At lower left, a trainman looks down into the passenger compartment of the car as another trainman rushes to the scene from the rear of the engine. At right, train crew members try to pry Jessie Dean Johnson and his wife, whose head is just visible to the left of Johnson, from the wreckage. ## Couple 'lucky to be alive' after train hits their car

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — A San Bernardino couple was "lucky to be alive" after their car was hit, dragged and then smashed against a bridge by a train, a Highway Patrol officer said.

Highway patrol officer Larry Sanchez said the crash occurred Sunday after the car was driven onto the railroad tracks at a crossing.

A diesel freight train pulling up to 160 cars was traveling about 15 mph on Santa Fe railroad tracks near Cajon Pass as it approached the crossing, Sanchez said.

He said the engineer, Robert Charles Baumgartner, 30, of Arcadia, Calif. saw the car stop at the crossing gate where lights were flashing, and then proceed across the tracks.

"The train hit the car dead center, dragged it along the tracks about 540 feet until it came to a bridge," said Sanchez.

"Then the car turned to the left side of the train and was literally squished between the bridge and the train," Sanchez said.

Military chiefs give support to arms pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's military leaders gave a qualified endorsement of the SALT II treaty in Senate testimony today, and submitted a shopping list of items they believe are essential to maintain a U.S.-Soviet military balance.

Repeating before the Senate Armed Services Committee the phrasing he used two weeks ago before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, called the treaty "a modest but useful step."

"We consider it absolutely essential that, if the nation accepts the SALT II agreement, it does so with a full understanding that we will be required to undertake a series of important strategic modernization programs in order to maintain strategic parity within the limits agreed upon," Jones testified.

The chiefs followed Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who was questioned for a day and a half as the committee's leadoff witness on the military implications of the treaty.

Like the Joint Chiefs, Brown said that with or without SALT, defense spending must increase to counter the Soviet military buildup. Brown favors increasing defense spending 3 percent a year, not counting the effects of inflation. He said inflation reduced the increase in this year's defense budget to about 1 percent.

If SALT II is rejected, Brown said, spending in the strategic area would have to rise $3 billion a year, which he said would cut into the U.S. ability to modernize conventional forces.

Brown testified that rejection of the treaty "would send very great shock waves" through the NATO alliance and could "loosen the bonds" between the United States and its European allies.

While members of the Foreign Relations Committee asked about the negotiating process and the effect of the treaty on U.S.-Soviet relations, the Armed Services panel was more concerned with comparisons of weapons and strategies.

The Foreign Relations Committee, which is continuing its hearings today in closed session to hear CIA Director Stansfield Turner, has primary jurisdiction for the treaty.

But the views of the Armed Services committee on the military issues will weigh heavily with the Senate when floor debate begins in the fall.

Brown was pressed by several senators on the provision of the treaty which allows the Soviets to have 308 giant SS-18 missiles, which are twice as large as any in the U.S. arsenal.

Repeatedly, he replied that the Soviets would have those big missiles "with or without SALT."

The secretary also said that he would not trade the MX missile, which the United States will begin deploying in 1986, for the SS-18. "We think the MX is every bit as good or better than the SS-18," he said.

One of the most encouraging moments for treaty supporters came in a brief comment by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who said his concerns about U.S. ability to detect Soviet cheating have been "somewhat overcome" by administration witnesses at secret sessions of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Verification is a crucial issue which could sway many votes in the Senate, where a two-thirds majority will be required for approval of the agreement.

'It was pretty scary,' says holdup victim

Held up for the third time, Midlander shot in hand, shoulder

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

For Rob Blessing, the "third time" was a dubious charm. The third time he faced an armed robber, he was shot, but he survived.

"It wasn't too bad," the 23-year-old Blessing today after he was shot Sunday in the holdup of the 7-Eleven convenience store he manages at 1912 N. Big Spring St. "It was pretty scary," he said.

Blessing was shot in the hand and shoulder about 3:15 a.m. Sunday after he had given the pistol-wielding robber "less than $20" in bills.

He was back home today after spending the night in the hospital, but doesn't plan to return to work until early next week.

Police are still looking for the robber, who Blessing said was in his mid-20s.

Blessing was the bartender at Lubbock's Smuggler's Inn restaurant a couple years ago when he was locked up in a freezer by the holdup men. Then, a year later, he was involved in a "simple armed robbery" at the same restaurant.

Unlike the others, this time Blessing was alone with the holdup man.

Shortly after 3 a.m., when business normally falls off, Blessing said, he had walked to the back of the store to stock the refrigerator vault when he spotted the man in the storeroom.

The man, pointing a pistol at him, demanded money from the cash register. Blessing obliged — part of the store's recommended procedure during robberies.

"If you run, I'll shoot you," Blessing said the man told him.

When he returned to the storeroom, Blessing handed the money to man, who seemed upset about the small amount of cash.

Blessing said the man cocked the hammer of the pistol, and his grip tightened.

At that moment, Blessing grabbed the barrel of the firearm with his right hand.

"He shot me," said Blessing.

"And I thought he was going to shoot me again, and I played dead. He stood over me for a few moments," Blessing recalled. "I was getting ready for him to shoot me again."

Instead, the robber left the store. And a few minutes later, a customer arrived and called police.

Blessing said he plans to return to work next week, although his fiancée, Shawn Smith, 22, of El Paso, had rather he find a safer line of work.

"She just wanted me to quit," said Blessing, who has been manager of the store here for about a month. He's from El Paso.

"She said, 'You're crazy; you could find something safer to do.'"

Blessing said he followed the store's recommended procedures during a robbery until he grabbed for the pistol; however, the police and he believe that that action might have saved his life.

He was shot with a .22-caliber magnum bullet. "That's a little gun with a lot of noise," Blessing said of the pistol.

He said the store here was robbed about two months ago by a robber who said he was concealing a pistol.

Blessing said the store has posted signs indicating that the store's clerk has access to no more than $35.

In Dallas, where robberies are more frequent, security guards armed with shotguns are stationed at 7-Eleven Stores, "and they stopped a lot" of robberies or potential robberies, Blessing said.

Congressmen want to discuss Lozano case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of black and Hispanic congressmen is asking for a meeting with Deputy Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to discuss the Justice Department's decision not to issue indictments in the Larry Lozano case.

The Mexican-American died in January 1978 while in custody of Ector County, Texas, authorities, allegedly as a result of a beating.

Civiletti announced June 22 that an extensive FBI investigation and testimony of more than 50 grand jury witnesses did not turn up enough evidence of policy brutality or official misconduct to warrant an indictment.

"We are extremely concerned over the actions recently taken by the Justice Department in the case of Larry Ortega Lozano and other cases involving enforcement of civil rights laws," the congressmen wrote Civiletti on Monday. "We would like to request an informal meeting with you at your earliest convenience to discuss these concerns."

The letter was signed by Reps. Mickey Leland, D-Texas; John Conyers Jr., D-Mich.; Robert Garcia, D-N.Y.; and Edward R. Roybal, D-Calif.

President Carter has nominated Civiletti to succeed Attorney General Griffin Bell, and the confirmation hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee is scheduled Wednesday.

Justice Department spokesman Robert Havli said Civiletti had not received the letter yet, but the deputy attorney general earlier discussed the case and other Southwest civil rights cases with three of the four congressmen's staff members.

Leland was the exception.

"They were satisfied with the handling of the case," Havli said of the other congressmen. "He dealt with them extensively on the Lozano case."

Leland, of Houston, said in an interview he was particularly interested in the civil rights issues raised by the Lozano case because of police brutality allegations made against the Houston Police Department.

"There's a cloud over Mr. Civiletti's head I'd like to clear up in my own mind — questions about his fairness," he said. "I want to try and get some feel for his attitudes about this and let him know that it's high on my priority list."

Garcia said his signature on the letter did not indicate any position on Civiletti's nomination. The New York Democrat said he had worked with the deputy attorney general in a Puerto Rican civil rights case and found him "extremely cooperative."

Garcia said, however, "There seems to be some question in the case of Houston and the Southwest whether the attorney general did as much as could possibly be done."

Out-of-city residents may get house numbers

By BILL MODISETT
Staff Writer

Four Midlanders Monday were appointed as a committee by Midland County commissioners to devise a system for determining addresses of county residents living outside the corporate city limits.

Appointed were Tom Hollingsworth, Hooper Sanders, Clay Styles and Joe Hill.

The men represent the U.S. Post Office, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Pioneer Natural Gas Co. and Texas Electric Service Co., four concerns affected by the rapid and widespread acceleration of populated regions outside Midland in the county.

According to Commissioner Durward Wright, the lack of a residence numbering system for the county or some means of determining where residences are located outside the city has had an impact on the concerns represented on the committee.

"It's becoming a problem," Wright said.

The committee is charged with using the county's "grid maps" to devise a numbering system which will facilitate easier location of county residences.

Marion Floyd, a current county employee, also will begin serving now as the county's animal control officer, following action of commissioners Monday.

Jewel Smith, chief sanitarian for the Midland City-County Health Department, recommended to commissioners the expansion of Floyd's responsibilities.

Currently, Floyd is assisting the county in a mosquito eradication program.

According to commissioners, putting Floyd in the new capacity goes along with the county's present animal control program. Earlier this year, commissioners passed an ordinance requiring vaccination of dogs and cats in the county against rabies.

Up until now, however, it has been the responsibility of the Midland County Sheriff's Department to enforce the ordinance and to handle calls concerning possible rabid animals.

Commissioners also approved bringing Pecos County into the Permian Basin Centers for Mental Health and Mental Retardation's catchment area.

That action came at the request of Harry Clark, who said such a move is consistent with plans to create a regional program for the agency.

Clark is treasurer of the organization's board of trustees.

Representative to the agency's board for Pecos County will be found, Clark said. That person will serve a two-year term.

Commissioners also appointed election judges and alternates for the upcoming Nov. 6 constitutional amendment election.

Commissioners were expected to continue their 1980 budget study at the conclusion of Monday's meeting, but postponed that study until 1:30 p.m. today.

Midland patrolman dismissed

By RICHARD MASON Staff Writer

A Midland Police Department officer has been dismissed from the force following investigation of an on-duty incident involving "moral turpitude" that reportedly occurred on private property earlier this month.

Patrolman James D. Williams, described as a Sunday school teacher with an "impeccable record" during his four years on the Midland police force, was placed on one-year probation today in Judge Willie DuBose's County Court at Law after he pleaded no contest to charges of "official misconduct" involving a Midland couple.

The charge is a misdemeanor punishable by up to a year in prison and a $2,000 fine, the district attorney said.

According to a written statement which Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith released at today's press conference, "Officer Williams, under color of his office, caused the young couple, through his instructions and acts, embarrassment, humiliation, and undue fear. Their complaint stated that on the night of July 2, 1979, they were parked on private property in the northern edge of the city of Midland when Officer Williams contacted them."

The couple originally filed a complaint against the officer with the Midland Police Department.

Gideon said his department pursued the matter until it reached an "impasse."

According to Gideon, it was a question of the couple's word against that of the officer.

"There was nothing we could discover of concrete proof," Gideon recalled.

Unhappy with the result of the police investigation, the couple subsequently contacted an attorney and approached the sheriff's office to pursue the investigation as a criminal complaint, Smith indicated.

Gideon then summoned the Texas Rangers to conduct an investigation.

Both the Rangers and the Sheriff's Department assigned an officer to the incident and were conducting a joint investigation when Williams decided to enter his no contest plea, officials said today.

Martin said today he felt he sentencing was adequate.

"This guy has been punished beyond our imagination in terms of this one thing he's done," Martin said.

Martin alluded to the officer's clean record on the police force during his 4 1/2 years of service.

It's rare that an officer doesn't have some complaint on his record," Martin said.

According to Martin the couple was "very satisfied" with the results of the action in court today.

Crane woman 'satisfactory'

CRANE — A Crane woman is in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit of an Odessa hospital following a shooting incident here Sunday evening.

Katherine Sanchez, 18, remained in 'satisfactory condition today in Medical Center Hospital following surgery Sunday night for two bullet wounds in the abdomen.

Arrested in connection with the incident was her husband, Mario Sanchez, 19, officials said.

The incident occurred at 6 p.m. Sunday in the Sack N Pac here, according to Capt. Hal Dew of the Crane Police Department.

Carter makes appeal on behalf of 'essential' energy legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, moving to mend fences with a Congress confounded by recent upheavals in his administration, appealed to his party's congressional leaders today for help in preserving legislation he considers "absolutely essential" to his energy program.

Faced with the possible loss of tax revenues needed to finance his $142 billion energy blueprint, the president met with Democratic leaders at a White House breakfast and made his case for the legislation.

House Democratic Whip John Brademas of Indiana said the meeting, also attended by White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan, focused on House and Senate timetables for action on energy legislation.

Brademas quoted Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, as promising Congress would send Carter by Oct. 1 an energy bill he would be "proud to sign."

Later, Carter planned to meet with many of the people he appointed to high-level jobs in Cabinet departments and independent agencies.

On Monday, he assured about 300 White House staff members that if they are competent, hard working and loyal, they have nothing to fear from the controversial "report cards" being filled out by their bosses.

Turning his attention to energy, Carter was asking top Capitol Hill Democrats for help in warding off amendments that could significantly cut revenues from the "windfall profits" tax he envisions as the primary source of financing for his massive energy program.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Monday the president feels the "legislation is absolutely essential."

Powell said the measure's full tax revenues are necessary if the goals Carter outlined July 15 are to be met. He said Carter is concerned about proposed amendments that would:

—Exempt independent producers from the tax, a move White House officials said would cost $35.8 billion in the first 10 years of the tax.

—Exempt newly discovered oil, paring another $25.2 billion in revenue from the proposed levy, officials said.

The officials said a total of about $55 billion would be lost if Congress passed both amendments. If left as is the tax is expected to reap $142 billion in its first decade.

The bill to create an excise tax on oil industry profits has already been approved in the House and is now before the Senate Finance Committee, which hopes to complete work on it by the Aug. 4 congressional recess.

Carter may broach the energy legislation when he holds a nationally-broadcast news conference from the East Room of the White House at 9 p.m. EDT Wednesday. The news conference will be on television.

Continued warm weather likely

Typical mid-summer temperatures may be here to stay for awhile, according to the weatherman.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport said Wednesday will be partly cloudy with a warm afternoon.

Winds will blow at about 5 to 10 mph in a southerly direction, the weatherman said.

Forecast for Wednesday's high offered a temperature in the upper 90's. Low tonight should be in the low 70s.

19-year-old found hanged by pants in Monahans jail

MONAHANS — A 19-year-old roughneck who had been jailed in lieu of posting $115,000 in bonds on five charges was found hanged by his own pants in his single-person cell about 8 a.m. Monday.

The man, Joe Wesley Chamberlain of Monahans, was found by a jailer who was bringing him breakfast, Ward County Sheriff John T. Ashcraft said this morning.

"He was stooped, his knees were bent, and his feet were on the floor," the sheriff said. Ashcraft said one of the pants' legs was tied to a bar and the other was tied about Chamberlain's neck. Ashcraft said the pants' leg was tied to the bar at about the six-foot level.

He said the inmate had been dead about 45 minutes or an hour when the jailer found him.

Chamberlain was one of three, including a 17 year old and 16 year old, arrested by sheriff deputies and jailed on June 27 after they allegedly stole a car and committed burglary and rape in the early morning hours of that day, the sheriff said.

Chamberlain was indicted July 6 on five counts.

The charges and amount of bonds were: burglary of a habitation, entering and committing aggravated sexual abuse, $50,000; aggravated robbery in the same incident, $50,000; burglary of a building, entering and committing theft at the Dutcher Phipps Crane & Rigging Co., $5,000; felony theft of a car, $5,000; burglary of a building, entering and committing theft, $5,000.

Ashcraft said Chamberlain allegedly raped a woman at gunpoint at her home just southwest of Monahans after the allegedly stolen car had run out of gasoline.

An autopsy on Chamberlain has been performed by an Odessa pathologist, but results will not be available until Wednesday or Thursday, Ashcraft said.

Chamberlain, at his own request, had been transferred to a cell by himself and showed no signs of instability, said a sheriff's deputy.

Lamesa's latest waterhole adds bit of fun to summer afternoon

LAMESA—Lamesa seems to be an "all right" town of 12,000 folks for three kids on bicycles.

"It's pretty good," said 14-year-old Jimmy Salazar, who was riding his single-speed bike in and out of Forrest Park's latest waterhole; it was formed by recent rains.

With him were his brother, Joe Salazar, 13, and a friend, Raymond Cortez, 13.

Jimmy qualified his liking of Lamesa.

"It's all right only when it rains," he said. "I don't like it in the summer, because we hoe cotton. The winter's all right; then we can ride our bikes on the ice."

His brother and friend quietly agreed, and volunteered few words.

"It's pretty good," echoed Joe. Raymond just smiled.

Behind them, seven little shivering girls and one boy were sitting in the flooded park waters, which had rushed down the normally dry Sulphur Draw, flooded a golf course, and spurted into Forrest Park.

The playground area was covered by shallow water, which hugged the park's elm trees, slides, swings, benches, see-saws and a walkway over a minute creek.

One of the eight little wet ones got up and out of the water, and then there were seven.

Jimmy, brother Joe and friend Raymond still were resting on their bikes. Joe's and Raymond's bicycles once were three-speed cycles; now, each has only one working gear. Something broke.

"We busted them there at the trails," Jimmy said.

His, however, always was just a one-speed two-wheeler.

"Built it out of parts that I had at home," he said.

The cold kids in the flooded park "belonged" to Rosa Perez and her sister, Yolanda Lemon; they were either their children, kinfolks or friends.

The two women drove the children to the park in one of those "oversized" American cars. They often go to park to recreate or just to while away the time.

"We've lived here all our lives; we sure like Lamesa," said Ms. Perez, who later said she moved here "from the Valley" in deep South Texas, "but we've been here a long time."

"We enjoy living here," said her sister.

They enjoy living in Lamesa, and Kurt Wolfshohl enjoyed staying here a day and a night. He had parked his camper here en route from San Antonio to Fort Collins, Colo., while just "bumming" around in his retirement years.

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

Aided by his walking cane, he sauntered over, toward the boys on the bicycles and to where Roustin' About had struck up a conversation.

He spoke to them in Spanish. At first, they said nothing in return.

"Kids don't like to speak Spanish," he said.

Later, the "kids" did exchange a bit of Spanish with Wolfshohl. But, for the most part, they stuck with their English.

Wolfshohl said he, too, hoed cotton fields when he was a kid around San Antonio.

"I chopped lots of cotton and picked lots of cotton," he said. But Wolfshohl said he "was too sorry to be a farmer," so he ended up as an electrician.

Jimmy said he gets $2 an hour hoeing cotton and that his father gets paid a dollar more, "but he drives a tractor."

"Holy chorizo!" exclaimed Wolfshohl. (Chorizo, he said, is Mexican sausage, and he claimed the word commonly is used as an expletive.)

After awhile, the cyclists rode off and splashed through the water, and the seven youngsters got out of the cool water, climbed into a car and went home.

Wolfshohl noted the on-rush of water into the flooded playground area of the park. He figured the widespread deluge ought to benefit the country.

"I'll tell you what," he observed. "Everytime we go to a place, it rains like this. And this is drought country, and they need the rain," Wolfshohl noted.

"The cotton-picking farmers need the rain, and so do the ranchers, but they'll be complaining tomorrow and wanting for more rain."

Authorities hope clothing list will aid victim identification

CHICAGO (AP)—Authorities here are hoping someone, somewhere will remember that a friend or relative wore a St. Christopher medal or a red shirt with silver threads before he disappeared.

Officials Monday released a list of clothing and other personal items they hope will lead to the identification of 16 bodies found under John Wayne Gacy Jr.'s house.

Gacy, 37, has been indicted on charges of murdering 33 young men and boys. Most of the bodies were uncovered in December and January from a crawl space under Gacy's modest bungalow. Seventeen have been identified, the most recent more than two months ago.

Authorities said that few, if any, of the items on the list belonged to Gacy, who is being held under guard at a hospital in the Cook County jail complex. A trial date has not yet been set.

They hope friends or relatives will recognize some of the items and contact authorities. Some of the more distinctive items listed:

—Jackets: An Army green fatigue jacket with the word "Duke" sewn on the left front and the outline of a First Cavalry (Air Mobile) Division patch that was on a sleeve. A size 38 brown frontier-style fringed leather waste-length jacket. A black quilted nylon jacket splattered with white paint.

—Other clothing: A dark-red shirt with silver threads in the weave and blue jean-type trousers with cloth stars sewn on as decorations.

—Rings: A man's yellow metal ring from the North Central College graduating class of 1967. A white metal man's wedding band. A white metal ring made of dog-chain material.

—Religious medals: A white metal St. Jude Thaddeus medal. A white metal St. Christopher medal with a maroon enamel background.

—Watches: A Timex wristwatch of white metal with a heavy brown leather bracelet band. A white metal Boy Scout wristwatch with a compass on the face.

—Neck chains: A wooden bead necklace. A turquoise and white round shell chain. A large metal chain bearing the Latin words Utrius Actus Auxilio on the pendant.

—Belt buckles: A yellow metal buckle with an engraving of an old auto and the words "Ford Model A." A white metal buckle with brown stone and black stripings.

The unidentified bodies are being held in the Cook County morgue. The identified bodies have been released to relatives.

SEA CAPTAIN

Charlton Heston stars in the epic story of the mainland families who settled in Hawaii and made it an American Pacific outpost in "The Hawaiians" on "The CBS Tuesday Night Movies," July 24.

Based on James Michener's best-selling novel, "Hawaii," and as a sequel to the movie of that name, "The Hawaiians" focuses on Whip Hoxworth (Heston), the spirited, rough son of a sea captain. Hoxworth's wife, Purity (Geraldine Chaplin), misunderstands and mistrusts her crude husband.

Fund-raising firm fired for taking part in draft-Kennedy movement

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fund-raising firm that solicited millions for the Democratic party has been fired by the Democratic National Committee because it began drumming up support for a draft-Kennedy movement.

Tom Mathews, a partner in the Arlington, Va., firm of Craver, Mathews, Smith and Co., said Monday the committee exercised a 30-day cancellation clause in its contract last week.

The firm is one of several in the Washington area specializing in political mailings. The companies raise money for candidates, engage in mail-order lobbying and stimulate support for various causes.

Mathews said 25,000 letters his firm sent out seeking support for a presidential draft of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., have been so successful that 20,000 more are going out this week.

national political endeavors are not activities which best serve the needs of the Democratic National Committee.

The firm, which has represented various Democratic candidates as well as the national party, began working for the DNC early last year and helped raise more than $3 million.

The financially strapped party still owes the firm about $18,000 which is to be paid off by the end of the year. Neuman said the party would do its own mail solicitation in the future, adding that the firm had agreed to cooperate during the transition period.

The Kennedy letters were signed by Machinist Union President William Wimpinger for a group called the National Call for Kennedy Campaign.

Wimpinger said the group is seeking to demonstrate to Kennedy that there is support for him to challenge Carter for the party's 1980 presidential nomination.

Letters sent to the committee supporting Kennedy would be delivered to the senator and money raised would be used to finance more mailings, he said. Any money left over after the mail campaign will be contributed to the John F. Kennedy presidential library.

Death Valley hike too hot for would-be humanitarians

FURNACE CREEK, Calif. (AP) — It seemed like a good idea at the time — a hike through Death Valley to raise money for Vietnamese boat people — but a pair of would-be desert rats were zapped by heat on their second day out.

"It was so hot, and we got lost on the first day," said a weary-sounding Alexander Goldstein. On Monday, U.S. Park Service rangers picked up Goldstein and Amin Hasan 30 miles into their hike.

Goldstein, a 28-year-old Detroit social worker who lives across the Canadian border in Windsor, Ont., and Hasan, 27, of Los Angeles, had hoped to set a record walking the 125 miles from the south to the north end of the famed hot spot.

Friends and well-wishers had pledged varying amounts of money for each mile they hiked with the proceeds to go to the World Vision Boat People Emergency Relief Fund.

Wearing white, Arab-style caftans and carrying 30 pounds of supplies on their backs, Goldstein and Hasan set out on July 21. But they were dropped off in the wrong place.

"We walked 20 miles trying to find the right road," Goldstein said. Finally, the duo gave up and returned to their starting point.

They left again Sunday morning from Shoshone. But the long hike uphill on Highway 178 to the beginning of Death Valley Monument wore Goldstein out, even though temperatures were slightly cooler than the usual 120 degrees because of a weekend storm. After spending the night in the desert, the pair gratefully accepted a lift back to Furnace Creek from a park ranger.

The 30 miles worth of pledges will net only $25 for the boat people.

Saccharin's shelf life may be lengthened by House action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Users of diet sodas and other foods containing saccharin are a step closer to being assured the products will remain on store shelves at least two more years.

The House on Monday tentatively approved extending until June 30, 1981, a moratorium that has blocked a planned saccharin ban since mid-1977. Monday's vote was expected to become formal with an on-the-record tally today.

Sponsors of the moratorium extension, yet to be acted on in the Senate, said they hoped the additional two years would be used to develop a safe alternative to saccharin, which the Food and Drug Administration says could possibly cause cancer.

In March 1977, the FDA announced plans to ban saccharin as a food additive because tests linked it to cancer in laboratory animals.

But Congress imposed an 18-month moratorium on the ban. That moratorium expired May 23. Congress also ordered that all saccharin products be labeled with a written cancer warning.

Connally critical of 'big shakeup'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, a Republican presidential candidate, has criticized last week's White House shakeup and says President Carter ruined his chances for re-election.

Connally said Monday that the cabinet shuffle was prompted by political necessity and was "not done for the purpose of increasing the managerial ability of the administration."

Connally told reporters at a luncheon sponsored by 20th Century Fox's political action committee that former cabinet members Joseph Califano, W. Michael Blumenthal and James Schlesinger all were "men of unusual competence and capacity."

"Their removals from office were largely politically motivated," he said, but added that their resignations "didn't help him (Carter) politically."

Supporters of the two-year extension claim diabetics, the obese and others feel a need for a low-calorie sugar substitute, and that a good alternative to saccharin has not yet been marketed.

"I hope that during the moratorium period the industry will be working diligently to develop a substitute for saccharin which will be both safe and low in calories," said Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., chairman of the House health and environment subcommittee.

The National Academy of Sciences has said saccharin should be regarded as a potential cancer-causing substance in humans, although one of low potency.

The academy expressed concern that saccharin may be a particular hazard to young children and to children born to pregnant woman who consume diet beverages.

The FDA wants to allow saccharin to be purchased only as a tabletop sweetener and not in food or drinks.

Stampeding the Enemy

By Alfred Sheinwold

If your opponent doesn't try to thwart your obvious plan it is quite possible that he has suddenly lost his mind. Still, there's no harm in looking for another explanation.

South was afraid of losing a trick in each suit. Since he might avoid losing a trump trick if he could stampede the enemy into leading trumps, South took the ace of spades and fired a spade right back.

West took the queen of spades and switched to a low diamond. South played three rounds of diamonds, but the suit didn't break well. The contract depended on guessing who had the queen of hearts.

THE REASON

It seemed probable that West would return a trump at the third trick if he had only low trumps. A trump return would be the best defense if South was planning to ruff spades in dummy.

Why had West declined to lead trumps? Most probably because he had the queen.

South therefore led the jack of hearts for a first-round finesse and made the game without further difficulty.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: ♠9 7 6 4 3 ♣7 4 ♦J 9 ♠10 7 6. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. The hand is worth a response only because you have strong support for partner's suit. You would pass an opening bid of one heart or one diamond.

Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed, No. 10 envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

A young Japanese man listens intently as a woman fortune teller, left, examines his palm in downtown Tokyo. The fortune tellers, who for years have set up their stalls every night in busy city centers, now find themselves in competition with streetwise computers spewing out instant prophecies and "specialists" in the astrological path. (AP Laserphoto)

Palm readers compete with street computers

TOKYO (AP) — The women, some in T-shirts and sneakers, others in pearls and French fashions, form lines under the neon, waiting for word on their fate and future from an aging oracle.

They listen intently, their serious expressions contrasting to the bustling, brightly lit Shinjuku entertainment district. The fortune teller peers at their palms, consults the planets and proclaims what lies ahead in marriage, family, job and health.

The Japanese are suddenly star-struck over fortune telling and horoscope readings.

For some it is just a game, a way to tease boyfriends about wedding bells and riches to come. For others, fortune telling has become an indispensable guide for determining the future.

And fortune tellers who for years have set up their stalls every night in busy city centers suddenly face competition. Curbside computers spew out instant prophecies, and astrological "specialists" advise on such things as pimple removal and capturing a goodnight kiss from a shy date.

One 20-year Shinjuku veteran with a reputation for her clairvoyance now charges 2,000 yen per fortune — $9 in U.S. currency — and commands a monthly income of $9,000.

Down the street from a soothsaying computer in the Ginza area stand five booths offering looks into the future through palmistry, horoscope reading, divining sticks, phenology (the study of skull shapes), name interpretation or I Ching. They charge $7 for two or three minutes of consultation.

The 20 schools in Tokyo which teach the arts of divination have long waiting lists of people wishing to enroll.

One 50-year-old fortune teller in the Ginza, who said that 80 percent of his customers were women, theorized that people have turned more to divination because they are unable to find answers to their personal problems through religion.

"We are modern priests clearing up people's doubts about the way their lives are going," he said.

Divination has ancient roots in Japan, growing out of the traditions of Chinese astrology, geomancy, yin-yang philosophies and northern Asian shamanism, the belief in a world of invisible spirits and demons who respond only to a holy priest.

Diviners held immense political power in the ancient court and most Japanese still determine wedding and funeral dates after consulting yin-yang calendar dates.

The new interest in predicting the future has been a boon to publishers. Three of the top 10 books on the non-fiction bestseller list deal with astrology and life planning.

One horoscope series published every year since 1970 has sold 20 million copies.

The Jitsugyo-No-Nihon-Sha Co. came out in April with a glossy monthly called "My Birthday," a magazine of love and divination. The 100-page magazine, which offers heavenly solutions to the problems of girls under 18, is selling more than 250,000 copies a month.

Yasuhiko Toyama, a company official, said girls write more than 10,000 letters a month to the magazine, looking to the zodiac for answers to their boy and school problems.

Some critics say the fascination with horoscopes among today's youth shows young people lack initiative, and that learning the future from the corner augurer is an easy way to avoid personal responsibility.

But Shingen Kazato, head of several computer and human divination centers, said the interest in fortune telling reflects a real spiritual need in modern life.

"Spiritual anguish has been a by-product of the development of civilization, and we have a duty to relieve the pain and suffering of people uncertain about the future," he said.

Think cool to keep cool, says AMA

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Whew! Millions of Americans are searching for ways to keep cool this summer as energy conservation measures boost temperatures in offices and other buildings.

Medical and meteorological experts say there are certain basic rules to follow: Wear loose clothing, for example. Drink plenty of water. Try to slow down.

But the experts also say that keeping comfortable is a psychological as well as a physical problem.

"Seventy-eight degrees (the level required in most non-residential buildings) is not all that hot," said Frank Chappell of the American Medical Association. "You might be a little uncomfortable, but most of the discomfort is going to be in your mind."

There are arguments about who feels worse — men or women. Doiced drinks make you feel cooler than hot ones? Should you take a cold shower or a steaming bath?

"I don't think sex has much to do with it," said Chappell. Your lifestyle is more important than your gender. You will be less affected by a slight increase in temperature if you are used to working outside in hot weather than if you spend your days in an air-conditioned office.

Chappell also said it "doesn't make a bit of difference" whether you drink your coffee iced or hot. The main thing is to replace your body fluids, particularly if you perspire heavily. Chappell said, although he admitted that most people seem to feel better — at least temporarily — after a cold drink.

Mike Mogil of the National Weather Service offered a similar view. "Anything that's going to lower your body temperature to some extent is going to help," he said. "I'm an ice cream freak. I like to cool off by eating ice cream."

Mogil said heat — and cold — is relative. "If you take a cold shower, you'll feel better. Then you'll step outside and the heat will really hit

U.S. consumers enjoy getting ad mail

NEW YORK (AP)—American consumers apparently enjoy reading advertising mail about products and services, the latest figures from the Mail Preference Service of the direct Mail-marketing Assn., show.

When given the choice between having their names removed from, or added to, mailing lists, more people preferred to be added for more mail than to have their names taken off.

The service, begun eight years ago, permits consumers to write to the association to indicate their preference, which is then communicated to some 2,000 member companies.

In the May compilation, 10,361 persons opted for having their names added to some 24 categories of lists for consumer products and service information. Only 3,784 wanted their names removed from lists.

Consumers write directly to the association for forms to indicate their preference and these come in at a rate of 4,000 a month, with 65 percent of the respondents asking for more mail, officials said.

Soviet darling performs 'badly'

MOSCOW (AP) — For one instant during her 70-second balancing routine on the narrow wooden beam, Nelli Kim hovered on the brink of a fall. Then, with an almost imperceptible jiggle of her hips and shift of her shoulders, the Soviet gymnast with the exotic Eurasian face instinctively recovered her balance.

Goldsteyn feels axe

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Jerry Goldsteyn, the winner of the Giants' quarterback derby the last two training camps, became the first name player cut Monday by rookie Coach Ray Perkins.

Lee Mazzilli receives injury

Americans miss gold medal run

MOSCOW (AP) — Another silver medal for the United States in the Soviet Spartacade — and it might have been two golds. "She beat me out of the starting blocks, that's all," said 22-year-old Karen Hawkin of St. Louis who finished second to Russia's Ludmila Kondratyeva in the 100-meter dash Monday.

CALIFORNIAN Bart Williams was inches ahead of Russia's Vasily Arkhipenko in the 400-meter hurdles when Williams pulled a muscle. He limped out and Arkhipenko went on to win. "I felt it at the sixth hurdle," Williams said, "but I wanted to keep going."

THE COACH said: "We are going to write to the Russians and to the IAAF to try to get this changed for the Olympic games in Moscow next year."

Hawkin, a student at Texas Southern, clocked her personal best time of 11.32, but Kondratyeva won in 11.19. "It helps my confidence to finish second on the track where the Olympics are going to take place," Hawkin said.

Arkhipenko, who was striving to keep up with Williams when the American was injured, won the 400-meter hurdles in 49.11, more than a second ahead of another Russian, Dmitri Stukalov.

They swept the 800 meter finals. Anatoly Reshetniak won the men's race in 1:47.20 and Ekaterina Parkina won the women's in 1:57.13. Elena Goloborodko led a 1-2-3 Soviet sweep in the women's high jump with a leap of 6-foot-3 1/2 inches.

HENRY MARSH of Eugene, Ore., won his heat and qualified for Wednesday's final of the 3,000-meter steeplechase. But U.S. hopes suffered a sharp setback when Duncan Javelin of Seattle failed to make the javelin final.

As a freshman, he won fourth place in the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation's championship flight, was winner of the TAAF championship flight as a sophomore and took third in the TAAF state tourney the same year.

Monday night. Pole vaulter Mike Tully was expected to follow. "They could both be winners," Carnes said. "Even if Tully doesn't arrive we still have Dave Roberts, the world record holder, and he will be hard to beat."

OTHER AMERICAN competitors go into action later in the festival. The wrestlers start Thursday, divers Friday, judo Sunday and the volleyball team next week.

The basketball team arrived in Moscow Monday and after a quick lunch flew on to Lithuania, where the cage tournament already had started. The Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia were expected to be the Americans' strongest opponents.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on.

The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

Call between 11pm and 8am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it.

You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings.

If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state any-time before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.

Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the week-end. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Dial One-Plus and watch the savings add up.

Even if you're not a regular do-it-yourselfer, do-it-yourself when you call Long Distance. The savings are significant when you dial "one" plus the area code plus the phone number, instead of having the Operator do it. It's also faster. If you don't know the area code you need, just look in the front of your Telephone Directory. (Also check your telephone directory for exact discounts and conditions on out-of-state and in-state calls.)

Take advantage of the Holiday discount and celebrate.

Along with the flag-waving, fetes and parades, pick up the phone and call Long Distance. Our regular evening discount rates apply all day on Christmas, New Year's Day, Labor Day, July 4th and Thanksgiving. If the holiday falls on a weekend, you get the lower rate. Isn't this the perfect time to ring up friends and family?

Khomeini bans music as 'opium of the people'

NEW YORK (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini is not the first to suppress music that fell out of tune with political thought. Even Plato shared the Iranian religious leader's concern that music dulls the spirit.

"Like opium, music also stupefies persons listening to it and makes their brains inactive and frivolous," the Shiite Moslem leader said Monday, ordering a ban on music broadcasts on Iran's radio and television stations, according to the official PARS news agency.

"Music is something that everybody is attracted to naturally, but it takes them out of reality to a futile and lowly livelihood," Khomeini said.

Iran's national radio and television plans to stop broadcasting music this week at the beginning of Ramadan, the Moslem holy month.

In ancient Greece, Plato was prepared to permit the lyre and the harp in the city, and a shepherd's pipe in the country, but he said: "When a man allows music to play on him and to pour into his soul ... and his whole life is passed in warbling and the delight of song ... he begins to melt and waste, until he has wasted away his spirit and cut out the sinews of his soul; and he becomes a feeble warrior."

Khomeini's was the most sweeping attack on music since China tried to rot out Western music in the Cultural Revolution of the 1960s.

Western music reflected "the nasty, rotten life and decadent sentiments of the bourgeoisie," the radicals said. But the music is back — speakers in a Peking park recently were blaring such light music as "The Skater's Waltz" and young Chinese walk around singing "Do Re Mi" from "The Sound of Music."

But Hitler loved Richard Wagner and, for that reason, an unofficial but firm ban on Wagner persists on Israel radio, television and concert stages. When Zubin Mehta, director of the Israel Philharmonic, scheduled a Wagner overture for a 1975 concert, musicians refused to play it, the concert hall received bomb threats and the ushers threatened to strike.

Member of 'brain trust' dies

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Political theorist and educator Rexford Guy Tugwell, a member of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal "brain trust," has died at age 88.

Tugwell, who served as undersecretary of agriculture in the 1930s, had been hospitalized since June 19. The cause of his death Saturday at Santa Barbara Cottage Hospital was not disclosed.

After his stint with the Roosevelt administration, Tugwell was elected governor of Puerto Rico and held the office from 1941 to 1947.

At the time of his death, he was a senior fellow at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions here. He had been with the institute since 1966.

Tugwell was a professor at Columbia University in 1932 when he was tapped by Roosevelt, then governor of New York, as one of his closest advisers in his quest for the presidency. The group — whose original members were Tugwell and two Columbia colleagues, Raymond Moley and Adolf A. Berle — came to be known as the "brain trust."

He also taught political science from 1947 to 1957 at the University of Chicago, was chief planner for New York City for a time, and served as chancellor of the University of Puerto Rico.

He was author of economics and political books including "Industry's Coming of Age," "How They Became President: Thirty Five Ways to the White House," and "F.D.R.: Architect of an Era."

He received his education — through a doctorate — at the University of Pennsylvania, where he attended the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce.

Tugwell was born July 10, 1891 in Sinclairville, N.Y. He is survived by his wife, Grace, two daughters, two sons, 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services are scheduled for Wednesday.

Slowdowns spread in Uganda in support of ousted president

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Anti-government slowdowns in support of ousted President Yusufu Lule spread in Kampala and its suburbs this morning.

Market workers said no food has been delivered to the city since Saturday although most stalls were still selling vegetables and fruit from previous stocks.

The city's taxi and bus depot was only half full during the morning rush. Some taxis and private buses were operating but were dropping passengers on side streets away from the central area.

The number of small shops closed increased from Monday. One store owner said, "I might open later today but first I want to see what will be happening."

No bread was baked or delivered to stores, although bread and milk from Kenya were being sold by sidewalk dealers.

Government offices reported that most workers were showing up at their jobs but many were late because of transport problems.

Lule, a conservative named by Ugandan exiles to succeed ousted dictator Idi Amin in mid-April, was himself ousted a month ago by leftists and moderates with Tanzanian support in a dispute over cabinet appointments.

Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere detained Lule for two weeks in his

Different viruses cause colds, flu

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is the flu a more serious kind of cold, or is there a difference between the two?—Stella

Dear Stella: Colds and influenza (flu) are caused by completely unrelated viruses. Although both may last for only a few days, the flu can make a person feel listless and week for some time after recovery. The flu also results in fever, whereas colds generally do not.

The flu causes more extensive illness: headache; generalized aches and pains; and a deep, hacking, dry cough. The flu is also more highly contagious than a cold.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I know that cigarette smoking can cause lung cancer. Is it also responsible for other forms of cancer?—Ms. L.C.

Dear Ms. C.: While lung cancer is the major risk associated with cigarette smoking, it now appears that pancreatic cancer may also be the fate of heavy smokers. Researchers have found a frequent correlation between cigarette smoking and cancer of the pancreas. Dr. A.R. Mossa, director of surgical research at the University of Chicago, reports that 11,000 heavy smokers were screened by the Mayo Clinic for lung cancer. Of these, 19 were found to have cancer of the pancreas, the fourth leading cause of cancer deaths. Results of the study still have to be confirmed.

AMA may soften opposition to chiropractic 'cult'

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association appears ready to modify its longstanding opposition to chiropractors as members of an "un-scientific cult."

The AMA Board of Trustees on Monday urged a new position towards the nation's 20,000 chiropractors that would declare, in effect, that while chiropractic remains unsupported by scientific evidence, individual chiropractors may be all right.

The proposed new position must be approved by the AMA's House of Delegates, which begins three days of business today. The board's support made it appear likely the proposal would pass.

"I really don't see it as backing down," Dr. James Sammons, executive vice president of the powerful professional organization, told a news conference Monday.

"The AMA has a First Amendment right to speak out on scientific validity and we're going to do that ... But that's different than an attack on an individual or a group of people licensed by the state to earn a living doing a given thing," Sammons said.

The trustees' new position paper was a late addition to more than 250 resolutions and reports being considered by the delegates.

It was one of several — including a controversial new code of ethics — that attempts to resolve the conflict between the 214,000-member AMA and chiropractors, who use a method of healing based on manipulation of the skeleton, often the spine.

Lawsuits have been filed against the AMA in Illinois, New Jersey and New York, alleging restraint of trade and other charges. The doctors' association settled a similar suit in Pennsylvania out of court.

In the past, both the AMA House of Delegates and Judicial Council have held that chiropractors are cultists.

The Judicial Council has revised its position to drop specific reference to chiropractors.

CHICAGO (AP) — Facing the loss of dues paying members, the American Medical Association is contemplating some radical cures.

Delegates to the annual convention here Monday heard a report that painted a bleak picture of the AMA's ability to regain membership without a fundamental reshuffling of internal structure, something many doctors resist.

The five-day meeting began Sunday. The report said that although total AMA membership has grown slightly in recent years, the number of dues paying members has declined.

As remedies, the AMA in recent years extended votes in its House of Delegates to medical students and residents. It also cut first-year dues by half as an inducement.

AMA may try radical surgery to cure loss of membership
