Some flights delayed by the blaze

A fire at Midland Regional Airport early this morning near the baggage carousels delayed flights and caused some delays in luggage delivery.

The fire was quickly extinguished, although another small blaze was discovered about an hour later.

No one was seriously injured in either blaze, although Capt. Charles Womble of the Midland Fire Department was taken to the emergency room of Midland Memorial Hospital to be treated for smoke inhalation.

The terminal building was heavily damaged in the immediate fire area and received heavy smoke damage throughout, a fire department spokesman said. Planes were delayed for as much as 30 minutes because of the fire and passengers experienced some delays and inconvenience in recovering their baggage, spokesmen for the various air carriers said.

At 6:41 a.m., a smell of smoke was reported to the fire department. When the units from the Terminal Fire Station arrived, they found a room containing air induction equipment on fire, which caused hot smoke to filter through the entire building. The room was "burning pretty big," a fire department spokesman said.

A unit from one of the city's stations was sent to assist the units at Midland Regional Airport.

It didn't take long to extinguish that fire, but later, at approximately 9:30 a.m., while investigating the blaze, firemen discovered another small fire in the same area. Cause of the fires is still under investigation.

Compromises urged in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Three American clergymen today urged compromise in the U.S.-Iranian crisis and a French archbishop said he expected "clemency" for the American hostages even as Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini raised the possibility of war. The mystery over the number of captives also deepened.

Meanwhile, fresh evidence emerged today that some ruling Revolutionary Council officials are pushing for the imminent release of some U.S. hostages, provoking more angry contradictions from the students occupying the U.S. embassy. A Foreign Ministry spokesman told The Associated Press of an official "suggestion" that three hostages of Mexican, Indian and Portuguese descent be released. The student spokesman would not confirm or deny it.

At the same time a Japanese newspaper quoted a Council member as saying Iran expects to release the hostages after an international tribunal investigates the crimes the United States allegedly committed in Iran over the past 30 years.

The Revs. William Sloane Coffin, Thomas Gumbleton and William Howard flew home today at the end of a three-day Christmas mission with messages from a number of the captives to their families, and a plea for conciliation by both sides in the 54-day-old standoff.

"If one side gets a little more tough it tends to make the other side a little more tough," Coffin told reporters before leaving Tehran. "If one side decides to be a little more gracious, the other side has the freedom to be a little more gracious."

The clergymen, who conducted emotional Christmas Day services for the captives at the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran, left for New York where they were scheduled to arrive at about 8 p.m. EST.

During a Paris stopover, the archbishop of Algiers, who assisted at the Christmas services in Tehran with the Americans, said he found Iranian authorities and public opinion "favorable to an act of clemency."

Though he said he had not received any "exact promises," Cardinal Etienne Duval told reporters at Orly Airport he had reason to hope for the "fastest and broadest possible measure of clemency" for the hostages.

Duval arrived with the three American clergymen, who remained aboard the flight and did not talk to reporters.

During a London stopover they would make no comment, but said they would read a prepared statement when they arrived in New York.

A Japanese newspaper quoted Ayatollah Beheshti, secretary-general of Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council, as saying hostages would be called as witnesses at the international tribunal.

"Our purpose is to put the United States on trial. If our purpose is achieved, all of the hostages will be released. Even if some of them are found guilty on charges of espionage, they will be released without punishment," Mainichi Shimbun quoted Beheshti as saying.

Asked whether the hostages would be appropriate as witnesses, Beheshti said "I don't think they (hostages) are the best. If a much better witness (the shah) were to appear, we would be ready to release the hostages," according to the interview, held in Tehran.

Asked whether Iran would approach the Soviet Union after the revolution, Beheshti told the newspaper, "The idea is ridiculous. We are fighting against the pressure of the United States. It is nonsense to accept pressure from another power in order to get rid of the other."

Beheshti was quoted as saying "we haven't discussed" the possibility that Iran might ban the supply of oil to Japan, which is almost totally dependent on imported oil.

The State Department had no immediate comment on Khomeini's latest prediction of war between the United States and Iran.

In a speech Wednesday to an Islamic anti-drug addiction group, the Iranian strongman said: "Now we are at war, a political and economic war. It is likely that the military war will also come along."

"Foreigners can easily make us surrender by just closing their exports to us if our economy is a dependent one. Now they have threatened us with an economic boycott. Many governments have approved this. But the peoples do not approve."

"While in my view these noises have no reality, if we give a very weak probability to this, we should be equipped. You are in a war situation, an economic war which is in itself a struggle between Islam and paganism," he said.

Khomeini referred to America's request that the U.N. Security Council impose economic sanctions against Iran in a bid to force the release of the hostages, who were grabbed Nov. 4 by pro-Khomeini militants demanding President Carter send the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi back to Iran.

The council is to take up the American request later this week.

An Iranian militant spokesman, meanwhile, added a new figure to the discrepancy over the number of American hostages seen by the clergymen — 43 — and the 50 persons the State Department says are being held.

Iran crisis at-a-glance

The Associated Press

Iranian ruler Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini warned the hostage stalemate could lead to war, and U.S. clergymen who visited the captives at the U.S. embassy appealed for conciliation from both sides as the impasse in Tehran entered its 54th day.

Here are the highlights.

A warning of war

"Now we are at war, a political and economic war. It is likely that the military war will also come along," said Khomeini.

He referred to America's request that the U.N. Security Council impose economic sanctions against Iran in a bid to force the release of the hostages. Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh warned that the hostages will be tried as spies if the United Nations imposes sanctions or if the United States attempts a unilateral economic blockade.

American clergymen

The Revs. William Sloane Coffin, Thomas Gumbleton and William Howard flew home today at the end of a three-day Christmas mission with messages from a number of the captives to their families and a plea for conciliation by both sides.

"If one side gets a little more tough it tends to make the other side a little more tough," Coffin told reporters before leaving Tehran. "If one side decides to be a little more gracious, the other side has the freedom to be a little more gracious."

How many hostages?

An Iranian militant spokesman deepened the mystery over the actual number of hostages by telling the English-language newspaper Tehran Times that 49 hostages are being held. He said some of them did not want to attend Christmas services conducted by the visiting clergymen, who reported seeing 43 hostages. Officials have said 50 persons are captive.

The Afghan connection

The Carter administration called on foreign nations to speak out against what it claims is a rapidly escalating Soviet military buildup in Afghanistan.

Afghanistan borders both the Soviet Union and Iran. The administration appears to believe that it can undercut the Soviet position in the Islamic world by calling public attention to Russian backing for a regime engaged in a bitter war with a Moslem resistance movement.

Afghanistan government toppled; Soviet street fighting reported

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Radio Kabul today reported a coup in Afghanistan, with power seized by Babrek Karmel, a former prime minister.

The reported coup came as Soviet troops and equipment poured into the country to aid in an offensive against anti-communist rebels by the government now reportedly overthrown. There was no word on Karmel's position on Soviet-Afghanistan relations.

In Washington, U.S. officials said they did not know of any coup, but said fragmentary reports from Kabul indicated "some involvement of Soviet military personnel" in street fighting in the capital.

These officials, who declined to be identified, said they did not yet have "solid information" but Soviet military personnel were reported to be moving about the city.

The fighting was reported at Durulaman Palace and also near the radio station in Kabul.

Asked whether Russian troops were actually involved in the street fighting, one official said "They may be, yes, but our reports are so recent and so fragmentary."

Karmel served under the late President Nur Mohammed Taraki, who died after an upheaval in September that ousted him.

The Iranian news agency Pars said that Karmel announced in a broadcast monitored here that he had taken power.

In his message, Pars said, Karmel promised "democratic freedoms for all the masses, the release of all political prisoners, and the creation of jobs for the unemployed."

The agency did not elaborate and said it had no further information.

Taraki took over as president in April 1978, ousting the non-aligned regime of President Mohammad Daoud and turning the country toward the Soviet Union.

On Wednesday the U.S. State Department accused the Soviet Union of "blatant military interference" in Afghanistan. The State Department said a large scale Soviet airlift into Kabul was being carried out over the past two days.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said there were indications of an additional five divisions of Soviet troops in areas along the Afghan border.

Carter said it appeared the Soviets were "crossing a new threshold in the military deployments into Afghanistan."

He called on the international community to "condemn such blatant military interference into the internal affairs of an independent sovereign state."

Sources in Afghanistan said the Soviet reinforcements were to be part of the largest government offensive so far against the Moslem rebels. The report, received in New Delhi, quoted an Afghan military officer as saying the government planned an attack, possibly as early as this weekend, in the strategic province of Badakhshan in northeastern Afghanistan, overrun by the rebels two weeks ago.

The Soviet reinforcements airlifted into Afghanistan this week may take part in what could be the largest government offensive so far against anti-communist Moslem rebels, a report from Afghanistan said.

The report, received in New Delhi today from a source who has proved reliable in the past, quoted an Afghan military officer in Kabul, the capital, as saying the government planned an attack, possibly as early as this weekend, in the strategic province of Badakhshan in northeastern Afghanistan overrun by the rebels two weeks ago.

The source of the report, who declined to be identified, said the planned Badakhshan offensive would be mounted with 5,000 Afghan and 800 Soviet combat troops, backed by 300 Soviet-supplied tanks. His assessment could not be independently confirmed.

Air travellers arriving in New Delhi from Afghanistan on Wednesday said they saw hundreds of armed Russian soldiers arriving at the Kabul Airport. Afghan civilians, some weeping, watched from the terminal's observation deck as the Soviet Antonov transports landed, they said.

"It didn't seem as if they (the Soviets) were concerned about being secretive," said one passenger who, like others interviewed, asked that his name and nationality be withheld.

U.S. officials said Wednesday the Soviets may have doubled the number of Russian servicemen in Afghanistan to 10,000, in the Dec. 25-26 airlift. Both Moscow and Kabul say no new ground troops have been sent to join the estimated 1,500 Soviet military advisers already in Afghanistan.

In Washington, State Department officials said they regarded the massive Russian buildup as a move to keep important Soviet installations from falling into rebel hands. They said it was premature to speculate on whether the Soviet forces would become involved in direct combat.

The rebels, who have been fighting the government for 19-months, are believed to control about half the Afghan countryside by day, and more by night.

The Kabul military source said Afghan government troops were moved up to Takhar Province, southwest of Badakhshan, from three bases in the Kabul area in preparation for the forthcoming offensive.

Ace halts Suzanne's ads because of nude photos

CHICAGO (AP) — Ace Hardware Corp. plans to stop using Suzanne Somers in advertising because Playboy magazine is publishing 9-year-old photographs of the actress in the nude, the Chicago Tribune reported today.

Nude photographs of Miss Somers, who stars in the ABC television show "Three's Company," will appear in Playboy's February issue, the magazine has announced. Playboy says the photographs were taken in 1970 by a photographer who submitted them to determine her suitability as a Playmate.

In a letter to Ace dealers, the Tribune reported, Ace president Arthur H. Krausman said, "This article includes photos that could be potentially embarrassing" to Ace dealers and the company.

"We have therefore decided to cease using any advertising featuring Miss Somers and to review all our advertising options for 1980," the paper quoted Krausman as saying.

A spokesman for the suburban Oak Brook-based company, who was not identified, was quoted as saying the company would honor its contract with the actress. The Tribune said the contract expires in March 1981 and reportedly pays Miss Somers $700,000 to $750,000.

The paper also quoted the spokesman as saying Ace was pleased with the response to Miss Somers and that "it's possible we will use her in the future."

Chinese oil discoveries said to be in 'large quantities'

HONG KONG (AP) — Despite "interference and sabotage" by the Soviet Union and Vietnam, China has discovered gas and oil in "relatively large quantities" off Hainan Island in the South China Sea, according to a government radio broadcast made available today.

Industrial oil and gas "in relatively large quantities and of relatively good quality" have been found near the island of Hainan, the broadcast said.

The broadcast appeared to confirm reports published in October that the South China Sea Oil Prospecting Bureau had made a major strike in the area.

The exact site of the discovery was not given, nor was there any elaboration of the alleged "interference and sabotage."

For many years, China and other Southeast Asian nations have been feuding over territorial claims to offshore waters and their potential riches.

Consumer Price Index inflates inflation, say critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Price Index, the government's inflation measure that affects the wages and benefits of more than 90 million Americans and the spending of billions of federal dollars, is being criticized as exaggerating inflation.

Each month the Bureau of Labor Statistics compiles the index by surveying average changes in retail prices for a fixed list of goods and services, ranging from food, housing and energy to shoes, tobacco and vacations.

In November, the index was 227.5. That meant goods and services that sold for $100 in 1967 cost consumers $227.50 in November.

The CPI, the official measure of inflation since World War I, has become the government's most important statistic with its uses including:

- Calculation of cost-of-living raises for 9 million union members and setting of new pay rates for millions of non-union employees.
- Triggering cost-of-living increases for 34 million Social Security recipients and 3 million retired federal and military personnel.
- Adjustments to benefits for 16 million food stamp recipients and 28 million children and elderly people who receive meal subsidies.
- Increases in federal spending by an estimated $1 billion to $2 billion for each one-point rise in the index.

But critics are saying the index is overstating the real rise in Americans' cost of living by 1 percent to 2 percent this year because of the way house and mortgage interest costs are computed.

"We're talking about spending one to two billion dollars simply because of a faulty CPI," says Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., a leading critic of the index who held a congressional hearing on the issue.

But Janet Norwood, Bureau of Labor Statistics commissioner, challenged Simon's assumption that the CPI inflates inflation. "Some studies suggest the CPI may really be understating the rate of inflation in some cities," she said.

Gold price at $510 for first time in history

LONDON (AP) — Gold soared above $510 an ounce to new peaks in Europe today amid concern over a reported Soviet military buildup in Afghanistan, the continuing U.S. Embassy siege in Tehran, and higher oil prices.

The dollar was lower almost everywhere.

Gold was up as much as $36 from pre-holiday prices in Europe, following the metal's surge through the $500 barrier in New York on Wednesday.

In London, gold opened at a record $507.50, moved to an all-time high fixing of $508.75 and by noon was trading at $511. This compared to $485.50 at the close Monday.

Zurich, Europe's biggest bullion mart, also saw the price start at $507.50 and move to $511 by mid-day, up from $475 last Friday, the last trading session in the Swiss financial center before a long Christmas holiday.

In Paris, where prices are inflated by a four percent government tax, bullion hit a record $523.96 an ounce at the morning fixing.

As gold rose, the dollar declined in thin trading, with many businesses remaining shut or thinned down during Christmas week.

very rose to $510 an ounce on the Commodity Exchange Inc. before closing at $506.30.

The close was up $19.30 from Friday, the last trading day before the holiday break. At Republic National Bank of New York, gold closed at $502. On Monday, bullion dealers in New York sold gold for $486.

The price of gold is more than double its $226.375-a-troy-ounce close in London at the end of 1978, and nearly $400 above its $134.50 an ounce close at the end of 1976. The old record for gold was $496, set during the European trading day Dec. 20.

"Nobody wants to sell, and there's a general feeling gold's going higher," said one Commodity Exchange trader in New York.

Morning rates compared to previous trading sessions:

Frankfurt—1,727.0 West German marks, down from 1,736.0 On Dec. 21.

Zurich—1,590.5 Swiss francs, down from 1,609.5 On Dec. 21.

Paris—4,042.5 French francs, down from 4,045.0 On Wednesday.

Amsterdam—1,909.0 Dutch guilders, down from 1,921.5 On Dec. 21.

Milan—805.25 Italian lire, down from 807.75 On Dec. 24.

In London, it cost $2,213.3 to buy a British pound, compared to $2,201.50 on Dec. 24.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed marginally higher at 239.725 Yen, from 239.55 on Wednesday.

Gold had risen to $444 an ounce in early October, but then slid below $400. The metal began rising again in early November, after the seizure of American hostages at the U.S. embassy in Tehran.

With Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini saying the U.S.-Iran conflict could erupt into a "military war," the "Iran situation is continuing to push up the price," said one trader.

"Any time you get a comment in which somebody calls for military action, it's going to be tied to precious metals prices," said an analyst.

"We're looking for gold in the $600s by the end of January," said Vincent Tesse, a partner in the commodity house of James Sinclair & Co. The house last December predicted gold would be in the $460-$520 range by the end of 1979.

Charlie Jones announces as candidate for constable

Charlie Jones, a 22-year veteran in law enforcement, today announced his candidacy for election as constable of Midland County.

Jones, 57, a deputy constable, is seeking the post now held by Constable Jack Merritt, Merritt, 75, a veteran lawman, is not seeking re-election.

Jones has been a deputy constable under Merritt since October 1977.

"I believe in good law enforcement," Jones said today in announcing his candidacy, "and I want to run on my past record."

As constable, Jones primarily would be of service to Midland County's two justices of the peace, John Biggs and Bob Pine.

"We wait on the Justice Court," said Jones. "We can handle any kind of (civil or criminal) paper. Our badge is just as big as any of them" in law enforcement.

He entered law enforcement in 1957 as a patrolman for the city of Midland and held that job for 6 1/2 years before he joined the Midland County Sheriff's office. He served for 1 1/2 years under former Sheriff Ed "Big Ed" Darnell and was Darnell's chief misdemeanor deputy.

Jones will be running for election under the Democratic Party's banner. However, official filing for office with political party chairmen does not begin until Jan. 5. County party chairmen are Darrell Smith, Democratic Party, and Bill Shaner, Republican Party.

Through County Clerk Roselle Cherry, Jones has designed himself as his campaign treasurer.

Jones and his wife Delma are parents of a daughter, Vickie Burge.

The Joneses live just south of Midland.

"We wait on the Justice Court," said Jones. "We can handle any kind of (civil or criminal) paper. Our badge is just as big as any of them" in law enforcement.

He entered law enforcement in 1957 as a patrolman for the city of Midland and held that job for 6 1/2 years before he joined the Midland County Sheriff's office. He served for 1 1/2 years under former Sheriff Ed "Big Ed" Darnell and was Darnell's chief misdemeanor deputy.

Jones will be running for election under the Democratic Party's banner. However, official filing for office with political party chairmen does not begin until Jan. 5. County party chairmen are Darrell Smith, Democratic Party, and Bill Shaner, Republican Party.

Through County Clerk Roselle Cherry, Jones has designed himself as his campaign treasurer.

Jones and his wife Delma are parents of a daughter, Vickie Burge.

The Joneses live just south of Midland.

Charlie Jones, a 22-year veteran in law enforcement, today announced his candidacy for election as constable of Midland County.

Jones, 57, a deputy constable, is seeking the post now held by Constable Jack Merritt, Merritt, 75, a veteran lawman, is not seeking re-election.

Jones has been a deputy constable under Merritt since October 1977.

"I believe in good law enforcement," Jones said today in announcing his candidacy, "and I want to run on my past record."

As constable, Jones primarily would be of service to Midland County's two justices of the peace, John Biggs and Bob Pine.

"We wait on the Justice Court," said Jones. "We can handle any kind of (civil or criminal) paper. Our badge is just as big as any of them" in law enforcement.

Clouds, rain probability will remain in Friday forecast

Those cloudy skies that Midlanders awoke to this morning are expected to remain cloudy at least through Friday, according to the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

And the 40 percent rain probability that existed today will continue through tonight, the weatherman said.

Temperatures will be getting colder tonight, the weatherman predicted, with the low dropping into the lower 30s. Friday's high temperature should only reach the middle 40s.

Winds tonight should blow out of the northeast at 10-15 mph.

Wednesday's high temperature was a pleasant 68 degrees and this morning's low was 46 degrees.

Record high temperature for Wednesday's date is 77 degrees, set in 1955, and record low for today's date is 9 degrees, set in 1939.

A snowstorm in the Rocky Mountains rolled toward the Texas Panhandle today, threatening to whiten northwestern sections of the state by tonight.

A winter storm watch was in effect for the Panhandle.

Early morning clouds formed over North Texas in advance of the storm, and a weak cold front formed along a line between Texarkana to Del Rio. Skies remained clear in Southeast Texas.

A few pockets of fog settled in the Hill Country and along the upper Texas coast.

Wednesday temperatures ranged from the 30s and 40s northern sections to the 50s and 60s in the south. At 4 a.m. readings ranged from 33 in Amarillo to 67 in Brownsville.

Forecasters called for rain in Northwest Texas changing to snow in the Panhandle this afternoon and tonight, with heavy accumulations possible. Elsewhere, cooler temperatures and rain were expected as the storm pushes through the state.

Two business thefts probed

Police are investigating two thefts totaling $1,262 from Midland businesses.

T.J. Melton of T.J. Melton and Associates told police a transit used in surveying was last seen on a construction site on Holiday Hill Road.

According to Melton, he left about 11:15 a.m. Wednesday to get gas and when he returned at 11:30 a.m., the transit was missing.

Value of the equipment was estimated at $750, police said.

Later Wednesday evening, officers were called to Superior Supply Co., 2910 Garden City Highway.

The store manager told officers that pipe and valves worth $512 were missing from the yard.

Entry was apparently gained by prying off a door hinge, police said, and then climbing over a fence.

Cruise ship aground in Antarctic

The first U.S. Coast Guard aircraft to reach the 741-foot Lee Wang Zin shot this aerial photo of the Japanese ore carrier, which overturned Tuesday in heavy seas off the northern British Columbia coast. One body was recovered Wednesday, with additional rescue efforts planned to see if any of the crew members are alive inside the hull.

PUNTA ARENAS, Chile (AP) — The cruise ship Lindblad Explorer, aground in the Antarctic after transferring more than 100 passengers and crew to a Chilean icebreaker, restarted her engines but could not break free of a reef which punctured her outer hull, a Chilean naval spokesman said. The ship swung around on the rock and was able to drop both anchors, but she could not get free," a spokesman for Chile's Third Naval District said Wednesday in this port city on Chile's southern tip. "There was a high tide and 25 knot wind when the attempt was made," said the spokesman. The weather, frequently foul in the area, was considered good despite the wind. It is summer in the Antarctic and temperatures have reached 60 degrees in recent days. The 2,236-ton Explorer plowed into an uncharted reef Monday. There were no injuries among the crew, passengers or a movie crew returning from filming the final scenes of a science fiction thriller about a virus destroying the world. All passengers and some crewmen were transferred safely

Christmas Day to the Chilean icebreaker Piloto Pardo, which sailed for Punta Arenas on Wednesday night. The Chilean navy, which has continually revised its figures, said Wednesday that 80 passengers and 32 crewmen from the Explorer were aboard the Piloto Ardo, expected to arrive here Sunday if the weather holds. The spokesman said a skeleton crew of 11 men and 10 officers, including Capt. Eric Lars Granquist, remained aboard the 240-foot Swedish ship, owned by the Brostrom line. It was reported in Gerlache Straight off the coast of Graham Land, about 700 miles south of Punta Arenas. "The hull apparently was punctured in about eight places, mostly in the aft section," the spokesman said.

Divers search overturned ship's hull for survivors

By DOUG ESSER

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — Battling weather and time, U.S. and Canadian rescuers were dispatching divers today to determine whether any of the 30 Taiwanese crewmen aboard the ore freighter Lee Wang Zin are trapped inside the vessel floating upside down in the chilly Pacific. "If we find somebody alive, he's going to be very lucky," Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. Terry Bills said Wednesday night. "The Poseidon Adventure" made a good movie, but it's nothing realistic. The film showed a passenger liner that had turned over after being hit by a tidal wave. The body of one crew member was recovered Wednesday, but the others were missing as the Canadian tugboat Cindy Mozell kept watch over the vessel through the night. Two inflated life rafts from the vessel were spotted Wednesday by private helicopter pilots, but they reported seeing no bodies or signs of life aboard. A new storm moving into the area threatened to prevent a 25-member Navy diving team from probing the 741-foot freighter. The National Weather Service in Juneau issued gale warnings for 40-knot winds with 15-foot waves, rain and fog. A decompression chamber was dispatched Wednesday from San Francisco, and the recently overhauled 180-foot Coast Guard buoy tender Laurel was being prepared for use as a diving platform, said Petty Officer Phillip Franklin. He said the ship had drifted to the mouth of McLean Arm, a small inlet on Prince of Wales Island more than 25 miles from the point off the northern British Columbia coast where the vessel overturned Tuesday in a storm packing 90 mph winds. "The vessel overturned very quickly. There is a possibility of the crew being trapped on board," said Lt. Cmdr. Dick Pepper of the Canadian Coast Guard, which is working with U.S. Coast Guard rescue units. Bills, the operations officer for search and rescue, said the crew's survival chances in 40-degree water and air were "pretty poor," especially if the ship overturned suddenly. The body recovered with the aid of a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter was left aboard the tug and remained unidentified. The Canadian crew described the body as that of a man wearing light slacks, no shoes, a windbreaker and a life jacket.

Lions hear Hillin's plans for new car, new driver

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

For Midland racing enthusiast Bobby Hillin, 1978 was the "turning point" on the race track. His dreams didn't pan out that year. So, he scrapped his sleek but older race-car design and latched onto an aerodynamically-designed car with "inverted wings" and hired a proven driver — Al Unser — who can really "fly" at the wheel. "We had a car that should have been a mid-field racer (in 1978), but we screwed it up," Hillin candidly told the Downtown Midland Lions Club on Wednesday noon in the Midland Hilton. Similar to Laurence Peter's recommended antidote to the "Peter Principle," Hillin scrapped just about everything, fired his crew, hired a new one, borrowed Briton Frank Williams' engineering for a Formula 1 car and converted it to an Indy 500 racing machine. And with promises for winning the Indy trophy with a new design, Hillin was able to buy the services of Unser, a proven racer.

Bobby Hillin

Indy 500 in a Chaparral racer in 1978. "He (Unser) was looking for another ride" when he joined the Longhorn team, Hillin noted. Hillin said he and Hill are good friends and, at the same time, are "very competitive." Hillin said the engine for his new racer will be in the 620-to-750 horsepower range and the exact power will depend on allowable manifold pressure. Speed will exceed 200 mph. However, he noted that the Indy record average speed has been 160 to 161 mph due to slowdowns caused by curves and yellow flags. HILLIN SAID his car will be tested Feb. 18 and will be in its first race March 2 at Phoenix, Ariz. Hillin briefly commented on other aspects of his new racer: —Turbulence. Turbulence in the wake of his car should be no more than that of the more conventional designs. —Maneuverability. "It (inverted wing design) should do nothing but help it (the racer). ...It doesn't drift much. It's just like a dart." —Engine heat. "Cooling is the biggest problem." —Tires. Goodyear engineering has designed a tire more than able to withstand the increased "down pressure" and heat caused by the ground effects design. "We don't expect tires to be any problem." —Progress on building cars. "We're running late like racing teams generally do." —Expense of racing to win. "Speed costs money," allowed Hillin. And the cost is hinged to "How fast do you want to go?" —Racing in general. "It's a vicious circle to begin with." —Car systems and design. "We're trying to keep everything as simple as possible." —Road to an Indy 500 win: Hillin's Longhorn team has a "good car" and "a good driver. Al Unser is a very good package."

Ship must be repaired

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Temporary repairs must be made on the leaking hull of a Panamanian freighter before port authorities will permit the crippled vessel to enter the Houston Ship Channel, Coast Guard officials said. "The last thing anyone wants to happen is for a ship to sink in the Houston Ship Channel and block all the traffic," Ensign David Paxton, Coast Guard public affairs officer, said Wednesday. "The captain of port is requiring her to make temporary repairs prior to entry in the government port zone," said Paxton. He said the Eagles Cliff, owned by Cayman Shipping Corp., a British company, would have to go elsewhere if repairs were not made. The repairs would involve putting a soft patch over cracks in the ship, said Paxton. "The agents and the owner's representative are going to have a diver go out there and survey the damage," said Paxton. He said the owner's representative, Indian Towing Co. of New Orleans, would then decide what to do. The 268-foot freighter, which was leaking fuel, arrived Wednesday at Galveston with a crew of 14. The ship called for help Christmas morning after it took on a dangerous 20-degree list midway through a run from Mexico to Houston. Coast Guard officials Tuesday said the list was caused by water in the hull. But they were not sure if the water seeped in through a cracked hull or if water that had been taken on as ballast "shifted somehow."

The Coast Guard dropped five pumps to the stricken vessel and crewmen worked four to five hours to get the Eagles Cliff back to a 5-degree list. The cutter Point Monroe was dispatched to escort the freighter to safe anchorage in Galveston.

MMH adds radiant warmers in recovery

Three new radiant warmers will be added to the recovery rooms at Midland Memorial Hospital with the money donated by the Midland Memorial Foundation today, according to John J. Redfern, chairman of the board of governors of the foundation. Ten radiant warmers costing $2,500 each topped the equipment list drawn up by the hospital medical staff this month. The list is drawn up periodically so donations to the hospital can be used for items of top priority. The Midland Memorial Foundation owned Midland Memorial Hospital before formation of the Midland County Hospital District in 1978. The foundation now is a non-profit organization designed to raise money for the hospital, nurses education and other medically related projects. The foundation board of governors also formally elects members of the hospital's board of trustees, the group charged with the day-to-day running of the hospital. The board of governors also have committed themselves to raising the additional $1.4 million needed to equip the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center to be constructed next to Midland Memorial Hospital. Construction on that project is expected to begin the first week of January.

I have lost my birth certificate. How do I go about replacing it? — D.P.

ANSWER: The Census Bureau can help. The bureau has published a booklet describing the program, telling what information you can get and suggesting other sources for obtaining more details.

The booklet, "Age Search Information," can be purchased for $1.70 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20492.

Do you know what the population of Midland is this year? — D.T.

ANSWER: The Midland Chamber of Commerce is estimating the population this year at 80,000. Projection for 1985 puts the population up to 98,155.

According to a survey conducted by the Chamber of Commerce in December 1977, the population of Midland was 74,894.

I would like some information on the National Drug Abuse Foundation. — C.B.

ANSWER: Write to the foundation at 6500 Randall Place, Falls Church, Va., 22044.

Information can be obtained on commonly abused drugs, recommended resources and reading, plus practical ideas on coping with abuse.

I recently became a widow. I wonder if there is someone I can contact on steps I should take on legal matters, paying bills, etc.? — Mrs. F.B.

ANSWER: One suggestion is that you write to the Life Insurance Marketing and Research Association, Inc., 170 Sigourney St., Hartford, Conn., 06105.

The association can furnish you with a booklet entitled, "What Does She Do Now?"

Copies of this booklet also are available from most insurance agents and companies.

Do you have an address for the National Archives and Records Service? — S.D.

ANSWER: It's National Archives and Records Service, Washington, D.C., 20408.

By the way, you can obtain a free catalogue, "Documents from America's Past."

Restoration campaign under way at Yalta site

By NIKKI FINKE

YALTA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Thirty-five years after the Yalta Conference, the Russians are still trying to get it all together.

A full-scale effort is now under way to restore Livadia Palace, where Josef Stalin, Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt gathered for one of the most important meetings of this century.

Now, however, the palace is almost empty.

Only one of its 60 rooms even remotely resembles the way it looked when the Big Three leaders met here Feb. 4-11, 1945, three months before the Third Reich's surrender, to divide up postwar Europe and plan the occupation of Germany.

A solid-looking round table and armchairs sit in the palace dining room, once used by Czar Nicholas II and later by Soviet lung patients. Could it be the conference table of the Allies?

"No," a guide said sadly. "But it looks just like it."

To make matters worse, Soviet archivists are just finding out that certain facts they collected on the meeting are wrong.

For example, officials long thought that a walnut-paneled room just off the main hallway was Roosevelt's bedroom during the talks. Historians now know it was really his reception room.

And for years, the Russians thought that a young man seated near Churchill in the official painting of the conference delegations was Sir Alan Brook, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Actually, it is only an interpreter. Alexander I. Volkov, deputy director of the Livadia museum, said in an interview he was obtaining more information about the Yalta Conference almost daily, and tracking down the whereabouts of the Victorian furniture used for the week-long talks.

When the Soviet Crimea was occupied by Nazi forces, the Germans used Livadia Palace as their command post. Shortly before the Crimea was liberated on April 16, 1944, the Germans looted the palace, carting off everything from tables to doorknobs to plumbing pipes.

The Russians hastily refurbished the palace before the Yalta conference was convened. Stalin ordered furniture loaded onto trains and, immediately after the talks, ordered it sent back to Moscow.

No wonder, then, that the palace is still stripped bare.

Relatively young for a museum, Livadia Palace was opened to the public in 1974, to coincide with U.S. President Richard M. Nixon's visit to Yalta with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Soviet officials said they were disappointed that Nixon had declined their offer to tour the Yalta Conference site.

Once the summer watering place for 224 wealthy Russian landowners or aristocrats, Yalta is now a bustling city of 150,000 which attracts 2 million tourists a year to its health resorts.

Named for the Greek word meaning meadow, Livadia Palace was built as a summer home for Czar Nicholas II in 1910-1911.

Saccharin case still confusing

Dear Dr. Solomon: If the government set out deliberately to confuse the public about the use of saccharin, it could not have done a better job. Since I do not have access to hourly news bulletins, will you please tell me the latest score in the saccharin game? — Jerry

Dear Jerry: Your confusion is shared by many people. I will keep my saccharin comments short and sweet.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) reports that saccharin will continue to be available in soft drinks and other diet foods, as well as for use at the table. If the FDA eventually proceeds to restrict the use of saccharin by banning it from diet sodas and foods, it would take more than a year for the necessary action to be completed. The FDA has been consistent in its position that use of the sweetener in diet foods should not be permitted, but that it should be available for use at the table for people who are medically dependent on it.

Dr. Donald Kennedy, the former FDA commissioner, had warned that scientific evidence indicated that saccharin is an animal carcinogen, and very likely to cause bladder cancer in men. The fact that it is a carcinogen has been confirmed by both the National Academy of Sciences, which expressed particular concern about its widespread use by children and women of child-bearing age, and by the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is it the man or woman who is usually responsible when a couple is unable to have children? — Mr. and Mrs. G.H.S.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. S.: Either the man or woman — or both — may be the cause of inability to conceive a child. The problem is attributed to the woman about 50 percent of the time, to the man about 30 percent and to factors involving both of them about 20 percent of the time.

No organic cause for infertility is found in from 10 to 20 percent of patients who seek help. Dr. Miriam Mazor, a psychiatrist with the Beth Israel Hospital in Boston, refers to this condition as "unexplained infertility," noting that it is an honest admission of limitations in present diagnostic techniques.

Since problems surrounding a woman's inability to conceive may rest with either the man or woman or both, both partners should seek help together.

Dear Dr. Solomon: How much of the human body consists of water? — Mr. J.M.

Dear Mr. M.: Sixty percent of the weight of our bodies is attributed to water, as is 90 percent of blood plasma. Water is the medium in which all chemical reactions in the body take place. It also carries the vital salts and proteins essential to good nutrition.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Nepal to permit climbing in winter

BY BINAYA GURUACHARYA

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — As if climbing Himalayan peaks isn't tough enough in itself, Nepal has decided to permit foreign alpinists to do it for the first time in the extreme cold of winter.

Most of the 77 peaks where assaults are permitted have long been scaled through various routes during the regular spring and autumn seasons.

N.M. Pradhan, a Nepal Mountaineering Association official, said winter climbing will increase the challenges and also provide added income to the sturdy Sherpa guides who face unemployment in winter.

The first attempt to reach the summit of Mt. Everest in winter was expected to be made this winter by a 23-member Polish expedition, led by Andrzej Zawada, the country's top climber. It was scheduled to arrive in Nepal this month.

"Obviously the difficulties presented in winter are going to be greater than at other times of the year," said Al Read, a native of Denver, Colo., who runs a Katmandu-based mountain travel service.

But winter climbing, Read added, "allows mountaineers to be further challenged by the Himalayas."

Recently improved equipment now permits expeditions in weather as cold as 50 degrees below zero, he said. And in some ways, assaults may even be safer then.

The danger of avalanches is somewhat less in winter, maintained Mike Cheney, 51, a Briton who is also in the climbing business in Nepal. "We often get fine, sunny weather in the mountains with low temperatures. That would make good winter climbing since the ice and snow will be well frozen."

Eight of the world's 14 tallest peaks are in Nepal, many found along the kingdom's border with Tibet, now part of China. This past autumn, a total of 28 teams from North America, Europe and Japan made assaults — about 10 of them successfully.

The Ministry of Tourism charges each group $860 to $1,400 — the highest amount for attempting to reach the summit of Mt. Everest, the world's tallest peak anywhere.

Each expedition hires 3 to 25 Sherpa guides who receive about $3 a day in addition to an insurance policy, food and climbing gear. The equipment is often the biggest incentive because returning guides often rent it out to vacationing trekkers.

Mountaineering has provided an important source of income to the Sherpas, natives of the Solu-Khumbu region of eastern Nepal, who lost jobs as porters along trade routes to Tibet after the Chinese closed the border in 1959.

Pigeon flocks present real problem for Tokyo

By KAY TATEISHI

TOKYO (AP) — Many people come to Tokyo's Asakusa Sensoji Temple to offer prayers to Kannon, the goddess of mercy, to protect them from untoward mishaps.

But with an estimated 5,000 pigeons making their abodes in the eaves and rafters of the ornate old building, mishaps are common. Even encouraged, some say, by the many children who bring crackers and roasted beans to feed the friendly, fluttering birds.

The popularity of the pigeons, plus the fact that under Japanese law they are a protected species, poses a dilemma for the government, which would like to reduce their numbers before the treasured landmarks of old Japan are buried in bird droppings.

Sensoji is a special case because it has been a sanctuary for the doves for half a century, ever since a noted songwriter, Rentaro Taki, composed a song to the birds that became a national favorite. He was honored with a memorial monument on the temple grounds.

Every year, officials say, workmen scrape and haul about three tons of pigeon refuse from the Sensoji Temple. In all, the temples and shrines of Tokyo, Kyoto and other cities collect some 50 to 60 tons a year.

Special screens have had to be erected around prized sections of buildings, statues and other outdoor works of art. And recently, housewives in some danchi, or housing complexes, have put up large nets to protect their drying laundry from the feathered bombers.

Yoshimaro Yamashina, director of the Yamashina Bird Institute, attributes the pigeon population increase to several factors — one being the country's growing affluence, which means more leftover food for the birds.

Service Strike

When the service staff at the governor's mansion goes on strike, Benson (Robert Guillaume, right) presses Katie (Missy Gold) into service to do the household chores and then concentrates his efforts on preparing a dinner for state legislators that they will never forget in "One Strike and You're Out," on ABC's comedy series. Benson, airing Thursday, Dec. 27.

"Benson" is a spin-off of ABC's highly acclaimed series, "Soap." Again playing an independent-minded butler, Benson has furthered his household duties and often finds himself organizing the governor's household.

Massachusetts cable TV companies soon may be allowed to set own fees

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts' cable television commissioner may allow the industry to set its own fees in Massachusetts.

Cable Commissioner Jeffrey Forbes has asked industry officials, consumer groups, and federal agencies for their opinions on whether to reduce the state's fee setting power. He says communities could then use price as a factor in deciding which of the nearly two dozen cable companies competing for local franchises win local rights.

The move comes only a month after Forbes, 37, was named the state's first full-time cable commissioner. He had been executive director of the Cable Television Commission since its inception in 1972 but that seven-member agency that was abolished under later legislation.

Forbes said that by February he'll hold hearings that could lead to a reduction in his office's fee-setting powers. "We'll take a look at the data they return to us and we should be able to frame more specific regulations," he said.

In Massachusetts, 81 of the state's 351 cities and towns have cable services — developed initially to improve reception. Eighty-nine other cities and towns are in the process of granting cable franchises.

Forbes says California has no price regulations when less than 70 percent of a community uses cable. But if more than 70 percent are subscribers, the fee is set by the state — because the state considers the local cable company has a monopoly in entertainment services.

Carter appoints Lubbers NLRB's general counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, using his constitutional powers to bypass Senate confirmation, is temporarily appointing his disputed choice for general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, administration sources said today.

The sources said Carter planned to announce today his "recess appointment" of William A. Lubbers, whose confirmation was blocked by Republican opponents on the last day of the Senate's 1979 session.

Under the Constitution, Carter can bypass Senate confirmation of his nominations and make temporary appointments during a recess of the Senate, which began a month-long vacation last week.

Under the "recess appointment," Lubbers, whose nomination has been opposed by business groups, would serve in the $52,750-a-year post until the end of 1980 unless the Senate rejected his nomination before then.

Senate sources said it is uncertain whether the chamber would confirm Lubbers, 55, to a full four-year term when the second session of the 96th Congress begins in January.

Sources, who declined to be identified, said Carter signed the appointment several days ago, but withheld announcement until today. The NLRB's general counsel acts much like a prosecutor who decides which complaints of federal labor law violations should be pursued by the labor board and which should be dropped. A complaint by a union, employer or employee cannot receive a hearing without the general counsel's approval.

Lubbers' nomination on Nov. 28 was opposed by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers and other business groups, who contended he is too pro-labor for the neutral post. The opponents charged that Lubbers, a Democrat, has been tied closely to the pro-labor decisions of the five-member NLRB's chairman, John Fanning.

Lubbers, a long-time aide to Fanning, has been with the NLRB for 27 years, currently serving as its executive secretary. His nomination has won strong support from organized labor and Labor Secretary Ray Marshall.

Lubbers succeeds John S. Irving a Republican appointee, who resigned as general counsel in October. Norton C. Comes has been serving as acting general counsel in the interim.

Record 713 die on roads

By The Associated Press Heavy rains, snow and fog across the country contributed heavily to a record 713 traffic deaths reported during the four-day Christmas weekend, the National Safety Council says.

The previous record for a four-day Christmas holiday was 706 deaths in 1956. The record for any Christmas holiday is 720, set during the three-day weekend of 1965.

"The heavy rains, the ice, the fog that prevailed had an adverse effect on the count," Barbara Carraro, the council's supervisor of motor vehicle statistics, said Wednesday. "There are no indications that travel was any greater than we had anticipated. Unfortunately, we'll never find out just how many miles were traveled" during the period.

An early unofficial tally of holiday deaths by The Associated Press indicated the toll would fall short of a record. But the AP's complete unofficial count brought the figure above the 1956 toll.

Before this year's Christmas holiday period, the council had estimated 450 to 550 persons might be killed on streets and highways between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday.

Council statisticians say that during a non-holiday, four-day period at this time of year, 510 traffic deaths could be expected.

During the three-day Christmas weekend last year, 454 traffic deaths were counted.

California, Texas rank first, second in traffic deaths

By The Associated Press

Texas ranked second in the nation for traffic fatalities over Christmas, but ended the 102-hour period with fewer deaths than predicted.

The state was surpassed only by California, which had 71 deaths, many the result of a winter storm that lashed the Pacific Northwest over the holiday.

The Texas Department of Public Safety had predicted 67 fatalities, but said 51 persons died on state roads from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Tuesday. Two fatalities not on the DPS list also were reported, bringing the total to 53.

The New Year's count also begins at 6 p.m. Friday, and ends at midnight Tuesday. The DPS has projected that 56 persons will die on Texas roads during that period.

Fifteen of the 53 fatalities — almost 30 percent — were pedestrians hit by vehicles. Six of the 15 were children.

Nine persons died on Christmas: A car driven by Linda D. Smith, 22, of Ector, ran off Texas Highway 78 just north of Bonham.

Isabel Guel, 20, of Manvel, was killed in an auto-train accident just west of Manvel in Southeast Texas.

James Derry, 29, of Luling, died when his car rolled over just east of Harwood on U.S. Highway 90.

Norman Fulkes, 37, town unknown, was killed in Waco when his motorcycle collided with a car.

Robert Anthony Hext, 20, died when his car ran off the road in his home town of Fredricksburg.

Adice Izard Hegar, 60, town unknown, was killed in a Harris County car-truck accident.

Shelby County medical examiner confirms Presley death certificate

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Shelby County medical examiner says the death certificate he signed for Elvis Presley listed essentially the same cause of death as one signed by the singer's own physician.

Two reporters for the ABC News "20-20" program said Wednesday that two death certificates were prepared for Presley, each listing separate causes of death. According to the reporters, Dr. Jerry Francisco, the medical examiner, intercepted the certificate prepared by Presley's physician, Dr. George Nichopoulos, and replaced it with his own.

The existence of the Nichopoulos death certificate was scheduled to be included in an updated report on Presley's death on tonight's segment of "20-20."

Francisco said Wednesday that the death certificate signed by Nichopoulos "wasn't the same wording but it was essentially the same" as the one he signed. The certificate signed by Nichopoulos made no mention of drugs, the medical examiner said.

Francisco also said there was nothing unusual in his voiding the Nichopoulos death certificate and replacing it with his own.

"It happens with some regularity that a personal physician or attending physician might sign a death certificate, but if the death is accepted as a medical examiner's case, the medical examiner signs it," Francisco said.

"It was a medical examiner's case from the beginning, but the autopsy was not performed under the medical examiner's law," said Francisco, who has refused to release the autopsy report.

Presley was found unconscious on a bathroom floor at his Graceland mansion on Aug. 16, 1977. He was dead on arrival at Baptist Hospital, and an autopsy was performed.

Reporters James Cole and Charles Thompson III filed suit in August to force Francisco to release the autopsy report. The newsmen helped compile information for an earlier "20-20" segment that concluded Presley's death was drug-related.

Dallas police step up efforts to clear highways of drunks

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas police, staggered by a record 203 city traffic deaths this year, have stepped up efforts to keep drunks off the highways in hopes of preventing the toll from soaring even higher during the holiday season.

Police patrols, with the help of a $336,000 state and federal grant, have been increased in Dallas entertainment areas to stop the drunken drivers before they reach the freeways.

"Statistics show that 31 percent of the deaths involved drivers who had been drinking. That's 10 percent increase over the figures last year," John Pickett, the city's traffic safety coordinator, said Wednesday.

But Pickett said he is at a loss to explain why drivers kill each other in record numbers despite major programs implemented by the police that are designed to crack down on speeding and drunken drivers.

"Last year, there were 9,267 arrest for driving while intoxicated," said Pickett. "We've already made 9,578 DWI arrests in 1979."

The Dallas traffic death toll already is eight above the previous high of 195 set in 1978. And Pickett said if motorists continue to die at the present rate the final total will be 211.

"The police only catch one out of every 2,000 drunken drivers," said Pickett.

College heads

'pro' deaf school

BIG SPRING — Big Spring and Howard College officials will argue their "pro side" for putting in a college-affiliated School for the Deaf at Big Spring Air Industrial Park on Jan. 9 when they meet with the opposition, represented by Bill Howard of the Federal Aviation Administration, here in city offices.

Howard, chief of FFA's Airport District Office in Albuquerque, N.M., has objected to the city's turning over any airport facilities to the college because the school would not generate revenue to support the air operations here.

The FFA contends that the federal government, via the General Services Administration, turned the former Webb Air Force Base property over to the city on the condition that the property would produce revenue to support the airport.

Big Spring City Manager Don Davis said merits of the school and how it would economically aid both the city and airport will be discussed in the meeting with Howard.

Webb AFB, which was oriented to training jet pilots, was shut down late in 1977 in an economy move by the Pentagon.

Archaeologists find remains of 1622 Indian massacre near Jamestown

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Archaeologists say they accidentally unearthed remains of a Indian massacre and other artifacts that could be among the most significant finds of American Colonial history.

Remains of the massacre in which 58 settlers were believed killed in 1622 were found just 10 miles east of Jamestown, established by Capt. John Smith 15 years earlier.

"Nobody has ever found anything of the original settlement of Jamestown," says Ivor Noel Hume, who headed the dig. "So what we have found here by default substitutes for Jamestown. Nobody before has been able to find artifacts as early."

Archaeological investigations in the area were completed Friday after nearly four years of work. By last May, Hume was calling the dig the most significant discovery of its kind in British America.

It was pure accident that Wolstenholme Towne, the oldest British settlement unearthed in North America, was found on Carter's Grove, an 18th-century plantation owned by the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

When Noel Hume was commissioned by the foundation four years ago, he was charged with looking for remains of 18th-century life at Carter's Grove. Instead, the British-born archaeologist found evidence of life a hundred years older than the plantation.

"We had stumbled on one of the most dramatic incidents in American Colonial history," he says.

Noel Hume and his associates finished work on Wolstenholme last week, but they still have three other 17th-century sites to explore.

Noel Hume says 220 colonists arrived in April 1619 at Martin's Hundred near here. There were a few wealthy people supported by many indentured servants. Most were killed in Indian attacks or by disease; a relative few lived the seven years it took to earn their freedom.

Noel Hume says relations with the Indians, federated under Chief Powhatan, at first were amicable. But the Indians resented the growing European presence and coordinated an attack along the entire peninsula the morning of March 22, 1622.

They believe that 58 settlers were killed on what the Virginia Company Records call that "fatal Friday morning." Another 82 survived.

The diggers unearthed a body they believe belongs to Richard Kean, a tall muscular lieutenant. His mouth was agape, his skull had been cleaved with a heavy object and the scalp was apparently ripped off.

Forty-seven graves of apparent victims of bubonic plague, called "The Contagion" by the settlers, also have been discovered and a number of other items have been found.

"The place is bursting with artifacts, at least 50 major items, potsherds, clay tobacco pipes and good armor, including the first complete closed-face helmet in the New World," says Noel Hume.

"We have found pots the colonists used to smolder herbs in the rooms of the sick."

Catch up with solar time; Set your watch back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Bureau of Standards says there will be a "leap second" on New Year's Eve, making 1979 one second longer.

The extra tick of the clock will occur for the eighth consecutive year, the bureau says.

According to the bureau, leap seconds are required "whenever solar time begins to diverge significantly from the standard atomic clocks of the world's timekeeping laboratories."

The purpose is to ensure that official timekeepers are never more than nine-tenths of a second different from solar time.

The leap second will begin at 23:59:60 Universal Coordinated Time, which is equivalent to 6 p.m. Midland time.

Scramble on as New Hampshire deadline looms

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — At 5 o'clock today, the door of the Secretary of State's office closes and with it ends the chance to run in New Hampshire's primary for president of the United States.

One man, illustrative of the last-minute hustle for signatures required to get on the ballot, extolled Mississippi Gov. Cliff Finch's merits at a Concord shopping center on Wednesday.

"I wouldn't know the guy if he walked up to me," he said. "Finch will give us a $100 bonus if we get enough names." The man declined to give his name until he got his money.

Finch, who only-announced on Monday that he was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, hired people to collect the 1,000 valid signatures necessary to get on the ballot. He reportedly was paying the collectors $50 a day.

Others who waited until the last day were Sens. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Howard Baker, R-Tenn. Both were expected to file before the 5 p.m. deadline. Former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen dropped out.

Dole, who was one of the first candidates to start his New Hampshire campaign, was also paying for "volunteers" hired from a Manchester employment agency.

"We hired the people because we needed the signatures. It's one of those embarrassing things that sometimes happen," said Carroll Jones, who heads Dole's state campaign.

A spokesman in Baker's Washington campaign office said the Senate Minority Leader was to file when he was in the state last week "but something happened."

According to interviews with people on Baker's staff that "something" was "the realization at the last minute that we didn't have enough signatures."

Yasser Arafat says Libya bought Billy Carter

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat says Billy Carter, brother of the U.S. president, has been bought by Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy, Beirut newspapers reported today.

Arafat fired the latest salvo in the PLO's three-week-old war of words with Khadafy's radical regime in a Wednesday night opening a nursery set up by the Palestinian Red Crescent, the PLO's equivalent of the Red Cross. Excerpts from the speech were reported today in the Beirut press.

Without mentioning Khadafy by name, Arafat was quoted as describing the Libyan leader as a political midget who "may be able to buy beer merchants or Billy Carter."

"But midgets would never be able to buy a single fighter from the Palestinian revolution," Arafat was quoted as saying.

The PLO chief did not speak from a prepared text, and observers said they thought his jab at Billy Carter was a spur-of-the-moment attempt to attack Khadafy, with no deliberate intention to pick a verbal fight with the brother of America's chief executive.

The PLO was delighted when Billy Carter visited Libya earlier this year and made sharp pro-Arab statements that provoked angry retorts from America's Jewish community and from Israel.

Arafat's latest attack on Khadafy came as a five-man delegation from the PLO's radical wing met with Libyan leaders in Tripoli in an effort to patch up relations between Libya and the PLO, the umbrella group of all major Palestinian guerrilla organizations.

Several of the radical groups within the PLO receive money from oil-rich Libya and have been embarrassed by Khadafy's fight with the PLO leadership.

Arafat, regarded as a moderate in the PLO power structure, has condemned what he claims are Libyan efforts to replace the PLO leadership with Libyan-style "popular committees," drawn from among the 40,000 Palestinians living in Libya. Two weeks ago, Khadafy deported the PLO representative in Tripoli.

Cincinnati coliseum plans first concert since tragedy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two ordinances designed to ensure crowd safety at large gatherings in Cincinnati were up before City Council today, with easy approval expected by Mayor J. Kenneth Blackwell.

Council's law and public safety committee on Wednesday approved two draft ordinances, inspired by the deaths of 11 persons at a Dec. 3 rock group The Who.

The first ordinance would require reserved seat tickets and ban general admission, or "festival seating," except for religious gatherings, school athletic events and other events which receive specific permission from Safety Director Richard Castellini.

The second ordinance would give city police direct authority over all crowds, including those on private property.

Police complained after the Dec. 3 tragedy that they did not have authority to act sooner when a crowd of about 9,000 people surged to enter the coliseum for the concert by The Who.

Concerned goers, in hearings before a special task force investigating committee, contended that the crush resulted because coliseum management opened only two or three doors, and that those were opened later than advertised.

Vice Mayor David Mann prepared 43 questions to be answered by coliseum management and the promoter, Electric Factory Concerts Inc. of Philadelphia, in the investigation of the Dec. 3 incident.

Thomas M. Gould, lawyer for the promoter, wrote a letter to Blackwell accusing the city of moving too slowly in developing crowd safety measures.

Gould said the rock group ZZ Top would play the coliseum Jan. 25, in the first such event since the Dec. 3 concert, and said ticket sales would suffer unless the city acts faster.

Blackwell said he will arrange a meeting with city and coliseum officials and the promoters for early January. But he said he wants the coliseum to be required to open a minimum of 24 doors and open them more than an hour before concerts begin.

"Hopefully, they (promoters and coliseum officials) will be as consistent in their willingness to cooperate when they get our list of questions, because the answers to these questions will go a long way toward helping the public understand what took place on Dec. 3 and it will enhance the effectiveness of our task force," Blackwell said.

Eleven residents of the State School at Abilene spent Christmas holidays at home, thanks to the Midland Association for Retarded Citizens.

MARC sponsored a chartered bus which picked up the Abilene residents at the school for the trip home. They will be returned to the school Saturday.

Accompanying the Christmas bus travelers were members of the MARC Sitter-Companion program, including Mrs. B.J. Russell, Mrs. Muriel Nelson, Mrs. Ann Wells, Ms. Paula Kline, Margie Parades and Danny Richter.

Mrs. Christine Greene, a registered nurse, and Ms. Jody Gressett, both MARC volunteers, and Bobbie Martin, Sitter-Companion program director, also made the trip.

The sitter-companions toured the Abilene State School as a part of the training each must complete before being assigned to provide care for the retarded and other developmentally disabled persons during the absence of parents or guardians.

The service makes it possible for parents and guardians to attend to business, or to enjoy a much-needed evening or weekend away from home, secure in the knowledge their disabled child is well cared for while they are away.

The Sitter-Companion Service is available in only two other Texas communities. For more information, please call the MARC office at 682-9771 or stop by at 2701 N. A St. and visit with Bobbie Martin...

GLENVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — With a flick of a knife, Dick Schnacke can turn a bit of wood, some thread and a pin or two into a toy that will soar through the air and leave a smile on a child's face.

For almost 20 years, Schnacke has been searching for and reproducing the toys of America's past, simple yet ingenious creations summoned out of the odds and ends of life on a farm or in a small town.

His toys — corn-cob dolls and animals, flutes and whistles, wooden animals, and contraptions that send marbles whirling around and around — have become the delight of countless children.

In a soft, lilting voice, Schnacke recalled his early childhood in Kansas and the toys he and other children fashioned from bits of wood and scraps of cloth, often following patterns and designs brought to America by the first settlers and handed down through generations.

Those early playthings were put aside as Schnacke turned his curiosity and inventiveness to other things and became, in time, an engineer. But the memories of working with his hands never left and Schnacke says he threw everything over in the early '60s to become an artist.

"It was kind of a dream that maybe I could be an artist," he says. "My paintings got good reviews and there were several shows, but they just never sold."

One day at a West Virginia art fair, as people paused only for brief looks at his paintings, Schnacke walked off to the surrounding woods and began to make dolls, spinning tops and other toys from twigs and pebbles.

On impulse, he put some of the toys in his booth and suddenly the idle passersby were replaced by interested groups who eagerly played with the toys and paid to take them home.

Fascinated by the toys and delighted with the response, Schnacke began to delve into the art of toymaking and found himself working to preserve a vein of American life that had almost disappeared.

"In earlier days, living was not so complicated, but it was harder. There was little money available, and certainly not much of it could be spent on toys," he explains. "But the demand for toys existed, so the children and their parents used the only means available — they made their own."

As the demand for his toys grew, Schnacke looked for others with the skill and patience to help him make the toys their grandparents once played with on the poor, rocky farms of Appalachia.

Schnacke says he insisted from the very first that the toys be authentic in every detail. Before a toy is produced he will spend weeks or months making sure it's an original folk toy passed down over generations.

"My best sources are old people who remember how these things were handed down," he says. "I also haunt museums. When I see a sign to toy collections, I'm off."

In constructing the toys, only the original methods and materials are used. "If the original had a sassafras handle, then that's what we use. We don't use commercial lumber, only native seasoned hardwood," he says.

Schnacke's insistence on authenticity leads to many a headache for the toymaker and his helpers. A century ago, a band from a keg of nails served as a child's hoop, but today nails come in boxes; cotton spools, from which a doll or a doll's furniture can be made, are no longer as common as they were; and Schnacke finds himself scouring the countryside for a hundred different oddments to help keep his workers busy.

In countless different ways the toys mirror the fabric of the past, each one offering a glimpse into the lives of forgotten generations.

"Early people had a sense of humor and I think you can see that in these toys," Schnacke says, smiling, as a wooden doll dances in front of him and a wooden top whirled its way around the carved animals of a Noah's Ark.

Schnacke says his toys have been displayed at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, and he has written books on American folk toys.

MATTHEWS-HOWARD

Susan Matthews

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Matthews, 1204 Lawson St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Matthews of Houston, to Donald William Howard of Midland. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Howard of Houston.

The couple plans to exchange spring wedding vows.

Miss Matthews attended The University of Texas at Austin. She is employed by Vinson and Elkins, a Houston law firm.

Howard, an independent landman, also attended UT-Austin.

Married, but they live apart

DETROIT (AP) — After 57 years of marriage, Imogene and Aubrey Cash are separated. The didn't want it that way, they just cannot find space in the same nursing home.

Aubrey Cash lives at St. Joseph Nursing home in Hamtramck. His wife, Imogene, lives at Wil-Mar Convalescent Center in Utica.

The 77-year-olds seldom get to visit each other. Sunday was their first visit since August.

"They went off together to a room. Mother sat in dad's lap, and they were just hugging and talking," said their daughter, Dee McKittrick.

"We're trying to get them together in the same home somewhere," she said. "But when you're dealing with old folks homes, you learn to hurry up and wait."

The Cashes had lived in Detroit since 1928, after moving from their native Mayfield, Ky. In recent years, they had lived in Kentucky again, after buying a small farm there.

When their health deteriorated, their son, Gerald, and Mrs. McKittrick helped the couple return to Detroit so they could be close to their family. That, their daughter said, is when the trouble with living quarters began.

At Wil-Mar, where Mrs. Cash is living, Mr. Cash is at the top of the waiting list for the first available ground floor bed for a male patient, a nursing home spokesman said Sunday.

No one knows when that bed will become available, he added.

Now, the family must wait — and waiting bothers Mrs. McKittrick.

"My dad's health is so bad, I don't know if he can last that long," she said.

Poetry aids mentally ill

CROWNSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Reading and discussing poetry helps mentally ill patients "assert themselves and say what they feel," a poetry therapist at a local state hospital says.

Eloise Richardson, the Crownsville State Hospital's librarian and poetry therapist, has been recognized and acclaimed nationally for pioneering the only rehabilitative poetry therapy program in Maryland.

Mrs. Richardson, who established the patients' library at Crownsville 17 years ago, began working with poetry therapy nine years ago.

"The program is successful because poetry is very powerful," Mrs. Richardson said. "It says things like no other kind of writing because it's written by people who are writing their feelings."

"It comes from their emotions, and therefore has a tendency to reach out to other people," she added.

The therapist says persons who enter mental hospitals "are sort of thrown aside by our society."

"They are mentally ill, and many so-called normal people regard them as worthless. Poetry therapy brings about communication. Once they can communicate, they can help them."

Ice prevents hair loss in patients

BOSTON (AP) — Wearing a turban-like ice pack on the top of the head will prevent hair loss in cancer patients who receive chemotherapy, researchers have found.

Temporary baldness is a common side effect of cancer drugs, but doctors say it is so disturbing to some patients that they occasionally refuse treatment.

So far, the Arizona research team has successfully tested the ice packs on people who are taking the kind of cancer medicine that most often causes baldness. They say they think it also will stop hair loss resulting from some other common forms of chemotherapy.

They made ice packs out of plastic bags and strapped them onto the patients' heads with turbans fashioned from Ace bandages. To keep the patients' ears from getting chilly, they made earmuffs from heels of disposable slippers.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, December 28, 1979.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: You should get golden opportunity to increase assets, build up savings. Be careful not to go beyond limitations of business budget. Credit will be tight and your success will be a direct result of your ability to operate effectively without overspending. Love and marriage are enhanced by your positive attitude.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Devote full effort to business, employment affairs. Postpone making major financial moves. Pay particular attention to figures, details. You will be happier if you work independently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take care of routine before starting new projects. Listen carefully if dealing with someone who speaks a foreign language. Use interpreter to clarify important questions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Let others reveal true feelings before speaking up. Body language can be more enlightening than flattery through spoken word. Make effort to finish off old business.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Show creativity if seeking support of influential people. Partner is apt to turn a deaf ear if you suggest change in business procedures. Timing is essential to successful business negotiations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Progress at work should move ahead by leaps, bounds. Team work is necessary to insure increased profits. Be impartial in your observations of others. Seek family's help to gain relief from current pressures.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Work independently to speed progress. Influential people will be willing to listen to new ideas. Make certain you are well prepared before making your presentation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be sensitive and loving to mate and home life will run smoothly. Keep all discussions on an upbeat note and leave talk of finances till a more appropriate time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Seek favors from prominent individuals now. Good time to use creative or artistic talents. Be firm, but fair, with children who need more direction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take care of routine duties early in day. Mail, telephone calls will bring new

Women star in parade

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The world-famous Mummers Parade may never be the same, say Mummers.

This New Year's Day, the formerly male-dominated parade will feature a 30-woman brigade called "The Liberty Angels," who will strut the three miles up Broad Street in black leotards, white satin blouses and top hats.

Females have marched officially with the Mummers since 1975 when rules were amended to identify participants as "persons of good moral character." Even so, few women marched, and only as string band musicians. Never as a complete unit, and never in the fancy or comic divisions.

"There's nothing we can do but put up with it, even if we don't like it," said Fred Calandra, president of the Mummers Association, which claims the 80th annual, 12-hour parade will be the biggest (23,000 marchers), the richest ($300,000 in prizes), and the fanciest in history (more than $1 million spent for costumes).

"I still think it's a male entertainment and it should stay that way," insisted Calandra, 65.

BUTTERMILK PIE

By KAREN SHERMAN

1 unbaked pie shell
2 eggs
2 tbsps. flour
1 stick melted oleo
1 1/2 cups sugar
3/4 cup buttermilk
2 tps. vanilla

Beat eggs and sugar well and add remaining ingredients. Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake at 400 degrees F. until brown on top (about 25 minutes). Then reduce heat to 200 and bake until pie will barely shake. (Approximately 20 minutes.)

4 WAY DELIGHT

By BILLIE RAMSEY

First layer:
1/2 cup pecans, chopped
1 stick oleo, melted
1 cup flour
Mix and pat in bottom of pan

Second layer:
8 ounces cream cheese
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup Cool Whip
Mix cream cheese, then add sugar and Cool Whip

Third layer:
2 packages small instant chocolate pudding mix
3 cups milk, mix and pour on second layer.

Fourth layer:
Add rest of Cool Whip for top and sprinkle 1/3 cup pecans on top.

QUICHE

By MRS. FRANK MIDKIFF

12 slices bacon, fried crisp
1/2 cup chopped onion
5 eggs
1/2 cup Bisquick
1 cup milk

Line large buttered pie plate with bacon and onions — put rest of ingredients in blender two minutes. Pour over bacon and onions. Bake in 400 degree oven 40-50 minutes, or until fork comes out clean.

STRAWBERRY PIE

By KAY SUTTON

1 frozen pie crust, baked until lightly browned and cooled
1 pkg. frozen strawberries
1 pkg. strawberry gelatin
1 tbsp. lemon juice
3/4 cup boiling water
1 small carton Cool Whip

Mix gelatin with boiling water and stir until dissolved. Cool slightly, add frozen strawberries and stir until dissolved and beginning to thicken. Add the lemon juice, fold in the Cool Whip, pour into pie shell and cool two hours or more.

DANISH PASTRY

By MARGO BARVIN

2 cups flour
2 sticks (1 cup) margarine
2 tbsps. water
1 tsp. almond extract
1 cup water
3 eggs
1/4 tsp. salt

Place one cup flour in a bowl. Cut into flour one stick margarine. Sprinkle with two tablespoons water. Mix with a fork or your fingers until well blended and can be formed into a round ball. Divide in half. On a cookie sheet, form each half into a long strip, then pat the dough with your fingers to be 3-4 inches wide and the length of the cookie sheet.

In a saucepan, melt one stick margarine in one cup water. Bring to a boil. Remove from stove and add 1 tsp. almond extract. Add one cup of flour with 1/4 tsp. salt all at once to the melted mixture and stir rapidly until well mixed and thick. Add three eggs and beat until well blended. This pastry has the consistency of thick glue. Spread this in even amounts completely over the dough already on the cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

BUTTER CREAM FROSTING

By MRS. FRANK MIDKIFF

Mix together in a bowl:
one half box powdered sugar
2 tbsps. margarine
1/2 to 3/4 cup water, depending on thickness desired

While pastry is hot from the oven, pour butter cream frosting all over pastry. Chopped nuts may be added to the top, if desired. Slice to serve. Makes approximately 20 pieces.

PECAN PIE

By EDDIE J. SHIRLEY

1/2 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
4 tbsps. butter
3 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup pecans

Cook sugar and syrup until thick. Beat eggs and add syrup, beating well. Add vanilla, butter and pecans. Pour in unbaked flaky pie shell. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 degrees for 35 minutes.

MARGARITA PIE

By CLAUDINE SEALE

Crust:
6 tbsps. pretzel crumbs
6 tbsps. vanilla wafer crumbs
3 tbsps. sugar
5 tbsps. melted butter or margarine

Combine all ingredients, mixing well. Reserve 2 tablespoons for garnish. Press remaining mixture onto bottom and sides of well-buttered 9-inch pie. Chill.

Filling:
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 tsp. freshly grated lemon or lime peel
1/2 cup fresh lemon or lime juice
4 eggs, separated
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
5 tbsps. Tequila
3 tbsps. citrus liqueur
1/2 cup sugar
1 lemon or lime, thinly sliced

Soften gelatin in mixture of lemon or lime juice and peel. Beat egg yolks well in top of double boiler until very thick. Beat in 1/2 cup sugar and salt. Add juice mixture. Stir constantly over boiling water about 5 minutes until slightly thickened and gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Immediately pour into bowl, mix in tequila and liqueur. Chill until mixture mounds slightly. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add remaining sugar, continuing to beat until stiff peaks form. Fold into cooked mixture. Spoon into crust and sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Prepare lemon or lime slices to form "twist" by cutting just to center of each and twisting. Garnish edge of pie with "twists". CHILL until firm. Yield: 6-8 servings. (This pie is best when served same day it is prepared. It is very tart and light—especially good after Mexican food.)

SOUTHERN PECAN PIE

By NEWEL B. BEAUCHAMP

1 cup white corn syrup
1 cup dark brown sugar
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
3 whole eggs (slightly beaten)
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 heaping cup pecan pieces

Combine syrup, sugar, salt, butter and vanilla and mix well; add the slightly beaten eggs and blend well and pour into an unbaked 9-inch pie shell. Sprinkle pecan pieces over all. Bake in pre-heated 350 degrees F. oven for approximately 45 minutes.

CHOCOLATE MERINGUE PIE

By N. ALLISON

1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
Dash salt
1 can (20 oz.) crushed pineapple, juice pack
2 tbsps. lemon juice
2 tbsps. margarine or butter
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

In a saucepan, com-

Refrigerate at least 2 hours before serving. Garnish with chopped pecans and shaved chocolate. (This recipe has been in the family for some time.)

PINEAPPLE ANGEL PIE

By MRS. RON BONNEAU

Meringue Shell:
2 egg whites
1/4 tsp. cream of tartar
Dash of salt
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 cup sugar

Combine egg whites, cream of tartar, salt and vanilla. Beat until foamy. Gradually add sugar, about 1 tbsps. at a time. Beat constantly until very stiff and glossy. Spread on bottom and sides of buttered 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 275 oven for 1 hour. Cool away from drafts before filling.

Pineapple Filling:

1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
Dash salt
1 can (20 oz.) crushed pineapple, juice pack
2 tbsps. lemon juice
2 tbsps. margarine or butter
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Shape in a greased pie pan; use the back of a spoon. Bake at 300 degrees for 50-55 minutes. Test for crispness. Leave in the oven with the door open for 15 minutes. Close the door and leave to crisp overnight if you desire.

FILLING

In a small skillet, break one bar of sweet German chocolate. Add 3 tbsps. water. Place over the lowest burner until melted. Remove from the fire and stir a couple of minutes until smooth. Whip one carton of whipping cream. (This should be cold with cold bowl and beaters.) Add 1 tsp. sugar and 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Fold chocolate mixture into the whipped cream. Place in the shell.

pine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in pineapple, lemon juice and butter. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Gradually add some of the hot pineapple mixture to egg yolks and then combine with hot pineapple mixture in saucepan. Cook 1 to 2 minutes more. Chill until cold. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into meringue shell. Chill 2-3 hours before serving.

RITZ CRACKER PIE

By MRS. BILL BARKER

Beat 3 egg whites until stiff
Add:
1 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. vanilla
Fold in:
20 ritz crackers, crushed
3/4 cup nuts

Crustless, Chocolate Swirl, Cream Cheese Pie

By KATHY ATKINS

1 cup sugar
3 pkgs. (8 oz. each) cream cheese (softened)
5 eggs
1 tps. vanilla
1 pkg. (4 oz.) Baker's German's Sweet Chocolate (melted and cooled)

Add sugar to cream cheese in a bowl, beating well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating 2 minutes after each addition. Add vanilla. Measure 2 cups of this cheese mixture and fold in chocolate. Pour remaining cheese mixture into a well-buttered 10" pie pan. Add spoonfuls of the chocolate-cheese mixture into pan and zig-zag a spatula through batter to give it a "marbled" effect. Bake at 350 for 40-45 minutes. Cool and chill. Serve cold.

Microwave instructions:

Bake approximately 20 minutes in a microwave at medium control. Turn after 10 minutes. Cool and chill. Serve cold.

BLUEBERRY CREAM PIE

By MRS. HOMER NANCE

1 cup sugar
2 tbsps. flour
1 cup canned blueberries
2 tps. lemon juice
3 beaten eggs
1 tps. butter
1/2 cup whipping cream

Combine sugar and flour; mix with blueberries and lemon juice in top of double boiler. Cook over hot water until thick. Add eggs and butter. Cook 5 minutes longer, cool and pour into baked crust; top with whipped cream.

Crust:

1 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup shortening
3 tbsps. ice water, approximately

Sift flour and salt together, cut in shortening leaving dough in small lumps. Add enough ice water to hold dough together. Chill in refrigerator; roll out and fit into pie pan. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, 15 to 20 minutes.

ICE CREAM PIE

By DEBBIE COY

1/2 cup butter
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
1/2 cup chopped nuts
For two pies, use 1/2 gallon of any of your favorite ice cream.

Press flat on cookie sheet 1/4 inch thick. Bake at 375 degrees approximately 15 minutes. When done, toss in bowl. Press in pie tins.

Put softened ice cream into pie tins with the ingredients. Put in freezer for a few hours.

PEPPERMINT FUDGE PIE

By Lara Atchison

24 creamed-filled chocolate cookies (crush)
 1/4 cup margarine, melted
 Combine cookie crumbs and margarine. Press into 9-inch pie plate. Chill.
 4 cups miniature marshmallows
 1/2 cup milk
 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
 1/2 cup crushed peppermint stick candy

Melt 3 cups marshmallows with milk in double boiler; stir until smooth. Chill until slightly thickened; mix until well blended. Fold in whipped cream, 1 cup marshmallows and candy; pour into chocolate cookie pie crust. Chill until firm. Eight servings.

CRANBERRY SURPRISE PIE

By JoLynn Peters

1 cup (plus) fresh or frozen cranberries
 1/4 cup sugar
 1/4 cup chopped pecans
 1 egg
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup flour
 1/4 cup margarine, melted
 2 tbsps. shortening, melted

Grease well an 8-inch pie plate. Spread cranberries over the bottom. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup sugar and nuts. Beat egg well and add 1/2 cup sugar gradually until well mixed. Add flour, melted butter and shortening, all at once. Blend well. Pour over berries. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes or until golden. Serve with whipped cream.

RHUBARB PIE

By MRS. DICK EDWARDS

Combine:
 3 cups of sliced rhubarb
 1 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon orange juice
 3 tablespoons flour
 pinch of salt
 Rhubarb mixture in a 9-inch pie pan lined with pastry. Dot with 2 tablespoons of butter. Add lattice crust and bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes.

FUDGE PECAN PIE

By JOANN OGDEN

9-inch unbaked pastry shell
 1 cup sugar
 1/2 cup of cocoa
 1/4 cup flour
 1/2 tsp. salt
 3 eggs, well beaten
 3/4 cup dark corn syrup
 3/4 cup light cream
 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1 cup pecan halves

Combine the sugar, cocoa, flour and salt in small bowl; set aside. Combine the eggs, dark corn syrup, cream, melted butter and vanilla in large mixing bowl; add the dry ingredients, stirring until smooth. Stir in pecan halves. Pour into 9-inch pastry lined pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 60 to 70 minutes until center is firm to the touch. Cool.
 Garnish with a scoop of vanilla ice cream for an extra special treat!

RUSSIAN MINT PIES

By MRS. W. H. LEIFESTE

1 cup butter
 2 cups powdered sugar
 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
 4 large eggs
 1 tsp. peppermint
 2 tps. vanilla
 18 vanilla wafers
 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
 Chopped nuts
 Maraschino cherries
 18 cupcake papers

Cream butter and sugar. Blend in melted chocolate. Add eggs and beat well, then blend in flavorings. Put a vanilla wafer into each cupcake paper (papers will hold shape better if you set them in muffin tins to assemble). Fill with choco-

PUDDIN' N' PIE

By MRS. LOUISE S. THURMAN

1 10-inch unbaked pie shell
 4 egg yolks
 2 egg whites
 1 cup sugar
 1 cup milk
 1 cup cooked rice
 1 cup cooked mashed prunes
 2 tablespoons butter (melted and cooled)
 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 Meringue

Beat egg yolks and 2 whites (2 whites are reserved for meringue.) Stir in sugar, the milk, add rice combined with prunes, butter, nuts and vanilla. Pour in unbaked pie shell. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 20 minutes longer. Cover with meringue made of two egg whites and 4 tablespoons of sugar. Return to oven and bake 20 minutes at 325 degrees.

COCONUT CHIFFON PIE

By MRS. BILL FINCH

1 carton whipping cream
 1 envelope Knox Unflavored Gelatine
 1/2 cup sugar, divided
 1/4 tsp. salt
 3 eggs separated
 1 1/4 cups milk
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1/4 cup flaked coconut plus 2 tbsps.
 1 9-inch baked pie shell

Mix gelatine, 1/4 cup sugar and salt thoroughly in top of double boiler.
 Beat egg yolks and milk together. Add to gelatine.
 Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until gelatin is dissolved, about 5 minutes.
 Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon.

Stir in coconut. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar.
 Fold in gelatin mixture. Turn into a baked pie shell and chill until firm.
 Garnish with whipped cream and top with coconut (remaining 2 tbsps.)

SOUP-CREAM POUNDCAKE

By MRS. GERALDINE WARD

1/4 tsp. baking soda
 1 cup dairy sour cream
 1 tsp. vanilla extract
 1 tsp. almond extract
 2 tps. butter flavoring
 1 tsp. lemon extract

Cream sugar and margarine until very creamy. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift flour three times.

Add baking soda to sour cream; stir well. Add flour and sour cream mixture alternately to the sugar mixtures. Blend well. Add flavorings.
 Beat egg whites until stiff; then fold into mixture. Pour into well greased, lightly floured tube pan (10 x 4) or loaf pan. Bake about 1 1/2 hours, or until toothpick inserted into center comes out clean.

'Spirit of the people'

(Second in a series of three guest editorials by Copley News Service.)

The second defeat: In a now-famous case entitled Zurcher vs. Stanford Daily handed down in May 1978, the U.S. Supreme Court divided 5-3, overturned lower court rulings, and decreed that law-enforcement officers may search a newspaper office without advance notice or court hearing and seize documents specified in a warrant, which could be issued by any magistrate.

In addition to its First Amendment aspects, this decision also involved the Fourth Amendment that declares inviolate "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures..."

The chilling consequences of the Stanford case are already apparent. A few months ago, the California state attorney general's office raided a Beverly Hills law firm for the purpose of seizing documents in a Medi-Cal investigation. Here was dramatic proof, if any is needed, that the press' defeat in the Stanford case was everyone's defeat. Doctors, lawyers, merchants and plain citizens are seen to be as much in jeopardy of police search and seizure as the press.

Only three months after the Stanford ruling, the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington, D.C., ruled that it is permissible for the telephone company to give government agencies the records of a journalist's toll calls, without prior notice to the reporter or his newspaper.

The third defeat: In July of this year, the U.S. Supreme Court once more handed down a 5-4 decision in yet another shocking landmark case known as Gannett vs. De Pasquale. It therein reversed more than two centuries of open judicial process — a dearly won right and reform from the infamous "Star Chamber" proceedings in England — and ruled that the right of public trial belongs to a criminal defendant "and to him alone." In other words, the people in whose name the court is convened are to be denied access to the proceedings whenever the defendant decides he doesn't want any publicity.

Late in November, the California State Court of Appeal extended the Gannett doctrine by ruling that judges may close their courts in certain cases (rape) even though the defendant did not request it.

As judges around the country began to slam their court room doors, the Supreme Court justices differed publicly on whether the Gannett decision applied to all court cases or was confined to preliminary hearings. This unseemly confusion awaits resolution in future cases. Other recent Supreme Court decrees, as distressing in their way as the Gannett decision, have barred the press from access to public institutions which heretofore were open.

It is not difficult to imagine how these decisions will cripple the press in its role as a watchdog against abuse of individuals in public institutions.

Quake figures revealed

Figures on the 1976 Tangshan earthquake have been released by Chinese Premier Hua Guofeng and they are astounding. More than 240,000 Chinese died and 164,000 others were injured.

It is the most recent example of the cataclysmic power of these major quakes and should spur seismologists on in their quest to predict temblors far enough ahead of time to evacuate those in possible danger.

Tangshan, located about 100 miles southeast of Peking, was struck by the quake at 3:42 a.m., when most people in the densely populated area were asleep. The tremor — rated 7.8 on the Richter scale — flattened the city.

The Tangshan earthquake was the worst since 1737, when a quake in Calcutta, India, wiped out 300,000 souls. The most catastrophic on record struck Shensi, China, in 1556; killing 830,000.

In recent years, scientists have moved closer and closer to understanding and predicting major quakes. Let us hope their knowledge soon will be able to save others from suffering the fate of the people of Tangshan.

Brazil's 'carnival' can't come too soon

Copley News Service

As one opposition leader, Sen. Tancredo Neves, put it, Brazil's leaders preach democracy, without the participation of the people. They talk about elections, without a popular vote. About capitalism, without private capital. And about social gains, without improvement in the living conditions of the people.

A harsh indictment of the military men who have been running Brazil, the fifth-largest nation in the world, but nevertheless reasonably accurate.

However, to get a balanced picture, read what government apologists have to say.

The Brazilian Democratic Movement (MDB), in the name of which Sen. Neves speaks, objected to another military candidate for the presidency before the last elections, and then nominated a general.

The MDB sought a broad amnesty that would permit exiled politicians to return, and then sought to impose restrictions on their homecoming. The MDB argued in favor of restoration of a multiparty system, and then tried to rule out formation of new political parties.

Curiously, as the newspaper O Estado de Sao Paulo commented, Brazil is being turned toward democracy, not by the opponents of military government, but rather by military men and their defenders.

Gen. Joao Baptista Figueiredo, president of Brazil since last March, has been easing the restrictions on political activity that had accumulated in the decade and a half since the Brazilian armed forces ousted the left-leaning government of President Joao Goulart March 31, 1964.

In accord with the political amnesty, virtually all of the military government's enemies, ranging from the long-exiled Communist Party leader, Luiz Carlos Prestes, on down, have been allowed back into the country, and they have been permitted to resume their public activities.

Restrictions on freedom of press and information have been eased. Labor unions and student organizations have resumed their agitation.

Of course, the result has been that new problems have been dumped on the back of the "sleeping giant" that is Brazil, and existing social and economic problems have been sharpened.

An incident in Florianopolis, capital of the southern state of Santa Catarina, is illustrative. President Figueiredo journeyed there on one of the frequent trips he has been making throughout Brazil to see, and be seen, by the nation's 120 million people. And, for the first time in history, a Brazilian president was physically attacked by a group of agitators as he walked through the streets. Only a few hundred of the thousands who had turned out to see him were involved in the incident. By the same token, though, none of the onlookers tried to restrain the attackers, who were led by university students.

The president was not injured. But, as O Estado noted, although Figueiredo has done more to restore

ART BUCHWALD Nation's 'sexual anorexia' blamed on modern games

WASHINGTON — "Sexual anorexia," the loss of sexual desire, according to people who keep up on such things, is becoming commonplace in American society. Apparently it is more prevalent in men than women. There are as many theories as to what causes it as there are sexual therapists.

One therapist blames it on Monday Night Football, which is now also shown on Thursdays and sometimes on Saturday nights.

"You can't expect someone who has listened to Howard Cosell for three hours to have a very strong sex drive," one therapist told me. "What worries all the people who deal with sexual dysfunctions is that more and more sports programs are being put on the air during prime time, and more men are complaining of headaches when they're ready to go to bed."

A woman sex therapist considers the new computer games a contributing factor towards sexual anorexia. She said, "You can play practically any game from backgammon to tennis on a toy computer now, and I find most of my male patients are happier trying to outwit a stupid machine than indulging in the pleasures of the flesh. Recently I tried an experiment in my lab. I had a beautiful girl in a black silk negligee sitting on the bed. Across the room on a card table was a Simon Says computer game — the one that lights up in different colors and makes a lot of noise.

"Four of my five patients immediately went to the Simon Says computer and started to push the buttons."

"Well," I said, "at least the fifth person was healthy."

"I'm not sure. He confessed he was more attracted to the girl than to Simon Says, but that if I had offered him a radio-controlled robot he might have had second thoughts."

"Who would have ever dreamed that computers would replace sex?"

"I guess," she said sadly, "it's whatever turns you on."

Another member of the profession blames the loss of sexual desire on the proliferation of all the sex-oriented magazines.

"I can trace the decline and fall of the male sex drive directly to the increase in the publication of Playboy, Penthouse, Hustler and all the other imitations. Men are reading more about sex and enjoying it less."

"Why is this?"

"They feel that since they've read about it, they've actually done it. Many men can now fulfill all their fantasies at the newsstands for $2.50, which is much cheaper than paying for someone's taxi fare home."

One therapist (Washington has almost as many as California) told me that as men become more passive in their sexual drives, women become more aggressive.

"I have a lady friend who met a very attractive lawyer, and after a candlelight dinner and a visit to a disco, she said to him, 'Your place or mine?' The lawyer excitedly said, 'Mine,' and they played pinball until five in the morning."

"What's the answer to the problem?"

"Well, we know it isn't perfume," she said, "and it obviously isn't women's lib. We do know men's sexual appetites dwindle in direct proportion to the professional success of their mates. I would say the only answer is to return to a moralistic society where sex is considered forbidden fruit. Many of my colleagues will take issue with me, but if we indoctrinate young men with the fact that having a healthy sex life is a sin, they'll be inspired to give up their computer games and come to bed when they are called."

Mark Russell says

Just think, in no other year but 1979 could you have purchased a half-fare coupon with Susan B. Anthony dollars for a trip to the National Malaise aboard Sky Lab.

In 1979, who came to Washington and dumped manure into the reflecting pool? A. Some farmers. B. The Friends of the Earth. C. The Hooker Chemical Co.

What two celebrated persons married their bodyguards in '79? A. Patty Hearst and Susan Ford. B. Rudolf Hess and Mick Jagger. C. Queen Elizabeth and Dolly Parton.

What did President Carter take away from many federal employees this year? A. Their free parking spaces. B. Their Korean houseboys. C. Their Kennedy buttons.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

- "A torn jacket is soon mended, but hard words bruise the heart of a child." (Longfellow). A child will forget a light spanking, but, "You are just hopeless" may remain in his heart and mind a lifetime. Paul, who had no children, had his ideas about correcting children. Tell. Col. 3:21.
  - "Let another man praise thee, and not ———." Proverbs 27:2.
  - Who said, "For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased."? Luke 14:3-11.
  - "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall ———." Gal. 6:7.
  - Who bought Esau's birthright? Genesis 25:31.

INSIDE REPORT:

U.S. policy toward Iran due 'complete investigation'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, at the express command of chairman Frank Church, will do a "complete investigation" of U.S. policy toward Iran as soon as the crisis centered on the American hostages is resolved.

Intimates of Church, the embattled Idaho Democrat now running for his fifth Senate term, say the senator is really more interested in future than past U.S. policy toward the oil-rich former kingdom now in the throes of post-revolutionary chaos. Rather than Monday-morning quarterbacking, Church says he wants an international committee to hear his point: A full U.S.-Iranian relationship that will restore to the U.S. the full amount of oil it used to get from Iran and will safeguard Iran from Soviet intrigue.

That is a very large order. What makes Church's objective interesting is that it shows he learned a lesson from the recent U.S.-Soviet crisis over the combat brigade in Cuba. In that case, Church shot from the hip in hopes of building his re-election chances in hawkish Idaho. Now he is trying to play the role of statesman. But the temptation to look good raking over the Iranian coals, whatever the cost to President Carter, may prove irresistible.

MOSCOW'S AFGHAN CAPER

Foreign intelligence operatives here are aghast at the apparent lack of U.S. attention to rising Soviet involvement in Afghanistan, the strategic nation that lies between the Soviet Union and the Arabian Sea.

Evans Novak

Pressured by the crisis in Iran, the Carter administration has failed in our allies' view to react strongly enough to the introduction of regular Soviet units that for the first time since World War II have now been sent into a country that is not a member of the Warsaw Pact. The intelligence specialists, in some cases joined by diplomats with their more prosaic viewpoints, are quietly pressing the U.S. to make far harsher complaints to Moscow than any made thus far.

The question needing an answer is this: Are the Soviet troops, now possibly close to 10,000, intended for use against eastern Iran if and when it breaks up into its component nationalities? Or are they for use simply to protect the pro-Moscow regime that now rules Afghanistan? Western and Israeli intelligence services insist that the U.S. must get the answer. For centuries, Russia has tried to find a route to a warm-water port. Now that Iran is threatened with breaking up, Moscow may be plotting to use its army units in Afghanistan for that purpose.

REAGAN'S VETO STICKS

Republican presidential front-runner Ronald Reagan has no intention of joining his less fortunate brothers in the debate organized by the Des Moines Register-Tribune as a key exhibit before the Jan. 21 caucuses, but Reagan's backers are reacting somewhere between anxious and angry.

John Sears, Reagan's campaign manager, has pursued with success all during 1979 this Sears doctrine for front-runners: Don't debate and don't attend "cattle shows" (at which all candidates do their stuff at the same time). So Sears has ruled out the Des Moines debate, which would pit Reagan against every other major Republican presidential contender.

Iowa Republicans not in Reagan's camp say they are glad he is staying out. First, they think that his relaxed, cool style might bring him in first in the debate; second, they say the "restiveness" now apparent among his followers is bound to hurt him in the caucuses.

HAIG OUT

Retired Gen. Alexander Haig, the 55-year-old former commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, will not be a candidate for president after all. The Philadelphia native, despite appeals from hawkish Republicans all over the country, has all but decided that instead of trying to get a four-year lease on the White House he will accept a major corporate job.

TEDDY BAGS LEWIS
John Lewis, the Carter-appointed deputy head of ACTION, has rejected the president's personal request not to quit his job and go to work for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential campaign.

Lewis, who reached fame in the civil rights battles of the 1960s, did agree to stay in the Carter administration until the end of 1979. Early next year, he will move to Atlanta under plans now being readied by the Kennedy campaign. From that base, he will run Kennedy's Southern primary operations, concentrating on the black vote.

Kennedy's capture of Lewis reveals a basic weakness of Jimmy Carter in his supposed fortress of black voter support. Also eager to jump to Kennedy is the black leader made internationally famous by the president, former United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young. But Young is unlikely to desert Carter. Although unhappy at what he regards as cavalier treatment from the administration when he was fired, Young retains a strong sense of loyalty to the president.

Most Texans support Chrysler bail-out

WASHINGTON — Here's how Texas members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days before the Christmas break.

HOUSE

CHRYSLER AID — The House passed, by a vote of 271 for and 136 against, a financial aid plan for Chrysler Corp. The company says it will collapse without massive federal aid. The bill (HR 5860) sent to the Senate would provide $1.5 billion in loan guarantees over the next three years if the company raises $1.9 billion on its own. The loan guarantees mean that Chrysler will borrow from the private sector but the U.S. Treasury will have to pay back the $1.5 billion if the company is unable to pay more in return for having their jobs saved.

Collins and Archer voted "yea." Hall, Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, De la Garza, White, Stenholm, Leland, Hance, Gonzalez, Paul, Kazen and Frost voted "nay." Loeffler did not vote.

AID FOR CITIES — By a vote of 184 for and 153 against, the House lowered from $250 million to $150 million the amount of economic aid to be allocated to the nation's most depressed communities under a special "targeted" economic recovery program. Large cities with chronically high unemployment will benefit most. The aid is to be released next spring in the form of one-shot-only grants. The vote came during debate on HR 5980, an anti-recession bill that the House will take up again in 1980. Members voting "yea" favored reducing the outlay from $250 million to $150 million.

Hall, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Brooks, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Wyatt, De la Garza, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler and Paul voted "yea." Eckhardt, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "nay." Wilson and Hightower did not vote.

SENATE

CHRYSLER BAIL-OUT — The Senate passed, by a vote of 53 for and 44 against, legislation rescuing Chrysler Corp. from its predicted bankruptcy. The bill (see House votes above) was headed for conference with the House and President Carter's signature.

The Senate's $3.6 billion Chrysler aid plan includes federal guarantees for $1.5 billion in private loans. The company would have to raise $2.1 billion on its own, with $525 million coming from wage and benefit concessions by unionized employees and another $150 million from non-union workers. Senators voting "yea" favored the bail-out. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted "yea."

UAW CONCESSIONS — By a vote of 69 for and 28 against, the Senate required unionized Chrysler employees to contribute $525 million to the government rescue package for their company (see previous votes). This amendment was a compromise between those who wanted union workers to forego at least $800 million of the $1.3 billion in wage increases they are due to receive over the next three years, and those who wanted to limit the union sacrifice to $400 million. The amendment also increased the value of federal loan guarantees for Chrysler, reduced the contribution required of non-union workers and decreased the amount of stock the company would give its employees. Most senators voting "nay" favored a greater union sacrifice. Bentsen and Tower voted "yea."

WINDFALL PROFITS — The Senate passed, 74 for and 24 against, a bill (HR 3919) to tax a large chunk of the profits U.S. oil companies will reap as a result of the ongoing removal of federal controls from the price of domestic crude oil. The bill would raise about $178 billion in taxes over the next 10 years — about one-third of the windfall profits oil companies are expected to get (after subtraction of other taxes) as a result of decontrol. The tougher House version of HR 3919 would raise about $277 billion over 10 years — about one-half of the oil companies' anticipated windfall profits. The bill now is in a House-Senate conference. Senators voting "yea" favored the windfall profits bill. Bentsen and Tower voted "nay."

ROLL CALL REPORT

unable to.

Members voting "yea" favored the Chrysler bail-out.

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, James Wright, D-12, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Mickey Leland, D-18, Kent Hance, D-19, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Abraham Kazen, D-23, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "yea."

Reps. James Collins, R-3, Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill Archer, R-7, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16 and Ron Paul, R-22, voted "nay."

Reps. Jack Brooks, D-9, and Tom Loeffler, R-31, did not vote.

CHRYSLER WORKERS — By a vote of 107 for and 296 against, the House rejected an effort to make Chrysler Corp. workers provide a larger share of the financial aid package for their employer.

The amendment, proposed to the $3.4 billion Chrysler aid bill (see previous vote), would have required union workers to give up $697 million of the $1.5 billion in wage and benefit increase they are scheduled to receive over the next three years. Non-union workers would have foregone $243 million in increases.

The bill later passed by the House required union workers to give up $197 million and non-union workers $100 million.

Members voting "yea" wanted Chrysler employ-

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Holidays bring weird happenings

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The folks who protect Vice President Walter F. Mondale were startled when the scores of phone calls began: "Yes, we'll be coming to the party." "Sorry, we can't make it."

For one thing, the men and women of the Secret Service play no role in arranging Mondale's social schedule.

But, more important, the barrage of calls had nothing to do with any party involving the vice president.

It seems the ACTION agency invited 1,000 people to a pre-Christmas celebration of the 15th anniversary of its VISTA program.

But the telephone number listed on the invitations for R.S.V.P. purposes was in error by a single digit.

Result: a flood of calls to the guard post at the entrance to Mondale's Secret Service-guarded residence at the Naval Observatory.

AS REPORTED EARLIER, the Democratic National Committee paid $65,000 to print and mail the 100,000 Christmas cards sent out by President and Mrs. Carter.

Well, the committee paid an additional $4,000 to take care of the Mondales' 6,000 cards.

It figures out to $1.54 per Carter greeting, 65 cents for a Mondale card.

AMONG WASHINGTON reporters, news photographers and broadcast technicians, one of the much-anticipated invitations of the year is to the president's annual Christmas reception for the press.

Although aides to the president and Mrs. Carter try to limit invitations to those who cover the Carters at least occasionally, numerous journalists who otherwise never step inside the White House aren't bashful about announcing they should be on the guest list.

One of this year's uninvited called press secretary Jody Powell's office to argue that Carter might say something about Iran during the affair — he didn't — and that the reporter would be hurt competitively if he were barred. The ploy worked.

More bizarre was the case of a reporter who, unbeknownst to the White House, is in the throes of a divorce. When the invitation arrived at his home, it was opened by his estranged wife, who called the R.S.V.P. number to accept on her own behalf — and to ask if she could bring her new boyfriend.

PRESIDENT'S WIVES don't often entertain and come face to face with women guests wearing the same dress — but it could happen.

Rosalynn Carter, on at least one black-tie public occasion, wore a gown that's available off the rack in the "better dresses" section of a venerable Washington department store.

The dress, with black velvet jacket and plaid green skirt, has a price tag of $250.

WHITE HOUSE PRESS secretary Jody Powell alerted the press last week to what he hinted would be a major pronouncement on energy by Carter himself. He seemed to underscore the importance of the event by announcing it would be available for broadcast.

At the promised hour, a sheepish Powell appeared to say there would be no broadcast, no announcement, no president.

The White House spokesman rather lamely said he had been under the mistaken impression that a Senate-House conference committee would, by then, have completed work on Carter's "windfall oil profits" tax. Alas, such was not the case.

Wild inflation eroding Israeli living standards

By MICHAEL PRECKER

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli consumers, who have escaped remarkably unscathed while prices rose 230 percent in the last two years, are beginning to feel the squeeze of a new rise in the cost of living.

As prices zoom, the government cuts its budget and a recession looms, the buffers that have insulated most Israelis against unprecedented inflation are finally eroding.

Finance Minister Yigal Hurvitz, who took over two months ago promising to "cut into the living flesh" to slow inflation, wants to cut 6 percent from next year's national budget to cool the economy.

The moves already enacted — including cuts in subsidies on food and services, a credit squeeze and wage and hiring freezes in the public sector — promise tough months ahead. Hurvitz hopes to stave off strikes and anti-government unrest by convincing Israelis that the short-term inroads into their standard of living will result in lower inflation in 1980.

"The next few months will be very hard," predicted an economic analyst for the Bank of Israel. "It's hard to explain to people that to cure inflation, you have to cause inflation. No matter how you say it, people still don't have money in their pockets."

Empty pockets could mean trouble for Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government, which must face the voters in 1981. Begin inherited a 30 percent inflation rate when he took office in 1977. The figure rose to 48 percent in 1978 and will top 100 percent this year, the highest in Israel's history.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Get Rid of Goodies

By Alfred Sheinwold

If the door is blocked by chocolate cream pie, you must get rid of the pie to open the door. Today's South couldn't bear to get rid of his goodies.

East took the ace of hearts and led a heart to the king. South drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king and then tried to cash two of dummy's beautiful clubs. East ruffed the second club, and that was the end of the slam.

NO RISK

South didn't have to risk a second round of clubs before drawing trumps. After taking the second trick with the king of hearts, South should get to his hand with the king of spades and ruff a heart with the ace of spades.

That leaves one trump in the dummy and three trumps in the South hand. Declarer cashes just one of dummy's high clubs and then takes three more rounds of trumps. Dummy can discard twice; and those discards are, of course, the yummy high clubs. South is then in position to run his clubs and takes the last two tricks with dummy's top diamonds.

Howard gains pair of wildcat sites projects staked, final in other areas

Lario Oil & Gas Co. and Amerada Hess Corp. each announced location for a wildcat in Howard County.

Lario No. 1 Edwards is an 8,000-foot oil and gas wildcat 7.5 miles southeast of Coahoma and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 44, block 30, T-1-S, T&P survey.

The drillsite is 3/8 mile east of a 3,300-foot dry hole and 3/8 mile east and slightly south of the Snyder (2800) field.

Amerada Hess will dig No. 1 A. D. Shive as a 9,000-foot wildcat 3.5 miles southwest of Coahoma.

It is 1,980 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 29, block 30, T-1-N, T&P survey.

It is one location west of the Coahoma, North (Fusselman field) which produces at 8,791 feet and one and three-eighths miles east of a 9,352-foot dry hole.

KING WILDCAT

C. W. Bolin of Wichita Falls announced location for a 6,100-foot wildcat in King County, 20 miles northeast of Aspermont.

It is No. 1 Parramore, 467 feet from south and east lines of section 36, block F, H&TC survey and 7/8 mile south of a 5,360-foot failure.

The site also is one and one-eighth miles south of the Twin Peaks field along the Stonewall-King county line.

HOWARD FIELD TRY

D. E. Radtke Associates, Inc., No. 1 Nan Cate and others is to be dug as an 8,000-foot test in the Vincent, South (Strawn) field of Howard County, one mile southwest of Vincent.

The location is 2,310 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines of section 1, block 25, H&TC survey.

Occidental reports find

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Occidental Petroleum Corp. said Wednesday it has found a new oil field in Libya with a capacity of from 50 to 100 million barrels.

Occidental said its discovery well in the new Fidda field tested at about 4,000 barrels of oil a day and estimated the total reserves in the area at between 50 and 100 million barrels of crude.

The new field is in an area where Occidental receives 19 percent of the net income and the Libyan National Oil Co. the remaining 81 percent, Occidental said.

Seismic land crews gaining

TULSA, Okla. — The number of seismic land crews and marine vessels searching for oil and gas in the U.S. and U.S. waters during November continued to increase, reports the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

The number of seismic land crews and marine vessels active domestically during the month was 439, up three crews and vessels from October.

The November total represents an increase of 79 crews and vessels since April.

The November total represents a one percent increase over October, a 19 percent increase over November 1978, a 31 percent hike over November 1977, a 63 percent increase over November 1976, a 66 percent climb over November 1975, and a gain of 44 percent over November 1974.

If it is two and three-eighths miles west of Vincent, South (Strawn) production and one location south and slightly east of the Sara-Mag (Canyon reef) field which produces at 7,580 feet.

FISHER PROJECT

Grand Banks Energy Co. of Midland spotted location for a 7,100-foot project 16 miles southwest of Roby in Fisher County.

It is No. 1 Aiken, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 249, block 3, H&TC survey.

The project will attempt to reopen Ellenburger production in the Bernecker field. It also will try for production in the lower Strawn. If completed from that zone, it will be the second well from that pay in the field. It is one location northeast of the pool's only lower Strawn producer.

PECOS PROJECT

Union Oil Co. of California staked its No. 2-3 W. C. Tyrrell Unit as a project in the Gomez, Northwest (Wolfcamp) field of Pecos County, 15 miles northwest of Fort Stockton.

Drillsite for the 11,800-foot test is 660 feet from south and west lines of survey 5, block 203, Mrs. Mary Emmons survey. It is 1/2 mile north of 11,456-foot production.

REEVES TEST

Jack N. Blair and Tom Metcalfe of Midland will dig No. 1-24 Worsham as a 17,200-foot project in the Worsham, North multipay field of Reeves County.

The operators will try for gas production in the Fusselman and Devonian.

The drillsite is 1,000 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 24, block 6, H&GN survey.

It is 5/8 mile southeast of Devonian production and 1.5 miles southeast of Fusselman production. The field has two Devonian wells and six that produce in the Fusselman.

GAINES PROJECTS

W&W Oil Co. of Midland announced plans to re-enter a pair of holes and Gaines County and attempt completion as the second and third wells in the Carm-Ann field.

Contract depths are 4,800 feet. The No. 1 McConal-Clark is 1,467 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 19, block A-22, psl survey and one location north of the field's San Andres discovery.

The No. 2 McConal-Clark is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 19, block A-22, psl survey. It is one location north of No. 1 McConal-Clark.

The field was opened by W&W No. 10A Coltan-State.

STERLING WELL

Blanks Energy Corp. No. 2-17-A Terry (formerly The Sterling Co. No. 2-17 Terry) has been completed as a dual well in Sterling County, six miles southwest of Sterling City.

The operator completed the well in the WAM (Fusselman) field for a daily flow of 22.08 barrels of 44.3-gravity oil and 19.32 barrels of water, through a 10/64-inch choke and perforations from 8,694 to 8,702 feet. The pay was acidized with 900 gallons and fractured with 24,000 gallons.

The gas-oil ratio is 5,435-1. The operator potential the well in the Conger (Pennsylvanian) field for a daily flow of 16.56 barrels of 44.3-gravity oil and no water, through a 1/4-inch choke and perforations from 6,994 to 6,423 feet. The pay was acidized with 2,600 gallons and fractured with 8,000 gallons.

The gas-oil ratio is 2,838-1. Total depth is 8,752 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom. The plugged back depth is 5,752 feet.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from south and 2,600 feet from east lines of section 17, block T, T&P survey.

WINKLER TEST

Rotary Oil & Gas Co. of Midland No. 6-E Whaley is to be dug in the Emperor, East (lower Clear Fork) field of Winkler County, four miles south of Kermit.

Scheduled on a 6,200-foot contract, it is 660 feet from south and 1,787 feet from west lines of section 23, block B-5, psl survey. It is one location east of production.

LEA ACTIVITY

Amoco Production Co. No. 1-B Nellis-Federal Gas Communitized has been completed from the Morrow in the Buffalo field of Lea County, 12 miles southeast of Maljamar.

The operator reported a daily flowing potential of 1,100,000 cubic feet of gas and 10 barrels of oil, through a 15/64-inch choke and perforations from 13,310 to 13,333 feet.

The pay was acidized with 6,000 gallons and fractured with 25,000 gallons.

Total depth is 13,689 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented at 13,688 feet. The plugged back depth is 13,609 feet.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 5-19s-33e.

Amarillo Oil Co., operating from Midland, staked location for a 5,000-foot test in an undesignated area of Lea County, three miles northeast of crossroads.

The project, No. 1-18 Federal, is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 18-9s-36e.

V. H. Westbrook of Hobbs, N.M., No. 2-W State of New Mexico has been staked in the Arkansas Junction, West field of Lea County, one mile northwest of Arkansas Junction.

The 5,700-foot test is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 28-18s-36e. Ground elevation is 3,822 feet.

The test, No. 1 Lea-State, is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 25-13s-32e. Elevation at ground level is 4,300 feet.

WARD WELL

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1042 HSA has been completed in the Wagon Wheel (Pennsylvanian) pool of Ward County, 1.5 miles southeast of Wickett.

The well potentialized for a daily flow of 104 barrels of 39.2-gravity oil and 19 barrels of water, through a 25/64-inch choke and perforations from 8,067 to 8,580 feet. The pay was acidized with 49,500 gallons.

Gas-oil ratio is 2,019-1. Total depth is 9,100 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom. The plugged back depth is 9,011 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 5, block Ok G&MMB&A survey and one location northeast of other Pennsylvanian production.

REEVES GASSER

Kimbl Production Co. No. 1-6 Quinn is a new well in the MiVida (Fusselman) pool of Reeves County, 10 miles northwest of Pecos.

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 2,122,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 16,069 to 16,149 feet. The pay was fractured with 12,000 gallons.

Total depth is 18,755 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented at 18,753 feet. The plugged back depth is 18,700 feet.

Location is 2,600 feet from north and 1,320 feet from southwest oines of section 6, block 4, H&GN survey.

Union Oil Announces 1-cent cut in gasoline, fuel oil price

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Union Oil Co. of California, the nation's 13th-largest oil company, announced Wednesday it is cutting wholesale gasoline, heating oil and diesel fuel prices by a penny a gallon.

Union also said it would roll back previously announced increases of 1 to 2 cents a gallon for aviation turbine fuel and would not boost gasoline and home heating oil prices for the next 30 days.

The reductions will take effect Thursday, Union spokesman Greg La Brache said. He added that "we expect some" Union dealers to reduce prices, but could not say if all would pass on the cuts to customers.

La Brache said the price cuts came about because of an order by the U.S. Department of Energy directing 14 major American oil companies to sell Union 75,000 barrels of crude oil a day for the rest of this year and an average of 65,000 barrels a day through the end of February.

The DOE issued the order after finding that two regulations unfairly discriminated against Union.

Under the DOE order, La Brache said, the price charged to Union may not exceed the other companies' actual purchase and transportation cost, plus $1.50 a barrel profit.

In handing down its decision, the DOE said, Union "has shown convincingly that the combined regulatory impact of the entitlements program and the buy-sell program adversely affect it to a substantially greater degree than other refiners participating in those programs."

Union's price cuts followed price increases by major oil companies. Wholesale prices charged by Standard Oil Company of California and Exxon Corp. went up 6 cents a gallon, while other companies went up by 1 to 5 cents.

Before the increases, the national average retail price of a gallon of gasoline was $1.03, said the Lundberg Letter, a publication that surveys filling stations monthly.

Council challenges agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Energy Council of America said today it was filing a petition with the Department of Energy, challenging some $630 million worth of agreements in which the department and major refiners settled alleged oil-pricing violations.

The council, a coalition of citizen groups, said it thinks the "consent orders" fail to compensate consumers adequately for alleged overcharges by the companies on petroleum products.

The organization proposed, as one possible improvement, that the Energy Department create a fund using part of the alleged violation money for aid to the poor, administered by a panel or corporation of citizen representatives.

There was no immediate comment from department officials.

The department's Office of Special Counsel has conducted audits of petroleum transactions from 1973 through 1976 by the nation's 15 largest refiners, and has charged them with nearly $10 billion in violations of federal price control rules.

Audits of additional companies and post-1976 transactions are to begin in 1980.

Most of the "notices of probable violation" have been challenged by the refiners, who argue that the regulations were unclear and that the Energy Department itself has misinterpreted them.

The notices generally have not charged deliberate violations. Instead, the disputes have centered on interpretation of rules, bookkeeping and the department's practice of estimating violations over a prolonged period of time from actual audits covering a much shorter time span.

Some of the alleged violations have been settled by "consent orders" in which the companies did not admit violations but agreed to refund or forego disputed price increases anyway.

In most cases, it has been difficult or impossible to identify specific customers deserving cash refunds so the consent orders have resorted to alternatives, such as temporary rollbacks of gasoline or fuel oil prices or payments to the federal treasury.

Land board okays pool

AUSTIN — The School Land Board has approved the pooling of state-owned land in the Slash Ranch area of Loving County.

The board approved an application by Mobil Oil Corp. to pool 646 acres of state-owned land in the L. E. Lacy Unit No. 1. The board approved a 1/16 royalty and field rules providing for 640-acre proration units, with 10 percent tolerance and 100 percent acreage allocation factor.

Mobil Oil is proposing to drill a 21,800-foot Ellenburger test in the area. The leases expire in March 1980.

Cited as reasons for the increases were the recent retroactive increase of $6 per 42-gallon barrel of crude oil by Saudi Arabia and several other exporters, and shortages caused by the U.S. embargo on purchases of Iranian oil. On top of the wholesale price hikes, gasoline stations in mid-December were allowed by the federal government to boost their maximum profit margin to 16.1 cents from 15.4 cents a gallon.

Vessels had no lights, says captain of tanker

By BILL CRIDER

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The captain of a tanker that collided with a tugboat and two barges on the Mississippi River told a Coast Guard hearing that the barges did not have lights.

"Taking into consideration that the barge was without lights, we did not see it until it was in the reflection from our mast lights," said Capt.

Carlo Vivaldi, "Perhaps 10 meters (60 feet) away..."

The crash of the 700-foot Pina and the tug Mr. Pete on the Mississippi River on Dec. 18 set off a spectacular fire. An estimated 168,000 gallons of crude oil spilled into the river, authorities said.

Though the fire was so intense it forced the 27-man crew of the Pina to temporarily abandon ship, no one was seriously hurt.

Permian Basin regions gain 196 more oil, gas projects

Oil and gas operators announced 196 new operations in West Texas and southeast New Mexico last week.

Seventy-three of the projects, including 16 wildcats, were staked in District 7C of the Railroad Commission of Texas. The district's headquarters in San Angelo reported that Runnels County gained five wildcats and that four were staked in Schleicher and four in McCulloch. The others were spotted in Coke, Irion and Menard counties, each getting one.

The Midland headquarters of RRC District 8 processed 47 new projects, including nine wildcats.

The wildcat were staked in Pecos, 3; Andrews, 3; Reeves, 2, and Ector 1.

Jupiter moon seen as most likely spot to find alien life

Fractures in the thick crust of ice show as dark lines in this photo of Europa, a moon of the planet Jupiter, made by Voyager 2. Data from the spacecraft indicates alien life may exist in a subsurface ocean on Europa, according to NASA consultant Richard C. Hoagland. (AP Laserphoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Europa, a moon of the planet Jupiter, may be the most likely place in the solar system to search for some form of life, says a scientist who has studied data from the Voyager 2 spacecraft. Richard C. Hoagland, a consultant to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, says the Voyager data indicates that beneath the surface of Europa is an ocean of water, "the prime prerequisite for life as we know it."

Hoagland, writing in the January issue of "Star & Sky" magazine, bases his theories on information gathered by Voyager during its July fly-bys of Jupiter and its four moons. "Only three other objects in the solar system have ever been seriously suggested as abodes of life — Mars, Jupiter and Saturn's moon Titan," he said. "Spacecraft investigations of all three of these bodies in recent years have cast doubt on life existing on any of them."

"The Voyager 2 findings leave little doubt that Europa is covered with a crust of ice perhaps five miles thick that envelops a global ocean possibly 60 miles deep," he wrote. He also suggests that at one time, conditions on the Jovian moon were such that the ocean was free of ice. "Jupiter was once a miniature sun according to our current concepts of solar system formation," he said. "It only lasted a short time — a few million years at most — but for that brief period Europa probably basked in energy as rich as any streaming toward Earth today from the sun." That was long enough, Hoagland said, "for molecules that are suspected life-process precursors to be created as they have been in thousands of earthly laboratory simulations. ... The life precursor molecules produced during Europa's first few million years could have continued to evolve under a canopy of ice, sustained by internal heat sources." Europa looks like a giant cracked eggshell in pictures relayed back to Earth from Voyager 2. Crisscrossing its yellow surface are hundreds of dark cracks, some of which seem to be as wide as 30 miles and as long as 2,000 miles. The next chance scientists will have to get a further look at Europa is in the mid-1980s when NASA launches its Galileo satellite into orbit around Jupiter. The satellite is to pass repeatedly within a few hundred miles of Europa. "The real excitement will arrive with the first human expedition to Europa," Hoagland said. "Only by landing there will we discover if Europa is another Earth which somehow died before it had a chance."

Virus forces shelter to eliminate 106 animals

BROOKHAVEN, N.Y. (AP) — Officials of a Suffolk County animal shelter and a nearby animal hospital said 106 dogs were killed this week in an effort to stop the spread of a canine disease. Veterinarians throughout the New York area disagreed about whether the disease, acute hemorrhagic gastroenteritis, is usually fatal, but one speculated that the Long Island cases were victims of a particularly virulent form of the disease.

Brookhaven Town Councilman Neal Capria said Wednesday that the town's animal shelter destroyed about 90 dogs on Christmas Eve after they were found to be suffering from the ailment. Barbara Pizza, administrative director of the Animal Emergency Hospital in the Long Island community of Coram, said 16 diseased dogs were put to death there. Dogs infected with the ailment, caused by a virus called parvo, suffer internal bleeding, vomiting and diarrhea. Some veterinarians say it can lead to dehydration, hemorrhaging and death. Capria, the town council's liaison to the shelter, said the disease is almost always fatal, and that the dogs at the shelter "were killed for their own good and for the good of other animals." But Dr. Steve Kritsick of the Animal Medical Center in Manhattan said there was no reason for the pet-owning public to be alarmed. Kritsick said that after the Long Island cases were reported, the Manhattan facility received numerous calls from worried pet owners. Kritsick said parvo "is a serious disease ... (which) can be fatal rapidly," but is "not necessarily fatal." He said the Manhattan center would try to treat animals affected by the disease, rather than automatically kill them.

Immigration bans gay foreigners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department lawyers have told the Immigration and Naturalization Service it must change its policy and enforce a statutory ban on the admission of homosexual foreigners into the United States. The decision was immediately criticized by Charles F. Brydon, co-executive director of the National Gay Task Force in New York. Brydon said he was "very disappointed" in the ruling and that he hoped government officials would meet with homosexual rights groups before moving to enforce the ban. Justice Department attorneys sent David Crosland, acting director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, a memo saying the immigration service "is statutorily required to enforce the exclusion of homosexual aliens" under the 1952 McCarran-Walter Act. The decision reversed a position taken in August when the government said it would no longer use homosexuality as a reason for denying aliens entry into the United States. That policy was announced after U.S. Surgeon General Julius B. Richmond said the Public Health Service did not consider homosexuality a "mental disease or defect."

Richmond said that beginning Aug. 2, government physicians would "no longer issue medical holds on aliens suspected solely of being homosexual." The change was made to "reflect current and generally accepted canons of medical practice with respect to homosexuality," Richmond said, and also because homosexuality could not be determined through a medical diagnostic procedure. The Public Health Service announced its policy change this summer after a court challenge by a London antique restorer who arrived at the San Francisco airport wearing a "Gay Pride" button. In reply to an immigration official, the man said he was a homosexual. He was barred from entering the United States. That decision was reversed when Richmond issued his directive to health service doctors. The immigration service temporarily halted efforts to keep foreign visitors thought to be homosexuals out of the United States, pending a Justice Department review of the legal issues involved. But Crosland said Wednesday he was advised by Justice Department lawyers to enforce the law. Guidelines will be issued in the next few weeks telling immigration officers what questions can be asked of foreigners entering the country, Crosland said. "Millions of people visit the country each year. If we set up a whole series of questions, you would have a tremendous backup at airports," Crosland said. Immigration officials do not know exactly how many foreigners have been kept out of the United States because they were believed to be homosexual, but Crosland said the number was very small. He said the total number of people excluded for all medical and psychiatric reasons from 1971 to 1978 was 31, of which homosexuals would represent an even smaller number.

Texas escapees held on federal kidnap charges

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Three escapees from a women's prison in Huntsville, Texas have been charged in Oklahoma City federal court with kidnaping since their arrest here Monday in connection with the robbery of a Pueblo woman. Patricia Ann Watson, 32, Sylvia Jean Brown, 37, and Mary Lou Santelanna, 30, also face fugitive charges in Texas and robbery charges here. The women were arraigned in Pueblo County District Court Wednesday on charges of robbing a 30-year-old Pueblo woman of her purse and $68. The three women are to face extradition hearings within the next 10 days, Assistant U.S. District Attorney Mike Ringer said in Oklahoma City Wednesday. One of the women allegedly robbed Rita Valdez of Pueblo of her purse and $68 at a market here Monday afternoon, police said. The victim gave authorities a description of the woman and the license number of the car, which was a stolen vehicle from Oklahoma. Pueblo police stopped the three women later at a roadblock by ramming into the car. Oklahoma authorities said the women are accused of beating and stabbing a Leona McMullan, 71, Saturday in an Enid supermarket parking lot after they escaped from Texas, and kidnaping Regina M. Raymond and her 3-year-old son, Cameron, in Oklahoma City Sunday. The woman and her son were released at the Wichita, Kan. airport nine hours later.

Waco man held in knife deaths

WACO, Texas (AP) — Sheriff's deputies have arrested a 30-year-old Waco man on murder warrants issued in connection with a Christmas Eve knife attack that left two men dead and another seriously wounded. McLennan County Sheriff Dave Roberts said Marvin L. Vaughn was arrested in Waco Wednesday night on warrants issued by Justice of the Peace W. R. Lively in Clifton. Lively said he set bond at $100,000 on each murder warrant and $25,000 on another warrant for aggravated assault. Mike Kilgo, 23, and Ervin Haynes, 23, both of Waco, were slain Monday night when they were attacked in the Waco suburb of Valley View by "two or three men" who stabbed them in the throat. Loyd Roberson, 22, of Hico, was wounded in the attack and was listed in stable condition Wednesday night. Roberson underwent surgery Monday night for a stab wound in the back. Roberson has been unable to give investigators an accurate description of his assailants. He said it was two or three men driving what he thought was a red car. Roberts said Roberson was heavily sedated Wednesday and unable to give them any more information on the attack. The sheriff said he would try to talk to Roberson again today. Officials theorize two of the victims were outside their car at the time they were stabbed and that the third was sitting in the car or attempting to get out and fell out. Roberts declined to say if authorities had any more suspects in the double slaying, but he said the incident was still under investigation.

Maid of Cotton search begins

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The annual search for the American cotton industry's good-will ambassador — the Maid of Cotton — has begun. Sixteen finalists from 12 cotton-producing states arrived Wednesday for the 42nd annual Maid of Cotton competition. Following three days of judging and social events, a successor to the 1979 maid, Suzanne Snipes of Greenville, Miss., will be chosen Friday night. The winner's first official appearance will come at the Cotton Bowl parade and football game in Dallas on New Year's Day. After a cram course on the American cotton industry, the new maid will begin a yearlong tour, in this country and abroad, to promote the fiber. Maid of Cotton contestants are judged on their personality, poise, communications skills and appearance. Memphis has been the host city for the contest since its inception in 1939 by The Memphis Press-Scimitar, the city's afternoon newspaper, and the Memphis Cotton Carnival Association. The Memphis-based National Cotton Council and the Memphis Rotary Club have joined as sponsors since the contest began. This year's field includes: Peggy Latham, 20, of Memphis; Miriam White, 21, of Memphis; Lisa Patricia Redditt, 20, of Greenville, Miss.; Rebecca Gail Bush, 20, of Tupelo, Miss.; Melissa Amber Haynes, 19, of Blytheville, Ark.; Nan Andrews, 21, of Marianna, Ark.; Beth Adams, 20, of Dothan, Ala.; Dulce Dethania Kingman, 19, of Atlanta, Ga.; Melissa Mock, 21, of Altus, Okla.; Janette Shelby, 19, of Charleston, Mo.; Janet Ward Black, 20, of Kannapolis, N.C.; Elizabeth Hunt Holding, 21, of Wake Forest, N.C.; Therese Ann Blake, 21, of Balboa Island, Calif.; Janis Johnson, 20, of Pampa, Texas; Susan Elizabeth Raines, 20, of Dallas, Texas; Lorrie Susan Merideth, 20, of Yuma, Ariz.

Military commanders of the two wings of the guerrilla Patriotic Front organization arrive in Salisbury, Rhodesia, Wednesday. The man in the center is a British liaison officer. (AP Laserphoto)

Rhodesian guerilla commanders lead their forces into camps

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Guerrilla commanders mapped plans today to lead their fighters into cease-fire camps after a tumultuous welcome home from seven years of bush war. A British peacekeeping convoy fanned out from Salisbury, its Land-Rovers marked with white crosses to ward off possible attack.

The guerrilla commanders, Mafelo "Lookout" Masuku and Rex Nhongo, met with Britain's military chief, Maj. Gen. John Acland, to discuss the truce arrangements. Going into the meeting, Masuku said, "Given a chance I think it can work." Nhongo agreed, "There's much hope that everything will work."

However, their Patriotic Front political alliance claimed that South African troops in Rhodesian military uniforms were being brought into the country secretly to beef up local government forces, and that "assassination squads" were being formed to eliminate Front leaders.

Patriotic Front co-leader Robert Mugabe, in a broadcast from Mozambique, ordered his men to hold "very fast" to their weapons, be "extremely vigilant towards the enemy and not allow yourselves to be disarmed at any time. Your commanders will give you ... instructions on how to move and where to move."

The government, which has told the guerrillas they will be allowed to retain their weapons, had no immediate comment.

Masuku and Nhongo were mobbed by some 20,000 blacks who turned out at Salisbury airport Wednesday, trampled a security fence and cheered, hugged and kissed the guerrilla chiefs and 85 officers who returned with them from bases in Zambia and Mozambique.

The commanders are to begin leading their men into 16 camps over the next two days and settle in after the cease-fire takes effect at midnight Friday. The guerrilla camps and 43 bases where Rhodesian government forces are to be confined will be monitored by 1,200 British Commonwealth peacekeeping troops.

On Saturday, the first full day of the truce, the Commonwealth force will drop tents to house an estimated 20,000 guerrillas expected at the camps. Most of the Rhodesian army, more than double the strength of the guerrillas, already has reported to its cease-fire bases.

However, scattered fighting is continuing. The Salisbury command reported that 39 persons were killed in clashes Monday and Tuesday between guerrillas and government troops, and there was some apprehension about deploying Commonwealth forces in areas of conflict.

vehicles marked with white crosses to identify them to guerrillas. A 45-man unit of Australian soldiers flew out of Salisbury the day before to monitor Rhodesian army bases.

Lord Soames, the British governor running Rhodesia until elections in April leading to black-majority rule and independence from the Crown, has tried to ease guerrilla fears that assembling in camps will lead to mass extermination. He said they may keep their guns and that they will be "honorably treated."

Soames was appointed Rhodesia's interim administrator under terms of the peace agreement worked out in London between the Salisbury government and Patriotic Front leaders Joshua Nkomo and Mugabe, whose guerrilla war has left more than 20,000 dead since it was launched in 1972.

Nkomo and Mugabe resorted to guerrilla war seven years after Prime Minister Ian Smith unilaterally declared Rhodesia independent of Britain in 1965 rather than submit to rule by 6.8 million blacks over the nation's 230,000 whites.

Three British cease-fire troops die when helicopter crashes in Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Three British soldiers, members of the Commonwealth peace force in Rhodesia, died today in a helicopter crash, Rhodesian military sources said.

First reports indicated the Puma helicopter struck a pylon near the city of Mtoko, about 90 miles east of this Rhodesian capital. There was no word on how many soldiers were aboard the craft, and no other details of the crash were immediately known.

The copter crashed while en route to a black nationalist guerrilla assembly point one day before a cease-fire is to take effect, halting the seven-year-old Rhodesian civil war.

The three Britons were the first casualties among the 1,200-man Commonwealth force sent to Rhodesia earlier this month to monitor the new truce between the nation's white-led army and the black guerrillas.

Identifications of the dead were withheld pending notification of relatives, the sources said.

Turkey lifts last barrier to Dooley's departure

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Five months after she was jailed on drug smuggling charges, Turkish authorities today cleared the way for Loreta Dooley to return to her Tracy, Calif., home on bail.

"We have removed the last procedural barrier to her freedom," said a lawyer for the 18-year-old Miss Dooley, who is accused of "attempting to smuggle" nine grams of hashish to the United States.

She was released Wednesday on $1,500 bail from Sagmalcilar Prison. But officials in the police passport section held up her departure from the country, demanding that the court handling her case issue an explicit statement that she could leave the country while on bail.

"It's all now completed and she can go anywhere in the world," said Ismail Karanfil, chief of the passport section of the Istanbul police, after the court issued the travel clearance today.

One passport official said the additional ruling was demanded in an attempt to avert "future complications in view of past experience." He did not elaborate, but it was assumed he referred to the possibility that Miss Dooley might not return for trial.

Miss Dooley had waited at the Istanbul police headquarters for the clearance. After it came, she left with two U.S. consular officials, probably to spend her remaining hours in Turkey at the U.S. Consulate.

The U.S. officials refused to disclose her travel plans, but she was expected to leave the country as soon as possible.

Judge Sakir Caldag, the chief justice on a three-judge panel hearing the Dooley case, agreed Wednesday to a defense request that she be freed on bail pending a trial set for Feb. 5. He acted after the prosecutor reported a lack of concrete evidence that she actually tried to export the hashish.

The $1,500 bail was paid from money deposited by Miss Dooley's father, Vernon, to cover attorneys' fees and court costs.

"It's fantastic to be free," Miss Dooley told reporters as she was escorted from Sagmalcilar Prison by two guards armed with sub-machine guns.

In a brief interview she said she had "learned a lot" during her five months in prison.

"I feel so sorry for the people I left behind," she added.

Miss Dooley went to Turkey as part of the American Field Service student exchange program and was staying with a Turkish family when she was seized by a narcotics police.

In pre-trial testimony she claimed she bought the hashish — about one-third of an ounce — from an anonymous peddler in Istanbul's "hippe district." She alleged that the daughter of the host family "must have tipped the police" about her alleged attempt to send the drugs to her home address in California.

Yun Po-sun, 17 others will stand trial

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Former President Yun Po-sun and 17 others were ordered to appear before an army court martial on charges of leading an anti-government rally disguised as a wedding.

The martial law command said all were under arrest except Yun, 82, South Korea's only living former chief executive; Quaker leader Hahn Suk-hun, 77, and two others.

Those in custody include Yang Soon-jik and Park Chong-tae, both former lawmakers from the ruling Democratic Republican Party, the command said.

Some 1,000 persons attended the Nov. 24 rally, billed as a wedding in an apparent attempt to outwit authorities, at the downtown WYCA. It was the first anti-government protest here since martial law was proclaimed following the Oct. 26 assassination of President Park Chung-hee.

Pol Pot quits

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The ousted Cambodian government confirmed today that Pol Pot has stepped down as premier. Sources said he will become chairman of a military group trying to drive Vietnamese forces from the country.

Vietnamese troops invaded Cambodia a year ago and replaced the Pol Pot government with one headed by Heng Samrin. Pol Pot loyalists have been fighting a guerrilla war since.

Former President Khieu Samphan is the new premier of the ousted government. He will have two deputy premiers — Ieng Sary and Son Sen, the government said. The sources said Pol Pot will head a "Supreme Committee of the National Armies of Democratic Kampuchea (Cambodia)."

The announcement by the guerrilla forces' clandestine radio station, monitored here, confirmed earlier reports of such changes.

Shrine bombed

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — A monument to former U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was blown up early today, the Interior Minister said.

A ministry statement attributed the act to "one of the terrorist groups that continue to operate in the country."

The monument, a granite slab in Franklin D. Roosevelt Park about six miles outside the capital, was badly damaged by a blast last April. A previously unheard of right-wing group claimed responsibility for that explosion.

Weizman says U.S. aid still needed in Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Minister Ezer Weizman is reported ready to cite growing instability in the Middle East as an argument for a big increase in U.S. military and economic aid to Israel.

Weizman had late afternoon appointments today to press Israel's case with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown.

Israeli sources indicated Weizman's trip, which apparently caught some senior U.S. officials by surprise, was timed to coincide with final decision-making by the Carter administration on foreign aid allotments to be included in next year's budget request to Congress.

The Israeli government last September handed the State Department a bid for $3.45 billion in aid for fiscal 1981, nearly double this year's total. The Israelis mentioned rising prices for weapons and oil in seeking $1.85 billion in military aid and $1.6 billion in economic help.

A few days later, Weizman flew to Washington to discuss specific weapons, with particular emphasis on advanced warplanes. No commitments were made, although Brown said the Pentagon was willing to consider Israeli proposals to build U.S. jets in Israeli factories.

American officials indicated that Israel was not likely to win an aid increase as large as it sought.

In advance of Weizman's new conferences with Vance and Brown, Israeli sources, who asked not to be named, said the official Israeli request for $3.45 billion has not changed. But there have been recent published reports from Tel Aviv suggesting that Weizman might settle for less of a boost and consider that a victory.

Since Weizman's last visit here, the U.S. estrangement from its old ally, Iran, has deepened into crisis and doubts have developed about the stability of the pro-U.S. regime in Saudi Arabia.

This could enhance Israel's status as an unwavering friend of the United States in the region.

The Israeli sources said they do not expect Weizman to raise the question of possible use of Israeli facilities by the U.S. 6th Fleet. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin suggested Friday that he would permit American warships to use the port of Haifa if the United States so requested.

The Israeli sources said this was not a new offer, but a restatement of what Begin told President Carter during their 1978 meetings at Camp David that led to the Israeli-Egyptian peace agreement.

Portugal's prime minister quits

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Maria de Lourdes Pintassilgo, Portugal's first woman prime minister, formally resigned today, opening the way for a new center-right government to take over before the end of the year.

Ms. Pintassilgo handed in her resignation to President Antonio Ramalho Eanes 149 days after he named her to the post and 25 days after Francisco Sa Carneiro's coalition of Social Democrats, Conservatives and Monarchists won a majority in Parliament.

Sa Carneiro was due back from a Christmas vacation Friday and aides said he was expected to pick a new Cabinet on New Year's Eve. It will be Portugal's 12th government since the 1974 revolution ended a half century of dictatorship.

Ms. Pintassilgo, a former ambassador to the United Nations, went to Eanes' official Belem Palace to resign after the Dec. 2 election results were published today in the government gazette.

Sa Carneiro, who led his coalition to 128 seats in the 250-member national assembly, will have the first majority government since the revolution.

The Socialists of former Prime Minister Mario Soares came in second in the balloting, winning 74 seats, followed by the Soviet-line Communists of Alvaro Cunhal with 47 seats.

Eanes was scheduled to receive Sa Carneiro on Friday and ask him to form a government.

Eanes named the 49-year-old Ms. Pintassilgo to form a non-party Cabinet after firing Soares, trying out two independent prime ministers and finally dismissing Parliament last summer and calling elections.

The victory by Sa Carneiro, however, will allow him to run the government for only a year since the constitution requires new elections before the end of 1980. He also will be barred from changing the constitution. That must wait until after the 1980 parliament is picked.

Sa Carneiro is a strong advocate of limiting the powers of the president and eliminating the 21-officer Revolutionary Council that has watchdog authority over the government.

NEW ISSUE

In the opinion of Bond Counsel, rendered in reliance upon the opinion of Special Tax Counsel that the Bonds are not arbitrage bonds within the meaning of Section 103(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, under existing statutes, regulations, published rulings and judicial decisions, interest on the Bonds is exempt from all present federal income taxation.

$35,000,000

THE MIDLAND HOUSING FINANCE CORPORATION (A public nonprofit corporation created pursuant to the laws of the State of Texas)

SINGLE FAMILY MORTGAGE REVENUE BONDS (MULTIPLE ORIGINATORS AND SERVICERS)

1979 SERIES A

Dated: December 1, 1979 Due: December 1, as shown below

Interest on the Bonds is payable June 1, 1980, and semiannually thereafter on December 1 and June 1 of each year. The Bonds are issuable as coupon Bonds, registrable as to principal only, in the denomination of $5,000 each, and as fully registered bonds in the denominations of $5,000 or any integral multiple thereof. The principal of and interest on the coupon Bonds will be payable at the principal office of United California Bank, Trustee, in the City of Los Angeles, California, or its successor. The principal of fully registered Bonds or coupon Bonds registered as to principal shall be payable at the principal office of the Trustee, and interest on the fully registered Bonds will be payable by check or draft mailed to the registered owner thereof.

The Bonds are subject to extraordinary mandatory redemption from time to time at a redemption price equal to the principal amount thereof plus accrued interest to the redemption date from mortgage loan prepayments and certain other payments; accordingly, it is expected that a substantial portion of the Bonds will be redeemed prior to their stated maturities. The Bonds are also subject to redemption prior to maturity in the event of the occurrence of certain other circumstances as described in the Official Statement.

The Bonds are issued for the purpose of providing The Midland Housing Finance Corporation with money to acquire mortgage notes secured by mortgages on owner-occupied single family residences (including not more than four units in any condominium project) or two family residences in the City of Midland, Texas, owned by persons of low or moderate income, and to deposit moneys in specified reserve funds and other accounts, as more fully described herein. The mortgage loans will be originated, sold without recourse to The Midland Housing Finance Corporation, and by the Corporation to United California Bank, as Trustee, and serviced by certain home mortgage lending institutions with lending experience acceptable to The Midland Housing Finance Corporation, none of which lending institutions has any obligation with respect to the Bonds.

The Bonds shall be solely the limited obligation of The Midland Housing Finance Corporation issued on behalf of the City of Midland, Texas, and are payable out of the income, revenue and receipts derived by The Midland Housing Finance Corporation from the mortgage loans (including earnings thereon and certain insurance with respect thereto) acquired with Bond proceeds and from certain reserve funds. The Bonds do not constitute an indebtedness, or obligation, general, limited or moral, of the City of Midland, Texas, or of any other city, county, or other municipal or political corporation or subdivision of the State of Texas or of the State of Texas or of a loan of the credit of any of them under any constitutional or statutory provision whatsoever.

LINCOLN VERSAILLES	5.0L/AUTO	15	20

 • Bobcat leads with estimated highest miles-per-gallon. Capri and Zephyr close behind.
 • Cougar XR-7 makes significant mpg ratings gains over 1979 models—especially in highway driving.

Compare our EPA estimates with those for other cars. Your mileage will vary depending on speed, trip length and weather. Highway mileage will probably be less.

Cougars worry UN's Osborne

By CHUCK SCHOFFNER DALLAS (AP) — In most cases, Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne says, an opposing team will have a weakness that can be exploited.

But after extensive study of the University of Houston, Nebraska's opponent in the Cotton Bowl, Osborne concedes he has found no weak links.

"Houston has an exceptional defense and a good offense," Osborne said Wednesday, shortly after the team arrived in Dallas for its final Cotton Bowl preparations.

"About a year ago, (Houston Coach) Bill Yeoman was talking at a meeting about the 30-scholarship limit and he said he had more good athletes now than he ever had."

"I don't know what they had in other years, but after seeing them on film I can tell you that he's got a lot of good ones right now."

Nebraska, 10-1 and runner-up in the Big Eight Conference, conducted its first workout in Dallas at Texas Stadium, home of the Dallas Cowboys.

Osborne said he intends to practice every day until the game, although no heavy contact work is planned.

"We hope to get in five or six good days down here," he said.

Eighth-rated Houston, also 10-1, is co-champion of the Southwest Conference and is the host team for the New-Year's Day classic.

ers had little experience against this year. "Missouri ran the veer, but it's probably the dimension we haven't seen that much," Osborne said. "Houston primarily is an option team and that's different for us. Missouri ran some options, but Phil Bradley is their only quarterback so they didn't run him that much."

cost the Cornhuskers not only the Big Eight title, but a chance for an unbeaten season and the national championship. Osborne said he is confident the players can bounce back from that loss, adding it's not something he reminds them of constantly. "If you want to browbeat them for the Oklahoma game and punish them, it might be something they might not pull out of," he said. "But I think 18, 19 and 20-year-old players are pretty resilient. I expect them to come back from that."

Houston lost to Notre Dame 35-34 last January in the Cotton Bowl in 20-degree temperatures. The wind was blowing so hard the chill factor was 13 degrees below zero. It was 70 degrees when the Cougars arrived in Dallas Wednesday and went through a light workout. "Boy I hope it stays like this," said Coach Bill Yeoman. "I hope we don't ever have to play again in weather as cold as it was last year."

Texas' Eyes on Roger, Earl

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

The eyes of Texas are upon the Houston Oilers training room and Roger Staubach's future.

Three regular patrons with the Oilers' doctors make up most of the team's offense: All-Pro running back Earl Campbell, quarterback Dan Pastorini and wide receiver Ken Burrough. They all are listed as doubtful with groin injuries for Houston's American Football Conference play-off game at San Diego Saturday.

If all three are sidelined, the AFC West champion Chargers will be heavy favorites over the wild-card Oilers.

The Cowboys might need to be concerned with something far more permanent — Staubach's retirement although the ace signal-caller has said he won't decide until next spring whether to return for the 1980 season.

"If we are fortunate to go to the Super Bowl," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, whose National Conference East champions are preparing for a Sunday contest against NFC West titlist Los Angeles, "he might quit this year. Roger has pride and he'll never let himself get over the hill. He'll play as long as he feels he can do the job."

Staubach did such a good job this season that he led the NFL's passing efficiency ratings. But Landry acknowledges that his quarterback has reached the age where all the skills can disappear ... "and it happens all at once."

"But I think he should play another year. He is having one of his best years and he really put us into the division championship."

The Cowboys manhandled the Rams 30-6 Oct. 14 at Texas Stadium, where Sunday's game will be played. Staubach had one of his best games ever in the 1975 NFC championship against the Rams, completing 16 of 26 passes for 220 yards and four touchdowns in a 37-7 victory.

Dallas may have to carry the hopes of the Lone Star state for a Super Bowl contender if Campbell, Pastorini and Burrough are unable to play against the Chargers, who — along with Pittsburgh — had a 12-4 record, tops in the NFL.

Oilers Coach Bum Phillips isn't giving up on his star trio, although he has faith in their substitutes. Of backup QB Gifford Nielsen, Phillips said:

"He's showed me every time he's been in a game that he's capable of starting in this league."

Rob Carpenter would replace Campbell and Rich Caster and Guido Merkens probably would take over for Burrough.

The other Saturday game pits wild-card Philadelphia, which beat Chicago 27-17 last Sunday, at Tampa Bay, on Sunday, defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh entertains Miami.

The Steelers will be hurt by All-Pro linebacker Jack Ham's absence with an ankle injury but that doesn't change Dolphins Coach Don Shula's outlook.

"You go down the roster both ways and they're deep," said Shula. "They've got experienced players backing up every position."

Tide raids Houston to sign big lineman

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The University of Alabama has signed its 28th football player to a Southeastern Conference scholarship.

He is Mark Jackson, a 6-4, 255-pound lineman from Houston, Texas. Jackson was named to the "Super Team" in Texas this year, being one of the top 22 players in the state. He also was first team all-district and all-city at Madison High School in Houston.

He plays center and guard on offense and tackle on defense, and is a snapper on kicking situations.

Anderson quits Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Starting guard Dwight Anderson has quit the second-ranked University of Kentucky basketball team, and the future of two other players is in doubt.

Head basketball Coach Joe B. Hall said Wednesday that Anderson, a 6-3 sophomore and the team's third leading scorer, had decided to leave the university for "personal reasons."

But he refused to confirm or deny reports by Lexington radio station WVKL that freshmen Sam Bowie and Dirk Minniefield will be suspended for one game.

According to the broadcast, the 7-foot-1 Bowie and Minniefield, 6-3, will be suspended for the Notre Dame game Saturday in Louisville but will be reinstated afterwards.

Asked about the suspensions during an impromptu post-practice interview, Hall said, "I don't know anything about that."

In a copyrighted story in today's editions of the Louisville Courier-Journal, Hall is quoted as saying, "I have not suspended them."

But he said he didn't know if the two players would play against Notre Dame.

"There is no truth whatsoever about our suspension. Neither Dirk nor I have been confronted by the coach," said Bowie, the starting center. Minniefield refused to comment.

Both players participated in Kentucky's practice Wednesday afternoon. No reason for the alleged suspensions were given.

Anderson could not be reached for comment at his home in Dayton, Ohio. His father, Joe Walker told the Courier-Journal, "He (Anderson) came home and told me he was leaving. I asked him why and he said, 'It was just something I had to do.'" about enrolling for the second semester. He told the Louisville paper the University of Dayton was one of the schools his son had mentioned.

Walker said Anderson "is getting in touch with several schools right now"

Hall said before Kentucky's opener this year against Duke that Anderson was in academic trouble because he had been missing too many classes.

Although he hasn't seen any grades yet, Hall said he doubted Anderson was having any grade problems.

"Dwight came to me and explained that for personal reasons he was leaving the university at the end of the first semester," the Kentucky coach said. "Dwight is an exceptional player with a great future and we wish him well."

Even before he came to Kentucky, Anderson was known to have academic troubles. A Notre Dame recruiter told the Courier-Journal, "We didn't recruit him because of his academics."

However, Hall chose him over 6-foot-5 Vince Taylor of Lexington, an honor student starting for top-ranked Duke.

It was during last year's game against Notre Dame that Anderson first earned national attention by almost singlehandedly beating the Irish. He scored 17 points in the second half and was named the game's most valuable player.

As a freshman guard-forward, he was the team's second leading scorer with a 13.3-points per game average. This year he switched to guard and his average dropped to 10.7.

"Naturally when you lose someone from the squad you have to make some changes," Hall said of Anderson's departure. "Your depth is decreased a little bit. We still have several guards — good guards — and we'll just have to see what adjustments we'll have to make."

The first semester at Kentucky ended last Friday, which means Anderson's last game as a Wildcat was against Purdue in the finals of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament last Saturday.

Anderson is the second player this year and the fifth scholarship player since Kentucky won the 1978 NCCA championship to leave the team.

Camp makes Junior Miller just about unanimous

The Walter Camp's college football All-America arrived in the mail the other day and Junior Miller was named as the tight end, which should make it about as unanimous as you can get.

Most college stars figure they're doing pretty good if they are consensus picks All-American, but if there is a team the former Midland Lee football-basketball stickout hasn't made, we've yet to see it.

Miller, of course, went off to the University of Nebraska to impress the nation and when the Cornhuskers play the University of Houston in the Cotton Bowl next Tuesday, it will be the 6-4, 240-pound senior's first Lone Star State appearance since he was performing Herculean feats of derring-do for the Rebels right out at Memorial Stadium.

Even before the 1979 season began, those who study such things labeled Miller the best tight end in college football. As a junior, he made opponents and pro scouts sit up and take notice by catching 33 passes for 609 yards and six touchdowns. That was good enough to lead Husker tight ends for most receptions in a season.

ted battles

Last fall, Miller didn't catch quite as many passes, but then he was a marked man. Still, he finished with 21 receptions for 406 yards and a third of the catches were for touchdowns. As a result, he earned the reputation as the Huskers' "big play" man.

If it wasn't before, the nation became aware of Miller in the Penn State game. The Lions jumped off to a 14-0 lead, but the passing combination of quarterback Tim Hager and Miller turned it around in the second quarter, clicking on scoring passes of 11 and 77 yards during a 28-point burst that proved the springboard to a 42-17 win. That was on national TV.

Montgomery, Giles now foes, once teammates

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Philadelphia's Wilbert Montgomery has always been a good football player, says Jimmie Giles, the tight end for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. And Giles should know.

He and Montgomery played together on the state champion 11-0 Greenville (Miss.) High School team in 1972.

The one-time teammates will be opponents Saturday when the Eagles meet the Bucs in Tampa Stadium in the second round of the National Football League playoffs.

Montgomery rushed for 1,512 yards for Philadelphia this year to finish the No. 3 rusher in the National Football Conference.

Giles was one of five ends in the league to lead his team in pass receiving this season. He paced the Bucs with 40 catches for 579 yards and seven touchdowns.

Giles says he remembers that Montgomery once threw his clothes out a window at Jackson State to get away from the Chicago Bear's Walter Payton.

After high school Giles headed for Alcorn State and Montgomery to Jackson State.

"He ran away from Jackson State," Giles says. "They had Payton and some other running backs and Wilbert was only a freshman. He didn't see how he could play."

"He had to wait his turn. He wasn't going to move Payton out so he was going home. They had two coaches who tried to keep him there," Giles said. "But he called a guy from Abilene Christian and threw his clothes out the window and left."

Montgomery went on to score 76 touchdowns at Abilene Christian and led his team to the NAIA Championship with 37 TD's in his freshman year.

Conquering Pack returns home to play Snyder

By Bob Dillon R-T Sports Writer

Coach Jack Stephenson's Midland High Bulldogs, fresh from winning the rugged San Antonio Optimist Classic Basketball Tournament last weekend, entertain the Class AAA Snyder Tigers tonight in a pair of games at the Chaparral Center on the Midland College campus.

The junior varsity contest is set for 6:15 p.m. with the varsity tip-off set for 8 p.m. Midland already has beaten the Tigers, 68-63 in a game played in Snyder back on Dec. 11.

THE PURPLE Pack took five straight victories in the San Antonio tourney, beating San Antonio MacArthur, Houston Waltrip, Roosevelt of San Antonio, San Antonio Highlands and Houston Westchester in the championship game.

Midland sports a 17-3 record going into tonight's game with the Tigers. Coach Paul Stueckler's Midland Lee Rebels, with an 8-8 season record, wait until Friday to resume play after the short Christmas break. The Rebs lost to Andrews, 81-76 on Dec. 21 in their last outing on the road. Lee plays the Silver Foxes from El Pas Jefferson in games Friday and Saturday night in the Chaparral Center in varsity action only at 8 p.m. each night.

ALSO ON Friday night, the Midland Lee girls play Odessa Ector at 6 p.m. in Chap Center while the girl JV game begins at 4 p.m. Originally, the girls game had been scheduled for Lee High. Saturday, Le opens 5-4A play against Abilene at AHS and Midland High hosts Abilene Cooper at MHS gym. JV game starts at 6:15 and varsity at 8 p.m. Saturday.

To round out high school action on Saturday night in boys play, while Lee is paying Jefferson a Midland College, Stephenson's Pack will play at Fort Stockton at 6:15 p.m. and 8 p.m. to end non-district action.

The boys open 5-4A play, Jan. 4 with Midland playing Odessa Permian at the Chaparral Center and Lee playing the Odessa Bronchos in the OH Fieldhouse.

Boston College, St. John's advance to Festival Finals

NEW YORK (AP) — For a few seconds there, Tom Davis felt as if his Boston College Eagles had been grounded.

"I tried not to look disappointed," said the Boston College basketball coach. "I knew my guys were, and I didn't want to show them that I was, too."

This sensitive moment occurred in the final 10 seconds of overtime of Boston College's game with 17th-ranked Georgetown in the opener of the Holiday Festival Tournament at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

The Eagles had just dropped behind 74-73 on a jumper by Georgetown's John Duren, and things looked grim.

But not hopeless, it turned out.

Given one last shot, the Eagles made it at the buzzer, a 12-footer by Vin Caraher, to upset the Hoyas 75-74. The victory earned the Eagles a spot in Friday night's finals against 15th-ranked St. John's, a 68-58 winner over Lafayette in the night's second game.

IT APPEARED that Georgetown had won it finally on Duren's 15-footer off the steal of an inbounds pass. But the Eagles' Jim Sweeney dribbled the length of the court, moving through the porous Georgetown defense like a shot, and passed off to Caraher after finding no room in the middle.

The 6-foot-6 forward banked it off the glass as the buzzer sounded.

"The play was not designed to go to Caraher," said Davis. "Sweeney was supposed to penetrate, and if not swing out and throw to one of the guards."

Caraher wound up with 15 points, while John Bagley led the winners with 17, 13 of them in the second half to help the Eagles rally from an 11-point deficit to tie at the end of regulation at 66-66.

The second game was tame by comparison, even though it was close most of the way. St. John's broke it open with an eight-point run in the last seven minutes.

The burst gave the Redmen a 59-50 lead with 5:10 remaining and they coasted home from there. Wayne McKay led the Redmen with 18 points, including two of them to trigger that game-breaking 8-0 spurt.

"They had a tough zone to crack," said St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca. "In the second half, we got more patient and played better defense. That was really the key to the game."

ELSEWHERE, 18th-ranked Oregon State and 20th-ranked Brigham Young won their openers in the Far West Classic in Portland, Ore.

Jeff Stouff and Mark Radford combined for 38 points and ignited a second-half burst that led Oregon State to a 100-59 romp over Idaho. The Oregon State trio of Stout, Radford and Ray Blume sank 14 of their first 15 shots in the second half, helping the Beavers to a runaway 59-35 lead with 14:57 left.

Blume had a tournament record of 11 assists, breaking the old mark of 10 set last year by Michigan State's Earvin "Magic" Johnson and Oregon State's Dwayne Allen.

Devin Durant's three-point play triggered a late Brigham Young rally as the Cougars struggled to victory over Penn State. The underdog Nittany Lions had rallied to tie the score at 47 before Durant took charge.

Durant grabbed a missed BYU shot with 3:54 remaining, made the basket and was fouled. He hit the free throw to make it 50-47 and later added another free throw with 1:49 left and Penn State could never get closer than four points again.

At Williams scored a game-high 25 points as North Texas State defeated San Jose State 72-61 in the opener of the All-College Tournament in Oklahoma City. Joe Ivory scored 24 points, leading Louisiana Tech to a 79-72 victory over Oklahoma City in the second game.

James Ray scored 20 points and Steve Tutson had 18 as Jacksonville scored a 58-43 decision over William & Mary in the Gator Bowl tourney. Florida whipped Iowa 63-59 in the other opening-round double-header behind Reggie Hannah's 29 points.

Ashe bounces back from heart surgery

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — They pried Arthur Ashe's ribs apart as if they were giant springs and unclogged four arteries from his heart as a plumber might fix the pipes of a balky kitchen sink.

"It was a matter of numbers," the 36-year-old tennis champion said calmly as he relaxed in his 18th floor East Side New York apartment Wednesday, two weeks after undergoing delicate quadruple bypass surgery.

"You can say I've had a plumbing job. I've got a brand new pumping system now. My heart is stronger than it's been in three or four years."

It's comforting, particularly in this holiday season, to talk to a man of Ashe's unflagging fighting spirit and tremendous resolve under circumstances that would crush most of us normal human beings.

Few could discuss the ordeal with such blithe openness.

specter with the cold nerve that marked his U.S. Open and Wimbledon championships and an 11-1 record in a decade of Davis Cup competition.

HE NEVER wilted from the challenge. Always playing against formidable odds, he disdained the short cut. On the court and off it, he met the battle head on.

He was a scrawny, frail-looking kid when he came out of Richmond, Va., to join the fierce tennis circuit.

He was a black man striving to make it in a stuffy, white man's world. He had to wear glasses to correct faulty eyesight. He was plagued by a heel injury. Yet he stuck it out.

"Looking back, I know I could have been a better tennis player if I had been more single-minded about the game," he said, "but I would have been less fulfilled as a person."

"I wouldn't have changed any of it."

Ashe acknowledged that his career has been marked by heavy racial pressures.

"WHEN I get off the court I feel I have to do something for my race, for society," he said. "Secretly, I suppose I wish I could have left an indelible mark in the sport — it's something every super star aspires to. Tennis has its 'Tilden Era,' its 'Budge Era,' even its 'Rod Laver Era' and Bjorn Borg Era. There will be no 'Arthur Ashe Era.'"

"Now I am back to square one. I love tennis. I don't plan to retire. But, entering 1980, I must look to my ongoing things."

Even without tennis, Arthur Ashe does not find himself bereft of interests and challenges. He has a new racket being readied by the company he has represented for years. He endorses a clothing line in France. He is tennis director at Doral Country Club in Miami.

He is consultant for a life insurance firm. He is involved with black kids and racial inequalities. He is up to his ear lobes in the Ted Kennedy presidential campaign. And he helps encourage the professional photography career of his wife, Jeanne.

"It's quite obvious I can't concentrate on tennis as I once did," he says. "But who knows? Maybe see you at Wimbledon."

ASHE SUFFERED a heart attack in Jacksonville, Fla., on July 31. He was well along on his rehabilitation program, even swinging the racket again, when he was stricken with new chest pains earlier this month.

"I woke up at 1 a.m. with these heavy palpitations," he explained. "It was scary as hell, realizing I had these narrow arteries and not knowing whether this might be the end."

Most of us would have panicked but Arthur waited until morning and checked with his doctor. He faced a choice: Go on a strict regimen of diet and exercise to clear the arteries or submit to open heart surgery, a frightening thought.

"I went with the percentages," he said. "The odds were against me that I could whip the problem with diet and exercise. I knew that the operation was being done successfully in Houston, Cleveland and New York. I found that there was only a 1 percent chance of not surviving and an 8 percent chance of having another attack on the operating table."

"So I contacted Dr. John E. Hutchinson and told him, 'Okay, let's go at it.'"

It was a microcosm of Arthur Ashe's whole life. He faced the

Tar Heels' Crum concerned over Bo's game plans

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — North Carolina Coach Dick Crum isn't concerned that Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler won't tell him who the Wolverines will start at quarterback in Friday night's Gator Bowl game. But Crum is plenty worried that the Wolverines are starting two big, fast tailbacks in the same backfield.

Schembechler has been experimenting with Butch Woolfolk and Stanley Edwards in the same backfield and the Michigan coach said Wednesday he liked the results.

"Practices have been very good," Schembechler said. "Stanley has looked better at fullback than I thought he would. And he's so quick getting to the hole. He kind of reminds me of Rob Lytle."

Edwards, a 6-foot-1, 205-pound junior from Detroit, started the season at tailback for Michigan and gained 618 yards before injuring an ankle against Minnesota in the sixth game. Woolfolk, a 6-1, 207-pound sophomore from Westfield, N.J., stepped in and finished the season with 927 yards.

"I think it will add another dimension with Woolfolk and Edwards in the same backfield," Crum said. "I really don't know what to expect, but I'm sure it will alter their sequence. That could throw us off."

SCHEMBECHLER indicated he would use both B.J. Dickey and John Wampler at quarterback, but refused to say which one would start.

"I think it just makes North Carolina's job of defending us a little tougher when they don't know who will start," Schembechler said.

Dickey, who gained 242 yards rushing, is considered the better runner, while Wampler, who completed 72 of 122 pass attempts, is easily the better passer.

Senior Matt Kupec, a 6-1, 193-pounder from Syoset, N.Y., will handle the quarterbacking for the Tar Heels. Kupec now holds virtually every North Carolina passing record, but is generally considered a poor runner.

On the ground, North Carolina relies mainly upon Amos Lawrence, a 5-10, 180-pounder from Norfolk, Va., who is known as "famous Amos" around Chapel Hill.

knows, if a Cornell Green or Preston Pearson can swap college basketball careers for NFL careers, maybe the NBA might try to reverse the procedure and draft Junior as a sleeper.

Junior thus becomes Midland's second footballer to earn All-America recognition. Tom Branahan, a center back in Jack Mildren's heyday at Oklahoma, made it back in the early 1970s and is now with the St. Louis Cardinals. Tom went to Midland High, so now both Tall City high schools have an All-America to brag about.

Rockets beat Spurs

By Associated Press

The owner of the Houston Rockets wants to see his team take off — soon. It might already have done so if it had kept Mike Newlin.

The Rockets, 16-49 and tied for fourth in the National Basketball Association's Central Division, broke a six-game losing streak by pelting cross-state rival San Antonio 143-110 Wednesday night. The victory came on the heels of team owner George M. Moore's indictment of his club for its "negative approach."

Nets 116, Bulls 104—Newlin's performance equaled Elvin Hayes' 37-point output for the Bulls. Winford Boynes scored all 14 of his points down the stretch to help the Nets break a three-game losing streak.

Kings 118, Lakers 111—Sam Lacey dominated the boards with 21 rebounds and scored 18 points as he outplayed Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Pacers 98, Pistons 97—Detroit lost its eighth consecutive game as Mickey Johnson hit a pair of free throws for the decisive points. Detroit's John Long missed a shot at the buzzer that could have won the game.

Bucks 110, Bulls 101—Junior Bridgeman scored 12 of his 23 points in the final quarter and Marques Johnson also had 23 for the Bucks.

Nuggets 99, Warriors 94—Dan Issel more than made up for the absence of suspended George McGinnis and injured David Thompson from the Denver lineup by pouring in 39 points.

Suns 119, Trail Blazers 99—Phoenix won its 12th straight game, riding balanced scoring that saw Len Robinson hit for 21 points, Paul Westphal for 20, Walter Davis for 19 and Mike Bratz for 14.

SuperSonics 124, Clippers 104—A 14-point spree by Dennis Johnson in the third quarter paced Seattle. The Sonics outscored San Diego 31-8 in a 7½-minute span of that period.

UNM prexy awaits council verdict

By KENT WALZ

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The University of New Mexico president, who has won the backing of the school's regents for his handling of UNM athletic program troubles, was awaiting word today on whether the school's Athletic Council also would support his action.

UNM President William E. Davis said Wednesday that an intense investigation into the school's athletic program already was in progress when a professor questioned the eligibility of a star basketball player.

The council met for four hours to discuss comments by Charles Coates, a journalism professor, that he had alerted university officials to problems in the program prior to their action on it.

Coates said he wrote to Davis on Oct. 18 asking how Larry Belin, a returning All-Western Athletic Conference player, could be eligible after failing a summer course.

"Belin and Coach Charlie Harrison both told me that he would not be eligible without the course,"

Coates told the university's Athletic Council. "Belin told me he was going back to Detroit."

Davis told the council that at the time of Coates' memo, Dean of Admissions Robert Weaver was "deeply involved" in the general investigation of transfer credits.

"Additionally, a university counsel whom I hired, was also specifically investigating problems concerning academic eligibility of basketball players," Davis said.

But Weaver told the council he didn't begin his probe until "late September or early October."

And Peter Johnstone, the Albuquerque attorney hired by Davis to prepare a response to National Collegiate Athletic Association charges that UNM had 57 rules violations, said he initially checked only an old transcript raised in the NCAA probe.

"The first time any current transcript problems were brought to my attention was just prior to the release of the wiretap," he said.

Alexander upset; Chargers pronounced fit. Three more seeded players, including John Alexander, the No. 2 seed, were sidelined Wednesday in the $362,000 Australian Open tennis tournament.

The San Diego Chargers were pronounced in good physical shape today, with the exception of rookie standout Kelley Winslow which means wide receivers, John Jefferson and Charley Joiner, will be ready for the AFC playoff game Saturday against Houston.

Denver Nuggets' forward George McGinnis withdrew his request for a hearing on his suspension by NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien and will begin serving a reduced penalty immediately.

Kevin Keegan, star of England and West German League team S.V. Hamburg was named Garden State Bowl-Temple 26, California 17.

Atlanta (AP) — It was late in the Gator Bowl a year ago when all the trouble started for Clemson middle guard Charlie Bauman.

Ohio State's last chance of winning, then was slugged by Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes, which led to the veteran coach being fired.

Bauman, who will start for the Tigers when they face Baylor Monday in the Peach Bowl.

he said: "I'm a football player and I'd like to be known as a football player — an All-Atlantic Coast Conference middle guard, or an All-America or something."

European soccer player of the year for the second straight season...Lloyd's Gold, a South Australian 3-year-old, upset Mighty Kingdom's bid to become Australia's greatest stakes-earner with a thrilling victory in the $250,000 Australian Derby at Ascot Wednesday.

As for the second article dealing with Cuban bass fishing, we're going to relate to you how the Cuban bass fishing relates to other bass fishing reservoirs, how to go about catching a trophy fish and best baits to use.

The Cuban fishing adventure, sponsored by the Cuban government, was a check-out trip for Ron Speed, who for the most part will be operating a charter fishing service beginning in late January or February. Although the Cuban government sponsored the trip for Speed, he hand-picked the fishermen he wanted to take and help him explore the lake and country.

Two of the most well-known fishermen in the world, Bobby Murray and Jim Rogers were invited because of their knowledge on bass fishing. Murray has won the Bass Masters Classic twice. Rogers, on the other hand, is known for his fishing knowledge.

The trip was set up for three days of fishing. As it turned out, our group needed another day to really determine the lake's possibilities. The first two days, it rained like we've never seen before. On the final fishing day, it cleared and fishing was at its finest.

We mentioned in our first story that Lake Cuyaguatje and the four other lakes on the Pinar del Rio River chain are full of various kinds of vegetation. This setting makes for perfect largemouth bass habitat. This is also the reason for these lakes growing such tremendous numbers of good-sized bass.

We were told prior to the trip that long 11 and 12-inch plastic worms were the best baits for catching trophy-size bass.

MURRAY TOLD us he always prefers larger baits to catch the bigger bass. And thinking about it, that makes sense. It worked on all the lakes we fished. We were using "Mr. Twister" 11-inch black curly-tail worms. I had never seen a plastic worm that long, much less fish one. But it worked.

From the time we hit the Cuban waters, until we left, we caught fish of every size on those giant worms. The smaller bass — from one-four pounds — would take the worms just as well as larger fish.

Explained Murray: "I like the large plastic worms, especially in these Cuban lakes because a major part of these largemouths' diet consists of large eel...I honestly believe you could catch more fish, even smaller ones, on the larger worms than on the shorter worms, due to the size of the eels in the lake."

Continued Murray: "Another reason I think the large worms are a good bait is from watching the Cuban fishermen. I watched them hook on those huge 12-18-inch live eels, toss their line out and wait. Sooner or later, I would see them pull in a bass. And it was usually a huge fish."

We found the best way to fish the large plastic worms was to work it around the shallow points where heavy vegetation was present. A 1/8-ounce bullet weight above the worm and hook was a great combination. The weight was not too heavy, therefore it would keep the worm rig above the mass of water weeds, so the bait could work just above the vegetation. It seems that the fish were hiding in the heavy growth and would blast up from their underwater hiding place and strike the worm as it glided atop them. There was no way to go wrong fishing by this method and it proved itself as the best bait over and over again.

Pre-Olympic tournament resorts to NHL brawling

An AP Sports Analysis
By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Swedish player had taken enough abuse. After being slashed for perhaps the 10th time in the game, he simply dropped his gloves and started punching his adversary.

Sound familiar? Sure, it could happen in just about any National Hockey League rink, where open season obviously has been declared on the non-combative European athletes and players with IQs slightly higher than plant life have gotten away with blatant assault.

But this incident happened last week at the pre-Olympic hockey tournament at Lake Placid, N.Y., where the Swede was forward Harald Lueckner and his adversary was Soviet defenseman Vladimir Durdin.

"They play rough," observed Swedish Coach Jan-Erik Nilsson, speaking of the Soviets. "Sometimes, you have to meet them with the same weapon."

His statement did not make it any less repugnant to watch two "sportsmen" flailing away at each other. It was a blight on a 10-game tournament that featured some wonderfully entertaining games and a marked lack of the brawling that has become as much a characteristic of NHL play as the mentally aberrant "dump the puck and chase it" style people are paying $10 and more to watch.

PAY ATTENTION to those last two words: "To watch." Nowhere in that phrase is permission included "To punch players," and nowhere in the standard player's contract is permission extended "to go into the stands to punch back at spectators who punch first."

If a cliché ever applied, it is that two wrongs do not make a right. In this case, of course, there are many more wrongs than two: —The referees cannot be excused for what has been a terrible 10 weeks of officiating. With extremely rare exception, the referees have been thorough only in their inconsistency; the victims, too often, are pacific players who are slashed and sticked so often it seems someone started a tic-tac-toe board on their chests.

—The European players cannot be excused for abiding by "the laws of survival." Less than a month ago,

New York Islanders left wing Clark Gillies jumped Swedish-born Vancouver defenseman Lars Lindgren from behind. Lindgren curled into a fetal position on the ice as soon as Gillies began the attack. Later, Gillies said Lindgren had cross-checked him in the head. Sounds like two wrongs, doesn't it?

But a fact is a fact: If European players sign NHL contracts for big North American dollars, they can expect to pay dearly the price of the sticks that will gouge their flesh. They are entitled, however, to protection through the enforcement of clearly worded rules — and that has not been forthcoming from the referees.

If European players foul, they should be penalized. So should Canadian-born, American-born, Argentine, and Czechoslovakian players.

—NHL management, and that goes right up to President John Ziegler, cannot be excused its inaction. Ziegler, unfortunately for him, is an employee of the owners who abet these assaults by allowing them to continue. He will say he is not empowered to put his foot down on thugs, goons and other ne'er-do-wells who keep finding their way into NHL uniforms; but that stance is becoming more and more unacceptable from people with common sense.

ON MARCH 30, the day the NHL approved expansion and signaled the end of the World Hockey Association, Ziegler said he saw the move "Not as the end of the WHA but the threshold of the rejuvenation of hockey in North America."

If he saw it that way, if that resurgence is to take place, one of the first steps must be the enforced end of violence and unnecessary fouls, no matter the homeland of the player. There is no place for it, and matters have passed the point of excuse.

Someone will categorize as "an isolated incident" the Bruins' climbing into the Madison Square Garden seats to fight four spectators. That someone is wrong. It is isolated in all the other sports that rightly call themselves "major."

Hockey is unique in its permission of violence. In basketball and baseball, a participant is ejected from a game for excessive argument with game officials.

1979 BASEBALL IN REVIEW
Pittsburgh rules in baseball world

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Baseball's old order changed in 1979. After three straight years in which the divisions were dominated by essentially the same teams, new clubs moved to the top last summer.

Pittsburgh fought a tense September struggle with Montreal before prevailing in the National League East. The West went to Cincinnati, which held off a surprisingly strong challenge from Houston.

In the American League, Baltimore won the East in a runaway while California captured the West, its first title in 18 seasons.

And what of the fallen former champions? Philadelphia, which had won three straight NL East titles, signed free agent Pete Rose, and then tumbled to fourth place. It was hardly Rose's fault. He batted .331, second best in the league, assembled a 23-game hitting streak — longest in the majors — and reached 200 hits for the 10th time in his career, breaking Ty Cobb's record.

Los Angeles, winner of two straight NL West championships, fell into the cellar at midseason and then recovered to finish a distant third.

In the American League, the New York Yankees' string of three straight pennants was shattered as they fell to fourth place in the East, their season cloaked in mourning after the tragic death of catcher Thurman Munson in the crash of his private jet. Kansas City gave California a run in the West but wound up second, ending a stretch of three straight division wins.

Managers were dismissed with alarming regularity as teams searched for the right combination.

In the AL, Bob Lemon, who had piloted the Yankees to a nearly miraculous comeback for the world championship a year earlier, was dismissed in mid-June, replaced by controversial Billy Martin, who was returning to the job. Martin made it through the season and then was fired in the aftermath of an October hotel lobby brawl with a marshall/salesman. Dick Howser was named to replace him.

Detroit dropped Les Moss when it had a chance to get ex-Cincinnati skipper Sparky Anderson. Jeff Torborg was excused in favor of Dave Garcia at Cleveland and Bobby Mattick replaced Roy Hartsfield at Toronto. Don Kessinger resigned at midseason as player-manager of the Chicago White Sox, replaced by Tony LaRussa. Whitey Herzog was fired at Kansas City with the job going to ex-Baltimore Coach Jim Frey.

The job security for managers wasn't much better in the NL. Dave Bristol took over at San Francisco for Joe Altobelli and Jerry Coleman was summoned from the broadcast booth to replace Roger Craig in San Diego. Herman Franks quit at Chicago, replaced by Preston Gomez, and Danny Ozark departed Philadelphia with the job going to longtime farm director Dallas Green.

In the NL playoffs, Pittsburgh swept three straight from Cincinnati as Willie Stargell's bat beat a steady tattoo on the Reds. Baltimore needed four games to eliminate California for the AL pennant.

That set up a World Series between the two winningest teams in baseball, a rematch of the 1971 Series won by the Pirates in seven games.

The Orioles won three of the first four contests and had Pittsburgh on the ropes. But Stargell rallied his team and the Pirates swept the last three games to win the title. It marked only the fourth time since the Series went to its modern best-of-seven format that a team had come back from a 3-1 deficit to win.

Stargell batted .400 with 12 hits including four doubles and three home runs in the Series. His two-run homer was the decisive shot in Pittsburgh's 4-1 seventh-game victory and he was named the Series' Most Valuable Player.

Less than a month later, Stargell shared National League MVP honors with St. Louis' Keith Hernandez, who led the league with a .344 batting average. It was the first time in the 49-year history of the award that the MVP balloting ended in a tie. Don Baylor of California was the AL MVP.

Relief ace Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs, who led the majors with 37 saves, won the National League Cy Young award and Baltimore's 23-game winner, Mike Flanagan, captured the AL Cy Young. The AL rookie of the year award ended in a tie between Minnesota third baseman John Castino and shortstop Alfredo Griffin of Toronto. The NL rookie of the year was Los Angeles pitcher Rick Sutcliffe.

As memorable as the performances of the award winners in 1979 were the achievements of a pair of baseball's senior citizens — Lou Brock of St. Louis and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston. Each reached the 3,000-hit plateau, becoming only the 14th and 15th players in major league history to accomplish that feat. Yaz also became only the third player in history and the first in the American League to combine 3,000 hits with 400 home runs.

The season had started with labor strife as major league umpires staged a seven-week strike. But the problem hardly dented baseball's popularity and the sport attracted a record 43 million fans to major league games. The prosperity was evident in the free agent market when pitcher Nolan Ryan signed with Houston, becoming baseball's first $1 million per year player.

But negotiations for a new basic agreement between management and the players cast a long shadow over 1980. This labor showdown promises to be every bit as difficult as the one with the umpires was.

Winfield denies he will leave San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dave Winfield, the slugging star of the lowly San Diego Padres, says it isn't so — that he plans to leave the National League club next year when his option expires.

Reacting to an article in January's issue of Sport Magazine, Winfield denied saying he will test the free agent market next November.

Winfield told The San Diego Tribune that "the writer took a lot of stuff completely out of context."

He called the article "inflammatory and said Los Angeles writer David Shaw "comes out and states I'm going to play out my option. Well, the man was making a supposition. I never said that."

For Winfield to stay, as agent Al Frohman told The Tribune "they (the Padres) have to get a No. 5 hitter. They just have to. Dave can't go another season like that last one... He has to have someone who can swing the bat behind him."

In the article, Winfield — who led the NL in runs batted in — was quoted as saying that many of his teammates were "just glad to be here."

'Seven Sisters' magazines try image change spin-off publications to attract 'New Women'

The Los Angeles Times

NEW YORK — After World War II, women joyfully poured out of factories eager to return to newly prosperous homes as housewives. Advertisers followed them right in, through the pages of Ladies Home Journal, McCall's, Good Housekeeping and Redbook.

But in the last 10 years, millions of women have streamed back into the workforce, and again advertisers are right behind them. Well, not quite behind because they are not sure where the women are going.

For almost a century, advertisers have relied on magazines aimed at women, such as Ladies Home Journal, Good Housekeeping, McCall's, Redbook, Better Homes & Gardens, Woman's Day and Family Circle. The seven sisters, as they are called in advertising circles, disperse information on the home, garden and children.

But old housewife sales cliches have become passe. No longer is the woman confined to her kitchen, scrubbing dishes until she can see her face in them. She has less time for Madge the Manicurist, and squeezing the Charmin has become a bore.

Women in the 1970s have emerged from the docile housewife role of the 1950s. No longer do they respond predictably and en masse to advertising.

"WHEN I GOT MARRIED years ago," says one middle-aged female executive, "I bought Good Housekeeping and Ladies Home Journal to learn how to keep house. Now, I'm trying to forget how to."

Women today are in search of information related to money, work, the world, travel and coping with worker-homemaker lifestyles.

Such attitudinal changes have spawned a new generation of women's magazines. There is Savvy for the executive woman; Working Woman for upcoming managerial females; Enterprising Women for entrepreneurs; Working Mothers, New Woman and others.

The seven sisters have tried to keep pace with contemporary women by incorporating columns and articles on jobs, finances and changing lifestyles. Still, with one foot firmly entrenched in the past and the other in the present, the seven sisters are in somewhat of a quandary.

"A magazine must occupy a slot," says William J. Abbott, marketing director of Self, a new women's magazine. "Irrespective of how much a (service) magazine updates to a new marketplace, it can't forsake the homemaker."

So some of the seven sisters and other women's magazines have elected instead to spin off new magazines. McCall's, for example, spun off Working Mother. It was originally planned as an annual but is now a bimonthly.

SIMILARLY, CONDE NAST, which publishes such fashion magazines as Vogue, Harpers Bazaar, Mademoiselle and Glamour, launched Self, its first new monthly in 39 years. Self, which made its debut earlier this year, focuses on self-improvement.

Currently, Family Circle is studying the possibility of increasing the frequency of its Women Who Work annual.

It is too early to tell what kind of an impact the new magazines are having. During the first six months of this year, newsstand sales of all seven sisters were down. The number of ad pages for all but Family Circle, also are down for the year.

Executives at the seven sisters attribute the dip to the economy, which indeed has cut into overall newsstand sales of magazines.

"When you go to the checkout stand at a supermarket and see what the checker is ringing up, it's scary," said Vivian Cadden, editor of Working Mother. "Women think twice before adding a $1.50 for magazine to that terrible total that is the food bill."

The seven sisters appear to have a stodgy image with younger women.

LADIES HOME JOURNAL'S updated theme, "A different kind of magazine for a different time of women," sounds like it's for women in menopause," one female attorney said.

Few magazines have successfully repositioned themselves. One notable exception is Cosmopolitan, which under the direction of Helen Gurley Brown moved out of the women's service category into a niche of its own.

Some of the new magazines are independent ventures. Working Woman, for example, appears to be making a comeback after riding the precipitous edge of bankruptcy less than two years ago. It was originally aimed at all types of workers but now caters to up-and-coming managerial women.

Savvy, the brainchild of Judith Daniels, a former managing editor at New York magazine and Village Voice, is a new venture for Alan Bennett, publisher of the year-and-a-half-old American Photography.

EACH OF THE NEW MAGAZINES — including the spinoffs by existing publications — focuses on a specific theme and provides a range of information related to its topic — work, mothering or a woman's personal universe. They include, but usually downplay, traditional women's subjects like food, fashion, home and beauty.

As one woman described it, the new magazines are "surrogate mentors for things your mother didn't tell you because she just didn't experience them."

Generally, the new magazines, except for Self, are aiming for circulation numbers that are only a fraction of the multimillion figures of the seven sisters. McCall's, for example, has a circulation of 6.2 million. Savvy has a circulation of 125,000.

Young artists to compete for $7,000

The 18th annual National Young Artist Competition, sponsored by the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale, Inc., will be held Jan. 25 and 26 in Midland.

Winners of the contest will receive $7,000 in prize money contributed by local individuals and foundations.

Registered students in secondary schools, colleges, universities, conservatories and institutes of music are eligible for the competition if they have not reached their 26th birthday before Jan. 25.

Judges will be Mary Costa, an operatic soprano; Paul Olefsky, professor of cello and chamber music at The University of Texas at Austin; Samuel Jones, professor of conducting and composition at Rice University; Elsa Ludwig-Verdehr, a clarinetist; and Hanni Schmid-Wyss, a pianist.

ZZ Top soon to present show at Ector Coliseum

ZZ Top, "that little old band from Texas" which reached a peak of popularity before disappearing completely in 1976, will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Jan. 12 in the Ector County Coliseum.

The Texas rock group is making the tour to promote its recently released album, Deguello.

ZZ Top, a three-member rock band, had two gold and three platinum albums from 1971 to 1976. The group's last tour, the year-long Worldwide Texas Tour, sold 1.2 million tickets and grossed $11.5 million.

Immediately after the tour, the group disappeared from public view. Their current album and tour is the first time the band has been heard from in four years.

Tickets for the concert are on sale in Midland at Record Center and at Flipside Records in Odessa, Hobbs, Abilene and San Angelo.

World War II operative leads calm life now

WARDEN, Wash. (AP) — After hectic times as a Basque operative in the French Resistance during World War II, Miguel Etulain says he's satisfied with life as a feedlot manager and farmer.

Etulain cherishes a personal letter of commendation from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander, and an article about his World War II adventures which appeared in a national magazine's overseas edition.

He still shows traces of bitterness over the policies imposed in Spain during his boyhood years by the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who banned the teaching of the Basque language in school, the showing of the Basque flag and almost any gathering of Basques.

dancer, says that dancing has become associated with the profane only in modern times, and he is trying to restore it as an accepted form of worship. (Los Angeles Times Photos by Harry Chase)

Unusual instructor teaches students liturgical dance at California school

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — John West touched the phonograph arm to the record and strode to the center of a long wall of mirrors.

West and the dozen students behind him spread their arms and began to move as warm jazz notes came through the loudspeakers.

Then a strong soprano voice spoke slowly: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.

Some of the students danced skillfully, leaning, spinning, gesturing in unison with their teacher.

There also were neophytes who looked up frequently to keep pace, sometimes fell a step behind or turned the wrong way.

Yet their expressions were clear and strong as they clasped their arms across their hearts while the song continued:

Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven.

The Lord's Prayer is hardly standard material for a modern dance class.

West's class at Loyola Marymount University in the Westchester area of Los Angeles, although it concentrates on the standard movements and techniques of modern dance, teaches something quite different: liturgical dance. Its goals are as different as the students taking it.

Some of them hope to enhance their own sense of worship, to experiment with a new way to reach out to God.

"I would never be a professional dancer," said one of the most skilled students in the class. "I would never have stayed with dancing if it hadn't been a vehicle to express my love of God."

For others, the class gives an experience not found in most dance classes.

"Dance is something that is freeing," said one of the two Catholic nuns in the class. "You might feel inhibited about the way your body looks to other people. Dance frees you of that."

For West, the class offers the chance to help others examine a new form of personal worship and to develop new dancers.

West, a professional dancer, director of a sacred dance group and teacher of dance, said he enjoys dancing his way through social barriers, as he did when he tried to recruit students for a modern dance class at the boys' school where he teaches English.

"I did the impossible," he said. "They told me boys will not dance. I said boys will dance. They're dancing. And that's it."

But above all, West is a Catholic whose professional mission is to make his dancing an instrument of traditional worship.

In modern times, traditional Western churches have put up a barrier against public dancing, he said.

295,000 Datsuns recalled by Nissan

DETROIT (AP) — A potential safety defect in Datsun automobiles which could cause a prolonged high idle has prompted the automaker to recall more than 295,000 vehicles it built between 1975 and 1979.

Nissan U.S.A., which manufactures Datsun cars, said Wednesday it is recalling a total of 295,710 of its 1975-79 280-Z and 1977-79 810 model cars to correct the potential safety problem.

Officials at Nissan's Carson, Calif., headquarters said in an announcement released in Detroit that sub-zero temperatures, coupled with high humidity moisture from the cars' blow-by ventilation system, could offset throttle system components, causing a prolonged high idle.

A potentially hazardous situation could occur should the cars be driven on snow- or ice-covered roads before the vehicle is fully warmed up, the automaker said.

Company officials said no accidents related to the problem have been reported.

Datsun dealers will install a new PCV system and perform a system integrity check on all of the recalled vehicles at no charge to the owners, the company said.

An initial supply of parts will reach dealers in cold-climate states by early January 1980, said the automaker. Parts should reach dealers in the rest of the nation by mid-February.

Firefighters' sick-out probe ordered by city

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Salt Lake City Commission wants an investigation of the Christmas Day sick-out by firefighters disgruntled over the city's failure to meet their pay demands.

Fifty-two of 98 firefighters scheduled to go on duty Christmas morning called in sick. The action had been rumored after the city refused to reopen contract talks with the firefighters' union and provide an additional 7 percent pay increase.

City-county health officials went to the homes of some of the firefighters who called in sick to determine whether they were ill, or whether their action was in fact a wildcat strike.

Battalion Chief Marvin Kimball said no one called in sick Wednesday, and many of those who had their names placed on the sick list Christmas Day called in to have them taken off.

Mayor Ted Wilson said he was glad the firefighters were "now acting responsibly," but he said the end of the sick-out won't change his mind about an investigation of whether there was any union involvement in the protest.

Fire Chief Evan Baker could take disciplinary action against any firefighter who called in sick, but who was later found to be well. But since doctors couldn't get to the homes of all of those who called in sick, disciplinary action might be applied unevenly.

The city commission voted to hire an outside investigator to look into allegations the union was involved in the sick-out.

A new contract signed in July gave firefighters a 7 percent pay raise retroactive to April. Current salaries range from $984 to $1,526 a month.

Governor schedules meeting on Chicago financial crisis

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson says he is dispatching aides for meetings with representatives of the city, school board, teachers' union and banks to try to resolve the Chicago school system's financial crisis.

The school board, which has about $9 million on hand, missed a $41.5 million payroll for 48,600 employees last Friday and faces another payroll next week.

Thompson said the meetings today and Friday are intended to see if any of the parties have changed their positions and to find out what it would take for them to enter a "financial partnership" with the state to meet "the short-term needs of the city."

The governor stood firm on his position of refusing to bail out the schools unless the city and banks share the risks.

"I won't go for any plan that just includes the state in terms of investing the state's money," Thompson said in a telephone interview. "It's my view that the Legislature will not be receptive to any kind of plan to help restructure the Chicago schools financially until it's been demonstrated that the Chicago community is willing to help itself."

"These people in the Legislature come from places that have had school problems and have all pitched in and helped themselves," he said.

Mayor Jane Byrne sidestepped questions on whether money will be found to pay the teachers next Wednesday when they are scheduled to return to school.

Thompson was assailed by Mrs. Byrne and others for refusing to allow the state to loan the schools $50 million now and $50 million next month. Thompson turned down that plan Friday and said he would be willing to help only if the city and local banks also would commit funds to help the schools. The mayor and the banks refused.

Mrs. Byrne said bankers will not join any effort to bail out the school system until the Legislature formally gives an oversight committee the power to monitor school board finances. She said the city does not have the money to rescue the schools.

The school board is behind in payments to milk suppliers, bus companies and other vendors; owes the federal government about $16 million withheld from employees' checks; and has an operating deficit of $94 million.

Railroad, fire officials disagree on derailment

BENNETT, Texas (AP) — Railroad and fire officials disagree about the type and amount of chemicals spilled in a freight train derailment here and on the necessity for the evacuation of the area.

Missouri-Pacific Railroad assistant Vice President Harry E. Hammer said four locomotives and 36 of 82 freight cars left the tracks near this North Central Texas town Sunday causing between $500,000 and $600,000 in damages.

Hammer said Wednesday the train carried only a small amount of chemicals and that only one car — containing sulphur — caught fire. He said no other chemicals leaked and he questioned Parker County Fire Marshal T.L. Tanner's evacuation of the area.

"Unless you breathe sulphur fumes directly, it's not dangerous," he said.

But Tanner said Wednesday he ordered the evacuation after being told the cargo posed a safety hazard.

"We called the chemical company and they told us it was highly toxic. We evacuated strictly for safety precautions," he said.

"It wasn't sulphur that was burned," he said, adding chemicals on the ground "were burning a bright blue flame and were extremely hot."

The evacuation, at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, involved a residence near Bennett and a neighboring mobile home park, where residents complained of irritation from vapors carried by the wind. All were allowed to return home at 7 a.m. Monday after spending the night at a school gymnasium.

Tanner also said the burning car carried foam rubber, which may have left a sulphurous residue. He said firefighters would have been forced to use oxygen had the car contained sulphur.

Tanner said chemicals also leaked from other damaged cars, but none caught fire.

"There was a car of liquid material. It had a hole about the size of a pencil in it that was leaking liquid out of it," he said.

A list of the train's contents provided by the crew included styrene monomer, xylene, benzene, butadiene and diesel.

Hammer also said a tape recorder that measures speed and operation was off when the train derailed.

"It had not been threaded with the tape, which is very unusual," he said, adding the cause of the derailment still was uncertain. The investigation, he said, would depend on the testimony of crew members, since the recorder was not activated.

Mexican man

slain in Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Police say they do not know why a 21-year-old Mexican man was shot to death in the parking lot of a Lubbock nightclub.

Police said Wednesday that Romero Villar Vargas, 21, of Santa Maria Nativitas, Mexico, had been shot once in the head. His body was found late Tuesday night in a pool of blood in the parking lot of the Che Che Club.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled the death the city's 31st homicide of the year.

A woman companion told police Villar left the club about 11 p.m. to check on his car. When he didn't return after about 30 minutes, she said, she went to check on him.

Firefighters escalate work slow-down

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Vacations for all city employees were canceled and police manned a third of Kansas City's fire stations as union firefighters escalated their seven-day work slowdown by calling in sick.

About 114 of the city's 900 firefighters reported sick during the day Wednesday and another 75 called in sick for the 11 p.m. shift change, officials said.

Police, who had staffed six of the city's 33 fire stations since Monday, were told to take over seven more stations to help provide adequate fire protection. However, at least four fire trucks were expected to be out of service.

About 200 police officers have received some fire training, and some 180 already have been assigned to fire stations and are working 12-hour shifts.

There have been no major fires since firefighters began refusing to work non-emergency overtime when their contract expired Friday. The contract dispute over pay escalated Wednesday when firemen refused to do inspections and attend training classes.

Nineteen firefighters were dismissed Wednesday and 52 were suspended, bringing the total dismissals to 31 and suspensions to 160.

The three-day suspensions were to be served later upon orders from the city. A dismissal is issued if a susponded firefighter reports for work and is cited a second time for refusing overtime duty.

"They're willing to go to jail or get fired," said John Germann, president of Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters. "It's apparent to me that the City Council doesn't care about fire safety."

Germann said the union did not authorize the sick-in, but he lent support to firefighters who cited illness for staying away from work.

"A lot of firefighters are sick of this whole mess," he said. "If a guy feels sick enough of this mess he shouldn't come to work."

Vacations for the city employees were canceled in what Mayor Richard

Berkley called a precaution to insure vital services. He said the action affects 5,000 city workers, excluding police and firemen.

"The police are capable of handling the situation as of now," Berkley said, but added that he has the option of calling for the National Guard.

Fire protection, Berkley said, "diminished from the level we hoped we would normally maintain." Deputy Fire Chief Edward W. Wilson Jr., said, "At one time it was dangerously low."

The job action defies a court order issued Monday restraining firefighters from continuing the work slowdown.
