Iran agrees to commission to investigate deposed shah

By The Associated Press

The Iranian government agreed to an international commission to consider its charges against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and said it "will be effective in solving the hostage crisis."

Meanwhile, the militants holding the U.S. Embassy called off an anti-American rally in a gesture to President elect Abolhassan Bani Sadr, who was to be sworn in today.

"The international investigation commission will consider the shah's crimes, his violation of human rights and the return of his wealth to Iran," Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's ruling Revolutionary Council announced.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Nas-rosadat Salami said the commission "will be effective in solving the hostage crisis." However, Bani Sadr in an interview with ABC-TV indicated that the U.S. government must help Iran get the shah back for trial before the hostages will be freed.

"If the U.S. government gets away from its past policy of intervention in internal affairs," he said, "and if it accepts the right of the Iranian government to follow the criminals to your country and to follow the people who have plundered our wealth and to accept in practical terms to help us in that matter, that would be grounds for deliberations on the hostages."

Salami said the members of the investigation commission will be chosen by U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim. He said it will include foreign and Iranian representatives, and Waldheim will decide whether Americans are included.

Salami did not say when the commission would come to Iran or when the hearings would begin.

Waldheim proposed an investigating commission during a visit to Iran early in January, and since then has proposed the hostages be turned over to the Red Cross or some other neutral third party in Iran while the commission conducts its probe.

The militants holding the approximately 50 Americans since Nov. 4 had no comment on the council's decision, but they announced Saturday that they had invited a special American delegation to Tehran this week to hear Iran's grievances against the shah and the U.S. government.

The American delegation is a "socio-political" group of about 50 members on a "strictly private" visit with no connection to the Iranian investigation, said Mansour Farhan, Iran's U.N. Ambassador.

The embassy captors had called for a massive rally in front of the Embassy today, when Shiite Muslims celebrate the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed. But on Sunday they announced they were canceling the demonstration "to avoid a clash" with a rally planned by Bani Sadr at Tehran's main cemetery, Tehran Radio reported.

There was speculation that the militants called off the demonstration because they feared they would get an embarrassingly small turnout.

Tehran Radio said Bani Sadr would be sworn in today as the first president of Iran's Islamic Republic before Khomeini at Reza Hospital, where the 79-year-old ayatollah is recuperating from a heart attack.

Ali to continue his trip, despite African criticism

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Muhammad Ali, stung by criticism of his mission to urge a Moscow Olympics boycott, accused President Carter today of "sending me around the world to take the whipping" from black Africans opposed to U.S. dealings with South Africa.

Ali told reporters he probably would not have undertaken his presidential assignment if he had known beforehand "the whole history of America and Africa and South Africa." He also said he had received a message from Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev last week asking him not to undertake the mission.

But the ex-heavyweight boxing champion said he would continue the five-nation African tour because, above all, he wanted to help prevent nuclear war.

The United States and the Soviet Union are "the baddest two white men in history," Ali said. "If these two white men start fighting, all us little black folks are going to be caught in the middle."

The American boxer flew in from Tanzania, where he was snubbed by President Julius K. Nyerere and bombarded at a news conference with questions about why African athletes should stay away from Moscow to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan when the Soviet Union has backed black nationalist movements, and when the United States refused to join an Olympic boycott by the Africans in 1976.

That boycott was organized to protest the Olympic participation of New Zealand, which has sports ties with South Africa.

U.S. officials here said it appeared likely that Kenyan President Daniel Arap Moi also would refuse to meet with Ali.

"Frankly, they don't see why their president should meet a boxer," an American diplomat said.

Moi has already announced that Kenya, Africa's strongest track power, will boycott the Olympics unless the games are moved from Moscow. The Tanzanians are not expected to go along with a boycott.

Ali was asked by President Carter last week to visit black Africa to try to enlist new support for the U.S. Olympic boycott plan. But he said today he was turning his tour into a fact-finding mission so that he could report black African grievances against America to Carter.

"What you want the Africans to do is something you didn't do for them," he said, relating what he will tell Carter. "It's simple. If you make a move against South Africa... then these people will be glad to aid you."

Still speaking as though addressing Carter directly, Ali said, "You get me on the spot. You get on a whole, big spot and then you send me around the world to take the whipping..."

"Well, I'm going to protect myself and tell you the truth."

"I'm not here to take America's whipping. I'm not here to take punishment for America," Ali said.

"I'm not here to push nothing on nobody. Do what you want to do," he said when asked whether he would advise African athletes not to go to Moscow.

"It scares me when I think about America starting to push buttons and Russia starting to push buttons and a couple of bombs destroy both countries and, in fact, the world," Ali said. "That's what I think I'm trying to stop."

Ali, a Moslem, said his trip had to do only with the Soviet move into Afghanistan, where Soviet troops are battling anti-communist Moslem rebels.

"I am not selling America and all her policies. I am not here — Uncle Tom, as we say — working for the white man against my people," he said.

Brzezinski flies to Saudi Arabia

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, looking for international partners in an American aid program for Pakistan, flew in to Saudi Arabia today for meetings with leaders of this wealthy and staunchly anti-communist kingdom.

The United States has offered Pakistan $400 million in military and economic assistance over two years because of the Soviet intervention in neighboring Afghanistan. In the Pakistani capital of Islamabad over the weekend, Brzezinski told officials this was "only the beginning of the United States response to the threat."

He did not indicate how much more the Pakistanis might get, but added, "We hope that other countries also will indicate what they wish to contribute."

The Saudis are one potential partner. In a weekend statement, Saudi Crown Prince Fahd urged the Moslem world to unite to give moral and financial aid to the anti-communist Moslem rebellion in Afghanistan.

After the flight from Islamabad, Brzezinski was met at Riyadh airport by the Saudi foreign minister, Prince Saud al-Faisal, Riyadh state radio reported.

Before leaving Islamabad, Brzezinski told reporters he had been asked by President Carter to "lay the foundations for an invigorated friendship between our two countries. We have done so."

Asked whether the United States plans to establish military bases in Pakistan, Brzezinski replied, "We are in the process generally of enhancing our ability to be of constructive help to the security of our friends in this part of the world, as well as elsewhere."

In doing so, he said, "we will be cooperating in a variety of ways with different countries in this region."

Brzezinski, who is traveling with Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, left a Pentagon team in Pakistan to assess the nation's military requirements.

The U.S. envoys had two days of talks with Pakistan's President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, who earlier had shrugged off the U.S. aid offer as "peanuts." Pakistani officials say they need billions of dollars to build up their armed forces satisfactorily.

There was no indication whether Zia and Brzezinski had reached agreement on the amount of aid. A joint statement said they had a "full exchange of views."

Brzezinski visited a Pakistani camp for Afghan refugees about 100 miles south of the Afghan-Pakistan border.

"You will prevail... because your cause is right. God is on your side," Brzezinski told the cheering refugees.

Prison death toll at least 35

Stories told of torture and mutilation

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Fires still burned in the New Mexico State Prison today as 1,100 prisoners huddled in tents outside the compound and stories unfolded of hellish murder, torture and mutilations in a riot that left at least 35 persons dead and 15 others missing.

State police Sgt. George Ulibarri said three more bodies were found today, bringing the total number of known dead to 35.

Gov. Bruce King told a news conference that at least seven died of drug overdoses, others died of smoke inhalation and some were murdered. The governor said a total of 50 prisoners were unaccounted for, including the dead.

State police said more bodies were found today in the gymnasium which had still been burning during the morning. "They're inside looking for more right now," Ulibarri said. "That's where the biggest fire was."

"It's one hell of a bloody mess in there," said Corrections Commission Chairman Bud Richards. "There are a hell of a lot of bodies in there."

"National Guardsmen are throwing up all over."

State Police Capt. Frank Young said authorities were waiting until the fires are extinguished to "do a real thorough search."

The 36 hours of carnage at the prison, recaptured by National Guard and state police Sunday afternoon, was the most serious since the 1971 Attica riot in upstate New York left 43 persons dead.

A headless corpse was propped up in a courtyard. One prisoner had his eyes gouged out. Another apparently had his arm chopped off before being hurled from atop a building. A blowtorch was turned on the face of another.

Rep. Manny Aragon, who met with the inmates during the siege, said that based on what prisoners told him, the toll could be 75 or more. One television station, KOAT in Albuquerque, reported 49 were killed.

State officials said it may cost as much as $50 million to replace the state's only maximum-security prison which was built to house 850 and was holding 1,136 when the riot erupted early Saturday. In the meantime, Gov. Bruce King appealed today to neighboring states to take some of the prisoners, who spent the night in tents guarded by 250 National Guardsmen and about 30 policemen.

While some predicted the death toll would soar as the remaining fires were put out, particularly in the gymnasium, officials were appalled at what they saw when they entered the compound.

A headless corpse was propped up in a courtyard. One prisoner had his eyes gouged out. Another apparently had his arm chopped off before being hurled from atop a building. A blowtorch was turned on the face of another.

The rioters, who ransacked prison offices and found confidential records, turned on informers with savage revenge, officials said. Many were attacked with meat cleavers and burned.

"There was blood all over, against the wall, smeared around," said Lt.

Richard Montoya, who headed the Special Weapons and Tactics team that led the move to regain control of the prison.

All the 15 guards and other employees taken hostage escaped death. Only 18 guards were on duty when the riot erupted.

Guard Fred Herrera told The Associated Press, "Some of those guys' faces are totally gone" but butchery by other prisoners. State Sen. Ben Altamirano said he saw the body of a black inmate who had been decapitated and his head stuffed between his legs. Guards said another inmate's arm was cut off before he was tossed from an upper window inside the prison complex.

Hundreds of the 1,000-plus inmates who survived the two-day riot spent the night in tents flown in Saturday for National Guard troops and set up in a recreation field.

State police said the riot apparently was not racially motivated, but racial tensions broke out afterwards — with some white inmates threatening to kill blacks — and prisoners were segregated in their makeshift camp.

"From what we understand there was no racial tension involved," said state police Maj. Charlie Anaya. "It was getting all the snitchers."

MidTran's buses running

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Bus 16-40 had a few no-shows this morning. But that was to be expected, said its driver, baseball enthusiast Speedy Savittieri.

MidTran buses ran their first routes today, with the first five rumbling out of the City Maintenance lot at 1601 Orchard Lane, promptly at 6 a.m. Two others left at 6:20.

"This is like a new adventure," said Savittieri as he maneuvered the 20-passenger bus down a darkened city street. The driver — a professed Midland Cubs fan — said driving one of the buses is nothing like when he drove a cab in Chicago, and especially during the heavy snowstorms.

He also used to drive semi-tractor-trailers for years and had passed through Midland several times since the 1940s.

"After I got held up seven times driving a cab, then my daughter was attacked and the courts wouldn't do anything about the man, I decided to leave Chicago," Savittieri said as he neared the first stop at 1200 Bedford St.

"My wife had no idea where Midland was then. Now, she won't leave," he added.

Barbara Graves bounced onto the bus, showed her MidTran pass card and sat down in a seat at the front of the bus.

"Economics," she said is the primary reason for taking the bus, even though she has to be ready by 6:35 to get to her 7:30 a.m. job.

"Parking is too expensive downtown, gasoline is high and it's very difficult to find a place to park," she said. Parking places range from $25 to $65 a month, with the cheaper ones located several blocks from work.

MidTran's monthly subscription rate is $18 — less than the cheaper parking place, with no added expenditure for gas or car repairs.

"I've been excited about this (MidTran) ever since they started talking about it," she continued. "We've needed public transportation here for a long time."

Midland did have a bus system in the early 1950s, Mrs. Graves recalled, but it wasn't long before it failed.

Although she lived in Midland many years ago, she and her husband have spent nine years in Africa, the Middle East and Europe where they became accustomed to hopping on buses.

Wendell Edgell was the next to jump on the bus.

"With everything as it is and the fuel shortage, I think it (MidTran) is a good idea," he said. Although he works for a consulting firm and some days will need his car, Edgell said he was willing to give MidTran a try.

Economics was the reason behind the other riders trying MidTran, they said.

Herb Dyer said he has to get up 15-20 minutes earlier, while Elsie McCague said she doesn't get up earlier, but just budgets her time better.

Vera Graham reiterated the problem with parking and the parking prices, which just increased.

"It's a unique type of service they're introducing into the area," Dyer added.

Jack Castillo fought the Houston traffic for 13 years and decided to "leave the driving to someone else" and take MidTran in Midland.

Mrs. McCague has three teen-aged daughters at home and only two cars. So, she decided to leave a car at home for the girls and take the bus. "I eat downtown and there is no need for me to have a car," she said.

Dyer said he believes a lot of people who have lived in cities with a bus system will adapt readily to MidTran. "I think it will be good after a lot of the bugs are worked out."

As the sun peaked over the horizon, Savittieri pulled in front of Midland County Courthouse, opened the bus doors, and watched as his first passengers departed for work.

GOP criticizing Democrat ethics

EASTON, Md. (AP) Republican officials, reluctant to criticize the Carter administration for its conduct of foreign policy, are seizing a new issue with which to taunt the Democrats: congressional ethics.

Leaders of the party that lost a president in the last major American political scandal are now demanding an "immediate, full, impartial and conclusive" investigation of all allegations of wrongdoing by members of Congress.

The weekend disclosures of an alleged bribery scheme implicating eight members — all but one a Democrat — prompted immediate reaction from participants at the annual Tide water Conference here.

Two quickly drafted resolutions seeking to lay the blame for political corruption in Congress on the heads of Democratic leaders were approved by unanimous voice votes at the final session of the GOP gathering.

The conference is an informal policy forum attended by GOP members of Congress and elected state officials.

Until the ethics issue surfaced, the session had been marked by a few requisite blasts at Democrats along with approval of resolutions generally supporting President Carter's foreign and defense initiatives.

Those resolutions called for increased defense spending, revival of draft registration — although limited to males — and loosening of some congressional restraints on the CIA. All three had been advocated by Carter in his State of the Union address Jan. 23.

"It is ironic," the conference chairman, Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said in an interview at the conclusion of the conference.

But when it comes to foreign relations and national defense, Republicans have always acted in a bipartisan fashion and put the country first. I don't think we're quarreling with his (Carter's) objectives.

But the new reports of scandal — touching a number of prominent Democratic committee chairmen in Congress — seemed a ready-made issue to the Republican participants at the conference.

Vermont Gov. Richard A. Snelling wrote the resolution calling for a full investigation.

It claims that "in recent years the Democrats in control of the U.S. Congress have failed to impartially complete the so-called Koreagate investigation or the GSA (General Services Administration) scandal and other similar matters."

"We now read of allegations of serious misconduct by a U.S. senator and a number of congressmen and we know the American people will expect Congress to search out the truth of these matters."

Those who have become subjects of the bribery probe, in addition to state and local officials in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, were named by one source familiar with the investigation as U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr., D-N.J., and U.S. Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., Frank Thompson, Jr., D-N.J., Michael O. Myers, D-Pa., Raymond F. Lederer, D-Pa., John W. Jettette, D-S.C., John P. Murtha, D-Pa., and Richard Kelly, R-Fla.

The other ethics resolution adopted by the Republican forum asserts that "power corrupts" and that "the events of the past year have borne this out" in the Democratic controlled Congress.

Heroic efforts fail to save five in El Paso shooting

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — One bar customer grabbed the gunman, another hit him with a pool cue and a third stepped into the path of a bullet to spare a woman's life, police said. But five people died before the shooting, the worst in El Paso history, was over.

Three other persons were wounded in the gunfire, which broke out early Sunday in the crowded Starburst Lounge.

Police Lt. Ed Agan said the suspect, identified as Barry Chvarak, 21, of El Paso, was subdued and held for police by two bar patrons. He was jailed under $1 million bond, $200,000 on each of five counts of murder, set by Peace Justice Fred Chavez.

One of those killed was identified as Randy Wayne Steele, 20, of El Paso.

"There are three heroes in this," Agan said. "Steele, I understand, when the shooting started pushed a young woman out of the way and stepped in front of her and took a bullet that I guess would have gotten her."

"Another man, a patron named John M. Harris, he jumped the suspect after the shooting had started... and was able to take the rifle away after another patron Roger Dean Miller, came to his aid. He (Miller) clobbered this guy with a pool cue."

Agan said there appeared to be no motive for the shooting.

"The guy was with his brother... there was no fight," he said. "He was upset, for what reason I don't know. He went outside to his vehicle, got a 22-caliber rifle, walked back into the bar and cut loose. I don't even believe he even knew the people he was shooting at."

Two 19-year-old men were treated for minor gunshot wounds, and a 20-year-old woman was hospitalized in stable condition with two gunshot wounds in her chest.

Agan said when police arrived, "The guy was already subdued and offered no resistance."

He identified the other victims as Kathleen Lynn Austin, 32, Marianne Laweka, 53, and Jana L. Carpenter, 29, all of El Paso, and Frederick Bergford, 28, a soldier at Fort Bliss.

Agan said the five deaths brought the city's homicide total for 1980 to 12, compared to five at this time last year.

Mixed drink tax rebate $26,000

Midland County received more than $26,000 in its last quarter mixed drink tax rebate from the State Comptroller's office while the city of Midland earned $23,834.16.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said mixed drink taxes for the year's last quarter totaled $5.8 million. Texas cities and counties receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law.

Midland County reported selling $177,557.47 in mixed drinks during the fourth quarter of 1979, giving the county $26,633.62 in a rebate. The city reported sales amounting to $158,894.38 for its $23,000 rebate.

Ector County sold drinks totaling $226,257.25 for a rebate of $33,938.59. The city of Odessa sold $174,606.06 in drinks, giving a rebate of $26,190.91.

Howard County had $28,295.63 in revenues from mixed drinks for a rebate of $4,244.34. The city of Big Spring doesn't participate in this program.

Marchers abandon plans to carry food across Cambodia-Thai border

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Organizers of the so-called "March for Survival" to get publicity for the plight of the Cambodian people today abandoned plans to try to carry food into Cambodia and will instead hold a rally on a bridge at the Thai-Cambodian frontier.

Robert DeVecchi of the International Rescue Committee, a spokesman for the marchers, said 20 truckloads of supplies they hoped to deliver inside Cambodia would be handed over to the Thai Red Cross for distribution to Cambodian refugees.

Despite the change in plans, he said, up to 150 international celebrities, social activists and politicians plan to spend three days near the border, visiting refugee camps and publicizing the problem of hunger in Cambodia.

The group changed its plans because the Vietnamese-backed Cambodian government in Phnom Penh said they would not be allowed to cross the border and because of increased fighting between the Vietnamese army and the Khmer Rouge guerrillas just inside Cambodia near the Thai border.

The Thai military command met today to draw up contingency plans in case the fighting endangered the marchers.

Among participants who arrived are American singer Joan Baez, Norwegian actress Liv Ullmann, Sir Winston Churchill's grandson and namesake, who is a member of the British Parliament, and U.S. civil rights activist Bayard Rustin.

On Tuesday they will visit the Sa Kaew refugee camp 109 miles east of Bangkok and 31 miles from the border. More than 25,000 refugees have been housed at the camp since fleeing Cambodia last October.

On Wednesday the marchers will gather at a border bridge at the Thai city of Aranyaphrath to make their statements about the Cambodian situation.

Tunisians attack French Embassy

PARIS (AP) — A mob of demonstrators shouting "popular revolution in Tunisia" today attacked the French Embassy in the Libyan capital of Tripoli, destroying the embassy interior and setting fire to cars parked in the diplomatic compound, French diplomats said.

All embassy personnel escaped unharmed as the mob forced its way into the building and began destroying everything in sight, Ambassador Claude Malo said in an interview with French radio.

Another embassy staff member, Andre Laperrouaz, said in a telephone interview that the demonstrators set fire to a number of cars in the embassy courtyard during the attack.

It was the second attack on a Western embassy in Tripoli in about two months. On Dec. 2, about 2,000 Libyans chanting support for Iran stormed and ransacked the American Embassy. No embassy employees were hurt in that attack but the first and second floors of the building suffered extensive fire damage.

The French Foreign Ministry said it was "reserving the right to demand appropriate reparations" and lodged a formal protest with the Libyan Foreign Ministry.

Malo, interviewed at his residence, said at the time of the attack, the embassy was guarded by only two policemen in spite of a request for more protection.

Terry to speak to MMH staff

Dr. Ward Terry, an associate professor of radiology at Texas Tech University School of Medicine, will speak to the medical staff at Midland Memorial Hospital at noon Wednesday on "Gastrointestinal Bleeding: The Multifaceted Radiographic Approach," according to Dr. William P.

Trotter, a Midland radiologist. Terry was a former vice chairman of the Department of Radiology at Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital at San Antonio. He is also a fellow in cardiovascular radiology at the University of Wisconsin.

He is appearing in Midland in conjunction with the continuing medical education program at MMH.

MC Dance-A-Thon set

Wanted: People with happy feet. The Midland College Student Senate is seeking participants for the fourth annual Dance-A-Thon Feb. 15-17.

This year's dancing marathon will last 50 hours in the Midland College Student Center.

"We are seeking couples to enter the event right now, primarily from among Midland College, Midland High and Lee High students," said Lynn Johnson. "In order to compete for the prizes, participants need to sign up now and start getting their sponsors, who pay them to dance."

Top prize, based on the number of hours danced and the total amount of money raised, is an expense-paid trip to San Antonio for two. Other prizes include cameras, pocket calculators, movie passes, concert tickets, jeans, record albums and dinners.

Contestants will have a 15-minute break each two hours and will rest for one hour after each seven hours of dancing. Food and refreshments for the contestants will be provided by local businesses and the board of the Midland Unit, American Heart Association.

Interested persons should pick up sponsor sheets between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. in the Student Activities Office in the MC Student Center. Sheets must be turned in by 6:30 p.m. Feb. 15 for couples competing for top prizes.

Slight chill in Midland air

Springlike temperatures will chill just a bit in Midland on Tuesday, the weatherman says, but Midlanders still should be able to enjoy pleasant temperatures.

Sunday's high temperature was a flower-pleasing 67 warm degrees and the thermometer dipped to only 33 degrees this morning.

But, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport, partly cloudy skies should return to the Tall City Tuesday, along with slightly cooler temperatures.

The forecast is calling for a low temperature tonight in the lower 30s with the thermometer climbing into the middle 50s Tuesday.

Around the Permian Basin area this morning, weather watchers were reporting clear skies and cool temperatures, with the sun's rays warming things up quickly.

Winds tonight should pick up somewhat, blowing out of the north at 15-25 mph. The winds should be gusty, the weatherman said.

Teachers picket schools

CHICAGO (AP) — Union teachers formally struck the debt-ridden Chicago school system today to protest staff cuts, walking picket lines at some schools and forcing students to stay home for a sixth school day. Negotiations were continuing, meanwhile, with the city's firefighters, who decided to postpone their threatened strike.

School officials kept buildings open for parents to collect study materials but urged them not to send their children.

"It could be a long strike," said Robert Healey, president of the Chicago Teachers Union. "To parents, we say we're sorry, but this need not go on."

The 7,717 to 2,506 vote to strike, announced Sunday night, came after a week-long teacher boycott of the schools when their paychecks failed to arrive on time. Though city officials scrambled to sell $206 million in notes to meet the third delayed paycheck of the schools' financial crunch, teachers refused to return until other demands were met.

The strike is the first in 4 1/2 years and the fifth in 12 years in the nation's third largest school system.

Moments after the results were announced, school board president Catherine Roher said schools would remain open, because she thought some of the 48,300 employees would want to work.

But she urged parents not to send their children to school because "the children will be in danger."

Chicago schools were open last week, but most of the 487,000 students did not show up as teachers stayed away from classes to demand a full 39-week school year, substantial restoration of teaching jobs cut last week in budget-tightening moves and assurances that the board would not alter the current contract which expires Aug. 31, 1981.

Mrs. Roher said it was impossible for the board to meet the teachers' demands because "we must reduce our expenditures by $60 million."

Meanwhile, negotiations on the first written contract for firefighters ended Sunday without a settlement. But the threat of a walkout was defused Saturday when the city acceded to a key demand of the Chicago Firefighters Union.

Carter makes decision on registering women

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has taken a stand on the controversy over draft registration for women, but is keeping his position to himself for now.

As Carter returned Sunday to the White House from a weekend at Camp David, he acknowledged, "Yes, I've decided" on the issue, but declined to divulge his decision.

Aides previously said his stance would be announced by the end of this week.

The president announced the resumption of draft registration in his State of the Union address last month, saying it was needed to respond to an increasing threat from the Soviet Union.

He did not say whether he would seek to have women included in the call — a move that would require congressional approval.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. has said he does not believe the House would support registration of women with the Selective Service.

Several members of the House and Senate armed services committees, which would consider any legislation to register women, have said they oppose it because the military needs people in combat positions, which women now are not allowed to fill.

A conference of Republican leaders, meeting this weekend in Maryland, voted overwhelmingly to urge reinstatement of registration but limit it only to "eligible males."

Reagan on primary ballot

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan qualified Monday for a place on the Texas Republican presidential primary ballot.

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., state GOP chairman, presented a petition containing more than 12,000 names in order to fill the state law requirement of a petition with at least 5,000 signatures.

Former Texas Gov. John Connally and George Bush, former ambassador to the United Nations, previously qualified for the straw poll that will determine how GOP delegations to the national convention are selected. "The signatures come from every congressional district in the state and most of the major cities," Angelo said. "This demonstrates the widespread support Governor Reagan enjoys in this state... In Texas we have a strong organization which I will proudly match against any other candidate's organization."

Angelo said Reagan would make several Texas stops during the campaign, with the first one coming March 13 with a speech before the East Texas Chamber of Commerce in Longview.

16 Rhodesians killed in ambush

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A guerrilla rocket and machine-gun attack on a rural bus killed 16 blacks and wounded 24 in the worst violence since the month-old cease-fire began.

The attack occurred Sunday night 80 miles south-east of Salisbury. The Rhodesian military command blamed Robert Mugabe's guerrillas, who were operating in the area before the truce went into effect Dec. 29.

The force of the rockets and machine gun bullets sent bodies flying up to 30 yards. The victims were returning to Salisbury from visits to relatives and friends in the eastern garrison town of Umtali.

"It was awful," said one of the wounded, Baxter Machuana, a 31-year-old welder. "The driver was hit first. His head exploded from his body. There was blood all over. Then the bus crashed and people were screaming and rushing to get out the windows. And still there was shooting."

Violence between political rivals has increased during the campaign for the parliamentary elections Feb. 27-29, the first in which all black political factions will participate.

One black was killed and four were wounded earlier Sunday in a grenade attack on a bus carrying supporters of former Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, the major political rival of Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, the co-leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance.

Two others were crushed to death and 35 injured when thousands of blacks stampeded from a Mugabe rally in Gwelo, 100 miles south of Salisbury.

The worst previous cease-fire violation occurred three weeks ago when six blacks were killed in a cross-fire between security forces and supporters of Nkomo.

ORLANDO, Fla. — Whenever there is an obvious solution to a problem and the people who profess to want to solve it do not use it, then I conclude that despite their words, they really do not wish to solve the problem.

Iran's 'whipping boy'

President Carter had asked in his recent State of the Union address that Iranian leaders recognize "that the real danger to their nation lies to the north from Soviet troops in Afghanistan and that the unwarranted Iranian quarrel with us hampers their response to this far greater danger."

ted in Iran through the imperial regime, as well as our right to begin proceedings against the shah and his followers. The problem of the hostages can then be easily resolved.

Apparently the leaders of Iran, including newly elected President Abolhassan Bani Sadr, have been able to understand only half of what the president was talking about.

It's becoming increasingly evident that the sole reason the hostages have not been released is that they can be used as the platform for Iranian propaganda. Iran is no longer interested in justice, but merely in having a "whipping boy" to harass before a worldwide audience.

INSIDE REPORT:

George Bush spelling trouble for Connally, Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

NEW ORLEANS — Contradictions that give Republican presidential fortunes in the southland their exotic quality were on lurid display when applause roared out for John B. Connally's luncheon speech here recently during the party's southern regional conference, far outthundering Ronald Reagan's reception the previous day.

Edwards for the March 8 South Carolina primary. He then abandoned federal matching funds to give him unlimited spending latitude in a state that never before has had the luxury of a Republican presidential primary election.

Baker in the South Carolina election. Contradictions abound in the alliances that have formed in support of Reagan, Connally and Bush, a fact that tends to obliterate minor ideological distinctions.

Likewise, freshman Rep. Carroll Campbell is Reagan's statewide campaign chairman while Richard Greer, who ran Campbell's 1978 congressional campaign, has signed up with Bush — and Dent — as political director of the Bush campaign.

But his campaign performance has raised other questions among the practical Republicans who flocked to this regional conference. One complained about his appearance on television ("terrible," he told us); another criticized his "imperialistic" attitudes.

If the latter, Bush is Reagan's legatee. As a long-time Alabama party leader in Alabama told us here, "Bush is basically already eating up Connally's 'lunch.'"

ENERGY EAR: DOE officials who deal with Congress have been instructed to submit weekly "intelligence" reports on Capitol Hill doings, including "information in the nature of 'tidbits' for 'gossip.'"

DOUBLE BILLING: U.S. taxpayers were charged $20 billion last year for stationing troops and equipment in Germany and Great Britain. On top of that, the two allies had the nerve to submit a $6 million property tax bill for our GIs' housing facilities — which the Pentagon paid.

Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today, pausing after the rally of the past four weeks.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial was down 1.87 at 879.61.

But the average would have shown a small gain had it not been for ex-dividends, or dividend-payment adjustments, in the prices of four of its component stocks.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 4-3 margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said no major developments had come along in the past few days to change the expectations of persistent inflation that have apparently fueled the market's early-1980 rally.

Those expectations, coupled with the poor showing of the bond market in recent months, apparently have encouraged investing institutions to channel more money into stocks.

The NYSE's composite index was off .02 at 66.06. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value was down .57 at 278.24.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 18.55 million shares at noon, down from 21.97 million at the same point Friday.

As New England goes, so goes Kennedy, maybe

By WALTER R. MEARS, AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Maine and New Hampshire go, so goes Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination now says he is in the campaign to stay, no matter what happens in the upcoming New England tests.

They come in Maine's town-meeting style Democratic caucuses Sunday, and in New Hampshire's presidential primary election Feb. 26.

The morning after his landslide loss to President Carter in the Iowa precinct caucuses, Kennedy said he had to win those two contests. The implication was that if he did not, his candidacy would be over. But he did not say that.

ALL HE SAID WAS "Yes" when he was asked whether he had to beat Carter in the two New England contests.

In fact, he couldn't have said anything else. To have claimed that two states in his own home region were not vital would have affronted his supporters and campaign workers there just when he needs them most.

Besides, nobody would have believed him.

One sure way to undo any presidential campaign is to talk about quitting it, under any circumstances. The point of no return has to be top secret, or the candidate is virtually certain to reach it.

Early in his 1972 presidential campaign, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said he had to win big in the early primaries, or he'd be dead as a candidate. He didn't, and he was, although he did not drop from the race until months later.

When a candidate loses, as Kennedy did in Iowa, the pressure mounts for him to set goals, to say this state or that state is the crucial one.

KENNEDY ALREADY had done too much of that for the good of his own campaign. Outpolled in a pre-season straw vote in Florida, he said Iowa would be the first real test. Beaten there, he said New England victories were essential.

What really is essential is to keep the money coming. When it dries up, a campaign really is over. Kennedy has had problems in that department, but noturing a victory or two wouldn't cure it.

In the competition for campaign dollars, it also is important that the candidate quash any suggestion that if he doesn't win next Tuesday, or the Tuesday after that, he'll no longer be a candidate. Set a specific contest as the make-or-break test, and the wavering donor will keep his checkbook in his pocket to await the return.

Russian plane leaves riders 'up in the air'

NEW YORK (AP) — An Aeroflot jetliner from Moscow landed here despite orders to fly to Washington but the Soviet airline couldn't find a ground crew to prepare the Ilyushin 62 jet for its return trip, leaving 80 travelers up in the air about their flight.

Aeroflot was forced to delay its 5:30 p.m. outgoing flight, and when the jet was still grounded at 11 p.m. Sunday, passengers were put up at an undisclosed hotel, authorities said.

The airline did not disclose plans for the return trip, if any.

The jet landed at Kennedy International Airport on Sunday afternoon, and 68 passengers and 10 crew members disembarked and baggage was unloaded by a private contractor after the State Department intervened.

The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which operates Kennedy, had instructed Aeroflot to avoid Kennedy and fly to Dulles Airport near Washington, D.C., because Pan American World Airways had canceled its contract to service Soviet flights.

Pan Am suspended its services Jan. 25 after Teamsters union baggage handlers and ground crews began boycotting Aeroflot to protest the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan. Aeroflot apparently has not found a substitute handler for its two weekly flights in and out of Kennedy.

"We consider this an exercise in tough judgment by Aeroflot's people in insisting the plane arrive here," said airport spokesman Tom Young. "It's forcing a confrontation."

An hour-long stalemate ensued after the plane landed, and airport officials conferred by telephone with the State Department, which said it "did want the passengers to be taken off the plane," according to another airport spokesman, Leon Katz.

A private company, Servair, was retained and managers helped passengers get off the plane, Katz said.

In another incident Jan. 18, Kennedy Airport computer data was erased and a flight carrying Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin traveled through airspace reserved for other traffic.

Goose that laid golden eggs bankrupts big Japanese firm

TOKYO (AP) — A large marine-products trading company, caught with a cache of unwanted golden eggs, has gone out of business in the seventh-largest bankruptcy in Japanese history. It's an example of what can happen to commodities speculators.

Hokusho Co. declared bankruptcy with liabilities of $210 million after trying to make a killing on herring roe, a traditional New Year delicacy in Japan, by cornering the market and pushing prices to double the level of last year.

Consumers balked, putting their pocketbooks before tradition, and Hokusho, left with 1,200 tons of herring roe in its warehouses, was killed by its golden eggs.

Japanese newspapers, usually sympathetic to failing enterprises, called it "a major achievement for consumer resistance."

The trading firm, originally capitalized at $830,000, reportedly bought 1,500 tons of the fish eggs from Canada at an average price of $24 a pound, but managed to sell less than 300 tons when retail prices shot up to $47 a pound before the New Year holidays, double the 1978 price. In 1977 the wholesale price was only $8.

A spokesman for Hokusho claimed they were not hoarding. "We were just trying to support the small fishing industries who were in trouble," he said.

However, Hokusho, which has close financial ties with the huge Mitsubishi Corp., was also trapped with too many eggs in one basket last year

Anthony dollar given an award as 'bonehead'

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Bonehead Club — that tongue-in-cheek group of self-described "fun-lovers" — has awarded the dubious 1980 Bonehead of the Year award to the Susan B. Anthony dollar.

Awarded each year to the "person or group that has committed an act ... which in the eyes of the Boneheads, is a monumental goof" edged the Miss America Pageant as the top boo-boo of 1979.

The Boneheads said they first considered the Atlantic City pageant a natural for the award after long-time host Bert Parks was axed. But Parks apparently could not make it to Dallas for the Friday awards ceremony.

Patman to run for Congress

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — State Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, announced today as a candidate for the congressional seat now held by U.S. Rep. Joe Wyatt of Bloomington.

Wyatt, under treatment for alcoholism, said Saturday he won't seek re-election.

Patman declared last week he would not seek re-election to the Texas Senate this year and was considering a race for Wyatt's congressional seat.

In his announcement today, Patman said he believed his 18 years as a state senator qualified him to move up to Congress.

Doctors' review 'vindicates' Children's Heart Program

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Corpus Christi physician who treats poor children with heart defects hopes a new review of his work will end his troubles with the State Health Department.

The review, by three out-of-state doctors, said the Pediatric Cardiology Diagnostic and Treatment Center at the Driscoll Children's Hospital in Corpus Christi was "more than acceptable" and could become "outstanding."

Dr. James Simpson says he was getting along fine with the department until Gov. Bill Clements told it last summer to spend some of its money on Simpson's Children's Heart Program of South Texas.

The program is based at the Driscoll Hospital, where Simpson is director of pediatric cardiology.

Clements, on the advice of the department, had vetoed $300,000 appropriated to the program by the 1979 Legislature.

The governor later regretted the decision and instructed the department — over which he has no direct authority — to give Simpson's program money from the department's funds.

Then, suddenly, came a critical report of the program, written by a group of doctors who advise the department. Simpson said the doctors came from hospitals that compete with Driscoll Hospital.

Criticism centered on the heart program's admittedly poor record keeping and, primarily, Simpson's occasional practice of performing more than one heart catheterization on a young patient before operating. Catheterization involves running a tube through a vein and into the heart to examine it.

Simpson said he was "saddened" when the health department gave the critical — and, he said, unfair — report to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, where he had a pending request for funds.

A HEW physician sent the report to several out-of-state cardiologists, and comments such as "would not send my child there" and "extra tests to milk the money" came back.

Simpson's complaints prompted the department to have three out-of-state physicians travel to Corpus Christi and evaluate the program.

The team consisted of Drs. Saul Robinson, a San Francisco pediatric cardiologist and past president of the American Academy of Pediatrics; J.B. Norton, director of pediatric cardiology at the University of Arkansas Medical School; and Thomas Bartley, a Gainesville, Fla., heart surgeon.

The team's report faulted the one prepared by the health department's advisers last summer because they employed no guidelines or standards against which to measure Simpson's program.

It said that multiple catheterizations appeared justified in the cases that were reviewed and were used when other means failed to provide the information needed.

Records were "satisfactory, with some omissions," the review team said. It found some unnecessary diagnostic tests were performed. Surgical results were good, the team said, "with only two excusable untoward outcomes in the cases reviewed."

"Certainly, at this time, the program at the Driscoll Hospital in Corpus Christi is more than an acceptable one and with the changes suggested and already in progress, it may well become an outstanding one," the report said.

Asked if he felt the new report vindicated his work, Simpson replied, "Yes."

Dr. Clift Price, the State Health Department's man in charge of grants for children's programs, said the out-of-state team's report was "worded so the program is given credit for its positive accomplishments."

But, he insisted, it "generally supports the findings of the first committee, though in softer language."

Simpson said the first, unfavorable report was "done by people with a conflict of interests" because their hospitals were in competition with the Driscoll hospital for patients.

Simpson said multiple catheterizations are done to prepare for surgery in heart cases that would have been considered hopeless a few years ago.

Area applications on THFC's agenda

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Health Facilities Commission will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday to consider an application by Odessa Women's and Children's Hospital to construct an addition to its building.

The THFC also will consider an application by Best Home Care Inc., Big Spring, to relocate its offices.

Odessa Women's and Children's Hospital is seeking to build a 3,245 square-foot addition to house a laundry, conference room, classroom and house-keeping and storage areas.

The hospital also plans to establish an in-house laundry service.

Best Home Care is seeking to relocate its offices from College Park Center to Mark-M Center in Big Spring.

The meeting will be held at the THFC offices at 1600 W. 38th St., Austin.

The THFC also has received an application by Medical Center Hospital, Odessa, to acquire a radiation therapy simulator.

Persons wishing to protest the application may do so by filing as a formal party in the matter.

If protests are received, a public hearing will be held on the application.

If no protests are received, the application may be referred to a THFC voting session without a hearing.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Humanity needed in nursing homes

Dear Dr. Solomon: With great reluctance I recently was obliged to have my 88-year-old father admitted to a nursing home. I can understand the need for rules and regulations in an institution, but don't the people who run these places have any compassion for the residents of these homes as human beings? I particularly resent the weekly blood and urine tests to which he must submit for no apparent reason. — Mrs. R.W.

is in the eyes of the beholder.

If you feel that every additional nugget of information about any disease brings us a step closer to conquering it, you can argue that we have made real progress. If, however, you equate "success" with "cure" then the end of the battle is not even in sight. Some critics now contend that the emphasis should be on areas such as prevention research rather than on a cure.

At the heart of the dilemma is uncertainty about the very nature of the disease. Is it a single illness or a family of diseases with different causes? If there is no single cause, it follows that there might not be a single cure.

As a taxpayer, you of course have the right — even the responsibility — to question how effectively your tax money is being spent. But any judgment about whether we've gotten our money's worth from cancer research has to be an individual matter.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE
Additional Chance

By Alfred Sheinwold

When you see a singleton in the dummy you naturally think of ruffing, but second thoughts are better. If you let the ruff wait, you may find an additional chance for the contract.

Declarer took the ace of clubs and led dummy's singleton heart. East took his two aces and led a second trump. Now South could ruff only one heart in dummy and eventually lose a second heart trick. Down one.

NO RUSH

South should first cash the top spades and ruff a spade. Only then is it time to lead hearts.

If the defenders fail to lead trumps South can ruff two hearts in dummy. If they do lead trumps, South wins the second trump with dummy's king in order to ruff another spade.

This sets up dummy's last spade. South then ruffs a heart with dummy's last trump and cashes the good spade to get rid of his last heart. Ruffing a heart is a fine idea, but only as part of the campaign to get an extra spade trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: ♠Q1054 ♣K108752 ♦8 ♣Q3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. You plan to raise spades at your next turn, thus promising too much for a single raise-but not enough for a jump raise.

Faulk won't make race

MADISONVILLE, Texas (AP) — John Henry Faulk apparently has decided television comedy is more humorous and more rewarding than a job in the U.S. House of Representatives, and he will not be a candidate.

Faulk's folksy humor has made him popular on television's "Hee Haw" program, and he said he cannot afford to quit the show for politics.

"There's a question as to which one's funnier ... 'Hee Haw' or Congress," he had said earlier this week when toying with the possibility of challenging Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, for a congressional seat.

Kermit's bid draws no protests

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — No protests were made at a Texas Health Facilities Commission hearing on an application by Memorial Hospital of Kermit to conduct a construction and renovation program.

A THFC spokesman said no intervenors appeared in the case at Wednesday's hearing.

Memorial Hospital is seeking to build a new ambulatory care department and emergency rooms. The radiology department also would be expanded and support areas would be renovated to house medical records, a medical library, surgery gowning area and central sterile.

The application now goes to a THFC voting session for final action.

Effective Parenting seminar starts Thursday

Registration for a seminar on Effective Parenting will continue through Thursday.

The eight-week seminar begins Thursday from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Salvation Army new day care center, 3500 Park St.

The seminar will be conducted by John Young, staff social worker at Family Services of Midland.

The 2 1/2 hour sessions will instruct couples on dealing with their children's temper tantrums, low self-concept, poor school performance, and often time-frustrating situations.

Format for the seminar is the "Systematic Training for Effective Parenting" (STEP) program. STEP focuses on teaching parents to raise responsible decision makers. By working together in a small group, the participants will become actively involved in sharing experiences of common concern regarding their children's behavior.

Next, they will learn why their responses to their children's behavior are ineffective, and then learn to develop more effective alternative responses.

Participants will have an opportunity to practice specific child-rearing principles and techniques during the sessions. They will also discuss how these techniques and their weekly readings have been helpful in dealing with their children.

Interested parents can call Family Services at 683-4241 for further information and registration.

Cost of the seminar is $35 to members of the Salvation Army day care center and all other Army members. Non-member fee is $40. Payment will be due at the first meeting of the class.

The number of participants will be limited to six couples to allow for more individualized instruction.

Dental x-rays reveal hidden problems; one of dentists most important tools

EDITOR'S NOTE: This week is the 32nd annual National Children's Dental Health Week. The following is the second in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Midland Reporter-Telegram, in cooperation with the Permian Basin Hygienists' Study Group.

QUESTION: Just how often are dental X-rays really necessary? Also, can you explain what X-rays reveal?

ANSWER: X-rays or radiographs are one of the most important tools your dentist has at his disposal to check for hidden problems that can affect your dental health. It is for this reason that he will periodically suggest an X-ray examination.

Generally speaking, on the client's first visit the dentist will probably take a series of X-rays on all teeth. From then on, his professional judgment will determine the frequency and extent of subsequent X-ray examinations. The dentist and his staff are careful, however, to prevent unnecessary radiation. They are thoroughly trained to use techniques and equipment that will give the most diagnostic information with the least amount of exposure.

X-ray examinations can indicate a number of dental problems that visual examination alone can not, such as:

- Early cavities between the teeth or underneath the gumline.
- Damage to the bony support of the teeth by periodontal or gum disease.
- Delay in eruption of a tooth or in jaw growth.
- Impacted or abscessed teeth.
- Bone diseases and tumors.

With X-rays, these types of problems can often be detected early enough to be treated successfully. But, if you wait until they cause pain or visible damage, such diseases can destroy your teeth, gums and supporting bone. Repairing your mouth may then require much more time, effort and expense.

DEAR ABBY

Sunday sex sin-drome?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman (22) and Mike is a wonderful, healthy, robust, masculine man of 25. We've been married a little over a year, and I have a problem I can't ask anyone else about. It has to do with sex. Mike has a big appetite for sex, but I am not complaining. It's his timing that bothers me. He always wants to make love on Sunday morning before mass. Abby, I know that love within marriage is not a sin, but for some silly reason I just hate to go to mass right after having had sex. Lately I have been putting my husband off. But I feel guilty about that.

Do you think I should postpone the lovemaking until after mass? Or keep telling myself I have no reason to feel guilty about it, and just try to get over that feeling. What's wrong with me? -MAGGIE IN MANHATTAN

DEAR MAGGIE: Your problem is rooted in the notion that sex is sinful.

You grew up believing it, and even though you're married and there is nothing to feel guilty about, you're still programmed-to-quate sex with sin. Talk to a priest, or a psychiatrist. (Try the priest first. It's cheaper.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been considering donating my organs for possible transplant at the time of my death. However, I have heard that the family of the deceased is charged for transportation to the special hospital where the organs are removed, and also for the surgery to remove the organs. Is this true?

If it is, I would rather not donate my organs since I do not wish to add to the expense of my funeral. Thank you. -CONSIDERATE

DEAR CONSIDERATE: There is no charge for transportation to hospitals for the removal of organs. Time is so important in the removal of organs that a donor almost always has to be in the hospital at the time of death. (Corneas must be removed within four hours after death; kidneys within 20 minutes!)

There is no cost to the donor or the donor's family for the removal of organs.

However, when one donates his ENTIRE BODY to a medical school, in some states the medical school bears the cost of transportation. In other states, the estate of the donor must pay for it. Check with your local medical school.

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from a reader complaining about a woman who chewed ice continuously. You commented in a funny vein.

She might just be ill-mannered; on the other hand, she could very well be suffering from an iron deficiency.

"Pagophagia" is a medical term for ice eating; it is a form of "pica," which is a craving for unusual substances. It's a well-known symptom of iron deficiency.

The woman needs to be examined and a diagnosis made. She might overcome her ice-chewing habit by taking iron supplements. -PHOENIX M.D.

One senator rebuffed bribe-offering FBI agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — One U.S. senator angrily rebuffed undercover FBI agents willing to pay bribes as part of a political corruption investigation that has implicated eight other members of Congress, a source close to the case said.

This source said the senator, Larry Pressler, R-S.D., was the only member of Congress caught up in the probe who refused to go along with the dishonest dealings discussed by undercover investigators.

Two sources said Pressler was not a subject of the FBI investigation and thus was not among the 20 public officials and 10 businessmen and lawyers visited by the FBI Saturday and Sunday. The FBI completed notifying the 30 subjects of the investigation of their rights on Sunday, one source said.

For 14 months, FBI men had posed as representatives of a wealthy Arab sheik seeking investments, a casino gambling license in Atlantic City, N.J., and legislation to allow him to stay in this country if he were forced from his homeland.

During this time, they paid almost $500,000 in cash to public officials for favors or the promise of them, a source familiar with the investigation said. But this source added that fewer than 10 of the 20 public officials took money. "Some arranged meetings or did other favors," this source said.

Meanwhile, House Ethics Committee Chairman Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., said his panel would expand an investigation already underway to include the FBI allegations.

"We've already had a continuing investigation of one or more of those people going on for months," he said, declining to give details.

A source close to the investigation said Pressler stormed out of his meeting with the undercover men when it was suggested money was available to win the sheik permanent residence here. "That man didn't violate any law," this source said.

"He told them, 'I don't want anything to do with it. I don't want to touch it,'" the source reported. "He saw very clearly what it was. What he did makes the other cases stronger, because the others could have walked out too."

In addition to state and local officials in New Jersey and Pennsylvania,

"He told them, 'I don't want anything to do with it. I don't want to touch it,'" the source reported. "He saw very clearly what it was. What he did makes the other cases stronger, because the others could have walked out too."

nia, one source said those who became subjects of the probe were: U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr., D-N.J., and U.S. Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y.; Frank Thompson, Jr., D-N.J.; Michael O. Myers, D-Pa.; Raymond F. Lederer, D-Pa.; John W. Jenrette, D-S.C.; John P. Murtha, D-Pa., and Richard Kelly, R-Kla.

newspapers, that I would be very wise to engage counsel, which I've done," Williams said Sunday.

By Sunday, most of the eight members of Congress had issued denials of any wrongdoing.

No charges have been filed, nor arrests made. Sources said federal officials were planning to present their evidence to one or more grand juries, perhaps as early as this week.

Two sources said the investigation, the largest political corruption inquiry in FBI history, was carefully monitored to avert instances of entrapment.

The sources said FBI director William Webster and top Justice Department lawyers closely policed the probe to ensure the FBI was never the first to suggest bribes to public figures.

Entrapment is a frequent risk in undercover investigations and constitutes a defense against conviction. To wage a successful entrapment defense, attorneys must prove the law enforcement officer instigated the crime and that the defendant was not otherwise predisposed to join in it.

But one source said, "The FBI undercover men never were the first to suggest bribes to the subjects. Originally, they weren't even investigating political corruption, but running a phony fencing operation for stolen art, stocks and bonds. Informants and lawyers who came to them brought in officials seeking bribes."

As another protection against entrapment, the FBI videotaped some of the ostensible bribery transactions, including some in an expensive house in the Georgetown section of Washington. "When the videotapes are shown, it'll prove there wasn't entrapment," said one source.

Sources said the investigation was conducted in Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Miami, and Newark, N.J. and some points in between.

One source familiar with the investigation gave this account of it:

The FBI's New York office proposed nearly two years ago a complicated undercover "sting" probe in which agents posed as fences willing to buy stolen art, stocks and bonds.

The operation went undercover in the summer of 1978. To give it legitimacy in the eyes of criminals, the FBI men asked an informant for a favor. To the FBI's surprise, the informant volunteered the names of lawyers, local officials and congressmen who might help. This turned the probe toward political corruption in November 1978.

FBI called good tenant, but a mite mysterious

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Washington Post reporter who played landlord to the FBI considered the agency a good tenant, if a mite mysterious.

When reporter Lee Lescaze called his house Sunday and asked to speak to the tenant he knew as L. Robert Johnson, he was told, "He's totally unavailable. I doubt you'll ever see him again," according to a copyright story in today's Post.

Lescaze's house was used during Operation Abscam — a corruption investigation involving several members of Congress. An undercover agent operated out of the house and a number of alleged bribery transactions were videotaped there, Lescaze's story says.

Lescaze said the FBI paid the rent on time and made about $25,000 in improvements, including an intricate burglar alarm system, recessed lighting, wood paneling in the basement — not to mention hidden cameras and microphones.

There were drawbacks. Soon after Johnson moved in, "the neighbors began to notice that this bachelor ... rarely spent the night at home but had numerous well-dressed, briefcase-carrying visitors, all male," Lescaze reported.

One neighbor speculated the house was being rented by the FBI or the Mafia, said Lescaze, while he personally suspected the CIA was using it as a "safe house."

Johnson gave Lescaze a tour of the house last month. "It must have been an annoying interruption of the undercover operation to have to play tenant and discuss curtains and wallpaper," Lescaze wrote.

FBI probe latest in series involving Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI's undercover political corruption investigation is the latest in a series of misconduct probes involving members of Congress since Watergate.

Those investigations include the reprimand of three House members in the South Korean influence affair, Rep. Charles Diggs' conviction on charges of misusing his office payroll and the Wayne Hays sex scandal.

Most recently, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., was denounced by the Senate for "reprehensible" handling of his Senate office funds.

The Senate Ethics Committee concluded that Talmadge's office made $43,435 in false expense claims and failed to report $10,000 in campaign contributions, but said it could find no evidence the money went to Talmadge's personal use.

Last July, Diggs, a Michigan Democrat, was censured by the House and ordered to repay $40,031.66 for misusing his office payroll.

Diggs is appealing his conviction by a U.S. District Court last year on similar charges. He was sentenced to three years in jail but is free while pursuing appeals.

Former Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., who resigned from the House effective last Thursday, faces a possible second trial on charges of taking payoffs for using his political influence to help private groups get federal assistance.

Flood's first trial ended in a hung jury.

The South Korean influence scandal wound up sending one former House member to prison, one to a criminal trial that acquitted him and got three sitting House members reprimanded.

Former Rep. Richard T. Hanna, D-Calif., served just over a year in prison after pleading guilty to conspiring with Korean rice dealer Tong-sun Park to try to influence other House members to support South Korean programs.

Former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., was found innocent by a federal jury in Louisiana of taking bribes to influence U.S. agencies in Park's favor.

Three sitting House members were reprimanded, not on charges of being influenced by South Korea but on less serious charges of violating House rules in the way they took contributions from Park.

One of the three, former House Democratic Whip John J. McFall of California, was defeated in the next election. The other two, Reps. Charles Wilson of California and Edward Pat-ten of New Jersey, were re-elected.

The House ethics committee is now investigating separate allegations that Wilson converted campaign contributions to his personal use and had improper dealings with a Los Angeles businessman.

Earlier, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, was forced to resign from the House to avoid ethics committee hearings on charges that he put Elizabeth Ray on his House payroll primarily to give him sex.

Another secretary accused former Rep. John Young, D-Texas, of increasing her salary and making sex part of her job, but the charge was not prosecuted before Young retired from Congress.

The first of the post-Watergate scandals was that of former Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., whose liaison with an Argentine striptease dancer eventually cost him his office.

Mills, who blamed the affair on alcoholism, resigned his influential chairmanship of the House Ways and Means Committee and two years later retired from Congress.

Soviets ahead, H-bomb dad says

NEW YORK (AP) — The father of the hydrogen bomb, Dr. Edward Teller, says the Soviet Union could use its advanced technology to win a nuclear war that would make the United States "cease to exist."

Teller, in an interview published in Forbes magazine's Feb. 18 issue, said he believes the United States is no longer a match for the Soviet Union in technology, particularly lasers.

Reagan still leading, says candidate Baker

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. Howard Baker says former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is still the front-runner in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

"Governor Reagan is still the No. 1 candidate, no matter what other people believe," Baker said Sunday, after Arkansas selected its first 42 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Reagan received commitments from six delegates in district committee meetings Saturday. Baker won four delegates while George Bush, who campaigned hard in Arkansas, came away with only one. The twelfth delegate selected Saturday was uncommitted.

Arkansas is the first state to select delegates to the party's national convention in Detroit this summer. The state's Republicans will be represented by a total of 19 delegates.

Reagan's state campaign co-chairman, Harlan "Bo" Holleman, said he expects Reagan to pick up additional delegate support when the state's GOP committee meets Feb. 16.

Holleman also said Reagan's following would have been even stronger had he visited the state more frequently. The candidate had not campaigned in Arkansas since November.

"Our goal is three delegates," Len Blaylock, Baker's state co-chairman, said of the upcoming state meeting, adding, "We are a whole lot happier to be second than we would have been in third place."

Selection of two delegates committed to Baker is being challenged by Marion Hartz, an Arkansas campaign official for former Texas Gov. John Connally, who won no delegates in Saturday's voting. Hartz contends an ineligible vote or votes were cast, a challenge that also will be taken up at the state committee meeting.

Bush had been a surprise winner in the nonbinding straw polls at Iowa's Republican caucuses Jan. 21, outpolling Reagan by 31.5 percent to 29.4 percent while Baker finished third at 15.7 percent.

Bush had hoped to blunt Reagan's southern strength in Arkansas and get an early lead in gathering the 998 delegates needed to earn the GOP nomination.

Wood case witness arrested

DALLAS (AP) — A man who gave grand jury testimony in the assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. and who was once convicted in a contract killing has been arrested in Houston.

However, the attorney for Charles Harrelson, 41, of Dallas, said the arrest Friday apparently was not related to Wood's death.

"This Houston case doesn't seem to be connected with it at all, at this time," said Dallas attorney Charles Tessmer. "We just know so little about it now."

Harrelson was convicted in the 1968 contract killing of a Texas grain dealer. He also was convicted of a federal firearms violation in Kansas City and was acquitted in Houston murder-for-hire case.

A San Antonio grand jury investigating Wood's murder subpoenaed Harrelson in October, and Tessmer said Harrelson testified for "two or three hours."

Tessmer said Harrelson is to be arraigned in Houston on a charge of possessing illegal gambling equipment. When asked if investigators may have been keeping a close eye on Harrelson because he talked to the grand jury, Tessmer replied: "It's possible, they did have a search warrant."

There was some confusion surrounding Harrelson's arrest Friday. Tessmer said he had been told the arrest was for possession of gambling equipment.

A Harris County Jail spokesman said Harrelson was arrested for gambling. A state prosecutor in Houston said the charge was possession of altered gambling paraphernalia — a pair of magnetized dice.

Tessmer said he earlier was told an agent for the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms found weapons in Harrelson's car.

"What they're probably wanting to do is run ballistics tests on the guns they found in the car. We told them (the grand jury) last October that Harrelson wasn't in San Antonio when the shooting occurred and that Harrelson had an alibi," Tessmer said.

Ex-Ford exec taking stand in Pinto trial

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — A former Ford Motor Co. executive who has testified against the company previously was to take the stand in the fifth week of the automaker's trial on charges of reckless homicide.

Copp, regarded as an Elkhart County Prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino, has testified previously in civil suits against the automaker.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the fiery 1978 deaths of three teen-age women who were in a Pinto when it was hit from behind by a van.

Cosentino contends Ford executives knew the Pinto's fuel tanks were likely to explode in rear-end collisions, but ignored making repairs in the interest of saving money.

The prosecutor has been frustrated in efforts to introduce the documents he subpoenaed from the automaker. Pulaski Circuit Judge Harold R. Staffeld has ruled the prosecutor must prove the documents authentic before using them as evidence.

Earlier, Cosentino said he hoped to work out a deal with defense attorney James F. Neal to introduce some of those documents. However, Cosentino said Friday any possibility of a deal involving the documents was off.

As the fifth week got underway, there was no indication how soon the case would get to the jury. Attorneys in the case have said it may be more than two more weeks before the jury can begin deliberations. Meanwhile, this community of 2,400 people is showing few outward signs of the attention surrounding the case.

The trial, however, has produced some souvenirs — many which appear to be going unsold. Included are T-shirts which inquire about the community's location and bags of "Pinto Beans" which are available at $1 a sack with proceeds going to the Pulaski County Association for Retarded Citizens.

And the local bowling alley had some special business last week as some of the many reporters and lawyers working here decided to seek some recreation there.

Jury warned they could be next by convicted murderer

MARTINSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — It didn't take a Morgan County jury long to recommend the death sentence for Steven Judy after he asked them for it — and warned them they could be his next victims if he wasn't executed.

"You better vote for the death penalty cause I'm gonna get out one way or another, and it may be one of you next or your families," Judy told the jurors after they found him guilty on four counts of murder Saturday.

"That goes for you, too," Judy said as he looked at Special Judge Jeff V. Boles, who set formal sentencing for Feb. 25.

The jury of eight men and four women deliberated less than three hours in Morgan County Superior Court before finding Judy guilty of slaying Terry Lee Chasteen, 21, and her three children. It took them less than an hour to decide to recommend the death sentence.

Boles ordered a presentence investigation.

Judy, 23, was found guilty of the rape-strangulation of the Indianapolis woman and the drowning deaths of her three young children last April.

Cards fracture St. John's 17-game win streak

By KEN RAPPOPORT
NEW YORK (AP) — The St. John's basketball fans were waiting and ready for the Louisville Cardinals — right down to the thousands of bright, red signs that said: "We are... St. John's."

est and No. 20 Kansas State lost 56-55 to Oklahoma. Elsewhere, top-ranked DePaul defeated North Texas State 102-71; second-ranked Oregon State edged Southern Cal 73-72; No. 3 Kentucky turned back Tennessee 83-75; No. 4 Syracuse routed Providence 89-69; No. 8 Notre Dame crushed Davidson 105-71 and No. 10 Louisiana State took a 75-63 decision over Mississippi State.

vertime; No. 16 Clemson nipped South Carolina 61-60 and 17th-ranked Purdue turned back 18th-ranked Indiana 56-51. Greg Manning scored a career-high 26 points to lead Maryland's victory over Duke, one that Terrapin Coach Lefty Driesell called "one of the best games a team of mine has ever played."

ond left led Wake Forest over Virginia, spelling the Cavaliers' fourth ACC loss. Aaron Curry's field goal with three seconds remaining lifted Oklahoma over Kansas State. Mark Aguirre's 29 points, eight assists and five blocked shots paced 19-0 DePaul over North Texas State. Ray Blume's 18 points led Oregon State past Southern California in a tense Pacific-10 contest.

Louis Orr and Roosevelt Bouie combined for 42 points to help Syracuse beat Providence; Orlando Woolridge's 20 points led Notre Dame over Davidson; Howard Carter's 22 points paced LSU past Mississippi State and Al Wood had 20 as North Carolina defeated Furman.

Tracy Austin

McEnroe, Austin tennis winners

TENNIS— Top-seeded John McEnroe needed only 55 minutes for a 6-1, 6-2 victory over second-seeded Roscoe Tanner in the championship match of the $175,000 Richmond Classic... Second-seeded Tracy Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif., defeated Virginia Wade of Britain, 6-2, 7-6 to win a $150,000 women's tournament...

"Our quality of play was a nightmare," said St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca after watching his ninth-ranked team lose a 76-71 decision to the seventh-ranked Cardinals Sunday in a nationally televised game. "We did very little right. When we watch the films tomorrow, I know we'll be unhappy."

Carnesecca's players will no doubt kick themselves over the way they let Darrell Griffith and Wiley Brown slip through for a basketful of inside field goals. As Griffith emphasized after scoring 23 points: "Our offense is designed to shoot layups. If we can't carry on this offense, we find ourselves sitting on the bench and holding Coach (Denny) Crum's hand."

THE CARDINALS accomplished all they set out to do, continually flying inside with the skyrocketing Griffith and the bullish Brown. That forceful pair helped Crum's team build a 17-point lead late in the game, then Louisville held off a St. John's comeback try.

"It took a while for us to get loose," said Griffith. "St. John's is one of the toughest teams we've played this year. I would rank them with Ohio State (a team the Cardinals beat by 10 points earlier this season)."

The loss stopped a 17-game St. John's winning streak — the second longest in the nation next to DePaul's 20 and the longest at the New York school in 50 years.

"A setback or two is not that important," stressed Carnesecca. "Hopefully, we learned something from this game." The second half was better for the Redmen, who first fell behind by 17 points before making a charge. Led by Reggie Carter, who scored 23 points overall, St. John's came back to within three points on two occasions. However, the Redmen finally ran out of gas, and, appropriately, Griffith nailed down the Louisville victory with a field goal in the last few seconds.

"If I were to give my team a report card," said Carnesecca, "they'd get an A for effort, but an F for everything else. But we'll regroup tomorrow and play another game on Tuesday (with the University of Baltimore). That's what's nice about this game. Imagine if the season had ended for us today on a note like this?"

THE GAME was the only one involving ranked teams Sunday and followed a busy Saturday schedule during which four Top Twenty clubs were upset. Fifth-ranked Duke lost a 101-82 decision to Maryland, sixth-ranked Ohio State was beaten 70-67 by Wisconsin, 13th-ranked Virginia dropped a 79-77 decision to Wake Forest...

Holmes wants it all after KO win

By JACK STEVENSON
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes wants the world to realize he's the heavyweight boxing champion, a tough fistic public relations job since Muhammad Ali ruled the sport for so long. "John Tate just has a piece of the title that I deserve," said the 30-year-old Holmes Sunday after stopping Italy's Lorenzo Zanon in the sixth round of their scheduled 15-round bout for the World Boxing Council heavyweight share.

Knoxville, Tenn. Holmes already has stopped Weaver in a WBC title defense. THE SNARLED mess in the heavyweight ranks came after Leon Spinks beat Ali for the undisputed title and the WBC said the winner must fight Norton. Spinks refused, and signed instead for a rematch, which he lost to Ali in New Orleans. The WBC had stripped Spinks of his crown and named Norton as his successor while the WBA went along with a Spinks-Ali title fight, which the latter won.

champion Wilfredo Gomez of Puerto Rico in their fight for the 122-pound crown Sunday. Gomez won when Valdez "felt so bad" that he couldn't come out for the seventh round and the bout went into the records as a TKO in six. Gomez had hoped to fight Danny Lopez for the WBC featherweight championship with a million dollar purse, but the latter lost to Salvador Sanchez on Saturday and out the window went the big money.

AUTO RACING—West German drivers Rolf Stommelen, Reinhold Joest and Volkert Merl combined to drive a Porsche Turbo 935 to a record-smashing victory in the 24-Hour Challenge endurance race at Daytona International Speedway. Stommelen, a former Formula One driver who was also on the winning team here in 1978, drove through most of the last four hours, and he was at the wheel of the sleek white sports car when the race ended after 715 laps (2,745.60 miles) at an average speed of 114.2 mph...Irv Hoerr of Peoria, Ill., driving an AMC Spirit, cruised to a victory in a 100-mile race for small-engine sports cars at Daytona, averaging 99.452 mph as he nipped Jim Downing of Atlanta by .12 of a second. Byron Weaver of Savannah, Ga., was third, followed by Dennis Shaw and Amos Johnson, both of Raleigh, N.C.

Wrist fine, says JoAnne Carner after tee triumph

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The wrist is fine, says JoAnne Carner, and her golf game isn't in bad shape either. Carner, sidelined about four months last year in what might have been her best season ever, declared her comeback complete Sunday by winning the $100,000 tournament at Deer Creek Country Club here to open the Ladies Professional Golf Association season.

Both carded par 73s — the highest score of the week for each — in the final round of the 6,260-yard Deer Creek course. Carner finished 10-under at 282, Post at 284. The two-shot difference came on the 340-yard 17th hole after Post pulled at 9-under with a birdie on the 15th. Playing just ahead, Post bogeyed by three-putting from 15 feet, missing par from 3 1/2 feet. Carner followed in the final three- some, cutting a 5-iron into the green and rolling in a 15-foot downhill putt for the decisive birdie. Beth Daniel, rookie of the year in 1979, started the final round tied with Carner at 10-under. She went two strokes ahead with a 30-foot birdie putt at the first hole as Carner bogeyed, but three double bogeys on the last six holes before the turn destroyed Daniel's bid.

George Burns

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The National Weather Service on Monday predicted light snow for the next few days in the Olympic region, but no significant accumulation with the XIII Olympic Winter Games eight days away.

Crosby winner Burns credits Ben with assist

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There are nine categories in the new PGA Tour statistical service. "Assists," isn't among them. If it were, Ben Crenshaw would get one. "I have to give a lot of credit to my good friend Ben Crenshaw," George Burns said after scoring his first official individual victory Sunday in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am. "Ben whetted my appetite. He showed me how to be more patient," said the oft-frustrated Burns, who had come so close so frequently before finally breaking through, shooting a final round 69 that gave him a one-stroke triumph.

What Nicklaus was doing was burning up the course. The mighty man, on a comeback from the worst season of his career, had three birdies and an eagle in the first six holes, was in the lead alone and appeared on his way to a rout. But his putting suddenly turned sour. He lost four strokes to par on the next three holes, then played the back nine in 38, finishing with a 73 and a 284 total.

Chaparrals face NMJC in WJCC at Center

Midland College started off the second half of its basketball conference action in fine fashion, earning a 74-63 victory over South Plains College in Levelland Thursday night. This week, the Chaps have a pair of home games. They face New Mexico Junior College at 8 p.m. today in Chaparral Center and then host New Mexico Military Institute at 8 p.m. Thursday.

game. "We didn't blow out either of the New Mexico schools when we played them the first time, and I know they will be doing some different things this time," Stone said. "Our national ranking (currently sixth) means that every team is going to try to knock us off." Ernie Tate, the big post player who joined the Chaps at mid-term, missed Thursday's game but should be back for Monday's tilt. Tate went to New York to be with his father, who was having surgery.

In their first meeting with the NMJC Thunderbirds, the Chaps took an 86-71 victory in Hobbs. They defeated NMMI 78-69 in Roswell. Coach Jerry Stone's charges have now run their season record to 20-2. They're 9-1 in conference, still trailing Western Texas Junior College by one game.

JIM MURRAY Fight promoter in lipstick, heels?

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

When you think of a fight promoter you think of this Damon Runyon character who talks out of the side of his mouth through an unlit cigar, sleeps with his shoes on, eats with his hat on.

He talks grandly of his "property," but, chances are, he's wearing it. He lives in a room with a bath down the hall, offices out of his pocket, his English would have to improve to be described as "broken," and, on a crowded day, his room looks like a parole office.

His friends are camera-shy, and the only pictures of them in existence have numbers across the front. He refers to the fighter as "I," as in "The night I stopped Mauriello in three," and he regularly takes the Fifth when commissions get nosy.

He hardly ever wears lipstick, nail polish or high heels. And he doesn't get his hair done because he ain't got any, and the only jewelry he wears is a hot watch.

PRIOR TO Aileen Eaton, this was the profile of a fight promoter. She was the first one in history to make fights wearing a Dior suit, bracelets and Chanel. It was great part for Roz Russe II.

When Aileen Eaton was growing up in British Columbia, her mother was growing up in turn out like every other girl on the block. She gave her piano lessons, put ribbons in her hair, bought her dancing pumps and shopped around for finishing schools. She thought she might have another Isadora Duncan on her hands, not a Tex Rickard. Fighting was something you did on barges till the cops raided. Pugilism was for piers, not parasols.

All went well until Aileen went to work in Los Angeles as private secretary for Frank A. Garbutt, president of the Los Angeles Athletic Club which owned the Olympic Auditorium, which staged weekly prize fights, often at great cost to management. Garbutt loved fights, but not at a weekly tab of $2,000. He dispatched his secretary to see why the house always lost in this wheel.

Aileen didn't know much about boxing but she knew a lot about money. Also she knew double-entry bookkeeping when she saw it. Aileen fell in love with boxing. It appealed to her high instinct for combat and for its high potential for making money off people less bright and energetic than she — which included most of the civilized world.

She married Alvah (Cal) Eaton, who was a boxing commission inspector at the time, which meant his job was to go down to the locker rooms before the fight and make sure there wasn't any gin in the water bottles or horseshoes in the gloves. Aileen installed her husband as promoter, but among those not fooled was the matchmaker, Baba McCoy. "I don't work with dames," he growled. Told she came with the lease, he relented. "Ok. But the first time she cries, I go!" McCoy was still waiting till the day he died. And after, for that matter.

AILEEN DIDN'T exactly put curtains on the windows or ruffles on the ring ropes, and the piano and tap-dancing lessons were largely lost, but she ruled the game with a well-manicured fist, for three decades in her own town and beyond. Red-haired, blue-eyed, pound for pound, she was as tough as any welterweight who ever came down the aisle. She was as hard to handle inside as any fighter who ever fought a semi-main at St. Nick's. The Mafia didn't scare her. She told Blinky Palermo once he'd seen too many Edward G. Robinson movies.

Competitors arose and she fought them inside and hard, but always through the commissioner's office, not with goons or gangsters. And she paid off in the light. She dealt sharp, but she took her losses like a Nick the Greek and never paid off in markers or 10 cents on the dollar.

IN AN industry whose crest should be a field of doublecrosses rampant on a shield of blackmail, where, it is said, even an archbishop could come out with dirty skirts, Aileen managed to come out as clean as a soap commercial. Not innocent — clean. Fritzie Zivic, maybe, Gentleman Jim Corbett when it came to the payoff.

She once refused to do business with mobster Mickey Cohen. And Mickey protested, "But 96 percent of my business is legitimate!" And Aileen told him 96 percent of Jack the Ripper's dates were platonic, and only 1 percent of the Russians were Communists.

A week ago, Aileen Eaton, up to her earrings in the promotion of the bantamweight championship fight between titleholder Lupe Pintor of Mexico and challenger "Superfly" Sandoval of Pomona, which takes place at the Olympic next Saturday, checked into UCLA Hospital to find out why she got tired just playing seven hours of gin rummy at a time.

"I don't even enjoy fighting with managers," she complained, adding that she even skipped the blackjack tables in Vegas when she was there as part-promoter of the Wilfredo Benitez-Sugar Ray Leonard fight.

When Aileen Eaton got bored haggling over percentages, the medics knew it was serious. They slapped her in an oxygen tent, and undertook seven-hour quadruple-by-pass heart surgery.

IT'S ONE of those operations where they saw your chest in half, and put veins from your calves around your aorta, and, since Aileen will be 71 years of age next Tuesday, the staff at the Olympic thought they would not hear the red telephone ring for a month.

The operation was Tuesday. The phone was ringing in the Olympic Thursday. The call was from intensive care. The caller was still listed in "serious" condition. Aileen sure was.

"Listen! Are all the tearsheets out? Why don't we get more publicity in the papers? We got two champions and an unbeaten fighter on the card! Count the advance and call me back in an hour. And, whatever you do, don't give the fighters an advance!"

Aileen wasn't even taking a count. Louis and Dempsey may be the greatest heavyweight champions who ever lived, but the greatest promoter may be a good, game welter out of Vancouver who keeps getting up.

AAU to pick 'Best'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Kurt Thomas, America's premier gymnast, world high hurdles record-holder Renaldo Nehemiah and world diving champion Greg Louganis are among the 10 finalists for the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union's prestigious Sullivan Award.

The presentation marking the 50th anniversary of the first Sullivan Award will be made tonight at the annual AAU banquet at the Indianapolis Convention Center.

The award, named for a founder of the AAU and given annually to the top amateur athlete in the United States, will be presented by 17-year-old swimmer Tracy Caulkins, who last year became the youngest winner since the award's inception in 1930 when it was accepted by golfer Bobby Jones.

The award is based on tabulation of some 2,500 ballots from past winners, members of the AAU board of governors, selection committee members, the U.S. Olympic Committee's executive board and sports writers and broadcasters.

Raiders not in mood to listen to promises

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders, deeply bitter toward the city they have called home for 20 years, are in no mood to listen to a new offer to keep them from moving to Los Angeles, according to the team's executive assistant.

"I can't imagine us expecting to do business with people who have no integrity and have lost their credibility with us and the community as well," Al LoCasale said Sunday.

LoCasale, assistant to managing general partner Al Davis, was sharply critical of Oakland Coliseum President Jack Maltestro, Coliseum General Manager Bill Cunningham and Alameda County Supervisor Joseph Bort, whom he accused of undermining an $8 million offer that was declared invalid on Friday.

The offer, by Mayor Lionel Wilson and Cornell Maier, chairman of Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., was designed to persuade Davis to sign a new lease with the Oakland Coliseum. It included a $4 million loan for construction of luxury boxes and a $2 million pledge from Kaiser.

"It was a solid proposal by solid people who were working in the direction of a definitive proposal that warranted serious consideration," said LoCasale.

"It got shot down by a lot of little people."

Aggies face Tech tonight

By CHARLES RICHARDS
AP Sports Writer

Shelby Metcalf isn't getting much help from anybody else in widening the gap between his Texas Aggies and second-place Arkansas in the Southwest Conference basketball race.

The Razorbacks beat Texas 60-59 on U.S. Reed's 20-foot jump shot at the buzzer Saturday night, after having edged Texas Tech earlier in the week on Mike Young's 15-footer with 2 seconds left in overtime.

Tonight, the Aggies have to play Texas Tech in Lubbock, one of the two big obstacles they have left on the road in conference play, the other being a date in Fayetteville a week from tomorrow.

The Texas A&M-Texas Tech game will be televised. In other league action tonight, Arkansas hosts TCU, Baylor is at SMU, and Houston is at Texas. Rice hosts Wright State in a nonconference tilt.

The Aggies lead the pack with a 9-0 mark, followed by Arkansas at 8-1, Tech at 6-4 and Texas at 5-5.

As if Arkansas didn't have enough advantage, playing in the hills, Reed, a 6-2 junior, felt he got help from above on his game-winner against Texas.

Fred Carson had hit a 12-foot jumper to give Texas a 59-58 lead with 9 seconds left, but Reed said as he took the inbounds pass and dribbled downcourt, he heard the crowd counting the seconds down and "suddenly it seemed like the Lord just took over."

He dived between two Texas defenders, threw up a shot, and watched as it fell through. "I couldn't believe it," Reed admitted afterward.

Teammate Scott Hastings, a 6-10 sophomore, said when the shot went in, "I felt all my emotions drain. I just felt like falling on the ground and lying there for a while."

Texas coach Abe Lemons, just as stunned, shook his head and offered polite applause. The shot brought tears to the eyes of Texas forward John Danks, while Ron Baxter, Texas' other senior starter, stood motionless, put his hands on his hips and finally headed for the dressing room.

Texas led Arkansas by 34-28 at the half and led by eight, 39-31, before the Razorbacks began their charge.

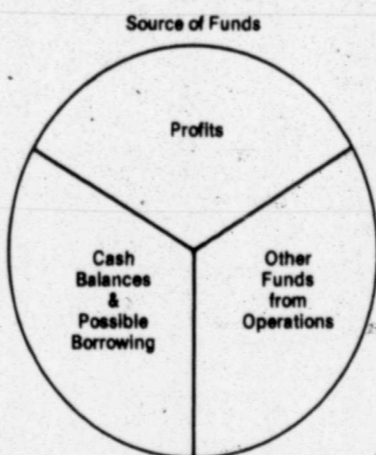

"It didn't seem like I even shot the ball. I saw people trying to trap me, so I pulled up quick and let it fly," Reed said.

Conoco Will Spend Two Billion Dollars On Energy This Year.

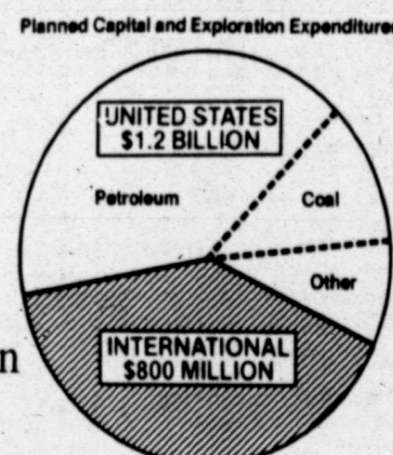

(That's a record, and more than double our 1979 profits.)

1. Where will it come from?
2. Where will we spend it?

A large share will come from profits. The rest will come from other funds from operations, cash balances and borrowing if necessary.

On energy and energy-related projects. Sixty percent will be spent in the United States, including about $800 million for petroleum projects and $220 million for coal development.

3. What will it produce?

More energy, particularly in the United States. As a result of stepped-up drilling activity, our explorers think the energy ultimately recovered from 1979 domestic oil and gas discoveries will replace what Conoco produced in the U.S. last year. If this proves to be true, the trend of producing more than we discovered in each of the past ten years will be reversed.

4. Can we continue this level of spending?

Yes — as long as the profits are there to support it. Over the past ten years, Conoco's investment in energy has closely paralleled our profits. The more we earn, the more we can plow back into energy.

West Texas workers walk at some plants

By The Associated Press

A large number of the 800 oil field workers at Amoco Production Co. plants in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico walked off their jobs this morning, joining a month-old nationwide strike against more than 100 oil companies.

Supervisors at the five district offices said early Monday they did not have a definite count of striking employees, but said pickets were up at all plants except in the Odessa area.

Just over half of the represented employees are members of the Oil, Chemical Workers Union Local 4-16, the supervisors said.

The local cancelled a strike about two weeks ago, but said then it would give Amoco 72-hours notice if a walkout was planned. Friday, the union announced it would join the strike Monday.

More than 60,000 refinery workers across the country went out after Jan. 8 in support of demands for higher wages and improved health benefits. More than 500 employees in other states were scheduled to return to work Monday after their employers reached weekend settlements with the OCAW.

"I believe all our represented employees are out, but I don't have a count," said Bob Wilburn, district superintendent at the Amoco plant in Levelland. "I don't know how many of my non-union members will show up."

Wilburn said there are about 100 employees — less than half members of the union — at five sites in his district. He said pickets were up at two of sites.

Pickets were reported up at some of the 23 sites in Levelland, Andrews, Brownfield and Hobbs, N.M. But only one of more than 200 employees at Amoco's seven Odessa-area sites was unaccounted for, said superintendent Jim York.

"It looks like most of them are going to stay," he said. "Most of them are going to work. Everybody is in but two, and one of them is sick."

"They (Odessa employees) weren't really in favor of the strike here. It is more a national thing," he said.

M.C. Lassiter, personnel supervisor at the Andrews district said pickets were up at at least three of the six sites where 185 field workers are employed. About 36 percent of those employees are members of the OCAW, he said.

"Not all are out," he said. "But we just don't know yet."

Richard Ogen, district superintendent at Brownfield said "pickets are up at most (of the seven) operating sites." Sixty percent of that district's 228 employees are members of the OCAW, he said.

"Some are out, but the big majority of the people at the (Artesia) plant are out," said Ed Staley, superintendent in the Hobbs, N.M., office. Picket lines are up at the plant and at least one of the other four sites where 80 employees work, he said. About 65 percent of those employees are members of the union, he said.

About 500 Amoco workers in the East Texas-Gulf Coast division remained off their jobs Monday, their second week on strike.

Second leading oil supplier announces $4 hike in price

By J.P. SMITH The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Nigeria, the United States' second leading oil supplier, announced Saturday that it is raising its petroleum prices $4 a barrel beginning today, the steepest price rise announced by any OPEC member this year.

Together with price increases announced by seven of the 13 Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries last month, Nigeria's sharp increase will eventually add nearly 7 cents a gallon to domestic gasoline prices, according to industry analysts. The increases are expected to add about $7.5 billion, or more, to the U.S. outlay for foreign oil this year.

Nigeria's new price of $34.21 per 42-gallon barrel — now the second-highest after Libya's at $34.72 a barrel — is especially significant, because the prized African crude is used almost exclusively to blend gasoline.

The United States imports about 1 million barrels a day from Nigeria, or about 12 percent of the nation's total imports. Saudi Arabia, the nation's leading foreign oil supplier, raised its prices $2 a barrel last Monday, touching off the most recent wave spiraling petroleum prices.

Britain has been under strong pressure from the State Department not to raise the price of its North Sea oil, now selling at up to $29.75 a barrel. Saturday, a senior State Department official said it was not certain whether the British would boost their prices, adding, "But so far they have been very helpful."

Ironically, the recent burst of increases comes as prices on Europe's Rotterdam spot market have declined from record levels earlier this month. The spot price drops have been attributed to the continuing high production levels maintained by Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Iraq as well as lagging demand for crude oil in the Western industrial nations.

One thing that is certain, according to State Department and oil industry officials, is that this latest round of increases represent a major setback to Saudi Arabia, leader of OPEC's moderate faction, which had hoped to unify the cartel's fractured pricing structure.

Since OPEC's December price-fixing meeting in Caracas, Venezuela, world oil prices have moved up rather than down from the high official prices set by Libya, Algeria and Iran — the so-called "price hawks."

OPEC's weighted official price has risen from $13.77 a barrel a year ago, to more than $30.00 a barrel.

In a related development, French

Minister of Industry Andre Giraud said in an interview Saturday that the European Economic Community will open talks "perhaps in the next two months with the Arab Gulf oil producers."

At the State Department, a senior official said there was renewed interest in producer-consumer talks in the Persian Gulf since the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Giraud said the French have discussed the talks with the Saudis and Kuwait and are still working on an agenda.

On other issues Giraud said: —France will open a new nuclear power plant every two months from now until 1985, enabling the French to cut their dependence on imported oil from a total of 67 percent of total energy supplies in 1973, to 45 percent by 1986.

The ambitious French nuclear program, Giraud said, results from a fast licensing process limited to 547 days, and wider public acceptance of nuclear power than in the United States.

—The U.S. Energy Department's recent sale of Elk Hills reserve oil at $41 a barrel was "a regrettable, even deplorable, mistake" because it encouraged a rise in spot-market prices.

—Britain's recent announcement that it is reducing output from the North Sea by 10 to 20 percent in the years ahead "will make it hard to convince the (OPEC) producers to increase their output."

Another oil 'source' reported

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dallas-based Diamond Shamrock Corp. expects to know in June whether its tests of "gopher plant" as a petroleum substitute will prove out.

The plant, formally known as euphorbia lathyrus, produces a milky liquid in its leaves and stems. Some researchers say the fluid contains hydrocarbon superior to crude oil, and Diamond Shamrock says tests already have shown it can be refined to produce a high-quality fuel.

The point of the experimental plantings begun here in 1978 and which are expected to spread this spring to Texas, New Mexico, Nevada and California is to determine whether growing gopher plants as a crop is economical.

The spring plantings are to test the plant's response to a variety of soils, altitudes and climates. If it proves suitable for semi-arid land such as the Southwest, officials say, desert petroleum farms might be developed without using more valuable farm land.

C.W. Hinman, Diamond Shamrock's director of exploratory technology, said the gopher plant apparently would be used to produce both gasoline and other chemical distillates.

He said studies on about 12 acres of the plant grown near Tucson and Safford confirm a yield of the equivalent of about 10 barrels of crude oil per acre is possible.

Jack D. Johnson of the University of Arizona's Office of Arid Lands Studies, which is coordinating the research with Diamond Shamrock, says a harvest of the equivalent of 25 barrels per acre could be obtained under certain conditions.

Hinman said it has yet to be determined whether such a yield would be economical, given the expense of irrigation.

Phillips says supplies up

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — A sharp increase in supplies of diesel fuel, heating oil and jet turbine fuel, and a moderate increase in gasoline supplies have been reported by Phillips Petroleum Co.

Phillips' fuel supplies were cut sharply after a series of explosions and fires knocked out the company's second-largest refinery at Borger, Texas, on Jan. 20.

The company, one of the largest fuel suppliers in Missouri and Kansas, cut gasoline allocations from 70 percent to 50 percent, and reduced from 95 percent to 70 percent its allocations of middle distillates, which include diesel fuel, jet fuel, heating oil and related products.

Phillips also halted sales of aviation gasoline, the fuel used by small, piston-driven aircraft.

The company said Saturday that it will increase gasoline allocations from 50 percent to 60 percent through February. The firm also announced that:

—allocations of all middle distillates except jet fuel will be hiked from 70 percent to 95 percent. Mass transit systems will continue to receive a 100 percent allocation because they're considered priority customers under federal regulations.

—jet fuel allocations will rise from 70 percent to 90 percent.

—allocations of aviation gasoline will stay at 35 percent through March.

Big year predicted

HOUSTON — The second greatest U.S. oil and gas drilling year in history is forecast for 1980 by World Oil magazine. Likewise, overseas the drilling industry should outperform previous years.

For the U.S., the Houston-based industry magazine expects some 56,083 wells and 271.2 million feet of hole to be drilled this year, up 11.4 percent and 9.4 percent, respectively, over 1979. Recent government moves to ease price controls on both oil and gas are the main support for World Oil's optimistic U.S. forecast.
