Gov. Clements calls Iranian situation more serious than Cuban missle crisis

By MIKE SLATON Staff Writer

The situation in Iran is "much more serious" than the Cuban missile crisis of the early 1960s, Gov. Bill Clements told members of the Bank Administration Institute at the Midland Hilton Thursday night.

More serious, said Clements, than the Mayaguez incident in Southeast Asia and the "tree-chopping incident" at the demilitarized zone in South Korea (in which a U.S. Army officer was killed) - both "crises of management" which occurred during the governor's four years as a member of the National

'The Iranian crisis is more serious - has more implications - than any of the three," he said. "Perhaps this will help you put it in perspective." Clements said it would be inapropriate to comment on what he would do

Advice in such matters, if asked for, said Clements, must be given in a private and secluded forum. "Nothing constructive can be accomplished by explosive and overly enthusiastic rhetoric," he cautioned. "There is a small group in Washington, D.C., (President Carter and his advisors) that has responsibility for these decisions - they have the best information to make the best decisions.

"No one in the private sector has the knowledge to make such decisions," Clements said. Clements, in his brief talk before the meeting of the banking organization, touched on government affairs in Austin.

Some of the "highlights," said Clements, included the passage of "budget execution authority" through the last legislative session.

"The governor now has the authority to track an appropriation as it moves though various government agencies to see that it is used properly," Clements said. "I know this sounds very logical, but it has never

Reaction by various agencies of state government has been enthusiastic to what he called "management by objective."

Such a system of management will allow the establishment of goals, the making of plans and the implementation of such plans. "Then," said Clements, "we will monitor (the implementation of the

"We are truly going to establish a zero-based budget."

Clements also reaffirmed his commitment to showing "less government can be better government." To date, said Clements, there are 4,100 fewer government employees than when he took office, and by the end of the year the total will have reached 8,000 fewer state employees. At an average of $23,000 per year per person, that represents a savings of about $175 million per year in salaries, he said. The governor asked the bankers for their advice about rising interest rates, noting that the prime interest rate will probably top out at 19 to 20

"I'm not sure what to do about it," Clements admitted, adding he didn't think state government had any business "fishing around in these waters...trying to do a 'Band-Aid' job" on the economy.

Turning to education, Clements promised that when the legislature reconvenes in January 1981 "we will have a full program of recommendations and legislation ready.

The focus, he said, will be a back-to-basics approach with less waste and improved quality in education. Referring to the Mexican oil spill (in which the company he founded, Sedco, owns the rig) Clements pointed out that: -A recent study by Texas A&M University in Galveston could find no damage to the environment caused by the leaking oil; -Catches of seafood have shown no contamination; -Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has found no wildlife dam-

-And, the president of the Texas Shrimp Association said no contaminated shrimp have been caught. "Last summer when this all started," said Clements, "I said 'let's be calm; let's wait to really assess the damage and responsibility.' "I just wanted to remind you so I could say 'I told you so."

Iranians make new threats about the sttuation in Iran.

By The Associated Press

An estimated 80,000 demonstrators marched on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran today and Moslem militants threatened to take harsh action against their hostages inside the mission if the United States forced the shah to go to any country but tran.

NBC-TV news in Tehran said the march on the embassy was the biggest since the hostages were seized Nov. 4. After Moselm Sabbath prayers, loudspeakers broadcasting from minibuses led the demonstrators in anti-American chants.

The protest took on a carnival atmosphere, the British Broadcast Corp. reported, with families and vendors mixing with the demonstrators. A long line of Tehran taxis drove past the embassy carrying stuffed animal effigies of wood and straw which people in the crowd struck while shouting anti-American slogans. It was not clear what the animals signified.

A spokesman for the militants inside the embassy told Tehran Radio: "We announce the message of the Iranian people to the world that if America expels the shah, it will be committing an offense even greater than its previous ones. The shah should be delivered to the Iranian nation with his hands tied. If America expels the shah, it must be certain that harsher decisions will be taken against the hostages."

The Associated Press in Bonn, West

Germany reached the embassy in Tehran by telephone and spoke with a student who said, "So far those hostages are safe here and in a comfortable condition.

"But I'm not sure what would happen if the United States lets the shah leave. I'm not sure what action the people will take."

The radio broadcast, monitored in London, also said the militants would boycott American goods and that they urged other Iranians to ban U.S. products in any way possible during the coming week. The Paris newspaper Le Monde quoted the Iranian foreign affairs supervisor as saying Iran was no longer accepting dollars in payment for its crude oil.

So far the U.S. government has refused to meet the militants' demand for the shah's extradition, and ' has given no indication it planned to expel him.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's 79-year-old revolutionary leader, has canceled all appointments for the next three weeks because of "slight fatigue and illness," the state radio said, and foreign diplomats in Tehran predicted a long siege for the hostages. As the crisis entered its 13th day today, the United States mounted a new initiative to win increased domestic and international pressure for release of the captives, said by the State Department to number 60 to 62 Americans and eight non-Ameri-

Senate beginning work on oil 'windfall' tax

WASHINGTON (AP) - After set-tling an old-fashioned skirmish between North and South over how to distribute energy relief for the poor, the Senate is beginning work on a "windfall-profits" tax on the oil industry.

The tax, a watered-down version of legislation proposed by President Carter, would provide billions of dollars for energy assistance for the poor, for improving the nation's transportation system, and for financing development of non-oil fuels.

A 69-14 vote Thursday night put the Senate on record as tentatively earmarking $7 billion of the tax revenues for helping low-income Americans cope with higher fuel costs in the winters of 1980-81 and 1981-82. Legislation approved earlier would provide $1.6 billion such aid for the coming winter. There was never any doubt the Senate also would vote for some assistance for the following two winters. But three days of work by senators and staff members were required before a formula for splitting the money between the Frost Belt and the

The resulting formula would provide at least $120 for each of the two years for poor households in even the warmest states. Average payments in the 1981-82, when $4 billion would be spent, would range from $222 to $317 per family.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Shipments of food and medicine to Iran will not be blocked by the decision to freeze Iranian government assets in the United States, administration sources say. A high-ranking Treasury Department official, who asked for anonymity, also said Thursday that the United States has taken steps to free approximately $7 million of the frozen funds for use by Iranian diplomats and students. The actions came a day after President Carter imposed a freeze on Iranian assets in the United States and in the overseas branches and subsidiaries of Iran had threatened to withdraw its funds and put them in banks in other nations. That could have preceded a move by Iran "to repudiate its debts" in the United States, the Treasury official said.

The Carter administration's moves to free some money for use by Iranian diplomats and students and for trade came as the nation's largest farm group, the American Farm Bureau Federation, said it would support an embargo on U.S. food exports to Iran. And it followed a decision by longshoremen in a number of U.S. ports to refuse to load U.S. goods destined for Iran. The Carter administration has been under increasing pressure to use a food embargo in its efforts to secure the release of Americans held hostage in Tehran by Iranian students since Nov. 4.

In the 12 months that ended Sept. 30, the United States sold nearly $490 million in food and animal feed grains to Iran. The products represented more than one-quarter of the Middle Eastern nation's agricultural imports. 'We are going to make it clear that nothing in those (asset-blocking) regulations will prevent the completion of grain or food shipments to Iran," the Treasury official said Thursday.

FBI investigating reports that pro-Iranians set bomb

CHICAGO (AP) - The FBI said today it is investigating reports that a bomb which exploded aboard an American Airlines jetliner on a flight from Chicago to Washington, D.C., was the work of a pro-Iranian group. No one was injured in the incident.

The group claiming responsibility for the incident in anonymous telephone calls to the news media here threatened more bombings if actions were taken against Iranians in the Chicago area.

President Carter has ordered the investigation of the visa status of Iranian students in the United States in response to the taking of some 60 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Eighty passengers and crew members escaped the smoke-filled plane moments after American Flight 444 made an emergency landing Thursday afternoon at Washington's Dulles International Airport.

The Chicago Tribune, and two television stations, WBBM and WMAQ reported receiving calls from a man claiming an Iranian students group was responsible for the bombing.

The man, calling some 12 hours after the explosion, said be was a member of the group and threatened more bombings if actions were taken against Iranians in the Chicago

County voter registration certificates to be mailed

New voter registration certificates are about to be mailed to Midland County voters and anyone whose address has changed in any manner should notify the county voter registration office as soon as possible, said

Janeice Builta, voter registrar. In addition to the many county and city residents who've moved and changed addresses since the last voter certificates were issued, addresses of many voters may have been changed by the U.S. Postal Service, Mrs. Builta noted.

Any change in address, she said, necessitates a voter contacting the voter registration office either by mail or in person.

Voters may notify her office of address changes by writing their new address in the space provided on their current yellow voter registration card, signing it in the appropriate place and returning it to her office. The Postal Service cannot forward voter registration cards, she noted.

The correct address of the voter must be given in order for the voter to receive his or her new registration card. Those new cards, white in color, will be mailed to voters before the end of November as required by law, she said. The cards become effective March 1, 1980, and will be used by voters until Feb. 28, 1982. The new cards, which are already in print, are extremely important to voters, she noted, and will be used for next year's city and presidential elections, as well as other elections.

She also noted that new residents who have not yet registered to vote may do so by coming to her office in Midland County Courthouse. Both a wife and a husband do not have to be present, she said, since either can register for the other.

Those individuals who will be at least 18 years of age by next November also are eligible to register, she said.

Shah faces possible

NEW YORK (AP) - There is a 50-50 chance the deposed Shah of Iran may have to undergo an "exceedingly grave" operation to remove a stuck gallstone, his doctors say.

surgery

But the medical bulletin issued Thursday by Dr. Hibbard E. Williams and Dr. Benjamin H. Kean, the first in three weeks, said the surgery would not take place for at least six to Meanwhile, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi refused comment on the international turmoil surrounding his hospitalization here.

"My continued silence is my statement," the shah said through spokesman Robert Armao.

The shah, who arrived in New York on Oct. 22 from exile in Mexico, has been resting in $1,000-a-day quarters at New York Hospital since gallbladder surgery confirmed the presence of cancer of the lymph system.

U.S. officials have refused to grant him asylum, but they have also refused to send him back to Iran, where 62 Americans are being held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranian students demanding the return of the deposed ruler.

Armao told reporters that shah said it would be "inappropriate and insensitive" to comment because it might jeopardize the hostages.

The doctors' medical bulletin came within hours of the first public airing of a dispute between Armao and the hospital over statements and progress reports.

It was issued several hours after Armao said doctors were free to issue statements but hadn't because "they have nothing to report.'

Hospital public affairs director Eamon Brennan said "none of us here at the hospital - the doctors included is permitted to give out any information unless specifically authorized by the shah's spokesman.

"Today, Mister Armao said our doctors were free to provide information on the medical condition," Brennan said. "I had previously been told to refer all calls to Mister Armao's

Judge says GSA head's reasons phony

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal judge says the head of the General Services Administration lied about his reason for halting new government purchases of office furniture

U.S. District Judge Harold H. Greene said Thursday that GSA Administrator Rowland G. Freeman III acted so he could stop purchases from Art Metal U.S.A., which at the time was the low bidder on three pending contracts worth $25 million.

In his ruling Thursday, the judge awarded the three contracts to Art Metal, a company accused by GSA officials of selling the government shoddy merchandise.

When he announced a temporary halt in government furniture purchases last month, Freeman did not mention Art Metal, a Newark, N.J., firm that is the largest supplier of government office furniture.

Instead, Freeman said he wasn't certain the government needed more furniture.

Although Greene ruled that Freeman repeated his phony reason at a court hearing last month, the judge declined to hold Freeman in contempt of court.

He said the administrator, who assumed his new job July 2, "may very well be perplexed as to how to cope with the pressures to which he is being subjected."

A GSA spokesman, Richard Vawter, said Freeman would review the decision with GSA attorneys but otherwise had no comment.

Greene said Freeman issued his order halting furniture purchasing one day before he faced a grilling by the Senate Committee on Federal Spending Practices.

'The committee had made it abundantly clear to GSA at a hearing two months earlier that it looked with disfavor both on further awards of contracts to Art Metal and on GSA officials who continued to do business with that company in defiance of the (committee's) views," Greene

Midland weather should be warmer

It should be a little warmer in Midland Saturday, according to the weatherman, but skies will be partly cloudy

According to the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport, Saturday's high temperature should climb into the upper 60s after a low tonight in the upper 30s.

Winds tonight should be variable. although mainly blowing out of the south at 5-10 mph

Thursday's high temperature was 63 degrees, which didn't come anywhere near the record for that date -

84 degrees in 1963. Low was 33 degrees, but that was much warmer than the record low of 15 degrees for this date, set in 1932.

Area communities this morning were reporting clear skies and cool temperatures.

Clements, Hispanic leader calling each other names

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - The governor of Texas and the national president of the nation's oldest Hispanic organization are calling each other names. One is a "gnat" and the other is "a buffoon in public office."

Gov. Bill Clements called League of United Latin American Citizens President Ruben Bonilla a "gnat" in a letter received Wednesday by a San Antonio attorney. Bonilla, whose organization has 100,000 members, responded Thursday that it was typical of a man who is "a buffoon in public office." Clements, a Republican who is often criticized by Bonilla and other Mexican-American leaders, berated Bonilla in a Nov. 5 letter to San Antonio attorney Fred Semaan.

Carter wants states to cut petroleum use

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, vowing that America won't sell freedom for oil, wants the nation's governors to help cut petroleum consumption by 4 percent to make up for the loss of Iranian imports.

Carter was meeting today at the White House with 35 to 40 governors and other top state officials to discuss the Iranian situation. They were called to the executive mansion after Carter announced Monday he was cutting off Iranian oil imports in response to the seizure of some 60 American hostages, at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Energy Department officials said the governors would be asked to voluntarily develop conservation programs, although the president now has conditional authority to force states to adopt such plans or face the prospect of a federally imposed plan. The officials asked not to be named. Energy Secretary Charles W. Duncan, who also was meeting with the governors, was offering a long list of suggestions about specific conservation measures governors might choose for their states, said one official. Among the suggestions were rigidly enforcing the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit and encouraging carpooling and vanpooling. The official said each governors eventually would be told how much oil his or her state was expected to conserve, but would be allowed to decide which conservation measures were most appropriate to achieve that Each state will be expected to cut back by roughly 4 percent, although the impact might vary slightly from state to state because of differences in population growth or other factors that could affect the formula being used as a guideline for coming up with state targets. "The situation is different in North Dakota than it is in Florida," the official said. Iran now supplies about 700,000 barrels of oil per day to the United States, or about 4 percent of total U.S. consumption.

The cutoff of Iranian oil alone won't produce a severe enough shortage to require mandatory rationing. Administration officials have said Americans could compensate for the loss by simply driving three miles less each

The president, in his strongest speech yet on the Iranian crisis, on Thursday linked America's thirst for foreign oil to the embassy seige, now in its 13th day. The takeover "makes it starkly clear to all of us that our excessive dependence on foreign oil is a direct physical threat to our freedom and security as Americans," Carter told cheering delegates at an AFL-CIO

Carter said he had banned the oil imports "to remove any question that our principles might be compromised by our supposed need for Iranian "I am determined to make clear that we will never allow any foreign country to dictate any American policy," he said. Carter called once again for congressional passage of his proposals to tax the extra revenue oil companies will gain from his decision to lift price controls on domestically produced oil and to encourage production of synthetic fuels so "we can continue to control our own destiny. "Our love of freedom will not be auctioned off for foreign oil," the president said. "Our freedom is not for sale - now or in the future. Carter branded the embassy seige "an act of terrorism," and said it had done more to unite Americans than anything in the last decade. "We stand today as one people," the president said.

Semaan had written to Clements to tell him he was leaving the Democratic Party because of "people like Ruben Bonilla." Semaan also said he was tired of Bonilla telling the president and the governor whom to appoint to vacant judgeships. Bonilla had recently called on Clements to appoint Mexican-Americans to two recently vacated district judgeships here.

Clements replied in the letter, "I enjoyed hearing from you and am in total agreement with you regarding Ruben Bonilla. Welcome to the club! I have told Ruben to his face to calm down and stay out of business. He's a gnat. I agree 100 percent with you in this matter and appreciate your taking the time to express your views to

The letter was written on governor's office stationary and signed by Clements.

"The letter comes as no surprise," Bonilla said Thursday by phone from Harlingen.

"I would rather be a gnat who occasionally takes a stand against the governor's policies than a buffoon in public office. I would rather be a gnat who fights the governor's callousness for the Hispanic community than a man who has a knack for nothing,' added Bonilla.

"I am not offended, but I am somewhat surprised that the state's chief executive officer would attack a Hispanic organization and its leader.

"Clements' pattern is consistently anti-Hispanic, anti-minority. He now has to resort to name calling that is typical of his negative leadership,' continued the LULAC president.

"I leave it to the Hispanic community to determine its response to the governor by its actions in the next election. I feel I properly represent Hispanic sentiment in this state. The governor does not."

Clements spokesman Jon Ford said in Austin that he knew nothing about the Nov. 5 letter. Clements was not available for comment.

Bolivian colonel resigns after bloody nightmare

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) - Col. Alberto Natusch, who seized the presidency in a coup and plunged Bolivia into a 15-day nightmare of bloody repression and economic crisis, has resigned, a close military adviser to Natusch said. It was not immediately known who would replace Natusch. But it appeared likely that the president of the congress, Lidia Gueiler, would emerge as interim president until elections next May.

The succession formula is to be announced late today during a meeting of Natusch overthrew President Walter Guevara Nov. 1 and named himself president. Guevara was the first nonmilitary president in a decade in Bolivia, which has had almost 200 governments in its 154 years as republic.

Guevara already has said he would relinquish his claim on the presidency if that is what it would take to get Natusch to quit.

Natusch resigned at 4 p.m. Thursday during a meeting with his high command, said a high-ranking Natusch military adviser who declined to be identified. The resignation came amid increasing demands by dissident colonels and generals that he step down.

Two hours later five high-ranking officers led by Natusch's defense minister, Gen. Oscar Lorrain, walked 50 feet from the presidential palace to the congressional palace.

There they met off and on for six hours with congressional leaders, presumably to work out details of the succession.

About midnight a spokesman for the congressional leaders, Marcos Domic, said the armed forces agreed to "any solution" that did not include Natusch or Guevara. The defense minister left immediately to return to the presidential

The congress had insisted all along that Natusch resign. During military-congressional negotiations earlier this week, most congressmen favored a plan under which Natusch would turn power over to the congress. The favored plan was that the congress would then elect the president of the congress as the interim president of Bolivia. A proposal for a military-congressional-labor union triumverate fell through Thursday when union leaders said flatly they would not participate. Natusch's crumbling support within the 25,000-man army of South America's poorest country apparently was the result of widespread opposition to his regime both at home and abroad.

The United States and Venezuela cut off all assitance to Bolivia. Only Egypt and Malaysia recognized the Natusch government, making Natusch's regime one of the most internationally embarrassing dictatorships in this century.

At home, the congress, the unions, most of Bolivia's half dozen major political parties, the Roman Catholic church and university students all rejected the Natusch regime.

The Bolivian Human Rights Commission held him responsible for 201 deaths in a bloody aftermath to the coup. The commission said another 207 persons were wounded and 211 persons disappeared when Natusch's soldiers shot up the downtown area and slum sections and made arrests.

The commission said soldiers shot unarmed civilians, including women and

Zimbabwe Rhodesia may see cease-fire within next week

LONDON (AP) - With the major political difficulties in the Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace talks overcome, cease-fire negotiations were due to start today between black and white commanders whose armies have been warring for seven years. Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington on Thursday secured agreement from the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance and Bishop Abel Muzorewa's biracial administration to Britain's plan for direct rule during pre-independence

The limelight in the 10-week-old talks then switched to the military commanders whose armies have fought an increasingly bloody war which has cost more that 20,000 lives.

British sources cautioned late Thursday there were still problems. But the sources said if all went well a cease-fire could be agreed to within a week and a British governor could be on his way to the territory early in Lt. Gen. Peter Walls, supreme commander of Muzorewa's army, police and air force, and Josiah Tongogara, head of the larger of the Patriotic Front's two guerrilla armies, have both been in London for most of the conference. Tongogara heads Robert Mugabe's guerrilla army in Mozam-

Walls, sources said, has had behind-the-scenes talks with British officials. But there was no confirmation that the white general and Tongogara Lookout Musifa, commander of Front co-leader Joshua Nkomo's forces in Zambia, has not yet arrived in London, officials said.

On Thursday, in a 15-word amendment to his original transition plan, Carrington said guerrillas, like government troops, would be under the proposed British governor's direct authority during the cease-fire.

Guerrilla chiefs said this satisfied their demands for equal status for guerrillas and government troops during the transition. They accepted the British plan, which Muzorewa endorsed two weeks ago. British officials were confident that both sides were firmly agreed - providing that cease-fire negotiations succeed - that the governor will rule, maintaining law and order through the white-led police force. Some 800 troops from the Commonwealth, the 39-nation organization of Britain and her former colonies, will monitor the cease-fire. Commonwealth observers will oversee the election among the country's 7 million

Major difficulties facing the cease-fire negotiations are the two sides' widely differing estimates of how long it will take to implement a cease-fire, whether guerrillas and government troops will each be frozen in separate camps, and whether anyone will be disarmed.

United Way awards luncheon recognizes more than 100 firms

By BILL MODISETT

More than 100 Midland firms were recognized for their participation in the 1980 Midland United Way Campaign at an awards luncheon Thurs-

Allen K. Trobaugh, United Way board president, thanked the numerous volunteers present for their efforts in the campaign, saying, "We set a challenging goal this year, but one that can be met.'

Trobaugh told the gathering that, as of noon Thursday, $963,238 or 94.7 percent of the 1980 goal of $1,017,000 had been raised.

During last week's report meeting, it was announced the campaign would not be closed out Thursday as pre-viously planned, but would be extended through Dec. 7 to accept any late contributions.

"We have an excellent chance of meeting our goal," Trobaugh said, adding he is optimistic that on Dec. 7 United Way officials will be able to announce the successful completion of the campaign. The 19 United Way agencies are dependent upon the contributions, Trobaugh said. Awards of excellence were presented to 20 firms which achieved 75 percent or better "fair share" contributions. Another eight firms were presented awards of merit for achieving 50 to 75 percent "fair share" participation.

Firms receiving the award of excellence included Julian Gold, Inc.; Lone Star Abstract; Peat, Marwick & Mitchell; JC Penney Co.; Frank See Chevrolet; Southwestern Bed Telephone Co.; and Texas Instruments,

Also, United Way agencies American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Boys' Club, Community Day Nursery, Council on Alcoholism, Family Services, Girl Scouts, La Florecita Nursery, Salvation Army, United Way, Alamo YMCA, Metropolitan YMCA and Washington YMCA.

Those firms included Adobe Oil & Gas Corp.; Atlantic-Richfield Co.; Casita Gerardo; Coquina Oil Corp.; Drilco Industrial; Ensearch Exploration, Inc.; Exxon Co., USA; Forest Oil Corp.; Laguna Petroleum Co.; MGF Oil Corp.; Midland Country Club; Monsanto; Pioneer Natural Gas Co.; Schlumberger Well Services; Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Sipes, Williamson & Aycock, Inc.; SOHIO Petroleum Co.; Allen K. baugh; and Marathon Oil Co. Numerous Midland Independent School District divisions achieved significant increases in giving in the 1980 campaign. They included Bowie Elementary, Burnet Elementary, Carver Center, Crockett Elementary, De Zavala Elementary, Emerson Elementary, Henderson Elementary, Houston Elementary, Jones Elementary, Lee High School, Milam Elementary, Pease Elementary, Travis Elementary, Washington Elementary, West

Elementary, MISD Auxiliary Services, MISD Central Administration and MISD Maintenance Department. In addition, numerous firms were presented "100 Percent Participation Awards." They were firms in which every employee made a contribu-that live in her Humble Acres Kennel out back, there have been three raccoons, a lion and a pig; a duck, a deer, a crow and a mockingbird.

Many were rescued, some were delivered, and a few were purchased for nominal fees from owners whose methods Mrs. Ellis disapproved.

Congo the lion was given to her by the Mesker Zoo in Evansville. Her 18-month assignment — to tame him so he could be led on a leash - was successful. But the happy liason ended in tragedy.

Back at the zoo, Congo was unable to adjust to being behind bars, and eventually, he was put to sleep. More than a decade later, Mrs. Ellis still grieves. But she says she learned long ago that wildlife does not always end happily.

"I've been at it all my life....My animals took the place of playmates, Mrs. Ellis said, and that hasn't changed.

She still prefers the company of animals to that of people, at least "the average bunch of dolts you come across.

Outspoken, almost fiesty at times, Mrs. Ellis isn't one to mince words, especially where animals are concerned. "Tell 'em exotic animals shouldn't be kept as pets," she barked - this from a lady with a ferret draped around her neck. "Well," she said slowly, "this is different. My ferret goes where he wants to. I put papers down for him all over my house. "But most people wouldn't do that.

Most people aren't willing to live this Neither, she added, are they willing to live with mockingbirds with drinking problems, nor possums that like to "kiss, kiss, kiss all night long when you're trying to get some sleep.' But here at Humble Acres, kissing the proprietor is permitted, and a little nightcap every now and then is all right, too, so long as it's done with dignity, one of Mrs. Ellis' watchwords.

"We do terrible things to animals in the name of love," she said. "Well, I treat 'em like animals. I don't dress 'em up, I don't put nail polish on 'em and I don't think of 'em as little

"I don't take away their dignity."

Jeanne Ellis of Patronville, Ind., cuddles up to her pet ferret, her second ferret and one of a dozen exotic animals she has raised over the years. "I never turn anything down - not even the snakes," says Mrs. Ellis, who says the secret of rearing wild beasts is to "let them live in dignity." (AP Laserphoto)

Vietnam rejects U.N. resolution for withdrawal from Cambodia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Vietnam today rejected a U.N. resolution calling for the withdrawal of foreign troops from Cambodia.

The Vietnam News Agency said the Hanoi government considered any U.N. discussion on the Cambodian conflict an interference in Cambodia's internal affairs. Any resolution adopted at such a discussion was invalid, the statement continued. The U.N. General Assembly, on a vote of 91-21, called Wednesday for the "immediate withdrawal of all foreign forces" from Cambodia and peaceful settlement of the conflict

The resolution was directed at Vietnam, which invaded Cambodia on Christmas Day and overthrew the regime of Premier Pol Pot two weeks later. The troops remain in Cambodia to wipe out remaining resistance to the Vietnamese-backed government of Heng Samrin.

Skiers urged to prepare for season

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) - A large number of ski-slope injuries could be prevented if skiers properly prepared themselves and their equipment before the beginning of the season, ski

"You shouldn't go skiing to get in shape; the idea is to get in shape before you ski," said Jens Husted, senior member of the Professional Ski Instructors Association (PSIA) demonstration team.

Many skiers are active people the year round, Husted points out, and mistakenly think the running, swimming and bicycling they do is all that's needed to prepare for the sea-

Running and other forms of cardiovascular exercise are important ways to build stamina and improve coordination and circulation, qualities needed for skiing, Husted notes. However, he adds, skiing calls for sustained and repetitive activity in the knees, thighs, hips and ankles. Certain stretching exercises can help limber up the body to meet this special kind of physical stress.

Wall sitting is a favorite," he said, explaining that in this exercise the person puts his back to the wall and sits in an imaginary chair. "It's ideal for developing thighs, ankles and ab-dominal muscles. If you can hold yourself in the position for a minute, you're doing well."

Study shows rewards of family roles vary

PROVO, Utah (AP) - Marriages, like people, go through a mid-life crisis, a Brigham Young University sociologist says.

The turmoil is not due to lack of romance, but to the everyday pressures from children, jobs and money problems, he has concluded from a recent study.

"Marriage is every bit as rewarding, if not more so, in the intermediate phases than it is in the initial phases," says Dr. Spencer Condie, whose survey covered more than 150 couples in Utah.

But, he adds, it's also a potentially precarious stage of the family life cycle, when families are trying to make the transition, economically, from "toys to skis, cars and motorcy

"The children are reaching their teens and parents are afflicted with all the curses of the middle class such as chauffering their children to music lessons and ball games," Condie explains. "The father is devoting more time to his job, angling for a promotion, and the mother is investing the best years of her life in her children.

"In some cases the branching interests of husbands and wives never do converge again," he adds. "After the last child leaves home and the husband has pursued his career and the wife has had so many of her emotional investments tied up with the family, they may have very little in com-

Mother's Club has style show

A style show sponsored by St. Ann's Pre-School Mother's Club was held as a benefit this past week at the Midland Woman's Club.

Fashions for the event were provided by The Gazebo.

The group was organized for the mothers of preschool children at St. Ann's School. The club cooperates with and assists other Catholic organizations in church-wide efforts.

In the past, the club has donated money to be used for learning materials for the mentally retarded, to Sister Eva Hernandez at the Garden Lane Outreach Center in helping the poor, to Church Women United, and in making layettes to be donated to indigent mothers.

The club has raised over $300 this year for their charity projects. Part of the money has been used for baptismal bibs and candles for St. Ann's Catholic Church. The remainder of the money will be donated to a charity project which the club will select at the December meeting.

Any mother of a pre-school child who is interested in the organization can call 694-5020 for further informa-

One of the most interesting aspects of his study, he says, is the fact that both husbands and wives felt that the greatest rewards from the marriage came during the times when the greatest demands were being made.

Condie explained this paradox by saying that happy marriages are similar to winning an Olympic gold medal - the greater effort, the

"In order to obtain high profits, you have to make big investments. In other words, you get out of marriage what you put into it," he pointed out.

Shortage battle starts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Administration officials, concerned with the "probability of sudden interruptions of oil supplies," are investigating ways of dealing with new shortages.

Higher gasoline taxes and reductions in environmental regulations are possible solutions to cuts in foreign oil supplies or sharp price increases, according to a study ordered by Deputy Energy Secretary John Sa-

A copy of the report, entitled "Oil Shortages Contingency Planning," was obtained by The Associated Press.

"The events of the past year and current market trends have increased the probability of sudden interruptions of oil supplies in the coming months as well as further price increase," the report said.

"We must develop workable plans for allocating gasoline by means other than waiting in lines," said the report, which was sent to a number of federal agencies

Alternatives listed in the report included: -Decontrolling gasoline prices "to reduce demand." -Working out a simple gasoline rationing plan that could be implemented in a few weeks rather than months.

-Increasing taxes on gasoline and other petroleum products. No amount was mentioned.

-Changing or setting aside clean air and water regula--Restarting nuclear power plants which are now shut down for various reasons. Speeding up production of gasolhol, an alcohol fuel distilled from farm products. -Preparing to "control money markets" if a major supply interruption creates "chaotic conditions in the international money markets."

-Working out emergency plans with other consuming nations in response to a major cutoff of oil supplies. -Finding ways to reduce consumption of jet fuel, including discouraging unneeded air travel and dropping some air -Increasing imports of natural gas. -Extending mandatory temperature controls in public buildings beyond the current expiration next March.

Synthetic bandwagon rolls over opposition in Congress

By J.P. SMITH The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Michigan Republican Rep. Dave Stockman denounces it as "porkbarrel." Illinois Republican Sen. Charles Percy warns that its as bad as 10 Chrysler bailouts. And Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo, says its like setting a prairie fire to cook a sage Notwithstanding the nasty rhetoric, the synthetics fuel bandwagon is rolling over the opposition in Congress an improbable collection of powerful opponents. Despite their past differences the big oil companie are armin-arm with environmentalists like the Sierra Club; Common Cause with the Chamber of Commerce; liberals and conservatives alike.

But last week, after months of debate, the Senate passed a $20 billion synthetic fuels bill to spur development of oil and natural gas from coal. tar sands and oil shale. Last June the House passed a similar, though less ambitious bill, and both are headed toward conference.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee hailed the Senate bill as "the largest single energy enterprise in the history of the country.

He's right. The Senate bill promises $20 billion for synfuels right away, and $68 billion more in 5 years in Congress agrees. That $88 billion would be twice the worth of Exxon, the nation's largest corporation.

The Senate and House bills also call for creation of a quasi-public Energy Security Corp. to dole out billions in loans, purchase guarantees, grants, joint ventures, and loan guarantees to the nascent synfuels industry. As proposed by President Carter last July the ESC would be financed from the oil windfall profits tax.

AS ENVISIONED by the Senate, the synfuels plan would spur the production of 1.5 million barrels of synthetic fuel a day by 1995 - equal to about 18 percent of the nation's current oil imports.

More important, backers such as Jackson say that it will put the nation on the path toward curbing oil imports and lowering energy costs.

The bill has profited handsomely from outside events. The turmoil Iran boiled over in time to boost the measure comfortably over the top in the Senate, while gasoline lines last spring propelled the House version to a 368-25 victory in June. Said Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., who voted with the majority: "Voters want action on energy; they don't really care how much it costs."

Underlying the synfuels debate is a set of deep-seated issues that cuts across the ideological and regional biases that usually shape congressional alignments:

Can the oil companies alone solve the nation's energy supply problem, or does the government have to coerce the industry?

Will the free market provide adequate incentives to develop alternatives to imported oil, or do the taxpayers have to assume the risk for developing new technologies ll the oil companie hold back on synthetics waiting for higher prices?

ATTEMPTING TO answer these questions, many members found themselves in unusual positions.

New Mexico's usually tough advocate of free booting private enterprise, Sen. Pete Domeinici, R-N.M., backed the full blown Senate bill. "Those who want a total reliance on the market are saying, 'What's good for Exxon is good for America,' " he said.

Another long-time oil company partisan, Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., broke ranks. "This country has had cople are tired of hearing wait a couple of more years from a few huge international oil ompanies with enormous financial interests in conventional oil reserves located overseas.' he said.

The arguments run on, but questions inevitably come back to this point: After six years of debate the United States still does not have one commercial-scale synfuel plant in operation. Worse, the Energy Department and its predecessor agency seem to have spent billions of dollars without any hard results.

Moreover, synfuel proponents in Congress argue, the oil companies are always saying they need a higher price. In 1972, for example, the Joint Industry-Government National Pe-Council said that, at $7.29 a barrel the

Yet today oil is selling at nearly $30 a barrel and the American Natural Resources Co. proposal to build a massive coal gasification plant in Mercer, N.D., — approved Thursday by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission — is the only large com-

industry could produce oil from coal mercial plant in sight. JACKSON AND other synfuels boosters, such as Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., say, "Big oil apparently wants synfuels all to themselves, and in their own good time . . . big oil is just plain greedy."

There is little question of the potential. An estimated 700 billion barrels - 4 times Saudi Arabia's oil reserves is locked in oil shale deposits in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. And hundreds of billions of barrels more can be squeezed from the country's massive coal deposits.

Spanking banker got late payments

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Former banker David Rhodes says spanking customers was an effective way of getting tardy loan payments - until some of his customers threatened to tell his superiors about the paddlings.

Now the former bank manager, who spanked the delinquent customers in his office with a wooden paddle, has been sentenced to a three-year prison term for misappropriating more than $88,000 in bank funds.

"I didn't want to hurt the bank, yet I couldn't stop what had started," said Rhodes, adding he was relieved when bank auditors detected the scheme. "I wanted to keep the bank's customers, to help the bank flourish, but it turned into a nightmare.

U.S. District Judge Paul A. Simmons issued the sentence on Thursday to Rhodes, former manager of a Century National Bank branch in Baden, Pa., who was arrested in August by FBI agents. Rhodes, 38 and father of two, told Simmons the spankings started as a joke but snowballed out of control

He said he paddled more than 50 persons who were delinquent on loan payments. "I never had any trouble with them afterwards," said Rhodes.

Rhodes estimated he averaged about 1,500 loans a year at the Beaver County bank from 1964 until his discharge in 1978. However, Rhodes told the court he was forced to make eight unrecorded loans totaling $88,268 when six of those who were spanked threatened to report him to his superiors.

One of the six, none of whom has been charged, demanded more money or "he was going to make it out as a homosexual activity," Rhodes told Sim-

Although he was aware the loans were illegal, Rhodes said he didn't turn himself in because he didn't think the authorities would believe his story. Bank officials said they could have made $348,000 had they been able to use the money in regular channels

Defense attorney David Joyce said Rhodes, now manager of a cigar and candy firm, had no previous criminal record and enjoyed a spotless reputation in the community prior to his arrest.

"He was involved in a vicious cycle," said Joyce. Psychiatric tests showed that Rhodes did not have a mental problem.

Simmons said the sentence was in line with similar offenses under similar circumstances. "I'm not trying to hurt you," the judge told Rhodes. "I'm just trying to do what is fair.

Mrs. Carter told 3,000 persons attending a $50-ahead fund-raising dinner Thursday night she was deeply honored to receive the International Humanitarian Award of the St. Boniface Hospital Research Foundation, which in the past has gone to Dr. Christiaan Barnard, Dr. Jonas Salk and Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II.

Population: Can we defuse bomb before it goes boom?

By LEIGH FENLY Copley News Service

PALO ALTO, Calif. - It has been more than a decade since Paul Ehrlich told us, in the bumper sticker lingo of the grassroots era, that man had been altogether too fruitful for his own good.

His chilling "The Population Bomb" - required reading of the activist generation - presented an apocalyptic picture of the world to come: worldwide famine, runaway population growth, social decay inescapable and fast upon us.

But now, when the products of the post-World War II baby boom should be producing a baby boom of their own, they are not. The birth rate is down. Couples are replacing themselves and then stopping. The famine, the pesticide poisoning, the thermonuclear war hasn't killed us yet. But if you would predict a change in Ehrlich's view, reconsider.

"Oh no," he says stalwartly. "I stand behind every word in the book. The crunch is still upon us. "There are so many people who think the popula-on problem is over, that the United Nations has come out and said it is a deep serious problem. The consensus is now that it is highly probable that the population can double again. I certainly don't think I was wrong. The only problem with 'The Population

Bomb' was it came too late."

PAUL EHRLICH, THE BIOLOGIST, THE LEPIdopterist, is 47 years old now, as morally indignant, as verbal, almost as visible as before. Since "Population Bomb," he has written more than a dozen books, including his career opus, the 1,051page "Ecoscience," considered the leading hand-book on ecological and environmental thought.

Scientifically and politically, he has managed to walk the fine line of visible scientist, pursuing his scientific research while espousing his controversial political views. Copies of "BioScience" and "The Mother Earth News" clutter his office.

The fall semester has begun at Stanford University where he is Bing Professor of Population Studies. He had just returned from Jasper Ridge, Colo., where he spent the summer consumed in population studies

He looks like he just walked in off the ridge, in a pair of blue walking shorts cropped just above his knees, a short-sleeved shirt, his eyeglass case

Gregarious and glib, he leans back in his chair, the springs creaking with his weight.

HE HAS AUTHORED A NEW BOOK, WITH HIS wife, Anne, and old-time friend and historian Loy Bilderback from California State University in Fresno. The tone is the same as "The Population Bomb" ("The oil companies squealing like the stuck pigs they were...."), but the message is different.

In "The Golden Door" Ehrlich is talking about Megal immigration, a policy question that he says has come to dominate the population debate. "Wherever I went talking about population problems people would say to me, 'Really, isn't it true that we solved the problem with smaller family size and the big problem now is admitting wetbacks in across the

First of all, Ehrlich is quick to point out that the country in no way has solved its population problems. True, due in part to troubled economics in the '70s, the birth rate has diminished from 18.4 per 1,000, in 1970 to 15 per 1,000 in 1973, where it has remained. But because there are more young people than old, the birth rate is still higher than the death rate.

ALTHOUGH PLEASED, AND SOMEWHAT amazed, at the rapidity of the turnaround, Ehrlich estimates it will take yet another half century before

Zero Population Growth is reached. By that time the population will have reached 250

One policeman fired, two suspended by chief

ODESSA — One Odessa policeman has been fired and two others suspended without pay for what Police Chief Jack Tomlin termed the alleged "mishandling" of a prisoner last month.

Patrolman Gary Clingman was discharged, said Tomlin. Patrolman John A. Blanco received a 21-day suspension and jailer Jerry Helms was suspended for five days, the police chief said.

An internals affairs investigation was begun Oct. 22 when a formal complaint was filed regarding "the arrest and handling" of a prisoner, said Tomlin.

An Ector County grand jury took no action in the matter after evidence gathered during the investigation was delivered, District Attorney John Green "I understand my action will probably be appealed," Tomlin said. "For that reason, I cannot say more about it at this time." Tomlin said he had been contacted by Austin attorney Joseph R. Gilbreth, who represents the million - 30 million more than today.

Secondly - and the reason for the book - Ehrlich says illegal immigration simply isn't the problem it is presented to be. "The picture many people get from the newspapers is that there are 10 million jibbering Mexicans sitting on the other side of the border just trying to storm into the country to take away our jobs. The problem is nothing new. I would put it far down on our list of national problems."

"The Golden Door" (published by Ballantine) charges that America has meddled in Mexican affairs since 1882, that U.S. business interests exploit Mexicans as a cheap labor pool, that multinationals open plants in Mexico and then close them when workers demand decent wages.

FURTHERMORE, THE BOOK CLAIMS THAT there are no accurate figures on illegal immigration and no evidence to suggest that the number of illegals has increased in the last decade. Contrary to popular thought, Ehrlich believes that Mexican illegals do not want to stay in the United States indefiniand that they do not go on welfare or significantly affect the job market.

"All the information we've been able to come by suggests there is an enormous outflow, that few Mexicans want to stay," Ehrlich says.

"What they want is to earn some money, send it back home and leave. There is little evidence of Mexicans taking jobs away. As far as welfare goes, I think it is pretty clear in that sense. If you're an illegal you don't go on welfare, you don't collect Social Security, you don't get back your Workman's Compensation.

If it is not a problem as presented, Ehrlich, nonetheless sees immigration as a long-term question that threatens to cloud population issues. It brings him back to an old theme.

'Whatever your decision on illegal aliens, we can not solve it without a specific population policy. How many Americans do we want to have? One hundred fifty million? Then that says something about where birth rates, death rates, immigration rates have to

"You can't have a sane immigration policy unless you consider birth and death rates at the same time. It's like trying to design an airliner when you don't know how many passengers there will be

And so, 10 years later, the professor's hair is a little longer and there is now a gray-specked and bristly beard, but the lecture hasn't changed. The furor over "The Population Bomb" has long since cooled, and subsequent books — "The Age of Affluence," "The Race Bomb" — haven't landed him in the same pool of commotion.

But the contempt for bureaucratic institutions and the exasperation at policymakers are still visible, as is his eagerness to speak out.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Get the Best Odds

By Alfred Sheinwold

According to Poor Alfred's Almanac, man does not live by finesses alone. You may find better odds elsewhere. Since dummy's bidding indicated club shortness, West led a trump. South won and tried the heart finesse. It was better than nothing, but not much better.

East won and returned a trump. South ran all but one of his trumps, hoping for a foolish discard or for a good break in a red suit. He was down one after a long strug-

RIGHT PLAY

The odds were about 2 to 1 in South's favor, counting the finesse, the chance of a good break and the possibility of a foolish discard. The right play would make South a 5 to 1

After the first trick South should take the top diamonds and ruff a diamond. He leads a trump to the jack to ruff another diamond. Then he draws trumps and leads a heart to the ace to cash the last diamond. This plan succeeds if the diamonds divide either 3-3 or 4-2-an overwhelmingly good chance.

you would be happier with some tens and nines in the long suits, but the hand is worth a bid as it stands.

Unfunded pension liabilities no worry to company heads

NEW YORK (AP) — Those billions of dollars of unfunded liabilities of private pension funds, about which so much concern has been expressed in the media, don't seem to worry many of the companies that run them.

In a survey of very large industrial and service companies, 74 percent of respondents said the furor had caused them to re-examine their own company's plans, but 92 percent said they saw no prob-About plans in general, including those of other far less certain, with only 49 percent of those participating in the survey saying the issue was The responses were to a questionnaire mailed to chief executives of the 2,500 largest industrial and service companies by William M. Mercer Inc., the world's largest employee benefits advisory firm. George Faunce, a Mercer officer, explained that with 8 percent of the private sector's payrolls invested in pension funds the executives seem to believe the wherewithal exists to meet current retiree obli-Well-run funds, he said, follow actuarial principles, maintaining a fund sufficient for paying claims as they arise. Unless a company fails, the fund is constantly replinished by regular contributions.

A possible problem for the future, if not for now, was indicated by the 426 responses - an above average return, according to Mercer - dealing with the issue of early versus late retirement.

Nearly three-quarters of the responses disap-proved of raising or eliminating the mandatory retirement age, now 70 years, to allow greater numbers of older people to remain in the workforce. In fact, some said they favored and would encourage even earlier retirement.

There is a paradox here," Faunce conceded, with many actuaries and economists fearing the Social Security system will run into serious financial problems if workers continue to retire at age 65 or Faunce and other Mercer officers, including Haeworth Robinson, former Social Security chief actuary, share the fear. With early retirement, and with longevity increasing, retirement sometimes

"Right now three workers support each Social Security pensioner, but that ratio will become two workers for each pensioner at the turn of the century. It will put a severe burden on the system,"

Nevertheless, Mercer found that "among the wide variety of employee benefits, those replying to the questionnaire most often cited early retirement incentives, flex-time and financial counseling as the benefits they would like to see become more popular in the Eighties."

The executives favord an expanded role for employee benefits in total compensation packages, and surprisingly approved a concept that would provide a "cafeteria" of benefits from which workers could

Authorities view cafeteria or smorgasbord plans with mixed feelings.

Such plans would involve workers more actively in their futures, but the likelihood exists that some workers might become unhappy over making poor selections. Administrative problems could result

On other issues, the executives said:

—That increases in 1980 Social Security contribu-tions should be postponed as inflationary, since at least some of the corporate costs might have to be passed on in higher prices. (70 percent)

—They were concerned about pension portabilty, which means the pension benefits earned in one job would follow the worker to each succeeding place of employment. (64 percent)

-Blue collar and middle management would produce the greatest pressure for expansion of benefits in th 1980s. Forty-three percent named the blue collar category, 46 percent the middle management group.

The pressure anticipated from managers seems to have been a surprise.

Faunce at first said he "had no feel for the answer." Later, he observed that managers as a group might be concerned about benefits because some of them spend their entire careers with one company.
