

Kennedy Says He Backs U.S. Policy On Hostages

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, whose criticism of the exiled Shah of Iran generated protests from the Carter administration, moved Monday to make clear his support for the president's efforts to get the American hostages in Tehran released.

The Massachusetts senator, who said Sunday night that the shah "ran one of the most violent regimes in the history of mankind," told a Democratic Party luncheon that "we all support our country's efforts to end the crisis."

Kennedy added that Iranian religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini "has violated every principle of international law, and virtually every nation on Earth has condemned him for his terrorist action."

Kennedy had started clarifying his position Monday morning before flying here from San Francisco. "My position is unchanged," Kennedy said, when reporters at the airport asked him about his comments about the shah, Sunday night, in an interview at KRON-TV.

"Whatever the repressive aspects of the shah's regime," Kennedy told reporters, Monday, "I don't believe it justifies the action of the Iranian government in holding the hostages, and I feel that very strongly."

Kennedy, when asked if his statement about the shah was a shift from his position that in the Iranian crisis "America must speak with a single voice, and that voice should be the president," said that it was not "because I am supporting the administration position for the release of the hostages."

The Massachusetts senator's statement, Sunday, brought quick response from the Carter administration.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said, "I think one of the strongest weapons that we have is the strong consensus that exists. Anything that tends to undermine that is clearly unhelpful." Spokesman Hodding Carter III had said earlier, "The secretary of state regrets any such statement which shifts the focus away from concern for the hostages and may interfere with delicate negotiations."

Robert Strauss, the President Carter's campaign chief, said Kennedy "seems confused at times ... just really doesn't seem to know what he's doing."

"I am saying it is an error to inject anything into this campaign that could endanger these people over there," Strauss said.

The president did not respond directly to Kennedy's remarks, leaving press secretary Jody Powell to say, "The president made it clear ... that he did not think it appropriate ... to be drawn into a political debate on this matter while our people are being held in Tehran."

Other political leaders were not as reticent as Carter, however.

Acting Senate Republican Leader Ted Stevens said that Iranians holding the hostages could conclude from Kennedy's remarks that all they need do is wait until Kennedy is elected president and the shah will go on trial. Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., called Kennedy's statement "unfortunate."

Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, while not mentioning Kennedy directly, said the Iranians should realize the American people are united on this issue, adding "the voice of the president is the voice of us all."

Speakers At U.N. Denounce Iran

Iranians Vote Khomeini Absolute Power

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranian people, in a vast show of support for the Moslem elder who has made the holding of American hostages part of a holy crusade, voted overwhelmingly Monday, to make Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's political overlord for life.

The Khomeini regime, meanwhile, stepped up public readiness for an eventual U.S. military attack, expected by many Iranians. It posted more guards at the U.S. Embassy, where 50 Americans entered their 30th day of captivity in the hands of Moslem militants who demand that the United States hand over the deposed Shah of Iran. For the first time, some of the guards were dressed in green army fatigues and boots.

In an unexplained development, an ambulance was seen moving from point to point within the embassy compound. A student spokesman contacted by telephone said the hostages were "all well" but would not say why the ambulance went to the embassy.

Initial returns of a two-day referendum that ended Monday showed Iranians voting 60-to-1 in favor of a new constitution that Khomeini's political critics say will make him a theocratic dictator.

Though final official results will not be announced until later in the week, Iranian voters obviously did what the Islamic leadership had urged in the non-secret, yes-or-no balloting.

Reporters saw bearded, turbaned mullahs — Moslem priests — seated in front of ballot boxes at several polling stations instructing people to "vote yes only."

Then the mullahs, or anyone else, could see whether the voter put the green, for "yes," or red, for "no," slip into the ballot box.

In the referendum, it was reported that Iranians in northern Bandar Gavaneh voted 13,300 in favor of the constitution and none against. In Isfahan, 38,672 "yes" and 1,637 "no," and in Ardebil, near the Soviet border, 50,000 "yes" and 112 against.

Sections of the ethnic minorities in Kurdistan, Azerbaijan and Baluchistan and the Arab population of oil-rich Khuzestan province were boycotting the vote, as were Iran's left and centrist parties. The minorities, many of them Sunni Moslems, want more autonomy from the regime of Shiite Moslem Khomeini. The political parties denounced the constitution as a tool of dictatorship.

Draft Resolution Urges Release

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council met for just 30 minutes on the Iranian crisis, Monday, with four more nations joining the international chorus asking for the release of the American hostages held in Tehran.

The non-aligned members of the council circulated a draft resolution "urgently" calling for the immediate release of the 50 Americans held hostage in Iran for 30 days. But the council, whose meeting was postponed for 90 minutes for discussion of the resolution, did not take any action in its 30-minute session before adjourning until today at 5 p.m. CST.

Apparently giving in to U.S. insistence, the delegates dropped a reference in the resolution that would have linked freedom of the hostages to formation of a special commission to investigate Iran's charges against deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

Only Five Delegates Ask To Speak

Only five delegates requested permission to speak Monday, Bolivia, which spoke on the first day, read a statement on behalf of the Latin American bloc urging the release of the hostages.

Swaziland, Austria, Belgium and Mauritius, the nations scheduled to speak that had not taken the floor earlier, also called for the immediate release of the hostages, making a total of 32 speakers in three days who have asked for the freeing of the hostages in a rare show of unanimity that has cut across all political blocs.

The Soviet Union and China, political foes, and Israel and the Arab nations of Kuwait and Egypt, all called for Iran to let the hostages go.

The non-aligned members of the council spent the day discussing a working paper drafted by Nigeria as a guideline for a resolution.

Diplomatic sources said it included various proposals, including setting up a commission to investigate Iranian charges of murder and corruption during the shah's 37-year rule.

The United States opposed any concession to Iran as long as the hostages remain in captivity and apparently was successful, at least for the time being, in keeping the idea of an investigating commission off the draft resolution.

Diplomats emphasized that the resolution is subject to negotiation and may be changed again.

The four main paragraphs of the draft reads as follows:

1. Urgently calls on the government of Iran to release immediately the personnel of the American Embassy being held in Tehran, to provide them protection and allow them to leave the country.

2. Further calls on the governments of Iran and the United States to exercise the utmost restraint and to take urgent steps to resolve peacefully the remaining issues between them to their mutual satisfaction.

3. Requests the secretary general (Kurt Waldheim) to lend his good offices to the immediate implementation of this resolution and to report urgently to the security council.

4. Decides that the council will remain actively seized with the matter.

Bolivia Speaks First

First to speak was ambassador Sergio Palacios de Vizzio of Bolivia who read out a statement by the group of Latin American delegations, which echoed earlier calls for Iran to abide by international treaties and immediately free the hostages.

A U.N. spokesman said the council had scheduled another meeting for 4 p.m. Tuesday. Diplomatic sources said the 15 council members would in the meantime continue to privately discuss the text of the resolution. The tentative draft circulated, they said, would be the basis for these talks.

In two emergency sessions, Saturday and Sunday night, 28 speakers unanimously supported the call for freeing the hostages, but came up with different opinions on how to deal with Iran's grievances. Most delegates favored hearing them, but differed on the questions of when and how.

Waldheim said Sunday Iran had indicated to him it would send a new ambassador to the United Nations.

Cincinnati Concert Stampede Kills 11

CINCINNATI (AP) — A panicked crowd stampeded as they arrived for a rock concert by "The Who" on Monday night, and Fire Chief Kurt Lukananni said at least 11 people were killed in the crush.

A number of persons were also reported injured.

Officials said they could not explain why the crowd panicked as they went into the Riverfront Coliseum for the concert.

Authorities said police and fire department ambulances took the injured to at least four Cincinnati hospitals.

Cincinnati Public Safety director Richard Castellini said the victims were apparently trampled or suffocated.

"The Who," is among the oldest surviving British rock groups, and is featured in the recently released film, "Quadrophenia." The group wrote the rock opera "Tommy," which also became a movie.

Solons Plan City Study On Cotton

By DUANE HOWELL

Avalanche-Journal Farm Editor

A HEARING by the U.S. House Cotton Subcommittee will be held in Lubbock Dec. 29. The Avalanche-Journal learned Monday.

Veteran agricultural officials said the congressional hearing is believed to be the first ever held in West Texas.

Reps. Kent Hance of Lubbock and Charles Stenholm of Stamford, both members of the Cotton Subcommittee, had urged chairman David Bowen, D-Miss., to hold field hearings.

Details are not complete, but the hearing tentatively is scheduled at 9 a.m. at the Memorial Civic Center.

Other Sites Scheduled

Similar hearings are scheduled for Greenwood, Miss., on Dec. 27 and Fresno, Calif., on Jan. 4.

In revealing plans for the hearings, sources listed a number of issues on which the subcommittee wishes to solicit views from the cotton industry.

These include:

— A U.S. Department of Agriculture decision to have no cotton set-aside in 1980.

— Suggestions by USDA officials concerning the establishment of a cotton reserve similar to programs now in effect for feed grains and wheat.

— Expansion of the U.S. cotton export market.

Overseas Markets Eyed

— A need seen in some quarters for government credit programs to assist cotton in building overseas markets.

— The effects of government regulations, such as those under the Occupa-

SHALLOWATER — A 28-year-old woman, whose decomposed body was found Nov. 17 near Shallowater, died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head, an inquest jury ruled Monday.

After hearing testimony from six witnesses, the jury took five minutes to unanimously conclude that Doris Christy of Shallowater took her own life.

Shallowater Justice of the Peace Dardie Williamson had declined to make a ruling in the death, opting to have the jury, made up of three men and three women, decide the cause of the woman's death.

Testimony from several witnesses, including the dead woman's brother, revealed Mrs. Christy had suffered through several traumatic events in past years, including the deaths of two husbands and a male friend.

First to take the stand Monday was a 13-year-old Shallowater boy, who told jurors he had been jogging in a field about two-tenths of a mile east of here off FM 1294 when he discovered the body.

He said his dog picked up the scent of the woman. Lubbock pathologist John P. Ray, who also testified, said Mrs. Christy appeared to have been dead one to three months.

The boy said he found the victim in a See WOMAN'S Page 18

Second Arrest Made In 'Hit Man' Case

By KAY BELL

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A CHICAGO woman, who along with her husband is accused of offering a "hit man" $150,000 to travel to Lubbock and kill her son-in-law, was in the custody of Illinois State Police Monday afternoon.

But, Ann Ruffner Mraovic, 69, plans to fight extradition to Lubbock to face a charge of capital (murder) solicitation, according to Criminal District Attorney John Montford.

Montford said he received a call from Illinois law officers saying they had arrested Mrs. Mraovic at her Chicago home about 2:30 p.m. Monday. Montford said he was told Mrs. Mraovic has hired an attorney and plans to fight efforts to have her brought to Lubbock County for arraignment and trial.

Monday morning, Mrs. Mraovic's 41-year-old husband, Vaso V., was arraigned on a capital solicitation charge before Justice of the Peace Charles Smith. Mraovic remained in Lubbock County Jail Monday night on the $250,000 bond set by Smith.

The third member of the local "murder for hire" triangle, alleged "hit man" Mohammed Y. Owaynat, also appeared in Smith's court Monday for the setting of a $25,000 material witness bond.

However, the 35-year-old Owaynat, a Jordanian living in Chicago, was released on his own recognizance. Sources told The Avalanche-Journal that Owaynat, a self-employed businessman, cooperated with Lubbock authorities in their investigation of the alleged murder scheme, a capital felony carrying a life imprisonment or death sentence upon conviction.

Officials from the district attorney's office and members of the Texas Rangers arrested Mraovic shortly before 9 a.m. Saturday after he allegedly paid Owaynat $3,500 to purchase a gun and silencer to kill Lubbockite Arthur Boldt.

Boldt, owner of the McDonald's Restaurant franchise here, was married to Mrs. Mraovic's daughter, Lillian. Authorities here say disputes over the late Mrs. Boldt's 1965 will apparently prompted the "contract" on Boldt.

In addition to watching the exchange of cash between Mraovic and Owaynat at the Holiday Inn, 66th Street and Avenue H, sources told The A-J that Owaynat was wearing hidden electronic devices

EMS Operation Nears Completion

By KIM COBB
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

An areawide Emergency Medical Services operation came closer to completion Monday with the approval of Health Sciences Center Hospital as the regional resource hospital for the system.

County hospital district officials approved the installation of an antenna on the roof of the hospital complex as well as placement of a radio receiver in the Health Sciences emergency room. That receiver will monitor transmissions from ambulances in other counties as they transport patients to Health Sciences.

South Plains Emergency Medical Services representatives first came before the hospital district board in October, requesting space on the district's communications tower at Loop 289 and Southeast Drive. Further study proved the hospital complex to be a better location for the antenna.

Board members were skeptical during the first presentation, questioning whether SPEMS would only provide the hospital with more out-of-county "dumps" — or indigent patients. However, SPEMS director Giles McCrary told board members Monday that the communications system would serve to alert them before out-of-county patients arrived at the hospital.

"This will put you in a better position to control those problems," McCrary said. "We have a mish-mash of communications systems, now," he said, describing systems used by various county EMS units.

The new system, scheduled for hook-up in April 1980, will make it possible for the Health Sciences emergency room personnel to maintain contact with ambulance attendants and patients during the drive to Lubbock, and to monitor patients' conditions.

In other action, the board approved a two-year contract with Shared Medical Services for data processing systems at the teaching hospital. The hospital is changing its data processing service — Hospital Management Service — because it is going out of business.

The old system also has been blamed for many of the past billing problems at the hospital.

Hospital employees are scheduled to make the conversion to the new system Jan. 26, provided the Lubbock county commissioners approve the contract in a meeting this morning.

Interim administrator Charles Roberts gave the board what he called good news, saying the hospital had received a two-year accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation. Usually, new facilities are only granted a one-year accreditation certificate.

Board members made a special presentation to former chairman Jack Strong, thanking him for his five years' service for the hospital district.

One of the newest board members, Dub Rushing, told Strong, "In this short time, I admire you for staying five years."

Higher Temperatures Expected To Continue

With winter less than two weeks away, Lubbock's mercury is registering more springlike temperatures, and the trend is expected to continue through this week.

The temperature in Lubbock soared to 70 degrees on Monday, 22 degrees higher than the top reading for the same day in 1978, and a similar reading is expected today.

The mercury is expected to reach into the middle 70s today, dipping to the middle 30s tonight, and then soar to almost 80 degrees on Thursday. Winds today should become westerly at 10 to 15 mph.

The low pressure system, which extended Monday from southwestern Iowa to the Big Bend area of Texas, is expected to roll out of the area about Saturday, as a cooler high pressure system pushes in from New Mexico. Overnight lows, however, will remain in the 30s, and afternoon readings should be around 60.

While most of West Texas and the Great Plains basked under sunny skies and pleasant temperatures, residents in South Texas carried out their daily activities and Christmas shopping under a

The system bringing rain to the southern portion of the state left El Paso with a new record low of 17 degrees. Five other cities between El Paso and Raleigh, N.C., also reported new record lows, as the large high pressure system hovered over that area.

Supreme Court To Resolve Land, Water Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a case that could affect the ownership of a million acres of farmland in 17 western states, agreed Monday to resolve a stormy California dispute over land and water.

The justices will decide whether farm owners in the state's Imperial Valley must sell huge portions of their land — everything in excess of 160 acres for each family member — to continue receiving free government irrigation.

A federal appeals court has ruled that a 77-year-old law prohibits free water, vital for crop success, to larger farms.

Of the almost 10 million acres in 17 states covered by the law, ownership of about one million acres might have to be redistributed if irrigation is to continue.

In other matters Monday, the high court took these actions:

• Rebuffed a request to shield fiction from libel lawsuits by leaving intact a $75,000 award against the author and publisher of a 1971 novel.

The justices refused to review a California court ruling that a leader of nude group therapy sessions, Paul Bindrum, was libeled by his alleged portrayal in the novel "Touching" by Gwen Davis Mitchell.

• Refused to free an Albuquerque, N.M., newspaper from giving the names of confidential sources to a man who is suing the paper for libel.

The court, without a recorded dissent, rejected an appeal by the Albuquerque Journal, whose secret news sources were jeopardized by the state court orders, and the Albuquerque Tribune. Both newspapers were sued for libel in 1975 by a prominent New Mexico lawyer.

• Turned down the appeal of former college professor Frank Giese convicted of plotting the 1973 bombings of two Portland, Ore., military recruitment centers. Giese, 63, now faces five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

• Agreed to decide how freely a government agency set up to protect the buying public can hand out information sought by consumers.

The justices will decide whether the Consumer Product Safety Commission must carry out exhaustive investigations before answering each request for information it receives under the Freedom of Information Act, a law aimed at curtailing government secrecy.

• Refused to disturb a $1 million fee the Telex Corporation must pay a San Francisco law firm for preparation of a Supreme Court appeal never acted on.

In the western irrigation controversy, the court agreed to hear three separate appeals filed by California, a group of Imperial Valley farm owners and the Imperial Irrigation District, which distributes the federal water.

The Reclamation Act of 1902 authorized vast amounts of government spending for construction of dams and canals to irrigate the dry western states. The act imposed the 160-acre limit for receiving free government water and said that landowners had to live on or near the irrigated land.

As farming began to grow into big business, with family farms being replaced by huge spreads run by absentee corporations, the law was largely ignored.

The Imperial Valley, adjacent to the Mexican border in California's southeastern corner, has received irrigated water since 1942 from the Colorado River, through the All-American Canal.

The acreage limit was never applied in the valley because of a letter written by President Hoover's secretary of interior, Ray Wilbur, just before he left office in 1933. In it Wilbur told the irrigation district that the 1902 act's 160-acre limit applied only to government water "sold" to farmers, not given to them free of charge.

Despite questions about the legal weight and accuracy of Wilbur's letter, it was not until 1967 that the federal government sued the irrigation district to enforce the 1902 law. The legal case has dragged through the federal courts for the past 13 years.

In 1977, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the 1902 act did apply to the Imperial Valley. It is that ruling the justices will review.

In addition to California, the states covered by the law are Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

FDA Recommends

Over Counter Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Food and Drug Administration advisory panel says consumers should be allowed to buy hydrocortisone without a prescription to treat poison ivy and other skin irritations.

Allowing over-the-counter sales of the prescription drug for external use only "would be of great benefit to consumers," the advisers said in a report released Monday.

The FDA will consider the panel's recommendations and eventually propose new regulations covering these products.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Chicken Pox Politics

AUSTIN—That Ronald Reagan's commanding position in the Republican presidential race may ultimately face only George Bush's challenge was suggested when word passed among Republican governors meeting here that Gov. James Thomp-since a chance encounter and brief handshake at an Israel Bonds rally in Chicago last year.

Connally's ardent courtship of Thompson had nailed down no hard commitment but did produce this understanding.

Reporter For Life

WASHINGTON—I came to Washington in the fall of 1948, a relatively callow reporter from the New York World-Telegram by way of Southbridge, Mass.
The two newspapermen I have come to admire more than any of my other worthy colleagues are Dick Strout of The Christian Science Monitor and The New Republic, and Scotty Reston of The New York Times.

FIRST, IT would enhance Connally's showing in the important Illinois primary March 18, second, it would give Thompson precedence in the Connally entourage, including the possibility of becoming Connally's vice president.
"The trouble is," one Thompson aide told us at the winter session of the Republican governors' conference, "the whole deal depended on Connally producing Connally has not been able to produce—not yet anyway.

Oil Boycott Won't Hurt Much

ALTHOUGH THE U.S. boycott of Iranian oil may increase already rising fuel prices and lengthen any future gas lines, this response to the seizure of the American embassy in Tehran may help discourage future oil blackmail.
Long-term world economic implications,
however, will depend on whether the Iranis cut back their oil production, according to Heritage Foundation analysts.
They describe the President's decision to ban Iranian oil imports as "a symbolic victory of the U.S. over a radical Islamic regime which has steeped itself in symbolism." Milton Copulos and James Phillips see the boycott as neutralizing Iranian oil leverage over the U.S.: "Given the fact that Iran was on the verge of declaring an embargo on oil exports to the U.S., the U.S. had little to lose and much to gain."

THEY NOTE that the real impact of an Iranian shutdown is somewhat hard to assess precisely, due to the fact that the Ayatollah Khomeini has chosen to dedicate a substantial amount of Iran's production to the spot market.
Oil sold on the spot market is virtually impossible to trace since it may change hands dozens of times prior to its ultimate resting place.

AN EDITORIAL:

Money Funds Not 'Sure-Fire'

THE GROWTH of money-market funds has been a worrisome development for mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations, many of which have recently experienced their first decline in assets since the credit squeeze of 1974.
In the first three quarters of this year, the assets of money-market funds almost tripled —from $12.2 billion to about $35 billion at present. In 1978, the assets quadrupled.
Baron's, the business and financial weekly, says this year's rise of interest rates to the highest levels in U.S. history has made the funds increasingly attractive as an investment.
Money magazine's Richard Eisenberg wrote that "in topsy-turvy fashion short-term bank certificates of deposit, corporate IOUs and Treasury bills...have been yielding more than their long-term counterparts (corporate and government bonds)."

ALTHOUGH NO two money-market funds operate in precisely the same way, their basic strategy is to pool investors' deposits to buy debt securities that usually mature within a year. Steven Anreder observed in the Oct. 15 Baron's:
"They are highly liquid (holdings can be cashed in on a day's notice), they offer handsome returns (with yields at or near money market rates) and convenience (checks can be written with minimums ranging from $250-500)."

ART BUCHWALD:

More Blessed To Take Than Give For Banker

WASHINGTON—Remember those wonderful advertisements of a few years ago telling you that if you brought a friend into a bank and he opened an account, you would receive anything from a toaster to a 25-inch color television set for steering him their way?
While the depositor was over at the teller's window filling out all the forms, the bounty hunter was escorted to the bank's hidden gift shop where he could select a token of the bank's esteem.
I even did it myself. A few years ago I talked my friend Brinkerhoff into putting all his savings into the Second National Trust and Dime Savings Bank of Georgetown and wound up with an electric blanket as my reward.
THE OTHER day a vice president of the bank came to see me. He was very angry. Brinkerhoff has just taken all his funds out of the bank," he told me.
"I'm sorry to hear that," I said. "I guess he figured he could do better somewhere else."
"It's your responsibility to get him back," he said.
"I don't see how you figure that," I said. "All your advertisement asked me to do was bring a friend in. You said nothing about my guaranteeing he would stay with you."
"It should have been obvious that you expected an electric blanket from us when you expected us to make sure that Brinkerhoff would stay with us. Do you think blankets grow on trees?"
I TOLD him, "Well, if you want to know the truth, Brinkerhoff and I aren't talking any more."
"What happened?"
"My wife let it slip about three months later that I got an electric blanket for steering Brinkerhoff into your bank. Since he got nothing for depositing his money there he accused me of being a shill for you and he stomped out of my house in a rage. I have never heard from him since."

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

Sky High Air Fare

DALLAS—There may be talk of a recession, and airline fares are taking off like jets, but Americans still fly home for Christmas. If you work it right, you can even wind up on an overbooked flight, get there by tree-trimming time—and make yourself a little money on the side.
Listen, with the price of toy trains this season, every little bit helps. And those bumping refunds could make quite a dent in the Christmas bills.
It takes a little planning and a devil-may-care spirit (there's no guarantee that you'll score), but for some folks the payoff is worth it.
Here's how it goes:
Everybody knows airlines deliberately overbook to make up for no-shows, right?

IT'S LEGAL, and with the cost of jet fuel these days, the airlines need full planes to make ends meet. (Your end may suffer in the cramped quarters, but the airline saves money.)
Overbooking goes into high gear during the holidays, when everybody gets the old "over the rooftops and through the clouds to Grandmother's house we go" spirit.
So the odds are pretty good that a certain number of folks are going to get bumped this month.
The trick is to make sure you're one of those folks. Then it's money-in-the-bank-time, kids, because the airlines have to pay you to give up your seat. How much you get depends on how fast you can talk.

THIS IS a fairly new wrinkle in jet flight. Back in the old days, the airlines casually bumped the stragglers who showed up at the last minute. But now, under Civil Aeronautics Board rules, they are required to ask around for volunteers.
If you're not in a hurry, here's your chance to sell your ticket back to the airline for a lot more than you paid for it. And, with any luck, you'll still get out the same day.
There are a few ground rules, of course.
For openers, you might want to find out what alternate flights they can put you on.
And if they'll offer free meals, a hotel room, and money for phone calls, cab fares, etc. No sense frittering away your "compensation" on what it costs you to wait around for an empty seat, now, is there?

THEN, SINCE the CAB doesn't say how much the airline has to pay you to volunteer, you have to be prepared to dicker for the best deal.
This is not for the faint of heart, since it could turn into a bidding contest with other volunteers who are also on to the gimmick.
The airline will probably sic its most experienced negotiators on you, playing one against the other according to the rules of the game that say the money goes to the passenger who offers to sell back at the lowest price.
But on a busy flight, if you're the only one, you could do right well for yourself.
You can even make money if there are no volunteers, and you get bumped against your will.
Here's how that goes:

FIRST, YOU get an on-the-spot payment of what they call "denied-boarding" compensation.
How much depends on the price of your ticket and how long it takes to find you another flight.
The airline is required to pay you the fare to Grandmother's (or wherever it is you're headed) up to a maximum of $200. Double that if they can't get you there within two hours of your original flight (four on international schedules).
And the delayed flight is on them. You get to keep your original ticket, which you can use later or turn in for a refund.
Exceptions? Sure.
1. You must have a confirmed reservation, meet the airline's deadline for buying your ticket, and show up at the boarding gate the required time before departure.
2. IF THE AIRLINE substitutes a smaller plane for your flight, too bad. Bumpies get nothing in that case.
3. If a government official on emergency business needs your seat, he gets it and you're out of luck. Take heart, though, this hardly ever happens.
If you're the kind of traveler who likes everything buttoned up tight, this game of airline roulette is not for you. You may not want to chance getting there so late old Granny writes you out of her will.
And if you schedule an early flight to leave yourself room to be bumped, you suffer the danger of a timely arrival and there you are, with no refund and an extra day to spend helping the old girl find her glasses.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

ELOPEMENT IS an old-timey word for the sort of sudden marriage that remains highly popular. But it is still not the sort of marriage that has the best statistical chances for enduring.
A study of 730 couples who ran off to commit surprise weddings indicates they didn't fare as well as a like number of pairs who got married in traditional ceremonies. Trouble with elopements, these researchers say, is they involve a high proportion of people who just want to escape from something.
Our Love and War man has been unable to come up with any positive proof of the claim that the main reason men grow beards is that women can't.
Anonymous is the love and war expert of yesteryear who observed: "A man admires the woman who makes him think, but he keeps away from her. He likes the woman who makes him laugh, loves the girl who hurts him, and marries the woman who flatters him."
Q. What was the first "knock-knock" joke and when did it come out?
A. The year was about 1937. Argument continues as to the first. One possibility: "Knocknock" "Who's there?" "Olive." "Olive who?"
"Olive you."
There was a time when most giraffes did not have such long necks. But from season to season, food became scarce. And those with longer necks survived by foraging high in the trees. And they passed the long-neck trait down through the generations. Development of the giraffe is said to be a near perfect pattern of that thing called natural selection.

Associates' Reputations May Hurt Carter's Re-Election Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's reputation for personal integrity has remained virtually unblemished during his three years in office, but his re-election effort could suffer from publicity regarding Bert Lance, Hamilton Jordan and his brother Billy.

Carter hired Bert Lance, his banker from Georgia, as director of the Office of Management and Budget. When Lance's past banking practices were called into question, Carter read a preliminary report on Lance's banking activities and said, "Bert, I am proud of you."

Now, Lance is going to trial on charges of banking conspiracy. Meanwhile, a special prosecutor is setting up shop in New York to investigate the claim of two tax-evading disco owners that Hamilton Jordan had snorted cocaine in a visit to Studio 54 in New York.

There may also be lingering damage from the publicity generated by Billy Carter's mismanagement of the family peanut business and the fruitless investigation of it by special counsel Paul Curran, along with Billy's dealings with Libyan government officials.

Curran's probe was prompted by lingering suspicions that Carter financed his 1976 campaign in part by illegally siphoning off bank loans from Lance to the peanut business.

The so-called "Peanutgate" affair brought out that Billy did a bad job managing the warehouse operation, but Curran, a Republican, said he traced "every nickel and every peanut" and found no evidence of illegal activity by President Carter or his warehouse operation. Billy's visits to Libya — and visits to him in Georgia by Libyan officials — raised questions about the president's brother being friendly with a nation not too friendly with the United States. Now that a Libyan mob has stormed the U.S. Embassy in Tripoli, those questions may be raised anew.

As for the president himself, the worst that has been proven of him is that the peanut business underpaid local property taxes — an altogether common practice — and that Carter may have hastened the firing of a federal prosecutor.

David Marston, at the urging of Democratic Rep. Joshua Eilberg, who was about to be indicted at the time.

Despite Marston's dismissal, Eilberg was prosecuted and pleaded guilty to conflict of interest charges. He was fined $10,000, sentenced to 3 to 5 years probation and barred from holding federal office. And Carter paid $1,443 in added property taxes and interest after a reassessment prompted by a news report that suggested the business had underpaid taxes by several times that amount.

To reporters who cover his daily activities, Carter appears as a Bible-reading moralist, a sober and faithful husband, and a man who is honest to the point of being dull. There are no incidents even remotely resembling Chappaquiddick in Carter's past.

Former NATO Official May Seek Nomination

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Gen. Alexander Haig, the retired NATO commander, is indicating strongly that he'll be the next candidate to enter the race for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Haig said in an interview with the Los Angeles Times Sunday that a speaking tour of 34 states and conversations with politicians and citizens have convinced him the electorate would be receptive to his belief in a strong presidency and a revitalization of America's role in international affairs.

Haig, a one-time protege of Henry Kissinger who served as chief of staff to former President Richard Nixon during the last day of Nixon's presidency, said he will "open up shop" in New Hampshire and "work there exclusively." He said a strong showing in the nation's first primary could move him from dark horse to contender.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is considered the front-runner for the Republican nomination. He is facing strong challenges from former Texas Gov. John Connally, Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker and George Bush, former CIA director and United Nations Ambassador.

Other announced GOP candidates include Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Sen. Larry Pressler of South Dakota, Reps. Philip Crane and John Anderson of Illinois, Los Angeles businessman Benjamin Fernandez and perennial candidate Harold Stassen.

Haig, who celebrated his 55th birthday Sunday said he once believed there would be no opening for him in the multi-candidate race. Now he says, several factors have changed his mind.

He said, the Republican contest is "unsettled...enthusiasm hasn't developed for any of the other candidates, even though there is a definite pecking order." He said events abroad have focused attention on the importance of a background in world affairs and the need for strong leadership. And the entrance of Sen. Edward Kennedy into the Democratic race has sent Republicans looking to a strong alternative.

Haig said he believed his service under Nixon would help rather than hinder his campaign.

He said a poll on the subject showed that Nixon opponents believe he held the White House together and contributed to the orderly transition to the Ford Administration after Nixon's resignation. Nixon supporters think he was loyal to the former President in trying times.

Answers Offered Concerning Oil Industry Earning Reports

By WILLIAM GLASGALL
 NEW YORK (AP) — Remember that string of 100 percent-and-more quarterly earnings gains reported by the oil industry this fall? Were those year-to-year increases the only profit numbers worth watching, or are there other figures that can help explain the state of a company's health?

Here are some questions and answers about what to look for in corporate earnings reports:

Q. Are profits the only statistics to watch?

A. The textbook "Accounting, a Management Approach," by Myron J. Gordon and Gordon Shillinglaw, says: "The absolute amount of income is an inadequate measure of profitability because it does not indicate how much had to be invested to achieve it."

Q. Can reports of large increases or decreases in profits — taken by themselves — be misleading?

A. Perhaps. "To me, the statement that Exxon's earnings were up 118 percent in the last quarter is meaningless," said Roderick Peacock, a Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. analyst.

Such a report "literally tells me nothing," he said. He added what he really wanted to know was "what was behind" the gain from last year's quarter, which was the company's poorest in five years.

Citibank economist Robert E. Lewis notes that "what has gotten to me at times is the overemphasis on year-to-year changes, particularly when the year before was much poorer."

"You can end up with a whopping profit gain on just ordinary earnings," he said, saying that after this year's depressed conditions, automakers conceivably could show large percentage profit gains next year "and still have inadequate earnings."

Q. What sort of supplemental earnings measure should I look for?

A. The use of "return on equity" — the ratio of net income after taxes to the book value of shareholders' investment and retained earnings — might not be a bad idea.

The late John M. Blair, a well-known analyst of the oil industry, once wrote that "profits cannot be legitimately criticized by ignoring the investment required to generate them."

But there's a problem. The breakdown of traditional industry boundaries can make company-to-company comparisons difficult. This is illustrated in Citibank's annual profit survey, which compares results of oil companies with those of manufacturing companies.

But oil companies also are coal, copper and uranium miners, transportation firms (pipelines and ships), food producers, chemical makers and retailers (gasoline stations and department stores).

The problem isn't unique to oil. Analysts compare Control Data with International Business Machines because both are computer makers. But Control Data also is the owner of Commercial Credit — one of the nation's largest finance companies.

Q. What about profit margins, the ratio of net income to sales?

"Profit margins should be one of the factors considered" in an earnings story, said Lewis. But he and others concede there are problems in just dish out the ratio and walking away without at least explaining margins in comparable industries.

Gordon and Shillinglaw make a further point in their 1974 text. "Differences in margin on sales (from one company or industry to another) do not indicate differences in economic efficiency," says the book, published by Richard D. Irwin Inc.

It adds: "Businesses such as grocery chains and meat-packing companies operate with exceptionally narrow margins on sales and rely on a large sales volume to cover operating expenses and yield a satisfactory return on investment. Others, such as high-fashion clothing shops and yacht manufacturers, take the opposite tack and operate with low volume and high markups."

There are similar arguments related to the use without qualifying explanations of such indicators as return on assets — the ratio of net income to total assets — or return on total capital employed — the ratio of net income to the sum of stockholders' equity and long-term debt.

EINSTEIN'S HANDS — Over 25 years ago, Ray Shaw obtained Albert Einstein's permission to sculpt his hands. She has long since become the foremost sculptor of hands, including those of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Joe Louis, Clare Boothe Luce, and is the only sculptor for whom Einstein ever posed his hands. Shown here is her original plastic model of that sculpture.

Sculptor Retells Story Of Famous Work

By TRUDE FELDMAN
NEW YORK (WNS) — One of the charming stories about Albert Einstein, whose 100th birthday was commemorated March 14, is how he came to pose for an enterprising young woman sculptor more than 25 years ago.

"It was a cool and misty spring day, just around noon," recalls Ray Shaw. "I had taken the train from New York to Princeton, New Jersey, where Einstein was a member of the Institute for Advanced Study. I walked up to his house on Mercer Street and rang the bell to ask him to pose."

"I was confident enough about my ability and brash enough to go straight to the man whose hands I wanted to model, even so eminent a figure as Albert Einstein," Miss Shaw said in an interview in her Manhattan apartment.

But Einstein wasn't home. His secretary, Helen Dukas, was about to turn Miss Shaw away, when the scientist himself came up the path. Miss Shaw recalls: "He peered at me, wondering who I was, as I summoned my courage."

"Professor Einstein," I said, my heart in my mouth, "I am a sculptor and I would like to do your hands."

"Einstein answered at once: 'Yes, but it is lunch time now. Could we do it another day?'"

"I was astonished when he said 'yes,' and before he might have changed his mind, we set a date for the following week."

"The professor posed for me in his study," she remembers. "It was a room tiered with books and his hand-scribbled notes and calculations. He looked like a biblical prophet, a shock of white hair tumbling around his ears, those sad and compassionate eyes, his broad forehead and drooping mustache."

"Most of all," Ray Shaw continued, "I will never forget the disarming simplicity about Einstein. He seemed to be one of the most sensitive human beings I have ever met, a man who apparently felt all the woes in the universe."

Einstein's hands were wide-palmed, his fingers short. Because Miss Shaw — who went on to become the country's foremost sculptor of hands — seeks to capture each subject's hands in a characteristic pose, she asked Einstein if there were any tool or piece of equipment he would like to hold as symbolic of his life work. After a puzzled look, he replied:

"A pencil, my child. That's my only weapon."

Einstein then picked up a pencil as if to commit a formula to paper and cupped his left hand upwards, in the position of supporting a violin. Holding the pose, Einstein watched closely and asked "dozens of questions" about her work as Miss Shaw measured his hands and made a model in plaster.

Miss Shaw remembers working at a rapid pace. Einstein indicated that he was pleased with the results and the artist received a note after the hands were completed. It came from Helen Dukas, who still lives in Einstein's house on Mercer Street in Princeton with his step-daughter, Margot.

The note read: "Professor Einstein asked me to reply to your letter asked for his consent to make reproductions of his hands for people desiring such copies. He wants me to inform you that he has no objection to this."

For Einstein's birthday last March, Miss Shaw flew to Jerusalem to bring a bronze casting of the sculpture to the Hebrew University, where it was exhibited as part of an Einstein centennial celebration.

Since modeling Einstein's hands — and subsequently the hands of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Clare Boothe Luce, Joe Louis, Archbishop Fulton Sheen, Lily Pons, Lauren Bacall, Fritz Reiner and many others — Ray Shaw went on to another career as a photographer and writer. She has traveled to some 40 countries on photo assignment for UNICEF, the World Bank and multinational corporations.

Ray Shaw is the only sculptor for whom Einstein ever posed his hands. Although she has had numerous offers from buyers, the artist will not sell the original plastic model which is now on display in her studio. However, the bronze casting, which makes a striking work of art, would be a notable addition to any private museum collection of important sculpture.

"If the right buyer comes along," she says, "someone who would appreciate being in the presence of this great man, I would sell the bronze hands."

But Ray Shaw will keep the original plastic cast, made from the clay with which she worked in Einstein's study, at home in her apartment.

"They are a reminder of genius," she said of the hands. "I cannot part with them."

WE EACH DESERVE SOME TIME TO USE IN ANY WAY THAT WE MAY CHOOSE.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am recuperating from surgery in a five-bed male urology ward. There is sufficient space between beds for a table. Curtains may be drawn, which does give one a little privacy but conversations are heard by all. Visiting hours are from 8:00 a.m. until 8:00 p.m.

I am writing about the lack of concern for the dignity of the patient. The most intimate history and physical examinations are conducted within hearing (and often viewing) distance of the other occupants of the ward, as well as their visitors.

Doctors make rounds, often accompanied by young interns. The eyes and ears of visitors follow the groups from bed to bed. It is difficult to describe the feelings of a sick person under such conditions. Of course, he is unable to help himself. He is treated as a "thing" instead of a human being.

Where does the responsibility lie for protecting patients against this sort of humiliating observation? After all, a patient is not community property. — Exposed Against My Will guilty because she listened to some vicious gossip, believed every word, then later discovered it was not true. She was mad at herself for being taken in so easily.

I work for an exclusive dress shop. Recently we put on a fashion show. After the show a pair of lovely earrings was missing. I assumed the woman who wore them last took them. I repeated the story to several friends.

Yesterday, while cleaning my closet, I found the earrings in a pocket. I'd like to forget the whole thing, but guilt is gnawing at my insides and will not let me rest. How can I make amends without looking foolish? — Mrs. T. In O.C.

Dear Mrs. T.: Go to each and every person to whom you told the story, explain that the earrings turned up in a forgotten pocket and say, "I am ashamed of myself."

You will not look foolish. You will look like a person who has the courage to admit you were mistaken and the decency to clear the name of an innocent victim.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 63 and have had hot flashes at night since the age of 50. My doctor has told me it is a hormone imbalance, but now I wonder if that is correct. Several friends about my age have the same problem and we are wondering how much longer these hot flashes (if that's what they are) will continue. Can you comment? — E.L.

By age 63 one would expect these symptoms, caused by the post-menopausal reduction in hormone production, to have diminished. Two rare causes of somewhat similar symptoms are an overactive thyroid gland and an unusual illness of the adrenal glands, called "pheochromocytoma."

I don't mean to suggest you have these problems. However, a woman who complains of menopause trouble after 10 years should see a doctor.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have had surgery for diverticulosis. Is there anything I should do so that it won't happen again? — D.M.

Diverticulosis is the formation of small outpouchings (diverticula) in the lining of the colon (large bowel). About 10 million people in the U.S. alone have this to some degree. It is so common that we can predict it in about 65 percent of people past 85. It rarely occurs before age 30.

The chief reason for it is thought to be a developing laziness of the bowel because of the kinds of food we eat. In less affluent societies, where fewer of the highly refined foods are used, there is much less diverticulosis.

Thus, as a general rule doctors recommend a high bulk diet for those persons with the pouch problem. These, of course, are the whole grains, bran, etc. The bulk helps keep the stool soft and the bowel active. Because this problem is so common with so many repeat questions about it, I recommend the booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," to readers. It answers most of the questions. Your copy is on the way. Other readers may obtain a copy by sending 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Donohue: We often hear of hammer toe. Is there anything we can do to prevent it. What causes them, and is surgery the only treatment? — Mrs. C.B.

Hammer toe is a bending of the joint into an upside down "V." It can run in families, result from a muscle imbalance, or (most commonly) come from wearing tight shoes that cramp the front of the feet. Usually the second toe is affected. Besides the cosmetic disadvantage, corns may develop because of the abnormal pressures exerted.

Short of surgery, a leather splint or soft pads at the pressure points help. Unless the condition does run in the family or a muscle imbalance exists, the best prevention is careful selection of shoes.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a ganglion cyst on my left wrist. Is surgery the only answer? Once one appears is it safe to leave it alone? It burns from time to time, and my thumb on the left hand is sore. I worry about it growing. Surgery has been suggested, but I want to wait a few months because of financial reasons. Is it OK to delay surgery? — Mrs. R.J.D.

Ganglia are soft cystic masses that arise on the wrist, over the covering of the tendons. They may also appear on the feet. Sometimes they connect with the lining of a joint, causing painfulness.

They are not cancerous and do not spread. They may be left alone as long as they are not causing disabling problems. Surgical removal is the only lasting effective treatment. Delay will not affect the outcome of the surgery.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have pancreatitis and take Pancreatin for it. What is the pancreas and what part does it serve in digestion? Is there any drawback in taking Pancreatin indefinitely? — C.J.J.

The pancreas is a large, somewhat tongue-shaped organ at the rear of the abdominal cavity. It has two functions — to make insulin for control of blood sugar and to produce enzymes that break food down into chemicals that can be absorbed by the body. It's sort of a chemical blending machine. Inflammation can cause the pancreas to lose one of its functions, yet retain the other. That is, it can lose its enzyme function and still produce the insulin needed for blood-sugar control. Since you mention using Pancreatin, I assume that function is lost or diminished in your case. Loss of insulin production would cause diabetes (high blood sugar).

Pancreatin (marketed under various tradenames) is a mixture of those digestive enzymes the normal pancreas makes. It has few side effects and can be taken for long periods of time. The purpose is, of course, to replace the substance the pancreas is not producing naturally.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Tell me about Bowen's disease. I had a vulvectomy operation and was told it would not come back. I can't seem to get anyone to tell me what I should expect now. I am 62. — L.G.

Bowen's disease is a non-invasive cancer restricted to the vulva, the female external genitalia. It appears as little white islands on red backgrounds. If it has not spread beyond the skin, it should not return after surgery. To the best of my knowledge Bowen's does not or will not affect the skin elsewhere on the body.

If one could describe any cancer as nicer than others, Bowen's would fall on the nicer side of the ledger.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for his invaluable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' names are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Auxiliary Opens New Gift Shop

The West Texas Hospital Auxiliary realized a goal Monday when they celebrated the opening of their new gift shop.

The shop, located in the lobby of the hospital, will feature many kinds of gift items, including plants, flowers and articles made by auxiliary members.

Since its organization in Oct. 1976, the auxiliary has contributed a great deal to the hospital — not only in service hours, which now total more than 20,000, but in gifts of equipment and scholarships.

These gifts include a Resuscitator-Anne CR mannequin, a chronological input apparatus for the WTH lab, a Life Pack III portable heart monitor and defibrillator for the emergency room, four LVN scholarships over a period of two years, an islet, cardiac and apnea monitors and a "Choking Charlie" for teaching the Heimlich Manoeuvre.

The organization has grown from an original 16 members to 34 members. Officers of the group are: Margie Bozeman, president; Connie Teague, secretary; Betty Morris, administrative vice president; Jo Johnson, second vice president; Lorene Meyers, treasurer; and Joyce Strouth, gift shop chairman.

Better than mistletoe: Your perfect figure.

Pat Walker's can make your holidays the happiest ever!

Wouldn't it be wonderful to whirl through the holiday season looking and feeling great, no longer burdened by excess weight? You can, you know. Joyce O'Bar offers beautiful proof that the Pat Walker program is as effective as it is pleasant.

The lovely Mrs. O'Bar radiates enthusiasm for the Pat Walker program—and with good reason. Without Pat Walker's, she says, she never could have achieved her present measurements. She relates her experience:

Through the years I have tried almost every diet plan available, only to gain what I lost. Today, after being a patron of the Pat Walker Salon for two years and maintaining my (new) weight, my friends and family know what the program has done for me.

Personally, it is figure perfection! I have lost 32 pounds and 53 inches. I wear size 7-8 clothes; before Pat Walker's program, I wore size 14. Today I'm 36-24-36 and will continue my treatments for firming and toning.

Pat Walker salons offer complete privacy in elegant surroundings. [Other features include] passive exercise, no disrobing and an individualized program for each patron. This is the only way I could have accomplished losing the pounds and inches where I wanted and maintaining my weight. No matter what your size or age, if you care for your appearance this program can work for you. I cared... I'm a believer!

Booklet On Merging Families Offered

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) — There are over a million divorces in this country every year. And four out of five people who get a divorce remarry. So the number of stepfamilies is increasing. In fact, there are an estimated 15 million children living at least part-time with stepparents. In some of the most famous fairy tales stepparents used to be villains. Now, on television we see stepfamilies who are immediately harmonious and loving. The truth is that most stepfamilies have some clashes, but with time and effort, most learn to adjust to each other.

There are a number of things step and natural parents can do to ease that adjustment from two families into one. The National Institute of Mental Health of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a new publication that suggests ways to prepare for becoming a stepfamily, how to help children cope with these changes and where to get more help and information. For your copy of "Yours, Mine, and Ours" send $1.30 to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 108G, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Here are some of the suggestions:

Examine your motives and those of your future spouse for marrying. If you are looking for a housekeeper, hire one. And, if you are only looking for an instant family, that's not a good enough reason for marriage.

Get to know your future spouse as well as possible in all sorts of circumstances. Include the children often.

Discuss the changes that will be necessary to form the new stepfamily. This is particularly important when you talk about ideas on raising children or if you have contrasting lifestyles.

Talk with your children about the effects remarriage will have on them: new family relationships, new living arrangements, their relationship to your former spouse. Consider your children's feelings, but don't allow them to make the decision about remarriage for you.

And while the wedding is still in the future, talk over family finances. Money problems are common in many marriages, but they can be doubly difficult when child-support money is coming in or going out.

Once the new family is formed, let things develop slowly. After all, love at first sight is rare for adults, and it is even rarer when the child sees you as a replacement for a missing parent. So be an additional parent, not a substitute. And don't expect too much, too soon — either from the children or yourself. Becoming a stepfamily isn't easy.

DEAR HELOISE: I've finally found a good use for empty instant coffee jars. I make Christmas presents out of them!

All it takes is a little paint and some cotton swabs. The swabs make great brushes that I can throw away after I'm through — no mess to clean up.

I paint the jar tops bright colors, then paint designs on the jars — sometimes flowers or geometric designs. Then I letter a "label" on the side.

I've used the jars to hold buttons, cotton squares, tea bags and hard candies.

Last Christmas, I painted the tops red and green and filled the jars with bite-size pieces of my own homemade fudge, individually wrapped in red, green, silver and gold foil; then gave them to friends.

They certainly looked pretty. — S. Rossi

DEAR HELOISE: Bet those friends thought they looked good enough to eat! (Which I'm sure they wasted no time in doing.) Thanks for a timely tip! — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE: To rid battery terminals of corrosion, use a tablespoon or two of baking soda in a glass of water.

Drench terminals and clamps, wait a few seconds, then dry. Or if very corroded, use sandpaper to carefully remove the corrosion.

Once the terminals and clamps are clean, cover them with a thin coat of petroleum jelly. This will last for some time, retarding corrosion. — Joe Snyder

DEAR HELOISE: To get more juice from a lemon, boil it for a minute or two in a small pan of water.

You will be amazed at the amount of juice you can then extract. — Mrs. Robert Brown

DEAR HELOISE: Anyone who sews a lot these winter days knows the frustration of trying to release loose ends of polyester thread from their fingers. It simply won't let go!

The solution to this problem is to place a folded terry washcloth (lightly dampened) in a pan or dish close by.

Rub your fingers across the washcloth and it works like a magnet, drawing the thread away from your fingers. — Beatrice Di Enea

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: Recently, when I was serving sandwiches, I introduced my family to a new kind of very dark brown bread.

I noticed 9-year-old Alan, who won't try anything new unless coerced, was really "diving in." I wondered why he not only was fixing himself a sandwich unasked but was making a double-decker one at that, using three slices of bread.

I didn't have to wonder long though because, after taking one bite, he got the funniest look on his face and exclaimed in disgust, "It's not chocolate!" — S.C.

The lessons of life come hard sometimes, don't they? Even though I had to laugh, I can really relate to Alan's dismay so, from one chocolate lover to another, here's a great big, extra special hug — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: To keep fruit cake moist and fresh, put a slice of bread in with it, then wrap the whole thing in foil or plastic wrap.

No need to use expensive wine or juices. — Helen Bromley

You never know what is going to be a bad result in a match point game until the scores are in.

Playing at five clubs, South wasted no time in chucking his contract out the front door. He grabbed dummy's ace of spades at trick one and eventually lost a heart and two diamonds.

East was one of those smart

Alec who like to point out their opponents' mistakes. He explained carefully that since South had to lose a heart trick some time or other, he should have planned to lose it in such manner that East could not get in. In other words, South should have let West hold the first spade. Then South could discard a heart on the ace of spades, set up three long hearts and get three diamond discards.

North became somewhat annoyed and finally turned to East and said, "Your analysis is good. Too bad you bid like money has gone out of style. If you had jumped to four spades, as you should have, the chances are that your partner would have played that contract. My partner was hard put to bid four clubs. He surely wouldn't have bid five. Four spades is a lay down and when the scores are in, you will find that your plus 100 isn't going to be worth much."

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I have a vague recollection about there being some strange tax rules concerning the dates of year-end stock sales. As I understand this, the dates are different for establishing losses than for establishing gains. Can you clarify this?

A. "Strange" is a kind word. "Confusing" comes closer but still misses the mark. After all, this is a family newspaper.

You can sell stock at a loss right up through Dec. 31, the last business day of the year, and report the capital loss on the income tax return you file for 1979.

If you sell at a profit in a "regular way transaction" — the way most stock trades are handled — you must do so this year by Dec. 21, in order to report your capital gain on your 1979 tax return.

The convoluted theory behind this is that you take your loss when you sell but that you don't have a gain until you receive the proceeds from your sale. The stock exchanges have a "five-day settlement" rule — meaning that the buyer must pay the purchase price and the seller must deliver the stock certificate within five business days after the transaction took place. Saturdays, Sundays and holidays don't count as business days. So, with Christmas Day in between, regular way transactions on Friday, Dec. 21, must be settled by Monday, Dec. 31.

The silly thing about this is that, if you sell on Dec. 21, your chances of getting your hands on the proceeds from the sale on Dec. 31 are almost almost non-existent. That money will be in your account at your brokerage firm.

Ready for another complication? You can sell at a profit after Dec. 21 and still report the capital gain on your 1979 tax return, if you don't do so in a regular way transaction.

You can do that, up through Friday, Dec. 28, by instructing your broker to sell for "next day delivery," or even by telling your broker to sell for "cash delivery" on Dec. 31.

Ah, tax rules. Is it any wonder we all need accountants?

the prices I paid. I know that, if I sell, I will have to include the transaction on my tax return — listing the dates and costs of my acquisitions. This I am unable to do.

How can a situation of this sort be handled?

A. With great difficulty. Your first move should be to contact the brokerage firms through which you bought the stocks. Ask if they can supply, from their records, the dates and numbers you need.

That may very likely turn out to be a futile effort. If it is, go to your public library. In the microfilm records of newspaper back issues, look up the prices of those stocks around the dates on which you bought them.

You must have some idea when you made your purchases. Your stock certificates were probably issued and dated about a couple of weeks to a month or so after you bought each stock.

Then, when you sell, list on Schedule D of your federal income tax return what you estimate to be your purchase dates and prices. Chances are the Internal Revenue people won't question your return. If they do, you'll have to convince them that you did your best.

The moral of this story, of course, is that every investor should keep the confirmation statements he or she receives when buying or selling securities.

Q. Where can I obtain a book — not a set of thick manuals — listing all the stocks on the New York and American Stock Exchanges?

A. "Stock Guide," published monthly by Standard & Poor's Corp. list all those stocks, as well as many traded in the over-the-counter market. Some brokers pass out copies to good customers.

You can buy that publication from Standard & Poor's, 345 Hudson St., New York, N.Y. 10014. But I have to warn that, once you write Standard & Poor's your name and address will be on mailing lists. I have a horror of junk mail.

Doyle welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Inflation Tops List Of Important Issues

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Inflation is the single most important issue facing the United States today, and the federal budget should be balanced, 19th Congressional District voters have told Rep. Kent Hance.

Of the more than 31,000 persons who responded to a districtwide opinion poll on major legislative issues, nearly 94 percent said the federal budget should be balanced and favored a systematic payback of the national debt, even if it means the reduction or elimination of some favorite programs or local projects.

Respondents also showed solidarity on most energy issues.

Nearly 90 percent favored a relaxation of environmental standards to allow a greater use of coal, more than 83 percent favored a decontrol of oil prices and 81 percent supported spending federal funds for the research and development of solar energy.

Although nearly 75 percent of those polled said they favored the construction of more nuclear power plants, more than 59 percent said they opposed allowing nuclear waste to be stored in West Texas or eastern New Mexico.

More than 70 percent of the respondents said they would support a delay in banning saccharin, the decontrol of gasoline prices and a tax credit for parents who pay for their children's college education.

However, by a margin of nearly 71 percent, those polled turned thumbs down on a program of national health insurance by which the government would provide basic medical services to all citizens.

The respondents also rejected by nearly 54 percent establishing a single six-year term of office for the president.

Those polled supported, although less strongly, giving the president the authority to ration gas, returning the Post Office to congressional control, reinstating the military draft, reinstating military registration without the draft and maintaining the present 55 mph speed limit.

Of seven possible problems, those polled were asked to select the single most important issue facing the country today.

Inflation was the choice of 54 percent, followed by energy with nearly 22 percent and defense with 9 percent.

About 6 percent of the respondents selected taxes as the most important issue facing the country, 5 percent chose agriculture, 1.9 percent selected international relations and 1.7 percent chose health.

Hance said the poll "helped reaffirm our beliefs about what people want their government to do."

The poll results reinforced feelings "that people are interested in their government," Hance said.

"People do care about what laws are passed and how those laws will affect them."

Results of the questionnaire are being mailed to respondents this week.

Food Costs Register At New High

By DEBBI STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Food costs today registered their highest level in the past five years, with only one out of 16 items routinely checked in an Avalanche-Journal survey dropping in price.

Meat, which often makes the big difference in shopping bill totals, rose significantly in the past month, with both a pound of round steak and a pound of bacon each costing 20 cents more now than at the beginning of November.

Round steak was $2.19 a pound in November, but jumped to $2.39 a pound. However, prices of this meat have been highly variable in the past year, ranging from $1.68 a pound in October to $2.59 in May and June.

Bacon, which had cost the shopper $1.39 a pound last month, now runs $1.59 a package. This price, though, is a far cry from the highest total recorded in the A-J survey, which was $2.19 a pound in November 1975.

These two meats accounted for most of the 56-cent increase in the total of the 16 items in the survey. The A-J list totaled $21.94 today, compared to the Nov. 1975 total of $21.38.

The only item giving grocery buyers a financial break this past month was lettuce, which was on special today at a local store for 39 cents a pound. At the beginning of last month, the same product cost 49 cents a pound.

Four items inched up only slightly in price this month, with half of the survey products remaining unchanged in cost from November.

Among the price gainers were milk, up 6 cents from $2.47 a gallon to $2.53, eggs, up 4 cents from 68 cents for a dozen of the medium size to 72 cents; stick margarine, up 4 cents from 77 cents for a one-pound package to 81 cents; and uncut fryer chicken, which rose only 2 cents from 47 cents a pound to 49 cents.

Survey prices staying the same included a large loaf of bread, 75 cents; a No. 303 can of whole green beans, 48 cents; five pounds of sugar, $1.33; five pounds of flour, 95 cents; and a 10-pound bag of potatoes, $1.29.

Others were a one-pound package of all-beef wieners, $1.98; and a 12-ounce jar of creamy peanut butter at 94 cents.

Although coffee increased nationwide in the majority of cities surveyed this month by the Associated Press, prices here showed no increase. The cost of a one-pound can of regular grind coffee in Lubbock still is $3.45, the same price it has been for the past four months.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the Small Business Administration are co-sponsoring two seminars to inform merchants how to deal with shoplifting.

The first seminar is scheduled today in the Chamber of Commerce conference room. The second will be Wednesday in Wyatt's Cafeteria meeting room at the South Plains Mall. Both will begin at 8:15 a.m.

Man Kills Friends When 'Unloaded Gun' Is Fired

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bruce Benning just wanted to scare his friends, but the pistol he brandished in jest was loaded. When he pulled the trigger, he killed his best friend.

Police said Michael Goerney, 23, and two friends, went to the Benning home about 2 a.m. Sunday to visit Bruce.

Benning, 24, awakened by the noise of the visitors, picked up what he thought was an unloaded, antique pistol, aimed at Goerney, and fired.

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be B for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Two U.S. Sailors Killed In Ambush

TOA BAJA, Puerto Rico (AP) — Terrorist gunmen ambushed a U.S. Navy bus on a lonely country road, early Monday, killing two sailors and wounding 10 other servicemen and women in the bloodiest attack ever against the military on this U.S. commonwealth island.

A statement left with a news agency said the Armed Forces of Popular Resistance, the Puerto Rican Popular Army, and the Organization of Volunteers for the Puerto Rican Revolution were responsible for the attack.

The three groups and the Armed Forces of National Liberation, which is based on the U.S. mainland, took responsibility in October for coordinated bombings of federal property in Puerto Rico and in mainland cities. The FALN's name did not appear in Monday's statement.

attack were Navy enlisted women, the Navy said. It said two of the wounded were in critical condition, five were in serious condition and three others were treated and released.

Dead Identified

Relatives, who said they were notified by the Navy, identified the dead as John Robert Ball, 29, of Madison, Wis., a communications expert, and Emil E. White, 20, of Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands.

Ball's family said he was driving the bus at the time of the ambush.

The yellow bus was taking 18 Navy communications technicians — all enlisted personnel — from the Sabana Seca Navy base, in this town 10 miles west of San Juan, to work at a transmitting tower about a mile away, across non-Navy land.

At a spot where a narrow two-lane asphalt highway passes a factory and a driveway, police said, a van blocked the path of the bus and terrorists opened fire, apparently with a shotgun and pistols.

One survivor, who did not give his name, said the driver was killed instantly by a shot under the right eye, and a passenger took the wheel and drove the bus back to Sabana Seca. Survivors told police the terrorists' van sped away after the attack.

The windshield and front side windows of the bus were riddled with bullet holes — police counted 41 — and shards of glass lay in a pool of blood beneath the first passenger seat to the left of the aisle.

The critically wounded were taken to the Veterans Administration hospital in San Juan, and those in serious condition were hospitalized at the Roosevelt Roads Navy Base.

The anti-Navy radicals have now "escalated their cause from peaceful demonstrations to criminal felony," said Rear Adm. Arthur K. Knoizen, the Navy's Caribbean commander. The admiral, standing before the bullet-pocked bus, told reporters the attack on the unarmed sailors was "a well-planned, well-executed ambush."

The FBI, working with Commonwealth police, took charge of the investigation. Fatigue-clad Marines with M-16 rifles patrolled the entrance to the Sabana Seca base, and the admiral said security was being stepped up at all military bases on this Caribbean island.

Years Of Protest

For years, various groups have protested the Navy's use of tiny Vieques Island, off eastern Puerto Rico, for target practice. The bitterness has intensified since the death in a Florida prison, three weeks ago, of Angel Rodriguez Cristobal, jailed on a charge of trespassing on Navy property during a Vieques protest.

Prison officials say he hanged himself, but anti-Navy protesters question that. One small radical group, the Armed Forces of Popular Resistance (FARP), had vowed vengeance.

The Puerto Rican Socialist Party's president, Carlos Gallisa, a vocal anti-Navy spokesman, called Monday's attack "the product of the situation that the U.S. Navy has created in Puerto Rico."

Carlos Zenon, head of the anti-Navy Vieques Fishermen's Association, said the Navy and the federal courts were responsible because they had not ended the shelling. The fishermen say the gunnery practice has hurt them economically.

"Not the Last"

"This is not the kind of fight that we want," he said, but he added that "this will not be the last" act of violence.

Puerto Rico's pro-statehood governor, Carlos Romero Barcelo, called the attack an "irrational and cowardly act."

Ruben Berrios, president of the Puerto Rico Independence Party, repudiated the attack as one that would only increase "repression."

Monday's was the first fatal attack on U.S. military personnel in Puerto Rico in almost a decade. A serviceman was shot to death in retaliation for the death of a student demonstrator in 1970. Since then, pro-independence violence here had been largely confined to pre-dawn bombings in which no one had been injured.

Two months ago FARP claimed responsibility for the brief kidnapping of 10 sailors at a bar, and after Rodriguez' death it vowed to "answer terror with terror."

BULLET HOLES — Large-caliber bullet holes pierce the driver's window of the U.S. Navy bus that was ambushed Monday by terrorists in Puerto Rico. Officials say two sailors are dead and 10 more were wounded in the attack which took place about 10 miles west of San Juan. President Carter called the assault "a despicable act of murder." "Military Attack"

The statement described the ambush as "a military attack against the naval intelligence base." It said the ambush was a response to the deaths of two pro-independence youths killed in a shootout with police a year ago near a communications tower in Puerto Rico, and to the death of an anti-Navy activist in prison in Florida, last month.

"The clandestine organizations are not playing at war," the statement said.

In Washington, White House press secretary Jody Powell said President Carter deplored the attack as "a despicable act of murder" inconsistent with the political attitudes of most Puerto Ricans.

State Department spokesman Carter said the United States had appealed to Libyan authorities for increased protection of the embassy, but that the plea was ignored. He said the Tripoli government's attitude was "inadequate and unresponsive."

The spokesman would not specify what steps might be taken in the review of U.S. relations with Libya, beyond saying that a "full range of options" existed.

Officials, speaking privately, confirmed that the administration might break relations entirely if Libya failed to accept responsibility and offer compensation as Pakistani officials did after the burning of the embassy in Islamabad.

U.S. May Break Off Relations With Libya

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is reviewing U.S. ties with Libya and is considering options that include severing relations because of a mob attack on the American Embassy in Tripoli, officials said Monday.

The embassy attack, Sunday, was the latest in a number of violent incidents in Islamic countries and involved a mob proclaiming solidarity with Iranians who are holding 50 American hostages in Tehran.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said a strong protest has been filed with the Libyan government, and he added, "I do not feel we have received a satisfactory response."

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said the administration is conducting a "general review" of relations with Libya, and he criticized the Libyan government's response to Sunday's mob attack as "inadequate."

The attack on the Tripoli embassy followed pro-Iranian demonstrations by Muslim militants at American missions in Kuwait, the Philippines, Great Britain, Thailand and India. Less than two weeks ago the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan, was attacked and burned.

Shah Given Quarters At Lackland

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The homeless Shah of Iran was secluded Monday, in comfortable, heavily guarded quarters at Lackland Air Force Base, but his next stop was the subject of extensive worldwide speculation and diplomacy.

Meanwhile, a group of Iranian students here asked city officials, Monday, for a parade permit to conduct anti-shah demonstrations downtown and outside the base. Friday, City Manager Tom Huebner said he would consult with federal officials and give the students an answer Wednesday.

Quiet Move

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who is recovering from cancer and gallstone treatment, was quietly moved from New York to a private ward in the 1,000-bed Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital here, early Sunday, for an indefinite period of convalescence.

He moved again, late Sunday night, to the more plush accommodations "deep inside" the 6,828-acre base, a top-level source said Monday. It was the first time in five weeks the deposed ruler had been out of the hospital.

At the Shah's request, the United States government was working to find him a permanent home. The Shah went to New York on Oct. 22 as a temporary visitor for cancer treatment and has been refused readmittance to Mexico.

A mob of Iranian students, who have held 50 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for more than a month, are demanding the return of the Shah to Iran for trial.

Dr. Ray said he could not conclude whether Mrs. Christy's death was the result of a homicide, accident or a self-inflicted injury. He added, however, "Of the three, I would favor suicide."

Ray said deterioration of the woman's body hampered the autopsy.

He said his examination revealed a gunshot exit wound in the upper left portion of Mrs. Christy's skull. Ray said it appeared the entry wound appeared to be at the roof of the woman's mouth.

The pathologist told jurors metal fragments found in the woman's skull were "consistent to that of a bullet."

Lubbock County Sheriff's Deputy Don Gass, the last to testify, said one spent bullet and five live rounds were found in the chamber of the gun under Mrs. Christy's head.

Gass said the victim's reflexes after she suffered the fatal wound could easily account for the location of the revolver.

Testimony revealed a former husband and a male friend of Mrs. Christy's had been killed in separate shootings and that another husband died of a heart attack about two weeks before she was reported missing Sept. 1.

Witnesses also said the woman had lost custody of her daughter and that her father, also of Shallowater, is dying of cancer.

When the Shallowater youth took the stand, he said of his discovery, "I looked under an old piece of farm machinery, and I saw a dead body there. I went home and told my parents."

The woman's brother, Dale Risenhoover, said his sister had been missing about two months before the boy's discovery.

Testimony indicated the woman was last seen at her father's Shallowater residence about 4:30 p.m. Sept. 1.

"She said she was going to take a walk," Risenhoover said. He said he became concerned the next day when he found the woman's purse at the house. "She never left the house without her purse."

Risenhoover told the jury two notes were found in the purse, one to her father and the other to her 8-year-old daughter.

He quoted one of the notes as saying, "I'm sorry for everything I've ever done." He added the second note expressed the same thought.

The woman's husband, T.L. Christy, died of a heart attack about two weeks before she disappeared. They had been married about six years.

Asked about the cause of death of a former husband, Risenhoover answered, "He was shot and killed." When Assistant District Attorney Yvonne Faulks asked what happened to a male friend of the woman, the brother again answered, "He was shot and killed."

Texas Ranger Joe Hunt said that during his investigation, he was told that the woman's second husband was shot and killed while fleeing a Lubbock club. The man allegedly gunned down a woman in the club, and while he was fleeing the bartender fatally shot him, according to Hunt's testimony.

Hunt said he also was told a male friend of Mrs. Christy's was shot and killed while attempting to repossess a car in the summer of 1977.

Another acquaintance of Mrs. Christy's, Rodney Peterson of Shallowater, told jurors he also was shot during the attempt to repossess the vehicle.

When asked by Mrs. Faulks if anything was missing from the woman's purse, Peterson answered, "Yes, ma'am. My .22 pistol."

He said he had given Mrs. Christy the gun in July after she told him she had received several threatening phone calls.

Hunt said he talked with a man who reportedly had lodged several threats against Mrs. Christy in the past. The man told Hunt the last time he had seen the woman was in about May.

None of the witnesses called this morning said they knew of anyone who would have wanted to do harm to the woman.

Lubbock County Sheriff's Deputy Don Gass and Lubbock pathologist Dr. John Ray were scheduled to take the stand this afternoon.

Governor's Race Eyed By Clayton

By JOHNNY HOLMES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

"IT MAY be down the road a bit," but Texas Speaker of the House Bill Clayton is considering running for governor in 1982, he told The Avalanche-Journal at a political reception here Monday.

Making a controversial appearance at a fundraising appreciation reception for freshman State Rep. Nolan "Buzz" Robnett, Clayton said, "I've not decided anything for sure. Let's just say I'm not closing any doors."

Called by many the most powerful man in Texas, the Democrat three-term house speaker raised some political eyebrows by agreeing to come to the reception for the Republican Robnett. His appearance became even more controversial after senior Lubbock City Council member Carolyn Jordan met with him last week to inform him of her plans to run as a Democrat against Robnett in the next election.

"Glad To Be Here"

"Even though I got a lot of criticism for being here, I'm glad to be here," Clayton told the gathering of about 150 persons at the University City Club, referring to Lubbock County Democratic chairman Madison Sowder's earlier statement that, "I don't think Clayton ought to be at the fund-raiser."

"We're Democrats and Republicans, but more than that, we're all Texans," Clayton told the crowd. "Buzz is a member of the current administration, and as long as we're all working together for the good of West Texas, I'll support the man in office."

Clayton stressed to reporters that his appearance did not constitute an endorsement for Robnett, nor did it mean he opposed Mrs. Jordan's proposed candidacy. "I make no endorsements. I don't want to get involved in this campaign," he said. "I make it my policy to appear at such functions with any incumbents who ask me to."

Jordan "More Liberal"

Mrs. Jordan, an attorney, is opposing Robnett for the District 75-A house seat that encompasses most of west Lubbock.

Although Sowder last week termed Mrs. Jordan "a political moderate," Robnett said, "It's stretching it to call her (Mrs. Jordan) a moderate. She's more liberal than moderate. But this is basically a conservative area, and I think I can better serve the people here."

Robnett welcomed Clayton to the reception, voicing his appreciation for the speaker's support. "I don't really see any difference in ideologies between Clayton and I," he said, defending Clayton's appearance at the reception. "We're both conservatives, we're both working for the people of West Texas, and I really appreciate his being here."

"We raised several thousand dollars here," Robnett continued. "It's a nice way to start off a new campaign. It should be a good race, but I think I can win it."

HEW Shifts Equality Rule In Athletics

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major policy shift, the government has decided that, except for scholarships, colleges do not have to spend the same for each female athlete as for each male to conform with federal laws banning sex discrimination.

Government sources said Monday that HEW Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris will announce Tuesday the change in "interpretation" of government policy on sex discrimination in collegiate athletics.

The major impact of the new guidelines is likely to be felt in college football because of the comparatively heavy amount of scholarship money allotted to the sport.

The per capita spending test was proposed a year ago by Mrs. Harris' predecessor, Joseph A. Califano Jr., who allowed exceptions for football because of the heavy expenses involved when compared to such other sports as tennis.

Under Mrs. Harris' new guidelines, per capita spending would continue to apply to financial assistance for college athletes. If 40 percent of a school's athletes are women, for example, women athletes must receive 40 percent of the money a college allots for scholarships.

One result may be that some colleges will have to allot more money for women's athletic scholarships, or raise more money to do so.

CANADIAN OIL HELP POSSIBLE

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Joe Clark said Monday he is prepared to consider making Canadian oil available, in concert with other nations, to cover shortages in the United States and in international trade this winter resulting from any boycott of Iranian oil. Clark, pressed in the House of Commons to take firm action against Iran while it holds U.S. diplomats hostage, also said his government is willing to consider barring imports of Iranian oil into Canada.

during the meeting, allowing investigators to listen to the two men's conversation.

Following Mraovic's arrest at the motel, authorities said they discovered he was carrying about $27,000 in addition to the cash he gave Owaynat. Owaynat was paid $5,000 by the Mraovics in Chicago for the job and was to have collected the rest upon completion of the contract, officials said.

Although investigators declined official comment this morning, Owaynat reportedly contacted Boldt upon arrival in Lubbock last week and told his alleged "target" of the contract.

Boldt, who court documents indicate has been offered a McDonald's franchise in Lawton, Okla., where he and his late wife lived before moving to Lubbock in 1969, in turn contacted the local FBI office and then the district attorney's office.

Federal investigators have been advised of the case because residents of two separate states are involved, a spokesman for the district attorney's office said. But Monday afternoon, Bernie Brown, resident agent in charge of the Lubbock FBI office, said no federal charges are expected to be filed against the Mraovics.

"Since state charges have been filed," Brown said, "that's where we'll leave the matter."

The will of Boldt's late wife apparently was the motive behind the alleged murder solicitation plan, investigators say.

Court Battles Conducted

Boldt and the Mraovics have been involved in court battles concerning Mrs. Boldt's estate following her March 28, 1978 death in Chicago. In her will, Mrs. Boldt provided that her mother, Ann Mraovic, be named the sole beneficiary of Mrs. Boldt's estate, aside from some personal items bequeathed to Boldt.

Push To Deport Iranians Touches Off Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's push to deport Iranians has set off an intense debate over the constitutionality of enforcing immigration laws more strictly against one nationality than against others.

Civil libertarians argue that the administration move violates the constitutional guarantee of equal protection of the laws. They say the Bill of Rights applies as much to aliens as to American citizens.

Administration officials reply with a long string of Supreme Court decisions supporting deportation of aliens who have violated the terms of their visas.

The officials argue that they are acting only against those Iranians who have violated immigration laws. They concede, however, that millions of persons from other nations face no immediate risk of deportation despite the same sort of violations.

Some experts outside of government say the debate raises questions never directly presented to the courts — and thus, still unsettled in the law. That may change, however.

Two suits alleging the deportation move discriminates against Iranians have been filed — one by three Iranian students, the other by the Confederation of Iranian students. A hearing on the two legal actions is scheduled Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Washington.

The debate began Nov. 10 when President Carter ordered a review of the immigration status of some 50,500 Iranian students in the United States. It was one of the first steps in the administration's efforts to break the siege of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and free the Americans being held hostage there.

Complying with Carter's order, immigration authorities have told Iranian students to report for questioning by Dec.

14, and they have taken steps to deport those found in violation of their visas.

The student visas allow temporary U.S. residence and require enrollment in a college or recognized institution. Those holding student visas may not work full-time.

Immigration Service spokesman Verne Jervis said Friday that 29,800 Iranian students have been questioned and that 23,500 were complying with the visa terms. They are safe from deportation, he said.

But Jervis said 4,000 have violated the rules, most by staying longer than the visa allowed, and that the others' situations are unclear and being re-evaluated.

He added that 458 of those in violation have agreed to leave the United States voluntarily, and 26 have left already. The deportation machinery is gearing up against the other violators.

In addition to students, an undetermined number of Iranians in the United States on tourist or business visas also face deportation when their visas expire.

Civil liberties attorneys say many of these Iranians risk death or imprisonment if they return to Iran.

What troubles the civil libertarians most is the selective enforcement of immigration laws, based on nationality.

"It becomes sort of Ayatollah to say we're going to pick on Iranian students, to single out Iranians when you're not checking on anybody else," said Joseph Rauh, a Washington lawyer and longtime civil liberties leader.

"It is not only a violation of civil liberties, but ludicrous," he continued. "If it would bring one hostage home one minute sooner, one might consider it. But it won't bring one hostage home. You don't answer the outrages of the Ayatollah by mistreating people in your own country."

Iranian Student To Be Deported From Texas

HARLINGEN (AP) — An administrative judge ordered an Iranian student deported Monday at the start of weeklong hearings on 36 Iranians enrolled at Texas A&I University at Kingsville.

Mohammed Abadi-Hassan Ahmadi said after his deportation hearing he was not afraid of returning to his volatile native country but wanted to finish his education in the United States.

President Carter ordered screenings to check visa status of all Iranian students after Americans were taken hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by militant students. The president said he wanted to avoid any incidents by Iranians in this country that might jeopardize the hostages.

"I don't care if they deport me," Ahliens have constitutional rights but not to the same degree as citizens," said Yale law professor Robert Bork, a former U.S. solicitor general. "If these were American citizens, obviously one couldn't single out an ethnic group."

But Bork said in an interview that he believes Congress would have the constitutional authority to refuse U.S. admission to Iranians or any other nationality. And if a nationality could be excluded from the country, then the government can deport those from a particular nation who have violated the law, he said.

Civil libertarians argue that such selective enforcement runs against the grain in a democracy which claims to treat people as individuals rather than judging them on their national origin.

Bork responded: "I don't think the country stands for anything that says illegal aliens have a right to stay here."

Some civil liberties advocates are drawing a parallel between the deportation of Iranians and the government internment of Japanese residents, aliens and U.S. citizens alike, during World War

II. Rauh said the parallel is not a close one "because the government is not confining the Iranians."

But the Iranian student situation, he said, "results from the same kind of futility. It is a way to get at someone when you can't get at the real culprit."

14, and they have taken steps to deport those found in violation of their visas.

The student visas allow temporary U.S. residence and require enrollment in a college or recognized institution. Those holding student visas may not work full-time.

Student Jailed For Violation Freed On Bond

Nader Jahromi Sabet, an Iranian student arrested in Lubbock for visa violations, was released on $5,000 bond Monday afternoon.

Sabet had been transferred from Dallas to a Port Isabel detention facility. Lubbock Border Patrol agent Billy Rowe said Monday that he had talked with officials who told him Sabet was in the process of making bond.

Rowe said the bond was posted in the Washington, D.C., office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Sabet's brother, who lives in Arlington, Va., is believed to have posted the bond.

Sabet, an 18-year-old engineering student at Texas Tech, was arrested about noon Thursday at his Lubbock apartment after he missed a deportation hearing scheduled for Nov. 27 in Dallas. Sabet, one of the first Iranian students in the state to be arrested for possible deportation, is to be scheduled for another hearing before an administrative judge in Dallas.

Religions Teacher Discusses Khomeini, Shiite Moslem Beliefs

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini is not a demented lunatic, as many Americans may believe him to be, but simply a product of his religion, says a Texas Tech University comparative religions teacher.

"He's not insane," the Rev. Bill Chapman told the Avalanche-Journal. "In fact as a Shiite Moslem, he's probably mainstream."

The Shiite (pronounced she-ite) sect comprises about 15 percent of the world's over 700 million Moslems. They are a small but vocal minority, concentrated in Iran.

While most Iranians, including the former shah and his family, are Shiites, according to Chapman, most Moslems are members of the Sunni sect.

The differences between the two factions are pronounced and date back to a conflict over the successor to the Prophet Mohammed — in which the Sunnis emerged victorious — some 1,300 years ago, Chapman explained.

Since that time, the Sunni Moslems have developed the calmer character of the two sects, being adherents of a faith the Presbyterian minister described as "relatively unemotional." The Shiites, however, Chapman called "more literalistic, idealistic, apocalyptic, intense and emotional."

Pointing to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's vocal disgust at the Khomeini-endorsed takeover of the American Embassy in Tehran, Chapman said, "You've got to remember Sadat's a Sunni. They look at this thing (the hostage holding) like most American Christians reacted to Jim Jones of Jonestown (Guyana). They think he's (Khomeini) a madman."

Saying he does not believe the present crisis in Iran represents a conflict between the U.S. and all of Islam, only the Shiite sect, Chapman said the basic difference between the two sects lies in their interpretation of the Koran, Islam's holy book.

Where the Koran states that "government shall be based on consultation, the Sunnis, notably in Egypt and Turkey, developed democratic systems, explained Chapman. The Shiites, however, decided

Judge Sets Hearing On Competency

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge scheduled a competency hearing for Rep. Daniel J. Flood to determine whether the Pennsylvania Democrat is mentally capable of standing for a retrial on bribery and conspiracy charges.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch set the hearing for Jan. 14. If declared mentally competent, Flood, 76, is scheduled to go on trial Feb. 25.

The January hearing was requested at a pre-trial status hearing by federal prosecuting attorneys, who cited the opinions of a Washington psychologist and a psychiatrist who believe Flood is mentally able to stand trial immediately.

"consultation" referred only to holy men and favored a theocratic form of government.

There was one problem with that ideology in Iran, Chapman continued. In the name of modernization, the Pahlavi dynasty — the former shah's family and the nation's ruling power — began efforts aimed at eroding the influence of Islam when they assumed leadership in 1925.

In Tehran, the three successive shahs transferred the church's wealth, second only to that of the nationalized petroleum industry, to government control, Chapman said.

Meanwhile, in the holy city of Qom, the Pahlavis were becoming increasingly less popular among devout Shiites. They were spearheaded in their discontent during the 54-year Pahlavi reign by the twice-exiled Khomeini.

When the Shiites finally ousted the shah after a brief but bitterly fought revolution earlier this year, a collective religious fervor long unexpressed was given free rein.

Chapman was quick to point out, however, that the zeal so frantically demonstrated in the streets of Tehran every day is no passing trend among Iranians, students or otherwise.

"They're not going to get tired tomorrow," he said. "It's a deeply, deeply set kind of emotion." Chapman called the year's events in Iran and their roots "virtually unique" in modern history.

"There's no comparison" between the students demonstrating in Iran today and American student actions during the volatile 1960s, Chapman continued. "Islam is a much deeper experience, it's a whole different animal," he said.

Khomeini then, Shiite among Shiites, feels the students who sacked the U.S. Embassy are "totally justified" in taking American hostages to secure the return of the former shah, according to Shiite beliefs.

"To him the shah is a criminal who must be punished according to Islamic law," continued Chapman. "In Islam, there is no room for the notion of forgiveness. If the Law is broken, the felon must demonstrate restitution," he said.

If the Shiites were to let the shah go free, they would be saying they never really believed the Law, the Koran, in the first place.

The shah's crime, according to the Shiites, was trying to diminish the importance of Islam during his reign, transferring church funds into state coffers.

and using the SAVAK — his hated secret police — to enforce his will for the nation, Chapman said.

Dismissing the notion that Khomeini is using his religious position for self-aggrandizement, Chapman characterized the current leader of Iran as "a very dedicated, sincere man who is probably confused and frustrated because what should work (the taking of American hostages) — isn't."

To the Shiites, Chapman continued, "it all seemed so simple." Taking their point of view, he continued — "we'll get the hostages and they'll give us the shah back. We'll appeal to the U.S. sense of fair play, they'll see the shah for the Hitler-type he really is, and all of Islam will support us."

"It just hasn't worked out that way," said Chapman, noting other Islamic nations have voiced disapproval of Iran's hostage-taking.

At the root of the present stalemate between the U.S. and Iran, Chapman said, is the "completely different reality" perceived by each country. "Their principle of law is completely at odds with ours," he stated.

Where the U.S. threatens military reprisals, the Iranians respond they would welcome martyrdom, Chapman pointed out. "They are concerned with the honor and purity of their faith and they are prepared to defend it to the hilt," he said.

While Islamic law does permit the taking of captives, Chapman said, it requires they must be "treated justly," he said. On that tenet of Islamic law the hostages are safe, but the two nations are in a permanent deadlock.

There is a catch, however. If the hostages are tried for espionage, as Khomeini promises in the event the shah is not handed over, there is nothing in the Koran to protect them, Chapman said.

"Don't ask me what we should do with the shah," said the concerned Chapman. "I don't have any idea."

Asked if the Iranians — the Shiites — would accept anything less than the Shah in settlement of the present conflict, Chapman replied gravely, "I don't know. I don't think so."

Confessions Of A Mat Freak

LUKE DANIEL IS A MAT FREAK.

And no, you don't need to worry about him either, he's doing just fine. Because his adopted Matadors — of the Estacado variety — are winning more than their fair share of ballgames these days.

And when the Matadors are winning — Luke is grinning. Lately, the second-year law student at Texas Tech has been nothing but teeth.

Estacado defeated Odessa Ector 7-0 in bi-district action two weeks ago and then rolled over San Angelo Lake View 21-7 last Friday in quarterfinal action. And now, for the second year in a row, the Matadors are in the Class AAA state semi-finals.

On Saturday, the Mats will travel to Abilene to face McKinney in the semifinals. And you can bet your boots that Luke will be there. He was there last year when Estacado fell to Gainesville 27-0 in the Class AAA semifinal as the thermometer hovered somewhere around zero.

THE LAST TIME A LUBBOCK SCHOOL won a football state championship was in 1968. The school was none other than Estacado — in its first year of athletic competition.

Times have changed since then but there are still plenty of folks that remember the Matadors glorious first year. And for sure, some of the people that traveled with the Mats in '68 will be traveling with them in '79.

In 1968 Luke Daniel was attending grade school in St. Petersburg, Fla. — for all practical purposes a million miles away from Estacado High. It was a long journey — and an even longer story — for a white boy from the Tampa Bay area to become a card-carrying member of the Estacado Booster Club in Lubbock, Texas.

But it's a story that Luke loves to tell.

IT WAS THE SECOND WEEK OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON, and somehow the law student found himself driving past Coronado High on a Friday.

"Everybody was honking their horns and leaning out the window screaming 'Go Coronado,'" recalled Luke. "And I remembered reading in the paper about some school called Estacado that had gotten blown out by Plainview the week before.

"So I leaned out the window and yelled, 'Go Estacado!'"

And then, just like in that commercial, everything got real quiet.

"I figured there must be something here that made everybody get so quiet," said our now-admitted Mat freak. "So I decided to go to one of their games."

And the rest, as they say, is history. The Matadors went on after that early season whipping from Plainview to win 11 straight games before Gainesville knocked them out in the semifinals.

The first game I went to was when they (the Matadors) were playing Monterey," said Luke. "I sat on the Monterey side of the field even though I was cheering for Estacado because I didn't know how people on their side would accept me.

After all, Luke is white and the Estacado crowd is predominately black.

BUT THINGS TURNED IN ESTACADO'S FAVOR, and Luke didn't really have any choice about his seat selection.

"They (Monterey fans) sorta made me leave," he says with a laugh, "so I went over to the Estacado side and everybody just accepted me.

"I guess I just sort of adopted it as my school," he says.

Eventually Luke got to know most of the Estacado faculty and students, joined the EHS Booster Club and now pumps rokes at Estacado basketball games.

At home or on the road, he rarely misses an Estacado athletic event. And the guy is a virtual goldmine of information when it comes to Matador sports. He can reel off the Estacado two-deep without missing a beat. Anything you want to know about the Mats — Luke's got it.

Okay, how about nicknames?

Tailback Kelvin White goes by Mo, fullback Alvin Davis is Bootchie, quarterback Jerry Gray is Jed, linebacker Steve McGraw is Hook, wingback Preston Davis is Mosquito.

Enough, Luke, enough.

BUT THE MAN DOES HIS HOMEWORK. Monday afternoon I found him in the Avalanche-Journal morgue going through back issues to research McKinney. The Mats will meet McKinney on Saturday and Luke wants to go into the contest armed with a wealth of information.

"Texas Football picked them to win it all this year," he informs, "but they lost three games in the first five weeks of the season. They've come on strong lately — but I think the Mats can take 'em."

There you have it — straight from a man who should know — the Matadors are capable of advancing to the Class AAA state finals. And it would be something for the entire city to brag about if Estacado could come away with a state title. After all, Lubbock High nibbled one back in the 50s, and Estacado brought one back to the Hub in the 60s.

This is it for Lubbock in the 70s.

THERE'S AN EVEN BIGGER REASON TO HOPE the Mats can make that trip into the state finals. Let's let Luke explain.

"It would really help some of the guys get scholarships if they can make it to the finals," he explained. "And I'd like to see as many of them go to college as possible."

"Isn't that what it's all about?"

Raiders Cage Jackrabbits

By CHUCK McDONALD

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Since he made the long trip from Buffalo, N.Y., to Lubbock and Texas Tech, life hasn't always been a bed of roses for Leslie Nichols.

But Monday night, big Leslie got his first-ever start for the Red Raiders and didn't feel so good. For the first 10 minutes of the game they stayed with the Raiders step for step. Then something happened to the visitors.

Tech coach Gerald Myers said it was probably their long road trip catching up with them and the play of the Raiders coming off the bench that turned things around.

Whatever it was, Tech zoomed from a 17-16 lead with 12:15 to play to a 51-24 spread with 2:39 left in the half. Sparking the Tech surge was senior Thad Sanders (nine first-half points), sophomore Steve Smith, freshman Joe Washington and transfer Dwight Williams.

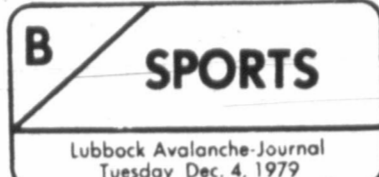

At the intermission the Raiders led 58-30 and from there the game was played for grins.

"Our first bunch was a little flat," admitted Myers. "But those guys off the bench were really up — they wanted to play."

"It's good to get a game like this," he added. "Everybody gets to play. Leslie was a little nervous — but he just needs a chance to play."

He (Nichols) was having to think about what to do instead of just doing it," added Myers. Nichols finished the game with 20 minutes of playing time, four points, four rebounds, one block and one assist.

"I was concentrating on not making he liked it. The 5,021 fans in attendance at the Municipal Coliseum also liked what they saw as Tech crushed an out-manned South Dakota State team 111-75 to raise its season mark to 2-0.

Big Leslie didn't dominate the stats by any means, but Monday night he was first in the hearts of the fans. When his name was announced as a starter (replacing the injured Ben Hill) the crowd erupted. When Nichols left the contest with five fouls in the second half he got a standing ovation.

"It was nice," said Nichols of the crowd reaction, "really nice. It made me feel good — I felt like the people were behind me."

New Deal, Seagraves Stack Up Well

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
After 12 weeks of play, check out the Class A playoffs and you'll find that — around here anyway — it's still a family affair.

A pair of South Plains teams, New Deal and Seagraves, meet Friday night at 7:30 at Lowrey Field in a Class A quarterfinal matchup. More than that it'll decide, once and for all, who is the best team in that class on the South Plains, a question that has been simmering all season.

Seagraves has been No. 1 in The Avalanche-Journal's South Plains Class A rankings since the very first week of the season. After an opening defeat, New Deal slowly worked its way upward to the No. 2 spot. But, since the teams hadn't played each other, nobody could really say which was better.

The main problem is that, except for location, record and a couple of opponents, the teams have very little in common.

To simplify the matter, Seagraves is a quick team. New Deal is a big team.

Of course, it's not that clear cut. If it were, neither team would be in the playoffs. But it does provide a starting point to analyze the two squads.

As far as size goes, there's no doubt that New Deal holds a large edge. The Lions have solidly outweighed every team they've faced this year. On offense, New Deal averages 205 pounds from tackle to tackle. In the backfield they're a little smaller, averaging 185 pounds

Seagraves, on the other hand, is substantially lighter. The Eagles average only 185 across the front line and their backs are a comparatively puny 155.

But that size difference hasn't kept Seagraves from running all over everybody it has played so far. In the regular season, the Eagles gained 3,621 yards rushing and averaged almost 400 yards a game total offense.

In two playoff victories, the Eagles gained over 375 yards in a 21-0 bi-district win over McCamey and over 400 yards in a 21-0 regional victory over Haskell last weekend.

The leading ballcarrier during the season for Seagraves was 5-11, 155-pound halfback Ronnie Griffin who rushed for 1,230 yards on only 129 attempts, an average of an incredible 9.5 yards per carry.

But in the playoffs, 200-pound fullback Davis Morgan has found his stride. Against McCamey he got 200 yards and against Haskell he got 99. That complements a regular season that saw him get 964 yards on 115 carries, an average of 8.3 a tote. During the playoffs Griffin hasn't been resting on his laurels either. He gained 94 yards against McCamey and 84 against Haskell.

While Seagraves relies on game-breaking speed, New Deal prefers more of a grind-it-out approach. With their big linemen, it's paid off.

The Lions gained 3,072 yards total offense during the regular season and have blown away their playoff opponents.

In a 35-8 bi-district win over Kress, New Deal rushed for 345 yards. Against Stratford last week in a 47-16 regional win, the Lions waltzed all over the Elks for 389 yards.

New Deal has four different backs who carry the ball well. During the regular season, 5-10, 180-pound Tony Howell was the leading rusher with 780 yards on 115 carries. The other halfback, 5-10, 160-pound Martin Adams, got 542 yards on 94 tries.

In the playoffs, Adams has been the leading runner. He picked up 154 yards in the win over Stratford and 87 in the Kress victory. Quarterback Ricky Smith, a rangy 6-0, 175-pounder, rambled for 116 against Stratford and Howell had 102. Against Kress Howell had 71 on nine tries and 5-7, 150-pound Billy Thiel had 74 on five carries.

There is another back in the New Deal armory and he is potentially the most dangerous. Fullback L.K. Bradley hasn't been picking up the big yards, but his 6-3, 220-pound frame could prove deadly against Seagraves.

On defense, New Deal is just as big as on offense. From end to end, including linebackers, the Lions weigh in at an impressive 215 pounds. That weight is especially impressive when compared to Seagraves' 185 pounds.

The defensive backfield is the only place Seagraves has a size advantage over the Lions. And that one isn't enough to write home about. The Eagle defensive backs outweigh New Deal's by 158 to 152.

The Lion defense allowed an average of only 111 yards a game all season. But teams seemed to find weak spots. Five teams rushed for more than 100 yards against New Deal and one, Roosevelt, topped 200 yards.

The others were Idalou (164 in a 37-14 win, New Deal's only loss of the season), Lorenzo (160 in a 14-0 loss), Hale Center (114 in a 41-6 loss) and Petersburg (131 in a 7-0 loss).

But, even if some teams could run on the Lions, few could score. In fact, after the opening loss to Idalou, only two teams scored on New Deal in the regular season.

In the playoffs, Stratford found ample running room, picking up 201 yards on the ground (the Elks got 153 throwing as well) and Kress got 113.

Seagraves was equally impressive during the regular season. The Eagles allowed an average of 121 yards a game, but only one team managed to gain more than 100 yards rushing on them. That was Lorenzo in a 35-14 loss.

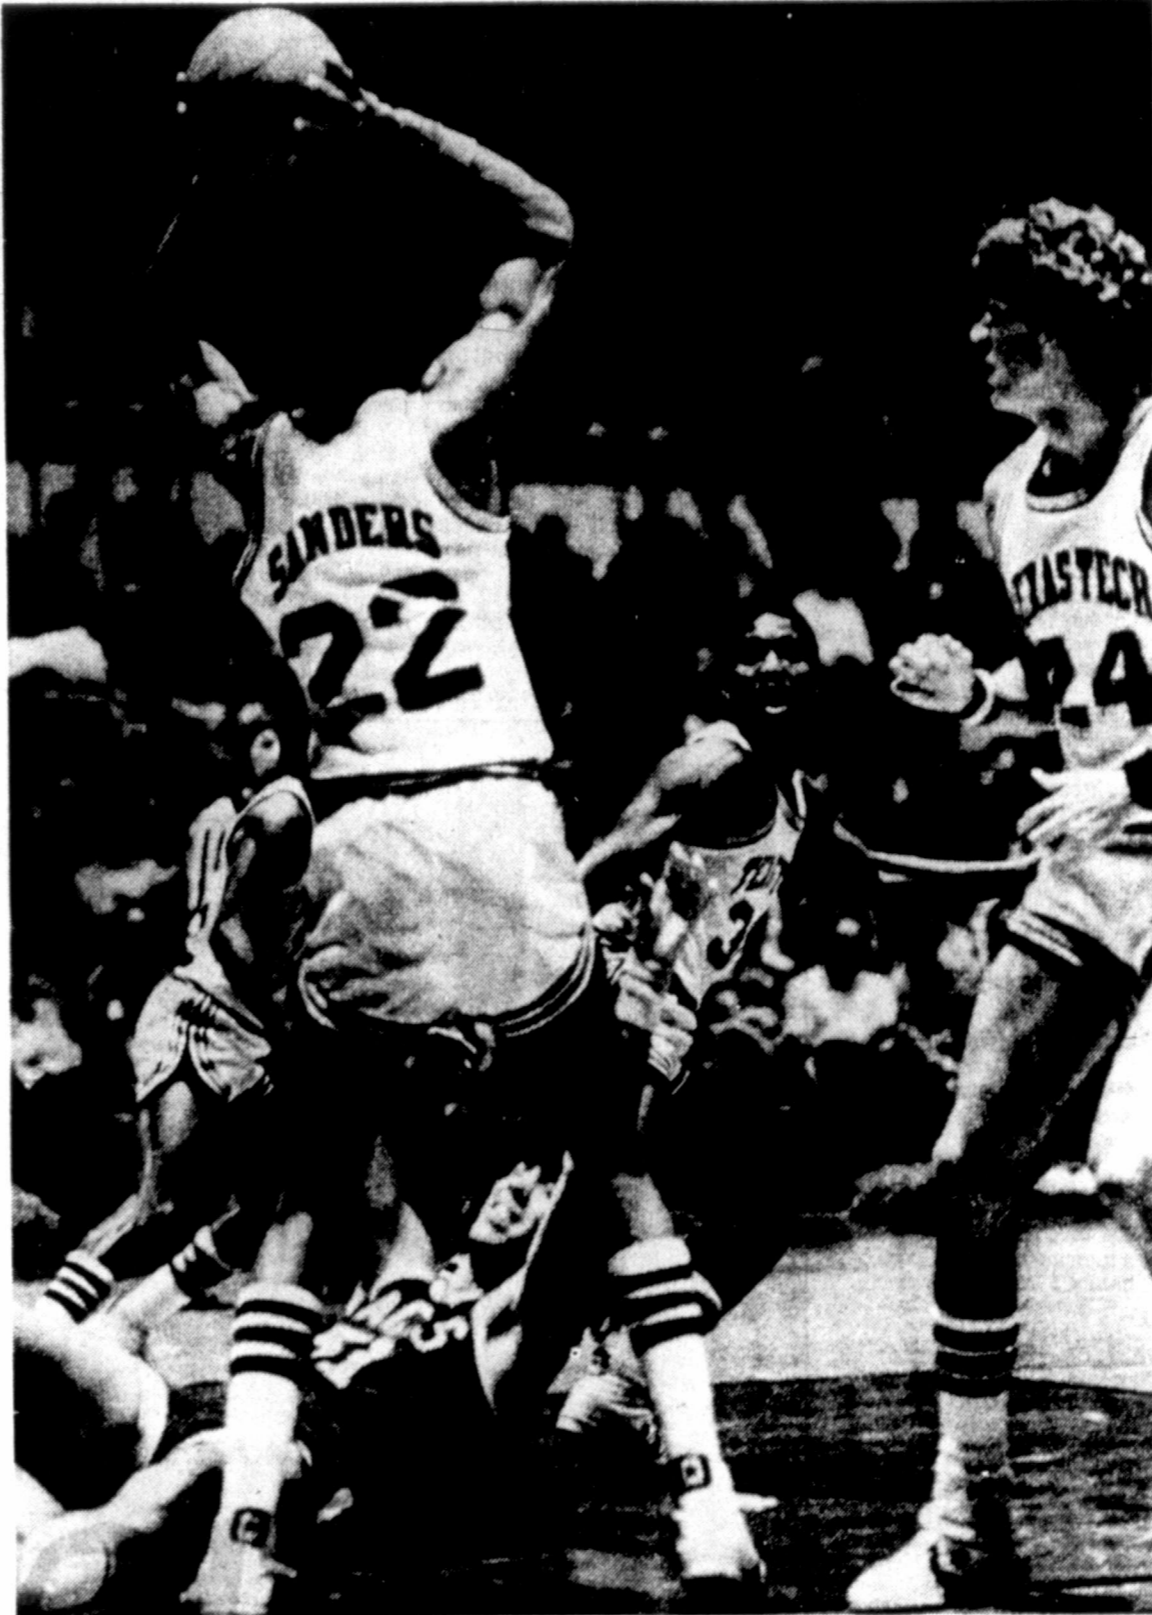

In fact, only three teams gained more than 65 yards on Seagraves. The other two were Shallowater (81 in a 41-0 loss) and Anton (83 in a 48-0 loss).

Seagraves was also unwilling to give up points. Only four teams scored on the Eagles (only one in district) and only two scored more than one touchdown.

In the playoffs, Seagraves gave up 130 yards to Haskell, but most of those came after the game was well in hand. Against McCamey, the Eagles allowed only 84. Neither team scored.

In high school football, comparative opponents don't mean much, but Seagraves and New Deal played three common teams.

New Deal beat Plains 13-0, Sundown 42-0 and Lorenzo 14-0. Seagraves beat Plains 21-0, Sundown 37-6 and Lorenzo 35-14.

Chaparrals Fall To Tigers 82-63

By DON HENRY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
By the time the two teams got on the floor, both were worn out from warming up.

Only thing, the visitors had more left, and the East Central Oklahomans panted an 82-63 loss on Lubbock Christian College.

Maybe it was the unfamiliarity with the home floor, maybe it was the delay in getting started. Maybe it was the quicker, taller Tigers from Ada, Okla.

Whatever the cause, the visitors led from the opening minutes and strolled to their fourth win in five games. They have lost only to UTEP in El Paso this season.

Tonight, however, LCC will play again at home, hosting another group from the Indian Territory, Oklahoma Science & Arts. Tipoff is at 7:30 p.m. — honest.

Monday night, the two teams were to have taken the court for the opening tipoff at 8 p.m. But because of an elongated women's game, the men didn't tip off until 8:40 p.m.

And the result didn't bother the visitors. They took the lead at 4-3 after less than three minutes elapsed and didn't trail rest of the way.

However, the Chaparrals tied the count at 27 but the effort expended in catching up after trailing 26-19 left them unable to take the lead.

And this stretch, after the score was tied, made the difference.

"That was the turning point," remarked LCC coach Larry Hays. "We tied it, then the next seven possessions, we got only one shot (per possession). That killed us.

"We had (Bill) McGee and (Marshall) Smith on the bench at that time, McGee with four fouls and Smith with three.

"Then they outkicked us, too. I was disappointed with our mental effort, not physically."

The Chaparrals had used free shots to climb into that 27-all tie, as Smith hit four in a row, then got a bucket off a goal-tending call. Jim Steensma got two free shots with 7:21 left in the first half to knot the score, but Mike Anderson connected on a pair of free tosses, and the Tigers slowly pulled away.

By halftime, the visitors had it 44-37. Anderson finished with 18 points, hitting six of nine from the field. Robert Wilkins followed with 16 for the Tigers.

Keith Gardner, operating close to the bucket, scored 25 points for the Chaparrals. He hit on nine of 17 from the field.

From the free-throw line, the Chaparrals hit 23 of 26 but were out-field goalied 26-20.

The loss dropped the Chaparrals to 3-7 for the season, as they opened a five-game home stand. After tonight, they host Howard Payne on Thursday.

Indiana Keeps Top Cage Ranking

By The Associated Press
Preseason favorite Indiana, an impressive 80-52 winner over Miami of Ohio in its season opener, retained the No. 1 position in the Associated Press college basketball poll after the first week of the season.

The Hoosiers collected 28 of a possible 59 first-place votes and 1,118 of out a possible 1,180 points in the nationwide balloting of sports writers and broadcasters. Indiana, which held a slim 12-point lead over Kentucky in the preseason poll, has a 20-point edge over Duke, this week's runner-up.

The Blue Devils, who beat Kentucky earlier in the season and captured North Carolina's Big Four championship last weekend, were tabbed No. 1 on 18 ballots.

Ohio State and Notre Dame, numbers 4 and 5 in the preseason, each moved up a notch while Kentucky fell to fifth.

The Buckeyes received seven first-place votes and 1,027 points while the Irish were named first on one ballot and collected 907 points. Kentucky, which captured the Great Alaska Shootout last weekend with a 57-50 win over Iowa in the final, picked up 874 points and the remaining five first-place votes.

Louisiana State, seventh in the preseason poll, was another eight points back in sixth position. UCLA also moved up a notch to seventh with 706 points while North Carolina, sixth in the preseason, fell to eighth with 647 points following a 86-74 loss to Duke in the Big Four title game.

St. John's, N.Y., made the biggest leap in this week's poll, jumping from 16th to No. 9 after capturing the Joe Lapchick Classic with a 88-73 victory over last year's defending national champions, Michigan State. The Redmen collected 571 points and held an 11-point edge over No. 10 DePaul.

Syracuse, No. 12 last week, headed the Second Ten followed by Purdue, Virginia, Louisville, Oregon State, Marquette, Georgetown DC, Brigham Young, Kansas and Iowa, the only new member of the poll.

Texas A&M, ranked 14th in the preseason but losers to both Iowa and Lamar in the Greater Alaska Shootout, fell out of the Top 20.

any mistakes," said the 6-foot-8 Nichols. "But I was really intense — I didn't want to give them any easy baskets."

Nothing came easy for the Jackrabbits Monday night as they watched their season mark fall to 0-3. The "Rabbits" shot 55 percent from the field but they just didn't get many shots. The visitors put the ball up 47 times to Tech's 98.

A host of Raiders got into the scoring act as nine different players scored in the contest and five were in double figures. Of those five, only three — David Little, Ralph Brewster and Jeff Taylor — were starters.

Little finished with 21, Brewster with 19 and Taylor had 17. Thad Sanders also had 17 and Smith, in only 12 minutes of playing time, wound up with 14.

Steve Lingenfelter led all scorers as he pumped in 24 points for the Rabbits. South Dakota had only one other man in double figures — Bob Wizenburg who scored 17.

Lingenfelter also picked up a pair of technical fouls as did SDS coach Gene Zulk. But for all the complaining by the visitors, the fouls were almost dead even. The Rabbits were whistled 29 times, the Raiders 28.

In fact, the Rabbits went to the line 34 times to the Raiders' 33 visits. Both teams had three men foul out of the contest.

"The game was getting ragged and rough there in the second half," said Myers. "I thought they had to call those fouls to keep things under control."

Brewster put the Raiders over the century mark when he connected on a follow shot with 3:40 remaining to give Tech a 101-67 lead. The Raiders 111 point total was the most scored by a Tech team since 1966 when the Raiders had 115 against Baylor.

Wednesday Tech will host North Texas State in the Coliseum. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Harris Claims Cowboys Had Intensity

DALLAS (AP)—Defensive back Cliff Harris said he saw an intensity among the Dallas Cowboys in Sunday's 28-7 victory over the New York Giants that he hadn't seen any other time all season.

"It was a big, big factor, and it was what we've been needing most," said Harris, who intercepted a pass and led the Cowboy defense with seven unassisted tackles.

"Our defensive line — Dave Stalls, Harvey Martin, Randy White — were really fired up, and it makes the defensive backs more optimistic and makes us play better when we see them that excited."

ed," Harris said.

The Giants took the opening kickoff and took a 7-0 lead on Billy Taylor's 1-yard touchdown run, but the Cowboys struggled to a 7-7 halftime tie before exploding in the second half for what Dallas Coach Tom Landry called "our best overall performance" of the season.

New York strong safety Beasley Reece said the Giants played hard the first half and stopped the Cowboys, "but they played a lot better the second half. They played with enthusiasm, with emotion. They came back with a lot of emotion."

Philadelphia's 44-7 rout of Detroit kept the Eagles a game ahead of the Cowboys and Washington in the NFC East with a 10-4 record. Winding up the regular season, Dallas plays at Philadelphia Saturday and hosts Washington the next week and needs two wins to capture the division title.

"When you play like this and win, it makes everybody feel good," said Tony Dorsett, who rushed for 108 yards and scored a touchdown in the victory. In the process, he went over the 1,000-yard mark for the third straight year, tying a National Football League record.

about though, because we're still in second place and we've got to go play the division leader next week," Dorsett said.

Wide receiver Drew Pearson, who caught three touchdown passes from quarterback Roger Staubach, found something to jump up and down about, and regretted it.

After taking an 8-yard pass from Staubach early in the second quarter for his second TD of the day, Pearson jumped high in the air, tossed the football into the end zone seats and came down wrong, twisting his left knee.

He writhed in pain and had to be helped to the Cowboy bench, but returned to the field minutes later to take a 44-yard pass for his third score, giving Dallas a 21-7 advantage.

"My spiking days are over. I've retired my spiker. What more can I say? It almost cost me my leg," said Pearson, who was playing in his 100th consecutive game since joining the Cowboys seven years ago.

"I got so excited, I saw the fans yelling and I decided to give them a souvenir and came down wrong. It scared me. It felt like somebody had shot me."

The final touchdown came after the Giants got a first down at the Dallas 4 but couldn't move it in. On fourth-and-2, Stalls and Martin combined for a sack of quarterback Phil Simms, one of five quarterback sacks for the day.

"I felt there was no way they could keep us from scoring, especially after we had a first down inside the five. If we had scored then, it's only 21-14 and we're back in the game," said New York Coach Ray Perkins.

Instead, the Cowboys' first successful goal-line stand since 1977 motivated them to march 92 yards in 17 plays to ice the win on Dorsett's 1-yard run.

"I think we wore their defense down, especially that last drive, but we were pumped up, going 92 yards on them," Dorsett said.

"Our offensive line loved it, that last drive. They were jubilant. It's a good feeling to see those linemen jumping up and down, wanting to block somebody," Dorsett added.

NFL Playoff Races Remain Tangled

By The Associated Press

The Buffalo Bills, Minnesota Vikings, New York Giants and Seattle Seahawks were eliminated from National Football League playoff contention Sunday — but beyond that things remain a tangle with 15 teams shooting for the 10 postseason berths.

By the time you finish reading this you'll be sorry you asked for a rundown on the state of the NFL — better to wait until Dec. 18 to make your holiday viewing plans — but here goes anyway.

AFC EAST CONFERENCE

East Division

Miami clinches the title if New England loses to the New York Jets, regardless of what the Dolphins do against Detroit, since they would be guaranteed a better division record, 5-3 to the Patriots' 4-4.

If both teams win next Sunday, Miami has to beat the Jets to take the title. If the Jets win and the Patriots beat Minnesota, New England wins the title based on a better conference record, 7-5 to Miami's 6-6.

Central Division

Pittsburgh wins the title if it beats Houston next Monday night. If Houston wins it is guaranteed a wild-card berth.

If Cleveland loses to Oakland next Sunday, Pittsburgh and Houston are both guaranteed wild cards.

If Pittsburgh and Houston finish the season tied at 12-4 the deadlock will be broken by net points in division games. If the Steelers, Oilers and Browns all finish at 11-5, Pittsburgh wins the division based on a better non-loss record among the three teams, 3-1 to Houston's 2-2 and Cleveland's 1-3. The Browns can't win the division title but are in the wild-card running. West Division

Regardless of how Denver and San Diego fare this weekend, the division championship will be decided on the final Monday night when the teams meet in San Diego.

If the Broncos beat the Chargers they take the title based either on their better overall record (depending on what the teams do this Sunday) or by their two-game sweep of San Diego.

If the Chargers beat the Broncos they take the title based either on a better overall record or a better division record, 6-2 to Denver's 5-3.

If Denver wins and Cleveland loses to Oakland on Sunday, the Broncos win at least a wild-card berth. Similarly, if San Diego wins and Cleveland loses the Chargers are guaranteed a wild card.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

East Division

Philadelphia has won a wild card and can take the title by beating Dallas Saturday. If the Eagles win they have a better overall record than Dallas and a better division record than Washington, 7-1 to the Redskins' 6-2.

If Dallas wins it clinches at least a wild card and can take the division title by beating Washington. Dallas would take it based on a better overall record than Washington and a better conference record than Philadelphia, 10-2 to the Eagles' 9-3.

Washington can win the division title if it wins its remaining two games and the Eagles lose their final two. If Washington wins and the Chicago Bears lose on Sunday the Redskins clinch a wild card berth. If Washington wins two while Philadelphia loses to Dallas and beats Houston, Washington and Philadelphia finish 11-5 and the tie is broken by the net points within the division.

If the Eagles, Redskins and Cowboys all finish at 10-6, Washington wins the division title based on a better won-loss record among the three teams, 3-1 to Philadelphia's 2-2 and Dallas' 1-3.

Central Division

Tampa Bay wins the division by winning one of its remaining two games or if Chicago loses one of its two. If the teams finish tied at 10-6 the Bucs win based on a better division record, 6-2 to the Bears' 5-3.

Chicago can win the title by winning two while the Bucs lose their two. If Chicago doesn't take the title it still is in the running for a wild card.

West Division

The following is based on a New Orleans victory in Monday night's game against Oakland:

Los Angeles clinches the title if the Rams and New Orleans split their remaining two games. If the teams finish 9-7, Los Angeles takes the crown based either on a season sweep of the Saints or a better division record, 5-1 to New Orleans' 4-2. The only way the Saints can win is if they win two and the Rams lose one or if they split and the Rams lose two.

Phillips Credits Sipe, Browns

HOUSTON (AP)—Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe did much more to chill the Houston Oilers than the frigid temperatures during Sunday's 14-7 loss to the Browns, Oilers Coach Bum Phillips said Monday.

"The fact that we are not used to playing in that cold weather won't hold up as an excuse," Phillips said. "We missed some tackles that we normally would make."

"Let's give the credit to Brian Sipe and the Browns. That's what you're supposed to do when you get beat. They played an excellent game."

Phillips said if the Oilers may have been preoccupied with stopping Sipe's passing and didn't give enough attention to the running game.

"I think we went up there with the idea we had to stop Sipe from throwing," Phillips said. "We thought we had to get to him and we did but we didn't play good technique on the running game."

"He's a winner. He can hurt you with his throwing but if you don't watch, he'll hurt you running too."

The loss was particularly distressing to the Oilers, who could have clinched a spot in the National Football League playoffs with a victory. Cleveland, which kept its playoff hopes alive with a 9-5 record, stopped the Oilers' five-game winning streak.

Houston, 10-4, plays Pittsburgh Monday night and closes out the regular season the following Sunday against Philadelphia. Both games are in the Astro-dome and Phillips still likes the Oilers' chances of making the playoffs for the second straight year.

"If we are the type of football team I think we are, I think we'll be in the playoffs," Phillips said. "We played as hard as we could but we didn't play as well as we could. If you do that every week, things usually work out."

The Oilers, who lost to Pittsburgh 38-7 in their first meeting this year, could pull back into a tie for the American Football Conference Central Division lead with a victory over the Steelers.

"What are we going to do?" Phillips asked in reply to a question about the Steelers. "I guess we're going to fix our bayonets and get ready for another war."

Phillips said Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini was not weakened in the game from a week-long bout with the flu but the lack of work did affect his performance.

"Without the execution and timing he would have gotten from practice Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, that's got to hurt some," Phillips said. "But we still could have won the game if we had played better."

Raiders Keep Narrow Playoff Hopes Alive

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Quarterback Ken Stabler hit wide receiver Cliff Branch with two fourth-quarter touchdown passes — one a 66-yarder — to rally Oakland to a 42-35 comeback victory over the New Orleans Saints in a National Football League game Monday night.

The victory kept Oakland alive in the AFC playoff picture and virtually eliminated New Orleans from playoff possibility.

Stabler knotted the game 35-35 with the 66-yard pass play. Branch took the ball at the Oakland 40, eluded the New Orleans secondary, and raced the rest of the way down the sideline with 3:19 to play.

The winning score came after a bizarre turnover.

New Orleans running back Chuck Muncie, spinning to elude tacklers, lost the ball. It bounded loose to safety Mike Davis, who scooped it up and then tossed it to linebacker Ted Hendricks, who carried the ball to the Saints 12. After two running plays, Stabler hit Branch with an 8-yard scoring pass that won the game for the Raiders.

In all, Stabler threw four touchdown passes and accounted for 295 yards with 26 completions in 43 attempts.

AT LAST, OUR RABBITS ARE MULTIPLYING LIKE RABBITS.

It seems that all the world loves our Rabbits—so much so that we at Montgomery Motors weren't able to keep up with demand—till now!

We've boosted our Rabbit production, and now 1980 Rabbits are arriving daily.

Test drive a 1980 Rabbit, and you will be buying one a lot sooner than you think.

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own business and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis.

Our carriers are young business men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future?

If you are interested in stepping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign... even if your name is John Hancock.

Ex-Soldier Claims He Was 'Guinea Pig'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A former soldier who claimed he was used as a human guinea pig at an atomic blast in Nevada filed a $5 million damage suit against the United States on Monday.

Ellis Gaspard, 51, said he was a member of an Army company sent to Camp Desert Rock to test the effects of atmospheric atomic detonation. The suit said Gaspard had no idea he was being used as a human subject in a dangerous experiment, and did not consent to it. It added that the project was not a legitimate military activity anyway.

Gaspard claims that as a result of the blast's radiation, he contracted melanoma and leukemia. The suit says his wife Opal, who is also a plaintiff, suffered two miscarriages attributable to her husband's exposure.

According to the suit, Gaspard's company was marched to a point two miles from "ground zero," placed in open trenches and told to put their heads between their knees and keep their eyes closed. Then the atomic bomb was exploded. Immediately afterward, the suit added, the men were "ordered out of the trenches and walked in to a distance of approximately one half mile from ground zero. The test structures and equipment were destroyed, twisted and molten. The ground around was fused."

The suit, filed in federal court here, claims officials directing the experiment knew the hazards involved at the time but chose to proceed so as to obtain data they wanted, "despite foreseeable risks to the human life involved."

"Such actions are not justifiable as legitimate military activities sanctioned by the Constitution and the laws of the United State or International Law."

The suit asked $3 million for Gaspard, and $2 million for Mrs. Gaspard. Defendants are the old Atomic Energy Commission, now known as the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Department of Defense, and the United States.

The date of the blast wasn't given. Gaspard served in the Army in 1954 and 1955.

Judge Tries Case Little At Time

CHICAGO (AP) — Faced with the prospect of up to five months devoted exclusively to a complex, $1 billion antitrust suit, federal Judge John F. Grady has decided to try it a bit at a time.

Grady has told the parties to the suit the trial will be recessed at the end of each month's work so he can keep up to date with the other District Court cases assigned to him.

Done a month at a time, it might take a year to finish the trial.

"I presently have 400 civil cases on my calendar," Grady said in a pretrial order. "New cases are added at the rate of about 30 per month... We will try this case approximately one month at a time. At logical points we will recess to allow me time to try any criminal cases."

Jury selection began Monday in the suit, filed six years ago.

It involves MCI Communications and American Telephone & Telegraph Co. MCI has charged that AT&T and its 24 telephone companies violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by illegally monopolizing the business communications and data communications market.

AT&T lawyers initially said they planned to call 183 witnesses and predicted the case could take 18 months to try. That prompted Grady to "anticipate trial with restrained enthusiasm."

In his pretrial order, O'Grady gave each side 26 trial days to present its case, but said the limit was "subject to change." Even with the limit, the trial is expected to take up to five months.

O'Grady has also indicated that jurors will be allowed to take notes, a practice usually forbidden.

Strikers Slow Facilities

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — About 125 optical workers struck 17 Kaiser Permanente medical facilities in Northern California on Monday, and some other workers refused to cross picket lines, the company reported.

Starting at 7:45 a.m., pickets marched at some but not all of the facilities, which serve approximately 1.6 million Northern Californians who are members of the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, said office secretary Onita McDaniel of Optical Technicians and Workers Union, Local 505.

"We are seeing more people calling in sick than normal, and we are seeing some people not crossing picket lines because of individual conscience," said Kaiser spokesman Bob Hughes.

Hughes said Kaiser's last offer "was equal to offers made and settled with other bargaining units earlier this year — 8 percent in the first year and 7 percent in the second year of a two-year contract." Optical workers now earn from $5 to $8 an hour.

The Kaiser medical facilities have a workforce of 1,600 physicians and 14,000 other employees in the region.

Hughes said the facilities will continue to operate, and that only optical sales shops will be directly affected. Non-striking workers will handle emergency optical orders for patients with prepaid optical coverage, Hughes said.

Steel Production Off In November

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel production fell to 2.270 million tons in the week ended Dec. 1, a decrease of 0.3 percent from the previous week's 2.277 million tons, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported Monday.

The industry's production amounted to 78.5 percent of capacity during the week, compared with 78.7 percent in the previous week.

Estimated figures for the year to date showed production at 125.793 million net tons, an increase of 0.8 percent from the 124.845 million net tons in the previous year.

Production so far this year used 88.0 percent of capacity, compared with 86.2 percent a year earlier.

Net tonnage by district for the week ended Dec. 1: Northeast Coast 289,000; Buffalo 56,000; Pittsburgh 388,000; Youngstown 130,000; Cleveland 126,000; Detroit 172,000; Chicago 528,000; Cincinnati 98,000; St. Louis 97,000; Southern 227,000; and Western 159,000.
