Iran Plans Spy Action

Moslem students holding the U.S. Embassy released three of their American hostages today and then presented 10 others at a news conference prior to freeing them.

The students produced a group of four women hostages and six blacks at a news conference within the embassy compound just hours before their expected release.

The move came shortly after President Carter demanded that all 62 American captives held in the embassy for 16 days be freed.

Earlier today, three Americans — a woman secretary and two black Marine guards — were freed on orders of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and flown to Wiesbaden, West Germany, by way of Copenhagen. In West Germany they were taken to an Air Force hospital for a thorough medical examination and rest before resuming their homeward flight.

The second group of American hostages was escorted to a dais set up inside the embassy compound for the news conference. As they filed in, students played a revolutionary song hailing Khomeini as their leader on the loudspeakers in the area.

The blacks were the first to enter the news conference. There was a pause of about 70 seconds before the women began walking in.

As the two groups faced each other, it became apparent they had not seen each other during captivity.

The women ran toward the men and kissed them amid an emotionally charged atmosphere.

One spokesman for the students occupying the embassy said the four women and six black men due to be released would leave Tehran late tonight on a Swiss jetliner specifically ordered by the U.S. administration, and another spokesman said they would leave "within a few hours" after the end of the news conference.

One militant spokesman said the students have been studying files to determine who was involved in espionage, but said: "It is highly unlikely to find any evidence against them."

There were conflicting reports from some Foreign Ministry sources who said they expected the hostages to be turned over to the ministry before they leave Tehran.

The three released Americans, a young woman secretary and two black Marine sergeants, looking fit and well, flew to Copenhagen on a Scandinavian airliner and were immediately transferred to a U.S. military plane. They were flown to West Germany and whisked away for a medical checkup at a military hospital in Wiesbaden.

State Department officials in Frankfurt refused to say how long the three would remain, but in Washington officials said they were expected to stay at least two or three days for debriefings and tests.

The first hostages freed were Katherine Gross, 22, of Cambridge Springs, Pa., a secretary in the economics section of the embassy, and Sgts. William E. Quarles of Washington, D.C., and Ladell Maples, 23, of Earle, Ark.

The State Department said U.S. authorities in Germany would question them about the condition of the rest of the hostages. An official said those freed would be given "decompression time" to themselves during which reporters would be kept away from them.

The trio waved cheerfully to a crowd of reporters and photographers waiting at the Copenhagen airport, but U.S. Ambassador Warren D. Manshel rushed them into his limousine and drove them to the waiting U.S. Air Force DC-9. After boarding the military plane, they came back to the door to wave again to the reporters and photographers. But they shook their heads at questions shouted up to them.

Miss Gross was wearing tan slacks and a crisp white blouse. One Marine wore camouflage combat fatigues, and the other had on a black leather jacket and blue jeans.

The Air Force plane took off less than 20 minutes after the hostages arrived.

Miss Gross, Quarles and Maples were put on display at a news conference at

PLO REPORTS

Soviet Union Offers To Help Khomeini

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Palestinian guerrilla leader said today that the Soviet Union has assured Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini that it would not tolerate a U.S. military action against Iran.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko disclosed the assurance last week in Moscow to a visiting Palestine Liberation Organization delegation led by PLO chief Yasser Arafat, said Nimir Mohammed Saleh, a senior Arafat aide.

The United States has said repeatedly it is not considering military action to free the Americans held hostage since Nov. 4, when Iranian militants seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

"Gromyko told the PLO delegation last week that Khomeini has already been informed that the Soviet Union will not allow any American military action against Iran to pass," Saleh told a rally in Beirut.

He said the assurance was relayed to the PLO group during a discussion with Soviet officials of the embassy takeover by supporters of Khomeini demanding the extradition of deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, who is receiving treatment for cancer in a New York hospital.

Carter Says Trials Will Violate Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House statement today said Iran would commit a "further flagrant violation" of international law if it attempts to put U.S. diplomats now held hostage on trial for espionage.

The White House statement said such a spy trial would constitute an escalation of the two-week-old crisis over seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

But President Carter's aides were giving no indication what, if anything, they would do in response to such a trial.

The only things that have been ruled out are U.S. military action or giving in to Iran's demands to return the former shah.

Today's statement, issued through the office of press secretary Jody Powell, noted that Iran has threatened to try some of the diplomats who remain hostage.

"Such a step would be a further flagrant violation of elementary human rights, religious precepts and international law and practice," the statement said.

"Worldwide outrage at the detention of the hostages would be greatly heightened by any attempt to put these diplomatic personnel on trial."

So far, the administration has not made any public move to restrict the travel of Iranian diplomats in the United States.

The Iranian embassy apparently has remained at full staff during the escalating, 16-day standoff. Powell, in response to a reporter's question, said he knew of no move by the Iranians to reduce the number of employees at the embassy.

The possibility of a spy trial was raised Sunday by insurgents holding the embassy in Tehran, and in public statements by Iran's revolutionary leader, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Khomeini, speaking to American broadcast reporters, was quoted in various ways as saying that some of the American embassy personnel either would be or might be tried for espionage. American officials said they were trying to discern the reason for the apparent discrepancies in Khomeini's remarks.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter refused to discuss the possibility of trials, saying only, "We have no word about a trial from any authorities. In the event that it occurs, we'll speak directly to it."

But a White House aide said "the placing of diplomatic personnel on trial would ... be a violation of the basic standards of international law and of civilized behavior among nations."

The aide, asking not to be named, said such a trial would not change the U.S. refusal to hand over to Iran the deposed shah, who is undergoing cancer treatment in New York City.

President Carter was at Camp David where aides said he kept abreast of the situation Sunday, speaking by phone to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

The charge d'affaires at the Iranian embassy in Washington, Ali Agah, repeated demands that the shah be returned to Iran.

to remove the bullet, which lodged in the back of the suspect's neck.

Ray Sparks, night watchman at Farmers Co-op, said he spotted the suspect allegedly burglarizing another security guard's car at the plant shortly after 2 a.m. today.

Sparks said he saw the man leaning over William Bolivar Hogan's open car trunk. When he approached the vehicle, Sparks said, the suspect began walking away. After the suspect refused to explain what he was doing, the 57-year-old guard grabbed the man by the arm and the two men began scuffling, according to police.

Sparks said he drew his pistol and fired "two or three" shots at the alleged burglar after the man struck him in the face with a flashlight.

However, the guard told police he thought he had missed the man because he got up from the ground, climbed a fence and ran north by some grain elevators. Sparks was unable to catch up with the man, according to reports.

Police Cpl. Larry Jenkins said the wounded man apparently ran to his sister's Fifth Street residence and was taken to the hospital by a private vehicle. A hospital spokesman said the suspect was admitted about 6 a.m. today.

The man told his sister only that he had been shot and that he had to go to a hospital, according to Jenkins.

Hogan's leather jacket, portable television set and briefcase — the apparent loot taken in the thwarted break-in — was found next to the fence the suspect scaled. A blue visor cap, which the suspect's sister said she saw the man wearing earlier in the night, also was found at the scene, according to reports.

Jenkins said there was no evidence at the company that the suspect had been wounded by Sparks' gun.

Hogan also was on guard duty at the plant when the burglary was discovered.

Front Heads Toward City

A cold front will hit Lubbock tonight, possibly with freezing rain, and drop temperatures from near 70 today to the low 40s Tuesday, weathermen predict.

Mixed rain and snow is likely by Tuesday morning, forecasters said.

There is a 60 percent probability of precipitation tonight and Tuesday as the front moves in.

Forecasters said collision of the cold air behind the front with relatively warm air now in the area may produce a few thunderstorms. The activity is expected to produce showers of about half an inch, although totals may exceed three-fourths of an inch in some of the heavier showers.

Partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were forecast for today, but it may be the last pleasant weather for several days. The extended forecast calls for a chance of rain on Wednesday and continued cold weather on Thursday and

LCHD Likes New System

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Patients released from Health Sciences Center Hospital should get an accurate "bill that looks like a bill" with the switch-over in the teaching hospital's data processing system, a hospital official said this morning.

Members of the Lubbock County Hospital District's finance committee were reviewing the contract with data processing firm Shared Medical Services, going over the fine points of the document. Beyond minor changes in the wording, the group appeared generally satisfied with the contract.

Already approved by the district's board of managers, the contract provides for a switch-over from the present data processing system — Hospital Management Service — during the first week in January. The old system has been blamed for many of the billing problems which bogged down the hospital's business department until a few months ago.

Finance committee members seemed relieved that the bills produced by SMS are relatively easy to read, a feature they hope will alleviate some of the confusion created by the bills in the past.

"It looks like a bill," Charles Smith, controller of patient accounts, said. He warned, however, there probably always would be confusion between bills issued by the hospital (Health Sciences Center Hospital) and the related clinic (Health Sciences Centers).

Finance committee members were joined by representatives from the hospital's billing and data processing departments for advisement on the contract.

Data processing director Becky Vincent seemed concerned that the new service would mean a cutback in equipment.

But the new service apparently intends to make better use of the equipment available. Mrs. Vincent also asked for an on-site visit of a facility serviced by SMS to provide observation of the new system at work.

The finance committee was scheduled to continue meeting shortly after noon, going over the month's financial statements. The group also plans to meet in a closed executive session to discuss "personnel matters."

The Lubbock County Hospital District board of managers was scheduled to meet after the finance committee at 1:30 p.m.

Kirkland Takes AFL-CIO Reins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lane Kirkland, organized labor's shy and scholarly administrator, won election as president of the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO today, ending a quarter-century of leadership under George Meany.

Kirkland, 57, the ailing Meany's second in command and hand-picked successor, was elected without opposition by 1,000 delegates attending the labor organization's 13th convention.

It was the first change of leadership since Meany, 85, was installed as president after the birth 24 years ago of the merged American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Kirkland, a South Carolinian who worked his way up the AFL-CIO staff during a 30-year career with the labor federation, emerges now not only as chief spokesman for unionized workers but also as a potent force in the nation's political, social and economic affairs.

Kirkland is a protégé and close friend of Meany, who is retiring after 12 two-year terms as AFL-CIO president because of poor health, and his eventual election to the top post had been anticipated for years.

Thomas R. Donahue, 51, a former Labor Department official who became Meany's executive assistant, also ran without opposition to succeed Kirkland as secretary-treasurer.

Presidential politics are as much on the minds of union leaders as internal politics at the union gathering.

President Carter and his top aides have lavished attention on those attending the convention, and on Sunday, it was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's turn.

Kennedy, challenging Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, invited all 104 presidents of AFL-CIO unions to his Virginia home for what one union leader said was a low-key afternoon get-together.

"It was sort of a casual gathering," said Fred J. Kroll, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks.

Kroll said Kennedy talked briefly, reminding his guests that he has been in the Senate since 1962 and has given organized labor help over the last 17 years when it needed it.

"He said he knew labor would be there to help him," Kroll said.

Officials said about 160 people attended, including union leaders and some wives.

The ascension of Kirkland and Donahue into two of the most influential posts outside of government signals a continuation of Meany's policies for the next two years even as it heralds a close to the ailing labor leader's 57-year career.

In electing Kirkland and Donahue without opposition amid a spirit of stability and harmony, the convention is reaffirming Meany's principles.

Kirkland, although a contrast to his colorful predecessor in personality and style, is a student of Meany's school of liberal domestic policies and unwavering anti-communist foreign policies. He and Donahue have helped shape those policies in recent years, and they profess no plans for dramatic changes with Meany's retirement.

Meany, the cigar-puffing, straight-talking plumber from the Bronx, never felt at ease with the genteel diplomatic ways of Washington. But Kirkland is a reserved, urbane and soft-spoken intellectual who puffs cigarettes from a holder.

Kirkland has been a professional administrator with the AFL and then the AFL-CIO for 31 years. The last 19 years have been at Meany's side, as executive assistant and, since 1969, as secretary-treasurer.

Kirkland assumes the top post in the American labor movement without ever holding an elected union office outside the AFL-CIO. Instead, his climb has been accomplished along the bureaucratic ladder.

Donahue, a top officer of the Service Employees International Union before he joined the AFL-CIO in 1973, is more of the Meany mold. An Irish Catholic from the Bronx, Donahue is outgoing and an accomplished politician with a law degree who served as an assistant labor secretary during the Johnson administration.

Mormon Leader 'Doing Just Fine'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mormon Church President Spencer W. Kimball is "doing just fine" after surgery to remove excess blood and fluid from an area between his skull and brain, a church spokesman says.

The 84-year-old church leader underwent the one-hour operation early Saturday. Doctors expect Kimball will be hospitalized for another 12 to 14 days, said church spokesman Jerry Cahill.

The man considered a prophet by 4.3 million members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints had a similar operation in September for removal of another subdural hematoma.

Julian Bond Criticizes Blacks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With another presidential election approaching, black Americans are still not taking enough interest in politics, says Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond.

Bond criticized blacks for political apathy and said Richard Nixon would never have become president if only 10 more voters in every black precinct had voted in 1968.

"For the lack of those votes, we surrendered our right to have some control over the reins of government," Bond told the Black Women's Forum here Saturday. "We allowed the destruction of those programs erected to fight a war on poverty."

Bond criticized the Carter administration for promises made but not kept and indicated he will support Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

Pat Nixon 'Steadily Improving'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Pat Nixon, hospitalized for nearly a week with bronchial pneumonia, should be home in time for Thanksgiving dinner with her family, says a spokeswoman for San Clemente General Hospital.

The 67-year-old former first lady is "doing well and steadily improving," nursing supervisor Carol Peace said.

The Nixon's daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, stopped by Mrs. Nixon's room for a visit Sunday, Miss Peace said.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

"This has been really weird," said one of the six contestants — all men — who put their charms on display before an audience of women. "Now I recognize what women go through."

The contest at Case Western Reserve University was arranged by lecturer Warren Farrell, author of "The Liberated Man: Freeing Men and Their Relationships With Women."

Farrell lined up the men and told women in the audience to pick the ones they wanted to date. The men were told to decide which women they would date based on their salaries and what the women would be doing five years in the future.

"For most women, their body is what will determine the financial support they will have for the rest of their lives," Farrell said in a recent interview. "For every laugh we had, there was a serious message."

Daughter Of Deputy Shot During Gunfight

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The 3-year-old daughter of a reserve Los Angeles County sheriff's deputy was shot to death in a gunfight between her father and two supermarket robbers, authorities said.

Glendale police Sgt. Mike Post said reserve deputy Gerald Slagle saw the market being robbed Saturday night and confronted two men when they came outside. Slagle had attempted to hide his daughter, Jennifer, behind a car, but she was struck by a bullet fired by one of the two robbery suspects, Post said.

He said the two men escaped on foot. Slagle was uninjured.

Greens Vow To Continue Fight For Laetrile Use

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — They lost the battle to save their 3-year-old son from leukemia, but Chad-Green's parents say they will continue their fight for the use of Laetril in cancer treatment — a fight that forced them to flee the country seeking help for their son.

"We want to share what we've learned, we want to help others and we want to fight for individual freedom, the freedom of choice," Gerald Green said in a recent interview.

Green, 29, and his 26-year-old wife, Diana, have joined the lecture circuit to "share our story" and hope to win for other cancer patients the freedom of choice in cancer therapy.

It was their belief in Laetrile and diet that led the Greens to discontinue conventional chemotherapy for their son. They face a contempt of court warrant in Massachusetts for defiance of an order removing Chad from their custody for chemotherapy.

After losing several appeals, the Greens on Jan. 26 fled to Tijuana, Mexico, where Laetrile — legal in only 20 states and banned from interstate transportation — is easily available.

Chad died in his mother's arms Oct. 12.

The Greens have been surrounded by reporters since the controversy over their son's treatment began. Chad's burial in Hastings, Neb., was a media event, his grieving family surrounded by television cameras and tape recorders.

Green collapsed at a family gathering following Chad's burial. Mrs. Green, however, has remained calm in public.

"She is strong," family attorney Dr. William Ginsburg said after the funeral. "Setbacks just make her stronger. She's quite a lady."

The Greens had moved from Nebraska to Massachusetts in 1977 in hopes of getting more advanced treatment for Chad's illness. The next step in the boy's treatment in Nebraska would have been cranial radiation, which the parents hoped to avoid.

They became interested in Laetrile and natural foods after Chad's disease was diagnosed two years ago.

Laetrile is a trademark for a substance derived from the chemical amygdalin, found in the pits of apricots and peaches and in bitter almonds. Advocates say Laetrile is an effective cancer treatment, but the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the U.S. medical establishment argue there is no proof it is of any value.

The Greens' support for Laetrile stems not from a belief that it is a cancer cure, but because it eased the pain of conventional cancer treatment.

Dr. Frank O. Raasch Jr., who performed the autopsy on Chad, said Thursday that while the autopsy failed to establish a clear-cut cause of death, he doubted Laetrile contributed to the boy's death.

Woman Restores Mansions, Magazines

By HOYT HARWELL
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Gray D. Boone went north a year ago and came back with Horizon, a monthly cultural journal, and now, for only $1 a square foot, she has bought an antebellum mansion to house it in.

The blending of the trendy and the traditional is typical of Mrs. Boone, a newspaper publisher's wife who flies to New York regularly to meet with art people and returns to run her publications and continue her restoration of aging buildings.

Her newest acquisition, known variously as Cherokee, the Jemison House and the Friedman Library, is her biggest renovation project so far.

The mansion, from old slave quarters in the basement to the cupola three stories above, contains 26 rooms, each full of history and suffering from faded paint.

It was built in the 1850s by Robert Jemison, a U.S. Senator who named it Cherokee after a chief and his tribe for saving his wife's parents from a Choctaw massacre.

Years later it became a library and many of its rooms still contain rows of stacks, along with the dust and cobwebs of disuse.

There is no way, said Mrs. Boone, that she can renovate the 90,000-square-foot mansion all at once but she intends to get started right away.

She has had experience. She bought two old homes and renovated them as headquarters for her Antique Monthly magazine and Horizon.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Financial conditions are likely to be mixed for you tomorrow. Your chances for gains look good, but you could suffer a loss through carelessness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friends are willing to pinch-hit for you tomorrow, but don't count on them to knock the ball out of the park. They may only get you to first base.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid making hasty judgments tomorrow. What you see at first glance may not reveal the true picture. Take a hard second look.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you have something good going at this time, it's best to keep it to yourself instead of discussing it with pals. Talking out of turn may hurt the deal.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Should you require advice tomorrow on something commercial seek out persons who will tell you the truth, not just what you want to hear.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If your options tomorrow are between work or play, you're likely to choose the latter, hoping your chores will take care of themselves; they won't.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Things you work hard for tomorrow will yield a fair return. In areas where you're looking for a free ride, the opposite is to be true.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're very agreeable tomorrow and that's quite commendable, but be wary of making compromises or concessions that will not serve your best interests.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Co-workers you usually can rely upon may not be too dependable tomorrow, so if you want something done right it's best you do it yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be kind to one you love, but also take care not to overindulge his or her every whim tomorrow. Your kindness could hurt more than it could help.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is more than one type of opportunity around you tomorrow, so try not to be too single-minded. The more seeds you plant, the larger your harvest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be optimistic tomorrow, but also be realistic and logical. Both ingredients are required to bring hopes and dreams into being.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Labor's Torch Is Passed

GEORGE MEANY, at age 85 and in poor health, has passed the reins of leadership to Lane Kirkland, the AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer and longtime Meany protégé.

In his farewell State of the Labor Union address, Meany departed the office he has held for the past 24 years with a bang, not a whimper: "The national economy," he said, "is a mess."

Not that anyone would ever think Mr. Big and his 2 1/2 decades of inflexible, inflationary wage demands had anything to do with creating the present state of the art.

Meany's hand-picked successor has his work cut out for him. The two think alike. Both are staunchly anti-communist and believe that organized labor should concentrate on bread-and-butter issues and leave the social-reform efforts to somebody else.

BUT IN MANNER, the two men are quite different. Whereas Meany is gruff and largely self-educated, Kirkland is noted for his courteous bearing and intellectual tastes.

Kirkland, a graduate of Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service, originally aspired to become a career diplomat—undoubtedly experience which served him well as Meany's right-hand man. Presumably, this background will continue to do so.

Acting in Meany's stead, Kirkland already has negotiated a "national accord" with the Carter administration, setting forth the basis for labor's quote involvement and cooperation unquote in helping formulate federal policy on inflation and unemployment.

Kirkland's primary challenge, however, would seem to be to attempt to revive the sagging fortunes of organized labor, whose political influence has been on the wane for years.

THIRTY YEARS AGO, about one-third of all non-farm workers belonged to unions; today, the proportion is about a fourth.

Kirkland professes to be unconcerned about the prospect of a potentially divisive battle at next year's Democratic national convention between President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"How can you divide what scarcely exists?" he asks. "Neither the Democratic nor Republican Party is more than a gossamer thing."

Further sapping of the federation's strength via factional infighting is almost a foregone conclusion as the torch is passed.

But whatever the outcome of the post-Meany adjustment, Big Labor never again will be the same—for which even some of its own have cause to be thankful.

Political Target

James J. Kilpatrick:

Kennedy Has Hard Row To Hoe

WASHINGTON—How pleasant the prospect must have seemed, a couple of months ago! Edward Moore Kennedy was then 30 points ahead of President Carter in the public opinion polls.

He had dealt firmly with Chappaquiddick on the event's 10th anniversary in July. He was trailed by blissful groupies exhaling adulation. Kennedy committees were bursting out all over.

Now the snows of November are falling, and so are the gentleman's fortunes. Ted Kennedy, who once looked unbeatable for the Democratic nomination, is beginning to look very beatable indeed.

What could account for this sudden deceleration? It is partly the difference between looking at the menu and looking at the dish.

SO LONG AS Kennedy were only a possible, or probable, or unannounced candidate, he enjoyed a certain immunity from searching inquiry. The tantalizing question was, would he or won't he? Now the honeymoon is over.

Larger questions emerge. The senator's character and the senator's record are spread before us for examination, and somehow the prospects seem not as appetizing as they were.

Another factor, the factor of time passing, also is affecting the situation. What Kennedy has going for him is just that: He is Kennedy, the last surviving son of old Joe Kennedy. Take that away, and little remains.

In terms of legislative accomplishments, the gentleman's 17-year record in the Senate is utterly undistinguished. Half a dozen fellow Democrats—Muskie, for example, or Jackson, or Bayh, or Long, or Magnuson—have left much heavier imprints on the record.

And the trouble is that a generation has grown up that knew not Joseph Jack Kennedy died in 1963, brother Robert in 1968.

Camelot was a long time ago. A new breed of journalists has emerged, harder and hungrier than the reporters who once functioned as troubadours at court.

"SEN. KENNEDY," SAID Tom Jarriel of ABC, beginning a recent interview, "you cheated in college, you panicked at Chappaquiddick. Do you have what it takes to be President of the United States?"

Hard lines. And they will get harder as the campaign moves along and the scrutiny of character and record continue. The inferences to be drawn from Chappaquiddick will not diminish.

I have yet to meet a reasonably unbiased person, familiar with the undisputed facts, who believes Kennedy has told the truth about the incident.

On the contrary, the conviction is virtually universal that the senator lied about it then and that he lies about it now.

And it is part of the legacy of Watergate that material falsehoods at the presidential level are not to be condoned.

THE CONTRASTING CHARACTERS of Kennedy and Carter (and for that matter, of Gov. Jerry Brown also) are bound to figure in the coming campaign.

For all our vaunted freedoms and changing lifestyles, Americans remain a people at least publicly professing a conventional morality.

Carter, it will be recalled, once confessed that he had occasionally lusted for a woman in his heart. Kennedy's lusts lie a bit farther south.

It will be astonishing if some of these titillating stories do not rise to the surface.

What of the record? In liberal eyes, the Kennedy record is superb. The senator has voted for every significant liberal measure that ever has come his way.

He has been making some conservative noises lately, but they lack conviction. Is the country truly ready to embrace a curly-haired McGovern? It seems a doubtful proposition.

Kennedy has taken another bumpy road, and he must find it disconcerting. Over the years he has fathered the same liberal causes that are beloved of The New York Times and the Washington Post.

BUT THE TIMES greeted his announcement by wondering if there may hang over his campaign "not just a cloud of tragedy but also one of corruption." The Post found his most recent explanation of Chappaquiddick "inadequate."

How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is, to have a thankless child!

The senator can charm a crowd; he will surely benefit among older Democrats from the inheritance of the Kennedy mythology.

But unless we wind up at war, or the bottom drops out of the economy or Carter blunders disastrously, hang on to your Carter buttons. Kennedy doesn't have what it takes.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Bush Getting Taller

FORD MOTOR CO. has decided to do its patriotic duty and lose $1 billion this year, just like Chrysler Corp. has done, thus avoiding the "windfall profits" that have subjected the oil companies to such abuse from left-leaning politicians.

Oh, how glorious it will be when everybody's losing money, nobody's paying taxes and all of us—individuals and corporations alike—are living off money the federal treasury has borrowed or printed after selling all our gold.

Although losing money at home, Ford says that—like the oil companies—it is making money overseas. Those backward and undeveloped countries just never seem to learn the secret of success from Yankee ingenuity.

MEANWHILE, the House Banking Committee, showing its usual wisdom, voted to require Chrysler to sell an estimated $50 million in stock to its employees in order to qualify for a $1.5-billion federal loan guarantee.

Getting the money will be no problem for the employees: The Gov't will pay them 70 percent of their bloated weekly pay when they're laid off because cars aren't selling.

We're the only country in the world where a company can get a government loan for staying in business to lay off workers who can get a federal handout to buy the company so that it will have the capital to meet government safety and emission standards on cars that it can't sell be-

John D. Lofton:

Let Chrysler Bail Itself Out

WASHINGTON—Lee Iacocca, the chairman of Chrysler, and Douglas Fraser, president of the United Auto Workers union, both make the point that the Carter administration's proposed $1.5-billion federal bailout of Chrysler is not unprecedented. They are correct. But this is one more reason why the bailout is a bad idea.

In 1980, all federal loans and loan guarantees will total a whopping $54 billion even if Chrysler doesn't get one cent from the national treasury.

In 1969 this figure amounted to less than $50 billion. James Van Horne, professor of finance at the Stanford University Business School, points out that the apportioning of private capital by the government, which started in the 1930s as an "actuarially sound program providing small loans to farmers and homeowners," has now become a monster.

EXAMPLES OF THE recent explosive growth include:

- The guarantee of a $250 million loan to the Lockheed Corp. in 1971 to salvage the L-1011 aircraft.
- Establishment of the government-sponsored Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae).
- The $2.3 billion credit arrangement with New York City in 1975 to borrow from the treasury at an interest rate only slightly higher than that paid by the treasury.
- Assistance acts of 1978 and 1979 which facilitated financing of energy conservation, coal conversion, solar and other energy projects; and
- The guarantee of New York and New Jersey Port Authority bonds when their credit ratings are in difficulty.

SO WHAT'S WRONG with the government allocating private capital? Generally speaking, federal loan guarantees don't show up in the budget, which is why Nancy Teeters, a Federal Reserve Board governor, says citizens are not properly informed about the extent of the federal government's involvement in credit allocation.

A credit expert in the Office of Management and Budget is quoted by Business Week magazine as observing that, from a political standpoint, federal loan guarantees are a "free good, (that) you can do wonderful things for people without taking the heat for spending money."

As Mrs. Teeters notes, the below-market interest rates that often accompany a federal bailout are a form of subsidy.

She says that since the supply of credit is limited, when certain groups obtain credit with federal help, other groups find it more difficult to do so.

Stanford finance professor Van Horne says the cause the standards and workers' pay and benefits have driven the cost too high for anybody to buy.

AND, IN THE SAME vein, banks which raised their prime lending rates to 15 1/2 percent in response to Federal Reserve Board moves to strengthen the dollar by charging the banks more for what they borrow, were accused of "profiteering."

Banks could "avoid embarrassment about their booming profits by giving borrowers a break on interest rates," Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said.

Shame on you, banks. Avoid embarrassment. Show a loss. Go bankrupt. That's the New American Way.

Revised: If at first you don't succeed, you've met the federal guidelines.

WHEN HE FLIES into town tomorrow morning, George Bush will become the first of the announced, major contenders for the Presidency to bring his 1980 campaign to Lubbock.

Gen. Alexander Haig, a possible entrant, spoke at the Chamber of Commerce banquet in September and, of course, John Connally and Ronald Reagan have been here in past years. Ben Fernandez brought his quest for the GOP nomination to Lubbock earlier this year.

Mrs. Connally will be here soon.

But Bush, a former Midland oilman and GOP Congressman from Houston, hopes to strengthen his Texas base when he speaks at a fund-raising luncheon tomorrow.

Bob Blake and Gwen Stafford are coordinating the $125-a-plate luncheon in the Hilton Inn. Bush is to visit with Texas Tech students at the University Center at 2 p.m.

With early straw ballot victories in Iowa, Maine and Rhode Island, Bush is working himself into a good position in the race for the Republican nomination.

He has begun to speak more forcefully and confidently on national TV interviews.

Bush's years in Congress, as head of the CIA, as head of the GOP, as head of an oil firm and as head of our diplomatic mission in Red China give him the broadest experience—in areas that count—of any candidate in either party.

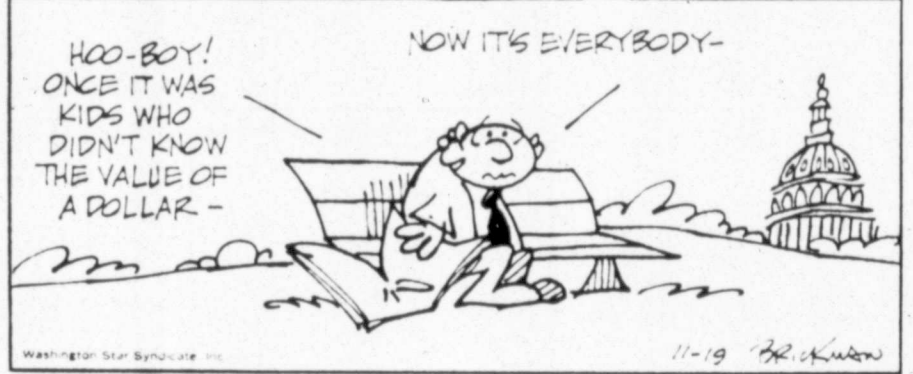

AFTER ALL, IF a President understands the inner workings of Congress, is intimately acquainted with what our spies have learned, has nationwide political contacts, knows a great deal about energy, has run a successful business and has dealt successfully in foreign affairs, he has the right credentials for the job.

Bush's challenge is to translate all that experience into a well-articulated philosophy and an image of leadership that will get him out of the George Who category.

He's still just one of the pack right now, but keep your eye on George Bush. He's the one the President Ford intimates are likely to get behind if he continues to impress folks as well as he has in the early going.

Sylvia Porter:

Retired Can't Live On Much Less Than $8,000

WASHINGTON—One and three-quarter eggs a day; two beers a week; a single movie each month; one birthday or Christmas gift a year for someone outside of the immediate family; a pair of shoes for the husband every two years.

A frugal way of life? Who lives like this? A family on welfare or at the lowest levels of income.

None of the above. This sparse marketbasket of goods and services is part of the hypothetical budget that the Bureau of Labor Statistics has developed to record how much it costs a retired couple to maintain a moderate standard of living. And the cost of this moderate budget comes to the fairly hefty sum of nearly $8,000 a year.

BUT THE FIGURES and marketbasket cited above are serious understatements.

Since fall of '78, prices at the consumer level have soared across the board and the BLS's Consumer Price Index shows the cost of living now climbing at an annual rate of more than 13 percent.

There is simply no disputing that even $8,000 a year could not finance that marketbasket of goods and services.

As for the urban retired couple living on a low budget—well below that moderate budget—the income needed came to at least $5,514 in 1978. It would demand much more today, in fall of '79.

And the same retired couple budgeting at the high standard of living who would have spent approximately $11,596 annually, based on '78 figures, would need much more today.

MANY OF YOU use these benchmark figures to estimate how much money you'll need to retire, or to compare your living costs with the BLS's reference markers.

But that's senseless. For if you are to translate these hypothetical budgets into the realities of living today, you must have much deeper explanations of the figures on which they're based.

For the blunt fact is that the budgets are computed for marketbaskets developed in the early 1960s. This collection of goods and services has remained fixed to this day, reports my associate, Brooke Shearer.

ONLY THE PRICES of the goods and services selected almost 20 years ago have changed as the years of inflation have piled up.

If you are a hypothetical retired couple trying to make ends meet on the hypothetical budget for the low-income family, you drive an eight-year-old model car, probably live in rental housing, eat meals away from home about half as often as your higher-income counterparts.

Compared to other hypothetical couples at higher budget levels, you eat less meat and drink no liquor or wine—although you do manage to drink more beer.

If you are the hypothetical couple at the high budget level, you own your own home, and drive either a new car or one no more than two years old.

Doctor Disputes Father-Son Myth

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The popular assumption that boys learn to be masculine by modeling behavior of their fathers is a myth, according to a psychiatrist at the University of Texas Health Science Center.

For one thing, research by Dr. James Turnbull shows, fathers in middle and lower income families spend on the average only about 25 minutes each week in direct one-to-one relationships with their growing sons.

"The images on television and in advertising showing boys and their fathers playing touch football, fishing and building model aircraft support the assumption — but simply don't reflect real life," said Turnbull, an associate professor of psychiatry.

Turnbull said he found in studies of middle and lower income families that in fatherless homes, the key to personality development lies in the sons' relationships with their mothers.

"Fathers are certainly important in shaping their sons' behavior, but mothers, peer groups and other adult males usually have more contact with the boys," Turnbull said.

"If a father is present, he tends to modify the mother's influence with comments such as 'you're spoiling the boy,' or 'boys don't play with dolls,' and other reactions to behavior. The father's treatment of the mother serves as an example for the son of how to interact with members of the opposite sex."

In fatherless homes, Turnbull said, the mother's attitude toward men and her degree of overprotection toward her son seem to be keys to a boy's development.

"Many women rearing sons without the father seem worried that the boy might grow up to be effeminate. Our studies seem to show that this does not have to be a problem," the researcher said.

He suggested that mothers avoid making negative comments about the father, or about men in general, in front of their sons.

"A growing boy can easily interpret such comments as applying to all men and to him," Turnbull said. "Activities with other boys seem to be very important so that social isolation is avoided."

Facility To Serve As Pollution Monitoring Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government will store thousands of samples of tissue, grain and other items from the environment to serve as a base for monitoring future pollution trends, officials say.

The National Bureau of Standards was holding a formal dedication of the experimental specimen bank today.

The pilot facility in Gaithersburg, Md., is the world's first for the systematic collection, analysis and long-term storage of environmental samples.

"The basic purpose of the specimen bank is to provide a system for monitoring pollutant trends by comparing new samples with historic samples that are on file," said the coordinator of the program, George M. Goldstein of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Goldstein said that samples stored over long periods would allow scientists to look back at earlier pollution levels and analyze pollution trends.

Dr. Richard Durst, chief National Bureau of Standards investigator in the project, said in an interview that continued monitoring of samples from a wide area should let experts spot potential pollution dangers before they become problems.

"And if you have a working bank, you can evaluate how well regulations are improving environmental conditions and also if people are complying with the regulations," Durst said.

The emphasis of the five-year, $1.5 million pilot program run jointly by the Bureau of Standards and the EPA is to develop techniques that can be applied to a larger, permanent sample bank the EPA is interested in having.

In the first four years, the bank will gather samples of human liver tissue from cadavers, grains, bivalve shellfish and particles taken from the air. In the fifth year, the results will be reviewed and the program analyzed to see if it is practical.

Project leaders estimate the bank will contain about 30,000 samples at the end of the program. If a permanent bank is established, these samples will be transferred to it, they said.

Durst said the bank will start with new samples and use them as a baseline for future comparisons. Project scientists rejected the possibility of using older samples from other collections because many have been contaminated or not enough is known about their origin for exacting comparisons.

The specimens will be examined and analyzed in a special "clean room," an isolated chamber with filtered air that is similar to facilities used to work on moon rocks.

Samples will be frozen when collected and sent to the lab, where scientists will examine parts of them. Other portions will remain frozen to prevent chemical changes so they stay pure for later comparisons.

West Germany is collaborating in the program and German scientists will assist in planning and analyzing various stages of the project.

West Germany is constructing a similar, but larger, facility that should be completed next year. Durst said the two countries are dividing experimental work to minimize duplication.

Opera Star Likes To Sing Blues

DETROIT (AP) — If singer Mignon Dunn could record a fantasy album, she says she'd like to belt out the blues on one side and sing operatic arias on the other.

The mezzo-soprano, who has been associated with the Metropolitan Opera for 20 years, says in a Southern drawl, "I just love the blues."

Miss Dunn, a Memphis native who was brought up on "an honest-to-God cotton plantation with four pillars," says her accent often perpetuates her image as "an operatic Loretta Lynn."

When she's not performing in New York or on international stages during the season, Arkansas is her home and she's a firm booster of the region — "the South isn't all quilts and country music."

The singer was in Detroit recently with her husband, conductor Kurt Klippstatter, to open a new production of Tchaikovsky's "Joan of Arc" with the Michigan Opera Theater.

Long praised for her dramatic as well as her vocal skills, Miss Dunn described her role here as "the dream part of every mezzo-soprano."

Miss Dunn says the repertoire contains starring roles mainly for sopranos and much fewer for the mezzo voice. Besides having the title role, Miss Dunn also had the opportunity to portray a character on the heavenly side.

"Not many of the roles I get to do are angelic. It's mostly wicked women, the other woman or the woman who causes the trouble."

Possessing a strong acting ability can make a performance powerful and concentrated on stage, but it can also blur the role, Miss Dunn says.

"It's important to keep watch over yourself because if you get too involved, the voice can go in 14 different directions. It's important that your audience feels it more than you do. Otherwise, you're shortchanging the music and the audience, and that makes it an ego trip. An actor or actress can't do this and a singer can't either."

Miss Dunn started singing at age 5 and performed for the Lions, Rotary Club and other community groups. After her mother took her to see the Verdi opera "Aida" when she was 10, "I thought that must be the best thing in the world."

"It's fortunate that I grew a voice because that's what I really wanted to do," she says.

Although the Met was only two steps away from her first big role as Carmen with the Experimental Opera Theater of New Orleans, and one step away from early engagements with the New York City Opera, Miss Dunn flunked her first voice competition at the age of 9.

"It was 'Shortnin' Bread,' and I acted it out. Everybody else was standing around quiet with their hands folded. Still, I thought it was a great piece."

Holiday Ridership Predicted Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak officials say they expect Thanksgiving holiday ridership to be 20 percent higher than last year.

They predicted crowded trains, crowded train stations and the possibility that some passengers will have to stand for at least part of their trip. "Amtrak will press all available cars into service for the holiday period," the federally subsidized rail passenger service said in a statement release here.

Ohio Governor Pushes Coal As Energy Source

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio urged his fellow Republican governors in strong terms Sunday to take an unequivocal stand that national policy should encourage more use of coal.

"I assure you we will be listened to, because the people in Washington do not have the answers. They are engulfed in problems they don't understand," Rhodes told participants in the national Republican Governors Conference.

He spoke during a forum in which financial patrons of the conference got to rub elbows with governors in small group policy discussions, with governors reporting back on the consensus.

"With coal, we can stop all the imports," Rhodes said, adding that dependence on imported oil causes the United States to "bow and bend to the OPEC countries' every whim."

Rhodes also said the conference should go on record in favor of exploiting shale oil resources and other means to boost domestic oil production.

Gov. John Dalton of Virginia, who moderated the energy discussions, said inflation and energy are related problems.

"If we solve the energy problem, we go a long way in solving the inflation problem. By cutting our oil imports by 50 percent we can have a balance-of-payments surplus which would greatly help our inflation problem," Dalton said.

He, too, urged relaxation of federal environmental restraints against the burning of coal.

the uranium that would produce the same amount of electricity.

Gov. Les Dreyfus of Wisconsin said it was "clear the public is getting ready to do something serious about conservation. The inconvenience of conservation will build the nation resolve to do something about producing energy."

He also spoke of the heavy impact of energy shortages on international relations.

"If there is a World War III, it will be over energy and not territory," he said.

In a discussion of defense issues, Texas Gov. Bill Clements, former deputy secretary of defense, said it was the unanimous view of people in a small group discussion he chaired that the news media do not report defense matters well.

Florida Win Encourages President's Forces

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — In practical terms, the straw vote held at Florida's Democratic convention this weekend didn't mean a thing.

But supporters of the president — saying they're "exhilarated, excited and thrilled" — claim they're ready to beat the challenger from Massachusetts, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, in this southern state that helped put Jimmy Carter in the White House three years ago.

Both sides are bracing for a bruising battle for Florida's 100 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to be held in New York City next summer. Those delegates will be chosen in the state primary March 11.

"We have to take our case for the president to every single voter in the state," said Jay Hakes, Carter's Florida campaign manager. "We'll have to have a much wider audience than we've had up to this point."

Carter's allies were pleased with the lopsided victory he scored over Kennedy on the straw ballot Sunday as the three-day convention came to a close with the atmosphere of a Carter campaign rally.

Carter won 1,114 delegates to 351 for Kennedy and nine with no preference, a showing Hakes called decisive. Kennedy supporters point out that most delegates were activists or office holders and that Kennedy has strong support among ordinary voters.

Another Carter challenger, California Gov. Jerry Brown, was not on the ballot.

Meanwhile, in Orlando, state Republicans gave ex-California Gov. Ronald Reagan the nod in a highly publicized straw ballot. Reagan picked up 36.4 percent of the ballots Saturday to 26.6 percent for his closest competitor, former Texas Gov. John Connally.

Ex-CIA director George Bush netted third place in the GOP race with 21.1 percent, followed by Illinois Rep. Philip Crane and Sen. Howard Baker trailing in last place.

At the Democratic convention, Kennedy forces also emphasized that the results had no official meaning and were heavily influenced by the Oct. 13 county caucuses in which about half the delegates were chosen, mainly by pro-Carter party officials.

The caucuses, with Carter winning about 500 delegates to 300 for a draft-Kennedy campaign, were a test of organizational skill, not the popularity of the candidates among Florida's 2.7 million Democrats.

Kennedy forces noted that the popular vote for the president and the senator in the caucuses was extremely close in several big counties, a fact obscured by the winner-take-all delegate selection rules.

Although Carter's showing was expected, his boosters touted it as proof the president has strong support among Florida Democrats. They said the straw ballot gives Carter a psychological edge.

"The momentum has definitely been captured by the president," said Gov. Bob Graham, a strong Carter supporter. "We're exhilarated, excited and thrilled."

Hakes said he was especially pleased with Carter's 76 percent showing in the straw poll. That margin was bigger than his two-thirds majority on a similar straw ballot in 1975.

Reagan Worries GOP Contenders

AUSTIN (AP) — Although Republican presidential candidates Howard Baker and John Connally are trying to play down the recent straw votes they lost, both agree they are going to have to beat front-runner Ronald Reagan soon.

Baker, the Senate minority leader from Tennessee, and Connally, a former Texas governor and ex-treasury secretary, talked about the campaign during their visits to the Republican Governors Association convention Sunday.

"We've got to start beating Reagan before March and Illinois, or we're going to have a tough time beating him," Connally said.

Connally said he would not drop out of the GOP nomination race if he is beaten in the Illinois primary, but he added, "If we do not have enough support by the time that March comes, we will be hard pressed to say when we will beat him."

Connally finished second to Reagan in a straw vote taken Saturday at the Florida state convention. Reagan got 36.4 percent of the vote, Connally 26.6 percent and Baker less than 1 percent.

Connally called his second place "a significant victory." But Baker, who released his supporters before the voting took place, tried to brush aside the whole thing.

"I think we're past the place now where the exhibition games and the preliminaries are out of the way and we're past the season of straw polls, thank goodness," Baker said. "And we're going to move on to the business of selecting delegates."

Former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen, who is 72, criticized the Carter administration for "an overgrown staff of juveniles stumbling around the White House."

Connally Labels Carter Weak Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican presidential hopeful John Connally has accused the Carter administration of pursuing a foreign policy of "appeasement and weakness" to the point where it is unable to use the nation's strength.

Referring to the American hostages being held at the U.S. embassy in Iran, Connally asked: "Would these people, indeed, have done the same thing to the Soviets?"

The situation reflects the "weakness in foreign policy which has been building since 1976," Connally said in a television interview.

"Every signal we've sent around the world in the last 2½ years has been a signal of weakness and appeasement," he added.

Connally said a stronger American military presence in the Indian Ocean would not have prevented the seizing of the embassy in Tehran.

"It's a question of the will to use the strength of a nation — military, diplomatic, economic and otherwise. This administration doesn't have the will to use the strength of the country."

Connally also said it was unfair of President Carter to ask presidential candidates to remain silent about the Iran situation while he makes "ringing speeches" and "inflammatory remarks."

The former Texas governor cited Carter's appearance at last week's AFL-CIO convention where the president denounced the Iranian students who are holding the Americans captive.

"The president has not been quite fair, it seems to me ... he has asked us to remain silent while he takes that period of silence as an opportunity to go before a convention and use inflammatory language himself, which he asked us not to do."

Connally did not say what he would do differently from Carter if he were president right now.

"We can't pay blackmail," he said, apparently referring to the demand of Iranian students that the deposed shah, who is hospitalized here, be sent back to Iran in return for the hostages' safety.

On another topic, Connally said he considered his second-place finish Saturday in Florida's straw vote — behind former California Governor Ronald Reagan — a "significant victory."

"We showed that in a relatively short period of time we could go from nothing to building an efficient organization to compete with Governor Reagan, who's been campaigning for the presidency for the past six years."

Connally was interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program.

Reformers Denied Voice In Republican Meet

AUSTIN (UPI) — Few of the governors at the Republican Governors Conference were aware of the 30 protesters marching outside the hotel where they were meeting.

But members of ACORN — Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now — were letting it be known Sunday they were angry that they were denied permission to present their programs to the governors.

The protesters carried signs and walked the sidewalks across the street from the conference hotel, though there was little reaction from the governors.

"Since we were refused a spot on the agenda to present low and moderate income people's issues, we are here to let the governors know what we think," said Jack Jackson of Austin.

He said the group was angered that its Michigan counterpart was told last week ACORN would not be permitted to participate in Republican National Convention platform hearings July 12-13 in Detroit.

The group's platform includes proposals in the areas of energy, housing, health care, jobs, banking, taxes, community development and representation.

Officials Acknowledge Recruiting Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigation of the Army's worst recruiting scandal since the end of the draft shows that up to 12,700 soldiers were enlisted through fraud or other irregular practices over the last two years, officials said today.

Opening the books on a six-month investigation, the Army told Congress that 427 recruiters have been relieved of their duties in the last year because of malpractice.

Officials said there was more malpractice among seasoned recruiters than among newer recruiters. Many of those who lost their jobs had received awards for recruiting successes.

Seventy-five percent of the cases of fraudulent or irregular enlistments involved discrepancies in the educational records of potential recruits who had not graduated from high school, officials said.

Other cases involved illegal coaching for enlistment tests and concealment of police records, medical problems and dependents.

While readily acknowledging that recruiters are under pressure to meet recruiting goals, Army officials said the pressure is not overbearing.

"No one is forced to cheat in order to recruit for the Army," said Brig. Gen. Donald W. Connelly, head of a 55-member investigation task force set up last May.

Connelly, joined by Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Lt. Gen. Robert G. Yerks, the Army's top personnel official, testified on the recruiting scandal before the Senate Armed Services manpower subcommittee.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the panel's chairman and a skeptic about the all-volunteer military's ability to attract enough servicemen, said the administration is determined "to make the all-volunteer force work no matter what the cost or consequence."

Nunn noted that all branches of the service failed to meet their recruiting goals in the 12 months ending last Oct. 1, and said the Army and Navy are lowering the level of education needed for enlistment.

Alexander said the Army has never fallen more than 2 percent below its authorized manpower strength since the draft ended in 1973. It was 16,000 persons short of a goal of 158,700 new recruits in a recent 12-month period.

"Overall results have been very good," said Alexander. He blamed the shortages on the failure "to commit the resources necessary to make military service attractive in today's economic environment."

Reviewing his investigation, Connelly said team members traveled to 40 military posts around the world and interviewed more than 7,300 soldiers and several hundred recruiting personnel.

The special investigation led to the removal from duty of 324 recruiters and supervisors in 41 of the Army's 57 recruiting districts, Connelly said. In addition, 103 other recruiters were relieved because of malpractice discovered in routine checks.

Connelly said investigators frequently "ran into a wall of silence which reflected the common belief that if a recruiter simply denied everything, he could never be found guilty of malpractice. However, this investigation has broken that chain, and to date 26 of the 324 relieved recruiters have admitted to wrongdoing" and have implicated 83 others.

Connelly said seven recruiters have or will face court-martial charges, 11 have accepted non-judicial punishment, 27 have received letters of reprimand and 20 other cases, which involved criminal activity, were referred to other authorities. Other cases also could result in action, he said.

"The vast majority — over 90 percent — of recruiters are not committing malpractice," he said.

Connelly said the commanders of soldiers improperly enlisted are being notified. "The commander can then take steps to release the soldier from active duty or to retain the soldier, if the individual elects and if in the Army's best interests to do so," he said.

Israeli Patrol Kills Two PLO Guerrillas

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — A Navy patrol killed two Palestinian guerrillas and captured two others, and two bombs exploded hours later in Jerusalem in attacks apparently timed to coincide with anniversary celebrations today of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's first visit to Israel.

Police and military authorities said the two bombs in the capital injured 11 people, most of them passengers on commuter buses, and scattered glass and metal along the street. Two of the wounded were children on their way to school.

The military command said the Israeli navy patrol sustained no casualties in an exchange of fire with a Zodiac rubber dinghy that it encountered late Sunday night in the Mediterranean Sea about 3 miles south of Israel's border with Lebanon.

"An Israeli naval boat on routine patrol came across a rubber dinghy in which there were terrorists," the command said. "In an exchange of fire, two terrorists were killed." The command said the guerrillas fired bazookas at the Israeli patrol.

The military command said two other guerrillas were found floating at sea during the course of a search of the area and were taken to Israel for questioning. The bodies of the two dead terrorists sank to the bottom of the sea with most of their craft.

The two bombing incidents raised the possibility of an Israeli retaliatory raid on Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon.

One of the two bombs apparently placed by Arab guerrillas exploded on a bus in Jerusalem's Zion Square, injuring the driver and two policemen. Eight others were wounded in a second explosion in the Kiryat Yovel neighborhood of the city, police said.

Most of the injuries were minor and the wounded were treated at nearby hospitals and released, a police spokesman said.

The incidents came as Sadat visited Mount Sinai, the hallowed desert mountain where it is believed God gave Moses the 10 Commandments. It is part of the region returned to Egypt Thursday under terms of the Egypt-Israel peace treaty, opposed by the Palestinians.

Sadat decided to commemorate his November 1977 visit to Jerusalem with a ceremony at the hilltop site.

The attempted attack by the terrorists in the rubber raft was the first time Palestinian guerrillas have tried to infiltrate into Israel since Sept. 6, when an army patrol chased away a squad of guerrillas at Beit Shean in the Jordan valley.

That incident occurred as Sadat ended a three-day visit to the northern port of Haifa.

The last time an Israeli navy patrol stopped a rubber dinghy attempting an attack on Israel was on Aug. 18 when three guerrillas were captured and a fourth presumably drowned.

Israeli troops carried out a string of air, sea and ground attacks against targets in southern Lebanon during the summer. But the region has been relatively quiet since U.N. peacekeeping forces mediated a ceasefire at the end of August.

Sadat Appeals For Goodness

WADI RAHA, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat appealed from the foot of Mount Sinai today to the peoples of the world to strive for "goodness and the avoidance of bloodshed, violence and hatred."

In a 15-minute speech marking the second anniversary of his historic trip to Jerusalem, the 60-year-old Egyptian president praised "my two friends," President Carter and Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel for making peace between Egypt and Israel possible.

Noting that Moses, regarded as a prophet by Islam, Christianity and Judaism, is said to have received the 10 Commandments on Mount Sinai, Sadat said:

"In this place chosen by God Almighty, where the three faiths descended, here we have the reaffirmation of the noblest values of men: tolerance and co-existence between peoples."

He avoided all criticism of Arab opponents who have attacked him for making peace with the Jewish state and stressed reconciliation, saying he came with "a heart full of faith, brimming with love."

Sadat reaffirmed an earlier agreement with Israel which turned over this 600-square-mile portion of Sinai last Thursday and will allow Jews, Christians and Moslems to visit the historic site.

"I announce this place open as of today to all believers, to all the faithful from the three faiths, with no restrictions so that they may come and address the Lord," Sadat said.

"I hope that we can together, all the believers and the faithful, do something that would glorify this magnificent achievement on this sacred spot."

Sadat has proposed the building of a single house of worship for all three religions in the valley where the Children of Israel waited for Moses while he climbed to the 7,500-foot peak to receive the Commandments.

Before his speech, Sadat said prayers of thanksgiving and, to the accompaniment of a military band, hoisted the red, white and black Egyptian flag.

About 500 guests flew into the southern Sinai for the ceremony, including Israeli officials and a U.S. delegation headed by outgoing Mideast envoy Robert Strauss.

They mixed with several hundred Bedouin tribesmen, some on camels, and prominent Egyptian officials including cabinet members, members of parliament and the religious leaders of Egypt's Moslem, Christian and Jewish communities.

Strauss at a meeting with Sadat Sunday told him: "Thousands of years from today, when the nations of this region are living as one, it will be recorded that it began Nov. 19, 1978, when you had the courage to take the great step forward."

Israel, which captured the Sinai Desert in 1967, turned over the Mount Sinai portion of southern Sinai to Egypt last Thursday, two months ahead of schedule, so that Sadat could hold the anniversary celebration.

It was the fourth of six withdrawals that will return two-thirds of the peninsula to Egyptian control by early next year. Then the two countries are to establish diplomatic relations.

Friday, with highs in the 40s and lows in the 20s.

The low tonight should be in the upper 30s.

The system bringing the wintry weather to the area was going strong in northern New Mexico this morning as forecasters posted a winter storm watch for mountain areas of the state, warning of possible heavy snow and cold temperatures.

The coldest inhabitants of the South Plains early today were those of the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge, where it was 25 degrees this morning.

It was 30 at Hereford and Muleshoe. Lubbock's low was a relatively balmy 39.

The front was located from Childress to Marfa, and moving southeastward and temperatures behind it were generally in the 40s, the National Weather Service said today, although colder temperatures were expected tonight.

Widespread cloudiness and fog were reported in front of the front.

Temperatures were mild for this time of year with early morning extremes ranging from 37 at Marfa to 71 at Dallas-Fort Worth.

Forecasts indicated cloudy skies and unseasonably warm temperatures in most sections of the state today. Afternoon highs were expected to range from the 60s in West Texas to the 80s in Central Texas.

TIME TO SMILE — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gross of Cambridge Springs, Pa., smile as their 16-year-old son Kevin shows an AP Laserphoto of his sister taken in Tehran earlier Sunday. Families Receive Calls About Freed Americans

By The Associated Press Friends and relatives waited by their telephones and televisions for news of the American hostages in Iran as protesters in several cities continued their bitter demonstrations against the siege at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

"Mom, I'm still alive. I'm still alive," shouted Kathy Gross in a fuzzy trans-Atlantic telephone call to her parents today.

Calling from a military hospital in Frankfurt, Germany, Miss Gross, 22, told her parents, Robert and May Gross of Cambridge Springs, Pa., she would meet them in Washington in time for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Gross said her daughter told her she was in good health, but had been tied to a chair at the embassy for 16 hours every day of her 16-day ordeal.

She had called home earlier as her jet left Iran. "Tell everybody I miss them and I'll see them soon," she said.

The families of Ladell Maples of Earle, Ark., and William E. Quarles of Washington, D.C., also got phone calls confirming the release of the two black Marine sergeants.

"I have a very joyful feeling," said Quarles' mother, Laura Mae Reeder, after she learned from the State Department her 23-year-old son would likely be home by the end of the week.

After a tense vigil by the television and telephone Sunday, Jessie and Claude Maples say they expect to see their son within 48 hours. "I will feel more relief when I actually see him," Mrs. Maples said. "But knowing he has been released is helpful."

Ladell's sister, Claudia, said, "We're not going to be selfish with our prayers. We're not just praying for Ladell. We want all of them released."

There were reports that another 10 hostages, all blacks or women, held in the embassy since Nov. 4, also would be released. Other parents heard reports that the remaining hostages might be put on trial to answer charges of espionage. The Iranians demanded the deposed Shah, now in New York for cancer treatment, be returned for trial.

Meanwhile, the American backlash continued: Members of a Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Newport, Mich., burned two Iranian flags and hung the American flag upside down as a sign of distress.

"When I sit there watching the TV, I want to kick the set in," said 41-year-old Ed Blair. "The disrespect they show for our flag is why I burned the Iranian flag."

The Iranian-American Workers Solidarity Committee said it may sue Brown University for canceling a rally against the shah. Officials of the Rhode Island university said a meeting on such an explosive issue should have been better planned.

In Denver, where an Iranian student has been charged in the death of a high school boy, 20 other students moved into one apartment for safety.

Said an Iranian woman: "I don't sleep at home any more because I am scared they will come and hurt me. All night long young kids keep playing with my door, knocking on it and keeping me awake all night."

Republican presidential candidate John Connally accused the Carter administration of pursuing a foreign policy of "appeasement and weakness." Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said the United States must take "punitive action" if any hostages were harmed and former New York Sen. James Buckley said America has "invited contempt" in turning the other cheek.

Anti-Iranian demonstrators protested Saturday and Sunday in Fort Worth, waving placards urging "Nuke Iran" and "Send in the Marines." Small rallies were held at several cities in Massachusetts.

Shahla Hodjat, a naturalized American citizen of Iranian birth, said she received a call from the college where she once studied, asking her to report to an immigration officer. "I was really angry," said Miss Hodjat, who practices law in Los Angeles. She said she had been flooded by calls from frightened Iranian clients, but "I can't personally stop the anti-Iranian sentiment from harming them."

Meanwhile, in Albany, N.Y., Delia Williams Mallory sat up all night awaiting word that her 22-year-old grandson was among those released from the embassy. But Westley Williams was not among those freed immediately.

"I went to sleep in front of the TV set. I missed the news," she said. "I can't sleep now. I'll just wait until morning and call the State Department."

Careful Shopping Will Reduce Food Costs

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The government has predicted that food prices could go up by as much as 11 percent in 1980, but you don't have to pay the higher prices if you shop carefully.

Economists at Citibank, the country's second-biggest commercial bank, recently priced a random marketbasket of 36 food and non-food items at a New York City supermarket.

They found that a careful shopper rang up a bill of $51.08. A careless shopper, who picked haphazardly, without paying much attention to price, paid $83.39 for the same products. The careful shopper saved 39 percent — more than three times as much as the maximum price boost predicted for next year.

Shopping to save takes time and effort. But the trouble may be worth it. Suppose you spend $60 a week on food. Assume you can save just 15 percent by spending an extra hour on shopping — clipping coupons, comparing prices, planning menus around specials. That comes out to $9 a week. That's more than $450 a year. How many hours would you have to work to earn enough to save $450?

Some of the savings reported by the Citibank shoppers were dramatic. One brand of vinegar, for example, cost more than twice as much as another — 34 cents a quart versus 79 cents. Three pounds of onions, purchased loose, cost 69 cents. The same amount, packaged in a bag, carried a price tag of $1.77.

Here are some of the things you can do to save money:
—Check newspaper ads before you shop. Circle specials and buy those products at the store that offers the best deal.

—Compare prices on non-sale goods. A 10-cent saving on an advertised special is no bargain if a store's regular prices are higher than the competition.

—Try to plan your spending and shop less often. Each time you enter the supermarket, you're vulnerable to impulse buying; fewer trips mean fewer potential temptations. Don't go shopping when you're hungry.

—Look for unit prices so you can compare different sizes. The larger size is usually — but not always — cheaper. Federal law requires that a package labeled with a name that implies a price advantage — "economy size," for example — must be at least 5 percent cheaper, per ounce, etc., than the smaller size.

The law does NOT apply to names like "family size" or "giant size."

—Inspect store displays carefully. A special display doesn't always mean a special price.

—Suit quality to use. No-frills brands in plain packages often offer equal nutrition at much lower prices.

—Learn to compare true cost as well as price. Spare ribs may seem to be cheaper than hamburger, but you get fewer servings per pound.

—Don't reach for the first item you spot. Stores often put expensive items — with a higher mark-up — at eye level; bargain brands are on the top and bottom shelves. Stretch to save.

AAM Plans Winter Motorcade To Seek Higher Farm Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In late January or early February, militant farmers who last year used tractors to disrupt Washington, D.C., traffic, will return to the nation's capital to demonstrate again for higher farm prices.

American Agriculture Movement delegates from 22 states met in Washington this past week and picked a committee to coordinate a winter motorcade.

Wayne Peterson of Holabird, S.D., said the farmers may journey across the nation in pickup trucks fueled by 100 percent alcohol fuel, instead of tractors. The group this year is promoting alcohol fuels as strongly as it seeks support parity prices for crops.

"I think it's going to be a people demonstration," Peterson said. "We're not coming back with iron."

While gasohol — a mix of gasoline and 10 percent alcohol — is available at gasoline stations, the farm group is pushing 100 percent alcohol fuels so farmers can become energy self-sufficient.

The Agriculture Department is predicting farm income may drop 20 percent next year, and Peterson said his group thinks a Washington lobbying effort is needed this winter.

"We must all work together, everyone in America, to ensure that we leave the production of food in the hands of the private sector," he said.

The organization was formed in late 1977 when farm prices had fallen sharply. In early 1978, thousands of farmers converged on Washington and convinced Congress to raise price supports for wheat and cotton.

Murdered Illinois Mayor Foretold Assassination Plot

CHICAGO (AP) — Almost foretelling his death, Mayor William Hawkins of Phoenix scrawled a brief and chilling note a week before he was killed in the strike-plagued suburb south of Chicago, police say.

"I was to be executed Tuesday but I got a stay of sentence and I am now on probation," the note said.

On Tuesday, Oct. 16, Hawkins, 57, was cut down on the driveway of his modest suburban home by three of six bullets fired from an assassin's high-powered rifle.

Two days later, Hawkins died without having made a statement. Whatever threat he feared, he apparently kept to himself, investigators said. They have found no one in whom he confided, including his wife.

"I really can't figure why my husband was killed," Nancy Hawkins said. "He treated everyone alike, fair and to his advantage."

The note, found almost two weeks ago by Cook County Sheriff's police, and ballistics evidence identifying the rifle used in the shooting are the only solid clues investigators have.

"We're sure that whoever shot him wanted him dead by virtue of the number of shots fired," Sgt. Arthur Jackson, who found the letter among personal papers in Hawkins' village office, said

Sunday. "It was definitely someone who knew the mayor's habits."

The shooting followed a four-day police strike over Hawkins' order to drop six officers from the 21-member police force. They were hired for the village of 3,000 with federal training grants.

Hawkins, a reformer serving his second term in the part-time job, cited the federal government's cutback on the training money for the reduction.

Less than an hour after announcing the cutbacks, a bullet from a .38-caliber pistol fired from a passing car shattered the front window of his home.

Hawkins, who worked as a steel plant foreman during the day, reacted by arming himself and starting negotiations with the police. Investigators said the talks, which eventually resulted in the rehiring of all the fired officers, were well along toward ending the dispute when Hawkins was gunned down.

"We are talking to all of the police officers as a matter of procedure," Jackson said. "But they are not suspects and we don't view them as such."

Another ongoing probe by sheriff's police into reputed gambling operations in the town led to speculation that Hawkins was ordered killed by a syndicate operator upset by police investigations.

Church Faces Big Tasks As New Leader Of UMW

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Sam Church appears to have the support of many of the United Mine Workers' rank-and-file members who say they hope he can bring harmony to the troubled union.

"I think Sam Church can handle the job," said Tom Owens, a retired miner from Virginia.

Church, 43, whose no-nonsense approach has rankled some miners, became head of the 277,000-member union with the resignation last week of Arnold Miller. Miller was recovering from a heart attack when he announced his resignation.

a local, and then a district official. Seven years ago, when Miller first won the presidency, Church supported the vanquished UMW leader, W.A. "Tony" Boyle.

Boyle was convicted of murder in the 1969 slaying of his rival, Joseph Yablonski, and his family, and is serving a life term.

Miller paid Church respect, even though the latter had allied himself to Boyle.

Gas Rationing Starts Again In California

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The odd-even gasoline allocation system that ended long lines at California gas stations last summer started again today, but the new round of semi-rationing has an important loophole for motorists.

The license plate system was ordered restored in 15 counties by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who said he took the step to prevent panic buying and to instill habits of conservation in view of the Iranian oil cutoff.

For California motorists, today is an odd day. But the governor amended his order restoring the odd-even plan, permitting motorists to fill their tanks no matter what the day — if they can prove they are 100 miles from home.

California was the first state to experience long lines at service stations last summer and the first to put the odd-even plan into effect.

Brown, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, bucked considerable local political and public resistance in his latest move. The governor said the prospect of another fuel squeeze made it prudent.

The 100-mile-from-home clause appeared a concession mainly to the tourist industry as exemplified by the fact that it is slightly over 100 miles from Los Angeles to the popular desert resort of Palm Springs.

Drivers seeking gas on the "wrong" day will be asked to produce their drivers' licenses to prove how far they are from home.

Enforcement may prove tougher than last time. In dropping the odd-even plan several months ago, Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said it no longer made any sense because neither motorists nor station operators were abiding by it.

Implementation Of Export Law Delay Criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressmen and farm groups are criticizing the administration for delays in implementing a year-old law to promote exports of U.S. agricultural products.

At a joint hearing of the House Foreign Affairs and Agriculture committees, congressmen recently asked if some agencies are blocking implementation of some parts of the law.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said some administration officials apparently think federal spending to promote farm exports should be cut because farm exports are rising. Record farm exports offset part of the U.S. trade deficit.

"Surely, this is about the worst place in the federal budget to be pinching pennies," Findley said.

Thomas Saylor of the Foreign Agricultural Service, an Agriculture Department agency, said the administration and Congress have supported more funds for market development for the past two years, but it is hard to keep ahead of inflation and greater spending by other food-exporting nations.

Kelly Harrison, the department's general sales manager, said U.S. farm exports used to be merely a way to dispose of surpluses.

"Those attitudes carry over," he said. "They are still embedded in the executive branch."

But Saylor, associate administrator of his agency, said the administration is moving rapidly to open U.S. agricultural trade offices provided by the year-old trade law.

A trade office in Miami, serving the Caribbean and Central America, was opened in September. A Middle East office was opened last week in Bahrain on the Persian Gulf. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland opened an office in Hamburg, West Germany this week.

Offices are expected to be opened in Singapore, Seoul, South Korea, and Warsaw, Poland by the end of the year.

A London office was opened prior to passage of the law.

Saylor said four more trade offices would be opened next year, probably in Moscow, Peking, Caracas, Venezuela, and either Tunis, Tunisia, or Casablanca, Morocco.

The law authorized up to 25 trade offices, but Saylor said no more than 10 are planned because of a lack of money.

Saylor said the administration has carried out two other provisions of the law: promoting assistant agriculture secretary Dale Hathaway to be undersecretary of agriculture and elevating agricultural attaches in 10 nations to the rank of counselor.

The law provided for U.S. financing of breeding livestock exports under credit terms of three to 10 years provided by the department's Commodity Credit Corporation.

The first loan under that provision, $3 million to Spain to finance sales of beef and dairy cattle, was announced shortly after Saylor testified.

Saylor said the Agriculture Department has proposed regulations for financing marketing and handling facilities in importing nations "but there are several major issues which other agencies feel must be resolved before proceeding."

Saylor said the law's provisions for financing reserve stocks and meeting credit competition from other agricultural exporters do not seem necessary under current world conditions.

He said the government could "gear up fairly quickly should the need arise for these types of credit."

The trade legislation provided for credit of up to three years for China.

Saylor said China bought $900 million in farm products from the United States last year for cash. He said Chinese officials have been reluctant to go into debt and have not shown any interest in buying U.S. farm products with credit.

But Glenn Tussey of the American Farm Bureau Federation said China has bought farm products from other nations on credit.

Government Effectiveness Eyed By Businessmen

AUSTIN (AP) — The former president of the Texas Public Employees Association says a group of businessmen studying ways of streamlining state government will find good and bad.

"You're going to see some young people in our state government who would go very well in your organizations ... We also have some that are sitting on their butts," Jess Irwin told the executives last week.

The meeting brought together businessmen and state officials who are working in the Texas State Government Effectiveness Program initiated by Gov. Bill Clements.

Irwin, a retiree who spent 42 years in state government, is helping coordinate the program. He said the program is ambitious and needed.

Paul Wrotenbery, Clements' budget director, told 20 state officials and businessmen part of the problem might be persons who view their appointment to state boards as a non-working honor.

"Too many times board members accept it as an honor and ... sometimes because of age ... they don't really dig in and participate," said Wrotenbery.

He said a governor makes about 4,000 board appointments in four years.

The dozen agencies to be studied include more than half the state employees. The first "management audit" began in October as a team of private businessmen and state officials reviewed the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Sam Coats, president of the Texas Research League, said MHMR is the largest state agency. It employs 28,000 persons and has a biennial budget of $750 million.

"But not one out of 500 Texans knows a thing about MHMR," Coats said.

The MHMR audit is to be completed by March 1, said Bob Jordan of the governor's office.

TRL is serving as liaison between state government and the business leaders in the program.

The volunteer executives are from Shell Oil, Southwestern Life Insurance, First National Bank of Dallas, Halliburton Company, Dow Chemical USA, Associates Corporation of North America, TeleCom Corporation, Cabot Corporation and Tyler Pipe Industries.

Crime Line Requests Data On Fugitives

Lubbock Police report they have recovered more than $202,000 worth of stolen property through calls received on Crime Line, the city's crime solution program that is entirely funded through donations.

Persons with information on a felony crime are urged to call the Crime Line number of 741-1000. If their information leads to the arrest and indictment of a felon, they will be eligible for a reward of at least $300. All callers remain completely anonymous.

Persons wishing to make tax-deductible donations to the Crime Line reward fund should mail them to Box 2000, Lubbock.

Each week, Crime Line spotlights several felonies Lubbock police are especially eager to clear up, but information on any felony crime can get the caller a reward. This week, Crime Line has posted rewards totaling $1,500 for information on the whereabouts of three fugitives and the suspects of two burglaries.

The first fugitive police are seeking is Antonio Vargas Rodriguez, who has been charged with burglary and felony theft and check law violation. He is described as a Mexican-American male, 25, standing 5-foot-9 and weighing 165 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes. He has an "A" tattooed in a web on his left hand and a "T" on his upper arm.

The second fugitive is Carolyn Brigham, also known as Carolyn

Bishop, who has been charged with theft and felony theft. She is described as a black female, 24, standing 5-foot-11 and weighing 140 pounds with brown eyes and short black hair. She sometimes wears a wig.

The third fugitive police are searching for is Robert Leon White, who has been charged with theft of money. He is described as a white male, 29, standing 5-foot-7 and weighing 120 pounds. He has a slender build with tattoos of "RW" and "Love" on his right arm.

Information on the whereabouts of any of these three fugitives could be worth a $300 reward.

The first of the two burglaries occurred Nov. 10 about 8:45 p.m. at 3005 Ave. U. Police said they found the front door open and the window in that door broken out, and some $2,095 worth of music equipment missing.

Taken were a black Rickenbacker electric bass guitar with four control switches, Model No. 4001, Serial No. MD1240; a Sunn Beta bass amplifier, Serial No. A32085; two black 15" Music Man speakers, Serial No. 501772; a Peary CS-400 power amplifier, Serial No. 8A230270; a Furman Sound PQ-6 Parametric Equalizer, Serial No. D0270; and a Fender Bassman 50 amplifier.

In the second burglary, which occurred about 6:20 p.m. Nov. 11 at 4415 37th St., police found that someone had entered the house through a bedroom window and taken more than $6,375 worth of guns and other property.

Police said the items taken included a Ruger model 10 .22 caliber carbine with 25-shot clip, Serial No. 117-75048; a Winchester model 75 target rifle, Serial No. 37486; a Smith & Wesson model 19 with 6" blue steel barrel, Serial No. 35K4164-F7-01830; a Colt AR15 carbine with scope and 30 rounds; a buck knife and two diamond necklaces.

Information leading to the arrest and indictment of either of these two burglars, or any felonies will get the caller rewards of $300.

The Crime Line program has paid out $8,900 in rewards to informants in the eight months since Lubbock Mayor Dirk West initiated it.

Swimmers Cautioned About Oil

GALVESTON (AP) — Coast Guard authorities warned swimmers, surfers and other water sports enthusiasts to stay clear of a stinging oil sheen expected to wash ashore on Galveston Island from a burning tanker for the next several days.

The oil is leaking from the flaming and grounded tanker Burmah Agate, whose 390,000-barrel crude oil cargo began spilling into the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 1 after the tanker collided with the freighter Mimosa.

"Swimmers have been reporting eye irritation after coming into contact with oil sheen," Coast Guard Lt. Ann Bennett said Sunday night.

Reports that the tanker was breaking up sent work crews to the vessel Sunday. Those crews reported some inward doubling of part of the deck, but said the ship was "not in any immediate danger of breaking up."

"Significant quantities of oil grounded in patches between East Beach and San Luis Pass Sunday, in an area one mile south of the Freeport jetties," Miss Bennett said. "More patches are expected to come ashore during the next several days."

Analysis of wind and tidal data indicates that most of the oil due to wash ashore will do so on Galveston Island.

"These conditions increase the probability of oil entering the (Galveston) Bay," Miss Bennett said. "But helicopters will patrol the channel and skimmers are standing by to recover any oil that might enter the bay."

Burning oil on the water also ignited a deflection boom and a skimming boom anchored south of the Burmah Agate, the Coast Guard said, but damage was reported minimal.

Clean-up crews have been scouring Galveston Island scooping up oil-soaked sand, while mechanical skimming equipment continued to vacuum the goo from the ocean's surface as it leaked from the ship, Miss Bennett said.

The collision near the mouth of the Galveston Ship Channel killed 32 sailors. The bodies of 17 crewmen have been recovered; 15 remain missing.

Tugboats continued dousing the blazing tanker with water to keep the forward half of the Burmah Agate intact and undamaged oil-filled compartments from exploding.

Officials have said as many as 18 of the 30 tanks containing oil were believed damaged either by the collision or the ensuing fire and periodic explosions.

Miss Bennett said the Coast Guard and the ship's owners have received suggestions on ways to extinguish the inferno. However, she added, most are impractical.

"One person even suggested bombing the vessel. But it's obvious that bombings and things of that nature are not practical," she said. "The owners have made it clear they want to keep as much of the ship intact without further damaging it."

Drug Suspect Slain In Shooting

EL PASO (AP) — A fugitive from a 5-year-old federal narcotics indictment reportedly has died in a hail of gunfire that may have been drug related, the El Paso Times reported.

George Fred Taylor Jr. was riddled by more than 30 bullets from an automatic weapon at a Mexican residence, the newspaper quoted unnamed family sources as saying.

El Paso attorney Joe Chagra, whose slain brother Lee Chagra was related to Taylor by marriage, confirmed the death. But he was unable to provide details about the time or place of the attack.

"He's dead," Chagra said. "My understanding is that he was machine-gunned and there were between 30 and 70 bullet holes in his body. It's a pretty grisly story."

The Times said that one report placed the killing at Taylor's residence near Parral, while another report said the fugitive had died near Durango.

The attack reportedly took place either Wednesday or Thursday.

Taylor and controversial defense attorney Lee Chagra were indicted in June 1973 along with 35 other persons in an alleged conspiracy involving drug trafficking between several states and Canada.

Those charges were later dismissed.

Taylor fled into Mexico shortly after his indictment in December 1974 on a charge of conspiracy to import marijuana. He later married into a wealthy Mexican family and reportedly was living on a ranch.

According to testimony in gambler Jimmy Chagra's recent drug smuggling trial, Taylor was involved in a marijuana smuggling operation on the Mexican side of the border.

The Times quoted unnamed sources as saying Taylor's slaying was drug related and his brother-in-law also was killed by gunfire.

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: In listing the various peoples who came from other countries to build America, there was no mention of the blacks who came from Africa. Should they not be credited with giving America gospel music and jazz and the blues?

BLACK AND PROUD

DEAR PROUD: Yes. But the blacks contributed much more than music. For decades they worked our fields, cleaned our homes, cooked our meals, nursed our babies and fought our wars. Against tremendous odds, they managed to produce such outstanding Americans as George Washington Carver, Booker T. Washington, A. Philip Randolph, Jesse Owens, Marian Anderson, Jackie Robinson, Ralph Bunche, Thurgood Marshall, Andrew Young and too many more to mention here.

But it took a Civil Rights Act (1964) to grant blacks equal rights and make racial discrimination illegal.

DEAR ABBY: When I was divorced two years ago, I gave my husband custody of our two-year-old daughter because I felt that he was a more patient, responsible and capable parent than I. I pay a monthly support, so it's not as though I wanted an easy out from parenthood.

My problem is my grandparents who live in another state. They haven't spoken to me since my divorce because they think I'm "disgusting" for having given up my child. I've written to them, explaining my reasons for my actions. I've sent gifts at holiday time, but have been ignored. I've telephoned them, but the minute they hear my voice, they hang up on me! I've begged them to see me, but they refuse.

They see my child once or twice a month, so they're not being deprived of their great-grandchild.

REJECTED IN RENO

DEAR REJECTED: You've done all you can. Quit crawling and begging. You didn't deserve to be rejected in the first place. I think it took a great deal of character and unselfishness to have given up your child for the reasons you did. I hope time will soften their hearts and harsh judgment of you. If it doesn't, they will be the biggest losers.

DEAR ABBY: I am amazed that the British didn't get a special mention for their contributions to America. They gave us the very foundation for our nation!

They gave us not only George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin, but most of our founding fathers. And of course, they gave us our language.

Our law is based on British common law.

Also, the British dominance in literature, combined with the English language, provided a tradition that gave us many of our own outstanding literary figures.

D.L. IN MICHIGAN

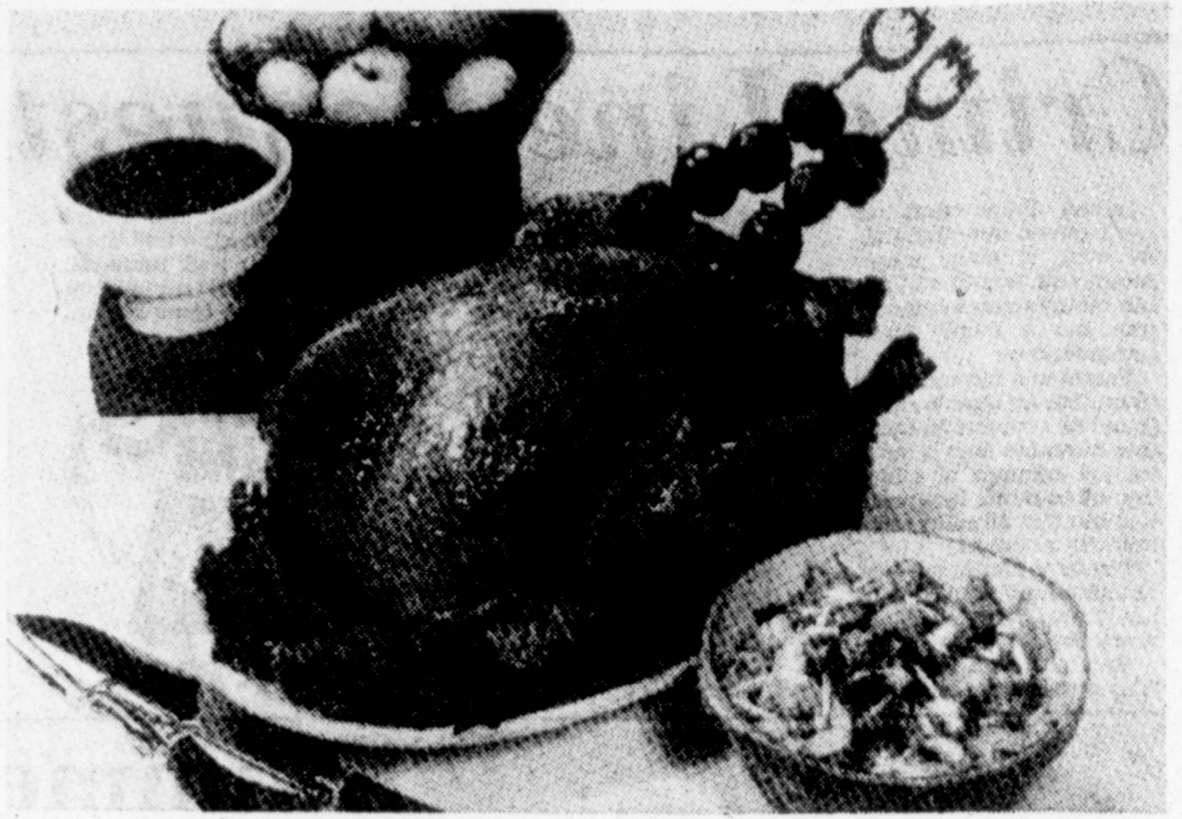

DEAR D.L.: You're right, of course. May heaven forgive me, and God save the king!

CONFIDENTIAL TO A READER IN POPLAR BLUFF, MO.: Hodding Carter said, "There are only two lasting bequests we can hope to give our children: One is roots; the other, wings."

Let go.

Food Stamps Help Low Income Families

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) — If you're having problems stretching your food dollar, and your income is within the guidelines set by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), you could be eligible for food stamps. The Food Stamp Program, run by USDA and state public assistance agencies, helps households with lower incomes buy the food they need.

A new booklet from the USDA called "How To Apply For and Use Food Stamps" is available free by writing to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 686G, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

To find out about eligibility, contact the local food stamp office for an application form. Or, if you're applying for public assistance, you can apply for food stamps at the same time in the welfare office.

After the application is reviewed, a worker will contact you or another member of the household for a confidential interview. At this interview, the worker will go over the application form and the rules of the program. Although most interviews are held at the food stamp office, those 65 or older or disabled can arrange one at home or by telephone.

What are the eligibility requirements? You may be asked to prove certain qualifications. For example, if you aren't a U.S. citizen, you might have to show proof of status from the Immigration and Naturalization Service. However, even if some members of your household don't meet this requirement, those who do may qualify for food stamps.

All households may have up to $1,750 worth of resources. And, if at least one person is 60 years of age or older, households with two or more persons may have up to $3,000. Under the Food Stamp rules some resources are counted and some are not. Money in checking or savings accounts is counted. But, your home and lot and personal belongings are not counted.

And, except in certain cases, all members of your household between the ages of 18 and 60 must register for work.

If, after looking at your household income and subtracting essential expenses, the worker finds you qualify, you'll get food stamps each month. The amount you get depends upon the size of your household and your monthly income after deductions.

When you send for the free booklet, "How To Apply For and Use Food Stamps" (free), you'll also receive a copy of the free "Consumer Information Catalog." It lists more than 200 selected free or low-cost publications from the federal government. The "Catalog" is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

When dresses went above my knees, my slips were too long.
When dresses dropped below my thighs, my slips were too short.
This year was one of those phenomenal years that occur once in a person's lifetime. The length of the dress and the slip was compatible. Do you have any idea what the odds are of having a dress and slip that come out even?
The same odds as having your car washed on a sunny day: 10,000 to one.
Then one night my husband said, "What's that white lump oozing out of the slits in your dress?"
"It's my slip," I said.
"It looks terrible."
The simple truth is every skirt and every dress on the racks this year have slits in varying lengths from the knee to the thigh to My Heavens, don't back into a room!

To date, I have not found a way to solve the problem. I have tried doing the Bette Midler Shuffle, where you take steps so small your feet never leave the floor. This eliminates drafts and movement, but takes you 30 minutes to walk across a small room.

I've tried the Handbag Coverup, where you conveniently place your handbag in front of every opening that is exposed, making you as nervous as a woman with chocolate breath at a Weight Watchers meeting.

The Six-Inch Slip has been invaluable to me. It starts at the waist and ends up just above the hips. However, there are two hazards you must consider. If the dress is sheer, you can never appear in a room where there is light, and if the dress is silk, the static from your pantyhose will make you look like a newly-powdered powder room.

There are some people who are naive enough to think you can sew the slits together and eliminate the problem. This nonsense usually comes from women whose pantyhose bag at the knee.

I walked into a room the other night and my husband whispered, "What's that lump around your waist?"
"It's my slip rolled up."
"Then what's that white lump oozing out of the slits of your dress?"
"It's my leg."

He was going to ask another question but thought better of it.

Special speaker for the meeting will be John E. Garstka, an associate professor at the University of Kentucky. His topic will be "The Preservation and Re-use of Historic Buildings." He has participated in preservation efforts in Post.

All interested in becoming members of the Heritage Society are urged to attend Tuesday's meeting or to contact the society's president, Ron Beard, at 744-2374.

Texas Lamplighters Chapter of ABWA will sponsor a style show tonight at 7:30 in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Fashions from Lil Mam'selle and Jones-Roberts Casuals will be shown.

History will also take the spotlight at a Tuesday noon meeting of the Lunch Bunch at the Mahon Library Community Room. Mrs. Maxine Blankenship will present a slide-illustrated talk about noteworthy homes and public buildings throughout the state. While for some of us, the term "interior decorating" may have gastronomical connotations this festive week, the ladies of Texas Zeta Zeta will discuss that subject and home furnishings at a meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Pam McKinley.

Our yearbook for the Lubbock Women's Club lists no meetings for this week so we can assume that all the members are engaged in enjoying the holiday and catching their collective breath just once more before Christmas holidays are upon us.

Happy Thanksgiving!

MOUTHWATERING BEEF

Here's a mouthwatering beef recipe which won't break the budget. Sprinkle a beef chuck roast with seasoned salt, seasoned pepper and garlic powder with parsley. Brown in hot oil on all sides, add water to cover and simmer slowly until tender. Serve with crispy steamed vegetables and the family will know they're attending a banquet.

Wills Provide Several Needs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wills do more than pass on family assets to relatives and friends. They can keep a family business operating, name guardians for minor children or create trusts to care for them until the children are old enough to control family assets themselves.

Careful estate planning with a will can also help minimize legal costs and taxes.

A recent government publication contains tips on how to do all these things, and more. To order the free booklet, write for Providing for Your Heirs — Non-Sale Property Transfers, Consumer Information Center, Dept. 677G, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable; as South you hold:
♦865432 ♥A10 ♦83 ♦AJ4
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—This hand is deceiving. If you think it is a minimum, look again! Now that partner has raised spades you must revalue your hand as if you were the opening bidder. Your fifth and sixth spades gain added value—despite the raggedness of your suit, you might not lose a trump trick in view of partner's support. In addition, you have fine support for partner's club suit. Your hand is, in fact, worth a full opening bid, so to bid less than four spades would be a dereliction of duty.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AKQ9 ♥52 ♦K7 ♦109832
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
4 ♥ Pass Pass 4 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—East's preempt has achieved its purpose—here you are at the four-level with a good hand and you don't know what to do! We would not criticize a bold jump to six spades, for partner might easily have the right hand. Ideally, we would like to invite to slam, but there's no good bid. If you try five spades, partner will almost surely reject you because his trump suit is shoddy. All in all, we would stay fixed and take a certain profit by passing.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♥AKJ52 ♦AQ94 ♦Q1072
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♦ 4 ♦ ?
What action do you take?

A.—Once again the preempt has worked—we no longer have the room to explore scientifically the full potential of the hand. However, this time we are not prepared to stay out of slam. The best way to describe our hand is to make a cue-bid of five spades and see how partner reacts.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦9853 ♥AQ85 ♦Q ♦AKJ10
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♦ Dble. Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—If you discount your queen of diamonds, you do not have much more than a minimum takeout double. However, there are many hands that North might have for his simple one heart takeout that would offer a reasonable play for game. Your hand just about merits a raise to two hearts.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦AJ1032 ♥A93 ♦K102 ♦AQ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Your prime values, intermediates and fifth spade made your hand just too strong for an opening no trump bid. Since partner's response shows 13-15 points, you are in the slam zone. However, you are not quite strong enough to bid the slam yourself. An invitational jump to four no trump, which is not Blackwood, describes your values adequately.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AKJ72 ♥Q8 ♦A93 ♦A87
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
3 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Despite the fact that his heart suit isn't solid and that he has only one ace, partner had enough to open the bidding and then jump raise your suit. There are all sorts of fancy bids you could make, and you could even ask for aces and kings, but nothing is going to give you more information than you already

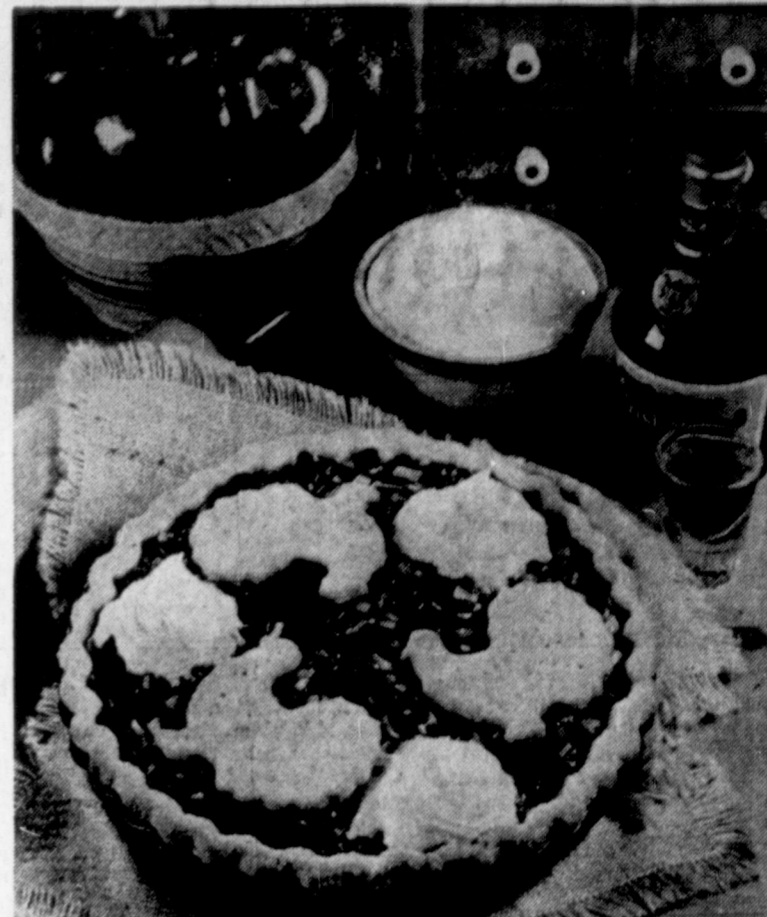

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦6 ♥KQJ10 ♦9852 ♦AQ83
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 2 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—The auction has developed in an unfortunate manner. Since partner could not respond one spade, there is a very real danger that your shortness in the suit could prove fatal to a no trump contract. Nevertheless, partner's jump to two no trump is forcing, and the only intelligent action you can take is to raise to three no trump. If you introduce one of your minors, partner will almost surely assume that you have five hearts, which could land you in an even worse contract.

Q.8—As South vulnerable, you hold:
♦A ♥AK10873 ♦Q95 ♦KJ6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
3 ♥ Pass 4 ♦ Dble.
Pass Pass 5 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Partner's jump over game after a strong auction conveys a specific message. He has two fast losers in the unbid suit—in this case, clubs. Since you have that suit under control, you must bid six hearts.

Study Uncovers Problems

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Marriages, like people, go through a mid-life crisis, a Brigham Young University sociologist says.

The turmoil is not due to lack of romance, but to the everyday pressures from children, jobs and money problems, he has concluded from a recent study.

"Marriage is every bit as rewarding, if not more so, in the intermediate phases than it is in the initial phases," says Dr. Spencer Condie, whose survey covered more than 150 couples in Utah.

But, he adds, it's also a potentially precarious stage of the family life cycle, when families are trying to make the transition, economically, from "toys to skis, cars and motorcycles."

"The children are reaching their teens and parents are afflicted with all the curses of the middle class such as chaffering their children to music lessons and ball games," Condie explains. "The father is devoting more time to his job, angling for a promotion, and the mother is investing the best years of her life in her children."

"In some cases the branching interests of husbands and wives never do converge again," he adds. "After the last child leaves home and the husband has pursued his career and the wife has had so many of her emotional investments tied up with the family, they may have very little in common."

One of the most interesting aspects of his study, he says, is the fact that both husbands and wives felt that the greatest rewards from the marriage came during the times when the greatest demands were being made.

Condie explained this paradox by saying that happy marriages are similar to winning an Olympic gold medal — the greater effort, the greater reward.

"In order to obtain high profits, you have to make big investments. In other words, you get out of marriage what you put into it," he pointed out.

Condie asked the couples in his survey to rate nine different roles and assign numerical values to each role corresponding to its demands, as well as its rewards. When the two numbers were factored he came up with the "profits" of that role.

The most rewarding roles in relative order of importance were those of spouse, parent, income provider and housekeeper. Next in importance were religious activities, community service, social activities, affiliation with professional organizations, and educational roles.

The survey also revealed that husbands sometimes get the most enjoyment out of the marriage during the times that are least satisfactory for the wife.

In order to avoid a parting of the ways during these trying times, couples should "anticipate the problem so they can deal with it when it comes," Condie says.

"If couples anticipate future challenges when they are first married and on the honeymoon, then they can deal with them better when increased challenges confront them later," he says.

Virginia Daniels came to Pat Walker's because of pain in her shoulder & neck. She reduced from a SIZE 8 to a SIZE 3

Virginia Daniels Says:
"I have a whole new way of life now, thanks to Pat Walker's. Before I came to the salon, I didn't think I needed to lose weight. In fact, I first went to Pat Walker's to seek help for some muscle pain in my neck and shoulders. However, it didn't take long for me to realize that I did indeed want a new figure, one I could be proud of.

The passive exercise at Pat Walker's helped the muscle problem, and at the same time took me from a size 8 down to size 3! The staff at the salon has helped me realize the importance of taking care of myself. Now my family is proud of me and so am I!"

Gun-Wielding Suspect Arrested

A Texas Tech University student was arrested Sunday after he reportedly was seen pointing a gun at another person in the 700-block of Avenue J.

The 20-year-old suspect allegedly got out of his car, pointed a pistol at another man, yelled "freeze" and then began chasing the man on foot.

A witness called police about 4 p.m. and said he saw the Tech student and a black man chasing the other person — whom police could not locate. Police found the suspect's car parked behind an apartment complex with its engine running and doors open.

When the suspect went back to his car officers asked if the vehicle was his and he reportedly said, "Yeah, that's my car. Me and my roommate came over here to collect some money this dude owes me. When we got here, he took off running."

Reports indicate the man said he had been armed with only a BB gun.

Police said they found a loaded .22-caliber revolver and a rifle in the student's car. He was taken to the county jail and booked on suspicion of unlawful carrying of a weapon.

The man's companion said he had been armed with a BB gun, but that he had hidden the weapon. He was being questioned early today.

In a Sunday night arrest, a 22-year-old Lubbock man was taken into custody after he allegedly caused a traffic accident about 8:45 p.m. in the 1900-block of 26th Street and then walked away from the scene with his wife.

The suspect, who reportedly was armed with a hunting knife, was apprehended by police after he fell on the pavement in the 2400-block of Avenue Q. Arresting officers said they had to struggle with the suspect before taking him to the county jail.

Ester Garza of 2703 Dartmouth St. told Lubbock police she was at Broadway and University Avenue about 10:30 a.m. Sunday when she saw her car drive by.

She said she rushed home and found her house burglarized, the car keys missing and her Gremelin gone. The Department of Public Safety contacted the woman later in the day and said a trooper had located her car south of Lubbock on U.S. Highway 87.

Police reports state the woman driving the car told the trooper the vehicle had stalled, and that the trooper drove the woman to her boyfriend's house in New Home.

The suspect was described as a short Mexican-American female in her teens. Mrs. Garza said the girl had done baby-sitting for her in the past.

Tirsa Hernandez of Tahoka told city police her purse, containing a $534 check and $46 cash, was stolen about 9 p.m. at a pool hall in the 700-block of 13th Street.

The alleged thief was described as a short, heavy-set Mexican-American woman with brown hair and brown eyes.

D.E. Goulet of 2012 30th St. said his house was burglarized between Saturday and 8 p.m. Sunday, with the intruders getting $742 in electronic equipment.

Police arrested a 32-year-old Clovis, N.M., man for driving while intoxicated, possession of marijuana and several traffic tickets after a police chase on 50th Street about 2:15 a.m. Sunday.

Reports show that an officer saw the man traveling on 50th Street at a high rate of speed and saw him run five red lights before he stopped in the 3300-block of 50th St.

Police found a small pill bottle on the suspect, which reportedly contained marijuana.

The suspect refused to be given a breathalyzer test at the police department and was taken to county jail.

A 23-year-old Lubbock woman, who reportedly was involved in two hit-and-run accidents before she struck two flag poles on 50th Street Sunday morning, was treated at Health Sciences Center Hospital and later taken to county jail.

The woman, who was booked for driving while intoxicated, was reportedly involved in hit-and-run accidents at 48th Street and Avenue Q and 50th Street and Avenue Q about 7:54 a.m. Police were called to an accident with injuries in the 2600-block of 50th Street about 7:55 a.m. and discovered that a car, fitting the same description as the one involved in the hit-and-run accidents, had struck two flag poles. The driver was taken to HSCH by EMS.

Ollie Homans of 2311 Fir Ave. reported that someone took $18,390 worth of jewelry from a box in her bedroom closet sometime between Nov. 10 and Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Homans gave police the name of a suspect.

Beverly Doss of 2010 15th St. is missing $1,560 worth of property, including a television and stereo system, after a weekend break-in at her home.

Mike Walsh of 2123 33rd St. reported that someone removed a rifle and tools, valued together at $625, from his home sometime during the past week.

UAW Head Says Kahn Distorted Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Auto Workers president Douglas Fraser today accused Alfred Kahn, President Carter's chief inflation fighter, of manipulating figures to give an unfair picture of the union settlement with the ailing Chrysler Corp.

Testifying before the Senate Banking Committee in support of a proposed $1.5 billion government loan guarantee for Chrysler, Fraser said Kahn had been "an abysmal failure" in his job.

Kahn told reporters Nov. 10 the UAW agreement with Chrysler was "outrageous," would amount to $1.3 billion over three years and probably exceeded the administration's voluntary wage guidelines. Kahn said the union ought to give more than the $203 million in wage concessions that it granted as part of the contract.

Fraser told the committee, "The only thing outrageous in the entire matter is the conduct of Mr. Kahn. ... He makes reckless statements which cloud the whole issue."

Said Fraser: "If he were not such an abysmal failure in his job and got just a 1 percent decrease in the inflation rate, Chrysler would save $100 million in the next three years."

He said Kahn's estimate of $1.3 billion was "a very unfair figure" because, for example, it included rising health care costs that would not benefit workers.

"That's how he manipulated those figures," Fraser said.

The union chief defended the $203 million package of concessions, which represents the difference between what Chrysler workers will get and what the UAW employees of General Motors and Ford will receive, as a "significant sacrifice" by employees and "a real savings" for Chrysler.

He added, "We have specifically not ruled out further actions on our part — other than a contract reopening — to contribute to the success of the financial plan" submitted by Chrysler in its bid for the loan guarantee.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, told Fraser, "It may come to that point. It may be that you will have to be asked for added sacrifice or this simply is not going to be approved."

The Senate committee is to start preliminary voting on the Chrysler aid plan Nov. 29.

Governor Wants To Know Why Cargo Data Hard To Obtain

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The manifest said the plane carried radioactive cargo, but it took the Air Force two hours to determine that the suspect military material in the crashed and burning aircraft was no more dangerous than a luminescent watch.

Gov. Scott Matheson wants to know why.

All three crewmen died when the civilian Lockheed Electra turboprop, owned by Transamerica Airlines but carrying Air Force cargo, crashed into a cow pasture Sunday, just 10 minutes after taking off from Hill Air Force Base in Ogden, Utah, officials said.

For two hours after the plane burst into flames and plunged to the earth two miles west of an industrial park, military and civilian officials tried to find out how much radioactive material the plane carried and what type of substance it was.

They finally learned that the material was thorium, often used in making luminous watch dials. In this case it had been used as a strengthening agent in an alloy used in a spare gear box and it posed no health hazard.

Officials had thought the material might be tritium, which could be hazardous if released in smoke from the burning plane.

However, Salt Lake City-County Health Director Dr. Harry Gibbons ordered urine tests and geiger counter scans for the more than 50 firefighters and rescue workers who surrounded the plane minutes after it nosed into the pasture. Health officials had completed 37 exams before learning that the radioactive material was harmless.

Al Britton, Salt Lake County's emergency services coordinator, said the vague manifest is a problem he runs into every day. "The information is not easily available," said Britton. "It's a nationwide problem."

There was also some question about explosives on board the plane. "We were told there were 1,500 pounds on board," said Sheriff Pete Hayward.

Britton said the Air Force later reduced that to 15 pounds of class-C explosive, a slow-burning substance.

Matheson said he wants to know why it was so difficult to learn what was on the plane and how to deal with it.

Another military plane crashed nearby earlier this year and Matheson said he wants to know why two military-related aircraft crashed so near each other in so short a period of time.

"I'd like to know if their flight path puts dangerous cargo over populated areas and if those flight paths ought to be shifted," Matheson said.

Witnesses reported hearing two explosions and seeing a bright flash and then a fireball that separated and fell to the ground.

Senate May Stiffen Windfall Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Preliminary moves indicate the Senate is more likely to toughen the pending windfall profits tax than to reduce it below the $138 billion return voted by the Senate Finance Committee.

There has not as yet been a vote on increasing the finance committee's version, which President Carter called a "trillion dollar giveaway" to the oil companies.

But senators who favor a weaker tax lost a vote Friday to cut the general windfall tax rate from 60 percent to 50 percent, and the 53-32 margin indicates considerable strength by those advocating a tougher windfall profits tax.

Under the finance committee bill, oil companies would pay $138 billion in taxes on the windfall profits they earned as a result of the decontrol of oil prices.

The House passed a tougher, $277 billion bill last June.

In advance of today's session, Senate Finance Committee chairman Russell Long, D-La., said he was determined to prevent non-germane amendments.

Long, chairman of the powerful committee and floor manager for the bill, has announced he will oppose an amendment by Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas,

Gunman Takes Two Hostages

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — A man armed with a shotgun and demanding to see his girlfriend took two hostages at a warehouse today, police said.

State police said they negotiated by intercom with Joseph Blair, 23, of Clarksville, Ohio, who held two persons in the shipping department of the Levi Strauss Co.'s regional distribution center in this Cincinnati suburb.

Four persons originally were taken hostage, but two were released shortly after the incident began, police said. Willard Brooks, an employee, said he was filling orders at about 8:45 a.m. when a man holding a shotgun came in and demanded to see his girlfriend.

"He was mad and pointing it (the gun) around a lot," Brooks said, who described the man as hysterical. Brooks said he told the supervisor about the intruder and then left the office.

Employees were moved from the immediate vicinity of the incident, but continued working in other parts of the building.

Suspect Returns To Classroom

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A man who took over a college classroom at gunpoint earlier this year and threatened to kill himself returned to the same school today armed with a deer rifle, police said.

Police rushed to the Knoxville Business College after getting reports that the same man had for the second time this fall taken over a classroom.

Police later said the man had released his only hostage, a teacher, and was speaking with department negotiators inside the building. There were no reports of injuries.

"I know that he doesn't have any hostages," Karen Freels, a police department employee, said. "He did but they're all out now. He has made no demands and a negotiator is talking to him. He made no demands last time."

Carlene Roach, a senior complaint processor with the police department, said that at about 11:15 a.m. EST a school official named Ron Huddleston telephoned to report that a man armed with a deer rifle had run up the stairs of the downtown school and taken over a classroom.

"He said it was the same idiot," she said.

On Sept. 27 Louis Posey walked into a college classroom, pointed a pistol at his head and threatened to kill himself. Police talked him out of the building and no one was hurt.

Posey became a mental facility patient, but authorities said he was now on a 10-day furlough and confirmed that he was the one inside the building today.

Student Steve Rogers said he was in the classroom when Posey walked in today with a .30-30 rifle. The teacher asked him what was wrong, he said. The man replied, "Things aren't going well, I'm just going to prison."

Making Wishes Become Reality
Is True Concept Of Charlene's

"We try to make wishes come true at Charlene's of Town South."

"We are quickly approaching the holiday season with its spirit of excitement. It is wonderful to change seasons, and especially to enter the holiday season."

"We at Charlene's are dressing customers at this time for Christmas cruises and for Christmas holidays in Hawaii. One customer is packing for South Africa. Doesn't all this make life interesting?"

"Our own holiday entertaining can have a lot of glitter and dazzle... you should select something really beautiful for yourself in a sweater with prismatic metallic stripes, or select a soft blouse with a touch of gold."

"Skirts with slits and of soft velours or velvet are 'in,' and the drama of black velvet is as lovely as an evening skirt. The luxury fabrics are just right for the holidays."

"The belt is such a wonderful fashion accessory," Charlene notes. "Select the fish scale metal stretch styles or wide iridescent ones, or sequined ones to add a beautiful touch."

There is such a great fashion story, too, in the luxury looks, the velvets or touches of velvet, the velours, the casuals, as well as the 'dressy.'

"For your gift giving, the word from Charlene's is to select some original jewelry by Barne'. We have beautiful costume watches... pearl, gold and ring watches, also stick pin watches."

"Everyone loves beautiful lingerie. Select specially designed lingerie by Bob Mackie, the designer for Carol Burnett."

Select one of Charlene's fur coats for supreme luxury... in a sporty look, fur lined with khaki... the last word in a high fashion look.

"Happy Holidays" from Charlene's Town South, 3402 73rd St., phones 792-2776 or 792-2777!

STARS IN FASHION STORY — Charlene, long a leader in area fashion, is shown in the really beautiful, fully-stocked but uncrowded atmosphere that is Charlene's of Town South, a delightful 'first stop' in preparation for travel, entertaining or other situations calling for fashion in the luxury look.

Deep Feeding Dormant Growth Among Vital a-Perm-o-Green Lawn Services

"Don't neglect your trees and shrubs at this time of year!"

This is the wise reminder from a-Perm-o-Green Lawn, 3210 34th St., phone 795-5296, Lubbock.

Deep root feeding of dormant growth is of vital importance, for it is proven that Spring growth of trees that receive fall applications of fertilizer is far superior to that of plants not fertilized in the fall. Even the height and trunk diameter respond to fall fertilization!

Undernourished trees and shrubs, just like undernourished people, get sick faster and more often than well-fed ones. Only deep root injection can assure strong trunks and branches, healthy leaves and vigorous root growth.

a-Perm-o-Green uses a root zone pressure applicator to force nutrients deep into the root system. This method is seen as the fastest, most effective way to bring shrubs and ornamentals to full foliage, increase buds' resistance to cold, and strengthen trees against wind and disease.

But don't delay; now is time to act, the time to call your local a-Perm-o-Green Lawn unit where Rod Krebs and staff pride in rendering a superior, knowledgeable service.

Of course, a-Perm-o-Green still offers its lawn treatment program, too, a program utilized by many Lubbock homeowners this past summer. Consisting of a precisely timed series of seasonally designed feedings, the lawn program provides an economical, effective way to enjoy strong, healthy lawns year around.

a-Perm-o-Green, then, should be very much in the picture for you, now, whether for trees and shrubs or for the lawn.

It all is effective, convenient and economical.

The Texas-based franchise operation unit in Lubbock is managed by Krebs who is a '77 graduate of Texas Tech.

Krebs points out that the lawn treatment program utilizes a liquid mixture of nutrients, insecticides, fungicides and weed control substances scientifically developed by agronomists who understand your lawn and what it needs.

For lawn or trees, no contract is involved, and satisfaction is guaranteed.

Free analysis and estimates are featured; simply call 795-5296.

"Be kind to your lawn and your trees and shrubs this winter; application of essential nutrients at this time enhances healthy survival through the harsh West Texas winters, and for sure promotes faster greenup next spring.

"Let us give full details, let us be a special friend to your landscape; call us now at 795-5296 for what we believe the ultimate in a practical program for lawn, trees and shrubs. And we believe the cost will be much less than you had dared imagine. Ask your neighbor who has used our services."

JEWELRY — ALWAYS RIGHT — Mrs. Lee Tyler Jr. (Willene) is pictured at Lee's Custom Jewelers where quality and selection dominate. Christmas time and throughout the year.

Lee's Custom Jewelers Stocks 'Christmas Items That Please'

"For Christmas giving, why consider less than a gift of jewelry?"

"And where better could one select a cherished gift, with confidence, than at Lee's Custom Jewelers, 2115 50th St.?"

Whatever the choice, one may be sure that "quality" has been the foremost consideration of Lee's, passing on this quality and selection at sensible prices.

Something for all ages is evident in the attractive and discriminating displays — from quality diamond jewelry to watches and bands.

Lee's Custom Jewelers, in Oakwood Center, has a very good selection of mountings, with equally impressive choice in diamonds and colored stones.

Gift certificates are available, too, and might in many instances be the proper Christmas consideration.

A very good selection of Longines, Wittnauer, Seiko and Technos fine watches is stocked.

Custom-made jewelry is one of the shop's specialties, and there still is time to have custom jewelry orders completed by Christmas, but only if one hurries, for the holidays are near!

Watch repair receives expert attention at Lee's Custom Jewelers, with qualified watchmakers including owner Lee Tyler Jr. on the job. All repair work is done right in the store, with none "sent out," thus assuring both personal and expert attention.

Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed.

Lee Tyler Jr., a Lubbock resident of some 14 years, purchased the firm eight years ago, and he and his wife, Willene, head a staff dedicated to quality merchandise and finest service.

"For jewelry items sure to please, and for watch service and repair of all major brands, one can turn with confidence to Lee's Custom Jewelers, phone 744-4814, in Oakwood Center, Lubbock."

Carpet City Tells Sale Extravaganza, Posts Limited-Time Stamp Opportunity

Thanks for the great reception accorded us at the Sunday Open House at Carpet City, 2257 34th St.

As a gesture of appreciation of this public interest and in consideration of holiday preparation, Carpet City is continuing its big sale started last week, with "savings of 40 per cent to 70 per cent off!"

What a practical way to say "thank you, and we look forward to serving you during the sale and in the future, with all your carpet needs."

Stamp Offer

(Check the limited-time offer of free Gold bond stamps, both giving and redemption, as outlined in last Thursday's sale announcement ad of Carpet City. Check the store for details if the ad is not readily available.)

With the sale prices, with enlarged carpet stock, with the Gold Bond stamp offer and the traditional service of Carpet City, what more could one ask to assist in a carpeting project? Why delay carpet purchased now can enable a whole new decor and a convenience for holiday enjoyment by family or guests. Carpet might even be a great Christmas gift for someone in the family. Right?

Carpet City, a discount store featuring special purchases (factory irregulars and discontinued quantities) was opened June 1 by Howard Darwin, owner, who went into the carpet business after 77 graduation from Texas Tech. Formerly of Brownfield, Howard knows the area and its residents, appreciating their recognition of quality and value.

Carpet City usually receives full rolls from the suppliers, but is glad to cut a roll for particular needs.

Quantity buying from suppliers is one of the factors enabling the firm's discount policy, Darwin explains.

The firm has its own installation crew, with installations guaranteed for a full year. Installation usually can be made within a day or two of purchase.

(Prices quoted in Carpet City advertisement are for carpet only.)

Good Choice

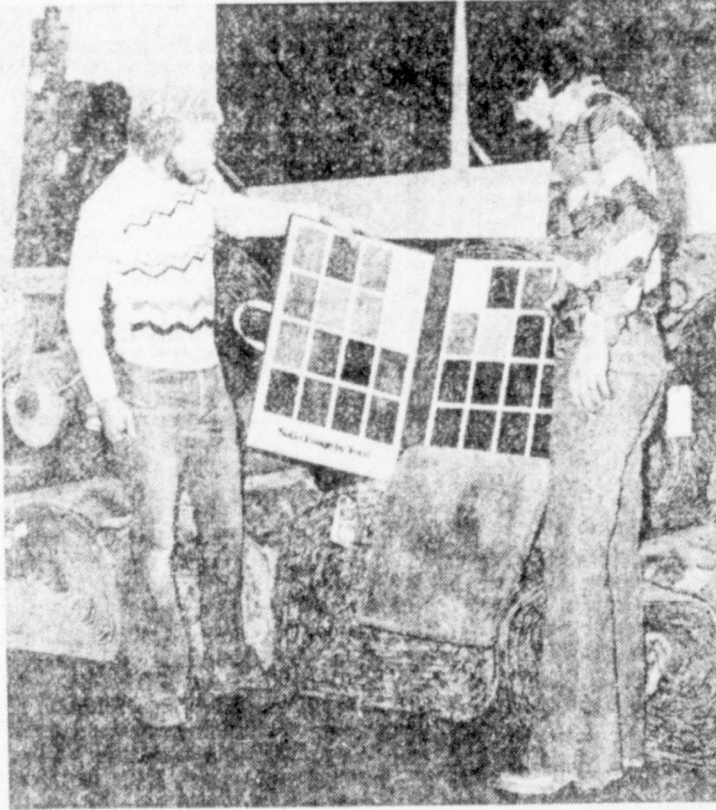

A good color and material selection is maintained, and Darwin says, in explaining prices to be expected, that customers can secure carpet there at about one-half suggested retail.

Financing is available, and both Master Charge and Visa are honored.

Carpet City, 2257 34th St., phone 747-9027, is open six days a week, from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and from 9 until 1 on Saturdays.

The current sale would be a very good time to learn firsthand of the type store Howard Darwin has provided in Carpet City.

A special room has been arranged for sample showing of finest carpet available on custom order. Yes, Carpet City can order just about anything one could possibly desire in carpet, up to the most expensive available. Carpet City is in business to serve "you," whatever your preference, but always assuring quality and savings.

BIKES FOR EVERY NEED. FOR EVERY FAMILY MEMBER

Bugs & Bikes' Complete Sales, Parts, Service Simplifies Christmas Gifting

"Featuring Takara and Motobecane bicycles, Bugs & Bikes at 3211-B 34th St. can be quite a Christmas kind of store for you, too, in gift planning or even for meeting bicycle needs the year around."

Though specializing in adult 10-speed bikes, Bugs & Bikes is devoting full attention to the Model 500 bikes for children—the ideal first bike for the 3 to 6 year old, and great for under the Christmas tree! The Takara units for children are of such rugged design and construction that the bikes can be passed down to several kids! In Cherokee Red, it is ideal for Christmas.

Repair, Accessories
Bugs & Bikes is exclusive Lubbock dealer for the prestigious Takara and Motobecane bikes, also stocking a full line of accessories.

Repairs on all makes of bicycles is a specialty.

Owners-operators Preston and Kathy Doughty point out that the Junior 10-speed bikes by Takara and Motobecane are great for teenagers, too.

And for the really serious bike riders, Motobecane is said "in a class by itself," in the top five worldwide.

Preston invites the customer to compare the quality bicycles on the market, comparing feature by feature. Then one will discover just how very much the lines at Bugs & Bikes have to offer!

Mr. and Mrs. Doughty are glad to take time explaining the criteria for selecting the appropriate bicycle for your particular needs, extending professional but personal interest in your selection and enjoyment of a bicycle best for you.

A good stock of motocross models is stocked.

And something new—Bugs & Bikes not only stocks bicycles but has added a special product that could well be the most considerate Christmas present of all: a Minibrute battery-powered chain saw.

12-Volt Chainsaw
This chainsaw, Doughty explains, is the world's first 12-volt battery powered chain saw.

Just clip the power leads on the saw to the terminals of a 12-volt battery, press the switch and make your cut, it is that easy! The saw starts easily and instantly, it is quieter than gasoline-powered saws and is said to require very little service.

Perfect for cutting firewood and for trimming, the Minibrute 14-inch chain-saw can be used for heavy cutting for a period of time, with actual design for light to medium cutting. It is powered by a small but powerful permanent magnet motor, the type used on electric winches and as starters on many small engines.

How long will Minibrute run on a battery? Well, long enough to cut about a pickup load of wood, using a standard auto battery!

For a thoughtful Christmas, Bugs & Bikes can give the big assist! Select now, at 3211-B 34th St., phone 795-5416, and be assured of quality, selection, and consideration by "pros" in the business. For a bicycle for any age, for a bike with all the desired personalized features, for a craftsmanship/quality/precision unit to enjoy season after season, select from Takara or Motobecane at Bugs & Bikes, the bicycle people at 3211-B 34th.

Business & Industrial Review

BEFORE AND AFTER — The antique Hoosier cabinet is shown here at Finish-Off Stripping Center before and after stripping for an area customer. Speed, quality and convenience mark this new service.

Finish-Off Stripping Center Eases Refinishing 'Headache'

It is quite a service that is performed by the Finish-Off Stripping Center, 1922 Ave. E.

The do-it-yourselfer no longer need endure the fumes, mess and time-consuming labor of stripping down articles for refinishing.

Finish-Off Stripping Center has introduced to the Lubbock area the unique and proven Houck process that quickly and thoroughly removes layers of paint, stain and varnish. The process is effective and safe for wood, metal and other materials, and does not damage the original surface like harsh commercial products and related methods can, the Lubbock firm points out.

Open Saturdays, Too

Finish-Off Stripping Center is now open on Saturdays, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., for increased customer convenience, in addition to the 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. hours Mondays through Fridays.

Not only is a superior and in-demand service afforded, but Finish-Off Stripping Center stocks a line of refinishing materials including stains, wood dough, polishers, etc.

Finish-Off Stripping Center is relatively new to Lubbock, established by long-time Lubbock businessman L.K. Lankford. Operating businesses here for about 20 years, Lankford is still associated with House Clinic. He was the founding owner of Arcadia Stone Manufacturing. Long involved in the home improvement field Lankford has secured for Lubbock and Finish-Off Stripping Center, the exclusive rights to the Houck process for professional stripping. The nearest comparable facility specializing in this unique process is located in Dallas.

Explains Need

Lankford commented that he "felt there was a definite need in this area, since many people enjoy refinishing but don't like the messy part." Now at a reasonable cost, Finish-Off Stripping Center can accomplish the hard part, leaving the do-it-yourselfer the fun part.

Even the largest furniture pieces can be completely stripped without having to be dismantled. Glued joints, formica insets or thin wood veneers are not damaged. The process is safe for even marble or stained glass.

Advantages Cited

Antique dealers and other individuals involved with restoration of treasured heirlooms have already discovered the advantages of the service offered by Finish-Off Stripping Center. Pieces with ornately carved designs, curved spindles or other hard-to-reach places can be the at-home refinisher's nightmare. At Finish-Off Stripping Center, the most unreachable cracks and crevices are cleared of the old finish or stain. The most delicate of details is safely preserved, and valuable antiques protected from stripping hazards.

Grease, grime and rust are dissolved away, making the process useful for cleaning tools and equipment. A rust preventative coating is applied to protect any metal surface until the item can be refinished. Among articles already processed by the recently opened business have been antique car parts for restoring and a Mercedes trunk lid in need of repainting. Other interesting collector's items and decorative pieces received at the Center have included old milk cans, kitchen scales and a hand drill press, in addition to an assortment of chairs, tables, cabinets and unique wardrobes.

Know-How Assured

Owner-operator Lankford and his wife, Barbara, who assists in the business, attended sessions last May in Atlanta, Georgia, to receive their specialized training in the exclusive stripping process. Since then, they have been setting up equipment and assembling materials for the Finish-Off Stripping Center. A representative from the company's home office in Stamford, New York, joined them initially when they began operating on Aug. 9 to oversee the beginning and to train personnel.

"What have you got that you've been intending" to refinish but have put off because of the dreaded mess and hassle of stripping? Call customer relations director Kenan Curry at 747-3938 or bring your articles to be stripped by Finish-Off Stripping Center at 1922 Avenue E. Achieve completely professional results for your refinishing work by using the quick, thorough and safe process offered exclusively in Lubbock by Finish-Off Stripping Center."

'Ethics, Right Price, Good Product' Maintains Auto Corral's Reputation

"With today's economy, the emphasis on energy conservation, and in the need of getting the most for every dollar outlay, selection of an auto and selection of a dealer from whom to purchase becomes of added significance."

"Whether one is primarily interested in a meaningful guarantee, selection from late-model units or even purchase of a new car for the family or as an added vehicle, it might pay to join the crowd that turns to the Auto Corral, 2811 Texas Ave. in Lubbock!"

After all, Jerry D. McLaughlin is marking his 10th anniversary at the Auto Corral, with this decade in one location, with every-increasing business and other factors speaking well for the firm.

Jerry believes the formula for success is service... in treating folks right, adhering to an honorable code of ethics, providing the right product and at the right price.

On occasion of the anniversary, owner Jerry McLaughlin and his wife, Penny, invite old customers to come by, together with new ones.

"There's always a cup of coffee or a Coke waiting for you at The Auto Corral. It's just that kind of place... friendly and appreciative of friends and customers."

As a bit of history, it can be pointed out that Jerry McLaughlin is no newcomer in the business or in Lubbock. He marks 21 years in the auto field here, and is a lifelong Lubbock resident. He is a '57 graduate of Lubbock High School where he lettered in football, playing with the Westerners three years, and he attended Texas Tech for three more years.

"Honesty, integrity and dependability" are characteristics McLaughlin likes to use and prove in describing his business concept.

"Personal service and a meaningful guarantee has resulted in a situation of absolutely no customer relations problems," he adds. "In fact, some of my customers have been repeat buyers, time and again, some trading with me since I first was in business."

The Auto Corral sells both retail and wholesale, specializing in late model used cars, with some new cars also on the lot. Jerry can secure any make new car and welcomes the opportunity of finding one's preference.

McLaughlin is a member of the Lubbock Independent Auto Dealers Association, of the Texas organization of which he is a director, and a member of NADA, also.

The Auto Corral, easy to find at 2811 Texas Ave., is open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, closing at an earlier 3 p.m. on Saturday.

One-stop shopping is enabled for the auto buyer at The Auto Corral, with late model intermediates and pickups dominating the stock.

SKIING TIME IS HERE — Robin Houston and Peggy Reynolds of the Ski-Lubbock Sports staff are shown with exciting and practical new ski apparel, part of the exceptionally large stock now at the specialized ski shop in west Lubbock. Robin wears a one-piece two-way stretch helinka fiber Innsbruck suit from stock.

Ski-Lubbock Sports Providing Great Solution For Fun, Gifts

"Skiing is our only business; may we help you?" This is the pertinent word from Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St., phone 747-5748, in Lubbock.

"Such specialization can be of benefit to you in the season just commencing, as it has for others served by the folks at Ski-Lubbock Sports since 1973."

Already, there is snow in Colorado, and it is high time to get present equipment ready, or secure new ski equipment including the great new clothing items, for an enjoyable season ahead.

Ski-Lubbock Sports for the first time has added children's clothes to its otherwise comprehensive selection. Now, all the family need make but one stop — at Ski-Lubbock Sports, just a short distance east of the 4th Street-Indiana intersection near the Texas Tech campus.

Clothing selection is at its finest at this time, including latest fashions, items and materials. Skiing underwear for ladies is stocked.

Not only do the products excel, but Ski-Lubbock Sports is especially well known for its fitting and its expertise in equipment maintenance and repair. Nothing is left to happenstance; satisfaction is more important than the sale to Ski-Lubbock Sports owners and staff.

Hoyle Moss provides an extra service in the "Ski Tip of the Week" series prepared and available at the big store. Really valuable information is afforded in these tips, relating to such matters as proper length of ski pant or bib, use of binding covers, keeping the racers edge by doing your own tuning after each day of skiing, etc. Moss even tells how not wearing a hat can cause cold feet!

Rentals

As in seasons past, the rental department is complete, enabling quality skiing equipment use at nominal fee.

The same proficient crew is back to assist in apparel needs, in choice of the finest ski lines, in fitting and in serving with a staff including certified ski mechanics.

Yes, not only is the stock of apparel and all ski equipment most impressive, but Ski-Lubbock Sports is manned by dedicated, top-notch specially-trained "pros."

Ski-Lubbock Sports is easy to reach from just about anywhere . . . from Texas Tech, LCC, the Loop and principal cross-town arteries. Don't forget the location and the easily-spotted and distinctive building at 2918 W. 4th St., Lubbock.

"Name" lines comprise the entire stock at Ski-Lubbock Sports, whether for apparel or skis.

Select from the Head No. 1 Sunline clothing, Innsbruck, Bogner, Anba, White Stag, Rossi, Obermeyer, Snuggler, Demetre sweaters, and others. There are Hanson boots, too, and children's apparel is now stocked to round out the selection for the entire family.

Dynastar, Head and Olin ski lines are stocked, and the Salomon 626 and 727 ski bindings are featured, and Tyrolia 360 racing, 360 diagonal and the new 260 diagonal, even the 60 series bindings for aggressive children are stocked. Also, select from the "Look in 77" turntable bindings.

"Put yourself in our hands" is the qualified invitation of the Ski-Lubbock Sports staff whose whole job is to assure maximum satisfaction, correct fitting, everything that is right for the avid ski enthusiast or the rank beginner.

For Gifting Situations

(Now would be a great time to select for Christmas gifting, too, at Ski-Lubbock Sports.)

Ski-Lubbock Sports, as a knowledgeable dealer and concentrating all activities to the field of skiing, can be the greatest help imaginable in pointing one to a fun season ahead.

The selection of a ski dealer might seem nothing more than a question of convenience, but take it from us (and a lot of our customers) where you buy your skis is a most important consideration, for the dealer you choose will affect the skis you choose, as well as the boots, poles, bindings and accessories you need to improve your skiing and for full enjoyment of the sport. Finding a dealer who can satisfy you in each of these areas is not difficult . . . simply depend upon Ski-Lubbock sports where expertise and customer consideration is the rule rather than exception.

Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry Gift Choices Reflect Holiday Readiness

"Why delay in Christmas gift selection when complete choices are available, right now, at Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry, 2147 50th St.?"

The gift items there correctly reflect the firm's traditional consideration for every age group.

"If you have someone very special in mind for a very special Christmas remembrance, it is high time to visit Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry in Oakwood Center."

For watches, rings, diamonds, pins, neck chains, billfolds, bracelets — and more, and all in a sensible quality-price combo, one cannot go wrong at this well-known and long-respected jewelry firm.

Unusual, beautiful musical porcelain figurines are stocked, including the "Little Drummer Boy," kissing angels, birds, etc.

A large selection of rings is maintained, including dinner rings, engagement rings, birthstone rings, diamond guard rings, mountings, etc.

The gift choices at Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry are truly numerous . . . and delightful.

Diamond pendants are stocked, as are opal pendants, pearl necklaces, etc.

"If you are shopping on a planned and limited budget for that extra special gift on the list, a man's or lady's fine watch from Pigg Bros. might well be just the thing.

There you'll find the so-popular quality digital watches, the prestigious Accutron, Seiko, Citizens and Caravelle.

And remember this: gift items are not limited to adult appeal, or to timepieces for that matter, at Pigg Bros.

There is something in stock for every member of the family, for any possible recipient of any age.

There are scads of baby gifts, costume jewelry items, beautiful lockets, pens, Cross pencils, lighters, Franciscan ware, and more!

"The smart and easy thing to do then, would seem to be to go right this week to Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry, 2147-B 50th St., and make a selection from the full but selective stock, with new items and patterns quite evident.

Even Engraving

"Have the gift engraved, if wished, and be assured your Christmas gift situation has been most satisfactorily solved."

This south Lubbock store has an established reputation for offering only quality merchandise, and highest quality workmanship in watchmaking and jewelry repair. The present season is no exception.

No gimmicks . . . no so-called cut-rate prices on inferior merchandise . . . Pigg Bros. wants your business the next time, too, and they go all out to make one completely satisfied "the very first time you come into the store."

"Why wait . . . shop now at Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry, in Oakwood Center, and know that your Christmas selection has been "right," thoughtfully chosen, and at a price that won't frighten you!"

Ceramic Country Stocks Both Greenware, Completed Items

In preparing for Christmas whether for gifting or for decorating Ceramic Country at 2705-A 26th St. (Plaza Center) can eliminate a lot of those preparation headaches!

Affording both greenware and finished items, Ceramic Country seems to be about the most appropriately-named business one could imagine. Everything in the attractive and relatively-new shop is related to ceramics.

And for that Christmas preparation: Special Orders Welcomed Ceramic Country, phone 792-7502, still can take special orders on finished pieces! But hurry!

Lots of stock has been added since the shop's grand opening in September, and it has become especially well known for its individual attention at any hour during the day for those pursuing ceramic projects.

New Hours Arranged Long pre-Christmas hours have been announced.

On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays the shop is open from 10 a.m. until an 8 p.m. closing; on Tuesdays and Thursdays, hours are 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.; and on Saturday it is 9 'til 1.

The heavily-increased stock includes many, many items not only right for Christmas, but many of a Thanksgiving motif. Select from turkeys, platters, trays, bowls, nativity scenes, Christmas trees and numerous novelties.

Big, Unique Selection The wildlife selection is especially noteworthy, including pheasants, turkeys, ducks, eagles, wrens and other birds, monkeys, leopards, deer, etc.

Many large ceramic items are featured, and it is wisely suggested that one shop and select now in planning ceramic gifts for Christmas.

Hair Square In Caprock Center Seen Superior In Wig, Hair Styling Field

Key Returns Of key interest at this time is announcement that Kay Thomas is back with Hair Square, specializing in styling of wigs and affording the personalized service for which she has long been recognized in Lubbock. Kay reports that new hair pieces are arriving daily, and that a current sale on wigs makes really quality pieces available for $5 and $10.

Corena Rangel with some 12 years hairdressing experience in Lubbock, still is owner of Hair Square. Corena is an expert in hair styling and wig servicing, too, and she has assembled a hand-picked staff to best serve the customer.

The complete selection of wigs, by Rene of Paris, is stocked together with human hair pieces.

Hair Square is a Redken Retail Center, using and selling at retail the respected Redken products.

Open All Week Salon hours are 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, open 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturdays.

As added service, other items made available at the Hair Square include accessories, jewelry, scarfs, sweaters, purses and even hanging plants.

Staffed To Serve The staff includes Corena, Kay, Bea Rodriguez, Pam Pearson, Mary Ledesma, Vicky Moreno, Isabel Castillo, Sally Devita, Margie Cypert, Marcella Garcia, Rosa Vecchio; and Mamie Rebber, shampoo.

Prices remain most reasonable, whether for purchase, styling or delightful restyling of wigs. (Excellent styling results can be expected, whether the hairpiece was originally purchased at Hair Square or not.)

For looking one's prettiest, selection of a hairpiece for the new holiday and season fashions, and appointment for beauty care from one of the stylist staff, or purchase of Redken products, reliance upon the Hair Square could be well advised.

Hair Square, in Caprock Center, measures up admirably in all the considerations that mark it as a superior hair center.

Woolco Aiding With In-Depth Stock, Selection, Multiple Purchase Plans

"Each year, don't you envy the shopper who plans ahead and avoids the last-minute rush of the Christmas season... the person who already has all gifts selected and often paid for in full!"

Woolco makes this so, so easy for all, with its really tremendous Christmas-oriented stock added to each department, and with the layaway and purchase options that make for easy shopping, whatever the need.

"Woolco wants to be your favorite store"... especially during this Christmas season!

Candy — Stacks of It
 "We at Woolco are utilizing every possible display area to place the huge selection with its fantastic depth."
 There are mountains of Christmas candy... boxed chocolates, chocolate-covered cherries, turtles and solid-chocolate Santas.

There are filled stockings and a super selection of candy to stuff stockings. Select from hard or filled candy, canes in several sizes, and more.

There are nuts and coffee cakes, English walnuts, mixed nuts and pecan halves.

Fruit Cakes
 Holiday cookies, even fruit cakes in numerous sizes, ideal for giving or for entertainment needs.

And gift wrap and ribbon in a rainbow of colors.

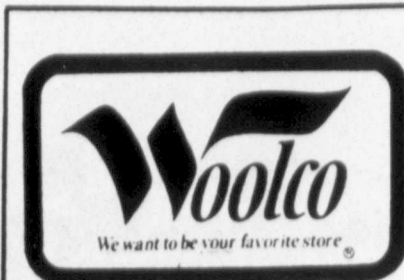

Imagine... budget-priced gift wrap, both paper and foil, beautiful coordinated gift wrap ensembles, gift boxes for every need and the full stock of mailing and wrapping supplies.

For Easter Purchase
 Furthermore, the purchase options made available at Woolco can greatly aid Christmas shopping... or budgeting and purchasing at any season.

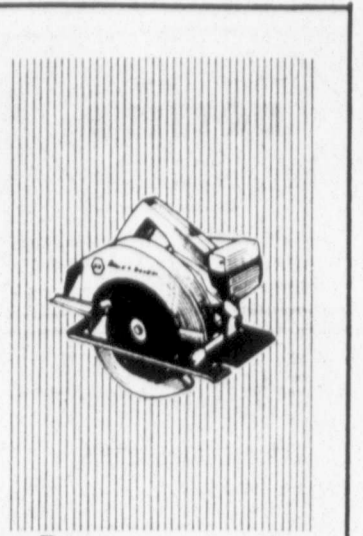

There is a layaway plan, for pick up until Dec. 15, with only a nominal initial payment. Of course there is the popular Woolco Charge and acceptance of Visa and Master Charge, too.

The efficient and friendly credit department personnel will be most happy to serve in either the handling of layaways or in opening a charge account with Woolco.

"Woolco wants to be your favorite store."

Informer May Unmask Mobsters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On a winter evening almost three years ago, Frank Bompensiero stepped out for a stroll near his San Diego home. He never returned.

That night, Feb. 10, 1977, Bompensiero, 71, a gruff, hearty man known to his associates as "The Bomp," was shot four times in the head and neck with a .22-caliber gun.

Police found his body in a pool of blood. A chewed-up cigar, his trademark, lay beside him. They called it a gangland slaying, identifying Bompensiero as a known mobster.

But insiders said he was something more — a mobster who had turned informer for the government.

Tuesday, in federal court, five men who knew "The Bomp" go on trial on racketeering, extortion, obstruction of justice and conspiracy charges, which include the killing of Bompensiero.

In an unusual move, the government identified all five defendants as members of the Los Angeles branch of "La Cosa Nostra," the Mafia.

Their trial, the product of work by the government's Organized Crime Strike Force, is seen as the most important Mafia trial to reach the courts in recent years.

Bompensiero's legacy may be the glare of public scrutiny the trial will focus on the Mafia migration to California over three decades — a history of extortion, murder and terrorist tactics which led to mob control of the enormous West Coast pornography industry.

The historian the government is banking on is their star witness, billed as the most important Mafia informer since Joseph Valachi spilled his story to the McClellan Rackets Committee on national television in 1963.

He is Aladena James "Jimmy The Weasel" Fratianno, a known Mafia hit-man who recently confessed to involvement in 11 gangland executions since the 1940s.

"Although there's no way at all to excuse some of the things he's done in the past, Mr. Fratianno's commitment is a sincere one," said James Henderson, chief of the Justice Department's strike force.

Fratianno has been promised a maximum of five years behind bars and a new identity if he fingers Bompensiero's killers and tells all he knows about the California Mafia.

Fratianno, who has been in protective custody for two years, is said to have turned informant when he heard the mob had issued a $100,000 "contract" for his execution. They believed Fratianno was trying to shake down fellow mobsters for money.

Fratianno has already testified in organized crime-related trials in New York and Las Vegas and has pleaded guilty to complicity in the Bompensiero slaying.

The 65-year-old Fratianno began his criminal career in Cleveland but moved west in the 1940s and became a protégé of Los Angeles mobster Mickey Cohen. He was arrested but never tried in the murders of two Cohen associates. He recently said he was their killer.

In the Bompensiero case, Fratianno says he lured "The Bomp" to a phone booth near his home, then alerted Mafia buddies to kill him. Court documents say the mob believed Bompensiero had informed on Fratianno in a pornography extortion case.

There are varying reports of just who Fratianno has fingered as the trigger-man in the killing. He is expected to name names at the trial.

Those indicted are known kingpins in California organized crime: Samuel Orlando Sciortino, 59; Dominic Phillip Brooklier, 64; Louis Tom Dragna, 58; Michael Rizzitello, 51; and Jack Lo Cicero, 66.

Their indictment is the second in a case long-stalled by pre-trial challenges on technicalities. The first indictment was dismissed in June 1978 on grounds the grand jurors had read and discussed newspaper stories about the case.

Eight months later, when the men were re-indicted on similar charges, one defendant was missing.

Thomas Ricciardi, 47, originally named by the government as the trigger-man in Bompensiero's killing, had died during heart surgery. Lo Cicero, who had been named as driver of the getaway car, also underwent heart surgery but survived.

The team of lawyers defending the five men are expected to stress two points — that Fratianno, a killer and stool-pigeon, is an untrustworthy witness, and that the wrong men were arrested.

As evidence they cite a note found in the trash of Mafia figure Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno Sr. in Tucson, Ariz. The note, found five days after Bompensiero died, was written in Sicilian and said: "Call Turi. P.M. Tell Turi — Thursday night. With semiautomatic gun (short) 22. That doesn't make noise." Bonanno's son, Salvatore, is known as Turi.

Bompensiero was killed on a Thursday night with a .22-caliber semiautomatic. Authorities said they couldn't tell if the note was written before or after the killing.

Scientists Believe Ancient Tracks Made By Man's Direct Ancestor

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 1.5 million years ago, someone walked along a muddy African lake shore and left footprints that lead straight to modern man.

Scientists have found those tracks and believe they are the oldest fossil footprints made by a direct ancestor of man, and the first ever discovered of ancient Homo erectus, the National Science Foundation announced Sunday.

Scientists say the seven footprints appear to have been made by someone between 5 and 5½ feet tall, weighing about 120 pounds. The individual apparently walked from a very wet, muddy area on to drier mud because some prints are larger than others.

The discovery was made in Kenya in sedimentary deposits along the northeast shore of Lake Turkana. Diggers found three prints in August 1978, and the rest last July.

Dr. Anna K. Behrensmeyer of Yale University and the University of California, co-leader of the expedition, said that when the footprints were made, there were two known forms of hominids, or human-like creatures, who walked upright.

Along with Homo erectus, there was Australopithecus, whose skull bones were heavier and brain smaller than his contemporary.

The two types are believed to have come from a common ancestor, but the line of Australopithecus died out for unknown reasons while Homo erectus lived on.

"Both of these forms of hominids are potential candidates for the maker of the tracks we found," said Miss Behrensmeyer. "But the case is stronger for Homo erectus because its fossil bones are preserved in nearby strata, but not the bones of Australopithecus."

The scientist said the expedition also found tools made of pebbles and cobbles in the same sediment beds. She attributed them to the tool-making skill of Homo erectus.

While the new prints are the oldest yet found for a direct ancestor of man, they are not the oldest hominid tracks known.

A research group led by Dr. Mary

Leakey earlier found 3.6 million-year-old hominid footprints at Laetoli in Tanzania. They are believed to belong to an older, more primitive relative of man — perhaps in the Australopithecus family.

There is very little difference between the shape of the footprints left by modern man and those found in Kenya and Tanzania, the scientists noted. However, because of their larger size, the Homo erectus prints are more like man's than the small Tanzanian tracks, they added.

Miss Behrensmeyer and co-leader Dr. Leo F. LaPorte, also with the University of California at Santa Cruz, made the discovery while working on a project of the National Museums of Kenya. The work is supported by the National Science Foundation and the National Geographic Society.

State Rescuing Rare Sheep From Epidemic

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Pilot Tim Wallis skirted the cliffs of the desolate San Andres Mountains, looking for movement below. In the rear of the helicopter, Colin Yeates cocked his gun and fired, casting a billowing orange net over his target — one of the last surviving Desert Bighorn sheep in New Mexico.

"We got it," Yeates said in a guttural New Zealand accent.

Yeates and Wallis, another New Zealander, have donated expertise acquired from trapping red deer to what state Game and Fish Department officials are calling one of the most dramatic wildlife rescue operations in history.

The sheep are being captured for treatment of a mysterious scabies epidemic which is threatening to destroy New Mexico's largest herd of the majestic Desert Bighorns.

The epidemic is caused by mites that burrow under an animal's skin and feed off its blood serum. The hide will fester and peel off, making the animal susceptible to cold and disease.

The mites have been identified as a variety that officials thought was eradicated from the United States decades ago. But the insects, the size of a grain of salt, reappeared in southern New Mexico to wipe out nearly 75 percent of the state's Bighorn herd.

GFD official Walt Snyder estimates only 70 sheep remain of the 250 that once roamed the cliffs. He said officials hope to capture up to 50 percent of the sheep before cold weather decimates the herd.

The family planning journal said something similar to the economic "incentive and disincentive" system — now in effect in nine of China's provinces — is expected to go countrywide when a gutsy new birth planning law goes into effect at year's end.

effort had to be called off when high winds and mechanical problems grounded the helicopters.

The captured sheep have been airlifted to a 10-acre paddock on the border of the missile range. The sheep have been dipped in a vat of toxin to kill the mites and will stay at the paddock until officials are satisfied they are clean of mites. Then the sheep will be taken to an experimental station at Red Rock for observation.

Another option would be the removal of caffeine from cola drinks, he said, adding he did not know when the FDA proposals would be made.

Michael Jacobson, director of the non-profit center, said tests on animals and humans have linked caffeine with such birth defects as cleft palate, heart defects and missing fingers and toes. Those tests also indicate the drug may cause reproductive problems, he said.

Jacobson said two studies have indicated that five cups of coffee a day could have "significant effects" on the fetus, and contended 400,000 pregnant women annually drink that much coffee routinely. He could not estimate how many problem pregnancies and abnormal births could be blamed on coffee.

George Boecklin, president of the National Coffee Association, said he would not comment on the center's petition until he had seen it.

Caffeine content in coffee ranges from 20 to 176 milligrams per cup. Tea contains between 8 and 107 milligrams. About 88 percent of the public's caffeine consumption comes from coffee and tea, Jacobson said.

"We're in the process now of developing regulations on caffeine," Pines said. "One option is to require a label warning pregnant women."

Now the USDA is spending $70,000 to make bird-cage motels at its airport offices. After Jan. 15, pet owners coming into the United States will have to check their birds into the 100-cage "motels" for the 30-day quarantine period — and pay $80 for one bird or $100 for a pair. Two will be the limit per family — and reservations will be required.

If the motel at the point of entry is full, the bird will be shipped to one of

China Combats Over-Population Dilemma With New 'Baby Tax'

NEW YORK (UPI) — China's newest weapons in the war on population growth are bonuses to one-child couples and a "baby tax" on couples producing a third child, a family planning journal reports.

The tax on big families consists of wage reductions ranging from 5 percent to 10 percent for the birth of a third child to 20 percent when baby No. 5 shows up, "International Family Planning Perspectives" magazine said Sunday.

Economic rewards and punishments for childbearing are part of the plan by the world's most populous nation to reach zero population growth by the year 2,000. The Chinese now number 960 million.

The family planning journal said something similar to the economic "incentive and disincentive" system — now in effect in nine of China's provinces — is expected to go countrywide when a gutsy new birth planning law goes into effect at year's end.

Details were outlined in the journal's abridged English translation of a statement on tougher population control policies made by China's Vice Premier Chen Muhua in "People's Daily" in August.

University of Michigan political scientist Pi-chao Chen, who translated the statement, said China's central government has approved the laws of six of nine provinces.

High points of the "incentive and disincentive" system:

- Urban couples limiting themselves to one child will get the same living space provided to two-child families.

China's children's applications for schools and jobs will get favored consideration. One-child couples also will be entitled to increased pensions.

— In rural areas, one-child couples get pay bonuses and more grain per capita than two-child families.

Caffeine Warning Labels Urged By Consumer Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer group, warning that tests have linked caffeine with birth defects, is urging the government to require warning labels on coffee and tea.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest, which began its anti-caffeine campaign in 1976, has filed a new petition with the Food and Drug Administration seeking the labels on coffee and tea.

It also suggests the FDA launch a campaign to warn pregnant women of caffeine's possible hazards. And the center says it has sent letters to 1,500 midwives and 12,500 gynecologists and obstetricians asking them to advise pregnant women not to consume caffeine.

The stimulant is contained in cola beverages and some over-the-counter drugs as well as in coffee and tea.

FDA spokesman Wayne Pines said the agency already is working "very actively" on caffeine.

"We're in the process now of developing regulations on caffeine," Pines said. "One option is to require a label warning pregnant women."

Another option would be the removal of caffeine from cola drinks, he said, adding he did not know when the FDA proposals would be made.

Michael Jacobson, director of the non-profit center, said tests on animals and humans have linked caffeine with such birth defects as cleft palate, heart defects and missing fingers and toes. Those tests also indicate the drug may cause reproductive problems, he said.

USDA Officials To Open Bird 'Motels'

MIAMI (AP) — Exotic birds have become the cocaine of pet lovers and illicit traffic in them is nearly as active, say federal officials who plan to open fancy new bird "motels" to deal with the popularity of foreign fowl.

"It's getting out of hand," says Clifford Bickford of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's veterinary services. "Birds are taking up about two-thirds of my time."

Tourists sneak in hundreds of birds from Cuba, inspectors say. Birds have been discovered in empty toothpaste tubes, children's dolls, and even taped to a traveler's thigh.

Suspicious Customs agents recently discovered 11 Cuban finches in a small bird cage hidden in a man's big hat. When agents asked the man to tip his hat, it chirped.

Two of the finches were dead. The others looked dead drunk.

"They (the birds) come in waves," said Edward Okasoko, a USDA plant inspections supervisor, whose inspectors have been pressed into bird duty in recent weeks.

It is the disease smuggled birds often carry that federal authorities worry about. Some illnesses could wipe out the nation's entire poultry industry, officials say. So to bring a bird into the United States legally, it must be quarantined for 30 days.

Last spring, importation of birds was stopped for two months after an outbreak of the exotic Newcastle disease spread to 31 states and Puerto Rico. It was traced to a Hialeah, Fla., bird importer.

Now the USDA is spending $70,000 to make bird-cage motels at its airport offices. After Jan. 15, pet owners coming into the United States will have to check their birds into the 100-cage "motels" for the 30-day quarantine period — and pay $80 for one bird or $100 for a pair. Tropical Tree May Help Save Timber Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tree that can produce anything from a cocktail snack to a soil erosion barrier is being promoted by U.S. authorities as a partial remedy for the massive destruction of forests in tropical and semi-tropical countries.

The tree is called leucaena leucocephala — pronounced "leu-sai-na luk-ee-fa-la" — and it resembles a mimosa. It can grow 65 feet tall, 16 inches thick, in five years. By comparison, oak would grow to 10 or 12 feet in the same time.

Forestry experts, worried about disappearing timber resources, say the leucaena may be their salvation, at least in part.

Michael D. Bengt, a forestry expert at the Agency for International Development, is eager to tell anyone who will listen about the advantages of the leucaena and what it might mean to the world's dwindling forests.

"While fertile lands are drying up and blowing away," he says, "while livestock — and children — starve, a way out of the mess goes virtually ignored."

The leucaena's wood, he says, can be used for paper pulp, furniture or building. It provides firewood, charcoal and a burnable substance similar to natural gas.

Bushy varieties form an obstacle to soil erosion. The leaves make a nitrogen fertilizer, or a cattle feed rich in protein. Bees like its small white flowers.

Children in Thailand pluck the young leaves and munch them like candy. Older Thais dip them in a pepper sauce and eat them with beer.

Seed pods can be eaten raw when young, popped like popcorn or cooked in soups or tacos. Dried, they are ground into flour, coffee substitutes or red and brown natural dyes. They also can be painted as ornaments for sale to tourists.

Cowboys Dislike Drubbing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins have made the National Football Conference East as tight as it can be, but a last-second field goal against Dallas may come back to haunt them.

"The Redskins have no class," said Dallas defensive end Harvey Martin after Washington won 34-20 Sunday. "When they get us down they want to rub it in our face. That's great. Maybe that's what it's gonna take to wake up this ball club."

"It was totally an insult," he said. "It got me in a frame of mind just to hate the Redskins."

With 14 seconds remaining in the game, and Washington ahead 31-20, the Redskins took possession of the ball and immediately called a timeout to bring on the field goal kicking team.

Mark Moseley then booted his second field goal of the day, a 45-yarder that came with only nine seconds left.

Coach Jack Pardee and Redskins players justified the field goal because of the closeness of the NFC East, with Dallas, Washington and Philadelphia all tied for first with records of 8-4 with four games to play.

"The way this division is going the point differential could be involved," said Pardee. "Taking a field goal that is nearly a gimme is not running it up."

Asked about the possibility of stirring up bad blood between the two teams, Pardee replied, "There's not too much good blood to begin with."

"Look at what they did to us a year ago," he declared. "Using play-action bombs (late in the Cowboys' 37-10 Thanksgiving Day victory) is running it up."

Quarterback Joe Theismann threw three touchdown passes — a 4-yarder to John McDaniel, a 10-yarder to Clarence Harmon and an 11-yarder to Ricky Thompson — to spark the Redskins' offense as the defense blitzed the Cowboys.

picking up six sacks, three interceptions and two fumble recoveries.

"This was one of the best football games we played, offensively, defensively and special teams," said Theismann.

"It was a classic." Dallas coach Tom Landry, who agreed with Pardee on the field goal and the closeness of the NFC East race, said, "We're in a lot of trouble. We haven't played very good football for some time."

"We have been beaten three times in the last four games and haven't played with much emotion. Maybe we're not hungry."

Quarterback Roger Staubach said, "We had some good plays, some good chances and we didn't take advantage of them. They beat us with the blitz."

Redskins defensive end Coy Bacon, who had two sacks, said, "There is no doubt in my mind that if we keep playing like this, we'll get in the playoffs."

Defensive tackle Diron Talbert, a long-time Dallas-baiter, said, "It's always fun to play the Cowboys and to beat them."

However, Dallas substitute quarterback Danny White, who got the Cowboys a touchdown with a 9-yard toss to Drew Pearson late in the game, talked for many of his teammates when he said:

"They rubbed our nose in it with the field goal," he said. "We will remember it. It will be something to remember in a couple of weeks and get us fired up."

SWC Eyes Healthy Christmas (Bowl) Gift

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference, which has been enriched already by some $2 million in television money during the regular season, stands to make another financial killing off four bowl games to be attended by Baylor, Arkansas, Texas and Houston.

If things follow the form chart, it's Baylor in the nationally televised Peach Bowl Dec. 31 against an 8-2 Atlantic Coast (SWC Standings, Page 5, Sec. D)

Conference Clemson team fresh off a 16-10 whipping of Notre Dame Saturday.

It would take an incredible set of wins and losses for Baylor to cash a 5,000-to-1 shot to make it into the Cotton Bowl.

If Texas, Houston and Arkansas win their remaining conference games, Arkansas will be in the Cotton Bowl, Texas in the Sugar Bowl and Houston in the Sun Bowl.

It would be Arkansas against the Big Eight runner-up, either Oklahoma or Nebraska; Texas against the Southeastern Conference champion, probably Alabama; and Houston against Washington, provided the Huskies don't go to the Rose Bowl.

But some incredible things could happen.

For example, if Arkansas lost to SMU, Baylor beat Texas, and Houston lost one of its last two games against Tech or Rice, the Baylor Bears would be in the Cotton Bowl because in multiple ties it's the team that last got to go to the New Year's Day classic.

Is that incredible enough for you?
 Arkansas, Houston and Texas all have one loss apiece and Baylor has lost twice, to Houston and Arkansas.

Of course, Texas could still go to the Cotton Bowl if SMU upsets Arkansas Saturday in Little Rock and the Longhorns get by Baylor and the Texas Aggies in the SWC finale Dec. 1. In a Texas-Houston tie for the SWC title, the Longhorns would get the Cotton Bowl nod by virtue of their victory over UH.

Houston could make it to the Cotton Bowl for the third time in four years if Texas loses again and the Cougars win their remaining two games with Texas Tech and Rice. That would make it a Houston-Arkansas tie, and Houston beat Arkansas.

Field Scovell of the Cotton Bowl committee said, "This is the biggest mess we've had in finding a team."

The Cotton Bowl is delighted to have the Big Eight runner-up because both Nebraska and Oklahoma have strong alumni followings which means a soldout bowl and big bucks.

However, what the Cotton Bowl doesn't want is a Texas-Oklahoma matchup.

"We're very worried about that possibility," said Scovell. "That's something we don't want any part of. Those folks play every year at the State Fair."

In this Saturday's games, SMU is at Arkansas, Baylor at Texas and Texas A&M at TCU, with Texas Tech visiting Houston Friday in a nationally televised game in the Astrodome.

Baylor earned a Peach Bowl invitation with a 45-14 victory over Rice while Texas bombed TCU 35-10, Arkansas downed Texas A&M 22-10 and SMU drilled Texas Tech 35-10.

Doomsday Approaches

OH, THE SHAME of it all! Those doggone Washington Redskins, of all people, probably knocked the Dallas Cowboys out of the NFC East championship in that 34-20 disaster Sunday. The Skins also may have cost the 'Pokes a playoff berth, but that depends on developments during the final four weeks.

The Cowboys have made a lot of enemies around the league, thanks to their unprecedented success the last 14 seasons and their national television exposure. No one likes the rich kid with the big car and lots of spending money.

But of all the pro gridders who most enjoy spoiling the day for Dallas, the Redskins and the Steelers lead the parade. The Steelers never did buy that "America's team" business, anyway. After all, they have three Super Bowl trophies to prove that Dallas hasn't won everything.

When George Allen replaced a dying Vince Lombardi at Washington in 1970, he looked around for some gimmick to stir fan interest and use in his psychological warfare. Dallas was the logical choice, with its flashy team and national media exposure. So of George started a "hate Dallas" campaign that still survives on the Potomac.

Somewhere up there in videoland, George must be eating ice cream and smiling.

MUCH MORE THAN Dallas' pride was injured Sunday, however. Dallas, Philadelphia and Washington now are tied in the NFC East with identical 8-4 records. Of the three teams, the Cowboys probably have the roughest road down the stretch.

First the Cowboys have to meet the mauling Houston Oilers on Thanksgiving Day, with virtually no time to let the bruises heal. Then come the New York Giants, Eagles and Redskins again. The Oilers looked like title contenders in their romp over Cincinnati, and the Eagles and Skins already have beaten Dallas, so the outlook for the Cowboys is on the bleak side.

Would you believe a 10-6 for the 'Pokes? That might not be good enough even for a wild-card spot in the playoffs.

Dallas' only edge is the home field advantage in three of the final four tilts, but that isn't much to cling to. Philadelphia didn't find Texas Stadium a handicap a week ago.

THE ANCIENT CRY of "What's wrong with the Cowboys?" was echoing around the land even before the debacle Sunday. Now it will increase tenfold. Some of the expert observers point to the failure of Dallas' offensive line. Others say the defense cannot cut it without Charley Waters and Ed Jones. Sports Illustrated says the Cowboys get too tricky in their offense. The Cowboys say Sports Illustrated ought to go back to covering volleyball and the Boston Marathon.

Several of the most experienced Cowboys, who have been through all of this before, think the team is trying too hard. That's right, trying too hard!

Offensive tackle Rayfield Wright said following the game Sunday that the 'Pokes were trying so hard that it was causing them to make both mental and mechanical mistakes. "You get too high and too tense, then you make errors," the Big Cat declared.

Veteran linebacker D.D. Lewis said that whatever the reason for the Cowboys' slump, the defense can do something about it.

"What we have to do is to decide the opposition isn't going to make another touchdown, or another point. We have to go into the games with the attitude that we are the best and dare the guys across the line to prove differently. We've got to get the ball for the offense and give us some decent field position."

D.D. probably is right. But time is running out on those Super Bowl dreams.

Oilers' Bullpen Ready

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler coach Bum Phillips hasn't gone to his bull pen too often this season but there was no loss in efficiency Sunday when he called on Gifford Nielsen to relieve injured quarterback Dan Pastorini.

Pastorini had completed 10 of 13 passes for 182 yards when he was gouged in the eye by Cincinnati defensive tackle Eddie Edwards in the second quarter and with the Oilers leading 21-7.

Without any change in tempo, Nielsen shook off four games of inactivity, completing his first six passes and leading the Oilers to a 42-21 victory that enabled the Oilers to tie Pittsburgh for the AFC's Central Division lead.

"I was happy that I got the opportunity," said Nielsen, a second-year pro from Brigham Young. "I hate to see anything happen to Dan but I have to always be ready to perform."

Nielsen's performance included 10 of 16 passes for 139 yards and a seven-yard pass to running back Rob Carpenter that boosted the Oilers to a 9-3 record, equal

Steelers Join Cowboys As Major Upset Victims

By The Associated Press
Because neither of them played particularly like Super Bowl teams, Pittsburgh and Dallas find themselves tied at the top of their respective National Football League divisions today.

Both the Steelers and Cowboys, who met in last January's Super Bowl, drowned in a sea of turnovers Sunday.

Pittsburgh saw its four-game winning streak go up in flames as San Diego intercepted five passes and turned four of them into touchdowns and a 35-7 rout of the defending champions. The loss, combined with Houston's 42-21 victory over Cincinnati, left the Steelers and Oilers tied for first place in the American Conference Central race.

Dallas turned the ball over five times and Washington added a half dozen quarterback sacks in a 34-20 romp that dropped the Cowboys into a three-way tie for first place in the National Conference East. The Redskins and Philadelphia, which nipped St. Louis 16-13, share the lead with the Cowboys.

San Diego's victory over Pittsburgh kept the Chargers tied for the AFC West lead with Denver, which whiped San Francisco 38-28. New England moved one game in front in the AFC East, defeating Baltimore 50-21 while Miami was dropping a 30-24 overtime decision to Cleveland.

Tampa Bay remained two games in front in the NFC Central, ripping the New York Giants 31-3, but New Orleans had its NFC West lead cut to one-half game over the Los Angeles, losing to Seattle 38-24.

Atlanta plays at Los Angeles tonight, completing the season's 12th week of play.

SD 35, Steelers 7

Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw had a terrible time with San Diego's linebackers. Ray Preston intercepted him twice in the first half, each time setting up a San Diego score. Then another linebacker, Woodrow Lowe returned another interception 77 yards for another Charger TD.

The 35 points were the most the Steelers have surrendered in a single game since 1974.

Doug Williams threw pair of TD passes to Larry Mucke and Ricky Bell rushed for 152 yards, 102 in the first half, as Tampa Bay ripped New York. Linebacker David Lewis scored another TD, returning a Phil Simms fumble 39 yards as the Bucs avenged an earlier 17-14 defeat.

"We were magnificent," decided Tampa Bay coach John McKay. "Anybody I beat as badly as I can, I will have no compassion."

Oilers Gain Division Tie With Victory to Pittsburgh, which lost to San Diego 35-7.

Nielsen had not played in the past four Oiler games.

"I knew when he (Pastorini) went down that I'd be coming in for at least one play," Nielsen said. "We had the lead when I came in and we built the lead."

Pastorini, recently recovered from a shoulder injury that had hampered his passing, built a 21-7 second quarter lead around a two-yard run by Earl Campbell. Carpenter's three-yard run, and a 17-yard touchdown pass to tight end Mike Barber.

Then, with 3:45 to go in the half, Pastorini was poked in the eye and spent the rest of the game on the sidelines with a white patch over his right eye.

That presented no problem for the Oilers. Nielsen helped the Oilers expand the lead as Campbell ran 13 yards for a touchdown, fullback Tim Wilson added another on a 1-yard run and Nielsen hit Carpenter on a 7-yard touchdown pass in the waning minutes.

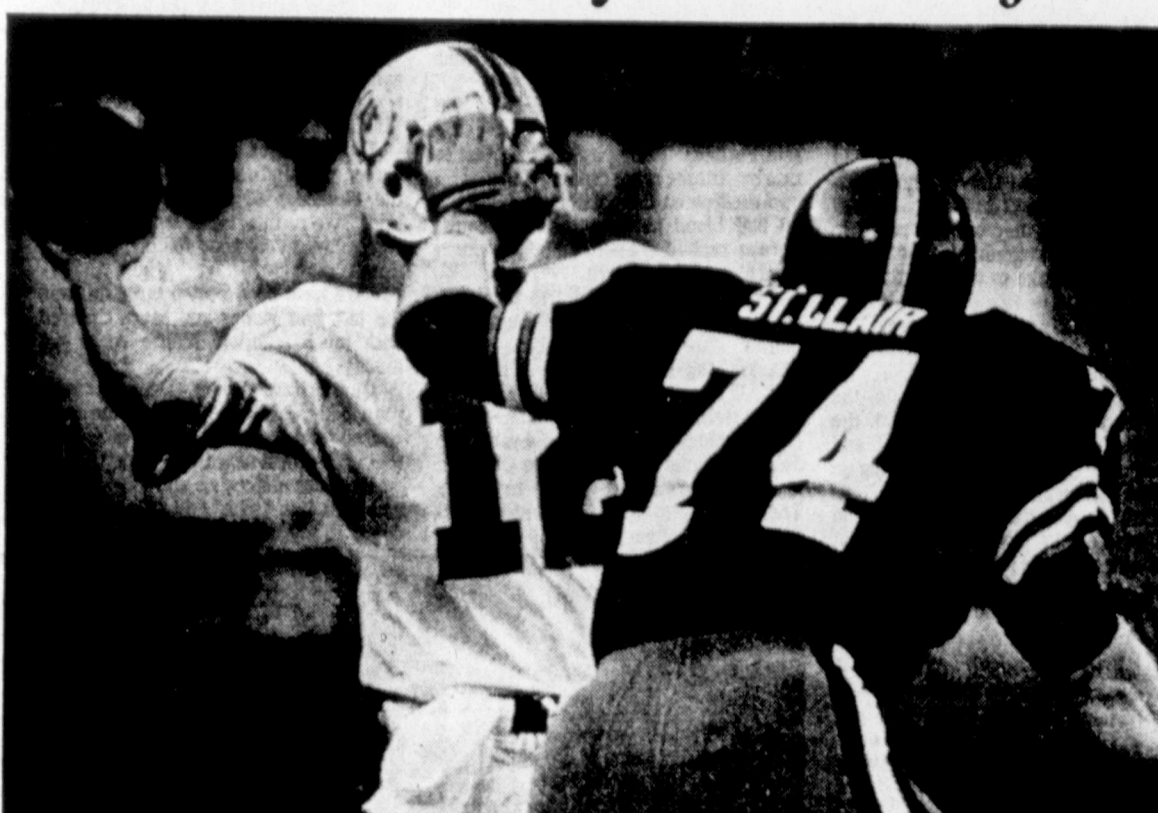

Cincinnati countered with Pete Johnson, who rushed 113 yards on 14 carries and scored on a 35-yard run in the second quarter and quarterback Jack Thompson, who replaced starter Ken Anderson for the second half.

Thompson hit tight end Don Bass with a 12-yard touchdown pass late in the third quarter and ran 13 yards for Cincinnati's final score in the fourth period.

"It's frustrating," said Anderson, the AFC's No. 6 rated passer. "They didn't throw anything at us that we didn't expect. I was off today. I've had some good days and some bad days and I'm going to have a lot more of both."

Campbell had another typical performance, rushing for 112 yards on 19 carries and two touchdowns. Johnson led the Bengals with 113 yards on 14 carries.

Campbell and most of the other Oiler starters rested much of the second half, giving them a head start on preparations for Thursday's Thanksgiving Day game against the Dallas Cowboys in Texas Stadium.

NOW TRY THE OTHER EYE — Cleveland's Mike St. Clair isn't conducting an eye test upon Miami Dolphin quarterback Bob Griese, but the effect is the same, as the Browns' defensive end charges in on a passing attempt. No face-mask penalty was applied on the play, but the pass was incomplete and the Browns went on to win Sunday's NFL contest 30-24 in overtime at Cleveland. (AP Laserphoto)

Vikings 14, Lions 7

Rickey Young scored both Minnesota TD in the second half on runs of 23 and two yards as Detroit suffered its 11th loss in 12 games. The victory ended a three-game slide for Minnesota and moved its record to 5-7.

SWC Cage Coaches Point To Aggies As Favorites

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

DALLAS — By the time the last green pea had been put away, the last "We're gonna be a better ball club" quote had been uttered and the last bad joke filtered across the room, one thing was certainly certain: If Texas A&M doesn't win the Southwest Conference basketball crown in 1980, it'll be a heckuva surprise.

At least it will come as a shock to every other Southwest Conference cage coach.

The nine SWC coaches gathered here Sunday for some friendly chit-chat and a chance to discuss the upcoming season. And by a near-unanimous vote, the Aggies were picked to win it all.

For the record, the vote was 8-0 with one abstention. Only A&M's Shelby Metcalf — with the onus clearly on him — declined to pick a winner.

"I wouldn't do anybody that way," said Metcalf while neatly sidestepping the issue of the conference race. "I don't know how you folks do that predicting stuff. I just don't have that kind of talent."

But Metcalf does have another kind of talent — and most of it is young, fast, mean and tall.

With 6-11 sophomore center Rudy Woods, 6-8 Vernon Smith, 6-6 Rynn Wright and 6-9 freshman Claude Riley, the Aggies will be big and talented.

"Texas A&M could probably play in the NBA this year," said Baylor coach Jim Haller. But the Baylor coach was hardly alone in his praise for the Aggies. Every coach in the conference could only say great things about last year's third-place Southwest Conference finishers. Here's a sampling:

"A&M has the type of talent to not only do well in the conference but also at the national level," said Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton.

"Texas A&M has one of the best front lines in the country," said Rice boss Mike Schuler. SMU's Sonny Allen was more to the point: "A&M is certainly the favorite."

"Because of the number of people they have returning this year, I have to pick them number one," said new TCU coach Jim Killingsworth.

"Sure, A&M has to be the favorite," said long-time

Houston coach Guy Lewis. "So I'll just be like everyone and say so — A&M should win it."

Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers agreed that the Ags are the natural favorites, but he rated the rest of the conference a toss-up.

"There are five or six teams capable of going all the way if they get the right breaks," said Myers.

And according to the other coaches, Tech is one of the teams with a shot at knocking off the Aggies. Generally, the Raiders were picked to come in second or third.

"Well, that's pretty complimentary," said Myers, when he was informed of what the other coaches thought. "But I don't know. We have the ingredients to be a good team, but we have to put it all together."

Apparently, Myers' peers seemed to think that he can put the pieces of the Red Raider puzzle together.

"I like Gerald's club," said Sutton. "And I think that they will certainly have a lot to say about who wins this conference."

But the Hogs could also play a deciding factor in the SWC race, at least that's the way Texas coach Abe Lemons sees it.

"I think that A&M and Arkansas are the two favorites," said Lemons, rating the Hogs almost dead-even with the Ags.

"But it's pretty close between the rest of us," he added.

And that was another point that all of the other coaches hit on. The consensus was that the conference should be more balanced than ever before, especially since Arkansas and Texas, who shared the title the last two years, both suffered heavy losses in last spring's graduation.

"It's going to be a great race," warned Sutton. "If A&M doesn't run away from the rest of us."

But if Shelby Metcalf is optimistic about the season ahead, he's keeping it to himself.

When asked if he thought his club is capable of going to the Final Four, a somber Metcalf answered, "I've only seen two teams so far this year — that's Texas A&M and the Australian nationals. (The Aggies defeated the Australian team handily last week in an exhibition at College Station.)"

"I know one thing," said Metcalf. "Australia won't be there."

Bowl Officials Search To Locate 15 Teams

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Here's some new math for you — find 30 teams to fill 15 bowls.

You'll think that with 136 major college football teams to choose from — three others are on probation — surely 30 would emerge as bowl-worthy. Thirty teams will wind up in bowl games, but whether all of them are deserving is another question.

Certainly, some of the bowls will deserve what they get with all their wheeling and dealing.

Fifteenth-ranked Auburn's 33-13 victory over Georgia — which prevented the Bulldogs from clinching a Sugar Bowl berth — was supposed to clear things up. So this is what a "clear" bowl picture looks like (complete with Associated Press Top Twenty rankings):

Sugar — Alabama (1) or Georgia vs. Texas (6) or Arkansas (8).

Rose — Ohio State (2) vs. Southern California (4), if the Trojans beat UCLA next Saturday, or Washington (16), if USC loses.

Orange — The Nebraska (3)-Oklahoma (7) winner vs. Florida State (5).

Cotton — Texas, Arkansas, Houston (9) or Baylor (tied for 20) vs. the Nebraska-Oklahoma loser.

Gator — Michigan (13) vs. North Carolina.

Fiesta — Pitt (11) vs. a team to be announced.

Liberty — Tulane (tied for 20) vs. Penn State.

Bluebonnet — Purdue (12) vs. Tennessee (18).

Sun — Texas, Arkansas or Houston vs. Washington, unless the Huskies wind up in the Rose Bowl.

Holiday — Indiana vs. next week's Brigham Young (10)-San Diego State winner.

Peach — Clemson (14) vs. Baylor, unless the Bears wind up in the Cotton Bowl, a remote chance but a mathematical one.

Tangerine — Wake Forest (17) vs. Louisiana State in Charlie McClendon's last game as LSU coach.

Hall of Fame — South Carolina vs. TBA.

Garden State — Temple (18) vs. TBA.

Independence — McNeese State vs. Syracuse.

The entire situation has become so whacky that it's possible for Alabama and Southern Cal to be shut out of the bowl picture while a rematch of last month's bloodletting between Texas and Oklahoma in the Cotton Bowl is a possibility, albeit a slim one, in . . . of all places . . . the Cotton Bowl.

Although 12 berths are still undecided, many of them are just awaiting the outcome of conference races. Sunday's only additions to the lineups were Tennessee in the Bluebonnet Bowl and Syracuse in the Independence.

Syracuse is 6-5 and Tennessee and LSU could be. Bowl trips used to be rewards for outstanding seasons but that was before the National Collegiate Athletic Association glutted things by sanctioning everything but the Kitchen Sink Bowl. And next year comes a game pairing the champs of the Mid-American Conference and the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

If you think that's a clear picture, what would you think about Georgia in the Sugar with a 5-6 record? That's still possible if the Bulldogs lose to Georgia Tech while Auburn beats Alabama. Don't even suggest that to the Sugar Bowl, unless you like to live dangerously.

"If we can't beat Auburn, I'd just as soon stay home and plow," said Bear Bryant.

What is clear is that Alabama stretched the nation's longest winning streak to 19 games by crushing Miami, Fla. 30-0 as Steadman Shely tossed a 56-yard touchdown pass to Tim Travis while the opportunistic Crimson Tide intercepted five passes for a school single-season mark of 25.

Manwhile, Auburn got 200 yards on the ground from James Brooks, 166 more from Joe Cribbs and two touchdowns from each in trouncing Georgia.

Ohio State won its annual shootout from Michigan 18-15 when Jim Laughlin blocked a punt and Todd Bell scooped it up and ran 18 yards for a touchdown with 11:21 left to play. The Buckeyes finished the regular season 11-0 and earned a Rose Bowl trip in Earle Bruce's first year as head coach.

"I had a free lane," Laughlin explained. "If somebody gets a piece of me, I can't block it."

"I feel mentally drained," said Bruce.

"Our kicking game has beaten us all year," moaned Michigan's Bo Schembechler.

Third-ranked Nebraska remained unbeaten by trimming Iowa State 34-3 as Jeff Quinn, starting for the first time since the second game of the season, threw two touchdown passes to Junior Miller and ran for another.

Next week, the Cornhuskers visit Oklahoma, which edged Missouri 24-22 as Billy Sims galloped for 282 yards, including a 70-yard touchdown run that put the Sooners ahead to stay in the third period.

Fourth-ranked Southern Cal was idle. With Alabama forced to wait two more weeks to decide the Sugar Bowl host, the Orange Bowl snatched Florida State, which then went out and walloped Memphis State 66-17 behind Jimmy Jordan's three second-quarter touchdown passes.

"If we could have selected between different bowls, the Orange Bowl would have been the pick of my players," coach Bobby Bowden said of unbeaten Florida State's first-ever major bowl invitation.

Arkansas' Kevin Scanlon completed 12 of 15 passes for 127 yards while Darryl Bowles rushed for 169 yards as eighth-ranked Arkansas defeated Texas A&M 22-10 and remained in the driver's seat for the Cotton Bowl.

If Arkansas beats SMU next week, Texas will be eliminated from the Cotton Bowl race. The sixth-ranked Longhorns whipped TCU 35-10 behind A.J. "Jam" Jones' four touchdowns. Ninth-ranked Houston was idle.

Marc Wilson tied an NCAA record with his seventh 300-yard passing game — 23 of 37 for 374 and one TD — to lead BYU over Utah 27-0. The visiting Holiday Bowl team will be Indiana, which completed its best season in 12 years (7-4) despite losing to 12th-ranked Purdue 37-21 as Mike Augustyniak scored three times.

Pitt mauled Army 40-0 as Rooster Jones scored twice on short runs in the first nine minutes and freshman Dan Marino passed for 272 yards. Clemson rallied from a 10-point halftime deficit and turned back Notre Dame 16-10 on Billy Lott's 26-yard touchdown run and three field goals by Obed Ariri.

"When I'm 40 or 50 years old, I'm going to remember this game," said Lott.

NCAA Playoff System Needed

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

The Monday morning quarterback: Now that the pieces of the football bowl jigsaw are falling into place, it appears that of Bear Bryant of Alabama may win his fifth national championship by default. Or the whole picture could fall into wild disarray.

Can't you just visualize waking up on the morning of January 2 and seeing all those football buffs from Los Angeles to

Analysis

Lincoln, Neb., and Tallahassee, Fla. to Columbus, Ohio, running around with their index fingers pointing in the sky and screaming:

"We're number one. We're number one."

It's one of the most solid arguments, supported by many of the top coaches, that the NCAA should devise some playoff system for determining its official national football champion.

It's done in every other sport.

Alabama, riding a 19-game winning streak and with a coach bidding for immortality, faces the prospect of meeting a secondary opponent in the Sugar Bowl or, should it lose to Auburn Dec. 1, no one at all.

The Cotton Bowl in Dallas, which in the past has hosted the nation's top ranking teams, is assured of having two clubs with tarnished records — either Texas 8-1 or Arkansas 9-1, whichever wins the Southwest Conference title.

Raider Runner Enters Nationals

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (Special) — Texas Tech senior cross-country runner Greg Lautenslager ran here today in the NCAA Championships.

Lautenslager, from Mesquite, finished 48th in a field of 250 runners last year and hopes to rank in the top 25 today so as to receive All-America designation.

"I've really been training for a peak performance and I'll be in the best shape of my life," Lautenslager said. "This is my last cross-country race for Tech. I just want to do my best."

Raider cross-country coach Corky Oglesby believes his runner will fare well in the national race.

WTS Claims Second Title In Mo-Valley

By United Press International

There were no bowl bids being given out in Canyon last Saturday night, but the West Texas State Buffaloes got what they wanted.

West Texas captured the undisputed Missouri Valley Conference championship despite finishing out the season with only a break-even record.

It was the second league title for West Texas, which began competing in the MVC in 1970. The Buffs' other championship came in 1977, but last year they managed only a 1-5 conference record and budget cuts following that campaign appeared to have wrecked their chances of being competitive.

The Buffs did not win a single game outside the league this year, losing five and tying one. But they won all five conference games to defeat Southern Illinois by one game for the MVC crown.

The clincher was a 28-18 decision over Drake Saturday night. Danny Clark's two long touchdown runs in the first half helped West Texas along.

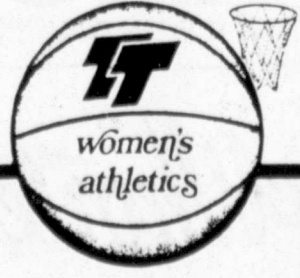

Southern Illinois had kept its hopes for a title alive during the afternoon with a 45-28 win over New Mexico State. In the only other game involving an MVC on the last weekend of play this year in the conference, Wichita lost an inter-sectional battle with Long Beach State 16-10.

Wichita's setback symbolized the difficult year the MVC had with out-of-conference opposition. The conference's inter-sectional record was 12-23-1, although Indiana State and Southern Illinois (both 8-3 on the year) combined for a 9-3 non-conference mark.

Clark scored for West Texas on a 30-yard run just before the end of the first quarter and, after Drake had tied the score, he went 58 yards for another touchdown in the second period.

A 32-yard interception return by Freddie Whitley boosted the Buffs' lead and a 39-yard pass from Larry Thompson to Ricky Collinsworth upped West Texas advantage to 29-7 at halftime.

Southern Illinois' 8-3 record was its best in 19 years.

Free-Agent List Dwindles

By The Associated Press

Memo to baseball club owners: If you want to buy a free agent, you'd better hurry. Just about all the top merchandise from this year's re-entry draft has already been taken off the market.

Nolan Ryan and the Houston Astros were expected to make their liaison official today, with Ryan signing a reported four-year, $4 million contract.

Ryan, who became a strikeout star with the California Angels, said playing for a contending team near his home in Alvin, 60 miles from Houston, was one of the prime factors in his decision.

Other players who most recently signed contracts or agreed to terms include relief pitcher Al Hrabosky with Atlanta and Don Stanhouse with Los Angeles, starting pitcher Bruce Kison with California and veteran slugger Tony Perez with Boston.

Sources say Joe Morgan, who is coming off two bad seasons with Cincinnati, will sign with a West Coast club this week.

Since the New York Yankees earlier signed power hitter Bob Watson and pitcher Rudy May and the Los Angeles Dodgers last week inked starting pitcher Dave Goltz, most of the top names among the 44 players who went through the re-entry draft are already accounted for.

Who's left?

Among the pitchers, the most attractive would seem to be Rick Wise, the veteran who was 15-10 with a 3.85 earned run average for Cleveland last year. Others available include John Curtis, Dave Hamilton, Andy Hassler, Don Hood and Fred Norman.

Reliever Skip Lockwood of the New York Mets is also unsigned, but he has said publicly that his first choice is Boston.

Catcher Milt May, infielders Dave Chalk, Jorge Ort, Freddie Patek and Rennie Stennett, outfielders Greg Gross, Jay Johnstone, Rowland Office, Roy White and Jim Wohlford and designated hitter Willie Horton look like the best hitters still available.

Other free agents, who received little or no attention at the draft and remain unsigned, include Jesus Alou, Paul Blair, Glen Borgmann, Dock Ellis, Tim Johnson, Jim Kaat, Don Kessinger, Ed Kranepool, Lerrin LaGrew, Bob Montgomery, Lenny Randle, Merv Rettenmund, George Scott, Tony Solanta, Rusty Torres, Wayne Twitchell and Bobby Valentine.

Mentioned Briefly

TENNIS

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP)—Fourth-seeded Bob Lutz trounced second-seeded Pat DuPre 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 in an all-American final of the Taipei Tennis Tournament. Lutz earned $12,125 while DuPre collected $6,525 in the $75,000 Grand Prix tourney. In the doubles final, Australia's second-seeded Mark Edmondson and John Marks beat top-seeded DuPre and Lutz 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. The champions split $3,900 and the runners-up $1,950.

WEMBLEY, England (AP)—John McEneaney continued his two-month winning streak and defeated Harold Solomon 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 to retain his International tennis title here. It was McEneaney's ninth title win in the Grand Prix series this year. McEneaney collected $35,000 while Solomon earned $17,500.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Top-seeded Virginia Madrigal of Argentina won the rain-plagued Argentine Women's Open tennis tournament with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over second-seeded Hana Strachanová of Czechoslovakia. Jane Stratton and Joanne Russell won the doubles title with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Strachanova and Paula Smith.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Jack Newton of Australia captured the $137,115 Australian Open golf championship by one stroke when Greg Norman missed a three-foot putt on the 18th green. Norman dropped into a two-way tie with second-place Graham Marsh, with a four-round total of 289. Newton captured $27,548 for the victory.

DEERFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Marshall Holman escaped with a one-point victory over Jim Plessinger in the semifinal, then rolled past top-seeded Steve Marino 246-119 in the championship match of the $100,000 Memorial World Open Professional Bowlers Association tournament. In the championship match, Holman struck three strikes on seven of his first eight shots while Marino, a 21-year-old Wisconsin "Frenchie," could not manage a double. With his 11th PBA title and $21,000 first-place winnings, Holman, a 25-year-old right-hander, moved to second place on the 1979 money standings with $303,255, becoming only the third bowler in PBA history to crack the $300,000 mark.

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Andre Arnold of Austria, the defending world pro skiing champion, posted his second victory in the two-day world pro skiing series, winning the slalom race here. He won the giant slalom Saturday and pocketed $10,800 as the top money earner in the Tyrolia Cup races at Soelden.

AUTOMOBILE

MACAO (AP)—Newcomer Geoff Lees of Britain won the 26th annual Macao Grand Prix thwarting Italian Riccardo Patrese's bid for a third consecutive victory. Driving steadily over the 3.8-mile circuit, Lees finished the race in 1:35.548, for an average speed of 95.06 mph. Patrese led for most of the race, but a spin sent him off course.

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—Jim Thickett of Sylmar, Calif., driving a 1978 Camaro, won the rain-shortened Warner Hodgdon 200-kilometer NASCAR race for Grand American sports cars at Ontario Motor Speedway. Thickett was followed by Dave Watson of Milton, Wis., and Ron Esau of Lakeside, Calif. Both drove 1978 Camaros.

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—Benny Parsons won the $100,000 Los Angeles Times 500 stock car race and fifth-place finisher Richard Petty captured his seventh national driving championship by finishing ahead of David Pearson in the final NASCAR Grand National race of 1979 at Ontario Motor Speedway. Parsons, winning only his second race of the year, outran four other drivers in a furious battle over the last nine laps, with several lead changes involving second-place finisher Bobby Allison, third-place driver Cale Yarborough, fourth-place finisher Buddy Baker and Petty. The five cars finished within eight tenths of a second of each other.

Petty Takes Year's Title In LA 500

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—"King" Richard Petty won his seventh national stock car drivers title by "racing as hard as I could" in the final event of the season, although running hard was only way he might have lost the driving crown.

While Benny Parsons was winning Sunday's $188,050 Los Angeles Times 500, the last race of the 30-event NASCAR season, Petty was charging with the leaders all the way.

Petty stayed on a razor edge—somewhere between too chancy and just barely under control—when he might have coasted the last 350 miles to win the drivers' title from hard-luck runner-up Darrell Waltrip.

In a furious dash to the finish, Petty wound up fifth—but he was only .78 seconds behind the winner.

"I probably took some chances I shouldn't have taken," said the 42-year-old Petty, of Handleman, N.C. "But every time I've won, I won it wide open."

"You can get in as much trouble cooling it as you do running as hard as you can," Petty said of his philosophy about holding onto a full lap lead over Waltrip—who was Petty's only competition for the driving title.

Waltrip admitted planning a conservative strategy Sunday that ran counter to his nickname of "Jaws." Hoping to outlast the always-charging Petty, Waltrip continued to experience the kind of hard luck that clouded him the last few months of 1979. He had won seven of the first 21 races this year and at one time was over 300 points in front of Petty in the driver standings.

The moment of truth, or untruth, came for Waltrip in the 39th through 41st laps when NASCAR officials said he dropped one full lap behind the pack of leaders. He was in eighth place when the 200-lap event ended.

"I ain't never going to figure it out," Waltrip, 32, of Franklin, Tenn., said of the official decision he had fallen a lap behind. "Never. Never. They took it away from me and it broke my heart."

The NASCAR lap count put Waltrip one lap behind after he was forced to spin into the infield on lap 39 to avoid the car of John Rezek, which had spun and was blocking turn 3.

Trick Using Watch Startles Audience

By SHARI LEWIS

Here's a startling stunt: Ask someone at a party or club meeting to help you do a trick. Borrow a watch — any watch — from somebody — anybody — in the audience.

Say, "I'm going out of the room so I won't be able to see what you do. While I'm out, the person who owns the watch must set it to whatever hour you and the group decide. Then give the watch to the person who is helping me and that person is going to place the watch on the table face down."

You leave, they set the watch to the hour and place it face down. When you come back into the room, you can instantly tell what hour the hands are pointing to on the hidden face of that watch!

Here's how: The person you asked to help you is really in cahoots with you — he or she is your secret helper. Ahead of time, you two have decided which point on the table is going to represent 12.

When the watch is placed face down on the table, the winding stem is pointed to that spot which represents the right hour. (If the group chose to set the watch for 6, the stem would point straight down; for 3, the stem would be pointing to the right, and in the middle and so on.)

Today's Brain Twister: Here's a brain twister sent in by Alisha Gray of San Rafael, Calif., who will be getting a copy of by "Kids-Only Club" book as a "thank you." Can you think of a five-letter word that contains five other words without rearranging the letters? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

(Mail to Shari should be addressed to Kids-Only Club, c/o of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.)

Latin America Eyes New Energy Sources

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Latin America can supply 11 percent of its energy needs by 1995 through the development of non-conventional sources of energy, according to a report by the Bariloche Foundation of Argentina.

The study, funded by the U.N. Development Program, indicates these non-conventional sources — solar power, wind, plant and animal wastes, geothermal, waste heat and alcohol — account for only 0.8 percent of Latin America's energy production.

It says solar power has the greatest potential.

Booklet Tests Occupational Literacy

By THOMAS W. NETTER
CRETE, Neb. (AP) — Ed Watkins, a career development specialist at Doane College here, has found that one way to quiet a giggling class of high school seniors is to ask them what they want to do with their lives.

Like most people — whether on the high school or college level or already working — they are sobered when they confront what Watkins calls their own "occupational illiteracy."

The level of occupational literacy among people who ultimately will spend an average of 80,000 hours working at — and in many cases hating — their jobs, is appalling, says Watkins, who is director of career development at the small, 700-student liberal arts school.

Yet it doesn't have to be that way, says Watkins, who discovered an alternative while looking for a way to interest students in the future without having to give them disco-dancing lessons.

Why not apply the Socratic method of asking questions aimed not so much at a specific answer but in a more general sense at illuminating where to look further?

The result of Watkins' discovery was the root of a five-page booklet called the Watkins Occupational Literacy Examination (OLE).

Dr. John Holland of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, an authority in the vocational testing field, says the examination is "unique."

"It is a very useful idea for stimulating a person to do more work on vocational planning," Holland says. "Usually when people finish the exercise, they're appalled at their lack of occupational knowledge because nearly everybody fails."

It is a beneficial exercise in failure that Watkins hopes will successfully send many people on the right path in their search for a career.

Two weeks after the OLE was announced in "The Chronicle of Higher Education," more than 200 universities, colleges, high schools and corporations contacted Doane College for more information.

"I like to think of the exercise as a way of disturbing their comfort," says Watkins, 34, who spends much of his time on the road meeting with students or discussing career goal programs with school and business leaders.

"The whole purpose of the exam is to help motivate students and others and help them realize they have a problem and then get the desire to do something about it themselves," he says.

In contrast to more sophisticated testing devices involving elaborate answer keys and testing methods, the Watkins exam is a single booklet that costs 35 cents a copy.

Identifying what occupations are available, how they match a person's interests and abilities and what other occupations might be suitable are key considerations of Watkins' exam.

People are asked how much time they spend thinking about career options, what they will do once they are in the job market, what they think is available.

Nikita Khrushchev, former Soviet premier and party chief, died at the age of 77 in 1970.

Watkins says the entire exam can take from 20 minutes to one hour, depending on the individual.

"Then they self-score the test and when they're through they talk it over," he says. "Over 80 percent aren't passing it."

The exam concludes with a series of "prescriptions" of "what they need to do, whether it be getting a career counselor, identifying other pursuits, and so forth," Watkins says.

Unlike "self-help" books and literature, Watkins' exam does not predict a result.

"That sells a lot of copies and is an attractive thing," he says. "But somehow, we've got to make people feel their own pain about what's wrong. And before they feel their own pain, we can't really hope something positive is going to come about."

ABC Adopts Special Tactics To Give 'Happy Days' Boost

By PETER J. BOYER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC Boosters a Faltering Series (Or, How "Happy Days" became "Let's Get Buff!")
Fonzie has this problem. The leather-jacketed hero of ABC's "Happy Days" is losing his cool, or at least some of the magnetic appeal he's held for Tuesday night TV audiences for six years.
Tuesday night has belonged to The Fonz since ABC became the No. 1 network. In fact, "Happy Days" played no small role in the uplifting of ABC.
But this season something happened. Fonzie started losing viewers. Not, as some had expected, to the CBS "Happy Days" imitation, "California Fever," but to a redneck sheriff named Lobo who works for — surprise of surprises — NBC.
"Happy Days" actually lost to "Sheriff Lobo" in the ratings one Tuesday this season (Oct. 9, to be precise), a ratings upset that reasonable minds couldn't have imagined two months ago. And it wasn't a freak.
"Lobo" has consistently given "Happy Days" strong competition this season, effectively combining slapstick, silly and TV's version of sex (braless buxom types just sort of bouncing around) to become a secure hit. Ratings for "Happy Days" are down a reported 19 percent this season.

successful series this year. Faced with the November ratings sweeps period — hardball time in TV land — they decided to give "Happy Days" a fix. The sex fix. Rush orders were put in for a couple of episodes with "promotable" (read "titillating") episodes, resulting in one show featuring a "red-hot burlesque show" and another, last week, about nude photography.
The ratings aren't in on this last artwork, but the "red-hot burlesque" gimmick worked nicely, earning "Happy Days" a whopping 38 percent of the audience, even though the show was competing against a special two-hour "Lobo."
Strangely, ABC seems loathe to admit the sex-fix tactic, even though the evidence — spicy promos and the programs themselves — were right there for the world to see. I guess the sex-fix is something you just do, but don't talk about (like putting catsup on cottage cheese).
"No, we haven't asked them ("Happy Days" producers) to redefine the series in a sexier way," said Ron Taylor, ABC's vice president of ongoing programs. "We haven't pressured them for exploitive shows."

'Buck Rogers' Role Aids Gerard's Acting Career

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The TV series "Battlerstar Galactica," born on the heels of "Star Wars" — the biggest box-office hit in movie history at $250 million-plus — died last season, un-mourned by viewers and network alike.
Yet Universal TV, sure in the knowledge that science-fiction on the small screen rarely measures up to feature film sci-fi (excepting "Star Trek") has given us "Buck Rogers" in the 25th Century this season.
So far the series has bounced between 30th and 50th place in the ratings, making it a marginal show but certainly better received — at considerably lower production costs — than the ill-fated "Galactica."
Curiously, "Buck Rogers," like "Galactica," is under the production aegis of Glen G. Larson who has been getting legal heat from 20th Century-Fox involving similarities between elements of "Galactica" and "Star Wars."
Larson is on safer ground with Rogers who first appeared in 1929 as a comic strip. "Buck Rogers" appeared in 450 newspapers at the peak of its popularity and disappeared in 1967.
Buster Crabbe (who played Tarzan and Flash Gordon) starred in Universal serial of the daring spaceman in 12 episodes in 1939.
Today's Buck Rogers is Gil Gerard, a former industrial chemist and businessman-turned-actor who never saw the comic strip nor Crabbe's heroics on screen. Gerard came to the series in roundabout fashion.
Originally, "Buck Rogers" was to have been a six-hour limited series for NBC. But Universal, pleased with the first two hours of the project, decided to release it as a feature film.
"It became a 'secret' hit," Gerard said. "It was released last March and it's done $35 million in the United States alone."
"Buck Rogers" is one of the five top grossing films of the year and is one of the best kept secrets in the industry.
"I got very little identity from the picture and absolutely no sweeping acclaim from the critics. But the tremendous box-office reaction convinced Universal and NBC to make 'Buck' a series."
As a consequence of his performance as Rogers, Gerard was offered a starring role opposite Ellen Burstyn in "Silence of the North," and a couple of other feature films. But his contract with the sci-fi epic took precedence.
Gerard is a realist, a candid man who admits his show offers something for every viewer — "Star Trek"-type special effects for college kids and sci-fi freaks; for males, chicks in sexy space suits; Twiki (a hip R2D2-type robot) for the sandpile set; and Gerard in a tight white outfit for ladies.

"I think 'Buck Rogers' will succeed where 'Galactica' failed for several reasons," Gerard said.
"First, this show has a sense of humor about itself. Secondly the stories aren't overwhelmed by special effects. 'Galactica' concentrated on hardware. We use it judiciously. You can't fly a space ship across the screen for very long without boring viewers."
"And we don't overdo robot action either. Twiki doesn't hurt dramatic scenes with gratuitous laughs."
"We're a well balanced show from the standpoint of capturing a wide spectrum of viewers. There were so many characters in 'Galactica' they were never on screen long enough for anyone to care about what happened to them."
"Our show has only one central character — Buck Rogers. Also, Buck is not Superman. He's physically vulnerable. He's a man who does heroic things and that's where his identity lies."
Gerard says in order to play Rogers with any degree of credibility he must take the part seriously, ignoring the 25th century setting.
"Any time an actor plays a role he is fantasizing," Gerard said. "So it's a matter of degree when you're playing a part in a fantasy setting. I have to play Buck for real, projecting my own personality into the role."
"Actually, there's no difference between playing Buck and Rhet Butler when it comes to infusing fantasy into a performance."
"I'd like to see the series go a couple of years because I want to be part of a success. But also because we took such a battering from the critics. We got all of 'Galactica's' reviews. They said we'd fail because they did."
"When we've run our course, I'd like to move on to feature films. But I keep remembering what Michael Landon (Little House On The Prairie) said. He didn't do movies because one episode of 'Bonanza' was seen by more people than all of John Wayne's pictures put together."

"I know what Landon means. Even though the movie version of 'Buck Rogers' was a tremendous hit, the public asked, 'Gil who?' Now that the series has been on for several weeks people know who I am."
"God knows, an actor doesn't have a chance unless he has public identity — and that's what Buck Rogers is doing for me."

Movie Angers French Judiciary, Police

PARIS (AP) — A movie that suggests France may have guillotined an innocent man in 1976 has outraged the judiciary, police and some movie critics here in the only country in Western Europe that still applies the death penalty.

"The Red Pullover" attempts to reconstruct the kidnap-murder of 9-year-old Marie-Dolores Rambal in southern France, and to show up irregularities in the investigation and trial of Christian Ranucci, 22, a traveling salesman who was beheaded for the crime.

Overturing a lower court ruling, a Paris appeals court judge has ordered segments of "The Red Pullover" cut on the grounds that they invade the privacy of the dead girl's family.

Seven mayors in southern France have said they will try to suppress the film, and the police union in southeastern France is demanding the expurgation of "all the scenes that defame the police."

The lower court judge, Simone Rozes, called Director Michel Drach's treatment of the police and judiciary "cartoon-like at times," but said it did not justify censoring the film. And the appeals court also rejected a demand that the film carry a notice that it does not match the facts of the case.

Drach insists he is not trying to prove that Ranucci was innocent — only that there was doubt about his guilt.

If Drach is to be believed — and many critics claim he shouldn't be — police, desperate for a suspect, all but beat Ranucci into confessing; a vengeful press and public screamed for his head; an investigating magistrate — roughly the equivalent of a grand jury — ignored all the inconvenient evidence, such as the fact that the red pullover that the killer supposedly wore was several sizes too big for Ranucci.

"My film seeks to show the mediocrity of the investigation and the brushing aside of certain files. All the details are authentic," says Drach, who based the film on a book about the Ranucci case by investigative reporter Gilles Perrault.

"It is intolerable to see police officers and an investigating magistrate thus discredited and scorned," complained the prosecutor to the appeals court.

The rightist newspaper Figaro and the socialist Matin found themselves in rare agreement in accusing Drach of overstating the case.

Le Matin called it "extremely incomplete and terribly simplistic," while Figaro accused Drach of shaping the facts to fit his point.

But the communist daily l'Humanite's critic found the film "perfectly right. Yes, key evidence was brushed aside... Yes, Ranucci confessed in conditions that do little honor to our police. Yes, the investigation of so grave an affair was slipshod."

And the newsweekly Le Point called the film "clear, denunciatory and useful" for the campaign against capital punishment.

The National Union of Artistic and Cultural Professions has warned the mayors against suppressing the film, saying that "to ban a film today is to ban a newspaper tomorrow, then books. A strange conception of democracy."

The mayors say they fear the film may provoke public disorder if it is screened in their towns, where memories of the horrifying murder are still fresh.

More Roller Skating Injuries Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's roller-skating fad is causing an increase in injuries related to the sport, according to the Insurance Information Institute, which says hospital emergency rooms report roller skaters are being admitted for treatment "at an alarming rate."

An estimated 74,000 roller skaters were treated during the first seven months of 1979, compared with 93,000 persons treated in all of 1978. Less than five years ago only 55,000 skaters were injured annually, the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission reports.

Mass Murderer Regrets Death

LONDON (UPI) — The Yorkshire Ripper says he is sorry he killed one of his 12 victims.

Detectives at Scotland Yard said this week they received a handwritten letter in which the Ripper said he regretted killing Jane McDonald. Miss McDonald was the youngest of 12 women who police say the Ripper has slashed to death since 1975.

The Yorkshire Ripper is England's most diabolical mass murderer since Jack the Ripper was blamed for six unsolved killings in the east end of London 90 years ago.

Like Jack the Ripper, the modern-day Ripper has a pathological hatred for prostitutes. Nine of his victims were prostitutes and police theorize he mistook the other three for streetwalkers.

The Yorkshire Ripper has written at least four letters to police — another trait reminiscent of Jack the Ripper, who boasted of his killings in letters to police.

CHEVRON ANNOUNCES RECORD INVESTMENTS

Chevron's expenditures for energy in the U.S. for nine months 1979 were more than double Chevron's U.S. earnings.

You've heard a lot about Chevron's worldwide earnings. But, did you know our U.S. earnings for the first nine months this year were up only 18%... just modestly above background inflation?

And did you know that Chevron generated these earnings from a U.S. investment base of over six billion dollars... a return of only 10%?

Meanwhile, Chevron's U.S. capital and exploration expenditures for energy development were up 54%... almost one billion dollars.

Historically, Chevron's reinvestment in U.S. energy projects has exceeded its U.S. profits.

And profits produce energy. For example, in the last three months Chevron has:

- Discovered new oil in California, Louisiana, Wyoming and Oklahoma
- Discovered new gas in Oklahoma and Texas
- Installed new offshore production platforms in Southern California and the Gulf of Mexico

Chevron is also investing in alternate energy sources... geothermal, oil shale, tar sands, coal gasification, uranium and solar energy.

America's energy problem is everybody's business. So it's important that you know how our earnings are used. Far from being a case for "punitive action," our energy investments are proof of Chevron's commitment to help make America more energy independent.

Thank you for listening.
