

Lubbock Ranks Nationwide As Crime Fighter

CRIME LINE now has helped Lubbock law enforcement officers to clear more than 100 felonies in the eight months of its existence, says Mayor Dirk West, who this week accepted a check for more than $6,000 from the Lubbock Home Builders Association for the Crime Line Reward Fund.

The city's crime solution program, touted as one of the most successful in the nation, operates entirely on private donations. Persons wishing to contribute to the Crime Line Reward Fund, should mail their checks, which are tax-deductible, to Box 2000, Lubbock.

Persons with information concerning any felony crime are urged to call Crime Line. Any person with information that leads to the arrest and indictment of a felon may be eligible for a reward of at least $300. All callers remain completely anonymous.

This week, Crime Line is spotlighting two aggravated robberies and a burglary that Lubbock police are especially anxious to clear up, and has set reward on the location of two more fugitives.

Crime Line is offering $300 for any information on an aggravated robbery that occurred about 7:30 p.m. Nov. 22 at Guadalupe Park, in the 100 block of Ave. P. Lubbock police said two men told them they saw a car parked in a ditch next to the park, and they went to the car to offer assistance.

About this time, another car, described as a 1973 or 1974 Old-mobile two-door with a brown top and yellow bottom, pulled up, and two men, described as being Mexican males 5-foot-8 and 5-foot-3, both in their early 20s, helped them pull the car from the ditch. Once they got the car out of the ditch, the victims said the car drove off, and the two Mexican males pulled guns and robbed them of their billfolds. One of the robbers shot one of the victims in the right leg, they said.

The other aggravated robbery occurred at 12:11 a.m. Nov. 26 at Che Che's Lounge at 1819 E. Broadway, where the victim told police he was robbed by three Mexican males in the bathroom of the club.

The victim, who said he was cut above his nose, above his right eye and under his chin in the incident, said all three of his attackers were between 21 and 23 years of age, and described them as follows: one was tall and skinny, wearing a gray shirt; another was short and stocky and wearing blue jeans; and the third also was stocky. The victim said the men jumped and cut him in the restroom, robbed him of $70, and vanished into the club.

A $300 reward has been posted for the burglary of a house at 6609 Norwood that happened around Nov. 25. Police said someone pried open the rear east door of the house, ransacked it and took about $3,000 worth of property.

Taken were: a Magnavox 9" portable color TV set, engraved with Texas driver's license number 4506870; a JVC five-inch black and white TV, gray in color, and also engraved with TDL No. 4506870; a Panasonic AM/FM cassette player-recorder; a black multi-band radio; several watches and some jewelry; and $2000 in cash with bills marked "700" in red ink.

Crime Line also is offering $300 rewards for information leading to the discovery of the whereabouts of two fugitives wanted by local lawmen. The first is David Raymond Davila, a Mexican male, 17 years old, who has been charged with aggravated assault. He is described as 5-foot-8, weighing 130 pounds, with brown hair and brown eyes.

Also sought is Jessie Guzman, 32, who has been charged with theft over $200, and issuance of bad checks. He is described as a

Food Prices Rise Almost One Percent

By The Associated Press

RIISING PRICES dealt another blow to the grocery budget during November, with the cost of a random list of food and non-food items rising by almost 1 percent, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey.

The increases hit hardest at breakfast foods like eggs, milk and coffee. One of the few bright spots was a drop in the price of pork chops.

The AP drew up its marketbasket list of 15 items early in 1973 and checked the price on March 1 that year at one supermarket in each of 13 cities. The prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item on the original list — chocolate chip cookies — was dropped when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Trend Mostly Up

Last month's price trend was a familiar one. The marketbasket bill in the AP survey has increased in 8 of the first 11 months of 1979. The only decreases came in February, June and October.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket bill increased during November at the checklist store in eight cities, rising an average of 2.4 percent. The bill decreased last month at the checklist store in five cities, down an average of 1.8 percent. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill was eight-tenths of a percent higher at the start of December than it was a month earlier.

In contrast, during October, the marketbasket bill was eight-tenths of a percent lower than in September.

Libyans Attack U.S. Embassy

WASHINGTON (UPI) Thousands of Moslem demonstrators chanting anti-American slogans Sunday sacked and burned the U.S. Embassy in Libya, the State Department reported — the second such attack in the Moslem world in 10 days.

All the people inside the embassy, including 12 American officials and two dependent wives, were unharmed and all classified equipment was destroyed before the Americans left the building through a rear exit, spokesman Hodding Carter said.

He said the United States has lodged a protest in "the strongest terms" and is assessing its future relations with Libya. It was the second U.S. Embassy in the Moslem world to be overrun by a mob in 10 days. After the destruction of the embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan, last month, additional security was ordered for all embassies in the region and State Department families in 11 Islamic countries, including Libya, were advised to leave temporarily.

The first floor of the four-story embassy building in Tripoli was destroyed and the second was damaged by flames, after a mob bashed in the locked front door with a piece of timber, Carter said.

State Department officials gave this account of Sunday's episode: The demonstration began at Green Square, a large public gathering place in Tripoli. The crowd, chanting slogans against America and in support of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, grew to some 2,000 people, some of them wearing Libyan military uniforms. As they marched down the narrow streets toward the American embassy, U.S. diplomats called the foreign ministry for help.

The mob bashed at the locked front door of the embassy with a piece of timber as the 26 people inside the embassy destroyed the encoding equipment and gathered in the second floor stronghold vault.

When the mob entered the building, some built-in dispensers sprayed tear gas into the corridor. Apparently no shots were fired, but some of the demonstrators may have been injured by flames or smoke, the State Department said.

The attack, which began at 10:15 a.m. Libya time (2:15 a.m. CST), lasted about one hour. At 11:30 a.m., the people inside the building fled to what is described by the State Department as "safe refuge" elsewhere in Tripoli.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance learned of the attack about 50 minutes after it had begun, and he immediately called President Carter, the State Department said.

The State Department did not accuse any Americans.

Tragedy, Hope Flow From Yule Letters

THE LETTER was short—full of tragedy, laced with hope. "The children don't have a mother. She died four years ago. Please give them the best Christmas gifts you got because I wish I had the money to do so but I don't."

Another letter mentions only a mother with five little boys with ages "like 4, 5, 6, 7, 8" and a bleak outlook for Christmas.

On Christmas Day, children like these will get Christmas sacks with toys and candy delivered to their doors before dawn by Chief Goodfellow's helpers.

First, Chief Goodfellow has to know the names. He has placed a coupon on page 7, Sec. D, of today's Avalanche-Journal so that anyone knowing of children needing Goodfellow help may fill out the coupon and mail it to him:

Shah Makes Move To San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The deposed shah of Iran, focal point of the U.S. hostage crisis in Iran, was flown Sunday to one of the most secure military settings in the United States for an indefinite "period of recuperation" from cancer treatment.

White House spokesman Jody Powell said that on President Carter's orders, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi was released from the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center Sunday morning and flown aboard a DC-9 medical evacuation plane to the Wilford Hall Hospital at Lackland Air Force Base.

Powell said American doctors in New York had said "the shah should not undertake a prolonged trip and that he needs a period of recuperation under medical supervision."

The United States government has agreed, for humanitarian reasons, to provide a secure convalescence facility where he can recuperate pending further travel plans, he said.

The shah's arrival in New York from Mexico on Oct. 22 for cancer treatment and gallbladder surgery sparked the student-led seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and the taking of 50 American hostages who have been held captive for 29 days. Iran has demanded the return of the shah for trial.

Powell said it was not known how long the shah would be in San Antonio, but added the "shah has indicated he plans to leave the country when medical treatment is completed."

Mexico last week announced it would not allow the shah to return to his rented home.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Kuwait's ambassador, opening a second round of debate on the U.S.-Iranian crisis, told the Security Council Sunday it should establish a group to investigate Iran's charges against the deposed shah.

Ambassador Abdalla Yacoub Bishara, the first of 15 delegates to speak, said the council should instruct U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim "to set up a consultative body to investigate Iran's charges of violations of human rights as well as examine the legitimate grievances of the government of Iran."

Immediate Release Of Hostages Urged

He endorsed the council's earlier calls for the immediate release of the 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, but said the council should emphasize the need for a peaceful resolution of the dispute.

After hearing repeated calls for the release of the hostages as a step to defuse the crisis, the council adjourned and scheduled another meeting for 3 p.m. CST today.

Canadian Blasts Iran

Canadian Ambassador William Barton delivered a sharp attack on Iran, saying, "As the next-door neighbor of the United States, (Canada) shares completely the American sense of outrage at the abandonment by Iran of its solemn obligations under international law to maintain and protect the immunity of accredited diplomats and diplomatic premises."

A. Esmat Abdel Meguid, the Egyptian ambassador, suggested the council send a goodwill mission to Tehran to ensure the safety of the hostages and secure their immediate release. "The weight of world public opinion should be harnessed to convince the authorities in Tehran to free the hostages immediately," he said.

U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry said during a television interview earlier Sunday he expected "the council will act (on a resolution)...sometime tomorrow or the next day."

Hostages First Concern

He did not specify the language a resolution might contain but said the United States was seeking "no condemnation but something that would lead to the release of the hostages." McHenry spoke on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

During the first night of debate Saturday, all 15 delegates who spoke — 13 council members and two non-members — called for release of the hostages, but no resolutions were introduced.

Iran is not attending the council session. It announced Friday it would not send a representative and would ignore any council action.

In Tehran on Sunday, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said Iran would be sending a representative to the council.

Star Trek Adventure Begins On Comic Page

THERE'S MORE fun than ever on today's Avalanche-Journal comic page as Captain Kirk, Mr. Spock and the rest of the Starship Enterprise crew begin a new adventure in Star Trek.

That's right, Star Trek, one of the most popular TV shows ever, and a multi-million dollar Paramount Pictures feature film, is now a comic strip.

All your old friends will be joining Kirk and Spock on the Enterprise. You'll see wise Dr. McCoy, hot-tempered Scotty, skillful Lieutenant Uhura and the devoted Sulu and Chekov. Plus there is a brand new recruit: a bald but gorgeous female alien named Ilia who serves as navigator.

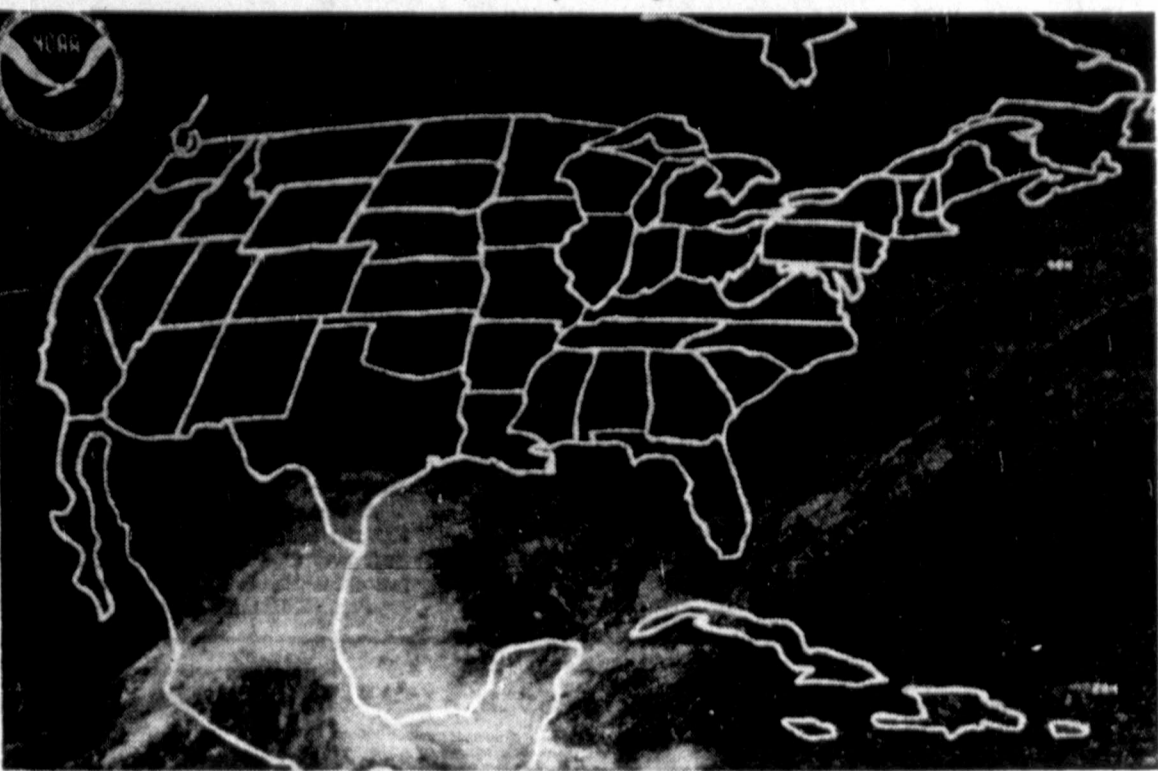

In their first adventure, the Enterprise crew investigates strange happenings on an uninhabited moon and they meet two aliens who have been asleep for 900 years.

First-time Star Trek readers are in for a treat. You'll see what Made Star Trek so popular that up to 20,000 persons have attended "Trekkie" conventions sponsored by the Star Trek fan clubs.

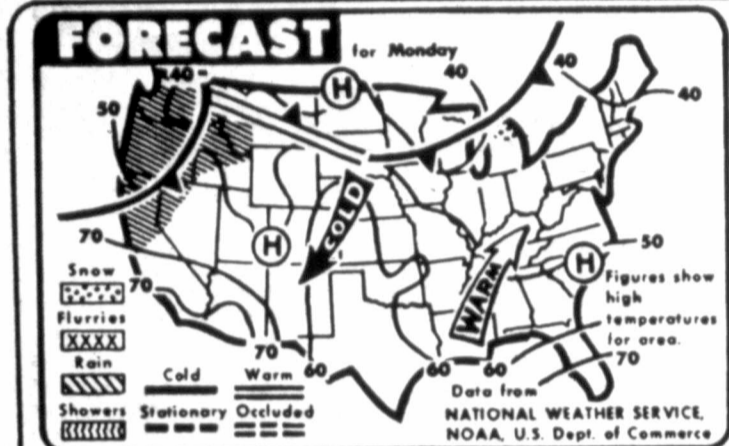

Don't miss one of these exciting strips written and illustrated by Thomas Warkentin, a veteran science fiction artist and author, and a confirmed "Trekkie" himself.

Watch Warkentin send the Starship Enterprise off to strange, new worlds each weekday in The A-J. Today's comic may be found on Page 9, Sec. D.

New Yorkers Snow Woes Easing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Many western New Yorkers began digging out driveways Sunday, but thousands of others braved near-record snowdrifts and newly plowed streets to attend a football game.

Hundreds of travelers who had been stranded by the near-record snowfall were able to get out by Sunday.

Main roads were reported open in Buffalo and surrounding counties for the first time since a storm dumped 22.5 inches of snow on the state's second largest city Friday night.

But traveler's advisories remained in effect across western New York and the snow belts off Lake Ontario and state police said many side roads were still clogged.

"Our streets are open today, but you really wouldn't want to drive on them," said a police officer in Dunkirk, a city of 30,000 on the Lake Erie shore 35 miles south of Buffalo that was buried in nearly 3 1/2 feet of snow.

Slick streets didn't deter fans from crowding suburban Rich stadium to see their National Football League Buffalo Bills take on Denver.

"The sun just came out a few minutes ago and that has encouraged them," said an Orchard Park police officer. "We don't have attendance figures yet, but it looks like there will be about 30,000 at the stadium."

The storm stranded about 250 students, teachers and travelers at six schools in the southern part of Buffalo. More than 100 workers spent Friday night and much of Saturday at businesses and plants in the southern part of the city, hit hardest by the storm.

At South Park High, four pupils, 15 faculty members and about 50 stranded motorists spent Friday night in the school and were able to make themselves "pretty comfortable," according to John Mogavero, assistant principal.

During the 24-hour period from Friday until early Saturday snowfall at Buffalo totaled 20.1 inches — the second heaviest one-day snowfall since record keeping began in 1893, "the National Weather Service said.

Warm Temperatures Predicted

Temperatures that reached to 54 in Lubbock on Sunday are expected to climb even higher today, with the expected afternoon high settling near 65.

The mercury should fall into the middle 30s tonight and then swell to almost 70 Tuesday, before the low pressure trough creating the warm weather conditions moves out of the area.

Wednesday's readings should continue to be warm, but cooler weather is in the forecast for West Texas toward the end of the week.

By Friday, National Weather Service forecasters predict that the mercury will return to readings with the lows in the 20s and highs in the 50s.

In Lubbock, temperatures rose from a morning low of 22 to a high of 54, as winds blew 5 to 15 mph from the south and southwest.

Blaze Lawsuit Reaches Court

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The first lawsuit stemming from the May 1977 Southgate, Ky., supper club fire that killed 165 persons reaches court Monday.

Attorneys for families of the victims of the Beverly Hills Supper Club blaze will try to prove joint liability among 26 manufacturers of aluminum and electrical devices and Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., a non-profit company that tests consumer products for safety.

Jury selection begins Monday in U.S. District Court and, barring an out-of-court settlement, the trial could last up to two months.

One question the jury will be asked to answer is whether Underwriters Laboratories took proper care in testing and approving "old technology" aluminum wiring and whether the UL mark of approval appeared on any of the wire that contributed to the fire.

Some defendants in the case already have settled lawsuits out of court by agreeing to pay more than $15 million to families of the victims.

Dr. W.J. Conover, professor of statistics, has been honored as "outstanding researcher of 1979-80" by the Texas Tech University College of Business Administration.

Conover has been area coordinator of Information Systems and Quantitative Sciences Department at Texas Tech since 1973. Dr. Robert E. Wilkes, associate dean of Business Administration, presented the award.

Conover has served as consultant to various statistical organizations and has been a member of editorial boards of statistical journals. His research includes a book-length report on "Practical Non-parametric Statistics." He is a Fellow of the American Statistical Association.

Conover received the bachelor's degree from Iowa State University in 1958 and master's and doctoral degrees from Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C., in 1962 and 1964, respectively.

Should it be impossible to determine which company's products were used in the supper club and contributed to the fire that led to the deaths and injuries, Rubin already has ruled that the entire aluminum industry could be held responsible.

Wind Powered Farms Predicted

A new kind of farm may appear on the Texas High Plains by the mid-1980s, farms that have giant egg beaters producing electrical power from the wind.

The wind turbine farms, as they are called, could produce up to 10 percent of the power that goes into a utility grid, according to a Texas Tech University mechanical engineer, Dr. James H. Strickland.

Strickland and his graduate students have been researching various aspects of producing electrical power from Darrieus turbines, shaped like egg beaters.

Funds for his research were provided by the University's Center for Energy Research and Sandia Laboratories of Albuquerque, N.M.

"Development of technology for wind energy will taper off during the next five years as most of the knowledge is now available and emphasis will shift to the commercial aspects of producing electrical power from turbine farms," Strickland said.

Basic questions about power output, aerodynamics, vibration and stress have been solved through the research efforts of university and government experts. Current research is focusing on aesthetics, spacing between turbines and other issues, Strickland explained.

Wind energy, he said, is not expected to produce more than 10 percent of the power that goes into a utility grid, "and to that extent it will not solve the energy crisis, but it will make a significant contribution."

The jury also will be asked to determine a number of other issues, including whether "old technology" aluminum wire caused or contributed to the blaze; whether defects in the wire caused the fire and whether the companies were aware of the defects in their wiring products and should have recalled or warned users of the possible defects.

LOVIS, N.M. (AP) — Asphyxiation caused by fumes from a malfunctioning furnace and an oven has been blamed for the deaths of two children and three adults. # Egyptian Official Says Shah Still Welcome

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The shah of Iran probably will remain in the United States for several more weeks but he is welcome to come to Egypt when he is well enough to travel, an Egyptian official said Sunday after learning the deposed monarch had been flown from New York to a hospital in Texas.

"Personally, because of his health, I don't expect the shah to come to Egypt for some time. It's not a matter of hours or days. His recuperation will still take time, maybe weeks," said Mansour Hassan, Egypt's acting information minister and a confidant of President Anwar Sadat.

Hassan spoke to reporters at Sadat's house 15 miles north of Cairo after a two-hour meeting.

He said they were informed during the meeting that Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi had left the New York hospital where he underwent cancer and gallbladder treatment for six weeks.

"He may go to Egypt or anywhere else when the doctors say he can stand a long trip," Hassan said.

White House officials said the shah had flown to Kelly Air Force Base in Texas and was transferred to Lackland Air Force Base outside San Antonio.

Hassan reaffirmed Egypt's willingness to give the shah asylum, an offer made repeatedly since the shah fled Iran to the Egyptian resort city of Aswan last January in the wake of a revolution organized by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"Our invitation still stands, and although we have received no verbal reply, I'm sure the shah psychologically would like to put it into effect. But it depends on his health," Hassan said.

Asked about U.S. concern for Egypt's security should the shah come here, Hassan said, "We appreciate their concern, but we have no worries about it."

He added "the majority of the Egyptian people supported inviting the shah here. The shah is sick and in crisis, so the situation is not a political one any more but a humane one. The principal of political asylum is a matter of basic human rights."

As for Iranian threats of reprisals, Hassan said he hoped as time passed the "Iranians would appreciate what is taking place."

Militant Iranians, enraged that the United States allowed the shah into the country, took over the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4. They still hold 50 American hostages there. They are demanding the shah be returned for trial.

Shah Greeted With Mixed Reactions In Texas

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The arrival of the deposed shah of Iran at a normally quiet military hospital Sunday angered some patients and worried others.

"The reaction was mixed. Some of the patients are pretty upset," said a woman patient wearing a robe as she sat in a heavily guarded lobby. "Some feel his being here is a threat from a security standpoint. We're concerned about bomb threats and all."

Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi slipped into the 1,000-bed Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital amid increased security for an indefinite convalescent stay. He was flown here from New York, where he had undergone surgery for gallstones and was treated for cancer.

Patients said the shah walked into the hospital without assistance.

"I'm a little apprehensive about it myself. The police are all over the place. I think it would be hard for someone to get in," added the woman in the lobby, who asked that her name not be used because her husband is in the Air Force.

"Many patients feel it is an infringement on their rights as patients for him to be here," said a female Air Force officer trainee who also requested anonymity.

Wilford Hall spokesman Bruce Eberhart said there usually is little security at the medical center on Lackland Air Force Base, a training center with no strategic arms storage or landing strip.

But after the shah's arrival, extra guards were manning the outer gates, checking identifications and recording car license numbers. At the main hospital entrance, officers with dogs searched visitors' purses and parcels. Other guards dotted the lobby and halls.

However, visitors were still allowed in without verification of their identity by patients. Reporters were instructed not to try to enter the hospital area, but three did.

The officer trainee said it was general knowledge among patients that a fourth-floor ward was cleared for the shah's exclusive use.

Patients were told about an hour before the shah's arrival that he was coming, added the woman in the lobby. She said she and other eighth-floor patients ran to the windows when the shah's heavily guarded convoy arrived about 8:40 a.m. from adjacent Kelly Air Force Base.

"Everybody just ran to the windows and watched him arrive. He walked in wearing a dark suit. I couldn't see his face because he was looking down. His wife was wearing a coat and was in the first ambulance. He came out of the second," the woman added.

The patients said the hospital's worship service for patients was canceled because of the excitement.

"It's all a little scary," said visitor Carolyn Benton. "You never know what will happen. I want the shah to get well. I just want him to do it somewhere else. The extra security makes me feel better."

But I'm still concerned.

Wilford Hall was established in 1942 for aviation cadets.

'Psst--This One Over Here'

The Edge Of Chaos

HISTORY IS replete with instances where single events, woven into the tapestry of world affairs, changed the course of nations.

Such may well be the case involving the U.S. and Iran. Already, major changes have taken place in the attitude of the American people toward their role in world affairs.

And before the dust, and oil, settle over the medieval-modern tragedy unfolding in the Mideast, the world may well stand on the brink of another atomic confrontation. It doesn't have to, of course. But, it could.

Having said that, it might be well to examine how we arrived at this point, what others think of the U.S. as a world power and what we can do about the challenge to the U.S. in Iran.

IN THE FIRST place, almost without warning, we slipped into a world in which the old rules of law and order, and diplomacy, no longer hold.

Almost without notice, and under the guise of "protest" groups, and more violence-prone terrorists, the world has moved from conventional warfare and the fear of an Atomic Armageddon to threats, kidnappings, bombs and bloodshed, often involving the innocent.

Only Israel, and later West Germany, reacted to what hard-nosed realists recognized as a threat every bit as deadly as a marching army.

Idealistic and starry-eyed dreamers, nurtured by the schizophrenia of the Sixties, and who in some cases may have wound up in policy-making positions, have aided and abetted the charade that those who took to the streets in "peaceful protest" and wound up in bloody confrontations, were the victims, not the aggressors.

The result, at home and abroad, was a sort of anarchy.

ON THE broader international level, Yasser Arafat's PLO, the Red Brigades and others, made headlines with hijackings, bombings and bombast.

Whatever "causes" they espoused, including a home for the Palestinians, were tarnished by their acts. Yet, they were accepted as part and parcel of a world grown calloused to such things.

Only "the game" mattered to millions. If it didn't involve one's favorite team, the pocketbook or another round with gusto, then for heaven's sake man, don't bother me with it.

Now, the circle has come full turn. Those who asked a year ago "Why get excited about Iran, it's 8,000 miles away, now have their answer."

Some of their own, American men and women, blacks and whites, have been imprisoned against all international rules of conduct. And the world's greatest power has been almost powerless to act. It could be the guy next door, or any one of us. And the next time around may well be.

IN A WAY, what has happened may be fortunate for this nation and the Free World.

For the first time since World War II, the American people are united in a cause. After years of indecision and guilt over Vietnam, millions have been jarred awake to the fact that there are those in the world who not only do not subscribe to our way of life, but blame us for theirs.

Never mind that in the 35 years since the end of World War II this nation and its citizens have given away literally billions to help others, in the eyes of many we are partners in crime against the have-nots, the dark-skinned, the non-Christian.

All too often, while helping rebuild the lands of former foes, or helping pay the way for emerging nations of the Third World to join the Twentieth Century, we came off as grasping, greedy opportunists who play footsy with corrupt leaders.

NEVER MIND that the alternative often was even more despotic dictators or alliances with a Godless Communism. Uncle Sam became a symbol, not of good, but evil.

Much of this, we feel, can be traced to the fact that all too often we submerged our good deeds, the food and fiber, the Peace Corps and foreign aid, the medical help and industrial and scientific know-how, to such groups as the United Nations and ultra-liberal, even leftist organizations which gave the U.S. little credit.

Even in Iran, where mistakes obviously were made, the fact that U.S. know-how and money helped make roads of goat paths, hospitals of village clinics and brought jobs and an education to literally thousands, has been warped and turned into a crime.

If we made use of Iran's oil, and Iran in turn made use of its new-found wealth, including aid to those 100,000 students who studied abroad, then the alliance was a common one, not a one-way street.

SO, ONE MAY ask, where do we go from here?

First, of course, we must if possible obtain the safe release of the hostages. If they are tried or harmed in any way, then the U.S. should impose a swift and total blockade around Iran.

Secondly, those responsible, the Ayatollah Khomeini, leaders of the Revolutionary Council and any Iranian citizens directly involved, must be punished, either by some sort of world sanctions or military action on the part of this nation.

All Iranians are not guilty of what is happening in front of those television cameras. Many of the mob scenes are well orchestrated. Somehow, through leaflets dropped in the cities and villages and through broadcasts, the man in the street in Iran must understand that it is not the average Iranian whom we blame, but fanatical leaders who listen to no reason but revenge.

And finally, we as a nation which has elevated the common man—and woman—to a status and dignity unknown in the annals of mankind, must again be able to defend that way of life and restore order in a world which has slipped almost out of control. The alternative is chaos.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

IT'S A SMART hunter who hangs his clothes at night in the campfire's smoke. That smoke aroma does two things: repels insects and masks the hunter's odor so the deer can't pick up his scent. Or so says a woodsman of lengthy experience.

A blind man can recognize an appaloosa horse just by running his hand over it. The texture of the black spots is not the same as the texture of the white.

Q. Do mosquitoes have voices?

A. That they do. And curiously, it's the male who's the soprano and the female the baritone, as it were. Doesn't matter. They're so faint the human ear can't hear them. Did I tell you a mosquito never sings alone? It won't utter a note without an audience.

AN EDITORIAL:

Second Look Down The Road

IF AND WHEN the Iranian crisis is settled and things return to some degree of normalcy in the U.S., as well as abroad, no doubt the whole issue will be subject for intense "second thoughts."

That the events leading up to the takeover of the U.S. Embassy and American hostages, President Carter's handling of the crisis and what to do about such things in the future will be injected into the political campaign is a foregone conclusion.

How it is done and what is said is important because of the fact that not only will the postmortems be important to those in the U.S. but to our friends and foes abroad.

IT IS A credit to most of the presidential contenders, and others, that not too much over-the-shoulder second guessing has been injected into the main picture thus far.

Probably the most potentially serious "interference" in a unified effort to effect release of the hostages was that of U.S. Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho. His no doubt sincere, but unofficial journey to Tehran added more a note of confusion to the scene rather than materially helping bring about any real solution or even dialogue with the Iranian fanatics.

As we have noted, President Carter is to be commended on his handling of an admittedly "impossible" situation to this point.

He will be judged finally of course on his future as well as past actions.

When the smoke finally clears, barring some major military action of course, it will be the events and policies leading up to the Tehran tragedy, as well as other threats and insults to U.S. property and people abroad, that will come under scrutiny. And this is a valid subject for examination.

HOWEVER, IN taking a look at how we arrived at this point, we hope that candidates and critics in general will at least offer suggestions as to what policies they would have pursued or would pursue were the decision theirs.

Merely carping at the President or State Department on one hand while mouthing pious platitudes about human rights and getting in bed with Third Worlders on the other is not the type of objective "second look" we have in mind.

The nation and the American people, who seem to have put Vietnam behind them, hopefully, must determine what sort of foreign policy they wish to pursue, what they are willing to risk and fight for to maintain the nation's dignity and honor. That, more so than personalities, is the subject which deserves deep study and debate.

AN EDITORIAL:

Ham Jordan Not Above Law

BECAUSE HE wields such vast power as the President's chief of staff, it is necessary to prove or disprove whether there has been a cover-up in Hamilton Jordan's alleged use of cocaine.

Atty. Gen. Benjamin R. Civiletti, urging appointment of a special prosecutor to investigate allegations against the second most powerful man in the White House, said he personally has concluded that "prosecution is not warranted."

However, being careful to leave the presumption of innocence intact, Civiletti added, "I am unable to find that this matter is so unsubstantiated that no further investigation is warranted."

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR Arthur H. Christy, a New York attorney who prosecuted mobster Frank Costello, thus steps into a case which the Justice Department, with all of its resources, couldn't lay to rest after months of inquiry.

Perhaps significantly, the attorney general noted that a special prosecutor could grant potential witnesses immunity from prosecution in exchange for testimony against Jordan, whereas the FBI could not.

The President's chief adviser has denied the allegations, of course, that he snorted cocaine in a New York discotheque.

Civiletti said the FBI had turned up three other allegations of cocaine use by Jordan but that all were so unsubstantiated as to require no further inquiry.

The three-judge federal panel which appointed the special prosecutor nonetheless specified that he will be free to look into "any other related or relevant allegation of a violation" against Jordan.

ANOTHER WHITE HOUSE insider in the Carter administration left office after it was disclosed he had given still another staffer a prescription for drugs to be bought under an assumed name.

Jordan, in addition to the 1978 allegations in New York, also was accused of using cocaine at a California fund-raising dinner in 1977.

The President himself has said Americans suffer from a "crisis of confidence." That confidence in White House decisions cannot be restored until an impartial inquiry by the special prosecutor has put to rest allegations of drug use by high-level decision makers such as Jordan.

JOSEPH SOBRAN:

ACLU Rallies Around Ku Klux Klan Recruit

WASHINGTON—Aaron Morrison is a very bright New Jersey lad who happens to be an activist in the Ku Klux Klan. Though he has completed his courses with straight A's, Holy Spirit High School is withholding his diploma.

He is suing, with the aid of the American Civil Liberties Union.

It all started three years ago, when Aaron witnessed a debate between the Rev. Jesse Jackson and David Duke, the Klan's Imperial Wizard. Not exactly a dialectical match-up to remind one of Socrates vs. Thrasymachus, but it was enough for Aaron. He gave the verdict to the Wizard and joined the Klan.

Last August, to the mortification of his liberal parents, Aaron held a Klan rally on the front lawn of his home. Shortly afterward his school's principal, the Rev. Thomas Ploude, notified him that he wouldn't be receiving his diploma.

DR. AND Mrs. Morrison loyally support their son: "Aaron has the right to his own principles and convictions. We've always encouraged him to think for himself." Of course, they add, they would have "preferred" his joining the Republicans or Democrats.

But what do they mean? The Morrises have allowed their son to join the Ku Klux Klan. That looks rather like a dereliction on their part. They have allowed a Klan rally to occur on their private property, thereby setting a mark for tolerance rivaled only by Leonard Bernstein.

G.K. Chesterton noted that an open mind, like an open mouth, should be open for the purpose of closing on something. Yes, we all want our children to do their own thinking.

But we also want them to be able to get the right answers. When they err grievously, we do them no favor by indulging them. How seriously can parents be taking their own "principles and convictions" when they can only say they would have "preferred" Democrats to Klansmen?

AARON HAS evidently been taught to "think for himself" by people who have never learned to think for themselves. If they had, they wouldn't use that slovenly phrase, which has come to mean not so much thinking independently as thinking irresponsibly.

Joining the Klan isn't an exercise in pure cognition; it is participation in an enterprise whose achievements range from consistent bad taste to occasional murder.

Aaron has brought disgrace on himself and his family; his school is trying to point this out and disassociate itself from the scandal.

That is where the ACLU comes in. ACLU lawyer Jerry Kay explains: "We're not defending the content of the Klan's philosophy, we're defending freedom of speech. The Constitution's a good thing. Let's keep it intact."

YES, LET'S. The First Amendment reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech..."

Aaron's freedom of speech is not at issue. Neither Congress nor any state agency threatens it, and only they can violate it. The point of the First Amendment is precisely, by removing state sanctions against speech, to allow private persons and agencies to impose their own sanctions.

Owners of baseball teams routinely fire Billy Martin for the things he says, and nobody thinks the Constitution has been put to the torch.

A private, religious organization has at least the same rights as the New York Yankees.

WHAT THE ACLU is doing, in the name of keeping the Constitution intact, is to demand that the state tell a religious body how to conduct its business even when it attempts to take a moral position.

The ACLU's "civil liberties" are really state-imposed standards, and its victories have generally increased centralized state power.

Gnawing away at the independence of private institutions is no way to expand personal freedom.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

How We Lost Iran

EVANS

WASHINGTON—Shortly after the second seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, Nov. 4, Gen. Alexander Haig in private talks with politicians and businessmen accused the Carter administration of assigning his NATO deputy to hasten Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlavi's fall as Iran's ruler a year ago.

That was given by Haig as a major reason for his resignation in July as NATO supreme commander and his retirement from the Army. Never before has undermining the shah been listed as a purpose of the shadowy mission to Tehran early last January by Air Force Maj. Gen. Robert E. Huyser, Haig's deputy.

DONALD F. GRAFF

Cash In A Flash

WASHINGTON—A Miami bank has a money problem, but not of the usual variety. It is the local branch of the Federal Reserve and it has too much of the stuff.

So much, according to a Wall Street Journal report, that it doesn't find it necessary to issue new currency, one of the functions of the Reserve system, but is in the position of a supplier, shipping much of its surplus to other Reserve districts.

The principal source of Miami's abundance is the central bank of Colombia, and thereby hangs a tale of particular interest to another agency of the government.

The flow suggests not so much that the South American country suddenly has become unusually prosperous and has a high regard for the U.S. financial system as a secure repository for its holdings, but that Colombia has become the chief supplier of marijuana and cocaine to the American market.

A STUDY by the Justice Department's Drug Enforcement Administration, the Journal reports, concludes that Colombia has replaced Mexico in this role.

Additional funds are finding their way into Florida commercial banks, all as a part of what the drug study describes as a sophisticated international banking system evolved to facilitate the drug traffic.

To the Reserve it's all U.S. currency and, as an official observes, "we'll accept it." Well, business is business. But a businesslike attitude like that could well get a private citizen a stiff sentence as an accessory.

IN A RELATED development, the Treasury is reported considering discontinuing the printing of $100 bills.

Not that that would be of any significance to the overwhelming majority of us—who may have some use for them, but scant opportunity of seeing any. But it might throw a minor block to the drug traffic.

The $100 bill—the highest denomination since $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000 notes were discontinued 10 years ago—is believed to be a preferred means for narcotics traffickers in bringing large sums into the country.

Less bulky than similar amounts in smaller denominations would be, they are easier to slip past Customs.

To make it even tougher, there is even some consideration of doing away with the $50 bill.

A Treasury spokesman suggests there should be no inconvenience to the general public because people no longer keep high-denomination currency around—"we've become a plastic credit-card society."

That's not the only reason.

AND FINALLY, Uganda is facing up to a money problem. It's again a case of too much and of the wrong kind.

The African country which is still in the throes of recovering from a decade of despotism and a destructive war of liberation, has launched "Operation Currency" to exchange the old notes for new ones freshly printed in London.

It's a big job entailing calling in some seven billion 5, 10, 20 and 100 shilling bills. But understandable, because each bears the likeness of the ousted Idi Amin.

And there can be no arguing that one of him was much more than enough.

Haig, who is eyeing a long-shot bid for the Republican presidential nomination, has not gone public with his sensational charge.

When asked by Washington newsmen over breakfast Nov. 21 why he had left NATO and the Army, Haig never mentioned the Huyser mission. Nevertheless, his private chats have fired the opening round of a battle with profound political implications: "Who lost Iran?"

Whether Haig's interpretation of President Carter's motives is accepted, he is supplying previously unknown information about upper-level Washington intrigue as the shah toppled. Here began the administration's policy of making common cause with revolutionary impulses at the expense of old allies.

The policy took effect with a transatlantic telephone call early last January from Gen. David Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to Haig at NATO headquarters in Mons, Belgium.

HAIG LEARNED for the first time that the Carter administration planned to dispatch Huyser, who had exceptional contacts with the Iranian military and the royal palace, to Tehran.

Huyser's mission, as explained by Jones to Haig, was "to keep the Iranian military united and effective." That meant urging the Iranian generals not to attempt a coup against the shaky new civilian regime of Shahpur Bakhtiar—the description of the mission given the press.

Haig regarded this as a smokescreen. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, in ascendance over national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, wanted the shah quickly removed from power.

To Haig, the Huyser mission promoted this plan. He informed Jones on the telephone that night that he did not want himself, his deputy or the U.S. military involved in what he viewed as a specious undertaking.

THE NEXT morning, word came to Mons from Washington that Haig would have to live with it, like it or not. Deputy Secretary of Defense Charles Duncan, acting secretary during Harold Brown's temporary absence, overruled Haig. Direct orders were transmitted from Duncan to Haig's deputy. Haig was odd man out.

Those secret orders are described as "ambiguous" by those who have seen them. The widely respected Huyser is reported by colleagues as being unhappy with his task.

But as a good soldier, he did not complain then or now (he is currently on active duty at Scott Air Force Base, Ill.).

Haig's theory that Huyser was an instrument of U.S. pressure to drop the shah is strengthened by this fact: His mission coincided with leaked reports out of Washington that U.S. policy-makers finally had concluded the shah must go.

U.S. POLICY at this time was that Bakhtiar could gain influence over the military and win over the Moslem radicals only if the shah disappeared.

Whether because of Huyser carrying out his orders, there was no military coup. That did not save Bakhtiar's short-lived regime from being supplanted by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Nor did the Carter policy achieve its stated purpose of keeping Iran's officer corps intact. While many officers were executed by Islamic revolutionaries, the chief of staff contacted by Huyser—Gen. Abbas Gherbaghi—is believed to have cooperated with the mullahs running the revolution.

Nobody knows whether a military coup would have brought Iran stability.

THERE ARE senior U.S. Army officers who believe that, had it not been for the mission imposed on Huyser, the Iran military would have seized power, exiled the shah (perhaps letting him return as a ceremonial monarch) and established a moderate, pro-Western regime.

[That theory may well understate the volcanic fury of Khomeini's followers.]

The point of Haig's revelations is that the administration's plea could do nothing to save the shah is not the whole truth.

As with Anastasio Somoza in Nicaragua, the U.S. contributed to the demise of a repressive authoritarian who had been a longtime ally of this country in hopes of winning favor with his successors.

It is that policy, rather than the President's day-to-day conduct of the current crisis, that is most vulnerable to future investigation.

Group Says Educational Material Dual-Purposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Financially strapped schools and overburdened teachers readily accept material from business that is supposed to be educational, but actually doubles as advertising, a Ralph Nader group said Sunday.

Sheila Harty of Nader's Center for Study of Responsive Law said studies show schools spend only 1 percent of their budgets on instructional materials and cannot afford to keep pace with ever-changing curriculum.

"Consequently, teachers rely on supplemental print and audio-visual materials for current information," she said in the report. "On cue, industry has recognized the prospects for self-advancement."

She said the free material is given for classroom use only in response to teachers' requests.

"Teachers, without match, have an overwhelming job for which they are inadequately appreciated, compensated or assisted," she said. "To be courted by corporations with free handouts is blatantly and successfully seductive."

The report quoted from House Agriculture subcommittee hearings that a survey of 38 food companies revealed most "use the Basic Four (Food Groups System) not as a nutritional concept, but as a way of justifying the purchase of their products... Under the guise of nutrition education, they are promoting their products to captive audiences of children."

COOL CONCLUSION — After dropping a ski tow rope, Cornelia Wallace, former wife of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, glides to the cool conclusion of her performance in the Cypress Gardens water ski show Saturday afternoon. She performed water ballet, something she did when she worked for the tourist attraction in 1961 for one year. She now lives in Palm Beach, Fla., and goes to Winter Haven frequently to visit two sons by a previous marriage. (AP Laserphoto)

Ohio School Officials To Isolate Students

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Giving up on the paddle and other traditional means of punishment, school officials in nearby Groveport plan to begin isolating habitual troublemakers in restrictive classrooms.

Problem students in the Groveport-Madison School District will be separated from classmates and required not only to complete class work, but also to write a plan on how to change behavior.

"It's an attempt to provide a more workable disciplinary policy for students," Superintendent L. Neil Johnson said Sunday. "Suspending students doesn't seem to be effective."

Johnson said students often consider it a reward to be suspended and sent home. In addition, he said, not only do suspended students run the risk of losing class credit, the experience could make them lose interest in education.

"The new policy will affect grades 6 through 12 — about 3,500 students" and will begin in January, he said. A total of 6,400 students are enrolled in the school district, on the outskirts of Columbus.

Students assigned to the special classroom will work at separate cubicle-style desks. They'll be deprived of several privileges such as eating lunch with classmates and won't be permitted to participate in extracurricular activities.

The minimum "sentence" will be three days, but school officials expect the average stay to be about five days.

In approving the program last week, the board of education also adopted more restrictive and detailed guidelines on corporal punishment. The board agreed that paddling should be used only as a last resort before suspension or expulsion.

The principal apparently will have the final word on just what type of offenders could be assigned to the special classroom. Students who are not necessarily classified as habitual offenders could be included.

Students in this category were listed as "a student caught smoking in the restroom, or fighting, or somebody who has been truant for several days. It depends on the severity (of the offense). One offense would qualify," said Johnson.

"We're sparing the rod, but adding more discipline," he said.

The program does run a risk of alienating some punished students, Johnson said, but he believes it's better than just forgetting about them until their suspensions are over.

He and other school officials hope the program will also reverse the district's rising drop-out rate. During the past four years, the rate has been 10 percent to 15 percent higher than the national average.

A search is under way for a teacher to monitor the special classroom. Asked what qualifications were necessary, Johnson said he was looking for a "superman" who would be able to use both strength and empathy in dealing with the students assigned to the classroom.

Woman Raped After Testimony

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Two high school students are charged with sexually assaulting a 30-year-old mother of four and holding her hostage in the third attack on her in two weeks.

Police said Sunday they arrested the suspects Friday night, taking a handgun from one youth and finding the other suspect asleep on a bed inside the victim's apartment.

They said the two East High School students were being held in City Jail with Robert Porter, 19, of Cleveland, who was arrested earlier Friday for raping and assaulting the same woman on Monday.

Police said they believed that attack was to retaliate for the woman's testimony earlier that day against a man who raped her two weeks ago.

Detective Gregory Kunz, who investigated the previous two rapes, was talking to the woman when Friday night's attack occurred.

Appeals Court Decides Judge Improperly Pressured Jurors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jurors were slow to decide whether the defendant had robbed a grocery store, until the judge said they'd have to buy their own lunch. Then they promptly found him guilty.

But when an appeals court got the case, it quickly reversed the conviction, saying the judge had "improperly pressured the jury to reach a verdict" by deciding the court would not pay for lunch.

Jurors in the 1978 case had spent 3 1/2 days debating whether Juan M. Guerrero had robbed a Los Angeles grocery store of about $40.

Then Superior Court Judge Julius A. Leatham told them: "Ladies and gentlemen, I realize you haven't reached a verdict yet and under normal circumstances I would have the bailiff take you out to lunch."

"All of you may have heard of a certain election here recently where Proposition 13 was passed by the voters, and by reason of that, a certain amount of care is required with respect to fiscal expenditures. For that reason... I am going to at this time to permit you to separate and have lunch and return here at 1:30 p.m."

After the judge's announcement, the jurors found Guerrero guilty. California's 2nd Court of Appeals decision, issued Thursday, stated:

"No valid judgment can be made to support a conviction if pressure of any character is exerted to overbear the volition of the jury..."

"The judicial comments in this case clearly tended to focus the jurors attention on matters extraneous to the evidence to the evidence regarding (Guerrero's) guilt — that is, on the desirability of reaching a verdict and the cost of prolonged deliberation."

Pornographic Film Showing Halted

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A dozen women, chanting and carrying placards, forced their way into a theater at the University of California and halted the showing of a pornographic film.

The protest occurred late Saturday during a presentation of the film "Misty Beethoven" at the law school's Booth Auditorium.

Campus police and two fire engines also went to the theater after a fire alarm was apparently triggered by one of the demonstrators.

The firefighters pushed their way through a large crowd as they responded to the false alarm, officials said.

The disrupted showing drew about 400 persons, mostly young men and older couples, who paid $1 each to view the film.

David Lewiant, chairman of the law school's Film Society, said the protesters were "making a misguided attempt at censorship."

Law student Ann Sherman, one of the organizers of the women's protest, said, "We don't advocate censorship. What we want is for people to make an informed choice and think about what they're spending money to support."

Ecologists Expected To Protest Hunting

CHATHAM TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Anti-hunting groups are expected to protest the sixth annual deer hunt that begins Monday at the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge.

The groups have banded together to oppose the hunt, which officials of the U.S. Department of the Interior's Division of Fish and Wildlife say is needed to "thin out" the herd to prevent mass starvation.

"The job of a wildlife refuge is to welcome wildlife, not hunters," said Evie Kramer, a spokeswoman for Deer, Ecology, Environment and Resources, one of the protesting groups.

Hunters will be allowed to kill 250 of the refuge's 600 deer in this year's 10-day hunt — the largest since the refuge was opened to hunters in 1974. The limit last year was 125 deer during six days.

U.S. District Judge H. Lee Sarokin ruled Friday that restrictions on the protest would infringe on the constitutional rights of the conservation group members.

The conservation groups originally were denied permission to protest by officials who argued that they had insufficient manpower to handle more than a single day of demonstrating.

Officials say previous hunts to reduce the size of the herd have been unsuccessful. The anti-hunting groups claim the "harvesting" of deer is designed to increase enjoyment for hunters.

State Employees Warned Of Exposure To Chemical

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The state Health Department is notifying 57 of its current and former employees that they have been exposed to a cancer-causing chemical and should see a physician, a department spokesman said Saturday.

Spokesman Mitchell Leon said 47 former and 10 current employees were exposed to the chemical, which he declined to identify. Leon also declined to say when or where the exposure took place.

Leon said the department was notifying the employees by registered mail. He said he would release full details Monday.

"I think it's better they find out this way than by reading about it in their newspapers on Saturday or Sunday," he said.

Teachers May Face Court Order

CLEVELAND (AP) — The strike-bound Cleveland school system will ask a judge on Monday to order teachers to end their 46-day-old walkout, school board president John E. Gallagher Jr. says.

"The board has made its final offer. We have instructed our attorneys to go to court... to seek a back-to-work order," Gallagher said after negotiations broke off over the weekend.

"Our strike is on. We aren't bending to their situation," said Eugene Kolach, president of the 5,000-member Cleveland Teachers Union. "That (court action) is not going to get us back to school."

The strike, over a wage dispute, began Oct. 18, disrupting classes and a court-ordered desegregation program in the 92,000-student public school system, which has a two-thirds black enrollment.

After a negotiating session Saturday, the board said it could not improve on its offer to the teachers.

The district, trying to recover from a $36 million deficit, is nearly under state receivership and still owes $13.3 million of an emergency $20.7 million state loan from 1978.

In the final bargaining session, the board offered to make its proposed 7 percent pay hike retroactive to Sept. 1 and maintained its offer of an 8 percent increase in the second year.

Teachers, who had asked for a 14 percent raise retroactive to Sept. 1, said they would accept an 8 percent raise with another 5 percent in mid-year. They also asked for an 8 percent raise in September 1980 followed by another 6 percent in mid-year.

A starting Cleveland teacher is paid $9,828 a year, among the lowest teacher salaries in Ohio. The average Cleveland teacher receives an annual salary of $18,466.

Voters have repeatedly rejected property tax increases for the school system.

Gallagher said any change in the school board's offer would come at the expense of other programs.

"Even with our latest offer, it would necessitate the closing of 20 schools in September," he said. The district operates 146 schools.

McAdoo Man Robbed By Men After Being Struck On Head

Two men struck a McAdoo man and robbed him of $162 at a motel in the 1000-block of North Avenue Q about 3 a.m. Sunday.

Carlton Kenneth Nicholson told police that he had gone riding with the two suspects and that when they went back to the motel, the duo struck him on the head, took his wallet and kicked him from the pickup truck.

Nicholson said the suspects were white, 18 to 25 and had blonde hair.

A 22-year-old Lubbock woman was treated and later released from Methodist Hospital early Sunday for a stab wound to the arm she suffered in a fight about 1:30 a.m. Sunday in the 1700-block of Parkway Drive.

Joanette Hines of 1924 E. Colgate St. said that she was leaving a nearby club when a young black couple approached and began arguing with her. The victim reported that one of the suspects hit her and that the other suspect stabbed her in the arm and hit her on the head with a bottle.

She said the suspects were 18 to 25-years-old.

Donald Pemberton, night manager for the Town & Country Food Store, 3910

Ave. A, reported that a young Mexican-American male entered the store about 1:25 a.m. Sunday and hit him on the head with a brick.

Pemberton said the man, who was about 18 to 25, had been going in and out of the store before he came in and threw the brick at him. The suspect left in a car going south on Avenue A.

Police arrested a 32-year-old Lubbock man for public intoxication after they saw him threaten a young woman at knife-point outside a club at 25th Street and Avenue K Saturday night.

Police said the suspect, who had a knife in his hand, was holding the woman against a wall at the south side of the building. Police disarmed the man, and he was taken to county jail.

Randy Pumphrey of 3727 94th Place reported that burglars entered his home sometime between Tuesday afternoon and Sunday morning and took $2,042 worth of his property, including a silver tea service, TV set and camera equipment.

Inquest Jury To Hear Evidence On Shallowater Woman's Death

SHALLOWATER (Special) — An inquest jury today will hear evidence and rule on what killed a 26-year-old Shallowater woman whose decomposed body was found Nov. 15.

Doris Christy appeared to have been dead about two months when her body was discovered by a jogger. The woman's body was under a piece of farm machinery in a clump of weeds about two-tenths of a mile east of Shallowater on FM 1294.

Jury selection for the six-man panel is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. today at the Lubbock County courthouse. The inquest is slated to begin about 10 a.m. today at the Community Building in Shallowater.

Relatives told Lubbock County sheriff's deputies that Mrs. Christy had been missing since Sept. 1 and that a missing persons report had been filed Sept. 8 with the Lubbock police department.

Deputies found a .22-caliber pistol under Mrs. Christy's head, but said initial investigations by Lubbock authorities and Texas Rangers did not indicate foul play was involved in the death.

However, Shallowater Justice of the Peace Dardie Williamson said she requested today's inquest to obtain as much information as possible concerning Mrs. Christy's death.

Past Decade Of Television Coverage Of Atomic Power Criticized By Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television news coverage of commercial atomic power during the past 10 years has been insufficient and marked by an anti-nuclear bias, a business group charged Sunday.

The Washington-based Media Institute concluded in a new report that network coverage of nuclear energy from 1968 to 1979 "was meager in the light of the national importance of the subject matter."

Leonard Theberge, executive director of the foundation supported by the business community, said TV coverage of nuclear energy prior to the Three Mile Island accident last March amounted to a negligible one-quarter of 1 percent.

"What little coverage did get on the air failed to give viewers sufficient perspective on the risks, benefits or central issues surrounding nuclear energy," Theberge said.

The institute, which lists a Mobil Oil Corp. executive as a trustee and Westinghouse as one of 52 corporate sponsors, said its report took no position on the issue of nuclear power. But it did describe nuclear power as a vital energy source.

The study reached two major conclusions: "A viewer relying on network evening news broadcasts as a primary source of information could not have gained sufficient knowledge to make a rational assessment of the risks and benefits of nuclear power."

Pre-Dawn Blaze Kills Three Children

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A Pre-dawn blaze Sunday killed three children and left the three surviving members of the family homeless.

Killed by smoke inhalation were Donna Smith, 16, her brother Michael, 15, and her sister Kelly, 7.

An older brother, James, 21, escaped the flames by jumping from a top floor window in the two-story brick house.

WHALE DIES

MYSTIC, Conn. (AP) — A 10-foot, 1,000-pound Atlantic pilot whale found stranded six months ago on a New Jersey beach has died unexpectedly at the Mystic Marine Aquarium. The whale, which was named "Wahle," was being trained by aquarium officials for a return to the ocean next spring in what was believed to have been the first venture of its kind. An aquarium spokeswoman, Julie Quinn, said the whale had not eaten for the last four days.

Man, Child Spend 20 Days Drifting At Sea

SEATTLE (AP) — Seven-year-old Nicole Rowley had a tear-filled reunion with her mother, ending an adventure during which the little girl and a friend of her mother drifted at sea for 20 days in a disabled miniature submarine.

Nicole and James Ringrose, 37, were rescued by the freighter Chavez, a ship that nearly ran them down Friday night about 35 miles off the mouth of the Columbia River.

But after a checkup Saturday night at Public Health Service Hospital in Seattle, Nicole was taken into custody of Child Protective Services, said police Sgt. Mark Bailey.

The child was held on a custody warrant from Oregon, Bailey said. Sgt. Philip Mohr of the Oregon State Police indicated that her mother, Dianne Rowley, of Gresham, Ore., had not been responsible because she did not immediately report the child missing.

Although Nicole and Ringrose, of Depoe Bay, Ore., started drifting Nov. 10, the Coast Guard wasn't notified to start a search until Nov. 16, after Ringrose's car drew police attention in Depoe Bay.

A two-day air and sea search found no trace of the yellow submarine, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

John Mathers, who accompanied Mrs. Rowley to the Coast Guard pier for the reunion and described himself as a family friend, said Mrs. Rowley's two other children, Sean, 3, and Desiree, 2, were in the custody of Oregon officials. He said Mrs. Rowley and her husband were separated.

Mrs. Rowley's only comment was about Nicole: "I thank the Lord that she's safe."

Mathers said Ringrose was an acquaintance of the family. Nicole was with him when Ringrose decided to take his 15-foot submarine about a quarter mile offshore at Depoe Bay to check on an experimental power-generating buoy.

A calm sea turned choppy, Ringrose said. Water went down the hatch. The batteries died and the electrically powered submarine started drifting in the current.

Battered Grandparents Serious Problem

BALTIMORE (AP) — While child abuse and wife beating have drawn considerable attention, another serious family problem — battered grandparents — has gone mostly unnoticed, a researcher says.

Abuse of the elderly may be as severe as child abuse, said Marilyn R. Block, a researcher for the University of Maryland's Center on Aging.

"It's sort of at the stage that child abuse was 20 years ago. People are horrified at the notion," said Miss Block, who conducted a one-year, federally funded study of the elderly.

Most of the abuse was psychological rather than physical, Miss Block said she found. And, although the elderly were more likely to seek help than members of other abused groups, they were usually unsuccessful in getting help.

Most physical abuse involved neglect and blows resulting in welts and bruises rather than bone fractures.

"It seems to be slapping, shoving and shaking rather than being hit with a fist," she said.

She added, however, the study did uncover some cases of beatings, fractured skulls and bones and being tied to a bed or chair.

Psychological abuse centered on verbal assaults, threats and fear. She also said some elderly people are isolated while their money and property is being stolen or misused by their children.

Other elderly persons are denied medication, treatment, eyeglasses and false teeth, she said.

Miss Block noted there are questions still to be answered, such as how many of the abused parents had abused their children and how many deaths result from abuse of the elderly.

She said abuse of the elderly can be harder to identify because senior citizens are not as visible to the public.

"If an elder stays in the house for a year, who's going to notice?" she said. "It makes it easier to ignore the problem."

She said abuse of the elderly can be linked to Americans' stereotype of senior citizens.

"To be old is to be a burden, to be senile, to be useless. Most Americans don't like old people, don't want to be around them and they don't want to be bothered with them," she said.

She added that an adult offspring caring for a sick parent or grandparent expects the patient to be strong and when that's not true, the elder is "punished for not behaving properly."

Miss Block's study, conducted with a $100,000 grant from the federal Administration on Aging, showed the typical abuser of the elderly was white, middle-aged, middle-class, female and Protestant. In addition, the abusers were most frequently adult children of the abused.

The victims, with an average age of 84 years and in poor health, were generally white, physically disabled, female, Protestant and lower-class to middle-class.

Of 800 questionnaires Miss Block mailed out in the Washington, D.C., suburbs over the past year, just over 200 were returned and produced 26 verifiable cases of abuse. Her report said many of the responses came from social workers and professionals, but gave no breakdown of the number of elderly and number of professionals who replied.

Of the elderly who answered her query, none admitted to being victims of abuse but discussed cases of abuse of elderly neighbors. The questionnaires asked for incidents of physical, psychological, material and medical abuse.

Oregonian Survives Great White Shark Attack

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Shark attack victim Kenny Doubt will never forget the sound of crunching ribs, the helpless feeling of captivity in "a big clamp with teeth."

"The only way I can describe it, it was just like 'Jaws,'" he said.

Doubt, 26, of Reedsport, was bitten by a great white shark Tuesday in the Pacific Ocean near Cannon Beach.

He was transferred Saturday from an intensive-care unit to a private room at St. Vincent Hospital and Medical Center. He was listed in good condition and expected to be released from the hospital in about a week.

Doubt had gone surfing with four companions. He said he had just caught a wave and was paddling back out.

"All of a sudden this shark was right there out of nowhere. I didn't see it. I just felt it. I could hear my ribs go crunch. It felt like a big clamp with teeth. The only way I can describe it, it was just like 'Jaws,'" he said, referring to the movie.

"At first I thought it could have been a sea lion. It just grabbed me and pulled me under. It twisted me around a bit and held on and chewed on me a bit and then let me go. When I came up, I saw the dorsal fin. It was as long as this bed."

"I don't know what I was doing. I think I was pushing on its nose. I think I was beating on him.

I know for sure that I was screaming and hollering. I was just freaked out."

Doubt said he saw a board nearby and fell on it, paddling as best he could.

"I could hear my buddies yelling. 'Paddle Kenny, keep paddling!' I don't know if it was chasing me or not; I never looked behind me."

He said that while he was paddling in, he could feel a hole in his lung. "I could feel the air going in and out of it."

Doubt has two hospital photographs of his wound, a gash running nearly the length of the left side of his back. One photo shows the open wound and the other shows the stitches following surgery.

"I don't want anyone to see my cut," he said. "I haven't even looked at it. I didn't look at it on the beach, and I didn't even look today when bandages were changed."

A spokesman for the Oregon Fish and Wildlife Department said teeth marks on Doubt's surfboard are 12 inches wide, lap over on the surfboard about 9 inches and penetrate about 1 1/2 inches into the board.

The size of the shark was estimated at 14 feet long, based on the teeth marks.

"I don't know if I'll ever put on a wet suit again," Doubt said.

Arab Oil Leaders Avoid Promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was from the outset a hat-in-hand performance: Treasury Secretary G. William Miller urging Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Abu Dhabi to keep oil production high to help restrain oil prices and prevent a worldwide recession.

"It's the annual pre-OPEC pleading by the United States," one U.S. diplomat in the Mideast observed.

U.S. Treasury secretaries have regularly beat a path to the three countries in advance of price-setting meetings of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, scheduled this year for Caracas on Dec. 17.

Saudi Arabia and Abu Dhabi are regarded as moderates on oil prices within OPEC and, along with Kuwait, they produce slightly more than half of the annual daily OPEC oil output of nearly 31 million barrels. The three countries have said they would like to cut production in 1980.

Under the circumstances, Miller returned from the trip with probably the best results the United States had any reason to expect. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait said they would consider the plea to maintain high oil output, while Abu Dhabi agreed to produce what it could.

Miller's mission was enormously complicated by recent events in Iran. Officials in all three countries worried about that the U.S. action freezing Iranian assets, for whatever reason, could someday happen to them in the event of a political falling-out with the United States.

Furthermore, there were warnings that an armed conflict between the United States and Iran could push the Arab oil producers to adopt positions unfavorable to the United States as all three countries would fear violence from militant Moslem groups if they adopted pro-U.S. positions.

"There is a deep desire in the countries we visited to avoid force and violence for fear it could set off a chain reaction," Miller told reporters during the flight back from the Middle East.

"We have many friends in the area but many are muting their expressions of friendship now because of sensitivity to this subject," he added. "If we resolve the situation without force, they will be more expressive of their friendship."

Siege Reflects Problem

The potential for trouble in Saudi Arabia was reflected in the week-long occupation of the Moslem world's most holy site, the Grand Mosque at Mecca, by armed invaders during the entire time Miller was in the country, although the two events were unrelated.

Crown Prince Fahd, the Saudi leader whose influence is greatest over oil supply and price questions, canceled a meeting with Miller because of the Mecca crisis.

It appeared likely that Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter at 9.5 million barrels a day, would await the outcome of the U.S.-Iranian dispute before deciding whether to maintain current production levels.

Miller made clear repeatedly that the United States has an enormous stake in the outcome of the decision, as a shortage of oil could push up prices substantially.

Recession Could Result

OPEC's maximum official price is $23.50 a barrel, but oil is selling on the spot market for double that price.

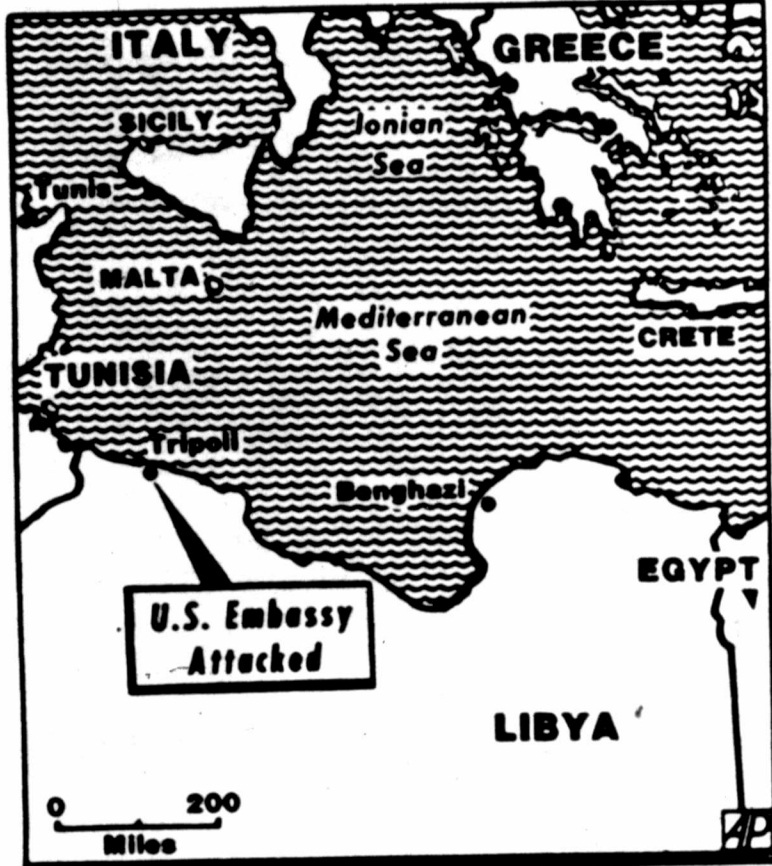

"If there are continued significant increases, there will be continued significant downward pressures on economies and we could go into a worldwide recession," he told a group of Americans living in Riyadh, the Saudi capital.

He also said controlling oil prices is now the key to restraining inflation.

the Libyan government of causing the destruction of the embassy. But it strongly protested "the inadequate and unresponsive nature of its actions in connection with the attack," Carter said.

He said the embassy had been guarded by only one policeman, despite repeated requests from the United States for stronger security. The most recent U.S. plea had been made Saturday, and when the mob arrived at the embassy, officials again contacted the Libyan foreign ministry, apparently without any effect.

The embassy had no contingent of Marine security guards, Carter said, because the Libyan government had requested they not be stationed in Libya.

Carter said, "The United States is assessing what has occurred and in the meantime is advising all Americans who might be planning to travel to Libya to reassess their plans."

Although relations between Libya and the United States have been strained for the past five years, Libya has remained the third largest seller of imported oil to the United States. The United States buys about 5 per cent of its total domestic consumption (and 10 per cent of total imports) from Libya, amounting to about $6 billion for 1979.

Carter said the United States, which already has banned all oil imports from Iran, is not prepared to let oil be used as a weapon "to influence our policy in ways that might affect the protection of American lives and honor."

Texas Becomes Former Shah's Temporary Home

villa in Cuernavaca, but Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has invited the shah to settle in Egypt.

There was no advance notice to either San Antonio or Texas officials of the plans for the shah's arrival. An informal survey of San Antonio residents uncovered widespread nervousness at his presence.

"I am not saying we are either pleased or displeased," said Mayor Lila Cockrell, who learned of the shah's presence from UPI. "This is a national emergency and I plan to support the president. We will do everything we know how to be supportive of the decision by our national administration."

Frances Hamby, a retiree and resident of San Antonio, said: "It gives me goose flesh to think he's that close. I'd like him to get all the medical treatment he needs, even here, if it is not obtainable anywhere else. The sooner he leaves, the better."

Until last January, there were about 400 Iranians undergoing military training in San Antonio, but they were pulled out when the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini took power in Iran. There are still more than 200 Moslems undergoing flight training in San Antonio.

The shah was accompanied to Texas by his wife, Empress Farah, and Robert Armao, his senior advisor. At a news conference in New York, Armao said San Antonio was chosen "because it is a military site and security is very good."

San Antonio holds probably the largest settlement of military people in the United States, and is the site of Kelly, Randolph, Lackland and Brooks air force bases and the Army's Ft. Sam Houston. Many Army, Navy and Air Force people retire to San Antonio because of the warm weather and numerous military services available.

It was a return to a familiar state for the shah, since his son, Prince Reza Pahlavi, had trained as a pilot at Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock. Following the shah's fall from power, the younger Pahlavi moved to western Massachusetts to attend Williams College.

Lackland AFB, where the hospital is located, is the only Air Force boot camp, at which 85,000 people each year complete six weeks of basic training, and is the site of the Air Force military police training program and the officer training school. Adjoining Kelly AFB, where the shah's plane landed, is the home of the Air Force Security Service, which trains people who operate the country's worldwide radar network.

Wilford Hall, with 1,000 beds, is the largest of six Air Force medical centers, and one of the specialties there is cancer treatment research. Wilford Hall is the hub of the Air Force's worldwide Aero-Medical Evacuation System.

Doctor's in New York discovered the shah's six-year battle with lymphoma, a cancer of the body's disease-fighting system, had become worse, and discovered malignant tumors in his neck, spleen and armpit. They also discovered several gallstones had blocked his bile duct, causing jaundice, but removed his gallbladder Oct. 24, relieving that condition.

BASE CLOSED — Air Force Col. Mike Terrill, Lackland Air Force Base public affairs officer, tells newsmen that the base is now closed to outside visitors and they must leave. Deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was moved to the Wilford Hall Medical Center at Lackland Sunday morning by plane from a New York City hospital. (AP Laserphoto) ketbasket bill was up in five cities and down in eight, registering an overall decrease of two-tenths of a percent.

Comparing prices today with those at the start of the year, the AP found that the marketbasket bill has increased at the checklist store in every city, rising an average of 7 percent.

The food items on the list have fluctuated much more than the non-foods. The non-foods account for 23 percent of the items in the AP survey, but during November they accounted for only 12.2 percent of the increases and 12 percent of the decreases.

ing a low-ranking administrative officer to the United Nations, but he would not be an envoy empowered to undertake diplomatic discussions.

He commented after Waldheim quoted Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh as saying he would send a special envoy to the U.N. "I hope he will be here in the next few days, so that we can hopefully resume the dialogue," Waldheim said in another television interview.

The secretary-general added, "I think we should be aware of the fact that there is a difference between what is said publicly and what they tell us in talks and negotiations we have with them."

Sunday evening before the debate began, Waldheim was asked about the statement by the unnamed Foreign Ministry spokesman and he replied, "I think there is a misunderstanding. I understood he (Ghotbzadeh) was sending a representative — not for the Security Council debate but for the United Nations in general. I consider this a positive development."

The Iranian mission to the United Nations is now headed by the charge d'affaires Jamal Shemirani.

Ghotbzadeh told reporters in Tehran he had spoken by telephone with Waldheim on Sunday.

Milk Prices Climb

Milk prices also climbed up at the checklist store in five cities. The increases reflect earlier boosts in government support levels and the fact that production is nearing the seasonal low point of the year. Egg production last month was about 2 percent to 3 percent above last year, but prices still went up — rising at the checklist store in 10 of the cities on the AP survey. The increased prices are due, in part, to the increased demand for eggs as a substitute for meat as a source of protein.

Beef Supply Down

The supply of beef is still more than 10 percent below what it was at this time last year and there is little hope of an increase in the near future, since cattlemen are still rebuilding their herds — a process that takes several years. Hog farmers, however, who can boost production more quickly, have been sending more animals to market and the price changes during November reflected the increased supplies. The price of a pound of center-cut pork chops decreased at the checklist store in eight cities in the AP survey and increased in only two cities.

Khomeini's Elevation Expected

week's observance of the Shiite sect's deeply emotional annual religious mourning days have all brought Iranian religious fervor to a pitch unprecedented in recent times.

The Moslem militants who took over the U.S. Embassy Nov. 4 say they will not release the Americans until the shah is extradited, and have threatened to try them on espionage charges if the shah leaves the United States for any country except Iran.

Opponents of the constitution claim the Iranian leadership has been exploiting the crisis with the United States to rally support for the constitution.

Many leftist and middle-of-the-road Iranian political parties and organizations said they would boycott the constitutional referendum, objecting that Khomeini would become supreme political leader without the electoral approval of the people.

Organizations of minorities, like the Kurds, Arabs, Baluchis and Turkomans joined the boycott because they say the constitution failed to recognize their demands for autonomy. Most of these groups are Sunni Moslems, unlike the majority of Iranians, who are Shiites.

Minor incidents were reported Saturday and Sunday in some of the provinces inhabited by the minorities. The official Pars news agency said a crowd of Baluchis destroyed ballot boxes in the town of Sravan, close to the Pakistani border in southeastern Iran. There were reports of a similar incident in another Baluchistan town, Iranshahr, on Saturday and of interference with voting in Kurdistan, in the northwest.

"We've had more than 700 votes cast here already and only one was a 'no,' and that was a mistake," an English-speaking official at a Tehran station told The Associated Press early Sunday.

The ballot is a ticket perforated down the middle. The left side, printed in green — the traditional color of Islam — bears the word "yes," and the right side, printed in red, states "no."

Many of the voters, particularly the women, handed their ballot papers to the mullah or other officials seated in front of the ballot box to check their validity, and cast them in full view of all present.

Khomeini cast his ballot in the main mosque in Qom, the holy city where he lives, 120 miles south of Tehran. The mosque was packed so full of people that Khomeini was unable to enter and the ballot box was brought to the main gate so he could vote there.

The students set up their own voting booth out in the wide courtyard just inside the gate.

Kennedy Questioned On Chappaquiddick

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A somewhat annoyed Sen. Edward Kennedy said Sunday there will be no new revelations about the accident at Chappaquiddick — and if there were, he wouldn't be running for president.

Kennedy said he believes the American people will judge him on his record and added, "I'm prepared to abide by that judgment."

In a broadcast interview on KNBC-TV, Kennedy was asked about the accident 10 years ago in which Mary Jo Kopechne drowned at Chappaquiddick.

After responding to a couple of questions about the accident, Kennedy asked tersely, "Have you read the inquest — the inquest itself? Because all those questions were all answered there."

"I would hope that those that questioned me about those matters would also take the opportunity of reading the inquest," he said. "I wouldn't be a candidate for president of the United States if there were any new facts that conflict with my position. That's the way it is. That's the way it's going to be."

Kennedy planned to go to San Francisco to wind up a weekend of campaigning in California. Monday he flies to Reno, Nev., and Bismark, N.D., before returning to Washington, D.C.

Kennedy also said there will be a "debate and discussion" over President Carter's handling of the crisis in Iran once the hostages are released.

But he said, at this point, "There should not be any confusion among the Iranian people... that we speak with one voice."

Kennedy said he approved of the shah's being moved to a military hospital in Texas because it appeared to be part of the process that would result in his leaving the United States.

Kennedy noted that prior to the shah's fall he had been critical of the Iranian human rights policy, but he quickly added, "I don't think looking to the past enhances the release of the hostages."

Kennedy said in the future when dealing with potentially hostile governments, the United States must have a clear agreement regarding the security of its personnel in that country.

"If we can't get those assurances American personnel shouldn't be there," he said. He added that in addition to those assurances the United States should make an independent effort to determine its embassy personnel are secure.

At the end of the interview, Kennedy was asked if he was qualified to be president in view of his actions at Chappaquiddick.

"I've faced difficult challenges and crises over my life," he said. "I have lost two brothers... and I've seen a young child who had cancer in danger of losing his life."

"I've served in the United States Senate for 17 years and I believe the American people will look at the total record and the kind of vision and opportunity I offer. And I believe I'll be fairly judged."

Group Says Seat Belts Frequently Fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seat belts frequently fail in automobile crashes, allowing hundreds of deaths and injuries each year, a consumer group said Sunday.

"Failures are not the exceptions but the rule," the Center for Auto Safety said after a six-month study of the belts, which are supposed to prevent highway fatalities.

"Present seat belt systems are woefully inadequate in protecting consumers in vehicle crashes," said Clarence Ditlow, executive director of the center, in calling for government and industry action to make them more reliable.

In addition to the hundreds of deaths and injuries annually that he said belt failures led to, Ditlow said poor construction contributes to public reluctance to wear the belts, which he called a factor in tens of thousands more deaths and injuries.

Citing a government finding that seat belt usage is only 14 percent and declining, the consumer group said more persons would wear them if manufacturers made them more comfortable and convenient to use.

"No matter how capable a belt system, if it is not used, it has no protective effect," the organization said.

In response, Richard Babbitt, chairman of the American Seat Belt Council, said, "Thousands of lives have been saved and injuries prevented through the use of seat belts. We are proud of our record."

The industry group, which is based in New Rochelle, N.Y., represents companies that supply belt systems to auto manufacturers.

Babbitt said the companies comply with all requirements of the automakers and the government. In addition, he said, the seat belt industry "has spent considerable financial resources to upgrade the comfort and convenience of belts to make them more acceptable for consumers."

The consumer group said the most common defects are belt reels that have enough slack to allow a person to be thrown forward in an accident, devices attaching belts to the car that can come loose and buckles or belts that fail to hold.

Ditlow said a letter about an accident involving a 1971 Volkswagen "graphically illustrates the difference between seat belt failure and proper functioning. The driver died when her belt tore loose from the floor and the shoulder strap broke. Her passenger whose belts functioned properly suffered no injury whatsoever."

He said the consumer group examined 1,200 consumer complaints, accident reports, recalls and studies by safety researchers in a six-month study of seat belts.

The center found that seat belts have been the subject of 90 automobile recalls since 1966 involving 7.2 million vehicles, or nearly 10 percent of the total recalled.

"No other single system on the automobile has caused as many vehicle recalls," Ditlow said. "Yet the seat belt system is extremely simple when compared to the far more complex ignition or steering systems which have resulted in far fewer recalls."

Leprosy Still Affects 15 Million In World

ATLANTA (AP) — Leprosy, the scourge of Europe in the Middle Ages, still affects an estimated 15 million people throughout the world but it poses little threat as a communicable disease in the United States, according to the national Center for Disease Control.

One case of non-contagious tuberculous leprosy was reported last week in a 20-year-old Oral Roberts University student at Tulsa, Okla., public health officials reported.

But the student is among only about 160 persons in the United States who will contract leprosy this year, according to epidemiologists at the CDC. The student, not identified, is from South America, Oral Roberts officials said.

Leprosy once was considered fatal, because no one knew how to treat it, but "it is very curable now," Dr. Albert England, an epidemiologist at the CDC, said last week. "Generally, a patient is either cured or the disease is controlled with modern drugs."

Hospitalization or confinement is not required and tuberculous leprosy, one of two types, is not even contagious, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

Leprosy is characterized by lesions of the skin, weakness of the muscles, paralysis and deterioration of skin, muscles and bones.

Man is the only known carrier of the disease and its mode of transmission has not been determined. Researchers say it is presumed that bacillus from nasal discharges of infectious patients gain entrance through the skin or respiratory tract.

From 1971 through 1973, surveillance reports were filed for 419 cases of leprosy in the United States and Puerto Rico. Of these, only 80 were reported to have been endemic to this country. The others were imported, according to the CDC.

Although the reported cases average less than 160 a year, it is estimated that there are between 2,000 and 3,000 accumulated cases in the United States, most of which have been brought into this country from elsewhere.

Newly recognized cases of the disease are more frequently diagnosed in California, Texas and Hawaii, the only states where leprosy currently is endemic, according to the Public Health Service.

Prevalence rates of five per 1,000 persons are found only in the tropics.

One of the problems in diagnosing leprosy, according to the CDC, is its long incubation period. The shortest known incubation period is about seven months but a person can have the disease for five years or longer before it is diagnosed.

From 1968 through 1977, deaths per 100,000 in the United States were only 0.07.

Leprosy is treated with a drug known as dapsone, and treatment may continue for years. Although studies indicate that another drug, rifampicin, is more effective, it is more expensive.

47 New Navy Ships Delivered Late

WASHINGTON (AP) — All 47 new ships delivered to the Navy in the past four years arrived late, some up to three and four years behind schedule, Rep. Les Aspin said Sunday.

Aspin, D-Wis., said delays got longer in deliveries of ships of the same design despite his reasoning that "once you've mastered the technique, the follow-up ships should come faster and faster."

There is no way of detecting brucellosis by a cow's appearance. Seemingly "healthy" cows may be incubating the disease.

"The Navy and its contractors just haven't mastered the technique," he said in a written statement.

Four helicopter landing carriers were the latest, Aspin said. He said the first was 37 months late, the second 49 months, the third 59 and the fourth 67.

He gave no advice for speeding up deliveries except to blame the Navy for intruding in private shipyard work. "The Navy tries to run the shipyards, interfering in a way that causes even the more efficient yards to begin looking like the workshop in a Walt Disney cartoon," he said.

Man is the only known carrier of the disease and its mode of transmission has not been determined. Researchers say it is presumed that bacillus from nasal dis-

Union Leader Defends Closing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel's decision to close its Ambridge plant was economically justified, United Steelworkers President Lloyd McBride said Sunday in a television interview.

The union leader also criticized workers who had rejected a compromise that could have saved the 1,200 jobs there.

The American Bridge plant in Beaver County was among 16 operations that U.S. Steel plans to shut down because the company says they are unprofitable. About 13,000 workers are affected.

In the Ambridge case, however, employees were offered a compromise wage agreement, but rejected it 650-432.

"I am convinced that the company wanted to continue to operate American Bridge," McBride said during a television taping.

WIIC-TV also interviewed U.S. Steel Chairman David Roderick and Rep. Joseph Gaydos, D-Pa., head of the House Steel Caucus, for a special program on the crisis in the steel industry.

McBride, who had recommended that the local union accept U.S. Steel's proposal, said he was mystified by the outcome.

"I had heard it said that they didn't trust the union and the company. Some of them felt they had worked long enough anyway and that the pension benefit was pretty good, so let it go... that kind of logic is difficult for me to understand," he said.

McBride has been criticized by some of his union's 1.4 million members as too accommodating to the steel industry. In an interview after the taping, he said he didn't care about any possible political consequences of his remarks.

"I don't intend to let myself be persuaded to disguising the truth out of any political considerations. I haven't done that before and I won't do it now," he said.

Meanwhile, Roderick again said U.S. Steel would listen if American Bridge employees came back with a proposal to keep the plant open. He said any move must come before Dec. 31, the deadline for taking a tax writeoff on the plant.

The Carter administration, in an effort to soften the impact of widespread layoffs in the steel industry, plans to form a committee to study industry problems and coordinate government relief plans.

Commissioners Seek $700,000 In Funds

DALLAS (AP) — County commissioners will have to come up with nearly $700,000 to convert the sixth floor of the Texas Schoolbook Depository building into a Kennedy assassination museum.

County public works director C. Judson Shook Jr. told commissioners earlier this week the money should come from a public fund-raising drive, not county funds. Commissioners are considering using the sixth floor to display artifacts and reports on the 1963 assassination of President John Kennedy.

About a third of the needed money could come from a federal grant through the National Endowment for the Humanities, according to Mrs. Conover Hunt-Jones, a member of a special committee interested in the proposed museum.

She said money for maintenance could come from a small admission fee. The Warren Commission said Lee Harvey Oswald shot Kennedy from the sixth floor of the building.

Ex-Church Member Drops Charges

DALLAS (AP) — A former member of the First Pentecostal Church in Sherman has asked to withdraw from a lawsuit against the church pastor and has dropped assault charges filed against the pastor's wife.

Brenda Justice told U.S. District Judge William Steger in a letter she wanted her name, and the names of her two sons, removed from a list of 35 plaintiffs in a federal suit against the Rev. Charles Glass.

Most of the plaintiffs are former church members who complained Glass and his wife turned the church into a cult and violated their constitutional rights.

Mrs. Justice had filed assault charges against Mrs. Glass after complaining to police that the pastor's wife was patrolling her home.

Police charged Mrs. Glass with failing to identify herself and with using someone else's driver's license.

Mrs. Justice moved from Sherman to Garland last summer.

Shah Among 11 Fallen Rulers This Year

By The Associated Press
The ill and exiled shah of Iran lies in a Texas hospital bed, his fate riveting world attention because of 50 Americans held hostage in his name.

But the 10 other rulers who tumbled from power this year have all but vanished into the shadows.

Since the beginning of the year, the mighty have fallen at the rate of one a month. The countries they ruled span the globe. Many of their names now stand for terror, torture and corruption: Pol Pot, Somoza, Amin, Bokassa.

Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi fled Iran Jan. 16 in the face of a revolution fanned by the religious fervor of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

He went to Egypt, then to Morocco, then to the Bahamas. It seemed he was welcome nowhere. Finally, with the help of Henry Kissinger, the 60-year-old shah and his family settled in Mexico on June 10.

He lived in splendor in the mountain resort town of Cuernavaca at Riveroll House, which has rented for $13,500 a month. The estate has a large swimming pool and is staffed by six cooks, five gardeners and two maids.

But the shah will not be returning to those sumptuous surroundings when leaves the Air Force hospital in San Antonio, where he went Sunday. He had been recuperating in a New York hospital after having gallstones removed and receiving cancer treatment.

On Nov. 29, the Mexican government announced it would not renew his six-month tourist visa, which expires Dec. 9. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has offered the shah asylum.

Khomeini supports the students who took over the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4 and took 63 American hostages, 13 of whom have been released. The students are demanding the shah be sent to Iran, and where he goes next could determine what happens to the hostages.

The toll of the world's despots began on Jan. 8, when Cambodian rebels backed by Vietnamese forces seized the capital of Phnom Penh and ousted Pol Pot, whose government is believed to have killed between 1.2 million and 4 million Cambodians.

Attorney General Defends Order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti says the rights of Iranian students in the United States must be observed, but he also insists his office has the power to investigate their immigration status.

In an interview in this week's U.S. News and World Report, Civiletti defended a directive by President Carter ordering him to determine the legal status of Iranian students and to start deportation proceedings against visa violators.

The order has been challenged in federal court by the American Civil Liberties Union.

But Civiletti said it is "well within the authority of the attorney general to set reasonable conditions to insure that non-immigrants leave this country when their stay is over or when they violate the conditions of their stay."

He said the crackdown on Iranian students was ordered by the president as "a limited step in an overall response to the crisis in Iran."

Iran May Sue Banks Obeying Order

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The head of Iran's central bank accused the United States Sunday of trying to "strangle" Iran's economy and threatened to sue any bank endorsing President Carter's order to freeze the Islamic nation's assets.

Ali Reza Nobari, governor of Iran's central bank, told the Beirut-based An-Nahar Arab Report and Memo that American financial institutions were violating international banking laws by foreclosing on loans to Iran.

Nobari said Carter's freezing of official Iranian assets in American banks and demands for immediate repayment of Iranian loans — once declared to be in default by U.S. bankers — was "totally wrong."

The banks, he charged, "haven't got the right to make these claims."

American banks have declared several Iranian government and government guaranteed loans in default after Iran failed to meet interest payments due last month on a 1977 medium term $500 million loan.

The banks cited clauses in the loan agreements stating that default on one loan puts all other outstanding official debts into default, An Nahar reported.

The syndicate for the 1977 loan consisted of 10 banks, including Bank of America National Trust, Chase Manhattan Bank NA, and the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.

Nobari said U.S. banks were "participating in a campaign aimed at strangling our country economically and politically. We protest strongly against this attack."

If interest payments were overdue, he said, "the banks should have sued us in American courts and asked for payments... these banks have violated international banking rules."

"We will sue these banks and claim damages."

Iran argues it is impossible to pay interest on dollar-denominated debts because of President Carter's freeze. Iran has official debts of about $5 billion but

With Chinese help, Pol Pot still fights against the Vietnam-backed regime now in Phnom Penh. That regime condemned him to death in absentia in August. No one is certain Pol Pot is still alive, but Western sources say he has withdrawn into the Cardamon Mountains of south-western Cambodia.

March 13: Prime Minister Eric Gairy of Grenada, accused by his opponents of murder and fraud, learned while visiting in New York that he had been ousted in a coup.

April 11: Idi Amin, Ugandan "president for life," fled Kampala just ahead of Tanzanian troops and Ugandan rebels. Amin is accused of killing 200,000 people during his eight-year rule.

In May, Amin told a Philippine magazine he lived in a villa in Tripoli, Libya, surrounded by 50 bodyguards, perhaps under house arrest. He attacked Western media for portraying him as "an impoverished ape... Whether they agree or not, this face is the most beautiful in the world. My mother and wives tell me so."

June 4: Junior air force officers in Ghana overthrew the 7-year-old military government of Lt. Gen. Fred Akuffo, who was executed on June 26.

July 17: Anastasio Somoza, 53, whose family had ruled Nicaragua since the 1930s, resigned the presidency and fled. Months of fighting between his National Guard troops and Sandinista rebels left between 40,000 and 50,000 dead, 200,000 injured, and made refugees of one-fourth of Nicaragua's 2.5 million people.

Somoza settled in Asuncion, Paraguay. He lives in luxury with servants, three Mercedes and a swimming pool. Somoza says he wants to be a farmer. He has looked at property in Villarica — a mansion where another exile lived in the 1950s — Argentine dictator Juan Peron.

Aug. 8: Francisco Macias Nguema

"The Supreme Court has consistently recognized the broad authority of the Congress and the executive branch to take whatever reasonable action is deemed to be in the public interest in immigration matters," Civiletti said.

He said the "large majority" of foreign students in the United States are complying with the law, and students legally here will be allowed to remain.

He also reaffirmed that Iranian students in this country are protected by the Constitution and have the right to demonstrate.

"Peaceful demonstrations are part of the rights that attach to resident aliens," he said. "There is a process that must be followed, and rights must be fully observed. There are controls. However, we are reviewing present policies to see if they can be improved."

The attorney general said about 30,000 aliens go through deportation proceedings each year and about 870,000 subject to deportation proceedings leave the country voluntarily.

these are more than covered by reserves abroad of $10 billion, An-Nahar said.

Giyogo — who in a decade of terror in Equatorial Guinea killed tens of thousands, including almost all the country's intellectuals — fell to a military coup. He fled but was captured in a village several days later. He was executed Sept. 29 after a trial held in a decrepit movie theater whose last show had been "Cry of Death."

Sept. 14: Afghanistan President Nur Mohammed Taraki, whose pro-Soviet government was dogged by a bloody Moslem rebellion, was fatally wounded in a palace shootout in Kabul. He was thought missing until October when an Afghanistan radio broadcast said he was buried in the family graveyard.

Sept. 21: Jean Bedel Bokassa of the Central African Republic — who in 1976 proclaimed himself Emperor Bokassa I of the Central African Empire — was driven from power with French help.

Kennedy Opposes Debate On Iranian Situation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen Edward M. Kennedy said Sunday he believes there will be a review of the Carter administration's handling of the Iranian crisis but he continued to oppose any such debate until the American hostages are freed.

"I think there will always be a time for debate and discussion and I think that debate and discussion will take place," Kennedy said in a broadcast interview taped at KNBC.

Kennedy said the key question "is whether that debate and discussion now will enhance the release of the hostages. I don't believe that such debate and discussion will provide that kind of early release or enhance their security and therefore I don't think it's wise to do so."

Kennedy also said it appeared the transfer of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to a military hospital in Texas is a step toward his departure from the United States.

Kennedy repeatedly refused to question the Carter administration's handling of the embassy takeover in Tehran, the events leading up to it or what might be done later.

"I don't think looking to the past or anticipating the future enhances the opportunity for the safety and security of those hostages," he said.

Kennedy also said that if he were president he would require "a clear understanding" with host governments about the safety and security of U.S. diplomatic personnel and would withdraw American diplomats if such assurances were not forthcoming.

"That has to be clear," he said. "If we can't get those kind of assurances, I don't think the American personnel should remain in those countries."

Bokassa, 58, implemented such medieval punishments as cutting off ears and clubbing criminals to death. He was accused of ordering the slaughter of 100 children who protested wearing school uniforms.

Bokassa was granted asylum in Ivory Coast, which has refused to extradite him on charges of embezzlement, mass murder and cannibalism.

Oct. 15: Carlos Humberto Romero, president of El Salvador, was overthrown when army rebels seized four key military barracks. Romero served half of a four-year term before leftist agitation and violence directed against his regime led to the coup.

Oct. 26: South Korean President Park Chung-hee, 62, who himself seized power in a coup in 1961, was shot and killed in a plot led by Korean Central Intelligence Agency chief Kim Jae-kyu.

Kennedy acknowledged that in some countries which have "a very important interest from a national security point of view," U.S. diplomatic personnel might have to remain despite uncertainty about their safety.

The one criticism Kennedy has voiced about the embassy takeover in Tehran was to question the lack of a contingency plan to deal with such an incident, especially in light of the fact the embassy had been taken over by Iranian militants once before.

After two days of campaigning in Los Angeles with a mixture of public and private meetings, Kennedy flew to San Francisco to appear at a fund-raising reception for Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who is running for re-election in 1980.

Kennedy spoke Saturday night at a $200-a-plate dinner for Leo T. McCarthy, the speaker of the California state assembly.

About 2,500 persons attended the dinner designed to raise money for a possible 1982 statewide campaign by the legislative leader.

McCarthy, who has feuded with Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., is expected to support Kennedy's presidential candidacy.

Crosstown in the exclusive Malibu Colony residential area, singer Linda Ronstadt, a frequent Brown social companion, held a $1,000-a-couple cocktail and buffet dinner party at her home to raise money for Brown's presidential campaign.

Tape Calls For Return Of Shah

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A tape recording by one of the Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran calls for the United States to surrender the deposed shah of Iran so the hostages can be freed.

The seven-minute tape of the voice of Jerry Plotkin, from the Los Angeles suburb of Sherman Oaks, was obtained last week by Los Angeles radio station KMPX newsman Alex Paen in Tehran from students holding the embassy.

"In the name of God return the shah and free the hostages," Plotkin said in a steady voice. "Let the world know no tyrant or dictator can ever find safe harbor in the U.S."

It was believed to be the first recording of an American still held hostage at the embassy.

At several points in the tape, the shuffling of papers could be heard, indicating Plotkin may have been reading a statement.

Plotkin had issued a written statement Nov. 20, saying he was not an embassy employee, but had been on business there when it was taken over Nov. 4.

Plotkin directed the taped message to his family and "to all the people of the U.S."

"I am well both mentally and physically," he said. "We have been treated humanely. The students treat us kindly and with respect. The quality of the food is adequate and we are given three meals a day."

The hostages' living area is clean, and each of the hostages has a mattress, blanket, armchair and table, Plotkin said.

B'nai B'rith Mideast Authority Discusses Iranian Situation

By JOHNNY HOLMES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Iranian crisis has become "a terribly historic event" and is unique because it has become a matter of "personalized foreign policy," said a B'nai B'rith Middle Eastern Affairs authority here Sunday.

"I haven't seen the American people this stirred up since Pearl Harbor," said Kenneth Jacobsen, director of the Middle Eastern Affairs Department of the Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith, who was in Lubbock to attend a reception and present a special program to a local ADL assembly. "And it's interesting that the crisis is occurring so close to the presidential campaign because it'll force the candidates to speak out on America's place in the world."

As the department director, Jacobsen evaluates Middle East issues and helps form ADL policies concerning them. His visit to Lubbock is one of several cross country swings to visit the 27 ADL offices and speak to interested groups. "It really doesn't matter if people are Jewish or Christian or whatever," he said. "I try to have a meaningful dialogue on the issues of the area and talk with them about our common interest, problems and questions. We all need to be concerned about the Middle East."

The key to the Iranian situation is the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who Jacobsen feels is keeping the majority of the Moslem Iranians whipped into a pep rally-type frenzy. "The Ayatollah is so anti-American because he perceives the United States, the symbol of progress in the modern world, as the greatest threat to his rather primitive way of life," he said.

"Khomeini isn't even looking at Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's reputed ruthlessness when he calls the shah a criminal," said Jacobsen. "Khomeini hates the shah because the shah tried to bring Iran into the 20th century. He tried to liberate the women, enrich the economy and send the kids to secular schools. Khomeini has reversed all that."

Jacobsen said he felt President Carter has handled the crisis "responsibly," and noted that Carter's two main goals in resolving the tense situation are "to gain safe release of the hostages but also to create a climate where such a thing cannot recur."

"The way to keep our friends friendly is to act like a leader," he said, opining that the Iranian matter is an example of the perception among some nations of the world that America's standing as the world leader is declining.

"This just points out two things that could greatly affect us later," he said. "One is that we have energy problems that have nothing to do with the Arab-Israeli situation. As the strongest nation in the world, we are forced to depend on such weak and instable regimes for so much of our energy. And two is that, even though Saudi Arabia complains about our power, they really want us to be a strong leader."

Back in the U.S. less than a month from his most recent visit to the Middle East, Jacobsen said that the main problem the people of the United States have in dealing with the volatile situation there is that, "lots of times, people just don't know the facts. Plus, it's a complicated situation, when you get into the Palestinian state and other such matters."

Jacobsen doesn't see the creation of a Palestinian state in the near future, and points once again to the siege of the American embassy in Tehran as an example of what could happen. "If you give these kind of people a break, in the form of a state or a country, they won't get more moderate as some people seem to think. They'll just get crazier."

"It's hard to imagine a Palestinian state that isn't a PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) state, and once they got it, they would automatically attack Israel, because the destruction of Israel is what they're all about," he said. "You'll notice none of the Arab states are calling for a PLO state because of the potential threats to them. What they (the Arab leaders) want is to pacify each other by talking about it and maintaining the status quo."

The PLO's greatest asset, in terms of winning the favor of the western world, is its leader, Yassar Arafat, whom Jacobsen said may be the most moderate and coolheaded member of the terrorist organization.

"The PLO is just an umbrella for several terrorist organizations, and it'll never give up its goal of destroying Israel," he said. "But Arafat believes in a more tactical approach. He even offered to help the U.S. in Tehran, but got attacked from inside the PLO. Now, you'll notice, the PLO is coming out in favor of Khomeini."

"Arafat is more able to win public opinion than the other leaders of the organization, but he faces much pressure from within. He very likely would be killed if he recognized Israel."

As for now, though, the spotlight in the Middle East remains focused on Iran, and Jacobsen doesn't foresee a swift, silent ending to the chapter. "I have no idea how long the hostage situation can continue," he said. "But it won't end there. As long as Khomeini feels the U.S. is such a threat to him, he won't back off. That could mean a long term struggle that he would just love to lead."

Americans Continue Show Of Support

By The Associated Press

The deposed shah, now in a Texas military hospital, was welcomed by one Texas senator, but other officials worried that his presence could spell trouble.

Republican Senator John Tower welcomed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi as "an old ally of our country."

But the shah's swift and secretive move from New York to Texas Sunday morning took local officials in San Antonio, where he landed, by surprise. City councilman Bernardo Euresse asked, "Why San Antonio? Why us?"

Meanwhile, Americans around the country continued to show support for the 50 hostages held since Nov. 4 at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. They were praying in many churches Sunday, marches and speeches.

In South Carolina, about 225 persons

Shah Admits To Mistakes In Interview

BONN (UPI) — The deposed shah of Iran, in an interview published Sunday, confessed to mistakes during his 37-year rule but said he does not believe he made as many as the late John F. Kennedy in just three years at the White House.

"I am just a human being and not without my faults," Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi told in the mass circulation tabloid Bild Am Sonntag.

"But I believe John F. Kennedy made more mistakes in his three years as president than I did in 37 years."

Questioned about his own mistakes, the ousted ruler pinpointed one decision that signaled the beginning of what he called his "difficulties."

"My Prime Minister (Jamshid) Amuzegar decided to stop paying various grants to the mullahs, a measure that was necessary to maintain public morals," the shah recalled.

"I know now we never should have stopped paying that money."

The comparison with Kennedy was wearing white arm bands marched from the steps of the State House through downtown Columbia, stopping at a Main Street flagpole to raise an American flag for each of the hostages. Speakers said the flags would be hauled down one by one as the hostages are released.

Many of the marchers were workers at Daniel Construction Co. of Greenville, S.C., which has had construction projects in Iran.

About 125 Cuban-Americans demonstrated Saturday in Elizabeth, N.J. One demonstrator, Doris Morales, said, "We feel we owe something to this country that opened its arms to us, and we want to show we stand by this country."

In a pastoral letter read Sunday in churches in the Paterson, N.J., Roman Catholic diocese, Bishop Frank J. Rodione of many outspoken remarks in the interview, which Bild said was conducted in the New York hospital where the shah received cancer treatment.

He said his illness and stay in New York was only an excuse for the Moslem students to seize the American embassy in Tehran.

"According to reliable information, it was not just the American embassy that was to be seized, but the Soviet, the British and the French embassies as well," the shah said.

The deposed monarch warned darkly of "inevitable downfall" for the West. "I ask myself if the West understands where it is going. The world is heading for inevitable downfall."

He said statesmen such as Josef Stalin, Charles de Gaulle and Franklin Roosevelt "would turn in their graves if they saw those who came after them."

"The West's total readiness to give up gets worse each day. When it wakes up, it will be too late," he said.

mer said. "Pray that our nation's leaders and the leaders of Iran will be guided by a vision of peace and by the understanding of the value placed on every life."

New Jersey congressman Robert Roe urged President Carter to stop food shipments to Iran. "If the Ayatollah thinks he is so tough, let him eat oil," the New Jersey Democrat said, referring to Iran's de facto Moslem ruler, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"Our food stocks may be on their way to feeding the very people who are illegally holding American citizens in our own embassy. That is an outrage that must not be tolerated," he said.

Iran's new foreign minister, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, came under fire from Mary Howard, a Little Silver, N.J., teacher, who was his classmate at Georgetown University in 1963 and 1964.

She said Ghotbzadeh, then known as "Sadi," once had trouble with his student visa, but American friends interceded successfully.

"I can't believe it when I see this guy on TV. He was an exile here, protected, staying away from the shah. Yet he can't accept the fact that we are protecting the shah here, another exile. I just feel that Americans were so good to Sadi," Mrs. Howard said.

"He was charming, well-spoken, smooth," she recalled. "He was very politically committed then. We used to hear trades against the shah from him."

In Ohio, U.S. Senator Lowell Weicker said Saturday that allowing the shah into this country was not the real reason for the crisis in Iran. Speaking to the Columbus Jewish Federation, he blamed U.S. policy-makers for ignoring political problems in Iran and other oil-producing countries as long as fuel continued to flow.

Unless Americans are willing to sacrifice their oil consumption, the country can expect continued embarrassments in the Middle East, the Connecticut Republican warned.

Israel Offers U.S. Aid In Action Against Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shimon Peres, leader of Israel's major opposition party and a former Israeli defense minister, said Sunday he believed his nation would provide any aid asked — including use of air bases — should the United States take military action against Iran.

Peres also said the current troubles in Moslem nations will have an effect on achieving a genuine Middle East peace but will not immediately interfere with Egyptian-Israeli negotiations.

Peres, who appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press," pointed out several times that he wanted to be cautious about answering questions on any possible U.S. or Israeli military action concerning Iran.

"I think again all of us must be very careful not to create the wrong impression, as though a military operation is to come very soon," he said. "It is because of this that I am careful in my reply."

But when asked about Israeli military assistance to the United States, and specifically about U.S. use of Israeli bases and ports, he said:

"I would say that any assistance, including bases, that the U.S. may ask for her own needs, I believe Israel will respond in a positive manner."

Peres was also asked if the trouble in Tehran and other incidents at U.S. embassies, one last month in Pakistan and the latest Sunday in Libya, would have a bearing on reaching an overall Mideast peace settlement.

"Yes, I think it adds an additional problem because the forces, the extreme forces of the Moslem world and the Russian attempt to play a role in the Middle East is not over," he said.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: Thanks to you — about 5,000 people set me straight — I now understand why "Sad in New York" could not take a second dog home. It's been a long time since I received so much mature, thoughtful mail pointing out facts that I had failed to take into consideration. The reason I goofed must be obvious. I do not have a dog.

The following letter is typical of what my mail has been like this week:
Dear Ann Landers: So you can't understand why "Sad in New York" couldn't take another dog home? The fact that you know many people who have two dogs doesn't mean anything, Babe — especially in this day and age when millions of middle-class Americans are struggling to stay out of the poorhouse. Their budgets can't be stretched to include one dog. Let alone two.

In addition to food, a pet needs tags, shots, and medicine if he gets sick, to say nothing of time and attention. Then there's the possibility that Dog Numero Uno may take a dim view of another animal invading his domain. Jealousy among dogs can be troublesome. Instead of having the companionship of one dog, he just might end up with two beasts that fight all the time.

I thought it was darned decent of that guy to feed the dog and take him to the SPCA. Most people wouldn't have bothered. So, instead of giving him a pat on the back, you laid a guilt trip on him because he didn't take the mutt home. Reverse yourself, Ann. You were off base. — Eddie In Flatbush

Dear Eddie: Yes, I was, and I appreciate being told. Thanks to all who wrote. I learned something today.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married for 44 years to a man I will call Albert. Although he is a far cry from what my mother had in mind for me, we have gotten along fairly well and raised good children.

I have always been known for my Dutch apple pies. I never could give out the recipe because I don't measure anything. I learned to bake from watching my mother.

Last night my sister and her husband came over for our weekly game of bridge. At 11:00 p.m. I served refreshments — coffee and my famous Dutch apple pie. My brother-in-law said, "This is great pie. Albert is a lucky fellow." Before I could say, "Thank you," Albert yelled, "I think it's lousy — too much nutmeg. The crust isn't right, either. I could make a better pie myself." I was dumbfounded. My sister was mad. She shouted, "I'd like to see you try it."

Well, Albert stomped into the kitchen and started to pull out pans, apples, flour, butter, everything in sight. The guests left. At 2:00 a.m. Albert was still in there banging things around.

When I got up this morning the kitchen looked like a cyclone had hit it. There was no pie in sight.

My sister phoned this morning to say I shouldn't bake another pie for my husband as long as I live. What do YOU say, Ann? — Still Shaking In Fitchburg, Mass.

Dear Fitch: If you have managed to live with this nut for 44 years, you don't need any advice from your sister or me. Use your own judgment.

CONFIDENTIAL to Morbid Curiosity: Yes, the limousine in which President John F. Kennedy was shot was used again — by three Presidents: Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford. The car is now in the Henry Ford Museum warehouse in Dearborn, Mich., behind locked doors.

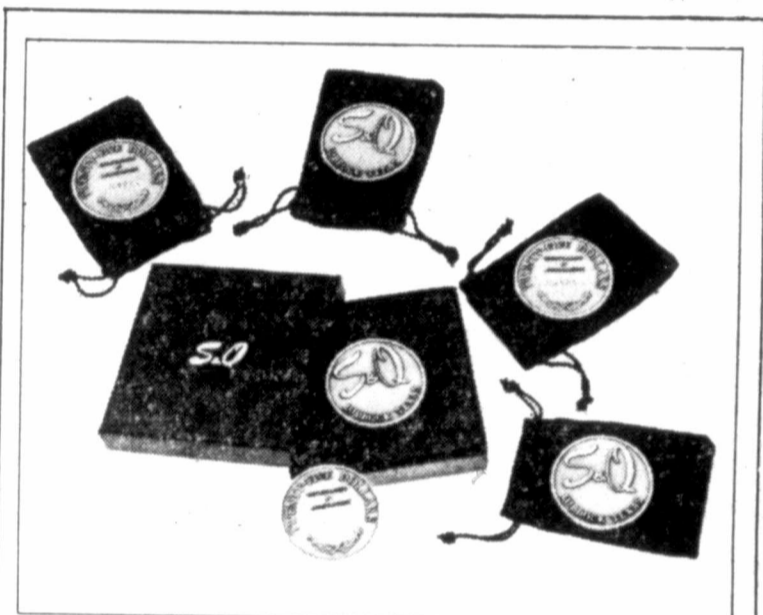

"Sexual freedom" presents a difficult decision for teenagers and their parents. Ann Landers offers down-to-earth advice in her new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It — A Guide for Teens and Their Parents." For each booklet, send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you write something about yeast infections? Like what causes them? What causes the goshawful itching? Is there any cure? Someone told me that if a woman gets it she never gets rid of it. I've also heard that drinking cranberry juice is good. True?

I got a yeast infection while pregnant with my third child. The doctor gave me tablets to insert into the vagina. The itching stopped in about 30 minutes, but came back. Now the itching has returned after two years. I am 31. — Mrs. M.L.

Yeast (fungus) infection of the vagina can be difficult to eradicate, but it is not impossible. Vaginal suppositories are effective to fight the yeast, and they are easy to use. They may have to be used for prolonged periods, even after the symptoms (itching, discharge) have disappeared.

But it's not always this simple. A woman may be infected with other organisms. Yeast and non-yeast organisms can be present simultaneously. Trichomonas may masquerade as a yeast infection, and, of course, anti-fungal medicine will not affect that.

Yeast infections are more common in diabetics, especially the recurring infections. Pregnancy (and use of birth control pills) may set up the situation for growth of yeast, as may prolonged antibiotic therapy. Careful toilet hygiene is important for women who have recurring yeast infections. Cranberry juice will not help.

Careful examination determines just which organisms are present. I suggest you have one now.

skin ointments, such as miconazole, as well as an oral medicine called griseofulvin. For tinea versicolor, miconazole and lotions containing selenium or sodium thiosulfate can be used.

Generally speaking, there are treatments for most skin fungus infections. The key is in identifying the organism and matching the medicine to it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: First, a thousand thanks for your wonderful column, which as you must know is a tremendous help to millions of readers.

Second, I need medical advice for the first time in my 43 years. Several years ago (at 15) I had surgery for some tumors. During surgery, the doctors discovered a floating kidney. I have gained 40 pounds since then and would like to get the excess off, since I realize it is unhealthy. Is it OK to jog? Will it cause any problems with the floating kidney? — Mrs. C.S.

Jogging should not aggravate the problem of a floating kidney. But you should begin it slowly and increase the amount gradually.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I get chilblain, which is no great problem. I can live with it. My question is, is it wise to massage the feet to get the circulation back into them after I've been out in the cold weather? — B.D.

You shouldn't massage. This might damage the tissue. The best procedure is to elevate the legs and let the feet warm gradually to room temperature. Don't apply ice or heat. Chilblain is a mild form of frostbite in which tissue is not actually damaged.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes — and cures — for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "In some respects South is the hero of bridge columns. On other occasions he is the goat, but he is always the declarer."

Alan: "South's jump to four spades was an overbid. Then after East decided to sacrifice at five clubs, South passed whereupon North went on to five spades. The defense started by cashing two club tricks. Then East decided to lead a third club to see what might happen. Goat South thankfully discarded a diamond and ruffed with dummy's queen of trumps. Then he cashed dummy's ace of hearts and ruffed a second heart with a low trump. West, who had chucked a heart on the third club overruffed and the goat had been sacrificed."

Oswald: "Let's change the story a trifle and put our hero in the South seat. Hero South did discard on the third club, but he elected to chuck his queen of hearts. Then he led a low heart from dummy, got in that ruff with a small trump, drew trumps and was home with game and rubber."

Alan: "The losing diamond was discarded on the ace of hearts at the end." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
We have a deaf child in our family who was afraid of the dark when he was a baby.

If a light was left on in the room, it kept the other children awake, so I got the bright idea of buying an aquarium that had a light. I put it where he could easily see it.

The light was small, yet gave him security, and he could enjoy seeing the fish swim around.

Our little boy was quite content with it, and we've used it for many years.

Thought this might help others with the same problem. — Grandma

And a thoughtful grandma you are! Since some of us can't put ourselves in the place of a handicapped child, we feel frustrated and helpless. Those, like you, who have learned to help are a source of inspiration to everyone.

Keep sharing your ideas and thoughts with us — we need you! — Hugs, Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:
Just-cut Christmas trees sell at a high price today, but you can save many dollars if you use my idea:

Buy a tree that looks as if it should be thrown away — uneven in shape, branches missing, but healthy and not dried out. Now here is what you will need to make your tree as beautiful as the one that decorates the White House: a quarter-inch drill and several drill bits — if you don't own a drill, borrow one — plus a handful of discarded branches that can be picked up for free at the tree lot.

Pick the bare spots out on your tree and, at different angles, drill a hole about halfway through the tree trunk.

Now take a branch, whittle down the end, and force-fit it into the drilled hole. Do this in each place where your tree needs filling out.

I guarantee your efforts will be well rewarded. — Earl D. Moore

Thanks for cluing us in, Earl, there's nothing in this world we like better than a nifty-thirty idea — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Most recipe cards are index cards, and most households have some sort of magnets to hold all sorts of things to the family refrigerator.

When I cook or bake from recipe cards, I attach them by magnet to the outside of the hooded vent over my stove.

Placed there, the card is out of the counter mess and at eye-level.

Since most mixing and measuring is done around the stove, this is very convenient. — Mrs. L. Winger

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know that to a mommy of a one-year-old, dry cat food being poured all over the floor sounds just like a play necklace being shaken in a play coffee pot? — Tina Ramsey

No, but I bet you do now, right? — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
When making a pecan pie recently, there was not enough syrup, so I substituted honey to finish filling the cup.

KNOW YOUR PEARS

Anjou, Bosc and Cornice. The Anjou is in season the longest, until May. It is oval-shaped, has a short stem and is buttery and sweet when ripe. The Bosc pear is distinguished by its symmetrical body and long tapering neck. It has a rich aromatic flavor and is especially good for baking. Cornice pears, considered the gourmet pear, are excellent for out-of-hand eating and are famous as a holiday gift pear.

Li'l Mam'selle Young Fashions Staging Three-Day Sale Event

Imagine... Holiday Magic never more in evidence than now, at Li'l Mam'selle Young Fashions, 2147-A 50th St., and with a sale to enable money-saving purchase of these fresh, new fashions for holiday enjoyment!

It is the Pre-Holiday Sale, a three-day event beginning today, Monday, at Li'l Mam'selle!

All suede cloth and velour blazers, pants and skirts are marked at a whopping 30 per cent off today, Tuesday and Wednesday, with a good selection available in junior sizes 1 through 11.

Some velour dresses also are reduced in price.

Check for other values throughout the exciting stock, much suitable for all occasions and especially for holiday gaiety.

Select from the so-fashionable terry tops and velour tops, with slacks in popular colors including the earth tones, pastels and winter white.

There are holiday after-5 long and short dresses and pants in satins, chifons, etc.

And skirts galore, with a rainbow of colors represented. There most likely will be coordinating pants and skirts of your particular choice.

For Enjoyment, Gifting

For the dressy or tailored look, whatever the need for the season wear or for gifting, Li'l Mam'selle makes it all so easy with its extensive stock and the specials.

We'd love to have you come in and browse; we know you'll love what you discover.

Free gift wrapping is featured (on all except sale merchandise, of course), and Li'l Mam'selle welcomes layaway, Visa and Master Charge purchases, and provides a gift certificate service.

One may select from fashions stocked in girls sizes 7 through 14 and petite and junior sizes 1 through 11, remember.

Well-known lines are featured in the elite stock, and such assurance can be of unquestioned value especially at celebration and gift-giving time.

Even with all the magic holiday wearables, it is emphasized that Li'l Mam'selle doesn't minimize the all-season needs of the career girl, with dressy and tailored pantsuits, dresses and skirts, as example, that can enhance any business woman's appearance.

HOLIDAY VALUES UNVEILED — "Right" fashions are assured at Li'l Mam'selle as correctly hinted here by models. Christi Decker, 8 years old, wears a burgundy velvet pant suit trimmed in lace and bearing the Jeff Richards label, while Kieta Haberer, receptionist at a Lubbock radio station, models a dusty rose formal by Barbara

"Come in during the three-day sale, by all means, and let's be sure we're ready for Christmas and the holiday activities," let Opal Jones, Ola Hamilton, Monta Beasley and the entire staff assist in the right wardrobe items for you, our cherished customer, at a price to thrill you!"

Turkeys, Other Prater Items Seen Ideal For Holiday Needs

"Chances are that you or a close friend enjoyed a Prater's fine turkey on Thanksgiving! Then surely you are looking forward to another as the highlight of Christmas holiday meals!"

"If you have not formed the Prater's habit, then a delightful new experience is in store for you.

Important Dates
The following deadlines are of importance in assuring one or more of these birds for you, however:

Reserve orders are encouraged and should be picked up Dec. 17 through Dec. 22.

If the bird is needed before the 17th, there is no need to call for reserve order.

Those remaining after the 22nd will be placed in open stock.

In Supermarkets, Too

You may buy the Prater products at Prater's (just drive about two miles south of Loop 289 on University Avenue and look for the Prater's sign on the Left) or you can find the special Prater's Label right in your favorite supermarket.

At the Prater plant, clean throughout, there is noticeable attractive decor and ease in shopping.

Check the several products for which Prater's is famous, products that are available for the holidays and for value and goodness at any time.

A delicious smoked turkey roll is one of the members of the Prater's product family. These are breasts that are put in rolls and smoked, and not only are most delicious, but have been appreciated by weight watchers.

Old-fashioned cornbread dressing is available in the customary four-pound size and in two-pound lots. Surely everybody who buys a turkey will want this dressing!

Boneless Hams

The boneless hams are prepared at the Lubbock facility and are completely cooked, ready to eat and have the same sugar-cured goodness of the other hams for which Prater's is so favorably known. The boneless hams are available in 4 to 8 lb. sizes.

Or maybe the choice is brown-and-serve baked turkey. Fresh, fattened birds, smoked turkeys, or those long-cured country hams, smoked or spiced.

Bacon, Sausage

Hickory-smoked Canadian bacon, country-cured bacon, smoked sausage, and smoked turkey breasts.

For the small family, Prater's comes through with smoked chickens at a 3 1/2-lb. average size.

It's all at Prater's.

A spacious display room with self-service refrigerated cases makes viewing and selecting especially convenient at Prater's.

For assurance of a Christmas meal unmatched in tasty goodness, depend on Prater's products (that also are great for gifting!).

Store hours are 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. The phone number is 745-2727.

Brown-and-Serve

The brown-and-serve baked turkeys are marinated by Prater's then completely cooked, ready to eat. They are cooked in foil to retain all the delicious juices, then placed in plastic bags and vacuum packed. The average turkey requires only 1 1/2 hours oven time to be ready for the table. (It is advised to remove the foil from the breast and legs during the last 15 minutes of preparation to bring the bird to a golden brown.)

Fresh, fattened birds, as readied by Prater's deft comparison. The firm's successful goal has been to produce fresh birds for the people in this area at holiday times when they want them most.

Prater's turkeys have a better finish, are fatter and juicier than turkeys that have been quick-frozen and which may have remained frozen for weeks or even months.

Prater's Turkeys began business in 1952 with only 500 turkeys, working up to 30,000 at one time.

Now the word is generally known — breaded, baby beef type fresh turkeys from Prater's just cook and taste better than quick-frozen birds that have been shipped long distances.

For Fast Preparation

Prater's smoked items are ready to heat and serve, having been smoked slowly over hickory embers until the meat is moist with just the correct touch of hickory flavor.

Great For Gifting

Business concerns and individuals alike have found that Prater's smoked turkeys, hams and Canadian bacon make ideal gift items at Christmas and for other special occasions.

And it is time to think about Christmas remembrances, isn't it? Prater's can help.

Mail Anywhere

For example, aside from the goodness of the products, Prater's provides all smoked items already individually gift boxed in an attractive white carton ready for mailing. These can be picked up for the customer to mail, or Prater's can handle it all, for one or a hundred, mailed anywhere. These should be ordered by Dec. 6 to assure Christmas delivery.

MAKING CHRISTMAS SELECTION EASY — Kay Callaway, owner and operator of the Town & Country Gift Shop, is shown, against backdrop of some of the truly beautiful gifts assembled there to provide a Christmas type of store all year long.

Town & Country Gift Shop
Always 'Valued Gift Source'

"Looking for a new place to go? Want that 'up town' merchandise but with that old country price?"
Then, why not try Town & Country Gift Shop, at 4th Street and University Avenue. Town & Country Center in Lubbock.
"It is an old country store stocked with gifts galore.
"Something for everyone."
"For mother, daughter, father, son for doctor, lawyer, teacher, fire chief, friends or loved one."
From a small brass apple to a gold unicorn... it's not every place that has a horse with a horn!
This is the word from Kay Callaway, owner and operator of this Christmas type of shop that affords pleasure in selection all year long.
"A World Of Gifts"
Town & Country Gift Shop, with its world of gifts, is open from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. Master Charge and Visa use is welcomed.
The selection is really tremendous at Town & Country Gift Shop, with many of the items handcrafted and with many adaptable to personalizing (which the skilled folks there can do).
Select from a full line of party goods, sorority gifts, cards for all occasions, candles, wall plaques;
Stuffed animals, bar accessories and gifts for men;
Scads of Christmas party favors, handcrafted lamps, a full line of brass ware, even "anniversary" items.
It is a shop in which one can enjoy browsing, selecting and purchasing a veritable "one stop" Christmas store where so many gift situations can be solved.
"Come in, discover just how very much Kay Callaway has assembled in a discriminating stock during her three-year ownership, and discover, too, how friendly and how appreciative the folks are at this store priding in its 'world of gifts.'"
And don't forget the convenient location, with its off-street parking, at Town & Country Center, 4th & University, easy to reach from just anywhere!

Onell's Apparel Pre-Christmas Sale
Begins Today, Continues Two Weeks

The eagerly-awaited Pre-Christmas Sale at Onell's Apparel begins today, continuing through Dec. 15!
Onell's Apparel, 4818 Louisville Ave., phone 799-1642, is headquarters for square and round dance supplies for men, women and children, and the just-beginning sale affords great saving opportunities for each of these groups.
During the sale, 20 per cent off is marked on every item in the vast stock, with exception of those already marked down. No layaways can be made during this sale, of course, at these prices.
A large selection of new dresses from several companies is in stock, featuring holiday dresses from two sources.
One rack of dresses has been marked down to as low as $20!
New-style skirts and blouses have arrived in time for that extra nice Christmas gift, too.
Onell's has added two petticoat lines. There are Barbara's ribbon stripe marquisette, and Marjac of Dallas organdy.
A new supply of petticoat bags and shoe bags is stocked, also.
Shoes
Square and round dance shoes from two companies are on hand, featuring black, white, gold, silver and several other colors. Choose a color and style from the low-heel 1/2-in. to the new Mandy high heel 2 1/4-in. These shoes are very comfortable and suitable for about any occasion.
Feet hurt? Why not try "Happy Feet," a water and foam innercushion for those feet that need a little extra comfort.
The Happy Feet innersoles are designed to give a cushion of water and foam between one's feet and the hard surfaces on which we stand and walk. They also provide a flexible and controlled arch support. The heavy-duty, ultrasonically sealed polyvinyl is guaran-

Business & Industrial Review

SERVES MULTIPLE NEEDS — Farmer's Depot, at North University — FM 1294 intersection, takes pride in having those needed, practical though often hard-to-find items — from Old Time knives to staple groceries, stoneware or Christmas nuts!

Farmer's Depot General Store Status Proven By Fantastic Product Variety

"Peanuts by pound or handful, gorgeous fir Christmas trees, gopher traps, horse tack or groceries... where else but in a complete old-fashioned General Store... and where else but Farmer's Depot!"

Yes, quite a service is rendered a wide South Plains area by Farmer's Depot, North University at FM 1294, phone 746-5510, Lubbock, a customer-considering establishment providing feed, hardware, groceries, fuel, and more!

Not only is there a tremendous service afforded, but a visit there can be a most enjoyable experience, trading with home folks who know and understand area needs and preferences.

Farmer's Depot was opened in late 1978, designed, built and owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Boepple (Darrell, here since 1964, was former manager of Mayflower in Lubbock).

Christmas Merchandise

Of immediate interest, to rural and town folks alike, are seasonal needs stocked at Farmer's Depot, such as Christmas lights by sets and individual bulbs, tree stands, beautiful holiday wrapping paper by the yard, Christmas balls and other decorations.

Trees

And a big selection of premium select Douglas firs and Plantation Douglas firs for the most beautiful Christmas tree ever. Select in multiple sizes, 4 ft. to 9 ft., at modest price range of $12.95 to $25.95.

Store hours are 7:30 a.m. until 7 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

Here are listed some of the products found in the big Farmer's Depot, hinting of the really comprehensive stock.

Lots of hardware, nails, turnbuckles, loose grains by the pound for chicken feed, rabbit feed, bird seed, free literature on Purina feeds, with the Purina line stocked.

Mouse traps, bear traps, the new wind-up mouse trap, nest eggs, mailboxes, yard tools.

Livestock medication supplies: cattle blocks, fence charging equipment including pullers, chargers, wires, insulators and all, hog rings, nuts and bolts.

Groceries, Wearables

A full-line grocery stock, canning supplies, hand tools, work gloves, some jackets and coats.

And livestock feeds (with prices prominently posted); hay, thousands of baby chicks in season; feeders, cattle tanks, electrical tape or windshield deicer.

Keys are made, and a bulletin board is maintained for customer convenience.

Farmer's Depot even rents stalls in the Spring to afford a real farmers' market.

Small wonder Darrell Boepple's Farmer's Depot has experienced such enthusiastic reception and growing trade, he has provided a General Store that invites reliance in every season, by farm, ranch and urban residents alike.

Don Crow Invites Test Drive

"We at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., Slide Road at South Loop 289, know that we can be of special service to you as a motorist, and we have geared each department to provision of the best service available. Week after week we on these pages direct an informative message outlining in brief some department, service or product."

To truly comprehend Don Crow Chevrolet's concept and operation and just how completely it is customer oriented, however, one should in person come to the big facility where a friendly welcome always is the rule.

And what better time is there to come out than now during Chevy's National Economy Drive when the invitation is extended to come in for a test drive of one of the sensational '80 Chevrolets from Don Crow's huge inventory?

When one recognizes the Chevrolet economy, the Don Crow willingness to trade, and the scores of other Chevy attributes, then happy faces will be worn by all! Right?

Wouldn't a new Chevrolet from Don Crow be the Christmas consideration your family, wife, son or daughter deserves? Or isn't a new vehicle the need... right now... in time for holiday travel?

In either event, it could all start with a no-obligation test drive at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., during Chevy's National Economy Drive underway.

"May we have the pleasure and honor of that visit at your earliest opportunity?"

"We want to again prove that one can depend upon Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., a firm established and operated for the utmost in customer satisfaction. There isn't a staffmember here who detracts from this well-guarded image, and you, the customer who writes our paychecks, can be assured of the consequent benefits."

Business & Industrial Review

ON THE JOB FOR SECURITY... ECONOMICALLY — Larry Bucks, patrolman for Security Protection Systems, is shown on a cycle now utilized in the firm's fleet, with Lt. Richard Bertrand driving one of the auto units. Cycle use is being tried as a method of saving in fuel expenses, contributing to fees that easily can be lived with.

Security Protection Systems Continually Expands, Upgrades

Security Protection Systems, not content to rest on its laurels, continues to make news for the customer's protection, service, convenience, and more.

Three new situations should be pinpointed in brief:

(1) Security Protection Systems, 4606 34th St., in Lubbock, is in process of constructing and equipping an all-new central station at the same address.

(2) Amarillo facilities now are provided, with operations in full swing there.

(3) A motorcycle and side car now is included in the firm's Lubbock fleet, combating increased operation costs to save in dollars and cents for the customer.

Wide Service Range

In brief, Security Protection Systems is in the business of radio dispatched patrol guards for residential and commercial accounts; burglar, hold-up and fire alarm systems; private investigations (domestic, criminal, civil); and polygraph services.

"From modest beginnings in late '75, in the business then of alarms for the residential market, the firm now can boast of over 550 alarms, over 400 patrol accounts, 85 per cent of all guard business in the area, over 200 full-time employees, and greatly expanded services and areas of operation to fully qualify as 'the Total Security Company'."

Daniel B. Gallagher, founder and president of the company, still heads this locally owned and locally operated corporation. Soon after its founding, the firm actually outgrew its quarters, and it now operates from spacious company-owned facilities at the 4606 34th St. address where its central station is maintained with 24-hour service, seven days a week.

More about the new central station, designed for full UL approval.

The central unit has its own back-up power to assure 24-hour-a-day operation regardless of conditions.

Recognizing that the security of this central station is the heart of the alarm company, maximum security measures have been taken, including closed circuit TV monitoring outside premises and entryways, a "man trap" with two steel doors as entry to the station's central unit, direct lines to police and fire departments, all incoming cable buried underground, even all doors remotely controlled by the operator.

"Upon completion of this enlarged unit, scheduled late this month, the firm can lay just claim to offering any alarm system and related service."

Regional Patrol

The firm offers a patrol service in Hereford, providing guard service in Deaf Smith County, the Friona area, Plainview, and of course in Lubbock (claiming 85 per cent of all guard business in the Lubbock area).

The director of the corporation's polygraph and private investigation service is a former chief deputy sheriff of Deaf Smith County. He is a licensed polygrapher.

Security Protection Systems serves homes and businesses on about a 50-50 ratio in installation of alarms, putting the emphasis on alarm purchase rather than leasing, as a customer savings. A modest monitoring service fee is naturally necessary.

Widely Used

Security Protection Systems responds to alarms with its own patrol cars when disaster occurs and police cannot respond quickly (in event of power failures, as example), and the SPS patrol cars respond also when the firm has an alarm system and patrol service for a residence or business.

The company's patrol service is utilized by about 100 commercial accounts, seven nights a week.

Neighborhood service now is provided in some areas on day and night basis.

The private investigations phase of the company's comprehensive services even includes undercover investigations.

Both armed and unarmed guards are provided, even for special events such as parties, with guard service available on one-time or continuing basis.

"May we count you among our growing family of customers? Full details are available at our central station and offices, 4606 34th St., phone 792-7208."

Electric Overhead Door Operators Seen As 'Thoughtful' Christmas Gift

"What gift could be more thoughtful and appreciated for seasons to come than electric operators for the garage doors?"

"For wife, husband, parents and others, this installation could well be the most considerate of Christmas remembrances."

Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop), phone 797-4141, long has served Lubbock and area needs in automatic overhead door units, and this Christmas season is no exception.

In fact, installation is possible before Christmas if arrangements are made at early date.

Or, if total surprise is desired, installation can be made later, with one gift wrapping the small control to place under the tree! Good idea!

There are several models from which to choose at Overhead Door Co., the pros in the field. Service and satisfaction is traditional there.

"Did the first biting breath of winter find your family and yourself enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for the garage?"

"Will this winter and future seasons find your family and yourself enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for your garage?"

"There is no need for you to walk on slick driveways to open or shut the garage door, just as there is no need to drive into a darkened garage at night. After all, you can enjoy the convenience and security of an automatic installation from Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop), phone 797-4141."

Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

openers, but also has been named as new distributor for General Aluminum Windows.

Serving with finest products and desire to please, traditional with the firm for its full quarter century of service, the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is observing its 25th Anniversary and is geared in every operation to render maximum customer service.

"Give your home distinction and new convenience at low cost. Give your family the Overhead Door electric operator from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock."

"Take your pick of the several opener models afforded, including the fine Touch 'n Go system, for your particular need and preference, each represents a real value."

Whether selection is from an opener system, a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, or the General Aluminum Windows, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales.

Business & Industrial Review

Rainbo Fruit Cakes Suggested Ideal Gift 'In Best Of Taste'

"Surely a Rainbo fruit cake is in your planning for Christmas for the family table or as a gift!"

"The wise word is to check now in your favorite store for the great Rainbo fruit cakes, or if you prefer, call Rainbo in Lubbock at 747-3244, and ask for Chester Harris, the service-oriented marketing manager who will personally see that your order, for one cake or a hundred, is filled to complete satisfaction. After all, it is time to prepare for the Christmas holiday needs. Right?"

Rainbo is glad to ship gift fruit cakes, of course. In fact, one gift list sent to Rainbo and one's problems are solved! But again, time must be considered, and it is suggested that orders for mailing be placed immediately to assure delivery at proper time.

Rainbo takes justifiable pride in its fruit cakes, just as it does in its many other tasty products. It will not take second place to anyone in promotion of good eating and good times for its West Texas friends, at Christmas or any time!

After all, Rainbo Baking Company spreads its "goodness" throughout the complete line of bakery products.

Traditionally Good
"On a special frosty morning long ago, perhaps you were awakened by a sweet aroma and soft sounds from your grandmother's kitchen. The sweet smell of fancy fruits... the crack of pecans you picked yesterday... the closing of the oven door... and suddenly, you realized grandmother was baking her special holiday fruit cake!"

You knew she had carefully selected fancy pecan meats, juicy cherries, plump golden raisins, and tender, sweet pineapple. Then she blended these with bubbling hot butter, fresh farm eggs and extra egg yolks. The richness of this cake became your favorite holiday treat!"

In the same tradition, Rainbo Bakers began early in their kitchens selecting only the finest ingredients for their fruit cakes. Blending and baking a perfection that is Rainbo Supreme Fruit Cake.

"The richness of this cake will become your favorite holiday treat!"

Grandmother's recipe may have looked like this:
1 1/2 lb. fancy pecan meats, 1/2 lb.

red glace cherries, 1/2 lb. tender, sweet pineapple, 1/2 lb. California golden raisins, 1/4 lb. pure butter (92 score); two whole eggs plus extra yolks; and 4 oz. flour, just enough to hold it together.

Today, the suggestion is Rainbo Supreme Fruit Cake... when your gift is a matter of taste, of course.

"When you select one of our delicious fruit cakes, there's never a worry about sizes, colors or whether or not they already have one. This is the distinctive gift everyone likes to give, and loves to receive."

"Quality you can taste... our exclusive recipe... calls for the finest fruits and fancy pecans baked in a pure butter batter. You'll be remembered with each delicious slice!"

"Reusable tin... each of our delicious ring cakes is packaged in a beautiful reusable gift tin (each tin is carefully packed in an individual mailer designed to insure safe, sound delivery);"

"And unconditional guarantee. If you have any doubts about the quality of our cakes, we will refund your money or replace your cake... at Rainbo."

Touch Of Class, In Terrace Center, Sure Source Of New, Unique Gifts

For Christmas shopping... it is the Touch of Class, in the Terrace Shopping Center, 4902 34th St., that fills the bill! New and added lines, together with the already-outstanding selection, make for shopping ease and fulfillment.

By way of explanation... note the following:

So many have commented on the "Touch of Class" sign now up on a West 19th Street location in Oak Tree Village, just west of Methodist Hospital. Yes, so enthusiastic has been the response to the Touch of Class, established just over a year ago, that a second and added facility soon will be reality. Even though the sign is in place, opening has been delayed until after Christmas for the second store, owners Gary and Leola Chevalier report, due to carpet still unlaied, and other final preparation.

So... continue to find it all at Touch of Class in Terrace Center!

No doubt about it, Touch of Class since its founding has stocked profusely and selectively, proving not only to be a "special-occasion bonanza" but also a great source of supply for whatever occasion at hand.

Sometimes the name of a business so correctly conveys its type of operation that one cannot conceive of any other name applying. Such a shop is the Touch of Class!

See the new Cornwall solid wood kitchen accessories, such as spice racks, bread boxes and more.

And the cinnamon spice ropes for "the country kitchen" look!

There are large 500-piece puzzles, too, that make great gifts.

Accent Jewelry
"Did you realize that Touch of Class provides the heralded Hallmark Accent Jewelry line?"

"Or that a new line of decorator candles and silk candle rings enables great selection in this category?"

"And that Carolina Soap & Candle room fresheners are stocked?"

Unique Picture Frames
"New style porcelain and brass picture frames are in stock, with designs suitable for men's and children's rooms, too."

All in all, this unique Terrace Shopping Center shop is a "great find" for decor items and quality things wanted for one's own home or office enjoyment, or for gifting, in any season.

Whether the desire is for selection from the complete line of Hallmark cards, stationery, party good, albums, posters, puzzles, etc., the search can happily culminate at Touch of Class.

Names to Appreciate
Quality lines are the rule... such as Fenton glass, Russell Stover candies, Kamar stuffed animals, Hagan-Renaker miniatures, and more.

"For a new experience in pleasant browsing and selecting, we hope to see you soon at Touch of Class in the Terrace Shopping Center, and soon also in the added Oak Tree Village location."

Gift Solutions Receive Young's Attention In All Departments

"Isn't it fun to find just the gift you have been wanting, of the quality you have been seeking, and then discover that the price is surprisingly modest?"

Such a situation exists at Young's Rocks & Gems where the already-large stock has been augmented with arrivals especially adaptable to Christmas gifting.

"It pays to check first at Young's, just north of Lubbock on the West side of I-27, just across from the south boundary of the Lubbock International Airport."

Beauty In Gold
 Special attention is directed to the arrivals of solid gold... there are 14K gold chains, rings and ring mountings for every preference.

And a tremendous bead selection of gemstone beads, with 14K gold beads on the same strands. Select from carnelian beads, tiger eyes, malachite, etc., with gold beads to assure a truly beautiful gift.

Lots of gold findings (pendants, rings, etc.) are stocked as even never before at Young's Rocks & Gems.

Cubic Zirconia
 And cubic zirconia (manmade diamonds) that invite comparison. Young's will set these in 14K gold to provide a really quality piece of jewelry that one can wear with pride.

These manmade diamonds are available in clears and in colors, rounds and fancy cuts, loose stone (with mounting available) and they are priced most reasonably. With a 8.5 hardness factor and with amazing retention of refraction, the cubic zirconia is more than a simulated diamond. It is the new breed of gemstone, dazzling in appearance and unmatched for color, cut and clarity.

Whatever your jewelry preference, however extensive your jewelry collection, a cubic zirconia from Young's Rocks & Gems is worthy of your acquisition; and the cost is amazingly low.

For a rare stone, a masterpiece silver and turquoise creation, gems from throughout the world, diamonds, lapidary equipment, hobby tools, "starter" selections in raw and polished stones and minerals, even for faceting machines the craftsman can appreciate... all is at Young's.

Selection from Young's is great to start a young friend on a hobby that can be enjoyed and pursued for one's pleasure and often even profit throughout a lifetime.

For every age, for everyone whether an avid hobbyist or just appreciating the beautiful, different, and interesting, Young's holds exceptional educational, informative and pleasurable interest, to say nothing of great buys in its several departments.

Young's has earned a reputation throughout the Southwest as a dependable source of supply, whether for the Indian crafts, such as concho belts, bracelets, rings, etc., but also for an unbelievable collection of gem stones, rubies, emeralds, opals, turquoise, silver, lapidary supplies, etc.

Many of their items are actually seldom seen in the entire area — except at Young's.

On display are some items worth hundreds of dollars.

Young's has become well known and accepted not only in the Lubbock and South Plains area but throughout the Southwest where word of its large and discriminating selection has spread.

Possibly best known for its most enviable selection of Indian jewelry (with a turquoise collection that is almost unbelievable), Young's provides a revelation also in gems, lapidary supplies and much more.

Appropriate selections for all occasions for gifting can be found there for the hobbyist or for folks who simply like something unusual, pretty, valuable and in so many instances downright useful!

Lapidary equipment including polishers, saws, etc., are excellent for the child, hobbyist or professional and are available in modestly-priced starter selections or the most elaborate equipment.

For finest hand-made turquoise creations from the best known Indian craftsmen, Young's is the ready supply source.

Furthermore the Youngs know Indian lore and love to talk about the origin and history of the different objects offered, making a trip to Young's a very, very pleasant experience for the novice or professional alike, for children or adults.

The gem and rock selections are grouped for convenient viewing and selection.

Raw and polished stones and minerals are stocked in large quantities, and a "starter" selection from these is most inexpensive.

Drilled turquoise, ready for stringing, is available, together with all accessories for bead stringing.

And African trade beads — get them at Young's.

Fireplaces By Artistic Design Tells Products Great For Gifting, Saving

"Why settle for less than a stove for today's home that burns yesterday's fuel, reliably, comfortably and economically?"

And why settle for less than the assistance and products (including Fisher stoves) of Fireplaces by Artistic Design, Town South, at 3402 73rd St., Lubbock?

One can really relate to Fireplaces by Artistic Design, especially with Christmas and winter at hand. Wouldn't a fireplace or a wood burning stove be a great Christmas gift consideration for the family, for dad and mother, for any loved one?

Fireplaces by Artistic Design actually can have a fireplace or stove completely installed in one's home just four days after initial order! Yes, just four days from order until actual use. This includes installation of the stoves on a non-combustible tile pad, too.

Even if one already has a masonry fireplace, a Fisher insert installation can be installed... in 30 minutes! How simple can the job be made!

More Than Fireplaces Alone
 One may not realize that Fireplaces by Artistic Design actually has so much more than fireplaces or stoves alone. Check further in the unique store for great gift items... fireplace accessories, wall decor items, and more, each contributing to the "total decor concept" that is basis of the firm's operation and stock. Even a "total energy" package is afforded.

Fisher Advantages Told
 It is pointed out that the Fisher stoves have been designated as "official stoves" for the 1980 Olympics. Quite a recommendation and honor, wouldn't you think?

A Fisher stove is available for any room, of any size. Fisher radiates heat throughout the house without ducts, as a result of natural convection. Fisher prides in being a stove "people recommend to their friends."

Display of merchandise at Fireplaces by Artistic Design is another factor making for ease in Christmas shopping and selection. There are several room arrangements, with wall dividers making for ease in viewing and comparison.

(If you are not sure what unit to give as a present, then a Gift Certificate from Fireplaces by Artistic Design is suggested.)

The friendliness and capabilities of the folks at Fireplaces by Artistic Design make you feel immediately at home. From the time that one is greeted upon entry to the attractive store, traditional West Texas friendliness and sincere interest is recognized and appreciated. The coffee pot is always on!

More about the product and service selection... with only a brief outline presented here. One simply must come to this unique and recently established Lubbock store, just off the Loop 289-South Indiana intersection, to discover the scope of products and services.

Custom Construction
 There are fireplaces, and fireplaces, and fireplaces! By such respected names as Majestic, Fisher and Malm. There are modern, contemporary and antique units!

Let Larry Morris and wife, Bonnie, owners of Fireplaces by Artistic Design, personally design a fireplace for your home! They are most adept in planning and custom building, even providing estimates right in the home. Fireplaces by Artistic Design stands behind all its installations.

Storm Windows
 And there are storm windows and doors in the firm's offerings within its total energy package, part of all available including installation.

Select from decor items prominently displayed within the store, including original oils and prints.

Antiques
 Browse and note the gorgeous antiques, including sideboards, breakfronts and others... all out-of-the-ordinary. (Note the lamps that include both copper and brass fire extinguisher utilization.)

Ceiling Fans
 On and on the list of "goodies" could go, including heater grates, scented candles, custom made game tables (to the customer's design), five lines of ceiling fans, with prices from $180 to $500, and still other items!

It is a surprising store!
 Larry Morris marks eight years of experience in the fireplace and decor field in Lubbock, and he is ably assisted by his wife, a lifelong Lubbock resident, in operation of the unique south Lubbock firm opened in August.

"This winter... and seasons to come... can be more fun after selection at Fireplaces by Artistic Design, a most unique establishment!"

Business & Industrial Review

WORKSHOP PROJECTS RECEIVE HAGOOD'S ATTENTION

Hagood's Arts & Crafts Announcing Pre-Christmas Workshop Schedules

"We at Hagood's Arts & Crafts thank you for your generous patronage, and we enjoy serving your craft needs to the best of our ability."

Of immediate interest at Hagood's Arts & Crafts, 8211 Indiana (around the corner at 83rd and Indiana) are the Tole classes and other workshops continuing through Dec. 15, and then resuming the second week in January.

December workshops include:
Dec. 4: Gold leaf, ink and glass stain, 6 p.m. until 9 p.m., instruction free.
Dec. 5: Macrame, 6 p.m. until 9 p.m.
Dec. 5: Christmas wreaths, 6 p.m. until 9 p.m.

(Both the above workshops also feature free instruction.)
Dec. 8: Acrylic Christmas workshop, 10 a.m. Ellen Stanley will be teaching a wooden Christmas mouse cut out on tavern board. Judy Spirehe will be teaching a wooden carolers acrylic, cut out on a note board. Come by and choose the one you would like to do. Instruction fee is $12.50, or $15 if we furnish the acrylics. These projects will brighten anyone's home for the holidays, for sure.

Dec. 15: Instruction on 3-D glazed prints cut-out kits. These are very beautiful and most inexpensive. Workshop time is 10 a.m. until noon, with free instruction.

"Due to the popularity of these workshops, it is advised to call beforehand when possible to assure inclusion in the one of your choice. Also, inquiry is invited regarding the comprehensive January opportunities."

Hagood's Arts & Crafts is buzzing with holiday activity... with exciting new arrivals and a greatly increased stock. The shop has been expanded, rearranged, upgraded and specialized to be of added service to the arts and crafts community.

Stamp Benefits
"We give and redeem Gold Bond stamps," is further word from Hagood's where Visa and Master Charge also are welcomed.

"We invite you to take advantage of the workshops afforded," is the sincere invitation from Billie Hagood, owner of the big store; "we invite you to visit and discover our stock... it could be a revelation! There are doll supplies, beads, candle supplies, Christmas kits, Walter Foster books, tole books and miscellaneous craft books, plaster, macrame, silk flowers, tole and canvas supplies, easels, frames, glass, stretcher strips, balsa wood, Exacto art supplies, prints, fantasy fur, fashion foam, chenille stem felt, and much more."

Frames
The sizable stock of frames is marked at really low competitive prices.
"If there are other supplies you need, tell us and we will try to get them for you. Hagood's Arts & Crafts is just that kind of considerate store!"

Tick Tock Clock Shop Presents Exceptional Clock, Fan Choice

A fine clock... or a quality ceiling fan... from Tick Tock Clock Shop is heartily recommended as a Christmas gift to please!

The selection, the quality and the beauty of merchandise at Tick Tock Clock Shop (in Monterey Center on the 50th Street side) is a matter of record and general knowledge.

However, some of the related benefits may not be fully recognized, and a number are listed here in brief.

More than 600 clocks actually are on display!

Financing is available, as are gift certificates.

Meaningful Warranty
There's a 3-year warranty on all key-word clocks with German movement, and this guarantee at Tick Tock includes all parts and labor.

"And remember, we at Tick Tock Clock Shop fix anything that should malfunction on these, for a full three years. At the end of this period we can service at a nominal charge and then renew the all-inclusive warranty for three more years! What more could be asked?"

There is free delivery and set-up on all grandfather clocks.

Free gift wrap on mantle and wall clocks is afforded, of course.

Lines To Trust
Tick Tock is authorized factory service center for the prestigious Ridgeway, Trend, Pearl, Howard Miller and Seth Thomas lines.

Big Selection Fans
The big store comes through with a truly exceptional selection of ceiling fans, too, together with parts and accessories (blades, switches and all).

Select at super savings from Ritz, Casa Blanca, Emerson, Centennial or Unique. There are 75 models of ceiling fans, in stock, from which to choose.

Tick Tock balances its ceiling fans, and arrangement can be made for installation.

Afghanistan Refugees Flee To Pakistan

PESHAWAR, Pakistan (AP) — Refugees are crossing into Pakistan from Afghanistan at the rate of more than 1,000 a day and by spring as many as a half-million are likely to have flooded into this country, a Pakistani official here says.

The sudden influx of refugees was triggered by a massive offensive launched by Afghan government troops in October against "mujahideen" — Moslem sacred warriors who have been fighting for the past 19 months against the Soviet-backed Afghan regime, now led by President Hafizullah Amin.

Afghanistan, like Pakistan, is a predominantly Moslem country and many Moslems oppose the Marxist taint of their new government.

The official count of Afghan refugees who have taken haven in Pakistan is given as 262,000 but a reliable estimate put the figure closer to 300,000.

Pakistan, itself facing shortages of cooking oil and tea for its own people, is having difficulty providing for them.

The Office of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees has given funds for only 185,000 Afghans, an aid official said. The U.S. government is expected to make a $2-million cash contribution, according to a U.S. official in Islamabad.

Western diplomats said starvation was not likely but conditions, except at a few "model" refugee camps, were generally dismal. Some Afghans have lost their livestock to disease and most will have to endure freezing weather this winter in tents.

"In many places, I have seen people without shelter, living under trees," said a foreign relief official. "But the Pakistani government has made an effort to ease the situation." It gives each refugee four rupees (about 55 cents) a day for food.

At the Khyber Hospital here, 15-year-old Akram Khan, one of the refugees, lay on a bed, staring blankly and too weak to raise his head from the pillow.

Doctors said the shepherd's son is lucky to be alive.

"A lot of Afghan refugees die on the way because it can take weeks to reach Peshawar," said Dr. Nawab Khan, head of the hospital, now crowded with Afghans suffering battle wounds or dysentery and malnutrition like Akram.

Akram was carried three days on his father's back to Pakistan after his family successfully eluded Afghan troops for 50 days in mountain hideouts.

"We refused government orders to kill 'mujahideen'," said Awal Khan, the father.

Some of the refugees admit, even boast, that they are insurgents down from the hills to consult Afghan exile leaders, rest up for the next insurgent offensive or to seek medical care.

Mohammed Ibrahim, 23, an engineering student at Kabul University before the April 1978 coup brought a Marxist regime to power in Afghanistan, said he left his British-made Enfield 303 rifle at an exile group's base at Parachinar, a northwestern Pakistani village near the border.

"I will go back to my home province, Logar," he said in an interview at a refugee camp at Warsak, 19 miles from Peshawar. "We all fight in our own home

MILITARY AID DISCUSSED
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of the Army Clifford Alexander met Saturday with Egyptian Defense Minister Kamal Hassan Ali about increased U.S. military aid, the official Middle East News Agency reported. After the hour-long meeting, Ali said they discussed "increased cooperation between the Egyptian armed forces and the American army in terms of training and arming the troops, based on our agreements."

province because we know the land."

At Khyber Hospital, 35-year-old Nazar Khan, a Pathan tribesman, said he lost his right foot and three fingers while leading a rebel attack in Paktia Province.

"We didn't know there were landmines," the Afghan truck driver, sitting up in a hospital bed, talked spiritedly about the "holy war" against President Amin, who ousted fellow Marxist Nur Mohammed Taraki in September. Pathan tribesmen are devout Moslems.

"Maybe many of us will get killed," Nazar Khan said. "But even if only one of us survives, he will carry on. We will fight to the last man."

Soviet Spy Could Have Operated In America

LONDON (UPI) — The spymaster who controlled one of the most effective Soviet espionage rings in Britain probably operated in the United States, too, The Observer said Sunday.

The London Sunday newspaper identified the spymaster as Ernst Henry, a German communist now living and working in Moscow as an author.

Henry ran a British spy ring that betrayed top secrets to the Soviet Union and is believed to have followed one of his British agents to Washington, The Observer said.

The story was a followup to a series of the newspaper published last month on Soviet espionage that brought Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's disclosure that Sir Anthony Blunt, for years art advisor to Buckingham Palace, had been a Soviet spy. He was stripped of his knighthood after her report to Parliament.

Blunt was one of many spies recruited from the British establishment before World War II who infiltrated the British Foreign Office and the secret service.

After his unmasking last month Blunt said he never knew the name of his spymaster, but The Observer said its research disclosed Henry was the man to whom Blunt betrayed secrets.

"The man is a former member of the Central Committee of the German Communist Party who came to Britain in the mid-1930s," The Observer said. "Now aged 72 or 73, he lives in Moscow under the name of Semyon Nikolayevich Rostovsky, but is better known as Ernst Henry, the author of occasional articles in Izvestia and the Literary Gazette."

The newspaper said the revelations about Henry's London espionage activity were based partly on statements made by Henry himself to Moscow dissident circles in 1956-1959 after his release from prison, apparently bitter at the Stalin regime for jailing him instead of decorating him on his return to Moscow.

Vietnamese Attacks Made To Crush Guerrillas

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Recent Vietnamese attacks on Khmer Rouge guerrillas near the Thai border are part of a large pincer movement designed to crush the guerrillas between two Vietnamese divisions, military sources said Sunday.

The sources described the offensive as the largest of the current dry season and said it could only complicate international efforts to save thousands of starving Cambodian refugees.

As for the Vietnamese pincer, sources said one division in southwest Cambodia is moving north parallel to the frontier, trying to force the guerrillas toward a second Vietnamese division near the Cambodian border town of Pailin.

The sources said small Vietnamese units were engaging Khmer Rouge groups further north, across from the Thai district of Aranyaprathet.

A Vietnamese attack on a Khmer Rouge base camp near the border Friday forced about 3,000 guerrillas to flee into Thailand near the village of Klong Kai Tuen.

Vietnamese troops pursued the fleeing guerrillas, triggering warnings from Thailand to move back into Cambodia or be shot.

A spotter plane equipped with a loud-speaker flew over the area to determine the location of the foreign troops and warn them to leave. "Go back, go back," the recorded message in Vietnamese and Thai boomed over the jungle. "Otherwise we will shell your positions. We will shoot to kill."

Thai troops peppered the border area with 105mm howitzer fire to emphasize the warning, but it was not known if there were any casualties.

The Khmer Rouge who fled to Thailand refused to be moved to a refugee camp, saying they would return to Cambodia to fight the Vietnamese.

Thai troops in the Aranyaprathet area, about 135 miles southeast of Bangkok, were placed on heightened alert following the incursions and patrols searched near the border for foreign troops.

Military sources said the Vietnamese offensive was part of a plan to either destroy the Khmer Rouge or force them into Thailand.

Military and international relief officials have been trying to move hundreds of thousands of refugees camped on the border to relocation centers inside Thailand to protect them from the fighting.

Leaders of the Khmer Seri (Free Khmers), who have about 400,000 followers in two camps straddling the Thai-Cambodian border, have opposed the plan, saying it would weaken their base of support.

Under pressure from the Thai and the United Nations, the anti-communist Khmer Seri leaders — opposed both to Vietnamese-backed Heng Samrin regime in Phnom Penh and to ousted Premier Pol Pot's Khmer Rouge — have agreed to allow those who want to leave to move to refugee camps in Thailand.

But the Khmer Seri camps recently have received large quantities of food and supplies from relief agencies and there has been little movement of refugees to Thailand.

Searchers Find Voice Recorder From Cockpit

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — Searchers Sunday found the voice recorder from the cockpit of the Air New Zealand DC-10 that slammed into the side of Mount Erebus volcano in the Antarctic Wednesday, killing all 257 passengers and crew aboard.

Three air accident investigators took advantage of a break in the snowy weather Sunday to lower themselves from a helicopter onto the treacherous icy slopes.

The voice device, which records cockpit conversations, will be flown to the United States for analysis. Search headquarters said the three men were still looking for the flight data recorder from the tail of the crashed plane.

A vicious snowstorm with 46 mph winds and temperatures of 30 degrees below zero eased enough Sunday for the three air accident investigators to lower themselves from a U.S. Navy helicopter. They found the voice recorder after a six-hour search.

Investigators hope the voice recorder, and the flight data recorder if it is recovered, will provide clues to the cause of the crash. The last words from the pilot were "I am going lower," according to other pilots in the air at the time.

Among the victims on the sightseeing flight were 200 New Zealanders, 24 Japanese, 21 Americans and smaller numbers of Australians, Britons, Canadians, French and Swiss.

U.S. air accident investigator Allan Crawford said in Christchurch, New Zealand, the data recorders would provide valuable information.

"In the past, we have had very good luck with the recorders," said Crawford, whose own flight to the Antarctic was delayed when winds grounded a Starliner aircraft.

An advance party of mountaineers flew to the crash site and set up a helicopter platform and nine tents for New Zealand police who are expected to arrive soon.

Also ready to fly to the crash site were American experts from the Federal Aviation Administration, McDonnell Douglas, makers of the DC-10, and from General Electric, manufacturers of the aircraft's engine.

The work of recovering the bodies is expected to begin shortly.

Your Personal Biorhythms

by Bernard Gittelson

Figure your numbers here — For your own permanent biorhythm number for the Physical (P), Emotional (E), and Intellectual (I) cycles, just follow these steps:

STEP 1.	YEAR OF BIRTH	P	E	I
STEP 2.	A-B MONTH OF BIRTH
STEP 3.	DAY OF BIRTH

YOUR PERMANENT NUMBERS: Phys. 21, Em. 17, Int. 19. Dec. 26, 1921 28 65 57

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 3 — Day of birth. Enter your day of birth three times in the figure chart, once each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings.

NORVAL POLLARD

Harris Keeps On Truckin'

THERE ARE, NO DOUBT, many great running backs in the National Football League today. With the likes of Earl Campbell, Walter Payton, Tony Dorsett and rookie Otis Anderson, it becomes extremely difficult to choose the best. Any of those four, and a fistfull of others, can carry a football team for weeks on the sheer power that their thighs generate.

And trying to argue with someone as to who is better is pretty much time wasted. It's like telling someone that Alpo is better for his dog than Gainsburgers. If the guy is sold on Gainsburgers, forget it. You lose the argument.

Some runners have incredible power. Others are noted for their blazing speed and stop-on-a-dime moves. Some combine two and even all three of the previously mentioned assets. No matter, everyone who follows pro football has their favorite. So lets not argue.

The Pittsburgh Steelers (all you Dallas Cowboys fans boo on three) have a running back who has turned eight short seasons into one of the most outstanding careers in the annals of the professional game. His name — Franco Harris.

HARRIS BROKE INTO THE PRO ranks back in 1972 as many rookies do — collecting splinters on the bench. Harris wasn't well-liked at first. You may recall the Steelers passed up Penn State teammate Lydell Mitchell in the first round of the draft four months prior to the start of the season to take Harris. Mitchell was the star at Penn State. He was the one who gained all the yardage. Harris was his blocking fullback.

At the time, and with plenty of good reason, victory-hungry Steeler fans were furious. They viewed the choice of Harris as just another front-office goof by the Pittsburgh organization. The Steelers were notorious for wasting draft picks and getting rid of good, no, great, players.

A prime example of Pittsburgh's near-sightedness was highlighted in the late 50s and early 60s when they cut quarterbacks Johnny Unitas and Len Dawson and traded Bill Nelsen to Cleveland in favor of such memorable names as Kent Nix, Tommy Wade and Ed Brown. Head coach Chuck Noll didn't even want to take a chance on Harris. He wanted to draft Robert Newhouse in 1972. The front office said take Harris.

PITTSBURGH DID TAKE HARRIS and he sat through the first half of the season until injuries forced him into a starting role. He showed amazing quickness for a big back and rolled up six straight 100-yards-plus rushing performances as the Steelers went on to win six of their last seven games and claim a playoff spot for the first time in 10 seasons.

In the seven years that have followed, Harris has been nothing short of fantastic. He gained 1,065 his first year, but was plagued by injuries in 1973, missed five games and wound up with 688. Since then he has piled up six straight 1,000-yards seasons, which now gives him seven and ties Jim Brown's career record.

Harris' latest 1,000-yard campaign was completed Sunday as the Steelers rolled to a 37-17 win over Cincinnati and their eighth consecutive playoff berth. Harris gained 92 yards against the Bengals to give him 1,027 on the year. Harris now has 8,404 yards in less than eight seasons and that figure moves him ahead of Jim Taylor into the fourth spot on the NFL's all-time rushing list. Harris is still behind Jim Brown, O.J. Simpson and Joe Perry, but is closing the gap fast.

IF HARRIS CAN STAY HEALTHY four more seasons, and he has a history of tremendous durability, he could come close and maybe even surpass Brown's extraordinary and believed-unouchable mark of 12,312 career yards.

I'm not going to try and tell you Franco Harris is the best, but there haven't been, and still aren't, too many any better.

The NFL playoff picture was made a little more transparent following yesterday's action. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia claimed at least wildcard berths with victories. That means eight playoff openings are still up for grabs.

In the AFC East, Philadelphia leads Dallas and Washington by one game in the standings. Dallas could still win the divisional title, but it must defeat the Eagles this Saturday and then turn back Washington. Even if the Cowboys lose to the Eagles, they could claim a wildcard by whipping the Redskins the following week. If the Skins split their final two games, they would still be in the running for the other wildcard berth with Chicago and Tampa Bay.

TAMPA BAY WOULD HAVE captured the AFC Central crown by defeating Chicago Sunday, but the Bears pulled out a 14-0 win. All the Bucs have to do to win against Kansas City or San Francisco and the divisional title is theirs. It's not impossible for the Bears to get in the playoffs via a wildcard berth, but they have to win both remaining games and hope that either Dallas or Washington loses once or twice.

Over in the AFC West, either Los Angeles or New Orleans is going to win a division title and the other team is going to watch the playoffs at home on the tube. That league is pretty easy to figure out. The Rams play easier opponents than do the Saints, so it appears L.A. will be it again.

It would appear Miami has the inside track for the AFC East championship. New England has faltered in recent weeks and looks doubtful as a wildcard contender, although the Pats are not officially out of the race yet.

HOUSTON AND PITTSBURGH WILL battle next Monday night for the AFC Central championship. Pittsburgh is in the playoffs and the Oilers need only one win in their final two games or a loss on the part of Cleveland, Denver or San Diego to wrap up another playoff spot.

Denver and San Diego are tied in the AFC West and meet the final Monday of the season to settle their differences. If both teams win next weekend Denver travels to Seattle and San Diego is at New Orleans then the winner of the Monday night game will capture the divisional crown and the other will almost certainly be a wildcard team.

And who said this new math wasn't fun?

Jackrabbits Size To Test Raiders

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The call was supposed to be a fact-finding one for the reporter. As it turned out, South Dakota State assistant coach Gary Esboldt had plenty of questions of his own.

And that's understandable: Texas Tech and SDS hardly play in the same neck of the woods. And each team's knowledge of the other is — at best — sketchy.

Nonetheless, Tech will host South Dakota tonight at 7:30 in the Municipal Coliseum in the Raiders' second outing of the season.

But if Esboldt could've talked with West Texas coach Ken Edwards, the WT boss probably would've had one crucial piece of advice.

"Don't — do not — try and run a zone defense against the Raiders. The Buffs tried it Saturday night in the Coliseum and watched a host of Tech bombers shoot their zone defense to pieces.

"Well, how did Tech look against West Texas?" asked Esboldt.

Well, coach, they shot pretty well. Pretty well, indeed. The Raiders hit 66 percent of their field goals to tie a school mark as they defeated WT 78-64 in the Raiders' season-opener.

South Dakota was having its own problems Saturday night as the Jackrabbits faced Missouri in Columbia and came out on the short side of an 80-60 score. South Dakota is 0-2 on the year after an opening-season loss to Nebraska.

But the Jackrabbits should give the Raiders another good test tonight. South Dakota will show a large, strong front line as the Rabbits start three big players. At the post is senior Jim Walker and the forwards are Steve Lingenfetter and Bob Winzenburg. All are 6-9.

"All three are capable of rebounding and scoring in double figures," reported Esboldt. "We had some trouble against Missouri because two of our big men fouled out after we'd closed the gap to 12 points.

"But we're a pretty balanced scoring team," he added. "And we played pretty well defensively in the second half."

Handling the guard duties for the Jackrabbits will be Paul McDonald and Clayton McDowell.

The Raiders may see a change in their starting lineup from the group that started Saturday because forward Ben Hill sprained an ankle in that contest.

Tech coach Gerald Myers said Sunday that he's not sure whether Hill will start tonight.

"If he can't," said Myers, "we'll probably see RAIDERS, Page 3

Cowboys Dwarf Giants

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, exploding on offense and defense like their Super Bowl teams of old, Sunday, put themselves squarely in the path of the up-start Philadelphia Eagles.

The Cowboys ripped the New York Giants, 28-7, on Roger Staubach's three touchdown passes to Drew Pearson and pulled into a second-place tie with Washington in the National Conference East, a game behind the Eagles.

The Cowboys meet the Eagles Saturday in Philadelphia.

"The second half was the best we've played all year in every area," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "We got turnovers, good defense and made a great goal line stand, plus having plenty of offense. All these are key things we haven't been doing this year."

Landry said, "The Philadelphia game is it for the season. It has all the makings of a great game...all the chips are on the table there to have...that is it."

Pearson caught three touchdown passes for the first time in his professional career, although he injured himself after the second score throwing the ball into the stands.

Pearson twisted his ankle and knee making the throw, and after the game, Landry said, "I didn't see it. How did he get hurt? Running into the wall?"

Told that Pearson had hurt himself leaping into the air and throwing the ball, Landry quipped, "That will teach him."

Landry added, "Drew was running great routes all day on those guys, and Roger made some tremendous throws."

Dallas snapped a three-game losing streak, longest since 1974, as it captured its 11th consecutive victory over the Giants.

The Giants dropped to 6-8, and the loss ended their wildcard playoff hopes.

The Giants jumped to a 7-0 lead on their first possession, with Billy Taylor dashing two yards for the touchdown. Taylor is a San Antonio native and former Texas Tech star halfback.

But Dallas tied it in the second quarter on the first of the Staubach-to-Pearson scoring passes.

Dallas went ahead to stay in the third quarter on an eight-yard touchdown pass to Pearson, after which he went to the locker room to have his injured ankle X-rayed.

He returned just in time to catch a 44-yard scoring pass from Staubach to make it 21-7 in the third period. This time, Pearson gently dropped the ball instead of his customary flying spike.

The determined Cowboys removed any goal comeback hopes with a magnificent goal line stand early in the fourth quarter. New York drove to the Dallas one, but Taylor was dropped for a yard loss on third down. On fourth down-and-two, Giant rookie quarterback Phil Simms was sacked for a six-yard loss.

Sipe, Browns' Bubbling Defense Outslick Oilers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fullback Mike Pruitt and a defense desperately trying to prove its worth were the catalysts Sunday as the Cleveland Browns kept their playoff hopes alive with a 14-7 National Football League victory over the Houston Oilers.

Pruitt scored both Cleveland touchdowns and became only the fourth Browns player to surpass 1,000 yards rushing in a season as he keyed a ball-control offense.

"This game was on my mind all week long," Pruitt said. "I had trouble thinking about anything else. When I got here today, I felt there was no stopping me."

The four-year veteran from Purdue rushed 25 times for 111 yards, including a one-yard dive for the winning touchdown, and also caught four passes for 67 yards. He joined Jim Brown, Leroy Kelly and Greg Pruitt in the Browns' 1,000-yard club, raising his total for the season to 1,062.

The Browns outgained the Oilers 335-249 in total yardage and ran 71 plays to 58 for Houston. That was a complete turnaround from the previous week when Pruitt was held to 14 yards rushing and the Browns' defense gave up 606 yards in a 33-30 loss to Pittsburgh.

"We've been maligned (on defense), maybe deservedly so," said Cleveland Coach Sam Rutigliano. "Our defense was against the wall and we did it against a great offensive football team."

Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini agreed, noting, "The Browns played a basic 3-4 (defense) and didn't get fancy with it. They took away everything from us offensively, and we never got untracked."

Cleveland came away with no points after being inside Houston's 25 three times. They opened the second half by taking the kickoff and driving from their own 22 to Houston's 3, but cornerback Greg Sterrick intercepted Sipe's pass into the end zone and returned it all the way to Houston's 49.

Houston ran three plays and had to punt, and the Browns held the ball the rest of the third quarter, using up more than 13 minutes in the period.

Houston's last chance came with 3:35 remaining. The Oilers drove from their own 20 to Cleveland's 23 before Campbell fumbled after catching a pass and Cleveland recovered with 32 seconds left. Houston took the opening kickoff and used up nearly seven minutes as it marched from its own 31 to the Cleveland 24. The Browns held on 4th and 2, stopping Campbell for no gain.

The Browns fumbled away the ball in Houston territory on their first possession, but came right back to take a 7-0 lead after Dino Hall ran back a Houston punt 20 yards to the Cleveland 37. Sipe hit Ozzie Newsome for 17 yards on the second play, then combined with Pruitt on a 42-yard scoring pass two plays later.

The gambling Browns tried an on-side kick, but Houston recovered at the Cleveland 45 and moved in for the tying score in five plays. Campbell carried on every play, including a 23-yard burst and an 11-yard touchdown run.

Don Cockroft then sandwiched errant field goal tries of 36 and 41 yards around a 43-yard miss by Houston's Toni Fritsch.

Houston fullback Earl Campbell, the NFL's leading rusher, came up with 108 yards in 22 carries, 79 in the first half.

Sipe completed 13 of 26 passes for 172 yards, while Houston's Dan Pastorini hit 10 of 16 for 133 yards.

NFL ROUNDUP

Eagles Thrash Lions, Gain Playoff Spot

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Eagles became the first team to reach the National Football League playoffs when they waffled Detroit 44-7 behind the passing of quarterback Ron Jaworski and a defense that stopped the Lions cold.

Packers' 35. Three plays later, Theismann connected with Riggins, who bowled over several would-be tacklers to make it into the end zone.

Everybody was picking up each other, hitting, helping out," said Humphrey. "It was just a shame it was Detroit we were playing today. We could have beaten anybody in the National Football League."

"All anybody's talking about is when we're going to clinch it, and I see no way right now," Tampa Bay Coach John McKay said after Chicago scored a 14-0 victory that kept the Buccaneers from clinching the National Conference's Central Division title.

Vermeil said he felt super to be coaching the first team in the league to make the playoffs. "It's a humbling experience," he said. "But I've said all along the players win games and I really believe that...I told the players I'm just thrilled that they took me along."

Walter Payton scored his 60th career touchdown, breaking Ric Casares' Bears record, after Bruce Henton blocked a first-quarter punt, and Mike Phipps passed 13 yards to Dave Williams for a second-period score following Gary Fenwick's interception to keep Chicago's slim playoff hopes alive.

Reedkins 38, Packers 21
Joe Theismann threw a career-high four touchdown passes, including two in the final quarter, as the Washington Redskins overcame the Green Bay Packers 38-21 and kept their hopes alive for a National Football Conference playoff berth.

Richard Todd passed for one touchdown and ran for another, and rookie Dave Jacobs kicked three field goals, leading the New York Jets to a 30-17 triumph over Baltimore, snapping a three-game losing streak.

After the Redskins jumped out to a 7-0 lead in the first period, the Packers stormed back behind quarterback Lynn Dickey, who made his first start in more than two years.

Cardinals 13, 49ers 10
Rookie Otis Anderson skipped six yards to score around right end 2:53 remaining, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals to a 13-10 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

Anderson's run climaxed a 27-carry performance by the 215-pound running back, who got 129 yards on the ground.

Chiefs 37, Seahawks 21
Ted McKnight scored two touchdowns and Jan Stenerud kicked three field goals while the Kansas City Chiefs mounted a 37-7 lead in the fourth quarter and held on to defeat the injury-riddled Seahawks, 37-21.

The Chiefs, 6-8, piled up a 21-0 lead three seconds into the second quarter and led at halftime, 24-0, on short scoring runs by McKnight and Earl Gant, a Stenerud field goal and Steve Fuller's touchdown pass to J.T. Smith.

Rams 27, Vikings 21
Nolan Cromwell, in position to hold for a field goal, faked the Minnesota Vikings instead and ran 5 yards for a touchdown to give the Los Angeles Rams a 27-21 overtime victory.

The Rams' winning drive started when Eddie Brown intercepted a Tommy Kramer pass at the Los Angeles 15-yard line and returned it 25 yards.

Steelers 37, Bengals 17
Terry Bradshaw became the first Pittsburgh quarterback to pass for 3,000 yards in a season and Lynn Swann made a pair of touchdown receptions as the Steelers beat the Cincinnati Bengals 37-17 to take sole possession of first place in the Central Division of the American Football Conference.

Falcons 28, Chargers 26
Quarterback Steve Bartkowski fired a 6-yard touchdown pass to Wallace Francis with 21 seconds remaining, giving the Atlanta Falcons a shocking 28-26 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The Falcons moved 51 yards in nine plays in the waning moments to break a three-game losing streak with the upset victory Atlanta is 5-9 overall.

Sky-High Burrell, Mats Warn McKinney

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Heading into the Estacado locker room following the Matadors' 21-7 victory over San Angelo Lake View Friday night, a frostbitten Mat fan was heard to give a little piece of advice.
"You'd better be careful in there," was the warning. "Those guys are liable to be walking on the ceiling."
And darned if he wasn't right.
Those Estacado Matadors were sky-high in San Angelo Friday night — and they had good reason to be. Held in check for more than three quarters, the Mats exploded as they have done so often this year and emerged with a tough 21-7 victory.

And post-game interviews weren't much of a success. Mostly, the responses amounted to chants of "We're No. 1," chants from everyone in the locker room. And middle linebacker Stacy Burrell, who had a big game for the Mats, issued a warning to the McKinney Tigers.
"You writing a letter?" asked Burrell, of this reporter. "Well, you send one to McKinney," he said. "You tell 'em we're gonna take 'em."
The way the Matadors are playing now, Burrell just may be right.
But until the Mats two fourth-period touchdowns, the Chief defense had held them almost completely in check. With the score tied 7-7 and just over seven minutes remaining, most observers in the press box were tallying up penetrations and first downs.

At that point the teams were even in penetrations and Lake View held a 7-4 edge in first downs.
But then lightning struck.
Kelvin White turned the corner and went 53 yards for a touchdown and the Matadors were up the Class AAA semifinals for the second straight year. Moments later, Estacado got an insurance tally when Warren Lyons snagged a 31-yard pass that put the Mats in business at the Lake View three. Again White carried it over for the clinching score.
"But, our kids feel like they can win. So, we're not counting ourselves out of it yet."
Breckenridge advanced to the quarterfinals with a 21-19 victory over Whyte — one of four defending state finalist teams eliminated from the playoffs last weekend. In Class AAAA, Temple turned back Plano, 19-16, to eliminate another 1978 finalist. Beaumont Hebert downed defending state champion Brownwood, 15-11, in Class AAA, and High Island upended defending Class B state champ Union Hill, 35-6.

China Spring was the only defending state champion to win last week, turning back San Saba, 7-0, in Class A. China Spring plays Pilot Point, a 20-14 victor over Wolfe City, in the quarterfinals.
Joining Temple in the Class AAAA quarterfinals are El Paso Coronado, Lewisville, Euless Trinity, Houston Memorial, Baytown Lee, Alice and San Antonio Wheatley.
In Class AAA, Lubbock Estacado defeated San Angelo Lakeview, 21-7, and McKinney downed Mount Pleasant, 26-14, to set up the other semifinal game. It will be played at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in Abilene.

In other Class AA quarterfinals, Childress beat Muleshoe, 20-0; Fabens beat Stamford, 48-14; Waller beat Port Arthur Austin, 33-24; McGregor beat Marble Falls, 12-7; Edna beat Medina Valley, 47-15; and Port Isabel beat Hallsville, 10-0.
New Deal, Seagraves, Troup, Lovelady, Hull-Daisetta and Falls City joined China Spring and Pilot Point as Class A Regional winners.
New Deal defeated Stratford, 47-16; Seagraves defeated Haskell, 21-0; Troup defeated Hawkins, 21-14; Lovelady defeated Waskom, 28-22; Hull-Daisetta defeated Bartlett, 8-7; and Falls City defeated Comfort, 14-0.

Van 'Vandal-izes' Class AA Prep Playoffs

By The United Press International
Coach Mel Fowler isn't so sure he's ready to classify his Van Vandals as a "David" yet, but he quickly admits his Class AA quarterfinalists have slain their share of Texas high school football giants already this year.
Last week Van nosed past highly-rated Pittsburg, 7-6, to set up a quarterfinal showdown with top-ranked Breckenridge. Earlier in the year the Vandals eliminated Whitehouse in a District 13-AA showdown and took over Whitehouse's berth in the state's ratings.
"We're proud of our 1-point win — just like it was 100 points," Fowler said Sunday. "We feel like we're due a few of them. It's great to be where we can look back over 12 victories."

Fowler said both teams played hard in the regional meeting, and quickly points to four turnovers made by Pittsburg to help the Van win.
"We felt like our kids would play well — we just weren't sure we would win," he said. "In playoff games, you just never can be sure what will happen. It could have been us with the costly turnovers."
"We felt from the start of the season we would have a good year," he said.
"But, to say we would be undefeated going into the quarterfinals is just had to predict. Neither the coaches nor the players are really surprised to be where we are, but we also knew it would be hard to just win the district. We've got to be pleased with the overall performance."

The Van-Breckenridge meeting is set for 8 p.m. Friday in North Texas Fouts Field at Denton. For Fowler, it's just another game.
"It looks like we just keep working ourselves into a deeper hole each week," Fowler said of this week's matchup. "We know Breckenridge is a fine team. And, it'll be another physical game."
"But, our kids feel like they can win. So, we're not counting ourselves out of it yet."

Aggies Knit Cotton For Houston

By The Associated Press
The Texas Aggies handed the Houston Cougars the Cotton Bowl Saturday and gave travel agents from Texas to Alabama heartburn.
Such University of Texas New Orleans Sugar Bowl packages as the one offered in the Austin-American Statesmen and the Dallas Morning News, went down the tube when the Aggies shocked the Longhorns 13-7 while the Cougars ripped Rice 63-0 with the Houston band playing the Aggie War Hymn in the background.
The Robertson Travel Post, Inc. of Mountain Brook, Ala., which took out the advertisements, learned something that Southwest Conference fans have long known: don't make reservations until everything is settled on the field.

Now, it's Houston in the Cotton Bowl for the third time in four years, Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl against No. 1 Alabama, and Texas in the Sun Bowl against Washington Dec. 23.
"It's beautiful, like a dream come true," said Houston running back John Newhouse, who scored three touchdowns against Rice. "I wish we could have gotten to the Cotton Bowl alone, but we'll take it this way."
Newhouse spent most of the second half listening to the Aggie-Texas game on the radio as Houston routed Rice on the field.

"I really didn't know if we could make it back again," said Newhouse. "We heard all that stuff about Arkansas and Texas and felt like the bowl people were being dishonest with us."
Houston linebacker David Hodge said, "For one day we were Aggie fans. And the Aggies came through for us."

By the fourth quarter, Houston Coach Bill Yeoman had attached a cotton ball to his lapel while Cougar cheerleaders milled about, giving "Gig'em" gestures.
In the locker, Yeoman asked his team, "Do we vote on this?"
"Hell no," the players replied.
"We accept with more pleasure than you will ever know," Yeoman answered.
Yeoman said later "It's very gratifying for the kids to go back to the Cotton Bowl but the important thing really was a share of the conference championship."

Arkansas and Houston shared the co-championship. Texas finished third, Baylor fourth, Texas A&M fifth, SMU sixth, Texas Tech seventh, TCU eighth and Rice last.
Houston meets Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl while Arkansas seemed to be most happy playing Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.
"This whole state is pretty excited," said Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz. "It's always exciting to play the No. 1 team in the nation. Of course, you can't be too intelligent if you're actually happy about playing Alabama since they're so good."

ably start Leslie Nichols in his place and plan on playing Thad (Sanders) quite a bit.
Hill played 32 minutes in the Raiders' opener and scored four points. Sophomores David Little and Jeff Taylor keyed the Tech victory over WT as each poured in 23 points.
Myers expects an altogether different type of opponent and game tonight.
"They're a big team," Myers said of the Jackrabbits, "and they're more physical and a stronger rebounding team than West Texas was."
"I think they'll run a man-for-man defense rather than a zone," he added.
"They've played two good teams — Missouri is favored to win the Big Eight, so you know they're pretty tough."
But Myers admitted that Saturday's opening win gave his club a boost.
"It sure puts you in a better frame of mind," he said. "We'd been looking forward to that game for a long time. I just hope we can level off and keep a good even momentum."
The Raiders will start Ralph Brewster at the post, Little and either Hill or Nichols at the forwards, and Taylor and Kent Williams at guard.
And even the Raider starting lineup comes as news to the Jackrabbits.
"I don't know much about Tech," admitted Esboldt. "But I understand that they really have a fine club."

"We're going to try and use the fast break but if it isn't there we're a pretty disciplined club," he added. "We'll try and run our pattern offense."
Does that sound familiar?
Esboldt couldn't have summed up the Red Raiders any better. The Jackrabbits may practice in the cold temperatures of Brookings, S.D., but their workouts sound a lot like those at Texas Tech.
RED RAIDER NOTES: If opposing teams are looking for someone to foul in the closing seconds against Tech, they're going to have a hard time picking a man to choose. The Raider managers, Ron Vick and Tim Chambers, compiled the results of every free throw the players took during the month of November and the results were amazingly even.
Only one player on the squad finished below 800 percent in the 256 attempts compiled by the managers. Freshman Nelson Franse finished first with a startling 914 accuracy count. Franse connected on 234 of 256 free throws. Right behind him came David Little and Steve Smith. They tied at second with an 859 percentage (220 of 256).
Big Leslie Nichols was third on the team with an 852 mark (220 of 256) and Thad Sanders was behind him at 848. Kent Williams who led the Raiders in free throw shooting during the regular season finished well back in the pack at 816.

Transfer Dwight Williams was the only one under 800 — but just barely. He finished at 793.
The Raiders sported new uniforms in Saturday's contest with West Texas. The new uniforms had each player's name printed on the back.

SWC ROUNDUP

A&M Aggies Take Fall

By The Associated Press While the Texas Aggie football team was providing the upset of the year in the Southwest Conference, the ice cold No. 14-ranked A&M basketball team was taking a double drubbing in the land of the midnight sun.

First it was Iona College of New York flogging the preseason SWC favorite 78-62. The next night Lamar University, which upset Detroit last year in the first round of the NCAA playoffs, nipped the Aggies 61-60.

A&M was playing without All-SWC forward Vernon Smith, who was penalized two games by the NCAA for playing in a non-approved summer league in the Dallas area.

Despite the hard times befalling the Aggies, the SWC posted an 8-3 record against non-conference foes over the weekend.

Texas, Arkansas, Houston, SMU, TCU, and Texas Tech emerged unbeaten from weekend play.

Texas, featuring rookies Fred Carson, George Turner and LaSalle Thompson, downed Northwestern Louisiana 83-76 Friday night as Houston nudged Arizona 74-72.

Arkansas downed Loyola of California 76-66. SMU bounced Tulane 78-68. TCU outlasted Texas-Arlington 103-98 and Texas Tech tripped West Texas 78-64 in SWC winning games Saturday night. Rice also won its first game, blasting Angelo State 84-60.

SMU found a star in freshman Dave Piehler, a blond long-range bomber from Kansas, who hit six long range field goals for 12 points over a Tulane zone.

"We did a good job on Brad Branson but that Piehler came in and killed us," said Tulane Coach Roy Danforth. "We actually wanted him to take the outside shot. But we didn't know he had that kind of range."

It's a busy, busy week for SWC teams this week with the Aggies continuing play in the Alaskan Tournament.

On Monday, Rice hosts UTA. Arkansas entertains Centenary. Arizona State is at Houston. Baylor is at Texas-El Paso. Texas Lutheran is at SMU. South Dakota is at Texas Tech.

Texas travels to the Boston Garden Tuesday to play Harvard.

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE MONDAY: Texas-Arlington at Rice. Centenary at Arkansas. Arizona State at Houston. Baylor at Texas-El Paso. Texas Lutheran at SMU. South Dakota at Texas Tech. TUESDAY: Texas at Harvard. WEEDNESDAY: Missouri-St. Louis at Arkansas. New Mexico State at Baylor. Texas A&M at Houston. Kansas at SMU. North Texas at Texas Tech. THURSDAY: Rice at Stanford. Texas Lutheran at Texas A&M. FRIDAY: Vermont at Texas. SATURDAY: Arkansas at Centenary. Baylor at Kentucky. Rice at University of Pacific. Colorado at SMU. Vermont at Texas A&M. TCU at North Texas. Texas Tech at Colorado State.

Smith Returns, Leads Aggies

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Vernon Smith, playing in his first game of the season, pumped in 28 points Sunday to spark 14th-ranked Texas A&M to an 82-66 victory over Pacific for seventh place in the Great Alaska Shootout basketball tournament.

No. 2-ranked Kentucky played Iona for the tournament championship Sunday night. In other games, Lamar faced Bradley for fourth place and Long Beach State went against the University of Alaska-Anchorage for third.

Texas A&M lost its first two games in the tournament to Iona and Lamar, but Smith, a 6-foot-8 junior forward who had to sit out the Aggies' first three games because he played in an unsanctioned tournament, made a big difference against the Tigers.

Smith had 18 points in the first half as the Southwest Conference preseason favorite Aggies rolled up a 54-35 intermission lead.

Texas A&M led by 23 points in the second half, but the Tigers, the defending Pacific Coast Athletic Association champions who were 0-3 here, cut the score to 11 points at 73-62 with a 14 to go.

Mormon Feminist Awaits Word From Tribunal After Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Her trial concluded, feminist Sonia Johnson, a fifth-generation Mormon, waited Sunday for word on whether she will be expelled from her church because of her campaigning for the Equal Rights Amendment.

The 43-year-old mother of four from suburban Sterling, Va., said she was told a verdict by the bishops' tribunal, which tried her Saturday night, would be sent by mail within two or three days. Church officials said no public announcement would be made.

Appearing dejected and saying she did not believe she argued her case well, Mrs. Johnson told reporters after Saturday night's closed trial that she thought she made little impact on those judging her.

"I was really a bad witness for myself," Mrs. Johnson said. Her dispute with the church centers on her campaigning for the ERA and threatens her with excommunication.

Church officials have said little about the formal charges against her. Bishop Jeff Willis, who conducted the trial, read only the brief statement after the three-hour proceedings that ended shortly before midnight Saturday.

Willis, a personnel officer for the Central Intelligence Agency, refused to answer reporters' questions, but hinted he was not swayed by Mrs. Johnson's case. He noted Mormon doctrine, dating to 1835, gave church officials "a right to deal with their members for disorderly conduct."

Mrs. Johnson during and after her trial charged the church, formally called the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, with delving into politics and forcing its 4.5 million members "to support selected ultra-conservative political causes by threat of excommunication."

Mrs. Johnson's conflict with her church over the ERA has divided her family and made her a celebrity among feminists, although she says she never considered herself a feminist before the ERA issue surfaced.

She has said she specifically has been accused of knowingly preaching false church doctrine, hurting the church's missionary effort and undermining the authority of the church's leadership.

Willis said in his statement that Mrs. Johnson's position on the ERA "was not an issue before us" — a contention strongly disputed by Mrs. Johnson and her supporters, who claim the ERA is central to the dispute.

The Mormon church has made clear its position on the ERA, contending its passage would threaten family life. A 1978 church statement said the amendment, which would prohibit discrimination based on sex, "could challenge almost every legally acceptable social custom as well as every morally accepted behavior pattern in America."

About 200 of her supporters, some from as far away as Pittsburgh, braved sub-freezing temperatures Saturday night outside the church in suburban Fairfax, Va., where the trial was held. Several supporters accused the church of rescheduling the trial for late Saturday night to minimize publicity.

Mrs. Johnson, with her husband at her side, told reporters she had no regrets about her stand. She said she considered her involvement with the ERA "a public, political matter" and added it was clear she and the bishops' tribunal "can't see eye to eye on that."

She was accompanied at the trial by her mother, who had flown East from Utah to give support, and her husband, a college professor. She said her children also support her. In Utah, one of her brothers has called for her excommunication and her father has said he considers her to be wrong in her stand.

The church has a number of options open as possible punishment. The most severe would be excommunication. Mormons believe excommunicated persons will be separated in heaven from their families.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING, ANYONE? — Davis Auffinger shovels snow from a sidewalk in front of a downtown Buffalo department store Saturday. Over 20 inches of snow, a near record, fell on the city in a 24-hour period. Despite the heavy snow and slim numbers of people downtown, the store opened for business. (AP Laserphoto)

Trial Opens For 'Shunned' Mennonite

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — After seven years of "living hell," a Reformed Mennonite shunned by his family and church stands criminal trial today on charges he abducted his wife.

The trial is the latest in a series of court and personal battles for Robert Bear, a 50-year-old farmer cast from the Mennonite church for criticizing its ultra-conservative practices.

Bear is accused of assault, disorderly conduct, unlawful restraint and false imprisonment for forcing his wife, Gale, into the cab of his truck. The charges carry a maximum jail sentence of 10 years.

Bear, now free on $30,000 bond, does not deny allegations that he picked up his wife in his arms and detained her for over 30 minutes in an attempt to take her home.

He hopes the trial will bring attention to the practice of shunning — a 400-year-old sanction that bans church members, including Bear's wife and six children, from having any business or social contact with him.

"I'm glad I was arrested. It will help get to the root of this more directly," said Bear after he was formally charged in September.

And he is unafraid of the prospect of prison. "Out of jail or in, this existence is worse than death. If it continues, jail doesn't matter," he said.

Bear's problems began in 1972 when he was excommunicated for railing from the 500-member church by his wife's brother, Bishop Glenn Gross. Bear criticized Gross for giving communion to the bishop's parents after one had accused the other of infidelity.

His ostracism was so complete that his wife refused to cook for him or sleep with him. So he moved out of his Cumberland County farmhouse into a bare house trailer.

Bear claims that even his children shunned him. "My own son told me I was crazy. My little girl called me a bastard," he said.

His parents died shortly after his ordeal began. And Bear said, "To the day they died, they looked at me in disgust."

Calling it barbaric to be "damned to hell forever," Bear unsuccessfully challenged his shunning in court. A judge ruled it was a church matter.

In 1977, he was fined $50 for defiant trespass after breaking into his wife's home in Mechanicsburg. And later that year, he watched 100 acres of his once prosperous potato farm sold at a sheriff's sale to pay off back taxes and debts.

Meanwhile, Bishop Gross admits the ban exists but denied Bear's charges in a recent magazine interview.

"We have never treated Robert with anything but kindness, and we don't shun people, we excommunicate them," said Gross.

He said the church did not break up Bear's marriage. "My sister has a mind of her own. There was trouble between them for more than two years before she finally moved out," the bishop said.

Grenade Attack Kills Monk

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A Greek Orthodox monk was found dead in his monastery room over the weekend, the victim of a hand grenade attack apparently set by Palestinian terrorists.

An Israeli military spokesman said Sunday that a monastery guard discovered the monk's mangled body Friday at the Beer Yaacov monastery near Nablus, in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Security forces found the monk's small cellar room riddled with shrapnel, the spokesman said. An investigation is underway.

Scientists Freeze

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP) — Don't raid the icebox at the National Bureau of Standards. Scientists there are putting human livers, oysters, grains of wheat, moss and some 30,000 other specimens in deep-freeze.

The idea is to preserve biological and environmental samples so future scientists can compare their environment with ours.

The specimen bank will enable them to check the level of pollutants in the future against the 1979 level.

Dog-Catcher Truck Blown Up

WILLISTON, N.D. (AP) — An unoccupied dog-catcher truck was blown up early Sunday by a powerful dynamite blast in front of the city's law enforcement center, officials said. No one was injured.

Police Chief Ray Atol said the blast occurred at 12:28 a.m., rattling windows and shaking foundations throughout the city of 11,700 people in northwest North Dakota.

Atol said between five and seven pounds of dynamite apparently was used to blow up the police department's dog-catcher truck, a late model pick-up.

Authorities said they had no suspects or motives in the incident, but were investigating a possible link between the blast and the theft of about 500 sticks of dynamite last month from a seismographer's storage area northeast of Williston.

An electrical detonating device apparently triggered the explosion, Atol said. Police found a wire extending from the truck to an alley about 100 feet across the street, he said.

The force of the explosion shattered plate-glass doors and windows in the center's entrance, and cracked windows on all three floors of the building, which houses the police department, sheriff's office and other law enforcement agencies.

Debris from the truck littered the roof of one house across the street, and one piece landed on the second floor of the center. Windows cracked in at least four houses facing the center.

Atol estimated the damage at $10,000 to $14,000.

Pope's Role One Issue In Schism

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II said Sunday Roman Catholicism and the Eastern Orthodox churches of the East share a common spiritual heritage and are working together to end their 1,000-year schism.

John Paul spoke of his three-day visit to Turkey and talks with Orthodox church leaders that ended Friday during his noon blessing to about 20,000 people gathered in St. Peter's Square.

"I want to express joy for the visit I made to the sister church of Constantinople and Patriarch Dimitrios I on the solemn feast of St. Andrew the apostle, who is the patron of that church," the pope said.

"The church in its 2,000 years of history has developed from its initial unity into two distinct and great traditions — that of the East and that of the West," he said. "The Second Vatican Council teaches us that this richness and tradition has not stopped being a common good of all Christianity."

"We must overcome the divisions that have separated us since the 11th century and seek again a coming together and reunion," he said.

The pope and Dimitrios I announced the first major step toward such a reunion at the end of their talks Friday. Creation of a joint Roman Catholic-Orthodox commission designed to resolve the differences between the two churches by the end of the century.

Chief among the issues dividing the two churches is the role of the pope, the issue that split them apart in the year 1054.

The Orthodox churches have indicated a willingness to recognize the pope as "first among equals" in the hierarchy of Christian leadership, but have so far rejected the notion of universal papal authority and infallibility.

But in his noon blessing Sunday John Paul emphasized the common heritage of the two churches and their need to overcome remaining differences.

"It was precisely in this spirit of communion that with the help of God I undertook and carried to conclusion this recent pilgrimage," he said. "I hope that it bears much fruit for the ecumenical cause."

Austin To Be Hearing Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee will hold a field hearing Monday in Austin to consider ways to ensure an accurate count of minorities in the 1980 census.

The hearing is part of a series being conducted throughout the nation by the House Subcommittee on Census and Population chaired by Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y.

The panel's previous meeting in Texas was in Houston last spring. Black and Hispanic leaders have complained that an "undercount" of their populations will damage their political clout after redistricting takes place based on the 1980 census.

Many federal programs also allocate their funds according to census results, so an inaccurate count could deprive states and local governments of millions of dollars that otherwise would be coming their way.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. Attached is a photocopy of a certificate of 40 shares of stock of the company for which my husband works. He bought these shares through payroll deduction and is now buying another 43 shares the same way, at $43.60 per share.

How much is this stock worth? Is it considered good stock? How and where can we check on it? Is it listed in the newspaper? We are new to buying stocks and my husband does not like to ask too many questions at work.

A. For a couple without any knowledge of the stock market you surely have lucked out. As I found this through the typesetter, that stock has a market value of $56.90 a share. It's listed on the New York Stock Exchange, so you'll find it in the NYSE stock tables of the newspaper.

It's a well-rated stock, representing ownership in a reasonably large and growing company — a company which has increased its earnings in each of the last eight years and the dividend payments to its stockholders in each of the last seven years.

This information and much more is detailed in the "prospectus" which your husband received before he signed up for his company's employee stock purchase plan. Every company with such a plan is required to present each participating employee with an effective prospectus.

If your husband lost his prospectus, he should ask for another copy. You and he should study the prospectus. You'll learn just about everything there is to know about the company.

Almost all employee stock purchase plans are great things. Your husband's is certainly working out well. You and your husband should be willing to put some time and effort into reading the prospectus and learning the details.

Q. I have 72 Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds, some dating back to 1944. I plan to exchange these E bonds for the new Series HH bonds when the HHs become available in 1980. But I'm not sure I know how to do about this.

Should I make a list of the serial numbers of all my E bonds? Then, when I turn my E bonds in at the bank, I would give the bank a carbon copy of the list and keep the original copy myself.

Hawaii Blue-Collar Workers End Strike

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's 7,700 blue-collar public workers prepared to return to their jobs Monday, ending a 41-day strike, after ratifying a new contract.

But officials said it would take two or three weeks to clean up the piles of trash and garbage stacked up across the islands and otherwise get things back to normal.

Senate Leader Supports SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Just imagine an Ayatollah Khomeini with a nuclear weapon in his hand." Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said Saturday in arguing anew for Senate ratification of the SALT II treaty.

If the Senate fails to ratify the strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union, other nations likely will take it as a signal to develop or expand their own nuclear arsenals in an increasingly dangerous world, Byrd told a news conference.

That could lead to nuclear confrontations with worldwide effects growing out of disputes "that otherwise might be localized," the West Virginia Democrat said.

"Imagine nuclear weapons in the hands of those international outlaws" holding some 50 Americans hostage in Tehran, Byrd exclaimed.

The senator had hoped to get a vote on the treaty finished — or at least get debate well under way.

A. Hanging on to a list of your E bond serial numbers would be measure of safety. But a better bit of protection would be a receipt from the bank, listing the amount and serial numbers of the E bonds you turn in.

Banks and other savings bond "paying agents" do not issue H bonds. H bonds are issued only by Federal Reserve banks and branches and the U.S. Bureau of the Public Debt.

So, when you hand your E bonds over to your bank, that bank will forward those bonds and your application to exchange them for HH bonds to the nearest Federal Reserve Bank or branch. The Fed will then mail your new HH bonds to you.

From that point on, you'll get an interest check for 3 1/4 percent of the face value of your HH bonds every six months.

Q. Because I am retired and want to start receiving the dividends from my mutual fund by check every three months, instead of reinvesting to buy more shares as I have to date, I went to the brokerage firm where I bought my fund shares some years ago.

The people there were no help — probably because I wasn't buying something else and paying commissions. They told me to write directly to the fund, at the address listed in its reports to shareholders. I did — more than a month ago. I have received no answer. What do I do now?

A. Write again — by registered mail, return receipt requested.

It's very possible that your request has been processed and that you will receive a dividend check next time a dividend is paid. But, because no dividend has been paid since you wrote your first letter, you just haven't been notified.

For the fund, that would demonstrate poor shareholder relations. But it's often the way things go in this computer age.

Doyle welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Padre Island Shores Clean Once More

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND (AP) — Sandpipers and tiny crabs scurry along the waters' edge once more.

They occasionally run across a fist-size tar ball but nothing like the gooey Mexican oil that darkened miles of shoreline four months ago.

"The coast is clear. Come on down," says the tourist industry, still recovering from million-dollar losses suffered when the world's largest oil spill chased away vacationers during the peak tourist season.

Mexican crews continue battling the stubborn Ixtoc 1 well off the Yucatan Peninsula. The rig ran out of control June 3 and has resisted efforts to cap with a giant steel cone. The flow has been reduced from a peak of 30,000 barrels a day but large oil deposits continue to float near the site.

Most of the discussions — except for the coastal residents — has moved into federal court in Houston.

Businessmen, local governments, the state attorney general and the U.S. Justice Department want $271 million in damages from the American firm that leased the rig used at the Mexican-owned well.

But those most affected by the unwellcome waves of ooze are just trying to restore the resort's reputation.

The South Padre Island Tourist Bureau put together a $60,000 advertising campaign in Texas, Midwestern states and Canada to draw visitors during the usually slack months from October to mid-December.

Bureau Director Ralph Thompson says merchants recently approved another $20,000 in expenditures to continue the ad campaign through January.

"We usually don't advertise in Texas that much in the winter but because of the oil problems, we decided we had to this year," he said.

Ads ran in 18 newspapers, including those in Toronto, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Des Moines and St. Louis, he said.

Response has been excellent, Thompson said. The bureau receives phone queries on a toll-free line.

"Reservations are looking better. We feel good that our efforts are restoring confidence in the beach," he said. A major Canadian charter tour service agreed to keep South Padre Island on its list of winter vacation spots after Thompson said he told them the oil was gone.

The tourist community has two seasons — summer which peaks labor day and the winter months of mid-December to March. Winter visitors usually stay one or two weeks at island motels or condominiums, he said.

Thompson said he expected a lot of Northerners soon as snow starts blanketing the Midwest. Temperatures have ranged from the 60s to low 80s during November on the coast.

Without the usual heavy Labor Day business this year, many merchants felt compelled to apply for Small Business Administration emergency loans. The money was made available at 7 3/8 percent interest for up to $100,000.

Deolinda Garcia of the SBA office in Harlingen said 123 businesses applied for loans and 100 have been approved.

"They really haven't applied for too much money, basically for $30,000 to $40,000," she said.

Sniper's Motor Home, Guns To Be Auctioned

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ira Attebery's bullet-riddled motor home and the guns he used April 27 to unleash a deadly attack on thousands of Fiesta parade spectators will be sold Sunday at public auction by the administrators of the dead sniper's estate.

And estate administrator Steven Gross is hoping souvenir hunters will drive up the prices.

The psychologically troubled Attebery, 64, crouched in his motor home parked at the parade starting point, opened fire on the sunny spring afternoon last year as the 84th annual Battle of Flowers Parade was getting under way just north of downtown.

Six police officers were wounded in the first barrage of shotgun blasts before Attebery switched to a semi-automatic AR-15, the civilian version of the military M-16 and one of 15 guns in his motor home.

A full-scale gunbattle took place between Attebery and dozens of police officers as the screaming, terrified spectators ducked for safety. Attebery ended it when he killed himself with a single pistol shot to the head after his AR-15 jammed.

Attebery's AR-15 killed parade spectators Irene Hernandez and Ida Dollard, who were standing a few feet from the motor home. More than 30 others, including the officers, were wounded in the assault. Police officials said it was a miracle more spectators in the tightly-packed crowd were not killed.

About 50 plaintiffs, including Mrs. Hernandez' 13 children, have filed eight lawsuits seeking damages from Attebery's estate.

The auction proceeds will be added to about $16,000 already officially in the estate, said Gross, who was approved by Attebery's family and appointed by the court as administrator.

Attebery also left almost $90,000 in several savings accounts, which were to go to various family members upon his death, Gross said. That money is stymied in litigation because some of those plaintiffs seeking damages want those accounts added to the estate.

The guns have been cleaned, but some unused cartridges are still stained by Attebery's blood.

The riddled 1972 Ute-Liner motor home, mute testimony to the ferocity of the gunbattle, has been in police storage and is in exactly the same condition as it was after the shooting, Gross said.

Attebery's personal effects inside the motor home will be sold separately.

"The motor home and the guns will be auctioned off as is," said Gross. "I'm hoping the souvenir hunters will drive up the prices. I especially expect a lot of interest in the AR-15."

Attebery had 11 rifles and shotguns and four pistols inside his motor home. Attebery's 1975 Dodge car, which remained parked at the southside trailer park where he lived during the shooting, will also be sold.

A local radio personality and boxing announcer donated his services as auctioneer and a local security firm has donated security services, Gross said.

Gross bought small advertisements in the classified sections of local newspapers, advertising the auction simply as, "Items from the estate of Ira T. Attebery." The items were described, but no mention was made of the parade sniping.

Gross said he hasn't the slightest idea of how many bidders to expect. "I've never done anything like this before," he said.

Board Members Pledge Aid

DENVER (AP) — Board members of financially strapped Legis 50 have completed a two-day meeting and pledged to help the Denver-based legislative research organization survive in spite of an $800,000 debt.

"We didn't fold. We're going to make it, and we're 100 percent united," Maxine Hitchcock of Boulder said Saturday. She is one of the 18 board members who attended the meeting on Thursday and Friday.

Medical Class Where Action Is

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — There's a group of 32 students who walk the hospital corridors of Scott and White Hospital with a confidence they don't always feel.

They are the doctors-to-be who make up the charter class of Texas A&M University College of Medicine.

The students spent their first two years in pre-med studies on the College Station campus, memorizing the Latin and Greek names for the various bones, muscles and organs while trying to learn symptoms, syndromes and symbols that will form now on be part of their lives.

But since July they have been where the action is, getting down to the nitty gritty of practicing medicine at Scott and White and the Olin Teague Veteran's Center.

They are "snatching" babies in the delivery room and closing up incisions in surgery, all under the watchful eyes and close supervision of staff physicians and residents at the two facilities.

Aggies have been known for years as among the world's best doctors — but in the animal world, with A&M's College of Veterinary Medicine being among the top such schools in the country.

A&M's medical program is an accelerated one in which students are allowed to apply for admission to the college of medicine at their sophomore year off pre-medical work.

"It was born out of the need to produce more physicians faster to help meet the doctor shortage that seemed to exist," said Dr. Kermit Knudsen, associate dean of the college and a practicing physician on the Scott and White staff.

Now, Knudsen said, it appears the shortage is more of a problem of maldistribution of doctors, who prefer to practice in big cities and of specialization.

With this in mind, the school chose to accept many students from non-urban areas, since research has shown that these are more likely to return to small towns and be content to practice there.

Dr. Robert Stone, dean of the A&M medical school, said unofficial survey in recent weeks showed that most of the college's 96 students want to set up practices in the country. He estimates that 60 percent will steer clear of the big cities upon graduation.

Stone said this is not to imply that A&M med students are not getting the sophisticated training the larger big-city medical schools offer.

A&M is developing an elaborate closed-circuit TV system, which, when operational in nine months, will enable students to view hospital operations from as far as away as 90 miles.

The TV system is already in use at the university's three clinical training centers in Temple, Waco and Marlin.

Knudsen said that "early admissions" program has the same number of years of training as other medical schools, but the difference is in getting students out of the classroom and into clinical experiences sooner.

Another distinction at A&M, he said, is class size.

"At most medical schools, you'll find maybe 200 or more students per class," he said. "Think of the advantages our students have in receiving a much more personal education."

Body Temperature Drop Harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the weather bureau predicting a severe winter in much of the Midwest it may be wise to be aware of one hazard that particularly affects the elderly: hypothermia.

Hypothermia is simply a deep drop in body temperature, and it can be fatal.

Most vulnerable are elderly persons who may have disease of the veins or arteries and whose body temperature regulating systems may not be working properly, according to the National Institute on Aging.

Unfortunately, such vulnerable people are also among those most likely to be unable to afford adequate heating.

Inadequate heating, combined with the inability to respond normally to the cold, presents the greatest risk. But even at temperatures as high as 60 degrees Fahrenheit, accidental hypothermia can happen.

The only sure way to tell if someone is suffering from hypothermia is with a special low-reading thermometer whose scale goes below the usual 94 degrees. But if you shake down a regular thermometer as low as 94 and the victim's body temperature doesn't raise it, you should call a doctor immediately.

Other clues include:

- Most victims do not shiver and seem unaware of the cold.

- Some experience dizziness or vertigo when changing position.

- Low blood pressure, irregular or slowed heartbeat, slurred speech, drowsiness and slow breathing may be other signs.

If you suspect hypothermia, call a doctor immediately. Recovery depends on the severity and time exposed to the cold. Generally, the experts say, chances of recovery are good if the body temperature hasn't dropped below 90 degrees.

Congress Races To Finish Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — With only three weeks to go until year-end adjournment, the House and Senate are working against the clock to complete work on important energy legislation and a bill to give federal loan guarantees to the Chrysler Corp.

Despite the time crunch, the proceedings aren't exactly moving at a breakneck pace.

In the Senate, the Carter administration has abandoned hope of getting a final vote this year on the SALT II arms treaty with the Soviet Union.

And the drive to pass the president's energy program is sputtering, with officially conceding that important bills may not reach the White House until 1980.

Another measure the congressional leadership wants to pass this year would provide anti-recessionary aid to states and local governments. But prospects are uncertain, since the Senate has approved one bill and a widely different proposal is before the House Government Operations Committee this week.

On the floor this week, the House is taking up a number of relatively minor proposals. The most controversial of them would declare Martin Luther King's birthday a national holiday.

The Senate, meanwhile, resumes work on a "windfall profits" tax, a key part of Carter's energy program. No final vote is expected until next week at the earliest.

Even then, a House-Senate conference committee would have to reconcile the Senate bill with a stronger tax the House approved earlier. The tax would be applied on the revenues the oil industry will receive because of the removal of federal price controls on oil.

The administration and Democratic leaders had been hoping to secure final passage of three energy bills this year: the tax, a synthetic fuels bill and a measure to establish an Energy Mobilization Board.

But Frank Moore, Carter's top Capitol Hill lobbyist, said late last week he would settle for two of the three before the House and Senate adjournment target of Dec. 21. He didn't specify which two he had in mind.

Moore also said he expected the Senate would debate the SALT II treaty for a week or so at most at the end of the year, putting off a final vote until 1980. The administration had been hoping for a final vote before then.

House Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas, meanwhile, said the profits tax and synthetic fuels bill are unlikely to win final approval until next year. He said the proposed Energy Mobilization Board has a better chance for passage in 1979, but added, "I don't want to promise anything."

Both houses have approved bills setting up the Energy Mobilization Board, but a House-Senate conference committee won't meet on a compromise until the end of the week.

Both houses have passed widely differing synthetic fuels bills, but a conference committee meeting has been set.

Bills to help bail out the ailing Chrysler Corp. have been approved by committees in both houses, but no floor action is expected until next week at the earliest.

The House bill calls for $1.5 billion in federal loan guarantees. A close vote is expected on the floor, and aides say the measure won't be brought up until until it is clear the bill will pass.

The Senate version of the bill calls for $1.25 billion in loan guarantees, but Chrysler employees would have to chip in $1.32 billion either through a wage freeze or some other means.

A vote by the full Senate is not expected until next week at the earliest, and a conference committee would also be required to work out differences with the House bill.

New Book Reveals Feud Inside Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren Burger has so lost the respect of his fellow justices that a group of them plotted to keep him from writing the Supreme Court's 1974 Nixon tapes decision, according to a new book.

The book lifts the veil from the court's inner workings to reveal a vehement feud between Burger and Associate Justice William Brennan, generally considered the court's most liberal member. Brennan is quoted as referring to the chief justice as "dummy," "that son of a bitch" and "usurper."

According to the book, entitled "The Brethren," Burger has been a divisive influence, rather than a leader on the nation's highest court.

Justice Potter Stewart, it said, found Burger "abrasive to his colleagues, persistent in his ignorance and, worst of all, intellectually dishonest."

The book, authored by Bob Woodward and Scott Armstrong of the Washington Post, is based on two years' of interviews with justices, not including Burger, and more than 170 former law clerks.

It quotes from confidential documents from the chambers of some of the justices and from a private journal Brennan has maintained, covering the period from 1969, when Burger succeeded Earl Warren as chief justice, until the end of 1976.

Burger, appointed by President Richard Nixon, comes in for harsh criticism.

The book alleges some justices became concerned he would tilt the court's 1974 Watergate decision toward Nixon after Burger strongly defended the president as the victim of a "witch hunt."

Brennan spearheaded an effort by a group of justices to reverse Burger's plan to write the court's decision himself.

After viewing Burger's first drafts, Stewart and Justice Lewis Powell thought it "awful," the book says.

"Each of the other justices would systematically propose alternative drafts to various of the chief's sections," the book says.

Seeing he was outnumbered, Burger put together an opinion, forcing Nixon to turn over the tapes to the Watergate prosecutor, that borrowed heavily from sections written by other justices, it says.

Powell, a fellow Nixon appointee, is quoted as saying after reading Burger's draft opinion on the Detroit school busing case, "If an associate in my law firm had done this, I'd fire him."

Stewart is quoted as telling his law clerks Burger did not provide leadership.

"On ocean liners," Stewart is quoted as saying, "they used to have two captains. One for show, to take women to dinner. The other to pilot the ship safely. The chief (Burger) is the show captain. All we need now is a real captain."

According to Woodward and Armstrong, the "swing justices" in the middle on most issues have filled the leadership void.

Court Suit Winner Marries Again

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Gerald P. Zarrella is married again — just weeks after he won a court suit against his former best friend for having an affair with his wife.

Zarrella, a 34-year-old building contractor from West Warwick, was married Saturday night to Deborah Nastasi, a Miami resident to whom he was introduced by a mutual friend in May.

A Superior Court jury ordered in October that Sidney H. Robinson of West Warwick pay $75,000 in punitive damages and $5,000 in compensatory damages to Zarrella for having "criminal conversation" with Zarrella's wife, Lila, to whom Robinson is now married.

Judge Ronald R. Lagueux defined "criminal conversation" as a violation of a spouse's right to "exclusive privileges of physical intercourse."

The judge later reduced the award to $5,000.

Dissident Leaders Anger Chinese Government

PEKING (AP)—"So long as dirt still exists on this piece of land, so long as servants run rough-shod over masters in society, and so long as our throats have not been cut, we shall by no means stop crying out."

These were the defiant words of an unauthorized, mimeographed magazine called Tansuo (Explorations) when it resumed publication in September.

A month later, on Oct. 16, Tansuo's editor, Wei Jingsheng, 29, was tried and sentenced to 15 years in prison after his conviction on charges of advocating the overthrow of the socialist system and giving military secrets to a foreigner.

Tansuo was the boldest voice in the small Chinese human rights movement, one of the dozen or so crudely printed periodicals laboriously turned out by youths convinced that Western-style democracy would work better than socialism in China.

Wei, a former soldier and technician at the Peking Zoo, was by common consent the leader of this school of thought, which he preached more stridently than anyone else.

A year ago, the human rights movement had, with the blessing of Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping, reached its peak. Thousands of young people poured out into Tiananmen Square in Peking to demand the basic freedoms of press, assembly and demonstration. They demanded the rule of law and free elections.

In the wake of these enthusiastic mass demonstrations, Deng — himself a two-time victim of political persecution — was able to announce that along with industrialization China soon would move to adopt a new code of laws and free, secret elections to legislative bodies at the county level.

Quite suddenly, as though their usefulness had ended, the youthful demonstrators found themselves out in the cold. The rallies halted. Efforts to revive the old freedom spirit in April — anniversary of the first mass rights movement three years earlier — brought an official crackdown. Between 30 and 40 people were arrested, and unbridled criticism of the Communist Party, its leadership or the socialist system was banned.

In the light of the official moves towards legal and electoral freedom — they go into effect Jan. 1 — most Chinese believed the trial of Wei Jingsheng would be a model one, aimed at showing what the new judicial system would be like.

The brevity of the trial, the partial secrecy in which it was held, the seeming shallowness of the evidence and the harshness of the sentence created disillusion.

It drew a protest from the United States and created divisions among Chinese intellectuals.

As a class, they had been savagely suppressed by the radical members of the Communist Party, during and after the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution.

"Forty million people were imprisoned by the radicals," said one, white-haired scholar recently. "Multiply that by four, to include the families discriminated against, and you will understand what widespread misery they created."

He and the three other intellectuals seated around a dinner table had first-hand experience. They had served 5 to 10 years each in jail for daring to speak their minds.

The first intellectual continued: "Yes, we have suffered. But that's all over now. We were discouraged and bitter, after spending our lives fighting for an ideal. We are older and wiser. But the spark still burns. We have not abandoned the socialist dream. We cannot agree with Wei Jingsheng that it is finished."

One of the younger intellectuals — a man in his 40s — shook his head. "I have the troubled feeling that justice wasn't done," he said. "The trial wasn't carried out properly. We were given few details of this so-called public trial. But I personally don't care. I want to be left alone to do my work. Through it, perhaps I can educate our people over the long run to understand what democracy is."

Like the others, he is an educational writer.

Deng has promised an end to purges and an era of security and stability, if the Chinese people will bend their backs to the task of modernizing their backward country.

Why haven't the Wei Jingshengs of China fallen in line with this brightly beckoning future, full of television sets, sewing machines, refrigerators, motorcycles and all the other necessary things of life?

The best informed and most moderate of the little unofficial magazines, Peking Spring, ventured an answer.

"His was a generation seriously maimed by the Cultural Revolution," it said. "Infuriated by the deceptions practiced on them by their elders, they have turned to criticizing everything and everyone indiscriminately. Wei was their representative and Tansuo their organ."

Northern Ireland Road New Death Row

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — There's a new Death Row in Northern Ireland, and it's not the old execution cells in the Crumlin Road Jail. When guards speak of Death Row these days, they mean the half-mile of Crumlin Road outside the prison.

Within the past two months four prison guards — known as warders — have been shot and killed there by Irish Republican guerrillas as they went to or from duty at the jail.

On Sept. 14 three prison officers in a car near the jail were machine gunned by provisional IRA men. One guard was killed and his two companions seriously wounded.

Five days later, a few hundred yards from the scene of that shooting, the prison's 63-year-old assistant governor, Edward Jones, was killed when his car was machine gunned as it stopped for a traffic light. In the car with him was the jail's governor who escaped injury. Police believe he was the IRA's real target.

Twice this month within hours one prison officer was shot dead at point blank range by the IRA as he got into his parked car outside the jail and another died in the hospital after being shot at a bus stop by the ultra left-wing Irish National Liberation Army.

During a 10-week period other attempts have been made on the lives of several prison officers and the Provisional IRA has named four guards it claims are at the top of its death list for allegedly mistreating Irish Republicans held in one of Northern Ireland's four jails.

Since the shooting started 10 years ago, 1,981 people have been killed, including 1,431 civilians, 322 British soldiers, 98 members of the part-time militia attached to the British Army and 130 policemen and policewomen.

More than 20,000 people have been injured in bomb attacks or shooting incidents.

And since the IRA warned five years ago that prison officers were "acceptable targets" for assassination on grounds they are "part of the British war machine in Ireland," more than a dozen guards have been killed.

Last April outside the women's prison in Armagh, IRA guerrillas exploded a hand grenade among four women prison officers as they left for lunch, simultaneously raking the group with automatic fire from a passing car. One woman guard died and the three others were seriously injured in the attack.

A week ago Friday night, 50-year-old Longkesh prison guard Jerry Melville was found shot in the head at his home in Glengormley, 5 miles north of Belfast. Within hours, the IRA declared the slaying proved that security authorities could not protect prison guards and warned more deaths would follow.

The death of Melville, a Catholic, brought to 15 the number of guards killed.

The British government refuses to talk about resignations from the Northern Ireland prison service, but it spends large sums of money every year advertising for recruits. Although it offers high take-home pay, plenty of overtime, rent-free houses and $7 a day extra "danger" pay, the pro-British daily newspaper, The Belfast Newsletter, says there are massive resignations, particularly after shooting incidents.

In a front page story the paper claimed 40 guards resigned in the past two weeks from Maze Prison, 15 miles west of Belfast, where nearly 2,000 political prisoners are held. And the newspaper claimed the advertising campaign has brought in only two recruits so far this year.

The British government used to import prison officers from England, Scotland and Wales — known in Northern Ireland as "bounty hunters" because of the high salaries they were paid.

Following a campaign by prison officers for more protection around the heavily guarded Crumlin Road Prison, security chiefs have drafted more British Army plainclothes patrols for the death row stretch, particularly for shift changes. And guards who want them have been issued 38 Webley revolvers for protection at home.

Heartline

(Editors note: Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.)

HEARTLINE: I am 93 years old and have children in nine states. I have grandchildren in another five states and great-grandchildren all over tarnation. I am going to be sending Christmas packages to 19 states. These will not be expensive gifts, except for one in particular. Can you give me any tips on how to mail or ship these things? With gas costing as much as it does, the high cost of food in restaurants and the ridiculous charges for motel rooms, many of them who traveled home each year in the past will not be doing so this Christmas. Any help you can give will be appreciated. — L.R.

We hope that it comes as a pleasant surprise to you that there are several ways of sending packages, depending on weight and distance to be shipped, that can prove a savings over the U.S. mail. You should do some shopping around for the way that best suits your need. Always ask about the insurance that will be included in the price of the shipment. Make sure that your package is wrapped according to the specifications of the carrier. Also make sure that your package is not larger than the carrier allows.

HEARTLINE: I am 67 years old and have Medicare. Every year when I start using the furnace all the time, I run into problems. The lack of humidity in the air causes my throat and nose to get very dry, and I seem to have a sore throat all the time. My doctor told me that if I got a humidifier, the problem would be solved. He said that he thought Medicare would help pay for a humidifier if it were medically necessary, so I purchased one. I sent the claim in to Medicare, and it was disallowed. Can you tell me why they did not help me pay for it? — P.T.

Your doctor was wrong. Medicare will not cover a humidifier under any circumstances.

For persons who now have or will soon have Medicare, we have written a book of facts on the program. The book contains up-to-date information and answers many of the most common questions, plus it gives information not contained in most government literature concerning the things Medicare will and will not cover. In your case, you can see that it would have been helpful to know in advance that Medicare would not cover the cost of a humidifier. To order a copy, send $1.75 to Medicare Guidebook, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

HEARTLINE: My husband was in WW II and he got an honorable discharge. The other day, we were looking at his discharge paper. It says that he got an honorable discharge for this reason — C.D.D. Can you tell us what this means? — S.N.

These letters mean that he was discharged because of an injury sustained while in the service.

Portugal Expects Rightist Win

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portuguese voted Sunday for a new parliament with the center-rightists favored to win, handing the left its first setback since the country's revolution five years ago.

Election officials reported a heavy early turnout as the nation's seven million voters went to the polls under clear skies.

Among the first to vote was President Antonio Ramalho Eanes, who told the country on election eve that Portugal might have to manage with a minority government again, a sign that none of the major parties would win a majority.

"This shows we can build an even stronger democracy," Eanes said as he cast his ballot in Lisbon.

Although the center-right "Democratic Alliance" of social democrats, conservative social democrats and monarchists headed by Oporto lawyer Francisco Sa Carneiro was favored in the opinion polls, rival socialists and communists predicted the alliance would not win enough seats for a majority in the 250-member National Assembly.

The socialists of former prime minister Mario Soares were rated second and the communists of Soviet-line Alvaro Cunhal were third.

The election was the second since the April 25, 1974 revolt by leftist armed forces officers who overthrew Portugal's 48-year-old right-wing dictatorship.

Soares' socialists won the first parliamentary election in 1976 with 35 percent of the vote and formed a minority government that later gave way to an alliance with the conservative social democrats. When that fell apart, Eanes named a non-party government headed by Prime Minister Maria de Lourdes Pintasilgo.

Hollywood's 'Glamour Girls' Immortalized At Wax Museum

The term "Hollywood Star" usually brings to mind images of bright lights, limousines and beautiful women, and Movieland Wax Museum in Buena Park, Calif. has immortalized the favorites. They are the beautiful and talented "Glamour Girls" from silent screen days to modern films. Blond bombshell to pin-up, both domestic and imported, they're all at Movieland.

The first who comes to mind when the phrase "Glamour Girls" is mentioned is Marilyn Monroe, the sultry platinum blond whose glandular magic and sense of grace soared her to the top. Movieland Wax Museum remembers Marilyn in a scene from the 1953 production of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Elizabeth Taylor, whose career started at age 11 in such classics as "Lassie Come Home" and "National Velvet," was already a beauty at that young age. Her first "Oscar" was earned for her unforgettable performance in 1960 production of "Butterfield 8." She was also acclaimed Best Actress for her stormy role in the 1966 production of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe?" Liz fought hard against playing the fast-living call-girl in "Butterfield 8" and only accepted the part to fulfill her contract with MGM so that she could accept 20th Century Fox's tempting million-dollar offer to play "Cleopatra." Movieland has re-created a scene from that 1963 production of "Cleopatra." The film produced sensational headlines that led to her well publicized fifth marriage to co-star, Richard Burton.

The immortal Miss Mae West has been enshrined at Movieland in a scene from "She Done Him Wrong," the 1933 Hollywood version of her stage hit, "Diamond Lil." She made her film debut with George Raft in Paramount's "Night After Night." Miss West's animal magnetism and shapely form made her a slightly naughty but enchanting queen of the golden screen in the '30's and '40's.

MAE WEST ... Enshrined

Known for her mask-like beauty, she seemed to mesmerize her audience, and her nude scene in the 1933 production of "Ecstasy" is still spoken of today as a major mark in the film industry. And it was she who delivered the famous, alluring phrase... "Come wiz me to the Casbah..." in "Algiers", 1938.

Sophia Loren's superior talent won her an "Oscar" as Best Actress for her portrayal of the distraught Mother in the 1961 production of "Two Women." Miss Loren donated the tattered dress she wore during the filming for her wax figure to wear. She is the most famous Italian actress in America and a sex symbol all over the world because of her sensuality and storm lashed beauty. According to Miss Loren, "Beauty is no handicap if you don't think about it too much," and jokes about her famous figure... "Everything you see, I owe to spaghetti."

The list goes on. Movieland Wax Museum houses counterparts of Gina Lollobrigida, Brigitte Bardot, Ginger Rogers, Mary Pickford, Nancy Sinatra, Barbara Streisand and more. Glamorous beauty queens from every era of motion pictures. It just could be the biggest gathering of stars in the world!

NUKE PROTESTERS CONVICTED
BEAVER, Pa. (AP) — Six nuclear protesters have been convicted of criminal trespassing for taking part in a demonstration last summer at a power plant in nearby Shippingport. After the verdict was announced in Beaver County Court on Friday, five of the defendants and some sympathizers stood and gaged themselves with scarves and handkerchiefs. They claim cancer and other diseases result from low-level radiation from the plant. The charges followed a protest demonstration at Duquesne Light Co.'s power plant on July 15.

Violinist Celebrating Anniversary

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nathan Milstein mounted the Stradivarius on his shoulder, placed the bow on the strings and was instantly racing his fingers up and down the fingerboard with a set of Paganini variations.

The violinist, long regarded as one of the world's greatest, was in New York to play a concert at Carnegie Hall recently marking the 50th anniversary of his American debut with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Leopold Stokowski.

Now almost 75, Milstein is universally acknowledged to be in a class by himself. Born in Odessa, he is a product of the Russian school of violin playing that nurtured Mischa Elman, Jascha Heifetz, Efrem Zimbalist and David Oistrakh. Elman and Oistrakh have died. Heifetz and Zimbalist no longer perform. Only Milstein still plays publicly.

Berlin Philharmonic under Wilhelm Furtwangler.

"Berlin was the most important orchestra in the world," Milstein noted. "For young artists, a great success with the Berlin Philharmonic made a career."

Like Heifetz, Milstein is poker-faced when he plays. All the expression is lost to his playing. He holds the violin high, one of the first rules young violinists are taught, and whether he knows it or not, a compensation for his shortness.

More than anything, Milstein conveys a sense of deep respect and devotion to the violin and to music — something he believes is largely absent today because of the mass-marketing and commercialization of art.

His own devotion and love for music is ironic — he was given his first violin at the age of six as a way of keeping him out of mischief and forced to practice by his parents.

Actor Signed For Leading Role

NEW YORK (Special) — "Dogs of War" will star Academy Award-winner Christopher Walken (Best Supporting Actor, "Deer Hunter") and Tom Berenger in the Algonquin Films, Ltd. production for release by United Artists.

Based on the international best-seller by Frederick Forsythe, "Dogs of War" will be produced by Larry DeWaal and directed by John Irvin. The screenplay is by Gary DeVore. Norman Jewison and Patrick Palmer are executive producers.

Walken and Berenger will have the leads as mercenaries involved in an international political plot. "Dogs of War" will mark Walken's first starring role; he is co-starred with Kris Kristofferson in the upcoming "Heaven's Gate," also for United Artists.

Berenger, who recently starred in the television film "Flesh and Blood," will make his return to feature films, his first since "Butch And Sundance: The Early Years."

Working in British television and documentary production, John Irvin will make his feature film directing debut with "Dogs of War." His previous directing credits include Dickens' "Hard Times" for PBS and Granada TV, and the prestigious English production, "Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy," starring Sir Alec Guinness for BBC.

"Dogs of War" is scheduled for a February, 1980 start. Casting is now underway, and additional roles will be announced shortly.

The Bureau of the Mint manufactures all U.S. coins and distributes them through the Federal Reserve banks and branches.

While in New York, the violinist paused in a large, stuffy room in his East Side hotel suite, held the Strad like a banjo and declared: "I'm so tired. It's so hot in here."

A suggestion that he remove his buttoned tweed jacket was ignored. Milstein, always elegant, is never casual about music.

If he is tired, his playing does not reflect it and his appearance belies it, he looks 10 years younger than his age.

The New York concert came in the midst of a national tour that took him to Rochester, N.Y., Boston, Toronto, Chicago, Salt Lake City, San Jose, Calif., and Los Angeles. He played with the Philadelphia Orchestra and with that orchestra in New York performed the Beethoven Concerto.

Milstein lifted the Strad again and played the opening bars of the Dvorak Violin Concerto, followed by a few lines of Franck's Sonata, a quietly intense work on his Carnegie Hall program.

To Milstein, anniversaries — even 50th anniversaries — have little meaning. "I don't celebrate anything," he says. "Whether its 10 or 50 years, it doesn't matter. I play. It doesn't change anything. It only gives me pleasure that I've played so long and nobody has arrested me for it. That reminds me that it's good."

First performances in any major city are important for a young artist, but more significant for Milstein than the Philadelphia performance was a successful engagement two years later with the

Texas Nuclear Protesters Preparing For Real Battle

Members of the Comanche Peak Life Force, who twice have been arrested for scaling the fence of the Comanche Peak Nuclear Power Plant, say the protests are part of their preparation for the real war when the plant is closer to completion.

The plant near Glen Rose, about 75 miles south of Fort Worth, is scheduled to be ready for operation in the spring of 1981.

It has been hailed as the answer to North Texas' dependence on other fuels that are dwindling in supply. Proponents say nuclear energy is abundant, clean and efficient.

The protesters object to nuclear energy on health, environmental and grounds. They say no suitable location has been found to store radioactive waste. They cite studies that list the health dangers of low-level radiation. And they say the consequences of nuclear energy in the hands of terrorist groups or unstable nations would be devastating.

Economically, they point out that the estimated cost of the Comanche Peak plant has risen from $777 million to $1.7 billion. They say the cost of uranium has increased 400 percent in five years, and that the cost of running a nuclear plant is much higher than other plants.

The use of millions of gallons of water a minute by the plants will adversely affect the environment, they say.

More than 100 persons came to the Life Force's first protest in June, and 48 of them crossed the fence and were arrested. A mass trial later in the month ended with a mistrial when the jury deadlocked 4-2 in favor of the defendants.

Mavis Belisle, 35, was the first to be tried separately, and she was convicted of misdemeanor trespass last Monday. A soft-spoken, diminutive woman, Miss Belisle edits the Fort Worth edition of the weekly Texas Catholic when she's not protesting nuclear energy.

At her trial, Special Prosecutor Tommy Altaras asked Miss Belisle: "Have you ever filed for an injunction to stop this nuclear plant from being built? Have you ever filed a class action suit? Have you ever run for public office? Have you developed any alternative method of producing energy?" he asked.

Receiving a negative response to each question, Altaras concluded, "Then you did not tell this jury the truth when you said you had tried all other reasonable and available means before going out there."

Miss Belisle said at the time those means were not effective. But later, at her Dallas home, she said other groups handle the other activities.

"I think some of the specific things he was asking were irrelevant," she said.

She said the Life Force was formed last spring specifically for civil disobedience. Many of its 200 members are college students.

"We recognized that a great many people in the community couldn't agree with civil disobedience and felt we needed a separate group to deal with that," she said.

Other North Texas groups, such as Citizens Associated for Sound Energy and the Armadillo Coalition, are involved in court suits and licensing hearings.

A wide range of political ideologies among the protesters and a feeling that local groups know their own areas better have prevented a merger, Miss Belisle said.

The day before her conviction, Miss Belisle and 100 other members of the group returned to the plant, climbed the fence, and were arrested again.

Miss Belisle said the protests and the trials are building the protesters' strength and skills and also are "part of an attempt at community education and consciousness-raising."

She said the group will evaluate the protest at a meeting Dec. 9.

"Since no decision has been made, I can't really say what will happen," she said. "But I suspect there will be no large action before summer. There will be some smaller affinity group actions, I think. But the serious action will be when they try to bring fuel into the plant" in January 1981.

Texas Utilities Generating Co., the parent company of Texas Electric Service Co., Dallas Power and Light Co. and Texas Power and Light Co., is building the plant through a contract with Brown and Root.

As of Nov. 1, the plant was 67 percent complete, and was estimated to be operational by March 1981.

The protesters believe that their chances of stopping the plant are good if they gain public support.

R.L. Ramsey, director of information services and Texas utility services for TUGCO, doesn't want to speculate.

"We would certainly hope that they would continue their policy of non-violence," he said.

But protesters are only one thorn in TUGCO's side. Another is the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which must inspect and license the plant.

The NRC, however, is bogged down with the Three Mile Island disaster in Pennsylvania and has said it will not begin licensing hearings until that is resolved.

The NRC also has found many construction flaws and deviations from standard practice in the plant's construction.

"Things go wrong," said Walt Dettler, assistant to the director of the NRC's Region IV. "There are bad welds, bad concrete, bad practices. But I know of no case where Comanche Peak differs from any other site."

Ramsey added that "a bundle of regulations have been added" by the NRC and new laws, taking up more time and money.

The regulations combined with inflation, he said, are the reason for the dramatic cost increase.

Protesters, meanwhile, are using every legal avenue available to delay Comanche Peak's completion and licensing. They predict more cost increases and hope the red tape eventually will strangle the mammoth generator.

Former construction workers at the plant also have pointed to construction problems, but Ramsey brushes these aside.

"Not a one of them have any safety implications," Ramsey said. "The allegations may have been true, but they will have no effect on the final safety of the plant."

Bilingual Education Battle Reopens

AUSTIN (UPI) — Another round in the nine-year court battle between the state and federal governments bilingual education opened Monday with a hearing in a Tyler federal court.

Representatives for several Mexican-American groups insist the state's bilingual education be expanded to cover all non-English speaking students through all grade levels. The state contends the cost of so broad a program would be "astronomical."

The hearing is the latest of the state's numerous appearances before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice. It is expected to last two to three weeks.

Lawyers for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, League of United Latin American Citizens and GI-Forum contend the state's 1,072 school districts are not complying with Justice's 1971 order requiring the state to provide a linguistically appropriate education for children with limited English-speaking ability.

Texas law requires local school districts to offer instruction in Spanish for kindergarten through third grade if there are 20 or more students in a particular grade who speak a language other than English. Bilingual programs at the fourth and fifth grade levels qualify for state assistance but are not required.

"We are seeking to assure that every child in the state who is need of bilingual education receives it irrespective of his or her grade level," said Peter Roose of San Francisco, MALDEF's director of educational litigation.

Texas currently is spending $4.5 million on bilingual programs for 117,000 students.

Susan Dasher, assistant attorney general representing the state, said the cost of expanding bilingual programs through the 12th grade "would be astronomical."

"They're talking about teaching every other subject in Spanish," she said.

Also at issue are whether the state should provide bilingual programs for children in districts where there may be 20 non-English speaking youngsters in each grade.

Miss Dasher estimated there are 177,000 students of limited English speaking ability in the state, compared to the 117,000 students in bilingual programs.

"They're saying by not extending program we may not be providing equal educational opportunity to all of our children," said Ernest Perez, the Texas Education Agency's director of bilingual education.

Perez said expanding the program would cost more while the Legislature has repeatedly reduced spending for bilingual education. A total of $9.3 million was allocated for bilingual programs in 1976, Perez said. But the figure was cut to $5.2 million in 1977 and 1978 and trimmed to $4.5 million for 1979.

"While our funds have been reduced we've been increasing the numbers of classrooms and teachers and children," Perez said.

Roose said the $25 a year the state allocates to local districts for each child in a bilingual program is insufficient.

"I think virtually anyone would concede that is an inadequate amount," Roose said.

Roose said poor districts which have the largest percentage of Spanish speaking children are unable to provide adequate funds for bilingual programs out of local resources.

Miss Dasher said the court will face a constitutional collision if the federal judge tries to order the Legislature to provide more money for bilingual programs.

"The court can't really order the Legislature to fund TEA More," she said.

Justice has ordered the education agency to do a number of things state officials said they lacked authority to do, however, since the case began in 1970.

The U.S. Justice Department initiated the suit with a complaint about segregation of blacks in East Texas by the way some school district lines were drawn. The federal court ordered consolidation of a number of school districts to integrate blacks and whites.

MALDEF intervened in 1971 with a complaint about segregation of Mexican-American students in the San Felipe School District adjacent to Del Rio.

Los Angeles Holdups Increase

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A rash of summer bank robberies in New York City drew considerable attention, but FBI statistics show bank holdups in the Los Angeles area also have increased significantly this year.

Herbert D. Clough Jr., special agent in charge of the FBI's Los Angeles office, says there have been 1,007 bank and savings and loan association robberies in the seven-county area under his supervision so far this year. That's up from 782 for all of 1978.

Clough said Friday that 81 percent of this year's robberies occurred in Los Angeles County, while 11 percent were in Orange County. The monthly toll reached its peak in August when 145 robberies were recorded, including 15 on Aug. 10.

The 1,007 robberies netted about $2.4 million for an average haul of about $2,400. The largest amount taken in a single robbery was just under $60,000. Many heists, however, were for less than $1,000.

The year's final total is likely to be significantly higher by the end of December — traditionally a heavy month for robberies.

Clough said he has increased the number of men assigned to the bank robbery detail here in the last six months.

He did not offer any explanation for the upsurge in bank robberies other than the current tough economic situation, and said bank robberies and other economic-oriented crimes are up nationwide.

Law enforcement officials have said that Los Angeles is a popular area for bank robbers because of the area's large number of banks and their informal layouts, a freeway system that allows quick escapes and a lack of armed guards that are more common in the East and Midwest.
