of the not-so-secret information divulged, however, left the unhappy guests muttering to themselves. When one questioner asked the exact circumstances of former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's firing, for example, he was told in Alice-in-Wonderland fashion that Young had indeed left the administration. When another participant demanded to know what the Carter administration was doing to support Jewish dissidents in the Soviet Union, he was informed that specific information would have to be collected. After the officious, off-the-record session; one Jewish leader confided disgustedly, "Some of the people came all the way from the West Coast to hear this junk.

ART BUCHWALD Use your imagination when watching news shows on tv

WASHINGTON - One of the things I enjoy the most about the news shows on television is that you have to use your imagination when watching them.

I don't seem to react much when the newspaper correspondent is actually talking to somebody. But I jump out of my seat when the reporter has failed to interview the subject he has been assigned to.

More and more of this is going on now. You've probably seen it yourself but haven't paid any attention to it. Here's how it goes

"For the latest report on medical fraud in the United States, let's go to Michael Mindlin in Thyroid, Long Island.

"Chester, I'm standing here in front of the $500,000 home of Dr. William Scalpel, who made $150 million from Medicaid this year by advising all his patients to go to a different physician for a second opinion. Dr. Scalpel is now in the house, presumably on the second floor, but he has refused to come out to talk to me. He arrived home at seven o'clock and drove his Mercedes into these closed garage doors behind me. Then I knocked on the front door over here but no one answered. I went around to the back and rang the kitchen doorbell and he refused to respond to my rings. Neighbors have told me that Dr. Scalpel will probably stay in his house all evening. This is Michael Mindlin reporting from Thyroid, Long Island. "Good work Michael, and now let's go to our White House correspondent, Janet Blonde.

'Chester, I'm standing here in front of the White House where Hamilton Jordan has yet to make an appearance. This is the fifth day that Jordan has not come out to talk to reporters. A White House spokesman said Jordan is very busy working on the crisis in Iran and the economy. Just before I went on the air a black limousine pulled up to the driveway behind me. and two people carrying briefcases stepped out and went into the side door.

"Did you notice who they were, Janet?

'No, I didn't, Chester, and the chauffeur refused to say who he worked for. Both men are still-in the White House and have been there for more than an hour.

'Thank you, Janet. We'll get back to you if they leave. Now let's go to an on-the-spot live report from Tom Stinch in front of New York Hospi-

'Chester, it's all quiet at New York . Hospital at this hour. The Shah of Iran has been gone for a week, and hospital officials, who wouldn't let our cameras inside, say that it is now business as usual. An hour ago an ambulance brought in a lady who had broken her hip in the bathroom. I tried to speak to a nurse who treated the shah, but she sent word down that she has been ordered not to talk to anybody about his stay here.

"Tom, where are Henry Kissinger and David Rockefeller at this moment?

'That's the interesting thing, Chester. Kissinger is out lecturing and David Rockefeller's office said he had gone to the opera with his wife."

"Well, that puts a whole new light on the problem, doesn't it, Tom? 'Yes, it does, Chester. If anything

It is reported that three youths who were not students walked into the high school cafeteria and exchanged gunfire with a 17-yearold youth. And making the incident all the more horrible and even frightening for rank and file Americans was the comment of one observer that "people just didn't seem to care." After all, this is America, and such situations and attitudes do not fit into the American scene

Somewhat similar incldents have happened at Riverfront Coliseum on previous occasions. Surely, officials now will take steps to prevent reoccurrences in the future.

Yes, these particular incidents happened a long way from West Texas, but they could happen here, unless preventative measures are practiced.

Israeli leaders have long been grumbling about what they perceive as Carter's policy tilt toward the Arab oil producing nations at the expense of traditional U.S. support for 1srael. Some have gone so far as to accuse the president's Polish-born national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, of being anti-Semitic - a charge he denies vehemently

But now, according to cables between Jerusalem and Washington, the Israeli government sees the dead ly chess game over the Tehran Embassy seizure as a golden opportunity to bolster Israel's political and economic position.

"The Begin government apparently sees the Iranian crisis as an opportunity to consolidate its position on the West Bank," said a recent secret message from the U.S. Embassy to Foggy Bottom. From the reports, Israeli officials seem certain that "the Carter administration will not side with oil-producing states, no matter what their position on the embassy in Jerusalem resent the treatment given the Tehran Embassy seizure in the Israeli press, and blame it for our troubles elsewhere in the Moslem world.

Speculation in the Israeli press about possible joint U.S.-Israeli military action against Iran lent credence to Iranian charges that the U.S. and Israel planned the assault on the Grand Mosque (in Mecca)' and probably helped provoke the mob attacks on the U.S. Embassy (in Pakistan)," one secret cable charges, adding bluntly: "The Israeli government has done nothing to discourage these inflammatory stories.

The intelligence report noted that the Israeli government has broad powers of censorship, which it has used in the past, and might easily have clamped down on the press speculation about U.S.-Israeli military action. By failing to scotch such rumors, the cables from our embassy in Jerusalem indicate, the Israeli government created an atmosphere of credibility for Ayatollah Ruhollah Kho-

Japanese-Americans oddly remembered on Pearl Harbor Day

WASHINGTON - The five Japa nese-Americans in Congress are gracious enough not to show displeasure over the realization that the only time of year, it seems, that their ancestry gets attention is around Pearl Harbor Day. The people in Japan don't stop to think about America only on the anniversary of Hiroshima, now do they?

Japanese-Americans are remarkable. "We're the most overrepresented minority in Congress," cracks Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.). Indeed, 750,000 Japanese-Americans constitute three-tenths of 1 percent of the U.S. population, and therefore should have one-third of a senator and scarcely more than one congressman. Instead, they have three U.S. senators and, had Patsy Takemoto Mink not retired, would have three representatives in the House.

The very people who were herded into internment camps after the outbreak of World War II now have far more than their share of professionals, civic and public officials and military heroes. Sen. Sam Hayakawa (R-Calif.), the wisest and most mayerick of the lot, attributes this Japanese-American success to the powerful Japanese motivation, "giri to one's name," meaning the duty to keep one's reputation unblemished.

By unjustly confining Japanese-Americans in concentration camps, the overly apprehensive Americans, by Hayakawa's estimate, did them an unintentional favor, because these victims responded with dignity and a determination to excel as true Americans.

"Dec. 7 changed a lot of things," Mineta observes. His Japanese-born (Issei) father wept that day and on Feb. 19, 1942, when he and his family were taken to relocation camp. "I was 10 years old, and they dressed me in my Cub Scout uniform to show our patriotism and we were taken away." Mineta recalls.

Once in camp, the Japanese-Americans earnestly read U.S. history and civics, worked hard in nearby fields and demonstrated a work-ethic that would gladden the heart of any Yankee Puritan. The younger volunteered in droves for military duty. Some 33,000 - proportionately twice the number for the rest of the poulation served in World War II.

One Nisei, Sgt. Sakamoto, was killed in action the very day that vigilante citizens burned down his house in Calfiornia. Mrs. Hide Kanow, whose four sons were wounded in Italy, spent the war behind barbed wire in a stockade at Rohwer, Ark.

Sen. Spark Matsunaga (D-Hawaii) was acting company commander of a U.S. infantry company in his native Hawaii on Dec. 7 when he looked to the sky and exclaimed, "Maneuvers are getting realistic. Look at the Rising Sun painted on that plane."

In the months afterward an invasion was feared, 50 plain old Americans and Japanese-Americans in the Army on Hawaii stood together, ready to repel the enemy. But in June, 1942. Matsunaga and other Nisei soldiers were stripped of their weapons, confined to barracks and then shipped to Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, where one look at the barbed wire fences convinced them they were to be interned

Instead, after initial training with wooden rifles, they went to Italy and great glory. "Grown men leaped with joy when they learned they were going into battle," Matsunaga remembers. The Japanese-American units were the most decorated in World War II, suffered 40 percent casualties, and came away with buckets of Purple Hearts and other medals. Matsunaga was wounded twice himself.

So was Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, who lost his right arm. He was wearing his bemedaled uniform and an empty sleeve when he entered a San Francisco barbershop and was told, "We don't serve Japs here." Inouve said, "I am an American," and left.

Despite the atrocious treatment they received in World War II, Japanese-Americans got better, not bitter. Rep. Robert Matsui (D-Calif.) spent his infancy in an internment camp. going in at age 6 months and coming out four years later.

Matsui recalls that in Sacramento public schools, "I felt like a raped woman who didn't want to talk about it, when teachers asked me to tell the class what it was like to have been in a camp.

Somewhere in the Fifties anti-Japanese feeling in California (long the hotbed for it), diminished, though Matsui experienced discrimination once when he tried to rent an apartment. Hayakawa, though Canadian born, had been classified as an 'enemy alien" by his Chicago draft board in World War II. In California. however, officials at San Francisco State College, where he had taught summers, invited him in 1952 to take a permanent job. Mineta was elected president of his San Jose High School class in 1949.

Recently, the Japanese-American Citizens League proposed that each internee be compensated with $25,000. But most Japanese-Americans, though paid only 10 cents on the dollar for property confiscated in the war, aren't interested.

"How can we set a price tag for the denial of constitutional rights, for official insults, for loss of individual dignity?" says Sen. Inouye, in rejecting the compensation notion (all five in Congress do).

What's more important to Inouve and the others is that the U.S. government - meaning all of us - establish a commission to investigate what happened to these extraordinary people and issue a formal apology and salute. Hopefully, such a commission won't issue its final report on Pearl Harbor Day

ODESSA - Services for Henry L. Lawson, 70, of Odessa will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Sherwood Baptist Church here. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Gardens directed by Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home.

Lawson died Tuesday in an Odessa hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was born Aug. 8, 1909, in Newcastle. He was a retired oil field plumber and carpenter for Tenneco. He was married Nov. 7, 1933, to Lois Walters in Wichita Falls. Lawson was a member of the Sherwood Baptist Church, the Scottish Rite and Order of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Henry Lawson of El Paso and Calvin Lawson of Odessa; a daughter, Rosetta Faye Pool of McCamey; four brothers, L.H. Lawson of Odessa, Ray Lawson of Oklahoma city, Dr. Fred Lawson of Okeene, Okla:, and Ed Lawson of Stanton; two sisters, Reba McDougle of Wichita Falls and Bonnie Hambright of Iowa Park; seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Democrats on Wednesday shelved a Republican amendment to the oil industry "windfall profits" tax that was aimed at forcing individual and business tax cuts starting in 1981. On a 49-44 vote, the senators held, in effect, that the amendment violated congressional budget procedures because it had not been considered by the Senate Budget Committee.

"By this vote ... we are saying to the American people that we cannot do anything to ... move this nation in a new direction of opportunity, growth and increased employment," complained Sen. William Roth, R-Del., sponsor of the tax-cut amendment.

But Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., said the vote simply "rejected an amendment that would have provided permanent deficits through the 1980s.

The Roth amendment would not have reduced taxes, but it would have gradually limited the portion of the nation's wealth that the federal government could take through any kind of tax. That could have meant tax cuts totaling $186 billion from 1981 through 1984.

Because of the budget just recently adopted by Congress, said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Budget Committee, the amendment would have nullified efforts to bring federal revenues and spending into balance starting in 1981.

Earlier in the day, the Senate, de spite indications it favors a stiffer 'windfall profits'' tax than recommended by its Finance Committee, drew the line and refused to slash a lucrative tax break enjoyed by the oil industry

On a 57-37 vote, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., that would have cost the industry an additional $14.6 billion in the 1980s. The amendment would have denied the oil depletion allowance - a cherished 22 percent income tax deduction - on future prices that are subject to the windfall tax.

Roth's amendment for individual and business tax cuts assumed the windfall tax that ultimately passes Congress will bring in $185 billion in the 1980s. The House has passed a $277 billion tax. The Senate has increased its version from the $138 billion recommended by the Finance Committee to about $157 billion.

In reaching that figure, the Senate approved a $10 billion tax exemption for independent producers - those not affiliated with one of the major oil companies. The Senate also stiffened the tax on oil that is flowing from wells discovered after 1973, and extended the tax into the late 1990s.

Sensing a mood for an even tougher tax on the oil industry. Leahy offered an amendment that oil-state senators charged would have more than wiped out any benefit resulting from the exemption for independent producers Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said the Leahy amendment was ill-timed, in light of problems in oil-producing foreign countries, and showed "congressional greed to tax and tax and tax" the petroleum industry with no regard to how it would affect oil produc

"There has to be a limit," Dole said

Noting record oil profits, Leahy replied, "I cannot see how anyone can justify or explain taking $14.6 billion from hard-working Americans and giving it to oil producers who, under current circumstances, already have more revenues than they can possibly invest in oil production.

The oil depletion allowance, available only to independent producers, allows a producer a 22-cent deduction against income taxes for each $1 of oil income

The Leahy amendment would have denied that tax deduction on any future oil price increase that is subject to the windfall tax. For example, on "new" oil - that from wells on which production began since 1973 - the amendment would have barred the depletion deduction on any price above $13 a barrel.

Removal of price controls and price increases by foreign producers generally are expected to push that $13 price to about $30 over the next few months, resulting in a $17 "windfall.

Many minerals - not just oil benefit from the depletion allowance. But other tax benefits enjoyed by the oil industry have made its depletion allowance a perennial targetsof tax 'reformers.

The "windfall profits" tax, which has no direct relation to profits, would take away a part of the $1 trillion that is expected to go to the oil industry over the next decade because of President Carter's decision to phase out price controls on domestic crude oil.

Peking city government bans Democracy Wall

PEKING (AP) --- The Peking city government announced today that it is abolishing Democracy Wall, effectively ending 12 months of nearly uninhibited free speech in the capital and presumably elsewhere in China.

In place of Democracy Wall, the government will allow carefully screened posters to be hung in Moon Altar Park, a mile to the west. There, a registration center will be set up for . those wishing to put up posters. Their names, pseudonyms, addresses and units to which they belong will be recorded.

The Peking Municipal Revolutionary Committee said the content of the posters will not be examined at the park, but "writers of big-character posters will be held responsible for the political and legal implications of the content. It is forbidden to reveal state secrets, to fabricate information and make false charges, to libel and conduct other activities that violate the law.

Exxon's profits are large but so are its investments in energy. When Exxon's profits are put on a comparable basis with the profits of other U.S. manufacturing companies, we do only a little better than average.

. In 1978, for example, only two companies reported higher profits than Exxon. But 545 companies were more profitable than Exxon according to the Fortune magazine list of the largest 1,000 U.S. manufacturing companies.

. The difference between "profit" and . "profitability" is important. "Profit" is like a worker's take-home pay. It tells you little about how many hours were worked to get it. Takehome pay might be large simply because of a lot of overtime. So, "profit" could be large, even though "profitability" (dollars earned per hour) is hot.

Shareholders invest dollars instead of time, so to have real meaning, profits must be related to the amount of money which is invested. A common measure of earning performance is "return on shareholder investment."

During the past decade, Exxon's return on shareholder investment has ranged from a low of 12.4% in 1970 to a high of 20.6% in 1974. So far in 1979, our return has been at an annualized rate of 18.5%

We don't know how long this current rate of return will last, but we do know that finding and developing energy is getting increasingly more expensive. Oil companies need to be at least as profitable as other companies if they are to continue to be able to attract the funds necessary. for the high risk, big investments vital to the delivery of energy in the future.

Warsaw Pact members end two-day conference

BERLIN (AP) - Foreign ministers of the seven Warsaw Pact member nations ended their two-day conference today with a new warning to the NATO alliance to forsake plans for stationing new U.S.-built missiles in Western Europe.

In a communique, the Soviet Bloc foreign ministers condemned NATO's 'dangerous plans'' to station 572 Pershing II and Cruise missiles in Western Europe and urged the West to "consider once again" the weapons' effect on the military balance.

They also repeated their call, issued last spring in Budapest, Hungary, for convening of another disarmament conference bringing together nations of Europe, Canada and the United States.

The ministers said the communist alliance would be interested in negotiating a series of "confidence-building" measures designed to reduce tensions in Europe

The East Berlin meeting took place one week before a conference of NATO defense ministers in Brussels, during which the missile deployment plan is expected to be approved.

Chances for approval of the missiles received a boost Wednesday night when delegates to the Social Democratic Party convention in West Berlin endorsed Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's stand on the issue.

Schmidt has urged the alliance to approve deployment of the missiles in conjunction with an offer to the Soviets to negotiate a mutual reduction in medium-range nuclear delivery systems.

Raising the 'big top' is plain hard work

BIG SPRING — Once Circus Vargas' technical crew begins raising its football field-size tent, work is non-stop. It's difficult for anybody to take time to explain the basic mechanics of how a circus tent that measures 150 feet by 300 feet when fully assembled fits together. But if all the explanations were transformed into one man, he would likely be from almost anywhere in the world, almost any age and speak almost any language. He's happier, caring for his 'pets

GARDENDALE - Mack Gray, on doctor's orders, put regular work aside two years ago and put in more and more time with his pets.

"You have to feed them, water them, spray them, prune them, and they're pretty expensive pets," said nut fancier Mack Gray.

His pets are pecans, which more and more patient people are taking up for fun - avocation - and profit - money Gray, who has been out here since the early 1960s, put in his first pecan trees back then and provided them with liquid nourishment via the drip irrigation system.

'That's all it was - brush'' land, when he bought Gardendale acreage back then and put in the first of his current stand of 545 trees - mostly Western Schley and Wichita varieties and a smattering of Burketts and Mohawks

"I don't think you can beat the Western," Gray said out in his grove, where he had been threshing his stand of young but mature Wichitas. He'd pick the fallen nuts up later by hand. "It (the Western) is the best tree (for West Texas) and I believe it probably will bear as consistently as any other variety.

The Wichita has a few drawbacks, observed Gray

'The tree has a weak crotch'' and is prone to split down the trunk and lose a major limb. "You have to do a lot of pruning on them to keep them from splitting.

And if that's not enough, the Wichita nut is prone to crack. That's just a characteristic of the variety.

Gray, like all serious pecan fanciers, selectively mixes varieties for optimum breeding.

"I used the Wichita to pollinate the Western and, in turn, the Western will pollinate the Wichita.

Gray gained much of his pecan facts and know-how by experimenting with pecans and by listening to such specialists as Dr. Kenneth Lindsey, a district agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Fort Stockton. Gray, for instance, has planted oats among his trees to keep the sand and soil from blowing. Previously, he sowed wheat, which he baled, and then a vegetable crop, including black-eyed peas, which, like alfalfa, takes nitrogen out of the air and puts it in the soil for the betterment of the earth and the pecan crop.

Gray has spent lots of time with his "pets" after he bailed out from his job almost two years ago. The pressure was getting to him at the Odessa plant where he had worked 20 years and where he was a shift foreman.

"If any of them (workers) did anything wrong, it was my fault," Gray lamented. "And management came to me with their problems, and my men came to me with their problems." So, for the sake of his heart, life and well-being, Gray shucked work with company blessings.

Since then, he has devoted his expanded time and conservative energy to designing pecan-grove irrigation systems and looking after his own crop of pecans.

He no longer bears that killing tension which the plant work caused him

Gray's placidity is in his Walden's Pond - the pecan grove.

Every now and then it's broken, however. More than once, crows visited Gray's and his far and near neighbors' pecan groves. And fellow pecan nuts Tommy Dempsey, Jake Anderson and C.C. Harvey got hold of gas-fired exploders to scare off the crows.

"It sounds like a 20 millimeter cannon; it goes 'kaboom,' " recalled Grav. "The crows were driving us crazy.

"They shut 'em off and the crows left, and we haven't had a crow problem since

And the crows left the growers with the pecans, which are about the ideal crop out there.

Iran crisis overshadows Carter campaign trip

NEW YORK (AP) - The crisis in Iran overshadowed the first major foray into New York by Carter forces since the president's announcement that he was a candidate for re-elec-

President Carter, who was to have gone to Harlem and then to a $1,000-aplate fundraising dinner, canceled the Wednesday appearances and stayed in Washington to monitor the latest developments in Iran.

The campaign was launched here instead by first lady Rosalynn Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale at a dinner that grossed $1.2 million and was attended by 1,000 persons. Campaign officials claimed the figure was the largest amount ever collected at a single dinner.

Mondale said during a speech at the dinner that the polls show Carter ahead of Sen. Edward Kennedy and California Gov. Jerry Brown.

Polls are like the seniority system," Mondale said. "They're not so bad once you're ahead. And we're ahead again.

Earlier, Mondale and Mrs. Carter, who were joined by Patricia Roberts Harris, the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and other cabinet officials, received a rough welcome during a Harlem rally at the Salem United Methodist Church.

An egg landed six feet from Mondale and his wife as the party entered the church, and members of the crowd demanded that the deposed Shah of Iran be returned to his homeland.

The hecklers numbered about two dozen, scattered among approximately 800 listeners, most of whom gave the speakers a warm reception. The demonstrators piped up somewhat timidly at first, but each beckler emboffened the ones that followed to call out louder.

Holding her excommunication order, Mrs. Sonia Johnson, a Mormon who worked for ERA ratification, holds a press conference outside her home. (AP Laserphota)

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, THURS., DEC. 6, 1979

Excommunicated ERA supporter vows to fight Mormon Church policy

By H. JOSEF HEBERT

STERLING, Va. (AP) - Sonia Johnson, stunned by her expulsion from the Mormon Church, vows to battle the church from state to state in her renewed campaign for ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

'I can't wait to get into Missouri and Illinois. I just can't wait." she said after receiving word of her excommunication by registered mail Wednesday. "The Mormons have started an underground fire in those places ... and I've just got to put it out.'

Neither state has ratified the amendment, which would prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex. If approved by 38 states, the ERA would become part of the U.S. Constitution.

The Mormon Church, known formally as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, opposes the ERA, saying it could destroy family structures. Church leaders contend they are not against equal rights for women, however.

The church, which initially said it would keep silent, issued a statement saying Mrs. Johnson was excommunicated because she knowingly preached false church doctrine, hurt the church's missionary work and undermined church leaders by portraying them as woman-haters. Specific statements allegedly made by Mrs. Johnson were not provided.

In a letter to the 43-year-old mother of four, Bishop Jeff Willis, head of her church in Sterling and the man who issued the excommunication order. said Mrs. Johnson's stand on the ERA was not at issue

"That is just total and pure nonsense," responded Mrs. Johnson. "If is completely and entirely about the Equal Rights Amendment. Nothing that they said in the trial would have ever gotten me excommunicated if it hadn't been for my work with the ERA.'

Mrs. Johnson, head of "Mormons for ERA," conceded to having "used some stronger rhetoric than was necessary" in campaigning for the amendment, and said she had offered to repent for that language

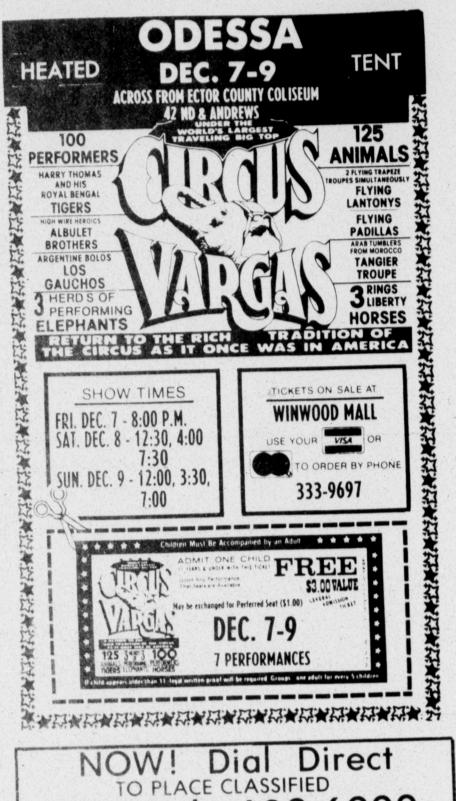

Mrs. Johnson claims the issue in her case is free speech. The church is delving into the political arena and therefore, she has argued, she has the right of dissent

Associates of Mrs. Johnson said she especially angered church leaders when she accused them of sending women to lobby against the ERA in a number of state legislatures without disclosing they were Mormon.

Mrs. Johnson's family has been in the Mormon Church for five generations, and she fought back tears at a news conference outside her home. Excommunication is the harshest penalty the church could hand down. Mormons believe persons who are excommunicated cannot join their families in heaven and are separated from them for eternity

A brother in Utah openly called for her excommunication and her father said she was wrong in opposing the church on the ERA. On the other side, her mother flew East from Utah to offer support. Mrs. Johnson's husband, Richard, and their four children, 5 to 16, also supported her stand

Johnson, a professor and researcher converted to the church by his wife. said earlier he too would leave the church if she were excommunicated. Mrs. Johnson said Wednesday she hoped he would change his mind and stay in the Concert stampede victims autopsied

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) - The II young vietims of a rock concert stampede suffocated under the crush of other bodies, an autopsy report concludes.

91-year-old woman will testify by videotape

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) - Because of fears that she may not survive to testify at the trial of a man accused of robbing and assaulting her, a frail 91-year-old woman will testify against the suspect on videotape.

The Nassau County district attorney's office made the request for videotape testimony from Pearl Reeves of Amityville for the trial next year of Richard Goodson, 36.

It is the first time videotaping of testimony in a criminal trial is being used in Nassau County.

At the prosecution's request, Dr. Chandra Gupta submitted an affidavit which said the 90-pound woman is "frail with poor circulation" and is in "guarded condition" as a result of the "trauma" she suffered during the robbery on March 3.

Goodson, free on $500, is accused of stealing $10 from the woman after knocking on her door and then pushing it in when she opened it to see who was there.

Goodson's attorney, Jeffrey Klein of Mineola, opposed the videotaping, saying. The only extreme situation is that she is an elderly woman, and that is not enough.

'Ms. Bennett' leading new life

Joan Kennedy continues fight, prepares for campaign

By ANN BLACKMAN

BOSTON (AP) - The name on the mailbox reads Bennett. The lady of the house wears no wedding ring. And she's been up since 5 a.m., mopping up water in the kitchen, the result of a broken pipe. Joan Bennett Kennedy describes herself as a 'brand new person'' for whom mopping the floor is part of the fun of living alone." But her selfimposed isolation will end in the spring.

Speaking in a strong, calm voice, the wife of Edward M. Kennedy says, "I have my old confidence back." In an interview Wednesday at her Boston apartment, she said she is recovering from a hellish bout with alcoholism and that her struggle actually helped bring her closer to her husband. Her husband is running for president. And when Joan Kennedy completes her studies next May, she plans to hit the road, campaigning full time on his behalf.

This seems like a routine decision from a political wife, but the typical politician's wife hasn't exiled herself from Washington, her husband and her children in a public fight against alcoholism.

"I didn't leave Washington because of so-called pressures of political life," Mrs. Kennedy says. "I wasn't leaving Ted or my family. I left pure and simply because I was a very sick lady and needed a new treatment program. I had tried in Washington, but I had failed.

She described her relationship with the senator as 'better than ever," and said her ordeal with drinking has given her "a new appreciation for the tragedies Ted has had to go through in his life.

'We don't talk about it, but I admire him for having made it through and persisting in public life and having to relive all the tragedies - the Kopechnes, President Kennedy and Bobby

John Kennedy was assassinated in 1963 and Robert Kennedy was gunned down during his own presidential campaign in 1968. A year later, Edward Kennedy was involved in an automobile accident at Chappaquiddick, Mass., that claimed the life of Mary Jo Kopechne.

Mrs. Kennedy said she believes her husband's account of the auto incident, adding, "There's been no new evidence raised in the last 10 years, 1 think everything's been said." She said she used to fret over rumors that link the senator romantically with other women, but no more

'It used to bother me,'' she said "But that was a long time ago. It doesn't bother me now. I know so many of those rumors are just rumors.

At 43, Joan Kennedy says her life has changed. The deep lines that creased her face several years ago are gone. Her face is tan and full. She answered questions cautiously at times and referred to handwritten notes. Yet she seemed determined to convey a feeling of confidence.

She was dressed casually in a black herringbone jacket, gray slacks and a black cowl-neck sweater -I don't wear designer clothes much anymore." She showed reporters around her sunny apartment, decorated with family pictures and many green plants. A baby Steinway grand plano filled one corner She's become a feminist, she said. "But I wouldn't say I'm a militant feminist.

Her maiden name is on the mailbox for security reasons and she hasn't worn a wedding ring in 10 years because "I used to take it off when I played the piano, and I'd lose it

Mrs. Kennedy said she jogs several miles each day, practices the piano three or four times a week and spends most of her time finishing up work for a master's degree in teaching music

If her husband is elected president, she said she would like to work teaching music to children in the White House

When Mrs. Kennedy goes on the campaign trail, she'll be making a move similar to that of two of the Kennedy children. Kara, 19, and Teddy Jr., 18, plan to take next semester off from college to campaign.

She gave a lot of thought to her husband's race for the presidency before signaling her approval. "He couldn't run without me, and he wouldn't," Mrs. Kennedy said. "It was natural he'd ask me.

She said she doesn't think the added pressure of a campaign will tempt her to drink again.

"I've been through the wars," she said. "'I know there will be rough moments. My alcoholism will be 'A lot has happened to me in the last couple of years since I've been out of public life. The good news about me is I'm successfully recovering from alcoholism," she said. "The result of this is that I feel I'm a brand new person. I have my old confidence back.

BOISE, Idaho (AP) - A political "experiment" called Anyone But Church is under way in Idaho. Its target, Sen. Frank Church, claims it's making Idaho "the guinea pig state for a new form of political assassination by out of staters.

Texas Farm Bureau backs initiative and recall

McALLEN (AP) - The Texas Farm Bureau re-elected Carrol Chaloupka to his sixth term as president and adopted a long list of resolutions, as the group's 46th annual meeting concluded here Wednesday night.

The delegates voted in favor of a state constitutional amendment giving Texas voters the rights of initiative and referendum in the area of taxation. They also voted to back a measure favoring recall of any elected public official in the state.

A floor debate over the subject of usury ended with delegates favoring amending current laws to allow higher interest rates. Other resolutions

-Favored exempting fuel alcohol from state taxes, and amending or eliminating laws and regulations restricting fuel alcohol production.

-Opposed filing a lawsuit against Mexico over oil spills. S.M. True Jr. of Plainview was named vice president, and Donald Hebert of Waller was elected secretary-treasurer. Delegates picked three new directors: James Ray Adams, Sinton;

Wayne Cranfill, Hooks and Roy Johnson, Desdemona. The convention members also adopted a resolution opposing an agricultural producers' advisory commission in Texas and opposed government-funded cooperative farms. They also indicated a desire that the current federal farm program be extended to 1983, voted opposition to formation of a national grain board, said they thought all food products should be labeled to show country of origin and said the trucking industry should be de-regulated.

FmHA hopes new rules will tighten program

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Farmers Home Administration hopes to have new rules ready later this month to tighten up its beleaguered emergency loan program.

Officials say the FmHA, an agency of the Agriculture Department, the new regulations are being cleared by the Office of Management and Budget and are scheduled to be put into effect by Dec. 31 if no hitches develop. .The loan program has been severe ly criticized in recent months for slipshod methods that have permitted scores of big farmers - many of them in California - to borrow millions of dollars at federally subsidized low interest rates.

Fred McGhee, a spokesman for FmHA, told a reporter Wednesday that applications for big loans - those over $1 million - have been tabled for the time being until they are reviewed futher

Also, he said, proposals have been made in Congress that would put a lid and other constraints on the emergency loan program. There are no legal limits on the loans at this time

McGee said 20 applications are being held up at the present time, Those total about $55.9 million and range between $1 million and .$7.5 million each, he said.

About 300 loans of $1 million or more each are currently outstand-ing out of about 95,000 total loans,

30, FmHA made emergency loans totaling $2.9 billion in counties that were officially designated as disaster areas to help farmers and ranchers recover from drought and other problems

One of the qualifications is that a borrower cannot get loans from banks or other commercial sources.

A report sent this week to congressional farm leaders by USDA's Office of Inspector General recommended that limits be imposed on the loans and that other steps be taken to tighten the program.

"Our review of these large loans raises serious questions about whether financing from outside sources was either actively pursued by the borrower or whether FmHA staff adequately verified the unavailability of credit elsewhere," the report said.

It added that investigators "also found cases where loan funds were diverted for unauthorized purposes" and gave this example

A rancher certified he incurred a loss of $3,490 when drought prevented him from planting about 250 acres of milo. He received letters from four sources of agricultural credit stating that he could not get a loan for various amounts over $500,000.

"He then received over $7 million in emergency loans (from FmHA). Our investigation uncovered evidence that he had falsely certified he could not obtain credit elsewhere. Action against the borrower is being pursued.' In another case, the report said,

Three North Texas gins burn

CROWELL, Texas (AP) - Flames fanned by high winds and fed by dry weather conditions destroyed property valued at $400,000 at cotton gins in three North Texas cities Wednesday.

Firefighters blamed static electricity for igniting the blazes at gins in Crowell, Throckmorton and Haskell. Those fires destroyed nearly 200 cotton trailers and almost 1,000 bales of cotton

In addition to the gin fires, firefighters from Holliday, Archer City, Lakeside and Wichita West responded to a series of grass fires, some of which officials said were started by downed power lines. No structural damage was reported in any of those fires.

The gin fire at Crowell did the most damage, destroying 429 bales of unginned cotton, 55 modular bales of cotton and approximately 90 trailers at the Farmers' Co-op Gin, with damage estimated at $150,000.

Record supplies of meat, poultry to dampen prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - Near-record supplies of meat and poultry will help dampen retail meat prices next year, says the Agriculture Department

Another factor will be "a general weakening in the economy" which will tend to dampen consumer demand for higher-priced items, the department said Wednesday.

'Retail meat and poultry prices may increase more slowly than the rate for all food," the department's outlook board said. "While prices for all food items are expected to increase by 7 to 11 percent in 1980, meat price gains may be limited to only 4 to 6 percent.

USDA said last month that, overall, a food price boost of about 8 percent is most likely next year, compared to an 11 percent increase estimated for

The new report said larger supplies of pork will mean retail prices will be down "slightly" from this year but that poultry prices may be "near the 1979 level.

"The large pork and poultry supplies, however, will limit beef and veal price gains (in 1980)," the report said. "With the expected weakening in the economy in the first half of 1980, any runup in beef prices will further encourage consumers to switch to pork and broilers.

Overall, it said, retail beef and veal prices may average 7 percent to 10 percent above their 1979 levels. They are expected to average about 28 percent higher this year, compared to 1978.

Market prices of Choice-grade steers in the first half of 1980 were forecast to average in a range of $67 to $72 per 100 pounds, compared to $66 to $68 currently estimated for the last three months of this

Hog prices were indicated at $36 to $38 per 100 pounds in the first quarter of next year and then at $33 to $35 in the second, compared to a range estimated at $35 to $37 this fall.

Grain, bean exports set new export mark

WASHINGTON (AP) - Exports of grain and soybeans, collectively, set a new mark for a fiveweek period this fall, says the Agriculture Depart-

It took firemen four hours to bring the fire under control, with help from fire units out of Vernon, Quanah and Paducah.

The Throckmorton fire took almost six hours to control, and local firemen received help from fire units out of Seymour, Graham, Newcastle, Olney, Breckenridge, Haskell and Woodson.

"At one point we were out on one fire and had whistles going off all over town," said Throckmorton fire chief Henry Scarlett. "We even sent the boys from Seymour out to a grass fire in one of our trucks." Damage was estimated at $70,000, as 50 trailers and 200 bales of cotton were

The Haskell fire broke out at 6 p.m. Fire Chief Tom Watson said the blaze was under control shortly before 11 p.m., but said blowing winds were hampering his department's efforts to water down the cotton and the nearby buildings.

Anti-recession measure headed for House floor

WASHINGTON (AP) - A $1 billion anti-recession aid bill backed by the Carter administration is heading to the House floor after winning quick approval from an important House committee

The House Government Operations Committee cleared the anti-recession aid Wednesday along with $250 million for President Carter's "targeted fiscal assistance" program to help depressed urban and rural areas.

The committee sent the bill to the full House on a 27-12 vote despite Republican claims that the legislation amounted to an election-year giveaway. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, called the bill "targeted political assistance.

Other Republicans complained that the bill was "railroaded" through the committee without hearings and lacking computer printouts showing where the money would be spent.

A floor vote on the House bill is expected before Congress adjourns later this month for the Christmas recess.

Although the measure would authorize a total of $1.25 billion in spending, less than half is likely to be spent because Congress budgeted only $525 million for the program.

The administration estimates the two programs actually would cost $445 million in the current fiscal year, which started Oct. 1

The $250 million in targeted fiscal assistance would be paid next spring while $195 million in anti-recession aid would not be expected until next summer.

Committee approval of the bill followed a compromise between the administration and the panel's chairman, Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, a long-time foe of such programs.

As part of the compromise, the administration went along with a distribution formula more favorable to the Sunbelt states than the one in its bill, which would have favored the Northeast and industrial Midwest.

In the House bill, the anti-recession aid would be triggered when the gross national product - the total of the nation's goods and services - and real wages and salaries fall for two consecutive quarters.

Communities would receive money based on their jobless rates and the overall severity of the recession.

The Senate has passed a different anti-recession aid bill that uses unemployment figures as a trigger for the assistance. Anti-recession aid is intended to ease the financial strain on cities caused by an economic slump.

A similar program existed during the 1974-75 recession.

Teen-agers would be helped by new Carter job program

WASHINGTON (AP) - More than a million poor teen-agers considered prime candidates for unemployment lines would receive help from a program to be unveiled in President Carter's 1981 budget plan, administration sources report.

However, several of these sources fear Carter's Office of Management and Budget wants to cut adult jobs programs to offset the added cost.

A Labor Department official, who asked that he not be named, said it would be "ludicrous" to pay for the youth program by reducing in 1981 the number of public service jobs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

"It would be a mistake, particularly with a likely recession (in 1980) to take jobs away from adults to give them to kids," another official said.

Carter will make a final decision on his new budget in the next month. Because he hopes to hold down federal spending as a way to dampen inflation, the youth program likely will be his only major new domestic initiative for fiscal 1981, which begins Oct. 1, 1980

Carter is expected to seek $800 million in his 1981 budget to start the program, which would combine basic educational training with on-the-job experience to increase the chances that poor teen-agers could lead productive lives.

The program will cost an estimated $2 billion a year when it becomes fully operational, probably around 1983, said the administration officials, declining to be named.

The new program would funnel aid to poor students and dropouts of junior and senior high-school age. Most of them are blacks and other minorities living in urban areas - a group in which more than one in three are headed for long-term unemployment, according to government statistics.

nent Between Oct. 11 and Nov. 15, exports averaged more than 100 million bushels a week, officials said

Wednesday Also, they said, a one-week record occurred when export shipments totaled nearly 119.1 million bushels in the week of Nov. 1-8.

In that week, the figures showed, the exports included 51.7 million bushels of corn, 27.2 million bushels of soybeans and more than 26.9 million bushels of wheat. The remainder included sorghum, barley, oats and flaxseed.

Help for overspenders now in sight

MIDDLETON, Wis. (AP) - Last week, when the holiday allure appeared in earnest at the shopping malls, Jeanne Fioretto scissored to shreds two very worn credit cards.

It did not surprise her that her hands shook. She knew all along there would be nothing easy about taking the cure.

"It was a big step," she said, "but only a step. I have yet to say to a persuasive salesperson, 'No, thank you, I just don't want to buy it.' When I can say that, I will figure I have the disease cured. No, not cured, but arrested.

Jeanne Fioretto is the head of an organization she formed by putting a classified ad in the paper: "Overspenders Anonymous. Call 831-8433." That was all it said. It said it all.

"I got lots of calls. Some were from people who just needed help managing a budget. I knew that wasn't my problem, because I had studied myself and knew what my problem was. I was looking for people with my problem, and I found them.

"I'm not dumb. I know you must not spend more than you have, and I know how to add and subtract and figure interest.

'Yet I was always up against it, financially. It turns out that many others have the same problem, the same disease. Our dependency is not satisfied in a saloon, but a shopping center.

'Look at me. I have a walk-in closet that won't hold another coathanger. I can't walk into it anyhow because the floor is covered with shoes. I give away clothes I haven't even worn.

Jeanne Fioretto is a woman in her early 30s, divorced, mother of a 9year-old, former model (size 8), editor of a professional journal, modestly salaried. She talks a mile a minute and, until lately, spent at about the same rate.

"What I discovered about myself is that when I'm depressed, low, angry, sorry for myself, I solve it by buying something.

"In that state, I'm a pushover. I know I don't need the item, don't even want it, really, but if the clerk pushes the right button. I'm lost, Sometimes all it takes is, 'I'll gift-wrap it,' or, 'I can have it ready by Friday.' Any pitch at all.

'So I formed this group, Overspenders Anonymous. All of us don't have the same problems, but we have the same symptoms.

"One member, for example, has a marriage problem. He overspends to compensate. He needs to see a marriage counselor, but meanwhile the group can help the symptom.

'We meet once a week. We're just getting started, but we already have helped one another, and we have plans.

We plan to invite salesmen to our meetings and do some role-playing. We plan field trips. We'll go to the malf pick through the merchandise, try on things, and practice saying no. All of us will be there for support.

When one of us is in a store, weakening, he can phone a member, just like Alcoholics Anonymous.

"If I should get such a call I might say, go ahead, buy it, but don't wear it or use it, and save the sales slip. We'll talk about it at our next meeting. One step at a time.

"My own next step, my resolve, is to stay out of stores at least until April.

"April is when I plan to sell my boat. Yes, I bought an outboard motorboat. Can you imagine? I don't need a boat, don't want a boat, and I bought a boat. In April, 1 will sell it."

NBC cancels three series, retooling prime-time lineup

LOS ANGELES (AP) - NBC, successful so far this season in narrowing the ratings gap between itself and its competitors, has canceled at least three series and plans to add five new series in the midseason retooling of its prime-time television lineup.

Series that have received cancellation notices are "Eischeid," "A Man Called Sloane" and "Kate Loves a Mystery" "Shirley," which made its Friday night debut only a month ago, was not listed on NBC's new schedule, although the network says the show still is being considered.

NBC has demonstrated remarkable restraint this season in the matter of schedule tinkering; the midseason changes are the first cancellations of the 1979-80 season. Frequent schedule changes last season were partly

$9 billion military appropriation suggested for equipping forces

WASHINGTON (AP) - Carter administration planners have proposed spending up to $9 billion over the next five years to equip U.S. military forces for quick crisis deployment to the Persian Gulf and other key areas

Sources said President Carter has not yet approved the huge program, but its prospects appear bright because of growing U.S. concern for safeguarding American interests in the volatile oil-producing Middle East.

Major spending would be devoted to buying about 50 advanced CX jet transports to help overcome a serious shortage in military cargo airlift. These new planes would be designed to haul tanks, other heavy Army equipment and bulk supplies over long distances.

The program also calls for buying 16 special new depot ships, costing over $100 million apiece, which would be anchored in strategically located ports abroad to await Marines flown from the United States in emergen-

Much of the funding would go to pack these ships with ammunition, tanks, artillery, fuel, food and other vital material.

While there is a shortage in heavy cargo planes, experts anticipate no major problems in mustering enough aircraft to carry troops as passengers with only their personal weapons and equipment. If necessary, the Pentagon can mobilize civilian airliners for this purpose

So far, Pentagon officials have not given a clear definition of the respective roles to be played by Marine and Army troops in the projected "rapid deployment" scenarios.

Maj. Gen. Paul X. Kelley, a top Marine manager, said Wednesday that Defense Secretary Harold Brown has approved a concept under which Marine air-ground forces totalling about 45,000 men could be flown overseas to operate independently for as long as 30 days with "beans and bullets' drawn from depot ships.

The objective is to achieve such a capability by the mid-1980s, but Kelley said it may be possible to project a more limited force of about 16,500 men in this way by 1983.

Kelley's outline suggested the Marines might form the spearpoint for swift U.S. military action in future crises in remote areas.

However, Pentagon officials said they also are counting on the Army to form a parallel rapid-deployment force of about 110,000 men.

ners are moving to shape such a force so it can fight without reinforcement or resupply for up to 60 days in distant give decision-makers a choice of options in specific crisis circumstances.

Instead of drawing their supplies and equipment from "pre-positioned" depot ships like the Marines, Army troops would use material airlifted from the United States. The heavy cargo would be carried in the proposed CX transports as well as in the current 70 giant Air Force C-5s and 271 smaller C-141s. As part of the airlift expansion effort, all C-141s would be lengthened by mid-1982 to carry more tonnage.

Nine Scientologists convicted of trying to steal documents

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal judge is handing down sentences for nine officials of the Church of Scientology convicted of participating in a plot to steal government documents about the church.

Eight defendants who were convicted of conspiracy faced a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine in today's proceedings before U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey.

A ninth, convicted of theft, faced a maximum one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Prosecutors in the case filed legal papers earlier this week demanding the maximum jail terms for the defendants and "where appropriate, the maximum fines provided by the law.

The sentencing memorandum reviewed not only the defendants' crimes against the government, but also church records that revealed "infiltration and theft of documents from a number of prominent national and world organizations, law firms and newspapers.

The government said the Scientologists also conducted smear campaigns and filed harassing lawsuits against people who opposed the Defense lawyers, in their memorandum, responded that the defendants were simply trying "to preserve a religion from what the defendants perceived as a powerful campaign by government agencies and others to

DEAR ABBY: I'm in a terrible spot and need your advice. I'm in love with a terrific man I'll call Larry. We plan to be married soon. Larry has a 7-year-old daughter I'll call Linda. Linda lives with her, mother, from whom Larry has been divorced for three years, but he has the child every other weekend. She's spoiled, selfish, whiny and obnoxious, but Linda has her father wrapped around her little finger. She hangs on him constantly and if he touches me, she pouts. Naturally this irritates me and I'm not very good at hiding my feelings.

Larry asked me if Linda could be our flower girl, and before I knew what a little stinker she was, I said yes. Now I realize it was a big mistake. This is my first wedding, Abby, and I want it to be MY day, but with wedding will be ruined. I've asked Larry to tell Linda we're not having the big wedding - we're going away to be married quietly instead. (She'll never know the difference.) Then after we return from our honeymoon we'll take Linda to Disney World to make it up to her.

Larry doesn't think it will work. What do you think? - ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: I don't think it will work either. Be wise and proceed with your original plan. And if you want a lasting marriage, I urge you to seek professional help in learning how to cope with Linda. Her jealousy is understandable. She's a 7-year-old who "lost" her father when she was 4 and is now facing the threat of losing him again.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to REALISTIC IN MASS. What gives her the right to be so critical of couples living together? Don't get me wrong; I'm 24, single and living alone. But if "Mr. Right" comes along, I sure hope we live together before any final ties are made

Six years ago I married a man I really thought I knew and understood. Six months later we filed for divorce.

If we had lived together for six months, a lot of pain and unnecessary expense could have been avoided. I'm not just thinking of myself; the "unnecessary expenses" came out of parents' pockets! - REMEMBER-

Kennedy seems ready to end first controversy

By DAVID ESPO

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy seems anxious to declare an end to the first major controversy of his young campaign for the presidency, a flareup he prompted by criticizing the exiled Shah of Iran.

Kennedy reported Wednesday that Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance pledged during a senators-only meeting that Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi would not be given permanent asylum in the United States unless Congress were first consulted.

Asked later whether Vance's statement put an end to the controversy surrounding his remarks over the shah, the Massachusetts Democrat replied: "I would say yes.

Kennedy has been dogged by criticism all week for derogatory remarks he made about the shah at a time when the United States is trying to win the release of 50 American hostages in Tehran. Kennedy's critics claim his remarks might make the release of the hostages more difficult to obtain.

Kennedy, challenging President Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, was leaving today on a three-day campaign swing through Alabama and Iowa. It was his third trip to Iowa in the month since he declared his candidacy

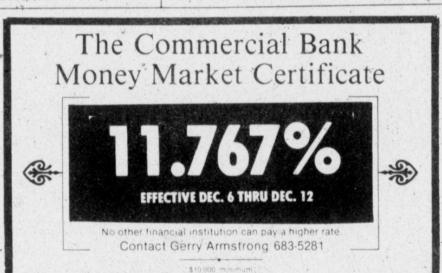

Kennedy has said Iowa would provide the first real test between himself and the president in their battle for next year's Democratic nomination.

Despite Kennedy's desire to call a halt to the controversy over the shah, it was not clear whether his critics would permit it.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said Vance announced no change of policy about the shah and denied there had been any consideration of offering the shah permanent asylum in the United States. Vance has said consistently that the shah, who is undergoing medical treatment at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, intends to leave the country as soon as he can. But, said Stevens, Kennedy "is turning this thing around. He is saying that because he has obtained a concession from Cy Vance, he is now satisfied. ... I don't think it is fair for Kennedy to come in and say that.

State Department spokesman David Noll said he could neither confirm nor deny that Vance had offered the assurances Kennedy referred to. "I don't have any reason to doubt Sen. Kennedy's veracity,' Noll said. But he observed pointedly that Vance's ' meeting with the senators had been private.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE Secret Service growing tough, sticky red tape

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secret Service red tape, which frequently delays and puzzles White House reporters who have to deal with it, may be getting worse.

A White House press pass - hundreds of which are issued to reporters who cover the president regularly and who have no record of assault against politicians - has for years entitled the holder to walk into the office of the press secretary, which is perhaps a dozen paces from the door of the president's own Oval Office. But the same pass will not entitle the holder to get into the cafeteria of the Executive Office Building across the street. In fact, reporters can't get into the EOB at all without an appointment.

President Carter has no office in the EOB. Vice President Walter Mondale has one, but splits his time between there and another office in the White House itself. The highest-ranking official working full time in the EOB is James McIntyre, who, in case you have missed it, succeeded Bert Lance as head of the Office of Management and Budget

The other day the president's chief economist, Charles Schultze, and the head of the Environmental Protection Administration, Douglas Costle, scheduled a news conference. But they were left to cool their heels for 20 minutes while the Secret Service took its time about admitting a group of reporters who had been invited to cover the event. The-conference was delayed so long that Schultze and Costle read short statements and left before answering questions as

pattern

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - A federal appeals court said Wednesday a taxpayer living with an unmarried woman cannot claim her as a dependent on his federal income tax in states where such cohabitation is illegal

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals 'upheld a U. S. Tax Court decision affirming a $128 additional tax assessment against Nevitt F. Ensminger.

Ensminger lives in North Carolina, where it is against the law for a man and a woman to live together without being married. Ensminger claimed a dependency deduction on his 1974 federal tax return for the support of a 21-year-old woman who lived with him.

planned.

The subject of the news conference: Jimmy Carter's progress in cutting governmental red tape.

The administration public relations man in charge of the event said the delay was caused because new Secret Service regulations had been put into effect without notice. Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner said, howeyer, that he knew of no new regulations and didn't know the reason for the delay.

As for the rule preventing holders of White House press passes from routine access to the EOB, Warner said, "That was a decision made by (White House press secretary Jody) Powell, and we concur with it." He offered no rationale.

SECRET SERVICE agents, in their zeal to protect the president, sometimes inflict vigorous pushing and shoving on the reporters and photographers whose job it is to cover Carter's public appearances.

It was considered only slightly out of the ordinary not long ago when an agent jammed photographer Susan McElhinney's camera into her face, leaving her with a puffy nose.

So reporters watched with some understandable envy last week at the measured courtesy with which the bodyguards reacted when a White House guest staged a protest against the strategic arms limitation treaty.

The bearded protester walked purposefully to within a few feet of the president, shouted his protest and dumped a bag of ashes - symbolic of the incinerated victims of a nuclear strike, he said - onto the floor of the East Room.

The tax court's decision denying Ensminger the exemption was based on a portion of the IRS code that says a person is not a member of a tax payer's household if their relationship vio lates local law.

Texas woman parlays peanut farmer into political career

By SOLL SUSSMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) - Henny Wright recalls her freshman year at Yale University when she ran' into a little known "peanut farmer who said he was running for president."

She remembers the protests from her parents in Austin, Texas, when she left Yale in her sophomore year to campaign for Jimmy Carter.

The 22-year-old now has solid political experience behind her and a job as associate deputy to presidential aide Sarah Weddington. She also has her bachelor's degree from Yale, having returned after a year on the campaign trail with enough extra credits to graduate with her class. Carter was too liberal for her staunch Republican father, University of Texas Law School professor Charles Alan Wright. He was former President Richard M. Nixon's lawyer during Watergate

And Carter was too conservative for her liberal Democratic mother

"I grew up with the idea that you could still like someone very much and disagree violently," Ms. Wright said in an interview. "We have very lively home discussions."

She noted that all five children in the family became Democrats despite her father's considerable powers of persuasion.

"I think he's pretty much given up that I will ever be with his party," Ms. Wright said. "He's pretty broadminded for being as conservative as he is."

Her mother will be hosting one of the grassroots parties scheduled to accompany Carter's upcoming announcement of his reelection campaign.

Ms. Wright wears the tightly pulled back hair and the conservative suit look of a longtime Washington career woman

Her office walls are beginning to be cluttered by an assortment of photographs of herself with political notables like Carter, Robert Strauss and Democratic National Committee Chairman John White.

During her last semester at Yale, she commuted regularly to Washington to work for a former campaign colleague at the DNC. "I knew that that was a very good entree into Washington and back into the swing of things," she said. Ms. Wright said she ran into her current boss, whom she knew from Austin days when Ms. Weddington was a state legislator, at a party one night and mentioned that she was available as extra help.

She received a call "instantaneously," worked informally for several months last spring and then joined the staff.

Ms. Weddington is Carter's political liason and also handles women's issues.

Ms. Wright described her own duties in the office as a "hodgepodge." She said she takes a special interest in anything related to Texas and finds her Texas connections useful.

"I'm privileged to count John White and Bob Strauss as my friends. I can go to them directly," the young woman said. "Also, I think Texans have sort of a notoriety in Washington and there are a lot of us around. It gives us a lot of influence."

Ms. Weddington said that Ms. Wright knows a great deal about politics, works hard and shows substantial initiative.

"I would envision a very bright future," Ms. Weddington said.

The next stop in Ms. Wright's career plan, after the 1980 election, should be UT Law School. Ms. Wright said she also was accepted at Yale Law School.

"I believe that Yale is the best in the country. But when I thought about it, what I want to do with my life is not work in a Wall Street law firm," she said. "I'd like to go into politics for myself, and Austin is the place I'd definitely do that."

Her father adamantly opposed her decision to be a student at the school where he teaches, she said, but then she explained her political reasons.

"When I laid it out like that, he understood and became very supportive," Ms. Wright said.

"He still says I can't take Constitutional Law from him."

Both sides must want cease-fire, say experts

LONDON (AP) - Experts say a cease-fire can only succeed if both sides genuinely want it, and they question whether the Rhodesian truce now in the making will last.

"Both sides have genuinely to want a cease-fire," says Col. John Alford, deputy director of the International Institute of Strategic Studies. "Otherwise the policing problems become enormous

The belief that victory was still to be gained from fighting helped scuttle a cease-fire in Vietnam in 1973 and contributed to 54 truce breakdowns in Lebanon's 19-month civil war.

Analysts question whether either warring side in Rhodesia will accept the outcome of an election that goes against it. The guerrilla leaders on one side and the moderate blacks and their white allies on the other have each expressed-doubts of their opponents' intentions. And each fears the other side will use a cease-fire to its political advantage.

The stability of a cease-fire is also dependent on the terrain and the type of war being fought.

"If you have a natural border — a river, a desert, an open area - it is easier than dividing up the jungle at some arbitrary point," said a former United Nations peacekeeper, now a diplomat in Cairo.

He pointed to the success of the wide buffer zone, guarded by U.N. troops, separating the Egyptian and Israeli armies in the Sinai Desert. Others cite the cease-fire line through Cyprus which now effectively separates the Greek and Turkish communities.

In Vietnam, there was no such georillas in neighboring Zambia and Mozambique could return only as unarmed civilians

Alford and others think British plans for enforcement of the ceasefire are inadequate. Britain envisions a monitoring force of 1,200 troops from Britain, Kenya, Australia, New Zealand and Fiji. Violations reported by the monitors would be referred to a Cease-fire Commission, and each side would be responsible for dealing with its troops' violations.

In Lebanon, it takes 22,000 Syrian troops to keep peace between the Christians and the Moslems in central and northern Lebanon. They can do the job only because they are in fact an occupation army, and separate Christian and Moslem zones have been established throughout those areas

In southern Lebanon 6,000 U.N. troops can't keep the Palestinians and Christian militiamen from shooting at each other Rhodesian whites question the ability of the Front's leaders to control. their guerrillas.

'So many of those guys are illiterate or semiliterate, with little chance of work," said one Salisbury army officer. "They'll be most reluctant to give up the powers they have as village tyrants lording it over frightened peasants.

The Front fears Rhodesia's 263,000 whites and demands the confiscation of the 155,000 weapons it claims they have. White police officers concede there is a good chance of a white backlash when the black guerrillas the whites call "terrs" - for terrorists - turn up as legitimate soldiers

Refugees may get safe haven

WASHINGTON (AP) A State Department official has hinted that efforts are under way "in diplomatic channels" to provide a safe haven along the Cambodian-Thai border for starving Cambodian refugees.

Burton Levin, deputy chief of mission in the U.S. Embassy in Bangkok, Thailand, made the comment Wednesday in testimony before a House immigration and refugee subcommittee. The panel is looking into problems involved in the effort to feed thousands of starving Cambodians. Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chairman. asked Levin what he thought of a proposal by Rep. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., to establish a demilitarized zone along the border where refugees could safely seek aid from international famine-relief.organizations.

The Rhodesiah war is also a countryside conflict of disruption. Guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe claim they control 30 percent of Rhodesia and refuse to "surrender" this territory. They want lines and areas spelled out in the cease-fire agreement

The Salisbury-regime's control has at least been impaired over wide areas. But the British say trying to define areas of control would mean interminable debate. It says the guerrillas would not be disarmed in their assembly areas but would become lawful forces under a British governor

The cease-fire plan to which both sides agreed in principle Wednesday calls for 15,600 of the Patriotic Front's guerrillas to assemble in designated areas while the Salisbury government's 20,000 troops would return to their bases. Some 40,000 other guerafter a seven-year war 'There are enough nut cases around who would eagerly take a few pot shots at returned terrs and their leaders," said a police intelligence officer. "Once one shot is fired, the whole place can go up like Guy Fawkes Night.

Britain hopes to outflank many of these daunting problems by a burst of speed.

It wants to wind up the conference quickly to minimize jockeying for territorial position. It envisages a sevenday disengagement period after the cease-fire hour and elections within two or three months in hopes the truce will hold that long. After that, independent Rhodesia's new government would be on its own

The Patriotic Front says it cannot comply with the cease-fire so quickly. And it says that after years of fighting a guerrilla war, it needs more than two or three months to organize its election campaign.

OAU asking that Morocco withdraw from Sahara

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) - The Organization of African Unity has called on Morocco to withdraw its troops from the Western Sahara and recommended that an OAU peacekeeping force monitor a cease-fire in the disputed territory

The recommendations were made Wednesday at the end of a two-day meeting of the five-nation OAU spe cial committee on the Western Sa hara. The committee has been seeking a peaceful solution of the war in which nationalist Polisario guerrillas, backed by Algeria, are fighting for independence.

The Western Sahara was a Spanish colony known as Spanish Sahara until Spain withdrew in February 1976. Neighboring Morocco and Mauritania claimed it and sent in occupying forces, which clashed with the guerrillas. But Mauritania has since withdrawn its forces and renounced its territorial claims.

The OAU committee urged Morocco to do the same, urged an immediate cease-fire in the territory so a referendum can be held, and expressed regret that King Hassan II of Morocco did not come to the meeting.

The committee - made up of the leaders of Tanzania, Nigeria, Mali, Sudan and Liberia - congratulated Mauritania for "its courageous and forthright decision" that led it to conclude a peace with the Polisario guerrillas

The leaders sent the chairman of the OAU council of ministers, Liberian Foreign Minister Cecil Dennis, to convey the recommendations to King Hassan.

The committee meeting was held behind closed doors with Liberian President William Tolbert, current OAU chairman, presiding. Mauritania was represented by its foreign minister, and the Polisario guerrillas also sent representatives.

Mother Teresa arrives in Rome

ROME (AP) - Mother Teresa. winner of this year's Nobel Peace Prize, arrived in Rome today on her way to the award ceremony in Oslo. Norway, and said "love is the best way to achieve peace

Known for her work among the poor in Calcutta, India, she said: "I have dedicated my life to the poor. I did it for love."

She told reporters at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport she will spend her $190,000 prize money "for the poor of the whole world. I want to build hospitals and houses and all that is needed by the needy.

After the Norwegian Nobel Committee announced she was the recipient of the 1979 prize, Mother Teresa said she would spend the purse on lepers and the destitute, to whom she has dedicated her life.

Mother Teresa, 69, brought with her five Indian children to be adopted by Italian families and she was "fighting abortion by adoption."

Mother Teresa was expected to be received by Pope John Paul II during her stay in Rome.

Levin said about 500, 000 Cambodians now are gathered near the. Thai border. That numbereis swelling by as many as 5,000 a day, he said_

The "stream of humanity" is made up of Cambodians unable to find aid in their own country, he said. They are forced by necessity to trek to the border regions, where international relief is availaible.

Levin said contingency arrangements are being made to care for the refugees if Vietnamese troops sweep them into Thailand.

Richard Walden, a Los Angeles attorney who took a planeload of food and medicine into Phnom Penh on Thanksgiving Day, testified he doubts that Vietnam troops are dipping into emergency supplies meant for the refugees.

Thai troops

to relieve border area

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - The Thai com mandssaid today that more reinforcements have been sent to the Thai-Cambodian border to ward off any attack by Vietnamese troops who are reported escalating their operations in western Cambodia. The number of reinforcements was not given.

A command spokesman said the Vietnamese struck north of Highway this week against forces of ousted Premier Pol Pot as well as anticommunist Free Khmer troops.

More than half a million Cambodian refugees are clustered at the Thai-Cambodian border in that area and the Thais believe a major Vietnamese drive would send them stampeding into Thailand

Gary Butler receives Lena Douglas Award at banquet

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

Gary Butler walked off with the coveted Lena Douglas Award while teammates Steve Waldron, Barry Corley, James McGarrity, Tom Williams, Larry Linne and Anthony Johnson, were all honored Wednesday night in the annual Midland Lee Rebel football awards banquet in the Midland Lee cafete-

Texas Tech football coach Rex Dockery was the featured guest and Scotty Alcorn served as the master of ceremonies.

Butler, a senior quarterback with a grade average of 4.306. won the Lena Douglas Award and was also named one of the three co-captains for the 1979 season along with Waldron and Williams.

Waldron, an all-district selection in the 5-4A secondary, besides being named co-captian by his teammates, was named Best Offensive and Best Defensive Back by his teammates.

Johnson, a popluar choice by his teammates and students. was named Best Defensive Lineman and the award was greeted by lots of enthusiasm by the crowd. Williams, who played tight end and defensive end, was name Best Offensive Lineman and Corley walked off with the Specialty Team Award. McGarrity was named Best Linebacker on the team and Linne Best Receiver.

Dockery was well received by the gathering which sat down to a buffet-type meal to honor the 1979 Rebels which finished 7-3

Head Caoch Gil Bartosh praised the 1979 Rebels for a team that had plenty of character, a great attitude and tremendous team leadership from the seniors.

Alcorn was his usual witty self in keeping the program moving at a fast pace and Dockery had nothing but praise for the Rebel coaching staff in one that he termed as "a hard-working staff.

Butler gave the invocation while Dr. Joe Smith, Lee Principal, introduced the guests and handed out the Lena Douglas Award to Butler, who started at quarterback for two years under Bartosh and won three letters on the Rebel football team.

Ignored Chaps face NMMI

ROSWELL, N.M. - The undefeated and untied Midland College Chaparrals will be traveling here tonight for an 8 p.m. game with the New Mexico Military Institute for a Western Junior College Athletic Conference matchup even though the Chaps may be feeling a little ignored

The Chaps own a perfect 11-0 season reading and a likewise perfect 2-0 conference mark. Yet, Midland College was not named to this week's top 20 teams in the National Junior College Athletic Association basketball poll. Something must be wrong somewhere

Western Texas College of Snyder is ranked second in the new poll and the Westerners own the same mark as the Chaps. Tyler Junior College is 9-0 and ranked first. But that's not really what hurts most. Nine teams listed in the top 20 rankings have one or more losses this year, including No. 3 Jackson College out of Michigan.

No. 17 Connors JC out of Oklahoma and Moberly College out of Missouri, which was tied for No. 18 with Wabash Valley of Illionis, have two losses on their record. C. Albert of Oklahoma was ranked sixth with a meager 2-1 record when the poll was conducted.

Western Texas and Tyler were the only Texas teams named in the poll, but they did hold down the top two spots

Nevertheless, the Chaps must keep winning to break into the "elite" group and maintain the pace set by WTC in the early going of the WJCAC race. And that could be tough here tonight since it is always tough to win

Blue Jays trade Chris Chambliss to Atlanta Braves

TORONTO (AP) - Chris Chambliss, the American League's 1971 rookie of the year, never will get a chance to see this Canadian metropolis as a member of the Toronto Blue J'ays.

Acquired from the New York Yankees in a multiplayer trade Nov., I. Chambliss was sent packing again by the Blue Jays Wednesday in the first major deal of the three-day-old winter baseball meetings.

Toronto didn't even bother to ask Chambliss his cap size. In an apparent agreement reach with Atlanta before the Yankees' trade, the Blue Jays dealt the 3l-year-old first baseman to the Braves in a five-player transaction

HOWEVER, THE trade failed to trigger any chain reaction. There still was a great deal of talking, but little action. Major league brass continued playing games, determined to avoid any mistakes with the interleague trading deadline drawing closer - Friday midnight.

'I don't know of anything really hot," said Boston General Manger Haywood Sullivan, who turned to the Seattle Mariners in search of a lefthanded pitcher. "However, I think there still may be some trades, although intricate ones

"What trades are in the works, with both sides serious, will be made here. Everyone trying to deal would like to get things out of the way. If not, I don't think much will be done again until the interleague trading re-opens in the spring.

'This is crazy," one baseball executive said. "Everyone's talking, but little is being accomplished. It all comes down to fear of getting burned.

"You have to check out every player involved in a trade," Montreal General Manager Jim Fanning said. "There are too many factors, like a player can be signed to a multiyear contract, but if you get him he can spend one season with you and then, if unhappy for some reason, can demand to be traded.'

"Yeh, and players can become awfully unhappy over certain things," one hard-nosed manager said. "They need a lot of things these days. They need so many bats, so many gloves, demand a single room on the road, demand everything.

at the NMMI home court. They always have 600 to 700 orgainized cadets screaming to the top of their' lungs. In the past NMMI has been known as a patsy on the road and a Tiger at home

The Chaps will also have to do it without starting guard Jeff Ray, who injured an ankle Monday in a game against New Mexico Junior College. Chucky McGill, who has a broken toe, will also be out of action again. He may not return to the Chaps until January.

Baltimore Orioles' pitching ace Jim Palmer stands in front of his locker with a lollipop prior to a game with Cleveland in June. The three-time Cy

Young award winner wants to be traded because he feels he is grossly underpaid. But so far, no deal has been made. (AP Laserphoto)

Palmer is dressed with no place to go

TORONTO (AP) - Baseball's best pitcher over Series the last decade was all dressed up today with no place to go - a pawn of Baltimore's tight-fisted salary policy.

"It's not that I am unhappy with Baltimore - it's a great city and I am one of its strongest boosters,' said Jim Palmer, three-time Cy Young winner of the American League champion Orioles, who in a unique move has offered himself up as trade bait.

"But I am aggravated because I feel I am grossly underpaid and have been for most of my career.' Few people will question that. Only this week, in the midst of the annual baseball meetings here, Palmer was officially proclaimed the winningest pitcher of the 1970s, compiling 186 victories.

During that period, he was a 20-game winner in eight of the 10 seasons, pitched in five World Series and registered 44 shutouts, a record unmatched in the majors

Yet, going into a new season and new decade, he faced the prospect of a $30,000 cut in his already sub-standard $260,000 salary.

"It's automatic under my contract because I pitched in only 23 games," he said. "I was bothered with a sore shoulder from June to September but I had my full strength at the end and contributed to the Orioles in both the playoffs and the World "At 34, I am sure I have several profitable years left in my system. Unable to convince the Orioles that his present contract with two years to run should be upgraded at least to a plateau of respectability, he requested that he be put on the open market. "I initiated it," Palmer said from Baltimore before setting out for the Super Stars competition in the Bahamas. "I have to probe new alternatives. Can you name another pitcher in baseball who will take a $30,000 cut this year?"

The tall, stylish right-hander said he felt he had become a villain in the eyes of both Oriole fans and management because of his persistent pressure for a salary commensurate with his contributions.

'That's why I got an agent this year," he said. "I never had one before. If I go in to Hank Peters (general manager) and say I am underpaid, I am a complainer. A hatred develops. And it's transferred to the public.

"But if an agent negotiates, they listen. There is not the same hurt.

Palmer's agent is Edward J. Keating of Cleveland. He disclosed that both Kansas City and the California Angels were interested in Palmer. Nothing had developed as the meetings approached Friday's

That is understandable. Palmer is a nugget that shouldn't come cheaply on today's inflated market. Recently the Angels' fireballer Nolan Ryan (only twice a 20-game winner in 12 years) signed for $1 million a year for four years.

"That doesn't bother me," Palmer said. "I have no envy. What bugs me is that there are 20 or 30 pitchers making more money than I am - have been for three years or more. I only want what I think I deserve. The Orioles are notorious for their payroll conservatism, refusing to join in the free agency sweepstakes.

"The year we won our first World Series (1966) J was making $7,500," Palmer said. "I had to hold out for 11 days to get my salary up to $14,000.

"How do you think the Orioles lost players like Reggie Jackson, Bobby Grich, Wayne Garland, Ross Grimsley and just this year Don Stanhouse? Not because they didn't like Baltimore. It was because they couldn't get decent money.

Admitting an adversary relationship with management, he denied that any disenchantment stemmed from his legendary feuds with Manager Earl Weav-

"They say there are only two ways to handle Earl ignore him or beat him to the ground. I gave him a hard time. But it was never bitter. We really got along fine.

past Kansas

rugged zone defense forced 26 Northwestern turnovers and 11-for-28 shooting in the second half.

Rudy Macklin scored 14 of his 18 points in the second half and DeWayne Scales added 17 as LSU outlasted stubborn Tulane. After a 43-43 halftime tie, LSU opened a 10-point lead, only to see the Green Wave cut the margin to one. Then the Tigers pulled away to a 78-71 lead before a final Tulane surge fell one point short again.

Sophomore Mark Aguirre scored 26 points and Clyde Bradshaw added 18 against Wisconsin as DePaul gave Coach Ray Meyer his 598th college victory, the most of any active coach

Heralded centers paced the victories for Syracuse and Purdue. Six-foot-11 Roosevelt Bouie, known as a defensive specialist, tallied 21 points and 12 rebounds as Syracuse bombed St. Francis and 7-1 Joe Barry Carroll scored 41 points as Purdue routed Southeastern Louisiana

Virginia led 21-9 in the first half, but had to battle to the end to post a hard-earned road win over Temple. Lee Raker led the Cavaliers with 16 points, while 7-4 freshman sensation Ralph Sampson had 12 points and nine blocked shots.

THE CALIFORNIA Angels signed veteran shortstop Fred Patek as a free agent draftee from Kansas City and sent shortstop Jim Anderson; 22, to the Seattle Mariners to complete a deal for pitcher for John Montague earlier this year.

However, the Toronto-Atlanta deal, completed after a series of talks, was the first major transaction of the meetings which opened Monday. The Braves' pursuit of Chambliss paid off.

Atlanta wanted to the big clutch slugger, who helped New York to three pennants, and went after him - a rarity so far in these turtle-paced meetings

Atlanta had little to offer the Yankees for Chambliss, so most observers feel the Braves worked through the Blue Jays.

In the deal finally worked out, Chambliss and shortstop Luis Gomez were traded for outfielder Barry Bonnell, relief pitcher Joey McLaughlin and infielder Pat Rockett, who was assigned to Syracuse of the International League

"I know Chris very well, his makeup, his attitude," said Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox, once a coach with the Yankees. "He's an outstanding lefthanded hitter which we have not had the last two years. He should hit 20 or more home runs the way the ball jumps out of our park. We got a good one

Gomez lost his starting job to rookie sensation Alfredo Griffin with the Blue Jays this year. However, he will be given a solid shot by the Braves.

"That's the best news we've heard," a Boston Red Sox spokesman said when told of the trade. "That Gomez just killed us. He hit .381against us this year.'

ALTHOUGH MANY observers thought Atlanta got the best the trade, the Blue Jays were satisfied. Bonnell hit .259 with 12 homers and 45 runs batted in for the Braves this year. McLaughlin was 5-3 with five saves after being called up from Richmond of the International League.

Patek, 35 and at 5-feet-4 one of baseball's smallest players, was given a three-year contract by the Angels, who had been reluctant to give up Anderson as the player to be named later in the deal for Montague

"Last year we had trouble, playing four guys at shortstop," California Manager Jim Fregosi said. "It was one of our weak spots. Freddie gives us more speed and I think he can do th job for us. No way do I expect him to play 150 games for us. I'll be happy if he can play 120.

Patek became the 15th free agent signed from last month's re-entry draft.

A source close to negotiations told The Associated Press that owner Charlie Finley was close to selling the Oakland A's to Denver oil magnate Marvin Davis. Only a few details remain to be ironed out, the source said

-Ray Grebey, director of the major league players relation committee, had his budget approved by club owners, then disclosed he will meet with the players association, headed by Marvin Miller, Dec. 12. Grebey said "three or four meetings have been held" so far. He reiterated that he is "guardedly optimistic" a new basic agreement can be reached before spring training.

-A strong report circulated that Houston would trade pitcher Joaquin Andujar to Pittsburgh for outfielder Bill Robinson. Such a deal would fill a void for both teams. The Astros needs added power and hitting strength and the Pirates need a replacement for right-hander Bruce Kison, who played out his option and signed as free agent with California.

What has been a rather dull gathering of baseball brass held promise of producing some interesting moments before the gavel sent everyone home

On today's agenda of American League club owners was a proposal the Associated Press learned would guarantee visiting teams $10,000 a game, rather than the present arrangement of a 20 percent cut of the gate receipts.

Ollie Hoops leads SMU By The Associated Press

A basketball player named Ollie Hoops has to be a headline writer's dream. He also is turning out to be a dream come true for Southern Methodist Coach Sonny Allen Hoops, a junior college transfer, combined with another SMU newcomer, freshman Dave Piehler, to lead the Mustangs to an 89-88 upset victory over 19th-ranked Kansas in college basketball Wednesday night.

Kansas led 88-87 in the final minute before Hoops snagged an errant pass and was driving for a layup when he drew a foul with 15 seconds remaining. He calmly sank the free throws to give SMU the upset victory

Led by Darnell Valentine, who scored 25 points, the Jayhawks had a 14-point lead with seven minutes left, but Hoops and Piehler paced a comeback. Brad Branson scored 17 points, Hoops 16 and Piehler 14 for the Mustangs.

'Piehler and Hoops, Piehler and Hoops, that's who did it in the end," said Allen. "That's why I recruited those two guys because they shoot the eyes out of the basket. We struggled the whole ball game, but in the end it was a great clutch play that finally won it." "This is the biggest moment of my life," said Hoops. "I never had that much pressure on me before and performed so well. I really wanted to slam dunk the ball on that last one, but I'll take the foul shots.

Most of the other members of The Associated Press Top 20 in action Wednesday night won easily. No. 2 Duke crushed Princeton 81-45, No. 4 Notre Dame blasted Northwestern 73-56, sixth-ranked Louisiana State edged Tulane 80-79 and 10th-ranked DePaul trounced Wisconsin 90-77.

Al Hrabosky: 'I'm worth than the payout, my contract is right

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Former Kansas City Royals relief pitcher Al Hrabosky says he's worth the $5.9 million he will receive from the Atlanta Braves for pitching the next five seasons "because they're paying it to me

"The most obvious answer is 'No. you're not,'" said Hrabosky, nicknamed "The Mad Hungarian" for his psyche-out tactics behind the mound. 'But somebody's willing to pay it; then, yes, you are. I didn't set that salary. They did," he said. However, Hrabosky, who struck it rich in the free agent market after playing out his option with the Royals last season, does see himself as a valuable gate attraction.

"When I came to the Royals, they came off their highest attendance they ever had -1,855,000," he said. "That first year, they went to 2,255, 000. That's a 400,000 increase. I'm not saying I totally brought in 400,000 additional people, but I think I brought in a share of that. And I can back my statement a lot easier by looking at the Cardinals' attendance, which dropped 400,000 (after he was traded by St. Louis before the 1978 season)

"I definitely paid my salary (in Kansas City).

The Royals apparently didn't agree. They refused to offer more than three years on a contract calling for $1 million. They could have signed the 30-year-old Hrabosky any time last season to a five-year $3 million pact which the relief pitcher and his agent had demanded.

But Ted Turner, the owner of the Braves, apparently saw it Hrabosky's way. His contract offer - and his reputation - won over the relief pitcher, who also was considering comparable offers from the California Angels and Los Angeles Dodgers

"I really didn't know Ted Turner, but I've been fascinated by him,' Hrabosky said. "I guess because he's such a maverick

He said "a few little extras" added to the package by Turner made the Braves' offer the best. Because of deferred payments, Turner will be paying Hrabosky for the next 35. vears.

TORONTO (AP) -The San Diego Padres' chief of scouting said he decided to resign his post with the National League team when broadcaster Jerry Coleman was named manager.

"When they hired him," Rich Schlenker said, "it sort of solidified my thinking that they (the Padres) weren't going in the right direct-100.

"The whole thing was so typical of the Padres. They always take what's available instead of going after a top, qualified guy. It's a shame,' Schlenker told the San Diego Tribune in an interview Wednesday from his home in Concord. Calif.

Dawkins smashes second backboard

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics have lost their first game of the season at home and the Philadelphia 76ers have lost their first backboard.

Darryl Dawkins, the 6-foot-111/2. 252-pound center who has specialized in awe-inspiring slam dunks throughout his career with the 76ers, pulled the rim off the backboard with a dunk during Philadelphia's 132-120 victory over the San Antonio Spurs Wednesday night. The resulting hole caused the glass to shower down on top of Dawkins, who also shattered a backboard at Kansas City Nov. 13.

'It's an exciting thing, bringing down the hoop," said Dawkins. "My contract is coming to an end and maybe I'll be able to put more people into the arena - and the more people I bring out, the more money I might get in my contract.

Might we expect more backboard smashing, the king of the Gorilla dunk was asked.

'It's an exciting play and 1'm getting stronger and stronger," said Dawkins, who added that he managed to escape the shower of glass with only a nick or two on the arm.

Meanwhile, the Atlanta Hawks handed the Celtics their first National Basketball Association loss in 12 games at home this season as John Drew scored 22 points, all in the second half, and Eddie Johnson added 21 in a 120-92 wipeout.

A 21-4 spurt to close the first half gave Atlanta a 21-point lead at intermission and the Celtics could never catch up although they did close the gap to nine late in the third period.

'Every team has nights like this,' said Boston Coach Bill Fitch. "I would have taken a time out when they were killing us near the end of the half, but I didn't have anything useful to say. It would have been an insult to our players' intelligence to talk about our many mistakes.

'The Hawks are too good a team to have an off night against."

"We scored six baskets on second shots, and with (center Wayne) Rollins' blocks, we had our fast break game in gear," said Hawks' Coach Hubie Brown. "They made a run in the third, so I called two timeouts in a row, and when we got it up to 14 heading into the final quarter, I was satisfied.

Dawkins' dunk with 6:42 left in the game was the 13th and 14th points of 20 he scored for the game, which had to be delayed for 1 hour, 14 minutes while workers installed a new backboard.

Pat Williams, 76ers manager, said, "Kansas City sent us a $500 bill for the one he broke out there, but we never paid it. I don't know what the (Philadelphia) Spectrum will do about this Coach Billy Cunningham said he would "never tell Darryl not to dunk for two reasons. One, that's a high percentage shot and two, it's intimidating ... players have a tendency to back off.

Julius Erving led Philadelphia scorers with 28 points, while George Gervin had 42 for San Antonio.

Nuggets 123, Bucks 107 Milwaukee had swamped Denver by 57 points in a pair of October victories, but the Nuggets got great inside play from Dan Issel and George Johnson to turn the tables this time

Issel collected a game-high 36 points and 16 rebounds, while Johnson, subbing for the injured George McGinnis, scored 15 points and also had 16 rebounds

Lakers 116, Rockets 114

Norm Nixon scored 26 points, including the game-winning basket with 25 seconds left after a Spencer Haywood steal. Los Angeles had to rebound from a 107-102 deficit and the loss of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar after the Lakers' center was hit with his second technical foul.

Kings 109, Pistons 93

Bill Robinzine led seven Kansas-City players in double figures with 20 points as Detroit lost its 11th straight game on the road

Pacers 118, Cavaliers 99

Mickey Johnson scored 24 points and James Edwards added 22 as Indiana fought back from a 13-point sec. ond-quarter deficit against Cleveland

Johnson, Edwards and Billy Knight had six points apiece as Indiana outscored the Cavs 20-9 in the final 51/2 minutes of the first half to erase most of a 52-39 deficit.

Nets 115, Suns 100

Mike Newlin scored 29 points and rookie Calvin Natt added 27, including eight straight in the third quarter to stretch a slim 63-62 New Jersey lead to 71-62. The Nets stretched the margin to 15 in the first minute of the fourth quarter when Newlin hit the

Mike Richardson hit a driving layup at the final buzzer and converted a free throw after time expired as New York withstood a Washington comeback from a 15-point deficit. Ray Williams and Bill Cartwright scored 25 points apiece to lead the Knicks

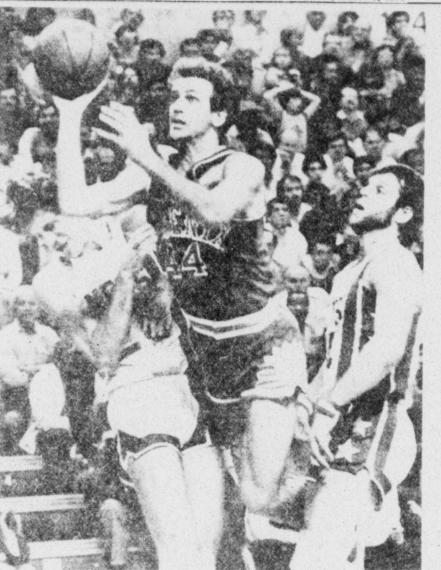

Warriors 97, Bulls 90

Sonny Parker, switched from forward to guard in a lineup change, responded with 23 points as Golden State broke a five-game losing streak with a victory over Chicago.

U.S. wins medal thanks to Thomas

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -America's first medal in international gymnastics team competition. Kurt Thomas' incredible one-man show, and Russia's first gold medal since 1960, were all overshadowed Wednesday night by a hospital bulletin

When The Associated Press-broke the story that Romania's Nadia Comaneci, the 18-year-old queen of the gymnastics world, was being treated for an infected hand at All Saint's Hospital, it sent shockwaves through the 20th World Gymnastics Championship.

This is the first world gymnastics championship outside of Europe and Nadia, the Olympic gold medal winner, is the No. 1 attraction.

It would have been a major disappointment to thousands who have been venturing to Tarrant County Convention Center if the injury had sidelined the girl who captivated the hearts of millions as a pony-tailed 14-year-old at the Montreal Olympics in 1976.

Comaneci was treated for an infection of her left hand and kept overnight for observation. It was an injury she suffered Tuesday in the compulsory competiton but was kept quiet by her coaches:

The Romanians said don't worry about Nadia tonight in the optional events: She'll be there.

Alexandru Mogos, chief of the Romanian delegation, said: "We noticed a small red inflammation on her left hand Wednesday morning and doctors recommended they take her to All Saints. The doctors assured us she would be in real fine shape. This has never happened to her before.

Comaneci leads Russia's Nelli Kim 39.500 to 39.300 going into the optional events. The top 36 competitors, including Comaneci hand-permitting, take the average of their scores after tonight into Saturday night's allaround.

More importantly, the Romanians, bitter rivals of the USSR, trail Russia just slightly in pursuit of a team gold medal they have never won.

The United States earned a bronze medal Wednesday night thanks to Thomas in the men's events. The highest finish previous finish had been fourth at the World Championships in Strasborg, France, in 1978.

The third-place finish also assured the U.S. men's team a spot among the top 12 in the 1980 Olympics in Mo-SCOW

The biggest disappointment of the night belonged to Bart Conner, a top U.S. star who fell off the horizontal bar. He only got a 9.3 in the event and it knocked him from third to fourth going into the all-around.

"Delighted, we're simply delight ed," said U.S. Coach Roger Counsil. 'This shows we've arrived.

Japan, which had captured every men's team title since 1960, won the silver.

UNM basketball may be a shell

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) -The new University of New Mexico athletic director says the Lobo basketball program he inherited might have to fold up for the season if too many players are declared ineligi-

"But that would be an absolute last 3 resort if we did that," John Bridgers said Wednesday, his first day on the job. "We would really lose ground if we did that.

BRIDGERS ADMITTED that if the Lobos are left with only the remnants of a team, "I wouldn't foresee a very good season. That's for sure.

"I would foresee that we would do our best with what we have available," he added. "Check out some of those intramural champions from last year, maybe.

UNM officials announced Wednesday they are looking into the possibility that as many as seven more Lobo basketball players might be ineligible.

One player, Craig Gilbert, already has been declared ineligible by the university in the wake of a federal investigation into possible transcriptfixing involving junior college transfers.

Bridgers, like other officials, declined to divulge the names of the seven basketball players whose eligibility was being questioned.

He said he expected the checks to be completed "within the next three or four days.

BUT IF the eligibility questions can't be answered prior to Saturday night's game at New Mexico State, Bridgers said it's possible the players could be held out of the game.

Another official, Dean of Admissions Robert Weaver, also said that was a possibility and added, "if theif transcripts were later proven to be OK, we'd reinstate them later.'

Bridgers, 57, arrived in Albuquerque late Tuesday night. He met twice with university President William E. Davis Wednesday before facing news reporters.

"I know there are a lot of things to do and a lot of problems to solve," he said. "I just hope we can start today and start making progress toward solving them.

"I'm afraid I really can't give you all the solutions at one time," added the former Florida State University athletic director. "It's going to take a little while to do.

Bridgers accepted the UNM post last Friday, the same day basketball Coach Norm Ellenberger and Manny

Goldstein, his chief recruiting assistant, were suspended indefinitely. The suspensions came amidst an FBI probe into possible mail fraud and bribery involving the transcripts of junior college transfers. You know, I would be passing judgment, wouldn't I," said Bridgers when asked if he planned to fire Ellenberger. "I just think it's better if I not answer that question." He said he wanted to wait to allow for "due process." But he acknowledged that he would have to deal with the basketball coaching situation. He said that it was his "guess" that a decision on Ellenberger's fate would be- made "within a two-week period.

GOLDSTEIN, WHO has refused to comment to reporters in Albuquerque, is quoted in the Dec. 10 issue of a Sports Illustrated as saying he arranged to have a phony transcript prepared for Gilbert

They have me for changing a transcript or allegedly making one up," Goldstein is quoted as saying. Now you tell me how bad a crime I did. I bought a seal. I didn't steal it. I went to a print shop and had it made, and I bought it.

"Did I try to hurt the kid? He's not eligible! He had nothing to lose. I considered everything. This was the last resort. I didn't do anything illegal until I had to.

'So I'm he worst criminal in the world. I'm worse than any of them. I'm no martyr. I just did something that I regret.

An affidavit filed last week in federal court by the FBI contained comments from a tape recorded telephone conversation between Goldstein and Ellenberger.

THE CONVERSATION, which was recorded by police, included statements by Goldstein to Ellenberger that Goldstein had arranged to provide Gilbert with an associate of arts degree from Oxnard Junior College in California

The FBI has said it will present its findings to a federal grand jury, which convenes in Albuquerque Dec.

Bridgers said he had a "lot of thoughts on" Goldstein. But he said he believed it "best not to express them now.

He added, however, "I think Manny's idea of what an educational institution is, is just wrong. We will remedy the situation in the future. I think we've just got to wait until all this is legally correct.'

Patek may have hard time standing up at plate in KC

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Fred die Patek says he may not be able to stand up the first time he comes to bat wearing a California Angels' uniform in Royals Stadium.

'This is like the end of a 10-year love affair with Kansas City and the people of Kansas City," Patek said Wednesday after signing a three-year contract with the Angels. "It's going to be tough leaving here. It's going to be one of the toughest things I've ever-

However, the 35-year-old Patek, who had been the Royals' regular shortstop for ten years, said he's certain he had no future with Kansas City

He declared his free agency at the end of last season following a troubled year in which he lost his starting job to young U.L. Washington.

Patek refused to give details of his Angels contract, but he said it was 'far, far better than what the Royals

Bush sees deterioration of Cincinnati Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) - Center Blair Bush, who has been watching the deterioration of the Cincinnati Bengals from the bench the past four weeks, believes the situation can only be reversed by a change of attitude.

"It's just a steady deterioration, and I haven't seen anything thus far that can stop it," said Bush, hobbled by a knee injury.

The Bengals, 2-13, journey to Washington to play the Redskins in the season's second to last game Sunday

'You can't blame management. You can't blame coaches. You can't lame the players. But somewhere smebody's going to have to make a move to get back on the right track. "One group can't look at another group and say, 'You have to change.' All three groups have to do it together. You can't look at one group as the culprit. We're in a stage now where everyone points at everyone else," Bush said.

'We have to support management, just as management has to support the players and the coaches too. We must make the whole organization mesh together.

"I've got sort of an analogy, like three horses pulling in three different directions. You've got to harness the horses and get pulling in the same direction and you can have a powerful group.

He said the California contract was just what he had been hoping to get.

"In all reality, we were kind of anticipating a three-or four-year contract," Patek said. "I got the money I thought I was worth. I knew I wasn't going to get an outrageous amount like some people are getting, but the Angels were extremely fair. I'm very happy with what I got.

He said he can easily visualize his first at-bat when the Angels visit Kansas City next year.

The diminutive shortstop, famous for being the smallest player in the major leagues, said he still will maintain his home in Kansas City and continue his association with a local car dealership:

"Jerri (Mrs. Patek) will be here next spring looking after the construction of a home," he said. "I hate to stick her with that responsibility, but we've been wanting to build a home for two or three years and now's the time to do it. I've been taking some courses and trying to learn the

Classic is bass Super Bowl

You may or may not have heard about the 1979 Bass Masters Classic, held in September at Lake Texoma. It's all history now, but for those of you unaware of what the Classic was all about, it's time you learned. The Classic is the world finals of professional bass fishing. It's also been dubbed as the World Series of bass fishing or the Super Bowl of competitive bass fishing. Whatever name it goes by it can be said with great pride, this fishing event is the finest to be found anywhere.

WE ATTENDED the Classic once again this year as outdoor writer guests of Bass Angler's Sportsman Society (BASS), based in Montgomery, Ala Ray Scott, president of this giant fishing organization, is "Mr. BASS" to most bass fishermen. Scott began his professional bass fishing circuit in 1968. To date, he's the man who gave competitive bass fishing a name, created an outdoor sport which is closing the gaps on money winnings of professional golf or tennis and has revolutionized the world of bass fishing.

Professional fishermen like Bill Dance, Tommy Martin, Bobby Murray, Roland Martin and Jim Houston, plus a wide array of other professional bass fishermen follow Scott around the country fishing his circuits much the same way a puppy follows his master.

THE REASON for all this interest in BASS tournaments is because they pay-off big money, they are held in a sportsmanlike manner, and peoples who associate with the tournaments - as well as the contenders - are honest sportsmen and just downright nice people.

BASS has already announced its 1980 tournament circuit. That schedule will be coming in future columns But let's highlight the 1979 Classic. held back in September on Texoma. Thank God and Gary Klein, Hank

Parker won the $50,000 Classic. 'This was the second greatest thing ever to happen in my life," said the 26 year-old Clover, S. C., bass pro after claiming the Classic's $25,000 first prize. "I was saved three years ago...and I have to believe that Jesus Christ helps me here," Parker told an awards banquet crowd of 25 of the nation's best bass fishermen and about 100 outdoor writers.

Klein, 21, of Oroville, Calif., had a hand in Parker's victory, too, the born-again BASSer testified.

PARKER CAUGHT 31-pounds of largemouths during the event, three pounds better than his nearest rival, Basil Bacon, 42, of Springfield, Mo.

Parker owned only one long rod suitable for flipping - that could have been taken apart for the flight to Texoma. He planned to buy a "Fenwick Flipping Stik" once he got there. But Parker found that flipping - a new style developed on the West Coast of swinging jigs or worms into heavy corner at close range -- isn't as popular on the 35-year-old Texas-Oklahoma border impoundment as he expected. Area sporting goods stores were fresh put of the necessary 7-1/2foot rods.

When Parker's only long rod broke the first day of competition - but not before he jerked-up 16-pounds, 10ounces of bass - his hopes of winning the world championship faded.

KLEIN, WHO finished fourth in his Classic debut, loaned Parker a "Flippin Stick," one of seven the Californian packs everywhere. "Of course I gave it to him." said Klein, even though his generosity could have cost him the victory.

"I could have won without it," Parker said of the borrowed rod, after the final weigh-in at Tanglewood on Texoma resort, co-hosts of the event. Parker hadn't planned to do any flipping. "I came here planning to tie on a white spinnerbait and never take it out of my hands," he said. He forsook the strategy immediately after discovering a concentration of hefty bass along a drop-off in 10-feet of water in the Big Mineral Arm of the 90,000-acre lake.

He won bass fishing's big event in 24 hours. "I didn't catch a fish before 10 a.m. the first day and couldn't get one to hit after 10 a.m. on the second day." But in that one-day flurry. Parker fooled 11 bass weighing 28pounds, nine-ounces, by "easing sixinch Mann's Jelly Waggler worms into shady pockets in the brush, and jigging them all the way down." The fish hit on the fall, Parker said.

PARKER DIDN'T even have to get out of bed on the final day to top Bacon's 28-pound creel. He boated only one bass, a two-pound, sevenounce fish that hit a black-and-blue 'Norman Snatrix'' worm.

Flipping nearly brought Bacon the first prize. He was confident weeks before the Classic.

Rick Clunn, 33, of Montgomery, Texas, was the only pro among the top four who wasn't flipping exclusively. He finished third with 23pounds, 12-ounces, for nine fish, three of which fell to the flipping technique.

Clunn earned $5,000 for his finish, compared to Klein's $3,000 reward for fourth, but he was as satisfied as one could be after missing-out on $20,000 worth of bass fishing's biggest purse

RICKY GREEN, 34, of Arkadelphia. Ark., who kept alive his string of eight consecutive Classic appearances (longest along Dance of Memphis) by beating the alternate to the Classic by six ounces on the six-event BASS tournament trail, was fifth in the event with 19-pounds, 15-ounces.

Although the fishing and winning was the highlight of this 1979 Classic, contenders, writers and guests were thoroughly entertaned by BASS president Scott as he lined up entertainment by Franz Benteler's Royal Strings, Egyptian belly dancer Santana, and Nashville's Mel Tillis and his country music band. Two musical groups - the Regenerations and the Pearl Wranglers Band - entertained BASS guests and Republican presidential candidate George Bush.

Vols have split personality

- Tennessee HOUSTON (AP) Coach Johnny Majors has had a tough time this season figuring out the personality of his Volunteer football team

Perhaps it is split.

There have been four or five times when we played more exciting football than any team I've ever been associated with," said Majors. "And there have been other times when we played as flat as any team I've ever coached.

The Volunteers, 7-4, will play Purdue New Year's Eve in the 21st annual Bluebonnet Bowl in the Astrodome and Majors hopes the correct Volunteer team shows up.

Tennessee accepted the Bluebonnet invitation following an upset loss to Mississippi but came back with victories over Kentucky and Vanderbilt to bring its record back to respectability

And having his team come to the bowl with a degree of momentum, worgies Majors

'I remarked after the Kentucky game that our team would have to come back from a victory," Majors said. "I said that because our team has played very well when it faced adversity this season

"I hate for us to always have an crisis, but that seems to be the way we get cranked up.

Losing to Ole Miss left the Volunteers with a 5-4 record and the possibility of coming into the Bluebonnet Bowl with a 5-6 pecord if they lost their last two games That was apparently the crisis the Volunteers needed.

"I have never been happier in my life to win a football game," Majors said of the Kentucky game. "We played under great adversity. It was one of the toughest games I've ever been involved in.

Majors traced much of his team's up and down season to youth and injuries.

'Part of it could be attributed to a lack of maturity," Majors said. "We had one senior starting on defense in our final game against Vanderbilt. And injuries also were a factor

Lions' Komlo, Dorney hit with fines

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - Detroit quarterback Jeff Komlo and offensive tackle Keith Dorney have been slapped with fines by Coach Monte Clark after a bar room brawl that left Dorney with a black eye.

The incident apparently happened last Thursday night following a practice session in which the Lions were preparing for their National Football League game Sunday with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Lions lost the game, 44-7, to drop to 2-12 - last in the Central Division of the league's National Conference -- and Komlo was benched in the second quarter when he couldn't get anything"started.

Dorney's black eye at first was attributed to an automobile accident, but the club confirmed Wednesday it was a result of the altercation with Komlo, who reportedly clobbered the 6-foot-5, 265-pound former Penn State All American with a beer mug. Komlo is 6-2, but gives away 60 pounds to Dorney

Ironically, the two rookies share the same apartment.

It/was unclear what started the flare-up and neither player felt like talking about it after practice Wednesday.

Clark, who wouldn't disclose the amount of the fine, said he didn't want to dwell on it.

'Both players were remorseful and they shook hands in my office," Clark said. "I'd just as soon put the whole incident in the past and get on with preparing for the Miami Dolphins." Komlo and Dorney continue to live in the same apartment. Clark said Komlo would start when the Lions host the Dolphins at the Silverdome on Sunday, especially since veteran Joe Reed broke his left hand and injured some ribs against the Eagles.

It was only Reed's second game of the season. He was injured in the Lions' opener against Tampa Bay played Saturday. Gildemeister had defeated Pat Dupre in his opening match Tuesday night.

Romanian Ilie Nastase evened his record at 1-1, defeating Peter Fleming 5-3, 7-5 in a matchup of ill-tempered players. The eight players are divided into two groups of four in the split roundrobin tournament, with the top two in each section advancing to the semifinals If Borg defeats Dupre on Thursday, Gildemeister automatically qualifies for a semifinal berth. "I'm happy with the way I'm playing," said Gildemeister. "I hope I make the semis I'm not there yet." The highlight of the evening for the 4,500 fans at the Maurice Richard Arena was the Connors-Gullikson match.

Gullikson had been impressive in his victory over Nastase on Tuesday night, and Connors is always an attraction despite the decline in his play this year

'I've had a lot of other things on my mind," said Connors of his problems on the court. Connors married former model

Court order blocks Frank Kush hearing

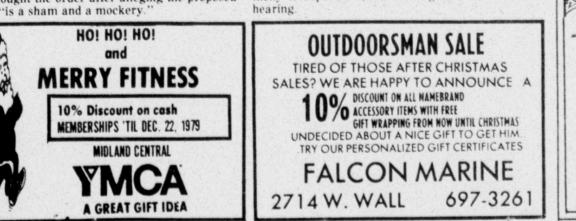

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - An order blocking a scheduled Dec. 13 hearing by Arizona State University officials to formalize the decision to suspend or fire football Coach Frank Kush has been issued here

Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Philip. Marquardt Wednesday scheduled a hearing for Friday on a request for a permanent injunction.

Kush sought the order after alleging the proposed hearing "is a sham and a mockery.

Attorneys argued in their motion that the hearing is intended "to circumvent due process in order to give the illusion of legitimacy to the improper and unjustified action" of ASU President John Schwada in removing Kush from his coaching job.

Marquardt's order also prevents ASU Athletic Director Fred Miller from traveling to Seattle to obtain depositions from four persons whose testimony is expected to be used against Kush at the hearing

Brent Gallagher and Jerry "J. D." Delk paced bowlers in Midland this past week. Delk rolled a 288 game and 710 series in the Exxon Mixed League Thursday evening and then followed up with robust games of 254 and 257 for a fine 680 in the Civic Commercial men's. Gallagher rolled consistently well in the City Mixed with games of 226-238 and 248 for a 712 series. Gallagher also had a 269 game and 674 in the Air Park Classic scratch and a 235-651 total in the Sugar & Spice.

In Delk's 288 game, "J. D " strung the first 10 in a row, before letting up the ball and missing the pocket. Delk converted the spare and concluded with his fine total.

Norma Hill led women bowlers, rolling a fine 254 game and a 618 series in the Sparettes.

Norma Hill fed women bowfers, rolling a fine 254 game and a 618 series in the Sparettes.
Mike Velasco and Darrell Hopkins topped youth bowfers, Velasco hitting on 234 and 624 while Hopkins totaled 231 and 624. Bryan Kelley set the tone for junior level keglers with a 187 game and 479 series while B J. Carmody rolled the high game among bantams with a 187. Arturo Nunez rolled the high game and 175 series.
Air Park Lanes will hold their Holiday doubles and singles Classic at specified times between Dec. 21-Dec. 31. The event, sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress and the Womens International Bowling Congress, will have divisions for scratch and handicap play.

Tigers break Rebs' streak

SNYDER - The Snyder Tigers ended Midland Lee's four game winning streak here Tuesday night with a 71-56 victory over the Rebels in a non-conference basketball outing.

Snyder, the defending District 3-AAA champions, raised their record to 3 2 on the year while Lee is now 5-3, heading into the first round of today's Austin-Invitational Basketball Tournament where the Rebs will be for the next three days.

Brad Richardson carried the big gun for the Tigers as he hit for 26 points. Kyle Short had 12 to aid the win while Kris Seale added 10 more to the cause.

Friday's action begins at 1,30 p.m. when the

Midland Lee junior varsity meets Midland Christian in the opening game. The Midland High, junior varsity will tangle with Lubbock Coronado at 3 p.m.

Only two Rebels made it to the land of double digits as Tim Fisher hit for 18 points and Tim Walker 12. The Tigers blasted their way to big 18-8 lead in the first period and led by 11 points at the half, 41-30. The two teams produced few points in the third period as Lee narrowed the gap to 10 points, 48-38, but Snyder outscored the Rebs in the final period, 23-18, to nail down the win.

Lee took victories in both the junior varsity and sophomore outings, however. The Lee junior varsity ran to a 69-45 victory over Snyder with Darius Berry leading the way with 13 points. The Lee sophomores took an 87-41 victory over the Snyder sophs as Alvin Dunson pumped in a game high 22 points.

This run on the bank has reached only its midpoint. True, of the 28 available free agents who were drafted by more than one team, almost all the bigger names have signed. Nevertheless, 16 small fry still are available and they are having stacks of money thrown at them from high windows.

THE ORIOLES, for instance, have given up bidding for reserve catcher Milt May, who probably will sign with San Francisco shortly

The highest-paid player on the AL champs was Jim Palmer at $260,000. To get May for their bench, the O's would have to offer $400,000 a year for several seasons. Palmer, not surprisingly, wants $3.5 million spread over six years.

NRC considered accident plans to be secondary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission admits that before the Three Mile Island nuclear accident last spring, its members considered emergency planning to be of secondary importance.

Such planning was "conceived as a secondary but additional measure to be exercised in the unlikely event than an accident would happen." the NRC said Monday in a draft proposal of new regulations. "The commission's perspective

ed sequence of events that occurred at Three Mile Island." the draft says was severely altered by the unexpect-

The proposed regulations would, for the first time, raise emergency planning to the same level of importance as nuclear plant design and location in the effort to prevent public exposure to rediation.

The commission met Monday to edit a rough draft of the proposed rules, which would require NRC approval of state and local emergency plans before new nuclear plants could begin operation. The proposal also could require such plans for existing plants. The draft says the March 28 accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant near Harrisburg. Pa., showed that plant design and location alone are not enough to protect the public.

It notes the NRC currently requires reactor-owners to plan for emergencies within plant property, and to make arrangements with state and local authorities for wider emergency response.

But NRC approval of those plans is not currently a condition for the granting of federal licenses required to construct and operate nuclear plants.

The main thrust of the proposed rule is that "prior concurrence in state and local emergency response plans will be a condition" for licensing and operation, the draft says.

The draft proposal says the commission also is considering "whether construction permits which have already been issued should be reconsidered" under the proposed rule.

The wording indicates the draft proposal could lead to barring construction of planned nuclear plants and the operation of newly built plants until emergency plans are approved. It also suggests the proposal could require the closure of operating plants until they are covered by approved emergency plans.

The commissioners agreed on the basic principles of the draft proposal, and expect to publish soon a revised version. More changes could be made after public comment is considered.

Ancient gods still watch over the Mayan Indians

EDITOR'S NOTE: Alex Drehsler was in southeastern Mexico at a water commission meeting when he met a Mayan taxicab driver who offered to take him into the jungle where Mayan Indians still live as they have for centuries. This is his story.

By ALEX DREHSLER Copley News Service

EJIDO HEROES DE NACOZARI. Mexico - The jungle night was wrapped in silence, punctured only by the occasional cry of a frightened monkey hunted by a hungry snake.

Shadows of men, ghostlike figures, moved slowly, quietly along the dirt road. Their machetes reflected the pale light of the half-moon shining through the tall sapote trees.

At the dirt mound near a newly dug well, the men sat down in a circle. Ek, whose Mayan name means "star," spoke first:

'Some men burned a milpa (corn field) 600 meters from Agua Azul. Near a mountain of rocks they found what looked like the bones of children, of several children. But they weren't children: They were the bones of the duenos del monte (owners of the mountain), the aluxes."

The aluxes (pronounced ah-LOOSH-es) are dwarf-like creatures with magical powers. To the Mayan Indians living in the southeastern state of Quintana Roo, a few miles from the jet set resort of Can Cun. the aluxes are real. They protect the Indians' milpas from trespassers and thieves

"You have to offer a cup of atole at every one of the four corners of your milpa," Ek told the men. "In exchange for this offering the aluxes will throw stones at any trespasser, frighten him, cause him to have head aches and be sick.

The men nodded silently. They knew that the ancient Mayan gods were still alive, that the Spaniards had not killed them with their God.

An elderly man walked slowly down the road past the men. "Bix abel (bish ah-BELL)," he called out. "How are you?

"Chen tela (chen tay-LAH)," the men responded. "Just here, that's Spanish is rarely spoken in these villages. The Mayans stubbornly cling to their ancient way of life. The man most responsible for keeping the old gods alive and the ceremonies that can invoke their aid is the Mem, the priest.

"The Mem," said Ek, "is our priest, our curer. He cures people who are inflicted with the bad winds that come from the mountains.

"When we have a drought the Mem performs the Chah Ch'ac, the ceremony in honor of the rain god Ch'ac

The Chah Ch'ac ceremony can only be attended by men and little boys, said Ek.

"At the direction of the Mem we build a hut and cover it with palm fronds," he said. "We build it at the village's exit. We then build a wooden altar.

"A lot of food is buried in the ground and heated with coals. We pray in Mayan and Spanish. Then everybody eats. It always rains afterward.

Pepe Hau, known as the best builder of huts in these parts, stared across the road at his father-in-law's hut. Strands of blue smoke snaked their way toward the starry sky.

Hau could smell the deer he killed earlier in the day. It was slowly roasting on a spit behind the round, wooden hut.

Kennedy Center officials attempt to attract blacks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Officials of the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, trying to attract the blacks who make up 75 percent of this city's population, are enjoying some success with a play by acclaimed Nigerian author Wole Soyinka.

Soyinka's "Death and the King's Horseman," a serious, poetic tragedy with a few strokes of humor, opened a four-week run Tuesday at the center. The play explores the meaning of life and death for members of Nigeria's Yoruba tribe, and how that meaning is misunderstood by a young officer in the British colonial service

CHICAGO (AP) — The trip includes a visit to a local fertilizer plant and a room at the YMCA. But no one's sure if comedian Steve Martin will take advantage of the offer from Terre Haute, Ind., the town Martin has dubbed the most "nowhere" place in America.

Martin is being invited to spend a two-day dream vacation in beautiful downtown Terre Haute, a town he described in an interview in the January edition of Playboy magazine.

Terre Haute city fathers are promising a wild and crazy time, to borrow Martin's jargon, starting with the trip to town in one of their local H&D Aviation High-Wing Tail Draggers.

When the sun goes down, Martin can swing to the rymthic thum-thumthum of the washers at the Third Avenue Washeteria, which Ms. Weger describes as "one of the nicest laundromats in the Midwest."

ABC wins in Nielsens

NEW YORK (AP) - CBS, winner twice in a row in the networks' primetime ratings competition, listed seven of the 10 most-watched shows in the week ending Dec. 2, but still lost the race.

The Top 10 was composed entirely of continuing series, an unusual configuration. The highest-rated special was the welterweight championship fight between Sugar Ray Leonard and Wilfredo Benitez.

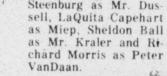

CBS' top show for the week was "60 Minutes," in second place, followed by "M A S H," also on CBS, and 'Taxi'' from ABC. NBC listed only "Little House on the Prairie" in the Top 10 - No. 10.

Chinook winds over 100 mph rip through Colorado, Wyoming

DENVER (AP) - Chinook winds in excess of 100 mph caused an estimated $4.5 million damage to homes in Wyoming and along Colorado's Front Range, an insurance claims adjuster

No injuries were reported from the Chinooks - the warm, dry winds that blow down from the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains.

An anemometer at the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant between Gold en and Boulder broke while recording winds of 119 mph, a spokesman for Rockwell International reported. John Blue, a division claims superintendent for State Farm Insurance, said his estimate did not include wind damage to commercial buildings, automobiles or aircraft.

The hurricane-force winds struck Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, derailed 23 empty grain cars of a Union Pacific freight train between Chevenne and Laramie, Wvo, tore the roof off a lumber yard and two homes in Boulder and triggered power outages in several Front Range cities and Sheridan, Wyo.

We feel that the major damage is in the Boulder area, Buffalo, Wyo., and Sheridan, Wyo., Blue said Wednesday He said there were 200 to 300 claims in Boulder, and that at Buffalo, three or four mobile homes were blown over, roofs were completely ripped off some homes and some garages were blown away

U.S. Highway 36 was closed east of Boulder early Wednesday because of gravel and rocks sent flying by the high winds. The National Weather Service said it recorded top winds of 92 miles an hour at Boulder during the night

Power outages were reported at Sheridan, Boulder, Denver and Colorado Springs

Tuesday night the winds tore a sheet metal roof off a lumberyard in Boulder and hurled flying debris onto 40 or 50 cars in a neighboring parking lot, said Boulder Police spokesman Larry Gear

Boulder police stopped two run away trash bins driven by the high winds and Gear said businesses at five locations reported major window breakage

Three airplanes were severely damaged at Aircraftco and about a dozen hangar doors were torn off or buckled by the winds at Jefferson County Airport southeast of Boulder. Aircrafteo manager Bob Brunk said the planes were worth about $220.

Two other planes were reported damaged at Boulder Airport and another plane was overturned by the winds at Longmont Airport. In Denver and nearby suburbs the winds uprooted trees and damaged windows Minor wind damage was reported

$2 billion 767 order assures plane's success

SEATTLE (AP) - Trans World Airlines' decision to modernize its fleet with as much as $2 billion worth of Boeing 767s, coming on the heels of the largest order in airline history, appears to assure success for the new irplane as a major domestic jetliner n the 1980s

But the decision was a blow for Airbus Industrie of Europe in the consortium's attempt to make major headway in the United States with its A-310 airliner.

Under the sale announced Wednesday, TWA will buy ten 767s worth $500 million. TWA also plans to exercise options on another ten 767s and probably will buy a total of 45, worth more than $2 billion, through 1987, according to TWA President C.E. Meyer

The airline shunned Airbus Industrie completely, announcing it also would buy two Lockheed 1011-100 jetliners worth about $100 million.

Competition between Airbus - a consortium of French, German and British companies, most governmentbacked - and Boeing was "intense, Meyer said.

'You can bet we're pleased, very pleased. That was a tough one," said Jim Boynton, chief spokesman in Seattle for the Boeing Commercial Airplane Co. In New York, an Airbus spokeswoman had no immediate comment. "Both the Airbus and Boeing people have been very anxious to convince us they have best product. In the last two weeks, we've been in very constant conversation with both parties," Meyer said. He refused to disclose any details of the financing package. Meyer said TWA's board unani

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has tentatively approved new regulations requiring nuclear power-plant operators to have federally approved state and local emergency plans or face possible shut-down.

to look more closely at the fuel efficiency of aircraft purchased to modernize their fleets

The Airbus wing is slightly smaller than the 767's, providing slightly better fuel consumption on trips of less than 1,000 miles, and Eastern Airlines has ordered one version of the plane. Boeing's plane has better fuel consumption on longer hauls.

"I believe the 767 is primarily the building block, giving us by 1985 the most efficient fleet of airplanes," said Mever.

The Boeing 767 earlier this year trounced the A-310, which has not been purchased by any domestic carrier, when Air Canada ordered 12 767s. United Airlines and American Airlines, TWA's chief rivals, also have agreed to buy the 767, guaranpopularity, which Meyer said was a factor in the TWA's decision to buy Boeing.

Boeing has said the 767 might be the best-selling commercial jetliner yet, surpassing the durable 727.

Including the TWA order, Boeing has 135 firm orders for the 767 worth a total of about $5.3 billion. The planes cost about $39 million apiece.

The largest single order in aviation history for new airplanes was placed by United Airlines last July - $1.6 billion for 30 767s and 30 727s.

The 767 will seat about 200 persons. The first one should roll off the assembly line in Everett, Wash., in late 1981, and the first delivery will be made in September 1982, to United. Meyer said TWA expects to take delivery of its first two 767s in November

Cabdriver seizes woman's wheelchair in lieu of fare stroke victim seized her wheelchair because she could not pay all of her $3 fare

DETROIT (AP) - A cabdriver who had given a ride to a 61 year old

Isabell Woodson said the Checker Cab Co. driver took her to her doctor's office Tuesday and became angry when she could only pay $2 of a $3. fare

"I said I don't have no $3 but I have $2 and I'll give you the rest if you'll take me to the bank," said Mrs Woodson, who lives in a senior citizens' housing project.

The driver, David Walter, wheeled her into the office, forced her out of the chair, then folded it up and carried it away, she said.

Dr. Ralph Sachs said Mrs. Woodson uses the wheelchair because she suffered a stroke. After the cabdriver took away her wheelchair, she slipped while trying to get up from an office chair and was taken to a hospital for

'When the lady said she wasn'r going to pay the fare, the driver said, I'll take the wheelchair and when youget the money, bring it down to Checker," Poucher added

Detroit police said cab drivers may not take property as collateral for unpaid fares.

Poucher countered that the public takes advantage of cabdrivers far too often. In this case, it was probably a driver who had been picked on one too many times.

NWS forecaster Jim Schultz said winds in excess of 75 mph are classed as hurricane-force winds face deportation orders

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) - Three Iranian students were ordered deported during a hearing Wednesday, Immigration and Naturalization Service officials said.

'We've heard four cases, and we'll hear three more today," said Ted Martinez of INS. "Three of the four were deported, and one was given voluntary departure in mid-January.

Martinez said he did not know the specific violations that prompted the deportations.

He said the series of hearings in the Lower Rio Grande Valley would continue Friday. The hearings in the Valley concerned status of about 34 Iranians, Martinez said.

Put a 'hole' in their stockings

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - A Utah woman has come up with this year's Christmas gift answer to the pet rock - a black hole in space. Dorothy Kohler and her three children started "Black Hole Properties" in September. She says the idea "just came out of the sky For $5.95, a buyer gets a "title" to a celestial black hole and a "map" pinpointing your property The family has promoted the idea in a Salt Lake City newspaper, and so far, orders have come in at the rate of about 50 to 100 a day, she says. A "deed" gives the buyer the right to create any kind of world he wants on his black hole property. The "map" is really an artist's drawing of the night sky, Mrs. Kohler said. She and her children place peel-and-stick arrows on the drawing to locate a purchaser's black hole

"This is not for real. We pick a spot - an imaginary black hole near a major star. We pop these little stickers on wherever we want," Mrs. Kohler said

A black hole is defined as "the hypothetical result of a runaway or uncontrolled gravitational collapse of a star or collection of stars."

Mrs. Kohler, a former English teacher, calls it a star that has died. She says scientists so far have identified "a half dozen to a dozen' possible black holes.

The business venture has raised some eyebrows, however, notably at the Utah attorney general's Consumer Affairs Division. Investigator Dan Morris said he saw an advertisement for "Black Hole Properties," and asked U.S Postal Service inspectors in Denver to look into it.

"I wonder if the person doing it has the ability to offer something for sale he really doesn't own," Morris said.

But postal inspector Joe Byers of Denver said the advertisements don't appear to be misleading.

Both Byers and Morris compared the venture to the sale of "pet rocks" several years ago, in which a firm marketed ordinary rocks packaged with instructions for care and feeding.

"Basically, it's for fun," Mrs. Koehler said of the business. "There are lots of problems in the world. People get pretty uptight. We thought people need something to smile about.

Mrs. Kohler did the marketing research, but she said the children -Robert, 15, Kathy, 13, and Roger, 11 - helped launch the business

Push to deport Iranians sets. off constitutionality debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's push to deport Iranians has set off an intense debate over the constitutionality of enforcing immigration laws more strictly against one nationality than against others.

Civil libertarians argue that the administration move violates the constitutional guarantee of equal protection of the laws. They say the Bill of Rights applies as much to aliens as to American citizens.

Administration officials reply with a long string of Supreme Court decisions supporting deportation of aliens who have violated the terms of their visas.

The officials argue that they are acting only against those Iranians who have violated immigration laws. They concede, however, that millions of persons from other nations face no immediate risk of deportation despite the same sort of violations.

Some experts outside of government say the debate raises questions never directly presented to the courts - and thus, still unsettled in the law. That may change, however.

Two suits alleging the deportation move discriminates against Iranians have been filed - one by three Iranian students, the other by the Confederation of Iranian Students. A hearing on the two legal actions is scheduled Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Washington.

The debate began Nov. 10 when President Carter ordered a review of the immigration status of some 50,500 Iranian students in the United States. It was one of the first steps in the administration's efforts to break the siege of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and free the Americans being held hostage there.

Complying with Carter's order, immigration authorities have told Iranian students to report for questioning by Dec. 14, and they have taken steps to deport those found in violation of their visas.

The student visas allow temporary U.S. residence and require enrollment in a college or recognized institution. Those holding student visas may not work full-time.

Service spokesman Verne Jervis said Friday that 29,800 Immigrat

Extraordinary staff gears up again

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) - The extraordinary political staff that organized Jimmy Carter's dark-horse presidential campaign in 1976 is geared up to direct the upcoming campaign for renomination and re-election.

Some of the staff members work inside the White House; others, outside. The staff includes Georgians who have never worked for anyone but Carter, and a few non-Georgians with a wealth of experience.

Carter is relying most heavily on four men, three young Carter veterans who were instrumental in the stunning 1976 victory, and Robert Strauss, the wily Democratic pro who came late to the Carter inner circle. Here are brief sketches of the president's top four political advisers:

HAMILTON JORDAN

If any member of Carter's staff has become a household name, it is Jordan. His notoriety, in fact, is probably his biggest liability to the president. Accounts of Jordan's alleged exploits at bars and parties have titillated Washington, and at times the rest of the country. There are accounts of his disdain for the traditions of Conthat he was dissatisfied with his work. JODY POWELL

When Jimmy Carter began his presidential campaign five years ago, his constant traveling companion was Jody Powell. As legend now has it, the slim campaign budget forced them to occasionally share motel rooms.

Like a father-and-son team, they searched the country for potential supporters. The two remain close; for nine years, Powell has been Carter's authoritative spokesman ROBERT STRAUSS

When Jimmy Carter has a problem that won't go away, he turns to Robert

S. Strauss. Strauss has headed the administration's trade negotiations; he has been Carter's top anti-inflation warrior. Later, Carter named him as presidential envoy to the Middle East peace negotiations.

And when Carter decided to place a recognized political professional on the top rung of the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee, he took Strauss - former head of the Democratic National Committee - off the Middle East job and made him chairman of the campaign committee. TIM KRAFT

In 1977, it was almost certain that wherever President Carter went, Tim Kraft wasn't more than a few steps away: If you wanted to meet the president, Kraft was the man to meet first.

Kraft was Carter's appointments secretary, a post he took after a series of campaign jobs, moving up from a volunteer in New Mexico to director of the 1976 campaign field operation. Kraft left a job as a political assistant in the White House to move to the campaign headquarters as the national campaign manager.

gress where he has had a poor working relationship with Democratic leaders. Now he is the subject of a special prosecutor's investigation as to whether he inhaled cocaine at a New York discotheque in 1978. Through it all, Carter has stood by Jordan, giving not the slightest hint Iranianlstudents have been questioned and that 23,500 were complying with the visa terms. They are safe from deportation, he said.

But Jervis said 4,000 have violated the rules, most by staying longer than the visa allowed, and that the others' situations are unclear and being re-evaluat-

He added that 458 of those in violation have agreed to leave the United States voluntarily, and 26 have left already. The deportation machinery is gearing up against the other violators.

In addition to students, an undetermined number of Iranians in the United States on tourist or business visas also face deportation when their visas expire

Civil liberties attorneys say many of these Iranians risk death or imprisonment if they return to Iran.

What troubles the civil libertarians most is the selective enforcement of immigration laws, based on nationality.

"It becomes sort of Ayatollish to say we're going to pick on Iranian students, to single out Iranians when you're not checking on anybody else," said Joseph Rauh, a Washington lawyer and longtime civil liberties leader.

"It is not only a violation of civil liberties, but ludicrous," he continued. "If it would bring one hostage home one minute sooner, one might consider it. But it won't bring one hostage home. You don't answer the outrages of the Ayatollah by mistreating people in your own country.

"Aliens have constitutional rights but not to the same degree as citizens," said Yale law professor Robert Bork, a former U.S. solicitor general. "If these were American citizens, obviously one couldn't single out an ethnic group.

But Bork said in an interview that he believes Congress would have the constitutional authority to refuse U.S. admission to Iranians or any other nationality. And if a nationality could be excluded from the country, then the government can deport those from a particular nation who have violated the law, he said.

Civil libertarians argue that such selective enforcement runs against the grain in a democracy which claims to treat people as individuals rather than judging them on their national origin. Bork responded: "I don't think the country stands for anything that says illegal aliens have a right to stay here.

Some civil liberties advocates are drawing a parallel between the deportation of Iranians and the government internment of Japanese residents, aliens and U.S. citizens alike, during World War II.

Rauh said the parallel is not a close one "because the government is not confining the Iranians.

Judge to rule on Alaska sale

WASHINGTON (AP) - The immediate fate of an oil lease sale that could bring drilling rigs to the icy waters off Alaska's northern coast is in the han is of a federal judge. U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robins on Jr. said he would rule Friday or a challenge to the sale by environmentalists and Eskimo villages that dot the North Slope

Their immediate aim is postponement of Tue sday's government sale of leas ?s that could eventually permit drilling in the Beaufort Sea

The environmentalists also plan to fight for a permanent ban that would keep the drilling platforms away from the dwindling population of bowhead whales.

Environmental lawyers argued in court Wednesday that the drilling could result in oil spills that would threaten the remaining bowheads and the subsistence culture of the Inupiat people

But Justice Department attorney Margaret Strand called the suit "one more in a series of challenges" to government efforts to reduce dependence on foreign oil

Geologists say the area could contain up to 1.25 billion barrels of oil and 3.125 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. If the estimates hold, the area would provide the biggest oil bonanza since Prudhoe Bay, which is just east of the site

Atlantic sale back in court

BOSTON (AP) - The question of offshore oil drilling in the rich fishing grounds of Georges Bank was going back to federal court today as opponents tried to win another delay in the leasing of 660,000 acres of deep-water real estate.

A coalition, including the states of Massachusetts and Maine and the Conservation Law Foundation, has asked the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to halt the sale scheduled for Dec. 18.

Last month the coalition won a lastminute delay in a sale going on in a Providence, R.I., hotel. The sale was halted by Supreme Court Justice William Brennan after a U.S. District Court judge and the appellate panel refused to issue an injunction.

The entire high court later vacated Brennan's order.

T MAY '78

In those hearings, attorneys argued the U.S. Departments of Interior and Commerce failed to show what impact an oil spill would have on the fishing grounds.

Baetz is a new flowing well in an undesignated Bone Spring area of Lea County, just north of Halfway.

The well finaled for a daily potential of 163 barrels of 42.4-gravity oil; through an 18/64-inch choke and perforations from 10,288 to 10,362 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 1,147-1. Completion was natural.

Total depth is 13,640 feet and 4.5inch oil string is cemented at 10,483 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 23-20s-32e.

District 8 leads Permian Basin in new oil, gas operations

District 8 of the Rail- aco Inc. No. 1-AB State of road Commission of Texas, 1,980 from south, Texas lead all other Per- 660 from west section 22, mian Basin areas last block 5, ULS, 15 northweek in new oil and gas locations with 70. Operators announced 194 operations in the West Texas, southeast New Mexico area.

The District 8 headquarters in Midland processed nine wildcat operations and 61 field tests.

Pecos County gained five of the wildcats, and two were spotted in Andrews County. The others were staked in Glasscock and Sterling. District 7-C, headquartered in San Angelo, reported 42 new operations, 13 of them in wildcat country.

Runnels gained six of the wildcats and three were spotted in Coke. Crockett, Irion, Schleicher and Upton counties each gained one

Smiling advertisement prompts government suit

PARIS (AP) - Advertising featuring a smiling dromedary with a smoking Camel cigarette in its mouth has prompted the government to seek fines from R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and its French promoter. arguing the advertising may make people want to smoke

The Winston-Salem, N.C. tobacco company was hauled into court Monday to answer the charge of violating a 1976 law by using improper advertising in favor of tobacco.

The article prohibits all tobacco advertising that depicts more than the name of the product, its composition, the name and address of the manufacturer, graphic or photographic representation of the product or its wrapper and the emblem

According to the prosecution, the Camel emblem is a camel standing sagely in the desert before some pyramids, not the affable fellow now grinning on billboards and magazines throughout France

Lawyers for the tobacco firm argue the camel is the brand's emblem, and that the present whiskered, bug-eyed version is the same emblem, just made a little more lively

Daley supplemented mayoral pay

CHICAGO (AP) - The late Mayor Richard J. Daley supplemented his mayoral pay with a second salary of $25,000 a year for at least part of the time he served as chairman and treasurer of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee, it was revealed today.

Daley, who had seven children, earned $35,000 annually as mayor from 1955 to 1975. After his election to a sixth term in 1975, he got a raise to $60,000 annually

Cook County Board President George Dunne, who was Daley's successor as county Democratic chairman, confirmed that the second salary was paid but said he didn't know who authorized it or for how many years

"There were people aware of the compensation, but I don't know if it was common knowledge," Dunne said.

Dunne, who receives no salary for heading the county party organization. said he found out about Daley's second salary prior to the mayor's death in 1976 and assumed it was given to Daley "on the basis of need.

Members of not-so-exclusive club may not have say in belonging

By DAVID LARSEN The Los Angeles Times

Groucho Marx once said that he wouldn't want to belong to a club that would have somebody like him for a member.

But there is a club of sorts in the United States and not really a very exclusive one - some of whose members don't have any say in the matter. Like it or not, they are drafted.

Most members, however, readily agree to be admitted, because the clique is known as "Who's Who in America," the nation's biennial ego trip.

'One of the hardest things people have to come to terms with is that they are just human beings, most of them common and ordinary," said Dr. Mel Mandel, psychoanalyst who is on the faculty at University of California Los Angeles.

'But somehow they want to be known to the world at large as being exceptional. The various Who's Who people offer an opportunity for recognition."

VARIOUS IS a key word because recent years, according to Patrick Frazier of the Library of Congress, have seen "an explosion" of the genre.

Like Hamsters, they have proliferated to the point where the current "Books in Print" has 237 titles beginning with the words "Who's Who. There is "Who's Who in Romanian America,"

'Who's Who Among Living Authors of Older Nations, "Who's Who in Hockey.

Even Marquis Who's Who, Inc., which publishes the granddaddy "Who's Who in America," had added no fewer than 20 other volumes, such as 'Who's Who in Religion'' and "Who Was Who in America.

MARQUIS, BASED in Chicago, is a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. And while Marquis depends for its existence on information about others, it is not cooperative with anyone

The reason is simple: Money.

write autobiographies

Then, as is currently happening in preparation for all? the edition coming out next year, the subject is sent-a galley proof of his sketch.

We are indebted to you for your assistance in helping us assure the accuracy of Who's Who in America," reads an accompanying letter.

"For that reason, we offer you an opportunity to reserve your own personal copy at special prepublication discounts available only to biographees.

 THE LETTER points out that when purchased for business or professional purposes, the copy is a tax-deductible expense.

It also states that although the forthcoming edition will list for $89.50, the biographee may reserve a copy for as low as $71.60. No obligation, of course.

No figures are available on the number of sketches that will appear in the new version but assuming even the present total of 72,000 if only half of the subjects order a copy, that's roughly $2,500.000.

Add to this the fact, that the nation has, according to the American Library Association, about 22,000 high school libraries, 8,000 public libraries, 3,500 academic libraries and 2,000 special libraries. Most of them regard the two volumes as a standard reference tool, and therefore constitute a sizable built-in market for this Marquis publication alone. Thus the firm is hardly a charitable operation.

THIS FACT has not been lost on other publishers

UDUK

Who's Who on the wall, who is the fairest of them

Frazier said most of the directories follow a pattern in soliciting for entries.

'You get a flattering letter saying congratulations, you have been selected to be in such-andsuch," Frazier said. "Then comes a pitch to buy a copy after it comes out. They are playing the percentages that the person mentioned will want a copy of the book

Some boast in their letters that the book will be deposited in the Library of Congress. And that is true. But so what? We get two copies of everything copyrighted. We even get Tarzan comic books.

FRAZIER SAID it is incredible how many small newspapers will print intact the publicity handouts from these book publishers-stating that so-and-so locally is included in that that particular Who's Who

A good publishing market would seem to exist to tap those who aren't in a Who's Who. Indeed, In San Diego, Derek Evans and Dave Fulwiler are compiling "Who's Nobody in America."

It is expected to have 25,000 entries and appear in print next fall. Among those who have applied, for instance, is a woman who complains that her psychiatrist of eight years often calls her Evelyn. Her name is Mildred

These four (4) Quadraplexes are located at 4705 - 4707 Shady Lane and (directly behind) at 121 - 123 Glenwood (one story).

They will be available to see all day Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Three (3) of these units have established loans. Owners will take as little as $10,000 down and amortize the balance over 30 years.

Drive by then for exact prices and terms, Ben O'Neal and Associates' Mobile Office will be parked in the 5100 block of Shady Lane. Ask for Bill Warrington or Bill Mabe, or call your favorite Realtor.
