Litton Expansion Seen Due To Defense Work

LITTON Industries is expected to expand its Lubbock facility considerably after it was confirmed Thursday that the California-based company has been awarded a new defense contract that could exceed $200 million.

The contract will fund the development of a mobile tactical air control system for the U.S. Marine Corps to use for

He declined to elaborate either on the contract or on speculation that Litton will build a new plant here, saying only, "This is one of the most significant research and development contracts ever achieved by this division."

He added that the contract "will mean added stability to the employment of the division's facilities," which are located in Lubbock, Colorado Springs, Colo. and Van Nuvs, Calif.

Derrill Roberts, program manager for the local Litton plant, also offered little comment, saying he was not authorized to release any specifics on how the contract might affect the local facili-

The development contract calls for an initial $54.3 million in funding for a 'hree-year development program to procal Air Operations Central (TAOC) defense system, said Litton spokesman Mac Meconis. The development program is planned to be followed by a full scale production program continuing through 1985.

The contract represents an advanced technology implementation of the existing Marine Tactical Data System," Meconsi said. "The TAOC is of modular design with the basic building block capable of handling a wide range of situations. Advanced technology incorporated in the design includes fiber optics, bubble memory techniques and distributed processing, all contributing to the system's low cost throughout its life."

Litton officials also indicated they would be "adding many engineers in the systems development category to handle this and other new and ongoing division

Solon Pegs Energy 'Biggest' Problem

By ESTHER LONGORIA Avalanche-Journal Staff

THE SINGLE, biggest problem facing America today is energy, U.S. House Majority Leader Jim Wright told a meeting of the South Plains Democratic Council Thursday night.

"We need to do away with the red tape in our energy programs so that we can build that pipeline from Long Beach, Calif., to Midland and avail ourselves of 400,000 extra barrels of American oil," the congressman from Fort Worth said. "If we could just get it built.

He assured the group that they could count on him to help get it built.

Wright spoke to about 180 South

Plains Democrats in a meeting room at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Wright also called freshmen congressmen Kent Hance of the 19th Con-head injuries and a broken leg. According to police reports, the girl, accompanied by a third child, had been pushing her brother in a shopping cart in the left westbound lane of Fourth Street near their home when they were struck by a car driven by a 19-year-old Lubbock

Police reports indicate the boy was thrown 12 feet on impact, and his sister was thrown 72 feet. The third child, walking a few steps ahead of the pair, was not injured.

Although witnesses attempted to revive the girl, she was pronounced dead upon arrival at the hospital. Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy was withholding a ruling on the child's death late Thursday.

"If it wasn't for the fact that America had its most productive agricultural year this past ear, we would have paid out $64 billion for foreign oil instead of $60 billion.

Farm Problems Seen Wright acknowledged that American agriculture does have its problems, but added that farm prices today are better than they have been in a long time. He also praised Hance and Stenholm for their role in extending the crop dis-administration has promised Senate Democratic leaders it will soon send Congress a five-year defense plan that will increase military spending in an effort to win support for the SALT II treaty with Russia.

I believe they can do it by Novemsaid Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd. "And I will go further to say not only that they should, but that they better do it because I do not anticinate this treaty being called up prior to the presentation of the five-year plan." Senate Democratic Whip Alan Cranston said he has been told by the Defense Department that the administration expects to be able to send the fiveyear plan to Congress by November and to give the Senate an advance look at the 1981 budget as well.

"Given Assurances" "I have been given assurances by the Department of Defense that they expect to meet that sort of schedule," Cranston

He said he talked this week with Secretary of Defense Harold Brown, who previously said that January would be the earliest the Pentagon could complete the job!

"If the Department of Defense speeds preparation of its 1981 defense budget and its five-year plan, SALT could be brought to a vote this year with a reasonable chance of success," Cranston said.

Later, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said he had been called by White House counsel Lloyd Cutler, who promised that every effort will be made to present the defense budget and the five-year program to the Senate in November. Nunn, along with other senators, has said he will not consider voting for the treaty unless the administration commits itself to a yearly increase in the defense budget of 4 percent to 5 percent, after taking inflation into account.

No Speedup Seen However, a Pentagon spokesman said there was no effort to speed up preparation of the Defense Department's budget. Spokesman Thomas Ross said "we are proceeding as normal" in preparing the 1981 budget and the five-year plan, which is scheduled to be presented to Congress in January. Defense officials said Cranston had been told it might be possible by November to send members of Congress a preview of overall money totals and highlights of major programs in the budget, together with the five-year projections. The officials indicated such a review would be far less detailed than the formal administration defense proposal Carter will submit to Congress in

Energy Projects Bill Wins Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate, handing President Carter a major victory on energy policy, voted Thursday to create a powerful new agency with broad powers to speed U.S. energy de-

Approved by a 68-25 vote was legislation that would set up a four-member Energy Mobilization Board that is intended to cut red tape blocking construction of oil refineries, pipelines, multibillion-dollar synthetic fuel plants and other facilities.

(Both Texas senators, Democrat Lloyd Bentsen and Republican John Tower, voted for the bill.)

Carter proposed a series of new energy measures in a nationally broadcast speech July 15. The board is the first of his proposals to have reached the Senate

In a statement released by the White House press office, the president said the Senate vote was "a major step forward in the joint effort of the Congress and my administration to achieve energy security for our naton." Carter said the Senate bill substantially reflected his original proposal and said the board could "cut through unnecessary procedural delays" to expe-dite consideration and construction of priority energy projects "while environmental values and state and local decision-making are preserved." The president's supporters said a unprece needed if the nation is to develop new energy sources and reduce its dependence on foreign oil.

Environmentalists and states' rights advocates said the board would interfere with the rights of affected communities to decide if dirty or dangerous energy plants should be built in their neighbor-

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, an opponent of the proposal, said creation of the mobilization board would give politicians a chance to claim they are doing something about the energy crisis. In fact, he said, the board would add an-

"What we are doing here is a Washington whitewash for the problem, a Washington charade," Glenn said.

A similar battle over what powers should be given the board is expected in the House.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia predicted the board would be the first in a series of energy measures to move quickly through the Senate.

In an earlier, 65-28 vote, the Senate turned aside an effort to split the powers of the board with the two-year-old Department of Energy.

The amendment, sponsored by Glenn, was the last major effort by op ponents to weaken the proposed new

Rally At Tech Hoped To Curb Rising Spirit

TEXAS TECH police will block off streets leading to Texas Tech's Memorial Circle tonight in the hopes of preventing traffic congestion during a scheduled 10:30 p.m. pep rally for Saturday's football game between the Red Raiders and the Texas A&M Aggies.

The rally will be held on the parking lot of the Science Quadrangle, scene of the annual Carol of Lights presentation. Lubbock police will block off University Avenue from 13th Street to Main Street. Main Street and 13th Street will be blocked off east to Avenue X.

Texas Tech Police Chief B.G. Daniels said the rally, which is scheduled to end about 1 a.m. Saturday, may attract as many as 3,000 spirited students and fans.

A VIETNAM War veteran, arrested Wednesday afternoon after allegedly threatening persons at a 22nd Street medical complex and involving a city police officer in an armed stand-off, was charged Thursday with attempted capital murder and one count of aggravated

Glen Alan Page, who remained under psychiatric observation Thursday night at Methodist Hospital, is accused of at-tempting to kill patrolman Larry Barnhill after the officer saw Page's vehicle near 19th Street and Memphis Avenue and followed him to the medical building at 3809 22nd St.

Police had been alerted to look for a vehicle matching the description of Page's car after sheriff's deputies had he planned "to blow (Criminal District Attorney John Montford's) head off between 3 p.m. and 3:15 p.m." Wednes-

After stopping at the medical complex, Barnhill's report states, both men got out of their cars and the officer asked Page for identification. Page pulled out his wallet and said his name, Barnhill said, but when the officer asked him to turn around and place his hands on his car, Page threw his wallet and car keys to the ground and reached into a gun holster on his left side, partially revealing a revolver.

"I'm ready to die when you are," Page reportedly told Barnhill, who began talking to Page while moving to the rear of his patrol car.

Barnhill said Page then unholstered the weapon and walked into the medical building. Once inside, the 31-year-old veteran, who served two tours of duty in Vietnam as a member of a Naval special services unit, waved the handgun at office employees and patrons and ordered them to leave or he would shoot, according to

One office employee, 26-year-old Kathy Farlender, said Page approached her with the drawn gun, pointed it at her and said, "Get the hell out or I'll kill you," before walking toward a reception area and issuing a similar order to others inside the building.

Page, of 6102 Knoxville Ave., was charged with aggravated assault in connection with the threat he allegedly made to Miss Farlender.

Page then exited the medical building and pointed his gun at Barnhill, who was behind his patrol car with his service revolver drawn. Tve got you in line," he reportedly told the uniformed officer

Although additional police units were arriving when Page pointed his gun at Barnhill, Page reportedly did not lower the weapon but instead said, "Regardless of what you do, 'Im going to get this officer first. However, as police cruisers surrounded Page, he tossed the pistol to the ground and offered no resistance to arresting officers. Page was booked into Lubbock County Jail and then transported to Methodist Hospital. The criminal district attorney's office has recommended a $100,000 bond for Page in connection with the attempted capital murder charge and a $50,000 bond on the aggravated assault

AN EDITORIAL:

Cuban Caper And SALT II

SALT II is in deep trouble.

Everyone from President Carter and those in the administration and Democratic party pushing the pact to those opposing it, including most of the Republican members of the Senate, agree on that point.

But, past that, there seems to be general disagreement on what may happen next as the great debate over the controversial arms limitation treaty heats up.

ONE THING is obvious. The President's effort to defuse the Cuban-Russian armed force issue and its "linkage" to SALT II has failed.

But, even more pertinent, there are a growing number of persons, in and out of Washington, who are taking a closer look at what SALT II really does to the strategic balance between the two superpowers.

The picture, as it relates to the mid-1980s, looms more and more as one in which the United States would be at a disadvantage.

AS THINGS now stand, there is no chance that the pact can garner the twothirds margin necessary for Senate ratifica-

Nor is there much chance of eventual passage without some major changes in key sections of the pact, particularly regarding heavy Russian missiles and the Soviet Backfire Bomber.

Ironically, Mr. Carter may have done per merely confirmed this fact.

himself and his hopes for SALT II more harm than good in the manner in which he handled the Soviet-Cuban issue. In effect, the President backed down from a previous stance that the U.S. could not "accept the status quo" on the troops. He also refused to take any punitive measures to punish the Opponents and millions of Americans view such a "soft" approach to the presence of the Russian brigade as weakness on Mr. Carter's part and indirectly question if perhaps the same attitude may have prevailed when the going got tough in negotiations leading up to SALT II.

IN FACT, IT is that very fear, expressed not only by the man in the street, but by former top-ranked military experts, that has done as much as anything to build opposition to any quick Senate ratification.

We agree with those who say that the presence of 3,000 Soviet soldiers as such poses no real threat. But, the fact that Russia's leaders, knowing the sensitivity of the American public to the troops and the effect the issue has on SALT II, still would make no move to remove them or change their status, says far more than anything else of Moscow's arrogance and contempt for U.S. feelings and security.

SALT II should be rejected because it does not assure U.S. security. The Cuban ca-

AN EDITORIAL:

A Blow For Beauty, Safety

IN LETTING STAND a Texas Supreme Court decision upholding Lubbock's bill-board regulations, the U.S. Supreme Court did its part to help make the city's streets safer and its environment more appealing in

By refusing to hear Lubbock Poster Co.'s appeal from a decision originally handed down by the Texas 7th Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo, the high court signaled that the City Council's new regulations over the size and placement of billboards can go into full effect on Jan. 1, 1982.

The victory on the Constitutional question, which was so far out that the Supreme Court didn't even bother to hear arguments, puts an end to the major challenges to the sign and billboard regulations enacted in 1975.

COMPANY ATTORNEY Don Hunt was quick to point out, however, that the firm still has some hope of compensation for those of its billboards which line federal primary highways within the city.

That's because Congress, yielding to the billboard lobby's effort to undermine its own federal Highway Beautification Act, amended the law last year to mandate that owners of billboards be compensated for posters removed from along Interstate and federal primary routes.

The penalty for failure to pay compensation is possible loss of up to 10 percent of a state's federal highway allocations. Lubbock Poster has estimated it owns 285 billboards here, 217 of which cannot be brought into compliance with regulations. Those have a total fair market value of $710,000, the poster company has estimated, and would cost $132,000 to remove.

However, assistant City Atty. Jim Brewster said it is unknown how many of these billboards are on federal primary highways. Also, normal attrition will take care of some during the seven-year abatement period.

IT ALSO CAN BE argued that, given the ordinary lifetime of a billboard, the abatement period provides for the full economic life of each poster to be spent before its re-

So, while the billboard company can hope that, in the absence of compensation, it will be allowed to keep in place some of its posters that violate the size and placement regulations, citizens can take heart that the end to the city's signboard jungle is in sight.

The City has won the major legal battles. At worst, all that remains now would be a political battle to get Congress to correct the error it made in passing the 1978 amendment to the Highway Beautification Act.

M. STANTON EVANS:

There's Never Shortage Of Federal Fuelishness

WASHINGTON-With the publication of Ford the government has discouraged exploration and Foundation's new report on energy, the intellectual debate about the causes of the energy crisis may be considered officially over.

In a nutshell, this study—"Energy: The Next Twenty Years"—tells us the United States and the world in general are not running out of energy, and are in no danger of doing so for many

It also tells us the shortages of the present hour are chiefly the result of government interference, especially in the realm of price controls, and that the answer to this problem is to get the government out of the roadbed.

All of which would seem to be the last word on the subject.

The element of finality derives not so much from what is said in the report-though what is said is very good-but rather from who is saying

FOR THE ultimate sponsor of this exhaustive survey, conducted by Resources for the Future, is the very same Ford Foundation which gave us, a couple of years ago, a horrific volume called "A Time to Choose."

This earlier study did as much as any single document to propagate the panicky notion that we were somehow running out of petroleum sup-plies, and that only drastic action by the government to ramrod through a program of extensive conservation could save us.

The prestige bestowed upon that thesis by the Ford Foundation is here and now withdrawn.

The authors of the current study describe the existing system of federal price controls, entitlements and allocations for domestic crude oil as a fiasco, and note that, among its other perverse effects, it causes U.S. consumers to pay more for petroleum, not less.

BY HOLDING domestic prices artificially low, production at a time of constantly rising consumption, with the ever-widening gap made up through imports.

And since imported petroleum is more expensive than the domestic stuff has ever been, consumers must shell out increasing sums to OPEC for their oil. The authors estimate the added cost to our economy from this arrangement as at least $3 billion annually.

A series of related points are made in Exploding the Energy Shortage Myth," by Eric N. Skousen and John B. Ferry of the Institute for Energy Production.

This is an excellent popular handbook, profusely illustrated with charts, tables, and everyday examples, debunking the ideas that high per capita energy use is bad, that we are facing any sort of natural depletion of our energy resources, and that government should, or can, do very much in an affirmative way about our energy situation.

LIKE THE authors of the Ford Foundation study, Skousen and Ferry conclude that government is the problem, not the solution.

This book is especially useful because it explains in step-by-step fashion the basic concepts needed to grasp the underlying issues in the ener-gy dispute, the technical lingo employed, and the findings of science with respect to our nation's vast, as yet untapped, supply of energy.

In terms of ultimate reserves, it tells us, we have enough coal in this country to last more than 5,000 years, enough petroleum liquids from all sources to last 600, and enough potential nu-clear energy to last for several millennia, at cur-

There is no way that we are going to "run out" of any of these things in the foreseeable future. Our energy troubles, on this evidence, have been created by mistaken policy, not by the pressures

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Ford In Our Future?

WASHINGTON-At his home in Palm Springs within the next 30 days, Gerald R. Ford will get this hard word from professional political advisers: If you want to be President again and if you want to keep Ronald Reagan from being nominated, you must become an active candidateand soon. That means running in the primaries, not waiting at the 19th hole for a plea from the Republican party. Ford's advisers will not recommend. only lay out options and probabilities: If he opens a campaign during the next two months, perhaps 50-50: if he awaits a draft, forget it.

Such blunt talk is intended to dispel the unrealistic aura developed around Ford by sycophants, especially former and present staffers. Ford has told friends that "you won't see me ploughing through the snows of New Hampshire this time"; yet he passionately wants to get back in the White House-or at least keep Reagan out. At the forthcoming secret meeting in Palms

WASHINGTON-A personal note seems relevant to the federal government's finding that Chrysler Corp. was the only domestic auto maker represented in the top 10 fuel economy ratings. That seemed odd, given charges that Chrysler is in financial trouble because it produces too many gas-guzzlers. But there's an explanation; All four Chrysler models in the top 10 were made in Ja-

Anyway, I was not surprised to find that my relatively new six-cylinder Buick Skylark won no kudos from the Environmental Protection Agency. For when I inquired about that 21-mpg claim on the sticker, a mechanic took me aside.

"DON'T TAKE that seriously," he said. "You won't get anywhere near that kind of mileage. Those EPA jokers test cars with professional drivers under the best laboratory conditions.

"It drives us nuts trying to explain to buyers who complain that their cars are burning gas like it was going out of style."

I find little comfort in the EPA's prediction that all American car makers will meet the government-set mandatory goal of a 20 mpg average by 1980, and reach a 27.5 mpg average in 1985.

Whatever appliance an American businessman makes, he just wasn't born to save his customers money. To do so, you might say, would be un-American.

Nor do American auto buyers risk being charged with un-Americanism. Most of them are still buying sedans that sleep six and going for such options as TV sets, bars, push-buttons that open windows, telephones, and carpeting that is the envy of every Levantine rug hustler I know.

A DOCTOR friend who has to hire a Brinks truck to carry his money to the bank calls my lit-tle Skylark "tacky." Says I should be ashamed to be seen driving it.

Steve, of course, has a Cadillac that has everything but a fast-food factory. The headlights turn off when he closes a door after parking his mobile Taj Mahal. Very convenient when his mind is busy wondering how much gold to buy.

So it makes sense, to them anyway, that American car makers have not been trampled in the rush to produce gas-saving horseless carriages. Your dealer tells you the market for smaller cars just isn't there.

To most Americans, one of those little jobs may be adventurous, but they have no social status, he

The need for Ford to face reality has been hastened by two interrelated developments. The first is that no active candidate has been able to break out of the pack against the front-running Reagan.

The opinion of Ford's advisers that only the former President can stop Reagan is widely shared by influential Republican leaders.

THE SECOND is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's prospect as the most likely Democratic nominee. Since the polls show Reagan beating President Carter but losing badly to Kennedy, the quest for an alternative has taken on new life.

The advent of Kennedy had nothing to do with making Jerry Ford the charter member of the anybody-but-Reagan club. Within weeks after leaving office in 1977, he confided he might run again if it appeared Reagan would be nominated

Despite Reagan's peace-making efforts. Ford's bitter language in his memoirs-"his (Reagan's) penchant for offering simplistic solutions to hideously complex problems"-shows that he still believes the 1976 Reagan challenge made Jimmy Carter President

BUT FORD has not spent the years out of power as an articulate voice carving out an opposition ecord. Instead, he has divided his time between the golf course and the lucrative podium, with scant time for politics.

While Ted Kennedy and other major figures addressed the National Urban League convention at Chicago in late July. Ford was in the same city talking to the Laundry and Dry Cleaning Institute's convention about Carter's Cabinet shake-Passing up the Urban League for the dry cleaners is blamed by Ford's political supporters on his executive assistant, Maj. Robert E. Barrett.

A young infantry officer serving as President Ford's Army aide, Barrett resigned from the service after the 1976 election to go with the defeated candidate to Palm Springs. Since then, he has become Ford's most intimate adviser.

LIKE HIS boss. Barrett is unaware that primaries obviate a brokered convention. Consequent ly, he has told politicians, newsmen and Ford himself that the Detroit convention will turn to the former President.

Several of Ford's ex-staffers, possibly unenthusiastic about getting inducted into another relent less primary chase against Reagan, echo Barrett. Many prominent Ford-for-President enthusiasts, such as Vermont's Gov. Richard Snelling, want him to run in the primaries but believe, against all evidence, that he can be nominated even if he does not. It will be the mission of the political pros at

Palm Springs to persuade Ford that this is pure One such adviser will inform Ford that to return to the White House in 1981, he must endure those New Hampshire snows in 1980. The Boston Globe poll giving Ford an edge over Reagan among New Hampshire Republicans (who overwhelmingly favor Reagan over anybody else) convinced this insider. WHILE FUND-raising would prove difficult this late and Ford's lackadaisical performance since 1976 has soured some erstwhile supporters, he could easily assemble a campaign organization. Key professionals in his 1976 campaign-Stu Spencer, Bob Teeter and John Deardourff-have not joined any other campaign. Some other prominent Republicans who would not join Ford still hope he decides to run; they reason that a renewed Reagan-Ford battle could unlock the process and open support for a third Jerry Ford's political advisers are not the only Republicans who believe the alternative to his active candidacy is a Kennedy-vs.-Reagan race that they fervently want to avoid.

JAY HARRIS:

No Quick Miracles

IT'S A CRAZY, mixed-up world in which we

And one doesn't have to back off and look at it from afar, or through glasses of whatever prejudicial persuasion may be in vogue at the moment.

Just a casual reading of the papers, here and ahroad, is enough. Recently, we had an opportunity not only to see "how the other half lives," but to find out what the average citizen in several other places around the world is thinking. To put it briefly and bluntly, they are confused and disgusted by the failure of their elected leaders to "get a handle" on things and the influence 'pressure groups" have on both foreign policy and domestic decisions of nations today.

PART OF THE problem may be too much exposure of too many ideas from too many people not qualified to be talking on the subject.

There is something wrong with a world and the media which covers it, we submit, when someone like PLO Chieftain Yasser Arafat and a group of black spokesmen from the U.S. can command almost as much attention as the Pope or the President of the United States.

In fact, as things now stand, those who have axes to grind, those with special interests, those who speak for constituencies that do not represent majority opinion all too often wind up grabbing the spotlight and headlines.

Whatever happened to the idea that a person earned the right to be heard and that he was judged more on what he said than who he was or the noise he made?

TODAY, WE HAVE the spectacle of a group of U.S. black leaders parading around the Mideast making pronouncements as though they were speaking not only for the U.S. State Department but the majority of the American people.

We have men, who although holding responsible positions in their own bailiwicks, have absolutely no qualification nor portfolio, for that matter, to be getting involved in the crucial Mideast peace process.

To inject a racial bias into what already is a tenuous religious and political tinderbox in that area of the world is idiocy at the highest level. It serves neither the cause of peace nor broad-based racial understanding.

It would be a miracle indeed if the actions and words of the Rev. Joseph Lowery and the Rev. Jesse Jackson of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference were to result in changing one whit the basic, deep-rooted prejudices involved in the Mideast "hot spot."

AS WAS THE case with former UN Amb. Andrew Young, the current crusade on the part of the SCLC spokesmen smacks more of domestic politics than progress on the foreign policy front.

There is no way that Lowery or Jackson can cloak the bloody terrorism of the PLO in the robes of religious rhetoric and make it acceptable. And to equate Israel's defense of its borders and its militant response to random bombings of innocent citizens to the PLO's stated goal of crushing the Jewish nation is ridiculous.

In brief, two wrongs still do not make a right. This is not to say that the Rev. Lowery and Rev. Jackson do not have a right to express their opinions, even seek to sway U.S. policy in the right context and place. But, it is to question the logic of a crusade which serves only to fuel old da was roundly chastised by the California State Senate for her past involvements in U.S. policy. In all candor, there must be at least 100 persons in Lubbock, Texas, black, white, Chicano, more qualified to speak out on U.S. affairs than Miss Fonda, who all too often seems to downgrade the very system which made it possible for her to become an Academy Award winning actress with the freedom to speak out. The problem with the world of "instant news, instant replay, instant analysis and instant reaction" is that diplomacy, logic, honest dialogue, progress and understanding aren't reached in such forums. In a "pressure cooker" world where most peo-

Judge Accuses Firms Of Law Violations

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A judge for the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission has accused Cities Service Gas Co. of Oklahoma City and Southern Un-ion Gas Co. of Dallas of willfully and knowingly committing criminal law violations, it was learned Thursday.

Attorney General Jan Eric Cartwright said he has received the judge's report from Washington and confirmed it recommends referring the violations "to the Department of Justice for consideration of the institution of criminal

He said he is "very pleased with the ruling," adding that he plans to urge the Oklahoma Corporation Commission to take action against Cities Service based on the report.

"I think the report shows Cities Service took gas that cost too much without attempting to take lower-priced gas," Cartwright said. "That resulted in overcharges for their customers."

The 53-page report by Bruce L. Birchman, FERC's presiding administrative law judge, still is pending before the full federal commission, but Cartwright said the federal agency normally accepts its judges' reports.

"He is FERC's fact finder," Cartwright said. Unless someone appeals, his findings become FERC's findings automatically.

Harry Ford, Cities Service public relations manager, said an appeal is being prepared, however.

We feel this is only a preliminary report," Ford said. "No action has been / taken by the full commission, and we are preparing a vigorous exception which will be presented to the commis-

"We do not feel that we have broken any laws," Ford said, "and we plan to very vigorously deny these allegations.

Assistant Attorney General Charles Rogers, who argued the case for the state in Washington, said it has been pending since 1976 and involves transmission of gas in northwestern Oklahoma and the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Rogers said Cities Service "was selling gas at irrigation rates, which are cheaper than regular rates, and it changed transmission lines and began selling it at a higher rate."

Judge Birchman said in his lengthy report that Southern Union embarked on "unauthorized construction" of a transmission line to connect with a Cities Service line in 1974. That construction, he said, led to "misappropriation of gas by and for Southern Union.

He said the two companies built transmission facilities without getting required certificates of need from FERC, which was a violation of the law.

Settlers Occupy Land To Make Point

OPHRA, Occupied West Bank (AP) Jewish settlers occupied a patch of Arab-owned land Thursday, but left four hours later to avoid a confrontation with the army. At Tekoa, 15 miles to the south, other settlers later set up temporary housing on Arab land.

Both demonstrations were intended to dramatize a dispute with the government. Prime Minister Menachem Begin faces a potentially dangerous political problem because a small nationalistic party threatens to pull out of his governing coalition over failure to expand settlements on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

About 100 men, women and children peacefully left an encampment they set up early Thursday outside the fences of Ophra, a settlement near the Arab town of Ramallah, five miles north of Jerusa-

Authorities in Tel Aviv said the settlers in Ophra and in Tekoa, 10 miles south of Jerusalem, broke through fences to get onto Arab land adjacent to the settlements. The military said the Tekoa incident was "not serious" and security forces had been sent to the site.

Hundreds of soldiers surrounded the area in Ophra, causing some concern over a possible violent incident like the one last month when troops had to charge through a ring of flames to remove militant Jews who attempted to enlarge the settlement of Kiryat Arba near Hebron.

Thursday's incident was defused by a promise from Defense Minister Ezer

Duplex Zoning Plea Approved By RAYNIE HARDESTY Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Planning and Zoning Commission approved again Thursday night a duplex zoning request for the 1900-block of 58th St., which was denied last year by the City Council because of "considerable opposition.'

The request, termed by city Planning Director Jim Bertram as a "toss-up case which was neither good nor bad." was approved 3 to 1 by the commission despite letters of opposition from surrounding neighbors submitted by Donna Ratliff, who owns property across from

The case, which commission members said was "virtually the same as last year," was approved more than a year ago by the Planning and Zoning Commission, but was denied by the council because of neighborhood resistance.

Consultants Inc. and Alamo Square Inc., that the new buildings would "be nicer" than existing structures in the neighborhood and would be sold as owner-occupied. Mrs. Ratliff said the change from single family district (R-1) to two family district (R-2) would cause a traffic problem and congestion "with people moving in and out.

The case will be presented to City Council on Oct. 25.

The commission also unanimously granted a request by Dr. C. Earl Hildreth, representing Otis Maner and Kyle Bartee, to change property at 3413 34th from R-1 to apartment-medical (A-M), despite opposition from Margaret Turner, who owns property adjacent to the land where Dr. Hildreth plans to develop a medical office.

'I have a substantial investment in my home located next to this property and I feel (the proposed A-M district) would detract from the beauty of my home," Mrs. Turner said Before making a motion in favor of the request, commission member Harry Stokley Jr. soothed Mrs. Turner by saying the A-M district "would provide the most protection possible against other impending commercial development.

Commission member Mary Vines added that such a zone is the most restricted concerning landscaping, parking and setbacks.

The request was approved with the provision that the site plan is approved by the commission before remodeling of the existing structure and landscaping

Also approved by the commission was a request by Sid Shaffer for High Country Joint Venture, to change property located at 9801 Memphis Avenue from R-1 to R-2 zoning.

The commission approved 3 to 1 a request by Manuel Figueroa for a specific use zone change from light manufacturing district (M-1) to heavy manufacturing district (M-2) for a salvage yard on property located west of Southeast Drive and south of 50th Street, with the provision that a detailed building plan for a fence required to screen the autos be submitted to the commission before development begins.

Members denied a request by Ken Rogers, for Tommy Thompson Apache Transmission, to change zoning for property at 3903 Ave. H, from commercial district (C-4) to M-1.

Although Rogers requested the change to make an existing fence on the property meet standards for zoning for his property, Bertram told the commission the change "would be one giant step backward" to a program implemented less than nine years ago "to clean up Avenue H.

The commission continued requests

- Joe McKay for "Q" Properties, to amend a site plan for land land at 92nd Street and Vicksburg Avenue.

 Burl W. Masters, representing William and Ida Levine, to change zoning of property located west of Frankford Ave nue and north of 66th Street, from R-1. to R-2, family apartment (A-1), local retail (C-2), and R-1.

Commissioners also approved a new zoning ordinance to permit "zero lot line" developments under certain condi-

The commission amended the ordinance to allow property to be built on the property line with only three setbacks, or with a 5-foot "flip zone" between properties. A flip zone would allow two structures to be built as close as five feet together. Buildings on the flip zone must have no windows, doors or openings on adjoining sides.

Woman's Death Ruled Accident

The death of Pamela Ann McCrary, 34-year-old daughter of the Post mayor has been ruled accidental by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy

The ruling was made Thursday after ter to the Haitians. Anderson said the LeCroy received reports from pathologist John P. Ray which indicated the protein survival kits it normally drops to woman died from a head injury probably caused by the fall. Meanwhile, another boat load of 25

LeCroy said the patnologist told him the kind of injury Miss McCrary suffered - where the bruise is on one side of the head and the hemorrhage on the other - indicated the woman fell.

Miss McCrary was found dead about noon Tuesday on the kitchen floor of her apartment at 3115 35th St. The discovery was made by the woman's father. Post Mayor Giles McCrary, who became concerned about his daughter's welfare and went to her apartment.

Police said it appeared the woman had been dead several days.

Private graveside services and memorial services for Miss McCrary were held Thursday.

Sadat Adviser: Arabs Must Use Oil As Weapon

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - A close adviser to President Anwar Sadat said Thursday Arabs "must" use their oil and money as weapons to win back Jerusalem from Israel should negotiations fail.

In an interview with the Egyptian television program "Meet the Scholars." Deputy Prime Minister Hassan Tohamy also emphasized there would be no peace in the Middle East unless Arab East Jerusalem is restored "to its rightful owners" because it is "sacred to 800 million Moslems and Arabs in the

Israel annexed the Arab portion of Jerusalem - the ancient, holy city after capturing it from the Arabs in the 1967 Middle East War. The city includes the Al Aqsa mosque, Islam's third holiest shrine

Egypt is trying to retrieve the area through negotiations, but Israel has vowed to keep it forever part of the unit-ed capital of the Jewish state

The Camp David accords, signed by Egypt and Israel last year, ducked the issue of Jerusalem. But Egypt is satisfied with the U.S. position that the Arab sector is part of the West Bank of the Jordan River and thus negotiable.

We want Jerusalem back in peace and justice, we want it without destruction or damage," said Tohamy, a prominent member of the 43-nation Pan Islamic Council. "We want it as the house of God to worship God... our emphasis is to return, return, return to Jerusalem.

However, if our enemies will not give in ... there are other means - in the days of Saladin, mangonels (a catapult used to hurl rocks and flaming material) was used to burn, now oil burns.

Saladin was the warrior who conquered Jerusalem in the late 11th century A.D. and placed it under Moslem con-

We have thriving economies, geographic imensity and imposing political weight which compels others to cooperate with us - all these weapons must enter again the battle for the liberation of Jerusalem, just as oil alone did following the 1973 Middle East War and proved to be as strong, if not stronger than the power of tanks," he said

At the United Nations in New York, Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Saud al Faisal said he agrees with Pope Paul II. now touring the United States, that "the followers of the three monotheistic religions must enjoy their rights of freedom of worship in the holy city of Jerusa-

DES MOINES (AP) - After walking 150 miles in five days to see Pope John Paul II, a group of 90 students and adults from northeast lowa arrived Thursday morning to find a multitude had beat them there

The pilgrims, from St. John's Parish High School in Independence, lowa. trudged into a field at the end their hike to be greeted by 130,000 others awaiting a mass by the pope at Living History

TRUCK PRODUCTION DROPS

DETROIT (AP) - The Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association has reported that truck and bus production in the United States for September 1979 drapped 3 percent rom the same period in 1978. Total production last month was 183,108 trucks and buses

Undaunted, the Rev. Vincent Hatt plunged into the crowd and the entire group snaked its way to the wooden restraining fences separating the audience from the ceremonial area. With his flock spread out behind him. Father Hatt negotiated for a place to wait.

What we wanted to do was really experience what a pilgrimage is." Hatt said "We wanted to show the kids the joys and sorrows of such an act. We also spent a lot of time teaching religion during our rest stops, which reflects the practice going all the way back to Jesus s time

The 76 high school students and 14 adults, clad in matching blue and white caps and tackets, averaged 30 miles per day on their journey through lows corn country Along the way, residents offered refresments. School officials in

Des Moines permitted them to sleep in

"We're not sure if the pope is even aware of our pilgrimage, Hatt said The youths, 13 to 18 years old, were jubilant as they entered the crowd and accepted the congratulations of many of

But his stop at St. Patrick's, which sits among green, brown and gold fields where the harvest has already begun, brought the pontiff to the middle of the nation's farm country.

"I thank the Lord for the opportunity he gave me to come and visit you....My pastoral visit to the U.S. would have seemed incomplete, without a visit, afthough short, to a rural community like John Paul told the parishioners. Saying the "fundamental task the church has" is taking Christianity to the people, the pope said early Christian set-

St. Patrick's parish is the oldest in the Des Moines diocese. Six generations after its founding, many of the farms remain in the same families as in 1852.

The pope commented on that, noting how many Catholic parishes have been started like yours in the early beginnings of the settlement of this region: a small, unpretentious church at the center of a group of family farms, a place and a symbol of human fellowship, the heart of a real Christian community where people know each other personally, share each others problems and give witness together to the love of Jesus

John Paul continued, "in your heart, you feel close to each other.

And he said he hoped "the simplicity of your lifestyle and your closeness to the fertile ground" would continue to cultivate the sense of community.

Farmer Robert Mulvihill said he believes the pope's message was exactly what Americans wanted to hear. "It's a terrific feeling, kind of an exuberant feeling, "he said.

Other parishioners said the pope's friendliness made them feel closer to him. As the pope entered the tiny church and walked down the small center aisle, he stopped frequently, kissing babies, touching shoulders and shaking

"We love him. We love him," said parishioner Michael Connor, "he's a friendly man, just a common type of Parishioner Pat Corkrean added, "He was so nice — just an ordinary man. We really loved him."

The pope's visit to Iowa was designed to let him see American agriculture and meet American farm people.

Bishop Maurice Dingman, who introtlements "were faithful to this mission." duced the pope, praised the pontiff saying, "This is a very special occasion because you are not coming to the bishop's cathedral - you are coming to the Irish Settlement. This pleases the people." Before the visit, Dingman said he believed the pope's visit to Iowa would "bring about a new and deeper appreciation of the land as a gift from God that it is more than a commodity to be Great efforts were made to adhere to the city's motto - "Urbs in Horto," or City in a Garden - for the pope's arrival from Des Moines. Workmen unloaded more than a dozen truckloads of chrysanthemums in downtown Grant Park, site of the pope's concelebrated Mass scheduled for Friday.

With mostly sunny skies and temperatures in the 60s forecast, the Mass was expected to draw more than a million people as the highlight of the pontiff's 38-hour stay in Chicago - longest in any of the six cities on his tour. Some 600 priests rehearsed Wednesday in Grant Park to give communion to more than 100,000 of the faithful.

Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair said she and other athiests would march to the park Friday to protest against use of the city park for the Mass.

Both Catholic and public schools will be closed Friday, and Mayor Jane Byrne announced all city offices would shut at noon, three hours before the Mass, "in the interest of public safety."

"He's just what we need," said John Cronin, a Chicago Irishman effervescent about the pope's trip. "I'm delighted he's here. I get a good feeling. I feel terrific. I think what he's said should have been said a long time ago. ... I think he's laid all his cards on the table

BART officials, fearing possible confrontations between management and union workers, increased security but no incidents were reported.

Union officials have claimed their members were "locked out" by management on Aug. 31. Management contended repeated slowdowns by the unions amounted to a strike.

BART has said union members cannot return to work without an agreement on working conditions, either in a formal contract or a preliminary under-

'After almost a five-week shutdown, for the first day we are doing very well. Things are running very, very smoothly," said Barbara Neustadter, a coordinator for BART.

There were a few wrinkles. One man, wearing a three-piece suit, sprinted into the Lafayette station, stopped at a newspaper rack and was waiting on the platform by the time he realized he had bought an Aug. 31 Wall Street Journal.

Baptist Refuses Communion Offering

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) - A Baptist chosen to represent rural America stepped aside, shaking his head, when offered communion by Pope John Paul II at a papal Mass on Thursday, in accordance with a decision that he not receive the sacred wafer.

Gustave Rhodes, a sugar cane worker from Napoleonville, La., who was one of 10 persons selected for the symbolic role, gave his place for communion to Sister Ann Catherine Brazilia, a nun from his hometown. The shift had been worked out in a two-hour meeting with Bishop Maurice Dingman the night be-

The Roman Catholic Church prohibits the giving of communion to people who are not baptized Catholics.

'I am sad in a way, but I am happy that we were able to come to a mutual understanding." Rhodes said before the outdoor Mass at a farming museum outside Des Moines

He said he and Dingman, bishop of Des Moines, had discussed the communion and "reached a mutual understanding. It (intercommunion) is not going to happen now, but it will in the future.

The other nine persons chosen as representatives of rural America were all Catholics and all received communion - the bread or wafer considered by Catholics to be the body of Christ.

The 10 had been selected by the Des Moines-based National Catholic Rural Life Conference. A conference official said it was decided that a non-Catholic should be included, and Rhodes was chosen because of his work with the Southern Mutual Help Association, a Catholic-sponsored group pledged to help raise living standards for cane workers.

Rhodes said Wednesday before meeting Dingman that "I'd love to take communion and I do not think being Baptist should have anything to do with it.

Congressmen Find Lost Army Machine Guns

has agreed not to spend $10.2 million for machine guns after congressional investigators found thousands of the weapons that the Pentagon didn't know it had.

The Army was ready to spend the money last June, but the General Accounting Office, looking into the purchase, discovered almost 10,000 surplus guns that could be modified for Army use at a fraction of the cost of the new weapons

In a letter made available Thursday, an Army official told the GAO, which is Congress' investigative agency, that enough .50-caliber M-2 machine guns to fill its needs had been found on the Army's own shelves and among surplus guns available from the Navy, Air Force and foreign countries.

As a result, the Army decided not to award the contract to Maremont Corp.'s New England division in Saco, Maine, for 1,530 new guns at a cost of $6,666 per

The Army's letter, sent Sept. 19 by Sally Clements, deputy assistant secretary for materiel acquisition management, was made available by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who had originally asked the GAO to look into the matter.

Mrs. Clements assured the GAO that 'the Army has recently initiated procedural changes which should preclude similar unnecessary buys in the future.' She didn't describe the changes, and Percy said he was not satisfied the problem is resolved.

Last June, the Army suspended contract negotiations at the last minute at the GAO's request. The GAO said it had found that the Navy and Air Force had 5,000 excess models of the gun which could be converted for about $600 each for Army use, primarily on tanks.

Minority staff members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, on which Percy is ranking Republican member, said that since June investigators have found major errors in the Army's inventories of its own M-2 machine

They said the GAO had ordered a hand-count of the guns in one depot in Anniston, Ala., and found 3,886 M-2s not on the Army's official inventory. These guns, given the Army by the Air Force 10 years ago, had never been recorded because officials had planned to use them for spare parts, committee staff members said. They estimated the cost of converting them to Army use at $1,-

GAO investigators found that two other lists the Army kept of M-2s at that depot also were wrong — a list of M-2 serial numbers kept so that the guns could be identified and traced and a list kept by the depot's item manager.

Percy said he appreciated the Army's cancelling the purchase after almost 10,-000 other models of the gun were brought to its attention.

'However," he said, "the crucial fact remains that the Department of Defense does not know how many M-2 machine guns it has.

"A lack of accurate data almost resulted in a waste of $10 million, but more importantly, in the event of war we apparently don't know how many M-2s we could use in battle, and, even worse, we don't know if this is an isolated example or a problem common to other weapons systems."

An Army spokesman, Lt. Col. Bill McClain, said the Army would have no response to Percy's remarks. McClain described the changes mentioned by Mrs. Clements as "procedures to assess the availability of materiel within the other services prior to procurement.'

Carter Backers Protest Funds

WASHNGTON (AP) - President Carter's campaign committee, alarmed over opposition money being funneled into Florida, filed a formal complaint Thursday with the Federal Election Commission in an effort to dampen the "draft Kennedy" movement.

In its complaint to the FEC, the Carter committee said national fundraising in support of efforts to draft Sen Edward M. Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination is being coordinated and therefore is illegal.

"The national Kennedy committees in the various states and in their various fund raising and targeting operations are about as unaffiliated as the Marx Brothers," Carter Campaign Manager Tim Kraft said in a news conference announcing the action.

It was the Carter campaign's first major assault against the movement to draft Kennedy for the Democratic nomination and reflected growing concern over the expected Kennedy challenge.

Kennedy has said he may enter the race against Carter and expects to register an exploratory presidential commit-tee with the FEC next month. He has formally disavowed the draft committees formed in his name.

Specifically, the Carter complaint contends that the draft committees trying to promote a Kennedy candidacy are part of a nationally coordinated campaign and, under the law, constitute a single committee.

If the commission accepts this view, it would drastically reduce the money donors and political committees may give to the Kennedy movement.

Candidates are limited by law to one 'principal campaign committee." But if the Kennedy draft committees are held to be independent on one another, a person who could give Carter only $1,000 could contribute as much as $25,000 for Kennedy by spreading it around in chunks of no more than $5,000 each. And other political committees could give unlimited sums in ammounts of $5,000 to every draft Kennedy committee.

These committees are not independent entities as claimed, but rather are part of a coordinated national effort, the principal purpose of which is to defeat President Carter and to elect Sen. Edward Kennedy in the first Carter-Kennedy electoral test of the 1980 campaign the straw ballot at the Florida Democratic Party's state convention on Nov. 18, 1979," the Carter complaint said.

The complaint said more than $33,000 already has been contributed in this manner to the Kennedy movement by the Machinists' Union.

Kraft said large amounts of money

other states is being channelled into Florida as well as to New Hampshire and Iowa, locales of next year's first primary and delegate selection caucuses.

Carter's backers acknowledged they knew of no collaboration between Kennedy and the draft committees. But the president's complaint says the Kennedy movement is being orchestrated by anti-Carter activists, including Machinists' President William Winpisinger; Marjor-ie Phyfe, head of the union's political actylon fund; and Mark A. Seigel, a pol-itical consultant who resigned from Carter's White House staff in dispute over the sale of jets to Saudi Arabia.

The commission said a group trying to draft former Treasury Secretary William Simon for the Republican nomination my accept individual contributions of up to $5,000 each and spend unlimited amounts. It had given the same advice to a Florida draft Kennedy committee

"I think the result is ridiculous, but the law mandates the decision we are having to make," said Commissioner Frank Reiche. "We should emphasize to Congress in the strongest manner possi-

plaint against the Kennedy committees, the FEC was ruling in another case that draft committees do not have to follow

FEC Chairman Robert Tiernan said

In St. Petersburg, Fla., first lady Rosalynn Carter agreed. "I think a candidate or a non-candi-

Olin Plant's Gates Shut By Mayor

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Mayor Frank Logue kept the Olin Corp. pro-duction complex closed for a fourth day Thursday to avert violence he said would breakout if Olin-hired strikebreakers attempted to go to work.

Meanwhile, outside Olin's main gate where 20 pickets marched, two jobless young men told reporters they were willing to face the anger of strikers to apply work at Winchester, the nation's leading maker of sporting arms.

Richie Colman, 23, a high school graduate, said he had been able to find only dishwashing and other "skid jobs" until he learned Olin was hiring. He said he and his wife recently had separated and he was supporting their two young children.

"It's something we really want, you know what I'm saying," he said. "As far as taking their jobs, a month don't mean that much to them if they're out here

Olin officials claim Logue's order was illegal because it ignored the company's right to remain open and to hire new employees.

The audit, released this week by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., charges that sloppy NASA bookkeeping is to blame and that the problem still exists.

However, Eldon Taylor, who became NASA's inspector general two months ago, said the amount in question is ounces. And he said the dispute between NASA officials and the auditor has been going on for some time.

"From what I can gather, we are talking about one-tenth of 1 percent of the material — perhaps 10 to 20 ounces." Taylor said in an interview. "The question of is this 'significant' is part of the debate. Depending on what it means to certain people, it could be argued either way

Proxmire, chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee that oversees NASA funding, has been critical of the program to analyze lunar samples.

Mills said the report cited sloppy inventory control by the space agency from the time first moon rocks arrived on Earth. Some researchers did not get the samples supposedly sent to them and others have kept samples even though their studies are completed, he

The Chinese sweater girl, wearing nail polish and wavy Western-style hair, graces one of seven new advertising billboards at a busy intersection at main Changan Avenue near the Peking Hotel.

Smooth, silky feeling, velvety softness, elaborate workmanship, smartlooking, warm, comfortable and durable," said the billboard in Chinese and English.

The billboard was put up by the China National Import-Export Textile Corp., Peking branch. It gives a telephone number and a cable address for the benefit of foreign buyers.

Other billboards by various ministries say: "Orders welcome." The huge, brightly colored signs were painted for the National Day holidays and tout jasmine shampoo, violet hair cream and tonic, Great Wall luggage, arts and crafts, pianos and violins and tableware.

Next to these unabashed calls for capitalism and foreign exchange appear the standard red and white billboard slogans: "Long Live the People's Republic

Contract Talks Near Bargaining Deadline

DEARBORN. Mich. (AP) - Contract talks were in imbo much of Thursday, but negotiators were meeting with a strike deadline for 190,000 Ford Motor Co. workers only hours away.

The United Auto Workers union bargaining team spent most of the morning in caucus before going into the main bargaining room at mid-day. They remained all afternoon and by nightfall there was still no word from negotiators on their progress.

The delay in bargaining was not ex-plained, but observers believed the issue being discussed was the disagreement over overtime, which they had called very, very serious.

We have had strikes in the past over overtime," said Ken Bannon, the UAW vice president in charge of Ford matters, before Wednesday night's bargaining session - a session that broke up around 10 p.m.

UAW President Douglas A. Fraser expanded on Bannon's comment Wednesday night: "The company position is, they want to undo what we won in 1973.

In that year, the UAW won significant restrictions on overtime at Ford. which before then had been largely compulsory

Ford, because of its smaller production capacity, has relied on overtime more than General Motors Corp. Even with 24,000 Ford workers on indefinite furlough, the union complains that many plants are still requiring extensive overtime and would like to see laid-off workers shifted to those plants

Fraser said the bargaining could be wrapped up quickly if Ford made "the

Another unsolved issue was believed to be the schedule of paid days off, which at GM will total 25 over the next three years, compared to 12 in the last

The UAW was believed to be trying to schedule the days off between now and the expiration of a new three-year contract, rather than in the 1980, 1981 and 1982 calendar years as at GM.

Wholesale Prices Skyrocket

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's hope for some relief from inflation dimmed Thursday when the government reported that wholesale prices took their largest jump in nearly five years last

The 1.4 percent rise in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index during September was blamed on the continuing impact of higher energy costs and a return to large food price increases, especially for beef and pork.

'There's no doubt that the (wholesale) food prices will have an effect on retail prices in the next month or so,' said Labor economist Andrew Clem.

Clem also pointed out that the wholesale price of U.S.-produced crude petroleum jumped 9.4 percent last month, 'partly due to the administration's phased deregulation of domestic petroleum prices." This likely will join the recent foreign crude oil increases in pushing gasoline and fuel oil costs for consumers still higher.

Senator Angry Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., reacted angrily to the September wholesale increase, which was the largest since a 2 percent rise in October, 1974.

With inflation now at a five-year high, it will soon be cheaper to burn dollar bills than home heating oil," Roth

"President Carter's feeble anti-inflation program is on its last legs," he continued. "Carter's marathon do-nothing economic policy is another losing race he should abandon.

At the White House, press secretary Jody Powell said "We are still hopeful we will see moderation (of inflation) toward the end of the year." He said the latest figures underscored a need to restrain the federal budget deficit and "hold firm on our anti-inflation policy." Council Silent

There was no comment on the new figures from the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which oversees the president's anti-inflation program.

Carter administration officials, including council Chairman Alfred E. Kahn, have been predicting that consumer prices will fall from their current record-setting, 13 percent annual rate before the end of the year.

But the latest wholesae report uggests that continuation of the double-digit retail increases is likely.

The September wholesale increase was the third consecutive monthly rise of more than 1 percent. There were these breakdowns:

Energy Goods Climb

-The wholesale prices for energy goods ready to go to the retail market principally gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil — climbed 6.8 percent last month, a percentage point more than in the previous month. The energy prices in September stood nearly 56 percent higher than in September, 1978.

-Food items were up 1.8 percent. It was the second consecutive large increase after a four-month lull in food price rises at wholesale.

-Non-food items were up 1.3 percent, close to the average increase for each of the last six months.

William Cox, a Commerce Departomist, said "I just don't un derstand why prices keep going up so much more rapidly than wages and oth-

He pointed out that labor costs in the past six months have gone up at an annual rate of about 8 percent, while wholesale prices in the third quarter moved up at nearly double that rate.

"I would guess there has been per sistent and widespread widening of profit margins (by businesses) in the last several months," he concluded.

The index last month stood at 220.4. This means that goods costing $100 in 1967 cost $220.40 in September, Last month's figure was 11.8 percent ahead of September, 1978, the Labor report said. The Producer Price Index measures wholesale prices at three levels. The figures cited involve goods ready to go to retailers. Other components cover intermediate goods, which are those with some processing, and crude goods,

Dayan Sees Limited Israeli-PLO Talks

JERUSALEM (AP) - Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan has dropped a broad hint that Israel might speak to the Palestine Liberation Organization, but only to negotiate a solution to the Palestinian refugee problem.

But Dayan has a list of further conditions for Israel-PLO talks which he acknowledges would require a revolutionary change in the PLO's character.

Although Dayan announced no shift in Israeli policy, he has made a series of pronouncements this year signaling a willingness to consider a dramatic new approach in the future.

His softened tone come partly in response to increasing pressure from Western European governments and pri-

Copter Crash Kills Three

MOUNT CRAWFORD, Va. (AP) -Three men doing aerial photography for a state agency were killed Thursday afternoon when their helicopter crashed and burned near this Rockingham County communiy.

'From physical appearances, I would assume all three were killed on impact." said State Police trooper D.F. Hardesty. "I don't think they ran out of fuel ... I think they probably had a mechanical problem.

State Police Trooper D.F. Hardesty identified the pilot as Roger C. King, 43, of Falls Church, Va., a former District of Columbia policeman who was working for Helicopter-Airplane Service of Gaithersburg, Md. The names of the other two victims were being withheld until relatives could be notified

He said the two passengers were a film team employed by Ansel Productions, a Maryland firm working for the State Travel Service.

Margaret Lesniak, director of advertising for the Virginia State Travel Service, said the craft's passengers were 'shooting footage for commercials to be used in the spring; aerial views of the mountain regions and Crabtree Falls" in Shenandoah National Park

But she said she had not heard of Ansel Productions, and identified the two men as owners of BF&J Productions.

Retail Chain Stores Show Higher Sales

NEW YORK - The nation's major retail chains reported increased sales for September on Thursday, with Sears Roebuck & Co. up 2.4 percent and Montgomery Ward up a slim 0.7 percent.

Sears, the nation's largest mail orderretail chain, said sales for the period ended Sept. 29 were $1.81 billion, up 2.4 percent from restated sales of $1.77 billion in the year-earlier period. Before restating last year's sales, however, the actual increase for September sales was 0.2 percent

The Chicago-based retailer said last year's sales were restated in order to compare with results under current procedures on treatment of finance charges on credit accounts and revised timing of catalogue sales.

Sears' last sales increase was in August, 1978.

Fran Blechman, an analyst with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, said there were no surprises in September's retail sales. "They were in line to slightly lower with what we expected." she said. She added that sales for Sears are expected to keep rising, reversing the company's last 13-month trend, during which it revamped its marketing and promotional strategies.

K Mart Corp. reported sales of $1.2 billion, up 13.6 percent from $1.0 billion in the previous year period. The Troy, Mich based firm operates the largest chain of discount stores in the U.S., Canada and Australia.

F.W. Woolworth Co. announced a sales gain of 11.2 percent for the period ended Sept. 25 to $642.3 million compared with $577.6 million in September 1978. The largest U.S. variety chain store operator, based in New York, said domestic sales were up 9.1 percent and foreign sales rose 15.5 percent for the fiveweek period.

Montgomery Ward, a unit of Mobil Corp., reported sales for the period ended Sept. 29 of $481.4 million, up 0.7 percent from $478.2 million in the year-earlier period. On a seasonally adjusted basis, however, the firm was the only retailer with lower sales in September compared with August, Miss Blechman

Carter Hawley Hale Stores Inc., the largest department chain in the West, reported sales for the period of $215.8 million, an increase of 10.1 percent from $196.0 million a year ago. The company, based in Los Angeles, said there was good consumer response in apparel and nome goods during the month. On Wednesday, J.C. Penney Co. Inc., the nation's third-largest retail chain, said its September sales were $1.01 billion, up 2 percent over those in 1978.

vate American groups hoping to sponsor mutual Israel-PLO recognition and a breakthrough toward an overall Mideast

Until now, Israel has flatly ruled out talking to the PLO under any circumstances and even rejects mediation attempts, such as that by American black leader the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who is on a Mideast tour now.

Dayan said in a television interview Wednesday: "Should an Arab organization arise - even if it were the PLO itself - at some future stage and without engaging in terror to proceed to deal with solving the refugee issue, and if Israel were requested to take part in the solution, in my opinion, she should do

In an apparently contradictory statement, Dayan also said "even if the PLO fulfills the necessary conditions I would not recommend nor support a dialogue with them. Dayan's aides had a hard time explaining the contradictions. They said Dayan was responding to hypothetical questions about Israel's response if the PLO recognized Israel. Dayan still believes that is not possible, they said. Davan and other officials made clear that Israel could not talk to the PLO unless it renounced terror, eliminated from its founding charter articles calling for a secular Palestinian state and denying the Jews' right to a state in the region, and accepted the United Nations resolutions upon which peace talks are based.

Thursday: "If Israel agreed to talk to the PLO it would be the most dramatic change in Israel's foreign policy ever.' Dayan's latest remarks appear to be one more small step, inching Israeli thinking on the PLO away from the totally negative. Last February Dayan called the PLO one of the "morning after" problems Israel would have to face following the peace treaty Israel signed with Egypt.

He said the PLO's political clout with the Arabs could not be ignored. That remark prompted a mild rebuke from Prime Minister Menachem Begin for overstepping the bounds of Israeli Since March, Dayan held eight secret meetings with Palestinian leaders in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River who are PLO sympathizers.

He said this was not the same as talking to the PLO but the distinction was lost on many Israelis. Begin pointedly refused to condemn his foreign minister and has kept silent on Dayan's latest statements.

Jesse Jackson has been trying to win a pledge from PLO leader Yasser Arafat to halt terror tactics as a first step toward peace talks with Israel, but the Israelis say that is not enough.

Papal Tour Moves To Midwest Area

CHICAGO (AP) — Pope John Paul II. took his plea for the simple life and traditional Catholic morality across this 'spacious land' Thursday, from historic Philadelphia, to the cornfields of Iowa, to this most Polish of American cities

In Philadelphia and in Chicago, the pope reminded priests that celibacy is inviolable church doctrine. He spoke, too, of other issues explosive to American Catholicism, saying that the priesthood is not for women and that men who take priestly vows should not expect to escape them. "Priesthood is forever," he said in Philadelphia.

And on a hilltop altar in Iowa, he reminded farmers in the nation's breadbasket to conserve the land for future generations and to be generous to the world's famished. Traces Long Day

In Chicago, the 59-year-old pontiff, wearing a white overcoat against temperatures in the low 50s, traced his long day across the American landscape: From Philadelphia to Des Moines, from Des Moines to Chicago, in one day I have seen a great part of your spacious land, and I have thanked God for the faith, and the achievements of its peo-John Paul was welcomed at the airport by Cardinal John Cody, Gov. James R. Thompson and Mayor Jane Byrne, a Catholic of Irish background who told the Polish-born pope: I practiced on the word all day. Your Holiness - Witamy! Welcome to Chicago, Your Holiness.'

The pontiff listened to a welcome of Bach's Double Violin Concerto on violin by about 30 youngsters from suburban Mount Pleasant, then as the youngsters reached out and touched him he said. 'That's wonderful, that's wonderful, wonderful, wonderful! Sped To Cathedral

He was sped to Holy Name Cathedral along the John F. Kennedy Expressway passing neighborhoods shared by transplanted Poles and other Eastern Europeans. At the cathedral, he again spoke of he "needy of the world," as he had in Iowa, and in remarks prepared for delivery to Catholic brothers at St. Peter's Church he repeated his call for fidelity to the rule of celibacy. "No matter what others may contend, or the world may believe," he said, "your promises to observe the evangelical counsels have not shackled your freedom. You are not less free because you are obedient; and you are not less loving because of your celibacy. The pope was spending the night at

Cardinal Cody's residence, and today will celebrate Mass twice: once in Grant Park - where atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair plans a protest - and once in Polish for thousands of Polish-Americans in a neighborhood church parking lot. Almost one million ethnic Poles live in the Chicago area.

Sees Ethnic America

The pope has seen the ethnic side of America before in his four days in the inited States: Irish Italian Polish Hispanic areas in the nation's large cities. But it was in only Iowa that he saw rural America

He visited St. Patrick's Church, a wooden structrue set amid cornfields near tiny Cumming, and met with the parish's 205 members

The papal jet "Shepherd I" touched down at Des Moines Municipal Airport at 1:45 p.m. CDT. Then the poe flew ina Marine "Jolly Green Giant" helicopter to St. Patrick's and on to Living History Farms near Des Moines.

At the Farms, a display of agricultural methods old and new, the pontiff was greeted by Joseph Hays, the Iowa farmer whose invitation, handwritten in the dining room of his farmhouse in nearby Truro, brought John Paul to this rural four Hays children, and the Hays family chatted with him when they and others brought him baskets of corn, grapes and other produce as symbols of the harvest.

The pontiff was seated on a chair before a colorful, handmade quilt and during the Mass raised high a handmade pottery plate and chalice containing bread and wine. He presented communion to 150 worshippers.

One not given communion was Gustave Rhodes, a Baptist sugar cane worker from Napoleonville, La., selected as one of 10 representatives of rural America to attend the Mass. There was talk that the church's tradition of giving communion only to Catholics would be set aside in this case, but church officials said Thursday that "with great pain' they decided against it

Rhodes, who had said earlier that he'd "love to take communion." agreed not to do so in a meeting with church officials. He approached the altar with the others but when John Paul offered the consecrated wafer, he shook his head and stepped aside.

An estimated 350,000 people, spread out over grassland where Indians once planted maize, heard the pope's message in reverential silence. Many were so far away they could see the pope only as a small figure in gold standing in the bright sun on a hilltop altar.

The crowd was said to be the largest in Iowa history. There was a Polish banner from Omaha, Neb., a school bus from Emporia, Kan., and other yellow buses from Minnesota and North Dako-

Pope's Priest Stand Draws Women's Ire

A tearful official of an international Catholic women's group pleaded Thursday for a papal audience, saying she believes Pope John Paul II can be persuaded to withdraw his opposition to ordaining women as priests.

Have we women been so long with you and you have not known us?" Rosalie Muschal-Reinhardt said, paraphrasing Jesus to make her point that the pope should meet with officials of the Rochester-based Women's Ordination Conference.

In a telephone interview, Miss Muschal-Reinhardt was moved to tears in discussing the pope's statement Thursday in Philadelphia that restricting the priesthood to men is the way "God has chosen to shepherd his flock.

Feminists Angered

While Catholic feminists expressed anger and frustration when they learned of the pontiff's comments, many Catholic women said they agreed with the pope or that they could accept his views.

Sister Anna Mae Keeley, a Sister of Mercy who was present when the pontiff spoke, was not distressed:

"I would like the church to open its doors. I would not exclude myself if ordination were possible. But I'm not dissatisfied with what he said. There's a great deal we can do without being or-

The pope said the "church's traditional decision ... not to call wmen, is not a statement about human rights nor an exclusion of women from holiness and mission in the church." The priesthood is "given by the Lord to 'the men he himself had decided on' ... in accordance with the prophetic tradition," he

Sister Maria Bethleham of Philadelphia supported the pope, saying: "I have no problem accepting what he said. I don't want to be a priest. I'm satisfied

Another Refugee Surge Seen In Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration told Congress Thursday there may be another major surge of refugees in Southeast Asia caused by a new Vietnamese offensive in Cambodia, as well as resumed ejections of ethnic Chinese and others from Vietnam itself.

Dick Clark, ambassador for refugee affairs, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "evidence indicates that the Vietnamese occupation forces in Kampuchea (Cambodia) have begun a new offensive against the Pol Pot forces.

Moreover, he said, the United States is concerned that Vietnam may lift its moratorium on the expulsion of "undesirables" — mostly Chinese — from its country. "We may see a sharp increase" in the refugee flow as a result, he said.

Clark's remarks came as he presented the administration's plea for $207 million in supplemental refugee funds for fiscal 1980. The biggest chunk of that, $105 million, would go toward doubling the U.S. resettlement quota, from 84,000 to 168,000 refugees. Other funds would help build new arrival camps in Thailand and elsewhere,

To date, Clark said, U.S. naval ships have rescued 691 refugees, or so-called boat people, from the high seas, while merchant vessels, most acting on military directions, have picked up another

New arrivals totaled 12.-000 in August, down from 27,000 in July and 65,000 in June, but are expected to climb slightly again when the totals for September are computed, he said. Despite the encouraging decline in August, he stressed, "the root political causes of refugee flows in that region have remained volatile and unchecked.' Clark said the Vietnam-backed regime in Cambodia "no longer has the ability to feed its already greatly reduced population," and cited estimates that up to 3 million people out of the remaining 6 million could die of starvation and disease without massive outside ass-

BELGRADE (AP) — The world's poor and developing nations at the monetary conference in Belgrade have dashed U.S. hopes they would join in pressuring oil nations to hold down their prices.

Instead, speaker after speaker at meetings of the International Monetary und and World Bank has blamed the industrial countries, including the United States, for the world's economic woes.

Saudi Arabia's finance minister, Sheik Mohammed Abalkhail, threatened actions that could drive up prices if the United States cannot keep the dollar

U.S. officials privately say they are deeply disappointed at what they called developing countries' reluctance to criticize the OPEC nations' oil pricing polcies. They would like Third World support for their argument that higher oil prices could drive the world to ruin.

Instead, the poor nations' speakers have praised the members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Atuaddin Khan, finance minister for Bangladesh, said Thursday, "The OPEC countries, whose total assistance remained over 2 percent of their gross national product in 1978, have set exemplary standards and the major OPEC donors like Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Kuwait deserve our unqualified praise for the high levels of aid ranging from 5.5 percent to 11 percent of their GNP," he said.

He called on the industrial nations of the world, as well as the IMF and World Bank, "to come forward in a compassionate manner to bridge the gap between the rich and the poor or face the painful picture of over 600 million people living in absolute poverty by the end of the century.

Pakistan's finance minister, Ghulan Ishaq Khan, followed much the same approach in his speech Thursday, but was even more harsh. He said some of the world's poorest nations contain a substantial proportion of the world's 'natural wealth' but haven't benefited from it.

About the only criticism of high oil prices that has been voiced here was by U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller. Referring to the 60 percent oil price increase since the first of the year, he said, "once again the world economy has been destabilized by a large oil price shock ...

One official sympathete to the U.S. position and who dd not want to be identified said he thinks individual developing countries are reluctant to criticize OPEC for fear of being deprived of aid.

An American agreed, saying "nobody wants to be singled out as departing

Three Proposals Given To Enforce Oil Quota

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter mined fee for each barrel of oil importadministration on Thursday proposed three possible ways to enforce its promised oil import quota, a move that may help cut U.S. dependence on OPEC, but could raise oil prices.

The three approaches will be the focus of hearings in five cities over the next month. Criticism is expected to be sharp, with many experts saying a quota could prove inflationary and lead to anticompetitive practices by large refiners.

President Carter called for a quota in July when he unveiled a series of conservation steps, ranging from more home insulation to greater emphasis on solar energy.

An Energy Department official said the administration wants to implement the quota by Jan. 1. if it is needed.

When Carter spoke iff July, administration officials expected oil imports this year to average only 7.8 million barrels a day, comfortably below a quota of 8.2 million barrels. Now, however, officials have revised this year's imports to between 7.9 million and 8.1 million barrels. The three alternatives offered by the Treasury and Energy departments are:

•An auction system. The government would fix the amount of oil that can be imported each quarter and license importers to bid for it. Rights to bid for the oil can be transferred.

•A license-fee system. The government would collect an as-yet undeter-

Developing Countries OPEC Urged To Raise Prices

By MARK POTTS
NEW YORK (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries again is under pressure to raise its oil

That pressure is being spurred by Libya's and Algeria's diversion of some oil away from large oil companies and into the more lucrative spot market and a reported attempt by Iran to sell oil to Japan for $40 a barrel.

The situation is being complicated by tumult in world currency markets, particularly the weakness of the dollar, the currency in which OPEC does its business. Saudi Arabian Finance Minister Mohamed Abalkhail said Wednesday the cartel's members "have watched with growing concern the renewed instability in exchange markets." OPEC is scheduled to meet Dec. 17 in Caracas, Venezuela, to discuss prices. At that time it's s expected to increase prices by some degree above the current base price of $18 a barrel and ceiling price of $23.50.

In considering the size of the increase, the cartel's members probably will be looking very closely at activity on the spot oil market, where the small amount of oil not sold under long-term contracts changes hands.

Despite the spot market's small volume. OPEC members cosider it a key indicator of what prices the market will bear. The spot market price currently is about $35 a barrel. The average OPEC price is about $20.

The decision Thursday by Algeria to cut sales to big oil companies by 5 percent beginning Jan. 1 apparently represents an attempt by that nation - whose oil is among OPEC's finest and best-suited for making gasoline - to cash in on the higher spot market price. Algeria has cut back its contract sales by about 20 percent in recent months, also apparently for sale on the spot market.

Analysts say the same motivation was behind Libya's decision earlier this week to cut sales to companies by 20 to 30 percent, beginning Jan. 1. Nigeria and Algeria are among the largest suppliers of oil to the United States.

Prices have been rising gradually on the spot market in recent days, sources say, after having been stable for several weeks. The increase appears to stem from a slight tightness in spot-market supply, which the diversion of oil by Li-

Private Industry Advised To Tap Hot Water

BROWNSVILLE (AP) - Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace said Thursday private industry would be smart to watch closely the development of Texas underground hot water resources although the first test results have not been too good.

Private industry would be prudent to keep a close eye on the research and development of this potential significant resource." said Wallace.

He spoke to the first Rio Grande Valley Conference on Geopressured Geothermal Resources. The energy from underground hot water may be used for heating and other functions now handled by more conventional energy sources.

Wallace said data collected from the first test wells in Brazoria County "so far will not guarantee the economics of a commercial resource."

However, he said, scientists and other interested persons think prospects in Kenedy County are "particuarly good" Drilling should begin there next year. Wallace said, and researchers also are examining the Frio formation west of Wallace said initial tests of a Brazoria County well indicated it could flow at a rate of approximately 30,000 barrels of water a day - about 10,000 less than had been expected. The gas-water ratio appears to be 20 cubic feet per barrel, about half of the level expected. Also, the temperature at the bottom of the well is estimated at 250 degrees Fahrenheit - 50 degrees to 100 degrees less than the project sponsors desired.

Windfall Trust Fund To Be Set Up

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Finance Committee changed its mind Thursday and voted to establish a special trust fund for the billions of dollars to be raised by President Carter's proposed "windfall profits" tax. The Carter administration and its allies in Congress want the fund to make sure that money from the new tax goes exclusively for programs designed to reduce American dependence on oil im-

"I don't know how else we're going to handle all the money we raise if we don't go the trust fund route," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who led the push for the special fund.

He added, "Its purpose is to assure that money being raised by the windfall profits tax does not go into the general treasury, but is used for energy conservation or production.

The committee's vote of approval

The panel took its action as it resumed work on the tax, a major part of Carter's energy program. The president wants the new levy to accompany his program for gradually ending price controls on domestically produced oil. Technically, the tax would be on the increased revenues the oil companies take in, not the profits. Without the tax, oil companies would keep more of the revenue as profits.

The House of Representatives approved a tax bill earlier this year that is expected to produce about $104 billion for the special trust fund.

No Crude Oil Increase Predicted

NEW YORK (AP) - The chairman of Gulf Oil Corp. predicted Thursday that U.S. crude oil production probably won't increase, while natural gas output is likely to "decline very slowly," over the next decade.

The forecast by Jerry McAfee came as Mitchell Sharp, a top Canadian energy official, said construction of a $12 billion to $18 billion, 5,500-mile pipeline system to carry natural gas from Alaska and arctic Canada to U.S. and Canadian markets is "essential to the vital interests of both our countries.'

McAfee and Sharp, commissioner of Canada's Northern Pipeline Agency, spoke to an energy seminar sponsored by the Conference Board, a businessbacked research organization.

McAfee, chairman of the nation's fifth-largest oil company, said the United States at best will be able to boost crude oil output to 12 million barrels a day by 1990 from the current 10 million.

But if "Congress continues to pass stopgap, uncoordinated laws that have the effect of holding down fuel prices at the expense of future supplies," oil production could shrink to 8 million barrels daily, he said.

U.S. oil imports are expected to climb to 10 million barrels a day by 1990, a 25 percent jump from today's 8 million, McAfee said. A barrel contains 42

Gulf has major interests in recent oil finds in the Atlantic off the coast of Newfoundland and in the arctic Beaufort Sea to the east of U.S. oilfields off northern Alaska. The Beaufort, well, which analysts say may be the more promising of the two so far, is "in the most hostile environment the industry has ever had to cope with, the worst of all worlds" McAfee said in an interview. While "drilling exploratory wells there has been a major technological triumph," further improvements in oil technology will be needed before the area will be able to produce oil, he said. Alaska already produces substantial quantities of oil, and could ship large amounts of natural gas to the lower 48 states if the Alaska highway pipeline project is built. The pipeline originally was scheduled for completion by January 1983. But construction has yet to start because financing has not been arranged, and the project may may not be ready until late 1984, Sharp said. The pipeline would carry 3.6 billion cubic feet of gas a day — 5 percent of U.S. needs — from Alaska's Prudhoe Bay through Canada and south to San Franciso and Chicago. It also could extend to Canada's Mackenzie Delta area on the Beaufort Sea.

Sharp urged that the Canadian and southern U.S. portions of the pipeline be built as soon as possible so the United States can gain access to new gas supplies from the province of Alberta.

"The additional export of gas would, of course, benefit our balance of payments position," said Sharp, who has served as Canada's finance minister and foreign minister.

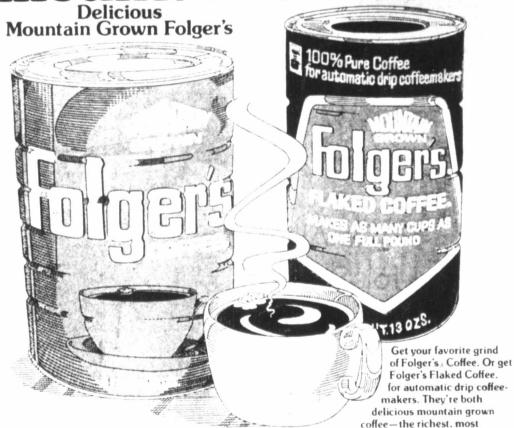

But he added the exports "would also assist the United States to make progress in reducing its dependence on uncertain ... oil imports pending the start of deliveries of your own gas from Alas-

Appeals Court Orders Policemen Resentenced

dented action, the full 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a federal district judge Thursday to resentence three former Houston police officers convicted in the death of Joe Campos Torres, a young karate expert who drowned while in police custody

The circuit court, after hearing an unusual Justice Department appeal. overturned part of an earlier three-judge decision that failed to order U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling to take corrective action although ruling he had erred in imposing the sentences.

The Thursday ruling directed the circuit court clerk to issue an order vacating the sentences and "commanding the district court to resentence the defendants in accordance with law.

Sterling was reported out of town but one of the defense lawyers, Michael Ramsey, said the resentencing probably will be no more than a technicality.

Ramsey acknowledged, however, the case eventually could reach the Supreme

The body of Torres, 21, was found in Buffalo Bayou near police headquarters on May 8, 1977, three days after he had been arrested in a bar disturbance. His death aroused strong feelings inthe Mexian-American community amid contentions the case was symptomatic of racial bias on the part of Houston police. For a time after the sentencing, Sterling was guarded carefully by the U.S. marshal because of reported threats on Sterling sentenced Terry Denson, 27, Stephen Orlando, 22, and Joseph J. Janish, 22, to one-year in prison for striking and assaulting Torres but suspended 10year sentences with five years probation on another count alleging felony conspiracy to violate Torres' civil rights, resulting in death.

The Justice Department's appeal contended the 10-year sentences could not be suspended and probated in that conviction for the felony crime requires imprisonment for any term of years or

On May 19, 1978, Sterling, in a memorandum that was part of an order delaying the imprisonment of the three former officers, said the motion challenging the sentences was "an almost intolerable attempt to interfere with the independence of the court." Sterling also said the most compelling reason for the sentences was the fact prosecutors had agreed to recommend a year in prison for another former officer in return for his testimony against the three.

Sterling earlier had rejected a Justice Department motion claiming the suspension of the 10-year sentences was illegal and asking him to remove the probated suspensions

At the time of the March 28, 1978, sentencing, Sterling had said the Torres death was a "situational offense" the former policemen would never face

In other business, the board okayed a staff proposal that hard rock shows be booked into the coliseum rather than the auditorium whenever possible in order to preserve the smaller facility's aging and irreplaceable decor.

"The auditorium is getting older and we couldn't replace the decor if it were damaged by a rowdy crowd," explained Vicki Key. Other types of performances still could book into the auditorium, she explained.

If a rock group expected to draw only a small crowd, the coliseum could be divided in half and a proportionate rent charged, added director Dottie Town-

"Most kids don't like to see hard rock shows in the auditorium anyway," she commented, "we're a lot stricter with our rules in there." Miss Key also told the board an engi-

Until it is completed, she said engi-neers will decide what can be hung on

Regents To Consider Fund-Raising Policy

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY Avalanche-Journal Staff

Criticism of a policy designed to coordinate private fund-raising caused Texas Tech regents to postpone the issue at their last meeting, but a re-worded version of that policy will be considered by the board this morning.

The three paragraph policy prepared for the Aug. 3 meeting came under scrutiny by university fund-raising groups for its second paragraph which said, "Authority for the final approval of programs, activities, and procedures of any person, group or organization raising funds for or in the name of Texas Tech University shall reside with the president and shall be delegated to the office of development and university nela-

"Final approval" and "shall reside with the president" were the key phrases which concerned some community supporters.

An alumnus, who opposed the origi-nal wording, said, "We wanted to have control over our money. We're not connected with Texas Tech.

But Bill Dean, director of the Ex-Students Association, was not alarmed by the original policy or the re-worded ver-

University legal counsel Marilyn Phelan said the university is prohibited by U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulations from accepting such scholarships unless they are made by a will, trust or similar legal instrument, or by a foreign government (such as Great Britain's Rhodes scholarship, which is for men

If the school does accept a sex-restricted scholarship, such as one set up in a will, Dr. Phelan said the school must find money to provide a similar scholarship for the other sex.

'Men nowadays are drinking cream drinks more and more," said Roy Romo, who shared top honors Thursday at a contest among 10 bartenders competing for two $250 prizes and a listing in a bartender's recipe book.

The three-man, one-woman jury puckered and squinted its way through a "Dreamcycle," a "Silver Cloud" and a "Disco Delight" among other pink, speckled and rainbow-colored concoctions. After the tasting, one judge excused himself before the winner was announced and disappeared for the day. Even the winning bartenders admitted it would not be a good idea to use their prize-winning recipes for any serious

"I recommend the Rum Cow for my customers who have a hangover," said sugar. "It coats the stomach. The only cure for a hangover is a small amount of alcohol," said the bartender.

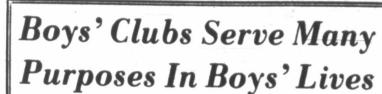

Romo, 32, won with a recipe of rum, creme de cacao, banana and ice cream. "Mainly it's an after-dinner drink," he said. Romo claimed his recipe was also good for hangovers, unless the patient had gotten the hangover from drinking too many Rum Cows.

But no one ever got drunk on these," he insisted. For one thing, the milkshake-like drinks cost $3.50 each.

The contest was sponsored by the Old Mr. Boston Bartender's Guide. Most contestants said they had not learned their trade in school, although several said they were schooled in other vocations. Romo was a jewelry engraver before he became a bartender.

Finalist Pam Atherton, 27, got a degree at Texas Christian University in interior design. After that she taught in special education in Florida. Then she became a bartender, and her "Manage a Trois" - apricot brandy, amaretto, Southern Comfort and lemon juice — was a finalist in Thursday's mix-off.

"I found bartending more profitable," she said.

Every boy is different and every boy comes to the Boy's Club for different reason," said Wesley Strength, director of Boys' Clubs, Inc., of Lubbock, a United Way

The organization, which operates three clubs in Lubbock - Boys' Clubs No. 2 and 3 and the John W Wilson branch — will receive a combined total of $129,082 from the United Way's 1980 goal of $1,803,-

Strength said the purpose of the organization revolves around the many different reasons boys do come to the Boys' Clubs. "Our purpose is to serve the physical, recreational, educational and vocational needs of youth," he said. This pur- of Lubbock pose is accomplished through an

'open door" policy which offers boys a wide range of choices in activities from the structured, scheduled programs to unstructured building-centered programs, such as an impromptu basketball game to weightlifting or a competitive game of pool.

Todd Jackson and David Parks attend the Boys' Club at Wilson every day Strength said the two boys typify the many who come to the club on a daily basis for fun and recreation.

Jackson said he began with the Boys' Club about three years ago. He said it was his mother who suggested he join Wilson and contacted the club for further information. Now, he is hooked on the organization. He said he's participated in many of the activities "usually at the gym to play basketball or shoot some pool. I've done a little bit of everything here." Todd admits basketball is his favorite, though.

Jackson has joined in the superstar's competition this summer, fashioned after the superstar's competition on television with celebrities as competitors, and came in third in his age group. In the program the boys are given points for each event in which they quality.

Also, Jackson played in the Boys' Club's "Gong Show," last year and came in second in another event at the club, the watermelon seed spitting contest. On the serious side, Jackson said he believes the Boys' Clubs help to keep juvenile crime down by giving boys a chance to work out their energies in constructive and fun ways. He said he sees the Boys' Club as a "character builder" and a place to learn sportsmanship. Parks agreed with Jackson in that the Boys' Club is a place to learn good moral character. He said he had a friend who was getting into trouble quite a bit. He brought the boy along with him to the Wilson club and now, Parks said, the boys no longer get into trouble.

Parks said he came to the club because a lot of his friends were going. At first, he said, he didn't go very much, but now he's a regular and is helping to form, along with Jackson and other boys, a "Torch Club," which will serve as a kind of public relations and activity group for the Boys Club. Fifteen boys will be in the group to represent the boys club to the community.

Strength said that besides being a place where the boys can come to have fun, the clubs also serve as a social gathering spot where boys can come and just talk. He said the informal atmosphere of the clubs enables the boys and adult leaders to interact on more of an equal basis. He said the adults at the clubs are always ready to talk with the boys, whether it be about an interest or a problem they may have. He said that philosphy helps the boys to "accept adults and the adults to accept them in their own setting.

Strength said the Boys' Clubs are planning many new projects and have implemented quite a few already this year. They include establishing a boys' day and overnight camp, a baseball league for boys 8, 9 and 10, conducting a clinic on teenage alcoholism, establish a summer and work camp for older boys, continue to work in civic projects, conduct another city-wide free-throw contest, work with the Community Planning Council for Christmas for the elderly in nursing homes and conduct five western day Boys' Club Day.

Strength also said the Boys' Clubs of Lubbock send boys to the competition for Boy of the Year in Austin and that three of the six state finalists this year were from Lubbock.

The three clubs have a combined membership of about 2,700 members. The Boys' Clubs of Lubbock are among 34 United Way agencies.

The deadline for applications to a Texas Tech University six-week institute for elementary school educators, beginning next January, is Nov. 21.

The institute, sponsored by the Tech College of Education and to be funded by the National Science Foundation, is Project CAPS (Cotton and the People of the South Plains).

The course of study will emphasize methods of integrating social studies and nathematics for grades kindergarten through six. The institute will prepare participants to meet requirements which mandate economics instruction in Texas elementary schools.

Beginning Jan. 26, 1980, and continuing for six Saturdays, the courses will be held on the Tech campus

Participants may earn three hours of university credit which may be applied to a graduate degree and for a Texas teacher's certificate.

Tuition and fees will be waived and some mileage reimbursed

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH BY DR. PAUL G. DONOHUE

Dear Dr. Donohue: My question may sound strange to you, but it is a very ser ious one for me. My husband and I already have one little daughter. My husband is the last male in his family to carry on the family name. Therefore, if we knew we would have a son we would like to have another child. Is there anything we can do to assure this if I were to conceive again? - C.D.

There is a 50 percent chance of con ceiving a boy (so what else is new?).

Actually, the probability of conceiving a male is a little greater than that a fraction above 50 percent. It has been theorized that one reason for this is that more males die in infancy than females. This is a testimonial to the female's superiority. (I don't really mean that, but I thought I'd write it anyway).

With the declining birth rate because of newer birth preventatives there is greater interest in this whole matter. If couples are to have fewer children there is a natural desire to have one of them a male, or for that matter, a female. Stories have been written and some "timing of intercourse" theories have appeared in popular and medical journals. None to this date provides any surefire method of predetermining sex.

Your husband's wish is an old one Henry VIII of England got some bad press from his attempts to assure a male descendant. He didn't know any of the present theories, so kept getting rid of his wives. He failed ultimately, and the result was Queen Elizabeth I

For him as for you the odds are the same. Your husband and you may be more fortunate

Dear Dr. Donohue: Why is it that people who go on a diet and lose almost invariably gain it back? - Mrs. E.T.F.

The pair of 1979 U.S. Christmas stamps will be released Oct. 18 in two separate locations. As in previous years, one stamp will have religious significance and the other a universal Yule theme. Both are in the regular stamp size (100 stamps per pane) rather than the commemorative size.

The religious stamp depicts a Gerard David painting of a madonna and child and is scheduled for issuance in Wahington, D.C. The painting, "The Rest on the Flight into Egypt," hangs in the National Gallery of the capital.

The second stamp features a Santa Claus Christmas-tree ornament and will be issued in the city of North Pole. Alaska. It is obvious that this city was selected because of the special Christmas identification for first-day cancellations.

In the David design, the madonna and child appear at the top of the vignette. Across the bottom, in two lines of black type, are "Gerard David: National and "Christmas USA 15

Wall Pouches Nifty Storage System

There's no doubt about it - kids are tace to embroider, yarn, floss, trims. not terrific "putter-awayers." They're great when it comes to building the Brooklyn Bridge from 97 blocks, or creating a whole new world with enough stuffed critters to stagger Noah's imagination. But the simple act of picking up and putting things away - in order - is not necessarily a youthful trait.

There are a number of ways to fight those toys-on-the-floor and clothes-onthe-bed syndromes. You need not spend a fortune on high-priced storage units. It simply takes a clever parent with a resourceful eye to find the kind of inexpensive storage solutions that will keep our child's room - and the rest of your me - clutter-free.

The easiest way to encourage children to clean up their clutter is to compartmentalize. Make sure there's a speplace for all your youngster's belongings. One neat way to do this is to d or buy a bunch of plywood cubes. Stick the cubes against a wall or build a room divider with the cubes, creating a play area on one side of the divider and sleeping quarters on the other. Metal shelves filled with plastic storage bins are another nifty kid-style storage sys-

Don't overlook the power of wall pouches. They're quick and easy to make and a snap to stuff with toys the instant the clean-up whistle sounds. And they'll give the wall a little class, too.

To make a wall pouch, first cut a square of 1/4-inch plywood to the desired size. Vary the size of the squares to match the toys you want to store. Cover the plywood with burlap by stapling or gluing it to the back side. Next staple a contrasting print fabric to the plywood back to form the pockets. Allow enough material to avoid stretching the fabric.

Cleanup can be fun when everything has its place. The tuck away pals shown here will brighten any child's room and provide storage for three pairs of shoes, toys, art supplies, or all manner of little treasures. Patty Pigtail and Touchdown Tim each measure 10x36 inches and are washable, too. Each kit contains polyester/cotton fabric, silk-screened and instructions.

Exhaust Fan In Window Will Clear Air

By ANDY LANG Associated Press Writer

Q. - We live in an apartment where the kitchen has no exhaust fan of any kind. After cooking, the odor of the food hangs around for hours even when we open a window. The landlord says he has no intention of cutting into the wall to install an exhaust fan. Would a fan in the window be of any use? A. - Absolutely. Get an exhaust fan of the proper size to fit the window. Attempt to get one that has an expansion attachment that fills up any opening at the side of the fan. Or make one yourself from a piece of wood with a hole cut in it for placement of the fan. If your kitchen is equipped with a double-hung window, the fan should be placed in the upper part of it. Q. - I am putting down a small concrete patio and am reasonably sure that I know exactly how to do everything except where to place wire mesh for extra

A. - After the gravel or whatever you are using for drainage has been installed, cover it halfway to the desired thickness of the patio floor with the concrete mixture. Wait about five minutes. then put the mesh in place. Immediately pour the rest of the mixture over the mesh and finish the job just as though the mesh had not been used.

Q. - Several years ago, I used paint remover to get the finish off an old bedroom bureau. I remember what trouble I had with the remover running down the sides until I learned to turn the bureau once in a while so that I was always working on a horizontal surface. This time I intend to take the finish off a set of six dining-room chairs. It might be impractical to keep turning the chairs to prevent the same trouble. Any suggestions?

Remembering these two things. you shouldn't have too much trouble, but if you do have it with the legs of the chairs, place them in small metal containers. Then, if the remover drips, it will fall into the containers and can be used again

Q. - I do not understand the principle of applying a sealer to wood before putting on stain. Doesn't the sealer prevent the stain from sinking in?

A. - If the sealer is thinned according to directions, it will serve only as a partial seal. By doing, so, it will prevent the stain from sinking in too deeply in certain areas and causing uneven color-

Is there any simple way to clean pillows that are filled with down or

I would hate to throw away a couple of expensive pillows.

Thanks for any information you may be able to give me. - Edith Novicki

Hold on! Don't throw them away! It's really very easy to clean pillows, whether they're down, feather, or one of the "ons" (dacron, orlon, etc.).

A few years back the Cleanliness Bureau sent us information on how to clean various pillows.

They suggested, after checking the ticketing for strength, to balance the washer load by washing two pillows at a time, or adding clean towels.

With feather-filled pillows, use extra soap or detergent as the feathers cause the suds to die down quickly.

Pillows tend to float on the surface of the water, so if possibe turn them over during washing and give both sides a thorough sudsing.

Rinse well, then dryer-dry them at a low or air setting. The dryer is the best means of drying the pillows, but if you hang them outside to dry, pick a breezy day and a shady spot (not in the direct sunlight). It may take awhile to dry either way, as one sweet lady from Pennsylvania attested to several years ago.

She stated, "A drowned cat looked better than my feather pillows did when they came from the washing machine!" After the dryer they looked better, but I was almost in the market for new pillows. "But after two days on the clothesline, they puffed up to their natural softness and they are now sweet-smelling and beautiful.

So shake and punch the pillows several times during the drying to plump up and fluff the filling.

If your pillows just need fluffing and plumping, put them in the dryer with no heat, just air, for a few minutes. The tumbling will remove the dust, as well as freshen them. Throw in a fabric softener sheet or a cloth with a dab of liquid softener on it to give them a flowerfresh smell.

HEARTLINE: Will you please let me know at what age does a wife get Social Security after her husband's death? Also, does she have Medicare at this age too? - M.P.

A disabled widow can receive Social Security disabled widow's benefits as early as age 55. A widow who is not disabled can receive widow's benefits as ear ly as age 60.

Normally you will not be eligible for Medicare until the age of 65, unless you have been eligible to receive Social Security disability or disabled widow's benefits for 24 months. Another exception to the normal rule is the necessity for a kidney dialysis machine (at any age as long as you or your spouse is fully insured under Social Security).

HEARTLINE: Sometime in the early summer. I saw in the Heartline column an address where one could write to have a birthday greeting sent from the president to persons 80 years and older. Could you please reprint that address?

To have a birthday greeting sent from the president to any person age 80 or older (or anniversary greetings for couples celebrating 50 years or longer of marriage), write to the Greetings Office, The White House, Washington, D.C. 20500. Your request must be received at least one month before the greeting is to

I am retired from the federal government after 30 years of service. I have never worked under or paid into the Social Security system. Am I eligible for Medicare? If so, how do I go about registering for coverage? -

Yes, you are probably eligible for Medicare, but you will have to pay for not only Medicare Medical Insurance (Part B) as everyone must, but you will also have to pay for Medicare Hospitalization Insurance (Part A). Medicare Hospitalization Insurance is expensive You could possibly find private insurance (major medical) that would cover you as well or better than Medicare and be less expensive. HEARTLINE: Will you please explain the Medi-Cal portion of SSI? I have a sister who receives SSI and we have not heard anything about Medi-Cal until it was mentioned in your column.

Medi-Cal is actually the equivalent of Medicaid in California. Group Says Warning Labels No Good

WASHINGTON (AP) - Most young Americans know the dangers of too much alcohol and won't be deterred from excessive drinking by warning labels on liquor bottles, a national education group asserted Thursday.

The Education Commission of the States opposed the idea of adding warning labels to bottles of whiskey, rum, gin, vodka, brandy and other strong alcoholic beverages. The group declared that labels won't address the deep-seated psychological and social problems that cause people to drink.

The commission cited a survey it conducted under contract from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which showed that "public awareness about alcohol and health is close to saturation levels."

Some 80 percent of the 17-year-olds in the ECS sample were aware of the groups.

dangers of alcohol misuse, while 94 per-cent of the adults between 26 and 35 who responded to the survey questions knew about the potential problems.

A warning label provision, suggested by Sen. Stron Thurmond, R-S.C., has been passed by the Senate. It would apply to beverages of 24 percent or more alcoholic content. Beer and wine would be excluded.

Opponents of the idea include the liquor industry, which says that labeling could add a penny to the price of each bottle of alcohol. If the provision was extended to beer, it could add 24 cents to the price of a case.

The survey was conducted by the ECS-administered National Assessment of Educational Progress, which makes annual checks on the attitudes and skills of young Americans in various age

Progress Reported Toward Settling Teacher's Strike

Progress toward settling a month-old teachers' strike in Lansing, Mich., was reported Thursday as the school board offered teachers an 8 percent across-theboard increase.

In Chicago, meanwhile, negotiators for the school board and the teachers' union settled on a contract for the city's 27,000 teachers who had been working on a day-to-day extension of the old contract. Details of the new contract were not available.

The Lansing strike is one of seven in Michigan that have affected some 4,200 teachers and 71,300 students, the highest number in the seven states where teachers are on strike.

Nationwide, a total of 12,580 teachers are on strike; 217,500 students are affected. Last week, some 42,000 teachers were involved in strikes that affected some 630,000 pupils.

In Mason, Mich., where more than 40 negotiators have spent three days in round-the-clock bargaining at the Ingham County courthouse, county Judge James Giddings suggested a financial tactic that allowed the Lansing school board to balance its budget and make the salary offer, about half the size of the increase the teachers have been Giddings, however, doubted that a settlement was imminent in the strike by 1.540 teachers that has kept 30,650 students out of school since Sept. 4.

In New York, 360 teachers ended seven-day strike and returned to work in the Long Island school system of Deer Park after almost 20 hours of continuous

Memorial Societies, said the proposed FTC rule is "a straight-forward and fair regulation." Her group helps consumers find low-cost alternatives to costly funer-

She said the basic requirement of the proposed regulation is that consumers be given price information. "The issue is not whether there should be a rule, but whether the rule should be stronger," she told the Senate Commerce subcom mittee on consumers.

Taking an opposite position was Harvey Tettlebaum, an attorney for the Missouri Funeral Directors Association, who attacked the FTC staff that worked on the regulation.

"The FTC staff's bias against the industry was so immense that it decided early on that only it - the FTC staff could be expected to provide the public any rotection rom the grasping claws of an industry poised on the edge of an embalming table," Tettlebaum testified.

He also argued that the states in creased their regulation of funeral nomes during the four years since the FTC began developing the rule. During this period 48 states "enacted new licensing laws, promulgated new regulations or both to eliminate whatever problems exist in funeral service in those states."

Tettlebaum contended, as have other witnesses before the subcommittee on other FTC regulations, that the commission paid taxpayers' money to subsidize those who opposed the industry. Elizabeth Clemmer, executive director of the memorial societies group. read to the senators from what she said was a huge volume of mail from consumers complaining about tactics used by funeral homes.

'These consumers are in an especially vulnerable position. They are overcome by grief and have to make a decision quickly. They can very easily fall victim to those whose economic self-interest is an expensive funeral," she said.

She said one of the questionable practices is quoting a package price for a funeral that includes items that many people will not want. "Families may want only part of the package, but they have to buy it all," Ms. Clemmer said.

The survey respondants were asked whether or not alcohol can depress the body, cause physical addiction, affect driving ability after one drink and cause liver and brain damage after continuous

The overwhelming number of affirmative answers prompted the group to take its stance against warning labels.

We believe the continued emphasis upon warning labels obscures the real need for dealing with alcohol misuse—namely the development of programs that teach and reinforce responsible decision-making behavior about alcohol," said executive director Warren G. Hill.

A more explicit warning label pointing out the potential for causing birth defects and death is being pushed by Sen Donald Riegle, D-Mich.

Ali Challenges Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali is ready to go a few rounds with the city of Los Angeles over a gate crashing garbage truck.

Ali, in a claim mailed to the city clerk's office, contends a rubbish collection truck rammed an iron gate at the driveway of his mansion.

City Clerk Rex E. Layton said Ali, currently on tour in Nigeria, filed the claim to have the bent bars repaired. Ali said the amount of the damage was undetermined

The claim ws referred to the city attorney's office, which would estimate the damage and make a recommendation to the City Council, Layton said.

PARMA, Ohio (AP) — Even a cat's meows or a dog's growl may soon be banned in Parma, at least during certain hours of the day.

A proposed eight-page ordinance includes as a violation Owning, possessing or harboring any animal or bird which frequently or for continued duration howls, barks, meows, squawks or makes other sounds which create a noise disturbance across a residential real property boundary.

City Councilman Frank J. Houdek has introduced the anti-noise bill that almost bans the snap, crackle and pop of breakfast cereal. Houdek admits the bill needs amending. "It goes into Wanna Play Alguerque?

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine (UPI) - Anyone for a quick game of Alquerque? Who's it for "Wildebeest"?

Although the names may sound strange, a University of Maine researcher says these games, played centuries ago, are a lot like today's pastimes.

According to Cynthia Gilman, "Alquerque was introduced by the Moors into Spain and Peralikatuma originated in Ceylon," she said. "Those two and Awithlaknannai of the Zuni Indians are all an early form of checkers, sort of like Chinese Checkers.

"Wildebeest," she explained, "is a chase game named after the African Antelope.

Miss Gilman has built models of the ancient games for an exhibit at the university's Presque Isle campus.

Also included is a seven-foothigh game of Quilles - an early form of bowling. "It looks like a gallows, and has a ball six inches in diameter hung from a rope," she said. You swing the ball and try to knock down nine pins."

Mrs. Davis Hospitalized

FORT WORTH (AP) - Mrs. Karen Master Davis, wife of millionaire Cullen Davis, was being treated in a Fort Worth hospital today for injuries she suffered when she fell down a flight of stairs in Davis' $6 million mansion.

"I'm doing okay. I have a great deal of pain in my shoulders and back, but they're giving me medication and physical therapy." she said Mrs. Davis, who married the millionaire only hours after his long and bitter divorce proceedings with his ex-wife, Priscilla, ended, said the fall aggravated injuries she suffered in an automobile accident eight years ago.

Although she is supposed to stay in the hospital as long as two weeks, Mrs. Davis assured reporters she would be able to leave the hospital to testify as a defense witness during her husband's trial on murder solicitation charges. Davis is being tried here on charges of attempting to hire a "hit man" to kill the judge who was presiding over his divorce proceedings.

FLOWERS ALL AROUND - Black American civil rights leader Rev. Jesse Jackson offers flowers to an unindentified patient Thursday at the American University in Beirut, Lebanon. The bouquets of flowers Jackson received during his stay

Jackson Meets With Arafat

After Release From Hospital Jesse Jackson met with Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat on Thursday, seven hours after being released from a hospital where he was treated for a stomach ailment. Leftist sources said said Arafat met with the Palestine Liberation Organization Executive Committee before going into the session with the American black activist. The report could not be confirmed immediately.

Jackson, Arafat and his aides were rushed into a small conference room bedecked with photographs of the guerrilla leader and one of the Iranian Arafat and Jackson posed for photographers but made no comments.

Jackson was expected to seek a "document" from Arafat, outlining basic PLO objectives. He wants the PLO to renounce terrorism and repudiate clauses in its charter calling for the destruction of Israel and the establishment of a secular democratic state.

The civil rights activist and his 17member delegation had planned to leave Beirut for the United States on Thursday, but on Wednesday, Jackson, suffering from what he said was a case of food to cancel a meeting with Arafat. But Arafat came to the hospital and the two chatted.

Jackson advocates American and Israeli contacts with the PLO and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Davan has hinted Israel might talk with the PLO to find a solution to the Palestinian refugee problem. But Dayan has attached conditions to the proposal that are unacceptable to Arafat

PLO sources say the Jackson meeting with Arafat is not likely to result in any major changes in PLO policy because revisions could not be made without the approval of the 390-member Palestine National Council. But the meetings and Arafat's pledge

Jackson arrived here Wednesday from Damascus where he met Syrian President Hafez Assad, and brought him a message of reconciliation from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, whom he met earlier this week. The official Syrian news agency said

Assad reiterated Sadat had "deviated from Arab ranks and that the Camp David accords and the subsequent Egyptian-Israeli treaty of surrender ... create an obstacle to peace.

Like most Arab leaders, Assad has been feuding with Sadat since the Egyptian president launched his unilateral peace initiative with Israel 23 months Jackson, who began his Mideast trip Sept. 24 and has been snubbed by Israeli leaders, has said he hopes to report to President Carter on his findings. But Ambassador Robert Strauss, America's chief Mideast mediator, said there were no ties between Jackson and the Carter Talking to reporters in Miami about Jackson's Mideast travels, Strauss said, "Jesse Jackson does not represent this government, he does not speak for the United States, for the president, for the secretary of state or for me.'

The New York Times, quoting American and Israeli sources in Israel, reported Carter attempted to persuade Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to see Jackson when he was in Israel. But a spokesman for Begin denied the report.

Sadat and Assad provided private planes for the Jackson delegation which is paying its own travel costs.

Nixon Decides Against Move To Condominium

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second time in two months, former President Richard Nixon has withdrawn from an agreement to buy a Manhattan apartment in the face of protests from his would-be neighbors.

Scott Mollen, an attorney for a prospective seller, confirmed Thursday that Nixon had changed his mind, but refused to speculate on the former presi-

However, other lawyers familiar with the terlants' protests said that Nixon was dissuaded from buying a 12-room, $925,000 condominium after residents went to Manhattan Supreme Court to block the sale. The residents said in court papers that the activities of Nixon's Secret Service guards would be a "nuisance" and would violate condominium bylaws. Nixon signed a contract Aug. 9 to buy the apartment of Abraham Hirschfeld, a millionaire Democrat and some-time office seeker who made his fortune in parking garages.

Mollen said reports that Nixon would lose the $92,500 deposit made on the condominium were "irresponsible," and he refused further comment Dr. Harold P. Diamond, a plastic surgeon who has a ground-floor office in the building, stressed at the time the suit was filed that residents had no hard feelings against Nixon personally. "No one is objecting that he is moving in," the doctor said. "The objection is simply to the probable interference with peace and tranquility. On. Aug. 2, Nixon backed out of an $750,000 deal for a co-op apartment after some residents of that building objected, citing security problems and publicity that would come along with the former president Nixon has sold his estate at San Clemente, Calif. He has expressed a desire to move either to New York City or Connecticut so he can be near his daughter, Tricia Nixon Cox.

BUSINESS MEETING - The South Plains Chapter of the Texas Association of Business held a luncheon meeting Thursday at the Hilton Inn to hear an address by Charles A. Kothe, founding dean of the O. W. Business Meeting Speaker Views Leadership

Charles A. Kothe, founding dean of the O. W. Coburn School of Law, Oral Roberts University, told a luncheon meeting of the Texas Association of Business at the Hilton Inn Thursday that the crisis of leadership in the nation cannot be alleviated by looking either to government or to labor unions.

While citing an axiom that "labor unions only fill the vacuums which management create," Kothe acknowledged that problems facing the economy and business are real

"I am astonished at the amount of literature by respectable authorities who take a very dim view of our future as a society," he told the Lubbock business-

As an example, he quoted a recent comment by Barry Goldwater, which said, "Unless we get this country in hand and unless we get this government in hand and cut out all this bureaucratic control, I think our time is short. I think five. . I'll give it 10. . .but I think our country is headed down the long tube until somebody has the guts to stand up and say, 'Look, American people, here's where we are, and I'm not fooling'.

Kothe finds a common thread of hope throughout all the assessments of the nation's future, "even that of the doomsdayers."

He said the one hope they hold out is that we may possibly uncover an able

"Now, where is this person, this superman, this identity that is going to come forward in our times and lead us out of all this programmed collision course with disaster?" Kothe asked his

He said it definitely is not from government. "We are suffering from a convulsion and glut of government. A recent study concludes that our government paperwork costs our society $100 billion annually just to process the paper to keep up with the programs."

He said the answer does not lie in the labor unions. "These self-appointed seers and repository of solutions to all social ills are not as outspoken at this moment.

Kothe told the businessmen, "Labor, which is beefing up its coffers to use the We have available to us a knowgovernment arm as a part of their contribution to a solution, is certainly a cue to you to do what you say, 'get in politics or get out of business.' We can't sit idly by and allow this kind of leadership to function in the market place without matching it in kind and exceeding it in substance.

Kothe asked, "Where, then, do we look? I submit that we start to look to ourselves. It's time for everyone to examine what contributions he or she is making to the solutions of the problem, instead of just magnifying the complicated dilemma.

He said the one great untapped resource in the United States today is knowledge.

Most people complain that we don't have any power, he said. "Power, they say, is now in the hands of labor. The pendulum will swing someday and will be in the hands of people again.

"Anytime you hear anyone talking in terms of power swinging like a pendulum, you are talking to someone who hasn't any concept of what power is. Power doesn't swing like a pendulum,'

He said there is more retrivable knowledge available to the nation today than at any other time in human history.

Right where you are, you can excercise knowledge to get results that I believe can hedge against the predictions.

"One thing that has not been outlawed in this whole process, is the capability of conveying the truth."

Kothe said, "Notwithstanding all the prophets of gloom, notwithstanding all the examples we have in Britain, I think the destiny of America and the fulfillment of the American dream depends on how we use our knowledge power — with responsibility and authority, and particulary how we improve our human relationships as a fellowship of con-

The slender, dark-haired defendant disavowed at once his friendship with his chief accuser. David McCrory, and indicated he had no motive to kill a divorce judge and others.

Davis contradicted the state's key witness in several critical areas and seemed both calm and confident as he responded to questions by his crafty counsel, Richard Haynes. "Has he deviated at all from his earlier testimony," a reporter asked Chief Prosecutor Jack Strickland, referring to Davis' first murder solicitation trial in Houston "No," Strickland deadpanned.

"Would you deviate if you were looking at 5 to 99 years or life?" Davis, 46, is accused specifically of inducing McCrory last year to arrange JOURDANTON, Texas (AP) - State troopers may be unpopular among Atascosa County officials after a crackdown on drunken driving, but the officers gained near unanimous support at a meeting on the controversy sponsored by Hispanics.

We called this meeting because we feel DPS has been doing an outstanding job cracking down on DWIs (drunken drivers)," said Jose Torres, head of the county chapter of the League of United Latin American Citizens About 100 persons attended the Wednesday night public meeting.

"If we allow social or political status to determine who abides by the law, our community is in trouble," said Torres. He claimed he spoke for the majority of county residents.

We have been advised to sell the stocks and put that money in a high-yield mutual fund. Do you think this is wise? The savings certificate matures next week. Should we renew it?

A. The two stocks you named in your letter have done exceptionally well over the past several years. Even though their market prices are now down a bit, you should realize big profits by selling them if you have held them for any length of time.

Both of them, however, pay low dividends in relation to their market prices. Assuming you want more income and don't want to be worried about big price swings in the stock market, you should sell those stocks and put your money to work in something less volatile and with a higher yield.

The fund that has been recommended to you fills that bill. But so do a number of other investments. Look around, before you park that $30,000 in anything for the long term.

A Your accountant

When you buy a marketable bond at a "premium" - above par or "face" value - and hold it to maturity, you receive the par value when the bond matures. The difference between the higher price you paid and the par value you receive at maturity is a capital loss. You report it as such on your income tax re-

INVESTORS' GUIDE Pioneer Sees Alcohol As Fuel

By Mark Potts

NEW YORK (AP) — To Francisco
Barros, the United States' first tentative experiments with an alcohol-gasoline mixture are nothing. Barros heads a Brazilian firm that hopes to have many of that nation's cars running on pure alcohol in five years.

'It's an ambitious program, but very serious," says Barros.

Brazil is a pioneer among world na-tions in the use of alcohol for motor fuel. The South American nation introduced a mixture of 20 percent alcohol and 80 percent gasoline three years ago as a way of lessening its dependence on oil imports. Eighty percent of the oil used by Brazil is imported. Last year, oil imports totaled $7 billion, half the nation's total import bill.

"If we can produce our own energy, that can make a big difference," Barros said. "We must have another ource of

That source is Brazil's extensive sugar cane fields. The cane is converted to alcohol, which is mixed with gasoline or used alone as motor fuel - at a price several cents below Brazil's current $1.80 a gallon gasoline price."

The firm Barros is president of, Brasalcool, was set up by the Brazilian government to act as an agent in developing the nation's alcohol and gasohol program. It is to act as a go-between, linking farmers who produce the sugar cane used to make alcohol with distilleries that produce the substance. It will also provide technological assistance to farmers and distillers.

"We are the catalyst of this process," he said. The program may also have an important side benefit to the Brazilian economy. By stepping up production of sugar, it will hopefully increase employment of the migrant workers that harvest the crop. Many of the workers now work only half the year.

Barros, 43, is well-suited to the post at Brasalcool he took in March. Trained, as an engineer, he spent four years as secretary of public works and environment in the Brazilian state of Sao Paulo, where the gasohol program was started. Before that, he held executive positions with Volkswagen's Brazilian subsidiary

He uses both those experiences in his auto producers in Brazil to develop cars that can use alcohol as fuel. "The auto-mobile contacts are helpful," he said. "It's nice to be back in that."

He recently negotiated with Brazilian automakers, including Fiat, Volkswagen, General Motors and Ford, to produce 300,000 cars next year that will run entirely on alcohol and to step up produc-tion in coming ars so that Brazil can sub-stitute alcohol for half its gasoline consumption by 1985.

But Brazil's plans for gasohol and alcohol wouldn't work for the United States, according to Barros. Although ga-sohol is gaining some favor in the United stations across the nation, and several major oil companies have begun pilot programs to produce the fuel — experts dont expect it to to ever play a major role in U.S. energy.

That's because the alcohol used to make gasohol in the United States comes from corn, and making alcohol. from corn is far more expensive and less efficient than making it from sugar cane which cannot be grown in most of the

But sugar cane can be grown in many tropical climates, and as a result, Bra-zil's program has aroused the interest of national areas, such as Africa, Indu and the Phillipines, in our program Barros said. And because Brazil me eventually produce more alcohol than can use, it may find itself exporting e

Before it reaches that point, though, Brazil must fill its own energy needs, and Barros says the Brazilian govern-ment's commitment to alcoholcould play a significant role in doing so.

"We feel in all the levels of govern-ment, and in private industry, enthusi-asm about this," he said. "We believe in

Gold Prices Dip, Dollar Strengthens

By The Associated Press

Gold prices dropped more than $20 an ounce and the dollar strengthened Thursday as rumors circulated that the U.S. government plans to announce a dollar-support program over the week-

Gold, which sold at $444 an ounce in Europe on Tuesday, plunged to $380.50 in London and $384 in Zurich, and kept on falling in New York to $370 an ounce.

"It's an incredible market," commented a Frankfurt trader. "It's the

"All these rumors that are flying around shot the price down," added Bob Rice, a gold trader with New York's Republic National Bank.

Gold had closed Wednesday at $401 in London, $404.50 in Zurich and $393.50 in New York, where trading continues after European markets close.

A London currency dealer said the dollar got its first upward impetus Thursday from the continued drop in the gold price. But for most of the day, traders said, the dollar was pushed upward on speculation over possible announcement during the weekend of measures to strengthen it.

The dollar began rising Tuesday, at the same time gold began dropping, on rumors of dollar-support measures. Those reports strengthened Thursday, despite an absence of announcements in Washington.

"Rumor has translated a possible package into a package that's waiting to be announced," said a New York foreign exchange trader

There was speculation such a package would include an increase in the U.S. discount rate — the rate banks pay to borrow from the Federal Reserve to 111/2 percent from the current 11 percent, and a coordinated policy with other central banks to intervene in currency markets.

The foreign exchange market shrugged off the announcement Thursday that wholesale prices in the United States rose 1.4 percent in September, the largest monthly increase in nearly five

"The market had been psychologicalprepared for anything between 1 and .5 percent, and therefore 1.4 didn't do any harm," said a New York trader.

The dollar had fallen sharply last week and on Monday against European currencies and reached a record low against the West German mark Tuesday before rebounding as the rumors spread

The dollar dropped sharply Thursday in Tokyo, where it had been advancing even as it slipped against European cur rencies. It closed at 223.55 Japanese yen. down from 225.475 yen at Wednesday's close. In New York, the dollar slipped to 223.15 yen from 223.98 Wednesday.

"Nervous exporters stepped in during the day to unload earnings, fearing the dollar may go down if the yen is strengthened through the raising of the (Japanese) discount rate," commented a Tokyo banker.

Late rates for the dollar in key European financial centers, compared with Wednesday's late rates, were: Frank-

Commercial Law Permitting China To Trade With U.S.

PEKING (AP) - China took a big step into the world of international finance Thursday in hopes of attracting foreign money and know-how, signing a contract with a U.S. company for $150 million over three years.

The E-S Pacific Corp. of San Bruno, Calif., and Cleveland, Ohio, signed a contract for joint ventures, the first of its kind here, with the China International Trust and Investment Corp. - a government corporation created for this purpose under a new commercial law.

The law, passed last July by the National Peoples' Congress, permits foreign firms and the Chinese corporation to fund jointly projects in China, and split the profits.

China also has signed initial joint venture agreements with three other rms - two American and one said Rong Yiren, chairman of the government corporation, which was founded Thursday and held its first meeting.

Details of the E-S contract were not revealed but Rong told a news conference the firm agreed to invest $50 million for three consecutive years on ventures in China. He said the three other firms did not want to be identified but their total investment would be about $30 million.

The People's Republic launched its joint investment program in an effort to Working with capitalist countries at one time would have been unthinkable in a country that denounced the bourgeoisie and lived by Chairman Mao Tsetung's words, "self-reliance." Now, however, the political winds have changed and China is admitting it needs all the foreign help it can get to become a modern socialist country.

The new law answers some of the questions of foreign investors. It guarantees them the right to take part of their profits home in hard currency.

Rong said E-S is "entrusting us to invest $50 million annually over three years. They are chiefly interested in joint ventures and compensation trade.'

He said the corporation, and investment company, "has asked us to make contacts for them in China," but gave no More than 100 foreign firms have investment projects in the China-Pacific area and said the new Chinese corporation "is off to a very good start, behaving like the very best of American companies." Sung decline to discuss details of the agreement.

Many details of the commercial law, like taxation, are not clear and China is drafting supplemental regulations for foreign investment.

The Chinese corporation is capitalized by the government at 200 million vuan - about $150 million. It will use this money plus that put up by foreign firms to fund projects in China and split the profits with foreign firms. China is interested in projects that

Companies To Disclose Effects Of Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) - Major companies will be required next year to disclose the effect on inflation on their profits - a change that is expected to result in much lower profit figures for many firms, it was announced Thursday.

The rules, released by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, were praised as "a very good step forward" by Clarence Sampson, the chief accountant of the Securities and Exchange Commission, but he said he was disappointed that a key section will be delayed for a year.

The rules, which will apply to an estimated 1,200 large companies, will not require changes in basic financial reports. But they will require supplements to those reports, showing in two ways the effect of inflation.

"Business has been torn between speaking of record profits and at the same time saying inflation has been affecting them," FASB Chairman Donald Kirk said in an interview Thursday. "It's nice to say your profits are a record, but underneath those profits are inflated

The inflation-adjusted figures will show lower profits or even losses for most companies, said Michael Cohen. the project manager for the FASB which is the accounting profession's rulemaking organization. "Very high-technology companies, where the cost of production is actually declining, might show profit increases, he said. "I don't expect there would be many of them.' Accountants have long been concerned that in times of high inflation profits are substantially overstated, because the cost of items used in manufacturing are shown at the historic cost, which may be much lower than the cost of replacing those items. That is particularly true of plants and equipment bought many years before. In addition, the normal financial reports do not reflect the fact that money held for a year declines in value. The principal dispute over inflation accounting has been not over the need for it but over which of two methods current cost or constant dollar - to use The FASB settled that by requiring both to be used, although the current-cost method will be delayed for a year.

Florida's Caucuses Becoming Sore Spots For Democratics

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Like party leaders have had to change plans Frankenstein's monster, which turned on its maker, the Florida Democratic Party's county caucuses Oct. 13 have become a major source of grief for party

Although they started out as only one step toward the mid-November Democratic State Convention, the 67 county caucuses have become a closely watched presidential battleground pitting President Carter's re-election campaigners against the backers of his undeclared rival, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

More than 50,000 Democrats are expected at the caucuses to elect 879 state convention delegates. Along with 838 delegates named by party leaders and elected officials, they will vote in the convention's nonbinding presidential straw ballot Nov. 18

Believing the straw vote may have a psychological effect, backers of Carter and Kennedy are spending thousands of dollars trying to push their own delegates. But the delegate candidates are identified only by their own names not by those of whom they're backing and some candiates are backing neither Carter nor Kennedy.

Carter did gain early attention in the straw vote prior to the 1976 election by coming out ahead of then-Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, an old southern fa-

However, there will be no other real prize in the caucuses or straw vote because Florida's delegates to the 1980 National Democratic Convention will be chosen in the March 11, 1980, primary. Thus mny state leaders are convinced an undeserved emphasis has ben placed n the seemingly trivial caucuses.

lost sight of the real reason we are having the caucuses and convention — to formulate our platform and build our party," says state Democratic Chairman Alfredo Duran of Miami. "That's all been lost in the shuffle. It started with the press but everybody's gotten into it. It's become an important part of the Carter campaign and the draft-Kennedy campaign.

Adds Democratic State Committeewoman Ann M. Cramer of Miramar: 'The person who wins here isn't winning anything."

Even so, the caucuses have become the first presidential testing ground and

JET ENGINE OVERHEATS

WASHINGTON (AP) - An overheated left engine generator prompted an unscheduled landing here Thursday by a United Airlines jet, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said. Fred Farrar said the Boeing 737 was en route from Newark, N.J., to Atlanta, to accomodate the huge crowds they expect. The 1977 caucuses drew about 10.-000 persons. Party leaders expect 50,000 to 80,000 this time.

Smaller counties still plan to hold a true caucus, with one meeting where delegates will be elected. But larger counties have moved to an election format. Voters will be bused by each camp to a single polling place where they will wait, perhaps for hours, and vote for delegates from what one critic calls

Deciphering the ballots won't be easy because they will only list the names of potential delegates, not their presidential preference. Dade County alone - Miami and its suburbs - has almost 900 candidates for 188 delegate slots. Votecounting may take several days.

Both camps are offering slates in almost all counties, but so are other groups, such as local teachers unions, anti-abortion forces and the AFL-CIO. which has a nominally uncommitted

The struggle began months ago when some Democratics who were the mainstay of Carter's 1976 Florida campaign broke with Carter over disagreements on "It's an important process but we've patronage, policy and leadership ques-

Led by Democratic National Committeeman Sergio Bendixen and Dade County Chairman Mike Abrams, both of Miami, they set up a draft-Kennedy campaign. Their first goal was to embarrass Carter on the straw ballot at the St. Petersburg convention and hope that a strong Kennedy showing would entice the senator into the race.

In order to do that, the Kennedy forces planned on making a very strong showing in the caucuses to offset the overwhelming edge Carter will have among the so-called "automatics," who will be appointed by local leaders aligned with the president.

The Carter campaign, run by former Interior Department executive and political science professor Jay Hakes, gradually shifted its focus from preparing for the primary to meeting the caucus chal-

Since late August, Carter has visited the state and dispatched his wife, his mother and a bevy of top aides like Press Secretary Jody Powell and Mideast envoy Robert Strauss.

The Carter camp's $200,000 effort. which has solid backing from Gov. Bob Graham and every other major Florida Democrat, put the Kennedy forces on the defensive and has kept up the pres-Bendixen and Lewis charge that par-

Ex-Grass Roots Singer Doing Well With Help Of Backups

LOS ANGELES (AP) - If the superstars in Fleetwood Mac ever get tired of being among the top pop groups in the country, they have a great future as a backup band.

This past year alone, they've already played midwife to hits by the likes of Walter Egan and John Stewart. Now they bring us Rob Grill, who thought his music-making days were behind him when "Sugar," has barely been released, but it already has attracted considerable attention if only because it was producepitched in to record it during an all-night session.

"It was every kid's Disneyland, coming at the age of 35," says Grill, still euphoric at the memory of the session which ended in a drunken celebration.

"I said to (Fleetwood Mac guitarist) Lindsey Buckingham, Where's the cereal box that had the coupon in it?' And Linsey said, 'What coupon? "And I said, 'The one that says fill out this coupon and mail it in and if you win Fleetwood Mac will take you into the studio and record your song - and not only that, it will turn For Grill, "Rock Sugar" is a second chance at a performing career he stumbled into almost by chance and then was reluctantly forced to abandon when the Grass Roots suffered the fate of so many Top 40 bands of the late '60s and early '70s. It's not for nothing that the solo album containing "Rock Sugar" is called "Uprooted." A Hollywood native, Grill was selling newspaper subscriptions door-to-door to put himself through Cal State-L.A. when a songwriting client who had heard him crooning to the radio asked him to sing some of his songs for a recording company. I went down and sang, they rejected the songs and signed me to a recording deal," Grill recalls. That was in 1966, and several months later Grill auditioned for the Grass Roots, who were looking for a new bassist-lead singer.

'I did pretty well — I got the job," he cracks

Grass Roots had a total of 28 singles that made the record charts and nine gold records, songs like "Midnight Confes-"Live for Today" and "Sooner or Later.

But by 1976 the group was pretty well played out. "Not that I was bored, but people were dropping beer cans at my feet during the show," he says. Grill persisted with a semi-solo effort released under the name Rob Grill and the Grass Roots, but that didn't do too well either. So he started managing. His first client was yet another reincarnation of the Grass Roots, minus himself

Then I took over the Association. Then a lot of these people who had groups at the same time as the Grass Roots were happening started hearing what I was doing and started coming to me. I was sending out Steppenwolf and Iron Butterfly you've heard those names.

I was making really good money, but I was not happy, he says. "I couldn't get it out of my system. I loved an audience. I wanted to go out on the road.

Grill's disatisfacton communicated itself to McVie, a good friend and fishing buddy

'And he said, 'I'm going to get you out of the office. I'm going to take you down to the studio and cut you a demo so you can go out and try to get a record deal.

The next thing Grill knew, he was asking Buckingham about cereal box coupons. But he's well aware that Fleetwood Mac or no Fleetwood Mac, he'll eventually have to stand or fall on his own merits

"I love being able to have the shot that Fleetwood Mac gave me. I don't think the record's good just because Fleetwood Mac played it," he says, noting that the Mac gang doesn't have much to do with the rest of "Uprooted."

'All I can say is, listen to the album. I think my music's going to prove itself.

SECOND CAREER - Singer Rob Grill was a member of the rock group "Grass Roots" in the 1960s that like many other bands of the time were forced to abandon their careers when their music lost favor. Today he has recorded a single record, "Rock Sugar," that's fast climbing the charts. Part of the success comes from his backup music furnished by the group 'Fleetwood Mac.' (AP Laserphoto)

Gin, Tonic Considered Bad Fuel For Pilots

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - While drinking and flying airplanes are not particularly compatible, the Navy says the combination is especially dangerous if the drink is a gin and tonic - mainly because of the tonic

A Navy doctor said Wednesday there is evidence the quinine in tonic water can upset equilibrium and produce night blindness, blurred vision, double vision and abnormal color vision.

Lawrence of Arabia crashed his mo-

Capt. M.J. Dunne, a Navy doctor with Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, said there are clear indications that even low doses of quinine can impair equilibrium and interfere with vision effects that could be disastrous for jet pilots who suffer some normal disorientation in flight anyway.

Dunne said the suspected quinine effects are not as dangerous for people on the ground.

People on the ground aren't doing right banks or making deep dives. They generally keep their heads in one position and don't stimulate their equilibrium systems like pilots do," he said.

The Naval Safety Center in Norfolk has issued an alert that suggest pilots rfrain from tonic drinks before flying while more studies are conducted over the next six months The Army, however, has gone farther. It insists Army pilots who have taken quinine beverages as frequently as every other day be grounded for 72 hours before they fly again.

The Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, in Washington, came up with the preliminary findings about quinine and plans more studies to find out such

THE TIMELESS TERRACES

OF BANAUE

Banaue's rice terraces may be the longest-lived agricultural project in history. Banaue is a town in the Philippines, some 200 miles north of Manila, in the homeland of the Ifuagaos who began to build the terraces by hand more than 3,000 years ago. Over the centuries the building has continued—and today's generation of farmers carry on the endless work. By this time the terraces cover an area of 400 square miles—if they were placed end-to-end they'd stretch more than half-way around the Banaue, population 23,000, sits at 4,000 feet above sea level and has an average year-round temperature of between 60 and 70 degrees. The Ifuagaos start their rice planting in February.

Man Spends Vacations On Storybook Journeys

DALLAS (AP) - If running the route of the original Olympic marathon, diving for Spanish artifacts, or successfully completing a two-mile swim that killed a character in Greek mythology sounds like a nice way to spend your vacation, talk to Ernest Mantz

The 58-year-old Dallas resident has completed all of those storybook adventures - as well as other enterprising undertakings - during yearly sabbaticals from his industrial design

Mantz's current vacation plans include a crash course on European wines from German vinyard experts and a gruelling trip down the swift white waters of Ethiopia's Omo River. The once-a-year explorer doesn't know exactly why he undertakes sometimes dangerous projects, but he's never short of offers for new adventures.

"Now I'm on everybody's mailing list," Mantz said. "So I'm being invited to do things like this Omo trip.

Many of Mantz's trips during the past 18 to 20 years resemble fleeting visions that most only read about.

"I read a book by Richard Halliburton, who graduated from Princeton during the great economic depression of the '30s," Mantz said. "He went around the world doing unusual things, all terrifically interesting.

Mantz soon will leave on his whirlwind journey, which will include running a marathon at an annual German Mardi Grastype celebration, exploring Egyptian pyramids - "I once heard they were a tourist trap" - and traveling by raft through crocodile-infested jungles of northeast Africa.

Mantz said his trips to the outskirts of civilization represent an idea expressed by Camus, the French writer and philosopher - "When life gets boring, risk it."

The certified diver, often accompanied by his wife and son, has explored the wreckage of a World War II Japanese fleet, a sunken Spanish galleon off the coast of British Honduras and a sacred "cenote" - a natural water well where the ancient Mayans of Central America were believed to have offered sacrifices to their gods.

"It wasn't as romantic as it sounds," Mantz said. "It was murky and muddy and you couldn't see anything. You just took a huge vacuum which swept up everything from the bot-

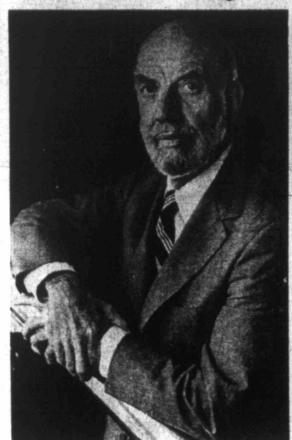

Diving for buried artifacts for 10 days was hard work, Mantz insisted. "We'd start very early ... living in hammocks," he said. "Lunch would always be ... scrambled eggs, tortillas, jalapeno peppers, fresh fish and a liter of water at a temperature of about 100 degrees.

Last summer, Mantz successfully completed a two-mile swim at Hellespont, a treacherous passage from Turkey's Black Sea where legend says the Greek warrior Leander drowned while trying to paddle to Hero, his mythological lov-

"The distance is only two miles, but the current is so swift it's like swimming four miles," Mantz said.

During the American Bicentennial weekend of July 4, 1976, Mantz flew to Athens and ran the original Olympic marathon

He also has climbed the Matterhorn, bicycled through Ireland and visited the Basque region of Spain to run with the bulls of Pamplona - an event made famous by the writings of Mantz said the unusual vacation activities help him keep one of his primary goals - staying in shape. "I like to keep myself in good physical shape," he said. "I run all the time. Despite his list of adventurous accomplishments, Mantz still has several trips that he plans to make: Climbing Mount McKinley, floating down other rapid rivers throughout the world and traveling into remote areas of China.

Famous Drama Coach's Return To Acting Sparks Many Offers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - After a lapse of 45 years, Lee Strasberg returned to acting in "The Godfather" more or less

He recalls: "I figured that it was a small part and if I was bad in it, nobody would care too much. If I was good, the results might be interesting. I must say that I was completely unprepared for what happened.'

The result was an Academy nomina tion for his performance as the grandfatherly gangster and more acting offers than he could handle. The most famous drama coach in America, he finds himself at 77 a much-in-demand character

He has made three films back-toback: "Boardwalk," "...And Justice for All" with Al Pacino; "Going in Style" with George Burns.

"...And Justice for All" is a Columbia movie by Norman Jewison, and it is expected to set the legal profession on its ear. Pacino plays an attorney trying to cope with the venality of the court system, Strasberg is his wise grandfather. The relationship should be convincing, since Strasberg is the mentor of Pacino's acting career.

Ironically, Pacino is responsible for the revival of his teacher's career as an actor. Strasberg related the events in warm style at his Brentwood home, a rambling countrified place adjacent to the San Diego Freeway.

Born in Austria-Hungary, Strasberg came to America as a teenager, made his acting debut in 1924.

"I gave up acting in 1929," he remarked. "Only once did I return - in 1936 at the Group Theater, of which I was a founder. We were staging a oneact play by Clifford Odets and had no one to fill a role. So I stepped in." At the Group and later with the Ac-

Mafia heir in "The Godfather," he launched a low key campaign for Strasberg to play a mob elder in the mold of Meyer Lansky. Francis Ford Coppola had approached another director, Elia

Kazan, who declined. "Al didn't push for me," said Strasberg. "When Coppola decided on someone else to play the part, he asked Al, What do you think?' Al said, 'He's all right, but I still think you should consider Strasberg."

Pacino maneuvered Coppola into attending a New York benefit for the Actor's Studio. That same night a party was being held for "The Godfather cast, and Strasberg was invited to attend. There he met Coppola's sister, Talia Shire, who told him, "I studied with you five years ago.

"You were being set up," comment ed Strasberg's ebullient wife, Anna. "Yes, I guess I was," said Strasberg. But so was Coppola.

I asked Strasberg if he had learned anything new about actors' problems since rejoining the profession.

"No, my own acting has only confirmed what I have thought all along. I was trying to explain this to Barbra Streisand last night. My recent experiences have made me realize that the processes of movie making interrupt what an actor is doing. The answer to that is that his technique must be sounder, so he can surmount the technical aspects and devote his afternoon to his performance.

"My first scene in 'The Godfather' was a moving shot in which I had to hit my marks and say my lines. The cameraman told me, 'Don't worry about hitting the marks; just walk naturally and we'll stop when you do.' I never worried about technical matters after that."

Tech Should Gag 'Em Aggies

IT'S LIKE REX DOCKERY mentioned following football practice

It doesn't take much to get the Texas Tech football squad fired up this week. All the Red Raiders need to know is that the Aggies are coming to town and that always seems to do the trick.

Yes, those lovable Aggies will be in town Saturday to resume their 52year-old rivalry with the Techsans. Pride is expected to be one of the most dominant factors in deciding the outcome of the Southwest Conference en-

Tech and A&M are two teams at the crossroads of the 1979 season. The outcome of Saturday's battle at Jones Stadium will likely send each team in the direction it will follow the remainder of the season.

Both the Red Raiders and Aggies are 0-1 in conference action - both schools lost to the upstart Baylor Bears. That is the reason this game is so important to each team. Another loss in SWC action practically eliminates the loser from the Cotton Bowl chase.

One of Dockery's three conference losses in 1978 came at the hands of the Aggies, 38-9. That was before the Red Raiders turned things around and won six of their last seven games to finish at 7-4. You can bet the Red Raiders haven't forgotten that lopsided A&M victory of a year ago, which won't make matters any easier for the Aggies Saturday night.

THE AGGIES ALSO HAVE an ace in the hole this year because they ramble into Lubbock with former Tech great Tom Wilson in the driver's seat — I don't mean driving the team bus, I mean calling the plays!

There is nothing in the world that Wilson would love to do more Saturday evening than have his Aggies whip up on Tech in front of $0,000-plus screaming Red Raider fans. That would be the greatest of all homecomings and you can bet again that will be Wilson's theme for Dockery and Tech.

Tech has been very similar to a professional baseball player fighting his way out of a long hitting slump so far this season. No matter what Tech tries, it just seems to get worse or not help at all. It's been very frustrating for the coaches, the players and the fans.

But any good baseball coach will tell you the only way to end a batting slump is to ride it out. Here I go again, but I truly believe Tech has done enough riding out this year to last an eternity. That slump has run its course and that old home run swing is waiting to be tested.

NOW I CAN'T TELL you whether the Red Raiders will go five-for-five of only two-for-five, but there will be a few base hits - and not just sin-

Tech is going to pull out of its dive someday soon — it's just a matter of picking the correct Saturday. As far as I am concerned, this Saturday is

Yes, Tech is my favorite. Lubbock will be rockin' after the Red Raiders send the Aggies back to College Station humming that boring battle hymn.

Oh, you want a score? How about Tech 21-A&M 17? Boy, I had a great week of predictions last week. There were six games involving SWC squads and I correctly picked two of them. Let's see - that gives me 15 of 25 for a winning percentage of .600. I look at it this way, it may not be that hot of a percentage as far as predicting goes, but it would win either major league batting titles.

BAYLOR AT HOUSTON Sorry Grant, this is where Lady Luck jumps off the bandwagon and lets you Bears try to win one for yourselves. You'll find it won't be easy.

The Cougars are some mean cats and they have no intentions of allow ing Baylor to sneak up on them like they did A&M and Tech. Houston by 17 points

ARKANSAS AT TEXAS CHRISTIAN Those of Horned Frogs made the Southwest Conference look real tough last week. You may have forgotten, but they lost to Texas-Arlington, a real football powerhouse

Arkansas is one of those teams that makes the conference look darn good because it is undefeated so far in 1979 and there is little chance of that changing in Fort Worth Saturday

Arkansas moves into the Top Ten and TCU remains in the Bottom Ten. The Razorbacks by 21 points.

RICE AT TEXAS

Rice is calling this game and the past two contests with Oklahoma and Louisiana State it's murderer's row. I've got to believe the Owls could line up three consecutive games with Bovina, Lazbuddie and Turkey and call them murderer's row.

We know the Owls won't score any points against that tough-as-a-boot Longhorn defense. The only question is how many points will the UT of fense ring up. The answer -28. Texas by 28 points over Rice.

Foreigner Takes Lead At Texas Open Tourney

Englishman Peter Oosterhuis, who has surprising missed the cut in his last three tournaments, fired a 5-under-par 65 Thursday and took a one-stroke lead over Gibby Gilbert and Doug Tewell after thr first. At least I won't have to worry about the round of the $250,000 Texas Open. The 6-foot-5 Oosterhuis collected four birdies in his first nine holes for a 31 and had two birdies and a bogey for a 34 on his back nine.

He was admittedly surprised about being in first place.

ABILENE (Special) - Five members of the Texas Tech women's tennis team begin play here today in the Abilene Halloween Tournament. Coach Mickey Bowes had planned on more participants but three top Raiders will not be making the trip.

Becky Gerken and Jill Crutchfield will compete in the singles championship flight division while Cathy Stringer, Lesley Romley are entered in the other singles action.

Other schools competing in the open tournament are McMurry, Hardin-Simmons, Angelo State and Midladnd Col-

My problem is I've been having a bad first round and then having to battle back. Tommorrow I can just fire way.

Buddy Gardner fired a 67 and was two strokes behind Oosterhuis.

Coronado Wins On Field Goal

Mustangs Nip Palo Duro

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff It was a game Coronado was destined to lose - but didn't.

For most of the 48 minutes Thursday night, the Mustangs tried their best to hand Amarillo Palo Duro a high school football win on a silver platter. But either the Dons didn't realize what was going on or Coronado was just setting up their guests for a real heart-breaker:

In this instance, it was the latter of the two possibilities as Coronado came away with an exciting 9-7 victory over Palo Duro when Ricky Melvin booted a 21-yard field goal with 13 seconds left on the Lowrey Field clock

CHS had been favored to win by two touchdowns, but the two points suited them just fine.

Trailing 7-6 with 4:25 left in the cor test, the Mustangs took the ball on their own 24 and marched to the PDHS four before the 16-play march bogged down.

Perhaps the biggest play in the drive came on a third-and-11 situation from the CHS 23. Facing a certain passing play, quarterback Alan Harp dropped back and spotted end Abel Castro coming across the middle.

The only problem was defensive back

Troy Headings hit Castro before Harp's pass did. The interference call gave CHS a first down on the Mustang's 40-yard-line. From that point, Harp scrambled for 13 yards, Roland Boswell carried for 12 more and four plays later Harp again

"I thought we showed a lot of character with that drive," said CHS head coach Jack Quarles. "We didn't pa we just moved the ball down the field like we're supposed to I would have liked to have had the ball in the center of the field a little bit more. But we weren't able to get it there.

But in this case, Quarles was happy

Most of the pleasant-fall night, Co-ronado blew golden opportunites to score. For example, prior to the gamewinning march, Coronado took over with 6:25 left in the game on its own 43.

The Mustangs moved down to the 38 be-fore Dane Boyles fumbled the ball away to Palo Duro's Don Preston.

But the Coronado defense failed to give up a first down to the Dons following the turnover, thus giving the offense one more try. This time, they didn't Coronado had the ball on the 14, facing a fourth-and-one at that point. But what happened? Phil Gilmore dropped Boyles for a one-yard loss and Palo Duro took

"We did a lot of things wrong," said Quaries. "But you can't take anything away from Palo Duro. Shoot, they looked terrible on the films we'd seen of them. But they really played us a fine,

The Ponies had managed to take a 6-0 lead with 2:30 left in the second quarter when Boyles bulled over from the one to cap a short 30-yard march. Melvin's extra-point kick was wide to the left.

Coronado had excellent field position after a Ted Anthony punt sailed only, get this, a minus three yards. The punt was certainly high, but it didn't go any-

Not to be outdone, though, the Dons thumbed their noses in the Mustangs faces after the ensuing kickoff. Palo Duro, thanks to a 41-yard pass from Anthony to Mike Wafford, marched 73 yards to score the tying TD. The score came on a nine-yard pass to end Troy Smith from Anthony. Clyde Artis booted the PAT. And with 11 seconds remaining before the homecoming festivities were

Between the two of them, Texas Tech's James Hadnot and Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey have combined for more than three miles in rushing in their coilege careers. That's 3,992 yards for the Aggie senior from Bryan and 1,932 yards for the Red Reider senior from Jasper. Dickey and Hadnot are the No. I and No. 3 rushers in the conference respectively, and the No. I and No. 3 rushers in the country. The two will meet on common ground Saturday when A&M travels to Lubbock's Jones Stadium for the 38th meeting in what has become a heated rivalry in the Southwest Conference. Dickey started the season as the seventh leading rusher in conference history and four games has passed Roosevelt Leaks, Wayne Morris. Chris Gilbert and Dickey Morfon to enter the Tech game as the third leading all-time rusher, needing just 179 more yards to pass Arkansas-ex Ben Cowins for second place. He'll then need 873 more to catch rushing king Earl Campbell who geined 4.443. Hadnot is in his second year as a runner after two seasons as a tight end. He was the SWC rushing champion in 1978 with 1,369 yards and needs only &8 more yards to become the sixth Tech runner to gain 2,000 yards, end if they come Saturday, he will have done it in only 16 games. The two hardworking runners talk about their meeting.

Q. How about the season thus far?

Hadnot- The record isn't near what we wanted, but the effort is. We are still making the mistakes at crucial times that are hurting the team. There's nobody giving up. You can see that everyone is giving the effort. I don't really know what the problem is. We just have to forget about the past and keep on working hard. We still have seven games to play in the regular season and we think we can play with anybody left on the schedule. If we start looking back, the situation might get worse.

Dickey- Those first two losses, we weren't supposed to lose them, but then we had so many fumbles and interceptions. There hasn't been a team yet that has physically out-played us. We've been in a habit of beating ourselves with the fumbles and turnovers. The Penn State win helped us forget about the losses to Brigham Young and Baylor. We went up there with the idea of winning. I think we only had one fumble and it's things like that that help you win. I guess that beating them and rushing for 184 yards made it about the best game of my career. To beat a team like that is a big thing. They are a known name team and we were the first Southwest Conference team to beat them. (Note: last SWC victory over Penn State was by TCU, 20-7, in 1954.)

Q — Is it tougher being a running back today than in the past? Hadnot—Yes, it is. Every yard you get is tough yardage because the defenses are so much better. I'm sure the other backs feel that way. The people I play against weren't real sure about me last year, but this year they know what I can do and are defensing me better. The defenses are gearing up to stop our running attack now. The easy yardage just isn't coming as much and that's part of the reason our offense is in kind of a slump now.

Dickey- It's going to get tougher every year. But if the coach calls the right plays and everybody is on the man they are supposed to be blocking, then the yards are going to come. But the yards are getting harder because of the better techniques from the defenses. They are learning more about how to defense me.

Q - How are you handling the fame and attention?

Hadnot- I like that part of it. I try to take it in stride and go on. I try not to let it bother my job because I am there to do a job. Once I've done that and the game is over with, I get in my civilian clothes and that's when I can enjoy the attention. Things like this poster they have out and the nickname "Kong don't bother me. They've been calling me that ever since I've been here. It's just that now everybody knows about it and everyone calls me that. I've had a lot of attention since moving to running back. And since it all worked out well for me, I'm happy about the change. But at the time I wasn't sure that it would and I was ready to be disappointed. It was a good move and of course I'm happy with it.

Dickey- I just take it as it comes. I'm still the same Curtis Dickey and it doesn't change me. I sure do want to win the Heisman Trophy and I like the attention but I want to win for Texas A&M first. If the team doesn't win the conference or at least go to a bowl game, I don't think there's any way I can get the Heisman. But if I don't win it, the team success would be more important to me. The publicity is fine. I have a lot of patience with the people who demand my time. I don't mind it. The whole team is behind me in things like that. They know that I think it's not just me, but the whole team.

Q — Talk about your opponent Saturday. Hadnot- I feel good about the game and it's going to be a good one. Texas A&M has a great offense with Dickey and Mosley. But you have to respect their defense. Jacob Green goes all out every single play. You watch him on film and you see that he's always around the ball. He's their big-play man. He makes things really happen for A&M. But I guess I'm most impressed with the linebacker-Doug Carr. He's not that big, but man, can he hit. He's aggressive, hustles and gets to the ball. The other players help their defense quite a bit but Green and Carr are the ones I'm looking out for.

Dickey- I haven't had a chance to see much of them yet but the coaches tell us that Tech is very strong and very aware. They play some good sound football. They don't make a lot of errors and we can't either. We can't be turning the ball over if we expect to win. Hadnot is a good runner. He's a strong and quick guy who can bust one all the way any time. He's really fast for his size. If the defense is going to get him, they have to get him before he gets going. After that, he can be hard to stop.

Q - With both teams haveing a conference loss, do you consider this an elimination game?

Hadnot- No, I don't. I think it's even more a season where any team can beat any other team and I definitely think that the champion can have two losses this year. I'm certain that no team will go through it undefeated. There are a lot of good teams this year and I look for an upset most every weekend. Of course, Texas looks good. I haven't really watched them play yet. I'm not supposed to be concerned with any team but A&M right now. I'll just play it by ear and take 'em as they come.

Dickey- I do. If we lose this one, we can hang it up as far as the Southwest Conference race is concerned. I don't think you can lose more than one game and win the conference. As far as the conference goes, Texas is strong as they showed against Missouri. But like always, it's going to come down to

This was supposed to be the Hobbs Eagles' week for celebrating.

After all the Eagles - a big disappointment in the first three weeks of the 1979 season - finally scored a touchdown and won a game against Lamesa last Friday night. While a 1-3 record may not be much to celebrate, it's better than 0-4.

"It's going to make next week easier," said Hobbs coach Jim Cromartie after his Eagles' 13-0 decision over the Golden Tornado from Lamesa.

Apparently, it didn't get any easier for the Hobbs coach and his players. Tuesday morning Cromartie resigned as head football coach with still eight games to go this season.

The news of Cromartie's resignation may have temporarily taken the spotlight away from the playing field where the Clovis Wildcats, Portales Rams and the Tucumcari Rattlers continue to make the loudest noise in Southeastern New Mexico.

Reds, Orioles Could Save Football Teams

By The Associated Press

The best thing Homer Rice and Ted Marchibroda have going for them these days just may be the Cincinnati Reds and the Baltimore Orioles.

Rice is head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals. Marchibroda is head coach of the Baltimore Colts. Between them they have 10 losses in this National Football League season. That's 10 out of a possi-

Under some circumstances, that might be enough to get them listed as endangered species.

But perhaps they're a little safer — for the moment — because Cincinnati and Baltimore are caught up in baseball

Two other coaches - Ray Perkins of the New York Giants and Bill Walsh of the San Francisco 49ers - are riding herd on 0-5 clubs as well. But being rookies with long-suffering teams committed to long-term rebuilding, they are on an unofficial "protected" list. The fans aren't shrieking for their scalps just Public pressure, the sometimes explosive factor that causes bosses to fire coaches, is all but absent in Cincinnati and Baltimore and will continue to be as long as the Reds and the Orioles have a chance to win the World Series.

This town is completely concerned and enthralled with the Reds," one NFL insider said from Cincinnati. "You wouldn't even know that there was a pro football club playing here. There are Reds banners in all the downtown stores and in the streets and people wear We're Reds Hot' buttons and everybody dresses in Red.

It's almost as if there is no other franchise playing in this town. You get the feeling the Bengals are almost operating in secrecy - not that they're trying to hide, but people aren't paying any attention to their plight just yet."

There's no doubt a lot of Cincinnati fans were flat-out surprised the Reds won a division pennant. "Having won," the insider said, "they now find themselves three wins away from being National League champs, even though nobody's ever come back from being down two games in the playoffs. There's a Cinderella element to the Reds and the whole town's caught up in it. You can't find anything in the newspapers about pro football

Similarly, the Orioles own Baltimore these days and have virtually all year. The baseball team, which had trouble drawing 1 million fans a year when it was winning one title after another in the late 1960s and early '70s, drew a record of nearly 1.7 million this year.

The Colts, conversely, have barely half-filled Memorial Stadium's 60,020 seats in their two home games. And those Colts fans have been chanting "O-R-I-O-L-E-S!"

Rice is in his first full season as the Bengals' head coach. Ironically, he took over for Bill Johnson just a year ago when the Bengals were 0-5.

Besides the diversion of the Reds. Rice has something else going for him the deliberateness of Paul Brown. The Bengals' general manager, who coached them in the first eight years of their existence, isn't one to act impulsively. Which brings us to Robert Irsay, the owner of the Colts, the master of the snap decision.

It would not be surprising to see Irsay rush to judgment once again, to send Marchibroda packing - or to try, anyway - if the Colts' tailspin lasts longer than the Oriole' hopes.

And it would be interesting to see how Bert Jones and the rest of the Colts

Three years ago, after an exhibition. game loss, Irsay blasted his players and their coach. Marchibroda upped and quit, complaining about front-office interference. Jones & Co. sided with their coach and made noises about not playing. Two days later Marchibroda returned, and Irsay promised to let Ted run things his way.

They won the American Conference's East Division title that year and the San Diego State's initial exposure to Western Athletic Conference football in 1978 was less than successful ... and downright embarrassing by recent SDSU standards. The Aztecs, who had compiled backto-back 10-1 records the two previous seasons, slumped to 4-7 overall and 2-4 in the WAC last year. Perhaps most troubling of all was the Aztecs' performance in WAC road games; they failed to winfin three such trips.

There is a full slate of conference games on tap in the WAC this weekend the only time that happens all year. Unbeaten Brigham Young, which is tied for the WAC lead with a 1-0 record, entertains Hawaii tonight game. Colorado State and Utah, also with 1-0 league logs, face each other Saturday in Fort Collins. Texas-El Paso and Wyoming, both at 0-1, meet in Laramie.

But CTK has beaten previously undefeated squads in each of its last two games, including a 37-26 victory over New Home last week. The Trojans, 2-1, are ready, according to Durham.

"They're probably the leading Class B school in the country," Durham said, of Klondike. "At least they're the best in the State of Texas.

"They're coached very well, execute well, and have pretty good size and speed," Durham continued, but added, We think we have a fine football team, too. We can compete with 'em.

CTK did more than compete with Klondike last year. The Trojans ruined Klondike's homecoming with a 21-20 vic-

Stock Program Keeps Cattle Fat, Pasture Green

HIKES BEEF OUTPUT — John Hays, left, visits with range conservationist John Paclik of the Hereford Soil Conservation Service office concerning management of native grass rangeland. Hays runs cattle on a daily-gain basis on the J. R. Allison ranch northeast of Hereford and agrees with Allison on a range management program which leaves a good growth of grass on the range at the end of the pasturing season. The grass cover helps the range to hold moisture over the winter and gives native rangeland a boost which results in more beesproduction per acre of pasture. (Correspondent Photo by

Bergland Sees Soviets Buying 25 Million Tons Of Grain

Secretary Bob Bergland predicted Thursday the Soviet Union will buy the full 25 million metric tons of wheat and corn the United States said it could purchase in the coming year.

After a day-long meeting with Soviet trade officials on this week, Dale E. Hathaway, undersecretary of agriculture, said the Russians were told they could buy 25 million tons of grain if they

About 15.7 million tons of U.S. wheat and corn were sold and shipped to the Soviet Union in 1978-79. The Soviets bought a record of 18 million tons of grain in 1972.

The Soviets, however, did not indicate at the meeting how much they might actually buy in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1. Purchases for the year so far total about 8.3 million tons, Hatha-

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

If all 25 million tons are bought by the Soviet Union, it would represent about 10 percent of this year's harvest of the two grains. There has been speculation that the purchase might include 18 million to 20 million tons of corn and the

In a tape-recorded interview released by the Agriculture Department, Bergland was asked if the Soviet Union will buy the full 25 million tons they were told is available

"I think so," Bergland said. "They, of course, have limitations in their own country on port capacity. We think they can import about three million tons a month, a little more in the summer. some less in the winter.

Banker's Ag Meeting To Eye Credit Needs

"Agricultural Credit Needs for 1980" will be the general topic for the 1979 Banker's Agricultural Conference Dec. 7-8 at Texas Tech University.

U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock will be the banquet speaker Dec. 7. Leadoff speaker Dec. 8 will be Jim Winningham, president of the Arthur (Ill.) State Bank, which is located in a commercial farming area. Winningham's topic is "Your Bank Community.

Registration on Dec. 7 will begin at 6 p.m. in the Texas Tech University Center. For latecomers, registration will continue on Dec. 8 in the University Center Courtyard.

A panel of West Texas area bankers will discuss "Innovative Banking for Service and Profit" following Winningham's address. Panel moderator will be John Wright, chairman of the board, First State Bank, Abilene, Other panelists will include president Gene Adams, First National Bank, Seymour; president Norman Wright, City National Bank, Plainview; and Lowell Smith Jr., chairman of the board, First State Bank, Rio

Dr. Gene A. Mathia, chairman of the Texas Tech Department of Agricultural Economics, will be moderator for another panel which will present the general Bergland said the huge grain pur-four faculty members in the agricultural economics department. They are Drs. Calvin Brints, Billy G. Freeman, Rex P. Kennedy and Willard F. Williams. The department also is expected to present estimated cost of production budgets for 1980 for each of the major crops of the area.

Coordinating the conference is Dr. J. Wayland Bennett, associate dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

President of the 1979 conference is B.A. Donelson, senior vice president, First State Bank, Stratford. Vice president is George Sell, senior vice president, First National Bank, Lubbock.

Directors are: president B.E. Loyd. Muleshoe State Bank; president Glen Lemon, First Bank and Trust, Booker; vice president John Hegi, Lamesa National Bank; president Joe Cargile, Citizens National Bank, Crosbyton; senior vice president Deryl Bennett, Security State Bank, Littlefield; vice president Jim Mead, First National Bank, Amarillo; and president Frank Barrow, First National Bank, Tahoka.

chases by the Soviet Union in recent years — and the prospective record sales ahead - are "part of the total Soviet strategy to expand their own livestock industry and broaden their own diets."

Later in the conversation, Bergland "So we are quite convinced added: they'll buy the ... 25 million, and this is good business as far as we are con-

Asked about impact on consumers of the potential record grain sales, Bergland said huge U.S. corn and wheat crops, coupled with large reserves in storage "assures all consumers here and abroad that prices will not be substantially affected" by selling more grain to

As to reports that Russia is sending food aid to Vietnam and Cambodia, Bergland said "they won't sell this American grain" but do "provide some of their friends in that region of the world with food assistance. We don't have any particular problem with that from a policy standpoint."

Bergland said that when the Soviet met here with U.S. officials on Wednesday, "we made no linkage" between ratification of the SALT II accord and approval of the grain sales "because we think the SALT agreement should stand on its own.

The same view holds for grain sales to the Soviets, he said.

"But I'm fearful that if the SALT accord is defeated, that these matters (grain sales) will be incredibly complicated in the following years," Bergland

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, Sen. Bob Dole, a Republican from Kansas, the nation's leading wheat-growing state, said the potential record sales "will be of great benefit to the American farmer and our balance of payments situation. From an economic standpoint, I believe this was a prudent decision.'

Dole predicted the sale will have "a minimal effect on consumer prices in the United States. I certainly don't believe this will force prices up significant-

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., challenged opponents of the SALT II treaty particularly those from farm states to use the grain sale as a club to halt Soviet intervention throughout the world.

Here is a golden opportunity. We can embargo all sale of grain to the Soviet Union," Eagleton said. "I'm waiting for one of these retaliatory senators to come over and propose an embargo."

HEREFORD — Removing cattle care of the grass we hurt ourselves, befrom native pasture early in the fall with cause if we get out of grass, we're out of an abundance of cured grass still available might not make sense to many ranchers in the High Plains but on the J.R. Allison spread northeast of Hereford it's all part of a range management plan that has meant both impressive daily gains by cattle plus outstanding hardiness on the part of the available grass

Allison conducts a stocker cattle operation on rangeland approximately 22 miles northeast of Hereford, and although his rangeland supports a relatively heavy cattle stocking rate, the native grass pastures remain healthy and in excellent conidition due to proper management, according to John Paclik, range conservationist with the Hereford Soil Conservation Service office.

"A lot of people will try and graze their grass way into the fall, and keep waiting for a rain, but usually what ends up happening is the grass gets worn down by the cattle being left on it an extra amount of time when they're really not gaining that much weight. Then, the pasture is left in a weakened condition for the following year.

I've found that by leaving a good growth on the grass at the end of the summer grazing schedule you've got some vegetation to hold the snow and other moisture better through the winter, and your grass has somewhat of a head start going into the next spring." commented Allison.

The long-time rancher has used de-ferred grazing and resting of pastures for many years as a means to improve the grass production - and eventual beef production.

We just use our own judgment about when to pull the cattle off or adjust the stocking rate. We tell by looking. It depends a lot on the weather from year to year what your range can support. We had a dry spell about three years ago and didn't stock any on a stretch of pasture because we didn't want to put undue stress on the range. That helped the pasture as much as anything we could have done in that year, Allison continued.

During the 1979 summer grazing season, cattle were stocked on the Allison range at a rate of one stocker per six acres, in line with recommended guidelines for sound pasture management.

John Hays, who ran cattle on the Allison range on a daily gain basis during the summer, offered comments on what he feels is a working range management We came on the pasture in late April, and had about five good months of grazing," said Hays as cattle were being loaded out at corrals on the Allison spread.

We could've stayed on the range another three weeks. There was still a lot of grass available, but there's no use wearing out the grass. If we don't take

Ag Engineers Discuss Wind Resource

By KATHLEEN HARRIS

Avalanche-journal Farm Writer Taming nature's inexhaustible resource - the wind - for energy and storm damage prevention was discussed Thursday at the 15th annual meeting of the Texas section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

About 125 agribusinessmen and students from across the state attended the first day of the meeting at the South Park Inn. Discussions continue today.

West Texas has the ability to match the wind resource with the irrigation power needs," said Nolan Clark, research engineer at the Bushland Research Center. "Farmers may have to alternate crops, however, since the month of heaviest irrigation now is unfortunately the month with the least wind."

Damage done by tornadoes is being investigated by Dr. Kishor Mehta, Texas Tech professor of civil engineering. Mehta said the effects of wind, atmospheric changes and "missiling" are studied when buildings are destroyed by twisters in an attempt to develop sturdy storm shelters above the ground.

H. E. Bovay of Houston, discussed ways to establish and develop an consulting engineering firm.

Determination is as important in the long run as initiative is in the short run," Bovay, owner of Bovay Engineers, said. "Starting a business is an investment, not an experiment."

Agriculture in the United States has been misidentified as merely a food and feed production system rather than a renewable energy and materials system, Bob Soleta of Lincoln, Neb. said.

"Gasohol is the dawn of an era of renewable liquid fuel from agriculture.' said Soleta, executive director of the Alcohol Fuels Program for the National Corn Growers Association.

Ancil Jones of Dallas, director for innovative technology with the Environmental Protection Agency, discussed land treatment of municiapl wastewater. Development of low-cost, low-energy brush control equipment, using cotton gin trash for energy generation and groundwater injection of cold water for energy recovery will be discussed in sessions today beginning at 8:30 a.m. Preventing grain elevator explosions and fires and ways to stay in the engineering profession also will be discussed.

'There's no sense in abusing the rangeland if it can be helped because we're gonna have more dry years than wet ones. We've had a couple of unusually wet years here lately that have really helped the ranges, but when the pastures start making good growth due to this favorable weather, you've still got to use good judgment and avoid overloading them. You've got to try to take no more than 50 percent of what's there. so there will still be that other half to grow back," he said.

Paclik pointed out that the range itself can often offer commentary on just how effective a management and conservation program actually is: Blue grama and buffalo are among the most predominant native grasses. Their presence in healthy populations is an excellent indicator that the range is

The majority of the Allison rangeland is made up of native populations of these grasses, which have posted virgorous growth, and Paclik rates the Allison ranges "excellent."

Good, healthy turfgrasses such as these also help to reduce the growth of pasture weeds, and a producer will often get more productivity from a pasture in the long run because he rests the range and increases the overall production of grass," Paclik commented.

Asked to compare the rangeland of today with that of 10, 20 and even 30 years ago, Allison said," "Where it has been taken care of, the grass is as good now as it was then. The only thing is, back 30 years ago if you saw you were gonna be short on grass you could just lease a few more sections around you. Now, those extra sections aren't available, so you've got to take good care of what you have

By DUANE HOWELL

SEN. LLOYD BENTSEN OF TEXAS has indicated he probably will try to amend the meat import bill he previously introduced to bring it into line with a compromise worked out between the Carter administration and the National

Following a recent Senate Finance International Trade Subcommittee hearing on meat import legislation, Bentsen said he could go along with changes recommended by the Carter administration's main witness, Howard Hjort, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's chief economist.

Hjort told the subcommittee the Bentsen meat import bill would be acceptable to the administration if the minimum annual meat import level were raised to 1.25 billion pounds and two other minor changes were made to bring provisions of the president's discretionary authority into line with the House bill passed by the Ways and Means Committee.

ALTHOUGH BENTSEN SAID HE PROBABLY would support the changes, he would not predict when the Senate would begin writing its version of the countercyclical meat import legislation.

Representatives of cattlemen also urged the Senate to pass the countercyclical meat import bill with the compromise provisions.

Officials from three groups said that although they would have preferred a lower poundage floor and tighter restrictions on the president's authority on meat import levels, the compromise was acceptable.

The panel included representatives of the National Cattlemen's Association, the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, and the Kansas Livestock Association. Bob Bliss, first vice president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, filed a written statement in which the TCFA agreed to support the compromise floor.

The TCFA also strongly supported the countercyclical formula and urged that the president's authority to suspend quotas be limited to times of "national emergency" and "natural disaster."

THE MEAT IMPORTERS COUNCIL OF AMERICA opposed passage of countercyclical meat import legislation, maintaining that no meat import legislation of any kind was preferable.

William Morrison, executive director of the council, said that if countercyclical meat import legislation were going to be passed, it should contain at least a 1.3-billion-pound meat import floor and not tie the president's hands to suspend meat import quotas. Charles Carey, president of the National Food Processors Association, said his organization does not oppose in principle the countercyclical concept of determining annual meat import levels.

However, Carey said, because the concept is untested, a countercyclical bill should contain a 1.3-billion-pound floor and give the president wide discretion-

MEANWHILE, THE USDA THIS WEEK TOLD Nicaraguan officials that they may resume exports of meat to the United States.

The USDA will double the rate of sampling for residues in meats exported from Nicaragua. In addition, all products shipped to the United States will be held at the port of entry until residue samples are analyzed and the product is found to be in compliance with U.S. requirements.

The intensified testing program will continue until U. S. officials are satisfied that Nicaragua's inspection program is adequate to control residues, the USDA said. Until then, USDA officials will visit Nicaragua's meat packing plants monthly instead of quarterly.

NICARAGUA'S MEAT PLNTS WERE REMOVED from the list of U. S.approved exporters on June 15 because of civil unrest there, which prevented

The USDA said its decision to allow a resumption of meat imports from Nicaragua is based on a review of the country's new government inspection program. USDA officials recently visited the packing plants. According to their reports, the new inspection program includes stringent measures to eliminate chemical residues in exported meat. The United States has offered technical assistance to help implement the new inspection program, officials said.

Nicaragua shipped nearly 70 million pounds of meat to the United States in 1978. The meat was used primarily in processed products such as cooked sausage, hamburger and convenience foods.

THE HOUSE AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE has scheduled a meeting Wednesday to reconsider legislation that would raise target prices for wheat and feed grains by 7 percent this year. Committee staff members said the panel may amend the bill, introduced by Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., to require that 1980 target prices be set at a minimum level equal to the proposed higher rates for 1979. The bill would boost the 1979 wheat target price to $3.63 a bushel from $3.40 now and the corn target to $2.35 a bushel from $2.20. The measure already has been approved by the committee but will be reconsidered because of the expected amendments.

Staff members said the committee also may consider requiring farmers to plant within their 1979 normal crop acreage to be eligible for the target price program in 1980.

LIGHT TRADE BUYING AND COMMISSION house short covering in late trading Thursday broke an otherwise listless pattern and helped push cotton futures to modest gains at the close.

The late-session upswing followed earlier quiet mixed activity in a spiritless market and helped to offset losses registered in early trading, brokers said. Estimated volume was 4,050 lots.

The USDA after the close reported that export sales of U. S. cotton during the week ended Sept. 23 totaled 181,800 running bales, down from the previous week's heavy level. China and South Korea accounted for more than half the weekly sales.

Sales for delivery in the 1980-81 marketing year, which begins next Aug. 1, totaled 2,000 running bales to unknown destinations. Exports for the week amounted to 101,600 running bales, with South Korea, Japan and China the main destinations.

Roaring Springs Camp Progressing

By TED J. SIMON A-J Outdoor Editor

The Roaring Springs Ranch Club is alive, healthy and growing! After driving past the security guard post at the combination entrance-exit, a visitor will see the Welcome Center Lodge. The beautiful 3,000-square-foot building serves as a combination meeting, greeting and check-in center for club members and their guests.

Tastefully constructed of regional wood and stone, the lodge can be used by individual members for receptions, club meetings and other group activities.

DISCOVERY

Jarrell Jennings, developer of the membership-only camping resort north of Dickens, told this writer, "A member can sign in here, set up a tent in a remote wilderness area, and be assured that one of our park rangers will contact him or her if there is an emergency message. It's one of several free services available at the club's Welcome Center.

Most of the camping resort's 1,000-plus acres have been designated as wilderness for primitive camping, hiking, horseback riding, or four-wheel-drive recreation. The wilderness areas with canyons, clear streams, and stands of tall cottonwood, oak and black walnut (some of the trees are presently taking on the appearance of autumn gold) are major reasons for the club's membership growth.

While protecting the beauty of the wilderness, Jennings has developed the modern camping amenities appreciated by many campers. There are now more than 100 improved campsites with full hookups. Separated into small clusters, each camping area has its own bathhouse with hot water showers. Other isolated clusters will be added for a total of 450 improved camping sites.

Fishing presently is termed as good at the camping resort, and the master plan calls for the fishing to be potentially excellent in the near future. Two of the proposed lakes are now stocked with channel catfish ranging in size from six inches to 10 pounds. Bass and crappie will be stocked this fall. In addition, a children's fishing pond near the swimming pool now contains perch and catfish to excite junior anglers.

Construction on the third lake, Red Canyon Lake, will begin this winter. The largest of the three lakes will be exclusively for canoeing, sailing and fishing. A heated, enclosed fishing house is now being constructed at the site.

Stables for horses are completed, and fencing around a riding arena for beginners should be completed at this date. A nearby storage area for campers and trailers has security lighting.

Quail and dove hunting will be available to members this winter, and this winter will see construction begin on a 9-hole golf course and club house.

The picturesque outdoor restaurant will remain open on weekends during the fall and winter months; it will return to a daily operation with the summer season. A kitchen at the outdoor restaurant is available for member use year round.

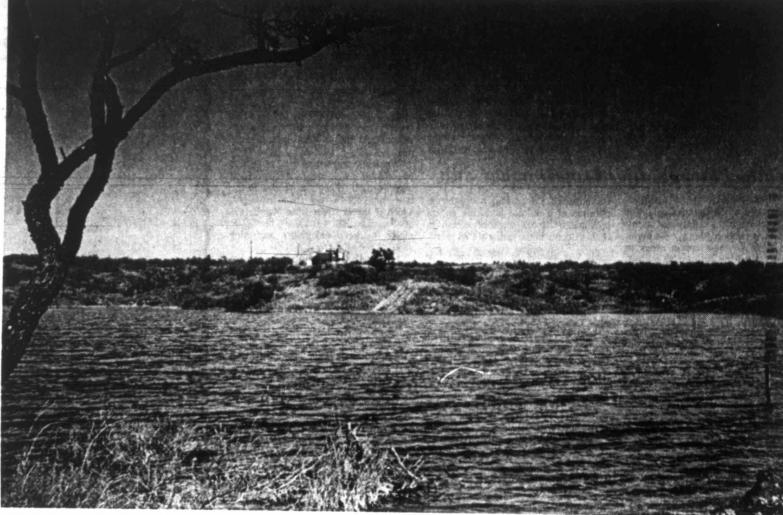

A future building will house a camp store, bait-fishing tackle shop, and laundry facilities During the past weeks, this writer has been informed by several club members that they feel the camping resort has delivered more than was expected by this date in the planned development sched-

Jennings now maintains an office at 1202 Avenue J in downtown Lubbock to coordinate area memberships in the Texas chartered non-profit club.

Roaring Springs Ranching Club, located 1 1/2 miles south of Roaring Springs (approximately an hour's drive from Lubbock) is open seven days a week for visitor inspection. Visitors should call the Lubbock or Roaring Springs offices for visitor cards. Memberships in the private camping resort are limited to maintain an uncrowded facility and protect the ecology.

"The whole concept of our master plan is to keep our facilities in harmony with the surroundings and to keep the wilderness wild," Jennings said. "Everything we do is not to change the face of the land, but to improve it."

FISHING COUNTRY - Two of three proposed lakes at the membership-only camping facility have been stocked with channel catfish. The lakes will be fully stocked with bass and crappie this fall. The new Welcome Center is on the far shore.

"I did it out of curiosity, thinking it was going to last three months. I had no idea I would end up spending 13 years with the show," said Fleming, who never missed one of the 2,858 programs.

That same fascination led to Fleming's involvement with "College Bowl," which he joined in 1977.

Since it first went on the air in 1953, 'College Bowl" has evolved into a major event featuring teams from scores of campuses in a coast-to-coast battle for the national championship. The competition has been televised or broadcast on radio uninterrupted since its inception.

An English spinoff of the program, "U-niversity Challenge," led to an international championship between the top American and British teams. The pro-

Film Takes Look At Prisoner Side Of Viet War

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Television tackles the Vietnam War again in the NBC movie 'When Hell Was in Session."

Unlike the Emmy-winning ABC mov-ie, "Friendly Fire," which was more political, this is a story of survival. It tells the story of Navy pilot Jeremiah A. Denton Jr., who led a resistance movement during his 7 1/2 years in a North Vietnamese prisoner-of-war camp.

Equally, it is the story of the survival of his wife, Jane, who lived many of those years not knowing the fate of her

The two-hour movie, which airs Monday on NBC, is based on the book of the same name by retired Rear Adm. Denton and Ed Brandt. It was not available

Hal Holbrook stars as Denton, who was a Navy commander when his bomber was shot down over North Vietnam on July 18, 1965, and Eva Marie Saint stars as Jane. Holbrook previously played Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher in the ABC presentation of "Pueblo," about the capture of the Navy spy ship by the North Koreans.

"This is not a political story, and we tried very hard to keep it from being one," said Bob Hamner, coexecutive producer with James Aubrey. Hamner also wrote an early version of the script. The story we wanted to tell, the sto-

That message is being promulgated in a remarkably broad way in a land that many analysts, including the president, say is suffering a slump in moral values and spiritual fiber.

Whether the road show of John Paul II with its steady urgent call to staunch faith and disciplined conduct will have much impact on American thought and mores remains a question. But at least the word is being circulated.

"He has gained the ear of the world as a leader in an age that lacks for leadership, a man who people feel that, 'Here's somebody who knows what ought to be done," said the Rev. Francis X. Murphy, a noted relgious scholar from Washington, D.C.

When he does quote from a papal encyclical it is usually from his own, "The Redeemmer of Humanity," issued last spring and his only one so far. It stresses human worth and dignity as being formed in the image of God and Christ's exultation of human life by sharing it.

This high view of humanity is the core of the pope's strong emphasis on human rights and justice, his challenge to all sorts of repression and abuses, economic, military, social and religious. He hammered on the theme in his ad-

Regulation Requested For Mobile Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Buyers of mobile homes frequently have a hard time getting defects fixed, a government official asserted Thursday.

In citing the problem, Raymond L. Rhine of the Federal Trade Commission recommended the industry be regulated.

Numerous owners of mobile homes have complained of such problems as leaky roofs, faulty plumbing, balky heating or air conditioning units and cracked ceilings, said Rhine, who has presided over FTC proceedings in the mobile home case dating to 1975.

Noting that the record contains consumer complaints against some 100 manufacturers, he said these are merely 'the tip of the iceberg

"The amount of time involved to correct a problem can be anywhere from two weeks to eight or nine months or even longer," Rhine said.

'Some consumers reported that their problems had never been corrected by the dealer and they had never received a response from the manufacturer after repeated calls and letters," he added.

By the time some roofs are fixed, leaking water may have damaged ceilings, walls, carpeting and even furnish-

The most effective rule over the industry would require that manufacturers mobile homes and those who sell them have a written contract telling what warranty responsibilities each has,

Rhine said. The best rule for protecting consumers also would require inspections before mobile homes could be sold and an "effective" procedure for resolving disputes, he said. However, he added that members of the FTC, who will have to approve any regulation before it takes effect, might also consider reducing the impact of such provisions. Rhine said this "could furnish a certain degree of protection to fering more flexibility to manufacturers and dealers

Jack Wynn, a spokesman for the Manufactured Housing Institute, could not immediately be reached for comment on Rhine's 332-page report.

The mobile-home industry, which had sales of $3.1 billion in 1977, now provides as many as 95 percent of new family dwellings available at under $20. 000, the FTC official said

Rhine said the majority of mobile home buyers appears to consist of bluecollar workers or retired persons with average incomes of $10,000 to $11,000.

His report concluded that warranty service is hurt by "lax" arrangements between manufacturers and dealers for determining where responsibility for de-

Many manufacturers delegate to dealers some warranty responsibilities but dealers frequently are reluctant to perform service on mobile homes they have not built, Rhine said. The result, he added, is that consumers face delays in getting defects corrected.

"A substantial number of manufac turers" have no reasonablebasis fo believing thy can fulill their warranty obligations within a reasonable time." he

"It is patently unfair for manufacturers of complex and necessary products like mobile homes to issue such a warranty without having a reasonable basis for believing that they can, in most instances, perform fully within a reasonable period of time," Rhine added.

The hearing officer recommended that the FTC members approve a regulation that would reduce time and monetary losses to mobile home owners. The only significant adverse effects of such a regulation would be short-term ones on marginal firms with "lower quality products or poor warranty performance systems," Rhine said.

Soviet Troops To Stay In Cuba, Russians Say

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union has given assurances to the United States that the controversial Russian troop force in Cuba will not be moved anywhere else in the Western hemisphere, U.S. officials said Thursday.

The disclosure reflected a continued Carter administration effort to defuse the troop issue in an effort to save the embattled U.S.-Soviet treaty limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

High-level negotiations over a month failed to persuade the Soviets to alter the status of the 2,000 to 3,000 toops, even though President Carter had insisted the status quo was unacceptable. This stalemate, in turn, further dimmed prospects that the Senate will ratify the SALT II treaty this year.

In a nationally broadcast speech last Monday, President Carter said the Soviets had refused to change the status of the troops in Cuba, but he said he had received assurances that the brigade is not a combat unit and that its function as a training unit would not change. He said the Russians also told him the troops would not be a threat to the United States or to any other nation.

'n a televised interview Thursday,

LAWSUIT AGAINST GIRL SAN DIEGO (AP) — A wrongful death suit has been filed against 17-years old Brenda Spencer and her father in the sniping death of a school custodian. The custodian, Mike Suchar, 56, was unned down last Jan. 29 as he tried to herd schoolchildren to safety at Cleveland Elementary School in San Carlos. Principal Burton Wragg, 53, also died. Miss Spencer pleaded guilty Monday to two charges of murder and eight counts of assault with a deadly weapon. She could face from 25 years to life in state

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance reiterated that the United States was given 'reassurances or assurances' during negotiations over the troops. He provided no specifics, but other administration officials said one of them was that the brigade will not be transferred to other Latin American and Caribbean coun-

Vance, appearing on the NBC "Today" show, said the Russian troops will not be expanded or given "additional capabilities

Nor, Vance said, would the troops be given any capability which would constitute a threat to the United States or any other nation in the hemisphere. His remarks were similar to those made by Carter on Monday

But, on Thursday, these same officials conceded there is no current indication of any further negotiations

Meanwhile, administration officials defended the decision Wednesday by the Agriculture Department to give the Soviet Union permission to buy a record 25 million metric tons of American corn and wheat over a year.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter, commenting on critics of grain deal, said: "There are those in the U.S. Senate who would certainly suggest that it helps you a great deal to lose an arm to get rid of a wart on a finger.

That's not our view. Defending the decision, the administration spokesman said agricultural trade benefits both countries, accounting for about 75 percent of U.S. exports to
