

Police Intensify Security Measures For Shah

NEW YORK (UPI) — On the 17th floor of New York Hospital, a contingent of elite police units stood guard today to protect the exiled Shah of Iran from possible attempts on his life.

Inside his luxury suite, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi recuperated from his recent gallbladder surgery and cancer therapy.

Police Commissioner Robert McGuire, citing an "ongoing analysis" of the shah's security, Monday ordered security measures intensified, but said the directive was not in response to any specific threats against the shah.

Police Inspector Peter Prezioso said the decision to add members of the Emergency Service unit to the shah's detail "was not based on something that happened suddenly. It was based on an analysis of events of the past several weeks."

The heightened security raised speculation that the shah might be planning to leave the United States, either to return to his villa in Mexico or to accept the offer of political asylum from President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

There were unconfirmed reports Monday that Sadat already had dispatched a plane to New York to pick up the shah. Sources in Cairo, however, said they doubted the authenticity of the reports.

Several news organizations, including United Press International, have received anonymous telephone calls threatening the shah's life.

Since his arrival Oct. 22 at the Manhattan hospital for gallbladder surgery and treatment of lymphatic cancer, the shah's security inside the hospital had been the responsibility of private guards and hospital staff.

City police restricted themselves to monitoring Iranian student demonstrators who staged vigils outside the hospital praying for the deposed monarch's death or demanding his return to Iran to stand trial.

The shah reportedly offered to leave the United States if his departure would aid the Americans held hostage in Tehran. His spokesmen said last week he might be capable of being moved within two weeks.

The shah's doctors have recommended that he remain in New York for extensive chemotherapy treatment to arrest the lymphoma, a form of cancer, from which he has suffered for six years.

The shah's wife, Empress Farah, left her Manhattan apartment Monday afternoon to visit her husband at the hospital.

During the night, about 35 placard-carrying protesters set up a picket line a block from the main entrance to the hospital to decry the U.S. government's decision to allow the shah to enter the country.

One sign read, "Why is this turkey still here?" and the crowd chanted, "The shah is a fascist. The shah is Hitler. Send the shah home."

Bush Here In Search For Votes

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Brimming over with confidence from straw poll results in the East, George Bush brought his presidential campaign to Lubbock today and said he is "absolutely convinced" that he will win the Republican nomination next year.

The former Midland oilman, Houston congressman and Central Intelligence Agency director landed in a twin-engine turbojet at 10:45 a.m. at Wes-Tex Aircraft for a noon fund-raising luncheon at the Hilton Inn and an afternoon appearance at Texas Tech University.

"There's an adrenalin factor in politics," Bush observed in a planeside interview before driving into town with Lubbock supporters.

Strong showings in Republican straw votes in Rhode Island, Maine and Iowa were "tremendous psychologically" for his campaign, he said, and he looks toward early primaries in Iowa, Arkansas and New Hampshire to boost him toward the nomination.

"Organization is the key, and we're building the best," he added. "That's how we're going to win."

Bush is running against Ronald Reagan, Howard Baker, Illinois Rep. Philip Crane, fellow Texas John Connally and others in Republican primaries.

Asked what he thinks is the basis of his popular appeal, he said, "Breath of experience that none of the others have had, including experience in building my own business; physical vitality; a quality education."

"I think I'm up for the 80s."

Bush, 55, also has been ambassador to the United Nations and special envoy to the Peoples Republic of China.

He is an economics graduate of Yale University and is the son of the late Connecticut Sen. Prescott Bush.

He came to Texas in the 1950s, worked as an oil field equipment salesman in Midland and founded his own oil company in Houston.

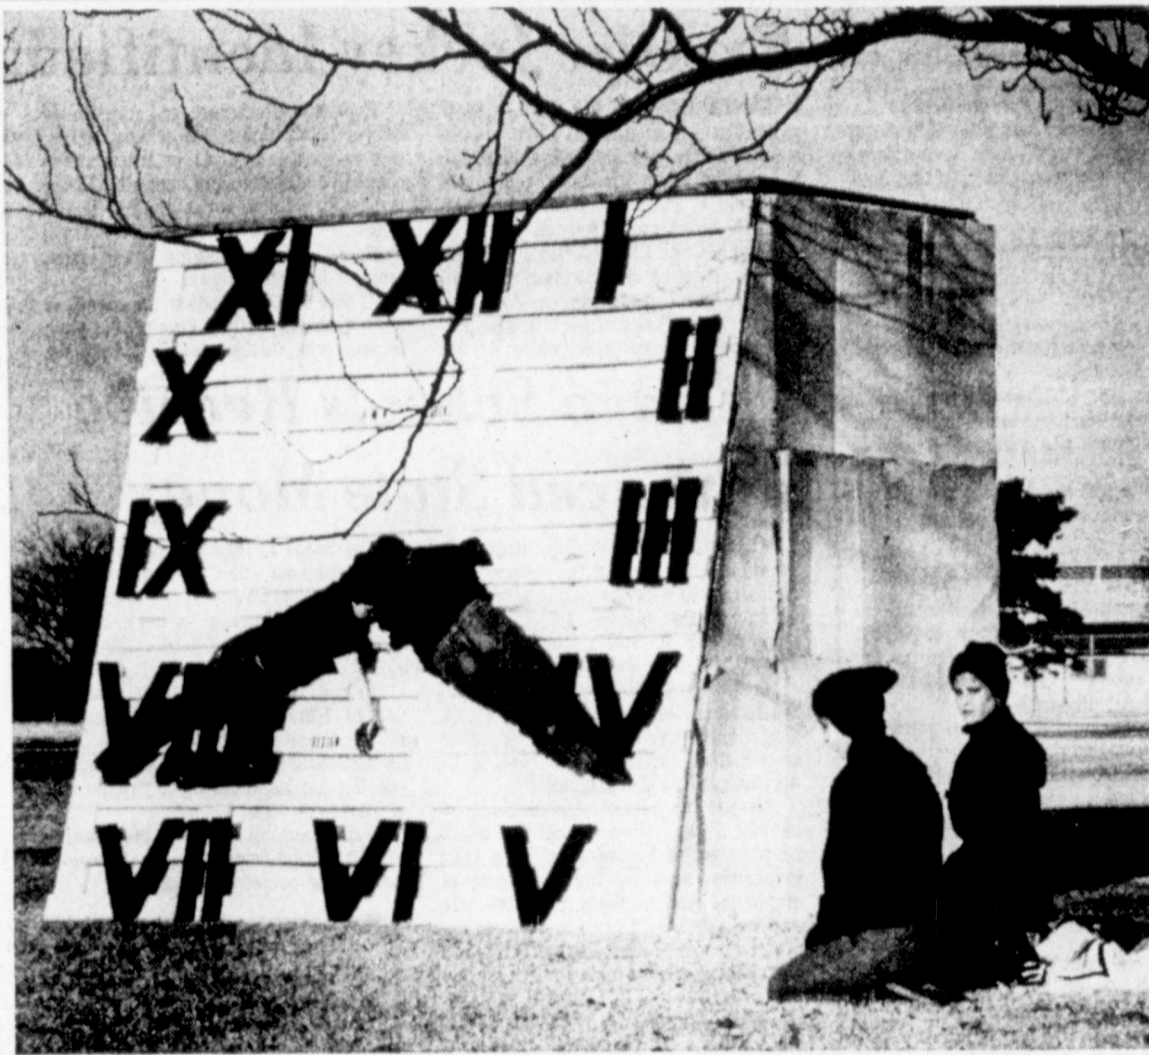

Bush ran unsuccessful races for the Senate in 1964 and 1970.

CIA director under President Ford, he said the CIA "is weaker than it should be because there was a period of time when foreign sources felt uncertain of our ability to protect our sources."

But he said the United States being caught off-guard several times by developments in Iran is not necessarily attributable to CIA weakness.

"We still have the best intelligence organization in the world," he said, adding that some foreign agencies are better.

49 Hostages To Be Tried For Spying

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared today the remaining 49 American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy here will be tried as spies if the United States does not return the ousted shah to Iran.

"The hostages will remain in the nest of spies and after that (President) Carter will understand what a mistake he has made," said a statement by Khomeini broadcast by Tehran Radio.

Hundreds of thousands of Iranians prepared to march in the capital and other major cities to mark the turn of the 15th Islamic century on Wednesday.

(Other Iranian Stories
On Page 7, Sec. A)

The marches are expected to be the biggest anti-American demonstrations since the Islamic militants occupied the embassy Nov. 4.

Khomeini's statement appeared to be tougher than his earlier declaration the hostages "should be ... tried and punished."

Hours earlier, the militants released 10 more Americans who were flown to Europe. Before they left Tehran, one of them said the remaining hostages were "in greater danger than we were."

"Trials, are they not threats?" said Joan Walsh, of Ogden, Utah, when asked to explain the danger.

The 10 joined three others in a U.S. Air Force hospital in West Germany, and State Department officials in Washington said all of the 13 might be home before Thanksgiving.

The six black men and four women released today were flown to Frankfurt, West Germany, via Paris and driven to a U.S. Air Force hospital in nearby Wiesbaden for medical examinations and questioning by U.S. officials.

They had an emotional reunion with two black Marines and another woman hostage freed Monday and also being treated at the Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden.

The 13 were freed on orders from Khomeini, who told the militants to release any blacks or women among the 62 American hostages who "were not spies." He said blacks were oppressed in the United States and that Muslims treated women kindly.

U.S. Ambassador to France Arthur A. Hartman said the six men and four women freed today "looked in good shape, considering what they have been through." Hartman met them Orly Airport in Paris, where the hostages boarded an Air Force hospital plane that carried them to Frankfurt. French security officials said an Iran Air jet carrying the 10 from Tehran landed at Orly with one engine smoking.

Also at Orly was Ann McKeown, a former secretary to the U.S. ambassador in Tehran, who left shortly before the siege began. Miss McKeown, fighting back tears, saw old friends among the released hostages and said they looked remarkably well.

Before leaving Tehran one of the freed captives, Joan Walsh of Ogden, Utah, told reporters at Mehrabad Airport that the remaining 49 hostages were in "greater danger than we were."

The U.S. government said two women were among the 49 Americans still held in the embassy by students demanding that the United States hand over deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime for trial. One See FREED HOSTAGES Page 18

Major Storm Expected To Miss City

A-J News Services

The major winter storm threatening the South Plains area for the last couple of days appeared this morning to be veering northward, and its effects in the area likely will not be severe, forecasters say.

The storm, which has been dumping heavy snow in the Rockies, was expected to move into the Panhandle today and hit the South Plains tonight.

This morning, however, a National Weather Service spokesman here said the storm is moving farther to the north than expected and that colder weather is now about the only thing the Lubbock area will get.

A winter storm watch had been posted for the entire Panhandle, but it was revised to cover only the extreme northern counties of that region, the NWS spokesman said.

The cold front making up part of the storm system was between Lubbock and Roswell at midmorning. It was expected to move through the local area later today, causing winds to shift to the west.

The mercury should drop to about 31 degrees Wednesday morning, a sharp contrast to this morning's balmy low of 61. Cold air moving into the area should hold Wednesday's high to the upper 40s.

No precipitation is likely here, however, forecasters were saying this morning.

A gradual warming trend is predicted to set in Thursday and continue at least through Saturday.

Thunderstorms boomed across much of the South Plains this morning, but little rainfall was reported.

Floydada got .35 of an inch and Spur had .10 for the highest marks in the area. Lubbock recorded a trace, as did several other area towns.

By midmorning, skies had cleared over Lubbock.

Meanwhile, an intensifying storm See MAJOR STORM Page 18

Kennedy Pushing For Oil Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., strongly criticizing President Carter for lifting price controls on domestic crude oil, is backing a move to double the Senate Finance Committee's $138 billion "windfall-profits" tax.

Kennedy said Carter "chose the first opportunity available to him to begin decontrol," even though "the situation that compelled Congress to impose controls in 1973 and extend them in 1985 is even more compelling today."

"His timing could not have been worse," Kennedy said in a Senate speech late Monday.

"He was under no compulsion to act in this manner. This was a personal decision for which he must take full responsibility," said Kennedy, who is challenging the president for the Democratic nomination.

Kennedy said Carter "severely underestimated" the cost of decontrol. "But the president's most egregious miscalculation was his assumption that he could pass an acceptable 'windfall-profit' tax after decontrolling crude oil," he added.

Kennedy is supporting a move by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., to substitute the revenue raising features of the $277 billion House windfall bill for the $138 billion bill approved by the Senate panel.

The Bumpers amendment would not change distribution of the $138 billion outlined in the Senate committee bill, but specifies that the remaining $138 billion can be used by Congress to lower the proposed Social Security tax hike.

Earlier Monday, the Senate defeated a Republican-led effort to reduce by 15 percent the levy on oil produced from wells discovered before 1973.

It rejected by 58-32 an amendment by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., to cut the tax on "old oil" from the 75 percent rate recommended by the Senate committee to the 60 percent rate approved by the House.

The 75 percent tax rate on old oil is the one area in which the $138 billion committee bill is tougher than the $277 billion House bill. In that category, the committee bill would raise $1.6 billion more than the House measure.

Crime Panel's Financial Picture Better, DA Says

By JEFF McCASLIN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although money problems continue to plague the Lubbock County Crime Prevention Council, Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford said this morning that response to a recent letter-writing campaign has been good and that he expects a brighter financial outlook in the near future.

Montford told the council at its regular meeting today he hopes to write off debts incurred through Operation Identification by the first of the year.

Meanwhile, Montford said all marking devices and brochures associated with Operation Identification have been distributed and that it is only a matter of getting the materials rotated to various areas of the city to keep the program moving along.

Operation Identification is a program designed to persuade homeowners to mark their valuable items with a Texas drivers license number to help police determine ownership of stolen property.

The council also discussed cooperation with the city's new crime prevention program, which is being organized after the city received a state grant to set up a crime prevention unit within the police department.

Rick Childers, administrative assistant to City Manager Larry Cunningham, told the council the unit will consist of two police officers, a sergeant and a corporal, with experience and training in crime prevention, and a secretary to handle clerical duties.

He said the cost of the project will be $59,293, which includes salaries and fringe benefits for the three-person unit.

Childers said the sergeant will serve as project coordinator and will oversee the general planning of crime prevention activities in the city.

The corporal will work closely with citizens groups, including the LCCPC, and be in charge of monitoring Operation Identification.

Childers also outlined four major goals of the unit over the next three years. They include increasing the number of citizens participating in Operation Identification, promoting crime prevention to the citizens of Lubbock so that a majority of the citizens are aware of crime prevention methods, the training of officers in the latest crime prevention methods and assisting in stabilizing crime rate growth during the grant period, which is three years.

Montford lauded the program, saying Lubbock has been the only major city in Texas without a crime prevention program.

Council members agreed that the unit will be of great help in keeping track of Operation Identification and helping the council solidly support from area citizens.

Average U.S. Incomes Continue Slide

WASHINGTON (AP) — American incomes continued to lose ground to rising prices last month, while homebuilding began what may be a long, steep slide due to rising interest rates.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that personal, pre-tax income rose 0.8 percent in October to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,975 trillion. That means that every American received, at an annual rate, an average of $7,495. The figure includes all income, ranging from wages to welfare to dividends.

But the increase in income was less than the rate of consumer price inflation, which has been rising at about 1 percent a month, or more than 13 percent a year.

Despite double-digit inflation, Americans in October saved much more of their income than in recent months, the Commerce Department said.

Consumer spending increased only $2.7 billion during the month, compared to a $26.1 billion increase in September, the department reported. Meanwhile, savings rose $7.5 billion last month, compared with a $20.3 billion decline in September.

"The cautious consumer spent less and saved more in October, a typical characteristic of a recession," said Jack Carlson, chief economist of the National Association of Realtors.

Commerce Department economist William Cox said the drop in spending reflected steep declines in auto sales.

Car sales in October plunged 17 percent, and industry analysts believe volume may fall even more this month, with the financially ailing Chrysler Corp. feeling the tightest pinch.

A continued savings surge would certainly hurt U.S. automakers, but could temper inflation, which is caused partly by heavy spending and credit use.

On Oct. 6, the Federal Reserve Board took sweeping anti-inflation action, largely to tighten credit.

But the move boosted interest rates to nearly 16 percent for the very best bank customers. And mortgage rates have exceeded 13 percent in those states where banks are still making home loans.

The impact of these record-high interest rates shows up clearly in October's housing starts report. Cox said, and homebuilding activity will slow more precipitously in the coming months, housing experts say.

The Commerce Department said housing starts in October totaled 1.76 million units at a seasonally adjusted annual rate — down from September's 1.91 million annual rate.

(Lubbock housing starts are down considerably, as well. Figures from the city Building Inspection Office indicate that single-family housing starts between

More Testing Needed In Radioactive Disposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the technology needed to dispose of nuclear wastes is available, but extensive testing is needed before the United States commits itself to one method of underground storage, says a panel of experts.

Speaking Monday night at a National Academy of Sciences forum on nuclear waste, panelists from several fields agreed that the first 1,000 years of storage are the most critical because radioactive waste is most dangerous then.

But some disagreed on what level of radiation from disposal pits would be acceptable and how soon the nation should start burying high-level wastes thousands of feet below ground.

When a nuclear storage facility would be safe enough," said Dr. Terry R. Lash, staff scientist of the Natural Resources Defense Council, an environmental law organization.

Such as spent fuel from nuclear power plants, is most toxic in the first 1,000 years, Lash said he still saw problems further in the future.

ist from Stanford University, agreed there likely are no serious obstacles to underground waste disposal now. But he said several things need more testing, such as the long-term effect of waste heat on glass containers, and it would be prudent to conduct those tests first.

Hanford Nuclear Waste Dump Reopened

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Calling for strict controls on dumping, Washington Gov. Dixy Lee Ray has reopened the nuclear waste disposal site at the Hanford nuclear reservation.

shoulder their share of the nuclear waste problem.

James Hanchett, spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said the Hanford reopening would help ease the growing backlog of low-level wastes being temporarily stored at medical facilities and laboratories around the country.

She cited promises by the NRC and the U.S. Department of Transportation to underwrite training of state personnel as additional inspectors, stepped-up inspection of carriers by state troopers, and a system of state certification requiring "more stringent and effective warranties and indemnification provisions."

Rep. Mike McCormack, D-Wash., disagreed about there being great future problems, saying wastes could be sealed in glass, buried and "essentially stored forever."

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission also talked about atomic waste Monday when its staff discussed how the agency would handle the licensing of disposal sites picked by the Department of Energy in coming years.

The governor Monday ended a six-week closure of one of the nation's three disposal sites for low-level radioactive material, saying she was satisfied that the private facility can be safely operated.

On Oct. 25, Nevada Gov. Robert List ordered a similar site at Beatty, Nev., closed for what he termed sloppy operation.

Both speakers of the state House praised the action, although Republican Duane Berentson said, "I think we had a little drama being played out by the governor."

She also said Washington, Nevada and South Carolina have agreed that if rules are violated in one state, the nuclear waste shipper would lose dumping privileges in all three.

"After a thousand years, the radiation from the waste is down to the activity of the original uranium ore," he said. "It's obvious that we can very easily package our nuclear waste."

NRC staff reports said the Energy Department should have three possible sites for deep storage ready for consideration by 1983. The suitability of sites has to be certified, and work such as test borings completed, before the department asks the NRC to authorize construction.

The emergency order was effective immediately. That meant hospitals and other producers of low-level waste, including the crippled Three Mile Island nuclear plant and others, will be able to resume shipments as soon as they satisfy strict packaging and transportation requirements.

The decisions in Washington and Nevada left only a site near Barnwell, S.C., still receiving low-level wastes, and South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley said his state would not accept wastes normally dumped in Washington and Nevada.

Gov. Ray said her declaration of emergency and the closure had been necessary to protect public safety "resulting from the serious deficiencies in the packaging and transportation of low-level nuclear waste materials destined for delivery at the Hanford Works."

Deputy Chief Charles Pack said Monday the tentative identification of David Perry Blackmore, 34, was made based on surgical marks, a driver's license picture and a dog in the car with him.

Dr. Konrad K. Krauskopf, a geochronologist from Stanford University, agreed there likely are no serious obstacles to underground waste disposal now. But he said several things need more testing, such as the long-term effect of waste heat on glass containers, and it would be prudent to conduct those tests first.

Although final figures are not set, NRC staff members estimated the first site should be operational about 1992.

As part of her proclamation, Gov. Ray urged Congress to authorize more disposal sites and said other states must had no place to forward their materials.

The governor said since that closure, "important steps" have been taken to assure proper management of the site.

Blackmore, he said, had recently been promoted from disc jockey to production manager at a Palm Springs, Calif., radio station, KDES, but had quit the job Friday.

Pat Nixon Leaves Hospital

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former first lady Pat Nixon gave her flowers to other patients, then left San Clemente General Hospital, where she had spent a week being treated for bronchial pneumonia.

Mrs. Nixon distributed the overload of flowers (via hospital personnel) to other patients and nurses who cared for her, hospital administrator Malcolm Johnson said Monday.

Mrs. Nixon, 67, was "in extremely good spirits," Johnson said, adding that former president Richard Nixon escorted his wife to a waiting car outside the hospital.

Iranian Issue Most Sensitive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lillian Carter says she believes the Americans being held hostage in Iran pose the most sensitive issue President Carter has faced since he's been in office.

The president, she said Monday, "is so afraid somebody will do the wrong thing and trigger something, such a sensitive thing that's going on, the most sensitive thing I think that's been during his whole time in the presidency."

She said her son "has kind of forgotten politics for the time being, trying to work on that situation."

The president's 81-year-old mother came to break ground for a park named after one-time Democratic Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner, and in the process, she ceremonially operated a power shovel.

"I was invited to dig that ditch and I did it very gracefully I thought," she said. "I was glad they didn't give me a shovel. I dug out the first dirt for so many new buildings I could have dug straight to hell by now if I'd gone straight down."

Willie Nelson Sued

NEW YORK (AP) — Country music singer-songwriter Willie Nelson has been sued by his old management firm.

The suit, filed in state Supreme Court in Manhattan, seeks an accounting of Nelson's finances, or as an alternative, a default judgement of $1.1 million.

The lawsuit was brought by Media Consulting Corp. against Nelson, Abbott Ltd., Lone Star Records Corp., and Willie Nelson Music, Inc.

Attorneys for Media Consulting Corp. would not comment on the nature of the dispute.

Miller May Run Again

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Arnold Miller, the United Mine Workers president who resigned last week because of bad health, says now that he may run again for union president in 1982.

"If I take it real easy, I might be able to get my own health in good shape and come back and run for the presidency again," Miller said Monday.

John Brown, spokesman for Charleston Area Medical Center, said Miller was in satisfactory condition recuperating from his second heart attack and could be released by the weekend.

Miller, 56, entered the hospital last Monday complaining of chest pains, and doctors later said he had suffered a mild heart attack.

Double-Barreled Failure

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A Confederate secret weapon — a double-barreled cannon that killed a cow but never worked well enough to be fired at the Yankees — has been enshrined in an Athens park.

"The idea was that if you fired two cannon balls connected by a chain ... they would sweep across the battlefield knocking down a great number of soldiers," James Reap, president of the Athens Clarke Heritage Foundation, said Monday.

The cannon, with two 4-foot barrels angled three degrees apart, failed because its designers could not get both barrels to fire simultaneously even though they had a common breech, Reap said.

According to one report, the cannon was fired at a target of poles and the twin shot flew off "in kind of a circular motion, plowed up an acre of ground, tore up a cornfield, mowed down saplings, and then the chain broke. One ball killed a cow in a distant field, while the other knocked down the chimney of a log cabin."

The cannon fired six-pound balls connected by an eight-foot chain.

The cannon, on its wood field carriage with large, spoked wheels, had been "outside city hall chained to a tree for a long time," Reap said. Now it has been moved a few yards to a concrete pad in a landscaped park. The cannon has been loaded with blanks and fired occasionally, "to celebrate political victories."

Plumber Sets World Record

PAMPA (UPI) — A 29-year-old plumber ate 100 hot jalapeno peppers in less than 15 minutes Sunday to gain a world record and a giant stomachache.

"I'm burning up," said Ronnie Farmer, after finishing his feat of eating the 100 peppers in 14 minutes, 19 seconds.

"It's hurting but I think I'll make it," he said. "My whole body is quivering. I've got the shakes — I'm burning up and it feels like a small campfire in my belly."

Farmer's feat was performed before an appreciative audience of 75 and was recorded by television cameras.

It was his second attempt at breaking the world record. His unsuccessful previous attempt was made last March in Midland.

The old record, officials said, was recorded by a Michigan man who ate 94 peppers in 1 hour and 51 minutes.

Farmer got into the jalapeno-eating business on a bet from some friends. On his first try, he managed to gulp down 37 peppers in 7 minutes — and won a tackle box.

Chicago Schools Receive Advanced State Money

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson has come to the rescue of the cash-strapped Chicago public schools by advancing the district $37 million in state money it wasn't due until next month.

Thompson's action late Monday night averted a payless payday for some 50,000 employees, which had been approved unanimously earlier in the evening by the Chicago Board of Education.

Despite the bailout, Schools Superintendent Joseph Hannon told the board he plans to cut expenses by firing 1,000 employees, reducing the work year of employees and slashing programs. He said he also would urge the city to approve a property tax increase for schools and ask the city to back the school district's notes.

Hannon did not say when the layoffs and other budget-cutting measures would be imposed.

The board had decided not to pay its 28,000 teachers and other employees as scheduled on Wednesday because it didn't have the cash to meet current bills and an estimated $41.5 million payroll.

Before the state advance was approved, Hannon had told the board he must pay $89 million in notes due Nov. 26, and couldn't do that and pay employees. He said he would try to pay the employees next week.

But Thompson approved the transfer of $120 million from the general revenue fund to the common school fund.

Coffee Not Prescribed

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — My grandmother read one of your columns and interpreted it to mean that you advise all children to drink some coffee as it is good for them and will help calm them down. I feel that children can become addicted to the caffeine in the coffee and that caffeine can have a stimulating effect. Therefore, it would not be advantageous to force a child to drink coffee if the child had no taste for it. Who's right?

DEAR READER — I have no idea why your grandmother would draw that conclusion from my column. The only time I have ever said that coffee would be useful for children was in hyperactive children. In that case, the caffeine in the coffee has an effect similar to some of the medicines used for children with such disorders.

No, I certainly do not recommend coffee for normal children who are normally active and do not have any other disorders. In fact, I really think most normal adults would get along much better in life if they didn't use coffee at all. The same applies to tea and colas containing caffeine.

To give you a better idea of the effects of coffee upon the body, I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-4, Coffee, Tea, Chocolate and Colas. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The caffeine in coffee is a stimulant. Basically, a cup of coffee is a liquid "go pill." It can increase anxiety and nervousness.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor informed me I had a soft systolic heart murmur at the apex. This condition was found by a stethoscope during an examination. Could it lead to serious problems later on in life? Do you think a periodic examination is necessary? Also could this symptom appear or diminish upon exercise and cause some pain in my chest?

DEAR READER — The description that you give sounds like it may not be too important. Systolic means that it occurred during the time that the heart was contracting to squirt blood out. And apex refers to hearing it near the tip of the heart. Such faint murmurs during contraction of the heart often occur in individuals who have no heart disease at all. They're particularly common in children and in young active people.

Many such murmurs are produced by exercise and may be heard only when the heart is beating rapidly and forcefully as from vigorous exercise. Such faint murmurs may be heard on some examinations and not heard on subsequent ones.

Murmurs, after all, are merely the sound of the flow of blood. And if you have a fairly active circulation, that can produce the sound just like a rapid stream down a brook can create more sound than a slow running stream.

You certainly should find out whether your doctor thinks the murmur is important or not. If you don't get a clear answer, have an evaluation at least every year or two to see if there's any change. You should lead a completely normal life being as active as you feel like, unless your doctor specifically tells you otherwise.

'Hunkerdown' Attracts Rural Farm Families

PICKAWAY, W.Va. (AP) — In the evenings, when their day's work is done and the supper dishes have been put away, James Beckett's neighbors start gravitating toward his farm.

If it's a warm evening, they congregate outside Beckett's garage. If the weather's chilly, as it is this time of year, they go inside the garage and hunker down beside the wood-burning stove.

On a recent evening, nearly 20 of Beckett's friends and neighbors were crowded inside his garage.

"This goes on year 'round," he said, taking a sip of cider as he surveyed the laughing, talking men and women crowding the garage. "Some nights there's a crowd and some nights there's not more than two or three people here. But somebody's here every night."

The folks of Pickaway have come to call these nightly get-togethers "hunkerdowns."

"We've been gathering here and talking about whatever's on our minds for years now," said Beckett, a friendly, slender gray-haired man of 62. "We talk about the crops and the weather and the cattle market. Sometimes we talk about hunting and fishing. The fish get bigger with each telling, of course."

Beckett's wife, Maxine, sat next to her husband. Later, she left the garage and returned, carrying two trays of steaming popcorn.

The word "community" constantly pops up in conversations when residents of this Monroe County village discuss their lives.

"Everybody helps everybody else around here," said one of the young farmers in the Beckett garage. "We trade labor. If somebody's cattle gets loose, everybody comes to help. Nobody charges anybody. We just sort of keep track of it in our heads and it works out."

Beckett, who raises hay and Black Angus steers on his family's 318-acre spread, echoed his neighbor's sentiments.

"This is a fine community," he said. "Everybody's friendly. We're just like a big, happy family. You know, that's something money can't buy."

Money also can't buy many of the picturesque farms in this Southern West Virginia county, which is noted for its Victorian-style farm homes and graceful, rolling terrain. Much of the land in Monroe County has been held by the same families since before the Civil War.

"Part of this farm has been in my family for nearly 100 years," said James Beckett, placing a pinch of snuff in his jaw. "My grandfather came to this country in 1880 and settled in this area. He bought the place in back of this farm and I'm the third generation of my family to farm this land."

Until the past dozen years, Beckett worked his land with draft horses.

"I bred them and trained them and worked them," he said. "Actually, that's how this hunkerdown business got started. There's something about horses that attracts people. So, folks would come to the stable and watch me train the horses and talk and chew. When I gave up the horses a few years later, they began coming to the garage instead of the stable. But they're doing the same thing; they're still talkin' and chewing."

Utah Man Charged In Train Incident

DEVILS SLIDE, Utah (AP) — A 27-year-old man has been charged with felony criminal mischief in the derailment of five locomotives and 42 cars of a 140-car Union Pacific freight train, authorities said.

UP spokesman Rocky Rockwell said the train derailed late Saturday after a railroad bridge was apparently knocked out of alignment by a front-end loader. No one was injured in the derailment. Davis County Sheriff's Deputy Steve Leishman said Jacob Whitney Pentz of Devils Slide was held on $25,000 bail.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Too Good To Be True

THE MILITARY coup that has precipitated bloody street fighting and raised the prospect of civil war in Bolivia is bad news not only for that nation but for several of its neighbors.

Ecuador and Peru have been taking shaky steps toward popular self-government. Ecuador has its first popularly elected president after 15 years of authoritarian rule.

Together with Colombia and Venezuela, Bolivia, Ecuador and Peru have encouraged hopes that democracy may have a more promising future than it has had in the Latin world in the past.

CONCERTING THEIR influence, they played a constructive role in this year's Nicaraguan crisis, urging a moderate course upon the ousted Somoza regime's revolutionary successors.

Bolivia, a country that has averaged more than one coup per year in the 175 years of its independent existence, may not be alone for long.

Ecuador's civilian leaders are slipping into the sort of paralyzing political feuding that has invited military intervention in the past. Under the circumstances, the Peruvians could be open to second thoughts.

For a while there, it appeared too good to be true. After more than a decade of typically Latin American military rule, Bolivia had elected a civilian president and the army actually had allowed him to take power.

The Andean nations subsequently comprised—and began to act like—a community, a democratic counterweight to the military regimes so prevalent elsewhere in the region.

AS IT IS turning out, what appeared too good to be true, in fact, was too good to be true. Less than a year out of power apparently was more than some of Bolivia's militarists could take.

There appears to be some hope. Political and labor leaders in Bolivia have continued to talk back to coup leader Col. Alberto Natusch Busch. And what is even more encouraging, there appears to be doubts about him within the armed forces.

To call what is happening in Bolivia a "revolution" is a misnomer. This military takeover does not signal "a radical change in the political order," but instead a return to repression as usual. Chalk one up for the other side.

John D. Lofton:

We've Come Long 'Whey', Baby

WASHINGTON—It is both chastening and humbling to be reminded from time to time that one does not know everything—which is why I could not resist reading some recent hearings before the House Subcommittee on Dairy and Poultry.

The subject of this inquiry: "Assessment of Whey Situation." The subcommittee was meeting to discuss House Resolution 230, which calls on the secretary of agriculture to assess the whey supply situation and to increase programs to utilize whey more efficiently for the mutual benefit of both producers and consumers.

Fine. But what is whey besides the stuff without which Little Miss Muffet would have been eating only curds when the spider sat down beside her?

DR. MICHAEL PALLANSCH, chief scientist of the Agriculture Department's Science and Education Administration, says whey is a by-product of the manufacture of cheese.

Different types of cheese yield different types of whey, which present a variety of problems in processing. Each pound of hard cheese yields about nine pounds of liquid sweet whey, and each pound of cottage cheese yields about six pounds of liquid acid whey.

The nutritive value of whey is quite high. It contains approximately 6 percent solids, about one-half the total solids in whole milk.

The most valuable constituent of whey is protein, which amounts to 20 percent of the original protein in milk. Liquid whey contains almost all the vitamins and minerals of the whole milk.

The composition of whey solids is about 70 percent lactose, 14 percent protein, 9 percent minerals, 4 percent fat, and 3 percent lactic acid.

Whey products are used in numerous baked goods, candy and chocolate products, dairy products, processed meat products and soups.

ONLY ABOUT ONE-half of the whey produced in the United States is used in food; the other half is fed to animals. Pallansch says in many instances whey and whey products could be used as a substitute for dry milk.

Another possible use of whey is for fuel. Ethyl alcohol can be produced from whey. A report last year by Dairy Research, Inc., found that a gasohol blend using whey would cost about $1.06 per gallon (taxes excluded).

OK, so what is the whey situation? Put bluntly: We're up to our eyeballs in whey, and the level is rising. From 1950 to 1978 the production of hard cheese has increased from 1.2 billion pounds to 3.4 billion pounds.

The production of cottage cheese increased from 352 million pounds to 878 million pounds. This has resulted in an almost threefold increase in the supply of liquid whey over the past 38 years from 12 billion pounds to 36 billion pounds.

JERRY HUTTON, VICE president of governmental relations and scientific affairs for the Foremost-McKesson Foods Group, says:

"Unfortunately, the present condition of the whey market is such that it is more of a money-losing proposition than a money-making one." Robert Anderson of the National Cheese Institute found one cheese operation where it costs $5 to

Manhood, Manpower Not Same

WASHINGTON—Is it manpower that the U.S. Armed Services so sorely needs? Asst. Sec. Robert Pirie, talking very blithely as the Pentagon's chief recruiter, wanted to make it sound that way.

In fact, however, isn't it American manhood, not manpower that is lacking? Post-Vietnam decisions to scrub the draft and go for volunteer forces—have been a dismal flop—all four of the services are reporting insufficient enlistments.

Dr. Pirie in charge of Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics) was before a group of military reporters and dutifully trying to belittle the shortfalls. After all, he said, the quotas were only off by 4 or 5 percent points.

By offering the GIs more privileges, by plugging the vacant ranks with female volunteers, by discouraging "panic" about tumbling statistics, we could muddle through.

BUT WHAT CONGRESSIONAL Armed Services committee members have seen of U.S. troops in Europe was cause, I thought, for panic. Dope, indiscipline, desertion are rife, if these law-making inspectors can be called reliable observers.

The question is, will they fight? He answered that he felt no alarm. He said their officers were confident that the fighting quality—the manhood—was still there. In any event, said Pirie, a return to the draft would solve none of the problems.

But this question of macho—the will-to-fight—runs through the entire NATO structure, and beyond. It can't be talked away, much as the Carter administration and its supporters wish and declare.

THE NATO PARTNERS, as nations, have the same morale problems that the Pentagon spokesman would rather ignore.

West Germany, which carries the stoutest heart but is disoriented by the tranquilizing narcotics of Detente, has become increasingly unreliable. The weak "links" of NATO are looped into the crises of the Caribbean Sea and the Korean Peninsula.

The ratification of the SALT II pact has such weak connections that President Carter is all but superseded in command by the Senate Floor Leader, Robert Byrd.

There is a public assumption that American military invincibility collapsed in Vietnam. But we must look deeper than that for the beginning of the decline.

In 1948-49, I watched the legislative formation of NATO, and I was far from being alone in the feeling that the USA was accumulating waifs, not allies, when it signed the document.

It provides to consider an attack on one to be an attack on all—that is, the USA, Canada, Denmark, Iceland, Portugal, Britain, Holland, Nor-

YOUR TAX DOLLARS seldom have been put to better use than in helping to bring a major new employer, Michelin Tires, into Lubbock.

If Michelin follows its usual pattern, the new plant it'll build on land purchased and announced here over the weekend will employ upwards of 1,000 persons when it gets into full production. That would make it second only to Texas Instruments, also acquired during this decade, as an industrial payroll in Lubbock.

The Chamber of Commerce used Board of City Development (BCD) funds to provide the Michelin in management all of the information it needed and to pay travel and other expenses of Lubbock lobbyists seeking to convince them that Lubbock is where the best begins.

In the end, Michelin acquired its 500-plus acre site from the CC-connected Industrial Foundation and will build there, in northeast Lubbock, a modern tire manufacturing facility meeting or exceeding all environmental standards.

As I reported several months ago, Michelin is in an expansionary mood, having earlier announced that it will build new plants in Midland and Temple.

The company ran into snags in Austin, where it apparently had thought it might build the biggest plant of all. This might be a good indication that the Lubbock facility will wind up being even larger than it otherwise might have been.

As best I can deduce, the Midland plant will be smaller (maybe 750 employees) and will provide components for fabrication here.

MICHELIN HAS been very restrained in saying what its plans are, but based on the size of its facilities elsewhere and the acreage acquired here, it's not inconceivable that the company could wind up employing, say, 2,000 here.

That's strictly speculation but, even allowing for the playa lake acreage it's buying, Michelin will have more than 250 usable acres on its tract, which has railroad frontage and is within a stone's throw of Lubbock International Airport.

In any event, Michelin is a most welcome addition to the Lubbock economy. Meanwhile, the CC-BCD is continuing to work with a number of other nationally known companies that have shown interest in locating here.

It's also beating the bushes to sell Lubbock's advantages to others who've never shown an interest before.

It's slow work but the payoff will be big.

way, Belgium, Luxemburg, Greece, Turkey and West Germany.

Never was a great nation's responsibility for its own continuance so sub-divided. The power to declare war had effectively passed from its Constitutional definition to loose Treaty talk.

By the same token, the decision to stay at peace was transferred to the power politics of world Communism.

American patriotism, becoming American international was shattered before Vietnam, and today lies in shambles. I do not say it is irreparable. Perhaps the USSR military superiority does not have the economy to sustain it.

Perhaps the religion of freedom is more durable than the psychofanaticism of Communism.

But wealth and numbers do not substitute for virility, for what our military used to call "moral fiber." The Pentagon has no assistant secretary in charge of that.

Sylvia Porter:

Scout Out Camp Now For Your Gifted Child

WASHINGTON—If you are the parents of a gifted child, you need some special "talents" too—and one requirement is finding the "right" summer camp for your child and making sure he or she meets all the prerequisites for admission.

Right now—today—is the time you should be writing for information and application forms. Even November is a bit late to be asking to be placed on a mailing list.

For in most cases, you must submit your applications by January at the latest. You must be alert to the fact that the screening interviews, examination of portfolios and auditions will take place in March—and decisions will be made quickly so that scholarship forms may be turned in.

IN A LARGE percentage of state-sponsored camps, there is no tuition charge at all. And even at camps which do charge fees, the costs to you usually are only a fraction of the expenses of running the camp and scholarships are available.

You must, in brief, plan well in advance. Yet since the finest of these camps offer youngsters the opportunity to study under great artists in their respective areas, educators consider them inexpensive at almost any price.

How do you find the camp best suited for your child? How do you read between the lines of summer camp brochures? What procedures should you follow in applying for admission and scholarships?

(1) START LOOKING FOR a camp for gifted children at your State Department of Education and its Department of Gifted and Talented Children, advises Mary Frates, director of the Oklahoma Summer Arts Institute at Quartz Mountain, Okla., where a variety of visual and performing arts are taught to children 14 to 18 years old.

(2) You'll find State Art Councils of help, particularly if they sponsor programs. Look for ads in specialized publications covering dance, arts or music.

A letter of inquiry can be worthwhile. Ask high school and private arts teachers, other parents of gifted children and the children who have attended arts camps for guidance.

(3) IF YOU ALREADY have a camp in mind, visit it as soon as you can. Talk to instructors (request a list of past instructors at the camp) and get a feeling for the facility.

(4) In addition to checking the food, housing and arts facilities, check the list of sponsors. "It can tell you a great deal," Frates contends—but you must do a little "interpretive" reading on your own.

For instance, a "State Department of Education" tells you that the educational system is endorsing the camp. If a camp is completely sponsored by the state government, probe further.

The quality of these camps varies with the amount of funding and the commitment to the program given by the state. Some are excellent; others, so-so.

(5) IF STATE AND or local Arts and Humanities Councils are involved, you are dealing with individuals who are deeply sensitive to art and who make their influence felt in the running of the camp.

(6) Travel and Tourism Department participation in sponsorship frequently means the camp will offer a series of public concerts, dance programs or art exhibits by young persons at the camp.

If the camp is getting funds from such bona fide national organizations as the National Endowment for the Arts or the American Federation of Musicians, that's a major "plus."

(7) From the parent's standpoint (you), funding from private foundations keeps costs down. From the camp's viewpoint, well-known private endowments make it easier to attract other contributors.

MOREOVER, OPERATING budgets can be misleading because many contributors perform essential services for the camp instead of actually giving money—ranging from printing and distributing catalogs to traveling art exhibits and films.

Were it not for these donated services, Frates estimates her camp's expenses would be 10 times the tuition paid.

Most camps are improving admission and scholarship policies. Admission no longer is a matter of talent alone but has been broadened to include highly-motivated students with potential talents.

And scholarships are almost always available to the truly needy.

Berry's World

"Are we smoking a low-tar, low-nicotine cigarette — I hope?"

Americans Give Cambodian Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have sent more than $3 million overseas in cash, food, medical supplies and other goods to aid starving Cambodians, an Associated Press survey of voluntary relief agencies shows.

This supplements the mostly volunteer services of scores of medical personnel, and public and private contributions from the rest of the world, including the U.S. government.

Cartier administration officials say that about $27 million of the $69 million pledged by the United States already has been spent for famine relief in Cambodia and Thailand.

Matthew Nimetz, acting U.S. coordinator for refugees, has said that "two and a half million people face starvation in the next few months unless food reaches them."

The biggest problem for all the relief efforts has been getting material from this country to the refugee camps in Thailand and Cambodia. The Cambodian government has rejected appeals for a truck route from Thailand through its country.

But the head of the State Department's refugee program told Congress on Monday that the Cambodian government has "shown some new signs of willingness to cooperate" in easing the famine.

Although there was no indication a truck route would be opened, John A. Baker, director of the Office of Refugee Programs, told a Senate subcommittee he is encouraged by the Phnom Penh government's recent decisions to permit more flights of food to land and to permit food and medical supplies to be transported up the Mekong River into the interior of the country.

Most private donations have been in the form of money given to international groups that arranged abroad the purchase and delivery of supplies.

But CARE, which estimates $500,000 in donations so far for Cambodia, sent the first privately sponsored plane load of supplies directly from this country to Thailand on Saturday.

It consisted of more than 7,000 cartons of baby food donated by the Gerber food company and shipped from New York free by Pan American World Airways.

The Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, chairman of the Overseas Development Council and president of Notre Dame University, said in a telephone interview from his office in South Bend, Ind., that he was pleased by progress being made by the relief agencies.

"The good will is there," he said. "The problem is mobilizing it."

Hesburgh, who originally coordinated the private relief efforts, added, "I never saw so much get accomplished in so short a time... I think hanging over it all is that spectre of the holocaust."

"At this point in history, the voluntary agencies are at a high point that they probably have not experienced before in terms of working together and making an effective response due to the magnitude of the need," said the Rev. Paul McCleary, president of the board of the American Council on Voluntary Agencies and director of Church World Services.

Despite CARE's success Saturday, the American Friends Service Committee says it has 200,000 pounds of vitamins, medicines and medical supplies stockpiled in a Los Angeles warehouse awaiting clearance for a direct flight.

The organization, which has raised $350,000 in little more than a month, had $100,000 worth of rice on a barge that was chartered by Oxfam of the United Kingdom and was received in Cambodia a week ago.

Oxfam-America says it has funneled roughly $750,000 from U.S. contributors to its sister organization in England.

Church World Service, a Protestant organization, says it has donated $200,000 from Americans to the World Council of Churches for Cambodians, given $25,000 worth of mosquito netting shipped through UNICEF from Europe and chartered a barge to carry $500,000 worth of rice, cornmeal, sugar and dried fish into Cambodia in a week or two.

World Vision, a non-denominational Christian organization, expects to have spent $505,000 on its relief program.

Lane Kirkland Urges Dissident Unions To Unite With AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO's new president, Lane Kirkland, says the Teamsters, United Auto Workers and other disaffiliated unions belong under one labor roof. But his strident call for reunification is turning some outcast unions off.

"To borrow from the New Yorker's alleged view of the world: Everything outside the AFL-CIO really is Hoboken," Kirkland, 57, said Monday after his election as only the second federation president.

That did not go over very well in Hoboken. "I think he was arrogant as hell," said a UAW official, who declined to be named. "I don't think his comments will help affiliation very much."

"We would rather be wooed than booted," said Rozanne Weissman, spokeswoman for the National Education Association, which also is independent of the AFL-CIO.

Kirkland, who succeeded retiring George Meany, 85, as leader of the 13.6-million-member labor federation, vowed in his acceptance speech to pursue a goal that Meany was unable to achieve during his 24-year reign, a united labor front.

Although the AFL-CIO has 105 affiliates, it does not represent the nation's three largest unions — the Teamsters, NEA and UAW, which have a combined membership of more than 5 million. The 270,000-member United Mine Workers is another major independent union.

Kirkland promised the 1,000 delegates at the AFL-CIO's convention here that he would explore the possibility of affiliation of "those organizations now outside our ranks."

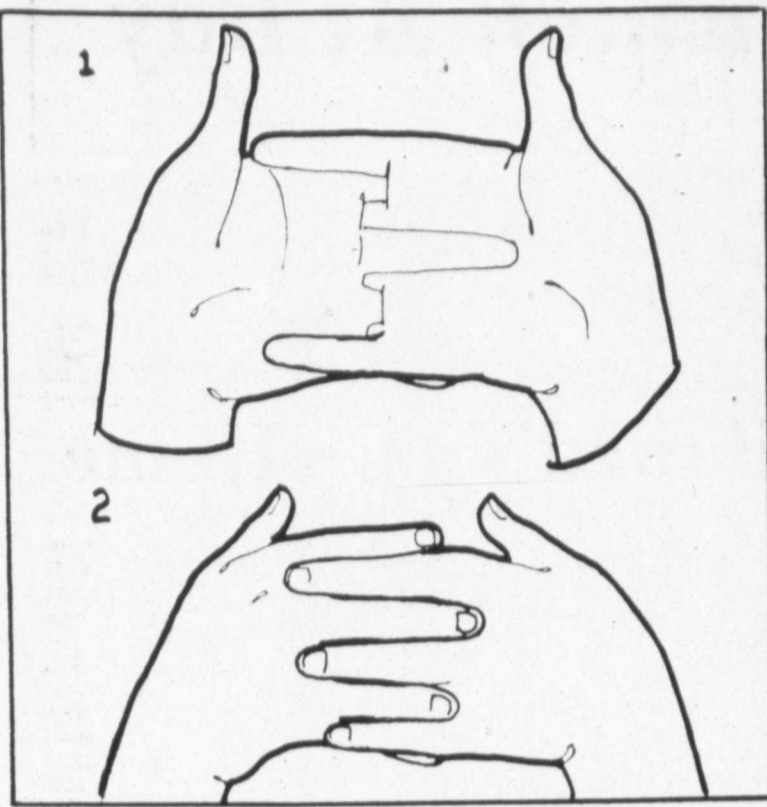

Without mentioning any names, Kirkland declared that all "true" unions had an obligation to come under one roof, the AFL-CIO's.

"All sinners belong in the church," he said in an oblique reference to the 2 million-member Teamsters union, which was expelled from the AFL-CIO in 1957 on corruption charges.

"All citizens owe fealty to their country; all workers belong in the unions of their trade or industry, and all true unions belong in the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations," Kirkland declared as the convention roared its approval.

Unions should not be deterred from rejoining because of "petty personal or pecuniary considerations or ancient and tedious grudges," said Kirkland in a reference to the reluctance of some UAW officials to reaffiliate because of the roughly $3.6 million a year in dues the union would have to pay the federation.

Kirkland said independent unions "can indulge in the luxury of solitary self-regard" and political independence "only because of the continued strength and vigor of this central federation."

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Hand Trick Reveals Only Nine Fingers

By SHARI LEWIS

Okay, you guys! I don't want to hear "I know that" when I show you this stunt. I find that lots of kids who "know that" don't know how to do it! And this bit of silliness is fun to do.

You interlace your fingers and say to your friends, "How many fingers do you think I have?" The person will say, "ten" and you say "Go ahead, Count." But your pal will only be able to count to 9 — obviously you are missing a finger!

Of course, you are not missing a single thing, but as you interlace your fingers, you slipped one of your middle fingers down into the palm, and as you grasped all your fingers together, they looked absolutely normal. Take a peek at the picture and you'll see exactly what I mean.

And do you know how to show that you have 11 fingers? Starting backwards at either pinky, and picking off one finger as you say each number, count "10, 9, 8, 7, 6" (this will take you to your thumb) — and then you hold up your other handful of fingers and say, "and 5 makes 11."

Yesterday's Brain Twister: Can you think of a five-letter word that contains five other words without rearranging the letters?

Answer: The word is "there" and the five words contained therein are: the, her, here, he and etc.

Today's Brain Twister: Why is a glass snake not a snake? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Corporation Heads See Little Economic Relief

CLEVELAND (AP) — Executives running the nation's corporations believe the first half of 1980 will be tough on the U.S. economy, with relief not expected until late in the year, a survey shows.

Industry Week magazine, which commissioned the survey of 665 corporate chief executive officers conducted by a private research firm in September and October, said that if the questions were posed now, the forecast would be even gloomier.

"It is clear the recession is here," Washington economist Michael K. Evans told reporters Monday.

Executives said that while they expected a 7.1 percent sales increase in 1980, they projected an inflation rate of 9.3 percent to outstrip those gains.

DOE Proposes Building Rules To Save Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Energy Department has unveiled a sweeping proposal designed to save energy in new residential and commercial buildings.

Without ordering specific design changes, the department's new standards encourage innovations such as passive solar and thicker insulation through energy consumption goals based on a building's type and location.

"We really see a large potential for energy reduction with the proposed standards," said Maxine Sabitz, an acting assistant energy secretary.

At a news conference Monday, department officials said the new standards are expected to save 12 quadrillion British thermal units of energy in resid-

Eighty-one percent said they believed current high rates of inflation will continue for many more years, with only 11 percent of those surveyed seeing some slackening and 8 percent uncertain.

Asked how they would fight high inflation, 60 percent said generally they would hire fewer new employees and 46 percent said they would take a harder line on employee wage demands.

A greater number, 72 percent, said they would cope with high inflation rates by keeping inventories low, and 65 percent said they would increase comparison shopping among suppliers.

Asked to compare the current rate of business with that of a year ago, 29 percent of the executives said business has improved, 45 percent said it has worsened, 25 percent reported no change and 1 percent said they did not know.

ences and 26 quadrillion BTUs in commercial buildings built between now and the year 2020.

By comparison, total annual U.S. energy use currently is about 74 quadrillion BTUs.

The country's 74 million residential and 1.5 million commercial buildings now consume, and often squander, about 37 percent of total national energy demands, mostly in space and water heating.

The new standards aim to reduce energy consumption by 22-51 percent in new residential structures and by 17-52 percent in new commercial buildings, compared to 1975-76 levels.

Gunmen Hold Lawmen At Bay

FIRST TIME AROUND — This photograph, copyrighted by the Knoxville Journal, shows Louis Posey, 27, last Sept. 27 — the first time he took over a Knoxville Business College classroom with a firearm. Authorities said the mental facility patient returned to the school Monday and did it again. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
A unemployed woman seeking a job, a young man trying to make up with his girl friend and a handicapped man who authorities say was looking for attention took hostages at gunpoint and then freed them unharmed in separate incidents in Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky.

Louis Posey was charged with armed and aggravated assault shortly before midnight Monday. Earlier in the day he had taken over a Knoxville, Tenn., business college classroom for the second time in two months. Posey, who briefly held a school official hostage, surrendered to police and was jailed in lieu of $100,000 bond.

himself in front of 30 students while pointing a .25-caliber pistol at his face before two psychology-trained officers coaxed his surrender.

In Jackson, Ala., a black woman turned away from a possible job walked into a state employment office Monday and held three white employees hostage for four hours before relatives talked her into surrendering.

Police said Emily Curtis, a 38-year-old mother of seven, released the hostages unharmed after accusing them of racial discrimination.

"I can't support my children on $207 a month unemployment," she was quoted as saying.

Mrs. Curtis was taken to a nearby town for psychiatric examination and was not immediately charged, police said.

One of the hostages, Mike Rotch, a job interviewer, said Mrs. Curtis threatened to smear black shoe polish on their faces while they were tied up to show them how it felt to be black.

Three tins of black shoe polish were left unopened on the office counter along with a Bible that Mrs. Curtis also carried.

In Florence, Ky., bond has been set at $25,000 for Joseph Blair, who police say held two hostages at gunpoint for six hours while demanding to see his former girlfriend.

"We took turns talking to him, trying to keep him calm," said Robert Longbaugh, one of the hostages held at a blue jean warehouse.

Evacuees Allowed To Go Home

"He's having problems, he feels the world is closing in on him," said Capt. Doug Norman, one of two police officers who spent 11 hours attempting to coax Posey out of committing suicide.

Posey, who said he dreamed of being a motorcycle daredevil, was on a 10-day pass from Lakeshore Mental Health Institute, where he was committed after a similar standoff at Knoxville Business College.

Partially paralyzed and suffering from a speech impediment as the result of a motorcycle accident 12 years ago, Posey, 27, was described by police and psychologists as a desperate loner seeking friends.

On Sept. 27, he threatened to kill

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Some 500 persons, including 146 hospital patients, returned early today to their homes and hospital beds, after a leaking tank truck forced residents in a half-mile downtown area to scramble for safety, authorities said.

"It was extremely dangerous because the vapors were hanging close to the ground," Assistant Fire Chief Charles Hansard said. "One spark and there's no backing up to correct your mistake."

The evacuees were allowed to return early today after hazardous materials crews plugged a leak in one of two 1,000-gallon tanks aboard the truck.

Police said the truck owned by Holston Gases Inc. was approaching the Gay Street Bridge when its driveshaft broke, knocking a plug off a pump at the bottom of the tank.

Between 200 and 600 gallons of the quickly vaporizing fuel spewed from the quarter-inch hole over the next five hours. Mayor Randy Tyree ordered police and firemen to use force if necessary to evacuate everyone within a half-mile radius.

Assistant Fire Chief Bob Cannon said 300 residents in apartment buildings and 150 student nurses were forced to leave. Most went to friends' homes but a few were sent to an emergency shelter at a nearby coliseum.

East Tennessee Baptist Hospital moved 146 patients from its east wing, about 50 yards from the spill, to its west wing. To make beds available for those too ill to leave, 75 patients hospitalized for ambulatory care or tests were sent to the Knoxville Civic Coliseum or asked to go home. They were allowed to return after the crisis was over.

"If it had been any other kind of chemical, it might not have been so easy," Cannon said of the evacuation.

Benson Ford Jr. Adds To List Of Defendants

DETROIT (AP) — Virtually the entire network of Ford family members, lawyers, accountants and bankers have been added to the list of defendants in a federal lawsuit filed by Benson Ford Jr. charging financial mistreatment.

The case is before Judge John Feikens.

In an amended 71-page complaint filed Monday in U.S. District Court here, the Ford family heir charged that his mother, uncles, aunt and two dead men were among those who conspired to shortchange him financially while subjecting him to "ridicule."

Ford family lawyer Pierre V. Hettler called the latest charges, which ask for $25 million in punitive damages, "just a collection of untruths."

The amendments were to a suit filed in April against Ford Estates, the organization that manages family money and investments. It is among three lawsuits Benson Jr., son of the late Benson Ford, has filed against family interests.

In the latest action, Benson Jr. replaced up to 100 "John Doe" defendants with various relatives who are trustees of 13 family trusts which name Benson Jr. as a beneficiary.

The trustees include Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co. and William Clay Ford, a top Ford executive, brothers of the late Benson Ford and uncles of Benson Jr., his sister, Josephine Ford, and his mother, Edith McNaughton Ford.

Two other trustees named as defendants, Richard Webber and Robert H. Tannahil, died several years ago, according to Hettler. He said they were replaced as trustees by William Clay and himself.

In addition to the original defendant, Ford Estates, the suit also names Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, an institution with long Ford Motor Co. and family ties, and the Coopers & Lybrand accounting firm.

Attorney Edward Bennett Williams, who is representing the family, has called the initial lawsuit "nebulous" and "unintelligible."

Williams has until Dec. 17 to re-

Jury's Verdict Could Cause Auto Recall

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Virginia jury's verdict against Ford Motor Co. may increase the chance of the government ordering the largest automobile recall in history.

The verdict Monday by the Fairfax County jury was the first against Ford in consumer lawsuits contending that the transmissions of more than nine million cars and trucks can jump from "park" to "reverse," possibly injuring or killing people in the way.

Clarence Ditlow, executive director of the Center for Auto Safety, a Washington-based consumer group, said the case, brought by Connie Bartholomew of Falls Church, Va., is the first to result in a court verdict against Ford. He said Ford has reached out-of-court settlements with some other consumers who sued over the transmissions.

Mrs. Bartholomew's attorney, Bernard Cohen, said the $50,000 verdict "clearly establishes the legal precedent that the transmission is unsafe."

Meanwhile, Ford continued to deny any safety defect in the vehicles. Company lawyer Richard H. Lewis said, "In my view, the jury's verdict in the Bartholomew case was clearly contrary to the weight of the evidence and extremely excessive in light of the very minimal injuries alleged."

He said the evidence showed "that the transmission will not 'jump out of park' at all." Based on the evidence, he will file appropriate post-trial motions to overturn the jury's verdict.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is investigating "on a priority basis" many of Ford's 1970-1978 car and light truck models. The inquiry generally concerns vehicles with six and eight cylinder engines of 300 cubic inches or larger.

The agency already has issued a safety advisory warning consumers of a possible problem with the shifting mechanism but so far has not decided whether to order a recall.

Hostages' Families Find Hope

By The Associated Press
 Outrage and despair over the fate of American hostages held by Iranian students at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran is giving way to hope among families of the captives as some are freed. Meanwhile, isolated demonstrations persist.

Ten hostages were freed Monday, joining three others released over the weekend.

"This is the best we've felt in over two weeks. There is a little mixed emotion in that we feel some sadness for the families of hostages still there," said Joe Walsh, of Ogden, Utah, whose 34-year-old daughter, Joan, was among those freed.

"I've never had any doubts about my daughter's being able to cope with life. But this was something totally unexpected. Here my husband's been in two wars and he's never been interned or anything..." said Walsh's wife, Audrey.

Delia Williams Mallory of Albany, N.Y., said she started making plans for Thanksgiving dinner after hearing of the release of her 22-year-old grandson, Marine Cpl. Westley Williams.

Mrs. Mallory, 55, said she raised her grandson, who last visited her Oct. 3, three days before he left for Iran.

During her 16-day phone-side vigil, Mrs. Mallory said she had begun to feel like a hostage herself. "I've been in this house since the day it happened. I've been out only one time."

Others, like Vivian Homeyer of Weelsburg, Iowa, continued to wait. Mrs. Homeyer's sister, Kathryn Koob, was not among those freed, but she said she was not discouraged.

"We have got the Lord on our side," she said. "With Him in there, we have always got hope."

In other developments: —Sam Church, the new president of the United Mine Workers said President Carter ought to be a little tougher in negotiations on behalf of the remaining hostages. Church said the United States would be better off in the long run if it would "flex its muscles now."

—In Pittsburgh, immigration officials say deportation proceedings have begun against 59 Iranians in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Robert A. Halliwell said they were found to be in violation of the terms of their visas. He said the 59 include only about 10 students, with the remainder mostly doctors and other professionals.

—In Washington, a group planning a demonstration across from the White House in favor of a peaceful end to the Iran crisis was been denied permission to hold its gathering.

—In Cleveland, Tenn., patriotic music set the mood at a ceremony to give 15,000 signatures supporting the U.S. position on the crisis to a representative of Rep. Marilyn Lloyd Bouquard.

Signers also vowed to help reduce oil consumption by 25 percent while Americans are held hostage and by 5 percent afterward.

Mother Still Praying For Release Of Other Americans In Embassy

PRAIRIE VIEW (UPI) — Arie Ruth Walker was overcome by joyful tears in the excitement of the moment, but the thought that her son was only one of the U.S. Americans released from the U.S. embassy in Tehran still hung on her mind.

"I'm very happy for my son, but I'm also saddened about what must be in the other mothers' minds," Mrs. Walker said Monday upon learning her Marine sergeant son, David Walker, 25, would be released from the embassy where he had been held for 16 days.

"They're ours too — we can't give up until they're all back here. We're still praying for all of them."

Mrs. Walker at first was overcome by joy and she broke down crying.

"Oh, I'm so happy I don't know what to do. I really am. A relative called who saw it (the release announcement) on TV and she said, 'It's Ricky (Walker's nickname) and he looks well.'"

"I couldn't help but to break down. I felt it, it lifted a big burden off our backs."

Mrs. Walker said, "I thought I was holding up very well until this happened. I feel very tired but happy." She broke into song when she said "happy."

Mrs. Walker said, "It's going to be a constant prayer thing with people all over the world. I still feel relatively light about it — that nothing is going to happen to them (the remaining hostages). I don't believe they're going to be harmed. They'll probably be released a few here, a few there."

She said her son would likely be airlifted to Frankfurt, West Germany, and would fly to the nation's capitol several days later.

"I'll fly to Washington," she said proudly. "And then we'll fly to Prairie View."

Walker's father, James, who works as a welder and a Baptist minister said, "I'm just overjoyed. I haven't been, but I am now. I had a feeling he would be released. Only through prayer — I really took faith."

Walker said, "I really don't know the first thing that I'll talk to him about but when I see him, I'll probably hug him and then spend a few minutes in silent prayer."

Jessie Maples of Earle, Arkansas, was sharing the Walkers' happiness. Her son, Earle, also a Marine sergeant, was to be released with the nine other hostages — all women and blacks.

"I'm a religious person," she said. "I believe in the Lord and today he heard my prayer."

Woman Anxiously Waits For News About Son

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Florence Robinson tried to go about her household chores as usual Monday.

But it was admittedly difficult as the Wichita woman waited nervously for word about her son, one of the Americans taken hostage earlier this month by Iranian students in Tehran.

Air Force Capt. Neal T. Robinson, 27, of Houston, was one of 10 black hostages released early today by the Iranian government.

"No one has called. I have nothing to report," said Mrs. Robinson late Monday, before news of her son's release was confirmed.

"I'm not going to say anything until I know he is out of Iran," she explained. "I'm afraid to say anything that can hurt him or any of the other hostages still there. Do you understand why?"

"My birthday is in November, and when you get to be my age (which she did not reveal) you like to forget it... I'll never as long as I live, forget November 1979."

Robinson and others scheduled to be released appeared at a mid-day news conference Monday arranged by their captors in the U.S. embassy.

Mrs. Robinson caught a glimpse of her son on the television news and giggled when she saw him being hugged by several other women captives. Robinson said at the news conference that another black man and two women still were being held along with 46 white male-Americans.

Robinson, a graduate of Wichita Heights High School and the U.S. Air Force Academy, provided a detailed description of his captivity in Iran.

"They indicated that we are being released, not as a compromise but because they felt some type of feeling for us as blacks and women," Robinson said.

"I'll fly to Washington," she said proudly. "And then we'll fly to Prairie

Saudi Arabia Supporting U.S. In Confrontation With Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is getting strong support from Saudi Arabia in its confrontation with Iran.

"We appreciate the wisdom of the way the United States is dealing with the situation," Saudi Ambassador Faisal Al-hegelen said Monday as he left the State Department after a meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

The Carter administration is going to great lengths to gain the understanding and support of the Saudis, who wield both religious and monetary influence in the Islamic world. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller will visit Riyadh next week.

Officials say they are counting on the Saudis to head off any adverse reaction among oil producers to President Carter's decision to freeze Iranian assets in response to the Nov. 4 taking of hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. Some of the smaller producers have voiced fears that their oil revenues might not be safe in U.S. banks.

But Alhegelen said the Saudis have accepted U.S. assurances that the Iranian situation is unique and does not affect their assets. "We don't feel it will have any effect on Saudi Arabia in the future," he said.

Officials say they also are hopeful the Saudis will maintain their current oil production rate of 9.5 million barrels per day, which is one million barrels more than the Saudis say they would like to sell.

Without the high Saudi production, the current balance in oil supply and demand might be disrupted, particularly in view of the uncertainty of Iranian supplies. That could lead to a major price increase at the December meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Alhegelen said the OPEC decision will depend in part on whether the consuming countries can restrain demand.

ter not walk alone across the red brick and pre-poured concrete campus in the U.S. heartland.

"I asked them why not. Because of rooftop snipers," the student from Tehran said. "They told me they would escort me across the campus, one on each side of me to shield me from the snipers."

"So we walked out, my two friends at my shoulders. We had reached a great open space between buildings when, suddenly, my two friends broke and ran from my side and shouted to the rooftops. 'Get him! Get him!'"

Ghaffarzadeh laughed. "Jokers," he said.

"The phone where my wife and I live rings 24 hours a day. The most come on Friday and Saturday nights, maybe after some students have been not been able to get a date but have gotten something to drink."

"They phone and tell me I am to die, that I am any of a variety of four-and seven-letter words and that I am a camel

"Well, we don't have enough data on the taking of the hostages. Secondly, if we take a position, we students may lose the support of the American people," Ghaffarzadeh said.

"No, we don't refuse to state our position because of any feeling of being physically threatened," he said. "But the atmosphere is not too friendly. There is a threat."

"When I walk across the campus, I hear what students behind me are saying. They say, 'Let's shoot him first and then hang him.' That sort of thing."

"I think much of it is just joking," he said.

Ghaffarzadeh, on campus for three and a half years, said two American students told him one morning he had bet-

Clements Says Perot Asked About Rescue

AUSTIN (UPI) — "Washington parties" have discussed with Dallas millionaire H. Ross Perot his commando rescue of two of his employees from a Tehran prison in February, Gov. Bill Clements says. But Perot says his conversations had no relation to the hostages in Iran.

During a news conference Monday at the winter meeting of the Republican Governors Conference, Clements said Iran was in a chaotic situation with no real government, and that he was not sure with whom the United States should negotiate for the release of the remaining hostages.

Asked by a reporter if anyone had contacted Perot, a Clements friend, the governor said, "I do know he has been contacted by parties in Washington and has discussed with them some of the things that transpired in his episode in Iran."

"I didn't say White House parties," Clements explained, refusing to give further details.

In Dallas, Perot spokesman Bill Wright read a statement from Perot that said, "I have had no conversations regarding the hostage situation in Iran. My only conversations with our government have involved EDS' (Electronic Data Systems, Inc.) activities in freezing Iranian assets and the impact of the decision of the U.S. government to seize Iranian assets."

Perot financed the rescue by a 15-man commando team in February of two EDS engineers — Paul Chiapparoni and Bill Gaylor — from a Tehran prison.

Youngster Not Surprised By Age Of Ancient Bone

IRVING (AP) — Derek Saunders says it came as no surprise when a bone he found turned out to be 12,000 years old.

It just meant the 11-year-old's career as a paleontologist was finally getting off the ground.

"I thought it was pretty old," the sixth-grader said. "Young bones are white, and it takes them a while to fossilize."

Derek, a sixth-grader at Irving's Lamar Junior High School, found the bone last year while walking his bicycle through a local park. He showed it to his fifth-grade teacher and brought it to class again this year.

His current science teacher, Ann Miesch, took the bone to a meeting with professors from East Texas State University's Earth Sciences Department. A month later, the bone came back with a note identifying the bone as that of an elephant that lived in the Pleistocene Epoch of the Ice Age.

The bone is really that of a mammoth, Derek says, because no elephants lived in that time.

Derek said he has returned to the creek bed for more digs, but so far has found only cow bones.

A self-described "rock hound," Derek says he wants to be a paleontologist when he gets out of school.

and wore some of the finest clothes available. Now she spends most of her time on her porch amid trash and animal waste and dressed in clothes bought in thrift shops.

The actress lives in only two rooms of the North Manhattan Place home with as many as six dogs and six cats, a public guardian said.

Miss MacLaren was expected to appear in Los Angeles Superior Court Friday to be appraised of her rights to oppose a petition for conservatorship filed by the Los Angeles County public guardian.

Her two rooms are cluttered with trash and her living conditions are submarginal, the petition states.

It also advocates a conservator to investigate a transaction conveying the property, to marshal assets, collect income and pay obligations.

The petition questions whether Miss MacLaren legally transferred equity in the house to James Griffis and whether the transaction involved exploitation and fraud.

Griffis has converted the house into what he has named the Evangelical Catholic Church of Jesus Christ Apostolic Orthodox and Rescue Mission. The front door is nailed shut and Miss MacLaren reaches her two rooms through a side door.

Should the conservatorship be granted, it is possible Miss MacLaren could remain in her home, according to Richard Chavat of the county counsel's office.

New Fashions Show Confidence

By JOANNE WINSHIP
NEW YORK (UPI) — After 10 days of spring-summer fashion collections on New York's Seventh Avenue the fashion message for 1980 is clear: the eve of a new decade is bringing with it adventurous moods and more confidence on the part of American fashion designers.

The past few seasons have brought all sorts of experimentation, from tough military looks and exaggerated shoulder padding to tarty retro revivals of 40s, 50s, and 60s styles. But designers have learned what women will wear and accept and what they won't.

Only in Paris, where collections are held in huge tents holding 3,000 people and runways are the length of football fields, are shows still produced for theatrical effects and shock value which generates publicity. Most of Paris' bizarre clothes are never seen either in the stores or on the backs of the clothes buying public.

The seeds of ideas are planted in Paris and American designers, for a while, tried to emulate Paris in their own way, showing their collections in discos, on ship's piers, hotel ballrooms and weird lofts, creating a circus like atmosphere. Now they have come down to earth.

This season they are cognizant of today's economic climate and have sensibly, and without fanfare, gone back to their crowded showrooms and quietly shown their wares. They have learned that gimmicks and fads don't sell and consequently have come full circle to the simple fact that American women want pretty, feminine, flattering clothes, and most want them wearable and workable.

America's strength lies in its ability to give women the current trends at whatever price level she can afford.

There is obviously less confusion in the minds of designers today. Usually they have a tendency to snatch at the latest novelty such as the revival of miniskirts shown a few weeks ago in Paris. A very few have been shown here, obviously for teeny boppers, but this was an exception. Most women won't wear them and the stores won't stock them. The same applies to the huge shoulders shown by a some French designers.

These are almost nonexistent in current American collections.

What is showing up, while neither earth shattering nor revolutionary, are some very pretty clothes that are shaped but soft, waists and hips defined with tucks or pleats. They are refined looking and make a woman look like a woman without high high slits or clothes vulgarly plastered to the body.

Hems have inched up and are shorter, but they look a better with today's proportions and are never too short.

One of the biggest advantages today is the emphasis on items or individual pieces to add to an existing wardrobe. Almost every sportswear and even dress designers, while showing a completely put together look, are selling individual pieces that can be bought separately — a jacket, skirt, pants, camisole, or sweater — for day or evening.

There is a wider choice of styles than ever before, and much less emphasis on what is and isn't de rigueur.

Full skirts are just as important as slim ones. Short little waist length or cropped sweaters are shown side by side with long pullovers. Bolero types vie with long cardigans. Collarless and buttonless jackets are as "in" as double or single breasted blazers. Small prints are just as much featured as bold ones.

Short evening dresses, either flounced, ruffled, or tiered, share honors with long evening dresses. They can be slim slinks or flared and floaty or bare and covered.

Pants are important everywhere for day and night, beach to bistro, and in every length and many shapes, from full to fitted and classic.

Coats are the same, fitted or loose, and both look good.

Colors, fabrics, prints — stripes, dots, dashes and geometrics — are all part of the 1980 fashion story. They are as varied as they are numerous and it's up to the individual to choose her look and her style.

THE CIRCLE SKIRT — Cone Mills corduroy is designed by Crazy Horse in a full, gathered dirndl skirt, and two button blazer jacket. Perfect for the holidays.

Maternity Care Available

Childbirth With Preparation of Lubbock recently became a member of the International Childbirth Education Association (ICEA), according to a group spokesman.

ICEA is a federation of groups and individuals interested in family-centered maternity and infant care. Publications, conferences, teacher certification, and contact with other prepared childbirth organizations on an international scale are available through ICEA.

As a service/resource organization, the primary goal of ICEA is to foster family-centered maternity care.

The class series is seven weeks in duration including such topics as information about labor and delivery, relaxation and breathing techniques used during labor and delivery, theory behind the Pavlov-Lamaze method of prepared childbirth, variations of labor and delivery, medication information, postpartum information for after the baby comes, and a labor rehearsal.

A class series for women expecting to have or recently having had a Cesarean section birth and the Early Bird Class for women in early pregnancy are also taught by Childbirth With Preparation of Lubbock.

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a successful, prominent professional man who frequently works under severe pressure. Once or twice a year he would erupt into a violent rage, and it seemed therapeutic (for him) to "punch me out."

For years I suffered in silence, hiding and making up excuses for not appearing in public until my cuts and bruises healed. I was too ashamed to let anyone know the truth, so I kept quiet.

I felt that I must have done something terribly wrong to deserve this kind of treatment. Meanwhile, by my silence I was protecting my husband, whom I continued to love in spite of his occasional animal behavior.

I began to ask myself why I took so much abuse and let him get away with it. Then, suddenly, a solution came to mind!

That evening I calmly told my husband that if he ever beat me again, I would hire a professional photographer to photograph me after the battle. Then I would place these 8 by 10 photos in strategic places all over town — identifying myself in living color as his beloved battered wife!

My husband was shocked at this idea; he knew I really meant it.

Needless to say, it worked. It's been four years since he has laid less than a loving hand on me, and our marriage is more solid than ever.

Share this with your readers, Abby.
PEARL, THE PINUP

Dear Pearl: Thanks for a helpful letter. It's been said, "One picture is worth 10,000 words." A picture of this kind should be worth at least $10,000.

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, and was very disappointed to learn that you are so closed-minded about snakes.

Obviously, your fear stems from prejudice and ignorance. If you ever got to know snakes, you would learn to love them. Most people would kill a snake on sight just because it is a snake! How cruel. Snakes are gentle and harmless by nature, and avoid confrontation. They strike only when threatened, and don't deserve to be run over by cars, or decapitated and hacked to pieces by garden tools.

Snakes perform a valuable service by eating rodents and pests that threaten crops and the ecology.

Snakes make wonderful pets for retired people and apartment dwellers. They're odorless, clean and quiet, and don't need to be groomed or walked.

Dear C.J.: Another plus: You don't have to worry about anybody stealing them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently bought a home from a nice, middle-aged couple with two children.

They very generously left several pieces of their old furniture for us since they knew we were very low on furnishings.

After moving in, we came across some snapshots they inadvertently left behind in a drawer. Among the photos are several shots of the woman — in the buff — taken while she was eight or nine months pregnant.

Should we destroy the photos, or return them? The couple still reside in town and we have their address.

If you think we should return these pictures, have you any suggestions as to the least embarrassing way to do so?

BLUSHING IN N.Y.

Dear Blushing: Mail the photos to them — without comment.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Terence Reese and Jeremy Flint have been in the forefront of international bridge competition for many years. They are two of the greatest players of the modern age, so you would expect their new book "Trick 13" (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, hardback, 172 pages), to be full of useful advice.

But this is an unusual work, for it contains only one bridge hand! Featured, instead, are the creator of a bridge system, bridge pros, a cheating scandal, drugs and sex — and a murder with a motive only a bridge player could understand. Here's the hand.

East's opening bid was a request for specific aces, and West denied holding any. When East settled in six hearts, South decided that defensive prospects were bleak. Since East seemed to think he could make slam in hearts, South boldly sacrificed at six spades. Do you blame West for doubting?

West's failure to start a heart led declarer to believe that the actual club lead was, in all probability, a singleton. And the presence of three aces between the two hands enabled South to deduce that East, to contract for slam, had to be void in two suits. The hand was now an open book.

Declarer won the ace of clubs, and led the two of spades, intending to finesse dummy's six if West played low. West, however, inserted the nine and the ace won. Declarer crossed to his hand with a heart ruff, played a diamond to the seven and ruffed another heart. There followed a finesse of the nine of diamonds and a ruff of dummy's last heart.

After finessing the jack of diamonds, declarer discarded his two losing clubs on the ace and king of diamonds. Now both declarer and West were down to nothing but three trumps each. Declarer simply led a trump to his eight. West won the jack, but he was forced to lead away from his Q-5 of trumps into declarer's K-10 tenace, and the slam rolled home.

You'll have to read the book to find out about the murder!

Thanksgiving Routines Planned According To Family Traditions

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Conversation recently turned, as it will, at this special time in the fall to plans for Thanksgiving dinner. "Thanksgiving," one person said, "means turkey." Another chimed in the conversation with, "it's the only special holiday anymore that's really a holiday. In my family we just laze around all day."

Every family seems to have a special Thanksgiving routine, often worked around a very important high school, college or pro football game. And, even though family members and friends seem to come and go as their Thanksgiving schedules permit each year, it still is a "family" event with the family more often than not including new neighbors and friends.

Just as those who join hands at the Thanksgiving table in a blessing may have changed with the years so has the attitude toward preparing the very special meal. Few rise at 3:30 in the morning anymore to put the turkey in the oven and make all the fixings. Yet, everyone wants that old-fashioned turkey dinner. This is an ideal time to turn that Thanksgiving feast into a bring-a-dish affair so family and guests truly can just "laze" through the day.

MENU

- Festive tangerine punch
- Mushroom canapes
- Broccoli quiche
- Grapefruit-Avocado Chantilly
- Apple glazed turkey
- Savory stuffing
- Perfect gravy
- Fresh cranberry sauce
- Mashed potatoes and turnips
- Vermont lima bean casserole
- Sweet potato and apple bake
- Orange pumpkin pie

FESTIVE TANGERINE PUNCH

6 cans frozen concentrated tangerine juice, undiluted
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup lime juice
5 qts gingerale or champagne, chilled
Tangerine segments
Combine tangerine juice concentrate, corn syrup and lime juice and mix thoroughly. Just before serving, add gingerale or champagne and float tangerine segments in punch. If desired, tangerine segments may be placed in sections of ice cube trays covered with gingerale and frozen. The tangerine ice cubes make an interesting "float" in the punch bowl. Makes about 50 half-cup servings.

MUSHROOM CANAPES

2 tbsps. olive oil or salad oil
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 lb. mushrooms, chopped (4 cups)
4 1/2 tps. lemon juice
2 tbsps. sour cream
2 tbsps. chopped chives
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce
1 tsp. dry white wine (optional)
Melba toast rounds
Heat oil in skillet. Add onions and cook them until transparent. Add mushrooms and cook until tender. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice, sour cream, chives, salt, pepper sauce and wine. Chill. Drain off liquid and serve mushroom mixture in small bowl surrounded with toast rounds. Makes about 8 appetizer servings.

BROCCOLI QUICHE

Pastry for single-crust 9-inch pie
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese, divided
2 cups chopped fresh broccoli
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1/4 cup sliced scallions
3 eggs
2 1/3 cup chicken broth
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. hot pepper sauce
With pastry, line 10-inch quiche dish or 9-inch pie plate. Prick bottom and corners of pastry with fork. Bake in 450-degree oven for 5 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Layer half the broccoli over the Parmesan cheese. Continue with layers of half Swiss cheese and scallions. Repeat with remaining broccoli, Swiss cheese and scallions. Beat eggs; add chicken broth, cream, salt, and pepper sauce. Mix well. Pour over broccoli mixture in pastry shell. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Bake 10 minutes at 450-degrees. Reduce heat to 325-degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes longer or until knife inserted in center of pie comes out clean. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before cutting. Makes 10 to 12 appetizer servings.

GRAPEFRUIT-AVOCADO CHANTILLY

4 avocados, halved
4 Florida grapefruits, sectioned*
1 cup halved seedless green grapes
1/4 cup sliced scallions
Scoop out most of avocado and cut into cubes, leaving a shell. Combine cubed avocado with grapefruit sections, grapes and scallions in bowl; mix lightly. Spoon into avocado shells and serve with Grapefruit Tarragon Dressing. Makes 8 servings.

*To section grapefruit: Cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Or cut off peel round and round spiral fashion. Go over fruit again to remove any remaining white membrane. Cut along each side dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section over bowl to retain juice.

GRAPEFRUIT TARRAGON DRESSING

2 eggs
3 tbsps. tarragon vinegar
1 tbsps. grapefruit juice
1 tsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. dried leaf tarragon hot pepper sauce to taste
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
In top of double boiler beat eggs until frothy. Beat in vinegar, grapefruit juice, sugar, tarragon, salt and pepper sauce. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and cool completely. Fold in whipped cream. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

APPLE GLAZED TURKEY

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups chopped celery
1 cup chopped scallions
8 cups diced raisin bread
1 cup chopped pecans
2 eggs
1 tsp. salt
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 turkey, about 15 lbs., thawed if frozen, giblets removed
1/4 cup soy sauce
1 can (6 oz.) frozen concentrated apple juice, thawed and undiluted
In a skillet, heat 1/2 cup of the butter and saute celery and scallions for 5 minutes. Pour mixture into a bowl and stir in raisin bread, pecans, eggs, salt and orange rind. Sprinkle turkey inside and out with salt and pepper. Use raisin bread mixture to stuff turkey. Sew or skewer opening. Roast turkey in a preheated 325-degree oven or until meat thermometer registers 190 degrees, for 4 to 4 1/2 hours or until leg can be moved up and down easily. Mix concentrated apple juice and soy sauce for the glaze. One hour before turkey is ready, spoon some of the mixture over the turkey. Spoon every 15 minutes. Serve garnished with parsley and spiced whole crab apples. Makes one 15-pound turkey.

SAVORY STUFFING

1 lb. bulk sausage meat
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 large onions, chopped
1 can (13 3/4 oz.) chicken broth
2 loaves (1 lb. ea.) firm-type bread, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
1 cup chopped parsley
2 cups sliced celery
1/2 tsp. thyme
1/2 tsp. sage
1 can (12 oz.) kernel corn, drained
Salt and pepper
Cook sausage meat until browned and crumbly. Drain excess fat. In large skillet, melt butter. Saute onion until golden. Add broth, heat. Meanwhile, put bread cubes into large bowl. Pour butter, broth mixture over bread. Stir in parsley, celery, thyme, sage, corn and sausage meat. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover and chill until ready to stuff turkey.
(To heat leftover stuffing, pack it into a greased casserole, cover with greased foil and place in oven about 1 hour before turkey tests done.) Makes enough for 15-pound turkey for 10 to 12 servings.

PERFECT GRAVY

Pan drippings from turkey
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1 can (13 3/4 oz.) chicken broth
Salt and pepper
Pour drippings through sieve into a 4-cup measure. Let stand for a minute or two for fat to rise to top; skim off fat and reserve. Add enough water to juices to make 2 cups. Measure 1/2 cup of the fat into a saucepan. Add flour; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture bubbles. Gradually stir in pan juices and the chicken broth. Continue cooking and stirring until gravy thickens and boils 1 minute. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Reduce heat to very low; cover pan; simmer, stirring often, 10 to 15 minutes for a very smooth gravy. Makes about 4 cups.

VARIATIONS:

1. Wine Gravy: To Perfect Gravy, add 1/4 to 1/3 cup dry vermouth or white wine. Simmer a few minutes, stirring often.
2. Cream Gravy: To Perfect Gravy, add 1/2 cup light cream and 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon leaf thyme, crumbled; simmer 5 minutes, stirring often.

1/4 tsp. allspice
2 large eggs
1 can (13 oz.) evaporated milk
1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin
Orange Whipped Cream
Orange peel for garnish (optional)
In large mixing bowl, combine molasses and next 9 ingredients and stir until well blended. Gradually beat in evaporated milk, then the pumpkin. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 1 hour or until slightly puffed and brown. Cool on wire rack; then chill. At serving time make up Orange Whipped Cream. Spoon onto pie. Garnish with orange peel, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

ORANGE WHIPPED CREAM

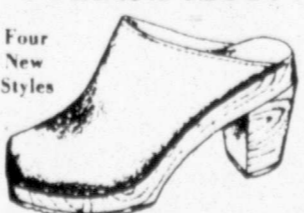

In medium bowl, combine 1/2 cup heavy cream with 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar. Beat until stiff peaks form when beaters are lifted from bowl. Fold in 2 teaspoons Cointreau or 1 teaspoon orange extract. (Note: Store-bought 9-inch pie shell is too small for this pie. Use homemade 9-inch pie shell.)

Fire Deaths Linked To Furniture Fabrics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The one product most linked with fire deaths in the United States is found in virtually every living room in the country: Upholstered furniture.

The main problem with such furniture is cigarette ignition, according to the National Bureau of Standards: a smoker accidentally drops a lit cigarette on a piece of upholstered furniture. It smolders, creates smoke and an atmosphere that is toxic — and sometimes deadly — to the room's occupant(s).
NBS research indicates carbon monoxide, the gas most often associated with fire deaths, affects people mentally before it hits them physically. Inhaling carbon monoxide leads people to make unintelligent decisions just before collapsing — probably because the brain is deprived of oxygen and judgment impaired, researchers say.

Berry Industry Recovers

By VICTORIA KAHARL
BOSTON (UPI) — Twenty years ago, just before Thanksgiving, Arthur Flemming stepped to a podium in Washington and squashed the cranberry industry.

Flemming, then secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said that some cranberries grown in Washington state and Oregon had been contaminated with an herbicide that was believed to have caused thyroid cancer in rats.

The government advised consumers not to buy any canned or fresh berries unless they could determine where the berries had been grown.

The announcement could not have come at a worse time for the industry. A near-record crop had been raked from the bogs for the Thanksgiving Christmas season and it immediately went to waste.

Another cabinet member quickly stepped into the fray. Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson said he planned to eat cranberries that Thanksgiving. People wished him well and indicated he might be the only one doing so.

"It was a disaster," recalls Cape Cod cranberry grower Link Thatcher. "We went from $13 a barrel to $3, overnight. I laid off six men and went into carpentry."

The industry has since fully recovered from the scare. Record harvests are once again being hauled from the purple bogs.
Thatcher, who had only 10 acres when he crashed 20 years ago, now farms 100 acres in Harwich and Yarmouth, Mass.

Last year, the national cranberry harvest was a record-breaking 2,458,500 barrels of 100 pounds each. U.S. Department of Agriculture figures show.

This year, the USDA estimates another record-breaker: 2,523,000 barrels. Industry spokesmen, still shuddering from the 1959 scare, now boast cranberries have never been more healthful or popular.

Cranberry sauce is almost mandatory in many places for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner.
More than 50 percent of the crop goes into beverages: Cranberry juice cocktail and cranberry-prune, cranberry-apricot and cranberry-apple juice blends.

The cranberry juice cocktail is also popular in alcoholic drinks such as the Cape Codder or the Scarlet O'Hara. Cranberry is even an "in" fashion color currently.

The wild berries were a staple with American Indians when the Pilgrims arrived. The Indians ground them with venison and fat, packed the mixture into paddies and dried it in the sun.

City Woman Reports Assault By Husband

A 50-year-old woman was taken to Methodist Hospital about 10:30 p.m. Monday after her husband allegedly assaulted her at the couple's home. After the assault, the woman ran naked to a neighbor's house, where police were called. She said that after she drove her 60-year-old husband home from work to their 36th Street residence, a fight began when he accused her of seeing someone else. The woman, treated and released for cuts and multiple bruises, said the man kicked her several times in the stomach and head and ripped off her clothes. In other activity, two men were arrested about 11:45 p.m. Monday after one of the suspects reportedly walked into a convenience store in the 4900-block of Memphis Avenue displaying a 45-caliber pistol. The suspects, a 19-year-old Lubbock man and an Albuquerque, N.M. man, 18, were apprehended in the 3700-block of 53rd Street after police confiscated the pistol from the suspects' vehicle. Reports indicate the weapon was unloaded and the firing pin missing. However, the men allegedly resisted officers' attempts to search them and were taken to the county jail. The clerk said one of the men entered the store acting "cocky" and making no attempts to conceal the pistol, which was tucked inside his pants. The other man appeared to be acting as a lookout outside the store, according to reports. The attendant said the man with the gun walked out of the business and both suspects drove off after they saw him calling police. Police received information of the suspects' vehicle and located them on 53rd Street minutes after the clerk called in the complaint. Police said they had to struggle with one of the suspects before handcuffing him. Both were booked into county jail on suspicion of disorderly conduct. An off-duty policeman, working security at John Knox Village, 1717 Norfolk Ave., said he apprehended two men after he saw them loading wooden beams onto their vehicle behind the retirement center. The Lubbock men, ages 21 and 22, attempted to drive away, but were caught by the officer within minutes, according to police. With the help of two citizens, a 20-year-old Lubbock man was arrested late

Monday night after he allegedly burglarized the Last Book Store at 3203 34th St. and made off with cash and books, totaling about $175. Two men said they noticed a window broken on the east side of the business, and while one went to call the police the other watched the building. One of the witnesses told officers he watched the suspect leave the business armed with a pistol and saw him drive off in a car. Police were given a description of the vehicle and stopped the man in the 3000-block of 34th Street and confiscated the loot and a revolver from inside the vehicle. The man was taken to the county jail on suspicion of burglary. A Lubbock woman said a man she was letting stay at her apartment until he found work stole $665 cash while she was gone from her residence between 9:40 p.m. and 10:20 p.m. Monday. She said she came home from the Lubbock International Airport to find the cash and her guest gone. She described the suspect as a 19-year-old white man, who had told her he was planning to go to Phoenix, Ariz. A 31-year-old Lubbock man allegedly threw a drink and ice at an off-duty policeman about 6:30 p.m. Monday after he was confronted by the officer in front of the United Supermarket at 3201 Ave. Q. The policeman, working as a security guard at the business, said he watched the suspect attempt to steal two packages of meat from the store. He said when he confronted the suspect, the man handed over the meat and attempted to walk away. Reports indicate when the officer grabbed him, the man threw the drink and ice at the security guard. The policeman said he chased down the alleged shoplifter and took him to the county jail. Ramiro Alvarado, 22-year-old clerk at a convenience store at Cornell Street and Detroit Avenue, told police he was assaulted about 9:20 p.m. Monday by a man he had caught attempting to steal a pair of gloves. The attendant said the man threatened to kill him after the clerk ordered the man to put the gloves back and leave the store. Reports indicate both men confronted each other in front of the business and that the suspect hit Alvarado in the face. The thwarted thief fled on foot after the clerk struck back, according to reports.

A 27-year-old pregnant woman said her boyfriend beat her about 10 p.m. Monday at her 32nd Street residence after an argument erupted over a past assault. The woman told police the man hit her in the mouth and stomach. Though the woman said she was pregnant, reports did not indicate she was taken to a hospital. A 59-year-old Lubbock man was taken into custody Monday afternoon after he allegedly broke into an elderly woman's Avenue B house and passed out on her bed. Police went to the house where they found the man sleeping in the complainant's bed. Reports state that the man was ordered to leave, but that he was so intoxicated he could not put his shoes on. While police were at the house, the man reportedly stood up and then fell down, pinning the elderly woman under him on the bed. Police picked up the suspect and carted him to the county jail. The woman said the man had been fighting with another man behind her house before he broke into her residence. A 34-year-old Lubbock woman said her house was burglarized sometime Saturday, but she did not report the break-in until about 9:15 p.m. Monday when she was released from the Lubbock County Jail. The woman reported about an $1,800 loss, including stolen jewelry, clothes, household goods and furniture. Other furniture was broken and clothes were scattered about the house, she said. Reports indicate the woman's sister discovered the break-in Saturday, but the burglary was not reported until the resident got out of jail Monday night. Three persons, including a 67-year-old woman in a wheelchair, were arrested Monday afternoon after they allegedly attempted to steal $24.75 in meat and drugs from a supermarket in the 5000-block of Gary Avenue. The other suspects were the crippled woman's 71-year-old husband and a 47-year-old female. All gave Lubbock addresses. The trio reportedly was spotted putting items in their pockets and handbags. The older woman allegedly placed

Dismal Fate Predicted For Teaching Hospital

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff
After premature announcements of financial improvement, the county teaching hospital is sitting on the edge of economic disaster again, anticipating more than $200,000 in overdrafts by the year's end and a possible shut-down in July. Monday's meeting of the Lubbock County Hospital District Board of Managers produced a cash projection report of bleak proportions — a picture "as black as we can paint it," finance committee chairman Wayne Smith said after the meeting. During the next few weeks, Health Sciences Center Hospital officials will be cashing certificates of deposit, the hospital's only reserve, to break even. But the last of the CDs will run out in mid-December.

Judging from the current level of operation, administrators will be overdrawn $216,000 by Dec. 31 and will be starting the new year owing vendors about $2.9 million. In mid-October, Brookwood Management Services still was running Health Sciences. They had completed an optimistic budget for 1980 and said the hospital had passed the crisis point in its financial operation. But hospital district officials had long been asking for more complete financial reports, including a projection of available cash to budgeted needs, as presented Monday. Smith also presented the board with a list of steps that he said must be taken to insure the hospital's survival. Efficient billing and collection efforts top the list as do improving the patient mix and stopping out-of-county "dumps." But the list also included some cutbacks — both in services and staff. To control the cost of resident physicians, Smith is recommending a reduction in that group or state funding to cover the cost. Board members hope to address the issue of state funding at a meeting of state hospital district officials next month. Smith also encourages increasing charges for rooms and services. Emergency Medical Services is on the money-saving list, marked as an item that can be improved in terms of efficiency. Smith warned that if EMS cannot receive additional subsidy through some other source ("I don't care where it comes from") or further increase its rates, the hospital may have to "divest itself" of the operation. "We're down to where these things have to be done," Smith said, "or we're looking at closing this hospital some time in July."

Smith explained that predictions of closing the hospital would come about only if the facility continues at its current rate of loss. The predictions take into account a massive payment to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare that temporarily has been suspended, as well as payments to Texas Tech which still are in negotiation. Dr. Richard Lockwood, vice president of Health Sciences Centers (which includes the Texas Tech medical school), suggested that hospital officials consider closing some of the hospital's less profitable clinical programs. Medical school officials have long pleaded to keep as many services open as possible and board members seemed grateful Lockwood is willing to consider such a move. "Things look bad," Smith admitted, adding later, "That may be the understatement of the year." Hospital district board members seemed relieved, at least, to finally get the financial information they had been requesting from Brookwood during the three months they managed the hospital. In other business, the board came out of a closed executive session to announce that interim administrator Charles Roberts' salary would be set at $34,000 a year for his time as administrator. Board members have been looking for a permanent executive director since Brookwood's representatives left in late October. Going over the hospital's monthly financial figures, hospital accountant Oscar Will reported that actual patient revenue is up over last year's figures. But the hospital suffered a $30,000 operating loss during the month, just the same. Hospital staffing is "substantially below" the numbers budgeted for 1980, he said. The budget provides for 660.4 full time equivalency positions, while the hospital currently only employs only 603.5 FTEs.

Panel Issues SALT II Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee says rejection of the SALT II treaty would dangerously boost the arms race, leaving the Soviet Union unrestrained and seriously risking the stability of the nuclear balance.

But the committee's minority says the treaty as it stands is neither equitable nor verifiable. They say it is a bad bargain and should be defeated unless substantial changes are made in Senate debate.

The two opposing views reflect the nine to six split by which the panel voted earlier this month to recommend the Senate ratify the strategic arms limitation treaty.

While floor debate can begin anytime after Monday, the actual starting time is unclear because Democratic leaders have said they do not intend to begin debate until ratification chances improve. Treaty supporters have yet to claim they have the 67 votes needed for approval.

Opponents of the pact hope to kill it by a delaying action and by pushing it into the uncertain political currents of a presidential election year.

In its final report on SALT II, released Monday, the committee majority relied heavily on the proposition that the treaty is a useful and balanced step toward deeper cuts in SALT III and that attempts to improve SALT II by reopening negotiations would be counter-productive and risky.

"The committee's overall judgment is that the treaty is an acceptable balance of compromises on both sides," the report said.

The minority members said that in voting against the treaty they were not rejecting the arms control process, but rather holding the Carter administration responsible for failing to produce a coherent security policy and for signing a treaty that they contend is "detrimental to the security of the United States."

The committee majority said a Senate defeat would have these negative effects:

—Strain the unity of NATO.

—Destabilize relations with the Soviet Union "during a period of great potential international turbulence."

—Require sharply higher expenditures for strategic nuclear weapons than would be needed if the treaty were ratified.

—Degrade U.S. intelligence capabilities by denying the United States the advantages of safeguards and access to information built into the pact.

—Eliminate the degree of "predictability" about the intentions of each side that the pact provides.

The committee minority restated its frequent complaint that Soviet compliance with the pact cannot be proven and that U.S. negotiators failed to win limits on the Soviet force of heavy intercontinental ballistic missiles or on the Backfire bomber.

As to verification, the committee said it believes any major cheating by the Soviets can be caught early enough to permit effective counter measures, even though the U.S. capability to monitor Soviet missile tests continues to suffer because of the loss of listening posts in Iran.

Convicted Grain Dealer Seeks Support From Fraud Victims

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Former Iowa Park grain dealer Robert Johnson faced sentencing today for interstate transportation of stolen grain, hoping for support from farmers victimized in the deal.

Johnson sent letters to several area farmers asking that they recommend leniency to U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahler.

Clarence Mahler said Monday he received one of the letters.

He recalled that Johnson said he was sorry. "He asked that we write a letter to the judge asking that he be lenient," Mahler said. He said Johnson also promised to make efforts to repay money lost by the farmers.

Mahler said he and his wife lost $100,000 in wheat and face bankruptcy.

"I didn't write a letter," Mahler said. "My wife and son wrote one saying he ought to get the full sentence."

Gene Douglass, Johnson's attorney, said a letter was sent to each farmer who filed a claim in bankruptcy court. Douglass said he received a number of favorable replies.

John Barbour, who said he lost $5,000 in grain, said he also received a letter. "It said something like he was planning on making restitution," Barbour said. Barbour also declined to recommend leniency.

Johnson pleaded guilty to the two counts Oct. 25. In return, prosecutors agreed to dismiss another 11 counts, all alleging interstate transportation of stolen grain. Also dismissed were four counts of aiding and abetting his brother in the same offense. The brother, H.C. Johnson, was sentenced to 16 years in prison, and is now on parole.

Robert Johnson could receive up to 20 years in prison and $20,000 in fines.

The scheme came to light after Johnson was reported missing from his boat while sailing on the Gulf of Mexico in January 1978.

State and federal inspectors found grain shortages when they inspected Johnson's elevators after his "disappearance."

Johnson turned up in Idaho earlier this year when he was stopped on a traffic violation. His identity was determined, and he was returned to Wichita County, where he has been jailed in lieu of $500,000 bond.

Oil From Burning Tanker Hits Galveston Shores

GALVESTON (AP) — Oil from a burning tanker in the Gulf of Mexico poured onto beaches the length of Galveston Island Monday, and Coast Guard experts said the onslaught was expected to continue through Wednesday.

Thick patches of oil from the tanker Burmah Agate caused the worst beach contamination since the tanker and a freighter collided near the entrance to the Galveston Ship Channel Nov. 1.

Fifteen bodies were recovered after the collision between the tanker and the freighter Mimosa, and another 17 sailors are missing and presumed dead.

The oil washed ashore at East, West and Freeport beaches Monday as Navy skimmer boats fought to recover the spilling crude.

Two skimmers reported reclaiming a total of about 4,300 gallons of oil-and-water emulsion from waters around the flaming tanker. One of the skimmers reported an oil patch 2 miles by 150 yards about four miles off Galveston.

A Texas A&M scientist conducting tide and current surveys in San Luis Pass said he saw two oil slicks floating into West Bay.

The Coast Guard reported the amount of oil flowing from the damaged tanker increased Sunday night when the vessel buckled near the middle and opened a new crack in the storage tanks.

Several thousand feet of booms have been deployed near the entrance to the bay but Maynard said some oil probably would get through.

State Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz said Monday's problems proved his contention that the Coast Guard has not treated the spill as a serious matter.

Schwartz said the Coast Guard had consistently underestimated the amount of oil spilling from the vessel. "Their estimates are designed to soothe the minds of the people," he said.

The senator said elected officials should demand the Coast Guard and Burmah Oil Co. do more to extinguish the fire on the ship and stop the leaking oil.

Marine Dies From Burns

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A seventh U.S. Marine has died at Brooke Army Medical Center here, hospital officials reported today. The death brings to 12 the number of fatalities since a freak fire raced through their Japanese barracks.

The Marine, identified as Lance Cpl. Willie Davis Jr., 22, of Detroit, Mich., died Monday at 3:50 p.m., hospital spokeswoman Audrey Urbanczyk said.

Davis was one of 37 Marines flown from Japan to the specialized burn unit following the Oct. 19 blaze.

Of the 30 still hospitalized, 12 remain in critical condition, seven are in serious condition and 11 are listed as satisfactory, Miss Urbanczyk said.

Citibus Told To Reduce Expenses

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Transit Advisory Board members Monday warned Citibus officials to hold down expenses after they learned the bus operation overspent its budget for fuels and lubricants by $1,400 during October.

"You're going to really have to keep this (expense) under control," board member Bill Dean cautioned city transit coordinator John Wilson. "We don't want this to escalate."

Dr. Milton Smith, board president, echoed Dean's concern, saying, "there are only so many times we can go to city council with our hat in our hand."

One-time seasonal expenses such as $1,800 worth of antifreeze which was added to all 41 buses in the fleet, helped boost operating costs over budget in that category, Wilson explained.

The cost of fuel may rise faster than his projection of 90 cents per gallon (wholesale) by the end of the year, Wilson said.

"With this Iranian crisis, it may go to 90 cents by January," he said.

He said, though, that if the price of fuel does rise that rapidly, ridership also will rise above projected levels, offsetting the cost of gasoline.

"We won't be going to the city council to request extra funds," he said.

In other business, Dwight Maddox of Transit Management Co. of Lubbock, reported security at the Avenue C Citibus garage will be increased following two recent burglaries in which 18 tires were stolen.

Following an Oct. 23 meeting of an advisory committee on the handicapped, Wilson prepared a transition plan which will make Citibus "nondiscriminatory in services, policies, procedures, equipment or facilities to handicapped persons" by 1983.

He asked the board to review the plan before a public hearing at the Dec. 17 TAB meeting.

Gas Station Attendant Injured During Holdup

PLAINVIEW (Special) — The attendant of a gas station here was slightly injured shortly before 8 a.m. today during a holdup which netted two bandits an undetermined amount of money.

Hale County Sheriff Charles Tue, whose department is helping in the investigation, said Norman Woods, manager of the station, was struck in the back of the head with an unknown object by one of the two robbers and taken to Central Plains Regional Hospital, where he was treated and released.

The bandits had not been apprehended by early today.

Tue said the business was the Deep Rock service station in the north part of the city. Another report showed it to be the Swiftly Self Service gas station.

The suspects reportedly drove off in a gold or green 1970-72 Cadillac with a bug shield in front and Colorado license plates. A vehicle matching that description reportedly was spotted late this morning in Lubbock. However, a Lubbock Police Department spokesman said no arrests had been made.

The bandit who confronted Woods inside the store was described as a Mexican-American, about 20, slender, 6 feet tall, and weighing about 175 pounds. He reportedly was wearing a dark western suit.

The other suspect, who stayed in the car, also was described as a Mexican-American, about 30, heavy set and wearing gray clothes.

It was not immediately known whether the suspects were armed.

Circus Show To Exhibit At Institute

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The Smithsonian Institution will be the permanent home of a 30-tent circus and the pickpocket who preys on its "customers" when The Tiniest Show On Earth calls it quits after 33 years on the road.

Ernie's Circus, created by Ernie Palmquist and his wife, Virginia, is a wooden replica of the original Ringling Bros. circus — a tiny one, of course. A 6-foot man in Ernie's circus stands just 3 inches tall.

It takes the Palmquists two hours to carve a person and eight hours for an animal.

Palmquist, 72, a former dancer and music writer, and Virginia, 60, a former Ziegfeld Follies dancer, traveled 11 months a year and worked 12 hours a day for more than three decades — motoring Ernie's Circus from one shopping mall, department store or home show to another. It's in Rochester this week.

"After all this traveling and living out of a suitcase for so long, we're looking forward to just staying home and doing some fishing," said ringmaster Palmquist. "We haven't been at our Florida home (near Fort Myers) for longer than a month at a time the last 33 years."

"We're like gypsies, except we live a little better," Mrs. Palmquist says.

There are more than 50,000 pieces in Ernie's Circus, including 10,000 animals, 10,000 little figures, 2,000 horses, 600 wagons, 30 tents, 178 musicians and one pickpocket. They all "perform" under 30 tents on a 40-by-16-foot board.

"I had a dance band and the only way I could relax was to whistle," said Palmquist, who learned how to carve as a Boy Scout in his native Titusville, Pa. "Then it just got out of hand."

Palmquist serves as ringmaster, barking time-worn routines for a stream of amazed circus-goers.

"Ma'am, look in front of you. See the pickpocket. He's the only one wearing yellow trousers," Palmquist points out. "Every time he goes for the woman's purse, the policeman turns around. He's been going after that same purse for eight years."

"And over there, there's an elephant doing a hula. Last year it was the twist. It's the same elephant, just a new motor."

He goes on and on.

"It gets monotonous, saying the same thing all the time. You have to psych yourself," Palmquist acknowledged. "But look, this is showbiz and I've been in show business all my life."

Palmquist said he suspects that older folks enjoy his circus more than children.

"The indoor circus is more like vaudeville," he said. "Kids today are missing something."

Some real circus performers, who are often moved to tears when they see Ernie's Circus, have donated bits of their own hair for the figures, including clown Emmett Kelly.

"It's been fun, but we're dead tired," Palmquist said. "Our last show is Dec. 13 in Mt. Kisco. Then we'll take it easy. We won't be traveling. We've seen enough."

Air Force Helps Twin Brothers Stay Together During Careers

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — At MacDill Air Force Base two men who flew side-by-side as World War II combat pilots discharge their duties last week still side-by-side in adjoining offices.

They are Lt. Gen. Charles C. "Buck" Patillo and Maj. Gen. Cuthbert A. "Bill" Patillo — 55-year-old twin brothers.

Buck Patillo is vice director of the Air Force's Joint Deployment Agency, which is responsible for military transportation and troop management around the world.

Bill Patillo is deputy commander of the Air Force's Readiness Command, which has responsibility for 225,000 men.

At age 18, outside Atlanta where they grew up, the Patillo brothers enlisted in the Army Air Corps.

"I wanted to fly airplanes... Hell, I wanted to be a military guy," says Buck. "Me too," adds Bill, as they relax on base.

den, Berlin, strafing the German lines at the Battle of the Bulge in 1944.

Bill took a hit. His plane caught fire and he had to ditch in a field inside enemy lines.

He was taken prisoner and marched to a POW camp near Freising, Germany, where there were French, Russian, British and American prisoners.

"One morning I looked out this window and there was one of General Patton's great, big, old tanks staring down on us. They'd been shelling the camp for days, and now they were there," Bill says.

"The Germans were scared to death of the Russians, so they came to me and said they wanted to surrender to me. I accepted the surrender and went out to where those tanks were with a white flag."

Buck, meanwhile, had known his brother's plane was shot down. He was strafing the airfield when he heard the report over the radio.

But he didn't know what had happened to Bill for six weeks.

"I had been waiting all this time, not knowing where my brother was... I had been expecting the worst."

One day an MP approached him on base and said "Hey, did you hear about your brother...? He's over at the officer's club."

"I went over and we had a reunion — a wet one."

The Patillos were shipped home in December 1945 and flew with the Georgia National Guard until they re-enlisted in 1948 and went back to Europe. By this time, the Air Corps had been reorganized into the U.S. Air Force.

The twins helped organize the Skyblazers, an Air Force daredevil team, then flew with the jet-powered Thunderbirds.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could turn a fun meeting with old pals into a sad affair for you if you begin to judge your worth by their successes. Your turn will come.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be better off tomorrow if you stick to your own plans than to allow others to lay out your itinerary. Lead your own life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take care of tomorrow's responsibilities first before you turn your attention to more frivolous matters. You'll be glad they're out of the way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A friend isn't too anxious to have you know the full details of a secret of hers. Help her maintain her dignity by not being too curious.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Place your major emphasis on working out the answers to a large issue tomorrow instead of arguing about it. Think, don't fight.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tomorrow will be an excellent time to begin looking for fresh approaches to an old problem. Clinging to unworkable ideas is unproductive and wasteful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Silence is adding fuel to a disturbing issue involving someone important to you. Have a meeting of the minds tomorrow and discuss things openly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A change in habit patterns or routine for you and your mate may be a good idea tomorrow. Make plans to do something different — it'll do both a world of good.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Chores may be more of a handful tomorrow than usual and you might have a problem coping with them. Incorporating a game-like attitude would help tremendously.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You can avoid some small expenses around the house tomorrow if you're more careful in managing things. Try to stretch what you have farther.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) No use grumbling about a responsibility you're going to be asked to take on. You are going to wind up accepting the job anyway.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Formulate a game plan and stick to it all the way tomorrow, no matter how tough things start to look. You'll truly have a mess if you allow yourself to be sidetracked.

Brothers Set Sights On $1 Billion

By LeROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — As soon as an aggressive young company passes the $100 million annual sales mark, its owners start wondering how long it will take them to hit $1 billion.
Adolph and Joel Krusch of Roanoke, Va., are no exception.
"We're going to be a billion-dollar-a-year company; the only questions are when and how," they said recently.

The Krusch brothers run American Motor Inns Inc., the largest single Holiday Inns franchise holder.
A few years ago some people thought they were trying to be the tail that wagged the dog in the big Memphis-based franchise motel company, but it turned out to be only a dispute over some important territorial rights that was settled amicably.

The Krusches continued to expand their operations and right now are making ambitious plans for large new hotels in San Francisco, New Orleans and Atlanta's international airport.

Having decided not to be the tail wagging the billion-dollar-a-year Holiday Inns dog, the Krusches turned around and attached a tail to their own dog. They went into the infant telephone interconnect business soon after the 1969

Carterfone decision made possible the interconnection of customer-owned telephones and other equipment to telephone company lines.

They formed Universal Communications Systems, Inc. as a subsidiary. Ten years later, UCS has annual sales of only $19 million against $83 million for AMI's motel, hotel and restaurant business.

But it is growing faster and the brothers say they are pretty sure UCS will be the tail that wags the AMI dog as they move toward billion-dollar status.

Orthopedic Patients Get Lighter Casts

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Some orthopedic patients are finding the weight being lifted from their shoulders, arms, legs, or any other area that is set in a cast.

Plaster is often being replaced with lightweight, high-strength glass fiber casts — recently cited by the American Hospital Association as being among today's top 10 advances in hospital care.

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., a supplier of the glass fiber filament for the casts, says the material is two to three times stronger and one-half to one-third the weight of plaster, allowing greater comfort and mobility.

Zambia Prepares For War

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia today mobilized his armed forces to meet what he said was a "full-scale war situation" from Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Kaunda's announcement to diplomats, officials and newsmen followed a series of raids by Zimbabwe Rhodesian troops against Patriotic Front guerrilla camps in Zambia and, lately, against landlocked Zambia's road and rail linklines to the sea.

Kaunda also accused South Africa of conspiring with Zimbabwe Rhodesia in "wanton attacks" against Zambia since October. He said the raids had resulted in the destruction of 12 bridges and the loss of nine Zambian lives.

"I call upon the people and residents of Zambia to realize that we are in a full-scale war, and to assist in vigilance all over the country," he said.

But Kaunda stopped short of declaring war on his southern neighbor.

A spokesman for Zimbabwe Rhodesia's military headquarters in Salisbury, meanwhile, said, "So far there are no indications of any unusual activity."

The moves announced by Kaunda included the cancellation of all military leaves, mobilization of all male high school graduates and the recall of retired military officers.

Kaunda said his country was confronted by a "formidable enemy who is supported by Western powers." He said Zambia reserved the right "to call upon any friendly country to come to its aid."

The Zambian president called for material and other assistance "both to herself and to the Patriotic Front to fight this just war to its logical conclusion." He also called on the West "to come out in the open to condemn these attacks."

"The losses we have suffered must be compensated for. This has to be done by Britain," Kaunda said in reference to Britain's status as the legal colonial power in Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Kaunda made his announcement at Mulungushi Hall, where three months ago at a Commonwealth heads of government summit, Britain won support for a new Zimbabwe Rhodesian peace conference involving the Front and the Salisbury regime of Bishop Abel Muzorewa.

The peace talks, now in their 11th week in London, are focusing on the crucial question of arranging a cease-fire before new elections are organized by Britain.

Zambia currently has about 14,500 men under arms, and the mobilization could probably double that figure. But military observers agree that, even at the higher figure, Kaunda's army would be no match for the well-disciplined and battle-hardened Zimbabwe Rhodesian forces.

More likely, observers said, Kaunda was using the alert to focus world attention on the serious damage to his economy by the recent raids.

Kaunda said Monday that Zimbabwe Rhodesian commandos blew up a major road bridge in Zambia's northern province in a "savagery action" designed to intimidate Zambians into abandoning their support for the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, which has waged a seven-year war against the Salisbury government.

Kaunda maintains the attacks are a "process of intimidation" by which the Salisbury government hopes to gain advantages over the guerrillas in the London peace talks. He has accused Zimbabwe Rhodesia of trying to destroy the conference.

WORSE THAN LAST SPRING

Severe Gasoline Crunch Looms, Expert Claims

By United Press International

An authoritative oil industry newsletter says Iran's refusal to sell oil to American oil companies could cause a gasoline shortage more severe than the one the United States experienced last spring.

The independent Lundberg Letter, which specializes in gasoline statistics and oil market analysis, also predicted retail prices for gasoline and other petroleum products would "rise considerably" and may rival the 35-cent-a-gallon jump in U.S. pump prices that has occurred so far this year.

"A boycott of direct imports as enunciated by President Carter permits oil companies to buy Iranian oil and shuffle it around to minimize any impact on the United States," Lundberg said.

"An embargo against all U.S. companies involves double the amount of oil and makes shuffling much more difficult, practically assuring that there will be a substantial impact on U.S. supplies," he said.

The Lundberg Letter said the effects of the cutoff would be felt by January.

Other oil analysts, however, have said the ban on imports of Iranian oil should have little impact on the United States in the immediate future because the nation's petroleum supplies are high.

Total U.S. petroleum stocks increased 2.5 percent last month over September levels, the American Petroleum Institute said. It said U.S. stocks of crude oil and refined petroleum products were 0.8 percent higher in October than in the same month last year.

Before Carter announced last week the cutoff of Iranian oil imports, direct crude imports from Iran amounted to about 500,000 barrels a day, or about 3 percent of U.S. consumption.

But the Iranian embargo against all U.S. companies involves about 1 million barrels of day of Iranian crude, or 6 percent of daily U.S. oil use, which could reduce gasoline output by 4 to 5 percent, Lundberg said.

Since oil companies are allocating about 11 percent less gasoline this month than they sold in November 1978, U.S. motorists could face a shortage of roughly 15 percent by January when the last Iranian oil shipments reach U.S. shores, the Lundberg Letter said.

"This 15 percent is a significantly greater cutback than the United States has so far experienced this year," Lundberg said. "The cutbacks were about 10 percent last May and June when long lines appeared in many markets. Gasoline demand has diminished since then because on higher prices and other factors, but it is probably not off 15 percent."

He said inventories of crude oil and most refined products appear adequate to avoid supply disruptions at least through year end.

But gasoline supplies are tight and "the potential shortfall of gasoline supplies is the greatest of any product," Lundberg said.

Country Ripe For New Leadership, Ford Says

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican governors are forging a 1980 campaign theme for the party by blaming Democrats for leaving the country without an energy program when Iranian oil is being shut off again.

Foreign policy, linked by Iran to the coming winter and feared fuel shortages at home, has become a dominant theme at the governors' annual meeting, and it continued today with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger a featured speaker.

The governors and their guests have been careful to avoid direct intrusion into President Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis, but they're clearly blaming Carter and the Democrats for the overall situation.

Former President Ford took up the governors' tune on Monday when he said the Iranian problem and the lack of a national energy program are making the country ripe for new leadership — preferably Republican.

"We'd better get to the job of rebuilding our military capability and giving the kind of strong leadership that's necessary to reassure our allies and to be an adequate warning to our adversaries," Ford said.

"The American people want that kind of leadership and action, and I hope that the voters perceive it and act accordingly in 1980," Ford told the governors.

Ford called the crisis, which arose when the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was seized two weeks ago, the most serious challenge the country has faced since World War II. He said he would not try to second-guess Carter in handling it "because it is too important and the dangers are too great."

"Having said that, let me just make this observation," Ford continued. "There is no doubt about it that the United States in recent years has lost prestige and has lost a capability to handle difficult challenges around the world."

Ford cast most of the blame for energy problems on the Democratic Congress, saying he and Carter both had proposed legislation, but Congress had enacted only bits and pieces of it.

"The United States doesn't have an energy program that will solve all problems, that will make us more independent of the OPEC oil cartel," Ford said.

Clements accused President Carter of letting the country fall into another bind by failing to have an energy program in force when the Iranian crisis broke out. (AP Laserphoto) sweeping from the Rockies into the Plains dumped a foot of wet snow along Colorado's Front Range, shutting down schools, airports and businesses.

Major Storm

The National Weather Service, warning that strong winds tonight could whip snow into a blizzard in eastern Colorado, also predicted blizzard conditions for Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

A powerful snowstorm struck that part of Colorado just three weeks ago, and two persons trapped in their car died.

Colorado's hardest hit cities were Fort Collins, with 11 inches of snow, Denver with 6 inches and Colorado Springs with 8 inches.

Airports were closed in Fort Collins, Boulder and Jefferson County, but Denver's Stapleton International Airport stayed open.

On Monday night, a small, twin-engine jet plane crashed during a snowstorm while in a landing approach pattern at an airport near Castle Rock, 37 miles south of Denver. Two people were killed and a third seriously injured, authorities said.

In the mountain passes, snowfall was heavy, 14 to 16 inches at Estes Park, with drifts up to 2 feet.

In Utah, where 19 inches of new snow was reported at Brian Head ski resort and 29 inches at Alta Ski Resort east of Salt Lake City, gusting winds drifted snow onto ice-slicked roads, making travel dangerous.

TEA Commends Local Schools

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A Texas Education Agency report commending Lubbock public school programs and operations tempers its praise by citing only a small number of violations that the district's superintendent says already are being corrected.

Administrators recently received the report from a team of eight TEA monitors who visited the district in October.

The education agency officials visited schools, teachers and students and reviewed the operations and record keeping of all phases of programs, including vocational, bilingual, special and Title I education.

The district was commended for its achievements in all program areas, with assurance that its accredited status would remain unchanged.

The report cites a few violations in the special education and compensatory education areas, but Supt. Ed Irons said corrections are being made or already have been made.

However, observers for the accreditation portion of the report praise the district for a number of its programs and cite no violations.

"The district is to be commended for the high morale, purposiveness, vitality and positive attitude which permeated its staff and body," wrote observers Claudio Salinas and Glenn Peavy.

They commend the district for Balenger School, the campus for the trainable, mentally retarded; the Dunbar-Struggs magnet complex; and Project Intercept, an academic and counseling center for students with behavior problems.

The report also notes the district's "exemplary" record-keeping and records retrieval system.

Observer Joene Grissom notes in the special education area that the special education Five-Year Plan has not been approved by the school board, but Irons said the trustees have since taken that action.

Another violation noted in that area is that "there was no evidence" of a planned needs assessment to identify in-service needs for special education personnel. Irons said that correction is currently being made.

Two other violations Irons said are being corrected concern paperwork and documentation.

Violations in the compensatory education program area involve Title I operations at Iles Elementary, the system's magnet primary school implemented as part of the desegregation plan.

Irons explained that Title I teachers are required to teach only Title I (educationally or economically disadvantaged) students, but that those instructors at Iles were teaching other students as well because of the team-teaching set-up at the unique school.

The superintendent said the TEA monitors "called our hand" on the prac-black man also was believed among them.

The Carter administration renewed its demand for the release of all the hostages and said if Khomeini carried out his threat to put some of them on trial as spies, it would be a "further flagrant violation" of international law as well as a violation of "elementary human rights."

Foreign Press Director Abolghassan Sadegh told The Associated Press it had not been decided whether any of the hostages would be tried. But "if there is going to be a trial," he continued, "it will be carried out by the country's legal courts, either the special revolutionary tribunals (which have sentenced more than 600 persons to death by firing squad) or the ordinary courts. There will be no trial by the students in the embassy compound."

"Even if some of the Americans are tried and found guilty and sentenced to death for spying," he added, "the imam (Khomeini) is empowered under Islamic law to pardon them."

Iranian Foreign Minister Abolghassan Bani Sadr in a television interview Monday said the remaining hostages could not be released for two months — until in some respects but that the CIA is the best overall.

Asked if the straw polls surprised him, Bush said, "It pleased me. It didn't really surprise me because we have a crackerjack organization."

He said his support in the East is beginning to spread across the United States.

"I don't think it's confined to the East Coast," he said. "It's beginning to move across the country."

Apparently referring to his in-state rivalry with Connally, he said, "We're just been campaigning in Wisconsin and Illinois, and by the time the campaign reaches here (for the May presidential preference election), I think we'll do well in Texas."

His son, George W. Bush of Midland, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress last year, was to arrive here shortly before noon to accompany his father in Lubbock appearances.

after a new Iranian government is installed — unless the United States surrendered the ailing shah to stand trial for the death of at least 60,000 political opponents Khomeini's supporters claim were killed during his 37-year reign.

The four women members of the embassy staff and six blacks were freed today in compliance with Khomeini's order last weekend to release female and black Americans found innocent of spying.

Another woman and two black Marine sergeants were freed Monday and flown to Wiesbaden. They were reported in good mental and physical condition.

The three released Monday reported there had been seven women and 10 blacks among the captives in the embassy, two women and one black more than were freed. The State Department confirmed that two women and a black man were still held and identified them as Elizabeth Ann Swift, Katherine Koob and Charles Jones.

The State Department said the four women freed today were Elizabeth Montagne, Calumet City, Ill.; Terri Tedford, South San Francisco, Calif.; Miss Walsh, and Lillian Johnson, Elmont, N.Y. It said the six blacks were David Walker, Waller, Texas; Lloyd Rollins, Alexandria, Va.; Wesley Williams, Albany, N.Y.; Neal Robinson, Houston; James Hughes, Langley AFB, Va.; and Joseph Vincent, New Orleans.

Like the trio freed Monday, they were put on display by their captors at a news conference at the embassy Monday night. Miss Johnson said they "were not harmed at all" but she underwent "a lot of interrogation, believe me — at rude hours of the evening."

"I guess they were just convinced that I wasn't a spy," she added.

An unidentified black hostage told the news conference, "I think there is enough evidence for the United States to return the ex-Shah to Iran because, if he has committed all the crimes the students say he has, then he should be tried as a criminal."

Another hostage said, "We want you to understand that we feel that if this issue was resolved by the president of the United States, the rest of the hostages would be freed."

The three released Monday were Katherine Gross, 22, of Cambridge Springs, Pa.; Sgt. William E. Quarles, 23, of Washington, D.C., and Sgt. Ladell Maples, 23, of Earle, Ark.

A State Department spokesman said the freed hostages would spend several days undergoing medical and psychological tests and relaxing at a U.S. Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden, with a heavy guard to keep reporters away from them.

The State Department said officials would question them about their ordeal, and Undersecretary of State David Newsom was flown to Wiesbaden to take charge of them. But spokesman George Sherman said their stay in Germany would be "very short and is only a way station on the return to their families."

Khomeini in interviews with the three major American television networks Sunday said unless the shah was returned to Iran from the New York hospital where he is being treated for lymph cancer, some of the remaining hostages would be tried as spies.

"Such a step would be a further flagrant violation of elementary human rights, religious precepts, international law and practice," said the White House in a statement. "Worldwide outrage at the detention of the hostages would be greatly heightened by any attempt to put these diplomatic personnel on trial."

Historian Remembers Forgotten POW Camps

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Just as the grass now grows over the foundations of the prisoner of war camps that once held 400,000 men — most of them Nazi soldiers — near small towns around Texas, so has the memory of that era faded for most Americans.

An historian at Texas A&M University said even those who watched the POW camps being hastily constructed in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana — often only on 10 to 12 weeks notice, and the arrival of thousands of German and Italian prisoners, seem to be forgetting.

Arnold Kramer, author of a new book entitled "Nazi Prisoners of War in America" published by the Texas A&M University Press, said few traces of the World War II camps remain.

For many Southerners, he said, the reality of war became clear when they saw the long lines of prisoners — most of them taken captive during the North African campaign — stretching from train depots to camps outside such Texas towns as Mexia, Hearne, Crystal City, Basrop and Abilene.

"The old saying that God looks after drunks, fools and Americans is true in this case because we came out of the experience better than anyone would have expected, despite the fact that we didn't know anything about setting up POW camps and very little planning went into it," Kramer said.

He said the prisoners were treated well, for the most part, and sometimes found better conditions than they had seen in years. Meanwhile, the Americans sometimes complained that the POWs often found beef, fresh vegetables, milk, beer, wine and cigarettes on prison camp menus.

"Americans sometimes complained about the good treatment the prisoners received, but the government had a very logical reason for doing it," Kramer said. "We hoped the better we treated the enemy prisoners, the better our own soldiers would be treated and according to the Red Cross that was generally true."

There were some escape attempts, however, although by the time the war ended, only one escapee remained at large. Usually, Kramer said, the prisoners were returned to their camps within days.

One Mexia resident remembers the time a prisoner made a break from a work party but cut across the wrong pasture. It seems a Brahman bull already was there and decided to chase the prisoner up a tree. Camp guards heard the man's cries for help and he was gratefully led back to the safety of the camp.

The prisoners provided desperately needed farm labor,

Kramer said, and the hard work kept them occupied. The prisoners also were used to replace military personnel on U.S. bases by performing tasks such as administrative clerks, bakers, machinists, mechanics, truck drivers and post police.

Kramer said American made one big mistake in setting up the POW camps — they put Nazis and anti-Nazis in the same compounds. He said often the Nazis tried to make the anti-Nazis conform and there were deaths and beatings as a result. He said the perpetrators often were caught, put on trial and punished by American officials.

Kramer said that although many Americans have forgotten the period in history, it doesn't seem to be the same for the prisoners. Many of them were so attracted to America, he said, they returned after the war and became successful businessmen. Others hold reunions in Germany, he said.

Posse To Gather Renegade Cattle

ABILENE (AP) — A 20-man posse has been ordered to mount up and fan out over the brushy prairie north of town today to track down about 300 renegade cattle lost in a wild stampede.

About 700 head of cattle, possibly spooked by wild dogs, thundered through their pens early Monday at the Triangle Cattle Co. and galloped along a busy highway where passing vehicles struck some of them, police said.

A truck driver and a passenger on a bus suffered minor injuries, and at least 12 cattle were killed on two highways.

State troopers, animal control officers and sheriff's deputies in squad cars helped cowboys round up cattle until about 10 p.m. Monday. Triangle manager Walter Wilemon said between 300 and 350 head were rounded up and the rest still were on the loose today.

"We're sending about 20 cowboys back through the brush and pastures, but it'll take a week to gather them all up — if we're lucky," he said.

"We figure a bunch of wild dogs stampeded them," Wilemon said. "They get to chasing the cattle and having a lot of fun. The cattle resent it. It terrifies them and they'll stampede. They broke down all the fences."

He said he has hired a rifleman to stand guard over the cattle all night from now on in hopes of keeping the wild dogs away.

The escaped animals spread out along a 10-mile stretch of Interstate 20 north of this West Texas city after the stampede. Officers in squad cars successfully herded many of them into trailers.

Bob Warren, maintenance supervisor for the state highway department, said his crews carried 11 dead cattle — weighing between 300 and 500 pounds each — to the dump Monday.

A group of six cattle were struck and killed by an 18-wheel truck driven by Lester Bassham of Winter Haven, Fla., who was tossed out of his vehicle by the impact.

"A bunch of cattle came right across the road at 4:40 a.m. I swerved to miss them and almost turned over," said Bassham, who was treated for a back injury.

A Trailways bus en route from Midland to Dallas, driven by Bob Lovett of Dallas, struck and killed five cattle. A passenger, Tennie Mae Williams of Dallas was treated for an eye injury. Lovett and 11 other passengers escaped injury.

Some of the cattle strayed onto near-by U.S. 277, where a small foreign car driven by Don Alvin Robertson of Hawley, Calif., struck and killed a calf about 5:40 a.m., police said. Robertson was not hurt.

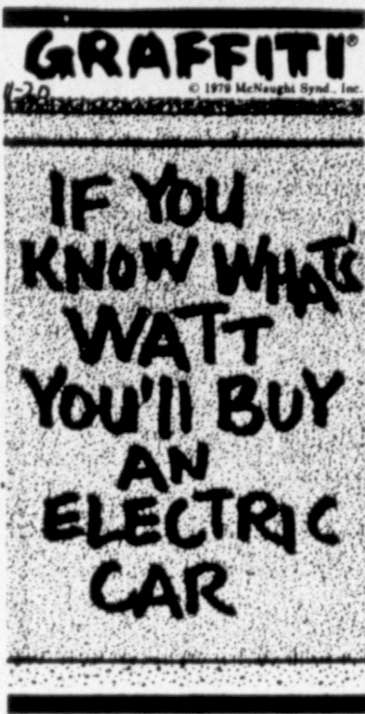

Man Sentenced In Molestation Case Despite Retardation Plea

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

After an emotion-filled hour of testimony Monday afternoon, State District Judge William R. Shaver denied defense motions to have Ralph Edward Williams declared mentally retarded and sentenced Williams to five years in prison for the sexual abuse of a 7-year-old Lubbock boy.

Last month, a jury found Williams, 26, guilty of sexually abusing the youngster. The young victim took the witness stand and identified the defendant as the man who took him to a cul-de-sac at Bean Elementary School and molested him April 7.

When the judge pronounced the prison term, Williams' 62-year-old mother, who had taken the stand and asked the judge to assess probation for her son, left the 140th District Courtroom in tears.

"I appreciate this family's love 100 percent and my ruling will not depreciate it in any way," Shaver said quietly before announcing the sentence. "But this court has other obligations."

During the punishment hearing, defense attorneys Clifford and Mike Brown again employed the strategy they used during Williams' October trial.

At the trial, the attorneys called psychologist Richard Wall, who testified that on several tests administered Williams, the defendant scored at the retarded level. Monday afternoon, the attorneys emphasized Wall's testimony and asked Shaver to postpone the hearing until Williams could be tested further.

Shaver, however, pointed out other testimony that indicated Williams is not retarded and denied the motion. The

City Airport Boardings Maintain Record Pace

Despite a drop in passenger boardings in October, the Lubbock International Airport remains on a record pace for the year, and is expected to board more than a half-million passengers before Christmas.

Total boardings for the seven commercial air carriers serving the airport for October was 41,839, a drop of 2.9 percent from the October 1978 figure of 43,088. For the year, 412,999 persons have flown from Lubbock, averaging more than 41,200 persons per month.

November and December are usually the airport's busiest months, said city aviation director Marvin Coffee in making the prediction for the 500,000-plus passenger year. Should that many persons fly from Lubbock this year, it will mark the first time in the airport's history that more than 500,000 persons have done so.

Southwest Airlines continued to lead the pack in October, boarding 23,782 persons. That figure is an increase of 18.9 percent over the carrier's October 1978 total of 20,005 persons, and boosts Southwest's total for the year to 217,572, which is 26.9 percent higher than its total of 171,495 through the first ten months of 1978.

Braniff International Airways was the only other major carrier serving Lubbock to report an increase in business for October. Braniff reported boarding 10,398 persons here for the month, an increase of 8.6 percent over its total of 9,575 a year ago. For the year, Braniff has loaded 96,773 persons here, up 10.2 percent over the 87,819 persons it flew from Lubbock through the first 10 months of 1978.

Texas International Airlines, which began non-stop flights between Dallas-Fort Worth Airport and Lubbock last week, reported its business down some 12.2 percent from October 1978. For the month, TI flew 3,022 persons from Lubbock, compared with the 3,440 it flew during October 1978.

For the year, TI has flown 33,397 persons from Lubbock, a drop of 5.1 percent from the 35,190 passengers who flew TI from Lubbock through October 1978. Figures from the newly inaugurated Lubbock-Dallas flights will begin showing up in the November boarding figures.

Continental Airlines has flown 58,790 persons from Lubbock so far this year, a decrease of 44.3 percent from 105,505 passengers it boarded through the first 10 months of 1978. For October, Continental flew 3,752 persons from Lubbock, a decrease of 62 percent from the 9,883 passengers boarded in October 1978.

The three regional airlines serving Lubbock all reported solid months, with only Crown Aviation carding a loss. Crown had 148 passengers in October, 20 percent less than the 185 it registered in October 1978. For the year, Crown has flown 1,213 persons from Lubbock, a drop of 10.2 percent from the 1,350 it had registered through October 1978.

Air Midwest and Permian Airways, both of which began service to Lubbock earlier this year, reported good passenger volume for October. Air Midwest, the largest of the three regional carriers, boarded 567 in October, and has flown 4,362 in the approximately eight months it has served the city.

The total October figure is the second highest recorded at the airport, falling behind the record of 43,088 set in October 1978.

Lubbock International Airport's figure through 10 months of 1979 keeps it well ahead of its rival airports in West Texas at Midland-Odessa and Amarillo.

For the year, Midland-Odessa Airport reports having boarded 373,008 persons, while Amarillo International Airport registered 320,114 persons. In October, Midland-Odessa had 37,156 passengers, while Amarillo had 30,482 boardings.

Sex Bias Charges Filed Against A&M

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M University officials say they are "astounded" that the U.S. government thinks the Fish Drill Team and other university organizations are closed to females.

The government made its position clear Monday, charging in a test case on women's rights that the Texas school has discriminated against women students by barring them from the drill team and three other organizations.

The Justice Department sought to join a private class action suit filed last May by Melanie Zentgraf, a member of the Texas Corps of Cadets.

The department's proposed suit marks the first time that the government has tried to enforce Title IX of a 1972 law forbidding sex discrimination by schools which receive federal aid.

James Bond, representing Texas A&M, said that he has not seen the Justice Department's motion. Bond said Justice Department lawyers had been at A&M because they would have to represent Corps Commandant Col. James Woodall.

one of the plaintiffs in the suit, since he was a regular Army officer.

Bond said it now appears Woodall has been dropped as a plaintiff so the Justice Department could enter on the side of Miss Zentgraf. Bond said "this type of activity is incredible and leaves us all bewildered."

Bond said he was "astounded" that the Department of Justice has seen fit to reach an agreement with the plaintiffs to have Col. Woodall removed as a defendant in the pending lawsuit.

Bond said A&M has filed a reply to the suit denying all allegations. "Texas A&M is proud of its female contingent in the Corps and is dedicated to its growth and success."

The government contended otherwise.

"Every female who has evidenced an interest in the Aggie band has been actively discouraged or dissuaded from joining the Aggie band by band and/or faculty members," the Justice Department said. "Other than a desire to keep the Aggie band all-male, there is no reason for the current effective restriction of the Aggie band to males only."

Assistant Attorney General Drew S. Days III, head of the civil rights division, said excluding the women from the band and other organizations "deprives them of an opportunity to participate in activities at the heart of university life at Texas A&M."

Acre Pledges Of Cotton Draw Mixed Reactions

SEMINOLE (Special) — Cotton Pool Inc. of Texas board chairman Glen Shook has issued a statement concerning results of the group's recent effort to secure pledges on 3 million acres of cotton for marketing at 1,600 points over the loan to growers.

"We are both pleased and disappointed with the final tally," he said. "We are pleased with the number of cotton farmers who signed up in the extremely short period of time that we allowed ourselves."

"We know now that the 40-day time period was too short for this undertaking," Shook said.

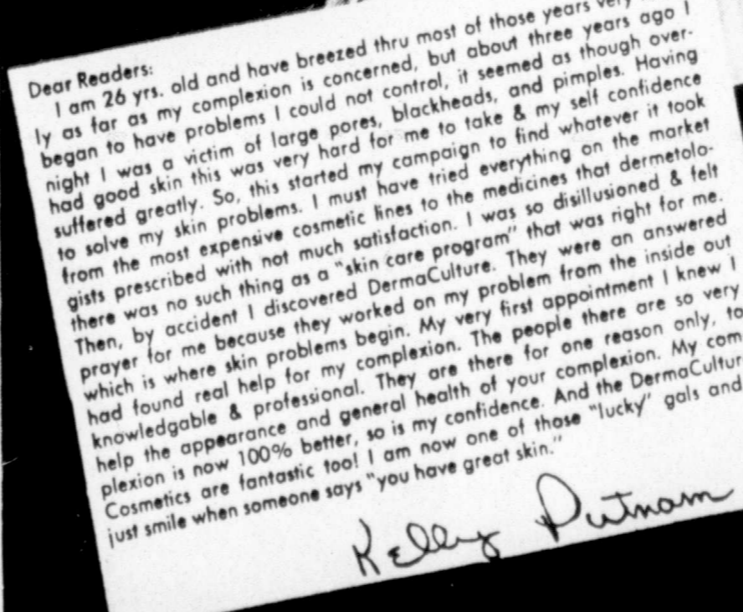

"We were disappointed, on the other hand, that more cotton farmers did not, due to the present tight supply of cotton, seize upon the opportunity of banding together and becoming price makers instead of price takers," he added. "Fortunately, our philosophy of marketing — that...the marketplace should support the price we need to stay in business and not the government — is growing," he said. "Next time around we shall be successful."

"In the meantime, we will respond, as directed, to the 767,823 acres that were committed."

Cotton Pool Inc. of Texas is producer-owned marketing group based in Seminole and has members in 14 West Texas counties.

Dear Readers:
I am 26 yrs. old and have breezed thru most of those years very luckily as far as my complexion is concerned, but about three years ago I began to have problems I could not control, it seemed as though overnight I was a victim of large pores, blackheads, and pimples. Having had good skin this was very hard for me to take & my self confidence suffered greatly. So, this started my campaign to find whatever it was that would solve my skin problems. I must have tried everything on the market from the most expensive cosmetic lines to the medicines that dermatologists prescribed with not much satisfaction. I was so disillusioned & felt there was no such thing as a "skin care program" that was right for me. Then, by accident I discovered DermaCulture. They were an answered prayer for me because they worked on my problem from the inside out which is where skin problems begin. My very first appointment I knew I had found real help for my complexion. They are there for one reason only, to help the appearance and general health of your complexion. My complexion is now 100% better, so is my confidence. And the DermaCulture Cosmetics are fantastic too! I am now one of those "lucky" gals and I just smile when someone says "you have great skin."

Professor Raps Writing Skills

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — A Harvard University professor says some of his Ivy League students cannot write simple sentences in English.

"There are very few students on whom we can count to write a clear, cogent essay in which the beginning is related to the end," said Richard Marius. "Having come from the University of Tennessee, I didn't think that there would be a writing crisis at Harvard."

Instead, he discovered about 40 of the 1,600 freshmen have such a "bad problem in writing that they can't put a piece of writing together," he said.

Marius has reopened a writing center, offering classes and individual help to Harvard students having trouble writing papers.

"I found myself at sea trying to make up in 12 weeks the deficiencies of 12 previous years of school and of secondary schools," he said. "We have bright, brilliant students who cannot write."

"It's like trying to figure skate on a carpet," he added.

Brokers' Actions Show Possible Market Rise

By CHET CURRIER
NEW YORK (AP) — After the second "October Massacre" in two years, you might suppose that the professional traders at the New York Stock Exchange would be in a pretty cautious mood these days.

But one of Wall Street's favorite yardsticks of sentiment on the NYSE floor in fact suggests just the opposite.

The latest data indicate that specialists — the brokers on the floor who act as meeting points for buy and sell orders in stocks assigned to them — have been acting lately as if they expect the market to rise, rather than dropping any further.

The figure in question is known as the specialist short-sale ratio. Despite its somewhat forbidding name, it is one of the more straightforward of the indicators technical analysts follow in their effort to predict the future course of stock prices.

A short sale occurs when an investor — specialist, brokerage house trader or individual — borrows stock and sells it, hoping to be able to buy it back later at a lower price.

If things go according to his plan, the short-seller achieves the standard goal of buying low and selling high — the only difference being that he has done it in reverse order.

Thus, while the typical buyer of stock is acting on the belief that prices will rise, the short-seller goes on the expectation of a decline.

By a long-standing Wall Street axiom, the public usually is wrong in its short-selling, doing little of it when prices are at their peak and shorting heavily at market bottoms when stocks are about to rally.

But specialist short selling is regarded as a different story. Specialists, the reasoning goes, are in the best position to monitor pending buy and sell orders. And besides, as Hollywood, Fla., investment advisor Stan Weinstein put it in his letter, "The Professional Tape Reader," specialists "are savvy or they go broke."

The NYSE reports specialist purchases, sales, and short sales weekly, with a two-week reporting lag. In two recent weeks, short sales by specialists totaled 37 percent and 43 percent of all short sales.

Such readings are regarded by most analysts as close to historic bullish levels. As Weinstein noted, the ratio has usually dipped to the 40 percent range or lower before significant market advances over the past couple of decades.

As closely as they might follow such statistics, Wall Street's technical analysts caution that no single barometer of this kind can be relied as a foolproof key to the market's future. "It is one of the many indicators we use," said E.F. Hutton & Co.'s Newton Zinder.

Weinstein, for his part, noted that some other statistics he follows have lately been flashing contradictory signals.

The specialist short-sale indicator also is often "somewhat early," Weinstein said, "so there is likely to be a few more weeks of sloppy action... But once this is out of the way, there should be, at the minimum, a good intermediate term up-move."

Staubach Says 'Pokes In Trouble

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

To most people, the Dallas Cowboys conjure up visions of a whirring machine — cold steel, nuts and bolts, flashing lights, operating with the unerring precision of a computer.

"Don't believe it," said the Cowboys' star quarterback Roger Staubach. "We're flesh and bones like everybody else. We make mistakes. We pay for it and we hurt."

"Right now, we're in trouble. We can't look back on what we've done in the past. We've got to get it together. No computer is going to save us. We have to do it physically."

After a 7-1 start in the National Football League, the Cowboys have fallen into a late season slump. They have lost three of their last four games — and thwarted a fourth by a last-gasp miracle finish against the New York Giants. Now they face the disquieting specter of possibly failing to make the playoffs for the first time in 13 years.

Five times they have made it to the Super Bowl, winning twice. The Pittsburgh Steelers beat them in Super Bowl XIII.

Once believed headed for a runaway victory in the NFC Eastern Division, the Cowboys now find themselves tied with Philadelphia and Washington at 8-4, their confidence shaken and a rocky road ahead.

"We have come to realize that success most times is based on the final moments of the season," Staubach said, prior to starting workouts for Thursday's game against Houston. "We are not satisfied. Our fans are not satisfied. They expect us to go to the Super Bowl and win it."

"Maybe we still can."

The Cowboys are a team renowned for their superb organization — from president Tex Schramm and the chief of player development, Gil Brandt, down to the only coach the team has ever had, the impeccable and professorial Tom Landry.

"Tom doesn't feed us a lot of fire and brimstone. I know most people think of him as a cold, methodical disciplinarian," the veteran quarterback said. "He is one of the fiercest competitors I have ever known. It just doesn't show."

Normally the Cowboys are not an emotional, demonstrative team, Staubach said, but it would be folly to interpret that as lack of fire and spirit.

"I think some of Tom's tremendous calm has worn off on all of us but that does not mean that we don't have emotions like everybody else," he added. "Did you see how the team reacted when we pulled off that win against the Giants a couple of weeks ago? All the players were out on the field, jumping, hugging each other and yelling their lungs out."

Staubach said that while over the last month the Cowboys may have lost some of their intensity, the slump could be attributed to basic failures.

"In four of our first games, Tony Dorsett gained more than 100 yards on the ground," he explained. "In the last four he has been held below that. He's very vital to our attack. We can't survive on the pass alone."

Dorsett, the elusive Heisman Trophy ball-carrier out of Pittsburgh, got 73 yards in the losing game against Pittsburgh, gained only 36 against the Giants, 53 in losing to Philadelphia and only 43 in 14 carries Sunday against Washington.

"You can't blame Tony," Staubach said. "He has come close to breaking away several times. It's a combination of things — some of it plain bad luck. He's a great runner — I think the best. He's bound to bust loose and go 200 yards one day."

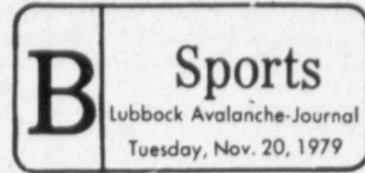

Staubach said the Cowboys also had suffered from turnovers. "We give the ball away more than we get it," he added. "It's hard to win that way."

Statistics show the Cowboys have lost 17 fumbles while recovering only seven from the opposition, thrown 10 interceptions while picking off 11. It's untypical of the two-time Super Bowl champs.

This is Staubach's 11th year in the NFL after a brilliant college career at Navy and five years in the service. At 37, he is not even flirting with retirement.

"I don't feel old," he said. "I plan to play as long as my arm and legs hold out. I have a thigh bruise now — not serious. Sometimes after I've been bumped and banged around a lot, I wake up and start questioning myself. By Tuesday, I'm raring to go again."

Hollywood Image Got Henderson

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS (AP) — Thomas Henderson finally got too "Hollywood" for his own good.

He mugged for the national television cameras once too often — on a day the Dallas Cowboys were fighting for their lives.

His sideline antics, coupled with a lack of enthusiasm on the field during Washington's 34-20 rout of the Cowboys

However, Landry said he was aware of Henderson's mugging the camera. He also said Henderson had a bad game.

"This is just an accumulation of things. . . he would try hard. . . then he would slip back, then he would start again," said Landry. "Maybe Sunday was the last straw. It was not a good performing day for him."

Henderson has three years left on a contract with Dallas but could play for another team tomorrow if he wants, Landry said he would help Henderson go anywhere he wanted to go.

Henderson said, "I love the Dallas fans and I love the Cowboys. I don't want to play for a lower echelon team."

Asked if the retirement was irrevocable, Henderson said, "No, but I don't want to be passed around the league."

Henderson said he was put under a number of restrictions by Landry this year after his spectacular outbursts during the 1978 season, climaxed by the Super Bowl in which he held the center stage for the press.

"I had to have a special halo," said Henderson. "I couldn't miss practice. I couldn't be hurt. I had to pull my load in every drill."

He said he played the Washington game with a hamstring pull and the flu.

"This is the most hollow feeling I've ever had in my life," said the fifth-year, former No. 1 draft pick.

Landry concluded: "This hurts me a great deal personally. I care about people."

Analysis

Sunday, was too much for some teammates, and definitely irked the Dallas coaching staff.

Dallas coach Tom Landry called strongside linebacker Henderson into his office Monday and told him he was being placed on waivers. Henderson said he would just retire from professional football. Landry said clean out your locker.

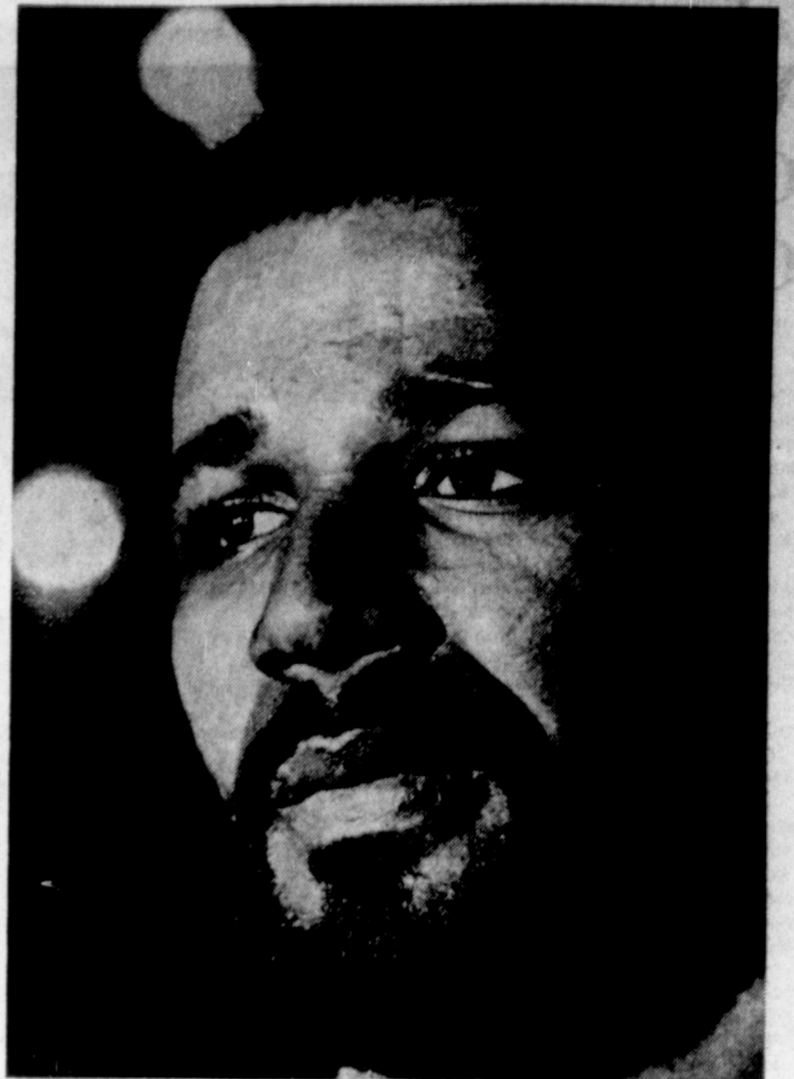

"Thomas had no intensity. . . and his sideline escapades didn't help," said mild-mannered linebacker coach Jerry Tubbs, who was watching when Henderson held up a forefinger to say the Cowboys were No. 1, then pointed to a bandana tucked in his belt.

"I saw it on the television monitor and I mentioned it to him," said Tubbs. "He (Henderson) wasn't too happy about it."

"He didn't hustle," said Tubbs. "I think it was the way he played that was the straw that broke his back as far as Coach Landry was concerned. He wasn't performing. . . then he went on TV."

Henderson said he was ill with the flu and had a pulled hamstring.

Landry refused to give the details of what amounted to Henderson's firing.

The "First" Thanksgiving at the First National Bank gives us the opportunity each year to pause and give thanks to God for the opportunity of this great part of our country, and for the many good friends we have made through the years. Less Than 100 Percent

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ And STEVE PERKINS

Q. Los Angeles Rams coach Ray Malavasi said that only 35 of his 45 players were giving 100 percent effort. Has anybody identified or speculated about the 10 who aren't?

—Hal Liebman, Phoenix, Ariz.

A. Malavasi's off-the-record answer to this was: "They know who they are and their teammates know who they are." Writers covering the team made up their own lists, and the top three spots went to running back Lawrence McCutcheon (since demoted) and receivers Billy Waddy and Ron Jessie (now on injured reserve).

Q. I have been unable to buy a copy of the book about Thurman Munson's life. Please tell me the correct title and do you have any ideas about getting it?

—May-Ollphant, Anderson, Ind.

A. The title is simply: Thurman Munson — An Autobiography. Munson's death has made the book, written with ex-Yankee publicist Marty Appel, a valuable property. The publisher has ordered another printing of 35,000. It will be an upcoming alternate selection in the Book of the Month Club. And a TV production company, named Tomorrow Entertainment, has purchased the movie rights for $100,000. It's planned that the movie will be shown just prior to the 1980 World Series. Appel and Munson's widow split the money.

Q. In what year did the following baseball transactions occur (see answer)? Also, were not the Baltimore Colts of the American Football Conference originally organized in what was the American Football League as the Dallas Texans?

—E. H. Strickland, Sr., Grand Prairie.

A. The Boston Braves moved to Milwaukee in 1953 and became the Atlanta Braves in 1966. The Philadelphia Athletics were sold and moved to Kansas City in 1955, then to Oakland in 1968. The St. Louis Browns became the Baltimore Orioles in 1954. The Washington Senators became the Minnesota Twins in 1960.

The Dallas Texans were in the National Football League in 1953, but the club went broke and played its last 11 games on the road, out of Hershey, Pa. It became the Baltimore Colts next season. The Dallas AFL entry also was known as the Texans before becoming the Kansas City Chiefs.

Q. Can you tell me how many minor leagues there are today in Organized Baseball, and what year was the peak for the minors?

—Gig Thomason, San Diego, Calif.

A. There are 20 minor leagues at present, including the Rookie League during the off season. In 1949 there were 59 minor leagues, almost all of them prospering.

Westerners Outlast Odessans

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Oscar Lopez and Kirk Cole broke open a tight game with 4 points apiece in the final 3½ minutes of the fourth quarter Monday night to lead the Lubbock High School Westerners to a 58-50 basketball victory over the Odessa Bronchos in the first action of the 1979-80 season for both squads.

The final outcome of the game, which was tied on 14 different occasions, boiled down to the Westerners being able to handle the full-court press and half-court trap Odessa threw up during the final six minutes of the contest.

With the score tied at 46, senior guard David Norrid drilled an 18-foot jump shot to give LHS the lead for good, 48-46.

With 3:39 showing in the clock, Cole broke loose under the Odessa basket and senior guard Gilbert Cuevas rifled a pass some 50 feet to his open receiver. Cole caught the ball, took one step and used a reverse layup to make it 50-46 in favor of the Westerners.

Lubbock High managed to take the basketball away from the Bronchos the next trip down the floor and Lopez, who led all Westerner scorers with 16 tallies, canned an 18-foot jumper from the left of the key. The Bronchos squandered a scoring opportunity with a bad pass and Lopez was fouled in the process. He sank both ends of his one-and-one to put the Black and Gold up by 8 points 54-46, the biggest lead of the night.

Cole dropped in another easy layup to make it 56-46 and it was over. LHS got its final 2 points on a follow shot by Norrid.

The Westerners used baskets by Rodney Norris, Lopez and senior forward Jeff Manley to take a quick 6-0 lead, but the Bronchos came right back and went ahead at the end of the first quarter 16-10 on the strength of Rayford Wright's 6 points in the final four minutes of the opening period.

Cole dropped in a pair of buckets at the start of the second quarter to cut the OHS lead to 2 points, 16-14. It was a dog-fight the rest of the period, sophomore Mike Hill connected from the top of the key with one second remaining in the half to break a 27-27 tie and give the Westerners a 29-27 halftime lead.

Odessa outscored LHS 14-10 in the third period to retain the lead 41-39, but rebounding and excellent ball control allowed the Westerners to stay close and ultimately pull out in front for keeps.

Joining Lopez in double figures for the Westerners was Cole with 14. Junior forward Charles Quade and Manley each contributed 8 points to the winning effort.

Wright paced the Bronchos with 18 points. Mike Cobb was the only other player in double figures with 11.

Estacado Nips Dons 80-78 At Buzzer

Tim Williams got a lesson in the roller-coaster nature of sports Monday night as he went from goat to hero in Estacado's 80-78 basketball victory over Amarillo Palo Duro.

Trailing by 2 points with 18 seconds remaining, Palo Duro took the ball in to center Todd Loftis at the foul line. He put up a jumper and was fouled in the act by Williams. The shot fell and Loftis went to the line with a chance to put the Dons up by 1 with only seven seconds left.

He missed, though, and Estacado's inbound pass went to Williams. He put up a turnaround jumper from the top of the key that swished through the bottom of the net to win the game as the buzzer sounded.

Matador James Barnett led all scorers as the 6-0 forward made 13 field goals for 26 points. Trailing him in the EHS scoring parade were John Jones with 21 and Williams with 14.

Palo Duro was led by Loftis with 22 points, Tony Westmoreland with 15 and Edward Schaeffer with 13.

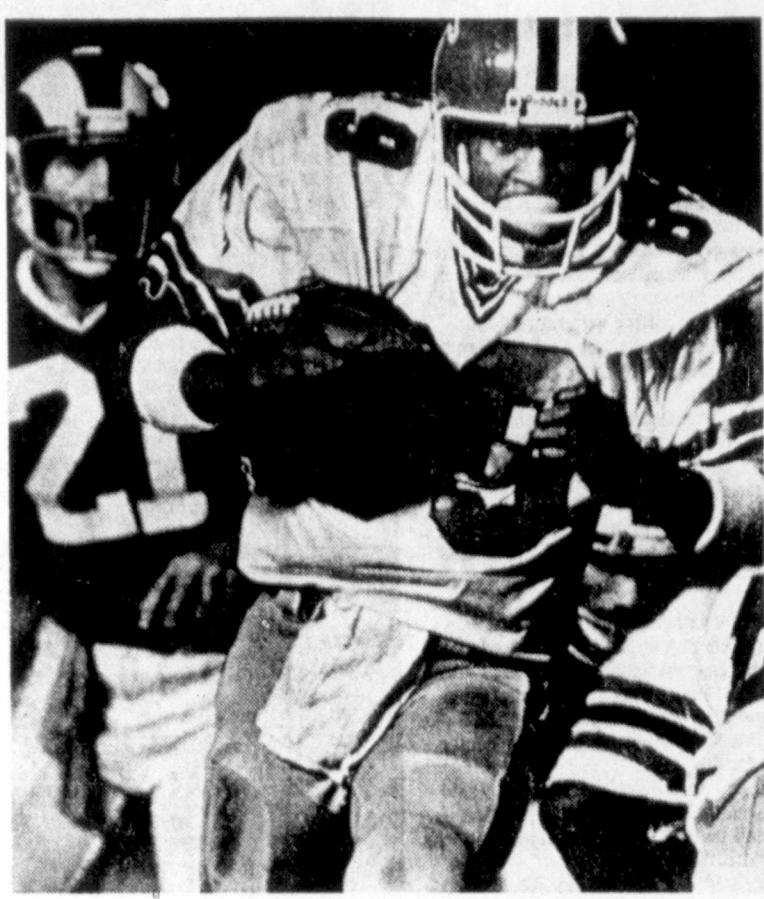

The game was the season opener for both teams. Estacado will travel west to face Morton tonight.

Tech Fems Blister NTS Cagers 111-53

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

By the time it was all over Monday night at the Municipal Coliseum, the only one who hadn't scored for the Red Raiders was coach Gay Benson.

And the way things were going, Mrs. Benson probably could've scored — from the bench.

But that's just the way the story went as the Red Raider women crushed North Texas State 111-53 in an awesome display of one-sided basketball.

Don't bother to look it up either — because that 111 points is a record for the Raiders — the most they've ever scored in a single game.

"Well, I've been in some games like this before," admitted Mrs. Benson with a smile. "But I think it was on the other end."

"It's sure good to be in this spot."

For the record, Tech's previous high mark had been 106 against West Texas State back in 1977. And the Raiders' 111-point output marked only the third time that they have gone over the century mark in the five years they've been playing intercollegiate basketball.

The Raider women are now 3-2 on the year and traveled to Denton today to face Texas Women's University at 7 p.m. North Texas drops to 0-4 on the year.

Everyone that suited up for Tech got into the scoring act in the one-sided contest. Freshman Gwen McCray led all scorers with 17 points and she scored every one of those in the first half. Miss McCray also hauled down 11 rebounds.

Others in double figures for Tech were Pam Stone (16), Vicki Lee (14), Nodia Vaughn (13), Reina Keasler (12) and Louise Davis (11).

"I think we showed some good depth coming off the bench," understated Mrs. Benson. "And we did a real good job off the fast break."

"But we weren't going for any records or anything — we were just trying to win. We all remember what happened up in Amarillo last week (where the Raiders blew a 13-point lead)," she added.

The contest got out of hand midway through the first half when the Raiders employed a full-court press to force the visiting Eagles into numerous turnovers.

The Raiders came up with an amazing 28 steals in the contest and forced NTSU into 37 turnovers. At the half, the score read 52-26 and things didn't get any better for the hapless NTSU team in the second period.

The Eagles didn't hit the 50-point mark until they were 3-52 left in the game — and by then the Raiders had already scored 93 points.

Although most of the starters were out of the game by then, it was obvious that the Tech girls wanted to reach triple digits.

And when Miss Keasler connected on a free throw with 2:50 remaining to give the Raiders their 100th point, her teammates hugged her like she'd just won an NBA playoff.

"This one should be a confidence builder," said Mrs. Benson. "We still looked ragged in a few spots but that was mostly because the girls were trying to assist each other too much."

"And you can't fault them for that — they were just trying to make each other look good."

Whitfield-Led Panthers Win Cage Opener

Stanley Whitfield grabbed 14 rebounds and scored 10 points to lead Dunbar to a 52-49 victory over Morton as both teams opened the 1979-80 basketball season Monday night in the Dunbar gym.

In addition to Whitfield's points, the Panthers were led by Joe Bagley, who scored 10. High point man for Morton was Bob Dent who scored 14.

Both teams shot poorly from the floor, Dunbar hitting only 29 percent of its shots and the visiting Indians only 27 percent but the Panthers out rebounded the Indians 55-32 to provide an edge.

Raiders Start Short Week Of Workouts

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

With only three days to prepare for the University of Houston, Texas Tech football coach Rex Dockery has his work cut out for him.

Dockery must prepare a banged-up Red Raider squad to face the ninth-ranked Cougars Friday at 2 p.m. in the Astrodome. The contest will be televised nationally by ABC-TV.

"We didn't have any real serious injuries occur during the SMU game, but we did have quite a few players who missed practice Monday because of bumps and bruises," Dockery related Monday. "That Tartan surface in Texas Stadium was quite a bit different than the other artificial surfaces we've played on. For sure reason we had a lot of shoulder injuries."

Abilene Trips Coronado Girls

The Coronado High School girls basketball team lost to Abilene High 29-28 at Coronado Monday night.

The loss evened the Mustangs' record at 1-1, same as Abilene.

Abilene guard Karen Washington hit a 15-footer with 40 seconds remaining to push Abilene in front. Tammy Taden missed a pair of free throws and Pattie McSarren missed a 10-foot jumper at the buzzer.

The score was close throughout, with Coronado once holding a 7-point lead in the third quarter.

The Mustangs were led by Miss McSarren with 12 points and eight rebounds.

Lady Chaps Fall To Hardin-Simmons

ABILENE (Special) — Lubbock Christian College women, having trouble scoring, dropped a 67-48 verdict to hostess Hardin-Simmons University Monday night.

The Lady Chaparrals could connect on but 21.9 percent of their field shots; H-SU made good on 33 percent. Hardin-Simmons also won the rebounding battle 67-59.

Freshman Darla Lynch led the LCC scorers with 21 points and also had ten rebounds.

The Lady Chaps' next action is with H-SU, also, as it visits Lubbock next Tuesday.

Among the players who missed practice Monday were linebackers Jeff McKinney and Johnny Quinney, nose-guard Hans Bischof and freshman safety Dennis Veals. Veals will miss the remainder of the year with a hamstring injury.

Offensive players who were injured Saturday included starting tight end L.M. Cummings (shoulder injury), reserve running back Dale Brown (shoulder injury) and backup quarterback Mark James (hip-pointer).

Dockery was disappointed with the performance the Raiders turned in against SMU but was hopeful his squad could come back and play the Cougars tough.

"We were very disappointed to say the least," Dockery admitted. "but we've got to forget about that game and get ready to play another excellent football team. Houston is as good as anyone we've played this season and they have had two weeks to prepare for us."

"It goes without saying that Houston is a tremendous football team. Bill Yeoman does an exceptional job every year."

Last year it was Dockery who did an exceptional coaching job when the first-place Cougars rolled into Lubbock. The Red Raiders trailed Houston 21-14 going into the fourth quarter but intercepted a pass deep in Tech territory and drove 72 yards for a touchdown.

Tech decided to go for 2 points on the conversion and quarterback Ron

UTEP, Rono Dominate Meet

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Henry Rono of Washington State has become the third person ever to win three NCAA cross country titles, joining the late Steve Prefontaine and Gerry Lindgren.

Rono was the individual winner Monday in the 41st annual NCAA cross-country championships at Lehigh University here.

The race, on Lehigh's 10,000-meter course, was run under ideal weather conditions, with Rono finishing in 28:19.4. Defending champion Alberto Salazar of Oregon was second with 28:27.6.

Jim Rotich, of Texas-El Paso, was the early leader, but he gave way to Rono and Salazar and eventually placed fourth. Third place went to Kipsubai Kotkei of New Mexico.

It was a two-way battle for team honors, as expected, with UTEP picking up only 86 points while Oregon was charged with 93. Penn State was a distant third at 186, followed by Colorado with 189 and Auburn with 222 to round out the top five.

Texas El Paso also won this race in 1975, 1976 and 1978.

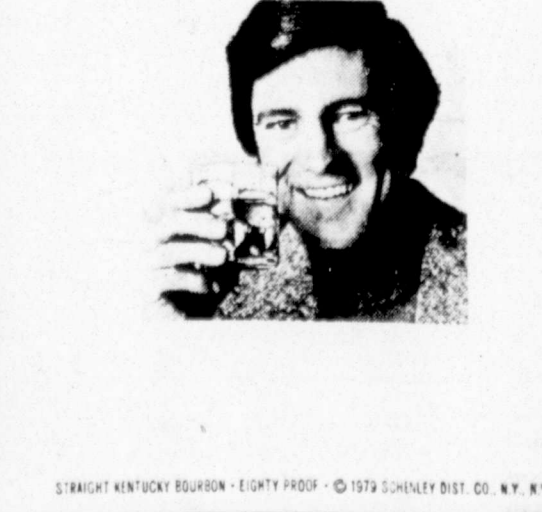

In the individual competition, there were 244 runners and 237 finishers.

Texas Tech senior Greg Lautenslater went out with a speedy 4:30 on his first mile but faded badly and finished only 165th in a time of 31:44. Last year in the NCAA meet, he finished in the top 50 runners.

LA Rams Stay In Contention

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The six-time division champion Los Angeles Rams are 6-6 and tied for the NFC West lead with New Orleans, but Rams coach Ray Malavasi is still counting his blessings.

"With all the injuries we've had, I just feel fortunate to be in the position we are in right now," Malavasi said after Monday night's 20-14 Ram victory over NFC West foe Atlanta. "I feel we can win the division, just like I felt at the beginning of the season."

The loss dropped the Falcons to 4-8, putting them two games off the lead with just four contests remaining. However, in what is the NFL's weakest division this season, there are no foregone conclusions.

Atlanta coach Leeman Bennett refused to concede anything, saying, "As far as the race is concerned, we're still not out of it."

One of many Los Angeles reserves pressed into a starting role, quarterback Vince Ferragamo, guided the Rams to the important victory over the Falcons. Making his first NFL start, the third-year pro out of Nebraska passed for two first-half touchdowns and set up the clinching score — an 11-yard run by Cullen Bryant — in the final quarter.

"I hope to do better next week," said Ferragamo, the Rams' starter the rest of the season since Pat Haden is out with a broken finger. "I wasn't as worried about my first start as I was about coming off an injury."

Ferragamo himself had been sidelined for the past month, recuperating from a broken hand suffered in a game against Dallas.

"I thought I played well at times," he said after completing nine of 22 passes for 171 yards against the Falcons. "I knew that having been out four weeks, I was going to be a little rusty. . . and I was."

Ferragamo hit Preston Dennard with a 29-yard touchdown pass early in the first quarter, connected with Billy Waddy on a 40-yard scoring play in the waning moments of the first half, then set up Bryant's tally with a 18-yard toss to tight end Terry Nelson midway through the final period.

As it turned out, the Rams needed all three scores. Atlanta quarterback June Jones III, starting in place of the injured Steve Bartkowski, put the Falcons back in the game with two second-half touchdown passes.

Jones, hitting on just two of nine throws and suffering two interceptions in the opening half, found Wallace Francis with a 15-yard scoring pass late in the third period to cut the Rams' lead to 14-7. He connected with Francis again on a 33-yard touchdown play with 4:11 left in the contest to bring the Falcons within striking distance at 20-14.

But Jones, trying to pass in the closing moments of the game, fumbled away the Falcons' last chance. He finished with 11 completions in 24 attempts for 181 yards.

The Rams' Wendell Tyler and Atlanta's Bubba Bean both topped the 100-yard mark in rushing, as Tyler picked up 111 yards on 21 carries and Bean gained 104 on 17 carries.

Sun Devil Suit Dismissal Asked

PHOENIX (AP) — A judge has been asked to dismiss former Arizona State punter Kevin Rutledge's lawsuit against the school, the state Board of Regents and his former coach, Frank Kush.

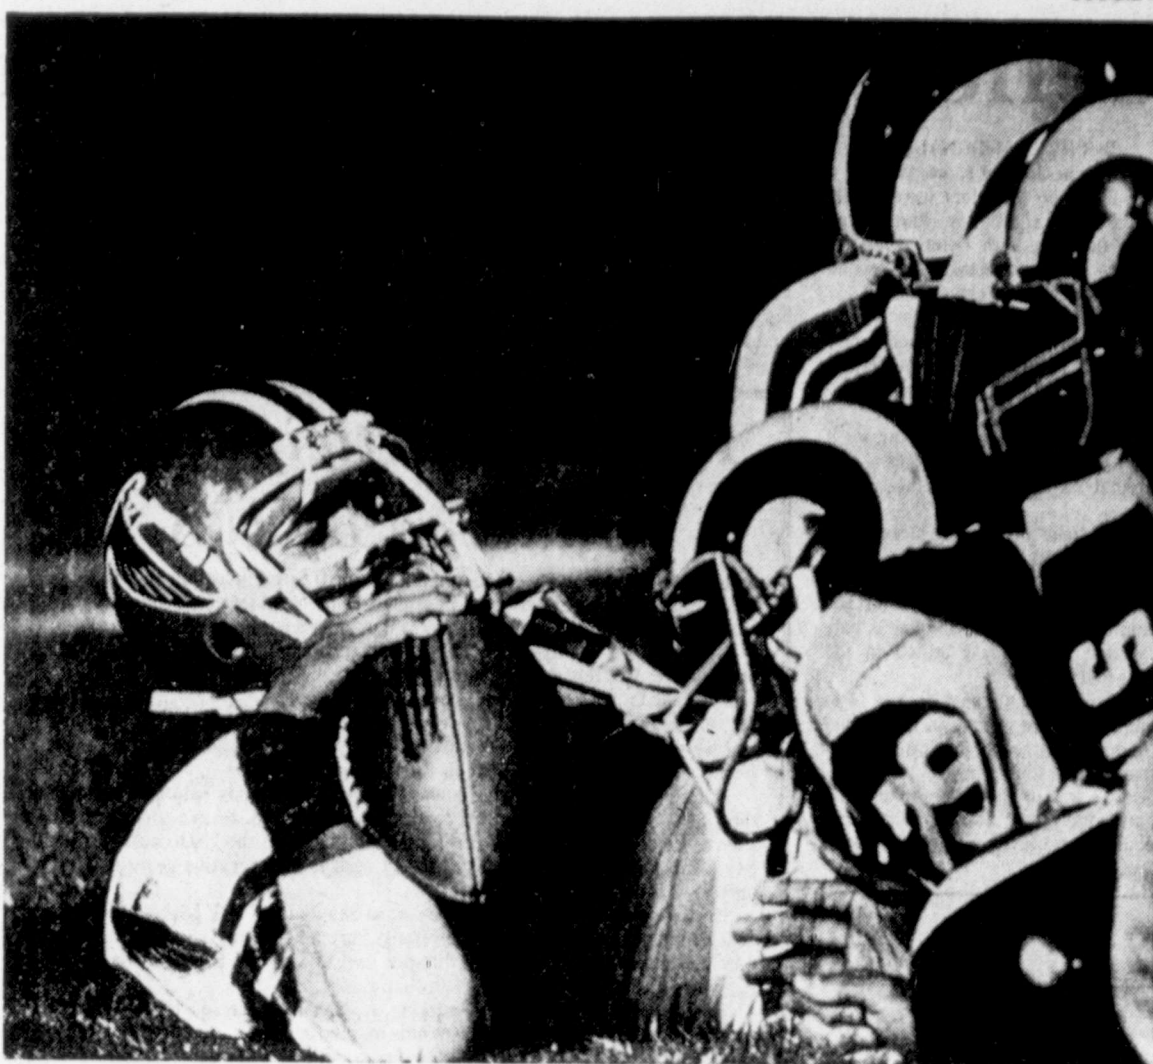

There was no immediate indication of when U.S. District Court Judge William Cople would rule on the motion filed Monday by lawyers for Kush, the regents and ASU athletic director Dr. Fred Miller.

It asks Cople to dismiss the suit on grounds that a resident of one state cannot sue agencies of another in federal court. Rutledge now resides in Nevada, where he attends the state university at Las Vegas.

The complaint asks for $1.1 million in damages, claiming that Kush punched Rutledge after a poor kick during ASU's Oct. 28, 1978 loss to Washington in Seattle, and forced him to quit the team.

Rutledge's suit led to Kush's sudden dismissal and an investigation by Pacific-10 Conference officials, who determined eight Sun Devil players were ineligible and took away the team's three league victories. ASU voluntarily forfeited its two non-conference wins.

Defense attorney Harding Cure told Cople that Rutledge should sue the state, rather than Kush, Miller and the regents as individuals. Cure assessed the state's insurance policy as sufficient to cover a successful damage claim.

Viridon Ponders Rotation

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros manager Bill Viridon already is tinkering with the idea, grinning glibly at the possibilities of pitching J.R. Richard, Nolan Ryan and Joe Niekro on successive days.

Should he dazzle the opposition by pitching strikeout artists Ryan and Richard in successive games or put Niekro and his unpredictable knuckleball between them in the rotation?

Will catcher Alan Ashby be able to stand the heat of two of baseball's hardest throwing pitchers and then master the feathery pitches of Niekro?

All these questions and more became topics of discussion when the Astros announced Monday they had signed Ryan to a four-year contract for a reported $4 million, making Ryan the highest paid free agent in the history of baseball.

"I'm deliberating whether I should put Niekro in the middle of them," Viridon said. "Or we might go with Ryan and Richard and then come back with Niekro. We've got plenty of time to roll it around."

Ryan, who led the American League in strikeouts with 233 last season, will join Richard, the major league leader at 313, and Niekro, the National League's winningest pitcher at 21-11, in forming one of the strongest starting threeesomes in the major leagues next season.

Ryan said his contract did not include deferred payments and is guaranteed for three years. The Astros have the option to renew the contract for the fourth year.

Ryan, 16-14 with the California Angels last season, decided to test the free agent market and quickly settled on Houston as his choice, if the price was right.

"We talked to a number of clubs and asked them not to make a bid," said Dick Moss, Ryan's agent. "Our first priority was for Nolan to decide where he wanted to play. From that point, we felt we could reach suitable contract terms."

Ryan said signing with the Astros was a belated dream come true.

"I've thought of this moment for many years and dreamed about it growing up in (nearby) Alvin," said Ryan, a native Texan. "I always wanted to play for the Astros and live at home. It's hard for Ruth (his wife) and I to realize that we've finally come home."

Ryan comes to the Astros with a 167-159 career record and numerous major league records. He is tied with Sandy Koufax, with four career no-hitters and holds the records for most strikeouts in a season, 383 and most 300 strikeout seasons, five. He has 2,909 career strikeouts.

It was the fourth big contract signing for the Astros this year. Outfielder Cesar Cedeno has signed a 10-year $3.5 million pact; Richard recently signed on for four years at $3.2 million and outfielder Jose Cruz signed a five-year contract for an estimated $1.8 million.

Allen Awaits Coaching Offer But Finds Life Elsewhere

SEATTLE (AP) — After being on the outside looking in for almost two National Football League seasons, George Allen has grown philosophical about his fate.

Allen said he's still available to return to the NFL as a head coach but that he can handle the possibility that he won't get the chance.

"I miss coaching considerably but I've found out that I can get along without it," said the former head coach of the Washington Redskins and the Los Angeles Rams.

Allen, 57, who lives in Los Angeles, was in Seattle over the weekend as a television commentator for the Seattle-New Orleans NFL game.

"I've found out there there's other things in life that mean a lot and I'm enjoying myself," he said.

"I don't have to coach. I'm very fortunate. I can do what I want to and I can enjoy my leisure time and my family."

Allen was dumped as the Rams' coach just two exhibition games into the 1978 season by the club's late owner,

Ohio State, which completed a perfect regular season by defeating Michigan 18-15 on Saturday, continued to chip away at No. 1-ranked Alabama's lead today in The Associated Press college football poll, while Nebraska held the No. 2 spot in the United Press International ratings.

The Rose Bowl-bound Buckeyes received 18 of 65 first-place votes and 1,214 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters to move within 24 points of Alabama in AP but were third in UPI. In the UPI poll of major college coaches, Nebraska claimed two first-place votes — to five for Ohio State — but garnered 568 points to Alabama's leading 613.

The Crimson Tide, 30-0 winners over Miami, Fla., received 32 first-place votes and 1,238 points in AP; last week, Alabama led Ohio State 34-14 in first-place votes and 1,262-1,218 in points.

The AP's top six teams — Alabama, Ohio State, Nebraska, Southern California, Florida State and Texas — held on to their positions but Arkansas slipped past Oklahoma into the seventh spot while the Sooners dropped to eighth, a reversal of last week's ratings.

The UPI top group has Alabama, Nebraska, OSU, Southern Cal, Florida State, Texas, OU, and Arkansas. Nebraska, which defeated Iowa State 34-3, received four first-place votes and 1,157 points in AP to nose out Southern Cal, idle last weekend. The Trojans had 10 ballots for No. 1 but only 1,151 points in AP, three first-place supporters in UPI.

It was a good weekend for Florida State, which accepted a bid to the Orange Bowl and then walloped Memphis State 66-17.

The remaining AP first-place ballot was split among Texas, Arkansas and No. 9 Houston. Texas whipped TCU 50-10 and received 959 points, Arkansas earned 865 points for a 22-10 triumph over Texas A&M and Houston, which wasn't scheduled, polled 811 points.

Unbeaten Brigham Young held onto 10th place with 705 points for a 27-0 victory over Utah.

The AP's Second Ten consists of Pittsburgh, Purdue, Clemson, Washington and Auburn tied for 14th, Michigan, Baylor, Tulane, South Carolina and Penn State.

Last week, it was Pitt, Purdue, Michigan, Clemson, Auburn, Washington, Wake Forest, Temple and Tennessee, with Baylor and Tulane tied for 20th.

UPI's second group has Pitt, Purdue, Clemson, Washington, Michigan, Baylor, Tulane, LSU, Indiana and North Carolina State.

South Carolina and Penn State returned to AP's Top Twenty by defeating, respectively, Wake Forest 35-14 and Temple 22-7. The losers fell out, as did Tennessee, which lost to Mississippi 44-20.

Young Knick Team Pleases Holzman

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Cartwright called it "crucial, very crucial." Ray Williams said that "on a scale of 1-to-10, this was a 10."

Red Holzman, the coach who at 59 is considerably older than Cartwright and Williams combined, said it was his team's "best 48 minutes of basketball of the season — a big win, definitely."

If the New York Knicks make any progress along the rebuilding road this season, they'll look back on Saturday night's 113-109 victory over the Boston Celtics as a pivotal game.

For one thing, they had lost their last five starts, by a total of 17 points. They had proven they could stay close, but not that they could win.

For another, a sellout crowd of 19,591 filled Madison Square Garden to watch these young Knicks battle the arch-rival Celtics. If the Knicks wanted those people to come back, it was important to make a good impression.

"I think a lot of people came to see Larry Bird and Dave Cowens and the Celtics," said Williams, the Knicks' captain since Earl Monroe was placed on the injured list before the start of the season. "But I think a lot of people left happy to see the Knicks win."

Williams and Michael Ray Richardson, the Knicks' guards of the future, were brilliant against Boston. Williams scored 35 points, continuing his high scoring of late, and Richardson added 22 points and a career-high 18 assists.

The Knicks (with Monroe and Marvin Webster injured and not on the active roster) rank as the youngest team in the National Basketball Association, and never was that more evident than Saturday.

Holzman used eight players — five of them rookies, including former Texas Tech guard Geoff Huston. The graybeards were Richardson, in his second season, third-year men Williams and Toby Knight. At one point in the second half the Knicks had a lineup whose combined experience consisted of exactly one season.

The Knicks of old — Willis Reed, Dave DeBusschere, Bill Bradley, Walt Frazier — are gone. The fans do not yet identify with the new, young Knicks, and the players know it.

Carroll Rosenbloom. The Rams were 0-2 at the time but it was speculated that Rosenbloom fired Allen in a personality clash.

In 12 seasons as an NFL head coach, Allen compiled a 706 winning percentage — 116-47-5. He ranks 10th in NFL history for lifetime victories.

Allen said he has not been offered an NFL head coaching post since his firing.

"There's been nothing official," he said. "All these different stories with my name mentioned are strictly rumors. Every time there's an opening and every time a team loses a couple of games, George Allen's name is mentioned."

"But they've been strictly rumors and they can be a little bit embarrassing because some of the coaches involved are my friends."

Asked if he was disappointed at not getting another head coaching job offer, Allen said, "Somewhat. I know what I know. You can't take anything away from me because the record is there of what we achieved in Los Angeles and Washington."

"The main thing is that the people who count know. So on second thought, no, I'm not disappointed."

Allen spent his first five NFL head coaching seasons, from 1966 through 1970, at Los Angeles, where he compiled a 49-17-4 record. He then spent seven years at Washington, where he was 67-30-1.

His 23-year-old son, Bruce, had a 1-7-1 record in his rookie season as head coach at Occidental College in Los Angeles this year.

"I told him he should have gotten into something with a little more security," Allen grinned.

Kelley Likes Comeback Effort

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The Estacado Matadors were finally tested Friday night but they came through the quiz with flying colors — and in the process clinched their second straight District 1-AAA championship.

Now, the second season starts. And this is the one that every coach hopes for. The Matadors will meet the Odessa Ector Eagles at 2 p.m. Saturday in Odessa in the bi-district battle.

But for awhile last Friday night, it looked like the only way the Mats would go to that contest would be as spectators.

Canyon took the opening kickoff and marched smartly down the field to take a quick 7-0 lead. The score marked the first time anyone had scored on the Mats in the first quarter, and it was only the second time they'd trailed in the opening half all year.

But the Mats came back from a 14-14 tie and routed the visitors in the second half. And for Estacado coach Louis Kelley, that proved something.

"Boy, I was proud of these kids," he said after the game. "We got behind and we could've just given up — but the kids hung in there."

What Canyon did in the early going was capitalize on the Matador quickness on defense and use it to their own advantage. The Mats play an all-out defensive style where everybody charges the play.

So the Eagles ran a delay type of attack and let the Mat linebackers over-react to the play — and take themselves out of the action.

"We were trying to get the linebackers to wait and read the play," explained Estacado's Kelley. "But they were a little excited and trying to make something happen."

But Estacado adjusted in the second half and Canyon went nowhere until the fourth quarter when it marched to the EHS three-yard line.

That's when the EHS defense stiffened, though, and Canyon came away with zero points.

"We had a nice goal-line stand down there," said Kelley. "That's the kind of thing you like to see."

But the Canyon game is old history now as Estacado goes about the business of stopping Ector and the South Plains' leading rusher — James Ricks. Ricks has gained 1,086 yards on 137 games for the Odessa school this year.

That comes out to an average of almost eight yards a tote. Estacado's Kevin White has 787 on 140 carries.

The winner of the EHS-Ector game will have to meet the winner of the San Angelo Lake View-Burkburnett clash in the regional contest. Lake View captured the 3-AAA crown with a perfect 4-0 district record and finished 9-1 on the year as did Ector and Estacado.

Lake View will meet Burkburnett Friday in Abilene.

Pan Am Participation Pondered By U.S.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Re-examination of U.S. participation in the Pan-American Games has been urged by Robert Kane, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, the Los Angeles Times said in today's editions.

Kane said he was disturbed by incidents at other Pan Am Games sites in other years. But during last summer's games in San Juan, Puerto Rico, "it was just one thing after another," he told the Times.

"We're just too powerful, too rich and too successful in this competition and we don't get ordinary decent treatment," Kane told the Times in a telephone interview when reached at his Florida home.

Kane confirmed that during a closed meeting in Dallas Saturday he told the USOC executive board of his concern about the U.S. team's treatment in Puerto Rico. He said the board referred the matter to the USOC administrative committee with instructions to report back to the executive board in January.

In particular, Kane referred to arrest in San Juan of U.S. basketball team coach Bobby Knight of Indiana University, burning of some U.S. flags, temporary disqualification of U.S. long jumper Carl Lewis, and boeing of the U.S. flag when it was raised during the San Juan games.

Knight, who was accused of striking a policeman, refused to appear for trial and was sentenced in absentia to nine months in jail.

"Bobby Knight was a good foil for them (anti-U.S. sentiment) but he got a bad shuffle," Kane said. "He did not hit the policeman, although he did shove him."

Kane's remarks were answered at the Dallas meeting by Miguel de Capriles, a vice president of the Pan American Sports Organization who is also a USOC executive board member.

"You've got to learn to get along with people who do not see eye to eye with you, and even don't like you," De Capriles said of international competition. The University of California Hastings School of Law professor was contacted by telephone in San Francisco, the Times said.

In the future the U.S. team should be better briefed on conditions so members can better understand them, De Capriles said he told the Dallas meeting.

"We are at a low ebb in our international prestige. . . . But in international sports our prestige has always been very high. We may be able to help the United States by staying in the games and promoting our sports image," he added.

NEW YORK (AP) — The board of directors and shareholders of the New York Mets announced their intention to sell the National League baseball franchise before the 1980 season. In a prepared statement, the club said it anticipated agreement to the sale to be signed by the end of the 1979 calendar year and that the new ownership will be able to obtain National League approval in time to begin operations before the start of next season. The announcement confirmed rumors that have circulated around the club for the past two years.

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Seventy-seeded Louk Sanders of the Netherlands defeated Shankar Krishnan of India 6-1, 7-6 in opening play of the Grand Prix Tennis Championship of India, in other matches, India's Ashok Amritraj beat American Woody Blocher 6-4, 7-5. West German Wolfgang Popp ousted Andrew Jarrett of Britain 6-4, 6-4 and American Tony Graham eliminated countryman Mark Turpin 6-4, 7-6.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's Carlos Ochoa wipped Australian Paul Kronk 6-1, 7-6 and Chile's Alejandro Pizarro defeated Peter Frawley of Australia 6-1, 6-3 in the first round of a $75,000 Grand Prix tennis tournament.

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — Bjorn Borg and Chris Evert Lloyd have been named the No. 1 tennis players of the 1970s by a ranking panel for Tennis magazine. Borg has won Wimbledon the last four years, an unprecedented feat, while Lloyd won the U.S. Open four years in a row before bowing in the final match Nov. 18. Ford's News & Review magazine is composed of six writers and editors from publications around the world.

BASKETBALL
NEW YORK (AP) — Guard Phil Ford, who led the Kansas City Kings to four consecutive victories last week, was named the National Basketball Association's Player of the Week for the period ending Sunday, Nov. 18. Ford, the NBA's Rookie of the Year last season, averaged 26.5 points over the four victories, including career highs of 34 points each against Philadelphia 80, Los Angeles, Ford beat out Boston's Larry Bird, Houston's Moses Malone, New Jersey's Calvin Natt, Phoenix's Walter Davis and Utah's Adrian Dantley for the weekly honor.

If that happens, Alabama and Georgia would be tied for the SEC title, which is 5-5 overall and 5-1 in the SEC, could be in the bowl with a 5-6 record if the Bulldogs lose to Georgia Tech of the Atlantic Coast Conference Saturday.

The contract specifies that if there is a tie for the conference title, the team with the most recent appearance stays home.

Hussein Suggests Oil As Weapon

TUNIS (AP) — The Arab League opened its 10th summit meeting today with a call by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein for an all-out economic offensive against Israel's friends and allies including use of the "oil weapon."

"We must exploit as fully as possible the full weight of our vast economic potential in a worldwide struggle against Israeli aggression," Hussein told the summit.

The summit was chaired by Tunisia's President Habib Bourguiba, 76, the dean of Arab leaders, who made a more restrained plea for support of the Palestine Liberation Organization in its "internal struggle" against Israel.

PLO leader Yasser Arafat and 15 of the kings, presidents or effective leaders of the Arab countries attended the formal opening meeting in the dome-shaped congress hall of Tunisia's ruling Destourian Socialist Party.

One notable absentee was Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, who was expelled from the Arab League for negotiating a peace treaty with Israel.

The leaders of Morocco, Algeria, Libya, Mauritania and Oman were represented by lower level officials.

Saddam Hussein, one of the most militant Arab leaders, told the summit the Arab world is determined to pursue its struggle against Israel "despite the surrender and treachery of the Egyptian regime."

"We have a very effective weapon in our economic resources among which I mention oil," Hussein said.

"We must compel them to understand that their interests in our area cannot survive as long as they persist in their policies," he said. "Those guilty of supporting aggression against us will thus receive their just deserts."

He made no explicit reference to the United States, but his speech was seen as an implied threat to American economic interests in the Arab world to force the United States to abandon its support of Israel.

He earlier circulated a proposal for a special meeting of Arab oil and foreign ministers to "redefine Arab economic policies" toward the Western countries, Japan and the Third World in the light of their policies in the Middle East conflict.

A similar but more moderate proposal by Saudi Arabia's strongman, Crown Prince Fahd Ibn Abdelaziz, urged a long-term study of the Arab states' economic strength to further the Arab cause.

Only Libya, South Yemen and the PLO have indicated support for Arab use of the "oil weapon." Saudi Arabia and a majority of moderate Arab nations were expected to block the militant position.

The meeting, opening on the first day of Islam's 15th century, was the first Arab summit since the 1978 Baghdad meeting that expelled Egypt from the League. Like all other Arab meetings, it was plagued by feuds among the members.

Arafat was expected to clash with Lebanese President Elias Sarkis over Lebanon's demand for the withdrawal of PLO guerrillas from the area between the Litani River and the Lebanese-Israeli border.

In the preliminary meeting of foreign ministers, PLO and Lebanese representatives rejected a compromise proposal that would commit the PLO to stop hostile action against Israel from south Lebanon while confirming the guerrillas' right to continue the war against Israel "on all Arab fronts."

Delegate Endorsements Boost Choi's Bid To Win Presidency

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Acting President Choi Kyuhang's bid to succeed the assassinated Park Chung-hee received a big boost today with the endorsement of nearly a fifth of the electoral college, which will select the new president.

More than 500 members of the 2,561-member National Conference for Unification voiced support for Choi at a provincial meeting in Chonju, 125 miles south of Seoul.

Some 400 other delegates gave their support to Choi when they held a similar session in Seoul Monday, giving him a total of more than 90 members of the conference.

Choi has yet to formally accept the offers of support, but his spokesman said Monday the acting president would probably honor the draft movement by the electoral college.

The conference will choose the president in early December.

Shortly after Choi became acting president, he announced that the person elected to fill Park's term, scheduled to run in 1984, should enact democratic constitutional reforms and quickly call a new presidential election.

Western observers say Choi is the military's choice to oversee the transitional period to a more liberal form of government. Strikes and demonstrations against Park's autocratic rule paralyzed much of Korea in the weeks preceding his assassination.

The conference members today met in Chonju, 120 miles south of Seoul, for a government briefing on the current national security status in the wake of Park's slaying Oct. 26.

The government is holding the head of the Korean intelligence agency and several other officials in the killing.

Three more such briefings for conference members are scheduled over the next week in different parts of the country, and it seemed a foregone conclusion Choi would win unanimous support from the conference delegates and seek the caretaker presidency unopposed.

Park set up the present constitution in 1972. It provided for his indirect election to the presidency by the conference, gave him immense power, and provided for a weak legislature and constraints on civil liberties.

Floor leaders of the government camp and opposition groups discussed in the one-house National Assembly ways to inaugurate a special parliamentary committee on the constitution to carry out amendments to restore political freedom.

The government also has said studies were under way to free college youths imprisoned during Park's term and all political prisoners convicted of violating a special decree banning anti-government activities.

Suspected Spy Admits Mistake

LONDON (AP) — Anthony Blunt came out of hiding today and said he made "an appalling mistake" by becoming a Russian spy. But he added "I haven't betrayed my conscience."

"I believed it was the right thing in the cause of anti-fascism," the 72-year-old art historian told a news conference, "and now I realize bitterly that this was totally wrong." He said that he kept quiet to protect his friends, but in 1964 was unmasked, confessed and was granted immunity.

Blunt said the information he passed to the Russians while working for British counter-intelligence, MI5, during World War II "was almost exclusively about German intelligence services, and that was largely information that a lot of people in MI5 thought ought to have been given officially."

He said none of the information jeopardized British lives.

Prior to the news conference, his attorney released a statement from Blunt saying it was British diplomat Guy Burgess, also a spy, who recruited him, not vice versa as has been reported.

The public unmasking of Blunt caused the worst spy scandal in Britain since diplomats Burgess and Donald Maclean fled to the Soviet Union in 1951. Kim Philby, the leader of the group, followed them in 1963.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told Parliament last week Blunt was the fourth man in the spy ring, touching off a flap among former government leaders asking to know why they were never informed. The government called a special hearing on the matter in Parliament Wednesday.

my contemporaries that the Communist Party and Russia constituted the only firm bulwark against fascism, since the Western democracies were taking an uncertain and compromising attitude toward Germany."

"I was persuaded by Guy Burgess that I could best serve the cause of anti-fascism by joining him in his work for the Russians," the statement continued. "This was a case of political conscience against loyalty to country. I chose conscience."

"When later I realized the true facts about Russia, I was prevented from taking any action by personal loyalty. I could not denounce my friends."

ISRAELIS Hit At Targets In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli and Christian militia gunners pounded Palestinian strongholds and Lebanese army positions for the second day today, Lebanese sources claimed.

Travelers from the south said there were no casualties in any of the villages located along a strip about 10 miles north of the border, but many buildings were damaged and olive groves set ablaze.

The travelers said the militia of renegade Lebanese Army Major Saad Haddad, backed by Israeli artillerymen, fired 155 mm phosphorous shells beginning Monday morning and continuing into early hours today.

The Israeli-militia gunners fired shells at seven Palestinian-controlled villages, Lebanese army positions and U.N. peacekeeping troops based on the outskirts of Kawbaja, 10 miles north of the Israeli border, Lebanese sources claimed.

After the artillery fire halted this morning, Palestinian guerrillas and Haddad's militia exchanged heavy machine gun fire around the town of Majayoun. Travelers from the area said the U.N. forces were placed on full alert.

The fighting spread late Monday to the lush Hasbani River valley, located at the junction of the Israeli, Syrian and Lebanese borders.

Government sources said the shelling will hamper the Lebanese government's efforts to win support from the Arab leaders meeting this week in Tunis for its proposal to curb all Palestinian guerrilla activity in south Lebanon.

Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat indicated he will resist the Lebanese proposals to halt guerrilla activity on the southern border and to remove the Palestinian military presence in the south.

"To confront the Israeli plans is a necessity, and a political decision is needed," Arafat said of the Arab summit. "I ask: Does the Arab nation want to confront these plans or not?"

"We in the Palestinian revolution have decided to take up this confrontation and, by God, even if I stand alone with my gun, I shall fight," he told the Algerian newspaper Al Sab.

Brazilian Cruzeiro Suffers Devaluation

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Brazil has devalued its currency for the 16th time this year.

The devaluation announced by the Central Bank reduced the value of the Cruzeiro 87 percent against the U.S. dollar. The 16 devaluations of 1979 have dropped the cruzeiro's value by 53.5 percent.

In the new rates, 31.9 cruzeiros will equal a dollar.

China Protests Attacks By Vietnamese

PEKING (UPI) — China strongly protested to Vietnam today that Vietnamese troops intruded "deep into Chinese territory" two weeks ago and caused a "heavy loss" of life.

The official diplomatic protest note also accused Hanoi of boosting its "war provocations" or face "all the consequences." In Hanoi in recent weeks, Vietnamese officials have contended China will launch a dry season offensive against Vietnam or its Indochinese allies, Cambodia and Laos.

The Chinese Foreign Ministry sent the protest note today to the Vietnamese Embassy in Peking.

The official Xinhua news agency said the note charged Vietnamese forces with shelling and machine-gunning a commune in China's Yunnan province Nov. 4, destroying houses and killing and wounding "a number of Chinese inhabitants."

About 100 Vietnamese troops then "penetrated deep into the Chinese territory, attacked Chinese frontier outposts, opened fire wantonly on Chinese inhabitants in the border area, and seized large quantities of their property," the note said.

"The acts of aggression of Vietnamese troops have caused heavy losses in life and property to the local inhabitants," China said.

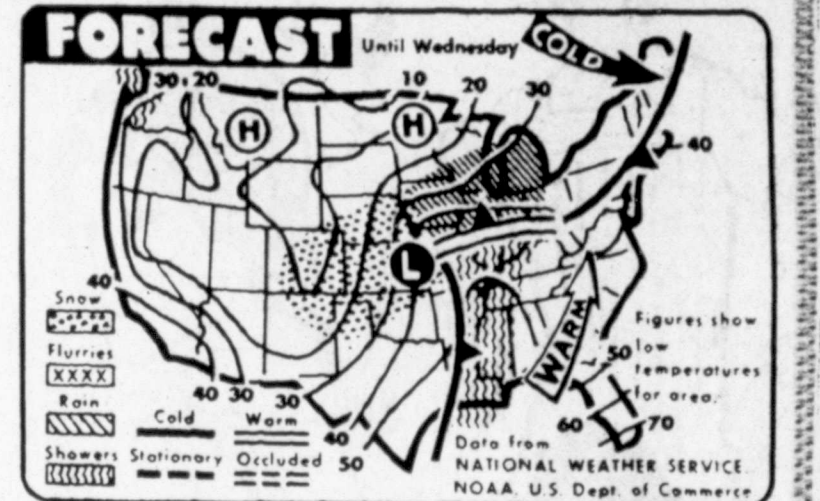

The Chinese Foreign Ministry called its note "a strong protest" and demanded that Vietnam immediately stop its "provocations" against Chinese territory.

The Chinese protest alleged that the Vietnamese recently have sent "large reinforcements" to the border, "and while stepping up war deployment against China, aggravated the tension there" by creating armed provocations.

The Vietnamese have recently made similar charges against the Chinese.

It was not clear why Peking waited more than two weeks to protest the border intrusion, but it appeared the protest may have been timed to coincide with the opening of peace talks with Vietnam to give China an extra bargaining chip.

The talks are expected to begin Thursday.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is expected in the forecast period until Wednesday morning for the central and southern Plains. Showers are forecast from the central Gulf to the lower Midwest and rain is expected for the Midwest and Great Lakes. Clear skies are forecast for the West.
