

Energy Board Bill Passed By House

Agency Would Expedite Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, approving a major part of President Carter's energy program, voted Thursday to establish a powerful Energy Mobilization Board with authority to expedite construction of high priority energy projects.

The measure, passed 299-107, permits certain federal laws to be set aside if they impede construction of such projects, subject to approval by the president and both houses of Congress.

Carter asked Congress to create a new independent energy board last summer as part of his program to reduce U.S. dependence on oil imports. The Senate passed its own version of the same bill earlier this year, and a House-Senate conference committee will be appointed to reconcile the two measures.

The Senate bill contains no provision comparable to the waiver authority in the House-passed measure. Carter also said he opposed such a provision.

Supporters of a new federal energy board say it is necessary to cut through the red tape that can keep a project tied up for years before construction even can begin.

Under the House bill, the five-member board would have authority to give "high priority" designations to an unlimited number of non-nuclear energy facilities such as synthetic fuel plants or pipelines. The board would then establish a timetable for federal, state and local agencies to follow while making decisions on whether to grant construction permits.

If any agency failed to make its decision on time, the board would have authority to take over and decide instead.

In addition, if the board felt that certain federal laws presented a substantial impediment to completion of a high priority energy project, it could recommend that the president approve a waiver. A president's decision to set aside such a law would need approval by both houses of Congress before taking effect.

Exemptions Banned
 Exemptions of labor, water rights, criminal, civil rights and antitrust laws and primary air quality standards would not be permitted.

The waiver provision, attacked bitterly by environmentalists and their allies in the House, survived on a vote of 250-153.

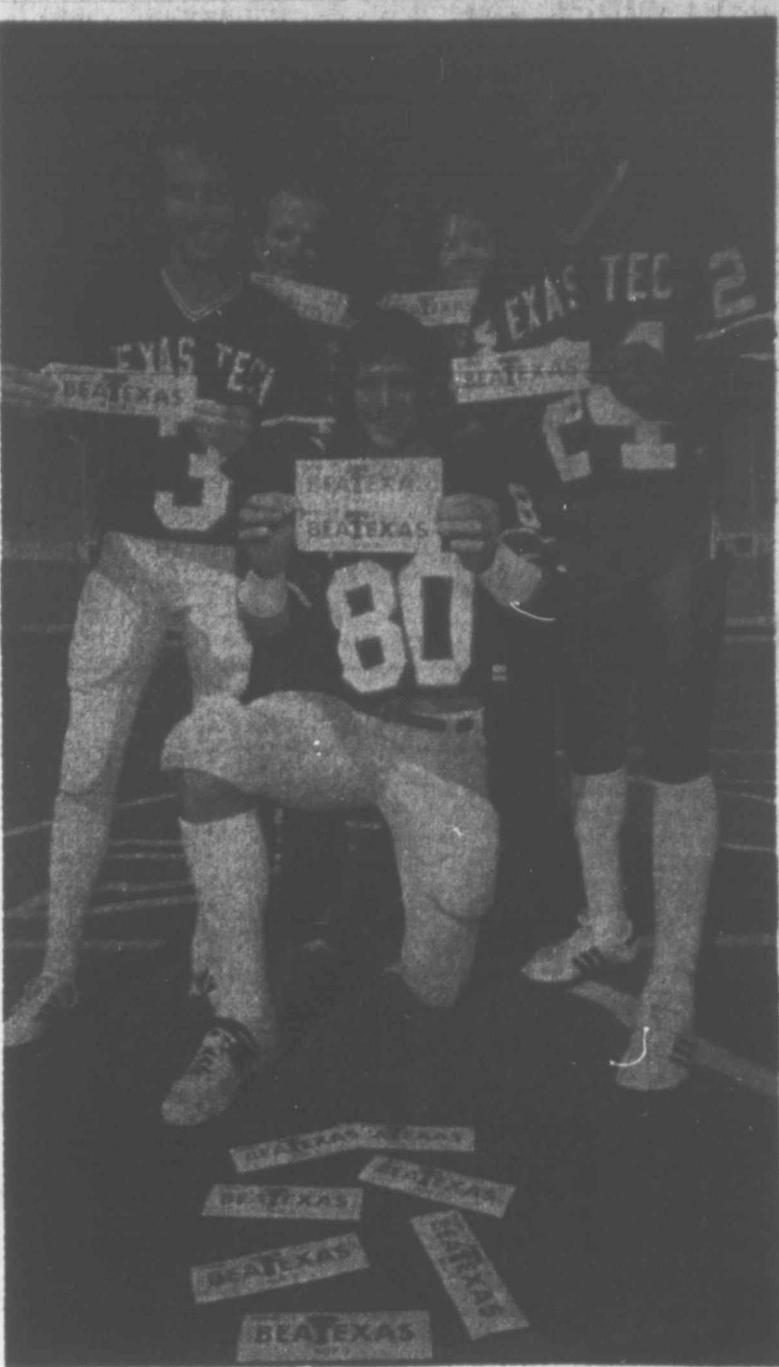

House Majority Leader James Wright said permitting waivers of federal laws was necessary to avoid "effectively making a shambles of any opportunity Congress might have to expedite any progress on energy."

But opponents, led by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said the provision was a "formula for dismantling the laws of this country put together by the Congress over 20 years."

Waivers Stripped
 The House had voted on Wednesday to strip from the bill a provision permitting waivers of state and local laws, although such laws could be set aside if they were enacted after the board set up its decision-making timetable.

The Carter administration, while urging enactment of the measure, said it was opposed to permitting federal laws to be set aside.

But Carter and his lobbyists came under repeated criticism during the two-day debate, with House members accusing the administration of switching positions on several key features of the bill.

RAIDER FRENZY — "Beat Texas" bumper stickers began appearing around Lubbock this week as the Red Raiders take on the Longhorns in Austin Saturday. With funds from local businesses, 10,000 of the stickers were printed after Mrs. Myron Kattner, an avid Raider fan, presented the idea to Rex Webster of Webster & Harris Advertising Agency. The stickers were free at local stores which supplied the funds, "but I think they're all gone now," Mrs. Kattner said. Slightly Warmer Readings Due

ALTHOUGH the remnants of a storm system plunged the temperature to the freezing mark in Lubbock Thursday, the area should warm today under sunshine and clear skies.

The high temperature today should be in the mid 50s, although the low again will drop to the mid 30s. Winds will be light from the east and southeast.

The system that brought a taste of winter to the Central Rockies and Midwest moved into Canada Thursday. There was light snow and traveler's advisories in Minnesota and strong winds in the upper Midwest.

Panhandle Gets More Snow
 Late Thursday, snow fell and covered an area around 20 miles wide in the Panhandle from Wellington to Childress, extending into southwestern Oklahoma.

Light rain and snow also fell over scattered areas in the rest of the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles.

The extended forecast calls for fair skies through Tuesday with mild days and slightly warmer nights.

After recording a low of 32 early Thursday, temperatures in Lubbock reached a high of 46 in the afternoon.

Texas Skies Clear
 Except for parts of northwest Texas, skies were clear in most of Texas. Temperatures Thursday were mostly in the 40s and 50s in northwest Texas and in the 60s and 70s across the rest of the state.

The cloudiness in the Panhandle should move eastward, causing some cloudiness over north central Texas.

The national forecast for today calls for scattered showers and thunderstorms in much of the eastern third of the nation, from the lower Great Lakes, the Tennessee and upper Ohio Valleys and eastern Gulf Coast to the Atlantic coast and New England.

Snow flurries were predicted for northern Minnesota, with showers from the Northern Pacific coast moving inland.

Freezes are predicted tonight and Saturday night from Lubbock northward through the Panhandle. Officials, however, said the roads closed Wednesday by snowfall were reopened Thursday and electricity was restored to several towns near Amarillo and Dalhart that lost power.

The fall blizzard that struck the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles as well as parts of Colorado, stranded hundreds of motorists on snow-drifted roadways.

More than a foot of snow fell on eastern Colorado, and high winds whipped the snow into drifts up to 12 feet high in some areas of the Great Plains.

Winds gusting up to 50 mph blew down power poles in Nebraska and South Dakota Wednesday night, cutting electrical power to more than 15,000 customers. Utility officials said it might take until Sunday to restore power.

Temperatures in Lubbock hit the 32-degree mark late Thursday night. Readings in the 70s are expected today along the south and mid Atlantic coast, across the southern tip of Texas and over southern Arizona and the southern half of California.

Confused Jury Finds City Man Guilty Twice

By KAY BELL
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 AFTER some initial juror confusion, two guilty verdicts and about 20 more minutes of deliberations, a 137th District Court panel Thursday afternoon convicted John Joseph Lasserre of a 1977 burglary of a building.

The eight-woman, four-man panel was called upon to deliberate trial evidence a second time after they returned to the courtroom at 4 p.m. with the guilty verdicts — one on the original burglary charge and a second conviction for the lesser offense of criminal trespass.

Both options, along with the possibility of an innocent verdict, were included in the charge, or legal instructions, read to the jury by Judge Robert C. Wright before initial deliberations began at 2 p.m. To convict Lasserre of burglary, the panel had to determine he had intended to commit theft when police officers found him inside the office of First Manufactured Homes about 4 a.m. Sept. 25, 1977.

If the jurors decided Lasserre had See TWO GUILTY Page 14

Baker Enters Race; Two Demos Nearing

By The Associated Press
 SEN. HOWARD H. BAKER formally entered the ever-widening 1980 presidential sweepstakes Thursday and two others prepared to follow suit, while the chairmen of the Democratic and Republican parties forecast a campaign dominated by pocketbook issues.

Baker's announcement came as no surprise. At the same time, there was word that California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. would enter the Democratic race Nov. 8 in Washington, one day after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts announces his candidacy in Boston. President Carter is set to announce his bid for re-election on Dec. 4.

Adding another dimension to the frenetic political maneuvering was a move by Republican Ronald Reagan to purchase television time for his official declaration of candidacy on Nov. 13.

While candidates rushed toward the starting gate for the primaries, John White and Bill Brock, chairmen of the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively, debated issues likely to highlight the campaign.

The two agreed that dollars and cents issues and other domestic problems will be the principal themes. But they parted company on whether the voters will hold Democrats or Republicans accountable for rising prices, declining purchasing power and dwindling fuel supplies.

"This is going to be primarily a campaign of issues that affect people where they live, the issues of inflation, taxes, energy, jobs," Brock said at a National

"I think this Democratic administration with this Congress and this president have been truthful with the American people," White said. "We have faced the issues that other administrations, both Democratic and Republican, have refused to face."

Brock decried high interest rates and asserted that people "now pay more for government than they pay for food, clothing and shelter combined."

White countered by asserting that public leaders should not "make statements just to arouse emotions or to try to gain personal-political benefit without telling the truth."

The two agreed that the death of a young woman in a 1969 automobile accident involving Kennedy should not be an issue.

However, Brock said Chappaquiddick would be a "factor" in the race.

White said Chappaquiddick has been "debated by the press and by the public and by the politicians for 10 years now and that's enough."

Brock said, "I'm not sure I would use the word 'issue.'"

"I think it is a factor," the GOP chairman said, "because people are concerned about it, and when people are concerned about it, it affects their voting pattern."

For his part, Baker once more insisted he would not make an issue of Chap- See BAKER Page 14

Big Lake Site Bone Linked To Different Breed Of Cat

WHAT DO YOU say to a 3-foot-tall armadillo? You say, "Excuse me," if you are the Lubbock Lake Site researchers who found a bone during the summer dig and originally identified it as that of a huge prehistoric cat.

But now, Texas Tech archeologist Dr. Eileen Johnson says oops! It's really a giant extinct armadillo that lived on the Llano Estacado of Texas 11,100 years ago.

Dr. Johnson said she would have "felt really down" about mistaking the bone as that of a cat, except that "some of the Pleistocene experts, too, thought at first that it was a cat."

After tests and consultation with Dr. Ernest Lundelius Jr. of the University of Texas geology faculty, however, researchers agree it is an armadillo bone. Lundelius, a specialist in Pleistocene vertebrate paleontology, said from See TEXAS-SIZE Page 14

$1.6 Million Debt Pondered By Tech

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 THE STATE says Texas Tech may owe the state treasury $1.6 million in improperly used tax funds, but a university official who met with the state auditor Thursday in Austin says there is an alternative to paying back the money.

An annual audit of Tech's books shows the school incorrectly used state ad valorem tax funds to help build an Aquatic Center on campus.

In a letter to the university, the state auditor said Tech must either classify the center as an educational and general activity or repay the state treasury the $1.6 million used to build the facility.

But Max Tomlinson, director of accounting and finance, suggested a third alternative — that the swimming pool be classified as a designated fund.

Tech currently lists the pool, which is used both for physical education classes and for recreational use, as an auxiliary operation and thus revenue collected from its use has been deposited into local bank accounts, rather than the state treasury.

Dan Williams, interim vice president for finance and administration, explained that if the pool is classified as a designated fund, Tech may still keep the revenue in local accounts rather than the state treasury.

He added that the designated fund classification is relatively new and that was one reason why the Aquatic Center originally had not been under that classification.

Tomlinson said the auditor will "research the law on the matter," but he added that the auditor seemed "very favorable to our suggestion."

If the state disallows the pool to be classified as a designated fund, Williams said, the only alternative would be to classify it as E&G, because, "We don't have the money" to repay the state treasury $1.6 million.

Tomlinson called the issue "a rather technical accounting question" and said he is hopeful the state auditor will clarify the question within the next two weeks.

"I can't say for sure," Tomlinson said. "But I think our suggestion was well taken."

Williams noted that audits of other state universities turned up as many as 24 irregularities, but Tech had only six. "I think we had a very clean audit," he said.

He said most of the items were minor and easy to correct.

Among the items noted by the auditor was that Tech did not observe the same official holidays as other state agencies.

But Williams said, "Our understanding is that our method is acceptable. We have the same total number of days of holidays, but we schedule them differently." Many holidays are taken when students are on regularly scheduled semester breaks, he explained.

P&Z Delays Decision On Land Use

By RAYNIE HARDESTY
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 AGREEING that the Overton South neighborhood land use plan needs more study, members of the Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday postponed public input on the plan that eventually will determine if a proposed drive-in bank facility will be allowed in the neighborhood.

The commission instead agreed to hold a special public hearing at 7 p.m. Thursday to hear views on the land use plan from representatives of the Overton South Neighborhood Association and American State Bank. The bank has requested approval of a drive-in bank west of Avenue Q, between 15th and 18th Streets.

Although both Overton South residents and spokesmen for the bank attended Thursday night's meeting, the commission refused to allow either side time for debate.

Future Action Pledged
 Referring to next week's public meeting, commission member Harry Stokely Jr. stressed to the audience, "We're going to get down to business and get this thing out of the way."

The City Council last month returned the American State Bank issue to the Planning and Zoning commission, saying the zone case should be considered in context with the comprehensive land use plan for the central Lubbock area.

Although the commission will not be asked to make a second decision on the bank request they previously denied, Zoning Administrator Jerrel Northcutt said any decision made on the land use plan could be interpreted as a decision on the drive-in bank zoning.

If the commission decides to allow more commercial use within the plan, then the bank facility will be allowed, if it can meet other criteria. However, if the commercial strip within the land use plan is not extended, then the facility automatically could be denied.

Before providing background on the present land use plan established for the Overton South neighborhood, City Planning Director Jim Bertram emphasized to the commission that, "We need to make our decision on facts and not emotion." See LAND USE Page 14

Carter Administration Okays Chrysler Loan Guarantees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration went to the rescue of financially staggering Chrysler Corp. Thursday, urging Congress to approve up to $1.5 billion in loan guarantees for the nation's No. 3 automaker.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said the administration decided to go ahead with the bailout, the largest ever for a U.S. corporation, even though it disagrees philosophically with the notion of direct government intervention in private enterprise.

"This is a unique situation... that stands on its own merits," Miller said. "The alternative costs are more onerous to our country than the risk of loan guarantees."

The administration aim is to head off a collapse that could result in widespread layoffs and pose another major headache for an already-troubled economy.

The plan sent to Congress would double the $750 million that the administration previously indicated was the most it would support for Chrysler, the nation's No. 3 automaker.

Under the plan, Chrysler would be required to raise an additional $1.5 billion from private sources before it is assured the government loan guarantees.

Analysts believe that without larger loan guarantees, the nation's No. 3 automaker would be forced into bankruptcy, Miller said.

He said such a collapse would "affect the stability of the (nation's) overall economic outlook" and bring the risk of "substantial unemployment (and) economic disruption."

Many cities and states would be seriously affected, not only where Chrysler has plants, but also where the company's major suppliers and dealers are located, he said.

In New York, Chrysler chairman Lee A. Iacocca told reporters he was "delighted with the action" and considered it "a vote of confidence we needed." The board of directors of the Detroit-based company was meeting in New York.

The bailout proposal was sent to Congress with Miller's strong call that it be enacted this year.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said the House would take up the bill before its anticipated adjournment in December. A House subcommittee prepared to call witnesses to testify on the aid package.

"Each day we delay, the situation gets shakier and you need more money," said Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., chairman of the subcommittee considering the bailout.

Rep. William Green, R-N.Y., said he would introduce an amendment requiring Chrysler to give the government 25 percent of its common stock in return for the loan guarantees.

Moorhead, while saying passage of the bill will be difficult, called the new $1.5 billion sum realistic. "I believed all along the worst thing we could do was to pass a bill without an adequate amount of money," he said.

But, Moorhead added, "I think that this is it. They survive with this amount of money or they don't come back to me, at least, in the Congress."

That also was Miller's message to the giant automaker. "This is adequate financing" to return Chrysler to a viable corporation, he told reporters.

Chrysler's disappearance would increase unemployment and welfare payments, reduce federal and local taxes, and force the government to pay out pension guarantees to many autoworkers, Miller said.

In addition, he said, "We need to maintain a competitive posture" in the auto industry. Chrysler's loss would leave only two major automakers — Ford and General Motors. It also would harm the nation's balance of payments, Miller said.

Chrysler announced on Tuesday a staggering $460 million loss in the third quarter, the largest deficit ever for an American corporation. It brought the company's losses so far this year to $721 million, and Chrysler officials expect 1979's final deficit to reach a whopping $1 billion.

Government guarantees, Miller said, will depend on Chrysler submitting "satisfactory" operating and financial plans that demonstrate its "ability to operate as a going concern through December 31, 1983 and after such date without additional federal assistance."

Those plans, whose details have yet to be completed, will be reviewed continually by the government, he said.

Officials Probe Mexico Crash

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican aviation investigators say their probe of Wednesday's Western Airlines DC-10 crash here centers on why the pilot used a runway he had been told was closed.

But the investigators, who asked not to be named, said they are not ruling out what could be other, still undetermined causes for the crash, that killed 72 of the 89 occupants and three persons on the ground.

'Crab War' Defendant Acquitted

SEGUIN (AP) — One of two Vietnamese refugee brothers charged with murder in the "crab war" slaying of a Seadrift fisherman was acquitted by the judge Thursday.

State District Judge Clarence Stevenson ruled prosecutors had offered "insufficient and inadequate" evidence to convict Nguyen Van Chinh, 20, of murder in the Aug. 3 shooting death of Billy Joe Aplin, 35.

Meanwhile, Chinh's 21-year-old brother, Nguyen Van Sau, testified in his own defense that he shot the much larger Aplin only after Aplin had stomped his fingers, slashed his chest with a knife and beaten him on Aug. 3. He said the incident came after weeks of Aplin repeatedly threatening to kill Vietnamese crabbers and that he feared for his life.

Testifying through an interpreter, Sau displayed his injured fingers and chest scars to the jury of 12 whites, which includes two retired Air Force officers who served in the Vietnam War.

The prosecution rested its case Thursday morning. The shooting stemmed from a "crab war" over local fishing customs between native crabbers and their newly transplanted Vietnamese refugee counterparts.

Aplin's death sparked violent reprisals against the Vietnamese in the tiny coastal village of 1,400 people, and the trial was moved 90 miles inland to Seguin because of still-simmering tensions in Seadrift.

Defense attorney Pat Maloney contends the 5-foot-5, 115-pound Sau acted in self-defense when he shot the 6-foot-1, 200-pound Aplin after a dockside argument.

The shooting took place against a backdrop of racism and hatred for the town's 150 Vietnamese, Maloney maintains.

Sau's testimony about repeated threats Aplin had made against the Vietnamese in the month prior to the shooting agreed with that of a Vietnamese prosecution witness on Wednesday.

Four prosecution witnesses had testified Tuesday that they saw Sau deliberately shoot Aplin with a pistol. But all acknowledged under defense cross-examination that Sau lifted only seconds after being beaten by Aplin.

Prosecutors had maintained Chinh should be convicted of murder because he accompanied Sau to obtain guns after an earlier argument that day.

Maloney contended Chinh tried only to calm his brother and said of the instructed verdict, "It was long overdue. Chinh should never have been indicted in the first place."

port chief's office said "23-left (the closed runway) is definitely closed. None of its systems are functioning, not even the runway border lights or the runway approach lights. Only 23-right has them right now."

He said investigators are not ruling out anything but said "it does not appear to be a structural fault in the plane."

Mexican officials said runway 23-left had been closed for two weeks. The pilot, Capt. Charles Gilbert, 53, of Rolling Hills, Calif., was among those killed.

Searchers have sent the "black box" flight recorder to Washington for analysis, a process aviation officials here say could take two weeks or more.

The tower-to-cockpit conversation was in English but the English language version here has not been released.

An FAA spokesman in Washington also ruled out structural problems in the plane. DC-10s were grounded for 37 days after an American Airlines plane crashed last May 25 at Chicago's O'Hare Airport, killing 273 persons, the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history.

A Spanish language transcript of the last conversation between the tower here and the approaching jet quotes controllers as telling the pilot to use runway 23-right, then warning him he was veering to the left.

"Only a little," was the reply. Later, according to the transcript, the plane was told its landing lights were over 23-left, which is closed for repairs. The crew acknowledged the message. Seconds later came the crash.

The Battle Against Inflation

AN EDITORIAL:

Drawing A Bead On Inflation

A BUZZ WORD of particular interest for Californians these days is "indexing." It is the idea behind Proposition 4, a follow-up to last year's tax-slashing Proposition 13 that West Coast voters will find on their ballots Tuesday.

to now through periodic tax cuts that really are no cuts at all. By adjusting downward the rates on inflated incomes, lawmakers simply return the situation to what it was before the most recent inflationary spurt.

Joe Made It Easier

WASHINGTON—Far from White House anger over young Joe Kennedy's blast at the Carter presidency during the John F. Kennedy Library dedication, Jimmy Carter and his top political advisers were actually thankful.

Carter's speech was perhaps the best he has made as President. It was written by chief White House speech writer Rick Hertzberg after several meetings of the inner staff at which Carter laid down two rules of what he wished to say: that he had had a feeling for President Kennedy that approached hero worship; and that Kennedy's own emphasis on the inevitability of "change" should be used to make Carter's point that political challenges faced by Kennedy had completely changed in the intervening years, making Carter's presidency much tougher to handle than Kennedy's.

THAT BUSINESS about clouds and linings may have some application even to clouds of pollution. A source of environmental concern of late has been the crop-damaging effects of acid rain, which returns to earth chemical particles spewed out by industrial operations and absorbed by the atmospheric moisture.

ONE UNEXPECTED offshoot of John B. Connally's highly controversial Middle East speech calling for Israel to withdraw from the West Bank and linking an Arab-Israeli settlement to U.S. Mideast oil policy was the conversion of Rep. Paul Findley from anti- to pro-Connally.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Savers Lose 'Interest' In Passbook Accounts

WASHINGTON—Take a binge of double-digit inflation, add in some misguided government controls, and what do you get? The answer—or at least part of it—is serious trouble for American citizens with savings deposits in thrift institutions and commercial banks.

To an increasing number of people, however, it has become apparent that the existing situation will have to change. President Carter, the Treasury Department, and the congressional banking committees have all taken to recommending changes in the Federal Reserve law to get some equity for smaller savers.

LIKE MANY OTHER entertainers, comedian Bob Hope has dabbled in politics with increasing frequency in recent years, with most of his political forays made on behalf of Republicans.

FEDERAL RAILWAY Administrator Jack Sullivan, who won widespread praise running Jimmy Carter's 1976 campaign in Pennsylvania, may not be on board this time.

THIS MEANS that, by depositing his money in such an account, the saver is losing almost 8 percent a year. Unsurprisingly, a number of small savers are getting wise to this problem and withdrawing money from passbook accounts.

THE NET result would be to give all banking and savings institutions more tools to work with in a competitive environment. There are no doubt many criticisms to be made of this legislation on a number of grounds, but the fundamental thrust seems incontestably correct.

THE REAL reason for Assistant Secretary of State Viron Vaky's resignation as top Latin American policy-maker is the constant, probing and powerful intervention into his diplomatic business by the State Department's human rights bureau, headed by Asst. Sec. Patt Derian.

THE WRITER offers further food for thought. He told of how his eight-year-old daughter came home complaining about school. She said: "They want us to be happy...I thought one was to be happy at home and to be unhappy at school."

THIS HAS been resisted, however, on the grounds that thrift institutions have mortgage money loaned out at correspondingly low rates of interest, and that to raise the cost of servicing depositors would put them in a terrible financial bind.

Pending a halt to the runaway inflation, we need to free up the situation and give small savers a better return on their money.

CAPITOL HILL may be the home of big spenders, but not all members of Congress can be accused of profligacy.

ALTHOUGH THE White House has referred to Illinois as a state that President Carter must win to be renominated, campaign manager Tim Kraft is quietly passing the word that he may skip the preferential primary there next March 18.

JAY HARRIS:

Back To Basics...

THERE'S BEEN a huge hue and cry of late for a "return to basics" in education... Everyone from parents and teachers to educators and administrators has gotten in on the act. Never mind that each may have a different idea of what a "return to the basics" means. It's the name of the new game in town.

THE LATEST salvo in the "basics" battle was fired recently by Alton O. Bowen, Texas' new State Education commissioner.

THERE ARE those who argue that a whole generation may have been "lost" to the so-called "new math" and "new value" type schooling. Recently, Henry Fairlie, writing in The Washington Post, said that the part about the basics battle that concerned him was the "back to..." basics.

When a traditional value has been abandoned," he says, "in this case, drilling into a child the ability to read, write and count—it cannot be recovered by just going back to it. There has been a break with the past; we cannot rejoin ourselves to it with a few staples."

BUT GEOGRAPHY was not the only thing that threw many of them. For instance, only 29 percent knew that political conventions choose the presidential nominees, and 58 percent had never heard of the absentee ballots.

ANOTHER DISTURBING factor on the education front is the steady decline in Scholastic Aptitude Tests. This past year resumed a 10-year slide in that respect, with the verbal SAT score skidding two points to 427. In 1968, the verbal score average was 466. The math score this year was 467. Eleven years ago it was 492. The highest possible total is 800.

THE REAL reason for Assistant Secretary of State Viron Vaky's resignation as top Latin American policy-maker is the constant, probing and powerful intervention into his diplomatic business by the State Department's human rights bureau, headed by Asst. Sec. Patt Derian.

THE CHRISTOPHER Committee is headed by Deputy Sec. of State Warren Christopher, but Derian and her top aide, Mark Schneider, run it. It got so bad for Vaky that almost every statement he made about such alleged violators of human rights as Brazil, Chile and Uruguay had to be cleared by Derian before he could make it.

ALTHOUGH THE White House has referred to Illinois as a state that President Carter must win to be renominated, campaign manager Tim Kraft is quietly passing the word that he may skip the preferential primary there next March 18.

Criticism Of Commission Spawns Action On Gasohol Ruling

AUSTIN (UPI) — With critics charging regulations imposed by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission have scuttled plans for a $25 million alcohol plant in south Texas, a Senate committee Thursday threatened to subpoena the head of the ABC to explain the new rules.

The Senate Committee on Gasohol also voted to request an attorney general's opinion on the regulations to see if they conflict with a new law adopted by the Legislature in May in an effort to legalize production of alcohol in Texas for use in autos and tractors as fuel.

An aide to Gov. Bill Clements joined spokesmen for the south Texas sugar cane growers and the representatives of a Kansas distillery in sharp criticism of bureaucratic bungling and excessive red tape at the ABC.

The sugar cane growers and Cloud L. Cray Jr. of Atchison, Kan., president of Midwest Solvents Inc., complained state bureaucrats four times changed the rules and insisted on interpreting the law to unfairly restrict the markets for alcohol produced from agricultural products.

Cray said because of the rule changes, his firm had to relinquish its federal loan guarantee and drop plans for building a plant in Santa Rosa, Texas, to turn sugar cane into alcohol.

"After more than two years and over $100,000 of expense we must finally admit to ourselves that Texas is just not the place to build an alcohol plant at this time," Cray said.

The final rules interpretation, Cray said, places prohibitive restrictions on uses that could be made of the alcohol, unfairly barring sales of the product for pharmaceutical and industrial uses or vinegar manufacturing.

Cray said the ABC does not impose any such restrictions on alcohol produced in large quantities by the petrochemical industry.

"We should have realized we were in trouble from the start when a state produces 60 percent of the alcohol in the country but calls it 'recapturing' alcohol from petroleum rather than distilling it from petroleum," Cray told committee.

Senators demanded an appearance by ABC administrator W.S. McBeath and told his aides the committee would issue a subpoena if he did not come in to explain his agency's actions.

Sundown Residents Experience

Natural Gas Rate Increase

SUNDOWN (Special) — Sundown residents Thursday began paying more for natural gas primarily because of a 400 percent gradual increase over the past year from Amoco Production Co., the city's supplier.

The new gas rates, approved by city council here Oct. 23, are $4 for the first 2,000 cubic feet, $1.60 for the next 3,000 to 50,000 cubic feet and $1.25 for everything over 50,000 cubic feet.

Residents had been paying $3.25 per 1,000 cubic feet, $1.25 for 3,000 to 50,000 cubic feet and $1 for everything over 50,000 cubic feet.

The City of Sundown had been buying natural gas from Amoco for 20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. But, since September 1978, Amoco has charged the city about seven cents more each month for gas.

City Secretary Bruce Brown explained that the reason for the gradual increase is because the city's contract with Amoco says the price of gas for the city will increase until it is in line with whatever price El Paso Natural Gas is paying to Amoco.

Currently, the city pays Amoco 83 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, and Amoco officials project that the city will probably be buying gas from them at $1.25 per 1,000 cubic feet by the end of the year.

"But even with this gradual increase, we're still paying about one-half of what everyone else is paying for gas," said Brown.

The city council also agreed to the Tax Removal Sought To Benefit Gasohol

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Jerome Friemel, a Hereford-area farmer, has asked the Senate Interim Committee on Gasohol to support legislation to remove the state gasoline tax on gasohol to make the project more competitive.

Friemel said removal of the five cents per gallon tax would assist the developing industry and thus help farmers find a new market for their products.

Friemel reported he is in the process of establishing a company for "medium-sized" plants to produce grain alcohol to be mixed with gasoline for gasohol.

Those plants would produce two million to five million gallons per year, he said.

He also urged that the committee clear up conflicting interpretations relating to production of alcohol for gasohol, which have come from the Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

The committee includes Sen. E.L. Short, of Tahoka, who attended Thursday's session.

rate hike to help fund a program to repair or replace existing gas lines in the city.

"We've lost nearly 30 percent of our gas this year because of leaks in the lines or maladjusted meters," Brown said.

He explained that when a city buys low priced gas, they can sell it at a low price and a large gas loss doesn't hurt. "But now that we're paying more for gas, any loss hurts," he said.

City workers are repairing leaks in the lines, and in 30 to 60 days, they will begin replacing some of the lines.

The city is scheduled to receive $29,000 in revenue sharing funds in January, and Brown said part of those funds will be used for the gas line repair and replacement program.

Total cost of the project is expected to reach $50,000.

Tricks Make For Tragic Halloween Night Throughout Nation

By The Associated Press
A teen-ager accidentally hanged himself in a Halloween skit at a Mormon church in Plattsburgh, N.Y., and the candy given to a small child in a Los Angeles suburb sent his mother to the hospital.

A youth in Long Island hit in both eyes by eggs hurled from a passing car was in critical condition, and police in Oklahoma City got reports that somebody was handing out "treats" doctored with alcohol.

A man in Kansas City, Kan., opened fire with a .22-caliber rifle when a group of youths started throwing rocks through his living room window, police said. A 17-year-old youth was killed and another teen-ager was wounded.

At least eight persons were killed this Halloween, including six hit by cars while out playing "trick or treat."

In Louisville, Ky., a woman and her small daughter were struck and killed by a hit-and-run driver, and in Hazleton, Pa., two teen-agers were killed by a car pulling around a tractor-trailer.

A 12-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., youth was hit and killed by a car when he ran into the street to avoid a shower of eggs thrown by other youths. In Cedarville, N.J., an 11-year-old boy was fatally injured when he ran onto a road while playing with a friend.

Vincent DeBiao, 15, of Valley Stream, N.Y., on Long Island, was listed in critical condition Thursday after undergoing surgery for the injury to his eyes. Police said the youth apparently tossed an egg at a car and six other youths riding in the car retaliated with a barrage of eggs of their own.

Derek Jennings, 8, of Lakewood, N.Y., found straight pins embedded in his "gift" of chocolate candy and he was taken to the hospital for X-rays. No pins were found.

In Austin, the Seton Medical Center was providing a free candy X-ray service.

"We had a lot of calls about X-raying candy last year, so this year we decided to offer free candy X-ray service," said Cathy Fontaine, who was operating the $125,000 equipment.

Patrolman James Sullivan of Tilverton, R.I., probably summed up the feelings of law officers around the country after a night that saw the stoning of seven police cars and the burning of a drive-in movie screen in the tiny community.

"It's been one hell of a night," Sullivan said. "Just unbelievable."

All of Grundy County in Tennessee, and part of neighboring Rhea County, was plunged into darkness for 45 minutes when vandals broke into a Tennessee Valley Authority substation at Coal-mont and cut the main switch.

The mayor of Snow Hill, Md., imposed a 9 p.m. curfew when a group of 200 pranksters started smashing windows in the downtown area. With the help of police dogs and a helicopter, state and local officers finally managed to break up the crowd and arrest three.

By contrast, an estimated 15,000 revelers celebrated peacefully in downtown San Francisco, with only a couple of minor stabbings on Castro Street. Another 15,000 to 17,000 gathered without major damage near the University of Wisconsin campus in Madison.

In Knoxville, Tenn., three masked men posing as Halloween pranksters forced their way through the front door of the home of financier Fred R. Langley, tied up the banker and his wife and two children and fled with a briefcase containing several thousand dollars in cash and jewelry.

In Inwood, N.Y., police said two 11-year-old girls were punched to the ground and robbed of their candy. Arrested and charged with second degree robbery were Daryl Ebb, 18, and Cynthia Baxter, 19.

In Hacienda Heights, Calif., Carol Mather, 38, sampled a miniature candy bar that her 7-year-old son Matthew had collected. She spat it out because it burned her mouth, tongue and lips and she was treated at a hospital for her injuries. Authorities warned that similar candy bars may have been injected with a caustic substance.

In Plattsburgh, N.Y., Mark Halilton, 14, was pretending to hang himself with a rope wrapped around his chest and neck and looped over a pipe during a skit at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"The boy had been doing the trick for about 30 or 40 minutes without any trouble," said Lt. Robert Carpenter. "Then someone walked by and noticed he was unconscious."

The youth died a short time later at a hospital. "It's the kind of trick I've seen kids do on television," Carpenter said. "Something just went wrong."

Amy Celebrates Halloween, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — Though trick-or-treaters were not entertained at the White House on Halloween, the president's daughter ventured outside the gate with friends to celebrate the holiday.

Twelve-year-old Amy, dressed as Becky Thatcher, joined the daughters of Frank Moore, President Carter's congressional liaison, for trick-or-treating on Wednesday night, according to Mary Finch Hoyt, press secretary to Mrs. Carter.

Mansion Transformed Into Wonderland

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Magic House is a place for good impressions, hair-raising experiences or going downhill fast.

The three-story, Victorian-style mansion has been transformed into a scientific wonderland by Jody Newman and Barbie Freund.

Visitors to the newly opened Magic House are greeted by a room-size maze with only a mirrored ceiling to help them find their way out.

In the shadow walls room, a buzzer sounds every 15 seconds, followed quickly by a flash of light that freezes shadows on the walls, which are coated with a phosphorescent vinyl.

There are computer games, including Hangman, where a lucky visitor will be taunted by the electronic wizard: "You live... for now!"

A big favorite with the long-haired set is the electrostatic generator, which can turn even the most carefully coiffed head into a Phyllis Diller look-alike.

BILLBOARD DIPLOMACY — Glenna Lane, left, president of the Lubbock Educators Association, and Joyce Rickert, president of the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association, braved Thursday's cold weather and a narrow scaffolding to help present the first in a series of billboards that will let city residents know about events in Lubbock public schools. The signs are sponsored by the two teacher groups and the Lubbock Independent School District. (Staff Photo by Bill Janscha)

School Launches Billboard Campaign

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

Among the billboards that line Lubbock's major thoroughfares with messages proclaiming the virtues of all sorts of products and institutions stands a new message to the community, but the advertising is strictly a non-profit venture.

The Lubbock Independent School District and its teacher organizations Thursday launched a community relations billboard project that will feature a general message concerning the public schools each month.

The first advertisement, put up early today on a billboard at 22nd Street and Avenue Q, is a reminder of American Education Week Nov. 11-17 and urges parents to visit the schools.

The billboard will be in a different location of the city each month so that ideally "we will have covered 100 percent of the population of the community," said Mike Bennett, public information director for the schools.

The signs will be funded and sponsored each month jointly by the school district, the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association and the Lubbock Educators Association.

Glenna Lane, president of LEA, and Joyce Rickert, president of LCTA, said the project has the full support of the district's teachers whose dues will help pay for the advertising.

Both presidents and Bennett noted that the most encouraging aspect of the project is that all three groups have banded together to get it off the ground. "All are united in trying to further facilitate better communication with the community," Bennett said.

Mrs. Rickert said her organization had been working on a billboard project for several years, but that the one group could not handle the entire cost of the undertaking.

One-fourth of the world's forests are in Latin America, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. On a per capita basis, Latin America's total forest area is second only to that of the Soviet Union, the bank says.

Bennett explained that the two teacher organizations and his office will collaborate on ideas for each month's message, and he hopes each sign will have a general appeal to all residents.

Bennett will issue press releases revealing the location and message to be advertised each month.

"Very often the community thinks the schools are not that concerned about them," said Bennett, but he believes the billboards will "enlarge the lines of communication" between the city and the schools.

Seagraves Seeking Replacement For Closed Carbon Black Plant

SEAGRAVES (Special) — The closure of the Columbian Chemicals Co. carbon black plant will hurt the economy here, but it would be hard to predict just how much at this time, says the president of the Seagraves Chamber of Commerce.

"It's certainly not going to help," said Wayne Cornett. "But we've weathered things like this before, and we'll continue to try to bring new industry to the city."

"Although nothing has been confirmed, there is a good possibility of an industrial-type business coming in, but we just have to wait and see."

The plant, a subsidiary of Cities Service Co. in Tulsa, was closed Oct. 19.

Columbian officials said the decision to close the plant resulted from a combination of adverse economic factors.

Officials also said that the capital investment required to modernize the plant, which was built in the early 1940s, could not be justified under today's market conditions for carbon black.

In addition, officials said the plant's geographic location made it unable to effectively compete with newer plants that are closer to both sources of raw material and customer plants.

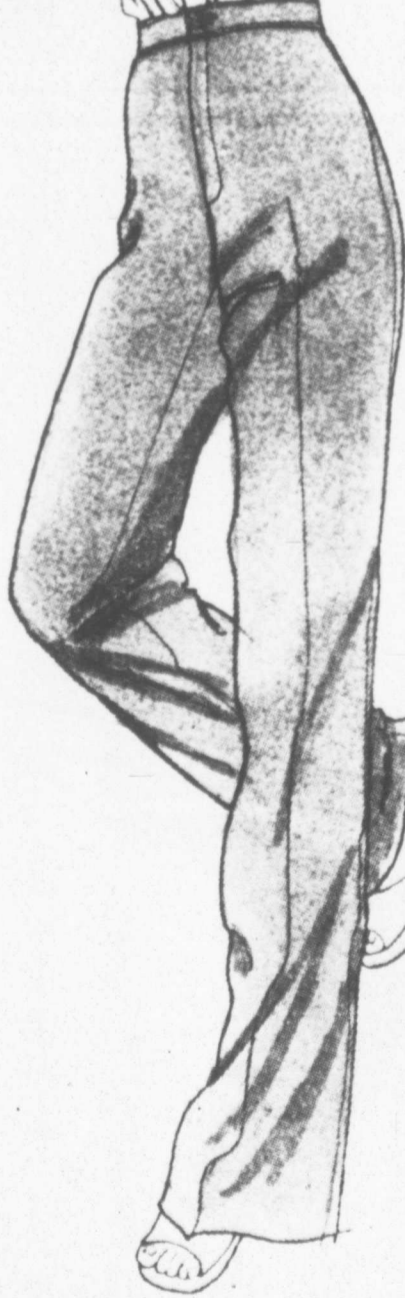

The plant employed about 50 persons, and officials have met with them to discuss the individual effects of the closing.

The plant had an annual capacity of about 80 million pounds of carcass-type carbon black. The substance is used in making automobile tires.

Wisconsin Ratifies D.C.

Constitutional Amendment
 MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin on Thursday became the seventh state to ratify a constitutional amendment providing the District of Columbia with two U.S. senators and voting representation in the House.
 The 23-4 vote in the state Senate concurred in an amendment added to the ratification resolution in the Assembly earlier in the week. That amendment chided Congress for not being willing to give the district home rule.
 The amendment, which must be ratified by 38 states by Aug. 28, 1985, would give the district participation in the constitutional amendment ratification process, the two Senators and one or two members of the House of Representatives, depending on the outcome of the 1980 census.

Prosecution Rests Case In Davis Trial

FORT WORTH (AP) — The defense hammered away Thursday at a witness whose testimony jeopardizes the delicate defense theory in the Cullen Davis murder-for-hire trial.

Looking pale and nauseous and complaining of a toothache, the millionaire defendant watched silently as his attorneys attacked the story of state rebuttal witness Gale Helms.

Helms, 52, a sales representative for Western Electric, stuck to his claim that informant David McCrory was with him during two times crucial to the defense case.

The cross-examination by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes was conducted with restrained fury and was interrupted repeatedly by objections of repetition and irrelevance.

Obviously frustrated, Haynes finished his cross-examination by mid-afternoon.

A few moments later, at 2:54 p.m., Prosecutor Jek Strickland arose and said:

"Your honor, if it pleases the court, the state at this time rests its case."

Strickland and his assistant, John Bankston contend Helms' testimony could send Davis to prison for life on the charge of soliciting the murder of his divorcee.

The 46-year-old industrial czar says he was framed.

Contradicting the defendant, Helms told the jury McCrory was flying model airplanes with him during the pivotal time periods in June and August of 1978.

On June 9, Helms said, he and McCrory's wife left Fort Worth at 5:30 p.m. in route to a model-airplane competition in Oklahoma City.

On Aug. 11, the most critical date, Helms insisted that he met McCrory and his wife between 5:45 p.m. and 6 p.m. at Benbrook-Lake to test new airplane engines.

Davis testified on the dates in question he met McCrory at 6 p.m. on the parking lot of Coco's Restaurant and the two discussed a purported plot on the defendant's life.

At the Aug. 11 rendezvous, he agreed to make tape recordings which he said McCrory assured him would be used to head off the murder scheme.

Much of what Davis said occurred at the August meeting dovetailed with his explanation for subsequent meetings which McCrory secretly taped with FBI recorders.

It was after one such meeting, on Aug. 20, that Davis was arrested and accused of plotting mass murder.

In effect, if there was no Aug. 11 meeting, Davis' explanation for his discussions of mass murder would appear to be, as the state alleges, a total fabrication.

Strickland put it this way:

"If you don't believe David McCrory was making phony tapes on Aug. 11, none of that (expletive) Cullen Davis threw out at the jury holds any water."

The first several hours of Haynes' cross-examination failed to shake Helms' story. He said he had seen McCrory twice since Davis' arrest and spoken to him perhaps seven times by phone.

"How are things going back there?" he quoted McCrory as asking from some unknown location where he is in the protective custody of U.S. marshalls. "I said, 'Dave, I don't know anything,'" Helms recalled.

Volunteer Group Raising Funds For EMS

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A volunteer group is raising money to help Emergency Medical Services extend its already stretched services in the southwestern section of the city.

The Health Sciences Center Hospital Auxiliary is sponsoring a project to raise money to purchase a mobile home that will serve as an EMS substation at 5012 50th St. Moving a substation to that area (now served by a substation at Health Sciences) is expected to decrease response times.

The auxiliary plans to publish a full-page advertisement in The Avalanche-Journal in the form of a Christmas card, signed by friends and supporters of EMS who have contributed toward the mobile home.

"We feel Lubbock is very fortunate to have such a fine EMS service," auxiliary president Patsy Whipple said at a Thursday afternoon news conference. They decided to start the fund-raiser after learning of the need for further service in southwest Lubbock, she said.

"Volunteers will be hitting the streets to ask the citizens of Lubbock to support EMS," she added. Each individual who signs the Christmas greeting, to be published during the holiday season, will be asked to contribute $20.

Lubbock County Hospital District board member Don McInturf provided the first official signature, at a news conference on the EMS loading dock at Health Sciences.

Acting EMS director Doak Enabnit estimated his organization will need about $5,500 in donations to both purchase the mobile home and pay the costs for having it transported. Two Lubbock businessmen — John Jones of Lubbock Building Products and Bill Dement of Cement and Supply Co — have already agreed to donate the cement used to support the mobile home.

The auxiliary has already put down $1,500 on a trailer, with the rest to be paid by the end of December, Enabnit said. He hopes the new substation and redistribution of response areas will cut southwest response times from what is almost 10 minutes in some cases to three or four minutes.

Auxiliary members have taken a special interest in EMS, already spending about $9,000 to send EMS personnel through paramedic training. Mrs. Whipple said persons interested in donating to EMS may call the auxiliary office at 743-3346.

To raise money for a new EMS substation, supporters are being asked to contribute $20 to sign the card, which will run as a full-page advertisement in The Avalanche-Journal. Material Recovered In Bad Check Case

Law enforcement officers Thursday afternoon recovered a substantial amount of material a Lubbock man said he sold to Charles Moore in exchange for a check that was returned marked "insufficient funds."

Travis Butler told the criminal district attorney's office he sold the items, including a GMC truck and International tractor equipped with a cotton stripper, to Moore on Sept. 29 in return for a $7,861 check and four bank drafts. After the check failed to clear the bank, Butler complained to the district attorney.

Moore, believed to be in his late 40s, was charged with theft but has not been apprehended by law officers. The address shown on his check, investigators said, is occupied by another man who told officials he has lived there more than a year and does not know Moore.

Thursday afternoon, investigators with the district attorney's office, sheriff's deputies and Department of Public Safety troopers executed an evidentiary search warrant at a building 1.1 miles southeast of Lubbock on U.S. 84 and recovered much of the material Butler said he sold.

Officers found the truck and tractor at the building, as well as miscellaneous machinery, tools and tires.

'Wild Foods' Creations Called Gourmet Delight

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — Anyone who gets the heebie-jeebies over things like fried grasshoppers and chocolate-covered worms probably wouldn't want to know what Edlene Wood and her friends cook up for their gourmet feasts.

A newcomer to one of their Sunday afternoon feasts could unwittingly end up with a mound of rattlesnake salad on his plate.

What may appear to be an ordinary hamburger patty could be fried possum sausage.

And get your bearings: for dessert, you could wind up swallowing a slice of earthworm cake. It could be bathed in caramel or chocolate icing.

"We don't encourage the amateur who has never tried anything like this to eat any of these far-out things," says Miss Wood, who gives her age as "past 50." But for a growing number of West Virginians and others across the country, wild food dishes are a connoisseur's delight.

"It definitely is a growing thing," Miss Wood, a clerk for Monongahela Power Co., says. "Back in the '60s, someone told me it was like the hula-hoop and our interest would fade in a year."

Such has not been the case. Just the other day, the Parkersburg woman traveled to Roanoke Island, off Cape Hatteras, N.C., where she organized a "Wild Foods Weekend" for 75.

The gathering spent the day ferreting out roots, plants, game and seafood.

At dinner, they sat down to eat 14 wild ducks, a wild goose, yellow tuna salad, steamed oysters, wild grape chifon pie, sauteed eel, yucca flower-blossom salad and batter-fried squid. And that hardly put a dent in the menu.

Nature abounds with such fare, Miss Wood says. And depending on the season, and where you are, you can have an almost endless variety if you're not squeamish and know what you're eating.

"Most of the people who eat wild food don't do it because they think it is cleaner or better for you," she says. "They do it because they are intrigued with the idea of using the fruits of things that normally go to waste and doing something with them."

Miss Woods says West Virginia is rich in such foods. When the late Euell Gibbons came down to North Bend State Park for his first Nature Wonder Weekend, he called West Virginia "the garden spot of the nation for wild-food gathering," Miss Wood recalls.

In a brochure she compiled several years ago for the state Department of Natural Resources, she lists more than 50 of the best-known wild foods in West Virginia. But there are hundreds more to be gleaned from the wilds.

During time away from her job at the power company, Miss Wood teaches adult education classes in Parkersburg on wild foods. She also travels about the country lecturing on the subject or acting as a "wild food consultant" for groups organizing pilgrimages into the wilds.

She says she never thought it would turn into anything like this.

It all began in 1967 when she began teaching classes for adults on plant identification. When she began bringing her classes home to demonstrate the culinary uses of the plants, she says that's when her students really became interested.

It's been 12 years since she began. And to this day, she says she still packs them in for her one-of-a-kind feasts.

Strict Baptist School Expels Girl For Wearing Pants

CLINTON, Md. (AP) — Shirley Davies says she had no idea when she allowed her 15-year-old daughter to wear pants to a football game because of a cold that the young girl would be expelled from school.

Cindy Davies was ejected from the Clinton Christian Academy, a strict Baptist school in Prince Georges County, for wearing pants to the game, riding on the team bus after the game and having a "belligerent" attitude when asked to explain her actions to school officials.

"Her behavior was inappropriate to our school environment," said William Spence, the administrator of the school which stresses strict discipline and rigid dress codes.

Two years ago, the school came under fire when it attempted to deny a diploma to the school valedictorian because he had gone out dancing and drinking the night before graduation. The student was later given his diploma but was not allowed to attend graduation.

Girls who attend the academy are not permitted to wear pants either to attend class or off school grounds. Smoking, dancing and drinking are also forbidden.

Spence said he had not intended to expell Cindy Davies when he first called the 10th grade student into his office Wednesday, but said she was very belligerent when questioned about the episode.

African Head Okays 'Mixing Of Bloods'

By NAT GIBSON
JOHANNESBURG. South Africa (UPI) — Prime Minister P. W. Botha's recent suggestion that sex and marriage across the color line might not be as did more than raise eyebrows.

The immorality and mixed marriage acts are cornerstones of South Africa's racial separation laws. Botha appears intent on reforming them despite the political risks.

Botha's statement that sex and marriage acts should take into account people of different races who really love each other was mild. But its import within the South African context was not.

Many devout followers of the puritanical Dutch Reform Church, who have kept the National Party in power the past 31 years, viewed the prime minister's remark as near sacrilege.

Andries Treurnicht, leader of the Nationalists' conservative wing and Botha's arch rival, reflected their views. He wailed about the evils of "mixing of blood" and blamed "the academics" for having "an obsession about abolishing these laws."

Mixed marriages first were made illegal by the British shortly after the Boer War ended in 1902 and reinforced by the Nationalists in 1950. Since then, more than 10,000 people have been prosecuted for violating the acts.

Many court cases grew from people being reported to the police by peeping toms. Some proudly acknowledged they acquired their information by standing on a ladder propped against a neighbor's fence.

The police manual describes methods to use in making immorality arrests.

The narcotics and immorality squad is advised to send investigators with a photographer, binoculars, two-way radios and a tape recorder. Agents are told to obtain duplicate keys to the room where the offense is expected to take place and wait 10 minutes before bursting in once they suspect something is happening.

"It is necessary that suspects are caught in the compromising position when trying to prove an immorality act charge," says the manual. "The bedding and clothing must be confiscated and taken to a laboratory for analysis and the suspects must be taken to the district surgeon as soon as possible."

The manual was presented recently when a 27-year-old white secretary sued five policemen who broke down the door of her apartment and photographed her half-nude upon her bed. Celeste Cross won her case by proving her boyfriend, sleeping in another room, was not an Indian as described by a neighbor but a suntanned white.

Similar stories of couples awaking to find police snatching blankets from their beds are not unusual. One concerned German jeweler Ernst Zeiminger, 39, and his fiancée, Primrose Subata.

"We awoke because of the sudden cold and got the shock of our lives," he said.

"I have never felt so degraded and embarrassed," said his fiancée.

There are signs of change. A few days after Botha's statement, a judge refused to pass sentence on a black beauty queen and her white boyfriend after they pleaded guilty to dating.

He told Veronica Motsepe — A contestant in the 1976 Miss World contest — and her friend to come back in three years for his ruling.

The judge's ruling wasn't the only signal that South Africa's race laws are headed for racial review.

Other signs include the granting of trade union rights to blacks and the opening of "white" restaurants to all races. More changes, possibly affecting rules against mixed marriages, are expected.

The prime minister, admitting his party had made mistakes in the field of human relations, defending his stance by noting that Moses in the Bible had made a mixed marriage.

Russian Human Rights Activist Arrested

MOSCOW (AP) — Police agents Thursday arrested a long-time Moscow human rights activist, detained a religious activist for questioning and searched the homes of several other persons in an apparent crackdown on the dissident community, sources said.

Tatyana Velikanova, a long-time veteran of the Moscow dissident movement, was reported by her son-in-law to have been taken from her home Thursday morning by agents. The son-in-law, Vladimir Keidan, said he was officially told later she was under arrest but was not told the charges against her.

Miss Velikanova, 47, a mathematician, has been active in several dissident groups, including the Initiative Group on Human Rights formed in 1969 and the Underground publication the Chronicle of Current Events. She appeared at a news conference Tuesday.

Andrei D. Sakharov, unofficial leader of the Soviet dissidents, telephoned Western reporters Thursday to say Miss Velikanova's arrest was "a very serious matter" and that she had been of "colossal significance" to the Soviet human rights movement.

Gleb Yakunin, a Russian Orthodox priest, was reported to have been taken from his home Thursday for questioning as a witness in a police case.

Gulf Collision Kills Four; 27 Missing

GALVESTON (AP) — A tanker carrying 400,000 barrels of crude oil collided before dawn Thursday with a freighter in the Gulf of Mexico, sending crewmen diving into the chilly waters. Four persons were killed, 25 were injured and 27 were missing and feared dead, the Coast Guard said.

After a daylong search failed to turn up any of the missing, Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. George Davis said. "The odds are against finding any survivors. I'm afraid by the time we get done with this we are going to discover we've lost a lot of people.

"The water is chilly — about 65 degrees — and after looking at the tanker I don't think anyone could have stayed aboard and survived."

The 772-foot tanker Burmah Agate, the length of two football fields, was partially submerged, with parts of its superstructure under water. Thick smoke billowed from its stern.

The abandoned 484-foot freighter Mimosa, stuck on full right rudder with its engines running, burned and circled dangerously close to nearby oil rigs throughout the morning. But by mid-afternoon, its propellers had stopped and tugboats moved alongside the disabled ship to prevent it from wandering near the derelicts.

The Burmah Agate and the Mimosa collided in the predawn darkness about five miles off the island city of Galveston, some 50 miles south of Houston.

"We don't think she'll blow up," Coast Guard Lt. Tom Pearson said of the freighter before it was brought under control. "The only fuel she has aboard is her own. The problem is that she's afloat and under way with no one aboard."

The Coast Guard was trying to put a crew aboard the freighter from a helicopter hovering above.

Chang Ying-Chuang, a 53-year-old crewman on the tanker, said through an interpreter that he was asleep in his cabin when a loud explosion shook him awake. He said he ran to open his portholes after the smoke poured into his cabin. He then put on his life jacket and went to the deck.

"There was fire and smoke everywhere," said Chang, of Taiwan. "We could not fight the fire. It was no use. Everybody else jumped overboard. We did not jump so we were saved."

Crewmen Evacuated

Private boats and Coast Guard helicopters evacuated some of the crewmen, working in gentle, 4-foot seas under clear skies.

The Coast Guard said both ships were of Liberian registry. The Mimosa sailed out of Cyprus and all 26 of its crew were accounted for.

The four dead were from the Burmah Agate, carrying a crew of 35. Four of its crew were rescued and 27 were missing.

John Sealy Hospital in Galveston treated 25 men, admitting three in poor condition.

Bill Snyder at Crown Central Petroleum Corp. headquarters in Baltimore said the company's tanker was carrying 400,000 barrels of crude from a terminal in the Bahamas.

Destined For Refiner

Snyder said a major portion of the crude was destined for another refiner, but that part of the cargo was to have been unloaded at a storage area for pipeline movement to Crown Central's Houston refinery.

Pearson, of the Coast Guard's rescue center, said initial reports from the scene indicated that an oil slick about one mile long was burning, and the blaze apparently engulfed both ships.

Witnesses said spilled oil was forming streaks in the water.

"The best thing that can happen right now is that the (oil) spilling into the water would be burning to reduce pollution," said Lt. Cmdr. George Davis at the Galveston Marine Safety Office.

Personnel Flown In

He said personnel were being flown in from Gulfport, Miss., to help with environmental protection.

"Winds are driving the slick in a northwest direction so there's little chance of its coming on shore," Davis said. "It's hard to say how much oil has been spilled so far — maybe as much as 2,000 barrels." He said at 11:30 a.m. Thursday the slick was six to seven miles long and two to three miles wide.

Davis said the freighter had a hole about 60 feet long and 20 feet high in one side and the tanker had a straight gash along the side, starting about 70 feet from the bow. "It looks like the freighter just sliced right across it about 20 to 25 above the water," he said.

Jack Ferrara, chartering and operations manager for Burmah Oil Tankers of New York City, said his office had reports of the collision caused "minimal pollution." Ferrara said a Coast Guard strike team from Mississippi was en route to Galveston to start cleanup operations.

Pearson said the first indication of trouble was a "Mayday" report — the international distress signal — at 5:08 a.m. (CST).

Ships pass by Galveston Island into Galveston Bay on their way to the 50-mile-long Houston Ship Channel, which leads to the nation's largest petrochemical processing centers.

U.S., Shah Protested In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Thousands of Iranians screaming "death to Carter, death to America," marched on the U.S. Embassy Thursday, demanding the United States extradite the cancer-stricken shah to face trial for treason.

In the western city of Tabriz, gunmen shot and critically wounded the chief religious leader of western Iran, Ayatollah Syed Mohammad Qazi Tabatabai.

A spokesman for the ayatollah said two gunmen on a motorcycle shot Tabatabai as he left a Tabriz mosque following evening prayers Thursday. The ayatollah, in his late 70s, was shot in the head and the upper torso and was in critical condition, the spokesman said. The gunmen escaped.

The shooting followed a day of anti-American demonstrations and a march on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Chants Of Hatred

"This house of spies must be closed," shouted the demonstrators as they pushed, shoved and milled around the embassy compound, chanting their hatred for President Carter, for America and for the shah who is undergoing treatment for cancer in New York.

"Give back the shah," they screamed — echoing the Islamic government's demand that the Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi be returned to Iran to stand trial for treason before a "revolutionary court."

The state radio said 3 million people took part in the anti-American demonstrations in front of the embassy and in the Moslem quarter of south Tehran, where most of the demonstrators gathered to hear Islamic leaders denounce the shah as a "ruthless blood-drinking refugee."

Crowd Estimates Vary

Estimates of the size of the crowd around the U.S. Embassy varied greatly, with some witnesses putting it in the tens of thousands.

(In Washington, the State Department said that only about 3,500 persons gathered in front of the embassy for a noisy but peaceful demonstration.)

The crowd would have been bigger had not the clergy canceled the embassy march at its last minute and in trusted the demonstrators to turn up at the south Tehran rally instead. A 13-point declaration issued by Tehran's Islamic clergy at the south Tehran rally accused the United States of stirring up trouble in the Kurdish area and of hatching "new plots" against the regime.

It called the shah a "ruthless blood-drinking refugee" and denounced the United States for allowing him to be treated in New York for cancer.

Attacks On U.S.

The demonstrations capped a week of attacks on the United States, led by Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who blamed the United States Sunday for all the troubles confronting his Islamic regime.

State Department spokesman Thomas Reston said in Washington the demonstration evidently was organized by religious groups associated with the Khomeini regime. He commended the authorities for protecting the embassy grounds and the Americans within.

"It was not a riot from what our information shows," the U.S. spokesman said Thursday.

The Iranian government met fully its responsibility to provide security for the embassy in Tehran by augmenting the police elements which normally protect the compound," Reston said.

"We, the American government, appreciate the Iranian government's additional steps for assuring the safety of the men and women who work there."

For the first time, Reston referred to Mohammed Reza Pahlavi as "the former shah."

On Sunday morning, the Iranian people were told in a radio broadcast that "our enemy, the greatest enemy of us all, is America."

Baker Enters Race; Two Demos Nearing

At his Capitol Hill news conference, Baker asserted: "The business of politics has become so mean and nasty, it is so personalized and sometimes so dreadfully that if we don't find some way to revitalize politics in the United States, nobody worth their salt is going to compete.

Baker coupled his announcement of candidacy with a ringing denunciation of the strategic arms limitation treaty. He said ratification of the pact by the Senate could guarantee to the Soviet Union "the margin of error that used to be ours."

Baker asked the voters to "judge me." And the senator from Tennessee acknowledged he isn't the front-runner in the Republican race.

"By the time we're in the middle primaries, I've got to stop being in second place and start being in first place," he said.

On the West Coast, meanwhile, Tom Quinn, Brown's campaign manager, confirmed that the governor will take on Carter and Kennedy for the Democratic nomination.

Quinn said in Sacramento that Brown's announcement next week would allow him an opportunity to contrast his views with "the other two candidates for office."

Quinn said Brown will follow his announcement with a series of campaign appearances in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, where the 1980 primary season opens early next year.

"It's going to be a three-way contest in those early primaries and we're going to have to see who does well," he said.

In Los Angeles, Nedra Carpel, press secretary to Reagan's campaign committee, said the brief CBS television appearance would be held in conjunction with the network's regular programming on Nov. 13 and would probably be aired around 10 p.m. CST.

In a telephone interview, she said that a second five-minute commercial has been purchased for broadcast on CBS the following day during daytime hours.

In another development, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said that Carter will field a slate of delegates in Chicago during the Illinois primary election, despite the endorsement of Kennedy by Mayor Jane Byrne.

"I think the president is certainly going to field delegates in the Illinois race," Rostenkowski said after emerging from a luncheon meeting with Carter at the White House.

Asked whether that would hold true for the city of Chicago, too, he replied, "in the city, as well."

"He's going to be aggressive in his efforts to win the hearts of the voters," Rostenkowski said of Carter.

White House press secretary Jody Powell refused to discuss specific details of Carter's Illinois plans, but told reporters, "it would be a mistake for anyone to assume this president will concede delegates to anyone."

"I think there is considerable support for the president there" in Chicago, Powell said.

In another development, Kennedy campaign manager Stephen E. Sish said in Washington that the senator already has qualified for matching campaign funds under federal election laws.

"This indicates a high level of enthusiasm around the country for Senator Kennedy's candidacy," Smith said.

tion from either side.

"We need to address this land use plan and put it to rest," he said.

Bertram outlined the history of the development of the Overton area and then listed several criteria acceptable for amendment to Overton South's present land use plan.

Bertram said any deviations from the plan must:

— Be in harmony with present and proposed uses and will benefit or complement land use patterns.

— Be acceptable to adjacent land owners who have invested in property.

— Not require major city expenditures.

Deviations also would be allowed if conditions have changed and current zoning is impractical, the planning director said.

"American State Bank does not meet these conditions now," Bertram said, but they might with a revised proposal, he added.

Not "Totally Convinced"

The city planner also said he previously "was not totally convinced" that property east of Avenue R had any effect on the interior of the Overton South neighborhood. "But that's not necessarily the case now," he added.

"Little attention has been paid to the transition from apartment to commercial, or the fringe of this neighborhood," Bertram said.

P&Z members did note, however, that traffic and parking problems along the northern commercial stretch of Avenue Q inevitably would force commercial parking and expansion back to Avenue R. The 1975 land use plan limited commercial zoning to the alley east of Avenue R.

Bertram also pointed out that "only a small percentage" of property uses between Avenues R and Q would stay the same "regardless of what you do."

The commission denied a request by Hal Kilgore, to change an ordinance which prohibits mobile homes on single lots. Kilgore had recommended that another zoning district be established to allow mobile homes on single-family lots.

But the proposal was denied when the commission considered whether mobile homes should be allowed on single lots instead of in parks, and to what areas mobile homes should be restricted.

Other Zoning Requests

Other zone change requests approved by the commission were:

— Joe McKay, representing Q Properties, to amend the site plan on property at 92nd Street and Vicksburg Avenue to permit a zero-lot line development.

— Burl Masters, representing William and Ida Levine, for a change from single family (R-1) to two-family (R-2), family apartment (A-1) to local retail (C-2) and R-1 specific use at a new subdivision west of Frankford Avenue and north of 66th Street.

— P D Cunningham, representing Buck's Irrigation Engine Company Inc., for a change from commercial (C-4) to light manufacturing (M-1) to permit outside storage at 515 Amarillo Road.

— Sonny Arnold, representing Plains National Bank, for a change from R-1 to apartment-medical (AM) to permit doctor's offices at 2402 52nd St.

— Ken Flagg, representing Old Glory Corporation, for a change from R-1 to R-1 specific use to permit the construction of townhouses from 58th Street to 58th Street between York Avenue and Slide Road.

A request by H.A. Sessions for a change from R-1 to two family (R-2) to R-2 and family apartment (A-1) on property north of 66th Street east of Chicago Avenue and west of Dover Avenue was continued "because of an unforeseen situation."

Two Guilty Verdicts Rejected By Judge

But O'Shea also asked Wright to read a portion of the legal instructions to the panel and the judge denied the request, saying he would not comment on the case in any way to the jury.

O'Shea, however, continued to press his objection, telling Wright that such action in effect was "coercion of a verdict" and asked for a mistrial. Wright also denied the mistrial motion.

When the jury began its second set of deliberations, O'Shea objected to Wright's action in returning the already signed guilty verdicts to the panel, arguing that by returning the signed verdicts the court was indeed commenting on the case and implicitly telling jurors, "Well, he's guilty of something." O'Shea requested new, blank guilty verdict forms to be given the panel.

Wright noted that he had returned all of the original verdict forms, including the unsigned not guilty form, and denied the persistent attorney's second mistrial request.

After the final burglary of a building conviction, one jury member explained that the panel was not undecided on their burglary verdict but confused about the procedure required to present it to the court. He said panel members thought that if they convicted Lasserre of either count, the foreman was required to sign all forms stating they had reached a guilty verdict, regardless of the charge on the form.

The jury began its deliberations Thursday afternoon after hearing two days of testimony, including police officers who said they found the 32-year-old Lasserre hiding in the office of the building early Sept. 25.

The officers also testified they found a knife with a white chalky substance on it, cash and stamps stuffed in a wastebasket in the office. Entry to the building, they testified, was gained through a 16-by-20-inch hole cut in the rear wall of the building.

Lasserre, of 9506 Belton Ave., elected to go to the court for punishment and was sentenced to a four-year probation period by Wright.

Begin Solves One Crisis, Due Another

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin reshuffled his Cabinet Thursday ending one political crisis, but he faces the prospect of another one over a debate on a master plan for Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Tempera flared at the opening of the settlement debate as the Cabinet met in special session earlier in the day to decide the fate of one outpost declared illegal by the Supreme Court and to discuss overall settlement plans.

The five-hour meeting ended in agreement to move the Elon Moreh settlement from a hilltop near the Palestinian city of Nablus, but decisions on a comprehensive settlement program were delayed until another meeting within 10 days.

In Angry Conflict

The Cabinet appeared to break no new ground since it first met after the Supreme Court ruling Oct. 22 when it agreed to evacuate the settlement. The session left the government in an angry and potentially dangerous conflict with Gush Emunim, the powerful settlement movement which built Elon Moreh.

After the session Begin appointed Tel Aviv businessman Yigal Hurvitz as the new finance minister and moved the outgoing finance minister, Simha Ehrlich, into a new Cabinet post, deputy prime Minister for domestic affairs.

No foreign minister was named to replace Moshe Dayan, who quit last month in a dispute with Begin's Likud coalition over the future of the West Bank. Begin's aides said it may take weeks before a new foreign minister is appointed.

Coalition Leaders

Begin won approval for his Cabinet reorganization in a meeting of coalition leaders, but it was not clear when the ministers would assume their tasks. A law must be amended to allow Ehrlich to become a second deputy prime minister along with Yigael Yadin.

Begin also created an Information Ministry to help maintain the balance among his coalition partners and named Moshe Nissim its head. Nissim was previously a minister without portfolio.

The addition of Hurvitz strengthened the Cabinet's hawkish wing. Hurvitz walked out of the Cabinet 13 months ago in protest of concessions Begin made with Egypt in the Camp David peace talks. He is a strong advocate of West Bank settlements.

Feuding Fared

If the Elon Moreh settlers refuse to leave by the Nov. 21 Supreme Court deadline, it could set off internal government feuding with the potential of toppling Begin from power.

"I can't say what will happen. We won't sit quietly, that is certain," said Benny Katzover, elected leader of the 100 settlers at Elon Moreh.

The Cabinet meeting on the settlements was a dress rehearsal for what could be a bitter fight between the government's hawkish and dovish wings.

Israel Radio reported angry exchanges between Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon, champion of the ultra-nationalist settlers, and the Cabinet doves led by Defense Minister Ezer Weizman.

Pope Alarmed By Violence Recently Shown In Italy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II expressed alarm Thursday for what he called a recent explosion of violence in Italy in which a man was killed at a soccer stadium in Rome.

Addressing some 50,000 persons gathered in St. Peter's Square for his All Saint's Day blessing, the pope prayed for "the numerous victims that violence in its various forms has claimed this year. I am referring also to the sad episode last Sunday at the stadium in Rome in which an honest and peaceful workman lost his life and which threatened other spectators."

Vincenzo Paparelli, 33, a father of two, was killed when hit by a rocket launched from another section of the Olympic Stadium. Police are searching for a 20-year-old suspect.

Wholesale Prices Rise; Food Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices increased another 1 percent in October, less than the September increase, but enough to signal more tough going for inflation-weary consumers.

Wholesale prices had increased 1.4 percent in September, which was the worst for any month in nearly five years.

The only good news in the government's wholesale price report Thursday was an 0.1 percent decline in food prices, the first drop in four months. Food prices increased 1.8 percent in September.

But the easing of food prices was largely offset by higher prices in other areas, especially fuel, but also for 1980 automobiles. Gasoline was up 5.1 percent, while heating oil rose 4.7 percent.

At the White House, presidential press secretary Jody Powell said that even though the index had improved, it is "still not good at all."

He said the figures showed that rising oil prices, which the administration has tried to blame for the bulk of recent inflation, still seem to be the principal problem. But he acknowledged that inflationary pressures seem to be spreading into other areas and that this development "bears watching."

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported that new construction increased 1.5 percent in September, another indication that the economy was shrugging off the effects of the summer slowdown.

Construction had declined slightly the month before. But the September increase occurred prior to the Oct. 6 actions by the Federal Reserve Board that are expected to slow the economy again.

Increases in prices of goods at wholesale stage eventually find their way into higher prices at the consumer level. This is especially true for such things as autos and fuel.

The Labor Department said its Producer Price Index for Finished Goods, or goods at the wholesale level, stood in October at 223.7 of the 1967 average of 100. That meant that goods priced at $100 in 1967 had increased to $223.70 last month.

Wholesale prices were 12.1 percent higher in October than a year earlier, and were up at an annual rate of 12.3 percent for the first 10 months of 1979.

There was little in the latest price report to indicate any easing of inflation. In fact, prices of finished goods other than foods increased 1.4 percent during the month, the most in five years.

Prices of autos were up 0.6 percent as the increases for 1980 model autos began to be felt. The recent steep rise in the price of silver was reflected in a 39 percent jump in the price of flatware.

John Early, a Labor Department economist, said "November and December could be pretty much a repeat" of October.

A Commerce Department economist, Ken Stokes, said he thought the October increase "is pretty much consistent with what we have been having for the past few months...It's not an encouraging set of numbers."

Food prices fell largely because of a decline in meat.

other specimens recovered, the animal could have been as tall as 3 feet and as long as 6 feet.

Dr. Johnson said the discovery is important because many experts thought the giant armadillo was extinct before humans inhabited the area. But she said a radiocarbon date of 11,100 years on the bone found at a Clovis butchering site means, "We have found one more food source for the people of the Clovis culture."

It also tells researchers something about the West Texas climate of more than 11,000 years ago. The armadillo, an animal native to the western hemisphere and originally from South America, moved into North America over the Isthmus of Panama perhaps 3 million years ago.

"It fits perfectly into the model for the Clovis climate on the Llano Estacado," Dr. Johnson said. "The armadillo could not have withstood freezing temperatures, because it was a tropical animal. The presence of the armadillo indicates that there was less fluctuation in temperatures than there is now, with milder summers and winters and a different humidity range."

Another important aspect of the find, Dr. Johnson said, is "Our find appears to be the only time this animal has been found in association with man and it has never been found this far west in the United States." — RUTHANNE BROCKWAY

Mamie Eisenhower Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower will be buried Saturday beside her beloved Ike, the husband of more than a half-century with whom she shared a glittering military career and the presidency.

To the nation, she was "Mamie," a shy, quiet woman who was happy to be known simply as the wife of Dwight D. Eisenhower, a five-star general and the country's 34th president.

"I miss this man of mine; he was my life," she would tell interviewers after Eisenhower's death in 1969 at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. They had been married nearly 53 years.

President Carter said she was a warm and gracious first lady who "carried out her public and private duties, despite a lifetime of fragile health, in a way that won her a special place in the heart of Americans and of people all over the world."

After 10 years of living alone on the Eisenhower farm at the edge of the Civil War battlefield in Gettysburg, Pa., Mrs. Eisenhower suffered a stroke Sept. 25 and was paralyzed on her right side.

She had been undergoing physical therapy since then at Walter Reed. Her sister, Frances Doud Moore, was the last family member to visit with her, leaving the hospital in early evening Wednesday.

Mamie was in good spirits, talking about leaving the hospital and going home, said Mrs. Moore's son, Michael Gill. "She kissed my mother good night and said 'I'll see you tomorrow.'"

A nurse and a Secret Service agent were in attendance when Mrs. Eisenhower died. Gill said. The death, at 1:35 a.m. EST Thursday, was attributed to heart failure.

Mrs. Eisenhower would have been 83 on Nov. 14.

As Eisenhower planned, she will be buried Saturday beside him in the "Place of Meditation," a small chapel with richly colored windows and Travertine marble wall panels situated just across from Eisenhower's boyhood home at Abilene, Kan. Both are on the grounds of the Eisenhower Center at Abilene.

Many Refugees 'Beyond Help' Doctor Says

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Many Cambodian refugees who have fled to Thailand suffer from acute malnutrition and are beyond help, Thai Health Minister Dr. Boonsom Martin said Thursday.

He said 80 percent of the refugees have malaria and 10 percent have cholera, typhoid and other diseases.

"Many of them are beyond help, but we're doing everything humanly possible to provide aid for them," Martin said.

Man Accused Of Indecent Acts With Several School Children

A 48-year-old Lubbock man was taken into custody Thursday afternoon in connection with committing indecent acts with possibly as many as six children ranging in age from 11 to 14.

Police reports indicate that the man might have been involved with the children, who include a Slaton Junior High School student and three students at Bean Elementary School, for almost two months. The three elementary school students reportedly were enticed away from school several times by the man.

In other activity, more than $52,000 in motor vehicles were reported stolen from separate locations in the city.

Truck driver Jimmy Rogene Pritchett, 36, told police that his $40,000 truck was stolen from 200 Slaton Road some time between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 10 a.m. Thursday.

Reports indicate that keys were left in the vehicle and the truck's doors were locked.

Joyce Cason, business manager at Don Crow Chevrolet at 5211 Loop 289 told police that a 1979 pickup truck was stolen from the car dealer's lot.

Reports indicate that the doors were locked on the blue and white Silverado

Mrs. Eisenhower's coffin to the plane at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., and another will accompany it from the airport at Salina, Kan., to the service in the chapel at 2:30 p.m.

Only family members and close friends have been invited to the funeral.

A memorial service will be held Monday at 10 a.m. EST at the Ft. Meyer post chapel in Arlington, Va., a Washington suburb.

Beside her sister, Mrs. Eisenhower leaves her son, John, his wife, their four children and four granddaughters. The Eisenhowers had another son, Doud Dwight, who died of scarlet fever at age 3.

Mamie was 18 when she met 2nd Lt. Eisenhower while she was visiting friends at Fort Sam Houston. The young officer, fresh out of West Point, courted her and gave her an engagement ring that was a full-sized copy of Ike's class ring — amethyst set in gold.

They were married July 1, 1916, when Mamie was not yet 20 and began following her husband to a variety of duty posts.

She said once that they lived in 37 houses during their married life.

"I came home from shopping one afternoon to find Ike standing on the porch with the news that my sister had died. So I left for Denver immediately," Mamie once recalled. "He was transferred to Georgia so the packing was left to him. Ten years later I found a coffee pot like and some of the boys from camp had packed and it still had the grounds in it."

After Eisenhower's death she endured in silence the reports that Ike had a torrid romance with Lt. Kay Summersby, his wartime driver, and that he once thought of divorcing Mamie to marry the young British woman.

John Eisenhower called the divorce story an "egregious falsehood" and wrote in the preface to a book "Letters to Mamie" that "there is no evidence that divorce ever seriously crossed Dad's mind, even in the loneliest moments across the Atlantic."

A series of illnesses brought Mrs. Eisenhower often to Walter Reed, where she held vigil over her husband's bedside during his last 11 months.

With only her Secret Service contingent for company, Mrs. Eisenhower tried last winter to move into Army Distaff Hall, a home for Army widows in Washington that she helped found. But there was no room in the 300-capacity residence even for one who bore the name of one of America's most distinguished soldiers.

For a short time she lived in Wardman Towers, the Washington apartment building where she stayed when Eisenhower was in Europe, but she went back to Gettysburg.

"The walls just kept closing in on me and I didn't like it," she said.

truck that is valued at $6,859.

Another pickup truck was reported stolen from University Dodge at 7007 University Ave.

Car manager Louis Schaap told police that the 1979 silver Datsun truck, valued at $6,000 was stolen from the business' lot some time between 8:15 p.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. Thursday. Schaap said the truck's doors were locked and the keys were not in the vehicle.

Only four persons were arrested, all for misdemeanor offenses, during the Friday night performance of the rock group KISS. That is below the average number of arrests made at such concerts, police said.

Officers in the police department juvenile division said no minors were taken into custody during the Halloween performance, which drew an audience of 8,000.

About 30 persons were thrown out of the coliseum for allegedly smoking marijuana — no greater number than at any other rock concert, police said. The people were not taken into custody unless they returned to the coliseum, because police did not have the manpower to cart everyone to jail, one officer said.

The only report of vandalism was made by Betty E. Brown of 4603 17th St., who said her car tires were slashed, resulting in about a $200 loss, while her daughter was attending the concert.

However, Police Information Officer Bill Morgan said, "As far as vandalism goes, you couldn't distinguish Wednesday night from any other in this town."

Military Coup Kicks Out Recently Elected Bolivian President

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A right-wing army colonel seized power Thursday in a pre-dawn coup against President Walter Guevara, Bolivia's first democratically elected president in a decade. Guevara had been in office less than three months.

Students and workers opposed to the takeover by Col. Alberto Natusch took to the streets of the capital, hurling rocks at armored cars. The soldiers opened fire, and police sources and witnesses said at least five civilians were killed and dozens wounded.

Army commanders in the major eastern cities of Cochabamba and Santa Cruz declared their support for Natusch, it was reported by newspapers in the two cities and by diplomatic sources here who asked not to be named. Telephone calls to newspapers and radio stations in other provincial cities indicated virtually all army garrisons were supporting the coup.

Troops in Cochabamba fired on student protesters, killing one and wounding seven others, the Cochabamba newspaper Los Tiempos reported.

The clashes in La Paz ended by nightfall. The streets were clear and rebel soldiers calmly patrolled their posts.

Armored vehicles and hundreds of troops surrounded the presidential palace, other key government installations and the National University. They seized La Paz radio stations and closed the capital's international airport.

The 47-year-old Natusch, a former agriculture minister and until two weeks ago commander of the military college, declared himself president and said he would guarantee freedom for Bolivia's political parties.

Guevara, who took office Aug. 8, went into hiding. He issued a signed appeal for military units in other parts of the country to rescue his government, but there was no immediate sign of any counter-coup.

Two T-33 jet fighters swooped low over the business district Thursday morning, signaling that at least part of the air force was behind Natusch.

Military coups are part of the political scenery in this impoverished South American nation of five million people. There have been about 200 coups in its 154 years as a republic. In 1970, there were three coups within a 24-hour period.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Thomas Reston said the United States "would deplore any disruption in Bolivia's democratic process. We will be reviewing our relations with Bolivia as events develop."

The coup was launched just nine days after Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, in La Paz for a general assembly of the Organization of American States, appealed personally to Bolivia's military leaders to respect the democratic process here.

Meat Cost Hikes Lubbock Prices

By DEBBI STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A substantial increase in the price of round steak shot grocery store prices up this month to the second-highest total since The Avalanche-Journal began its market basket survey five years ago.

The price of 16 commonly purchased items in the survey at a Lubbock supermarket Thursday cost $21.38, up 44 cents over last month's total.

The only time the items registered at a higher price was in June of this year, when the list of purchases added up to $21.59.

A pound of round steak jumped from last month's price of $1.68, its lowest since October 1978, to $2.19, the same price it was selling for in September of this year. However, round steak had been on special at the time of last month's price check by the A-J.

A spokesman in the meat market at the store said the beef market changes almost weekly, causing beef prices to fluctuate in retail outlets. However, he added, the 51-cent price spread from last month to this month is an unusual occurrence.

Steak lovers may want to give up their favorite meat for a while and opt for lower priced pork or chicken.

The store spokesman said overall pork market prices have gone down recently as supplies exceeded demand. The A-J grocery store check showed a pound of bacon had dropped from $1.53 last month to $1.39.

Chicken was still a good buy for the cost-conscious shopper, with the cost down a nickel from last month's 53 cents for the uncut fryer variety.

The only other item showing a significant price difference was a 10-pound bag of potatoes, which rose 10 cents from last month's price tag of $1.19.

Even though potatoes for baking are higher in price, the butter to put on them is cheaper now.

A one-pound package of the stick variety is selling for 77 cents, down from last month's 81 cents.

Some other items surveyed went up only slightly, with a package of all-beef wieners leading the group. The one-pound package now costs $1.98, compared to last month's $1.95.

A dozen medium eggs went up only 1 cent, to 68 cents, and a can of whole green beans also rose 1 cent from last month's price of 47 cents.

The price of a 12-ounce jar of creamy peanut butter climbed 3 cents from last month, when it cost 92 cents.

Seven of the 16 items surveyed stayed at the same level, including a large loaf of bread at 75 cents; a gallon of milk at $2.47; five pounds of sugar at $1.33; five pounds of flour at 95 cents; a head of lettuce at 49 cents and a 49-ounce box of laundry detergent at $1.75.

Coffee, which took a 66-cent price jump in August of this year to its present price of $3.45 for a one-pound can, has stayed at that price for the past three months. A freeze in Brazil that damaged green coffee beans was blamed for the price increase during the summer.

Grocery Prices Slightly Down In Surveyed Cities

By The Associated Press

Higher prices for milk, butter and eggs ate into savings available at supermarket meat counters last month, but an Associated Press market basket survey shows that consumers still came out ahead.

The survey found that the bill for a basket of food and non-food items declined during October at stores checked by an average of two-tenths a percent. The only other monthly drops this year came during February and June.

The price changes during October reflected the workings of the law of supply and demand.

Beef prices, for example, appeared to have leveled off. Supplies are still small, but demand has dropped and prices are gradually declining. The price of a pound of chopped chuck, for example, went down during October at the checklist store in six cities and increased in only two cities.

The opposite was true at the dairy counter. Milk production is higher than last year, but so is demand; people have been substituting cheese for meat as a source of protein. Combined with higher government price supports, the demand for milk and milk products helped boost the cost of a pound of butter at the checklist store in seven cities and the price of milk in six cities last month.

The AP survey is based on a list of commonly purchased items, drawn up at random. The price of each item was checked at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Among highlights of the latest survey:

—The market basket bill increased during October at the checklist store in five cities, up an average of 3 percent, and declined in eight cities, down an average of 2.3 percent. On an overall basis, the bill was two-tenths of a percent lower at the end of the month than at the beginning. That compared with a four-tenths of a percent increase during September.

—Foods rather than non-foods have been the culprit in this year's price increases. A comparison of the bill for total market basket selection today and at the start of the year showed an average increase of 5.8 percent. When food alone was counted, the average bill at the checklist stores went up 7.3 percent. The trend continued during October. Non-foods accounted for 23 percent of the

Liquor Ads, Television Rapped At Texas Baptists Convention

By CONNIE CHAPMAN
A-J Religion Writer

Ten wide-ranging resolutions were passed with only minor changes by the final session of the 94th annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas Thursday at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Topics included violence, television programming, dignity of human life and alcohol ads aired during Southwest Conference sports events.

Specific theological issues were addressed in only one motion.

An amendment to make more specific the resolution which reaffirmed the belief in the 1963 Baptist Faith and Message Statement failed.

In the wake of discussion of Southern Baptist views on interpretation of the Bible resulting from the Southern Baptist Convention meeting in Houston this summer, this action seemed to prove — as many have said at this convention — that Texas Baptists do support the earlier statement.

In other action the convention protested the inclusion of advertising by the liquor industry during broadcasts of sports events of the SWC and commended Baylor University and Texas A&M University for their resistance to such ads.

A statement on television programming protested the decision by CBS to run the film "Flesh and Blood," which included a sub-plot dealing with incest, during family viewing time. Baptists were urged to "make responsible decisions in their own viewing habits."

Looking ahead to the election year of 1980, one resolution urged more involvement of Baptist churchmen on all levels of the political process.

In the wake of the recent murder of a Baptist pastor and his wife in Oklahoma, the convention passed a resolution "abhorring such unbridled violence and calling for expeditious action by jury trials."

During a period of miscellaneous business, the convention rejected a motion by Don Workman of Lubbock which would have had the effect of asking for the resignation of Christian Life Commission staff if they became overtly in support of a particular candidate or issue.

Also during the morning session, the convention received a report of the Christian Life Commission, the social awareness arm of the state Baptists. Areas of concern which the report addressed include the changing family, arms limitation, world hunger, refugees and aliens, inflation and energy.

An area of family life which came in for special attention was the changing makeup of the family. Citing statistics to show that a probable 46 percent of all children born in the United States in 1979 will at one time or another live with only one parent, the report urged the church "to be aware of these changes in its proclamation and service."

The plight of the increasing number of elderly also was highlighted.

In dealing with "the staggering statistics of hunger," Baptists were asked to begin a study of the problem around the world, survey the local situation in this state and in separate communities and "to approach stewardship and lifestyle changes in an incremental basis, beginning with simple, attainable goals and moving on."

The Vietnamese boat people and those coming into this country, especially into Texas from Mexico, were subjects of a statement on "The Aliens Among Us."

Not only must state Baptists continue their sponsorship of Asian refugees, the commission said, but they must also "guard against and oppose vigorously any evidence of racist attitudes, contempt and violence directed toward these homeless ones."

Of special concern to Texas Baptists should be the problems of Mexicans who come across the border illegally, the statement says. The practices of those who bring persons into this country for their own profit were strongly criticized.

The problem of illiteracy among the children of these immigrants also was spotlighted as a legitimate Christian concern.

The responsibility for dealing with the inflation rampant in the U.S. was put back on the churches as individuals: "We plead with fellow Texas Baptists to recognize that the root causes of inflation are greed and irresponsible spending and to urge restraint in wage and price increases and in our own consumption habits."

The Baptists were called to "be good stewards of our use of energy" and "to support policies that promote justice for all people" in the use of our natural resources.

Urging the ratification of the SALT II Treaty, the commission said, "If there was ever a day when there was a need for peacemakers to be heard, it is now."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: How much respect does a big fat slob owe his mother-in-law? I will leave it up to you to decide.

I was invited to my daughter's for dinner last week. She is a lovely, refined girl and has fine children. Why she married such an animal I will never know.

When my son-in-law came home from work he took off his clothes and put on a pair of bathing trunks. He looked like a woman who was pregnant with triplets. I asked him if he thought he had such a great physique that he could go around like that. His reply was, "This is MY house."

When my daughter started to put supper on the table, the animal made no move to put on a robe or anything else. I went into the kitchen and asked my daughter if her husband was going to sit at the table like that. She said, "It's up to him. I don't want to start anything." When he headed for the supper table, hairy chest and all that blubber, I said, "My appetite is gone," and I left.

I'd like your comments on this incident. — A.W.

Dear A.W.: I can certainly understand how a fat belly and a hairy chest might kill your appetite, but you were a guest in their home. Even though your son-in-law is a crude jerk, you should have stayed and made the best of it, for your daughter's sake.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been meaning to write to you ever since I read that letter from the mother whose child was very small for his age. The woman said her most effective response was, "Better small and smart than big and dumb."

While I sympathize with the child who is small for his age, I wish to speak from my own experience about my "big and dumb" sons.

All my boys were large at birth—over 10 pounds. As they were growing up they were, of course, larger than most children the same age.

Although my sons were of average intelligence and not particularly gifted in sports or academics, I found that almost everyone—including relatives who knew exactly how old they were—expected them to act their SIZE.

My sons were labeled "immature" and "undisciplined" when they said and did things considered "cute" and "amusing" coming from their smaller cousins. I noticed, too, smaller children always received more affection and approval—even from teachers.

I would like to remind your readers that before judging a child as "immature" it might be wise to find out his age first. He may simply be acting it. — Big Mama From Bellingham, Wash.

Dear Mama: I don't think I have ever received a letter until now in defense of children who are large for their age. Thank you for those fresh insights.

Dear Ann Landers: As we approach Christmas, a time of loneliness and sadness for many, please suggest to your readers that they invite others who might also be alone—in fact, the more the merrier.

With food so expensive, it's OK to ask guests to bring a salad, a vegetable, the dessert or whatever. It will make them feel like contributors.

Remember there's always room for one more. Make it a Happy Chanukah or a Merry Christmas for the loners. — Natchez

Dear Natch: Wonderful suggestion—and early enough so that many readers can put it to use! Bless you!

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
People are so crabby lately and I've been trying to put my finger on it. Is it unemployment? SALT II? Nuclear controversy? Fuel shortages? Inflation?

That may be part of it, but I think I'm on to something that really makes sense. Listen to this.

There are 217 million people in this country. There are 138 million people who own a total of 143 million cars. There are 28 THOUSAND legal parking places.

Do you have any idea what that can do to a nation? I see it every day. Sweet little old ladies driving around in circles in shopping centers spending their final days on earth writing obscene messages in the dust on the trunks of small cars.

Civilized men turned informers about a car in a tow-away zone. When it is removed, they pull into the spot.

I had my license only a few months when my small son broke his leg on a swing set. I scooped him up, put him in the car and came to a screeching halt in front of the emergency door of the hospital. "Hey lady," yelled a policeman, "You can't park there."

"I've got a 53 pound boy with a broken leg," I shouted.

"Visitor parking is in Section C, just beyond Handicapped."

The problem continues to get worse. No wonder graduates of universities are older now. They spend an extra three years trying to find a place to park.

Consider the frustration of a student in an Eastern school who was parked illegally and left the following note on his windshield.

"Have mercy. Attention police officer. I know my car is parked illegally. Could you please give me a break. My starter is dead and won't start on a cold day."

"I have done nothing this semester but worry about the car, park it, pay tickets, and pick it up after being towed. I'm doing the best I can. It will be moved tomorrow... somehow."

"I have no more funds for tickets or towing. My friends are tired of pushing this thing around."

"Please don't tow it. If you do, at least tow it to Gordie's University Texaco Station. I will commit suicide if you do otherwise. I cannot handle the situation."

I rest my case.

Artist Uses Imagination In Painting

By JACQUE HUTCHINS
Family News Staff
Cecil F. Bragg may have started his art career a little late in life, but he has accomplished more in 15 years than some artists do in a lifetime.

The 76-year-old artist says he does regret not putting his talents to work in his youth as he originally planned. On the other hand, his many years as a rancher in Colorado have given his art a character it might not otherwise have had. The ambience of his artwork is reflected in the beautiful landscapes he became so familiar with through his hardworking days on the ranch.

The Great Depression thrust Bragg into ranching some 40 years ago. After his retirement at age 60, he was thrust just as suddenly back into an art career.

Oil painting was new to him, however. He originally started out as a newspaper cartoonist, studying at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. He was able to enjoy several years as a contributing cartoonist for papers in Kansas and New York.

—Now he paints old houses, landscaping each with beautiful trees or wheat fields and Hereford cattle complete with rugged cow pokes. There are also majestic skies, backgrounding sandstone Colorado mountains. Bragg has truly captured the essence of his environment on canvas.

What does the Lubbock man find to paint in West Texas? Well, "it's a problem," he says, because there are no mountains, just a lot of flat land. He did manage to find an old house near Lamesa to paint, which turned out to be one of his favorites.

When painting, Bragg sometimes uses his imagination to complete a scene. In one painting he added to the mystery of an old house by surrounding it with a wheat field. "The wheat field wasn't there," he said, "I added that." He does the same thing with his paintings that include cows. "I don't think I need a cow to look at. As familiar as I am with cows, I can see them in my mind," he said.

The rancher-artist doesn't like to make his paintings look like photographs. "I like to paint in large masses, suggesting the details that are there," he said.

After making sketches of his subjects, he returns to his studio, which is usually set up wherever he and his wife, Vara, are living at the time. When he starts painting from his sketches he can again use his imagination to choose the colors he wants. "I can change the color of a house from its true color to whatever I want to," he said. But when he paints a historical sight he paints everything as it is.

For those who wish to see a part of Bragg's life captured on canvas, his paintings are on display in the Briercroft Savings and Loan Community Room through today.

Some people play fast because they can figure out the proper line of play instantaneously. Others play fast because they are in a hurry to get to the next hand. South grabbed the ace of hearts quicker than you could say "Jack Robinson," led a club to dummy and lost the spade finesse.

Back came the 10 of hearts won by East's king. East shifted to the eight of diamonds and since West held both the king and queen South had to lose to both of them and was down one.

"Three finesesses wrong."

complained South as he was cutting the cards for the next deal.

No one bothered to comment so we will point out that if South had taken time to think at trick one he would have ducked that first heart.

West would lead a second heart. South would win, enter dummy with a club and lose the spade finesse as before.

West would not be able to put his partner in with a heart and would probably return a trump.

South would draw trumps, cash all the clubs stopping in dummy, lead the jack of diamonds and let it ride. West would win and be stone cold dead. He would have to give South a ruff and discard or lead a diamond into the jaws of death.

WOMEN IN THE MILITARY
Their Progress, Their Problems

A decade ago there were 35,000 women in our armed services; today more than 150,000 serve. It has been 10 years of struggle, opposition, prejudice and simple misunderstanding about how women would fit into the traditional all-male military "club." FAMILY WEEKLY lets some women soldiers tell parts of their own stories: what they encountered, how they overcame. There still are questions about women in uniform, foremost of which is whether women should be allowed in combat. Read about one more revolutionary change in our society this week in FAMILY WEEKLY.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I'm 21, just out on my own, and have very little time or money — but I do have a good idea.

I know it may be an oldie but it's still a goodie.

I bought a decorative plastic shower curtain but had a very difficult time keeping it clean and new-looking from shower to shower.

At a friend's house, I saw an expensive shower curtain with cloth outside and a plastic liner on the inside.

Well, I purchased — it was a "steal" — a plastic liner. Voila! My pretty curtain stays clean and new-looking always. And I am saving time and money.

Thanks so much for the helping hands in your column. Without such hints, where would we youngsters be? — Melanie G.

There is no sewing involved — just hook it onto the existing fastener. When you lose that weight, it's a simple matter to remove the extenders and your bras won't be stretched out of shape. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When I use my electric mixer for cakes, the batter always "runs up" the beaters to the base of the mixer.

So I dipped a pastry brush in vegetable oil and brushed the beaters up to the base of the mixer. Works fine — with less mess.

Non-stick vegetable spray could be used in place of oil if you have it on hand. — Mary S.

DEAR HELOISE:

As I'm not a great housekeeper, I have discovered that if I keep an extra treated dustcloth tucked away in the bedroom, I remember to give that room an extra dusting now and then.

If I had to get to my regular cleaning supplies for the dustcloth, the bedroom probably wouldn't get dusted as often. — Frances Wallace

DEAR HELOISE:

If someone in your family takes lunch to work or school in a brown paper bag, place the brown bag in a plastic one on days when the weather looks threatening.

This avoids soggy sandwiches or any chance of the bag tearing should someone be caught in a sudden shower. — Charlene Davis

POSEY—BEARD

By A-J Correspondent

SEMINOLE — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Posey announce the engagement of a daughter, Janice Lynn, to Ricky Neal Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeral Beard of Snyder.

The bride-elect was graduated from Seminole High School and attended Western Texas College. The future bridegroom was graduated from Snyder High School and attended Midwestern University and WTC.

The couple plans to be married Dec. 7 in First Baptist Church.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

Your request for "Letters of Laughter" made me think of the following story...

Our 7-year-old grandson had taken a math achievement test that was being administered to all the students.

We asked him if it was hard... his reply: "Sure was! I used up all my fingers." — Aileen Kuehb

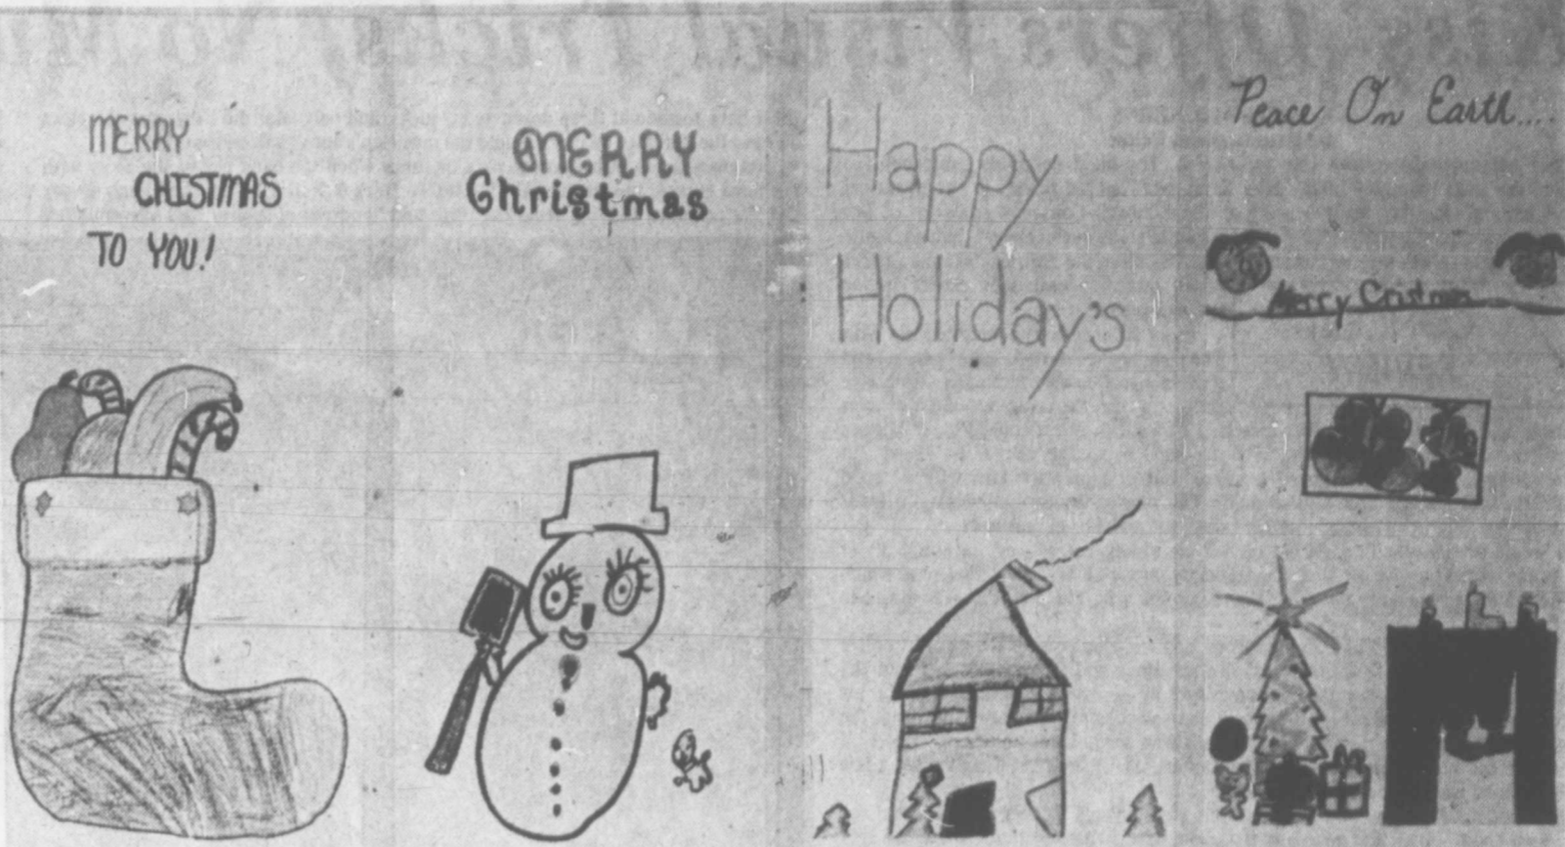

Isn't it great to share a good laugh? Bless you for doing so... and give that sweet fellow of yours a big hug for me. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I have about two dozen bras that are like new... Unfortunately, I have put on weight and, as a result, they no longer fit me.

Is there some way I could stretch the elastic? I do not have a sewing machine, so cannot make them larger by adding more elastic. — Ann Levit

You don't have to do either,luv. Just go to the nearest notions counter and ask for a "bra extender."

CHRISTMAS CARDS — On sale at the Health Sciences Center Hospital gift shop are Christmas cards designed by children in the pediatrics unit of the hospital about this time last year. Auxiliary members asked the children to make Christmas designs; the best were chosen to be made into cards. Proceeds of the sale will provide equipment, decorating items for the pediatric unit. The cards are 50 cents each or $10 for a box of 25. Children whose designs were chosen are: Robert Rocha, Seminole; Rickie Reed, Hogoton, Kan.; Michelle Woodard, Lubbock; Stacy Elrod, Peryton; and Arthur Craddock, Lubbock.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you please settle the issue of vitamins for children? I had heard that the increase in heart attacks in younger men was due to their taking vitamins, when they were children. Is that true? I believe that even if they are good eaters they need more iron and minerals. My grandchildren are great junk food eaters and pop drinkers, are extremely active, yet the little guys look tired and pale. They do not take vitamins regularly. — Mrs. J.K.

I can settle one thing right off. Heart attacks in younger men are not due to their having taken vitamins as children.

As for iron, I don't think it should be given if there is no demonstrated need for it. Too much iron can cause as many problems as too little. This is especially true in boys and non-menstruating girls. Iron is lost in menstrual blood.

Your grandchildren ought to be learning good eating habits. If they get used to too much junk food they will carry such habits into adult life. Proper nutrition is better than vitamin supplements any day, and probably less expensive to boot.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Our four-year-old daughter was born with coarctation of the aorta. She gets annual checkups now. Our concern is all the x-raying being done and which will be needed for the next six years. Could we cut down or stop all these checkups until it's time for surgery. Is surgery the only way? — Mrs. L.F.

The aorta is the large artery through which blood is pumped from the heart to the rest of the body. Coarctation is a narrowing of this vessel a short distance from where it leaves the heart. It is usually a birth defect (one that occurred during fetal development).

The answer is surgical removal of the narrowed portion, and this is best done before the second decade of life.

Yearly checkups are important. This will show any signs indicating need for earlier surgery to avoid more permanent damage. A chest x-ray is an essential part of her examination. An annual x-ray will not hurt. In another part of your letter (not used) you mention the old wives tale about one x-ray taking away one year of life. Nonsense!

Your daughter seems to be receiving excellent care. Her surgery, when decided on, should allow her to live a normal adult life.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had a mammogram done two months ago and today my doctor insisted on a chest x-ray as part of my annual checkup. I explained I had the mammogram, but I got the x-ray anyway. I'm in good health and am wondering if I have been exposed to too much radiation. — W.W.

A chest x-ray and a mammogram (breast x-ray) within a two month period would not be too much radiation. However, neither need be repeated simply for a routine checkup. Repeated x-rays are advisable in cases where the physician wants to look for changes from previous x-rays.

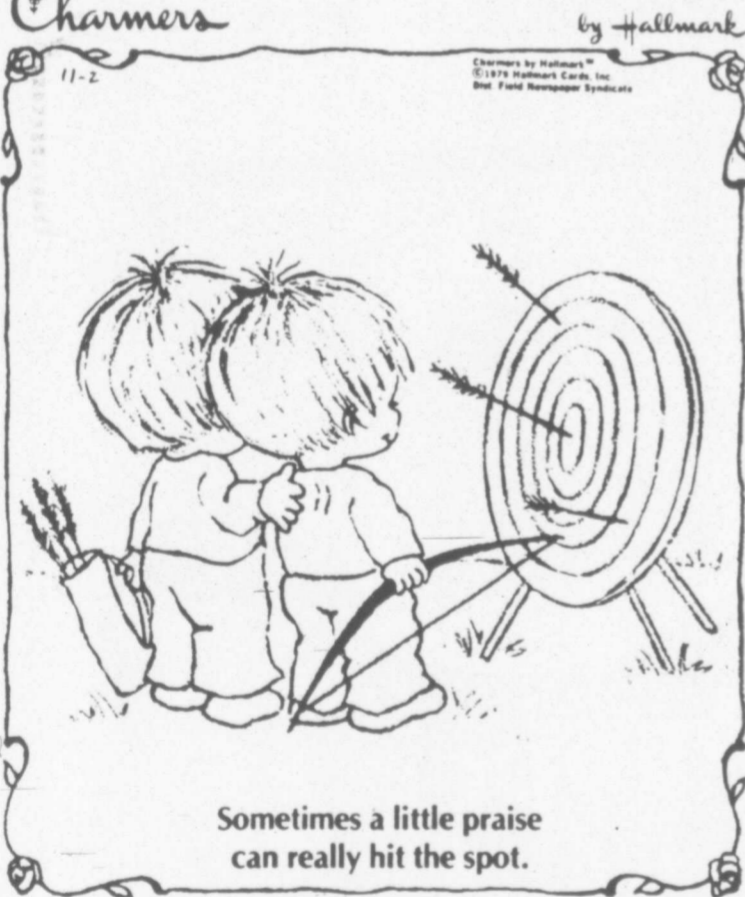

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can the pill cause irreversible sterilization? — N.R.

Women who have never had children may be less fertile for up to 42 months after discontinuing the pill. I have not been able to locate any evidence of a woman becoming permanently infertile because of having used it. Most women are able to conceive within a few menstrual cycles of stopping the pill.

What can vitamins really do for you — and what can't they do? In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the common sense from the nonsense about this controversial health aid. For your copy of "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

'Kiss' Offers Visual Tricks, No Musical Treats

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

The deaf might have been able to enjoy it. The blind definitely could not. No matter, the 6,723 members of the Kiss Army who bought tickets to the theatrical rock band's Wednesday night concert at the Lubbock Coliseum probably all left thinking they'd just attended the wildest possible Halloween concert. Indeed, while there was little in the way of musical treats, Kiss offered a grab bag of visual tricks which inspired continuous cheers among the younger set.

A-J CONCERT REVIEW

In an advance telephone interview with The Avalanche-Journal, Kiss bassist and lead tongue Gene Simmons explained that, as a rule, the critics are the only ones having a bad time at the band's concerts. I also sat in on "People Place" hostess Alice French's personal interview with the band backstage before the show, and Simmons again indicated the band is simply out to supply the fans with a "good time." He said nothing about good music. The sum of the two conversations leads me to believe that, to be fair, one simply cannot judge the band musically.

It would be too easy to point out the tedium of long drum solos, the simplicity of the guitar work, the overall lack of challenging material. But then, that tune which permeates the circus tents always drives me up the wall, too, and it's never meant to be critiqued.

Kiss has been likened to a circus before, and for good reason. It's meant to offer the never-before-seen: aerial displays, fire breathing and fantasy galore. From the first moment the band is raised to stage level by means of hydraulic lifts, the expense is well apparent. Indeed, the crowd demands this expense now; they want the death-defying acts. Like the Steve Martin fans who would leave muttering "ripoff!" if their hero did not do his old routines, Kiss fans expect to see Simmons offer a few pelvic thrusts, wag his tongue and spit blood.

Kiss has added a few new surprises this year, enough to keep everyone but the critics in good spirits, but much of the show hasn't changed much from the 1977 tour. The stage is more functional, yes, a dynamic combination of light and open spaces, giving band members Simmons, Ace Frehley, Paul Stanley and Peter Criss more than enough room to dance, stalk and generally move about. The fire shoots up even higher this year than before, yet many of the same props are used. The costumes appear even more colorful (especially off stage in the harsh lighting of a dressing room), and the timing was exceptional most of the night.

An exception was when a major problem developed with the fire gushing machine at stage left about an hour into Kiss' set, with billowing black smoke emerging instead of flames, the stench apparent even at the back of the hall. Kudos go to the roadies, though, for their rapid handling of the malfunction.

Frehley still plays his lighted guitar on "Back In The New York Groove," but this year has added a few new effects when playing "2,000 Man," off the band's new hit LP "Dynasty." Finishing the tune, his fingers trip back and forth creating the five musical tones made famous in the film "Close Encounters Of The Third Kind;" the guitar then flies upward, where it hangs, glowing, just below the ceiling until Frehley fires a skyrocket from another guitar at it. Drummer Peter Criss still boasts a rotating drum kit, but this year the hydraulics raise the drummer's accoutrements high into the air.

Simmons still emerges out of the smoke like the creature from a black lagoon, fake blood dripping from his mouth, his bass guitar creating an eerie mood. But this year, he unexpectedly is hauled via a Peter Pan hoist 30 feet into the air and placed on a small platform above the light trusses. From this vantage point, he plays "God Of Thunder" to a rather spectacular effect.

And of course, there is the constant glint of airplane lights and neon and fire-works galore. Indeed, Kiss may not be able to cut it musically — which, let's face it, is probably the reason they thought up the makeup gimmick in the first place — but there's certainly no denying the band cares about its fans. It seems more a case of gratitude than ego for the band to toss so many towels into the audience and, as I watched one small boy struggle against the enormous odds of rougher bullies to keep a towel he'd caught, it's evident how much this means to the fans. Paul Stanley must have tossed out three dozen guitar picks, and only later did I discover the picks all have the Kiss logo on one side and the musician's autograph on the other.

Halloween was transformed into Christmas when the band closed the show with its third encore, the traditional "I Want To Rock & Roll All Night And Party Every Day," as confetti shot out from the stage and hundreds of spongy Kiss souvenirs fell from a rotating celestial ball at ceiling level into the mass of humanity below. Now, when a band goes to that much expense to make sure the fans get their money's worth, how can a critic blast the show just because the loud rock music offered was, at best, mediocre?

After all, the music at a Kiss show has never been the drawing card, right?

works, drew more than 6,700 fans, including a great many small children accompanied by their parents. A-J entertainment editor William Kerns, though, found the effects a little more substantial than the music. (Staff Photo by Gary Davis)

NEW BAT MAN — Gene Simmons' costume looks more like that of a monster than a bat these days, but his stage act remains the same: a lot of theatrical stalking, tongue wagging and pointing into the crowd. The crowd at Wednesday's Kiss concert seemed especially thrilled by Simmons' being hauled 30 feet into the air. (Staff Photo by Gary Davis)

New Tests For New Mexico Skiers

What's new at New Mexico ski areas this winter? Plenty! After the best skiing conditions in nearly 20 years drew skiers to the Land of Enchantment in unprecedented numbers, most of the major ski areas in New Mexico spent the summer making new, improved versions of themselves for 1979-80.

Here, alphabetically, area by area, are those improvements, as well as adult/child lift rates for a full weekend day, and where to phone for reservations.

Angel Fire — Doubled its chairlifts to six, eliminated the Back Basin shuttle bus run, nearly tripled its lift capacity to 8,000 an hour (greatest in New Mexico) and increased the number of runs by three to 27. Back Basin-bound skiers will now ride a first, then a second triple chairlift over two miles, instead of jostling there by bus. Between those new chair lifts, they'll discover three new intermediate runs. Novice and beginners, meanwhile, will find a new double chairlift and new beginner run on Kirk's Hill (formerly known as the Front Bump). At the base of Kirk's Hill, nearby Angel Fire Commons is adding 50 condominiums, thereby increasing the village lodging capacity by 400 to over 1,500. Lift rates are $12/$8 (505-377-2301).

Red River — Increased the number of runs by two to 37. One is intermediate, the other, advanced. It also increased the number of pairs of rental skis by 200 to 1,000. Lift rates are $13/$7 (505-754-2223).

Ruidoso — Nearly doubled its lifts to five, more than doubled its lift capacity to 1,800 an hour, and increased the number of runs by three to nine. Its Mighty Mites have doubled to four and its T-bar has been replaced by a double chairlift. It has a new beginner run and two new intermediate runs. Lift rates are $9.50/$5 (505-336-4211).

Santa Fe — Turned the road between the cafeteria/ski rental shop and the upper-slope restaurant/bar into its 30th run. It's for beginners. In addition, the parking lot was expanded to accommodate an additional 300 vehicles (a boon on weekends). Lift rates are $12.50/$6.50 (505-983-7317).

Sierra Blanca — Added a fourth double chairlift and increased its lift capacity by 1,100 to 6,300 an hour. The chairlift replaced a Mighty Mite in the beginner area and will undoubtedly alleviate congestion there. Lift rates are $14/$9 (505-257-7395). The area also has a 24-hour a day direct-dial ski report. It operates during that area's ski season (one way of learning whether the area is open yet). The ski report is available on 505-257-9001.

Sipapu — Added a 15th run. It's for intermediates. Lift rates are $8/$8 (505-587-2240).

Taos Ski Valley — The largest, steepest and most difficult ski area in New Mexico added another advanced run. It has 61 runs (most of them for advanced and expert skiers). It also increased the number of pairs of rental skis by 70 to 1,020. Lift rates $14/$9 (505-776-2291 or 758-3873).

Val Verde — The smallest ski area in the Land of Enchantment, Val Verde has increased the number of runs by three to 12. It added a beginner run and two intermediate runs. Lift rates are $7/$5 (505-377-6011).

Four other areas made no improvements. However, they, their number of runs, adult/child lift rates for a full weekend day, and where to call for reservations, are:

Cloudcroft (16), $10.50/$8.50 (505-682-2733).

Powder Puff (open slopes), $9.50/$5.50 (505-754-2382.)

Sandia Peak (25), $10/$10 (505-842-0220).

Sugarite at Raton (5) $8/$6 (505-445-3689).

Skiers who want to ski in New Mexico for the first time should request, by postcard and at least 60 days before departure, a "New Mexico Ski Packet" from the New Mexico Travel Division C&ID, Dept. A-J, Room 676, Bataan Memorial Building, Santa Fe, 87503.

Phone Call Can Get Lodging Reservation

Skiers searching for lodging at New Mexico ski areas this season had better get on the phone, but quick. Most of the more popular ski areas already are booked for Christmas vacation, and even partially booked for Presidents Weekend in mid-February.

When telephoned in early October, many of the ski areas suggested skiers look at the between-holidays periods of early January through mid-February, and late February through early March, when the number of skiers declines.

Sierra Blanca-bound skiers searching for accommodations in Ruidoso can take advantage of the only toll-free room reservation service in New Mexico.

Thanks to Ruidoso Room Reservations Inc., nearly 65 hostleries — ranging from cabins and lodges to hotels, motels and resorts — are available by telephone. The service debuted last season and booked thousands into both Ruidoso and the nearby town of Alto.

The toll-free number — available only for calls originating outside New Mexico — is 800-545-5133/5134. If the line is busy, you can dial direct and the service will return your call to confirm your reservation. The backup number is 505-257-5081/5082.

Ruidoso, a community of about 7,000, has hostleries that can accommodate nearly 3,500 visitors. The town is about four hours' drive by car, west of Lubbock.

BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY — The sylvan solitude of Carson National Forest is what draws families of skiers to Sipapu Ski Area. It is between the communities of Santa Fe and Taos in northern New Mexico.

EASY DOES IT — Meandering through the moguls of Capitan, an intermediate run at Sierra Blanca Ski Basin, isn't as easy as it looks. But these skiers are

DOWNHILL RUN — Racing into town, as these three skiers are doing, is a favorite sport at Red River

Ski Area. The upper runs tower some 1,500 feet above the onetime 19th Century gold-mining town.

Ski Condition Reports Toll-Free

For the fifth consecutive ski season, the New Mexico Ski Report will provide skiers toll-free information about their favorite New Mexico ski areas.

The report, two 30-second tapes containing opening dates (when available), midway depths in inches, new snowfall in inches plus five-day weather forecasts, will be available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, starting Thanksgiving and running through March. The tapes are updated at 3 p.m. MST every Monday and Thursday during that period.

The report is available, toll-free, via 800-545-9876 and 800-545-9877. The report makes neither long-range weather forecasts nor room reservations.

The New Mexico Travel Division, which compiles and tapes the report each ski season, suggests calling the report in the evenings and on weekends, when fewer calls occur.

Laura Riley, an accomplished wildlife photographer and co-author, with her husband William, of the book "Guide to National Wildlife Refuges" continues this week with her advice to aspiring wildlife photographers.

Wildlife photography, as Edward Steichen said of his own camera career, is both ridiculously easy and impossibly difficult. But you can lay some groundwork that will make the impossible a little easier.

Let's assume you have a starting array of equipment: a camera whose workings you understand and can operate almost by reflex action, and one or two lenses that will cover most of your initial needs.

These might be a close-up lens for wild flowers, a 400mm telephoto for creatures you can't get as near to, or perhaps something in between, like an 80-200mm zoom.

Then try to think of what kind of picture you want to take and how you'll go about it. Every natural subject I've ever encountered has presented a different problem, in ways I couldn't have predicted beforehand. So it is no waste of time to take a survey trip to the site, just observing without a camera. Or, go through books at the library, studying the natural habits and behavior of the creature you wish to photograph.

Observe that most birds, other than hawks or owls, are seen to best advantage in profile. Is the likely subject a raccoon? What are its special characteristics and how are they best shown? With a raccoon you'll want to show that black face mask and alert, shining eyes.

A mockingbird may throw its head back in mimicking song; an eagle might display its aggressive power, perhaps throwing out its talons as it comes in for a landing. With an elk, it's the wide spread of antlers, but beware of two elks! Their bodies can combine to look like a two-headed beast.

Remember the camera will not fill in details it does not see. A failing of beginning nature photographers is to assume that they will get back pictures that existed only in their mind's eye.

If you yourself cannot see clearly every spine on that grasshopper's leg, or the eagle's talons or the glint in its eye, and if the shutter speed is not fast enough to stop the motion at the same time the lens opening admits the proper amount of light, all this executed instantly at the moment of climactic activity—then it just won't be there.

That's why planning and research can help so much. If you've observed robins on your lawn, for example, you already know and half wait for the moment of actual tension when it gets hold of a worm and tries to pull it out of the ground while the worm pulls back and says nothing doing.

There's no better place to practice than on small birds around a bird feeder in your yard. Later, visit the nearest national wildlife refuge and see what it has to offer. These wonderful places cover more than 30 million acres and are located in almost every state. The refuge staff can suggest what is around at the moment and how best to observe and photograph it.

Some special tips: Always get a glint of reflected light in the eye (exceptions: special backlit effects). It makes all the difference between an alive-looking creature and one that looks dead. This is even true of insects.

Always bracket exposures—take a few with more light and a few with less than you think is right.

Take lots of exposures. If you can, and vary the vantage point. Film is the cheapest outlay you'll make.

Avoid cluttered backgrounds. Work for pleasant but not glaring contrast. Blue sky is wonderful for many natural creatures. So is out-of-focus green grass.

Don't photograph in the harsh overhead light of midday. The best time to shoot is early-to mid-morning and mid-to late-afternoon.

Don't hunt for exotic subjects. Photograph the obvious. It's readily available and every natural creature offers fantastic opportunities.

Don't get discouraged. Wildlife photography is challenging and difficult. That's why stunning nature pictures are rare.

Once, at a gathering of outstanding nature photographers, I asked a number of them what results they expect, on the average, from a 36-exposure roll of film—how many shots will be really good, satisfying most of the requirements described here. Every single one of them said he would be happy with one and on a really lucky day, two.

Imagination Sparked By Puppets

Puppets are pretending toys; they spark the imagination and encourage a child to become more than a spectator. Any child can begin a puppet theater of his own. All it takes is one or two hand puppets and a stage made from something as simple as a cardboard box.

For the beginning puppeteer, use paper plates, milk cartons and cardboard tubes. Just cover with paper, draw on a face with marking pens, mount on a stick, and you have a character that's ready to perform in no time.

Puppets can be made from fabric, socks, and felt. To make a sock puppet, first make the mouth. Slit around the toe of the sock. Cut two U-shaped pieces of felt the width of the slit and about two or three inches long. Turn the sock inside out and stitch felt mouth pieces to sock, right sides together. Give your puppet personality by adding yarn hair, button eyes, and a nose from ball fringe.

You can also make puppets from patterns and kits. And the pair of playful puppets here are just the ones to get you started. Choose Frisky, a lovable cat with just his own mouse toy and neck bell, or Dan D'Leon, the kindly jungle king and loyal companion to even the bumblebee on his nose.

Feline hand puppet kits have the pattern stamped on rich plush fabric; felt, embroidery floss, yarn—all the special materials plus complete instructions. Dan D'Leon and Frisky measure 14 to 18 inches when complete.

For cat puppet, order Kit No. 15865 for $7.99 plus $1.45 for postage and handling. For lion puppet, order Kit No. 15866 for $7.99 plus $1.45 for postage and handling. Or, order both puppets for $14.99 plus $1.95 for postage and handling. Creative Home Crafts is required to pay and collect sales tax in Texas.

Send your name, address, order and remittance to Creative Home Crafts, Dept. 888 P.O. Box 1281, 17th and Locust, Des Moines, Iowa 50336.

'Children' Theme Of Two Israeli Stamps

By SYD KRONISH
Associated Press Writer

"Children" is the theme of two new stamps from Israel. One is dedicated to the International Year of the Child and another set of three hails an international competition entitled "Children Paint Jerusalem."

The "Children Paint Jerusalem" stamps are the result of a competition which received over 100,000 drawings from 40 countries. The best 450 were selected for exhibition at the Youth Wing of the Israel Museum.

The pictures reflect both the children's world and that of adults. Each of the multi-colored stamps features a different drawing.

In continuation of last week's report on the 1980 schedule of U.S. commemoratives, here are the six commemorative postal-stationery items.

A 10-cent postal card depicting the Battle of King's Mountain will be issued in October of next year. Another 10-cent card showing the Landing of Rochambeau is set for July. A 14-cent international surface rate card to be issued in September will feature Sir Francis Drake's ship. A 10-cent card picturing the Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City is on the April agenda. A 15-cent embossed stamped envelope portraying bicycling and another 15-center featuring honey bees are on the schedule, but no date of issuance has been announced for either.

Her travels, she found that stained glass, traditionally the handmaiden of great church architecture, continues in this role. But its identification with the church has weakened. "There is still a great deal of ecclesiastical stained glass. But the most exciting contemporary usage of stained glass that I saw is in domestic and secular architecture," she said.

As with so many crafts nowadays, California is where some of the most interesting work is being done.

In Northern California, artists such as Narcissus Quagliata, Paul Marioni, Kathie Bunnell and Peter Mollica are exuberantly re-examining traditional techniques and creating what almost might be called an American school of stained glass," said Miss Scobey.

These artists are exploring in the stained-glass medium such subjects as optics, illusion, depth, light, reality and the illusion of reality, she noted.

Modernism has come to stained glass partly as a result of new techniques and partly as a result of new ideas. The newest technique was developed in Tiffany's time and employs copper foil instead of the traditional lead to contain and delineate the pieces of colored glass. Copper foil makes it possible to build up intri-

Craft Enjoying Increasing Popularity

By BARBARA MAYER

Three years ago when she started to write a book about stained glass as a craft, Joan Scobey found herself toiling alone in the vineyard.

Today, she's one of the crowd, she says, noting that "it's a craft that's burgeoning right now. New adult-education courses keep popping up. You can see stained glass at every craft show. Even more important, the museums are buying contemporary stained glass. And books keep coming out."

Her own book, "Stained Glass Traditions and Techniques," was published recently. Research for the book, which combines history and how-to-do-it information, took her to the great historic church sites in Europe and across the United States as well.

In her travels, she found that stained glass, traditionally the handmaiden of great church architecture, continues in this role. But its identification with the church has weakened. "There is still a

Use Soapless Detergent On Ceramic Tile

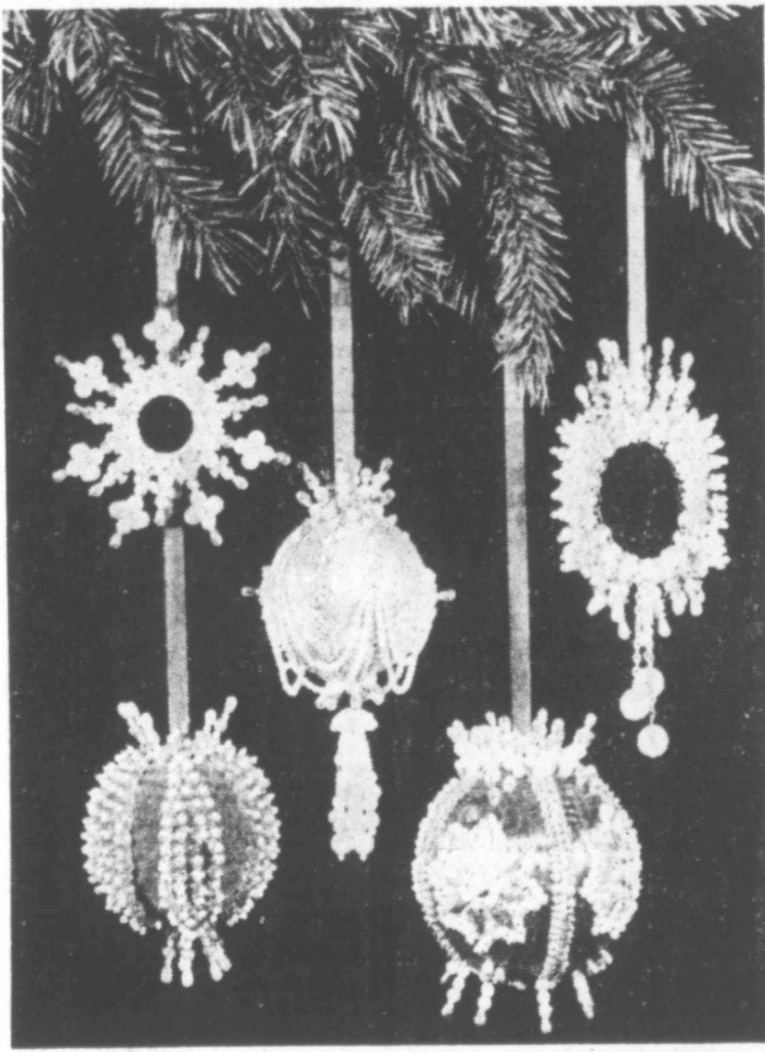

By ANDY LANG
Associated Press Writer

Q — We have just moved into a house which has ceramic tile on the floor and walls of the bathroom. The tile is fairly dirty. I would like to clean it, but don't want to take a chance of using something that will damage it. What is your advice?

A — Use a soapless detergent. Soak a cloth or sponge in the detergent and wipe briskly. This simple treatment will take care of 90 percent of the cases of dirty ceramic tile. When the dirt or grime is stubborn, do the same thing with a brush that has stiff bristles. Most cleansing powders also can be used on ceramic tile, but if you do use such a product, be sure to rinse everything carefully with clear, warm water and dry with a soft cloth.

Q — Our house has outside walls of wooden shingles. They are painted white and we now want to repaint them a different color. The paint is in good shape and I don't think we have to do any scraping or sanding. What bothers us is that the shingles on the two bottom rows have become dark with what a neighbor says is mildew, although my wife thinks it is just plain dirt, caused by the fact that the shrubbery there is touching the shingles. How can we tell whether it is mildew or dirt and, if it is mildew, how do we get it off and finally, how do we prevent it from happening again after the house is repainted?

A — Dab one of the darkened areas with an ordinary household chlorine bleach. If it bleaches out, the chances are that it is mildew, a conclusion reinforced by your disclosure that shrubbery is close to the house at the trouble spots. The shrubbery is preventing sun from reaching the bottom rows of shingles and is contributing to the growth of the mildew by retaining moisture. An excellent solution for removing mildew is 3 ounces of trisodium phosphate, 1 ounce of detergent, 1 quart of sodium hypochlorite bleach and 3 quarts of warm water. Apply with a brush, scrub well, wait a few minutes and rinse well with clean water. Before repainting, be sure enough shrubbery is removed so that the sun's rays can get through. A double insurance against a renewal of the growth of mildew is to use a mildew-resistant paint or buy a mildew-resistant additive that can be mixed with regular exterior paint.

Ornaments Add Beauty To Christmas Trees

Falling Tree Kills Elderly Woodcutter

PETOKA, Ill. (UPI)—A 76-year-old Petoka man who cut trees for a living was struck and killed by a tree he was chopping.

Marion County Coroner Danny Fischer said Darrell Foltz was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital in Centralia.

Foltz was cutting trees in a rural area of Petoka when he was hit, causing several broken ribs and internal hemorrhaging, Fischer said.

In addition to beautifying your tree, you'll learn how to decorate that special gift with jeweled stars, trees and a Santa. And to answer that "can I help?" request from the kids, you'll be able to show them how to turn lowly thread spools into glittering creations.

Fancy fun is fashioning a hot air balloon out of a satin ball with a tiny foam basket. All decorations are easy to make with step-by-step instructions. Materials can be purchased at your local hobby or jewelry craft shop.

Market Basket Costs In Slight Decline

 items checked and only 7 percent of the increases.

—If prices continue to change at the rate they have so far, the average market basket bill for foods and non-foods would be about 7 percent higher at the end of 1979 than it was a year earlier. That would compare with a 1978 increase of about 9 percent.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed more decreases during October than during September. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases.

Up	Sep. 26.9	Oct. 25.3
Down	20.9	23.6
Unchanged	47.8	46.7
Unavailable	4.4	4.4

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the overall total.

The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease.

The USDA market basket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics involving U.S. farm-produced foods. The department says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

Cities checked were Albuquerque, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Here is a breakdown of what happened in Albuquerque and Dallas during October.

ALBUQUERQUE: The market basket total went from $18.75 to $18.62, down seven-tenths of a percent. Chopped chuck, butter and tomato sauce went up; frankfurters, eggs and pork chops went down; the other eight items were unchanged.

DALLAS: The bill for 13 available items went from $17.03 to $16.56, down

2.3 percent. Chopped chuck, pork chops and coffee dropped; butter, tomato sauce, milk and frankfurters increased; the requested brand of peanut butter was unavailable at the checklist store; the other six items stayed the same.

'I Object, Your Dogship!'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When Multnomah County District Court judges speak of dog days, they're not talking about hot weather.

With an estimated 185,000 dogs in the county, which includes much of the city of Portland, there's enough barking and biting going on to keep a District Court judge busy one day a week.

The judges alternate the task of holding what has come to be known as "dog court."

Wednesday's dog session before Judge William Beers opened with Roman, a keeshond, facing a charge of biting a mailman on the shoe in August.

The dog's owner testified Roman doesn't bite without cause, but the judge found the owner guilty of keeping a vicious dog. The judge put Roman on probation for a year and delayed the sentence provided Roman is a good mutt for the next 12 months.

Miller May Step Down

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Internal troubles within the union may persuade Arnold Miller to step down as president of the United Mine Workers Union, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said Thursday.

"I am going to take some time off and go hunting and think about quitting," the newspaper quoted the 56-year-old Miller as saying.

"There's a real possibility I may decide to step down, maybe even before the convention."

Miller attended a meeting of the union's international executive board in Marion, Ill., on Monday night and encountered stiff opposition from a majority of the board members.

Miller said he would not rule out the chance he would quit his post before the 250,000-member union holds its constitutional convention Dec. 10 in Denver.

If Miller quits, the UMW constitution specifies he would be succeeded by the vice president, Sam Church.

Duke Calls For Boycott

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — The Duke of Buccleuch, descendant of a 17th century Scottish chieftain who fought against European domination, Thursday urged his fellow Britons to boycott everything French.

The duke, 56-year-old captain of the queen's bodyguard for Scotland, said everything "from Peugeots to perfume" should be boycotted in retaliation for French behavior in what is dubbed "the lamb war."

Canceling his order of a new French-made Citroen car and declaring that he will no longer drink French wine, the duke said his campaign answered France's "disgraceful and dishonorable behavior" in banning imports of English lamb in defiance of a European Common Market ruling.

The 9th Duke of Buccleuch (pronounced Buckloo) and Queensberry is one of Scotland's biggest landowners. He also is president of the Royal Scottish Agricultural Benevolent Institution.

Steinem Joins Protest

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Gloria Steinem, the editor of Ms. magazine, joined a protest march against a Hartford City Council candidate accused of assaulting his wife.

Miss Steinem, who was in the city Wednesday to speak at the YWCA, said the charge lodged against Antonio Gonzalez, 41, "is a serious crime, just as serious as if it took place in a public place among men."

Gonzalez is charged with second-degree assault. Police have accused him of punching and kicking his 32-year-old wife, Fanny DeJesus.

Carrying signs and chanting, "Stop violence now," about two dozen women marched through part of the city to urge the Democratic nominee to get out of the race.

Painting Donated To Museum

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Movie actor and television producer Robert Montgomery has donated Andrew Wyeth's "Chambered Nautilus" painting to the Wadsworth Atheneum.

Atheum director Tracy Atkinson said the painting is "probably the most important single painting by Wyeth not yet in a public collection."

The tempera on masonite painting, about two feet tall and four feet wide, is a portrait of Wyeth's mother-in-law during her last illness.

Merle James, whose portrait was done at her home in Cushing, Maine, is shown gazing out the window of her bedroom. A nautilus shell is at the foot of her bed.

"I did the picture right there in the room," Wyeth said in a previous description of the portrait. "And she would talk to me about her childhood in Connecticut. She was a great woman, one of those people who never grow old. It was a touching experience."

Tires, Tires Everywhere

MAUSTON, Wis. (AP) — Juneau County officials were tired of their tires.

But they could not find any way to get rid of the 100,000 old auto tires the county collected between 1971 and 1974 for a since-abandoned experiment in paving the runway at the Mauston-New Lisbon Airport.

Officials had been in a dilemma because of increasing complaints from residents who said the 100,000 tires stored at the airport were an eyesore and a breeding ground for rats and mosquitos.

Officials contacted several rubber recycling firms, but the best offer was to pay the county $20 a ton for tires that it would cost $22 a ton to ship.

This week, however, Tom Sikora, operator of the Neva Rubber Co. in Langlade County, agreed to bring his portable shredding machine to the airport and remove the tires for recycling. No money will change hands between Sikora and the county, officials said.

Al Anderson, the county agent who had been trying to get rid of the tires, announced that the agreement means the county will be "rid of a tiring headache."

Two Poisons Better Than One?

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Feisty crabs, shrimp and fish are thriving in polluted Newark Bay, where the ability of some poisons to neutralize each other may be reducing dangers to marine life, a Rutgers University zoologist said Thursday.

Are two poisons better for fish than one? Judith S. Weis, who is researching the effects of pollution on marine life, said, "We have found some cases where the effects of two pollutants are less than each one alone. But we can't generalize. While some chemicals may interact for the best, others won't."

She stressed that marine life problems can't be solved by "throwing more chemicals in the water."

For several decades, Newark Bay has been the dumping ground for mercury, zinc, cadmium, oil and various other toxic wastes.

"You might conclude that nothing can manage to live there. But a variety of organisms are thriving, and possibly, some of the antagonistic interactions of pollutants may be reducing the overall problems for some of the animals," the researcher said.

Sausage-Making Slatonites Gear Up For Sunday's Annual Feast

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

SLATON — German sausage — 4,600 pounds mixed by a 200-year-old recipe brought to this country a century ago — went on smoking racks here Thursday to be ready for the annual turkey and sausage feast Sunday in St. Joseph's Hall.

Members of St. Joseph's parish gathered at the hall for an all-day sausage-making session. Another crew was scheduled to stay up all night to be sure smoking fires stay just right for that perfect sausage taste.

Fifty-five turkeys will be cooked in 55 Slaton homes to be added to the sausage and all the trimmings, including home cooked breads and cakes, for the 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. meal which annually draws thousands of South Plains fans of German cooking.

A bazaar, featuring food booths as well as a country store, begins at 11 a.m. and closes at 4:30 p.m. in St. Joseph's School.

Six hundred pounds of sausage will be saved for the meal, with the remaining 4,000 all wrapped and ready for sale at $2.50 a pound. Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for youngsters.

When sausage first was added to the Thanksgiving menu, parish members brought in hand-cranked grinders and stuffers like those used for generations when making the recipe.

Then, a spring wurst fest added money for St. Joseph's School and raised a need for faster production to fill requests for South Plains wurst lovers.

Today, electricity does the grinding, mixing and stuffing to turn out more sausage faster.

Walter Heinrich and Robert Bednarz took time out from their chores to reminisce about early ways of making sausage, when farmers raised their own hogs and made use of "everything but the squeal."

Heinrich's mother made something called "pan rabbit" with part of the cooked head and liver mixed with whole wheat flour and shaped into loaves until sliced and fried for eating. Pan rabbit was about the only meat Heinrich recalls being stored in the ice box.

"We hung it (sausage) in the cellar for six months and ate the last without cooking, it was so cured."

Hams went into a wooden barrel with salt for about a month, then joined the sausage in the cellar for curing. Fat was rendered and stored for cooking grease.

Beef was hung high in the windmill, up "where the cats and dogs couldn't reach it," in cool weather. A lot of salt and pepper helped cure it and also "kept the flies away like they do jerky."

Butchering always happened at the Heinrichs when the children were out of school to help. If the day was cold enough, sausage was made that night. Otherwise, sausage-making happened the next day.

There was "quite a bunch of kids" at the Bednarz place where "swapping out" was the way to get the handle cranked on the meat grinders and sausage stuffers.

"We made ham and bacon, put it in brine until it cured. You couldn't put it in a metal barrel. The salt was strong and would eat it up."

Then, the ham and bacon went to the smoke house.

Bednarz recalls that his mother always made liver sausage — "some call it head cheese" — by cooking bones and taking off all the meat that wasn't used for sausage.

"We used to have a bunch of cows, chickens and hogs and did everything. Then, we got too busy being big farmers to take care of other things."

Bednarz remembers the days before freezers when meat clubs — 12 people going together to kill a beef — kept meat on the table without worry of spoilage.

Bednarz still makes sausage at home like the family used to, but now puts it in the freezer after smoking just like everybody else.

Heinrich has changed his home sausage recipe to accommodate his deer hunting. Forty per cent of his meat for sausage is venison.

The sausage made Thursday is the classic recipe handed down for generations, made in 100-pound batches by a time-honored recipe that keeps South Plains lovers of German cooking headed for Slaton each November.

Polanski Movie Promises To Be Box-Office Hit

PARIS (AP) — Roman Polanski is back in the headlines, but this time it's a happy story: the fugitive director's new movie "Tess," dedicated to his slain wife Sharon Tate, opened Wednesday with promises of critical and box-office success.

Polanski's latest movie, faithful to the 1891 Thomas Hardy novel "Tess of the d'Urbervilles," is a lushly photographed, gently told story of star-crossed love, youthful mistakes and miserable penance, doomed returns to innocence, and, above all, honor.

The film is what the 46-year-old, Polish-born director calls a "return to the basics, the primary emotions."

It also represents a break from the earlier cinematic experimentation and often random violence that characterized such Polanski successes as "Repulsion," "Rosemary's Baby," and "Chinatown."

"Tess" won critical acclaim from the French press after a private showing Tuesday night, and capacity crowds stood in the rain Wednesday on the Champs Elysee, just around the corner from Polanski's Paris apartment, to be among the first to view the movie.

Within minutes after the final credit line "to Sharon," who Polanski says loved the Hardy novel, many women in the audience were in tears for the vulnerable Tess, played by Nastassia Kinski.

In 1969 members of a cult headed by Charles Manson murdered Miss Tate.

In 1978 Polanski was convicted of having unlawful sexual intercourse with a 13-year-old girl, and then fled to France — where he holds citizenship — to avoid being sentenced by a California court. He has said he will return to the United States some day to face the court.

Polanski has remained out of the public eye since arriving in France but re-emerged for a flurry of recent press interviews which marked the opening of "Tess."

"The director calls 'Tess,' which cost $12 million and took nine months to film, a 'spectacle' and waves off any talk of a Polanski style, saying 'I make movies. I didn't try to impose any style on 'Tess.'"

"Ideas and styles that once seemed avant-garde and modern now seem to me old-fashioned," Polanski said. "I want to go back to the simplicity and essence of human relationships."

"Tess" is the story of the beautiful daughter of an impoverished drunk who suddenly discovers he is descended from blue-blood wealth.

"It is a love story, and love stories always have a bad end," Polanski said.

Recipients are chosen by a committee of faculty, staff and ex-students, and awards are presented annually during Homecoming Week.

Conley has been employed by the university for 18 years in the athletic department. He came to Texas Tech in 1961 as assistant football coach on JT King's staff. He became offensive line coach when King was named athletic director in 1969. He accepted the position of assistant AD in 1974.

Mrs. Daniels started her career at Texas Tech in 1958 as secretary in the dean of student life office. She later

More Officials Named In Precinct Lines Suit

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Officials of two more South Plains counties were named Thursday in federal lawsuits charging they have drawn commissioner precinct lines in a manner that dilutes the voting strength of some of the counties' residents.

In legal action initiated by the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project in San Antonio, three Dawson County voters and two Lynn County voters have filed class action petitions against their respective counties alleging violation of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision on the one person-one vote standard for elections.

Luis Gonzales, Thomas D. Gomez and Eligio Vera are asking U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward to order Dawson County election officials to devise and implement a "constitutionally valid" apportionment of the county's four commissioner precincts.

The same relief is being sought by Mary Helen Lamb and Irene Riojas against Lynn County officials.

Both suits were filed as class actions "on behalf of all the residents" of Lynn and Dawson Counties who have allegedly been denied "a vote of equal weight to the votes of other residents of the counties." The petitions were prepared by SVREP Director of Litigation Roland Rios.

The action against Dawson County representatives alleges that in 1970 the county's total population was 16,604 and each commissioner precinct should contain approximately 4,151 voters under the one person-one vote principle.

But, the suit contends, Precinct 3 in Dawson County includes 5,140 voters, almost 24 percent more than the "ideal," while Precinct 1 contains 2,966 persons, or 28.5 percent fewer voters than it should.

Lynn County election officials are accused of placing 3,408 voters in Precinct 1 of that county. That number of voters, the suit contends, is almost 50 percent more than the ideal of 2,277 determined by Lynn County's 1970 total population of 9,107 persons.

Meanwhile, Precinct 4 of Lynn County, according to the suit, has only 1,811 voters, or about 21 percent fewer than the ideal.

Both petitions also ask Woodward to issue injunctions halting elections in the counties until he has determined whether the one person-one vote principle has been violated.

Suits were filed here Monday charging Cochran and Crosby counties with similar violations of the one person-one vote principle.

Some $60 million in financial aid was received by nearly 60 percent of University of Michigan students on the Ann Arbor campus in 1978-79.

United Way Chairman Worried

It's scheduled as the "victory report" for the 1979 United Way campaign, but whether today's noon report at Memorial Civic Center will be victorious remains in doubt, according to campaign chairman Joe Price.

At the third report meeting Oct. 24, campaign workers reported $1.4 or 81 percent of the $1.8 goal.

"We are frankly worried about the lack of activity in a number of campaign divisions," Price said.

Last year, for the first time in several years, an additional report meeting was necessary to complete the campaign.

Mount Vernon was originally part of a royal grant to Lord Culpepper, who in 1674 deeded 5,000 acres to Nicholas Spencer and John Washington, great grandfather of George Washington.

"After the budget division volunteers worked so hard and so long this spring to come up with a budget that increased only seven percent despite addition of a fourth day nursery, we would be remiss to let this campaign fall short," Price said.

"The increase and the goal reflect bare needs of the agencies, all of which are providing services to our citizens day in and day out the year around," Price said.

"Lubbock citizens have never failed to meet our community obligations through United Way," he noted, "and the campaign cabinet is dedicated to the proposition that it won't happen this year."

Volunteers attending today's meeting will be entertained by the Sierra Singers from Monterey High School and by organist Betty Tolley.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. Five months ago, we purchased a six-month savings certificate in the amount of $33,000 which was the proceeds from the sale of our former home. The certificate is paying 9.409 percent interest. We are withdrawing the interest each month to pay part of our rent. New six-month certificates now pay much higher interest. When this certificate matures in one more month, would we be smart to renew for another six months at the same interest rate we are now getting? Or would it be wiser to use the interest from a $65,000 five-year certificate to help pay our rent?

A. Back off a minute. Here's some good news for you. When your present six-month certificate comes due, there will be no reason for you to renew it at the interest rate you are now getting. You'll be able to put your $33,000 into a six-month certificate paying whatever the prevailing rate for such certificates happens to be one month from now. No one can tell you now what that rate will be. Those rates change each week. But, because new six-month certificates are — as I write this — paying better than 12.6 percent, it's a safe guess that you'll get a good deal better than 9.4 percent one month from now.

So, when your present six-month certificate matures, make sure your money goes into a new one at the top rate then available. If the bank or savings and loan association with which you are now doing business doesn't offer the top rate, look elsewhere. It pays to shop around.

Major Commercial Banks Follow Suit, Raise Prime Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Major U.S. banks on Thursday followed Citibank's move late last week to a record 15 1/4 percent prime lending rate, seen as an indicator of interest rates generally.

Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank, and Chase Manhattan, ranked No. 3, were among those which Thursday announced 1/4 point increases in their base rate for corporate loans.

By late Thursday all of the 15 largest commercial banks had gone to the new rate except Morgan Guaranty, the fifth largest ranked by deposits.

The prime rate — which is the lowest interest banks charge their most credit-worthy business customers — stood at 12 1/2 percent in early September. But it has been rapidly increasing in recent weeks as the Federal Reserve made funds more costly in money markets as part of its anti-inflation strategy.

Prime Rate Boost Cautioned Against

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, chairman of the House Banking Committee, has called on the nation's second-largest bank not to "mechanically" raise its prime lending rate to 16 percent.

He sent a telegram to Walter B. Wriston, chairman of Citicorp, asking that its Citibank subsidiary "exercise care and judgment" when it reviews its prime rate today.

He said a formula normally used by Citibank in setting its prime rate would boost the interest charged its most credit-worthy corporate customers to 16 percent from the present record level of 15 1/2 percent.

New York, N.Y. 10005. Ask for a copy of the Investors Service Bureau Directory. In recent years, many brokerage firms have abandoned small investors. A goodly number, however, still take small buy and sell orders. The exchange's directory lists the names and home office addresses of those that do.

Q. You sometimes mention income tax "brackets" and the percentage of taxes levied. Does this refer to the percentage of tax paid on a person's total income or on his taxable income?

A. Neither. It refers to the percentage tax bite on the top portion or a person's taxable income.

Let's say that you are a married couple, filing a joint income tax return and using the "tax rate schedules" to figure your tax. Say that, after all exemptions, deductions and credits, you had taxable income of $20,000 in 1978.

On that amount, the federal income tax was $3,260, plus 28 percent of the amount over $19,200. Your total tax was $3,484 — $3,260 plus $224.

Now the $3,484 tax is 17.42 percent of your $20,000 taxable income. But you're in a 28 percent bracket — because that's the bite that comes out of your top earnings.

Q. I am 25 and due to inherit stocks and bonds, which I do not understand. Would you suggest turning these investments over to the trust department of a bank which would handle things for me for an annual fee?

A. Yes, I would. I also suggest you sit down with a trust officer at the bank and a good attorney and work out a trust or advisory arrangement suited for you. And I urge you to put some time and effort into learning about your investments. You're inheriting responsibility, along with wealth. + + +

Supply Decline May Curb Interest Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's basic money supply fell $1.3 billion in the latest reporting week, the Federal Reserve said Thursday. The decline, combined with recent downward revisions in the money supply figures, may mean a halt to the upward spiral of interest rates, analysts said.

"I think it will lead the Fed to stabilize its monetary stance and perhaps even ease off slightly," said David Jones, an analyst at Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. "It means short-term money-market rates and other interest rates should stabilize in the weeks ahead."

The Federal Reserve has been taking steps in recent weeks to boost interest rates as a way of making money more difficult to obtain and stem inflation.

"The money supply numbers are a favorable portent in the fight against inflation," said Lawrence Kudlow, chief economist at Bear, Stearns & Co. "The money supply growth is falling, and that's a positive sign on the anti-inflation front."

The Federal Reserve said the basic money supply measure, M1 — cash in circulation and checking accounts — fell to a seasonally adjusted average of $377.5 billion in the week ended Oct. 24 from $378.8 billion in the previous week.

The broader measure, M2 — M1 plus most savings accounts — fell $1.2 billion in the week, from $938.9 billion to $937.7 billion. The Fed said last week that mistakes in reporting of the M1 figures had skewed them in recent weeks by an amount estimated by analysts to be about $4.4 billion, and the Fed revised the figures downward accordingly.

As a result, rather than the significant growth in the money supply which had been originally indicated, M1 has apparently stabilized in recent weeks, within the targets for monetary growth set by the Fed.

"It looks like the month of October has fallen comfortably into the Fed's growth range," said Jones. "Since the month of May it's the first well-behaved month."

Although analysts said the slowing of monetary growth might ease pressure on interest rates, most major banks have followed Citibank's lead in raising their prime rates to a record 15 1/4 percent. Most other banks have a 15 percent prime, which is charged by banks on loans to top corporate customers.

Jones, however, said it seemed unlikely the prime would rise above current levels in the near future. "I think it's going to hold at the 15 or 15 1/4 percent level for a while," he said.

Kudlow said he expects an increase in another key rate, the discount rate, charged by the Fed on loans to member banks. He said the rate would rise both to catch up with increases in other rates and in an attempt to stifle the amount of money banks were borrowing from the Fed — and adding to the money supply.

Member-bank borrowings from the Fed rose to $2.87 billion in the latest reporting week from $2.8 billion the previous week.

"Those member-bank borrowings are way too high," said Kudlow. "You've got to raise the discount rate."

Other monetary indicators for the week ended Wednesday included:

The Fed increased its holdings of government securities by $1.5 billion.

Federal funds, the interest rate on short-term loans of uncommitted reserve funds among banks, averaged 15.71 percent, up from 15.14 percent the previous week.

The three-month Treasury bill rate averaged 12.13 percent, off from 12.00 percent.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported commercial and industrial loans at major New York City banks rose $109 million in the week ended Wednesday, compared with a rise of $123 million a week before and a gain of $152 million a year ago.

Net borrowed reserves totaled $2.51 billion, down from $2.64 billion a week earlier.

Gold Price Makes Sharp Drop; Dollar Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold prices fell by $12.50 an ounce in late New York trading Thursday as jitters over the U.S. Treasury's auction of 1.25 million ounces put the market on edge.

Dealers said reports of "disappointing" bids spread through the New York market around mid-afternoon.

"The market started collapsing after that," said one trader. Another said gold prices fell by as much as $20 an ounce before recovering some of that loss near the close.

Results of Thursday's auction had not been announced in Washington by the time most trading houses wound down for the day.

Meanwhile, the dollar had a mixed day on international currency markets. It hit its highest level in about 18 months against the Japanese yen but fell against the West German mark and the Swiss franc.

In late New York trading, gold fell to $368 an ounce, down $12.50 from its close of $380.50 on Wednesday, according to Republic National Bank. On the New York Commodity Exchange, the price of a November contract fell $13.50 to $367.20.

In Europe, where trading ends earlier, gold dropped $4 an ounce in Zurich and just $1.25 in London.

Gold in Zurich, Europe's leading bullion mart, closed at $378 a troy ounce, down from $382 at Wednesday's close. In London it finished at $380.50 an ounce, compared with $381.75 Wednesday.

Thursday's gold auction was the first under the Treasury's new policy of more flexibility in sale dates and amounts of gold offered. The Treasury formerly held rigidly to a monthly schedule of offering 750,000 ounces for sale. The change is aimed at slowing speculation in the metal.

In currency markets prospects of a worsening trade deficit for Japan helped push the dollar to its highest rate against the yen in 18 months. The dollar closed in Tokyo at 238.05 yen, compared with 237.75 at Wednesday's close. In the later New York market, the dollar closed at 237.85 yen up from 236.50 Wednesday.

In a bid to stop the yen's slide, the Bank of Japan announced after Japanese markets closed that it is hiking the interest rate it charges private financial institutions from 5.25 to 6.25 percent, starting Friday. But most foreign exchange operators said they anticipated the move.

Other dollar rates in New York, as of 4 p.m.: 1.7988 West German marks, up from 1.7968 Wednesday; 4.2155 French francs, down from 4.2160; 1.6495 Swiss francs, up from 1.6480; 1.1858 Canadian dollars to the U.S. dollar, up from 1.1849. The British pound cost $2.0695, less than Wednesday's rate of $2.0792.

Foreign exchange dealing in Europe generally was quiet, with several markets including Milan and Paris closed.

Raiders Believe Way Down Inside

THERE WILL BE NO looking past Texas Tech for Fred Akers come Saturday afternoon. No chance.

Akers, whose once-beaten and eighth-ranked Texas Longhorns host the Red Raiders at 2 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium, isn't concerned at the present time about the following week's opponent — the first-place Houston Cougars.

The Houston-Texas clash will have a definite bearing on the SWC standings. If Houston wins, the Cougars have another little pretty much in the bag. A Texas win leaves the Horns in good shape — if someone can deck Arkansas between now and the end of the regular season.

But today and Saturday, Akers is suffering from Tech on the brain.

"Anyone who knows anything about football wouldn't look past Texas Tech," Akers announced. "We've learned through past experiences with Tech that this will be one of the most physical games we play all year. This football game is the biggest game of the year for us because we only have one loss. We can't afford another."

Akers, who coached for a brief period at Lubbock High School, conceded that the Red Raider offensive attack presents problems that even Oklahoma didn't offer against the UT defense.

THEY (THE RED RAIDERS) are a much more power-oriented offense, Akers said. "They have the skill and patience to make things happen. They come right at you and they have ability at the skill positions."

As is the case with most of Tech's opponents, senior fullback James Hadnot has drawn the attention of the head coach.

"You have to be concerned with an outstanding athlete such as James Hadnot," Akers added. "He is a fine football player. He is very hard to bring down and he can break tackles in the open field."

Ron Reeves also presents problems for us. He is different from most quarterbacks we've faced this year because not only is he a strong runner, but he is also a strong passer. Tech has the ability to come up with the big play."

The Longhorns have been made a 14-point favorite in Saturday's clash, and there is no question why they shouldn't be favored. They are 5-1. Tech is 3-3-1. The Longhorns have beaten Oklahoma and Missouri. Tech has beaten New Mexico and Rice.

TECH HEAD COACH Rex Dockery said something Thursday that pretty much sums up the feeling the Red Raiders have going into the game. He said, "Before you can win a big game, you have to believe deep down inside that you are capable of winning. Our players have that belief way down inside."

Dockery wouldn't make any predictions about the outcome of the contest, but I'll go ahead and stick my neck out and go with the Red Raiders.

I have nothing to base my prediction on other than I believe way down inside, too. This is the season for the Red Raiders and they will lay it on the line in Austin. The score? How about Tech 13, Texas 10.

Predicting the outcome of the Houston-Arkansas tilt last week allowed me to go four-for-four. My season totals are now 29 of 43 for an average of .675. That .700-mark is within reach.

HOUSTON AT TEXAS CHRISTIAN

It's likely the Cougars will be down this weekend following the big victory over the Razorbacks. But Bill Yeoman would have to leave half his squad at home for the Horned Frogs to have a chance at any upset.

TCU has played some good football the past four weeks. The Frogs have beaten Tulane and Rice and lost tough games to Arkansas and Baylor. An upset is within the realm of possibility. It's just highly unlikely. Houston 28, TCU 10.

ARKANSAS AT RICE

There won't be any let downs in Houston Saturday, either. The Hogs can't afford to lose again and they'll be taking out a little bit of anger on the Owls.

There isn't a heck of a lot you can say about the Owls. They've won one game this year and that's been about it. Rice's schedule is one of the toughest in the nation and playing the Razorbacks adds to its difficulty. Arkansas 30, Rice 7.

SOUTHERN METHODIST AT TEXAS A&M

Tom Wilson can look on the bright side this week. Even if that unknown informant resurfaces and gives a few game secrets to SMU, the Aggies will still be able to corral the Mustangs.

Wilson will be the first to admit his first full year as A&M head coach has been a strange one. It's been stranger at SMU.

Would someone out there answer one question for me, though? What ever happened to Mustang Mania? Did it just up and die? Texas A&M 24, Southern Methodist 10.

Plainsmen Hope Ponies' Streak Continues Tonight

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Nine years and three coaches later, Coronado is still searching for that elusive win over Monterey.

Not since Wayne Wilsher coached the Mustangs to a victory over the Plainsmen back in 1970 has CHS managed to KO its city rival. Nope, Jimmy Keeling didn't do it, Don King never could and Jack Quarles is batting .000 against James Odom.

It's not a dry spell anymore, it's an out-and-out dust bowl.

"Our kids were playing stickhorses and guns the last time Coronado won," commented Quarles. "Most of them were seven years old. They don't even know what a win over Monterey is."

Coronado will attempt to scratch that nine-year itch and snap the losing streak tonight when it meets Monterey in a vital District 4-AAAA matchup. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Lowrey Field.

Both teams have everything to win and everything to lose in tonight's contest. Coronado and Monterey both are unbeaten in conference play at 1-0 and 2-0, respectively. A loss by either team would mean the best it could finish in loop play is in a tie for first place.

"If we (Monterey) lose, that puts Coronado in the drivers seat," said Odom. "Of course, they'd still have to beat Plainview and Hereford to win it outright. But for us, we'd have to beat Hereford (in two weeks) and then hope to get some help."

"And in all my years of coaching, I've never got any help from another team."

Monterey, fresh off a 26-0 win over Lubbock High last week, enters the contest as the eighth-ranked team in the state by one wire-service poll. The Plainsmen own a 7-1 record for the year. Meanwhile, Coronado, off to one of its best starts ever, is 5-2 overall.

Along with leading the district in both total offense (351.8 yards per game), the Plainsmen also possess the top defensive unit in the land (a 127.3 average). Coronado is at 209.9 offensively after a poor showing two weeks ago in its 7-6 win over Lubbock and 181.9 on defense.

But Quarles and Odom will both tell you that those stats along with 25 cents will get about a half cup of coffee at Sambo's.

Quarles believes the Ponies must — at all costs — stop Monterey running back Willie Johnson. The MHS senior is the top runner in the district, with 1,172 yards on 197 carries. He has also scored 10 TDs on the ground.

"The thing about Johnson, though, is you can't get hold of him," said Quarles. "And if you can't get hold of him, you can't bring him down. He's a very, very fine back."

Last week against Lubbock, Johnson turned in the fifth best performance ever recorded by a Hub City schoolboy. He carried the ball 35 times for a remarkable 249 yards.

Coronado must also stop the passing of MHS quarterback Kent Potts, the district's top thrower. Potts, who also doubles as a defensive end and linebacker, has hit 29 of 60 passes for 557 yards, a 19.2 average.

"They've got a lot of different ways to hurt you," noted Quarles.

D SPORTS

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Friday, Nov. 2, 1979

But Coronado isn't totally unarmed. Junior quarterback Alan Harp, the district's third leading runner with 373 yards, will operate the Coronado offense. Not only is he a running threat, Harp has also hit 28 of 80 passes for 331 yards. John Lord, who has caught 15 passes, has been Harp's number one target most of the year.

Coronado took last week off and was able to recover from a rash of early-season minor injuries, Quarles said. However, Monterey will be without the services of running back Dwayne Smith, who injured his right leg against the Westerners.

LHS AT HEREFORD

Lubbock High was eliminated from the district chase last week by Monterey, so what are the Westerners going to do now?

Hopefully win their last two games, commented coach Army Salinas.

"Let's face it," said Salinas, "we're out of the district race. But we can still salvage a respectable year."

The Westerners are 2-4 overall and 0-2 in conference play, while Hereford, tonight's opponent for LHS, is 4-3 for the year and 0-1 in loop action after losing a heart-breaker to Plainview last week 27-21 on the last play of the game.

"You have to realize that Hereford still has a chance (at a district title)," continued Salinas. "So they have a lot more to play for than we do."

Top players for Hereford include running back Joe Mitchem (91 carries for 342 yards), and quarterback Derek Dirks (40 of 75 completions for 541 yards). Also expected to see plenty of action is quarterback Mike Wartes, who came off the bench last week and hit 7 of 9 passes.

The Westerners will be led by the passing combination of Gilbert Cuevas to end Larry Walker. Walker is the leading receiver in the district with 15 catches for 284 yards and a pair of TDs.

Kush Denies Grant Involvement

PHOENIX, ARIZ. (AP) — A Fallen Angel Foundation board member backed Frank Kush Thursday as the former Arizona State University coach denied any involvement with a group that provided cash gifts to football players.

"Frank, as far as I know, had nothing to do with starting the group," said Bob Johnson, former graduate assistant under Kush. "To my knowledge, none of the ASU coaches had anything to do with starting it. Rick was the instigator."

Rick Lynch said Wednesday that Kush requested that he establish the Fallen Angel Foundation to aid non-scholarship football players, and $6,500 in cash was given.

Kush, fired Oct. 13 for an alleged attempt to cover up an assault on a former punter, denied requesting "any help for walk-ons or any kind of Angels."

"I can't be positive nothing like that went on," the former coach added. "But I can assure you it went on without my knowledge."

Johnson said, "Frank did know something about it, but he knew very little and never specifically asked us to help anybody."

The NCAA is investigating the foundation, alleged mishandling of free football tickets and other unusual aspects of the football program, Athletic Director Fred Miller has confirmed.

Johnson said he and Lynch were aware of NCAA rules against providing financial aid to athletes unless it also is provided to other students.

"We knew what we had to do to make it legal," Johnson told the Phoenix Gazette. "Once the thing got going good we were going to make loans available to students other than athletes. But we never got the thing going that well."

The foundation was formed in August, 1978 and became inactive a year later, Lynch said.

Lynch, a Phoenix-area drag-racing promoter, has been accused by Kush of disrupting the Arizona State football program, but Lynch denies the charges. Lynch produced several player witnesses to Kush's alleged punch to former punter Kevin Rutledge in October, 1978.

Rutledge has sued Kush, Miller and Arizona State for $1.1 million, complaining about the punch and being hounded off the team. He has transferred to the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

Miller removed Kush as coach shortly after the players came forward and assistant coaches charged that Kush asked them to lie for him.

Nolan Ryan Heads Baseball Free Agents

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Nolan Ryan of the California Angels is the likely target of the most vigorous bidding war in baseball's free agent draft set for today at the plush Plaza Hotel.

Ryan headlines this year's crop of more than 40 veteran players who have declared for free agency, hoping to mine some of the gold that baseball has distributed since the re-entry system began in 1976.

By unofficial count, 34 players have signed contracts worth more than $1 million after being claimed in the free agent draft which replaced baseball's more restrictive reserve system. It was the challenge of a pair of pitchers, Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally, who played the entire 1975 season without signing contracts, that eventually shattered the reserve system in the courts.

The first millionaire created by the re-entry draft was relief pitcher Bill Campbell, who signed with the Boston Red Sox on Nov. 6, 1976, two days after the first draft.

There is an interesting mix of pitchers and veteran players available in this year's draft.

Besides Ryan, pitchers who will attract their share of attention include reliever Al Hrbosky of the Kansas City Royals, Dave Goltz of the Minnesota Twins, Fred Norman of the Cincinnati Reds, Don Stanhouse of the Baltimore Orioles, Rick Wise of the Cleveland Indians and Rudy May of the Montreal Expos.

Also available are veteran sluggers Bob Watson of the Boston Red Sox, Tony Perez of the Montreal Expos, Willie Horton of the Seattle Mariners. Two longtime New York players, Ed Kranepool of the Mets and Roy White of the Yankees, are in the draft pool. Second baseman Joe Morgan of the Cincinnati Reds and shortstop Fred Patek of the Kansas City Royals, both important regulars on recent division winning teams, also are up for grabs.

Merely drafting a player today means very little, since all clubs will do at that time is claim negotiating rights. Each player may be drafted by 13 clubs and his old team can also retain negotiating rights to him. That creates a maximum of 14 teams bidding for players.

Until last year, no player had returned to his original club after participating in the draft. That trend ended when outfielder Al Bumby signed with Baltimore and pitcher Larry Gura stayed with Kansas City.

There seems little chance that will happen with Ryan. Negotiations between the pitcher and Buzzie Bavasi, who does the contract work for Gene Autry's club, have been bitter and nonproductive. The Reds' Morgan also has said that he wants to move to a National League contender in California, seemingly ending any chance he'll remain with Cincinnati.

The Toronto Blue Jays own the opening selection of the draft followed by the New York Mets, with the 26 major league teams choosing in reverse order of their 1979 won-lost records.

Switzer Accused Of Tampering

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Oklahoma football coach Barry Switzer angrily denied reports aired during the week of his team's annual game with Oklahoma State that he talked with prospective Cowboy recruits while a guest of the rival university early this season.

"Anyone who said that is a liar," Switzer said. "It's funny that all this should come out this week." Switzer said.

Switzer said he did not believe Oklahoma State Coach Jimmy Johnson — a long-time friend and former Sooner aide — was responsible for the reports, published Wednesday by the Tulsa Tribune and aired on Oklahoma City radio programs.

An Oklahoma City television executive and mothers of two of the high school players involved supported Switzer's account of what happened at the game, and Johnson termed the controversy "a big to-do about a small thing."

Switzer attended Oklahoma State's season opener against North Texas State in Stillwater Sept. 8, a week before Oklahoma's first game. Switzer obtained four stadium tickets from Johnson, who agreed the visit would not be considered a scouting trip.

Switzer said he obtained more tickets to accommodate his party and left the original four passes at the ticket office.

"We took a helicopter to the game, went to the stadium and came up with nine more tickets from an OSU backer, who got them at the ticket window," Switzer said. "Then we all went in and watched the football game. We left the stadium when it was over with, got back into the helicopter and went back home."

We did not talk to those prospects," Switzer said. "We did not talk to the mothers of any prospects."

Switzer said the group included himself, his son, assistant coach Merv Johnson and his son, television station KTVY general manager Lee Alan Smith and two other persons.

Smith confirmed Switzer's account. "We went straight to those seats and sat down," Smith said. "At halftime we went down to look at the coaches' offices, but we couldn't get in. We headed back to our seats and there were a couple of stops for autographs, mostly with North Texas State fans. We came back, the game ended and we left. He (Switzer) didn't stop to talk to any recruits."

"It's outlandish," Smith said. "It's a shame when someone in the public eye is falsely accused of something like that."

The mothers of two football players denied Switzer contacted their sons.

"It did not happen," said the mother of Tulsa Union High School lineman Mike Henley. "Mike did not even see Coach Switzer at the game. Oh, he knew he was there. But he didn't visit with him or even say a word."

"I know for a fact he (Switzer) did not talk to Chuck, and Chuck sat there through the entire game," said the mother of another Tulsa Union player, Chuck Dandridge.

The high school players also were guests of Oklahoma State.

The Oklahoma State coach said he contacted the Big Eight Conference office about the incident.

Idalou Jumps From Pan Into Fire

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Playing football in District 4AA is kind of like being one of those floor-mounted punching bags. Everytime you're punched down by one big game, you've got to bounce back up for another.

Every week it seems, somebody's saying, "Yep, this is the big game of the year for us." Then the next week it's the same story.

Take Idalou, for example. The Wildcats had to prepare for Muleshoe in their last pre-district game. After a week off, they faced Floydada and now they have to deal with Abernathy.

The Antelopes haven't had any cake-walk, either. They opened the district season with Tulia, one of the preseason favorites, and then played Lockney, a strong defensive team.

But, for now anyway, everybody's sights are on Idalou at Abernathy.

"Right now this is the big game of the year for us," said Wildcat boss Tom Ritchey. "And I know it's a big one for Abernathy. This is the most important game of the year, right now."

Idalou's got balance, in a word. With running backs Ruben Reyes (averaging 96 yards a game and having scored 68 points this year) and Alan Emery (61 points scored) lining up behind quarterback Brad DeBusk (36 of 72 passes for 75 yards a game), the Wildcats don't leave you many places to hide.

"They are so quick and so balanced offensively," said Abernathy boss Larry Aldridge. "They run inside and outside equally well and they throw more than they have since I've been here. Shoot, they'll throw on first and 10 now. You can't overload against them."

Abernathy is tough in its own right, too. The Antelopes sport Tony Heath, a fine passer when his receivers are catching the ball. Heath has completed 37 of 95 passes this year for an 80-yard average. That comes out to almost 18 yards a completion.

As if he weren't enough, and against Idalou he won't be, Abernathy has explosive Sylvester Dunn running at tailback and averaging 122 yards a game. Figure out his stats on a per-carry basis and you're looking at an average of almost 6.5.

"They've got a tremendous amount of talent," affirmed Ritchey. "They can go for six any time. They also have the defense to just shut us down."

Aldridge isn't so confident. "I'll tell you what," he said. "We have got to execute flawlessly to stay in this ballgame. We have a chance to win, but we'll have to play exceptionally well."

That's not the only big matchup on the South Plains by any means. Another is Meadow at Klondike, a key District 3-B West game.

On one hand, Klondike has to look a heavy favorite. The Cougars beat Wilson 24-8 last week and the week before the Mustangs downed Meadow 17-7.

But you can never count a Meadow balleub-out, not when they're packing the firepower of Eliseo Curiel and Lance Bingham.

Curiel is averaging 150 yards a game this year while Bingham has hit 36 of his 95 passes for an 86 yard average.

Bingham is also the area's leading scorer with 93 points. Curiel has tallied 64.

Klondike counters with the combo of Todd Airhart and Lonnie Ferguson. Ferguson, who gained 215 yards on 15 carries for three TDs against Wilson last week, is averaging 123 yards a game. Airhart adds another 76 through the passing lanes on 35 of 64 completions.

All tolled, the Cougars are outplaying their opponents 350 to 118 yards per game. Meadow's stats are 310-152.

"Right now it's our biggest game of the week," said Klondike coach Mickey Finley. It wasn't last week.

Asked to compare Wilson and this week's foe Meadow, Finley said "Those two teams are about as even as you can get. Meadow's got a little better offense but Wilson's got a stronger defense."

Of-tonight's pairing, Finley said "I think we're going to have to score some points. It'll take a good evening offensively, we'll have to score a couple of touchdowns to beat them."

The fact that a win tonight would seal up the conference title has to be a big factor for the Cougars.

On the other hand, "We've got to win this ballgame to stay in the district race," says Meadow boss Rick Hulett. "If they win, they've got it locked up."

Hulett disagreed with Finley's comparison of his team and Wilson. "We feel like we're two touchdowns better than Wilson," he said. "We're not big, but we like to play. These kids'll hurt you."

Hagerman Gears For Crucial Game

(Special) — Nobody has declared it so, but unofficially this is district championship week in Southeastern New Mexico.

District titles will definitely be decided in two of the four school football leagues in the southeastern corner of New Mexico, an upset of major proportions could settle another one and the stage can be set for a big conference-deciding blowout next week in the fourth one.

Undeclared and second-ranked Hagerman will be seeking a measure of revenge tonight when it invades Tatum in the game that will determine who will be wearing the District 4-A crown in 1979. Both teams are 1-0 after wins over Cloudcroft in the three-team league and both assured of advancing to the postseason playoffs, since the 1-2 teams in each league make the playoffs in the state.

Hagerman won the Class A state championship a year ago, but it made it to the playoffs as the No. 2 team in 4-A after Tatum ended the Bobcats' string of district championships in 1978. Hagerman, whose explosive offense is centered around the running of brothers Eddie and Oscar Medrano, Ray Quiroz and Casey Shaw, rates as the overwhelming favorite to clinch the conference honors this fall.

But then the Bobcats were the favorites last year when Coach Kerry Scott's Tatum Coyotes stepped in to deliver a knockout punch in the district showdown 12 calendar pages ago.

The District 4-AA championship will be determined in a shootout between Lea County rivals Jal and Eunice. This is one game that doesn't need any added fuel in the form of district titles to make it a big one each year.

"The shootout at the OK Corral is coming up," Eunice Coach Ed Davis summed up this Friday night's traditional clash between his own Cardinals and David Fouts' Panthers in Jal.

Both Eunice and Jal are 2-0 in district play. Regardless of which team wins Friday, both advance to the Class AA playoffs.

Carlsbad, relegated to a darkhorse role in preseason voting in District 4-AAAA, could see up a district championship this week, but it would have to do it against Clovis, only the defending district and state champion and every-one's choice to pluck another 4-AAAA crown this fall.

Dave Perini's Cavemen struggled to a 1-5 record in the non-district portion of the schedule, but have come on strong in the last two weeks to rip Roswell Goddard (34-7) and Hobbs (43-18) and could be in peak form for the invasion of Eric Roanhaus' Wildcats.

Carlsbad has gotten to the state playoffs each of the last four years, but each time the Cavemen have gone as 4-AAAA's runner-up team. This time Perini would like to see his charges go in as the district's No. 1 hope.

"A lot of times in the past we've unconsciously thought, 'oh well, if we lose to Clovis, we can still beat Roswell the next week and make the playoffs,'" Perini said about this week's clash with Clovis. "I'm tired of that. I want to be in the playoffs as district champion."

Any number of possibilities still exist in District 4-AAA, but the one a lot of people are betting on is that Portales and Tucumcari will meet for the league title a week from this Friday. But first, undefeated and No. 1-rated Tucumcari must clear a big hurdle — namely an Artesia Bulldog team that has won four triple-A state championships and five 4-AAA crowns since stepping down from the AAAA ranks five years ago.

Portales became the first team to hand Mike Phipps' Artesians a district setback in 4-AAA with a 10-0 victory last week. This week Tommy Gruber's Portales Rams can take still another step toward the 4-AAA title when they visit a Lovington team that still has a chance of getting into the championship picture.

"It was totally a team effort," Gruber said about the Rams' sterling performance against Artesia. "We can't afford to let down any. We worked real hard for this one and we're going to work harder next week."

And that could mean bad news for all other 4-AAA title hopefuls.

Matadors' Kelley Not Overconfident

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Dunbar football coach Van Jefferson pushed aside his plate, took a deep breath and rose to his feet.

"There's no need for me to lie to you folks," Jefferson said to the people gathered at the 50-Yard Line Wednesday for the weekly coaches press conference. "Estacado has some super people and a super team — but the best team doesn't always win.

"And I guarantee you," he added. "We aren't going to lay down."

And Jefferson has good reason to be concerned. Dunbar will attempt to do Saturday what no other Class AAA team has been able to do all year — beat Estacado.

Estacado coach Louis Kelley agreed with his counterpart. The state's sixth-ranked Class AAA Matadors are going to have their hands full when they tangle with the Panthers this Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. at Lowrey Field.

"I coached over at Dunbar for 14 years," said Kelley, "and I know what this game means to them. They might be 1-6 right now, but if they beat us on Saturday — it'll make their season.

"It was the exact same situation when we played them last year," said Kelley. "We were 6-1 and they were 1-6 but at halftime we were only ahead 6-0.

"Then in the second half," he added almost apologetically, "we got a couple of scores.

Actually, the Mats got three more TD's to make the final score 28-0. Tailback Kelvin White scored three touchdowns to lead the Estacado parade.

"Everybody's got to be ready to play," said Kelley. "We're not going into this thing overconfident.

"I'm proud of my kids," said Dunbar's Jefferson. "They're trying and they're improving. We want to win this game."

"It's going to be a dogfight," said Kelley. "It always is when these two teams play."

And, as Jefferson will tell you, the best team doesn't always come out on top. What's that old line?
"On any given day..."

Washington Lawyer Buys Baltimore Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — The sale of the Baltimore Orioles to Washington attorney Edward Bennett Williams was approved Thursday by stockholders of the American League club.

The approximate $123 million from the sale will be invested in conservative securities by two newly-formed organizations for 13 months, the time lag presumably giving Williams a tax break.

Jerold C. Hoffberger, the club's board chairman since October, 1965, also announced that the club would earn about $1.5 million after taxes for the 1979 season.

That money will be distributed within 90 days to shareholders in both Baltimore Baseball Club, Inc., and Baltimore Orioles, Inc.

Baltimore Orioles, Inc., is a holding company which owns almost 74 percent of the Baltimore Baseball Club, Inc., the operating company.

The Orioles, who topped the major leagues with 108 victories during the 1979 regular season, attracted about 1.7 million spectators for their best home attendance in history, topping the previous mark by about 500,000.

When Hoffberger agreed to sell the club to Williams, after local interests failed to raise the purchase price, fear was expressed by Baltimoreans that Williams would move the team to Washington, which has been without a major league franchise since 1971.

After the record year at the gate, however, Williams said all games in 1980 would be played in Baltimore, and he reiterated that the team would remain in the city as long as it is properly supported. He has never clarified what that support would entail.

Following the proceedings, which were lengthened considerably by two minority stockholders, including corporate gadfly Evelyn Y. Davis of Washington, Hoffberger was due to meet with Williams to complete the formal transfer of the club.

Hoffberger, representing his family which had controlling interest in the Orioles, signed an agreement with Williams on Aug. 2. Last week, the American League owners voted unanimously to approve the sale.

Questioned about the purchase price by a stockholder, Hoffberger said, "I believe it was the best price we could get. We tried to sell this club for a long time, and I didn't see anyone come banging on my door. There were a lot of rumors and a lot of talk.

Current stockholders of Baltimore Baseball Club, Inc., should receive about $47 a share, more than double what the over-the-counter asking price was earlier this year when trading activity stopped. Baltimore Orioles, Inc., stock should bring about $39 a share, again double what it was selling for early in the year.

Hoffberger estimated the immediate dividend distribution on the season's earnings to be approximately $7.37 a share to Baltimore Baseball Club stockholders and $5.62 a share to Baltimore Orioles, Inc., shareholders.

Under the Hoffberger regime, the Orioles won two World Series, five American League pennants, and six Eastern Division Championships, while finishing lower than second place only three times in 14 years.

"I have no regrets about selling," said Hoffberger, who will remain with the club as president. "I've never had any regrets in my life when I accomplished the task I set out to do."

NEW YORK (AP) — It's not even the old Army game, but a school named after a colonel will play a football game Saturday on a field named after a general.

Translated, it means that the Scarlet Knights of (Col. Henry) Rutgers University have volunteered — ouch! — to travel to Knoxville, Tenn.'s, (Gen. Robert) Neyland Stadium to meet the Volunteers of Tennessee...coached by Johnny Majors.

Col. Henry Rutgers was a New York philanthropist and Revolutionary War soldier who gave Queen's College — as it was then known in honor of Charlotte of Mecklenburg, the Royal Consort — (a) modest financial assistance and (b) the bell which still hangs in the cupola of Old Queens, the school's oldest existing structure. In return, the trustees renamed the institution Rutgers in 1825.

On the other hand, Gen. Robert R. Neyland's retirement from military service enabled him to devote full time to coaching and building one of the most powerful programs in the nation. He coached at Tennessee from 1926-34 (76-7-5), 1936-40 (43-7-3) and 1946-52 (54-17-4).

"If we go down there and beat Tennessee, maybe we'll get back in the bowl picture," says Rutgers Coach Frank Burns. But since it's a colonel against a general and a Majors, Rutgers obviously is outranked and outflanked...Tennessee 34-6.

Last week's score was 44 right, 21 wrong and two ties for a .698 percentage. The Upset Special, South Carolina over Notre Dame, looked good until the Irish pulled it out 18-17 with 42 seconds left. The count for the season is 373-159-10...701.

Army at Air Force: As long as were on the subject of rank and military warfare, let's try this one next. Army beat Stanford, which tied Southern Cal. Air Force hasn't won a game — until now...Air Force 24-17.

Mississippi State at Alabama: War of the Wishbones but Bear Bryant is a five-star general...35-7.

Nebraska at Missouri: Mizzou Coach Warren Powers says the Cornhuskers look like "the best football team in the country," and he's not the only one who feels that way...Nebraska 21-7.

Arizona at Southern California: The Wildcats had a week off to prepare for USC but it takes more than that...Southern Cal 30-10.

Houston at Texas Christian: Perfect spot for an upset since TCU catches the Cougars between Arkansas and Texas. Bill Yeoman won't let his boys forget that...Houston 28-7.

Ohio State at Illinois: Hail to the Victors...oh, that's Michigan's song. So what, you know who the victors are...Ohio State 42-7.

Florida State at Cincinnati: "Cincinnati just scares the daylight out of me," says FSU's Bobby Bowden. Hopefully, his players won't be frightened...Florida State 48-14.

Oklahoma at Oklahoma State: The Cowboys upset the Sooners a few years ago but they're too banged up this time...Oklahoma 35-13.

Texas Tech at Texas: The Longhorns can't wait to get a shot at Houston next week but they'd better not be looking ahead...Texas 21-7.

Arkansas at Rice: Rice is just the opponent when you're coming off a loss...Arkansas 34-17.

Wisconsin at Michigan: Hail to the Victors...ah, we've got it right this time...Michigan 35-0.

Syracuse at Pitt: Jackie Sherrill finally gets his wish — the Panthers are on TV. The Orangemen usually give them fits, but...Pitt 28-21.

Navy at Notre Dame: Someone better heal the Midshipmen quick but miracles are the province — and providence — of...Notre Dame 37-14.

Wake Forest at Clemson: Will the Cinderella Demon Deacons find out why they call it "Death Valley?"

Yup...Clemson 20-17. Purdue at Iowa: Boilermakers get spiked looking ahead to Michigan. Upset Special of the Week...Iowa 35-31.

Washington at California: The Bears are looking back at Southern Cal, the Huskies are looking ahead to Southern Cal — and they can't afford another Pac-10 loss...Washington 28-20.

Louisiana State at Mississippi: The Tigers won't change next week's Alabama game from night to day to TV and they can't change this one from day to night. Second Upset Special...Ole Miss 28-20.

North Carolina State at South Carolina: Gamecocks are coming off that bitter loss to Notre Dame. Third Upset Special...North Carolina State 27-17.

Arizona State at Stanford: Bob Owen suffers his first loss as ASU's head coach — but it would have happened to Frank Kush, too...Stanford 27-17.

Yankees Surprise GM

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Michael obviously works fast. The new general manager of the New York Yankees had hardly been introduced at a press conference Thursday when one of the club's operatives handed him an announcement.

"Why, here's a trade, right now," said Michael. "Let's see, we got center fielder Ruppert Jones from Seattle..."

And that's how the Yankees went about announcing their latest bit of business.

Moments earlier, before Michael started dropping the names in the six-player deal, new Manager Dick Howser was asked about his center fielder.

"Who is he?" asked Howser.

"You tell us," the questioner suggested.

Now both of them know. Besides Jones, who hit .267 with 21 home runs and 79 runs batted in last season, the Yankees acquired minor league pitcher Jim Lewis. In exchange, they sent to the Mariners right-hander Jim Beattie, catcher Jerry Narron, outfielder Juan Beniquez and minor league pitcher Rick Anderson.

"This is not my trade," said Michael. "It's our trade."

Certainly it would have been tough for the new GM to complete the deal Thursday, surrounded as he was by newsmen. The occasion was the introduction of the new Yankees' management team — Michael replacing Cedric Tallis as GM and Howser taking over for beleaguered Billy Martin... a name which was mentioned only in passing... as manager.

Michael and Howser met with Yankees' owner George Steinbrenner for four hours last Sunday in Ocala, Fla., discussing their new roles and, ostensibly, the trade for Jones.

"It's been in the works for seven or eight days," Michael said. "You trade from your surplus, if you can."

CORONADO SOPHS BLAST LH'S

Jason Owen scored on runs of 2, 29 and 4 yards to help lead the Coronado Sophomores to an easy 41-0 win over Lubbock High Thursday afternoon. Also adding touchdowns were Mark Rickman from 5 yards, Mark Sabolase on a two-yard burst and Gary Mayfield from the seven-yard line.

NBA ROUNDUP

Cavaliers Edge Pistons 127-125

By The Associated Press

A 25-foot jumper by Randy Smith at the final buzzer gave the Cleveland Cavaliers a 127-125 National Basketball Association victory over the Detroit Pistons Thursday night at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The Cavaliers, who had won only one of their previous five starts, capitalized on a Pistons stumble with seven seconds to go to set up the winning shot by Smith.

The Pistons, who lost their third game in a row and fifth of the last six, had led by as much as 12 points in the first half before Cleveland struck back.

Smith himself had tied the game at 125-125 with seven seconds remaining. Detroit called time out to set up a play at mid-court, but gave up the ball when forward Terry Tyler was unable to pass it inbounds in the prescribed five seconds.

Cleveland then took over and Smith responded with his winning shot to climax a thrill-packed final three minutes, in which the lead changed hands six times and was tied on five other occasions.

Forward Mike Mitchell, with 30 points, and Austin Carr with 27, led the Cavs, while Bob MacAdoo contributed 28 and Gregory Kelsey dropped in 20 for Detroit.

Knicks 134 Jazz 118

Bill Cartwright and Toby Knight scored 31 points each as the New York Knicks broke open a tight game early in the fourth quarter and went on to defeat the Utah Jazz 134-118 Thursday night.

Ray Williams and Michael Richardson assisted the two big men for the Knicks. Their outside shooting was a major factor in the second half onslaught that saw New York rally from 10 points behind.

Williams wound up with 23 points for the game, and Richardson added 21.

Utah, playing before its largest home crowd of the season, with attendance of 8,326, was led by Adrian Dantley and Ron Boone with 22 points each.

Duck Williams chipped 20 and Bernard King 19 for the losers, who played without their No. 2 scorer, Pete Maravich, suffering from muscle spasms in his neck and back.

Tech Women Whip NMMI

Texas Tech's women's tennis team won the first match of the Midland Tennis Tournament Thursday when they beat New Mexico Military Institute 6-3. Winning for Tech were Regina Revello 6-4, 6-4. Kathy Stringer 6-2, 6-2. Joanie Walko 6-2, 6-2 and the doubles teams of Revello-Stringer 3-6, 6-3, 6-0 and Walko-Fritz 6-2, 6-0.

Losing were Jill Crutchfield 2-6, 4-6; Sandra Carrillo 3-6, 4-6; Becky Gerken 1-6, 4-6 and the doubles team of Crutchfield-Gerken 3-6, 7-6, 0-6.

Tech, now 9-6-1 on the year, will play Southwest Texas State today.

BLEDSE BEATS UNION

The Bledsoe boys basketball team broke a 42-game losing streak Thursday night with a 55-49 win over Union as Rusty Trull had 19 points. Bledsoe's girls beat Union 24-6 with Patti Hall scoring 10 points.

Dolphins' Bulaich Says Packer's Hit Malicious

MIAMI (AP) — A sign over Norm Bulaich's hospital bed reminds nurses: "Absolutely no chewing...Right side up at all times."

The veteran fullback had three bones in his upper jaw shattered by a forearm blow from Green Bay Packer safety Steve Luke in last Sunday's 27-7 Miami Dolphins victory. He underwent three hours of surgery Monday, and was still in throbbing discomfort Thursday.

"I didn't know what happened," he said. "I was knocked out and when I came to I was lying on the ground. My jaw hurt real bad.

"I felt the side of my face caved in. It felt like my cheek was gone. I didn't even know who hit me," he said.

Bulaich has examined photos of the tackle this week and has bitterly concluded that Luke delivered a cheap shot. Photos show Johnnie Gray tackling Bulaich around the legs, with Luke hitting him in the face after Bulaich had fumbled the ball.

"Now, when I look at these photos people have brought me, I see there was no excuse for the hit. It was a cheap shot, no doubt about it," he said. Bulaich, 32, retired at the end of last season, but came back the week before this season bean at Coach Don Shula's request. His career is now over permanently.

"I retired and came back to help out, to play some football and back up (Larry) Csonka," he said. "Every time you go out, you take a chance. But the game had been good to me. To have this happen, especially the way it happened, is sort of discouraging.

"It was hard for me to retire last year. Next year, because of this, it will be a little easier to stay out of football. This is it for me. I'm through with pro football.

"It's a hell of a way to end 10 years," Bulaich concluded.

WESTERN HILLS LOSES

Western Hills dropped its basketball opener when they fell to McAdoo 48-36 Thursday night. Jeff Shadden had 14 points and Dan Moore 10 for Western Hills.

TV Importers Win Reduction Of Duties On Japanese Sets

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. importers of television sets made by 10 major Japanese companies have won a reduction in the customs duties charged on sets imported before July 1973, the U.S. Customs Service announced Thursday.

In 1978, $46 million in "dumping duties" were assessed, because of a finding that the price of the sets was too low to be fair to competitive manufacturers in the United States.

Importers of the sets complained that the U.S. customs authorities had failed to make required adjustments in figuring out a fair price for the Japanese sets. For example, they had not included the cost of advertising in the United States.

The customs service said after looking at new evidence it had decided to grant "some, although not all," the adjustments sought by the importers.

Among the 10 manufacturers are Sony, Hitachi, Mitsubishi, Toshiba, Nippon Electric, Sanyo and the Victor Company.

Defectors Sign Ice Capades Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Figure skating stars Oleg and Ludmila Protopopov, who defected from the Soviet Union in September, announced on Thursday they had signed a three-year contract with the Ice Capades.

The husband and wife team received asylum in Switzerland on Tuesday after defecting there on Sept. 24 during a European exhibition tour.

At a news conference, the two-time Olympic champions performed for photographers. But they refused to answer questions about how they defected and would not comment on reports in a Soviet newspaper calling them "two greedy, business-like consumers."

The couple said that although they had not contacted those left behind, they were certain friends and relatives would not agree with the report.

The lean, 47-year-old Oleg, acting as spokesman for the two, said he and his 43-year-old wife would not answer any political questions because their answers might affect their parents and families in the Soviet Union.

He said they chose to defect to Switzerland because of many professional visits there. They will live in that country.

George Eby, chairman of the board of the Ice Capades, said the pair will perform 40 weeks a year in the United States and possibly elsewhere in North America.

Married in 1957 and skating together for 25 years, the couple won the Olympic gold medal in 1964 and 1968. Credited with bringing ballet to figure skating, they reigned as world champions from 1965 to 1968 and also won the Lenin Prize.

And Oleg said they'll keep on skating.

"I never think about how long we'll skate," he said, adding jokingly, "perhaps 80 or 90."

His petite wife, Ludmila, who trained in Russia to be a railroad mechanic, sat by his side helping him translate his answers into English.

Oleg said the couple chose the Ice Capades among many offers in part because the company "has the biggest ice arena. We will have the opportunity to show all our numbers."

Duffy Plays Ewing Equalizer Role On TV's 'Dallas' Series

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Ewing is the nice guy among all those ornery characters who populate CBS' "Dallas," and that only makes Patrick Duffy's job tougher.

"When I took the part," says Duffy, "I really had to fight for my life. My character had all the forcefulness and panache of a 3-day-old piece of lettuce. I bemoaned my fate every day, but they told me Bobby had to be the way he was to maintain some sort of equilibrium with the others. I said, 'Couldn't he do something, anything, interesting?' They told me he had to be the bastion of all that was ethical and nice.

"I've joked before," the actor says, "that basically, Bobby has 10 lines: 'It's all right Mom, I'll take care of it,' and so on for each member of the family, and then, 'OK, Mom,' or whoever, 'I took care of it.'"

Duffy, who came to "Dallas" after a season as Mark Harris, the lead character in NBC's "The Man from Atlantis," would like Bobby Ewing a bit more scintillating. But don't get the feeling he's discontent with his role in television.

"I'd like it to go on forever," he says of "Dallas," which CBS describes as a "continuing saga of oil, cattle, high-ing, family and political intrigue." "I don't want to go more than four years with the show, but I'd like never to leave television. I want to do feature films, but I think television is the future."

The series stars Jim Davis and Barbara Bel Geddes as the elder Ewings, and Larry Hagman as J.R., Bobby's brother.

Duffy was born in Montana, and moved with his family at the age of 12 to Everett, Wash. "I was bent on being an architect," he says, "and was aiming in that direction in high school.

"I'd been in school plays, and there was this lady, the drama coach, who told me I could be paid for doing that."

He was recommended for a special four-year program at the University of Washington, and through that program became something of an actor-in-residence for the state.

His first paid role was in an Off Broadway production, "Natural Affections," and after an extended professional drought he got a non-speaking part in a made-for-TV film, "The Stranger Looks Like Me."

Another year passed and Duffy was hired for a small part in "The Last of Mrs. Lincoln" on public television.

"I was building a houseboat in Los Angeles," he recalls, "when I got 'Atlantis.' And once that started, knock wood, I haven't been out of work in three years."

"Dallas," which airs 9-10 p.m. CDT Fridays, began its third season in September. The series premiered as a mid-season replacement with something of a thud, but caught on quickly.

"I wish I knew for a fact," says Duffy when asked about the show's popularity. "I think we were lucky. We hit on 'Dallas' at just the right time, with the oil prices and millionaires and so on.

"It's a part of society most people can never reach," he says, "and you combine that with the mystique and excitement of Dallas. Well, we hit everything just right."

"Dallas" is a big favorite abroad as well as in this country. The people who monitor television in South Africa created quite a stir not long ago when they banned an episode dealing with homosexuality. Several newspapers in that country ran rather detailed synopses of the censored installment.

"I was prepared to do a series," Duffy says, "but I wasn't prepared for the way it caught on. People really follow it closely.

"I was approached the other day by a woman who said, 'Do you know your wife's about to have an abortion.' My wife was with me, and it was moment before I realized she was talking about my wife on 'Dallas.'"

South Africa Accused Of Angolan Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Thursday it has no independent evidence to support Angolan charges that South Africa has raided deep within its territory.

The Angolans have called the raids an invasion. South Africa has denied them.

Ex-Angel, Husband Producing 'Topper' Remake

By VERNON SCOTT
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Kate Jackson, formerly a Charlie's Angel, and bridegroom Andrew Stevens devoted their honeymoon to producing a TV movie version of the 1937 screen classic "Topper" in which they costar Nov. 9.

The original film starred Cary Grant, Constance Bennett and Billie Burke with Roland Young in the title role.

Two sequels were subsequently made with different casts. "Topper Takes a Trip" and "Topper Returns."

The two-hour TV film features Jack Warden as Cosmo Topper and Rue McClanahan as his wife.

Anne Jeffries, Robert Sterling and Leo G. Carroll starred for three years in a 1950s television series based on the Thorne Smith comedy novel, making it a well-worn and familiar property to several generations.

The story involves a young couple,

George and Marion Kerby, killed in an automobile accident, who return as shades to haunt Topper who is the only one on earth who can see and hear them.

Kate was negotiating for rights to "Topper" when she met and married Andrew, son of actress Stella Stevens.

"I always thought it would be fun to revive 'Topper,'" Kate said. "And when I married Andrew he speeded up the process of negotiating with the Thorne Smith estate.

"We are staying pretty close to the original movie but we've added some characters and plot twists to meet the demands of the two-hour format which is considerably longer than the original picture."

It may not be the storybook honeymoon, but the young couple spent most of the first year of their marriage putting the package together for their Cosmo Productions.

They worked on the script, did the casting, selected location sites, chose the musical scoring, helped with the editing and controlled the final cut.

"Once we bought the property we were confronted with the decision of making it a feature film or a TV movie," Andrew said. "We decided on the TV format so we could assume 100 percent financial responsibility and ownership."

"We called the shots on this one in all the creative departments," Kate added. "The easiest part was acting together. It's my first TV appearance since I left 'Charlie's Angels' more than a year ago."

Kate and Andrew, both bright and ambitious, thought the best way to start their marriage would be with a successful project of their own.

"We brought a lot of the problems home during dinner every night," said Andrew. "We've really devoted a year of our life to getting the movie done the way we want it. After the first showing on ABC we own the property outright."

"We put our salaries up against the picture's budget, meaning if we ran over budget the difference would come out of our pay. We didn't run over by much and the profits bought us our new house."

"If it gets high numbers in the Nielsen Ratings, we may just go into production with 'Topper' as a weekly series."

Besides being an exciting creative venture, said Kate, "Topper" has been a fascinating business venture. We learned a lot about production for future projects we hope to make.

After completing "Topper," Kate took off for Montreal and Boston to star with Elliott Gould in "Dirty Tricks." Andrew remained in Hollywood to star in the miniseries "Beggaman, Thief."

can handle these location separations. But it's not easy."

"We're working hard to make a successful marriage," Kate said. "Being business partners helps. Of course, we'd prefer to be together all the time but not necessarily as an acting team unless there's a great property for us both."

"We're going to Florida for three weeks to work in 'Barefoot In The Park' for three weeks at the Burt Reynolds Dinner Theater."

"I was supposed to be in Oregon working on a movie this week and Andrew is supposed to be doing something else. But we decided it would be better for us to spend some time together. Two months was too long to be separated."

Andrew celebrated their reunion by throwing a surprise birthday party for Kate at a fancy Beverly Hills restaurant. Among the guests were Farrah Fawcett and Jacklyn Smith, thereby scotching rumors the three actresses have been feuding since Kate and Farrah left "Charlie's Angels."

"We hope to make our company a viable source of movies and television," Andrew said. "If that means making projects for Kate and me together, singly or with neither one in the cast, that's how it will work out."

Free Spirit Makes It To Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — There is this long-running Broadway comedy called "Gemini." In it, Jessica James plays a wild and crazy lady who at one point climbs a telephone pole and cries, "Am I weird? Nahhh!"

"My mother wanted me to be an opera singer," she was saying recently. "So I studied it. But it wasn't for me. Everyone was so stuffed. I was always doing things like yelling, 'Snake! Snake!'"

She was saying this at Sardi's, the show-biz restaurant. Nearby diners only heard her cry "Snake! Snake!" Some peered at her as if she were a quart low. Not so. She's just different. And not at all stuffed.

A tall, blonde-haired free spirit, she whoops and laughs with great abandon, has a fine sense of the absurd. That may have been honed when she spent nine years in Las Vegas, doing comedy and fronting her own band — Jessie and the James Boys.

Born in Beverly Hills, Calif., where her dad was a manufacturer of Hopalong Cassidy suits, Miss J. made her stage debut at 14 in Los Angeles. She filled in for Martha Raye in "Annie Get Your Gun."

After college, she came to New York where, she breezily notes, "I got in a couple of flop shows." (She couldn't recall the name of one, but spotted the producer of it at a nearby table. A query was made. He couldn't recall, either.)

Some young hopefuls stay here until they are old hopefuls. Not Jessica. After the flops, she repaired to Las Vegas, to appear in the last of the George White Scandals. Then she led her band. "I had no choice," she sighs. "You get hooked by all that loot."

She also emoted in various films, including "Oceans 11," "Johnny Cool" and a Jerry Lewis film, "Hook, Line and Sinker" that still makes her shudder when she thinks about it:

"That was an experience that made me move back to New York. I became the standby to Elaine Stritch in 'Company.' But I didn't find the Muse" — she gave the word a lofty vocal twist — "there."

"So I thought, 'Well, the Muse usually hangs out off Broadway.' So I went downtown and played La Mama, St. Mark's Church, the Truck and Warehouse Theater, the WPA, the I.R.T. I did everything."

"I also gave up on the Muse."

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

PUBLIC DISCLOSURES OF WHAT HAVE BEEN called "flagrant misappropriations" of Farmers Home Administration funds have brought pressure on Congress to set limits on individual indebtedness under the emergency loan program and to tighten screening procedures for loan applicants.

The issue, subject of a recent telecast on the CBS program "60 Minutes," concerns abuses of the FmHA emergency loan provisions, which critics say appear to have been loosely interpreted.

Last May, the Senate approved consolidated farm and rural development act amendments which set lending limits for all FmHA loans except emergency loans. Last week, the House passed a similar bill.

A conference committee was scheduled to meet this week to rectify some differences in the two bills. Conferees were expected to tighten regulations for the emergency disaster loan program, which was not addressed in the original legislation.

AS A STOPGAP MEASURE TO PREVENT approval of additional large FmHA emergency loans, lawmakers included language in the 1980 agricultural appropriations conference report to restrict temporarily further large loans.

The House last week approved that conference report. Language in the appropriations bill directs the U. S. Department of Agriculture to hold up approval of all large loans that would be allocated under the emergency disaster program pending further congressional action on the consolidated farm and rural development act.

During the appropriations conference committee session last week, House Democrats who sponsored the rural development bill persuaded the conferees not to put a ceiling on FmHA emergency loan spending. The lawmakers agreed that the bill itself would be amended in the Senate or in a House-Senate conference on the consolidated farm and rural development act.

But House Republicans dealt the Democrats an unexpected blow during House debate. Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., succeeded in attaching an amendment requiring borrowers to seek FmHA-guaranteed loans before requesting direct loans and to tighten the "credit elsewhere" test, which determines whether an applicant can get credit from another source.

THE NEW TEST WOULD REQUIRE THAT ALL applicants first seek credit from another source and be rejected before applying to FmHA. Applicants for loans exceeding $300,000 would have to have been turned down by two other sources.

Congressional sources speculated that Madigan's amendment succeeded because House members wanted some recognition for tightening FmHA regulations before the Senate implements the extensive FmHA rule revisions it is expected to design.

Some of the Senate amendments will be based on administration recommendations, sources said. However, it was not known when the Senate will take up consideration of the bill.

During an oversight hearing on FmHA emergency loans before a House agriculture subcommittee last month, the deputy assistant agriculture secretary for rural development said the administration wants to:

- Set a $1.25 million limit on emergency loan indebtedness by any one individual.
- Cut from five to two years the period following the initial loss during which the borrower is eligible for subsequent operating loans.
- Tighten the test required to determine whether an applicant can get credit from another source.
- Enforce uniform termination dates for physical and production loss.
- Use teams to assess loan eligibility.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM THE GENERAL Accounting Office and the USDA's Office of Inspector General also urged stricter rules for FmHA's emergency loan program operations.

A recent study by the Treasury Department showed FmHA lending has increased steadily in the last decade, rising from $1.67 billion in 1970 to $4.25 billion in 1977 and to $9.41 billion in 1978.

For the first eight months of this year, FmHA authorized loans totaling $7.69 billion. This is higher than the January 1979 budget estimate primarily because of a five-fold increase in emergency disaster loan payments, the Treasury Department said.

USDA witness Henrietta Singletary told the House subcommittee that FmHA lending through the emergency loan program exceeded $1 billion for the first time in 1977 and rose to $3.4 billion last year. She said large emergency loans have been increasing in California, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Washington.

To be eligible for current FmHA loans, an applicant need only be engaged in agriculture, lack adequate credit, and have suffered a loss due to a disaster. An applicant can receive a loan for both the amount of the loss and operating finances.

HECTIC COMMISSION HOUSE BUYING late in the session took spot December to a contract high Thursday as cotton futures closed with gains of 109 to 137 points in nearby.

December finished at 68.34 cents, up 137 points, after reaching a top level of 68.50 and surpassing its previous contract high of 67.85 on Oct. 30, 1978. March settled only seven points above December at 68.41, up 109 points, and May ended at 69.50, up 128 points.

When December breached its former contract high, massive short covering extended gains and generated additional commission house buying, floor brokers said. The market rocketed around 100 points in only six or seven minutes.

Some brokers said only light profit taking by day traders at the highs kept the market from a limit advance. Estimated volume was 12,050 lots.

The USDA reported after the close that U. S. cotton export sales continued strong in the week ended Oct. 21. Sales totaled 187,900 running bales for 1979-80 delivery but below pre-report expectations of up to 250,000 to 300,000 bales.

China bought another 95,000 running bales, also below earlier estimates for this time period of 150,000 to 200,000 bales. But the market has been impregnated again this week with speculation that China once more may be buying U. S. cotton. Other major buyers in the reporting week included Japan at 26,000 bales, South Korea at 13,600, Taiwan at 11,200, Hong Kong at 10,900, and the United Kingdom at 10,100.

Exports remained steady at 92,600 running bales, with 14 percent destined for Europe and 78 percent for Asian nations. The export commitment rose to 5,555,800 running bales, including shipments of 1,167,400 — up from 1,087,300 a year earlier — and undelivered sales of 4,388,400.

There is no telling how much U. S. cotton could be sold this year if it were not for compress bottlenecks and other shipping problems. But, under the circumstances, it would seem a saturation point is going to be reached one of these days.

Winds Plague Deaf Smith Corn

A-J Correspondent

HEREFORD — Deaf Smith County's corn harvest has begun to move ahead at full speed and busy elevator operators report the rush is on as the yellow grain is carried to market.

A third attack by high winds which accompanied another arriving norther earlier this month has left little doubt that there will be field losses over much of the county's corn acreage. The wind blowing down corn stalks which cannot be picked up by harvesting machinery.

The most serious losses may come in north-south running rows in some fields where corn stalks fell with the row and now escape the reach of even ground-hugging combine headers.

Farmers are having better luck picking up fallen corn in east-west rows, where stalks fell across the water furrow and can be got under with harvesting equipment.

Calvin Mitts of Northwest Grain located west of Farmers' Corner estimated that as much as 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre in yields may be lost in some areas due to high winds sending the corn crop toppling.

Some of the corn being left in the fields could be recovered through grazing stocker cattle on the corn, but high stocker prices and staggering interest rates could make pasturing cattle this winter a risky enterprise at best.

"We're suffering some big field losses due to the wind damage, but still the yields are better than average in a lot of cases," said Mitts.

Joe Arthro of Hereford Grain Crop reported that corn harvest in the immediate Hereford area was in full swing, with large volumes of grain now moving to local elevators.

"Quality of this year's crop is good and the yields are too," said Arthro, pointing out that corn continues to dry down in the fields, although moisture content has been running from 18-30 percent.

Local elevator operators have reported more corn yields ranging from 8,000 to 10,000 pounds per acre, and test weights are primarily 52-53 pounds per bushel.

According to Arthro, a tight situation where the supply of rail cars to move the crop is concerned has eased somewhat, as the local cooperative has located an alternative supply of railcars.

"We're loading R-box cars, which are all steel. Workers have to band the doors together on them, and there's an hour's labor involved in that little chore. Nobody much wants to mess with that because you don't have to do it with hopper cars, so there haven't been as many people after these R-box cars and we've found more available. It has really helped out," said Arthro.

South of Hereford at the Easter community, a spokesman for Easter Grain reported that corn harvest in that area recently was approaching 75 percent complete.

Heavy Cattle Losses From Snow Seen

By A-J Correspondent

HEREFORD — Heavy cattle losses have been reported as a result of this week's snow, agricultural officials said Thursday.

Stocker cattle, brought in for wheat grazing and the like, became trapped in snow drifts and suffocated. Respiratory problems in the remaining cattle may add to the losses.

Some producers reported losses in excess of 100 head. One producer northwest of here said his loss may reach 200 head.

A feedlot manager estimated that 10,000 head may have been lost, mostly in an area from Hereford to Dalhart. He said the monetary loss could reach $3.5 million.

Winds hit 55 miles per hour during the storm and snowfall of up to 8 inches, with severe drifting, was recorded. Cattle moved with the wind and got caught in snowdrifts.

The Deaf Smith County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office estimated the average value of the cattle at about $350 to $400 per head.

Nassau was sacked by an combined French-Spanish expedition in 1703.

east of Hereford has made excellent progress, said Dawn Co-Op manager Dale Wofford.

Strong yields also are being registered in that area, with some of the county's top corn yields being reported there.

Wofford related that corn yields have climbed to the 10,500 to 11,000-pound-per-acre range, and reported at least one yield of 11,500 pounds per acre.

Corn production in 1979 for Deaf Smith County should far outdistance the overall harvest figure for 1978, when gathering of this year's crop is completed, as more favorable moisture and fewer insect problems made for a better corn crop this year.

CORN ON GROUND — A good corn crop is being harvested in the Hereford area, in some instances as much as 11,500 pounds per acre. But despite the high yields, field losses due to lodging of the crop by high winds are a problem. Ears of corn which fell to the ground and escaped combine headers, such as those shown here, are a common sight in many fields. Wind-related field losses could go as high as 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre. High labor costs make recovering the corn by hand impractical, and most producers will find the only way to reclaim part of the downed corn is by grazing stocker cattle on it. With stocker prices and interest rates high, however, even that program will prove risky. (Correspondent Photo by Jim Steiert)

Prospects Look Good For Area Cotton Crop

VERNON — Prospects for a good cotton crop, at least as good as that harvested in 1978 and in some counties better, are looking up in the Rolling Plains right now, according to information received by Ed Garnett, district agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A brief check of the larger cotton-producing counties in District 3 suggests average yields of one-half to three-quarters of a bale are expected for the area, he says.

While 5 to 10 percent of the cotton has been or is expected to be defoliated, the majority will wait for the first frost of the season, usually expected within the first 10 days of November.

The majority of the cotton gins, several of which have updated their ginning capacity with automated equipment, are ready for the ginning season, he said. Many have already ginned a considerable amount of cotton, Garnett said.

On a more specific basis, County Agent L. M. McCarroll of Cottle County reports he expects to see around 50,000 bales of cotton harvested from the more than 70,000 acres of cotton planted there.

A lot of the cotton in the county is short but well-loaded with bolls, he says. He looks for one-half to three-quarters of a bale to the acre for a county average yield, he says. Don Decker, the county agent in Wichita County, says he is looking for a 300-pound lint average for the 21,500 acres of cotton planted in his county. If there had been some rain in September, Decker says, the cotton could easily have made 375 pounds of lint to the acre. The gins in the area are in good shape, he says, and he expected the harvest to be in full swing by today.

In Kent County, County Agent Mark Geeslin says a lot of cotton opened up early due to the hot, dry weather earlier this month and in September. Five to 10 percent of the cotton has been or is being defoliated, but the majority of the farmers will wait for the frost before doing any serious harvesting.

Some of the cotton will yield as much as 1 1/2 bales to the acre, he says. However, most of it is expected to yield from 320 to 360 pounds of lint to the acre.

He says the boll weevil has not been a serious pest there this year. Kent County will harvest 22,000 acres of cotton, he says.

In Hall County, County Extension Agent Buddy Logsdon sees average yields of one-half to three-quarters of a bale to the acre for the 121,000 acres of cotton. County gins are ready to go with modern equipment recently installed, he says.

HEADSTART IS FOR HANDICAP TOO!

The Texas Migrant Council is recruiting handicapped children to take part in the program.

In order for the Texas Migrant Council to serve these children, the family must have migrated within the last year, and the child must be 3-5 years old.

The new Congressional directive defines handicapped as "mentally retarded, hard of hearing, deaf, speech impaired, visually impaired, seriously emotionally disturbed, crippled, or other health impaired children who require special education and related services.

The mixing of handicapped and nonhandicapped children is expected to give all the children a valuable experience in learning to understand and respect differences among people.

For more information or to enroll a child, call 765-5175 or come by the Texas Migrant Council 610 3rd St.

Heartline

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am only 16 years old, and I know your column is generally for senior citizens, but I hope you will answer my question.

I have my Social Security card. I am a student in high school and I must work summers to help my family buy our school clothes and supplies.

This past summer, I worked for a farmer, as a general farm laborer. I earned $560, and he took out taxes from my check. He did pay Social Security taxes on me. I know that to receive several of the Social Security benefits, a person must earn a certain number of quarters under Social Security. Can you tell me how many quarters I earned this summer and how many quarters I will need for retirement? — J.L.

Under the new Social Security rulings, the same laws and requirements apply to agricultural laborers as they do to most other workers. To earn one quarter of coverage, you must earn $260 in a calendar year. You can earn up to four quarters of coverage for earnings of $1,040 or more in a calendar year. You cannot earn above four quarters in any calendar year. So, your work this summer earned you two quarters.

The requirements, at this time, for all persons born after 1938 is 40 quarters. However, we suggest that you check with Social Security periodically during your working years. Since there is so much time between your age now and retirement age, there is a chance there will be a change in the law.

HEARTLINE: Are railroad retirement spouse annuities reduced for civil service and other public pensions? — H.T.

The tier 1 portion of a spouse annuity may be reduced by the amount of any federal, state, or local pension separately payable to the spouse based on the spouse's own earnings.

At present these reductions apply only to awards of spouse annuities to non-dependent husbands. Other spouse annuities will also be subject to public pension reductions when eligibility for the pension starts after November 1982. However, the public pension reduction will not be applied in any case where employment on which the public pension is based was covered under the Social Security act on the last day of public employment.

HEARTLINE: I sent my claim in to Medicare about two weeks ago. Today I opened my mail and was delighted to find my reimbursement from Medicare. What do I do? — M.B.

Return the check to the sender with a note explaining that if it was to be your check, it had been made payable to the wrong person.

HEARTLINE: I've noticed many references in your column to Social Security-covered jobs. What do you mean by this? — G.B.

A Social Security-covered job is one in which a worker and his employer (or a self-employed person) are required by law to pay Social Security taxes which are credited to the worker's Social Security account number.

Carter Presents Environmental Youth Awards To 16 'Achievers'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter presented "environmental youth awards" Thursday to 16 children who have done "outstanding work in protecting the quality of life" in the United States.

The recipients were given certificates from the president commending them for their achievements.

The winners were:

•Scott M. Laurie, Christopher R. Petchler, Kevin E. Kovelant and John Woerner, of Cub Scout Pack 981 in Annapolis, Md., for studies of aquatic life in the Chesapeake Bay. The boys released popcorn into the bay, simulating an oil spill, and watched how it affected the surrounding life.

•Cincinnati, Ohio, high school students Robert H. Green, Lizbeth A. Etienne and Antony J. Etienne, who have qualified as air and ground monitors in the event of an accident at a nearby nuclear reactor.

•Mary Jane Roddy, representing her class at Rosemead High School in Los Angeles, for four energy and environment movies the students made.

•Randolph L. Barber, Cynthia Jo Parker and James F. Skinner of Kathleen Senior High School in Lakeland, Fla., for keeping drinking water safe by the samples they have taken from area lakes.

•Kimberly Shafer of Annandale, Md., and Nathan Leopold of Washington, D.C., for studying insects and animals at summer camp.

•Michael C. Birlew, of Argyle, Texas; Tana S. Landgraf of Marietta, Ga., and Kevin Ward of Warfordsburg, Penn., who represent the estimated 5 million scouts who are expected to work on an energy conservation project.

At a ceremony in the Rose Garden, the president shook the hands of the award winners and praised them for "having taken this as an initiative on their own."

He said they represent thousands of young people who participate in the youth environment program "to make sure all Americans know how important it is to preserve the quality of life in America."

Visit offers 'great opportunity'

By Nancy Allen
Update staff writer

Nina Potokova can be a difficult woman to track down.

When she's not lecturing to Texas Tech history students, the visiting research scholar from the Soviet Union is holed up somewhere in the Southwest Collection exploring Texas history. Mrs. Potokova's stops by her office in the basement of Holden Hall are short and infrequent, university secretaries avow.

Once located, however, she proves a willing interviewee — expressing her impressions of the U.S. and Texas and explaining her views on politics, history, religion, and other subjects.

Speaking in heavily accented English, Mrs. Potokova makes it clear right away that she's glad to be in Lubbock. Her stay here for one semester, she says, is a "great opportunity" to study Texas history and to "make my English better."

Her interest in the history of Texas and the Southwest is longstanding. She compares the expansion of the United States' frontier to the eastward development of her own country, noting similarities and differences.

Both countries, she says, expanded from a populous base (in the U.S. it was the eastern seaboard, in Russia, the west), over a vast open expanse of land, Mrs. Potokova explains. Masses of people took part in both movements, but because the U.S. was founded on a base of capitalism, it developed into a democracy. Russia in those times was a feudal society, so its history took very different turns, says the scholar.

In Russia, Mrs. Potokova's research has extended to authoring articles on Texas as a part of the Republic of Mexico and during the process of annexation to the U.S. Her studies here will go into a book she is writing — one chapter still is lacking — on Southwestern history. She currently is researching the character of American colonization and the role of the plantation-slavery system in Texas.

Mrs. Potokova says she is aware a Russian scholar is something of an oddity in Lubbock — in fact, it strikes her as being amusing.

"Everybody's surprised," she says with a laugh, describing the first time she took a letter to her homeland to the post office. "They didn't know how much I should pay. They had to look in a big, thick book."

The impressions she sends back to her 21-year-old son, also a history student, and her mother, are that Americans are "industrious people who do everything well. They are kind and open," she says.

Being alone in a foreign land is no source of strife to Mrs. Potokova. "I can say I'm not a stranger here. I don't feel like a stranger." She explains this is her second visit to this country — the first was a trip to New York City and Baltimore in 1946 — and that makes it easier.

As for being lonely, well, there just isn't time. While she's not researching or lecturing, she's visiting new friends in their homes or talking to the other residents of Gates Hall, where she lives. "I don't feel lonely, just busy," she laughs.

She's studied the history of this country and the character of its people, and says, "This country is not unknown to me."

Americans and Russians, Mrs. Potokova has found, share similarities. "Both are friendly to other nations, open and kind," she comments. "Foreigners are well received in our nation, too."

Her fellow countrymen, Mrs. Potokova says, sometimes can be more puzzling to her than foreigners.

Of recent Soviet defectors to the U.S., she says, "I don't understand such people. There are no serious reasons to leave the country where you were born, where your family lives."

Identifying them as "dissidents," Mrs. Potokova suspects the defectors "have personal motives (for leaving the Soviet Union.) Maybe they met with some difficulties, some hardships in their lives," she offers.

Her homeland, she says with no small touch of national pride, "is a beautiful country," adding, "Everyone loves his motherland."

Mrs. Potokova describes a "very good feeling" toward Americans on the part of Soviets. "We remember the period of war when we received military and food supplies from Americans. Soviet people are full of good thoughts about Americans."

For her own part, she "hopes the relationship gets better and better."

Mrs. Potokova came to Texas Tech through the council for International Exchange of Scholars in Washington, D.C. Her salary and expenses are provided jointly by the governments of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S. Department of State.

And Now, On Screen

APOCALYPSE NOW

Martin Sheen views Kurtz's horror in Coppola's APOCALYPSE NOW
Francis Coppola's five-year project now opens at Showplace in Lubbock on screen

Backstage I — "The Prisoner of Zenda." By playing three roles, Peter Sellers is three times as boring. This is a remake of a remake based on the 1894 novel about a London cabbie standing in for the King of Ruritania, a sort of Prince & The Pauper story. But this latest film, a supposed spoof, has no heart or soul or respect for the original material. To put it bluntly, I didn't laugh once while watching it — and my wife fell asleep.

Backstage II — "All Around Service." X-rated material.

Cinematheque — Each Wednesday evening, the Cinematheque Film Society presents classic films on the Texas Tech University campus. Tickets may be purchased by both the general public and Tech students. This week's offering is Peter Davis' Academy Award-winning documentary "Hearts and Minds," which, to this critic's knowledge, has never before played in Lubbock. This 1974 film is more than just a study of the Vietnam war. It is a look at the American psyche, its ideas and realities — a study not only of American involvement in Vietnam, but of the politics and human nature of war. It will be shown at 8 p.m. at the Tech University Center theater, with a $1 admission price in effect.

Cinema West — "Avalanche Express." A brand new adventure film about defecting spies, this picture should most likely never have been released. Sadly lacking in pacing and plot depth, the post-production work was completed after the deaths of both its star, Robert Shaw, and director Mark Robson. With much too much time devoted to sappy emotional subplots, "Avalanche Express" does not even hit the mark as an action picture. Indeed, this film is a poor epitaph for these two talents.

Fine Arts Drive-In — "Mothers of America" and "Country Girl." X-rated material.

Fox I — "More American Graffiti." The kids grow up in this sequel, and find themselves involved with the Vietnam war, protests and rock generation of the late 1960s. Ron Howard and Cindy Williams are now married; Charles Martin Smith ("The Toad") is now a helicopter pilot in Nam; Paul Le Mat is a stock car driver; Candy Clark, Mackenzie Phillips and Wolfman Jack are still around, too. (Richard Dreyfuss, however, grew up to the point of demanding too much money, and thus was not cast.) Not screened at press time.

Fox II — "Skatetown U.S.A." Scott Biao guest stars in this first of many films to center on the new roller skating and roller disco fads. Not screened at press time.

Fox III — "10." Dudley Moore, last seen as the resident comic pervert in "Foul Play," proves with this new comedy-romance that he really does know how to earn consistent laughs. He carries the film, at least until producer-director Blake Edwards gets carried away. Moore takes a rather clichéd role, that of a dissatisfied male losing a battle with middle-aged reality, and turns it into a star vehicle. But that does not disguise the fact that "10" suffers from a screenwriter who does not know how to condense and a director who has yet to learn the value of editing. The picture had possibilities, but it goes on much too long with much too little. Call it a major disappointment, though the younger set may be looking for posters of the luscious Bo Derek as soon as they walk out of the theater.

Fox IV — "And Justice For All." Al Pacino gives his usual brilliant, Oscar-worthy performance as a lawyer who cares in Norman Jewison's incredible new comic satire which aims many a poisoned barb at America's current judicial system. It is a film almost impossible to describe, in that it changes tones and emotions without the slightest warning, the effect being a viewer who is not sure whether to laugh or choke back tears. John Forsythe is cast against type and comes off as a wonderfully despicable judge, and a slew of young actors offer terrific support. Jewison and his crew are to be commended because, laughing or crying, there's no way we can deny being entertained. And hopefully, there will be at least a few who continue to think about the film even as they leave the theater.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen — "The Amityville Horror" and "House By The Lake." James Brodin and Margot Kidder star in the former film, an adaptation of Jay Anson's best-selling (whether it's fiction or not is debatable) novel about George and Kathy Lutz's 28-day stay in their not so normal house in New York. While the film is definitely spooky and, yes, entertaining enough, it succeeds more as an old-fashioned "haunted house movie" than as a stylized horror film like "The Exorcist" or "The Omen." Brodin and Kidder are both fine as well as the hysterical priest. The producers also seemed wary of treating the book as non-fiction, since a great deal of extra spooky stuff has been added, as the credits state, "to heighten dramatic effect." There's nothing supernatural about "House By The Lake," a sleazy thriller about a young woman terrorized by a group of drunken sickies. It's not for the kiddos.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Back Screen — "Heaven Can Wait" and "Foul Play." A popular double bill from Paramount Pictures. The former picture is a classy, not to mention hilarious, comedy about a Ram quarterback (Warren Beatty) who is taken to heaven a little too soon. Seems that since his old body was cremated, he has to accept a new one and that makes for hilarious consequences, aided by wonderful supporting performances from Charles Grodin, Dyan Cannon, Jack Warden and Julie Christie. It's a G movie in PG's clothing, and wonderful entertainment.

"Foul Play" finds Goldie Hawn as a divorcee accidentally cast into a murder plot, and Chevy Chase as the cop assigned to help her out. There aren't many laughs, none of the original variety anyway, but there are indeed a great many clichés stolen from Hitchcock films. The one who suffers most, though, is Dudley Moore, cast in the embarrassing role of an orchestra conductor who doubts as a sex pervert.

Home Box Office — This pay television station offers movies and specials usually not available on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO several times each week, and then repeated throughout the month. Tonight will see HBO premiere "Last Embrace," a whodunit which wastes the tremendous talent of Roy Scheider and boasts a ridiculously anticlimactic ending. Saturday's premiere deals with slave trading in the modern world; it's titled "Ashanti" and stars Michael Caine, William Holden, Omar Sharif, Rex Harrison and Peter Ustinov. And Sunday's highlight is "Ice Castles," a sappy — but effective — love story involving a blind figure skater and a champion. Espionage is on screen Monday with the premiere of "Covert Action," and Tuesday's special is a taped Barry Manilow concert. Wednesday offers a pleasant diversion in "Greased Lightning," with Richard Pryor and Beau Bridges. An entertaining recap of the prior week's NFL action is offered each Thursday with the Len Dawson and Nick Buonicontini-hosted "Inside The NFL."

Other HBO offerings this month include "The Passage," "The Enforcer," "Tommy," "Invasion Of The Body Snatchers," "The Magic Of Lassie," "Pocket Money," "The Wild Geese," "Uncle Joe Shannon," "Magic," "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore," "Agatha" and "Slow Dancing In The Big City." The latter film never played Lubbock, and never earned the audience it deserved in other cities. December premieres will include "The China Syndrome" and "The Fifth Musketeer."

Mann I — "The Muppet Movie." Kermit and Miss Piggy and the rest of the muppets may be the real stars, but a couple dozen highly respected humans (such as Charles Durning, Steve Martin, Dom DeLuise and Mel Brooks) also make appearances. With or without this flesh and blood assistance, though, these creations of Jim Henson provide a wonderful variety of gags and jokes and visual fun. A lot of fun for anyone in possession of an imagination.

An added reminder: This is the final week for "The Muppet Movie." It will be replaced November 9 by a re-issue of the delightful Norman Jewison musical "Fiddler On The Roof."

Mann II — "An Unmarried Woman." Nominated for Academy Awards last spring in the Best Picture and Best Actress categories (among others), it is still rather pretentious to label this a film illustrating today's woman's sociological situation. Things are just a bit too pat for erica, the film's title character. Still, Jill Clayburgh's exceptional performance instills importance, and her nomination was well deserved.

Mann III — "Halloween." A logical re-release for the pre-Halloween weekend, this is perhaps the most enjoyable schlock horror film of the 1970s. "Halloween" makes good use of the subjective camera and every horror cliché imaginable to keep us jumping throughout. Don't go looking for valid explanations, or characters of intelligence. But do go expecting to be thoroughly entertained. Director John Carpenter gives us an insane 21-year-old killer (a demon force, perhaps?) who returns to the small town where he first committed murder 15 years earlier. Again, on Halloween night. A fine performance by Jamie Lee Curtis (daughter of Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh) as the babysitter involved in the final breathtaking confrontations.

Mann IV — "The Life of Brian." A new controversial comedy from the British comedy troupe known as Monty Python, who earlier gave us the wacky "Monty Python & The Holy Grail." The subject of the new film, which has been condemned by the Catholic Church and the subject of protests in major metropolitan areas, is a man who is mistaken for the messiah, and what might have happened to an ordinary man placed in such a situation. In interviews, the Python members have stated that they never intended to make a sacrilegious film and that they felt "God must have a sense of humor, too." Still, the film has remained the subject of vast debate. We'll have more detailed information next week. Not screened at press time.

Showplace I — "Apocalypse Now." If this is not the film of the decade — which has yet to be determined — it remains, without a doubt, the most anxiously awaited film of the decade. Francis Ford Coppola's epic trip up river into Cambodia has been five years in the making, and the subject of more press than both of his "Godfather" movies combined. The plotline follows a disillusioned young captain, played by Martin Sheen, assigned to travel from Vietnam into Cambodia and assassinate the renegade Lt. Col. Kurtz (Marlon Brando), who has rebelled and set up his own pagan army, eliminating North and South Vietnamese alike. The majority of the two and one-half hour film, though, is said to deal with the river trip, with Sheen's self-inspection as he tries to analyze Brando's impression of being a snail crawling on the edge of a straight razor. Expect long lines. Not screened at press time.

Showplace II and III — "Jesus." Booked on two screens to accommodate advance ticket sales by local religious organizations. Filmed entirely in the Holy Land, using local actors (with the exception of British theater veteran Brian Deacon in the title role), this motion picture stresses authenticity over dramatic input or ability. The result is a film which can be enjoyed only as a slow-moving documentary. No matter that the picture is an ambitious project, the fact remains the pacing is inefficient, the sense of conflict nonexistent, and "Jesus," the film, is just not designed for the average entertainment-seeking moviegoer.

Showplace IV — "Heaven Can Wait" and "Foul Play." See Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Back Screen for comments.

Showplace V — "North Dallas 40." Nick Nolte stars as wide receiver Phil Elliot in this excellent film adaptation of Pete Gent's best-selling novel. The references to the Dallas Cowboys organization are not as well disguised as the filmmakers may have hoped, but the film does a great job of making the public aware of the "business" of pro football. There are a lot of laughs in the early goings, but this remains a deeply serious picture which should inspire a great deal of thought and debate — especially with the pro season upon us. Indeed, the picture's importance and ranking as one of the year's best becomes more and more obvious with each successive viewing.

Showplace VI — "Starting Over." A new sophisticated comedy from director Alan Pakula, this film stars Burt Reynolds as a man who suddenly finds himself divorced from wife Candice Bergen and smitten by our favorite unmarried woman, Jill Clayburgh. While the film is not the moving treatise on divorce we expect (but have yet to receive) from the film medium, there's no denying the charm and enjoyable nature of this picture. All of the performances are capable, if not Oscar caliber, and Miss Bergen's courtship of a purposely playing a singer with a horrendous voice is laughable. Burt Reynolds, long recognized by this critic for his acting talent and sense of comic timing, does nothing really new here — but the fact that he's now doing it for a director as respected as Pakula cannot help but spark his career. In short, a good time — not necessarily cerebral or even two-dimensional, but a fun two hours at the movies, all the same.

South Plains Cinema I, Mall — "Time After Time." Without a doubt, one of the most gloriously entertaining, imaginative and just doggone fun pictures of the year. If the plotline sounds outlandish and ridiculous — and believe me, it does — rest assured that writer-director Nicholas Meyer has worked his magic so well that it all becomes perfectly believable for the full running time of the picture. That plot centers on writer-scientist H.G. Wells building a time machine, only to have murderer Jack Ripper use it to escape the police. Wells then tracks the Ripper through time to modern-day San Francisco. Malcolm McDowell's performance as Wells is sheer delight, especially in his many reactions to the productions of progress. David Warner is outstanding as the evil murderer who finds a home in the 20th century, and Mary Steenburgen is charming as the woman who discovers their secrets. But the best part of the film is the fact that it succeeds on so many levels: as an adventure story, as a mystery, as a love story, as a social comment on violence. Take your pick, and enjoy.

A word of caution: Though rated PG, I would think some of the murder scenes too impressionable for young children. Keep this in mind.

South Plains Cinema II, Mall — "Running." A new picture produced by and starring Michael Douglas, his first since "The China Syndrome." He plays a disillusioned young man who begins training for a marathon race, the art of running providing a sense of accomplishment. Not screened at press time.

South Plains Cinema III, Mall — "Meteor." The new big-budget disaster film from American International Pictures about a meteor, five miles wide, headed straight toward the Earth. Quite a few major stars have traded their talents for big paychecks — including Sean Connery, Natalie Wood, Martin Landau, Brian Keith and Henry Fonda. But the payoff is a laughable, illogical mess. Directed by Ronald Neame, the same man who gave us "The Poseidon Adventure," this new film possesses nothing in regards to human drama, instead concentrating cameras on avalanches in the Alps, tidal waves in Honk Kong, blizzards in Siberia and destruction in New York City. It's merely an effects movie and, unfortunately, the effects are never special enough to pull it off.

South Plains Cinema IV, Mall — "When A Stranger Calls." Carol Kane, who debuted in "Carnal Knowledge" and went on to give fine performances in "Hester Street" and "The World's Greatest Lover," returns to the screen as a baby sitter with a problem. It seems she keeps getting phone calls from a madman asking if the children are all right. And it seems — they aren't. The picture is a brand new one, and it has its share of nail-biting, audience-screaming, unpredictable tension. It would have been a lot more entertaining if there was a bit of logic behind it, but one can't ask for everything. If you like surprises and psychopaths and genre directing, this film won't disappoint you.

Village — "Unidentified Flying Oddball" and "The Jungle Book." The former is a relatively new Disney comedy, centering on a contemporary astronaut who suddenly finds himself stranded in the past — to be specific, in the time of King Arthur. Not screened at press time. "The Jungle Book" is one of Disney's most delightful and hilarious animated efforts. Great songs, too. And if one could win awards for voice-overs, Phil Harris would surely be in the running for his vocal performance as Baloo The Bear.

Winchester — Closed for further construction; will re-open on an as yet undetermined date as Winchester I and II.

Midnight Shows — The Fox Fourplex will offer midnight screenings of Ralph Bakshi's cleverly animated "Wizards" today and Saturday, with the admission price reduced to $2. Also, Showplace Six will offer midnight screenings of its five attractions — "Starting Over," "North Dallas 40," "Apocalypse Now," "Jesus" and "Heaven Can Wait" — tonight and Saturday at regular admission prices.

Coming Attractions — November 16, "Yanks," and December 21, "Roller Boogie." FOX FOURPLEX, November 9, "The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh," and December 21, "The Rose," "1941," and "The Jerk." MANN FOURPLEX, November 9, "Fiddler On The Roof," November 15, "The Life of Brian," November 23, "Catch Bigfoot," and December 21, "Going In Style" and "The Orion Field." SHOWPLACE SIX, November 9, "Richard Pryor: Live In Concert," November 16, "Sleeping Beauty," December 7, "Star Trek: The Motion Picture," and December 21, "A Touch of Class" and "I Will, I Will, For Now," November 16, "Legacy" and "Arabian Adventure," and December 21, "The Electric Horseman" and "Kramer vs. Kramer." VILLAGE, November 9, "Jason & The Argonauts" and "Sinbad & The Eye Of The Tiger."

Committee '80 groups discuss goals for Lubbock

By Nancy Allen
Update staff writer
 Shaping Lubbock's goals for the '80s was the idea behind a three-day conference held by the chamber of commerce Committee '80, last weekend in Santa Fe, N.M.

Some 75 conferees — committee members and their spouses — met to hear reports and recommendations by nine subcommittees concerning agriculture, cultural affairs, Lubbock's economy, education, government and taxation, municipal facilities and services, recreation and entertainment, spirit of Lubbock, and transportation.

Chamber of Commerce Director John Logan stressed the goals — which subcommittees had worked since early 1979 to prepare — are "tentative."

They will be finalized after a night of public hearings throughout the city in January or February 1980.

Discussion during the 11-hour-long sessions centered on maintaining what conferees called "sustained, managed growth" of the city during the next 10 years.

"Towns in Texas are either growing or going backward," participants agreed. "Good steady growth is good for us all."

Committee members repeatedly said Lubbock must continue to attract businesses which will provide a strong tax base in the decade to come.

Lubbock's economy is built on a foundation of a diversified agriculture, insulated by a variety of businesses and industry, which tend to make it "recession proof," the economic subcommittee told the group.

Subcommittee spokesman Dr. J. Wayland Bennett singled out agriculture, the oil and gas industry, medical and health sciences, higher education, and manufacturing, as the "undergirding" sustaining wholesale, retail, financial, construction, communications, and public and private services.

To assure city growth, participants said "we'll have to sell ourselves nationally."

"We have many, many advantages to sell," said Bennett. "A vital part of the future of Lubbock is that we continue to do so."

The city's education system — "one of the finest I have seen anywhere," said education subcommittee chairman Roy Roberts — is one of the benefits Lubbock offers, conferees agreed.

They also cited the "positive spirit" prevalent among Lubbockites, called Lubbock's "open society," and a responsible city government ("a group of honorable people who give a damn," commented one participant) as other advantages to living in Lubbock.

Growth, however, will depend upon the city's ability to provide municipal services — most importantly water and transportation facilities — and a variety of cultural and recreational diversions, Committee '80 members concurred.

Lubbock's need for a third municipal-agricultural water source surfaced in reports made by a number of subcommittees.

Spike Wideman, spokesman for the agriculture subcommittee, called agriculture "the single most important factor to the Lubbock economy."

Wideman warned Committee '80 that the availability of water will be a determining factor in the continuing growth of the industry, which will affect both the city and the region.

The economic, municipal services and facilities subcommittees agreed obtaining another major water supply — importing it from out of state — will be crucial to Lubbock's growth during the next ten years.

"Water is the base for continued economic development and growth in the Lubbock trade territory," Bennett told conferees. "Long-range water development programs are essential for an orderly growth of population, and in industrial and municipal activities. In addition, water is the foundation of the area's agricultural productivity."

The Justiceburg Reservoir, now in planning stages, will provide only temporary relief from shortening water supplies, Committee '80 members agreed.

Developing better transportation links between Lubbock and other cities also emerged as a top priority for the years to come during the Santa Fe conference.

The transportation subcommittee highlighted completing Interstate Highway 27 between Lubbock and Amarillo as the most important project to pursue.

The interstate would provide Lubbock with a north-south expressway and a valuable link to the Texas Panhandle and Denver, Colo., subcommittee members said.

They were also concerned with formulating at least one large-scale goal for the community to muster around. Conferees worried that after the completion of Lubbock's International Airport, Memorial Civic Center and Mahon Library — the biggest projects of the '70s — apathy might become a problem among Lubbockites.

Because businesses choosing a city in which to locate look for first class employees, and those employees want a city which offers a high standard of living, Committee '80 members supported building a cultural affairs center during the next decade.

The center, proposed by the cultural affairs subcommittee, would provide space for live performances, hanging displays, rehearsal rooms, classrooms, offices and storage. It would be available to all artistic groups in Lubbock.

"Many groups can't afford heating up and lighting the civic center, let alone trying to fill it," subcommittee member Dr. Harold Luce told conferees.

A culture center would make life easier for artistic groups in the city, subcommittee members said. It also would "focus the community's attention on these groups and promote wider understanding of them."

Many of the subcommittees said Lubbock needs an agency devoted to keeping the community informed of its own strengths and weaknesses. Educators believed Lubbockites are not aware of the excellent educational system here.

Researchers said "We found out we have things here we never knew about; we've got to get the word around." Culture advocates bemoaned the lack of a central ticket and information office for displays and performances.

Spirit of Lubbock subcommittee spokesman Bob McKelvey noted, "There's something special about the spirit of Lubbock." He believed maintaining communication throughout the city would keep that spirit strong.

Committee '80 also highlighted stepped-up law enforcement as a high priority in Lubbock during the next ten years. "If Lubbock is such a great place, why do we have such a high crime rate?" asked one member.

During discussion periods, the subjects of improving Lubbock's system of government representation and establishing a community college here, were considered. However a final priority-setting session Sunday morning saw them take a back seat to other needs.

Acknowledging the interrelationship between the many aims expressed during the conference, one participant noted, "If we take care of the high priority goals, the rest of them will fall into place."

According to his squadron commander, his actions, personal appearance and military bearing, both on and off duty, serve as an outstanding model for other members of the squadron.

The 23-year-old sergeant recently displayed his outstanding professionalism by recommending a spark and lightning arrester be installed at the Terry County Auxiliary Airfield. The arrester will protect the remote control units from any damage that might result from lightning strikes, of which there were four last spring. His actions enabled the wing's pilot training program to continue without interruption.

Sergeant Sutherland is a native of Hopewell, Virginia, where he was a 1974 graduate of Hopewell High School. He has 67 hours towards a degree in Occupational Education from Wayland Baptist College.

The staff sergeant is currently instructing members of his squadron in the Korean martial art of Tai Kwon Doo (karate). He participated on his squadron's intramural flag football team this fall. He also enjoys music, especially playing the guitar.

Sergeant Sutherland's wife, Cynthia, is from Pottstown, Penn. They are expecting an addition to their family any time. The Sutherlands live in Reese Village.

Tech awarded research grants

Texas Tech University has been awarded a total of $10,674,725 in research grants and contracts during the 1979 fiscal year, second highest annual figure in the institution's history, according to tabulations by Dr. J. Knox Jones Jr., vice president for Research and Graduate Studies.

The figure was surpassed only by fiscal year 1978, during which the university received a big one-time infusion on the Crosbyton Solar Power Project.

The number of competitive research projects funded in 1979 from outside sources, a total of 247, represents an institutional high for a single year, Jones said.

"Faculty and staff members submitted a total of 332 proposals for grants and contracts requesting $26,292,737 in funding," the research vice president stated.
