

Texans Vote Today On Revisions

VOTERS across Texas will go the polls today to decide the fate of three proposed constitutional amendments, one of which could influence the direction Texas agriculture will take over the next several years.

West Texans in particular will be keeping their eye on Proposition No. 3, which its supporters claim is "essential to the survival of the family farm." That proposition would allow the state commissioner of agriculture to issue up to $10 million in general obligation bonds to provide state guarantees for loans to family farmers and ranchers.

Family Farms Endangered

"Unless we do something to get young people started in farming, the family farm will probably disappear in this century," said State Rep. Luther Jones of El Paso, the chief sponsor of the proposition. "People can ignore the problems of agriculture at their peril because once the family farm has disappeared, there'll be no turning back."

Jones' program would allow the setting aside of $10 million to assist young farmers who cannot afford the 29 percent down payment now generally required. Those participating would be limited to Texas residents who have "the necessary education or training" in farming and ranching, and intend to buy the land for those purposes. Applicants must have a net worth of less than $100,000.

A similar program in Minnesota has sponsored 158 loans in 2 1/2 years without a single default, Jones said.

There is no way for the loan program to lose money, he said, because the land would be the loan security and could be sold by the state in the event of default.

Legislation already has been passed to implement the program, and would permit the state to guarantee 90 percent of the amount due on a family farm or ranch loan.

It would require that the purchaser have lived in Texas five years, be trained or experienced in farming or ranching and have a total net worth of less than $100,000.

The proposed amendment has drawn little opposition and has the support of Gov. Bill Clements, House Speaker Bill Clayton, Land Commissioner Bob Bullock and Attorney General Mark White.

However, Clements has announced

Rain Prospect Accompanying Cool Front

A HIGH pressure system is expected to bring cool temperatures to the Lubbock vicinity today and a 20 percent chance for rain tonight.

As one cool front moves eastward out of West Texas and another moves in, the mercury in Lubbock only is expected to reach to the upper 50s this afternoon before falling to the upper 30s tonight.

Temperatures are expected to be near 60 Wednesday, and should remain in that range through Saturday.

Forecasters are predicting chances of rain throughout most of West Texas through Saturday. Temperatures should become even cooler toward the end of the week.

Monday, in Lubbock, the mercury climbed to 67 as northeasterly winds blowing 10 to 15 mph pushed the front toward Texas.

Although skies were sunny over Lubbock, most of east Texas remained under cloudy skies as another front pushed across that part of the state. At 4 p.m., temperatures varied by more than 30 degrees across the state, with Dalhart reported a 50 degree reading and McAllen recording 82 degrees.

An early season snowfall in parts of the central United States dropped up to 11 inches of snow on parts of Nebraska as winds gusted up to 35 mph.

The high winds and wet snow had caused some power outages within the state, and many schools were forced to close because of bad road conditions.

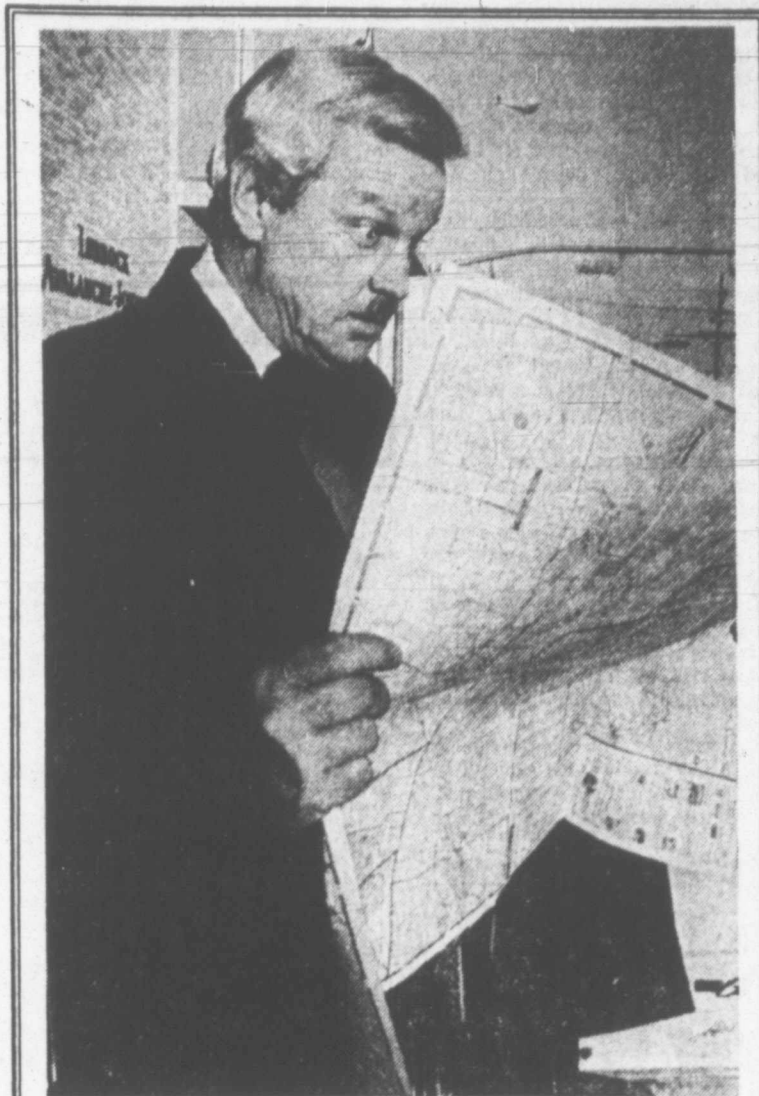

In the northern Rockies, snow showers caused by a stationary front, added 9 more inches of snow in parts of Yellowstone National Park in northwestern Wyoming.

$210 Million Aid Vowed

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.N. members pledged $210 million in emergency aid to Cambodia at a day-long conference, Monday, but the humanitarian gesture was scarred by political infighting between communist camps.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim opened the meeting with an appeal for funds "to cope with human suffering of an appalling magnitude." When he announced the pledges at day's end, he told the delegates, "There are, unfortunately, still some constraining factors. The logistical problems we are facing are extensive, and they are compounded by underlying political approaches and perceptions."

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance reaffirmed U.S. pledges of $69 million. U.N. officials declined to give a breakdown of other pledges by countries or

WHERE IS THAT DANG TOWN? — Lubbock Mayor Dirk West scans a map, searching for the town of Muleshoe where he and an entourage of food tasters, bodyguards and reporters were headed Monday evening for what they hoped would be a feast, not a famine. Muleshoe's gourmets had pledged to turn out a meal fit for, well, at least a cartoonist, after West took several potshots in his well-known cartoons at what he claimed was Muleshoe's ghastly gastronomy. Roasted Dirk Dines On 'Mule Prime Rib'

 MULESHOE — The gleaming white Lincoln Continental tried to sneak into town about sunset Monday night, but was met at the city limits and immediately surrounded by the entire Muleshoe police force.

What with the swirling lights, screaming sirens and police officers blocking off every intersection, it certainly looked like the locals had just trapped the head of the Mob, sitting there inside the plush limousine, dressed in a black tuxedo and escorted by a burly policeman.

On "Most Wanted" List
 Bonnie and Clyde they weren't, but Lubbock Mayor Dirk West and his wife Mary Ruth certainly topped Muleshoe's most wanted list Monday — especially because West has been stinging the town with barbs about its cuisine in his Southwest Conference football cartoons that appear twice weekly in The Avalanche-Journal.

West's cartoons this season have three times included comments questioning Muleshoe's culinary prowess — touting Muleshoe as Maalox's "City of the Year" and the "Site of the 1980 Kaopetate Festival." But Muleshoe struck back and issued West the ultimate challenge — "to put his mouth where Muleshoe's food was."

The unique warfare between big city cartoonist mayor and smalltown pride climaxed Monday night in the First Annual (and possibly the last) Dirk West Mini-Banquet, held at the Capitol Freehold Land and Investment Co. restaurant, which along with The Corral, El Nuevo Leal, the San Francisco Cafe and the Pizza Hut, put together a spread never before seen in Muleshoe.

Stanley Heads Hospital Board; Data Processing Switch Set

By DEBBIE STALTER
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 LUBBOCK County Hospital District board members voted in a new chairman Monday when they named Joe Stanley to that position.

But Stanley made it clear he wants to hold the spot only temporarily.

Stanley, who has served for many years as the board's secretary and most recently as chairman pro-tem, was unanimously voted to the post, with board member Dub Rushing to take over Stanley's pro-tem seat.

Stanley, however, would accept the position for only as long as his term on the board extended, meaning the board will be looking for still another chairman in January, 1980.

After serving 10 years on the board, Stanley said Monday he plans to retire from the governing group when his term expires and said he has asked the County Commissioners not to reappoint him to the chairmanship.

"I feel like it's time to make a change," Stanley told board members. He said he accepted the position Monday "for the sake of continuity."

Data Processing Solution
 In other action, the board seemed to have found an angel in disguise in solving its problem of selecting an alternate data processing system for hospital billing before March 15, 1980.

The district's board of managers was faced with the task of selecting a new firm to provide bill processing for Health Sciences Center Hospital because Health Management Services, the hospital's current provider, is going out of health care business in March.

If the March deadline for finding a new system is not reached, the hospital could be faced with major difficulties in its billing department.

Auditing Firm Considered
 Although the board first voted to hire an auditing firm for consultation in finding a new system, board members later were made an offer by Shared Medical Services.

Bob Flippin, representing the Pennsylvania-based firm, offered the board a solution to replacing the hospital's current data processing method within the necessary time frame — and at a lower cost for the first year than the system which is now in use.

Board members first decided to follow its finance committee's proposal to draw up an in-house guideline report for review by a Dallas auditing firm, Ernst and Whinney, which has been hired to conduct the hospital's year-end audit for this year.

Richard David, who serves on the consulting staff for data processing for the firm, told finance committee members Monday his fee for participating in the search for a system ranged from $38

CZECH ACTIVISTS FREED

LONDON (AP) — Fifteen young Czech human rights activists arrested by security police have been released, dissident sources reported Monday night from Prague. The last person released, 25-year-old photographer Ivan Kyncl, was badly beaten while in custody, according to a telephoned report received in London.

Anti-U.S. Violence Increases In Iran

British Embassy Seized Briefly

By The Associated Press
 AYATOLLAH Ruhollah Khomeini's followers, already holding scores of hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, seized two U.S. consulates and the British Embassy on Monday in an escalation of war of nerves against "the great Satan, America" and its "evil" ally.

No injuries were reported in the new takeovers in Iran, and it was not known how many new American hostages were seized, if any. The British Foreign Office in London announced Monday night that the takeover of its embassy in Tehran ended peacefully after six hours, apparently following intervention by the Iranian army guards, and no one was hurt. It said more than 100 students had invaded the embassy, holding about 30 people.

The head of the Iranian Embassy in Washington made clear that the Tehran government would not intercede to free U.S. Embassy hostages. Ali Agah told reporters the government "reflects the demand of the people" regarding the shah, and the student militants who seized the embassy, Sunday, could not be asked to leave.

"All Are Well"
 The State Department estimated that 60 American hostages were being held in the embassy, and said it received indirect assurances from the students that "all are well." Previous reports said seven or eight Iranian employees also were held.

Iranian leader Khomeini and his student supporters demanded that the United States and Britain hand over two "criminals" for trial — the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, hospitalized in New York, and former Iranian Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, living in exile in Western Europe.

But the Carter administration rejected the demand that it expel the shah, and the British said they did not have Bakhtiar — that he was living in France.

In Bonn, West German television broadcast uncredited photographs of two Americans, supposedly among the U.S. Embassy hostages, blindfolded and with their hands tied behind their backs.

Mob Actions
 Broadcasts of the government-run radio, monitored in London, said students seized the U.S. consulates in Tabriz, in northwest Iran, and in the southern city of Shiraz. The State Department said another mob occupied and ransacked the Iran-American Society building, a cultural center, in Isfahan, central Iran.

The British Foreign Office had lost contact with its embassy in mid-afternoon, after receiving a report that students had entered the building. Britain protested "strongly" to the Iranian government following the occupation.

The Moslem clergyman Khomeini, in a speech in his headquarters city of Qum, endorsed the takeover of the U.S. Embassy and said it had been a center of "plots" by "the great Satan, America." Radio Tehran reported. His representative, Ayatollah Seyyed Khansari, declared that America, Russia and Britain were each "more evil than the others," the broadcast said.

Power In Council
 The Carter administration has been relying on the Iranian government's efforts to secure the hostages' freedom. But the real power in Iran lies with Khomeini's Revolutionary Council of Moslem clergymen, and not with the government of Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan.

Iranian government officials said they were hopeful that Khomeini's son Ahmad, who was summoned to the U.S. Embassy by the student militants, might obtain the release of the hostages. Ambassadors of other nations in Tehran also offered to act as mediators.

But the students said they called the younger Khomeini only to show him that the embassy was a "nest of U.S. espionage" against Iran's revolutionary regime. There were no reports that any diplomats had actually begun mediating the standoff.

The radio said Iranians staged anti-American demonstrations across the country Monday.

Hostage Reported
 Iran's Pars news agency reported that an American identified as Bill Herr, an employee of a U.S. oil contracting firm, had been taken hostage by workers of the rural development office in Ahwaz, an oil center in southwest Iran.

U.S. officials downplayed the possibility of launching a military operation to rescue the American hostages. White House press secretary Jody Powell de-

AFL-CIO Employees Demand More Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO was struck Monday by 14 employees of one of its union departments in a contract dispute over higher wages.

It was the first walkout against the giant labor federation since members of the public relations and publications department staged a half-day stoppage in 1970.

The staff of the Food and Beverage Trades Department walked off their jobs at noon but did not put up any picket lines outside the AFL-CIO headquarters building here.

The strikers are members of the newly organized FBTD Independent Staff Union, which was negotiating its initial contract with the AFL-CIO.

Spokesmen for both the union and the AFL-CIO said negotiations were continuing Monday night and both sides said a settlement was possible.

fended the decision to admit the former shah.

Reports from Tehran said the militants who took over the U.S. Embassy, Sunday, apparently were not armed. Radio Tehran said the embassy's Marine guards put up a three-hour resistance, tossing tear-gas canisters. But they did not use other weapons, apparently in keeping with State Department policy to show restraint in such situations.

The shah, long a close U.S. ally, fled Iran last January as the Khomeini-led revolution neared victory.

Comic Strip Artist Dies

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Al Capp, creator of the Li'l Abner, the comic strip that survived seven presidents and became an American institution, died Monday night, his attorney said.

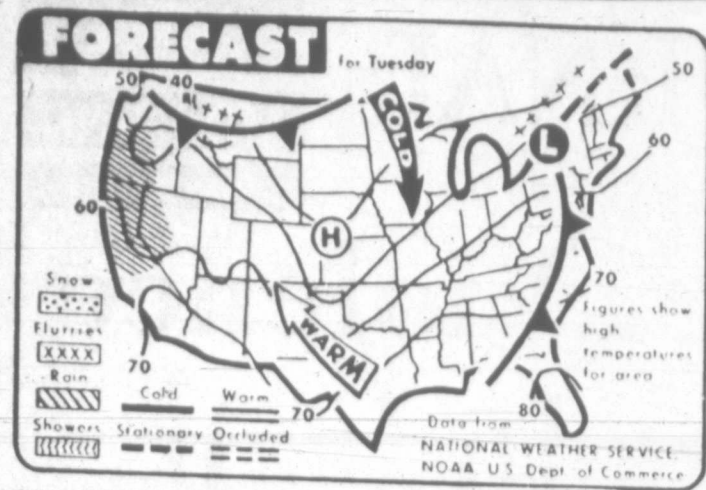

Alvin Hochberg, the attorney, said Capp died at Mt. Auburn Hospital here after a lengthy illness. He was 70. Hochberg did not disclose the cause of the cartoonist's death.

Capp suffered from emphysema.
 (Caricature By Al Capp
 On Page 19, Sec. B)

The comic strip disappeared from newspapers Nov. 13, 1977, when Capp retired. Going with it were such durable characters as Li'l Abner, the painfully shy and impoverished big-footed hillbilly, and Daisy Mae, his ever-pursuing and latter-day wife.

They were but a few of the characters that Capp employed in the syndicated comic strip, born of the Depression in 1934. At its height, the strip was syndicated in 900 newspapers around the world.

At the time of his retirement, Capp said he "could see my stuff didn't have the joy it used to have. I wasn't having fun with it anymore. It was becoming a chore."

Teachers Needed For LEARN Classes

The University Center Programs LEARN Committee, now setting up the spring semester of the LEARN program at Texas Tech, is looking for qualified people to teach courses.

LEARN (an acronym for Leisure Education: A Recreational Need) provides a wide variety of non-academic courses open to the Lubbock community as well as Tech students.

Anyone with knowledge, skills or experience in almost any area is welcomed by the UC committee to share by teaching a LEARN course. Previous teaching experience is not necessary, but instructors must have a sufficient background in their areas.

Instructors may charge a maximum of $3 per hour of instruction per registered student in addition to material costs. Classrooms will be provided in the University Center upon request.

Area Man Receives Parole; Revocation Set In Other Case

AUSTIN — Steve Lee Stamp, convicted of burglary in Lamb County Sept. 13, 1977, has been paroled by Gov. Bill Clements on recommendation of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Stamp was paroled to Lamb County after serving and earning two years and 11 months of a four-year sentence.

John Brown, convicted of theft in Swisher County in 1977, had his parole revoked for unsatisfactory adjustment. Brown had been on parole since July 17, 1978.

Those interested in teaching a class should call the University Activities Office at 742-3621. The deadline for arranging classes for the spring semester is Dec. 7.

Doctor Still Going Strong At 88 Years

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Dr. James Archer Smith is still going strong after 60 years of practicing medicine.

"I'll retire when I am mentally and physically unable to do anything else," says the 88-year-old physician known around town as "Doc Smith."

Smith is also well known as a lover of insults.

"They tell me if I don't yell at 'em, they think I'm sick," he says about patients who don't follow his advice. "If you don't want me to tease you, you'd better go talk to somebody else."

Testimony Begins In Murder Trial

By DON CUNNINGHAM
A-J Correspondent

KERRVILLE — A former state trooper Monday told a 218th District Court jury here about a high-speed chase in south Lubbock County the night the body of William Drew Young III was found in the trunk of his burning car two years ago.

Max Gunn, an insurance salesman and former Department of Public Safety highway patrolman stationed in Lubbock, was the first witness to testify as Jim Gordon's murder trial for his alleged role in Young's death began Monday.

Gordon's trial was moved here on a change of venue granted by Lubbock's 99th District Court Judge Thomas L. Clinton, who is trial judge in the case.

Under questioning by Jim Bob Darnell, first assistant criminal district attorney for Lubbock County, Gunn recalled the arrest of two men following the chase on a dirt road south of Lubbock.

The former trooper said he, his partner and a DPS sergeant were on routine patrol when they saw a dark-colored Buick convertible parked beside a burning cardboard box on Quirt Avenue the night of Dec. 24, 1977.

That same evening, the 28-year-old Young's body was found in the trunk of his burning car eight-tenths of a mile south of FM 1585 on Avenue P. An autopsy revealed Young had been beaten and shot.

Following the 3-mile Christmas Eve chase, Gunn said, vehicle driver Kenneth Herndon and passenger Kenneth Owen Jaycon were arrested for intoxication.

However, Herndon and Jaycon, already convicted for their roles in the slaying, were not held in connection with Young's death at that time. Two months later the pair, along with Gordon and three other Lubbockites, were charged with the murder.

In February, a Lubbock jury convicted the 36-year-old Herndon and sentenced him to a life prison term. Jaycon, 31, was convicted by a Lubbock panel in April 1978 and received a 25-year prison sentence.

The three other persons charged with the murder — Tico and Homer Lowrance, owners of the 19th Street club where Young worked and was shot, and club employee Jan Payne — pleaded guilty to charges in connection with their roles in the slaying and received 10-year probated prison terms.

AN EDITORIAL:

Boat People Benefit Unclear

THE COURSE of human events is inherently disorderly. Nevertheless, we persist in trying to visualize order in the chaos, to discern connections between seemingly unconnected events. Artifice for the sake of articulation, so to speak. This train of thought was set in motion by several current events, one of which is the quickening tempo in defections by Soviet ballet dancers.

THE ATTENTION accorded to and the secure futures of the dancers are in painful contrast to the lot of defectors from another tyranny—the boat people. The hundreds of thousands of Indo-Chinese for whom possible death on the open sea and in border minefields has been preferable to the life they knew at home are also news. They are a big and continuing story. But collectively, individually they are largely invisible, personal agonies submerged in the mass misery.

Revolution Splits El Salvador

EL SALVADOR, the most crowded and almost poorest country on the American mainland, has been overtaken by a governmental upheaval whose coming has long been clearly apparent to almost everyone—even the U.S. State Department. The exception appears to have been ousted President Carlos Humberto Romero, who resisted to the end Washington's entreaties to moderate his heavy-handed rule.

WASHINGTON MADE its opposition to Humberto's strong-arm tactics clear by cutting off military assistance to give point to its protests against human-rights violations and, more recently, urged early presidential elections to facilitate a non-revolutionary transfer of power. Humberto, however, would have none of it. Consequently, he has had to transfer power even earlier. For Washington and for the junior officers who apparently were listening to its advice when Humberto was not (and proceeded to remove him) the question now is whether they can hold on to power against the extremists of the right and left long enough to attract popular support, without which representative government can never be a reality.

Jewish Vote 'Sacrifice' Pays Off For Connally

WASHINGTON—John Connally's Mideast peace plan has aroused rage in usually urbane quarters. The loftier-than-thou New York Times for once lost its editorial temper and, dipping into the imprecatory section of the thesaurus, pronounced Connally's position "wicked." Connally bases his plan on UN Resolution 242 (back to your 1967 borders, everyone) and says it is oriented to specifically "American interests," like oil. The Times refuses to take "American interests" at face value; it calls these "ugly code words" that in effect blame the Jews and Israel for the oil shortage.

YET BEHIND Jewish anger with Connally is a tremendous pathos—the pathos of Jewish loss. I am not thinking principally of the Holocaust. I am thinking of a young Jewish woman I know, who says she does not believe in God, but who sits dutifully in her temple on every holy day, fasting and honoring the faith of her fathers: a faith she feels forbidden to share. She will tolerate no loose talk against Israel, and somehow her fidelity is more eloquent than all the statistics of genocide. For Jews like her, Israel is all that is left. Israel was to be the sanctuary—no longer the Promised Land, but only a place of refuge from the relentless profanations of modernity.

IT PROBABLY means the obvious: that the Israel lobby has been effective and successful, as lobbies go—which is why the Arabs, without a comparable lobby, are playing their trump card. The current charge is that Connally is "selling out" Israel to "Arab blackmail." Wicked or not, he is free from the taint of idealism. Still, his contention that "domestic politics" has unduly shaped American foreign policy need not be taken as a hint that the Jews have schemed us into a corner.

Fed Chief's Analysis Of Economy Said Misguided

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: The statement Oct. 17 by the head of the Federal Reserve Board, Mr. Volcker, that Americans will have to accept a decline in their standard of living in order to lower inflation, is one of the best examples of ignorance in economics I've heard of for a while. While it is true that borrowing increases the supply of credit, and thus in a small way adds to inflation, it certainly is not the root cause of inflation that government and the Federal Reserve would have us believe. It's difficult to believe that the higher-ups still haven't begun to realize that federal deficits and printing-press money are really inflation's source. Either that, or they're lying to us. Dr. William G. Byars, Lubbock

Minister Sees Prayers In School As Denying Openness

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: Some people in our city regard the question of religious prayers, programs and artifacts in the public schools as the battle of righteousness versus the powers of evil, or of an orderly universe under an infinite God versus the chaos of a universe without a guide and law-giver. That the universe and human life could be orderly without a Creator God or that chaos existed in the world under the same God is either ignored or lightly passed over. Most every human being has a sense of goodness within that transcends any doctrine or creed. This has been so for most of the many generations of humankind. There has been an order in natural human relationships for many ages. A gradually developing moral order has increased slowly, from generation to generation, the quantity of what Jesus described as neighborly love; in his mind an essential for a meaningful faith. Other prophets, in other times and places, have spoken for human neighborliness as a foundation for religious behavior. Goodness, most of them said, was not dependent on the prevailing belief system. America is a moral country, even with more than half its people "unchurched," in part because our forebears saw that no one belief-system, even that of the majority, could be allowed the power to dominate even the smallest of our communities. That principle was fought for and won in the first decade of our country's existence. I recognize that a number of people consider the restriction of prayer, religious programs, Bible distribution and the like as infringements of their religious freedom. But think, were their desires to be realized, of the variety of religious doctrine that would then appear across the country. Do we really want to put our children again in the forefront of sectarian religious war as Christianity once did in the Children's Crusade? It would be sad to sacrifice our children again on the altar of righteousness. Let us encourage our children to learn openness, an openness we adults may have failed to experience, and if the faith we seek to teach them in our families and in our churches has not enough reality to resist the onslaught of "prayerless" schools or "Godless" teaching it is too weak a faith to deserve to survive and proposes a God too small to live. How dare we expect the public schools to take on the task of religious instruction simply because we have failed? We need intelligent, thoughtful citizens. Our public schools, at their best, when unencumbered by sectarian influence, can serve that need well. Rev. Alfred D. Judd, Minister, First Unitarian Universalist Church

Odessan Notes Difference In News On 'Pro-Con' Oil

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: This is a letter concerning the pro-oil and anti-oil activities the week of Oct. 17. I wanted to point out some things the public may have missed. I work for the Permian Basin Petroleum Association representing the independent side of the oil industry. I don't own any petroleum interests of any kind. The Pro-Oil Rally in Midland drew 1,200-1,500 people. The largest anti-oil crowd was about 5,000 (according to CBS and NBC-TV) in Chicago where Jane Fonda addressed the crowd. She was paid $5,000 according to the TV networks. The Associated Press and United Press International said the attendance was less than half of what was expected in most cities. Several of the anti-oil demonstrations received national newspaper and television coverage while the Pro-Oil Rally did not. John McCall, news director at KOSA-TV in Odessa and Doug Carter, news director at KMID-TV in Midland, sent videotape stories to their respective networks but they were not aired. According to the AP, about 200 groups took part in the anti-oil rally. Two groups, the West Texas Geological Society and the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, sponsored the pro-oil rally. The union liberal coalition spent approximately 18 months, with 20 full-time field organizers and six fully-staffed regional branches, preparing their demonstrations. The pro-oil people spent two weeks. The oil industry pays 28.7 percent of property taxes in Texas, produces 25 percent of all fuel energy produced in the United States and paid $2 billion to royalty owners in 1978. The top 45 oil companies paid 71.6 percent of their gross revenue in taxes in 1978 according to Midland County Tax Assessor-Collector, Elmo Lineberger, one of the rally speakers. Abraham Lincoln once said, "You can do nothing without public opinion on your side." We're asking everyone to do his or her part to tell our side of the oil and free enterprise story, since the national news media choose not to. Our thanks go out to everyone who attended and helped in the Pro-Oil Rally, especially the originator, Jerry Calhoun of the Geological Society. Bob Madison, Odessa

She Was Not 'Motivated' By Motivational Speakers

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: In response to Mr. Clough's letter about the "motivational" speaker, I wonder whether he means the former Rice football star who now makes his living as an evangelist? Possibly he refers to the recent Probe speakers who visited a few classrooms at Tech and who used his Bible Church as their Lubbock headquarters? Either way, Mr. Clough's message is clear. Justice means nothing when Jesus is at stake. Ethics are not to get in the way of dissemination of "Biblical truths." It may interest Mr. Clough to know that there are expressions of Christianity other than the literal, conservative interpretation he espouses. If he is interested in the Bible, perhaps he will be able to agree that children should be taught to read in school—at least well enough to be able to read it for themselves. I object to 45 minutes of class time being given over to "motivational" speakers, be they Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, or former football stars. School time should be given to the teachers and students and used for teaching and learning, which is what school is all about. I listened dutifully to two Probe speakers. One of the presentations was dualistic and disjointed. The other was merely boring. They were probably the best witness for the separation of church and state I have ever heard. VIRGINIA PAYETTE: Battling A Bulge

DALLAS—Heard the latest on the cancer front? Now they think our bulging waistlines will do us in. And there goes our last refuge, fellow fatties. It's not even safe to drown your fears in a hot fudge sundae any more. You know which fears I'm talking about. Scare stories about the terrible things we do to ourselves every time we poke or pour something into our faces. Cigarettes will give us lung cancer. Opium causes cancer of the bladder. Hot dogs are dangerous because of nitrates. Beer has nitrosamines and they're a no-no, too. Ditto for some brands of scotch. (Vodka, gin and rum are still okay, but stay tuned.) SODA POP'S not a safe substitute, either. It's got saccharine in every bubbling drop and that'll do a mouse in faster than the family cat. Even peanut butter, for hevinnsakes. Didn't know about that one? Well, it's full of aflatoxin, which has something to do with molds that cause liver cancer. Charcoal-broiled steaks are out, too. Because of the smoke, you see. Penetrates the T-bones and gives you cancer of whatever's left after the cigarettes, hot dogs, booze and opium have been at work. The truth is, if you listen to the researchers who get all excited over a trace of carcinogen in anything, you'd have to figure that your local supermarket, with all those deadly goodies, is the most dangerous place you can go. UNLESS IT'S BED. Because (and get ready for the big one, folks) sex is cancer-causing, too. The human body, believe it or not, emits radioactivity. Just how much, the researchers aren't saying, but who wants to be half safe? Take a geiger counter to bed. If it clicks louder than your pulse, get up and take a cold shower. Or stick to kissing; all that causes is mononucleosis. Come to think of it, it's even dangerous to get the old pulse pounding in the first place. What that does is shoot your blood pressure up, and what they give you for that is a drug called reserpine. And, yep, that causes cancer in laboratory mice. Here's where you have to pick the way you want to go. I guess: cancer vs. a stroke or heart attack. And so much for the cynic who said nobody ever died from love. UP TILL now, though, nobody's come up with a cancer scare for ice cream, or any other fattening delicacy we turn to when what we really want is a cigarette, or a drag on our opium pipe, or a sizzling session in the boudoir. We knew we were risking a few more bulges, but what the heck, life has to include a few devil-may-care flings. And for all its other bad qualities, at least blubber isn't malignant. But hold on. Here comes a doctor who says fat people might be more susceptible to cancer than skinny ones. Dr. Arthur Upton, director of the National Cancer Institute, admits the complete evidence isn't in, but he's all for being careful. Fat may not necessarily be fatal, but he warned a Senate hearing on nutrition that "prudent interim principles" indicate Americans should eat less fat, drink less alcohol, eat more fiber and avoid being overweight to reduce the risk of cancer. HIGH-FAT diets (both animal and vegetable) have been linked with cancers of the breast and colon, and Dr. Upton wants us to reduce our fat intake by at least 10 percent. And there go the hot fudge sundaes, which are full of terrible things like butterfat, sugar, chocolate goo and whipped cream. If all this dangerous living gives you a bad case of the twitches, that's really bad. Because there's a study out now that indicates emotional stress promotes cancer. Don't rush for the tranquilizers, though. Researchers are beginning to get suspicious of those, too. I don't know about you, but I'm going to fight back by diluting the risks: a little vodka, a little romance, a cigarette now and then, and maybe a hot fudge something-or-other on birthdays. That way I won't know what finally gets me—but I'll be too content to care. J.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

AN AIR FORCE captain in Utah some years ago was told by his commanding officer he needed a college degree, if he wanted to get promoted. It was a big thing with the brass at the time. The captain went to the nearest university, and asked a registrar's counselor to name the easiest possible course to get a degree. The counselor mulled it, then said ceramics. The captain enrolled. Eventually the degree was forthcoming. And the captain thought no more about it. A couple of years later, he received orders to go to the Space Center near Houston. A computer had kicked out his name as particularly qualified to manage rocket materials. His promotions came fast. He was almost one of a kind in a significant field he'd thought was a lot of nonsense. Client asks how long the typical marriage lasted a century ago in the United States. Just 12 years. Death of one partner or another was why this average fell so low. The female Australian aborigine has the smallest brain of any living human. The word "garble" originally meant to "sift spices." Tests have proven that no living creature has better vision than the hawk. Peanut butter, too, got its start in the market as a health food. The men who built the Erie Canal were paid $1 plus a quart of whiskey a day in four-ounce shots starting at 6 a.m. At least 12 nations have put Albert Einstein's likeness on postage stamps. Nobody else has been so honored. A. What proportion of the divorce suits filed in this country are dropped before they come to trial? A. About a third of them.

Texans Voting On Amendments

 his opposition to Proposition No. 2, which would allow the Texas Legislature to establish a special committee to review rules and regulations adopted by state agencies while the legislature is not in session.
 The legislature currently has the power to change agency rules by law during the times it is in session, but the proposed amendment would allow legislative committees to block the implementation of rules it finds unsatisfactory when lawmakers are not meeting.
 Clements and the League of Women

Voters oppose the amendment as an encroachment of the legislative branch of state government into powers reserved for the executive branch.
 The third amendment on the ballot, Proposition No. 1, would authorize four-year terms for notaries public instead of the current two-year terms.
 Also, the notaries would be licensed directly by the Secretary of State rather than through county clerks and the requirement that notaries live in the county where they are licensed would be eliminated.
 State officials have estimated only about 740,000 of the five million Texans eligible to vote today will do so, with most of the votes coming from the state's major cities.

 At least half the votes are expected to be cast in Houston where nine candidates are running for mayor.
 Dallas voters will decide the fate of a seven-part bond issue, Austin voters will decide a bond issue for purchase of a county office building, and in Fort Worth a tax limitation proposal is on the ballot.
 Polls will be open today from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Officer Appeals August Suspension

A Lubbock police officer, suspended in August for listing a traffic violator's occupation as "pimp," Monday appealed that suspension to the state district courts.
 Patrolman Patrick Hastings was suspended without pay for three days Aug. 18 and the Lubbock Civil Service Commission, to which Hastings appealed, upheld the department's suspension on Oct. 22.
 Department officials handed out the suspension after a man Hastings issued three traffic citations July 24 complained to police disciplinary officers because Hastings listed the violator's occupation as "pimp" on the tickets. The man reportedly said he was unemployed.
 But in Hastings' petition filed in 237th District Court, the officer is challenging the "so-called (Civil Service Commission) hearing" because the commissioners did not issue subpoenas "to make witnesses testify or produce records necessary to clear Hastings."
 Hastings' petition, prepared by attorney Lewis P. Terrell, also alleges that he was never personally shown the specific complaint filed against him and that although he has requested copies of the Civil Service Commission proceeding, such copies have not been supplied.

 He is asking the court to hold a hearing on the commission proceedings and then order the suspension motion struck from his personnel file and "any other relief" the court may find warranted.
 During the hearing, Hastings told commissioners he had dealt with the man in question on three occasions — once when called to a traffic accident, another time last March when he arrested the man on a traffic warrant and when he issued the tickets in July.
 When he arrested the man in March, Hastings said, the man gave his occupation as a "pimp and a gambler." At the October hearing, another police officer testified that he was present when the man told Hastings that was his line of work.
 However, witnesses for the police department noted it was possible the man had changed jobs and Hastings should have listed the man's occupation as "unemployed."
 Civil Service Commissioners upheld the department suspension, saying that while they recognized the difficulty of police work, there is a need for officers to treat citizens with respect.

Woman Handed Prostitution Charge

A 22-year-old Lubbock woman Monday was charged with the second-degree felony offense of compelling prostitution in connection with an October incident in which a juvenile allegedly was using the woman's home as the base for her own prostitution activities.
 Deniece Hodges is accused of allowing a 14-year-old Lubbock girl to sell sexual services out of Miss Hodges' 709 Ave. R, No. 24, apartment.

A bond of $2,500 was recommended for Miss Hodges by the criminal district attorney's office.
 Both Miss Hodges and the teen-ager were arrested Oct. 18 on suspicion of prostitution after allegedly offering to have sex with plainclothes Lubbock police officers in exchange for cash.
 At the time of the arrests, officers said they believed both women were adults. According to police reports, the juvenile had no identification, gave police a false name and told arresting officers she was 18.
 But Friday, a juvenile probation officer contacted police and told them he had received a runaway report on the girl and that she was only 14.
 After receiving the new information, Miss Hodges was charged with the felony offense.

Hale Center Hospital Officials File Suit

Administrators of Hi-Plains Hospital in Hale Center Monday filed a federal lawsuit against the Internal Revenue Service in an attempt to recoup what hospital officials contend are incorrectly levied taxes.
 According to the hospital's petition, IRS audits of the tax-exempt facility's statements for 1973-1976 resulted in the hospital being taxed for $13,805 and charged an additional $1,128 in penalties.
 Hospital officials say they received notice of the taxes due in December 1978 and paid the full amount in February. However, the taxes are "illegal and erroneous," the lawsuit charges, and hospital officials want a jury to hear the case and award the hospital the paid taxes and penalty payments plus interest.

 IRS audits indicate that while the hospital is a tax-exempt facility, a percentage of sales from the hospital pharmacy is unrelated to hospital business and therefore subject to tax, according to the suit.
 Hi-Plains officials admit in the petition, prepared by Lubbock attorney Edward R. Smith, that some of the pharmacy sales were made to persons other than hospital patients, but that because the pharmacy is operated "primarily for the convenience of hospital patients," all of its business transactions should be exempt from taxation.

Japanese Fire Takes Ninth Marine Victim

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A severely burned U.S. Marine died at Brooke Army Medical Center here, raising the death toll to nine in a freak fire last month during a typhoon at a Japanese base, officials announced Monday.
 Brooke officials identified the latest victim as Lance Cpl. Orlando E. Sandov al, 20, of Pueblo, Colo.

 More than 70 young Marines were burned last month when Typhoon Tip damaged a rubber fuel tank, sending 5,000 gallons of burning gasoline into a Marine barracks area.
 Four Marines died in Japan, while 38 were airlifted to Brooke's famed burn unit. One died en route and four have died here during treatment.
 Many of those brought to Brooke had burns over more than 80 percent of their bodies.

Red Cross Chapter Slates First Aid Class

The Lubbock County Chapter of the American Red Cross has announced the formation of three multimedia first aid classes, a CPR module course and an instructor class in cardiopulmonary resuscitation to be held this month at the center located at 2201 Avenue X.
 One multimedia first aid class will be held Tuesday and Wednesday from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. The second class will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 13 and the third class from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Nov. 28 and 30.
 GENDARMES TO PAY FINES
 BREGENZ, Austria (AP) — A judge Monday sentenced three gendarmes to pay fines of $2,080 each after finding them guilty of leaving a teen-ager unattended and unfed in a windowless jail cell for 18 days last spring. The three men were convicted on charges of negligent bodily harm and restriction of personal freedom in the case involving Andreas Mihavecz, who last April was apparently mistaken for the driver of a car involved in a traffic accident in the Vorarlberg village of Hoehst. Mihavecz told the judge that shortly after being jailed, he was able to make his presence known to someone outside his unit cell but that he was ignored.

School Set For Water Personnel

Some 400 water utilities personnel will be in Lubbock this week for the 31st annual West Texas Regional Water Utilities Short School to be held in the Memorial Civic Center.
 City officials will host the school, scheduled for Tuesday through Thursday, in cooperation with the Texas Water Utilities Association, Texas Department of Health, Texas Department of Water Resources, Texas A&M University Engineering Extension Service and 10 district water utilities associations from the western half of Texas.
 Welcoming the participants in the school will be Lubbock City Councilman Bill McAlister, State Senator E.L. Short of Tahoka will be a featured speaker. He is expected to address water-related legislation pending before the Texas Legislature.
 The classroom training — provided by instructors and leaders in the field of water and wastewater utilities — will fill part of the requirements for water and wastewater operator's certification.
 The school will provide 20 hours classroom credit toward certification. Examinations will be at noon Thursday.
MURDER VICTIM
 DALLAS (AP) — An intruder shot a 72-year-old woman to death late Saturday or early Sunday after robbing and possibly raping the victim, police said. The victim, identified as Lucille Dotsy, was discovered by her husband of 55 years after he returned from a hunting trip early Sunday, investigators said.

Requirements Relaxed For Lake's Reopening

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission has modified two provisions of an interim order allowing Whalen Corp., Dallas, to reopen oilfield brine disposal operations on Whalen Lake in Andrews County.

The modified provisions were adopted on recommendations of Chief Engineer Bob R. Harris.

The interim order, first adopted in July, sets out 13 conditions that must be met before brine disposal can resume at the playa lake.

The modifications approved by the RRC Monday include:
• Containment in close proximity to each discharge point of any visible oil or globules of grease by the installation of a floating boom, construction of a containment pit or by any other means adequate to ensure the early discovery and prevention of any discharge of visible oil or grease globules into the lake.

• Daily random sampling of brine discharged into the lake and testing by RRC staff to determine oil and grease content during the first two weeks of resume operations at the lake.

FM 2471 Extension Requested is about the total amount Donley County could expect for farm-to-market road construction in a three-year period.

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Donley County Judge W.R. Christal has requested that the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission approve the extension of FM 2471.

Christal asked the commission to approve the extension of FM 2471 to connect with FM 1932 and FM 2695.

The project would cost about $1.1 million and would extend for about five miles in an area east of Clarendon.

Christal said the county already has obtained easements for the proposed extension.

FM 2471 is a school bus and mail route, Christal said. The extension would help relieve traffic on U.S. Highway 287, he said.

Christal also said the commissioners court, which was present for the hearing Wednesday, is unanimously in favor of the road extension.

Commission Chairman Sam Waldrop pointed out to Christal that $1.1 million

Three Receive Board Posts

At the first annual meeting of the Texas Public Power Association in Houston, three city of Lubbock officials were elected as officers or directors.

Carroll McDonald, Lubbock Power and Light director of sales and service, was elected second vice president, while Assistant City Manager Jim Blagg and Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan were elected to the board of directors.

The association is a forum for municipally owned electric systems in Texas.

Solar, Wind Energies Ignored, Critics Say

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas officials are more interested in petroleum company profits than consumers' hard-hit pocketbooks and deliberately are shunting research funds away from development of low-cost solar and wind energy, critics charged Monday.

Jim Hightower, former editor of the Texas Observer who is running for the Texas Railroad Commission, and Bob Russell, spokesman for the Texas Solar Action Committee, sharply criticized Gov. Bill Clements and the three-man Railroad Commission at a Capitol news conference.

"Our elected leadership has tied Texans to the dead weight of oil, gas, uranium, coal and other non-renewable, very costly resources," Hightower said.

"No doubt their vision is clouded by the fact that their own financial interests and their campaign contributions are linked directly to oil, gas, uranium and coal developers."

Hightower said officials' shortsightedness is forcing consumers to pay ever-higher prices and dooming the state to failure in its energy policies.

"It is a serious crisis that we face. If we don't get it, it will get us, and paying Exxon $2 a gallon is not going to get it, no matter what the Railroad Commission says," Hightower said.

Museum Schedules Handicap Workshop

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The small telephone without dials hangs almost unnoticed beside the standard pay variety, but it heralds other changes to come in The Museum of Texas Tech University.

It's a hot line for the handicapped, direct contact with information or other assistance for touring the halls and galleries or participating in museum programs. Like the coin slot of its wall neighbor, the in-house phone hangs in easy reach of a wheelchair occupant.

Other phones accessible to the handicapped individual will come after needs are assessed with aid of a consumer advisory council which will have a representative from each disability category.

To aid its own compliance with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Law and to assist other organizations in learning problems and possible solutions within their particular areas, the museum will sponsor a "Meeting the Needs of the Handicapped" workshop Nov. 8-9 in the museum.

Deadline for registration has been extended through Tuesday for an agenda changed to comply with group needs.

Larry Molloy, director of Special Constituent Services for the National Endowment for the Arts will explain Section 504 as it relates to the arts.

Special needs of specific disability groups will be discussed by Cathy Neman, Director of Programming for the National Association of Retarded Citizens; Russell Bowden, director of projects with industry, Goodwill Industries Inc.; Virginia Sowell, Professor of Special Education at Texas Tech University; and Joe Burks, director of Bi-County Regional Deaf Program for Lubbock Independent School District.

"Anyone dealing with schools, performing arts, visual arts, museums, anyone working with the handicapped, historic organizations, anyone dealing with the public and receiving federal funds" is affected by 504, Judy Hunter, who is 504 coordinator for the museum, explained.

Section 504, she added, is a one-paragraph section of the law enacted by Congress in 1973:

"No otherwise qualified handicapped individual in the United States shall, solely by reason of his handicap, be excluded from the participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

Brother Of Defendant Gives Account

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — The brother of Ovide Joe Dugas Jr. testified Monday that Dugas bragged about having committed the "perfect murder" and then went into a chilling account of how the Bishop Phillips family was stalked and finally shot near a pre-dug common gravesite in Southeast Texas.

Richard Dugas is accused of capital murder in the death of 3-year-old Jason Phillips. The child and four other family members were taken from their home near Winnie and executed over the 4th of July holiday last year.

Richard Dugas, 30, testified that his brother had on several occasions tried to solicit his help in carrying out the killings, but that he never took those solicitations seriously.

Richard Dugas said his brother blamed the Phillips family for causing "friction in his family life."

Joe Dugas' ex-wife is a member of the Phillips family. She was not among those slain.

"I just never believed him," Richard Dugas testified. "I didn't think he had the guts to do it."

Richard Dugas then testified that his brother told him about the killings as the pair drove alone in a truck on July 4, 1978.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. Last month, I purchased stock in two utility companies. My broker told me that the dividends paid on these stocks is tax-free.

Yesterday, a representative from a different brokerage firm told me that the dividends on those two stocks will be taxable, when I sell those stocks. In other words, according to the second broker, it is a deferred tax.

I would appreciate your answer to these different opinions.

A. Brace yourself. Both brokers are correct. But the information you pass on from each of them is just a small part of a rather complicated financial subject.

Some — by no means all — utility stocks pay dividends, part or all of which is not subject to income tax. Those tax-free dividends — which can vary from one year to the next — are considered a "return of capital" for tax purposes.

You do not pay income tax on such dividends for the year in which you received them. Each utility company will send you an annual statement telling you exactly how much of your dividend is taxable and how much is tax-free.

The statement will also tell you to reduce your "basis" — your cost price of the stock by the amount of the tax-free dividends. This is what the second broker was trying to explain.

When you sell stock, the difference between your "basis" and the proceeds from the sale are a capital gain or capital loss and must be reported as such on your income tax return.

Let's say you buy 100 shares of a utility stock at $20 a share — a cost of $2,000. Say you hold it for a number of years, during which time you receive a total of $5 a share in tax-free dividends. Your basis would be reduced to $15 a share, or $1,500 on the 100 shares.

If you then sell the stock, at $18 a share, you'll have a profit of $3 a share — the difference between your basis and your selling price. So, you would then report a $300 long-term capital gain on your income tax return.

One last point. If you hold long enough and receive enough tax-free dividends to reduce your basis to zero, you are then required to report all additional tax-free dividends as long-term capital gains for the year in which those dividends are received.

Q. I have some Series H, U.S. Savings Bonds, which have not reached their first maturity dates. Will these bonds automatically pay 6 1/2 percent interest after they mature? Or must I exchange them for the new HH bonds which go on sale in 1980?

A. Keep your H bonds. There will be no need to exchange them for the new HHs. H bonds now pay 6 1/2 percent. That interest, which comes to you by check every six months was raised from 6 percent — effective with the next interest check due on each bond after June 1, 1979.

The interest on H bonds starts out low and becomes higher in the later years of each bond's 10-year initial maturity period. When your H bonds go into their extended maturity periods, you'll collect interest at a level rate of 6 1/2 percent every year.

Q. I bought some 8 percent first mortgage bonds issued by a church in 1972. The church defaulted on interest payments two and a half years ago and went into bankruptcy.

How can I find out what and when settlement will be made to the bondholders? To whom should I write for information?

A. Contact the trustee for that bond issue. You'll find the name of the trustee — usually a bank — printed on the bond certificate.

It's a bond trustee's job to look out for the interests of the bondholders. When a bankruptcy takes place, the trustee should keep the bondholders informed of what's being done to salvage at least part of their investments.

FREE TURNTABLE/CARTRIDGE PERFORMANCE CLINIC

TWO DAYS . . . NOVEMBER 5th and 6th
MONDAY - 12 NOON TO 8 P.M./TUESDAY - 12 NOON TO 6 P.M.

A TURNTABLE CLINIC IS IMPORTANT TO YOU

Although we have been sound enthusiasts for over 23 years, we never cease to learn. In keeping with our philosophy of offering the best to you we want to share with you some very important things. In the last year Hi-Fidelity has invested almost $20,000 in analysis lab instrumentation because we have discovered that we must test, analyze, and align every piece of sound equipment we sell if we are going to assure you of getting full value and use of your sound system. Setting up a turntable with the built-in gauges is like buying a new set of tires for your car and aligning them with a yard stick! Here's how a turntable should be set up. First the needle should be inspected under a lab microscope to be sure the stylus attachment to the cantilever is good. Also the bonding agent (glue) is inspected to be sure it is not excessive. Then the polish of the stylus sides is inspected. We inspect the angles of elliptical stylus to be sure they are perpendicular to the cantilever. At high power the polish and shape of the very tip is inspected. After it has been determined that the stylus and assembly is accurate the stylus is installed into the cartridge. The cartridge then is installed into the cartridge shell making sure that it is aligned properly. Then the test albums are played and anti-skating and pressure adjustments are made utilizing a cartridge analyzer and dual trace scope by McIntosh. When all the fine adjustments are made you are assured of performance and record life at an optimum.

Hi-Fidelity recently purchased a Wild Heerburg Lab Microscope. Why would we invest $5,300 for a lab scope? Because only through a professional scope can stylus wear and defects be detected. Turntable being calibrated using our lab analysis instruments instead of the "built-in" turntable gauges.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you ran a letter written by a mother whose son came up with crabs, otherwise known as body lice. She wanted you to help convince the guy that his girl friend had been running around. I am directing my letter to that mother.

Look, Lady, a person does not have to have sexual relations in order to catch crabs. They are parasites — not an infection. A person can get them from putting on a bathing suit or underwear that was worn by someone who had a "case."

Crabs are alive and can "jump" from one person to another. They are members of the louse family and travel much the same way as head lice. A virgin could get crabs.

Crabs can survive for a short period of time while OFF the body — this means on a bedsheet or a towel.

I hope you have checked yourself carefully, Madame, because if your son has had these damned things for two months and has been living in your house, it's a safe bet they are all over the place. — B.J.B., Norwalk, Conn.

Dear B.J.B.: The facts you have reported are correct. I go along with you — until the last paragraph. Any person who had crabs would not need to be told to "check herself." She darned well know it. Those pesky creatures have a way of making their presence felt.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem that is driving me nuts. Just when I think I have it settled, I begin to get second thoughts — then third and fourth, and I am back where I started from.

I'm a young divorcee (29) with a four-year-old child. There are two men who want to marry me, and I am very fond of both. "A" is a strong person. He has a sterling character, a wonderful reputation among his fellow attorneys, and I adore being with him. But he doesn't stand for any nonsense and is very firm with my son. Of course, the boy prefers "B," who is easy-going, full of fun and games, also a highly respected person, but tends to be less reliable.

If I had no son to consider, I would marry "A" in a minute, but I do believe I have a responsibility to my child. I want him to love his new daddy. Please give me some advice — Hung Up Near Hagerstown

Dear Hung: I am not about to tell anyone who to marry, but I will tell you it's easier to say yes to a child than no, and the man who is willing to stand firm and insist on appropriate behavior, in the long run, will be the better father.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I both lost our first mates and were married three years ago.

My husband has two married daughters. They do not like the sound of the word "stepmother," so whenever introductions are made I am always referred to as "Marie," or, "This is father's second wife." I think both references sound awfully cold. What do you think? — Seeking A Second Opinion

Dear Seeking: If it's my opinion you want, here it is. "Stepmother" sounds a lot colder than "Marie." But I do believe the word "second" could be dropped. It would be in better taste to say, "This is my father's wife, Marie."

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Would you please let me know how to remove masking tape from windows?

I recently moved into a new home. When painting my front door, I put tape around the windows in it to keep from getting paint on them.

I let the paint dry and then forgot to remove the tape. Now the tape is stuck to the windows and I cannot remove it.

Any suggestions you can give me will be appreciated. — J.L.

Here are a few suggestions. Maybe one of them will help you.

Paint thinner is very effective but you must be very careful not to get any on your new paint job.

The best way to apply the thinner is to wrap a cloth around a putty knife and then put the thinner on the cloth. This will allow you to get close to the edge where the tape is stuck.

You might also use nail polish remover. Saturate a small cloth with the remover, then rub the cloth over the tape. If it is stubborn, pour some polish remover directly on the tape and let it soak for a couple of minutes. This should do the trick.

If these two methods don't work, try rubbing alcohol. Apply in either of the ways mentioned above.

How about it, dear readers, any other suggestions?

Write to me and give me your solutions to this problem. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Use milk cartons to make new inside linings for jar lids.

Cut the cartons open and wash them very well.

Cut out lining circles like the kind used inside mayonnaise and other jar lids.

When you are re-using jars, the paper lining in the lid often smells. Just replace it with a new one you have made. This not only will keep the lid from rusting but from giving whatever you have in the jar a bad odor. — Catherine Fyda

DEAR HELOISE:

I enjoy your column very much. Just a word of advice: Keep matches in a jar (with the lid screwed on tight) and push it way back in the corner so that children's nosy little fingers can't find it.

It's better to be safe than sorry. — Isabel Bartholomew

HELOISE welcomes your hints. Write to her at 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. She can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints in her column.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Quite suddenly, I came down with terrible dizziness, and keeping my eyes open was impossible. Everything was spinning around. The doctor said I had labyrinthitis. My balance still is not right, and it's been four weeks. Does it take this long to get back to normal? — S.A.

The original labyrinth (a series of confusing passageways) was designed by Daedalus, the legendary Greek character, who also came up with wings. His labyrinth was designed to cause anyone trying to escape from it horrible dizziness.

The labyrinth of the inner ear was designed by nature for the opposite reason — to give us a sense of balance. This is done by maintaining precise levels of fluid in the passageways. Any disturbance of the fluids causes as much dizziness as did Daedalus' contrivance.

Our labyrinths are subject to inflammation, especially by viruses, which seem to be able to get just about anywhere they want to in the body. The inflammation disturbs this balance organ, causing dizziness.

As are most viral infections, the ones causing labyrinthitis are usually "self-limiting," which means they wear themselves out eventually. It may take months before the last traces of dizziness disappear.

Rest and use of the seasickness medicines help in the meantime. In fact, seasickness may be another example of labyrinthitis. Besides being a bothersome ailment, labyrinthitis is a difficult word to spell correctly.

Daedal (DEE-dal) incidentally, as an adjective, means "intricate."

Dear Dr. Donohue: Exactly what causes the rupture in the gullet, which I think you refer to as hiatal hernia in your column? I have had it and am getting treatment (successfully). I was too fat, for beginners. But does that bring it on, the fatness? — Mrs. R.W.

It can. Doctors often cannot pinpoint the cause of this hernia, which occurs in the gullet just where it passes through the diaphragm on the way to the stomach. It does tend to occur after the 40s in most people who have it. Obesity certainly can interfere with the anatomy by creating new pressures on the gullet. Rather than go into details (covered often here before) I would refer you to the booklet on the subject, "Hiatal Hernia: Eight Ways to Combat It." You and other interested readers can order a copy, by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Include 35 cents for printing and handling costs.

Representing the Camp Fire Council of Lubbock were John Burdette, second vice president of the local board, Glynda Cobb, executive director and Carolyn Cobb, Horizon Club member who was elected as a Youth Advisor to the Congress.

Miscellany

The 1979 Congress of Camp Fire Girls, Inc. was held in Portland, Ore. recently.

Representatives and delegates from over 350 chapters throughout the United States convened to attend workshops, amend by-laws and elect the National Board of Directors.

Representing the Camp Fire Council of Lubbock were John Burdette, second vice president of the local board, Glynda Cobb, executive director and Carolyn Cobb, Horizon Club member who was elected as a Youth Advisor to the Congress.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a female in my 20s, have never been pregnant and have no known ailments. I would like to know if a protein deficiency could be the reason behind my hair thinning. This is causing me a great deal of anxiety. Would a resumption of a normal diet help me regain hair lost? — Mrs. N.T.

Profound deficiency of protein may be encountered in very primitive cultures that are deprived of food. That affects hair growth. For most in western cultures such profound protein deficiency does not occur.

I'm intrigued by your statement about "resumption of a normal diet." Does this mean you have been on a diet program that sharply curtailed protein foods? If so, you might attribute your hair problem to it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the effect of diet on sinusitis? — S.B.

None.

Do you have problem hair? Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair," shows how proper treatment can result in healthier, more attractive hair. To get a copy, write Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

IRA Murder Trial Opens

Pair Charged In Killing Of Lord Mountbatten

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The prosecution in the murder trial resulting from the assassination of Lord Louis Mountbatten said Monday that Irishmen Thomas McMahon and Francis McGirl planted the bomb that blew up the earl's boat, but someone else apparently set it off.

McMahon, a 31-year-old upholsterer, and farmer McGirl, 24, pleaded innocent as the trial opened in Dublin's Special Criminal Court behind a wall of steel barriers and armed policemen.

Both were already in police custody some 100 miles away by road when the bomb blew apart Mountbatten's fishing boat in Donegal Bay just before noon on Aug. 27, killing the 79-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth II and three others.

But traces of sand, gelignite — a gelatin substance that is a form of dynamite — and paint from the boat were found on the men's clothes and footwear. That proved the accused were principals in the bombing, Prosecutor Edward Comyn told the court.

McMahon and McGirl were being held by police after their car was stopped outside the town of Granard. They were accused of IRA membership and arrested under Ireland's Offenses Against the State Act. The murder charges were filed later.

Their defense opened with a submission that their detention was illegal because the Irish High Court had ruled their original arrest was unconstitutional.

Justice Liam Hamilton, head of the three-judge, anti-terrorist panel hearing the case, expected to last about three weeks, rejected the submission.

Prosecutor Comyn said the evidence against the two was "largely circumstantial" and forensic, but declared: "The state says these are the persons who placed the gelignite."

The Irish Republican Army, which is fighting to force Britain out of its Northern Ireland province, has claimed responsibility for the blast. Irish police have said they believe as many as six IRA guerrillas were involved.

Authorities in the United States are now holding 27-year-old escaped IRA member Michael O'Rourke, who is facing deportation proceedings. The FBI and Irish authorities have discounted any connection between O'Rourke and the Mountbatten killing.

"Somebody else would have to be involved, perhaps half a mile away," Prosecutor Comyn told the court. He said the bomb could have been set off by remote control by a device similar to those that steer radio-controlled model airplanes.

But he told the no-jury court the evidence indicates McMahon and McGirl boarded Mountbatten's boat at the village of Mullaghmore by night and planted the explosives and detonators.

Comyn said the boat, the Shadow V, was "perhaps over-maintained, with several layers of paint" and that helped link the boat with traces found on the men's clothing.

He said other evidence would be brought forward during the trial, including some articles found in a search of McMahon's house. Information on those articles has not been made public.

Retired army officer William Mulligan described to the court the explosion as seen from his nearby cabin cruiser as the Shadow V, with Lord Mountbatten at the helm, approached Mountbatten's lobster pots in the bay.

HEAVY SECURITY — Intense Irish police guard activity outside the entrance to Dublin's anti-terrorist special court Monday for the opening of the trial of Francis McGirl, and Thomas McMahon, on charges of murdering Lord Mountbatten on Aug. 27. The two were brought to the court from the high security

Portaioise Prison 50 miles away, and a heavily-armed police and Army convoy surrounded them along the route. Streets around the tiny 19th Century Courthouse are sealed off. The trial is expected to last three weeks. (AP Wirephoto)

Postmistresses Named To Area Towns

The tiny West Texas towns of McAdoo and Cee Vee are operating with new postmistresses beginning this week, according to the U.S. Postal Service.

Dolores Timmons, 46, is now heading up the post office in Cee Vee, while Doris Neff, 47, is in charge of the McAdoo post office, said Elmer Reed, Lubbock postmaster.

Mrs. Timmons has served as postmistress replacement and officer-in-charge and comes from a long line of postmasters. Her grandfather was a postmaster in Childress. Mrs. Neff also has served as postmistress replacement and officer-in-charge, and is a longtime McAdoo resident.

Postmasters and postmistresses are selected from a list of candidates submitted to the Regional Management Selection Board, which is comprised of several representatives from U.S. Postal Service and the U.S. Civil Service Commission, and appointed by the U.S. Postmaster General, Reed said.

Grant Approval Will Allow New Crime Unit

A-J News Services
An unexpected grant approval from the Criminal Justice Division Advisory Board in Austin last week will give the Lubbock Police Department $58,432 to set up a specialized crime prevention unit within the department.

If the grant receives Gov. Bill Clements approval, the police department will provide two crime prevention officers and a secretary to supplement work being done by the Lubbock County Crime Prevention Council, according to Rick Childers, administrative assistant to City Manager Larry Cunningham.

The work will be in the areas of Operation Identification and Neighborhood Watch. Operation Identification, now under way in Lubbock, is an effort to get homeowners to mark their property so it can be readily identified if it is stolen.

"We were really surprised to receive the grant," Childers said, adding that the city has applied for the grant the past two years.

"It will be a cooperative effort with the crime council in educating the people of Lubbock about crime prevention and it should be a pretty effective program."

The Criminal Justice Division Advisory Board also approved a $29,230 grant to Floyd County for jail life safety equipment. The grant will help Floyd County meet life and safety rules adopted by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

The equipment will include a fire alarm and detection system, a smoke and fume removal system, fire extinguishers, an emergency power and lighting system, an exit lighting system, mechanical duct fire dampers and an inter-communication system.

House Speaker's Office Manager Vacates Position

AUSTIN — Bill Sarpalus of Hereford, who for two years has served as Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton's district office manager, has resigned, Clayton said.

Sarpalus is to become field representative for Center Plains Industries of Amarillo, which distributes anhydrous ammonia in an eight-state area.

As district manager, Sarpalus traveled approximately 2,000 miles per month through the seven counties in Clayton's district in a mobile van that served as a special moving office. Clayton established the position and the mobile office because his duties as speaker of the house kept him from spending as much time in the district as he would have preferred, he said.

Sarpalus is a graduate of Texas Tech University, and holds a master's degree in agriculture from West Texas State University.

Clayton said he has not yet selected a replacement for Sarpalus, but has indicated he plans to keep his mobile office on the move through the 74th District.

COMMISSIONER STABLE
AUSTIN (AP) State Health Commissioner Raymond Moore was reported in "stable condition" Monday at Brackenridge Hospital following what his associates called a mild heart attack. Moore was at home when stricken Sunday morning.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

"O JUDGMENT! THOU ART FLED to brutish beasts, "And men have lost their reason." That was Antony's lament at Caesar's funeral, but one market analyst says he sounds as though he could have been short in cotton futures last week. Anyone who had predicted the market would post a 3 1/2-cent advance last week, he says, would have been pilloried. He was among the analysts who had thought prices would stay at that previous level, but they didn't have long to wait to be proven wrong.

The fundamental reason seems to have been that the Chinese kept buying, or at least they did according to various market rumors. The technical tip-off, one analyst said, came before the opening last Tuesday with release of the open interest analysis.

The report showed that not only had the speculative long position shrunk down close to that of the short position, suggesting that the market was, in fact, over-sold, but, more importantly, that the clearing house hedge "house" accounts had increased their net long position by almost 2,000 contracts in the previous five-day trading period.

This, one analyst said, could only mean that a bad situation was getting worse for the short side of the nearby.

SOME ANALYSTS TRY TO BEND OVER backwards from describing the markets in technical terms. Much the language seems like mumbo jumbo to them, and they don't feel they are treating the business with respect to make forecasts based on "marks on a piece of paper."

"On the other hand," one of these analysts commented, "to overlook the significance of prices escaping from the narrow bounds of a trading range would represent a combination of stubbornness and stupidity."

"This market will continue to attract substantial speculative interest," he added. "If it flies into the teeth of reason, it would not be the first market to do so."

One analyst said the break-out above 66 cents on the opening bell last Tuesday led to "one of the most frenzied buying orgies ever witnessed" on the New York Cotton Exchange.

On the opening bell that day, cotton opened 26 points higher, gapped through previous resistance levels, and was off to the races. Speculators jumped on the bandwagon and didn't quit buying until the final bell sounded on Friday, the analyst said.

OPEN INTEREST BALLOONED TO 44,186 contracts by the close Friday, up a bulging 5,916 contracts from a week earlier. The trade sold and speculators bought and the market went straight up with only a brief pause.

As of Oct. 26, one analyst noted, unfixed call sales were 7,154 contracts and unfixed call purchases were 3,252 contracts, leaving almost 4,000 contracts to be fixed by mills. This, he said, again will provide support under the market.

Some analysts conceded that in retrospect the market may have been too low going into last week but they now wonder by the same token whether speculators may have taken on too big a load too fast and ponder whether the market at this point might be somewhat over-bought.

Among these analysts are some who believe the odds may favor at least a 50 percent correction this week of the recent move as speculators and the trade start to even up before Friday's new crop report from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

But, after some humbling experiences, not many market analysts speak with conviction these days.

THE MOST FRUSTRATED PERSON in all this must be the producer. He has seen the basis in California drop off nearly 1,000 points in the last six months, one analyst said, while the Memphis basis has lost about 400 points.

On the High Plains, cash prices were reported about $5 per bale lower in the week ended last Thursday. Micronaire discounts at Lubbock were widened as much as 125 points for 3.0-3.2, the range now expected to contain the biggest percentage of the crop.

Producers have not realized commensurate returns in spot prices from the advance in futures.

Domestic mills are buying hand-to-mouth and merchant demand is moderate at best. Both mills and merchants are acutely cognizant of high interest rates and the high costs of carrying cotton.

In addition, in Texas there is the perplexing problem of compress bottlenecks. Cotton which might command a premium where it could be moved expeditiously may go begging for a market at some territorial points as a direct result of the high costs associated with shipping delays.

As the crop moves out of the hands of producers, some analysts theorize, there could be more aggressive selling of futures by the trade as long hedges executed earlier against forward sales are lifted and fresh hedges against spot purchases are instituted.

PROFIT TAKING FOLLOWING LIGHT TRADE selling took cotton futures down 50 points in the final half hour Monday and prices closed unchanged to 25 points lower in the three front months.

December, which had risen 90 points, finished 25 points lower at 68.25 cents. March ended down 10 points at 68.82 and May closed unchanged at 69.70 after having been up 100 points. July was independently strong, settling up 71 points at 70.61 after having gone out to a gain of 145 points.

Floor brokers said a correction from last week's advance — described by some as technical — had been anticipated. Estimated volume was 9,450 lots.

Spot quotations at Lubbock Monday were up 50 points for staples 32 and shorter and were 25 points higher for staples 33 and longer. Micronaire discounts, however, showed a widening of 50 points for 3.2 and lower.

Meanwhile, the commerce secretariat at Mexico City has announced the signing of an agreement for the sale of $360 million of Mexican cotton to China during the next six years. China will take 50,000 bales from the 1979-80 crop and 100,000 bales a year from the next five crops.

The agreement was signed by representatives of the two state cotton agencies, Francisco Gonzalez Vazquez, director general of Algomex, and Maho Jihoi, import manager of Chinatex. The announcement said the agreement will permit the direct sale of Mexican cotton to China.

Judge Orders Railway Service Restored

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge on Monday ordered service reinstated on about half of the 9,500-mile Milwaukee Road system one day after President Carter signed legislation which provided financial help for the embattled railroad.

Judge Thomas R. McMillen of U.S. District Court did not specify, however, how long his order would remain in effect. He set a hearing for Nov. 13 to consider that issue.

McMillen is overseeing operations of the railroad as it struggles to regroup under federal bankruptcy laws. Last month he agreed with a request by the railroad to end service on Milwaukee Road lines west of Miles City, Mont., as well as several thousand miles of track in South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan. The railroad said they were not profitable.

Service on those lines ended last Thursday. But on Monday, emergency service was resumed on a Milwaukee line in South Dakota near Mitchell.

Export Credit Interest To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The interest rate under the Agriculture Department's export credit sales program will be increased Tuesday by one-fourth of a percentage point, officials said Monday.

The rates were last increased on Oct. 25. Officials said the new hike reflects increases in the prime lending rates charged by commercial banks.

Under the program, the department's

One-fourth of the world's forests are in Latin America, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. On a per capita basis, Latin America's total forest area is second only to that of the Soviet Union, the bank says.

Cattle Futures Close Lower On Exchange

By Reuters

CHICAGO — Cattle futures closed 10 to 65 lower on 28,706 cars Monday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. February and April were the weakest after the latter slipped 90. The market ran in to profit taking and other selling after climbing 102 in early trade.

The early upturn carried prices to two-week highs and was sparked by the limit advance in feeder cattle futures. Later reaction was traced to some sharply lower cash cattle prices on increased arrivals along with fears that recent increases in beef prices will meet heavy competition from pork and poultry.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 96 1/4 to 97 1/4 cents a pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash cattle were off $2 to up 50 cents with the best top $66 per hundredweight. Slaughter was 115,000 head. About 12,200 head are expected at the major markets today.

Feeder cattle futures closed unchanged to up 150 led by September at the limit for the second day in a row. All contracts except November were up the limit earlier.

Sales totaled 3,461 lots. The market moved ahead after a brief loss of 35 in the nearby contract.

Continued strong stopping of deliveries and mixed to higher cash feeder cattle brought aggressive buying here. The cash cattle connected commission house led the buy side.

Deliveries total 68 thus far. Cash feeder cattle were off $8 to off $5 with the best top $125 at San Antonio. The major terminals are expecting about 2,400 head today.

Hog futures closed 80 higher to 40 lower on 7,887 contracts. February was up the most with distant February at the only loss. October rose 125 for a time as prices set new six-week highs.

Chartists continued to lead the buying side despite the sharp premium over cash. The discount under cattle and mostly higher cash hogs along with active demand for pork products also spurred the long side.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up 2 1/4 cents at 75 to 79 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were up $1.25 to off 25 cents with the best top $35.25 per hundredweight. Kill was 354,000 head. Receipts at the major markets today are expected to total 33,000 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 70 to 100 higher with May in the lead. Volume was 6,447 lots. The market firmed after losing 30.

Demand carried over from Friday as traders noted mostly higher cash hogs, increased bacon slicings and strength in cash bellies despite heavy slaughter. Continued gains in live hog futures were also positive here.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up 1 1/4 at 28 to 40 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

Farm Exports Anticipated To Reach $38 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of U.S. exports of farm products this fiscal year is expected to reach $38 billion, almost 20 percent greater than in 1978-79, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

That would be a record high for the 11th consecutive year. In the year ended Sept. 30, about $32 billion in farm goods were exported, a gain of 17 percent over the previous year.

The 1979-80 prediction includes record sales of grain to the Soviet Union totaling about $4 billion.

In fiscal 1980, prices for coffee, foreign meat and other agricultural imports are expected to increase less rapidly, leaving a farm-trade surplus of about $20 billion.

The 1978-79 balance was about $15.8 billion, partially offsetting a deficit in other trade of about $40 billion, officials said.

At the opening session of the department's annual outlook conference, economist J. Dawson Ahalt said 1979-80 exports could reach $38 billion, "unless domestic transportation problems overwhelm us."

Last week, department sources who asked not to be identified said transportation snarls last summer may have cost farmers about $1 billion in exports.

Among the problems were a strike at Great Lakes port facilities and breaks in Midwest railroad service.

"Major railway problems, spot rail car shortages, tight energy supplies and rising fuel prices could further add to transportation difficulties as the United States attempts to move an unprecedented volume of grains, oilseeds and other farm commodities," Ahalt said.

Ahalt, chairman of the USDA World Food and Agricultural Outlook and Situation Board, said the forecast of a 20 percent gain in export value is based on a predicted 16 percent increase in volume.

Ahalt said the European Common

Market will continue to be the largest market for U.S. farm exports, taking about $7.7 billion worth.

Japan will remain the leading single-country buyer, with purchases of about $5.3 billion. At the same time, "Soviet purchases... should total about $4 billion, by far their largest ever," he said.

Tentative figures for 1978-79 show that about $5.06 billion worth of farm exports went to Japan, an increase of more than 20 percent.

Shipments of farm products to the Soviet Union were valued at about $2.07 billion, up from exports of $1.88 billion in 1977-78.

Comments Requested By USDA

HOUSTON (Special) — The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is asking for public comments on a proposal to remove Houston from a list of bona fide spot cotton markets.

Spot markets are used to settle price differences when cotton delivered on futures contracts differs from the quality contracted for.

The proposal, if approved, would reduce the number of spot cotton markets in the United States to nine. Under the U. S.

Cotton Futures Act, USDA designates a bona fide spot cotton market as one where cotton is traded in enough volume and under certain conditions to establish spot price quotations.

Comments on the proposal should be submitted by Dec. 5 to Loyd Frazier, chief, Marketing Services Branch, Cotton Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D. C., 20250.

Comments will be available for public review.

Iran Unrest Hurts Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Unrest in Iran and the possibility of another suspension of shipments of oil from that nation to the United States sent the stock market skidding Monday in its lightest trading in 10 months.

Iranian students continued to occupy the U.S. embassy in Tehran and took over the British embassy there and U.S. consulates in two other cities. The students were protesting the deposed shah's hospital stay in the United States, and demanded that he be returned to Iran.

"I assure you," he said, "that should the Imam Khomeini take a decision on this question, the oil ministry and oil workers, all faithful to the revolution, will immediately obey it and refuse to export oil."

Survivors include four sons, James of Vancouver, Wash., John of Lubbock, David of Troutdale, Ore., Thomas of Portland, Ore.; five daughters, Anita of Troutdale, Ore., Kathy Whitney, Pauline Whitney, Mary Singerhouse and Pam Green, all of Portland, Ore.; three brothers, Frank Hunter of Gardner, Ore., Kenneth Hunter of Reedsport, Ore., and Clifford Hunter of Portland, Ore.; and five grandchildren.

Olan Wharton

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — Services for Olan Milton Wharton, 65, of Lubbock are pending with Hammons Funeral Home here.

Wharton was found dead Monday in the cab of the tractor-trailer rig he was driving after it ran off Interstate 27 and came to rest in a field about three miles south of Abernathy. Shallowater Justice of the Peace Dardie Williamson pronounced him dead at the scene about 9:45 a.m. and is withholding a ruling in the death pending autopsy results.

Survivors include his wife, Maria, a daughter, El Juanda Burnett of Amarillo; four sons, Omar, Amor, Olan Jr. and Saida, all of the home; two stepdaughters, Bianca Gonzales of Piedras Negras, Mexico, and Marticella Yohner of Littlefield; two stepsons, Frank Gonzales of Midkiff and Joe Gonzales of the home; three sisters, Mildred Wharton and Jerriene Raley, both of Odessa, and Ina Bell Bush of Lubbock; a brother, Ansel of Detroit, Mich.; and nine grandchildren.

Richard Wilson

Services for Richard Wilson, 78, of 1927 E. Brown St. will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at South Plains Funeral Home with the Rev. Daniel Johnson, pastor of Mount Vernon United Methodist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial under the direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

Wilson died at 11:40 a.m. Thursday at his home.

He was a 40-year resident of Lubbock, moving here from Bryan.

Survivors include his wife, Rosie Lee; eight sons, Jerry and Avon Franklin, Jerry and Jackie, all of Dallas, Donald, Larry, Cornell and Randy, all of Lubbock, and John Franklin of Detroit, Mich.; four daughters, Algeria McCutcheon of Detroit, Vivian and Rose, both of Lubbock, and Sharon of Dallas; a brother, William of Bryan; a sister, Clara Mims of Bryan; and 15 grandchildren.

Suspect In Drug Sales Arrested Near School

A 17-year-old male was arrested for possession of marijuana after police stopped him at a hamburger stand near Matthews Junior High School about noon Monday.

Jessie Garza, assistant principal at the school, told officers that the suspect had been selling drugs on school grounds.

When officers stopped the youth for questioning at a nearby hamburger stand, reports show one of the officers saw the suspect throw a cigarette to the ground. Police said the substance in the cigarette appeared to be marijuana.

School officials at Lubbock High School and O.L. Slaton Junior High School Monday reported that someone had spray-painted obscenities on the outside of the school buildings during the weekend.

Bill Carter, vice principal for Lubbock High, estimated the damage at $850, and Edgar Payne, principal for O.L. Slaton Junior High, said damage to the buildings totaled $500.

Derrial Head, manager of King Trailer & Equipment Co. Inc., 405 34th St., said that thieves removed from the firm 16 truck tires and wheels, valued at $2,500, sometime between noon Saturday and 9 a.m. Monday.

Debbie Barber of 1001 University Ave. reported that someone took $2,000 worth of jewelry from her apartment sometime between Friday afternoon and Monday afternoon.

Julie Margaret Simpson of 3001 Grinnell St. told police that burglars made off with $1,500 worth of goods, including a stereo system and jewelry, from her home sometime between 8 p.m. Sunday and 6:30 a.m. Monday.

Police Probe Hereford Death

HEREFORD (Special) — Authorities here Monday were investigating a possible homicide in the Friday afternoon death of a 22-year-old Hereford man who was found unconscious and lying in a ditch Sept. 29.

Jimmy Gomez, who never regained consciousness, died at 4 p.m. Friday at Deaf Smith General Hospital, Hereford. Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal said Monday he was withholding a ruling in the death, pending a completed autopsy report on Gomez.

"Some of the wounds were conducive to being hit by a vehicle and others by a blunt object," Neal said.

Gomez, who suffered most of his injuries to the head and shoulders, was found in a ditch off Highway 385 about a half mile south of Hereford.

While no arrests had been made by Monday in connection with the death, Neal said two persons were scheduled to take polygraph tests in Lubbock concerning the incident.

Neal said the two persons told authorities Gomez had been with them Sept. 29, but they had let him out of their car near his house about 30 minutes to an hour before he was found unconscious.

"He was found near his home in the San Jose Labor Camp, a low-income housing development. Speaking of the persons taking the polygraph tests, Monday, Neal said, "If the polygraph shows they were telling the truth, we have no suspects."

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson indicated his deputies were investigating the incident as a homicide.

"He was lying on the side of the road. We don't know if he was beaten to death or thrown out of a vehicle," McPherson said.

Neal said he does not expect to make a ruling in Gomez' death for at least another week.

Sammy Hagar Returning To Lubbock As Headliner

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

"Yeah, I remember. We got so many good reviews. We really shined on that tour." The man talking is Sammy Hagar, calling from a hotel telephone after his sound check in Amarillo last week, and he's recalling his spring tour with rock superstars Boston. It was nine months ago that a sellout crowd packed the Lubbock Coliseum to see Boston, only to discover that Hagar managed to show the most energy, spontaneity and magnetism with his opening set. This critic was not the only one who found himself wishing Hagar had been on stage longer.

Now, no doubt as a result of his success while touring with Boston, Sammy Hagar is a headliner. And for the most part, it's working. Though ticket sales for tonight's 8 p.m. concert at the Coliseum are extremely poor, Hagar sold out shows in record time in San Francisco and Seattle. "Of course, that's my home territory," the Fontana, Calif., native said.

"Really," he continued, "we're only having trouble selling tickets for two shows: the one here (in Amarillo) tonight and the one in Lubbock. And I really didn't expect to sell out or do real well, since we've only played these markets once before. I think we need to play an area two or three times before people get to know us."

"But we're going to put on the same first class show anyway. Even if we only get 2,000 or 3,000 people out there, those people will all see a fantastic show. And in the long run, it will pay off."

Hagar, whose concert will be opened by The Scorpions and Pat Travers (a little strange, since Travers is probably still better known in Texas), is using a new $17,000 stage constructed specifically for this tour. "There's a lot of ramps and runways we use during the show," he said, "and we're carrying the same sound and light systems that Boston used. I also like the idea that we're a three-band show, since I think that kind of takes it back to the old days of rock and roll when a bunch of bands would get up and play."

He won't be singing any songs from his much talked about rock opera this time, saying, "I don't even want to discuss that right now. I don't want to perform it until I can just go out and perform the whole thing from start to finish." But he insists "we'll still be rockin' at 95 miles per hour up there," and there's little doubt "Keep On Rockin'" will make an appearance during the evening.

"Keep On Rockin'" is a tune he wrote for Bette Midler's film "The Rose," and it has received fine reviews in the California press already. Asked how the success of the song might affect him, he first quipped, "Oh, it can affect me to the tune of about $150,000." Dropping the facade, however, Hagar revealed that — despite his past reputation as a vocalist with hard rockers Montrose, despite his reputation for energetic heavy metal shows — the fact his songwriting ability has been downplayed has hurt.

He explained, "If this film is as big as people are predicting it will be, and if the soundtrack sells well, then it can't help but give me some added respect as a songwriter. And to me, that's important. I mean, I want to out-do (Ted) Nugent on stage. I really do. But I also want to have some depth. I take pride in my songs. And this could set it up for me."

"Right now, the AM (radio) stations have pigeon-holed me as some belligerent, heavy-metal nut. But I write good songs. I'm not just talking about some experience on the road in my songs."

Reminded that he described himself during an A-J interview last February as the type of recording artist who would always have a lot of fans, but never any hits, Hagar revealed a change in plans. He said, "My album 'Street Machine' has sold just over 200,000 copies, and I plan to be back in the recording studio again right after the first of the year. And the new LP will be a little bit different. See, on 'Street Machine,' my concept was to just go back to rock and roll roots of two guitar players, one guy on bass and drums. I mean, with my songs I always wanted to show myself as a singer and songwriter as much as a rock and roller. But even within that, we tried to stick to basics."

The next album, though, is going to have a little more production work. It'll be a little more complex, I mean, the rockers will still be fiery. But the ballads will be better produced, with a few more instruments and maybe some background singers. I just feel that I can do whatever I want on record — and onstage. I'll still rock out my way."

And it must be said: his way is highly effective.

Tickets remain available for the 8 p.m. concert today at the Lubbock Coliseum, featuring Sammy Hagar, Pat Travers and The Scorpions. They are on sale at B&B Records, Al's Music Machine and Flipside Records.

Bette Midler's film "The Rose," featuring at least one tune by Hagar, will open Dec. 21 at the Fox Fourplex in Lubbock.

Astros In Dispute Over Astrodome Maintenance

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County commissioners took no action Monday on a million-dollar Astrodome dispute.

John McMullen, owner of the Houston Astros, rejected a county auditor's claim the Houston Sports Association owes the county $1.4 million.

Instead, McMullen said, the county owes the HSA $2.8 million for maine-nance work.

McMullen appeared before the commissioners after County Auditor S. Grady Fullerton reported the HSA owes $1.4 million to a "rainy day" fund designed for use should economic conditions make it impossible for HSA to pay $750,000 annually under a 40-year lease to retire bonds issued for the Astrodome's construction.

The "rainy day" fund is based on a complicated formula involving some but not all Astrodome revenues.

McMullen did not submit a proposal to the commissioners but said he was outlining HSA's position and would await the county's reaction. He said earlier efforts to extend the 40-year lease failed. Under that proposal the "rainy day" fund would have been abolished and HSA would have become responsible for all maintenance work.

Actress Loses Glamour In Film

'Technicolor Queen' Claims Life May Begin After 45

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Thirty years ago Rhonda Fleming was Hollywood's "technicolor Queen," perhaps the most beautiful redhead in motion pictures, a glamor girl in every sense of the word.

She won't look like a glamor girl if you tune in "Love For Rent," a two-hour ABC-TV Movie, Nov. 11.

Rhonda plays a fiftish woman who runs a Hollywood dating service, sharing the screen with a couple of cuties in their 20s, Lisa Eilbacher and Anette O'Toole.

Rhonda is still gorgeous but she is no longer young. The years have imprinted a line here and there. But her skin is lustrous, her blue eyes clear and lively. Her figure is firm, her legs as shapely as ever.

Unlike many of her contemporaries, Rhonda doesn't subscribe to the theory that she'd rather have the public remember her as she was in her salad days. She is making the transition from leading lady to character actress gracefully.

Even so, she was shocked to see herself on the screen when looping her lines for "Love For Rent." The makeup and lighting wasn't what it was when she was starting in movies.

"When I saw myself, I said, 'Hey, Rhonda, you've really got guts to be on camera with those young beauties,'" Rhonda said the other day. "The camera was a little harsh on me. But it's a good, strong character role and that's why I took it."

"I want to play real women my age with something to say. And I want producers to know I'm available for those parts. It would be ridiculous for me to attempt to play younger women to compete with my youthful image of the past."

"I did the same thing four or five years ago on a guest shot for 'Police Woman,' wearing a frowzy wig and padding to make me look heavy. I was told viewers didn't want to see me looking like that."

"Believe me, I'd much prefer to be in a fabulous show not looking my best than to look terrific in something that wasn't worthwhile. I don't have that sort of ego now."

Rhonda acknowledged that most young actresses, specially those who rely on their physical beauty, are aware that the day is coming when their youthful looks will begin to fade. She was.

Just as Marilyn Monroe was replaced by Raquel Welch who has been succeeded by Farrah Fawcett, 22-year-old Bo Derek is in the wings ready to take over.

"Farrah and Cheryl Ladd and Jaclyn Smith all must face the transition," Rhonda said. "It's inevitable if you want to survive as an actress. You have to be honest with yourself and go through the painful adjustments."

Rhonda retired from movies and television for four years (1966-70) after her marriage to theater magnate Ted Mann. She traveled and contributed her time to charitable work.

"I'm an actress and a singer and too much of a workhorse to want to retire," she said, smiling. "I also wanted to keep my name before the public."

"The hardest thing about returning to work was competing with myself on the late night movie reruns. I'd become my own worst enemy."

"So I made my second debut, this time on Broadway in 'The Women' with Myrna Loy, Kim Hunter and Alexis Smith in 1973. Then I appeared on stage in 'The Boyfriend' and later in 'Kismet' at the Los Angeles Music Center."

"I wasn't playing ingenues. And I discovered I loved playing gutsy women like Madame Dubonnet in 'The Boyfriend.' I've done my first picture in years, 'The Nude Bomb,' with Don Adams, a movie version of his old 'Get Smart' television show. And I enjoyed it thoroughly. I play a chic fashion designer, very glamorous, but a woman my own age."

Rhonda feels as if she's returned to her original goals as an actress.

She wasn't a glamor girl when her career started. Producer David O. Selznick put her under contract and cast her in "Spellbound" in the dramatic role of a nymphomaniac. Alfred Hitchcock directed her in the film with Ingrid Bergman.

Rhonda followed her impressive screen debut with "The Spiral Staircase," another stark drama. Both were black-and-white films.

Then Selznick loaned her to Paramount to costar with Bing Crosby in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." The Technicolor cameras captured her youthful beauty and changed Rhonda's career forever.

She starred in more than a score of movies, looking more beautiful each time she went before the cameras.

"I was lucky in that I never had to pound the pavement or knock on doors for jobs," Rhonda said. "But I'd always intended to be a serious singer and actress. The glamor girl thing just sort of happened."

"I didn't know how to counteract the 'Technicolor Queen' image which prevented me from being cast in good dramatic roles."

"Now I feel as if I'd returned to where I was when I was a youngster, playing character roles. Life really is starting over for me now. Maybe life does begin after 45."

Brando's Sister Gets Film Role

CULVER CITY, Calif. (Special) — Jocelyn Brando has been set by producer Pancho Kohner for a featured role in MGM's "Why Would I Lie?" now filming on location in Spokane, Washington with Treat Williams and Lisa Eichhorn heading the cast.

She will portray the foster mother of 8-year-old Gabriel Swann, who makes his debut in the romantic comedy in a co-starring role. Larry Peerce is directing "Why Would I Lie?" from a screenplay by Peter Stone based on the Hollis Hughes novel, "The Fabricator."

Jocelyn, sister of actor Marlon Brando, divides her acting roles between stage and screen. On Broadway she has appeared in "Mr. Roberts" and "Desire Under the Elms." On screen she has appeared in such films as "China Venture," "Ten Wanted Men" and more recently in "Movie, Movie."

Art Museum To Exhibit Greek Classics

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Metropolitan Museum opens a blockbuster exhibition of preclassical Greek art this week that traces the creative and adaptive sources of Aegean culture on which Western civilization is based.

The show, which opens Thursday, was organized by the Greek government and the Louvre museum in Paris, where it was on display for four months. More than 100 objects were drawn from a dozen Greek museums and supplemented by nearly 100 objects from the Louvre, Metropolitan and Brooklyn museums, and private collections.

TOGETHER AGAIN — Ginger Rogers is reunited with Douglas Fairbanks Jr. for a special two-hour showing of popular ABC-TV series "Love Boat," in which Miss Rogers plays a former movie star and Fairbanks a film critic. Their last film together was "Having A Wonderful Time" in 1938. The "Love Boat" segment is due for airing Saturday. (AP Laserphoto)

SUSPECTS ARRAIGNED — Fourteen suspects in the shooting deaths of four persons at an anti-Ku Klux Klan rally are led into court in Greensboro, N.C., Monday. The suspects were ordered held without bond by District Court Judge Robert Cecil who described the suspects as "imminently dangerous to the community." (AP Lashphoto)

Bail Denied To Klan 14

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Fourteen men, described by a judge as "imminently dangerous to others of the community," were ordered held without bond, Monday, after a shooting rampage at an anti-Ku Klux Klan rally that killed five persons.

Persons outside the courtroom said they could hear voices singing "God Bless America" and "Onward Christian Soldiers" in the holding cell where the suspects awaited their court appearances.

Nelson Johnson, one of the organizers of the anti-Klan protest, said at a news conference that his group planned to hold a funeral march in Greensboro on Sunday for those killed in the attack.

Four persons died at the scene of Saturday's shootings in a predominantly black housing project. A fifth victim, Michael Nathan, a physician from Durham, died Monday at a Greensboro hospital. Nine other persons were injured.

Twelve men were arrested, a few hundred feet from the scene of the shootings, where gunmen fired repeatedly into a crowd gathered for an anti-Klan march sponsored by the leftists Workers Viewpoint Organization. Police seized a yellow van that was packed with pistols, shotguns and rifles.

Each of the 12 arrested Saturday faces four counts of murder and one count of conspiracy to commit murder. District Attorney Michael A. Schlosser said, before the fifth victim died, that he expected other charges to be filed.

Two suspects were arrested in Winston-Salem on Sunday. Each was charged with one count of conspiracy to commit murder.

Police Chief William E. Swing said Monday that one other suspect was still being sought, although it was possible that more might have been involved. He said six of the suspects in custody identified themselves as members of the Klan and three of the defendants said they were members of the American Nazi Party.

Ban Still In Effect

He said a citywide ban on parades was still in effect, but that Johnson's group might get a permit if they applied for one to hold a funeral march.

Johnson said the Klan was challenged to appear at Saturday's protest, but they would not be challenged to come to the funeral march. He said, "If the Klan shows up, we'll protect ourselves."

In Monday's court hearing, District Court Judge Robert Cecil ordered the defendants jailed pending a probable-cause hearing on Nov. 20. He denied bond for any of the men after Schlosser described them as "a band of marauders, 14 strong, who descended on Guilford County and cut a path of destruction that left dead and bloody bodies."

In handcuffed pairs, the defendants were brought into the courtroom to hear the charges and to tell Cecil whether they planned to hire a lawyer.

Simple Answers

Wearing wrinkled and ill-fitting jail-issued coveralls, most of the men stood passively and said nothing except for simple answers to Cecil's questions.

One defendant, however, asked the judge if he could make a statement. Cecil agreed.

"God save America and this honoramillion pledged, about $160 million would go to Cambodia, where some two million persons face famine and epidemics, and most of the remainder would be for Cambodian refugees in Thailand.

He said arrangements for delivery of relief supplies should "assure us and the donors that they arrive in the hands of the suffering civilians for whom they are destined."

Waldheim mentioned no names and neither did other speakers, who urged that the rival factions in Cambodia put aside their differences for the sake of the relief program.

In a statement broadcast Monday by the Vietnam News Agency, the Heng Samrin government said it was "from now on ready to receive whatever quantity of humanitarian aid... without political conditions."

Vance said the United States plans $69 million in aid to Cambodia, including $30 million already pledged by President Carter. $9 million in aid for refugees in Thailand and provisions for $30 million in additional aid now going through by Congress.

Cambodian politics also became a factor in the session when it was discovered there was a delegate from the Heng Samrin regime, which is not recognized by the United Nations. Keo Prasat, Heng Samrin's ambassador to Moscow, arrived in New York over the weekend and sat with the Bulgarian mission.

The accredited delegate of the Pol Pot regime, Thiounn Prasith, told reporters he regretted the State Department decision to give Prasat a visa.

ble court." Rayford Milano Caudle said, as he left the courtroom.

The defendants were brought back to the courtroom for a brief bond hearing after their initial appearances. All but one asked to have court-appointed attorneys.

In an unusual security move, Cecil ordered families and friends of the suspects, as well as other spectators, kept out of the courtroom, but news reporters were allowed to view the proceedings.

Numerous unanswered questions remained regarding Saturday's shootings.

Johnson said, at a news conference, Sunday, that the site of the gathering had been discreetly moved in an attempt to prevent violence, but the attackers apparently had no problem finding where the marchers were gathered. Also, police were unable to explain exactly why the nearest officers were about a block away.

Police said Johnson was asked by one officer to postpone the march as the crowd began to gather. But Johnson categorized that statement as "a lie. This did not happen."

FBI Agents Probe KKK Shooting Role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than two dozen FBI agents are in North Carolina, investigating a weekend shooting incident in which five persons were killed at an anti-Ku Klux Klan rally, the White House announced, Monday.

Press secretary Jody Powell said President Carter had talked to Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti about investigating the shootings at Greensboro, N.C.

Powell said Carter, "like all Americans, abhors organizations... that seek to draw fragile and ill-directed support from bigotry and prejudice."

No Violence

"This administration stands, as it has demonstrated on numerous occasions, for the widest range of free speech and free expression within the law, but no group has the right to advance its beliefs by acts of violence."

"The president has spoken with the attorney general," Powell said, "and he has directed that he cooperate fully with local officials and that the Department of Justice pursue its own investigation under federal law to do everything, in short, that is possible" to track down all the gunmen in North Carolina.

The president took the action before meeting with a contingent of black leaders from Alabama, including Mayor-elect Richard Arrington of Birmingham.

Special Unit

Referring to the Greensboro shooting, in which five people died and 14 men have been charged, Powell said, "The Justice Department has activated a special unit to investigate these incidents and the... department now has more than two dozen agents on the scene" in North Carolina.

"What has been termed the resurgence of the Klan, not only in the South but in other regions of the country, is a matter of concern to this president and this administration," Powell said.

Joe Reed, head of the black group that met with Carter said the president was asked to "take steps immediately" against Klan violence.

GROSS SALES UP

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Monday gross sales in Texas for April, May and June totaled $49.5 billion, up $5.3 billion from the same three-month period last year. Sales in the second quarter of this year surpassed sales in this year's first quarter by about $1 billion, Bullock added in a statement.

Bolivia Dictator Refuses To Quit Despite Reports

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Col. Alberto Natusch, the right-wing army officer who seized power last week, dashed hopes for a quick solution to Bolivia's bloody power struggle, Monday, by declaring that he would not step down.

Natusch said in a speech on government radio and television that assertions by some congressmen that he would surrender power to Congress were "absolutely false."

"With sincerity and firmness, we will not permit the nation to become enslaved by predatory terrorism," the self-proclaimed president declared.

Thursday Coup

He led an armed forces coup, Thursday, that ousted President Walter Guevara, the first constitutional president in a decade.

Natusch dissolved Congress, but then allowed it to reconvene, Monday, leading some civilian politicians to believe the military might be backing down after days of street battles left at least 39 persons dead and scores wounded.

Senate President Leonidas Sanchez had met with Natusch and told other legislators, "The crisis we are going through now will be solved in a matter of hours." His optimism was echoed by Congressman Ruben Sanchez, who told reporters Natusch had promised to resign. Then Natusch made his broadcast, shattering their hopes.

Guevara and his Cabinet went into hiding after the coup and have actively organized resistance to the military, which has been unable to gather popular support.

Censorship Decreed

Censorship was among the emergency decrees issued by Natusch, and the La Paz offices of United Press International and Agence France Presse were closed down, Monday, by the government. A UPI employee said, "Two policemen arrived with a Bolivian navy officer and ordered us to immediately suspend transmissions." A staff member of the French news agency said, "They also forced us to suspend transmissions." They said the police gave no reasons for the actions.

The United States took another step to dissociate itself from the Natusch regime, Monday. State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said in Washington that a note had been received from the military government expressing its wish to continue normal diplomatic relations, but the United States had not answered the note. He gave no further details.

The United States is maintaining its embassy in La Paz, but on Friday it suspended $6 million in military aid and some $21 million in economic assistance to the country.

Rumors Unconfirmed

Rumors that some military units loyal to Guevara were marching on La Paz could not be confirmed, nor were there any reports of clashes within the army.

Downtown La Paz, under heavy military patrol, was calm as darkness fell, but shooting could be heard in slum areas surrounding the capital.

Soldiers were seen firing at houses, and a Roman Catholic priest reported that he saw a woman candy vendor shot down by a soldier firing his automatic rifle only 20 feet away.

La Paz Auxiliary Bisho Genaro Prata, who led Catholic church efforts to arrange a compromise, had been confident, before Natusch made his radio speech, that a settlement was near. He told The Associated Press, "The theme of the mediation is to give power to the Congress, which would decide who would be president... The negotiations are very difficult, but I believe that it is still possible to arrive at an arrangement in order to avoid more bloodshed."

Davis Trial Begins Last Arguments

FORT WORTH (AP) — A defense lawyer called informant David McCrory a "liar and manipulator" as closing arguments began, Monday, in the murder solicitation trial of millionaire defendant Cullen Davis.

"He was trained as a manipulator and he is an admitted liar," said Dallas attorney Phil Burleson.

He and co-counsel Mike Gibson attacked the state's key witness on all grounds and insisted that his testimony boggles the imagination and defies common sense. Earlier Monday they called a surprise witness in an attempt to discredit McCrory.

Doubt Repeated

Both argued repeatedly that the state did not prove "beyond a reasonable doubt" that Davis ordered McCrory last year to arrange the murder of the judge presiding over his divorce case. The judge, Joe Eidson, was not harmed.

Lead defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes and chief prosecutor Jack Strickland are to close the arguments, Tuesday, at which time the case goes to the jury. The panel consists of only 11 members. One was dismissed in mid-trial after breaking a leg.

Prosecutor John Bankston opened the final arguments by warning jurors to beware of Haynes' "theatrics."

Judge Gordon Gray reopened testimony, Monday, at the request of the defense.

An unexpected witness, an Oklahoma City innkeeper, furnished documentary evidence demonstrating that the final state rebuttal witness, Gale Helms, gave erroneous testimony. The revelation, which Davis labeled "dynamite," also reflected negatively on McCrory.

Different Date

Dickerson, who manages a Holiday Inn, said his records showed that Gale Helms, the state's final witness, and McCrory checked into the motel June 10, 1978, and not June 9 as Helms insisted. Furthermore, he said, the records indicated they arrived at 4:07 p.m. that Saturday and that McCrory was not accompanied by his wife.

Helms had testified that he, McCrory and McCrory's wife left Fort Worth at 5:30 p.m. June 9, drove to the Holiday Inn and checked in that night.

The testimony supported the state's contention that McCrory was not in Fort Worth at 6 p.m. on June 9 and meeting with Davis, as the defendant claimed.

Impressed Dirk Names Muleshoe City 'Suburb'

fore seen in this town of nearly 5,000 people.

West was greeted at the city limits by Police Chief John Richards who read him his rights, "including the right to remain silent," and escorted him to the feast. As the limo pulled into the parking lot, the Muleshoe residents fired off a two-gun salute, which West said "was quite enough."

Once inside the restaurant, West Texas hospitality took over and the hour-long fete was nothing but laughter and fine food, which the menu noted as, "Mule Ribs, Mulatini, Mulagetti, Mule Ear Tamales and Pepto-Bismol Pie."

After West was seated, he tucked his napkin into the collar of his dinner jacket and asked the crowd of about 50 organizers and invitees dressed in black tuxedo T-shirts, "Is this how you do it?"

Dr. Herman Allgood, who wrote the first fiery letter to West, quipped at the head table, "Live dangerously, Dirk. Take a bite."

Antidotes Available

West did, and proved there was nothing dangerous but plenty that was delicious about the lavish feast, even though all the tables were jokingly covered with Maa-lox, Kaopectate and Pepto-Bismol bottles.

After the dinner, West sat through a series of humorous pokes, many of them not suitable to print, at his ability as a mayor and cartoonist. Banker Harmon Elliott noted that West was so popular in high school that he got pregnant as a sophomore.

Grain dealer Max King said that, "Not only has Dirk closed down the massage parlors in Lubbock, he's also stopped the Grecian Formula 16 sales there."

And Allgood explained that he was, "A little late getting here because I was visiting a Muleshoe couple who had contracted ptomaine poisoning — they ate in Lubbock today."

"Food Is Fabulous"

When it was West's turn to respond, he told the crowd, "You've ruined all my best material — the food here is fabulous." The comment met with a thunderous cheer from the stuffed audience. The Lubbock mayor also presented Muleshoe mayor Charles Bratcher with a proclamation designating Muleshoe as an honorary suburb of Lubbock, and "a large rug with West's Red Raider on it."

Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce Manager Jim Gulley reciprocated by presenting West with a proclamation designating him as an "Ornery Citizen" of Muleshoe and a keychain to the city. "We would have presented you with a key," he said, "But we didn't have time to get all the locks changed."

"I'll tell you one thing," West said on the way back to Lubbock. "This was a terrific evening, but it sure cured me of picking on the little towns."

If Pooch Has Problems Call This Psychiatrist

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — If you've got a pooch with a problem, animal analyst Daniel Tortora may be the man to see — but be prepared to undergo a bit of analysis yourself.

Tortora says that if more people knew how to look for problems and more veterinarians could handle them, many of the 300 dogs destroyed daily nationwide because of behavioral problems could be saved.

Something In The Environment

"They can be cured if people want them to be," Tortora said in an interview. "If there's something in the environment that caused it, there's something in the environment that can cure it."

Tortora, who said he was one of a dozen animal behavior analysts in the United States, said about 40 percent of the cases he's dealt with were owner-induced problems or the result of temperament and other conditions instinctive to a breed.

They were the cases that "aren't pure anything but are purely complicated," said Tortora, who addressed a regional meeting of the American Animal Hospital Association this weekend with hopes of getting veterinarians to start recognizing and treating behavior problems.

He cited the case of Clancy, a 2-year-old Old English Sheepdog who weighed 100 pounds and stood 23 inches at the shoulder.

Problem Started In Boarding Kennel

Clancy's problem began when his owners put him in a kennel where he joined his fellow barking boarders in trying to drown out the ringing of an amplified telephone bell.

The dog took the behavior home and it worsened with the dog lunging at a mother and her two teen-age daughters, who spent a good deal of time running to the phone.

Initial therapy didn't work, and it wasn't until Tortora talked to the family that he found out that one of the girls had "boyfriend problems" and spent "many tearful hours" on the phone.

That served to increase the dog's feelings that the phone was a danger and made it follow the instinct of trying to herd its flock away from a threat, Tortora explained.

He also found the younger daughter had problems in school and had sabotaged his efforts so a counselor couldn't get through to her mother on the phone.

Premier Meets With Communist Leader

ROME (AP) — Chinese Premier Hua Guofeng met briefly Monday with Enrico Berlinguer, the leader of the largest Communist party in the West and a friend of the Soviet Union.

Hua and Berlinguer, one of 120 guests invited to a luncheon at the presidential palace, shook hands and exchanged a few words, a palace source said. Earlier, Hua spent an hour meeting with Italian President Sandro Pertini.

Italian officials said Italy and China had agreed to expand trade and improve credit arrangements and that a declaration on the subject was expected before the Chinese left Tuesday for home.

plete a thorough search process and convert to a new system by the deadline.

Flippin's proposal to the board included installing Shared Medical Services equipment at a time to be decided by the board at almost half the cost usually charged by the firm.

Flippin explained the hospital now pays about $17,000 monthly for its current system and said his firm's rate would probably be closer to $14,000 when installed.

Flippin told the board, though, that for the first year, the hospital would only be charged $8,884 for data processing, with the same services now available to the hospital.

This fee includes equipment rental and all other facets of the operation, excluding the cost of the forms that are run through the system.

The board approved rescinding its motion to consult with the Dallas auditing firm on the selection process and voted to accept Shared Medical Services' proposal, pending a formal written agreement.

Leader Calls For Elections In Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's chief opposition leader called on Monday for free elections to choose a successor to assassinated President Park Chung-hee and urged the government to release an estimated 1,000 political prisoners. "The president should be elected by the people," Kim Young-sam, head of the opposition New Democratic Party, told reporters during a news conference at his home. "The Korean people are 'anxious to see a change in the system,'" added Kim, sitting in front of a picture of himself with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and a plate with a portrait of the late president John F. Kennedy.

Kim also called for a repeal of emergency decree No. 9, which makes criticism of the government illegal. The commission investigating Park's death announced it would issue another report on the assassination on Tuesday. Park was killed by the head of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency on Oct. 26.

Choi Kyu-hah, prime minister in Park's cabinet, became acting president under the constitutional line of succession. Five of Park's bodyguards also were slain by KCIA members who opened fire on the presidential group during a dinner in a KCIA building.

One of the key questions surrounding the assassination by the country's intelligence chief is whether any elements of the military were involved.

American officials have praised the military for preserving a civilian government instead of launching a coup immediately after Park's death.

Under the 1972 constitution, written by Park to give himself sole power, South Korea's electoral college must choose a new president within 90 days. There can be no debate and no campaigning.

Hospital Visit

THINGS AREN'T ALL BAD FOR RON REEVES THESE DAYS. Okay, maybe his right shoulder is currently being held together with bailing wire and safety pins — but the Texas Tech quarterback is taking life in stride.

Reeves usually spent Monday's in class — either trying to explain a loss or accepting praise for a victory. And with Tech's 3-4-1 record you can imagine what the typical Monday was like.

And Monday's are bad enough anyway. But yesterday the sophomore found himself in an unaccustomed position — lying on his back in bed at Methodist Hospital.

Reeves was operated on Sunday after suffering a shoulder separation during Tech's hard-fought 14-6 loss to Texas on Saturday. But by Monday afternoon the Lubbock Monterey graduate was in good spirits.

"I think I'm going to do like everybody else for these last couple of games," he said with a smile. "Now I can sit in the stands and make fun of our offense."

Reeves' comment was intended in jest but he did have a point to make. "You know," he said, "almost every one of my friends has gotten into a fight at Jones Stadium this year because of what people have said about me."

"I guess they just shouldn't go to the games."

BUT, TO STEAL A LINE FROM DICK NIXON, they won't have Ron Reeves to kick around anymore. At least not anymore this year, as he'll miss Tech's last three contests.

And while Reeves is out of action, Tech coach Rex Dockery will experiment with freshmen Jim Hart — ordinarily Tech's No. 2 QB — and Mark James (who has been playing wide receiver) and sophomore Ricky Ethridge.

"Our offense is going to have to rally around the young quarterbacks and help them," said Dockery. "We have to learn to adjust. Undoubtedly it has been tough at times, but you have to learn to overcome those things."

Yes, it has been tough for the Red Raiders. Since the end of last season Tech has lost six players who looked like sure starters in '79. Receiver Michael Morris and lineman Jim Wosoba both died tragically, tailback Phil Weatherall and tight end Mark Harrelson left the team and strong tackle Robert Caughlin was lost for the season with a back injury during the first week of fall workouts.

And now — maybe the most critical loss — Reeves is out. "The thing that is depressing," said Dockery, "is that our players have worked hard enough to deserve better."

BUT THE SQUAD HAS MAINTAINED its enthusiasm and Reeves, even lying in a hospital bed, is a case in point.

"I'm just glad it's not a knee or something real serious," he said. "I'd hate to have to play linebacker for the rest of my life."

"But I guess I can't go skiing over the holidays now and I won't be able to go deer hunting either."

Gee, Ron, life's tough. "Well I guess I can learn to shoot left-handed," he figured. "I'm not much of a shot anyway."

Reeves said the doctors put three pins in his shoulder and that they'll probably take them out in a month or so. And he was all set to leave the hospital this morning.

But lying in bed Monday with his shoulder bandaged — Reeves looked considerably smaller than the 6-2, 210-pounder appears on the field. And the small hospital room looked even smaller with nearly wall-to-wall flowers.

"FLOWERS DIE," SAID REEVES WITH A LAUGH. "I'd rather get candy or money. A woman sent a box of chocolate chip cookies and I think I ate about 20 this morning."

"I mean, I attacked those things."

And a hearty appetite is always a sign of good health. But there were some bleak moments for Tech's hardnosed QB after he was helped off the field Saturday in Austin.

"I was really out of it yesterday (Sunday)," said Reeves. "I can't even remember who came by (the hospital) or anything. But I'm okay now."

Undoubtedly Reeves will be back — and so will the Red Raiders. "It's really too bad the injury happened now," Dockery said, "because the last three weeks Ron has played about as well as a quarterback can play."

"He has meant a lot to our program the last two years and we wish him a speedy recovery."

And nobody is going to fight Dockery on that point.

Oilers Nullify Dolphins 9-6

MIAMI (AP) — Veteran placekicker Toni Fritsch drilled field goals of 46, 48 and 39 yards Monday night as the Houston Oilers struggled past error-plagued Miami for a 9-6 National Football League victory.

The victory improved the Oilers' record to 7-3 and tied them with Cleveland for second place in the American Football Conference Central Division. The Dolphins, 6-4, dropped one game behind New England in the AFC East.

Rookie Uwe von Schamann booted a 32-yard field goal to give the Dolphins a 3-0 first-quarter lead and drew them to within 9-6 with a 51-yarder with 12:26 left in the game.

Costly turnovers killed the Dolphins' hopes. Dolphins quarterback Bob Griese tried a 41-yard bomb to Nat Moore midway through the fourth quarter, but safety Vernon Perry intercepted in the end zone. Then with two minutes left in the game, the Dolphins again had moved into scoring range at the Houston 20 when linebacker Gregg Bingham picked off a short Griese pass and returned it 54 yards to clinch the victory. Gary Davis, Miami's starting all-back while Delvin Williams recovers from two broken ribs, fumbled twice. He fumbled at the Houston 15 in the second quarter and at the Houston 47 in the fourth quarter, with linebacker Robert Brazile recovering both times.

Rugged Earl Campbell, appearing fully recovered from a thigh bruise that had slowed him to 41 yards the previous two weeks, became the first runner to break 100 yards against Miami this season. He gained 121 yards on 32 carries and helped the Oilers get into position for Fritsch's field goals.

Fritsch kicked his 46-yard field goal on the first play of the second quarter to tie the game, then put the Oilers ahead with a 48-yarder with 5:05 left in the third quarter. He added his final field goal on the next-to-last play of the third quarter.

The 34-year-old Austrian has converted 15 of 17 field goal attempts this season.

Griese seemed to have broken out of a two-week-old slump with 287 passing yards against Green Bay last Sunday, but he was only 14 of 26 for 158 yards against Houston. He had particular trouble hitting his deep threats.

The Dolphins' secondary was solid throughout the game, holding quarterback Dan Pastorini to six completions.

Chaps Claim Cage Opener

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor
Lubbock Christian College opened its 1979-80 basketball season wound up tight like a toy locomotive — chugging and steaming to a seemingly insurmountable 17-point lead late in the first half of action Monday night.

But that train made several unexpected stops — turnovers, that is — later in the opening period and during most of the second half.

The Chaparrals gave the basketball away 34 times, squandered the 17-point advantage and fell behind the Paul Quinn Tigers by 11 points with only 3:12 remaining to be played. But much like the little train that could, LCC didn't quit. The Chaps went full-speed ahead those final three minutes and pulled out a 97-96 victory over the Tigers on Rick Murdock's layup with seven seconds showing on the clock at LCC Fieldhouse.

"We had the game won, but our turnovers let them right back in it," said a relieved LCC coach Larry Hays following the heart-stopping win. "We ran so well early in the game that we hated to give up the running game. We stayed with it too long and they (the Tigers) got right back in it."

It looked like the LCC locomotive needed a quick trip to the roundhouse for repairs following sophomore forward Leonard Vanduring's follow-up basket that gave the Tigers a 94-83 lead over the Chaps with 3:12 left to play.

At that point, the Chaps began the long, uphill journey. Behind some excellent defensive play by senior post man Kevin Wharton and six points by junior guard Bruce Carver, the Chaps reeled off 12 points in a row and took 95-94 lead with 27 seconds left to play.

Vanduring drove the length of the court and laid in an easy bucket to put Paul Quinn back on top 96-95 with only 16 ticks remaining on the clock.

LCC quickly put the ball into play and Carver was fouled by sophomore forward Ray Stephens as he crossed the center-court stripe. Carver, who had hit three of four free throws before stepping to the charity line for the crucial one-and-one attempt, bounced his first shot

Klondike Enjoys Championship Fruits

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 The first year Klondike High School competed in 11-man football, the Cougars did pretty much as everybody expected. They lost.
 Fresh from the ranks of eight-man hall, the Cougars went 1-9 in their first full season in Class B. But then a funny thing happened. The next year Klondike won two more games, and then last year the Cougars went 7-3 and allowed only six points in district play.
 Now they're sitting pretty with a 9-0 record and the District 3-B West's championship already under their belts. The only thing that remains to be seen is whether they'll play Sterling City or Jayton for the district crown.
 "We haven't got any first choice," said Klondike coach Mickey Finley. "We don't have any preference on who we play. Either one is fine."
 If he sounds eager to prove himself, he is. He has been the coach of the Cougars since they moved up to Class B competition and he is justifiably proud of the program he's built.

 "I think we've got as good a program as there is anywhere," he said. The key? "We have a real fine off-season program. The kids all work real hard."
 "The key was getting the kids confident and we did that mostly through our weight program. We kept charts and progress notes on everybody."
 "I'd say we're probably the strongest team around. Everybody talks about how big we are, but really we're just strong."
 For example, on the offensive line

Lonny Ferguson, and their leading passer, Todd Airhart, are both juniors, as are Martin and Carstensen.
 With that kind of talent in store, you might think Finley would want to play it safe and stay in Klondike. But he says maybe not.
 "I don't have any idea right now," he said about a possible job move. "And I don't want to talk about that 'till we're through with the season."
 "I can say that I definitely want to move up one of these days, but I'm not even thinking about it now."
 In the area's other Class B district, 2-B, it looks like Lazbuddie and Valley will battle for the championship after clinching their respective zones. Time and place has not been yet decided.

Eakins Outfoxes Lovington Defense

By ERIC GALE
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 A bit of trickery, plus good hard work, helped junior halfback Randy Eakins lead Portales High School past Lovington 21-14 Friday night.
 Eakins began the Rams' scoring by catching a 67-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Eddie Poe in the first half, but Portales found itself trailing 14-7 early in the fourth quarter.
 The 140-pound running back ignited Portales when, on a fourth down-and-three situation at the 50-yard line, he received the snap in punt formation and ran 40 yards to the Lovington 10.
 The Rams promptly tied the score and then pushed over the winning touchdown in the game's closing minutes to improve their record to 7-1.

Giants' Carson Plagued By Loss To Cowboys

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The hurt still lingered inside New York Giants linebacker Harry Carson on Monday. The memory of Rafael Septien's field goal with just three seconds to play was vivid in his mind.
 Choosing to reflect by himself rather than commiserate with teammates, Carson remained on the field Sunday, with tears rolling down his cheeks, after the Giants dropped a heartbreaking 16-14 game to the Cowboys.
 "It hurt. I saw our guys walking off, Dallas walking off, a couple of players shaking hands. I don't know what they were saying, but at that point I didn't want to be with anybody," said Carson, an All-Pro selection last season.
 "I hurt for my teammates, for the fans, not only for myself, realizing we should have won the game," he said.
 Instead the Giants are 4-6, the playoffs once again just a fantasy and the four-game winning streak history. Sunday night was not an easy one for Carson. He replayed the game in his mind, tossed and turned in bed, fell asleep, woke up a few hours later to "have a bowl of Sugar Smacks," and fell back to sleep.
 Monday morning was not much better.
 "I didn't want to come in today. I would rather have stayed home and watched 'The Young and the Restless,'" said Carson, a soap opera fanatic.

 Amazingly, Murdock didn't even have to fight for the rebound. The ball bounced right to him and he simply took one step and laid the ball in off the glass for the deciding points. He was fouled after the shot and missed the first end of the one-and-one.
 That left the Tigers with seven seconds to pull the contest out of the fire. Vanduring drove the baseline and tried to lay the ball in, but it bounced off the rim into the hands of teammate guard Quincy Shelton about 10 feet to the left of and slightly behind the backboard.
 Shelton quickly put up a high jumper and it hit nothing but the bottom of the net. It appeared that the Tigers had de-railed LCC, but the officials ruled that time had expired before the ball left Shelton's hand and the game belonged to the Chaparrals.
 The excellent shooting of Carver and the inside play of senior forward Keith Gardner and sophomore post man Jim Steensma sparked the LCC fastbreak midway through the opening half.
 The two teams traded buckets the first five minutes of play. With the score tied 14-14, Carver canned three short-range baskets and Gardner added a pair of jump shots to push LCC in front 24-14.
 Poor shooting on the part of the Tigers and the Chaps' ability to get the ball downcourt quickly allowed LCC to add to the 10-point margin. Carver hit three charity shots, and Steensma and Wharton each dropped in layups as the Chaps pulled out in front 53-36 with 2:32 left in the first half.
 Turnovers plagued the Chaps the remainder of the half and the Tigers took

Tech Cagers Open '79-80

The Texas Tech women's basketball team opens its 1979-80 season at Western Texas College tonight at 6 p.m. in Snyder.
 Tech will start Louise Davis, 5-9 senior, and Vicki Lee, 5-6 freshman, at guards; Lynn Webb, 5-10 sophomore, and Christie Newman, 5-11 junior, at forwards. Rose Penkums, 5-11 sophomore, at center.
 Coach Gay Benson also plans to use Pam Stone, Liz Havens, Gwen McCray, Cookie Spencer and Nodia Vaughn.
 Tech was 8-25 last year, while Western Texas, 23-11 last year, defeated Weatherford College 67-57 in a season-opener last week.

 Much like the football team, the Lubbock women's basketball team is spanking new.
 So is the Lady Cougars coach David Simpson, a member of the Lady Cougars' first-time-ever coaching staff.
 "We're jumping in," Simpson said, "for better or for worse."
 "I view this as a challenge; to get the grass roots," Simpson said, "to see pretty thrills, program, and the way."
 The Lady Cougars carried by a lineup of players who are veterans.
 "This is a new team, nothing to be said. I arrived in Lubbock in the summer and that's about all I can say."
 "I've recruited a lot of girls who are ready at LCC and are interested in basketball."
 As might be expected, Simpson's roster is a mix of players who have played on the grounds and, in some cases, in the gym.

 Al Rosen, who was the president of the New York Yankees, came as an executive in the gambling casino, head of the team's operations.
 While none of the speculation is confirmed, it is expected that the Yankees will be sold to a group of investors, including the Red Sox, who are currently in a five-year period today and conclude.

Lady Chaps To Explore Cage Territory

By ERIC GALE
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Much like the fresh crop of 1980 automobiles, the Lubbock Christian College women's basketball program is brand-spanking new.

So is the Lady Chaps' first-year head coach David Simpson. So are the members of the Lady Chaps' 17-player roster.

And so is the excitement that is generated by the participants in an exploratory, first-time-ever venture.

"We're jumping right into it," Simpson said, of the 1979-80 season which opens, for better or worse, at Wayland Baptist at 7 p.m. Thursday.

"I view this as an opportunity and a challenge: to get something started from the grass roots," he said. "The girls seem pretty thrilled about starting a new program, and that will carry us a long way."

The Lady Chaps may also have to be carried by a lineup largely composed of players who are volunteered, not recruited.

"This is a new squad with no returnees, nothing to build on," Simpson said. "I arrived on the scene late this summer and that made it difficult to recruit."

"I've recruited six freshmen, but the rest are girls who transferred or were already at LCC and had expressed an interest in basketball."

As might be expected of an inexperienced roster, Simpson must rely on players who lack college athletic backgrounds and, in most cases, learned high school ball according to the now-outdated three-on-three style, in which guards were not allowed to penetrate beyond mid-court.

"Probably the biggest of my recruiting problems was finding shooters," Simpson said. "Our defense is pretty good, but we've got to develop girls who can shoot and are confident in their shooting."

"Our ballhandling has not arrived, either. I can definitely see improvement from the first practice, but those skills were very rough. Some of the girls were dribbling with their heads down."

LCC's most complete player is junior guard Coilla Compton, 5-9, who is a transfer from Abilene Christian. Simpson seems grateful for her presence.

"She is our most seasoned player at this stage," the coach said. "She'll add shooting, ballhandling, speed and quickness. She's our top player, at least right now."

Joining Miss Compton in an unsettled starting lineup are guard Sherry Brown, a member of the LCC volleyball team; 5-10 center Lisa Cowdrey; and forwards Darla Lynch, 5-9, and Sherry Williams, 5-10. All four are freshmen.

"I'm excited about our inside players," Simpson said. "Cowdrey is a very good defender, who now needs to work on her shot, and Lynch and Williams are pretty physical girls who are pretty strong in fundamentals."

The remainder of the Lady Chaps are sophomore center Janice Wilkey, 5-10, and at forwards, junior JoAnn Phillips.

5-7; sophomores Cindy Bingham, 5-9, Diane Brock, 5-7, Lori Miller, 5-6, and Alberta Stinson, 5-7; freshman Michelle

Byers, 5-7. Backcourt help will come from senior Fawn Musick, 5-3; junior Cindy Nix, 5-1; sophomores Debbie Pitchford, 5-2, and Linda Sanders, 5-6; freshman Irene Ramirez, 5-6.

"There may be a problem controlling our emotions. The first hurdle is nervousness."

Simpson, 37, is a graduate of Harding (Ark.) University and has spent the last 12 years at York (Neb.) Junior College where he divided his time between coaching men's basketball, women's volleyball and an athletic directorship.

Finley On Verge Of Selling Team

NEW YORK (AP) — The long anticipated sale and transfer of Charles O. Finley's Oakland A's franchise to Denver may be completed before the end of the month, The Associated Press learned Monday.

The sale would bring major league baseball to Colorado beginning in 1980 and there were indications that oil millionaire Marvin Davis, the anticipated buyer, has already begun assembling a management team.

Al Rosen, who quit his post as president of the New York Yankees to become an executive with an Atlantic City gambling casino, was reported in line to head the team's front office operation.

While none of the participants would specifically confirm the transaction, they did not deny it. Instead, they hedged, perhaps afraid of damaging the deal which fell through once before, in 1978.

But The AP learned from a knowledgeable baseball source that obstacles which blocked the sale before have been eased and the deal is virtually certain to be completed this time.

Negotiations should be wrapped up some time this month enabling the transaction to be presented for American League approval during the winter baseball meetings next month in Toronto, the source indicated.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who was deeply upset when the Denver move abruptly fell through in April, 1978, flew to Oakland during the World Series with AL President Lee MacPhail to discuss terms of a stadium lease settlement with city officials.

"I am in a no comment situation on that one," Kuhn said when asked about the sale. "I did go to Oakland and I have been continuing my efforts in this matter, but I'm afraid that's all I can say."

MacPhail said, "We have known for the last several years that the (Oakland-San Francisco bay area) territory cannot support two clubs. We have talked over this matter in the past."

Tech Golfers Begin Meet

AUSTIN (Special) — The Texas Tech men's golf team is in 10th place in the Harvey Penick Intercollegiate tournament being played here at Morris Williams Golf Course.

The Red Raiders trail leader Centenary 351-373.

Leading the Tech golfers is Randy Waterhouse with a 71. Mike York follows with a 72. Chris Brown 75. Mark Williams 76. Larry Seligmann 79 and Kyle Rowland 81. Leading the chase for medalist is Centenary's Hal Sutten with a five-under-par 67.

The 54-hole tournament will continue today and conclude Wednesday.

Tech Schedules Swim Preview

The Texas Tech swimming team will hold its annual Red and Black intrasquad meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Men's Gym Pool.

Cody Augricht and Dan Redfern will captain the squads. The Raiders open their season against TCU in the new Texas Tech Aquatic Center Nov. 17.

Dodgers Hire Danny Ozark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Danny Ozark, fired as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies last August, will coach third base for the Los Angeles Dodgers next season, the National League baseball team announced Monday.

Ozark, who left the Dodgers to become the Phillies' manager prior to the 1973 season, guided Philadelphia to National League East championships for three straight years from 1976-78.

"It's nice to be back in Los Angeles," said Ozark at a news conference. "I'll enjoy working for (Vice President) Al Campanis and (Manager) Tommy Lasorda."

Ozark, 55, was a member of the Dodgers' organization for 28 years, as a player and manager in the minor leagues and a coach in the major leagues, before being hired by the Phillies.

"They were very enjoyable years," he said of the time he spent as Philadelphia's manager.

Jones Signs To Box In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboy Ed "Too Tall" Jones will fight an undetermined opponent Dec. 14 at the Dallas Convention Center, promoter Paul Percifield said Monday.

Percifield said he was trying to arrange a rematch for Jones with Jesus "Yaqui" Meneses.

Jones will fight in Tucson, Ariz., and Washington, D.C., before the Dallas fight.

UIL Realignment Brings Area Changes

AUSTIN (Special) — The University Interscholastic League, which governs high school athletics in the state, announced new classifications and district alignments Monday, which make several changes in South Plains districts.

The most widespread change in the UIL decision will affect the entire state as the governing body has changed Class AAAA schools to Class AAAA. Plus, all previous Class AAA schools will become Class AAAA with Class AA now being AAA. Class A now being AA and Class B becoming Class A. There will be no Class B districts.

The breakdown in enrollments, which determine school classifications, has schools with 1,310 students and above in AAAA, 1,309 to 615 in AAAA, 614 to 265 in AAA, 264 to 135 in AA and 134 and below in A. Schools with less than 85 students may enter the six-man conference.

Other than the increase in classification, no Lubbock public schools have been affected by the realignment. Monterey, Coronado, Lubbock High, Plainview and Hereford will continue to comprise one district as 4AAAA.

Dunbar and Estacado will remain in its district, now known as District 1-AAAA, with Borger, Canyon, Dumas and Levelland.

But that league will have an added entry as Brownfield has been moved from the old District 3-AAA to the 1-AAAA loop.

The UIL combined the old 2-AAA and 3-AAA districts into one group, calling it 2-AAAA. Making up that group will be Andrews, Fort Stockton, Lamesa, Monahans, Odessa Ector, Pecos, San Angelo Lake View, Snyder and Sweetwater.

The old Class AA teams in the area also will see some changes. The old District 3-AA is now 2-AAA and lost Morton as a member. That district is now made up of Dimmitt, Friona, Littlefield, Muleshoe and Oltor.

State football power Childress has been added to the old 4-AA loop, now called 3-AAA, which will also include Abernathy, Floydada, Idalou, Lockney and Tulia.

District 4-AAA now has Cooper, Roosevelt, Post, Slaton, Tahoka and Frenship. Denver City and Seminole left that group, joining 6-AAA with Coahoma and Crane.

Morton, at one time a perennial state power in basketball, is dropping down a classification and will compete in District 5-AA with Forsan, O'Donnell, Plains, Ropes, Seagraves and Stanton. Shallowater will remain in the same general classification, but will be in a new district, 4-AA, with Crosbyton, Hale Center, Lorenzo, New Deal, Petersburg, Ralls and Spur.

The old Class A group in the area loses Anton, which will be in District 2-A with Amherst, Happy, Lazbuddie, Motley County, Nazareth, Silverton, Smyer, Sudan, Sundown, Valley and Whiteface. District 3-A loses Jayton, which moved to 4-A, and Borden County, which dropped to six-man.

District 3-A now consists of Sands,

Blackwell, Garden City, Kiondike, Loraine, Meadow, New Home, Robert Lee, Roby, Roscoe, Sterling City and Wilson.

The six-man districts also faced changes. In District 1 will be Cotton Center, Loop, Three Way, Southland, Texline, Dawson, Wellman and Whitharal. District 2 will have Borden County, Hermleigh, Ira, Grady, McCauley, Highland, Hobbs and Trent.

Zorn, Seahawks Express Misery

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Seahawks Coach Jack Patera stared blankly down across his barrel chest at his feet and muttered: "I can't remember ever seeing anything like that before."

He'd love to forget, but the record book won't let him.

The Seahawks broke a National Football League record on Sunday by winding up with minus-7 yards on offense in their bruising 24-0 loss to the Los Angeles Rams. The previous league record was a minus-5 yards by Denver against Oakland in a 51-0 loss on Sept. 10, 1976.

The Seahawks' offensive line was a sieve under Rams' pounding. Seahawk quarterback Jim Zorn looked more like a punching bag than a passer.

"I'm not going to forget about this game," said Zorn, who was sacked six times and completed just two of 17 passes for 25 yards.

In the whole game, Seattle managed to grope to only one first down.

The Rams, by comparison, rolled up 476 total yards and 29 first downs.

A diehard optimist could point out that because Seattle had the ball for only 25 plays, the Seahawks lost an average of only slightly more than seven inches a play.

The Seahawks' defense was on the field for a grueling 95 plays. At least two defenders, end Bill Gregory and safety Autry Beamon, endured all 95.

"Maybe in college, I was in a game like this," Gregory said afterwards, blinking.

Patera, asked if he'd noticed any positive points in the Seahawks' performance, said, "I can't think of any now."

Zorn said, "I would never dream of this happening. It was embarrassing. We were booed and it was deserved. I was feeling like booging sometimes. We're in living color down there — bright red."

During Monday morning quarterbacking in the locker room, Zorn observed that everything went wrong.

"We could have thrown the ball a little better, run a little better, blocked a little better. It was a total breakdown."

The Seahawks had just 12 rushing plays and tried to pass only 17 times. Los Angeles, meanwhile, rushed 63 times and threw the ball 30 times. Los Angeles had the ball for 46 minutes to Seattle's 14.

Seattle running back Sherman Smith, who rushed for only 16 yards and failed to catch a pass for the first time in 41 games, assessed the bruised spirit of his teammates and noted it wasn't doomsday.

"I don't think anyone's going to jump off any bridges tonight," he said, joking. But he didn't laugh.

Goldwater Attorneys Criticize Carter For Ending Taiwan Defense Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for Sen. Barry Goldwater cautioned Monday that if President Carter can ignore Congress in ending defense treaties, a future president may ignore Congress in declaring war.

The attorneys, in a written brief, said there is no way to separate a president's treaty powers from his war powers.

Arguing against Carter's right to unilaterally end a U.S.-Taiwan defense treaty, the Goldwater lawyers said:

"If the People's Republic of China had insisted as a condition of recognition that the United States, in the event of certain future contingencies, declare war on the Soviet Union, would the president... have the constitutional power to do so without the participation of the legislative branch."

The attorneys said such a notion would be "repugnant to common sense, not to mention the Constitution."

The argument was submitted to the U.S. Court of Appeals here in a historic challenge to a president's powers to end treaties. The Constitution is silent on whether congressional approval is needed to terminate treaties.

Goldwater, R-Ariz., backed by 23 members of Congress and a former senator, insists Congress must have a role.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch agreed with Goldwater, ruling Oct. 17 that termination of treaties requires either a two-thirds vote of the Senate or a majority vote of both houses. The appeals court will hear oral arguments on the case Nov. 13.

The government appealed Gasch's ruling. In its brief Monday, government lawyers argued the lower court ruling could harm the United States' recently established diplomatic ties with China.

"For a court now to reinstate the mutual defense treaty, or even to cast doubt on the effectiveness of the president's notice of termination would seriously jeopardize the success of the newly formed United States (diplomatic) agreements with the PRC (China)," the government brief said.

"It is imperative that, in these circumstances, the courts refrain from taking any action that would detract from the authoritative and reliability of commitments already made to a foreign nation."

The government also argued that the courts should stay away from the issue and let the political process take over.

"Our submission is simply that the judicial branch should not undertake the task of deciding the proper allocation of power between the political branches in connection with the termination of a treaty of the United States," the brief said.

But the congressmen countered in their brief that a ruling in their favor would not jeopardize a president's role to conduct foreign affairs.

"His power to negotiate and make otherwise valid treaty and executive agreements would be left unimpaired," the Goldwater brief said. "His power as commander-in-chief is left intact. He can extend or withdraw diplomatic relations to or from any country at any time."

"The only conduct of the president that would be limited if the lower court's decision were affirmed is the very narrow circumstance of the president agreeing with one country to terminate a treaty with another."

Interest Rates May Drop Noticeably

NEW YORK (AP) — Barring a sharp increase in oil prices, interest rates should drop noticeably and the rate of inflation should cool by about 6 percentage points by the end of 1980, an economist for a major U.S. bank said Monday.

"We now are on the road to price stability" following Federal Reserve moves to tighten credit and slow the pace of the economy, Telford Gaines told a hearing of the congressional Joint Economic Committee.

"In the next six to nine months, we could see a lowering of interest rates Trust Co., the nation's fourth-largest bank. He did not specify any interest rate levels.

He said interest rates will "advance further" but will not rise to "stratospheric levels," adding the Federal Reserve "is not running a serious risk of a 20 percent prime rate."

He said, however, that the rate of inflation, currently 13 percent a year, should dip to 6½ percent to 7½ percent annually.

With the prime lending rate at a record 15½ percent, Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., renewed his call on Citibank not to boost its charge on loans to top-rated corporate borrowers this week although its formula could call for a 16 percent prime.

"Since we now jawbone labor to keep their wages down," it may be "all right to do a little jawboning with banks and other lenders to keep their interest rates down," Reuss said.

The congressman said Citibank exhibited "an act of statesmanship" in not raising its prime lending rate last week, and "I would hope they would refrain from boosting their prime rate this Friday."

Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, had no comment on the request. Last week, Reuss asked the bank to avoid using its standard formula to "mechanically" raise the prime because of the slump in money markets after the release of erroneous monetary statistics.

In "deferring action" on the prime last week, Citibank said it wanted to "assure that its formula doesn't reflect a temporary aberration in the money supply."

Henry Wallich, a member of the Federal Reserve's board of governors, said the Fed's actions "seem to have prevented any further aggravation of inflationary psychology and, at least for now, may have broken its gathering momentum."

But Wallich said "complementary energy, tax, regulatory and structural policies" also are needed to curb inflation.

The Council of Economic Advisers estimates the underlying inflation rate, which excludes such volatile sectors as food, housing and energy, at 8 to 9 percent a year.

Man Found Innocent After Six Years In Jail

LONDON (AP) — Anthony Stock went on a hunger strike and filed an appeal with the European Court of Human Rights in a vain attempt to reverse his conviction of armed robbery. He served six years of a 10-year sentence before being released in 1974.

On Monday, police said he was innocent.

They announced that Samuel Benefield was found guilty and sentenced to five years in jail for the crime blamed on Stock — the robbery of a supermarket in Leeds.

Officials said Benefield confessed to the robbery, which Stock had steadfastly denied in appeals through British courts and the European court in Strasbourg, France.

Stock told reporters he will seek a royal pardon and compensation for wrongful arrest and conviction.

Stock, a 41-year-old father of four, opened a carpet shop in Wem and Whitchurch, northwest England, after serving his time in Gartree Prison.

He told reporters Monday a picture of the robber had appeared in the newspapers "and a neighbor must have thought it looked like me and told the police. I was taken to the police station and interviewed by a detective sergeant who made up his own replies to questions — things I just did not say."

Police said Stock was identified by witnesses in a police lineup of suspects, but Stock insisted he was 68 miles away in Stockton-on-Tees at the time of the stickup.

"I am extremely pleased that someone else has admitted committing this crime," Stock said. "I shall be seeking compensation for the time I spent in prison, although nothing can compensate you for losing the best six years of your life." Stock's first wife divorced him while he was in prison and he remarried after he was freed.

Officials Say Rule Will Force Them To Spend $19 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has left undisturbed a ruling New Jersey officials say will force them to spend almost $19 million more each year for Medicaid benefits to hospital patients.

The justices refused Monday to review a New Jersey Supreme Court decision that the state must pay for hospital services to patients waiting to be relocated.

New Jersey's Department of Human Services was taken to court by the Monmouth Medical Center after the state agency refused to provide Medicaid payments for the final days of hospitalization for three patients later moved into nursing homes.

The state Supreme Court, however, ruled that such payments are required by the Medicaid section.

Record Sales Abroad To Offset Rises In Oil Costs; Deficit May Narrow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. trade deficit on a balance-of-payments basis narrowed to $6.96 billion during the third quarter with a record surge in sales abroad more than offsetting a 29 percent rise in oil costs, the government reported Monday.

The red ink during the July-September quarter was $754 million less than the second quarter deficit of $7.72 billion, the Commerce Department said.

Over the first three quarters of the year, the deficit totaled $20.79 billion compared with $34.19 billion for all of 1978.

Swings in the U.S. trade position often affect the value of the dollar in foreign exchange markets. A larger deficit usually hurts the dollar and a smaller deficit or a surplus is viewed as a positive development.

Oil imports during the last quarter increased $3.7 billion to $16.6 billion — a rise of 29 percent from the April-June period. The number of barrels per day actually fell by 1 percent to 8.62 million. But the average price rose 29 percent to $20.96 per barrel.

Rising oil prices have been given much of the blame by the administration for soaring inflation in the United States, which is currently running at higher rates than at any time since the end of World War II.

Total imports during the quarter hit $54.5 billion — an 8 percent rise over the second quarter. More than 90 percent of the increase was due to higher petroleum prices.

Exports, meanwhile, rose $4.8 billion — or 11 percent — to $47.6 billion, the department said.

Both agricultural and nonagricultural exports reached record levels to reflect the administration's determination to promote American-made products abroad.

Agricultural exports rose $1.9 billion to $9.6 billion, a rise of 24 percent over the second quarter. Shipments of grain and soybeans to the Soviet Union and Japan increased sharply.

Nonagricultural exports increased $2.9 billion, or 8 percent, to $38 billion. Large gains during the period included civilian aircraft, up $1.1 billion; machinery, up $700 million and chemicals, up $400 million.

The government has two basic methods to measure the basic U.S. trade posture.

The quarterly balance-of-payments method differs from the more familiar census basis, which is measured each month, because it excludes federal military trade and makes adjustments for other factors.

Two Polls Indicate Carter Rebound

WASHINGTON (AP) — On Wednesday when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy announces his presidential challenge, President Carter will be engaged in a struggle for Senate support of the arms limitation treaty.

On Thursday, when Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California declares his presidential ambitions, Carter will be conferring with the prime minister of Ireland.

"A fairly routine week for us here," says White House press secretary Jody Powell.

This is the week, one year from Election Day 1980, when Carter comes face-to-face with the reality he has known for months: he is facing a stiff challenge for the Democratic nomination. Kennedy and Brown are hitting the road on cross-country campaign swings.

Carter is responding with a schedule lacking any overt political work.

Today, for example, he signed legislation giving him authority to impose gasoline rationing in a crisis. In coming days, there is an arms treaty briefing, a breakfast meeting with the Democratic congressional leadership and a conference with economic advisers.

At the end of the week, there are three diplomatic events — the meeting with Ireland's Jack Lynch, a state dinner Thursday night for the prime minister, and then a trip to Canada for meetings with Canadian Prime Minister Joe Clark and a speech to the Parliament.

It all adds up to a fairly common campaign strategy for an incumbent: a portrait of the president hard at work on presidential matters while his would-be replacements are out chasing votes.

Carter's own candidacy will be announced Dec. 4. It will be followed by a cross-country fund-raising trip certain to gain him wide media coverage after this week's focus on the Kennedy and Brown announcements.

Meanwhile, Carter captured a 70.63 percent majority in a straw vote taken at a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Ames, Iowa, Saturday night. Kennedy's share of the vote was 26.01 percent, while Brown garnered a scant 0.82 percent, according to tabulations released today by the Iowa Daily Press Association.

Carter campaign officials had taken the lead in selling tickets to the dinner, prompting Kennedy's operatives to concede the non-binding vote in advance.

Time magazine reported in this week's issue that Carter, who trailed Kennedy in its poll by a 2-to-1 margin last summer, closed the gap to 10 percentage points — 49 percent to 39 percent — in a sampling taken Oct. 23-25.

The president now leads all potential Republican opponents, although not by as wide a margin as Kennedy does, said the poll, taken for Time by the firm of Yankelevich, Skelly & White.

Leaders Say Cutoff Will 'Boomerang'

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of black guerrillas battling the bi-racial government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia said Monday a decision to cut corn shipments to Zambia will "boomerang."

The Zimbabwe Rhodesia government in Salisbury announced earlier Monday it had halted shipments of vitally needed corn to neighboring Zambia because of its support for guerrillas of the Patriotic Front alliance.

Patriotic Front co-leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo are engaged in British-sponsored peace talks in London with Zimbabwe Rhodesia's black prime minister, Bishop Abel Muzorewa.

A spokesman for Nkomo said the move to block corn shipped through Zimbabwe Rhodesia to land-locked Zambia would strengthen Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda's support of the guerrillas. Most of Nkomo's forces operate from bases in Zambia.

"It won't affect us at all, we have our own supplies airfreighted in by our many friends," said Willie Musarurwa of Nkomo's delegation. "And President Kaunda, who was trying to be reasonable, will now take a hard line."

A spokesman for Muzorewa called the corn decision "incidental" to the peace talks.

He said Nkomo's guerrillas "are continually sabotaging our supply lines and other installations. You can't use peace talks as a smokescreen for actuality, and you can't go on feeding people who are tampering with key installations."

Corn is a staple food in Zambia and last month Kaunda signed an agreement with the white-minority government of South Africa to import 200,000 tons of corn to avert a famine. The corn has to be shipped by rail through Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Muzorewa's government told Zambia Oct. 23 it "would take action other than military" if guerrilla raids from Zambian bases did not cease.

In the peace talks, Muzorewa formally accepted Britain's peace plan that would require his resignation and rule by a British governor during formation of a new government.

But in a 45-minute meeting of all parties at the start of the ninth week of talks, the Patriotic Front leaders raised new objections.

They called for removal of white judges from Zimbabwe Rhodesia's judiciary and dismantling of the army's Selous Scouts and Grey Scouts. Mugabe called those commando units "vicious and ugly elements."

British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, conference chairman, promised a response Tuesday, but said again Britain's proposals were the only basis for agreement.

The British plan provides for a British governor to take over the present administration, including the judiciary, and calls on both the guerrillas and government troops to maintain a cease-fire.

Muzorewa's deputy, Silas Mundaawara, told the meeting his delegation accepted the 42-clause plan Britain put forward Friday after "much soul-searching" and in the hope of an early end to economic sanctions.

Despite the guerrillas' continued objections, hopes of agreement appeared higher than at any stage in the talks.

Informed sources said Britain hoped to overcome the impasse over the role of the guerrilla and government armies by persuading the guerrilla leaders that they will have equal status on a cease-fire council.
