

Cuban Army Calls Up Reservists

Carter Lashes Cuban Military 'Interference'

CHICAGO (AP) — President Carter, ending a two-day trip to the Midwest, condemned Cuban military activities Tuesday and expressed delight over Mayor Jane Byrne's near-endorsement of his re-election.

Carter came to Chicago on uncertain political ground with the city's Democratic leaders, but he returned to Washington with a surprisingly strong statement of support from Mrs. Byrne.

Although he did not get a firm endorsement for his expected bid for another term, Carter did get Mrs. Byrne's assertion that if the decision were to be made now, she would vote for him.

And the Chicago mayor made a pointed reference to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who is considering a challenge to Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination, issuing a warning "to those who would divide the Democratic Party."

Before departing for Washington, the president held a "town meeting" with residents of suburban Dolton, Ill. He assured the audience gathered in a high school gymnasium that inflation would ease by the end of the year.

And he criticized Cuba as "the most highly militarized country on earth per capita." The Cubans, he said, are "constantly interfering" with the affairs of other countries.

Carter said the Cubans have more than 45,000 troops in countries where "they have absolutely no business."

The United States will not move to establish normal diplomatic relations with the island nation until Cuba ends its involvement in the affairs of other countries and until the regime of President Fidel Castro releases "hundreds and hundreds, even thousands," of political prisoners.

Carter expressed delight at the level of support he received from Mrs. Byrne and the city's powerful Democratic apparatus, calling the mayor's remarks "perfect." He added: "I really did appreciate it."

U.S. Base Exercise Due Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cuban army has called up about 3,000 reservists in the province around the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo where some 2,000 U.S. Marines will land this morning in a show of U.S. strength.

Administration sources who disclosed the Cuban buildup said they viewed the reserve callup, a small increase in Cuban tank and anti-aircraft deployments in the area and other actions as "normal precautions."

The U.S. Marine landing from helicopters and amphibious vehicles inside the big U.S. naval base in eastern Cuba is an effort by the Carter administration to dramatize its ability to reinforce vital American positions in the Caribbean.

Tank Shift Reported

There was no indication in the reports that the Cubans were moving any troops close to the 45-square-mile base, although about a half dozen tanks and an equal number of anti-aircraft guns were said to have been shifted to the vicinity of Guantanamo Bay.

Administration sources said the Russians and Cubans have increased their surveillance of Guantanamo from air and sea.

A Soviet hydrographic research ship, which U.S. intelligence officials say is a cover for surveillance activities, was reported off Guantanamo.

An intelligence-gathering Russian trawler was said to be at the naval base of Cienfuegos several hundred miles away, but U.S. officials said they would not be surprised if it moved into position to monitor the U.S. Marine and naval exercises at Guantanamo.

Cuban Flights Increase

Meanwhile, sources said there has been an increase in the tempo of aerial reconnaissance flights by Cuban aircraft, including two MiG-21 jet fighters. No Cuban planes have flown over the base but have apparently observed it from 20 or 30 miles away.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown and other senior administration officials have been focusing attention on the Marine reinforcement exercise since Oct. 1, when President Carter announced measures responding to the presence of a Soviet brigade in Cuba about 500 miles west of Guantanamo.

The Pentagon flew more than 80 reporters and photographers to witness the early-morning landing at the fleet training base, which normally is out of reach of reporters.

However, Marine and Navy officers stress the landing is routine in a military sense, although the biggest at the isolated Guantanamo base in about four years.

"This exercise is to provide training to Navy and Marine Corps personnel in landing to reinforce U.S. forces at Guantanamo Bay," said Capt. Robert Bowen, a Pentagon spokesman. "It is not a class."

Administrators Want Two Schools Omitted From Landmark List

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

A RECOMMENDATION against designating two schools as historic landmarks within the new Overton South Design-Historic District will be considered this morning by the Lubbock school board.

School district administrators are recommending that Lubbock High School and Thompson Junior High School be commemorated with a simple historic marker rather than be included in the district and designated as historic landmarks.

The school buildings are among 10 structures approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission in September as historic landmarks within the Design-Historic District.

Administrators oppose classifying the schools as historic landmarks because according to standards approved for the district, any new construction or remodeling of existing structures would have to be compatible with one of nine architectural styles featured in Overton South.

Superintendent Ed Irons said the school district would be "frozen in" by the restrictive standards should the district ever want to demolish or sell any part of the two schools.

Irons said that if the school district wished to build another structure to add on to Thompson Junior High, for instance, "We wouldn't want to build it in the 1920s vintage" prevalent in the Overton South area.

Site Problems Foreseen

He added that future sales of the two buildings could be a problem if the buyer was required to conform to Design-Historic District standards.

Beverly Stribling, chairman of the Urban Design Commission, explained that the regulations for structures designated as historic landmarks within the district are slightly different from the regulations that apply to other structures.

If the structure is within a Design-Historic District, but is not declared a landmark, the structure can be torn down, she said. However, the building that is replaced in that designated spot must meet the criteria set out for the district.

Public Hearing Provided

A landmark cannot be torn down without a public hearing and the approval of the Urban Design Commission, she explained.

Thus, said Mrs. Stribling, if the school district sold one of the two buildings in the historic district to a buyer who wanted to convert it to a restaurant, for example, that buyer would not be prohibited from remodeling, adding on or from going through any other zoning process any other property would go through. "But the building could not be torn down, and any materials used for additions or renovations would have to be compatible with the materials used in the original structure."

However, City Planning Director Jim Bertram said the city and the school district "are on equal footing," and he questioned whether the city would have the authority to enforce the regulations of the historic district as far as the schools are concerned.

Mrs. Stribling said the Urban Design Commission does have provisions for a simple historic marker that carries no restrictions or requirements with it. Several months ago, she said, the commission approved a plan that would provide for three types of markers — one for a landmark, one for a landmark district and one to commemorate an area "that did not make it through the designation process."

The school board will meet at 7:15 a.m. Thursday in the Administration Building, 1628 19th St.

Programs For Chicago

Mrs. Byrne did not come away empty-handed, either. Carter used the opportunity to announce several programs beneficial to Chicago and to Mrs. Byrne's administration. For instance, he announced that the Air Force would vacate a facility at O'Hare Airport so an international terminal can be built there. Mrs. Byrne had been working to take over the defense facility there for some time.

In addition, Carter announced plans for federal funding of more than 1,300 city government jobs.

Asked if he had expected a formal endorsement, Carter replied: "I think that was enough." Mrs. Byrne interrupted to say that she had gone as far as she could without incurring the anger of the chairman of the Cook County Democratic Party.

Surprises Carter Aides

Mrs. Byrne, a longtime friend of the Kennedy family, surprised even White House aides on Monday night when she issued a thinly veiled warning to the Massachusetts senator that a fight over the Democratic presidential nomination was ill-advised.

At a $100-a-plate fund-raiser in her behalf, with the president at her side, Mrs. Byrne said:

"I cannot pass up the opportunity to admonish those who would divide the Democratic Party in the national elections that they may reap the wild political wind."

"I do not think we can afford a national intraparty bloodbath at this crucial time. The times call for unity and discipline. It will be at our peril to flout the national political tradition that an incumbent deserves a second term upon reasonable performance and dedication to the national welfare."

She said the authority to endorse a candidate rested with the county Democratic organization, but that if the choice had to be made now, "I would vote in our party caucus without hesitancy to renominate our present leader for another four years."

Her remarks came just hours after the Massachusetts senator had sent Mrs. Byrne a telegram asking her to remember, despite Carter's visit that "I have known you and loved you and Chicago longer."

Carter, in his speech to the estimated 12,000 persons at the fund-raiser, said he was ready, even eager, for a tough political fight. He said that "whatever the future may hold," he would confront

Quake Cracks Canal In California Area

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — Officials Tuesday said California's worst earthquake in eight years left cracks and separations in the major canal bringing water to this and border region, leaving some cities in the area with only a two-day water supply.

City and county officials differed on the effect of the canal damage. A county supervisor said water flow was "down to a trickle."

But Lonnie McGlocklin, assistant to the general manager of the Imperial Valley Water District, said El Centro had a two-day water supply in storage ponds, adding that by Thursday, "we will be moving towards normal flow."

City and council officials met in the garage of the Imperial County fire station beneath neon lights left askew by the earthquake. The meeting was jarred by one of the hundreds of aftershocks from Monday afternoon's quake, which measured 6.5 on the Richter scale.

At least 91 persons received injuries in the quake, almost all of them minor. Damage in the area was put at "$10 million to $12 million but that's a very preliminary figure," said Imperial county Fire Chief Rudy Medina.

Initial reports from the Mexican Red Cross said that one Mexicali, Mexico, resident died in the quake. But that report was later denied by police officials in that city, who said the report was erroneous.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. cut short an East Coast political visit and returned to Los Angeles, touring the Imperial Valley later in the day. Local authorities have already declared a state of emergency.

The quake along the Imperial Fault, 150 miles southeast of Los Angeles, shifted some home foundations by a foot in El Centro and moved a road six inches.

Officials lowered the water level in the All-American Canal after the tremor caved in the earthen walls that bound both sides of the conduit, running 80 miles from Yuma, Ariz. to the Mexican border. The banks on the south side were damaged for about 500 yards, where the Imperial Fault intersects the canal, and some water seeped into the desert.

The north bank, bordering newly-planted crops, collapsed for about 200 yards but no water escaped to flood the fields.

Immediately after the quake hit, irrigation officials cut the flow of water from the Colorado River by about 85 percent to allow bulldozers and cranes to rebuild the banks. Drag lines were also used to remove the silt that had fallen into the canal from the embankments.

The canal is the chief aqueduct in a network of canals that has made this once-arid desert region bloom with irrigated fields, yielding one of the nation's richest arrays of crops.

"The All-American Canal is our life-line."

Paducah School Bonds Okayed

A-J Correspondent

PADUCAH — Cottle County residents Tuesday overwhelmingly approved a $1.9 million bond for an extensive renovation and building program in the Paducah Independent School District.

In what was described as a "very heavy" voter turnout, county residents okayed the issue by a 6 to 1 margin with 607 voting for it and 115 voting against it.

Proposed plans call for Goodwin School to be remodeled and converted into an elementary school and for the construction of a new high school building, new physical education facility and a new field house at the football stadium.

The school board will meet at 7:15 a.m. Thursday in the Administration Building, 1628 19th St.

Housing, Zoning Projects Top CD Funding Requests

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY and RAYNIE HARDESTY
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

HOUSING improvements were named as top priority for federal Community Development funds by a group of East Lubbock residents Tuesday night, while across town, a gathering of west Lubbockites said their share of $3.3 million in federal CD funds should be spent on zoning and housing code enforcement.

The west Lubbock group also honored nine police officers for their swift arrest of a suspect in the August slaying of Texas Tech graduate student Claude Bridges, a resident of the neighborhood.

The two gatherings were part of a series of public meetings to solicit input on proposed CD projects in low to moderate income areas.

The nearly 30 residents gathered at Posey Elementary school named housing rehabilitation as their area's most pressing need for the federal funds.

The group also requested that current CD-funded rehabilitation projects in the East Lubbock neighborhood be expanded to include property lying between 19th and 18th Streets and Quirt Avenue and Guava Street.

The city tentatively has allocated $200,000 for neighborhood rehabilitation in the Posey Elementary area. An equal sum also has been set aside for rehabilitation in the Elliston neighborhood, just north of Posey.

Several residents complained that many areas in the neighborhood "are a mess and need to be cleaned up."

Issac Jimenez said the area between David Street, Main Street, Fig Avenue and the Idalou Road particularly are unsightly.

An area surrounding the 19th Street and Vanda Avenue intersection also was termed "a mess," by Vicente Arridondo, who added that road conditions sometimes are bad enough that "the mailman can't even get to the mailbox."

But while some residents stressed that clean-up operations were a strong need for the Posey neighborhood, others asked whether CD funding should be used for such maintenance uses "when it is needed so badly for other things."

Residents also named a weatherization program to insulate homes of the

Museum Group Presents Awards

THREE individuals and two organizations received Action Awards Tuesday at the 50th anniversary celebration of the West Texas Museum Association in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Past presidents and charter members of the association also were honored at the annual meeting at which new officers and directors were named. About 300 attended.

Action Awards are made for contributions enhancing the South Plains cultural environment. This year's honors went to the late Roy and Lela Furr, James Spears, the Lubbock Symphony and the Lubbock City Parks and Recreation department.

Youth Found Guilty In Pegues Slaying

Ruben Ramos was convicted of murder Tuesday in the April 14 shooting death of 23-year-old Curtis Pegues at an Idalou Highway pool hall.

Although Ramos, 17, took the stand Tuesday and told the 137th District Court jury that his older brother killed Pegues, the panel deliberated just two hours before returning with the guilty verdict.

The defendant testified that he had talked with Pegues earlier inside Chocolate City pool hall, 308 Idalou Highway, but only to ask if he could join in a pool game. Ramos said that he then went outside to go to the bathroom because the club's bathroom was occupied and that when he started back inside he saw his older brother, Joe, arrive with another man and also go into the club.

Ramos said his brother, who also has been charged with murder in connection with the incident, fired two shots at Pegues. Ramos said he was wounded in the elbow during the melee and ran from the building beside Pegues and then to his sister's house. The defendant denied the testimony of two prosecution witnesses who said they saw the younger Ramos pump two bullets into Pegues's back as he lay motionless in the club's parking lot.

Authorities have been unable to locate 20-year-old Joe Ramos since the shooting.

Criminal District Attorney John Montford, who led the prosecution against Ramos, called Pegues' death "a calculated assassination," pointing out testimony that when the defendant first spoke to Pegues he told Pegues, "You be here when I get back."

Montford also told the panel the defendant could have gone outside following the conversation with Pegues to call in his older brother, and emphasized "the overwhelming evidence" that Pegues was unarmed when he was shot five times.

Rick Howell, who assisted in the prosecution, also slammed Ramos's testimony of coincidentally running into his brother just before the shooting as unlikely.

Defense counsel Chuck Lanehart, however, argued that evidence in the trial indicated that the defendant did not instigate the shooting, but that his brother did.

"The evidence shows it was a bloody murder, a terrible killing and the inescapable conclusion is that Joe Ramos is guilty of that murder," Lanehart told the 10-woman, two-man panel.

In testimony Tuesday morning, a friend of Pegues said the Ramos brothers entered the club together, but that it was Joe who fired the first shot at Pegues.

Kenneth Williams, who was playing pool with Pegues the night he was killed, was the last prosecution witness called to the stand.

Williams said Ruben entered the club first, told Pegues to "be here when I come back," and returned a few moments later with his older brother. Williams added that when Pegues lifted his hands and asked the Ramos brothers what he had done, Joe shot him.

Pegues ran out the front door followed by Ruben, Williams said, while Joe exited through a side door.

Lower Temperatures, Rain Forecast For South Plains

After sweating through a record-breaking hot day Tuesday, residents of the South Plains will enjoy temperatures held to the lower 70s today.

Area residents also can expect a 20 percent chance of rain tonight and Thursday, as the result of a cold front that pushed across the Panhandle late Tuesday.

The low tonight should be in the upper 40s with northerly winds gusting to 20 mph this afternoon.

Tuesday's high in Lubbock reached 92, breaking the previous record of 90 degrees set in 1965. It also tied the record for the highest temperature this late in the season.

The extended forecast calls for a chance of rain on Friday, with partly cloudy skies through Sunday. Temperatures should creep back into the 80s later in the week.

The cold front should become stationary over northern Texas with showers and thundershowers along the front and across much of Arkansas and northern Louisiana.

Co-Workers Testify In Manslaughter Trial

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Two men who had been drinking the evening of May 31 with Marcelo Palomo Jr. told a 23rd District Court jury Tuesday afternoon that Palomo had only three beers while with them and did not appear drunk when they parted.

John Fuentes and Tereso Guzman, who work with Palomo at Consolidated Pipe and Tube Company, opened the defense's case Tuesday afternoon in Palomo's involuntary manslaughter trial. He is accused of operating his car while intoxicated May 31 and striking and killing two Lubbock boys as they rode a bicycle in the 1400-block of Parkway Drive.

Killed in the accident were Kenny Ray McDowell, 10, and 9-year-old Greg Wilson. Palomo is standing trial this week on the involuntary manslaughter charge filed in connection with the Wilson youth's death.

Fuentes and Guzman told the panel they and Palomo, of 229 Beech St., went to the Peppermint Lounge near University Avenue and Clovis Road about 5 p.m. May 31 and Palomo had only three beers before they left about 7:15 p.m.

The accident in which the youngsters were killed happened about 8 p.m., and lead prosecutor Danny Hurley questioned both men about the time lapse from when they said they left the club and the time it takes a normally functioning person to drive to Parkway Drive.

Defense counsel Pat Simek also Tuesday called Henry Jackson, a former Texas Tech University police officer, to the stand. Jackson was the first person to arrive on the scene of the wreck and said Palomo did not appear drunk.

Before resting their case Tuesday, Hurley and co-prosecutor Everett Seymour also called the police officer who investigated the collision and the sergeant who administered the breathalyzer to Palomo.

Sgt. James Fielding explained to the panel the workings of the machine and said Palomo registered a .11 reading when the test was taken about 1 1/2 hours after the collision. A reading of .10 is the legal presumption of intoxication.

On cross-examination, however, Fielding said when the test was administered, the gauge registered .01, but such a reading is within acceptable limits before giving the breathalyzer test.

Patrolman Glen Edwards said Palomo appeared drunk at the scene of the wreck and agreed to take the breathalyzer test, even after he was informed the youths had died and he might be charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Craig Tannahill, Department of Public Safety technical supervisor for breathalyzer operations, also testified Tuesday as to the machinery's operation. Tannahill added that he has been involved in tests during the last 10 years, involving 300 persons, and he indicated that most persons are intoxicated when breathalyzer blood-alcohol readings show a .06 level.

Scottish Rite Members Honored

WASHINGTON (Special) — Nineteen members of the Lubbock Scottish Rite Bodies, including eight from Lubbock, were honored by the Supreme Council, 33rd-degree, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry at the conclusion of a two-day meeting here.

Elected 33rd-degree Inspector General Honorary members were Ralph S. Krebs of Lubbock, William H. Fairley of Amarillo, William L. Holt of Petersburg and George C. Price of Levelland.

Selected for the Investiture of the Knight Commander of the Court of Honor were: Claude C. Freeman, Robert A. Nash, Raymond H. Pickering, Howard R. Stewart, Jack F. Strong, Alton R. Griffin and Robert M. Wiser, all of Lubbock; Vernon I. Bartlett of Abertamy; George M. Baxter of Borger; Marshall K. Berry of Vernon; Cecil A. Bickley of Denver City; Angus M. Crowder of Abilene; Kennard F. Hays of Crane; Virgil E. Patton of Wichita Falls and Jerry G. Kysar of Amarillo.

A. M. Muldrow, chairman of the Inspector General's advisory conference, and J.M. Willson Jr., grand junior warden of the Grand Lodge of Texas, attended the national meeting.

The next meeting will be held in 1981.

State Senator To Speak At University

State Sen. E.L. Short of the 28th District of Texas will speak at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the Senate Room of the University Center at Texas Tech on education-related issues before the Texas Legislature.

Sponsored by the college of education, his presentation will include a brief talk followed by a question-and-answer period.

"We think it is important in our college for students to know what our representatives in Austin do with regards to education," said Dr. Panze Butler Kimmel, professor of education.

"We want our students to be responsible citizens, to be informed in legislative matters, so they can vote effectively."

In recent years there has been an exodus of teachers from the profession because of low salaries, the Texas Tech professor said. This has resulted in a turn-around from the previous surplus of teachers to a shortage.

"Sen. Short is definitely a friend of education in Texas, not only of Tech but also of public schools around the state," Dr. Kimmel said.

Short's speech is open to the public as well as to Texas Tech students and faculty.

AN EDITORIAL:

Lesson In A New Oil Gouge

IF ANYONE needs two "for instances" where U.S. foreign policy, including the administration's widely-heralded human rights stance has backfired, we now have them.

It will be recalled that last year about this time, the U.S. State Department was doing more to help put the skids under the Shah of Iran than to help him stay in power.

It also will be recalled that President Carter in his journey to Africa soft-pedaled criticism of Russian-Cuban military adventures in Africa for fear of making black-led Nigeria mad.

WELL, EVERYONE knows what happened in Iran.

After the "religious" fanatic Ayatollah Khomeini came to power, Iran's oil production dropped to near zero and when it was restored, to about half normal, it was at a new and higher price.

The Iranian debacle set off the last round of OPEC price boosts and brought on the current inflationary crunch, along with a few other reasons, for the West.

In the process, the U.S. Embassy was the target of violence, U.S. citizens were harassed and newsmen were banned from the new Islamic republic.

NOW, THE OTHER shoe is being dropped.

Iran along with Libya, America's second largest crude oil supplier at 800,000 barrels a day, have announced new price boosts.

In so doing, the two nations are breaking

AN EDITORIAL:

Another Leak In Military Dam

THE CHAIRMAN of the American Conservative Union said Tuesday he is "somewhat astounded" by President Carter's claim that, as we deal with the Soviet brigade in Cuba, we are the strongest that we have ever been militarily.

U.S. Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., described Mr. Carter's handling of the current crisis as "a pitiful response by a weak President to a major international problem."

For the first time in our history, Rep. Bauman pointed out in his weekly ACU column, Conservative Outlook, the Soviets have introduced combat-ready troops into our hemisphere. "Yet," he said, "despite this fact, our President has backed down from the Communists."

RATHER THAN being the "firm, decisive" approach to the Soviet challenge that Carter promised, Rep. Bauman said the President delivered little more than stopgap, face-saving measures.

He characterized increased surveillance, more economic aid to Central America and expanded military exercises in the region as cosmetic changes—rather, he said, "like plugging another hole in the leaky dam of the OPEC ceiling agreed upon earlier in the year.

And if current reports are correct, other OPEC nations, primarily Algeria and Nigeria, will soon join the new "gouge Uncle Sam" syndrome.

IN NIGERIA's case, it should be remembered that one of the big arguments made for Mr. Carter's "being nice" to the African nation was to not rock the oil derrick, as it were.

So, what happens. Nigeria not only cuts back on production, but appropriates all British oil holdings because the latter is doing business with South Africa, and now apparently will join the latest price rise.

THERE IS AN object lesson here for those who want to write it down, particularly those in the White House.

And it doesn't just apply to the OPEC nations. It also applies to our dealings with practically all nations of the world, and Russia in particular.

It is far past time that we quit giving away our bargaining power, our military advantage in Europe and elsewhere—if by some chance we still have it—and quit kowtowing to black, purple or Islamic rulers because of their race, color or religious preference.

If it isn't in the best interests of the majority of Americans, then it isn't worth considering. That's a rule of thumb anyone can understand.

U.S. strategic and military power.

By Rep. Bauman's reckoning, the President in the past two years alone has

- * Cancelled the B-1 bomber.
- * Waffled back and forth on the neutron bomb.
- * Fought against the nuclear carrier (later recanting); and
- * Repeatedly has said he would not allow an increase in real defense spending.

"THE PRESIDENT has told us to take heart at the vague Soviet assurance that, if nothing else, they will not continue to build up their combat force in Cuba," Rep. Bauman writes adding:

"These assurances come from a government that has used lies, cheating, force and violence as its traditional weapons in conducting foreign policy."

The Maryland Republican said the President should have insisted on a definite Soviet military withdrawal from America's backyard as Kennedy did in 1962.

It is a sad commentary on our nation that we have a President who believes that weakness is strength, and that surrender is victory, just because he happens to say so.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Salamander Ramp Part Of Price Of New Home

WASHINGTON—Why are housing prices in certain sectors of the country soaring wildly beyond the reach of the average citizen?

Part of the answer is provided by Prof. Bernard J. Frieden, of the Joint Center for Urban Studies at Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in a recent study of housing problems.

Frieden's chosen field of investigation is Northern California, especially the San Francisco Bay area.

Ecological, no-growth and protectionist attitudes in this region are more advanced than in other parts of the country, but, the author shows, the same trends are manifesting themselves on a national basis.

AS THEY spread to other parts of the nation, the likely result will be to extend the housing problems of the Bay Area to other regions of the United States.

What has grown up in Northern California, Frieden tells us, is an amalgam of high-flown rhetoric from ideological crusaders and down-home self-interest from suburbanites who have privileged housing locations and want to shield them from outsiders.

The common feature of the two elements is that both are generally affluent and have the leisure, know-how and motivation to use the trendy "ecological" arguments to bring new housing to a screeching halt.

Frieden describes the almost unbelievable complex of blocking mechanisms available to those who want to stop a housing development in Northern California.

WAVE of review boards, environmental regulations, planning groups, coastal commissions, state and county officials, any one of whom can be convinced by no-growth elements to halt some pending new construction.

Thanks to all this ecological bureaucracy, considerable chunks of California real estate have been closed off to development entirely, while other chunks can be developed only with onerous and sometimes ridiculous restrictions (down to, and including, ramps for salamanders to walk on), endless litigation, and enormous transaction costs.

The consistent effect, as Frieden sees it, is to sacrifice new, reasonably priced housing to the imperatives of "open space," preserving the ecosystem, and protecting vistas enjoyed by those already ensconced in the desired locations.

IN THE DECISION-making process that produces these results, says Frieden, almost every conceivable interest group is represented—except the prospective homebuyer.

The author estimates that, in the four cases he examines, a total of 22,000 units of housing were blocked from construction—about half a year's normal volume of homebuilding in the Bay Area.

Moreover, the houses finally approved for construction were typically of the more expensive variety—low-density lots and high-cost structures. Against that backdrop, it is also unsurprising that housing prices in the Bay Area have increased more rapidly than those in any other part of the country.

BETWEEN 1970 AND 1977, the average sale price for new homes in the area almost doubled—from $39,600 to $75,400, while San Francisco moved up from the sixth most expensive housing market to the most expensive. New and used housing costs in the area are about one-and-one-half times the national average.

There are other, national, factors fueling housing prices, of course—chronic inflation, rising construction costs, expensive mortgage money, etc.

But in Northern California and some other places, these factors are intensified by consistent resort to the blocking mechanisms described by Frieden. More ramps for salamanders, quite clearly, translate into fewer houses for people.

Frieden's study recounting all this is called "The Environmental Protection Hustle." On the evidence he supplies, it would seem to be an accurate title.

Connally Wows 'em

NASHUA, N.H.—Lacking organization and time, John B. Connally's hope to reduce front-running Ronald Reagan's huge lead in the New Hampshire Republican presidential primary is found in the reaction by one well-known Republican activist to Connally's appearance here in late September after a summer-long absence from the state.

The activist is a longtime stalwart in former Gov. Hugh Gregg's personal organization, which backs George Bush for President. She showed up to hear Connally at the Nashua Country Club, curious and skeptical.

"That big Texan style doesn't go over here," she told us before the speech. "We certainly don't like Nellie (Mrs. Connally) with that 'you-all' business." She branded Connally a sure loser, just like her man Bush, against Reagan.

An hour later, she was a different person. "In all my years in New Hampshire politics," she

ANDREW TULLY:

Browsing In Wilde

WASHINGTON—I was using every trick known to put off writing a column and foolishly let my mind wander. Before you could say Teddy Kennedy, I was pondering America's youth cult and hurried to Bartlett's Quotations for comfort.

As usual, that wonderful book came through. There, beside the subject like a Colossus, was Oscar Wilde saying the last word: "The youth of America is their oldest tradition. It has been going on now for 300 years."

That was that. The country is not yet old enough to take youth in stride. But reading one word of Wilde's is like sniffing cocaine. You just for more. And there is always a lot more of this tragic poet and playwright, a man with the talent to speak briefly on everything under the sun.

TODAY'S CRITICS privately must admit their shortcomings when they read Wilde's reply to an attack on him by James McNeil Whistler: "As for borrowing Mr. Whistler's ideas about art, the only thoroughly original idea I have ever heard him express have had reference to his own superiority as a painter over painters greater than himself."

Are wars inevitable? Wilde had a solution: "As long as war is regarded as wicked, it will always have its fascination. When it is looked upon as vulgar, it will cease to be popular."

Few public figures and social climbers would admit, as Wilde did, that "There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about."

ALL OF them, however, would endorse Wilde's counsel: "A man cannot be too careful in the choice of his enemies."

You may believe it, but Wilde said it first: "There is no sin except stupidity." And: "The only difference between a caprice and a lifelong passion is that the caprice lasts a little longer."

And: "He knew the precise psychological moment when to say nothing." And: "I can resist everything but temptation."

Back to children, and adult heads must nod understandably when they read Wilde's comment: "Children begin by loving their parents; as they grow older they judge them; sometimes they forgive them." Then one can go on to: "Conscience makes egotists of us all."

"WHAT IS a cynic?" Wilde asked. And replied: "A man who knows the price of everything, and the value of nothing." Admit with me, gentle reader, that Wilde was right when he wrote that line for one of his plays: "Experience is the name everyone gives to their mistakes."

A wistful Wilde could speak words of warning: "Yet each man kills the thing he loves... The coward does it with a kiss, the brave man with a sword." He spoke of the coldness of the do-gooder: "Charity creates a multitude of sins."

But my favorite is Oscar Wilde, man of compassion: "Tread lightly, she is near/ Under the snow. Speak gently, she can hear/ The daisies grow." Now, sadly, back to business.

"I have never seen an audience so captivated." She also modified her forecast about Connally's chances: "Maybe he can do it."

Connally's trip showed that his flamboyant campaign style travels much better than expected in staid upper New England. His revised basic campaign speech, stressing Horatio Alger roots and attacking "a policy of appeasement" internationally, stirred Republican audiences here as more familiar visiting candidates have not.

Connally must rely on captivation. His national campaign managers have made a conscious decision to forego the two traditional prerequisites for this first-in-the-nation primary, early organizing and blanket campaigning.

ORGANIZATIONALLY, CONNALLY lags well behind Reagan, Bush and even Sen. Howard Baker here. Neither of his two best-known supporters (both Reaganites in 1976), ex-House Speaker Marshall Cobleigh and Ace Parker, has been given a major role.

Connally staffer Skip Andrews, unrecognized by New Hampshire politicians as he accompanied his candidate, runs the campaign while based in Washington. Connally's backers here shrug, saying this is not the way to do it.

When Connally arrived in New Hampshire for the first time since spring, he was braced with pleas from supporters to spend half the time here from now to the Feb. 26 primary. No way, said Connally. The underlying reason: Connally is concentrating on the early Southern primaries.

All this reflects private statements by Eddie Mahe, Connally's feisty national campaign manager, that he would not be much of an organizer if unable to organize New Hampshire's two congressional districts in no time.

BUT MORE than Mahe's organizational skill, Connally must rely on his own platform prowess to prevent a disastrous third or fourth place New Hampshire finish far behind Reagan.

In his New Hampshire campaigning, Connally dropped his old crowd-stirrer, a demagogic attack on Japanese exports. But he has new guaranteed-applause lines on nuclear power.

"I've heard that nuclear power is one of the most unpopular subjects to bring up in New Hampshire," Connally told the Manchester Exchange Club. "Everybody says to me, be careful what you're going to say. I say, I'm going to be very careful. I'm going to say, I'm for it."

That got applause, but this line generated roars of approval everywhere: "We're going to have to purge from our minds this insidious fear of nuclear power and stop taking scientific advice from Jane Fonda and Ralph Nader instead of listening to Edward Teller."

AS A TEXAS millionaire invading this state of modest wealth, Connally devotes five to 10 minutes per speech to his Texas rural poor boy's background: "I know something of poor people. I know how poor people live."

Then he launches into a long recitation of his executive posts and corporate directorships, supposedly in contrast to Jimmy Carter but implicitly also in contrast to Reagan. Republican audiences are spellbound.

Their attention stems partly from doubts whether Reagan is the right man against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. Coming to look over Connally, uncommitted Republicans here could have made clear they do not want the Republican nomination locked so early.

Campaigning New Hampshire-style, Connally worked the crowd at every appearance by trying to shake everybody's hand. Later, he noted privately that another candidate just rushes into a room for his speech without saying hello to anyone. The reference to Ronald Reagan was unmistakable.

Connally also would like to confront Reagan on issues but simply has no target while the front-runner stays inactive. Any violation of Reagan's "11th Commandment" against speaking ill of a fellow Republican would be a high-risk tactic, but one that seems almost inevitable as part of Connally's strategy.

JAY HARRIS:

The Stop And Go

LUBBOCK JUST may be one of the largest "modern" cities in the world without some sort of viable cross-town traffic artery.

It may retain that dubious honor for some time into the future.

About a month ago, Mayor Dirk West and the City Council took note of the fact that Lubbock is choking on its own traffic.

And Hizzoner and the other Council members agreed that sooner or later, unless the Arabs make the auto obsolete, Lubbock must come up with a solution to its outmoded street system.

The problem, of course, involves money, time and getting everyone to agree on: Where, from, where to and what route enroute? And how much and who will pay? Those are the biggies.

IT MAY COME as a rude shock to many Lubbockites, but in hoping here and there over the globe, one can almost always find modern thoroughfares which thread to, through and around most cities.

Whether it is snaking through the unbelievable traffic of 20,000 honking taxis in Cairo or tooling along the divided and beautifully landscaped freeways of Johannesburg and Cape Town, other cities for some reason long ago decided such things were part and parcel of progress.

Even Amarillo recognized this fact some years ago!

After the recent Council session, we received a letter from a resident here who put down even the thought of a cross-town artery of any kind. He complimented Hizzoner on "bringing order to the driving jungle known as Lubbock," but suggested the Mayor had confused the issue.

AFTER ARGUING that freeways have hindered rather than helped such metro areas as Houston and Los Angeles, the writer noted:

"There is hardly any point in the city which is not within reach from any other point within twenty minutes. It may be inconvenient for those living south of the Loop to drive into town, but this difficulty is a result of poor judgment in locating a home. There are many fine lots in the northeast section of town much closer to downtown. I hardly think the city should provide freeways to accommodate the suburban sprawl to the southwest..."

The writer goes on to charge that freeways are becoming passe and says they were built to provide easy center city access "for white, middle class suburbanites...and were paid for by uprooting neighborhoods, creating eyesores and generating more traffic being funneled into fewer areas..."

His solution: Develop alternate modes of urban mobility, including "a little muscle power applied to a ten-speed bike."

WE PRESENT the letter in part because a lot of people will oppose a freeway, as they did some years ago here, and this includes those who use their cars quite often.

The point is that today, American society is a mobile society. And for the foreseeable future, $1 to $2 a gallon gasoline notwithstanding, people are going to drive to work, to play, to school, to the stadium, the pub, to eat out, the hospital, you name it.

During the recent discussion, the point was made that now is the time to start pushing plans for a Crosstown Freeway. The alternative, Jim Bertram, City Planning Director, warned is that "traffic volumes at major intersections are going to be totally impossible by the year 2000."

Without some sort of relief, the city will find itself in the position of having to build costly overpasses at most major intersections.

A LOT OF long-time residents and newcomers too may not recall that Lubbock in 1967 voted $10 million in bonds to build an East-West freeway.

But the outraged protests of residents along a proposed 37th and 38th Street corridor from Slide Road to the vicinity of Avenue Q scared off officials and the matter never really got off the ground.

It's too bad in a way. As Bertram noted, the corridor still is the most direct route, but it probably is out of the question now because of the costs involved. Not to mention renewed protests.

That leaves an alternate route, running from Loop 289 in far southwest Lubbock, northeast along the Brownfield highway to the 19th Street-Brownfield "Y," along the Tech Freeway to Fourth Street and then utilizing Third and Fourth Streets as One-Ways to connect with IR-27 in northeast Lubbock.

SUCH AN IDEA may be a grandiose dream to many. But, if it is not realized in some form within the next five to 15 years, Lubbock traffic will become a nightmare.

Bertram urged the Council to seek a feasibility study by the Texas Highway department and Texas Tech on the possibility of such a route.

There was a time when Tech officials insisted the Tech Freeway itself be closed or rerouted. But, time and common sense dictate the route is the shortest and, perhaps with the railroad rerouted outside the Loop, the safest and most economical route.

This is especially so when it would tie in with IR-27, which seemingly will go farther east along an Avenue A-H corridor rather than farther west as would be preferred.

As for the funds, the Texas Highway Commission owes it to Lubbock, when the money becomes available, to "make up" for past lack of funding here. As one of the state's larger cities, the city has been left out far too long while other cities built freeways, even double-deckers in one instance.

Think about it the next time you inch along three and four blocks away from a "Stop-And-Maybe-Go" light.

I. M. ROYD:

...Pass It On

NOTHING NEW about price controls. From the 13th to the 15th centuries, what a woman spent for her dresses, cloaks, buttons, belts, jewels and shoes was rigidly controlled. That was in England, France, Greece and Italy. Those governments also put price lids on fruit, furniture and housing. Limits were dictated by what were called the sumptuary laws. They were set up to curb over-lavish living.

Q How did we come to use an X as a symbol on a letter for a kiss?

A That goes way back. To when people who couldn't write their own names signed important documents with an X and sealed the contracts with a kiss. Eventually, the X and the kiss became synonymous.

Two U.S. Teachers Share Nobel Laurels

STOCKHOLM (AP) — An American and a West Indian who teaches in the United States were jointly awarded the 1979 Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science Tuesday for their work to improve economic and "human" conditions, including women's liberation, in the Third World.

The award, which carries a cash prize of $190,000, was the fifth this year received by Americans, who have captured the lion's share of 1979 prizes as in past years. The award to the West Indian was the first ever given to an economist from the developing world, according to the Royal Swedish Academy.

Theodore W. Schultz, 77, of the University of Chicago, and Sir Arthur Lewis, 84, the West Indian native and British subject who teaches at Princeton University, "both have extensive practical experience of development problems and are deeply concerned about the need and poverty in the world and how to find ways out of under-development," the academy said in a citation.

In an interview with The Associated Press at his Princeton home, Lewis, who was born on the island of St. Lucia, said he was interested in what happens to underdeveloped countries as they become wealthier and more modern.

"For example, there's a change from working on family farms to working in factories and working for wages. And there's a transfer of labor out of the countryside into the towns and urbanization," Lewis said.

He had been in close contact with Schultz since 1951, Lewis said, when the two worked on a United Nations committee studying developing countries.

Both winners were described as having done extensive research and critiques on agricultural policies in the developing world and how they related to the overall economies of poorer countries.

chemistry prize was awarded to American Herbert C. Brown of Purdue University and West German Georg Wittig of Heidelberg Germany.

Two of the most prestigious prizes remain to be announced. The peace prize will be awarded today in Oslo by a Norwegian parliamentary committee and the Swedish Academy of Letters will announce the coveted literature prize on Thursday.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

BIORHYTHMS FOR OCT. 17, 1979

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 2: Now find the corresponding number for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Committee Split On Nuclear Safeguards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a House panel investigating the March 28 nuclear accident at Three Mile Island divided sharply Tuesday over what remedial legislation — if any — is needed to make nuclear power safer.

"I don't see much chance of getting a bill out this year," conceded Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., chairman of the energy and environment subcommittee.

Subcommittee members were split on the question of what to do next as they sat down, after seven months of hearings, to begin drafting legislation.

Advocates for a full phase-out of nuclear power — urged upon the committee by consumer advocate Ralph Nader — conceded they didn't have the needed votes to bring it to the House floor. Rep.

James Weaver, D-Ore., suggested a five-year moratorium as an alternative. His idea generated little enthusiasm.

Republicans on the panel, who generally favor continued nuclear power, sought to delay consideration of possible legislation entirely until next year.

And one senior Democratic member, Rep. Jonathon B. Bingham of New York, declared: "On this issue I come out mildly for the leave-it-alone, or 'do-nothing' option."

"Doing nothing is one of the options," Udall agreed. He said such a gesture would be well received by the nuclear industry, throwing a "security blanket over it."

Udall and a majority of committee members, however, clearly indicated they wanted to do something as a result of the accident at the central Pennsylvania nuclear generating station. But there was no clear consensus on what.

A 63-page staff memorandum presented a wide range of options to members — ranging from a nuclear moratorium to a proposal that all future nuclear plants be located away from populated areas.

Prosecutors Expose Inconsistency In Testimony Of Cullen Davis

FORT WORTH (AP) — Prosecutors spinning their devastating FBI tapes exposed what they consider an important inconsistency Tuesday in the testimony of Texas oil heir Cullen Davis.

The millionaire defendant conceded that he once acknowledged telling David McCrory: "Do the judge, and then his wife, and that would be it."

Davis told this jury he did not say "do the judge" but said instead that "he'd do the judge."

Although the distinction is complex, and the tape inconclusive, prosecutors interpreted the recorded "do the judge" remark as implicit instructions to kill divorcee Judge Joe Eldson.

Davis, 46, on trial for solicitation of capital murder, contends he issued no such instructions, that the "he'd do the judge" remark was merely conversational. He insists he was "playing along" with McCrory to uncover an extortion scheme.

The dapper defendant denied on cross-examination that he said "do the judge" but admitted that, had he done so, it would have been a "damning" statement.

Prosecutor Jack Strickland then produced the transcript from an earlier trial in Houston and demonstrated that Davis did not previously make the "he'd do the judge" distinction. The defendant acknowledged that there was a "very significant difference" between the two versions of the Aug. 18 recording.

McCrory, 41, the state's key witness maintains Davis ordered him to arrange the contract murders of 15 persons, including Eldson and the defendant's ex-wife Priscilla.

Davis contends he was framed by Priscilla and others in an effort to enhance the shapely blonde's multimillion-dollar divorce suit.

Strickland, in the fifth day of cross-examination, took Davis on a tense, step-by-step odyssey through the August 1978 conversations with McCrory.

McCrory said Davis was unaware he was being recorded. Davis said he knew all along.

The defendant said he agreed to make the tapes after receiving an Aug. 10 telephone call from an FBI agent who Davis said instructed him to "play along" with McCrory.

He said he realizes now the "agent" was an imposter.

Another reason for the tapes, Davis said, was that McCrory told him he would use them to head off a death plot on Davis' life.

In his arguments at Houston, Strickland labeled Davis' account among the most "patently ridiculous" stories ever perpetuated on a jury.

But the jurors deadlocked 8-4 in favor of conviction.

"I think the best thing we can do is show it's an unreasonable and absurd story on the face," Strickland said Monday. "I doubt that we're going to break his story down."

Davis freely admits discussing mass murder with McCrory, but just as relentlessly denies that he ever intended to put the purported death scheme in motion.

"There was no conspiracy to do anything," he insisted. "We were just making a tape... I let him run his tape. I let him run his mouth. I let him talk about anything he wanted to."

The trial, now in its 12th week, continued Tuesday, despite a fracture suffered by one juror. The injured juror, Edwin Dennis, 26, broke his wrist in a fall Monday evening but was back in the jury box Tuesday, wearing a bandaged arm in a blue sling. One juror in the case previously dropped out with a broken leg, leaving an 11-person panel, the minimum by law.

British Royalty Inspects Houston Space Center

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Britain's Princess Margaret was greeted by about 50 elementary school children on her arrival at the Johnson Space Center Tuesday and then met two astronauts who explained the workings of the new space shuttle system.

The younger sister of Queen Elizabeth II spent some two hours at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration facility, asking questions about past moon landings and the future projects including space shuttle and solar power satellites.

The children from a Houston suburban school sat on the grass and clapped when the princess stepped from the car.

Little Robin Elkins, 9, said, "This is great. I have read stories about them, but I have never seen a real-live princess before. She is pretty."

One youngster asked, "Is that the queen?"

A young girl answered, "That's the princess, silly. Can't you tell a queen from a princess?"

Tami Love, another of the students, said, "Just say this is terrific, this is great, this is fantastic."

The princess did not stop to talk to the children.

Princess Margaret is on a tour of the United States in an effort to raise $4.5 million for improvements of London's Royal Opera House, where the royal ballet also performs.

The opera house at Covent Garden is in need of at least $16.4 million worth of major repairs. By the end of August almost $12 million had been contributed to restore the historic site.

Dr. Christopher Kraft, director of the space center, gave the princess a tour of the visitors' center and then went into details on the solar power satellites, which, he said, may some day provide the world with 50 percent of its energy needs.

The princess looked at the drawings of the proposed giant space energy systems, some 20 miles long and two or three miles wide, and asked, "And how do you get them up?"

Kraft answered, "In sections, and they can be built in space."

"You can see I didn't understand this at all until I could look at it," Princess Margaret said.

Once she asked, "Do you have the metal problem solved?" Kraft said yes.

Then it was on to the space shuttle section where the princess viewed the training models and talked with astronauts Vance Brand and Dr. Rhea Seddon.

Brand was a member of the Apollo-Soyuz mission during which U.S. astronauts linked up with a Soviet space craft.

He and Dr. Seddon, one of the first women selected for astronaut training, presented Princess Margaret with an arm patch from the Apollo-Soyuz mission and a logbook to be used on the space shuttle.

Voyager 2 Spacecraft Sends New Moon Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists studying pictures snapped by the Voyager 2 spacecraft have discovered a new moon circling the planet Jupiter. The space agency said Tuesday it is the fastest moving satellite in the solar system.

The satellite, temporarily designated 1979-J-1, is the 14th known to be orbiting giant Jupiter. It is only 18 to 25 miles in diameter and is traveling about 67,000 mph near the outer edge of the Jovian ring, about 36,000 miles from the planet's cloud tops.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the discovery was made by two researchers at California Institute of Technology, Dr. G. Edward Danielson and graduate student David Jewitt.

NASA gave this report on the discovery: While studying a picture taken by Voyager 2 as it passed near Jupiter last July 8, Danielson and Jewitt noticed a star-like object in the ring plane. But after an extensive search, they could find no stars in the vicinity.

This led to examination of another Voyager 2 photo of higher resolution showing the same portion of the ring, the same curious object and trails of some known stars. Verification that the object was indeed a satellite of Jupiter was based on the differing angles and lengths of star trails and the trail left by the target object.

From the two pictures, an orbit was calculated independently by Jewitt and by Dr. Stephen Synott, an optical navigation engineer at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

1979-J-1 is the closest moon to Jupiter. It is smaller than seven of the planet's other moons, but larger than six of them. The satellite takes only 7 hours 8 minutes to complete an orbital circuit.

"This is the fastest moving satellite in the solar system and it has the shortest orbital period," NASA reported.

Voyager scientists said they believe the newly found satellite, because of its location at the outer edge of the ring, may directly influence the composition of the ring, either by sweeping out or by supplying particles.

Other photos snapped by the Voyagers 1 and 2 are being searched for evidence of a 15th moon. Charles T. Kowal of CalTech found clues to such a moon in Earth-based photos taken several years ago, but its existence has not been confirmed.

Oil Firms Denied Exemption From Franchise Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's major oil companies failed Tuesday in an attempt to get out from under a federal regulation that next week will affect all franchise industries.

Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist rejected arguments that the Federal Trade Commission's franchising regulation should not apply to the petroleum industry.

Issued by the FTC last Dec. 20, the rule requires detailed disclosure of the financial risks as well as opportunities that await persons who buy local franchise outlets.

The rule — spelled out in more than 600 pages — applies to numerous industries with hundreds of thousands of outlets nationwide, including fast-food restaurants, flower shops, photo stores and gasoline service stations. It is to take effect Sunday.

In asking Rehnquist to temporarily exempt their business while formal help is sought from the full Supreme Court, lawyers for 12 oil firms said, "The FTC does not and cannot know whether the franchise rule is even appropriate for the 1979-80 petroleum industry."

The emergency request added, "Unless this court stays the franchise rule... (oil companies) must temporarily cease entering into new dealer agreements that fall within the broad parameter of the franchise rule."

The industry will be forced to "initiate crash programs to comply with the massive franchise rule at the cost of millions of dollars," the request contended.

The rule was issued, according to the FTC, "in response to widespread evidence of deceptive and unfair practices in connection with the sale of franchises and business opportunity ventures."

Oil company lawyers said the rule will affect franchise industries' 463,000 outlets that do a combined $248 billion in retail sales.

The emergency request was filed by

Shell, Exxon, Mobil, Gulf, Standard Oil of Indiana, Phillips, Union Oil, Atlantic Richfield, Getty, Standard Oil of California, Chevron and Kerr-McGee

Carter Warehouse Loans Held Legal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special counsel, declaring that "there is no evidence to establish that Jimmy Carter committed any crimes," said Tuesday no prosecution is planned in connection with the financing of the president's family peanut business.

Special counsel Paul J. Curran, concluding a six-month investigation, said "no indictment can or should be brought against anyone" involved in nearly $10 million in loans from the National Bank of Georgia to the peanut business.

Curran, in a 239-page report to Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, said there was no evidence any of the money was diverted into Carter's 1976 presidential campaign. He also concluded there was no evidence of any criminal activities stemming from the loans.

However, Curran described a series of financial irregularities, involving bookkeeping mistakes and inadequate collateral on the part of the Carter peanut warehouse, which has been heavily in debt.

He declined to characterize the irregularities, but said none of them amounted to criminal violations.

Curran also disclosed that he took an unusual four-hour deposition from the president at the White House on Sept. 5.

Curran said he believed it was the first time an incumbent president had given sworn testimony in a criminal investigation.

But the Justice Department noted there had been at least one previous case — when President Gerald R. Ford gave a televised deposition in connection with the assassination attempt by Sara Jane Moore. Former President Richard M. Nixon's depositions in the Watergate scandal were taken after he left office.

Carter Cooperated

Curran said Carter "cooperated totally" in the investigation and that a transcript of the interview and the president's financial records were turned over to a federal grand jury in Atlanta that looked into the Carter transactions. The White House said Carter's deposition would not be made public.

Carter, asked about the Curran report while attending a Democratic reception in Harvey, Ill., said, "I'm glad they have completed their investigation and turned their attention to crime control." Asked how he felt about being declared "clean," he replied, "I knew it all the time."

Later, at the White House, the president said "the truth finally came out." Asked if the investigation was over, Carter replied, "I don't know."

Version Made Public

An abbreviated, 179-page version of the report to Civiletti was sent to Congress and was made public at a news conference.

Curran said the shortened version contained all he was legally permitted to disclose and contained no direct testimony from the president or any other witnesses who appeared before the grand jury.

The investigation was an outgrowth of a lengthy inquiry into the business dealings of Carter's former budget director, Bert Lance, who headed the National Bank of Georgia until he joined the Carter administration in 1977.

"Lance is under indictment on bank fraud and conspiracy charges, but those charges were not related to Curran's investigation into the warehouse loans.

Given Free Hand

Curran, a Republican lawyer from New York, was appointed by then-Attorney General Griffin B. Bell in March and was given a free hand to seek indictments without Justice Department approval.

Curran's report emphatically concluded that no money was diverted from the warehouse into the campaign.

"Our audits and examination of the books and records leave no room for doubt on this score," Curran said. "Every nickel and every peanut have been traced into and out of the warehouse, and no funds were unlawfully diverted in either direction."

However, Curran and his staff declined to say whether the campaign violated federal election laws in connection with $671,000 in credit extended in 1976 by the firm owned by Gerald Rafshoon, who has worked as an advertising and media expert for Carter.

He said it was up to the Federal Election Commission to decide if any election laws were violated. The FEC looked at the Rafshoon payments and found no wrongdoing.

Curran said Rafshoon "never spent more" for the Carter campaign than he received from the campaign.

But the report said Rafshoon used one bank account in which all client funds, including those from Carter, were deposited. Therefore, the report said, it cannot be determined if any funds other than those from the Carter campaign were used to pay campaign expenses.

REBUILDING THE CANAL — Bulldozers move earth Tuesday as they rebuild the All-American Canal 16 miles east of Calexico, Calif. The 80-mile canal, which was heavily damaged by an earthquake that struck southern California Monday afternoon, feeds water to a 5,000-mile complex of canals that are used to water the crops grown in the Imperial Valley. Several buildings were damaged in Calexico and elsewhere in southern California. (AP Laserphoto) elderly and a shelter for battered women and children, as high priorities.

CD Fund Requests Heard At Meeting

Members of the crowd also asked Rick Childers, administrative assistant with the city manager's office, if shopping centers were planned for the east Lubbock area.

Childers said that the city could not develop shopping centers, but could encourage developers to "build in low income areas" with special programs.

Before analyzing other CD projects proposed by the city, the crowd also heard pleas from representatives of other organizations, including the Lubbock Soccer Association's request for soccer fields near the softball complex at North Loop 289.

$75,000 Requested

Ray Medina, representing the Business Development Center, asked the group to recommend that $75,000 of funds reserved as contingency money be used to expand the organization which works to enhance economic development in minority communities.

Another $75,000 was requested by Rose Wilson, representing the Lutheran Council for Community Action, to expand the Neighborhood House at 2009 E. 13th St. She said the building, an old church, needed remodeling and expansion.

About 50 residents of the UNIT neighborhood, meeting at Roscoe Wilson Elementary, urged that high priority be given for CD funding for zoning and housing code enforcement in their area between University, Indiana, 19th and 34th streets.

"Our priority is zoning to prevent deterioration in our neighborhood," said Anne Cochran.

Although in a question-and-answer session with CD coordinator Vicki Foster residents asked for other items. Miss Foster explained that CD funds are "primarily for low-income areas" and said the UNIT area is not a high priority neighborhood for such money, although it is eligible for code enforcement money.

More Sidewalks Wanted

Several residents expressed their concern for north-south sidewalks, including Texas Tech professor Dr. Paul Dixon who said it was ironic that in an energy crisis, "There is money for freeways for cars, but not money for people to walk on sidewalks."

A group headed by Rodney Pace voted a special need for sidewalks on Boston and Flint streets leading to the Tech campus.

Projects in the Arnett-Benson area and East Lubbock neighborhoods were given high priority by the UNIT residents, something which Anne Cochran said was "very admirable. It shows our neighborhood is concerned about other parts of the city."

Other concerns expressed by the residents included weed and pest control.

Prior to the CD funds discussion, the UNIT Neighborhood Association met to present certificates of appreciation to nine police officers who Neale Pearson, association chairman, said, brought about the quick apprehension and arrest of a suspect in connection with the murder of Bridges.

Officers honored were Lt. Bill Knox, Det. Sgt. Charles Park, Sgt. Joe Stone, Cpls. Ted Daniels, George White and Jimmy Riemer, and Dets. J.R. Ashmore, Joe Nevarez and Ronnie Goolsby.

The final two CD meetings will be at 7:30 Thursday night at Caroll Thompson Junior High and Alderson Junior High.

CAPTIVE CHILD RELEASED

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP) — The 8-year-old son of a pharmacist was released after being held captive 2½ months, police said Tuesday. Investigators said they believed a ransom had been paid.

Italian Financier Found In New York Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Italian financier Michele Sindona, who disappeared mysteriously 2½ months ago, surfaced in Manhattan on Tuesday and was hospitalized with a leg wound, federal officials said.

A government spokesman said two federal marshals were sent to Doctors Hospital to guard Sindona. He was not under arrest but a 24-hour guard was assigned, according to an FBI spokesman.

A determination will be made later on how long 59-year-old Sindona, who faces trial on a host of federal charges involving the failure of a major bank, will remain in the hospital.

An FBI spokesman said that at 11 a.m., Sindona called the office of Marvin Frankel, his attorney, from a telephone booth three blocks from Times Square.

Frankel was out of town, so one of his associates and Pier Sandro Mangoni, Sindona's son-in-law, went to the telephone booth and took Sindona to Mangoni's Park Avenue residence.

A doctor arrived and "determined he (Sindona) should be admitted" to the hospital, the FBI spokesman said.

"We were told he was haggard looking and has a dressed wound on his left leg," the spokesman said, adding the financier was sedated and would thus not be interviewed by federal officials until today.

The spokesman, who declined to be identified, said he did not know where Sindona was before he made the telephone call.

Sindona disappeared Aug. 2, and since that time several messages were sent to his family from alleged kidnapers and from himself.

He had been scheduled to stand trial Sept. 10 on fraud charges involving the 1974 collapse of the Franklin National Bank. He was also fighting extradition to Milan.

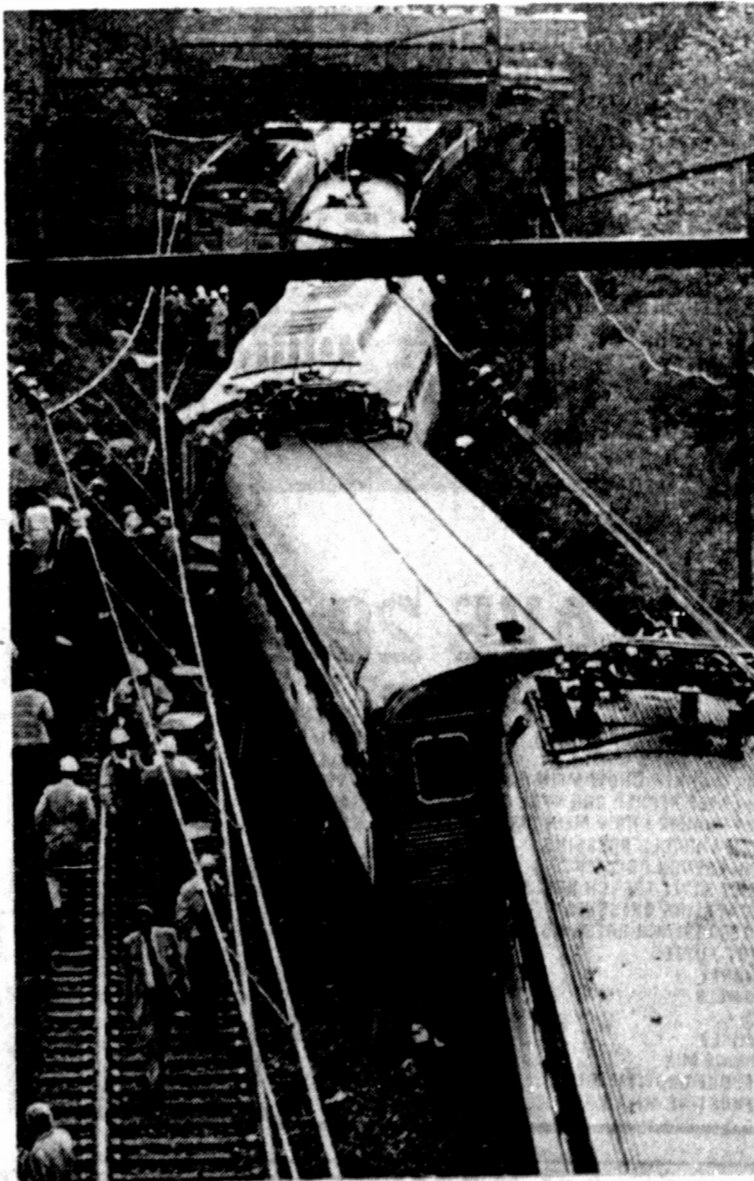

The FBI never termed the disappearance a kidnapping, but Frankel said he had received letters from Sindona and his alleged captors.

In one of the notes, sent to Magnoni, the family was told: "If you value his life, you will provide all the facts in your possession."

Sindona said in some of the correspondence that his alleged captors had demanded information about his financial dealings and warned that his life depended on the response.

Italian authorities have been trying to extradite Sindona to face charges that he removed $225 million from his banks in Milan. The specific charges here, in a 99-count indictment, allege Sindona illegally transferred $40 million from overseas to buy control of the Franklin National Bank in 1972. Two years later, the bank failed.

Sindona had been free on $3 million personal bail bond at the time of his disappearance, a bond secured by $150,000 and his cooperative apartment, estimated to be worth $500,000.

COMMUTER TRAIN ACCIDENT — More than 400 persons were injured Tuesday when four conrail commuter trains full of morning commuters collided in southwest Philadelphia. There were no fatalities and most of the injuries were minor, but seven persons were reported seriously injured. (AP Laserphoto)

Moderate Recession Forecast By Miller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Tuesday the nation still faces a moderate recession, despite figures showing industrial production in September registered the biggest growth in four months.

"While the recession facing the nation is expected to be moderate, the current economic outlook remains volatile, particularly in light of the uncertainties about energy prices and availability," Miller told a congressional panel.

"We cannot be as certain as previously about the depth and severity of the economic slowdown," he said. But Miller quickly added that "there are few signs the recession will be as bad as the 1974-1975 downturn which was the worst since the depression."

The treasury secretary's testimony before members of the Joint Economic Committee came at the same time the Federal Reserve Board released figures showing industrial production was up by 0.5 percent last month.

Byrne Backing In Chicago Buys Carter

problems without regard to political consequences.

Mrs. Byrne accompanied Carter on the helicopter ride to Dolton where the president spent an hour talking with residents of the mostly blue-collar suburb.

Carter predicted the inflation rate would come down before the end of the year.

"My hope is that interest rates have peaked along with inflation and will now be going down," he said. "It's very difficult to have interest rates lower than the inflation rate."

He said, "We are doing everything we can to make sure there is no drop-off" in home construction. He said a high rate of home construction has continued despite the high interest rates "because we made available new sources of financing of homes. In my opinion, the purchase of a home is still a good investment."

Quake Rifts Canal In California

The valley has 90,000 residents, most of them living in the cities of El Centro, Calexico, Brawley and Imperial.

Broken glass and water mains throughout El Centro kept cleanup crews busy Tuesday. City officials asked residents to conserve water and arranged for tanker trucks to bring water.

"If this outage goes beyond a couple of days we'll have to start trucking the water in," said a top official in the State Office of Emergency Service.

The earthquake also disrupted the sewage treatment plant at El Centro, leaving untreated sewage spilling into a holding pond.

Most of the early damage total came from the wrecked county government services building in El Centro. Imperial County Public Works Director David Pierson called the supposedly earthquake-proof structure a total loss and said it would cost $7 million to replace.

Fire fighters from two counties warily eyed a gas tank farm where the quake damaged three tanks holding 90,000 gallons of fuel.

Tidal Wave Kills Eight

NICE, France (AP) — A rare Mediterranean tidal wave swept along a 60-mile stretch of the French Riviera on Tuesday, killing at least eight construction workers building a breakwater jutting into the sea, police said.

Three other workers and two persons on the beach were reported missing and feared dead on the popular Mediterranean resort coast. An undetermined number of yachts and other pleasure craft were wrecked at many points along the Riviera.

The wave swept workers, cranes, bulldozers and trucks from the breakwater under construction in Nice harbor. Rescuers recovered the bodies of eight construction workers and three workers were unaccounted for and two were rescued, police said.

In the resort town of Antibes, the wave swept two persons walking on the beach into the sea and both were feared dead, police said.

Train Crash Injures 400 In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Screaming passengers were sent "flying" down the aisles and slamming into seatbacks when three packed commuter trains crashed in a chain reaction at the peak of the morning rush hour Tuesday. There were more than 400 injuries, most of them minor, authorities said.

"We were going at a good clip, 40 to 45 miles an hour," said R.C. Morrow of Glen Mills, a structural engineer and one of the commuters on board.

"We started flying when the engineer hit the brakes. Most of the people hit their heads and faces on their seats in front of them."

There were no reports of fatalities in the 8:19 a.m. crash on the Media-West Chester line just beyond a curve in the southwest section of the city.

"Brace yourselves," shouted a motorman just before the impact.

The passengers, many dazed and dabbing their bloody faces with handkerchiefs, stumbled from the cars as police wagons, ambulances and fire rescue vehicles raced to the scene.

"A few people were trapped in the first smashed car but the firemen got them out quickly," said Police Commissioner Joseph O'Neill.

The injured were taken to 24 hospitals and an elementary school, the police commissioner said.

Conrail officials said as many as 1,200 passengers may have been riding on the trains.

O'Neill said most of the injuries involved bloody noses, sprained necks and some broken bones.

"We heard this big bang and ran out there with ice and paper towels," said Ruth Wolf, a teacher at the Harrington Elementary School, a block from the accident scene. "Poor things. They were really shook up."

A nine-car lead train developed a mechanical failure and a second train, which also had nine cars, stopped behind it, according to R.B. Hoffman, an official of Conrail which operates the commuter service.

"The leading train got started and headed toward Philadelphia," Hoffman said. "The third train stopped behind the second train and the fourth hit the third before it could move away."

The force of the crash propelled the front of the third train — an express train from West Chester — into the rear of the second train which was just getting ready to pull out, Hoffman added.

"We have no idea what triggered the accident," he said. "All signals in the vicinity were operational when I arrived at the scene."

Hospital spokesmen said 421 persons were injured. Misericordia treated 69, University of Pennsylvania 64, Jefferson 43, Hahnemann 37, Fitzgerald Mercy 27, Osteopathic 25, St. Agnes 20, Delaware County 18, Lankenau 15, Presbyterian 13, Graduate 10, Metropolitan 10, North-eastern 9, St. Joseph's 9, Episcopal 9, Methodist 7, Pennsylvania 7, Riddle Memorial 7, Roxborough 6, St. Luke's 5, Medical College of Pennsylvania 4, Crozer Chester 4, Tri-County 2, Chester Sacred Heart 1.

Nineteen of those treated were admitted. George Faust Jr., 32, a train conductor, was in serious condition at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital with abdominal injuries.

Five cars derailed — two on the express and three from the moving fourth train. Two of the local trains originated in Media, the other in Elwyn.

Survivors include her mother, Lillian Brown of Lubbock; five brothers, Thomas E. of Lubbock, James L. of Denver City, Leonard L. of Houston, A.J. of Austin and Dennis O. of Bridge City; and two sisters, Norma LouViere of Lubbock and Katie Cobb of Hemphill.

Mrs. D. D. Burkett

ALPINE (Special) — Mrs. D.D. Burkett, 44, of Alpine and formerly of Lubbock, died Saturday at her home here. An inquest into the death has been ordered by Justice of the Peace Carlos Dunn.

Woman Reports Beating, Rape Incident To Police

A 26-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was robbed and raped early Tuesday.

The woman told police she was driving home from a friend's house and was near 13th Street and Avenue X when two black males and a black female got into her car and started beating her about the head and neck.

The woman told police the suspects drank a full bottle of vodka that was in her car. Police reports indicate she then was driven to an apartment in east Lubbock where she was beaten further and raped.

The woman said she did not remember how she got away from her attackers or why she woke up in her car. Reports indicate the woman drove to a service station for gasoline and a station attendant called police because the woman was covered with blood.

Police said the woman had scrapes on her face, lacerations to the left side of her head, both eyes blackened and human teeth marks on her neck.

The victim told officers her attackers also robbed her of $10 and her watch.

An out-of-town truck driver told Lubbock police he was robbed of $63 cash shortly after 3 a.m. Tuesday when he was confronted by a pistol-wielding man at the door of his motel room in the 6400 block of Avenue H.

Charles Raymond Gross, 33, of Fort Worth said he was dazed when the bandit struck him in the back of the head after taking his wallet containing the money.

Gross, who did not require hospital treatment, said he was leaving his room about 3:15 a.m. when confronted by the suspect in the doorway.

The bandit allegedly took the money

'Passing Through' Or Just Local, Furry Thing Bares Self While Rummaging Trash

A Slaton couple was awakened early Tuesday morning by what they claim was a bear knocking over trash barrels in their back yard, but a state parks and wildlife official says it would be a "freak thing" if it really was a bear.

Mr. and Mrs. Abran Valverde, who live four miles west of Slaton, told Lubbock County Sheriff's Deputies they watched the animal knock over several 55-gallon trash barrels behind their house.

Mrs. Valverde said she awoke about 2:15 a.m. and heard growling and dogs barking. "At first I thought it was another dog," she said.

But when she heard a trash can tumble over, she looked out the window and saw the furry creature. "When I saw him, I went and woke my husband," Mrs. Valverde said. "Then we both saw the bear standing up."

"The dogs would charge at the bear, and it would stand up on its back legs and charge at them," Mrs. Valverde said.

"I'll bet anyone $100 it was a bear," her husband added.

Valverde said he called his boss who drove over in a pickup truck and brought several rifles. The truck, however, scared the bear off, Valverde said.

But when Jack Young, district supervisor for Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife, went out to the Valverdes' home Tuesday afternoon and checked around the trash barrels and a nearby field for bear tracks, he didn't find any.

"All I found was dog tracks. Of course with all the traffic out there Tuesday, a bear print might have been covered up," Young said.

"I'm not saying a bear wasn't out there, but it was a freak thing, if there was one out there."

Lubbock County Sheriff's Deputy Dean Bohannon, who looked at tracks at the Valverde home about 5 a.m. Tuesday, said, "They weren't dog tracks. Whatever it was, it was bigger than a dog."

"I just don't think a dog could've knocked down 55-gallon trash barrels," the deputy added.

Young theorized that the bear could have been someone's lost pet, but knows of no one in the area with a pet bear.

"Or a bear may have escaped from a circus passing through, but we haven't been notified of anything like that," he said.

Bears definitely are not supposed to be in this area, Young said, but he added it might be possible the animal was "just passing through" this part of the country.

He said one or two bears could be found in the rugged Guadalupe Mountains in the far west portion of the state, but he noted, "I can't imagine a wild bear being in this part of the country."

Rape, Robbery Charges Levelled Against Man

Aggravated rape and aggravated robbery charges were filed Tuesday afternoon against a 22-year-old Lubbock man in connection with the early Monday robbery, kidnapping and rape of a convenience store clerk.

John Otis Vineyard of 2103-D 49th St. was in Lubbock County Jail late Tuesday in lieu of $200,000 bond. Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy recommended Vineyard's bond be set at $100,000 for each charge.

Reports indicate that a southwest Lubbock resident called police about 3:40 a.m. Monday and said a nude woman, armed with a pistol, was crying hysterically on his front porch.

When police arrived at the residence, they found a 22-year-old woman who told them she was a clerk at a 82nd Street and Indiana Avenue convenience store that had been robbed. The woman also told police that she had been raped and that her assailant could be found in his car parked in the 9700-block of Joliet Avenue.

Minutes later, investigating officers located the partially clothed suspect lying unconscious on the car's front seat with his head leaning against the passenger-side door. Reports indicate the car's engine was running.

Police said the man allegedly entered the convenience store about 2 a.m. Monday, pulled a .44 magnum six-shooter from his coat and motioned for the attendant to open the cash register.

The woman said the man told her to open counter drawers and another cash register and to empty all the money into a paper sack.

Reports indicate that $158 was taken from the store during the robbery, but a sack containing only $124 was confiscated from the suspect's car.

Police said the man then told the woman to go into a back room and ordered her to disrobe while he held her at gunpoint.

After the suspect attacked the clerk, he reportedly handed the gun, with the barrel pointed away from him, to the woman.

The man reportedly told the woman if she tried to aim the gun at him, "I'll whup hell out of you."

The clerk then was forced into the suspect's car, parked behind the convenience store, and was driven to a location south of 114th Street and east of University Avenue, according to police. The woman told police the man then fired the revolver twice out the car window at a meter, apparently to show the woman he could shoot accurately.

The man also reportedly asked the clerk several times if she would like to kill him.

Police said the man then drove to the 9700-block of Joliet Avenue, where he parked his car and attempted to rape the woman again. However, the man reportedly fell asleep during the assault and the woman was able to escape with the man's gun.

Plane Theft Charges Set On Two Men

Two South Plains men were charged with second-degree felony theft Tuesday in connection with the disappearance of two private airplanes from Lubbock County airports.

Danny Joe Green, 19, of Plainview was arrested Tuesday by Texas Ranger Gene Kea and Jerry Johnson of the Department of Public Safety Motor Vehicle Theft Division. Green is charged with two counts of theft and a bond of $25,000 was recommended on each count by the criminal district attorney's office.

Charged with one count of theft was Paul Richard Bradshaw, 19, of Cotton Center. A bond of $5,000 was recommended in Bradshaw's case.

Both men are accused of taking a single engine Bellanca Citagrica plane in early September that belongs to a U.S. Air Force lieutenant who is stationed at Reese Air Force Base.

Authorities found the aircraft about 5:30 p.m. Sept. 4 parked on a private airstrip at a farm 3 1/2 miles east of Cotton Center. The farmer who owns the landing strip told officials he saw the plane land and a white male leave the cockpit.

U.S.A.F. Lt. Stephanie Wells, the owner of the craft, had parked the plane at Shallowater Airport and did not know it was missing until contacted by authorities.

Green also is accused of being involved in the theft of a Clovis, N.M., man's plane that was parked at Town and Country Airport south of Lubbock to be repainted.

James E. Foster's plane was reported missing Sept. 4 by airport employees after they reportedly received a call from a man identifying himself as Foster. The caller reportedly told the employees to fuel his plane and have it ready for take-off and he would be in to pay for the paint job and pick up the craft.

The plane, a twin engine Piper Aztec, was located two days later at Tulla Airport, after reportedly being spotted at the Dumas and Plainview airports.

Resignation Blame Not Put On Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andrew Young said Tuesday that Israel didn't try to force his resignation as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations — but actually mounted an effort to publicly oppose it.

"At the time of my resignation, there was an effort underway approved by (Israeli Defense Minister Moshe) Dayan that would have put Israel on record as opposing my resignation," Young told the House Africa subcommittee.

He said Israel did not actually the public position because Prime Minister Menachem Begin was ill and could not approve it quickly enough.

Young said he resigned after meeting with a Palestine Liberation Organization representative contrary to U.S. policy because he could not promise not to do it again.

"I wasn't sorry, I didn't think it was

Martial Law Imposed By Military Government

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The new military government sent troops against opponents in one capital suburb Tuesday, suspended constitutional guarantees and imposed martial law and a night-time curfew in the face of left-wing defiance.

Col. Jaime Abdul Gutierrez and Col. Adolfo Arnoldo Mahano also dissolved the legislature that was dominated by Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero's right-wing government that was toppled Monday night. They also promised a redistribution of the nation's wealth and a "moderate and eminently democratic" government. Romero reportedly fled to neighboring Guatemala.

In Washington, the State Department cautiously welcomed the ouster of the rightist regime by the generals — described as young moderates — and said it was "encouraged" by the new leadership's call for moderation and free elections.

Salvadoran government sources said constitutional guarantees were suspended after members of the leftist LP-28 group erected barricades and took over municipal buildings in San Salvador's suburbs of Mejicanos and Cuscatancingo.

At least 200 government troops armed with assault rifles and heavy machine guns moved in on the protesters in Mejicanos. It was not known if troops headed into Cuscatancingo.

A police officer said the leftists had been cleared out of the city hall "and we are now proceeding to clear them out of the police station." He said he had no information on casualties.

Police were posted around parks and plazas in the capital and surrounding suburbs to prevent rallies.

"We do not want defiance of the government right at the start," said one source, adding that the primary objective now was to restore calm to El Salvador.

The government banned demonstrations and imposed a 10 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew throughout the country.

Under martial law, the government can also ban meetings, impose press censorship, make arrests without warrants and restrict entries and exits in the country. There was no indication whether any of those measures would be adopted.

A military spokesman said the coup leaders were studying a roster of possible Cabinet members. He said the Cabinet would be moderate and it would be made up of two military leaders and three civilians. The two colonels who ousted Romero were expected to be the military representatives on the Cabinet.

A spokesman for the colonels said El Salvador's archbishop, Oscar Arnulfo Romero — no relation to the president but a constant critic of the ousted regime — had given his backing to the new government. He did not elaborate.

Republicans In New York Cold-Shoulder Connally

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York County Republican Committee has asked GOP presidential hopeful John Connally not to attend its annual dinner in February because of the former Texas governor's Mideast policy. It was announced Tuesday.

GOP County Chairman Vincent Albano said he "disinvented" Connally in a letter because, "I felt he didn't level with us."

Albano said that Connally spoke to him and several Jewish leaders last week before he announced his Mideast policy "and he indicated that he was going to be cooperative with the state of Israel."

In his nine-point position outlined Thursday, Connally said Israel should receive "ironclad" assurances of its security in return for withdrawing from the captured West Bank and Golan Heights territories.

"It's ridiculous," Albano said of Connally's plan. "It can only make the Arabs happy."

Albano said all other GOP presidential hopefuls would be invited to the county committee's annual Lincoln Day dinner at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel on Feb. 9. More than 1,000 party loyalists are expected to attend the dinner, considered a showcase for Republican presidential hopefuls.

Chinese Dissident Gets Prison Term

PEKING (AP) — China's most famous young dissident was sentenced to 15 years in prison Tuesday for giving military secrets to a foreigner and seeking to overthrow the government.

The conviction of 29-year-old magazine editor Wei Jingsheng was to be followed by the trial of a woman dissident, the next in what appears to be a series of trials of leaders of last year's "democracy movement."

The new defendant, Fu Yuehuas, 36, is said to have planned and directed the protest marches of several hundred men and women who sought redress of grievances dating back to the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution. The charges against her have not been announced.

Wei, editor and writer for the magazine Explorations, was convicted in a six-hour trial sure to be studied by many Chinese for clues to the direction Chinese justice is taking in an era of promised greater freedom. The case is being viewed as a test of China's emerging legal system and tolerance of democracy and dissent.

'Draft Kennedy' Drive Set In Lubbock

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A "Draft Kennedy" initiative is underway in Lubbock with the expectation that Sen. Edward Kennedy will enlist as a presidential candidate before his draft notice can arrive.

Dan Donovan, a third-year Texas Tech University law student, has been soliciting volunteers for the past two weeks and has scheduled a 1 p.m. Saturday organizational meeting at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

State Rep. Froy Salinas of Lubbock will speak at the meeting. Donovan said more than 300 persons have signed a petition endorsing a Kennedy candidacy and "a sizable number" have promised to work in the campaign if Kennedy enters the race.

"I am very concerned about the Democrats retaining the White House in 1980," Donovan, former Democratic county chairman in Freestone County in East Central Texas, said.

"While I feel that President Carter has been right on almost all the issues, I think it's undeniable that he has been ineffective and is perceived as ineffective by the American people. Therefore, we just made a rational choice of who we think the better candidate is to carry the White House in 1980."

Donovan said, however, that he will support Carter if the president is re-nominated. He started running a classified advertisement in the Avalanche-Journal 12 days ago and has developed his South Plains Texans for Kennedy almost entirely during that period, he said.

Because of the method to be used on selecting state delegates to the National Democratic Convention next year, the organization will concentrate on getting Kennedy delegates elected in precinct and county conventions rather than on a presidential preference election which might or might not be held next spring.

Delegates from the counties will take part in the state convention, where 138 delegates will be chosen to the national convention. Of those, 104 will be elected in senatorial district caucuses and 34 in at-large voting at the state meeting based on preferences listed by county delegates as they register at the convention opening.

A presidential preference election would be non-binding on delegates, Donovan noted.

Asks if he expects Kennedy to be hampered in the South and Southwest by an image as a liberal, Donovan said, "I think that on most of the major issues in this country, most everyone is in agreement that we may differ in philosophy in how to reach the result, but that we all want to reach the same end."

"I think Sen. Kennedy could provide the leadership to bring forth a comprehensive energy policy and to do something about the economy. Something in particular that should be attractive to people in the South is that he has come out in favor of deregulating the trucking industry."

"His record on the Senate Judiciary Committee is one of very strong stands as to law and order. He has been for making parole requirements tighter and seeing that there is rehabilitation rather than just turning inmates out to make room for others."

"I would be very disappointed if he was perceived as someone such as a McGovern. He's much further toward the middle of the road than Sen. McGovern was (as a 1972 presidential candidate)."

Donovan said Kennedy supporters generally are certain Kennedy will enter the race because of his statement that the economy would have to improve considerably by the end of the year for him to stay out and the slowness with which the economy changes.

"We feel like Sen. Kennedy, if he announces, will win the nomination," he added. "Therefore, what we're doing at this time is trying to put together precinct organizations so that, should he win the nomination, we would be ready to go to work immediately."

"We'll be working to canvass to find where Democratic voters are, to make sure they are registered and then to make sure that they get out to vote in November."

In the nominating process in Texas, he said, "What this comes down to is whoever of the two candidates has the better organization and not necessarily who has the most popular support in particular areas."

Donovan said South Plains Texans for Kennedy "is an unauthorized committee at this time" and might be replaced if Kennedy announces.

"Should he announce, I am sure he will come in and set up his own campaign committee," he said. "We may or may not be a part of it. In any case, we'll certainly be working for whatever committee he establishes."

Lubbock County Democratic Chairman Madison Sowder said he will attend the Saturday meeting but will maintain "a hands-off attitude" as to its workings.

The meeting will be in Room 108 of the civic center. It is scheduled for last from 1 to 5 p.m.

"I'm not really surprised at this," Sowder said, explaining that he expected a Kennedy committee to be formed here when Kennedy indicated that he might make the race. "You just kind of wait around and see where the call is going to come from."

Texas Senate Committee Holds City Hearing On Handicapped

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lack of transportation is the most onerous barrier to the independence of handicapped persons, witnesses told a hearing of the Texas Senate Human Resources Committee here today.

The committee, headed by Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena, is conducting six such hearings across the state to determine the effectiveness of state services to the handicapped.

About 100 persons attended the Lubbock meeting at which witnesses said the handicapped cannot hope to live independently and be self-supporting without an adequate transportation system.

Russell Bowden, director of a year-old Lubbock program for training and placing the handicapped in jobs, said most of those who were placed but left their jobs after a short time of employment, did so largely because of a lack of transportation.

Projects for Industry, working through Goodwill Industries, placed more than 70 persons in the first year, Bowden said. Of those, 13 did not work more than two months.

Lubbock has a "general lack of transportation for the handicapped," he said.

Although he praised Lubbock's bus system for providing some handicapped transportation "with the funding available," he said many of the jobs his agency secures for handicapped persons are not located on bus routes.

Clyde Shannon, transportation planner for the city's Transit Department, said the bus system is charged by the federal government "with addressing needs we don't know about."

Shannon said the government requires the Transit Department to provide services for the handicapped, but said there is no way of knowing how many people there are to be served or where they are.

Government requirements that wheelchair lifts be added to federally financed buses do little good, Shannon said, because handicapped persons seem reluctant to use buses in the regular bus system.

The vehicles owned by various state agencies often sit idle during the day, Shannon said, because of a lack of cooperation. He urged the committee to push for incentives to coordination of resources of various state agencies so a more adequate transportation system can be provided.

Lubbock did have a "very productive" program called Citizens for Improved Transportation, which began with one vehicle and ultimately had seven vans running, Shannon said.

However, the agencies which promised funding for the transportation program did not produce the funds, and CFTT went out of business this year.

Instead of the seven vehicles, now the handicapped must rely on one city bus equipped with a wheelchair lift.

Carolyn Lanier, city human relations officer, said the "availability of improved transportation for the handicapped is in direct proportion to the city's ability to pay for the costly door-to-door service."

Assistance is provided in purchasing the expensive vehicles, she said, but no funding is available to defray the operating costs of the service.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Some time ago you printed a letter from a reader whose wife had OD'd on pills. He was furious because the doctor who was treating her knew she was unstable and had bouts with melancholia.

Now I read that Elvis Presley, the day before he died, received 600 tablets and 20 cubic centimeters of liquid uppers, downers and pain killers. The cause of death was officially attributed to a heart attack.

I agree, however, that something must be done to impress on physicians the dangers involved when they fill out prescriptions that make it possible for a patient to have in his possession a large number of pills. Perhaps reading your letter will remind them to be more careful. I hope so.

Dear Ann Landers: I need an answer to this so my family can see it. It has been the cause of several emotional upsets lately.

If a woman is completely deaf in one ear, would it make her voice louder? My husband and children insist that I am yelling all the time when it seems to me that I am speaking in a normal tone of voice. What can you tell us about this? — Oil City, Pa.

Dear Oil: Because you have only 50 percent hearing, you are probably speaking more loudly than you realize. This is not uncommon among the hard-of-hearing. Try to modulate your voice, dear. (And they could go a little easier on the criticism, too.)

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (15 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

In wrapping up the garbage the other day, my eyes caught a story about executives who were complaining about the five most time-consuming events in their day.

They included (a) telephone conversations, which wore them down; (b) mail, especially on Mondays; (c) meetings, which were often ego trips for the people who called them; (d) business lunches, in which the conversations were often indigestible; and (e) commuting, which is nothing to do.

Do you know what that sounds like to a woman who stays at home? A free pass to Disneyland.

The home front has an entirely different set of time-wasters which I have listed below in no particular order.

Looking for my reading glasses. I spend an average of four hours a day trying to find my glasses so I can read labels, manuals, instructions, and recipes on how to save time.

Having a meaningful conversation with my husband. When the history of waste is written, having a conversation with a man who is comatose will go down as the most futile exercise of all time. Little teasers like, "What do you want for dinner?" "Why would Sgt. Miller, 13th precinct, be calling you?" "Dr. Foxfire wants to talk with you about your tests." "It only cost $450, but I figured you only live once." all fall on deaf ears.

Cleaning the bathroom. I am convinced nothing will ever come of this. Within minutes, yea, seconds, the tiles will bead up with moisture, hair will sprout in the drain and begin to grow, towels will fall to the floor, soap will turn to liquid, empty shampoo bottles will multiply, faucets will drip and toilets will run.

Packing school lunches. It's something to do while the kids are going through the dirty clothes hamper looking for their favorite underwear or writing a 500-word essay on "The Analysis of Inert Gases in the Earth in Relation to the Solar System," which was assigned the first day of school and is due today.

In an informal survey, only two percent of the lunches are ever eaten. A total of 18 percent are left on the school bus, 53 percent are left by the sink, 27 percent are traded for gum, rubber snakes, pens, junk food or a large rubber band that when tied around your wrist turns your hand purple.

The other night I asked my husband, "How was your day?" He talked for 45 minutes and then asked, "What did you do all day?"

Thank goodness, we didn't waste time listening to one another's answer.

Weddings

PERSER—JONES

SHALLOWATER (Special) — Diana Elizabeth Perser and Randy Jones were married Friday in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony in First Baptist Church.

Victi Perser of Lubbock and M.R. Jones were honor attendants.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Elizabeth Perser of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. M.R. Jones of Slaton. The bride is also a daughter of C.W. Perser.

The bride was graduated from Shallowater High School and South Plains College. She attends Texas Tech University. The bridegroom was graduated from Slaton High School.

The couple will live in Lubbock following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M.

Malpractice charges are being brought against the doctor. But what good will that do now that Elvis is dead?

The Shelby County medical examiner still insists that Elvis' death was not drug-related. Does this make any sense to you? Please reply — and while you are at it, will you please tell your readers how this sort of thing can be prevented in the future? How do we protect sick, depressed people who are on medication from taking too many of those blasted drugs? — Heartsick In Tennessee

Dear Tennessee: I do not wish to comment on a legal case that is still in litigation, but the subject is of grave importance and your letter gives me an opportunity to publicize some valuable information.

The quantity of medication you described in your letter is mind-boggling. It could kill several people if taken all at once. Moreover, depressed personalities on medication are extremely difficult to monitor because often they plan their suicides carefully, secretly stashing a few pills from every batch. Over a period of time, a lethal dose can be accumulated. Patients can also obtain duplicate prescriptions from several doctors at different pharmacies.

Engagements

BUTTS—CARMAN

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Butts announce the engagement of a daughter, Jimmie Nell, to Jack Wayne Carman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wayne Carman.

The bride-elect was graduated from Coronado High School and attended South Plains College. The future bridegroom was graduated from Monterey High School and attended SPC.

The couple plans to be married Nov. 10 in Elgin Ave. Baptist Church.

WATSON—COOPER

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Watson Jr. announce the engagement of a daughter, Kristie, to Ricky Wayne Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Cooper of Canyon.

The bride-elect was graduated from Coronado High School and attended Texas Tech University. The future bridegroom was graduated from Canyon High School and attended New Mexico State University.

The couple plans to be married Nov. 17 in First Foursquare Church.

MISCELLANY

The Lubbock Mothers Club of Alpha Phi sorority will host a coffee honoring pledges and their parents from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Saturday in the Alpha Phi lodge, No. 1 Greek Circle.

The First Unitarian Universalist Church, 2104 36th St., is holding a quilt exhibit through Oct. 28. All quilts are for sale and on loan from the Quilt Shop of Lubbock.

The quilts may be viewed from 10 a.m. — 3 p.m. Monday-Friday and 10 a.m. — 1 p.m. Sundays.

The quilts include a 25-year-old quilt consisting of more than 9,000 pieces, containing 576 stars — displayed on the front wall of the sanctuary.

On the south wall is a traditional quilt, with a potted plant on pink background design, that is 45-50 years old.

A butterfly-patterned quilt is displayed on the north wall. It is a contemporary, polyester-filled quilt with stitches not so closely sewn.

Clip 'n' Cook

SAUCY BISCUIT BUNS

1/2 cup chili sauce
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbsp. margarine or butter, melted
1/4 cup shredded cheddar cheese
11-oz. can refrigerated buttermilk or baking powder biscuits
Heat oven to 400 degrees. Combine chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce and margarine. Spoon about 1 teaspoon chili sauce mixture into each of 10 muffin cups. Sprinkle about 1 teaspoon cheese into each cup. Separate dough into 10 biscuits; place 1 biscuit in each muffin cup. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven; invert immediately onto serving plate or cooling rack. Serve warm. 10 biscuit buns.

The West Texas chapter No. 191 of the Council for Exceptional Children will host a luncheon at noon Oct. 26 in the First Methodist Church Fellowship Hall. Guest Speaker will be Dr. Arthur Phillips, TCEC president.

The cost of the luncheon is $6 per person to be paid by Friday. Tickets may be bought through the DEBT office, 1628 19th St.

Interested persons are invited to attend and need not be a member of CEC. There will be in-service opportunities following the luncheon.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL G. DONOHUE

Dear Dr. Donohue: Recently I was a patient in a hospital and was diagnosed as having "biliary dyskinesia."

My doctor was vague in explaining what I had. Hopefully, you will in the near future explain in a little detail what it is and what could be done. I was given lots of tests and x-rays. — K.H.K.

Anatomy time: subject, gall bladder. When fat-containing foods enter the duodenum (part of the intestines into which the stomach empties) the gall bladder is stimulated to squeeze its stored bile into the intestine (via a duct) so that the fat can be properly digested.

"Biliary" means "bile." "Dyskinesia" means there is something wrong with the way the gall bladder (in this case) contracts. The bile is not pushed out in a smooth flow, but in spasms. In fact, biliary dyskinesia can be looked on as a counterpart to spastic colon. Only the spasms are in the gall bladder, not the colon.

This condition doesn't show up on x-rays. The chief symptom is pain after eating. Treatment generally consists in avoiding the foods (fried and fatty kinds) that stimulate the gall bladder more than others. Having told you all this, I'd be remiss if I didn't add that many doctors doubt the existence of biliary dyskinesia as a distinct medical problem.

and would be grateful for your advice. — Mrs. E.M.

This is a rare and unfortunate consequence of insulin injection. The sunken areas result from a loss of fatty tissue below the skin where the insulin is injected. It is called "lipodystrophy." You should inject at other sites until the areas have a chance to heal. This may take up to 12 months. Aside from the unsightliness the problem is not serious.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please tell me what a Baker's cyst is? My son-in-law has one on the inside of his knee. Doctors have tapped it twice but it fills up with fluid again. Is there anything to do about it? Can it be cured? — A.P.

A Baker's cyst (named for a doctor) is, simply speaking, a form of bursitis — inflammation of a bursa. Bursae (plural) are fluid-filled sacs that lie below muscle tendons where the tendons insert into the bone. The sacs help reduce friction and act as shock absorbers.

Baker's cyst is inflammation of the sac that lies under the tendon of the calf muscle, directly under the knee. This may cause an aching pain in the back of the knee.

If draining has not been effective, and if your son-in-law's pain continues, surgery may be needed to remove the cyst, wall and all. This is an effective cure.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I read your items in the paper and find them most clear and helpful. Now, how about helping us old codgers out with a problem that may not be what you'd call "medical." When we get up there in age we tend to forget, and that goes for our medicines, too. I don't mean forgetting the medicine but getting confused about taking three or four pills three or four times a day at different times of day and night. Millions of us older pill-takers would call you blessed if you could give us some way to remember. — Mrs. J.F.

I have the answer for you. There are little plastic holders with seven compartments in them. Each compartment is marked for a day of the week. You count out a week's supply of medicine. Fill each compartment. Then it is easy to keep track of whether you have taken your pills for a particular day. Ask your druggist about the holders.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it true that infertility is becoming more common than it used to be? And why is that so, if it is? — M.S.

It might be so, although I have not read any statistics on this recently. If it were so, one factor might be the tendency for married couples to delay having families until later in their marriage. There is a slight rise in infertility that occurs with age.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I read about a lady who wanted to go on a camping trip and didn't want to be bothered with menstruation. One answer was birth control pills, but I don't want to take them so what are the ways to get around this? I feel the same way that lady did. — Y.T.

There is no good way to regulate menstrual periods except by the use of the birth control pills. Many women are able to perform most activities during their periods. Perhaps tampons instead of regular menstrual pads would help.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is there a do-it-yourself test for pregnancy? My husband and I want a baby, and it seems ridiculous to keep running to the doctor every time we have sex. — Mrs. L.B.

Don't waste your time checking for pregnancy so soon after intercourse. Most pregnancy tests do not become positive until one to two weeks after a missed period. Yes, I see do-it-yourself kits available in drug stores.

Dear Dr. Donohue: A friend of mine smokes cigarettes and eats the ashes. She says she likes the taste of the ashes. She looks and says she feels fine. Is this harmful? — S.K.

I can't find anything on record stating that this is medically harmful. But neither can I find anything that says it helps. People with strange quirks of appetite sometimes develop a nutritional deficiency, so she might do well to be examined. If one did what she does in public, would that be called making an ash of oneself?

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Would you or any of your readers have any suggestions on how to get rid of a snake in the basement? It's only a garter snake, but I'm still terrified, so I would appreciate any and all replies. — Mrs. E. Tracey

P.S. I hope you will get this in the paper as soon as possible!

I've gotten a lot of requests, but this about tops it. You do sound desperate, so I'll hurry as fast as I can. The simplest way would be to beg or borrow someone's cat. They're crafty hunters and would delight in such a tasty morsel. Just put the cat down in the basement for a couple of days and he'll get it.

But garter snakes are perfectly harmless (if you're sure it's a garter snake). They're also very useful to the environment. Eventually, he should find the way he got in and retrace his "steps."

Let's hope so anyway. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: To all the grandmothers in this world: we love our grandmother's brag book and wouldn't trade ours for all the tea in China.

But I came upon another good idea.

When our grandchildren can talk well enough for us to understand, buy a tape recorder.

You will have the time of your life along with the years of photographs. Try to record them as often as possible, remembering to record the date and age. — Mrs. Ceola Burch

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE: To avoid the smoky odor that lingers after you snuff out a candle, extinguish the flame by gently pouring a bit of water around the wick at the base of the candle flame — using a spoon.

After the candle is out, pour the water off so the wick can dry out again. — Your Friendly Physics Fessor

DEAR HELOISE: It seemed like every time I went into the bathroom, the area rug was all mussed up.

So I cut a piece of cloth the same size as the rug itself and sewed it on under of the rug, pillowslip fashion, leaving an opening at one end.

Now just let 'em try and rumple it up! — Smartie

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE: When people used to say, "Don't cry over spilled milk," it didn't cost $1.87 a gallon! — Janet Pfeiffer

Amen to that! — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I don't know who else to complain to about this: For years now I've been wondering when will someone make a pepper can that pours from the side. The opening in the middle of the can makes it very difficult to fill the pepper shaker.

This may be a little thing, but it bugs me. Thanks! — Lola P

We'll pass your legitimate complaint along and perhaps the powers that be will consider the problem and come up with an answer. Let's hope so! — Heloise

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been injecting insulin daily for about 15 months and my problem is sunken areas where I use the needle. I was advised that this tissue is now dead and not to inject in those areas. However, I recently read where one should inject insulin into the sunken areas to revive them. Needless to say, I am heartsick about this condition

DEADLINES

Any information for a daily edition must be in our office two days in advance of publication.

Sunday edition deadlines are 5 p.m. the preceding Tuesday for articles with pictures and noon the preceding Wednesday for articles only. Only Friday and Saturday weddings will appear on Sunday; wedding announcements must run within five days of the event.

Engagement announcements must be submitted at least five weeks prior to the wedding date.

North-South arrived at an excellent small spade slam contract. North's four-club bid was a cue bid showing the club ace with a maximum hand and a good fit in spades.

Four notrump was Blackwood, and then South confidently bid the slam.

Many declarers would fail in six spades because both finesses are offside. The late Howard Schenken was declarer, however, and he showed why he was one of the world's greatest bridge players.

Schenken won the opening diamond lead in dummy, then cashed the king of spades and the remaining diamond honor, discarding a low heart.

Schenken continued with a low spade to the 10 in his hand and led the club queen for a finesse. It failed.

East was on lead and caught in a three-suit end play. If he led back a club, Schenken would let it ride around to dummy's nine, come to his hand with the jack and get to discard a heart on the ace of clubs.

If he led back a heart, that would take the heart finesse for Schenken. And if he led a diamond, Schenken would simply discard a heart and ruff in dummy.

Simple play but typical of how a real expert operates. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

ABC Wins Rating Race For Week With Help Of World Series

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC got a big boost from baseball's World Series, and on the networks' ratings race for the week ending Oct. 14, despite another strong performance from NBC, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show. NBC, in fact, listed four shows among the week's Top 10, including its revival Sunday night of "The Miracle Worker," with Patty Duke Astin and Melissa Gilbert. The dramatic biography of Helen Keller was No. 4 in the ratings, behind the second game in the series between Baltimore and Pittsburgh. CBS' "M-A-S-H," and the series' first game.

NBC's "CHiPs" was sixth for the week, with "Little House on the Prairie" seventh and a movie, "When Hell Was in Session," 10th.

Few people gave NBC much of a chance of escaping the ratings cellar, yet last season's No. 3 network has won the competition two of the season's first four weeks.

ABC, regarded by most in the business as a shoo-in for No. 1 in the ratings, has been struggling. Last season's runaway winner listed only three shows in the first 10 for the week, all series games.

NBC's rating for the week was 21, with NBC second at 18.8 and CBS third — for the fourth week in a row — at 17.9.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 21 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to ABC.

The rating for the week's most-watched program, the second game of the World Series, Thursday night, was 28.8. Nielsen says that means off all the homes in the country with television, 28.8 percent saw at least a part off the sports special.

NBC's challenge to ABC in the week of Oct. 8-14 was damaged by poor ratings for two shows from the network's news department — "Prime Time Sunday" in 53rd place and "Henry Kissinger: An Interview with David Frost," in 57th — last place.

The Kissinger program apparently OFFICERS FREED KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Eighteen high-ranking military officers jailed four years ago for plotting against the government — including seven previously sentenced to death — have been freed from jail.

Book Claims Elvis Presley Was Drug Addict

NEW YORK (A) — Elvis Presley, his veins pumped full of drugs, died hours after he asked God to "help me get back when I feel down like this," according to a book by his stepmother and three stepbrothers.

Excerpts from the book — "Elvis: We Love You Tender," by Dee Presley, David Stanley, Billy Stanley and Rick Stanley — were published in the November issue of Ladies' Home Journal.

All three brothers were part of the late singer's entourage. Rick Stanley, eldest of the trio, said that he not only saw Presley take amphetamines, but also injected Elvis with them. He said Presley was "addicted, for sure."

"I've never seen anybody who could take it like that," said Stanley, who admitted that he had been addicted himself. "You just don't do dope like he did and live through it."

Stanley said he refilled a prescription for Dilaudid capsules for Presley on the day of his death, and returned to hear Presley pray, "Lord help me to have insight, and forgive me my sins. Dear God, please help me to get back when I feel down like this, and to always strive for good in the world. In the name of Jesus Christ. Amen."

Stanley then said Presley said he should not be disturbed until 4 p.m., because he needed "plenty of rest for the tour." He was found unconscious on the bathroom floor of his home at 2:30 p.m., and was pronounced dead an hour later.

David Stanley said he had found Presley unconscious on the bathroom floor often before, and speculated that he had suffered an overdose of drugs he took that morning.

The excerpt alleges that Presley first picked up his drug habit while serving in the army in 1959, and told Rick Stanley that he brought home "two trunks full of Dexamedrine."

According to the excerpt, Dr. George Nichopoulos, who has since been civilly charged with indiscriminate prescription writing, often went into Presley's medicine cabinet and replaced drugs with vitamins. But Presley always was able to get drugs from other sources.

But the writers say that Presley always thought his drugs were legitimate.

The book also claims Presley: —Three times went to the hospital to "dry out" from drug use. The public was told that the hospital visits were due to exhaustion or other illnesses.

—Once had an affair with Billy Stanley's 18-year-old wife Ann, which "shocked Billy's family."

—Always went on stage armed with a derringer to protect himself.

Oregon Among Many States After Movie Money

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Ready! Roll 'em! Rain? Oregon's soggy climate often tips the scales when movie producers are weighing the advantages and disadvantages of filming amid the state's splendid scenic riches.

It is Warren Merrill's tough task to persuade producers that choosing movie locations here is worth their money — despite an average annual rainfall as great as 66 inches along the coast.

The silver-haired Merrill is the state's "motion picture specialist." He's held the job for 11 years and has done well enough to bring $41 million of movie business to Oregon.

"We try to get film companies outside the state into the state so they will spend their money, hire our people, won't foul up the environment and they will go away," says Merrill.

Oregon's rain has sent some movie companies packing, Merrill says, although "other states have had weather, too." Part of the recent multi-part television movie "Centennial" was scheduled for shooting in Oregon, but work was moved to Colorado because the producers were worried about rain.

"They went to Colorado and got snowed out," Merrill says. The rain was supposed to be an asset, when "Sometimes a Great Notion" was filmed along the Oregon coast.

But the summer was abnormally dry and the film crew had to make rain. When it came time to shoot a sunny picnic scene, "it rained like hell."

Merrill's first project was the 1968 filming of "Paint Your Wagon" during which the film company spent $7 million in Oregon. Since then, 30 feature films, 42 television shows and 103 commercials have been shot in Oregon.

The first movie ever filmed in Oregon was Buster Keaton's "The General" in 1926. More recent movies include "Animal House," "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and "Emperor of the North."

A movie called "How to Beat the High Cost of Living" is being filmed in Eugene this month with Susan St. James and Jane Curtin. Merrill says the company will spend more than $2.5 million in Eugene.

Among the benefits a movie location community enjoys is income from lodging, food, equipment rentals, service industries like laundry and the hiring of local residents as extras or as carpenters and technicians.

"One town said, 'We're a nice little town and we're not interested in movies,' so we went to another town and they made $1 million off the film," says Merrill.

When Merrill started out, Oregon was one of just five states actively seeking movie makers. Merrill says 41 states now have official movie promotion staffs, and "the competition is getting pretty stiff."

The field of contenders includes Mexico and Canada, which Merrill says can offer financial inducements to Hollywood that Oregon can't come close to matching. And however spectacular, the state's scenic attractions don't outweigh practical considerations.

"You don't sell Oregon on its beauty," says Merrill. "You just put together a location package that is better than the competition."

Merrill's budget for the 1979-1980 biennium is $156,000. His salary is $25,428 a year.

He believes Oregon gets good value for its movie promotion dollar. In 1977 a state outlay of $44,000 attracted $4.18 million from film companies. In 1978, the state spent $145 a day and took in $7,814 a day.

Merrill estimates the state wins one out of 50 productions it goes after. Oregon's income tax is one drawback cited by companies. Taxes are levied on any money earned in the state, even if it's earned by a non-resident.

For example, a stuntman who comes to Oregon and earns $2,000 for two days of work has that money taxed by the state as Oregon income. He would pay 6 percent or around $120 if married and filing a joint return, or 7 percent, $140, if single.

"We try to sell the state regardless of the tax hindrance and we've been pretty successful," Merrill says.

Tentative Agreement To End Strike Reached

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — A tentative agreement has been reached that could end a five-week strike by 2,200 employees of Hughes Airwest.

Robert Brown, a spokesman for the National Mediation Board, said details would not be released until union members vote on the settlement.

Members of the Airline Employees Association struck the San Mateo, Calif.

based company Sept. 10. Union and company officials met here for a week with federal mediators to try to settle the strike. The airline, part of the estate of the late financier Howard Hughes, serves 12 states and 45 cities, mostly west of the Rockies.

NEW QUEEN AND PRINCESS — Melissa Cox, senior at Shallowater High School, was chosen queen of the Shallowater Lions Club at the organization's annual Harvest Festival. April Miles, first grade student, was winner of the princess contest. Melissa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cox of Shallowater, and April is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Miles, also of Shallowater. The new queen and princess will represent the organization until October, 1980.

Senate Agrees To Spend $1.2 Billion For Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate reversed itself Tuesday and agreed by voice vote to spend $1.2 billion to help poor and elderly persons pay skyrocketing heating bills this winter.

ment appropriations bill, the Senate reversed a 47-43 rejection of an almost identical proposal Monday night.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said he would testify in support of similar legislation before a House Appropriations subcommittee Thursday. "Home fuel bills are the most disturbing problem I have found in my area," he told reporters.

The proposal defeated Monday night carried $1.35 billion, compared with the $1.2 billion in the bill approved Tuesday.

HEARTLINE: Recent changes in the Food Stamp program caused me to lose most of my food stamps. I have heard that because these changes have hurt so many people, they have now made some even newer changes.

I am almost afraid to ask. The way our government has been looking out for our old folks lately, they may wind up taking the rest of my food stamps away! — O.E.

In an effort to assist elderly persons who experienced food stamp cutbacks as a result of recent changes in the program, the House and Senate recently approved H.R. 4057, the Food Stamp Act Amendments of 1979.

HR-4057, which was signed into law by the president on Aug. 14, will allow households with an elderly or disabled member to deduct their medical expenses in excess of $35.00 per month and shelter expenses in excess of 50 percent of the person's income when determining eligibility for food stamps.

HEARTLINE: Will you please tell me if I would be eligible for any Railroad benefits? My father worked for PRR for some 50 years and though he passed away 10 years ago, my financial status is in sad shape. I am a widow and not under Social Security. I am not able, financially, to receive welfare, food stamps, etc., because I am not poor enough.

Also, do you know if WWII physical records are still available? If so, could I get a copy of my husband's records? He was wounded and I would like to see the records. It may help with veteran benefits. — C.L.

No, you would not be eligible for Railroad benefits. These are only paid to dependent children under the age of 18 (or up to age 22 if still in school full-time) or to children who were disabled before their 22nd birthday and were dependent on the parent at the time of his death.

To inquire about veteran's benefits, you should contact your nearest VA Regional office. The Veteran's Administration is very helpful to persons seeking information about benefits and will check all records to see if you are eligible.

CAPTIVE CHILD RELEASED
REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP) — The 8-year-old son of a pharmacist was released after being held captive 2 1/2 months, police said Tuesday. Investigators said they believed a ransom had been paid, though they were uncertain how much. The boy, Fabio Sculli, was freed near a village in the rugged Calabrian mountains north of this port city at the tip of the Italian peninsula. He had been snatched from his father's home July 28 by three men with pistols and a rifle.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Clements Awaiting Buffalo

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Bill Clements said Tuesday that Oklahoma Gov. George Nigh is being a little slow in paying off his bet the two made over the Texas-Oklahoma game.

Nigh bet Clements a buffalo the Sooners would defeat Texas last Saturday in Dallas. Clements wagered a longhorn. Texas defeated Oklahoma 16-7.

But Nigh is having trouble finding a buffalo and has told Clements he'd pay him when he could find one.

Clements, who has promised to barbecue the buffalo for the Texas team to feast on, is not impressed with Nigh's tardiness in paying of the bet.

"I'll help him look for a buffalo," Clements said. "I've got several in mind."

Sorority Pledges Take Calf

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — The sisters of Kappa Delta sorority got a big surprise over the weekend when they found a 200-pound calf munching hay in their living room.

So did Alfred Barr, chairman of the Division of Animal and Veterinary Sciences at West Virginia University here. The calf was taken from the university's dairy farm.

The calf was turned loose in the sorority house by a group of women known as pledges who intend to join the organization. "It's the best pledge prank that's ever been pulled here — it can never be topped," said Gretchen Moats, a sorority member.

But Barr said he was upset because the farm manager had allowed the calf to be taken by a group of women who said it was for a student project.

Russians Visit In Nevada

ELY, Nev. (AP) — There were two Russians in Ely earlier this month, trailed by FBI agents keeping an eye on them, says White Pine County Sheriff Dean Sandrup.

They visited the library and the museum, picked up some brochures at the Chamber of Commerce and appeared in a local restaurant, conversing in Russian and wearing cowboy boots. Levi's and sheepherder jackets topped off with black, wooly Russian-style hats.

Officials say they may have been tourists. The FBI in Las Vegas isn't saying anything, but the bureau's interest apparently stems from Ely's central location in the planned deployment of the MX missile system.

Rev. Coughlin Seriously Ill

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, whose radio sermons reached 30 million listeners in the 1930s, was reported seriously ill Tuesday.

"We fear this is the beginning of the end for Father," said Marilyn Conway, a longtime friend of the fiery radio priest. Coughlin, 87, is bedridden and under 24-hour care at his apartment after a three-week hospital stay last month.

Coughlin's "Golden Hour" radio programs sparked controversy during the depression because he often criticized presidents, labor leaders, church officials and other institutions. Church officials finally forced the program off the air.

He retired in 1966 from the Shrine of the Little Flower parish in Royal Oak, which he founded 53 years ago.

Pair Re-Enact Expedition

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — Bearded, tanned and tired, Chuck Lowe and Dick Mason have made it to the mouth of the Columbia River, winding up a two-year, 3,600-mile re-enactment of the 1805 voyage of Lewis and Clark.

But where Meriwether Lewis and William Clark found vast rivers and bountiful wildlife, Mason and Lowe found water too polluted to drink, rivers encumbered by dams and few deer and antelope.

Lowe, 28, is a former California State Parks Department employee. Both men are from San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Mason, 29, onetime radio announcer and former Portland, Ore., resident, got the idea for the trip when he and Lowe were students at Lewis and Clark College in Portland. "I was looking out over the river one day and I start-

Gadget Mocks Energy Crisis

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The energy crisis is no laughing matter, but Carl Day's WATTNOT gadget will help Americans grin and bear it.

Plug your appliances into the small, black box and nothing happens.

The Dayton disc jockey said it will help Americans laugh their way through the energy crisis.

"In the past, we've observed Americans are more likely to accept an unwanted change in their lifestyle if they can laugh a little along the way," Day said. "Nothing can save energy more effectively than this thing," he boasted.

The WATTNOT costs $10 and comes complete with a guide on how not to use energy.

School Honors Sinatra

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Frank Sinatra has added an honorary degree from a Portland high school to his long list of awards.

Sinatra accepted the Deering High School diploma Monday at the Cumberland County Civic Center, where he performed for 7,593 fans.

Although the crowd at the concert fell about 1,000 short of capacity, Sinatra's show set a Civic Center record for revenue. The concert grossed $113,791, eclipsing the record set by the rock group KISS this summer.

'Hee Haw' Figure Injured

NASHVILLE (AP) — Misty Rowe, squeaky-voiced regular on the television show "Hee Haw," was hospitalized in fair condition Tuesday after an automobile crash.

She was driving to a 7:30 a.m. taping when the crash occurred, said David Ward, a publicist for the program.

A Donelson Hospital spokeswoman, Claire Raines, said Miss Rowe was admitted to the surgical-intensive care unit with chest injuries.

Major Banks Reporting Increases

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks reported increased profits Tuesday, reflecting continued high demand for loans despite record interest rates.

Citicorp, the holding company for New York's Citibank, the nation's second largest, reported profits for the third quarter rose 16.6 percent to $138.9 million, or $1.11 a share, from $119.1 million or 96 cents a share in the same period last year.

Manufacturers Hanover Corp., the parent of the nation's fourth largest bank, reported profits rose 17 percent to $55.7 million, or $1.69 a share, from $47.6 million or $1.46 a share in the same period last year.

Continental Illinois Corp., owner of No. 9 Continental Illinois of Chicago, reported earnings rose 23.6 percent to $5.8 million, or $1.29 a share, from $4.7 million or $1.05 a share in the 1978 period.

Security Pacific Corp., parent of No. 10 Security Pacific National Bank of Los Angeles, reported earnings rose 22 percent to $42 million, or $1.52 a share, up from $34.4 million or $1.34 a year ago. It noted that stockholder equity in the company passed $1 billion during the quarter.

The figures were before securities gains or losses.

"Credit demand from nearly all sectors has continued high despite record interest rate levels," Citicorp commented.

In its announcement, Manufacturers Hanover said the "major factor" in higher earnings was "higher net interest income, produced both domestically and abroad, as well as the impact of higher interest rates."

Rising interest rates and strong loan demand have sharply boosted revenues of major banks, but the banks have also been forced to pay more for the money they lend.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. An article I read several months ago stated that the Internal Revenue Service lacks the manpower to check interest and dividend payments against individual tax returns. This made me indignant, because it encourages tax cheating.

Then, the IRS informed me that I had failed to report $460 of interest income on my 1978 return. I am happy they are checking. But the $460 interest was what I received from a corporate bond I previously owned. I reported that interest each year. I sold that bond in 1977 and reported the sale on my 1977 tax return.

Is such sloppy reporting common? Do interest checks sometimes get sent to former owners?

A. It's hard to tell whether you took your tongue out of your cheek before you sat down to write your letter. You are aware that dividend payments to stockholders and interest payments to owners of registered bonds are reported to the IRS.

Whether or not the IRS has the ability to check every dividend and interest payment against individual tax returns is sometimes questioned. You can be sure, however, that — as it installs more sophisticated computers — the IRS will catch more and more people who fail to report dividend and interest income.

Failure to report taxable income is fraud. The revenuers love to crack down on fraud cases.

We like to think of ourselves as a nation of honest taxpayers. Fear of being caught and prosecuted helps keep a lot of people honest.

Yes, interest checks sometimes go to people after they have sold registered bonds and are no longer entitled to the interest. If that happens to you, you're supposed to send the stock to the broker who handled the sale — so that the broker can send it to the person who bought the bond you sold.

Things such as this do happen frequently. You can get off the hook with the IRS, simply by sending back a note explaining what happened.

Q. I have been informed that two bills have been introduced in Congress concerning Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds. One would exclude the interest received when E bonds are redeemed from the gross income of individuals 65 or older — one of which I am. The other would protect the interest received from E bond interest against inflation.

Don't you think that many of your senior citizen readers would support and lobby for these proposed laws?

A. Many probably would. But I would caution them and you against getting hopes high. Those ideas — and a fair number of others concerning senior citizens and U.S. Savings Bonds — have been around for some time. They make "great copy" for the folks back home. But it's a long road from the introduction of a bill in Congress to the time — if ever — it becomes law.

Remember that Congress has taken no action to overrule the U.S. Treasury Department's decision to stop paying interest on older E bonds. As a result, the earliest E bonds will stop accruing interest 40 years after their issue dates.

That's really going to hurt senior citizens and many people approaching retirement.

Q. I am a widow in my late 70s. I have almost 5,000 shares of a mutual fund which my nephew thinks I should redeem and put in six-month savings certificates. What is your opinion?

A. You don't need my opinion. You're getting good advice from your nephew. That mutual fund has a dividend yield of 4.6 percent. You can get better than 10 percent in six-month savings certificates — making the certificates far better suited for a person in your position.

Follow your nephew's advice. Doyle welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Rivera Jackrabbit Giant

TWO-TIMING A HOG — Texas Tech defenders Gabriel Rivera (69) and Jamie Giles (52) give Arkansas quarterback Kevin Scanlon (14) the twice-over during last Saturday's SWC game against the Razorbacks in Jones Stadium. Though the Red Raiders lost 20-6, Rivera made 13 tackles while Giles made 7. For his efforts Rivera has been named the Avalanche-Journal's Defensive Player of the Week. People who watch him scurry around the football field stare with awe and amazement. They want to know how he does it. They want to know how a man who weighs 300 pounds is quick enough to chase down the fleetest of college quarterbacks.

But Texas Tech freshman noseguard Gabriel Rivera isn't choosy. He doesn't mind chasing down quarterbacks, or fullbacks, or tailbacks or anything — as long as it has the football.

Rivera, a 6-3, 300-pound giant who runs a 4.9 40, first gained notoriety by telling about the time he ate some 15 Big Macs at one sitting, has gained a lot of respect as of late with his ability on the gridiron.

Rivera, who has seen action in all of Tech's games this season, had the biggest game of his short career Saturday against the Arkansas Razorbacks.

The San Antonio Jefferson graduate led the Red Raider defense with 13 tackles against the Hogs, seven of them being solo efforts. For his performance, Rivera has been named the Avalanche-Journal's Defensive Player of the Week.

Rivera and junior defensive tackle Jamie Giles were all over the field for the Raiders against Arkansas. Giles had an excellent game himself, finishing the afternoon with 11 tackles, six of them unassisted.

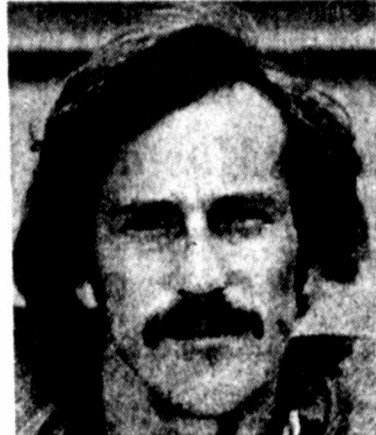

"Both Gabe and Jamie have been improving every week," Red Raider mentor Rex Dockery said. "We've been very pleased with both of them. Being able to get the type of performance from them that we did Saturday just makes our defense that much stronger."

The man who scored all of Tech's six points during the 20-6 loss against the Razorbacks, senior kicker Bill Adams, has been selected this week's Tech Offensive Player of the Week.

Adams, a 5-11, 155-pound from Arlington, is Tech's career field goal leader. His 34 and 30-yarders Saturday give him 35 over his career. Even more impressive is Adams' percentage over the past two seasons. Adams has been successful on 25 of 32 field goals and 31 of 32 extra points in the last 17 contests.

The Red Raiders practiced for two and a half hours Tuesday putting in the offensive and defensive game plans they will use against the Rice Owls Saturday. "We had a very good practice today," Dockery stated. "The practice picked up as we went on. Our players showed good intensity and concentration."

BILL "BLADE" ADAMS
Offensive Player of Week

Red Raider starting quarterback Ron Reeves saw limited action during Tuesday's workout because of a hip pointer he sustained in Saturday's contest. Dockery said Reeves was expected to see more action today and should be ready to go against the Owls Saturday.

Tech's injury situation appears better now than it has at any time since the season opener against Southern California. Senior strong safety Larry Flowers' ankle is stronger than it has been since that time and fullback Wes Hightower, who missed the first six games of the season with a knee injury, is back practicing with the team.

Sanders, Chaparrals Look Forward To '80

By DON HENRY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Jerry Don Sanders said Tuesday he really is looking forward to homecoming... the 1980 one.

This week is Lubbock Christian College's homecoming football game, but Sanders, in looking to the distant future, remarked, "Maybe by that time, we will be playing better."

"We have a couple of seniors, and maybe by next year, we can show Joe Green how much we've improved."

Green is a senior this year, and the wide receiver leads the team in receptions with 16.

Sanders' Chaparrals will go into this week's homecoming contest with a 1-6 record, the last coming at the hands of Sul Ross 49-0 here last Saturday.

That caused part of Sanders' humor about this week's homecoming, a noon date with Panhandle (Okla.) State in Lowrey Field. Not only are the Chaparrals on a losing streak, but Panhandle is the lone team LCC faces this year that gives football scholarships.

"Against Sul Ross, Sanders said his Chaps "didn't play well, we didn't play with intensity, and we didn't play with enthusiasm."

Bluntly, then, "We were not pleased with the performance," added Sanders.

The LCC coach, speaking at his weekly press luncheon, said he hoped to be able to regroup this week. He commended the offensive efforts of his running backs, Marvin Wiley, Ted Thornton, and Pat Worthley, and he pointed to the work of backup quarterbacks Curtis Dean and Paul Elkins as "showing some things right."

Defensively, Neil Sayles was singled out for praise.

Sanders indicated that defensive back Craig Jordan could be sidelined by knee surgery, and another defensive back, Roland Mosley, is out for the remainder of the year (two games) with a broken wrist.

After Saturday's game, the Chaparrals will wind up on the road against Tarleton State.

As a part of Saturday's homecoming activities, LCC will stage a pair of alumni games. This year's basketball team will take on the exes in a game at LCC at 10 a.m., and the baseball contest with the same matchups will be played at 4 p.m.

Tar Heels-N.C. State Scheduled For TV

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — ABC television will broadcast the Atlantic Coast Conference game between 19th-ranked North Carolina and No. 17 North Carolina State on Saturday, it was announced Monday.

NC State athletic officials said the kickoff for the contest has been moved from noon, to 3 p.m., CDT.

athlete of the week. It was third time around for Miss Skaggs, who twice previously had been nominated for the honor.

"Cheryl has been very consistent the past few weeks and has been exceptional in her defensive play," said volleyball coach Larry Rogers.

The Lady Chaps won two matches last week, and Miss Skaggs came up with 18 points, 10 of them in the 15-4, 15-2 win over Northwest Oklahoma State.

Defensive tackle Neil Sayles, volleyball player Linda Russell, and tennis player Steve Joiner were nominated for the weekly honor. Sayles had ten solo tackles and four assists in the Chaparrals' 49-0 loss to Sul Ross.

Joiner won two matches last week, and Miss Russell scored on 20 serves in the two matches with Northwest Oklahoma and Panhandle State last week.

Class AA District Races Look Brutal

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Every year in more than one sport a district will have two or three strong teams. Because only one team can represent a district in post-season competition, more than one above-average team sits at home during post-season play.

Slaton, Seminole and Tahoka of District 5-AA all appear to have the personnel and the experience necessary to go beyond area competition. But first, one of them will have to come out of the district race ahead.

History is against that. How long has it been since somebody won that district outright? A gruelling loop race also may not be very conducive to a long post-season.

Here is a look at the South Plains, district by district.

DISTRICT 3-AA: Littlefield has to be considered the favorite here, but look for Muleshoe to offer some competition.

The Wildcats simply have too much firepower (a 359.0 yards per game offensive average) for anybody else in the district to handle.

While everybody oohs and aahs over the Littlefield passing game though, there's a couple of other departments that will probably prove to be the key.

First of all is the running game. The Wildcats have rushed for over 1,100 yards halfway through the season. Another impressive thing is that they don't have a single super running back. Ask any coach how important depth is.

The other thing to be considered is Littlefield's defense, with the exception of that 0-0 tie with Slaton (the only blemish on an otherwise spotless 4-0-1 record), the Wildcats are giving up less than 200 yards a game on defense. As it is, they're right at 217.

Still, you can't overlook golden-armed Eddie Gregory and the Littlefield passing attack. Gregory has completed 46 of his 84 passes to date for 690 yards. That's a completion percentage of .547 and a per-game average of 138 yards.

Muleshoe has been buoyed by the win over Idalou Friday night, but it remains to be seen whether the Mule defense can stand up to the Littlefield defense. The teams meet Oct. 26 in a match that should answer a lot of questions about the 3-AA race.

DISTRICT 4-AA: At the beginning of the season, one coach said he thought there were four teams which could win this five-team district, but he didn't know if any of them had the stuff it would take to advance past bi-district.

Well so far, it looks like he's been right. The only thing is the four contenders aren't the ones everybody thought they'd be.

Lockney has come on strong, posting a 4-1-1 record despite losing one of its starting quarterbacks for the season. Conversely, Tulia has slipped badly, standing at 2-4 on the year with four shutouts against them.

Idalou has to be considered the favorite. The Wildcats are the defending district champs and have lost only one game all year.

Surprisingly, Idalou's strength has been its offense. After losing two great running backs to graduation last year, most felt it would be up to the Idalou defense to lead the way.

Not so. Backs Ruben Reyes and Alan Emery are filling in well for those departed. So well, in fact, that the Wildcats are second on the South Plains in total offense, with a 360.5 average. 1,630 of that has come on the ground.

Quarterback Brad DeBusk has accounted for most of the other 533. He has connected on 33 of his 85 passes so far this year to add some variety to the Wildcat attack.

Not that the Idalou defense has been bad. The Wildcats are allowing just over 204.1 per game.

That defense will be badly needed to stop the other two contenders, Floydada and Abernathy. Floydada's offense is based around power, the power of running back Mac Collins, a 114.6-per game rusher.

Abernathy's offense is based on balance. Quarterback Tony Heath provides good connections through the air (he has hit 26 of 57 for a 69.5 average) while speedy back Sylvester Dunn runs the middle using his great acceleration.

DISTRICT 5-AA

We're cheating a little bit here, since two district games have already been played, but Seminole has to be the favorite, simply because of the way it fared against its pre-district schedule.

The Indians beat Class AAA Monahans and Brownfield and lost by only 29-21 to powerful Class AAA Andrews, reportedly one of the best teams in the area in that division.

Now they've added district wins over

Roosevelt and Denver City to that.

Seminole's team is based on a balance between offense and defense. The offense, led by running back Ricky Greene (125.6 yards a game) is averaging 292.4. The defense is allowing only 177.2.

Tahoka's team is also based on a balance between offense and defense. Only thing is, their stats are better. The Bulldogs lead the South Plains in both team categories with 380.2 yards a game on offense and 143.0 on defense.

Tracy White is the team's leading ground gainer with 162.4 yards a game.

but another running back, Clifford Oages, is also running well with a 111.6 average.

Finally, there's Slaton. And the strongest thing going for the Tigers is history. Somehow, like the hero in a serial, they always escape at the end, even if it takes a coin flip.

Other than that, Slaton has an offense that is averaging 288.4 yards a game. Back Lance Bowns is hitting right at 123 by himself. The Tiger defense is also rock-steady with a 177.6 yard per game average.

Landry Says Dutton Needs Another Week

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday it will probably be at least another week before defensive end John Dutton suits out for the National Football League team.

The Cowboys gave Baltimore No. 1 and No. 2 draft choices last week for holdout Dutton, who was then signed to a multi-year pact.

"John has been working hard, lifting and running but he still needs work," said Landry. "He has a good attitude but we aren't expecting any miracles from him."

Landry said, "We have until next Monday before we have to move a player off the roster. I think John probably wouldn't be ready for St. Louis this Sunday."

Landry said Dutton "has to prove he is better than somebody we already have in there. We'll give him spot work over a period of three games or so. In this business, you don't want to step on the field unless you are prepared."

Asked if the presence of Dutton along the sidelines in Sunday's 30-6 victory over Los Angeles had helped the Cowboys' performance on the defensive left side, Landry smiled, "I would say it would stimulate you. He just looks good standing around."

Landry added, "We picked our first (round) choice for next May right now."

The 28-year-old Dutton has made All-Pro and has three times been to the Pro-Bowl.

Pressed on possible future trades to get a No. 1 draft pick for next May, Landry said, tongue-in-cheek, it wasn't likely "unless we have some brilliant manipulation by our front office."

On other topics, Landry hinted that he had spoken to quarterback Roger Staubach about running five times against Los Angeles.

"You hold your breath every time he runs," said Landry. "I don't think you will see that anymore."

Landry said because Staubach "is at the top of his game" the Cowboys offense has "as much potential" as any in 20 years.

Players Satisfied With Trade

DALLAS (UPI) — John Dutton spent his first game as a Dallas Cowboy strolling around the sidelines soaking up the atmosphere.

There is still no strong indication as to when the 6-foot-7 defensive end will become a fixture on the field of play, but when that time comes, middle linebacker Bob Breunig feels the transition will be a smooth one.

The Cowboys' defensive unit played its best game of the season last Sunday in closing down the Los Angeles Rams, 30-6.

And Breunig admitted that when Dutton was obtained from the Baltimore Colts last week there was some mixed reaction among the defensive players.

"We felt the defense was progressing and when they got Dutton we wondered if the coaches didn't think we were progressing as much as we thought we were," said Breunig.

"But after thinking about it I think we realize that anytime you have a chance to get a player the caliber of John Dutton, you do it. He has a lot of good years in him and he is going to be an excellent addition to our team."

"I don't think there will be any problem among the other players because we made the trade."

Dallas dealt away its first two picks in the 1980 draft to obtain Dutton from the Colts. Dutton had refused to play with the Colts this year and is currently learning the Cowboys system and working himself back into playing shape.

Dutton's chief project at the moment is learning the Cowboys' complicated "flex" defense.

"We always talk about how hard the flex defense is for a rookie coming into the Cowboys," said Breunig. "It will be interesting to see how a talented veteran player such as Dutton picks it up."

"But you always talk about different types of defenses. I think it is more what kind of players you have in those defenses that matters. You look at Dutton and you can see what kind of player he is."

Bear Specializes In Blocks

MAX MCGEARY

DALLAS (AP) — George Allen would have loved Baylor's Max McGeary. Allen spent more time with the specialty teams than he did the offense when he coached the Washington Redskins of the National Football League.

Allen, who loved to trade, would have saved a first-round draft choice to get McGeary.

McGeary is 180, slow to be a starter at Baylor. But he has lettered two years blocking kicks, punts, field goals, extra points. You name it and McGeary has blocked it.

The joke at Baylor is that McGeary will find a way someday to block a kickoff.

McGeary blocked two field goals in the fourth quarter Saturday, lifting the Bears to a 24-21 victory over Southern Methodist. It earned him the game ball and The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week award.

Three weeks ago he blocked a punt the Bears cashed for a touchdown in a victory over Texas Tech.

He has now blocked 11 kicks — five punts, three field goals and three extra points.

It's no accident. "I take home game films to study the snappers, holders and kickers on the other teams," says McGeary, a junior from Denver City who is second string left and right defensive end. "During warmups I go out and watch the kickers and time them. Sometimes it pays off."

McGeary noticed that the SMU center took a long time to get the ball to the holder. He lined up over the center and blew past him.

"I'm pretty slow and I don't have as much athletic ability as most people," says McGeary. "I feel like I can really contribute to the team on the specialty units."

SAYS RICE'S ALBORN

TCU Did Not Score TD

HOUSTON (AP) — The jubilation response changed from the Rice Owls to the Texas Christian Horned Frogs in a split second Saturday when an official ruled that TCU quarterback Steve Stamp scored on a one-yard plunge shortly before halftime.

Rice, trailing 3-0, threw up a goaline stand and held TCU three straight downs and apparently stopped Stamp short on fourth down. Rice players leaped joyfully as the play ended, thinking they had stopped the Frogs.

"It would have given us a tremendous lift going in at halftime trailing 3-0 and having stopped them like that," Rice Coach Ray Alborn lamented.

Instead, one official, after appearing to spot the ball short of the goal, suddenly raised his arms signaling a touchdown. Alborn dashed his headset to the ground as TCU started celebrating.

A review of the film Tuesday appeared to show Stamp hitting just short of the goaline and then bouncing into the end zone.

An official on the other side of the field, ran toward the play appearing also to spot the ball. He also signaled a touchdown after the first official's call.

"We're calling it the alleged touchdown around here," Alborn said.

TCU went on to win the Southwest Conference game 17-7, the Frogs' first league victory in two years.

"I don't know if it would have made any difference in the outcome or not," Alborn said. "But there's no question it would have given us something to build on in the second half."

The loss left the Owls 1-5 for the season and 0-2 in SWC games.

"I didn't feel it was a touchdown then and I still don't today," Alborn said.

Alborn said he did not intend to call the SWC league office to complain about the call.

"Officiating didn't lose the game for us," Alborn said. "Let's give TCU some credit. They came in here with a good game plan and they kicked us good."

"If I called, they'd just think I was crying because we lost. I haven't cried since I took this job and I don't need their tears or sympathy now. I'm just frustrated and upset because of the young men we had suited up."

For Edmondson, it again was just the matter of being a point or two away from the most important triumph of his career.

"I blew it again," he said dejectedly after the match.

In other opening-round action, John Newcombe of Australia posted a 6-3, 6-1 victory over countryman Ross Case; Kim Warwick defeated John James 6-1, 6-3 in an all-Australian match; American Tom Gorman beat Chris Kachel of Australia 7-5, 3-6, 6-3; Allan Stone of Australia ousted countryman Harlie Fancutt 6-3, 6-1; Terry Rocavert of Australia eliminated Australian Alvin Gardiner 6-4, 6-2; Phil Dent of Australia topped countryman Paul Kronk 6-2, 3-6, 6-3; and Geoff Masters of Australia downed Brad Drewett of Australia 3-3, 3-6, 6-1.

"When I saw him drop the pitch, I said, 'There it is, that's the game, we win,'" recalled Robinson. "Then he picked it up and ran around the other side."

Stanford quarterback Turk Schonert, who already had thrown a pair of touchdowns, sprinted 10 yards for the tying score shortly after Dotterer's run.

"Whatever I can say about the game, you have to give Stanford credit," said Robinson. "Their offense was outstanding in the second half."

The USC coach received some criticism for the Trojan defense's failure to put pressure on the passer. Robinson said he deserved criticism, but for failure to coach well, not for strategy.

"Even my wife was probably in the stands screaming, 'Blitz, blitz,'" he remarked. "We blitzed once, I think, and they threw a touchdown pass."

"But one place we failed miserably as coaches was against their shotgun. We intended to have our nose guard (Ty Spertling) go in aggressively enough to tie up two blockers, and have our other linemen loop out or go inside," Robinson said.

"But we didn't do a good job of coaching Ty, and he would make contact, then back up. That freed another Stanford blocker. It looked like a two-man rush, but it wasn't supposed to be."

Gerulaitis Outlasts Edmondson

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Top-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States staged a virtual Davis Cup replay and overcame Australia's aggressive Mark Edmondson 4-6, 6-2, 7-5 in the men's singles first round of the Australian Indoor Tennis Championship at the Hardern Pavilion Tuesday night.

Gerulaitis, who survived three match points when down by two sets to love against Edmondson in the opening singles of the recent Davis Cup semifinals, again displayed a comeback.

The 25-year-old American trailed 3-1 on the Australian's service in the final set, but regained his composure and overhauled Edmondson for the victory.

Robinson Takes Blame For USC-Stanford Tie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As John Robinson walked off the field after Southern Cal's 21-21 tie with Stanford, he muttered to himself, "We blew it."

The Trojan coach, after carefully studying Saturday's game film and doing some concentrated analysis, told reporters Tuesday at his weekly media meeting: "I was right. We blew it."

The tie, while certainly not irreparably damaging the Trojans' season or Pacific-10 title hopes, did have the immediate effect of dropping USC from first to fourth in the national college football poll.

"The No. 1 ranking, that's external," said Robinson, whose 5-0-1 Trojans meet No. 9 Notre Dame, 4-1, Saturday in South Bend. "But the internal thing, meaning we failed to achieve what we wanted to, we were very disappointed about that."

"We made some judgment errors. At the half, since we had 21 points and they hadn't scored, we told the defense, 'Hey, everything will be fine if we just keep on doing what we have been,'" Robinson continued.

"Then, we kept waiting for them to make the big mistake, a fumble or interception. But they didn't and we didn't change our thinking and try to force mistakes."

At one point, Robinson thought the Cardinals had made the key mistake.

Sooners' Switzer Says Interception Difference

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Singing a sad song of what might have been, Oklahoma University football Coach Barry Switzer said Tuesday "it might have been different" if the University of Texas hadn't intercepted a Sooner pass just before halftime.

At his weekly press luncheon here Switzer discussed the Sooner's nine-point loss to the Texas Longhorns, 16-7, which was nationally televised from the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Saturday.

"Really, the key play of the ball game was the interception just before the half," Switzer said. "If we would have gone into the locker room with the score at 7-3 it could have been a different ballgame."

The key Switzer discussed came with 5:28 remaining in the second quarter when quarterback J.C. Watts tried a long pass to split end Freddie Nixon.

Linebacker Steve McMichael managed to slightly adjust the throw and Derrick Hatcher, of the Texas secondary, made the interception. After he got the ball Hatcher ran 36 yards, from the OU 20 to the five, setting up the only Texas touchdown.

"I was standing about from here to there from Freddie," Switzer said pointing to a table a short distance away.

"And, I knew what was going to happen before it even happened. It's a lot different going into the locker room behind than with a lead, even a four-point one."

Following the Saturday version of what has become one of the biggest rivalries in college football Switzer appeared emotionally down as he spoke to reporters, but during the Tuesday meeting he was animated and talkative.

"The whole second half we were forced to try to make up those points, so we really had to play conservative," he said. "Their defensive line was so experienced they were just containing us. They were so quick on those corners."

"But, we did the same things to them when we had the Selmon brothers," he said. "Everybody seems to forget those years."

Switzer said the Sooners came out of the game in fairly good shape.

Ex-'Horn Clayborn Appeals Rozelle Fine

BOSTON (AP) — New England Patriots cornerback Raymond Clayborn and the National Football League Players Association have appealed a $2,000 fine imposed by Commissioner Pete Rozelle for the player's trouble with the news media, including punching a sports writer.

Rozelle levied the fine Oct. 2, stemming from a locker room scuffle between Clayborn and Will McDonough of The Boston Globe after a Sept. 9 game in Foxboro and a verbal encounter the week before with Associated Press sports writer Bruce Lowitt.

Garvey, in a statement published in The Audible, the NFL Players Association newsletter, called Rozelle's Sept. 18 closed-door hearing on the matter a "kangaroo court."

A spokesman for Rozelle said Tuesday that Clayborn's appeal was filed by the players association late last week.

The appeal will be heard by Rozelle himself in the near future. If the NFLPA is dissatisfied with the result, it can take the case to a neutral arbitrator.

Garvey wrote in the newsletter that "the evidence at the hearing was conclusive against McDonough." Garvey said McDonough punched Clayborn and "Raymond struck back. Wouldn't you?"

"The commissioner thinks he will pit the (players) union against the writers, paint himself as the guardian of the press. Maybe pro football writers will fine McDonough $2,000, take away his locker room pass and set rules of conduct for their members. In the meantime, the NFLPA will continue to fight this obvious injustice."

The fine is ridiculous, but wait until you hear the commissioner's reasoning. He ruled that Clayborn was guilty, but not of slugging Will McDonough. No, he was guilty of not cooperating with the media. The Wizard of Oz has nothing on Head Kangaroo.

"From now on, if this ruling is allowed to stand, (players) must cooperate with every sports writer."

Brannan Too Much For Ponies

DALLAS (AP) — For a redshirt freshman, there was a lot of talk about young Mike Brannan on the Southwest Conference press tour.

The whispers had it that he had the talent to be the Baylor Bears starting quarterback.

The SWC and Southern Methodist got a taste of his talent Saturday night. The taste was poison for Mustang Mania.

With 65,000 fans jammed into Texas Stadium, Brannan bounced off the bench when senior Mickey Elam got hurt and SMU's 14-0 lead disappeared like an Eskimo pie in a refugee camp.

Brannan carried 19 times for 120 yards, a school quarterback rushing record. He scored a touchdown on a one-yard fourth down carry.

He also passed for 134 yards, including strikes of 57 and 30 yards to setup another Baylor touchdown in the 24-21 victory and the game-winning field goal with seven seconds to play.

"That kid played just great," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer.

"We could handle Elam but we couldn't handle Brannan."

The 6-3, 180-pound Brazoswood product earned The Associated Press SWC Offensive Player of the Week for his clutch performance. It gave Baylor an honors sweep for the week.

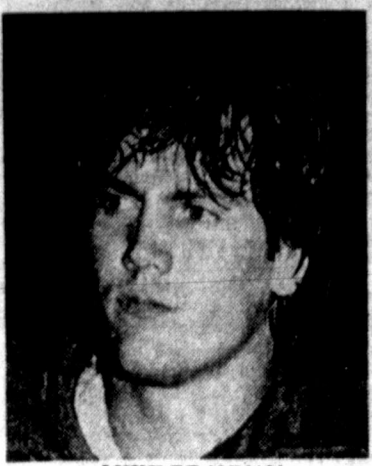

Kick blocking specialist Max McGeary was named The AP SWC Defensive Player of the Week for blocking two SMU field goals in the fourth quarter.

"I've been playing some so I wasn't really all that nervous," said Brannan. "It was real important for us to get some points on the board just before halftime. We did that and I felt confident going into the second half. We won and that made me feel real good."

In the Baylor press brochure, Coach Grant Teaff must have had a feeling that Brannan was a potential clutch performer.

"He is a man that can get the job done," Teaff said.

Now Brannan will get his first start this Saturday when the Bears travel to West Point to play Army.

MIKE BRANNAN

Odom, Monterey Seeking Revenge

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
James Odom has been sitting back and cooling his heels for 361 days now, waiting for a return match with the Plainview Bulldogs.

Thursday night at 7:30, Odom hopes to put the 'Dogs in a half, full and Ricky Nelson. No holds barred, in other words.

"I've been waiting a year for them," said Odom. "And I might be waiting another year, too."

On its way to the school's first-ever district football championship last season, Plainview destroyed Monterey 46-27 before a record crowd in Bulldog Stadium. But that was the same season the Plainview recorders their worst-ever win-loss mark, a 3-6-1 record. This time, MHS comes into the clash at Lowrey Field with a 5-1 mark, while Plainview is at 2-3.

"I'm ready to play," commented Odom. "But I wish we had a couple of more days (to practice), though. That'd be nice."

Over the past four or five years, the Plainview-Monterey contest has turned into a real grudge game for both teams. And there'll be little love lost between the two when they meet in the important District 4-AAAA matchup.

What makes the contest so important is that it's a loop-banger. And with only five teams in the district a loss can all but put a team out of the race for the year.

"No one has ever won the district outright with a loss," confirmed Odom. "There's been quite a few ties."

So a win "would go a long way in deciding whose going to win the thing," said Odom.

Not only is Odom "excited" about the meeting, but so are the Plainviewers, he said. But the team hasn't gotten to the point of walking MHS' hallowed halls with glass eyes and sweaty palms.

"You can get too excited about a game," said Odom. "I don't think we're at that point. But we're excited. We're just ready to play...that kind of excited."

Defensive back Arthur Hanna, also valuable as a punt-returner, is the only questionable starter for Thursday's game. Hanna suffered a knee injury during the second quarter of last week's 51-18 win over Clovis. Odom said a decision on whether or not Hanna will play against Plainview will be made at the last possible moment.

This will be the first time in two years the Plainview-Monterey contest has been played at Lowrey Field. That suits Odom fine.

"Let's just say I'd rather play in front of a home crowd," said Odom. "Be it ever so humble..."

Estacado Quarterback Top AAA Player

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
The final score read: Estacado 35 Lamesa 0.

Ho hum, said the fans. It was nothing unexpected — in fact, many had thought that the Matadors would beat Lamesa even worse than they did.

But really, there was something pretty unusual about the Estacado victory. The Mats have always been known as a running team and this year is no exception. With backs like Kelvin White, Alvin Davis, Stacy Burrell, Preston Davis and Kelly McBride it's no wonder that coach Louis Kelley loves to run the ball.

But against Lamesa Friday night it was the arm of quarterback Jerry Gray that carried the Mats to victory. Gray, a 160-pound junior, has directed the Matador offense well all year but his passing performance against Lamesa was the biggest of his career in the Estacado backfield, landing him the Avalanche-Journal Class AAAA Player of the Week.

And Gray couldn't have picked a better time to get hot. With time running out in the first half, the surprising Lamesa defense had held the mighty Matador running attack in check.

That's when Kelley elected to go to the airwaves — and the move paid off.

First Gray connected with wingback Preston Davis for an 11-yard gain to give EHS a first down. Then he hit split end Kenneth Cade on a beautiful 33-yard scoring strike to give Estacado a big boost going into the locker room.

Cade was well covered by a pair of Golden Tor defenders but Gray's pass was perfectly thrown and the Matador receiver made a diving catch for the TD.

After the contest, Kelley said that the pass was the turning point in the game.

"We really needed to get something on the board at that time," he said. "That really gave us a lift."

But Gray's heroics didn't stop there. He went on to connect with Warren Lyons for a 23-yard touchdown in the third quarter and then executed a beautiful screen pass to Stacy Burrell.

The touchdown by Burrell was the Mats last of the night, and by that standard, meaningless. Still, it was a pretty play to watch. Facing a fourth and eight at the LHS 27, Gray dropped five, ten and then 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage.

A host of Lamesa defenders trailed him, smelling a sack. But just before they arrived for the kill, Gray flipped off his pass that Burrell caught around the 30. The only people around him were Estacado teammates and he went into the endzone untouched.

"We've worked on the screen in practice," said Kelley, "but that was the first time we've ever tried it in a game."

"Jerry handled it pretty well."

But then it was Gray's night to handle everything pretty well. He completed five of 13 tosses for 95 yards and three touchdowns.

That's not a bad outing for the quarterback of a primarily run-oriented team.

Come to think of it, that's not a bad night for any quarterback.

Raider Cagers Devote Drills To Conditioning

When you've got a team loaded with freshmen and sophomores practices tend to be a little elementary early in the season.

And that, says Texas Tech basketball coach Gerald Myers is just the case with the Raiders.

"We're working a lot more on just fundamentals and conditioning this year," said Myers Tuesday. "At least we're working on that a lot more than we have in the last two years."

Tech will continue to work in closed sessions at the Men's Gym for the rest of October. After only two days of practice though, Myers was already working his troops hard.

"We're trying to get them to concentrate on what they're doing," he said. "I think that our concentration wasn't always there last year — and it hurt us."

Outgoing AP Official Warns Of Credibility Gap

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Although newspapers have never been better than they are today, a credibility gap still exists between the papers and their readers, the outgoing president of the Associated Press Managing Editors said Tuesday.

One reason for the low credibility rating is newspapers' resistance to change and failure to meet the needs of racial and ethnic minorities, said Joseph W. Shoquist, managing editor of the Milwaukee (Wis.) Journal.

"Some of the distrust of newspapers by blacks and other minorities might be removed if we made a greater effort to understand their customs, their concerns and their points of view," Shoquist said at a luncheon meeting. "Too often newspapers lag behind social change, as was the case with feminism."

"Had there been more female editors, we might not have been so slow to catch up with the changing times. And surely our credibility with women would have been better," he said.

Newspapers have made gains in recent years in hiring racial and ethnic minorities, he said, but the gains have been small, especially in management-level positions.

"But I think it is very difficult to understand minorities, and to report on them intelligently, without minority staff members," he said.

Shoquist said part of the low esteem can be attributed to "the concerted effort of some government officials, going back to (former Vice President) Spiro Agnew," and to the "onslaught from the courts in recent times."

"A hostile Supreme Court has handed down ruling after ruling making it difficult for us to do our job and eroding First Amendment rights."

The rulings have persuaded many citizens that the press has deserved to be harassed by the court, he said, adding that the First Amendment protects the public, not just the press.

"One consequence of the courts' crusade against us has been to confuse the public and to portray the media as abusive and irresponsible. It is ironic, to say the least, that our fight to protect public rights may be contributing to our own loss of credibility," he said.

Newspaper image problems have always existed "if for no other reason than that we offend some people just by doing our job," he said. "We cannot do much about that."

"The public is sending us a message," he said. "They want us to be more understanding of them, more responsible to their needs, more responsible in the way we report and edit."

Two N-Plant Saboteurs Facing Prison Terms

SURRY, Va. (AP) — Two self-professed saboteurs were convicted Tuesday of damaging a nuclear power plant in what was believed to be the first trial in the nation involving the sabotage of a nuclear facility.

The jury returned guilty verdicts against the former Surry nuclear plant employees after deliberating for about three hours. The two men had admitted pouring a caustic chemical on fuel rods at the plant, saying they wanted to draw attention to what they said are lax safety standards.

Virginia Electric & Power Co. has estimated damage to the nuclear plant at $1 million.

Convicted on single felony counts of damaging a public utility were William Kuykendall, 26, of Newport News, and James Merrill, 24, of Hampton.

The jury recommended the minimum sentence — two years in prison — but the judge need not accept the jury recommendation. The maximum sentence for the offense is 10 years behind bars.

Kuykendall and Merrill, former control room operator trainees at the nuclear plant, admitted they sabotaged the fuel rods April 27.

The trial before Judge Ligon Jones began Thursday in this rural Virginia community.

Earlier, Ligon dismissed four other charges against Kuykendall and Merrill. He also ruled that they could testify as to their state of mind at the time of the sabotage, but said the could not discuss safety conditions at the nuclear plant.

Commonwealth attorney Gammill Poindexter, summing up for the state, said that "the evidence is clear" that the men committed a crime because they admitted to it. He said "that is proof beyond a reasonable doubt."

The two men "had been given positions of trust" at the Surry plant, she said, "and look what they did."

The utility has denied allegations of lax security and unsafe working conditions at the two-reactor plant. It said the damage done to the fuel rods, which cost $30 million, was a breach of trust.

Kuykendall and Merrill testified Monday that they had complained in vain to the company about conditions at the nuclear power plant before deciding to damage the stored fuel rods.

"I felt there wasn't anywhere to go for help," Merrill told the jury.
