Federal Funds Bill Clears Congress

Senate Votes Pay Hike Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise bill giving members of Congress a pay raise and restoring full salaries for 1.5 million government workers was passed Friday by the Senate and swiftly signed into law by President Carter.

Carter was concerned about the appropriations delay and he directed that once the bill reached the White House it be brought to him immediately. It was, and the president signed the bill in the White House residence at 10 p.m. EDT, said deputy presidential press secretary Rex Granum.

Passage came after the Senate killed on a 43-42 vote an attempt by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., to delete the 5.5 percent pay hike for lawmakers.

His amendment would have forced the House to again face the question of whether it would insist on the $3,200 a year pay raise it maintained be part of the bill.

The Senate did vote, in a separate bill, to reject the pay raise. But that action was considered more show than substance since it is a separate bill that the House likely will not even consider.

Acceptance of the compromise, on a 44-42 vote, came after the Senate earlier had rejected the measure 62-26.

The Senate's initial rejection of the compromise was greeted with hisses and boos on the House floor. And House Maajority Whip John Brademas, D-Ind., told members, "I'm tempted myself to join in those reactions."

The Senate's earlier rejection of the compromise came after Weicker implored his colleagues to stand firm on their previous position of rejecting any pay raise for members of Congress.

Referring to cutbacks in government paychecks and programs, Weicker said, "Those people and those programs were held hostage so the House of Representatives could vote themselves a pay raise."

Almost all senators who spoke for the compromise said they did so reluctantly. Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said he continued to believe the pay raise was a bad idea, but added that 50 million beneficiaries of federal programs would be affected if the stalemate were not broken.

The Senate's rejection came a few hours after House members had accepted by voice vote the compromise worked out earlier by negotiators from both chambers.

5.5 Percent Pay Raise

The House-approved compromise had called for the Senate to accept the House-passed 5.5 percent pay raise for lawmakers. That move would add $3,200 a year to the current $57,500-a-year congressional salary. The Senate had insisted it wanted no pay raise.

The compromise also called for both the House and Senate to accept a modification in existing language limiting federal funding for abortions.

There was little debate in the House over the compromise. However, Rep. Robert K. Dornan, R-Calif., blasted the language on abortion and urged House members to remember the words of Pope John Paul II to "stand up for life."

"I don't care how many paychecks are held up," Dornan shouted in an emotional burst. "We've killed 2 million people in their mother's wombs in the past two years."

Money Bill Stalled

The congressional battle has held up passage of an emergency money bill needed to provide operating funds for the various departments in the fiscal year that began 12 days ago.

Both House and Senate negotiators had expressed hope earlier that their respective chambers would accept the compromise. But they announced they would reconvene to consider a standby measure if either chamber rejected the proposal.

That alternative measure would make no mention of federal funding for abortion or of a congressional pay raise. It simply would provide continuing funds for the operation of the government through Nov. 1.

The only major difference in the compromise presented Friday and the one that failed in conference the day before was the pay raise proposal.

Senators Reverse Stand

The Senate negotiators had rejected the 5.5 percent pay hike wanted by the House on Thursday. But they agreed Friday to include it in the legislation.

The impasse not only resulted in half pay for some 1.5 million federal workers, it also seems to have cost the government at least $1.8 million and probably much more.

Because no agreement was reached before Oct. 1, members of Congress, federal judges and some 22,000 bureaucrats automatically received a 12.9 percent pay hike.

Stevens, citing a court ruling, had said that hike remains in effect until it is

Suspect Seized In New Mexico Murder Shot In Bizarre Incident

A LINCOLN County, New Mexico, sheriff's deputy arrested the accused killer of a fellow deputy Friday, then shot the suspect three times in the mistaken belief that the handcuffed man had shot him in the leg.

The arrest and shooting ended a week-long manhunt in mountainous terrain for the suspected slayer of Deputy Tommy Bedford, 30, of Capitan, N.M.

The murder suspect, Robert Eldon Cox, 40, address unknown, was arrested about 12:45 p.m. MDT in Corona, N.M., about 80 miles from the scene of the murder.

day after he had stopped two burglary suspects on a desolate road near Lake Nogal.

A few minutes after noon, Bedford radioed sheriff's headquarters in Carrizozo that he needed help, authorities said.

When another deputy arrived, he

Iranian Oil Export Cut Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — Iran apparently has drastically cut its oil exports in recent days, oil industry and U.S. government sources said Friday. The reasons for the cut were uncertain, but if prolonged, a reduction could create a severe squeeze in world oil supplies.

Cox, recently paroled from prison for forgery, was charged with capital murder in the death of Bedford, whose bullet-riddled body was found Monday near Lake Nogal, just north of Ruidoso.

After arresting Cox in Corona, Deputy Don Dose drove 46 miles south to the jail in Carrizozo, where both men suffered gunshot wounds.

Rare White Pelican Visitor In Lubbock

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

TAKE IT FROM an expert: the fishing's great this time of year in Maxey Lake.

The expert is a white pelican that has found fishing so good in the lake it has taken up temporary residence there.

Louisiana's state bird has been in Lubbock off and on for about a month, says Cliff Stogner, a member of the Texas Ornithological Society.

The pelican was first spotted at Dupree Park on Sept. 1, Stogner said, and it began flying back and forth between Dupree and Maxey parks.

After a couple of weeks, the bird disappeared, then mysteriously reappeared on Maxey Lake about two weeks later, Stogner said.

Asked why the bird might have decided to lay over in Lubbock, Stogner replied, "You never know about birds."

He said it's "very unusual" to find a solitary pelican inside the city limits, but said this pelican apparently "likes the little park."

Pelicans tend to move from place to place in the southern U.S. during the

'All I See Is Red Day' To Get Tinge Of Blue Via Cold Front

PARTLY CLOUDY skies, temperatures in the mid-60s and more than 40,000 "All I See Is Red Day" Red Raider backers are expected to greet today's 2 p.m. kickoff of the Texas Tech-Arkansas football game at Jones Stadium.

A cold front moving through the area from the north is expected to bring more typical fall weather than the area recently has been experiencing. Game time temperatures should be in the middle 60s, with cool northeasterly winds at 10-15 mph.

Although Lubbock motels and hotels were near capacity Friday night, Tech ticket office officials reported good seats still available for the clash between Tech and the 12th-ranked Razorbacks.

Forecasts for the outcome of the game range from predictions of an Arkansas victory by 33-16 ("Major Hoopie's 1979 Football Forecast") and by 28-12 ("The Bob Harmon Forecast") to another cry in the wilderness by last week's soothsayer, "Ray Scott's Computer Kick-Off," for another 21-20 win by the Raiders over their favored opponents.

Scott's team of forecasters picked Texas Tech to whip Texas A&M 21-20.

High temperatures Sunday will climb near 80, after a low tonight in the middle 40s, according to National Weather Service predictions.

The extended forecast for the area calls for continued dry weather through Wednesday with minor day to day temperature changes. Highs should be mostly in the 80s, with lows in the 40s.

There was a wide range of weather conditions over the nation Friday, with scattered showers and temperatures ranging from record highs to below freezing.

Snow pelted the northern Great Lakes region, harbinger of an approaching mass of cold air out of Canada, and it was windy over much of the Great Lakes.

Showers were scattered over the Northeast and Midwest.

Showers are forecast today from the Ohio and Tennessee River valleys to the mid-Atlantic states. Rain and snow are forecast for the Great Lakes. Showers and a few thunderstorms were forecast for the central and southern parts of California, with thundershowers expected in southern Florida.

Train Crash Kills Two

HARVEY, Ill. (AP) — An Amtrak passenger train and an Illinois Central Gulf Railroad freight train collided in this Chicago suburb Friday, killing two persons and injuring at least 30 others, authorities said.

More than 100 passengers on the train who were not injured were taken to the Harvey Police Department. The exact number aboard the passenger train was not known.

Police speculated that a switching error may have been responsible for the accident. One of the passenger cars was overturned on its side.

The dead were believed to be employees of Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, said railroad spokeswoman Renie Eimbinder.

She said the trains collided about 9:05 p.m.

Extent Unestimated

Government and industry sources were unable to estimate the extent of the apparent reduction. But London Oil Reports said exports had been reduced by 2.3 million barrels a day to 1 million barrels. A barrel contains 42 gallons.

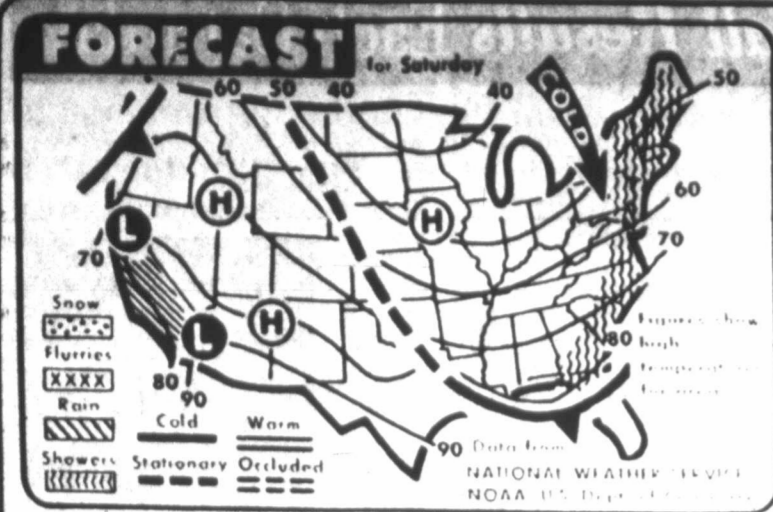

Earlier this week, the U.S. trade publication Oil & Gas Journal estimated Iranian production had dropped to 1 million barrels daily from the normal level of about 4 million barrels. Because Iran consumes about 700,000 barrels of oil a day, that cut could reduce exports to 300,000 barrels a day.

A sharp Iranian oil cutback could severely decrease the world energy supply.

The suspension of Iranian oil production last winter because of the revolution against Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi has been blamed as a key cause of the oil shortage that resulted in gas lines, tight heating fuel supplies and significantly higher prices for petroleum products.

Dallas Braced For Pre-Game Revelry By Texas, OU Fans

DALLAS (AP) — What it resembled more than anything else is a huge dance, with choreography by generations of football-crazed and beer-dulled Oklahomans and Texans.

It's the annual rite of fall that precedes the University of Texas-University of Oklahoma football game, played every year at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

It requires that thousands of supporters for each team gather in downtown Dallas the night before to consume copious amounts of alcohol, parade up and down Commerce Street, on foot or in cars, and make as much noise as possible.

It also required that the Dallas Police Department assign all off-duty officers to patrol duty on Commerce Street, to make sure things don't get too far out of hand.

As usual, police blockaded Commerce to all cross-traffic and let the merry-makers take it over for the evening.

Pickup trucks, vans, cars and motorcycles were decorated with streamers, paint, signs and — in some cases — passengers hanging on for dear life as they rolled slowly eastward on Commerce.

Their parade, complete with incessant horn-honking, sounded for all the world like a huge flock of geese beginning its migration.

Again this year, police were fairly lenient, letting the celebrants have their fun as long as nobody tried to throw a temporary enemy out of a hotel window or bash him with a piece of furniture.

It's noisy, it involves thousands of people and it's traditional, but the question remains: is it fun?

"Hell, yeah," said Oklahoma fan Jon Taylor.

"It's kinda crazy — I don't know how much fun it is," said Oklahoma fan Merlin Orr.

"Hell, no," said a Texas coed, clinging to the arm of her burly, T-shirted escort. "For 12 hours you just come up here and drink."

The pedestrians appeared to concern themselves mainly with screaming curses, largely unprintable, at anybody who had the audacity to be on the other side.

"Wait till after midnight," said one officer stationed at the Baker Hotel. "Every turkey around will be out here before the night is over."

The Baker was the center of one of this year's ironies. In the past, it was headquarters for much of the Texas carousing, but it has been closed sold, and this year served as the police command post for the night.

Another officer said things were relatively "quiet" this year, even as hundreds of honking cars and thousands of pedestrians, many carrying air-horns, forced him to shout to be heard.

"We've only had two people arrested so far, and they came quietly," he said.

"But we do have more people this year. It was cold last year, and the year before it rained, so the weather probably had something to do with it."

After Friday night on Commerce, the football game would have to be a hum-dinger to come up to standards.

Researcher Studies Stress Tolerance

DENTON (AP) — A "bank account" of hormones in the human body may provide some answers to the inability of some people to tolerate stress, a North Texas State University researcher says.

Dr. Jim Mrotek, armed with a $90,000 grant from the National Institute on Aging, has found tolerance to stress decreases with age, indicating that people can stand only so much stress in their lives.

One function of the adrenal gland system is to protect against the effects of stress, the biologist said. When a person is under stress, the hormone-regulating pituitary gland in the brain orders the adrenal gland to begin producing steroid hormones that suppress some white cell activity.

The hormones cause the liver to break down protein and convert amino acids into sugar, which provides energy.

Mrotek, through his studies of aging, discovered that older persons are less able to tolerate a disease that younger people seem to overcome well.

"One of the reasons for this is that older persons seem not to be able to tolerate stress," he said. "Couples are one example. When one member of a marriage system dies, it's not too much longer and the other one dies."

Mrotek decided to study the changes in the stress-fighting endocrine system by watching the effects of aging on mice cells.

"The interesting thing about cells in a culture is that the longer they're in the culture, the less of the stress hormone they produce. This seems very analogous to what we're having in life," he said.

The "bank account" theory goes back to work done by Hans Selye in the 1930s, he said. Selye, trying to find out how much cold a rat could tolerate, discovered rats could adapt to a cold room as long as no new stresses were introduced. The rats died if the room suddenly were made colder, or if other stressful factors were introduced.

"From this came the idea that we had programmed into our body systems the ability to tolerate so much stress," Mrotek said. "You can't go back indefinitely stressing the animal."

"I'm only speculating, but it would seem to me that his findings might argue that a move to transcendental meditation or having calm periods in your day when you concentrate on something other than work might be beneficial," Mrotek said.

Exercise might work, he said, but "the hooker is that you can overdo it."

Mrotek and his associates now plan to study stress in human adrenals taken from patients whose brains are dead, but who are being kept alive on respirators.

The study will be in collaboration with Dr. Elroy Cantrell, a University of Texas at Austin pharmacologist, who "seems to feel it should be very easy to obtain" the human glands despite the red tape and paperwork, Mrotek said.

"I'm increasing my personal liability against the day when some relative changes their mind that the person wasn't legally dead," he added.

Oil Spill Flow Slowing, Officials Say

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The flow of oil from the runaway Ixtoc 1 well in the Gulf of Mexico apparently has slowed, the national oil company Pemex said Friday, but officials said it might increase at any time.

A Pemex spokesman said 108,000 steel and lead balls in a heavy solution pumped into the well over the last few weeks "formed a packing which impedes the flow of oil and reduces the volume." The size of the flow was not disclosed, but it had been running up to 425,000 gallons daily, and totals more than 110 million gallons since the well blew out June 3.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said gas is still leaking through the packing and continues to burn above the offshore well in Campeche Bay, 56 miles off the Mexican shrimp village Ciudad del Carmen.

Afternoon newspapers had reported the oil flow stopped.

The slowing of the oil flow "could be transitory," the Pemex spokesman said.

A foreign industry analyst, who also asked not to be identified, said oil workers will have to put a concrete cap on top of the well "immediately" if they hope to stop what has become the world's worst oil spill.

"It is remarkable, but it could break open at any time. They will have to work very fast now. They can get an awful lot done in a couple of hours," he said.

"The well intermittently oozes gas, oil and water. The jets of oil are spaced farther apart each time. The technical explanation for this phenomenon is that as the proportion of water in the fluid (being pumped into the well) increases, the column becomes heavier and exerts a counter-pressure on the oil field which diminishes the well's production.

Numerous efforts to cap the well with a huge metal cone have been delayed by mechanical problems, and relief wells to take the pressure off the oil basin below the runaway well have not been completed.

Some of the oil from Ixtoc 1 floated 500 miles northward and fouled southern Texas beaches, authorities said.

Pemex estimates the spill has cost it $70 million in lost oil supplies and $340,000 daily to try and control the spill.

Civil Suit Favors State Bar; Lawyer's Law License Sought

EDINBURG (AP) — A civil suit by the State Bar of Texas against Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis was decided in favor of the Bar Friday.

The state jury's vote was unanimous on four counts charging McInnis lied to a federal grand jury. On the first charge, that McInnis solicited a former county jail prisoner to murder a McAllen man, the vote was 11-1.

Actual punishment will be decided by State District Judge Joe Evins, who set a hearing for Thursday on that phase of the trial. The Bar is seeking revocation of McInnis' law license.

Attorneys for McInnis said they would appeal, regardless of what punishment Evins decided.

Defense lawyer Jack Skages said the appeal "would be based on at least 12 or 14 separate items that we would say were errors in the conduct of the case."

He added the appeal would cite the admission of nine FBI tape recorded conversations between McInnis and Daniel Rodriguez, the inmate McInnis allegedly asked to murder Noe Villanueva. Villanueva is the former husband of Patricia Parada, a friend of McInnis.

"Without the tapes, there would never have been a case," Skages said. "The case would have ended on the day Daniel Rodriguez went into the sheriff's office."

McInnis contends he was a victim of a plot to oust him from office concocted by Sheriff Brig Marmolejo.

At a press conference after the verdict, McInnis said he would run for Hidalgo County sheriff if removed from office by Evins. Reporters asked him why. "Why not? This county needs a sheriff," he responded.

The last time McInnis had an opponent for district attorney, his opponent was Evins.

Skages said he hoped McInnis would be reprimanded, not disbarred.

But Jerry Zunker, the Bar's general counsel, said a reprimand "would be inappropriate in view of the jury's answer to the issues. It's up to the discretion of the trial court."

Clements Compares Oil Crisis To Pearl Harbor

DALLAS (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday the energy crisis has placed the nation in graver danger than at the time of Pearl Harbor in 1941.

"The energy crisis is compaction on our national security," he said.

Clements told the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association he based his views on his 1973-77 experience as deputy secretary of defense.

"I guarantee you we have a vulnerability that is unacceptable and should be unacceptable to all Americans," he said.

Clements repeated earlier statements that the national energy policy is a disaster and said the nation should follow a Texas policy based on production of oil and gas, coal, and nuclear power along with research and development and, secondarily, conservation.

Harold E. Berg, chairman of Getty Oil Co., earlier had told the state's largest trade group the Environmental Protection Agency is probably the most enemy of the industry and business in general.

Berg said billions have been wasted by the industry abiding by environmental restrictions that have gone far beyond the limits of practicality.

"It is very important we exert every effort possible in an attempt to get this bureaucracy to become more realistic, to come down out of fantasy land to the real world," he said.

Berg, who succeeded the late J. Paul Getty as the head of the Los Angeles-based firm, said the EPA is completely inflexible in interpretation of its rules.

"They continue to block efforts to drill for oil in the frontier areas, both offshore and onshore," he said. "They have proposed an arbitrary and unreasonable solid waste disposal program; they have prepared additional onerous controls for underground injection of both water and gas in secondary and tertiary recoveries."

Berg added that the EPA has refused to consider anti-knock additives for gasoline with an attendant waste of energy.

"It makes one wonder whether there might be an insidious movement from within the department itself with the goal of undermining our nation's economy," he said.

He expressed doubt Congress, in enacting the Clean Air and Water Act, had any idea of the "monster" they created or any idea of the way the law would be administered and regulated.

"I think Congress must review this entire act, together with the actions of the EPA, and make revisions all of us can live by," he said.

Davis Challenges Tape Used As Evidence

FORT WORTH (AP) — Industrial czar Cullen Davis challenged Friday the state version of a tape-recorded conversation in which the murder of a judge was discussed.

For the first time, the millionaire defendant denied on cross-examination telling informant David McCrory last year to "do the judge, and then his wife."

"I didn't say that," Davis, 46, told prosecutor Jack Strickland when he quoted the passage from the state-produced transcript of the Aug. 18, 1978, conversation.

Strickland did not pursue the subject at once, but attorneys defending Davis on a murder solicitation charge said the transcript was inaccurate.

"He didn't say, 'Do the judge.' I lead defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes told newsmen "He said, 'He'd do the judge, and then his wife.'"

The distinction is vital to the defense contention that Davis was just "making conversation" and "playing along" with McCrory and not issuing any sinister instructions.

Prosecutors, of course, interpret the phrase, "Do the judge, and then his wife," as specific orders to kill Judge Joe Eidson, who was presiding over the defendant's divorce trial in 1978.

Eidson was not harmed.

Investigators seized Davis after an Aug. 20 parking lot rendezvous with McCrory in which the state contends he handed over $25,000 earmarked for a phantom killer.

The exchange occurred, prosecutors contend, after McCrory showed Davis a counterfeit snapshot depicting the "body" of Eidson crumpled in a car trunk.

The Democratic National Convention of 1924 required 103 ballots to select the party's presidential nominee.

Strickland also questioned Davis about a list of telephone numbers in his possession the morning of his arrest. The prosecutor sought to show the list contained the names of several persons of questionable reputation.

Earlier, Judge Gordon Gray overruled vigorous defense arguments and said he would permit the state to demonstrate to the jury that a defense witness was once certifiably insane.

He also ruled that prosecutors could ask the defendant about a jail cell conversation he had with an attorney friend shortly after his August 1978 arrest.

They intend to show that Davis did not tell his close friend Hershel Payne of a purported FBI phone call critical to the defense theory.

Davis insists he received the call 10 days before his arrest and was instructed to "play along" with McCrory to expose an extortion scheme.

The question prosecutors hope to raise in the jurors' minds is this:

If Davis actually believed he was cooperating with the FBI, why did he not tell Payne of the purported FBI phone call when the two talked one day after the arrest?

The defense argued unsuccessfully that Davis had a constitutional right to remain silent after his arrest and questions about the Payne conversation would be unfair and improper.

U.S. Aid--But With Strings

THE U.S. IS getting ready, it seems, to take another one of those "calculated risks" in an effort to forestall the spread of Communism.

This time, the theater is Nicaragua. The amount of money--taxpayers' money, we might add--is in the $100 million range. And the chance for success probably no more than 50-50.

In some ways, it is a case of reacting after the fact. While hoping to forestall what the Carter Administration and the State Department perceive as the "threat" of Marxist rule in the recently revolt-torn nation, others see the move as aiding and abetting the Castro-type takeover.

THE LATEST move to prop up the struggling Sandanista regime in Latin America is taking the form of a new aid request to be sent to Congress.

It will be interesting to see exactly how administration spokesmen seek to sell the package--as an out and out aid program, an anti-Communist effort or as sort of "reparations" for our support of the ousted Somoza regime.

We can buy the first two, if our intent is clearly understood by those receiving such funds.

There will be those who argue that one doesn't go to another government and say, in effect, "Hey, we are willing to help you, but there are strings..."

WE ASK, "And why not?" It's our mon-

AN EDITORIAL:

A Salute To Some A-J VIPs

TODAY SHOULD be a special day for a lot of men and women who now hold top-notch and key positions in business, education, government, religion.

Many persons in those fields of endeavor, and others, got their start as independent young business men and women carrying a newspaper route.

Today, all such carriers are being honored on their day--International Newspaper Carrier Day.

As the last, and one of the most important, link between "what happens around the world and delivering it to the homes of millions," actually every day is their day.

TODAY, THE role of newspaper carrier--the early morning hours in all sorts of weather, the interrupting of afternoon activities--is little changed from what it has been from the day of the first carrier.

But, the picture of the carrier is vastly changed.

Today, The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal proudly honors and salutes 210 city carriers and 80 area carriers who range in age from nine-years-old to grandmother status. There are many women among the list.

Today, The A-J proudly takes note of the fact that one of its own--Blake Smith--has been named runner-up for Texas State Carrier of the Year. Blake has been presented a

ART BUCHWALD:

Citizens Bucking Trend Away From The $1 Bill

WASHINGTON--The Treasury Department is very mad at all of us. We haven't taken to the Susan B. Anthony dollar as their experts predicted we would.

Millions of dollars (paper ones) went into research to develop a coin that would replace the one dollar bill.

The Treasury engineers worked in their cellars day and night to devise something that would grab the imagination of the American people.

They finally came up with a foolproof design--a coin the size of a quarter with 11 sides and a picture of a suffragette on it. What more could the American people ask for?

Apparently a lot more. When the coin flopped the only thing left for the Treasury officials to do was to call a meeting.

"GENTLEMEN, THE secretary is very upset. No matter how many Susan B. Anthony coins we put into circulation, people insist on using paper dollars. What can we do about it?"

"My staff has been doing some research to find out why the coin won't fly. Most men we've talked to say that if they have more than seven in their pants pocket they make a hole, and all the coins dribble out into the street.

"The young people say the dollars make a bulge in their jeans, and women complain if they take enough dollar coins to buy groceries they develop a bad back."

"That's nonsense. This coin was tested under the greatest stress conditions. We put $50 worth in a deputy secretary's pants pockets, threw him into the Tidal Basin and he didn't even sink."

"ONE OF OUR women department heads carried 100 coins in her handbag for one week and President Carter's re-election committee can use the campaign slogan, "He kept us out of..." (pick one): financial solvency, economic stability, war with Switzerland or gasoline.

It's our interests which also are at stake. And a little more forthrightness in our dealings with foreign governments--including the black regimes of Africa--might be refreshing.

If Congress approves some sort of aid package totaling $100 million or more, it might go a long way toward preventing a total collapse of the Nicaraguan economy.

The alternative might well be the sort of turmoil which the Marxists love to turn to their advantage.

But, we see no reason why certain strings should not be attached both to the distribution of the money, to whom it will go and those who administer it.

ONE THING which disturbs us about the whole scenario is that throughout the Nicaraguan revolt, neither the President nor the State Department has seen Cuba's Marxist hand in what was taking place.

"It's a mistake," Mr. Carter said at the time, "for Americans to assume that every time a revolutionary change takes place or even an abrupt change takes place in this hemisphere that somehow it's a result of a secret massive Cuban intervention."

Of course, this comes from a man who somehow found it expedient to accept "the status quo" of a Russian combat brigade in Cuba. Perhaps the Nicaraguan aid gamble is worth it. But, with strict strings attached. If we could "prop up" the Somoza regime, why not have a say in the "liberated" one which replaced it?

$500 award from the Texas Daily Newspaper Association. Earlier, Blake had been honored as Carrier of the Year for The Avalanche-Journal in 1978.

THOSE WHO serve as the "last link" between today's shrinking world and those who read about it have a most important role to play.

Not only is there a degree of physical work involved in delivering papers, but the carrier also must be an astute salesman, businessman and listener.

He or she must make collections, keep an accurate account of transactions, pay bills.

On the plus side, many carriers earn enough money to help them in their educations, recreation, savings.

ALL ACROSS the land today, there are thousands of dedicated men and women who are not only earning their way as carriers, but serving an important role in helping keep friends and neighbors informed.

The Avalanche-Journal salutes all of them, and especially those associated with these newspapers.

They are working at a worthwhile job in the free enterprise system, serving others. And that is one of the key elements which has made this nation great.

except for black and blue marks on her shoulder where the strap hung, there were no signs of bodily damage. "As for the young people complaining of bulges in their jeans from carrying the coins, my answer to that is, let them buy bigger jeans."

"I'm just reporting on what our research revealed, sir. If you ask me I think it's more psychological than anything else. The one dollar paper bill has George Washington's picture on it. "The people can't tell Susan B. Anthony from the Queen of England. They don't trust the coin because they are afraid it was minted in Canada."

"I agree with Merrivewather. I tried to give one to a taxi driver the other day and he said, 'I only take American money.'"

"I said, 'It is American money' and he said, 'Yeah and Margaret Trudeau is the First Lady of the United States.'"

"I DON'T want to hear any more stories. We're stuck with billions of these coins and we're going to get them into circulation if it kills us. Now let's hear some constructive ideas."

"We could put them in cereal boxes as a promotion."

"Why don't we raise the price of a local pay telephone call to a dollar?"

"What about printing on paper dollar bills under 'In God We Trust' the words: 'This bill could be dangerous to your health?'"

"How about having Karl Malden do a TV commercial? He could be pushing a wheelbarrow and saying to the audience: 'Traveler's checks can be stolen--but nobody could carry off this wheelbarrow of coins. The Susan B. Anthony dollars. Don't leave home without them.'"

"Why don't we just use them to pay the OPEC people for their oil?"

"What good will that do?"

"They'll all get hernias and be so miserable they'll think twice about raising their prices."

GEORGE WILL:

Seeds Of The Weeds

WASHINGTON--The agreement was this: In exchange for two Soviet spies in U.S. custody, the Soviets would release several dissidents, including Alexander Ginzburg, and their families.

Today the spies are in Russia. So is Ginzburg's wife, mother, two sons, and foster son, Sergei.

Mrs. Ginzburg will not leave Sergei, who is ill and is being persecuted. Soviet authorities say he will "never" be allowed to leave. In spite of grave medical problems, he has been drafted and assigned to northern regions.

Although Alexander Ginzburg is a convert to the Russian Orthodox faith, at age 16 he took his mother's maiden name, rather than his father's name, as a way of protesting Soviet anti-Semitism.

ANDREW TULLY:

Cuba In Red Fist

WASHINGTON--For politicians of the opposition, it is, of course, more fun to growl epithets of dissatisfaction at President Carter's speech on the issue of that Russian brigade in Cuba. And it is true that Carter didn't exactly kick the Russians in the teeth.

But as I see it, Carter paid his respects to both Machiavelli and America's assorted princes of peace in announcing his administration's position. Each side was offered half a loaf to gnaw on.

That flew in the face of Machiavelli's dictum that "since love and fear can hardly exist together, if we must choose between them, it is far safer to be feared than loved."

And it didn't please folks like Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., who says Carter should have insisted that the "combat troops" be removed.

BUT LIKE the goings-on in Congress, international politics is also the art of the possible. If at all feasible, serious confrontations must be avoided lest they lead to war.

Still, Carter had to put the Soviet Union on notice that the United States would not meekly suffer any more wartime shenanigans.

Carter advised the American people that "the greatest danger to American security tonight is certainly not the two or three thousand Soviet troops in Cuba...this is not a large force, nor an assault force...in contrast to the 1962 (Soviet missile) crisis, no nuclear threat to the United States is involved." Thus, he wouldn't demand the brigade's withdrawal.

THEN, HOWEVER, he outlined steps the U.S. would take to make sure the Russians lived up to their assurances that they and Fidel Castro would behave themselves.

Two of those steps are more important than Carter's critics admit. One is Carter's announcement that the U.S. will step up economic assistance to Caribbean countries "to ensure the ability of troubled peoples to resist social turmoil and possible Communist domination."

The other was his blunt warning to Moscow that Latin nations had been given assurances that the U.S. "will act in response to a request for assistance in meeting any...threat from Soviet or Cuban forces."

Both of these steps say more to Moscow about America's national determination to fight communist subversion in the Western Hemisphere than all the monitoring in the Caribbean.

CARTER WAS saying not only that we keep an eye on the Russians and Cubans but that we'd do something about it if any of their forces threatened any nation in the hemisphere.

Assuming that Carter meant what he said, this is a pretty hard line to take. In the shorthand employed in diplomacy, his words promised military action by American troops in defense of ourselves and our neighbors.

Meanwhile, even the most hawkish of the hawks should acknowledge the common sense in Carter's warning that "the greatest danger to all the nations of the world...is the breakdown of a common effort to preserve the peace, and the ultimate threat of a nuclear war."

The President was urging ratification of SALT II, but he was also placing the crisis of that Soviet brigade in perspective.

tism, and he declared himself Jewish which, under Soviet law, is treated as a nationality as well as a religion.

The persecution of his family is almost certainly a facet of the official anti-Semitism of the Soviet state.

Anti-Semitism is as traditional in Russia as is tyranny. Under Czar Nicholas I, 12-year-old Jewish boys were drafted for 25-year terms, presumably to teach them to be more careful next time when selecting their parents.

But anti-Semitism has been intensified under Brezhnev. Forty years ago, in one of the clarifying acts of modern politics, the Soviet Union and its Nazi allies were carving up Poland.

Today, it is prudent to notice how the current anti-Semitic campaign clarifies our perception of them in the Kremlin.

THE CURRENT campaign rests on crude stereotypes of the sort favored by Julius Streicher, Hitler's favorite anti-Semitic publicist.

Soviet publishing facilities, all of which are part of a state monopoly, churn out a muddy river of anti-Semitic propaganda recalling the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion."

The "Protocols," a fraud published in 1902 by a Czarist anti-Semite, were purported to be the secret agreements of the World Zionist Congress of 1897.

The "Protocols" contained the seeds of the weeds that bloomed in the Nazi mind and bloom in the minds of Brezhnev's propagandists: Jews are conspiring to control banks, the press, and Free Masonic Lodges, all to achieve world domination.

A RECENT Soviet book criticizes Soviet television for using "heroes who look like Jews." Another describes the Torah as "a textbook unsurpassed for bloodthirstiness, hypocrisy, betrayal, perfidy and moral degeneracy."

Another book equates Zionism and Hitlerism. A book published by the Ministry of Internal Affairs goes further. It says Zionism is "one of the varieties of fascism," but is more dangerous than even the German variety.

An anti-Semitic movie was shown recently on Soviet television and was repeated because of "popular demand."

A recent art exhibit featured a grotesque painting of a pile of Russian corpses being gloated over by a grinning Nazi soldier and a grinning Jewish prisoner wearing a Star of David. The message: Nazis and Jews were collaborators.

THE SOVIET Academy of Sciences has lent its prestige, such as it is, to a book explaining that the "Jewish bourgeoisie" uses Wall Street firms such as Lazard Freres, Lehman Brothers, Kuhn Loeb, Loebl Rhoades, Bache & Co., and Goldman Sachs to pursue world domination.

Another book, by a professor at Moscow's magnificently named Patrice Lumumba University, reports that Jews dominate Freemasonry and that Free Masons already dominate the world.

A prestigious Soviet publishing organization has produced a book that says "Zionists" in the Soviet Union (meaning Jews who would rather live elsewhere) are linked to the CIA.

The government newspaper, Izvestia, hailed this book as "a humane publication, a contribution to the implementation of the Helsinki accords."

THIS IDEA about what constitutes "a contribution to the implementation of the Helsinki accords" should interest U.S. senators as they consider the many problems of defining, construing and verifying compliance with the terms of SALT II.

The Helsinki accords were signed four years ago; they were sryup on the sundae of detente. They commit the signatories to many things, such as facilitating the reunification of families, like the Ginzburg family.

The Soviets show for that commitment the same kind of contempt they show for the agreement that was the basis of the deal that sent the two spies back to Russia.

I could exhaust you, patient reader, and the space in this newspaper with additional examples of official Soviet anti-Semitism. I won't.

But do remember this deeply stupid stuff, about Freemasonry and all the rest, when next you hear someone arguing that the men in the Soviet ruling class are really "regular politicians" and are "just like us."

JOSEPH SOBRAN:

Take It Off TV

(First of two columns)

WASHINGTON--I hate it when strangers strip in my living room. Even when they're beautiful blondes.

Nothing against beautiful blondes, mind you. But I suppose they are a sort of test case: if I don't want them doing it, I certainly don't want anyone else doing it.

It happened during what the TV people call Family Viewing Hour.

My 13-year-old son and I had sat down to watch the highly acclaimed series "The Associates," which comes after "Mork and Mindy" and is billed as a sophisticated situation comedy about a Wall Street law firm.

Wellsir, one of the young lawyers on the show is this blonde, see, and before you could say habes corpus she was peeling down to her undies right there in the law office and, more to the point, right in front of my son and me.

I DON'T know why they call it Family Viewing Hour. Maybe because the fare in that time slot can't go beyond soft-core.

Earlier I had overheard Mork making jokes about pregnancy, and my mind raced back to the days when "The Moon Is Blue" caused a sensation by exposing adult moviegoers to the word "virgin."

Times certainly have changed. Next year I suppose they'll come right out and call it Family Peeping Hour.

Somebody seems to be intent on turning us into a nation of voyeurs.

The morning after the foregoing, I turned on the "Today Show" as I tried to synchronize the poaching of an egg with the toasting of a slice of rye bread, and found myself watching a plug for an NBC movie about a young mother who worked as a stripper--in order to "feed her children" (What did they eat? Caviar?)

ANYWAY, THE plot was about how some priggish challenged Mama's fitness, would you believe, and tried to get the kids taken from her.

It was explained to us that the movie was a sensitive study of a moral dilemma, or a study of a sensitive moral dilemma, or a sensitive something.

You see, Mama was studying during the daytime to become a Serious Dancer. Bumping and grinding turned out to be a species of deferred gratification--for her, if not for her audience.

The viewer got to see her peel a little--but only from the upper back, of course. Just as I was wondering if she received G-strings for Mother's Day, I smelled burning toast.

"Today" moved on to the equally compelling topic of sex in soap opera. This time two subjects were interviewed together in a bubble bath.

But they were man and wife in real life so I guess that was okay.

THEN AGAIN, I like people to bathe before, not while, they visit me. Anyway, I forgot what they said about sex in soap opera. Something about sensitivity, I think.

After my breakfast of cold egg on warm toast I was off to the newsstand for my morning papers. There I was greeted by a stack of a certain magazine whose cover featured a nude female torso, squatting, with its hand placed as if to do something which, as I understand it, causes acne and/or insanity.

No doubt the torso's owner was only trying to feed her children, but all of a sudden I felt insensitive.

I told the vendor, who is the nicest man I know, that really, he shouldn't display such things. He agreed. After all, his wife and daughter work with him.

"BUT THAT'S what they send me," he said. "If I don't sell it, the guy up the street will put me out of business."

I sympathized. At least he was straightforward, which is a novelty. This is supposed to be the Age of Candor, but Queen Victoria would have been astounded at the routine hypocrisy of those who want to sell us dirty pictures in one form or another.

They tell us about high art, moral sensitivity, the First Amendment, the virtues of "awareness," the dangers of "repression," and starving children. I can stand a lot of prudence, but all this socially redeeming value is wearing me down.

Sunday: More to come.

IT WAS 15 years ago that a bright soul dreamed up the ring-around airport and subsequently took out a patent on same. It's excavated in the shape of a big bowl with its runways ringing the inside. The pilot taxis into the middle, then rolls the plane around the runway for as many loops as are necessary to get up sufficient air speed.

If something goes wrong, the pilot simply winds it down to the middle again. Need not overshoot. Question is not why didn't somebody think of it long ago. Question is why hasn't any such airport been built since.

Workers To Be Furloughed

AMARILLO (Special) — Representatives of the Owens-Corning Fiberglass firm here announced Thursday that 70 of the plant's 610 employees will be furloughed for an indefinite period of time.

Plant officials said the furlough will accompany a 25 percent reduction in production effective Oct. 22.

Uncertainty about current economic conditions prompted plant officials to take the precautionary measures. "The major customers for the fiberglass reinforcement products produced at this plant include transportation, marine, consumer and recreation use markets, and as consumer spending has slid in response to the current economic environment, demands in these markets has weakened significantly," explained Gary Keyl, personnel manager for the plant.

Keyl was optimistic that the furloughed employees would not be laid off permanently. "As market conditions improve and increased production is required, those (employees) furloughed will be the first ones called to return to work," Keyl said.

The plant, which is located in the south part of the city, was opened for production in March of this year.

Newspaper Names New Editor

PALESTINE (AP) — Larry Mayo, general manager of the Palestine Herald-Press since March 1977, has been named editor and publisher of the newspaper.

The announcement was made today by Wayne Sellers, editor and publisher of the paper since 1966.

Sellers becomes chairman of the board of the Palestine Herald-Press Co., which publishes the paper.

Man-Mule Racers Toe Mark

ELKO, Nev. (AP) — A masked mystery mule, a masked mystery runner and scores of other walkers and joggers will line up Sunday for the second annual man-mule race.

The race — a 20 mile contest southeast to Lamolite — began last year as a grudge match between runner Tony LaMorte and mule rider Fred Harris. What started as a wager between them over who could get to Lamolite faster became a contest for 50 riders and runners.

The winner last year, the mule "Dear Old Girl," retired after the race. Harris has imported a masked mystery mule, "Jezebel," this year.

"Jezebel" must carry 228.3 pounds for the 20 miles. LaMorte will have no handicap.

Competitors this year will include horse-drawn buggies, bicyclists and other runners — including a man who will hide his identity behind a mask — apparently in case the mule wins.

Guests Listed For Shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the guests scheduled to appear on this Sunday's nationally broadcast interview programs:

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Dr. Armand Hammer, president of Occidental Petroleum, on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Town Sells Potholes

FALLS CITY, Ore. — A lot of people chuckled when this small town decided to "sell" its potholes to sponsors and use the proceeds to pave its pitted streets. But it got results.

Already, a dozen people are the proud "owners" of filled-in craters, and the publicity spurred county officials to pave the main street.

Like many financially pressed communities across the country, Falls City had found itself with more potholes than money to repair them. That's when the city council came up with the idea of selling the holes. After all, what better present for the person who has everything than a filled-in pothole?

For $10, a civic-minded citizen — or anyone else — receives a certificate describing the location of his or her pothole, the date the city filled it and a pledge that the money was used only for that purpose.

There is also a "deluxe" model. For another $10, the city will send you a color photograph.

READY FOR RAIDERS — G.Q. and Glenda Nell of 4613 29th St. decorated their home in preparation for the Texas Tech-Arkansas football clash this afternoon. This poster, displayed on their front lawn, was designed by Tech to promote both the Red Raiders and particularly, number 88 — running back James Hadnot. Tech Sports Information Director Keith Samples came up with the idea for the poster and about 5,000 were printed and distributed in the city. (Staff Photo)

Ray's Wife Plans Visit

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The wife of James Earl Ray says the past year has been a blur of lonely days and nights, stares and questions, and visits to the mountain prison where her husband is serving 99 years for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Anna Sandhu Ray, 33, a blond free lance artist, and Ray were married a year ago Friday.

"I love him more now than ever before. I wouldn't trade places with anyone," said said. "I didn't think I could go through a year and be as happy as I am."

ANNA RAY Mrs. Ray said she planned to drive to the Brushy Mountain State Prison in Petros to celebrate the anniversary with her husband, now 51. She said she would give him a gold crucifix, and he was going to surprise her with a gift she suspects is a ring.

"James isn't real big on jewelry, but I thought he could carry it to remind him of me and my love for him," she said.

Mrs. Ray said she drives her station wagon to the prison twice weekly to visit her husband, who she says is in good spirits.

"Not having my husband here with me has been tough. I knew it would be hard for me for awhile. But, I am an artist. I don't mind being alone. I need time alone," she said.

She lives in a weatherbeaten house in West Knoxville and although she said a few people might have bought some of her paintings because she's the wife of James Earl Ray, "everyone knows I didn't marry him for the money."

She said she has been taking the money from her paintings and trying to fix up the home in the hope that one day her husband will be freed.

"I want to have a nice home, for James. His biggest desire is to have a regular family life," she said. "I don't intend to ever divorce him. I would love to have some children one day."

Mrs. Ray said her name often brings stares.

"People look at me as if they are afraid to ask questions. They say 'you look so normal.'"

She said she has spent the past year talking about her husband and carrying the message that "he's innocent." She said she keeps hoping one day Ray will get a new trial.

"I feel I have accomplished something," she said, but adds the fact her marriage has not been consummated bothers her.

"This is very frustrating at times. I know he needs me."

LULING, Texas (AP) — A state trooper was shot and wounded while patrolling near this South Texas city Friday, and two men were arrested a short time later about 20 miles from the shooting scene.

The Department of Public Safety said Trooper Michael W. Gorrell of Seguin was shot three times in the chest with a .25-caliber automatic pistol and once with his own .357 Magnum service revolver.

Gorrell was listed in critical condition at a hospital in San Antonio, about 40 miles away.

DPS officers said two men were arrested along FM 2438 in Guadalupe County.

Man Found Guilty In Murder Trial

EL PASO (AP) — David Leon Wallace was found guilty Friday of capital murder in the death of El Paso lawyer Lee Chagra. A state district jury returned the verdict following deliberations that took almost as long as the presentation of testimony.

Chagra was shot and killed last Dec. 23 in his well-guarded, expensive downtown office. The state had charged Wallace, a 20-year-old army soldier, with capital murder, claiming the death occurred during an armed robbery.

Testimony in the case took less than two days. Wallace's attorney, Michael Gibson, had spent much of his defense effort trying to convince the jury that Chagra was killed during a cocaine transaction, not an armed robbery.

He concluded his presentation by asking jurors to consider the lesser charge of murder, which does not carry a mandatory death sentence or life imprisonment.

Gibson argued that Chagra was surrounded by felons for friends, was involved in dope and gambling, and lived in fear of federal drug agents.

Prosecutor Gary Weiser called Gibson's story "a fairy tale," and said Weiser's arguments meant "David Wallace has not been on trial. Lee Chagra has."

Weiser pointed out Wallace testified he removed Chagra's books looking for money. That state claimed Wallace and another soldier, Donald White, were robbing Chagra's office when the shooting occurred.

White has pleaded guilty to murder in the case, and another man, Louis Es-per, was found guilty of conspiracy. Wallace had given a statement after his arrest in California last March, saying White shot Chagra during a robbery.

On the stand, though, Wallace said he gave the statement under pressure and had received an anonymous telephone call warning him not to mention cocaine.

He said Esper offered him and White $5,000 apiece to deliver Chagra 10 pounds of cocaine. He testified the shooting happened when it appeared Chagra was reaching for a gun after taking possession of the cocaine.

Chagra's brother, Joe, had testified Lee was a gambler who used cocaine openly.

Chagra had made much of his local reputation for flamboyance in successful defenses of narcotics defendants.

Kissing Stops Cause Jams

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Traffic congestion caused by kissing couples has become such a problem outside the Shelby County administration building a consulting firm may be hired to find a solution.

County Commission Chairman Charles Perkins said men and women dropping off their spouses for work stop in what he calls the "Kiss n' Ride Lane" for a final good-bye in the mornings and a welcoming kiss in the afternoons.

Perkins said the couples ignore no-parking signs and a fire hydrant in front of the building while a line of cars and buses wait for them to finish their kissing.

The kissing stops have caused such congestion in the morning and afternoon traffic flow that the Commission's budget committee has approved a proposed contract with Design Association for a solution.

Roofers Abandon Job

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — At first glance, Ram Mathura thought he had a real problem. It looked like somebody had stolen his roof.

Actually, it wasn't the whole roof of his house. Only half of it was removed, and the remains — tar paper and gravel — were neatly stacked in his back yard.

Police theorize a roofing firm went to Mathura's home by mistake on Thursday, discovering their error halfway through the job.

Neighbors said they saw two men working on the roof most of the morning, but no trace of the workers could be found.

Candidate Claims Texans Being Gouged

By JEFF McCASLIN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Texas Railroad Commission candidate Jim Hightower isn't afraid to sling a little political mud.

In fact, the 36-year-old former editor of the Texas Observer was mudslinging Friday at the Hilton as he made a Lubbock stop to formally announce his candidacy against incumbent Jim Nugent.

"My campaign is going to be different than most of those we've become used to," he said. "It's not going to be just another slick, studio-produced campaign. I'm running because I think the people of Texas are being gouged on energy prices. We've been gouged by the big utilities and by the Exxon's, and it's our government — the Texas Railroad Commission — that's allowing us to be gouged."

Hightower called the TRC a "lap-dog" to the oil industry and said he would be an independent commissioner if elected. And he's not frightened of laying the issues out on the table.

"A Senator can debate energy policy, and we've seen that a governor can spill oil on our beaches. But a Texas Railroad Commissioner directly affects the price of oil and decides what we pay for utilities."

Hightower especially directs his criticisms to the policies of what he calls the "most powerful agency in the country."

"They've turned this commission into what I call the Texas 'Railroading' Commission, and it's the people of Texas who are being railroaded. That's got to be changed, and that's why I'm running."

The Denison native, who has written two books on the food industry called "Hard Times and Hard Tomatoes" and "Eat Your Heart Out," told reporters he is running as an "unreconstructed, unapologetic, old-time, working people's Democrat."

Hightower will face Nugent in the May 3 Democratic primary. And he's getting an early start, a full seven months before the election.

"I'm the candidate of Texans who don't own an oil well. I'm the candidate of Texans who don't get a fat dividend check from Exxon or Southern Union Gas," he quipped, apparently referring to Nugent's stock holdings in some of the larger oil companies, which he claims have been put into trust while he serves on the commission.

Hightower, who has received a special award for investigative reporting from the Texas Consumers Association last year and was the recipient of the Outstanding Journalism Award from the Texas Farmers Union this year, said his main support would come from working class Texans and from what he calls

JIM HIGHTOWER

"brass collar democrats." And part of his campaign, which he says will be in the "old-time Populist tradition, the way I was brought up," is educating the people of Texas about the RRC.

"Most people have no idea what a Railroad Commissioner does. Chances are they think it has something to do with trains. It does, but more importantly, the commission has to do with energy prices. It has to do with the monthly gas utility bill, the fuel adjustment charge on our electric bills. It has to do with the regulation of every oil and gas well in the state. And it is the chief voice on Texas energy policy."

He says the RRC has allowed natural gas prices in Texas to go up a thousand percent in the past eight years, and he takes another jab at the high-powered living of the present commissioners and oil executives.

"Not all of our oil slicks are on our beaches. Some of them are sitting up in the Petroleum Club in Houston. Some of them are sitting in New York City at the corporate headquarters of the Exxon's. And some of them are sitting on the Texas Railroad Commission."

Hightower says it is the fault of the people and not the big oil companies for gouging the pocketbooks of all Texans.

"We've (people of Texas) not paid attention. We've let this quaintly-named agency become a secret agency, become the captive of the very industries it's supposed to protect us from."

The North Texas State graduate says he is standing up for the little guy, the "bill payers" of Texas.

"At the very least, we can have one independent commissioner, one who will not take a dime from the regulated companies and who will owe no bias to a special interest."

He added that it is "bad enough the big oil companies manipulate our market. It's even worse that they manipulate us."

Hightower is taking his no-holds-barred campaign announcement to 18 Texas cities this month, "to get it out of Austin and to the people." And he hopes his experience as the national campaign coordinator for Fred Harris' bid to become President in 1976 will pay off.

Animal Ordinance Change Approved

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Proposed amendments to the city animal ordinance approved Friday by Lubbock's Board of Health would make it illegal to own a wild animal as a pet within city limits, and would require local cat owners to have their pets vaccinated for rabies.

The health board also approved a proposal for a $25 deposit on all animals purchased at the city Animal Shelter.

The proposed amendments must be given final approval by the City Council.

Animal Shelter director Tom Trombley proposed the $25 deposit, he said, to encourage population control and better health among Lubbock pets.

The money would be held by the shelter in "a sort of revolving fund," until the animal was spayed or neutered by a veterinarian, when the money would be applied directly to the cost of the operation. If the animal was found to be unhealthy by the vet within two weeks of its purchase, the owner could return the pet to the pound and the deposit would be refunded.

If the animal was not returned,

UNCUT COCAINE SEIZED
CHICAGO (AP) — Uncut cocaine with a street value of $3 million was seized and three men were arrested in a raid on a north side apartment, authorities said. Gerardo Garcia, 31, and Gilberto Sanchez, 25, were charged with illegal possession of drugs after the raid Thursday.

Trombley explained, the money would not go back to the owner, even if the owner elected not to have the animal spayed or neutered. The system would all but require pet owners to de-sex their animals, he said.

A $2.50 administration fee also would be charged for each pet to cover the cost of forwarding the monies.

Currently the animal shelter charges a flat fee of $10 per pet, and does not refund the money if the animal shows signs of disease soon after it leaves. The amendment would safeguard pet owners against that possibility, Trombley said.

Trombley said he hoped the amendment would cut down on what he termed "impulse buying" of pets.

"People who can't afford to be good pet owners shouldn't have animals at all," he said. "It sounds cruel to say, but in a lot of cases if an animal doesn't have a good owner, it's better off dead."

If the pet costs more than $25 to de-sex, Trombley said, the owner would be expected to make up the difference. Although veterinarian fees for the operation vary, he explained, $25 is a "pretty good figure."

Trombley said he consulted with several Lubbock veterinarians in writing the amendment.

In compliance with a state law which goes into effect January 1, 1980, Trombley also proposed that cats be required to wear city license tags and be vaccinated against rabies.

The state law will require kittens and puppies be vaccinated by the time they are four months old. Currently, Lubbock's ordinance states that puppies must be vaccinated at age six months.

Wild animals, too, would be affected by the proposed ordinance, which would make them illegal in Lubbock except in circuses, zoos and for research.

The ordinance would provide for "monkeys, raccoons, skunks, foxes, poisonous snakes, leopards, panthers, tigers, lions, lynxes, or any other warm blooded animal normally found in a wild state."

Wild animals living in Lubbock now have not caused any problems, Trombley said. He proposed the amendment out of concern about the possibility of rabies breaking out, and what he called "humanitarian reasons."

"Texas leads the nation in rabies," he said, "and there isn't a vet in the world who'll guarantee a vaccination will work on a wild animal."

He also said he didn't think it is fair to a wild animal to be chained and restricted within the city limits.

Currently three lions are owned as pets in Lubbock, with more numerous raccoons and skunks posing a greater potential rabies problem, because they frequently carry the disease.

Hospital Loan Extension Possible, Says HEW

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Government officials are apparently skeptical that Health Sciences Center Hospital will ever pay off its multi-million dollar loan — but they're still willing to talk about an extension on that loan after Thursday's negotiations.

Hospital administrators and county hospital district board members met in Dallas with representatives from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to present the teaching hospital's 1980 budget. Hospital district officials agreed to present the budget several months ago when HEW officials visited Lubbock.

The HEW representatives were in town in July to negotiate the hospital's overdue July 1 payment on an $8 million loan for the hospital's construction. The government representatives agreed then to give the hospital 90 days to prove they needed — and deserved — a loan extension.

HEW officials have also been holding the last installment on a $120,000 construction grant — pending a payment from the hospital on the $8 million loan. Hospital administrators and board members have protested the withholding of the grant, calling it unfair.

Hospital district board chairman Jack Strong said the HEW representatives immediately said "No," when asked to give up the last installment on the grant. But administrator Bob Berryman reminded the government officials of their pledge for cooperation in July, adding that the hospital desperately needs the money for costs already incurred.

"It is a serious matter in regard to the cash flow of this hospital," Berryman said this morning. "That's half a payroll."

HEW officials reportedly softened after Berryman's plea for help. The government representatives agreed to let the hospital know within a day or two of the meeting whether they had decided to mail out the last installment on the grant.

Hospital representatives re-emphasized the need for an extension on their loan payment, Berryman said, even though part of the 1980 budget has been set aside for debt service. He explained to the HEW officials that some things (such as resident physicians' salaries) had been left out of the budget to make room for debt service.

HEW should inform the hospital on their decision to extend or demand payment on the loan by mid-November, Strong said.

The discussion on the HEW negotiations came after an uneventful meeting of the hospital district's administrative committee.

Texas Tech Museum Director Voices Hopes For Facility

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A museum really going somewhere, that's what its director has in mind for The Museum of Texas Tech University. More emphasis on the museum theme, better use of museum space and more community activities are a part of what Dr. Leslie Drew wants for the museum complex at Fourth Street and Indiana Avenue. Wise use of money combined with human resources with time and ability to develop ideas can accomplish this, Drew, who came to Lubbock two years ago, said.

DR. LESLIE DREW

He also served as assistant to the director of the Peabody Museum at Yale University.

At Tech, he heads activities of the museum and its Ranching Heritage Center.

The RHC covers 12 acres, holding restored buildings from the ranching past in an outdoor living museum.

The museum proper has 60,000 square feet of exhibit space in the 160,000-square foot "tremendous facility."

Drew's staff includes his administrative assistant, Jan Cooper, building supervisors Bert Graham and Lawrence Haynes, education supervisor Judy Hunter, exhibits supervisor, Pat Allgood, and registrar Rose Montgomery.

Collections department heads are Dr. Eileen Johnson for archaeology, Dr. Robert Baker for biology, Dr. Richard Mattox for Geology, Betty Mills for historical clothing and textiles and Bill Green for historical furnishings.

Ron Stroud is head of museum security.

Houston Attorney Nominated To Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter on Thursday nominated Houston lawyer Andrew Jefferson for a position on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Jefferson, 45, would become the first black from Texas to sit on the federal appeals court. The nomination must be confirmed by the Senate.

The graduate of Texas Southern University and the University of Texas Law School was a state district judge from 1974 to his resignation the next year to return to private practice.

He formerly was the manager for Rep. Mickey Leland's successful campaign last fall.

Nominations to the 5th Circuit are made by a presidential commission.

Delaware Governor Raps State Prisons

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A preliminary study of Delaware's prison system reveals a "shocking and ugly picture," Gov. Pierre S. du Pont says.

Du Pont would not comment Tuesday on what actions he plans, but he called the report "just the tip of the iceberg." He said the report showed corruption, mismanagement, criminal conduct and lax security. State police have arrested four more prison guards on charges ranging from accepting bribes to smuggling drugs and conspiracy.

He will be detailing the year's progress and noting some future aims at the 50th anniversary celebration of the West Texas Museum Association at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

"We are dealing with times past and times present and are interlocking them for the future," Drew said.

Fine arts from arid lands are among temporary exhibits in a permanent art gallery to be created in the museum's east gallery.

Special interest programs — music, lectures, films, etc. — will be conducted in an auditorium away from general traffic so the museum visitor will not be hindered in his tour of the facility.

The balcony already has been converted into more exhibit space and an outdoor courtyard is being reclaimed for activities.

"A museum should be exciting," Drew said.

He hopes it will be when it fulfills its original intent "to go international."

Drew, a zoologist, formerly was director of the Museum of the Rockies and a professor of biology at Montana State University.

He holds three degrees from Michigan State University where he became curator of exhibits and assistant professor of entomology and natural sciences.

Credit Policy Reaffirmed

Carter Advisers Back Tight Money Strategy

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — President Carter's chief economic advisers reaffirmed their commitment Friday to attacking the nation's inflation problem with a tight credit policy.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller and Paul A. Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, also denied that the president has weakened his support for the new tight money strategy adopted last weekend by the central bank.

"The president is very supportive of these actions because he is determined to carry on the war against inflation," Miller told a news conference.

Slower monetary growth and judicious use of credit in the short run "will permit lower interest rates and balanced economic growth" in the future, Volcker said.

Miller and Volcker made the remarks after addressing the fall session of the Business Council, a prestigious group of corporate executives meeting at a resort in the Virginia mountains. The council has met regularly since the 1920s to critique federal policy.

At a news conference earlier in the week, Carter had said he supported the credit restriction moves and that he was willing to risk the ire of voters in the 1980 election, which could result from the tight money policies and high interest rates.

But Thursday, the president appeared to waver in his endorsement of the tight credit policy, which the Federal Reserve initiated last Saturday by raising a key interest rate, increasing bank reserve requirements and changing procedures to control monetary growth.

The president told a San Diego meeting of construction union leaders that "interest rates are too high." The construction industry, which relies heavily on the availability of mortgage money, is expected to be hard hit by the new policies.

Miller argued that Carter's statement on interest was consistent with his earlier support for the central bank's policy.

"I think the president, like all of us, looks forward to the day when we have nipped inflation in the bud and that is the day we will begin to see interest rates come down," Miller said.

Volcker added: "Nobody likes high interest rates, including me. You don't aim for high interest rates per se. You aim for the control that we think will bring the answer, or part of the answer at least, to inflation over time."

The higher rates are likely to result in a slowdown in business and consumer borrowing and an overall decline in economic activity.

Retail Sales Show Successive Rises; Inventories Up Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail sales rose 2.2 percent in September, on top of a 3.1 percent increase in August, the Commerce Department said Friday.

The August figure, a revision of an earlier estimate, was dramatic. The department initially said sales increased only 0.7 percent during the month.

The successive monthly increases were by far the largest rises this year. For five previous months, sales sagged severely and were not keeping up with the skyrocketing rate of inflation.

Meanwhile, business inventories rose only slightly — 0.8 percent — in August, after a nearly 2 percent increase the month before, the department said.

line lines also helped," said the official, who asked not to be named.

"These are two strong months and quite a change from what we've seen so far this year," he added.

Economists have considered sagging retail sales as evidence the nation was slipping into a recession.

While the new figures indicate some health at the retail level, fresh anti-inflation moves by the Federal Reserve Board are expected to deepen the expected recession, many economists say.

The Commerce Department reported that retail sales increased in September from a seasonally adjusted $7.6 billion to $7.63 billion.

The sale of long-lasting goods increased 2.4 percent in September, from $25.8 billion to $26.4 billion, the Commerce Department said.

Auto sales, meanwhile, increased from $14.5 billion to $15 billion, figures show.

Dollar amounts of gasoline sales shot up 3.3 percent, from $6.5 billion in August to $6.7 billion last month. Most of the increase reflected the huge price increases of recent months, the department official said.

Worsening Denied

Both Miller and Volcker denied, however, that the tight credit policies would worsen the recession that many economists believe began in the second quarter this year.

"To the degree that we are forceful and persuasive and effective in dampening inflationary expectations, the more likely we are to maintain a moderation of the recession and return to conditions of balanced growth," Miller said. "A failure to catch inflation and destroy inflationary forces will deepen the recession."

The commitment to continue the policy was welcomed by the business leaders, who said in their economic forecast released Friday that there was "a strong case for steadiness of policy and avoidance of sudden shifts in priorities."

That is seen as good news by economists because it may soften the need to cut back production and lay off workers when and if the recession deepens.

The department said inventories increased from $413.8 billion in July to $417.2 billion in September. Car and truck inventories declined 2 percent as automakers slashed prices to clear out alarmingly high 1979 stock.

A 3.6 percent increase in auto sales last month contributed heavily to the overall retail sales trend, said a Commerce Department spokesman. He attributed the revived auto sales to Detroit's rebate and discount programs.

"Recovery from last summer's gaso-

House Would Lift All Controls On Crude Oil Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Going well beyond President Carter's program to phase out controls on crude oil prices, the House voted Friday to immediately lift all price and allocation controls on gasoline.

A deregulation amendment was adopted by a slim 191-188 margin. If approved by the Senate and signed by Carter, it will allow oil companies or gasoline retailers to set whatever prices they wish for gasoline in a free-market environment.

Gasoline is the only petroleum product that remains under price controls established in 1973.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House energy and power subcommittee, predicted the move could send prices at the pump soaring towards $2 a gallon.

gasoline prices, but had held off after last year's cutoff of Iranian supplies sent prices soaring and created a tight market.

During congressional testimony in July, then-Deputy Energy Secretary John F. O'Leary said immediate decontrol of gasoline could send the price of gasoline to $3 or more a gallon.

The Carter amendment also inadvertently wiped out the nation's set-aside program to make sure the military, police, fire departments, hospitals and farmers have first call on gasoline during a shortage. But on a subsequent 257-119 vote, House members restored this set-aside.

Existing price controls prohibit increases to consumers beyond those caused by inflation and higher crude oil acquisition costs.

The House vote "is to completely surrender to the 20 largest oil companies, those whose profits over the last year have risen by 60 percent," said Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, an opponent of lifting controls.

Improvement Predicted

Clifton C. Garvin Jr., board chairman of the Exxon Corp., said in his report that "a steady course, once it gains credibility, should improve economic performance by helping all of us make better decisions."

Garvin said the forecast was prepared before the central bank announcement, but that "a majority (of the analysts) had anticipated some sort of action from the federal reserve in their forecast."

In their report, the businessmen said they foresee:

- A recession that will bottom out in the first quarter of 1980, with a slow recovery through next year.
- The nation's economic output could decline 2 percent — about double the council's spring projection but less severe than the rough 1974-75 recession.
- Unemployment peaking at 7.1 percent in mid 1980. That would suggest that more than 13 million persons will lose their jobs over the next eight months.
- Inflation tapering from its current record 13 percent annual rate to an 8 percent annual rate next year.
- The projections are close to those of the Carter administration, but Garvin said the council analysts expect a $20 billion to $30 billion tax cut next year, a maneuver Carter and his advisers do not now believe is needed.

Iouu Bedford's body lying in the road next to his car. An autopsy showed the deputy had been shot three times in the stomach and twice in the head with a .357 magnum pistol.

Discovery of the murder prompted a four-day manhunt by more than 200 local, state and federal police. Private citizens joined the search for the killer. Bloodhounds and helicopters were used.

Late Tuesday, a 16-year-old Albuquerque youth was taken into custody by searchers in Nogal Canyon.

After officers questioned the boy, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Cox. Sgt. Johnson said the juvenile told him that he and the murder suspect were walking down the road carrying backpacks when Bedford stopped them.

While the deputy was looking at Cox's drivers license, the suspect whipped out a pistol and fired three shots into Bedford's stomach, the juvenile said.

After the deputy fell, the suspect then pumped two more slugs into the back of the fallen man's head, Johnson said.

With the juvenile as a guide, police searched through the mountainous area around Ruidoso. Because of the manhunt, Lincoln National Forest was closed from late Monday until Thursday, when authorities abandoned their search.

"From what the boy told us, we thought the suspect was holed up in a canyon in the park," said a state police dispatcher. "He had food, supplies and guns stashed all over the mountains, and he knew the area well."

Friday, a resident of Corona, 55 miles north of the search area, reported seeing a man who matched the murder suspect's description.

In Corona, Deputy Dose, an Otero County deputy and a city policeman found the suspect walking near a school. Police said he did not resist when they arrested him.

Sgt. Johnson said the episode began Oct. 2, when the juvenile and the murder suspect allegedly stole a car in Albuquerque and then committed five burglaries, taking mostly firearms, in the Ruidoso area.

On Sunday, Bedford found the stolen car abandoned near Lake Nogal. The next day, he spotted the two burglary suspects walking.

Police said they still are searching for the murder weapon. The juvenile is being held in Alamogordo.

"It guarantees massive increases in prices, especially if there is a shortage," Dingell said. "It leaves the American consuming public naked to any shutoff of supplies or a panicky market."

But supporters of gasoline deregulation — and even some of its opponents — disputed that the price hike would be as severe as Dingell predicted.

Approval of the Republican-sponsored amendment caught House leaders by surprise and sent them scurrying in vain to look for votes to turn the vote around.

The House will get a chance to reconsider the measure next week. The gasoline deregulation amendment was attached to a bill authorizing various Energy Department programs for the 1980 fiscal year, which began Oct. 1. House leaders postponed final action on the overall bill until next week.

Rep. James A. Courter, R-N.J., sponsor of the amendment, said gasoline deregulation makes sense in light of Thursday's House votes on removal of price controls on crude oil.

In those votes, the House affirmed Carter's phased oil price deregulation program and voted against an effort to reimpose price lids on home heating oil and diesel fuel this winter.

The Courter amendment also would discard the government's cumbersome and complex gasoline allocation system — one that critics said worsened the gasoline shortages of last spring and summer by sending fuel to places where it was not needed.

"The allocation system has had a disruptive effect on gasoline supplies," Courter claimed.

Supporters said a general unhappiness with the allocation system was one factor in approval of the amendment. Another, they said, was the fact that a number of lawmakers from the East who might have voted against the measure had already left town for the weekend.

And some congressional sources said that lack of a clear-cut White House position on the amendment helped carry it to passage.

The Carter administration had originally intended to remove controls from

Sharp Iranian Oil Export Cut Reported

ures, Iran supplies about 900,000 barrels of oil a day to the United States, about 12 percent of U.S. oil imports. The United States imports about half the oil it uses.

A cut in exports from Iran also would hurt Japan, which is heavily dependent on Iranian oil.

"It just returns to normal in a couple of days, it doesn't present a problem at all," said a New York oil industry analyst who asked not to be named. "If it continues, you've got a problem."

"That's just what we need going into the heating oil season," said another industry source who also asked not to be identified.

The apparent supply cut "can be due to any number of factors," said another source, requesting anonymity.

Some sources suggested the cut was due to unrest in Iran's oilfields, either to protest the replacement last week of Iranian Oil Minister Hassan Nazih with an official more sympathetic to the new government or because of political problems.

"They've had political turmoil and sabotage by both Kurds and other groups," one source, who asked not to be identified, said.

The cut could also have been made for ideological reasons. The government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has said it desired to hold oil production to minimum levels needed to sustain the Iranian economy as a way of conserving the nation's oil reserves.

There were also suggestions that Iran was withholding the oil to drive up prices. "The Iranians may be diverting some of their product from contract sales to the spot market," the government source said.

The official price of Iranian oil for customers with long-term contracts averages about $21 a barrel, $2.50 under the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries price ceiling.

On the spot market, where oil not sold under long-term contracts changes hands, the price of a barrel of oil is almost twice that.

The London Oil Journal report said that the state-owned National Iranian Oil Company is apparently urging major oil companies to buy cargoes at $36 to $40 a barrel.

Impassioned Castro Speech Hailed In General Assembly

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Fidel Castro, in an impassioned speech bristling with anti-U.S. barbs, called on the nations of the world Friday to end the "exploitation of the poor" and build a new international order or face an apocalypse.

"I speak on behalf of the children of the world who don't even have a piece of bread!" the Cuban president thundered. A wave of applause from the packed U.N. General Assembly hall answered him.

Castro's two-hour address, highlight of his first visit to American soil in two decades, ended with a 1 1/2-minute standing ovation from most of the assembly's 152 members.

Shouts of "Fidel! Fidel!" rose in the packed hall, where Third World delegates sympathetic to the Cuban cause were predominant. The bearded Castro, clad in his customary green fatigues, left through a gantry of well-wishers in a nearby lounge and headed for a U.N. luncheon with 90 dignitaries, including American U.N. Ambassador Donald McHenry. Afterward he returned to the Cuban mission, seven blocks from here.

Castro says he may stay in New York for much of next week, but the rest of his schedule was not publicly known.

Four Puerto Rican nationalists recently freed from U.S. prisons will fly from Puerto Rico to New York this weekend to meet with him, it was reported Friday by the wife of one of the four. They were jailed in the early 1950s in connection with attacks on the U.S. House of Representatives and the Blair House residence of then-President Harry S. Truman.

As Castro spoke inside the General Assembly building on Manhattan's East Side, 2,000 anti-Castro protesters demonstrated on nearby Dag Hammarskjold Plaza. A smaller group of pro-Castroites demonstrated five blocks away, on the other side of the U.N. entrance.

Local police and U.S. Cuban and U.N. security agents, fearful of a possible assassination attempt against Castro, had thrown a tight security net over the U.N. area during his five-hour stay there.

Police helicopters whirred overhead, police launches plied the nearby East River, and hundreds of officers manned police lines in a five-block area around the United Nations.

As Castro spoke a contingent of U.S. Marines was steaming toward Cuba, headed for a mock reinforcement landing in the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay intended to dramatize President Carter's declaration of increased vigilance in the Caribbean.

In his lengthy speech Castro lashed out at the "clashing of weapons, threatening language and overbearing behavior in the international arena." He accused the United States of "hostile acts, pressure and threats."

But he did not mention the Soviet troops whose presence on his island led to Carter's actions. In interviews this week he had described the Marine mission as a "comedy" and said he was "not interested in the quarrel" over the Soviet troops.

The 52-year-old Cuban leader, who last appeared here in 1960 as a young revolutionary brimming with confidence, told the assembly he was not speaking as the representative of his nation but as chairman of the movement of Third World nations professing non-alignment.

Waving a finger and pounding his fist on the lectern, he assailed the policies of the United States and the West in general in specific regions, but the great bulk of the address dealt with the disparities between rich and poor in the world.

"I have not come here as a prophet of revolution, nor have I come here to ask or wish that the world be violently convulsed," he told the delegates.

Instead, he said, he was here "to speak of peace and cooperation among the peoples, and I have come to warn that, if we do not peacefully and wisely solve and eliminate the present injustices and inequalities, the future will be apocalyptic."

He called on the developed nations to step up their aid to the underdeveloped world massively.

With his voice dramatically rising and softening, he said, "Some countries possess abundant resources, others have nothing. What is their fate? To starve? To be eternally poor? Why then civilization? Why then the conscience of man? Why then the United Nations?"

"The exploitation of the poor countries by the rich must cease."

"The debts of the least developed countries and those in a disadvantageous position are impossible to bear and have no solution. They should be canceled."

In Washington, the State Department said it had no formal response to the speech, but an official statement noted the United States already has made clear it takes issue with a number of resolutions agreed to at the non-aligned conference, which Castro restated in his speech. Those included statements condemning Zionism as a form of racism, the Camp David peace agreement and U.S. policy in Puerto Rico and southern Africa, the statement said.

scaled back. And the Alaska Republican said the difference between the 12.9 percent hike and the 5.5 percent wanted by the House already has cost the government $1.8 billion.

Each day of delay adds another $129,000 to that cost, Stevens said.

Other expenses caused by the impasse could come from the cost of printing new checks to pay the employees for a second week of work.

The only apparent clear winners from the impasse appeared to be telephone companies. Congressional offices reported they were flooded with calls from "very mad" spouses of federal workers and military personnel.

The impasse already has halved the paychecks for an estimated 1.5 million federal civilian employees of the departments of Defense, Transportation, Interior, Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and the Veterans Administration.

Officials of the Agriculture Department and the Department of Housing and Urban Development had said their 116,000 employees also would go on half pay if the stalemate were not broken Friday.

Pentagon officials had said 2 million military personnel would have received no pay at all Monday unless the impasse is resolved by then.

The emergency bill would allow the seven departments to continue operating until Nov. 1 at the same spending levels used during the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30.

The legislation was needed because Congress has passed only three of the 13 regular appropriations bills that provide money for those agencies in the new fiscal year.

The impasse meant the departments could pay their employees only for work done before Oct. 1.

The proposed abortion compromise would allow federal financing of abortions when the mother's life is directly threatened and in cases of rape and incest. The change would be in effect only for the life of the emergency bill.

Abortion financing is now allowed under conditions specified in the compromise and also in cases where two doctors certify the long-term health of the woman could be adversely affected by a continued pregnancy. The Senate previously had insisted on all four conditions.

The House wanted federal money be used only when the life of the mother was directly threatened.

warmer months, Stogner said, adding that about 65 pelicans have been on Buffalo Lake near Canyon most of the summer.

However, most of the birds should be headed for the coast in about a month, Stogner said.

Stogner estimated the bird stands about 30 inches tall and said it has a wing span of about eight feet. "It's huge when it spreads its wings," he said.

There are only two kinds of pelicans — white and brown.

Stogner guessed the adult bird weighs between 30 and 40 pounds and eats fish.

"Evidently he's finding enough to eat," Stogner said.

To catch a glimpse of the unusual bird takes some luck. The pelican often is perched on a concrete post on the north side of Masey Lake in the evening, but it seems to like its mantle of mystery and often disappears from the lake.

Government Gold Sales May Decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like clockwork, the Treasury Department sells 50,000 ounces of gold every month. But many experts suspect next week's auction may be the last of its kind for a while.

There is growing speculation the government may hold future sales at its own discretion, declining to announce right away how much gold will be sold, or when.

Many gold experts believe the regular monthly sales feed rampant speculation, particularly since recent bids have been coming in even higher than daily prices in the world bullion markets.

"We exclude nothing," says one Treasury Department official responding to reports that the agency plans to re-amp its gold sale strategy. The official declined to be identified.

"It's in Treasury's interest to get out of regular gold sales," says Tom Wolfe, a financial analyst and former director of the department's gold and silver-operations.

"The Germans and other countries wouldn't sell an ounce of gold if their lives depended on it," he said.

Technically, gold is not linked to the dollar. But psychologically, people see the price of gold in relation to the value of their currencies, Wolfe says.

"The prices of diamonds and rare books have soared faster than the price of gold," he says. "But nobody relates that to the dollar problem — partly because diamonds and books aren't as visibly sold as gold," Wolfe adds.

"The psychological link is only strengthened when we constantly talk about huge gold sales in the context of dollars," he says.

Only the United States and the International Monetary Fund sell gold at monthly auctions.

Last month, for example, the Treasury earned more than $280 million selling its gold at an average price of $377.73 an ounce.

That was nearly $80 an ounce higher than a month earlier, and it is a primary reason some other experts recommend the sales continue at even higher volumes.

The higher the price, the more money the Treasury can collect from foreign buyers — thus reducing the nation's trade deficit, they argue.

Last fall, the Treasury did just that, increasing its sales to 1.5 million ounces a month as part of its $30 billion dollar-rescue plan. The Treasury Department hoped that increasing the supply of gold would cool demand.

"That didn't work too well," Wolfe says. "Demand for gold has risen sharply this year along with the increased supply."

Wolfe says he believes any gold policy will contribute very slightly, if at all, to the nation's overall efforts to secure the dollar's value and reduce the soaring inflation rate.

He says the price of gold will continue to increase, not only in response to worldwide inflation, but because of the law of supply and demand.

"The mining of gold probably will never be any higher than it is now," he says. "And it's likely to drop because underground reserves appear to be depleting."

The Treasury has been selling about 9 million ounces annually, and the IMF another 5 million to 6 million ounces.

Dollar Closes At High Rate Against Yen

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. dollar rose against major world currencies Friday as the Federal Reserve showed its determination to keep interest rates high. Gold prices remained just below the $400 level.

The dollar moved lower in early New York trading after Citibank announced it would not raise its prime lending rate from 14 1/2 percent, but it rose in later trading when the Federal Reserve intervened to drain bank reserves, signaling it was strongly committed to restraining monetary growth.

The dollar closed at its highest level of the year against the Japanese yen and up substantially for the week against all currencies.

Gold closed in London at $397.00 a troy ounce, up from $396.50 at Thursday's close and $385.50 a week earlier. The price had dropped below $390 in morning trading.

In Zurich, the closing price was $397.50, down $1 from Thursday's $398.50. In late New York trading, the price slipped to $394, above the Thursday New York close of $391.

It was a quiet end to what had been a hectic week's events on financial markets, spurred by last weekend's package of credit tightening measures announced by the Federal Reserve Board.

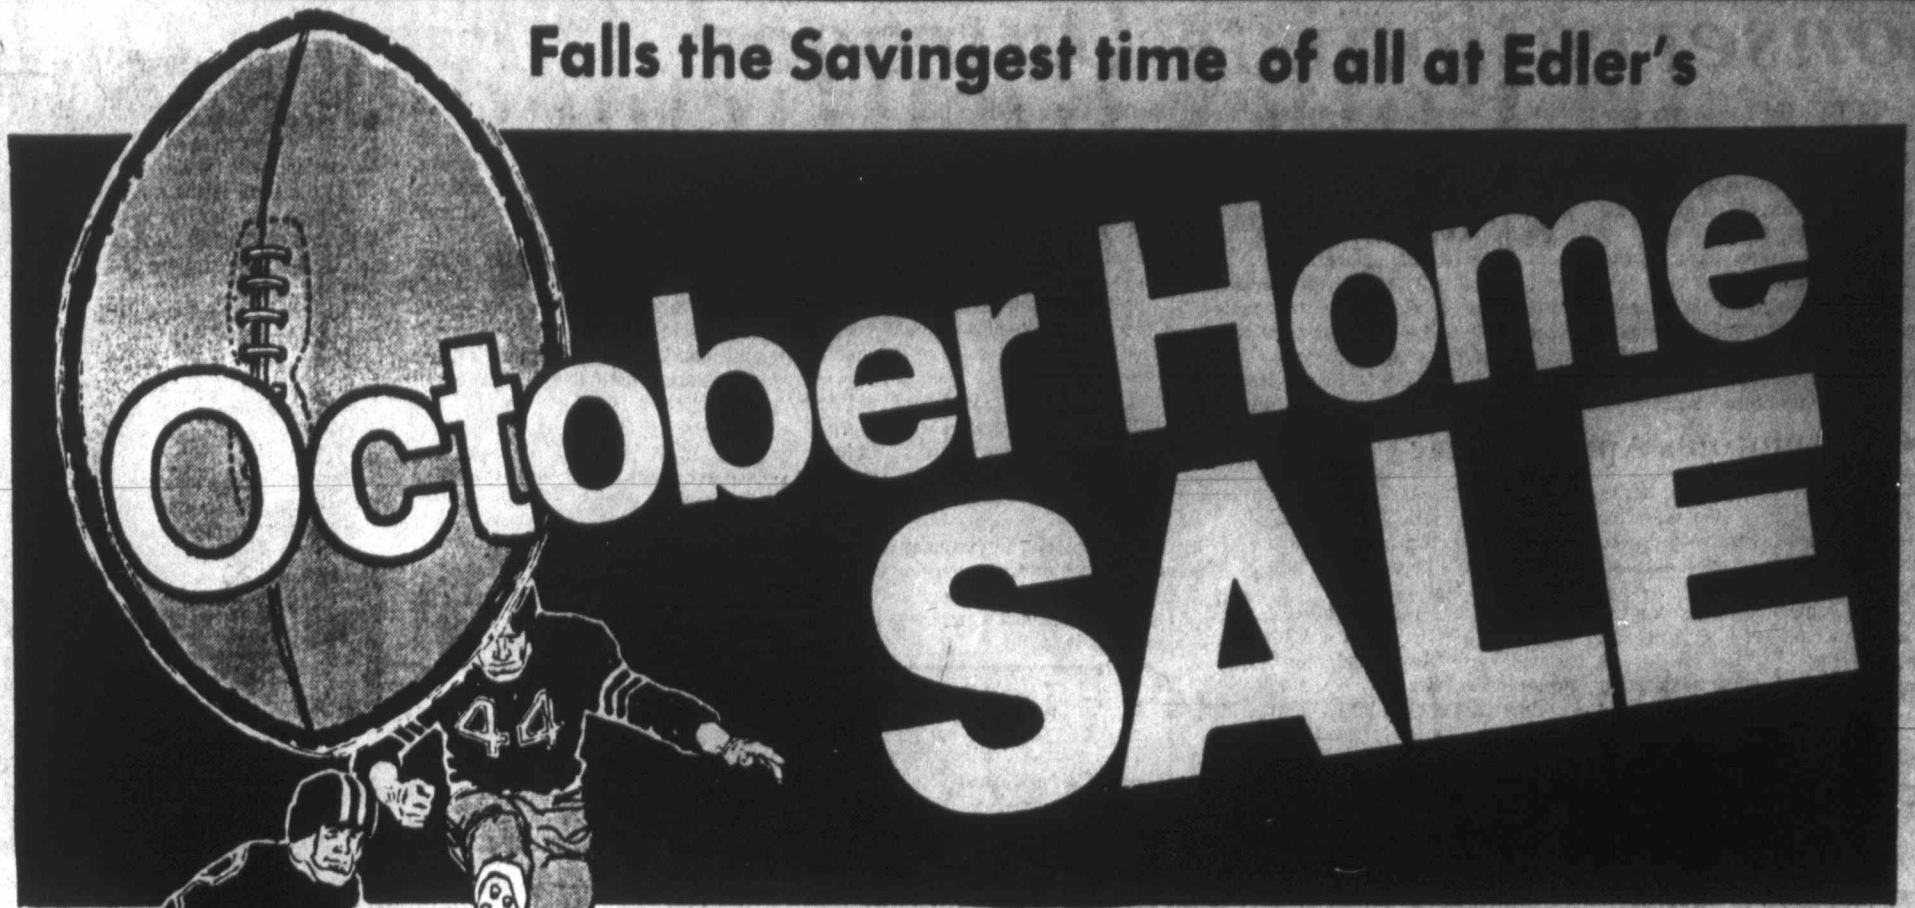

Wall Street became jittery at the Fed's high interest rate policy, touching off heavy selling on European stock markets as well, while gold retained its allure despite a week of seesaw prices.

The metal dropped sharply to about $372 a troy ounce Monday in response to the Fed's moves, but major purchases by Arabs, corporations and other investors wanting to preserve their assets in something other than paper currencies or stocks, drove the price up over $400 again by Wednesday before they fell again.

Gold hit an all-time peak of $444 an ounce in Zurich Oct. 2, followed by a hefty bout of profit-taking. A year ago, the metal sold for about $230 an ounce.

The dollar closed at 226.85 yen in Tokyo, compared to 225.90 Thursday.

Conservationists Outraged At Firing Of Biologist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angry conservationists are protesting the firing of a government biologist who suggested that one of Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus' favorite restaurants stop serving rattlesnake appetizers.

Kenneth Dodd, a reptile specialist at the Interior Department, was told Thursday that he would be fired for interfering with the menu at Dominique's, a French restaurant on Pennsylvania Avenue frequented by Andrus.

Stress Symptoms Appear After Floods

HOUSTON (AP)—A group of health professionals say it may take years for some Houston residents to recover from the emotional stress of recent floods and fires that have plagued the city.

The group is meeting in Houston under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross.

They agreed that persons suffering losses already are exhibiting stress symptoms such as decreased job productivity, drug and alcohol abuse, anger, depression, marital discontent and physical problems such as ulcers.

Dr. David Lacerda of the Gulf Coast Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center said persons should realize "they are not alone in their distress."

Lacerda said friends, relatives and employers of those affected should be tolerant and understanding.

"There does seem to be evidence," he said, "that in urban areas we are around more people and more people are strangers to us."

Houston has been hit in the past few months by two major floods and a fire that destroyed hundreds of units in an apartment complex.

The state insect of Pennsylvania is the firefly.

whether Andrus had anything to do with Dodd's ouster. Andrus was en route to California and unavailable for comment.

His dismissal raised the hackles of conservationists.

Dr. Peter C.H. Pritchard, vice president of the Florida Audubon Society, said Dodd's firing would weaken efforts to protect endangered species because departmental scientists would "worry about job security instead of endangered species."

"I am appalled," Pritchard said Friday. "I know Dodd. He knows his creatures very well. He knows which ones need protection. He's one of the guys with guts in a department that is pretty weak."

"The Interior Department should be more interested in prosecuting those responsible for selling illegal rattlesnake meat," complained Toby Cooper of Defenders of Wildlife.

Cooper noted that D'Ermo, in newspaper ads and on television, said he obtained his rattlesnake meat from Pennsylvania, where state law prohibits timber rattlers from being sold for commercial purposes.

After receiving Dodd's letter, rattlesnake came off the menu at Dominique's while D'Ermo looked for a new supply. D'Ermo said he now buys 75 pounds of diamondback rattlesnake meat a week from Texas, where the species is not protected.

D'Ermo reports his customers now are eagerly eating the $3.95 appetizers, which consist of rattler meat in a wine and mushroom sauce.

"If my customers want rattlesnake, I give them rattlesnake. Why not?" he said.

had agreed to meet regularly with agents in the future to avoid any possible conflicts with the law.

At the time of the meeting, the restaurateur said, he was in possession of 15 pounds of alligator meat, which is illegal. He agreed to dispose of the alligator meat, he said.

Since it is illegal to sell it, D'Ermo said he would cook it and give it away.

Federal law prohibits the shipment of illegally taken game across state lines. It is enforced by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, an agency of the Interior Department.

Departmental spokesmen refused to say whether any charges will be filed in connection with the snake flareup, saying only that an investigation is being conducted.

Dodd, meanwhile, said he would fight his dismissal.

"I'm going to appeal it," he said.

Dodd added that he has no objection to D'Ermo serving rattlesnake appetizers made with diamondback meat from Texas "as long as it complies with state law."

when he wrote a letter to restaurant owner Dominique D'Ermo, protesting the serving of an appetizer made with meat from Pennsylvania rattlesnakes, a species he said is nearing extinction.

Andrus entered the scene at that point. He personally apologized to D'Ermo for Dodd's letter and then wrote a letter of his own to make the apology formal and to say he wasn't aware of any protection for rattlesnakes.

Then came Dodd's firing. Interior Department officials refused to say whether Andrus had anything to do with Dodd's ouster. Andrus was en route to California and unavailable for comment.

His dismissal raised the hackles of conservationists.

Dr. Peter C.H. Pritchard, vice president of the Florida Audubon Society, said Dodd's firing would weaken efforts to protect endangered species because departmental scientists would "worry about job security instead of endangered species."

"I am appalled," Pritchard said Friday. "I know Dodd. He knows his creatures very well. He knows which ones need protection. He's one of the guys with guts in a department that is pretty weak."

Inventor's 'Ultimate' Fireproof Cigarette Goes Up In Smoke

By TOM TIEDE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (NEA) — Twenty-five years ago, when his son started to smoke, Charles C. Cohn decided he should do something about it. He was a professional inventor, after all, a person or progressive ideas. So what he did, he says, was create a safer, perhaps "an ultimate," cigarette.

TOM TIEDE

Eureka! Patent no. 4,044,778. Cohn claims it produces one-fourth less tar and nicotine than the normal weed. It also produces less smoke, odor and ash. For good measure, the cigarette does not burn very hot, or very long, hence if it's dropped on a pillow at bedtime it won't incinerate anyone.

Great idea? Cohn thinks so. But apparently not many others agree. Now 77, Cohn has spent more years of his life than he can afford trying to interest the tobacco companies in his brand. They, he says, aren't buying. Even government health officials may be letting Cohn's notion go up in smoke.

Ah, genius, it's an inclement world.

"The thing is," Cohn laments, "the idea is so simple." As he explains it he has not modified his cigarette in any aesthetic way, or added to its cost. Neither has he designed a fandangled filter, or grown cooperative tobacco leaves. All he's done is to coat the wrapping paper with chemical strips.

The chemical is sodium silicate, or Colite. Cohn says it is "clear, non-toxic, non-carcinogenic, non-irritating, nonallergenic, tasteless, odorless and inexpensive." When it's painted the length of the cigarette, the compound acts as an insulating material; ergo, it makes the nail burner slower. Simple indeed. Cohn says the Colite can be applied to cigarettes for scant or negligible cost. And too, because it mandates a slower burn, the cigarette requires far less tobacco. When excess tobacco is removed, the void can be filled with a longer filter. "It works wonderfully," Cohn says.

Items:

•In tests, patent no. 4,044,778 produces about 25 percent less tar and nicotine during puffing. While lying idle, the tar and nicotine in the "sidestream" smoke, that which is most irritating to non-smokers, is cut by as much as 65 percent.

•The sidestream smoke itself is reduced dramatically. Sidestream smoke in normal cigarettes is said to produce more than 90 percent of the objectionable fog and odor in closed quarters. Cohn says his Colite product is all but smokeless.

•The Colite cigarette is stiffer, stronger and has fewer ashes to drop on clothing, over rugs, or in eggs Benedict. What's more, Cohn insists it will not bite the tongue, parch the throat, or leave yellow stains on the fingers.

But the best feature of all may be the Colite unit's burning habits. When the cigarette is lit, it melts the Colite strips, which in turn release water vapor into the smoke. This cools the burn by 30 degrees from normal and, happily, creates what may be the world's only fireproof bad habit.

The cigarette will not burn skin. If dropped on a cloth it will not char. And, most agreeably, the Colite acts to snuff out an abandoned cigarette in less than three minutes. Normal cigarettes can smolder for 45 minutes or more; it's said they cause at least 2,000 deaths from fires every year.

"See why I call it the ultimate cigarette?" Cohn asks. He is of course quite proud of patent no. 4,044,778. He's also proud of the 35 other patents he owns (many in metallurgy). Most of the others, however, have become part of industry; the Colite cigarette has been universally ignored.

Cohn says he doesn't understand the apathy of the tobacco companies. "They are passing up a great opportunity." Aside from its safety features, Cohn believes the Colite cigarette can be produced at less cost (because it uses less tobacco), thus the industry is not using dollars and sense.

But the tobacco industry is already doing very well, thank you. Last year it sold 580 billion cigarettes for $3.7 billion. So the manufacturers do not jump hastily into change. "Why should we?" wonders an officer at R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. "We think our customers like our product just the way it is."

As for the federal government, it likewise doubts the public is clamoring for smokeless, stainless, fireproof cigarettes. Cohn says the bureaucrats think the way to make cigarettes safe is to ban them; he adds that U.S. health officials will not even test the potential of patent no. 4,044,778.

Oh well, back to the drawing board. It happens that Charles Cohn also has a new matchbook cover on that board. Patent no. 4,053,048. It's designed with four striking surfaces, only one of which will fire a match.

Inventor's idea goes 'up in smoke.'

If the inventor can't put Colite into the nation's cigarettes, he may at least make them more difficult to light.

Americans Looking For Ways To Recondition Used Automobiles

DETROIT (AP) — A young girl buys a fender to replace the one she just banged up on her 1970 Volkswagen Beetle and puts it on by herself in the parking lot of the Berkeley, Calif. salvage yard.

A Pittsburgh man takes his 1967 Cadillac to a transmission specialist for advice on whether to junk it or buy a new $300 transmission. He buys the transmission.

The girl and the man have something in common with thousands of Americans who are choosing not to pay $7,000, or more, for a new car and instead are paying to keep their old vehicles running.

World Health Group To Promote Breastfeeding

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The World Health Organization announced Friday it is preparing strict global rules against any promotion of baby food designed to discourage the natural method of breastfeeding infants.

The organization said breastfeeding should be "protected and encouraged" all over the world and invited its 135 member governments to set strict national rules to prevent its replacement by substitute foods.

"I will now start immediately" preparing an international code of conduct for the marketing of infant formula and other breastmilk substitutes, WHO Director General Halfdan Mahler of Denmark told reporters.

Speaking after the end of a four-day experts meeting that agreed on a set of firm recommendations to support breastfeeding, Mahler said he expects to complete a draft in time for WHO's annual assembly next May.

He said he was confident the assembly will approve it and added it would then be up to the member governments to decide whether they want to formulate the code as a set of global recommendations or a binding international treaty.

In 1890, "Public Occurrences," the first American printed newspaper, was issued in Boston and suppressed at once.

ing to keep their old vehicles running.

"The automotive service and parts shops are doing a booming business these days," says Don Randall, spokesman for the Chicago-based Automotive Service Councils. "Our members (independent service garages nationwide) have noticed a marked, and surprising, number of people who are willing to spend $1,500 or $2,000 reconditioning their old cars, especially the early 1970 models."

Randall attributed the increase to rising new car prices. "After all, $7,000 for a new Chevrolet is kind of shocking," he said.

High gasoline prices convinced many to keep their older models because they use regular gasoline, which is priced a few pennies below the other grades, Randall added.

The complexity of the emissions-control packages on new cars also steers some buyers away from them, he said.

"An unusual trend is developing," he said. "We're seeing more owners of cars made before 1973 and after 1971 bringing in their cars for reconditioning. That's never been seen before."

Observers in the industry said those years produced unusually durable cars.

The increase in customers has not been computed directly by the ASC's 5,000 service garages, Randall said, but the volume of parts sold this year is definitely up — 12 percent above last year.

It began more than 14 months ago when garages in Ohio and Pennsylvania reported more customers and sales of parts, Randall said. "It hasn't stopped since," he added.

But Sol Toder, owner of Route 19 Auto Salvage in Canonsburg, Pa., said he first noticed an increase in the sale of used car parts from his yard during the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

"The industry is selling a lot of older car parts," he said, adding that some persons are using "anything from lead to putty and chewing gum" to keep their cars together.

There's also an increase in do-it-yourselfers," Toder said. "You'll have that any time you have people keeping cars they don't think much about."

Route 19 Salvage also sells new Volkswagen parts, and according to Toder, "We can't get enough of them fast enough."

Joe Thompson, who works at the All Foreign Auto Salvage in Berkeley, Calif., said this has been a record sales year for his employer.

"Every year it goes up here," he said. "A lot more people are coming in. And a lot are doing it themselves. Even women do it. I saw one of them put on a fender she just bought right out there in our parking lot."

Thompson said most customers are trying to upgrade their cars. "Like the guy who put a 1978 engine into his 1962 model car."

At Transmissions By Lucille Inc. in Pittsburgh, Pa., owner-operator Lucille Treganowan said her employees are working overtime. "We're just booming," she said. "Everyone is afraid to take on the debt of a new car."

The automatic transmission specialty shop put new transmissions into three 1967 Cadillacs last week, Miss Treganowan said.

"Usually, because of the bad weather and hills in Pennsylvania, we're always busy in January and February," she said. "But this year, it just hasn't let up. When the gasoline stations were about ready to walk out (because of limits on profits and shortages in the spring), things settled down. But that was only for a week."

Miss Treganowan, who said she has been in the transmission business in Pittsburgh for 20 years, said car owners now consider their vehicles more of an investment than they did in the past.

"We take time out now and talk to the customers about whether it's worth it for them to put $300 into a new transmission," she said. "You have to consider the car's transportation value. It might be worth putting that amount in for another year's transportation, rather than buying a new car."

According to Terry Miller, spokesman for the Washington-based Auto Parts Accessory Association, service and parts business is so good, more companies are getting into it, while others, such as Aid Auto in the New York city area and Western Auto, based in Kansas City, Mo., are expanding.

"Our members (some 1,500 retailers, distributors and manufacturers of auto parts, including Montgomery Ward and Sears & Roebuck) tell us business is on the upswing," he said. "And we can tell the market is growing — tickets for our trade show (of auto parts and accessories) which will be held in Chicago this month already are sold out."

Unlike most bridge books that tend to show hands where the alert declarer makes his contract against all sorts of bad breaks, "Bridge Analysis" shows hands with which declarer has to have a good bit of luck to come out with a plus.

Both North's five-heart bid and South's continuation to six were slightly pushy. Still, the slam was a pretty good one, except that West made the annoying lead of the jack of diamonds.

The queen was played from dummy. East took his king and led a second diamond. Everyone followed and things didn't look at all well. Still, there were a couple of possibilities. Maybe the queen of spades would drop doubleton, so South cashed his ace and king of spades. With no success there, how was he going to get rid of his nine-eight of spades?

As the song goes, "With a little bit of luck, with a little bit of luck, he made the slam."

He cashed the king of hearts, went to dummy with the ace and was then able to discard both spades on good diamonds because East who held the last trump had to follow.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Something drives me nuts every year, November through January. If you could run my letter by mid-October, it would mean a lot.

I am a professional woman, married to a professional man. We have a solid marriage. Because we live close to my husband's family, I have agreed to spend Thanksgiving and Christmas with them. But I resent the treatment women get during these holidays.

Here's the routine: We are in the kitchen cooking from morning till night. Everyone expects a big breakfast, a good lunch and a big dinner. Then about 10:00 p.m. the gang wants turkey sandwiches. Meanwhile, the men sit in the living room, watching football, requesting beer and other liquid nourishment.

When my husband and I have dinner guests, we both prepare the food and clean up. I wouldn't dream of asking the women to help me in the kitchen while my husband and the male guests relax. Why is this expected during the holiday season?

Incidentally, spending the holidays with my own family would be no different. This pattern of behavior is universal. Is there a way out? — 'Tis The Season To Be Jolly?

Dear Jolly: Unless you enlist the backing of the other women, you are stuck. Your lone voice would sound like a whimper among a pack of howling coyotes. So, unite, handmaidens! Band together and speak as a group — or resign yourself to another of life's sexist inequities.

Dear Ann Landers: My 80-year-old aunt was arrested at her home in Cincinnati and taken to jail because she did not show up in traffic court for a moving violation. The woman was held from morning till evening, even after she posted her own bond.

Our preacher went to get her out of jail. On the way home she suffered a severe heart attack. (The woman did not have a history of heart problems.)

Maybe this letter might save other senior citizens from a similar fate. — Sick About It

Dear Sick: Every person who is taken to jail, even a suspected murderer, is entitled to one telephone call. I hope all readers whose elderly kin drive will impress on the oldsters the importance of phoning at once if they should run afoul of the law.

Dear Ann Landers: Our child is a hemophiliac. This blood condition makes a person extremely vulnerable to bruising. He often looks as if he has black eyes. Strangers stop us on the street and ask, "What happened to the poor child?" We don't feel like discussing his problem with people we don't know. What's more, we don't want the boy to feel he is "different." What should we say? — R.C.

Dear R.C.: Simply say, "The boy has hemophilia." Be very matter-of-fact. Show no sign of distress or annoyance. If the stranger asks any further questions, ignore him and move on.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow who has started to date again. What should I do with my wedding band and diamond engagement ring? Put them away or switch them to my right hand? I've seen other widows do both — Lakeview, Wash.

Dear Wash: Do whatever makes you feel comfortable — either is "proper."

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

REVUE WINNER — Cynthia Ann Edwards sewed up a high fashion for this year's wardrobe and with it, several state awards at the 1979 State 4-H Fashion Revue in Waco recently. First-place winner in the contest's cotton division, she is shown here in the "nautical-look" skirt and blouse she created. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edwards of Silverton and a sophomore at Silverton High School.

Sewing Expert Offers Tailoring Class

Karen Dillon will present a "Sew a Sensational Suit Seminar" at Bernina Sewing Studio & J.J.'s Fabrics II at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. Wednesday. Pait Palmer and Susan Pletsch have written a book called, "Easy, Easier, Easiest Tailoring" that takes the mystique out of making tailored clothing. Karen Dillon is presenting this seminar based on the material in the book that is guaranteed to inspire people to create their own tailored garments. Mrs. Dillon uses the ever-popular blazer to demonstrate many of the machine stitching methods and fusible fabric shaping tricks that take the place of old-style, time-consuming hand techniques. And she proves that a blazer or a suit jacket can be completed in eight hours. Also explained are easy fitting ideas, new information on tailoring notions and fabrics and construction details for double-welt pockets, bound buttonholes and quick linings. Tailored clothing is timeless where fashion trends are concerned; so that the extra time and attention makes a worthwhile wardrobe investment. But Palmer/Pletsch and Mrs. Dillon want home sewers to understand that the savings of doing it yourself are compounded by the fact that sewing techniques have been simplified to the point that anyone can do it. "Saving money can only be fun if you

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please discuss the new eye drops for glaucoma recently approved for use. The doctor prescribed Polcar for me, but I want to discontinue it because of side effects. My doctor agrees to start me on the new drops, but I would like to know about side effects. I am 55. — Mrs. A.R.

Glaucoma is a rise in pressure within the eye. The increased pressure is usually due to some barrier to drainage of fluid from the eye. Fluid accumulates and pressure builds.

Drugs for glaucoma are of two types — those that reduce the formation of fluid (acetazolamide) and those that improve drainage of it into the vein system (pilocarpine).

A new drug, Timolol, acts by reducing the rate of fluid formation. It is effective and need be used only twice a day (as eyedrops).

The drops may cause mild eye irritation in some users, and it probably should be avoided by people with asthma or serious heart disease.

Drugs in the United States undergo close scrutiny before being released for use by the public, but there are always possibilities of scattered undesired effects when any drug is prescribed in any large population. To date, no serious long-term effects have been reported with the new glaucoma drug.

Glaucoma affects more than a million Americans alone and causes visual impairment in about 200,000 of them. It's the development of such medicines that have made glaucoma a treatable disease.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I go to a doctor once a month for weight reduction. This is the program: three to five tablets of thyroid hormone daily, plus one or two capsules of appetite suppressors daily. Will this cause my thyroid to stop functioning on its own? I am taking four thyroid tablets a day. I couldn't tolerate five. I have not had any kind of test. The doctor says thyroid tests are not accurate. — H.J.G.

I don't want a reader to lose confidence in a doctor, and there may be much you are not telling me in your letter. But on the face of it I have to be skeptical about this program. No doctor I know is clever enough to diagnose a thyroid problem and treat it with thyroid hormone replacement medicine without at least a few simple tests. The combination of medicine you're taking can make anyone upset. Don't you feel a little jumpy? I'd get another opinion on this weight-loss program. I doubt from your letter that you even know what you are taking or why.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you say a few words in your column about how foolish it is to have a fear of germs? I have a fear of touching doorknobs, garbage cans, or even petting our family dog. I must immediately wash my hands with soap and water after doing any of these things. — N.M.

It's good to stay clean, but this is a bit much. You can't avoid all germs. In fact, we "swim" around in an ocean of all sorts of germs.

You are causing yourself more anguish than good health by the frequent washing. Carried to extremes, frequent washing is a sign of a mental disorder called obsessive neurosis. You ought to make efforts not to wash after opening a door, even if this is painful for you at first. Most habits can be unlearned as well as learned.

As to my reference to obsessions and neurosis, don't take that as your ticket to a psychiatrist's office unless this interferes with your daily life. We're all a bit blasé to one extent or another and most of us get along pretty well just keeping our flakiness under control.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I would appreciate it if you or any of your readers could help me in making a good, firm, lasting meringue for my lemon pie.

My egg whites and sugar beat up beautifully and stiff, but only last the same day it is made. The following day it seems to fall and shrink.

Any suggestions? — Emily J.

One tip I've learned to keep the meringue from falling, is to immediately cut the meringue as soon as you remove the pie from the oven.

To do this, dip a thin knife in hot water and cut through just the meringue, not the pie, cutting it into serving pieces.

You seemed to have passed the meringue test as far as getting the egg whites to beat up high and stiff, but for those who haven't mastered it yet, here are a few more hints from famous bakers in three major hotels:

Have the egg whites at room temperature before beating. Use at least three eggs for each pie.

After beating the whites until stiff (but not dry), sprinkle 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar and a dash of salt. Beat lightly.

Slowly add three level tablespoons of sugar for each egg white used, beating constantly. This sounds like a lot of sugar, but you'll see the difference in height.

Always have the meringue touching the edge of the pie crust to prevent shrinking.

Place the pie on the middle shelf for more even browning. When nearly as brown as you want, turn off the oven and slightly open the door so the pie will cool slowly. This prevents the meringue from cracking or splitting. Keep it away from drafts.

Now this is the most important hint of all and that's why I'm saving it until last — so you won't forget it.

Never put a meringue on a pie until you have tested it to see if the sugar is completely dissolved before cooking.

The way to do this is to put some of it between two fingertips and rub together. Or even better, put a little of it on the tip of your tongue and rub it on the roof of your mouth — you'll feel the grainy sugar if there is any.

If you do feel grains of sugar — believe it, you better keep on beating some more. The undissolved sugar is what causes your pie to "weep."

CLOSED IN WASHINGTON (UPI) — Windowless rooms can be hazardous to emotional well-being, says Dr. Samuel Vaisrub, an editor for the Journal of the American Medical Association. The problem stems not from lack of light or ventilation, but from lack of an outlet for people's visual curiosity. Vaisrub told the Health Insurance Institute studies show stress can result when people are deprived of visual stimuli from the outside world.

Spelling Bee Rules Announced

The months-long competition for the National Spelling Bee is about to begin. The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal's part in the contest has begun. This year's "Words of the Champions" practice spelling books have arrived and are available through the Family News Department.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal sponsors the National Spelling Bee in an 18-county area of the South Plains.

The regulations of the contest are the same as previous years. The spellers may be students in grades 1-8. However, the speller must not have passed the eighth grade at the time of his or her individual school finals and must not reach his or her 16th birthday on or before the date of the national finals.

Young people will enter competition at the classroom or school level, the school winner advancing to the county contest. County winners will be eligible for the Lubbock Regional Spelling Bee and that winner will go to Washington, D.C. May 26-31 for the National Spelling Bee.

A few changes have been announced. The location of the National Spelling Bee will no longer be the Mayflower Hotel but the Capital Hilton in Washington. The traditional early June dates for the national contest have been moved up just for this year.

There have also been some changes on the local level. The price of the individual practice booklets is still 30 cents per copy. Individuals wishing to purchase one or several booklets may come to the Family News Department Monday-Friday between 8 a.m. — 5 p.m. On weekends and at night, the booklets may be purchased at the information desk.

No booklets will be mailed to an individual or to a school within the city. Arrangements can be made to pick up booklets from the Lubbock County Spelling Bee Director in the LISD central office or an agreed number of booklets can be left at the Avalanche-Journal information desk after hours.

All information on school winners must be typed up by the school secretary or other person and mailed to the A-J Spelling Bee Editor, Beverly O'Brian, in care of the Family News Dept. We cannot take the names of winners by telephone. Winners, as sent to us, will be printed on our pages as quickly as possible.

Fast Draw Champ Used To Be Afraid Of Guns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Diane Graham comes to town, the menfolk step aside, but not just because she's an attractive beauty.

Even in the West, a town with a name that evokes images of the old gunfighters, her style with a six-shooter is legendary.

From now on she'll be the target of every fast gun around, however, since she won the women's World Fast Draw Championship Sept. 15 in Las Vegas.

The name of Graham isn't new to the ranks of the lightning-quick leather-clippers. Her husband Bob is a three-time world fast draw champion, and gets credit for teaching her everything she knows.

"I'd never shot a gun before I met Bob," she said. "Actually I used to be scared to death of them."

Under Bob's tutelage, she managed to overcome that fear, only to find that competition gave her a terminal case of high noon nerves.

"I really thought I was going to pass out in my first contest," she said. "In the state championship about five years ago I was so nervous that when the time came to fire, I froze and I never got the gun out of the holster."

Her recent victory serves notice to all would-be challengers that these days she's definitely hot.

The 35-year-old champion entered three days of nerve-wracking competition to take the title at Las Vegas over 20 opponents.

They had to fire five shots in each of five events, with the lowest cumulative time determining the champion.

Bob Graham needed 12 seconds, but lost her closest rival by just 1/100th of a second.

"It takes a little longer than that to think," he said. "I was as close as I could have been without the winner being on the other side."

In the competition, the shooter fired bullets at small balloons from distances of eight and 12 feet. A light above the balloons flashing at unexpected intervals indicated when to fire, and the bursting balloons stopped a timer that recorded the speed of the draw.

They also fired at a human silhouette 10 feet away and three feet high from a distance of 15 feet.

Mr. Graham hit all her targets during the first two days, and took a final day.

"I was an absolute nervous wreck, but by the time I was my turn to shoot, I was cool," she said. "I'd been trying to win this title for 10 years, and I knew that I couldn't miss any of these final shots if I was going to win."

Her hand was quick and her aim was true, and she walked away with the $1,000 first prize and a silver belt buckle trimmed in gold and ivory.

When asked how today's fast gun would compare with the legends of the Old West, a question over which she says with a grimace, she likes to use a comparison coined by her husband.

"Bob says it's like comparing the car that died in the first oil crisis to the first started with the car running in it now," she said.

She said the refinements include nylon-lined holsters and guns like the .45-caliber Ruger with loaded barrels and aluminum parts to reduce weight.

Odessa Attorney Named To Judgeship

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter nominated U.S. Magistrate Harry Lee Rutledge and Odessa attorney Lucius Burton on Thursday for federal judgeships in the Western District of Texas.

Rutledge, 46, of El Paso would fill the position Congress added to the district's bench last year.

Burton, 36, would replace U.S. District Judge Edwin Spens, who has announced his decision to take senior status.

The nominations, recommended by Sen. Lloyd Benson, D-Texas, must be confirmed by the Senate.

Two vacancies remain to be filled in the Western District.

Aspirin Makers To Fight Ad Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The makers of Bufferin and Excedrin say they will fight a federal administrative judge's order that future advertising state that their products have not been proved gentler or more effective than plain aspirin.

Montgomery K. Hyun, an administrative law judge for the Federal Trade

Roller Skaters Should Look Ahead, Not Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're into roller disco or just plain skating, the nation's optometrists have some advice: for best balance keep your eyes off your feet.

Skaters need the ability to judge speed and distance and if you wear glasses, make sure they fit snugly so they won't fly off if you fall or are knocked down.

While skating, the American Optometric Association says, it is generally best to look straight ahead at eye level.

Commission, also ordered Bristol-Myers Co. and its advertising agencies on Friday to disclose that Bufferin, Excedrin and Excedrin PM all contain aspirin.

The company has 30 days to appeal to the full commission, and officials quickly responded that they will do so.

In his order, Hyun concluded that claims that the Bristol-Myers products are faster, safer or more effective than aspirin have not been established scientifically.

So he ordered that future advertising contain statements such as "Bufferin has not been proved to be gentler to the stomach than aspirin," or "Excedrin has not been proved more effective than aspirin."

Bristol-Myers spokesman Harry Levine disputed Hyun's finding, noting that the decision did not say the claims were untrue, but that they are not proven.

"Bristol-Myers representations that Excedrin, Excedrin PM and Bufferin are superior to other products are based on clinical and scientific studies and fully comply" with the FTC's requirements, Levine said.

He said that in this case, Hyun is applying a stricter standard for advertising than has been used in the past, and that this will be challenged before the commission.

Although Hyun ordered the disclosures in future advertising, he declined to order corrective advertising in relation to claims that the products relieve tension as well as pain. Such claims have not been made for more than 10 years, the administrative law judge noted.

But the order does prohibit Bristol-Myers from referring to aspirin by any other name in its advertising and from stating that physicians recommend Bufferin more than any other pain reliever.

Hyun said studies have shown that doctors recommend generic aspirin and non-aspirin pain relievers more often than Bufferin.

Friday's order was the latest step in a battle launched Feb. 23, 1973, when the FTC issued its initial complaint against Bristol-Myers and its advertising agencies.

Interest Rate Hikes

Hurt Federal Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Skyrocketing interest rates could reduce by as much as 10 percent the number of federally assisted housing units constructed next year, a government official said Friday.

Lawrence B. Simons, assistant secretary for housing, said the government is looking closely at ways to deal with the upsurge in interest rates which threatens to drive construction costs up and dry up mortgage funds.

Ways exist to protect about two-thirds of the planned construction starts next year, regardless of interest rate levels, Simons said.

But, he cautioned, "If interest rates continue to escalate for the full year (in 1980), there may be shrinkage of 5 percent to 10 percent of assisted housing starts."

During the fiscal year ending September 30, the government constructed more than 175,000 subsidized units. Projections for the new fiscal year, which began Oct. 1, are still being calculated, Simons said.

He strongly endorsed the Federal Reserve Board's actions last week that set in motion the interest rate upsurge.

The board "had no choice," with inflation soaring and speculation on foreign exchange and gold markets endangering the dollar's value, Simons said.

At the same time, he said, the moves will have a "serious effect" on public housing for poor and medium-income Americans.

The higher costs of financing means that fewer subsidized units will be built, Simons said.

He unveiled new regulations aimed at controlling the rising costs of one subsidized housing program, called Section 8.

This program pays the difference between 25 percent of a tenant's income and a "reasonable" rent for the unit.

The units, however, often rent at $300 to $500 a month, because they are built to compare with apartments being let on the private market.

"While some express shock at these rents," Simons said, "the fact is that new private apartments — if you can find one — rent for that much and more."

"There is no cheap way to construct housing today and provide a long-term subsidy for poor people to live in that housing," he said.

Actual cost savings expected from the program have yet to be fully calculated, Simons said. But he said the changes will:

- Contain the amount of rental income that can be kept as profit.
- Specify dollar limitations on project development costs.
- Restrict the amenities that can be included in a subsidized project so that no swimming pools, saunas or tennis courts, for example, are included.

Man Chops Up Houses To Fulfill Dream

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Richard Wilkins wanted to fulfill his wife's dream of living in two of the four small buildings where she had gone to school as a child. It cost him five months, $4,000 and his job — and only half the dream came true.

The one-room school houses where Shirley Wilkins had attended class were put up for sale early this year by the Lansing Township Board.

"That was really the motivation at the time for us to get them — and it gave us a lot of hope for owning our own home," said Wilkins, a 33-year-old former machinist.

In May, Wilkins paid the asking price — $1,000 for each of the four schoolhouses. A friend who agreed to help him move the houses, Robert Montgomery of Lansing, was supposed to get two of the structures.

But Wilkins couldn't find a contractor to cart his two buildings onto the 16 acres of farmland the couple owns in Shiawassee County's Woodhull Township, northeast of Lansing.

And he wasn't prepared to post the $10,000 bond required to move the buildings through the streets of Okemos, where the couple now lives.

But no bond was necessary to haul the sturdy wooden houses, which were built with steel beams, if they were reduced to half their size.

So Wilkins spent five months hacking two of the steel-beamed structures in half with a chainsaw and a cutting torch, and was able to haul one of them 16 miles to his Woodhull Township farm on a military missile carrier he and Montgomery had purchased for $600 from a salvage yard.

He lost his job at Abrams Instrument Co. because of his requests for leaves of absence while he hacked through the houses.

Then the township board put a stop to his work.

All summer this thing has been going on," said township superintendent James Stornant. "For four months we've been promising people complaining about the site that the houses would be moved. The board went way beyond the contract to give this guy time."

Frank Sudac, township supervisor, said, "You've got to give him credit as a hard-working man. I couldn't believe it when I saw him sawing through those buildings."

On Sept. 22, the township notified Wilkins that he no longer has any right to the two remaining buildings at the site.

Tuesday night, the township board planned to open sealed bids to remove the two houses from the site of an intended park. Wilkins will get a $2,000 refund, minus any costs the township incurs in restoring the site.

Wilkins, who is Amish, was philophical. "It would have been nice to have two houses," he said. "But you count your blessings when you get in over your head. "The township has done the best they could. My wife and I are looking forward to having our son grow up in a schoolhouse house."

New Ambassadors Received By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter accepted diplomatic credentials Friday from five new ambassadors, including the representative from Uganda.

"It's a great pleasure for the international community to see the dramatic change that has taken place in Uganda, where the totalitarian and very repressive and abhorrent government was replaced by one that is inclined toward democracy and respect for human rights," Carter said.

The reference was to former Ugandan dictator Idi Amin, known for his repressive regime, who recently was deposed in a coup.

Carter, meeting with Ambassador Joshua Luyimbazi Zake, said that renewing close ties with Uganda was a "personal pleasure for me."

FOURTH WORKER DIES
DENVER (AP) — A fourth worker has died of injuries suffered in separate accidents that have occurred in the past four years during construction of a second section of the Eisenhower Memorial Tunnel.

In separate brief meetings in the Oval Office, the president also received Ambassadors John A. Tzounis of Greece; Enriquillo Antonio Del Rosario Ceballos from the Dominican Republic; Raoul Schoumaker from Belgium; and Ricardo Crespo Zaldumbide from Ecua-tor. Carter told Del Rosario that "our hearts have gone out" to the people of the Dominican Republic who suffered "terrible devastation" from Hurricane Frederic. The president pledged continued help to repair the damage.

ELITE OVERSEEDING MIXTURE
A BEAUTIFUL GREEN LAWN FOR ALL SEASONS

HOW DO I PLANT "DIXIE GREEN"?

- Overseed an existing Bermuda Lawn
- Scalp, or mow existing lawn or bermudagrass as low as possible, and pick up the clippings.
- Apply "Dixie Green" seed with a cyclone or drop type spreader at a rate of 2-4 pounds per 100 sq. ft.
- Apply fertilizer (Zipp 16-8-8, Fertilon w/iron, or Pax Winterizer, note: DO NOT USE ANY WEED & FEED FERTILIZERS!
- Water & keep damp for approximately 10 days. Do not allow water to puddle or run.

New Yard, Bare Areas Caused by Shade, or No Existing Turf.

- Ratolill soil to a depth of 1 1/2" - 2" in order to loosen soil. (Note: some new yards that have just been prepared by the builder have enough loose soil on top that no tilling is needed.)
- Rake until a good level seed bed is prepared.
- Sow, seed, fertilizer, and water as above.

NOTE: The Dixie Green is not meant to take the place of Tex-Turf 10 or any other Bermuda, however, since it is getting too late to have coverage with Bermuda, the "Dixie Green" will give a beautiful lawn this fall & winter, then Bermuda may be sown into "Dixie Green" next spring.

Mowing?
"Dixie Green" should not require mowing for the period from Dec. 1st through March 31st, unless there is an extended period of unseasonably warm weather.

NOTICE! Do not confuse Dixie Green with other so-called shade tolerant or overseeding mixtures. "Dixie Green" is the registered trademark for the mixture of two award winning championship grasses. There is only one Dixie Green! It has been tested and proven all over the Southern United States as well as this area of Texas and always comes out head and shoulders above all competition. Remember DO NOT ACCEPT SUBSTITUTES!

'Apocalypse,' 'Breaking' Receive High Ratings

NEW RELEASE

LAST ROMANTIC LOVER, THE (R) — Dayle Haddon, Gerard Ismael, Fernando Rey. (Romantic comedy). This film is so far-fetched that, if you can suspend belief, it becomes almost Felliniesque in its glittery self absorption. Irreverent in its view of men (it's partly about a male beauty contest run by women), with a predictable love-conquers-all final matchup between a lion-tamer and magazine editor. In French with English subtitles. Grade: B-minus (Byrne-Dodge)

RUNNER STUMBLES, THE (PG) — Dick Van Dyke, Kathleen Quinlan, Maureen Stapleton. (Drama) Producer-director Stanley Kramer always aims high, and does so again with this film version of a play about a priest, a nun, a romance (after a fashion) and a murder. The trouble is it sounds more exciting than it is, and the film is very slow going. The runner may stumble, but the film falls down. Grade: B-minus.

10 (R) — Julie Andrews, Dudley Moore, Bo Derek. (Romantic comedy) You've heard about guys who rate girls on a scale of one to 10? Well, this is about a girl who is a 10, and how that assessment might affect a songwriter, as well as the girl and her new bridegroom. Nothing weighty here, just good clean fun — and some of it isn't so clean. Grade: B-plus

GENERAL RELEASE

APOCALYPSE NOW (R) — Martin Sheen, Marlon Brando, Robert Duvall. (Drama) This is Francis Coppola's long-awaited and very expensive epic — and worth the wait and the cost. It is a study of the madness of war, and Coppola has created a procession of insane images of Vietnam and that terrible war to make his point. It is long and flawed, but must be rated an American classic. GRADE: A-plus

BREAKING AWAY (PG) — Dennis Christopher, Dennis Quaid, Daniel Stern, Jackie Earle Haley. (Romantic comedy) This American film is the kind of thing the French do so well: warm, funny, a little romantic, tied up just right. It's set in Bloomington, Ind., a college town, the summer the local boys finally realize they don't mind being "townies." Briefly, it's the "Rocky" of bicycle racing — but so much better. A fine job by these four young actors. GRADE: A (Byrne-Dodge)

NORTH DALLAS FORTY (R) — Nick Nolte, Mac Davis. (Football satire) If you can get past the brutish promotion of this film, you'll be surprised to discover a remarkably sensitive portrayal of professional football. Nolte, as the aging hero of the North Dallas Bulls, has a battered body on the verge of collapse, but a psyche that is just coming of age. The opening scenes are messy, but once director Ted Kotcheff hits his stride, the film pulls together. GRADE: B (Byrne-Dodge)

RUST NEVER SLEEPS (PG) — Neil Young. (Rock) Although this was filmed during Neil Young's tour last fall, it not a straight concert documentary. Unfortunately, miming "roadies" merely add tedium, and Young's "statement" about aging rock singers and their ever-young audiences doesn't really work. But the man has talent, and watching him in action should make up for a lot. GRADE: B-plus for fans, C for detractors (Drake)

SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN, THE (R) — Alan Alda, Barbara Harris, Meryl Streep, Melvin Douglas, Rip Torn. (Drama) A liberal senator whose star is rising must weigh career and family commitments. Good-hearted but painfully predictable and trite outing. Alda, who wrote as well as played title role, should avoid the typewriter in the future. GRADE: C (Handler)

TIME AFTER TIME (PG) — Malcom McDowell, Mary Steenburgen, David Warner. (Fantasy) H.G. Wells pursues Jack the Ripper in present day San Francisco, thanks to Wells' time machine. Silly and not particularly entertaining. Potentially fun idea but it never seems to get there. GRADE: C-minus (Handler)

YANKS (R) — Richard Gere, Vanessa Redgrave, William Devane, Lisa Eichorn. (Drama) Story of American GIs stationed in small English village in 1942 and of the local women they become involved with. Slow, richly textured and splendid to look at, but the romances ultimately sink into a state of fuzzy dispassion. So does the movie. Caution: Some strong subject matter, language. GRADE: B (Handler)

Radio Star To Moderate Carter's Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of people turning on their radios Saturday to hear President Carter are likely to get their first taste of the nasally New York accent of Susan Stamberg, a star of the highbrow end of the radio dial.

Mrs. Stamberg will be moderating Carter's two-hour show to be broadcast live from the Oval Office Saturday afternoon. That task was performed by CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite during Carter's first call-in show in 1977.

But while Mrs. Stamberg may not have Cronkite's clout in the ratings, she's no slouch in her corner of the industry. Nielsen ratings put her circle of fans at about 2 million. In non-commercial radioland, that makes Mrs. Stamberg something of a star.

"Our listeners are an extraordinary bunch," she says. "When I have a cold, someone sends me a recipe for chicken soup."

Mrs. Stamberg, who grew up in New York City, the daughter of a salesman, is 40. She has worked for National Public Radio 14 years.

Six days a week, she and co-host Bob Edwards conduct a news program, "All Things Considered," carried by 200 stations that subscribe to National Public Radio, the government-supported but independent non-commercial network.

What listeners get is a medley of hard news headlines, background reports and offbeat — and sometimes off-the-wall — interviews. Using her telephone as a spade, Mrs. Stamberg digs up about seven stories a day.

As she watches briefcase-toting Washington march by her street-level office, she worries about falling out of

Syracuse Mayor Named

To Demo Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lee Alexander, mayor of Syracuse, N.Y., has been named to the Democratic National Committee, it was announced by John C. White, committee chairman.

"Lee Alexander has demonstrated a tremendous ability for public service and is a very welcome addition to the Democratic National Committee," White said.

Alexander is serving his third term as mayor of the upstate New York city, having been first elected in 1969.

Carter Radio Show Expected To Flop

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's little chance his show will be cancelled, but early indications are that President Carter's appearance Saturday on National Public Radio could be a flop in the ratings.

It will be Carter's second national call-in broadcast. But in contrast to his first one, when 9 million people tried to call in, only 10,000 people have asked for a chance this time to talk to the president.

On March 5, 1977, Carter was new to office and new to the American people. With Walter Cronkite as the moderator, the busy signal echoed through America for the millions who tried to reach Carter on a special toll-free number. Forty-two callers got through.

This time, prospective callers were asked to send their names and phone numbers — but not the questions — to NPR. From the 10,000 responses, sorted into piles by ZIP codes, some will be picked at random Saturday and given the chance to pose a question to Carter.

The show, with NPR newswoman Susan Stamberg as moderator, will be broadcast live from the Oval Office from 12 to 2 p.m. CDT.

touch with what is important to America.

So she calls. She calls listeners who have written in, sometimes just to chat, sometimes to interview them.

She's as likely to call Moscow, Idaho, as Moscow, U.S.S.R. She says she would rather talk to a housewife in Oregon than a senator from Oregon.

Typically, she has called:

—Baltimore, Md., to talk about the first day of school to a girl who had just been introduced to the fourth grade.

—Jersey City, N.J., to hear Mayor Francis X. Smith defend New Jersey the day a poll showed most Jerseyans would rather live somewhere else.

—Moscow, U.S.S.R., to talk about the blackmarket price of blue jeans.

—And, during Watergate, an IBM salesman, a housewife in Markesan, Wis., and a rancher in Kansas to discuss, from time to time, how they viewed unfolding events.

The telephone interviews, Mrs. Stamberg says, "get me away from those patient-leather voices."

They drive the engineers crazy, but she likes their crackly character.

"The telephone adds a terrific sound," she says. "I like that crackle-crackle. When you call Moscow, it ought to sound awful!"

As Mrs. Stamberg sees it, a housewife is as much of a newsmaker as anyone in Washington: The way housewives react to what Washington is doing is going to affect what Washington does next.

So the housewife in Wisconsin, she figures, has a right to give Washington a piece of her mind on the radio.

Frost Pleased With Outcome Of Broadcast

NEW YORK (AP) — David Frost expressed pleasure Friday with NBC's broadcast of "Henry Kissinger: An Interview with David Frost," a project Frost abandoned several days before air time in a dispute over editing.

"My overwhelming reaction was one of relief that the project was pulled back from the brink and the battle for a balanced program was won," the British television personality said in a statement.

NBC aired the hour-long program Thursday night, on schedule. The network preceded the broadcast with a statement in which it denied Frost's accusation that it had agreed to allow Kissinger additional time to comment on questions in the interview.

Kissinger, a former secretary of state and adviser to President Richard Nixon, complained to NBC about points raised by Frost regarding United States policy toward Cambodia and, specifically, Kissinger's role in formulating that policy.

Frost charged last weekend that NBC executives had agreed to give Kissinger an additional 10 minutes to comment further on Cambodia. NBC acknowledged a short interview session was arranged, but said that plan was abandoned when Frost quit the project.

"During the negotiations last week," Frost said in his statement, "we were concerned about a lack of resistance to Dr. Kissinger's demands and the failure to assert normal journalistic groundrules, in particular the agreement to record a 10-minute retake on Cambodia."

"That was why I resigned. This week, on the evidence of last night's program, the balance seems to have been redressed," he said.

NBC, to defuse the controversy, released a full text of the portion of the interview dealing with Cambodia, although that discussion was edited down for the broadcast version.

Frost, in his statement, noted NBC's decision to release the transcript, and said, "My only reservations with the editing were on matters of natural professional preference."

Frost is perhaps best known in this country for his series of four interviews with Nixon, syndicated to more than 150 stations in May 1977.

Brazilian City Losing Scenic Tropical Trees

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The famous tropical trees of Rio de Janeiro are being cut down at shocking rate, according to a survey by the mayor's office.

The recent satellite-aided study showed that the city has lost 40 square miles of its urban forests. That's an area almost as big as the whole of San Francisco, Calif.

The principal culprits, according to city officials, are high-rise apartment builders, subdivision developers, hillside slum squatters and truck farmers. Even television stations have cleared off forest preserves to put up transmitting towers.

"This problem goes back more than 400 years," Rio's planning secretary, Mathews Schneider, said in an interview. "As soon as the first colonists came to Brazil, they started cutting down trees, either because the trees were in the way or because they yielded some commercially valuable product."

"Trees in this country have been looked on as enemies," Schneider went on. "Nobody ever bothered replanting them. Everybody around here believes that God is Brazilian and that somehow he'll take care of the trees. Of course, the real situation is completely the opposite."

This year Rio's municipal government established an environmental protection program that has as one of its principal goals the replanting of the city's lost trees.

Several times a week, the mayor's office sponsors replanting ceremonies, mostly at schools.

As an additional measure, Mayor Israel Klabin signed a law requiring industrial and residential builders to plant trees whenever they put up new buildings, according to a formula based on the square footage of each construction project.

The mayor also drastically increased the top fine for unauthorized tree cutting, to the equivalent of $1,000 per tree. But he included a provision that the fine will be waived if the violator plants five new trees for each one he destroyed or buys the city 20 seedlings for each felled tree.

The mayor's office even is encouraging people to phone in anonymous tips when they see somebody illegally cutting down a tree.

"Initial reaction to our tree planting and protection program has been more enthusiastic than we thought," Schneider said. His assistant, Henrique Bandeira de Mello, added, "We hope people will start looking to future consequences. If Rio were to lose all its trees, it would mean economic and ecological ruin for the city. People have to realize that when they cut down a tree, they're just like those cartoon characters who saw off the branch they're sitting on and fall down."

Bandeira de Mello said now that Brasilia has replaced Rio as the capital of Brazil, Rio depends on tourism and business for its economic base.

Fan Helps Big Band Music Make Comeback

By JOHN SPRAGENS JR.
ENNIS (NEA) — "The big bands are still alive," says The Menace from Ennis.

The nickname is one Harland Brittain picked up on a Dallas radio program — one of the ways he is working to help big-band music stage a comeback.

The term "big band," he explains, has little to do with the size of the group. Red Nichols and his Five Pennies qualify, for example.

"I lived through the '20s, '30s and '40s, and we used to go to dances a lot," Brittain says. "To us a big band was anybody who played for dances during the period of the big ballrooms."

The septuagenarian took on the music of those big bands as a serious hobby just six years ago. He has since assembled a collection of more than 35,000 tunes — 1,500 albums, 400 old 78-rpm records, 400 45s and still more eight-track tapes copied from borrowed records.

Brittain ushers a visitor into his bedroom dominated by a dresser top covered with sophisticated audio gear, including three eight-track decks, a reel-to-reel recorder and a filter that allows him to boost or cut 10 separate bands of the frequency spectrum, adding more sparkle to the old discs in his collection.

In the dresser drawers where Brittain's socks should be are neat rows of tape cartridges. And on the hat shelf in the closet is his reference library of a half-dozen discographies.

"Here's a guy I knew," Brittain says, thumbing through one of the thick volumes. "Walter Page, Walter Page and the Blue Devils. Some oilman backed him to form a band in Oklahoma City."

Brittain was then a golf pro at the Shawnee, Okla., Country Club, and Page found his way to the club ballroom from time to time.

The bedroom contains only a small part of Brittain's collection, but it is where he keeps the key to it all — a home-made six-drawer card file with every cut indexed by song title.

By now he has more than 8,000 cards. "Stardust" takes up three cards for listings of versions by nearly 60 bands.

The heart of Brittain's collection, though, is behind the house in the office of his shop. There a 10-foot wall is lined with albums. A box of old 78s is being cataloged and dubbed onto tape.

In the middle of his second set of stereo gear is an old Firestone radio — a table model with a wooden case. It is the type with station call letters on the push buttons — WFAA, WKY, KVOO, KGFF, KOMA.

"It was my mother's radio," Brittain explains. Most of the stations are or were in Oklahoma. KGFF was the Shawnee station.

"We had a broadcasting station at our country club," he says. "I'd go in there every once in a while and play her a record."

Brittain takes out a 78 of Rosemary Clooney singing "Half As Much" and puts it on the player.

IN AMERICA

to," he says as clicks and pops and other surface noise almost overwhelm the singing. He makes some adjustments on his frequency filter, pulling down the highest and lowest tones and boosting the middle tones.

The sound improves. He starts a cassette recorder.

"There I'll bring the treble back up," he says, playing back the tape. "I've got the noise out, now I can put the sound back in. That sounds like a tape made yesterday."

When he re-records it yet another time using his bedroom set-up, he will eliminate most of the clicks and scratches and enhance the sound even more.

Not one of Brittain's 78s is from his younger days. He had to scrounge for them all.

"Every Saturday I make every flea market and garage sale in the county," he says. "And I have friends help me out. You're just lucky if you find one once in a while."

Some of the tunes from old 78s have come from the collections of others. He often tapes his records for other collectors who know of him through the big-band grapevine.

"THE MENACE FROM ENNIS" — Harland Brittain adjusts the controls on the audio equipment that he uses to listen to the more than 35,000 big band tunes he has collected. (NEA Photo)

Brittain figures he has put in more than 10,000 hours recording, cataloging and sharing his collection with others. Every month he plays his recordings for a northeast Texas radio audience on veteran broadcaster Jim Lowe's "Old Jim Lowe and His Big Band Show."

"I just kind of pick what I think people would like, and I ask around," Brittain says of the tunes he plays on the show. "He plays one and I play one. I very seldom ever play the same twice."

Brittain's big-band kick is not all work, through. He still goes dancing at the Wintergarden Ballroom in Dallas.

"Big bands have never been away," Brittain says. "But they are coming back." And The Menace from Ennis is doing his part to make it happen.

Civil Rights Organization Suing Columnist

NEW YORK (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson is being sued for $10 million for allegedly defaming the Congress of Racial Equality and its national director, Roy Innis.

Innis and the civil rights organization say Anderson included "derogatory ... and defamatory material" in a column on Oct. 31, 1978.

The suit, filed Thursday, said the column alleged that a secret FBI file lent credibility to charges that Innis ordered the shooting and beating of former CORE employees.

The column, the suit said, also alleged that in a speech in 1966, Innis said "kids in the ghetto schools must be taught to riot."

Also named in the suit were United Features Syndicate, which distributes the Anderson column, the Yonkers Herald-Statesman, which printed the column, and Gannett-Westchester Newspapers, which owns the Yonkers paper.

The New York state attorney general's office has been investigating Innis and CORE to determine whether funds belonging to the group were misappropriated.

Anderson and the other defendants have 30 days in which to answer the charges, which were filed in state Supreme Court in Manhattan.

David Hendin, speaking for United Features, said the syndicate would have no comment until notice of the suit was received.

Joseph M. Ungaro, executive editor of the Westchester County paper, also declined to comment until served with court papers.

Students Fast Becoming Campus Energy Savers

By the Editors of Psychology Today

Will saving energy ever replace hamburger-eating as a campus habit? It's making progress.

Students in dorms at Lafayette College in Pennsylvania this year are being encouraged to repeat their deeds of last year, when they were rewarded for cutting back energy consumption by at least 5 percent over the year before. When a dorm succeeded, each resident got a Frisbee printed with the slogan "You are the key to energy conservation."

Students walked up and down stairs instead of using elevators. They reduced their use of hot water. They turned off unused lights. And 11 of the 25 dorms met the 5 percent target.

The commonsense psychological principle involved is "feedback" on the results of one's actions. It has also been used, with a slightly different twist, by Emporia State University in Kansas.

There, the savings of dorms that cut energy use are translated into dollars, and university officials turn back half of each dorm's savings to the dorm for any purpose that does not use energy extravagantly. Last year, every dorm lowered its consumption somewhat.

The dorm that made the biggest savings ($1,247) used its half of the take to buy a trophy case, replace two vacuum cleaners and buy two typewriters. Manual ones, of course.

... Many a student can handle academic work, but does not get around to it soon enough to meet deadlines. At the University of California's Berkeley campus, the counseling center is helping students speed themselves up with "procrastination workshops."

The program provides one two-hour session per week for nine weeks. The first steps involve simple behavior changes: getting students to breakdown their work in each course into small segments, to set up a schedule for finishing each segment, and to reward themselves in some way for meeting the schedule with, say, a movie or a special meal.

In the second step, a counselor helps the students understand the psychological factors underlying procrastination. Two important ones are perfectionism and fear of failure. As staff psychologist Jane Burka explains, "These students often procrastinate rather than test their potential by keeping up in a class and accepting a grade based on their true abilities."

"Procrastination," she tells such students, allows them to "maintain the illusion of brilliance, but the illusion is never tested."

Last year, 18 students took the first two workshops the center ran. All had been having serious trouble with their classes because they could not plan their time realistically, half had received one or more "incomplete" grades in previous terms. After the workshop, many of the students' grades improved, and only one student took an Incomplete.

The success led the center to repeat the workshops this year, a decision that was made, of course, promptly.

Posh New York Avenue Troubled With Rats

NEW YORK (AP) — Rats on Fifth Avenue? About 1,000 of the rodents, displaced from Central Park by construction and a systematic effort to kill them, have dug in for a last stand outside some of Manhattan's poshest hotels and apartment buildings.

"They really aren't bothering anyone. They just aren't nice to have around," a technician for the city Pest Control Bureau says. "Rats are indigenous to big cities as roaches, pigeons and even people."

At night the rats have been creeping from the park, looking for food left in trash bins along the park perimeter and for tidbits dropped by food vendors and their patrons who daily crowd the classy area near the Plaza and St. Moritz hotels and the FAO Schwarz toy store.

The city Health Department for several nights has deployed a small army along 59th Street and Fifth Avenue spreading poison in the gutter to ambush the pests.

Rats in New York can cause problems. Earlier this year hundreds of rats were killed in a vacant lot a few blocks from City Hall. They were discovered after unverified reports that an unidentified woman was attacked as she walked nearby.

Children living in the city's poorer areas frequently are treated for rat bites and in these areas — Harlem, the South Bronx, Bedford Stuyvesant — the city concentrates its killer program.

But mid-Manhattan usually co-exists peacefully with its rats. They don't find streets and sidewalks a very comfortable home.

So it was with some dismay that members of the Fifth Avenue Association discovered the Health Department workers were dropping poison in gutters near the avenue at night and sweeping up hundreds of dead rats at dawn.

The association blamed the plethora of food vendors for the rat problem, moaning that "instead of midtown it will be rat town."

A representative of the Health Department, who did not want to be identified, had a different explanation.

"Sure they're having one hell of a time with vendors in the area and are claiming rats are brought by the vendors, but it's just not so," he said.

The reasons for the congregation at the edge of the park include nature's "survival of the fittest" law, disruption of rat colonies living near a duck pond at the southeast corner of the park and construction of a new subway tunnel, according to Marvin Bogner, spokesman for the Health Department.

"We started an eradication program at the northern end of the park and started working south. The rats that didn't die were driven south and now they're literally up against the wall," he said.

Bogner said they should all be dead by the end of the week.

"We're fortunate," he said. "New York doesn't have super rats, they're just ordinary rats susceptible to ordinary poison."

American Nun Being Hailed New Joan Of Arc

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associate Press Writer

Some women are hailing her as a new Joan of Arc, the 15th Century saint who challenged ecclesiastical authority. Sister Theresa Kane's bold but gracious stand for women's admission to the full Roman Catholic ministry, including the priesthood, was of a different, gentler stripe.

It was not put before a threatening inquisitor, but to a warm-hearted Pope John Paul II, and it was not defiant, but couched in utmost gentility and respect.

Nevertheless, it was a rare and dramatic gesture. Not in modern times, scholars say, has a pope been formally confronted by a devout adherent in public with a position differing with his own.

"She's a heroic woman today," said Sister Mary O'Keefe of Chicago, co-director of the National Assembly of Women Religious.

SISTER THERESA KANE...
New Joan Of Arc

beautiful statement, gentle and reverent, but saying succinctly everything that needed saying — a call for women's equal partnership in the church.

A flood of reaction has poured into Washington offices of the Leadership Conference of Women Religious of which the soft-spoken Sister Theresa is president, with most of it reported approving.

"The vast majority is favorable," a staff assistant said, but with some criticism, contending the appeal was not appropriate to the circumstances.

It came in Sister Theresa's opening greetings to the pope before about 5,000 nuns crowded into the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington last Sunday on the final day of his U. S. tour. Theresa, the elected head of an organization including leaders of most of the nuns' communities in the United States, expressed deep loyalty and respect for the pope, appreciation for his defense of human rights, and said:

"The church in its struggle to be faithful to its call for reverence and dignity for all persons must respond by providing the possibility for women as persons being included in all ministries of the church.

"I urge you, your holiness, to be open and to respond to the voices coming from the women of this country who are desirous of serving in and through the church as fully participating members."

He didn't respond directly on the spot, although he earlier had reaffirmed limiting the priesthood to men. He did afterward place his hands on Sister Theresa's head in blessing as she knelt before him.

"Like Joan of Arc, she spoke the truth in high places," said Sister Margaret Ellen Traxler of Chicago, executive director of the Institute of Women To day "That's what people today are afraid to do

"So kindly, so gently, so motherly, just as the pope is fatherly, she told him the truth. When you love something or someone very much, when you love the church very much, you owe it the truth."

Bishop Thomas Kelly, general secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, said he wouldn't make any predictions about the pope's reaction, but "I'm sure he will take it into account."

Noting that the Leadership Conference which Sister Theresa heads is the largest representative organization of nuns in the country and the only one officially established by the Vatican, Kelly said:

"She had a responsibility to make the truth known to the Holy Father as she saw it and to represent the membership. She expressed herself with great respect and devotion to the Holy Father personally, and I'm full of admiration for that."

He said he had no indication of the reactions of bishops but assumed it was "quite diverse."

Sister Andrea Lee of Detroit, executive director of the National Coalition of American Nuns, said it had sent a telegram applauding Sister Theresa's "courageous" stand and adding:

"We are proud to stand with you and pledge our continued support and participation in the creation of a just church which rejoices in the gifts of all its members."

But besides the commendations, there also were dissents. "Biased and inappropriate," said Sister Joan Marie of Middleburgh, Va., who was present at the affair. "I don't want to be a priest and I don't think women should."

Sister Theresa, 43, said afterward she had not been speaking for "all women," but felt it necessary to bring to the pope's attention the feelings of many women in the church.

Besides heading the Leadership Conference, she also is administrator general of the Sisters of Mercy, a 5,000-member community with headquarters in Pottomac, Md.

Deadline Set For Conviction Of Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors must decide by Oct. 18 whether to accept a written court record that calls for conviction of nine Church of Scientology leaders charged with conspiring to steal government documents.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey set the deadline Friday by extending his timetable for completion of the written record that he ordered as a substitute to a jury trial. The written document was to have been completed last Thursday.

The government can ask the U.S. Court of Appeals to overturn the use of a written court record and restore a jury trial in the case.

Richey ruled Monday, over the objections of prosecutors, that government and Scientology lawyers reached an oral plea bargain agreement Sept. 23.

That agreement called for each of the nine defendants to be found guilty by Richey on a single count in the 28-count indictment. Richey ordered that the agreement be put in writing.

The judge said that after he learns the government's decision, he will set a new timetable for completion of the written record.

Government attorneys, who contended the two sides never reached a plea bargaining agreement, had asked Richey to postpone the completion date of the written agreement.

Despite the agreement's call for convictions of the defendants, Richey still must weigh the evidence placed on the written record. He would not be obligated to uphold the convictions called for in the agreement.

Anyone wanting more information about the class may call the church at 799-4329.

Cannon Aircraft Join Australians In Joint Exercise

CANNON AFB (Special) — Six F-111D swing-wing tactical fighter aircraft from Cannon Air Force Base are participating in Kangaroo III, a joint U.S.-Australia exercise at RAAF Amberley, Australia.

The exercise will involve 120 aircraft, 27 ships and about 17,000 service men and women from the United States, Australia and New Zealand in the largest joint exercise in the past two years.

Kangaroo III will take place in Queensland and off Australia's east coast through October. It began Wednesday.

Col. David H. Reiner, vice commander of the 27th Tactical Fighter Wing at Cannon, led the first three aircraft with the second cell of three arriving 45 minutes later.

The 10-hour, 36-minute flight from Hawaii involved three in-flight refuelings from KC-135 Stratotankers from the Strategic Air Command.

Cannon is a part of the Tactical Air Command.

Pope's Plea Triggers Release Of Christian Feud Hostages

BYBLOS, Lebanon (AP) — An appeal from Pope John Paul II led to the release of 188 hostages in an inter-Christian feud here Friday, defusing a tense, four-day standoff. But 35 other persons still were held by the right-wing Phalange Party.

Red Cross officials accompanied the group from the secret quarters where they were held by gunmen loyal to former President Suleiman Franjeh in the Zagharta region north of here.

Papal Nuncio Monsignor Carlo Pumo Verally delivered the Pope's plea to Franjeh, who heads the Marada militia, and Bashir Gemayel, commander of the Phalangist Party militia, the country's largest private Christian army.

Phalange leader Pierre Gemayel earlier had ordered the release of about 35 Franjeh followers whose abduction last Monday led to Franjeh's retaliation. The orders apparently were not carried out. A Phalangist source explained the militias had great "autonomy."

Franjeh's command issued a statement that said it was releasing the detainees "in keeping with our age-old tradition of bowing to the will of the Holy See." But it made clear there was no lessening of bitterness between the two groups.

John El-Hawat, a prominent lawyer in Byblos, said all 188 hostages held by the Franjehs had been accounted for. "Suddenly we were free," said Emile Khoury, a taxi driver who was one of the last to be released. "In our third day of captivity, we thought we were doomed."

His wife, Ninet Khoury, said she and other women had feared "we were to become widows. We huddled in rooms and prayed day and night to Jesus Christ, the Virgin Mary and St. George (the patron saint of Eastern churches) to inspire Pope Paul to ensure the safe return of our husbands to us.

Tewfik Saeed, a shopkeeper here who escaped the abduction, said area residents had "anticipated more evil" and a heightening of tensions. "We feared an outbreak of inter-Christian fighting here and elsewhere. Christ and the pope answered our prayer and spared us a lot of lives and blood," he said.

Byblos, a town of 20,000, is located between the rugged mountains of northern Lebanon and the sea. Its residents, like those of nearby fishing villages, have been caught in the middle of the Franjeh-Phalange feud.

The kidnappings took place in a north Lebanon area called Koura, a no-man's land that separates the two Maronite Christian communities whose rivalry grew out of territorial claims. The feud climaxed in June 1978 when Franjeh's son, Tony, Tony's family and 30 followers were massacred.

The Franjehs retaliated by driving as many as 50,000 Phalangist supporters from the area.

Former President Camille Chamoun, also a Maronite Christian, had sent an emissary to mediate the conflict.

Both the Franjehs and the Phalangists are Maronites, a sect faithful to the Vatican. The Maronites have by tradition controlled the presidency of the Parliament since Lebanon gained independence in 1943.

The institutions that held together Lebanon's 18 different religious sects crumbled during the 1975-76 civil war. The Christians stood together during the war, but their allegiance since has shifted to traditional leaders and their private armies.

The Phalangists have about 10,000 militiamen in a private army, and the Franjeh group about 2,000

City Declares War On Uncovered Vehicles

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

City officials launched a campaign today against persons who haul trash to the city landfill in uncovered vehicles.

After receiving several complaints from business owners and residents of the area around the north Lubbock landfill, city public information director Vaughn Hendrie said the city decided to combat the problem.

This morning a three-man sanitation crew was picking up debris from the uncovered vehicles along FM 2641 between the Amarillo Highway and University Avenue.

But, Hendrie said the city wants to keep the problem from recurring again.

He said persons should be aware there is a $5 charge, in addition to regular fees, for persons hauling waste which is uncovered or unsecured "in such a manner to prevent the loss of such waste during transit."

Also, such haulers are liable to receive a ticket from Lubbock police, who are stepping up their patrols around landfill approach roads, Hendrie said.

He said a ticket can be written if the police see materials blowing from a truck or trailer along the roads.

Normally, persons who pay a garbage charge and haul their own waste to the landfill are not charged a fee to use the landfill, Hendrie said.

However, commercial haulers are charged a fee.

Hendrie said he plans to print a leaflet listing landfill charges and regulations in the future and eventually place a notice in water bills about the use of the landfill and dumpsters.

Not only is the trash unsightly, Hendrie said, but a potential traffic hazard as well.

If a piece of metal falls onto the street, it could cause a flat, damage to a car or cause an accident, he said.

The landfill is located almost due west of the airport east of University and west of the Amarillo Highway on Avenue P, he said.

Test Do Not Prove Shroud To Be Hoax

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — Scientists studying the Shroud of Turin said Friday that their tests do not show that the cloth is a hoax. But they said their findings do not establish the validity of the cloth — believed by some to be the 2,000-year-old burial cloth of Christ.

They say they cannot prove that the image on the cloth was made by a real body.

"We can show mathematically the image was formed by a body shape underneath the cloth, but whether it was a real body or not is unknown," said Dr. John Jackson of the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Scientists are at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory this weekend to meet privately to pool and organize their findings on the shroud. The Shroud of Turin Research Project members conducted tests last year in Turin, Italy, where the 14-foot-long shroud has been kept in a Roman Catholic chapel for the past 400 years.

Scientists have ruled out the possibility that the image on the shroud was created by dyes or paint. And while the researchers here say they don't know if the burgundy-colored stain was caused by blood, one scientist said it was possible.

Diane Soran, a chemist at LASL, said that if the shroud had been blood-stained, the red stain from the hemoglobin in the blood cells could last for 2,000 years.

"Every way we can think of for hoaxing it that would be credible, we can't prove," Dr. Raymond Rogers, a LASL chemist, said at a news conference.

And Dr. Robert Dinegar, also a LASL chemist, said newly developed carbon dating could help establish the age of the shroud — something the scientists said they have not been able to do.

Dinegar said the scientists have asked for permission to conduct tests that would allow the dating of the shroud with only a few threads.

He cautioned that even if the image on the cloth were made by a body, "there is no way of identifying who the body is."

He said earlier that he and his colleagues on the research team approached the testing of the shroud "from a strictly scientific standpoint."

"We are leaving the interpretation of data to others," he said.

The shroud shows the front and back images of a crucified man, his elbows flexed and his hands crossed, with the imprints of nails through the wrists and feet and the right side of the chest pierced. The bearded face of the man shows signs of bruises.

But the process that formed the image, which is similar to that of a photograph negative, has not been determined.

Researchers say the image was not painted, because it is not absorbed into the fibers of the cloth, and was not produced by ordinary heat, because such a process would have scorched the fibers.

The members of the privately financed project, which includes more than 40 scientists, were trying to determine the physical properties and chemical makeup of the shroud linen.

Previous examinations failed to determine what caused the 14-by-3-foot image on the linen. Religious authorities have barred ultraviolet, carbon and X-ray tests on grounds such tests could damage the delicate fabric.

The Catholic Church has taken no position on the shroud's authenticity but has encouraged its veneration.

Authorities in Turin gave the scientists permission to examine the shroud after a rare public display of the cloth in 1978. The scientists had 96 hours to make their tests, with only members of the Italian scientific community and a representatives of the Catholic Church present.

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

Glowing Years

It was their Golden Anniversary. And, as Granddad placed his arm around Grandmother he said, "The years have been good to us."

"You have been good to the years," someone replied.

What a perfect description of their marriage. They cherished each day and filled it with love. They faced every week as a new adventure in useful living. They counted the months with patience and crowned them with firm commitment. They made the years glow with their confident trust in God.

Thus they lighted the hearth-fires of faith in the lives of their children and grandchildren.

Long after our grandparents are gone, the years will still glow with the faith they kindled in a dozen other hearts.

WHAT'S UP?

A capsule view of tastes, interests and attitudes

Orson Welles teaches gaming What's up in books?

The sonorous Orson Welles is "on the air" again, in another unusual mode. No, not "War of the Worlds II."

Welles has lent his considerable vocal talents to the narration of a 39-minute film produced by Caesars World for their hotel on Atlantic City's boardwalk — which is a guided tour of the world of gaming.

The intricacies of craps, baccarat, 21, roulette, wheels of fortune and slot machines are thoroughly spelled out as Welles explains the how-to's and pitfalls of each game.

Most of the casino visitors to Atlantic City are familiar with the various games, but for the minority who are inexperienced, the film is a road map through the labyrinth of chance-taking.

The film is available 24 hours a day to guests of the Boardwalk Regency who need only flip on a cable channel of their room's television set.

Welles has also narrated a similar film for Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. The staffs at both hotels report hundreds of thank-you's from grateful guests. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

A decade ago nearly everybody was listening to the Beatles' "The White Album." Now nearly everybody is reading Joan Didion's "The White Album" — or so it appears from the American Library Association's list of most-requested books at libraries in 150 U.S. cities.

Small Post Office Surviving Postal Service Shut Downs

By JULES LOH
GRAVES MILL, Va. (AP) — The news from this outpost in the Blue Ridge Mountains is that corn, a respectable crop, is ready for the silos, the Rapidan, troublesome after a hard rain, is back within its banks; and the post office survives.

Also, today is Ruth Lillard's birthday. The way you get the news in Graves Mill is to go to the post office and chat with Ruth.

It is not hard to find the post office. It is the only public building in Graves Mill and it is at the dead end of the only public road in Graves Mill, the one-lane blacktop from Wolfington.

"I don't know what the future holds for our post office," Ruth Lillard said. "I'm not the postmaster, you know. My title is officer in charge. I guess that means we're still in limbo."

In limbo, maybe, but alive. A couple of years ago the 14 patrons of the Graves Mill post office got the bad news — heard it from Ruth — that theirs was one of those remote, outdated operations the U.S. Postal Service aimed to shut down. Too costly.

Last May, though, good news arrived. The Postal Rate Commission, which has the final say, decided the office could stay open after all.

Graves Mill and eight other little post offices around the nation the commission ruled, serve a larger function than mere postal duties.

"Oh, I suppose we could get along without the post office," said the officer in charge, "but it sure would be troublesome."

"This is where we meet. Just this morning three farmers were here to discuss helping each other put up corn. This is really the only place we have to meet, but it is more than that."

"This is the only tangible connection a citizen has with the government. To me, that is most important of all."

The tangible federal presence in Graves Mill is a 12-by-14-foot, one-room building without phone or electricity. Or flagpole. Ruth hangs the flag on two nails driven into one of the three four-by-fours holding up the tin porch roof.

The building used to be a farm shed. It was moved to the foundation of what used to be a store.

The store closed, along with the school and the church, back in the '30s when the Shenandoah National Park bought up much of the nearby farmland and the farmers — postal patrons — moved away.

Inside the post office the usual government notices and "wanted" posters appear. So do, alongside, items of local interest — a snapshot of Ruth's husband, Randall, and the deer he shot some years ago; the poetry of Jeannie Light's aunt, who is 89.

Ruth Lillard is the 19th in a line going back to 1841, back to Asa Graves himself, postmaster No. 1, who owned the mill.

The mill's stone foundation is still there, hard by the brawling Rapidan in back of the post office, behind the white board fence keeping Arthur Molle's Herefords off the post office porch.

On the top rail of the fence, curiously, hangs a lunch box.

"Oh that," Ruth Lillard explained. "Well, I'm only open from nine to noon. Dolly Seekford can't come by then because she works all the way over in Reva. I put Dolly's mail in the lunch box so she can pick it up after work."

Suffice it to say Ruth Lillard hears no complaints about the postal service in Graves Mill, Va., 22721.

TERMINAL GIVEN APPROVAL
LOS ANGELES (AP) — After six years, the federal government has given final approval for the Point Conception liquefied natural gas terminal up the coast from Santa Barbara. The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission on Thursday approved a pricing formula for that part of the project that will transport the gas to the terminal in ships from Alaska.

What's up in faces?

Faces reveal an amazing amount of information about their owners. So says Aziza makeup artist Peter Shen, who studied physiognomy — the reading of faces — in the Orient.

Here is what Shen sees in six famous faces:

Elizabeth Taylor: "The telling feature on that beautiful face happens to be the eyebrows — dark, thick and well defined with a clean natural arch. Brows indicate the potential for fame and Miss Taylor's strong and distinctive ones assure her lifelong celebrity."

Candice Bergen: "Eyes indicate mental abilities and intelligence, and Miss Bergen's intense almond-shaped eyes reveal strong mental prowess. Her heavy lids and low brows tell the physiognomist that while she may appear to be very free and spontaneous she's really quite shrewd and complex, putting a great deal of thought into what she does."

Barbra Streisand: "Because the nose is the center of the face, it indicates the owner's ability to accumulate wealth, power, friends and influence. A dominant nose like Miss Streisand's indicates that she's very good at drawing both money and people to her. She's also quite shrewd and in control of business situations." Farrah Fawcett: "Just look at all those teeth! The toothy type of smile indicates power over others. She knows how to get her way and turn even a bad situation to her advantage."

Katharine Hepburn: "Cheekbones are the sign of authority and who has lovelier, more classic cheekbones than Miss Hepburn? Even as a young actress, she had a majestic, authoritative air about her."

Warren Beatty: "His strong square jaw says that he's not shy about going after what he wants and that he knows just how to achieve his goals. His jaw is softened by a rather full, slightly upturned mouth, which indicates a passionate nature and — no surprise! — the potential for great success with women." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

What's down in price?

It's not quite true that everything costs more than it used to. Here are some items that have actually gone down in price thanks to such factors as increased competition or improved technology, says Self magazine.

- Digital watches.
- Hand-held calculators.
- Radios, stereos and televisions — at least some no-frills models.
- Video games.
- Smoke detectors.
- Food processors copied from the original.
- Tennis balls from discount sporting-goods stores.
- Airline tickets for some flights, such as New York City to Los Angeles.
- Overseas telephone calls to such countries as Japan and France.

Taxpayers Being Ripped Off, Says Arkansas Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's lax control over billions of dollars spent each year for outside consultants is "ripping off" the American taxpayer, the chairman of a Senate panel investigating consulting abuses declared Friday.

Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee on civil service, said government consultants have become an "invisible bureaucracy" over which there are no checks and balances.

"The invisible bureaucracy is made up of literally thousands of individuals hired as consultants by government departments and agencies," Pryor said.

"A conservative estimate is that they represent a thriving $2 billion-a-year industry which is producing at best questionable results," he added.

Critics of the consulting industry told the panel that broad powers over government policy have been placed in the hands of private consultants who sometimes have serious conflicts of interest.

Daniel Guttman, author of "The Shadow Government," said the Energy Department has often hired consulting firms that represent energy industry clients and that advocate a pro-industry point of view.

"Were the identity of its contractors made public, it would appear that the Department of Energy has chosen to employ the energy industry, rather than to regulate it," Guttman said.

Ag I

WASHINGTON (AP) — A crop of 7.39 billion bushels of corn, harvested by farmers, will provide most of the meat, poultry and other products of the Agriculture Department.

The huge harvest will satisfy a growing demand in foreign countries for corn. Based on field surveys, the new estimate is 2 percent more than the 7.2 billion bushels a month ago. Last year, the crop was 7.08 billion bushels.

However, the huge harvest necessarily means a sharp drop in food costs. Retail food prices are still higher than last year, but a 12 percent increase to be expected in the next few months. Without an outlook would be a 10 percent increase estimated. But without an outlook would be a 10 percent increase estimated. But without an outlook would be a 10 percent increase estimated.

Ag Department Predicting Record Corn Harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — A record crop of 7.39 billion bushels is being predicted by farmers this fall, grain that will provide most of the feed to produce meat, poultry and milk in the coming year, the Agriculture Department said today.

The huge harvest also is expected to help satisfy a growing demand for U.S. grain in foreign countries, including potential record sales of grain to the Soviet Union.

Based on field surveys as of Oct. 1, the new estimate was up 309 million bushels — 2 percent — from the forecast month ago. Last year's harvest, also a record, was 7.08 billion bushels.

Corn is the largest U.S. grain crop by far and is most important as livestock feed and for export to other countries. Soybean, when crushed, yield high-protein meal for livestock feed plus vegetable oil for cooking, margarine and other purposes.

In the report on Soviet grain production, USDA estimated the total 1979 grain harvest at 176 million metric tons, down 26.2 percent from last year's record 237.2 million.

A month ago, USDA estimated the Soviet grain crop at 180 million metric tons.

By comparison, the U.S. corn harvest alone this year equals 187.7 million metric tons, according to the new estimate. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and, for example, is equal to 90.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said the new Soviet grain

"it will be about 6 days before we get a firm idea from the Russians on what (their crop) actually was."

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland predicted last week the Soviet Union would buy the entire 25 million metric tons now authorized, an increase of about 10 million tons from their purchases in the year that ended on Sept. 30.

The department's Crop Reporting Board also estimated a 1979 soybean crop of 2.21 billion bushels, up 18 percent from the 1978 harvest of 1.84 billion bushels. Last month's forecast was 2.17 billion bushels.

Corn is the largest U.S. grain crop by far and is most important as livestock feed and for export to other countries. Soybean, when crushed, yield high-protein meal for livestock feed plus vegetable oil for cooking, margarine and other purposes.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said the new Soviet grain harvest estimate — including reductions from a month ago in both wheat and coarse grains such as corn — "reflects a reduced estimate of spring grains" in the European area and "lower spring wheat yields in West Siberia and the South Ural's."

Officials said U.S. wheat production, the third-largest on record, was pegged at 2.11 billion bushels, a decline of about 10 million bushels from the forecast a month ago. However, wheat output still is the third largest on record and is 18 percent more than last year's harvest of less than 1.8 billion bushels, the smallest since 1974.

That includes about 1.6 billion bushels of winter wheat, up 28 percent from 1.25 billion last year.

Despite the huge crops, grain prices are up significantly from a year ago, due mostly to heavy export demand and large quantities of corn and wheat farmers stored in the government's three-year grain reserve program.

Wheat prices at the farm, for example, averaged $3.94 a bushel in mid-September, up 31.5 percent from $2.99 a year earlier. Corn, at $2.49 a bushel, was up 24 percent from $2.01.

Cotton production was estimated at 14.4 million bales, up 32 percent from the 1978 harvest of less than 10.9 million bales. The forecast in September was 14.2 million bales.

Looking at crop production as a whole, the board put its "all-crop" index at a record 42 percent higher than the 1967 benchmark of 100, 11 points above last year. Record feed grain and oilseed crops, plus cotton's sharp advance, are responsible, the board said.

A year ago this month, USDA forecast the 1978 corn harvest at 6.82 billion bushels. The near-perfect summer weather continued and 7.08 billion bushels went in the bins.

In a third report, USDA said world grain production now is seen at 1.8 billion metric tons, a drop of 4 percent from last year's record but "largely unchanged" from prospects a month ago. Even so, global output in 1979-80 is expected to be the second-largest ever.

The report said reduced production estimates since September in the Soviet Union, India and Eastern Europe "were nearly offset" by higher forecasts for the United States, Western Europe and China.

Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist, said the 4 percent decline in total world grain production from last year is the largest "in one year that the world has ever seen" and that "we are very fortunate ... to be able to meet this massive potential demand."

Officials said U.S. corn yields this year are expected to average a record 106.4 bushels an acre, compared to 104.6 bushels forecast in and 101.2 bushels per harvested acre in 1978.

The board estimated the soybean yield at 31.5 bushels an acre, up from last season's 29.2, and the September forecast of 29.9 bushels an acre.

The 1979 crop of rice also is expected to be a record at 137.8 million hundredweight, 3 percent above the 1978 harvest of 133.8 million.

The average yield of all wheat was put at a record 34 bushels an acre, compared to 31.6 bushels last year.

Winter wheat yields were estimated at a record 36.7 bushels an acre, compared to 32.1 in 1978.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

A SPECIAL RULE THAT WOULD PERMIT the English bill to be amended on the House floor with provisions for higher 1980 grain target prices has been requested by the House Agriculture Committee.

The panel will send its request to the House Rules Committee but it is uncertain when that group will act.

Introduced by Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., the bill would raise 1979 target prices to $3.63 per bushel for wheat and $2.35 per bushel for corn, up 7 percent from existing levels.

This already has been approved by the House Agriculture Committee. If a special rule is granted, House members will be able to amend the bill during floor debate to set 1980 target prices as high as $3.88 for wheat and $2.51 for corn. In 1978, the wheat target price was $3.40 and the corn target was $2.20.

REP. TOM FOLEY, D-WASH., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, offered the amendment requesting the Rules Committee to amend the rule governing floor consideration so that amendments covering the 1980 wheat and feed grain target levels also would be in order.

If the Rules Committee approves the Agriculture Committee's request, the House probably will choose between two different versions of the English bill during the floor debate.

Both would set 1979 target prices at the same levels. But for 1980, target prices could remain at those 1979 levels or be boosted another 7 percent to $3.88 for wheat and $2.51 for corn.

Under the Foley amendment, a farmer in 1980 who did not plant within their normal cropland acreage (NCA), as determined by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, would not be eligible for full target price protection.

If a farmer did not remain within his NCA, he would be eligible for target price protection equal to only 80 percent of the formula target price that USDA is required to compute each year. This formula price, which is related to previous-year crop yields, probably will be about $3.06-12 for wheat and $2.08-10 for corn in 1980.

THE ENGLISH BILL WOULD PERMIT farmers who already have planted winter wheat and other 1980 crops to graze out the wheat or destroy the crops.

Foley said he had no indication the Carter administration would support the English bill. Aides said the USDA has not and probably would not actively campaign against the English bill but would not support it if it passed.

There currently is no comparable bill on the Senate side.

Foley estimated the English bill, with the highest 1980 target prices possible under the special rule, would require $200 million to $250 million in Treasury outlays, mostly in disaster payments rather than deficiency payments.

He said administration budget officials believe market prices will be above the proposed target price of $3.63 a bushel for wheat in 1980 and that there would be no direct cost to the government in the form of deficiency payments at this level.

A HIGH PLAINS COTTON CROP of 3,175,000 bales in the government's crop reporting districts of 1-North and 1-South now appears to be in prospect, the USDA said Friday, down 50,000 bales from a month ago.

The USDA left the estimated acres for harvest unchanged at 3,920,000. This was not surprising in this report, although private crop forecasters here believe the government acreage estimate is high and may have to be revised downward later this season.

Yields per harvested acre were pegged at an average of 389 pounds, down from 395 last month but close to the 384-pound average projected in a private estimate here earlier this week for the 25-county High Plains area.

The Texas crop estimate was left unchanged from a month ago at 5.6 million bales. There had been expectations for a cut to 5.5 million bales or less. Offsetting the reduction on the High Plains was a 50,000-bale hike in the Rio Grande Valley crop. Prospects in the Blacklands were rated 10,000 bales higher at 250,000 bales, but there was a 10,000-bale cut in 10-North (South Texas) to 55,000 bales.

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION ON THE High Plains crop now have narrowed but still persist, due largely to disagreements in estimates on acres still standing for harvest.

Adjustments in the 1-N and 1-S estimate to compensate for geographical differences would indicate a 25-county crop, based on the USDA projection, of about 3,250,000 bales. This compares with this week's private estimate of 3,011,900 bales. It had been expected that the private estimate would be below the government projection.

(A miscalculation was made in adjusting last month's USDA estimate. The correct adjusted estimate should have been about 3.3 million bales, not 3.4 million as previously reported.)

ELSEWHERE, THE BIGGEST SURPRISE in the official new national all-cotton estimate of 14,356,000 bales, up from 14,245,000 a month ago, was in the Mid-South.

The Mid-South estimate rose 170,000 bales, at least 100,000 or more above expectations. Early yields, however, have been hefty. The Mid-South increase was led by Mississippi, where the estimate went up 100,000 bales to 1.3 million.

It was a mild surprise that the estimate in California remained unchanged at 3,250,000 bales. An increase there had been expected to more than offset a decrease in Arizona to leave the Far West, on balance, with a small boost. The Arizona upland estimate, in line with expectations in some quarters, was dropped 50,000 bales, putting it at 1.3 million.

COTTON FUTURES CLOSED DOWN 17 points to up 13 points Friday in light trading.

Late commission house selling and local long liquidation pressed March and May lower. Speculative long liquidation may have been prompted by expectations of a bearish USDA crop report, brokers said.

The trade was reported a steady buyer, especially of spot December, on what was thought to have been hedging against possibly substantial export sales recently which may not have been covered yet in purchases from farmers.

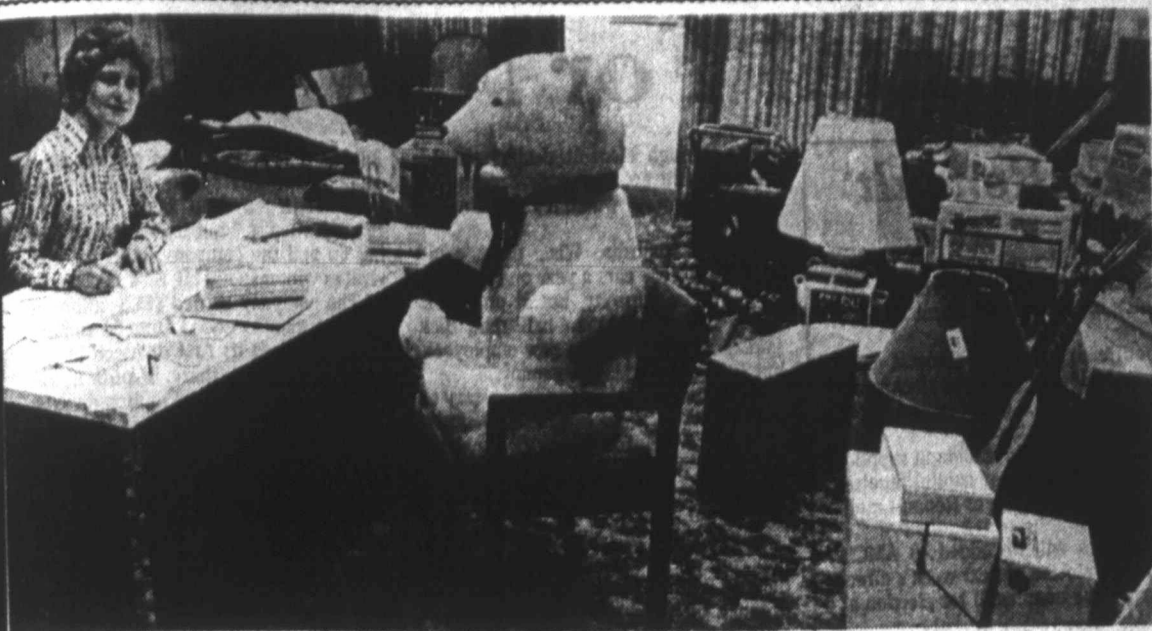

Estimated volume was 4,550 lots.

Renault To Provide AMC Capital For New Car

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. and the French automaker Renault, partners for 18 months, announced Friday Renault will provide $150 million in new capital to AMC so the U.S. automaker can build a new Renault model in Wisconsin.

Renault will place two representatives on AMC's board and the two companies will form joint financing units, AMC said.

Those directors will represent Renault's interest in the company, which starts with 1.5 million new shares of common stock purchased by Renault Friday at $10 a share for $15 million — about a 5 percent interest.

The Renault interest may increase to about 22.5 percent through conversion of two debt securities from AMC.

On the New York Stock Exchange Friday, AMC's common stock closed up 37.5 cents to $8.25 apiece.

The new car to be built in Wisconsin, whose production had been foreseen but not nailed down ever since the original affiliation, will be a front-wheel drive compact in several body styles "aimed at the heart of the American market" in the 1983 model year. It will compete with the current "X-body" cars of General Motors Corp. and comparable Ford and Chrysler models scheduled for the 1981 model year.

AMC Announces Part Ownership By Renault

DETROIT (AP) — Here are the terms of Renault's acquisition of part ownership of American Motors Corp., as given in AMC's announcement Friday.

Renault bought 1.5 million shares of AMC stock from the company Friday for $10 a share for a total of $15 million.

Also, Renault lent AMC $45 million Friday at 9 percent annual interest on a note that will be automatically converted into about 4.1 million shares of common stock at $11 a share over the next four years.

AMC will sell to Renault, if shareholders at the February annual meeting approve, $40 million in subordinated debentures at 10 percent interest, convertible into 3.3 million shares of common stock at $12 a share.

AMC will sell $50 million in non-convertible subordinated debentures to Renault, at an interest rate to be established when the debentures are sold. Both debenture issues will mature by the year 2000.

Friday's stock purchase gives Renault about a 5 percent interest in AMC. When the convertible securities are turned into stock, Renault's interest will be about 22.5 percent.

"It is the intent of both companies that Renault maintain its position as American Motors' principal stockholder and that American Motors maintain a credit equivalent to 'A'-rated companies," the announcement said.

Renault will make available up to $50 million in supplier credits or "other arrangements for working capital requirements" in the preparation for the building of Renault models at Kenosha, Wis.

Two Renault representatives will be added to AMC's board of directors. One will be elected at next week's directors' meeting and another will be nominated for election at the annual meeting.

vided by Renault, but other major components, including body stampings and production tools, will come from the United States, the two companies said.

"It's the first deal of its kind in the United States, though Renault assembled AMC's Rambler models overseas until 1965, and only the second manufacture of a foreign car in this country. Volkswagen started production of Rabbit models in Pennsylvania last year.

AMC will get capital, new models and access to technology through Renault, the world's sixth largest motor vehicle manufacturer and ninth largest industrial enterprise outside the United States.

"It's good for both companies, and AMC could not have played the game any other way," commented Richard Haydon, auto analyst for the investment banking firm Goldman, Sachs & Co.

"We did not have the resources to develop our own lines for the 1980s starting from scratch," commented Bill Sick, AMC group vice president for finance and administration, in a telephone interview from New York.

Renault got a strong dealer network in the earlier agreement, under which AMC took over distribution of the "Le Car" model here and began distributing Jeeps through Renault dealers abroad. Now Renault gets assembly capacity far cheaper than it would by building its own.

AMC's Kenosha, Wis., plant could produce 500,000 cars a year on two shifts at maximum capacity, but at present is being run at less than half that, Sick said. The plant will add new employees, but Sick could not say how many.

Sick said it would not be necessary to drop any AMC models built at Kenosha to make room for Renaults. Analysts have believed for some time, however, that the slow-selling Pacer model is on the way out.

He declined to say how many of the new cars would be built, but analysts believe at least 100,000 a year is necessary to make such a venture worthwhile. Renault sold 14,950 cars in this country in the first nine months of this year, compared to AMC's 112,662.

AMC also builds Jeeps, and their popularity in the four-wheel drive market has led a resurgence of once-struggling AMC. The spring gasoline shortages "flattened Jeep sales from April through August," but they are now picking up and the company looks for a revival as winter snows hit, Sick said.

The company earned $73.3 million in the nine months ended June 30 and last month declared its first dividend in five years, 7.5 cents a share. Profits in the previous year were $36.7 million on sales of $2.6 billion, compared with Renault's sales of $12.7 billion.

Renault had sales of $12.7 billion in 1978.

Asked if Renault had been holding back in the negotiations to make sure of AMC's prosperity, Sick said, "That's a wrong interpretation. The relationship matured at its own pace, and we're a couple of months ahead of schedule with this announcement. But our final turnaround is clearly part of it — it increased their confidence that they're dealing with the right people."

Swelling Oil Supplies Lowering Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy Secretary Charles Duncan said Friday that swelling supplies of home heating oil have begun to bring lower prices.

"In the past several weeks, the price trend has been softening, and that's very good news," Duncan told reporters at the White House.

Duncan spoke after President Carter appeared personally to say, for at least the third time in the past month, that the administration will meet its goal of 240 million barrels of home heating oil in "primary reserves" by the end of October.

Carter said new government figures showed reserves held by the oil industry now stand "in the range of 235 million barrels" and going upward.

"This is a gratifying achievement," Carter said. "I want to commend the refiners for their cooperation, and also to applaud all Americans who cut back on the waste of energy."

Asked about heating oil prices, Duncan cited a newspaper article showing prices in one Northeast city had dropped from about 87 cents per gallon several weeks ago to a price Thursday of about 79 cents.

"I was told by my associates just before I came over that the spot market seems to be softening," he added.

Duncan said he has not yet made up his mind about whether refiners and distributors have been boosting their profits too much.

X-Ray Technique Wins Prize For Men

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Nobel Prize for medicine was awarded to an American and a Briton who in their separate ways helped develop an X-ray technique — computer-assisted tomography — that enables man to peer more clearly and safely than ever into the human body.

Physicist Allan M. Cormack, 55, of Tufts University in Medford, Mass., said he was "amazed" to learn that the Royal Caroline Medico-Surgical Institute had selected him for the 1979 prize.

His co-winner, Godfrey Newbold Hounsfield, 60, a research engineer with the British electronics firm EMI, told a London news conference, "I must say that I thought that I had done well, but never expected this."

Hounsfield noted he was a rare phenomenon — a Nobel science winner without a university degree. As a young man he attended a technical school, then entered the Royal Air Force, and finally joined EMI as a radar specialist.

The choice apparently was a surprise to the Institute's Nobel selection committee as well. Informed sources said the 15-member committee's recommendation was overridden by the 54 Institute faculty members who made the final choice.

This unprecedented veto reportedly CAT Scanners Under Fire By Critics

NEW YORK (AP) — The computer-assisted tomography scanner has sparked such a revolution in medicine that some critics call it too much of a good thing.

The first "CAT" scanner was installed in a U.S. hospital in 1973, about two years after its development in Britain.

Today, there are more than 1,300 of the machines in this country, according to the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment, and the number is growing at about 20 a month, despite efforts to regulate them.

Private physicians in the nation own 227 CAT scanners — more than the total number in any other country in the world. And there are nearly as many CAT scanners in Kansas City — 17 — as in Sweden, where there are 20.

"I don't think there's a historical parallel of a technology becoming so widely accepted so fast at such a high cost," said Dr. David Banta, the OTA's manager of health programs.

What concerns critics is the high cost — estimated at $500,000 for the machine itself and $400,000 annual operating costs for the first five years — at a time when health care costs are skyrocketing.

Guidelines issued in March by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare say a CAT scanner isn't needed unless a hospital does more than 2,500 scans a year. But Banta said the national average is only 1,500 to 2,000 scans annually.

A head scan costs about $245 and a body scan about $275.

"The problem is Blue Cross, private insurance companies, Medicare and Medicaid all pay for CAT scans. It's not the physicians' fault. I think it's a system failure," Banta said.

But advocates point out that the new technology has revolutionized diagnosis and surgery for tumors and fractures of the head. It also has improved study of the kidneys, pancreas, adrenal glands and other internal organs that don't show up well on an ordinary X-ray.

"I believe CAT will replace enough other diagnostic procedures that its net cost will be very little. But for that to occur, CAT has to be widely available," said Dr. Ronald Evens, head of Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology at Washington University in St. Louis.

The more than 200 health systems agencies set up by the 1974 Health Planning Act are the agencies that review whether a hospital really needs a CAT scanner.

Otha Linton, the American College of Radiology's chief lobbyist in Washington, says it's unfortunate that CATs came in at the same time the health planning agencies were set up. "Instead of being welcomed as a dramatic new breakthrough, people who have supported it (CAT scanners) have had to fight their way through," he said.

Rita Fritz, head of technology policy for the American Hospital Association, predicted CAT scanners would eventually prove so useful that hospitals will wish they had more.

But critics say the technology improves so fast that hospitals may only end up with a lot of outmoded equipment.

"If we're going to offer these new generations of more efficient instruments to patients, we cannot afford to let them proliferate at too great a rate. But there's no question that the CAT scanner is an extremely effective diagnostic tool," Surgeon General Julius Richmond said.

was made after a long and heated debate within the Institute. The identity of the committee's choice was not publicly known.

Cormack and Hounsfield, who for years were unaware of each other's research, will share a record $190,000 award. Cormack is the 53rd U.S. citizen to win the medicine award, which has been dominated by Americans in recent decades.

Cormack, a native of South Africa, was cited for doing the mathematical analyses that laid the groundwork for the computerized technique and Hounsfield as the "central figure" in its practical development.

Many in medicine view the "CAT" scanning method as a revolution equal to the discovery of the X-ray itself almost a century ago.

It adds a new dimension to traditional X-raying, and though in general hospital use for only six years it has become an extremely quick, highly effective diagnostic technique, especially for the brain.

The CAT method works as follows: The equipment beams a rotating X-ray through a cross-section of the body from every angle, and feeds the information back into a computer that provides a picture of the "slice" of the brain or other organ being examined.

The computerization provides a more detailed picture of the organ than ever before possible. By looking at successive "slices" of a brain, for example, doctors can "see" a clear picture of a tumor or other organic irregularity, rather than just the flat and shadowy silhouette of normal X-raying.

With CAT, doctors in a matter of seconds can detect tumors that might have eluded them in the past, when they employed painful and risky X-ray methods that use air or colored fluid to put better contrast into the plates.

"It is no exaggeration to state that no other method within X-ray diagnostics within such a short period of time has led to such remarkable advances in research and in a multitude of applications as computer-assisted tomography," the Caroline Institute said in its citation.

Cormack, educated at the University of Cape Town and Cambridge, moved to the United States in 1956 and became a U.S. citizen 10 years later. He published his analysis of the mathematical problem in 1963-64.

Hounsfield has worked for EMI — an electronics firm that manufactures medical equipment but is known best as a producer of Beatles' and other record albums — since the early 1950s. He was an early pioneer in development of large solid-state computers, and his work on automatic pattern recognition put him onto the idea of the CAT.

He put in a CAT patent application in 1968, but sufficiently sophisticated computers did not exist for its practical use until 1972.

As a result of the CAT breakthrough, "we have almost eliminated the old, painful methods in my department, down from 900 to a dozen annually," said Prof. Torgny Greitz, a hospital neurosurgeon and member of the Caroline Institute. One Institute member explained that, in one instance, the method has been used to prove that alcoholism leads to brain damage.

The cost of the equipment is high — about $1 million. In Sweden there are only about 20 in use, but in the United States there are more than 1,300.

Besides the brain, the CAT scanner can provide strikingly clear pictures of such organs as the pancreas, liver and kidneys, Greitz said. The radiation dosage is no stronger than in normal X-raying.

"There's a good deal of luck involved in winning a Nobel Prize," Cormack said at his home in Winchester, Mass. He said his CAT work was "rather a sidelight" and was conducted alone. "I've always been in my little ivory tower."

The medicine award was the first of the six annual Nobel prizes to be announced. The physics, chemistry and economics prizes will be awarded next week, and the literature and peace prizes in the days or weeks following. President Carter has been nominated for the peace prize. Last year, six of the nine laureates were Americans.

Teaching Awards Nominations Due By October 25

Letters of nomination and supporting materials for the $1,000 Amoco Foundation Distinguished Teaching Awards are due in the office of the Texas Tech University Vice president for Academic Affairs by Oct. 25.

Full-time members of the faculty, including department chairmen, are eligible for the awards. Presentations will be made in the spring.

Full-time faculty members and full-time students may submit nominations. The nominator should include in the letter the extent of personal knowledge of the nominee. Criteria for selection centers on teaching excellence, primarily in undergraduate courses. Such indicators as intellectual impact on students and colleagues, scholarship, concern for individuals, professional recognition for teaching and promotions will be considered in making the awards.

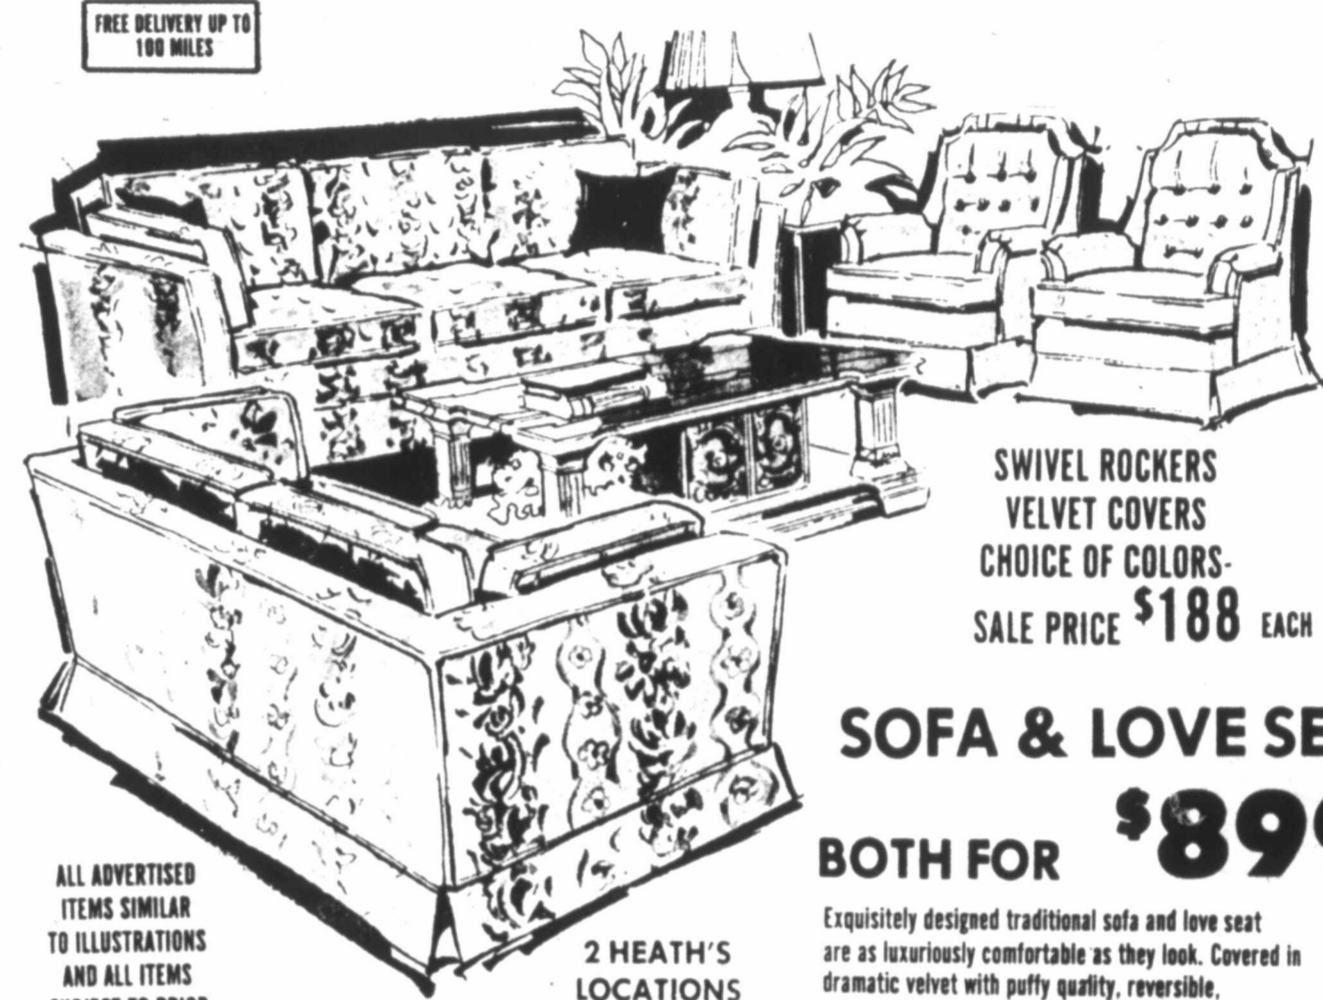

The selection committee will process nominations and make recommendations. Recipients of the award last year were Dr. Valerie M. Chamberlain, department of home economics education; Dr. Jacquelin Collins, department of history; Dr. Darrell L. Vines, department of electrical engineering; and Dr. Margaret E. Wilson, department of health, physical education, and recreation.

Red Raiders Hope To Hog-Tie Arkansas

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Unbeaten, untied and untested, the Arkansas Razorbacks venture forth onto the South Plains of West Texas for their second Southwest Conference contest of the 1979 season — a confrontation this afternoon with the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

Variable winds, clear skies and temperatures in the upper 70s are expected for today's 2 p.m. kickoff. A crowd in the vicinity of 50,000 is expected to watch the matchup between the Hogs and the Red Raiders.

Arkansas enters the game with a perfect 4-0 record and ranked 12th in the nation by the Associated Press. The Razorbacks' victories have come against Colorado State, Oklahoma State, Tulsa and TCU.

"We know this is going to be another tough game, but we had some positive things happen against A&M that hopefully we can carry over now," Tech football boss Rex Dockery said earlier this week. "A lot of people were predicting that Arkansas would be down this season and already they are back in the Top 20 and pointing toward a great season."

The Raiders are coming off their biggest victory of the season, a 21-20 come-from-behind triumph over Texas A&M last Saturday. That win evened Tech's conference mark at 1-1 and pushed the Red Raiders to 2-2-1 on the season.

The Razorbacks scored a 16-13 last-second win over TCU a week ago in Fort Worth to go 1-0 in SWC action. Ish Ordonez booted a 44-yard field goal with seven seconds showing on the clock to provide the Hogs with the margin of victory.

Today's matchup between Tech and Arkansas is pivotal for both squads. The Raiders need a victory to remain in the running for the conference championship. The Hogs want the decision to keep their SWC record unblemished and to find out if that 4-0 record and 12th-place ranking are deserved.

Arkansas and Tech mirror each other in many ways on the field. Both teams run out of the split-back veer offensive formation and both practice the five-man front defense. Both squads have excellent kickers and outstanding players at the skill positions.

"Rex Dockery is a heck of a fine football coach and he has great talent in Ron Reeves and James Hadnot," stated Arkansas head coach Lou Holtz. "I think Tech's offensive line is greatly underrated."

(Tech-Arkansas Lineups,

ed. Hey, they have a great offensive football team."

Sophomore quarterback Reeves and senior fullback Hadnot are the heart and soul of the Red Raider attack.

Reeves had his best game of the season last week against the Aggies. The 6-2, 210-pounder from Monterey was on target with seven of 10 passes for 57 yards and one touchdown, but more importantly rushed for 84 yards on 26 carries.

Many of Reeves' runs kept Tech's two fourth-quarter scoring drives alive and his leadership was essential to the Raiders' offensive success.

Hadnot is currently the second-leading rusher in the conference and 10th-ranked runner in the nation with 125.2 yards per game. The 6-2, 230-pound bruiser is good for 4.9 yards every time he touches the pigskin.

The Tech coaches beefed up the offensive line last week by putting senior Joe Walstad at strong guard and moving sophomore Denny Harris to center. Walstad had started at center in Tech's first four games of the season, but Dockery cited Harris' improvement as the reason for the change.

When the Razorbacks have the football, one of two quarterbacks may be directing the offensive show for Holtz.

Senior Kevin Scanlon is the SWC's leading passer this week with 156.4 points. Scanlon has completed 17 of 25 passes for 287 yards in three games. Scanlon's most impressive figure is only one interception in those three games.

The Razorbacks also have the No. 2 passer in the conference in freshman Tom Jones, brother of Baltimore Colts quarterback Bert Jones.

Jones has connected on 23 of 35 passes for 303 yards and two touchdowns. Like Scanlon, Jones has only been intercepted once this season.

If the Hogs need to run the ball they like to give it to senior fullback Roland Sales, the hero of Arkansas' Orange Bowl victory over Oklahoma two seasons ago. Sales is ranked sixth in the SWC in rusher with a per-game average of 82.2 yards. He has scored three touchdowns this season.

Outside linebackers play an important role in both Tech's and Arkansas' defensive schemes. The Raiders received a tremendous effort from their duo of junior Jeff McKinney and sophomore Lewis Washington last week against A&M. Washington started in place of the injured Roger Jones and played well enough to be named the Avalanche-Journal's Defensive Player of the Week.

The Hogs have two of the finest outside linebackers (or defensive ends) in the conference in seniors Jim Howard and Marty Mitcham.

Kicking is another strong point of both teams.

Ordonez is the third-leading scorer in the SWC with 7.2 points per game, having booted six field goals and 11 extra points.

Senior Bill Adams is Tech's outstanding placekicker. Adams booted three field goals against the Aggies to give him five for the season.

When it comes to punting, Saturday's contest will feature the top two punters in the conference in Arkansas' Steve Cox and Tech's Maury Buford. Cox is averaging 43.3 yards a punt, Buford 42.9 yards.

GET AWAY, FOOL — Estacado tailback Kelvin White pushes away a Lamesa defender during first quarter action Friday night at Lowrey Field. ## Third-Period Explosion Lifts EHS Over Lamesa

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Like a time bomb with a long, damp fuse — the Estacado Matadors are impossible to keep under wraps for any amount of time.

But the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes did their best Friday night at Lowrey Field, holding the Mats to only seven points in the first half. Still, Estacado exploded in the third quarter, scoring three easy touchdowns and putting the game on ice.

That was all EHS needed as the Mats took a 35-0 Homecoming victory to raise their season mark to 4-1. Lamesa, on the other hand, fell to 0-6.

"Lamesa played real good," said Estacado coach Louis Kelley. "Really, they outplayed us in the first half. But the third quarter was the key — our kids did a good job in that third quarter."

Actually, the Mats got some help from the Tors in that pivotal third period. On Lamesa's second play from scrimmage, quarterback Joey Froman made a wild pitch that Cornelius Harris fell on at the 16.

Alvin Davis blasted 16 yards off tackle on the Mats first play and following the Kenneth Cade PAT it was 14-0. The third quarter wasn't even a minute old.

Punting from the eight yard line a few series later, Lamesa turned the ball over to Estacado at the LHS 30. And it didn't take the Mats long to score as Preston Davis carried the ball 30 yards on the first play to make it 21-0 following the PAT.

But wait, there's more to come.

The ensuing kickoff was fumbled by the Tors and George Irvin came up with the loose ball. After moving to the LHS 8, penalties moved the ball back to the 23-yard line where the Mats faced a second and goal. But quarterback Jerry Gray hit wide receiver Warren Lyons inside the 10 and Lyons juked his way into the end zone.

Suddenly a close 7-0 ballgame was 28-0 and the Mats began their Homecoming celebration on the sidelines.

"I would've settled for a 7-0 win," said a happy Kelley. "But a good team will take advantage of turnovers and I think we were able to do that."

Orioles Outlast Bucs 8-4; Take 2-1 Series Lead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Kiko Garcia and Benny Ayala, inserted in a drastic lineup shift, woke up the slumbering Baltimore bats, and the Orioles battered the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-4 Friday in the rain-stalled third game of the 1979 World Series.

The victory gave Baltimore a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series, which continues this afternoon — barely more than 12 hours after the completion of Friday's weather-plagued match. Dennis Martinez of the Orioles will face the Pirates' Jim Bibby beginning at noon.

Garcia ripped four hits and drove in four runs, and Ayala smashed a two-run homer. It shook the American League champion Orioles out of a slump that had resulted in just two runs in 17 Series innings going into Game Three.

"I think this is the best offensive lineup," explained Orioles Manager Earl Weaver, who also inserted second baseman Rich Dauer and outfielder Gary Roenicke in his shaker.

It worked wonders with Ayala's homer and Garcia's bases-loaded triple that brought the Birds charging from behind on this chilly, rainy night.

The game was delayed 1 hour 7 minutes by rain in the third inning.

When it resumed, the Orioles built their second five-run inning of the Series. The Orioles scored five times in the first inning of the opener before their bats took a vacation.

The Pirates nicked Oriole left-hander Scott McGreggor for a 3-0 lead in the first two innings, but Baltimore bounced back in the third.

With one out, Garcia — who had doubled in the first — drew a walk from Pittsburgh starter John Candelaria on a 3-2 pitch. Ayala, who had played in just 42 games all season and had only 22 hits, followed with a home run over the left-center field fence that narrowed Pittsburgh's lead to 3-2.

Ponies Knock Off Pampa 20-0

By ERIC GALE
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
PAMPA — It was method without madness... systematic... thorough, a 20-0 shutout victory by the Coronado High School Mustangs over previously undefeated — on the field — Pampa Friday night.
 "I'm in a real good mood," said Jack Quarles, coach of Coronado, to the surprise of no one. "We open district next week, we needed a win and we got a win against a good football team."
 Pampa, which was held to an embarrassing minus-21 yards rushing in the second half, ended up with minus-3 yards on 31 rushing attempts for the entire game. The Mustang defense allowed no "giveth", lots of "taketh" away.
 "I thought it would be a real, real close game," Quarles said. "I told our kids to play with a lot of intensity if they expected to win. We played with intensity in spots all year. Tonight, we played with it all over the field."

 Pampa responded with a strong defensive effort for the first three quarters and most of the fourth. Coronado quarterback Alan Harp provided a slim 7-0 first-half lead on a 6-yard touchdown run with 10:44 to go in the second period. Ricky Melvin kicked the extra point.
 Pampa contributed to the 35-yard scoring march when halfback Doug Smith fumbled in his own backfield and Harp recovered. The Harvesters were unable to reach Coronado territory throughout the first half.
 "We put a lot of pressure on their passer," Quarles said. "Their quarterback (Greg Quarles) has been real tough on sprintouts. He's killed everybody else Pampa's played against."

 "But this was the best we've played as a team all year, offensively and defensively."
 Throughout most of the second half, the respective defenses were governing bodies. Neither team was able to mount a serious scoring threat — particularly Pampa — until Mustang end Abel Castro took a Harp handoff and raced virtually untouched 46 yards to the end zone with 8:09 left in the game. Melvin added the point after for a 14-0 Coronado lead.
 The Mustang defense then went from difficult to awesome. Four of the next five Pampa running plays resulted in minus-25 yards. A rushing attempt for no gain served as a moral victory for the Harvesters.

Pampa's only semblance of a big play was Quarles' 22-yard pass to tight end Keenan Henderson that moved the ball to the Coronado 25-yard line late in the third quarter. But two consecutive quarterback sacks ended that threat.
 Harp's 1-yard touchdown sneak, with 1:34 remaining, capped the victory.
 "I read to my kids something from the Amarillo paper before the game," Quarles said. "The Harris football poll picked Pampa by 21 points. I told our kids we were better than people think. Then we went out and beat a good football team."
 Coronado, which did not commit a single turnover the entire game, improved its record to 4-2. Pampa is now 4-2. It had not been beaten on the field previously, although it had to forfeit a game to Dumas because of use of an ineligible player.

Monterey Clubs Second NM Foe; Carlsbad Falls In 51-18 Romp

CARLSBAD (Special) — Willie Johnson rushed for 210 yards on 20 carries and scored a pair of touchdowns here Friday night as Monterey rolled to an easy 51-18 win over Carlsbad.
 The win upped Monterey's season mark to 5-1, while the Cavemen fell to 1-5.
 Monterey, which rolled up 454 yards on the ground and 160 through the air, scored the game's first touchdown with 11:10 left in the first period when quarterback Kent Potts hit end Clay Powell with a 78-yard strike. The try for two points failed and the Plainsmen owned an early 6-0 lead.
 Ten minutes later, Johnson copped his first score of the blustery evening on a 72-yard jaunt. This time Potts scored on a two-point conversion run and Monterey owned a 14-0 margin.
 However, on the ensuing kickoff, Kelly Johnson, a 9.4 sprinter in the 100-yard dash, returned the ball 90 yards for Carlsbad's first TD. The score came with 1:36 left in the period. The try for two failed and the quarter ended with MHS on top 14-6.
 Things calmed down a might in the second quarter, but it was only the still before the storm. Potts scored on a 1-yard burst and Darron White added the PAT to give Monterey a 21-6 halftime advantage.
 Carlsbad took the second-half kickoff and march all the way down to the one. But on a fourth-and-goal try at that point, the Monterey defense stiffened, leaving the Cavemen out in the cold.

 With 2:40 left in the period, Johnson tallied his second score on a 50-yard burst. White again added the PAT, upping the Plainsmen's lead to 28-0.
 Monterey got nine more points in the third stanza on a safety and an 11-yard dash by Ricky Pinkerton. White again added the PAT.
 In the fourth period, Carlsbad sandwiched a pair of touchdowns by Mark Galando from 6 yards out and a 90-yard fumble return by Troy Coate in between two Monterey TDs.
 After the Cavemen fumbled away the kickoff following Pinkerton's TD run in the third period, Ron Sims tallied a 6-yard score with 11:43 remaining in the game. And with 15 seconds left, Jeff Lewis scored on a 30-yard jaunt, ending the night-long footrace.
 Sims was the second-leading ballcarrier for MHS with 89 yards on 10 carries. Pinkerton had 72 yards on five tries.

Chaparrals Seek Revenge Against Sul Ross

By DON HENRY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 Although he isn't alone in the group, Lubbock Christian College's Mark Harmon remembers well a trip to Alpine in early September.
 His memory keeps returning to the Sul Ross game. The score — and Harmon can't forget that, either — was 47-0 Sul Ross.
 "We really didn't play well at all," remarked Harmon this week, as he and his Chaparral teammates prepared for a rematch with the Lobos. "So, we all want to play better against them this time."

 "This time" is at 2 p.m. today, when the Chaparrals and Sul Ross meet at Coronado High School stadium.
 That game on Sept. 8 was Sul Ross' first of the year, and since then, it has won only one of four games. The Chaparrals have won but once this year, in six contests.
 But, that Lobo game was LCC's poorest performance of the year: Harmon, LCC coach Jerry Don Sanders and the entire team agree on that.

But, claims Harmon, the team is improving.
 "We can see our improvement every week," says the freshman linebacker from Muleshoe. "Our defense... we held Austin College four downs on the goal (from the 1-yard line). And we held Trinity lots of time (last Saturday in a 35-8 loss).
 "We're getting tougher. We've just kinda been giving up some big plays at the half."
 Trinity scored twice in the final four minutes of the first half last week, and the previous week at Austin College, the Chaparrals gave up a TD pass in the first half's final minute.
 Harmon has maintained a hold on a starting linebacker spot after moving into the lineup two games ago. He was tried at cornerback when he arrived this fall, but he asked to be moved back to linebacker ("There's more action there") and LCC coaches granted his wish.
 Harmon passed up a half-scholarship to Panhandle (Okla.) State to come to LCC, where there are no scholarships for any footballers.
 "It's harder in college, though; the guys are bigger and hit a little harder than in high school," Harmon indicated.
 LCC's defense will be trying to stop the running of another freshman today.
 In the earlier encounter, Willie Rodriguez, a 210-pounder, bruised past the Chaparrals in a first-quarter Sul Ross surge which buried them. Rodriguez did not play past the second period but he's the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association's No. 2 rusher now, having picked up 351 yards in five games, a 3.6-yard-per-carry average.

 Playing beside him in the Lobo backfield will be another freshman, Troy Peoples. It's a young group, overall, as freshman Larry Hill will be at quarterback. Hill was a reserve when the two teams played earlier, but he came in to throw a couple of TD passes and now has hit 52 of 116 aerials for 590 yards. Dear Herbort, the starting quarterback when the fall began, quit the squad after Hill moved into the starting lineup.

Fort Stockton Jumps On Panthers 41-7

FORT STOCKTON (Special) — Fort Stockton's Panthers jumped on the Gadsden, N.M., Panthers here Friday night 41-7 to take a 5-1 mark for the season.
 Quarterback Robbie Robertson's TD runs of 4 and 6 yards put Fort Stockton up early and then halfback Billy Ray Gordon broke loose for a pair, from 8 and 17 yards out, for two more TDs.

 ers Stadium. Doug DeCinces flied out, but Roenicke, another member of Weaver's offensive platoon, singled to left. Singleton tried to score, but outfielder Bill Robinson gunned him down at the plate. The Pirates' lead was safe for the moment.
 By then it was raining too hard to continue, and time was called. The rain lasted 67 minutes, and the delay was devastating for Candelaria, who has been troubled by rib cage and lower back problems all season. He never made it out of the fourth inning.
Floydada Outlasts Wellington 21-12
WELLINGTON (Special) — Mac Collins scored on an 8-yard run late in the fourth quarter to provide Floydada a 21-12 victory over Wellington.
 Collins ended the night with 69 yards on 21 carries. Mike Sell was the whirlwinds' leading rusher with 89 yards on eight carries, including a 71-yard second period touchdown run.
 Floydada rolled up 201 yards total offense to the skyrockets' 198.

Hale Center Nudges Petersburg In Loop Opener

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
HALE CENTER — Hale Center coach Skip Humphreys was as happy as a new father Friday night, and with good reason. His Owls had just bested Petersburg 15-6 in a key District 4-A football game.

"I couldn't be prouder of these kids if I'd sired every one of myself," he said. "Right now, I kinda feel like I did."

While he may have been proud of all 27 of Hale Center's varsity players, the apple of his eye had to be Tony Clark. "Our halfback (Clark) deserves a lot of credit for this win," Humphreys said. "He hasn't carried a lot this year, but he's a great athlete. He really came through tonight."

All Clark did was score all but one of the Owls' points and rush for 129 of their 214 ground yards.

Overshadowed all year by his running mates, Robert Smith and Gordon Compton, Clark seemed determined to show what he could do when given a chance. And he did.

Clark gained 76 yards on Hale Center's first two possessions. His last 14 were good for the Owls' first touchdown, capping a drive that covered 74 yards in only four plays. He also turned in the big play of the drive, using his blockers well once past the line on a whim for a 48-yard gain.

Trailing 7-0 with just over six minutes showing in the first period, Petersburg went to work.

Starting from deep in their own territory, the Buffaloes ground down to the Hale Center 17 before running back Mike Phillips, who had carried seven times for 50 yards in the 16-play drive, was stopped for a yard loss on second down.

On third and 9, quarterback Todd Shurbet found Phillips wide open but the burly 185-pound tailback couldn't hold onto the ball.

On fourth down Petersburg gambled, rolling Shurbet to the wide side of the field looking for an open receiver. Nobody could break the tight Owl defense, though, and he was forced to eat the ball after a gain of only a yard, killing the drive.

After that, both teams struggled from 30 to 30, neither one able to gain an advantage.

Early in the third period Petersburg made it 7-6. Operating from their own 28, the Buffs went to their strength, Phillips.

He carried six of eight plays as Petersburg drove to the 33. But with a third and 3, Phillips was stopped for a loss. Again coach Ronnie Reeger went for a gamble.

This time, after Shurbet rolled away from the Hale Center rush, he found Quentin Berry open on the sidelines, screened away from the defensive back by another receiver. Berry took in the pass, evaded the last tackler and cruised in.

With 7:36 left in the period, the Buffs went for 2. But Phillips was stopped just short of the goal as he charged hard to the outside.

Finally it seemed fate stepped in. Clark turned a big gainer for Hale Center, picking up 32 yards to the Petersburg 17. On first down the Owls fumbled but recovered. On second down they threw incomplete.

On third down they fumbled again, but again recovered. On fourth down big Trinidad Pardo trundled out to attempt a 32-yard field goal.

The officials had detected Hale Center offside, negating the kick and forcing Hale Center to try and convert a fourth-and-10 play. Quarterback Freddy Palacios, frustrated by dropped passes all night, threw the ball in a crowd and, voila, a pass interference call gave the Owls a first down at the Buff 15.

Lorenzo Destroys Bulldogs 48-0

LORENZO (Special) — Pinky Landen rushed for 164 yards and scored two touchdowns to lead his Lorenzo team to a 48-0 whipping of the Spur Bulldogs in a District 4-A battle Friday.

Landen's first touchdown came early in the first quarter when he ran 4 yards for the score, and Arthur Garza kicked the extra point. Only a few minutes later, Landen scored on another 4-yard run, but Garza's kick for the extra point missed.

Lorenzo quarterback Bobby Brown also scored two touchdowns in the first quarter. The first came on a 45-yard touchdown run. Andy Hurst ran for the 2-point conversion. Brown also rushed for another touchdown, and Garza kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, running back George Roberts scored on a 20-yard run and Garza again kicked the extra point to put the Hornets ahead at halftime 35-0.

In the third quarter, Brown scored for Lorenzo again on a 1-yard run. The extra point kick missed.

The final score came when Jose Ybarra ran 15 yards for a touchdown.

Estacado Passing Game Spells Lamesa Doom

 "And we showed some other offensive weapons tonight," added Kelley. "In the past, we've been primarily a tailback oriented offense. But our fullback and wingback ran well and we had a good passing game."

The Mats scored three passes on the arm of QB Jerry Gray. Besides the third quarter TD to Lyons, Gray hit Cade on a 33-yard strike with 1:10 left in the opening half, and then connected on a 27-yard screen pass to Stacy Burrell.

And, according to Kelley, the pass to Cade, was a crucial one.

"We needed to get something on the board," said Kelley. "It was 0-0 at the time and if it would've stayed like that at the half, well, it would have been anybody's game."

First Gray hooked up with wingback Preston Davis for an 11 yard gain and then hit a 33-yard bomb to Cade. The Estacado speedster was well covered by a pair of Lamesa defenders but made a diving, finger-tip catch in the end zone.

On the night, Gray completed five of 13 passes for 95 yards and three touchdowns. Alvin Davis, who re-injured his ankle in the third period, racked up 74 yards rushing on only eight carries to lead both teams in that category.

Kelvin White, making his first start since early in the year, picked up 61 yards on 15 totes for the Mats. Preston Davis also had a big night, gaining 60 yards on nine carries.

"I don't know what the problem was," said Kelley. "We played well in spurts, but, came the standard refrain, 'we just weren't mentally ready.' "Maybe that off week made us a little rusty."

Although Estacado dominated the first half, racking up 10 first downs and 189 yards worth of offense, Lamesa nearly shut out the powerful Mats. Before Cade's scoring reception, Estacado had penetrated no further than the LHS 13-yard line.

Noseguard Brent Jackson blasted White at that point and recovered the ensuing fumble to kill the Estacado drive. Jackson played a big part in the Tom defense all night though He was in on 12 tackles — seven of those unassisted and two for losses.

But the Lamesa offense did not cross midfield until the fourth quarter and made only six first downs in the entire contest. Five of those first, incidentally, came in the final period.

Estacado's last touchdown of the night came on a fourth-and-eight play from the LHS 27 yard line. After a time out, Estacado elected to go with a screen pass. Fullback Burrell caught the ball at the 30 yard line with four blockers in front of him and not a defender within miles and went in for the score.

"You know," said Kelley. "That was the first screen we've thrown all year. And it worked pretty good."

Yeah, Louie, you might say that

Westerners Host Caprock In Homecoming Tilt

Lubbock High will be looking for its second win of the season tonight when it takes on resurging Amarillo Caprock at 7:30 p.m. in Lowrey Field.

The contest will be Lubbock's homecoming affair.

Despite a narrow 10-7 loss to Odessa Ector last week, the Westerners enter the non-conference tilt with a 1-4 won-loss mark. Meanwhile, the Longhorns, which lost their first two games of the season, has since rolled off three consecu-utive victories to stand 3-3 for the year.

"Caprock is really on the rebound," said LHS coach Army Salinas. "It should really be a good game."

The only common opponent for either team is Borger. Caprock scored a 28-6 win over the Bulldogs last week, while the Westerners lost an opening-night affair to BHS 21-7.

Lubbock's only win was a 21-14 victory over Dunbar two weeks ago. Despite the loss to Ector, Salinas did see some bright spots — namely the LHS defensive unit.

"I'm very proud of our defense," said Salinas. "They were able to shut down a very good Ector offense. We made two very good goal line stands that really boosted our confidence a great deal."

The LHS defense, led by back Larry Walker, held the potent Ector offense to 222 yards, almost 100 yards under its season average. Ector runningback

James Ricks, one of the state's top ball-carriers, gained only 61 yards on 15 carries, also well below his season mark.

What Salinas is concerned about is the Lubbock offense, which he called "very inconsistent. We just aren't able to get the key first downs that we need to keep touchdown drives alive."

Twice against Ector, quarterback Gilbert Cuevas was intercepted, thwarting drive attempts. There was one bright spot, though, LHS did not lose a fumble to the alert Ector defense.

"If we can cut out those mistakes," pointed out Salinas, "we'll be a much better football team."

Over the past three weeks, Caprock, expected to challenge Amarillo High and Pampa for the District 3-AAAA title, has scored wins over Borger Leveland and Canyon, all AAA teams.

Tonight's encounter will be the final non-loop affair for both teams. Next week, Lubbock opens District 4-AAAA play against Coronado, while Caprock entertains Pampa in a key league matchup.

Caprock won last year's meeting with Lubbock High 14-3.

On the injury scene for LHS, ace Jesse Martinez was lost for the year with a knee injury and Alan Lynch is listed as doubtful for tonight's contest because of an injury suffered against Ector.

Hereford Holds Off Late Brownfield Rally

HEREFORD (Special) — The Hereford Whitefaces held back the Brownfield Cubs after the Cubs rallied for 20 points in the fourth quarter and edged their visitors 21-20.

The Class AAAA Whitefaces are now 4-2 for the season, while Class AAA-Brownfield is 1-5.

Quarterback Derrick Dirks then threw a 7-yard pass to receiver Keith Adams for a touchdown. The extra point kick by Daniels was good, and Hereford was ahead at halftime 21-0.

After a scoreless third quarter, Brownfield came roaring back in the fourth, scoring three touchdowns. Kelly Reed threw a 15-yard scoring pass to Kevin Billings and then Reed ran 1 yard for another touchdown. The extra point kicks were good after each score, and the Cubs were behind, 21-14 with only three minutes left.

Then Reed threw a 7-yard pass to a receiver for a final touchdown. Behind by only 1 point, the Cubs chose to try for the 2-point conversion, but failed.

After a scoreless first period, the Eagles' Junior Ebargor scored on a 3-yard run and Gene Valentine kicked the extra to give them a 7-0 lead at the half.

The Buffalos got their only touchdown of the game in the third quarter on a 16-yard pass from quarterback Ernest Stricklan to Weldon Nichols. Nichols kicked the extra point.

Stubborn Mules Take 21-15 Decision Over Idalou

By RANDALL PERRY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
IDALOU — A mule is known to be a tough, stubborn animal.
The Idalou Wildcats found the Muleshoe version of the Mules to be just as stubborn as any mule when they dropped a 21-15 decision here Friday night.
And the game was not really that close, although the Wildcats, who suffered their first loss of the year after five victories, gave the Mules a scare late in the game.

Muleshoe outgained Idalou 271-223 and ran 65 plays to Idalou's 45. The Mules moved inside the Idalou 20-yard line four times, only to be turned back.
It could have been a rout.
Muleshoe took a quick 14-0 lead on Idalou. The Mules scored on their first possession after an Idalou fumble at the Wildcat 30. Muleshoe drove for the 6-pointer in six plays, with quarterback Mike Northcutt throwing a 9-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Jesse Siguero on a fourth-and-3 play.

Another Idalou fumble almost got the Wildcats into further trouble when they turned the ball over at their 39.
Muleshoe, running out of the veer, slowly churned their way down to the Idalou 18, where they picked up a first down. On the first down play halfback Felix Norman tried halfback pass, but threw the ball into a crowd, where Idalou's Lupe Vega intercepted at the 5-yard line.
Muleshoe came right back on their next possession to drive 42 yards in eight plays to score their second touchdown with 9:15 left in the second quarter.
The score came on a 20-yard pass from Northcutt to split end Cam Hawkins.

Idalou struck quickly when, on the first play after the kickoff, quarterback Brad DeBusk hurled a 64-yard pass to wingback Gary Smith, who had streaked behind the Muleshoe secondary.
Smith caught the ball on the Muleshoe 30-yard line and had no trouble scoring as the defender covering him had fallen down trying to bat down the aerial.
The undaunted Mules then drove to the Idalou 6-yard line in nine plays. Three plays pushed the ball to the 1. On fourth down, Northcutt pushed into the end zone on a quarterback sneak.
But the TD was nullified by a motion penalty, pushing the Mules back to the five. Idalou held as a fourth-down pass by Northcutt fell incomplete.
Muleshoe pushed its lead to two touchdowns when it drove 79 yards in 15 plays, with Northcutt pushing over left guard from 1 yard out for the touchdown.
The touchdown came on a third-down play, one of four times the Mules converted a third-down play. The score came with 8:35 left in the game.

Idalou came right back to drive 73 yards in nine plays, with the score coming on a 3-yard plunge by fullback Ruben Reyes. The drive was helped along by a personal-foul penalty against the Mules. Big plays in the drive were passes of 16 yards from DeBusk to Reyes and a 27-yard pass to tight end Dennis Green. DeBusk also had a 14-yard keeper. The score came with 6:20 left in the game.
DeBusk passed to Green for the 2-point conversion.
Idalou's hopes for victory were lifted quickly when defensive tackle Brett Baker wrenched the ball from Muleshoe halfback Charles Walker.
With the ball at the Muleshoe 32 and still four minutes left in the game Idalou had plenty of time to win. But a running play lost 2 yards and three passes went awry, as did Idalou's chances for victory.

Muleshoe drove to the Idalou 17 but ran out of downs.
But on the first play of Idalou's possession, Northcutt, doubling as a safety, intercepted a DeBusk pass and carried it to the Idalou 11 before time ran out.
Reyes led Idalou rushers with 36 yards on 12 carries. Tailback Alan Emery had 21 yards on eight carries while DeBusk had 30 yards on eight carries. Green caught two passes for 46 yards.
Northcutt led all rushers with 108 yards on 24 carries while Walker had 66 yards on 19 carries.

The victory hiked Andrews' season record to 6-0, while Kermit fell to 4-2.

Andrews had quarterback Keith Brooks back in action after a two-week layoff due to a leg injury, and the Mustang signal caller responded with a TD run and a scoring pass to notch the win.

The other Permian TD came on a 4-yard run by tailback Kent Sager midway through the second period. Roy Dunn converted all 3 kicks.
Abilene scored its lone TD with only 38 seconds left in the game on a 1-yard run by tailback Leo Parrish.

Sandies Clip Clovis 7-3

CLOVIS, N.M. (Special) — Amarillo High nudged Clovis 7-3 here Friday thanks to some last-minute heroics and a very lucky break.
The Sandies, trailing 3-0 with 2:42 left in the game, were facing a fourth and 2 situation at the Clovis 4 yard line when quarterback Jeff Lamb pitched wildly to tailback Mark Mathiasmeier. The ball sailed back beyond the 10, where Mathiasmeier picked it up and scooped it back to Lamb, who scooted to the 2, picking up the first down by inches. Mathiasmeier scored on the next play and Kyle Eddleman kicked the extra point to ice the thrilling 7-3 win.

Midland Lee Powers Past Bobcats 14-0

SAN ANGELO (Special) — Midland Lee quarterback Gary Butler scored twice on runs of 6 and 3 yards to power the Rebels past the San Angelo Bobcats 14-0 in a District 5-AAAA battle.
The Rebels are now 5-0 for the season and 2-0 in district, and the Bobcats are 1-4 and 0-2.
Butler's first touchdown came in the first period on a 6-yard run and the score stood at 7-0 at the half after Larry Lynn's extra point was good.
Butler's second and final score of the game came on a 3-yard run in the fourth quarter. Lynn's extra point was good and the final score was 14-0 as the Rebel defense limited San Angelo to a total eight first downs while Midland Lee got 14.

Pecos Eagles Blank Tough Tigers 3-0

PECOS (Special) — A Snyder drive late in the game fell short on the Pecos 4-yard line and Larry Mosby kicked a field goal with 4:27 left in the second quarter as the Pecos Eagles slipped by the Snyder Tigers 3-0.
The Eagles are now 6-0 for the season and Snyder is 3-3.

Frenship Bushwacks Cross-County Foe Cooper

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
WOLFFORTH — Tommy Boyd believes the difference between the Cooper Pirates and Frenship Tigers was a "black".

Let Boyd explain: "We just never got that key block we needed at the right time to get our backs in the open. It just never came."
What came about was a 30-0 Frenship win that all but leaves the Pirates out of the District 5-AA race for another year. At 0-2 after two league games, the Bucs can now only hope to play the part of the spoiler from here on out.

Meanwhile, the victory leaves the John Parchman-coached Tigers at 1-1 in loop play and 2-3 on the year.
"I think the difference was the way we were able to wear them down as the game went on," explained Parchman. "I don't know what it was but as the game went on, it seemed like we played a little better. I know we didn't play well in the first half but we came back."

Parchman added, "But you can't take anything away from Cooper. That's one of the best Cooper teams I've ever seen. They played us tough."
Frenship managed to take a 10-0 lead into the halftime, lead thanks to a 20-yard Victor Buggs touchdown run in the first quarter, a Steve Bradford PAT and a 37-yard Bradford field goal late in the second period.

Buggs TD capped a 10-play march that covered 66 yards and used five minutes off the clock. The drive was really nothing fancy, just straight-ahead football, nothing more. The largest gainer was a 15-yard scramble by quarterback Pat Gaston.
For the rest of the half, Frenship seemed to move almost at will against the Cooper defense. But when it came to putting the ball into the end zone, the Tigers just didn't have what it took.

certainly didn't help us any with Kemp out. But they did the best they could. I'm not happy that we lost, but I think we gave it a good shot."

Slaton Demolishes Post 26-0

POST (Special) — Slaton ran its District 5-AA record to 2-0 here Friday night with a 26-0 triumph over Post.
The Tigers wasted little time in getting on the scoreboard as Post fumbled the game's opening kickoff on its own 19 and Slaton recovered.

Eight plays later, Slaton's Lance Bownds dived over from the 2 and Jesse Titus tacked on the PAT.
Slaton got the ball back following a punt and drove 65 yards with Bownds scoring from the 1 on the first play of the second quarter. Titus missed on the PAT.

Slaton came right back and drove 60 yards for its third TD. Manuel Fernandez, who picked up 40 yards in the drive, went for the final 2 yards for the TD. Again the PAT failed and Slaton held a 19-0 halftime lead.
Slaton's final TD came in the fourth quarter as Michael Whaley sprinted 37 yards to paydirt and Fernandez booted the PAT.

Post failed to mount a serious scoring drive as the Antelopes could only get as far as the Slaton 31 during the game.
The third period started about the same way, too — with Frenship driving the ball down the field but not into the end zone. On their first possession, the Tigers owned the ball almost half the stanza but couldn't score. On their second try, though, things changed considerably.

The Tigers took over on their own 38 after a 37-yard punt by Brady Tipson and commensed to drive 62 yards for their second TD. The march appeared about ready to bog down at the CHS 21, but a 20-yard pass from Gaston to end John Skarda moved the ball to the 1. A couple of plays later Gaston snuck into the end zone over left guard, putting Frenship on top 17-0, following Bradford's kick.

Frenship added two more TDs in the fourth period, a 5-yard run by Ken Ataway around left end with 9:17 left in the period and a 1-yard dive over the right side by John Johnson at the 2:00 mark. But by that time, it was elementary.
"I thought in the second half we came on," pointed out Parchman. "We played a lot better football (after the

Lazbuddie Wins District Game

SUDAN (Special) — Lazbuddie quarterback Andy Rogers scored two touchdowns in the second quarter to lead his Longhorns to a 20-6 victory over the Sudan Hornets in an opening District 2-B North encounter.

The Longhorns are 3-2 for the season, while the Hornets are 3-3.
After a scoreless first quarter, the Longhorns came to life in the second with two touchdown rambles by Rogers. Dennis Steinbock kicked the extra point after each score, to put his team ahead 14-0 at halftime.

Neither team scored in the third quarter, and then in the fourth, Lazbuddie scored gain when halfback Russell Windham ran the ball in for a score. The extra point kick missed.

Post failed to mount a serious scoring drive as the Antelopes could only get as far as the Slaton 31 during the game.
The third period started about the same way, too — with Frenship driving the ball down the field but not into the end zone. On their first possession, the Tigers owned the ball almost half the stanza but couldn't score. On their second try, though, things changed considerably.

The Tigers took over on their own 38 after a 37-yard punt by Brady Tipson and commensed to drive 62 yards for their second TD. The march appeared about ready to bog down at the CHS 21, but a 20-yard pass from Gaston to end John Skarda moved the ball to the 1. A couple of plays later Gaston snuck into the end zone over left guard, putting Frenship on top 17-0, following Bradford's kick.

Morton Defeats Wolverines 6-0

MORTON (Special) — The Morton Indians made a first-quarter touchdown stand up for the rest of the game as the Indians took a 6-0 victory over Springlake-Earth here Friday night.
The win raised Morton's season record to 2-2-1, while Springlake fell to 1-3-1.

The lone score of the game came when Morton fullback David Moore took a pitch from Billy Cadenhead and went in from 2 yards out to score. The PAT try failed.

EUNICE, N.M. (Special) — McCamey played ingratious visitor to host Eunice here Friday night as the Badgers from Texas clipped the Cardinals 21-0.
The Badgers, now 4-1-1 for the year, scored first in the first quarter as Dan Ferguson hit paydirt from 2 yards out with 4:54 left in the opening stanza and Raul Arana added the PAT.

But things stiffened a bit from there until the third quarter when the Badgers exploded for two touchdowns.
Frenship added two more TDs in the fourth period, a 5-yard run by Ken Ataway around left end with 9:17 left in the period and a 1-yard dive over the right side by John Johnson at the 2:00 mark. But by that time, it was elementary.

The Brothers Johnson show cranked up in the second period when Jamie, a sophomore, scored three times — once on an 84-yard kickoff return, again on a 46-yard run from scrimmage and again on a 21-yard interception return — to pace the undefeated Elks to a 30-4 halftime lead.

Rams, 'Pokes In Hate Match

By The Associated Press
No matter what the Dallas Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams say, Sunday night's nationally televised encounter is a whole lot more than just another National Football League game between a pair of divisional leaders.

What it is, in fact, is a good ol' case of the hates.
"We don't look at it as revenge," Coach Ray Malavasi of the Rams says. "We look at it as competition. We're very confident."

Perhaps Malavasi is low-keying it because the last time the Cowboys got riled up they murdered the Rams 28-0 in the 1978 National Conference championship game. They're second solid whumping of Los Angeles in a title showdown. In 1975 Dallas rolled over the Rams 37-7.

"We've got the Rams just where we want 'em and that means we're going to keep beating 'em because they are our main competitors in the National Conference," says free safety Cliff Harris of the Cowboys. "I can't think of anybody I'd rather beat. They like to talk a lot. Of course, we have Thomas Henderson to try to match that. But Thomas isn't talking all that much this week. He is just thinking it."

Sunday's afternoon games are Philadelphia at St. Louis, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, San Francisco at the New York Giants, New Orleans at Tampa Bay, Buffalo at Miami, Washington at Cleveland, New England at Chicago, Denver at Kansas City, Seattle at San Diego, Houston at Baltimore, Atlanta at Oakland and Detroit vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee. On Monday night Minnesota visits the New York Jets.

In 1976, the year after the 37-7 embarrassment in Los Angeles, the Rams visited Texas Stadium and defeated the Cowboys 14-12 in an opening-round playoff game — but a week later LA was upset by Minnesota and the Vikings wound up in the Super Bowl. That's a game the Rams, gunning for a seventh straight division title, have never reached.

Roger Staubach, who threw four touchdown passes in that 1975 playoff game and two in last year's, leads NFC passers this year while Pat Haden of the Rams is sixth in the conference. Tony Dorsett, who scored two touchdowns in the Cowboys' 36-20 victory over Minnesota a week ago, is fourth among NFC rushers with 490 yards, 203 more than Cullen Bryant, the Rams' No. 1 ground-gainer.

The Cowboys go into the game with a 5-1 record, the same as surprising Philadelphia, with which they are tied atop the NFC East. The Eagles are led by Wilbert Montgomery's 579 yards, third best in the NFC, and Ron Jaworski, the conference's No. 3 passer.

With the Giants and Colts picking up victories last Sunday, only two teams remain winless, the 49ers and Bengals. San Francisco will be trying to do to the Giants what the Giants did to Tampa Bay — pull off an upset — while Cincinnati will be out to shut down the high-flying Steelers, who burned Cleveland 51-35 a week ago.

President Chides Coverage Of Pope's Visit

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — President Carter on Thursday chided television coverage of Pope John Paul II's visit to the U.S. last week.

Speaking at a convention of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department, Carter said the television commentary after the pope's arrival speech in Boston blemished "a beautiful and significant moment."

He did not identify the network or the station.

"It was a rare moment in our lives, an emotional moment," Carter said. "A moment for history. But immediately, a TV commentator turned to his colleague and said, 'It was a gracious speech, gentlemen, but there was nothing new in it. Did you think so?' And another one said that the pope looked very tired. And the third comment was, 'I don't believe he can speak English well enough to carry on a conversation.'"

Carter continued: "For television viewers, a beautiful and significant moment was kind of glossed over and made trivial."

He added, "But that was transient damage because the character of John Paul II and our nation's hunger to restore the unchanging ethical and spiritual standards that are part of American life has made his visit to United States of America a triumph."

More News In Store For Future

BOSTON (AP) — Television viewers can expect more news, information and live programs during the next few years, the presidents of the four major networks said Thursday. "Creativity has changed the medium, and news will continue to grow," CBS television president James Rosenfield said at an industry luncheon.

"There will be new kinds of news programming," Rosenfield said. "We will bring live news and sports into prime time."

He was joined by his colleagues from NBC, ABC and the Public Broadcasting System for a news conference and panel discussion with members of the New England Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences (NATAS).

"A bridge is being built between broadcasters and educators," said ABC's James Duffy, "to make TV an active force in education..."

Duffy also said television has "a new awareness" and is dealing with subjects of "social significance."

Robert Mulholland of NBC said networks would like to expand their evening newscasts to an hour, but local affiliates object.
