SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION WORKING AT ALL-TIME HIGH

Small Business Administration programs are now working at all-time highs and are going farther than ever before to meet the challenge of opening new opportunity in deprived areas, Administrator Robert C. Moot said May 6.

In a "State of the Agency" message Moot called for steadily increasing efforts to unify the work of all levels of government with private enterprise to bring new business and job opportunities to deprived areas.

Moot said that "despite a creditable record, we must reach still more of the population that has been denied opportunity. We must help more people attain a measure of economic security and a place of dignity in our affluent society."

The message went to members of the Small Business National Advisory Council, public advisors of the Agency, who will meet in Washington May 12, marking the opening of National Small Business Week.

Moot pointed out that SBA in its 15 years of existence has funneled more than $5 billion in loans into small business, provided an endless supply of management assistance, and now has even gone into business itself.

SBA, with Congressional authority, is now taking government contracts for items relatively easy to produce, then subcontracting actual production to small firms putting plants in depressed areas to provide jobs and necessary training for "hard-core" unemployed. He also described a new Community Economic Development program now started in seven depressed areas, under which all the resources of the Agency are directed to finding persons who may be trained to become small businessmen, and helping them get started. Tentatively, target areas have been named for the program.

The Administrator's survey of the Agency also showed: 15,000 local development projects aided by SBA loans and community investments, have produced more than 64,000 jobs.

In the past 13 months Economic Opportunity Loans to disadvantaged persons in urban and rural areas have gone to 3,700 persons for total of nearly $40 million. Nearly $100 million has been loaned to businesses displaced by Federally-aided projects in urban renewal, road construction, etc.

About 69,000 loans were made to victims of 600 disasters for an aggregate total of $616 million.

SBA assisted small firms in getting $9.9 billion in subcontracts from Federal procurement prime contractors.

More than 3.5 million SBA publications covering 500 different subjects were distributed last year alone as part of SBA's program of management assistance.

SCORE, the Service Corps of Retired Executives, which aids small businessmen in need of advice, now has 3,600 volunteers with experience in numerous fields including industry, banking, law, accounting, advertising, etc.

SBA will shortly complete an in-depth study of the impact of crime on small businesses. Undertaken at the direction of Congress the study will evaluate protective devices, development of new systems, possible changes in small business physical facilities, etc.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK OFFICIAL MEMORANDUM BY JOHN CONNALLY Governor of Texas

Greetings: The citizens of our State recognize the earth is the Lord's and we are his servants charged with caring for it and developing it to the best of our ability. The soil and water, the trees, the grasses and wildlife, in their beauty and their infinite combinations and products, were put here for all of us, to help us grow together in dignity and wisdom, peace and service.

We cannot afford loss of land, waste of water, distortion and spoilage of human life. The countryside is a wealth of enormous values and unending uses with benefits and responsibilities for Americans everywhere. It provides food and outdoor recreation, wood and water, and it is the home of agriculture and forests, parks and wildlife, trails and highways, and deserts and wilderness.

The change underway on all sides imposes new tests on soil stewardship, and requires the assertion of leadership by those who take seriously their responsibilities to God for the soil, water and other resources entrusted to us.

Soil and Water Conservation Stewardship Week, have expressed their commitment to this challenge.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of May 19-26, 1968 as SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK in Texas.

Wherever a garden boasts a wall, there's a way to enhance it with colorful plantings on top, at the bottom or in both places. Walls, being massive, need masses of color to brighten them. In the picture above, green yews provide mass, pale pink petunias give color and accent.

This wall is less formal than that shown on top so needs informal planting. Petunias in numerous varieties, chosen for blending colors, are planted with a lavish hand both above and below the wall. Portulacas are used on both levels to carpet the ground below the petunias.

The meeting was then moved to the auditorium where the PTA meeting was in progress.

The 4th Grade gave a very interesting program and following this the Homemaking girls presented their annual fashion show. Many pretty and attractive costumes were shown, from winter coats to spring play clothes. Sherry Stark did an excellent job as mistress of ceremonies.

The stage was attractively decorated, with a white picket fence across the front of the stage with greenery and several different kinds of artificial flowers. A pink and white archway was the center of interest in the middle of the stage. The girls all walked through the archway to model their costumes. Small trees were set on each side of the archway to complete the stage decorations. Refreshments were then enjoyed by all of the girls.

MEREDITH WALLEYE STOCKING SEEMS TO BE BIG SUCCESS

BORGER — Walleye stocking in Lake Meredith, 30 miles north of Amarillo, appears to be a great success, says Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Biologist Jack Crabtree.

Crabtree says he conducted a random informal creel census at the lake on the May 1 opening day of the walleye season and found that 50 per cent of the fishermen with which he talked had caught their limit of five.

He estimated that 90 per cent of the anglers caught at least one walleye.

Lake Meredith was stocked with 500,000 walleye in 1965 and 2,000,000 in 1966 in an attempt by the Parks and Wildlife Department to establish a fishable species which would not compete with native game fishes for food and which will peacefully co-exist and supply the angler with more outdoor recreation.

The walleye, or yellow pike perch, is the largest member of the perch family, and may grow 36 inches long and weigh 25 pounds. They are indigenous to the great lakes area with the greatest numbers caught in Lake Erie.

Crabtree says the largest walleye he saw on opening day was around three pounds and the average was between 14 to 18 inches long, weighing between one and one-and-a-half pounds. He said earlier net samles have shown that five pounders are in the lake.

Deep running artificial lures were most successful.

Lake Meredith received heavy use on May 1. There were 14,458 visitors in 4,131 cars at the lake on opening day. Boats numbered 559.

One restaurant operator said that he did more business on May 1 than on any other day during the past year, and another concessionaire said film was being used by the mile instead of the roll.

Game management officers on hand to help the crowds reported few law violations.

PIKE RELEASED IN BUFFALO LAKE CANYON

More than 8,000 fingerling northern pike were released recently in Buffalo Lake, 13 miles west of Canyon, according to Jack Crabtree, Texas Parks and Wildlife fisheries biologist.

Crabtree says the four-inch exotics were originally spawned in Nebraska and should range from 15 to 20 pounds when they reach adulthood.

In a two-fold plan, Crabtree says he hopes to establish a pike fishery in the lake, plus introduce a predacious type fish which will help eliminate the over-abundant carp and rough fish species in the reservoir.

Boating Tips...

REFUELING

Safety common sense dictates that you remove your remote fuel tank from the boat whenever you refill it. This insures that no gas will be spilled into the boat, say the Mercury boating authorities. It also facilitates proper mixing of the oil and gas. When filling your remote gas tank, pour in a small amount of gas and an equal amount of oil. Mix thoroughly by shaking or stirring vigorously; then add balance of oil (follow manufacturer's recommendation) and gasoline and mix again.

Thanks Folks!

... for the nice vote you gave me in the recent election.

I appreciate the support you gave me very much.

BAGWORM DAMAGE
The bagworm, the larval stage of a moth, attacks many trees and shrubs but is a very destructive pest of arborvitae, juniper and cedar.

It will also infest willows, apple, maple, oak, sycamore, abelia and other plants when populations are high. The worm gets its name from the bag in which it lives. Picking the bags off of infested plants during the winter and burning them will materially aid in controlling the pest. Chemical sprays are very effective if applied before the young worms begin to construct bags around themselves. Chemical treatment is recommended as soon as the young worms begin hatching in the spring and their presence is noted.

For the spray application, malathion, carbaryl (Sevin) lead arsenate or toxaphene insecticides are effective. These chemicals are available from garden supply stores and fertilizer dealers under several trade names.

Mix the selected insecticide with water as directed on the package label and spray the infested plant from top to bottom and from the bottom to the top and from the sides for complete coverage. Spray until the plant is thoroughly wet and the material begins to run off.

The publication entitled "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Ornamental Plants" is available at my office.

ZINC DEFICIENCY IN PECANS
Pecan growers in Briscoe County who have observed inadequate growth of their trees particularly the younger ones, can probably attribute the condition to zinc deficiency.

Zinc deficiency in pecans is a common occurrence in this area. The condition is best identified by a shortening of the internodes and small leaves where there is new growth. Yellowing may also occur and, in severe cases, leaflets may die.

Foliar application of zinc sulfate (36 percent zinc) gives effective control of this disorder, points out the agent. A solution may be prepared by dissolving two level teaspoons of zinc sulfate in one and one-half gallons of water and adding one-half teaspoon of liquid household detergent to insure even coverage. This gives a concentration equal to one pound of zinc sulfate per 50 gallons of water.

Foliage should be sprayed until wet when leaves are about one-third grown. Spraying should be repeated about three weeks later.

If the pecan nut casebearer is a problem, the zinc sulfate solution may be mixed with the regular spray to control this insect.

Zinc deficiency is limited primarily to pecans, but may possibly effect other trees and shrubs. Additional information on this disorder is found in Leaflet L-721, available at the County Extension Office.

New No-Mix Garden Spray

Gale Gill shows a new concept in preparing garden sprays to control insects, plant diseases and weeds in a garden. She merely "pops" a water-soluble plastic packet of "Pop-in" garden chemicals into a sprayer and adds water. In moments, the plastic casing dissolves and the spray is ready to use. No mix, no mess. It's a revolutionary new packaging idea being introduced nationally this year. It's a safer way to prepare garden sprays. Each packet makes a gallon of effective, convenient spray.

HAVE YOUR CAR SAFETY CHECKED FOR SPRING & SUMMER

A great deal can be wrong with your car that you may never be aware of until you do some hard driving on the highway. The slowness of winter driving may act as a coverup for real trouble. At any rate you're always ahead by making certain your car is in tip-top shape. Drive in today and let us give your car a complete safety checkup for spring and summer driving.
