Without it, he says, "we can-not reach our energy goals."

At a nationally broadcast primetime news conference Wednesday night, Carter predicted "a massive struggle to gut the windfall profits tax bill" in the Senate, after noting it already has passed the House.

It was Carter's first news conference here since May 29 and he appeared forceful throughout. His upper lip twitched briefly, however, when he was asked if he had thought about taking himself out of the 1980 presidential race.

"I have considered all the options," he reported, "and my decision will be announced later on this year."

Carter had a snappier comeback when a reporter asked about a prediction by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that the president's problems will force Carter out of the race and hand the Democratic nomination to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

"Three or four years ago I was running for president against Sen. Jackson," Carter recalled. "At that time he predicted he would be the next president, starting in 1977. His judgment was not very good then. And now I am ready for the next

President Jimmy Carter's televised press conference Wednesday night was greeted with a hearty yawn of indifference by most Midlanders and a groan of recognition from another

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., Midland's leading Republican, said he watched the broadcast, but was unimpressed with its content. "It was more political grandstanding. He was trying to go over the heads of Congress to the people. "The most disappointing aspect to me was his vitriolic attitude toward the oil industry," said oilman Angelo, who added he opposes the president's energy plan not only because of the tax on the oil industry, but because of what Carter plans to do with it. Angelo did find one aspect of the appearance to compliment, however. "He improved his speaking tremendously and cut out those maddening pauses. He must have spent hours and hours on that at Camp David. "But it's still more symbolism than substance," he said today.

Ed Magruder, president of the Midland County Hospital District and an oil operator, noted he missed the speech last night, but wasn't that concerned about the oversight.

"All of it - from cancelling the first speech to the retreat on the mountain to this - it was all politically motivated," Magruder said. "Everything is looking toward 1980."

Oil comapany secretary Mary Lou Midkiff echoed that sentiment. She went out to eat instead of watching the president's message, but she did have an opinion on the chief executive's performance. "He obviously has no understand-also missed the speech, but managed to catch comments on it afterward.

"I thought he said some positive things," Ramsoure noted, pointing especially to Carter's defense of recent his cabinet changes. But the tone of Midlanders' re-

Total unemployment grew by 4.3 percent in June. The commission predicted further increases in local employment when local schools reopen. Another major factor will be the continuing emphasis on energy production, the report said.

Wage and salary employment rose to 39,270 in June, according to the commission, reflecting continued economic growth in the Midland area. Manufacturing posted a small gain in professional and scientific goods due to new orders for fall merchandise, the report indicated.

However, the supervisor has the alternative of sending "alley letters" to the owners, usually to two houses on one side and two on the other of the alley area involved. Judge's findings lead to acquittal of policemen in 'throw down' case

HOUSTON (AP) — A prosecutor says he disagrees with a federal judge's findings that prompted an order for acquittal of two fired policemen charged with violating civil rights in a "throw down" gun case.

U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton Jr. made final arguments and jury deliberations unnecessary Wednesday by abruptly ruling the government had failed to prove the defendants had specific intent to violate the rights of Billy Keith Joyvies, Joyvies was fatally wounded on July 11, 1975, at the end of a high speed chase that began after a tool box had been stolen from a truck.

The indictment against Walter Plaster 53, and John Stephen White, 28, alleged a conspiracy to place a gun in Joyvies' car to make it appear the Houston youth was armed.

A police internal investigation later showed the gun found in the car had been traced to an officer who had been slain earlier in a gunbattle with escaped convicts.

There was conflicting testimony during the trial whether Joyvies was

Singleton described the actions of Plaster and White as "improper and shocking" but said there was no conspiracy as the officers sought to protect themselves and the police de-

"The government has the duty to produce sufficient evidence to prove beyond a reasonable doubt each of them had the specific intent to violate a right of Billy Keith Joyvies was guaranteed," Singleton said.

"The evidence in this case does not support any reasonable inference either officer had this intent."

Calvin Botley, the chief prosecutor, said he differs with such findings. "His findings were the defendants" conduct was shocking, but their purpose was to cover themselves and the

Two members of the jury that never got to deliberate indicated agreement with Singleton. "My feelings were running about the same as the judge," said F.D. 'Joyvies was dead or near dead and I don't feel you can violate the rights of a dead man.' Singleton talked with several jurors, including Ralph Sheets, outside the courtroom after announcing his ruling. "I didn't see any evidence against them," Sheets sid. "We were all in agreement. Everyone had the same idea I had. Joanna Joyvies, mother of the dead youth, did not seem surprised by the outcome but said she thought the trial made it clear "Billy didn't have a Without elaborating, Mrs. Joyvies said she had not expected too much "because of what has happened in other cases."

This was an apparent reference to two earlier federal court trials in which five other fired Houston officers were involved in civil rights violation charges.

In a similar "throw down" case, former officers Danny H. Mays, 32, and Norval Wayne Holloway, 28, received five-year suspended sentences on May 14, with U.S. District Judge Finis Cowan saying they already had been punished enough.

The two officers had been found guilty of charges of lying to a federal grand jury while covering up the fact Randall Alan Webster, 17, Shreveport, La., was unarmed when he was shot to death in a 1977 high speed chase that began after a van had been reported stolen.

The gun found in the Webster vehicle was traced to the police property room, where records indicated it had been destroyed after it had been acquired in the investigation of a sui-

PLO accuses Israel of assassination attempt UNPAINTED

CANNES, France (AP) - The Palestine Liberation Organization accused Israel of the attempted assassination of its military operations chief. but Western diplomats in Paris said the shooting on the Riviera may be the start of a new round of warfare between rival PLO factions or lead-

There was no comment from Isra-

The condition of the victim, 43year-old Zuhair Mohsen, was described as "hopeless." He was shot in the head and was reported in a coma in a Nice hospital following an operation to remove the bullet.

Mohsen, who also headed the Saiga (Thunderbolt) guerrilla organization controlled by Syria, was shot Tuesday night as he approached the door to the fourth-floor apartment in Cannes he and his wife had been occupying since last weekend. His wife, who was opening the apartment door to admit him, told police the gunman fired from a service stairway six feet

A watchman reportedly saw two men, one possibly an Arab and the other a large man in a white suit, apparently European, fleeing in a red Fiat with a local license. But the police gave no information on the progress of their investigation.

In Beirut, Yasser Arafat, the chief of the PLO, charged that the shooting was the work of a hit squad trained by the Israeli secret service. A highranking Syrian official made the same charge in Damascus.

Saiga and another PLO faction, the Marxist Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, blamed the "Camp David alliance" - Israel, Egypt and the United States. Saiqa vowed a "painful and decisive reply sooner than expected.'

However, Western diplomats in Paris suggested that the shooting might be the start of another round in the endless struggle among Palestinian leaders for control of the PLO, a loose alliance of eight guerrilla organizations united largely by their opposition to Israel.

Mohsen had frequently criticized Arafat's leadership and had other strong enemies within the move-

Other diplomats suggested the shooting might be connected with the seizure of the Egyptian Embassy in Ankara, Turkey, earlier this month by four members of the Red Eagles of the Revolution, which is believed to be a wing of Saiga. Arafat's PLO command said it was not responsible for that attack and sent a delegation to Ankara to negotiate the surrender of the terrorists.

Three other PLO leaders have been assassinated in France in the past seven years. The PLO representative in Paris was killed last Aug. 3 by two Arabs who said they were working for a terrorist group supported by Iraq. The other two killings were blamed on Mohsen's headquarters were in Beirut and Damascus, but he was a frequent visitor to France.

He arrived last Friday from Liberia, where he led the PLO delegation at the summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity. He was traveling on a Chilean passport, and informed sources said the French police and counter-espionage and security services did not know he was in Arafat sent a PLO delegation from Beirut to investigate the shooting and report on it to him. The group, which included Mohsen's brother Majed, arrived in Nice late Wednesday.

Fifth suspect wanted in kidnapping

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — A warrant has been obtained for the arrest of a fifth suspect in the abduction of a banker's wife in which more than $200,000 was paid in ransom, authorities say.

FBI spokesman Michael McDonnell identified the man sought by federal agents as Jose Fonseca, 19 or 20, of Paterson.

The FBL-obtained the warrant for Fonseca on Wednesday after city police recovered most of the $217,000 ransom money.

Joan Dedrick, the 46-year-old wife of William Dedrick, executive vice president of the Franklin Bank here, was kidnapped Friday morning from the couple's West Milford home. She was released 42 hours later in Teaneck after her husband delivered the ransom.

Davis made big loans to defense witnesses

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The divorce papers of Cullen Davis indicate the Fort Worth millionaire gave "loans" of $4,000 to $5,000 to defense witnesses in his murder-for-hire trial last year in Houston, prosecutors said Wednesday.

The "loans" were made "during and after" the witnesses testfied, prosecutors said

"It's the type of loans that will probably never have to be paid back," Assistant District Attorney John Bankston said.

Prosecutor Jack Strickland said the two witnesses were not connected with any of Davis' companies. 'We're calling them 'loans' because we don't know what else to call them," Bankston said.

Both prosecutors said they would question the witnesses about the funds during Davis' retrial on murder solicitation charges, scheduled to begin Monday in Fort Worth. Davis is accused of seeking a friend to hire a "hit man" to kill the presiding judge in his divorce trial.

Black teens

CHICAGO (AP) - The National Urban League says it has found that unemployment among black teen-agers is nearly double what the Labor Department estimates.

Alexander Allen, representing a league task force on black youths, told the civil rights group's annual conference Wednesday that government figures show 36.3 percent of blacks aged 16 to 19 were jobless during 1978.

But, Allen said, the jobless rate is far worse.

Using a Hidden Unemployment Index — which he said counted parttime workers and potential workers discouraged from seeking jobs as unemployed, who are not included in government figures — he estimated that more than 60 percent were without fulltime jobs last year.

Hispanics set private meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hispanic spokesmen scheduled a meeting today with Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti, whose nomination as attorney general they are fighting.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., suggested the meeting midway through testimony as the Senate Judiciary Committee began Civiletti's confirmation hearing Wednesday.

'We are strongly opposing Mr. Civiletti's nominaton," Paul Sedillo of the Forum of National Hispanic Organizations said. "We feel that we as a minority have been neglected by the Justice Department.'

Central to the Hispanic opposition is the contention that the Justice Department, with Civiletti in a top leadership spot, has been reluctant to prosecute for civil rights violations involving alleged police brutality against Hispanics. Nineteen of 57 cases the group outlined to the committee were in Texas.

"The number of cases that the Justice Department has initiated ... is absolutely a horrendous record,' Sedillo said.

Elisa Sanchez of the Mexican-American Women's National Association said, "Our people are being assaulted, murdered and otherwise brutalized while their cries for help fall on the deaf ears of the Justice Department.

Civiletti is scheduled to respond further to senators' questions Friday after the Hispanic groups complete their testimony today. He denied Wednesday, however, any bias in Justice Department acti-

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., asked if the Hispanic spokesmen still would oppose Civiletti if commitments to more minority representation and involvement in the Justice Department are made. "The relationship is not beyond repair," Sandoval said, adding he was skeptical because of the lack of progress made after previous meetings.

Sedillo proposed that the next deputy attorney general should be a Hispanic.

I can already hear what that conversation is going to be like," Kennedy said jokingly of today's Civiletti-Hispanic session.

Raul Yzaguirre of the National Council of La Raza and Tony Bustamente of La Raza Legal Alliance also opposed the deputy attorney general's promotion at Wednesday's hearing.

Former NASA chief sees commerical space flights soon

By REYNOLDS R. RAST

LOS ANGELES (AP) - In 100 years, airlines will operate space shuttles and a flight into orbit will cost "well below today's cruise-ship fares," predicts the former head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Calling it the "High Frontier," Dr. Thomas O. Paine said, "space is doing better than nuclear power."

And although there may be a crisis in energy and the economy today, he said, mankind has begun a "Golden Age of Science."

Paine, president of Northrop Corp., ran NASA from 1968 through 1970, presiding over the first seven Apollo space flights and the first moon land-

Paine predicts "major manned facilities for spacecraft docking, checkout, servicing, cargo and passenger transfer and spaceships on voyages to destinations throughout the solar sys-

"All of these activities will feature continuing construction, with robots working and people supervising.

"Looking ahead to the next century, it is clear that the new technologies of 2079 will be as incredibly advanced from our viewpoint today as California's 1979 economy would appear to a 49er crossing the Great American Desert," Paine said Tuesday.

Today's technology is the science fiction of the past, with satellites now being used for everything from monitoring global wheat production and pollution in New York harbor to locating copper deposits in Pakistan, he

Among the "next-generation satellites," he said, will be international space stations, United Nations peacekeeping outposts, mile-wide communications antenna farms linked by laser beams, medical research and treatment facilities and space manufacturing laboratories.

Paine predicted America's present apathy toward space, illustrated by a recent poll that showed about half the respondents felt the $24 billion spent on the Apollo program was a waste of money, will turn into enthusiasm.

"We haven't really been doing very much new and exciting and interesting in the manned space program," he explained in an interview.

"But my guess is that next year when the reusable space shuttle rocket plane starts flying and we begin to do exciting things again — and you can tune in on Walter Cronkite and have a camera cockpit shot of one of our attractive new female astronauts and her long hair going out in every direction in weightlessness - that the renewed interest will begin to market

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market rose sharply Wednesday, responding to President Carter's choice of Paul Volcker for the top spot at the Federal Reserve Board.

A wide range of blue chip issues gained ground with the help of favorable earnings reports and dividend increases. The Dow Jones average of 839.51, posting its best single-day showing since it took a 10.41-point jump on July New York Stock Exchange volume stepped up to 34.89 million shares from 29.69 million the day before. The White House announced the selection Wednesday morning of Volcker, currently president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, to succeed G.

William Miller as chairman of the Fed. Analysts said investors were pleased with the choice because of Volcker's experience in dealing with both domestic and international economic issues and his reputation for knowledgeability in monetary affairs. Oil issues were broadly higher as many companies in the industry racked up solid second-quarter earnings gains. Elsewhere among the blue chips, Bethlehem Steel gained 34 to 22 on higher second-quarter profits and a dividend increase, and Union Carbide, which also raised its dividend, picked up ¼ to 44¾.

The daily tally on the NYSE showed about five gainers for every two stocks that lost ground, and the exchange's composite common-stock index was up .64

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials picked up 1.30 to 114.10, and S&P's 500stock composite index was up 1.11 at 103.08.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 1.44 to 196.91.

The NASDAQ composite index of OTC issues was up .95 at 138.97.

DePauw University students operate mini-Peace Corps By LISA LEVITT

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (AP) - They admit they can't change the world, but DePauw University's mini-Peace Corps is looking forward to the chance to change a tiny corner of it. While their schoolmates have dispersed for a summer of fun and sun, 80 students from this small western Indiana school are planning a mission to the Central American jungle some 2,500 miles away, bringing shovels and medical supplies with them.

The trip is the brainchild of Fred Lamar, a lanky

Methodist chaplain whose manic energy has earned him the nickname "Frantic Fred." The adventure grew out of his weekend student service projects in 1976. It's been growing ever since, with donations pouring in from churches, hospitals and alumni, and pleas for help flooding in from rural Central America. Lamar says he already has received at least a dozen requests from villages who would like the students to build churches or orphanages or set up medical clinics in their area next January. "I look at these requests — it's so hard to say no. Whatever we do, we'll be half wrong," Lamar says. "I've got to keep telling myself this is an education for students and not a world-saving, do-goodist exer-This year, 100 students and 30 volunteer professionals carted 117 boxes of drugs and a quarter-ton of building supplies into the jungles and cities of Central America. Next January, a 100-member team of students and professionals will divide their manpower between building projects and medical clinics in Haiti and Honduras and irrigation ditches in Guatemala. And they'll pay $525 apiece for the privilege. They go to exercise a little missionary zeal, to travel, to get away from the atmosphere of smalltowh Indiana. And they return changed people, Lamar says. "I take them for whatever reason they want to go. I wind up with what I want in the end and I don't care what I start with," Lamar says. A five-student committee, evaluating the program since they returned from their last trip in January, has been considering some possible changes, including reducing the number of sites and students and screening prospective participants more thorough-

Lamar says he is hopeful those screenings won't turn the project into an enterprise for "elitists."

That would defeat its purpose, he says. "I want people who have come to a new perception of who they are, which I think is a more complete perception," he explained. "I would rather take the ones who might not be able to hack it, because they are the ones who get the most out of it.'

Lamar recounts the story of one head-turning beauty who showed up for her first construction assignment dressed in designer clothes and wear-

"By the end of the second week, she had scabs on her legs and her hair was stringy, and she loved it," he recalls. "She found out she had a body that was as good as anybody else's body and it wasn't just a bit of decoration. And she could do things - she could be her own person.'

He continues: "I think there's something a little bit honest in the dirt and in the very simple life." Life in poor jungle villages may be simple, but it's not easy, Lamar admits. "I lived with one team in the village of Chachaguala. We had the very best of accommodations in the 'Chachaguala Hilton' - we slept on the concrete floor of a three-room schoolhouse. We learned to hang our sleeping bags from the rafters because the scorpions couldn't get in them that way," Lamar

Red beans and rice were three-meal-a-day fare, and a nearby stream served as a community washing machine and bathtub. It was up at dawn, then 12 hours of hand-laying a building foundation, mixing mortar and concrete, or an endless series of teeth pullings and pill dosings and trying to work with local leaders, who had their own ideas about what should be done, Lamar

"There were definite conflicts between what we wanted done and what they wanted done and how it was going to be done," recalls Mary Rock, a curlyhaired senior from Davenport, Iowa. "There was some tension between the head of the village and the head of our crew. The head of the village won. It was his church, after all."

Two weeks later, a concrete-block church stood in what once had been a clearing; a volunteer English teacher had an apartment in the city; and countless local residents had received medical and dental care, many for the first time in their lives. It marked some firsts for the participants, too -

the first time out of the United States for some, the first brush with a foreign culture for others, the first time the artificial boundaries of campus life had been shattered for many. "The fellowship down there is amazing," said

Scott Benhase, a senior from Loveland, Ohio, who came to DePauw to play football and now is eyeing a career in the ministry. "You start dealing with people as people and not as what fraternity or sorority they're in or how much their dad makes. You just don't care, other than that they are people who have needs and wants and desires and you're willing to give of yourself," he "You're kind of depressed at first. You think, 'So what, we're handing out a couple hundred pills a day.' But most of these people get no medical attention whatsoever. So at least it's a start," says Ted Mioduski, a junior pre-med student from Gary.

John Hixon, a senior from Indianapolis, says the program participants realize their limitations. "But rather than curse the darkness, we were going to try to light one candle."

Shakeup letters no great shakes

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Literary critics sometimes complain that Americans have lost the art of letter writing - the kind of letters that get collected in books and are graceful, witty and fun to read.

The spate of resignation letters sent to President Carter by erstwhile Cabinet partners, and his handwritten responses, are unlikely to alter this lamentable state of affairs. But they do have their interesting

For example, consider the fate of outgoing Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal. He may have planned to resign at some point, but his associates don't even pretend he had a July departure in mind before Carter launched his Cabinet facelift. You couldn't discern that from his exchange with Carter, however. "As we discussed," Blumenthal wrote the president, "I feel strongly that the time has come for me to return to private life and that someone else should carry on as secretary of the Treasury. I appreciate your agreeing with this assessment. ..

CARTER'S PARTING with Transportation Secretary Brock Adams was abrupt and unplanned, hav-ing been precipitated by Adams' own questions about the president's modus operandi. Fired for presuming to tell Carter how to conduct the presidency, Adams submitted a resignation let-ter that ended on what seemed a bitter note: "I hope you find happiness in your job.

Adams relieved the curse a mite by adding: ". and I join with the whole nation in hoping that the remainder of your administration will be success-

Carter responded by accepting the resignation "with friendship, respect and appreciation for the accomplishments of our nation during your service as secretary. ...

CARTER'S NOTES to the departing, if you except the letter to Adams, might make one wonder why the Cabinet resignations had been accepted.

To Joseph A. Califano Jr., fired as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Carter wrote about Califano's "notable accomplishments" and lauded him for "competence and compassion."

To Blumenthal, the president wrote about "the excellent service you have rendered," and much more of the same.

To resigning Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, Carter expressed regret, coupled with high praise that "you have performed your many duties

WHEN CARTER invited some 30 reporters to join him for an hour and a half of no-direct-quotation conversation on Saturday, some reporters were a bit startled to be served hamburger sandwiches on ultra-thin White House china.

For the record, the burgers served in the State Dining Room were neither rare nor well done and were accompanied by ketchup, mustard, onions, tomatoes and pickles.

The abstemious president also offered beer.

Unexpected setback hits House on rationing plan

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) - After an unexpected setback, House leaders are planning another vote next week to give the president standby authority to ration gasoline.

Debate on the legislation was abruptly halted late Wednesday after the House approved, 232 to 187, a Republican-sponsored amendment sharply limiting the president's flexibility to impose rationing.

It was the second blow the House has dealt President Carter's request for standby rationing authority this year. In May, the House turned down a similar rationing plan entirely.

The proposal before the House would allow either the House or the Senate to block rationing any time the president tried to impose it - a safeguard Carter says he can live with.

But the amendment adopted Wednesday would also give Congress 'one-house veto" power to reject details of the plan in advance. The amendment was by Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y.

Supporting the proposal were 79 Democrats and 153 Republicans.

Commenting on the vote today, White House press secretary Jody Powell said: "It's a sign that, too much and too often, once the gas lines disappear the immediate threat is no longer with us. It becomes politics as usual, business as usual.

CLAIMING THIS provision would make it extremely difficult for the president to ever order rationing, the

"There certainly is a benefit, and the House floor while they tried to figure out what to do next.

And Carter, responding to the latest development, criticized Congress during his broadcast news conference Wednesday night for putting new "restraints" in the way of a standby rationing plan. He renewed his appeal that Congress give him rationing authority before leaving town for its month-long August recess tentatively scheduled debate to resume on the bill next Tuesday.

Wednesday's amendment vote clearly caught Democratic leaders by surprise.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill

Sponsors of the bill immediately pronounced the outcome a fluke, blaming confusion on the floor, "lateness of the hour," and a general skittishness among members on the rationing issue. "I think we can turn it around. I think we will turn it around," said Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House energy and power subcommittee. BUT REPUBLICANS, buoyed by their unexpected victory, said they're not so sure the Democrats can reverse Wednesday's vote and denied that members misunderstood the nature of the amendment.

'The president wants us to give him a blank check on rationing. And that's completely unrealistic. We're just not going to do it," said House GOP Leader John Rhodes of Arizona in an inter-

Gilman himself said he didn't know what all the excitement was about. He said his amendment was just intended to give Congress greater say in the kind of rationing plan that would be developed. The proposal before the House would have repealed part of a 1975 law that now gives Congress two votes on any rationing bill — when it's proposed and when it's invoked. Administration and congressional leaders have called that two-step system troublesome and unwieldy and have said it contributed to May's defeat of Carter's first plan. The Gilman amendment puts back into the law the same kind of two-step process the bill itself sought to remove. With the amendment, "the bill is worse than existing law," said White House lobbyist Bill Cable after Wednesday's vote. IN HIS NEWS conference, the president also expressed concern about the House decision to put a provision in the bill preventing him from order-

"We could have a 50 percent shortage of gasoline which would almost devastate the nation's economy. And unless that shortage lasted (for 30 days). I could not implement a rationing plan," Carter said. But House leaders have supported retaining the 20 percent "trigger," claiming it is needed to win the political support in both the House and Senate needed to pass the rationing

Carter has said he has no desire to impose rationing but would like the power held in reserve in the event of another Mideast oil embargo or supply disruption of like magnitude.

Meanwhile, Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., chairman of the Senate energy conservation subcommittee, said the Senate will act quickly on the standby rationing bill once the House resolves its own difficulties.

Johnston noted that the Senate had approved Carter's original plan nearly three months ago. "We passed it then - before there were gas lines and we'll pass it again," he said in an interview

IN AN INTERVIEW on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" program, spokesman Powell said the White House expects a "very massive effort" in the Senate to "gut the 'windfall profits' tax (bill), to cut its revenues by better than one-third."

He said that right after Carter proposed the tax in April, influential senators, such as Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Russell Long, D-La., said it would never get through Con-

But, Powell said, "The president took his case to the people" and it soon became an "accepted fact there would be a 'windfall profits' tax."

Pentagon offering causing gold rush

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Defense Department's surplus disposal agency is experiencing a mini-gold rush from persons anxious to buy "escape and evasion kits" left over from World War II and the war in Southeast Asia.

The 350 kits, containing gold coins and jewelry, were issued to pilots and paratroopers during those wars "to barter their way out of difficult situations if they were downed in unfriendly territory;" according to a pamphlet inviting bids.

The Defense Property Disposal Service began advertising for bidders about two months ago, Sealed bids will be opened Aug. 1 at 10 a.m. in the service's headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich., and will be accepted right up to that hour.

Business has been brisk, according to contracting officer Robert T. Brindle. "There's been a lot of traffic," he told a reporter, estimating his office has received more than 300 bids so far.

The rising price of gold on world markets obviously has sparked interest in the "barter kits," as they are unofficially known. However, the continuing steep climb in gold prices could mean many of the bids will fall below the minimum acceptable figure. That floor is geared to fluctuations in world price levels.

Prospective bidders were warned by the agency that "the miminum price (of the kits) is subject to adjustment to reflect . .. changes in the price
