President Freezes Iranian Assets

IRANIANS CONTINUE PROTESTS - Iranian students burn Philippines, Tuesday. The Iranians support the seizure of the effigies of President Carter and Egyptian leader Anwar Sadat U.S. Embassy in Tehran and are angry over Sadat's support of freeze order, another administration official said the law under which Carter acted is a broad one.

The Treasury Department official, who declined to be identified, said the emergency declaration does empower the president to take other actions, such as a trade embargo or a freeze on privately held Iranian assets.

The statute "is extraordinarily broad ... you shouldn't discount possible further steps," this official said.

Carter acted after the Iranian government announced it would pull out all government assets, which it valued at about $12 billion but which U.S. officials said were worth less than Meanwhile, State Department spokesman Jack Tuohey said things are very much unchanged" concerning the 60 or so Americans held hostage since Nov. 4 at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranians demanding the return of the ousted shah. We continue our efforts on a number of fronts to secure their release." Tuohey said.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller told reporters that today's actions should not cause any disturbance in money markets or any similar threat of a pullout of assets by other gov-

He also said the freeze should not increase the risk of Iranians seizing assets of Americans in Iran, or assets of the U.S. government in Iran. In any case, Miller said, those assets are not large compared to the frozen Iranian assets.

State Department officials estimated that U.S. public and private investments in Iran now total about $400 million. A New York financial analyst said the bulk of the investment and such government-controlled corporations as the Iranian national oil company and the national airline, Iran Air.

Miller said the freeze does not affect the assets of any private Iranian official. This means the wealth of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his family foundation, estimated by confidants at no more than $60 million to $90 million, remain unaffected, Miller said.

Miller said the freeze took effect before the Iranians were able to make any substantial transfers of funds.

The freeze will be in effect for an indefinite period, Miller said at the White House.

Miller said Carter acted to insure that claims by Americans are paid and that "this action is taken purely in response" to the Iranian announcement and not because of the hostage situ-

Miller said he learned of the Iranian threat to withdraw their assets shortly before 4 a.m. CST today, and discussed it with Carter by telephone an hour later. He said the administration had anticipated such a move, and was prepared to act immediately. Papers to put a freeze into effect already had been drawn up, he said. Miller said administration officials spent the early-morning hours monitoring the situation in European branches of U.S. banks, which were open for business because of the time difference between the United States and Europe. Miller said officials saw no immediate evidence that the

WASHINGTON (AP) - Experts at this year's outlook conference at the Agriculture Department generally shared an optimistic view that over the long haul U.S. farmers will continue to benefit from an expanding world demand for The optimism is timely because U.S. grain output, led by another record corn crop, is at an all-time high this year.

Department analysts continue to up date crop production estimates and their projections on how much corn and other grain will be used in the year ahead.

At the department's annual outlook conference last week, Maurice P. Brannon of Cargill Inc., one of the nation's leading exporters of farm products, said he found it "dificult to disagree" with USDA projections of record world grain utilization and trade in 1979-80.

But Brannon added that "some clouds on the horizon" could dampen the outlook slightly.

The most obvious is transportation," he said. "Record export demand for grain and oilseeds is straining transportation capabilities to their limits, and the difficulties in solving these logistical problems should not be underestimated.

'Still, it is important to recognize that U.S. handling capacity has continued to expand. Our logistical system has consistently managed to move larger quantities of grain to export terminals

As part of his discussion, Brannon U.S. and global food systems:

'Need' is what the other fellow thinks is good for me. It's what the nutritionist says is an adequate diet.

'Want' is what I would like to have if I had my choice. I may not be able to pay for it, but I would reach for

-"Demand' is what I choose to buy

when I can afford it. Brannon said, "Much of the world food 'needs' and 'wants' that were being discussed during the 1960s became world food demand in the 1970s" as many countries, including poorer nations, strove to upgrade diets

If people around the world are to eat better, more food and feedstuffs must move from countries that can produce it to those who are failing to keep up because of a lack of resources. ... But will they be able to pay for it? Will their needs become effective demand?

Brannon said, "Lessons that the U.S. learned during the 1970s should make one optimistic on that question. Many of the developing nations have become good customers for our farm products."

Another speaker, James P. Rudbeck of USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service, said "There are some very tentative indications that worldwide economic conditions and higher energy costs might temper the demand" for meat and other livestock products in some foreign countries and result in a slowdown in animal Rudbeck added, "However, the evidence to date is not very convincing" and that overall feeding - discounting the United States and the Soviet Union - may increase slightly in 1979-80. Also, he said, feeding in some of the developing countries - South Korea. Taiwan, Mexico, Iran, Venezuela and Brazil - is expected to "continue NORTHWOOD, N.D. (AP) - Dakota roses, they're called, yellow flowers looking for the sun. They used to be just bright spots in the garden, producers of birdseed.

But the sunflower in bloom has brought a sunflower boom to Minnesota and the Dakotas, where low wheat prices and European demands have encouraged farmers to raise sunflowers as a cash crop.

"It's sort of like watching a kid grow up," said Marvin Klevberg, smiling like proud father. The Northwood-area farmer is president of the National Sunflower Growers Association and an officer in almost every other sunflower group in the country. He has raised sunflowers for 28 years.

"In those first years, we were just kind of growing them so we could stretch out the growing season and do more," Klevberg said.

'Another farmer and I got our seed in Canada. We planted 20 acres that first year. The market price was about 1.5 cents a pound, and we had to hold a crop three or four years before we could find a market. ... Some people thought we were crazy.

Today, sitting at his kitchen table over a cup of coffee, Klevberg can talk about his 1,200 acres of sunflowers.

North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Texas together are expected to harvest 5.3 million acres of sunflowers this year, compared with 2.8 million acres in 1978. The national estimate ranges from 7 billion to 7.5 billion pounds, about double 1978's, said economists at North Dakota State University

And farmers in North Dakota figure their return over cash costs will be about $12 an acre more for sunflowers than for wheat because of a higher average yield per acre.

Recent sunflower prices ranged around 8 and 10 cents a pound, with a slight drop around harvest time. The av-

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

No 'Loan' For Chrysler

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT was swept into office 50 years ago by an electorate that did not know exactly what it wanted government to do about the country's economic misfortunes, but it wanted something done.

FDR certainly did something, although it's arguable as to how desirable and/or effective much of it was. Either way, the philosophy of government in the interim has changed greatly

It has subsequently become a self-anointed responsibility of government to concern itself actively not only with the economic well-being of the nation as a whole but of its citizens as individuals

Now our federal nanny would appear to be extending this responsibility to corporate

THE CHRYSLER package that the administration wants Congress to approve by the end of the year is a stunner. At $1.5 billion in federal guarantees, it exceeds the annual federal budget preceding WW I.

A lot has happened to the value of those dollars, of course, but that's a different disaster story. No cash is immediately involved. The Treasury would be backing Chrysler loans from private sources.

Nevertheless, the government would become deeply involved in the affairs of a major corporation in a key industry. The Treasury Secretary's oversight authority would make him something of a super-chairman of the Chrysler board.

And in case the rescue failed and Chrysler should be forced into bankruptcy, the government would have first dibs on picking up its facilities-raising the prospect that the government could become an auto prod-

THERE ARE good reasons cited for supporting public aid to Chrysler. There is also a precedent, albeit much smaller, in the $250 million bail-out of Lockheed. The government even made money on that one.

But there are also arguments against it. A Chrysler rescue, especially if equally successful, would transform precedent into practice.

The U.S. would be moving down the road previously traveled by major European nations of propping up an economy's weakening sisters. Future bail-outs might not be so successful

The result would be to overload the economy with subsidized-nationalized?-enterprises incapable of meeting the competition Kenneth May

Et Tu, Mobil?

IN TODAY'S politicized business climate, it's obvious that the Mobil Corp. could, if you'll forgive the obscenity, profit from following the Chrysler Corp.'s example.

The Guv ment is on Mobil's back for earning $595 million last quarter and is eager to loan Chrysler somewhere between $750 million and $1.5 billion as a reward for losing so much money

Obviously, if Mobil wants to gain the favor of the Guy ment, it must learn how to lose money, as Chrysler did due largely to federal legislation. You would think that learning such a basic economic fact of life would be easy but, no. Mobil has its bits in the ground. Clearly, President Jimmy must call on Senator Teddy and Governor Jerry for a tripartite campaign to force Mobil to its knees. MY OWN SUGGESTION is that the president of Mobil be required to spend six months as an exchange student at Chrysler to learn how to lose Without those obscene profits he has been making, the Guv ment will have no call to, in President Jimmy's words, "move toward additional proposals to the Congress that could be quite punitive to the oil industry There'd be no need for a law to make Mobil divest itself of Montgomery Ward. With a little creative imagination, such as selling below cost, that subsidiary could be made just as unprofitable as Senator Teddy might like. Governor Jerry, who thinks employes should have a major voice in running every business. would be tickled pink if Mobil were to follow

Chrysler's example of putting a labor union chief on its board of directors.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

After all, there's no quicker way to go into bankruptcy than to pay workers for not working to turn out products that wouldn't sell at so high a price even if more of them were made.

ONCE THE GUV'MENT gets Mobil to the Chrysler board room, it can explain to the oil company some of the facts of life.

"If you'll look at Chrysler's employes," the Department of Labor representative will say, "you will see how we can benefit your work force.

We have determined that 36,000 Chrysler Corp. workers at 27 plants are eligible for jobhunting help and for cash payments of up to 70 percent of their average weekly pay if they suffer ob losses or have their working hours cut by 20 percent or more because of imports.

Need we remind you, Mr. Mobil, that imports account for half of all the oil consumed in this country? If you can't lay off your workers in the face of that kind of competition, you simply are not trying and we will punish you.

NEXT TO SPEAK will be the man from the Department of Energy, who will remind Mr. Mobil that gasoline was selling for only 32 cents a gallon in 1971 before the Guv ment got concerned enough to slap on price controls and create the DEA to spend $10 billion a year regulating and suing the oil companies.

In just eight years, with controls, the price already is bumping $1 a gallon.

But we have not done enough," the DEA man

Washington among U.S. government officials despite the fact that the Defense Intelligence Agency's files clearly show that his loyalties are clear-

The Freedom Corps, a nationwide private or-will frankly admit. "We will punish you."

He will point out that, unless a windfall profits tax is passed, federal, local and state governments will take "only" $495 billion out of the extra $938 billion the oil industry is expected to make by 1990.

That would leave the industry $443 billion, or only about $5 billion a year less than the Guy ment would get.

BUT WE MUST do better." the DEA man will say. "If we can't get you to operate at a deficit, as any self-respecting American business should do, we can at least slap on the windfall profits tax to increase our take to $624 billion and reduce yours to $314 billion.

"I can promise you this," the man from the Treasury Department will threaten Mr. Mobil, you will not get a loan of a dime guaranteed by this Department unless you can reduce your obscene profits to a respectable deficit like Mr. Chrysler has done.'

IF CONGRESS CAN lose money at the rate of $30 billion a year, if Chrysler can lose money, if even New York City can lose money, you can see how we cannot permit you to continue to rip off the consumers by showing a profit and meeting your own payroll without a loan or a handout and without the help of our centralized planning." the Justice Department lawyer will threaten.

Once it's explained to him like that, Mr. Mobil undoubtedly will do his patriotic duty and quit trying to produce at a profit in America what we can buy at a loss from all our friends and fanatics

Detente Doesn't Deter Spying

WASHINGTON-Russia and its East European satellites are taking full advantage of detente with the Carter administration to step up their espionage activities in the U.S.

That's the hard-nosed assessment the FBI is now circulating to U.S. businessmen and scientists with federal government defense contracts and security clearances.

The counterintelligence agency warns:

'Stark evidence that the international environment is still threatening to American interests is afforded by the fact that, despite a lessening of international tensions, espionage activities directed against the U.S. have...increased in the last

"(Espionage is the illegal gathering, through clandestine means, of information or material affecting national security.)

THE FBI IS concerned that "the relaxed international scene has helped to create conditions which make espionage all the easier." In its unusual alert, the agency notes:

"In the past five years, the number of Communist country officials assigned in the U.S. has increased by over 300 (15 percent), and the number of commercial exchange and business visitors from Communist countries has more than dou-

Experience has shown that a substantial number of these individuals are working for their re spective intelligence services, thus greatly in creasing the potential for espionage operations.

As an integral part of the new campaign to alert Americans to the increased spying activities of the KGB (Soviet spying and espionage organization), the FBI recently filed papers in U.S. District Court here stating that Sam Jaffe, a former American Broadcasting Company (ABC) correspondent was "an agent for a foreign intelligence

THIS IS THE first time in recent memory that the FBI has publicly accused any American reporter of spying for a foreign government.

Jaffe, who also worked for CBS, is now a radio talk-show host in the nation's capitol and has wide contacts both within the federal government and Congress.

The pinpointing of Jaffe by the FBI came after he filed a Freedom of Information Act suit against the government demanding access to secret FBI and CIA files on himself and others.

FBI officials now are privately citing the Jaffe case to show how bold KGB operators are becoming in the city. As one agent puts it: "KGB agents are now operating in the nation's capitol Sylvia Porter:

There's More To VCR

WASHINGTON-We have just installed the newest "luxury necessity"-a video cassette recorder (VCR). Although we have not yet learned thoroughly how to use it, we have convinced ourselves that this is a "necessity" for us and it will be a money-saver over the long term.

For even though we are not at home and before the TV set, we can record concerts, operas and movies we want to hear and see and show them to ourselves at our own convenience.

And we are actually late joiners, for according to industry figures, more than 1 million units already have been sold, sales in 1979 are running a hefty 30 percent ahead of '78 and Christmas buying is still to come.

BUT IN VIEW of our own clumsy experiences with the recorder-for which we paid well into the four figures and the cost of the tapes will mount up-finding the right VCR unit in the midst of VHSs. Betas and a range of expensive features is not so easy a task.

Prices vary widely. Sales are frequent. Correcting mistakes is very expensive. Here, therefore, are key guides: All video cassette recorders (VCRs) are designed to perform three basic functions: play prerecorded tapes, record programs off your TV set, make home video tapes with color or black and white cameras. All VCRs also use one of two non-interchangeable tape formats. The more popular video home system (VHS) currently outsells its rival Beta format by a ratio of 3-to-1. Both employ half-inch tape, although Beta cassettes are slightly smaller than VHS cassettes.

rate if the company goes under. The demand will ALSO A factor to consider is that there are roughly twice as many retail outlets for VHS format equipment than for Beta.

A surprising point is that brand names do not play a big part in VCR performance. "Only a few companies manufacture VCRs for a large number of brand names so there's no reason for loyalty,' says Richard F. O'Brion, executive vice president of U.S. JVC Corp., a manufacturer and distributor of VCRs.

Even though some brand names may carry a higher price tag, you can count on getting the same basic operations from some other company as long as it is fairly well known.

Anti-Chrysler Case 'Appealing'

BIG BIZ TO LABOR BIG GO

WASHINGTON-There are times, perhaps, when a good case can be made for yielding economic principle to overriding reality, but such a case has not yet been made in the matter of the pending loan guarantee for the Chrysler Corp.

Unless convincing evidence in support of the bill can be presented at this week's Senate hearings, the plan should be rejected. We ought to be clear on what is at stake. It is not the $1.5 billion guarantee as such; there is no prospect that anything approaching this sum might actually be lost to the taxpayers; if all goes well, the Lockheed experience of several years ago could be repeated, and the Treasury would even turn a small profit.

NO. SOMETHING FAR more precious is involved. The Carter administration's bill would undermine economic principles of the highest priority, and it would set a precedent that could plague the Congress for years to come.

We identify our industrial economy in terms of "the marketplace," or "venture capitalism" or the "free enterprise system." At bottom, ours is known for short as the "profit system."

But as Professor Milton Friedman recently has remarked, that shorthand term is too short. Ours is not a profit system; it is a system of profit and

What is the case in support of this extraordinary proposal? The administration says that if Chrysler went bankrupt, the collapse would have a "devastating impact" upon the company's 117,-000 employes, its 4,700 dealers and its 19,000 sup-

THE SENATE BANKING Committee will want to receive overwhelming proof of this doomsday conjecture

One has to sympathize, of course, with the prospective plight of the workers, but their pathetic scenario demands careful scrutiny

A reorganization under Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act by no means requires the instantaneous shutdown of every Chrysler facility everywhere. Chrysler has about 9.3 percent of the automotive market; the company should market a million vehicles this year.

The demand for this production will not evapobe reduced. It is not a happy prospect. But if we believe in the incentive system, we must believe that the marketplace eventually will cure the evil-that new investors will appear with greater faith in the system of profit and loss than the pending bill displays.

Rosalynn Carter, who visited Cambodian refugee camps in Thailand last week, announced Tuesday that President Carter had ordered deliveries by air of vegetable oils, special food for infants and youngsters, and other supplies.

The shipment is mainly to help young children, many of whom suffer from malnutrition. Their physical and mental development will be impaired without

Officials said the airlift would begin as soon as the supplies could be located

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter and assembled for shipping, but they gave no precise timetable.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the State Department said an air shipment of 45 metric tons of infant formula arrived in Bangkok on Monday.

Mrs. Carter announced the presidential actions at a White House meeting of executives from about 30 relief agencies who held a day-long conference to decide how to improve their efforts to help the refugees.

Afterward, the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame, said he believed the groups should raise $100 million in private contributions. About $30 million has been donated so far.

'Somehow, using every means possible, we think we can save this second holocaust from taking place," he told reporters later. "We are committed to every possible, conceivable effort that will get to these people before they die."

Most of the aid to Thailand and Cambodia goes through relief agencies, such as UNICEF, CARE and the Red Cross.

Mrs. Carter said that, at her urging, the president also was providing $4 million for the care and maintenance of refugee camps and had ordered a review of the refugee resettlement process, which was said to take too long.

The airlift also will include mobile

Solons Against Combat Role For Women

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House subcommittee holding hearings on the role of women in the military is solidly against allowing women to fight in combat situations.

Interviews with six of the eight members of the House military personnel subcommittee found only one who favors a full combat role for women.

'If women want equality, they should be equal in everything," said Delegate Antonio Borja Won Pat, D-Guam, who has a vote on the subcommittee although he has no vote in Congress. "I have two daughters in the military."

The majority opposed the idea - and also indicated opposition to a Carter administration proposal that Congress repeal Navy and Air Force bans against women serving in combat.

They said they wanted to hear more about that proposal, however.

Rep. Marjorie S. Holt, R-Md., said she believes the administration proposal goes too far because the courts might determine that without the ban, women must serve in combat. We ought to make it loud and clear that our nation's policy is not to have women in combat," she said.

Robert S. Pirie, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, told the subcommittee Tuesday that repealing the ban would not place women in the "dirtiest combat.'

The main reason for repealing the ban, he said, is to give women more of the combat-related jobs that now help men get promoted in the services.

Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery, D-Miss., said he opposes both putting women in combat and lifting the ban. In fact, he expressed surprise that the ban does not also apply to the Army, which already has 900 women in combat-related jobs. A retired woman Air Force general told the subcommittee that women should be put in combat jobs in peacetime so the military can find out how to use them if they ever were needed to fight in wars

House Rental Crisis Hits U.S. Families

WASHINGTON (AP) - Severe problems in the rental housing market threaten a 30-year-old national goal of "a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family," congressional investigators report.

The General Accounting Office said rental housing, where 35 percent of American families live, is in a crisis that requires immediate attention from Congress and the administration.

King Holiday Bill Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) - A majority of the House of Representatives is firmly on record in favor of making the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday a national holiday.

But a bill to create such a holiday failed Tuesday, because it came up 14 votes shy of the two-thirds majority needed to pass it under a suspension of House rules. The vote was 252-133.

The matter can come up again later in the regular order of business in which only a bare majority will be needed.

In Atlanta, an official of the Martin Luther King Center for Social Change said his group would keep pushing for the holiday. We're disappointed, but we're not quitting because when you have a 252-133 vote that is a huge majority of the House that wants Dr. King's birthday to be a national holiday," said Steve Kline.

Opponents argued that another national holiday would cost $185 million in lost work by federal employees.

Backers said the bill would cost $27 million in overtime for federal employees who would work on the holiday, and suggested that was a small price to pay to remind the nation of King's stand for racial equality and non-violence.

they have agreed in principle to exe small employers from the wage restraint program But they said they still have not decided how many employees a firm can have to qualify for the exemption. Charles R. McDonald, chairman of the Council of Smaller Enterprises and one of the panel's business members, said the exemption "would not add to inflation because small businesses are a follower of wage trends, not wage set-

He said if firms with less than 20 workers were exempted, more than 3million businesses - or 88 percent of the total - would be affected.

William Wynn, president of the United Food and Commercial Workers union, said labor members want the cutoff to be higher than 19. The exemption for small employers was put forth as a substitute for the current low-wage exemption in Carter's year-old guidelines. Workers making less than $4 an hour were not covered in the original program.

But labor members on the board want the low-wage exemption retained - but raised to $6 an hour - to protect poorly paid workers at large companies.

The 18-member panel - composed of six representatives each from business, labor and the public - met for the fourth time Tuesday to discuss how to revise the wage guidelines. Those guidelines have been limiting annual wage and benefit increases to 7 percent.

Windfall-Profits' Tax Battle Begins In Senate administration and the oil industry are beginning their battle in the Senate over the proposed "windfall-profits" tax — a trillion-dollar issue with vast impact on national security and foreign policy.

The central question facing the Senate as it opened debate on the tax today was just how much oil producers should be allowed to keep of the expected $1.1 trillion total increase in the price of U.S.

President Carter advocates a relatively stiff tax on the increased revenues. He wants the oil industry to pay a big part of the cost of improving transportation efficiency, developing non-oil fuels and helping lower-income Americans pay for

Soviets Courting Yemeni Suppor

Soviet Union appears to be moving to reassert its influence in this nation on the oil-rich Arabian Peninsula in the wake of a massive shipment of U.S. arms to North Yemen earlier this year.

North Yemen is where the Carter administration drew the line in the Middle East last winter after the fall of the Shah of Iran and Soviet encroachments in the area.

The arms deal was credited with stopping a war with Marxist-led South Yemen, which has just signed a 20-year treaty of friendship and cooperation with Moscow. But now it appears the Russians are once again trying to challenge U.S. security interests in the area.

Western diplomatic sources, who declined to be identified, said the Soviets had recently countered the American weapons deal by offering a package of their own which includes surface-to-air missiles, MiG jets and artillery.

"It is a deal that the Yemeni may find hard to refuse," said one diplomatic source, adding that immediate delivery and cost-free training were part of the attractions.

The Soviet move is somewhat of a surprise since the Russians are the principal backer of the Marxist regime in South Yemen which fought a border war with the North in February.

Senior officials in the government of President Ali Abdullah Saleh said they could not confirm or deny that the offer had been accepted.

"The policy of the government and the president has been that we believe SAN'A, North Yemen (AP) - The in diversification of arms," said acting Foreign Minister Ahmed Al Mohanny in an interview.

However, North Yemeni officials did confirm that a shipment of Soviet-made T-55 tanks, believed to number between 100 and 200, had arrived in the country in recent weeks but stressed that they were bought from Poland in the cash

Although the Soviet presence in North Yemen dates back half a century, North Yemen has been firmly aligned in recent years with the West and its neighbor to the north, Saudi Arabia.

The flirtation with the Soviets now, Western observers say, appears to be an attempt to balance competing interests and stave off a mini-cold war in the strategically located but economically backward nation.

The situation that exists in the area is not of our own creation," said Mohanny. "We just happen to be in an area that is of interest to both the East and the West because of the oil but we try not to get too deep in this East-West struggle.'

He and other Yemeni officials stressed that cooperation was a "twoway street" and stressed the need for U.S. help in economic development if Western interests were to be protected.

'The United States cannot assure our future simply by throwing arms into the country," said Mohanny. "We feel that Yemen has been neglected by the United States (in the economic sphere).

Yemen has witnessed a boom in the past five years based on the earnings of its nearly one-million emigrants who work in Arab oil states. But the country remains largely undeveloped.

U.S. aid for next year totals about $19 million, mostly for training and agricul-tural programs, but private U.S. investment has been minimal with only 13 U.S. firms represented in the country.

While no estimates are available for current Soviet assistance, Economy Min-ister Mohammed Hizam Shohati said he ister Mohammed Hizam Shohati said he had been visited recently by the Soviet ambassador who asked, "What can we 3 do? We want to get into new projects."

The Soviet attempt to maintain influence in both Yemens, Western analysts say, appears to be a hedge against the possibility that ongoing unity talks be-

Slave Trade Center Now Tourist Site

GOREE, Senegal (AP) - Plastic bottles, driftwood and assorted trash clutter the tiny rocky beach from which thousands of Africans began the harrowing journey into slavery in the Western

The beach, only a few feet wide at high tide, is reached through a small door in the foot-thick walls of the House of Slaves, the warehouse-like building where captives from throughout West Africa were assembled for shipment between 1536 and 1848.

Today the house is a tourist attraction, and urchins jostle each other to guide visitors through the 8-foot by 8foot sand-floored cells where their ancestors were once jammed while waiting for the westward-bound slave ships. Located about three miles off the West African coast, just off Dakar, the capital of Senegal, Goree was settled by the Portuguese, the Dutch and the French in rapid succession during the 16th century, and became a slave trading center in 1536 when slavers realized the island's escape-proof character.

There are no exact figures on how many African men, women and children passed through the Slave House and similar buildings before abolition of the trade in 1848, and before the last shipment of "African immigrant workers" in Jo Indiaye, a veteran of World War II combat in Asia who serves as curator for the House of Slaves, claims that 20 million passed through the island, and that more than 100,000 were sent across the ocean in 1845-1846. However, these figures do not stand up to scrutiny when compared with the list of slave-ship sailings displayed in the building.

The list shows an average of two ships per month in the 19th century, carrying between 300 and 400 slaves

Whatever the exact number, the House of Slaves and its surrounding buildings are being maintained as symbols of the cancer of slavery, and are obligatory stops for dignitaries visiting Senegal. Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger called it a "moving and sad experience," according to a sign over the building's main gate.

The seaward door of the Slave House bears another sign, in French: "Through this door they went, on a voyage without return, their eyes fixed on the infinity of suffering.

Elsewhere on Goree, which is reached by a 20-minute launch trip from Dakar, tourists climb over the ruins of Mame Coumba Castle, perched on a rocky hillside commanding a breathtaking view of Dakar as well as the main shipping route along the coast of West Africa.

During World War II the island's massive coastal guns - two of which still rust in the blazing sun - helped keep the sea lanes open to Allied shipping. Late the fort was used to film 'The Guns of Navarrone," and the rusting remnants of some of the film's incredibly small props still dot the hillside.

Near the jetty where the tourist launch docks, the 20th century collides with the carefully preserved historic setting, as hawkers pour deep-fried pastries and other goodies into paper cones made out of computer printouts.

The American Revolution ended with the surrender of Lord Cornwallis and his troops at Yorktown, Va., in 1781.

First Lady Third On List Of Influential Women

NEW YORK (UPI) - The first lady places third in the new list of the 25 ost influential women in the nation.

Rosalynn Carter follows after Katharine Graham and Jane Fonda, numbers one and two, although the compiler of the list announced last week called Mrs. Carter "the most powerful woman in

"I can't figure out why, but no first lady has topped the list in the five years we've been doing it," said Jane D. Flatt, blisher of The World Almanac, which will include the 25 in its 1980 edition.

There is a segment of the population that just doesn't like Mrs. Carter ... maybe because they consider her too Selections are made for the annual list, started in 1975, by the editorial staffs of 126 newspapers that co-sponsor The World Almanac in their communities. Publisher Flatt said, "They represent a broad spectrum of American thinking.

The two other women in the top five in the nominations were Ann Landers, syndicated columnist who was first last year, fourth this year, and television journalist Barbara Walters, No. 5 this year and on the list ever since it began.

Miss Flatt said that Mrs. Graham, No. 2 last year, "was the runaway favorite" in the latest compilation. She is chairman and chief executive of The Washington Post Co., which owns the newspaper, Newsweek magazine, and radio and television stations. She has been on the list every year.

Miss Flatt believes that Miss Fonda ranked close to the top not so much because of her outspoken political views as for her acting especially in "Coming Home" for which she won the Academy Award. "That movie, which concerns a Vietnam veteran returning home as a paraplegic, touched so many people, she said. The movie also was televised.

Ann Landers placed in the top five "because she has a huge influence on our society," said Miss Flatt. And Miss Walters "has been doing a lot of lecturing around the country as well as her tel-

"She talks about women achievers. She's not a screamer (for equal rights.)"

The publisher figured that Betty Friedan, one of the earliest of modern feminists, came off the list "because she seems less active in the women's movement and she represents the militant faction. I feel that people are tired of militancy ... I believe in equal rights but many of us feel we should go about getting them in a quieter manner.

Another leader in the feminist movement, Gloria Steinem, makes the current list but Miss Flatt said she is one of the quiet ones.

New to the 1980 list are Shana Alexander, journalist, author and television commentator: Jane Byrne, the first woman mayor of Chicago; Joan Cooney, television executive and president of the Children's TV Workshop; Bess Myerson, consumer columnist often mentioned as a probable candidate for the U.S. Senate from New York; and Beverly Sills, the diva who now directs the New York City

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) - An Alaskan company interested in importing 1,000 reindeer from nearby Siberia has run into a snag — a 49-year-old federal law that would require the animals to be quarantined off the coast of Flori-

Every winter, the NANA Regional Corp., based in Kotzebue, slaughters about 250 reindeer from its commercial herd and sells the meat to Eskimos living in nearby villages.

Corporation officials say the villagers want more of the lean, tasty meat and are urging the firm to build up its current herd of between 6,000 and 7,000 head. The animals graze on the Seward and Baldwin Peninsulas of northwestern

John Shively, NANA vice president of operations, said the Tariff Act of 1930 prohibits the import of domestic animals from countries with incidence of hoofand-mouth disease, such as Russia. The law does not apply to wild animals.

Don Taylor, who was 13 then, watched the bloody exercise in teen-age bravado with horror and says now it merely underscores the brutality of pris-

He served three more prison sentences before resolving, at age 30, to give up the drugs - chiefly dilaudid - that had put him behind bars while other bright young people went to college and established careers.

"I've-been out of prison 10 years and I still have nightmares about the experiences that leave me with a gut-level sick feeling for days," says Taylor, 40.

Now a "materials expediter" at Tracor, Inc., a scientific research and instrument manufacturing company, Taylor is the first ex-convict to be elected president of Texas' prison lobby.

Taylor heads Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants (CURE), whose 3,000 members — including 1,000 prison inmates — are dedicated to pushing the idea that penitentiaries aren't the best way to deal with most criminals.

Taylor also serves on a local criminal justice task force and is a director of the Texas Council on Crime and Delinquen-

A slender, six-footer whose closecropped beard is flecked with gray, he rubs shoulders with the city's power people and gave the late Lyndon Johnson's lawyer as a reference when he applied for his job at Tracor this year.

Taylor got acquainted with LBJ's attorney, Donald S. Thomas, and Tracor president Frank McBee when he served with them last year on a committee that planned and successfully promoted an $8 million bond issue to build a new jail.

Paradoxically, he couldn't vote for the bond issue because convicted felons lose their right to vote. The Board of Pardons and Paroles rejected his application for a pardon last year, but Taylor filed a new one Oct. 23.

Taylor says he is not one of the Texas Department of Corrections' success stories. He says prison left him with a residue of anger that he still sublimates by playing one-on-one basketball and working to better the lot of prisoners.

"I internalized a lot of anger and bitterness and cynicism. That's what prison does for you. I saw I was letting the system destroy me. I began to learn how to deal with anger. You can turn it inward and become suicidal - that's what drug addiction is. I sought socially acceptable outlets. It was a gradual growth process." he said in an interview.

Taylor grew up in East Dallas and was the youngest of five children. He said he went to the Baptist Church and was a Boy Scout.

But he also was a petty criminal. He escaped from a county-operated reform school on Christmas night 1952, stole a car and drove it to Arkansas. At 13, Taylor was sentenced to the National Training School, a federal reform school that

First U.S. Coal Conversion Unit Unveiled

PAMPA (UPI) - Celanese Chemical Co. has unveiled the nation's first coal conversion unit built since a 1973 Arab oil embargo, but the company says it has no plans to duplicate its six-year, $70 million effort.

Reporters and top Celanese officials got a look Tuesday at the new unit, which will consume 600,000 tons of lowsulphur bituminous coal annually

Although Celanese president Harry B. Bartley Jr. conceded the project was only at the "break-even" stage, he called it "an excellent long-term decision."

Bartley said, however, that the company has shelved plans to convert its Texas Gulf Coast plants at Bay City, Bishop and Clear Lake to coal because increased coal and transportation costs and the location of the plants made such a move uneconomical.

Celanese decided to proceed with the Pampa project, Bartley said, because it was concerned in 1973 about the longterm availability of natural gas as a boiler fuel. Moreover, the company believed national conservation interests dictated a move away from natural gas, he said.

At the same time, indications came from pending legislation, heads of regulatory agencies and President Nixon that America would soon drop natural gas as a boiler fuel, he added.

A final factor - the Texas Railroad Commission's Docket 600 issued in December 1975 - convinced Celanese to go ahead with its coal conversion plans, Bartley said. That order mandated a 10 percent curtailment of natural gas use in boilers by January 1981 and a 25 percent cut by the same date in 1985.

Docket 600 was withdrawn last April after commissioners became convinced the order placed Texas industries at a disadvantage in the market place.

Despite today's changed reality, Bartley said he was convinced other industries ultimately will follow Celanese's lead, provided four conditions are met:

-Stabilization of coal rates; -Allowances for special tax incentives to industries that make "energy investments:

-Modification of some environmental restrictions, and;

-Formulation of a definitive national energy program

Bartley said Celanese chose to convert its Pampa plant because of its proximity to the soft coal source at Hayden in northwestern Colorado and its quality management.

atican Continues Natural Birth Control Support

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican says it sees signs of growing interest in birth control methods that are in line with the Roman Catholic Church doctrine re-emphasized by Pope John Paul II on his visit to the United States last month and again in a Vatican address last weekend.

At the same time, however, Vatican officials acknowledge that large numbers of Catholics still disregard the church ban on artificial means of contra-

Hundreds of nuns and priests around the world have joined with lay people in teaching married couples "sinless" ways of avoiding having children - the methods that avoid birth control devices and chemicals, such as the pill.

From the slums of Calcutta in India to the favelas of Rio de Janeiro in Brazil they offer an alternative to people with a deeply rooted distrust for contraceptive devices.

John and Evelyn Billings, the Australian couple who developed the "ovulation" method based on the relationship between mucus of the cervix and fertility, have toured 30 countries to promote it. They met and received the encouragement of two popes, Paul VI and John

Yet church officials concede that large numbers of Roman Catholics use whatever contraceptive device they like best. And most often they don't feel morally uneasy about it and may go about their other religious duties nor-

Also the governments of predominantly Catholic countries from the Philippines to Venezuela pay little notice of the papal stand in adopting their population policies.

"There is no reason to doubt statistics showing a very large section of the Catholic population ignores the Church teaching on birth control," says the Rev. Diarmuid Martin, an Irish priest working with the Vatican's Committee for the Family. "There is no doubt that the figures are astonishing.

With Vatican encouragemnt, Roman Catholic scientists have been in the forefront of research to improve or develop methods helping women to know what days they are fertile and what days they are not in the ovulation cycle. Speaking last Saturday to members of the International Federation of Family Life Planning and of the French Liaison Center of Research Teams, the pope praised this scientific research.

"The scientific research that you pursue and share to improve the knowledge of the female cycle and make for a more serene use of the natural methods of birth control, deserves to be better known, encouraged and actually proposed for use," he said. "I rejoice in learning that a growing number of people and of agencies, on the international level, appreciate these efforts for natural (birth) control.

According to these methods, body temperature and mucus in the female organ help pinpoint the fertile days and skipping sex an average of eight to 10 days a month does it.

The church exerts say a growing number of people find that abstaining from intercourse during the fertile days is more acceptable both for moral and

Recent research by the U.N. World Health Organization found that both Moslems and Hindus often approve of the "natural" way more readily than of those implying a manipulation of the natural process.

"The side effects of contraceptive methods are far more serious in developing countries where doctors are few and often too far away," says the Rev. Aldo Rebeschini, a Vatican-based expert from Melbourne, Australia. "Bleeding caused by an IUD (intrauterine device) poses a far bigger problem to a woman in the Philippines than to a woman in the United States.

Drop Foreseen In Global Sugar Output

WASHINGTON (AP) - A drop in world sugar output in 1979-80 will result in the first decline in global reserve stocks in eight years, says the Agriculture Department.

Robert M. McConnell of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said Thursday global sugar production currently is estimated at 87.7 million metric tons, about 3.5 percent less than the 90.9 million produced in 1978-79.

McConnell said "cutbacks in production by some countries and unfavorable weather in others" have contributed to the reduction. For example, North American sugar production, including the Caribbean area, is expected to be down by 4 percent from last year, he told the department's annual outlook conference.

Meanwhile, sugar consumption is expected to continue rising.

But McConnell said "relatively high" sugar prices are expected to continue and put "downward pressure on demand and slow the growth in consumption.'

With sugar use exceeding supply, however, the world stockpile of sugar at the end of this year is expected to decline for the first time since 1971-72 to about 30.2 million metric tons from 32.5 million at the beginning of the crop year, he said.

"Despite this sizable reduction, world sugar stocks (left over) would still represent roughly one-third of world sugar needs during 1979-80," McConnell more visibly among Third World countries than in the industrialized nations, according to the Vatican experts.

One reason they mention is that bishops and priests in the Third World have been quicker in trusting and spreading natural family methods.

They say apparently the Church was discouraged by the vast opposition in the West to Pope Paul VI's encyclical reaffirming the Church's ban on artificial birth control methods In predominantly Catholic Colombia in South America, the bishops denounced programs based on contraceptive devices as "imperialist aggression" but state hospitals have been so good in promoting them that the birth rate fell from 2.8 percent in 1968 to 1.9 in 1979.

The Colombian government recently included the pill on the list of products essential in monthly surveys to determine variations in the cost of living.

In two other Latin American countries, Brazil and Argentina, governments have taken no steps in favor of contraceptives so far. But the main reason is not Catholic morals but their policy to favor population growth for their vast empty expanses.

But the Brazilian pharmaceutical association in Rio de Janeiro reports the use of the pill "has increased explosively in the last decade."

In Argentina, a nation of 26 million people, state hospitals are barred from givng out birth control information. But some studies indicate abortion, though illegal, is a major form of birth control, with an estimated rate of one for every three or four live births. Unofficial estimates say 1.5 million women use the pill and there is general agreement that the use of contraceptives is growing. In the Philippines, Asia's only Catho-UNCONTESTED DIVORCE

Solons Pick Sides In Campaign

By TOM RAUM WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress has widely missed its Oct. 15 adjournment target and still has much to do before quitting for the year. But that doesn't stop members from reflecting endlessly on presidential politics. It's a time for choosing sides. And some lawmakers concede openly that they have ulterior motives for picking a particular candidate.

Like Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., who wants Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to go the full distance to the White House. "I'm pleased by the notion I might be the senior senator from Massachusetts," the first-term senator explained. "It's not very pleasant being the ju-

For Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Kennedy's candidacy may bring back memories of the only election defeat ever suffered by the youngest Kennedy brother. It was in 1971 when Byrd upset Kennedy for the job of assistant Senate majority leader. Kennedy hasn't forgotten that election either.

"If I hadn't lost I might be Senate majority leader today," Kennedy told a Democratic rally after being introduced by Byrd. "And Bob Byrd would be out running for president.

Meanwhile, President Carter may sometimes give the impression of feeling a little left out. The other day he warmly thanked a group of applauding congressmen who had accepted his invitation to come to the White House for dinner.

"Kennedy's on the cover of Time, Rosalynn's on the cover of Newsweek It's nice to know someone wants to see me," he quipped.

Those chairmen, whose job it will be to get Carter supporters to the caucuses, should be at work by mid-week, he add-

The Kennedy campaign, on the other hand, has barely begun organizing on the state level. State director Robert Miller said he was "looking for good staff people everywhere" and is gathering lists of Democrats to find Kennedy supporters to turn out at the caucuses.

Retired Football Coach Recalls Young Kennedys

MILTON, Mass. (UPI) — Herb Sto-kinger remembers Teddy Kennedy and his late brother Bobby as "nice kids" and "good football players." But he never dreamed they'd run for president.

Army Speeds Plans For Rapid Deployment Force

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army wants more than $100 million provided in next year's defense budget for a "rapid deployment force" designed to protect American interests in regions such as the Persian Gulf.

With the $100 million, the Army says, it could ensure such a force would be able to sustain itself in underdeveloped areas far from American shores. Army planners also want to provide the force with heavy mobile artillery and with updated helicopters.

Meanwhile, the first key units in the United States are being designated by the Army for service with the force, as needed. The units will be those without an assignment to reinforce North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Defense Secretary Harold Brown has described the unassigned troops as "a reservoir from which such a force would be drawn" to deal with crisis contingencies in distant parts of the world.

cifically for use in the Persian Gulf-Middle East region.

But it is known that the Carter administration's concern about the U.S. position in that oil-producing region has given impetus to planning for a rapid

Brown has said the Army element in such a force could range from a pla toon of Rangers to a corps of several divisions numbering more than 100,000 men, including support units. The Army units would operate with the Air Force, Marines and Navy. Planners believe that keeping such a force supplied with food, water, ammunition and necessary equipment would be one of the biggest problems facing them in a remote area.

Accordingly, Army officials have recommended that the defense budget for the fiscal year that begins next Oct. 1, include $58 million to create 14 new combat service support units and to increase the strength of existing support units by about 2,000 men.

Such units include teams trained in drilling water wells, petroleum truck companies and heavy equipment maintenance specialists

Army officials acknowledge they are backing away from previous plans to draw on the Army Reserve for such support units because the Reserve is chronically understrength and, they feel, cannot be relied on in an emergency.

The Army also wants to convert a battalion of 105-millimeter Toad howitzers to heavier 155-millimeter guns and to provide self-propelled heavy artillery as well as modernized CH-47 transport helicopters for the rapid deployment

In addition, the Army has suggested including about $18 million in the next budget for special training and to operate and maintain new weapons and other equipment for the force

Rutledge and two other men from Jet Research Inc., a Texas demolition firm, set the explosive charges after Pentagon officials decided the U.S. Army should not take the job.

Al Smith, a spokesman for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and other disaster officials had said earlier that residents forced from their homes three days ago could begin returning later today if Rutledge's crew found the one tanker was empty Rutledge and his assistants set off 18 plastic explosives to open up the nine derailed cars that contained hazardous materials. Six contained liquid propane; the others held acetone, alcohol solvent and styrene monomer.

The L&N cars had been burning slowly since early Sunday, when the 109car train derailed on a section of washed-out track. Suspense grew as disaster officials debated plans and the days dragged by with the ever-present possibility of a sudden explosion.

The chemicals gushed from at least eight of the cars into a giant fireball that mushroomed above the trees in this sparsely populated section of the Florida Panhandle at dusk Tuesday. Police made a final sweep of the area before the controlled blast to be sure none of the evacuees had come home. No one was reported injured and nearby property was not damaged, deputies As the powerful charges were set off, disaster officials huddled two miles away, unable to hear or feel the detona-

Only the short-lived fireball told the tale as it boiled 2,000 feet above the western Florida Panhandle woodlands. Volunteer firefighters and fire trucks from 14 communities stood by.

The demolition team, wearing red jumpsuits, had staked out a ditch 1:000 feet from the train as their safest spot during the explosion. They set two charges on each of the nine tank cars, one on top and another on the bottom. Rutledge said.

He said everything went well and that his team doesn't take "undue

Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, the new Iranian foreign minister, had told reporters in Tehran that some $12 billion in U.S. deposits would be transferred to branches of banks that will not be able to block the funds. Bani-Sadr specifically mentioned New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, saying Iran was acting against that bank be cause it is headed by David Rockefeller.

Rockefeller is a friend of the deposed shah, whose return to Iran from the United States for trial as a war criminal is the principal demand of students hold ing the embassy.

Meanwhile, a newspaper in K said the United States had informed countries in the Persian Gulf area that it will intervene militarily to rescue the hostages if international efforts failed But Tuohey, the State Department spokesman, said "that isn't true."

The newspaper also quoted Iran's ambassador to Kuwait. Ali Shams Ardankani, as saying the Iranian government would not accept any mediation for release of the hostages because it was not "party" to the matter. "The Iranian government cannot intervene in a matter which it is not party to," he said. "The members of the American mission in Tehran are not hostages of the government but of the Iranian people Meanwhile, U.S. officials said the

In Iran, Bani-Sadr reaffirmed that the hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran will remain captive until Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is sent back to Iran to stand trial for his life.

Bani-Sadr reportedly said, however, that the 36 non-Americans among the 98 hostages might be freed by the weekend. They are believed to be mostly Indian and Pakistani embassy employees.

In another development, Bani-Sadr claimed Iran had "learned" that U.S. paratroopers were airlifted to Bahrain across the Persian Gulf froo Iran, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported. Bahrain's information minister, Raqi Abdel-Rahman al-Moayyed, denied it.

Bani-Sadr announced at a Tehran news conference that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime had decided to withdraw all of its funds from U.S. banks and re-deposit them in banks of nations "friendly" to Iran. He said the funds amounted to $12 billion, but reporters in Washington were told it was closer to $5 billion.

Many Iranian students are willing to be deported in support of their government, one of the 5,500 Iranian students in Texas says. But other Iranians are expressing fear of both growing hostility in the United States and possible retaliation in Iran against deported students who oppose the Ayatollah Khomeini. Officials of the Immigration and Naturalization Service have been ordered by President Carter to screen Iranians to see if they comply with federal regulations, and an Iranian student in Dallas - an opponent of the Khomeini regime - said deportation to Iran would endanger his life.

Weight Training

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - My son lifts weights every day for about one hour. He's getting really big muscles. What will happen to all these muscles as he gets older? Is this good for

DEAR READER - If he continues a strength training program once a week at sufficient levels just to maintain his muscle size, he'll probably keep most of those muscles throughout his life. A muscle is just as big as it has to be to lift a given load or to contract with a given level of strength. If it's not used very much or the amount of weight it must lift is limited, its size will decrease. Litterally, if you don't use it you lose it.

That's not necessarily harmful. A person who uses a lot of calories while he is exercising a lot as your son is and then stops exercising may keep on eating the same amount and get fat. That does not mean the muscle has turned to fat. It just means the person has been eating more calories than his body is using because of the decreased amount of physical I'm sending you The Health Let-ter number 5-4, Weight Training For Energy And Weight Control, I'm sure it will be of interest to your son. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Your son should be careful not to consume large amounts of high-fat, high-cholesterol foods that can be dangerous to his health. He can get plenty of protein from a good nutritious diet that includes an adequate amount of fortified skim milk (which contains more protein than ordinary whole milk) and lean meats, which can include lean red meats, lean poultry and fish.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Could you tell me a few things about vasectomies? I know that when you get one they block off the sperm duct. What I want to know is when you get one can you still eject semen without the sperm in it? My boyfriend says that when you get one they block off everytthing so when you reach a climax nothing comes out and it goes into the bladder and comes out when you go to the bathroom. I don't think that's true. Can you tell me who's right?

DEAR READER - You are Sperm cells constitute only a minute portion of the orgasm. Most of the secretions come from the prostate and associated glands. When a man has a vasectomy he continues to have a normal orgasm. There isn't any way he will know or anyone else would know that there are no sperm cells in it without doing a microscopic examination of the specimen itself.

Your boyfriend may be confused with prostate gland operations. That's an entirely different matter. And, of course, this procedure is done commonly in middle-aged and older men. When the prostate gland is operated upon it may affect the valve mechanisms at the outlet of the bladder and the prostate area. As a result, when the man has an orgasm the secretions may flow backward into the bladder. We call this condition retrograde ejaculation. It has nothing whatever to do with the ordinary va-

Doctor Gives Denture Wearers Tips On Keeping Face Youthful

NEW YORK (UPI) - A University of Tennessee researcher reports that denture patients lose approximately two millimeters of jawbone each year and that eventually leads to slipping den-

Because of loss of supporting bone and soft tissues and because of resultant facial chages, the average denture needs to be replaced or remade every five or six years," D. T.H. Shipmon said at the annual meeting of the American Dental Association.

The alternative: dentures that become increasingly loose and lose stability. They slip and slide. "Embarrassing denture slippage," the television commercials call it.

Shipmon, of Memphis, said several preventive measures will help the denture wearer cut down on bone loss and keep tissues healthy and strong. He said this is important not only for retention and stability of dentures but also for keeping the face youthful.

Pressler Sees Gasohol As Best Energy Source

WASHINGTON (UPI) - When Re- off drip into a glass jug. publican presidential hopeful Larry Pressler swings his campaign into the early primaries next year, he will have with him a $50 homemade liquor still.

Eight Anti-Nuclear Speakers Air Objections At Texas Tech Rally

Avalanche-Journal Staff

An anti-nuclear rally drew about 100 persons to the Texas Tech campus Tuesday on the fifth anniversary of the death of anti-nuclear activist Karen Silkwood.

The noon hour crowd listened attentively to eight speakers representing such organizations as the National Organization of Women, the Sierra Club and the National Lawyers' Guild.

Calling "ridiculous" the claims that nuclear power is safe, Dr. Mike Wentzler of Health Sciences Center Hospital described the increasing incidence of cancer and genetic defects in Japan as a result of the U.S.' atom bomb attacks in World War II.

'Radiation in any form poses a risk Wentzler stressed.

Employees of nuclear power plants have statistically higher cancer death rates than many other industries, he continued. "Not every worker will die, but we have to ask ourselves, 'How many deaths are worth maintaining the

He said the Sierra Club challenges nuclear industry claims about the safety of nuclear plants. "No one ever tested plant safety 'on line' (when the plant was operating)," he said. "All testing is done on computer models.

The Sierra Club also opposes nuclear ower because of the danger of terrorism. Even nuclear wastes can be used to make a bomb, he explained, "and even the federal government has acknowledged there is no way to stop an attack on a nuclear waste carrier.

An ironclad guarantee

If you have a serious rat problem, SHUR-KILL could be the solution you've been looking for. It's unlike any product you've ever used. We honestly think you'll find it to be the most effective rodent control product on the market. We guarantee that it will work. Simply follow the directions on the box and within days you will see a rapid decline of the rat and mice population in your home or business or we will refund every nickel you pay, including postage.

By making this offer to hundreds of thousands of people just this alone — tells you how confident we are that SHUR-KILL will do the job for you. By ERMA BOMBECK

If there is comfort in someone else's "The Book of Heroic Failures" should make the author, Stephen Pile, a legend in his own time,

He lists such failures as The Least -Successful Alcoholics Anonymous meeting ever held. Staged in Belfast, Northern Ireland in 1974, it ended in a cloakroom brawl after $847 had been spent at

The Least Successful Television Program was shown in France on Aug. 14, 1978. It was an interview with an Armenian woman on her 40th, birthday in which she discussed the way she met her husband. An opinion poll showed not a single iewer watched it.

The Worst Homing Pigeon ever released was set airborne in June. 1953, in England. It was returned by mail dead. in a cardboard box 11 vears later from Brazil.

I started my own personal book of Unparalleled Failures 30 years ago. I defy Mr. Pile to top them.

The Most Underrated Case of Flu and Water Retention was treated without success in July 1952. In April 1953, I delivered an eight-pound, four-ounce

The record for the Biggest Failure Ever Recorded by the Department of Motor Vehicle Driver's Testing Program occurred in 1959. My daughter, on her 15th temporary permit, made a U-turn in front of a police officer, parallelparked with two wheels on the curb (the front ones), ran over the examiner's foot and asked, "Does this mean I don't get my license

The Most Miserable Meal Ever Served at a Family Gathering was a Thanksgiving dinner which I hosted last year. Without benefit of glasses, I thought 1.50 was the weight and not the price of the turkey per pound and cooked a 17-pound turkey in a 325-degree oven for 25 minutes, then served it a mother-in-law who observed, You're not pretty enough to cook this

The Worst Idea for Traveling With a Dog Who Is Trained to a White Shag Carpet goes to my husband, who devised a plastic arrangement of a bush, a couple of daisies and a few fake leaves. The dog ate the arrangement and wet on my husband's foot

Back to Mr. Pile, he listed the Least Accurately Labeled Museum Exhibit ever. It was a Roman sestertius coin, minted between A.D. 135 and A.D. 138. It was impressive until a nine-year-old kid pointed out it was really a plastic token given away by a soft drink firm. I feel better already

TASTY APPETIZERS

Watch these tasty appetizers disappear at your next party. Peel and finely chop 1 medium sweet Spanish onion to measure 11/2 cups. Saute in 2 tablespoons butter until soft. Combine onion with 234 cups buttermilk baking mix, 12 cup water and 1 teaspoon dill weed. Mix well to form a stiff dough. Shape into 3/4 -inch ball. Deep fry in hot oil (375degrees) until golden. Roll in grated Parmesan cheese. Serve hot, or reheat in oven. Makes 4 to 4 1/2 dozen.

Dec. 25, as usual. West's opening bid was the weak two-bid, which is gaining popularity at all levels of bridge. North showed a good hand by first making a takeout double, then introducing his suit over his partner's spade response. When South was able to show some values and at least a five-card suit by rebidding spades, North raised to game.

The diamond opening lead was won by the ace, and East shifted to a heart. Since that was obviously a singleton (West was marked for a sixcard suit with his opening bid), declarer won the ace. crossed to the king of clubs and discarded a heart on the ace of clubs.

Since East had doubled without too many high cards, it was reasonable to expect trumps to break badly, so declarer wisely refrained from touching that suit. He continued with a club ruff, crossed to dummy with a diamond and led another club. East discarded a diamond, so declarer could afford to ruff

Declarer crossed to dummy's last diamond and led the good ten of clubs. East was down to nothing but trumps, so he ruffed low. (It would have made no difference had he ruffed high.) Declarer overruffed and led a heart. This trick was well and truly won by the defenders - West took it with the king of hearts and East had to ruff.

That was the second trick for the defense, but they were going to get only one more. East's last three cards were the K-Q-9 of spades, while declarer had the J-8 of trumps and a heart opposite the A-10-3 of spades in dummy. Regardless of which spade East led, declarer had to take two of the last three tricks

COLLEGE STATION (Special) Learn the life-cycle costs of a product to help save money over the life of that product, suggests Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist.

Even if a product - car, appliance or other long-lasting consumer good costs more in the beginning, it may prove economical in the long-run, she points out.

Miss Kerbel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A &M University System.

Study these factors to determine the total life-cycle costs of a product: 1) Determine the price of the prod-

2) Establish the operating cost. Energy-efficient appliances and cars will have lower operating costs. 3) Determine an installation cost.

He's been married five times and has three grown children and seven grandchildren. He says all I have to do is sign an agreement stating that if he dies while we're married, I am entitled to only $1 million. His family gets the rest. Also, if HE wants out of the marriage, HE will pay me $10,000 for every month I've lived with him. But if I want out, I get nothing. In the meantime, he agrees to provide me with a car of my choice, all the clothes I want and $1,000 a month pocket money.

DEAR IN THE CLOUDS: It sounds like a business deal. I suggest you retain your own lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: Many people write to you complaining because they sent a gift 'six months ago," and never received a thank-you for it.

Why don't these people telephone (or write) to the person they sent it to and ask if the gift was ever received? (If it was, and they neglected to acknowledge it, they deserve to be embarrassed.)

There is always a chance that the gift was NOT received. I work in the department of the post office where packages are undeliverable because the address a) has fallen off or b) has become smudged and cannot be read or c) is incomplete, wrong or illegible. And, worse yet, there is no return address on the package.

Also, when a package is returned to the store because it cannot be delivered, the card may read, "From Uncle Ted and Aunt Mary," and they have no way of knowing WHO bought it!

Kules Change Competition In Life Insurance Sales

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) - Competition in life insurance sales is changing. More information, especially about comparative prices, is available to buyers, and efforts are being made to make it understanda-

Lest anyone need reminding, it wasn't always so. Analyzing a policy once was beyond the ordinary buyer's ability, and many of his other questions were resolved not through understanding but through faith.

Unequal to the task, the most profound challenge some buyers presented to insurance salesmen was to ask which was best, term or whole life insurance. In other words, whether it was wiser to pay less and be covered for an interval. or spend more and be covered for life.

Rare was the salesman without a pat answer for either side of the question. How he decided usually related to the client's age, health and obligations, but sometimes to whichever policy was easiest to sell:

Smart salesmen didn't take sides; they maintained you needed both whole to insure for life at a constant price regardless of health, term to add protection when responsibilities temporarily were greatest.

Now, in part because of regulatory pressures, many life insurers seem more willing than before to compete with each other on a price basis, on a comparison of policies, and on the quality of service provided.

In short, on the merits of the product and an understanding of those merits by both seller and buyer, whether the product is term or whole life.

Hospital To Revise Food Regulations

personal answers not possible

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) - Revised food handling procedures will be instituted at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, where 131 persons were sickened and five died Oct. 28 because of food contamination

Health Department officials issued a series of recommendations in an effort to minimize risks of bacterial contamination in food served to patients at the hospital, said Mitch Leon, a department spokesman.

Florence Perry, president of the union local representing hospital workers. said recently that none of the patients were examined until at least eight hours after the outbreak of diarrhea began. Officials say the exact cause of the out break won't be known for a few weeks.

Ronald Reagan acknowledges applause Tuesday at a $500-a-

Avalanche-Journal Staff Hoping that there really is strength in ries numbers, officials from hospital districts across the state - including Lubbock County's - will meet in San Antonio next month to plan still another pitch for state funding

This is not the first time the hospital district representatives have worked together to lobby for state support of hospital districts, teaching hospitals and related medical schools. Many of the other hospital districts across Texas share the same problems Lubbock's district faces - high indigent care costs and a relatively low local tax base.

But some officials involved in the planning of the Dec. 10 meeting are talking about a possible half-cent designated sales tax to be used to pick up where local support leaves off. This is a proposal not previously discussed by a gathering of hospital district officials, who in the Tom Fordyce, chairman of the Bexar County Hospital District Board of Managers, says the half-cent designated tax is the answer to some of the problems faced by the districts. He stresses that since the group has not met yet the speculation over the half-cent tax is still just in the planning stages.

Fordyce told the Avalanche-Journal that the tax could be used in one of two ways - either matched with federal funds to broaden medical programs for indigents or earmarked specifically for teaching hospitals.

He called the push for state support of medical residents' salaries a "Band-Aid" approach to the statewide financial problems, saying that the districts need to be planning for the 1981 legislative session and the years beyond

Chrysler Must Produce Energy Efficient Cars

Banking Committee decided today to require the ailing Chrysler Corp. to promise to produce energy-saving vehicles to qualify for government financial assist-

The committee adopted by a 30-7 vote an amendment by its chairman, Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., that also would open the door to government aid to other companies if Chrysler is unable to qualify.

The vote came at the start of committee action on the Carter administration's plan for federal guarantees of $1.5 billion in loans to Chrysler provided the automaker obtains an additional $1.5 billion of new financing on its own.

its luncheon today five Texas Tech students who have won Rotary scholarships abroad for the next academic year.

The five students honored are Dayna Escue of Lubbock, who will study in France; Adria Gregg of Amarillo, who will study in Costa Rica; Donna Doyle of Azle, who will study in Austria; Cynthia Fulton of Big Spring, who will study in Italy; and Rex Caldwell of Panhandle, who will study in Australia.

The five were selected from a group of 25 students from Rotary District 573, which covers an area south to Midland and Odessa, east to Sweetwater, west to Childress and the entire Texas Panhandle, according to Dr. Harley Oberhelman, chairman of the Rotary Foundation Committee.

The Rotary scholarships pay all the expenses for the students, including transportation, books and living expenses, Oberhelman said. The winners were selected by the Rotary Foundation Committee from District 573, he said.

Also honored at the luncheon was Mrs. Winifred Vigness, who was made a Paul Harris Fellow in memory of her husband, David Vigness, Vigness, a member of the club, died last summer and friends contributed more than $1,-000 in his memory. The fellowship is named after Paul Harris, who founded Rotary International ne amendment was supported by the administration.

Meanwhile the Senate Banking Committee opened hearings on the administration proposal with a warning from its chairman, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that "if we give loan guarantees to Chrysler today, we may well have Ford on our doorstep tomorrow.'

'No one wants to see jobs lost," said Proxmire. "And no one likes to see companies fail. But why should some companies be worthier than others?"

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, said the committee was sitting "as a surrogate board of directors, reviewing the apparent failure of a company's management." Garn said he was "skeptical" of the administration plan.

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., oposed the aid plan as "inconsistent with the free enterprise system.'

But Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., said that in view of foreign competition, "America's interests are directly and wisely served by modernizing and preserving Chrysler.

Reuss said his amendment was intended to "focus Chrysler on the need" to produce fuel-efficient vehicles. He said he contemplated that Chrysler probably would be the only beneficiary.

If Chrysler was unable to come up with an acceptable plan, however, the amendment would allow the treasury secretary to authorize loan guarantees to other companies to produce fuel-efficient vehicles at abandoned Chrysler

"The idea that what is good for Chrysler management is good for the United States is one that I reject," Reuss said.

'If the state does not provide some funding, it won't be just the hospital districts that suffer," Fordyce stressed, "it will be the medical schools." Most communities don't realize the close relationships between the hospitals and medical schools, he said.

"Invitations (for the meeting) will be going to medical school officials as Fordyce said. Health Sciences Center Hospital interim administrator Charles Roberts said Tuesday that probably he, board chairman Joe Stanley and vice chairman Dub Rushing would make the trip to San Antonio

Fordyce, who is chiefly reponsible for planning the December meeting, has had no feedback from Texas Gov. Bill Clements on the meeting or the possibility of a proposed half-cent tax. Bexar County Judge Albert Bustamente is planning to talk to the governor soon on chalf of the San Antonio area district, Six hospital districts have been invited to the meeting, Fordyce said, as well as two private hospitals. Hospital districts in Dallas, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio, El Paso and Galveston have been asked to participate, though Fordyce doesn't expect participation from Galveston - a district which already receives extensive state support through the University of Texas system.

Representatives from Hermann Hospital in Houston and Scott and White Hospital in Temple have been invited because of their high indigent care costs, even though they are private hospitals.

Reagan Says Revolution Could Have Been Halted presidential contender Ronald Reagan said today he supported President Carter's actions in the Iranian crisis, but believes the administration should have done more last year to keep the Shah of Iran in power

"There was a time when this revolu tion could have been halted," Reagan said in his first meeting with reporters since he declared his intention to seek the 1980 Republican presidential nomi-

Without mentioning the name of any Iranian leader, the former California governor said, "There were certain leaders that could have been separated from their followers." He did not elaborate.

However, Reagan said the president's action in freezing Iranian assets in the United States and in suspending purchases of Iranian oil was "completely appropriate.

And, echoing Carter's own repeated appeals for public calm, Reagan said: Every one of us should refrain from making comment on this because it is so

But Reagan assailed the administration for its dealings with the Soviet Union. He accused the president of making too many concessions in hopes of appeasing the Russians. 'The Soviet Union is an expansionist from its Marxist dream" of spreading communism throughout the world, Reagan said. "And we should never forget Reagan, 68, was asked whether his age should be an issue in the campaign. The whole thing about the issue of my age will be resolved when people see I can go the distance." he replied.

Reagan, who will be 69 in February, would be the oldest president ever elected to a first term.

In a pointed reference to the recent jogging race in which Carter collapsed, Reagan said, "If I were a betting man I'd bet I won't have to be helped off the Reagan also announced that Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., had joined his campaign team as its primary spokesman.

Reagan's entry brings to 10 the number of Republicans seeking the job. He then set out on a five-day, 12-city campaign swing through most of the early primary states

A videotape of Reagan's speech was seen in most parts of the nation and the candidate delivered a live version to a packed hotel ballroom.

Both Reagan's call for granting Puerto Rico statehood and for transferring certain functions of the federal government to states and communities echo proposals voiced in 1976. President Gerald R. Ford, the last Republican in the White House, proposed statehood for Puerto Rico shortly before leaving office.

Reagan now says: "I favor statehood for Puerto Rico, and if the people of coming referendum, I would, as presi dent, initiate the enabling legislation to, make this a reality." Puerto Rico's Feb. 12 primary election will be the first in Reagan also advocated closer ties with Canada and Mexico, including establishment of a North American accord, and permitting officials of these neighboring governments to sit in on, high-level U.S. policy sessions.

Reagan's call for a shift in federal programs away from Washington reiterated the basic thrust of a controversial proposal he made in the early stages of his unsuccessful 1976 effort to unseat

The earlier proposal was billed as a way of saving $90 billion, but critics and Ford supporters seized on the proposal and portrayed it as a guarantee of higher

Kennedy Trip Tests Mondale's Support

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., flew today power and it has not retreated one inch to Walter F. Mondale's home state to test whether the vice president can hold Minnesota liberals behind the Carter-Mondale ticket in 1980.

Miss Growe acknowledged that 'there aren't very many elected officials" in Minnesota who are willing to come out openly for Kennedy.

She added, however, that "there is no enthusiasm for Carter. The support is there out of respect for Fritz (Mon-

Pilot Recalls Flight With Famed Gangster

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP) - Of the many thousand passengers Albert Burnham carried during his 45-year flying career, the most memorable was a "hardware salesman" with a fondness for banks.

The man called himself Edwin Mason, but Burnham later learned from a news photo of a fugitive's bullet-riddled body that he was the notorious gangter, Al Brady.

Burnham was a flying instructor at Bridgeport Airport in the 1930s when "Mason" approached him.

"He turned up at the airport one day and said he wanted to fly around," the retired pilot recalled. "He said he was a hardware salesman. I guess the hardware was machine guns.

Still oblivious to Brady's actual identity, Burnham took the murderer-robber on several flights over Bridgeport during the following six weeks. His passenger made special note of the banks and their proximity to roads leading out of the city, he said.

"I guess he was casing the place for a holdup. He and his friends were hiding

Throughout the six weeks, Brady gave no hint of his ruthless reputation or his criminal plan. "He was perfectly normal. I went bowling with him and his girlfriend," Burnham said.

Before long, news came that the FBI had tracked Brady to Bangor, Maine. They cornered him in a store as he tried to buy a machine gun, and killed him when he tried to flee into the street, the pilot said.

Burnham's love affair with aviation began when he was 14 years old. Shortly after his family moved from Maine to Hartford in 1924, he was drawn to the Connecticut capital's Brainard Airport by "the fascination of airplanes."

For 10 frustrating months he did odd jobs without getting a chance even to ride in a plane. But soon he was earning $10 per week, enough to buy a 20-minute

Candidates Differ Little In Campaign Speeches

the candidates: The United States is a sleeping giant, the ship of state needs a new helmsman, the times cry out for new answers to old questions, and there must be a renaissance of the American

With those cliches, and dozens more, two Democrats and 10 Republicans have announced that they are running for president in 1980. Their speechwriters toiled through draft after draft, each trying to find just the right words to launch his man toward the White House. But when, in turn, the candidates stood up to speak, they all sounded a lot alike. They could have saved time and effort by pooling wordsmiths and issuing a blanket announcement.

That all-purpose announcement wouldn't work for President Carter. He'll be announcing Dec. 4 that he wants a second term, and will have to defend the first-term performance all the other candidates find wanting.

Carter's Democratic challengers have been at least as hard on him as the Republicans. Among them, the rival candidates have produced a chorus of generalized criticism that could serve any politician challenging an incumbent president in almost any election year.

By WALTER R. MEARS "The sense is pervasive that some-WASHINGTON (AP) — Take it from thing is wrong, that our nation is divided when it should be decisive and acting with clear purpose," said California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., as he declared himself a candidate.

'We have learned that good intentions are not enough in a president," said Republican George Bush. "We should know, too, that rhetoric is not enough to provide the kind of leadership our country needs and deserves."

The leadership we so desperately need has not evolved from this administration and it is growing increasingly clear that it never will," declared John B. Connally, as he entered the Republican competition.

"The presidency has become shrouded in the politics of confusion and indecision," added Rep. John B. Anderson.

"For many months we have been sinking into crisis," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. "Yet, we hear no clear summons from the center of power ... Fear spreads that our leaders have resigned themselves to retreat. This country is not prepared to sound retreat."

sensus on what's wrong. The challengers agree that it's Carter's fault. Their speechwriters could trade paragraphs on

The chorus doesn't end there. It also embraces the question of what should be done by a new president. 'The times cry out for new answers to serious problems, for the national leadership of statesmen rather than the personal politics of politicians," said

"We seek not a Democratic approach or a Republican approach to the nation's future," Republican Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas continued. "We seek the correct approach, and it will combine the best thinking and best efforts of all."

"Where there is vision," said Kennedy, "the people respond. We must restore the faith of citizens that the system can be made to work, if they will make government work for them .

"Every generation has struggled to preserve the old dream against new dangers, and now it is our turn.'

"Throughout our history, days of trouble have turned to years of pride through a renaissance of the American spirit," declared Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. "Once again America knows days of trouble. Once again, we will recover in pride."

Employees Take Over Company

WINNIPEG (UPI) - Some 26 employees at Midwest Helicopter aren't concerned about the recent change of ownership at the company - they

"I'm very optimistic, very excited," said Beatrice Allen, the company's secretary-treasurer and only female employee. "Midwest Helicopter has never lost money. We think we're in a pretty good industry.

Midwest Helicopter has eight Bell 206 Jet Rangers and a medium-lift Bell 204 and operates its leasing business from bases at Winnipeg and Thompson,

Sale of the Transair Ltd. subsidiary, subject to Canadian Transport Commission approval, was announced by Rhys Eyton, president of Pacific Western Air-

PWA bought over 99 percent of Transair's common shares about two years ago, and completion of the merger was expected before yearend.

Eyton did not disclose the price paid for Midwest, but he estimated the value of the assets that changed hands mainly about a dozen helicopters - at "between $1.5 million and $2 million."

PWA has agreed to provide financial backing for the fledgling firm.

Midwest president Wayne Johnson, a 39-year-old veteran with 7,500 hours of helicopter flying and a personal friend of Eyton, says management always has had autonomy and will proceed without noticeable changes.

We all feel confident and optimistic," he said. "The helicopter business is such in Canada that the next five years' projections are good, mainly because of growing energy needs. Forest fires and other catastrophes provide business for

Johnson said he expects the helicopter-leasing business to increase at a rate of 1,000 hours a year, mainly because of uranium and exploration developments in Saskatchewan.

The takeover of Midwest by its employees was unusual but not unique. Eyton was one of the authors of an agreement under which about 135 employees bought PWA's trucking division when the airline sold it several years

The employees ran the firm for four years, quadrupling sales from about $5 million to about $20 million before finally selling out to Hamilton-based Laidlaw Corp. for a substantial profit.

Explaining the sales, Eyton said, "We're concentrating on what we do best. It's a very substantial opportunity for the employees."

Company vice-president Mike Leblanc, a 38-year-old father of two, said he didn't have any hesitation in investing once the employees worked out the de-

"We had a lot of long discussions. We sat down and really thought about it," said Leblanc, who has worked for the company for a decade.

'We're doing the same as before opwe will be more careful about spending money and we'll work even harder to get contracts and to do a good job for our customers.

Johnson explained that each employee was given an opportunity to purchase shares - at least 5,000 but no more than 15,000. Four employees bought the maximum: 15 bought varying amounts and a few opted not to participate. The company is set up in such a way that no one employee can obtain a controlling inter-

Miss Allen said PWA had agreed to match the share subscription with working capital on a dollar-for-dollar basis once a stipulated minimum was reached and said, "We were way over the mini-

Blindness Fails To Halt Work Of Carpenter

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) - A bandage adorns David Singleton's left index finger as he drives nails in the 28-by-40-foot garage going up behind his home.

Well, that's where I whacked the top of that knuckle off the other day, Singleton said. He grinned ruefully and wiped sweat from his nose and chin.

But Singleton works against another infirmity, that, unlike an injured finger, isn't going to heal.

"Totally blind," he said. "I can't tell daylight from dark."

Yet here is this 50ish, sightless carpenter, lying belly-flat on sheets of slippery fiberglass, determinedly nailing them down to make a watertight roof. He finds his way down by swinging his toes until they touch the first rung of the ladder.

"I was working up here the other day, and I had a ladder on this side and a ladder way over on the other side." he said. "A gust of wind blew two sheets of fiberglass down and turned over my ladder on this side. So there I was, up here with the other ladder way on the other

Singleton didn't panic as some sighted do-it-yourself carpenters might have. He grabbed a two-by-four plank, rested it on the ground against the skeleton of the garage and shinnied down handover-hand. From his tool shed, Singleton produced a yardstick with a notch cut at each inch mark, and a fine piece of wire wrapped around it at the one-foot mark. He's done all his own measuring and sawing of the boards to put up the garage shell. His brother poured the concrete slab, but Singleton has done the rest on his own.

Beer Brewing Famed Industry In Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) -Belgium - which still bans the sale of hard liquor in cafes - has about 100 breweries that produce more than 200 very different kinds of beer.

The involvement of this Maryland-size nation of 10 million in brewing dates back to the 13th

And it continues unabated. When Brussels prepared to celebrate its 1,000th anniversary this year, Artois - Belgium's largest brewery - brought out a special millenium beer.

If you order "Carbonades Flamandes" in Belgium, you'll get beef stewed in beer.

From the francophone cafes in the Ardennes hills of southern Belgium to the port pubs of Flemish-speaking Antwerp in the north, Belgians display a Breughelian zest for the suds.

In 1978, the average Belgian drank 125 liters of beer, which compares with almost 150 liters for the average German, the world's leader in beer consumption. The average American downs 85 liters of beer a year.

Beer's popularity in Belgium is helped along by the fact that no license is required to operate a pub, of which the country has no fewer than 50,000. But more than that, Belgian beer comes in dozens of varieties

They range from the thirsiquenching pilsners to the heavy beers of the Trappist abbeys.

Of the 15 Trappist abbeys in Belgium, only five still make their monastic beer on the premises and have the exclusive right to label their products as "Biere Trappiste" or "Trappistenbier."

The Cistercian Trappists provide Belgian beer lovers with a potent copper-colored or dark beverage, and their own orders with a handy income to support their philanthropic work. Among Belgium's more unusual, regional beers are the white wheat beers of the Leuven area (milky-colored brews), the reds of the Roeselare area aged for 18 months in oak casks, and the sourtasting Gueuze beers made in 16 small breweries just south and west of Brussels.

In the Gueuze brewing region, beer drinkers can also get a taste of Kriek beer, which is made from black cherries. In addition, Belgium has a variety of British-style beers, such as Scotch Highlander, that are brewed in this country

The rising popularity of soft drinks and growing competition with foreign breweries has in re-cent years caused a slight decline in Belgium's beer production.

The country's 1978 output of 1.3 billion liters was 100 million liters below that of the early 1970s.

But although overall produc-tion is down somewhat, Belgium's small beer producers are experi-encing a revival of sorts.

Statistics show Belgians are increasingly reaching out for more sophisticated, heavier beers.

Pieter Celis of Hoegaarden, 25 miles east of Brussels, illustrates that trend. Twelve years ago Celis began experimenting with the area's famed brown beers and today brews a beer that is in such demand he increased his output tenfold to 250 hectoliters a year in

Americans Excavate In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - Hampered by Cyprus' neighbors, American archaeologists are coming here in increasing numbers to unearth the cultural heritage left on the island by a succession of ancient conquerors. This year, eight American archaeology teams have conducted digs in several locations. Some of these teams have been at work in Cyprus for many years.

'American archaeologists come here simply because it is becoming harder to get excavation permits from other countries in this area," said Anita Walker, a British-born archaeology professor from the University of Connecticut.

The professor, a Fulbright scholar who has been involved in Cyprus excavations since 1971, explained, "The awareness of American schools and encouragement of the Cyprus government are two major reasons for this influx of students and professors.

Like most Middle-Eastern countries, Cyprus has been greatly affected by the major historical events in this part of ancient civilization. Lying at the crossroad between Europe and the Middle East, Cyprus has attracted many great powers

The island's rich copper mines and forests for timber were two natural attractions for making weapons, ships and

But even before these resources were exhausted around the 12th century A.D., Cyprus was strategically important to powers seeking to dominate the East Mediterranean basin, powers such as the Phoenicians, Egyptians, Persians, Romans. Crusaders and Ottoman Turks.

They all had to cross through the island, says Michael Louloupis, archaeology officer at the Cyprus Department of Antiquities.

Americans are exacavating in Jordan, Israel, Egypt, Turkey and other Middle-Eastern countries, but there are proportionately fewer teams there than in Cvmake it difficult for these young archaeologists to get into neighboring countries with rich cultural heritages.

Larissa Hordynsky, a graduate student at Brandeis University, observed that even in Greece "they discourage and restrict foreigners from excavating

"The Iraqi government at the moment does not allow many Westerners into the country, let alone give permission to excavate," said Ian Todd, an archaeology professor at Brandeis, who led an excavation team in Cyprus.

The presence of so many Americans excavating here prompted the American School for Oriental Research (ASOR) to help establish the Cyprus American Archaeological Research Institute, headed by Anita Walker, who has just completed a two-year sabbatical leave from the University of Connecticut.

She said the institute, a non-profit establishment, served as a summer home for many archaeology students, providing advice, room and board, and tools. ASOR has established similar institutions in Jordan, Tunisia and Israel.

She says American students join the excavation teams for various reasons. Some are after the experience, others collect data and others are archaeology or anthropology teachers, here to enrich their academic background.

Funds for most Americans come from the National Science Foundation for Prehistoric Excavations, and the National Science Foundation for Classical Excavations. Students are selected on the basis of experience. "but character and adaptation are also important, Todd said.

Toda's 30-member team includes American, Greek, British, French, Australian. Swiss and German students.

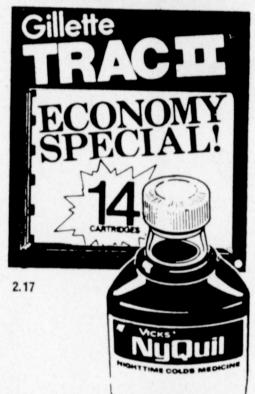

Todd's team excavated in Tenta, a neolithic site near the modern village of Kalvassos, 45 miles southeast of Nicosia. It has found many stone and clay items and unearthed rooms and what look like "foxholes." But the most exciting discovery this year was a "red painting of human activity." Todd said.

Miss Walker and Dr. Larry Stager of the University of Chicago excavated at Dhali Village, once the seat of a Roman satrapy. They have discovered part of an ancient fortification and another "public building.

The teachers and students have the right to whatever information they discover, says Jerald Johnson, professor of anthropology of California State University and co-leader with Todd.

However, unearthed antiquities become the property of the Cyprus government, although some items may be taken out of the country by team leaders for analysis," Louloupis adds.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Wheat and corn futures rose sharply Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade amid heavy exporter and commission house buying.

Analysts said heavy buying by an export firm in wheat and large purchases of corn by two export firms and a commission house were the main reason for the rally. There were varying interpretations of the buying. Some analysts suspected the commission house purchases were for commercial accounts, and the business reflected a possible large grain sale to the Soviet Union or China, virtually the only importers of grain that ever buy in such large quantities.

Albin Appointed As New Dean Of Tech Agriculture Sciences pointed associate dean and director of research for the Texas Tech University College of Agricultural Sciences.

The appointment was announced by Dean Samuel E. Curl. Albin will succeed Dr. A. Max Lennon, who has been named chairman of the Department of Animal Husbandry at the University of Missouri effective Jan. 15. Albin has been chairman of the Department of Animal Science at Texas Tech University.

Curl commended Lennon for his splendid contributions" to the college through his direction and coordination of its research program.

During Albin's more than 15 years as member of the Texas Tech faculty, Curl said he "has compiled an outstanding record in research, teaching, administration and public service activities. His broad agricultural background, with industry will be of significant benefit in the conduct of his new responsibilities." Curl said a search for a new chair-

academic experience and his contacts man of the Department of Animal Science will begin immediately.

Albin, a native of Beaver City, Okla. earned degrees at Texas Tech and the University of Nebraska. His major research interests have been in beef cattle nutrition with a major interest in the areas of ruminant digestion and nutrient metabolism of beef cattle. He has also engaged in studies of energy and nitrogen utilization of beef cattle, sorghum evaluation and cattle feedlot waste management. He is author or co-author of more than 80 technical papers. He is a member of the American Society of Animal Science and the honorary societies of Alpha Zeta, Gamma Sigma Delta, Phi

Kappa Phi and Sigma Xi. Albin was selected "Outstanding Teacher in the College of Agricultural Sciences" for 1973 and for the fall semester 1974. He was selected as an Outstanding Educator in America in 1972 and was presented an AMOCO Distinguished Teaching Award in 1974. He is listed in "Who's Who in Ameri-

State Not Planning To Ration Gas

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas is prepared to go back to odd-even gasoline rationing but officials do not think it is needed because of the Iran crude oil shutoff, according to Ed Vetter.

Vetter, Texas' chief energy advisor, told reporters Tuesday that the state had no plans to follow California in reinstituting odd-even days for gasoline pur-

However, that may come later, said Vetter, head of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Council

"Our November allocation for gasoline is 1 percent below October but we are still getting about 93 percent of what we had last year at this time," Vetter

The allocation amounts to 755 million gallons of gasoline that major refineries plan to deliver to distributors for service

Vetter said he has had reports of some short lines at gasoline stations, but most of these are majors that are selling at discount prices. Motorists shop around and if they can get it eight cents cheaper they will go there.'

Vetter said the Iranian shutoff did not mean an automatic loss of capability of U.S. firms to buy foreign crude. The crude that has been sold to the U.S. by Iran may be sold to some other country, which might in turn release more oil for purchase to the U.S., Vetter said. He added it probably will cost more.

He said his office is watching the fuel

Last June, Gov. Bill Clements ordered gasoline sold on alternate days according to the odd or even numerals in a motor vehicle license. He also set a $6 minimum purchase price for gasoline to discourage "tank topping.

On Sept. 2, Clements discontinued the odd-even system but retained the $6 minimum purchase until Sept. 28.

Clements said there was no improvement in the national availability of oil, gasoline or diesel, but there was a "better supply-demand situation due to less driving and no tank-topping."

"This nation continues to have a major energy crisis, and Texans should keep this in mind," Clements said in September. "There is a distinct possibility that we will be faced with reinstituting this program next spring, and I will

Dr. Robert Holz of the University of Texas Tuesday told a special House Committee on Urban Needs that the state's big cities are still "reasonably safe, comfortable places to live.'

"I don't think Texas cities have the big-city problems of those cities in the Northeast." he said.

However, he warned continued growth could cause problems. "If there isn't some control on how things develop, it seems to me there'll be a problem with a declining quality of ... which is why the people moved here in the first place," Holz said

He said the state will continue to grow in population through the 1980s. Statistics show that 82 percent of the state's 13 million people live in urban areas - defined as areas with more than 2,500 persons.

The numbers show the state has had an urban majority since 1950.

Holz said mass transit systems would be needed in the cities as gasoline sup-

Shooting Spree Leaves Gunman Dead, Three Officers Wounded

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - It all started innocently enough when Patrolman Michael Young stopped two youths Tuesday morning to question them about the orange, 10-speed bicycle they were rid-

Authorities said one youth suddenly pulled out a .357-caliber Magnum pistol. Then the shooting rocked the sedate residential street. When the midday drama was over three hours later, the gunman was dead and three officers were wounded, one critically.

GALVESTON (AP) - Scientists monitoring oil spilling from the burning tanker Burmah Agate say it won't be necessary to clean up a 4-mile slick about a foot wide that washed up on Padre Island.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration scientists had earlier predicted Padre Island would be hit by a a giant oil slick produced when the tanker collided with the freighter, Mimosa, 14 days ago.

But Coast Guard spokesman Ray Baker said Tuesday the slick apparently broke up in rough seas over the week-

"We received a call from the Nueces County coroner, who said the body had Taiwanese identification on it and was probably one of the missing crewmen, Baker said. "If that's true, we now have 17 confirmed dead and 15 still missing."

Investors Stuck With Coupons

DALLAS (AP) - Buying half-fare airline coupons and reselling them at a profit used to be a way to make an easy buck. But suddenly, investors lament, the market has become bloated and they're stuck with a fistfull of soon-tobe-worthless coupons.

I have more than I'd like to," said Bobby Goldman, a self-described speculator and financial advisor for a cable television firm. "I've got about 200 left. I was buying them, but not any more.

DALLAS (UPI) - A federal judge Tuesday ruled against the U.S. Consumer Commission, which is attempting to inspect the defective Swiss Skyride at the State Fair of Texas, because the agency had not tried all legal options.

The coupons were a gimmick dreamed up to promote air travel on United and American Airlines during last summer's gas crunch. Full-fare traverlers were given the coupons to be redeemed for half-price air fare anywhere in theUnited States.

However, the coupons expire Dec. 15. Goldman said small-time coupon investors began bailing out of the business around Nov. 1. 'I was buying coupons from 10 to 15 newspapers carried a total of 100 ads Tuesday, mostly from small investors with only two or three coupons to hawk. Prices ranged from $35 to $75, but the ads were literally sprinkled with come-down come-ons of "best offer" and "make offer." 'We've had no calls to buy," was the typical telephone response from small volume sellers.

Goldman said he is bailing out of the business as soon as he clears his invento-

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own business and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis.

Our carriers are young business men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future?

If you are interested in stepping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign . . . even if your name is John Hancock.

and demanded her purse in a strong-arm robbery late Tuesday in the 3400-block of East Third Place, according to police.

Lillian McFadden, 54, of 3418 E. Third Place told police she was getting out of her car in her driveway when the man grabbed her and said, "Give me that purse." The 10:15 p.m. holdup netted the bandit the woman's keys, purse and contents, totaling about $33.

Mrs. McFadden said the robber had begun following her in his black and maoon car at Broadway and Avenue A. He reached into the victim's parked vehicle and took the keys and purse while holding the woman by the throat, she said.

Mrs. McFadden told police that when the man began walking back to his car, which was parked behind her own, she got inside her vehicle and locked the doors. Before driving off, The man walked back to the woman's car and velled, "If you get out, I'll kill you," reports state.

The robber was described as a tall, neavy black man between 35 and 45, wearing a tan sweater.

A 36-year-old Lubbock woman was treated at the Reese Air Force Base hospital after she reportedly was struck by beer mug about 12:40 a.m. at a club in the 4900-block of Brownfield Highway.

Witnesses at the nightspot said Everitta R. Nugent of 4502 38th St. was struck in the head by the mug during an altercation with another woman.

The injured woman was taken to the hospital by a private vehicle. Reports indicate she was not seriously hurt.

Authorities said they arrested a Lubbock County man about 8 p.m. Tuesday after a screening device at the Lubbock International Airport revealed a weapon inside a suitcase the man was about to take onto a plane.

Reports indicate the 49-year-old suspect had deplaned and then was about to board again when the screen revealed a gun inside the man's luggage. Authorities confiscated a .32-caliber pistol and four rounds of ammunition.

The man was booked into the county jail on suspicion of unlawful carrying of

A Lubbock man, who wrecked his motorcycle about 2:45 a.m. today in the 4300-block of Erskine Street, was arrested on suspicion of being intoxicated.

The 24-year-old man reportedly suffered minor abrasions to the face but refused medical aid from Emergency Medical Service technicians.

Police said they found the man passed out on the ground with his motorcycle lying on his left leg.

A 24-year-old woman was arrested about 7:25 p.m. Tuesday after she allegedly cut her sister on the hand and caused a disturbance at her parents' house in the 3500-block of Vanda Ave-

The injured sister arrived on the scene as the woman was being placed in the patrol car and told officers she did not want to file charges.
Police were told that $436.29 was stolen from a cash box at the U-Haul Moving Center at 2204 Fourth St. between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesday. An employee said the money was discovered missing after two men, one of them seen near the cash box, had been in the business. Both suspects were described as tall white men, who drove off in a late-model brown Monte Carlo. A £3-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 6:20 p.m. Tuesday after attendants said he attempted to walk out of the United Supermarket at 3101 E. Fourth St. without paying for a 79-cent package of razor blades.

A 27-year-old Shallowater musician told police that he was robbed at knifepoint of $75 early Tuesday.

Dale Roy Lynch of P.O. Box 195 in Shallowater told police that he was driving west in the 2800 block of Idalou Road about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday when a dark-colored car pulled behind him and starting flashing its lights.

Lynch said both he and the driver of the other car pulled to the curb. Reports indicate a man got out of the dark-colored car and walked up to the right front door of Lynch's car and got in the vehicle. While inside the vehicle, the suspect reportedly pulled out a large pocketknife and told Lynch to hand over

Fair Weather Predicted For South Plains

A-J News Services Clear skies and warmer temperatures were expected over the entire state today as a large surface high pressure system dominated the Texas weather pic-

In the Lubbock area, temperatures were forecast to reach the low 60s today, then climb to the mid-60s on Thursday.

Lows here tonight were predicted to be in the middle 30s, up slightly from this morning's minimum reading of 29. Light southerly winds of 5 to 10 mph were forecast both today and tonight.

The weather pattern is likely to continue through Sunday, forecasters said, with highs climbing to the low 70s toward the latter part of the week.

No temperature records are likely here, at least for today. The all-time high for the date is 85 in 1933 and the record low is 4 degrees in 1976.

Elsewhere in the state, temperatures ranged from the 20s in the Panhandle and northern portions of the South Plains to the 50s in the Rio Grande Val-

Light rain was scattered along the Atlantic Coast today, primarily in the Northeast and parts of Florida, and skies were overcast in parts of the Midwest and the upper Pacific Coast. Fog and haze in the Pacific Northwest and parts of central California prompted travelers advisories for the San Joaquin Valley, and some light snow fell in the Upper Great Lakes region and parts of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Much of the rest of the nation enjoyed clear skies today, due to a series of high pressure centers stretching from Montana to Texas.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 8 at Laramie, Wyo., and International Falls, Minn., to 70 at Key West,

Blazes Cause Heavy Losses

Lubbock firemen were dispatched on two separate house fires Tuesday night, with heavy losses resulting from both incidents. There were no injuries.

The first blaze erupted about 7:15 p.m. at 3501 58th St., home of JoAnna Hunter. A hot pan of grease ignited the fire, which caused an estimated $1,000 damage to the kitchen, according to the Lubbock Fire Department.

Cathy Fair's residence at 1301 E. Rice St. was the scene of the second blaze about 9:05 p.m. when a water heater gas line broke, caught fire and spread flames through the hallway and

A loss had not been determined by early today. It took 18 firemen manning seven units about 15 minutes to quell the

Rescued

PARMA, Italy (AP) - Workers today rescued three women buried more than half a day in tons of rubble from an explosion that demolished a wing of the city hospital. Hope dimmed for about 20 others missing. Seven bodies had been

Police said one of the women, Angiolina Bedotti, was in good condition; the second, Erminia Bigi, was in serious condition, and the third, 77, who had undergone surgery before the blast, was close to death. She was not identified. Firemen working under spotlights in driving rain and occasional snow removed each of the women from piles of debris after hearing faint cries of "help us, help us. Cranes were brought in to remove concrete pillars from the mass of masonry, beds and hospital equipment.

The missing included three nurses, patients and relatives who were visiting

The cause of the explosion had not been determined. Investigators said it may have resulted from leaks of oxygen or other medical gases or from a malfunction in a high-pressure machine used to sterilize surgical equipment.

Elsa Righi said she was feeding her daughter soup when she heard "a sharp hissing sound followed by an explosion. Then it seemed like the end of the Hospital officials said there were 1,-650 patients, an unknown number of visitors and 800 staff members in the hospital at the time of the blast. Police Chief Enrico Toldo said it sounded "like a huge bomb.

The explosion ripped through four floors in one wing of the E-shaped hospital, demolishing the third-floor operating room where two open-heart operations had been performed minutes before. The wreckage crashed down into the intensive care ward on the ground

'Flames shot out of the building," said a nurse, "the walls seemed to expand and then collapsed."

A Plainview man and a Texas Tech University freshman have been awarded plaques for their participation in a summer youth employment program funded by the Comprehensive Employment and Act (CETA).

Carl Holland, Plainview Parks Department ground maintenance supervisor, was named the outstanding supervisor of the year in the program, while Andrew Rodriquez was honored as outstanding participant for 1979. Administrative staff of the South Plains Association of Governments employment and training programs recognized Holland for his work with 12 youths placed under his supervision and for furnishing those trainees with career information in his area of work.

Rodriguez was selected for his participation in the program, beginning as a maintenance worker in the ninth grade and advancing to an audio-visual aide for KTXT-TV in the summer of 1979. He is now employed as a cameraman with another local television station.

The oldest of 10 children, Rodriguez gained college credits through Project Upward Bound at Tech while still in high school and serves on the advisory body to the planning council of the South Plains Employment and Training Consortium. The consortium serves as a channel for CETA funds to the City of Lubbock and Hale and Garza counties.

The summer youth employment program helps economically disadvantaged youth and is funded by CETA through the U.S. Department of Labor.

Area Students Vie For Title

Three area girls will be among 46 high school seniors who will compete Jan. 26 in the 1980 Texas Junior Miss Pageant in New Braunfels.

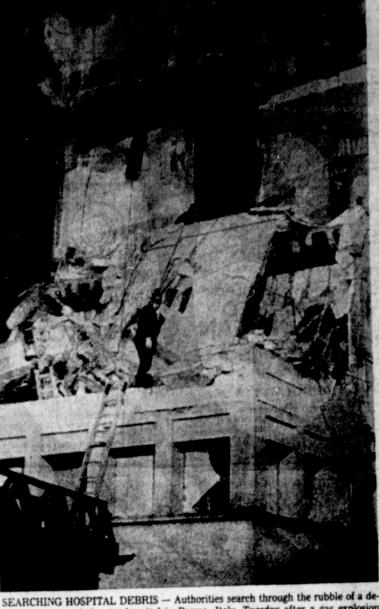

Traci Simpson of Lubbock, Valerie Moss of Abernathy and Angela Lea Partain of Andrews were chosen along with 15 others by the Texas Junior Miss board of directors to participate in the pageant. The other 26 girls were selected in local competitions throughout the

The 18 girls chosen by the board were selected on the basis of talent presentation, conversation skills, academic honors and extracurricular involvement.

At the state pageant, the 46 contestants will be judged in areas of scholastic achievement, creative and performing arts, poise and personal appearance and youth fitness. Each girl will be interviewed by the five state judges.

The winner of the Texas Junior Miss title will go on to represent Texas in the American Junior Miss Pageant next spring in Mobile, Ala.

Israeli Cabinet Panel Expels Arab Mayor

JERUSALEM (AP) - A committee of Israel's Cabinet decided today to expel Nablus Mayor Bassam Shakaa from the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, authorities announced. The government claims he is sympathetic to PLO terrorist attacks.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet met as the secret ministerial defense committee and afterward, Begin's aide, Ephriam Poran, announced, "It was decided to leave as is the decision regarding the procedures for the expulsion of Bassam Shakaa."

If the jailed Nablus mayor is expelled, the West Bank is expected to erupt in a spasm of anti-Israeli violence an embarrassment while Israel is negotiating the terms of Palestinian autonomy with Egypt and the United States.

But the government would appear weak if it backed off from its earlier decision to banish Shakaa, who has said he understood the motivation of Palestinian guerrillas who ambushed a bus raelis in March 1978, leaving 34 dead in the worst terror raid in Israel's history. Shakaa has a petition pending before Israel's Supreme Court to nullify the expulsion order. There was no immediate word on when the court would consider the petition. In Cairo, Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil called the Shakaa case "provocative," and said his government was 'trying not to allow" the issue, and that of increased Jewish settlement activity on occupied Arab lands to interfere with autonomy negotiations. President Anwar

Sadat has predicted the talks will yield an agreement within three months.

Shakaa was arrested Sunday, and since then West Bank Palestinians generally remained calm although some rock-throwing incidents were reported.

But political activity has been intense as leading West Bank mayors resigned or threatened to resign if Israel did not free Shakaa and allow him to return to

At Nablus City Hall, Zafer el Masri, who resigned his position as deputy mayor to protest the treatment of his superior, called today's decision "regrettable, deplorable, against all democratic principles anywhere in the world."

In Beirut, Lebanon, Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization urged the mayors of the West Bank to "react collectively" to Israel's decision.

The PLO executive committee also exhorted the Arabs of the Israeli-occupied region to "escalate struggle against "The PLO statement meant that the mayors should either resign together or stay on together," a PLO source explained. "The real aim of the (Israeli) enemy is to try to fragment the Palestinian people and their leadership, and we will never let the Israelis have their way."

In an unrelated matter, Begin was dealt a blow in his effort to keep his ruling Likud bloc at full strength as the Council of Venerated Rabbis instructed the four-man Agudat Party to pull out of

NATO Heads Clear Way For Missile Decision

NATO defense ministers cleared the way today for a firm decision next month to go ahead with deployment of new U.S. nuclear missiles to counter expansion of Soviet arms aimed at Western Europe. Winding up the two-day session of NATO's Nuclear Planning Group, the ministers agreed to use a $4 billion plan calling for 572 American Pershing II and ground-launched Cruise missiles to be based in five European nations starting in 1983 as the basis for a decision to be taken at a ministerial session in Brussels in mid-December. U.S. Defense Secretary Harold

Brown told a news conference, "The alliance needs to decide on certain numbers and then move toward those numbers" in order to prevent an arms gap caused by continued Soviet expansion of SS-20 missile forces and Backfire bombers from expanding.

West German Defense Minister Hans Apel dismissed Dutch reservations that provided the only dissent from an alliance-wide position by saying agreement of other continental nations to accept the weapons had decided his government to go ahead with the plan.

"The German conditions are met," Apel told reporters. "Germany is not alone. Italy and Belgium are in and therefore Chancellor (Helmut) Schmidt's condition that Germany would not take a lone position has been met." In their communique, the ministers agreed a "substantial" number - outlined by NATO sources as 1,000 - of present U.S. nuclear warheads stockpiled in Europe could be withdrawn as an arms control initiative accompanying the "modernization" program. Brown added that later decisions could be made to change the deployment plan if negotiations with the Soviets warrant reduc-

The program that starts in 1983 calls for 1,000-mile Pershing IIs and 1,500mile ground-launched Cruise missiles to be installed in West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Britain. The new missiles will replace older ground-launched weapons that have a range of only slightly more than 400 miles and cannot reach targets in the Soviet Union. The Cruise missiles are envisioned to offset the 3,000-mile Soviet SS-20 rockets and Backfire bombers that are targeted on Western Europe from bases deep

Gas Explosions

MISSISSAUGA, Ontario (AP) About 150,000 persons were allowed to go home but 75,000 others were warned to stay away for the third night because there still was danger of gas explosions from the derailment that caused the biggest evacuation in Canadian history.

"A very definite health hazard still exists and we want to make that very clear," Attorney General Roy McMurty told a news conference Tuesday. Duo Shares MVP Honors

By BERT ROSENTHAL
NEW YORK (AP) — Both Willie
Stargell, the 38-year-old wonder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and young Keith Hernandez of the St. Louis Cardinals said they were satisfied with sharing the National League's Most Valuable Player Award for the 1979 season.

But did either one really deserve it outright or not at all?

According to the 24-man voting committee - two from each of the NL's 12 cities - of the Baseball Writers Association of America, there was no separating the two players in total points. In the balloting, announced Tuesday, each received 216 points.

However, the breakdown in the voting was quite curious.

Stargell received 10 first-place votes, three seconds, four thirds, one fourth and two sixths. But what is difficult to comprehend is that four writers completely ignored him, meaning they did not think he was even among the 10 most valuable players in the league.

Hernandez, on the other hand, was the only player named on all 24 ballots, collecting only four firsts, but eight seconds, seven thirds, two fourths and

A first-place vote was worth 14 points, with nine for second, eight for third etc.

Statistically, the 26-year-old Hernandez far outshone Stargell, except in

The Cardinals' first baseman played in all but one of his team's 162 games, led the NL in batting with a .344 average, in doubles with 48 and in runs scored with 116, was second in hits with 210, tied for third in game-winning hits with 16 and fifth in runs batted in with 105. He also hit 11 triples and 11 home runs in 610 at-bats.

Stargell, used judiciously by Pittsburgh manager Chuck Tanner, appeared in 126 games, had 424 at-bats, 60 runs scored, 119 hits, 19 doubles, no triples, 32 homers, 82 RBI and batted .281.

But the Pirates won the NL East Division championship, and Stargell, affectionately nicknamed "Pops," was their inspirational leader and their key man down the stretch when they held off the Montreal Expos. St. Louis finished third, 12 games behind Pittsburgh.

Not coincidentally, the four writers who failed to recognize Stargell on their ballots - Mike Littwin of the Los Angeles Times, Tim Tucker of the Atlanta Journal, Kenny Hand of the Houston Post and Harry Shattuck of the Houston Chronicle - all covered Western Division teams and did not see the Pirates' slugger play after Aug. 29. Littwin, Tucker and Hand all thought the Pirates had a more valuable player than Stargell. Littwin's choice was relief ace Kent Tekulve. Tucker's selection was center fielder Omar Moreno, and Hand preferred right fielder Dave Parker. Shattuck was not available for com-

"I took great care in writing my ballot and decided that Stargell driving in 82 runs while batting fourth for that team would not put him in the top 10," said Littwin. "I thought Tekulve was the most valuable player on the Pirates because they came around when he came around.

"I think without Moreno, the Pirates never would have won their division," explained Tucker. "And if you think Moreno is the most valuable player, then you can't vote for Stargell for most valuable player.'

"In my opinion, Parker was the Pirates' most valuable player," said Hand, who said that he was visibly miffed that his name was publicly revealed. "He had better stats (statistics than Stargell)." Hand admitted, however, that statis

A disappointed crowd of 4,200 booed after referee Bobby Ferarra stopped the lackluster bout Tuesday night at 44 seconds of the sixth-round. Although the 6-9, 248-pound Jones completely dominated his smaller opponent, cut Muhammad's eye and won his second fight without a loss, most ringside observers were unimpressed.

I think you're expecting too much of me," the former all-pro defensive end for the Dallas Cowboys told reporters in his dressing room. His manager, Dave Wolf, added, "Everybody is coming in and asking,

What's wrong?' When you win, people should ask you 'What's right?' Jones, 28, won at least four of the first five rounds and decked Muhammad from an awkward peak-a-boo crouch. When Muhammad tried to bore in, Jones merely wrapped his arms around the smaller man's shoulders and held him in a vice-like bear-hug.

"Muhammad hit me with some good body shots but he never hurt me,"

He scored mostly with left jabs, but missed the great majority of his punches. Nonetheless, by the end of the fight Muhammad was badly bruised and his trunks were splattered with blood. He cut Muhammad's left eye in the fifth round. Jones said he opened the

THE BOSS' CURIOSITY is aroused. He bellows for "Facts! Statistics! That's what I want. How old is Chupsky and what's his physical condition?"

"He'll be 35 one week after opening day," the GM answers. "And they call him Sore Arm' because he has a touch of arthritis in his left hand but, hell, that's his

"He's a ten-year veteran and finished sixth in Rookie of the Year balloting back in 1970. That's the highlight of his career. He's never hit more than .247 or driven in 30 runs but it could be worse. He could've hit .246 and driven in 29."

"Logical. Very logical, indeed," says the Boss, looking unconvinced. "Tell me more about this man, Skipper.'

"Well, Boss," the Skipper replies, not sure where to begin. "Sore Arm's got a couple a three years left. He don't run real well, but he can still score from third on a ball hit to deep center field. His throwing arm looks a little wild, sometimes, like when he gets the ball to first base on one or two bounces. But it ain't really wild, just old and weak. And sore.

"Personality. Let's talk personality," the Boss announces. "Is Mr. Chupsky popu-

"Impressively so," says the GM. "He's the second baseman in the Baseball Fever commercial who misjudges a pop fly and has it hit him on top of the head. The fans cheer wherever he goes."

With the vote so divided - eight players received at least one first-place vote and a total of 28 players were nominated - many questions arise, including: Should there be voting for only first place instead of spreading the balloting out to the top 10?; How much weight should be applied to statistics and how much to other factors?; Should there be a most valuable player for the East Division and another for the West in each

Also, since this was the first time in the 49-year history of the prestigious award that the voting ended in a tie for first, how do you split up the honor?

What are we going to do, break it in half?" asked the happy Stargell, who had finished a close second in the voting to both Joe Torre in 1971 and to Pete Rose in 1973. Kidding aside, the hero of the Pirates' NL playoff and World Series triumphs said he did not think he would be named MVP this time in the balloting based on regular-season perform-

"I thought it would go to the guys who played very day,' confessed Stargell, the captain of the Pirates and considered a sentimental choice by some observers this year. "I'm happy for myself and I am happy for Hernandez. . . I know what kind of a player he is."

Asked about the four writers who overlooked him, Stargell said politely, "I don't want to get into the negative side

"I'm glad we could share it," said the slick-fielding Hernandez. "I figured the sentiment was with Willie and he's deserving. I thought I'd finish second or third. I felt the year I had was deserving of an MVP, but Willie had a great year too, and he's the leader of that ballclub.

'The fact that it's a tie makes it all the better, because Willie's a great man and it's an honor just for me to have my name next to his."

Pardee Began Planning For 'Pokes In Summer

gon Redskins have been preparing for Sunday's game against the Dallas Cowboys since last summer, although coach Jack Pardee prefers to think of it as just getting ready.

'A lot of things they do, other teams do," said Pardee. "Along the line, we know, for example, that the Cowboys will be using two tight ends. So, in the off-season, we start preparing for two

'The flex defense is standard terminology in all our playbooks. We know Dallas has the flex. We don't know who else might use it, but it's something we've got to be ready for throughout the year. It's just part of our overall off-season planning.

There's nothing like Dallas Week in Washington because of the rivalry between the Cowboys," now leading the NFC East, and the Redskins who are tied for second in the division with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Asked how good are the Redskins' chances against the Cowboys, Pardee said, "As good as you need. If we play them the way we played them in the first game last year (a 9-5 Redskins' victory); if we play as hard as we can, sure we can beat them.

Pardee, who admits a deep-seated dislike for the Cowboys from his early childhood, also predicted: "We're going to beat Dallas.

"I like our matchups against them and I like playing in RFK Stadium against them. Our record at home against the Cowboys is pretty good."

Pardee not only recalls his days before Washington when he was playing for Los Angeles and still living in Texas and when he was an assistant coach at Texas A&M, he remembers the comments of the Cowboys a year ago when several team members referred to them as "turkey." "This is one of the easiest coaching weeks in the year," he said. "All you've got to do is put the film on the machine You know the players are going to get ready for the Cowboys.' Pardee, who said he started thinking about Sunday's rivals immediately after Washington's 30-28 victory over St. Louis last weekend, said simply, "They've got what we want. "When you're facing the perennial division champion, a team that plays in the Super Bowl and is our main compe-

AUSTIN (AP) - Houston repeatedly tested Texas defensive back Derrick Hatchett, and Hatchett — after an early failure — passed with high grades.

'Derrick Hatchett had a super game,' said Texas coach Fred Akers. After Delrick Brown hit a 51-yard pass to Lonnell Phea, who made an overthe-head catch against Hatchett, the senior Texas cornerback intercepted two passes and knocked down three others. He also had three unassisted tackles, and his performance earned him the Associated Press' designation as defensive player-of-the-week in Southwest Conference football.

Sophomore quarterback Donnie Little of Texas, who scored twice in the Longhorns' 21-13 victory over Houston, was selected as the SWC's outstanding

Akers was asked if Hatchett had lost the ball in the lights of the Astrodome on Phea's catch, and he replied, "It was not a case of losing the ball, it was a case of the receiver finding it - it was a circus catch." Most passers have shied away from Hatchett's side of the field this season, but Brown repeatedly threw in that direction.

Maybe because they hit that long one on him they thought Derrick might be rattled," said Akers. "They kept coming back and testing him. Of the 11 interceptions this year by the Texas defense, Hatchett has picked off six. The individual school record of seven interceptions for a single season was set in 1940. Texas has three more regular season games to play. Although Hatchett is in the same defensive secondary with all-America Johnnie Johnson, Akers said, "He's playing as well as any defensive back in

A-Cooper Remains No. 1

By The Associated Press

While a classic struggle between Spring Klein and Conroe occupied center stage in Class AAAA last week, Abilene Cooper methodically kayoed another opponent to retain its season-long No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press

Cooper, which defeated Midland 35-0, joined Kerrville Tivy in Class AAA.Childress in AA and China Spring in A in holding onto their top billings going into the final week of the regular season.

Conroe and Klein, both unbeaten powers in District 16-AAAA, fought to a 14-14 tie with Klein getting credit for the victory with two more first downs. Conroe, ranked No. 3 last week, dropped to seventh and Klein jumped from seventh to fifth. Both have 8-0-1 records. Lubbock Monterey, idle last week, held the tenth spot in the ratings.

There were only two losses among the 50 ranked teams and both occurred in Class AA where No. 6 Hays Consolidated was upset by Boerne 24-14 and No. 8 Kenedy lost to No. 5 Hallettsville 21-0. Both losers dropped out of the top 10 and were replaced by Refugio and Van, both with 9-0 records.

Haskell dropped from the No. 2 to No. 6 in Class A after a 21-21 tie with Quanah. Pettus took over sole possession of the No. 10 spot following a 40-0 victory over Charlotte. Wolfe City defeated Whitewright 7-6 but still dropped Bryan, which has won eight straight games going into Friday's showdown against No. 3 Temple, narrowly missed the top 10 in AAAA for the second straight week, trailing Lubbock Monterey 17-14 in points.

There were no upsets among the Class AAA ranks last week and all teams held their positions from a week ago. That left Paris on top, Lubbock Estacado sixth and San Angelo Lake View eighth.

New Deal with 18 points, Rotan with 10 and Glen Rose with eight points were other teams receiving votes in Class A.

Holtz Eyes Frosh Cornerbacks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) - With regular cornerbacks Trent Bryant and Hugh Jernigan injured, coach Lou Holtz says the Razorbacks may have to start two freshmen at those positions against Texas A&M Saturday.

Holtz said freshmen Ronald Matheny and walk-on Kim Dameron would open at the corners in the event Bryant and Jernigan could not play. Bryant suffered a bruised thigh and Jernigan aggravated a shoulder injury in the 29-20

Overall, it was a good day," Holtz said after practice Tuesday, "I think the players realize how important this game is. Texas A&M is playing as well as anybody in the conference right now. The offense will have to play an excellent game because we have so many out on defense."

Defensive tackle Jim Elliott pulled a groin muscle in practice Tuesday but it was not considered serious. Linebacker Mike Massey is doubtful for the A& M game because of an injured knee. Sophomore Teddy Morris was elevated to tus ahead of Massey and is expected to start Saturda Running back Gary Anderson also missed the Tuesday workout with a muscle spasm in his neck. He should return to practice later in the week.

Ex-Razorbacks Lead AIA Win

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - Former Arkansas standouts Steve Schall and Marvin Delph combined for 36 points Tuesday night to spark undefeated Athletes in Action to a 91-73 exhibition basketball victory over the University of Schall, a 7-foot-0 center, dumped in 21 points and Delph, a silky smooth 6-4 guard, added 15 points as Athletes in Action captured its eighth straight game. Forward Dan Frost chipped in with 12 points and guard Kevin Heenan came off the bench to pop in 14 points in support of Schall and Delph.

Guard Kenny Page led New Mexico with 21 points, while center Larry Belin had 18. They were the only Lobos in double figures.

The contest played before 15,422 fans at University of New Mexico Arena was the first outing for New Mexico. The Lobos will officially open their season Dec. 1 at Colorado.

Poles Overwhelm Cincinnati

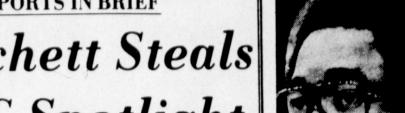

CINCINNATI (AP) — Basketball coach Ed Badger thanked the Polish National Basketball team for taking his University of Cincinnati team to school. The Poles overwhelmed Cincinnati in an exhibition game Tuesday night 77-63.

Paced by Mieczslaw Mlynarski and Eugeniusz Kijewski with 24 points each, the Polish team rushed to a 14-point lead 38-24 at the half and led throughout. It was their second victory against four defeats on a 12-game collegiate tour in the United States. Eddie Lee and David Duarte led Cincinnati with 10 points each.

When you shoot 27 percent you can't beat a girls team," said Badger. Our freshmen played like freshmen. And some of our seniors played like freshmen. Their height didn't bother us as much as their savvy. I think they took a couple of our guys to school," said Badger, whose opening game is two

Asked if there was anything good to be said about his team's performance, Badger said: "Yes. We broke in our uniforms. That was good." Texas Tech will host the Poles in Lubbock Coliseum Thursday night

Sends Coach To Hospital

CHICAGO (AP) - Six members of the Kennedy-King College wrestling team have been charged with aggravated batter as a result of a brawl that left the school's basketball coach seriously injured, police said.

The six were arrested Tuesday night as Coach Dan Davis lay in fair condition in Northwestern Memorial Hospital with what a hospital spokesman said was mild concussion and partial paralysis.

The six were charged early today with aggravated batter.

Chicago police investigator Tom Ptak said Davis, 32, is paralyzed now and that doctors believe it will be two weeks be fore it is known if the paralysis is onl

"He has extremely little control of anything. He's considered a paraplegic now," Ptak said. "His four limbs are practically useless. There's trauma to his

Ptak said the six wrestlers arrested were identified by Davis as having participated in Monday's beating and kicking attack. Davis did not identify the wrestling coach, Al Turner, as one of the men who assaulted him. Four other wrestlers were questioned and three more were being sought by police, Ptak

He said the fight stemmed from an argument between Davis and Turner about whose team had the right to use the gym at that time. The wrestlers already were in the gym, while the basketball players were dressing in the locker room, authorities said.

Ptak gave this account of the scuffle at the South Side school:

The two coaches began pushing each other and wrestlers came to Turner's aid. Davis tried to grab some of them, apparently in self-defense, and several began punching him.

One of the wrestlers then grabbed Davis by the ankles, causing him to fall and strike his head on the gym floor. "He never did get up after that," said

Basketball players then came into the gym and broke up the fight, but not before Davis was kicked while on the floor. Turner and the wrestlers then left and basketball players notified school security personnel, who got in touch with the Fire Department.

Ptak said Ewen Akin, the college president, told police the basketball team, not the wrestlers, had the right to the gym at the time of the fight.

The wrestling team has access to a small gym," said Ptak. "But the large gym is solely for the use of the basketball players. Davis was right and Turner was wrong."

Ptak said Turner and three wrestlers were picked up at the school Tuesday, while the others were found at home.

Turner told police that after the incident "he waited for police and stuck around for an hour and said they didn't come." Ptak said. He added that Turner didn't think Davis had been injured seri-

Police Lt. Joseph Curtin said Turner and the wrestlers did not report the incident, which began about 11 a.m.

Frank Michalek, the college's athletic director, said that before the altercation the wrestlers were playing basketball in practice for a fund-raising game with football players.

LCHS GIRLS WIN

The Lubbock Christian High School girl basketballers defeated Southland 37-31 here Tuesday night. The Eagles trailed 26-18 entering the fourth quarter but came back. Freshman Kristy Logan scored 8 points in the final period and Emily Smith had four straight free throws to lead the comeback coach Rex Dockery was impressed with the performance of senior inside linebacker Jeff Copeland during Saturday's 3-3 stalemate with Texas Christian.

"I'd have to say that it was the best game Jeff has played since he's been at Tech," Dockery admitted. "He was everywhere, always around the football."

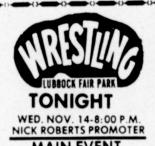

Now Tech's defense is a pretty sound and stingy bunch of hombres, but there are no real super stars in the unit. There are just 11 or 12 guys who play hard and complement each other very well.

But during each of the previous eight contests the Red Raiders have been played, one of those defenders - be it Johnny Quinney, Tate Randle, Lewis Washington, Gabe Rivera, Willie Stephens or someone else - has stood out from his teammates. And Saturday was

Florida State Tilt To Precede Tech-UT

NEW YORK (AP) - The dates of the Florida State-Florida and Georgia-Jeorgia Tech football games have been changed so they can be televised by ABC on Thanksgiving weekend.

The Florida State-Florida game at Gainesville was moved from Saturday, Nov. 24, to Friday, Nov. 23. The kickoff will be at 11:07 a.m., CST, and the nationally televised contest will be followed by Texas Tech at Houston, also on national TV The kickoff time for Georgia-Georgia Tech in Atlanta on Saturday, Nov. 24, will be either 11:50 a.m., CST, or 3:07 p.m. The game originally was scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 1. The earlier time would make it a regional game while a late kickoff would mean national or seminational exposure. The game will be telecast regardless of the outcome of Georgia's game with Auburn this Saturday. A Georgia victory would send the Bulldogs to the Sugar Bowl. The starting time will be announced on Sunday.

Dawkins Shatters Glass; Kings Shatter 76ers

It was a night - and a sight - to re-"I think this is Darryl's lifelong dream - to shatter a backboard," said Philadelphia guard Doug Collins. That's exactly what Darryl Dawkins, the muscular, 6-foot-11, 258-pound, 22-year-old who plays center for the 76ers, did in Kansas City Tuesday night. And he did it in typical Dawkins fashion — spectacular. It came straight from the Gus Johnson school of backboardbreaking. It happened early in the third quarter with Kansas City leading 49-45. Dawkins took a lob pass from Maurice Cheeks and turned to the basket, having beaten his man, Kings center Sam Lacey. The only other Kansas City player nearby, forward Bill Robinzine, decided to duck for safety. It was a good idea. Dawkins went up for one of those high-percentage shots he refers to as 'Go-Rilla Dunks." If you have to ask why he calls them that, you've never seen him throw it down. But even Dawkins had never seen what happened next.

As he dunked the ball, his hands made contact with the iron rim of the basket. Suddenly the fiberglass backboard shattered into hundreds of tiny pieces and the whole thing crashed to the hardwood floor.

"His arms were inside the rim. The backboard first exploded, then it just dropped." said referee Bill Oakes. "It was a little scary. This is the first time I've ever seen anything like it in 25 years of playing and officiating.

The shattered glass showered both Dawkins and Robinzine. Dawkins was unhurt while Robinzine was cut on the

Eighth-Grade Title Contest Scheduled

Atkins and Matthews will meet for the eighth grade city championship in football at 4 p.m. Thursday at Chapman

Atkins is 7-0 overall, while Matthews posts a 4-2-2 mark. Atkins averaged 25 points per game during the season, while allowing opponents an average of Dawkins' massive dunk bent the support pole that holds up the basket and backboard, and the pole broke while workers tried to attach a new backboard. The game was delayed one hour, 13 minutes while a whole new support apparatus was installed.

Despite Dawkins' colossal basket, the Kansas City Kings won the game 110-103, snapping a six-game losing streak. Phil Ford led the way with 34 points and teserve guard Marlon Redmond scored 19 as the Kings built a 16-point first-half lead and then held on to win.

In other National Basketball Association games, the San Antonio Spurs edged the Golden State Warriors 131-127 in overtime, the Houston Rockets trimmed the Chicago Bulls 128-127, Los Angeles routed the San Diego Clippers 137-91. the Milwaukee Bucks beat Portland 101-92, the Washington Bullets defeated the New York Knicks 111-107, Denver trimmed the Cleveland Cavaliers 116-110 and the New Jersey Nets topped Atlanta

After bringing the board down, Dawkins slapped palms with teammates and soaked up a standing ovation from the near-capacity crowd of 9,180.

"Once Darryl got back to the locker room he had to take a shower to get all of the glass out," said Collins. "He had it in his hair, his eyebrows and he had to make certain it didn't get in his eyes.

"It was really kind of scary. Newsmen expecting some of Dawkins' usual post-game poetry about the incident were disappointed.

"I have nothing to say," said the usually loquacious Dawkins. "We lost. We didn't win, so breaking the rim didn't mean a thing. I'm not trying to be cocky, I have nothing to say.

Spurs 131, Warriors 127 George Gervin, the NBA scoring champion the last two years, scored 47 "I bring my camera along to break" points for the Spurs, including six in overtime. His runningmate at guard, James Silas, added 21 points and made two key plays at the end of the five-min-

Silas put San Antonio ahead for good with a 15-foot turn-around jumper with 38 seconds remaining, then fed Billy Paultz for an easy layup with nine seconds remaining to ice the game.

Rockets 128, Bulls 127 Moses Malone capped a brilliant 45point, 22-rebound effort by sinking two free throws with no time remaining to carry Houston over Chicago. Malone, the NBA's leading rebounder last season, grabbed a missed shot by Chicago rookie David Greenwood with 11 seconds left. Greenwood then fouled Malone as the Houston center drove for the basket and Malone made both free throws for the victory.

Lakers 137, Clippers 91

Rookie Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 22 points and was one of eight Los Angeles players to score in double figures as the Lakers hit 67.4 percent of their field goal attempts. All five Laker starters sat out the final period of the game, in which Los Angeles outrebounded San Dieo 53-38.

Bucks 101, Blazers 92

Milwaukee raised its record to 13-3, best in the NBA, by beating the Blazers at Portland behind Marques Johnson's 34 points. The Bucks led led 56-32 at intermission and were never in danger.

Bullets 111, Knicks 107 Phil Chenier, struggling to recover from a back injury which has limited his playing time since the 1976-77 season, scored 22 points to lead the Bullets to their first road win following five losses.

Nuggets 116, Cavaliers 110

George McGinnis, held to just two points in his previous start, scored 18 points including two big baskets midway through the fourth quarter for Denver, which has won its last five home games.

Nets 101, Hawks 82 Rookie Calvin Natt scored a careerhigh 33 points as New Jersey brought an end to Atlanta's six-game winning streak. The Nets held the Hawks to just 16 points in the final period and pulled Arizona State: Growing Too Big Too Fast?

University's football controversy may be a case of growing too big too fast under the Midas touch of athletic director Fred Miller and the Sun Angel Foundation, observers say.

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - Arizona State the aid wasn't being suspended, it was being deferred until the foundation could determine what effect Kush's ouster had on fund-raising.

Nonetheless, said Karl Wochner, president of the Arizona State Alumni Association, the foundation's action may very well reflet a serous problem which has been growing right under our feet for some time. . . the tail may be wagging the dog, financially and other-

House Majority Leader Burton Barr, R-Phoenix, said things were growing at a proper rate in 1975 when the Sun Devils wound up ranked No. 2 nationally.

"Then things started getting accelerated," Barr said. "The whole thing went too fast. The Regents and everybody down from there wanted to go to the Pac-10 and to win more championships. That meant more and more pressure for with Tampa Bay.

'Anytime you're driving that hard to be No. 1, you'd better watch out," Barr added. "Some people are just under too much pressure.

But Miller said that "if someone is criticizing us for being too successful, we accept the criticism.

'Athletics is one of the few areas capable of getting public support for a university," Miller said. "We're the glue that holds various public groups together. Athletics has that kind of charisma."

The leading edge of the controversy emerged when a former Arizona State punter, Kevin Rutledge, sued Kush, the university and others on grounds that the coach had struck him and that mental and physical harassment by Kush and others had driven him into giving up his football scholarship and quitting the Kush denied the charges. Then, on Oct. 13, Kush called a news conference to say he had been fired by Miller because Miller didn't believe his denial. Miller, at his news conference later in the day, said he had suspended Kush because Kush had attempted a cover-up.

Within three weeks, the NCAA was investigating the whole football program, the state was looking into criminal allegations that ticket sales and money had been mishandled, the Pacific-10 Conference was examining the question of eligiility of eight ASU players, and Kush had filed his own suit against Miller and others, seeking $40 million on grounds he had been denied due proc-

A number of players, the school's president, Arizona's attorney general and various legislators also had been drawn into the situation - as had dragstrip promoter Rick Lynch, the man Kush contended had engineered his ous-

John Wadas, associate athletic director who, as head of business affairs for the department, holds the purse strings, saw the loss of Kush mostly in terms of losing a super salesmen - with other salesmen available.

Internal analysis, Wadas said, would show a situation where, sooner or later, Kush would be out in any case.

"We built kind of a monster," Wadas said. "The public and the university, and maybe even Fred, overpromoted an individual. It sold a lot of tickets. But when that individual leaves, you create a

The Arizona Star, Tucson's morning newspaper, said in analysing how it all came about, "Miller recognized the Phoenix area of the early 1970s as a mother lode and helped create his own gold rush. He put a tap into the big money circulating in town, exploited the area's well-developed football mania and figured out ways to spend the take."

Arriving in 1971, the Star said, Miller persuaded car dealers to loan cars free to head coaches and assistant football coaches. He also added 122 seats to the stadium, which then seated about 50,000, bringing in an additional $49,810 in revenue. Soon the stadium was growing to a capacity of 70,000 at a cost of about $10 million for the addition.

And today, season ticket sales have swelled to 56,000 and attendance to an average of above 67,000.

Football ticket sales are expected to total about $3.3 million this year, plus nearly another $1 million from the Sun Foundation's purchase of season tickets and subsequent resale wih an additional membership fee, the Star said.

With department revenue expected to surpass $4.7 million because of the football program's two recent television appearances, football itself accounts for about 86 percent of the total, the Star

The Sun Angels had pledged $1.2 million for construction of a golf course plus $800,000 to help enlarge the football stadium to 86,000. Four years ago it borrowed $4.2 million for the earlier enlargement - and hopes to have that repaid before next fall's football season.

Tucked away in the Legna Foundation, named by reversing the spelling of angel, is an amount which one of the foundation's officers, Phoenix First National Bank President Ed Carson, says is not far from $80,000.

Legna Foundation's stated purpose is to provide deferred compensation for Kush, who is listed as its president. Kush is its sole employee, Carson said, and his job "is to promote sports in Arizona and at ASU.

Other officers of the organization founded in 1973, when Kush was considering a pro football coaching position, are Gene Felker, executive secretary of the SunAngel Foudation, and Keith Turley, Arizona Public Service Co. board Overall, "it's a big, big business," Barr said, "and everybody's used to achieve it and they work for glory. What glory? For whom?

Miller said that "people will say I'm waving the flag, but we are the Qlympics. College football pays the bill. That sport brings in the money that supports all the others so we can compete in the

Barr said the decision was made long ago that Arizona State would become a major power in football "and every other sport but not in academics... and utilized the community's fund-raising abid ty to do it.'

Wadas contended "the rest of the university isn't promoting what it has. They should be using our visibility and bringing out the academics. When we're on television, they should have some good academic clips for halftime. "This is totally out of their realm," Wadas added. "They don't understand the business aspect. They're not familiar with big dollars. They're always fighting and scraching to get a textbook. Meanwhile, the Sun Angels seem to be increasing under a cloud.

"They've gotten away from us," said Miller's chief liaison with the foundation, associate athletic director Pat Kuehner. "It's kind of reached a point where they consider themselves a separate entity. Without ASU athletics, there would be no Sun Angel Foundation.'

Miller called the foundation's independence "a problem we've got to

WATCHFUL - Although Billy Sims is shown here watching the action on the field, the Heisman Trophy winner admits he's not much of a football fan and doesn't shirt, which looked for all the world like a mechanic's grease rag, hung from his back pocket as Billy Sims mapped out a road from fame and fortune to a garage in Hooks, Texas.

"I've thought a lot about going back to Hooks and buying a garage," Billy Sims said. "I've always loved to work on cars. It just might be a good business to The life goals he outlined seemed remarkable easy to attain for a nationally known sports personality on the verge of signing what will undoubtedly be a lucrative contract with a professional foot-

'All the pro teams are in big cities," Sims said as he worried a ball of ankle tape with his foot. "I don't like big cities. But, whoever I sign with I don't have to live there. I won't live there. I'm going to live somewhere where I'm com-

"In fact, I've been thinking a lot about building a house back in Hooks." Sims adjusted his billed cap, with a Chevrolet insignia stitched to the front, and seated himself on a rough wooden bench in the football team dressing room at Oklahoma University.

In the football-conscious region where he was born, raised and - more importantly - played football, his name is a household word. His fame began in the tiny community of Hooks, where he proved to be a near superhuman high school running back.

While in Hooks he milked cows, worked in a filling station, lived with his Aunt Sadie and became the second most productive high school runner in Texas schoolboy history by rushing 7,738 yards and scoring 516 points during three years playing for the Hooks Hornets. He gained more than 100 yards in all 38 high school games he played in.

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer's frequent calls and visits convinced him to come to Oklahoma. At OU his career stalled for a time as injuries kept him out of the limelight.

However, the 25-year-old speedster suddenly got back on the track in 1978, when he amassed 1,762 yards, scored 20 touchdowns and set an NCAA record by averaging 7.6 yards per carry.

Then came the Heisman Trophy and a variety of other honors.

When the next Heisman winner is announced Dec. 3, following the Nov. 30 balloting, he could become only the second player in history to win two of the awards.

'You know, to tell you the truth I'll be glad when all this is over with," Sims confided. "It was always a dream of mine that I would be able to make something out of myself. It's not really the money, although I won't turn that "You know coming from a small town and all I didn't just want to bum around all my life. But I really don't want to be a football player all my life."

He doesn't anticipate a lengthy career, claiming he wants to be retired from professional football "by the time

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Tonight, CBS redeems itself for the wrongs it committed against Thomas Wolfe's "You Can't Go Home Again" last spring, which alone may have convinced some that commercial television is incapable of adapting a literary classic without slandering it.

You might remember "You Can't Go Home Again." CBS transmuted Wolfe's huge masterpiece into a steamy twohour love story about a drunken Southerner and a neurotic Jewish princess.

But tonight CBS airs "All Quiet on the Western Front." It is one of those rare and happy occasions when the peculiar imperatives of television don't leave heavy smudge prints all over the story; indeed, this version of Erich Maria Remarque's work is so artfully and faithfully constructed that the jaded may turn to their tube-mates and ask, "How did this happen?

I don't know, but it couldn't have

Production Hailed By Writer

Remarque's story tells of the Class of 1916, German schoolboys sent to the Western Front equipped with youthful bravado and the chauvinistic nonsense of their elders ("You are our iron youth," their jingoistic schoolmaster tells them upon graduation, "Iron youth become iron heroes.")

Illusions fade fast on the front. A veteran soldier, Katczinsky, takes the new recruits under his wing, unteaching them the military nicities they learned in camp and educating them on the matter of life and death on the front. Katczinsky is a fascinating, substantial character, a fellow who in mind's eye portraits looks like Ernest Borgnine. This production obliges, giving Borgnine his best role in years.

mer, the dreamer of the bunch who is transformed into a trench-hardened professional soldier unable to contemplate the fancies of his lost youth.

The most powerful scene in the movie comes when an enemy soldier jumps into Baumer's foxhole to escape crossfire. Baumer instinctively stabs the Frenchie, then endures the torment of his enemy's lingering death. Baumer's humanity surfaces again, moving him to ask of his enemy, "Forgive me, com-

Paul Monash adapted the novel for this "Hallmark Hall of Fame" production, and should be praised for his craftwork. The movie was filmed on location in Czechoslavakia, and the war - at the hellish front and in the calm meadow lands of the rear - is stunningly photo-

A CBS spokesman said shooting began last week at the bedraggled former CCC camp, now part of the Fort Indiantown Gap military reservation about 15 miles from Harrisburg.

"Playing for Time" recounts Miss Fenelon's experience at the infamous Birkenau death camp, where she escaped execution by playing in an allwoman orchestra. Miss Redgrave, who is English, has insisted that her support for the PLO does not make her anti-Semitic.

Security guards kept reporters, photographers and others from entering the filming location. "We're a closed set," and Let it Fall Into Place. The Precision Haircut.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for fourteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

pressed with her than ever before. She's a lovely lady, attractive, shapely and with a good mind of her own. How come she isn't married? - Cathy Taylor, Pittsburgh. A: Maybe because of the good mind you refer to. "I have no intention of marrying. It's a dreary prospect," Miss Bisset told the magazine, L'Officiel USA. Furthermore, she added,

"Right now, I'm living with Vic Dral (the French clothing manufacturer) and have been for the last five years." (Prior to that she lived with actor Michael Sarrazin.) "I like Vic a great deal, but the subject of marriage never comes up. I'm not against marriage for other people, but it wouldn't suit my mentality. I get bored too easily. Miss Bisset points out almost with casual candor that her parents, after 32 years of marriage, divorced two years ago. "My parents' marriage," she recalls, "was an example of marital hypocrisy. They weren't all that happy living together.

On aging (she's barely 34), the self-emancipated British-born beauty sagely says: "Of course I think about my later years. Growing old can be an enormous problem for a woman... There's an unfairness about it all as she deteriorates. Then again, there are some great looking women who get ugly and still remain terrific. They're prepared for the onset of old

"I don't want to ever be in the position where I have to marry a man just to have money... It's impossible not to worry continually," she told her interviewer. "I happen to be in a rough business where you can be squeezed dry like an orange and then tossed away. So it's important to make your money grow. I used to do dumb things with it like putting it in a bank where you get 5 percent interest or something like that. That means you're not making any money at all. Now I'm into real estate. NEW YORK (AP) - Wonders never cease. Such as this new play on Broadway. It actually has a happy ending. Not only that, it's very funny, very touching and very welcome.

'Romantic Comedy' is the show. By Bernard Slade, it co-stars Anthony Perkins and Mia Farrow. It concerns love three acts. Perkins plays an elegant, acerbic, successful playwright in need of a collaborator, his last one having fled to film after 11 years, "five smash hits, two nervous hits and one flop."

Miss Farrow essays a mousey, proper and spirited schoolmarm from Vermont

Naturally, they fall in love. But there are problems. When they first meet, not only is he nude, he is getting dressed to get married when she unexpectly shows up at his home.

their somewhat improbable professional teaming-up. For starters, he archly tells her: "You don't know how to construct a scene and your dialogue is stilted."

With his bride (Holly Palance) keeping a wary eye on her, and his warmly sardonic agent (Carole Cook) tending the wisecracks, they launch their first stage effort. It bombs.

(A great bit occurs here. Miss Farrow, having gotten accidentally drunk, talks of not realizing an important review was a pan. She proudly, loudly reads it to stunned well-wishers after the

The two later achieve success. But more problems occur. Eventually dissatisfied with his wife, Perkins wants to leave same. But she is pregnant. The marriage stays together, two kids result. The supporting players, to coin a cliche, are just great. So is Perkins. And Miss Farrow, making her Broadway debut, is amazingly good, going from vulnerable school marm to confident author with considerable skill and believeability.

Sure, plausibility isn't the play's strong suit. But if you can accept that, I suspect you'll find "Romantic Comedy" a wholly enjoyable, old-fashioned night of wit, warmth and fun.

Never mind that a number of the songs weren't performed with enough style. The songs had style. There were some genuinely golden moments. And the audience enjoyed everything.

Dick Cavett, in tuxedo, red patent leather boots Charley Pride gave him and a cowboy hat, sang "Don't Fence Me In," and then made a delightful tapdancing debut as the orchestra reprised the stune. Cavett explained his appearance, "So the program would not be an unrelieved succession of professionals who know what they're doing.

Elaine Stritch, who lives in London and hasn't been seen here since "Company" nine years ago, got a lot of applause though not from nostalgia. She sang "Brush Up Your Shakespeare" and "Why Don't We Try Staying Home?" with riveting simplicity. Gretchen Wyler

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - A Puerto Rican activist apparently hanged himself with a bed sheet at the Federal Correctional Institution, according to a prison official. Lots of groups have secret handshakes so when two members meet they can signal to one another that they belong to the same club. Musicians who play the popular music of the day often have a special handshake, and it's quickly picked up by their fans as well. Here are some you can try out if you'd like to have a handshake that's a special signal for you and your friends or your club.

JAZZY & BEZAZZY: You each put out your right hand, as if you were going to shake in the regular way, but instead you touch the backs of your hands together. Each person then turns his or her wrist so the hands are still touching but they pivot on the little finger until both palms meet. Bring the tips of your thumbs together. Keeping those thumb tips together, each person swings the fingers toward him or herself and then swivels the hand outward, circling until the plams are again touching.

Now you slide your hand back toward yourself saying, "make it," as you form it into a fist: wig-it saying "blow it;" and then put it in your pocket saying, "and stow it!

SLAPSIES: You must know this one! When two people greet one another, one holds his or her hands out palm up. The other one slaps both hands down on the other person's palms, then turns his or her palms up so the slapping can be returned. Yesterday's Brain Twister: Can you arrange eight 4s so that they total 176?

Answer: 44 plus 44 plus 44 plus

Today's Brain Twister: Take 20 toothpicks and make this pattern. Simple, right? Now, moving only seven toothpicks, can you form a pair of equal-size squares and another pair of equal-size squares. Not so simple, right? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club Column.)

Jazz Music Popular In Argentina

By The Associated Press

If an American tourist visits Buenos Aires, Argentina's exciting capital, he'll want to keep his ears as well as his eyes

For in that Paris-like South American city, with a population of around 9 million, tango is not the only kind of music to be heard in cabarets, nightclubs and theaters.

Some of the well-reputed Argentine musicians delight visitors with the very familiar sounds of jazz. It's an art form that Argentines have been worshipping for decades. And it's a tradition all by it-

A glance at local newspapers provides invaluable insight into the wheres and whens of jazz in Buenos Aires. Last year, the city featured more than 40 amateur and professional jazz groups regularly performing in about 50 different 'spots" during its hectic March through November musical season.

Buenos Aires' commercial and stateowned radio networks broadcast at least half a dozen regular jazz programs, while television stations periodically schedule jazz shows, mostly late at night, with local performers.

There are several very old fan clubs which keep a long chain of festivals and concerts swinging all over the city.

Cesar Parisi, an auctioneer whose passion for jazz runs back 25 years to his adolescence, currently leads one of these semi-professional organizations, Club de

This year, Club de Jazz will present a series of concerts to introduce lessknown jazzmen from all over the country to the capital's audience.

One competitor is Hot Club Argentino, now on the verge of its 35th anniversary, which has encouraged the development of traditional jazz groups. From their ranks have come many orchestras, such as Portena Jazz Band led by corne-

Another group which has performed outside the country is the New Orleans Jazz Band, which performed for almost 20 years in its native Mendoza, a city which leans on the slopes of the Andes, 550 miles west of Buenos Aires.

A few years ago, the group played before Victor Shapiro, a former mayor of New Orleans, who was amazed at the never been in the United States. The band performed in 1977 at the Newport Jazz Festival in New York, receiving critical raves.

Some Argentine jazzmen, like Lalo Schifrin, Leandro "Gato" Barbieri and brothers Eddie and George del Barrio have moved to America. But many of their former colleagues have remained in Argentina, like Eddie del Barrio's former trumpeter Horacio Rosas, who feels that in Latin America he can play "just for the fun of it" and keep the same zestful amateur spirit he had when he began performing.

Critic Praises Off-Broadway Play

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) - The painter Amedeo Modigliani, whose portraits have long oval faces with long necks and noses, vividly comes to life in the off-Broadway Astor Place Theater production of "Modigliani.

A sense of reality envelops everything in the play, set in Paris in 1916, which opened this week.

Whatever has been said about the struggling life of artists, "Modigliani" still shocks. It starts with an argument between the expressionist painter Chaim Soutine and Maurice Utrillo that takes scruffy clothes and surroundings to a new low. Just as one is feeling uncomfortably unesthetic, Dennis McIntyre's play and Jeffrey De Munn's Modigliani become enthralling.

Modigliani's work is not selling and he has "painter's block." His agent interests an important dealer in looking at

Union Boss Heads Last Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) Retiring AFL-CIO President George Meany, 85, today presided over his final meeting of the Executive Council which runs the giant labor federation.

Meany was wheeled into the council room of the Sheraton Washington Hotel in a wheelchair by his son-in-law and aide, Ernest Lee. Next Monday, he will end 24 years as president of the council when a successor is elected.

The 13.6 million-member labor federation opens its 13th biennial convention Thursday

United Rubber Workers President Peter Bommarito quickly came over to greet the frail Meany as television and still photo cameras centered on the labor leader. Several other union presidents followed.

Meany had little to say before reporters were ushered out of the closed-door session. He waved at some friends and responded to expressions of good wish-

As Meany struck the gavel against a wooden block at 10 a.m. EST, Lane Kirkland, the federation's Secretary Treasurer and heir apparent to Meany, stood at his side.

Meany is expected to nominate Kirkland as his successor Monday.

In his first public speech in seven months, Meany again attacked President Carter' voluntary wage-price guidelines.

Meany who was incapacitated last spring in a golf cart accident, recalled that when Carter announced his voluntary wage guidelines, Meany predicted they would not work.

Now, 13 months later, everybody admits that they have not worked and that they will not work," he said.

Looking at the domestic scene, I am sorry to say that they are still shying away - the administration is still shying away - from the only fair way to control inflation and that's to control everything," Meany said.

'I don't see any sign of the oil companies suffering" to help control inflation, he said. "I don't see any sign of the banks suffering.

Woman Tells Of Threats By Doctor

BROWNSVILLE (AP) - Until Tuesday, Laurita Hensley had not seen her ex-husband, Dr. Archie Burkhalter, since he allegedly kidnapped her Oct. 24, 1978, from her South Padre Island condominium.

She nervously avoided looking at him as she began testifying Tuesday in Burkhalter's attempted capital murder trial. But she could not refrain from staring at the Pasadena physician after testifying he once threatened to kill her husband, John Hensley. Hensley was blinded when shot in the face Feb. 15 outside his condominium.

Burkhalter is charged with hiring two men to kill Hensley, who is a witness against the doctor in the alleged abduction. She said Burkhalter came to her

South Padre Island residence before she married Hensley. "At that time, he said he was going to kill John," testified Mrs. Hensley. The physician and his ex-wife were divorced in November of 1977 and she married Hensley Oct. 30, 1978.

Burkhalter had left and returned to her residence uninvited late one September night, she said.

"He started choking me," she said. "I've spent three years in jail for killing a man that I didn't kill," she quoted Burkhalter as saying. "The next time I'm going to jail, I'm going to have a

Court To Hear Roloff Appeal

AUSTIN (AP) - The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals reversed itself today and agreed to review an appeal by Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises, Inc., Which sought to overturn a May 1979 contempt judgment

The appeals court dismissed the appeal Oct. 17 but today granted a motion for a rehearing. Clerk Margie Love of the appeals court said the court had, in effect, reinstated the appeal and would schedule arguments at a later date. The state filed motion for contempt against Roloff in May, after Evangelist Lester Roloff had refused to allow the Texas Department of Human Resources to inspect his South Texas homes for wayward children.

A Travis County district court found Roloff had continued to operate the facilities without a license in contempt of a 1976 injunction against Roloff and awarded the state $22,850 in civil penal-

Students, Employees RemainHospitalized

HUGO, Okla. (AP) - Only 65 of the nearly 300 children and school employees stricken with vomiting, cramps and diarrhea after eating in a school cafeteria remained hospitalized today, officials

Most were expected to be sent home today. None was in critical condition. A bacteria apparently prompted the mass illness, medical authorities said. A press conference was scheduled for this afternoon by state Health Department officials at which they were expected to announce the exact cause of

Tibet Marked By Changes

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

LHASA, Tibet (AP) — When construction workers in coolie hats were building a tea house for tourists at the edge of the lotus pond where the Dalai Lama used to look for meaningful reflections. The water had been drained, but the handwriting was on the wall for his followers to see.

The Potala, his thousand-room winter palace taller than the dome of Christopher Wren's St. Paul's Cathedral, has been turned into a museum. The Jokka Kang Temple, the Vatican of the lamaist religion where his devoted acolytes used to burn a ton of yak butter a day to keep the votive lamps flickering, is open only a few hours a week to the mostly elderly faithful. The Drepung onastery, once the world's largest with 10,300 lamas, echoes hollowly now to the footsteps of only a few hundred lamas, all of them getting

The Dalai Lama, if he comes back to Tibet, will find lots of other changes have taken place under the Chinese communists since 1959. That's when he made his dramatic escape 20 years ago on foot and by yak-skin canoe to India across 3-mile high mountain passes and down wild, roaring rivers, wearing cheap spectacles and disguised as a begging monk.

The Chinese government says it would welcome the Dalai Lama back, like any other exile, either to visit or to stay, and five of his senior emissaries now are on an extended tour of the country to assess under what conditions he could make his return.

It's plain as the Himalayan peaks to even this short-time tourist in Tibet that the god-king, the 14th and most recent reincarnation of the Buddhist god of mercy, won't be coming back as any kind of leader, either spiritual or temporal. He won't find anyone around to carry his sedan chair, which once required 36 porters and now is among the exhibits on display at his summer palace. The lavishly furnished palace, which offers a peek at his phonograph and record collection serves as a guest house some of the time and a museum most of the time. All the Lamas, even the living Buddhas, the highest order of the shaven-headed priesthood, are off working in the communes.

And welcome as the Chinese officials claim he would be, the Dalai Lama will find a whole museum in downtown Lhasa, the capital, devoted to manacles, thumb screws, eye gougers and other alleged torture instruments of the feudal socety he ruled since his installation at the age of 4 in 1940.

The Dop-Dops, the powerful fraternity of lay monks who wore red armbands, blackened their faces with yak lamp soot and kept order with huge iton keys that served as a club, a missile and a sign of their authority, have vanished. They have been replaced by a People's Liberation Army garrison of an estimated 150,000 troops who now control the population of 1.7 million.

Only 24 when he fled, the Dalai Lama enjoyed immense power and popularity among the people. When he passed in procession, blessing his followers with a red tassle waved from the end of a rod, no one was allowed to stand or sit higher than he or view him from an upper window. Fishing was permitted only at the one spot in the river where he decreed. If his pet parrots, carried in cages in his procession, said anything, it was considered the word of god.

Dalai in Mongol means "vast as the ocean." Among his many other titles are Precious One, Universal Kindness, He Who Holds the Lightning, Precious Grand Sage, Boundless Light, Great Gem of Majesty, Gentle Glory.

He had been chosen in the hallowed, traditional way. When the 13th Dalai Lama died, a search was conducted throughbout the Lama-Buddhist areas of Tibet, India and China for a male child about the age of 2 with large ears, wide shoulders, up-curving eyebrows, the imprint of a conch shell in one of his palms and prominent moles or "Tiger skin spots" on his upper legs and trunk showing traces of the four-arm god of a previous incarnation. Such a child was found in a peasant's hut in the Chinese province of Chinghai, and he immediately passed the other tests and divinations. Shown four korlos — the 108-bead Tibetan rosary, he picked the one belonging to the 13th Dalai Lama and danced around the room with it. He also selected several drums the previous incarnation had used to summon his servants, and he picked the old one's gnarled wooden walking stick, ignoring others with ivory and silver heads. A warlord was paid a bribe of $120,000 to get the chosen child out of China and allow him to come to Tibet.

Although the Dalai Lama's power was as absolute as the Chinese propagandists keep reminding the visitor, others claim the Lamaist secret of popular rule was in lightly administering the strictest principles. Heinrich Harrer, an Austrian who spent nearly eight years in Tibet after fleeing from an internment camp in India toward the end of World War II, found the lamaist way of life easy going and tolerant. A thief would be flogged in the morning but forgiven and returned to the good graces of society by nightfall.

What wealth the people had was spent in building ornate, windmill driven prayer wheels, weaving enormous banners that took 50 men to carry at the great prayer festivals and gilding the tombs of past Dalai Lamas with a ton or more of gold.

Education Losing Importance

TOKYO (AP) — In postwar Japan a man's success — how prestigious a job he holds, how rich and beautiful a wife he marries — is directly tied to his "gakureki," or school career. Now, a government report suggests, that may be changing.

An Education Ministry study published recently shows the percentage of high-school graduates going on to universities or junior colleges, which had doubled in the past 12 years, dropped a full point to 37.4 this year.

The decline was the second in three years and coincided with a sharp increase in the number of young people deciding to attend vocational and special training schools rather than seek formal higher education, the report noted.

The findings are big news in this country, where education is given a cultural status not unlike that of class-conscious Britain. Ninety-four percent of Japanese youths go to high school, and there are more than 1.8 million students in the nation's 88 national and 360 private universities.

Anxiety over getting accepted by the desired college or passing entrance exams is often cited as a principal cause of suicide among Japanese youth.

And the competition for admission has spawned a specialized educational by-product — preparatory schools whose only function is to train students to pass the entrance exams.

Acceptance by government-run, 18,-000-student Tokyo University, the nation's most esteemed, means an almost certain ride up the job and social status ladder. There are also many private, profit-making schools like Nihon University, with 100,000 students, that cater to the diploma needs of the intellectual middle class.

However, the idea that a university degree is the only path to the good life has led to bloated enrollments and diploma mills that the Asahi Shimbun, a leading daily newspaper, said were "for students who in no way deserve the name of university graduate."

No one is predicting that Japan's "gakureki" society will crumble. The Japanese lifetime-employment system — in which employees generally stay with the same company all their working lives — remains intact. And it is still only the university grad, preferably from a "good" school, who qualifies for the steady climb to executive status.

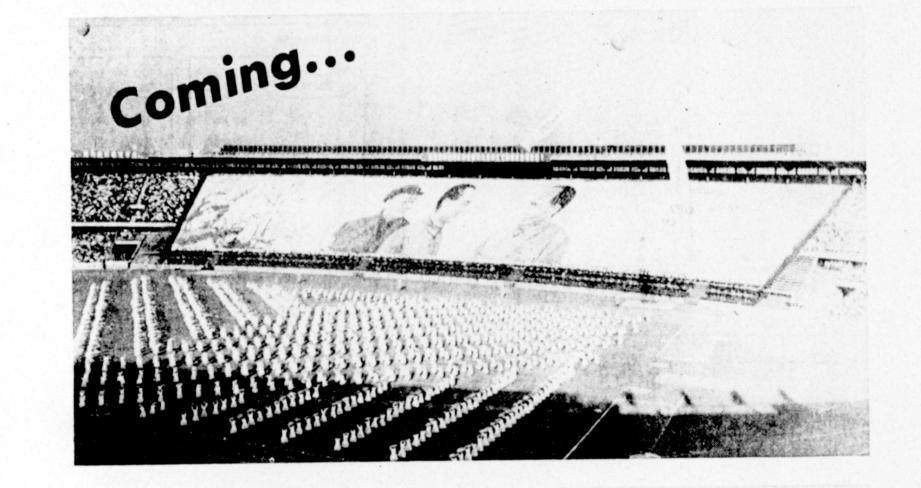

However, the desire for such careers has produced a glut of would-be executives. Takashi Minoura. a researcher for the Japan Recruit Center, an employment agency, said a survey of graduates who had joined companies last spring found more than half hoping to reach the executive suite some day, but only 13 percent believing they had any real chance to get there.

Government figures suggest more Japanese young people are willing to settle for something less than the name on the door and a key to the executive "benjo," opting instead for training in such pursuits as computer programming, accounting and technical skills of other hinds.

In the past three years, the percentage of high-school graduates entering such schools has risen from 14.6 to 19.5. At the same time, figures show 53 percent of Tokyo's high-school graduates going on to college, a drop from almost 60 percent three years ago.

The Education Ministry says faith in college degrees remains highest in rural areas, partly, it theorizes, because most vocational schools are in the cities.

While there's a big difference in the kind of status a job provides, the university graduate with a nameplate on his desk isn't likely to enjoy a vast edge in pay over his less successful friends. Labor Ministry figures show a high-school graduate in 1970 could count on earning 79.7 percent of a university graduate's lifetime income. By 1977 the figure had risen to 85.6 percent.

Iranians' Visas To Be Checked

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY

Avalanche-Journal Staff immigration representative visited the Texas Tech University campus Tuesday to discuss with university officials the mandate that all Iranian students report to immigration authorities within 30 days or face possible deporta-

The crackdown on student visas, initiated by President Carter, has netted at least five violators in the state, but a Tech spokesman said all 70 Iranians at Tech are in good academic standing.

Iranian students in the Lubbock area must report to the U.S. Border Patrol office before Dec. 14, according to orders issued Tuesday by U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti.

Hugh Rushton, a spokesman for the area Border Patrol office in Marfa, said the majority of student visa violations are because, "They drop out (of school) for work." He explained that students who obtain permission from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service may work 20 hours per week, but those working more are in violation of their student visas.

Academic standing of Iranian students also will be checked, Rushton said. Undergraduates must be enrolled for at least 12 hours of course work and graduate students for 9 hours, unless they are working on their thesis, in which case they may take fewer hours.

Although deportation proceedings have been initiated against four persons on student visas at Sul Ross State University in Alpine, Rushton said, "We found most of the Iranian students in Alpine to be very high caliber."

In an announcement issued at noon Tuesday. Civiletti said Iranian students must provide proof of address, proof of enrollment in school including a receipt for tuition and fees or a waiver of fee payment for the current semester, and a letter from school authorities that shows the number of hours of course enroll-

200 Attend Texas Tech Forum To Discuss Situation In Iran

By RAYNIE HARDESTY Avalanche-Journal Staff

There was disagreement among a crowd of an estimated 200 persons discussing the Iranian situation Tuesday at Texas Tech University's Forum over how the U.S. government should react, but there was a consensus that the issue has stirred Americans' interest in international politics.

We as Americans are very disinterested in international politics and foreign policy," said forum speaker Dr. Raffi Turian. "It's only during a crisis or when American lives are in danger or when our oil is cut off (that we are inter-

Turian stressed, "I have no advice for the president. He's privy to a lot more information than we." But he also said, "America is essentially impotent despite the fact we are the most powerful nation in the world."

He said part of America's inability to deal with the situation stems from the fact that "Iranian authorities are not playing by any accepted form of rules."

Political scientist Dr. Metin Tamkoc, another speaker at the forum, said while he had no concrete evidence to support his claim, he believes the Soviet Union is responsible for creating tension in Iran and that they "created an atmosphere of hostility" between the U.S. and Iran.

Tamkoc said since World War II, the Soviet Union has had as its objective creating tension in Eastern countries and that "the latest victim is Iran." He said the country is "being used by leftist Marxists.

Imran Zali, a student from Pakistan interviewed after the forum, noted that Pakistani hostages are being held along with the U.S. hostages at the American Embassy in Iran and agreed with Tamkoc's theory of Soviet influence.

"Khomeini is a symptom of the disease that emanates from Moscow." Zali said, adding that the U.S. should take a hard line policy" towards Khomeini to stop "Soviet expansion." He said unless the U.S. takes a strong position now, The liberties of all freedom-loving peoples is at stake." He added that, "We (Pakistan) are afraid we are next in

10. Will the cutoff of Iranian oil supplies help the U.S. secure the freedom of the hostages?

An Iranian student interviewed after the forum, who declined to give his name, said he condemns the Khomeini government and that he will remain in the U.S. as a student as long as Khomeini is in power because, "I don't want to go home. There is no future there for me. There is no hope there for me."

He took no position on whether the U.S. should return the Shah, saying, 'That is up to the Americans.'

"I do not see any reason (for me) to go back to a terrorist government which violates international law in the name of the people," he said. "I give the Americans the right to show their reaction to radical (Iranian) students."

He said he believes Iranian students should be allowed to remain in the U.S. unless they violate student visas or become "active in politics," in which case, he said, "They should be deported."

INS Begins Checking Status Of Students

By United Press International

Iranian students, ordered to prove full-time status or face deportation, straggled into offices of university and immigration officials from Berkeley, Calif., to Buffalo, N.Y., on the first day of a monthlong reporting period.

The order by President Carter, in response to the takeover of the American embassy in Tehran, will be enforced by the Immigration and Naturalization Service "as rigorously as possible," an INS official said.

The INS last January compiled lists of 50,600 Iranian students enrolled in U.S. colleges and universities. To qualify as full-time students, they must be taking 12 credit hours. Some 100 immigration officers were assigned Tuesday in the New York metropolitan area alone to find the estimated 4,700 Iranians with student visas. District Director George Vician said he could not remember such an attempt to locate members of any one group by the

Of the 5,500 Iranian students in Texas, many of those contacted said the order would not weaken their support of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. But others feared deportation and growing anti-Iranian sentiment.

One Iranian student in Dallas, an opponent of the Khomeini regime, said his life would be endangered if he was deported to Iran.

"I am scared to report to INS because I might be deported," said the student, who would not identify himself.

Even if they deport everybody that doesn't solve anything," said Ali Jafarzadeh, a graduate engineering student at the University of Texas in Austin, where anti-Iran protests occurred last week.

'The problem is not the students here," he said. "I guess the true end of this situation is meeting the demands of the students back in Iran."

Several Americans Able To Flee U.S. Compound During Attack

LONGVIEW, Wash. (UPI) - A U.S. citizen who was able to flee Iran - with difficulty - since the U.S. Embassy there was overrun by Moslem students said he and at least eight other Americans escaped the U.S. compound during the takeover Nov. 4.

Kim King, 26, said in an interview published Tuesday in the Longview Daily News, that he was the only American able to leave Iran since the takeover and that he assumes the others who fled the compound that day. - including some Marines - may still be hiding somewhere in Tehran.

A State Department spokesman confirmed that King was in Iran at the time of the seizure and was able to leave since then "with some difficulty," but declined to comment further.

King, who is now staying in Lobout the taking of the hostages and he suggested that the takeover is not as serious at it appears.

"I think the whole episode has been blown out of proportion - most Iranians are good people," he said. He also feels that he himself, not the State Department, can "talk the students into the Ayatollah" Ruhollah Kohmeini.

King, who entered Iran six months ago and taught English there until he left, said he was at the embassy the day of the takeover because he had lost his

He said the U.S. Embassy was always crowded - "Every day 2,000 or 3,000 Iranians tried to get visas to try to come to the United States" - and Nov. 4 was no different, until police started clearing out the people seeking visas and the militant students began arriving. The unarmed students - up to 3,000 of them - milled around for a while and shouted slogans, then began to climb over the wall, breaking windows

At the time, King said, he was on the second floor of one of the many buildings in the U.S. compound with about 30 other people, including nine Americans. He said that at one point a student tried to break into his building but was pushed back by a Marine, but that was the only attempt on that building. 'No one else tried to break into our ngview with his parents, also said most building," he said, "but the power was Iranians are pro-American and unhappy cut off. "They wanted to put me in jail, but when I explained what I was doing in Iran and with the help of some good Iranian friends, they relented and gave me 14 days to leave the country. But I had to pay $800 for the visa and exit papers."

The next day King and two of his Iranian friends returned to the American embassy and tried to get back in to find out what was happening.

"The students wouldn't let us in and began shoving me," he said. "I started to get mad but my friends persuaded me While he had enough money to pay

On Nov. 9, five days after the embassy had been occupied, King was interviewed at the London Heathrow Airport by U.S. officials. King said he was asked where officiais learned for the first time that some Americans had escaped. King insisted that Iranian people generally do like Americans.

"They're sick about the embassy takeover, sick about what is happening to their country and about their sick leader," he said. Auto Dealers Get Incentives in stock.

DETROIT (AP) - General Motors Corp., faced with crowded car lots and reluctant buyers, is offering dealers incentives of $100 to $400 to push sales. A trade journal says auto inventories are at recessionary" levels.

GM said Tuesday it was offering the incentives to dealers who met sales quotas on certain left-over 1979 models. Never before has the nation's No. 1 carmaker done that a month into the new

The announcement was an omen of another disappointing sales report today. Chrysler Corp. announced its current $300-a-car retail rebates just before last month's report, which showed that U.S. car sales were at their lowest this year. The carmakers reported a 20 percent drop in sales in October, when they introduced their 1980 lines.

During the summer, the major manufacturers offered similar incentives to move stocks bloated by a sales collapse after the first cutoff of Iranian oil.

Inventories stood at a 66-days supply on Oct. 31, Ward's Automotive Reports a trade publication, said Tuesday. That is two days more than the companies and dealers had in the previous record end-of-October supply, in 1974 when a recession was starting. Ward's called the supply this time "recessionary.

GM's Robert D. Burger, vice president in charge of the marketing staff, said dealers could pass on the new incentives to retail customers as a means of increasing showroom traffic, which would "help generate a vigorous sales rate to both 1979 and 1980 models.'

Spokesman Edward S. Lechtzin said GM now had about 240,000 cars and 90,-000 light trucks and vans to which the rebates would apply, almost all of them.

Ward's put GM's stock of 1979 models at 341,000 cars on Oct. 31, twice what it was for the 1978 carryover, and about four-fifths of the company's inventory.

fore the fall harvest began. The ICC stepped in and ordered the Kansas City Terminal Railroad to temporarily provide service along Rock Island routes.

Among those opposing the application are several railroads, including the Santa Fe, which has a line running a similar course about 80 miles south of the Rock Island route.

There are 14 million bushels of grain storage along that 982-mile piece of railroad," said Langhorne, whose community is one of 78 along the line. "The service directed by the ICC is running three or four trains a week. That just doesn't handle it at all. That stretch runs right through the middle of the nation's breadbasket.

to four hospitals Tuesday. Most were listed in stable condition, but three patients at Crozer-Chester Medical Center were in serious condition with burns.

Officials of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA) sent more than 400 passengers to hospisaid the fire was under investigation and refused to comment, but witnesses said it started with a shower of sparks at the front of the 48-year-old trolley car.

Thick, hot smoke blacked out the inside of the car, as the passengers struggled to open jammed windows and doors to escape

"I could see the smoke spreading from the front to the back. It got pitch black," said Associated Press writer Ju-tion Nov. 3. dy Capar, a passenger in the car. "It was late in the evening none of the 13 had a lot of smoke - really hot.' After the passengers escaped, "Everposted bail. The 14th defendant did not

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - About 80 persons gathered at Kerr Park in downtown Oklahoma City Tuesday evening to sing, chant, listen and light candles at an anti-nuclear rally on the fifth anniversary of the death of Karen Silkwood.

Dr. Micho Kaku of City College of New York was the featured speaker at the two-hour rally, sponsored by the Silkwood Memorial Committee.

It featured a sing-a-long led by Holly Near, poetry readings and a candle-lighting ceremony in memory of Miss Silk-

Miss Silkwood, a lab technician at Kerr McGee's Cimarron plutonium plant, died five years ago Tuesday night in a car crash near Crescent that her union contends was not an accident. She reportedly was taking documents outlining alleged safety violations at the plant to a union official and a New York

Dr. Kaku told newsmen at a press conference at the Will Rogers World Airport Tuesday afternoon that Miss Silkwood's fight against the nuclear industry had become an example to other antinuclear protestors.

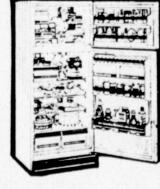

More nuclear physics professors are speaking out against nuclear power, Kaku said. Many are risking chances of losing tenure and chances of economic reprisals, he said.

"Official reports from Con Edison show 90 percent of the core at Three Mile Island melted down," Kaku said. "The only reason we didn't lose Pennsylvania was because of accidental steam cooling on the top nine feet of the core." he said.

Kaku said the Three Mile Island accident was not the first but the seventh partial meltdown in this country.
