

Crime Line Calls Aid In Cracking 78 Felonies

INFORMANTS calling Crime Line with information pertaining to felonies have led police to solve some 78 felonies in less than seven months, and LPD detective Doyle Nelson reports his men currently are pursuing several leads in connection with other cases.

Each week, Crime Line lists several "Spotlight Crimes" that police are especially interested in clearing, but Nelson emphasizes that "We are looking for information on any felony crime, and not that 'Information that helps us clear any felony will get the persons who call it in a reward.'"

Persons wishing to make tax-deductible donations to the Crime Line reward fund should mail them to Box 2000, Lubbock. Crime Line is funded entirely through donations.

This week, Crime Line is offering rewards totalling $1,700 for information leading to the solution of a rape, and two burglaries and the location of two fugitives.

A reward of $500 is offered to anyone who can aid police in identifying a man described as a Mexican male with a smooth face and the start of a mustache who raped a South Lubbock woman in her home about 2 a.m. Oct. 21.

The woman told police the man slapped her and told her to wake up. She said he held a knife to her throat and raped her, and had gained entrance through the front door.

She also said he had big brown eyes with bushy eyebrows and wavy collar length hair combed straight back. He had a gold or silver tooth on the right side, and was wearing a dirty silver chain but no shoes or socks.

The first burglary, which has a $300 reward, occurred between 9 and 10 a.m. Oct. 6 at the old Naval Reserve building office No. 7 on the Texas Tech University campus. Tech police said someone cut a round hole in the office door and took $6,735 worth of property.

Taken were an IBM Selectric II typewriter, serial No. 2839889; an IBM Selectric typewriter, serial No. 3366943; a Sony recorder-player system, serial No. 346528; a Sony video camera, serial No. C-1836829; a Sony black and white TV; a Kodak movie projector, model 475, serial No. 4MSR20804; a Realistic multiplex AM/FM radio; an AC/DC adaptor; and three boxes of typewriter ribbons.

The second spotlight burglary also has a $300 reward, and occurred sometime between September 26 and October 3 at the home of Gerald Umsted in the Franklin Addition. Burglars entered the house through the front door and took $1,630 worth of property.

Missing are a Remington model 1100 shotgun with vent rib; a Remington .22 caliber rifle with scope; a Stevens model 47 .22 caliber automatic rifle; a .16 gauge antique shotgun; a Zenith 560 AM/FM receiver; a J.C. Penney 21" color TV; a half-gallon jar full of coins; a book of checks with the name Theresa Umsted imprinted on them; and a box of costume jewelry.

And Lubbock police are seeking information as to the whereabouts of three men listed as fugitives in murders here. In the first of the two cases, police are seeking Joseph Michael DePaw, a 38 year old white male with light brown shoulder-length hair, in connection with the murder of Lubbock businessman Oland Kenneth Anderson, who was found murdered Oct. 5.

DePaw has been charged with Anderson's murder, but has disappeared. Also wanted in this case is Herman Lee Watts, a 36 year-old white male standing about 5-foot-11, who has been charged as a material witness. Information on either of these two men is worth $300.

In the second fugitive case, police are searching for Joe Gonzales Ramos, described as a Mex- See MORE REWARDS Page 16

PIECING IT TOGETHER — Officials from the Federal Aviation Administration look over the wreckage of a twin engine turbo-prop airplane that crashed Sunday less than a mile north of the Mexican border. Explosion Damages Cuba's U.N. Mission

NEW YORK (AP) — An explosion rocked the area around the Cuban Mission to the United Nations late Saturday, blowing out windows near the building in the Murray Hill area of Manhattan.

Police said there were some minor injuries. Two unidentified policemen guarding the building's Lexington Avenue entrance were knocked to the ground by the blast. They were treated at local hospitals for cuts and bruises, police said.

Also hurt were some area apartment dwellers who suffered minor cuts from broken glass, police said.

'Omega Seven' Claims Credit
A man saying he represented the anti-Castro group Omega Seven called the Associated Press to claim responsibility for the blast. He said the explosives would have been used to kill Cuban President Fidel Castro during his visit here two weeks ago, but the security prevented an assassination attempt.

He went on to demand the release of "all political prisoners from Communist Cuba."

State Department Condemns Act
In Washington, the State Department issued a statement saying "The U.S. government condemns any such acts of terrorist violence. This position is being conveyed to the Cuban government."

The origin of the explosion shortly before 10 p.m. apparently was a "low-grade device" placed near the mission, police said.

Police said they had been tipped that another device was planted in the area, and would go off soon. They would not say how they received that information. While the search went on for that second device, police cleared nearby streets.

After an hour, one police source said, "They're pretty sure that there's nothing more. But they'll keep sniffing around until they're absolutely sure."

Damage Extensive
Damage caused by the explosion was termed "fairly extensive" by police. Windows had been broken up to the third floor of the mission, and one room in the mission was damaged. Windows also were broken at a stationary store and residence across the street and cars parked nearby.

One officer said a man was seen throwing something into a trash container just before the blast, but a Cuban maintenance worker said the bomb was placed in a grating leading to the basement on the 38th Street side of the building.

Temporary Quarters For Castro
The mission at 38th Street and Lexington Avenue was the temporary home of Castro when he visited the United Nations two weeks ago. At that time, heavy security surrounded the building.

The caller who claimed to be a member of Omega Seven said the explosives used in the attack "were part of the explosives we had reserved for Fidel Castro when he visited New York, but the New York police did a damn good job of protecting him. We didn't want to kill any policemen."

The caller, who spoke with a Spanish accent, then said "thank you" and hung up the phone.

Omega Seven has claimed responsibility for numerous explosions along the East Coast and in New York City.

Neighbors of the mission said the explosion was a powerful one that shook nearby buildings.

Plane Crash Kills All 10 Aboard

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Mexican government airplane flying American prisoners to a border exchange slammed into a telephone pole in dense fog and burst into flames early Sunday, killing all 10 persons aboard, officials said.

The dead included four American prisoners and six Mexicans, including four guards, the pilot and the co-pilot, according to the U.S. consulate in Tijuana, Mexico.

San Diego police Lt. Dave Spisak said the pilot of the twin-engine Otter turbo-prop apparently became disoriented in the fog and the plane wandered over the border into the United States.

The pilot contacted the Federal Aviation Administration's Miramar air traffic facility, and operators there gave him his bearings and handed control of the craft to Tijuana, Spisak said.

"After turning around, the craft hit a pole on top of Spring Canyon and crashed," Spisak said. The plane crashed and burned in the rugged Otay Mesa south of San Diego. The area is accessible only by four-wheel drive vehicles.

"From all the information we have, it was registered to the Mexican attorney general's office in Mexico City," said U.S. Border Patrol dispatcher Bill Fletcher said.

He said a registration check on the plane was made by U.S. Customs officials in Los Angeles.

Spisak said the plane picked up two of the prisoners in Merida and two in Monterrey and was headed for the airport at Tijuana, where they were to be exchanged for Mexicans jailed in the United States. The crash occurred less than one mile from the U.S.-Mexican border.

The San Diego County coroner's office identified the four American prisoners as Steve Michael Olson, Julie Ann Sheldon of Los Angeles, Gerald John Lapinski and Lotus May Sanchez.

Also killed was the plane's pilot, Rene Hernandez Rodriguez, copilot Marco Antonio Fano Villa, and four Mexican federal agents, Rafael Gama Avistas, Ramon Lara Estrada, Fernando Equiarte Aceves, and Raul Santos Benavides.

The victim's ages and most of their hometowns were not available.

Investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration and their Mexican counterparts were at the scene, Spisak said.

The prisoner exchange program, in effect since December 1977, allows American prisoners in Mexico and Mexican prisoners in the United States to finish their terms in their native countries.

The agreement between the two governments stemmed from disputes erupting from reports that American prisoners were being abused inside Mexican prisons.

Park Assassinated, Government Says

Emergence Of New Leader Awaited

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The slaying of South Korean President Park Chung-hee was a premeditated assassination carried out by Korean Central Intelligence Agency chief Kim Jae-kyu and five of his men, the government revealed Sunday.

Backtracking from its previous claim that Park's death was accidental, the government said Kim shot both Park and his chief bodyguard, Cha Chi-shul three times each during a dinner Friday night at a KCIA building near the Blue House, Park's official residence in Seoul.

Conspiracy Alleged

According to a government spokesman Kim fired the first shots and then five of his men in the next room killed four of Park's bodyguards who had been waiting outside the dining room. The KCIA agents used pistols and one M-16 automatic rifle, the spokesman said.

Kim and all five of his men were under arrest, said the spokesman, who declined to be identified. He said "many others" have been taken in for questioning to determine if they were also involved in the assassination. The others being questioned were not identified.

Word of the plot came at a news conference at the South Korean Defense Ministry, but the details were attributed to the Combined Investigation Command, a joint military and police organization set up by the martial law command to investigate Park's death.

The spokesman said Kim assassinated Park because he had lost the president's trust and was afraid of losing his job. Kim reportedly blamed Cha for his troubles and claimed the bodyguard, who also served as one of Park's key advisers, was blocking many of Kim's reports and recommendations from reaching the president.

Story Switched

According to the original government version of the slaying Park was killed accidentally by Kim when he tried to intervene in a violent argument between the KCIA chief and the bodyguard over how best to deal with dissent and the wave of anti-government demonstrations that broke out in two southern coastal cities earlier this month.

Maj. Gen. Chung Doo-Hwan, head of the Investigation Command, told the news conference that Kim had been planning the assassination of Park and Cha before the dinner. He did not elaborate.

Following the slayings Friday night, the government imposed martial law and stationed more than 12,000 soldiers at key points throughout Seoul and several thousand more in other major cities.

South Korean forces were on emergency alert Saturday against any attempt by communist North Korea to take advantage of the confused situation, but U.S. officials said there was no indication of military activity north of the demilitarized zone. The 38,000 U.S. troops here were ordered into the lowest stage of alert, just one step up from normal status.

Schools were closed and tanks surrounded the capitol building as officials grappled with a crisis that has left South Korea without an obvious successor to the man who ruled with an iron fist for more than 18 years.

Uncertain of the immediate future, government officials paid their respects Saturday at the closed coffin holding Park's body.

Prime Minister Choi Kyu-hah, 60, named acting president in an emergency Cabinet session four hours after Park's death, went on nationwide radio Saturday morning to ask for calm.

"This is the time for all 37 million (South) Korean people to stay calm and do their best to preserve the country for our survival," he said.

The first day of Choi's acting presidency went smoothly, with no disturbance. See SUCCESSOR Page 14

South Africa Denies Nuclear Blast Tie

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The South African Navy Sunday speculated that a nuclear blast reported by Washington might have been caused by an accidental explosion aboard a Soviet submarine in the Indian Ocean.

A navy spokesman said such a possibility was being investigated and voiced surprise that the Americans did not think of it first. In Washington, officials reportedly dismissed the suggestion.

Military sources also said the blast detected by a U.S. Weather satellite on September 22 may have come from a Soviet nuclear test in the Southern Hemisphere.

Experts said if the nuclear power plant in the submarine did explode it would carbonize the vessel, leaving nothing behind but dust and vapor.

But a prominent nuclear scientist Sunday said a Soviet missile that has lain dormant in the bottom of the South Atlantic Ocean for 16 years could have been the cause of the blast.

Professor J. R. Smit, who in 1963 was involved in a combined U.S.-South African top secret mission to trace an errant Soviet missile, said the blast picked up by a U.S. Weather satellite on September 22 could have been caused by the Russian rocket.

The South Africans have denied any involvement in the low-yield blast which was said to have occurred somewhere in an area encompassing the Indian, South Atlantic and Antarctic Oceans and parts of Southern Africa.

The U.S. government also has avoided confirming an American television report that South Africa, which has not signed to the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty, was responsible for the incident.

The State Department said the bright flash detected by the satellite was consistent with a low-yield nuclear explosion but such a blast was probably too small for an effective first-time atomic test.

The controversy marked the third time in two years that South Africa has been accused of developing a nuclear bomb, although it has never been proven.

Vice Admiral Charles Walters said a Soviet submarine of the Echo II class had been detected in the Indian Ocean shortly before the blast occurred last month. The Echo II class vessel has eight missile launching tubes and a crew of 100.

Informed sources said the submarine could have exploded because of a mechanical fault in its nuclear power plant or could have been involved in a Soviet test of a small atomic weapon that could be used against shipping in any future war.

Chicago Mayor's Endorsement Propels Kennedy Candidacy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the third time in two decades a "Kennedy for President Committee" will be formed Monday — this one to boost the last surviving brother — Sen. Edward Kennedy — for the nation's highest office.

Kennedy's brother-in-law, Stephen Smith, who will head the campaign, will make the formal announcement creating the committee and papers will be filed with the Federal Election Commission later in the day.

Kennedy will formally announce his candidacy later, sometime before Thanksgiving.

Over the weekend Kennedy called Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne to thank her for her surprise endorsement. Mrs. Byrne said she decided to support Kennedy after reaching the conclusion that President Carter couldn't win re-election in 1980.

The mayor quoted Kennedy as saying that because of her announcement: "The Washington Monument is shaking.

The Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials are shaking. The big wind came out of Chicago and they haven't stopped rocking since."

Smith's announcement will be made in the showroom of a former Cadillac dealership that will serve as the Kennedy campaign headquarters in downtown Washington less than a mile from the White House.

Kennedy will not take part in the announcement, and so far has nothing on his public schedule this week until Friday when he flies to Charleston, W.Va., to join Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd and other Democratic leaders in a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner.

The Kennedy campaign already was in full swing before the announcement. Money started rolling in last week when Kennedy raised $150,000 in contributions and pledges at a cocktail party last Thursday at the Manhattan home of his sister Pat Lawford.

What will become the official campaign book, "Our Day and Generation"

— a collection of Kennedy speeches and quotations was unveiled by Simon and Schuster.

Smith will run the campaign aided by Paul Kirk, a Washington lawyer who once was Kennedy's chief aide and Carl Wagner, now a senior adviser on the Kennedy staff. Tom Southwick, Kennedy's press secretary on the Senate staff, will move to the campaign in the same capacity.

Morris Dees, a direct mail whiz who was President Carter's chief money man in 1976, will be the Kennedy fundraiser. He already has planned a series of fund-raising dinners around the country in early December where tickets will go for $1,000 each — the legal maximum contribution.

Martin Katz, hired away from the staff of Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., will be the overall campaign finance director.

Rick Stearns, who was Sen. George McGovern's chief delegate counter in 1972, will do that job for Kennedy.

Top Teams, Riders Recognized

Texas Tech Rodeo Completes Three-Day Run

College cowboys and cowgirls from across the Southwest packed up their rodeo gear in the wee hours Sunday morning, following several hours of riding and roping to determine the top competitors in the three-day event.

About 350 students from 17 schools competed in the nine events at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum. When the competition ended, the best rodeo teams and individuals were recognized.

Tarleton State University was named boys winner, and Eastern New Mexico University had the best girls team. All-Around Cowgirl title was earned by Anna Crispin of Eastern New Mexico and Cody Lambert of Howard College was named All-Around Cowboy at the Texas Tech rodeo.

Other top competitors also were named in various events. The top riders in bareback competition were by Lynn Daventport of Eastern New Mexico with 69 points, J.T. Henry of Texas Tech with 67 points; and Guy Murphy of New Mexico Junior College with 66 points.

Bob Knox of Tarleton State had the fastest time, 11.57 seconds, in call roping. His time was followed by Bill Plummer of Eastern New Mexico with 12.05 and Tommy Smith of Cisco Junior College with 12.42.

Breakaway roping competition was led by Anna Crispin of Eastern New Mexico with a time of 3.49. Taking second place was Terry Waggoner of New Mexico Junior College with 3.56, while Jayne Gentry of Sul Ross University took third place with 4.2 seconds.

A time of 3.87 seconds by Craig Bryant of Eastern New Mexico was the fastest in steer wrestling, with Kris Brown of Tarleton following with 4.99, and David McMillan of Sul Ross taking third place with 5.37.

First Place in goat tying was taken by Jackie Duhig of Eastern New Mexico with a time of 8.15, second was filled by Becky Meeks of Eastern New Mexico with 9.24, and Dale Hollman of New Mexico took third place with 9.3.

Top competitors in the team roping event were Wesley Williams of Tarleton and Darrell Lambert of Cisco with 6.84; Greg Carlisle and Quinten Hart, both of West Texas State University with 7.82; and Joe Martinez and Stormy Pruitt, both of Sul Ross with 8.57.

The fastest times in Barrel Racing were by Crill Pearson of Sul Ross with 15.2, Anna Crispin of Eastern New Mexico with 15.27, and Fawna Able of Eastern New Mexico and Cathy Hawrylak of Western Texas College, both with 15.29.

The best score, 75 points, in bull riding was earned by Jay Scott of Tarleton, while Gary Nordling of Tarleton rode for 74 points and Cody Lambert of Howard College was given 68 points for his ride.

Davis Defense May Rest Case

FORT WORTH (AP) — Defense attorneys say they may rest their case today after showing jurors the places in a car that an FBI informant could have hidden a hand-held tape recorder after a conversation with murder-solicitation defendant Cullen Davis.

The millionaire industrialist claims he knew David McCrory was recording their conversations when the two discussed mass murder during an August 1978 parking lot meeting. But he also thought he was working with the FBI to uncover an extortion plot.

FBI recordings of that conversation are at the core of the state's case against Davis, who is accused of trying to hire the murder of his divorce judge and others.

Davis testified he knew he was being recorded during the Aug. 18 meeting because McCrory showed him a hand-held, Norelco recorder when he climbed into the car. However, an FBI agent testified he searched McCrory and his car both before and after the pivotal parking lot meeting and found no recorder.

Defense attorneys called Dana Smith, a commercial photographer who has shot photographs of the interior of the car, to the stand Friday. Smith said such a "device" could have been hidden in air conditioning vents, among other places.

He is expected to disclose the "other places" today when attorneys say they plan to ask the judge to let jurors see the car.

Another defense witness testified Friday that two days before Davis' arrest McCrory bragged that he would be "fixed for life."

Larry Francis, 18, said that while they were playing pool on Aug. 18, 1978, McCrory told him:

"Larry, you're going to hear something in the next few days that you're not going to like, but it's going to fix me for the rest of my life. I'll never have to hit another lick."

Francis said McCrory then showed him an envelope containing a "2 1/2-to-3 inch stack of $100 bills. He (McCrory) told me it was $25,000."

The defense called Francis to the stand to bolster its contention that Davis was the victim of a conspiracy headed by McCrory and Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla.

McCrory has testified the money was to pay off an assassin to kill State District Judge Joe Eldson, who was never harmed, and others.

Prosecutors tried to attack the credibility of the witness, saying Francis had been convicted of felonies six times and that several had been prosecuted by the Tarrant County district attorney's office.

Arrests Result In Football Field Fire

PLANO (UPI) — Two high school students and two recent graduates were arrested during the weekend on suspicion of trying to burn their high school alma mater's initials into the artificial turf of a rival school's football field, causing a $300,000 fire.

Bill Threet, fire marshal in the Dallas suburb, said the four males would be charged with arson. He said the youths ranged in age from 17 to 19.

The fire Oct. 13 occurred a few hours after Richardson High School upset then-No. 2 ranked Plano, 3-0, on Plano's field.

Threet said his investigation showed the youths took cans of gasoline onto the Plano field and attempted to burn the initials "RSH" into the artificial turf.

Once the patches of turf began flaming, however, the fire spread and destroyed a third of the field. Turf suppliers said the entire field would have to be replaced at a cost of $300,000.

Threet said the youths, who are students at Richardson and two who graduated last year, said they did the damage as a prank. He described the youths as average and as being from good homes in the area.

"It was just a prank that got out of hand," he said. "That pretty well describes it."

Cold Front To Follow Cloudy Skies

After a day as beautiful as one could ask for Sunday, the weather should begin another slide toward winter. Today should be similar to Sunday, but a wave of clouds moving in from the north during the day will signal an end to the 70-plus degree weather.

Highs today across Lubbock and the South Plains should be in the low 70s, but Tuesday's high is expected to be only about 58 degrees as a cold front follows the clouds into the area.

The low tonight should fall into the lower 40s with southerly winds at 10 to 15 mph. The chance for rain during the day today is about 20 percent.

The intrusion of colder weather into West Texas could signal the beginning of the cold weather season, as winter storm warnings are already posted across most of the Rocky Mountain states.

And snow has begun falling steadily on several northern areas of the country and most of Canada. Snow and snow mixed with rain fell over parts of New England, the Pacific Northwest and the northern Rockies Sunday, although no measurable amounts had been found.

Across the southwest, the cold front moving into the area is expected to weaken on arrival, and though the weather will cool down considerably, temperatures colder than those Tuesday are not expected.

By tonight, a cold front will lie across the North Carolina coast through Alabama and extend down toward the Texas coast. Another cold front will stretch from across western Canada all the way through Wisconsin down the Farm Belt into Oklahoma and across West Texas.

Showers are likely in parts of New England and through the Tennessee Valley. Highs in the 40s and 50s will dominate the north and central portions of the country, while 80 degree readings may be found in southern California and through the Deep South. Most of the rest of the nation will see highs in the 60s and 70s.

Lubbock reached a high of 73 degrees Sunday afternoon after hitting a nighttime low of 39 during the early morning hours.

Remark About Dog Leads To Stabbing

DALLAS (UPI) — A 16-year-old girl and her 12-year-old sister were being held Sunday for the stabbing death of a teen-ager and the wounding of his half-brother in a fight that began with a quarrel about a dog.

Clarence Moore, 15, was fatally stabbed in the chest with a steak knife Saturday, police said. His half-brother, Ronald Earl Green, 10, was released after treatment for a stab wound in the back.

Homicide investigator Linda Fulghum said the girls were walking a dog when the older boy told them the dog was "ugly." The sisters said Moore threatened them with a large "rake" comb and they retaliated by getting a steak knife from their home.

The girls were being held Sunday in the Dallas County juvenile detention center.

Trial Set For Vietnamese Refugees

SEGUIN (UPI) — Two Vietnamese brothers, charged with killing a Seadrift, Texas, man in a feud between local fishermen and Southeast Asia refugees, have not sought release on bond because their attorney says they are safer in jail.

The trial of Sau Van Nguyen, 21, and his brother, Chinh, 20, begins Monday in Seguin, where it was moved because of strong emotions in the coastal town of Seadrift.

The Nguyens are charged with the Aug. 3 shooting death of Billy Joe Alpin, 35.

The slaying was part of the feud between Vietnamese and Seadrift fishermen, who claimed the refugees were not respectful of local fishing ethics. Three Vietnamese fishing boats were burned after the shooting and a refugee's house was fire-bombed. Seadrift authorities say there is potential for more violence in the town of 1,000.

Sau has been held under $100,000 bond on the murder charge and Chinh, charged with complicity, is under $75,000 bond. Their attorney, Pat Maloney, made no effort to have their bonds reduced because he said they were safer in jail.

Maloney contends Sau was beaten and knifed by Alpin before he was shot.

"If those boys don't get a reasonable sentence, there's probably going to be open warfare here," said Seguin Police Chief Bill Lindsey.

Psychic Aids Futile Search For Girl

DALLAS (AP) — Following a psychic's instructions, a Dallas woman pushed through thick grass and waded in Northwest Dallas creeks in an attempt to find her 7-year-old daughter who has been missing since Tuesday.

Elizabeth Barclay was last seen by two young friends as they all walked to a neighborhood store to buy ice cream.

The young companions said Elizabeth was taken by a man who said he would "take her ... and throw her in the water."

Linda Barclay's weekend search for her daughter was inspired by unidentified psychics who told her they envisioned the missing girl near trucking water, high grass and trees. Mrs. Barclay carried a red bag that her daughter liked, along with a picture of the missing girl.

"When I first started talking to the psychics, every time they'd mention something I'd say, 'I know where that is,'" Mrs. Barclay said. "But you go here and you go there and it all looks the same."

"I've been in some places that I just don't want to leave because I feel so strongly that she's there."

Police have been riding horses and helicopters since Tuesday night in their intensive and fruitless search. Officers said their efforts are being complicated by callers claiming to have psychic powers.

"They would have to get a map now to find an area in Dallas we haven't searched," said Police Sgt. Harold Rice.

The police searches included White Rock Lake in the Dallas city limits and Garza-Little Elm Reservoir, some 30 miles north.

Rice said about 50 self-styled psychics have called in from as far away as California and Pennsylvania to offer their services and tips.

Police said they will check out all information, regardless of its source.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on. The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

Call between 11 pm and 8 am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it. You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%. Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the weekend. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Reach out and touch someone.

Sharp Increase In Crude Oil Price Predicted

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A leading Arab oil economist predicted Sunday that the price of Saudi Arabian light crude, which sets the price pattern for the OPEC cartel, will increase by nearly 40 percent by the end of the year.

Marwan Iskandar, editor of the weekly magazine An-Nahar Arab Report and Memo, also said several Gulf area members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would like to "depoliticize" oil, but added this will probably not happen.

Iskandar wrote that based on present trends the price of Arabian light crude probably will soar from the current $18 a barrel to $25 by Jan. 1, a step that "will certainly damage both producers and consumers of oil."

As OPEC's December ministerial meeting approaches, most members of the oil cartel "feel that the pace of price increases has been too swift and that market uncertainty has grown considerably," he said.

The Palestinian guerrillas still insist that the oil-rich Arab world use petroleum as a weapon to push for an independent Palestinian state.

But, said Iskandar, Arab members of OPEC "feel more and more that it is unwise to make the issue of stable oil prices a test case for allegiance to the Palestinian cause."

"In fact, many officials in the Gulf feel that the way in which they are being drawn inexorably toward a rigid stance on this question will bring nothing but trouble."

"They would like to depoliticize oil," Iskandar said, "but it is unlikely that this can be achieved because years of accumulated threats to use the oil weapon have created a gigantic snowball that threatens to flatten industrial civilization."

The economist said the Arabs were running the risk of becoming international scapegoats as wages, prices and inflation soar.

Arab moderates were "cognizant of the fact that the average citizen in industrialized nations is increasingly pinpointing oil prices as the source of his woes," Iskandar said.

"This argument concerning the relative exclusion of oil prices from general rates of inflation seems no longer tenable. Wage claims in the West are being directed more and more along parallel lines to increases in the price of oil."

Begin May Weigh Resignation Over Order

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Menachem Begin, his Cabinet torn by internal disputes, Sunday reportedly was weighing his resignation as prime minister over the Israeli supreme court order to dismantle a Jewish outpost on the occupied West Bank.

Begin's Cabinet, government sources said, scheduled a special session for Thursday to discuss the repercussions of last week's supreme court decision on Elon Moreh, built on 200 acres of private Arab land.

During an unusually brief meeting, the sources said, Begin told his Cabinet efforts to find "alternative land" for the settlement were being made.

Despite grumbling from hardline ministers, the Cabinet accepted Begin's proposal that the whole issue be discussed at a special session Thursday, the last business day before the Jewish Sabbath.

Two major Israeli newspapers reported Begin was contemplating resigning in the aftermath of the supreme court decision.

Both the Maariv and Yedioth Ahronoth newspapers said the prime minister "could go to the president" to hand in his resignation unless the Elon Moreh issue is resolved.

Last Monday, the supreme court dismissed government claims the seizure of the private owned Arab land for the outpost was justified for security reasons, and ordered Elon Moreh dismantled within 30 days and its 100 residents evicted.

Defense Minister Ezer Weizman asked for the Elon Moreh debate because he needed more time "to study the entire matter."

Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon and Education Minister Ze'evulun Hammer, both hardliners, pressed for an immediate discussion, the sources said.

Sharon, they said, was angered at the postponement of the debate, terming the Cabinet decision "evasive."

Hammer belongs to the National Religious Party, which supports the Elon Moreh settlers. A key member of Begin's governing Likud bloc, Sharon is a fierce advocate of increased Jewish settlement in occupied Arab territory.

Deputy Prime Minister Yigael Yadin served notice he would not be ready to take over as foreign minister unless he also serves as the chief Israeli negotiator to the Palestinian autonomy talks with Egypt.

Interior Minister Josef Burg, one of the key leaders of the National Religious Party, now heads the Israeli team to the autonomy talks.

Moshe Dayan resigned as foreign minister a week ago over persistent differences with Begin and other key ministers over the conduct of the autonomy negotiations and publicly complained he was left out of the decisions about the talks.

WINNING GESTURE — Congressman Dave Treen (R-La.) makes a winning gesture as he and his wife Dodie arrived at the polls in Metairie, La., Saturday morning as he prepares to cast his vote in the race for governor. Treen, a Republican, won his race and will face Lt. Gov. Jimmy Fitzmorris, a Democrat in a December runoff. (AP Laserphoto)

Successor For Park Undetermined

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The assassination of South Korean President Park Chung-hee has created a power vacuum in the government he ran personally for 18 years.

There is no obvious successor in sight — Park kept his officials on a short rein to prevent them from developing a base of support that might challenge his leadership. All 20 members of his Cabinet were considered administrators and bureaucrats and the few party leaders and former military officers of high rank wielded comparatively little power.

Park and five bodyguards were shot to death at a dinner Friday in what the government called a premeditated assassination by Korean Central Intelligence Agency chief Kim Jae-kyu and five of his men. The government first had said the killing was an accident.

A government spokesman said Kim assassinated Park because he had lost the president's trust and was afraid of losing his job, but denied that he had planned a coup. Kim was arrested and was being interrogated, the government said.

The acting president, Prime Minister Choi Kyu-hah, a career diplomat, is given little chance of remaining president after the three months during which the constitution says Park's successor must be chosen.

Although he must be considered a possibility because he now occupies the office Park made so powerful, Choi has had little power since he was appointed in 1975, and has few backers in the government.

"It's difficult to say who is in line to take over at this point as things are confused and no one seems to hold real power," said a Korean source close to the government, who asked not to be identified. "Of course, you could say that anyone now aspiring to power might be able to get it if he wins the backing of the military."

The constitution says a new president must be chosen within three months by South Korea's electoral college, called the National Council for Unification. But it does not indicate how candidates should be brought before the electors.

The 2,583 members of the council, mostly businessmen, farmers and other non-government people, were chosen in a special election in May 1978. Although the constitution says none may be a member of any political party, all were strong Park supporters.

The college reconfirmed Park in office in July 1978 with a vote of 2,577 in his favor, none opposed, one not valid and five absent.

Park listened most often during his rule to a group of hard-line advisors, many of them former military officials. But they had no major power base outside their access to Park.

The two men considered to be most powerful following Park's death are both former military men, former prime ministers and presently national assemblymen — Kim Jong-pil, 53, and Chung Il-kwon, 61.

Kim was the main organizer of the 1961 coup that put Park in power.

Unions Stoke Inflation Fires

NOW THAT DOUBLE-DIGIT inflation is admitted even by the Carter administration, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is indulging itself in a little I-told-you-so reminder.

It warned Congress against drastically increasing the minimum wage level in 1977.

"Despite objections of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and other business groups, Congress in 1977 voted successive yearly increases in the minimum wage totaling 46 percent," the national chamber recalls.

"The third yearly boost takes it to $3.10 an hour Jan. 1," it adds, "and the fourth to $3.35 an hour Jan 1, 1981.

"AS PREDICTED by the U.S. Chamber, the excessive increases helped ignite the current double-digit inflation while forcing employers either to delay hiring of new workers or to lay off existing workers or raise prices, or all three," the Chamber points out.

It could have mentioned that unemployment among the inner-city poor, particularly black teenagers, has grown even more acute because employers simply cannot afford to pay such high wages to totally unskilled youths who have not even developed good work habits.

The sad part is that, if they were permitted to pay lower starting wages, employers would be eager to hire teenagers and train them. Lacking that flexibility, they either have to let a job go undone or hire higher-priced and capable employees.

Higher wages mean the employer must charge higher prices, which add up to inflation.

THE WAY THIS WORKS in practice, the U.S. Chamber president, Dr. Richard Leshar points out, is this:

An employer can build a fence by using three low-skilled workers each earning $14 a day ($42 total labor cost for the fence) or by using a highly skilled worker who earns $38 a day. He hires the latter.

"But suppose the skilled worker belongs to a labor union that demands and gets a wage of $55 a day," Leshar says. "The employer now decides it is cheaper to hire three unskilled workers at $42.

"But now the labor union lobbies for an increase in the minimum wage—a 'living wage for the poor'—up to $20 a day. Now the three low-skilled workers cost $60 to build a fence. Who is hired? The $55-a-day skilled union worker."

The result of labor-union backed increases in the minimum wage is to throw low-skilled workers out of jobs, give the union worker higher pay than he's worth, and force the buyer of the fence to pay a higher price.

AN EDITORIAL:

Pay Scale Issue Off Balance

KOOKY IDEAS unfortunately have had a way of imposing themselves on American society in recent years, which is why we can't lightly dismiss calls for "equal pay for work of comparable value."

Promoted by a coalition of labor, government and women's groups, what the slogan means is that the federal bureaucracy should set the wage level of every job in the country.

"What it means is that employers should pay the same wages for different jobs if both require equal experience, training, responsibility, skill and energy," the Associated Press reported from Washington.

"UNDER THAT PRINCIPLE," the story continued, "a company might find that its low-paid female secretary should receive the same pay as its high-paid male truck driver, or that a nurse would earn at least as much as a painter."

Once the principle is accepted, of course, there would have to be a legion of bureaucrats to determine the "experience, training, responsibility, skill and energy" required for every job and to enforce the equal-pay mandate with every employer.

This would be wage controls carried to their ultimate, nightmarish end.

"We're talking about a major restructuring ing of the pay system in the United States," Susan Ross, a law professor at Georgetown University, frankly admits.

"I do believe this is the issue of the 1980s. This is a true sleeping giant," adds Eleanor Holmes Norton, head of the federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, which has become notorious for going beyond the bounds of reason in meddling with employer-employee relationships.

TRYING TO CATEGORIZE every person and every job into some neat pigeon hole, ignoring personal abilities and job market forces, is the radical extremism of centralized planning.

Such a system would provide a comfortable niche for thousands more bureaucrats who couldn't hold a job in competitive fields of endeavor and would guarantee incompetent and lazy employees the same pay for comfy jobs as is received by hard-working and ambitious people of whatever sex, color and geographic locale.

But somehow we can't help but believe that if a secretary wants to receive the same pay as a truck driver, it's better to let him or her become a truck driver than for the bureaucrats to equalize the wage scales of the two.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Guerrillas Could Not Care Less About Peace

WASHINGTON—The London conference on Zimbabwe-Rhodesia took a turn for the better the other day, though many accounts described it as a turn for the worse.

What happened was that the so-called "Patriotic Front" of Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe showed its hand in unmistakable fashion. In a repetition of previous intransigence, the Front refused to come to terms with the Thatcher government on a proposed new constitution for the former British colony.

This despite the fact that the constitution has been revamped repeatedly to accommodate their views, and has been reluctantly accepted by Zimbabwe-Rhodesian prime minister Abel Muzorewa.

This breakdown in the proceedings set a number of commentators aflutter about a possible continuation of hostilities in Rhodesia—as if the talks were somehow going to bring an end to the fighting.

TO ANYONE WHO has studied the situation and the previous actions of the guerrilla leaders, this prospect has always seemed remote, so its alleged disappearance is not astonishing.

Such comment presupposes that the Patriotic Front is authentically interested in peaceful majority rule for Zimbabwe-Rhodesia, but there is nothing in the record to support this notion.

The Front is a combination of mutually hostile guerrilla factions with differing tribal origins, united by common backing from the Communist world and the patronage of African Marxists.

Their principal mode of political action is terrorism against defenseless black civilians.

Neither of the guerrilla leaders has any discernible interest in majority rule. Nkomo is a Mata-bele, a distinct numerical majority in Zimbabwe-Rhodesia, and has little to gain from one-man, one-vote politics.

MUGABE APPEARS to be a true revolutionary zealot, having said that he aims for "a one-party Marxist state, (and that) I don't think a multi-party system is necessarily democratic."

Both Nkomo and Mugabe could have taken part in the April balloting that elected Muzorewa, but refused to do so. They prefer to shoot their way to power, and to that end are counting on an extension of crushing economic sanctions against the freely elected Muzorewa government.

In that context, there is no reason to suppose their interest in a "fair" constitution is more than window-dressing.

In fact, the constitution under which Muzorewa was chosen and the regime over which he presides have given Rhodesia the freest government in Africa.

The continuation of Western sanctions against that government is on the face of it grotesque, especially when the United States and United Kingdom routinely traffic with one-party despotisms of that continent and others.

It is to please such despotisms, indeed, that the Rhodesian sanctions have been kept in place.

THAT APPARENTLY was also the motivation behind the London conference. Rather than committing itself to the immediate lifting of sanctions, as it has indicated it would, the Thatcher government apparently felt it necessary to put the pro-Western Muzorewa through another series of constitutional hoops to show its devotion to "majority rule."

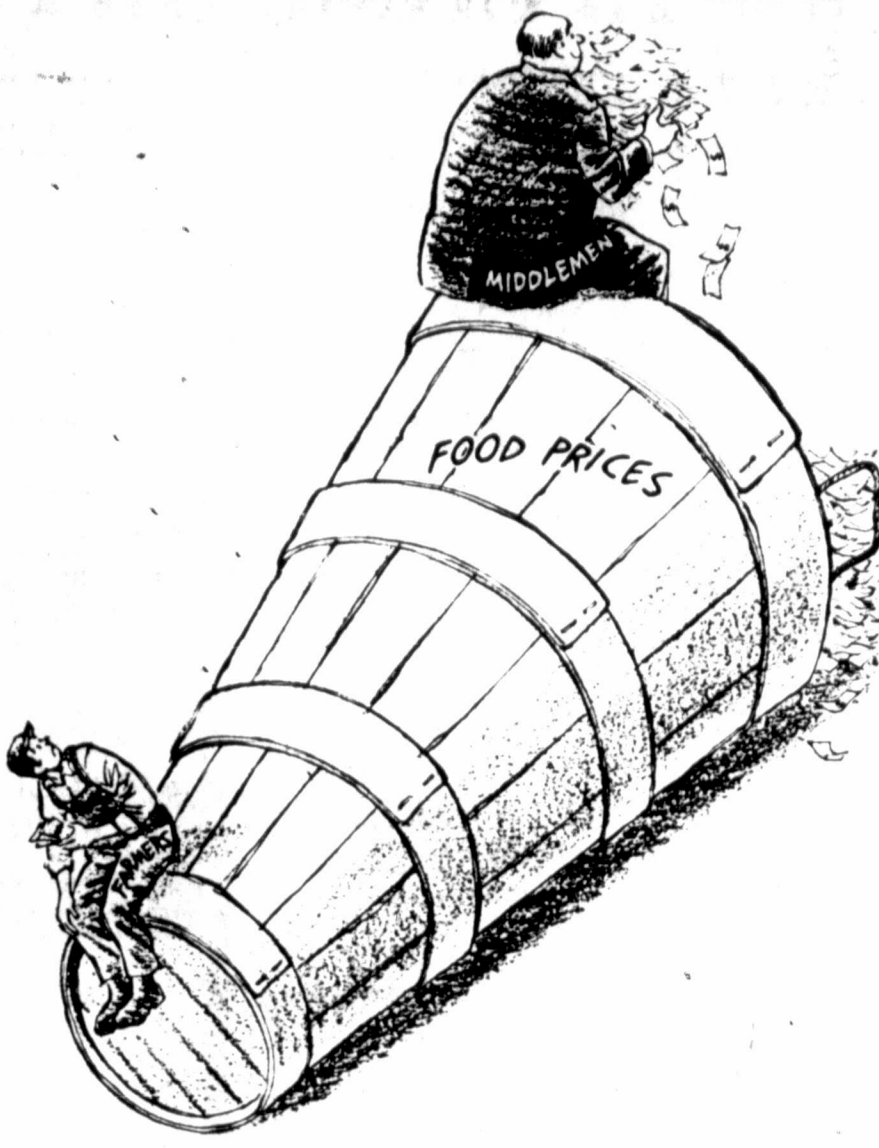

Muzorewa has gone along with this procedure, one suspects, not because the Patriotic Front can be expected to behave, but because it can't.

All the necessary (and unnecessary) amenities having been observed, it is time for the United Kingdom—and the United States—to get on with the business at hand, which is the recognition of the Muzorewa government and the lifting of economic sanctions.

Those steps would greatly improve the nation's economic situation, and strengthen its hand against the terrorists who are violating its borders and murdering its people.

Such actions will do far more to serve the cause of peace and majority rule in Zimbabwe-Rhodesia than any amount of talking to the Patriotic Front.

GEORGE WILL:

Lunch Box Paradox

WASHINGTON—No one should question John Connally's intelligence, but it is permissible to be uncertain of his wisdom. And it is reasonable to conclude that his campaign is failing to threaten Ronald Reagan.

Connally has now delivered an historic speech, making him the first presidential candidate ever to adopt a thoroughly anti-Israel policy. His policy is extreme, reckless and self-defeating.

Extreme because of its congruence with Arab extremism: it even asserts that Israel (which has been trying to negotiate for 31 years) is the obstacle to negotiations with what Connally calls Israel's "moderate neighbors." (Syria?)

Reckless because it will encourage Arab extremists.

ANDREW TULLY:

Gov. B's Ego Trip

WASHINGTON—There are some eggheads in my trade who claim they understand everything Calif. Gov. Jerry Brown says, but I'm not one of them.

Sure, I get the drift after looking up such esoteric language as "Class 9 meltdowns," "biomass conversion" and "photovoltaic generation." But that's part of my job.

Brown's problem is that the average steelworker, for example, wants him to speak English the first time around.

Given that problem, the tendency is to conclude that Jerry Brown's "candidacy" is a vehicle for giving his high-toned intellect a run in the yard.

Were Harry Truman alive today he would dismiss Brown as an "overeducated (expletive)" and plain folks would love it. The governor is attractive, but he risks portraying himself as a man who can't resist showing off his scholarship.

STILL, BROWN does appeal to a number of scattered constituencies. The no-nukes bunch loves him. So do the Big Oil haters, the budget balancers, opponents of a military draft, the supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment.

His audiences might come, as one college student put it, "to get a look at the guy who dates Linda Ronstadt," but they stay and applaud when he demands imposition of a federal ceiling on the price of home heating oil and a government takeover from the oil companies of the purchase of all imported oil.

One might shudder at the thought of another government bureaucracy messing with the oil crisis, but Brown makes it seem simple—at least to people hard hit by that crisis.

All we have to do, he says, is get Congress to okay a federal oil-buying agency.

BESIDES, IT puts Brown on the side of the faceless consumer who, as Brown rightly notes, has been "excluded from the ruling coalition."

Except for establishment types, people do not like "ruling coalitions," as Jimmy Carter's 1976 success showed.

And, of course, Brown is right again when he says there is "tremendous political power emerging from people like Ralph Nader, the anti-nuclear movement," and other activist anti-status quo outfits.

As he pushed those issues, which in effect make up the single issue of opposition to things as they are, one gets the impression that Brown is looking beyond 1980.

He keeps mentioning, offhand, that he won't be crushed if he misses out on the Democratic nomination next year.

"WHATEVER THE outcome," he says, "I'm prepared to form a long-term coalition."

And indeed, at 41, Jerry Brown has plenty of time. He likes to point out that in the year 2000 he'll be younger than Ronnie Reagan is today.

As of now, I'd bet the grocery money that Brown is running just for fun—the fun of making things difficult for politicians named Jimmy Carter and Ted Kennedy. He's that type.

JAY HARRIS:

The Hard Years...

IT WAS FIFTY years ago that one of the most traumatic events in the history of the nation took place.

It was on Oct. 29, 1929—"Black Tuesday"—that the Stock Market came apart at the seams. It marked the start of one of the most far-reaching financial collapses ever recorded.

The date has been pegged as the event which set off the Great Depression. Actually, the ingredients were many years in the making, and the Depression deepened as the years passed.

Today, a vast portion of the American people know of those hard, bitter years only from what they have read or what they have heard. But, there are millions alive who lived through "The Thirties" whose lives were forever marked by them, and who will never forget.

AS THE anniversary of the great Stock Market crash of 1929 comes around, there has been a spate of stories, and questions.

"Crash Of '29—Have We Learned Anything?" was the question emblazoned across a national news magazine the past week.

"Shock Treatment For Inflation" read another against a blazing red background and a page from the news stock page.

With Inflation running at a rampant 13 percent and interest rates even higher, with the home building and auto industry worried about the future, the "can it happen again" syndrome haunts many born long since that Black Tuesday "when panic set in and was allowed to run its course."

Well, no one knows all of the answers, of course. But, the most learned of the economists, stock market analysts, bankers and business experts say that although the market itself could figuratively "crash," what happened 50 years ago is most unlikely to be repeated.

TODAY, BOTH in the market place, in government and in the banking community, there are many safeguards and almost automatic devices which should serve as brakes on a collapse of the magnitude of 1929 and The Thirties.

The great imponderable today, of course, is the energy question, what happens on the foreign policy level. In some respects, the OPEC nations in the final analysis could have as much to say about what sort of world we live in for the next decade as we do—unless, of course, the American people are willing to get their act together, sacrifice and find new energy sources, and be willing to risk the possibility of war to protect a way of life unknown to much of the world.

As the anniversary of the Crash arrives, many of the myths and realities of the time are being resurrected. People selling apples to survive. Bankers and brokers jumping out windows. Fortunes wiped out overnight. Panic, stark, cold panic. Variety summed it up: Wall Street Lays An Egg.

THERE WAS A little of all of that and a whole lot of some of it.

But, the Depression didn't happen overnight, didn't arrive overnight and certainly didn't leave overnight.

At its height, in 1933, a total of 24.9 percent of the civilian work force was without jobs. As late as 1940, on the eve of World War II, it was still 14.6 percent. In people figures, the number of unemployed rose from 1.6 million in 1929 to 12.8 million in 1933, when one out of every four persons was out of a job.

Today, although the Federal Reserve's tight money policy has driven interest rates to alltime highs, and a business slowdown is inevitable, the chances are slim indeed that another crash of the magnitude of 1929 again will come about. Today's economy, from services and goods to electronics and education is a vastly more broad-based, diversified animal. It does not feed upon the stock market alone.

ALSO, THE conditions in the market itself are much changed.

In 1929, everyone was "playing" the market, even the errand boys, maids and butlers. Most, including the rich, were doing it on borrowed money and next to nothing down.

Even though the market recently plummeted almost 100 points, and may well go down farther, it has been an orderly retreat.

But, what of the year ahead? What about the average wage earner, the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, and all those who furnish the raw products, buy the finished ones? What do they face and what can they do about it?

All signs point to more double digit inflation for the months ahead. Tight money will put a premium on buying and investing. The fact that an election year is coming up may well serve to confuse the whole outlook. As for Lubbock and the South Plains, the area should be in much better shape than most, because of a bumper cotton crop and a viable, diversified economy.

AND WHAT can an individual do to cope in the days ahead?

It may sound trite, but—Keep cool, don't panic, and above all choose those who seek office with an open mind, on past records and performances, not on emotion, party loyalty or prejudice, racial or otherwise.

Buy and save wisely. Turn in a day's work for a day's pay. Keep informed, about events from City Hall to Austin to the White House and nations abroad. And finally, have faith in America—and God.

This is still the greatest nation on earth. The American people, if they deserve the way of life to which most have become accustomed, will be willing to sacrifice and work—even fight, if necessary—to protect and maintain it.

History still repeats itself only for those who fail to heed the lessons of the past. At home and abroad, we should know by now what we have to do to survive. It won't be easy. But, then, it never has been.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

WAS FULTON J. Sheen who advised: "Never measure your generosity by what you give but by what you have left." That sounds good, all right. Might sound better, though if he'd just said: "Never measure your generosity."

Most spectacular ski jump in the Western Hemisphere is said to be at Copper Peak near Ironwood, Mich. Jumpers stay airborne up to 540 feet, I'm told.

Odd one, that South American Paradox frog. Gets to be about 11 inches long. Then as it grows older, it shrinks until it's mature at about 2 inches long.

Khomeini Blames U.S. For All Problems Facing Iranians

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini Sunday blamed the United States for Iran's woes and urged all Iranians to shut the door forever on the West.

"These America-loving rotten brains must be purged from the nation...these departments must be cleaned of these traitors," Iran's Islamic leader said in an address to students at his headquarters in Qom.

"If the purge is not carried out today, we'll be forced to do it tomorrow," the 79-year-old leader said.

"All our troubles are caused by America," Khomeini said, adding the U.S. arms sold to the shah's regime were of no use and "most of the agreements" between Iran and the U.S. had harmed Iran.

Khomeini said western influences absorbed during the shah's regime posed a threat to the country's identity. "The must shut the door on the West. So long as the West has a way, you shall never achieve independence," he said.

Khomeini's attack came as a union of Iranian oil workers threatened to cut oil supplies to the United States unless Washington-extradites Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

"We warn that if the Iranian government fails to act in demanding the extradition of the hated shah, or the United States refuses to heed their demand, the bold workers in south Iran will reconsider the export of oil to America and will in fact cut the U.S. oil supply," the Joint Oil Workers Syndicate said in a statement quoted by the Tehran Times.

Bomb Blast Damages Train

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — A terrorist bomb exploded Sunday under a Tel Aviv-bound passenger train with 250 people on board, police said.

The blast north of the Israeli resort town of Natanya damaged the engine and the tracks and left a railroad employee in shock. None of the passengers was hurt.

Despite the damage to the engine, the engineer managed to take the train to the Natanya railroad station. A passenger train bound in the other direction was stopped at the station and its passengers proceeded to Haifa by bus.

Railroad company crews began repairing the damage to the tracks while police launched widespread searches for the saboteurs.

Bodies Recovered In Gas-Filled Mine

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Rescue workers recovered 10 more bodies Sunday from a provincial coal mine where 126 miners were trapped in underground coal pits filled with toxic gas, reports reaching Seoul said.

The reports said 85 miners have been rescued and 28 others were confirmed to be alive in a coal pit. The recovery of the 10 bodies Sunday brought the death toll in the explosion to 13. It had originally been feared that all 126 miners in the pits had been killed.

"At this pace, we can take them out by early tomorrow morning," rescue leaders said, according to the reports.

"It is surprising that most of them survived the ordeal, but thought their chances were dim," the reports quoted rescue workers as saying.

The explosion Friday morning at the Unsueng Coal Mine 60 miles southeast of Seoul is suspected to have been touched off by an electrical short circuit. It rocked the coal pits when the miners on night duty were about to leave, the reports said.

The explosion immediately started a fire which spread rapidly along a conveyor belt used to carry coal out to the ground, the reports said.

Cuba Says U. S. Knew Of Assassination Plot

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Cuba said Sunday there is growing evidence the assassination of South Korean President Park Chung Hee was carried out "with Washington's knowledge."

A dispatch from Havana by Cuba's official Prensa Latina news agency, monitored in Mexico City, offered little proof for its charge other than saying that several South Korean military officers were educated in the United States. "As new details are known, there is a growing certainty that the surprising death of Park ... was premeditated and planned by South Korean government and military officials with Washington's knowledge," the dispatch said.

"The unpopular Park, after long years of dictatorship, triggered a movement among administrative and military officials who had studied in the United States," Prensa Latina said.

"Judging by the events, and the speed with which the United States reacted, it is easy to deduce that Washington knew about the plot against Park," the news agency said.

Heartline

EDITOR'S NOTE: Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 43081. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: Recently it has come to my attention that two benefits I always thought would be available apparently are not. I would like your comments.

1. There is no nursing facility in this town that will accept assignments and deal with Medicare. This is understandable since so many restrictions and bureaucratic red tape are involved. There are several fully accredited skilled nursing facilities here.

My question is: Is it legal for Medicare to refuse to reimburse an individual for 80 percent of the allowable charges providing an individual entering a skilled but non-participating nursing facility which meets all other requirements? It is my understanding that unless the nursing facility agrees to participate on Medicare's terms, that the individual is denied the right to pay his own way then be reimbursed for any portion on this by Medicare.

I realize that certain requirements must be met in order to protect both the patient and the expenditure of funds, but I am referring here to a fully accredited institution offering outstanding care and employing more than five times the number of RNs for patient care for state accreditation. I am also referring to reimbursement only for allowable charges, not actual charges.

If I understand this regulation correctly, then this is socialized medicine. Freedom of choice is denied, and a whole segment of senior citizens is being denied benefits available to those who live in another geographic location.

2. Is it true that there is no burial allowance under Railroad Retirement? Are there other benefits available under Social Security but denied under Railroad Retirement? — Why?

Yes, it is legal for Medicare to refuse to reimburse an individual for 80 percent of the allowable charges if those charges are from a non-participating nursing facility. It does not matter how many nurses are on duty or how accredited the institution is. The facility must participate with Medicare or you are not eligible for reimbursement from Medicare.

Before your completely condemn Medicare and the government, keep it in mind that it is possible that your fully accredited institution which offers outstanding care and five times the number of RNs, may be non-participating with Medicare simply because the administration of that skilled nursing facility chose not to. If your freedom of choice is therefore denied, it could be because the nursing facilities in your area chose to exercise their freedom of choice — not to participate with Medicare.

We have found that in many cases, skilled nursing homes are quite quick to throw the blame at Uncle Sam and his bureaucratic red tape, when in fact that facility had other possibly selfish reasons for not wanting to participate with Medicare.

We also want to point out that even though your local skilled nursing facilities do not participate in Medicare, you would be eligible for certain coverage under Part B of Medicare, such as doctor visits, while in a skilled nursing facility.

At any rate, we hope that you will be able to find a suitable skilled nursing facility that participates with Medicare somewhere in your general area. You might check with your Medicare carrier, local Chamber of Commerce, United Aid Information and Referral Service, or possibly your nearest Council or Agency on Aging.

And, yes, the Railroad Retirement Board does pay a Lump Sum Death Benefit that is $255 and is payable under the same circumstances as Social Security Death Benefits. There are advantages and disadvantages in both Social Security and Railroad Retirement.

Mental Evaluation Set

A-J Correspondent

BIG SPRING — Jackie Wayne Hogan, 25, arrested here Aug. 23 after an alleged assault on a 19-year-old beauty queen, has filed a motion for a mental evaluation. The evaluation will delay trial proceedings, according to District Attorney Rick Hamby.

Hogan was apprehended in the Hohertz family car at a busy intersection moments after he allegedly attempted to abduct Andra Hohertz, a former Miss Howard County, from a parking lot at a shopping center here.

Miss Hohertz was loading boxes into the car when Hogan allegedly struck her from behind before forcing her into the vehicle. He reportedly confiscated the keys to the vehicle and apparently intended to take the young woman with him before she made an escape through the passenger door.

Hogan was charged with robbery, auto theft and kidnapping. Bond originally was set at $15,000, but later was denied when authorities learned that Hogan was in violation from parole from the Texas Department of Corrections.

The Howard County Grand Jury indicted Hogan Oct. 2 on a charge of kidnapping.

Tech Professor To Receive Faculty Award

Dr. Valerie Chamberlain, associate professor in the Department of Home Economics Education at Texas Tech University, is the recipient of the Texas Home Economics Faculty Award for 1978-79.

The Vocational Homemaking Teachers Association of Texas bestowed the honor on Dr. Chamberlain in recognition of her contribution to vocational home economics and for her support of the program.

She was selected by the organization's board of directors.

The award is given annually to a faculty member in a Texas institution of higher education and is not limited to any one field of home economics.

Dr. Chamberlain has been teaching home economics education at Texas Tech since 1971. Prior to that, she taught at Florida State University, where she also received a doctorate in home economics.

Since she has been at Texas Tech, Dr. Chamberlain has held membership in several campus organizations including the Athletic Council, Faculty Senate and Student Publications Committee. She also chaired the Academic Affairs Committee. She was a 1978 recipient of an AMOCO distinguished teaching award.

As a consultant, Dr. Chamberlain has assisted in developing educational and curriculum materials in a number of states including Texas, California, Pennsylvania, Hawaii and Florida. She is also consultant for in-service workshops and conferences and recently spoke at the Ontario Education Association meeting in Canada.

The Texas Tech professor has published numerous articles and books on home economics education. Her works include books for junior high, high school and college home economics classes, teaching ideas and materials for home economics teachers and "Tips and Topics," a home economics newsletter.

New Legislation Aimed At Midwifery

By KEN ORTOLON
A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The increasing number of babies delivered by lay midwives in Texas has caused concern in some areas of the state about the quality of care these midwives give.

Statistics compiled by State Rep. Hector Uribe's staff show at least 8,000 babies were delivered by lay midwives in Texas during 1977 while the state has few statutes controlling midwife's activities.

Currently, state laws require only that lay midwives report births or stillbirths, and that they put drops in the babies eyes to prevent blindness.

Questions over competency of lay midwives prompted the City of Brownsville to pass an ordinance requiring midwives be licensed after they pass an examination and deliver 10 babies under supervision. The effectiveness of this ordinance was decreased because most of the midwives moved out of the city limits.

The recent death of a woman following the delivery of her baby by a midwife in El Paso has spurred the city council there to consider a similar ordinance.

Many of the babies being delivered by lay midwives "are being delivered by people who may have no training, may not be skilled or may be incompetent," said Tony Grigsby of Uribe's staff.

Currently anyone can "hang out a shingle" and start delivering babies, Grigsby said. To illustrate the same point, three El Paso city councilmen registered with the El Paso County Clerk as midwives. None of the three has any training as a midwife.

A large portion of the midwife deliveries in Texas occur in the border counties, Grigsby said. Many of the families are of low income and cannot afford a doctor's services. Midwife fees usually do not exceed $400 while doctor's fee are at least $600 plus hospital costs, Grigsby said.

Also, for Mexican-Americans, midwives are part of their culture, Grigsby said.

Grigsby described the lack of "adequate" state laws controlling midwifery "alarming."

A bill Uribe sponsored during the 66th Legislature would have placed some controls on lay midwives but that bill which passed the House and Senate was vetoed by Gov. Bill Clements.

The bill would have required all midwives to register with the State Health Department and also would have set up voluntary training courses for midwives and required midwives to tell prospective clients whether or not they had any training.

In Clements' veto of the bill, the governor claimed the measure would have given midwives credibility they might not deserve.

Dr. Walter Peter Jr. of the Texas Department of Health said that agency is aware of the problems with midwives, but, he added has no jurisdiction over midwifery because of the lack of state laws.

Dave Oliski, director of Medical Ethics of the Texas Medical Association said the TMA has recently reaffirmed its stance against midwifery. That policy states that lay midwives will not deliver high quality service, Oliski said.

Oliski said the recent incident in El Paso is not an isolated case. TMA recently received a letter from a Galveston doctor concerned with the number of cases involving midwives in that area resulting in severe complications.

"There is no medical back up in that type of situation," Oliski said.

Grigsby said Uribe's bill also would have prevented midwives from handling deliveries where there are high possibilities of complications. That bill would have restricted midwives to what Grigsby termed "catch and cut" deliveries.

Grigsby said the health department supported the vetoed bill, but the TMA only gave the measure a "lukewarm endorsement."

Oliski said the TMA supports registration of midwives for the purpose of identifying the midwives but is opposed to licensing midwives.

The TMA also supports the training of certified nurse midwives under the supervision of a physician. A certified nurse midwife is a registered nurse who has received additional training in child birth.

Grigsby said Uribe's bill may have led the way to licensing of midwives if the voluntary training sections had been successful.

Under the bill, if the quality of care provided by midwives increased, the training could have been made mandatory, Grigsby said. If the quality did not increase, the program could have been scrapped.

Grigsby expects the bill to be introduced again in the next session of the legislature and he expects it to be passed and sent to the governor again.

"But, we probably won't amend it to satisfy the governor," Grigsby said.

Congress May Trim Power Of Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is preparing to trim the sails of the Federal Trade Commission, which many businesses say imposes too many regulations on them.

The House is expected to approve early this week a bill that would make every industry regulation by the FTC subject to congressional veto. Under the proposal, either house of Congress could block any regulation as long as the other house did not vote in favor of the regulation.

The legislative veto, contained in a bill authorizing funds for the FTC, is proposed as a way to give Congress a lighter rein over what many members see as an agency that has been too aggressive in protecting consumers from unfair business practices.

In other votes expected this week, the Senate will consider emergency aid for starving Cambodians and the House will take up a part of President Carter's energy program and will debate whether to expand the federal role in welfare programs administered by the states.

The FTC's troubles with Congress stem largely from a 1975 law allowing it to regulate entire industries, instead of merely bringing cases against one company at a time.

The commission has since been honing regulations to cover funeral homes, used cars, hearing aids and other industries which have been targets of numerous consumer complaints.

The broad-ranging regulations have mobilized entire industries against the FTC. Their complaints to Congress have resulted in the proposals to reduce FTC power.

"I have never received so many complaints about one agency as I have about them," House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said in predicting the House would vote to restrict FTC authority.

Princess Margaret Treated To Tour

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Real estate developer John W. Galbreath, owner of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, treated Great Britain's Princess Margaret to a whirlwind limousine tour of his 4,500-acre Darby Dan Farm.

During the hour-long visit Saturday, the princess, sister of Queen Elizabeth II, saw Galbreath's thoroughbred horses, plus his trophies from hunting expeditions and World Series baseball play.

"She's a delightful person," said Galbreath. "She was particularly interested in the yearlings we have here."

The royal family has a keen interest in thoroughbred horses, and the princess, wanted "to see some of our foals and mares," he said.

After the visit, the princess flew to Miami in Galbreath's private jet. She is completing an unofficial, private visit to the United States to raise money for the Royal Opera House at Covent Garden.

Man Charged In Shooting

A-J Correspondent
PLAINVIEW — A 21-year-old Beeville man is scheduled to be arraigned today in connection with the Saturday shooting death of another Beeville man in a migrant labor camp near Mayfield in southern Hale County.

Juan Salinas, 48, the chief of a traveling crew harvesting for the Irvin Lee Vegetable Co., Inc., was shot to death in the early morning hours in his living quarters, said Hale County sheriff's deputies. They recovered a .22 caliber pistol believed to be the murder weapon at the scene.

WOMEN BECOMES COUNSEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Sara Elisabeth Lister today became the Army's general counsel. She is the second woman to serve as the Army's top civilian lawyer. She succeeds Jill Wine Volner, a former Watergate prosecutor who recently resigned the Army position.

City Woman Jailed In Shooting

A 30-year-old Lubbock woman remained in Lubbock County jail late Sunday in connection with the Saturday shooting death of Rufus Tillmon, 47, of 2212 Redbud Dr., Apt. C.

Reports show Tillmon was shot once in the chest apparently after a quarrel in his apartment about 4:30 p.m. Saturday. Police arrested the woman at the scene.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack ruled the death a homicide—the city's 28th for the year—and has ordered an autopsy.

A 56-year-old Lorenzo man was robbed of $250 at knife-point about 12:45 a.m. Sunday in the parking lot of a nightclub at 202 Municipal Dr.

Sancisco Guzman told police that he had agreed to let a man help him start his car when the man then pulled a knife on him, ordered him back in his car and demanded his money.

Before leaving, the suspect told Guzman to "lay down and don't move or I will kill you." The victim said he heard the suspect drive off west at a high rate of speed.

Guzman said the suspect was Mexican-American, 26 to 35, short and of medium build. He said the man was wearing a blue shirt, blue jeans and a red band around his long hair.

Charles Edward Johnson of 2507 45th St. told Lubbock County sheriff's deputies that a black male stabbed him in the arms at a "joint" east of the city Saturday night.

Johnson said he and the suspect had been playing pool when the two men began arguing and the suspect pulled a knife and began slashing him in the arms. Johnson was treated and later released from Methodist Hospital.

The victim gave sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect.

Police took a juvenile male into custody for the burglary of the Town Draw, 1801 19th St. Sunday morning.

Reports indicate officers responded to an alarm which sounded at the club about 10 a.m. When they arrived at the scene, the officers heard noises within the building, and a policeman saw a juvenile male run out of the building, began pursuit but lost him.

The boy was later apprehended by an officer at the intersection of 19th Street and Avenue T and taken to the juvenile division.

Steve Paul Hartnett, owner of the club, said that $100 worth of damage had been done to the club's doors and to two pinball machines that had been pried.

Joseph E. Burnett, 55, of 1923 29th St. said that a white male stabbed him once in the abdomen during an argument outside a residence in the 1300-block of 29th Street Saturday afternoon.

The victim was treated and later released from Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Burnett said he and the suspect had been drinking, began arguing and went outside where the suspect stabbed him once in the abdomen.

The suspect was described as a white male, 46 to 55, heavy and of medium build.

Five persons reported that a tire or tires on their vehicles were slashed while they were parked at McWhorter Elementary School, 2711 First St., during the school's Halloween party Saturday night.

The victims were Sylvia Hinojos, Fred Ford, Matia Veliz, Joe Davila and Inocencia Esqueda.

Japanese Businessman Sees Cheap U.S. Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Japan-based Sony Corp. says the falling value of the dollar means that U.S. workers now represent a source of cheap labor for building Sony television sets.

Akio Morita, Sony chairman, said in an interview published in the November issue of The Atlantic Monthly that the wages Sony pays its U.S. workers are lower than Japanese wages. He added that productivity of the American workers is below Japanese levels, but attributed the difference to the economies that can be achieved in larger Japanese plants.

The brighter

As funeral directors, we see a lot of sadness and grief, of course. But that's only one side of our profession.

We also see friends and relatives showing their concern and being there to help.

We see families beginning to adjust to their loss.

And we do everything we can to make that adjustment easier.

These are the things that make funeral directing fulfilling . . . that comprise the brighter side of our profession.

Don't take chances today. You'll hold up all day. Your resistance is down.

Easily hurt today. It's a great day. Easy to hurt someone.

Logical powers abound. Come up with something new. Your mind wanders.

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Inventor Riggs Computer To Aid Accident Victim

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A St. Paul machinist and inventor has rigged up a computer to help an accident victim, who can move only his eyelids, communicate again.

Since an auto accident in May, Stephen Hefner of Fort Mill, S.C., has been able to express himself only by blinking. Hefner, 25, blinks twice for yes, once for no. By blinking in a series of Morse Code signals, he can make a sentence, but it takes several minutes.

David Goldberg read about Hefner's plight and set to work.

In Goldberg's system, Hefner would watch a "pointer," a small diamond of light, moving under the alphabet on a video screen.

One blink would signal an assistant to slow down the pointer. Another blink, when the pointer reached a letter Hefner wanted, would signal the assistant to press a key, making the letter appear at the bottom of the screen.

The process would continue until the letters formed words and a message. Goldberg estimated that Hefner could build a sentence in half the time it now takes.

For routine messages, Hefner could choose words instead of letters.

From a list called "Main Menu," Hefner could blink his choice of words as the pointer moved down the menu. An assistant would then press a key to bring a list of messages to the screen.

For example, if Hefner blinked at the word "environment," pressing the key would fill the screen with such words, and requests, as: bed (stop, start, head up); cover (on, off); pillow (move); lights (off, dim, bright); room temperature (hot, cold).

Hefner would blink again when the pointer reached the word he wanted to convey.

"This would expand his world enormously simply by allowing his own family to be in better touch with him," Goldberg said. "There are so many things he cannot say to them because it simply takes too long."

Hefner's father, Earl, said Goldberg's system sounds encouraging.

Catholic Priest To Spend Time In Jail For Assault

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — The Rev. Joseph Bejgrowicz must serve six months in jail starting Nov. 5 for attacking a parish teacher's husband with a hatchet during an argument in a convent.

Police said the priest and Joseph Rybczynski, 29, were working in the convent's basement April 6 when they began arguing over the priest's "rapport" with Rybczynski's wife. Rybczynski suffered head, neck and face wounds requiring 56 stitches. Bejgrowicz was treated for a severed tendon in his arm.

Venereal Disease Posing New Problems

Little-Known Strand Only Recently Understood

ATLANTA (AP) — A little-known venereal disease that can cause sterility and has the same signs and symptoms as gonorrhea has become a major public health problem, the national Center for Disease Control said Sunday.

The disease, called non-gonococcal urethritis, or NGU, is caused by a bacteria called chlamydia. Only in recent years have doctors been able to grow a culture off this bacteria for study, the CDC reported.

This is one reason why NGU has become so common, although it is still a relative stranger to the list of venereal diseases, said Dr. Paul Wiesner, director of the CDC's Venereal Control Division.

"Another reason is that it is not a reportable disease under the law and doctors have not been treating it as a venereal disease," Wiesner said in an interview.

The disease includes all urethritis infections not caused by gonococci.

"It is only in the past year that we have understood the number of conditions that chlamydia can cause," Wiesner said.

Because NGU is not reportable, no one is certain how many cases of the disease exist. Wiesner said the CDC estimates there are probably twice as many men with NGU as there are with gonorrhea.

"We are estimating that there are about 2 million cases of NGU this year," he said.

Public concern was absent as NGU grew to become a threat because historically it was not recognized as VD, Wiesner said.

"People were unaware of its seriousness," he said. "People were not sure what it was."

NGU can sterilize both men and women and it is a menace to newborn babies, Wiesner added.

The CDC's research indicates that women and children experience an inordinate share of NGU's effects: sterility, ectopic pregnancy and infant diseases.

"Babies acquire it from their mothers at delivery, just as they get gonorrhea. It causes an eye infection which can be treated — one which doesn't cause blindness. But it also is considered the most common cause of pneumonia in children under eight weeks of age."

Studies show that chlamydia cause an estimated 50,000 eye infections and 25,000 cases of pneumonia per year in infants.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Some people never learn. I am talking about YOU, kiddo. A few years ago you said the world's longest beard belonged to Phillips Henson, according to the Guinness Book of World Records. Several people challenged you, but you are still giving the same incorrect answer. Here's a copy of a column you wrote eight years ago. I kept it because of a similar argument in our family. Do you have the nerve to print it? — Photographic Memory In Tallahassee

Dear Photographic: I do and I shall. Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: According to the

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Women who work outside of their homes...all 42 million of them...have a unique set of problems. They have to deal with how to stretch Saturdays into a 36-hour day...how to cook when they're too tired to eat...how to look great on a budget, handle guilt, get time to themselves, and get to the bank, doctor, dentist, and the cleaner when they work the same hours as they do.

But possibly the greatest problem of working women everywhere is one that is rarely talked about: The Office Food Pusher.

Every office or place of business has one.

She's a woman who usually weighs about 36 pounds who comes in every day with a supply of food that she keeps on her desk to tantalize you.

Need a cookie fix? She's the connection.

A Danish injection? She's got it. A Crock Pot party? She's the supplier.

The Office Food Pusher works slowly at first to gain your confidence. She may amble up to you when you're having your first cup of coffee at the desk and say, "Tell me what you think of this strudel. I just tried a new recipe."

The next time (two hours later) she brings out a butter sugar cake and says, "Today's my birthday. You wouldn't refuse a piece of my cake, would you?"

As the weeks go by you are drawn to her desk by garlic dips, homemade breads, sandwiches and candies. It is only one day when you accuse the office of moving your typewriter and someone points out that it is hidden under your stomach that you know you have the eating-on-the-job habit. But it's too late. You're already dependent on the Office Food Pusher.

You find yourself at 9 in the morning staking the Office Food Pusher's desk saying, "Got anything to take the taste of stamps out of my mouth?"

"You invent reasons for a party." "It's my anniversary." "I cut my first tooth 46 years ago." "It's my last day." "It's my last meal."

I know what I have become and it's too late for me. But for the women who are just entering the job market, let me give you a piece of advice. Before you accept the position, wander through the office. Is there a thin girl at a desk? Does she have a letter opener with icing on it? Are there crumbs in her outgoing file? Is she putting a homemade taco in aluminum foil on the radiator to melt the cheese?

Run as fast as you can!

back files of the Beckley, W. Va., Raleigh-Register, an item and picture dated June 8, 1923, reported that Zach T. Wilcox of Carson City, Nev., had a beard 12-feet three inches long. It had been growing since 1881 and was 12-feet, three inches long when the article appeared. — Micro-Film Wizard of Beckley

Dear Ann Landers: The man with the longest beard was NOT Phillips Henson; he was A. B. Norton of Dallas, Tex. Mr. Norton, a college student in 1844, vowed he would not shave until Henry Clay was elected president of the United States. When Mr. Norton died, at the age of 80, his beard was so long they had to roll it up and tuck it in his vest. The undertaker who buried him was my great-grandfather. He wrote in the family Bible, "We buried a man today whose beard measured 12-feet, nine inches long." — Fifth-Generation Texan

Dear Ann Landers: Your beardologist is in error. Phillips Henson's beard was not the longest. As the general manager for the Believe It Or Not Museum, I have specialized in the unusual for 50 years. The world's record is held by a man named Valentine Tapley. He vowed that if Abraham Lincoln was elected president, he would never shave again. Fifty years later, when Mr. Tapley died, his beard measured 12 feet. — J.H. Long, Ripley Believe It Or Not Museum

Dear Mr. Long: I'd like to believe it, but read the next letter:

Dear Ann: Phillips Henson's beard was nothing compared to my great-grandfather's Hans Langseth was born and raised in Norway and lived most of his life in Barney, N.D. When he died in 1927 his beard was 17 feet long. The beard is now on display in the Smithsonian Institution. Life magazine did a wonderful piece on Hans Langseth. Anyone who wants proof of this can go to the Smithsonian and see for himself. — Great Grandchild Of The Winner

Dear Ann: You're probably sick of beard measurements by now, so here's a new twist. The longest head of hair in the world belonged to Swami Pandarasannadhi who lived in the Thiruvada Thurai monastery in India. It was 26 feet in length. — S.P. Of J.

Dear Ann: Since you seem interested in hair-raising stories, did you know the world's longest mustache belonged to Masuriya Din of Calcutta? His mustache was 102 inches from tip to tip. — Chicao, Calif.

Dear Ann: You are a chauvinist pig. Why did you fail to mention the name of the WOMAN who had the longest beard? She was Janice Devere of Kentucky. When Janice died in 1884, her beard was 14-inches long. — Louisville Fan

Dear Ann: Sorry about the oversight. Since you seem to be up on such matters, can you tell me if Janice slept with her beard over the blankets or under the blankets?

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Hints From Heloise

HI, THERE:

Did you know that plain old peroxide is a fantastic scorch remover?

My dad had a light grey suit that apparently got scorched by a cigarette. The spot was in an obvious place, so Dad brought it over to the office to let us "experiment."

Since peroxide removes scorchers from wool, we thought it might work on a synthetic fabric too.

First, we tested it for color fastness on an out-of-the-way spot (inside a pocket). No problem!

After three or four peroxide applications, each applied with a clean white cloth, the spot just faded out.

I sure was delighted with the results, and my dad was pleased as could be.

He thought I was a genius — but dads are sometimes a little prejudiced, bless their ever-lovin' hearts.

If you're ever faced with the problem of removing a scorch mark, remember this tip. — Hugs, Heloise

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Alan: "How about a week of hints for tournament players?"

Oswald: "I have one right here. When playing a Swiss team match don't get upset when something goes wrong at the first or second hand of a match. Maybe your partners will do just as well as your opponents did when they get the hand later."

Alan: "Sometimes your partners may do even better. Here is a hand that got East so upset that he went crazy for the next three hands of a match when he really had nothing to worry about."

Oswald: "North's one-spade response may not meet with approval but many tournament players do make that response. South's two-notrump rebid is eminently correct and North's raise to three is borderline. East's double is a lighter lead director to ask for a spade lead, which West makes. Unfortunately for East, South runs off his top tricks and makes his doubled contract."

Alan: "East was unhappy with the result. He had no need to be. When the hand reached the other table, East also doubled, but South redoubled and cashed the same nine tricks."

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J965 ♥A95 ♦A82 ♠A103
What is your opening bid?
A.—You have just too much to pass, for despite the fact that you should deduct one point for your flat distribution, your three aces, which are undervalued in the point-count method, are adequate compensation. Since your four-card spade suit is not bid-able, open with a "convenient" one club bid.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK8 ♥A854 ♦AJ6 ♠A92
What is your opening bid?
A.—You are much too strong to open one no trump, but a shade light for two no trump. In order to give partner the maximum amount of room to respond, we recommend a "convenient" one club opening. If partner responds one heart, we have a sound raise to four hearts, while over any other response, our intention is to leap to three no trump to show our balanced powerhouse.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠3 ♥A652 ♦KQ10542 ♠94
Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?

A.—Slam is possible if opener has the magic hand, but it will be very difficult to determine if that is the case. As a practical matter we would be content with game, and would wheel out the Stayman Convention in an effort to locate the best game. If partner shows a four-card heart suit, game in hearts should be preferable to three no trump because of our unbalanced distribution.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K1054 ♥83 ♦AK952 ♠K8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♦ Pass
5 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's "high" reverse has shown a hand of 17-19 points, so small slam is certain. It's simply a matter of determining whether or not you have the values for a grand slam. Given our druthers, we would opt for seven spades, but a better approach is to cue-bid six clubs to show our king. If partner signs off in six spades over this encouragement, we would retire reluctantly. But if he makes any other move, we would leap to seven.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q952 ♥KJ76 ♦Q104 ♠7
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♥ Pass Pass Dble.
Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠
Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—You were quite correct to bid only one spade over partner's takeout double, because partner did not promise that much for his fourth-hand action. However, partner's raise to two spades has confirmed that he has the equivalent of a full opening bid. In view of the placement of your heart honors, the singleton club and your fifth spade, it would be pusillanimous indeed to bid less than four spades.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q83 ♥A762 ♦853 ♠A85
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's bid of three diamonds asks you to evaluate your diamond holding for game purposes. You have the worst possible holding, so it would seem that you should sign off with three spades—your 4-3-3-3 distribution is also a drawback. However, your hand could hardly be better for a single raise—you have two aces and the queen of partner's trump suit.

Therefore, we would bid four spades.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K6 ♥KJ92 ♦K93 ♠AJ82
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
4 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—North's raise to four no trump is not ace-asking. It is a quantitative raise in no trump, requesting you to bid a slam in no trump if you are at the top of the range for your response. With 15 HCP and potentially useful intermediates, you could hardly have more, so bid six no trump with alacrity.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠1032 ♥KQJ52 ♦QJ9 ♠J3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Your hand merits another bid, and only two possibilities are worth considering: two hearts, to stress the quality of your suit, or one no trump. Our preference is for the latter. Since your hand is balanced, one no trump is a more descriptive rebid. It also serves to highlight your values in diamonds. Two hearts would suggest a more unbalanced hand with a six-card heart suit.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like your comment on some medication I am taking. I had a manic-depression problem about 10 years ago. At the time the doctor put me on lithium carbonate. The dosage has been adjusted over the years before I go to see the doctor I have to have a lab test for lithium level in the blood. It has held constant for 10 years. I am taking other medicines (list included). I wonder if they are compatible with the lithium. I have developed considerable trembling in my left hand, plus some in my right hand. Could this condition be reversed if I stopped taking medicine?—J.C.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please give me information on hydroceles. What causes them? Where does the fluid come from? Does it fill a vein or a testicle? What is the treatment for it: Surgery? Are they dangerous? There is no discomfort except when walking.—L.B.

A hydrocele (HY-dro-see) is an accumulation of fluid in a delicate sac that lies in the scrotum close to the testicle. They are usually non-tender. The beam from a small penlight will pass through the fluid, and this helps doctors make the diagnosis. The light would not, of course, pass through solid tissue (such as a tumor).

Sometimes infections or an injury to the area can cause the fluid to accumulate. In many men the cause is just not known, although the possibility of a tumor associated with a hydrocele has to be ruled out.

The usual treatment is drainage with a special needle. The fluid does tend to recur, and sometimes surgical removal of the sac itself is necessary.

Hydroceles are not dangerous in themselves, but can be annoying, as is your problem when walking.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I remember reading somewhere that if a person starts taking a blood thinning medicine he must keep taking it for the rest of his life—that it would be dangerous to stop.—M.K.

Not true. Blood thinners (anti-coagulants) need to be taken for life only if the condition for which they are prescribed lasts for life. For instance, a person who has had a blood clot in the lungs may have to take the thinner only for six months or so. It is not dangerous to stop if it is done under a doctor's control. The dosage is reduced over three to four weeks, not all at once.

Lots of little pleasures—like shopping for a smaller size—are part of the joy of attaining a slender figure. Ray Barnwell, for example, enjoys looking for new clothes now that she has lost 60 pounds on our proven program of weight reduction. A petite 113 pounds, she slips easily into size 6—and that's much more exciting than trying on the size 18 (or larger) she wore before she started treatments at Pat Walker's.

"After years of being overweight and trying all types of diet plans, I discovered a truly workable solution," Ms. Barnwell writes. "Pat Walker's is helping me take off the weight plus the inches I have struggled with all my life... For the first time, I'm getting down to the size I want to be and feel I can control my weight without being on a starvation diet."

Britain Courts Hua, Seeks China Trade

LONDON (AP) — Britain, seeking to impress China of its potential as an important trading partner, welcomed Chinese Premier Hua Guofeng on Sunday with a glittering display of pomp and calls for closer ties with the Communist nation.

Sustained Lubbock Growth Listed As Top Need In 1980s

SANTA FE — Lubbock's "sustained, managed growth" during the 1980s emerged as the primary concern of the Chamber of Commerce's Committee '80, during a weekend conference here.

Rolling up their sleeves for three days of meetings, the 75 conferees agreed the city must continue to attract businesses which will provide a strong tax base in the decade to come.

Cities which do not progress and grow, slide backward, they noted.

Committee '80 members pinpointed Lubbock's growing need for a third municipal-agricultural water source, and improving transportation links to, from and within the city, as perhaps the most urgent needs to address in the next ten years.

"It seems to me if we take care of those problems, the rest of the goals will fall into place," noted one of the participants referring to numerous other intents of the nine subcommittees.

Temporary Water Solution
Committee '80 members agreed the planned Justiceburg Reservoir — if and when it is completed — will provide only a temporary solution to Lubbock's shortening water supplies.

"Lubbock is rapidly outgrowing its firm water supplies," said the municipal facilities and services subcommittee. "By the mid '80s a third major water supply will be needed to maintain orderly growth in the city."

Water rationing is on the horizon if a new source — importing water from out

Suicide Tips Set For Book

LONDON (UPI) — A society that believes in voluntary mercy killing has voted overwhelmingly to break the law and publish a guide telling the terminally ill how they can commit suicide.

In the face of opposition of the British Medical Association and churches, the Voluntary Euthanasia Society at its annual meeting Saturday decided by a vote of 115 to 11 to go ahead and publish its controversial pamphlet.

"Intolerable illness is a nightmare," author Arthur Koestler said in a speech supporting the plan. "There is one worse nightmare and that is a bungled suicide attempt."

To prevent the pamphlet from being used by the emotionally disturbed, the society said its distribution would be limited to those who had been members for at least three months.

The pamphlet will be written by the society's executive committee of lawyers, doctors, social scientists and educators and is expected to be available in the next three months.

The pamphlet will list drugs that may be used and their effects. There will also be false safe systems involving two suicide methods in case one fails.

The society admitted publication of the pamphlet would be illegal but said prosecution was unlikely under the 1961 Suicide Act, which provides for prison sentences of up to 14 years for aiding a suicide.

Legal action could be taken to block publication. A spokesman for the attorney general's office said if it is considered necessary an injunction could be requested from a court to prevent the pamphlet from appearing.

Dr. Colin Brewer, a psychiatrist, told the meeting the advantages of having a civilized means of death for those in severe pain with terminal sicknesses far outweighed the dangers of the pamphlet falling into the wrong hands.

Nicholas Reed, the society's general secretary, disputed the assertion of the British Medical Association that, "The plan is extremely irresponsible, no matter how limited the distribution."

Segrave and Stourton — also was there, along with an honor contingent from the Coldstream Guards armed forces unit. The battalion's band played the Chinese national anthem.

A limousine motorcade escorted by motorcycle police took Hua into the city to the venerable Claridge's Hotel, where he got a "dragon's welcome" from London's Chinese community.

Big fabric dragons undulated in colorful patterns as Hua waved and smiled at the Chinese, and at the Britons who joined in greeting him.

At the airport reception, Mrs. Thatcher told Hua his visit is a unique event, the first to Britain by a premier of the People's Republic of China. "China is a great and historic nation which has a crucial role to play in world affairs and we attach great importance to our bilateral relations," she said.

Hua said his visit "represents a new stage of closer ties between China and Britain ... There is much common ground between China and Britain on a large number of international issues."

Britain's Trade and Industry Department and British businessmen are eager to sound out the visiting Chinese, particularly powerful Vice Premier and economic planner Yu Quli, on possibilities for improved trade and the reasons for a recent slowdown in China's development plans.

Thatcher Conference Set
Hua and his entourage arrived after spending the previous week on a tour of West Germany. He is to confer twice with Mrs. Thatcher, a vocal critic of the Soviet Union, and is expected to feel more free to lash out at the Kremlin than he did during his West German visit.

West Germany, a supporter of détente, had asked him to tone down his anti-Soviet remarks.

Besides lunch with the queen and a royal guided tour of Buckingham Palace scheduled for Tuesday, the schedule for the 59-year-old premier and Communist Party Chairman includes a pilgrimage to Karl Marx's London grave, a performance of the ballet "Sleeping Beauty" at the Royal Opera House in Covent Garden, and a dinner given by the Lord Mayor of London.

Hua is also booked for rides on a British Hovercraft and a streamlined 125-miles-an-hour train, and visits to a Rolls Royce aero engine factory and a modern farm.

Britain Ranks Ninth
Britain ranks ninth among China's trading partners, but had great expectations from an economic cooperation agreement signed in March, which envisioned last year's level of $425 million in bilateral trade expanding to a cumulative $14 billion in the next six years.

Businessmen say contracts so far have fallen short of that level.

The Chinese delegation has signed trade and cultural agreements with France and West Germany, and will probably do so during stops in Britain and Italy. British officials said the signings will involve relatively minor pacts.

Fighters On Agenda
Talks with Mrs. Thatcher and members of her government are expected to touch on the controversial proposed Chinese purchase of 80 to 90 British-made Harrier vertical takeoff fighters.

The $350-million deal, to which the Soviet Union has strongly objected, was delayed earlier this year after China's invasion of Vietnam. It is still being negotiated.

Another topic is the future of the British crown colony Hong Kong, which for years was China's only window on the West. Britain is concerned about the several hundred Chinese who daily try to enter Hong Kong illegally from China.

Also, the British lease on the mainland New Territories part of Hong Kong runs out in 1997, and while the Chinese communists are reported satisfied with the colony's role, they have never endorsed the 1841 treaty that ceded the original Hong Kong to Britain in perpetuity.

Hua also is to talk with ex-Prime Minister James Callaghan, now leader of the opposition Labor Party, and Liberal Party chief David Steel before flying on to Rome Saturday to wind up his four-nation European tour.

MONSTER CANDY BAR
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Eleven students at Albertus Magnus College created a monster. Then they ate it.

The students worked all day Saturday building a candy bar 5 1/2 feet long, 6 inches wide and 2 inches thick. It was 2 pounds of crushed almonds covered with 23 pounds of milk chocolate. The Guinness Book of World Records currently carries no entry for largest candy bar.

Early Morning Fire Destroys Residence
A Sunday morning blaze destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Canuto Mata, northwest of Lubbock, before firefighters from Shallowater, Wolforth and Reese Air Force Base could bring the fire under control.

The structure, located about a mile north of Fourth Street and a half mile west of FM 179, was completely on fire when the four fire units arrived at the scene shortly before 9 a.m., said Harry King, a Shallowater firefighter.

An hour later, when the blaze was brought under control, "only two walls were standing," King said, "the roof caved in on the whole structure" and the floor was burned away throughout two-thirds of the 900 foot structure.

Investigators speculated the fire was started by a butane heater located in the home.

Baptist Women Opening State WMU Event Today

The scope of the work of a missionary has been broadened and may now involve "anyone with any skills." That is one of the messages to be given to the nearly 1,500 Southern Baptist women attending the 99th annual state meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union here today and Tuesday, according to the president, Mrs. Elvis Egge of Corsicana.

Russians Detonate A-Devises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department said Sunday that seismic signals received by the United States indicate that the Soviet Union detonated an underground nuclear explosion late Saturday night.

Department spokesman Jim Cannon said the signals, recorded at 11:17 p.m. EDT Saturday, originated at the Semipalatinsk Nuclear Test Area in Siberia.

Cannon said the signals presumably originated in an underground nuclear explosion. He said it was the 13th such occurrence this year.

Meanwhile in Stockholm, Sweden, the Uppsala Seismological Institute reported the Soviet Union set off a "very powerful" underground nuclear explosion early Sunday in the Semipalatinsk area.

The explosion registered 7 on the Richter scale at the institute's seismograph, making it "one of the four most powerful underground nuclear tests carried out by the Soviet Union this year," a spokesman said.

He said the explosion was "in the vicinity" of the 150-kiloton limit established in the nuclear test ban treaty. He would not say whether it had exceeded the limit. One kiloton equals the explosive force of 1,000 pounds of conventional TNT.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7 reflects ground motion 10 times stronger than one of 6. An earthquake measuring 7 on the scale would be considered capable of causing widespread heavy damage.

tending the 99th annual state meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union here today and Tuesday, according to the president, Mrs. Elvis Egge of Corsicana.

"Just any skills you may have may be needed in some part of the world," Mrs. Egge said. She pointed to the need for short-term volunteer missionaries as well as the continuing need for career missionaries. "Some doctors or dentists may take a month of vacation time and work with patients in some field so that the mission doctor can have a rest or a vacation, for example." The need is also present for persons with skills in agriculture, trades, and mechanics, as well as for those in the traditional roles of education and evangelism and health services, she said.

Missionaries Report
The program for the two-day meeting which is being held at the First Baptist Church includes reports from several missionaries. "These missionaries inspire and motivate us to greater involvement," said Eula Mae Henderson of Dallas, executive director of the Texas organization.

The Southern Baptist Convention is engaged presently in a program known as Bold Mission Thrust, an emphasis on telling the gospel to everyone in the world by the year 2000. The SBC presently has approximately 2,900 missionaries in foreign countries and another 2,800 in this country, Miss Henderson said.

Age Groups Informed
The Woman's Missionary Union attempts to educate all the different age groups of a congregation about the work of missions. Through programs for the pre-school boys and girls, known as Mission Friends, and through Girls in Action for girls in grades 1-6, and through Acteens, for girls in grades 7-12, the importance of the mission of the church is passed on to the children and youth. Other programs are designed for Baptist Young Women, up to age 30, and then there is the Baptist Women's organization for others.

Meaning Of Missions
"Missions means beginning next door, but going on beyond, too," said Barbara Brandon of the Lubbock Southcrest Church, chairman of the local steering committee for this week's meeting.

Missionaries work with the nationals in other lands, Mrs. Brandon said. "We are, in a sense, always working ourselves out of a job as we teach and train them."

The state president especially is looking forward to a feature of Tuesday morning's program when the centennial of the organization will be celebrated with an historical parade and special presentation. "We have six living past presidents and they all will be with us this week," Mrs. Egge said. Other women will represent the earlier six presidents in a skit recalling the high points of the organization through the century of Baptist work in Texas.

Missionaries To Speak
Missionaries who will speak to the meeting include Mr. and Mrs. William Hitt of Thailand, Mr. and Mrs. L.G. McKinney from Hong Kong, Mr. and Mrs. John David Hopper from Austria and Helga Fanini of Brazil. Mrs. Robert Fling of Birmingham, Alabama, will speak on the theme "Life Changing Commitments," the theme for the Southern Baptist Convention women's emphasis.

ances or challenges to his authority. The country's top military leaders issued a pledge of support for him.

Citizens in Seoul appeared shocked, somber and calm, but appeared to go about their normal business Sunday morning. Government offices were ordered to reopen Sunday, as usual.

Park's body was taken to his official residence, where his three grown children waited. A bier was set up in a small reception room and staff and officials paid their last respects. The president's wife was killed in a 1974 assassination attempt against Park.

Much of the nation's concern centered on who would replace Park.

Choi, a bureaucrat, had little personal political power or support under Park, but neither did anyone else. The autocratic president kept power completely in his own hands, and allowed no one to develop a separate power base.

Since Choi holds the reins of a government designed by Park to be under the strict control of the president, he must be considered a possible successor.

The two other most powerful figures after Park are Kim Jong-pil, 53, and Chung Il-kwon, 61. Both are military men, former prime ministers and were close advisers of Park. Kim Jong-pil organized the coup that put Park in power in 1961 and has remained a powerful member of government. Chung has been prominent in the army and political life, holding major posts in both.

It was still uncertain whether the 1972 constitution would be followed, changed or ignored altogether in the selection of a new leader.

The constitution says South Korea's electoral college must elect a new president within three months. It does not say how candidates are to be brought before the council. All 2,583 council members were strong Park supporters.

Two Lubbock men were being treated Sunday night at Health Sciences Center Hospital for gunshot wounds, following a disturbance which originated in Mackenzie State Park earlier in the day.

Joe Ybarra, 32, of 2416 Auburn St., was undergoing surgery Sunday night for a gunshot wound to the stomach. His brother, Armando Ybarra, 18, of 2615 First Place, was being treated for a gunshot wound to the chest and left arm.

Police were called to a disturbance about 7:15 p.m. at 2317 Auburn St., Space 15, where shots reportedly were exchanged between occupants in a red Pontiac Trans-Am and a brown Trans Am, but police reports indicate the argument had originated in Mackenzie Park several hours earlier.

The father of the occupants in the brown vehicle was escorted to the city jail by police Sunday night in connection with the incident.

'Crash' Ended Buoyant Optimism

By BARBARA McDOWELL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Oct. 29, 1929.
It quickly became known as Black Tuesday, the day the stock market crashed.
Most Americans have come to think of it as the start of the Great Depression in which millions lost their jobs, their homes, their savings, their pride. Getting rich as quickly and as easily as possible became a national preoccupation. The best place for doing so appeared to be Wall Street.
Fortunes were indeed made in the speculative frenzy of the late '20s as stock prices soared out of all proportion to the profit-making potential of their issuers.
Many were paper fortunes made by small investors who bought their stock "on margin," putting up as little as 10 percent of the purchase price in cash and borrowing the rest from their brokers with the new stock used as collateral. As the market soared, they used their paper profits as margin on still more stock.
Some warned that whatever went up would inevitably come down.
"The car's right at the summit of the roller coaster," predicted novelist Sinclair Lewis in July 1929. "The hair-raising plunge is just ahead. I can see it, feel it, smell it in the air."
The market continued rising — though skittishly — through the summer. On Sept. 3, the Dow Jones industries climbed to a record 381; it would be a quarter century before that mark would be reached again.
No single event set off the selling wave that began in September and reached panic proportions in late October.
Some blamed it on the Federal Reserve's August increase in the discount rate, the interest charged its member banks. Some cited the refusal in March of the Massachusetts Public Service Commission to allow to split in Boston Edison common stock, which the commission asserted was overvalued by 100 percent.
Still others suggested that investors had finally begun to heed the warnings of observers like statistician Roger Babson, who had for some months been forecasting a crash "that may be terrific."
The urge to sell rapidly gained momentum. With each drop in stock prices, more investors decided to minimize their losses by getting out of the market.
Many of those with margin accounts had no choice. As the market fell, brokers demanded more cash to compensate for the lower value of the stock used as collateral. Investors unable to raise the additional funds were sold out.
Disaster first threatened on Black Thursday, Oct. 24, as prices plunged 33 points during the morning trading. But a group of prominent bankers pooled their funds to bid up stock prices, causing the market to rally. Prices closed down only 6.38 points, though many small investors had already been ruined.
Any relief was short lived. Despite a weekend of reassurances from political and financial leaders — President Hoover pronounced business still "sound and prosperous" — frenzied selling resumed on Monday as the Dow fell 38.33 points. Bankers showed no inclination to intervene as they had the week before.
Prices fell another 30.57 points the next day, Black Tuesday. As the ticker lagged by 2 1/2 hours, trading reached a record of 16.4 million shares, a volume that would not be exceeded until 1968.
Wrote economist John Kennedy Galbraith: "Tuesday, Oct. 29, was the most devastating day in the history of the New York stock market and it may have been the most devastating day in the history of markets."
But the bottom still had not been struck. That would come in 1932 when the Dow hit 36. Despite some minor rallies, the market — along with the rest of the U.S. economy — remained depressed through the 1930s.

Librarian Attacks Myths About Hoover

By TOM TIEDE

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (NEA) — This is the 50th anniversary of the inauguration of Herbert Hoover, but few Americans are marking the occasion with pilgrimages to the former president's birthplace. Attendance at the Hoover National Historic Site here is off some 25 percent this year.
Officials observers at the site, which includes a fine presidential library and museum, believe the cost of scarcity of gasoline are cutting into the visitation statistics.
The other part may be that 1979 is also the 50th anniversary of the stock market crash that precipitated one of the nation's gravest economic crises. Hoover took office in March of 1929, the stock market busted in October 29, and the United States nose-dived into the Great Depression.
In time, 12 million people would be thrown out of work, whole towns abandoned and lines of the hopeless formed daily for soup. In their anger, people blamed Hoover. He was ridiculed and vilified during his term in the White House, and remnants of that disaffection continue to this day.
Of course, nobody knows if anyone is specifically avoiding Hoover's birthplace because of the memories. But the guest book at the museum has had fewer than a dozen entries on some days this year. "It's very slow," sighs one employee, "on the week days we might as well not open at all."
Even some of the visitors who could come express more indignation than respect. Now and then museum patrons scoff at the displays which laud the former president. And a customer will sometimes wonder aloud why tax money is spent to, as it's grumped, "glorify the man who caused the Depression."
Not that there aren't a good number of visitors who remember Hoover fondly. In fact, library director Tom Thalken is pleased to report that the public perception of Herber Hoover may be changing. He thinks contempt is being replaced by realism, and Hoover's image is the better for it.
The revision process is slow, Thalken admits. "But what is happening is that people realize that history has not been honest with Hoover. My own view is that there has been more misinformation about him than any other public figure in U.S. history — and it's about time we corrected it."
As it happens, Thalken is most happy to help set the record straight. He is not only a Hoover scholar, but a one-time employee and friend. He worked for the late president for six years, as an archivist, and feels that Hoover was, with George Washington, one of the nation's noblest citizens.
Thalken respects Hoover not for what the man did in office, but what he tried to do: "He believed in decentralized government, the government of the Constitution. He was afraid of Big Brothers, and the welfare state, and he felt voluntary private action was the best way to solve problems."
Until 1929, it may be said almost every American felt the same. But the Depression pulled the rug from under tradition. Thalken says people with empty pockets began demanding that the government do something, which is to say buy prosperity. Hoover resisted, and that led to public scorn.
The irony, Thalken adds, is that Hoover did not resist federal action, just federal welfare. Previous presidents, such as Buchanan and Theodore Roosevelt, totally ignored the depressions of their times. Yet Thalkens says Hoover completely mobilized the government to battle the one in his term.

PRESIDES DURING CRASH — Herbert Hoover became president seven months before the stock market crashed. People blamed him for the Great Depression and remnants of that disaffection continue to this day — his birthplace garners the smallest attendance of any presidential site.

Hardship, Unemployment Followed 'Black Tuesday'

NEW YORK (AP) — American life was everything new, a carnival of fast cars and faster money, speakeasies, radio, lipstick and people who sat on flagpoles.
It was that great year, 1929, and the old American dream of boundless prosperity shone brighter than ever before.
But 50 years ago Monday, the Great Crash on Wall Street sadly exposed that vision as a bathtub gin mirage.
The archetypal American of the 20s had been Charles Lindbergh, flying the Atlantic to world acclaim and a $25,000 prize.
The symbolic figure of the 1930s was to be an anonymous vendor on a cold street corner selling apples for a nickel apiece.
In the popular memory, the pivotal date of that riches-to-rags transformation was Black Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1929, when Wall Street was in the midst of the severest market decline in its history.
"Selling began as soon as the market opened and in huge volume," wrote John Kennedy Galbraith in his book "The Great Crash 1929."
"Repeatedly and in many issues there was a plethora of selling orders and no buyers at all."
The crash wiped out fortunes, large and small, faster than the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape, running 2 1/2 hours late, could record the damage.
For all its hysteria, though, Black Tuesday was just one in a long sequence of events that ushered in the decade-long Depression of the 1930s.
Most observers looking back today agree that the Roaring '20s, with their rampant optimism, had sown the seeds for the crash by encouraging wild stock market speculation on borrowed money.
The mood was expressed by President Calvin Coolidge, who declared in a Dec. 4, 1928, message to Congress: "No Congress of the United States ever assembled, on surveying the state of the Union, has met with a more pleasing prospect than that which appears at the present time."
Early the following September, as Wall Street went back to work after a sultry Labor Day weekend, stock prices stood at an all-time high.
On Sept. 5, a Wellesley, Mass., economist named Roger Babson, known as something of a maverick, caused a brief scare in the markets by forecasting both a "crash" and a "serious business depression."
More conventional experts of the time dismissed him as a perpetual dealer in gloom and doom. As it turned out, he was all too accurate.

In the next four years, $9 out of every $10 in the stock market was obliterated, and the unemployment rate soared from 3.2 percent to 24.9 percent.
As the economy turned upside down, many of the heroes and the revered institutions of the prosperous days became the villains and the scapegoats of the Depression.
Business in general, and Wall Street in particular, fell from a peak of high social status to a point somewhere between distrust and disgust. In the eyes of some, American business never regained that high esteem.
"In those days business was a very honorable profession," recalls Arnold Bernhard, in 1929 a fledgling security analyst and today the owner of a company that operates the nation's largest investment advisory service. "Today, if a business is profitable there seems to be something obscene about it."
The collapse was equally hard on the reputation of Herbert Hoover, who succeeded Coolidge in the White House less than a year before the crash.
Hoover had been known since World War I for having led successful efforts to get food, clothing and medical supplies past an Allied blockade and the German lines to more than 10 million starving Europeans. In the 1928 election, he was an easy winner.
Four years later, the electorate rejected him by an equally one-sided vote, while critics blasted him as insensitive to the plight of the common citizen.
Beyond the simple fact that the Depression struck while he was in charge, Hoover's image suffered after the crash from his futile efforts to restore confidence by issuing upbeat economic forecasts that refused to come true.

NORVAL POLLARD

Landry's Thorn
In The Side

IF THERE WAS EVER a thorn in Tom Landry's success-toughened side, it would have to be the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The outcomes of Pittsburgh-Dallas matchups are becoming almost automatic. When the Steelers and Cowboys meet on the field of battle, it's the Steelers who keep coming out on top.

The world champion Steelers pricked Landry and the Cowboys again Sunday afternoon in a head-rattling 14-3 win, the fourth consecutive victory Pittsburgh has posted over Dallas. Those four decisions include two regular season tilts and National Football League titles in Super Bowls X and XIII.

"They shut us down," Landry admitted following the latest Cowboy effort. "We probably played as poorly offensively as we have all year. We had two or three chances to get in for a touchdown and didn't do it. If we get in even once, the game's entirely different."

Pittsburgh's Steel Curtain defense bottled up Dallas' running attack. The Cowboys managed only 79 yards on the ground — 73 of them coming on Tony Dorsett's 19 carries — and that forced quarterback Roger Staubach to put the football in the air.

STAUBACH AND RESERVE QUARTERBACK Danny White, who was forced into service when Staubach left the contest early in the fourth quarter with a head injury, completed 18 of 42 passes for 199 yards between them.

Those statistics don't reveal the number of passes Dallas receivers dropped. One break could have changed the outcome of the game, but the Steelers made their own breaks and subsequently won the football game.

Dallas managed to maintain its one-game lead over Philadelphia and Washington in the NFC Eastern Division Sunday with a little well-timed help from Cincinnati and New Orleans.

The Bengals, Pittsburgh's AFC Central Division rival, continued to show offensive improvement by drilling the Eagles 37-13.

Archie Manning guided the revitalized Saints to a 14-10 upset of the Redskins in Washington's RFK Stadium. That's something that doesn't happen very often.

Those were just two of several surprises that took place Sunday in the NFL.

DALLAS' NEXT OPPONENT, the New York Giants captured their fourth win in a row behind rookie quarterback Phil Simms. The Giants shocked the stumbling Los Angeles Rams 20-14.

That victory proved that New York's recent success is not a fluke and you can bet that the Giants will be pumped up like an over-inflated bicycle tire when they host the Cowboys Sunday in East Rutherford, N.J.

New Orleans is now alone in first place in the NFC Western Division and the Rams are in danger of missing the playoffs for the first time in eight years.

Tampa Bay practically sewed up its first playoff berth in the club's four-year history. The Buccaneers nipped Minnesota 12-10 and moved three games up on the Vikings and the Chicago Bears at 7-2.

It would take a total collapse at this point for the Bucs not to capture the NFC Central Division crown. With seven games remaining in the regular season, Tampa Bay must play Atlanta, Detroit, the Giants, Minnesota, Chicago, San Francisco and Kansas City. If the Bucs can't win four of those games, they don't deserve to be in the playoffs.

PITTSBURGH REMAINS ONE GAME ahead of Houston and Cleveland in the AFC Central, but the Oilers and Browns both posted victories to keep pressure on the Steelers.

Denver moved back into a first-place tie with San Diego in the AFC Western by drubbing the Chiefs 20-3. Miami and New England are tied in the AFC Eastern on the strength of the Dolphins whipping of Green Bay and the Patriots' upset loss to the Baltimore Colts. The Colts won for the second week in a row behind strong-armed signal caller Bert Jones.

The NFL playoff-spot races are shaping up pretty well. And it appears that there will be some new faces in the spotlight come playoff time. What a welcomed relief.

But Landry made a statement last week before his squad went against the Steelers. That statement was something to the effect that the loser of Sunday's Pittsburgh-Dallas clash wasn't going to go hide in the corner.

The Cowboys will be back and right now it appears that Dallas and Pittsburgh are the two best teams in pro football. It that holds true, the two teams will meet again later on. And then Landry will have another try at removing that thorn.

Steelers Flatten Cowboys

PITTSBURGH (AP) — After the Pittsburgh Steelers beat Dallas 14-3 Sunday, fullback Franco Harris looked back on a crushing defeat two weeks before.

"I guess sometimes something that's bad can make something positive," Harris said of a 34-10 loss to the Cincinnati Bengals.

The Steelers fumbled nine times in the loss to the Bengals. Harris coughed up the ball twice in key situations, and it was the worst Steeler defeat since 1971.

"This is the second half of the season. We have real champions on this team and we want to win," Harris said after the Steelers raised their record to 7-2. "We've got to build momentum, and that's what we're doing now."

Early in the third quarter, Harris found a big hole off left guard, slipped an arm-tackle attempt by Randy White and then made a clever cut that faked Dallas safety Cliff Harris.

After that, there was nothing but synthetic turf between Harris and the end zone on his 48-yard dash.

"It's a basic play, a very basic play," said Steeler Coach Chuck Noll. "It was a trap to the spread-end side. I guess they were expecting a pass."

Tony Dorsett, the Cowboys' top rusher with 73 yards, had a 21-yard sweep in the third quarter that was the longest run from scrimmage this season against Pittsburgh.

But the Cowboys were held to 79 net yards rushing as a team and their lowest scoring output since 1972 when they were beaten 23-3 by the New York Giants.

"We didn't execute. When you play a team of that caliber and don't execute, you're gonna be in for a long afternoon," said Dorsett, who had rushed for over 100 yards in four straight games.

"We wanted it so bad and things didn't go right," added Dorsett. "It happens, but unfortunately we were playing the world champions."

Staubach confirmed: "We had no success running on first down. We ended up with a lot of second-and-10s, so we had to begin passing on first downs, passing more than we would have wanted to."

"Their rush, the blitz, gave us some problems," said Staubach. "Their defensive line did a good job."

With 13 1/2 minutes to play, Staubach, under pressure on almost every passing down, eluded tackles by Gary Dunn and John Banaszak, only to be decked by left end L.C. Greenwood. Staubach suffered a concussion and after several anxious moments was led off the field.

With five minutes to go, Dallas running back Preston Pearson also was injured and was removed from the field by completing 11 of 25 passes for 126 yards.

Staubach, who wound up completing 11 of 25 passes for 113 yards, brought the Cowboys back into position for Rafael Septien's 32-yard field goal with 5:12 gone in the second quarter.

But on the first play from scrimmage following a Dallas punt midway in the third period, Harris raced 47 yards for the key Steeler score.

After Harris' 1-yard plunge behind a block by tight end Randy Grossman, Staubach completed passes of 17 and 13 yards to Drew Pearson and 13 yards to Billy Joe DuPree. That put the ball on the Pittsburgh 15.

But Dorsett lost three yards on first down and gained only one after failing to find a receiver on a planned option pass. On third down, Staubach hit Butch Johnson in the middle of the end zone, but the ball bounced straight up, and before it could get back down to Johnson, Winston knocked him out from under it.

Fritsch Saves Oilers In OT

HOUSTON (AP) — Pressure-proof Houston-kicker Toni Fritsch ended one string and started another Sunday when he stunned the New York Jets with a 35-yard overtime field goal to rally the Oilers to a 27-24 National Football League victory.

Fritsch stood calmly, his hands folded serenely behind his back as the two teams lined up for the crucial play with 9:50 to go in the overtime. Fritsch then split the uprights to win his second game for the Oilers in overtime this season.

"Everytime I look up and see that kid (Fritsch) on the field I thank God for our immigration laws," a jubilant Oiler Coach Bum Phillips said of the Austrian-born kicker. "He is one heck of a ball player."

Fritsch, meanwhile, spoke matter-of-factly about his game-winner.

"I was just trying to stay ready," Fritsch said. "The kicker has one or two chances to show how good he is and I make my living off of kicking. I am 2-0 in overtime and that's what it takes."

Fritsch had missed on his first field goal try of the day to end a string of 12 consecutive successes, including a 29-yard boot that gave the Oilers a 30-27 victory over Cincinnati earlier this year.

Fritsch's kick ended a comeback by the Jets, who trailed 24-10 in the fourth quarter but rallied behind the leadership of Richard Todd for a 24-24 deadlock.

"It's simple, we lost the game," Jets Coach Walt Michaels said. "We just didn't have it. We've lost two in overtime that we could have won."

The Jets lost 25-22 to Cleveland in overtime earlier this year.

New York forced the overtime period when Todd completed a 15-yard touchdown pass to Jerome Barkum with 5:33 left in the game and then ran one yard for a score with :55 left in regulation play. Toni Linhart's extra point completed the rally.

Todd ignored New York's top-ranked rushing offense and completed five of his first six passes and gave the Jets a 7-0 lead on a 39-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Wesley Walker.

Linhart added a 31-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Pastorini, booed when he hit only two of his first five passes, rallied the Oilers on a pair of error-filled scoring drives, a 47-yard field goal by Fritsch and a one-yard touchdown run by Rob Carpenter to tie the game.

Simms Takes Giants Past Failing Rams

By The Associated Press

Rookie quarterback Phil Simms threw two touchdown passes for the New York Giants and ran for his life much of the afternoon and than commented, "It wasn't a pretty game, but darn it all, we won."

Simms led his Giants to a 20-14 victory over the favored Los Angeles Rams, the fourth straight triumph he's guided since he took over as the starting quarterback for his National Football League club.

"Let's face it, Los Angeles does a good job on pass coverage," said Simms. "I did have to scramble quite a bit. It was quite a physical game."

Simms had the wind knocked out of him late in the game but was able to come back.

Coach Ray Perkins said, "The defense played great all afternoon. Sure, it wasn't a pretty game, but we did make the most of it on big plays."

Simms, a 6-foot-2, 216-pounder from Morehead State, was sacked five times but on most occasions was able to run his way out of trouble and when the Rams used a prevent defense to stop his passing, he was able to run.

Losing Coach Ray Malavasi, whose job has been reported in jeopardy, said, "You can't make mistakes like we did and win. We had pass interceptions, holding calls and several dropped balls."

Simms hit Gary Sherk with a 19-yard scoring pass in the second quarter and connected with Johnny Perkins on a 14-yarder in the fourth period as the Giants recorded the upset before a crowd of 43,376 at the Coliseum.

Bills 20, Lions 17

Buffalo quarterback Joe Ferguson threw a 7-yard touchdown pass to tight end Reuben Gant with 1:25 left in the game, then the Bills blocked a 42-yard Detroit field goal attempt as time ran out to defeat the Lions 20-17.

Ferguson, the No. 1 quarterback in the NFL's American Conference, hit on 17 of 35 attempts for 339 yards in the game, but his dramatic strike to Piccone was his only touchdown.

The fired-up Lions, looking for only their second victory of the season, jumped out to a quick 14-0 lead in the first quarter and held it through a scoreless second period.

Saints 14, Redskins 10

Archie Manning connected on a 45-yard scoring pass play to Wes Chandler and Tony Galbreath went over from the 2 for another touchdown as New Orleans defeated Washington 14-10 in a game highlighted by a Saints' defense that stopped the Redskins 18 times in goal-to-go situations.

However, it was the Saints' defense, which sacked Joe Theismann seven times, which was the story of the day. They stopped the Redskins three times near the goal line without a touchdown, permitting only an 18-yard field goal by Mark Moseley.

In the fourth quarter, after the Redskins had blocked a 45-yard field goal attempt by Gary Yepremian, ending his streak of 20 in a row, Theismann moved the team from its own 35 to the Saints' 2.

'Horns To Stalk Raiders

off and began preparation for the Texas clash last Thursday. Meanwhile, the Longhorns crushed Southern Methodist 30-6.

Tech coaches introduced a tentative game plan during Friday's practice session and the Red Raiders today begin streamlining Saturday's attack. Dockery believes there are three keys to Tech's success.

"We have to be sound in the kicking game, we can't make mistakes and we have to execute," Dockery said. "But you can't make mistakes and expect to beat Texas."

After viewing films of the Longhorns' victory over SMU, Dockery also expressed concern for Texas' explosive offense.

"You can't let Little (Texas quarterback Donnie Little) break containment," Dockery admitted. "You have to put pressure on him, but you can't let him get outside."

"Jones (running back A.J. Jones) has excellent speed and also has good size and strength. He can run inside or outside and he is also a great receiver."

Matadors Strictly A Second-Half Team

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 For the handful of Estacado Matador fans that braved the 180-mile trip to Borger—last Friday—the game must've seemed like some song, second verse.
 No, make that same song—third verse.

Because the Estacado-Borger tilt looked like a carbon copy of the Estacado-Dumas game the week before, or for that matter, an instant replay of the Estacado-Lamesa contest of two weeks ago.

You might say the Mats are in a bit of a rut. Nonetheless, it's a rut that any other District 1-AAA coach would gladly sell his socks for.

What happened Friday was this: the Mats scored an early first quarter touchdown, missed the PAT, and then sat back and let the defense run the show. When the Bulldogs got a field goal late in the first half it was 6-3 and Borger crowd was screaming for an upset.

But the Mats didn't look worried, after all they'd been in similar situations at the half all year long. And when the third period rolls around—forget it—that one belongs to the Mats. So it was business as usual when Estacado stormed back to take a 32-10 decision over the Bulldogs.

Just for grins, lets take a look at the Matadors' cumulative score-by-quarters statistics after seven games.

Estacado has been pretty good in the first period, scoring 27 points and allowing the opposition zilpo, zero, nil and nothing. The second quarter has been only so-so—Estacado 19, Opposition 10.

Now let's take a look at the second half—that's where the Mats tend to dominate the show. You can paint the third quarter Blue and Gray, the score there is Estacado 68, Opponents 7. Obviously the Mats have been winning their games in the third period.

Things get a little easier for the EHS foes in the final period—the score reads 40-13 in the fourth period. Overall the story looks like this:

Estacado 27 19 68 40 — 154
 Opposition 0 10 7 13 — 30

So the obvious question is, what takes the Mats so long to get rolling?

If that's puzzling you, how do you think Matador coach Louis Kelley feels about it?
 "I guess that's just the personality of this team," said Kelley after the Borger game. "You know, people think I yell and scream at the guys at halftime, but really I don't. I just tell them to go out there and force some turnovers and make things happen."

And the Mats have followed Kelley's advice down to a letter. So the coach doesn't really have any gripes.

"I'm real proud of these kids," he said. "Our defense played another good game (against Borger) and right now that's what's carrying us."

And the coach is right. Even though the Mats have had problems getting cranked up offensively in the first half, the EHS defense just hasn't allowed many first-half points. Only one time has Estacado found itself trailing at the intermission. That was against Plainview, in the season opener, when Estacado trailed 7-0 at the half.

So what happened in that game? Hah, if you figured it was another third quarter explosion by Estacado you're wrong. Against Plainview the Mats waited until late in the fourth period before rallying for 13 points and the win.

For the Dunbar Panthers the season hasn't gone quite as well. And last Thursday the Panthers dropped their second District 1-AAA game of the year as the Canyon Eagles snuffed the Pack 33-14.

The District 1-AAA race is quickly shaping up as a showdown between Canyon and Estacado. Both schools are 2-0 in loop play while everyone else has at least one loss. But Canyon and Estacado don't meet until the last weekend in the season—and plenty could happen in the next two weeks.

In District 3-AAA, San Angelo Lake View looks like a sure winner after notching a 34-9 win over Brownfield. Lake View is 2-0 in loop play, and the only undefeated team in district, with only two games remaining on the schedule.

Odessa Ector scored a stunning 14-6 victory over Pecos Friday night to move into the driver's seat in the District 2-AAA race. Ector is now the only team without a loss in district play down in that league south of Lubbock.

Pecos had been the A-J's top

Monterey Takes Coveted Spurs

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 The caller Friday afternoon raised a valid, if slightly strange, question.

What would happen, the man on the phone wanted to know, to the Silver Spurs if the Monterey-Lubbock High game finished in a tie?

Would you have to give each team one of the spurs? Or would you award the whole set to the team with the most penetrations or first downs?

The question was a sticky one indeed. But Willie Johnson and the Monterey Plainsmen settled the 27th battle for the Silver Spurs rather decisively.

The spurs, both of them, will go back to the Monterey trophy case as the Plainsmen crushed the Westerners 26-0 Friday night at Lowrey Field. Monterey's Willie Johnson keyed the Plainsmen victory as he toted the pigskin 35 times for 249 yards.

Although Monterey dominated the game from start to finish, gaining 473 yards of total offense and racking up 25 first downs, the score was only 7-0 going into the final period.

So even if the Silver Spurs did go to the team with the most first downs—the Plainsmen would've claimed them.

"We didn't play that well," admitted Odom after the game. "We had far too many penalties, but I'm not complaining. We'll take it any day and be happy."

Odom said that possibly the Plainsmen were a little flat after last week's big 17-7 victory over Plainview.

And speaking of Plainview, the onemighty Bulldogs now look like just another team. The Angry Red needed a 48-yard scoring pass from quarterback Jeff Gould to fullback Ervin Davis to lift the 'Dogs to a 27-21 win over Herford on the last play of the game.

That means that the Bulldogs are now 1-1 in District 4-AAAA action and 3-4 on the year. That's quite a drop for a team that started the season ranked No. 7 in state.

The Plainsmen now face another key contest this Friday night when Monterey meets Coronado at Lowrey Field.

Coronado will enter the contest with an unblemished 1-0 district record while MHS is 2-0. Every other district school has suffered at least one loop loss.

Coronado took a 7-6 squeaker over Lubbock High two weeks ago in the district opener for both schools and Mustang coach Jack Quarles said that his troops may have possibly been looking towards the Monterey game.

Even though there aren't any spurs involved when the Plainsmen tangle with the Ponies—the contest is one of the fiercest of those in the city.

And for Coronado and Monterey—the wait is just about over. Now if the game ends in a tie...well, it'll throw a heck of a monkey wrench into the District 4-AAAA race.

Holmes Takes Tech Net Title

Richard Holmes of West Texas State defeated Midland College's Des Ward 6-7, 8-6 Sunday afternoon to win the First Annual Texas Tech Tennis Invitational singles title.

Holmes and teammate David Webb lost the doubles title to WTSU teammates Paul Nunley and Stacy Foster, 6-4, 7-6.

The action Sunday at the Texas Tech varsity courts culminated the three-day tourney that featured players from several Texas and New Mexico colleges. All of the Tech netters were eliminated in Saturday's play.

Swift's Huseman Hoots Owls Off Field

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
The game might have only been for second place in the district, but don't tell Bryan Huseman that.

The 175-pound junior tailback ripped through the Silverton defense for 210 yards on 35 carries as his Nazareth Swifts defeated the Owls 28-14 Friday night.

By the way, he scored all of Nazareth's points on four touchdowns and four point-after-kicks. The win raises the Swifts to 2-1 in District 2-B's North Zone while Silverton falls to 1-2. Both teams have already lost to loop favorite Valley.

That performance was good enough to earn Huseman the Avalanche-Journal's South Plains Offensive Player of the Week award.

He beat out a Silverton back for the honor. Mark Brown meant as much to the Owls as Huseman did to the Swifts, but like his team just fell a little short. Brown tried the Swift line 29 times, gaining 198 yards and scoring 12 of Silverton's 14 points on touchdown runs of 58 and 97 yards.

Defensive Player of the Week honors go to Wilson's Quentin Talkmitt, who was in on 22 tackles in the Mustangs' 24-8 loss to Klondike. He is averaging 18 tackles a game on the year.

Bovina's Ricky Shepard intercepted a pair of passes in the Mustangs' 35-0 loss to Hart. And Ropes defensive end Gary Henry was in on 17 tackles in the Eagles' 27-6 loss to Shallowater.

Pair Hold On, Win Disney

LAKE BUENA VISTA, FLA. (AP) — George Burns and Ben Crenshaw combined for a final-round 65 and a four-round total of 33-under par 255 to win the National Team Golf Classic at Disney World Sunday.

The blond bombers, both big money winners on the PGA Tour this year, nosed out the teams of Peter Jacobsen-D.A. Weibring, Scott Bess-Don Hallidorsen and Jeff Hewes-Sammy Rachels by 3 strokes to split the $45,000 first prize.

Weibring, who won a tournament and $71,343 on the tour in 1979, and his non-winning partner Jacobsen, shot a closing 62 — 10 under par on Disney's 7,197-yard Magnolia Course on a warm, partly cloudy day.

Seagraves may have cleared the last real hurdle between them and the District 5-A championship Friday night. Not only did the Eagles down Plains, but Stanton fell into a tie with O'Donnell.

Seagraves didn't have the win in hand until the waning moments of the game as defensive-minded Plains held tight. It took an 84-yard drive that ended with only 7 minutes left in the game before the Eagles went up 21-0.

Scoring that last touchdown was Dave Morgan, he also added 177 yards rushing to the Eagle offense. His backfield mate, Ronnie Griffin, scored another pair of touchdowns and gained 169 yards as these two backs combined for 345 of the team's 388 yards total offense.

Defensively, the Eagles were led by noseguard Richard Wilson and tackle Mike McCormick. Wilson was in on 11 tackles while McCormick got 10 hits.

SWC ROUNDUP Coogs Take Wheel Of SWC Pacer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Houston Cougars are in the Southwest Conference driver's seat, but there still are a lot of folks riding shotgun.

"We'll go into the eighth game undefeated," Coach Bill Yeoman said Saturday following the sixth-ranked Cougars' 13-10 triumph over Arkansas, which was tied for fourth in The Associated Press ratings and shared the SWC lead with Houston.

"We could still lose four," Yeoman warned. "There are a lot of good teams in this conference that can beat you."

Houston, which is 7-0 for the first time ever and recorded its 200th victory since it began playing major college football in 1946, leads the pack with a 4-0 SWC mark. Baylor is 4-1, Arkansas 3-1 — 6-1 overall — and Texas 2-1. Houston must face Texas and Texas Tech at home, Texas Christian and Rice on the road.

Saturday's triumph was anything but easy. The Cougars needed a pair of fourth-period field goals by Kenny Hatfield to pull it out in a game reminiscent of their 13-10 victory over Baylor, also won on two fourth-quarter field goals by Hatfield.

This time, he booted a game-tying 37-yarder into a stiff breeze with 13:15 remaining and nailed the winner from 19 yards out with 1:12 to play. The Razorbacks never gave up and Kevin Scanlon, who scored Arkansas' touchdown on an 11-yard scamper in the second period, passed them from their 20 to the Houston 25 with four seconds left.

However, Hosea Taylor, Houston's 6-foot-5 defensive tackle, rose up to block a 42-yard field goal attempt by Ish Ordonez, whose 35-yarder barely 2 1/2 minutes into the contest staked Arkansas to a 3-0 lead. The missed end Ordonez' string of successful three-pointers at 16, an NCAA record, and was his first failure in 11 attempts this season.

"I jumped on somebody's back," Taylor explained. "I just took off and tried to get as high as I could. My head was down and I got it with my helmet."

Ordonez said he felt "like I hit the ball well. With the wind behind me, I thought I had a definite advantage. I set the ball back as far as I normally do. After the ball was snapped, the next thing I knew somebody was past the line of scrimmage. The distance of the kick was exactly the same as I kick every day in practice. I didn't choke. I had a good snap and the hold was perfect."

"A lot of people will think Arkansas wasn't ready to play two emotional games in a row," said Coach Lou Holtz, harking back to last week's 17-14 upset of Texas. "Nothing could be farther from the truth. It would be unfair to Houston. There were a lot of great plays, and both teams made some errors. We just made one more than Houston."

Baylor and Texas stayed in the championship picture last Saturday and Texas A&M finally won its first conference game of the year.

Texas, meanwhile, drubbed injury-riddled SMU, 30-6, having apparently been fired-up by statements from SMU coach Ron Meyer, who said he was certain his team was going to win. Meyer even set his team's proposed winning score — 10-7.

Next Saturday, Arkansas (6-1) will make the not-so-dangerous trip to Rice (1-7) while Texas (5-1) will host Texas Tech (3-3-1) and SMU (3-4) will visit Texas A&M (3-4).

Another running back starred in a district-clinching game Friday night. Eddie Johnson has earned the nickname "Magic" in Kress, and he showed why by rushing 27 times for 160 yards and the Kangaroos' only touchdown in the 7-6 win over Vega that all but won District 3-A for them.

Vega scored with 3:46 left in the game, but Kress defensive standout Larry Monkres crashed through to block the extra point, averting the tie.

Abernathy tight end Dean Maguire caught six passes for 142 yards and a pair of touchdowns in the Antelopes' 34-24 District 4-AA victory over Lockney.

New Deal has now beaten the two most serious pretenders to the Lions' 4-A crown. And in Friday night's 7-0 win over Petersburg, Tony Howell was the star, carrying 26 times and gaining 160 yards.

Larry Henderson exploded for five touchdowns as Sundown, frustrated all season, took out their 2-6 record on winless Whiteface, 63-9.

Seminole continued its drive for the District 5-AA championship by knocking off Freshup 46-0. Leading the way was super running back Ricky Greene. He gained 167 yards on 19 carries and scored three touchdowns.

Hale Center enjoyed a week off from the District 4-A wars, whipping up on Spur 54-0. Tailback Gordon Compton gained 148 yards in 11 carries and scored a pair of first quarter touchdowns. Fullback Robert Smith got 96 in only nine tries and scored once.

Miss Bertolaccini Wins Golf Tourney

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Silvia Bertolaccini fired a 1-under-par 72 Sunday and won the $10,000 Far East Open Women's Invitational Golf Championship by 2 strokes with a 54-hole total of 213.

"I had to put the pressure off," the 29-year-old Argentine said. "You know, after leading the first two days, I told myself it was no time to blow it now. So I concentrated not on winning but just playing good golf."

She earned $16,500. Canadian Sandra Post also shot a final-round 72 and finished second at 215. She won $10,780.

Third place, worth $7,780, went to Marlene Floyd of the United States, who carded a par 73 on the 6,178-yard suburban Manila Golf Club course for a 217.

Americans Donna Caponi Young and Beth Daniel tied for fourth at 218. Young had a final-round 72 and Daniel a 70.

Post birdied the first hole and caught up with Bertolaccini when the Argentinean bogeyed the second hole. Bertolaccini, finding the 91-degree temperature just to her liking, birdied the sixth and eighth holes, with Post scoring birdies on the seventh and eighth. This put them both 6-under on the eighth.

That was when both pros began to feel the pressure.

Museum Gets 19th Century Painting

FORT WORTH (Special) — A major oil painting by 19th-century American artist Seth Eastman has been added to the permanent collection of the Amon Carter Museum.

The painting, "Ball-Play of the Sioux on the St. Peters River in Winter," was completed in the winter of 1848 when Eastman, a captain in the U.S. Army, was stationed at Fort Snelling, Minnesota. The fort overlooked the junction of the St. Peters River and the Mississippi River, seven miles below the Falls of St. Anthony. Eastman spent five years at the fort and produced over 400 pictures while there. This picture was probably the second of 75 oils he painted at the fort.

may be up to a half a mile away. The setting is a gray afternoon with a cluster of winter tip is visible in the background. Eastman has taken care to suggest the frozen atmosphere by adding appropriately bare trees, a detail often overlooked by other winter landscapers, Carol Clar, Curator of Paintings at the Carter, said. The reality of the scene is heightened by the added details of dropped and broken bats scattered along the ice and an array of prizes in the left corner of the painting. Contrasting with the players is a group of judges and observers lounging on the ice and a small knoll above the river.

The game was a major event in the social life of the Sioux. Clark points out that the Indians waged weapons, cooking utensils, clothing, and trinkets on the outcome of the game. Older members of the tribe carefully guarded the prizes before and after the game. Eastman's wife, Mary, observed the actual scene her husband painted and described it in her notebook: "I saw the game played on the St. Peter's River, in the depth of winter. The surrounding hills were white with snow, and the ice, dark and heavy-looking in some parts, glistened like the sun in others. The scene was inexpressively wild.

Eastman was a skilled observer of Sioux life who recorded almost every aspect of their daily routines from hunting and camp life to the elaborate sports and games they participated in. The sport shown in this painting is an early form of lacrosse. It was a popular game played by both southern and northern tribes. The Cherokees called the sport "little brother of war" because it provided excellent training for combat.

The picture in the Carter collection shows the sport being played on ice. The painting depicts the moment after one of the participants has captured the ball and is running toward the goal, which

Journalist Making Key Contacts

Former Press Secretary Now At ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — Pierre Salinger had been a loving correspondent for the French magazine L'Express for just over four years when he signed on as a contributing correspondent for ABC News, based in Paris, in December 1977.

Less than two years later, the former press secretary to presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson was put in charge of the network's Paris news bureau.

All that — an extended, intimate relationship with American politics, experience as a reporter for European readers — amounts to background for an interesting perspective on American affairs.

"The sum total of all I've done, all my life, is to have built contacts all over the world, contacts that are extremely useful to me now," Salinger said the other day.

"While working in the White House, I not only met world leaders, but some secondary people who are important in their governments today."

"One thing I did in the early '60s," the ABC News correspondent said, "was work on Soviet-American relations. A while back, I was able to get an interview with Brezhnev's interpreter, because he knew me from the two days we'd spent at his dacha outside Moscow in 1962."

"And I think my work here, as a journalist, has helped me understand the European psyche a little better. They admire and fear the United States at the same time, and reactions to events in the United States must be reported with that in mind."

"I remember when Giscard d'Estaing became president, he was asked about relations with the United States, and said, in effect, we're going to have to live with them whether we like it or not."

"That is the pervasive feeling in Europe, even more today," Salinger said, "largely because of inflation and other international economic problems."

Salinger was interviewed at ABC News headquarters here just before his scheduled return to Paris.

Born in San Francisco in 1925, Salinger began his career in journalism in 1942 as a copy boy for the San Francisco Chronicle. He spent World War II in the Navy, and later returned to the Chronicle as a reporter and, subsequently, night city editor.

In 1955, he was appointed West Coast editor and, then, contributing editor, of Collier's magazine. When Collier's ceased publication in 1956, Salinger was working on a series of articles on Teamsters boss James Hoffa.

In 1959, he was hired as press secretary for then-Sen. Kennedy, and he accompanied Kennedy to the White House in 1961. After Kennedy's assassination, he remained as press secretary to President Johnson.

He spent the last half of 1964 in the U.S. Senate, completing the unexpired term of the late Sen. Clair Engle of California. Salinger lost the 1964 senatorial election to Republican George Murphy.

Fashion Eyewear Opens Added Facility With Special Prices

Now there are two!
 Yes, Fashion Eyewear, Inc. has opened a second dispensary in Lubbock... this newest one in the Grand Central Shopping Center, 6212 Slide Road.
 Fashion eyewear already has served most auspiciously at its 3833 50th St. facility, a location it still maintains.
 The opening of the added store in Lubbock, across from South Plains Mall, comes after the first 19 months of signal achievement at the original dispensary. (This Lubbock-owned and Lubbock-operated dispensary has received recognition in national publications as a unique and successful venture in the field of competitive dispensing of top quality eyewear.)
 The new Slide Road facility is under management of Rosemary Parks, with the firm since its Lubbock establishment, and the 50th Street unit is managed by Bonnie Edwards.
 To make available complete eye care, Fashion Eyewear has leased space next door to the new location to an ophthalmologist who will offer vision exams and expert contact lens fitting, as well as treatment and care of eye diseases.

Grand Opening
 Grand Opening of the second Fashion Eyewear has been arranged throughout November, with special prices posted at both locations to mark this milestone.
Prices Told
 During November, the following prices are in effect at Fashion Eyewear, 3833 50th St., and 6212 Slide road:
 "All frames at 50 per cent off."
 "Soft contact lenses at $85."
 "Hard contacts at $49; and
 "Thermal care kits at $34."
 Six hundred different frame styles are offered at each Fashion Eyewear, with 36 different cosmetic tinting combinations, also at very reasonable prices.
 "Don't just take our word for it; come out and discover for yourself how Fashion Eyewear, at either location, provides an exceptional optical dispensary."
 "The largest over-all selection of fashion frames in Lubbock" is reported by Fashion Eyewear, with all price ranges represented.

Added Service
 "If you have seen a frame pictured in a magazine, it may well be that we have it in stock; if we don't, we'll special order it for you!"
 The staff at each Fashion Eyewear location is trained to coordinate frame styles with face structures, tint to complexion and integration with the wardrobe.
 All personnel are trained to fit the new invisible bifocal lenses, it is emphasized, too.
 In fitting every type of eyewear, fashion eyewear checks individually for accuracy in every instance before dispensing.
 "May we have the pleasure of visiting with you... and saving for you during our November grand opening of the new Fashion Eyewear, 6212 Slide Road, phone 792-0111, or at the already familiar Fashion Eyewear, 3833 50th St., phone 792-1137?"

Kirsch Heading Finance, Insurance Department At Don Crow Chevrolet

"Don Crow Chevrolet has a good product... and they are doing all they can to enable your ownership and enjoyment, to put it in your hands, conveniently and satisfactorily in every respect... saving you money at the same time."
 One of the considerations at Don Crow that makes it easy to purchase a new Chevrolet or better used car or truck from the big firm at South Loop 289 and Slide Road is the Finance and Insurance Department maintained right in the same building.
 Larry Kirsch heads this department where GMAC financing can be arranged and where complete related insurance service is afforded, without one having to leave the dealership. Kirsch knows auto financing and auto insurance, and this knowledge can be of prime benefit to the customer in finalizing a purchase.
 Larry has a record of five years in auto financing and six more years in consumer finance fields, coming here from Jackson, Miss.
 He, his wife, Mona, and two sons, Jeff, two years, and Jason, three months of age, have made Lubbock their home, and both Mr. and Mrs. Kirsch voice enthusiasm for the city, climate and the Don Crow firm.
 "The weather is super here," Larry offers. "Man, it is great, after having lived in a high-humidity area!"
 "And as for Don Crow Chevrolet, I have long known of its fine reputation and capabilities, and I am most happy to be a member of the team here."

Staffed To Serve
 Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc. takes pride in its staff, each of whom is dedicated to "getting back to the basics" such as giving every customer the best possible service.
 "After all, the customer signs our paychecks at Don Crow Chevrolet." Professionalism, yet friendly interest, is evident throughout the management team, sales and service staff.

 "You can depend upon Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., whatever department is involved. It is a firm established and long known for utmost in customer satisfaction."

New Miniatures For Christmas Swell Stock At Little Shoppe

Miniatures by the thousands... delightful new arrivals... darling creations... clever kits for one's own construction enjoyment... and with the stock predominately Christmas oriented at this time... this is the provocative picture at The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley!

Though throughout the year stocking miniatures in almost unbelievable quantity and quality, The Little Shoppe has added more in time for holiday preparation and gifting. Owner-operator Norma Bartley seems to take delight in stocking miniatures never before seen or presented in this area! Be sure to see the new doll house kits, the furniture kits, the Victorian and Country Kitchens, with all needed accessories. And Christmas trees! Select the 3-in. sizes for vignettes or doll houses, with 2-in and 3-in. trees ideal for shadow boxes and printers trays. The blank trees are ready for decorating, or in kits. Norma is happy to show how it all is done. In fact, this is one of the key benefits at the so-unique shop: Norma Bartley is glad to "tell you how" to bring to finished state any project originating at The Little Shoppe, just for the asking, no added charge! There is a very good assortment of cut wood, ideal for packages. (Nancy's darling packages are already gift wrapped and ready for giving! And there is beautiful, petite scaled wrapping paper!

Plus Christmas wreaths, ornaments, Sculpy clay for making one's own ornaments, a new arrival of poinsettias, and more (all in miniature, remember).

There are new arrivals from the Bead Garden, there are holiday centerpieces, Della Robbia brandy snifters, bead arrangements, etc. Norma also has stocked the miniature fireplaces to decorate or even use as a house decor item or in vignettes. For Christmas, the miniature creches for home or for gift packages are something special; these must be seen to be fully appreciated.

Universal Appeal And new kits for Victorian living rooms, bedrooms, parlor, bath and more. See the herringbone or parquet floors also available for the doll house. One cannot enumerate all that is The Little Shoppe. Pages could be written describing the miniature cookware, the furnishings for every room of a miniature mansion, greenhouses complete with spring flowers and potted plants, all the Christmas-related stock, etc., but one can only comprehend the completeness of the stock upon personal inspection.

NEW CHRISTMAS-ORIENTED MINIATURES — Norma Bartley of the Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley calls attention to miniature 'goodies' for holiday and gift preparation, just a few of the many project ideas fostered at the shoppe, a veritable miniature bonanza for the entire Southwest.

For the hobbyist, for the amateur and avid miniature collector, for folks who simply appreciate the unusual, the pretty and the intriguing, The Little Shoppe comes through, stronger than ever.

The "miniature" selection is reputed to be larger than any in all West Texas. (This year The Little Shoppe, though still in Cactus Alley, moved into enlarged quarters there. With the added room, the stock has been more than doubled, with open display enabled for the thousands of items.

"May we have the pleasure of your early visit, letting us assist in your Christmas planning... at The Little Shoppe, 2610 Salem Ave., just south of the Brownfield Highway in Lubbock?"

Home Improvement Made Easy With Help From House Clinic

"Let us custom design a new look for your home; we'll save you money and conserve energy, too."

This is the promise and the business of L.K. and Barbara Lankford, owners of The House Clinic, serving West Texas and Eastern New Mexico since 1960.

"After all, when it comes to home improvements, few things increase the property value more than the appearance of the home's exterior. And if you want these walls, overhang, doors and windows, even shutters, to look their best, the wise word is to call the pros at The House Clinic, 1922 Ave. E in Lubbock, phone 747-4436."

in everyone's mind, it is important to do everything possible to further insulate the home. Endura steel siding offers added insulating benefits for the home, helping keep hot and cold winds from seeping into the house with their related heating and cooling bill increases.

Endura vinyl coated steel siding also reduces outside noise to give quieter living space. The siding is virtually impervious to impacts that dent other siding, the Lankfords point out. There are no temperature or contraction noises, and there is no splitting or cracking.

Long-Term Guarantee With sparkling new siding that is guaranteed for decades, and with new storm windows and doors, your home will take on a new beauty and utility.

"So... if you are wanting to do something about the appearance and comfort of your home, getting away from tedious maintenance and painting, then see The House Clinic for one or more of its products and services, for siding or for a turnkey job assuring a total new look for the home."

The House Clinic is noted, also, for its special treatment of overhang problems (advanced design soffit and fascia systems).

Many of the improvement expenses involve tax deductions, it is pointed out, as further benefit.

All products at the House Clinic are manufactured in the United States, and all metal siding, just as all the related items, is first quality only.

Factors to be considered in selecting systems from the House Clinic include fire resistance, maintenance savings, elimination of costly repainting, termite resistance, a finish that cannot crack, peel, flake or blister, choice of colors, insulation and even decor benefits.

Smallwood's Named Magnavox Dealer Stocking Full TV Line

There's great news at Smallwood's! Now, Smallwood's, at 3019 34th St., is independent dealer for the prestigious Magnavox TV, stereo, radio and tape line!

Placing emphasis on the television units, Smallwood's has stocked the full Magnavox selection, from 10-in. color to the big 25-in. remote-control cabinet.

All Magnavox sets at Smallwood's are new 1980 models, received just in time for a great season of viewing.

Quality in every detail marks the Magnavox line, with reception said "25 percent sharper color than ever before possible," with the Magnavox touch-tune color and high resolution filter.

"Ordinary color TVs have 260 lines of resolution, and the special Magnavox filter delivers 330 lines, 25 percent more lines of resolution for a 25 per cent sharper, clearer color picture."

And the Magnavox Microprocessor, heart of one of the most advanced tuning systems available, gives one instant access to any UHF or VHF channel, at the touch of the finger. You Touch-Tune silently, effortlessly, with the ease of a push-button telephone, the accuracy of a digital computer... and there are no mechanical parts to ever wear out!

For Beauty, Quality
All cabinet model Magnavox TVs feature beautiful wood cabinets.

"We are thrilled, understandably, at securing the Magnavox line," Smallwood's owners Eugene and Evelyn Kerr emphasize, "and we are happy to stock the wide selection while still offering TV lines including the Muntz giant screen and the Electroponic brands; we believe we can qualify as your TV headquarters in Lubbock."

Financing is available, and early consideration is invited for purchase of a fine TV for viewing now or for Christmas giving.

Multiple Products
Smallwood's versatility, and the same consideration of customer needs is the rule in every season. Whether the need is Filter Queen home sanitation systems, other complete lines of vacuum cleaners, TV, home entertainment systems, gorgeous burl clocks, microwave ovens by Toshiba, and even sewing machines and more. Smallwood's comes through.

Accessories, parts and bags for most brands of vacuum cleaners are stocked.

"You'll like Smallwood's way of doing business; you'll appreciate the values and the personal attention assured by Mr. and Mrs. Kerr and staff. And we know you like Magnavox!"

Holt's Shoes Participating In Sunshine Square Birthday Sale

Holt's Shoes, where the accent is on high fashion in women's shoes, is participating in the big Sunshine Square anniversary sale underway... and what an opportunity is afforded!

During this event, special prices are marked on selected dress shoes, $28 values but tagged at $18.90... at Holt's Shoes, 4519 50th St., in Sunshine Square.

So, more than ever, happy, fashionable feet can be assured at money-saving prices!

For the young, for the young at heart, Holt's Shoes presents a stock that was never more exciting. The fall selections are in, and holiday shoes are arriving daily... all in well-known and respected lines of ladies footwear.

A very, very good selection of women's dress and casual footwear is at Holt's, a firm serving for well over a decade in Lubbock. Customers throughout the area know of the quality-fashion rightness that is the history and rule at Holt's.

Exceptional Selection
Not only is participation in the Anniversary Sale a current benefit, but the present shoe selection is the most complete in Holt's enviable history.

Specialists in Fitting
Experienced shoe fitters round out the picture of service, a tradition at the store. Expert fitting is assured, and this can be extremely important for footwear enjoyment.

Both Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed.

Owners-operators Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haire and their fully-qualified staff sincerely urge:

"Won't you honor us with a visit as a proper entry into the new season, and share in our pride of the type establishment afforded, profiting in added manner from the special Sunshine Square anniversary situation? We believe you'll find a genuine customer interest evident at Holt's, at 4519 50th St., in the wide selection, in the quality, and in service."

Leaseway-Southwest Services Utilized Throughout Wide Area

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St., in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service
"Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."

"Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.

"We'd like to count you, too, among our customers."

Upgrading and additions to its stock is a continuous operation at Leaseway-Southwest.

Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.

There must be a very good reason.

In Tune With Times
Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.

"Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management" it is emphasized by Leaseway-Southwest management.

Vertical Hollow Shaft Motors, Compressors Stocked By Smith

Compressors for every need... these are just some of the key products and services of W.M. Smith Electric Co. Smith is authorized master distributor for the Campbell Hausfeld line of compressors and accessories. In related aids, the full line of parts is stocked, full service is afforded, and the firm also serves as a Campbell Hausfeld warranty station.

What a benefit to industry... of any size, of many types.

"You can depend upon W.M. Smith Electric Co., 1911 Clovis Road, in Lubbock, long servicing industry throughout West Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

The Lubbock branch of the Dallas-based company was established way back in 1952, and the growth of the firm here reflects the quality and demand of the service offered.

AMONG COMPRESSORS FOR EVERY NEED—FROM SMITH

Other Products, Service
 Smith is distributor for the complete overhead traveling bridge cranes manufactured and marketed under the trade name of SECO.

The firm is a major distributor for crane and hoist components and parts bearing the distinguished trademarks of Dresser Industries, Detroit, Wright, Demag and David Round.

Smith is authorized distributor for the revolutionary Singl/Screw compressors from Chicago Pneumatic.

The entire Chicago Pneumatic Equipment Division compressor line is available including spread from the 40 hp 230/460 volt, 3 phase, 3550 rpm motor to the big model 1160, a 250 hp 460 volt, 3 phase, 1775 rpm motor.

"Uncommon still in the technology of air compression" is the record of Chicago Pneumatic that has built its Equipment Division on innovation and excellence in industrial air compressors. From its first steam-powered unit, built over 70 years ago, to today's revolutionary Singl/Screw, these have been the Division's primary commitment. Advantages of this new compressor line include simplicity, balanced pressures, low friction, efficient oil flow without a pump, lower operating temperature, no gears to pay for or maintain, new low in quiet operation.

"Let W.M. Smith give full details and help you in your own personalized compressor needs."

Among the many products and services afforded are air compressors by Campbell Hausfeld and Gardner-Denver. They are available in both tank mounted and stationary type, and new or rebuilt ones are stocked up to 160 hp.

Smith rebuilds all makes of compressors, from the smallest to largest. Sales and service for all makes of hoists is another key segment of the business.

Motors
 W.M. Smith Electric is distributor for three major lines of electric motors: General Electric, U.S. and Baldor, in all sizes, and for Louis Allis and other lines.

Furthermore, the firm has parts for everything it sells, offering service on everything sold, also.

A staff of qualified mechanics and trouble shooters is maintained at all times.

Wire-in and installation of irrigation motors is another area-appreciated service provided by the company.

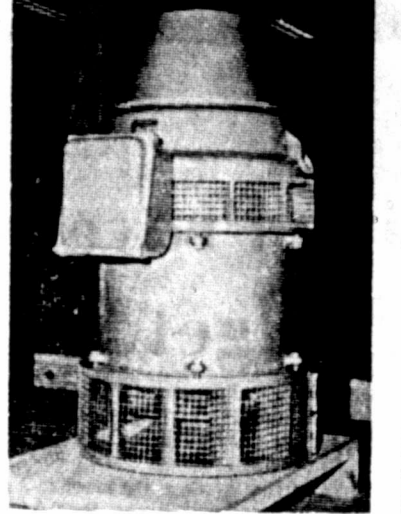

Pick-up and delivery is provided, and service men are on call day or night, facilities on the shop enable prompt attention and repair in any emergency need.

Vertical hollow shaft motors from LeRoy Somer are now available and stocked.

Not just another "standard" motor, its features include higher thrust capacity, drip-proof enclosure with ventilating openings designed to minimize entry of rain and particles so that this type of motor is suitable for outside applications in relatively dry climates or sheltered locations.

End brackets are rigid grey iron castings machined with precision. The stator is of welded construction and consists of electric steel laminations, heat treated to improve interlamination insulation and to reduce iron losses.

The stator winding is carried out with synthetic enamel covered wire, with the stator wire fully insulated from

NOT JUST ANOTHER... the core and between phases to give a true Class F system.

Consider the other superior features, too, that include 1.15 service factor, robust welded steel frame, heavy construction (compare weights), cooler motor, large double-gasketed conduit box for easy and safe connections, permanently installed lifting lugs, and extremely quiet operation.

"All of these features give you greater hp output and longer motor life" is the observation and promise of Smith Electric and Leroy Somer.

Select from sizes of 40 hp to 200 hp, with units kept in stock at W.M. Smith Electric Co., 1911 Clovis Road.

AMONG STUDENTS, INSTRUCTORS AT PIVOT POINT SCHOOL

Cinderella Beauty School Vastly Expanded In Size, Patron Service

Mrs. Winnie Vaughn, owner-operator of the Cinderella Beauty School in Lubbock, proudly announces that she has recently enlarged the physical size of Cinderella, adding laboratory facilities for our high school vocational Cosmetology students and more staff offices.

Remodeling and additional teaching capacity were the direct result of the need to accommodate the 50% increase in our regular student enrollment, not counting the vocational students.

Mrs. Vaughn, a member of the accrediting Committee of the national Cosmetology Accrediting Commission, Washington, D.C., has just returned from a Pivot Point International Symposium in Chicago, where representatives from 28 foreign countries and from all 50 states gathered to learn the latest hair styles and Pivot Point techniques.

Mrs. Vaughn stated, "As the proud owner of a Pivot Point franchised school, I was privileged to take part in one of the most informative beauty culture training symposiums held this year. Pivot Point, the innovative leader in the field of hair design methods, regularly updates its scientific hair designing techniques, while inspiring hair fashions that most benefit the individual needs of Pivot Point school patrons. We here at Cinderella are really excited about the new Pivot Point hair creations which came to us just in time for the upcoming holidays. We can offer not only the latest, but the very best in hair styling assistance, exclusive to this area as the only Pivot Point school in Lubbock."

instructors who have had years of experience and the benefit of Pivot Point scientific skills to help customize your individual hair style.

If you witness Pivot Point and what it can do for you, you may decide that you, too, want to be a part of the Pivot Point International, and you can train right here, at Cinderella in Lubbock, as you learn the 'Scientific Approach to Hair Design,' a methodology which is based on proven principles of art design.

"Further, the Pivot Point curriculum will not make you an ordinary hairdresser, but a Pivot Point Hair Designer. This means you will learn cutting principles that are directly related to sculpturing as you achieve 14 classic hair designs: up-elevation cuts, down-elevation cuts, plus any new developments in cutting that arise, such as in our Pivot Point Symposiums. Do come in and talk with me about the very best and how you can be a part of it," Mrs. Vaughn states.

The Cosmetologist is only limited by desire and ambition.

Assistance Programs

"If you would like to enroll, but are in need of financial assistance, you may be eligible to apply for the Federal Basic Education Opportunity Grants (BEOG), in addition to other Federal and State assistance programs available to students. We are approved for the BEOG, a grant program, and if you qualify, the grant you receive does not have to be paid back," reports Mrs. Vaughn, adding that "We have all the necessary information and will be happy to assist you in the application procedure."

"Cinderella Beauty School also offers educational benefits and assistance for the Texas Education Agency (TEA) approved Cosmetology Course, as well as the Instructor Course, which can be made available to qualified veterans under Veterans Administration (VA) training; to those eligible for Texas Rehabilitation Commission and Social Security benefits; to high school students enrolled in their Vocational programs; and other assistance as it becomes available," states Mrs. Vaughn.

In Southwest Lubbock

Cinderella Beauty School is conveniently located in the Plaza Shopping Center, 5401 Aberdeen, just north of the South Plains Mall, one block off Slide Road. You can call telephone 792-4439 or 792-4430 for information on classes or for a beauty service appointment. Classes start any day, Mondays through Saturdays, with appointments being offered on those days except for Mondays.

Special Offers

"While I am on the subject of holidays, I want everyone to come by the school between now and December 23rd and see our expanded school (and, of course, our newest skills). As an incentive, we are making some special offers you cannot afford to miss between now and Christmas. For example, our better permanents are on special, $10 and up; for those who think that a relaxer is expensive, we can give you our special $10 hair relaxer which will give you a new and better look for less; and every woman at some time in her life deserves the luxury of a professional manicure and a pedicure at the same time, and we offer both for just $10, or you can have the manicure, only, for $2.50. Where else can you get so much for only $10 a service? And these services are performed by highly trained Pivot Point students who are motivated and supervised by our Texas licensed cosmetology

Enviably Record

Cinderella Beauty School, a Redkin approved school, as well as Pivot Point franchised, opened new and modern for the public in December, 1976, and in the past three years has seen every graduating student pass the Texas Cosmetology Commission Examination without a failure.

Mrs. Vaughn, with over 40 years of Cosmetology experience, takes each student under her wing, and with her staff, provides outstanding training. Certainly, Cinderella's record of scholastic achievement and manipulative vocational skills have attributed to this record of never having a failure at State Board, and this record has not been equalled in the Lubbock area by any other source of Cosmetology graduates. Mrs. Vaughn emphasizes:

Customer Services

"We at Cinderella are proud of our students; we welcome patrons, both men and women, and we offer complete Cosmetology services that are most reasonably priced. As a school, we teach a profession which offers pride, prestige, and personal fulfillment in knowing that you are making others attractive and happy. A trained and dedicated Cosmetologist often exceeds college graduates in earning power and financial independence. Certainly age is no barrier and does not present the handicap experienced by many other professionals who must 'retire' in a youth-oriented trade or profession while still physically and mentally capable of performance."

Good Eating At Modest Prices Marks Russell Chicken & Fish

"More and more Lubbock and area folks are discovering Russell's Chicken and Fish, discovering the good food available in both dining and carry-out service, at 50th Street and Kenosha."

One of the happy surprises there is that the menu is more elaborate than likely one would have expected from a business of this type.

Yes, there are all the standard delicious chicken and fish orders... and fried okra, hush puppies, squash, steak fingers, chicken bits, chicken fried steak, and more!

Russell's Chicken and Fish, just east of Woolco on 50th Street, will have been open two years in December. The growing and popular establishment is owned and actively operated by Russell Gillentine.

Gillentine, a longtime Lubbock resident, is widely known by the eating public as he was with a Lubbock family center for 17 years and was manager of the fountain and delicatessen there.

Open Every Day

Russell knows food and food goodness, combining all this with modest pricing and best in service at his own Russell's Chicken and Fish that is open from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. seven days a week.

"Let us prepare your picnic or party foods from our menu; then you can pick them up here and save the difference," is Russell's invitation in outlining catering service also available at his firm offering both dining room (67 seating capacity) and carry-out service.

Prices Emphasized

Examples of the affordable prices at Russell's include:

Russell's Special Chicken Dinner, 1/4 chicken white ($2.20) or dark ($2.10) including french fries, crispy puffs, cole slaw and honey;

A regular order of three chicken pieces (choice of the firm) is $2.20 including puffs and honey;

And there is a Fisherman's platter of Texas style fish, shrimp, oysters, scallops, french fries, cole slaw and hush puppies, at just $2.99.

Shrimp & Fries (deep fried portions of shrimp) french fries, puffs, seafood sauce and honey, is a modest $2.40.

And there are lots of other golden fried chicken orders and delicious seafood orders, even child's plates at special savings.

For Fastest Service

For quick takeout service or to have your order ready when you arrive, simply phone 799-8855.

"We want to prove at Russell's Chicken and Fish, 50th Street and Kenosha, that we are worthy of your trade when good eating, at modest pricing, is a consideration. May we have the opportunity of serving you soon? We know you'll like what you find... at Russell's Chicken and Fish."

GRAPHIC PROOF: HALLOWEEN IS HERE, AND AT WOOLCO

Everything For Halloween—At Woolco

"Woolco has stocked heavily for Halloween needs, enabling it to serve even at this late hour as your last-minute Halloween supply headquarters."

Yes, candy to satisfy the sweet tooth of every ghost and goblin. There are chocolate miniature bars in a tremendous selection of everyone's favorites, each individually wrapped.

And wrapped hard candies, suckers and jawbreakers, lifesavers and candy kisses and much more, even bubble gum (everyone's favorite) in money-saving bags. Select from Bubble Yum in regular and grape flavor.

Every aspiring super hero can make his or her wish come true with choice of costumes including Hulk, Spiderman, Wonderwoman and more.

Choose traditional favorites such as Holly Hobbie, witches and goblins or:

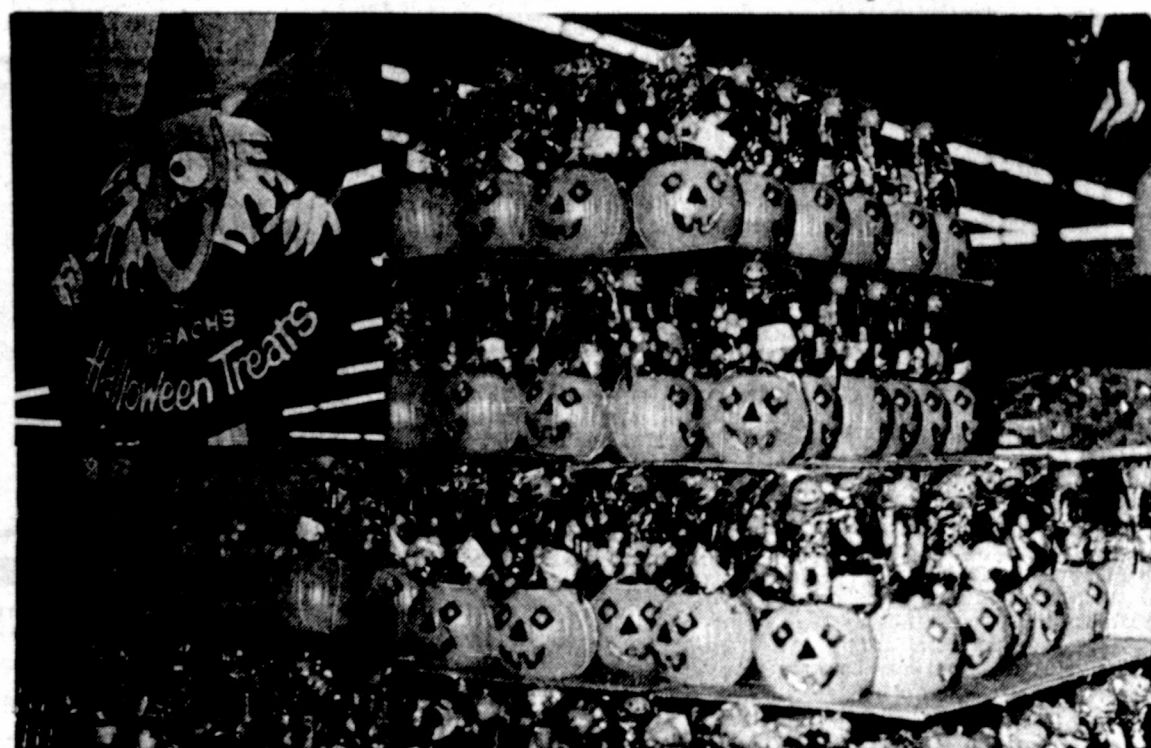

"Let the Force be with you in Star Wars costumes. Darth Vader, Princess Leia, Luke Skywalker, and more!"

Rubber Masks

Be creative and use one of the many rubber masks to create your own costume. There are masks with realistic features, masks with rooted "hair," fright wigs and fake noses, make-up kits and "vampire blood."

What a selection for Halloween still awaits at Woolco where all the above and much more is provided for one's choosing and fun!
