Icy Streets, Highways Slow Travel Across Plains

Vol. 54, No. 67

A vast area of freezing rain covered most of Northwest Texas this morning, resulting in at least one death from icy highways, and making travel hazardous over the entire region.

The only fatality up to noon was the death of a student in a Snyder school bus which overturned on an icy highway.

Two other weather-related traffic accidents were reported in the Lubbock area, but none of those involved were thought to be seriously injured.

Lubbock police reported no serious accidents on city streets.

The first peek out the front door this morning brought a rude awakening for Lubbock residents, who found a layer of ice coating everything from car windshields to tree branches.

A cold front that pushed through the area late Tuesday triggered sleet and freezing rain on the South Plains during the pre-dawn hours.

> Overpasses and less-traveled roads were especially hazardous, the weather service warned. Forecasters were predicting that road conditions would be improved by noon, but the 11 a.m. temperature here was only 28 degrees.

Highway department workers were salting overpasses and bridges this morning and a spokesman said the salting would continue as ice continues to form. Skies are expected to clear and temperatures should rise Thursday to the mid-40s. However, temperatures today were expected to reach only the mid-30s. Probability of precipitation is 80 percent today and 20 percent tonight.

The highway department reported adverse weather conditions south to Dawson and Gaines counties, although Palmer, Swisher, Castro and Bailey counties reported no precipitation.

Clear weather was reported for the area north of Paducah, while the area from Paducah to Guthrie was receiving rain and sleet this morning.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported slick spots on the roads between Lubbock, Plainview and Abilene. Wet spots were reported north of Plainview, but the roads are clear around Amarillo and north into the Panhandle.

Neither Lubbock Power and Light nor Southwestern Public Service reported any damage to power lines due to the freezing rain. A spokesman at Southwestern predicted that lines should hold if the weather didn't get any worse than it was this morning.

County agents expect little, if any, damage to South Plains cotton, since about 90 percent of the crop has been harvested. Hockley County Agent Bill

Marble-size hail was reported at Odessa and pea-size hail was reported for Midland by the weather service, but county agents in both counties said they had received no damage reports. Kennedy Denies Message To Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Iranian leaders said today that Sen. Edward Kennedy offered to meet Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in an effort to resolve the hostage crisis, but a Kennedy aide denied the report as "totally false."

There was disagreement in Tehran, however, on whether the reported offer was made by letter, telegram or through an intermediary.

The controversy over the alleged Kennedy move sharpened as the Iranian judge who claimed responsibility for the assassination of the shah's nephew said the 50 American hostages, now in their 39th day of captivity, will not be sentenced to death even if they are tried as

But Khomeini himself accused the United States of fomenting internal unrest in Iran in an effort to divert attention from "the crimes of America."

The official Iran radio early today broadcast what it said were the contents of a letter in which Kennedy purportedly asked to meet with Khomeini.

The broadcast said the letter was written by the Massachusetts Democrat Dec. 9, asking to meet Khomeini and praising the ayatollah's accomplishments, saying, "I shall give my blood for

The radio said Khomeini rejected Kennedy's request for a meeting.

In Washington, Kennedy aide Richard Burke said the letter was a fabrication.

'It's not so," Burke said. "The senator has made no communication whatsoever with the ayatollah and that broadcast is totally false." He said Kennedy "would never say anything like that."

Despite the denial, Iranian leader insisted there was such a letter. Sayed Ahmed Khomeini, the Islamic leader's son, said over Radio Iran: "The original letter is with me. But since Mr. Kennedy has seen this published and it has become bad (for him) this is another matter.

"Incidentally, this is not the first time. He even went to Mr. (Mehdi) Haveri (Iran's resident foreign ministry adviser in the United States) and wanted to talk to the imam (Khomeini) and solve the hostage problem. The imam did not Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh told the radio another version.

"A telegram with his (Kennedy's) signature was received and we sent (it) to the imam. But today, in view of the atmosphere prevailing in the United States, and the attacks which have been made on Mr. Kennedy following his positive stand on the shah's crimes, he (Kennedy) issued the denial.

"From our point of view the problem was not important," the foreign minister said. "We did not want to bring up the matter before studying it and I wanted to give it to the imam personally. But, in any case, it was published before that. Since he has denied it, we also accept it

In the future, the ministry said, all telegrams and messages will be forwarded to their destination "after ascertaining the accuracy of their origin."

Two weeks ago, Kennedy accused the deposed shah of looting Iran of billions of dollars and presiding over one of the most tyrannical regimes in history. The statement was splashed in Iran's media.

Teddy Lloyd Keith, said to be a student at North Elementary School near here, was pronounced dead at the scene by Snyder Justice of the Peace Dan Cal-

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said none of the other students in the bus, reportedly numbering about 15, was seriously injured in the mishap shortly before 8 a.m. The driver, Robert Adams, was being treated this morning for shock at Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder.

The bus, carrying students from several area schools, was traveling east on U.S. 180 when Adams crossed an icy bridge and apparently lost control of the vehicle.

The bus turned over on its side about 150 feet from the bridge, according to persons at the scene

Callaway, who ruled the boy's death an accident, said Keith was crushed under the bus. He said rescuers took about 15 minutes to get the victim free. "It seemed like an hour," the justice of the peace added.

The bus was not extensively damaged in the accident, and the other studentsreportedly escaped through the emergency exit in the back of the vehicle.

Warning Sounded

n Soviet Build

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - Defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization warned today that the buildup of communist military power and a Soviet bid for greater global influence threaten the security of the West. The NATO foreign and defense ministers also meet jointly today to give final formal approval to plans to station 572 new medium-range American nuclear missiles in Western Europe. In a statement issued after their yearend meeting, the defense ministers said the communist Warsaw Pact nations' military capabilities continue "at levels well in excess of defensive require-

William Mumford, NATO's secretary general for defense planning and policy, said in a news conference after the meeting that the Soviet Union increases its defense spending by between 4 and 5 percent annually - 11 to 13 percent of its gross national product.

The 15 NATO allies have set themselves a goal to increase their defense spending by 3 percent yearly, an aim not all members are meeting. The ministers said the goal, extending to 1986, represents "the essential underpinning for the alliance's efforts to improve its defense capabilities.'

They say this is needed because of growing Soviet military power and to overcome what they termed "major weaknesses" within NATO.

Mumford said later the weaknesses include lack of adequate training, lowlevel defense of airfields and the alliance's failure to attract skilled personnel able to handle increasingly sophisticated

The manpower shortages are becoming very critical," Mumford told reporters, saying NATO nations have to compete with the civilian sector for specialized personnel. France and Greece did not participate in the defense ministers meeting, but will attend a two-day NATO foreign affairs ministers meeting Thursday. France left NATO's military system in 1968. Greece withdrew after the 1974 Cyprus invasion by Turkey. The NATO alliance also revealed preliminary figures showing 1979 defense spending for the 15 western nations was $211.6 billion, $126.4 billion by the United States and $85.2 billion by its European allies.

Mumford would not answer any questions on the missile siting issue, which was to be decided later in the day.

DeRosa To Seek Sheriff's Post

Former Lubbock County deputy Mike DeRosa today officially announced his candidacy for sheriff and pledged that, if he's elected, he will work to increase the efficiency of the sheriff's department. 'I want to make this sheriff's depart-

Berry Farm Founder Honored

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) - Walter Knott, the berry farmer who turned his roadside stand into one of the nation's biggest amusement parks, has celebrated his 90th birthday.

A family party was held Tuesday at Knott's Berry Farm amusement park in the luxurious mobile home where Knott lives, "within a stone's throw of the first berry stand," according to his son Russell Knott, 63.

The elder Knott, who is also credited with the success of the boysenberry, is no longer active in the management of the 150-acre farm, now operated by his four children and six grandchildren. Nearly 60 years ago, Knott leased 10 acres of land and grew berries, which his family sold from the roadside stand. The stand evolved into a produce market, a tea room, a restaurant and eventually a ghost town attraction and other amusements, including thrill rides.

Guerrillas of the political-military wing of ETA (Basque Land and Liberty) kidnapped Ruperez on Nov. 11 as he was driving from his home in Madrid to a meeting of leaders of centrist Latin America parties:

Ruperez' release came only hours after a Bilbao radio station received a tape recording of an alleged interrogation of Ruperez in which he said he backed amnesty for Basque prisoners and was now convinced that prisoners were being tortured in Basque jails.

ETA demanded that the government free six of its imprisoned members and that the Basque General Council, the Basque region's autonomous government, open an investigation into alleged police torture of prisoners in return for Ruperez' life. The demands appeared to have been only partially fulfilled by the government.

Joaquin Ruiz-Gimenez, president of the Committee for the Liberation of Javier Ruperez, said that while there had been no negotiations in the strict sense of the word between the government and ETA, there was a dialogue and mutual understanding by each of them with his Both the Basque General Council and

Japan May Boost Ag Purchases

WASHINGTON (AP) - The possibility that Japan, already the leading customer of U.S. farmers, some day could be a completely open market raises "mind-boggling" possibilities, says an Agriculture Department report.

Japan recently made a number of concessions to the United States in multilateral trade negotiations that have helped open the door wider to a number of U.S. goods, including beef, citrus products, poultry and protein concentrates, the report said.

"It has been estimated that the quota increases alone could boost annual import value (of beef, oranges and citrus juices) by nearly $125 million in 1983 when the increases will have been fully implemented," it said. The report, in a new issue of "Foreign Agriculture," was written by Beverly Horsley of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

Japan, for many years, has been the leading foreign buyer of U.S. agricultural products. In the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, those purchases total about $5.1 billion and are expected to rise to another record in 1979-80 of $5.3 billion.

In other words, of an estimated $38 billion in farm exports predicted for this fiscal year, Japan will buy about 14 percent of the total.

Miss Horsley said that in addition to liberalized trade policies, there has been "continuing growth in demand" for food products such as beef in Japan, where per capita consumption is low compared with that of most developed countries.

Still another is the economic advantage enjoyed buy U.S. producers in a market where cost factors for raw materials - and now increasingly for labor favor them over Japanese and other suppliers," the report said.

The big U.S. items in the Japanese market still are wheat and flour, feedgrains, soybeans, cotton, livestock products and fruits and fruit preparations.

In a recent interview with John S. Beshoar, U.S. agricultural attache in Tokyo, Miss Horsley said Japan is an even greater potential market for American beef.

Beshoar said that "prices like the $31 per kilogram recently charged for bone less sirloin steak in Tokyo still suppress demand" but that marketing factors and consumer pressures could help reduce

The publicity surrounding our nego tiations last year on beef, where we were pressing for access and the (Japanese) producers were resisting because they felt this would harm their interests, got and lot of Japanese interested in trying highlot of Japanese interested in trying quality beef," Beshoar was quoted as

A Girl Scout in Cleveland gave me a present, and it was such a tasteful gift, I thought I'd share it with you.

The gift was a necklace made out of a Girl Scout cookie! You can use any kind of cookie, and I think it makes a terrific lastminute Christmas gift.

Here's how: With a needle poke a hole in the top of the cookie. Turn it over and widen the hole with a nail.

Use an emery board to get rid of crumbs (who wants a bumpy cookie?).

Scrunch up a small piece of silver foil. (The cookie will sit on this while drying.

Brush acrylic polymer (from the art supply store) first on the sides, then the top of the cookie. (Poke the hole to clear it of the goo.) Put the cookie on the blob of foil to dry. Then brush the acrylic polymer over the back. (Poke out that hole again!) Let it dry.

Repeat three or four times (the Girl Scouts have an ancient rule Four light coats are better than two thick!").

String a length of wool or ribbon through the hole, and I know someone will enjoy wearing your work of art. Just remind them that it may look incredible, but it's not

More U.S. Corn Sold To Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says the Soviet Union has bought an additional 1.49 million metric tons of U.S. corn for delivery through next Sept. 30.

Also, officials said this week, China has bought an additional 100,000 metric tons of corn for delivery in 1979-80. The order had been designated by the exporter for the Soviet Union but was switched to China.

Orders of U.S. grain by China for 1979-80 now include more than 1.1 million metric tons of wheat, 734,000 of corn and 427,000 of soybeans.

The Soviet Union's grain orders now total nearly 14.2 million metric tons, including more than 4.4 million of wheat and 9.7 million of corn. Its orders also include more than 1.1 million metric tons of sovbeans.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat or soybeans.

> William T. Coyle, a Japanese trade specialist in the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service, told a reporter he had no solid figures to show how much U.S. sake is being sent to Japan but that the amount probably is not real significant" at this point.

Coyle said, however, that there is considerable economic attraction in Japan for American sake and, particularly, a joint venture in this country for its manufacture.

Rice prices in Japan are strictly controlled and currently are around $1,300 a metric ton, more than four times the going world rice price, Coyle said.

But sake prices, he said, are not so strictly regimented, so it is possible for a Japanese buyer to import U.S. sake at considerable savings.

Coyle said Japan also has been importing some spaghetti and cake mixes from the United States in recent years instead of relying so much of making those products itself from U.S. wheat.

In the agency's report - which was primarily an account of Japan as the leading foreign market for U.S. farmers - officials made further note of Japan's importing sake and other processed

"These minor items may not count for much individually, but they indicate a trend toward imports of products that could blossom into a new growth market," it said.

Weight-loser's cheer: "Hip, hip away!"

NEVER LET IT be said that the federal government isn't doing all it can to discourage oil production in this country-past, present and future. Take the case, for example, of one Lubbock rovalty owner who has learned he may be $500,000 poorer than he thought.

He owns royalty on a lease operated by a major oil company which, in an effort to squeeze more oil out of the ground, decided on water-flooding.

Under the Department of Energy's complicated price controls, the company counted the production as coming from stripper wells, thus qualifying for a higher price.

BELATEDLY, DOE says huh-uh, you've been over-pricing that oil since 1973. If it wins the case, can you imagine what that will do to any operator or royalty owner's incentive to produce more oil? So, okay, President Carter said we'll gradually lift price controls. That would encourage produc-

But, wham!, he turns right around and says we're going to discourage production by taxing away the increased revenue, which he called windfall profits.

Congress now is debating various versions of this proposed tax, which could wind up providing the federal treasury a windfall of anywhere from $155 billion to $277 billion over the next 10 years. Now, I ask you, which is more important: A windfall tax or more oil? In a letter to royalty owners, the chairman of Gulf Oil had this to say:

We estimate that if the funds from decontrol are not taxed, an additional four million barrels per day of domestic crude oil could be produced by 1990, above what would have been produced with continued controls.

CHAIRMAN JERRY McAfee added that the proposed tax would treat royalty owners differently, depending on whether they leased to an independent producer or to one of the major oil com-

The royalty owner will not qualify for the 1,-000-barrel a day exemption," the Gulf Oil chairman said, "if the working interest is owned by an integrated producer, such as Gulf.

These are just two more examples of how different taxpayers have been and will be treated differ-ently under price controls and windfall taxes. The solution? If we want more oil, decontrol prices and encourage oilmen to use the money to produce energy rather than tax it away from

Harry Truman was in his second term, assailed by crises East and West, the Korean War and the Berlin impasse.

Stalin proposed a European conference on postwar "security" of that continent, but American skepticism stretched out the preliminary talks through several presidential administrations.

The sharp slide in the rate of growth of Ameriwithout a warrant. This was not a case in which ca's productivity is a key factor behind our galloping inflation. Workers in the U.S. now are only two-thirds as productive as our grandparents were, a recent survey disclosed. The average worker now spends only 55 percent of an eighthour workday actually producing.

One result: The individual's share of the country's output of goods and services is shrinking and the worker's standard of living is improving slowly, if at all.

So deep is concern about this productivity challenge that experts are starting to look in new directions for the causes-as well as any cures. And out of this new look has come the theory that at least part of the problem may lie in the executive suites of business as much as on the assembly

This theory, in turn, has led to a new field of behavioral science called Organizational Development. It is based on the simple premise that how well people do their jobs depends in large measure on how much they care about their organization's goals-and that depends largely on how their company or supervisor treats them.

The three problems which I outlined at the start of this report and the typical solutions recommended by experts in OD illustrate how this new science might contribute to rising productivity.

THE THIRD PROBLEM and solution covering a Washington agency office indicate that specialists in OD feel they have a service to offer government as well as private industry.

And in today's atmosphere of severe criticism of swollen, inefficient government from both the public at large and politicians crossing all lines of party, the federal government is receptive.

With budget cutbacks being tried in virtually all areas and staff reductions in general favor with the voters, federal managers are far more efficiency-minded than at any time in memory (even though their efficiency doesn't show much evid-

He ordered customers patted down for concealed weapons. While frisking Ventura Ybarra, Johnson felt a cigarette pack with objects in it. To no one's great surprise, the packets turned out to contain heroin.

Ybarra was found guilty of possession and sentenced to two years on probation. He appealed. Last month the Supreme Court ruled the evidence

Campaign Focus Switches To Kennedy's Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) - The first vote has yet to be cast, but there already has been a boom-and-bust cycle in the campaign of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

President Carter, virtually written off by some politicians and analysts even before he declared his candidacy, turns out to be politically alive and well.

He appears more formidable than before, and Kennedy less so.

But comebacks and slumps don't mean much until they start producing nominating delegates. That process won't begin for another five weeks.

Kennedy has not conquered simply by running. In fairness, he never suggested he would, but said weeks ago that he expected a closely fought contest, with Carter a candidate for the duration.

There was at the time a wave of speculation that Carter would not make it through the early primary season. He was down, and some said he would be

Now the fashion has changed, and the focus is on Kennedy's campaign prob-

The only surprising thing about this is that anyone should be surprised. And the only certainty is that there will be more peaks and more valleys for Carter, for Kennedy, and probably for California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. as well.

Carter's performance rating has soared during the Iranian hostage crisis, and the most recent polls show the president and the challenger from Massachusetts in a virtual dead heat heading into the primary election season

That, too, is subject to change

The lost lesson of campaigns past is that politics is a volatile business, especially in the early phase of a presidential contest, when there are only polls, organizations, endorsements, fund raising and hunches upon which to base judgments

Eight years ago, Sen. Edmund S. Mukie of Maine was the runaway leader by all those indicators, but his campaign faltered and collapsed as soon as the voting

In advance of the 1976 campaign, a book called "The Invisible Primary" demonstrated conclusively that Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington would be the Democratic presidential nominee. Jackson was out well before convention

On the Republican side, then-President Gerald R. Ford looked shaky — at best - against the challenge of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, Ford proceeded to defeat Reagan in the early primaries, at which point the challenger eemed all but eliminated. As soon as that had been said. Reagan started deteating Ford, who held on narrowly to win the nomination.

Changes like that are part of the flow of any campaign. They can grow out of an incident, a slip of the tongue or, as is the case now, an international crisis.

The embassy imprisonment of 50 American hostages in Tehran has put

Group Raps Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Proposed federal railroad track safety standards would slow down most passenger trains to the point that ridership would drop drastically, according to a consumer

The National Association of Railroad Passengers, in testimony to the Federal Railroad Administration this week, said the proposed standards would add so much time to the schedules of almost every train outside the Boston-Washington Northeast Corridor that few people would want to ride the trains. The consumer group said Chicago-Seattle service would be slowed by six hours and 43 minutes, a 14.2 percent slowdown. Duluth-Twin Cities service in Minnesota, by 58 minutes or 27 percent; Chicago-Texas service, by three hours and 49 minutes or 9.3 percent; and Washington-Montreal service, by 3 hours and 37 minutes or 21.9 percent.

Given the history of FRA's attitude toward rail passenger service, we have to wonder if this exercise in classic regulatory overkill is not an attempt to accomplish covertly what the FRA failed to do earlier this year openly - drastically reduce the amount of rail passenger service available to the public," said the group's executive director, Ross Capon.

Carter in the position that is most advantageous for any president. He must be presidential.

think his remarks about the shah were a mistake, but he has spent some time defending and explaining them, which is not the way to build momentum for a challenge to the president.

All of this has worked to the president's advantage - at least temporarily. A Gallup poll commissioned by News week magazine showed public approval of Carter's performance in office up from 30 percent to 61 percent after a month of crisis in Iran.

A Louis Harris survey for ABC News showed Carter narrowly ahead of Kennedy among Democrats and independents asked who they would prefer to see nom-

Because President Carter, Reagan and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., already are well known by most Americans. Connally said he has been unable to increase his own public popularity in re-

Connally suggested that "if none of the presidential candidates takes taxpayers' money, we will have taken a giant' step to returning the electoral process to the American people where it belongs."

Despite his decision to forego matching funds. Connally will continue to be bound by a limit of $1,000 per individual contributor and $5,000 for a qualified political action committee.

Other factors in Connally's decision included the generous news coverage given Kennedy's presidential bid and the continuing hostage situation in Iran. which has overshadowed media coverage of presidential politics, said sources close to the Connally campaign it belongs."

UNADILLA, Ga. (AP) — Tommy Kersey, leader of the American Agriculture movement in Georgia, has attracted national attention with his colorful descriptions of the farmer's plight.

This week, Kersey said high costs and low prices are forcing his family to sell three-fourths of its extensive south Georgia farm holdings.

"Some of the land has been in my family for 55 years," Kersey said. "But what can you do? We've had one of our best years as far as crops are concerned this year, and we are still losing money."

European investors, acting through a Tennessee firm, have taken an option on 4.500 acres of Kersey's land in Houston, Dooly and Macon counties, Kersey said, at a price well above $1,000 an acre. The 1,500 acres the family is keeping all lies within Houston County.

"One of the things that made us decide to option the land — and they have until May to take it up — is the high cost of labor," Kersey said. "What we have left, my brothers and I can work. You can hire people now, but not workers."

The Kerseys raise peanuts, soybeans, small grains, corn, pecans, cattle and hogs.

"We used to raise cotton, but it cost too much to raise and we lost money on each succeeding crop," Kersey said. The farm leader complained that Americans pay a smaller portion of their income for food than other peoples of the world, but don't appreciate it.

"Folks complain some about dollar-a-gallon gas, but they really raise hell if the price of pork chops goes up a dime," Kersey said.

"But I have to pay 82 cents a gallon for fuel that I bought two years ago for 32 cents. And the price of agricultural chemicals like fertilizer and pesticides has gone through the roof."

Kersey is a vice presidential candidate in 1980, running on the Ownership Campaign ticket, which advocates private ownership as the solution to the nation's problems. He doesn't expect to win, but hopes to attract enough support so that some major candidate will take up the cause.

"We've called attention to the problems." Kersey said. "We know we can be used, but maybe we can be a little bit of a user, too."

Earlier this year, Kersey attended the farmers' march on Washington and urged them to leave their tractors there.

In March 1978, he was jailed in McAllen when he and about 200 other farmers disabled a produce truck to protest importation of vegetables from Mexico.

Businesses To Slow Spending On Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — American businesses, facing the prospect of a recession, plan to slow their spending for plant and equipment during the first half of 1980, the government has reported.

A Commerce Department survey shows that businesses will spend only 1.5 percent more on capital equipment from January through July of 1980 than they will from July through December this year, after adjusting for inflation.

This compares with an inflation-adjusted 5 percent jump in spending for all of 1979 over 1978, the department said.

"It's certainly not an extremely bullish number," said a Commerce Department economist said.

However, he added: "It's surprising that we may have any real gain in the first half of next year at all. Many economists were concerned business investment would just flatten out entirely after the end of 1979."

The Commerce Department survey coincides with a study by the Conference Board, a private business research group in New York.

"Capital spending is likely to rise next year, but the percentage gain will probably be, at best, only half the size of this year's increase," said Lora Collins, a

Denver Exhibit To Feature Cowboy Artist

DENVER (Special) — Some thirty Charles Marion Russell oils, watercolors, bronzes and illustrated letters that have never been exhibited in the Mile High City will be shown at the Denver Museum of Natural History in City Park from Jan. 5 through Feb. 29, 1980.

The exhibit, "Westscapes: The Natural History Art of Charles M. Russell," consists of art works on loan from the C.M. Russell Museum in Great Falls, Montana, the late "cowboy artist's" adopted home. The works, created with fidelity and insight, capture a significant era in American history — the winning of the West.

Farm Outlook Claimed Bright

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American farmers can rise to the challenge of producing enough food to meet the demand of the next decade, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said.

Bergland, in remarks prepared for foreign agricultural attaches this week, said American agriculture will not be plagued anymore by surpluses that occurred during much of the century. The gap between supply and demand, he said appears to have vanished.

Matching production and demand will be hard, he said, and depends upon transportation, energy costs, cropland availability, weather and yields.

But, he said, "Today the productive resources of American agriculture are in near balance with domestic and export demands."

While "conventional wisdom" might call for increasing production with a concentration of farm ownership and reliance on technology, he said, smaller farms may be better able than larger farms to adapt to energy, land, money, water and fuel constraints.

Bergland said the largest farms may have reached peak efficiency and any further expansion might produce little per unit production gain.

Bergland also said he hopes a re-examination of farm and related policies now being made can "help us meet rising food demand at home and abroad with efficiency, effectiveness and maximum fairness to all concerned."

Singer Jenny Lind gave her first concert in the United States in 1850.

"Westscapes" features the natural history works of Russell (1864-1926), whose paintings and bronzes recorded subjects and incidents drawn from his own experiences as a cowboy on the open range in Montana and Canada. Plains Indians, cowboys and other early western-

by Whipple and Borth

The exhibit is being sponsored by the Threewit-Cooper Cement Company of Denver and will be free and open to the public in the museum's third floor changing exhibits room.

"Westscapes" has been scheduled so that the thousands of people visiting Denver to attend the National Western Stock Show in January will have an opportunity to view Russell art that is normally on display only in Great Falls.

In the Denver Museum of Natural History exhibit will be one of Russell's most popular masterpieces, "Jerkline," and one of his rare paintings showing combat, "Attack on the Red River Carts." One of his largest canvases, "The Elk," will also be displayed.

The displayed bronzes will include a silver bear, a standing bull buffalo, an antelope and three bears on a log.

Among his illustrated letters being exhibited in "Westscapes" will be "Letter to Judge Pray" and "Letter to Friend Tom Kerwin."

The loaned items are from a collection of several thousand Russell paintings, drawings, bronzes and illustrated letters housed at the C.M Russell Museum in Great Falls, which is adjacent to the log cabin studio Russell built in 1903. The C.M. Russell Museum also contains works by western artists O.C. Seltzer, J.H. Sharp, E.E. Heikka, I. Couse and

The Denver Museum of Natural History is in City Park, at the intersection of Colorado and Montview Boulevards. It is approximately ten minutes by car from the National Western Stock Show grounds via Interstate State 70, east-bound, and Colorado Blvd., southbound, from Admission to the museum is free. There are more than 300 free parking spaces adjacent to the building.

Coverage Of Debate Blocked

By STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Some day this year or next - the Senate will begin the much-heralded debate on the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union.

But even before the proceedings start, the debate and the outcome have been elevated to the rank of historic - unmatched in importance perhaps since the ill-fated Versailles Treaty.

Despite this advance billing, Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd has decided to impose a television blackout of the event - black and white and color,

Now. Byrd will never concede that his intent is to block the live televising of the debate, and perhaps it is not.

In fact, during an exchange on the Senate floor about a month ago, Byrd said, "As to televising the debates on the SALT treaty, I personally favor this. I believe that if the American people could be shown the merits of this treaty, the support for the treaty would grow.

But the price demanded by Byrd for live television may just be too exorbitant a time limitation on the debate.

During that dialogue in the Senate chamber last month, no specific limita-generally believed that Byrd is thinking along the lines of three weeks or so.

In sticking to his demands for a quidpro-quo, Byrd makes some good points and some which don't wash.

For instance, he notes that the radio broadcast of the Panama Canal treaty debate stretched the proceedings to eight weeks when the same result could have been reached in four or five weeks.

He is almost certainly correct. There is something about the "nature of the beast" that will force a senator to talk longer and more often when he knows the country - not just his colleagues are listening.

Assistant Senate Republican leader Ted Stevens calls this syndrome the "traditional flame and moth problem." He notes that, with one-third of the senators running, the networks would be providing "the greatest single contribution to all the candidates that I can think of."

Yet, another point Byrd makes in detion on time was mentioned, but it is fense of his demand for a time agreement does not appear valid

He said the Senate ran a "great risk" of destroying the Panama Canal treaties due to inflammatory statements heard in Panama which could have caused an "unfortunate situation" to develop there.

That was true for Panama. But in the Soviet Union, an "unfortunate situation" does not happen unless ordered by the government. Besides, whoever claimed that a senator can't get off an inflammatory statement in three weeks or less.

Byrd also noted that tests showed some problems" in televising Senate debate and activities - mostly lighting. But Byrd just as quickly conceded the Senate had not had any tests since 1977.

Washington Bureau chief for CBS, introduced by Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, would indicate the problems have been re-

Foury said that technical advances now permit a reduction of light needed and that cameras are smaller and could be placed unobtrusively in the chamber.

Byrd also cited "concerns" expressed by the print media back in 1977 over having cameras and cables crowding the print media area of the galleries.

It may be that Byrd is dredging up the minor, technical problems because he finds himself in a strange position.

Barbara Bush Expects Husband To Win Race

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) - Barbara Bush, the wife of Republican presidential candidate George Bush, says she expects her husband will be the only Texan left in the presidential race once Texans have voted in their May 3 Republican pri-states where the Bush campaign is especially strong, along with Iowa, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

In Fort Smith. Arkadelphia and Little Rock this week, Mrs. Bush campaigned with emphasis on her husband's experience in public office. "I'm asking people to look at the record," Mrs. Bush said. "You know, Jimmy Carter made promises. Anyone can stand up and promise. I say look at their record and then see what you want." Bush, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency and a former ambassador, has served in one private job and five public ones "with great leadership and honor," she said. Although he disagrees with Carter's politics, Mrs. Bush said, Bush is using some of Carter's campaign strategy from 1976. He has come up with surprisingly strong showings in straw polls in Maine and Florida. Bush considers Arkansas important, she said, because in February it will be the first state to choose its delegates to the national Republican convention. Bush himself spoke at a presidential forum in Little Rock recently.

Mrs. Bush was traveling with Virginia Hammerschmidt, the wife of Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark.

VATICAN CITY (UPI) - In an action apparently taken with the approval of Pope John Paul II, the Vatican has unleashed a two-pronged attack of U.S. and European theologians for their approach to sex and basic tenets of faith.

Last week, the official Vatican news paper L'Osservatore Romano featured harsh criticism of a book on sexual morality by a team of U.S. priests, saying it ignored procreation as the central purpose of sexual activity.

The newspaper article, which took up one-third of the front page, came a day after Vatican Radio hammered Dutch theologians Edward Schillebeeckx and Edward Schooneberg and Swiss scholar

Dr. Martin Wand, a Hartford Hospital opthamologist, Monday said photographs of Miss Dickinson and her correspondence convinced him she had an extreme case of exotropia - the medical term for walleved.

Miss Dickinson's eyes, were turned outward, instead of being aligned straight ahead, he said.

Wand and Richard B. Sewall, a professor emeritus at Yale University and author of a two-volume biography of Miss Dickinson, assembled medical and published their findings in the literary cluded herself in a dark room.

When we don't know something it's easy to say that a person's crazy," said Wand. "But with Emily we certainly have enough concrete evidence to suggest an organic basis for her behavior.

Scholars had thought that Miss Dickinson's reclusive behavior was caused by Wand said he has examined pictures of Miss Dickinson's sister and mother and both appear to have had the same disorder. Exotropia is an inherited disease that is twice as common in women as men, he said.

Wand said the disorder would explain much of Miss Dickinson's anti-social behavior from the 1860s until her death in literary evidence for the diagnosis and 1886 and why in her later years she "se-

By LEE MITGANG NEW YORK (AP) - As Norman Ros-

ten tells it, it happened like this:

"Last year I got a call from Brooklyn Borough President Howard Golden asking me if I would accept a dollar-a-year post as Brooklyn's poet laureate."

At first he smiled. Brooklyn has often been a sort of national joke. Imagine being known as the Bard of Brooklyn.

Then I said, why not? I figured maybe they'll give me a free parking space. Then they said, you are now poet laure-

Rosten never got his parking space, nor has he ever received a promised case of sherry. London's poet laureate, after all, gets a case every year. But the other night, Rosten did get an overdue Brooklyn salute from some of his literary and political friends who gathered in his honor at Brooklyn's 132-year-old Borough Hall. Some 18 states have poets laureate, and like them, the job in Brooklyn carries few, if any, official duties

But Rosten says he intends to write a poem in honor of the 97th anniversary next Spring of the building of the Brooklyn Bridge. Brooklyn's first-ever poet laureate got the honor because, thinks Rosten, he has lived here all his 50-plus years - first in Coney Island ("Yes, people really do live there.") and now in the stylish brown-stone section of Brooklyn Heights. His two novels, "Under the Boardwalk," and "Over and Out," are both set in Brooklyn.

And years ago, the story goes that he introduced Marilyn Monroe to another Brooklyn-bred writer named Arthur Miller, whom she was to marry. After her death. Rosten wrote a biography, "Marilyn: An Untold Story," as well as several

Firm Offers Test Drive Incentives

DETROIT (AP) - Chrysler Corp. is trying out a new sales incentive - offering car buyers in two cities $25 or $50 just to take a test drive.

In what Chrysler said this week was an industry first, the test drivers will get the money if they buy, within 30 days, any U.S-made car comparable to the one

For the month of December, prospects who take a test drive at participating dealers in Cincinnati will get $25 and in Kansas City, $50.

Chrysler's sales in the current recession have slumped more than the industry's, something executives attribute to uncertainty over whether the company will survive.

The No. 3 automaker recently has been holding only a bit more than 8 percent of the market for domestic models and has been offering rebates of $300 a car on its U.S.-built cars.

'We're putting our money where our confidence is," said Jerry Pyle, sales vice president

Other manufacturers have been offering their dealers heavy cash incentives and this week, Ford said it was extending those for luxury cars in its Lincoln-Mercury division to Dec. 31.

Economic Predictions Upset

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy demonstrated further resilience in November, further confounding predictions of a downturn.

Total sales at the nation's retail stores rose 1.8 percent to $77 billion in November, wiping out the 1.7 percent drop in the previous month, the Commerce Department said this week

The data on retail sales - an important component of the economy - came on the heels of a Labor Department report showing that the nation's unemployment rate fell from October's 6 percent to 5.8 percent last month.

'You certainly don't get a picture of an economy that is folding up around us," said William Cox, a senior Commerce Department economist. "It seems as though this business expansion has nine lives, and I am not sure which one we are on.

The nation's output fell sharply in the period from April through June, leading many economists in and out of government to conclude that a recession had begun. Then the economy rebounded strongly from July through September.

Despite the latest good news, many analysts still predict the economy will show little or no growth in the fourth quarter and that output will continue to weaken into 1980.

There are some signs of strength, but I don't want to try to call the (fourth) quarter at this stage," Cox said.

One sign of weakness showed up in government figures this week on the sales of new one-family houses, which fell 1.8 percent in October to an annual rate of 724,000 units.

The latest figure was nearly 20 percent below the 900,000-unit rate of October 1978, the report said.

The falloff in home sales had been expected in the wake of Federal Reserve action Oct. 6 to tighten credit. The central bank's move has pushed mortgage interest rates to record levels around the nation, discouraging home purchases.

The Commerce Department report also showed that the median sale price of homes sold in October was $61,900, down 7 percent from September.

"The last time we had a drop of that magnitude was from May to June in 1970," said Dale R. Jacobson, a Commerce Department analyst.

Price declines often occur during tight-money or recessionary periods, such as happened in 1970, because people are forced to lower the asking price oftheir homes to attract buyers.

COMMENTS ON TOBACCO WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department is asking for public comments on next year's burley tobacco program. By law, the department must announce no later than Feb. 1 the 1980 national marketing quota for burley tobacco. Comments can be sent by Jan. 17 to: Director, Price Support and Loan Division, ASCS, USDA, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

But Jacobson and Jack Carlson, economist for the National Association of Realtors, warned against reading too much into a single month's statistics.

Carlson said the figures probably reflected the fact that "homes in the lower price range are selling and homes in the high price bracket, those above $75,000, are not selling as well.'

He added that the realtors expect the median sales price of previously occupied homes to increase this year more than last year's record 13.5 percent.

"The forecast for the next 12 months is that prices will go up just a little bit slower than the overall rate of inflation,

The turnaround in retail sales in November was due, in part, to some improvement in auto sales.

The nation's three largest automakers General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. - all put sales-incentive programs in place last month.

Sales at automobile dealerships were up 3.6 percent to $14.4 billion in November, the Commerce report showed. They had fallen 9.4 percent to $13.9 billion in

The November auto sales figure still remained below the $14.6 billion reported in August, following summer sales-in-

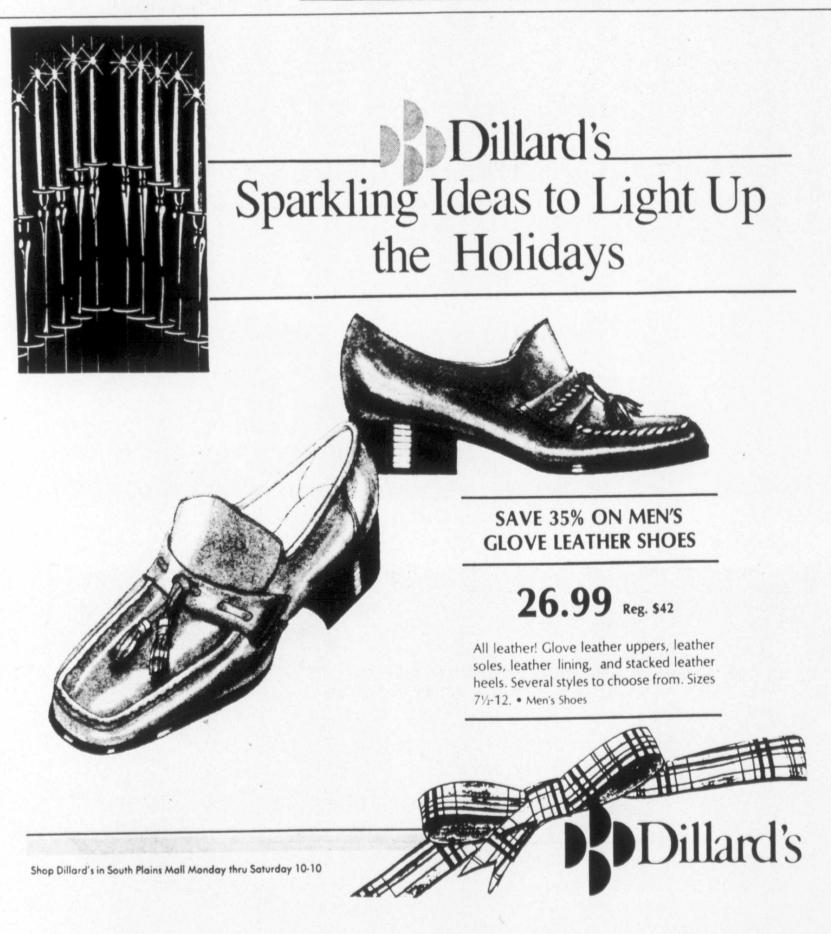

Overall, November sales were 9.7 percent ahead of the $70.2 billion of November 1978, the report showed.

The figures are not adjusted for inflation, however. Because prices have increased more than 10 percent in the last year, sales in real terms have shown little growth, Cox said,

Carter Approves Military Budget Hike

Carter has approved a defense budget proposing 3.5 percent "real growth" in military spending next year to reassure Senate critics of the SALT II treaty, administration officials say.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown soon will give senators an unusual preview of plans to spend about $14 billion more in fiscal 1981 to strengthen overall U.S. military power, the sources said. Total spending would rise from $127.4 billion to about $142 billion.

He also will outline a program calling for additional boosts in each of the following four years, the officials said. Administrations normally withhold

U.S. deficiencies in the ability to send forces to remote areas such as the Persian Gulf and to sustain them there in

In this connection, it is known that Carter administration planners propose spending up to $9 billion over the next five years, chiefly for about 50 advanced CX jet transports that can carry heavy cargo and for 16 special new depot ships which would be anchored in strategically located ports abroad to await troops flown from the United States in crisis.

percent ceiling on interest rates.

'Under the majority's purblind holding in this case, a lender may now safely collect additional compensation for a loan up to the highest legal interest rate merely by contending that the charge was intended as a bona fide commitment fee," Spears said.

"In fact, since the majority holds that such a charge cannot be the basis of a usury suit regardless of how unreasonable it might be, lenders could make charges greatly in excess of the legal interest rate. As a result of the majority's holding in this case, loans are likely to develop an automatic 'commitment period' during which the lender retains the use of the money and collects interest from the borrower. This loophole effectively abrogates the statutory ceiling on interest rates.

The jury deliberated 112 hours Tuesday afternoon before finding Andrade guilty of voluntary manslaughter instead of murder.

Appeals Court Upholds Murder Conviction In County Slaying

Criminal Appeals today upheld the murder conviction of Robert Lee White in the Jan. 12, 1975, slaying of Warren Andrew McKay in Lubbock County.

A jury found White, then 26, guilty of capital murder but sentenced him to life imprisonment rather than assessing the death penalty.

White signed a statement saying he and two other men robbed McKay and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. McKay were killed and their bodies left on a dirt road.

Minister Praises Industry

WINNIPEG (UPI) - Transport Minster Don Mazankowski gives the grain andling industry high marks for volunary co-operation as it moves toward a olution of the capacity bottleneck it hopes to solve by 1985.

We've come a long way in six months," the minister told reporters this week following a one-day meeting with provincial ministers to discuss the prob-

The last such meeting took place in July, when the hopper car shortage was paramount in the minds of those present, out since that time the Canadian Wheat Board and the three prairie provinces have all made commitments to buy or lease hopper cars in the next year or two.

Monday there was another concrete development. CP Rail announced plans to buy 75 3,000-horsepower diesel locomotives in the next 12 to 15 months.

The industry has pledged to increase its grain movement capacity 50 percent by 1985, to enable farmers to export 30 million metric tons of grain.

Mazankowski said that he believes Canada's grain movement system can handle the 23 million metric tons it has projected for itself this year, despite being slightly behind schedule at the mo-

But he said the ministers agreed to disagree on established sources of discord such as statutory freight rates, so they could give top priority to increasing grain movement - the problem all agreed was paramount.

The number one priority is still grain movement," said Mazankowski.

But he admitted there was som greement over the powers that should be given to Dr. Hugh Horner, who has just moved to Winnipeg from Edmonton to set up the Grain Transport Authority.

He said some ministers thought Horner should have some legislative clout for example, the powers now held by the Canadian Transport Commission — to encourage Great Lakes shipping firms to haul Canadian grain instead of going to Duluth, Minn.

But Mazankowski and Horner say they can make more progress through the use of moral suasion and point to cooperation they have received from the grain companies, the railways and the provincial governments.

"I believer in the powers of persuastion, 'said the minister, adding that one alternative was to have more sea-going vessels in Great Lakes ports, increasing competition among shipowners.

Gardeners Declare War On Starlings

WASHINGTON (AP) - White House gardeners are launching their annual campaign against a foe with no political loyalties - starlings.

At dusk, the gardeners bang wooden paddles together, accompanied by recordings of frightened birds blaring from loudspeakers. The clamorous ritual has been part of every administration since Eisenhower's. Thouands of starlings are attracted at this time of year by the shelter of trees on the north and south lawns. Chief White House horticulturist Irvin Williams of the National Park Service says the main problem is the plastering the birds leave behind: "There have been places where there's a layer threequarters of an inch thick.

Bikinis Banned For Watiresses

MANILA. Philippines (UPI) - Authorities this week banned the wearing of bikinis by waitresses and bar girls in the liberty town of Angeles adjacent to the U.S. Clark Air Base.

The bikini ban was taken after citizens in Angeles, 60 miles north of Manila, complained that prostitution was rampant in the city of about 300,000 people. A city ordinance published this week said bar operators should not allow either "ordinary waitresses" or dancers to work wearing bras and bikini panties

Unless this indecency is checked, the moral values in this city will totally decline and result in the spread of social problems," authorities said in a published statement.

Violators of the ban can be fined or failed up to 30 days.

State Department has been debating whether U.N. approval is necessary before the United States lifts the sanctons. The debate has been particularly keen because of the crisis in Iran. Some officials have argued that the United States should not demand that Iran heed Security Council calls for the release of the hostages and at the same time lift the sanctions against Rhodesia without council

The Security Council imposed the sanctions in 1968 at the request of the British and with U.S. support. The resolution imposing sanctions does not lay out a procedure for ending them, and officials say there are no clear legal preced-

According to an internal memo obtained by The Associated Press, McHenry has argued that the British should tell the Security Council the sanctions are no longer needed and ask the council to take appropriate action to remove them.

Sources said the State Department's legal bureau has taken the position that a case can be made either way, although the stronger position is probably that the Security Council should act before the sanctions are lifted.

But the British, the sources said, are anxious not to let the process slip out of their control by turning to the U.N. where they are fearful the Soviets might veto a resolution ending the sanctions.

They also feel that once the authority of Lord Soames is acknowledged, Zimbabwe Rhodesia reverts to the legal status of a British colony. "We would be imposing sanctions on ourselves," a British diplomat said Tuesday.

The British have decided they need only inform the Security Council of their action, and State Department officials said the administration has decided to go along with the British.

One official said the case of Zimbabwe Rhodesia was unique. The sanctions were imposed at British request to halt a threat to peace caused by the breakaway colony Once that threat ends, the officials said, the British have the right to decide to end the sanctions.

dministration hopes that th urity Council will informally approve the British action through a consensus statement or simply through a lack of bjection, the officials said.

Some critics of the American policy have warned that it could backfire.

There are many ways the process leading to free and fair elections could be undermined, including intervention by South Africa and voter intimidation by private security forces," said Randall Robinson, the executive director of Tran-Africa, a black lobbying group.

He argued that if the process falls apart and the United States has lifted the anctions without Security Council approval, it will be open to charges that its unilateral action helped cause the fail-

State Department officials have countered that failure to lift the sanctions would amount to a vote of no confidence in the election process and the people conducting it.

· Setting foot on the rain-soaked tarmac under grey skies, the governor immediately took charge of Britain's last African colony, which automatically reverted from its new name of Zimbabwe Rhodesia to the pre-rebellion name, Southern Rhodesia.

Security at the airport was light, despite warnings by guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe that it would be risky for the governor to come here before a formal settlement and cease-fire is signed in London.

It is the first time Britain's flag has flown here since former Prime Minister Ian Smith's all-white government unilaterally declared independence from Britin in 1965 to forestall black rule.

In preparation for the governor's arrival, Zimbabwe Rhodesia's first blackmajority Parliament met Tuesday and voted to dissolve itself and restore governmental power to Britain.

Although the vote was a formality ratifying agreements reached at the 13week-old London peace talks, the session stretched-late into the night as black and white legislators took advantage of their last opportunity to voice fears and hopes for the future.

The British government decided to dispatch Soames to Salisbury despite a deadlock in the peace talks over organization of a cease-fire in the seven-year war between the Patriotic Front guerrillas and Rhodesian government forces.

The conference agreed in principle on a cease-fire last Wednesday, but guerrilla leaders Nkomo and Mugabe have objected to the proposed massing of their troops at 15 camps encircled by British peacekeeping forces while government forces remain at their regular bases.

Because of the deadlock, both guerrilla leaders and leaders of Britain's opposition Labor Party urged Soames' mission be postponed. But Lord Carrington, the Conservative government's foreign secretary and the chairman of the peace conference, has been determined throughout the talks to push ahead toward a settlement despite guerrilla hesitation.

Some Rhodesian legislators expressed concern about turning all powers over to Britain without assurances the war would end.

We all look to the British government to justify the trust which is being placed in it," said outgoing Justice Minister Chris Andersen, who ushered the bill through Parliament.

prime minister, went on radio and television Tuesday night to appeal to his countrymen to throw their "full weight" behind Soames. He also launched his campaign for re-election. The "return to legality" raised mixed feelings in many Rhodesians. A major concern was how the lifting of economic sanctions, promised by Britain to begin with Soames' arrival and assumption of power, would affect the economy. Economists warned this would not be felt immediately and that the stringent currency and import controls would be lifted gradually

Meanwhile, fighting in the war continued. Rocket, mortar and small arms fire hammered the eastern town of Umtali two miles from the Mozambique border Tuesday night, military officials said. The attack apparently was in retaliation for a raid by the Rhodesian air force on guerrilla bases in Mozambique two days

But Deputy Assistant Attorney General Lawrence A. Hammond said, "The Department of Justice has decided that an appeal of the court's ruling today is appropriate and necessary.

He said the appeal would be filed "as soon as the papers are ready." In the interim, the Justice Department will seek a stay of the ruling, he said.

Through Monday, some 50,000 Iranian students had reported to immigration offices to comply with the INS crackdown, with 6,042 found to be deportable and nine already deported. Another 778 of those have agreed to leave the country voluntarily, with 47 already gone.

Judge Green, in a 23-page opinion, rejected administration arguments that while the deportation program amounts to selective enforcement, it is in response to an unprecedented international crisis.

"If the government's fear is that by their very presence, Iranian students will provoke violence, then ... this regulation does not address the problem," she ruled, "for it is designed only to identify and expel those who are here illegally, all others being free to remain as targets of

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG WASHINGTON (AP) - Perhaps the speaker was in training, getting in shape to watch some championship boxing. Or maybe, he really did have a cold and a sore throat.

The mystery began two weeks ago when House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. dropped out of sight. The explanation was that he had a cold and a sore throat.

The subject was air pollution and the air was thoroughly polluted by cigar

The Senate Judiciary Committee was considering a bill that would set stiffer penalties for violations of clean water laws than for violations of air pollution

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., puffing on a long cigar, supported the proposal.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, smoking an equally long cigar, opposed the bill. Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., sat back in his chair, smoke rising from his cigar. Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, a nonsmoker, glanced at Heflin and said, "I wish Kennedy would lend you and Culver some of his expensive cigars."

Not Running

Eleven months ago, Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., announced he would not run for re-eection. Schweiker gained some national fame and a lot of home-state criticism in 1976 when he agreed to be Ronald Reagan's running-mate if the former California governor defeated Gerald R. Ford for the Republican presidential nomination.

Reagan lost and Schweiker slipped quietly back into his role as senior senator from Pennsylvania.

The other day, Schweiker issued a press release to announce he had reconsidered his decision to retire.

State Considering Aid Cut

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Proposed changes in the state's nursing home program to provide alternative care arrangements for the elderly drew about 90 persons to a public hearing here Tuesday.

The meeting at the Municipal Garden and Arts Center was one of a series of statewide public hearings being conducted by the Texas Department of Human

The TDHR proposals are aimed at cutting down the state's cost of providing nursing home care for the elderly by keeping more elderly residents in their homes or in the homes of relatives.

To accomplish this goal, explained Quentin Woomer, executive director of medical services for TDHR and moderator for Tuesday's hearing, TDHR plans to eliminate one level of care available to individuals seeking state-funded nursing home care. This essentially means that the state will be raising its standards for applicants to get into the program.

'Basically, what we're saying is that the state is going to pay only for those persons who are really sick," Woomer many people are placed in nursing homes not because they are seriously ill, but because their families do not want to take care of them.

Providing nursing home care for the state's elderly population is proving too expensive, Woomer said. In 1979, the state spent $395.6 million to maintain 63,-680 persons in nursing homes. By 1988, Woomer estimated, the cost to keep the elderly in nursing homes could reach over $1 billion.

TDHR believes there are other less costly and perhaps better ways to provide care for elderly residents. During 1979, the state paid $43.2 million to provide care for 27,442 elderly persons in their own homes.

However, the money isn't the only factor to be considered, according to Woomer. He cited the benefits to the elderly who remain in the familiar surroundings of their own homes. "They remain more alert and in better physical condition longer," Woomer said.

The majority of those presenting testimony at Tuesday's public hearing also were in favor of developing alternatives elderly. Two speakers, however, voiced concern whether alternate care services are really the answer.

Paul Westbrook, owner of a Floydada nursing home, said the proposals have some drawbacks for rural areas. According to Westbrook, alternate care services are not always available in rural areas. If TDHR eliminates one level of nursing HARPS Music persons will not be provided the health care service they need.

Westbrook's opinion was echoed by Bob Wilson from the Department of Health in Midland, who said there are not always sufficient resources to develop the necessary services.

TDHR sees things in a somewhat different light, however. In an interview prior to the hearing, Woomer stressed that communities and families will have to reassume some of the duties for caring for their elderly. The department feels that community and church groups could get more involved in developing the services needed.

Many communities already provide alternate care services for the elderly. Some of the more common programs include home health services, meals on wheels programs, in-home chore services and group living arrangements.

TDHR also is proposing some alternative care programs. Three of the programs deal with short-term care services as alternatives to more costly institutional or hospital care. These include respite care, a means of giving relief to the caretakers of the elderly; emergency shelter care for those who have temporarily lost their homes or caretakers; and post-hospital convalescent care.

For longer term care, TDHR is proposing two pilot projects which would provide sheltered living arrangements to meet the needs of elderly individuals

The proposed changes in the state nursing facility regulations are expected to become effective Feb. 1, 1980. Woomer predicted that there will be an initial outcry about the changes, but he feels there will be a shift in the way elderly persons are cared for in Texas.

'Our aged population is growing at an alarming rate," Woomer said. "We must find the least expensive way to provide

Isidro and Raquel Aguinaga filed the suit Monday in a federal court in Amarillo on behalf of all indigent residents of Castro County

The hospital, administrator Jack Newsom, the Castro County Hospital District and its board of directors were named as defendants in the suit, filed Monday in Amarillo federal district

In their suit, the couple contend that on Dec. 8, 1978, they rushed their 11month-old son to Plains Memorial hospital, but were refused admission by Newsom because they could not pay a $225

They said the baby died later that day as they sought help elsewhere.

Newsom was indicted by a Castro County grand jury last December on a misdemeanor charge with failing to provide emergency medical assistance. The case ended in a hung jury.

Newsom said at the time the incident was a "misunderstanding" but noted that hospital admissions policies have been changed to prevent a reoccurance.

"They (the parents) were told the baby could be admitted, but they didn't speak English and I think that was the cause of the whole problem," Newsom said at the time. "We have instructed our hospital personnel that in cases involving children they may be processed directly to the nurses station prior to any mention of financial requirements.'

The suit seeks enforcement of the hospital's obligations under state and federal laws that require hospitals to admit and treat needy patients despite their inability to pay.

The Texas Rural Legal Aid office in Hereford has reported that the hospital See DIMMITT Page 8

Older people who live in confined quarters do not need more "things" that are ornamental only. Don't send music boxes, statuettes or other bric-a-brac.

Another thoughtful gift is lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (Enclose some felt-tip pens, too.) Shut-ins would appreciate a box of

Despite starting the final of the Bermuda Bowl, symbolic of the world team cham pionship, with a deficit of 36 International Match Points carried over from the qualifying rounds, the United States quickly grabbed the lead from Italy and then hung on to win by 5 IMPs. But the best play of the final was this spectacular defense by Italy's Benito Garozzo. regarded by many as the world's best player.

In both rooms the contract was three no trump, and in both the opening lead was a low club. Declarer could see eight tricks-five diamonds, the ace of spades and two clubs. For Italy, declarer won the first trick in dummy and immediately led the jack of hearts. He misguessed by letting it ride to the queen and a low club was returned. Now declarer had no way to set up a ninth trick without surrendering the lead, which allowed the defenders to cash three club tricks for a onetrick set.

The play was being followed on Vu-Graph, and the commentators suggested that a better way to look for a ninth trick was to set up a second spade trick. Indeed, that was the line chosen by Mike

Tech Study Shows Value Of Plans For Retirement

Despite the raising of the mandatory retirement age, more workers are retiring earlier, prompting greater interests in pre-retirement planning. That is the finding of a study made by a Texas Tech University doctoral psychology student in her dissertation.

The paper, "Middle-Aged Workers' Retirement Expectations: Implications for Retirement Planning," was prepared by Evelyn P. Edmunds under the direction of Jeffery W. Elias, professor of psychology. The pair presented the paper recently in Washington, D.C. to delegates of the 32nd Annual Meeting of the Gerontological Society.

The dissertation showed that having retirement expectations enhances postretirement adjustment. Differences in these expectations between men and women suggest women may have greater needs for pre-retirement counseling, particularly in financial and mobility areas, the report said. In addition, women may expect too much from retirement which in turn may have an adverse affect. The study also showed that having positive attitudes toward retirement does not assure accurate expectations. Workers, in contrast to retirees, were overly pessimistic about financial and transportation

Miss Edmunds received her doctoral degree in December 1978. She is now employed as a staff psychologist, specializing in work with the elderly at Norristown (Penn.) State Hospital

WAVY HAIR

Naturally wavy hair can straighten out during the dry winter season. Keep waves wavy with a humidifier at home and in the office, and frequent conditioning to put curl-strengthening moisture back into hair. Gentle hair drying techniques help save waves, too: A blow dryer's high heat and airflow can blow out curls, but an attachment "softens the blow" so curls and waves have a springy, naturally-dried look.

Jogging Rapist Charged With 17 Attacks

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - A plumber who allegedly terrorized young girls in the northeast section of the city this year was formally charged early today with seven counts of rape and nine counts of attempted rape. police said.

The attacks by a man wearing jogging clothes led to the nickname "The Jogging Rapist."

William Gray, 36, had been arrested Monday night and charged with attempted rape and other offenses in an attack on a 14-year-old girl last May 18, police

Gray was freed on $10,000 bail Tuesday, but surrended to police five hours later. He then was charged in connection with 16 other attacks, and remanded to jail when he failed to post $240,000 bond, police said.

Gray faces a preliminary hearing on the latest charges Dec. 19. The victims ranged in age from 10 to 17 years old, police said, with the average age being 13. The first attack occurred Feb. 24 and the latest Nov. 26, when a 12year-old girl was raped, police said.

In each instance, the attacker was dressed like a runner and often asked his victims for the time before assaulting them in dark driveways, police said.

Police obtained a search warrant and went to Gray's home, where they found a hooded sweatsuit and a pair of gloves similar to the ones victims said they had seen their attacker wearing, according to Detective Capt. Kenneth Schwartz.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Total revenues for the nation's nearly 6.000 radio stations climbed 15.9 percent to $2.6 billion last year, the Federal Communications Commission says.

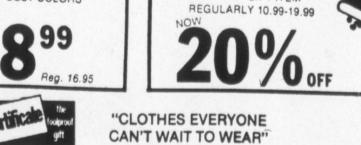

The FCC said this week that pre-tax income for the radio industry was up 26.4 percent to $311 million in 1978. The FCC said that based on annual reports submitted by the nation's radio stations. 67 percent of the AM and AM-FM operations made a profit in 1978, about the same as in the past few years. The percentage of independent FM stations in the black rose from 52 percent to 57 percent. The reports show the most profitable radio market in 1978 was Los Angeles-Long Beach. New York City ranked second.

Job Opportunities Improving For Math, Science Graduates

NEW YORK (UPI) — Job offers for port, based in part on a national response college graduates with engineering, math, business and science degrees will rise in 1980 but decline for history, art ard music majors, the College Placement Council reported this week.

Holders of non-technical degrees will find the pickings this June - already slim in recent years - worse. The report said 8 percent fewer job offers are expected in the non-technical fields.

By contrast, engineering majors will get 26 percent more job offers; science, math and other graduates with technical degrees will get 16 percent more, and business majors 8 percent more.

Oil Firms Protest DOE Selling Order WASHINGTON (AP) - Standard Oil

Co. (Indiana) has joined eight other oil companies in a lawsuit seeking to reverse a government order that forces them to sell oil to another firm.

The Energy Department order requires the nine companies to sell 80,000 barrels of crude oil daily to Ashland Oil Inc. The companies were ordered to make the sales because Ashland said it was losing 100,000 barrels a day from Iran as a result of President Carter's decision to halt imports of that country's oil. The nine companies maintain the Energy Department doesn't have the authority to force them to sell to Ashland. Standard of Indiana filed suit this week.

from some 535 employers in the private sector, showed a 13 percent overall increase anticipated in 1980 in job offers.

"Despite current economic uncertainties, 47 percent of the employers responding expect improvement in the economic outlook for their organization in the first half of 1980," the report said. "Thirty-four percent anticipate slight improvement and 13 percent anticipate substantial improvement. "Only 14 percent indicated conditions will worsen. The remaining 6 percent said they are uncertain.' In the public sector, the council said federal government hiring will remain on the same moderate-to-low plateau of fairly stable replacement hiring - the pattern of the 1970s. Local and state government jobs are expected to be up about 10 percent, however. Other highlights of the new report:

-Public utilities, including transportation, project a 63 percent increase in job offers to be made to the class of 1980.

Petroleum and allied products fields expect a 38 percent gain.

-Other large-volume employer categories reporting increases of 11 percent or more were public accounting; banking, finance and insurance; and chemicals, drugs and allied products.

-The automotive and mechanical equipment category is turning down after an 8 percent increase in hires in 1978-79. A 7 percent drop is forecast for 1979-

The December assessment of the 1980 job outlook, as in previous council surveys, will be followed by one in late spring. That one will show if the projections reported this week were close to or far from the mark

WASHINGTON (AP) - Black and Hispanic leaders, pointing to the looser trigger finger they believe police use in their communities, are discussing with law enforcement officials ways to balance police safety and the use of force.

SPAG Delays Decision On Police Training Fees

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A proposal to charge tuition fees for a law enforcement training course offered by the South Plains Association of Governments was tabled by that group Tuesday to allow board members to contact their representative governments concerning the matter.

Through a grant from the Criminal Justice Division of the Governor's Office, the area governmental panel provides basic and advanced training for police officers and criminal justice personnel in the 15-county region.

The 240-hour basic training school is required by state law for all beginning officers during the first six months of employment. The optional advanced training is provided for officers who wish to increase their job skills and knowledge.

The panel's law enforcement training advisory committee recently recommended that tuition fees be established for participants in the course.

Although a $50-per-student rate was suggested, board members decided to delay a decision on the cost. Questions arose about fees for officers who reside outside SPAG's 15-county region or are part of entities not eligible for membership, including Texas Tech University and Lubbock Christian College. Because facilities for the program are provided by Reese Air Force Base, board members mentioned that charging Reese personnel for the course would be unjus-

Jerry Casstevens, SPAG executive director, also noted that a decision would have to made on how the tuition money would be used - whether the panel should be reimbursed for its $5,600 cash contribution to the project or whether the money should be used for training

The board is expected to make a decision on the tuition fee at its Jan. 8 meeting. The next training course begins Jan.

In other action, the board gave favorable comment to Head Start programs operated by the Lubbock Independent School District and the South Plains Community Action Association.

The two entities together are applying for more than $900,000 in federal grants for continuance funding of their projects.

Board members also rejected an offer sion in the already fully occupied buildby Pyron Investments of Tyler to purchase property now occupied by the South Plains Association of Governments at 1709 26th St. The association is in its second year of a three-year lease Because there is no room for expan-

ing and the possibility of having to cover the cost of major repairs, board members refused Pyron's offer of $250,000 (including improvements) to buy the prop-

Also among agenda items discussed, board members voted to adopt a staff personnel policy, with the stipulation that Casstevens clarify a clause concerning employees' participation in political activities.

At the request of board member Bidal Aguero, Casstevens said he would conclause prohibiting employees of SPAG from active part in political campaigns. Aguero questioned whether an "active part" could be construed as merely putting a bumper sticker on a car or more involved participation.

Park Board Disapproves Of Name For Lake

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Parks and Recreation Board Tuesday noted it has an informal policy against providing names for any of the Canyon Lakes, but the board stopped short of asking the City Council to reconsider its decision to name one of the lakes after Martin Luther King Jr.

The policy, which states that only the land surrounding lakes in the project can be named, was brought up by board member Adolphus Cleveland. He labeled as "not kosher" the council's decision to name the lake, rather than Quirt Avenue,

Cleveland asked board members to

The board unanimously voted to reaffirm their policy, but the motion to ask the council to reconsider their decision died for lack of a second.

Mayor Dirk West, contacted after the board meeting, said the board's reaffirmation of its policy not to name the Canyon Lakes is "after-the fact" because the

As a church-run institution, Roloff claims, the home is protected from state regulation Texas Attorney General Mark White disagrees. He said it doesn't matter who operates the home - it still must be licensed. White has filed a second suit to shut down the facility. Roloff says that amounts to state meddling in church affairs.

The U.S. Supreme Court has upheld the Texas law that requires all institutions providing 24-hour care to persons under 18 to be licensed and inspected by the state.

A Nueces County grand jury indicted Roloff June 28 on charges of operating a child care home without a license. Hearings have been postponed several times and one is now scheduled for January The maximum penalty would be a $1,000 fine and six months in jail.

pleasure of some of the board members with what we did," West said, "but it is certainly after the fact."

The board also tabled an agenda item calling on board members to choose a tribute to the slain civil rights leader until the board can meet with the Human Relations Commission.

"They've already made their decision," board president Phil Hoel said later; referring to the city council. "The board stopped short of telling the council what to do, that's not our job.

Hoel said he will send a letter describing the board's policy, recorded in the minutes of a July meeting but never acted upon, to Mayor West.

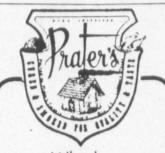

They may or may not be aware of the policy," he commented. Hoel did not know whether the letter will draw council action. In other business, board members considered parks director John Alford's suggestion they form a separate nonprofit organization to accept and administer tax deductible donations of land and Citing the success of a similar group

Texas Faces Revision Of Outdated Election Laws

that Texas will hold the important 1980 elections according to state election laws that are outdated and riddled with er-

The only chance for correction before the May 3 primaries and Nov. 4 general election would be for Gov. Bill Clements to demand election law revision in the 1980 special session he says he will call.

Otherwise, the next opportunity to revise state election laws will come when the 1981 Legislature convenes.

"The last full revision of election laws by the Legislature was in 1951," Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, said at a recent meeting of his Election Code Study Committee. "Since then there have been 17 or 18 piecemeal revisions by the legislators, plus any number of court decisions that affect the laws."

The present code is a hodgepodge of articles, ideas, and court decisions that we call an election code," he said.

code. The committee's charge, however, does not include recommending substantive changes to the 1981 session. The study picks up where a Texas Election Code Revision Commission - headed by former Secretary of State Steve Oaks left off. Many of the recommendations of the Oaks' commission were not even considered by the 1979 Legislature. Working along the same lines, and at times in cooperation with Ogg's committee, is the House Committee on Elections.

Numerous discrepancies and ambiguities in present election laws showed up at recent sessions of both committees.

For instance, present law sets out a different procedure for recounting votes for each of the three methods of voting voting machines, punch card and paper ballots. The Oaks commission recommended that instead of allowing partial or total recounts of votes according to Ogg's committee is charged with the method of voting, a recount must be Scarcely a week goes by without a achs. nighttime raid by trucks driven out of the fog-shrouded plains surrounding Parma, police say.

The prize is Parmigiano Reggiano, commonly called Parmesan, the costly cheese which has tickled people's palates since Roman days.

Because of the insatiable appetite of most Italians for grated cheese on their spaghetti, Parmesan - fetching as much as $8 a pound — has developed into a billion-dollar business in Italy.

Banking on that appetite, speculators buy up stocks of the cheese while it's still maturing. Then, after the mandatory maturation period of 18-24 months, the speculators cash in for huge profits.

Trying to beat the middlemen, imitation area of Parma, Modena, Reggio Emilia and Mantua have created an inexpensive look-alike cheese called Grana Padana. It matures faster than Parmesan by using chemicals rather than the enzymes from the linings of calves' stom-

In the past two years, converted cheese factories in 27 provinces up and . down the Italian boot have been churning out the new Grana.

But thieves are also after a piece of the curd, hijacking trailer trucks or rolling the wheels of cheese out of the depositories with the complicity of "insiders," police say.

One typical night raid occurred last month, at the end of the April-November Parmesan production season, when thieves stole a big milk rig as driver Bruno Grassi ducked into a roadside men's storeroom and loaded more than 300 lion against escalating Parmesan prices. wheels of Parmesan, each weighing 77 pounds, in a couple of hours.

Their haul was worth more than $100,000. "The next day it probably was already on the grocery shelves, retailing at high prices," lamented Lorenzo Cattabiani, secretary of the Parmigiano Reggiano Association. "The product is as good as gold, and thieves always find fences for More damaging than the weekly robberies has been a recent consumer rebelSince 1974, retail prices have tripled from about $2.40 a pound to almost $8.

Many Italians switched from Parmesan to Grana, and as a result 45 percent of the 1978 production - maturing for retail in 1980 - lies unsold in the storerooms. Parmesan thus earned the distinction of being one of the only food staples to drop in price.

The concern of the Parmese these days is how to get Italians and foreigners munching on Parmesan again. Producers have started an advertising cheese, such as with pre-dinner drinks or for dessert rather than always grating it over spaghetti. They have also stepped up security at cheese depositories and are trying to eliminate the expensive middlemen by selling directly to large supermarket chains.

The production method for Parmesan is precise and lengthy. Once the cheeses — made of milk from cows fed on special forage - are in the storerooms, the "maturers" and financiers take over.

Throughout its maturation, each cheese is tasted, and tested with a needle to gauge its acidity and a hammer to measure hollowness. Every two weeks the huge cheeses are turned over.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Grain and soybean futures rose Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade on brisk European buying and renewed inflation worries.

Soybean futures closed at or near the day's highs amid some commercial demand and reports of active European cash soybean markets. The market was due for a technical rebound after the price declines of the last two weeks,

Large Brush Fire Still Burning Out Of Control

500-acre brush fire that destroyed one six other homes were damaged. home continued to burn out of control in this exclusive beach community early today, but the 50 mph winds that had driven the fire were diminishing.

At the height of the blaze Tuesday. Laguna Beach police evacuated 150 families from their homes as the flames advanced unchecked towards the exclusive Emerald Bay community.

Fire crews and equipment continued to block narrow roads winding up to expensive homes in the hills and canyons 50 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

Surge In Retail Sales Surprises Economists

NEW YORK (AP) - To the surprise of economists who had been forecasting a recession, retail sales apparently turned strong again in November. Nothing new in this - the surprise of the economists, that is.

All year long, from January through December, they've been talking about the upcoming recession, and now it appears that it won't appear, that it won't come up in 1979.

Next year, they assure us, but didn't they say that a year ago?

Yes, and nine months ago, six months ago and as recently as last week. Viewing weak second-quarter figures, even the White House had all but conceded last summer that the recession had arrived. But it hadn't.

That isn't to say that it didn't have an impact. Fear of it influenced consumers, business, labor, the Federal Reserve, Congress, the White House. People borrowed, bought and spent, but with a guilty feeling.

Consumers polls show, in fact, that many people believe a recession did occur in 1979, no matter that the official statistics, some of which are still subject to revision and correction, said no.

To them, and to all others who worried constantly about it, recession was a presence in every commercial transaction, even if it was the presence of a ghost. Countless words were devoted to it; it was perhaps the most anticipated economic non-event of the decade.

It left economic consultants defense less, but not speechless. Some forecasters sought credibility in odds, raising them with each delay. In that way, they

A popular forecast, perhaps even a consensus, developed as the year wore on: The longer the recession was delayed the worse inflation would get and the deeper and longer would be the ensuing

Now, near the end of the year, noth-ing much has changed. The forecasts re-main as solidly defended as they were a year ago. There will be a recession in 1980; that is the consensus view.

In fact, a Conference Board economic forum, made up of private sector economists from think tanks, academia, manufacturing and banking, concluded this week that even now the economy was in

FREEPORT (UPI) - The Texas Deepwater Port Authority chairman says prospects for success of TDPA's offshore supertanker terminal appear dim despite its endorsement by environmental officials over a Galveston onshore plan.

'No one has signed up yet to use the port," Bob Casey said this week. "We have to have some commitments from some oil companies for what they would use if they sign the agreement." We will have to make up our mind soon, before the month is over. If we delay any further, the engineers will not have time to complete their work so construction could start next summer.

'We're on the edge right now. I don't ant to throw in the towel prematurely, but I don't want to spend taxpayers' money unnecessarily," he said. "I'd hate to see it go down. The state needs the

Casey said TDPA needs preconstruction promises from oil companies to pump 1.4 million barrels daily through the port to make it economically feasible and to attract financing to build it.

The Texas superport plan calls for a floating terminal located in the Gulf of Mexico 25 miles south of Freeport. Oil would be pumped from giant tank-ers and then piped from the terminal to onshore storage and transshipment facilities at Oyster Creek, a village near Free-Casey's remarks followed an announcement by Adlene Harrison, the Environmental Protection Agency's Dallas region administrator, that EPA would prefer an offshore terminal to a proposed onshore port on Pelican Island at Galves-

Mrs. Harrison said the offshore facility would reduce tanker traffic into environmentally sensitive bays, decrease the risk of spills and explosions, and cut the the threat to life and property.

Despite the EPA action, Casey said time was growing short for going ahead with the Texas offshore superport. Louisiana has a similar project under construction and, Casey said, already is talking about expansion.

Casey said instability in Middle East oil supplies had slowed oil company enthusiasm for the Texas superport.

"I can't blame the oil companies (for not signing) because of the situation in foreign oil right now," said Casey, a former Houston congressman. "But I think we'll get that oil eventually. They can't eat that oil

Now he's preparing to move in. A year and a half ago, Bemis, a salesman for Good Housekeeping Magazine, learned the lighthouse was being automated and the four coast guardsmen assigned there were pulling out.

So he hired a lawyer, and started negotiations that lasted more than nine months. At first, the Coast Guard's attitude was, "Go away kid," Bemis, 37, re-

Then, Bemis's lawyer quit, saying there was nothing more he could do and that he would be wasting his money.

'But I continued," Bemis said. The breakthrough came when he argued that his presence would prevent both deterioration and vandalism at the lighthouse. Two weeks ago he signed a lease with the Coast Guard, but he declined to disclose the terms.

The lighthouse, standing since 1920 and accessible only by boat, rests on a concrete base 28 feet above water level. Inside, a spiral staircase winds its way to the top where a beacon flashes a red light every five seconds and is visible for 23 miles. There are several living areas, a new kitchen, storage rooms and an off-

During the winter, weather permitting. I'll be going out there and getting room ready for insulating said Bemis. "This is where I'll live at first. There are nine levels from the water level to the lantern deck on top.

'I'll have to do some insulating for noise, too, from the foghorn," he said. "It's 113 decibels and that could be harmful to my hearing. Any improvements I make become Coast Guard property. I'll work my way up from the south room as time and money permit.'

Bemis will have no responsibility for, or access to, the foghorn, the light and a radio transmitter.

While he negotiated for the lighthouse, his friends thought of him as a Chicagoan Don Quixote, chasing a water-

Half of my friends thought it was the best idea they ever heard of. The other half thought I should be fitted for a straitjacket," Bemis said.

Dr. Joel Nitzkin. the Monroe County health director, said Monday that the symptoms are a fever for five days to three weeks, swelling of the lymph glands, reddening of the eyes, inflamation of the mouth and throat, a rash across the chest, redness of the back and stomach, and swelling of the hands and feet usually followed by peeling of the Nitzkin said there have been only 100 confirmed cases of the disease in this country, since it was first spotted here in 1974. He said the 14 cases in Rochester are being described as a cluster rather than an outbreak or epidemic because it's uncertain whether the disease is

'Killer Kleenexes' Cut Common Cold Cases

McMURDO STATION, Antarctica (UPI) - A University of Wisconsin scientist says "killer Kleenexes" - tissues containing iodine - seemed to dramatically slow the spread of the common cold among 200 people at this isolated out-

Shortly after the experimental virucidal handkerchiefs were introduced, Dr. Elliott C. Dick said the incidence of upper respiratory infections was more than cut in half.

"There were sick people all over the place and within four days it stopped," Dick told reporters touring America's Antarctic research facilities.

Dick, a viralogist and professor of preventive medicine, said it was possible that the number of colds dropped coincidentally with the use of the killer Kleenexes. He said the experiment will have to be repeated to confirm the findings.

Nevertheless, Dick said, "I personally think they work. I am very encouraged."

The experiment tells us that, with appropriate confirmation, it may be possible to control respiratory disease by killing the virus as it comes out of the Earlier research at McMurdo Station showed that almost all of the virus that spreads the disease comes from a person's nose.

To test the use of killer Kleenex as a preventive measure. Dick selected the period toward the end of the long, dark antarctic winter. From March to August, about 60 people are isolated at this base with no direct contact with the outside world.

In late August, ski planes land here. bringing in food, supplies and about 150 people. This group then remains here until regular spring-time flights begin in October between New Zealand and McMurdo. The August to October period is known as winfly.

Dick said the people who spend the winter here rarely have severe colds. But anywhere from 15 to 30 of the people entering the community in late August will have colds.

He waited 12-days after the start of the winfly period this year and then mained effective only 24 hours after the package was opened, new Kleenex packs were handed out every day and the old, unused ones were collected.

Dick said the normal incubation time for a cold ranges from 2 to 8 days. He ex-

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) - Steingrimur Hermannsson, an American-educated electrical engineer, has been asked by Iceland's president to try to form a minority coalition government.

Writer To Shave Mustache

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — My mustache got the word today. It is not going into the 1980s with me. With a new decade dawning, one must show a bright new face to the future, unafraid, unadorned. Yesterday's excess baggage must be jettisoned for a lighter, brighter tomorrow.

Let's face it, as I do every morning in the mirror, and as little as possible thereafter, mine never has been a successful mustache. I gave it every chance, nearly seven years now, but it never shaped up. It was never dapper, nor rakish, nor debon-

I decided to grow it one July morning while gazing at the Statue of Liberty from the boat deck of the M.S. Mikhail Lermonto at the start of an Atlantic crossing. What else can you do for nine days on a Russian ship? The library was full of old economic reports on past five-year plans and the works of Marx, Lenin and Engels, plus some propaganda publications with picture layouts of tractor works in Kiev, school children riding sleds on the slopes of Siberia and giant combines rolling across the wheat fields of endless collective farms.

My wife opted for ballroom dance lessons with the husband and wife team of Boris and Kalinka, who I think later defected to an Arthur Murray's in Montreal. My friend Clem Costello of the Lowell Sun took the Russian language lessons. I decided to grow a mustache, probably on the strength of the large oil painting of the mustachioed Lermontov in the smoking lounge. A dashing poet and lover, he was reputed to be a Russian combination of Byron and Shelley with a touch of Edgar Allan Poe in the dreamy eyes and seductively waxed

For my own forested upper lip, I envisioned something of an elegant compromise between Ronald Colman and Adolph Menjou, with just a hint of latterday Walter Pidgeon around the edges.

It never came close to any of these. The nearest I came to being compared with any movie celebrity was a leering reference to Oliver Hardy among my rare detractors and an unkind cut about Wally Walrus.

Unlike Cyrano de Bergerac, I never could "twirl my wit as if it were my mustache" in answer to such uncivilities, because I never could get it to twirl or droop or flare at the ends or even curl upwards on one end and downward on the other after the manner of Salvador Dali.

Instead of a guardsman's mustache, mine was more night watchman or

The Almanac

TODAY IN HISTORY

I used to brush it 100 strokes a day with an old toothbrush, hoping to glisten like those silken tressed models in the shampoo commercials. I once bought some mustache wax and faithfully simonized the unruly growth for six weeks without fail, but it always wound up looking like a wet puppy. In cold weather, the wax used to cake up and flake off, so my nose resembled a candlestick.

If I trimmed it, the result was an annoying similarity to Charlie Chaplin's imitation of Adolf Hitler. If I allowed it to grow full and brushed it carefully, I.V. Lenin peered back from my mirror. If I shaved clean the middle furrow of my upper lip, Neville Chamberlain appeared with a frown or Terry Thomas

The biggest problem was that my mustache grew out in dark brown bristles, while my hair is quite gray, or sexy silver as a lady barber in a unisex shop once called it in anticipation of the handsome tip that was forthcoming.

Why do you dye your mustache and not your hair?" a checkout clerk at the local supermarket asked me recently, while examining my driver's license to cash a modest check. She overcharged me for the paper towels, too.

Since I began growing my mustache at the start of another overseas tour as a reporter, I was apprehensive of what my friends would think of it on my first return home. More than apprehensive, I was terrified to the point of bald-faced cowardice. Crossing the ocean on a New York bound jumbo, I went to the washroom, lathered up nervously and raised my razor to remove the subnasal adornment. Right about then, the plane encountered turbulence and I almost removed my nose along with the mustache.

This is when I learned the hard way, the irreparable way, that summer is not the proper time to remove a mustache. The rest of the face is tanned. When you uncover the upper lip, it is lilly white, except for the unfortunate razor nicks, and you end up smiling the smile of Walt Disney's Cheshire cat.

Anyhow, late in December, my mustache will go down the drain, another discarded relic of the '70s, like punk rock or cheap fuel or Billy Martin, who seems to have had nothing but trouble since he grew his mustache

Will I have any regrets? After all, we have been together almost seven years deer hunting season, Michael Banks and another man brought a camperload of women to the vicinity of Idlewild.

There's an old Spanish proverb: "A kiss without a mustache is like an egg without salt.

Banks was arrested after a Michigan state policeman stopped his camper, ostensibly to investigate a possible motor vehicle violation - the septic tank of the camper leaking onto the road.

Questioning Banks inside the patrol cruiser, the officer told Banks he knew 'what you're doing." Banks replied there was "good money to be made up in this area.

Banks later was convicted by a jury of transporting women in interstate commerce for prostitution.

by Brad Anderson Unemployment May Hurt Carter

NEW YORK (AP) - Statistics that now show unemployment at a relatively low level, to the surprise and satisfaction of President Carter could become a political liability for him in 1980.

The rate - 5.8 percent for November, and never higher than 6 percent in any month of 1979 - is widely expected to rise in 1980, perhaps to 7 percent or more, as an economic slowdown sets in.

Both the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Commerce Department have stated that definite signs of weakening are showing up in the economy, and have indicated that unemployment increases might be expected.

There is debate over the extent of the economic decline, but among the more popular theses is that the longer the downturn is delayed the deeper it is likely to be and the longer it is likely to pers-

January: A poor automotive market also hurts many satellite industries.

By an aberration of statistical logic, layoffs among part-timers doesn't always force up the jobless rate. If they withdraw from the job force, for example, they no longer are counted as unem-

Partially offsetting this affect, however, is that in today's inflated economy many familes depend on the part-time second income of a spouse to pay for necessities. When laid off, such people are likely to seek other part-time jobs, thus remaining in the work force.

Should the statistics turn against it. the Carter administration still has ammunition. It could point out, for example, that millions of jobs have been created during the Carter years, adding to the la-

Had the labor force not grown so large, partly because of women entering the job market, the jobless rate might have been much lower. If these women had not sought jobs, the labor force would have been smaller.

The value of this ammunition is another matter. Job creation has not been peculiar to the Carter years. In fact, for the entire decade of the 1970s jobs were created at twice as high a level as in the

Besides, in spite of its notorious inadequacies, the official jobless rate is a figure so commonly used that few people question it. It doesn' matter that many people consider it almost useless

Economy Influenced By Auto Slowdown

The importance of the automotive industry to the nation's economy and to each of us has been driven home recently by widespread layoffs and business failures, reports the Automotive Information Council (AIC)

Almost 130,000 workers at auto plants are on layoff because of reduced vehicle production, more than 450 new-car dealerships closed in the model year, and the 'ripple effect' into supplier firms and other backup industries is too broad to be measured, said AIC.

However, an economic study by a Nobel Prize-winning economist, indicates that layoffs in support areas come to almost 50 percent more than those laid off by the vehicle makers.

These include those in wholesale and retail sales, service, prefabricated metal products, machinery, business services, advertising, transportation, warehousing, textiles, rubber, glass, chemicals, paint, wood, finance and communications.

In addition, it affects real estate, insurance, hotels, restaurants and "even the dry cleaner in Akron, said AIC

The fallout also will greatly hamper tax collections of all types.

The auto slowdown has resulted from many causes - inflation, oil shortages and high interest rates - but one of the other root causes is the heavy burden of costly regulations placed on the auto by appointed government regulators.

Today's new car carries more than $700 worth of federally mandated items such as stringent emissions and fuel-headrests, side beams and a host of others which have driven up the price of cars. AIC pointed out.

And other regulations will add more than another $1,000 (not counting inflation) in the next five years.

Perhaps it's time for motorists to call to the attention of those in government the effect today's situation is having on their lives so that a more rational regulatory approach can be made in the future. said the Automotive Information Coun

'In a way all the fun starts now," he ays. "This is the most exciting thing to happen in my lifetime." he adds without a funt of exaggeration.

Carsberg has spent the last year on the staff of the Financial Accounting Standards Board in New York working on ways to correct traditional accounting methods for distortions caused by measuring in dollars which have a declining Supported by accountants' contributions, the FASB is the profession's independent rulemaking body whose decisions - with the backing of the Securities and Exchange Commission - also apply to all public corporations.

Carsberg's enthusiasm reflects the FASB's issuance, after prolonged debate of its first standards for dealing with inflation. In October, the board told the nation's 1.200 to 1.500 biggest companies to begin supplementing their regular financial data with inflation-adjusted figures.

The decision did not come easy. The key issue was choosing between two imperfect inflation-correction techniques, situation has kept President Carter off the campaign trail, but it has not prevented him from actively using the lure of the White House to bring the campaign to him.

Carter Campaigning

Today, for instance, he arranged an afternoon in Washington for more than three dozen leaders from Manhattan's network of neighborhood Democratic clubs - a level of political workers not accustomed to being briefed by the president's top domestic and foreign policy advisers or having the president himself "drop in" on their meetings.

They are part of a parade of politicians and "community leaders" who have been flattered with invitations or personal telephone calls from Carter in recent weeks.

Although White House staff members say Carter is no more accessible than usual, his activities are provoking criticism and frustration among supporters of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in much the same way then-President Ford's "Rose Garden strategy" was attacked by Carter during the 1976 campaign. Kennedy is challenging Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomi-

"If he's so busy with Iran, then why has he had time to call all those county (Democratic) chairmen in Iowa?" one Kennedy campaign official complained recently. He asked not to be named.

"He is not devoting 24 hours a day to Iran," responded Carter's press secretar-should be placed in the position of doing nothing for his re-election efforts.

More than just county chairmen in Iowa, the first state to choose national convention delegates, are reporting calls from the White House.

"He has tremendous discipline. He must be spending two hours a day on the phone," said one political aide whose boss is still uncommitted in the Democratic contest. "City councilmen in Buffalo, (N.Y.,) John Deere factory managers in Iowa, these calls are turning up everywhere," said the aide who also requested anonymity.

The Iranian crisis forced Carter to cancel a long-planned campaign tour last week that would have put him on television stations and front pages across the country. Instead, he has had the cameras in to catch him greeting visitors from out of town in the Cabinet Room or some other White House setting.

In the past month, New Hampshire and the other New England early primary or caucus states as well as Florida and Virginia have sent delegations.

Black officials who drop by to endorse the president are told to bring along other potential supporters from their areas. Those who have done so include mayors Tom Bradley of Los Angeles and Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N.J., and Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y.

The practice has become so common that Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond pleaded with a group of New York liberals last weekend, "Don't trade your vote

--for lunch at the White House.' But Mario Cuomo, Carter's New York campaign manager and one of those who arranged the Manhattan delegation's visit, said he had been "trying to jam as many groups into the White House schedule as we can."

President Leads Kennedy In Poll

CHICAGO (AP) - President Carter has moved ahead of Sen. Edward Kennedy as the Democratic voters' choice nationally for the 1980 presidential nomination, the latest Gallup Poll reports.

The survey, completed Dec. 9, shows a dramatic jump in Carter's popularity as he became the choice of 48 percent of the Democrats, compared to Kennedy's 40

In mid-October Kennedy led Carter by a 2-1 ratio, and in the Nov. 16-19 poll, Kennedy led by a margin of 55 percent to

The president's increasing strength among the voters is due, at least in part, to Americans' support for his actions in the hostage crisis in Iran, and a renewed faith in his ability to lead the country. poll officials said. Seventy-five percent of those surveyed approved of the president's handling of the Iran situation.

The poll, published in the today's editions of the Chicago Sun-Times, also cites Kennedy's criticisms of the deposed Shah of Iran as a factor helping Carter. The president's standing also has improved among independents.

Recount Gives Treen Victory

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Dave Treen, claiming victory as Louisiana's first Republican governor in 102 years, says voters seem ready to accept a second political party.

This is certainly a very big step toward giving this state a two-party syssaid Treen, 51. He formally claimed victory Tuesday night, after a recount. His supporters watched as clerks of court began the official count by popping the seals on 6,400 voting machines.

The count, still unofficial, gave Treen 690,888 votes and Democrat Louis Lambert 681,017 votes - a margin of 9,871 out of nearly 1.4 million votes.

Lambert could not be reached for comment. However, in a statement issued earlier by an aide, Lambert said he was sure the official count would be fair. The recount ended his hope that enough errors were made Saturday in the hasty election-night count to enable him to snatch victory from defeat. Treen takes office March 10, and he said he doesn't know when he will resign from Congress, where he is serving his fourth term from Louisiana's 3rd Con-

NBC Broadcast Of Hostage Interview Criticized

NEW YORK (AP) - NBC's decision to broadcast an interview with one of 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran has drawn sharp criticism from congressmen, and one suggested the network be given "The Benedict Arnold Award for Broadcasting.

Rep. Robert Bauman joined the growing controversy in a speech Tuesday from the House floor. Earlier, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said both he and President Carter felt the interview had helped the Iranians' propaganda ef-

The conflict over the interview, taped and broadcast Monday, not only stirred official reaction, but left the networks divided.

The interview with Marine Cpl. William Gallegos was aired only hours after U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti told the International Court of Justice that the American hostages were "in peril of their lives." Gallegos, in contrast, declared, "Everybody's OK." Spokesmen for CBS and ABC said they were offered hostage interviews in recent days, but rejected conditions set by the Iranian captors. John Chancellor, NBC's New York anchor for the satellite feed from Tehran, noted conditions set by the militants, and the broadcast began with statements by Gallegos and an Iranian.

'It was an easy call, and in prime-time, and frankly, I don't think we would give that right to the president of the United States. We wouldn't give that right to anyone," said Burton Benjamin, director of news for CBS.

"For us, the issue is maintenance of CBS News' editorial control over the content of our broadcasts and over the scheduling of news material broadcast over the CBS television network," Benjamin's boss, CBS News President William Leonard, said in a statement.

"Agreement to broadcast an unedited version of a statement by a so-called revolutionary students and to broadcast that statement in prime-time were in and of themselves sufficient preconditions to cause us to turn down such an interview, regardless of other pre-conditions which may or may not have been at-

Roone Arledge, ABC's president of news and sports, said ABC was offered "essentially a variation" of what NBC accepted, and rejected the proposal "on grounds that to interview somebody in a controlled situation is one thing, but to turn your facilities over to them without editorial control is journalistically un-

Bill Small, NBC News' president, acknowledged the militants had made previous offers that were turned down, "primarily because they wanted questions submitted in advance and asked for other conditions.

We went back with a counter-offer," the NBC News executive said. "We said we would carry their statement in prime-time, providing there was no restriction on the number and content of our questions, and that we could retain editorial control and the right to drop the entire broadcast." Small insisted the interview had provided "new knowledge and understanding" of the crisis, but CBS and ABC were adamant in their belief that NBC should not have bowed to the captors' conditions. News executives of the three networks acknowledge a more general effort by the militants to use the media, but all maintain they have resisted manipula-

"Someone asked me the other day about the Iranians talking to television and the print press, but not our government," said Benjamin. "We can't take the position, 'Either you talk to the government, or we won't cover the story.' We've got to cover the story.'

"Obviously, they're trying to influence some sort of Vietnam-like resistance movement in this country that they think exists," ABC's Arledge said of the militants. "We have to be very careful in our handling of this story.

Small, Arledge and CBS News President William Leonard were unanimous in their defense last week when State Department spokesman Hodding Carter criticized the networks for interviews with the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Iranian leader. Carter claimed the interviews helped solidify the ayatollah's decision to try some of the hostages as spies.

Iranian Held For Murder Of Teen-Ager

DENVER (AP) - Iranian student Afshin Shariati shot a teen-ager because he believed the youth had tossed a bomb into his apartment, defense lawyers say.

At a preliminary hearing Tuesday in the first-degree murder case, a police officer also testified that Shariati told patrolmen after the shooting that the youth was one of three teen-agers who "threw a bomb and were trying to escape.

Shariati faces eight charges, including first-degree murder, in the death of 15year-old Paul D. Mortizky. He was shot in the back with a high-powered rifle Nov. 11.

Two other teen-agers, Michael D. Lopez, 16, and Steve Roane, 17, were wounded during the incident, apparently by one bullet.

The three youths, upset because Iranian students were holding Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Iran, armed themselves with baseball bats and were seeking a confrontation with Iranians, according to testimony.

Blood alcohol tests showed Moritzky had consumed almost twice the amount of alcohol needed to be declared legally drunk, the Rocky Mountain News report-students who withstood a day of taunting and insults from an angry mob today huddled under umbrellas on the steps of City Hall as they began the third day of a hunger strike.

'I like the people of San Antonio. What happened yesterday was led by four or five persons," said Farshad Rafizadeh, one of the five San Antonio College students. "We all love them."

The Iranians, protesting the presence of the deposed shah at nearby Lackland Air Force Base, were whisked through a back door of city hall to the police station late Tuesday after the threatening mob swarmed around them.

Rafizadeh said they remained at the police station for about 30 minutes before going home.

The sudden overnight drop in temperature may keep the mob, spurred on by a local country-western disc jockey, from returning today, according to City Manager Tom Huebner. 'They're sitting there in the cold and sults, obscenities and threats were showered on them. Crowd leaders packed the city council chambers Tuesday night as the city council refused an appeal of the city manager's refusal to allow permission for an anti-shah parade.

The fast is in protest of the shah's presence and the denial of the permit.

Ware told the council the crowd was not causing the problems outside the building. "I ain't causing nothing. It's the Ayatollah Khomeini and these yo-yos who are causing this," he said, pointing to the five students seated on the front

During the council session, City Manager Tom Huebner said the parade permit was denied because of potential violence between the students and Ku Klux Klansmen who planned a counter-rally.

After the unanimous council vote upholding Huebner's decision, the crowd squeezed through a city hall door and returned to taunt the Iranians, who were again perched on the steps.

Parents Disputing Propaganda Claim

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) - The parents of a Marine hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Iran have received numerous telephone calls in support of their son, although his appearance in a television interview has been criticized by one highranking congressman.

Richard "Jose" Gallegos said Tuesday he did not regard the televised appearance of his son, Cpl. William Gallegos, 20, as propaganda aiding the militant Iranian students.

Mrs. Gallegos said her son had "showed that he is an American. He has always been very patriotic. And he showed that he knows why he is there and that he is willing to give up his life for his country.

Crisis In Iran Forces Carter To Sleep Less, Work Harder

modest change of life style on President Carter - he sleeps less and works harder - but in other ways he feels his ingrained traits, such as attention to detail, have helped him in dealing with the ordeal.

Carter has spent a lot of time studying the Moslem religion, the relationships between Iran and its neighbors, the ethnic and religious groups in Iran that seek autonomy.

He has studied the psychological profiles of the Ayatollah Khomeini as well as secret information about other characters on the Iranian stage.

Carter is known to feel that despite the criticism he got for paying so much attention to detail, it is part of his nature and it is important in dealing with routine as well as unforeseen issues.

Carter's personal views of his handling of the crisis and how it has affected his life were provided on the highest authority with the provision that no source for the information be identified. Carter is putting in more hours of work, primarily at night because Iran's time is seven hours ahead of the United States. Not often, but on occasion, he gets calls in the middle of the night. When that happens, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance usually goes to the State Department to deal with the issue. Carter stays in the family quarters at the White House and they talk by telephone as frequently as necessary.

The Special Coordination Committee set up to deal with the Iranian crisis meets daily. Carter does not attend, but generally gets written reports. He makes marginal notes or writes in his answers if a decision is necessary.

If he has questions, he consults personally with the official involved. For instance, he may call Defense Secretary Harold Brown and ask him to elaborate on why he took a certain position.

Since the Nov. 4 seizure of the U.S. Embassy, Carter has staved close to home, either at the White House or Camp David in the nearby Catoctin Mountains in Maryland where communications are about equivalent.

He feels the Iranian crisis has melded his defense and foreign advisers into a much more closely coordinated team than before and they have a free exchange of ideas. He does not feel there have been the damaging leaks to media such as occurred in earlier crises. Carter does not think the crisis has interrupted his normal duties. He feels he hasn't cut down on dealing with Congress on his legislative program. He continues to monitor his political campaign very closely.

Overall, he feels at ease about the crisis as far as his psychological attitude and his self-confidence are concerned. But he wishes the crisis would go away immediately. It is an ever-present thought in his mind and he is always considering what can be done to expedite the safe release of the

Q. The last time I heard about Joe Don Looney, the loony running back with the Giants, Colts and Lions, he was in India with a guru and washing elephants.

-Cody Kennard, St. Louis.

A Joe Don is back from India, but still far out, man. He remains a disciple of Baba Muktananda, from long distance, as a resident in the Catskills of New York. Looney says he was barred from professional football for life. Ruminating on this statement, he adds, that probably means "for ALL my lives." Joe Don plans on coming back until he gets it right.

Q. Has anybody ever actually measured how much a curve ball curves? My friends claim it must be 2 or 3 feet. My ll-year-old claims his moves 2 feet. On TV they curve a lot, but my TV is 10 years old. Even buildings sway on it. -John Mayers, Lake Park, Fla.

A. The first photographic evidence that a curve ball actually curved (instead of being an optical illusion) was supplied by Life magazine's great photographer Gjon Mili in the late 1930s. Carl Hubbell's curve snaked through three posts in a

Now. How far? Our guess is that the best curve ball breaks all of 6 inches. When taking into account the line of trajectory — from point of release 6 to 7 feet higher than home plate — the ball seems to break a foot more than that. At least that's what batters that face Pittsburgh's Bert Blyleven will swear.

Q. I am an ardent baseball fan and have often wondered how the bat boys were picked. Do they travel with the team? What do they do about going to

-Mrs. Arth B. Barr, Porr O'Connor, Tex.

A. The bat boys are usually picked in the good old American way - they know somebody. Each spring every club picks two home team bat boys and two visiting club bat boys. So, no traveling. There are so few day games during the week these days, there is no conflict with school. (In the Chicago Cubs' case scholars are picked who can make up missed classes.)

In addition to being educational, as in increasing their vocabularies, it can also be lucrative. The Pittsburgh Pirates voted their bat boys $7,000 out of the World Series pool.

Q. During the Minnesota-Dallas game, Fran Tarkenton's jersey was retired. They stated that Fran had been with the franchise since 1961. Didn't he play for the New York Giants?

- Lois Barnett, Dallas.

A. Tarkenton was with the Giants for five seasons through 1971, before being traded back to the Vikings. In 1970 he had the New Yorkers 9-5, their best record since 1962 and one that at this writing has yet to be matched.

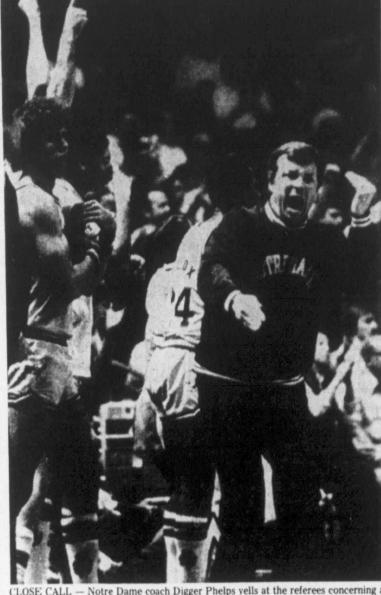

Q. I heard Howard Cosell make a comment (critical) about one-handed catches in the World Series. We were taught to use two hands at all times. This one-handed stuff is bad for kids learning the game, isn't it? -Jim Stevens, Houston,

A. Did you ever see a jai alai player with one of those baskets strapped to his wrist? That the same reason today's maor leaguers catch one handed — the modern-day gloves are so huge, thanks to rules changes, that there is little danger of the baseball popping out of the pocket. Cosell never said a word about one handers until Dave Parker dropped one.

Dallas' Search For 12th Man Proves Elusive

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS (AP) — America's Team is still having trouble with simple math.

It all started Thanksgiving Day when 12 Dallas Cowboys were caught on the field during a Houston punt. The penalty set up the Oilers' game-winning touchdown.

There were angry arguments along the sidelines, including a clipboard spike by specialty teams coach Mike Ditka.

After 10 days off and numerous practices, the Cowboys were guilty of not having the legal 11 players on the field thrice Saturday against Phladelphia in a 24-17, Roger Staubach-led victory.

Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday that injuries and the modern age of specialization are giving coaches and players

Things are much more specialized and teams are shifting in and out," said Landry. "Then if you get a lot of injuries like we do you have a situation where there can be a breakdown in communica-

Landry said the Cowboys had 12 men on the field during an extra point against the Eagles and added, "We didn't even block it and got a roughing penalty.

Another time Dallas had 12 players on defense but officials overlooked it.

Yet another time the Cowboys had only 10 players on defense, permitting Wilbert Montgomery to flee 34 yards with a short pass because the weakside linebacker was a no show.

Cowboys assistant coach Ermal Allen said "it's tougher than you think" to get 11 players on the field.

"I look at films every week and there's not a week that goes by that you don't have a big laugh by seeing some team without the right number of players," said Allen. "People accuse you of not being able to count.

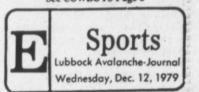

"Well, it's just more complicated than that. If a player gets hurt, then it is up to the trainer to notify the coach. A lot of times an injured player will go back into the game without telling his replacement.'

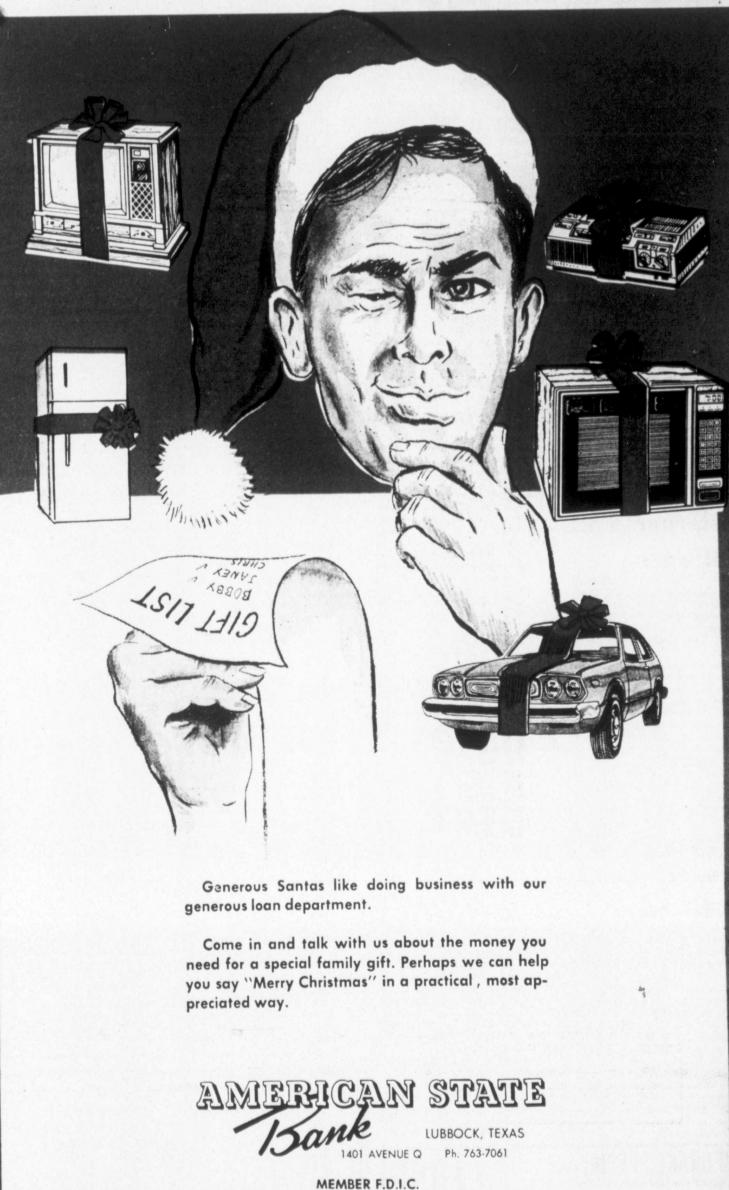

Allen said a lot of teams are using as many as five wide receivers on passing downs. This means the defensive teams have to substitute accordingly to get slower players like linebackers out of the

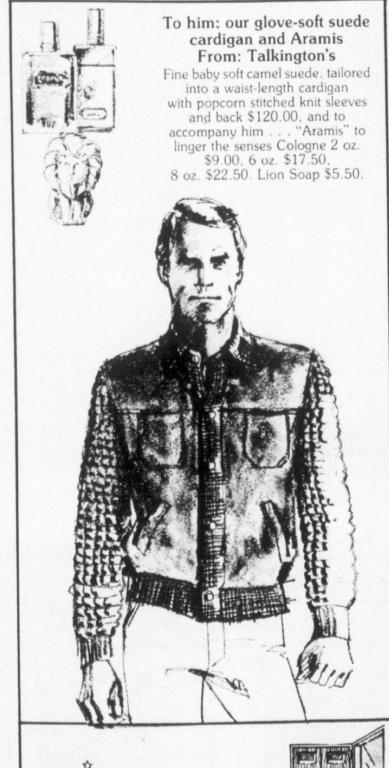

"You really have to be coordinated," said Allen.

Charley Taylor, Washington publicity man, was in Dallas Tuesday and recalled that the Redskins also lost to Houston the first week of the season because the 'Skins had 12 men on the field during a for the rest of the night.

Clardy Leads MHS In Win Over Bulldogs

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Joe Michalka didn't want to come right out and say it, but obviously the man was happy.

When he grinned a person could see the chocolate chips stuck on his tonsils. Yeah, he was that happy.

Well we just beat a team that's 11-2, picked to win its district and go to the regional playoffs," noted the Monterey head coach. "I thought we played well. It's the first time we've played a tall team like that. And I thought we handled it pretty well."

In running their record to 8-3 for the year, the Plainsmen handled District 5-AAAA strongboy Midland 67-62 before a handfull of fans.

The Plainsmen, led by the 33-point performance of postman Trav Clardy, did two things extremely well against the Bulldogs. First, they held 6-9 Herbert Johnson to only 22 points. And, secondly, Monterey hit 23 of 26 free shots (14 in a row at point). "I don't know if this is the win that it will take for us to jell," said Michalka, choosing his word rather carefully. "But do know it's a heckuva win for us. We're a young team and we needed a big win like this to gain some confidence."

Midland, guided by former Snyder head man Jack Stephenson, jumped out fast on the Plainsmen and grabbed a 20 14 lead with 53 seconds left in the period. But before the end of the initial stanza, Clardy hit two layups, the first with 21 seconds left and the second at :09, to cut Midland's lead to 2, at 20-18.

It wasn't until Gregg Thomason canned a 20-footer at 3:20 in the second stanza that Monterey was able to grab the lead for the first time since the first period. Monterey led at that time 28-27.

But the Plainsmen hit a dry spell after that (only a pair of freebies by Mike Wooten kept Monterey from going scoreless during the final three minutes) and Midland held a 3-point halftime lead 33-

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Last week, Dunbar blew out Coronado 77-64. Tuesday night Coronado turned the tables with equal ease, beating the Panthers 63-55. What's the difference?

We obviously played better tonight said Arnwine, "and the difference is we were just a little more positive mentally.

'Last week we had just blown a 16point lead before we played Dunbar, so we weren't really positive. I had put a lot of pressure on the kids to win over at Dunbar and we were not in a good frame

We'd played good before Dunbar and we played good in the Amarillo tournament last weekend, so I think that can be the only thing.

McWilliams saw the same story, but from the other side of the coin.

'We just didn't get after it," he said. 'Last week we played our hears out. When you've got a young ball club and you play hard, things are going to happen for you.

When you're still a young ball club and you think you're an experienced ball club and you don't play with a great deal of enthusiasm, well then those teams that have been playing longer are going to beat you.

Actually: the game wasn't as one-sided as either the coaches - or the final score - indicates. Coronado led by only 5 points with 212 minutes left in the

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Doug Williams will be at the helm again Sunday when the Tampa Bay Buccaneers play the most crucial game of their four-year career. But coach John McKay admits he would be "more prone to take him out early if I felt he wasn't getting the job

At a press conference Tuesday, McKay defended his second-year quarterback, shifted blame to himself for last week's 23-7 loss to San Francisco and blistered sports writers who referred to the slipping Bucs as a laughing stock.

Asked how he feels going into Sunday's game needing a victory to clinch a NFC division title and a playoff spot, MaKay snapped, "I resent this, that people in the country are laughing at us. I don't know anybody laughing at us." McKay said he will stick with Williams against Kansas City even though Williams has played poorly with nine interceptions in two of the Bucs' last three "I think he can do the best job."

McKay said. "I think he's a winning quarterback. I think he's the future of the Buccaneers. The coach agreed it is do-or-die and said there are teams he'd rather be playing than the Chiefs. I think this is the most critical game we've played. Let's see how we react to it. I have no bad feelings about the game:

qualify for the playoffs, could have clinched their first division title under the present league setup with a win over Dailas, but the Cowboys took home a 24-17 victory Saturday. 'It's like you have a 9.7 sprinter (for

ENOS SLAUGHTER

'Country' Slaughter Misses Fame Ballot

AP Special Correspondent

than hitting home runs. I loved the game and I played it hard.'

It's voting time again for one of baseball's most hallowed institutions - the Hall of Fame — and we are immediately reminded of comments from a couple of worthy guys who have never made it.

"The Hall of Fame is charity," Roger Maris said bitterly not so many summers ago, "It's something they give you, not something you necessarily earn." "The Hall of Fame has become a home run derby," said Enos (Country) Slaughter, the Ty Cobb and Pete Rose of his era. "There is more to baseball

Greater truth has never been spoken. There are 62 names on the list of possibilities mailed baseball writers by Jack Lang, the bouncy secretary-treasurer of the Baseball Writers' Association (BWAA) and keeper of the ballot boxes. Missing is that of Slaughter, the old firebrand of the Cardinals whose career was sandwiched around World War II. Hidden somewhere in the table is Maris, the man who broke Babe Ruth's season home run record

Slaughter's 15 years of eligibility expired without his getting a call. Now if he makes the shrine, he must do it through a side door - probably by the Old-Timers' Committee after another five-year wait.

"It just isn't the same," Slaughter said disconsolately from his Roxboro, N.C., tobacco farm. "I may be dead when I am picked."

There is no excuse for passing over Maris. He's still there, with his 61 resented home runs in 1961, his recognized fielding and throwing skills, his two Most Valuable Player awards when he played side by side with the great Mickey Mantle.

How can Maris be ignored? How could Country Slaughter have been ignored by men in the press box who saw him play his innards out for 19 years, batting 300, knocking in 1,304 runs, running, throwing, playing with the wild abandon of the old Gas House Gang?

The questions are rhetorical because the answers are self-evident. The Hall of Fame voting, the exclusive province of baseball writers, is, as Maris once charged, often a popularity contest with less emphasis on statistics and the Cobb-Rose intangibles of grit and gristle, which both Maris and Slaughter had

Freshman Keys Irish Squeaker Over UCLA

By The Associated Press

Last year at this time, John Paxson was playing basketball for Bishop Alter High School in Kettering, Ohio, with his college future still up in the air.

Tuesday night, he was the center of attention in a red-hot Notre Dame-UCLA game with the outcome hinging on his free-throw shooting.

"I never thought I'd be in there at the end of a close game," said the wide-eyed onds, either, as the fourth-ranked Fighting Irish defeated the seventh-ranked Bruins 77-74 at South Bend.

'I don't even remember what I was thinking about," said Paxson, whose older brother, Jim, starred for the University of Dayton last season. "I just went up there with the idea of making them. When I released the shots, they felt

With UCLA leading 74-73, the 6-foot-2 Paxson was fouled as he took a desperation shot with five seconds remaining.

"Somebody had to," Paxson said of his shot. "I was just fortunate to get fouled."

Paxson sank the go-ahead free throws, then stole a UCLA pass and was fouled intentionally. He hit the clinching foul shots with two seconds to go as Notre Dame defeated UCLA for the sixth time in the last eight meetings of this great series.

The other Top Ten teams in the state of Indiana didn't do too badly, either, as top-ranked Indiana defeated No. 16 Georgetown 76-69 and No. 9 Purdue stopped Nebraska 78-56.

Senior Mike Woodson scored 23 points and freshman Isiah Thomas added 19 to highlight Indiana's victory. Thomas, a 6-foot-3 guard, scored 10 of his points in the final five minutes, including six key free throws in bonus situations.

The victory was Indiana's fourth in as many starts. Georgetown, led by Craig Shelton's 23 points, suffered its first loss after three victories.

"Thomas adds a new dimension (to Indiana) with a quick guard," said Georgetown coach John Thompson. "I think they (the Hoyas) worked very hard, and they haven't done that in the past.'

Guard Keith Edmonson and center Joe Barry Carroll made key baskets at the start of the second half to trigger Purdue over previously unbeaten Ne-

Purdue, now 5-0, led only 33-31 at halftime before going on a 14-2 tear for a 47-33 advantage that sent the Cornhuskers down to their first defeat in five games. Edmonson scored six points and Carroll four in the Boilermaker spurt.

Moe Iba, Nebraska's interim coach while Coach Joe Cipriano is recuperating from surgery, said Purdue is "15 points better than they were a year ago. They have more weapons this year. Edmonson is good at posting a small defensive guard near the basket. When we sagged the defense to stop Carroll, they were able to take advantage of it this year."

MISSION, Kan. (AP) - Spurred on by the success of last spring's "Project Intercept," the enforcement arm of the NCAA has launched another innovative program aimed at making friends with many of the nation's top high school prospects.

The Associated Press has learned that since last summer, NCAA investigators have been quietly getting acquainted with 25 football and basketball players and their parents.

'We've been trying to pay attention to who the good ones are, and since last summer we've been in there recruiting them just like college coaches do," said David Berst, director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Enforcement Department.

The idea is to assign an investigator to two or three athletes, and visit with them generally. We're not necessarily trying to find out what's wrong with their recruitment as much as we're trying to establish some kind of relationship with them and their parents.

Berst declined to name the high school athletes who have been contacted.

Supervisory personnel at the NCAA offices in suburban Mission, Kan., this week are sifting through information collected in the areas of the Southeast Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference, which signed prospects to football letters-of-intent last week.

The program will be expanded to a nationwide basis after Jan. 1 with an eye toward the national letter of intent signing date Feb. 20.

Lions Want State Title

By United Press International

Trying to pick a state champion in Texas high school football before the first play is ever run is almost impossible. In fact, many veterans of the trade say it's just downright foolish.

But a poll of the state's top sportswriters and sportscasters who regularly cover high school sports attempted the task for United Press International back in August. And, they didn't do half bad.

The McKinney Lions were pegged as the team to beat in Class AAA, with Brownwood rated second, Jasper picked third. Lubbock Estacado fourth and the Bay City Black Cats fifth.

Saturday at 2 p.m. in Houston's Astrodome, McKinney and Bay City will square off to decide the state champion Lubbock Estacado and Beaumont He-football bert, a team ranked seventh in the preseason poll, made it to the semifinals before being eliminated last week.

We felt like we'd be pretty good when the season started," said McKinney coach Ron Poe. "Then, we had some key injuries early in the season and we lost three of our first five games. By then, most folks had given up on us."

But the Lions never gave up on themselves. They got over a couple of injuries. made some personnel shifts to accomodate for others, and started the long climb back

"Since then, we've played pretty good football," Poe said. "Now, we've got to play better Saturday than we have all season - that's just how good we know Bay City is. We hope to eliminate our mental mistakes and just play sound

Doctor Charges Malpractice In Ring Death

NEW YORK (AP) - A medical adviser for the State Athletic Commission has charged there was "gross malpractice" on the part of the officials presiding at the Nov. 23 fight between the late Willie Classen and Wilford Scypion.

Dr. Mortimer Shapiro, a neurologist at Mount Sinai Hospital, also said it was inexcusable the middlweight fight wasn't stopped in the ninth round, one round before Classen was knocked down for the final time

Classen later died from brain injuries he sustained in the bout. The state Senate Committee on Investigations was holding a hearing Tuesday on the reasons for Classen's death

The officials displayed gross malpractice in terms of their official capacity by not stopping that fight in the ninth round and allowing the man to come out for the 10th round," Shapiro said.

While viewing the final minute of the ninth round on video tape, which showed the 28-year-old Classen taking three hard right hands to the head, the doctor remarked. "That's disgusting. The fight should be stopped right there.

After viewing the 10th round, Shapiro noted. "There is no justification for anyone to have allowed the fight to continue. The man was incompetent and unable to defend himself in addition to being unable to get off his seat for the round."

On the subsequent kick, Oiler tight end Mike Barber cradled the ball and the Oilers held on to win one of their most important games of the season.

'You don't think I'm going to say that was a bad call do you?" Phillips said Tuesday in reviewing the play. "If I'm going to question that call, I'd have to question some other ones that went against us.

The Steelers had been building momentum throughout the fourth quarter and had just scored on a 34-yard pass from Terry Bradshaw to John Stallworth, climaxing a three play, 71-yard

What would have happened had the Steelers retained possession on the onsides kick will never be known and Phillips doesn't really care.

"If I questioned that call, I might also have to question two pass interference calls on (Ken) Burrough and (Rich) Caster, so if the officials were right then, they must have been right on the onsides kick too." Phillips said.

Phillips won't allow the Oilers to spend too much time dwelling on any play in the Pittsburgh game. The Oilers must prepare for their final regular season game in the Astrodome Sunday against Philadelphia, also playoff bound.

The Oilers go into the game with an 11-4 record, and a chance to emerge with the best record in the National Football League this season and the American Football Conference Cenral Divison title.

Phillips would like to think the Oilers are on the road to the Super Bowl and if they are, he figures there'll be another meeting with the Steelers.

"The road to the Super Bowl runs through Pittsburgh," Phillips said. 'Sooner or later you've got to go to Pittsburgh. But we can't think that far ahead. We can only think as far as Philadelphi-

Mills said the big question on Bay City came early - he lost 27 seniors from last year's semifinalist team, and had to undergo a rebuilding year.

We knew our defense would be sound, but we thought our offense was questionable," he said. "We had four seniors, and they've played both ways. The rest of the offense has come along as we hoped, and here we are.'

Pacers' Special Shooter Triggers Overtime Win

Joey Hassett has become basketball's latest specialist - he's the Indiana Pacers' designated three-point goal shooter.

Hassett, nicknamed "Sonar" because of his long-range shooting talent, struck again Tuesday night. After sitting on the bench the entire second half, he entered the game with the New York Knicks leading 113-110 and two seconds showing side that went through at the buzzer, sending the game into overtime.

The Pacers squandered a seven-point lead in the five-minute extra period but came back to win 124-122 on Alex Eng lish's 13-foot jumper with 46 seconds left

'It's no secret Hassett is the guy we go to in that situation," said Pacers coach Bobby Leonard, one of the threepoint goal's chief advocates. "We ran a decoy play and a pick to get him free and he had the shot we wanted. But with that little time, you've got to have a lot of luck, too.

Having Hassett around to shoot threepointers helps as well. The third-year pro from Providence was signed by the Pacers with that purpose in mind after being cut by Seattle, and he has connected on 17 long-range baskets. Earlier this season he tied a game against Utah with a three-pointer and won a game against Houston with three bombs in overtime.

'The three-pointer has certainly been good to me," Hassett said. "I used to shoot from there in college and we only got two points for it. Now that we get three, it's nice. My future is brighter

In other NBA games Tuesday night, the Denver Nuggets defeated the San Antonio Spurs 127-121, the Phoenix Suns beat the Washington Bullets 123-99, the Chicago Bulls edged Portland 104-93 and the Seattle SuperSonics trimmed Milwaukee 103-99.

"One thing has been proven all around the league - the fans love it," Leonard said of the three-point goal 'It's exciting. Last year we wouldn't have had a chance at the end, but with the three-pointer it's a whole extra dimension.

Even Knicks coach Red Holzman, who came out on the losing end, spoke in favor of the rule giving players three points for a shot made from beyond an arc ranging from 22 feet from the basket to 23 feet, 6 inches. The rule is being tested for one season.

'It's an exciting rule for the fans, although not sometimes for the coaches.

AP Sports Writer A poll taken around the time of the 1979 World Series indicates that football is the sport most followed in the United States, with baseball a strong second, basketball a very distant third and the rest of the sports trailing far behind.

And a survey of sports editors taken at the same time shows they are in agreement with their readers on sports inter-

On Oct. 15-16, an Associated Press-NBC telephone survey asked the following question: "Which sport would you say you are the most interested in. . .that is, which sports do you follow the most closely?

Football was named by 47 percent of the respondents. Baseball was listed by 33 percent of the national sampling and basketball was chosen by 11 percent.

Four percent of the people surveyed picked tennis, three percent chose golf and two percent selected hockey. Soccer got a two percent response and bowling, begun.

wrestling and car racing each logged 1 percent. Eleven percent of those answering said they didn't follow sports.

The AP-NBC survey has a sampling of 1,200 people. A poll of that size has a three percent margin of error in either direction.

The AP asked sports editors across the country to "vote on what you think the relative importance of sports is to your readers." They were asked to rate the sports 1-15 in order of importance.

The results there gave football a greater edge over baseball - 267 to 116. Basketball was listed as most important by 18 editors, hockey by two and horse racing, wrestling and skiing each by one.

Both surveys were intended only to gauge general impressions. It is understood that the timing and wording of any survey can alter the results. Baseball would seem to have an edge in the timing of the polls, since its premier event had center stage, but both the professional and college football seasons had already ketball apparently profited from the interest in various levels of the sports. No attempt was made to differentiate among professional, college or high school levels in those sports because the surveys sought general impressions instead of specific information.

There is no major interest in baseball other than on the major league level.

For example, Bill Hageman, sports editor of the Delaware State News, conducted his own survey in the spring of 1979 and got 75 reader responses ranking their favorite sports. Pro football was first, baseball was second, college football third, high school football fourth and University of Delaware football fifth.

The AP-NBC poll indicated that baseball interest rose as education and income declined, while the converse was true for football.

Forty percent of the respondents making less than $8,000 and 26 percent making more than $35,000 were baseball fans. Baseball ticket prices are significantly cheaper than pro football's. While 45 percent of those with a grade school education are baseball fans, only 17 percent of those with more than a college education are.

In addition, 23 percent of those 18-24 years old followed baseball, while 45 percent of those over 65 were most interested in baseball.

The regional breakdown of the AP-NBC poll reveals that football had strong national appeal, receiving nearly 50 percent of the responses in all eight geographic areas.

Football was most popular in the Mountain states (Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming) with a 60 percent response. This region has only one NFL team - the Denver Broncos - so it appears that many of the respondents were referring to college football.

The same conclusion could be reached in the Deep South (Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina), where the Atlanta Falcons and New Orleans Saints are the only NFL teams, yet 55 percent picked football as the sport they follow most closely.

Football is also big in the New South Arkansas, Delaware, Washington D.C. Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia), where football outscored baseball by 2-1 (52-26 percent).

Football, with 39 percent, did worst in the New England states (Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont). College football in New England is on a smaller scale and there is only one NFL team, the New England Patriots. Baseball, with 36 percent, has only the Boston Red Sox, but they are probably the most popular team in the area.

Baseball made its best showing in the Pacific states (Alaska, California, Hawaii, Oregon, Washington), trailing foot-

Baseball also did well in the Mid-Atlantic states (New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania), picking up 38 percent of the respondents to football's 43.

In both the Industrial Midwest (Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin) and the Midwest Farm states (Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota), football had an 8 percent edge over baseball:

"Daily baseball requires too much concentration over a long spell," Kar-mosky said. "The pro football scheduling." thus gives it a distinct advantage - concentration again is in a much narrower time span - one day, and after a week of drudgery the average American overwhelmingly is ready to go all-out for the NFL Sunday action."

Basketball had a uniform response about 10 percent — in all eight regions of the AP-NBC poll and hockey fluctuated from a high of 14 percent in New England to 0 percent in the Deep South.

Blacks appear more interested in basketball, with 27 percent of the blacks surveyed listing it, compared to 9 percent of the whites.

There were no geographical breakdowns in the sports editors' survey since it was not conducted on a regional basis.

Neither poll distinguished whether the respondent preferred the sport as a spectator or a participant.

Colt Owner Vows 'Fresh New Start'

BALTIMORE (AP) - Baltimore Colts owner Robert Irsay has sent Christmas greetings to his team's fans and promised a "fresh new start in 1980," a statement no one in the Colt organization would interpret.

'In view of the events of the past several months, I feel something should be said to the people of Baltimore and Maryland," Irsay's statement read. "Maybe I didn't do it the right way, but what I had in mind from the beginning was a better stadium for the Colts' fans.

"I never wanted anything else; in fact, we are spending five million dollars for our own practice facility," Irsay said

McEnroe Heeds Call For Davis Cup

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Special Correspondent The United States defends the Davis Cup, symbol of world tennis supremacy, this weekend in San Francisco, and chances are most of the country's redblooded sports fans will greet the occasion with a king-sized yawn. After all, the event conflicts with the first explosions of the college football bowl madness. The NFL will be filling final holes in its playoff structure. Pro basketball and hockey will be in full fury, and drums will be sounding for the approaching Winter Olympic Games in Lake Placid, N.Y. A tennis match? Forget it.

The Davis Cup is one of the world's oldest and most cherished sports traditions - born 79 years ago, the brainchild of a 21-year-old Harvard graduate named Dwight Filley Davis, and a trophy contested yearly from the top of the world to the bottom

Even when tennis was considered a pantywaist, snobbish sport, there was high excitement when the Yanks and Aussies crossed the Pacific to fight it out with 60-pound gut, when France's "Four Musketeers" finally subdued an aging Bill Tilden & Co., and flawless Fred Perry led a brief resurgence by the British.

Davis Cup prestige plummeted when tennis went open in 1968. Many pros scorned the appeals of their countries, preferring to use their time in grubbing for tennis gold on the prosperous tour. The old silver bowl lost much of its

Now the pros get paid and they play. Normally every nation again can count on its very best talent - Bjorn Borg for Sweden, Guillermo Vilas for Argentina, John McEnroe for the United States. The United States' Davis Cup fortunes reached a low ebb, starting in 1973.

For five years it didn't win, seeing the trophy go to such previously obscure contenders as Sweden, Italy and South Africa as well as twice to perennial rival The reason was simple. Uncle Sam's best player of the period, temperamental Jimmy Connors, refused to play. Davis Cup officials repeatedly implored him. Jimmy, harboring an old hurt, refused. Fortunately, the kid who has inherited Connors' sneakers, the 20-year-old McEnroe, has no such hangups. When the flag was waved before John's eyes, he grabbed his tightly-strung weapon.

Playing Great Britain in the final last year at Rancho Mirage, Calif., McEnroe polished off John Lloyd and Buster Mottram with the loss of only 10 games in six sets. The Cup came home for the 25th time.

No one ever before was so dominating - not Tilden, not Kramer, not Budge, not Gonzalez. Now young McEnroe is back for an encore, teaming with Vitas Gerulaitis and the veteran doubles tandem of Stan Smith and Bob Lutz against Italy's flashy Corrado Barazzutti and Adriano Panatta.

The petulant Connors will hardly be missed. Six times this year he has lost to Borg. McEnroe, on the other hand, whipped Connors in both the Grand Prix Masters and in the WCT Finals at Dallas. He now is challenging Borg for No. 1 world honors.

But much of the old grandeur is gone. You can blame that on spoiled players and the tennis brass. The Davis Cup final should be the sport's Super Bowl, played in late summer at a tennis citadel with all the fanfare of a world champi-

The tradition is rich - Tilden's glory years, the days of Budge and Kramer, those dramatic duels of the 1950s and 1960s against the Aussies. Who can forget the dour Harry Hopman, "Captain Bligh," snapping the whip over such stars as Frank Sedgman, Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall, Rod Laver, Roy Emerson and John Newcombe' THis weekend is a sort of homecoming for towering Barry MacKay, the event's director, a Davis Cupper two decades ago, and Trabert, the U.S. captain, who joined Vic Seixas in wresting the cup from Australia in 1954. But give a special salute to young McEnroe. If you get an urge to boo the highly keyed "Superbrat," remember when Uncle Sam called, he answered.

BENCH BEST

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Reds, who billed themselves as the 'Team of the '70s," have released figures showing that Reds catcher Johnny Bench led the major leagues in runs batted in during the last decade. While the Reds won two World Championships, four National League crowns and six division titles in the 1970s. Bench drove in 1,013 runs. During the 1979 season, Bench broke the Cincinnai club record for runs bated in with 1.191 and took over the team's career home run leadwith 332.

Network Overbids For '84

By FRED ROTHENBERG

LAKÉ PLACID, N.Y. (AP) - ABC, which became America's top television network in the 1970s, already has contracted for two of the top events in the 1980s - the 1980 Winter Olympics in

Analysis

Lake Placid and the '84 Summer Games in Los Angeles.

It appears ABC paid too little for Lake Placid and too much for Los Ange-

The Summer Games are more valuable than the Winter Games. There are more events, thus more air time. There is greater interest, thus higher ratings and more advertising money for ABC But paying $225 million for the '84 Games when its most serious competitor, CBS, bid $163.5 million, seems a bit

The structure of CBS' proposal was different than ours. The figures very close," said Jim Spence, senior vice president of ABC Sports. "Let's just say our bid was a preemptive proposal.

ABC could have had it for $175 milhon," said an NBC executive.

The ABC bid will go down as the grossest overbid in history," said an official at CBS.

Whether those comments are sour grapes will be known in four years, but ABC will clearly have to do some nifty juggling to make ends meet in 1984.

NBC paid $87 million for the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow. Four years later, even with inflation and the Games at home, can they really be worth 212times as much?

Spence admits that the 200 hours of Summer Olympics they plan to air in '84 are more than they really wanted. He says their hand was forced by "economic

ABC will be showing 51 hours of Olympic coverage from Lake Placid, two-thirds of which will be in prime ABC eventually won the rights to the Lake Placid Games for $15.5 million. Spence says the bid was fair and that ABC will make a reasonable profit. The best estimate is that ABC will clear close to $4 million.

The Winter Olympics haven't always been a sure-fire TV success. In 1972, NBC did the Winter Games from Sapporo, Japan. American audiences and TV critics didn't think much of either performance. The rights cost $6.4 million.

Four years later, ABC was the Olympic network once again, paying $10 million. The Innsbruck Games were a big

Meanwhile, negotiations for broadcasting rights to the Lake Placid Games were going on in 1976. Apparently, partially because of the Sapporo flop, CBS and NBC were lukewarm and ABC was not overly enthusiastic.

Also, because the Games were in the United States, the winning American network would have to undertake the camera feeds to the rest of the world and all the inherent production costs.

On the final day of the Innsbruck Games, ABC and the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee announced the signing of a $10 million contract.

Even then, the $10 million figure was considered too low by some. A month later, in March of 1976, ABC raised the ante to $11.5 million.

But the International Olympic Committee wanted more money from American TV. The IOC held an auction in Paris in May and invited NBC and CBS. CBS offered $15 million, and the IOC happily went back to ABC. ABC said it would raise CBS, bidding $15.5 million.

ABC had won the Winter Olympics for the second time.

strict travel in the area and to impose a ceiling of 50,000 people a day, athletes and media included.

That wouldn't even make a good Saturday crowd for a major college football team, but it's made Eschelbacher have to come up with "solutions to problems that will never happen again.

Fifty thousand people go into New York City and that does nothing to New York City," he said. "They're swallowed up. But here, we have to strain every one of their facilities."

Porcupines at Whiteface Mountain chewed through cables that were to relay pictures and sound from alpine skiing events. A crew of local workers had to travel to the next town over to buy an electric drill one Sturday afteroon, because all the local stores closed at noon. ABC's broadcast had to be tailored to the needs of other world broadcasters, for whom the network will provide feeds next February.

But ABC, which paid roughly $15 million for exclusive U.S. television rights to the Games, also enjoys some special privileges, such as permission to house its workers one to a room, even in the face of a hotel shortage. Other ABC workers are being given extra housing under the guise that they are "Olympic support personnel." And the company has been exempted from a rule that bars most private helicopter flights in the area

Before he moved in to the new broadcast center that the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee built at its own expens, Bader even occupied an office next to LPOOC general manager Peter Spurney in the LPOOC administrative

The network is hiring a lot of local people, but the great bulk of the more than 800 people it plans to have up here are full-time employees.

"I'll hand everybody — 600-plus pople - a suitcase with parkas, pants, boots, a turtleneck, mittens and socks and so forth," Eschelbacher said.

Court Probes Hughes' Financial Affairs

Hughes' weird financial dealings were discussed as the Nevada Supreme Court heard appeals from lower court decisions involving the late billionaire.

Arguments Tuesday included a Sum-ma Corp. appeal of a District Court decision in which Las Vegas Sun publisher Hank Greenspun won $1 million in damages against the firm in a land title flap.

The Supreme Court also heard lawvers for the Hughes estate argue against a $3 million claim against the estate from Texas Commerce Bank National Association of Houston, Texas.

The arguments were taken under submission and separate rulings will be issued at a later date.

In the first case involving Greenspun, Summa Corp. lawyer Sam Lionel argued that District Court Judge Joseph McDaniel of Elko erred in awarding the $1 million in punitive damages plus $53,204 in lawyers' fees to the Las Vegas newspa-

Both the union and the school board million on grounds Summa executives said the order could prolong the 55-day million loan from Hughes. Greenspun went to court and won the ruling from Judge McDaniel - a ruling which also cancelled the controversial trust deed.

Lionel insisted that the filing of the deed was not an act of malice on the part of Summa executives. But Ralph Denton, Greenspun's attorney, countered that the ase "reeks with malice.

Brian Greenspun, an attorney and the publisher's son, said one problem with the case is that both Hughes and his father acted like "lunatics" in making an unwritten agreement not to record the trust

In exchange for not recording the trust deed, Greenspun didn't force Hughes to fulfill terms of an earlier agreement to buy more than 2,000 acres al prospects for government aid to the Chrysler Corp. appear to be improving, but United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser says he does not know whether he would recommend union rat-

"I first have to see what form it takes." Fraser said in a interview Tuesday on the MacNeil-Lehrer Report on the Public Broadcasting Service. Union ratification is important to the chances of success for any legislation passed by Congress because the proposals being considered would require renegotiating the UAW-Chrysler contract.

On the same broadcast, and in a news coference earlier in the day. Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., softened his insistence that Chrysler workers absorb a wage freeze as the price of government loan guarantees for their employer.

I think there is plenty of give and take." Lugar said in the televised interview. Talking to reporters at the Capitol, Lugar had said, "I have no particular brief for a wage freeze and I suspect a

Two versions of an aid package have been proposed and a third, which surfaced Monday, likely will be introduced as a compromise

One version, calling for $1.25 billion in loan guarantees and a three-year wage freeze for the automaker's employees, cleared the Senate Budget Committee Tuesday on a 14-1 vote.

Another, which would provide $1.5 billion in loan guarantees if Chrysler turns up a like amount from other sources, was up for action in the House Rules Committee today.

Whatever measure Congress finally approves - if any - is expected to fall somewhere between the two.

However, Lugar rejected the latest attempt at a compromise, which calls for $400 million in wage concessions from Chrysler workers, rather than the $1.32 billion, three-year wage freeze he had proposed.

My own judgment is that more will need to be done by the hourly workers.

Fraser responded that UAW members have already made $200 million in wage concessions in their recent threeyear contract with Chrysler, while banks have not yet made firm commitments to.

ATO Ministers Working Out Missile Agreement

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - Defense and foeign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are seeking to work out a final decision this week on the deployment of 572 medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

Coupled with the missile issue is an arms control proposal that includes withdrawing 1,000 older atomic warheads and proposing that the Soviet Union negotiate curbs on the number of new warheads.

Some Western Europeans are opposed to having the missiles based in that area of the world.

Here are some basic questions and answers on the missile issue:

Q. Why do missile proponents want NATO to have these missiles in Western Europe?

A. The proponents say NATO's existing 7,000 nuclear warheads in Western Europe have declined in value since the Soviet Union has deployed $$-20 missiles which can strike anywhere in Western Europe. NATO's Pershing-1 nuclear missile in West Germany has a range of 400 miles, too short to reach the Sovet Union. The SS-20 is said to have created an imbalance in NATO's three-tiered arsenal of strategic nuclear, medium-range nuclear and conventional weaponry. Q. How many missiles does NATO propose to deploy? A. 464 Cruise and 108 Pershing-2 missiles, each carrying a nuclear warhead. In NATO's terminology, these are called 'theater nuclear' arms, designed for the European "theater" that covers Eastern Europe and a large portion of the Soviet Union.

Q. What is the significance of this new missile package?

A. If approved, the missile package could constitute a whole new generation

U.S.-made. ground-launched nuclear missiles able to hit Soviet territory from Western Europe.

Q. How would the new NATO missile arsenal rate against the Soviet system?

A: The NATO missiles are described as more accurate, with less punch. The Pershing II, for example, can travel 1,100 miles and hit within 75 feet of its target. The SS-20 is believed to be far less accurate, and for that reason carries three warheads instead of the Pershing's one warhead. The Pershing II is also faster.

The Cruise missile is considered particularly effective because it hugs the ground and can avoid radar.

In addition to its greater power, with three independently targeted nuclear warheads, the SS-20 has a longer range than either the Cruise or Pershing II about 1.850 miles. Western intelligence estimates that Moscow has so far deployed some 120 SS-20s in the western Soviet Union, but NATO Secretary-General Joseph Luns says the Soviets may reaching its maximum distance within 10 soon have bases for 200 of the large mis-

Q. Where are the proposed NATO missiles to be deployed? A. In five countries - Great Britain, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Belgium.

Q. Who will pay for and operate the missiles?

A. The United States will pay the estimated $4 billion to $5 billion production costs and is tentatively slated to operate them. But the host countries may share the operational responsibility. This is a decision yet to be made.

New Government Challenged

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) -Through the night haze, red neon crosses of Christian churches dot the capital, marking centers of government opposi-

Christians were in the forefront of dissent to the iron-fisted government of South Korean President Park Chunghee, assassinated Oct. 26 by the head of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency.

Now they're challenging the new re-

A number of Christians were among the 96 people arrested following a Nov. 24 mass meeting - held at a Young Women's Christian Association hall - to protest the 1972 constitution authored by Park to keep him in power and which still is in force.

Those arrested included Ham Sukhun, a Quaker and one of the leading Christian dissidents. He had returned to South Korea only two weeks before his

As they are elsewhere, South Korean Christians are involved in running churches, hospitals and schools. They also seek to improve the conditions of laborers and slum dwellers, work which occasionally has led to clashes with the government.

But it has been their public protests of what they see as government repression that has led to harassment, arrest or a jail cell for some.

The number of Roman Catholics and Protestants in this predominantly Buddhist nation of 37 million is estimated at four to six million. But their influence is greater than their size.

Christians are well remembered for their opposition to the Japanese occupation of Korea from 1910 to the end of World War I, a period when they survived persecution and kept their organi-

"Christianity has such good organization at the local and national levels," Lee Woo-jung said in an interview, explaining why she and her co-religionists were able to present an effective challenge to

Park's government "We have good networks to organize people and share information."

Miss Lee was fired from her job as university teacher of ethics in 1976 for her increasingly outspoken opposition to

She was convicted with others of opposing the government - a crime under special "emergency measures" still in force. Though she was not jailed, she has occasionally been under house arrest and often is followed by police.

Miss Lee said another reason for the Christians' effective dissent is the regime's inability to label them communists, a tag often attached to anti-government protesters. "People are so afraid of communism because of the Korean War," Miss Lee said. The 1950-53 conflict against communist North Korea killed an estimated one million South Korean soldiers and civilians. The North Korean border is only 30 miles north of Seoul.

"But Christians cannot be communists," Miss Lee said. "Communists are atheists." The Rev. Kim Kwan-suk, an official of the National Council of Churches in Korea, said in an interview that the anting the Christians.

"When it comes to helping (political) prisoners and their families, there's com-plete unity," he said. "But on political activities, there are conflicts. I think there are sectors among the Christian community that feel we have to support the government, even if it has many de

The clergyman, whose council represents six major Protestant denomin tions and about half the country's Protes tants, said that an "American understanding of conservative or liberal doesn't fit so far as Korea is concerned."

South Africans Battling Cats

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - When the South Africans came, the rats came too. So the South Africans imported cats. Then there were too many of them, so the South Africans brought in more. The ecological misadventure story began in 1947 when South Africa annexed Marion and Prince Edward Islands 1.150 miles to the southeast and put a weather observation station on Marion.

When the weathermen arrived, a number of rats slipped ashore and took up residence. It wasn't long before the meteorologists had lots of unwelcome rats for company.
Somebody thought of cats. In 1948, five common house cats were brought to the island and set free. They quickly ate their way through some of the rat population, but also discovered it was easier to catch and eat the sea birds roosting on the island. When they weren't out foraging, they were reproducing. By 1976, the feline population was estimated at 6,000, devouring 1.2 million birds a year. Petrels, graceful in the air but clumsy on the ground, were the favorite, but zoologists said other species also were endangered.

The cats had been hunted. They had been trapped. Those that could be caught were sterilized. But the population boom

In 1976, 100 more cats were brought to Marion. But these were infected with feline enteritis.

"The virus does not affect anything else, and that is why we decided to use it," said Rudi van Aarde of Pretoria University's Mammal Research Institute. "The virus has spread successfully through the island and has reduced the mean population by 54 percent."

Q: My employer is angry with me becasuse I plan to marry a co-worker. He says if we marry, one of us would have to resign since it is company policy that no parties related to each other can be on the company payroll. Is this legal?

A: Policies against marriages between co-employees are usually valid if the employer uses a sexually neutral criterion, such as seniority, to decide which employee must resign. No matter how neutral on its face, however, if the nomarriage policy operates to discriminate on the basis of sex, then the employer must show a legitimate business purpose for this policy.

If the spouse who is forced to resign feels he or she was discriminated aginst on the basis of sex, a claim could be filed with the Equal Employment Commis-

Q: I understand that a liquor store is to be built in my neighborhood. My neighbors and I are very upset. What, if anything, can we do to prevent this from happening?

A: Depending on the zoning ordinances, a liquor store may be an impermissible use of property. Some neighborhoods have deed restrictions which prohibit liquor stores. In some cities - Dallas is an example - a city ordinance requires a liquor store to be at least 300 feet away from a church or school. In the absence of zoning or deed restrictions, your only remedy may be a lawsuit against the liquor store, claiming that its presence will constitute a nuisance.

Q: I live next door to someone who has a CB radio base station. His broadcasts constantly interfere with my television programs. I can hear him on my TV's audio system. Is there any law that protects me from this invasion of my

A: The Federal Communications Commission will accept complaints regarding interference from CB radios. However, it is the FCC position that a complaining party must protect himself first, before the FCC will take action. Such protection is called "filtering" and equipment for such an activity is available to consumers. The procedure for filing a complaint is detailed in a publication you may order from the FCC.

Q: We live next to a freeway and railroad track. Trains drawn by five or six violate any noise restrictions. Are there noise restrictions on trains in residenti-

A: In Texas there are no statewide noise restrictions against trains in residential areas. However, many cities do have ordinances attempting to regulate noise. You should check with officials of your city to see what regulations have been enacted to protect neighborhoods that are adjacent to highways and to

Q: My uncle died, leaving cash to certain family members, with the balance of the estate to be divided between me and the executor. Eighteen months have elapsed and many items are still in limbo. I asked the executor to complete the distribution and give me an accounting, but he has not replied. What recourse do I have?

A: Eighteen months is not an unusually long time to settle an estate. However, if you suspect any mishandling, unnecessary delay, or unwillingness to cooperate by the Executor, or if the Executor refuses to give you information, you should consult your own attorney. There are remedies available to force an Executor to account and, depending on the terms of the will, to justify why no distributions have been made

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe Rhodesia second holiday flight in February, killing (UPI) - An ill-timed giggle leaves guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo of the Patriotic Front in danger of his life when he returns for this country's planned peace elections.

A sizeable section of the white community regards Nkomo with almost pathological hatred. Political sources said this feeling runs so deep that every white policeman approached to become his future bodyguard has refused. Nobody wants to be responsible for his safety. "It is too dangerous," said

The root of Nkomo's problem, above that shared by all Patriotic Front "terrorists," lies in the shooting down of two civilian airliners by his guerrillas with Sam missiles over the past 14 months. The insurgents massacred 10 of the 13 dazed survivors of the first disaster east

Nkomo compounded the resulting white outrage by chuckling and snickering while claiming responsibility for the attack during a radio interview in Lusaka. Nkomo lightheardedly said the Viscount airliner, filled with families returning from vacation, was a legitimate mili-

The raiders missed Nkomo, who was spending the night elsewhere, but killed 10 of his guards and demolished his home with explosive charges.

This attack appeased public opinon to a certain degree. But even now it is not unusual to hear a white say he will kill Nkomo if he can get within rifle shot of

A single shot was fired into the bedroom of Nkomo's "advance man," C.G. Msipa, one recent night. Msipa said the attack followed an anonymous telephone call from a man with an American accent who told him that he had come with friends from the United States to kill him

After the attack, Msipa said, a second phone call "asked me if I remembered the Viscount.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Prices Increase In Trading

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices gained in moderate trading today with the biggest gains in some special situation and secondary stocks. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 1.28 to 834.98 as of midday. But overall, gaining issues outnumbered losers by only a small fraction.

The New York Stock Exchange's composite index of all common stock gained .05 to 61.60.

Analysts said uncertainty about the results of next week's oil price meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries may be restraining traders. In addition, President Carter was due to speak on defense spending after the close of the market today

Precious metal mining stocks which had big gains in the previous two sessions were mixed today, despite continued high gold prices on metals markets in Europe.

ASA slipped 1/4 to 351/8; Dome Mines gained 1/2 to 453/4; Hecla Mining was up 3/8 to 253/8 and Homestake was unchanged at

Among special situation stocks, Gulf Oil of Canada jumped 3% in active trading on the American Stock Exchange, after a gain of more than 4 points on Tuesday. Mobil was up 1 to 541/8 and Standard Oil of California rose % to 57%. All are participants in a drilling venture off Newfoundland which was reported to show favorable test results Tuesday.

Howard Johnson climbed 11/8 to 213/4 as the most actively trade NYSE stck at noon. Mesa Royal, up 15% to 353%, was another big gainer in active trading.

Big Board volume came to 15.07 million shares as of noon, down from 16.13 million on Tuesday. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index advanced 2.01 to 237.12.

Commander Detained In Slaying

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - After a gun battle, South Korea's martial law commander, Gen. Chung Seung-hwa, was detained tonight for questioning in the Oct. 26 assassination of President Park Chung-hee, informed sources said.

Secret testimony by Park's admitted assassin, former Korean CIA chief Kim Jae-kyu, apparently implicated Gen. Chung in the plot to kill the president, the sources said. When two busloads of security forces and army investigators went to Chung's home to detain him, his personal guards resisted and there was a heavy exchange of gunfire that lasted nearly one hour, the sources said.

One of the big questions after Park's assassination was whether the military was involved. The official assassination report released by Gen. Chun last month cleared the military of any involvement and placed the blame for the killing entirely on Kim.

Military troops sealed off the area and one witness reported that at least four persons were rushed to a nearby hospital after tonight's shooting. Their identities and extent of their injuries were unknown

More than a dozen armored personnel carriers and other military vehicles converged around the exclusive neighborhood at Hannam-Dong in southern Seoul. Residents in nearby apartments said they were ordered by martial law authorities to remain at home

The sources said defense security commander Gen. Chun Doo-hwan, who was the chief government investigator of the assassination, sent the forces who fought the gun battle and eventually arrested Chung and took him to the defense security command headquarters.

A duty officer at the United Nations Command said the 39,000 American troops stationed here were placed on alert but the Command's chief spokesman, Col. John Klose, emphatically denied it. Klose said he did not know about South Korean troops.

South Korea has been under martial law since Park's assassination, which Kim said he carried out in an effort to begin a "national revolution to restore

Refugee Cites Chemical Use By Vietnamese

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Laotian mountain tribe refugee told congressmen today he witnessed chemical warfare attacks that exploded in yellow, white and red smoke and left villagers shaking, bleeding and dying.

"In this attack eight people died from breathing too much gas," refugee Tou Yi Vang told the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Asian affairs about one attack. "They had heavy bleeding from the nose, they could not stop their bodies from shaking and died in several hours."

Tou, a former Hmong refugee who in the United St heard of many gas attacks in other villages which killed many hundreds of peo-

Another witness, Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, says intelligence information, which he refuses to describe in detail. leaves no doubt Vietnamese forces are conducting the attacks with chemical weapons obtained from the Soviet Union

A State Department report said the Vietnamese apparently are concentrating on Hmong refugees because members of the tribe sided first with the French and later with U.S. forces during decades of war in Indochina.

Army investigators told the subcommittee they concluded after interviewing 43 Hmong refugees that "chemical agents have been used against the Hmong. Col. Charles W. Lewis, who headed a team of investigators, quoted refugees as sayng 700 to 1,000 persons were killed during a three-year period ended May 1979. Many of the fatalities apparently resulted from a yellowish spray that "fell like rain," he said.

Lewis said "the reported effects of these agents suggest the use of a nerve agent, a riot control agent and an unidentified combination or compound.'

He said five or six refugees reported medical symptoms suggesting nerve gas was used - sweating, shortness of breath, dizziness, vomiting, convulsions and death shortly after exposure.

City Red Cross Slates Courses

The Lubbock County chapter of the American Red Cross has announced two courses - multimedia first aid and cardio-pulmonary basic lecture - scheduled in December. The cardio-pulmonary class is set from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday. The first aid course will be Dec. 19 and Dec. 21 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Both courses will be conducted at the Red Cross office at 2201 Ave. X. Classes are free but a fee will be charged for books and course materials. Persons interested in attending should call the Red Cross at 765-8534.

OFFICER RULED GUILTY

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury took only seven minutes in finding a fired policeman guilty of stripping and fondling a fe-male prisoner. Philip Emerson, 27, was convicted Tuesday on a charge of official oppression. A 23-year-old waitress testified Emerson told her the April 2 incident was part of a search after she and two male companions were stopped for running a red light.

Press Agents Use Yule Season To Get Publicity For Celebrities

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The holiday season is cheering time for most folks, but it is absolute ecstacy for Hollywood publicists, who are busier this time of year than during any other.

Publicists (or press agents, as the sentimental among the breed prefer) are in the business of getting publicity for the famous people who hire them. Any famous person who is trying can find a guest spot on a Christmas special, thereby giving his press agent something to an interview with Marine Cpl. William Gallegos, one of the 50 Americans held hostage in the U.S. embassy in Tehran.

Khomeini's forces were using the network and the remarkably powerful medium of television to bypass normal channels and direct its propaganda directly to an American — and world — audience.

The first bit of drama was unintencast 8:30 p.m., Central time. It featured tional - the show was delayed almost 17 minutes because of technical trouble.

John Chancellor, anchoring from New York, suggested that perhaps the Iranian "students" who set up the interview were balking because they were displeased with the results. Not so.

When the program went on the air, with NBC correspondents Fred Francis and George Lewis interviewing a fit-looking Gallegos in the embassy library, the American audience saw a carefully staged set. Looming in the background was an idealized portrait of Ayatollah Khomeini, sharply contrasting a poster of a vaguely Nazi-costumed Shah presiding over gasmasked soldiers.

After Gallegos made a brief statement, the cameras turned on "Mary," a young revolutionary Iranian woman who with downcast eyes read a seven-minute statement that began like a sermon and wound up denouncing the Shah and Pres-

If you hate the way your haircut disappears the day after, come to Command Performance where we specialize in the precision haircut

Precision haircutting is our technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. So. as it grows, it doesn't lose its shape. And because the hair is cut to fall naturally, you don't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it. The precision haircut with shampoo and blowdry costs just fourteen dollars for guys and gals. We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. No appointment is needed, just come in. And you'll see that precision is right for you.
