

Student Recovers After Rescue

A 20-year-old Texas Tech student, stranded more than eight hours on a narrow ledge in Guadalupe Peak this weekend, says he doubts he will try to climb that mountain again.

David Tarr, a two-year backpacking veteran who was recuperating Monday from exhaustion, aching muscles and blistered feet, said under any circumstances, stranded or not, "The climb at Guadalupe Peak is neat to go up once, but it's not something you want to do more than once."

Tarr became stranded as he worked his way down the 8,749-foot peak, the highest in Texas.

"I had kind of twisted my knee on a rock going down, and even though it's not really proper to split up (when backpacking), I told my friends to go on without me," explained Tarr.

"The trail gets obliterated sometimes," he added, "and I lost the trail."

As he continued his descent, Tarr encountered a 300-foot sheer cliff.

"I thought I saw a way down," he said, "But as I was climbing down, I had my hand on the branch of a tree. The branch broke and I landed about four feet down on a rock ledge about 3 1/2 by 3 feet wide.

Tarr became stranded on the ledge about 3:30 p.m. Saturday, but it was nine hours later before his three companions and several park rangers managed to lower the Texas Tech junior down to the canyon floor.

"It was about 12:30 a.m. Sunday when they got me down," Tarr said.

Park rangers from Carlsbad Caverns National Park and rangers of Guadalupe Mountains National Park thought at one point that Tarr could be rescued by helicopter, but high winds and faint lighting forced the helicopter to land instead at a main campsite.

Two technical climbers from the New Mexico park finally brought Tarr down after slowly making their way up two-thirds of the peak while they drove pitons, or stakes, into the cliff.

Tarr said that one of his friends climbed to an area near the ledge and talked to him until about 7 p.m., but had to go down the cliff before the sun set. The rangers and his friends did not return to the peak until about 9:30 p.m. to complete their rescue.

"It was really scary when there wasn't anybody to talk to in the dark," the telecommunications student said. "That was the longest part."

"You're really alone," he stressed.

Marijuana Delivery Testimony Begins

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Members of a 237th District Court jury, many of them sitting on the edges of their chairs and peering over the jury box rail, listened intently as an Amarillo Department of Public Safety narcotics officer Monday identified almost 70 pounds of a "green, leafy, plantlike substance" he and other agents confiscated a year ago this month at a North Lubbock residence.

DPS narcotics agent Dawson Lee Stubbs was the only witness to testify Monday afternoon as Jose Deleon Rodriguez's delivery of marijuana trial began. The 30-year-old defendant is accused of selling about 60 pounds of marijuana to Stubbs the evening of Oct. 13, 1978.

Stubbs stood in front of the jury box and identified two suitcases, a large plastic trash bag and a paper bag containing 20 "bricks" of the suspected marijuana he and other agents confiscated following the alleged sale at a N. Uvalde Avenue house.

Following the identification of the prosecution exhibits, Rodriguez's attorney John Mann of Amarillo objected to the material remaining on the table in front of the jury box. Mann asked Judge John R. McFall to order the material entered into evidence.

A smiling McFall, however, overruled the objection "because of the physical impracticability of doing it right now," and instead prosecutors Rick Howell and Mark McBride lifted the packages from the table and placed them on the floor in front of the jury box.

Mrs. Nale said of donations. She included a list of clothing sizes for the family to make clothing donations easier.

Mata wears slacks in a size 34 waist and 31 length, and shirts in size 15 1/2. Mrs. Mata wears a size 12 dress. The oldest boy wears a size 16. The two girls wear a junior size 3 and size 5 and the family's infant wears a size 2.

Relief Fund Started For Fire Victims

Neighbors and friends have started a relief fund for the family of Mr. and Mrs. Canuta Mata of Rt. 8, Lubbock, whose home was destroyed Sunday by an early morning fire.

Mary Nale, who can be reached at 799-0384, is organizing a collection effort for food, clothing and money — anything that can be used to help the family get back on its feet.

"I'll pick it up if they can't bring it out."

Abagnale was featured speaker during the Lubbock County Crime Prevention Council's Business Crimes Seminar this summer. His appearance today is being sponsored by the Texas Retailers Association.

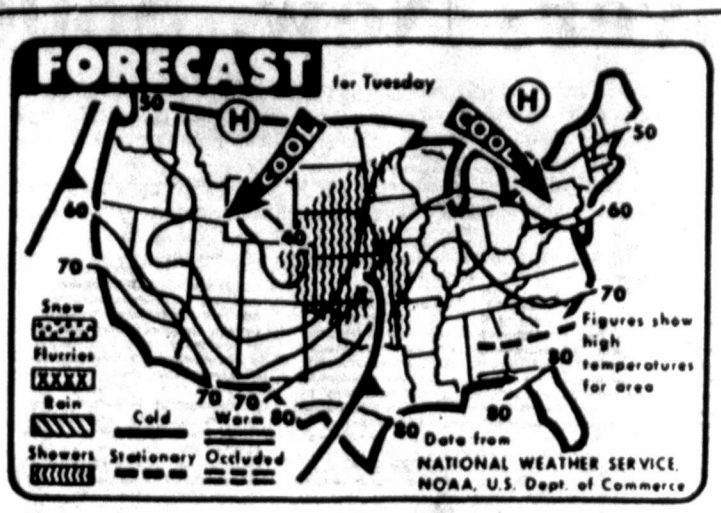

The 2 1/2 hour seminar at the Holiday Inn will begin at 4 p.m. Admission is $7.50 per person.

Fraud Specialist To Conduct Seminar

Frank W. Abagnale Jr., a specialist on business fraud and forgery, will conduct a business fraud seminar today at the Holiday Inn, 6624 Ave. H.

Abagnale, in the course of five years, cashed more than $2.5 million in bogus checks in some 26 foreign countries and across the United States. He served nearly four years in a federal prison.

Since his parole in 1974, he has acted as a consultant to businesses, using his former criminal expertise to help businessmen avoid white-collar crime losses.

Fund Established For Children Of Victim

A memorial fund for the children of Sarah Donn Lawrence, 30, who was found stabbed to death at her Amarillo home last week, is being established at Texas Commerce Bank in Lubbock.

Mrs. Lawrence was the daughter of Don K. Royer, manager of Nabisco, Inc., in Lubbock.

The fund will be in the name of the children — Angela Clark, 4, Danny Clark, 5, and David Clark, 9.

It is being set up by friends and co-workers of Royer.

Mrs. Lawrence was found on her living room couch late last Friday by her husband, David Lawrence, as he returned home from work, Amarillo police said.

Caprock Park Funds Approved

QUITAQUE (Special) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has approved almost $3 million for improvements and development of Caprock Canyon State Park in Briscoe County.

The 1,400-acre park, located just north of Quitaque will undergo construction of a swimming beach, pier, playground, picnic sites, camp sites, hiking and backpacking trails, utilities, roads and other facilities, a Parks and Wildlife Department spokesman said.

Included in the $2,879,740 allocated to the park, is a road cutting through the South Prong, said Marquis Robertson, superintendent of the park. "This was the main (project) the people here were concerned about," he added.

The South Prong of the park is rich in scenic beauty and a sanctuary for many endangered plant and animal species in West Texas. It is considered one of the major features of the new state park.

Israeli Attack Reported

Clashes With Lebanon Threaten Cease-Fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli armored vehicles struck southern Lebanon Monday backed by a barrage of artillery fire, Palestinian and Phalangist reports said.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli military command Monday denied the report. "Nothing of the kind happened," a spokesman said.

The fighting was reported centered near the strategic Khardaly Bridge in a valley separating the Christian rightwing forces of renegade Maj. Saad Haddad at Marjayoun and Palestinian positions at Nabatiyeh, the reports said.

Marjayoun is six miles north and Nabatiyeh eight miles northwest of the Lebanese-Israeli border.

There was no immediate confirmation of the report from the Lebanon government in Beirut or from other official sources.

The Palestinian news agency Wafa said the shooting went on after dark.

The reports said both Israeli armored vehicles and Haddad's troops, armed and supported by Israel, opened the attack in the late afternoon.

The reports of new clashes again threatened a shaky cease-fire, which has held in south Lebanon since Aug. 26, and came hours after Palestinian guerrillas claimed responsibility for a weekend bomb attack against a passenger train in Israel.

KNIGHTS OF THE YEAR — These South Plains residents received Knight of the Year awards from the Knights of Columbus Council, District 18, at a recent Columbus Day Banquet held at Saint John Neumann's Parish Center. # Black Leader's Ouster Urged LONDON (UPI) — Britain said Monday Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa's government must surrender power in favor of a London-appointed governor who alone would run during Zimbabwe Rhodesia's election campaign.

"They would undertake to perform no governmental function during the election campaign," Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington said of Muzorewa's Salisbury government.

"No one but the governor would exercise governmental power in the interim period."

Carrington, chairman of the conference that began its eighth week Monday, praised Muzorewa for "putting his country before himself in this way."

Muzorewa has said nothing about resigning or being replaced, even though his delegation voted 11-1 Saturday to accept Britain's plan to vest all power in a governor. Muzorewa spokesmen insist he will remain "prime minister" during the election campaign.

Patriotic Front leaders have been silent on the subject, but Carrington Monday spelled out the bishop's loss of power.

Carrington said his government would issue an "Order in Council" appointing an allpowerful governor. This document, he said, "would in effect become the constitution" until a new government can be elected.

"The governor would assume full responsibility from the moment of his arrival in Rhodesia," Carrington said. "Therefore, Bishop Muzorewa and his colleagues would depart to begin the election campaign."

Patriotic Front guerrilla spokesmen complained that certain points, such as the proposed governor's power to impose "laws by ordinance" or the appointment of a deputy governor, were being presented to them for the first time.

Carrington rejected Patriotic Front proposals for a new electoral law, a new registration of voters, or new parliamentary districts.

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by an A, your month numbers would be B for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Step 3 — Day of birth. Enter your day of birth three times in the figure chart, once each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I).
Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings.

Company Reports Income

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Instruments Inc. Monday reported net income for the third quarter of $43.6 million, or $1.92 per share, on sales of $813 million.

The electronics company, popular for its pocket calculators, said the current figures were up 23 percent compared with 1978 third quarter income of $35.5 million, or $1.56 per share, on sales of $644.5 million. The quarter ended Sept. 30.

TI reported net income for the first nine months of the year of $126.4 million, or $5.55 per share, on sales of $2.32 billion. In the nine-month period of 1978, the company earned $100.5 million, or $4.41 per share, on sales of $1.82 billion.

TI Chairman Mark Shepherd Jr. said its consumer electronics margins were lower in the latest quarter in part because of "increased material costs, softness in the digital watch market and home computer development costs. Margins also declined to a minor extent in government electronics and distributed computing because of costs related to manufacturing expansion."

LEADER OF RAID

John Brown led a raid on the federal arsenal at Harper's Ferry, Va., in 1859, to seize arms for his planned mountain stronghold where escaped slaves might defend themselves. The following day he and nine others were captured, and seven were killed by U.S. Marines under the command of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Brown was hanged a few weeks later on charges of conspiracy, treason and murder.

Four spades by South is a very normal contract. At most tables, East was stuck in a two-club overcall of North's diamond opening bid. West led the ace of clubs and the suit was continued with West getting to ruff the third club with his queen of trumps. The nine of hearts would be discarded from dummy and South would make the rest of the tricks for his contract.

At the table shown, East failed to overcall and West opened the four of hearts. Most South players would be happy with the lead and rise with dummy's ace in order to draw trumps and get some discards on diamonds, but this South was really greedy. He called for dummy's nine and the roof fell on him. East returned the nine of clubs.

West cashed the 10 and ace and led a second heart which East ruffed. East led a third club which West ruffed with the queen of trumps for defensive trick number five. West led another heart and East made his jack of trumps. Down three and if South had called for dummy's ace of hearts at trick one he would actually have made all 13 tricks.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 22-year-old newlywed. My husband tells me I grind my teeth during the night. I don't know if I did it before my marriage because I've never had to sleep with anyone! But my father used to grind his teeth in the night so loudly that it would wake us kids up. What causes people to do this? My husband is losing sleep and I'm getting worried. — L.L.

The two most common causes of bruxism are anxiety and malocclusion of the teeth. Your dentist can fashion for you a soft device to wear over the teeth at nighttime to protect them.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Many thanks for your wonderful column. Please, please write about depression. Doctors seem to treat depression lightly. I had a bad state of depression and my doctor did nothing about it. I went to see a psychiatrist and found that one of my blood pressure pills had this potential side effect. The psychiatrist conferred with my doctor and it was eventually discontinued. Yet periodically I get spells of depression still. Now I am taking an anti-depression medicine and am doing better. It seems so hard to convince doctors that one is suffering from depression. — Mrs. S.D.

Just as you say, depression is an illness that often needs the skills of a psychiatrist to combat. It is also true that certain blood pressure pills (reserpine) may produce depression in a susceptible person.

Everyone gets the blues now and then. Most doctors recognize this, and so are not quick to diagnose depression. But prolonged and recurrent depressed states often require the joint efforts of the personal physician and the psychiatrist. Yours is a case in point.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 71 years old and in good health. I have large breasts. Is it advisable to have surgery at my age? — Mrs. S.S.

You are not too old to have breast reduction surgery, especially if you are having problems like upper-back ache. If it is strictly for cosmetic purposes, then I'd say it's not a great idea.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Author Offers Facts About Fall Festival

By LESLIE LAND
Women's News Service

1) The grand champion (Guinness Records) giant pumpkin of all time was grown in 1975, in Circleville, Ohio. El Monstro measured a full 9 feet around and weighed in at a tidy 378 pounds.

2) In pre-Christian Ireland, this was the time of the Druidic Thanksgiving. Bonfires were lit in gratitude to the sun god and there was a lot of partying. Right before this, on or around October 31, Saman, the lord of death, summoned the year's crop of evil souls, souls condemned to live in the bodies of animals, and gathered them up in the night.

3) As if the Druids weren't enough, some jolly festivals properly the property of a Roman goddess named Pomona have gotten lumped in here, too. It is from Pomona that we get the apples and nuts business, and from Pomona's ceremony comes the now (I hope) almost extinct custom of getting all slopped with cold, mouthy water as you shift uncomfortably from knee to knee in the vain hope of snagging, with your teeth, an apple floating in a tub.

Open the door and there they are, the little monsters, loot bags outstretched, eagerness — vivid through the crayon, sparkling through the five-and-dime masks — on every upturned face. This is somehow endearing — but what on Earth do you give them?

If you give them candy, you will ruin their health. If you give them money, they will go out and spend it on candy and war toys. If you give them a nice shiny apple, they will consider you a fink.

Children seem to love bright red candy, neon blue candy, poison green candy, candy every color that makes adults quail. The adults have reason beyond aesthetics — most of these garish colorings come from coal tar dyes.

Coal tar dyes, first used in the 19th century, keep getting banned as unsafe. As soon as a new one is around long enough to study, poof! No good. Then they think up another, which gets banned in its turn.

Meanwhile, children are especially susceptible to the ill-effects of these dyes. Consider the merits of marshmallows, chocolates, nougats, Cracker Jacks, nutbrittle and other less-lurid favorites.

If you're determined to be healthy about this, try nuts in the shell, dried fruits and raisins, all of which hold up well during the hours of patrol. There are lots of ways to grind up fruit and nuts and mix them with honey, spices and wheat germ to make extremely healthy candy which tastes, to both children and adults, exactly like extremely healthy candy.

If you feel up to actually making something, but not up to popcorn balls, in spite of the fact that they are so cheap, consider the following cookie bars — not cheap, but just as easy and even more popular with kids.

BUTTERSCOTCH CHOCOLATE PEANUT BARS: Butter a high-sided cookie sheet or jellyroll pan about 14-x-18 inches. Preheat the oven to 350-degrees F.

Melt ½ cup butter, then stir in 1½ cups brown sugar and 4 tablespoons white sugar. Cook, stirring, over very low heat until the sugar dissolves. Cool to tepid, then beat in 2 eggs and 1½ teaspoons vanilla or almond extract.

Sift or stir together 1 cup all-purpose flour, 2½ tps. baking powder and a pinch of salt. Stir in 2 tablespoons toasted wheat germ.

Stir the flour mixture into the butter one, then stir in 1½ cups coarsely chopped roasted, salted peanuts and ¼ cup chocolate chips.

Spread the batter in the prepared pan and bake the bars for about 20 minutes, or until a toothpick emerges etc. Let cool, then cut into squares or bars. This makes a fair number — 2 or 3 dozen, depending on how generously you cut them.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
A mother who has several little ones may have trouble remembering where each is playing... or she may waste precious minutes answering the door to neighborhood kids when her own children are elsewhere.

To avoid this, I hung a bulletin board (cork, wood, or metal with magnets will do fine) on the door. Then I took a photo of each of my children and a photo of each of the friends they play with who are too young to read.

Under my children's photos they place the photo (or name if a photo is not available) of the friend they are going to visit. Now, when other children come to our house, they look at the board and can tell at a glance if our children are home or playing elsewhere.

If one of my children goes from one house to another to play, he must first come home and change the photo or name.

This sure helps me if I have to go someplace in a hurry because I no longer have to search the whole neighborhood. — Kathleen Webb

That's the greatest, Kathleen, especially for families who live in suburban neighborhoods or in apartment complexes where there are a lot of children to play with. Because it's a fun idea, bet your children never forget to leave a forwarding address. You're the smartest! — Heloise

Here's a money-saving idea for removing eye makeup:
Cut old flannel pajamas into small sections and use them to remove makeup and cleansing cream.

Not only is this easy — and soft on skin — but it saves money on tissues since the flannel can be washed with the rest of the laundry and used over and over again. — Peggy

Popcorn Provides Healthy Holiday Treat

WEST BEND, Wis. (Special) — Hal- loween!

It's that time of year again when the neighborhood "big-wheels" set abandon their cycles and games and appear at your door step in the guise of witches, ghosts and goblins.

It's a time when the next-door five-year-old with an unmistakable giggle asks disappointedly from under a big white sheet, "How'd you know it's me?" However, you will find nothing supernatural or magical about the prices of the goodies the youngsters at your doorstep will be begging for this year.

According to home economists, individually wrapped one-half ounce candy bars will cost as much as $2.40 per pound. A 1.7 ounce bar will be about $1.44 per pound.

Popcorn is a nearly perfect snack food. It's inexpensive — 35-40 cents per pound bag of kernels. It's simple and quick to prepare. Tastes great, is accepted in some weight-loss diets as a substitute for bread and contains nutrients.

For example, an ounce of popped corn contains 67 percent as much protein as an ounce of beef, 110 percent as much iron and an equal amount of calcium.

Sugar-free popcorn is recommended as a snack by the American Dental Association.

When making popcorn treats, assure the best results by using large, fluffy, fully-popped corn.

The best popcorn is popped by high heat, even heating of the kernel all-round, and a stirring action to prevent burning.

These conditions in combination cause a thorough heating of the internal moisture of the kernel and therefore, the best explosion.

Electric corn poppers heat and turn off automatically, while one six-quart popper on the market has a motorized stirring rod that moves the corn through the hot oil.

For a really quick and easy Halloween treat, simply bag and seal freshly popped, fresh corn. Inside the bag with the corn, include a small toy or puzzle like the famous sailor "Jack" has done for so many years.

Try these bag-stuffer recipes, doubling and tripling the recipes as needed. Using a bagmaker/sealer that shapes plastic film to size, make individual packages.

This candy-flavored corn is especially quick to prepare. Make the topping while the corn is popping and the oven is pre-heating.

SUGAR 'N SPICE TREAT

4 qts. plain popcorn
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt

Prepare 4 quarts of un buttered popcorn according to instructions. Place in a buttered 13x9x2-inch baking pan. In a 1-quart sauce pan, melt butter over low heat. Stir in sugar, cinnamon and salt. Mix well until sugar dissolves. Pour over popcorn, tossing to coat evenly. Bake in a preheated 300-degree F. oven for 10 minutes. Cool slightly before serving.

This popcorn treat combines nuts and crunch for a tasty surprise.

STIR CRAZY CRUNCH

2 qts. plain popcorn
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup light brown sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup water
1 tsp. white vinegar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup dry roasted peanuts

Prepare 2 quarts of un buttered popcorn according to instructions. Place in a large, buttered heat-proof bowl. In a 2 quart saucepan combine sugars, syrup, water, vinegar, butter and salt. Over medium heat, cook the syrup to 250-degrees on candy thermometer, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and add peanuts. Pour over popcorn tossing corn to coat well. Spread mixture into buttered 9x13x2-inch baking pan. When cool break into pieces.

Very rich and flavorful, this popcorn easily substitutes for a full-size candy bar at a fraction of the cost.

CARMEL CONFECTION CLUSTERS

2 qts. plain popcorn
1/2 cup flaked coconut
1/2 cup water
1 1/4 oz. pkg. caramels
1/4 tsp. salt

Prepare 2 quarts of un buttered popcorn according to instructions. Place in a buttered 9x13x2-inch baking pan. Add coconut; toss to mix.

In a 2-quart saucepan, combine caramels, water and salt. Cook over low heat, stirring until caramels melt. Pour over popcorn mixture tossing to coat evenly. Heat popcorn mixture in a pre-heated 250-degree oven for 10 minutes. Allow to cool thoroughly and separate into clusters. Bag and seal.

Low Productivity Rate Worries Economists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Productivity in the private economy edged up at an annual rate of 0.1 percent in the third quarter after posting steep declines during the first half of 1979, the government reported Monday.

But the rise in the rate, which measures the efficiency of American workers and machines, was too small to alter a long-term slide in productivity that portends high inflation and a diminished standard of living for the indefinite future.

The third-quarter rise follows a 2.2 percent drop on an annual basis in the second quarter and 3 percent decline in the first quarter, the Labor Department said.

Higher productivity means the economy produces more goods and services for each hour of paid working time, and that helps curb inflation by holding down labor costs. Productivity growth also creates more wealth per worker, leading to a higher standard of living.

But if productivity falls, the labor cost for producing each item goes up and the increase is passed to consumers as higher retail prices.

After growing 3.1 percent a year on the average between 1947 and 1967, productivity growth has slowed to 1.6 percent a year during the past decade. Productivity grew only 0.5 percent during 1978 and has declined 1.2 percent during the 12-month period ending in September.

Government economists predict inflation will average 8 percent to 9 percent a year and the nation's standard of living will not grow in the foreseeable future unless productivity improves.

Carters administration economists say they don't know why productivity has turned stagnant. Other economists, however, blame the problem on a decline in investment by American business in labor-saving technology that lets companies produce more with the same workforce.

Concern about productivity surfaced Monday at a meeting of President Carter's 18-member Pay Advisory Committee, formed to draft new voluntary wage guidelines for the president's anti-inflation program.

"Productivity itself is a large part of this inflation," said Norma Pace, senior vice president of the American Paper Institute and one of six business representatives on the panel.

Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO and one of six labor leaders on the board, countered that poor productivity is the result of declining economic activity triggered by the government's tight-money policies.

Youth Wins State Contest

COLLEGE STATION (Special) — Wesley Burress of Idalou is a master when it comes to gardening. And his talents and skills have made him the state winner in the 4-H Gardening Program.

Burress will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond sponsored by the Ortho Division of the Chevron Chemical Co., announce state 4-H officials with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System. Ortho also provides 18 trips to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 25-30, for regional winners and eight $1,000 scholarships for national winners. Burress' state-winning record book will be entered in regional competition.

The 4-H youth is the 18-year-old son of Mrs. Norma Burress of Rt. 1, Idalou. The eight-year veteran of 4-H is a freshman at Southwest Texas State University and is majoring in business.

Through his 4-H project, Burress has learned all the particulars about gardening, from soil preparation and variety selection to insect control and harvesting. He has exhibited much of his produce and flowers at local and area fairs, capturing a host of awards.

Burress has competed at the State 4-H Roundup the past four years, three years in the natural resources method demonstration and this past summer in food show competition.

In addition to gardening, Burress also has 4-H projects in horticulture, foods and nutrition, wildlife, conservation of natural resources, plant and soil science, entomology and leadership.

He has participated in leadership lab, electric camp at Cloudcroft, N.M. and the Texas 4-H Congress.

Burress has been a member of the Lubbock County 4-H Council the past five years and is currently serving on the district 4-H council.

Pastor Of Carter's Church Terminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pastor of Washington's First Baptist Church, which has President Carter as its most famous parishioner, was fired by the congregation on Sunday because of his relationship with a young female church member.

Members of the congregation voted not to renew the contract of the Rev. Charles A. Trentham, 60. At issue were Trentham's two divorces and his judgment in dating the church member.

Charles Morgan, a deacon, told the gathering that the woman began seeing Trentham soon after she was separated from her husband in June 1978. Trentham denied any wrongdoing, calling the relationship "above reproach."

HEALTHY HALLOWEEN — This happy Halloween treat illustrates the steps in making tasty popcorn treats. Not only a traditional treat, but a healthy one, popcorn is one of the more inexpensive "trick or treat" choices.

Dear Ann Landers: My family has a horse-breeding farm in Virginia. We have all been fans of yours for a long time, and would like to name a horse after you, but we need to know if anyone has ever done it before.

Please print this in your column with the answer. — Waiting With Bated Breath

Dear Waiting: So far as I know, there have been two horses named after me — one in Edgerton, Wis., and another in Toronto. "Ann Landers" of Edgerton worked on a farm. My Toronto namesake was a three-year-old filly. She made her debut at Greenwood Raceway. As I recall, I was eased out of second place by Saifling Chance. Victoria Lomac came in first.

George Zirnis was my jockey. He said I had a poor position . . . a bum break. He also said I was just recovering from a bad cold.

So, there you have the background. If you decide to name that filly after me, let me know when and where she runs. I'd like to place a small bet — right on the nose.

Dear Ann Landers: Can you use one more letter about "choosing sides" in school and how it damages a child's self-image?

I still remember the pain of my grade-school days in the mid-'50s, when class tours were announced.

Our school had no bus, so the children volunteered their mothers to drive. Sounds OK? Well, the kids whose mothers drove got to invite five or six pals to ride in their car. Because of the size of the class, this always meant that 10 or 15 children didn't get to go.

My mother worked, and we didn't have a car. I wasn't popular and was rarely among those chosen. Although I am now 34 years old, I still remember the feeling of pain and rejection. I'm sorry to hear this type of thing is still going on. How cruel! — Been There

Dear Been: I see your letter came from Des Moines. I cannot believe this sort of thing is still going on in that fine city.

If you will send me the name of the school and the principal I will contact

Reagan Criticizes Democrats; Calls For Policy Overhauling

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ronald Reagan, who says he'll formally announce his presidential candidacy Nov. 13, assailed past Democratic leadership here Monday, saying "This country has to embark on a different course."

The former California governor was on a three-city, fund-raising swing through Texas. He appeared Sunday in Fort Worth and was scheduled Monday night in Houston to address a $100,000 fund-raiser sponsored by singer Wayne Newton.

Reagan appeared before 1,300 supporters at a $10-per-plate luncheon here. Former Texas Gov. John Connally, one of Reagan's chief rivals for the Republican nomination, has made several recent campaign trips to San Antonio. His last visit two weeks ago netted pledges of at least $500,000 for his campaign.

Reagan sharply criticized the government's domestic and foreign policy, placing the blame for current problems squarely on the Democratic-controlled Congress and administrations.

"I believe very deeply that this country has to embark on a different course than the one we've had in the past few decades in this country," he said.

"There's a fear that we're losing certain qualities that make us unique in the world," Reagan added.

No. 8 America's energy problem is complex. This is the eighth in a series in which we will discuss each of the individual factors affecting the energy situation.

Crude oil: "Made in America" has never been so important.

America's heavy dependence on foreign oil has left us vulnerable to unexpected shortages and crude oil price increases. Alternate energy sources will help someday, but for now, conservation and increased oil production in America are what's most needed.

Chevron has the technology and the experience to find new oil and increase production from existing fields. However, if we're to expand our present efforts, certain roadblocks need to be removed.

Roadblocks to more U.S. oil.

Excessive government and environmental restraints have closed off many promising new exploration areas, and have frequently restricted us from using the methods needed to extract hard-to-recover oil from existing fields.

The problem of rising costs.

Ten years ago, finding oil in America was easier and cheaper. Today, in addition to increases due to inflation, finding new oil costs a lot more because wells must be drilled in more difficult, less accessible areas.

Skyrocketing drilling costs

The above are average oil industry costs for all wells drilled, both successful and unsuccessful. However, the last exploratory well Chevron drilled in Alaska cost over $23,000,000 — unfortunately a dry hole.

In addition to expanding our efforts to increase America's oil production, all of us must do an even better job of conserving energy.

Thank you for listening.

'Roots' Percussionist At Top Of Field

Musician's Talent Ranges From Rock To Conga

By GORDON BOCK
United Press International
OAKLAND, Calif. — Bill Summers firmly grasped the hand of a visitor, revealing a sturdy web of hard, thick calluses that lined the inside of his strong, brown palm.

"My skin sheds like a snake," he explained with a laugh. "It comes off like a glove — big pieces of it."

If someone's hands can provide the key to what he does for a living, surely Summers must be a laborer accustomed to carrying sacks of sugar on the nearby San Francisco docks or a politician with an acquired immunity from years of pressing the flesh.

Bad guess.
He's a percussionist, one of the best in the music business, who has carried beats — not cargo or votes — for a list of artists that includes Santana, Stanley Turrentine, the Pointer Sisters, McCoy Tyner, Sonny Rollins and Herbie Hancock.

The 30-year-old Detroit-born musician boasts in his collection about 150 different instruments, ranging from the mundane conga drums to such exotic imports as the balafon (favored by Africa's Chopi tribe) and the djembe (a drum found in the area of Senegal from which hailed Kunta Kinte of "Roots" fame).

It was for his participation in the television version of "Roots" that Summers began to achieve wide public notice. He shared an Emmy Award for best soundtrack with composer Quincy Jones.

And, although he and his group have recorded three well received albums in the jazz, rhythm and blues and black orbits, Summers has a more burning desire than awards and critical acclaim. His future plans call for opening a multiethnic institute that would teach music, dance, literature, painting and handicrafts to future generations.

On a 60-acre plot that his family owns about 40 miles north of New Orleans is the site on which Summers hopes to put up the school. Still needed is money to put up a building and run the program.

"Music is to the black people what oil is to the Arabs," Summers said as he sipped a cold beer during an interview in a recording studio control room. Guitar licks and cymbal splashes leaked in from the studio, where his band was rehearsing for an upcoming concert.

"The Arabs didn't have it for a long time and they hold control over it now," Summers continued. "So it must be with music and blacks."

The words, though spoken in the city known as the cradle of the Black Panther movement, come without anger and even with a trace of a pleasant smile. "It's going on all the time," he said of his plans for the center. "This educational thing within me goes on all the time, always running inside."

At the University of California at Berkeley, Summers ran into a wall of opposition when he tried to create a major in African ethnomusicology. Four years later, having won the fight, Summers also won the school's highest award in the music department.

"It took two years of fighting to get my way," he said. "Before that, going to a conservatory, they made me feel that the music I was hearing every day — jazz, rhythm-and-blues — was secondary."

It wasn't the first time Summers had problems in school. As a student at Detroit's Cathedral High School, he remembered, "My grades were terrible."

One day, a fellow student lost a key in Summers' homeroom. "I was the only black person in the classroom so I got blamed for it," he recalled with bitterness. "Want to know what happened? The key was found in the guy's pants."

A half-credit short of graduation, Summers quit high school and set out on his own at 18.

In 1972, while working with a folklore group, Summers was again beset by problems. His 19-year-old wife, a dancer who spoke five languages, died in a car accident.

Even now, Summers said, "I can't leave my wife's birthday. It's just something I can't dwell on." Summers joined Hancock, staying for three years, "to keep my mind together."

"THE BLUE LAGOON" — Brooke Shields and Christopher Atkins, left, are shown in a scene from the upcoming Columbia film, "The Blue Lagoon," as two teenagers who have grown up alone on a Pacific island. The film, which is Atkins' motion picture debut, was filmed in the Fiji Islands under direction of "Grease" director Randal Kleiser. (AP Laserphoto)

Mail Order Companies Get Warning From Feds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government told mail order companies Monday it is getting tough on businesses that send consumers unordered merchandise and then try to collect for it.

The Federal Trade Commission said companies could be liable for civil penalties of up to $10,000 for each law violation.

The FTC said it will send warning letters to about 100 companies that have been the subject of consumers' complaints to the commission. Then FTC staff members will investigate companies they suspect are violating the law and recommend action, the agency said.

Sending unordered merchandise has traditionally been a source of many consumer complaints to the FTC, which receives thousands annually, and to the Postal Service, Better Business Bureaus and other authorities.

American consumers make 12 percent of their purchases by mail order, says the Direct Mail Marketing Association.

Consumer complaints to the FTC include such practices as sending merchandise "on approval" without a consumer's permission, sending products different from what the consumer ordered, sending more products than were ordered and failing to stop sending merchandise such as books or records when a consumer has canceled a plan.

Airlines Top Start Flights Following Long Strike

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ozark Air Lines, shut down for more than five weeks by a flight attendants' strike, will begin phasing in operations next week, a spokesman said Monday.

Charles Ehler, spokesman for the St. Louis-based carrier, said reservation telephone lines will reopen Tuesday and desk operations at Lambert Airport are scheduled to begin next Monday. He said that not all flights to all 67 cities in 21 states served by Ozark will begin immediately but that the airline expects starting more flights Nov. 15.

Softer Regime Seen Park's Death Result

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The assassination of President Park Chung-hee may have set the stage for a softening of the iron rule that has held down opposition in this country for years, informed political sources said Monday.

The government may have signaled its intentions by allowing publication of an opposition appeal for democratic reform in South Korea.

North Korea, however, charged that the Park killing was actually aimed at preserving the "fascist regime," and the Soviet Union accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of having directed the death plot to protect American interests, an allegation denied by the Carter administration.

The helicopter carrier USS Blue Ridge, meanwhile, was cruising toward the South Korean port of Pusan in a demonstration of continued American support for the Seoul government. It was scheduled to arrive Tuesday.

A spokesman for U.S. Forces in Korea said the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk also will call at Pusan on Nov. 4. He said the back-to-back, three-day visits of the Blue Ridge and Kitty Hawk are "routine calls for both, scheduled far in advance."

South Korea's acting president, Choi

Kyu-hah, and cabinet ministers met in hours-long sessions behind closed doors, Monday, presumably discussing the leadership crisis and possible replacements for Park.

At the Defense Ministry, top generals were reported to have begun meeting at 10 p.m., when a martial-law curfew went into effect. No information was available on the gathering of the military chiefs, who have long been the real power base in South Korea.

Outward Calm

The nation remained outwardly calm, as hundreds of thousands in cities and towns across South Korea prayed before public altars set up to memorialize Park, who was slain with five of his bodyguards at a dinner party, last Friday night, at a Korean Central Intelligence Agency guesthouse.

The government said the 62-year-old president, who governed South Korea for 18 years, was gunned down by KCIA chief Kim Jae-kyu in a plot stemming from Kim's fears that he would lose his job because he had fallen out of favor with Park.

ANYBODY SEEN THE COMICS? — A garbage truckload of newspapers and other materials was strewn over a two-mile long area north of Lubbock on the Amarillo Highway Monday afternoon. The truck, operated by a local garbage disposal company, dropped the load on its way to a dumpground north of the city, and the wind did the rest. (Staff Photo by Jim Watkins).

Carter Sees Threat Of Huge, Oil Profits

of money we are dealing with," Powell explained.

In Washington, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee, said he thinks the bill that eventually emerges from Congress will be one that Carter will be pleased to sign. Long also defended his committee's work on the bill.

"We do not believe that we should be irresponsible and (approve) a bill that's going to cause the American people to be without energy when they ought to have a lot of it," he said.

Carter's political position was set back over the weekend, when Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne endorsed Kennedy's candidacy after hinting for several weeks that she might support Carter.

It provides a note of levity at the energy conference when Gov. Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, an early Carter supporter this year, said, carefully emphasizing his first name:

"I'd like to introduce myself to you, Mr. President. My name is Brendan Byrne. I say the same thing every week."

Informed political sources, who asked not to be named, said Kim's main nemesis was Park's chief bodyguard Cha Chi-chul, who was among those slain.

They said the ruling circles in South Korea blamed Cha for political blunders that stirred the anti-government unrest here in the past few months.

Repressive Moves

These included ordering a bloody police assault in August against women factory workers staging a sit-in and hunger strike; the arrest of leaders of the opposition New Democratic Party; and the ejection of the NDP chief Kim Young-sam from the National Assembly. His expulsion led all opposition lawmakers to resign from the Assembly, and this in turn touched off widespread anti-government rioting earlier this month.

The sources said the bodyguard Cha had grown arrogant as a close adviser to Park and stood between the president and his political aides and key officials, such as KCIA boss Kim.

Jack Strong Resigns Hospital Board Post

had their reasons for what they did," Strong said. But Strong has been a witness to the hospital's problems through three administrations now — Harold Coston; Gerald Bosworth and Hyatt Medical Management; and Brookwood.

"I just can't see starting all over," Leadership Problem Seen

Strong said he understood the board's concern over the amount of money Brookwood was asking, but asked board members who would run the hospital in the absence of the firm.

The board's opinion, according to Strong, was: "Well, there's bound to be someone here in the hospital who can run it."

Strong warned that anyone hired from another firm probably would have to give at least 30 days notice, extending the time the hospital would have to operate without an administrator.

"It just shocked me to no end," Strong said of the majority of the board's vote to reject Brookwood. "We thought Brookwood had done a good job."

"Snow Jobs" Acknowledged

"We know they give us a little bit of a snow job from time to time," he admitted, adding that Brookwood also did much to help the hospital.

Strong went into Monday's meeting thinking the board would continue negotiating a contract with Brookwood. Though there were some disagreements on payment and the organization of Brookwood staff, Strong said he thought the problems would be worked out.

County Judge Rod Shaw praised

Strong's years on the board, saying "Jack Strong has worked long and hard for the board of managers. I hate to see him leave the board."

The judge had no direct comment on the board's decision, saying instead that the county commissioners have full confidence in the board of managers.

"The board members are a lot better informed about all the alternatives," Shaw said. "I know they have difficult decisions to make. Naturally, everyone has concerns when there are difficult decisions to make."

Kennedy's Formal Announcement Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will formally announce on Nov. 7 in Boston's Faneuil Hall that he is challenging President Carter for the 1980 Democratic nomination.

From the standpoint of federal election laws, Kennedy became a presidential candidate on Monday when his brother-in-law, Stephen Smith, announced formation of a Kennedy for President Committee. Smith also announced the date and place Kennedy would declare his candidacy.

Smith, who has played key roles in the presidential campaigns of all three Kennedy brothers, told a news conference that the Massachusetts senator feels there are "fundamental differences" between himself and President Carter.

"He feels the real drift in this country and a sense of lack of direction," said Smith. "I think he's concerned about that and I think it's one of the reasons he's going forward."

President Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said when questioned about Kennedy's move:

"We look forward to an interesting campaign and to a close examination of the candidates and their philosophies of government and their records of accomplishment. The American people will ultimately decide which candidate they wish to trust to lead them in the difficult times ahead."

Asked if Kennedy would enter all 35 presidential primaries, Smith replied: "We're going to contest for all the delegates in all areas of the country."

Smith said it would be up to the voters to decide if the Chappaquiddick incident is a legitimate campaign issue. It was a reference to the accident 10 years ago on Chappaquiddick Island in which a car driven by Kennedy went off a bridge. Mary Jo Kopechne, a passenger in the car, drowned.

Smith said Kennedy had assumed responsibility for the accident. "I think it's a great personal tragedy for him," he added. "I think that's a factor that will always be with him."

Several members of the Kennedy family were present for Smith's news conference in what was once the showroom of a Cadillac automobile dealership located about a mile from the White House.

However, the senator did not attend the news conference.

Smith urged the draft Kennedy groups operating around the country to "terminate their operations as unauthorized committees."

"We hope that all citizens in this nation who share our belief that Senator Kennedy should be the next president of the United States will join in the campaign we are beginning today," he said.

In deciding to announce his presidential candidacy in Boston, Kennedy is breaking with the practice of his brothers, John and Robert, both of whom began their presidential campaigns with announcements in Washington in the Senate Caucus Room.

Another Error Found By Fed: $800 Million

es supply reports on Oct. 3

Schultz said that even after discounting the errors, the money supply still expanded in early October at more than a 10 percent annual rate, a rate of growth that the board feels encourages inflation.

The rate of growth of the money supply is important, as it provides the fuel on which inflation can thrive if money growth is too rapid.

Schultz said that "every effort is being made to further minimize the risk that reporting errors will affect the money supply."

The new reporting form has been used since Oct. 1. Errors occurred in the weekly reports of Oct. 3, Oct. 10 and Oct. 17.

Understanding President

Gov. Ella Grasso, D-Conn., said Carter is "a president who understands our problems," has the support of the country and has "showed leadership" on energy issues.

There was a reminder of energy politics: a gasoline station operator silently waved a red flag — symbolizing no fuel — as the president's 15-vehicle motorcade swept past on its way into downtown from the Providence airport.

At the energy conference, and later at a reception in nearby Cranston, there was no mention of Kennedy or the challenge the Massachusetts Democrat is preparing for the presidential nomination next year.

However, Carter made a veiled reference to challenges to his presidency and said that criticism could weaken his work.

In fact, with energy likely to be an issue next year, Carter said, "It's too late to try to find a scapegoat, to try to affix blame" for the energy problems.

Debilitating

Then, at the Cranston reception, he said that "one of the most debilitating things in a time like this is for there to be an attempt made politically to benefit because our nation is being challenged."

"It's not a time to grasp for selfish advantage," Carter said. "It's a time for us to put aside differences except in an open debate as part of democracy."

Carter, walking through the reporters' section on Air Force One on the flight home to Washington from Providence after the 4½-hour trip, declined to discuss Mrs. Byrne's decision.

At the reception, he shared a platform with former Sen. John Pastore and, calling attention to the Rhode Island Democrat's success at the polls, called Pastore "an inspiration to me" and said the former senator "gave re-election a good name."

"He abused his power and poked his nose into almost every sector of political affairs," one source said. He said some Park followers tried to petition the president to ease his repression of dissent, but Cha blocked their access.

The sources agreed that Assembly members Kim Jong-pil, 53, and Chung Il-Kwon, 61, both former military men and onetime prime ministers, are possible successors to Park. But one source noted that both men have enemies inside and outside the ruling Democratic Republican Party.

"Therefore (acting president) Choi may emerge as a compromise candidate to take power, with some understanding among the opposing political forces that political reforms will be made within a certain period," he said.

If Park's successor does not relax some of Park's tight controls, "his government would not stand the people's dissatisfaction," a source said. The informants predicted, however, that changes would not be swift.

Many observers were surprised to see the military censors allow publication in English-language newspapers of a plea by opposition leader Kim Young-sam for "restoration of a democratic system."

This was coupled with Kim's warning to North Korea that all southerners stand united against any belligerent action from the North.

U.S. RECALLS ENVOY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is recalling its ambassador to Czechoslovakia in a show of displeasure over last week's conviction of six human rights activists. State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Ambassador Francis Meehan will return to Washington about mid-week for consultations on U.S.-Czech relations in light of last week's events.

Breakthrough Produces Bread From Cottonseed

protein as we have available," she said. "Some plant proteins are nutritious but do not taste good. But cottonseed protein really does taste good."

She explained that cottonseed protein is an alternate food not intended to replace traditional foods.

"The body needs all nine amino acids in sufficient amounts to promote growth and development," she said. "It doesn't matter whether these essential amino acids come from one protein food or a blend of several. Cottonseed protein blended with other plant proteins can provide this good balance of amino acids. For this reason it is a welcome new protein source."

The best nutrition is provided, she added, with a blend of both vegetable and animal protein in the diet.

She has been doing nutritional research on cottonseed protein for 10 years.

The help that Texas farmers may get from this broader use of cottonseed was described by Carl Cox of Dallas, executive director of the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Commission of Texas.

"The development of a glandless variety of cottonseed means we are able to go from producing food primarily for animals to food for human diets in one step, opening a whole spectrum of food utilization potentials," he said. "This is probably the most important thing we have been involved with in the last 20 years."

The commission Cox heads is a state agency created by the Legislature in 1941 to "more fully develop a national and international image for Texas and its natural fiber resources through research — and to disseminate such information, both basic and technical, to our producer-manufacturer-consumer markets in an effort to promote and increase the utilization and marketability of cotton, wool, mohair, and Texas oilseed crops."

Cox said the commission uses the research facilities and staff of four state universities.

Keeping Strain Pure

The new strain of cottonseed is kept separated from other strains from planting through ginning. The same system is used to keep it pure as is used in producing certified planting seed.

Each farmer who plants the seed is required to certify that the cotton will be raised under specific conditions. The ginner handles the cotton just as when ginning cotton for certified seed, making special arrangements to maintain the purity of the strain.

Ginners receive a premium for the special handling and farmers also receive a premium for the seed.

E. B. Burelsmith, Levelland farmer and ginner, who has been growing and ginning glandless cotton for six years, said he sees "a real good future" for the production of this kind of cotton on the High Plains.

He gets the planting seed from Rogers at Waco, where the glandless seed also are processed.

"We haven't had any more problems with insects on the glandless cotton than we have on the other (standard) varieties," Burelsmith said.

tures 20 degrees cooler than Monday's high of 83 degrees. Highs today are expected to reach from the upper 50s into the middle 60s across the area, with lows tonight dropping into the lower 40s and upper 30s.

Winds should be gusting up to 35 mph through the day, with blowing dust a certainty. Chances for rain will be about 30 percent throughout the day and evening.

Across the nation today, the weather should range from somewhat pleasant in the desert southwest to cold and rainy in the east.

Snow will fall all across Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and Nebraska, and possibly extend down into Oklahoma, New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle, and rain should dominate the deep South, the Atlantic Coast states from Georgia through Virginia and across the Great Lakes region.

Highs in the 30s will populate the Rockies and the Pacific Northwest, while the southern regions of California and Arizona will rise into the 80s.

Travelers advisories will remain in effect for the mountain regions of northern New Mexico and Colorado.

authored by Dr. H.J. Flanders of the Baylor University religion department. The criticism came from the ultraconservative segment of the state Baptists and brought to light again the divergent Baptist views on interpretation of the Bible.

Landes said the trustees of Baylor have looked into the matter and have been satisfied that all in the religion department "believe in and abide by the statement of faith." He said the investigation of the criticism was handled according to academic policy and all concerned have "performed in a gracious way" in dealing with it.

Throughout the men's and women's meeting which continue today, as well as into the meeting of the BGCT itself, the emphasis on Bold Mission Thrust is a major rallying point for Southern Baptists. Landes expressed his personal pleasure that "Bold Mission Thrust is becoming more than just a dream; it is becoming a plan for action." The mission program has as its goal to take the gospel to all the world by the year 2000.

Dollar's See-Sawing To Continue, Experts Say

LONDON (AP) — Just a year ago, the dollar plunged to historic lows against major currencies around the world. U.S. rescue moves have pulled it back, but experts looking nervously toward election year say the crisis in confidence isn't over.

Despite the recovery, it has been a see-saw year for the dollar overseas. Spiraling oil prices and a rush into gold by worried investors have meant nerve-wracking times for those who use dollars abroad.

"I'd rather we got paid in cheese or razor blades," says one American home-maker in London. "At least we'd know what to look forward to." The British pounds she buys cost about $2.13 each today. Three months ago they cost $2.35 and 11 months ago, $1.96.

The dollar recovered promptly from last year's trough after President Carter announced on Nov. 1, a recovery package that included a $30-billion currency swap agreement with the national banks of Western Europe and Japan.

But it ran into more serious trouble this summer as overseas investors lost faith in the U.S. government's ability to curb inflation and narrow the gap between America's oil-swelled imports and its sales overseas.

As gold prices rocketed to $444 an ounce Oct. 2, it looked as if another black October was in the offing. But new tight-money policies from Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker have pulled the dollar back from the brink.

The dollar's decline is not new. The post-World War II days when any American overseas was counted rich are long past. Europe rebuilt after the war and America's relative share of the world economy fell, and the dollar fell too.

But the real problems started in the summer of 1977. The slide accelerated after an August meeting at which the International Monetary Fund didn't like U.S. answers to questions about what was being done about inflation and the trade gap.

In 1978 it got worse. Between the end of June and the end of September the dollar lost 16 percent against the Swiss franc, 6.4 percent against the West German mark, 5.7 percent against the French franc and 7 percent against Japan's yen. The price of gold, the anxious capitalist's traditional haven, jumped from $183.50 to $217.75 an ounce.

City's Racial Turmoil Causes Plea For Calm

BOSTON (AP) — Clergymen, public officials and a professional football team all announced plans Monday to try to calm the explosive racial climate that prompted a Boston blackout of a prime-time network television show.

WBZ-TV, at the urging of both black and white community leaders, decided against showing Monday and Tuesday nights' two-part NBC drama "Freedom Road," starring former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali.

Cardinal Humberto Medeiros, joined by other religious leaders, told a news conference of plans for a "covenant" of racial harmony that will be launched at an ecumenical convocation Nov. 19 on Boston Common. After the service, Medeiros said, every Bostonian will be urged to sign the "covenant of justice, equity and harmony."

The involvement of Medeiros, spiritual leader of the Boston Catholic Archdiocese, is considered significant since approximately 75 percent of the city's population of 640,000 are Catholics.

Included in the covenant is a call for the rejection of "any and all special interest groups and leaderships that serve only to deepen our divisions and entrench us, angered, into separate camps."

The clergymen joined the management of the New England Patriots and officials of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority in the attempt to defuse the city's tense atmosphere.

The Patriots asked their National Football League players to volunteer to meet with students in the city's racially tense schools.

The transportation authority said, effective Monday through Dec. 31, it would add buses to school transit routes and increase security to prevent skirmishes between black and white students.

A statement from WBZ said the Boston station's decision to cancel the program, set in the Reconstruction South, was based on "unusually graphic incidents of racial violence depicted, particularly violence against children."

"The film contained inflammatory language and there were racial stereotypes in it," said program director Dick Kurlander of WBZ-TV.

Wilson Miffed By A&M Strategy Leaks

By A-J Wire Services
COLLEGE STATION — The Texas A&M football players have been told by head Coach Tom Wilson that loose lips about the game plan can sink the Aggie ship.

"We've cautioned the players about keeping the game plans quiet," Wilson said Monday after it had been learned that an anonymous caller tipped portions of the Aggie game plan to Texas Tech several weeks ago.

"We've tried not to make a big thing out of it but we have talked to our players," said Wilson.

Texas Tech Coach Rex Dockery treated the calls as a prank and told Wilson about the information — which turned out to be highly accurate — before the two teams kicked off in a game Tech won 21-20.

"I'm not making excuses for my losses nor have I before this," Wilson. "The fact remains we have learned that someone has been contacting some of the

Staubach May Miss Giants

DALLAS (AP) — Quarterback Roger Staubach, linebacker Tom Henderson and running back Preston Pearson were listed as "questionable" Monday for the Dallas Cowboys' road game next Sunday against the New York Giants.

Staubach, who was knocked unconscious and suffered a mild concussion during Sunday's 14-3 loss to Pittsburgh, was on the injury list because of a twisted knee.

Pearson, who left the Pittsburgh game on a stretcher, suffered a pulled knee muscle, and Henderson had a pulled hamstring.

A Cowboys spokesman said all three had a "50-50" chance to play in Sunday's game.

schools with some of our game plans."

Wilson added, "It was a fine gesture by Coach Dockery."

Wilson kept silent about the affair because he said he didn't want it to sound like sour grapes.

Dockery said, "One of our secretaries got a couple of calls and each time the caller was apparently disguising his voice. He talked only with the secretary."

"When she asked him to wait while she reached defensive coordinator Sam Robertson, the caller said 'No' just see to it he (Robertson) got the information."

Dockery continued, "Basically what he told us was about A&M's flip-flopping of the tight ends. I didn't learn about it until Friday before the game. We told Coach Wilson about it Saturday. We treated it as a crank call but A&M did shift the tight end some during the game."

Wilson said, "We flip-flopped the tight end about four times but Tech stopped it every time so we changed tactics."

The Eagle also said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff received a letter from an anonymous source before its victorious game against the Aggies.

"We didn't get any phone calls but I seem to remember we did get a letter from Bryan," said Teaff, who asked the Eagle: "Could this maybe have something to do with a former coach?"

Wilson said, "We have no idea who would want to do something like this to us."

After the Aggies lost their opener 18-17 to Brigham Young, someone put "For Sale" signs in the yards of Wilson, defensive coordinator R.C. Slocum and Athletic Director Marvin Tate.

"Yeh, that's true but there haven't been any signs out there since," said Wilson. "Just about everything around here has been positive. Most people are pleased with the direction our program is progressing."

Wilson said his first full year as Aggie coach has been "very interesting."

"There's nothing you can look at on film, put your finger on and say that they (the opponents) knew what was going to happen," said Wilson. "We're not making any excuses."

"Any team would be foolish to go out and prepare on the basis of something in a letter," Teaff added.

A&M will take a 3-4 record into its regionally televised meeting with SMU Saturday. In addition to the losses to Tech and Baylor, the Aggies fell to Houston on a touchdown scored in the final 15 seconds of play.

Tech Coaches Notified Wilson

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Someone down College Station way obviously doesn't care much for Texas A&M head football coach Tom Wilson and that person has used some back-handed and cowardly tactics in an attempt to sink Wilson and the Aggies.

It was reported in Sunday morning's edition of the Bryan Eagle that an anonymous telephone caller revealed portions of Wilson's game plan to be used against Texas Tech several days before the Oct. 6 matchup with the Red Raiders.

The information concerned A&M's flip-flopping of its tight end at the line of scrimmage.

"Our coaches notified Coach Wilson and told him exactly what had been said to the secretary who took the call," Tech head football coach Rex Dockery said

Monday. "At the time, we thought it was probably just a crank call because we occasionally get crank calls the week before a big game such as A&M."

Dockery added that the information received played no factor in Tech's 21-20 victory over the Aggies.

"It had no effect on the outcome of the game," Dockery said. "We had seen other teams flip-flop their ends and our defense had worked on it during practice."

Wilson admitted he was grateful with the way the Tech coaching staff handled the situation.

"We were very definitely pleased that the Tech coaches informed us of the phone call," said the former Tech quarterback great who is in his first full season as A&M's head coach. "We really appreciated

it. They didn't have to call us, but they alerted us to the situation."

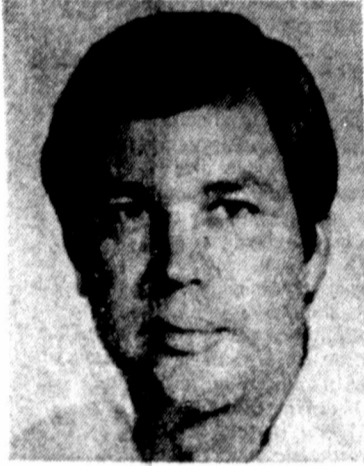

Wilson had no idea who was behind the call to tip off the Red Raiders.

"I don't have any idea who would have made the call," Wilson stated. "We would never try to blame such an incident for any defeat."

"We have talked to our players and told them to be careful who they talked to concerning upcoming games and game plans."

Wilson did not intend to reveal the situation and Dockery said he felt it wasn't his position to make the telephone call public.

"We have our hands full trying to get back in the win column," Wilson added. "We had no intentions of making this a big deal."

Myers Coaches
With Intensity

BEARDS, GERALD MYERS ONCE ALLOWED, look 'okay' on sports-writers. But as far as basketball players go — well, that's another story.

The inference is that athletes should live up to a certain image, whereas sports guys can do anything they please. It's kinda like saying, "but would you let one marry your sister..."

Actually the conversation took place over a month ago as the Texas Tech cagers were about to pose for the annual team picture. Myers was concerned that some of his charges, who had sprouted a few whiskers during the off-season, would show up for the session needing a shave.

But I got a look at the 'ol team shot the other day and everything turned out fine for Myers. The Raiders could pass for the Vienna Boys Choir — that's how cherubic and clean-shaven are the squad members.

Of course, the meanest looking one in the photo is Myers himself. The coach looks like somebody just told him that the Raiders will have to open the season against Bobby Knight's Indiana Hoosiers.

And if you remember the Raiders season-finales against Indiana last season — you'd know exactly why that would upset the Raider boss.

BUT REALLY, IT'S ONLY FITTING that Myers should be pictured with a scowl. Because this same man that can be such a jovial guy off the court is nothing but intensity on the floor.

And that includes Tech practices as well as actual games. During the season, Myers lives basketball — sometimes watching four or five game films a night. Myers has admitted that during the season his wife lays out his clothes for him each morning or he wouldn't even be able to match his socks.

Not surprisingly, Myers' intensity has paid off. His Raider teams have always been among the top in the Southwest conference and his team that finished third in the SWC last year was picked in pre-season polls to do little more than show up for their games.

Myers was selected as the Associated Press SWC Co-Coach Of The Year last season, sharing the honor with Arkansas' Eddie Sutton. But, in typical fashion, Myers downplays the honor — claiming that the award went to him because of the feud between Sutton and Texas' Abe Lemons that erupted last year.

"No coach can vote for himself," explained Myers, "and neither Abe or Eddie was going to vote for the other one — so I probably picked up two votes right there."

APPARENTLY OTHER SWC FOLLOWERS THOUGHT that the job Myers did with the Raiders deserved a little praise. But praise is something that Myers rarely hands out — and does not seek it for himself.

Sometimes his players must think that he's nothing less than an ogre. But maybe, it's all just a front.

During one of the first practices of the year, Myers came over to the edge of the court to talk while the Raiders went about the routine business of warm ups.

Something somebody said about his squad tickled Myers but he quickly turned his back before his players could see him laugh.

"I can't let those guys see me smile," he explained. "They're not supposed to think that I ever do."

And Myers doesn't smile a lot about the upcoming season — seeing plenty of hard times ahead for the Raiders. Tech just doesn't have that inside muscle that every college team needs these days.

BUT MAKE NO MISTAKE ABOUT IT — Myers has plenty of confidence in his players. It's just that he doesn't always like to come right out and tell the guys. Practices sometimes take on a brutal sound as the coach berates his players almost non-stop.

Still, talking a couple of weeks back, Myers spoke openly about what his players are capable of doing. Here's what he had to say about the Raiders returning from last year's squad.

• KENT WILLIAMS — "Kent started off good last year but in the last third of the season he fell off — maybe he just ran out of gas. I just want him to do what he can do. Kent doesn't have great speed but he has worked hard to develop the skills that he does have. He's an excellent outside shooter and a good ball-handler for a big man."

• BEN HILL — "Overall, Ben is the soundest player we have. He's well-rounded and does a good job in every phase of the game. He also plays the best defense of anyone on the team. I don't know where he picked up his moves around the basket, we sure didn't teach them to him."

• RALPH BREWSTER — "With Hill, Ralph gives us a good inside attack. He gained a lot of experience last year but still needs improvement. Ralph's a steak shooter but he has worked hard on his shooting over the summer."

• JEFF TAYLOR — "Playing against college competition last year was bound to have helped Jeff. He has very good physical ability and should do better at guard spot this year when he'll be going against guys his own size. Jeff has plenty of room for improvement because he's got an almost unlimited potential."

• DAVID LITTLE — "Good ability, like Taylor he has almost unlimited potential. But David needs to improve on his ball-handling, passing game and See CHUCK McDONALD, Page 2
