REPORT DUE FROM PARK SERVICE ON RESERVOIR DEVELOPMENT PLAN

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Sp) Congressman Walter Rogers received a preliminary report on Tuesday from National Park Service officials on plans for development of public-use recreation facilities at Sanford Reservoir of the Canadian River Project.

Under legislation authored by Congressman Rogers and passed by the Congress last year, up to $1.1 million will be spent to develop recreation facilities. The work is to be Administered by the Interior Department after Congressional review and approval of plans.

Meanwhile, Congressman Rogers said "Good progress is being made in the Senate" on bills he introduced to name the reservoir "Lake Meredith," in honor of the late A. A. Meredith of Borger, and to establish the Alibates Flint Quarries and Texas Panhandle Pueblo Culture National Monument near the south rim of the lake. Both bills have passed the House.

Two bills which originated in the Irrigation and Reclamation Subcommittee, of which Congressman Rogers is chairman, will come before the full House of Representatives this week for a decision. Similar in character to legislation enabling construction of the Canadian River Project, the bills provide for construction of the Garrison Diversion Unit in the Missouri River system and the Auburn-Folsom South Unit of the Central California Project in California.

Also on the legislative schedule before the House this week is a measure to provide flood assistance in hard-hit midwestern states and a measure to establish a cabinet-rank Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Congressman begins the week's work by presiding Monday over a session of the Irrigation and Reclamation Subcommittee as it considers water desalinization plans and programs. Monday afternoon, he joined other House and Senate conference committee members assigned by their respective houses of Congress to work out differences in House and Senate passed versions of the Federal Water Projects Recreation Act, a measure designed to provide uniform policies for projects being authorized.

THE TRIBUNE IS FIVE YEARS OLD

This issue of The Tribune is Volume 6, Number 1, which means that this newspaper is now five years old and is entering its sixth year of existence.

The first issue was printed on June 16, 1960. A lot of water, literally, has run under the bridges the past five years, though not a great deal the past two years. The publishers of The Tribune will remember that first week of publication, although they are not especially fond memories because few if any things went right during those first weeks and months as we tried to get our machinery tuned up. During the past five years there have been good weeks, bad weeks, and weeks that were merely indifferent, which is probably par for the course in any business venture.

The Tribune begins a new year along with local farmers trying to get in a new crop and we hope that the coming year is successful for all.

Light To Heavy Rains Fall Here

Two weeks of rain that was heavy in some spots, light in others, and just about right in still other places, have sent all farmers to the fields trying to get their seed in the ground and get a crop started.

South and east of Quitaque the rains have been heavy and probably eight to ten inches of rain has fallen. At the Rucker farm southeast of town where the official rain is located, four rains during the month of June have produced 2.99 inches of moisture, probably near the amount that has fallen here in town. Out west of town in that portion of the community known as "death valley," the rains have been lighter. J. T. Persons reported that he caught .8 of rain last Thursday night and a like amount on Saturday afternoon and that was the best showers that had fallen in that area. Some say that west of town not enough moisture has been received yet to plant but others say they have enough to get a crop up but will need more soon. Just about everyone has had some hail and if they had any crops up they were damaged or wiped out.

There is some cotton already up to a pretty good stand and there are some who do not have any yet. Most of the area is looking pretty good right now, but the crops are going to be late but with another week or two of sunshine most of the plants are much brighter than a couple of weeks ago.

Little League Team Wins 1

Quitaque's Little League baseball team has played four league games, losing three and winning one. However, things are looking up for the young team.

The local team's first outing in the newly-formed league a couple of weeks ago was with the Matador Panthers and the Quitaque team was strapped 28-5. The second game was with the Matador Rebels with Matador taking that one 7-5. The third game of the new season was with Roaring Springs and Quitaque won that one 7-5. Then Tuesday night of this week the locals drove down to Matador for their second game with the Panthers, the team that treated the Quitaque lads so rough in the opening game. Evidently that treatment did not set well with Quitaque and the team was upset minded for they jumped on Matador in the first inning and scored three runs and then shut Matador off for a couple of innings before errors let in a couple of runs.

The Quitaque team led 6-2 in the fifth inning and it looked like a mighty upset was in the making, however, several walks, together with several errors in the field, let the Panthers score six runs and go ahead of Quitaque 8-6. The Quitaque lads refused to quit, however and scored one run before three were out and lost 8-7.

The boys played good baseball Tuesday night and the game was an exciting one.

Friday night's game with Roaring Springs, which was to have been played here, has been transferred there. Next Tuesday night the teams will play the Rebels at Matador.

The Pee Wee team has played each time the Little League team has been playing and although they have yet to win a game, the scores in all of their games have been decided by one or two runs. They will win some ball games before the season is over.

The vows were exchanged before an archway of candelabra entwined with greenery and white gladioli. Votive candles graced the aisles. The Rev. Clyde Cain, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of peau de soie featuring a round neckline, long sleeves with petal points at the wrist. The midriff was encircled with lace. Tiny buttons extended down the back of the dress. The chapel length skirt flowed into a slight train. The fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of a white orchid and Lily of the Valley.

For something old, the bride wore her maternal grandmother's wedding band. For some-

Carla Moses, cousin of the bride, and Gary Ferguson, nephew of the bride, were the candlelighters.

A reception in Fellowship Hall of the church followed the ceremony. The table was laid with a white linen cloth and featured the 4-tiered wedding cake with pedestals between each tier and topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was served with crystal and silver appointments.

Miss Patsy McDonald, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. A. J. Haney, Ponca City, Okla., and Mrs. Bill Ferguson, Lubbock, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Dewey Estes, Silvertown, alternated in serving.

The couple left immediately for a short wedding trip to New Mexico. The bride wore a suit of teal blue silk shantung with beige and black accessories for going away. They will be at home at 909 West 13th, Plainview, for a short time before leaving for Fresno, Calif. for several months.

JOHNSON FAMILY RETURNS FROM ARIZONA VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Ober Johnson, Dickie, Barry and Jamie, and Charlene Bailey were guests of Mrs. Marie Burns at the Major Motel in Tucson, Ariz. the week immediately following the closing of school.

Points of interest visited were trips to Mammoth, Ariz., where Ober worked before the town was built in 1954. It is a mining town. They drove to Nogales, Mexico, for a look at native Mexican handiwork, etc. in the shops. Sightseeing trips were made around Tucson proper, including a visit to the thermal belt about eight miles north of the city where grapefruit, oranges, dates and tropical fruit flourish because of a freak condition existing in this particular area preventing a freeze ever occurring in the history of the zone. Just west of the town is an old mission, St. Xavier, and the interior is decorated and colored by native materials. The Indians made use of the things available and produced the colors used from dyes made of plants and possibly mixtures of soil and elements only they could tell us today. This structure is snow white from a distance and has the usual desert landscaping of yucca and cacti, palo verde trees and various species of mesquite. The walls are quite thick and it is very cool and dim inside.

Besides the sight-seeing, the group enjoyed their hostesses' cooking of Spanish and Oriental foods, playing shuffleboard, swimming, bowling and playing miniature golf.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES RETURN FROM MEETING

Members of the Quitaque congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses have returned home this week, after attending their semi-annual circuit assembly in Vernon. Witnesses from 16 congregations in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma were present.

Friday night by way of talks and demonstrations the theme "Willingly Fulfill Your Ministry" was highlighted. It was pointed out that opportunities of greater service are not limited to just older persons, but that all, young and old, male or female, can reach out for greater privileges.

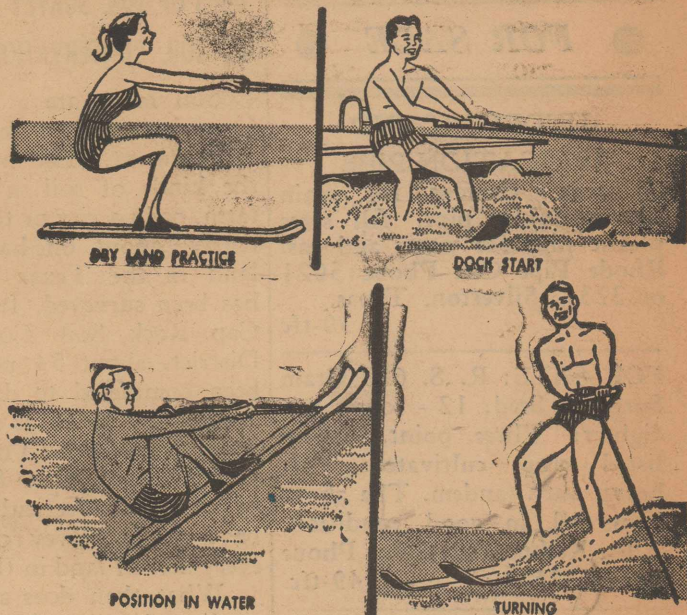

Saturday afternoon the witnesses heard a talk on dedication after which baptism in water was performed on new ministers. Jehovah's Witnesses view baptism as a public symbol of their dedication to serve God, and also count it as the date of their ordination as ministers.

Sunday afternoon, Harry A. Fetzik, district supervisor from Brooklyn, New York, spoke on "The Moral Breakdown—What Can Be Done About It?" "That the issue affects all persons living is apparent in that each day we are faced with decisions having to do with morality," he said. Continuing, he asked, "Do we obey all traffic laws, or only when observed? When we speak, is it always the truth? Are we honest in our business dealings? Are we faithful to our marriage vows? Do we live in harmony with the religious faith we profess?" He concluded by stating, "A true Christian cannot consort with those who do not fully accept the Bible as their guide if he is going to stem the moral breakdown."

V. D. Tiffin, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses in Quitaque, said that regular meetings will be resumed this week at the Kingdom Hall in Quitaque.

Boating Tips...

LEARNING TO WATER SKI

Oddly enough, the place to begin to learn water skiing is on dry land! Mercury boating authorities suggest the following steps for the beginner. Put on the skis, making sure the foot harnesses are snug and comfortable. Next, get the feel of the tow line and bar by having someone pull you up from a sitting position. Keep your elbows straight. This will approximate the actual pull of the boat and motor once you are underway. Next, in about three feet of water, sit down and raise the tips of your skis above the surface. When your ski tips clear the surface, yell "Hit it," and the boat operator will throttle forward, giving you a fast, steady pull. As the water pressure forces your skis up, hold them straight and retain the same position as you did on dry land. Keep knees bent and elbows straight and resist the tendency of the skis to wobble while you are coming up out of the water. Once you're up and planing keep your knees bent to help maintain balance. Turning is easy: to turn right, for instance, just press hard on your left ski and lean to the right. Occasionally you may wish to make a dock start. Sit on the edge of the dock with toes of the skis out of the water, and about 10 feet of slack coiled next to you on the dock. When the rope tightens, transfer your weight to the skis and hold your arms straight, ready for pull. You'll be towed away smoothly.

USES OF SOIL SURVEY CONDUCTED BY SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

Soil maps are a basic tool for selecting a system of soil management. The maps show the kinds of soil in a field, a farm, or in a city or town. Currently, about one-half of the land in the Texas Panhandle has been surveyed. In the local Cap Rock Soil Conservation District, about 54 percent has been completed to date and it will be completed as manpower becomes available. The ultimate goal of the United States Department of Agriculture is to have a soil survey or map of every acre of land in the Nation.

What then does a soil map predict about a piece of land? In the Nationwide system now in use the soils are classified and named, just as plants and animals are. For example, plants are identified and named by such features as the structure and the shape of the leaf. Likewise, soils are identified and classed by their main characteristics which are its texture (proportions of clay, silt, sand,) color, depth, kinds and sequences of layers or horizons, and any other feature that is important to its use and management. These soil traits or features can be determined in the field by the Soil Scientist making the map. The names of the soils are taken from the towns or localities near the place where the soil was first defined. Examples of soil names from this area are the Amarillo series, Pullman series, Dalhart series and Randall series.

After the features or characteristics of a soil have been studied and determined, predictions can then be made about how it will respond to various kinds of management or use. Some of the questions that a soil survey and its interpretations can answer are: Is this land suited to cultivation? What kind of crops can be grown? How much erosion has occurred on it? What practices will be needed to maintain or increase the soil's fertility? Is the soil suited to irrigation and what kind of system will I need? What kind of native grasses will it grow? Does the soil swell and shrink, creating a hazard to structural foundations? Does it flood often, and many others.

The principal users of soil surveys are those involved in producing agricultural products—farmers, ranchers, dairymen, etc. Special interpretations have been made by Soil Conservation Service Technicians to assist agriculturalists in the use of the surveys. This is the land capability classification system. Soils are placed in eight classes, all of which do not normally exist on any single farm or ranch. Class I through IV are suited to cultivated crops. Classes V through VII are suited only to grazing and wildlife. Class VIII is suited only to wildlife.

Through the soil survey, this land capability system provides the basic facts with which the Soil Conservation Technicians and the landowner or operator develop the conservation plan for that cultivated land on his farm. For rangeland, the soils are grouped into range sites. Each site is composed of a group of soils that respond similarly to kinds of grazing and that grow the same kind of grasses.

Soil maps are made by experienced Soil Scientists who are graduates of Agricultural Colleges and Universities, where they are trained in the soil sciences, crop sciences and related subjects. Ordinarily the Soil Scientists use aerial photographs as a base for plotting the soil boundaries. He goes over the land with a spade, auger or power sampler and digs as often as necessary to determine the kinds of soil and to mark their locations.

Soil maps have many other uses. They are of use to prospective landowners, land appraisers, students of natural sciences, road builders, pipeline companies and others. In some urban areas, corrosion of underground pipe is a problem, thus soil maps are used as a guide for rerouting their pipelines around these salty areas, thereby saving these cities much expense. Soil surveys are also being used more and more by counties and school districts as a basis for re-evaluation of their tax structures.
