No church claims it can train you to say the right thing at the right time — although expressing truth, concern and kindness toward others is very much a part of Christian living. Our churches teach the Gospel of Christ which has for two thousand years inspired truth, concern and kindness. The heart of that Gospel is God's love for US and for ALL MEN.

No person can hope always to say the right thing. But, generally, what we express are our convictions. Our church helps us discover and implement them!

Each year, it costs more to manage each acre of land. But the dollars-per-acre investment is not as important as the farmer or rancher himself. The real strength of American agriculture is found, not only in better machines and better methods, but in the man. When we consider a long-term loan, we put a value on your experience ... and on your skills as a manager

In the Texas Panhandle, Crop Residue Management should be "for the birds."

Helping Hand From The Farmers

Since the introduction of the ring-necked pheasant in Texas in 1939, it has slowly increased its range and numbers in the Texas Panhandle. Eleven counties now have pheasant populations that can be considered moderate and well established.

A closer look at the pheasant's habitat needs will provide the answers that will enable it to prosand South Plains areas. Food and cover are the critical habitat needs. Without good food and ade- ed his mother, Mrs. John Rogers, quate cover throughout the year, Sunday afternoon. the pheasant cannot prosper.

Being a seed or grain eater, the bird has established itself in Blood Pressure the irrigated croplands that have small grains, corn, grain sorghum, and soybeans as a significant part of the cropping system. Following the harvest of grain crops, there is abundant grain and seed available to the pheasants.

To be beneficial to the pheasant on a long-term basis, these waste grains and crop residues must be left on the soil surface through the critical winter months. This can be achieved by residue management practices, such as deferring all tillage practices as long as possible or adopting minimum tillage or no-tillage practices. Chi seling or one time discing will leave most of the crop residue and waste grains on or near the Proper crop residue management provides other benefits than food and cover for wildlife. It protects the soil from wind erosion, it holds precipitation, in the form of snow, in place for absorption into the soil and it prevents crusting of soils from rains, reducing runoff and allowing better Mary Brunson of Amarillo spent utilization of available moisture.

Leaving fence rows, odd areas, equipment yards, playas and abandoned farmsteads in natural weedy vegetation during the fall and winter months provides excellent cover for pheasants.

Farmers who adopt crop residue management practices that age is being done—and not see a will provide the pheasant with the necessary food and cover throughout the lean winter months will be rewarded with increased pheasant populations. For further information contact

Clinic Is Today

There are about 200 million Americans. More than 20 million of them have high blood pressure There's a one in ten chance that you are one of them. How much do you care about yourself? How much do you care about your family? If you really care about your health and the health of your family, you will attend the blood pressure testing clinic on Thursday, February 12 (today), in the office of the Silverton Public Schools nurse from 8:30 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. It will not cost you soil surface and available as food a dime. But if you choose not to attend, the cost could be great.

In some people, for some un known reason, the whole range of blood pressure goes up to unhealthy levels and doesn't come down. This condition is called hypertension, the medical word for too high blood pressure.

Over the years, if not treated, hypertension can injure the heart and brain and kidneys. This injury is caused by constant, destructive, high pressure at work throughout all the miles of tiny blood vessels inside these organs. Unfortunately, a person with high blood pressure may feel good-even while the secret damdoctor. This makes the long-term situation serious.

You can find out about your own blood pressure with this free, simple check-up. Most likely it will be within a normal range, but if it's high, you're much bet ter off knowing about it. Your doctor can then do something a-

"Hello, Dr. Anderson? Do you want to hire a boy to cut the grass, milk the cow, and run errands for you? Oh, you already have a boy? Dr. Anderson, are you completely satisfied with the boy you have? Ok, then. Good-by, doctor."

As the boy thanked the druggist and started out the door, the druggist called to him. "Just a minute, son. If you are looking for work, I could use a boy like you." "Thank you, sir," replied the boy, "But I already have a

"Didn't I just hear you trying to get a job from Dr. Anderson?" "No, sir," said the boy, "You see, I'm the boy who's working for Dr. Anderson, and I was just checking up on myself.'

It might do us all good to check up on ourselves to see if we are neglecting our duty. "To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." James 4:17 The Bible says: "Cursed be he that doeth the work of Jehovah negigently" Jeremiah 4810
