

Davis Denies Agreeing To Pay FBI Informant

FORT WORTH (AP) — Murder conspiracy defendant Cullen Davis testified today that he never ordered FBI informant David McCrory to do anything to Joe Eidson, the divorce judge the state says was the target of a murder-for-hire plot.

The testimony came as Davis and his attorney, Richard "Rachorse" Haynes, went over transcripts of an Aug. 18 meeting between Davis and McCrory. The meeting was recorded by McCrory, who wore a body microphone attached by FBI agents.

Haynes asked Davis if an agreement was made in which Davis would pay McCrory.

"There was absolutely no agreement to pay David McCrory any money... I never told him to do anything to Joe Eidson," Davis said. "Nor did I tell him or anybody else to do anything to Joe Eidson."

Eidson was not harmed.

The Aug. 18 conversation ends with Davis telling McCrory to "go back to the original plan."

McCrory contends that the original plan was to kill Beverly Bass, an accusing eyewitness to a shooting spree at the Davis mansion that left two dead and two wounded. Miss Bass identified Davis as the gunman in black who fired the shots, but an Amarillo jury found Davis innocent of killing his stepdaughter, 12-year-old Andrea Wilborn.

Davis says the original plan was to head off an alleged murder plot against himself by out-bidding the hired killers.

Davis testified that after the Aug. 18 meeting, he called a purported FBI agent and was told, "Everything seems to be going just fine. Keep cooperating with Mr. McCrory."

The 46-year-old millionaire industrialist defendant testified Tuesday that he talked about the alleged contract murders with McCrory because he didn't think he would be breaking the law by just talking about it.

Haynes did not play the Aug. 18 tapes, but worked from transcripts, saying the playing of the tape would involve "technical difficulties."

McCrory is the state's key witness in its case against Davis.

Haynes indicated, however, that he would play the pivotal Aug. 20 tape that immediately preceded Davis' arrest in court today.

That tape, Haynes said, "demonstrates the manipulative, disruptive influence of David McCrory."

Davis contends he was the victim of an elaborate frame concocted by McCrory, Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla, and former Fort Worth karate instructor and bodyguard, Pat Burleson.

In the Aug. 20 tape, McCrory tells Davis he has carried out a contract hit on Davis' divorce judge. McCrory has testified Davis ordered "hits" on Judge Joe Eidson and others, although no one actually was harmed.

"I got Judge Eidson dead for you," McCrory says on the tape.

"Good," Davis replies.

Davis dismissed most of the incriminating segments on the FBI tapes as merely "making conversation... I was going along with McCrory like I'd been requested to do."

He said he had no "ironclad agreement" with McCrory to kill anyone and that McCrory "never indicated at any time he was going to commit a criminal act."

Davis said he knew the conversations with McCrory were being taped and he went along for two reasons:

—He thought he was cooperating with the FBI to expose an extortion plot involving McCrory.

—He thought the tapes might be used by McCrory to head off an alleged attempt on his life by people Davis said were hired by his ex-wife Priscilla.

Davis said previously he received a telephone call 10 days before his Aug. 20 arrest and was told by a purported FBI agent to "play along" with McCrory.

He said he now realizes he was tricked.

PREMATURE CELEBRATION — Wolforth fire department members battle to save a huge woodpile gathered for the Frenship schools homecoming celebration. The bonfire material was touched off prematurely by vandals Tuesday night. The culprits opened fire hydrants on the other side of town to draw attention, then ignited the huge pile which had been collected over the past month. Firefighters saved the day, however, extinguishing the blaze in 10-15 minutes, and the bonfire will take place Thursday night as scheduled. (Photo by Randy Whitson)

Senate To Debate Disciplinary Recommendation On Talmadge

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 16 months of investigation and public hearings, the Senate is close to deciding on a disciplinary measure for Sen. Herman E. Talmadge.

A recommendation that Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, be denounced for financial misconduct will be debated and voted on Thursday.

If the Senate agrees, Talmadge will become the first senator to be disciplined in more than 10 years. The last one was the late Thomas Dodd, D-Conn.

In a related development today, a federal judge sentenced Daniel Minchew, once Talmadge's top aide and later his chief accuser, to a four-month prison term for submitting a false $2,289 expense account to the Senate.

U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith Jr. imposed a one-to-three-year sentence on Minchew, with the bulk of it to be served on probation.

Minchew also was ordered to make restitution for all the money he illegally received from the Senate. He has admitted depositing Senate expense checks totaling $12,894 into a secret bank account.

Almost a month ago, the Senate Ethics Committee concluded unanimously that Talmadge had taken "reprehensible" action in handling of Senate office expenses and campaign contributions.

Sources who asked not to be named said Tuesday that Talmadge, a member of the Senate for 23 years, will not wage a pitched battle in his own defense on the Senate floor.

Instead, there will be a short debate with a roll call vote on the denunciation.

The Senate will observe homecoming this week beginning with a pep rally at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the high school gym, followed by a parade at 3 p.m.

The 7:30 p.m. homecoming game with the Cooper Pirates will be highlighted by pre-game crowning of the homecoming queen.

The Frenship Ex-Students Association will host its first annual supper from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Saturday at Rosales Welding Shop in Wolforth.

Tickets for the supper and the dance to follow may be purchased at American Bank of Commerce in Wolforth or by calling 866-4281 or 866-4409.

The committee says Talmadge accepted free gifts in violation of Senate rules, failed to report more than $10,000 in campaign contributions and knew or should have known that false claims were made for Senate expense funds.

Talmadge said through spokesman Gordon Roberts that he would have no comment on his plans when the issue reaches the Senate floor.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., had hoped for a quick debate on the Talmadge case Tuesday afternoon. But Senate votes on a foreign aid bill and the wish of some senators to see the first World Series game in Baltimore forced postponement.

Jury To Decide McInnis Disbarment

EDINBURG (AP) — The judge in the Oscar McInnis trial refused today to grant a State Bar of Texas motion that the longtime prosecutor be disbarred without the case going to the jury.

The bar had asked State Judge Joe B. Evans Tuesday for an instructed verdict after both sides in the civil suit had rested their cases.

The jury was dismissed today and will return Thursday to hear final arguments, the judge's instructions and deliberations.

Evans also threw out another charge against McInnis, one accusing the Hidalgo County prosecutor of filing marijuana charges against a jail prisoner to harass him. The prisoner is the ex-husband of a friend of McInnis.

This leaves five of the original nine charges for the jury to consider — four counts of making false statements to a federal grand jury and one count of soliciting a jail inmate to set up a murder.

The State Bar of Texas wants to strip McInnis of his license to practice law in Texas, in part because of allegations he tried to have the ex-husband of a friend killed.

Attorneys for the bar said that by arguing that McInnis was the victim of entrapment, defense attorneys were admitting to the facts of the case. Bar attorneys also said that defense attorneys never proved that the bar association was part of any conspiracy.

McInnis' attorneys denied they admitted to the facts of the case and argued that jurors should be allowed to decide the case.

State and federal charges alleging McInnis tried to have a jail prisoner set up the murder were dropped. However, McInnis and Patricia Parada, the former wife of the man McInnis was to have set up, still face perjury charges.

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Roger Dale Stafford, charged with herding six persons into a restaurant meat locker and shooting them at point-blank range, listened impassively today to the opening statement of a prosecutor seeking to persuade a jury to sentence him to death.

Stafford, 27, with neither a smile nor a frown, occasionally glanced around the courtroom, but stared straight ahead during most of the opening statement by District Attorney Andrew Coats, who has said he will ask that the Alabama drifter be convicted and executed by drug injection.

$2.4 Million Granted Man In Corvair Suit

AUSTIN (AP) — A former Houston steelworker who suffered brain damage 14 years ago when his 1962 Corvair went out of control and turned over won a $2.4 million victory over General Motors today.

The Texas Supreme Court upheld a Houston jury verdict in favor of Harold L. Bryant, 48. The jury found the right rear suspension of Bryant's car was defectively designed and manufactured.

Early Corvairs were branded "Unsafe at Any Speed" in a book by that name which first brought Ralph Nader to national attention as a critic of consumer products.

The Supreme Court did not write a new opinion but ruled there was "no reversible error" in a decision by the 1st Court of Civil Appeals in Houston sustaining the jury verdict.

General Motors said in its appeal the verdict should be thrown out because the jury apparently ignored uncontradicted testimony of a GM expert witness.

Bryant, then 34, had met with fellow steelworkers union members at a bar across from the Armo steel plant and was enroute home on Interstate 10 when the accident occurred on March 5, 1965.

Wallace Ellis testified at the 1978 trial of Bryant's suit that Bryant's car passed him at about 65 miles per hour and after changing lanes went out of control.

The appeals court summarized Ellis' testimony by saying he observed the Corvair "swerving and jerking to the left, at which time the right rear corner of the car dropped down and sparks were seen underneath the right rear corner of the automobile."

Bryant's car careened off the highway and dropped to a grassy area near the Magnolia Bayou bridge.

Former GM engineer John Marcosky reconstructed the accident from photographs and testified it occurred because one bolt in the right rear suspension was loose and another was gone. He said when Bryant passed Ellis, the suspension went beyond its "rebound position" and caused two bolts in the shock absorbers to shear off. This set off a chain reaction that caused the car to go out of control, he said.

Metallurgist Gary Fowler said the shear strength of a typical bolt would have been exceeded, substantiating Marcosky's testimony.

GM told the Supreme Court its metallurgical witness Tom Bundorf testified that the bolts were of a special steel that was twice as strong as Fowler had assumed but Bundorf was ignored.

The company complained that Marcosky did not see the Corvair until December 1977 and had to reconstruct the accident from photos.

Politeness Absent In Congress

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
WASHINGTON (AP) — There's something about October. The leaves begin to turn color, the nights grow nippy and congressional tempers get short. No one is sure why nastiness seems to creep into House and Senate debates this time of year.

In even-numbered years, October signals the approach of Election Day when voters tend to display an unpleasant ability to recall the wrong votes, the embarrassing speeches. But in odd-numbered years like this one, when no one is up for re-election, the October blahs are harder to understand.

Whatever the reason, this year is proving one of the testiest in memory. The House and Senate are at war over the congressional pay issue. And when they're not saying nasty things about the House, senators are snapping at each other.

During a recent session Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., interrupted a roll call to make a brief appeal for support of his strategy on the pay raise legislation.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., shot out of his seat: "Can a senator make a speech in the middle of a vote?"

"No," replied Byrd, aware that it was a clear violation of the rules.

The strongest Senate "rule" is the elaborate courtesy members display toward one another. The favored form of address is "the distinguished senator from wherever" — even if the speaker thinks his colleague's only distinguishing characteristic is his abysmal ignorance.

Once again, Goldwater and Byrd tossed aside pretensions at politeness when Byrd wanted permission to offer an amendment to the pay raise bill, a move that could be blocked by the objection of any senator.

"I object," said Goldwater, while Byrd was in mid-sentence.

"Will the senator allow me to finish?" asked the majority leader.

"I do not have to explain it," replied Goldwater. "I object."

On yet another occasion, Byrd clashed with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., over the difference between "implied" and "inferred."

"You are saying I implied something," said Helms. "I implied nothing. I stated facts and conclusions. The senator can infer anything he pleases. There is a difference between implied and inferred."

"I learned that in high school," said Byrd.

"It does not show," retorted Helms.

Campaign Slogan

Sen. Larry Pressler of South Dakota may have found the slogan for his campaign for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination: "A still in every backyard and farm."

An advocate of gasoline as an answer to U.S. dependence on foreign oil, Pressler used the slogan to promote a demonstration of his homemade alcohol still.

Pronunciation Guide

There's a new guide available for people who aren't sure how to pronounce the names of congressmen and senators. It's called the Congressional Pronunciation Guide.

People who live in Tennessee probably don't have much trouble with their Sens. Baker and Sasser. And everyone knows how to pronounce Kennedy. But some could use help with the other senator from Massachusetts, Paul Tsongas. The pronunciation guide says it is SONG-gus.

Among the House members, there are a lot of easy names to pronounce, like Neal Smith of Iowa and Don Edwards of California.

But, how about Rep. Douglas K. Bereuter of Nebraska?

According to the pronunciation guide it's BEE-writer. And the guide ought to have that one correct because Bereuter is the one who put it together.

Panel Drops Probe Of Steel Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has decided that the evidence does not warrant continuation of a criminal investigation into possible price-fixing by the steel industry.

However, the department said this week it will continue inquiries that could lead to a civil suit. Of the criminal investigation, a Justice Department official who asked not to be identified said: "It just didn't pan out. You don't want to be accused of abusing the grand jury system." The grand jury investigation began in May as an outgrowth of a civil antitrust case undertaken in 1977. The antitrust case, set aside while possible criminal aspects were being investigated, again will become the focus of government efforts.

Magazine Aimed At Musicians

CUPERTINO, Calif. (AP) — The magazine's credit and collection manager played with Paul Revere and the Raiders. The art director was with The Righteous Brothers. They don't meet in a boardroom, they sit around a warehouse and jam.

Not Time, Life or Look. It's Guitar Player, a slick, 160,000-circulation monthly that features articles on amplifiers, strings and other estoric subjects and whose parent company will gross about $5 million this year from its modern headquarters near San Jose, south of San Francisco.

There's big money in musicians, says Jim Crockett, whose GPI Publications is cleaning up on America's estimated 16 million guitar enthusiasts. It's also rapidly gaining subscribers among the roughly 35 million people who play piano or other keyboard instruments.

Guitar Player, which began 13 years ago as a mimeographed sheet, has prospered not with gossip columns but with articles on under-the-string bending techniques, hollow body electrics and modern flamenco. You won't find Rod Stewart's love life dissected, but if Bootsy Collins' bass techniques interest you, the April Guitar Player devoted more than four pages to them.

Gearing a magazine for musicians, as opposed to music fans, seems logical when you consider the vast numbers of amateur axe men spawned by The Beatles and other rock groups in the early '60s.

But Crockett says most advertisers were slow to respond at first.

"I knew there was an audience out there because I had been a musician all my life and nobody had ever spoken to me," the 42-year-old Crockett said in an interview. "The view of musicians was, 'If he isn't a junkie or a drunk, he was some hippie trucking down the highway.'"

Guitar Player was supported in the early days by guitar manufacturers like Fender, Guild and Gibson, Crockett says. It then began to add amplifier companies, stringmakers and others to its list of advertisers.

"I'm sure at the outset they didn't get their moneys' worth, but it was an investment for them," says Crockett, a slim, soft-spoken drummer.

Today, Guitar Player has almost 100 pages of advertising a month and two newer magazines, Frets (acoustical guitar, mandolin) and Contemporary Keyboards (piano, organ, synthesizer) are also prospering. GPI has some 45 employees now, most of them musicians, and if you don't find them laying out pages, look in the warehouse — they're probably working on their fingerpicking.

Couple Utilizes Ventriloquism In Evangelism

CARLTON, Ore. (AP) — Ivan Olson woke up in the middle of the night to a husky juvenile voice saying, "What do you want me to say?"

It didn't take him long to discover that it was the voice of one of his ventriloquist wife's puppets. Veda Olson was talking in her sleep. She uses the line for people who want demonstrations of her voice.

"Uncle Ivan" and "Aunt Veda" live in Carlton, but aren't home much. They are traveling evangelists.

Last year, for example, they were gone 33 weeks giving one week or 10-day evangelistic meetings across the country and into Canada. They already have most of 1980 booked, about half of 1981 and some dates in 1982 are taken.

Olson has been an ordained Free Methodist minister for 37 years. He was pastor of the Hillsboro Free Methodist Church until he moved here a year ago. Mrs. Olson is a licensed evangelist in the Free Methodist church.

"We are Free Methodists, but we work in any denomination," she said.

The couple met while attending Wesleyan College in Kansas. She was from Kansas and he was from Minnesota.

"I had done youth work and did a lot of puppetry," Mrs. Olson said. "I had 60 to 70 puppets and had different voices for every one of them."

The work with the puppets and voices led her to investigate ventriloquism. "I went to the city library, but they didn't have any books on ventriloquism. I went to the state library and that was the beginning."

"When she was trying to learn," Olson said, "I would hear all sorts of strange sounds when I would walk up to the house. After a period of practice, she said her muscles would ache."

"Some people think you just don't move your lips," Mrs. Olson added. "There is much more to it than that."

For years she traveled alone and mostly by plane. Her husband has retired from church pastoring and now they work as a team. A back injury nine years ago makes it difficult for her to handle the heavy equipment.

They hold many meetings in churches and summer camps. Their 18-foot motor home holds their equipment, including a sound system and overhead projector.

The couple declined to tell their ages. Olson said, however, "We're not spring chickens."

Preventing Trichinosis

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I've been married for 10 years and consider myself a fairly good cook. One evening I cooked pork chops and I know how careful one should be with pork. Halfway through the dinner, I noticed that my daughter had just about finished her pork chop. The meat around the bone was quite pink — almost red. I'm sure the middle of the chop was cooked because I cut it up for her.

Anyway I'm quite upset and worried. I called my pediatrician and he assured me that in this day and age I wouldn't have to worry about it. That was two weeks ago and I'm still upset. All the material I have read tells me to worry. Everything I read says that whenever the pork is eaten raw or insufficiently cooked there is danger of trichinosis or tape worm.

Would she have already been sick? And is there something I should be doing for her or not? I do not know how pork is inspected or if it can be inspected for the diagnosis of these dangerous worms.

DEAR READER — I don't blame you for being upset and I wish I could reassure you but I can't. Trichinosis is caused by little worms and these parasites are in pork. It's true that the amount of infected pork has decreased in the United States to about one-third what it used to be but that still allows for an enormous amount of infected pork to be on the market.

Routine meat inspection doesn't always tell you that it's infected either, and the skin tests that were tried to detect infected pigs haven't really been successful. The only real safeguard against ingesting some contaminated pork is thorough cooking. That means that all of the meat should be cooked to an internal temperature of 60 degrees centigrade (140 degrees Fahrenheit) for at least 30 minutes and none of the pork should be pink or raw.

The first stage of the trichinosis involvement is when the male and female worms unite in the intestine. The intestinal phase may cause diarrhea and digestive symptoms. One form of treatment is given to eliminate any more of the adult worms that might still be in the digestive system.

The second phase is the migration of the larvae into the circulation and throughout the body, particularly forming little cysts inside the muscles. At this stage there may be swelling around the eyes, muscle pain and fever. Blood tests help establish or rule out the presence of the infestation and, if necessary, a muscle biopsy may show the characteristic parasites between the muscle fibers.

I'm afraid there's not much you can do at this late date about the incompletely cooked chop that your child has eaten. You should be alert to the problem and by now the intestinal phase or diarrhea, if it were going to occur, would have passed. If you're concerned about it, ask your doctor to do some blood tests to make sure that here's no evidence of an infection.

BACKACHES ARE one of man's most frequent complaints. There are things you can do to prevent them. Readers who want information on this can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 13-10, Bachache And What To Do About It. Send your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Craftsman Hopes Wealthy See Gold Tableware As Investment

ZEIST, Netherlands (AP) — Wondering what to do with those gold bars stashed away in the vault, just gathering dust?

No problem. Dutch goldsmith and silversmith Albertus Gerritsen will turn them into something useful — knives, forks and spoons — or even plates and fingerbowls if the fancy strikes.

Gerritsen's family has been providing Holland's homes with pots and pans for four generations. His firm, Sola, also produces silverplate and sterling silver, a set of which the government buys for each Dutch ambassador for Holland's embassies around the world.

"My grandfather taught my father and he taught me and now I am teaching him," said the beaming 58-year-old Gerritsen, an arm thrown over the shoulders of his son Albertus, 24, during a tour of their plant, located in this small town east of Utrecht.

"If you don't start young, you'll never learn the touch to making good tableware, and you won't get it when you're older," the older Gerritsen said, rubbing the bowl of a spoon between his thumb and forefinger.

Gerritsen wants to set the tables of the world's staggeringly wealthy with gold tableware, hoping purchasers will consider the items as much an investment as a fantastic luxury.

The Dutch craftsman said he had applied for world patents to a process that will turn the precious, malleable metal into material hard enough to make tableware, but not add to its weight.

"Even sterling is not pure silver. Other metals are added to make it hard enough to use," said Gerritsen.

Each piece of Gerritsen's gold tableware carries four hallmarks of its quality from his goldsmithy and from the Dutch assay office. Each set will also be accompanied by a certificate from Lloyd's of London that it is made of 24-karat gold.

The price, of course, will vary according to the quotations on the gold market, but for $4.5 million Gerritsen can whip up an entire service for 36, with plates of 3,312 troy ounces of gold. A similar collection for 36 of 1,517 troy ounces without the plates can be had for a mere $2.1 million.

One's own gold may be used, but it must be of the highest quality, three times the amount needed for the actual set must be provided because of the leeway needed for the work, and an 8 percent loss in the amount must be reckoned due to waste.

"This is obviously not for everybody," said Ted Veenendaal of Ofir Export, the firm that is handling Gerritsen's gold tableware for export to the United States and the Middle East.

"We anticipate sales to those who are looking for an investment. You can't show your friends your gold bars in the sale, so why not invite them to dinner and show them what you're worth?"

Veenendaal travels with a 500-pound sample case, armored cars and three bodyguards when he sells his wares.

Gerritsen and his son oversee the tableware factory, where dozens of huge green machines stamp out strings of knives and spoons from silver plates as if they were patterns for paper dolls.

"There are about 45 steps to making stainless-steel silverware, but with silver and gold, you have to be much more careful," said the younger Gerritsen. Underneath every workman's bench are plastic cloths to catch gold and silver leavings, and each worker must give up his or her work coat at the end of the day to be dusted for scrap.

Only master silversmiths who have worked in the factory for about a dozen years are chosen to work on the gold orders, Gerritsen said.

The sets can take anywhere from two to 12 weeks to produce, depending on the size of the order, he said.

OIL IN GROUND
 BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Conventional methods of oil recovery leave almost two-thirds of the oil in the ground, according to Department of Energy official Lyle Reed. By igniting part of this oil to produce heat, or by injecting chemical polymers, carbon dioxide or steam, 5 to 10 percent of that oil can be loosened and made to move to the production well, he said.

Deadlock Delaying Federal Paychecks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders told President Carter today they see no easy solution to a bitter deadlock over abortion funding that is holding up many federal benefit and payroll checks.

The president listened attentively — but made no specific suggestions — as House and Senate leaders in turn discussed the stubbornness of each other's chambers on the issue, O'Neill said.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, told Carter that the Senate would not go along with the House's restrictive language on the use of federal funds for abortions.

Snow Surprises Eastern States

The earliest snowfall of the century surprised residents of suburban Washington, D.C., today and accumulations were a foot deep in parts of West Virginia, closing schools and knocking out power.

so forcing schools to close and snapping power lines. Temperatures that had risen into the 70s in the region Tuesday plummeted into the 30s overnight.

O'Neill said a companion battle — over a 5.5 percent congressional pay hike sought by the House — seemed more capable of resolution than does the abortion issue.

Texas Faces Home Loan Problems

AUSTIN (AP) — The Federal Reserve's decision to raise its discount rate means "real problems" for Texas' already sagging mortgage loan market, says Savings and Loan Commissioner Alvis Vandegriff.

The National Weather Service in West Virginia reported at mid-morning that 12 inches of snow fell in Canaan Valley in Tucker County. Accumulations of 8 inches were reported in Pickens in Randolph County, 6 at Summersville in Nicholas County and 4 in Green Banks in Pocahontas County.

And O'Neill said the House probably would not give up that language in favor of the Senate's more liberal version, he said.

Dip Blamed On Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve's decision to raise its discount rate means "real problems" for Texas' already sagging mortgage loan market, says Savings and Loan Commissioner Alvis Vandegriff.

Elsewhere, rain showers — some mixed with snow — were scattered over parts of Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and Iowa, and showers dampened areas from North Carolina to New York.

On Tuesday, the House declined to consider the bill already passed by the Senate, opting instead to divide the measure into two sections and send both back to the Senate for further action.

FBI Bares Bomb Plot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The FBI said today it has arrested two leaders of the American White National Party and charged them with plotting to explode a bomb today at an elementary school attended by one of the children of U.S. District Court Judge Robert Duncan, who ordered the desegregation of the city's schools this year.

Residents of Washington's Virginia and Maryland suburbs awoke to find temperatures in the 30s and wet snow falling. It was the earliest snowfall recorded in the capital area since Oct. 5, 1892.

And any changes made either by the committee or by the full Senate would toss the matter into still another conference between House and Senate negotiators.

Up to an inch of slush accumulated on suburban cars and lawns, but it melted on highways and no major traffic problems were reported.

At the same time, Brezhnev offered to withdraw 20,000 troops and 1,000 tanks from East Germany.

Farmers hoping for a late freeze to give late-planted cotton more time to mature apparently will have more anxious nights before the month is over.

Energy Saving

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — More than 64,000 families are saving an estimated $5 million a year on utility bills through conservation measures financed under TVA's Home Insulation Program, the agency reports.

After a high today in the high 70s, the high Thursday will be near 90, they said.

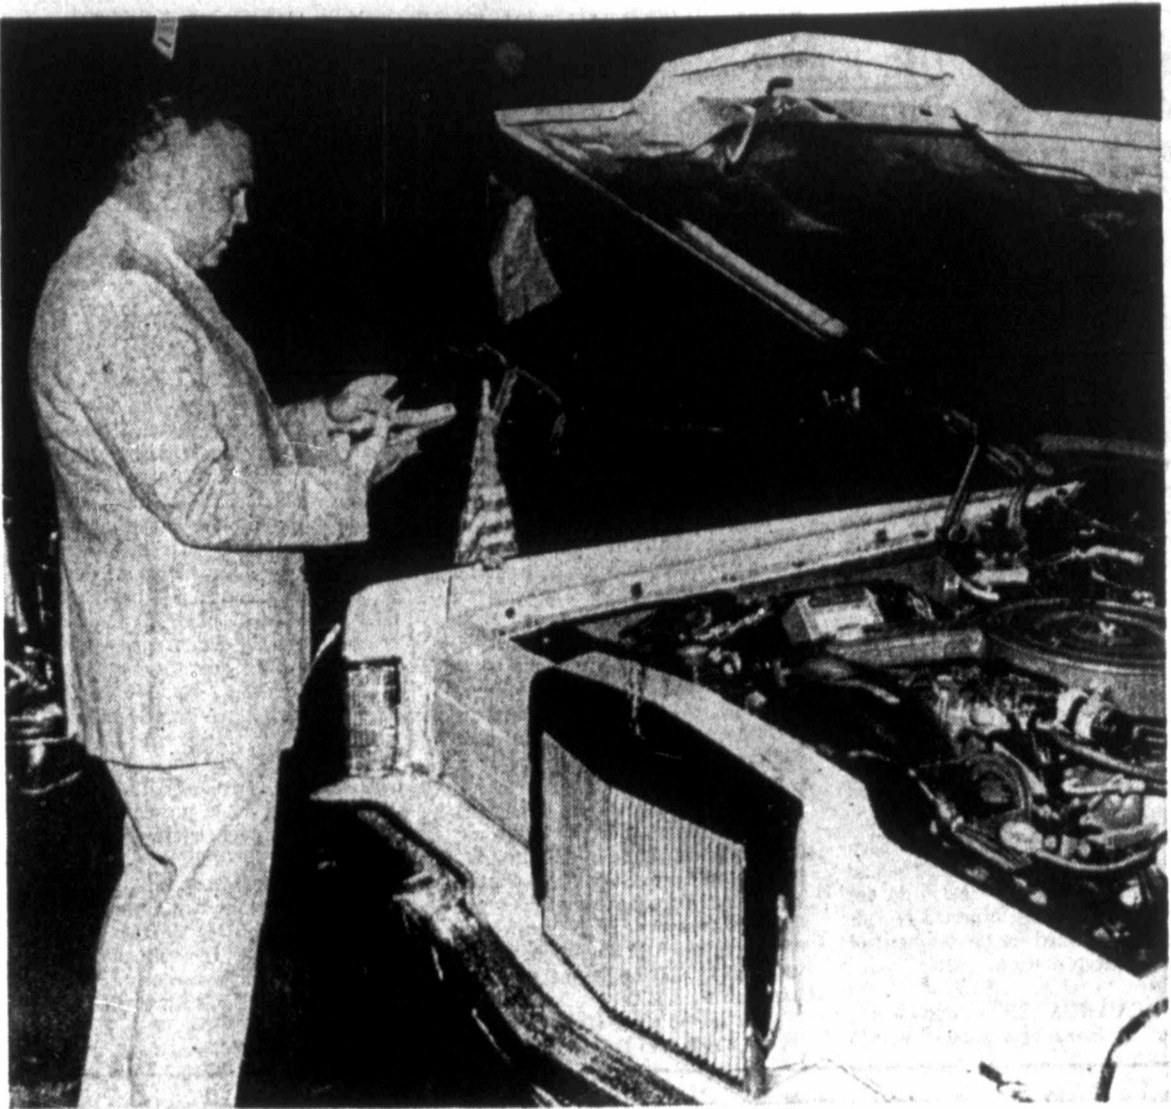

The National Weather Service extended forecast for Oct. 15 through the 19th calls for "much below normal" temperatures and above normal precipitation over the West Texas region.

Carter Favors Stronger NATO Defensive Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, appearing skeptical of a Soviet offer to negotiate arms reduction in Europe, says he would prefer first to have the United States' allies in Western Europe improve their defenses.

Senate would ratify this year the new strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union, adding that the pact is strategically in the best interests of the United States and its allies.

On Tuesday, the House declined to consider the bill already passed by the Senate, opting instead to divide the measure into two sections and send both back to the Senate for further action.

In response to other questions, the president: —Endorsed the Federal Reserve Board's move to restrict credit and reiterated that fighting inflation will continue to be a top priority of the administration.

Social Security Tax Collection Change Can Prove Profitable

By LeROY POPE
 NEW YORK (UPI) — People lie awake nights figuring out ways to reduce Uncle Sam's tax bite on their paychecks and sometimes they succeed.
 But it's a tricky business. Ask A. Herbert Jordan of Wayne, Pa., who runs a company called Add-Effect Associates.
 Add-Effect is one of three consulting firms that give advice to employers on how to save on social security taxes and show workers how to invest some of the money to better advantage. The others are PCS Reports of New York and MICA in Durham, N.C.
 Although most Americans don't know it and many aren't hurt by it, Jordan says 90 percent of all employers collect more Social Security tax than required. The explanation, without getting too involved in legal technicalities, is that the easiest method of collecting the tax is by payroll deduction and this results in both the workers and the company being taxed on the tax.

 There's a legal, if somewhat tricky, way to avoid this which can be profitable to employer and employee, Jordan said.
 A firm with 200 workers averaging $15,000 a year, for example, can save around $11,000 by altering its Social Security bookkeeping method so that the Social Security tax ceases to be a deduction and becomes a direct payment, he said.
 When this hypothetical firm pays employees' share of the tax for them directly, the $15,000-a-year worker's tax would be cut an average of $56.37, Jordan said.
 Many companies don't take advantage of the change, he said, because workers and their unions object since reducing the Social Security tax bite has the inevitable effect in about 70 percent of all cases of shaving a worker's retirement benefits.

 "The sensible thing," Jordan said, "is to offset this by setting up a supplementary retirement fund to reinvest the money saved from Social Security tax in a way that will bring in a larger return."
 "That will happen if the money is just deposited in a savings bank for example."

 The reduction in ultimate Social Security retirement benefits resulting from eliminating the tax-on-the-tax bite usually will be small, Jordan said, and the gains from the supplementary retirement fund will offset it several times over.

 Unlike unconventional pension funds, such a supplemental retirement fund is owned outright by the worker. The employer only sets it up.

Pay Hike To Be Decided

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock City Council will decide Thursday whether to grant the request of Lubbock firefighters for a 15 percent pay raise following a 10:30 a.m. public hearing on the question.

Members of the firefighters association submitted a petition signed by more than 9,000 voters requesting an election on the pay issue, but the city charter requires the council first to accept or reject the proposed ordinance.

If the council rejects the pay increase request as expected, the issue will not go to voters until Jan. 19 because state law requires 20 days of absentee voting prior to the election. Previously, an election was expected to be called for Nov. 6, both on the pay raise and on collective bargaining rights, requested in a second petition submitted by the firefighters.

Also at the 9:30 a.m. meeting in council chambers, the council will hold a public hearing on the condition of the private water system serving residents of the Yellowhouse Canyon Addition.

Residents requested the hearing after complaining they are without water for days at a time, that water pressure is inadequate even to flush toilets and that billing is erratic.

Water system owner Travis Martin will present his response to residents' complaints at the meeting and the council will determine if the service provided is adequate.

If found inadequate, Martin can be ordered to make necessary improvements within a specified period of time. If he does not comply, he can face criminal charges.

Lonnie Hollingsworth, chairman of the Electric Utility Board, will ask council members to provide more than $1 million needed to construct an interconnect between Lubbock Power and Light and Southwestern Public Service.

About $700,000 in bond funds is available for the project, but the total cost is expected to be about $1.8 million.

A committee of residents who live adjacent to Tech Terrace Park will ask the council to replace two temporary barricades on the streets around the park with permanent devices and to replace the barricade at 23rd Street and Flint Avenue when police deem it necessary to control traffic.

The types of permanent barricades which could be installed at 25th Street at Flint Avenue and at Gary Avenue range in price from $100,000 for a cul de sac to $2,000 for concrete medians. Concrete posts also may be considered, although no cost figure for their installation was available.

Council members also will discuss setting a public hearing on possible ways to honor Martin Luther King Jr., including the Human Relations Commission recommendation that Quirt Avenue be renamed in honor of the slain civil rights leader.

The council sent that recommendation back to the commission last week for alternative suggestions, but the commission said it wanted the street named after King — not a park or a lake.

Also at the meeting, council members will:

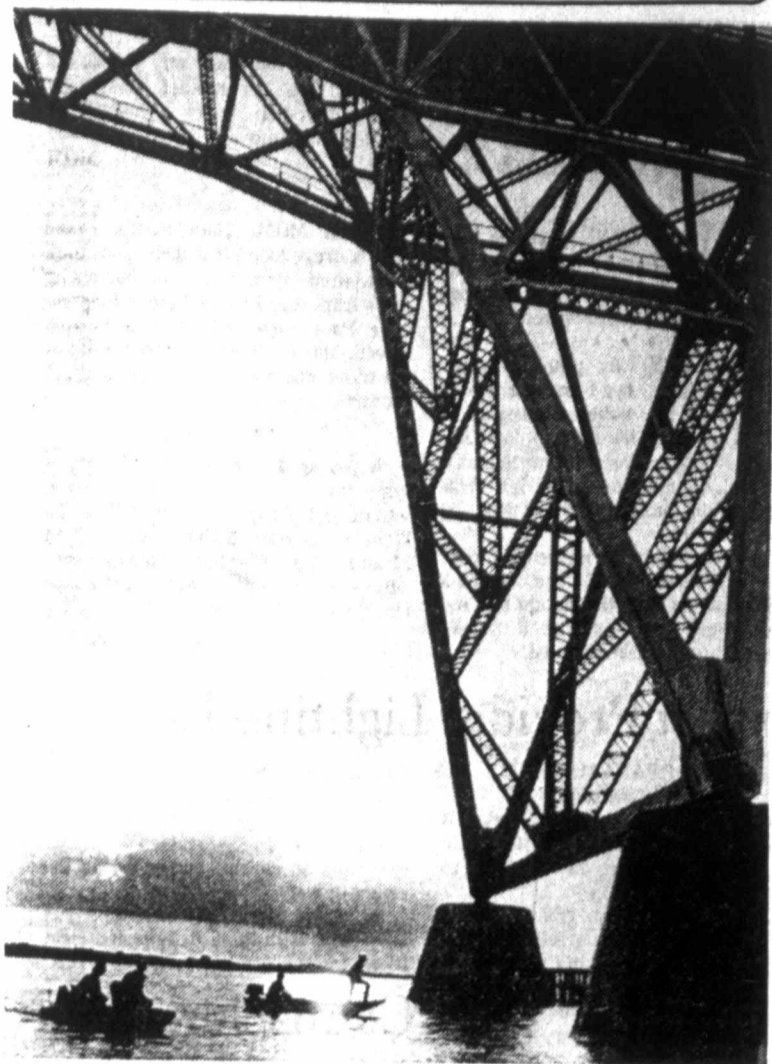

— Discuss traffic problems south of the airport near the intersection of Quirt Avenue and FM 2641. The intersection has been the site of three fatalities this year.

— Discuss the recommendation of the Civic Centers Board that a person be hired immediately to promote the Civic Center.

— Hear the appeal of Jesse Foster of a Citizens Traffic Commission denial of his request for a four-way stop sign at 81st Street and Avenue V.

— Nominate candidates for the board of directors of the Lubbock County tax appraisal district and consider a resolution stating the council's intention to provide financial support for the board after it takes office in January.

— Accept Fire Station No. 12 at 79th Street and Slide Road and authorize the final payment to the contractor for the work.

HUNTING FOR FALL VICTIM — Rescue units hunt for the body of Roger Boudreaux, 25, of Port Acres who, a friend said, fell from the Rainbow Bridge roadway near Port Arthur, then hit the crossmember near bottom before going into the Neches river. Clements Considering Salary Boost For State Employees

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said he is "sympathetic" to the financial plight of state employees and may consider adding another pay raise to the agenda of a special legislative session in 1980.

"I will have under consideration whether to take this up in a special session. I'm not saying we will, but I am saying I will consider it and it is on my mind at the present time," Clements said in answer to a question on his statewide "Governor's Report" television and radio broadcast Tuesday night.

The questioner said that if the current inflation rate is projected over a 12-month period, it would reach 16.4 percent a year, compared with the 5.1 percent annual pay raises voted by this year's legislature.

This year's legislature already has spent projected revenues for the 1980 and 1981 fiscal years. It will take an unexpected rise in state government revenues to finance a raise for the more than 150,000 state workers.

Clements also said he plans to announce a new "Office of Migrant Advocacy" in the governor's office. The office will replace old Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs, which he shut down earlier this year.

He would not announce a name, but said his choice for the job, "is an acad-mic, a Ph.D. and has taught in these fields a number of years."

Clements said that he would support the presidential candidate who gets the most votes in the Texas GOP presidential primary in May at the Republican National Convention next year.

"I fully intend to support that candidate and I will play a role at the convention," he said.

The governor was asked if he saw a role for himself in Washington, perhaps as secretary of defense, if a Republican is elected president.

"I have no interest in returning to Washington. I had four full years up there as deputy secretary of defense. The responsibility and challenge of being governor of Texas will fill my plate to overflowing without resorting to the national arena," he said.

Clements was deputy secretary of defense under Presidents Nixon and Ford.

Indictment Dismissal Requested

DALLAS (AP) — Prosecutors, who had said they would retry Billie Sol Estes on a fraud charge, say they have asked a federal judge to dismiss the one remaining indictment against the convicted swindler and co-defendant Raymond K. Horton.

Jurors convicted Estes and Horton on fraud and conspiracy charges last July 11, but could not reach a verdict on the separate indictment.

That indictment accused Estes and Horton of bilking legitimate investment firms out of $600,000 through the lease and sale of non-existent oilfield cleaning equipment, assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolfe said Tuesday.

The pair was to have been retried on that charge Oct. 15 in U.S. District Judge Robert Hill's court.

Estes received the maximum 20-year prison sentence on his July conviction, while Horton was assessed a three-year term and a $10,000 fine. Both have appealed.

Estes was arrested by federal marshals on a parole revocation warrant immediately after Hill denied his motion for a new trial Aug. 16.

Lubbock Nurseries Sponsored By UW

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of articles dealing with the United Way of Lubbock. Except for officials of United Way agencies involved, the names used are fictitious to protect the identities of those served. However, the stories reflect actual case histories here.)

Jana Morton suffered from meningitis and encephalitis when she was just 10 months old. Now at age 3, she has been diagnosed with cerebral palsy, with retardation.

However, Jana's mother, Cindy, knows her daughter is happy and is learning at the Lubbock Day Nursery, number one.

The three nurseries and a fourth, due to open in October, are supported by the United Way. The Lubbock Day Care Association will receive a combined total of $166,047 from the United Way's 1980 goal of $1,803,752.

Cindy and her two children have had a rocky time in their young lives. When Jana became sick, the doctor advised Cindy to quit her job of three years, which was the sole support of the family, to give the child constant care.

The stress put on the young mother, then 24, was more than she could bear and put undue pressures on her 4-year-old son, Tim. It was recommended that Tim attend the day nursery and give Cindy a chance to care for her desperately ill child.

Now, Jana attends the nursery with her brother for a half day and spends the other half of the day at Ballenger school.

According to the center's director at day nursery number one, Jane Morris, Jana is the first handicapped child they have taken care of. Miss Morris says Jana is a mobile child, keeping up with the other children by crawling, makes sounds but is unable to say words and is very expressive in her facial features. She also said that Jana is very good with the other children at the center.

Currently, all the staff at the day nursery are trained to work with the handicapped and the nursery hopes to take in more handicapped children.

Cindy said the fact that the nursery has taken Jana into its program has been an immeasurable help to her and hopes it will be to other parents. She said she was able to go back to school and get her high school diploma while the nursery kept Jana, and now she works with another agency in Lubbock involved with assisting children with learning problems due to handicapped conditions.

"I've really become interested in working with handicapped children," Cindy said. "I think it's good for normal kids to be with handicapped children. When they get to know them then it's no big deal for them anymore."

Cindy said she feels it is good for her child to be in groups with non-handicapped children for her learning process and that the staff at the nursery have been a tremendous help to her daughter. "They've been great. They're really trying to educate here and it's been a learning experience," she said.

According to Miss Morris, the requirements for enrolling a child in the day care program are handled on a priority basis. First the parents must be working, in school, in a job training program or medically unable to keep a child. In taking the child, the priorities are protective services for abused or neglected children, handicapped parents, children in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program and income guidelines.

Miss Morris said the purposes of the four nurseries is to "provide an educational and supportive curriculum for children while they're away from their parents during the day."

She said the children receive one meal and two snacks during the day, which meet the minimum daily nutritional requirements.

In addition, the children are provided with an annual physical examination and a dental examination. Immunizations are required and are kept by the center.

The nurseries accept children ranging in age from 6 weeks to 6 years and provided well-planned activities and pre-school instruction.

The center also gives the children a chance for both indoor and outdoor activities and takes them on frequent field trips to interesting places around the city.

The center is open Monday through Friday from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and is licensed for an enrollment of 374 at the four centers.

The Lubbock Day Care Association is among 34 United Way agencies.

Official's Remarks Anger Minorities

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Two state Mexican-American leaders say they are outraged by comments from Texas' top education officer that bilingual education should not be expanded, calling the remarks "irresponsible."

Sen. Carlos Truan, a long-time proponent of bilingual education in the Senate, said federal intervention now may be necessary to save the programs in light of comments by Texas Education Commissioner Alton Bowen.

Bowen has asked that expansion of bilingual education be stopped until proof can be obtained that the program is working.

Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said Bowen should consider resigning if he does not see the need for bilingual education.

English Prime Minister Braves Attacks

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the last of two articles on Britain's first woman prime minister, Margaret Thatcher, by one of her close friends and advisers.

By GEORGE GARDINER

LONDON (WNS) — Maggie Thatcher is not by nature aggressive. Even as a young politician she was never one to look for a fight. But let her once recognize in an opponent the intention not just to gain a political point but to win by breaking her spirit, and she will fight back with incredible determination and daring.

If she learns of some particularly dirty tactic against her, then her eyes will narrow and a look of steel come into them, as she will say something like: "So if that's the way they want to play it, just let them see." Among politicians no less than other breeds, the female of the species can be more deadly than the male.

"This quality of sheer guts in the face of all-out and often highly-personalized attack was more than any other responsible for her election as Conservative Party Leader in February 1975, in the bloodiest leadership contest that anyone in the party can remember.

It has not deserted her since. I will remember her reaction last June, when she was under some personal attack following a Conservative dip in the opinion polls. I and a couple of colleagues arrived in her private office to advise her on some matter. We found her standing at the window watching the fountain playing in the shadow of Big Ben, the clock tower. "They're trying to frighten me into changing course," she said as we entered. "That suggests to me I'm on the right one. Don't you agree?" We did. She stuck to her guns, and in the opinion polls her party pulled ahead again.

This resolute determination was evident early in her career. Her sister Muriel once told me, "At school Margaret always knew what she wanted to do, and did it."

Her real training in fighting back came after 1970, when Edward Heath made her Education Minister in his Cabinet. Despite an impressive reform program improving hundreds of junior schools in buildings more than a century old, and raising the age of compulsory enrollment from 15 to 16, she made the so-called "progressives" furious with her refusal to abolish academically superior schools in areas where parents still wanted them.

So they seized on her relatively trivial decision — to cut the supply of free milk in schools — to launch a long and virulent personal campaign against her.

At this time the "student revolt" was at its height, and wherever Maggie went there were demonstrations against her and chants of "Margaret Thatcher, Milk

Snatcher."

Never before had she been under such sustained personal attack — but that old streak of sheer determination saw her through. One evening, after a particularly wounding incident, her husband Denis said: "To hell with all this, why not pack it up?" To which her reply came straight back: "Not likely." She fought back and survived. The experience stood her in good stead when in the winter of 1974-75 she challenged and defeated Edward Heath for the party leadership.

Before Maggie Thatcher had been Leader of the Opposition in Britain 12 months the leaders of the Soviet Union launched a vehement propaganda offensive against her. Pravda branded her "The Iron Lady" of British politics, while posters in Moscow presented her as "The Witch of the Western World" — complete with broomstick.

Why did the Kremlin leaders single her out for such treatment? After all, these men are not fools. The answer is because Maggie Thatcher had become the first Western leader to analyze publicly the performance and likely intentions of the Soviet Union in the context of the Helsinki Declaration and to draw the hard lessons for the West.

Her first speech on Helsinki began starkly:

"The Soviet Union now spends 20 percent more each year than the United States on military research and development; 25 percent more on weapons and equipment; 60 percent more on strategic nuclear forces. Then there is the Soviet Navy, now a global force. It has more nuclear submarines than the rest of the world's navies put together. It has more surface ships than could possibly be needed to protect the Soviet Union's own coast and merchant shipping. Can anyone truly describe this as a 'defensive weapon'?"

In mid-January, 1976, she returned to the theme:

"Has detente induced the Russians to cut back on their defense program? Has it dissuaded them from brazen intervention in Angola? Has it led to any improvement in the conditions of Soviet citizens, or the subject population of Eastern Europe? At Helsinki we endorsed the status quo in Eastern Europe. In return we had hoped for the free movement of people and ideas across the Iron Curtain. So far we have got nothing of substance."

It is no coincidence that her favorite writer is Rudyard Kipling — not as a poet of empire but as a poet of freedom. Her third major speech on defense concluded with his words:

"Dear-bought and clear, a thousand year our fathers' title runs. Make we likewise their sacrifice, Defrauding not our sons."

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER — Lynda Diane Maunder of Lubbock, left, receives an Aubrey W. Russell 4-H Scholarship to assist in her studies of home economics at Texas Tech University. Making the presentation is Mrs. Russell, retired district extension agent for home economics, for whom the annual competitive scholarships are awarded to 4-H members. Mary Kay Smith of Morton was also given a scholarship.

BUZZ ON BY — A light plane piloted by Robert Baudin, 61, buzzes by a building in midtown New York City Tuesday during a low-level flight circling the area. The stunt forced nervous officials to evacuate the United Nations General Assembly and Secretariat buildings, and offices of Baudin's publisher. The ex-convict landed safely at LaGuardia Airport and told police who arrested him that he was attempting to publicize his book, an autobiography. (AP Laserphoto)

Author Threatens U.N. To Promote Book Sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Robert Baudin says increased sales of his book would make it worth his while to go to jail for the near panic he caused by buzzing the United Nations building in a light airplane.

"Maybe now the book will sell!" Baudin, 61, declared when he landed at LaGuardia Airport Tuesday after authorities, fearing that Baudin planned a kamikaze-style crash, evacuated nearly 7,000 people from U.N.-area buildings during the three-hour incident.

The New York Daily News in today's editions, said Baudin staged the event as a publicity stunt after consulting with the New York Post. The News said a Post managing editor confirmed the paper knew of Baudin's plans and did not tell authorities.

Post managing editor Craig Ammerman termed the report "ridiculous."

Baudin, born here but an Australian resident, is a convicted counterfeiter turned writer. He once pulled a similar stunt over Sydney in an effort to get a 20-year prison term for counterfeiting reduced. The sentence eventually was cut to five years. His autobiography, "Confessions of a Promiscuous Counterfeiter," was published last April by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich. He says the book sold less than 6,000 copies the first time out because the publisher did a "chop job" on the book and failed to publicize it.

Federal officials charged Baudin with extortion in interstate commerce. He could receive up to 20 years in prison.

Short Staff Blamed In Suicide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — National attention was turned on Wayne Cullinane as he held a secretary hostage and a city in fear for 23 hours with rifle shots from his 16th-story perch.

But nobody was watching Cullinane when he hanged himself before dawn Tuesday, with a strip of bedding from the bars of his jail cell.

Authorities blamed the apparent suicide on short staffing and the difficulties of predicting such events.

Mary Cullinane, the victim's mother in Providence, R.I., pointed out that three hours elapsed between the last check of her son in his cell and discovery of his body, and charged, "He died from neglect."

"He was supposedly in protective custody. I phoned and the guard said he was fine," said Mrs. Cullinane in a telephone interview.

Despite a psychologist's warning that Cullinane was "more suicidal than homicidal," he was placed in "the last cell we would put someone who showed signs of suicidal tendencies," according to Dr. Tom Peters, who directs the jail's medical and psychological staff.

Peters said that because of the notoriety received by the weekend shootout, Cullinane was put in the isolated cell inhabited by Dan White while he awaited trial for the slayings of Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk.

An hour's interview with Cullinane, 22, by a staff psychologist did not show him to be suicidal, Peters said, adding that he was unaware of the warning from a psychologist who negotiated with Cullinane.

Public defender Jeff Brown said an outside psychologist who saw Cullinane twice since his arrest Saturday, "didn't see it as a manifest possibility" that Cullinane, who once escaped from a Cranston, R.I., facility for the criminally insane, might kill himself.

In Cullinane's cell were found notes indicating that "he was thinking about death; he was expecting death," said Dr. Boyd Stephens, city coroner.

officials say. His pilot's license was also lifted and the state charged him with aggravated harassment.

Before Baudin took off mid-morning from the Morristown Municipal Airport in New Jersey, he had a tape cassette delivered to the Post.

Ammerman said Baudin had contacted the newspaper "at least a dozen times over the past two months ... to tell us that he was going to make this point."

"At every juncture the people he talked to told him he shouldn't do it, it might be illegal and we wouldn't have anything to do with it," Ammerman said. "Every time he talked to us he said it was going to happen tomorrow. We didn't believe it."

The tape, which Ammerman said the Post turned over to city police, said in part:

"It could well be that you men who constitute the top management of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich are not aware of the fact that minor editors and others in the lower echelons are engaging in the practice of ripping off, lying to, and deceiving authors or at least have done so in my case."

ENERGY SAVERS — Conting up with ways to conserve energy in our 100,000-square-foot stores is a challenge, says O.C. Adams, Target Stores senior vice president of store operations. Target utilizes some common sense energy devices like the one pictured here with Adams that automatically lets in outside air when it will improve inside air quality.

Target Stores Take Common Sense Approach To Energy

MINNEAPOLIS (Special) — Target Stores, a retailing chain that brings customers a wide selection of quality, brand-name merchandise at low competitive prices, has been in the energy-saving business for a few years.

"Coming up with ways to conserve energy in our 100,000-square-foot stores is a challenge," said O.C. Adams, senior vice president of store operations. "We're combining advanced technology with some very common-sense approaches to help us save energy."

One of the common-sense ideas Target utilizes is letting outside air in to help heat or cool the air in the stores. "Opening and closing windows is a tried and true method in homes, but it is

Discount Chain To Open Outlet Here Next Spring

Target Stores, a Minneapolis-based discount chain, is beginning construction of its first store in Lubbock. The store is scheduled to open in the spring of 1980.

The 84-acre site for the Lubbock Target Store at S. University Ave. and Loop 289 was purchased from West Central Investment Corporation. Negotiations for the land acquisition were handled by W. D. "Dub" Rogers of Lubbock. The general contractor is Page and Witt of Lubbock.

"We are excited about entering the Lubbock market as part of Target's accelerated expansion plans," stated Jack Fontaine, Target senior vice president in charge of property development.

Lubbock marks the fifth Texas city that will have Target stores, in addition to Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Wichita Falls. Target opened three new Texas stores this year and has four more under construction in addition to the 100,000-square-foot Lubbock store, which will be the 21st Target store in Texas.

Target Stores, the largest division of the Minneapolis-based Dayton Hudson Corporation, began in 1961 with one store in suburban Minneapolis. Currently, Target operates 72 stores in 10 states and plans to have 153 stores by 1983.

Target's new Lubbock store will continue our tradition of offering brand-name products with an unrestricted return policy, in a modern self-service shopping environment," Fontaine said.

Misdiagnosis Of Arthritis Common

For every case of arthritis that is properly diagnosed and treated, there is likely to be one that is misdiagnosed, an Arthritis Foundation spokesman said here this week.

"Misdiagnosis of this disease can mean unnecessary pain and permanent disability for the arthritis patient," said Dr. B. K. Khandelwal, chairman of the Medical and Scientific Committee of the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. "It is therefore, crucial for doctors to be up-to-date on methods for spotting this varied and complex group of diseases."

Today there are more than 31 million men, women and children suffering from the more than 100 types of arthritis and related rheumatic diseases. And yet, only 2,000 rheumatologists are currently practicing in this country.

"The majority of arthritis victims must depend heavily on the family physician for diagnosis and treatment," Dr. Khandelwal said. "And accurate diagnosis is difficult, because of the many forms of the disease and its unpredictability."

According to Dr. Khandelwal, early diagnosis and proper treatment are still the best defenses against the ravages of arthritis. Arthritis specialists have found that the average sufferer of rheumatoid arthritis, the most severely crippling form of the disease, waits four years after the first symptoms appear before seeking proper medical diagnosis and care. Many are therefore crippled needlessly.

Those who have no family physician but who suspect that they may have arthritis can contact the foundation for the names of doctors with special interest in the disease.

Individuals also can obtain literature about the various forms of arthritis, and information about patient clubs and other activities which can help them adjust to the limitations and requirements of their ailment.

How early should one seek professional help? The Arthritis Foundation recommends that after signs or symptoms suggesting some form of arthritis persist or come and go for six weeks, it is time to see a doctor.

To delay seeking medical help, to diagnose oneself or to experiment with home remedies, is to give the disease time to begin its insidious damage to joints, damage that can never be repaired.

The warning signs of arthritis include the following:

- Persistent pain and stiffness on arising;
- Pain, tenderness or swelling in one or more joints;
- Recurrent of persistent pain and stiffness in the neck, lower back, knees and other joints.

For more information on this disease, or for help in obtaining specialized services, patients or physicians can contact the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, 1926 34th St., Lubbock, 79410.

Agronomist Plays Down Effect Of Corn Blight

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Southwest corn farmers should not be alarmed by a recent report that a new type of Northern Corn Leaf Blight (Helminthosporium turicum) has been found in the continental United States, according to Jim Higdon, agronomy service director for the Southwestern Division of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

Higdon, a certified professional agronomist, said the disease is unlikely to be a problem for farmers in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

"The new type of Northern Corn Leaf Blight has been found thus far only in northwestern Indiana, and there only in a few seed corn production fields and in trace amounts in a few commercial corn fields," Higdon said. "Apparently, the single gene source of tolerance that has been effective against the widespread Race 1 of Northern Corn Leaf Blight doesn't work against this new type."

"However, another source of single gene tolerance has already been found effective against the new type." In addition, he said, hybrids are available which have adequate levels of multi-genetic tolerance to Northern Corn Leaf Blight. And these hybrids have shown as much tolerance to the new type as to the old.

"I really don't believe farmers in the Southwest should be worried about this type of Northern Corn Leaf Blight," Higdon added. He noted that conditions for the development of Northern Corn Leaf Blight have been ideal across most of the country this year, but little has been seen.

"This new type has been found in a very limited area, and that area is hundreds of miles away," Higdon concluded. "So, I would say that any alarm at this point is premature."

Government Criticized For 'Anti-Texas Bias'

Texas Railroad Commission candidate Buddy Temple of Diboll Tuesday said there is an "anti-Texas bias" in Washington that elected officials of the state should spend more time in Washington combating.

The recently announced candidate from East Texas criticized his probable opponent, Commissioner John Poerner, for not opposing the doubling of the railroad tariff on coal-hauling from the Northwest into Texas.

"It's an outrage, and members of the railroad commission ought to be talking about it," Temple said of the $8-to-$17-per-ton increase. "If I were there, I would be talking about it."

"There is a very strong anti-Texas bias in Washington. There are a lot of people in Washington who figure that if a producing state like Texas wants something, it must be bad. And that's not true."

Temple, 37, a four-term state representative and board chairman of Exeter Investment Co., said in a noon Tuesday news conference at South Park Inn that he has been traveling the state since June 1 to build campaign support.

His official announcement was made Oct. 1 in Lubbock.

Connally Supporter Criticizes Liberals

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Self-styled conservative Eddie Chiles, speaking to a class at Lubbock Christian College Tuesday, compared today's political atmosphere to that of 1776 and said citizens should start a revolution.

Chiles, who has a daily radio program which blasts big government, said the revolution should start in 1980 and be fought with ballots, not bullets.

He said today's conservatives are like the colonial patriots who supported George Washington. Those colonists who supported King George were the royalists. The royalists of today, Chiles said, are the liberals.

"They (liberals) call themselves moderates," Chiles said, but added, "Liberals today are socialists in disguise."

In an interview following his address to the class, Chiles named John Connally, former Texas governor and onetime U.S. secretary of the treasury, as his 1980 presidential choice.

Chiles named government deficit spending as the major cause of inflation and said he believes Connally could balance the federal budget by using presidential veto power to axe unnecessary Congressional programs.

"We've got to take care of the poor and infirm," he said, but added that government should not make it "more profitable not to work."

Chiles is a vocal advocate of the free enterprise system, which he praises as the reason for his own rise from the cotton fields of Itasca to chairman of the Western Company of North America, an oil-related industry.

But he said, "Liberals have been in charge for 50 years and have controlled Congress. Liberals have taken us down the road to socialism. We're regulated. We don't have the free market we used to have."

His solution to inflation is to balance the federal budget and his advice on the energy situation is "If government and environmental freaks would get off our backs there's lots of oil to be found."

Although he said there is much more oil yet to be discovered and produced in the U.S., he advocates nuclear energy for generating electrical power so that oil and gas can be used for non-nuclear powered needs such as transportation.

The 60-year-old Chiles told the class, "I'm not afraid of nuclear and you may tate holdings throughout the state, he is on the boards of nine other companies and financial institutions, including a Time-life subsidiary, Temple-Eastex, that has timber, wood processing, mortgage lending and manufacturing operations over the state.

He grew up at Lufkin, attended the University of Texas at Austin and served in the Army.

He and his wife Ellen have four children.

He went on to say that he believes Miss Fonda is "inspired by the Communists" to shut down nuclear power in the United States so that Russia can bring "our country to a dead halt."

Chiles blasted "politicians and newspapers" which, he said, "don't tell you the rest of the story."

Chiles, who received a bachelor's degree in petroleum engineering from the University of Oklahoma in 1934, told the students, "The conditions of the country at the time I graduated from college were such that a young person with a good education could learn some profession or business, borrow or beg some capital and start a business of his or her own."

He said the free enterprise system insured people that if one worked hard enough, one could succeed.

But with today's federal controls, Chiles said, "I'm afraid that's not going to be possible in the 1980s and '90s."

Although his wife, Fran, is active in the Republican party in Fort Worth, where the couple lives, Chiles said he has never sought election to public office and doesn't plan to seek any office in the future.

He said he would rather spend his time and money "getting a lot of other candidates elected" and said he believes he has "more impact on the total situation as a citizen politician."

Chiles was on the campus to address the fall meeting of the LCC board of governors.

ROCK SHOW
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Murray arranged to obtain a moon rock to display at the Toledo Gem and Rockhound Club Show. They also obtained nodules scooped from the ocean floor some 30,000 feet below the surface. The show can thus display specimens from the highest and lowest points reached by man.

Chairman Improves Following Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roger L. Stevens, chairman of the Kennedy Center board of trustees, is recuperating in a San Francisco hospital from what doctors described as a "mild heart attack," a spokesman for the Kennedy Center announced this week.

Doctors at the Ralph K. Davies Medical Center said Stevens, 69, was admitted Saturday morning with chest pains.

Dr. James Cullen, attending physician, said there "have been no complications" and Stevens' condition is "both satisfactory and stable."

He added that he expects Stevens to be gradually able to resume normal activities following two weeks of hospital rest and observation.

BASEBALL WASHOUT — A ground crewman at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium stakes down an infield tarp Tuesday night to keep a steady rain from soaking into the turf and preventing any more delays in start of the World Series. Despite the downpour, many fans arrived and waited in the stands before the game was officially postponed. (AP Laserphoto)

Snowfall Threatens World Series Game

BALTIMORE (AP) — Wet snow fell in Baltimore today, threatening to cause a second straight postponement of the opening game of the 1979 World Series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Baltimore Orioles.

It rained through much of the night, further soaking the field at Memorial Stadium which already had deep puddles in both left and right fields. By 11 a.m. today, forecasts called for as much as an inch of snow with temperatures dropping to the low-to-mid-30s. But the National Weather Service said the snow would probably end before the scheduled 7:30 p.m., CDT, start of the game.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ordered the first game of the Series postponed Tuesday night — the first time in the 76-year history of this event that the opener had to be called.

The Tuesday night rainout eliminated a scheduled travel day Thursday. The teams were set to play five consecutive games — two in Baltimore and three in Pittsburgh — before taking a day off next Monday and returning to Baltimore for the final two games of the Series, if necessary, next Tuesday and Wednesday. Another rainout would eliminate the second travel day, as well, and further complicate the logistics of the Series.

There were forecasts of clearing by evening but it was questionable whether the field could be put in shape to play. The weather forecast was more encouraging for Thursday when partly sunny skies and warmer temperatures were predicted.

Tuesday's postponement was also the 28th time a Series game bowed to the elements — 25 to rain and one because of cold weather.

Kuhn called off the game at 7:32 p.m., CDT, just two minutes after the scheduled starting time and about three hours after the rain began. The decision was booed by the fans, but justified by the continuing downpour and dire weather forecast for the rest of Tuesday night.

There was no way the American League champion Orioles and National League winning Pirates could have played on the sopping wet natural grass and dirt surface. Although a tarpaulin covered the infield, the outfield was full of puddles.

It wouldn't have taken long once the tarp was off to turn the infield into a quagmire. And, the valuable talent on both teams would have been subjected to possible injury. The decision was wise if slightly delayed.

Managers Earl Weaver of the Orioles and Chuck Tanner of the Pirates said the rainout would not affect their lineups for the delayed opener.

Mike Flanagan, whose 23 victories led the majors during the regular season, still would open for the Orioles against Pittsburgh's Bruce Kison.

Flanagan was 23-9 with a 2.66 ERA in the regular American League season and is one of the leading candidates for the Cy Young Award as his league's top pitcher. Kison was 13-7, with a 3.14 ERA, including a 4-0 mark during the Pirates' September drive to the NL East title. He did not pitch in Pittsburgh's three-game sweep in the best-of-five league championship series against West champion Cincinnati.

Weaver went so far as to name his starting pitchers for the next three games — Jim Palmer, Scott McGregor and Dennis Martinez. Tanner had disclosed he would use Bert Blyleven and John Candelaria in Games Two and Three, but that was as far as the Pirates' skipper would project.

Tanner said that if Flanagan was the Orioles' starter tonight, he would stick with Bill Robinson in leftfield and rookie Steve Nicosia behind the plate. Both swing from the right side and hopefully would make the Pirates more effective against the left-handed Flanagan.

Weaver and Orioles' fans still were concerned about how the non-use of the American League designated hitter rule in the Series would affect Baltimore.

Weaver expects it to make a difference since he will have to let his pitchers bat instead of Lee May, the club's designated hitter during the regular season. May hit 19 home runs and had 69 RBI.

Tanner has made it clear he would rather play without the DH, used every other year in the Series. Tanner, who managed in the American League and is familiar with the DH, estimated it was worth an average of half-a-run per game.

Last year, the New York Yankees beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in the Series as DH Reggie Jackson had nine hits in 23 at bats with two home runs and eight RBI. The Dodgers' main DH Lee Lacy went two for 14.

Chuck McDonald Looking For Replacements

ON PAPER, IT appears the only way that Gerald Myers' Texas Tech basketball team could possibly be headed is down.

After all, the Tech lineup for 1979-80 will be almost identical to the Raider lineup of a year ago — a lineup that finished third in the conference race. Geoff Huston is the only starter missing from last year's 19-11 NIT team.

And how important was Huston to the Raiders anyway? Well anyone who made the trip to Houston about the first week in March knows that Huston was the man that made the Raiders go. The site in March was the Southwest Conference post-season tourney, where the Raiders scored an upset victory over Texas A&M before bowing out against league champion Arkansas.

But with Huston gone, it'll be a lot harder for the Raiders to make the trip to San Antonio — site of the 1980 SWC tourney — when the first of March comes rolling around.

BECAUSE HUSTON PROVIDED more than points for Tech. He gave them something that Myers is going to have a hard time replacing — leadership. It was evident on the court, it was evident in the post-game locker room: Huston was the boss. In his own quiet way, he ran the show. And when no one else could buy a bucket, Huston always seemed to rise to the occasion.

Still, the Raiders will have plenty of talent on hand when they begin practice next Monday. Ralph Brewster, Ben Hill, Kent Williams, Jeff Taylor and David Little head the list of returning Raiders.

And although it may seem strange to be talking basketball only midway through the Tech football season — it's that time of the year again. Tech's first

Veeck Denies Rumor Of Move To Denver

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago will remain a two-team baseball town, and its American League entry will remain the White Sox, says president Bill Veeck.

Veeck on Tuesday denied reports that wheels have been set into motion possibly to send his team packing for Denver and in turn, bring the Oakland A's to Chicago.

He confirmed, in a telephone interview, that Denver oilman Marvin Davis has approached him about buying the team, but said flatly that the White Sox are not for sale.

"It's a bunch of garbage," Veeck said. "He (Davis) approached us maybe six months ago, and we told him no and that's it."

"No negotiations are going on. There are no discussions. What else can I say?" said Veeck, who added he has never been close to selling the club.

Meanwhile, the Denver Rocky Mountain News reported that Davis, who failed in his attempt to purchase the A's a year ago, is closer than ever to buying a major league team and moving it to Denver.

The newspaper said unidentified members of the major league baseball executive committee attending the World Series in Baltimore, confirmed "movement" on the franchise question.

In Baltimore, John McHale, a member of the committee, said the possible sale was strictly rumor and never has been taken up by the committee, nor is it on the agenda for future discussion.

"There's a logical reason why Davis failed to get the Oakland team and a logical reason why all this talk keeps coming back to Chicago," said Veeck.

"He couldn't buy the A's from Charlie (Oakland owner Charles Finley), because of the existence of contract obligations (involving the stadium) between the team and the City of Oakland," Veeck said. "The White Sox are the only team in baseball which doesn't have such an agreement or a lease of some kind. The team owns the ball park, so naturally we were approached."

Davis, who could not be reached for comment, has said recently that he is interested in buying the Chicago team although he has not received encouragement that it could happen.

The Colorado oilman's attempt to purchase the A's was blocked when the City of Oakland, which owns the Oakland Coliseum, refused to let the team break a lease with the city to play its games in the stadium.

There has been speculation that if Davis were successful in buying the White Sox, then other American League owners would join together to pay off the Oakland Coliseum lease to enable the A's to move to Chicago.

"It's the same old thing they've been saying all along," said Veeck. "I've said it wasn't true and I think he's (Davis) been quoted as saying the same thing."

"But have things changed?"

"The situation is the same. The White Sox are not for sale," said Veeck.

Relaxed Bucs Remind Pilot Of Gashousers

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BALTIMORE (AP) — "When I was young, my baseball heroes were the Gashouse Gang," said Pittsburgh Pirates manager Chuck Tanner, spitting tobacco juice into a white paper cup.

"Pepper Martin, Ducky Medwick, Dizzy Dean — what a wild, aggressive bunch of ball players. They always were swinging, running and going for that extra edge."

"Sure, this club reminds me a lot of what those old St. Louis teams used to be. They never think they're behind. They always go into the last inning feeling they're going to win."

The graying Tanner didn't have to draw a map to show he was talking about his rambunctious Pirates.

Just outside his office door, stereos blared disco and rock 'n' roll music. The TV set was going full blast, showing tapes of the Pirates' National League playoff victories over the Cincinnati Reds.

It was old stuff — a celluloid replay for the Pirates — but every time one of them got a hit or made a throw they let out a deafening roar as if it were a brand new feat.

The drening rain outside, forcing postponement of Tuesday night's opening game of the baseball World Series against the Baltimore Orioles, failed to dampen their unhampered spirits.

Willie Stargell, the 38-year-old beliewether of the NL champions, sat on a sofa, bare-footed, playing a card game called Pluck with teammates Jim Bibby, Grant Jackson and Rennie Stennett.

When Willie banged a card on the table, the whole room shook. Who could imagine that this hulking, 225-pound veteran of 17 seasons was originator of the idea of awarding gold crocheted stars to decorate caps of teammates who made some outstanding contribution on the field?

Kent Tekulve, the reed-thin reliever, for instance, seems to have one for each of the 34 games he has saved.

Rookie Mike Easler and John Candelaria were intent on a game of backgammon. Easler wore a gold T-shirt with "Dead Goat Saloon Arrow Pass Square, Salt Lake City, Utah" emblazoned on the back.

In another corner, rookie Matt Alexander was busy cutting and styling Bill Madlock's hair.

"Matt's out of barbers' school," explained Tanner. "He's good. Cuts all of our hair. I've let him take a whack at me a couple of times."

Someone hung the head of a roasted pig in Jim Rooker's locker inside the pitcher's uniform.

They're an uninhibited, free-spirited bunch — these 1979 Pirates. They would make the Gashouse Gang look like truants from a church picnic.

contest is on Nov. 15 against (no kidding) the Poland National team. That means the Raiders will play their first cage contest a full two weeks before the end of the football season.

After the Raiders battle the Polish squad, they'll wait for the football season to end before serious play starts. On Dec. 1 Tech will host West Texas State, on Dec. 3 it's South Dakota and then North Texas State on Dec. 5. All three games will be at home before the Raiders pack their bags and head for the hills — of Colorado that is.

The Raiders face Colorado State on Dec. 8 and the Air Force Academy on the 10th before returning to Lubbock to battle Lamar. After a road trip to Vanderbilt, Tech winds up nonconference play by competing in the Far West Classic in Corvallis, Ore.

BUT THAT'S STILL a long time away. Right now, Myers is able to talk about the upcoming season with a smile and a clear voice. No, that mid-season cough — which ought to be here by Jan. 1 — isn't troubling the Tech coach in the least right now. But that's probably because he hasn't yet watched in horror as his young Raiders blow one in the final minute.

And Tech lost a couple of heartbreakers in the final seconds in 1979. Down in Austin, with the game tied, the Raiders worked down to the final shot of the game only to miss what could have been the game-winner against the Texas Longhorns. UT then won it in overtime. Then, on his own home court, Myers watched Sidney Moncrief sink a jump shot with one (1) second remaining to give Arkansas a one (1) point verdict over the Raiders.

Those two defeats, coupled with a nightmarish loss to the Rice Owls, meant the difference between a SWC title and Tech's actual third-place finish. That's how fine the distinction between winning and losing can be. And you wonder why Myers tends to cough throughout the season?

But Myers is confident that the Raiders can turn things around this year. The Raiders probably won't get any immediate help from their recruiting class, although they did nab some players that can help them down the road. So what's the difference between this year's squad and last year's?

ACCORDING TO MYERS, the difference is something that you just can't recruit. It's something that cannot be explained, or avoided — experience.

Experience teaches you what to do when the game's tied and you've got the ball. Experience teaches you where to go for the clutch basket with time running out and the game tied. And when you've got it, as they say, you've got it.

"We played some awfully young kids last year," says Myers. "Hopefully they've gained something from the experience — we should be a better team because of it."

The Raiders of a year ago would've had trouble getting into an R-rated movie — even with an ID. And about the only time they bought any shaving cream, it was by mistake. They're not much older now.

Tech will have only two seniors on this year's team, Kent Williams and Thad Sanders. Ralph Brewster, Ben Hill and Leslie Nichols are the juniors and everyone else is a sophomore or freshman.

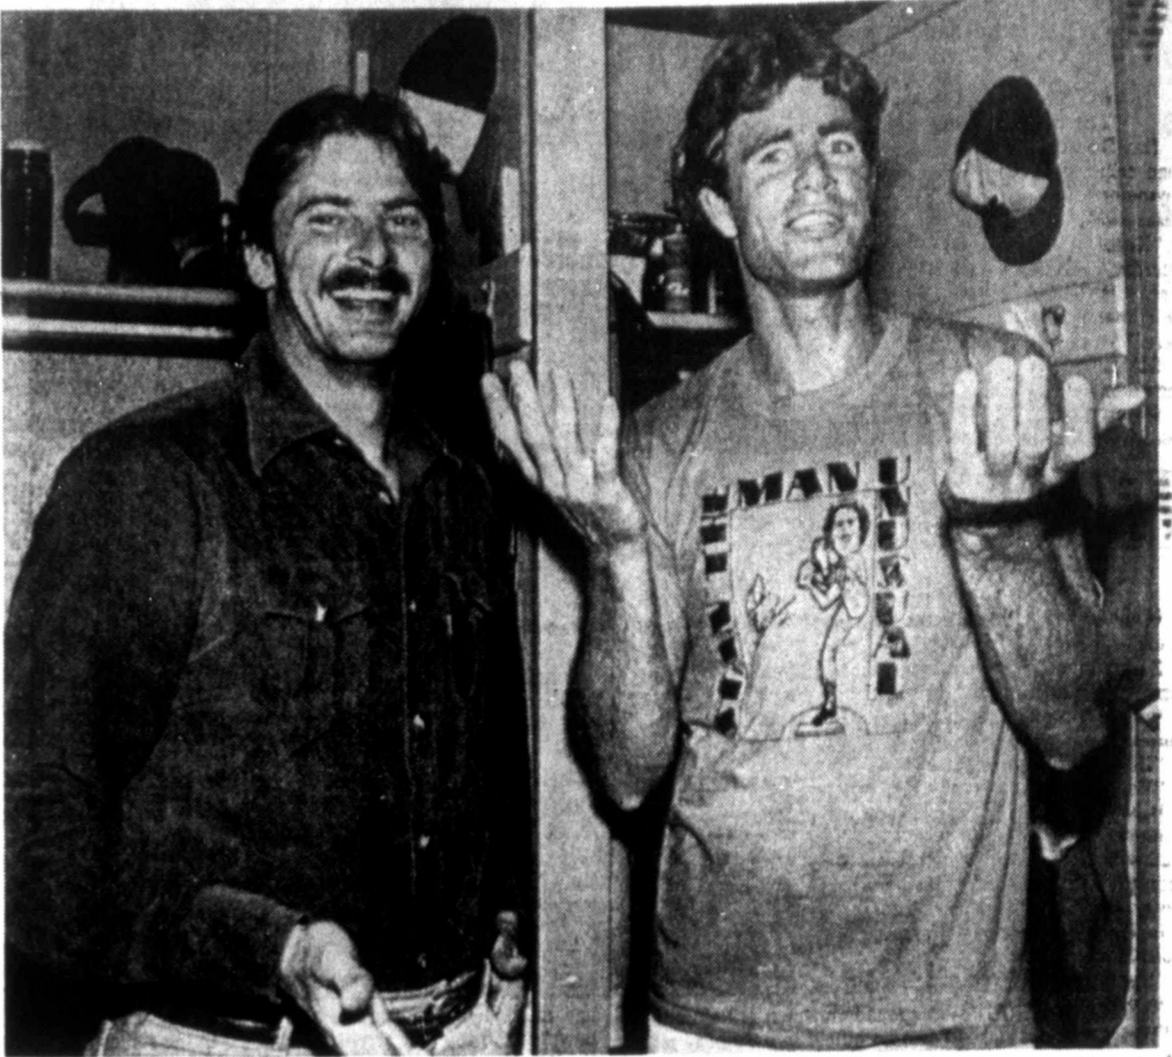

BREWSTER AND HILL should provide the Raiders front-court attack while Williams, Taylor, Little and a host of others will press for the backcourt positions.

"We've got some people with the ability," says Myers. "It's just a matter of blending it all together."

Myers, undoubtedly, will come up with a talented group. But what the Raiders really need is someone to take Huston's place as a team leader. They need someone to step forward and give the squad direction.

But like experience, leadership is one of those things that just can't be taught. You have to earn it, feel it and want the responsibility.

And nobody — cough, cough — knows that better than Myers.

QUITTING EARLY — Baltimore Orioles pitchers Mike Flanagan, left, and Jim Palmer wasted little time Tuesday night in getting out of their uniforms and into going-home clothes after the World Series game at Baltimore was postponed by rain. Spurs To Stay In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs have resolved their dispute with San Antonio city council members and won't be moving back to Dallas, says Spurs president Angelo Drossos.

Drossos had created a furor when he told the San Antonio Express-News in a copyright article Sunday that he was looking into the possibility of moving the NBA team to Dallas because of problems with the city council.

He now says he misunderstood the situation.

Drossos met Monday with council members to settle the dispute that had developed over the possible loss of some portable seats in the city-owned HemisFair Arena where the Spurs play.

The 568 choice seats had been allowed in the past and were pre-sold by the Spurs this year.

City officials, however, said it was understood those seats, which are in violation of the city fire code, would be removed this year because the Arena seating has been increased.

Under an agreement worked out with the fire marshal and approved last week by the council, the Spurs were allowed to install 294 permanent seats in one row of the fire aisle, but not two rows.

Drossos, pointing out that the other portable seats are already sold and were allowed in the past, then attacked the council for non-support and said he feared it was a preview of bad things to come.

Drossos said he was especially fearful that the team would lose the concession rights when its contract with the city expires in three years. That, he said, would cause the team serious financial problems.

The Spurs president said in the article that he would meet this week with NBA officials to explore the possibility of moving the franchise back to Dallas.

Phoenix Net Tournery Opens

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Top-seeded and defending champion Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd, the No. 2 seed, led a field of 32 competitors as play was scheduled to begin this afternoon in the $100,000 Phoenix Classic women's tennis tournament.

Miss Navratilova, who won the women's singles title at Wimbledon this year, was to face Terry Holladay of the United States, in an evening match. Mrs. Lloyd, meanwhile, was to meet Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa in a late afternoon match.

"I know this is going to be a tough tournament," said Mrs. Lloyd, who had played World Team Tennis as a member of the now-defunct Phoenix Racquets. "Since it's outdoors, you have to be in really good shape. I remember the last time I won (in 1976), I thought I was in good shape but the heat takes a lot out of you."

Afternoon temperatures have been hovering around the 100-degree mark this week.

In other first-round matches today, Diane Fromholtz of Australia, the No. 3 seed, was paired against Tanya Harford of South Africa; fourth-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia was to meet Pam Shriver; and No. 5 seed Kerry Reid of Australia was paired against Rosie Casals of the United States.

Greer Stevens, the No. 6 seed from South Africa, was to play Caroline Stoll of the United States.

Washington Selected Top Red Raider Defender

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Rex Dockery turned out to be a fortune teller of sorts last week — two days before Texas Tech's big game with Texas A&M, to be exact.

"Keep an eye on Lewis Washington Saturday," Dockery said with confidence. "He'll be around the football. He'll make some things happen out there."

Obviously, Tech's head football coach knew what he was talking about.

Washington, a 6-1, 200-pound sophomore from Kerens, replaced the injured

Roger Jones at an outside linebacker position for the Red Raiders and turned in a fine showing.

Washington was constantly around the football as Dockery predicted. He was in on five tackles, two of them unassisted. His finest moment came late in the first half when he zoomed past an Aggie blocker to get a piece of an A&M punt.

The blocked punt rolled out of bounds on the A&M 9-yard line and set the stage for Bill Adams to kick the second of his three field goals.

For his performance in Tech's 21-20 upset victory over the Aggies, Washington has been selected Defensive Player of the Week by the Avalanche Journal.

"Our kicking teams and special teams played a big role in the win over A&M and Lewis was a big part of those special teams," Dockery stated. "He had an excellent game for us."

Offensive Player of the Week honors went to sophomore quarterback Ron Reeves who also was named today the Associated Press' offensive player of the week in the Southwest Conference.

Reeves was the Raiders' driving force Saturday night at Jones Stadium as they rallied from a 20-9 deficit to overtake the Aggies midway through the fourth quarter.

The Monterey High School graduate and last year's conference newcomer guided Tech on back-to-back scoring drives of 80 and 65 yards to rally the Red Raiders. Reeves ran for 84 yards on 26 carries and completed seven of 10 pass attempts for 57 yards, one touchdown and no interceptions.

Many of Reeves' option runs came during the final two scoring drives and resulted in key first downs to keep those drives alive.

"I thought Ron played his finest game of the season," Dockery said. "He ran the option very well and picked up many valuable yards."

One of Reeves' biggest runs came on Tech's final touchdown drive. On first and 10 from the A&M 18, Reeves rolled to his right on the option and turned upfield for 18 yards and another first down at the Aggies' eight yard mark. From there, junior running back Greg Tyler bolted around left end for the final eight yards and the six points that provided the winning margin for the Red Raiders.

Dockery called Tuesday's two-and-a-half hour practice session a successful workout for his football team.

"We had great intensity today," Dockery admitted. "I thought last week was an excellent week of practice and we had great intensity all during the week. I think that showed during the game Saturday."

"We had the same kind of intensity from our players today. The win over A&M has helped the attitude of our football team. It's something we can build on and I think this team is improving each day."

Reeves Lands Weekly AP Honor

By The Associated Press

It got to where Ron Reeves hated to go to the grocery store.

He had gone from hero to zero in his hometown of Lubbock and it stung.

Public trips brought penetrating inquiries.

"Hey, Ron, is your arm hurt?"

"Hey, Ron, what's wrong?"

It was hard for Reeves, a former Monterey High School star and the Southwest Conference Newcomer of the Year as a freshman, to adjust. He had only heard cheers all his life.

In Jones Stadium, some fans actually booed him.

"I had to learn to let what people say go in one ear and out the other," said Reeves.

Reeves learned his self-taught lesson well. He is The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week for a courageous performance in Tech's come-from-behind 21-20 victory over Texas A&M Saturday.

"I really grew up this week," said the Red Raider sophomore quarterback. "I've tried not to let things bother me. But no matter what you say, you hear the talk."

"Probably the thing that bothers you most is that when you think you are really trying hard, someone will ask you 'What's the matter?'"

The bottom came for Reeves in the second half of a 27-17 loss to Baylor two weeks ago when the Bears sacked him time and time again. When he did throw it sailed yards over the receiver's heads.

Again, the whispers. Where did his arm go? Why does he hold the ball so long? Why would he rather run than pass?

He hadn't played a game all year without being intercepted.

Reeves shushed his critics by orchestrating two clutch touchdown drives against the Texas Aggies, who led 20-9 to start the fourth quarter. On one drive, Reeves ripped off runs of 11 and 18 yards, and flipped a pass for 16 yards.

The game-winning touchdown came on a Reeves-led, 80-yard drive climaxed by his five-yard scoring pass.

Reeves converted four times on third down in the vital fourth period.

For the night, he had carried 26 times for 84 yards. He had no interceptions.

"I was so proud of our team for not quitting. . . I think we gained a lot of confidence," he said.

But there's more.

On Tech's final possession, he fumbled the ball to A&M trying to run out the clock but the Aggies couldn't score.

"I liked to have died," said Reeves. "But you know, I think I'm going to be a better person because of this."

Side from getting the defending champion Cougars off to a winning start in the SWC, the victory was important for the UH defense, Hodge said.

"Our defense hadn't played like it was supposed to until the Baylor game," he said. "But we finally put together four good quarters against Baylor and now we can build on that the rest of the season."

Hodge, quiet and reserved off the field, is a team leader by example.

"I got tired of watching him get in there ahead of me a lot of times since I felt I was playing pretty good myself," defensive tackle Leonard Mitchell said. "He just kept telling us to play hard for three downs so we can get out of here."

UH's Hodge Leads Victory Over Baylor

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston linebacker David Hodge cruises around the UH campus quietly and often unnoticed, and even during practice sessions he may not appear revved up.

But on game day, Hodge's motor shifts from idle to a high-pitched whine, and the senior from Clute becomes nothing short of a run-and-hit driver.

"David's motor seems to have more rpsms when it's game time," UH coach Bill Yoeman said. "He has no better than 4.8 speed, yet I've seen him run guys to the sidelines that are supposed to be 4.4 or 4.5."

Baylor was the victim of Hodge's personal demolition derby last Saturday as the Cougars won their Southwest Conference opener 13-10. Hodge wrecked the Bears with 15 tackles, including four in third-down situations, and intercepted a pass to stop another drive.

Hodge's performance, called "perfect" by UH defensive coordinator Doug Todd, earned Hodge the Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week honor for the second time in four weeks.

"He has such great instincts for the football," Yoeman said. "He is capable of moving up and down the line and ending up with the ball carrier a great deal of the time."

Hodge has been described as a finesse player who gets to the play and makes the tackle, but is not the punishing type of linebacker.

Yoeman chuckles at such a description. "There were a lot of thuds out there Saturday night," he said.

Hodge describes his style as "getting the job done."

"I just play to get the job done and bring them down the best way I can," he said. "Every linebacker tries to punish the back as much as possible, but the important thing is getting him down. If you can punish him too, it's just that much extra."

Hodge admitted that the presence of Baylor linebacker Mike Singletary in the game also helped him play well.

"That has a lot to do with it when you have two good linebackers in the game," Hodge said. "Mike is one of the best linebackers around, and I just wanted to make sure everybody got his money's worth."

Aside from getting the defending champion Cougars off to a winning start in the SWC, the victory was important for the UH defense, Hodge said.

"Our defense hadn't played like it was supposed to until the Baylor game," he said. "But we finally put together four good quarters against Baylor and now we can build on that the rest of the season."

Hodge, quiet and reserved off the field, is a team leader by example.

"I got tired of watching him get in there ahead of me a lot of times since I felt I was playing pretty good myself," defensive tackle Leonard Mitchell said. "He just kept telling us to play hard for three downs so we can get out of here."

Oregon State Coach Said Ready To Quit

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A television sportscaster said Tuesday night he has learned that Craig Fertig will resign as Oregon State football coach, effective at the end of the season.

Rick Metzger of KOIN-TV said he had learned from administration officials that an announcement will be made soon to relieve pressure on Fertig and the team, which is 0-5 so far this season.

Fertig was unavailable for comment.

Oregon State athletic director Dee Andros, Metzger reported, said he will make an announcement — possibly before the game against California this Saturday — on Fertig's status.

Fertig, 39, formerly an assistant at Southern California and a quarterback in his playing days there, became the Oregon State head coach in December 1975.

Cowboys Sign Defensive End

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys almost drafted John Dutton five years ago, but instead took Ed "Too Tall" Jones.

With Jones now retired and boxing for a living, they traded two precious draft picks Tuesday, hoping to fill the void with the defensive end they now wish they had drafted in the first place.

"The Cowboys signed Dutton, who stubbornly refused to play for the Baltimore Colts this season because of a dispute with management, to a multi-year contract for undisclosed terms.

Jones was the fifth person in the draft in 1974 and club president Tex Schramm said "We debated at great length whether to take Ed or John Dutton."

"Of course, our philosophy is the draft, but we are not totally against trading for a player who is quality and who is Dutton's age."

"Dutton is 28 and an All-Pro, and we are not so high-browed that we won't do what's proper. The loss of 'Too Tall,' who was on an All-Pro level, threw off our scheduling and our timing or we would not have done it."

The Cowboys surrendered a No. 1 and No. 2 round draft pick in 1980 for the somewhat stunned Dutton, who flew to Dallas for a late Tuesday night press conference.

"I just about gave up all hope of playing this year because I was not going to play for the Colts," said Dutton, who was obtained a mere 20 minutes before the trading deadline. "I didn't think the Cowboys would get me because I thought they had everything."

The 6-foot-7, 266-pound Dutton was an All-Pro in 1976 and three times has been to the Pro Bowl.

Coach Tom Landry said Dutton, who played right end at Baltimore, would be inserted in Jones' old left end position as soon as it was possible.

Landry said, "There's no question that he can help us. It'll probably take him a while to regain his competitive edge. It would be wrong to say that he can come back right now and play like he did when he was at the top of his game."

Dutton is not likely to play in Sunday night's meeting with the Los Angeles Rams. When he does play, he will wear the same number, 78, that he wore for the Colts.

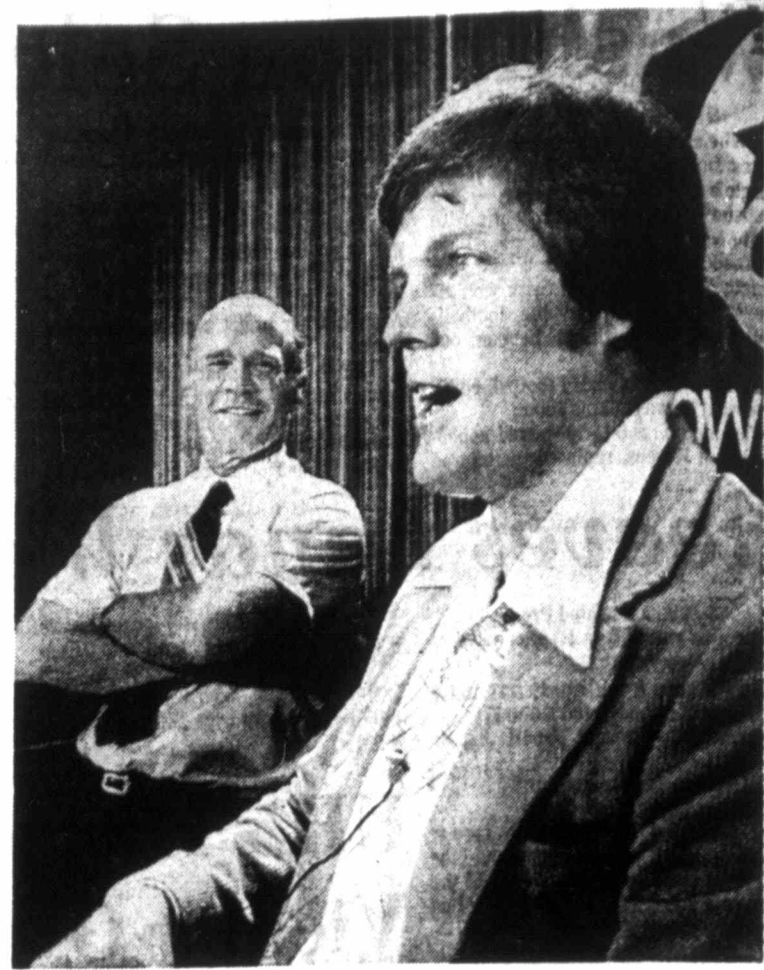

Dutton said his dispute with Baltimore "was not financial. . . it was just not the place for me to be. I can't play football if I'm unhappy."

He was accompanied by Dallas by attorney Howard Slusher, his agent.

"John didn't come here for the money. He just wants respect," Slusher said. "The Colts could have made him the most wealthy player in the NFL and he would have turned them down."

The Cowboys acquired Dutton to shore up their defensive line, which has been less than adept at pass rushing this year.

"I feel like I can pass rush if I need to, but I think I'm probably really better against the run," said Dutton, who had 17 sacks one year with the Colts.

Sanders Looks To Lobo Rematch

By DON HENRY

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 "It was kinda like when I was coaching in high school," chuckled Jerry Don Sanders Tuesday.

"We played this game, and we got three straight penalties. So I asked the official what we were doing wrong."

"He said, 'One of your linemen is almost lining up offside.'"

"Well, the other night (in a 35-8 loss to Trinity), they threw for 283 yards against us. Four of their passes went for 200 of those yards. So, if we could have eliminated those four passes and one punt return, we almost could have won."

Sanders told the yarn in commenting at the weekly press conference that he felt his Lubbock Christian College football team played well in the loss. Big plays, he admitted, were the difference for his Chaparrals.

"We improved tremendously on offense," the head coach said. "We played so much better offensively, that the defense almost gave us a standing ovation as we came off the field."

LCC held an 8-6 lead going into the final 30 seconds of the first half. And Sanders pointed out that LCC ran more plays offensively than did Trinity.

"This is something that we haven't been doing."

Sanders lauded the work of linebacker Mark Harmon, who was selected the school's athlete of the week. Harmon, a freshman linebacker who worked his way into the starting lineup two games ago, had six unassisted tackles and two assists, a quarterback sack and deflected a pass in the game.

Sanders also commented defensive tackle Guyle Robertson, punter Rick Juarez, two-way performer Jimmy James and quarterback Kent Allison for their efforts.

Sanders indicated that he would use all his players in the remaining three games, in looking to the future. Allison, said Sanders, will play half of Saturday's game against the Sul Ross Lobos here, with backups Curtis Dean and Paul Elk-ins each getting a quarter of playing time.

LCC will be playing Sul Ross Saturday at 2 p.m. at Coronado High School field. Earlier this season, the Lobos clubbed LCC 47-0 in Alpine.

"We have been competitive the last two games (Trinity and Austin College)," said Sanders. "We feel we will be competitive against Sul Ross. We have learned a lot and improved a lot since that game."

The LCC coach said that the team will be in better physical condition, too, adding that center Jim Smith and running back Marvin Wiley, both out for a couple of weeks with injuries, will be returning this week.

At the time he was hurt, Wiley was the team's leading rusher, but Pat Worthley has filled in. Sanders has not indicated which player will start this week.

Juarez, Robertson and James were nominated for the school athlete-of-the-week award, along with volleyball player Cheryl Skaggs, and tennis player Lisa Hathorn. Miss Skaggs helped LCC compile a 6-3 record last week.

Sonics To Face Tough Battle In Title Defense

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer
 The Seattle SuperSonics have improved significantly since last season, when they won their first National Basketball Association championship.

Yet they are anything but a lock to become the first team in more than a decade to win consecutive NBA titles.

The Sonics will have their hands full repeating in the Pacific Division, by far the NBA's toughest, let alone going all the way. Pacific playmates Phoenix and who added Kevin Kunnert and Kermit Washington in the Bill Walton compensation award, have as much depth as any team in the league, and it will come in handy because versatile Mychal Thompson is out the first half of the year because of a broken leg. Tom Owens shares the center spot with Kunnert while the presence of Washington may make all-star forward Maurice Lucas expendable. Top draft pick Jimmy Paxson of Duke bolsters a deep backcourt.

SAN DIEGO — The Clippers' fortunes rest on Bill Walton's shaky legs, because no player in the league brings as much out of his teammates as the red-haired center. And Walton will have to be at his best to get anything from San Diego's motley group of forwards — Nick Weatherspoon, Sidney Wicks, Joe Bryant and Jerome Whitehead. The backcourt of Lloyd Free, Brian Taylor and Freeman Williams is solid.

GOLDEN STATE — The Warriors are an ordinary team in an extraordinary division. Robert Parish is a first-rate center and one of the NBA's best-kept secrets. John Lucas and Sonny Parker are other quality players, but the Warriors lack the overall strength or depth to challenge in the potent Pacific.

MIDWEST DIVISION

KANSAS CITY — The baby backcourt of Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong is a year older, but so is center Sam Lacey. The Kings obtained Mike Green from San Antonio to take the pressure off Lacey until Tom Burleson, who underwent knee surgery, is ready to play in mid-season. Rookie Reggie "Mule" King should step in and help as a reserve forward.

DENVER — Donnie Walsh, who did well enough as interim coach late last season to get the job on a permanent basis, decided to stick with the same explosive lineup as last season. David Thompson and George McGinnis are a potent 1-2 punch, but center Dan Issel, at 31, isn't getting any quicker and the team defense is not the best.

MILWAUKEE — The Bucks have added rebounding strength in Pat Cummings and Harvey Catchings and point production in guard Sidney Moncrief, but their future depends on the development of center Kent Benson, who seemed to come around late last year. The preseason holdout of forward Marques Johnson, the all-around star who didn't report until Monday, didn't help.

CHICAGO — Ricky Sobers, who came from Indiana as compensation for the loss of free agent forward Mickey Johnson, gives Chicago a genuine playmaker and a fine runningmate for Reggie Theus. Rookie forward David Greenwood should help take the pressure off center Artis Gilmore, but small forward is a big problem unless Scott May is over his knee troubles.

UTAH — The transplanted Jazz has plenty of scoring power with Pete Maravich, Adrian Dantley and Bernard King, but center is a weakness — journeyman John Gandel and converted forward James Hardy.

Thursday: the Eastern Conference.

Analysis

Los Angeles rate right up with Seattle as legitimate contenders for the NBA title, and San Diego and Portland are both on a couple of players away.

Seattle has last year's title team back intact, and has added three players who should make valuable contributions: center Tom LaGarde, who missed most of last season because of a knee injury, and college standouts James Bailey of Rutgers and Vinnie Johnson of Baylor. The Sonics will need them all if they are to become the league's first repeat champion since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics.

In the Midwest, the Kansas City Kings lost their home — the roof fell in on Kemper Arena, forcing a move to older, smaller Municipal Auditorium — but are favored to retain their division title, although Denver has the firepower to regain the top spot.

A look at the teams:

PACIFIC DIVISION
 SEATTLE — The Sonics are loaded. Jack Sikma, Lonnie Shelton, LaGarde, Bailey and veteran Paul Silas share the power positions. John Johnson and Wally Walker are the small forwards. Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams are the best two-way guard tandem in the league, and Fred Brown and Vinnie Johnson are explosive reserves. The coolness of coach Wilkens and the intensity of the huge Kingdom crowds are other plusses. Minuses? None are apparent.

PHOENIX — A full year from Truck Robinson, who came over from the Jazz in midseason and then suffered an illness late in the year, could be all the Suns need to shine. There are no new faces, with the all-star starting five — Robinson and Walter Davis at forward, Alvan Adams in the middle and Paul Westphal and Don Buse on the back line — again backed up by no-name reserves like Mike Bratz and Joel Kramer. Veteran Gar Heard was a pleasant surprise last spring, but the Suns need Robinson to play up to his form of 1978, when he led the NBA in rebounding, if they are to go all the way.

LOS ANGELES — They're billing it as the Magic Show, now that rookie Earvin "Magic" Johnson has arrived from NCAA champion Michigan State to team with Norm Nixon in the backcourt. But the keys for the Lakers remain up front. Newcomers Spencer Haywood and Jim Chones should finally provide some rebounding help for center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, while Jamaal Wilkes shifts to his more natural position of small forward. If Johnson's enthusiasm rubs off on Abdul-Jabbar, the Lakers could well make a run at the title.

PORTLAND — The Trail Blazers,

Tech Captures VB Match

The Texas Tech women's volleyball team won its five straight match and 12th consecutive game with a 15-3, 15-2, 15-6 victory over Eastern New Mexico University Tuesday night in the Women's Gym.

Panther Backfield Earns Honor

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

When a team wins its first game in five attempts — it is hard to single out a single hero.

And such was the case in Dunbar's 20-10 victory over the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes last Friday. Not only did the Panthers score more points than they have in the last four games combined — but they did most of the damage in the second half.

"This was just a complete team victory," said Dunbar coach Van Jefferson following the contest. "We had good effort from everybody on the team."

But there were a few Panthers that stuck out. Tony Davis sparkled on both sides of the ball, coming up with a big run in the third quarter to move the Panthers into scoring territory. Davis also scored the Panthers' first TD on a short burst.

And there was the play of quarterbacks Kenneth Idom and Barry Pillow. Alternating on almost every play, those two turned things around for Dunbar in the second half.

It would be hard to overlook the running of Geoffrey Crawford who led the Panthers to their final touchdown of the night. And, hey, don't forget steady Fabian Garcia, who came up with a big play to set up the Panthers' first TD.

Dunbar had been presented with a golden opportunity when the Panthers came up with a fumble at the Lamesa 13. But two plays netted nothing, and trailing 10-0 at the time, the Panthers were in desperate need of a big play.

So Garcia gave them just that, bursting 12 yards around left end — falling just short of the goal line.

"It was a big win," understated Jefferson. "It had been a year since we won our last one."

And for the big win, the entire DHS backfield of Pillow, Crawford, Idom, Davis and Garcia will have to share the Avalanche-Journal Player of the Week honors.

The Panthers get this week off to begin working for a district title and for that reason the win comes at a very good time.

Once district play begins, the Panthers' 1-4 pre-district slate won't mean anything. Jefferson's troops' first test will be Levelland — and things haven't been going to smoothly for the Lobos thus far in 1979.

Levelland is 2-3 on the year, having scored an average of 10 points a contest while allowing the opposition closer to 21 an outing.

And Jefferson promises that his team will be ready to play some ball once district competition begins.

"I guarantee you," he said after the Lamesa game, "we'll be ready."

Alborn Likes OU

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University coach Ray Alborn has an accurate track record for predicting the outcome of the annual Texas-Oklahoma football slugfest in Dallas. "Oklahoma has a very explosive offense and unless they leave the ball on the ground (fumble), I don't see anyone stopping them," Alborn said.

When the Owls lost to Oklahoma 66-7 and to Texas 34-0 last year, Alborn predicted a Sooner victory. Texas coach Fred Akers didn't like the forecast but the Sooners did win the game 31-10.

Rice improved against UT and OU this season, losing to Oklahoma 63-21 and to Texas 26-9 and Alborn has the same prediction for the 1979 game.

"Now if they (Oklahoma) have trouble pitching the ball, Texas could win but if they get the ball to the corner it could be a long afternoon. If I were going to pick a winner I'd pick Oklahoma," Alborn said.

The game shapes up as a battle between the potent Oklahoma offense led by Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims and the rugged defense of the Longhorns, rated by some as the best in the school's history.

"Texas' defense tackle to tackle, manhandled us pretty well," Alborn said. "They put a big rush on and their secondary is good. We just couldn't get the ball to our receivers."

Sims and UT running back A.J. Jones each rushed more than 100 yards against the Owls but Sims played less than half of the game and Jones played the entire game.

"Jones is a good back, but he's no Billy Sims," Alborn said. "Not by any score. I mean, Jones isn't bad, but Sims is in a class by himself."

One stumbling block to the OU offense and Sims could be Longhorn free safety Johnnie Johnson, Alborn said.

"Johnnie Johnson will be able to create some problems for the Oklahoma offense," Alborn said. "Texas will support him on both sides against the run."

UT Cagers Deny Theft Of Bike

AUSTIN (AP) — A pair of University of Texas basketball players charged with stealing a bicycle say the arrest was the result of a misunderstanding.

Henry Lee Johnson and Keith Stephens, both 20-year-old juniors, are charged with felony theft for allegedly stealing a $247 bicycle on the campus last Thursday. Both were jailed and later released on their own recognizance.

UT police found the missing bicycle in Johnson's van after a student complained his bike was missing, according to Lt. Johnny Rush of the campus police.

Johnson said Monday that Stephens was trying to play a prank on a friend by hiding his bicycle — but he picked up the wrong bicycle. Johnson said he was sitting in his van when Stephens came up with the bike and asked to hide it in Johnson's van.

"The next thing I know, the police are over next to the van, saying we stole the bike," Johnson said. "It was all a big misunderstanding."

Stephens is a 6-9 center from Pasadena, Calif. Johnson is a 6-7 forward from Los Angeles.

David Paces Plainview In Victory Over Clovis

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

There was a time — earlier in the season — when some folks thought coach Greg Sherwood should take fullback Ervin Davis out behind the barn and shoot him.

But Sherwood chose otherwise and it's a good thing he did.

Davis, a legitimate all-state candidate when the season began, lived up to the lofty buildup against Clovis, N.M., last Friday night by running for 214 yards on 27 carries. The 220-pounder, this week's Avalanche-Journal's top Class AAAA performer, also scored three touchdowns in PHS' 25-0 victory over the defending New Mexico state champions.

The 214 yards against Clovis almost matched Davis' entire rushing output for the season. Prior to the contest, Davis had picked up only 220 yards on 59 carries in three games.

Following the contest, Davis praised the performance of the Bulldogs' offensive line, saying, "They really got off the ball. Everyone really had the killer instinct and we never gave up. The holes were so big they scared me when I saw them."

Davis, who'd scored only two touchdowns this season, opened the Clovis game with a 80-yard TD burst. The run came on the first play of the contest. He later scored in both the second and fourth periods on runs of 8 yards each.

The stellar performance also moved Davis into second place behind Monterey's Willie Johnson for the District 4-AAAA rushing title. Johnson, after five games, has gained 594 yards on 111 carries. Coronado quarterback Alan Harp dropped to third with 300 yards on 91 tries.

The win left Plainview with a 2-5 win-loss mark, heading into next week's loop opener against Monterey at Lowrey Field. Plainview will take this week off in preparation for the contest.

Also nominated for the weekly A-J honor were:

- Coronado receiver Jack Lord who caught five passes for 54 yards in the Mustangs' 9-7 win over Palo Duro.
- Kicker Ricky Melvin who came on with 13 seconds left in the game to kick a 23-yard field goal and lift Coronado to the 9-7 come-from-behind win over the Dons. Melvin also intercepted a Palo Duro pass while playing defense.
- Lubbock High receiver Larry Walker who caught three passes for 50 yards, including a 1-yard TD reception from quarterback Gilbert Cuevas that tied Odessa Ector 7-7 late in the game. Walker also had an interception that halted an Ector offensive drive.
- Monterey running back Johnson who picked up his fifth straight 100-yard rushing night by gaining 119 yards on 12 tries against Hobbs. He also caught a pair of passes for an additional 38 yards and three touchdowns.

QB Play Concerns, Shula, Griese

MIAMI (AP) — Bob Griese is concerned about the Miami Dolphins' sputtering offense, but he's not sure what else he can do. Coach Don Shula is also concerned, but he may have an alternative.

Shula said Tuesday he will closely monitor the physical status of backup quarterback Don Stock this week. Griese has yet to consistently move the offense this season, and Miami has dropped its last two games.

Shula doesn't know whether Griese's problems are a result of age (he's 34) or a bothersome hamstring pull, but he does know the Dolphins aren't going anywhere unless they improve their offense.

"We're so disappointed with the offense," Shula said. "The only thing we can go by is what's happened this year, and the only good half we've had is the second half of the Bears game when we scored four touchdowns."

After Monday night's 13-3 loss at Oakland, Griese said, "I'm not happy about the way things are going. I am the leader of the offense and the offense has not been scoring. That concerns me.

"All I can do is what I think will move the ball, score points and win ball games," he said.

Florida A&M Elated By Win Over Miami

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer Lou Saban was asked if he was surprised by Division I-AA Florida A&M's 16-13 victory Saturday over Division I-A Miami, Fla.

"Nothing in football surprises me," replied Saban, who now coaches at Army but spent the last two seasons as head man at Miami.

Nevertheless, the folks at Miami had to be shocked, even though Howard Schnellenberger, Saban's successor, said he didn't consider it a "disgrace to lose to the Division I-AA champs."

If the Miamians were dejected, the Rattlers of Florida A&M were ecstatic. "It was an outstanding game and an outstanding performance by our players," said Robert Mungen, a Florida A&M assistant coach. "This was THE game for us and now everyone knows that we've arrived."

Like most smaller schools, especially predominantly black ones like Florida A&M, the Rattlers suffer from an identity crisis. They are in Division I-AA of the NCAA because they don't field the necessary number of varsity sports to qualify with the big boys in Division I-A.

no, who starred at Pittsburgh's Central Catholic High School and may be the most publicized athlete to come out of western Pennsylvania since Tony Dorsett.

Pitt built its recruiting year around Marino but the rookie has played second-fiddle thus far to Trocano. The veteran, who ranks third on Pitt's all-time passing list and No. 5 in career total offense, has started every game, completing 54 of 93 passes for 575 yards and three touchdowns, with eight interceptions.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks on Colorado's 1-4 start: "If I had an easy answer I would bottle it and sell it to every team with this type of problem. I'm frustrated and discouraged, but I'm going to fight like hell to do the best I can."

"I'm not saying we can beat Southern Cal, or those teams, but I don't see how people can say we couldn't if we don't get the chance."

George Blocker, a sophomore defensive end at Vanderbilt, is nicknamed "Hoss." If that sounds familiar, well, the late Dan Blocker, George's cousin, played Hoss on the Bonanza TV series. And George displays a lot of Hoss's ornaments.

Television Movie Warns Viewers Face-Lifts Can't Buy Happiness

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Last week ABC went after the calorie watchers of America, presumably on the theory that inside every thin woman is a fat one trying to eat her way out.
 Tonight NBC is going after the woman's audience with the theme of plastic surgery. The uplifting message warns beauty is only skin deep, more or less, and face-lifts can't buy happiness.
 The apt title of the show is "Mirror, Mirror," and goes on the air tonight at 8 p.m., Central time.
 The script involves three women whose paths cross at a weight-reducing gym and who wind up consulting the same plastic surgeon.
 Lee Meriwether (of "Barnaby Rudge"), a former New York model who now runs her own Los Angeles agency, wants nip-and-tuck surgery on her eyelids before confronting her lost but not forgotten former lover, photographer Robert Vaughn.
 As a side note, that young magazine interviewer who looks so familiar is Christopher Lemmon, Jack's son.
 Next there's Loretta Swit of "M-A-S-H," a super wife and mother, with her chest strapped in by Ace bandages or some other form of torture to make her look flat-chested. She wants breast implants, which definitely does not turn on her husband, Peter Bonerz (Jerry, the dentist, on the old Bob Newhart show).
 Finally there's spoiled rich widow Janet Leigh, who uses plastic surgery the way some neurotics pop pills. When a legitimate surgeon refuses to treat her because she has developed diabetes, she goes to a quack with a clinic in Mexico.
 All turns out reasonably well, with each woman learning something about herself. If anybody suffers from all this voluntary surgery, it's the audience.

ABC has announced its first casualty of the new television season, and the show that needs doctoring happens to be the hospital series, "Lazarus Syndrome." The show has been dropped but, according to the network, "will resume production with a new focus and design" for airing at an indefinite future date.

"Hart to Hart" will move into the spot "Lazarus" vacates beginning Oct. 23, with "Fantasy Island" returning to its old Saturday night slot on Oct. 20. That leaves a blank hour on Friday night that will be filled by an all-star "Family Feud" on Oct. 19, "The Bible" on Oct. 26, and a series of specials thereafter that will fall somewhere between Richard Dawson and Moses.

The Precision Haircut

(And why it might be right for you.)

If you hate the way your haircut disappears the day after, come to Command Performance where we specialize in the precision haircut.

Precision haircutting is our technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. So as it grows, it doesn't lose its shape. And because the hair is cut to fall naturally, you don't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

The precision haircut with shampoo and blow-dry costs just fourteen dollars for guys and gals. We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. No appointment is needed, just come in. And you'll see that precision is right for you.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

"Dear Marilyn and Hy," postcard reader Len Pehrsen of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. "Would you please settle a bet that could win me a steak and champagne dinner? I claim that Frank Sinatra faced a congressional committee in Washington in the early '70s, after which he slapped the august body by writing and releasing a statement revealing his feelings about the whole experience. My friend says I'm wrong. Could you (if I'm right) dig up and reprint that statement? Thanks a million."

A: Hope your steak is as rare and meaty as your memory because you are right! The following is an exact copy of Sinatra's "frank" statement:

"The whole matter could have been resolved in the privacy of a lawyer's office, without all the attendant hoopla," stated Sinatra. "Congressional investigating committees... can become star chambers in which 'facts' are confused with rumor, gossip and innuendo, and where reputations and character can be demolished in front of the largest possible audiences.

"In my case," Sinatra continued, "a convicted murderer was allowed to throw my name around with abandon, while TV cameras rolled on. His vicious little fantasy was sent into millions of American homes, including my own. Sure, I was given a chance to refute it, but as we have all come to know, the accusation often remains longer in the public mind than the defense..

"An American citizen, no matter how famous or how obscure, should not be placed in the position of defending himself before baseless charges, and no congressional committee should become a forum for gutter hearsay that could not be admissible in a court of law..

"Sitting at that table, I wondered whether it was any accident that I had been called down to Washington during an election year, in which congressmen have difficulty getting their names into the newspaper because of the tremendous concentration on the race for the presidency. It certainly seemed that way.

"And I wondered if the people out there in America knew how dangerous the whole proceeding was. My privacy had been robbed from me. I had lost hours out of my life, I was being forced to defend myself in a place that was not even a court of law... If this sort of thing could happen to me, it could happen to anyone, including those who cannot defend themselves properly..

"I hope a lot of Americans ask their representatives, in the government and in the media," Sinatra concluded, "to start separating fantasy from reality, and to bring this sort of nonsense to an end once and for all."

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 19620, Irvine, Calif. 92714. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

ABC Radio Networks Get New Competition For Youth Market

By PETER J. BOYER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a brilliant idea, deftly executed: "Pop news" networks that could deliver millions of young rock station listeners to national advertisers.

Central to ABC's plan, when it split its radio network into four separate networks in 1968, was to supply youth-oriented radio stations with soft-news and lifestyle features.

While two of ABC's new networks — ABC Information and ABC Entertainment — continued to broadcast news along traditional lines, the other two new networks talked about drugs, teenage pregnancy and rock stars.

It succeeded, and for a decade, ABC has worked the lucrative youth market virtually alone. In fact, ABC Contemporary and ABC FM are so successful that the network can point to statistics showing that 47 percent of the nation's 18-34 year-old radio market listens to stations affiliated with one of ABC's youth-oriented networks.

It was a monopoly that begged competition, and ABC suddenly finds itself with two new rivals for the youth audience. NBC, which had allowed its radio product to slide in recent years, announced last May that it had begun a new radio network for young audiences, something called "The Source."

Still stinging from the dismal failure of an earlier attempt at a new network, the News Information Service, NBC decided to nurse "The Source" along slowly. As a result, "The Source" is still in testing at the 21 stations that have signed on.

But Dick Verne, executive vice president of NBC Radio, says "The Source" will be in 50 album-oriented radio stations by next spring, in full competition with ABC's FM and Contemporary networks.

Not likely, says Margaret Digan Sinclair, the Director of Creative Services for RKO. It will be RKO's new network, launched last week, that will be ABC's biggest competition.

"We don't really see NBC as a serious competitor," Mrs. Sinclair says. "They've been stuck with the tag 'new and experimental' because they're not selling it; they're still in testing. None of their affiliates are carrying it, and it seems to be geared to teenyboppers."

RKO is aiming its network at is the newest "hot" demographic group, the 25-49 segment (comprised of people who were in the 18-34 range when that group became the darling of communications demographics experts).

RKO already has 10 of its 12 owned-and-operated stations lined up for the new service.

Both new networks, RKO's and The Source, will follow the general format invented by ABC: lifestyle features, some hard news and a generous devotion of attention to the doings of the rock world.

"Our news will be faster-paced, directed to the type of audience listening," says NBC's Verne. "When the Pope comes, or President Carter takes a trip, we have to spend time on it; but most of what we'll do will be of interest to young adults. We do surveys to find out what they're interested in, what they're concerns are, and we build them into newscasts."

ABC, for its part, claims to welcome the competition. "As long as they're out there pitching to get more radio dollars into the marketplace, we're all for it," says ABC's Henry Cavett.

GLASSES DONATED
SHORT HILLS, N.J. (AP) — Last year more than a million pairs of old glasses were donated to New Eyes for the Needy here, a non-profit organization that has been recycling them since 1932. In addition to distributing reusable glasses to foreign missions, the group recycles old jewelry, gold and silver items. The proceeds are used to establish eye funds in hospitals across the United States.

Kathleen Quinlan Wins Praise For Performance

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Roman Catholic nuns make fascinating movie heroines and few are more compelling than Kathleen Quinlan as a young nun in Stanley Kramer's exceptional new movie, "The Runner Stumbles."

The devotion, purity of character and attainability of nuns make for enormous dramatic possibilities and as often as not win plaudits for the actresses who play them.

Kathleen, 24, follows in the footsteps of several stars who won Academy award nominations and New York Film Critics awards for their performances.

Deborah Kerr, playing a nun in "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," won an nomination and the critics award. Audrey Hepburn did the same in "The Nun's Story."

Ingrid Bergman was nominated for her performance as the saintly sister in "The Bells of St. Mary's" as did Lilia Lala for her nun's role in "Lilies of the Field." Loretta Young and Celeste Holm did the same for "Come To The Stable."

Perhaps the most popular nun in movie history was Julie Andrews' performance as the young acolyte in "The Sound of Music," for which she also was nominated for an Academy Award.

Producer-director Kramer is convinced Kathleen has produced an award-winning performance as Sister Rita in his story of a nun who falls in love with a priest (Dick Van Dyke) and is subsequently murdered.

The movie is based on a play which "turn" was taken from a real life love affair between a nun and a priest in Michigan in the 1920s.

Kathleen, best remembered for her stunning performance as a schizophrenic girl in "I Never Promised You A Rose Garden," researched her role carefully. She had a head start. She was born and reared a Catholic.

Last year she spent three days on retreat in Milwaukee, Wis., at a jubilee for the sisters of St. Francis. Some 300 nuns attended the celebration for sisters who had spent 25, 50 and 60 years in the order.

"I took the script with me and gave it to the priest in charge," Kathleen said. "He was taken aback when I told him it was a love story between a nun and a priest. But he liked the script and allowed me to talk to the nuns."

"The sisters had taken vows of silence for the first two days, but I did speak to a good many of them on the third day. One of them was especially helpful. She had joined the order at 17 and was a teacher, just like Sister Rita."

"The older sisters thought the script was a little racy. The younger ones said the situation happens all the time. They find ways to deal with it by talking to their mother superior or a priest."

"They either conquer their love for a man by renewing their faith or renounce their vows. But it is something both nuns and priests have to deal with."

Kathleen, who has apartments in New York and Beverly Hills, is no longer a Catholic. She is single, unattached and a devout young actress — humorous, dedicated and unimpressed with her beauty.

She admits that like most little Catholic girls — educated by sisters — she fantasized about becoming a nun when she was a child.

"I rebelled when I was 16 or 17," Kathleen said. "But it was a strange feeling putting on the habit, the wimple and the veil to play Sister Rita."

"It was also agony in the 100-degree weather we worked in near Seattle. Nuns in 1927 wore several layers of underclothes, plus three layers of heavy wool habit and long cotton stockings with garters. I lost eight pounds in six days."

"But I felt radiant inside when I put the costume on. I guess it surfaced in my face and my performance. The environment helped too — the clean, fresh air, the trees and the mountains."

"It is one of the most touching love stories I've ever read. It's handled very delicately, this love between a 23-year-old nun and a priest who is in his 50s. Stanley Kramer and I had some battle about how Sister Rita should be played, but we are both pleased at the way it turned out."

Kathleen won her role simply and easily. Kramer, who lives in Seattle, had her in mind for the nun from the beginning.

He sent Kathleen the script then invited her to his home and asked if she wanted to play the role.

"I didn't hesitate for a second," Kathleen said. "I liked the context of the story and the things Sister Rita symbolized — her incredible respect for all life and her spiritual commitment to religion, not just Catholicism but all the world's religions."

"I believe most actresses would welcome the opportunity to play a nun, just as most of us like to play prostitutes. The contrast between these two opposite kinds of women is fantastic."

"I played a hooker in 'Little Ladies of the Night,' a TV movie about three years ago. However, I don't think I did justice to the hooker because it was so hard to imagine myself in those circumstances."

"Playing a nun was just as difficult in a different way. But I feel I have done justice to Sister Rita. I certainly hope I have."

Army Uses Feathers To Spread Disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkey feathers were at one time candidates for the Army's arsenal of biological warfare weapons as carriers of a disease that afflicts oats, a newly released document says.

The declassified document, made public this week, said the Army dumped turkey feathers, dusted with cereal rust spores, over oats planted on a New York Army base in a 1950 test. The experiments concluded that the feathers — "washed, fluffed, white turkey plumage of a uniform size" — will "carry sufficient numbers of spores to initiate a cereal rust epidemic" if allowed to spread, the report said. The tests were run at Camp Pine, now Camp Drum, near Watertown, N.Y. It was not known whether the initial experiments were followed up. The Defense Department declined comment on the report.

Outlook Good For Do-It-Yourself Suppliers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Among the few businesses for which the ill winds of inflation and gasoline shortages blow good is the company that sells materials and tools for the do-it-yourself home repairer.
Inflation runs up the cost of labor for professional repairs enough to make people more willing to tackle even fairly difficult jobs themselves, says the National Association of Home Builders.
The gasoline shortage keeps people at home more and gives them time to devote to repairs and improvements.
Consequently, says Howard Punch, vice president of the household and hardware products division of 3M Co. in Minneapolis, the sales volume of the home improvement industry is expected to grow by 12 percent this year to $42 billion, on top of last year's 13 percent gain.

About $19 billion of this volume at retail, Punch said, will be accounted for by the purchase of materials and tools for do-it-yourself repairs.
Even the cheapest jackleg labor costs $3 an hour or $24 a day at present and good professional labor may cost $75 a day when the contractor's profit is figured in.
This means the chap who does his own work is bound to save from 30 to 60 percent in cash outlay on all jobs, except a few that are done with high speed machines.
"Doing it yourself is becoming a matter of necessity for many couples," Punch said. "After paying for food, the mortgage and taxes, heating and other expenses that have gone up they don't have the cash for the job." Borrowing only adds interest to the already inflated cost of a professional job.

The gain in sales of materials and tools to do-it-yourselfers was between 13 and 15 percent in the first half of this year, well above the gain in sales of similar products to contractors for professional repairs. The supplies bought include anything from a few sheets of sandpaper to a complete set of kitchen or bathroom fixtures.
Magazines, books and newspaper articles for the do-it-yourselfer sell well. Even radio stations have do-it-yourself programs.
The National Association of Home Builders in Washington believes the long-range outlook for the do-it-yourself improvement market is excellent.
The association says 47 million of the more than 80 million houses in the United States are 21 years of age or older, which means that, unless they have been extraordinarily well-maintained, they probably are in need of some repair or improvement. And each year another million homes pass the 20-year mark.

The manufacturers look on the surging do-it-yourself market as a bonanza and a challenge. The challenge is to orient their marketing ever more to appeal to the do-it-yourselfer and to design both materials and tools to make them safer and easier for the amateur to use. For many tools and some materials and assemblies this means lighter weights.
It also means sanding discs backed with reliable backing adhesive, self-adhering tiles and weather strips that can be depended on, quick drying, truly dripless paints and, wherever possible, factory finished and painted materials. Door and window assemblies and even prefinished external siding meet a ready sale.
So do safe ladders.
