EDITOR'S NOTE - America listened as President Carter said that "we will not rest or bend in our efforts" until every one of the Americans being held hostage in the U.S. Embassy is freed.

"We will not yield to blackmail," Carter said in the opening statement of his nationally televised news conference Wednesday night. Here is the reaction of some Americans who listened to Carter's com-

Hundreds of thousands marching in Tehran

.TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Hundreds of thousands of Iranians, some chanting "Islam up, Carter down!", marched in Tehran todáy in response to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's call for massive anti-American protests on this important Moslem holy day of sacrifice and martyrdom.

The demonstrators stayed away from the U.S. Embassy and the 49 Americans held hostage there.

Khomeini's Revolutionary Council fired Abolhassan Bani Sadr as Iran's foreign policy spokesman Wednesday and replaced him with Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, a hard-line member of the council, apparently dooming U.N. Security Council efforts to ease the U.S.-Iranian crisis.

The huge crowds in Tehran converged initially around the capital's Revolution Square, some four miles from the U.S. Embassy where pro-Khomeini militants have been holding the hostages since Nov. 4 in a bid to get the U.S. government to

They then marched to the towering Shahvad monument near the airport, in the opposite direction from the embassy, about 10 miles away. Some in the throng wore white shrouds emblazoned in red letters with the words: "Yankees, We Will Cut Off Your Hands," and "We Are Ready To Die For Islam.

Marshalls wearing lapel buttons controlled the movements of the hundreds of separate marching groups - men at the front of the various processions followed by women clad in chadors, the traditional black veils. Some women carried babies.

Militants with bullhorns set the tone for the marchers As the crowds chanted praise of Allah and Khomeini, the city thundered with "Allahu Akhbar, Khomeini Ragbar!" - "God is great, Khomeini is the leader!" and "Islam up, Carter down!" Mixed with the green flags of Islam and religious banners, were banners declaring "U.S. Imperialism Surrender the Shah," 'The United Nations - Tool of the U.S.A," "Death to Carter and His Guest" and "Iran Does Not Recognize the Security Council

In another development today, the Iranian news agency Pars reported that explosions damaged two oil pipelines in the southwestern province of Khuzestan, where ethnic Arab groups have been fighting an underground war for greater autonomy from the Khomeini regime. The agency quoted an official source as saying both explosions were sabotage.

Khomeini has yet to announce whether Ghotbzadeh will go to New York to attend the emergency session of the U.N. Security Council on the U.S.-Iranian crisis. The session was set for Saturday, and Bani Sadr, who wanted to mediate an end to the crisis, had been scheduled to address the U.N. meeting.

Bani Sadr had been trying to arrange a compromise between U.S. and Iranian positions on the American hostages. The embassy captors want the Carter administration to extradite Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran to stand trial as a war

Bani Sadr had offered several compromises but his attempts at seeking some sort of middle way out of the impasse only stiffened the resolve of the embassy occupiers and Khomeini, who urged his followers to turn the religious observances into anti-American protests.

Tasua and Ashura, the twin days of mourning today and: Friday, mark the high point of the Shiite Moslem holy month of Moharram, a period of ritual mourning commemorating the 7th century assassination by Moslem rivals of the Iman Hossein, a grandson of the Moslem Prophet Mohammed and founder of the Shiite sect, the dominant community in Iran.

Khomeini's supporters turned the Moharram demonstrations into protests against the shah's government last year, and more than 100 were killed when imperial troops opened fire on crowds. Khomeini's followers claimed this marked a turning point in the revolution because it wrecked army morale and led to the downfall of the shah's dictatorship in February.

Despite threat, bonds to be sold

Clark accused of 'playing favorites' among loan firms

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Under threat of a lawsuit, Midland Housing Finance Corporation is proceeding with selling $35 million in bonds to finance a low interest home loan program.

During a meeting Wednesday in City Hall Council Chambers to "price the bonds," one participant accused the corporation of violating the sales and service agreement signed a few weeks ago and of being "dishonest" in figuring the allocations for the six lending institutions.

Bill Oglesby, president of Investors Inc., 2400 W. Wall St., went on to charge that another mortgage company had not turned in the correct figures on loan closings during the past year. This action resulted in the company receiving more money for home loans under the program, he contended.

Mark Tessier with the underwriting firm of Howard, Weil, LaBouisse and Friedrichs, Inc. of New Orleans, reported the interest rate for qualified applicants will range from 91/8 to 91/4

UNDER THE Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Program, these loans will go to families making less than $30,000 for the year for a house costing less than $75,000. Up to 15 percent of the money is being set aside for housing rehabilitation with the remaining funds to be divided into three categories with the dividing lines to be $20,000, $25,000 and $30.

Oglesby pointed out in the sales statement that "if the interest rate goes over 9 percent, the financing will not proceed.

Tessier replied that new sales agreements had been prepared for the six participants to sign which would change that figure to 91/4 per$5 million; Jackie Johnson Mortgage Co., $7,087,500; Mortgage & Trust, Inc., $2.5 million; and West Central Investment Corp., $2.5 million.

Oglesby then turned to Harry Clark, finance corporation chairman, and charged him with "playing favorites with Jackie Johnson Mortgage Co." when determining allocations for the six participants.

-Iran crisis at-a-glance

By The Associated Press

These were the top developments today as 49 Americans remained hostages of militant Iranian students at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran,

In Iran

Millions turned out in Iran's cities in answer to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's call to turn annual religious processions into a massive demonstration to the United States of Iran's determination to get the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi back for trial.

The replacement of Abolhassan Bani Sadr as Iran's foreign policy spokesman apparently doomed U.N. Security Council efforts to ease the U.S.-Iranian crisis. Bani Sadr, who had been seeking a middle way out of the impasse, was replaced by hard-liner Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who controls the Iranian radio and television service.

In Washington

President Carter said he cannot set a deadine for the release of the hostages and asked Americans for patience and "grim determination" in the ongoing crisis. In a nationally televised broadcast, Carter said such patience "is not at all a sign of weakness. It is a sign of sure strength." The president said he is determined to exhaust diplomatic and peaceful means for resolving the stalemate before turning to other options. He declined to elaborate on the form later action might take. His address drew near-unanimous praise.

In America

Americans waved flags, rang church bells, prayed and wore white armbands to show their united support for 49 U.S. hostages held in Iran. President Carter, in 7,500 letters and Mailgrams, Wednesday urged Americans to express their sentiments about the crisis in lawful ways, including letters to Iran's mission to the United Nations. A woman told a radio talk show in Charlotte, N.C., white armbands would be an appropriate symbol of support for the hostages. Later, Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., extolled the idea on the Senate floor and radio stations in California, Michigan, Massachusetts, Georgia and New York took up the plan. Some businesses in North Carolina offered arm bands free. Meanwhile, in New York, doctors told Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, whose arrival in the United States for medical treatment triggered the crisis, he is well enough to leave the United States.

Around the world

Much of the world press praised President Carter for his cool and measured handling of the Iranian crisis, and some papers demanded that other leaders condemn Iran more strongly.

He termed such use as "the moral equivalent of war" and called for a halt to the "regional robbery of the state of Texas.

The "vankees" are "stealing our natural resources at pegged prices" and are using Texas as if the state were a colony, he said. Nugent also deemed unfair the sev-

At the current rate of consumption, the state's natural gas reserves will be depleted in 71/2 years, he said.

Nugent said the "risk takers" will 'punch more holes" and will make recoveries from older wells in their quest for more fossil fuel" if profits are such "to get them to gamble with their assets.

Nugent said American consumers should re-evaluate "how careless we have been with our oil" and suggested conservation of resources. "The price has got to get to the

Carter's stance on Iran getting unified backing

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's call for American patience and resolve to win safe release of 49 hostages in Iran is drawing unified backing from Congress and from presidential candidates.

"We have only one president," Republican presidential contender John Connally said after Carter's nationally televised appeal Wednesday night. Now is the time to rally behind him and show a solid front to Iran and to the world.'

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., took time out from campaigning in Iowa to say he supports Carter's steps in Iran and "I have every intention to support those steps in the future."

But Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., and 53 other House members are sponsoring a resolution urging Carter to set a deadline for military action if Iran still does not free the hostages after all peaceful means

More of the same is the cold weather word from the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. Cold weather is likely to continue tonight and Friday in the Permian Basin as clouds loom on the West Texas horizon. Increasing cloudiness Friday should keep daytime temperatures in the upper 40s for most of the area, according to the weatherman. Low tonight is expected to be in the low 20s.

A brief low of 18 degrees recorded about 5:30 a.m. today was only a few degrees above the record low of 15 degrees recorded in 1976. Wednesday's high of 45 degrees was far short of 1949's record high of 85 de-

"Trials and the kind of disgraceful treatment the hostages are getting now could go on for another year and a half," Stratton said. "And we don't think we should wait that long if peaceful means have failed."

Carter refused during his news conference to say whether he would take military action if peaceful efforts fail, telling reporters such talk could endanger the hostages' lives.

Stratton said he and his House colleagues agree with Carter on that point. "We should consider military action only if everything else fails, Stratton said.

Sen. Richard Stone, R-Fla., agreed with Stratton, saying "I think he (Carter) should preserve the option of issuing a time deadline for release of the hostages.' But Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-

Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Stratton's resolution "is ill-advised, untimely and would jeopardize the lives of the hostages. Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, praised Carter for "(making) it clear that he's not going to threaten or set an ultimatum date. "Nor," Javits continued, "will he in any way intimate any other alternatives of a military character or otherwise, but he's going to persevere in enlisting the whole world's support for bringing out the hostages."

Congress quickly and unanimously approved a resolution late Wednesday supporting that strategy

Turning to the international scene, Nugent noted that the United States in the 1950s was importing 1 million barrels of oil per day, but that imported figures had increased to 8 to 9 million barrels in the late 1970s. Kubrick, a Korean war veteran, entered a Veterans Administration hospital in Wilkes-Barre in 1968 for treatment of a bone infection in his right thigh.

After surgery, a VA doctor ordered that a solution of the antibiotic neomycin be used to irrigate the wound. Soon after leaving the hospital, Kubrick began to notice a loss of hear-

And it was not until 1971 that it was suggested to Kubrick that the neomycin never should have been administered.

Kubrick sued in 1972 but according to the Supreme Court he lost the right to sue in 1971, two years after first learning about the neomycin treatment and its effects on hearing.

During oral arguments Oct. 3, Philadelphia lawyer Benjamin Kuby told the justices about Kubrick: "He trusted his government. He ought not to suffer for it."

"We doubt that here we have misconceived the intent of Congress," Justice Byron R. White wrote. "But if we have, or even if we have not but Congress desires a different result, it may exercise its prerogative to amend the statute so as to effect its legislative will."

Changing the overall law now would not help Kubrick. Kuby said Wednesday that the possibility of getting a special bill passed to specifically benefit Kubrick "has not as yet been Contacted as he was trying to relay the court's action to his client, Kuby was hesitant to discuss a decision he had not yet read. "I am deeply saddened by it," he said.

no sign of survivors. They sighted "60 or 70 bodies," but the bodies were fast being covered by blowing snow on the permanent ice pack, the Navy spokesman said. The New Zealanders reported subzero temperatures and said blizzard-like winds were blowing pieces of wreckage down the mountainside, crisscrossed with deep crevasses. The reports to a Navy headquarters here were made by radio from the U.S. research base at McMurdo Sound, some 40 miles from Erebus. Both the mountain and the base are on Ross Island, just off the coast.

The Navy spokesman said the mountaineers, who made two trips to the site, will try to build a shelter as a base for recovery operations'.

He said they would map the wreck site and await the arrival of a 28-man New Zealand recovery team, including police identification experts, crash investigators and two four-man mountain climbing teams. They were to fly in to McMurdo Friday aboard a New Zealand Air Force C-130 Hercules transport.

Thomson's department, which maintains New Zealand's Scott Base near the crash site, said the mountaineers found the tail section of the plane intact but empty. It said they reported the wreckage was spread over an area measuring 400 yards by 50 yards. Prime Minister Robert Muldoon said the bodies recovered would be taken to Scott Base for identification, then flown to New Zealand.

A low-altitude swing past the volcano was part of the 11-hour round trip from Auckland, New Zealand, to the bottom of the world and back.

The DC-10 was making Air New Zealand's 14th tourist flight to the South Pole and the last of the Southern Hemisphere's summer season, during which the Antarctic is bathed in perpetual sunlight. The weather at the time was clear with light clouds.

The crash caused the postponement of a flight over the South Pole today by Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia. His flight was to commen orate the 50th anniversary of the next flight over the pole by his uncle, the famed polar explorer Adm. Richard E. Byrd. The U.S. Antarctic base put the flight off to hold its planes in readiness to help recover the bodies, and it was not known when the senator would go.

The death toll in the Antarctic crash was exceeded by the 582 persons killed in the March 1977 collision between two Boeing 747s on a Canary Island runway, the 346 killed in a DC-10 crash in France in 1974, and the 273 killed in a DC-10 crash in Chicago last May.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Psychiatrists are examining a woman who authorities allege burst into Sen. Edward Kennedy's reception room, pulled out a six-inch hunting knife and gave a "blood-curdling" yell. The woman, who the Secret Service identified as Suzanne Osgood, was ordered held without bond Wednesday by U.S. Magistrate Lawrence Margolis. He ordered her sent to federally operated St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington for 60 days of mental observation.

Kennedy, a candidate for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination. was in his office when the incident occurred. His office is separated from the reception area by another room and the Massachusetts senator said later he was not aware of the disturbance. Authorities said a Secret Service agent who scuffled with the woman was cut on the hand

U.S. Attorney Carl Rauh, who described the woman's scream as 'blood-curdling," gave an account of Ms. Osgood's background from a hastily written report by the District of Columbia Pretrial Services Agency. The agency said much of the information gleaned from an interview with her could not be verified. Rauh said the 38-year-old woman moved into a transient hotel here Oct. 24. She came from Boston and is unmarried, unemployed and on welfare, he said. She recently spent a month in Ireland.

The woman's mother, Anne Osgood, issued a statement from her home in Nashua, N.H. It said: "Suzanne has been hospitalized for a schizophrenic condition at hospitals in New York, New Jersey and New Hampshire.

"During the summer of 1978, she was hospitalized in a Nashua hospital and was brought to New Hampshire State Hospital for an evaluation, which determined her not dangerous to herself or others." Ms. Osgood, who appeared bewildered at the hearing, was charged with assaulting a federal law enforcement officer, Secret Service Agent Joseph F. Meusburger. The maximum penalty for conviction is 10 years in jail.

Building to resume on Indiana nuclear plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of an Indiana utility company building a nuclear power plant plagued by construction problems says he hopes work on safety features at the plant will resume early next year.

Hugh Barker, president of the Public Service Company of Indiana, Inc., made the statement Wednesday as a House subcommittee ended two days of looking into problems previously uncovered in the plant's construc-

Barker acknowledged that the company had had quality control problems in building the Marble Hill power plant, but said an outside analysis of construction already done and the company's own internal analysis indicated the problems did not affect the plant's safety.

"By recognizing at an early date in construction that construction and quality assurance procedures were not up to NRC (Nuclear Regulatory Commission) standards, the company has avoided more serious construction mistakes in the installation of piping and the electrical facilities," Barker told the subcommittee.

He said the firm hoped to restart safety-related construction in January. Such construction was halted in August after a laborer alleged - and a NRC investigation confirmed that some flaws existed in the concrete that will eventually surround the reactor.

Federal regulations require that wall to be of uniform quality and thickness. But the NRC investigation found areas of honeycombing - areas where air bubbles kept the concrete from making a solid wall.

Almost all the flaws uncovered so far are near the concrete's surface, a NRC inspector told the subcommittee

A spokesman for the House Government Operations subcommittee on energy, environment and natural resources said no further hearings were planned on the reactor construction. The committee has no authority to legislate. Its sole function is over-

Barker told the subcommittee that lack of experience in building nuclear power plants caused the quality control problems that halted construc-

"I believe we did not adequately recognize that the construction of a fossil plant and a nuclear plant are quite different and that we did not have a sufficient number of construction people with commercial nuclear experience," he said.

Record 75 whooping cranes migrate to winter home in Aransas refuge

AUSTWELL, Texas (AP) — A rec-. ord 75 whooping cranes have migrated from their summer nesting grounds in Canada to their winter home at the Aransas National Wildlife refuge near the Texas coast, wildlife officials say.

"That's the most we've ever had," said an elated refuge manager Frank

Last April, 74 cranes left Texas, and Johnson said Canadian officials reported seven chicks were hatched during the summer.

"So we could have as many as 81," he said. Of the 75 cranes counted, he said 69 are adults and the other six are young birds. Female cranes lay only two eggs a season.

The whooping cranes nearly died out during the 1930s, but scientists took steps to build up the only known

Johnson said now there are between 120 and 126 whooping cranes in the world, including 26 in captivity and 16 in the only other wild flock, which migrates between New Mexico and Idaho.

The largest cranes in North America spend their summers in the 11-million-acre Wood Buffalo Park in northern Alberta before flying south to the much smaller, 54,000-acre refuge

U.S. business', workers' productivity declining

WASHINGTON (AP) — The productivity of U.S. business and workers has declined for the third consecutive quarter - the first time that has happened since the 1974 recession, the Labor Depart-

The department said Wednesday that revised figures for the July-to-September period show productivity declined at an annual rate of 0.7 percent. Productivity fell at an annual rate of 2.2 percent in the second quarter and 3 percent in the first three months of 1979.

The department was using preliminary data when it reported a month ago that third-quarter productivity had increased 0.1 percent:

Declines in productivity - a measure of goods and services the economy turns out per hour of paid working time - contribute to inflation by increasing unit labor costs. Those increases ultimately are passed along to consumers as higher prices.

They expire Dec. 15, and there are signs that those who got them when they flew United or American airlines or who bought them on speculation from those who did, are about to begin a quiet stampede to unload them while they are still worth more than the paper on which they are printed.

Already, it is a buyer's market. Prices, which once topped $60, range from $25 to $40 now.

About 4 million halffare coupons were issued in May and June by United and American, and spokesmen for those airlines say about 2.5 million have not been redeemed. The airlines freely admit that there are more coupons than potential users, and they don't expect all of them to be used. Although the coupons can save you as much as $374 (roundtrip from New York to Los Angeles, flying American), they won't be worth anything - except maybe as collectors' items - after Dec. 15,

To be competitive, American reluctantly followed suit, and Pan American Airlines honored coupons by eithercarrier on its domestic flights for about a month. United distributed about 2.2 million coupons, and American issued 1.8 million. American says it expects to have redeemed half of them by Dec. 15. United had been predicting that 85 percent would come back, but now it says that goal probably won't be reached. However, Chuck Novak, a spokesman, added, "We think that this week we're going to see a great use of the coupons for holiday travel.

The coupons have become the stock in trade of a nationwide network of speculators who bought and sold them and, in some cases, turned huge profits. A San Diego man reportedly bought 3,000 coupons for $30,000 from passengers arriving at Lindbergh Field on United flights. He hoped to earn $150,000 by reselling them. Georgia authorities considering closing of 'Little White House'

By GREG MacARTHUR

ATLANTA (AP) - Time and the Salk vaccine have not been kind to Warm Springs Hospital, and the state of Georgia is considering closing the facility where Franklin Roosevelt sought relief from crippling polio.

The springs themselves are capped, and the three pools where thousands of polio victims once bathed are cracked and empty

Only 20 percent of the hospital still is in use, draining about $1.5 million a year from the state budget, according to Tom Perdue, executive assistant to Gov. George Busbee.

The hospital and its surrounding 10,000-acre complex in southwest Georgia are the subject of a special state task force study to decide what to do with the property, which was given to the state in 1974 by the Warm Springs Foundation

Under an agreement signed by then-Gov. Jimmy Carter, the property must be operated as a hospital through 1984. But the Georgia Office of Planning and Budget recommended to the task force Tuesday that the hospital and its 260 employees be "consolidated" with its companion rehabilitation center. The task force is to make its own recommendations to Busbee

Such a consolidation would have to be approved by the Warm Springs Foundation. Perdue said the rehabilitation center, which operates independently and treats about 700 patients a year, "runs well and serves a defined need." The hospital, he said, treats about 45 patients and needs extensive renovation

"It would take about $15 million, according to conservative estimates, to bring the hospital back up to the first-class facility it once was," Perdue said

"That would be fine, assuming we had the money, but no one can document that it would be used," he said. "Over the years, it has suffered from a declining patient load because of the Salk vaccine and because it is in competition with modern hospitals in convenient, urban areas.'

The National Center for Disease Control reported in October that the use of oral vaccines had virtually eliminated naturally occurring cases of polio.

'Along with the hospital, the state is operating a golf course (on the property) which alone loses $25,000 to $30,000 annually," Perdue said. "There's no rhyme or reason why the state should be operating a golf course.'

But there is strong sentiment among some foundation members that the complex, which includes the "Little White House" where Roosevelt died on April 12. 1945, should remain as it always has.

"It's just a really complicated issue and a highly emotional issue because the whole grounds have so much historical significance and heritage," Perdue explained.

'But this (task force) is really the first time since the state took over that anyone has tried to give any direction to the area," he said

High school dropouts should get fair share, study says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carnegie Council, which has successfully spurred the federal government in the past to increase aid to college students, says it's time for the nation to do more for the 60 percent of youths who never get to college.

The council released a 332-page report Tuesday with sweeping recommendations for radical restructuring of American high schools and creation of apprenticeships and new programs to give young people job

The study, entitled "Giving Youth a Better Chance: Options for Education, Work and Service," cited congressional figures showing the government spends $1,940 on education is the research arm of the non-profit and employment for each low-income youth in college, but only $339 for high school dropouts.

The report charged that one-third of American youths are "ill-educated, ill-employed and ill-equipped to make their way in American society." The high school dropout rate is 23 percent, and one-fifth of those who do graduate lack basic reading and numerical skills, it said.

"College youths have been assisted by federal initiatives in the 1970s far more than noncollegiate youths and it is time to redress the balance," said the study by the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education. It

Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Clark Kerr, council chairman and former University of California president, said he undertook the study "as a matter of conscience.

"Our past recommendations have been so successful that in some ways they made it harder for the rest of youth left out of college," he said. The more you do for people who go to college, the more you push further down the ladder those who are left

"We must find ways to break up the big, monolithic high school with its deadly weekly routine," the council said. "High school is an alienating experience for many young people (and) like a prison - albeit with open doors for some.'

It proposed that juniors and seniors spend three days a week in regular academic chances and devote the other two days to education-related work, community service or special a greater responsibility for youths, coordinating job programs and services for both students and dropouts,

Kerr said at a news briefing that dropouts who "hated high school" and would consider it demeaning to go back for job training might be willing to look for help at a community college.

The report called for new apprenticeship programs for 16- and 17-yearolds; creating a voluntary National Youth Service Foundation to expand Peace Corps-like work for those 16-to-24; abolition of labor laws that restrict teenagers from working where liquor is sold, on night shifts or around heavy machinery, and exempting teen-agers and their employers from paying the 6.13 percent Social Security tax. The report said the federal cost of these programs would run up to $1.9 billion, but that would be offset by lower crime and welfare rates. It said that because the number of teen-agers will be declining over the next two decades, the youths coming of age could be "the most favored generation since the 1950s," if society smooths the abrupt transition from school to work.

But it warned that failure to change posed the danger of "creating a permanent underclass...a 'lumpen-proletariat' in the 'home of opportunity.""

Export of computer-related products to U.S.S.R. halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Licenses for the export of computer-related products to a Soviet truck plant have been stalled during reassessment of U.S. policy on the sale of goods with potential military uses, Commerce Department officials say.

Hart, Pisarkiewicz dispute triggers Bud Wilkinson firing

By PAUL LeBAR
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Given a second chance, ousted St. Louis Cardinals Coach Bud Wilkinson says he would not alter his handling of the National Football League team

"When I came back, I thought I would take this team to the Super Bowl and take it there with class," an unbowed Wilkinson reflected Wednesday night only hours after he had been

"I'm sorry that I will not have an opportunity to take part in the realization of that dream," Wilkinson added. "I feel that progress has been made. I think we were very close to being a contending team.'

The firing of the 63-year-old Wilkinson was announced at a news conference three games before the collegiate coaching legend was to have completed his second pro season.

"I have determined to take immediate action ... in what I consider to be the best interest of the football team," said Cards' owner Bill Bidwill, who named director of pro personnel Larry Wilson an interim replace-

"THIS DECISION was made when it became apparent Coach Wilkinson and I had opposite positions on the subject of our program for the remainder of the season.'

Bidwill labeled Wilkinson's refusal to use backup Steve Pisarkiewicz. "our quarterback of the future," as the "catalyst" to the final breach.

The two met Monday to confer over the owner's request, said Bidwill. "I suggested that he play Pisarkiewicz, and he indicated he did not intend

"He seemed to think that Pisarkiewicz could do the job. He probably had a reason, but I wasn't told it."

Bidwill indicated the two also had other differences in matters of personnel but declined to be specific, noting that "I'd prefer not to at this

"I didn't look at it that way," Wilkinson responded when asked if Bidwill's request to use-Pisarkiewicz on Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers was an ultimatum.

"I don't think our relationship has been any different at any point in time. I'm just as surprised as you are," the silver-haired coach said further. "I feel that the fans of the team and the players themselves deserve to have the player on the field that have the best probabilities of win-

WILKINSON, a former collegiate coaching legend at Oklahoma, was a surprise choice to coach St. Louis as he was lured out of a 15-year retirement to succeed Don Coryell in March, 1978.

He guided the Cardinals to a 6-10 record last fall. This year, the team has lost six of its last seven games. It has a 3-10 record and little chance of escaping last place in the National Conference East.

'We had a great number of very, very close games," Wilkinson said. "I had planned to be here next year. I think I've done a reasonably good Wilkinson said his plans, other than remaining in St. Louis for the time being, were indefinite - particularly in respect to further coaching.

'It's a very unique experience when you have a group of highly talented people together in the same time frame and have the same objective in mind," he said. "What I'm not certain about are the pressures. I'll have to think about that for a

At Oklahoma, Wilkinson's collegiate teams compiled a 145-29-4 record in 17 seasons, winning three national titles and 14 Big Six, Big Seven and Big Eight titles in the process.

BIDWILL said Wilson, a 41-year-old NFL Hall of Famer, will direct the team only through the remainder of the 1979 season and then return to the

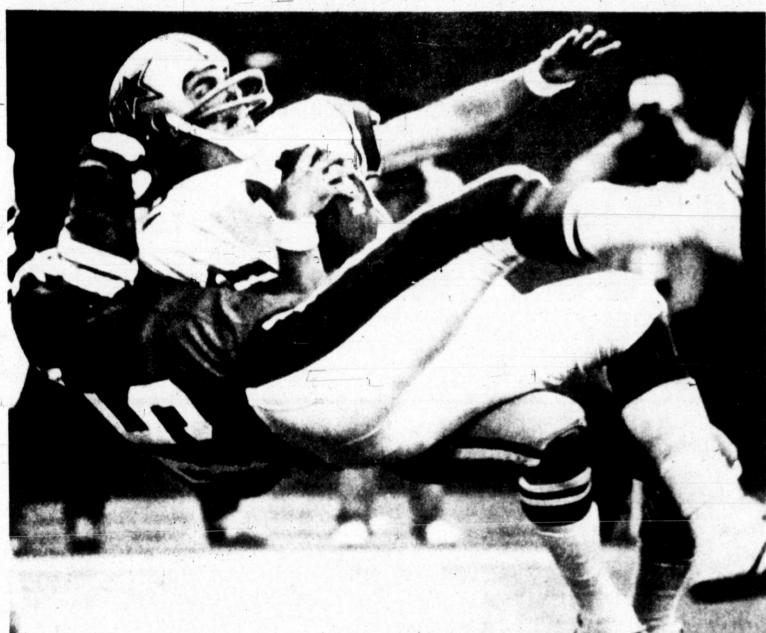

"The first thing I'd like to say is that I had great admiration for Bud. I was very surprised," Wilson said of Wilkinson's abrupt departure. "The only thing that Bill has requested me to do is play Pisarkiewicz, and he will

"I think the situation with Steve is that we have an agreement that (Jim) Hart is our No.1 quarterback," Wilson said. "It absolutely does not mean the end of Hart. We have a draft coming up before we get to next year's training camp. I think before that draft comes about we need to find out about some people on our football

In retrospect, Bidwill said he second-guessed himself for having signed Wilkinson to what had been a four-year contract.

"I made the decisions," the owner said, "He (Wilkinson) is a fine gentleman, a fine man, and I still respect him. Basically, we just had to do what was best for the the football team."

Pisarkiewicz joined a majority of St. Louis players who declined to discuss their reactions to the firing.

Hungry Giants want revenge

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) -Three seconds is all that separates the Dallas Cowboys from a five-game losing streak.

That's how much time was left when Rafael Septien booted a 22-yard field goal against the New York Giants on Nov. 4 to cap a furious fourth quarter comeback that lifted the Cowboys to a Dallas had lost the previous week to Pittsburgh and after nipping the Giants began their current three-game losing binge against Philadelphia. The Giants get a chance to increase the streak to four when they meet the Cowboys Sunday in Dallas.

"I know they have a few problems," Giants Coach Ray Perkins said. "They've lost three in a row but they're still a fine football team."

PERKINS CONCEDES "it would be a big shot in the arm if we beat Dallas in Dallas Sunday," but claims it's not the biggest of the three remaining games for

"If we put all the significance on this game, then, if you were a player, how would you look at the last two games?"

Perkins said Wednesday. "Of the three games, the most significant game is the last one. That's the one they will remember the most in the offseason. New York has won six of its last eight games after opening the season with five consecutive defeats. Twice they have come within one game of attaining the .500 mark, but both attempts ended in

"I don't think our players are looking at this as a pivotal game, they want to win the last three. And that's how it should be," Perkins said. "We played well against them the last time and felt we should have won - but we didn't."

DALLAS HAS an 8-5 record and is tied for second place in the NFC East with Washington, one game behind the

"I was concerned early in the season, even though we were winning, hecause we weren't playing up to the caliber of that record (7-1)," Coach Tom Landry said by telephone from Dallas. 'We haven't played too many good foot-when you've been to three of the last four Super Bowls, the fans don't like it. When you get beat, and there's a chance you might not get back, they get upset. If you stay in the game long enough, you'll have ups and downs. Right now we're Landry noted that the Dallas defense just hasn't been able to overcome the retirements of the left side of the defensive line - Ed "Too Tall" Jones and Jethro Pugh - and safety Charlie Waters' season-ending knee injury.

Landry also said there's no chance linebacker Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson will play for the Cowboys again. Henderson retired last week after he was placed on waivers.

"That's a closed book as far as I'm concerned," Landry said. "It would be in his best interest not to play for the

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) - Marshall University assistant football coach Bruce Johnson has been reinstated following his suspension after a player charged that Johnson had struck him.

Benitez remains unawed

Defends title against ring's glamor boy

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wilfred Benitez is well aware of Sugar Ray Leonard's fighting credentials, but he is hardly in awe of boxing's current glamor boy.

"Remember, everyody says he's looked tremeneous, but this time he's fighting a champion," said Benitez.

At age 21, Benitez is a two-time world champion who conquered Antonio Cervantes and Carlos Palomino.

He outpointed Cervantes, the legendary Kid Pambele from Colombia, for the World Boxing Association junior welterweight (140-pound limit) title in 1976. Last Jan. 14, he outpointed Palomino for the World Boxing Council welterweight (147 pounds) title, which he will defend against Leonard Friday night at Caesars Pal-

YET LEONARD is an overwhelming favorite to win the richest non-heavyweight fight in history. Benitez is getting $1.2 million and Leonard $1 million. In a real oddity, a parlay bet on Benitez and Vito Antuofermo, who will defend the universal middleweight title against Marvin Hagler, will get you 14-1. That means you can bet $10 to win $140 on two world champions who have combined record of 81-3-2.

Noting the popularity of Leonard, who has fought on national television 20 times in his short career, Benitez's manager, Jimmy Jacobs, called the 4-1 odds against his fighter "an emotional odds."

Benitez said simply, "I'm the champion."

The two title fights here will be part of a nationally televised triple-header with the WBA light heavyweight championship bout in New Orleans between champion Victor Galindez and Marvin Johnson, the former WBC light heavyweight champ.

ABC will televise from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

"I think my ambition is to retire financially independent and unharmed," Leonard told a press luncheon Wednesday. He is well on the way to financial freedom, having earned almost $4 million in posting a 25-0 record since turning pro in 1977, about six months after winning an Olympic gold medal in Montreal.

But Leonard has another goal, one that concerns pride, not money.

"I don't want to be remembered as just a good fighter," said the 23-year-old resident of Palmer Park, Md. "I want to be something great, something special."

"When I have to fight somebody ... he's better than anybody I ever faced," said Benitez, meaning he doesn't take opponents lightly. He has been accused of showboating rather than fighting in some previous fights, but they were not title fights. But the Puerto Rican, who says his name is Wilfred, not Wilfredo as he has been known, quickly added:

"I'm not scared of nobody. I'm the champion. That's why I fight the greatest. I beat Pambele and Palomino and when I beat Leonard, I'll fight

DURAN, THE former lightweight champion whose name is Roberto, not Robert as he was called by Benitez, looms as a big money-match opponent for Friday night's winner.

By DAN SEWELL MIAMI (AP) - Viewers tuning into Thursday night's American Football

Conference East showdown between the New England Patriots and the Miami Dolphins will get a rare sight - the Dolphins' No.12 on the bench at the beginning of the game.

But Bob Griese, his head still held high through a season of disappointments and criticism, accepts his new second-string status as yet another

Last week, the 34-year-old quarterback was benched because of his performance for the first time in his pro career. When Don Strock was knocked cold by a sack, though, Griese entered in the second quarter and led the Dolphins to a 28-24 victory over Baltimore. "It's a little bit more difficult in a way - preparing and then not playing. It tends to cause a feeling the following week of well, why should I prepare and work hard if I'm not going to be playing," Griese said

Wednesday "In the last game - the first week I'm not starting - after a quarter of play I'm in there, and you know, you better be prepared, because you could be in there in a second," Griese

He said the only problem about coming off the bench is needing time to warm up, but he said there's also an advantage in that "you can sit back and watch the defense, the tendencies against your team's plays, and you can pick up things.'

This has been a unique season for Griese. He's been benched for the first time, he's been heavily criticized by the fans and media for the first time, and he's even been publicly criticized by a teammate.

Coach Don Shula said Griese's performance Sunday was "tremendous, particularly because of the ordeal he had to go through last week - all the stuff about is Griese washed up?"

"I went in and won the game, and that's why you have 45 players. It wasn't anything special for me,' Griese said. "After you get in there, it's like you never left.'

Griese surprisingly said afterward that he thought Strock should start Thursday night. "The decision was made last week to give Don an opportunity to play and I agreed with it. If they wanted to give him a chance, I don't think the Baltimore game was his chance. I went in in the second quarter and won the game, so he deserves his chance all over," he

Griese said the major differences between Strock and himself are obvi-

"He's 6-5 and weighs about 210, I'm 6-1 and weigh 190. He's bigger and stronger and he has the added advantage of his strength. I do things more on timing and getting people open. We both get results."

In what situation, other than injury, will Griese play Thursday? "I don't know, you'd have to ask Coach Shula," he replied.

"Well, the last thing I want a player who's starting to think that I've got a hook in him, and he's going to be jerked out the first mistake he makes," Shula said. After Thursday, his quarterbacking will be determined "on a game-bygame basis. Bob has been so valuable, too important for us, to just set him aside," Shula said.

Griese has grown testy under criticism, and he's admitted his surprise at how quickly the Miami fans have turned on the self-effacing star who led the Dolphins to three Super Bowls.

Young wide receiver Duriel Harris even fired some shots, but Griese brushed them off. "I don't recall if that's ever happened before," said Griese.

Rich get richer as college basketball campaign begins

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer Led by longtime superpower Kentucky, college basketball's rich teams are expected to get richer this season in what is generally reputed to be the best recruiting year in the history of the sport.

Virginia also seems to have hit the jackpot all at once with the acquisition of the most sought-after schoolboy player in the country.

As preparations continue for Friday night's official opening of the 1979-80 season, Kentucky is conceded to have had perhaps the best recruiting haul in the country with four fine prospects.

The most notable of these is 7-foot-1 Sam Bowie, who has jumped right into the Wildcats' starting lineup at center. Bowie made an auspicious college debut with 22 points in the season-jumping Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic on Nov. 17 against Duke.

Along with this classy Lebanon, Pa., product, Coach Joe Hall picked up three other players who could start just about anywhere: 6-foot-7 Derrick Hord of Bristol, Tenn., 6-6 Charles Hurt of Shelbyville, Ky., and 6-3 Dirk Minniefield of Lexington, Ky. Hord and Hurt are unselfish program players who should fit nicely into Hall's total team concept. Minniefield was one of the country's top scholastic point guards. HALL'S colleague at Louisiana

State University, Dale Brown, reflects the popular opinion with the observation: "Kentucky had one of the best recruiting years in the history of college basketball - an unbelievable year.'

While Kentucky landed perhaps the best bunch, the Cavaliers recruited the Big One in Ralph Sampson, a 7-foot-3 center with a world of poten-

"He is one of the greatest players ever to come out of the state of Virginia, if not the greatest," says Sampson's coach at Harrisonburg High School, Roger Bergey. "When his weight catches up to his height, I don't know his full potential."

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, one of many who lost the recruiting war for Sampson to Terry Holland, grandly predicts of this spell-binding seven-footer: "He will undoubtedly go on to become one of the greatest college and professional players of all College recruiters were well aware of Sampson's abilities in his junior year, when he led Harrisonburg to the first of two straight state championships. As a senior last season, he had eye-popping statistics, averaging 30 points and 20 rebounds a game.

Sampson is said to be better at this stage of his career than Wilt Chamberlain, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar or another spectacular Virginia product, Moses Malone.

The pros, as well as the colleges, were interested in Sampson. But he opted for school because, as he put it, "I want to go to college ... supposedly, the pros are going to offer me a lot of money (later)."

TALENTED big men seem to be in vogue this year, with fine frontcourt prospects attending such evergreens as Ohio State, Notre Dame and Brigham Young.

The Buckeyes have come up with 6-8 Clark Kellogg, considered by some to be the best forward prospect out of the high school ranks this year. He is said to be the best schoolboy player ever to come out of the Greater Cleveland area, as well as the best to come out of Ohio since Jerry Lucas prepped at a school near Cincinnati.

Kellogg's decision between Ohio State and Michigan was viewed with so much interest in the Midwest that he finally had to call a news conference to announce his decision on National Letter of Intent Day, April 11.

"Clark is the greatest player in the country for our team," says Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller. "Coaches told me during the year, 'If you land an outstanding forward, you'd have a great team.' Well, Clark has tremendous forward skills. Many people who have seen him in all-star games say they have never seen a better player in high school.'

Notre Dame buttressed its frontcourt with the addition of 6-10 Tim Andree of Birmingham, Mich., and 6-7 Bill Varner of Pittsburgh. The Irish are particularly pleased with

"Billy is one of the best players in the United States," says Notre Dame assistant coach Danny Nee of Varner, who led Valley High School to the Class AAA scholastic championship in Pennsylvania last season. "He just hasn't received the publicity the others have."

Greg Kite, who averaged 18 points and 15 rebounds in his senior year at Madison High School in Houston, will lend his 6-foot-11 support to BYU. Cougar Coach Frank Arnold sees another Western Athletic Conference championship in his future as a re-

"There is no question that in time, Greg Kite has the ability - if he develops — to become a legitimate All-America and one of the finest centers in the country," Arnold says. Georgia, meanwhile, had one of its best recruiting years in history, according to Coach Hugh Durham. The Bulldogs signed six "top ones", including a player some consider one of the country's best power forward prospects in 6-7 Dominque Wilkins of Washington, D.C. Terry Fair of Macon, Ga., another forward, was another big fish landed by Durham. Arizona signed 6-3 Leon Wood of Santa Monica, Calif., among four top recruits. Wood was the nation's No. 2 high school scorer last year with a 42.3 average.

UCLA PICKED up three of the country's top recruits, including 6-7 Darren Daye of Granada Hills, Calif. At North Carolina, Smith added, among others, 6-9 James Worthy of Gastonia, N.C. Indiana strengthened itself with the addition of 6-1 Isiah Thomas of Manchester, Ill., reportedly one of the best "pure guards" in the

The University of San Francisco recruited two top guards in 6-1 Raymond McCoy and 6-4 Quintin Dailey of Baltimore: San Francisco Coach Dan Belluomini is especially happy with

"He looks to pass before he shoots, which is a rare commodity in this day and age," says Belluomini.

Sidney Green, one of the New York area's top scholastic players, and 6-6 Larry Anderson of Pittsburgh were recruited at Nevada-Las Vegas. Missouri signed up another of the nation's coveted big men in 6-11 Steve Stipanovich of St. Louis.

DePaul, a Final Four team last season, added more muscle to its front line with the addition of two schoolboy stars from the Chicago area, 6-8 Teddy Grubbs and 6-9 Terry Cummings.

Ricky Ross, a 6-4 guard from Wichita South High School, has joined Kansas to team up in the backcourt with superstar Darnell Valentine.

'I think our perimeter play will be excellent in the future," says Kansas Coach Ted Owens.

Saban threatens to pull out at West Point areas, notably Long Island, Pittsburgh and Chi-Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster and Maj. Gen. Ray threatened to retreat from the Army football program unless West Point officials bring in fresh reserves.

"I'm only concerned with football and if I'm not given the tools, then it won't work and there will be no further need for my services," the Army coach said Wednesday.

In what he called a "crisis" situation, Saban tossed the ball to Academy Superintendent Lt.

Murphy, the athletic director.

"The promises made and the agreements entered into when I signed my contract have not been fulfilled," said Saban.

AMONG SABAN'S complaints was the problem of recruiting. He said:

"I have only recently discovered that our Army recruiters are being barred from certain cago, because there are no congressional appointments available in those states. I have been informed that they are not available. I told them if we can't upgrade our talent, then we cannot be competitive with the Penn States, the Pittsburghs, the Baylors and the Notre Dames

"Without depth — and we had none (in 1979) a team cannot be competitive against the opponents we play.'

JIM MURRAY

What happened to boola, boola, give 'em the ax?

By JIM MURRAY

Los Angeles Times Syndicate In the second quarter with the game still relatively in doubt, 14-0, at the Coliseum Saturday, USC had a first down on its own 15-yard line with 24 yards to go when a UCLA cheerleader hurried anxiously to a sideline micro-

"Now, listen," he said urgently.
"Remember (SC quarterback) McDonald calls audibles 40 percent of the time. If we make plenty of noise, they can't hear him. And we mess up the plays. Now, when the Trojans come up to the line of scrimmage, I . want everybody yelling as loud as they can and keep on yelling. WE CAN WIN THIS GAME! YOU AND ME! Remember, it's not illegal. Not till we get a warning! Let's hear it!" From the Bruin stands, came a piercing, unrelenting shrill wall of nals but all sideline conversations and the barks of the vendors. On the field, startled, Trojan quarterback Paul McDonald halted his cadence, stared at the stands - and lost his grip on the play. A whistle blew. A five-yard penalty was called against him. Three plays later, the Trojans had to punt for only the second time in the hijinks? Boola-boola? "Bulldog, bulldog, fight, fight, fight"? Maybe. But this smacks more of flashing signals is not just good old American gamesmanship. This is not sporting. This is another form of "winning is the only thing!" That discredited humbug. This is just plain not fair. This is marking the deck. Boiling the dice.

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - Here is the 1979 All-Lone from a peephole above a card game. This is cheating. This is a sting. This against the players.

Audience participation is a part of sport. Clapping in unison to startle the opposing pitcher is as old as the seventh-inning stretch. Bench-jockeying is a part of the old ballgame. Yelling "Drysdale, yer a bum!" or "Call yerself a pitcher, Seaver?" is as American as ketchup. "Get the other eye, Louie!" is a part of pugilism. "Where's the foul, Mendy?" is as legitimate in basketball as the jumpshot.

But this is different. This is climbing in the ring. This is tampering with the foul lines. This is loading the gloves, sprinkling tacks on the barefoot marathoners' path, putting sugar in the Offenhauser tanks.

This is not three cheers and a locomotive for the old home team. This is not "Let's cheer it for the Bruins!" Whatever happened to "Brek-ek-ekek, co-ax, co-ax"? This is not card tricks. This is a conscious, cynical attempt to affect the outcome of the game, as reprehensible as putting an ace up the sleeve.

The game should be played by the 11 men on the field, not the 50,000 in the home stands. That's why games have rules. That's why the Magna Carta was drawn up. Just as the few shouldn't oppress the many, neither should the many oppress the few. It's not only an Anglo-Saxon tradition, to have a fair fight, it's a human tradition. All might be fair in love and war but not in football.

Bring all the pompons you want to the game. Boo the umpire, scream at the head linesman. And plead: "Hold that line!" or "We want a touchdown!" all you want. Wave dollar bills at SC to suggest they pay for their education - or their players if you will.

But, jam up the quarterback's signals? That is what despots do to the Voice of America, not the student body to what is after all a student playing the game.

Paint the statue of Tommy Trojan, steal the bell, light the bonfires - but don't turn a crowd into a mob. Don't burn books to win a game.

It's always been the proud boast of Americans that we don't need moats around the field, or armed guards or the Army to protect the referees. We're the people of Grantland Rice's "It's not whether you won or lost, but how you played the game." We've been the city where Notre Dame carr come in and trounce the home team, 38-7, or 51-0 -- and 104,000 people watch and nobody burns a bus. they just say, "Well, that's show biz!" But crowds hve been getting away from that posture all over the leagues; of late. It's time to stop, time to smile in defeat, not snarl, to cheer the opposition, not cheat him.

Either that, or move the games to-Neuremberg - and call them ral-

O.J. Simpson, San Francisco 49ers, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards four times during his superstar seasons with Buffalo, was named the NFLPlayer of the Decade by Pro Football Monthly, beating out quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh, Roger Staubach, Dallas, and Ken Stabler, Oakland...

Baltimore Colts quarterback Bert Jones will be watching the team's last three games from the bench, according to Coach Ted Marchibroda. "I had planned to try and use Bert again this year, we didn't want to send Bert home with him thinking his shoulder couldn't do the job, it doesn't look like Bert will be able to play in our final three games."...

New England tight end Russ Francis notes that if the Patriots and Miami Dolphins live down to their season-long form, tonight's battle for the AFC East lead will end in a scoreless tie. It's been a strange season for both teams. The Patriots - so very, very good, or so horrid. The Dolphins - struggling through quarterback problems, mistakes and the inability to win a big game. "The perfect scenario for this game, would be to go into overtime, nobody scores and we'd end in a tie." It's really hard to figure out what's wrong with us, it's nothing tangible. I would like to think this is a good team. I hope it is, but I'm not sure. We have a lot of talent ...

Coach Bart Starr said quarterback Lynn Dickey would start for Green Bay against Washington Sunday, his first start in more than two years. USC's White named Pac-10 Player of Year

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Charles White, the Southern California tailback who won the national rushing title this season, was named Pacific-10 football's Player of the Year Wednesday. White also won the award, determined by a vote of Pac-10 head coaches, last year as a junior. This season, he set a conference record with 1,803 yards rushing in 10 games and averaged 6.2 yards per carry.

His career total for regular season play is 5,598 yards, second highest in NCAA history behind Tony Dorsett's 6,082 total.

'I am running out of adjectives to describe Charlie," says USC Coach John Robinson. "We ask a lot of him. He carries the ball 30-35 times a game, but he just keeps coming back at you. He is one of the most durable and toughest football players I have ever

The senior tailback from San Fernando, Calif., scored 18 touchdowns this season. His career total of 52 tied the conference record set by USC's Anthony Davis.

White's biggest one-game output was 261 yards this year against Notre Dame. In his career, he went over 200 yards five times.

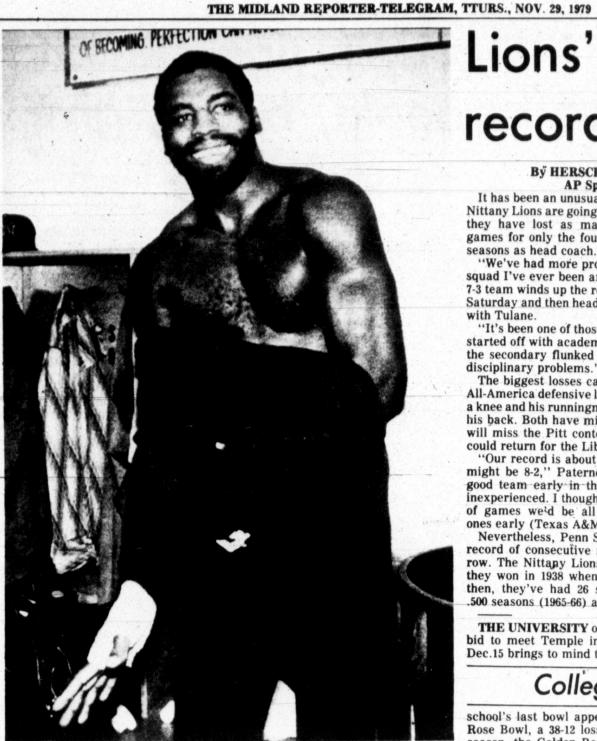

The USC star won the conference award handily, outdistancing quarterbacks Paul McDonald of USC and Rich Campbell of California, free safety Kenny Easley of UCLA and tailback Joe Steele of Washington in the voting.

The Pac-10 award is sponsored by Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co.

Too Tall ready for next victim

Too Tall determined to fight despite criticism

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) - Ed "Too Tall" Jones has been socked in the jaw by an angry fist encased in an eightounce glove and felled by a rock-hard helmet used as a battering ram by an enemy blocker.

"Which is the more violent sport boxing or football?" The 6-foot-7 former defensive end of the Dallas Cowboys repeated a question. "Boxing. In football, you are protected by all that gear. In boxing, your head is Neither of these macho sports crecriticism of his first three bouts and the somber headlines surrounding Willie Classen's fight for life after suffering a brutal beating Friday in Madison Square Garden's Felt "I've seen films of that fight,"

Jones said. "I wish people would drop the whole thing. I've seen other fights which were allowed to go on with a guy is far worse shape. Everybody officials, corner men and doctors should learn a lesson but all this publicity is bad on the guy's fami-

It's different in the ring. Launching his career on television with a great deal of fanfare, Too Tall won an unimpressive six-round decision Nov. 3 over Jesus Yaqui Meneses. He knocked out Abdullah Muhammad in six at Phoenix two weeks later and last Saturday stopped Fernando Montes in 4l seconds. His next fight is Dec. 14 in Dallas against an as yet unnamed opponent.

Ex-champ Smokin' Joe Frazier has joined the growing chorus urging that Jones give up boxing and return to football before he gets seriously

"Who is Frazier to give such adfumed Griffith, a wiry, baldheaded man who is an uncle of former welterweight champ Emile. "Has Joe forgotten how he got slaughtered by a big, slow, raw fighter named George Foreman in Jamaica in 1973?

"People expect too much of Too Tall. Remember he had only been in a gym once before taking up boxing last June. They think he ought to be as good a boxer as he was a football player. It takes time."

JONES IS equally unmoved by such criticism.

"How many people saw Joe Frazier in his first fight?" he asked. "Or his first 10?"

A bearded giant with arms like wagon tongues, the 28-year-old graduate of Tennessee State said he is determined to win the heavyweight

"I've wanted to be a fighter ever since I was a kid listening to fights with dad back home in Jackson (Tenn.)" he said. "I made my decision two years ago. It's exciting. It's electrifying — man against man. But it's the hardest work I've ever

Lions' disappointing 7-3 record about right...Joe

Bÿ HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

It has been an unusual year at Penn State. Oh, the Nittany Lions are going to a bowl game, as usual, but they have lost as many as three regular-season games for only the fourth time in Joe Paterno's 14 seasons as head coach.

'We've had more problems and injuries than any squad I've ever been around," says Paterno, whose 7-3 team winds up the regular season against Pitt on Saturday and then heads for a Liberty Bowl meeting

"It's been one of those years. It's the first time we started off with academic problems (two starters in the secondary flunked out) and we also had a few disciplinary problems."

The biggest losses came several weeks ago when All-America defensive lineman Bruce Clark wrecked a knee and his runningmate, tackle Matt Millen, hurt his back. Both have missed the last few games and will miss the Pitt contest, as well, although Millen could return for the Liberty Bowl.

"Our record is about right, although I thought we might be 8-2," Paterno says. "We weren't a very good team early in the year because we were so inexperienced. I thought if we got by the first couple of games we'd be all right, but we lost two big ones early (Texas A&M and Nebraska).

Nevertheless, Penn State has extended its NCAA record of consecutive nonlosing seasons to 41 in a row. The Nittany Lions last lost more games than they won in 1938 when the record was 3-4-1. Since then, they've had 26 straight winning years, two .500 seasons (1965-66) and 13 more winning ones.

THE UNIVERSITY of California's acceptance of a bid to meet Temple in the Garden State Bowl on Dec.15 brings to mind the fact that the school's last bowl appearance was the Jan.1, 1959, Rose Bowl, a 38-12 loss to Iowa. Early in the next season, the Golden Bears met up with Iowa again and this time they bowed 42-12.

Dave Maggard, now Cal's athletic director, remembers that late in the latter game the officials gave the Golden Bears a fifth down. One of the Iowa linemen caught the boo-boo and hollered at the referee, but a merciful teammate said, "Aw, let 'em have it.

"We've improved since then," Maggard points out. "We think we can compete with anybody

WHY ISN'T Tuskegee Institute of Tuskegee, Ala., in the Top Ten? Claude Campbell of Knoxville, Tenn., points out that Tuskegee beat Florida A&M 16-14, Florida A&M beat Miami, Fla. 16-13, Miami beat Penn State 26-10, Penn State beat Rutgers 45-10, Rutgers beat Army 20-10, Army beat Stanford 17-13 ... and Stanford tied second-ranked Southern Cal 21-21.

THERE'S SOMETHING about being on probation that does things to Oklahoma schools. The University of Oklahoma won a national championship in 1974 while in the NCAA's jailhouse and this year Oklahoma State surprised most folks with a 7-4 overall record and a 5-2 third-place finish in the Big Eight.

The Cowboys, under first-year Head Coach Jim Johnson and with walk-ons and freshmen compiling a goodly portion of the roster, won four conference games on the road, two more than any previous Oklahoma State team had ever won. And the seven victories made Johnson the winningest firstyear coach in the school's history.

Among the walk-ons who have starred for the Cowboys are defensive end Rick Antle and quarterbacks Harold Bailey and John Doerner.

THE WINLESS Florida Gators wore orange shirts for the first time ever against unbeaten Florida State. It was reminiscent of Notre Dame's switch to green jerseys two years ago preceding a rout of Southern Cal.

Florida didn't win but the Gators gave Florida State a better game than anyone had a right to expect, succumbing 27-16 after being tied 10-10 in the fourth quarter.

The Gators weren't particularly impressed with the Seminoles, but that's to be expected from bitter

"If they're No.5 in the country. . . well, I won't say it. Let them have their day," said Florida nose guard Robin Fisher. And now the Seminoles are No.4.

CLEMSON Memorial Stadium is known as "Death Valley" for obvious reasons, but Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne doesn't mind, especially since his Terrapins won 19-0 there back in September.

"They have the most enthusiastic fans around," Claiborne says. "They are vocal. This is what college football is about. When they get loud, I tell our players to pretend they are cheering for you.

'During the game they are very competitive. They want their team to win. They cheer hard for them, and I think this is great. But what I think is even greater is that before the game and after the game the young Clemson fans come up and ask our players for their autographs. They wish our players well for the rest of the year and to win the rest of our

"The older fans shake your hand and congratulate you when you win. When the bus was leaving 'Death Valley' to go to the airport the fans waved, smiled and wished us luck. I think this was a great example for any fans throughout the country to understand that during the game you are competitive and after the game, as ladies and gentlemen, you congratulate the victor and also congratulate the loser for BEAR BRYANT on upsets: "Major upsets happen every week. With the squad limits as they are, the haves don't have as much-and the have-nots have more. If you go out there and you're not ready to play, you get beat.'

Oops, Lake Placid left without lights 7 hours

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — This village of 2,700 persons went about its business without electricity for seven hours Wednesday as the local electric company beefed up its system for the 1980 Winter Olympics.

A police spokesman said power, which was cut as scheduled at 9 a.m., was restored about 4:15, or about 10 minutes before sunset. It was scheduled to return at 3 p.m., but the work took longer than expected

No problems occurred during the outage, police said. Temperatures fell from about 50 at noon into the high 30s by midafternoon as a cold front moved through the area

The work was needed to bring the village's municipal supply to 115,000 volts from 46,000 to handle the power demand in staging and reporting the Games. Schools were dismissed for the day, but many businesses and offices remained open.

Sens. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., and John Chafee, R-R.I., would raise from 60 percent to 75 percent the tax on future price increases of "new" oil, which generally is any oil discovered between 1973 and 1978. Earlier this week, the Senate ap proved an amendment that would slash the impact of the tax by $10

Meanwhile, other senators stepped up demands that Carter reimpose price controls on domestically produced crude oil until Congress approves a tough tax.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Energy Committee, said watered-down tax being considered in the Senate amounts to little more than an effort to "whitewash" a huge oil industry windfall.

Because of the weakening of the tax, Jackson told colleagues, it is up to Carter to protect consumers. "Anything short of price control reimposition would cheat the American people for the benefit of the oil industry," he Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who is challenging Cartdr for the Democratic presidential nomination, called again on the president to pledge to veto the tax bill unless it takes at least 50 percent of the oil industry's "windfall" over the next 11 years. The proposed "windfall-profits tax actually is not a tax on profits, but on the extra revenue oil companies will gain from the lifting of federal controls on domestic oil prices. Carter decided earlier this year that federal controls on crude oil produced in this country have held prices artificially low and have denied the industry the money it needs to increase exploration and production. He began phasing out those controls and proposed the new tax to take from the oil industry part of the expected $1 trillion increase in consumer prices from 1980 through 1990. Carter wants the revenue to pay for developing alternative fuels, improving the nation's transportation system and helping lower income Americans cope with rising fuel costs.

Subtracting existing state and federal taxes would leave the industry about $435 billion of the $1 trillion

"windfall." The House passed a tax, similar to what Carter wanted, that would take about 62 percent of the $435 billion. The bill being considered by the Senate would tax away only about 27 percent.

. The Bradley-Chafee amendment would cost the oil industry another $22.5 billion, thus increasing the Senate tax to about 32 percent.

Their proposal to raise the tax on 'new" oil generally is considered to have the best chance of approval of any amendment to raise the tax above the level voted by the Finance Committee.

Oil discovered between 1973 and 1978 now sells for an average of about $13 a barrel. With removal of price controls, the price is expected to rise gradually to more than $30.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee and manager of the tax bill, said the amendment would leave oil producers with virtually no new incentive at all for increased exploration and oil production.

Earlier estimates placed the value of the amendment at $14 billion from 1980 through 1990, but congressional aides raised the figure Wednesday to $22.5 billion.

See 'Our Town' tonight

By BECKY WILSON, AMY DAVENPORT, ANGELA TOMPKINS and TRACY BEERE

Welcome back, Bulldogs! We all hope you had a great Thanksgiving holiday and vacation. If you've got the "back to school blahs," just remember that Christmas in just around the corner and you'll be out before you know it.

IF YOU DECIDED to stick around for the big (?) Houston-Dallas game, why don't you stay tuned for the REAL Big Event that will take Midland by storm at 8 p.m. today - "Our Town," starring the MHS drama department and featuring such stars as Candy Baimbridge, Dru Perry, Philip and Edward Coffield, Lindy Trollinder, Kyle Raybourn and Rod Steele. The cast includes still more names too numerous to mention.

The Big Event will be staged tonight and Friday at 8 p.m. and at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the MHS Auditorium. Tickets are on sale at the door or can be purchased from any drama student. General admission is $2; student tickets are only $1. Don't miss this spectacular event; you may be pleasantly sur-100 CLUBBERS - Rasco wants you at cotillion sure to read the after-school work list and be espe-signed up - not Rasco, who has to take your place when you break your word.

Congratulations to Patty O'Neill for being named Junior Lioness for this week. Another big congrats goes to Jeff Robnett and Rick Ankerholtz for being chosen to represent MHS on the 5-4A football team. Also an honorable mention to the runners-up, Michael Feldt and Bill Young. Keep up the good work.

WAY TO GO, Roundballers! You picked up a big second place in the Midland Invitational Basketball Tourney. Perry Bolger and Herbert Johnson were high scorers and were picked for the all-tournament team. Keep up that spirit. We just keep winning and winning. Our Bulldog Band dug up another Victory Bone in the marching contest. We knew you could do it. We dug you all through the football season, so we knew you were a cinch for the big win in the contest. Wacky Wilson's Wascals win once again! Remember - early to bed, early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise (and usually boring).

Anyway, we hope you're all wise for the SAT Saturday in the MHS cafeteria. Good luck to everyone taking the test.

'Til next week, your faithful chatters, Becky, Amy, Angela and Tracy P.S. - Rasco says the floors at the YC were clean-up Friday morning bright and early (only 7:30). We need you and you need the points. Also be polished and waxed over the holidays and had better stay that way for a very long time! Christmas in cially sure to show up on your day. After all, you Robertson, North No. 1 Beach, 1,980 from (Clear Fork 7100)— north and east section 99, Exxon No. 11-C Exxon No. 11-C Exxon block D, J.H. Gibson, 15 T&P, 18 northwest Barn-

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM WASHINGTON (AP) - Cooks in thousands of Thanksgiving Day kitchens shuddered. The radio was saying, over and over again, that the government was recalling cans of pumpkin pie filling as potentially hazardous. But to Frank Patane, manager of the company that canned the filling, the announcement was "dirty business" by a bungling federal agency. 'When they break you up and then come back and

The filling had been distributed between Oct. 14, 1977, and Oct. 26, 1978. Although cans of the product had been on the shelves for as much as 22 months, no illnesses had been attributed to it. Patane said local health authorities told him the act of baking the pie would destroy any harmful bacteria. Nevertheless, on Aug. 28, Sterling sent letters to its customers telling them to pull any remaining pie filling from their shelves. Copies of the letters were routinely sent to the FDA in Washington. While Sterling was conducting its recall, the FDA was sending letters back and forth to its Buffalo district office, which has jurisdiction over Sterling. Over the next two months, the FDA determined that the recall was, indeed, a recall and assigned it a West should throw spades on the second and third diamonds, and South gets only eight tricks. If West discards a club, South may get a second club trick and thus sneak home through the back door.

If you play the hand for glory, in a tournament, you must play the diamonds optimistically. You cannot afford to play safe and then discover that the suit breaks favorably and that you are the only person at the tournament to lose a diamond stock market, after meandering for most of the session, closed Wednesday with a last-minute rally brought on by rumors - immediately denied -that IBM was about to settle the antitrust suit brought against it several years ago by the Justice Department.

IBM rose as high as 67, but settled back after the rumor was denied. It closed at 65 % a 1%-point gain, and led the New York Stock Exchange's most-active list. The late flurry gave the Dow Jones industrial average a 4.61-point rise for the day to 830.46, its highest closing level since Oct. 17. Advances outnumbered declines on the NYSE, where volume was 39.69 million shares, the third straight session of heavy trading. The NYSE's composite index of its more than 1,500

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .73 at 227.06.

BUSINESS MIRROR Resales proving loan availability

BY JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many builders, sellers and lenders have been telling potential homebuyers the same thing in the past few weeks: Your chances of getting a mortgage are minimal because of money problems. But it is not necessarily so, and the existing home resale rate could not have sailed along at an annual rate of 3.9 million units in October if the availability of loans had suddenly and totally dried up. It is true that mortgage money is tighter since the Federal Reserve imposed stricter credit controls on Oct. 6 and that sales are being slowed. But the November resale rate will probably exceed 3.5 mil-

It is true also that some thrift institutions, such as savings banks and savings associations, have almost withdrawn from the market because they cannot compete for savings - to re-lend - with other

And it is true, too, that in more than 20 states the presence of usury ceilings has drastically cut into the willingness of lenders to lend. Why lend at 11 percent, they ask, when the going rate is 13 or more?

All true, but it is also true that money is available. From whom? From sellers, and in rarer instances from real estate agents." Solid statistics are not available, but it has become common in some areas this year, especially of late, for sellers to provide temporary financing in order to keep a potential sale from dying. Arrangements vary, but a typical procedure is for the seller to accept a down payment of perhaps 20 percent of the sale price and grant a two-year loan for the remainder at the prevailing interest rate. Few buyers are able to pay the entire cost in two years, so monthly payments are scheduled on the basis of a 20-year or 25-year loan. The procedure leaves a "balloon" to be paid at the end of two years, when it is assumed the buyer can obtain bank Since real estate brokers also suffer from lost sales, a small number have themselves offered temporary financing, withdrawing savings from institutions and sometimes obtaining a greater return In some instances second mortgage money, often at rates of 18 percent or more in states without usury ceilings, enters the picture, although mainly for multifamily dwellings. Other procedures for facilitating sales include mortgage assumptions, in which the buyer takes over the existing mortgage, and installment sales, in which the buyer agrees to periodic lump sum pay-
