

School Chief Asks Return To Basics

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Public schools need to clean out a 50-year accumulation of outdated, ineffective programs and concentrate for the next five years on improving students' reading skills, Texas' new state education commissioner declared Monday.

Alton O. Bowen indicated that bilingual education may be among the ineffective programs, although he said non-English instruction should be continued until studies are completed to determine its effectiveness.

The head of the Texas Education Agency, which oversees operation of public schools across the state, said he supports the back-to-basics movement as well as new emphasis for realistic vocational training, discipline in classrooms and local control of schools.

Too Important

"Just as war is too important to be left to generals, education is too important to be left to educators," Bowen told the annual convention of the Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards.

Bowen, 63, urged school officials to listen to demands from taxpayers and parents for a return to basics in education and to act decisively to "recreate the confidence of the people we serve and justify the hope of the children in our care."

"I'm suggesting that we concentrate all of our resources — both human and monetary — for the next five years on reading," Bowen said.

The former Bryan superintendent, who became head of the Texas Education Agency on Sept. 1, minced no words in his first major public speech.

"We have added on, incorporated into, infused, and I sometimes think, confused just about every element of our public school curriculum," Bowen said. "Would you believe that in the past 50 years, we have not cut anything out of the curriculum?"

Study Planned

Bowen said a statewide curriculum study will begin soon to make a realistic assessment of the desired elements of a basic curriculum.

On one of Texas' most controversial school issues, Bowen said the value of bilingual education is unclear.

"There is some evidence that bilingual education facilitates the educational development of limited-English-speaking children. Other research indicates that it is not the most efficient and expeditious method," Bowen said. "The jury is still out on bilingual education."

Bowen said that for now educators should adhere to state laws requiring bilingual classes for young children with limited ability to speak English, but said the programs should be "transitional" and aimed at moving children into the mainstream rather than trying to preserve their home language or culture.

The education commissioner said too little recognition is given to vocational education students and called for improved training to prepare students to earn a living.

"You and I know that no child can tread the economic waters — much less swim upstream in the mainstream — without the training to make a dollar," he said.

Others Involved

Bowen said educators need to involve business and industry representatives more deeply in planning for vocational programs.

"They may wonder why we are spending $300 million a year to provide vocational education to people in this state, and industry still can't find well-See SCHOOL CHIEF Page 16

Suspect Hunted In Slaying Of O.K. Anderson

JOSEPH Michael DePauw, 28, of Lubbock, was charged Monday night with first degree murder in connection with the death of Lubbock businessman Oland Kenneth Anderson.

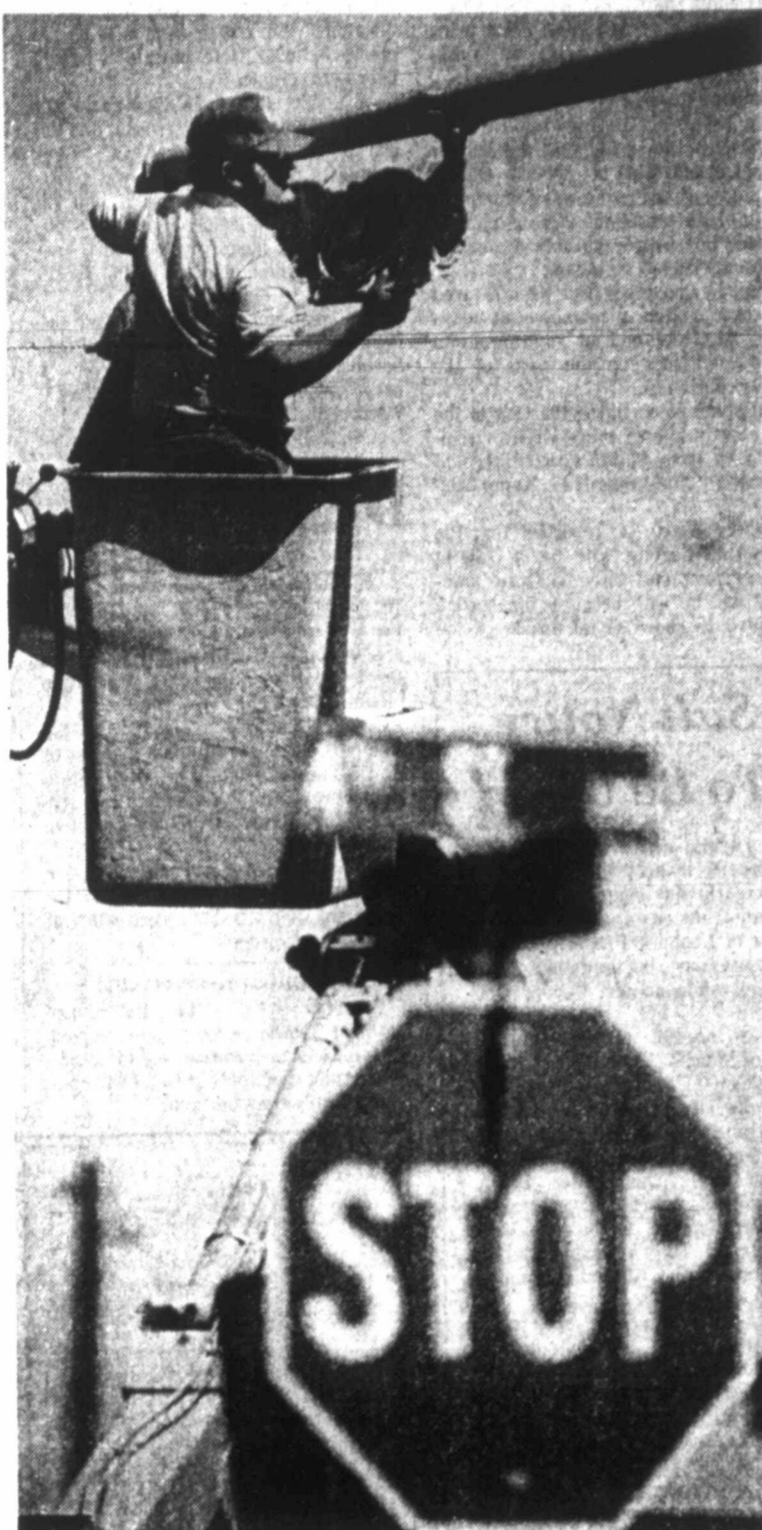

DePauw, who was being sought by police late Monday, is described as a white male, 6 feet tall, 175 pounds, with shoulder-length brown hair and a thin mustache. According to a spokesman with the Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney's office, DePauw is considered dangerous and anyone with information about his whereabouts should contact police.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith set DePauw's bond at $100,000.

Police questioned five people Monday afternoon about two men who reportedly were seen with Anderson at several local clubs the night before he was found dead inside his business.

Anderson, 63, owner of Neon Specialty Co., 2402 Ave. J, was found sprawled in a pool of blood Friday morning by his brother and an employee. Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled his death a homicide. An autopsy revealed Anderson died from a crushed skull caused by a blow to the side of his head with a blunt instrument.

Anderson's wallet was found in a dumpster Saturday by an 11-year-old boy. Police said the wallet contained Anderson's identification papers, but no money.

LIGHTS OUT IN LUBBOCK — Traffic lights, that is. A recent study of the city's traffic system determined that some traffic signals are unnecessary, so they are being turned under or removed altogether. Hospital Staff Feared Bit Lean

By KIM COBB

Avalanche-Journal Staff
DOCTORS and staff at the Texas Tech University School of Medicine are concerned about the effect further staff reductions at Health Sciences Center Hospital might have on patient care.

But some officials for the county hospital district are asking for even further reductions to trim operating costs at the teaching hospital, despite Brookwood Management Services' promise to balance the budget next year at current staffing levels.

Board member Dub Rushing asked that, for the record, the minutes of Monday's hospital district board meeting reflect that his motion to "furlough" 100 more employees died for lack of a second. But Rushing's proposal sparked a heated discussion between Brookwood representatives and several board members over the level of staffing needed to run the facility.

"Disastrous Results" Seen
"It would bring about disastrous results," administrator Robert Berryman said of Rushing's proposal. Dr. William Holmes, chairman of the department of internal medicine at the medical school, backed Berryman's statement by saying the hospital already is suffering from a nurse shortage.

Rushing said he was "still disturbed by the unfavorable ratio of employees to patients." But Holmes said a recent meeting of the executive committee of medical school staff revealed staff members are concerned that the number of personnel left in the hospital is approaching the problem level in terms of patient care.

Major Changes Made
Brookwood personnel made several major changes in the 1980 budget as compared to the 1979 document. The new budget includes a drop from 864 full-time employee positions to 660 by Jan. 1.

But as of the last week in September, the hospital already was far below the approved staffing level, leading medical school staff members to question whether the hospital has enough employees.

Holmes told board members that the reduction in staff — most notably in nursing staff — is beginning to show up in minor errors at the hospital. Regardless of appearances, the ratio of staff members to patients needs to be better, he stressed.

Rushing said that he was not suggesting further cuts in the nursing staff, but that perhaps Brookwood representatives had not pursued cuts in some departments as forcefully as they had in others.

15 Percent Interest, Jobless Hike Seen

Federal Reserve Move Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Banks soon will charge their best customers 15 percent interest, forcing many businesses to curtail hiring, cut back production and lay off workers, two leading economists said, Monday, following new anti-inflation moves by the Federal Reserve Board.

98 Degrees Topple Old Heat Marks

LUBBOCK reached a high of 98 degrees Monday, setting a new record for the date and equalling a record set just this past Sunday for the month.

The 98-degree mark shatters by four degrees the old record of 94, set this date in 1928. Monday also was the second time in the city's history that a 98-degree reading has been recorded this late in the year — the first time coming Sunday, which also topped out at 98 degrees.

Colder Weather Due

The National Weather Service, however, is advising area residents to dig into the closet for sweaters rather than bathing suits, as the record heat wave very likely will be destroyed by a quickly-moving Canadian cold front that should move through the area early today.

Today's high is predicted to reach only 73 degrees, some 25 degrees lower than Monday, thanks to the cold front.

The brisk north winds should blow at 20 to 30 mph today, stirring up some dust in the process.

Warm Readings To Return

With the passing of the front, expected by late today, temperatures are expected once again to begin rising. Wednesday's high is predicted to be near 80, with the latter part of the week a little warmer than that.

Across the state Monday, record highs were being set in droves.

Abilene scorched under record 101 degrees, breaking by six degrees a record set in 1956. San Angelo recorded 99 degrees, breaking by a degree a record set 53 years ago. Wichita Falls also reported 99 degrees, also a degree warmer than their record, set in 1963, and in Dallas-Fort Worth, a new record of 96 degrees broke the 1963 record of 95.

Only the coastal areas and extreme East Texas reported highs below the 90 degree mark.

The very warm temperatures were due to a persisting upper level high pressure system that combined with sunny skies and strong southwesterly winds for its punch, said the weather service.

The rest of the nation has been enjoying more seasonal weather while Texas and parts of the Southwest have been sizzling in the sunshine.

Golden Gate Lures Five Who Jump, Snap Back

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five Britons, who call themselves the "Bungee Jumpers," leaped from the Golden Gate Bridge on Monday, their falls broken by thick rubber bands that stopped them short of the water and snapped them back toward the bridge.

The four men in the group, one of whom suffered a bloodied right hand, wore formal morning suits, complete with topers. The woman wore a jump suit.

Three of the jumpers were arrested by the state Highway Patrol and charged with trespassing on bridge cables, but two others got away. A sixth member of the group, who got tangled in his lines and didn't jump, was also arrested.

When the jumpers quit bouncing at the end of their bungee lines — elasticized cords used as a fastening or shock-absorbing device — they let themselves down on ropes. Two fled in a boat, but the other three were grabbed by the U.S. Coast Guard.

The stunt was witnessed by hundreds of commuters heading into San Francisco from Marin County.

The jumpers drove out to midspan of the 8,981-foot-long bridge. Each then fastened one end of a bungee cord to the bridge and attached the other end to a rope bandolier. Those who finally jumped climbed the railing and leaped out

Sadat Unveils Ramses' Mummy

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat unveiled the mummy of Ramses II, a Pharaoh who signed the first recorded Mideast peace pact, more than 3,200 years ago.

Trumpets sounded a salute for the dead, Monday, as Sadat stripped the blue-and-gold velvet covering, emblazoned with a lotus flower, from the showcase holding the preserved body of one of Egypt's most famous kings.

The ceremony, in the Egyptian museum in central Cairo, marks the first public display of the royal mummy since it was flown to France, three years ago, for treatment of fungus and parasites that were gradually destroying it.

"I am happy ... I have seen the king and the first treaty between Egypt and its neighbors where the word peace and brotherhood has been mentioned," Sadat told reporters.

The ancient pact, a copy of which is displayed near the mummy, was signed by Ramses II and the Hittite King Hattusasa, who ruled an empire in what is now Turkey. The treaty ended two decades of fighting over the land of Palestine, much as the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, signed in March, ended 30 years of conflict.

Ramses II, a king noted for building giant statues of himself throughout Egypt, is the star of the Cairo museum's mummy collection, which numbers about 30 kings, queens and other royalty.

More than a half-million tourists a year visit the museum and its special mummy room on the second floor, but Sadat indicated the mummies might be moved.

Separate Museum Eyed
The director of the antiquities department said Sadat had ordered a study on the possibility of building a separate museum for the mummies.

The King Tut collection raised several million dollars on its recent tour of the United States, and the World Bank is considering contributing $5 million for museum renovation.

As Sadat read the ancient peace treaty, he nodded his head and said, "Good, good." The two ancient rulers pledged, in words reminiscent of the Egyptian-Israeli pact: "There shall be no hostilities between them ..."

Ramses II is in an incubator-like display case, supplied with pure filtered air via a tube hooked up to a battery-powered generator to protect it from damage. Most of the mummies, including

West Virginia Justice Charged

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice Darrell McGraw was charged with obstruction of justice and assault and battery Monday in connection with a scuffle at the Kanawha County jail.

McGraw was arraigned after being treated at a local hospital for bruises and bumps he received in the incident.

Talking to reporters after his arraignment, 42-year-old McGraw said he could not discuss the incident at the jail for fear of endangering his defense. But he had said earlier that he was going to the jail to check conditions there after a 17-year-old boy hanged himself in a cell at the county jail last weekend.

"All I can say is I have been X-rayed and have given a tetanus shot for a bite," McGraw said in an impromptu news conference on the steps of the county courthouse.

At some point during the visit to the jail, shortly after 4 p.m., McGraw scuffled with three sheriff's deputies, said Kanawha County Sheriff G. Kemp Melton.

Mark Ward, a reporter for the Charleston Gazette, said he, a Gazette photographer and three McGraw aides went to the jail because the justice "wanted to show us the inside of the cell" where the teen-ager hanged himself.

Ward said McGraw asked to be admitted and after a wait was allowed to speak with the chief deputy by telephone. After a conversation Ward called "heated," the justice beckoned to the others — who were outside a barred door — to come in.

A deputy told them they could not enter the jail, the reporter said, and began to push McGraw out. "They started to push him out. He was resisting, so they started dragging him in. They pulled him inside. I saw one deputy. I couldn't identify who it was, give McGraw several punches in the face," Ward said.

The reporter said McGraw and the deputies then went out of sight, and that he heard McGraw ask for a lawyer. "I never saw McGraw throw any punches," Ward said.

Complaints filed against McGraw by three deputies said McGraw punched one of them in the jaw and hurt another's lip. All three charged that McGraw obstructed justice by trying to force his way into the jail.

McGraw, who was freed on $2,500 bond, was formally charged with three counts of obstructing justice and two counts of assault, all misdemeanors. The maximum penalty on each is one year in prison, a $500 fine or both. No hearing date was set.

McGraw's attorney, Steri Shinaberry, attempted to have the charges dismissed, saying they were "a sham" and an attempt to protect the deputies from charges of using excessive force and assault and battery against a citizen.

Magistrate Herb Pauley, presiding over the arraignment, dismissed the motion.

McGraw was bruised in the head and had blood on his shirt, but X-rays did not show any serious injuries.

Commissioners Considering Capacity Of New County Jail

By BOB CAMPBELL, Avalanche-Journal Staff
The new $3 1/2-million Lubbock County Jail won't be finished until January, and it already will be pushing its 245-inmate capacity when it opens.

Lubbock County commissioners discussed the jail capacity Monday and indicated they might consider finishing the cell block left incomplete in current jail construction.

The additional-cell block — one of three basic units in the new jail east of the existing jail downtown — would increase jail capacity to 330 and would have cost an extra $700,000 when the commissioners accepted bids on the project in July 1978.

Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard reported Monday that the county jail averaged holding 225 prisoners per day last month.

Referring to Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford and his "get tough" policies, Blanchard said, "I've talked to the DA, and he has no plans to let up, and if he doesn't let up, I don't see any way for it to let up over there."

County Judge Rodrick Shaw observed that a more relaxed policy on bonds has reduced the jail population here previously, but he asked Blanchard if a change in bonding policy has been discussed and was told it had not.

Commissioner Jim Lancaster of Idalou said the commissioners court possibly should start thinking about finishing the third wing of the jail.

No action, other than the discussion, was taken by the court.

In other business, League of Women Voters spokesmen asked for and won approval of a letter of support for their application for a grant to study the mental health needs of area children.

League President Darlene Buckberry and Ann Burkholder, chairman of the league committee on the project, said they intend to ask the Texas Division of Community Affairs for a $30,000 grant to finance it.

Mrs. Buckberry said the league will ask the Lubbock City Council to sponsor the project, and she said it will involve area children as well as those in Lubbock County.

Asked by Shaw if the mental health needs of children are not already being met by the Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center and other agencies, Mrs. Burkholder said, "It is these agencies who have come forward and said children's mental health is our No. 1 priority."

"The amazing thing is that it (the study) has not been done."

"What will happen with the information when you get it together?" asked Commissioner Edgar Chance.

Mrs. Burkholder replied that the study would be aimed toward concrete action and would be designed especially to meet the needs of Lubbock and area towns and cities.

"What we are going to do will be ours," she said. "It will not be from Austin or Washington."

Suit Notice To Be Given

Official notice to all Lubbock property owners who will be affected by any court decision concerning the city's suit against signers of Lubbock Property Owners Association tax-limitation petitions will begin next Monday, Oct. 15.

In one of three documents filed Monday, 140th District Judge William Shaver ordered that notice to city property owners and taxpayers, who are "sub-class" defendants in the city's class action suit against three LPOA members, will be made through advertisements to be published daily in The Avalanche-Journal beginning Oct. 15 and continuing through Oct. 29.

Additional notice, the judge stated, will be provided through announcements in city water bills to be mailed out Nov. 10 through Dec. 10.

The city filed suit against 10 LPOA members in July after association members presented three tax-limitation measures to the city council.

Democratic Election Set

A-J Correspondent
BIG SPRING — Howard County Democrats will meet at 7 p.m. tonight in the Howard County Courthouse to elect a new county chairman to replace Hal Boyd, who submitted his resignation effective Oct. 1.

"Any Democrat registered in the county is eligible to fill the remainder of Boyd's term," said Jane Ray, state Democratic committeewoman and secretary to the Howard County executive committee.

The 22 members of the executive committee are eligible to cast votes for chairman, said Mrs. Ray, who will call the meeting to order.

TERRORISM TO CONTINUE
BOSTON (AP) — The Palestinian mayor of Hebron on the Israeli-occupied West Bank says terrorism against civilian and military targets in Israel will continue "until we get our aims."

Dave Brazel and John Roemer, the only Howard County Democrats to attend a recent 30th Senatorial District meeting in Wichita Falls, are supporting George Thorburn, a local certified public accountant, for the position, though at least one other candidate is expected.

Library To Benefit From Funds

The Friends of the Library are planning to purchase special equipment for the new library facility to be located on South Quaker Avenue near Loop 289 with profits made from this year's book sale, according to Chris King, secretary and publicity chairman for the Friends.

This year's sale, which was Sept. 27-29 at the Godeke Branch on 19th Street, nearly doubled last year's profits, Mrs. King said.

"The Friends want to thank the public for their support in the used book sale by donating their books and for their attendance at the sale," she said.

The Friends are having a membership drive during the month of October and citizens are encouraged to join the non-profit organization, Mrs. King said. Annual dues are $5 for a family and $1 for an individual. A sustaining membership is available for $10 and a lifetime membership for $100. Memberships in honor or memory of someone are welcome.

Members receive a quarterly publication called "The Bookmark" informing them of library news and events. For further information about memberships, call Mrs. Lois Gully at 799-6615.

Proceeds from the Friends' book sale are used for library equipment and supplies. In the past, the Friends have supplied the library with a video cassette recorder, an offset printer, a slide projector, a sound system, a microfilm reader center and cabinets and other equipment.

The meeting is open to any community resident. Children may attend and free babysitting will be provided.

FEDERAL BUILDING CRACKS
DETROIT (AP) — Cracks, leaks and splits are occurring at a $55 million federal building in downtown Detroit faster than workers can repair them, federal officials say. "It's our job to provide a good, safe working facility," said Harry Gordon of the General Services Administration, which has called in engineering consultants to plan repairs to the 30-story building. The concrete-and-glass Patrick V. McNamara Building opened in 1976 and houses 4,500 federal employees.

United Way Goal Near Mid-Mark

First look at the progress of the 1979 United Way campaign Monday provided an optimistic forecast for successful completion of the drive as volunteers turned in a total of $892,567 for 49 percent of the $1,803,752 goal.

Campaign chairman Joe Price praised a number of division chairmen who are nearing their quotas after the first report. He also praised volunteers attending the noon luncheon at the civic center for their community support.

"The first report is a success," Price told volunteers. "It's now up to each one of us to make sure the second, third and fourth report meetings are successful. Many people have been working for months and have nearly completed their jobs. It's up to us in the remaining divisions to insure success for the community."

Winners of the civic club attendance awards for the Oct. 2 kickoff were announced and representatives received gold awards. Winning clubs were Downtown Kiwanis, Exchange Club, Southwest Rotary, Greater Lubbock Rotary and Lubbock Rotary. Each club achieved 60 percent or more of membership present at the kickoff.

A new bronze plaque was awarded to employee groups that have achieved award status 20 consecutive years.

The plaque was awarded Monday to the American Red Cross, The Baker Company, Boys' Clubs of Lubbock, Caprock Girl Scout Council, KCBP Television, NCR, The Salvation Army, Southwestern Public Service, United Way of Lubbock, Well Baby Clinic and YMCA of Lubbock.

The Good Citizenship award went to employees of ARA Rental Service, Baker Graphic Methods Inc., Benton Oil Company, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, James Bowie Elementary School, Boy Scouts of America, The Brittain Company, Camp Fire Council of Lubbock, City Steam Laundry, Credit Bureau of Lubbock, Driver Education -LPS, Overton Elementary School, Safeway Store, State Savings and Loan, Super M. The Pacesetter division, headed by Bob Fuller and Wayne Finnell, was the first division to reach its 100 percent quota. Captains of other divisions receiving 100 percent awards were Jim Gilbreath, David Hansen, Dr. Van Moore, Ron Green, Gene Timberlake, Joan Baker and Shana Conine.

Scouting Aided By UW Funds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles dealing with the United Way of Lubbock. Except for officials of United Way agencies involved, the names used are fictitious to protect the identities of those served. However, the stories reflect actual case histories here.)

Scouting builds character in boys, but according to scout leader Joseph Ross, scouting has built his character and taught him many things he would not have realized had it not been for his experiences with groups of young men.

"I learned patience through the Boy Scouts," said the father of two boys in the scout program. "I also learned a respect for the ability of young people. It's surprising to find out how creative our young people are."

The South Plains Council of the Boy Scouts of America is a United Way agency. It will receive $139,323 from the United Way's 1980 goal of $1,803,752.

Currently, Ross is serving as scout leader for his son Bill's Webelo troop. Webelo is a part of the cub scout program for boys who have completed the fourth grade and are 9 or older. This is the last step in the cub program before entering the Boy Scout program at age 11. The program is developed around any of 15 activity badges and prepares the boys to become scouts.

In addition, Webelos may work on the "Arrow of Light" badge, which is the highest award in the cub program and can be carried into the scouting program.

Bill said since he joined the cub scouts just last February, he has learned many things and his the boys find out about themselves and others. If you know a little about yourself it's easier to find out about others and to live and work with them," he said.

"In fact, the scouting program is truly a program for people to learn to get along with other people," he continued.

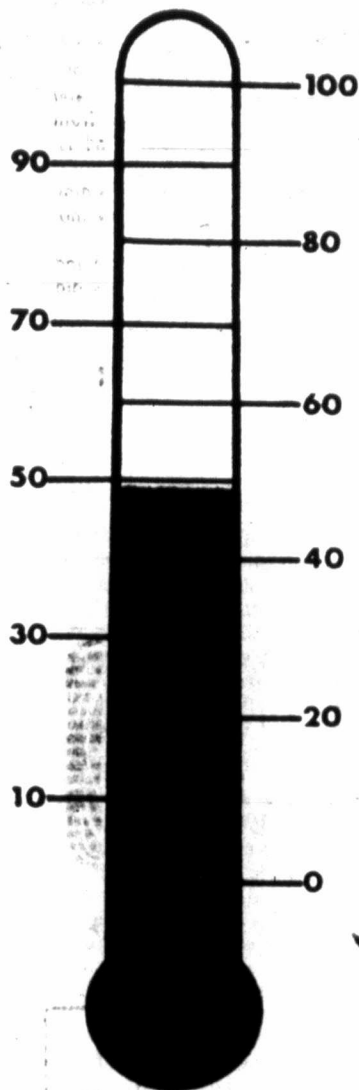

Ross said the scouting program helps the boys to learn faster because they are learning among their peers and they tend to teach each other.

According to Robert Bouse, director of the South Plains Council of the Boy Scouts of America the purpose of scouting is "character building, citizenship training and personal fitness working through the sponsoring organizations, such as church, schools and civic clubs who carry the program."

"The major benefit of boy scouting is being able to be a friend with men of good moral character where character is caught — not just taught. He has a good friend to turn to in time of need. Good character is the end result — a sense of responsibility, self respect and self help, he can stand on his own feet," Bouse said.

The South Plains Council includes 20 counties and has a membership of 6,071 youths and 2,500 adults. It maintains 230 scout packs and posts.

The South Plains Council of the Boy Scouts of America is one of 34 United Way agencies.

Ambassador To Spain Sought

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is now accepting applications from young persons wishing to serve as the city's ambassador to Spain next summer.

Bill Armstrong, chairman of the chamber's International Relations Committee, said the ambassador will spend time in the homes of people in Spain and bring back insights and observations on the lifestyle of those people.

The committee has set Feb. 1 as a target date for screening applicants. Any youth interested in the program should contact the Chamber of Commerce.

Witness Identifies Shooting Victim

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A former Texas Tech University student, who was shot in the head outside a 34th Street club last December, briefly entered 137th District Court courtroom Monday afternoon and was identified as the victim of the shooting incident by one of the witnesses.

Joe Clayton "Clay" Dodson, 22, was called into the courtroom by lead prosecutor Hollis Browning as the first day of testimony began in the aggravated assault trial of Jesse Alvin Glenn, the man accused of shooting Dodson with a .357 revolver.

Barry Mauldin, who now is an Austin accountant and was a Texas Tech student at the time of the shooting, said Dodson was the same man he saw lying outside the doorway of the then Eight Second Ride nightclub at 5203 34th St. on Dec. 3, 1978.

And Mauldin identified the 32-year-old Glenn as the man who ordered Dodson out of the club and then "blew his brains out" with the pistol.

Mauldin said he, Dodson and four other university students were at the club playing pool early Dec. 3 when Dodson and another member of the group, Dick Carnes, exchanged words. During the altercation, Mauldin said, Glenn, a bouncer at the club, came over to the group and told only Dodson to leave.

Mauldin said he followed the defendant and Dodson outside, heard Glenn say something to Dodson and then pull the revolver and shoot Dodson.

Mauldin will return to the witness stand this morning to be cross-examined by Glenn's attorney Bennie House of Houston.

Also testifying Monday was Carnes, who said that although he and Dodson exchanged words, they did not become involved in a fight. He said he told Glenn they were not fighting seriously when the bouncer approached.

Carnes said Glenn seemed to be "going at" Dodson and was "abusing his power" as a bouncer to stop fights. The Texas Tech junior added that both he, Dodson and the other members of the group told Glenn that Carnes and Dodson were good friends and were not about to engage in a fist fight.

Carnes also denied that he and Dodson were shoving each other. He said after Glenn ordered Dodson from the club, the other young men decided to leave, too, and started out. He said as they walked into the entry way, he heard a shot and saw Glenn run back inside the club and hand a pistol to a man sitting at a counter.

Carnes said when he opened the club's front door, he saw Dodson, who was 21 at the time, lying on the ground and "bits and pieces of his head on the sidewalk."

Glenn, of 6203 Elgin Ave., was tried in May for attempted murder in connection with the shooting. However, the May jury was unable to reach a verdict. Following the mistrial, Glenn was re-indicted on the aggravated assault charge by a grand jury in June.

Victim's Condition Described By Widow

Husband 'Disoriented, Unsteady'

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The widow of Jeral Ray Kirkland told a district court jury Monday she returned home from work the evening of May 23 and found her husband disoriented, unsteady on his feet and exceptionally quiet.

But because one of her sons was in Methodist Hospital's intensive care unit with a crushed chest suffered in an oil rig accident, Wanda Kirkland said, she did not dwell on her husband's unusual activity until the next day, when he still was acting odd.

Mrs. Kirkland was the first witness called Monday afternoon as the murder trial of Sammy Richard Selman began in 237th District Court. Selman was arrested and charged with voluntary manslaughter on June 12, the day an inquest jury ruled Kirkland's death a homicide.

A grand jury later increased the charge against the 30-year-old Selman of 6118 35th St. to murder.

Mrs. Kirkland said when she returned to her mobile home in Shallowater about 7 p.m. May 23, her husband of 28 years was in the bedroom with the television set turned on but "his eyes didn't seem to focus."

She added that her usually talkative husband said very little that night, vomited frequently and didn't eat the supper she prepared.

Mrs. Kirkland said his condition continued to worsen during the evening but, "I just thought he would be all right after a while."

After the couple went to bed about 11:30 p.m., she said, she heard Kirkland get up and then fall in a hallway outside the bedroom. She said she helped him back to bed and he never said a word to her.

The following morning, Mrs. Kirkland told the nine-woman, three-man panel, she left him asleep in bed and went to work as usual. However, during the day, she said, she called home twice and the last time it sounded as if Kirkland had dropped the phone.

She said she returned home early, about 3:30 p.m. May 24, and found her 47-year-old husband "out of his head" on the bedroom floor. She said she thought Kirkland, who was a diabetic but had been in good health even though he took no medication, might be in a diabetic coma and called a nephew who is a registered nurse.

After the nephew arrived, Mrs. Kirkland said, an ambulance was called and transported her husband to Health Sciences Center Hospital, where he died five days later.

Although it first appeared Kirkland was getting better, she said, he never fully recovered before he died. Near tears, Mrs. Kirkland told the jury that as hospital employees were treating her husband in the emergency room May 24, he pulled her close to him and kissed her hand.

Also testifying Monday was James A. Berg II, 32, of 1006 1/2 Ave. R. Berg said he, Kirkland and the defendant had coffee together the morning of May 23 and then Kirkland and Selman left Berg's Clovis Road business in Kirkland's car about 9 a.m.

That afternoon, Berg said, he saw the pair in Kirkland's car, heading into Lubbock on Clovis Road. About an hour later, Berg testified, he saw the vehicle this time going toward Shallowater.

Berg said he and Kirkland had agreed that Berg would repair one of Kirkland's car in exchange for a truck. Berg said the first time he saw Kirkland's vehicle, he was heading to Shallowater to pick up the truck.

When he returned to Shallowater later that afternoon to pick up the car, Berg said, he knocked on the door of Kirkland's trailer twice. The second time, Berg said, Kirkland answered the door and appeared disoriented.

"He had a mark on his right forehead and on his left jaw and seemed like he had been drinking quite a bit," Berg said. When Ware asked the witness why it appeared Kirkland had been drinking, Berg said, "He was slurring his words and didn't say very much."

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Are We There?

DALLAS—If you're weary of wondering whether Teddy will or won't, here's a different question to wrestle with: What's happening to that recession everybody warned us about?

BUT SOME bankers, who've been talking poor mouth all year, are having second thoughts. They can't figure out why the economy is acting so healthy when their trusty statistics told them it was headed for a sick spell.

NOT TO WORRY, they say; those figures don't tell the real story. And there are other statistics that indicate the optimists may have a point.

Also, 1.2 million new homes were started last month, and 1.6 million people applied for building permits, a jump of 5.6 percent.

ESPECIALLY IF, as they suspect, there's an increase in the output of real goods and services.

AND THEY'RE splurging on new tractors, combines and pickups, paying off their loans at the bank, sprucing up their farms, and giving the local merchants a real shot in the cash register.

Even the trade deficit is turning around. Even with the rising cost of OPEC oil, the July deficit was the second slimmest of the year. That reflects a trend that has the experts predicting a $20-billion surplus in 1980. And that will help revive the poor, old dollar.

WHAT MAKES men and women different has nothing to do with their environment. Those differences are completely hereditary.

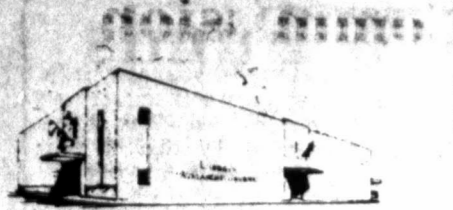

A fire in straw makes a quick blaze and leaves nothing but ashes. It's to that fact the French allude when they refer to a teenage romance as "straw-fire love."

Any hotel expert can assure you that the woman is far more inclined than the man to call for room service.

In one out of three heart attack cases, the first symptom is death.

And in Chicago, a woman may be fined for driving a car while wearing a hat that covers one eye.

When it comes to rain showers, April has been given all the credit. That's not right. April ranks ninth in the monthly U.S. rain report. Wettest month over the years is August.

AN EDITORIAL: Texas GOP Challenge For Real

TEXAS STILL can't be counted as a true two-party state, the election of a Republican governor last year notwithstanding, but it's getting closer.

In Presidential politics, of course, Texas has been "up for grabs" in almost every election since World War II.

CONSERVATIVE Democratic Party precinct chairmen in Dallas have been more or less publicly debating whether to stage a mass defection to the Republican ranks.

SUCH DEFECTIONS, if they grow in number, could greatly influence Presidential politics in Texas next year.

With legislative redistricting coming up in 1981, the success or lack of success of the move in electing Republican candidates also could have a profound impact on all state politics in the 1980s.

Desertion by conservative Democrats would leave the liberals an open field for party nominations, moderates presumably being at a disadvantage after the polarization of conservatives and liberals into different parties.

"Everything" then would depend on the Republican-Democratic showdown in November, 1980. Which leaves the conservative Democrats who are thinking of bolting the party one major worry:

Eight said they favor just giving up the fight by becoming less active in party politics and five said they want to keep their options open.

Even among the 68 who said their first choice is to fight to make the Democratic party more conservative, however, there were several who said a mass walk-out into the GOP ranks was their second choice.

Two Dallas area Democratic legislators already have announced a planned switch to the Republican ticket.

With legislative redistricting coming up in 1981, the success or lack of success of the move in electing Republican candidates also could have a profound impact on all state politics in the 1980s.

"Everything" then would depend on the Republican-Democratic showdown in November, 1980. Which leaves the conservative Democrats who are thinking of bolting the party one major worry:

Would rank-and-file voters, who have voted Democratic all their lives, be ready to bolt the party label, too?

AN EDITORIAL: Meany Imprint Already Fading

GEORGE MEANY, 85 and ailing, has made official his long-rumored retirement, according to the current issue of Time magazine, which notes that after a quarter century under Meany, the AFL-CIO will never be the same again.

It is a much different labor scene Meany departs than the one he surveyed at the beginning of his protracted presidency back in the mid-1950s. Those were the days of consolidating the gains of two decades of New and Fair Deal legislation.

MERGER of the AFL and the CIO, with a third of the work force already in the fold, promised a move from a position of strength to a position of greater strength. But that's not quite the way it worked out.

THE AFL-CIO remains in a rut, its membership concentrated in, and its policies oriented toward, old-style industries where for the most part jobs are in declining supply.

WITH THE NOTABLE exception of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees—now the largest constituent union with more than a million members—the AFL-CIO's penetration of the growth employment areas has been minimal.

SERVICE occupations, where more than 5 million jobs have opened up in recent years, are approximately 15 percent organized.

With women now representing better than 40 percent of the work force, only 16 percent are union members.

JOSEPH SOBRAN: Papal Visit Shed Light On Plight Of Religion

WASHINGTON—The visit of Pope John Paul II was anticipated with suspicion among liberals both within and without the Catholic Church.

In three cities—Boston, Philadelphia, and Washington—secularists were on the march to stop him and his hosts from making use of public monies and public places.

SOME of the objections were right: Philadelphia's Mayor Rizzo was out of line in providing an altar at taxpayers' expense. But that is a small thing to get livid about in this golden age of boondoggles.

It is just that when religion asserts itself, some people sniff the presence of an ancestral enemy, and react as a Hatfield to a McCoy.

SCHOLAR-JOURNALIST Garry Wills, writing in New York Magazine, uses words like "right-wing," "rigid," "self-defeating," and "anachronistic" to convey his sense that this Pope is unfit to lead the Church of What's Happening Now.

He quotes an Italian politician who complains that John Paul, unlike Paul VI, has "no doubts at all" about his role in the world, a state of certitude he finds downright "scary."

The politician is also a "Marxist." Now Marxists aren't noted for self-doubt about their own role in the world, but that is only one of the ironies that eludes Wills.

The deeper one is that liberal Catholics see nothing peculiar about attacking the Pope in secular media, and citing Communist authorities to buttress their points.

AN ARTICLE like this one illustrates the plight of religion in America: Catholic liberals gain respectability among secular liberals by denouncing the Pope—for being insufficiently liberal.

Letters to the Editor

She Finds A Reminder On Marxist Rules For Conquest

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: In going through some clippings the other day I ran across the following and think it worth printing for everyone to see. It was entitled

"51 Years Ago" The following excerpt from a file on "Communist Rules for Revolution" was obtained by the Armed Forces in Dusseldorf in May, 1919. It might explain some of today's happenings.

A. Corrupt the young, get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.

B. Get control of all means of publicity and thereby

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and obloquy.

4. Always preach true democracy but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government extravagances, destroy its credit. Produce fear of inflation with rising prices and generous discount.

6. Ferment (sic) unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders, and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

7. By specious argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues, honesty, sobriety, continence, faith in the pledged word.

8. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext with the view of confiscation of them and leaving the population helpless.

The above was printed in The Bartlesville Examiner-Enterprise in 1919. Does there seem to be a parallel of thought here in the present trend of action and events?

It is now 60 years later instead of 51 and all this is coming to pass right on schedule. I think it was Stalin who said the Russians would take us "without firing a shot." What do you think?

Plainview Couple See Double Standard On Tax 'Crimes'

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: There is indeed widespread cynicism about big, inefficient, wasteful government which many people think justifies tax cheating.

How can we possibly expect honesty in reporting tax monies when our hard-earned taxes are used by Congress and Senate to vote pay raises for themselves when they are already in the $50,000 to $60,000 bracket, plus double that in expense accounts and side benefits?

Also, when a man is actually caught in certain acts and nothing is done, or they are only "censured" (not even a wrist slapping) over dishonesty, what example do we have. It is only smart to see how much one can get away with, it seems.

Why is it a crime for one and not another? Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Thrush, Plainview

Reader Would Put Halt To Protecting Ex-Presidents

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: It seems to me that since all these Republican candidates for President are finding fault with the Carter administration, they should look back to 1973 to the Arab Oil Embargo.

We had a Republican President then. What did he do about the energy crisis? Nothing.

Also, I think it is time to stop Secret Service protection for ex-Presidents and ex-President's widows. I can't see spending millions of dollars for protection for two ex-Presidents who are galivanting all over the world. Let them hire their own bodyguards!

Also, I'm for deporting Madalyn Murray O'Hair to Russia. Mrs. Joe S. Mangum, Wolforth

Lubbock Missing Boat On Luring Visitors, He Says

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: An excellent magazine, Texas Highways, should be perused by our local citizenry, especially our propaganda experts. It seems we, as citizens of Lubbock, are getting cheated.

The May 1979 issue of the magazine in question lists some very eye-opening data on tourists who seem not to come to this neck of the woods. Why? I don't know, but statistics speak more clearly than any argument that can be offered.

Lubbock is the 8th largest city in Texas, but of the top 30 cities listed in Texas Highways, our fair hamlet ranks 28th, being topped by such metropolitan giants as Van Horn, Tyler, Fort Stockton, Del Rio, Waco, Laredo and ad infinitum.

Other charts and figures in the same issue reflect the wealth that is left behind as these visitors from the U.S. and many foreign countries come to see the Hollywood version of what Texas really isn't. Instead of going away disappointed, these people write back to the many agencies saddled with advertising the virtues of Texas, extolling the beauty and multi-attractions. They invariably promise to return.

All of the cities mentioned have excellent attractions. I do not demean the towns mentioned above, but merely point out that somewhere Lubbock is missing out on a most lucrative industry.

I realize we have progressed considerably since acquiring the Civic Center, but this facility alone will not explode us into the upper crust of towns like Amarillo, which, though several thousand smaller than Lubbock, ranks 8th in the chart mentioned.

We seem to have a missing link in our information being disseminated as to the many attractions we have.

Our merchants and plain citizens might find some relief to the city's coffers if some of those tourist dollars can be enticed into the home corral. We might not have a Lubbock version of Proposition 13 if we can have a financial transfusion from "outside donors."

He Sees Irony In Carter Oath, Canal 'Giveaway'

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: An editorial that appeared in The Christian Science Monitor, Sept. 24, disclosed that when Jimmy Carter learned that the House rejected the Canal compromise measure on Sept. 20th by a vote of 203-192, he exclaimed that it was "the worst blow of my presidency."

Has our President already forgotten that, well over 17 months ago, he was hell-bent in striving to obtain a two-thirds vote in the Senate in favor of the Canal giveaway, and that at that time he was rendering the worst blow "the people" had ever received from any President?

Oh, no doubt, he will strive again to impose his will upon House legislators and telling them how to vote. And to think that this man has taken an oath of office to "preserve, protect and defend" our Constitution!

Post Office Gets Praise For Aiding Man Enroute Abroad

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: Usually the postal department gets nothing but criticism. I would like to let everyone know how helpful they were to my wife and me.

In late August we were to return to Bangladesh. My wife's passport was sent to Houston for a Japanese Visa. The passport was late in being mailed back to us.

Having the certified number of the letter we called the Post Office, who told us they would do all they could to find the letter and call us.

At 3:30 a.m. the day we were due to leave Lubbock for Japan we received a call from the night supervisor telling us the letter had been located. We went immediately to pick it up. This was only six hours prior to take-off.

My wife joins me in expressing our thanks to the people in the Lubbock Post Office for being so considerate and cooperative. Mark P. Tucker, Cholera Research Lab Dacca, Bangladesh

Former Editor Vies For Commission

AUSTIN (AP) — Jim Hightower, former editor of the Texas Observer, announced Monday he will run for the Texas Railroad Commission seat held by Jim Nugent, calling himself an "old time working people's candidate."

Hightower, 36, said his findings as an investigative reporter for the Observer "made me angry enough about special interest government to run for office." But he told reporters his decision to run was based on an assumption that John Connally's presidential candidacy would draw many conservative Democrats into the Republican primary next May.

"I doubt I would have run had it been otherwise," Hightower said.

He and Nugent will be candidates in the Democratic primary held the same day as the GOP presidential primary. Commissioner John Poerner also has drawn an opponent in the primary, Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll.

Hightower declared his candidacy first in Denison, his hometown, then issued his announcement again outside the Railroad Commission building.

A seat on the three-member commission is "the most powerful elective office in Texas," Hightower told about three dozen well-wishers after he arrived 15 minutes late in a Japanese-made yellow station wagon.

"A senator can debate energy policy, and we've seen that a governor can spill oil on our beaches, but a Texas railroad commissioner directly affects the price of oil and decides what we pay for utilities."

Museum Taking Building Bids

MIDLAND (Special) — The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame will accept bids on Oct. 19 for construction of a 9,000-square-foot addition to the existing central exhibits hall.

Construction is expected to begin by the end of the year. The cost of the expansion, including exhibits and equipment, is expected to be near $1 million, said Russell J. Ramsland, museum president.

Bids, however, will cover only construction costs. The museum does not have enough funds to cover a cost in this range, he said but its executive committee had decided to proceed "on faith."

Heavy inflation rates on construction prompted the museum committee to go ahead with the construction before having the funds for the building and its contents in hand. The museum is prepared to "lock up the new wing while we raise the money for exhibits," he said.

The museum has about $470,000 to apply toward the new wing's cost, but about $115,000 has been earmarked by donors for specific exhibits.

He currently is serving on the International Committee on United States-Mexican Health Initiatives and the House Higher Education Committee on Medical Education and Health Professions.

Ezzell recently was honored by the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens as the outstanding state representative of 1979.

No. 7 America's energy problem is complex. This is the seventh in a series in which we will discuss each of the individual factors affecting the energy situation.

Gasoline prices: What pumped them up?

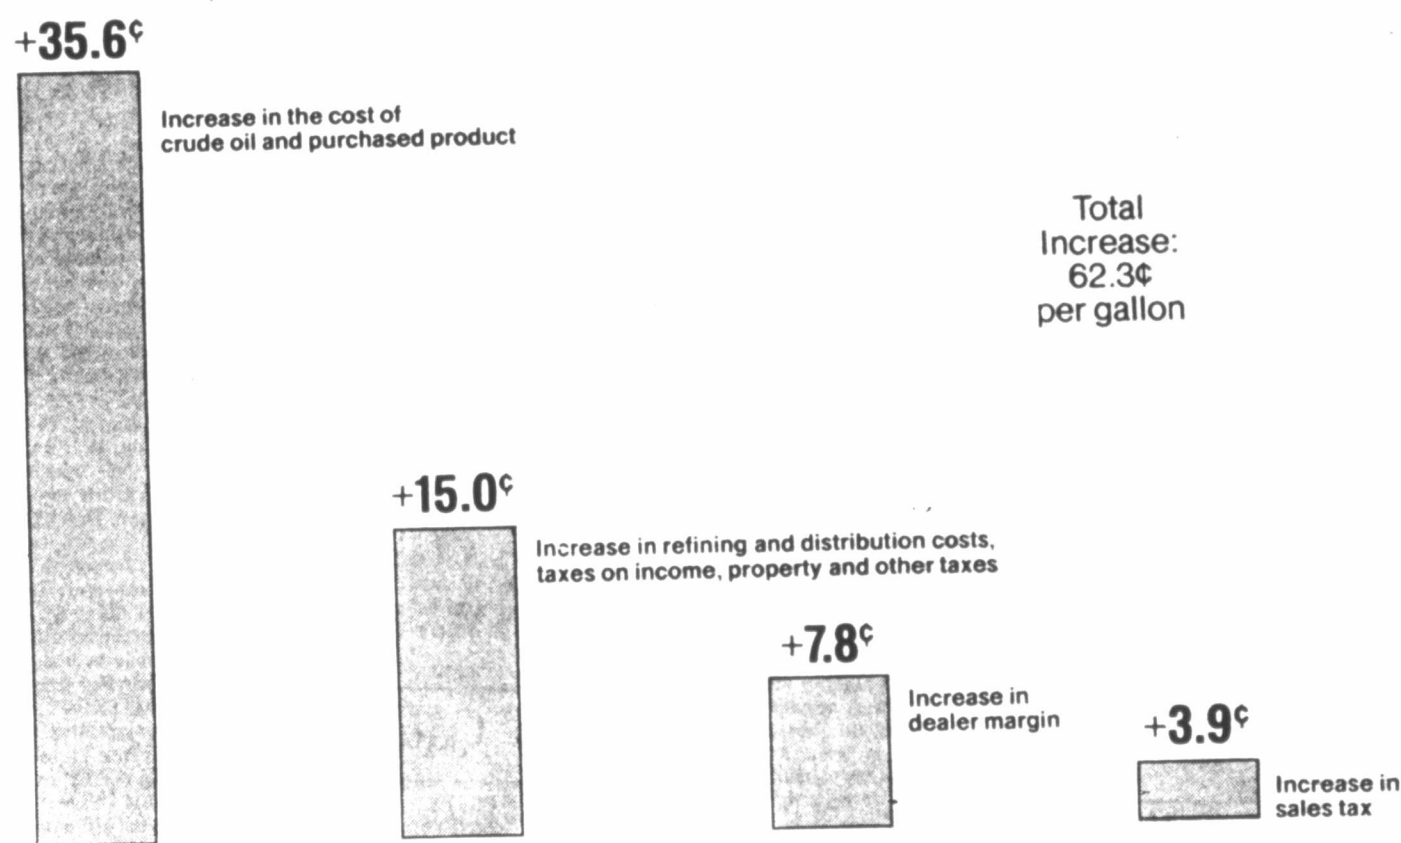

There are some very real, but not always recognized, reasons why the price of gasoline has gone up a lot since the pre-Embargo days of 1973:

Average price per gallon Chevron regular gasoline in Los Angeles.

In six years, a 62.3¢ price increase* —here's what caused it:

Greatly increased costs for crude oil, refining and distribution are the biggest reason for the price increase, as illustrated in this graph:

Chevron's profit—a very small part of the price

*The price increase includes Chevron's profit increase, which averaged 1¢ per gallon on crude oil and petroleum products sold worldwide. In other words, while gasoline prices have gone up 62.3¢ per gallon in the last six years, little of this represents Chevron's increase in profit.

Speeding development of our domestic energy sources can help reduce America's vulnerability to sudden changes in the price or availability of foreign crude oil. In turn, this would help achieve greater price stability at the pump. It would also help if everyone did an even better job of conserving energy.

Thank you for listening.

Offenders Respond To Drug Therapy

GALVESTON (Special) — The two-year-old University of Texas Medical Branch treatment program for sex offenders is producing encouraging results, according to a psychologist who helped develop the program.

Paul A. Walker, Ph.D., assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences and pediatrics, said the drug treatment and psychotherapy have significantly helped men enrolled in the program. He said the men appear to develop a much better control over their behavior.

Walker and Walter J. Meyer III, M.D., associate professor of pediatrics and psychiatry, began the UTMB program in April, 1977. Since then, 43 men have participated in the program, including rapists, child molesters, exhibitionists, and other persons who have committed illegal or potentially harmful sex acts. Some of the men are on parole from prison; others have never been arrested; two men began the program before being sent to prison and have continued while in prison.

Walker said 13 men receive weekly drug injections (either at UTMB or hometown clinics) along with weekly or monthly psychotherapy. An additional 30 men have received or are receiving only psychotherapy.

The drug used in the program is medroxyprogesterone acetate (known by the brand name Depo-Provera). Depo-Provera is a man-made hormone that acts as an anti-androgen (androgens being the family of male sex hormones). The drug lowers a man's sex drive to a controllable level, and the dosage is varied according to the control a man is able to maintain.

Within the first month after enrolling, the men receiving the medication have reported a reduction in their sexual drive and much greater control over their sexual behavior, said Walker, who helped develop a similar program at John Hopkins University School of Medicine. "The results have been truly remarkable in my opinion, and unlike the results of other treatment programs for sex offenders."

WATERS-SCHLINKMAN
Anne Waters and Bob Schlinkman were honored with a brunch Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cathers. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Galey, Mr. and Mrs. George Gilkerson and Mr. and Mrs. James Spears.

Special guests were Mrs. Charles L. Waters, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. R.G. Schlinkman, mother of the future bridegroom, Mrs. Linda Gibbs of Littleton, Colo., aunt of the future bridegroom, and Patricia Waters, sister of the bride-elect.

The couple plans to be married Jan. 5 in Second Baptist Church.

As an example of the program's success, Walker cited a child molester who has been receiving the medication approximately 20 months. Prior to entering the program, the man indicated he had molested children as often as three times a week. Walker said the man has committed one offense since entering the program.

According to Walker, each man who enrolls in the treatment program has an opportunity to receive the weekly injections. But the decision is left to the individual client. Walker said the men receiving medication generally have very strong urges that the men think they cannot control.

"The men have several fairly common reasons for not wanting the injections," he said. "Some of them report a low incidence of illegal desires. Others contend they are innocent of any wrongdoing. Some of them fear that their wives will find out about their illegal sex acts, since the men have to receive their injections from physicians or under a physician's supervision."

The UTMB psychologist said two kinds of psychotherapy are utilized: rational-emotional therapy and covert sensitization therapy. Walker explained that rational-emotional therapy is designed to help each man clarify and reduce his sources of stress.

"Most sex offenders carry out their illegal acts during periods of non-sexual stress, such as job stress or marital stress," he said. "During rational-emotional therapy, we try to help the patient identify the stress and discuss why these factors create stress and how the stress might be handled in an acceptable manner."

A great deal of sexual re-education also is involved. Most of these men are sexually conservative, and they experience a lot of guilt about normal sexuality.

Covert sensitization involves helping a sex offender establish negative mental associations with his illegal activities. A man fantasizes about his behavior while he masturbates. As the man almost reaches climax, he switches his thoughts to the negative aspects of his actions — arrest, prison, public disgrace, etc. Walker said he helps the men write scripts for these sessions.

The result is that the men will be conditioned to think of the negative factors when they are tempted to commit a sexual offense," he said. "In the past, the men have always repressed or ignored these negative consequences."

Rehabilitation often is difficult to assess, Walker indicated. Only one of the 13 men has been released from the medication program since it began. He was released after 10 months of therapy, but Walker emphasized that a follow-up study of at least two years would be required to determine the success of rehabilitation.

"Most of these men have been committing or fantasizing about their acts for years," he said. "Their behavior is

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL G. DONOHUE

Dear Dr. Donohue: This is about the "soft spot" on a baby's head. I am a visitor in this country. I have a girl about 10 years of age whose soft spot is still soft. She is not of strong constitution, but attends school. Can you please suggest something to do? — G.A.S.

The two "soft spots" in a baby's skull are called fontanelles. They are points where the bones of the skull eventually meet. If the skull were rigid and tightly fitted in the early months there would be no room for the brain to increase in size.

The front (anterior) fontanelle measures up to 2.5 inches lengthwise and it normally closes between the fourth and 26th months. The back (posterior) fontanelle is smaller (about an inch) and it usually closes by the second month.

Most new parents believe that the skin protects their baby's brain when the fontanelles are still unclosed. This is not true. A rather tough membrane does bridge the gap between the bones, but care still is required, and fontanelles should never be toyed with.

Yes, of course, at age 10, your daughter's fontanelles should have closed. You should have this child examined promptly if you have not. This can indicate serious medical problems. She needs skull x-rays. On the other hand, what you feel may be a defect in the bone and not a fontanelle. Check to be sure.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My question is: Is there a drug that will dissolve gallstones? If there is, name it. I had ultrasound and there's a stone in the duct. I have had trouble with it lately. — Mrs. M.T.J.

I prefer to avoid discussion of treatments not available to patients. But rules are made to be broken. Your question appears with some regularity, so I'm breaking the rule.

Yes, there is a medication that dissolves gallstones. But it is not yet ready to put on the market. It is called "chenodeoxycholic acid." Success with it has been limited to specific cases of gallstones. It is not, nor will it be, the answer to all types of gallstones, and there are still questions about such things as side effects.

For the present, you should avoid foods that stimulate the gall bladder — fried foods, fatty foods, for example. Otherwise, surgery is the only presently accepted treatment. For a discussion, see "You and Your Gall Bladder." For this booklet, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a mailman and I walk all day and I jog at night. I wonder what kind of rubbing ointment I can use on my legs. After all, a mailman's legs are very essential in his job. — W.W.

I've heard of busmen's holidays, but I don't know many mailmen who jog after a day's work. I doubt you need it.

Many liniments with wintergreen in them help give relief.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Which test would you recommend for minerals in the body? Hair or blood? We had our son's hair tested and the results were that he had a dangerously high amount of potassium in his system. Later a blood test showed his potassium level normal. Is it possible that the hair test was not right because maybe he had not rinsed it well enough before it was taken? We are worried. — Mrs. W.D.

Look, trust the blood test for a reliable potassium reading.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I understand there is a chemical given to people to improve their sense of taste. Would you please tell me about this? — C.H.B.

You probably are referring to zinc, a mineral. Zinc has been said to improve the sense of taste for people with a proven deficiency. Most people who get sufficient meat, fish, and dairy products do not have a deficiency and should not take supplements until advised to by a physician. One of my patients was most enthusiastic about the restoration of her taste after using zinc, but she took it on her own advice, not on mine. It was not what one could call a "scientific study." Zinc levels can be measured, so there need be no guessing about the need for supplements.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Do daughters usually start menstruation about the same time as their mothers? — N.D.

Generally.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Will you kindly print one more letter about women who undress in the closet? Actually, I don't think it's such a bad idea.

Please don't get the notion I'm a prude. Actually, I'm a romantic who agrees with the late Flo Ziegfeld that a semi-clad female is more exciting than one who is bare-naked.

This is especially true when it comes to older couples. Who wants to see sagging flesh, bulges, rolls, sun spots and other unattractive symptoms that appear with age? A muted light from another room can allow both parties to see all that is necessary for proper stimulation.

I undress in private and come to bed in a sheer negligee which shows just enough, and covers half a century plus. — Sixty In Memphis

Dear Memphis: You sound like you'd be sexy any place, but I don't buy the idea that age entitles a woman OR a man to have bulges, rolls and sagging flesh. Granted, many do — and for them the muted light can be a big help. Incidentally, dear, sometimes beauty can be in the eye of the beholder.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been reading you since I was in junior high. It seems I've grown up with Ann Landers. I remember a column a long time ago about a woman who discovered she had married a man who couldn't read even though he graduated from high school.

At the time I thought it was funny. I also wondered how such a thing could happen. Well, now I know, because it has happened to me.

I went with this man (I'll call him John) for six months. He grew up on a farm in Vermont, loves nature and animals — as I do — and is very kind and considerate. We have a very good marriage.

John does construction work, and I am a secretary-bookkeeper. To make a long story short, I began to notice he never read a newspaper, magazine or book and had trouble with signs, directions and even labels. His excuse was he couldn't see the small print.

Yesterday John admitted the truth. He can't read. He was so ashamed he cried when he told me. How can I help him, Ann? Now that I know, I feel it is OUR problem. — One Of Your Flock

Dear One: There are thousands of adults like your John, and I hope someone who cares will do them the biggest

COMPLETE STOCK MARKET IN NYSE, NEX

Stock Market Drops Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Worries that the Federal Reserve's week-end series of tight-money maneuvers will plunge the economy into a deep recession pushed the stock market Monday into its biggest decline in five weeks.

Although the Fed's moves were aimed at dampening long-term inflationary expectations, they are expected to push short-term interest rates sharply higher as they attempt to slow the economy.

Two influential economists, Otto Eckstein of Data Resources Inc. and Michael Evans of Evans Economics, predicted a 15 percent prime lending rate soon. The bank rate on loans to top-ranked customers now is a record-high 13 1/2 percent.

The Fed's actions included a boost in its charge on loans to member banks and an increase in the amount of deposits banks must set aside in cash. The moves, many of which had been widely expected, pushed the dollar higher against foreign currencies and sent the value of gold and other precious metals lower.

On Wall Street, the steps sparked some selling early in the session. Then "concern that they could have a very detrimental effect brought on added selling" toward the close, said Newton D. Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co.

Critic Terms New Kurt Vonnegut Book 'Odyssey Of Loser'

By Norman Nadel
NEW YORK (NEA) — Kurt Vonnegut probably is the most entertaining moralist of modern times, which accounts for the popularity of his novels and the adoring loyalty of the young people who make up most of his following.

So whenever a new book of his appears, it generates an eager and sometimes apprehensive curiosity, to see if he's still keeping the faith.

He's old enough — 56 — to have long since compromised his high hopes for humanity, as most of us do. Still, he believes that there are a few good and decent individuals, who, more often than not, lose rather than win the traditional rewards of life, and he celebrates them in his stories.

Once again, there is reason to be glad, and reassured. "Jailbird" (Dellacorte Press-Seymour Lawrence, $9.95) is the odyssey of a loser, if ever there was one; and the forces of greed, cruelty and contempt for ordinary people impose their heavy hand on the plot. But it still ignites — or re-ignites — a glow in the heart, and we count on Vonnegut for that.

Measured for its sustaining of interest and literary grace, "Jailbird" is far superior to his two previous books, "Wampeters, Foma and Granfalcons" and "Slapstick."

In fact, it stands up well among his best writing in "Cat's Cradle," "God Bless You, Mr. Rosewater," and the ultimate Vonnegut story, "Slaughterhouse Five, or The Children's Crusade."

Genesis of "Jailbird" was an encounter Vonnegut had with a labor union officer in the writer's native Indianapolis 34 years ago. The union man, an ex-coal miner was a Harvard graduate ("Harvard is all through this book, although I myself never went there," explains Vonnegut in his prologue.)

The friend, Powers Haggood, had been in court that morning on a labor case and the judge had asked: "Mr. Haggood, why would a man from such a distinguished family and with such a fine education choose to live as you do?"

"Why?" said Haggood. "Because of the Sermon on the Mount, sir."
On the last pages of "Jailbird," the story's amiably fatalistic protagonist, Walter F. Starbuck, recalls being questioned by Congressman Richard Nixon about his communist associations: "... why, as the son of immigrants who had been treated so well by Americans, as a man who had been sent to Harvard by an American capitalist, I had been so ungrateful to the American economic system."

Starbuck admits his answer was unoriginal: "Why?" The Sermon on the Mount, sir."

"Jailbird" opens on the day that Starbuck, at the age of 64, is awaiting release from prison, having served time for his unintentional involvement in Watergate. He wound up working for Nixon.

From that point, it drifts forward and back in time, as Vonnegut stories are inclined to do, from Starbuck's Harvard years through his work with the federal government, and his episode as a vice-president of RAMJAC. RAMJAC is a conglomerate which controls 19 percent of all businesses in the U.S., including the New York Times, which it acquired only because it wanted a profitable cat food company owned by the Times.

He recalls some fascinating people, including all the Harvard men in the federal prison and a lunch counter proprietor with a french-fried hand. The man had dropped his expensive Bulova Accutron in a vat of boiling cooking oil and, without thinking, had plunged his hand in to rescue his watch. Starbuck shares with us three of the four women he'd loved — his wife, his fiancée Sarah, and Mary Kathleen O'Looney (the fourth was his mother).

End To Picket Lines Nearing With Votes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One film industry craft union ratified a three-year contract Monday and a second union prepared to vote on a tentative agreement that could end the picketing of major Hollywood studios and film processors.

Mac St. John, spokesman for the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees, said the union approved the pact 6,362 to 5,528. The terms are retroactive to Aug. 1.

IATSE represents 24,000 Los Angeles area behind-the-camera film technicians. St. John said union leadership was "very pleased" the contract was ratified.

The alliance threatened a strike last month which could have shut down the motion picture and television industry for the first time in 33 years. But agreement was reached just moments before a strike deadline and the union later voted by mail.

Meanwhile, striking office workers were voting on a contract offer that would officially end a 12-day walkout by members of Local 174 of the Office and Professional Employees International Union.

However, the 2,200-member union decided at a meeting Friday to continue picketing Monday until the vote was taken. Union spokeswoman Ruth Benson said there was "reduced" picketing by OPEIU members at all Hollywood sites over the weekend.

The office workers' strike against 20th Century-Fox, Universal, MGM and Columbia Pictures and the film labs began Sept. 26 and for a time halted the filming for the television shows "M-A-S-H" and "CHiPs." Other production also was disrupted.

Promoter Of Laughter Dies

ELBERON, N.J. (AP) — George Q. Lewis, the nation's foremost laughter and founder of the National Laugh Foundation, is dead at age 55.

The jovial gray-haired head of the foundation, an organization dedicated to promoting the therapeutic value of fun, died Thursday of a heart attack at his home here.

"Life should be a laugh, not a lament," he said in a recent interview. "A day without laughter is a wasted day. What is life without laughter? It's dismal. It's dull. It's depressing."

Lewis created National Laugh Week in the mid-1930s during the height of the Depression so Americans could forget their troubles, however briefly.

Man Suffers Gunshot Wounds During Fight

A 19-year-old Lubbock man was treated and released from Health Sciences Center Hospital for minor gunshot wounds suffered in an apparent fight Monday morning. Reports indicate the teenager and three other men were stopped by police about 12:15 a.m. Monday in the 500-block of East Tulane Street for alleged unlawful carrying of weapons and firing shots at a nearby house. An ambulance was called after the officer noticed one of the men was suffering from superficial gunshot wounds on the arm and stomach. The victim said he had been shot by a 19-year-old man who lives in the house at which the four men allegedly had fired shots at earlier. A .22-caliber rifle and pistol were confiscated from the men's car, according to reports, but no arrests were made at the scene. A 25-year-old Lubbock man escaped serious injury in an altercation about 10:15 p.m. Sunday despite being cut twice on the chest and once on the right hand, forehead and left side. The injured man, whose name was not revealed, was treated and released at Methodist Hospital. Reports indicate the victim was confronted by a knife-wielding man in the 2900-block of Cornell Street. The man told police his assailant turned on him with a knife for no reason. However, the suspect, who along with his live-in girlfriend, met with the officer at the scene, said the complainant had gone to their house and started a fight because, according to the woman, he was jealous of their relationship. The suspect reportedly admitted to police that he had cut the man and told officers the knife was on the ground in front of a nearby residence. The man said he used the knife after the complainant appeared to be coming at him with a beer bottle. No arrests were made at the scene. The knife was confiscated. Charles Williams of 2807 E. Eighth St. met with police at West Texas Hospital and said a man tried to kill him when he went to his house about 12:30 a.m. Monday. Williams, who was treated and released, said that after tapping on the man's window, he heard gunshots from within the residence and then the window shattered. When Williams backed off, he discovered he had been shot in the leg and hand. The alleged gunman was described as a tall black man between 24 and 25 years old. Police said they suspect a person armed with either a BB gun or pellet gun perched on the second or third floor of a Main Street building and fired shots down at the street below, resulting in minor injuries to two Lubbock men shortly before 11 p.m. Sunday. Mary Wayne Tinsley, 23, of Lubbock said he was walking into a club in the 2400-block of Main Street when he felt a stinging blow to his back. Minutes later, he discovered he had been shot in the back.

Raiders Continue Monday Dynasty

OAKLAND (AP) — Linebacker Ted Hendricks scored a touchdown on a 23-yard interception return and rookie Reggie Kinlaw sacked Miami quarterback Bob Griese four times Monday night as the Raiders won their eighth consecutive Monday night game by beating the Dolphins, 13-3.

The Raiders, who are 12-1 in the National Football League Monday night series, shut down Miami's offense almost completely through the first half and capitalized on two turnovers in the first five minutes of the third period to take a 13-0 lead.

Tony Nathan of the Dolphins returned the second-half kickoff, fumbled after being tackled by kicker Ray Guy, and Oakland's Clarence Hawkins recovered at the Miami 33-yard line. Ken Stabler hit Raymond Chester, one of the tight ends in the Oakland double-tight end formation, with a 15-yard touchdown pass four plays later.

Jim Breech's extra-point attempt was wide to the right.

The Dolphins, who had only four first downs and 35 net yards on offense in the first half, picked up their fifth first down on their first possession in the third quarter. But Griese then threw the pass which Hendricks returned for the touchdown.

The linebacker stepped in front of tight end Bruce Hardy, who was near the right sideline, and had a clear path into the end zone.

Miami's offense finally began moving with a 74-yard drive in the third quarter. A 1-yard touchdown plunge by Delvin Williams was nullified by a holding penalty and Uwe von Schamann kicked a 23-yard field goal.

The Raiders evened their season record at 3-3. Miami fell to 4-2 with a second consecutive loss, and dropped into a first-place tie with New England in the American Conference East.

The Oakland defense sacked Griese six times. Kinlaw, the middle guard out of Oklahoma, got his fourth sack of the night on a fourth-down play at Oakland's 12-yard line in the fourth period.

The Dolphins, needing two yards, went for a first down rather than try a field goal. And Kinlaw burst up the middle to spill Griese for a 9-yard loss. The Dolphins had marched from their 3 to the Oakland 12, with a 30-yard run by Williams the biggest gainer.

A final Miami scoring threat ended when cornerback Lester Hayes intercepted a Griese pass deep in Oakland territory with 5:33 left in the game.

ORIOLES HOST PIRATES

World Series Set To Begin

By The Associated Press

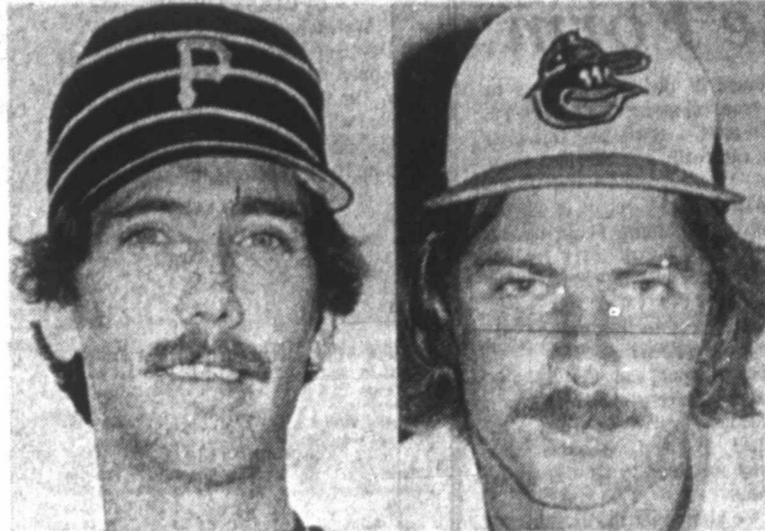

Until this year's World Series, the paths of the Baltimore Orioles and the Pittsburgh Pirates had crossed just once during the 76-year history of the October Classic. Yet that lone meeting produced one of the most memorable Series — an upset victory for the underdog Pirates and a personal showcase for one of the game's greatest stars.

The year was 1971, and the Series didn't lack personal highspots. Steve Blass and Dave McNally won two games each and posted earned run averages under 2. Baltimore's Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, combined for 14 hits. A lean-as-a-rail rookie named Bruce Kison turned the Series around with a heroic relief job.

But above all, the 1971 World Series glowed with the presence of the Pirates' majestic right fielder, Roberto Clemente. The four-time National League batting champion, who would tragically perish in a plane crash barely a year later, reached the apex of his career during those seven fateful days in October, 1971.

The Orioles had jumped to a 2-1 lead in that Series but Game 4, the first World Series game played at night, turned out to be the turning point of the Classic.

Pirate starter Luke Walker was shelled for three Baltimore runs in the first inning. Kison, a tall 21-year-old rookie who would be married in just four days, was called on to relieve, and held the Birds to just one hit over 6 2-3 innings.

BRUCE KISON

Meanwhile, the Pirates touched starter Pat Dobson for two runs in the first and one in the third, with Clemente collecting three hits in the process. In the seventh, backup catcher Milt May singled home Bob Robertson, and the Pirates led 4-3. Relief ace Dave Guisti held on for the last two innings, and the Series was knotted at two games apiece.

The Series boiled down to a dramatic seventh game, and Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh called on Blass, while Weaver put up Mike Cuellar. In the fourth, Clemente homered over the left field wall, his 12th hit of the series, for a 1-0 Pirate lead. The Bucs added a run in the eighth on Jose Pagan's RBI double. Clemente wound up with a .414 Series average, and Blass pitched his second complete-game victory, a 2-1 four-hitter, to give the Pirates the World Championship.

Now, eight years later, the faces are new. On the Pirates, only Willie Stargell, Kison and catcher Manny Sanguillen remain from the 1971 champs, with Murtaugh and pitcher Bob Moose having died in 1976. Palmer, Mark Belanger, manager Weaver and coach Jim Frey remain from the Orioles, with Frank Robinson and Ellie Hendricks also having become coaches. In addition, current Pirate pitcher Grant Jackson hurled for Baltimore in the 1971 Series. Now the names are Singleton, Parker, Murray, and Moreno ... all hoping to add to the Pirate-Oriole legacy that began with the spine-tingling Series of '71.

Ironically, Kison will start tonight's 7:30 p.m. game for Pittsburgh against Oriole left-hander Mike Flanagan, a 23-game winner during the regular season.

Weaver said, of his decision to bypass three-time Cy Young Award winner Jim Palmer in favor of Flanagan: "Our scouts and people who follow the National League recommended we use left-handers," and then, pointing to Stargell at Monday's press conference, added, "There's another reason, right there."

Stargell, when asked about the possibility of facing five left-handed pitchers should the Series go seven games, said, "If I'm hitting, I can hit anyone. If not, my 12-year-old son can get me out."

U.S. Team Advances

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis beat John Alexander 5-7, 6-4, 8-6, 6-2 Monday to win the United States series against Australia and advance the defending champions into the Davis Cup final against Italy.

John McEnroe, the U.S. Open winner and the other American singles player, won the final singles match over Mark Edmondson 6-3, 6-4 to make the final score 4-1 for the Americans, who won the Cup last year in the final against Britain.

This year's final will be held in the United States in December, but no date or site had been selected Monday. Italy attained the final Sunday by beating Czechoslovakia 4-1.

Gerulaitis, who survived a heart-stopper against Edmondson last Friday, also had some anxious moments early against Alexander.

"We both started off a little shaky," Gerulaitis said, noting that they both had to contend with strong crosscurrent winds. "After winning the first set, I figured that if I could just get J.A.'s (Alexander's) service back, I'd be OK. I was in there and I knew I wasn't going to be tired."

"You can't give up in tennis. J.A. might get hit by a bird and drop dead. Davis Cup tennis is different from other tennis. You are not playing for yourself. You are playing for your country."

The Australians, underdogs in the series, got their lone win Sunday when Alexander and Phil Dent beat Bob Lutz and Stan Smith 9-7, 6-4, 6-4. It was the first time the American pair had been defeated in Davis Cup play in 11 years as partners.

The Davis Cup semifinal was the 37th meeting between Australia and the United States. The United States has won 20 of these encounters to 17 for Australia.

The United States has won the Davis Cup 25 times and Australia 24.

UT-Oklahoma Promises Excitement, Akers Says

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Coach Fred Akers described the upcoming Texas-Oklahoma football game Monday as the top game in college football, and he said it will be "intensely fought."

Oklahoma and Texas, both unbeaten and untied, will match their high national rankings Saturday at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas before a sellout crowd of 73,032 and a national television audience.

Kickoff will be at approximately 3 p.m.

No. 3 Oklahoma is 4-0, averaging 45.5 points a game, and No. 4 Texas has yielded only 18 points — and one touchdown — in three victories.

Akers told his regular weekly news conference Oklahoma is better offensively than it was last year when the Sooners defeated Texas, 31-10.

Akers also said Texas has a better team than it did in 1978, but he added, "We have to get some things straightened out, especially on offense."

"Oklahoma has a fine football team. They have one every year — and so do we," said Akers. "I don't see much change in the circumstances... It's the No. 1 game in the country, and it's going to be an intensely-fought football game."

Akers was told Oklahoma had lost 11 players to pro football this year, and he said, "Apparently they've got high-quality replacements. It doesn't seem to have slowed them down much."

Akers said the Oklahoma offense, featuring 1978 Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims at running back, "hasn't been extended. I haven't put a pencil to it, but they probably have the largest offensive line in the United States — any league — they've got to average 260 pounds."

"They have tremendous speed and apparently great depth among their running backs," said Akers.

Asked how he might stop Sims, Akers replied, "I don't know that. I know this — you can't just concentrate on Billy Sims, because they have sufficient quality that if you concentrate on him, the others can kill you."

It was mentioned that Oklahoma usually has fumble problems early in the season, and Akers replied, "Oklahoma fumbles against everybody, then they get serious against us and don't fumble. "I hope we do the same thing with moving around (motion penalties) — it's time to get serious."

Fairbanks Unruffled

By UPI
Four losses in five weeks have not dampened the spirit of Colorado head football coach Chuck Fairbanks.

Fairbanks still feels comfortable with his decision last winter to leave the prolific New England Patriots of the National Football League for the troubled Buffaloes of the Big Eight. Many coaches go from college to pro but very few take that extra step back into the college ranks as did Fairbanks.

"You can mark it down," said Fairbanks after Saturday's 49-24 loss to No. 3 Oklahoma. "There will be better days ahead for the University of Colorado. I have no regrets whatsoever. I made my deal and will make it right."

The earliest time to produce a top-flight team is three years. You must have a couple exceptional years of recruiting back-to-back and then you have to give them time to grow up a little."

The Buffs have only a 17-16 win over

Indiana to show for Fairbanks' first five weeks on the job. And it will be at least another two weeks before Colorado can give Fairbanks his second win. The Buffs are idle this week.

ChiSox To Stay With LaRussa

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox manager Tony LaRussa signed a one-year contract to pilot the club in 1980, team spokesman said Monday.

LaRussa, the youngest manager in the major leagues, replaced Don Kessinger, who resigned as White Sox player-manager on Aug. 2. In the final 54 games, LaRussa guided the team to a 27-27 finish.

Elmore Smith Lost To Cavs

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Cavaliers center Elmore Smith underwent surgery Monday for removal of torn cartilage in his right knee and is expected to be out for the entire season.

The Cavaliers placed Smith and guard Butch Lee on the injured list as they began reducing the squad in preparation for Friday night's National Basketball Association opener at New Jersey.

The Cavaliers said Dr. Jon Hardacre, the team surgeon, operated on Smith at St. Luke's Hospital. Smith had a similar operation on his left knee last year.

The 7-foot center missed four of the Cavaliers' six preseason exhibitions this year because of the right-knee injury.

Soccer Great To Appear

Bobby Moffat, former English soccer star and player for the Dallas Tornados, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Wilson Junior High School cafeteria.

The event is sponsored by the West Texas Soccer Coaches Association. For further information, contact Mark Onley, 795-9011.

Raider Volleyball Team Hosts ENMU

Buckeye Coach Shelters Team In Hayes' Manner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Earle Bruce, borrowing a page from his old boss, Woody Hayes, is closing Ohio State football practices this week with the Big Ten Conference lead at stake.

Indiana's Hoosiers, tied for the league lead with Michigan and the Buckeyes, come to town Saturday and Bruce is taking no chances after a 16-7 escape against lowly Northwestern last week.

"We could have done better planning. When you're told you're 34 points ahead before the start . . . I wish they would quit printing that stuff. Some people don't prepare our team to play. There's always outside influences working on your team," he said of the Northwestern game.

Hayes, in his 28 seasons with the Buckeyes, traditionally closed practice the week before Michigan. Now Bruce, trying to protect a 5-0 start and national ranking, has done it in mid-season.

One reason is to conduct some position experiments, namely at tailback and tight end, before the first-place showdown with Indiana. Injuries have hit both spots for the Buckeyes.

And another is to cut down on those distracting outside influences.

"You can't have open practice at Ohio State. If we opened practice, you'd have people walking through there like you wouldn't believe. I'd have people sitting on the 50-yard line."

"A guy walks in and you say 'Where you from?' Well I'm from Indianapolis and I came over to watch." Indianapolis

What are you doing here? How can you have everything open?" the Ohio State coach asked his weekly media luncheon Monday.

Bruce took a verbal poke at oddsmakers, the media and Ohio State students after the Buckeyes, a big favorite, struggled into the final minutes before edging Northwestern.

"If you listen (to the 34-point odds), it affects you," he said. "A kid has to be a kid. He has to live. He walks across campus and hears, '34 this week. 34 this week.' That influence is great. You can't guard against (those influences)."

"We're in a society where there's a bunch of people. If I could put them (the players) in a vacuum, it would be something else."

Vermeil Seeks Notoriety For Rampaging Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Dick Vermeil said Monday he is "very, very pleased" with his 5-1 Philadelphia Eagles and "we feel we are good enough to beat any team in the National Football League."

It was a comment not made lightly at a press luncheon where he praised his offense for "the best execution of our game" in Sunday's 28-17 victory over Washington.

Though admittedly optimistic, Vermeil refused to predict the Eagles would make the NFL playoffs for the second year in a row because they still have to play Dallas and St. Louis each twice, Washington again, and Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit and Houston.

"If we play up to our ability we can beat them all," Vermeil said. "But the only thing we can do right now is get ready for St. Louis next Sunday. It will be a very tough but intensive football game and we will have to play our best to beat them. They are very explosive."

"You can't take good performance for granted. When you do that's when you have a bad performance. You have to prove yourself every Sunday."

Philadelphia slipped into the NFL playoffs last year on a 9-7 record and Vermeil said nine victories might be enough to make it again.

credit for being more than just hard-working character people, that's all."

Vermeil insisted that if the Eagles keep doing positive things "people are going to recognize us as a pretty good football team."

IDENTITY CRISIS? — Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher John Candelaria arrives in Baltimore Monday carrying a portable radio and wearing an Oriole cap. The Cubs and Baltimore Orioles square off in the first game of the 1979 World Series tonight at Memorial Stadium. (AP Laserphoto)

"I tell my squad all the time we're not going to be 15 and 1, but that's how hard we're going to try to play every Sunday," he said. "If we don't go 15 and 1, then on a given Sunday our performance wasn't good enough to win. But I think they now believe that if their performance is good enough they have enough ability to win regardless of whom they're playing."

"I'm not saying we're superior. If Terry Bradshaw (of the Steelers) throws a touchdown pass, he's an all-pro quarterback. If Ron Jaworski throws one, he's just a gutty kid who works hard."

"If Carl Hairston gets a great sack and a great day they say he plays well, doesn't he. But if Harvey Martin (of Dallas) has one he gets a standing ovation and everyone calls him all-pro. If John Bunting has a super game, what does that do in contrast to Jack Lambert (of Pittsburgh) having a great game?"

"We have some very good football players here and they should be given

Cubs' Gomez Reminisces About Days With Castro

CHICAGO (AP) — Don't mention pressure to Preston Gomez, the Chicago Cubs' new manager. He knows what it's all about. When he was managing the Havana Sugar Kings, Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba would sit on his bench.

Castro, a sports enthusiast in general and a baseball fan in particular, also would insist on pitching batting practice.

"Who was going to say 'no' to him?" said Gomez, who succeeded Herman

Frank and Monday held his first news conference as manager of the Cubs.

Gomez has had a close relationship with Castro through the years although after managing the Sugar Kings to the Junior World Series in 1959 he left Cuba to join the Los Angeles Dodgers organization.

"Castro even came to the World Series games in Minneapolis," said Gomez. "That's how much of a baseball fan he is. After I left Cuba, Castro called me and asked why (I left). I told him I could learn more and advance my career. He never objected."

Although relations between the United States and Cuba became strained after Castro took power and Cubans were not allowed out of the country, Gomez was one of the few persons allowed in and out of Cuba even though he had long before become a citizen of the United States.

"Whenever I would go back, Castro would ask me about Cuban players in the states. 'How's (Tony) Oliva doing? How's (Minnie) Minoza doing?' He wanted to know everything about everyone," said Gomez.

Gomez believes that chances are excellent that some exhibition games soon will be played between the major leagues and Cuban players but "it's all up to the State Department."

"A few years ago Castro wanted the New York Yankees to play exhibition games there but the commissioner (Bowie Kuhn) wouldn't allow it. Kuhn wanted an All-Star team to play there so that no club would have an advantage when the time comes for Cuban players to play in the major leagues again."

"I think things got close to having the exhibition games but the State Department put a stop to it when Cuba sent forces to Angola," said Gomez. "Now, of course, there's the matter of Russian soldiers in Cuba."

"But one of these days they'll get close again," said Gomez. "because Castro wants it. He wants to see what his players can do against major league professionals. If the Cubans win, that'll be fine with Castro. If they lose, after all, they are amateurs playing against major league professionals."

Castro is expected to speak before the United Nations later this week, probably Friday. Does Gomez, who hasn't been back to Cuba in three years, expect to hear from the Cuban premier?

"It's possible," laughed Gomez. "Maybe he'll tell me how to manage the Cubs."

Bucks' Star To Report

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marques Johnson, all-star forward who failed to report to the Milwaukee Bucks training camp this fall, has decided to rejoin the National Basketball Association club and planned to return to Milwaukee from Los Angeles later today, The Milwaukee Journal reported.

"It's possible that Marques would get to Indianapolis in time for the (Bucks' final exhibition) game Monday night, but I really don't think so," Ted Steinberg, Johnson's agent, was quoted as saying.

"I think he'll be coming into Milwaukee, but, in any event, I think it is safe to assume that he'll be with them in time to practice Tuesday," Steinberg said.

Johnson, a former UCLA all-American, had explained his absence by saying the Bucks failed to come through on certain financial improvements he said had been promised to him.

The Bucks have a policy against renegotiating player contracts. Johnson's six-year contract with the team is estimated to pay him about $200,000 a year.

Hull May Return To NHL

WINNIPEG (AP) — Bobby Hull will tell Winnipeg general manager John Ferguson in the next few days whether he will come out of retirement and rejoin the Jets for their first National Hockey League season.

"I've had it in my mind for a while to come back. I've always wanted to do what I could for the Winnipeg Jets," said Hull, a part owner of the team.

The all-time great left wing, who jumped to the World Hockey Association in 1972, retired after eight games with Winnipeg last year.

"I feel he could help bring our younger players along quicker because of his experience," said Ferguson, who has asked Hull to come out of retirement. "Without him, we'll have a competitive team; but with him, we'll have a very good team."
