Home Builders Make Big Donation To Crime Line

By SYLVIA TEAGUE Avalanche-Journal Staff

Crime Line. Inc., received its largest single donation yet today when the West Texas Home Builders Association gave $6,000 to the reward fund.

Sam Reyes, president of the association, said the builders "decided to become involved because of the tremendous theft and vandalism on our construction sites."

Presenting Crime Line president Charley Pope with 60 checks from builders, Reyes said association members 'are dedicated to making Lubbock a safer place to live.'

"We feel this might encourage other people to donate 741-1000 to Crime Line," Reyes said, adding, "We know when a reward is paid, another criminal is stopped.

Cecil Jennings, who will become president of the association next year, pledged continued support from the organization for Crime Line.

"You can expect more money," Jennings said. "We know theft and vandalism will continue and we've got to put a stop to it.

When association members voted in September to support Crime Line they set a goal of $7,500 in donations. Mayor Dirk West, the driving force behind the organization of Crime Line.

A tip to Crime Line led to the robber's arrest, West said, and the conviction and stiff sentence primarily was the result of photographs taken by "Crime Eye" cameras installed in the store.

"It's a powerful program," West said, adding more than $203,000 in stolen merchandise has been recovered because of information coming to police through Crime Line.

Organized in March 1979, Crime Line offers rewards and anonymity to citizens who furnish information leading to the arrest and grand jury indictment of felony suspects and to the capture of felony fugitives.

Americans Ready To Risk War

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans, outraged that fellow citizens are held hostage in Iran, fear the crisis could lead to war, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says. Nevertheless, the public would support military action if the hostages were harmed or put on trial.

But Ghotbzadeh seemed to leave the door open to negotiation He repeated the elements of an Iranian plan whereby the U.S. government would agree to an international inquiry into the shah's 37-year regime and accept its findings, after which "the United States could return the shah easily." At what point the hostages would be freed remains unclear. He said Iran would "keep our contacts" with the Security Council for possible further discussions In New York, Rudolf Stajduhar, spokesman for U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, said the meeting would go on as planned, but it might be rescheduled from Saturday night to Saturday morning or afternoon. Ghotbzadeh also said he welcomed the decision of the Mexican government Thursday to bar re-entry to the shah, who has been told by his doctors he is able to leave his New York hospital bed. Egypt's President Anwar Sadat today repeated his offer to the shah to establish a permanent residence in Egypt.

As politics, Iran is a fat zero for Kennedy. Straying from support for Carter would open Kennedy up to charges of reckless demogoguery and willful threatening of the lives of innocent people. By standing squarely behind Carter, however, Kennedy does little to show America why he thinks Carter is not providing

The second problem is the senator's continuing inability to articulate his reasons for challenging Carter. His latest appearances on television interview programs have shown a marked improvement in his performance, but before campaign audiences, he still fumbles for an explanation.

It is not as if Kennedy is caught off guard. Usually the questions come from high schoolers or factory workers in a set forum. Here, in part, is Kennedy's vague, rambling, civics-book response to a student in Milford, N.H., who asked him last Wednesday why he is running.

"I believe in public service, and I also believe that a public life and elected public responsibility is a noble profession, and I think individuals who hold responsibilities in public life make a difference in the quality of life for the people that we represent whether it is at the local level, the state level or in the Congress or the Senate of the United States.

"Secondly, I think that individuals can make a difference and that each individual should try.

"I think the presidency can make a very major difference in the lives of the people here at home and in the lives of people throughout the world.

Kennedy can probably finesse students and workers with such rhetoric, but when the campaign heats up and the president, himself, starts asking that same question in earnest, the Massachusetts Democrat will have to cut the verbiage and spell it out.

The dump at Hanford, Wash., was resix weeks, state Energy Director Jack Wood said.

Gov. Dixy Lee Ray had ordered the Hanford dump closed after inspectors found improperly packaged radioactive materials and that some radioactive material was being hauled in unsafe trucks.

Wood said the dump was reopened after the operator. Nuclear Engineering Co., agreed to accept only materials approved for disposal in the dump and arrangements were made for the State Patrol to check trucks headed for the dump. He said an agreement was reached that says the state will not be liable for any damages if there are accidents.

The Nevada Board of Health, rejecting the recommendation of Gov. Bob List, voted this week to reopen a dump near the desert town of Beatty. The panel ruled that permanent closure of the Nuclear Engineering Co. Inc. dump was not warranted. Officials said the dump could reopen in a few days.

GOP State Leader To Assist Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Frederick K Biebel, who for the last two years has served as leader of Republican state chairmen, has gone to work for GOP presidential candidate Ronald Reagan.

Biebel, a Stratford, Conn., attorney, is the Reagan campaign's vice chairman and national coordinator of state organizations, it was announced here by the Reagan for President Committee.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., said he is 'particularly delighted" that Biebel agreed to join the Reagan campaign. Laxalt said Biebel's "exceptional experience as chairman of all the state Republican chairmen superbly qualifies him to be the logical spokesman between state GOP leaders and the Reagan for President Committee."

Report Supports Liquefied Natural Gas

countries hardest hit by the high cost of imported oil could soon be exporting natural gas if cost and safety problems can be solved, a United Nations conference on long-term energy resources has been

UN scientist V. A. Ovcharenko told the conference this week the development of facilities to liquefy and transport natural gas at ultra-cold temperatures could help many countries benefit from natural gas resources they have no way of distributing.

"The technology for transporting liquefied natural gas on the seas and storing it is commercially available, is technically advanced, and probably does not represent a significantly higher level of risk to the public and the environment than handling of conventional fuels," Ovcharenko said in a paper he presented.

Developing countries without their own oil resources - most of the world's poorest countries - now have to pay 20 to 25 per cent of their export earnings to cover oil imports. U.N. statistics show. But some of these countries have significant gas reserves, totaling an estimated 50 percent of the world's total.

Production is starting to push ahead, and Third World countries that don't belong to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries expect to have 60 billion cubic meters of natural gas available for export by 1985, while OPEC members should have a surplus of 120 billion cubic meters a year.

While Ovcharenko said showed a perfect safety record in shipments of LNG gas between Algeria and France and the United Kingdom for the past 15 years, many communities are reluctant to welcome liquefied natural gas

Seven-eighths of the Postal Service's budget goes for labor and, with wages and benefits being far higher than can be justified by the skills needed, the cost of mailing a letter will continue to be too high.

The wonder is that, given the power of the postal workers union, the management has been able to effect the economies which have put the agency even temporarily in the black.

A Smooth Ride Can Be

WASHINGTON-Misunderstandings about how to save on our auto gas bills seem to be multiplying even faster than gas conservation tips.

In truth, many of the "facts" I'm being told about gasoline consumption these days are frighteningly inaccurate-a most deplorable trend in view of the probable price-supply outlook. To il-

Q. Should you let your car engine idle while waiting for some purpose instead of stopping and

A. No. Contrary to advice you'll receive, if you must keep your car running for more than 30 seconds, you'll save more gas by turning off your ignition than by keeping your car running.

Q. To conserve gas on long trips, should you avoid turning on the car's air conditioner?

A. NO. MANY THINK that air conditioning systems consume a lot of gas, and they do when you are forced into stop-and-start city driving.

But when driving at highway speeds in latemodel cars, you'll save more gas by rolling up your windows and turning on your air conditioner. The reason: The wind rushing through your windows as you cruise along an open highway acts as a drag, slowing you down and compelling you to use more gas to keep up your speed than you would consume by running your air conditioner. Q. Who is right? My automobile maintenance manual advises that I inflate my tires with about 27 pounds of air pressure, but the tire manufacturer recommends I use more, about 35 pounds.

A. YOU ARE BETTER off taking your tire manufacturer's advice, says Atlantic Richfield Co., which has gathered information both from government and industry sources on the best ways to conserve gasoline.

Underinflated tires can give you a smooth ride (the explanation for your automaker's tip), but they also can reduce your mileage by one mile per gallon and cause treads to wear faster.

Q. What are the basic guides to help save on

A. Learning to consume less gas is a little like learning to lose weight, offers my associate, Brooke Shearer, who lives in an area in Washington, D.C., where she must depend on a car for transportation.

If you really want to save both on gas and calories, you must adopt a new set of attitudes and

ON AUTOS, THESE attitudes include taking proper care of your car.

Have your mechanic regularly check plugs, points, thermostat, anti-pollution equipment, filters, wheel alignment and bearings.

As little as two fouled plugs, claims ARCO's conservation experts, can cost 20 percent of your gas consumption. Buy radial tires, if you can afford them.

The good habits which you must develop in-

* Trip planning: Combine short trips to the grocery, dry cleaner, movie theater, drugstore, etc. The worst mileage performance is registered on trips of 10 miles or less in a car which hasn't been driven for several hours. Try to avoid starting the car just to move it into the garage.

 Minimize resistance: In addition to keeping your windows closed when driving at highway speeds, avoid driving with a permanent roof rack.

· Drive smoothly: Avoid jackrabbit starts and tailgating. More gas is used accelerating than cruising.

cars, the optimum cruising speed is between 40 and 50 miles per hour. When law and safety permit you to reach this speed, keep a light foot on the accelerator.

NONE OF THESE conservation tips (which should be far better known and obeyed than they are) will produce dramatic gasoline bill savings. But the small amounts will add up. To what?

If you are at all similar to the Department of Energy's "average driver," you use about 800 gallons of gas each year. By following merely these gas-saving rules, you'll use 160 fewer gallons of gas a year

Multiply by the price per gallon at your local gas pump and you have the total savings. Not to

LOU GRAVE

The old philosopher would have had a tough time on the American campaign trail, but his search might at last have been crowned with success. Bob Dole is his kind of guy. The senior senator from Kansas, vice presidential nominee with Gerald Ford three years ago, is running for the Republican nomination. At least he is jogging for it. In most of the polls he ranks two points behind None of the Above. His campaign isn't broke, exactly, but next month it will qualify for food

At this point does he have any realistic hope of winning? "No," he says. Hey, Diogenes! Bring your lantern over here.

IT'S MUCH TOO early to venture certain predictions on which of the candidates will win the most votes. It's not at all difficult to say who will have the most fun. Dole takes politics seriously, but not too damned seriously. If wit and candor alone could win delegates, he could head for Detroit next summer with a bagful. Dole had breakfast one morning last week with a dozen senior correspondents. It was an altogether happy way to start a day. The senator talked soberly about the situation in the TV audience was tuned to an old movie.

February. There'll be a cake with 69 candles." Was there much political hay to be harvested on the SALT II treaty? After all, a reporter remarked, a nationwide poll found that only 36 percent of the people even knew it was a treaty be-that 'turnover. What was the status of a key aide in the Midwest? Dole didn't know. "He quits a lot," he said. Where was the aide at this very moment? Dole couldn't say. "He hasn't written home in some time.

The conversation got back to Reagan, for whom Dole had muted praise. In the 1976 campaign, he recalled, the California governor had been more helpful than the Ford people would admit.

'OF COURSE." SAID Dole, "he kept forgetting the names on our ticket. I was always having to show him our buttons This time around Reagan is so far out in front

Team Hopes To Recover Victims

(UPI) - An advance team today set up polar tents on an icy volcanic slope near the Antarctic site of the crashed DC-10 jetliner to set the stage for the difficult recovery and identification of the 257 vic-inferno and we estimate only 50 to 60 bodies will be recovered," the advance team of New Zealanders said from the crash scene on the 14,000-foot mountain, the South Pole's most active volcano.

Other officials thought as many as 100 bodies could be recovered, but they feared many of them may have exploded into pieces when the plane crashed or may have slipped into volcanic crevasses.

The cause of the Wednesday crash was not immediately known. But, judgbris, some officials said the crash might have been caused by a navigational error.

The team reported only about a halfdozen sections of the Air New Zealand jetliner, which slammed into the side of the mountain while on a 5,000-mile sightseeing trip of the Antarctic, remained intact.

The identifiable pieces of wreckage were the tail section, a portion of the fuselage, a section of wheels, part of a wheel, and the galley and stove

Retired Texas Teacher Killed In Antarctic Airplane Crash

By The Associated Press

For Frances Hance, a retired teacher who used to read to her second grade students about Adm. Richard E. Byrd's expeditions, her journey to Antarctica was the "trip of a lifetime.

For her and an East Texas couple -Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson of Kemp - it was their last. They were among the 21 Americans aboard that sightseeing flight which crashed into a volcano and killed all 257 aboard.

The Thompsons had gone to New Zealand to visit friends. Thompson, 56, a retired meteorologist, and his wife, Billie, 51, had lived on Cedar Creek Lake the past three years, said a neighbor, Wallace O'Neal. They left the United States about two months ago and planned to return in four or five months, O'Neal said.

Mrs. Hance, from the Panhandle town of Booker, began planning her trip to the South Pacific a month before her retirement last May after 25 years.

Her plans were amended to include a special excursion - the sightseeing trip over the icy continent once explored by

The trip to the Antarctic wasn't on her itinerary. It was something she wanted to do," said her daughter, Mrs. Ilene Collins of Booker, who received a postcard from her mother Tuesday telling

"I can see her now fulfilling something she had taught her kids all these years, finally getting to see the South Pole. She frequently read her students stories of Admiral Byrd's historic voyage." Byrd flew over the Pole in 1929. Mrs. Hance had gone to the South land investigators who will be joined later by an American team, including Dennis Grossi of the U.S. National Transportation Safety Board

Robert Thompson, head of the Antarctica division of New Zealand's Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, said the plane might have approached the mountain too low and from the wrong side.

"The ridge itself is about 7,000 feet, so it would have to gain altitude very quickly to heave out over the ridge, and then it would have been in fact on the wrong side of Ross Island," Thompson

Milton Wylite, chief investigator of aircraft accidents for the New Zealand Ministry of Transport, said the key to the accident investigation will be the flight data recorder aboard the DC-10.

The crash was the third this year for the McDonnell-Douglas manufactureed jetliner and the fourth worst air crash in history. DC-10s also crashed in Chicago and Mexico City.

The U.S.-New Zealand team that included identification experts, mountaineers. Federal Aviation Administration inspectors and officials from McDonnell Douglas and General Electric, the plane's engine manufacturer, leave Mc-Murdo Sound for the crash site Sunday.

Unnamed officers attached to U.S. Operation Deep Freeze, headquartered in Christchurch, were critical of New Zealand's handling of the recovery effort, saving some of the New Zealand members of the team weren't experienced enough in Antarctic conditions.

Tower Makes Results Of DOE Study Public

WASHINGTON (Special) - U.S. Sen. John Tower today made public a summary of the findings of a Department of Energy staff study which Tower charged DOE officials refused to publish for fear it might undercut President Carter's campaign for a windfall profits tax on oil companies.

The study was made available to Tower only after repeated requests to the DOE and a threat to sue the agency under the Freedom of Information Act, a spokesman for the senator said.

"This DOE staff study provides abundant evidence of the fact, despite all of the political demagoguery to the contrary, that U.S. oil companies are no more profitable than other U.S. companies," Tower said.

The senior Texas senator said the study "exposes the Carter tax proposal for what it is and always has been - "a punitive, politically inspired tax designed to cripple private industries' energy development efforts while raising hundreds of billions in additional taxes to expand an already bloated federal government."

Tower said the results of this current study are similar to those contained in the 1977 DOE report which the Texas senator, in his own words, quotes he pried loose from DOE only after considerable difficulty and delay.

Tower said that both this episode and he 1977 experience reveal clearly "that this self-professed 'open administration' really has no compunction whatever about suppressing information that might prove embarrassing.

Employees Suspected In Bank Funds Theft

EDISON, N.J. (AP) - The disappearance of $1 million in cash and checks from the First National State Bank vault over the weekend may have been an inside job, police say.

'There was no forced entry. That indicates the person had the knowledge of the keys that had to be used," Edison Police Sgt. George Berrue said this week after questioning bank workers.

Crisis In Iran Nearing End?

By ROBERT B. CULLEN WASHINGTON (AP) - How long can the crisis in Iran continue? Several critical factors point to the possibility that the stalemate will be broken, for better or worse, early next week. One factor is the health of the deposed Shah of Iran. By mid-week his doctors were suggesting he might be able to would like to return to Mexico. If he does, the proximate cause for the seizure of the American hostages in Tehran will be removed.

travel by this weekend. He has said he

That in itself would not mean the hostages' release, of course. No one at the State Department claims to know what impact it would have. The hostages' captors have in fact threatened to make their lot worse if the shah goes anywhere but to Iran.

But if there are rational men among them, they perhaps will realize that the United States cannot extradite a man no longer within its borders.

The next factor is the Iranian political and religious calendar. Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect is now observing the month of Moharram, a period roughly analagous to the Christian observance of Lent.

It commemorates the 7th century martyrdom of the Iman Hossein, whom Shiites believe is the proper successor to the prophet Mohammed. Moharram climaxes today with the observance of the Ashura, a holy day.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, for whom politics and religion are one, has scheduled the national referendum on his new constitution for Sunday, while the religious fervor is at its peak.

The new constitution was written by the Shiite clergy. Critics say it would formally turn Iran into a theocracy, ruled by the clergy. If Khomeini has had a rational purpose for whipping Iran into a fervor, it may be to insure a favorable vote on the constitution.

Once Moharram and the referendum are over, it is possible Khomeini will find the time ripe to end the crisis.

A third factor is the United Nations. The United States is committed to seeking a Security Council resolution calling for the release of the hostages. It will probably get one this weekend. Then, international etiquette would demand that Iran be given a day or two to answer.

If the answer is negative as expected, President Carter will be in a new position by the middle of next week. Having tried peaceful, diplomatic measures, he will have to decide whether more forceful steps are warranted.

A fourth factor is Carter's plan to announce on Dec. 4 his intention to run for re-election. The announcement was to be followed by a gala series of fund-raising

The dinners and the panoply can be postponed for a while. What cannot be postponed is the inevitability that, starting in January, the voters will be judging Carter's leadership. He and his advisers realize that the president's handling of the Iran crisis will be the dominant factor in their minds.

The confluence of all four factors may bring the drama to a climax. But no one can predict whether it will have a happy

Perhaps an embargo or a naval blockade by the United States would snap Iran to its senses. But in a country where the leaders talk constantly of martyrdom, there is no guarantee that it would.

The Iranians might decide to end it by putting the hostages on trial. Some State Department analysts foresee a quick "show trial," perhaps held in the embassy, with the verdicts a foregone conclu-

The only certainty is that there are pitifully few avenues that seem likely to lead to the release of the hostages and fewer still that promise anything but trouble for the United States in the vital Persian Gulf area.

Writer Recalls Visit To Tibet

LHASA, Tibet (AP) — Our stay in Tibet, for those of you who conspired to miss my little talk at Rotary, began like a Chinese remake of "Lost Horizon," the Columbia Pictures weepie promulgated by Frank Capra.

The plane, a Russian copy of the old Lockheed Electra four-engine prop-jet blew two tires on landing at Gun Ga airport and rolled to a smoky, spark-sputtering stop on wobbly rims bent badly out of shape.

In the film, out stepped the mustachioed figure of Hugh Conway, Oxford-bred British foreign service officer as played by the dashing, debonair Ronald Colman. In the real life spinoff, out stepped Hugh Mulligan, dashing AP columnist whose forested upper lip is perhaps more suggestive of a cross between Oliver Hardy and a Louisiana catfish.

Hugh Conway, if you recall the James Hilton novel, was a victim of the world's first hijacking in fact or fiction. Although fewer than a couple of thousand Westerners have visited Tibet in its entire recorded history, our arrival on the roof of the world was throughly programed and normal, discounting the fire engines racing across the gravel runway. We were guests of the China News

Hugh Conway on his first morning in the high Himalayas awoke to the tinkling strains of "gavotte by Rameau" played on the harpsichord by the ravishing Manchu maiden Lo-Tsen, who at the time was 97 years old but in that timeless paradise didn't look a day over 18.

Our first day began with music, too: martial notes blared over the loudspeakers in the courtyard of our guest house for the chamber maids to do their morning exercises by. Yet it was all there: the jagged peaks, the cobalt blue sky, the lung-bursting rarified air at 12,600 feet that, just as the novel promised produced the "combination of mental clarity and physical apathy . .. which seemed of all sensations the most truly civilized.'

Here is the loftiest, least hospitable place on Earth, the thin air had the dream-like texture that Hugh Conway, alias Ronald Colman, experienced. You felt the tempo of life slacken till there was time for clairvoyant mediation over a steaming mug of yak butter tea, which Hilton's hero describes at first sip as "slender, elusive, recondite, a ghostly bouquet that haunted rather than lived on the tonque." He neglected to mention it had the color and consistency of linseed oil and smelled like a bin full of old saddles.

Shangri-la, it became all too apparent, the place was not.

The nearest hot shower was 800 miles to the east. Since the Chinese Liberation Army came over the mountain wall in 1951, the Valley of the Blue Moon has become the Valley of the Blue Thermos Bottle. Boiled water for shaving and drinking in a land without central heating is deposited regularly at your door. Most of the lamas, regrettably, have taken it on the lama, following the example of the Dalli Lama, who fled in 1959.

Before the Chinese communists took over, there were 2,711 lamaseries in Tibiet. Only 10 still exist but have been more or less turned into agricultural communes, since the shaven-headed priesthood must put in a full day's work at the business end of a yak before whirling their prayer wheels.

Before liberation, as our Chinese hosts called it, there were 120,000 lamas hereabouts. Something like 20 per cent of the male population entered religious orders, vowing themselves to a life of poverty ad celibacy and never eating fish or meat or even eggs out of respect for Buddha's indult to kill no living thing.

The lamaist belief is that we are all bound to the great wheel of life in an eternity of lives and deaths. Hatred, greed and lust bind you to the great wheel of life and only by conquering them can a man achieve Nirvana, the state of total bliss. Women cannot achieve Nirvana unless reincarnated, born again as men. The lamas took 250 vows to overcome the 84,000 "base human passions" that blocked the 15 differerent ways to attaining Nirvana

Today there are fewer than 2,000 lamas left in Tibet, and the new philosphy of life is spelled out for the people everywhere in the slogan "Great Leap Forward in Tibet." The land that rejected the wheel, except for the prayer wheel, before the 20th century, never knew glazed windows before World War II and refused to scar the earth with coal mines or big construction sites for fear of disturbing the earth gods is bustling with Chinese-built housing blocks, schools, theaters, small industries, stadiums, army barracks and hospitals.

"Our prominent belief is in moderation," Chang, the host lama, explained Shangri-la to Hugh Conway, then added with a pointed reference to the lovely Lo-Tsen, "The women of the valley have happily applied the principle of moderation to their own chastity.'

Most of us spent our days in Lhasa in a moderately passionate embrace with our canvas oxygen bags. But there was a lovely Chinese maid, a 23-year-old charmer from the Xinhua news agency named Miss Lieu, who led the forced cultural marches to the Jokka Kang, the exquisite temple built in the 7th century for the arrival of a Chinese princess, to the enormous Drepung lamasery which once had 10,300 monks and now has less than 300 and to the Potala, the 999-room winter palace of the Dalai Lama, two-thirds, as high as the Empire State building but with ladders instead of elevators for viewing its 10,000 chap-

Enough of the old Tibet remained to make even that hairy landing worthwhile. There were still the moon-washed courtyards, the anesthetizing tranquility of those 21/2-mile high mountains, chain-like suspension bridges right out of an old Tarzan movie, colorful, friendly natives in sheepskin robes and high trilnats, and killer kites, floating high in that soft lapis blue sky. Kite flying is the sport of nobles in Tibet. Lines of stout twine are treated with a compound of glue, powdered glass and old razor blades to cut down an opponent

Time in Tibet seemed suspended, frozen like the surrounding glaciers, until Miss Lieu transcended our transcendental mediations with the chirpy order: Now we get on the bus and go see Agricultural Scientific Research Commune built by People's Republic Of China in 1961.

Court-Martial Hearing Set For Marine

week to determine whether Pfc. Robert Garwood should be court-martialed for martial should be held. alleged desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam

Brig. Gen. David B. Barker signed an order Thursday calling for an Article 32 hearing - equivalent to a civilian grand jury proceeding. The hearing, based on a military investigation begun when Garwood returned to the United States from Vietnam earlier this year, is to begin Tuesday at Camp Lejeune.

If court-martialed and convicted of either charge, the 33-year-old Marine, who spent 131/2 years in Vietnam, could be sentenced to death.

Garwood has been at Camp Lejeune, working as a mail clerk, since last May. He has denied the allegations against him, contending he was captured in 1965 and held as a prisoner until last March.

Garwood was originally accused of deserting on Sept. 22, 1965, when he disappeared while serving as a jeep driver near Danang. Schmidt said he now is accused of deserting in 1967 during a time

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farmers have built more than 1.4 billion bushels of storage the past two years under a government loan program intended to help them keep wheat, corn and other crops on their farms until they get ready

According to the latest Agriculture Department figures, 67,590 loans were made in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30. Those totaled $678.9 million and enabled farmers to build about 684.6 million bushels of new storage. In the previous year, the program involved 75,881 loans for $646.4 million and a storage capacity of 753.7 million bushels, according to a report provided at the request of The Associated Press. The Food and Agriculture Act of 1977

liberalized the loan program, allowing farmers to borrow enough to build storage for two years of production. Previously, the loans were limited to a oneyear harvest More than 4.1 billion bushels of grain

Last April. 74 cranes left Texas and Johnson said Canadian officials reported seven chicks were hatched during the

So we could have as many as 81, Johnson said. Of the 75 cranes counted, he said 69 are adults and the other six are young birds. Female cranes lay only two eggs a season.

The whooping cranes nearly died out during the 1930s, but scientists took steps to build up the only known flock.

Johnson said now there are between 120 and 126 whooping cranes left in the world, including 26 in captivity and 16 in the only other wild flock, which migrates between New Mexico and Idaho

The largest cranes in North America spend their summers in the 11-millionicre Wood Buffalo Park in northern Alberta before flying south to the much smaller, 54,000-acre refuge here.

Johnson said recent oil spills have not reached the cranes' winter nesting area.

Fortunately the outer islands caught most of the brunt of the oil spill," he said. "The bays and marshes which the cranes use are safe from the oil, so far.

Glad You Asked That!

Q: We notice in most of the news photos of President Carter still too shy to go out on a dance floor. that he seems to have lost quite a bit of weight campaigning to keep his job. Have you any idea of how much weight he's lost?

Q: In that new basketball movie, "The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh," I've read that one of the players is James Bond III. Which James Bond are they referring to, Roger Moore or Sean Connery? - Mrs. Ann Lombard, Jersey City, N.J.

A: Neither, since the character "James Bond" is fictional and is the creation of the writer of the series, Ian Fleming. In this film, the young man listed as James Bond III is a personable black actor named Tyrone Millman. His zany astrological scheme leads his slumping basketball team on to victory in the United Artists release. Drug Firm Opposes FDA Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - The manufacturer of Ilosone, a widely used penicillin substitute, is opposing the government's decision to seek its removal from the marketplace.

The Food and Drug Administration said this week it would conduct administrative proceedings into solid dosage forms of Ilosone because of its potential for liver damage

Eli Lilly and Company, manufacturer of the drug, quickly issued a statement asserting that the drug is safe and effective when used as prescribed. Ilosone has been used for 21 years, the company said. with no evidence of permanent side effects or deaths.

'The FDA has embarked upon a course of action that could deny physicians the right to prescribe Ilosone and is proceeding without reviewing all scientific evidence," Lilly said.

Firm Builds Mammoth Tractors

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) - Farming is big business nowadays. The "Big Bud" tractor is proof of that. The Big Bud, manufactured in Havre, a town of 15,000 not far from the Canadian border, is reputed to be the largest tractor in the world. With eight tires that are each 8 feet high, the Big Bud lives up to its name. It's 17 feet high, 22 feet wide, 28 feet long. Depending on the model, the tractor weights 45,000 to 60,000 pounds. It carries 550 gallons of diesel fuel. The success story of the Big Bud, it could be said, is based on the principle

'Fuel is a major thing we talk about now because you're much more efficient with a big unit (tractor) than you are with several smaller units," says Ron Harmon, 32, chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Big Bud Tractors Inc.

Harmon says the result is less fuel consumption per acre. And "you got one driver, you got one engine to worry about" in the field, instead of several drivers and engines that would be necessary when using the smaller tractors to cover roughly the same acreage, Harmon

Production at Big Bud doubled every year thereafter, although it leveled off, expectedly, in 1979.

About 500 of the giant tractors are scattered around the world. Markets for the Big Bud include Australia, the Middle East, Canada and Mexico...

More Big Bud machines are sold in Hawaii than any other tractor model. Harmon says.

Harmon figures that Big Bud has found a "niche of our own," one that the major tractor manufacturers cannot match because it is costly and takes five to eight years for the majors to "tool up" for model changes.

"We can change much quicker than anyone else, to meet the demand in the field, plus we can afford to build a lot fewer units per model and fill a market for the entrepreneur in farming," says Harmon. "The major manufacturer just

FDA Seeking Ban Against Popular Drug

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Food and Drug Administration Thursday proposed a ban on capsule and tablet forms of a popular prescription antibiotic, saying the drug could cause liver damage. The drug involved, erythromycin estolate, is sold by Eli Lilly and Co. under the brand name "Ilosone" and by Danbury Pharmacal Inc. under its generic name. It is used to treat respiratory and other infections.

Dr. J Richard Crout, head of the FDA's Bureau of Drugs, said two recent studies have cast doubt on the previously held idea that the antibiotic is more fully absorbed by the blood stream than other forms of erythromycin. Since it is "well known" that liver damage can occur, he added, "There is no longer any basis for its continuance on the market.

The liver damage caused by erythromycin estolate occurs primarily in adults and heals after the drug is discontinued. People taking erythromycin estolate who are concerned about this risk should consult their physicians," he said.

'Alternative antibiotics are available that are equally effective but that do not carry the same degree of risk of liver

Lilly issued a statement saying that more than 33 million treatments of Ilosone have been administered in recent years and "only 258 cases of possible liver disorders associated with use of the drug were reported to the company or were published in the medical literature. There were no reports of evidence of lasting adverse damage The company said it was urging doctors to continue prescribing the drug because, it pointed out, the FDA ban is only in the proposal stage and the issue will not be resolved for some time.

September Flash Remains Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP) - It looks like the big bang of Sept. 22 over the South Atlantic will turn out to be the bomb that never was.

Carter administration officials said this week it is unlikely a scientific panel formed to report on the incident will be able to say for sure what a flash detected by a satellite Sept. 22 really was. There were early indications it was a low-yield nuclear test, but there has been no evidence to support that view. Scientists at the New Zealand Institute of Nuclear Sciences said this week that "new measurements ... do not confirm our earlier results" which indicated radioactive fallout that could have come from a late Sep-

CHARLESTOWN, N.H. (Special) -The Student Conservation Association is accepting applications for its 1980 volunteer programs in more than 70 national parks and forests, and other public and private conservation and recreation areas in the United States.

Programs for high school and college students are offered in the spring, summer, fall and additionally, a number of winter positions are available in the college program.

High School Work Groups, open to young men and women 16 to 18 years old, offer group work and recreation experiences for three or four weeks. Volunteers participate in groups of 10 to 12, under William Hudson Jr., surrendered following an exchange of gunfire Monday night with Kankakee County sheriff's police. He was hit in the cheek by a shotgun pellet.

A sheriff's office spokesman said Hudson was expected to appear at a delinquency hearing today and be charged with murder, armed violence and aggravated battery. Authorities will ask Hudson be tried as an adult.

Police found his cousin, James Hudson, 15, dead inside the house.

Hudson's father, William Hudson Sr., 45. was in fair condition at St. Mary's Hospital. A brother, Renaldo, 15, was in serious condition. Both fled the home in a car before police arrived.

Evelyn Clark, 38, a wheelchair-confined aunt who lived with the Hudsons in rural St. Anne, was shot in the left side. She was in critical condition at Riverside Medical Center in Kankakee.

Also in critical condition at Riverside was cousin Rhonda Hudson, 12, who was shot in the chest and head. In fair condition were two other Hudson cousins Melinda, 8, and David, 11 - both shot in

Wells Fargo Truck Held Up By Gunmen

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) - Two Wells Fargo guards taking a coffee break at a cafe were surprised by five gunmen who unloaded 23 sacks containing $203,-000 from an armored truck and fled, authorities said.

Officers said no one was injured and the bandits did not fire any shots in Wednesday's holdup. Chief Deputy Dewey Chastain said the robbers were armed with three shotguns, a carbine and auto-skilled adult leadership. Two or three weeks are devoted to conservation work and the remaining time is spent hiking and exploring the area. Each group is composed of both men and women, and includes participants from all over the United States.

Work assignments often include tasks such as trail maintenance, revegetation, boundary fencing and shelter and bridge construction. Groups live in tent camps during the project. Work projects and compsites are usually located in the backcountry.

Although volunteers receive no salary, the program does provide supervision, food and group equipment. Partici-

But monitoring calls to the station, Frankhouser said that about 70 percent were in favor of the flag-burning and about 30 percent were against it. The 30 percent was a large enough group to convince him to cancel it, he said.

KLLL-radio still plans a patriotic rally at the Lubbock Speedway at 5 p.m. Saturday. Patriotic singing and speaking, sans flag-burning, will be included on the program. We expect to show our government we're behind them 100 percent," Frankhouser said.

President Carter has asked people to show their concern for the hostages by ringing church bells every day at noon until the hostages are freed. Very few churches are built with bells any more, and the few contacted in Lubbock appeared unaware of the President's request oil companies if they can win assurance no other increase will be approved.

Some senators who are sponsoring other amendments that would add an additional $60 billion or so to the tax have indicated support for the bargain.

But no agreement is in hand yet and, is a result. Senate action on the bill is being blocked for the third day

Following a day of closed-door nego-tiations Thursday, Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd took the tax bill off this morning's agenda to allow time for more bargaining. He said he is optimistic the stalemate can be broken later

At the heart of the impasse is an amendment by Sens. John Chafee. R-R.I., and Bill Bradley, D-N.J., that would increase from 60 percent to 75 percent the "windfall" tax rate on "new" oil that from fields discovered since 1973. Such new oil, which is owned mainly by the major oil companies, represents 60 percent of current U.S. production. The Senate refused earlier in the week to kill the amendment, and the 58-39 vote indicated it was likely to pass. But Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and other oil-state members began talking against the proposal and blocked a vote on it.

After a round of negotiations, Dole said Thursday that he and his allies might give in and take the Chafee-Bradlev amendment if they could be assured other proposals for toughening the tax would be dropped.

Chafee agreed, but said he could speak for no other senator on his side. Byrd was pressing hardest for an end to the stalemate, but he said the Senate would deserve the scorn of Americans if it failed to toughen the "windfall profits"

"I've never been one ... to use the oil ompanies as a whipping boy ... but this institution has a duty to raise the revenues in this bill," Byrd said. "The American people expect the Senate to do that.

If the Senate failed, it would become the target of justifiable criticism, Byrd The Carter administration also is urging that the tax be increased and is supporting three pending amendments that would add an estimated $60 billion to the 11-year total. Those amendments would impose a 20 percent tax on various types of oil that the Senate Finance Committee voted to exempt, subject oil owned by the states to the tax, and make a part of the tax per-

Divorce Given To Spy's Niece

LONDON (UPI) - The niece of confessed Soviet spy Anthony Blunt has been granted a divorce in what a judge calls an "Alice in Wonderland" case.

Justice Anthony Lincoln heard architect Julian Mustoe and his wife, Judith. testify this week they loved each other and continued to live with each other after their divorce petition was filed.

But the judge granted Mrs. Mustoe a divorce because of what he called her husband's "unreasonable behavior."

Mustoe, 42, claimed his wife agreed when they were married 17 years ago that they both would be free to have extramarital sex

The couple's testimony that they still loved each other, the judge said, "added to the Alice in Wonderland magic" of the

Mrs. Mustoe, 38, is the niece of Anthony Blunt, a former art adviser to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, whose confession as a Soviet spy was revealed in the House of Commons earlier this month.

Iranians Set Precedent In Taking Of Hostages

By The Associated Press

Each time, there are shudders. Each time, the questions are asked: Why? When will it end? And how?

From a small Dutch village to the capital of the United States, violence and terrorism have brought horror, captivity and sometimes death.

There was no killing in the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranian students. Never before, however, have the horror and the captivity lasted so long as they have for the Americans held hostage there since Nov. 4.

Never before, has a government been behind it all. "For a government to applaud mob violence and terrorism, for a government actually to support and in effect participate in the taking and the holding of hostages, is unprecedented in human history," said President Carter.

Until now, the dubious record for the lengthiest siege was held by the South Moluccans, a group seeking independ-nesia that was formerly a Dutch colony.

On May 23, 1977, a group of South Moluccans seized a commuter train near the village of Assen in northern Holland. Simultaneously, another group took over a school about 12 miles away. Among the hostages at the school were more than

The children were freed on May 27 after they were stricken with a stomach infection, but four people at the school and 51 on the train were kept captive until June 11 when Dutch commando teams struck in twin raids. Six of the 13 terrorists were killed, along with two of the hostages from the train.

Less than three months earlier, in Washington, D.C., a dozen Hanafi Moslem terrorists involved in a feud with a rival Black Muslims group, took 134 hostages at three separate sites - the Islamic Center, the B'nai B'rith headquarters and the District Building - and held them captive for 38 hours before surrendering. One person was killed and four were wounded before the Hanafis laid down their guns.

For millions of people, the realities of terrorism were brought home by the massacre of Israeli athletes at the 1972 Olympics in Munich, West Germany.

Eight Palestinian terrorists sneaked into the athletes' sleeping quarters, killed two Israelis and took nine others hostage. They demanded a flight to the Middle East and freedom for comrades iailed in Israel. German officials took the Palestinians and their captives, by helicopter, to a military airport where sharpshooters waited to try to pick off the Palestinians after they left the helicopter. The marksmen hit only two terrorists; one of the other six tossed a grenade into the helicopter where the Israelis, remained, bound and blindfolded. All nine died before the terrorists were captured. The West Germans later formed a rorists. Its first operation was at Mogadishu, Somalia, in October 1977.

Four Arab terrorists had hijacked a Lufthansa Airlines Boeing 737 with more than 80 persons aboard as it was en route from Mallorca to Frankfurt on Thursday, Oct. 13. The attack was staged in conjunction with the Sept. 5 kidnapping of industrialist Hans-Martin Schleyer in Cologne. Schleyer's kidnappers and the men who held the plane demanded the same thing: Freedom for a dozen terrorists in West German jails.

The plane flew to Rome, Nicosia, Bahrain, Abu Dhabi, Aden - where the chief pilot was killed - and finally, on Monday, to Mogadishu.

The commandos arrived early Tuesday. They stormed the plane, killed three of the hijackers, wounded the fourth and freed the 86 hostages, 11 of whom were injured. The next day, Schleyer was found dead, in the trunk of a car in Mulfor the crime remain at large.

An Isráeli commando team performed a rescue in Africa more than a year before the Mogadishu raid. On June 27, 1976, two Palestinians and a man and a woman from West Germany commandeered an Air France plane after it stopped in Athens to refuel on a flight from Tel Aviv to Paris. The hijacked plane was refueled again in Libya, then flown to Entebbe, Uganda, where more Palestinians joined the terrorists. The hijackers demanded the release of 53 prisoners from jails in five countries and set a deadline of July 1. They freed 148 hostages before the deadline arrived, then, still holding 94 Jewish passengers and 12 Air France crew members, extended the deadline

On July 3. an Israeli commando team landed at Entebbe Airport, shot two Ugandan guards and burst into the terminal building where the hostages were held. Within 53 minutes, the hostages were aboard Israeli planes, on their way home. One commando was killed. Seven

They traded about a dozen hostages for safe conduct to Lanarca Airport on the southern coast of Nicosia and, once there, took off in a Cyprus Airways plane with a volunteer crew of four and 11 hostages. News reports early Thursday indicated the House members had endorsed a resolution calling for Carter to establish a deadline for U.S. military action to win the release of the American hostages held captive in the American embassy in Tehran if all peaceful efforts fail. Those reports drew a flurry of controversy throughout public and private sectors.

House Democratic Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth said he felt that resolution "might be harmful" at this time, while Rep. Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he feels the resolution "is ill-advised, untimely and would jeopardize the lives of the hos-

Carter said during a televised news conference Wednesday night that he "cannot set a deadline for fear of endangering the lives of the hostages.

George Bush Claims To Have Social Conscience Despite Wealth

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) - Presidential hopeful George Bush is as conservative as the rest of the Republican field in such areas as economics, defense and foreign policy. But he says that doesn't mean he lacks social conscience.

Bush comes from a wealthy New England family and he went on to build a fortune of his own in the oil business. But he said in a UPI interview his concern for the poor and downtrodden in America is not a function of his $1.8 million net

"I hope that's irrelevant, because I hope social consciousness is not either the domain of the wealthy or those who aren't," Bush said. "I have always been concerned about people. I've hurt when somebody else has hurt. I've been con-

Sen. John Tower accused the Carter administration Thursday of transferring the district director of the Lubbock Small Business Administration to Fargo. N.D., to create a politically beneficial vacancy in the local office.

And former Lubbock SBA director Phil O'Jibway is considering filing a complaint with the Civil Service Commission detailing the questionable circumstances of his transfer.

Tower released a statement late Thursday accusing the Carter administration of abuses in the civil service commission by "interjecting politics into unprecedented levels of the federal employment structure." He referred to a "thinly veiled plot" by the SBA to create massive vacancies in middle management ranks through the random reshuffling of SBA directors throughout the nation.

"Among the more glaring examples of such pointless personnel changes,' Tower charged, "is the transfer of the SBA district director in Lubbock to Fargo, N.D. ...An immediate, and no doubt intended, result of these transfers has been the premature resignation or retirement of many experienced career empointees from a previous administration. The creation of the vacancy leaves room for a person of the Carter administration's choice, the spokesman said.

"It is no coincidence that hiring of new personnel for these key positions comes at a time when the administration has publicly demanded the political loyalty of all senior government officials, Tower's statement said.

As explained by both Tower and O'Jibway, the transfer was attributed to an SBA "rotation" policy, geared to give SBA directors varied geographical and managerial experience. But Tower questions the rotation policy because it was instituted by Paul D. Sullivan, associate deputy administrator of the SBA, who was executive director of the Democratic National Committee immediately before joining the SBA

Basically, I was notified that I was to be involved in this rotation policy, O'Jibway explained from his North Da kota office. He was told the rotation policy was designed to give people geographic experience, which O'Jibway apparently already has.

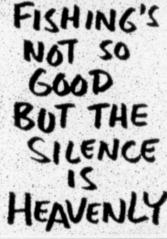

"I was led to believe...based on a memorandum...that the transfer was based on an evaluation from my regional adminstrator," O'Jibway said. Because the regional adminstrator was fairly new at the job, O'Jibway furnishd him with a spokesman for Tower's office said it record of his geographic experience, in-would appear that most of those direc-cluding trips to Washington, D.C., and

Theron Cole, chairman of the Human Relations Commission, which originally requested Quirt Avenue be renamed after King, leveled his major criticism at the way the council handled the action on honoring King.

Cole said the original suggestion of renaming the street "was not dealt with except by omission.

We thought an appropriate honor would be the naming of a street, but I assume this is rejection of that idea," he

Because no vote actually was taken on the street renaming, Cole said council members never publicly took a stand on

Cole also said the council's decision to unexpectedly take action on honoring King during the lunch hour deprived many of the opportunity to show their support for renaming the street.

Cole acknowledged it "would be a feather in anybody's cap to get the city to honor King," but said, "the issue of renaming Quirt was not handled straightforwardly and was done by omission.' It was not the intent of the Human Relations Commission to polarize the community, Cole said, although polarization occurred. "We didn't want it to." he said. We just wanted to honor Martin Luther King in a way the citizens felt appro-Cole discounted rumors that the re-

AUSTIN (UPI) - A statewide poll conducted by Texas Monthly Magazine shows voters prefer John Connally in the Republican presidential primary, Edward Kennedy in the Democratic primary, and would narrowly elect Kennedy in the general election.

The poll, released this week, was conducted between Nov. 8-13 among 1,000 Texans and carried a margin of error of plus or minus about 3 percent. Five months away from the Democratic primary, the poll showed Kennedy with 34.6 percent of the vote and President Carter with 33.7 percent, followed by Gov. Jerry Brown of California with

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Talk about your bad timing. Here we are in the middle of an energy crisis when we're getting pressure from all sides to lock our thermostats in at 65 degrees and fashion designers are pushing to bring back the miniskirt. Is it my imagination or is someone's brain in a holding pattern?

The problem is that many of the leading designers are men who have never known how the human anatomy works. It's relatively easy to explain.

The miniskirt covers at best 1/6 of a woman's lower extremities. When the woman bends her knees to sit: down, the tension releases and the skirt in the front goes DOWN. However, because of the angle of the body, the stress in the back becomes more acute as the body bends and the back goes up. By the time the derriere makes contact with seat chair/bench, she is exposing a portion of her body covered only by under-

If the seat/chair/bench is made of plastic, stone, wood or metal, she could slip right into a coma

We're going to have to approach the problem carefully as some women actually liked the miniskirt. I talked the other day to my friend, Donna, who has terrific legs. The only reason I keep her around is for a role model.

'Well, I, for one," she said, "am tickled to death about miniskirts. I've hated those old lady skirts that swirl around your ankles and cover up everything.

That's easy for you to say, Donna, you didn't carry your babies low and get left with flabby knees.

"I don't see why we can't wear what we look terrific in," she pouted.

Then it hit me. "We do it for our country. Heaven knows I've had to sacrifice. I've been buying silk because I can wear it winter and summer and save. I've given up polyester for ultrasuede because polyester is made from petroleum and my country needs the oil. I've bought lush sweaters in natural fibers because they're warmer, and I've given up my entire last year's wardrobe and replaced it with new clothes because they were impractical for the thermostat. How can you indulge yourself in miniskirts when your country needs

When I told my husband about our conversation he said, "Too bad you talked her out of it. Donna could have worn a miniskirt and raised the body temperature of every man in her office building

My husband is 52. We've been married 24 years and have four children. About three years ago my husband lost all interest in the physical side of our marriage. Thinking it was something he couldn't help, I didn't make an issue of it, although I found it very hard to live

Last week he confessed that he is gay! He says he loves me and will never leave me and the children, and he hopes I can put up with a sexless life because he has decided to sacriffice his true nature for the sake of our marriage

Dear Sister: The man who wrote those letters credited his girlfriend with more common sense, discretion and maturity than she possesses. Don't you wonder why your sister wanted to share those letters with you! I do.

Holidays Bring Gift Ideas

NEW YORK (Special) - The holiday season frequently brings fond memories of good times past, and anticipation of get-togethers with family and friends. abundant food and the search for the perfect gifts for those you love. Food has long been a favorite holiday present whether as a crate of fresh fruit, an imported cheese, decorated Christmas cookies or vintage wine. This year take a turn to the exotic in your gift giving with another favorite, pistachio nuts.

Pistachios you ask? These unique nuts, recognized by their precracked smiling shell and rich green nutmeat, were once thought to be only available as imports from the Middle East.

In the shell, pistachios are ideal to give in quaint jars, hand sewn bags tied with bright ribbon, unique "tins", knickknack containers or Christmas stockings They also make creative unbreakable gifts to mail with an assortment of dried fruits to that "hard to buy for" long distance friend or relative.

the preceding Tuesday for articles with ctures and noon the preceding Wednesday for articles only. Only Friday and Saturday weddings will appear on Sunday: wedding announcements must run within five days of the event.

Engagement announcements must be submitted at least five weeks prior to the wedding date.

Unshelled, pistachios make an appetizing addition to a variety of seasonal gifts of cookies, tarts or cakes. 'Pistachio-Date Nut Bread" offers an easy gift-giving idea with a personal homebaked touch. This "shortening-less" quick bread boasts a rich taste with the complementary date and pistachio flavors. The recipe may be doubled or tripled for many small gift giving loaves. And, like fruitcake, it can be frozen for several weeks to enjoy after the holiday leftovers have disappeared.

Create these unique holiday presents this year and you may just start a pistachio nut gift-giving tradition

Bowl tournament held in Rio de Janeiro in October, received a taste of world-class defense rather quickly. This hand is from the first-round match between the United States and the Far East.

East's jump to three hearts was a limit raise and, therefore, not forcing. Brachman, sitting South, now had to make a difficult bid. Since hands with a sixcard major and a five-card side suit usually play very well, we are inclined to applaud Brachman's decision to bid four spades, even though this was not the optimum contract.

Unfortunately, he did not get much of a chance to demonstrate his skill at dummy play. West was C. H. Kuo, and he got the defense off to a flying start by underleading his ace of hearts. When the queen of hearts won the trick, East, Patrick Huang, realized that his partner had underled the ace-East-West were playing five-card major suit opening bids. Since West could have led a lower heart, he presumed that the nine was a suit preference signal, asking for the higher-ranking side suit - diamonds.

Accordingly, Huang shifted to the two of diamondsagain a suit preference signal, showing an entry in clubs. Kuo ruffed and dutifully returned a low club away from his ace to his partner's queen, and a second diamond ruff meant down one.

Despite the deadly defense, the United States gained considerably on the board. In the other room, Billy Eisenberg and Eddie Kantar, for the United States,

Photojournalist Recalls Start

Associated Press Writer

Next to what camera should I buy, the question I'm most often asked is, how do you become a successful photojournalist.

In the old days it was comparatively easy. You went to work for a newspaper as a copy boy, cleaned out the photo lab mixed chemicals, loaded and processed film, made prints, and helped the staff photographers carry their heavy Graflex cases or Big Berthas. Finally, you got to shoot a picture or two that the old timers didn't want to shoot. Eventually you made the staff and began to get better and better assignments

Bob Landry, the late ex-LIFE magazine photographer, once told me of his start which illustrates this.

Bob was working as a lab cleanup boy at a newspaper then run by the late William Randolph Hearst. It was back in the 30s and the working press camera at that time was the 4x5 Graflex.

Hearst had just returned from a trip to Europe and brought back with him a 35mm Leica. He sent it down to the photo lab with word that a man named Solomon was making great pictures with it. He wanted his staff to try it out.

The task fell to Bob, then the junior man. The old timers felt it was beneath their dignity to be seen with this "toy. Bob said

"At first I wasn't sure the thing would work either," Bob explained, "So, for a while, I shot every assignment twice. Once with the Leica and again with the Graflex. I made the print with the 4x5 Graflex negative and sent it upstairs with the 35mm Leica negative attached."

Hearst was enthusiastic about the quality that Bob was getting and Bob got more and better assignments. Eventually he became Hearst's personal photogra-

"By that time I'd learned to use the Leica and didn't have to use the Graflex any more." Bob said.

Bob later became a staffer with LIFE magazine and the 35mm camera has since become the standard in the indus-

But learning to be a photojournalist this way went out with the Speed Graphic. Graflex and Big Bertha. Few newspapers or news organizations any longer maintain a training system for photogra-phers. They now hire the ready-trained

The new route starts with an education - one that includes not only photog-

The next step is to a newspaper, preferably a small one where you'll be expected to do everything - write, take and process your own pictures, edit and crop them, do the layout and maybe even run an engraving machine

It is here you'll begin to develop your news and picture sense and maybe learn enough about the economics of the paper to understand why it's not always possible to run as many pictures as you'd like or as large as you'd like.

If you're lucky, you'll work with an editor who knows good pictures - not just illustrative shots that complement a story, but the eye-stopping feature that will stand alone - and will use them.

You will not be an 8 to 5 photographer. You'll love photography so much that you'll even spend your days off looking for those eye-stoppers.

You'll continue to learn, on your own, by studying the magazines, other newspapers and the wire-service picture report. When you see an eye-stopper, you'll try to duplicate it, not for publication but to learn how it was done so that you can then use that technique to create your own shot later

You'll beg, borrow and sometimes buy new pieces of equipment and learn how to use them. You'll work with different kinds of film, developers and papers and pick the brains of your peers to continually tone your own abilities.

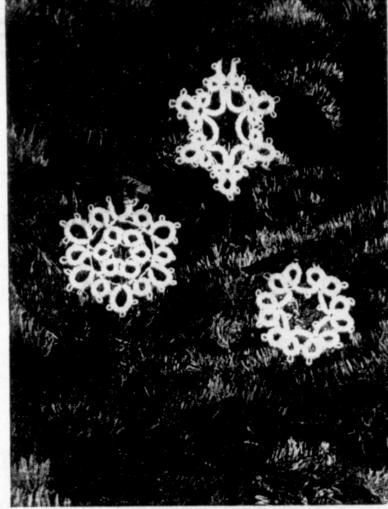

You'll participate in the activities of your press photographer organizations and the activities of your local camera clubs where you'll find many fine photographers who just happen to make their living another way.

Eventually, because you've worked hard and become proficient, vou'll be asked to join the staff of a major daily newspaper. Now the work gets harder.

You'll no longer be working an engraving machine or doing layouts and probably not even editing your own film. You will be shooting a lot more, have a lot of new equipment to master and you'll continue to learn. You'll be enthusiastic about even the lowliest of assignments and always try to do that bread and butter shot a better way.

Then, someday, you will have reached point of proficiency where you'll be asked to join the staff of a major magazine or wire service or make the leap to freelancing with a major picture agency.

It's then that the going gets really tough and the work habit you've formed helps you stay on top of things

Sweating Windows Caused By Colder Temperatures

Associated Press Writer

Q. - We moved into our house a few months ago and never had any trouble with sweating windows, but the past few weeks we have had this problem with one of the bedroom windows. Every window in the house has combination screens and storm windows, the kind that slide up and down in metal channels and are outside the regular double-hung windows. The sweating occurs only on that one inside window. Water forms on the glass and actually runs down the pane onto the sill. It is getting to be a nuisance. What causes this and why does it happen on only a single window?

A. - Every year at this time, more mail is received on the subject of sweating windows than any other. The explanation is always the same. Condensation takes place on windows that have cold surfaces. When warm, moist air settles on such a window, it condenses or sweats. Since this is taking place only on a single window pane, it means that the pane is colder than those in the other windows in the house. Why is it colder? Because cold air from the outside must be getting past the storm window part of the combination unit been closed or did somebody forget to do so? If it is closed, then it isn't airtight. Be certain it has been pulled down all the way and that the top part also is tight Then check around the outside edges of the window and see if there is any air space. Even if there does not appear to be any, apply weatherstripping around the edges. Once cold air fails to get past the storm window (a certain amount will go through the pane, but this should not be sufficient to cause the condition you mention), the pane of the inside window will not get cold. And if it isn't cold, the warm, moist air will not condense on it. In trying to solve any problem connected with condensation, remember the principle that the surface must be cold before the sweating can occur. That's why similar sweating occurs on such things as cold water pipes and toilet tanks with cold

Q. - We recently removed the varnish and stain from an old bedroom bureau. Everything came off all right except a few dark-reddish stains on the top part of the bureau. We have tried everything to take off these stains, including sanding, but without much result although it now is a bit lighter than it was. If we revarnish, will the stain show

- Yes, it' will. You have little choice but to bleach the top of the bureau. Use a commercial bleach that can be purchased in a hardware store, paint store, lumber yard or any establishment

Are you sure the storm window has water in them.

When you deck your house with holly for Christmas, you are using a plant steeped in legend and folklore. If you have holly in your own garden, the holiday period is an excellent time to prune and use cuttings for decorative purposes.

Wreaths made from the shiny-leaved hoffy will retain attractivenessif kept in a coof place. You can water holly arrangements and even though the bright red berries may shrivel, they will hold their color if kept cool.

You won't get berries on your garden holly unless you have male and female plants. The female plant produces the berries. Insects will transfer the pollen.

If you intend to plant your own holly. put it out in spring in a well-drained place with space for it to develop a full shape. Holly prefers acid soil. Plants need little pruning except to train branches or to remove dead or damaged

Most of the holly used for decorations is the English and American type but there are Japanese. Chinese and deciduous varieties. There are hardy varieties now that will do well even in north-

Holly's association with Christmas goes far back, but the plant has played a part in medicine, magic, science and superstition. It was one of the first plants used in pagan worship. Early Britons bethe sun never deserted th holly and considered it a sacred plant. They took it indoors, and believed woodand spirits would follow, taking refuge

A with other thorny plants, holly was believed to repel evil spirits in early Europe. It was thought that holly planted near the doorway kept away evil spirits and enchantments. Branches of holly were hung in stables also in the belief that cattle would thrive.

In Wales, however, there was a belief that if holly was brought into the house before Christmas Eve. there would be family quarrels all year. In Germany and England hollies with thorns were called He hollies, and those with smooth leaves She-hollies. The type brought into the house determined who would dominate

Netherlands Issues New Stamps To Honor Famed Poet, Painter

Associated Press Writer

A poet and a painter who contributed much to the cultural and artistic development of the Netherlands are honored by their country on a pair of stamps commemorating the 300th anniversary of their death. The honorees are poet Joost van den Vondel and painter Jan Steen.

Joost van den Vondel is generally known in Dutch literature as Vondel. He published his first poem in 1605 and five years later his first play, entitled "The Pascha." After his death in 1679, he was accorded the honorary title of "Prince of

The 40-cent stamp honoring Vondel depicts the upper segment of the entrance way to the old Amsterdam Theatre. The inscription reads: "The world is a stage, each man plays his part and gets his share." The colors are grey, red, blue

Jan Steen, the famous Dutch painter, is noted for his works showing tavern scenes. Most of his 800 paintings are on such subjects. Steen has been recognized as one of the top artists of the Dutch

The 45-cent shows a section of his painting "Gay Company" plus the motif of an old Dutch tile floor and the date 1679. The colors are green, blue, yellow, brown and red

The British Post Office has issued a set of four new stamps marking the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Metropolitan Police Force in London. It was in 1829 that Home Secretary Robert Peel secured passage of a bill through Parliament which made possible a single police force for London.

The 10-pence shows a policeman talking to a young boy and girl. The 111/2pence illustrates a policeman directing traffic. The 13-pence depicts a policeman on horseback and the 15-pence pictures police on a patrol boat in the Thames

The well planned use of your fireplace this winter can be a practical complement to your home's heating system. A small fire can provide enough warmth to take the chill out of an early morning or damp evening. When it does, your furnace will work less, saving expensive

Though there are occasions when you may use charcoal, coal or commercial pressed "logs", it's a pretty safe bet that ou, like most, actually prefer to use real wood, according to Popular Mechanics Encylopedia. Thus, with the cost of firewood being what it is today, it's just about a must to know how to select, cut and stack logs as well as how to use them properly in the fireplace.

Softwoods like pine, fir and spruce are easy to ignite and burn very fast with a hot flame. The very speed with which softwoods burn makes them less desirable, though. You should avoid using scrap lumber and refuse. These materials, especially when excessively dry, produce sparks which escape up the flue and are a fire

The best fire - one that burns long and gives plenty of heat - is produced by combining softwoods with hardwoods such as maple, oak, birch and ash. The hardwood species burn less vigorously and with a shorter flame; thus, they burn more slowly. For aroma, add woods from fruit and nut trees; apple, cherry, hickory and pecan, for instance, all give pleasant scents. Generally, wood smoke's scent resembles the fragrance of

FBI Confident Of Assassination Probe

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - No arrests appear imminent in the puzzling assassination here of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood despite the FBI's biggest investigation since the Jimmy Hoffa case, the FBI director said Thursday, exactly six months after Wood's death.

But the massive investigation has retained its momentum and the FBI is still optimistic it will solve the assassination, William Webster told reporters.

'I'm not prepared to make any announcement of any breakthroughs, I don't think an arrest is imminent," said Webster, a former federal judge. "It's a very complicated case. This is a slow, tedious, meticulous investigation, as is often the case in planned assassinations.

There have been very recent indications of activity, which I can't talk about, that convince me the investigation has retained its momentum," he added. The FBI is committed to the solution of

Bids For Jail Wing Exceed $1 Million

Avalanche-Journal Staff Even after taking new bids on construction of the third wing to the new county jail, Lubbock County commissioners found out Thursday they are still facing a $1 million price tag on the addi-

The commissioners decided to re-bid for the construction when they learned in October that the project's cost had been boosted to $990,000 because of inflation. The third wing originally was estimated to cost about $700,000 when bids were first taken in mid-1978.

If the commissioners were looking for some financial relief in re-letting the bids, though, their hopes were soon dashed Thursday when low bid totals for the addition came to $1,033,026.

The commissioners court officially awarded a contract to Roanoke Iron & Bridge Co. of Roanoke, Va., for detention equipment for the third wing, with a bid price of $567,680.

Other bids accepted Thursday by the commissioners were from Bundock Construction Co., with a bid of $163,426 for general construction; Parker Mechanical, with a bid of $198,511 for mechanical work; and Llano Electric Co., with a bid of $103,409 for electrical work.

All three firms are based in Lubbock. Of the 13 firms that asked for specifications on the third wing project, only six returned with bids.

Other bids submitted were from Furr's Construction Co. (which also submitted a package deal), with a bid of $169,500 for general construction; O.W. Chisum & Co., with a bid of $213,800 for mechanical work; and Row-Wall Electric Co. Inc., with a bid of $135,513 for electrical work.

Construction of the third wing would increase jail capacity from 245 to 330 inmates, an expansion the commissioners court deemed necessary after Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard reported that the average capacity in September was 225.

Chief Deputy Albert Smith told the commissioners the inmate count Thursday was 202, but added he expected that calculations.

County engineer Arnold Maeker told the commissioners they would be "a little optimistic" in planning on the $3.5 million jail project's completion by Feb. but commissioners indicated they were not expecting the jail to be finished before that time anyway.

In other action, the commissioners court authorized ordering equipment for a new data processing system for the criminal district attorney's office.

The system approved, different from the $70,000 one first proposed to the court, would provide a computer programmer for the district attorney's office and would result in the county actually

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A narcotics task force confiscated nearly $180 million worth of illegal drugs founded hidden beneath a false floor in a rented house in Fullerton, authorities said

Jerry N. Jenson, regional director of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, called the 180 pounds of heroine, morphine base and cocaine the biggest drug stash ever confiscated in the western United States.

The 100 pounds of heroin, 49 pounds of morphine base and 30 pounds of cocaine were put on display at a news conference Thursday.

But no arrests were made in the Wednesday night raid on the house ir Fullerton by a task force of the Narcotics Intelligence Network, Jenson said.

He told the Gerontological Society that the myth includes the notion that a worker "pays for" benefits with "contributions," not taxes, and has an "earned right" to a particular package of benefits.

Actually, he said, Social Security is a pay-as-you-go system, with benefits weighted to favor low-income workers.

'No workers' tax payments are accumulated to pay his or her future benefits. and no worker actually pays what the private insurance plan would charge for the promised benefits," said the commissioner, who is quitting next month to start a law firm with former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

'No one wishes to pay taxes," said Ross. "The real issue is whether the taxpaying public accepts the government's exactions - whether in the form of payroll taxes, income taxes or other kinds of taxes - because of civic responsibility.

He suggested that to bolster public confidence, Congress should pass a statute guaranteeing that Social Security benefits would be paid out of general revenues if necessary.

A similar statute backs up interest payments on the national debt, said Ross, and it "could finally lay to rest some of the widespread and unjustified fears of Social Security bankruptcy.

Ross said it was inconceivable that a nation like the United States would not have a system to meet the needs of the elderly, the disabled and their families. He said the government does have "an undeniable moral obligation ... to pay promised benefits," but that does not mean every single benefit is sacrosanct.

Ross and the Carter administration drew bitter opposition from social welary by proposing to trim some relatively small benefits, including burial payments and aid to college students. Congress did not adopt the cuts.

Former Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball, who led the drive against the benefits cuts, said today that Ross was "100 percent wrong" in his arguments about whether benefits are earned rights. Ross, he said, "doesn't understand the program and he never did."

Pair Arrested On Drug Charges

A Lubbock man and woman, awakened by police at 1:15 a.m. today, were arrested in connection with several drugrelated charges.

The 38-year-old man and 33-year-old woman were taken into custody early this morning, after police carrying a search warrant entered their apartment on Idalou Road.

Police discovered in the apartment various pills, including one bottle containing 47 pills identified as "Preludes," a central nervous system stimulant.

The informant also told police some items at the residence had been stolen. A diamond-studded horseshoe found in the apartment had been reported stolen about two months ago, police said.

In a separate incident, police said two men were arrested shortly after 4 p.m. Thursday after they were clocked traveling 103 mph in the 2400-block of Northeast Loop 289.

Following the high-speed chase, the men allegedly fought with arresting officers before they were detained and taken to the county jail.

A 16-year-old boy also was taken into custody after he reportedly interfered with the arrests at a residence in the 1100-block of East Ursuline Street.

The names of the two men, ages 17 and 18, had not been released early today and formal charges had not been filed.

The pursuit began after officers Rick Offutt and John Strange, who were operating a speed radar on the loop, clocked the suspects traveling 103 mph in a 1972 brown Grand Prix, reports state.

The officers said they began following in their patrol car with the emergency lights and siren going, but the suspects refused to pull over.

Reports indicate the men continued at a high speed, exited at Municipal Drive and turned north on Quirt Avenue. Strange and Offutt reported they were able to get within a half block of the suspects in the 2000-block of Quirt Avenue and that speeds were peaking at more than 80 mph.

The men turned west on Ursuline Street and stopped at a residence in the 1100 block. After pulling up next to the suspects' vehicle, Offutt, wielding a shotgun, ran up to the passenger side of the cause of recent thefts from the company. The witness said he followed the suspect and pulled him over after the alleged burglary. He then brought the suspect back to the business to await the arrival of police.

When running a routine check on the suspect, police discovered the Lubbock County Sheriff's Department had issued an arrest warrant charging the man with felony theft.

An 83-year-old Lubbock man told police a recently hired housekeeper may have taken more than $1,000 in travelers checks from his east Lubbock apartment.

Elisha B. Moore told investigating officers that the $1,050 worth of checks were in a brown leather wallet. Police reports indicate the housekeeper told Moore that she would put the wallet on a night stand. Moore last saw the wallet Tuesday afternoon and noticed it missing Thursday morning. New Twists Added To Handshake

I think shaking hands is a nice custom. It puts you (quite literally) in touch with other people. It even gives you something to do during those clumsy first moments of a friendship.

When handshaking began as a way of greeting people, it was intended to show that your open hand wasn't holding a club or a

Of course, the simple handshake is constantly developing new twists. Here are a couple of signs and handskakes to try with your special friends:

KNUCKLE UNDER: In this one, you shake hands in the regular way, but one of your knuckles is doubled into your palm. (Which finger you use depends on which one you all agree to tuck into your palm ahead of time

LINK YOUR PINKY: Once again, you start to shake hands in the regular way but at the last secand, you each separate your little ungers and link them together.

YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWIS-TER: There is only one royal pal-ace in the whole United States. Where is it?

ANSWER: It's the Iolani Palace, in Honolulu, Hawaii. It was built in 1882, and it was declared an official American Palace when Hawaii became a state.

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: How many words can you think of that speak of going up or down (like "climb" or "sag")? (Look for the answer in Sunday's Kids-Only Club column.

F&C Reports Growth In Cable Television

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government reports what millions of television viewers across the nation already know: cable television is growing by leaps and

Specifically, the Federal Communications Commission said this week that cable relevision is attracting more than 1 n new subscribers a year. The FCC also eported that the revenues of cable jumped 25.3 percent from 1977 to 1978. More than 14.1 million households in roughly 8,200 communities are subscribing to some type of cable TV service

Employee Advisory Panel

Set At Business Agency WASHINGTON (AP) - The Small Business Administration's inspector general has set up an employee advisory council to study the agency's programs and recommend improvements. BA Administrator A. Vernon Weaver said he is giving his "wholehearted support" to the council, whose creation was announced by Inspector General Paul Boucher.

Weaver said the council will provide a forum within which SBA employees at all levels will be given an opportunity to meet regularly with the inspector general to review selected SBA programs.

Christy Vows No Limits In Jordan Investigation

ecutor Arthur Christy, named to investigate charges Hamilton Jordan sniffed cocaine at a New York disco, says he will look into all allegations of cocaine use by the president's top adviser.

"I have no territorial limitations." Christy, a former Republican prosecutor, told reporters following his appointment by a three-judge court Thursday. "My mandate is not limited to New York."

But the Manhattan lawyer also pledged to conduct the investigation "as expeditiously as possible in fairness to Mr. Jordan.

President Carter, learning of the appointment of a special prosecutor. immediately asked Jordan to remain in his job. and issued a statement saying:

'Hamilton Jordan is a young man in whose ability I have complete confidence. I have as much confidence that he would tell me the truth as my wife would or my children.

It was unclear whether Christy's investigation will touch on charges Jordan used cocaine at two Beverly Hills, Calif.. parties in 1977.

Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti. who called for appointment of the outside prosecutor to pursue the Studio 54 disco investigation, dismissed the Calither investigation was warranted. Civiletti recommended Christy's jur isdiction be limited to the Studio 54 matter. But the court, empowered under the new Ethics in Government law to appoint outside prosecutors where needed to investigate administration officials, said Christy should probe the Studio 54 matter and "any other related or rele-

Civiletti said the Studio 54 charge was unsubstantiated, but several "pertinent witnesses" had refused without receiving immunity from prosecution to give a full accounting of what they saw when Jordan visited the disco on June 27, 178. The ethics law allows only a special prosecutor to grant immunity.

Civiletti said he was therefore forced to call for a special prosecutor so the witoath. He urged that Christy also look into whether anyone "made false statements to initiate or mislead the preliminary investigation in this matter.

President Carter was interrupted by a knowledged that there is no chance the briefing on the treaty Wednesday for civ-ratification of the treaty was imperative to enhance peace prospects and lead to more substantial weapons cuts in the next round of SALT negotiations.

A young man identified as Frank Codaro, from a settlement house for the poor in Des Moines. Iowa, stood up and shouted "SALT II is a lie" just as the president began speaking. ic and community leaders. Carter said tion has made it known in Congress it is considering calling for real growth - after inflation - in military spending of 4 percent to 5 percent in its five-year plan with a real growth increase of 5 percent to 7 percent in the defense budget for fiscal 1981. Fiscal 1981 starts Oct. 1, 1980.

The plan is said to contain proposals for new Navy ships and for new air and sea lift capability in a spending proposal that would add billions of dollars to budgetary outlays.

But Republican critics indicated they believe the plan includes no significant initiatives in the field of strategic nuclear weaponry of the type they say is essential to offset growing Soviet military might.

The treaty sets ceilings on the numbers of long-range missiles and bombers of the two superpowers through 1985. It also would require that by the end of 1981 the Soviets destroy some aging missiles and that the United States destroysome B-52 bombers. Other provisions of the 73-page text outline development of new weapons systems.

Meanwhile, aides to Senate Armed Services Committee members critical of SALT II made it clear that an attempt will be made early next week to force a vote to approve a majority report concluding the treaty is unfair, unverifiable and "not in the national security interests of the United States" as it now

"With the hearing children, it's different, a certain percentage of them are afraid...," he added.

Hatton, a psychology student at Ohlone College who wants to become a counselor to the deaf, said he has been given time off from his clerking job at a San Leandro department store and from his studies to use his sign language skills

'My boss told me, 'Don't worry about it, you just go out there and do it," said Hatton, whose hearing is normal.

'This gives deaf children the feeling that it's OK to be deaf and that there's a many people care? Not too many.

Hatton donned his Santa suit at the Oakridge Mall last week at the suggestion of Helen Mendel, owner of an antique photos shop and a member of the mall's board of directors.

"Children who are deaf have never really had a chance to talk to Santa before," she said.

In Hatton's first stint on the floor, a few astonished deaf children discovered they could tell the jolly, red-suited Hatton what they wanted for Christmas.

Oil Studies Incomplete

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) - Two Texas A&M scientists - comparing the Mexican oil spill that stained Texas beaches to an extensive oil spill off France - say it may be a year or more before the full environmental impact of the Mexican spill is known.

Drs. Jerry Neff and William Haensly announced results of their studies this

The results show that 16 months after the Amoco Cadiz spill off France - the world's worst oil spill before the Ixtoc I Well blew out in Mexico's Bay of Campeche in June - major ill effects continue and have devastated the oyster industry along some parts of the Brittany

Neff and Haensly said the implications were that hydrocarbon pollution from massive oil spills hangs in the sediment and continues to affect marine life adversely for long periods after clean-up efforts have ended

They found that fish in the region of the Amoco Cadiz spill still suffer from gill, liver, stomach and skin lesions as well as nutritional problems prompted flight, turbine failures and the need for more maintenance than was expected.

The situation has reached the point where it appears to have a potentially serious, impact on the readiness of the Air Force fighter aircraft," said Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., who presided over prompting ranchers to begin feeding a Senate Armed Services Committee their herds and culling them heavily, the hearing on the engine this week.

Correction of those deficiencies will cost more than $1.1 billion, Cannon said. The Pentagon has spent $4.4 billion to develop and purchase 1,708 of the engines and eventually will spend $15 bilion to buy and operate more than 3,500

Since 1975, engines in the F-15 have stalled or "stagnated" on 755 occasions and sometimes "the only way to recover is to shut the engine down and restart said Gen. Alton D. Slay, head of the Air Force Systems Command. The problem has never occurred with the F-16.

The result is engine-less aircraft. Slay said the Air Force was short 90 to 100 engines in June. While that shortage has been halved since, he said the number will increase again soon as more aircraft require mandatory inspection and repair.

Construction To Resume

On N-Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) - The head of an Indiana utility company building a nuclear power plant plagued by construc-tion problems says he hopes work on safety features at the plant will resume early next year.

Hugh Barker, president of the Public Service Company of Indiana, Inc., made the statement this week as a House subcommittee ended two days of looking into problems previously uncovered in the plant's construction.

Barker acknowledged that the company had had quality control problems in building the Marble Hill power plant, but said an outside analysis of construction already done and the company's own internal analysis indicated the problems did not affect the plant's safety.

"By recognizing at an early date in construction that construction and quality assurance procedures were not up to NRC (Nuclear Regulatory Commission) standards, the company has avoided more serious construction mistakes in the installation of piping and the electrical facilities." Barker told the subcommittee.

He said the firm hoped to restart safety-related construction in January. Such construction was halted in August after a laborer alleged - and a NRC investigation confirmed - that some flaws existed in the concrete that will eventually surround the reactor.

Federal regulations require that wall to be of uniform quality and thickness. But the NRC investigation found areas of honeycombing - areas where air bubbles kept the concrete from making a sol-

Almost all the flaws uncovered so far are near the concrete's surface, a NRC inspector told the subcommittee earlier.

A spokesman for the House Government Operations subcommittee on energy, environment and natural resources said no further hearings were planned on the reactor construction. The committee has no authority to legislate. Its sole function is oversight.

Barker told the subcommittee that lack of experience in building nuclear power plants caused the quality control problems that halted construction.

"I believe we did not adequately recognize that the construction of a fossil plant and a nuclear plant are quite different and that we did not have a sufficient number of construction people with commercial nuclear experience," he said.

His forecast anticipates that the high pressure ridge will not be strong this year, and thus warm Pacific air will blow into the Northwest while arctic winds from Canada enter the central part of the nation

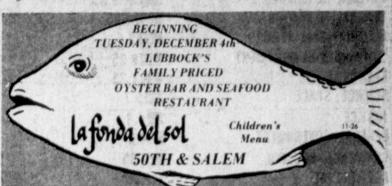

The circulation flowing north along the East Coast, meanwhile, remains hard to predict and the closeness of this high level wind to the coast will determine whether the East has a dry or stormy winter, he said.

The measure, which projects a $29.8 billion deficit, does not go to the president. Through this measure, the lawmakers set firm budget figures for fiscal 1980. meaning binding limits on spending and revenue-raising program actions by Congress for that 12-month span which began

Congressional negotiators reached agreement Oct. 31 on the $547.6 billion fiscal 1980 compromise budget containing a $29.8 billion deficit and calling for spending $129.9 billion for defense.

On Nov. 7, by 65-27, the Senate approved the compromise.

The House passed the compromise by 205-190 on Nov. 8, but deleted a related demand for congressional panels to make $3.6 billion in social program savings, and returned the measure to the Senate.

Then, the Senate, by 57-20 on Nov. 16, approved the compromise, in a new resolution dropping the savings demand and instead inserting a sense-of-the-Congress provision calling on congressional panels to voluntarily make the savings.

That measure was sent to the House which completed action by approving it

The budget measure, which is binding on Congress, is not sent to the president Instead, Congress sends the president, for his signature or veto, a series of monev bills reflecting the budget.

The binding budget amounts take the place of earlier "target" figures. Congress had agreed in May on Senate-House compromise targets to guide the legislative work on fiscal 1980 measures until the lawmakers agreed on the binding

On Jan. 22. President Carter had sent Congress his original recommendations for fiscal 1980. The Carter administration released revised estimates March 15, July 12, Aug. 23 and Sept. 11. Later Sept. 11. Carter urged increased spending for defense, telling Congress he supports $130.6 billion in defense outlays.

On Oct. 25, the Treasury Department and the president's Office of Management and Budget announced the deficit for fiscal 1979, the budget period that ended Sept. 30, 1979, was $27.7 billion on spending of $493.6 billion.

The deficit was $48.8 billion in fiscal

Cowboys Gearing Up For National Finals Rodeo

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (Special) — Imagine a check for $50,000 made out in your name. Imagine, too, that you've earned that much cash in just 10 days time, while doing something you like to do

That's what two Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association athletes — Paul Tierney and Tom Ferguson — are conjuring up in their minds, just hours before the National Finals Rodeo is set to open in Oklahoma City.

Between Saturday and Dec. 9, both cowboys will have 10 runs in calf roping, and 10 runs in steer wrestling, to determine who is the No. 1 professional rodeo cowboy in the world.

Points will be awarded in each round — 40 points for first; 30 for second; 20 for third, and 10 for fourth. There also will be bonus points given for consistency through all 10 rounds. The cowboy who tallies the greatest amount of points in each event will have a $15,000 check waiting for him — and possibly a PRCA world championship.

Tierney of Rapid City, S.D., is guaranteed to give five-time all-around champ Ferguson a run to the finish. He's just $71 behind in the PRCA versatility race, and owns a slim $186 lead over Ferguson in calf roping. Any number of winning combinations are possible for either cowboy, with almost a half-million in prize money on the line. First place will pay $15.000; second place will be worth $10,000, third will pay $8,000, on down to $500 for 15th position.

Both Tierney and Ferguson have a shot at the steer wrestling world championship as well. Tierney (in eighth place) is just within reach of the steer wrestling leader, Stan Williamson, but Williamson would have to finish last for Tierney to win the crown. (Williamson has $34,865 to date, plus an assured $500 at the NFR, which would equal $35,365. Tierney has $20.392 currently, plus a potential $15,000 at the Finals, which would total $35,392.)

Ferguson, although $4,000 ahead of Tierney, also is forced to win the $15,000 at the NFR to claim his third consecutive world championship in steer wrestling; the $10,000 payoff for second place would leave him $700 behind Williamson. Five other cowboys also are in contention for that PRCA title.

Ferguson and Tierney both have a very real chance to collect a pair of $15,-000 checks. The all-around championship is worth a $10,000 bonus from Winston Rodeo Awards, while each individual PRCA world buckle will have a $5,000 Winston bonus tacked on. That all adds up to a potential $50,000 payday for either one of them.

The all-around race is not limited to those two cowboys, however. A riding event cowboy from Oregon, Doug Brown, still has a whisper of hope. He would, however, have to win both saddle brone and bull riding at the Finals —

Pay Board Makes Few Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six weeks after its creation, President Carter's pay advisory committee has yet to show any headway in revising the government's voluntary anti-inflation wage guidelines.

The 18-member committee of business, labor and public representatives agreed recently to propose changes in a technical rule covering groups of workers who historically maintain wage parity.

But the group completed its fifth meeting without coming any closer to accomplishing its main goal of proposing new wage restraint guidelines to replace the 7 percent lid on yearly wage and benefit increases set by Carter 13 months

Carter established the committee in an attempt to win support for his anti-inflation effort from organized labor, a leading opponent of his initial guidelines.

But the labor and business members on the panel are sharply divided over how to alter the guidelines, and neither side is showing any desire to compromise.

Former Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop, the pay committee's chairman, is noted for his ability to negotiate compromises between business and labor, and administration officials say they remain optimistic that Dunlop will forge an agreement that both will accept.

Labor representatives, arguing that high wages are a result rather thn a causeof inflation, want the 7 percent guideline replaced either by a floating ceiling that rises with inflation or several guidelines that vary among industries and groups of workers. With inflation running at 13 percent a year, a general 7 percent or even 8 percent guideline is unfair to workers, labor contends.

Business members, however, have pressed to retain a single guideline, although they appear willing to adopt something higher than 7 percent. They argue that inflation will only worsen it wages are allowed to keep fully apace with rising prices.

PROSTITUTE SUES

STRASBOURG. France (AP) — A French prostitute has filed a civil suit accusing the French state of pimping. "Isa the Swede," unofficial leader of the prostitutes of this eastern French city, based her accusation on what she regards as excessive tax demands. Isa, whose full name was not revealed, claimed the state was taking the place of pimps by living off the earnings of prostitutes.

which would give him a grand total of $90,478. Ferguson and Tierney already have crossed the $86,000 line, and the chances that either one will be held to less than $4,000 at the NFR are slim.

Other cowboys have a chance to shatter the earnings records they have set this season, and Coloradoan Bruce Ford is one of them. Already past the $65,000 mark, Ford could become the third cowboy in PrCA history to rack up $80,000 in one year. Professional rodeo is fast becoming a lucrative business, and Ford has learned to capitalize on his bareback riding talents.,

More than the cash, however, Ford would like to earn his first PRCA world buckle. If Nebraska's Sam Perkins fails to come up with the $15,000 first price the championship will belong to Ford.

The same situation is true in bull riding — a leader with a big edge, and one lone challenger with a chance to catch him. Texan Don Gay boasts an $8,000 lead over Kansan Jerry Beagley, so Beagley has his work cut out. He must take first or second place, with Gay finishing way down the line, in order to capture the championship. Gay has proved his toughness under pressure countless times, and has come up with four world crowns.

Should he win the 1979 championship, he will possibly have crossed the $71,000 line and will be within two buckles of the all-time bull riding champion, Jim Shoulders.

Saddle bronc riding is a tight race, with the top eight bronc riders in contention for the world title. Monty Henson, who has resigned as world champ in this event on two occasions, will be aiming for his first crown since 1976. Henson could break Joe Marvel's earning record of $50,200 with a first-place NFR finish.

Bobby Brown of Texas, Bud Munroe of Montana and Mel Coleman of Canada always turn in tough performances at the NFR, however, and any one of them could wind up the titlist.

Team roping is tightly bunched as well. Anyone among the top nine could walk out of Okahoma City with the lucerative first prize and the PRCA world buckle. Two former world champions, brothers Leo and Jerold Camarillo, are among the contenders.

The leaders, Doyle Gellerman and Walt Woodard of California, watched their No. 1 position vanish at last year's Finals, and they will be hard pressed to let it slip again.

The top two team ropers at the National Finals will divide $15,000.

National Park Service Unveils New Commercialism Plan

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) - A new master plan for Yosemite National Park that would reduce commercialization in the 760,900-acre woodland was to be unveiled this week, officials of the National Park Service say. The plan is expected to reduce development in the Yosemite Valley, a 7-milelong rift most familiar to the park's 2.5 million annual visitors.

The Valley, some 200 miles from San Francisco, could lose a golf course, tennis courts, a bank, beauty shop, dental and car rental offices, a heavy maintenance center and some motel rooms, government planners say. Park employees would be moved outside the park.

The elimination of 1,271 day parking spaces deep in the valley is another feature of the plan. Its adoption would force day visitors to take shuttles to the valley

The plan also calls for elimination of

The main offices of the concessioner and the park headquarters - involving more than 1,000 workers - will be moved to Wawona on the southern edge of the park within two years, park officials said this week.

But the NPS scrapped its original development plan and then sought suggestions about what the new plan should include. Some 56,000 persons made sugges-

In the first publicly known crackdown on debate over admission of women to the Roman Catholic priesthood, a Jesuit priest and leading advocate of it has been silenced and ordered transferred.

The move seemed to reflect a stricter stand on the matter by Pope John Paul

Ironically, the action against the Rev William J. Callahan of Washington, D.C., was implemented by a Jesuit superior who had himself in 1977 signed a protest to a Vatican declaration against women's other background data.

But the orders for disciplining Callahan came from higher up, from the worldwide director general of the Jesuit order, the Rev. Pedro Arrupe of Rome, following some firm admonitions by the pope on the matter.

The sequence came into focus this week in correspondence released by Dolly Pomerleau, co-founder with Callahan of the Quixote Center in Washington, an independent Catholic justice center, plus

Church Leaders Rap 'Spiritual Numbness'

By DAVID E. ANDERSON United Press International Writer

Today's world is "gripped by spiritual numbness and has lost the sense of God's

That, at any rate, was the conclusion of one of the most diverse groups of religious leaders and thinkers ever gathered following a week-long conference at the University of Notre Dame for a "Colloquy on the loss and recovery of the sa-

The group included mainline Protestants, Roman Catholics, charismatics and conservative evangelicals.

In a kind of manifesto or declaration aopted by the conference, the ecumenical group said that "we have noted both in ourselves and in our world a deep sense of loss.

That loss, the theologans and religious leaders said, was the loss of the sense of the sacred dimensions - a desacralization, in theological terms - of the world and human existence.

Dr. Albert C. Outler, professor emeritus at Southern Methodist University, told the conference in his keynote ad dress that "the loss of the sacred is a code-phrase for the nearly total disappearance in the collective consciousness of 'modern' man of any vivid sensibility of that acred Milieu in which we live and of that Sacred Oder by which we ought to

"It points to a fading of the vision of the Kingdom of God as the rue of his righteousness, in persons and among nations; it speaks of a generalized insensitivity to the actuality and activity of the Holy Spirit as God's personal presence in human life and human history.

In his speech, Outler raised two points not often made by those concerned with the loss of the sacred in contemporary society:

"That it is no good to look with nostalgia at past periods when the sense of the sacred was more pervasive in society.

-That the recovery of the sense of the sacred cannot be divorced from the quest for social justice and a human politial and economic order.

Outler warned against "simplistic overestimation of any of the sacralized regimes we can point to in the past," pointing to what he called the "dismal track record" of sacralized societies from the Egypt of Tutankh-amun to the Islamic theocracies in Pakistan and Iran today.

"In all of them the cause of human freedom, equality, and self-realization was tragically ignored," Outler said. "In all of them, there as an unholy alliance between throne and altar, between theocrats and sadists, between bigotry and persecution, between orthodoxy and af-

In the manifesto issued by the Notre Dame conferees, the interfaith group said "the first order of business for Christians is to recover our own 'sacred

It added up to the first disclosed case disciplinary steps by the church to curb open discussion of women's ordination, which has been supported by the National Federation of Priests Councils and a pontifical biblical commission, among others.

The intent apparently is to "put the wraps on, thereby stifling public debate," says Miss Pomerleau. She adds that if priests are "silenced, then the only people left will be women and everybody knows we don't count."

Callahan, also founder of the 2,500member Priests for Equality which also advocates admitting women to ordination, had participated in several demonstrations for that cause on the pope's visit to Washington in October.

The pope on his visit had reiterated opposition to women priests.

Subsequently, Nov. 5, the Rev. Edward M. O'Flaherty of Boston, head of the New England Jesuit province to which Callahan belongs, notified him he was being recalled there for reassignment because it was "completely inappropriate" to challenge the pope about clear directions he has given the O'Flaherty wrote that the Jesuit head, Arrupe, had sent instructions that Callahan should not "work with these groups" supporting women's ordination.

The pope, in a meeting with national Jesuit heads in September before his U.S. trip, had lectured them about dissent "causing confusion" and told them to apply "requisite firmness" to stop it.

After the pope's visit, about 180 faculty members of Chicago-area Catholic institutions signed a statement voicing regret at the "closed model of hierarchical authority" expressed by the pope, and defending "reasoned dissent" on various matters, such as women's ordination.

No Jesuits were among the signers, however, apparently mirroring the impact of the pope's fall meeting with Jesuit heads. But two years ago, O'Flaherty had been among 25 faculty members of the Jesuit School of Theology in Berkeley, Calif., that differed with the 1977 Vatican declaration against women priests, calling it a "serious mistake."

Now, however, O'Flaherty became the conduit of orders to silence Callahan. A Boston aide to O'Flaherty said he would not comment on the situation because of "ongoing dialogue" with Calla-

Callahan, 48, formerly a physicist before entering the priesthood, has been active in social issues for a decade, incurring rebukes of the Washington Arch-

Last May he visited Arrupe in Rome who later wrote him, forbidding him to publicly criticize any "clear decision by the Holy See" and specifically ordering him to "refrain from any public advocacy of priestly ordination of women."

After the pope on his visit maintained that women's ordination was not a "human rights' issue but barred by church tradition, a news agency, Reuters, carried a story quoting Callahan as saying perhaps this is not a human rights issue women are not human or they do not have rights.

Afterward came Arrupe's call to discipline him, relayed by O'Flaherty. In correspondence, Callahan insisted the quoted remark was not his own, but he was quoting another. However, except for the correspondence, he, like O'Flaherty, declined to discuss the matter.

Ugandan Baptist Leaders Meet

JINJA, Uganda (Special) — Pastors arriving in Jinja for the first meeting of Ugandan Baptist leadership in eight years didn't know whether many of their old friends were dead or alive.

They spent much of the three days of the meeting in prayer, praise and thanksgiving after greeting many of those old friends, according to Dale G. Hooper, Southern Baptist missionary to Kenya. Hooper, a native of North Carolina, attended the meeting after visiting Uganda's director of programming in Kampala to discuss broadcasting in the country.

The 65 men and two women heard reports from churches in areas such as Mbale, where only five of 20 churches remain. Some churches in other areas also were destroyed. Some of the Ugandan churches are without leaders and others met secretly in homes for several years, the Baptists learned.

Leaders made plans to help local churches and to start leadership training for pastors, although a shortage of public transportation and delays in postal service will make their cooperation difficult, Hopper said.

Southern Baptist missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. G. Webster Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Rice, began restoring Baptist work when religious freedom was returned to the country following the fall of former president Idi Amin.

Missions Awareness Day Set

World Missions Awareness Day will be observed Sunday at First Baptist Church. The musical, "Among All Nations," will be presented by the University Singers and Orchestra at the 10:50 a.m. worship service. David Hairel, associate minister of music for the church, will direct the musical.

"Among All Nations" will feature narrations and biblical foundations for missions by Dr. Louis Cobbs of the Foreign Missions Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, the Rev. I. D. Walker, associate pastor of the church; and the Rev. Doug Tipps, university pastor. Members of the church's Women's Missionary Union, the International Students Sunday School department and the Touch Ministry will participate in the service.

Missionaries John Smith of Indonesia and Samuel Longbottom of Taiwan will give reports on those mission fields.

World Missions Awareness Day will mark the beginning of the church's annual week of prayer for foreign missions.

Cobbs will conduct a seminar on mission opportunities at 5:45 p.m. in the lower auditorium of the church Sunday and also will preach at the 7 p.m. wor-

Lacy To Preach At Mission

The Rev. Billy Lacy will begin pastoral ministries with the Redbud Baptist Mission, 801 Slide Rd., when he preaches at the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday. Lacy has been pastor of First Baptist Church of Lorenzo for the past two years. The Redbud Mission is sponsored by the churches of the Lubbock Baptist As-

Regular Sunday services at the mission are scheduled as follows: 9:30 a.m., Sunday School; Sunday evening worship at 6:38 p.m.; Wednesday service

Church Hosts Music Workshop

Saturday the Primera Iglesia Bautista will host a music reading workshop for music directors and choir members from Spanish congregations. The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at noon.

Robert Cuellar, minister of music at Iglesia Bautista Sur San Antonio, will lead the workshop. The purpose of the workshop is to familiarize Spanish-speaking choirs with new hymns in the new Himario Bautista. Participants to the workshop are asked to bring copies of the new hymnbook. There is no charge for this workshop which is provided as a ministry of the Church Music Department of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Choirs To Present Musical

The combined high school, college and career youth choirs of Oakwood Baptist Church will present "The Witness" Sunday evening at 7 p.m.

This presentation is a musical which tells the story of Christ as seen through

Each year the choirs present a different musical and this is the eighth such program. The choirs go on yearly tours and present concerts as part of the church's mission outreach

The public is invited to Sunday's presentation

Church Observes Anniversary

SLATON (Special) — The First Assembly of God Church will observe its 45th anniversary Sunday

The Rev. J.W. Farmer, district superintendent of the Assemblies of God of West Texas, will be the speaker for the 10:45 a.m. service.

The Rev. Jerry Roberts, presbyter of the West Plains Section of the Assemblies of God in West Texas, will be the speaker for the 2:30 p.m. service. Roberts is pastor of the First Assembly of God Church of Lubbook

The Rev. Ron Witt, president of the youth department of the Assemblies of God in West Texas, will speak at the 6 p.m. service.

The Rev. Bert Ryan is pastor of the church located at 14th Street and Jean

Tabernacle To Observe Pastor's Anniversary

Peace Tabernacle will honor the pastor, the Rev. Dick McCreight, on the occasion of his seventh anniversary of coming to serve the congregation.

Special services are scheduled for today at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. The pastor and his family also will be honored at a banquet Saturday in the dining room of John Knox Village.

McCreight has been in the ministry since 1964. He is affiliated with the United Pentecostal Church International and serves on the International Sunday School Baord of that church. He is the chairman of the Public Responsibility Committee of the Lubbock State School and a member of the Volunteer Council of that school

Peace Tabernacle began in a tent in September 1937 with seven members. It now has more than 500 in its membership. The church is located at 2102 5th St.

DAUGHTERS OKAY

TOKYO (AP) - In China, a country where parents often kept having children until there was a son to support them in old age, it no longer is considered so bad to have only daughters. Now, more sonsin-law are willing to live with their wives' families, which reduces the number of old people who have to be supported by their communes collectively, China's official Xinhua news agency said Thursday.

The color which is used in paraments, lectern hangings, and in some traditions, some part of clergy vestments, is purple for this period. Purple is also the color used during the Lenten season. The reason that color is used during both of those séasons is that these times are periods of penitence and preparation.

During the four Sundays of the Advent season, some churches emphasize particular themes. On the first Sunday the emphasis is on the Second Coming; on the second Sunday, on scripture as a witness to the Coming Lord; the third Sunday, the message of John the Baptist and the whole theme of ministry; and the fourth Sunday, personal prepartion for the birth of the Christ Child.

symbol is an Advent wreath. This consists of five candles, four purple ones and one white one (or sometimes 3 purple, one pink, and one white.). The purple represent the four Sundays leading up to Christmas and the white candle, which usually is taller than the others, is the Christ candle which is lit on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day. Each of the purple candles is lit on Sunday and a brief ceremony marks the emphasis of that particular day.

In churches which use the Advent wreath, candles are lit and the ceremony led by family groups or special classes from the congregation.

The Rev. Jo Carr of the staff of St. John's United Methodist Church and coauthor with Donna Cash, also of that conuse an Advent wreath in preparing for the holidays.

"Using an advent wreath in the home one way to keep the commercialism of Christmas in focus for our children....It serves as a symbol in explaining our beliefs to our children and helps us all to articulate that faith....Having the brief family devotions offers yet another option to the extremes of just complaining about the commercialism and giving in to it...It can be a meaningful way to learn the true meaning of Christmas with the real carols.

Mrs. Carr said the observance of Advent among Protestants has gained new popularity in the last ten years, although it has its origin in the ancient liturgy of gregation, of an annual Advent devotions

ADVENT SEASON BEGINS - An Advent wreath is a symbol of the four-week season of preparation for Christmas which many churches observe. The purple candles represent the penitential spirit of the season. The white candle is lit Christmas Day and stands for Christ, the Light of the world. Sunday marks the beginning of Advent. New Wave Of Unrest Sweeping Northeast India and tribal conflicts in other states of the extreme northeastern corner of India

Many Arabs Angry Over Ethnic Slurs

have stereotype images of the Arab that veer between an obese, ostentatiously wealthy sheik in a Rolls Royce and a shifty-eyed terrorist about to hijack an

"Such stereotypes are incredibly inaccurate and unfair," says Prof. Jack G. Shaheen of the School of Mass Communications at Southern Illinois University. "Arabs, including the two million U.S. citizens of Arab heritage, bitterly resent these ethnic slurs.

Shaheen, who spoke at a London seminar on the Arab Image and the Press, claimed that the distasteful cliches receive regular reinforcement in prime time television programs with Arab villains appearing in episodes of popular detective shows like "Cannon." "NBC Mystery Theater," "Charlie's Angels" and "The Rockford Files."

These programs portray Arabs ascruel, cowardly, sex mad and decadent either blood-feuding Bedouins or white slavers attempting the abduction of beautiful American virgins for a harem in some mythical Middle Eastern coutry," Shaheen said.

Pointing out that orientals, blacks and other minorities are often portrayed as heroes on American televison, Shaheen said an official of one network program standards office recently admitted that he couldn't think of a single show in which an Arab was "the good guy.

Shaheen rejected suggestions that the image of the "Ugly Arab" was the result of a conspiracy. However, he said that there were no Arab-Americans writing in Hollywood and that most of the screen writers there are quite ignorant about real conditions in the Arab world. He also said networks may fear that a favorable portraval of Arabs would draw criticism that they were engaging in pro-Arab propaganda

Hostile ethnic stereotypes also existed on the editorial pages of American and British newspapers, several speakers

Emond Ghareeb, Washington correspondent for the Arabic-language newspaper Al Ittihad, said the cartoon Arab is often represented with shadowy jowls, a hook nose and dark glasses.

"He is shown with a face that gloats, leers, scowls or laughs fiendishly," Ghareeb said. "It is clear that while defamatory stereotype caricatures of most ethnic grous have decreased steadily. Arabs are still safe to stereotype in cartoons.

Another seminar participant criticized television news coverage for consional view of Arab culture.

Abdulla al Nowais, Undersecretary for Information and Culture in the United arab Emirates, told of a correspond ent at the OPEC meeting in Abu Dhabi who used film of a folk dance as background for a commentary that began with the statement, "Oil sheiks, brandishing Communist-made weapons, dance to celebrate their victory over the Nowais said that rifles - none of Communist origin - are a traditional feature of that particular dance which has nothing to do with "victory over the West." He said he did not think the emotional and inaccurate portrayal could possibly contribute to a viewer's understanding of what had taken place at the oil summit.

Prominent Egyptian editor Mohammed Heikal said it was his fear that such distorted images might even pose a

A 20-year-old, China-backed secessionist movement by the Nagas, who now have their own state carved out of Assam, was crushed by the Indian army in 1975 but several hundred guerrillas escaped across the border to Burma.

Although the drive for an independent Nagaland has quieted down, similar 'liberation struggles" keep Indian troops busy in nearby Mizoram, Tripura and Manipur statesm

A common underlying cause is growing resentment in the region over the entry of numerous businessmen from India's plains states, who have come to dominate commerce in the Northeast.

DR. LAMB

BY LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - For the past six months I've been having a problem with my rectum. I've been to two proctologists and they both tell me that I have one small hemorrhoid. Every day since I suffer inside and out of the anal area. I have burning and a feeling of drawing and fullness. I had a prescription for sulfa and also an injection but still no relief. Day after day the situation continues and I'm worried about rectal cancer. I dread going to the bathroom because the discomfort is so great. I tried to look at the area myself and I can only see a very small bluish area and it's not swollen. Any suggestions would be very much appreciated.

DEAR READER - Burning and irritation aren't necessarily caused by hemorrhoids. The truth is internal hemorrhoids, which are those you can't see, usually don't cause symptoms. You can have inflamation in the area which can cause burning and it may be unrelated to hemorrhoids. A good example here is a person who eats hot, spicy food and later on has burning with subsequent bowel movements. Because of the tendency for this to occur after some Mexican foods that are very hot and spicy, this condition has sometimes been referred to as Mexican heartburn.

Sulfa drugs are not normally given for hemorrhoids. That suggests to me that whoever prescribed them must have thought you had some sort of inflammatory disease of the rectal area rather than just simple hemorrhoids.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 13-12, Hemorrhoids: New Treatments For An OLd Affliction, to give you a better idea of what hemorrhoids are and what can be done about them. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Burning, irritation and symptoms of hemorrhoids, as explained in The Health Letter I'm sending you, are usually associated with external form. Since you can't see anything, this implies you may not have any significant external hemorrhoids.

You could have a fissure which means a crack in the area which can certainly cause some of the symptoms that you're complaining about and it would be difficult or impossible for you to see any problem.

I wish there was a good answer I could give you but because your story suggests you may have an inflamma tory process, I think you'll need to continue to see your doctor and if you're not getting relief, just simply return until you do. If you just had a simple internal hemorrhoid, there are a number of procedures which could be done which should relieve your problem but I would like to repeat again that simple, plain internal hemorrhoids are prone to bleed rather than to cause symptoms.

And I'm very pleased that you went to see a doctor because you were having a problem. Rectal and colon cancer combined are the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women. Anyone who has a change in bowel habits or unexplained bleeding or pain or other problems would be well advised to see a doctor as soon as possible. Most of these cancers can be cured if they're detected early. The problem is many of them aren't detected soon enough to provide the best opportunity for treatment.

Surgery Gives New Hope To Backache Sufferers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - A New York surgeon says he has developed a surgical technique that may help people incapacitated by chronic back pain return to normal, active lives.

The surgery has been used in cases where past methods have failed, according to Dr. Reuben Hoppenstein, in Las

The microscopic surgery is used most commonly for a patient suffering debilitating pain caused by an injury to a back disc, he said. Often, even when the disc injury heals or is repaired by surgery the nerve still causes pain.

"It's like a short circuit in the system," Hoppenstein said.

The operation is performed in two phases over a two-day period. All painkilling medication is stopped 12 hours before the first phase, which he calls the testing phase.

During the two-hour testing phase no incision is made. Instead, using a flouroscope that displays the patient's spine on a television screen, he isolates the nerve endings on both sides of the spine.

Using minute amounts of anesthesia. the surgeon deadens one nerve ending at a time until the patient says the pain has stopped. Once the nerve causing the pain has been isolated, the first phase is com-

The next day an incision is made near the nerve ending found to be causing the pain. Under a surgical microscope, the doctor separates the two components of the nerve - the sensory section, which relays pain, and the motor component, which causes movement.

Because the entire nerve is only about two millimeters wide, separating the two components of the nerve is the most difficult part, Hoppenstein said.

Once the sensory section of the nerve is separated, it is cut and the patient's pain disappears, he said.

The patient remains in the hospital about 10 days after surgery.

Hoppenstein said he has operated on 65 cases since developing the technique five years ago, and his patients have had a success rate of about 72 percent. But you have to remember, these

Exercise Helps Diabetics Cut Blood Sugar

BOSTON (AP) - Regular daily exercise may help diabetics lower their high levels of blood sugar, a study shows.

The research, conducted at Yale Medical School, found that men who exercised regularly had a 30 percent increase in their bodies' absorption of sugar.

The study, directed by Dr. Vijay R. Soman, was published in the recent England Journal of Medicine.

The study was conducted on six healthy men who pedaled stationary cycles for an hour at a time. They exercised four times a week for six weeks.

In an interview. Soman said he later repeated his study on diabetic patients, and the soon-to-be published results showed that the exercise significantly reduced their blood sugar, too.

The study also revealed that after exercise, insulin was more likely to attach itself to the men's white blood cells. which is one of the ways that the hormone circulates through the body. "Most people who develop diabetes do so when they are in their 40s or 50s,' Soman said. "Most of these patients have enough insulin, which indicates that they are not insulin deficient, but somehow their insulin doesn't work properly.

more likely to develop an infection that leads to premature birth and fatal complications in young infants.

This infection of the amniotic fluid that surrounds the fetus caused 17 percent of the deaths of fetuses and newborn infants in the United States when the study figures were gathered.

The study, based on a review of 26,886 pregnancies, found that newborn infants were two to three times more likely to die from the infection if their mothers had intercourse during pregnancy. Women who had sex while pregnant were one-third more likely than abstinent mothers to develop this infection, the study found. And when the infection occurred, it was almost five times more likely to kill the children of the sexually active women.

The study was concerned only with intercourse in the month before delivery, whether premature or at term. It did not address the question of whether intercourse early in pregnancy is a hazard to babies born at term. Until now, doctors have generally said that intercourse is safe until the final weeks of a full-term pregnancy The study was conducted by a doctor

Naeye, theorized that the sperm helps bacteria invade the mother's womb. He said couples may be able to reduce the chance of infection by keeping their genitals clean and using condoms. The study found that there were 156 cases of infection for each 1,000 births when women had intercourse one or more times a week during the month before delivery. In comparison, when women abstained from intercourse, there were 117 cases of infection

U.S. Attorney For South Texas Flaunts His 'Bad Boy' Image

Abortion Foes Urge Boycott Of College

ST. JOSEPH, Minn. (AP) — Two anti-abortion groups are urging a financial boycott of the College of St. Benedict because the Roman Catholic women's college allowed feminist Bella Abzug to speak on the campus.

'We feel that having Bella Abzug speak at a Catholic college is like having the pope sit down with the devil for a dialogue," Paul Brown, director of the Life Amendment Political Action Committee, said this week.

A second group, Friends for Life, also said St. Benedict's should not have allowed the speech this week by Miss Abzug, because of the pro-choice abortion position of the former Democratic congresswoman from New York. The message of the Chicago-based group was in a tape recorded telephone message.

The two groups said the best way of preventing future appearances at the college by people such as Miss Abzug would be for people to stop making financial

A spokesman for the college, Martin McGowan, said he doubted that the call for a financial boycott would result in the loss of many contributions.

McGowan said Miss Abzug spoke at the invitation of students at St. Benedict's and at neighboring St. John's University, in Collegeville.

She was here to speak about women and politics, and that's what she talked about for two hours," McGowan said. 'She didn't get into abortion at all. I don't see why because of views that she might have expressed elsewhere on abortion, she shouldn't be allowed to speak here on politics.

"About all she said about abortion was that there was a difference of opinion about it and that people should respect one another's views," McGowan

Brown said a request to withdraw support from the college would be in cluded in the next monthly newsletter of the Life Amendment Political Action Committee, a coalition of anti-abortion

Layoffs Announced By Ford, Chrysler workers for inventory will be at the Trenand Chrysler Corp. say they will temporarily lay off 31.390 auto workers - all but a small number of them at Ford - because of the latest slump in auto sales. The furloughs come in addition to 9,-400 layoffs announced earlier by Ford, and raise the number of workers temporarily idled by domestic manufacturers to 40,790. The figures do not include workers laid off indefinitely - a total of about 100,000 at latest count - as opposed to temporary layoffs, where workers can expect to be called back to their jobs after a given period of time.

Auto production in the week ended Nov. 24 was about 17 percent behind last year's pace, according to Ward's Automotive Reports, a trade publication. Production will be suspended for one week beginning Monday at 11 Ford car and truck assembly plants to help dealers balance inventories, said William E. Scollard, general manager of Ford's automotive assembly division.

Scollard said the 30,650 layoffs include 27,650 workers in the United States and 3,000 hourly workers in Canada.

The number of workers to be idled at each plant include: Wayne, Mich., 3,550; Wixom, Mich., 5,000; Chicago, 3,500; Mahwah, N.J., 3,100; Metuchen, N.J., 2,-450; San Jose, Calif., 1,950; and St. Louis, Suspended truck production also will idle 4,200 workers at Ford's Lorain, Ohio, assembly plant, which produces vans and at the Ohio truck plant at Avon Lake: and 1,800 at the Kansas City, Mo., light truck production plant.

At Ford's St. Thomas assembly plant in Ontario, another 3,000 hourly workers will be idled for one week.

The 9,400 Ford workers idled last week will remain off the job next week as part of a two-week car and truck production suspension announced last week for Atlanta, Ga., Los Angeles, Louisville, Ky., Lorain, Ohio, and San Jose, Calif.

Problems Abound For Two Men With Plane Load Of Marijuana

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - Two suspects were arrested soon after-Two men who landed a cargo plane filled ward, and a third man was being sought, with marijuana and met an accomplice were arrested when their getaway car got stuck and bystanders turned down $100 for a ride, authorities say

But the stuck car and rejected ride weren't the most unusual twists to the caper. The $250,000 plane had been stolen a day earlier from under the watchful eye of a security guard at Miami International Airport, police said.

The men landed the stolen DC-6 at Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport Thursday night and hopped a 12-foot fence to meet a man waiting in a getaway car. Broward County sheriff's

But the car was stuck in the sand, so the men offered bystanders $100 to drive them away, deputies said. When the offer was refused, the trio split up and ran.

University Student Contracts Leprosy

TULSA, Okla (AP) - An Oral Roberts University student from South America has leprosy, but it is not contagious and he can remain in classes, federal medical authorities say.

A federal leprosarium at Carrville, La., confirmed the disease Thursday as the earliest stage of tuberculoid leprosy. Tulsa doctors had suspected leprosy be-

Authorities said four tons of marijuana was stowed aboard the plane.

Charges were pending today against Lane Chandler, 49, of Miami, and Jose Rodriguez, 32, of Santa Marta, Colombia. police said

The 30-year-old craft was reportedly stolen Wednesday from Aerolineas El Salvador at Miami International Airport

Authorities said three men boarded the jet before dawn, talked with a security guard, filed a flight plan for Haiti and took off. But sheriff's spokesman John Stevens said the plane flew to Colombia, rather than Haiti, and brought back about four tons of marijuana

The theft was discovered early Thursday when an airline crew showed up to prepare for a scheduled 5:30 a.m. flight to San Salvador.

The thieves checked out with the control tower, but the president of an airport service company said someone could steal a plane by simply taxiing to a runway and "blasting off.

'If he's got enough brass to steal an airplane, I'm sure he's got enough brass to violate regulations," said Dick Webb of Airtech Services Inc.

The thieves apparently landed at the busy Fort Lauderdale airport because they were low on fuel, Stevens said.

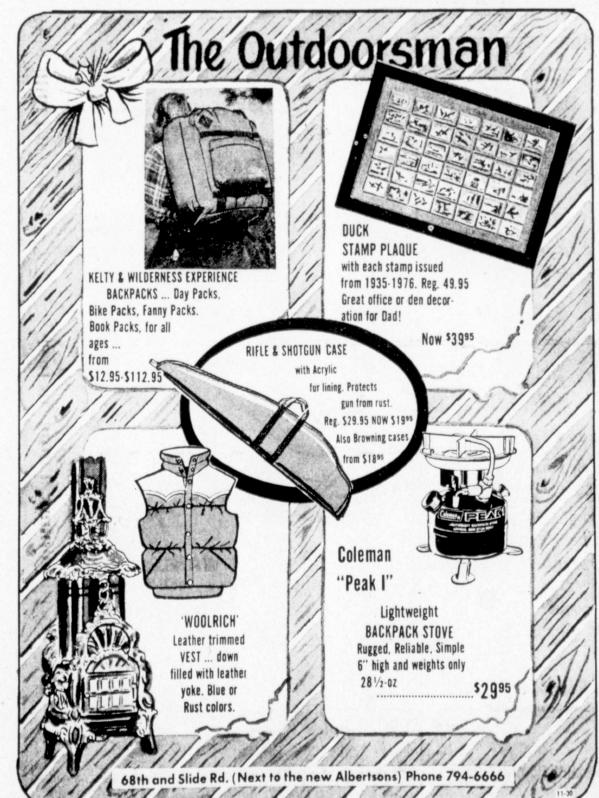

'At about 8:15 p.m., the tower received word by radio from the aircraft It was the first plane ever stolen from requesting permission to come in, that it was low on fuel." Stevens said. "They were cleared and it landed."

Flight controllers called deputies when they saw the men jump out while the craft was still on the runway

ury Acquits Lubbockite Of Burglary

After deliberating for 70 minutes Thursday evening, a Lubbock County jury acquitted Erskine LaVernon Thover Allen Jr. of a charge of burglary of a habitation with intent to commit theft.

Allen, 30, was identified by one of the residents of a 21st Street apartment as the man who was hiding upstairs in the residence the night of June 13.

The defendant admitted being in the area of the 4021 21st St. apartments that night, but said he was there to visit a man who lived down the block.

Defense counsel Floyd Holder argued that Allen was mistakenly identified in a police lineup by Diane Crutchfield, one of the apartment residents.

Holder told the 99th District Court jury that because Allen is a delivery man cers went to Allen's 1819 E. Colgate St. home, which they located by tracing the license plates of his van, and asked him to appear in the lineup.

The officer who talked to Allen the night of June 23 released him because he had been told the suspect had fled on foot and was chased by a group of four men who lived in the same apartment complex. He said when he spoke with Allen in the apartment's parking lot, the defendant was not winded as if he had been running. But the officer did copy the license tags number of the van in which Allen left.

Ware attacked the defense argument of mistaken identity by asking the sixman, six-woman panel to carefully consider the "coincidences" surrounding the burglary.

The prosecutor told the panel those coincidences - Allen visiting in the area, wearing clothing that was the same color as the burglar's attire, and Miss Crutchfield's identification of Allen after police had located him through the van's plates indicated the defendant is guilty.

He also told the jury it was possible Allen was not out of breath when approached in the parking lot by the officer because the defendant had eluded his pursuers and was able to walk back slowly to his vehicle.

Testimony indicated that after running from the apartment, the suspect was chased through a breezeway in the apartment complex and down the alley, running east, by his pursuers. Ware argued it was possible that after exiting the alley. Allen turned north and then west, toward where his van was parked. The defendant told the panel he had left his van in the apartment parking lot and walked to a house at the east end of the block to visit a friend. When he discovered he had the wrong house, Allen testified, he turned around and was walking back to his vehicle when stopped by the officer.

In other testimony during Allen's 1 1/2 day trial, Miss Hackler said she and Miss Crutchfield were sitting in the apartment kitchen the night of June 23 with the front door open because of the hot weather. Both women said the front door was not visible from where they were sitting.

Miss Hackler said she heard a noise, but after she was unable to find anything wrong, she went upstairs. As she was placing some shoes in her closet, she said, a man came out of the bathroom, grabbed her and threw her into the closet before rushing down the stairway.

She said her jewelry was lying out in the bedroom and a television also was kept upstairs.

The screams of both women, according to other testimony, attracted the attention of neighbors, who chased the man down the alley

Chances For Snow, Rain Fade In Area

A-J News Services

Prospects for the weekend on the South Plains improved this morning when forecasters dropped an earlier prediction of light rain and snow for Sunday.

It now appears a slow warming trend will continue at least through Tuesday, with no greater impediment than partly cloudy skies. The high in Lubbock should reach the upper 40s today and near 50 on Saturday. As the warmup continues, the mercury is expected to climb into the low 50s Sunday, then rise to the low 60s by Tuesday. Lows should continue in the low 20s until Tuesday, when they are due to inch up to the upper 20s. Temperatures remained chilly over the area this morning, but moderated slightly from Thursday's frigid levels. Lubbock's low this morning was 21 degrees, up from 17 on Thursday. Elsewhere in the area, lows ranged from 13 at the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge to 25 at Paducah. Farther south, however, the mercury sank to record lows for the date at some points. San Angelo broke a 68-year-old record with a 15-degree reading this morning. Abilene set a record with a 17-

degree reading. Meanwhile, a snowstorm that socked parts of Ohio and Pennsylvania near Lake Erie with more than a foot of snow dumped more snow on the area today and threatened other states. Frosty temperatures dipped well into the South.

Cold air flowing southeastward over the warmer waters of the lower Great Lakes formed snow squalls that produced heavy snow just to the east of Lake Erie, the National Weather Service reported.

Havy snow warnings - for up to 10 inches of additional snow -were in effect over portions of northeastern Ohio and northwestern Pennsylvania.

Travelers advisories were posted for snow over northwestern Indiana, the western half of Lower Michigan, the remainder of the shore areas just to the east of Lakes Ontario and Erie and the mountains of Maryland, Virginia and eastern and northern West Virginia.

Erie, Pa., had 16 inches of snow Thursday, and portions of eastern Erie County had 18 to 20 inches of snow, with the flakes still falling early today.

Schools in Dunkirk, N.Y., and Holland, N.Y., were closed because of the inclement weather.

Snowplows, getting their first workout of the season, kept roads open, but hazardous driving conditions were reported along the Lake Erie shoreline in Chautauqua County in western New Nearly a foot of snow stacked up in northern Wisconsin's snowbelt region near Lake Superior. Pence, Wis., reported 10 inches of snow and Morse, Wis., had 7 inches.

Up to 4 inches of snow covered parts of northern and central Indiana, making roads slippery. Police said the snowglazed roads were at least partly responsi-

Thirty-two men are believed to have died in the early-morning crash. In lieu of the Coast Guard captain

Schwartz hoped to question, he got a letter from Rear Adm. Paul Yost, commander of the Coast Guard District at New Orleans. The admiral, saying he does not appreciate Schwartz' criticism, said the captain would not testify. Yost's letter, delivered to Schwartz Thursday morning, said Capt. Roger Madson will be at a Washington hearing next week. Schwartz is also to attend the hearing. "It is my opinion that the same areas of discussion will be covered during the testimony at both hearings," Yost said. Therefore, Capt. Madson will appear as a witness only before the congressional committee in Washington.

After reading the letter Schwartz said he still wants to talk to the Coast Guards-with the vast majority of knowledgeable people that follow our response activities very closely," Yost said.

The disagreement centers on how long it took the Coast Guard to get needed equipment to the scene where oil was

The admiral said it took 57 hours: "I know of no other open water response system in the world that could be de-

Schwartz Blasts Coast Guard's Efforts In Collision

Yost's letter said the six-hour response was deemed unreasonable "several years ago" because of technical problems. Schwartz said the Coast Guard was negligent in not notifying the state of the change. The senator called for a Congressional look at the situation.

Schwartz also charged the fire on the tanker — still burning — could have been put out the day after the collision, but proper equipment was not on hand. Yost decided to let the fires on the tanker "burn themselves out."

Schwartz was not convinced.

AUSTIN (AP) - The chairman of a Senate committee looking into nuclear waste disposal says he fears a hurricane could sweep barrels of waste from Galveston into East Texas.

"It strikes me there must be a better place to store things as mobile as a 55gallon drum than Pelican Island," said Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston.

Schwartz is chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee which Thursday quizzed officials of companies involved in the storage and transport of nuclear waste.

Charles Hathway of Todd Research and Technical Development said his firm now has some 11,000 barrels of radioactive waste stored on Pelican Island. The material, stored outdoors in 55-gallon drums, is "of no undue hazard to Galveston or the state of Texas." he said.

$1 Million In Jewels Taken

DALLAS (AP) - A bearded gunman staged what may be the biggest robbery in the city's history, taking $1 million in gems from a diamond salesman who says he moved to Dallas to escape the high crime rate of Chicago.

Victor Katz, 40, told police he was leaving his North Dallas business, Universal Pacific Diamond Co., when accosted by the bearded gunman. After he put a briefcase containing $1 million worth of unmounted diamonds in the back seat of his car, the gunman barged in from the passenger side, pointed a snub-nose pistol at him and ordered him to drive away, Katz told police.

He said the man ordered him not to look back because they were being followed. He told Katz to drive into a nearby alley where, Katz reported, the man took his wallet and forced Katz out of the

Katz said he asked the man not to

"He had the diamonds in clear plastic packages which he was carrying in the briefcase," said police officer Bob Worth. "He had them wrapped in some sort of order, so that there were from one to 80 carats in each bag." Katz went to a nearby business to call police. He said the gunman was about 31 years old, with medium-dark hair and a Police said Katz also reported a jeweler's scale and microscope were taken in the robbery.

An investigating officer at the scene told reporters he thought Katz' loss was the biggest theft in Dallas history.

Police spokesman Ed Spencer said there are no records to prove that, "but it would be safe to say it's among the biggest," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market fell today, reflecting investor pessimism over new developments in Iran.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was off 4.35 to 827.39 at noon.

Declining issues outnumbered advances by a 7-4 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Mexico said it would not admit the shah, who had been believed about to go there from the United States. And the Iranian students holding American hostages in Tehran said espionage trials of the hostages might be hastened if the shah left the United States.

Several New York banks lowered their prime lending rates from 1534 percent to 151/2 percent. There was little reaction on the stock market to the cuts, which had been expected for several

Attorneys File For Mistrial

TYLER (AP) — Claiming the jury had been exposed to prejudicial news accounts, defense attorneys for one of the five Gregg County defendants in a federal racketeering trial filed a motion for a

Attorney R. L. Whitehead of Longview filed the motion late Thursday with the U.S. District Clerk's office on behalf of Peace Justice Charles Cashell.

He is being tried along with Sheriff Tom Welch. County Commissioner Bill Satterwhite, and former deputies Jim Cochran and Bill Roach.

A federal grand jury indicted them Aug. 3, charging them with racketeering and facilitating illegal gambling. In addition, Satterwhite, Welch and Cochran were indicted on charges of murder-conspiracy. Before Whitehead filed his motion for a mistrial. U.S. District Judge William Steger denied a defense motion to instruct the unsequestered jury to ignore news accounts of the trial. The motion contended the jury had been exposed to prejudicial publicity regarding Cashell's part in the trial. During testimony Thursday, FBI agent Willaim Hinshaw testified Texas Rangers had conducted gambling raids on two Longview-area establishments without notifying Welch ahead of time. "You didn't contact the sheriff because you had information in your file that he was involved in the gambling. didn't you?" asked Assistant U.S. Attorney Jeff Baynham.

"Yes, sir." Hinshaw answered.

Major Banks Lower Prime Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) - Major banks today reduced their prime lending rates to 1512 percent, choosing not to go to the lower rate previously chosen by Chase Manhattan Bank

Citibank made the initial move from 15% percent and was immediately joined by Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. and Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. Other banks were expected to follow the lead.

The prime rate is the rate charged by banks to their most credit-worthy corporate customers. Other commercial and industrial borrowers pay more.

Citibank's move had been closely watched to see if it would drop to 151/4 percent, as Chase Manhattan did on Tuesday. Chase is so far the only major bank to adopt that rate, although some smaller banks have done so.

Two South Plains Youths Awarded Scholarships At National Congress

CHICAGO (Special) - Two Texas South Plains youths received $2,000 in scholarships at the 58th National 4-H Congress here this week.

Jeffrey E. Kester. 18, of Pep and Kevin W. Igo, 18, of Plainview were among nine Texans named winners in programs arranged by the National 4-H Council and supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Kester claimed a $1,000 scholarship in the automotive program sponsored by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

Corn is one of this country's favorite vegetables, but the amount consumed at the dining table, or even at the most enthusiastic corn-on-the-cob eating contest, doesn't make a dent in the total produced.

A new generation of high fructose corn sweeteners is opening what is described as an exciting new market for corn. Food processors are using it in products ranging from baked goods to carned fruits to ice cream.

hecently, the massive soft drink industry began use of fructose sweetener when Shasta Beverages Inc. announced it was switching its entire regular line of soft drinks from refined sugar to a corn sweetened formula.

"It's exciting to be the first in the industry to make this move," said Cecil Lowry, vice president of science and technology for Shasta. "Soft drinks are one of the fastest growing segments of the food business," Lowry explained.

In total, the industry accounts for 25 per cent of the sweetener used in the country and predictions are for further

Soft drink consumption since 1960 has increased more than 100 per cent with a growth of 71/2 per cent a year. Today Americans consume a total of 8 billion gallons of soft drinks, up from 2.2 billion gallons in 1960. In terms of the individual consumer, that represents nearly 37.2 gallons per person annually.

'Consumers prefer our new soft drink over our previous formula." Lowry says. He attributes this to the greater sweetening ability of fructose combined with a taste consumers define as 'cleaner and lighter.'

Whether sweetener is used in soft drinks, processed foods or dishes "made from scratch" at home, the market is anything but tiny. In 1978, each American on the average consumed 127.2 pounds of sugar and sweetener. The soft expanding market for corn, some of its other uses are just in the testing stage. Americans long had corn on the dinner table, corn starch as an ingredient in gravies, sauces and desserts and corn oil for cooking or in margarine.

In the future we may have corn starch as a replacement for petroleum based chemicals in biodegradable food packaging," according to Kyd Brenner of the Corn Refiners Association. 'Currently, it's replacing some paper in cardboard packaging to make a lighter package that can be moved with less energy use," Brenner explained. "Corn starch goes into writing paper, to act as a sizing and to hold ink to the page. The starch is used to coat natural fibers to tighten the knit during the textile weav-

Corn starch is used in making adhesives for the backs of postage stamps: cups and dishes; as an electricity carrier in battery powered flashlights; and as a flotation agent in mineral refining, to name a few of its diverse uses. Research is also underway on a corn derived food pouch that would dissolve as the food is

Meanwhile, commercial development of the next generation of corn sweeteners continues. This corn product is said to hold great promise for the food and the soft drink industry and for dieters in particular as it is so concentrated that it will sweeten with somewhere between 30 and 50 per cent fewer calories.

Optimism based on the continued success of frutose sweeteners already in the market leads corn industry officials to predict that by 1985 nearly half of the U.S. sweeteners will come from good old fashioned corn.

A CARTER ADMINISTRATION SPOKESMAN says the president would support legislation to set 1980 target prices at $3.50 for wheat and $2.35 for corn if the legislation also includes other provisions relating to 1981 target prices. disaster payments and normal crop acreage Howard Hjort, chief economist of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, says the legislation, approved this week by the Senate Agriculture Committee, will be vetoed if it does not conform to the administration's wishes

Hjort says the president would not accept any changes in 1979 target prices and would veto attempts to set 1980 target prices higher than $3.50 for wheat, $2.35 for corn, $2.50 per bushel for sorghum, and $2.55 for barley.

The administration wants the legislation to include authority to allow the secretary of agriculture to set 1981-crop target prices at levels that would cover short-term costs, Hjort says,

HE DEFINES SHORT-TERM COSTS as annual costs producers must pay to remain in business for the short term when commodity prices are depressed. Machinery replacement cost and land value increases would not be included in short-term costs because they are not part of a farmer's annual cash-flow re-

Sen. George McGovern. D-S. D. had said he would offer an amendment to extend disaster payments through

The administration also wants the legislation to contain language permitting the secretary of agriculture to require producers to plant within their normal crop acreage in order to receive farm program benefits when no set-aside or diversion programs are in effect.

A bill providing a 7 percent increase in 1979-crop grain target prices was approved earlier by the House. Farm state leaders in the House and Senate had agreed that the Senate would amend the bill to include provisions for 1980 tar-

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., had prepared six amendments on Cotton Inc. to offer to the extra long staple cotton bill that was scheduled for mark-up by the full Agriculture Committee earlier this week.

Some members of the committee objected to the controversial amendments being linked to the ELS bill, however, and Findley agreed not to offer the amendments if later hearings are held.

An aide to Findley said either the Illinois congressman or another committee member would prepare legislation to amend the Cotton Research and Promotion Act, which created Cotton Inc.

The Hale County winner and his family live in Plainview during the school year and spend summers on the family farm where Igo has many opportunities to practice conservation.

'I have helped my dad with his farming operation since I was old enough to walk and I love the land," Igo says. "I have been especially concerned about the proper use of our soil and water in agriculture, for I have watched the terrible waste of top soil during dust storms.

"I am aware that the water table in our area is decreasing because of wasteful irrigation methods," he adds.

Because I hope to farm our family land some day, I am most interested in the practices which will help keep this land at its top production potential. It is my goal to learn how to make the best use of conservation practices and to pass this knowledge on to others for the good of our community

Igo and his father have attracted wild pheasants to wooded areas of the farm by selective planting of grass cover. They practice soil conservation by crop residue management and by spreading cotton

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Renewed nervousness over the Iranian situation led to moderate gains in soybean futures Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Grain futures closed mostly lower, however, as speculators closed out their positions in the maturing December contract before the delivery process begins

An unconfirmed wire service report that Iranian students had threatened to try the U.S. hostages if the former shah leaves the United States for Mexico led to a short-covering rally, or buying by traders covering open selling positions, a broker said.

There was little other news to influence trading. Some commercial selling of grains for December delivery led to predictions of heavy deliveries next week of corn and wheat against the December futures. Speculators, anticipating lower prices for corn and wheat on hand for delivery in Chicago, subsequently bailed out of nearby buying positions.

At the close, soybeans were 6 to 81/2 cents higher, January $6.7312; wheat was 21/4 cents lower to 21/4 cents higher. December $ 2314; cor was 134 to 214 cents lower. December $2.691/2: and oats were 11/2 to 41/2 cents lower, December $1.381/2.

Engineer Gains Texas Superior Service Award In Ceremonies

COLLEGE STATION (Special) -Leon New of Lubbock, area agricultural engineer for irrigation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has received the Texas Superior Service Award in ceremonies at Texas A&M University.

The award was presented during the Headquarters Staff Conference of the Extension Service. New was cited for pioneering innovations in irrigation methods and systems which have had a significant impact on crop production in West Texas.

In announcing the award, Dr. Daniel Pfannstiel, extension director, said New has designed, initiated and evaluated more than 70 drip irrigation demonstrations on a wide variety of plants, ranging from fruits to nuts, landscape plants to field crops.

'New serves a 79-county area consisting of about 6.6 million acres with a diversity of irrigated cropland. He has set up demonstrations with center pivot sprinklers, using soil moisture sensing devices to schedule irrigations," Pfanns-

The irrigation specialist also has prepared guidelines to determine irrigation pump efficiency, conducted numerous demonstrations on how to measure pumping efficiencies, and evaluated and published results to help producers conserve energy and reduce pumping costs,

Pfannstiel added. During the 11 years that New has served as an extension specialist, he has worked with many producers, agribusiness groups and businessmen and has become a nationally recognized authority on irrigation. As a result of his teaching, producers and others have been able to farmers and investors." For example, he

New assisted in the development of the ECONOCOT program in the Trans-Pecos area, prompted by high fuel costs for pumping water. The system reduced water requirements and other cost inputs through changes in cotton varieties and modifications of cultural practices.

Task Force Formed To Combat Large-Scale Factory Farming

WASHINGTON (AP) - Eighty-one members of Congress have formed a task force to combat what they said were federal policies that encourage large-scale factory farming at the expense of family

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., announcing the "family farm task force" at a news conference, said it would work closely with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland in examining issues involving small farms. Last spring. Bergland called for a "national dialogue" on whether farm and tax policy is suffocating small family farms and helping only larger operations. On

gan a four-week series of public hearings on that question. Nelson said some narrower studies already "show that the vast majority of the benefits under our farm programs and our tax laws go to a small minority of said, 60 percent of farm-program payments go to 17 percent of the farms. The new task force consists of 45 senators and 36 members of the House. The House group was organized by Rep. Richard Nolan, D-Minn., an early House backer of the presidential election challenge of Sen, Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who has frequently criticized Bergland for not proposing more vigorous rural development programs.

Nolan said the task force would eventually help draft 1981 legislation to solve problems it finds but does not expect to take positions on bills as a group.

School Founded By Fruit Firm Turns Out Farming Experts

'The school that Chiquita Banana built' has turned out to be a model for agricultural teaching and now graduates more than 60 highly sought-after agronomists

The Panamerican Agricultural School was founded in 1941 by the United Fruit Co. on a beautifully rolling 6,000-acre chunk of tropical land 20 miles southeast of the capital city of Tegucigalpa.

On an adjoining 6,000-acre tract donated two years ago by a school graduate, students planted 20,000 pine seedlings and installed a sawmill that turns out beams and planks used to build more school structures.

"It's really pretty idyllic here," says school administrator Monte C.Dixon, a Honduran-born U.S. citizen. "It's beautiful country and all but maybe 5 percent of the food we eat comes from right With the income from a $3 million

United Fruit trust fund, the sale of its farm products and government and private donations, the Panamerican has since 1941 become the top agricultural school in Latin America. Dixon says.

Its more than 1.600 graduates include several ministers of agriculture, directors of agricultural schools and university teachers as well as successfulfarmers. This year about 250 male students from 13 nations - women are not admitted - each paid up to $1,500 a year to undergo the intensive and strict three-year study program.

By 6 a.m. the students must be on test plots where they spend 41/2 hours milking cows, planting corn, picking avocados, feeding goats and shoveling manure.

Schoolroom classes and lectures take up most of the remaining day.

The students look after their own quarters, are responsible for running the school produce store and take turns in the kitchen, cooking and cleaning up.

We not only turn out good farmers, we also make good husbands," quipped Gustavo Perez, director of student services and public relations and a member of the school's first graduating class in Sundays are free, but students must wear military-looking khaki uniforms when they go into Tegucigalpa, where flirting girls often tease them as "the boys from the school that Chiquita Ba-

Don Henry ... Of Inductees And Inaugurations

WHEN TIME AND space run short. . . It's really not true that the entire Big Eight football roster played high school ball in Texas, just nine of the top 22. It was really slim on the second unit, just three Texans. Home grown? The entire first unit had but seven guys who came from the six states represented in the league ... SMU has basketball mania, too. It has lined up a 10-game TV contract of its own and independent of the SWC package for this winter. Both Tech games will be televised in Dallas. Channels KXTX and KXAS will beam the

The Senior Bowl wants Curtis Dickey, but at the same time, the bowl's sponsors don't want to jeopardize the Aggie swiftie's chances of making the Olympic track team. So, since the bowl game hands out dollars to its competitors, the way Dickey treats the game could be an indication of his seriousness about going to Moscow this summer instead of fall summer grid camp.

RECRUITING AS an arguing point is always on the NCAA's agenda. This time, the college dads will ponder the so-called "bump rule," which means that when a coach accidentally meets a prospect at high school, it's not considered a scheduled visit. The NCAA has this hypocritical theory on its rulesmaking calender for January... Also, there will be some discussion of letting each division of the NCAA set up its own rules on length of eligibility. Presently, it's four years within a five-year period.

Speaking of the Cougars and their drive for a third SWC grid championship. Lou Holtz comn ted: "Houston thinks the Cotton Bowl was inaugurated just for them." . . Tech Track coach Corky Oglesby spent the weekend in Las Vegas, but not at the gaming tables. He was at the deliberation table, as chairman of the West Texas track coaches group to the newly formed Athletics Congress; an organization encompassing all sports which was set up to try to settle all the NCAA and AAU squabbling.

FROM DARRELL ROYAL: "I was reading a story (where) Oliver Wendell Holmes told this young man that if he had a method by which he could cause the world to bypass all troubles, that he wouldn't pass this formula on to the public or even to his friends because he felt that everyone needed some trouble in their life. This story causes you to do some serious thinking, and I have. And my thought is: 'To hell with Oliver Wendell Holmes.'

George Ray Colvin of Turkey, who played some of West Texas State's great basketball teams of yesteryears, will be inducted on Jan. 27 into the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame. Colvin was playing back in the days when WT and the Raiders competed; that rivalry will be renewed starting Saturday night.

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff SAN ANGELO — The last time Estacado and San Angelo Lake View met was in 1977, and the Chieftans took a one-sided 21-0 victory.

If you think - for even a second that the Matadors have forgotten that defeat, you're wrong. Thursday afternoon each Matador player found a taped reminder of the score on their locker.

"Oh yeah," said Estacado coach Louis Kelley, "we let 'em know about that. We're not letting 'em forget - and we've got a couple of kids that are still around who played in that one, They remember that game.

Estacado and Lake View will meet again tonight here at 7:30 p.m. at San Angelo Stadium. And this game is immeasureably more important than was the Back then, Lake View and Estacado were in the same district. But now Lake View will enter the contest as bidistrict champions of district's 3-AAA and 4-AAA. The Matadors are bidistrict represenatives from 1-AAA and 2-AAA.

Griese Rallies Dolphins

MIAMI (AP) - Griese handing off to Csonka, just like old times - winning times, championship times for the Miami

Bob Griese, regaining the quarterback job he had lost after 13 seasons, and fullback Larry Csonka, continuing his amazing comeback, combined in the second half Thursday night to rally the Miami Dolphins to a 39-24 victory over the New England Patriots.

The 9-5 Dolphins moved closer to their first AFC East title since 1974 -Csonka's last year before joining the World Football League.

"It felt like old times," Griese said, the linemen opening the holes, Zonk in there, me standing back and giving him the ball. It was very reminiscent of the championship teams.

Coach Don Shula benched Griese last Sunday for the first time ever, but Griese came in and threw two touchdown passes to lead a 28-24 victory at Baltimore after starter Don Strock was knocked out by a tackler. Thursday night, Strock couldn't find his receivers, and at the half, the Dolphins trailed 17-13.

'At halftime, we felt the whole season rode on the second half. I made the decision to give Bob a chance to win the game," Shula said.

He and No.39 (Csonka) were fantas tic," Shula said. After the second-half kickoff, Griese moved the Dolphins 78 yards on nine plays, capping the drive with a 38-yard scoring pass to Nat Moore. Then, as he did in the Super Bowl years of the early '70s. Griese used his precise passes sparingly, content to give the ball to Csonka on inexorable, time-consuming drives.

He hit eight of 10 passes for 101 yards. while Csonka ground out 88 yards and three 1-yard touchdown plunges.

"I was just happy to contribute to the victory." Griese said. "The overriding, key thing is that we won a very big game See DOLPHINS Page 5

"Any time you can beat Brownwood in Brownwood you've done something."

Lake View defeated Brownwood 3-0 in the fourth week of the season and two week later defeated Odessa Ector 18-14 at home. Brownwood is also playing in Class AAA quarterfinal action tonight, so the Chiefs' victory is nothing to sneeze

"But I think our kids will rise to the occasion," adds Kelley. "They (the Chiefs) really made us look bad last time but it's been a good rivalry over the

100-yard dash," he was quick to add, Estacado would probably beat us. But in quickness - we're pretty close. 'Estacado's defense made some im-

lined to double-team Estacado defensive tackle James Rose who made mincemeat out of the Ector backfield last Saturday. And coach Kelley hopes that's exactly what they do.

"I imagine they'll try to double on him (Rose)," said Kelley. "But we're not just going to sit there and play dead if they do. Our whole defense is so quick that if they double him, we've got plenty of other people that can hurt you.
"Besides," added Kelley. "Rose is pretty hard to double-team. Ector tried it last week and didn't do to well.

Offensively, Kelley says the Mats plan to throw the ball more than they did against Ector - only four times. But as far as Slaughter is concerned, that's not what the Chiefs are most worried about.

"Their best offense seems to be the sweep to the tailback," said Slaughter. We've got to contain that.'

The Estacado tailback is Kelvin White and so far he's been awfully hard to contain. White's carried the ball 157 times for 899 yards in eight games this year. Last week he gained 112 yards against tween them, the White-Davis duo has scored 16 touchdowns this year.

But the Chiefs have a few studs of their own. Tailback Mike Doyle has gained 1.014 yards on 190 tries this year and fullback Garry Gonzales has garnered another 598.

Quarterback Ron Bly has completed 42 of 106 passes for 75 yards and 10 TDs this season. Bly's favorite target has been Rex Ford who's snagged 13 passes for 232 yards and five TDs.

Lake View has averaged 295 yards a game total offense while the Mats have averaged 302.8. But the biggest question for Lake View will be the health of running back Doyle.

He sprained a knee a couple of weeks ago and was not expected to start in Lake View's bidistrict game last week. Still, he played in the first half and carried the ball 18 times. He'll definitely start against the Matadors but the coaches aren't sure how effective he'll be.

"But I feel like our defense is our strong point," says Lake View's Slaughter. "Probably one of the key ingredients has been our defensive line. We've got an above-average-size line but after that we

Robertson Accepts USL Coaching Post

By NORVAL POLLARD Executive Sports Editor

Sam Robertson, who built the Texas Tech defensive unit into one of the stingiest and most respected groups in the Southwest Conference during his two seasons as defensive coordinator, was named Thursday the new head football coach at the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Robertson, who coached for four seasons at Southwestern Louisiana under the recently departed Augie Tammariello, was recommended for the position by USL athletic director Sonny Roy. Roy, Robertson and the athletic committee of the State Board of Trustees met Thursday in Baton Rouge to finalize the

The athletic committee unanimously approved Robertson at the meeting and set his salary at $32,000. The full State Board of Trustees is expected to make the decision official sometime today.

"I'm excited about the new challenge that faces me as head coach at USL." Robertson said Thursday. "USL is a great school and I am pleased to have the opportunity to return there.

'It has been a great two years for me at Texas Tech and I feel very fortunate to have had the opportunity to work with so many quality people at Tech."

Robertson declined to comment on the possibility of any assistant coaching changes he may make at the Southland Conference-member school located in

Lafayette, La. "That is something I'll have to assess," he stated. During his two-year stay at Tech, Robertson's defensive squads picked off 39 passes, a Raider record over a two-year period. Robertson's last defensive unit at Southwestern Louisiana (1977) led the nation in takeaways with 30 fumble recoveries and 19 interceptions. The 30 fumble recoveries tied a Southland Con-

Jack Quarles and Don Brooks go back further than either one will probably want to admit - publicly anyways.

It was Brooks, an assistant under Quarles for eight years, who took over as the head football coach at El Paso Coronado after Quarles moved on to Fabens (and later to Lubbock Coronado). So he certainly didn't hesitate in calling his former boss for a little information about the Monterey Plainsmen, the El Pasoans' opponent in Saturday's 2 p.m. regional contest at Jones Stadium

"I asked him (Quarles) want we need ed to do to stop Monterey," said the third-year head man.

This year the Buffs have a fine point guard in 5-9 Terry Adolph who transferred to WT with coach Edwards from Portland State and was ineligible last year. The Buffs also picked up two juco players, 6-9 John Olsen and 6-6 Steve Ornalez, who averaged 24 and 20 points a game, respectively

"We should definitely be a better shooting club because of those two," admits Edwards.

And with more height this year - the Buffs should also rebound better. But Edwards foresees trouble rebounding against the Raiders.

They like to lead you on like that (that they're a small team)," said Edwards of Tech. "But because of their guard situation they're not what you would call a small team."

And the Buff coach has a valid point. The Raiders will start 6-5 senior Kent Williams and 6-4 sophomore Jeff Taylor in the backcourt and those two hardly fit the same mold as WT's 5-9 Adolph.

Tech's other starters will be 6-8 junior Ralph Brewster at the post and 6-6 junior

Spartans Start Defense

By The Associated Press The defending NCAA basketball champions would appear to be somewhat defenseless this year.

"I suppose I should retire now," says Michigan State coach Jud Heathcote jokingly in what must-seem like a half-truth to some observers.

With Earvin "Magic" Johnson and Greg Kelser gone, Heathcote's once-high and mighty team is back down on earth and will be just another one of the boys in the Big Ten.

In fact, Michigan State - which opens its season tonight against Princeton in the Lapchick Tournament in New York — will probably have to take a back seat in perhaps the nation's strongest conference. "The Big Ten is better than last year." Heathcote says of a league that produced both the NCAA champion and the NIT winner (Indiana) in 1979, "We have great balance in our league, a number of really good teams, and it seems that two of them - Indiana and Ohio State - are head and shoulders above the rest of us.

As for Michigan State specifically, Heathcote feels, "We'll have a decent club. We'll do the best we can with the personnel we have. We're not very big and that's liable to catch up to us in the meat grinder of this talented league. We didn't recruit any superstars, either.

The benefits of winning the NCAA championship, as Heathcote underscores, usually come the second year after a team wins, not the first. That's because by March the players have generally made up their minds where they want

'Look at Kentucky - they won the NCAA title in 1978 and look at the recruiting year they had this season, one of the best ever," said Heathcote in reference to four fine players recruited by Joe Hall: Sam Bowie, Derrick Hord, Charles Hurt and Dirk Minniefield.

Michigan State will engage Princeton in the second game of an opening-night doubleheader in the Lapchick tourney. Host St. John's, ranked No. 16 in the nation, will face Oral Roberts in the open-

In Saturday's games, it's No. 1 Indiana vs. Miami of Ohio; No. 4 Ohio State against Ohio; No. 5 Notre Dame playing Valparaiso; No. 7 LSU vs. Florida; No. 10 Louisville against South Alabama; No. 12 Syracuse vs. Cornell; No. 18 Marquette vs. Eastern Montana and No. 20 Kansas against Nevada-Reno. game.respectively, a year ago. Joining Adolph in the backcourt will be either 6-3 Dan Elmer or 6-3 Eddie Harris. Both players averaged over 10 points an outing last year. So the Buffs have plenty of people capable of scoring and Myers is hopeful that his Raiders will have the same kind

"I hope we'll have good overall team scoring," said Myers. "If you can have four or five people in double figures it's hard for (the opposition) to concentrate on any one person."

Myers added that Larry Washington and Dwight Willimas are both slated to see some playing time at the point-guard position. Washington is a 5-11 sophomore who played behind Geoff Huston (now with the New York Knicks) and Tommy Parks last year and Williams is a 5-10 junior transfer from El Paso.

Myers said he expects WT to throw a full-court press at the Raiders and run a zone defense.

"He's (Edwards) a running coach," said Myers. "So I expect them to try and bring the ball down in a hurry ' Edwards saying anything - just that he's glad to be playing the Raiders.

We're really looking forward to reestablishing what could be a great rivalry," said Edwards.

NM Cage Findings Set For Grand Jury

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Results of a probe into possible bribery and mail fraud involving grades of junior college basketball transfers to the University of New Mexico will be presented next month to a federal grand jury, the FBI

FBI agent Jerry Biederstedt confirmed Thursday that investigators were looking into allegations of payments to persons in other states to change transcripts of prospective athletes so they would be eligible to attend the universi-

Biederstedt said agents and police officers were on the UNM campus Wednesday interviewing "some basketball players and other people involved in athletincluding basketball coach Norm Ellenberger.

We served one search warrant and obtained some items mentioned in the warrant," Biederstedt said.

He said he could not reveal what the items were because the search warrant had been sealed by a federal judge.

Officials at Mercer County Community College in Trenton, N.J., and Oxnard Junior College in California also confirmed Thursday that FBI agents had visited their campuses Wednesday

Mercer president John Hanley said agents looked at the transcripts of Andre Logan, who transferred to UNM from Mercer. In California, Oxnard president Art Schecter said only that he knew the agents were looking at student records. but he declined further comment. Basketball player Craig Gilbert transferred from Oxnard to the Albuquerque school.

Al Leister, athletic director at Mercer, said. "There supposedly was a transcript sent to Oxnard College from Mercer, transferring credits for Gilbert. That's what is being investigated. The transcript was not sent from here. I am 99 percent sure it was a forged docu-

SINGLETON SIDELINED

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) - Kevin Singleton, the California Bears' top scorer last basketball season, will miss at least the first game of this season because of a sprained knee. Coach Dick Kuchen said Thursday that the 6-foot-6 guard, injured in practice Wednesday, will be unavailable for a week to 10 days.

William E. Davis, UNM president, said Thursday he would be meeting with FBI agents. He also said he had advised the admissions dean, Robert Weaver, to inspect all transcripts of basketball players to determine if they were correct.

Weaver said U.S. Attorney R.E. Thompson and FBI agents have subpoenaed certain UNM records.

The agents were waiting for the Lobos when they arrived at New Mexico Arena for practice Wednesday afternoon.

"I haven't been advised, nor am I aware of all the facts," Ellenberger said. 'I have no comment to make until that

The basketball players said they were told not to discuss their interviews with the agents.

Others interviewed, according to reports by the Albuquerque Journal and Albuquerque Tribune, were Lavon McDonald, former UNM athletic director: Ike Singer and Bob Dobell, associate athletic directors: John Perovich, UNM's vice president for business and finance, and Diane Trujeque, Ellenber-

ger's secretary. The NCAA is investigating the university's basketball program. UNM officials announced in September that a letter of official inquiry from the NCAA had been received alleging irregularities in the pro-

The university, which declined to reveal the nature of the charges, said it had until Feb. 1, 1980, to investigate the allegations and respond to the NCAA. The Lobos, members of the Western Athletic Conference, open their season

There was a time when a National Football League team in need would welcome the sight of the New York Gfants showing up on the schedule

The Giants were like the NFL's Salvation Army, offering tender loving care to

But lately, this team has turned ornerwinning six of its last eight games and salvaging the season. Can they still find some sympathy and solace for the staggering Dallas Cowboys?

If ever a team needed understanding it is the Cowboys, who've slipped one game back of Philadelphia in the NFC East race. Depend on the Giants. They'll come through for a Dallas club that badly needs a soft shoulder

East Carolina Coach Dye Quits

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP) - Pat Dye is leaving his job as head football coach at East Carolina, but for where isn't known

I knew I was leaving. I'd known it for some time." Dve said. "I thought it in the best interests for me and for East Carolina if I resign now

Dve is considered the leading candidate for the head coaching position at Wyoming.

"I've known since the beginning of the season that I probably wouldn't be back." he said. "But I'd rather not get into that now

Dye posted a 48-18-1 record in his six seasons at East Carolina

With Dye's resignation, football activity at East Carolina ground to a halt. A recruiting weekend, with 15 high school prospects scheduled to visit the school Saturday, was cancelled and any recruiting visits planned were called off, he

Hoople Sees Army Upset

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE FOREMOST FORECASTER

Egad, friends, here we are in the 14th and final week of college football's regular season. And what a windup it will be

Sharing the spotlight are the Alabama-Auburn SEC clash at Birmingham, Ala., and the storied Army-Navy battle in Philadelphia

In their 49th repeat, Alabama's Crimson Tide must defeat the bruising Auburn Tigers for the right to represent the SEC in the Sugar Bowl. If the Tigers win. Alabama could be the highest-ranking team - heh-heh - to sit at home and watch TV's bowl proceedings.

The Hoople Hunch is that that prospect will be all the incentive Bear Bryant's forces need to make them a 28-17 victor. Kaff-kaff!

The series between the Army Cadets and the Navy Midshipmen is one of the most evenly contested in history - with Army ahead 37 wins to 36, and six ties in the 79 meetings

On paper, the Navy eleven appears to be a certain winner. But — and it's a big BUT - records in this series count for naught. And we confidently predict Lou Saban's Army forces will win a cliff-hanger 23-21. Har-rumph!

rivalries match Florida and Miami (of Florida) for the 41st time; and Texas vs. Texas A&M, their 86th renewal.

In the fabled Orange Bowl (their home field), the youthful Miami Hurricanes will add to the woes of the Florida Gators by winning 28-15.

Going into Kyle Field (the home of the Aggies). Texas holds a huge lead in the A&M series with 60 victories, 20 losses and five stalemates. The bowl-bound Longhorns figure - according to Buc Bored our southwestern correspondent to increase their lead in the series with a hard-earned 27-21 triumph.

Also in the Southwest, the Houston Cougars will have very little trouble with Rice as they rout the Owls 42-7, concluding another good year for Bill Yoeman's

Tennessee and Vanderbuilt have been going at it for 73 years, with the Commodores, and six splits. This is the Vols' year and we see them taking an ea-

The Holy Cross-Boston College matchup is the 75th. And this appears to be a tossup. We give a slight edge to BC. A 29-23 win for the Eagles.

Rounding out the abreviated schedule, we see Florida A&M topping Rhode Island 22-17: Grambling outmuscling Southern U. of New Orleans 33-18; and Arizona State capping a turbulent season by defeating Hawaii 28-7 under the lights in Aloha Stadium.

That's it for now, dear readers. I want to wish one and all a happy holiday

Rein Named Coach At LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Bo Rein of North Carolina State was named today as head football coach at Louisiana State University to succeed Charlie McClendon, who is being phased out after 18 seasons.

Athletic director Paul Dietzel announced the appointment after a meeting of the athletic committee of the LSU Board of Supervisors.

Rein's appointment was a well-kept secret, although speculuation centered on him in the last days of the year-long search for McClendon's successor.

Dietzel said Rein had been in Baton Rouge since Wednesday. Early in the week a Durham, N.C., television station reported that Rein had accepted the job, but Rein denied it In four years at North Carolina State, Rein compiled a 27-18-1 record, with two appearances in post season bowls. He once worked as an assistant coach under Woody Haves at Ohio State.

Rein's Wolfpack team finished 7-4 this past season. Although North Carolina State won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, three other ACC teams - Clemson, Wake Forest and North Carolina — received bowl bids and not the Wolfpack.

Dietzel said, "No possible choice will please everybody." He said the fivemember selection committee started with a list of 25 coaches and gradually trimmed it down

Knockouts Loom in Boxing Triple Header

Two key boxers in the scheduled ABC-TV triple header are Middleweight champion Vito Antuofermo and Welterweight challenger Sugar Ray Leonard. Each is aggressive and boasts knockout power. Leonard faces Wilfred Benitez and Antuofermo, Marvin Hagler.

NEW YORK (AP) - The Senate Committee on Investigations, Taxation and Government Operations is expected to call its first witnesses next week in its probe of the New York State Athletic Commission following the death of middleweight fighter Willie Classen.

State Sen. Roy Goodman, chairman of the committee, said his concern was to structure the most thorough and farreaching investigation of boxing to see how improvement can be made.

"The scope of our investigation will be much beyond the Classen tragedy." continued Sen. Goodman. "We want to take a comprehensive look at the State Athletic Commission.

Sen. Goodman said he was troubled to learn that Dr. Richard Izquierdo, the ringside physician last Friday night when Classen was knocked out by Wilfred Scypion, "is listed as an assistant adjunct physician in pediatrics at Bronx Lebanon

Sen. Goodman said he was troubled by many aspects of boxing, including the death of Classen, who suffered brain damage after being knocked out at 12 seconds of the 10th round of a fight against Wilfred Scypion at Madison Square Garden last Friday night. Classen, 29. died Wednesday night at Bellevue Hospital. He never regained cons-

"That (Izquierdo's credentials) raises the broader question on the selection of physicians to be on duty at ringside," Sen. Goodman said. "Knowledge in neurology and cardiology is important. You wonder if athletic medicine is understood in boxing circles.

Sen. Goodman questioned the athletic commission's rule allowing boxers who are knocked out to return to action after 30 days. "That rule may not provide sufficient time to recover," Sen. Goodman

"I think better medical profiles of boxers should be kept and information should be exchanged between states and countries. I am interested in the sports medicine training of ring officials, the referees, handlers and managers."

The committee has the power to recommend intervention and legislation it deems necessary. The probe goes beyond the one requested by Gov. Hugh Carey, who asked that the State Athletic Commmission reopen its examination of all details of the Classen-Scypion fight.

"I was surprised at the rapidity of the original investigation," Sen. Goodman said. "I feel an outside agency can better examine the Athletic Commission than the commission itself.

Classen was knocked down in the third round of the fight, then took an eight count late in the ninth round. After the round, he was examined in his corner by Dr. Izquierdo and referee Lew Eskin.

Dr. Izquierdo, Classen's personal physician, said he talked to the fighter in both English and Spanish and deter-

Metzger Career In Jeopardy After Accident

HOUSTON (AP) - There is better than a 50-50 chance that Roger Metzger, the San Francisco Giants shortstop who severed the tips of four fingers on his right hand in a home accident, could still swing a bat and grip a baseball, doctors

But they refused to speculate on how the injury would affect Metzger's bseball career. John Potter, a family friend from Indianapolis, Ind., said Thursday.

Potter said Metzger was using a power saw to build a storage cabinet in the garage of his off-season home in Brenham, about 60 miles northwest of Houston, when the saw hit a knot in the wood.

Metzger lost about a half-inch off each finger, to the first knuckle, he said.

Potter said the severed parts were gathered up and Metzger, 32, was taken to a hospital in Brenham, then driven to St. Luke's Hospital in Houston

But surgeons said it would be "risky and useless" to reattach the severed parts through surgery, so the ends of his fingers were sutured, Potter said.

They felt re-attaching the fingers would only be cosmetic surgery, not a functional one." he said.

Leonard, Benitez Eye Big Payoff

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Sugar Ray Leonard and Wilfred Benitez fight for the welterweight championship and a million dollars apiece tonight in the richest non-heavyweight bout in boxing histo-

"To make a long story short, you're looking at the new welterweight champion of the world," said the unbeaten Leonard, who is a 31/2-1 favorite to win the World Boxing Council welter title from the unbeaten Benitez. The World Boxing Association champion is Pipino

"Everybody says he looks tremendous," said Benitez. "But this time he's fighting the champion.

As champion, the 21-year-old Benitez is getting $1.2 million, which is $200,000 more than the purse for the 23-year-old Leonard, who has earned almost $4 million in less than three years of pro fight-

gest purse was $717,000 for his first bout with Gene Tunney in 1926; Joe Louis' biggest payday was $625,916 for his second fight with Billy Conn in 1946 and Rocky Marciano's top check was $328,374 against Archie Moore.

The Benitez-Leonard gold rush will be part of a championship doubleheader at Caesars Palace that includes Vito Antuofermo's middleweight title defense against Marvin Hagler. Those fights, plus the World Boxing Association light heavyweight title bout between champion Victor Galindez and Marvin Johnson in the New Orleans Superdome, will be nationally televised.

The telecast by ABC is scheduled for 7-10 p.m. CST.

Hagler is even a stronger favorite than eonard, being 4-1 to beat Antuofermo in ne 26-year-old Italian's first defense of he undisputed championship he won by pointing Hugo Corro last June 30 in

Judge Drops Gridder's Suit Against ASU

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Citing a lack of authority to resolve the issue, a federal judge has dismissed former Arizona State punter Kevin Rutledge's $1.1 million lawsuit against the university and ex-Sun Devil coach Frank Kush.

U.S. District Court Judge William Copple refused Thursday to accept jurisdiction in the case, but the suit also has been filed in Maricopa County Superior Court and it remains pending there.

Rutledge's suit, filed in September, names as defendants his former coach, athletic director Fred Miller and the school administration.

Now attending the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, the kicker claims Kush punched him after a bad punt during ASU's 1978 loss to Washington, and forced him to quit the team.

Kush, who denies the accusation, was suspended Oct. 13 for allegedly asking his assistant coaches to lie about the Rutledge incident

Copple said Kush was a state employee when the punching incident allegedly took place. The judge said the dispute belongs in the state courts. The judge cited a lack of evidence in dismissing the suit that Kush and his staff conspired to force Rutledge off the team by rescinding his four-year scholarship

Martin Awaits Manager's Call After Reprieve

NEW YORK (AP) - Removed from limbo by commissioner Bowie Kuhn's decision not to fine or suspend him. Billy Martin emerges today as a manager in waiting, available for a franchise that might need some instant zing.

I think the availability of Billy Martin will be too much to pass up," said Martin's attorney. Judge Ed Sapir. "No clubs have talked to him because they were waiting for the commissioner to act. But now, things can start cracking. My guess is that he'll be back managing Martin was fired by the New York Yankees last month after a hotel lobby altercation with a marshmallow salesman in Bloomington, Minn. At that time, Kuhn launched an investigation into the affair and could have fined or suspended Martin. He decided to do neither but warned the manager that any repetition of trouble would bring "stern disciplinary action.

Sapir said he was delighted with Kuhn's decision and said it vindicated

"George Steinbrenner was wrong and misled the public when he said he was firing Billy to save Billy because if this went to the baseball commissioner, he'd ban Billy from baseball. like he did Willie Mays." the attorney said. "I told George, We It roll the dice and abide by the commissioner's findings," but George said, No dice. Billy's fired.

Sapir lauded the commissioner for handling the Martin matter in what he called "an outstanding, prudent, American way. He conducted an independent investigation of what went on in Minnesota. which is something George refused to do. He gave us a meeting. George refused to do that.

Actually, there were two meetings before Kuhn reached his decision. On Nov. Kuhn's security staff met with Martin. Sapir. Doug Newton, Martin's agent, and Martin's accountant. The accountant presented a statement of Martin's net worth to counter Steinbrenner's suggestion that the manager had financial problems. Then, last Monday, Kuhn held his own meeting with Martin at the commissionen's New Jersey home.

Commissioner Kuhn was extremely prudent in his analysis of this entire matter in exerting his authority to protect baseball's integrity by looking at both sides of the coin," Sapir said. "He was absolutely correct that incidents like this den't do baseball or its personnel any good. But at the same time, baseball cecorities should not be targets, either.

Rutledge's attorney. Robert Hing. had attempted to keep the suit at the federal level to increase his chances of collecting the damages in the event state insurance policies did not cover what the lawyer said was an "unauthorized act."

The pope told Istanbul's small Catholic community Thursday night at his first public Mass of his three-day Turkish visit that he would take part in the celebration of the feast of St. Andrew, "but we will not be able to concelebrate. That is the most painful sign of the misfortune introduced in the only church of Christ through division.

The Roman Catholic Church and the Eastern Orthodox Churches split in the Great Schism of 1054, after a long-seething conflict over the authority of the pope. Pope Lee IX and Patriarch Michael Cerularius of Constantinople, the name for Istanbul until 1930, each excommunicated the other. Since then, no pope has ever attended an Orthodox Mass or Eucharistic liturgy.

"Rapprochement between the two churches began when Pope Paul VI and Patriarch Athenagoras embraced at a historic meeting in Jerusalem in 1964. Three years later, the two churches lifted their mutual excommunications and exchanged visits.

Junta Cuts Off Ties With South Africa

The ruling junta has broken diplomatic relations with South Africa, whose ambassador to El Salvador was kidnapped leaving the South African embassy Wednesday.

Salvadoran Foreign Minister Hector Dada said late Thursday the severance of relations would be made formal sometime this weekend. He said the South African Embassy had already been notified of the civilian-military junta's decision.

Dada explained that Pretoria's "apartheid policies and human rights violations" had led the moderate junta to severe diplomatic ties.

Observers said the action was also aimed at drawing the much-needed support of Third World nations for the junta which replaced President Carlos Humberto Romero, who was ousted Oct. 15 in a military coup.

Deputy Foreign Minister Hector Oqueli said earlier Thursday the break in relations "will not keep the government from doing everything possible to pre-serve the life" of South African Ambassador Archibald Gardner Dunn.

Both Dada and Oqueli said the junta "lamented and condemned" the abduc-

MEXICO CITY. Mexico (AP) -Eighteen tourists from Kansas and Missouri, injured when their bus collided with a trailer truck, were reported in guarded but stable condition at hospitals in the port city of Mazatlan. Seven other American tourists and their Mexican driver were killed.

Hospital authorities said late Thursday that most of the injured were still recovering from broken bones and bruises sustained in the accident Wednesday afternoon 22 miles north of the resort town. It appeared all of the injured were out of the critical stage and would recover, the authorities said.

Police were continuing their search for the driver of the truck, who fled from the scene of the accident. Mexican traffic laws are severe in cases where fatalities occur and uninjured persons often flee before police arrive. Police said the driver apparently tried to pass a car without checking oncoming traffic and ran into the bus on a level stretch of road near the village of El Quelite, in Sinaloa state 700 miles northwest of Mexico City. They said the bus was traveling from Los Mochis to Mazatlan, 220 miles south

"The next thing I knew I was flying over the seats along with lots of luggage and some other people right out the front of the bus that was torn away by the impact. I woke up on a bank about 10 feet in front of the wrecked bus. I thought I had broken my back so I did not move for a long time." he said in a telephone interview from his hospital room in Matazlan.

The victims wre identified by the U.S. State Department and the American Consulate in Mazatlan as Helen Gotte, Wichita, Kan.: John Andre, Wichita. Kan .: Betty Cowherd, the tour leader, of Carrollton, Mo.: Celeste Ruzieka, Kansas City, Kan.: Laverna Harmon, Nevada, Mo.: Marie Buther, Nevada, Mo.: Nell Crowley, Kansas City, Kan.; and Clemente Alvarez Cortes, the bus driver, a Mexican national whose hometown was not known. If medical insurance forms are a major bottleneck in your practice, IBMmay have precisely the cure you're looking for. It's the new IBM 5110 Doctors Office Management System, developed for physicians confronted with increasing office costs and workloads. One of a family of IBM systems lot the medical community, it's ideal for offices with one to three doctors. The system can handle up to 120 patient visits a day, and it runs on our smallest computing system, the IBM 5110. The total investment is less than $23,000:

We call it painless because standard insurance forms are a by-product of regular patient billing information. Charges are entered into the 5110 from patients' records and the claims forms are prepared by the system's printer. But the 5110 can do more than help with insurance forms. You can have patients' bills ready before they leave the office. Answer questions on their accounts over the phone. Develop reports for practice analysis. And track patients for follow-up visits and periodic examinations.

Faster completion of claims forms often means faster payment and improved cash flow. And by getting a record of past-due accounts whenever you ask for it, chances are you'll speed the collection of accounts receiva-

The 5110 can handle many routine, repetitive clerican tasks. And some one in your office can usually learn to operate it in just a few days.

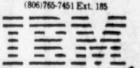

The IBM 5110 can help halt spiraling office costs. And give you more time for patient care and keeping up with developments in your field. Which is the best medicine of all.

Carter Signs Milk Support Bill, Issues Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has signed a bill that continues the government's current basic milk price support formula for two more years.

But Carter warned that if the federal support triggers surplus milk production and a buildup in government stocks of dairy products at taxpayer expense, he will ask Congress to reconsider.

"There is currently some concern that milk production could exceed demand sometime during the next two years. It may become necessary to give the secretary of agriculture authority to adjust the future rate of increase in support levels.

A 1977 law that specified the minimum of 80 percent expired this fall. Under so-called permanent law, the support

Kennedy Proposes New Farm Policy

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

MASON CITY, Iowa (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy proposed a new farm policy for the 1980s Thursday and accused the Carter administration of being 'passive and insensitive' to women's

In a campaign speech at the University of Iowa, the Massachusetts senator chided President Carter for not doing enough to gain ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

The president pays lip service to the goal," Kennedy said. "But the fact of the matter is that not a single additional state has ratified the ERA in the three years since the president took office.

Approval of three more states by June 30, 1982, is required for ratification of the ERA, which would outlaw sex discrimination. Ratification requires approval of 38 states.

Kennedy, who is challenging Carter's nomination for re-election next year, said that "in other important areas affecting the rights of women, the administration has been passive and insensitive."

He said the Justice Department has not filed a single sex discrimination in education during the Carter administration, and that no policy guidelines have been formulated for enforcement of a federal law barring sex discrimination in athletic programs.

"A Kennedy administration will vigorously carry out the anti-discrimination laws," he said. "Basic federal protections against sex discrimination must be enforced.

Kennedy outlined his proposed farm policy in a speech to members of several farm organizations. Earlier, standing in a sub-freezing wind and swirling snow flurries. Kennedy talked to members of a local grain cooperative about the impact of deteriorating rail service.

Standing on rail tracks that run by the Farmers' Co-op in Thornton, Kennedy said "the whole deterioration of the rail system has just had a very adverse effect on the farmers in the area.

"It's probably lost in the millions, responded Bob Ballantine, manager of the co-op.

Kennedy, who is campaigning for support in Iowa's Democratic caucuses Jan. 21 for state delegates to the Democratic National Convention in August, asked Ballantine if farmers are "frustrated by the fact there seems to be no apparent concern about rail transportation The senator cited the financial prob-erns of the Milwaukee and Rock Island railroads and said "the farmer ends up holding the bag."

"That's right," said Ballantine Seems like the farmer's going to end up paying for the whole thing.

"Consumers will be paying more for food, they said, but farmers' income will decline," Kennedy said.

"That is a legacy of toil and trouble the farmers of Iowa do not need and should not be forced to endure. That is not the kind of farm policy the people of America want. And it is not the kind of farm policy I would have as president.

Without going into detail, Kennedy outlined a five-step program to improve rail transportation, guarantee adequate credit to farmers, set a stronger trade policy for agricultural goods, provide essential social services to rural communities and develop alternative energy sources, particularly gasohol.

While government delays, the prob-

Late in 1978, communist Vietnam was engaged in a brutal and lucrative extortion racket, evicting those who did not meld into its socialist Utopia, confiscating their property. Ethnic Chinese were required to pay the government $1500 to $2000 to leave the country. Those who could not ransom their way out were being "resettled" in "New Economic Zones," which were nothing more than concentration camps. But hundreds of thousands were paying for the chance to risk their lives at sea in small boats in hopes of finding better lives elsewhere. Among those "boat people" early this year were the three children of Nghiem Ton That. His oldest child, Nam Tran, whom Nghiem called Nina, was 14; his son, Phung Anh, nicknamed Tony, was 12: and his youngest daughter, Thanh Ngoc, or Millie, was 10. The children had been separated from their father since he'd left Vietnam four years before. They had been living with Nghiem's mother and sisters and would be accompanied on their perilous journey by one of Nghiem's sisters, 24-year-old Thao, who was adopted as an infant by his fam-

Nghiem was in Minneapolis, anxiously awaiting their arrival. He had been sent there in February 1972 by the South Vietnamese Confederation of Labor to study industrial relations at the University of Minnesota. He was especially moved by a newspaper article about the Children's Heart Fund, which provides open-heart surgery for indigent Third World children.

In a compassionate act that would profoundly affect his future, Nghiem arrived at the fund's office and offered his spare-time services. During the next two years, he made himself invaluable as an interpreter, companion to patients, and liaison between the hospital and children's families in Vietnam.

His studies completed, in August 1974. Nghiem returned to Saigon to become a labor official - and to a joyous reunion with his children.

By the time Nghiem left Minneapolis. he and the fund's executive director. Merna Bahman, were close friends and they greatly missed each other.

The following spring, they met again. With South Vietnam falling to the communists, Merna had rushed to Saigon in hopes of extricating several children scheduled for surgery in Minneapolis. She was unable to make contact with any of the children, and joined 38 people associated with the Children's Heart Fund. including Ngheim and his family, to fly out of the doomed city.

In the unbelievable chaos, Nghiem was separated from his family and forced to leave his children behind. As an outspoken anti-communist, he knew that remaining would have meant imprisonment or death. But the emotional wrench was almost more than Nghiem could bear. Someday, somehow, he would bring his family to safety in Amer-

Back in Minneapolis, Nghiem spent 18 months helping to resettle other refugees. Eventually, he found a well-paying job, and, through a brother who had escaped to Paris, was able to send thousands of dollars home for the children's support. Yet, as the months of separation urned into years. Nghiem longed for his children. In some forlorn moments, he

His consolation and support was Merna Bahman. Shy, soft-spoken but with a will of steel, she had seen the impossible happen too often in children's heart surgery to be anything but an optimist. She and Nghiem were married in May 1978. From then on, she thought of his children as her own, and yearned for them as he did.

In November 1978, word reached Nghiem and Merna that the children could be brought out - for a price. But Nghiem was frightened by news accounts of the travail of the boat people. Untold numbers were dying at sea. Then he learned that girls only a year older than Nina were being drafted for military duty in Cambodia. Last January, he sent word for his sister Thao to bring the children out.

Thao, Nina, Tony and Millie left Vietnam by boat before dawn on April 5, 1979, bribing officials to obtain the false papers needed to identify them as ethnic Chinese. The boat captain's price for taking them out was $10,000, to be paid when he delivered the family to safety.

There were 138 men, women and children on the 40-foot craft, HF-001. A Vietnamese police boat led them from Long Xuyen to the Gulf of Thailand. As they approached international waters, the police warned that the seas were full of pirates, and offered to escort the refugees to Malaysia for $100 each. But they feared that the police would take their money and then lead them back to the prison Vietnam had become. They decided to take their chances with pirates.

Toward noon the next day, two ships bore down on HF-001. No one thought anything was amiss until the two small fishing vessels, flying Thailand's flag, brought their bows together to preventthe refugees' boat from moving ahead. Aboard each boat were ten men, armed with knives and axes. These pirates robbed Thao of $1000 in gold, and other refugees lost gold, money and jewelry. Nina managed to save one $100 bill by tucking it inside her bra. After about two hours, the pirates sailed off with their

The refugees were thankful that there had been no killing or raping. But their relief was short-lived. By mid-afternoon, more pirates caught up with them, threatening to ram HF-001 if it failed to stop. All the adult refugees were made to strip. Every piece of clothing was searched, every body inspected, every cranny of the boat ransacked. The pirates took everything they could find, leaving the boat with only one engine.

When the pirates' leader announced their intention to rape some of the women, the captain warned them that, while the unarmed Vietnamese had not resisted robbery, they were not likely to stand by while their women were violated. To the refugees' trembling relief, the pirates departed.

Bad luck continued to haunt HF-001. On one engine, the going was slow through the blazing sun. The next afternoon, the engine quit, leaving HF-001 adrift. That night, howling winds of drove mountains of water at the boat. tossing it about like driftwood. The refugees cried, prayed, frantically bailed water. After an interminable time, the storm passed. Miraculously, no one was

A Malaysian naval vessel, Sri Langkawi, came out to escort HF-001. Thao and the children cheered and hugged one another. The Malaysians took the refugees aboard and fed them. Then they were put back aboard HF-001 and told they'd be towed to a refugee camp.

HF-001 had been towed for about two hours when the refugees were startled by a surge of speed. Soon their boat was fishtailing wildly, taking on water, wallowing. Thao screamed and shouted to the wailing children to hang on. Faster and faster they went, on and on, HF-001 constantly seeming about to capsize. Clearly, the Malaysians were intent on losing the entire boatload!

When the towline broke and a party from Sri Langkawi boarded HF-001 to fix it, some of the refugees knelt to plead that they not be towed at such high speed. Sri Langkawi slowed the pace, but kept towing HF-001 seaward for two nights and a day. Finally, the towline was detached, and another party came aboard to smash HF-001's compass and sextant. An officer explained that this was to ensure that the refugees would not be able to find Malaysia again. "If you survive," he told them as he left, write your relatives and friends in Vietnam and tell them that if they come to Malaysia they will be shot on sight."

HF-001 drifted on a watery oven of a sea for two days. Luckily, an Indonesian naval vessel found the Vietnamese and summoned a police boat to tow them to the island of Letung. The Vietnamese refugees had been ten days at sea, and were sunburned, starving, parched, exhausted. Many of the women and children, including Thao and Nina had to be carried ashore. Soon, all were fast asleep

When the refugees awakened, the islanders had set up a stand at the end of the dock where they now offered to sell back to the nearly penniless refugees every item of value that they had left aboard their boat - every piece of clothing, anything that might be of any use whatsoever as a survival tool.

Finally, the refugees were left on Tulai, a small coral island with palm trees and poisonous snakes - and already a temporary home for 300 refugees. There was no food or water there, no shelter, tools or medicine. Dysentery was rampant, and the beaches were soon awash in excrement.

For about 10 days, Thao kept reminding the children that Nghiem would come for them soon, that everything would be all right. Then they stopped talking about him. To one another, the children confided that they did not expect to see their father again.

with worry. He hadn't heard anything of his children and sister in 46 days, since word had reached him on April 6 that they had already departed Vietnam. All they could do was hope and pray. Then, on May 22, Nghiem received a letter.

Nghiem opened the letter. It was from I. Jacob Jambow, who signed himself, "Indonesian Sailor." A woman from HF-001 who had befriended Thao and the children had pleaded with him to contact Nghiem. The sailor wrote that he had seen members of Nghiem's family in Indonesian waters. Although robbed by pirates, they were okay. Would Nghiem please "collect them." Somewhere in the sprawling Indonesian archipelago, his family needed him.

Within 48 hours, Nghiem and Merna had begun their long odyssey against seemingly impossible odds. Bureaucracy bedeviled them from the start. They waited a day and a half in San Francisco for Indonesian visas. Then the Indonesian consul played with his dog for more than an hour before telling them the entry visas had been granted. They were received coldly at the U.S. embassy in Diakarta. The vice consul assured them that it would take up to eight weeks to locate the children, and wondered aloud how he could be expected to get his work done if everyone came looking for relatives. He suggested a hotel and said he would be in touch if he learned anything.

But at the office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees in the Indonesian capital, Nghiem and Merna were greeted warmly. Eric Morris, an American eager to do all he could for the refugees, opened his files to them. Because the files were alphabetized, it was possible to scan the lists of registered refugees quickly. No luck.

Morris explained that because thousands of refugees were flooding in every day, information couldn't be kept current. "If your children are on one of the islands," he said, "the only way you are going to find them is to go there." He was planning to visit some of the islands the next day, and suggested they meet him in the island city of Tanjung Pinang. over 500 miles to the north.

On May 31, they caught a dawn flight. In a U.N. office at Tanjung Pinang. they vainly scanned thousands more names.

A boat for Morris was to leave that evening for Letung, administrative headquarters for the refugee camps in the vicinity. The Indonesian official in charge of the trip at first denied Nghiem's request to be taken aboard. Later, moved by Merna's tearful pleas, he relented.

After an overnight trip, they anchored off Letung. Nghiem and Merna were told they had 11/2 hours to try to learn which island their family was on, find them and get back aboard. A boat took them ashore. Reaching a small office, they scanned more lists.

Suddenly, Merna screamed. She had found the names! Thao and the children were on Tulai, a few miles distant. They rushed back to the dock and paid a boat owner to take them there.

The short trip was one of the longest Nghiem and Merna ever made. They could not speak, dared not even look at each other. At last they waded ashore into an enormous crowd. Thinking that Nghiem and Merna were U.N. representatives, refugees crowded about them begging for help, giving them letters to mail. Neghiem shouted pleas for information about his children and sister. Some in the mob knew the children and ran to get them.

It was Nina who arrived on the beach first. A path opened through the crowd to her father, and they stood staring at each other. She had grown taller, but was incredibly thin for 14. She fell into his arms, sobbing. Nghiem sat on the ground with her in his arms, rocking her.

Then came Millie, squealing and hugging Nghiem until he thought his heart would break. Ten years old, she weighed only 38 pounds. And then Tony, smiling and crying and trying to be a man about it all, a 12-year-old who weighed less than 60 pounds. And finally Thao, who had shephereded them across 1000 miles of

The children had met Merna in Saigon and turned to her now, as she had long dreamed they would, as though she had always been their mother. With only minutes to spare, the reunited family made it back to the boat.

But the reunion was short-lived. Al-

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is being asked to approve legislation that would prohibit the purchase of hypodermic needles and syringes without a prescription.

"I do not contend that making hypodermic needles and syringes prescription items will stop drug abuse," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, the bill's sponsor.

That's the assessment of John R. White, whose views are sought by major domestic investors, by foreign pension funds and by blue-chip corporations thinking of relocating, redesigning or expanding.

"A return to the central city area by the commercial traveller is evident," White observes. "And increased international tourism has brought added revenue to the urban hotels.

Assuming financing is available, said White, a money-maker in 1980 could be the modernization or conversion (to condominiums) of existing buildings. Singlefamily home investments might do well too, he added.

Nevertheless, White says he wouldn't be surprised to see some speculative losses in both condos and single-family units. It could arise, he believes, from demand retrenchment and high interest rates.

Still, in his view "real estate is the number of U.S. auto dealerships decreased by 468 in the 1979 model year. from 24,056 in 1978 to 23,588 in 1979.

The decline represents the largest drop in the number of new car outlets since the recession year of 1975, when 600 dealerships were lost, Automotive News said.

By comparison, the domestic auto industry lost 89 dealerships in the 1978 nodel year, 145 in 1977 and 221 in 1976. the publication said.

Chrysler Corp., the most financially troubled of U.S. Automakers, suffered

General Motors Corp. lost 100 outlets and Ford Motor Co. lost 95 outlets.

American Motors Corp., which has fared comparatively well with its small car offerings, gained 39 outlets in the 1979 model year.

The balance of the 468 dealerships that closed were "dual" dealerships, which sold AMC cars in addition to cars produced by the Big Three manufactur-Doenges said the pressures dealers face now are legion.

Gus Curtis, 54, of Laredo was the $24, 000-a-year head of the Beatrice Foods Company subsidiary in Bogota when he was kidnapped on Sept. 28, 1976 and held for 235 days until May 18 in a 7-by-3 cell at the base of a mountain mine shaft. The non-jury trial in U.S. District Court in Manhattan is believed to be the first of its kind.

Curtis, whose wife Vera was a wellknown television personality in Bogota, testified he was warned by a State Department official in Colombia that he was in danger of being kidnapped two

From Mileage Standards DETROIT (AP) - American Motors Corp., the smallest domestic automaker. is seeking an exemption from Congress for federally mandated mileage standards in the 1980s, an executive says.

Wilson W. Sick, an AMC group vice president and the company's chief financial officer, said the company wants a congressional waiver from industry-wide mileage requirements that will be in effect in 1982 and 1983.

The exemption would allow AMC to include in its overall fuel economy ratings the small, fuel-efficient cars the company plans to assemble in this country in conjunction with the Frenchowned automaker Renault.

Without help from Congress, the Renault-designed vehicles cannot be used in computing AMC's fleet economy until 1984 at the earliest, he said in an interview published Thursday in the Wall Street Journal

Current legislation does not allow Rehault to be included in AMC's fleet average until 1984, when at least 75 percent of the content of the cars is expected to be domestically produced.

Sick told the newspaper that a bill already has been introduced in Congress that would exempt AMC from the requirement for the first two years of its joint manufacturing arrangement with Sick also said that AMC is close to completing a new financing arrangement with its banks that will increase its shortterm line of credit - which stands at $102 million.

in danger and repeatedly asked for a transfer to another country

'Don't worry about it. Everything will be all right," the company answered, according to Curtis' account.

Curtis worked for Beatrice Foods in Bogota from 1969 until November 1977 when, he said, he was "forced" to resign after the company asked him to return to Bogota.

The terrorists, numbering at least 22, originally demanded $5 billion in ransom. The company, however, hired two British terrorist experts who negotiated the figure down to $450,000.

Curtis testified he was pulled from his car while being driven home and was bound and blindfolded and taken in the terrorists' car to the head of a deep shaft into which he was lowered by sling.

He said he was met at the bottom by a hooded woman who told him he had been kidnapped and who led him into the 'cage-like' cell, where he changed into pajamas and where he was locked up alone in "absolute silence."

WASHINGTON (UPI) - California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. seems to thrive on campaigning for issues most politicians run from - first homosexuality, now gasoline rationing.

Brown competed a two-day visit to Washington this week by strongly calling for gasoline rationing now, before the nation's energy situation gets worse.

Then he headed for Iowa to meet with the editorial board of the Des Moines Register and Tribune which is sponsoring a candidate debate in January.

The Register so far has invited only President Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy to the Democratic debate, failing to include Brown on the grounds the Californian is not really interested in running

But Brown disputes that, saying, "I intend to compete in the Iowa caucuses next January even if I am excluded by the newspaper.

Brown, shown running a poor third in all national opinion polls so far, said unless he is included in the debates, several issues Carter and Kennedy agree on such as nuclear power, and the MX missile system - will not be aired thorough-

"Since both the president and Senator Kennedy are in basic agreement on those major issues, they are unlikely to discuss them in the Iowa debate," Brown said.

In a speech to the Women's National Democratic Club, Brown said gasoline rationing might not be popular but it is the best course of action.

"Rationing is not a perfect solution, it's not easy and it's not without problems," Bown said. "Given income disparity, a form of coupon rationing whatever its inequities - may provide more equity" than other proposals.

He said such rationing — which he said could be similar to the kind used during World War II — was needed to reduce use of imported oil. He said unless the United States can cut such imports it will face severe economic problems.

Brown also emphasized his commitment to ban discrimination against homosexuals - a traditionally touchy political issue. Earlier, Brown campaigned in a gay disco bar in the nation's capital.

Hoax Causes Big Losses For VA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Officials of the Veterans Administration office here believe they are the victims of a hoax that produces a flood of requests for nonexistent GI Insurance dividends and costs the government thousands of dollars each year to explain.

The hoax takes the form of officiallooking notices advising World War II and Korea veterans that they are eligible for a special dividend even if their GI insurance expired years ago, VA spokesman Dick Baker said.

About $100,000 was spent last year and more than $250,000 is being spent this year, in postage and labor of workers iries and trying to correct the falsehood, Baker said.

The fake notices, often repeated by well-intentioned publications, say to write for information to Capt. W.R. Prosser at the VA in Philadelphia, which administers the agency's $86 billion insurance program. Baker said there is no Capt. W.R. Prosser affiliated with the Veterans Adminstration.

This thing is really running rampant all over the country," he said this week in a telephone interview.

This dates back to right after 1948. We've had rumors about a special dividend being paid and urging them to write to the Veterans Administration," he con-

The hoax usually begins right after the first of each year, when Veterans Affairs Administrator Max Cleland announces the year's total insurance dividends, Baker said.

"Last year it was $236 million to veterans of World War II and Korea whose policies are still in force," Baker said. Those dividends are paid automatically on the anniversary of those policies.

"This hoax crops up usually each year when official-looking application forms complete with an address where they are to be mailed, which is here, start to mysteriously appear in various parts of the

"This is an official-looking form, and it urges veterans to send it here to get a dividend of 55 cents per $1,000 of the GI Insurance for each year's service," Baker

He noted that this could sometimes amount to several hundred dollars on the maximum $10,000 insurance available to veterans of Korea and WWII.

"Now these have been appearing in one form or another," Baker said. "In my opinion it has to be perpetrated by someone who has a grudge against the VA or the federal government in gener-

Anti-Castro Groups Gain Popularity

MIAMI (UPI) - More than 20 years after the Cuban revolution, and 18 years after the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion. anti-Castro groups in Miami are attracting new members and seem to be enjoying a resurgence.

For the first time in its history, the militant Bay of Pigs Veterans Association, Brigade 2506, has opened its membership rolls and is in the middle of a month-long recruiting drive.

By Wednesday, the veterans association had received 212 applications, said Pedro Pablo Rojas, press secretary of the group that takes its name from Assault Brigade 2506 - the Cuban exile force that stormed ashore at the Bay of Pigs on April 17, 1961.

Other organizations such as Abdala, an anti-Castro youth group, and Alpha 66, a Miami-based group that has staged commando raids on Cuba, also report increased membership and more interest in the events they sponsor.

Alpha 66 recently held a "Revolutionary Reaffirmation Luncheon" where speakers tried to stir up anti-Castro senti-

Anti-Castro leaders said their groups have been bolstered by the arrival of Cuban political prisoners in recent months and rumors of instability in Cuba.

More than 3,000 prisoners and members of their families have arrived in Miami since an agreement for the release of 3,600 political prisoners was reached last November between the Castro government and a Cuban exile group called the Committee of 75.

Earlier this month, the Cuban government announced the release of the last of the 3,600 prisoners included in the "dialogue" agreement. Most of the ex-prisoners have come to the United States, but some have gone to Latin American countries, some have chose to remain in Cuba or are awaiting processing of papers so they can leave.

The arrival of the prisoners has given 'new life" to the Brigade and brought a new awareness of conditions in Cuba, said Rojas.

"Many Cuban prisoners have been in prison for 20 years and they want to do anything they can to help now," Rojas said. "Even though it's been 20 years, we're still fighting."

He said reports of possible insurrection in Cuba also have contributed to the revival and led to the recruitment drive.

"We want to be prepared," Rojas said. "Something may happen in Cuba according to reports we have. Many people are dissatisfied and the situation keeps getting worse. Rene Mujica, the second secretary at the Cuban Interest Section, the Castro government's office in Washington, said this of exile reports of Cuban internal strife: "If they are saying that, they are billions of miles from reality. My personal reaction is that these people simply don't know what's happening." The applicants who are approved by the Brigade's Study and Intelligence Committee will be given training in ideology, philosophy and public administration, Rojas said. He said he preferred not to comment on whether they would receive military training But in a year when Cuban exiles are being permitted to return to their homeland for visits and families are being reunited under the prisoner release and repatriation programs, not all Cuban exiles are encouraged by the renewed anti-Castro fervor.

Andres Gomez - a spokesman for the Antonio Maceo Brigade, which favors normalization of relations with Cuba has called the stepped-up "militancy" an euphemism for terrorism.

Discrimination Vote Prompts Resignations

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - A decision by the exclusive, all-white Dayton Woman's Club to rescind an anti-discrimination resolution has come under attack by the NAACP and prompted some members to

"I am resigning immediately," Kathy Borchers, recording secretary of the club's junior board, said after the 265 to 245 vote this week rescinding a resolution barring racial and religious discrimina-

"I don't want anything else to do with the group," she said.

The Dayton chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People labeled the club racist and said it would "take legal and direct action against it.'

The women's social organization, headquartered in a downtown Victorian mansion, was started in 1916 by John H. Patterson, founder of the National Cash Register Co., and his sister, Mrs. Joseph

At the time of its inception, the club stated it was to provide a place "where Dayton's women can participate in literary, civic and social activities.

The club's recent membership has been about 1,700 women. After criticism by some members that the club allegedly excluded blacks and had an unspoken quota for Jews, the club's board passed a resolution banning exclusion from membership because of race, color or religion.

Opposition to the resolution was expressed in a letter to the membership signed by seven former presidents. The letter said: "If we have not needed this resolution before, why do we need it now? Is it because the newspapers or other outside pressure organizations have told us who our members should be? We are not legally required to admit any particular class of individual.

Linda Lovelace Seeks Financial Aid

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) - Linda Lovelace, star of the pornographic movie "Deep Throat," has asked the courts to appoint a conservator to help her manage her business affairs.

State Supreme Court Justice Robert Meade said this week he had set a Dec. 3 hearing on the the 30-year-old actress' request.

Attorneys for Miss Lovelace petitioned the court last July to designate a financial guardian. At that time, Meade appointed attorney Ira Block of Commack to investigate the actress's financial situation.

Block filed an affidavit saying he believes Miss Lovelace is in need of the assistance. Her husband, Larry Marchiano, a cable television system installer, "does not have sufficient financial acumen to assume the duties," Block said.

Others who "took over her money management during her movie career apparently abused the privilege and her monies," Block said:

He said Miss Lovelace has virtually no income, since no royalties have been

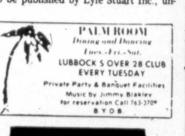

In detailing the actress' career, the affidavit states that Miss Lovelace was beaten severely in and about the body paid to her from the movie "Deep continuously in an effort to have her perform the acts which resulted in the production of the film now known as 'Deep

"It would appear that these acts that were performed in that picture were involuntarily performed by her as a result of the beatings," the affidavit states.

Block said a book by Miss Lovelace is to be published by Lyle Stuart Inc., under the title, "An Untitled Memoir of Miss Lovelace." He said she could earn "substantial sums of money" from the book.

"Mountbatten" has the look and feel of a documentary - it is a documentary; so the presence of Mountbatten himself as host and narrator has an astonishing effect. It's as if "one of the legendary heroes of the past - Lord Nelson or a George Washington - were here to tell us how it was," as MacNeil says.

Mountbatten, who called himself "the most conceited man I have ever known," appreciated the value of his own life, not just in terms of military or administrative achievement, but as a good story.

Mountbatten takes us through his life, which is to say, he gives us a fairly complete survey of 20th century history. He was Queen Victoria's great-grandson, nephew of Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm, a member of the family that ruled Europe. His relatives adorned thrones in Britain, Russia, Germany, Greece, Norway, Sweden and Spain.
