If elected I assure you that I will do my very best to make your support in any way that you can give. The last few days have been a heart-warming experience in the help people can give each other in the time of demonstrated need. They also have shown in what numbers people can flock to a place of worship on special occasions. But why do people have to be pricked into doing their duty by such dramatic and often tragic circumstances? Every day is a special day, and every time the church doors open for a service there is a special occasion.

The Methodist Spring Revival is set for April 5-12, the evening services at 7:30 and those in the morning in at least approximately the same time slot. Rev. Jim Boswell of Turkey is to lead our thoughts in preaching; and we feel privileged to announce that Mr. George Owens will be our song leader. Our usual accompanists, Geneva Curtis at the organ and Lynette Taylor at the piano, are to be with us. We hope you will, too.

The Wednesday evening before the revival, at 7:15, April 1, will be a good time for people to show if they are interested. It will be, in a sense, "Back to the same old grind," in a study led by the pastor, but's let remember that this grind produces finished corn, and preserves, and cotton, in our everyday life. The real test of life is this: Does our daily routine shine?

Meanwhile, next Sunday is Easter. In the evening the next-to-last chapter in the study, "Our Mission Today" is to be presented. "The Explorer: The Churches Regroup for Expedition," text being "That they May All Be One . . . So That the World May Believe . . ." (John 17:21). In the morning the sermon is to be from Col. 2:20 - 3:17, the title being "Eternal Hope." The latter is what the Christian has. Do you fellow being who try to walk alone, have as much.

Traditionally Easter Sunday, when so much emphasis is placed on thanksgiving for new life in Christ, is the time for special stress to finances. No worship is really complete without an offering of one's self to God, and this includes the products of one's labors, which are made possible by Him.

(By Cletus Grady)
Waterways are natural or man-made water courses that are protected from washing by a grass cover. They are used as safe outlets for diversions and terraces and to carry outside water through farms.

these are the flattest slopes and the soil moisture conditions are favorable for good grass growth.

If a waterway can not be located in a natural drain, it is best to put it along a field boundary. This is usually more expensive because of the cost of shaping.

A waterway should be wide enough to carry runoff from the largest rain expected once every ten years. It should be

When a waterway is shaped too late to plant a dead litter crop, cotton burs or other mulch material can be used. At least three tons of burs per acre should be applied. Two and one-half tons of fine stem hay would provide adequate cover. Barnyard manure mixed with hay or straw could be used. Mulch material should be applied just before planting.

It is best to use native grasses when seeding a waterway. Weeds should be shredded or sprayed to protect young grasses. Native grasses are usually seeded at this time of the year. Abuse and neglect are the most common causes of failures in establishing waterways. It shaped to spread water out and prevent it from running too deep at any one place.

A waterway should be worked into a good seedbed to control weeds and prepare the soil for grass planting. A dead litter crop should be sown to provide temporary protection from erosion and to protect grass seedlings. If the dead litter crop begins to mature seed, it should be mowed to a height of 6 to 10 inches. Hay could be harvested. It is best not to graze a cover crop.

takes little care to keep a waterway functioning properly. Waterways pay by preventing erosion.

NOTICE OF HEARING TO APPROPRIATE PUBLIC WATERS OF THE STATE OF TEXAS

Notice is hereby given to whom concerned that the application of C. A. HAWKINS, Box 417, Quitaque, Texas, and ELBERT HAWKINS, Box 225, Quitaque, Texas, was received on the 13th day of December, 1963, in the office of the Texas Water Commission. Applicants seek a permit to divert and use 120 acre - feet of water from an existing 145-acre feet reservoir on Holmes Creek, tributary of Little Red River, tributary of Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River, for the irrigation of 57.4 acres of land in Section 124, Block G. & M., G.C. & S.F. RR Company Survey, A-1839 and in Section 223, Block G. & M., D. & S.E. RR Company Survey, A-276; and 23 acre feet of water annually for recreational purposes, in Briscoe County, Texas, all being more fully set out in said application.

Midpoint of the dam is approximately 1870 feet in a southeasterly direction from the northwest corner of Section 124, Blk. G. & M., G.C. & S.F. Company Survey, A-1839, Briscoe County, Texas. The structure is distant in a southeasterly direction from Silverton, Texas, approximately 13.5 miles.

Said application was accepted for filing pursuant to Article 7500a by the Texas Water Commission on the 16th day of March, 1964, as application No. 2325, and a hearing thereon will be held by the Texas Water Commission, in the office of the Commission at Austin, Texas, on TUESDAY, APRIL 28, 1964, beginning at ten o'clock A. M., at which time and place all parties interested may appear and be heard. Those opposing the granting of said application should file written protests with the Commission and the applicant at least five days prior to hearing date, giving their reasons therefor and such other information as is required by Commission Rule 305.2. Such hearing will be Agriculture will contribute $22 billion to the gross national product — total value of all goods and services — produced in 1964. That will equal all the GNP money generated by the automotive industry which is also estimated at $22 billion in 1964, as shown by the above chart.

National defense will account for $55 billion GNP dollars in 1964, according to an early analysis of the construction market by Johns-Manville Corporation, world-wide manufacturer and distributor of building products. Construction, now America's largest industry, will put a whopping $88 billion into circulation — an amount equal to one seventh of the $615 billion gross national product forecast for the same period and very close to equalling in GNP dollar value the combined output of all three next largest industries — national defense, the automotive industry and agriculture, the J-M market analysis shows.

Farmers will spend some $1.225 billion on farm construction of all kinds, the J-M market analysis estimates, with another $6.7 billion going for new highways, many of which will improve road nets over which farmers get their produce to market.

The J-M market analysis expects total new construction in the United States to hit $67 billion in 1964 — a new all-time high record — with more than $21 billion additional going for alterations, modernization, repairs and maintenance, for a total construction year of $88 billion.

continued from time to time, and from place to place, if necessary, until such determination has been made relative to said application as the Texas Water Commission may deem right, equitable and proper.

Given under and by virtue of an order of the Texas Water Commission, at the office of the said Commission at Austin, Texas, this the 16th day of March, 1964.

(Signed) Joe D. Carter Ch'm. Texas Water Commission
