Shooting spree results in indictment of three

The Midland County grand jury Wednesday returned indictments for attempted capital murder of a peace officer against three men and John Darwin Eads, 38, of Irving were indicted after reportedly leading Midland police and sheriff's deputies on a shooting spree and high speed chase Saturday.

Rees Bernard Ray, 43, of Houston, Roy Edward Hines, 50, of Woodlands

The chase began after a Midland police officer was fired at when he approached a car which had been reported stolen.

The chase continued "all through the east side of Midland," police said Saturday. The occupants of the car pulled over and surrendered after sheriff's deputies fired at them with a shotgun, police reports said.

A search of the car revealed a number of watches, rings, loose diamonds, gold and silver coins and at least two pistols. The jewelry was later identified as having been taken from a Dallas store during a daylight armed robbery

The three were in Midland County Jail today in lieu of $300,000 bond

The grand jury also indicted George William Hillger, 32, of Kermit on two counts of aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon and one count of forgery by passing. He was in Midland County Jail today in lieu of $60,000 total bond.

Hillger was arrested in connection with a Jan. 25 armed robbery of a 23-year-old Midland woman.

Martin Kent Reed was indicted for burglary of a habitation to commit theft and burglary of a vehicle. He is free on $12,500 bond.

Tommy Ray Owens, 22, 101 S. Lamesa Road, was indicted for burglary of a habitation with intent to commit rape. He was in Midland County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond. Robert Wayne DeWitt was indicted for burglary of a vehicle. He is free on $3,500 bond. Joseph Darwin Cook was indicted for possession of more than four ounces of marijuana and Jamie Lynn Wade, 22, of Pecos was indicted for possession of methamphetamine. Wade was in Midland County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bond. Cook is free on $5,000 bond. Two indictments for subsequent offenses of driving while intoxicated were returned. Hoover Isaiah Jackson was free on $1,500 bond and Willie Montgomery was free on $3,000 bond. The grand jury also no billed a Midland woman under investigation for the shooting death of her husband Monday. Earnestine Joiner Whitely, 35, was not indicted by the panel.

Hostage release 'imminent,' says Kuwaiti paper

By The Associated Press

A Kuwait newspaper reported from Tehran today that the release of the American Embassy hostages is "imminent." State Department officials said they could not confirm the report but the situation remained "promis-

The Iranian government, meanwhile, took a new step to undercut the power of the militants holding the U.S. Embassy — it banned their accusations against Iranian officials from the air waves.

The weekly Kuwait newspaper Al Khadaf, which did not give the source of its information, said the number of young Iranian militants occupying the U.S. Embassy has been reduced from 400 to 50, and final arrangements for the release of the approximately 50 captive Americans are being completed "following the election of Abolhassan Bani Sadr as Iran's new president.

the hostage crisis and the ending of the duality of authority being exercised in Iran as the main objectives at the beginning of his term," the report

Al Khadaf said U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim is trying to persuade Bani Sadr to "pressure the students to leave the embassy and have them replaced by regular Iranian troops.

The Kuwaiti press is highly compet itive, and the reliability of the Al Khadaf report was not known. But the Kuwaitis have good contacts in Iran because of the proximity of the two countries. There is also a relatively large Iranian community in Kuwait.

State Department spokesman George Sherman, after checking on the report, said, "We have no evidence to confirm it.' But Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, echoing the cautious optimism of the Carter administration in recent days, said on NBC-TV's "Today" show, "We have a somewhat promising situation and we are working hard on it." The ruling Revolutionary Council has agreed to Waldheim's plan to set up an international commission to investigate the Iranian revolutionaries' charges against the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, but the Iranians want to hold on to the hostages until the panel issues its > President Carter told congressmen and some 3,000 other people at a National Prayer Breakfast today that he prays every day not only for the hostages, but also for Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the embassy militants.

"It's not easy to do this, and I have to force myself sometimes to include someone on my list because I don't want to acknowledge that that person might be worthy of my love," Carter

Bani Sadr lashed into the embassy militants Wednesday after their allegations - broadcast on national radio and television - that the national guidance and information minister, Nasser Minachi, had "close links with the CIA" led to Minachi's unauthorized arrest by revolutionary guardsmen. The militants said the allegations were based on documents found in the embassy.

Today the ruling Revolutionary Council, headed by Bani Sadr, or-dered the state-owned broadcast system to not give the militants any more air time to publicize such allegations. The Council said it must first review the purported evidence in such

In November, the militants had engineered the arrest of a former government spokesman, Amir Abbas Entezam, in a similar manner.

Minachi has been released on orders of the Revolutionary Council.

Bani Sadr is making plain that he is determined to trim the power of the embassy militants. He castigated them Wednesday as "dictators who have created a government within the government." He said their allegation was one for a judge to investigate, and if people were arrested on the basis of something heard on the radio the country ran the risk of collapsing in chaos. "I think the nation which has voted for me does not agree with this kind of behavior," said Bani Sadr, who got 75 percent of the vote in the presidential election two weeks ago. The militants issued a statement saying they had "nothing to do with the arrest and detention of Minachi," and that they "reject the allegation that they interfere in government affairs," Tehran Radio reported today.

Bani Sadr's government also gave the cold shoulder to a U.S. delegation invited to Iran by the militants.

Afghans will let Red Cross visit

By The Associated Press

The Soviet-backed government of Afghanistan is allowing an Interna tional Red Cross team to visit political prisoners in Afghan jails, the IRC reported today, only hours after it complained that the Afghans had reneged on a promise to permit such visits.

Francoise Bory, a spokeswoman at the IRC headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, declined to comment on whether today's apparent turnabout by the Afghan government may have resulted from her earlier disclosure of the problems the team was encoun-

We have been informed by our delegates in Kabul (the Afghan capital) that they will very soon begin visiting the prisons," she said. The situation had "greatly improved" in a matter of hours, she said.

The spokeswoman had said earlier that Afghan President Babrak Karmal and two of his ministers two weeks ago approved the visits by a four-member Red Cross team in Kabul, but that the Red Cross had "learned that IRC delegates in Kabul have not yet been able to visit detainees." She said then she did not know why the Afghans appeared to have backed down on their promise.

Red Cross Director Jacques Moreillon, the leader of the team sent to Kabul last month to negotiate the visits with Afghan authorities, has returned to Geneva, she said, but the remaining three members of the team had stayed behind in Kabul.

She said in her earlier remarks that the prisoners. During initial talks with the Karmal government, the Red Cross team was told there were 57 political prisoners in Afghanistan. That number could not be confirmed. Unofficial reports have put the number of political detainees at from several hundred to several thousand Reports reaching Kabul said, meanwhile, that small-scale rebel attacks were continuing in the northern provinces of Baghlan, Takhar, Kunduz and Badakhshan.

One source in the Afghan capital said 40 Soviet soldiers had been killed by snipers since Jan. 16.

Records show Bush concealed secret Nixon funds

By ROBERT L. JACKSON RONALD J. OSTROW (c) 1980, The Los Angeles Times

AUSTIN - George Bush received $106,000 from a secret Nixon White House fund and concealed most of it from campaign spending reports during his unsuccessful 1970 Senate race in Texas, newly obtained records disclose. More than half of the sum, or $55,000, was in cash, none of which was reported.

Ledger sheets and other records uncovered by the Watergate special prosecutor and later tucked away in the National Archives provide the first documentary evidence that Bush, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination, drew from a later discredited slush fund without informing the public or even one of his Texas finance co-chairmen Illustrating the sensitivity of the operation, cash sums forwarded to Bush were listed by a White House operative as coming from "C. Green" and "C.A. Green." Those were code names for currency, according to sources familiar with the records.

Bush's acceptance of the secret funds and his failure to disclose them fully sheds light on his relationship with the Nixon White House, a relationship that Bush now seeks to downplay although he held high political and administrative appointments under Richard M. Nixon - both before and during Watergate.

ALSO, WHILE THE transactions apparently did not violate federal campaign laws, Bush's acceptance of the money and his failure to disclose it fully as required by Texas law raise questions of propriety, especially since most of the money was in cash and thus difficult to trace.

Bush refused to comment Wednesday, several hours after he and his staff were presented with written questions by the Los Angeles Times. Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate special prosecutor and now a Bush supporter, said in an interview that when his staff investigated the secret fund in 1974, they cleared Bush of any legal violations in connection

But, Jaworski acknowledged, he and his staff made no effort to pass on the propriety of Bush and other candidates accepting slush fund money Jaworski said he could not recall whether he knew that Bush had failed to report most of the funds. Jaworski, referring to "the shifting sands" of campaign law, noted that federal reporting requirements imposed on candidates were extremely lax in 1970. "Allowances had to be made for the manner in which things were handled traditionally," he said. The confidential fund, run out of the basement of a townhouse in the northwest part of Washington, ultimately led to guilty pleas to election law violations by its three key Nixon campaign operatives: Jack A. Gleason, Herbert Kalmbach and Harry S. Dent.

THE SO-CALLED "Townhouse Operation" was a $1.5 million project that consisted partly of a cash hoard and partly of a secret channel for contributions from wealthy Republicans to Nixon's favorite candidates in 15 states.

In 1974, when Bush had been considered for appointment as vice president by the new president, Gerald R. Ford, Newsweek magazine reported that White House concern over Bush's possible Townhouse connection helped tip the appointment to Nelson A. Rockefeller.

But Bush's former campaign officials in Texas denied at that time that (See RECORDS SHOW, Page 3A)

After the prisoners arrived at the penitentiary, they underwent a lengthy classification process to determine, among other things, if they should remain at Leavenworth or be reassigned to other prisons.

Mark Luttrell, administrative assistant to the warden, said some of the inmates would be transferred almost immediately to other prisons around the country. In the meantime, the other transferred prisoners will be placed in a maximum security section of the penitentiary, separate from the other 996 inmates at Leavenworth, Luttrell said.

Howard College president denies suit allegation

BIG SPRING — Howard College President Charles Hays formally has denied allegations made by the wife of a Big Spring attorney that he withheld college records for personal gain.

The plaintiff, Mary Thomas, has alleged in a suit filed in 118th State District Court that she was denied information about the college's purchase of ice from Spring City Ice Co. Mrs. Thomas named Hays as an office holder in the ice company

But Hays termed the suit's reference to his relationship with the ice company as "scandalous and derogatory" and contended that the reference should be stricken from the rec-

In her petition, Mrs. Thomas said college records should be released "promptly" in accordance with the Texas Open Records Act.

Hays, in his reply, said that the college's policy is that records are to be released "efficiently, safely and without delay."

Canada doesn't want draft dodgers from U.S.

OTTAWA (AP) - The Canadian government does not want to harbor U.S. draft dodgers, in the event of a renewed draft, and would put them at the bottom of the immigration priority list, Foreign Minister Flora Mac-Donald says

Miss MacDonald said Wednesday the Progressive Conservative government is not considering any legal changes to bar United States citizens from Canada in the event they do not want to join the U.S. armed forces.

However, bureaucratic methods in place now would be used to discourage draft dodgers from coming to Canada, she said, as thousands did in the 1960s and early 1970s to avoid fighting in the war in Vietnam.

"Given the number of people who want to come here, they wouldn't be given top priority," Miss MacDonald said in a telephone interview from Winnipeg.

Immigrants are judged on a point scale that takes into consideration various factors such as language. education, job skills and family connections

Officials have said that any change in these factors would have to come from legislation or a Cabinet order. Miss MacDonald said in the interview: "Nobody is talking along those Bush's 1970 campaign, told the Los Angeles Times: "I don't recall ever Easterners. hearing of that fund, and I don't know anything about it. I don't think any of us ever heard of anything like what you're talking about."

The Watergate special prosecutor's records, a combination of handwritten ledger entries kept by Gleason and typed summaries of the sources and recipients of the secret money, were obtained by Los Angeles Times from the National Archives under the Freedom of Information Act.

THE RECORDS SHOW that the Townhouse idea was born in October 1969, nine months after Nixon took office, when Gleason suggested to Dent the creation of a special political fund to support selected GOP senatorial and congressional candidates in the 1970 election.

Big contributors to Nixon's 1968 campaign were to be tapped for an overall financial commitment, with the White House deciding which candidates were to receive what amounts. In that way, GOP candidates would be politically indebted to the White House.

In some cases, a Watergate "prosecutive memorandum" said, the financing was "a scheme for obtaining leverage over the candidate himself if he failed to report the cash contribution."

As to why Bush chose to accept the funds, Robert Mosbacher of Houston, now Bush's national finance director, recalled being delighted when the White House-generated funds began to flow late in the 1970 campaign

"Of course, we were delighted because any money was helpful," said Mosbacher, who was finance cochairman for the 1970 Senate race.

"I don't think that anybody thought there was any problem with it, regarding any legality problem. Asked why Bush had failed to report about three-fourths of the money that the White House steered to him, Mosbacher replied: "It was reported to the degree that things were reported then. It was a very different set of rules, as you well know

BUT BUSH'S 1970 campaign filings at the Texas secretary of state's office in Austin appeared to be unusually detailed. Although they ommitted any mention of $55,000 in currency that the White House directed to Bush and his campaign advertising agency, the reports faithfully reported anonymous cash contributions as small as $1.

Some Texas political analysts, both Democrats and Republicans, cited another possible explanation for blanks in Bush's reporting. They noted that Bush's loss to Bentsen has generally been attributed to Texans' resentment to his close ties to Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Reporting all the White House-directed contributions might have called further attention to those ties, these analysts said. James A. Baker III, Bush's presidential campaign chairman, contended in a statement that Jaworski had already looked into the "allegation" and had given Bush "a clean bill of health.

Baker, who was Bush's campaign chairman in Harris County (Houston) during the 1970 race, also maintained that Mark W. White Jr., Texas' for-mer secretary of state, had stated that the Bush Senate campaign had nor more than five (5) years, or be both so fined and imprisoned." properly filed all required reports.

roperly filed all required reports.

Actually, White, a Democrat, said in a 1974 interview that there was no 13 saved way to know whether the campaign expense reports showed all contributions. He said that "everything was legal on its face" in the Bush report.

WHITE DID NOT HAVE access to the recently released Watergate records that include a detailed accounting of the contributions funneled to

Under the Townhouse Operation, Gleason would instruct the committed contributors to make their checks payable to particular campaign committees, the names of which he would get from the candidates. The checks

> According to the records, other Republican Senate candidates who received large sums from the secret Townhouse fund in 1970 included William Brock of Tennessee, now the Republican national chairman, $192,-000; former Rep. Thomas Kleppe of North Dakota, $175,000; Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut, $65,000; and Sen. John C. Danforth of Missouri, $60,000.

In Bush's case, the biggest contributors enlisted by Townhouse operators Kalmbach and Gleason were W. Clement Stone, a Chicago insurance tycoon; Henry Ford II, of the Detroit automotive family; Max M. Fisher, a Detroit oilman; and Thomas A. Pappas, a Boston oil and shipping magnate.

THE TOWNHOUSE FUND credited Stone, a large financial backer of Nixon, with supplying four separate checks totaling $10,000 for the Bush campaign. Bush's own records credit Stone with a donation of only $2,500. Similarly, Townhouse records list Henry Ford as having made out four checks to separate Bush committees totaling $9,500. Henry Ford is listed in

Bush's reports as having contributed only $2,500. Fisher is credited by Bush with a $2,500 donation; half the amount the Townhouse operation reported was forwarded in two Fisher checks. Pappas gave the Townhouse a $3,000 check for Bush, and it was listed in the Bush

The Townhouse records also show that on Oct. 16, 1970, a total of $40,000 in cash was sent to Glenn Advertising Co. of Houston by wire transfer Number 0718643 to pay a campaign advertising bill for Bush. Because the payment was in cash, the contributor was listed fictitiously on Townhouse ledger sheets as "C.A. Green."

There is no mention of that payment in Bush's campaign filings in Austin nor is there any reference to five other cash disbursements of $3,-000 each to five Bush committees on Oct. 21, 1970.

Texas authorities said that prior to 1973, state campaign laws were never strictly enforced, partly because they suffered from loopholes:

NONETHELESS, THE oath that Bush personally signed in filing his final 1970 campaign finance report seems clear in its meaning. It reads in

"I do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement, filed herewith, is in all things true and correct, and fully shows all gifts and loans of money or other things of value received by me, my campaign manager, or my assistant campaign managers, not previously reported in a sworn statement heretofore filed, and all persons making such gifts and loans ...."

Muriatic acid is, actually, hydrochloric acid. You may obtain it at a lumber yard, where it is usually mixed one part acid to 10 parts of water.

Dear Dr. Solomon: How do runners determine what their specific pulse rate should be while running? - Cal.

Dear Cal: The pulse rate to be achieved while running is not a specific figure but falls within a range. It can be computed by subtracting your age from 220, and multiplying the result by 0.70 and 0.85. These two figures define the pulse range. For a 40-year-old, the ideal pulse range while running would be between 126 and 153

The speed at which a person should run on various terrains varies in accordance with the effect on the pulse rate. Runners should bear in mind that going into a wind or up an incline, or going out shortly after eating, imposes an added strain. Serious runners often prefer going out in the mornings, after an overnight fast, when their stamina is greatest.

11-year-old son who appears to have superior athletic ability, and he wants to join in miniature league football. While we enjoy seeing him involved in sports, my wife is concerned about possible injuries. What is your view on the subject? - Mr. H.S.

Dear Mr. S.: From a medical standpoint, before your son is permitted to play football on any level he should undergo a thorough physical examination to make certain he is able to participate in what could be a strenuous program. Secondly, he should have a nourishing, well-balanced diet; vitamin supplements are necessary only for the child who does not have a proper diet.

Aside from the purely medical aspects, in preparing your son for league play you should make certain that he has suitable equipment and that each piece is tried on before it is purchased. Equipment of the proper quality and fit can cut down on in-

The type and philosophy of coaching your son will receive is another important consideration. A "win-atall-costs" attitude will inevitably result in an increase in the number of injuries sustained. These include muscle strains and sprains, as well as some more serious ones. It is also preferable for youngsters to be kept in the correct league for their age, rather than being pushed into higher groups where the competition is

Beetles munching on Western forests

By JOHN KUGLIN

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Western foresters are waging war against a bug with a big appetite. The mountain pine beetle is winning, leaving vast forests of rust-colored dead trees.

There is no solid defense against the insects, which have eaten their way along Montana's mountainous backbone - from Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming through Glacier National Park into Canada - infesting 1.4 million acres of forest.

Commercial timber worth millions of dollars is dying in eight national forests in Montana and Idaho. But inside Yellowstone and Glacier, the National Park Service considers the beetles just one more protected species of wildlife.

The U.S. Forest Service admits it is helpless to stem the beetle blight. Once a tree is infested, insecticides won't work - the beetles live beneath the bark. Annual sprayings are saving a few trees in

The Forest Service is responding to the beetle said attack by accelerating timber harvest - to salvage timber killed by beetles - and by "beetleproofing" uninfested stands by cutting vulnerable trees in the path of the spreading blight.

The bug is doing what we do, harvesting timber," said Jack Usher, the Forest Service's timber management chief for Montana, northern Idaho, North Dakota and western South Dakota. "Either we cut the timber, or the bug is going to get it.

Forest Service entomologist Mark McGregor said the beetle infestation is nothing new. "They've always been around forest stands, and are a natural part of the ecosystems.

The little insect with the long scientific name of "Dendroctonus ponderosae" is a picky eater. It prefers to dine on mature lodgepole pine, aged 70 to 90 years and measuring 7-9 inches in diameter. In a pinch, however, the beetle will turn to other spe

Foresters say the epidemic can probably be traced to huge forest fires of nearly a century ago. After the fires, stands of lodgepole - now about the same age - sprouted over vast areas of western Montana, northern Idaho and in Yellowstone park.

The beetle epidemic spread by 650,000 acres of lodgepole last year — a 21.5 percent increase in area sometimes killing as many as 90 percent of Lodgepole pines on another 2.2 million acres are the right size and age to be attacked by the beetles. The tiny insects bore into the bark and lay eggs. The larvae feed on the inner bark tissue, which carries food and water from the roots to the needles. The feeding larvae girdle the trunk and the tree dies, often in two months, but the needles may not turn red-brown until the next year.

Researchers say they don't know why beetles find large diameter lodgepole so tasty. Forest Service scientists think the insects may like the combination of chemicals produced by large trees.

Some trees mount their own defenses, drowning the beetles in floods of sap called "pitchouts. Extreme cold is supposed to stymie beetle epidemics, but the severe winter of 1978-79 had little The beetle epidemics eventually collapse.

"It's because they have eaten themselves out of house and home." Usher said

To meet the ongoing menace, the Forest Service

There will also be more clear-cutting, the controversial practice of removing huge blocks of trees. But in the Yellowstone and Glacier parks, it's live and let live.

McGregor, the Forest Service insect expert, said he was irritated because the National Park Service did nothing to stop the beetles from spreading out of Glacier, where about 1,100 acres were affected in 1972, to infest thousands of acres of Flathead National Forest. The infestation spread to about 228,000 acres in Glacier Park itself last year.

"It's a sore point with me it was allowed to spread when they could have done something," McGregor

Robert Hall, who heads bark beetle studies inside Glacier Park, defended the Park Service strategy.

"They (Forest Service) manage their lands for the economic value of timber and we manage for people to enjoy. If we logged in the park we would destroy more than we would save," Hall said.

'Born-again' Christians open meeting in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) - Leaders of the nation's Christian charismatics, encouraged by growing acceptance from traditional churches, today open an ecumenical summit in Dallas to assess the progress of their burgeoning "born-again" movement.

The three-day U.S. Summit Convocation, sponsored by the Episcopal Charismatic Fellowship, is expected to draw about 500 Baptist, Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran, Methodist, and Pentecostal delegates Charismatics, who say they are spiritually reborn through contact with the Holy Spirit, gained momentum during the past 20 years as a neo-Pentecostal movement. They are characterized by a demonstrative mode of worship and by their use of God-given "gifts," such as spiritual healing and the ability to speak in unknown tongues.

Unlike the Pentecostal movement, which broke from traditional religious groups, the charismatics have grown within mainline Protestant and Catholic denominations. The Gallup Poll last year estimated 3 million Americans had joined the movement.

Some denominations have been more receptive to the charismatics than others. A few have denounced the "renewal movement" outright. Criticism generally centers around the charismatics belief in the gift of glossolalia, speaking in unknown tongues, and the emotionalism of their mode of worship. Some theologians contend such "gifts" were confined to Biblical times or that charismatics place too much emphasis on them. Others say charismatics are too dependent on individual leaders and have lost touch with the real world.

Charismatic leaders, however, say the movement is maturing and is reconciling with skeptical traditional churches. They say they now place less emphasis on gifts and more on spiritual unity. The Dallas community has been closely watched by charismatics around the world, primarily due to efforts of the city's so-called "five elders" — the Rev. Ted Nelson, Episcopal; the Rev. Bob Cavnar, Catholic; the Rev. Paul Morrell, Methodist; Dr. Everitt Fjordback, Assembly of God, and the Rev. Morris Sheats, Baptist.

In 1976, Nelson said, the five organized what he termed one of the first major interdenominational meetings of charismatics.

The charismatics filled the Dallas convention center on short notice, and founded the core of a strong ecumenical charismatic community Last year, there were about two dozen similar revivals in the United States and six in Europe, Nelson said.

In October, Pope John Paul II picked Dallas to produce a videotape to show him how the movement was shaping up.

"The explosion is ahead," Fjordback said. "This is going to spring into fruition among many denominations.

Major Picasso show opens soon in U.S.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Pablo Picasso was a hoarder. His homes were littered with empty cigarette packages, broken pots, pieces of wicker, toys and scraps of all kinds.

Now, for the first time, Americans will have a chance to see how Picasso made use of some of that "junk.

An exhibition of 160 paintings, sculptures, collages and drawings from Picasso's collection of his own works - most of which have never been shown before outside of Europe — opens Sunday at Walker Art Center. The Walker showing runs through March

The only other American showing of these works will be at The Museum of Modern Art in New York, where they will be included in a major Picasso retrospective in May. When Picasso died in 1973 at the age of 91, the art world was stunned to learn that his three homes and bank vaults throughout France were filled with more than 45,000 of his works, many of which were previously unknown. The French government selected about 700 of Picasso's Picassos in lieu of inheritance taxes and is building a museum in Paris to house them. While the museum is readied, the government is allowing a sampling of the collection to be shown at the two U.S. museums. The works span 77 years of Picasso's life from 1895 to 1972, and many are considered by the art world to be among his best.

"Many of the works are very well known and have been on view in Europe. But some of the works never seen before (by the public) are some of his best," said Martin Friedman, Walker Art Center director.

The exhibition has enormous variety, ranging from realistic to abstract. It includes examples of all the major styles Picasso worked through in painting - his early expressionistic Blue and Rose period, the various stages of Cubism in which he represented objects in geometric terms and classical works and realistic bronze sculptures created from bits of baskets, old toys and other everyday items.

"Picasso's life was one-man art history. Every major theme is there — portraits, landscapes, still lifes," Friedman said. Picasso apparently kept some of the works for himself because of their personal associations, they portrayed people who were strong figures in his life. "I also think he recognized some of these works were beginnings of certain styles and he continued to # feed off some of these works. He constantly went back and reworked various ideas," Friedman said. Students boycott classes in anti-busing protest

Truth or consequences?

Americans have indicated they were encouraged recently by President Carter's "get tough" approach with the Soviet Union involving the invasion of Afghanistan and any forthcoming attempt to gain control of the Persian Gulf.

The nagging question which remains, however, is just how much of the hard-line approach can be attributed to the maturing of President Carter and just how much of Carter's statements are merely a Georgia poker player's bluff.

President Carter has rocked along for the first three years of his term, seemingly avoiding confrontation on the world scene at all costs and bannering humanitarian concerns as his main

That's not to say that human rights issues should not concern the White House. Obviously, the president needs to be aware of the world climate regarding human rights and to push for justice in all quarters.

But there comes a time when confrontation cannot be avoided; a time when a president has to take a stand, regardless of the possible consequences.

Jimmy Carter chose - or was forced to choose - the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan as his fighting ground and issued what has widely become known as the Carter Doctrine.

What the president said in his State of the Union address was, in effect, that any attempt by an outside force to gain control of the Persian Gulf region will be regarded as an assault on the vital interests of the United States.

Any such assault, he said, will be repelled by "any means necessary, including military force..."

That definitely is a hard-line doctrine, particularly in light of the fact that the U.S. military says it cannot defend the Persian Gulf alone at this time.

President Carter knows - or he should know - that world domination still is uppermost in the minds of the Soviets and that the Kremlin respects only force met

He also should have learned during the past three years that not all the nations of the world play by the same rules as the United States.

We agree with the tough approach taken by the president in stating the new containment doctrine. We only hope he was sincere in what he said.

Backing down now from an "attempt" by the Soviet Union or any other aggressive nation to take control of the Persian Gulf would add to the loss of respect in the world community suffered in recent years by the United States and to the loss in confidence by the American public in the presi-

A healthy climate

Politicians are turning out in apparent record numbers this year as indicated by the end of the filing period Monday for Midland County positions.

Filing was steady throughout the filing period, which began in early January, and a rash of lastminute filings was made Mon-

As a result, of the nine positions to be filled by Midland County voters this year, seven slots will see primary races pitting Republicans against Republicans or Democrats against Democrats.

And when the November general election rolls around, six of the positions open will feature a nominee from both the Republican and Democratic parties. It's good that so many candidates filed for the primaries which will be held May 3. Voters will have a choice in most positions at that time and again during the November general.

The two-party system in the United States works best when voters have a choice. Nobody likes to have anything — even a public official - thrust upon them. It's better to be given a choice, even if it's only between two candidates.

The fine slate of candidates also is indicative of a healthy political community in which many residents take seriously their cherished duty of public service.

Now that the candidates have given Midlanders a choice by making themselves available for public service. Midlanders can only reciprocate by taking seriously their right and duty to vote. That's the American way.

ART BUCHWALD Idea of drafting women a 'political nightmare'

WASHINGTON - There is a lot of talk these days about reinstituting the draft. The kicker this time is that women may have to register, and it's a political nightmare for anyone running for public office.

When I discuss the subject with parents and young ladies the response is quite interesting.

Most of them say things like, "I don't want my daughter in a foxhole,' or "I couldn't stand the thought of being up to my hips in mud with a bunch of smelly men.

Very few reply, "I don't want my child flying an F-16 fighter plane," or "I'll be damned if my girl is going to stand watch on the bridge of an aircraft carrier," or "I'm not ready to work in a messhall and cook meals for a bunch of jughead marines.'

For some reason, everyone seems to associate the draft with foxholes, dirt, grime and foot-slogging. Also, while no one will say it out loud, most people equate military life with promiscuous sex. For all our toughness, we still put our American princesses on a pedestal, and the thought of them living in tents with men is more than most of us can stand.

Which brings us to the subject of equal rights. If women want them, they should be required to do the same military service as men.

As to taking on combat roles, generals and admirals are against it. One general was recently quoted as say-

U.S. should avoid Afghanistan politics

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - President Carter's schemers have lapsed into some delusive and dangerous dreaming about turning Afghanistan into a Soviet Vietnam. Those who have succumbed to this bit of escapism talk deliriously about ferocious Afghan mountain men charging down from their craggy hideouts to disrupt and confound the mighty Red Army.

To turn this wishful reverie into reality, the Carter administration is actively searching for a man of destiny to play the role of Vietnam's late Ho Chi Minh. As Secretary of State Cyrus Vance recently confided to associates, the United States is "seeking a leader of the Afghan people.' The American-anointed messiah, according to the scenario favored by the White House, would unite the diverse Afghan guerrilla groups, rally the populace and start doing unto the Russians what the Viet Cong did unto us in Vietnam But unhappily, there are some serious flaws in the scheme. The remorseless Russians have already learned how difficult it is to impose a leader upon the Afghans. One ruler after another, each bearing the Moscow brand, failed to gain the support of the tanks and troops to keep their man in There's no reason to believe the Afghans would be any more eager to be ruled by a leader chosen for them by the United States. One exiled leader had this advice for President

Any American attempt at kingmaking, this exile told my associate Howard Rosenberg, could be "very dangerous." The creation of a government-in-exile, with U.S. blessings, would likely be interpreted as superpower meddling. Instead of uniting the Afghan people, it could splinter ous Soviet bear would devour one of its own allies has alarmed the Moslem world. This will cause other Moslem nations to view Soviet friendship with suspicion. In the opinion of some Afghan exiles, the United States would be better off letting this suspicion fester rather than stirring it up.

Such was the advice of a former high-ranking Afghan official who was driven out of his country by the Soviets and is now being courted by the Americans. Thoughtfully, he quoted an ancient Islamic axiom: "Let us wait and see who comes over the water.

Yet the advice probably will be disregarded by the Carter administration, which seems eager to form a Free Afghan government. Policymakers believe a government-in-exile could unseat Afghanistan's puppet government at the United Nations and open the diplomatic door to U.N. inquiries into Soviet action in the conquered country. Here are some of the leaders, meanwhile, who the White House is considering to head a U.S.-backed government: - One of the rival rebel leaders who recently formed a coalition of their guerrilla groups. They are Sebghapullah Mojadidi, Said Ahmed Gelani, Mawlawi Adbul Hai, Golbuddin Hekmat Yar and Mawlawi Rabani. - Zahir Shah, the former Afghan king who abdicated his throne in 1973 after a bloodless coup. He ruled Afghanistan for 40 years before he fled to Italy where he lives modestly. It's unlikely he would agree to return to

It might be wise for President Carter not to meddle.

POLITICAL ODDS: Here's the latest rundown on the presidential race, provided exclusively by Jimmy the Greek, for those who may wish to make sport of the election:

President Carter, benefiting from the Middle East crisis and the Iowa caucus, is now a heavy odds-on favorite to win the nomination. Jimmy quotes his namesake in the White House at 1 to 4. His challenger, Teddy Kennedy, is listed at 4 to 1, while Jerry Brown is far back at 35 to 1.

Despite Iowa, Ronald Reagan is still a 4 - to - 5 favorite to win his party's nod. George Bush, the Iowa upset victor, is now running at 2 to 1. The rest of the GOP morning line shows Howard Baker at 8 to 1, John Connally and Jerry Ford at 10 to 1, and, surprisingly, John Anderson at 25 to 1. Phil Crane rates as a 100 - to - 1 choice, and Bob Dole is the longest shot of all at 200 to 1.

The Greek figures the Democratic candidate as a 5 - to - 4 favorite over the Republican.

Ali's problem illustrates errors of Carter foreign policy

WASHINGTON - Muhammad Ali's difficulties in Africa as an Olympic boycott salesman point up the simplistic errors of President Carter's foreign policy. Want to show U.S. solidarity with the shah's Iran? Well, try to get the TV networks to show Carter and the shah together ringing in the Nev Year, 1978. (It didn't work because the networks refused.) Problem between the Egyptians and the Israelis over the treaty? Why, send Bob Strauss, the good old boy whose back-slapping reconciled the McGovern and Wallace forces — at least as far apart as Egypt and Israel - for the Democratic Party. (It did not work. Strauss out, Linowitz, experienced diplomat, in.) Now, to get African nations to boycott the Olympics, dispatch the world's most popular black athlete, Muhammad Ali, chairman of Athletes for Carter, as special U.S. envoy to Africa. Trouble is that the man-child Ali couldn't cope with diplomacy, charged that the U.S. and the Soviet Union were the "two baddest white men in history," and accused Carter of sending him "around the world to take a whipping over U.S. policy.' When we last left Ali, he had proclaimed, "I'm just naturally for President Carter because he truly and deeply believes in God." Ali said Carter was "the greatest President this country ever had," and called on his "75 million followers" to vote for Ali soon announced he was willing to go to "holy war" against the Soviets because they were killing his fellow Muslims in Afghanistan, and would shed his pacifism; if Carter declared war, to take a gun and fight Russians. In the meantime, he would urge all nations to boycott the Olympics in god!ess Moscow

Well, the special White House com mittee on the Olympic situation, headed by counselor Lloyd Cutler, suddenly grabbed up a plan by the U.S. International Communications Agency for Ali to be diverted from India, where he was free-lancing against the Olympics, to Africa by U.S. government 707-jet. Ali was proclaimed Special Envoy, and a State Department team was mustered to assist him on his mission.

Tanzania was his first stop, and Ali ran into a stiff punch. Its president, Julius Nyerere, likes Ali, but refused to meet him. He is reported to have felt disturbed that President Carter would send a boxer, and not a professional diplomat, to discuss Tanzania's decision on a matter affecting the Soviet Union

Smarting from this blow, Ali was then jabbed by Tanzanian journalists who wondered why he was being used by Carter against the Soviets, a nation which supplied weapons, economic aid and Cuban bodies in the blacks' fight against Western (white) imperialism. Ali covered up by claiming that he didn't know the Soviets had helped his black brothers this way. He was grateful that Tanzania had "converted" him

Next day in Kenya, Ali really cut loose. He banged the U.S. by coupling it with the Soviet Union as "the baddest two white men in history" whom he was trying to head off from war. "If these two white men start fighting," he warned, "all of us little black folks are gonna be caught in the mid-

Ali pounded his benefactor, hit Carter, by accusing him of "putting me on the spot," and sending him to "take the whipping" over U.S. policy. If he had known about the U.S.-South African relationship, whatever that is, Ali said he wouldn't have taken the assignment. Tsk, tsk

The Carter Administration must have neglected to tell Ali that: The U.S. did not go along with the African nations that boycotted the 1976 Olympics in Montreal over the question of South Africa and New Zealand; most African nations want to attend the Moscow Olympics because it helps them get displayed equally with other nations of the world; most officials of the newly African states want to be accorded the same respect as, say, those European officials received when Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Deputy Secretary Warren M. Christopher "lobbied" them for an Olympic boycott.

If Ali had known all of this, perhaps he could have fended off questions, made the best case for the United States, restrained his immoderate impulses and not made the disastrous statements that he did.

Ali is terribly popular in Africa. The people love him. He draws crowds, the kind which would have helped another U.S. official, an authentic diplomat, trying to persuade African nations to boycott. Certainly Senegal and Kenya are receptive to the pro-

But as one Nigerian official told me here: "We like Ali. But he can't make us take U.S. policy hook, line and sinker." A Liberian official told me: "Ali is received in his own right, as an athlete. But our athletes did not go to Montreal and yours did. We have the right to make an independent judgment about boycotting the Moscow Olympics for you.'

My, oh, my, what a fiasco. We all love Muhammad Ali, but must he be thing that ain't right."

Women due word on draft

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House is preparing to announce President Carter's decision on whether to include women in his draft registration program, ending weeks of speculation and rumor. Carter reportedly decided Wednesday whether to include women in the program, and also made decisions on a range of other issues pertaining to the resumption of draft registration.

An announcement was expected today or Friday. There was widespread speculation that the president favored including women. ABC News reported Wednesday night that Carter will seek registration of women aged 18 to 20, but will do so in a separate request so the issue is not tied to the male registration program.

Questioned about that report, White House press secretary Jody Powell reiderated: "The phesident has not informed anyone of any decisions on these questions. Meanwhile, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, former chief of naval operations, said Wednesday that Carter will recommend that women be included in his draft registration progbam. Zumwalt, addressing a Virginia Senate committee in Richmond, said he met with Carter last week "and he told me he had decided to include women in the registration and would make an announcement to that effect." However, Powell said the president's discussion with Zumwalt and others centered on the difficulty the administration would have in convincing Congress to change the law to permit registration of

The president did not state what he intended to do." Powell said. "It's possible from that discussion that an inference was drawn.'

The president announced resumption of draft registration in his State of the Union message last month. He did not specify whether he wanted women included, though previously he has said any registra-tion program should include women.

Though Carter has the power to resume registra-tion of men, Congresc would have to change a law to include women. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill has predicted that such a move would fail.

Zumwalt, testifying before a committee considering ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, said: "Our country cannot afford to ignore the skills and resources women can bring to the military."

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - Steve Cookton was standing watch in the engine room of the tanker Aries when a fast-moving fire exploded, forcing 24 crewmen to abandon ship on the high seas about 110 miles west of

He's doing 'as I please

GARDEN CITY - Vernon Gill has the ideal job.

'I can do as I please," he said from behind the counter at 79739. "I can either go or stay. For that right, he has "paid" almost 30 years of his life. And he has decided to stay awhile longer.

Gill is the Garden City postmaster and has been since Harry S. Truman, the plain-spoken man from Missouri, appointed him to the job back in the early 1950s.

By his own admission, Gill didn't exactly "earn" the right to be postmaster. He sort of fell into the job, which, then more so than now, was by political appointment

Eva Parker, who had been the Garden City postmaster for 33 years, was retiring, and, in fact, did retire, but hasn't slowed down to a stand-still. "Hell, she's a live wire," Gill said of his predecessor. "She's no fuddyduddy, either."

Well, Gill dearly wanted the job, since he and his wife were buying the Garden City drug store from J.L. and Eva Parker, and the drug store had a cubbyhole for the post office, which, as now, served a ranching-farmingoil county and community.

"I DIDN'T KNOW ANYTHING about a political job," Gill candidly admitted, but he had clout even before the word became vogue. By then, he already was acting postmaster and had the inside track on the job. So, to firm up his chances, he checked with Nat Shick, the postmaster at Big Spring, and Noel Oates, his counterpart in Midland. Both told Gill that he needed political contacts - a good word to the President.

And, lo, that word, via letters, came from Glasscock County Judge Lee Smith, who voluntarily wrote Harry S. Truman again and again until the president affixed his name to the appointment certificate, which Gill, a former cowboy and ranch foreman, has hanging on a wall just behind the counter in the new post office. The drug store was closed down in 1972.

He's proud of the Truman-signed document and of the man who brought to the fore the phrase "The buck stops here. "He was a little undiplomatic," Gill said of Truman, "but you knew he meant what he said." Politicians today, he suggested, need more than a little of that Harry

Truman trait GILL SETTLED into "post officing" after that. His wife, Glenda, ran the drug store, and he kept the post office part a'humming. "We called it a drug store," Gill reflected, "but it was a front-end store. We sold about everything a with Ed Todd

fella might need, except groceries" and prescription drugs. The store had plenty of patent medicines, though.

Before Gill even thought about running a post office, he was cowboying over at Sterling County. He was foreman for the 54-section 7D Ranch from about 1935 'til 1945, when he returned to Garden City to ride the range again and then to work for the Texas Highway Department.

HE HAS AN AFFINITY, developed over the years, for this community and county of, say, 1,700 people. "I'm one of them; I'm part of it (Garden City)," Gill said. You might not like everything about your home, but it's yours. You know what I mean?'

The community is ingrained in

"Everybody knows what you're doing; they won't rest until they find out. But they're not going to let you lay and die when you're sick. They're concerned about you.'

GILL'S LINK TO West Texas began before the turn of the century. That link was via his grandfather,

Divorced mother arrested in murder of young child

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) - The divorced mother of a 6-year-old boy abducted a young child, strangled him with her bare hands and buried him in a shallow grave, say police, who are puzzling for a motive.

The woman, who has a history of psychiatric troubles, led police to 5year-old Reginald Lamon Williams' grave Wednesday, one day after the child was snatched from outside his Darlin June Cromer, 33, of Pinole, was being held by Alameda authorities after being booked for investigation of kidnapping and murder, said police Sgt. Phil Bonadona. She was to be arraigned today in Municipal According to police, the child, nick-named "Monk," was abducted Tues-day while playing near the housing project where he lived.

Witnesses told authorities a boy was pushing Reginald around in a shopping cart when the two children were approached by a barefoot woman. As the mother of the other boy called her son into their house, the stranger began pushing Reginald toward her car.

A partial license number was traced to Ms. Cromer's car, police

"She confessed to strangling the victim with her own hands" about an hour later within yards of the boy's home, Bonadona said.

Officers and dogs had searched in vain for the body along the Pacific Ocean near San Francisco on Wednesday when Ms. Cromer, who had said she knew nothing of the child's whereabouts, led police to a grave near San Pablo Bay, authorities said.

'She was very calm, composed. She led us directly to the spot and pointed it out," said police detective Michael McLane. But he said authorities were puzzled over what might have triggered the slaying.

Ms. Cromer was arrested in San Francisco in 1977 following an attack on an Oriental woman, he said. Records showed she was placed on probation and ordered to stay off drugs and alcohol and to participate in an outpatient program. McLane said the 1977 dispute did not appear to be racially motivated. Race was raised as an issue after witnesses reported a white woman matching Ms. Cromer's description tried to pick up two young black girls Tuesday morning at an Oakland kindergarten, officials said. Reginald

The body of the 3-foot-6 boy, clad in a red, white and blue windbreaker, striped shirt and red pants, apparently was buried Tuesday night about 16 miles north of this San Francisco suburb, officials said.

"It would have taken us a while but I think we would have found it" without Ms. Cromer's direction, McLane said. "We were headed in that direct-

Investigators said "it was part of her habit to go to the ocean when she was upset." Police also said she called her parents Tuesday night to say she was "going to dig a hole" on the San Francisco shore.

Ms. Cromer's 6-year-old son lives with his father, a San Francisco attorney, officials said.

Roloff is asking the appeals court to overrule the Austin judge who ordered the Corpus Christiarea homes closed. State District Judge Charles Mathews also set a $22,-850 penalty for Roloff. The judge said Roloff was in contempt of a previous court order to get the licenses that Roloff defiantly resisted.

Meredith said Wednesday that Department of Human Resources staffers who checked the Roloff homes have never testified the vouths they saw were under 18.

'They've got to prove the operation was going on with children under 18," he said.

He also argued the state inspectors failed to determine if the youths they saw were residents of the facility, visitors or children of Roloff staff members. The state license would not be needed if the youths were over 18, children of staff members or staying temporarily while their parents were at church ser-

Hostages held by armed leftists in San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Cheering crowds brought food to armed leftists holding the ambassador and seven others hostage in the Spanish Embassy while radical high school students continued to hold hundreds of hostages in the Education Ministry.

The government's military leaders, exercising "all caution," made no effort to force either group of leftists from the occupied buildings. Those in the embassy, numbering about 20, vowed to stay there until their demands were met.

Government sources said ambassadors of several Latin American countries were negotiating for the release of the embassy hostages.

The leftists who took over the embassy Tuesday were members of the Feb. 28 Popular Leagues, or LP-28.

Infant's teeth full of decay

EDITOR'S NOTE: The 32nd annual National Children's Dental Health Week is being observed this week. As part of the week's activities, The Midland Reporter-Telegram, in cooperation with the Permian Basin Hygienists' Study Group, is publishing six articles on dental health. This is the fifth in a series.

QUESTION: My nephew is just nine months old and his teeth are full of decay. He mainly consumes formula and juices, and of course he does not eat candy. What could have caused this extensive decay?

ANSWER: It sounds as if your nephew may be suffering from a condition known as "nursing bottle mouth." A baby who is given a bottle at bedtime can be a prime candidate for this condition of rampant dental

As soon as a child's teeth appear, they are susceptible to decay. The teeth can be badly damaged if the baby is regularly put to bed for naps and at night with a bottle filled with sugary liquids. Formula, fruit juices, as well as sugary soft drinks, are all very dangerous in a bedtime nursing

As the liquids containing sugar are consumed, they combine with the sticky, colorless bacterial plaque that constantly forms on everyone's teeth. By interacting with the bacteria in plaque, the sugars from the liquid form acids that eat away at the baby's tooth enamel. The teeth become so weakened by decay that they may break or become very difficult, if not impossible, to restore.

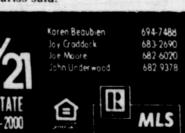

During the day, saliva can wash away much of the sugar and acids from the mouth. But while sleeping, the child's saliva production decreases and that allows the acids to remain longer in contact with the teeth. It is the length of time that these acids are on the teeth that is the factor in decay.

the broadening experience of a fiveday tour of Washington, D.C., and the opportunity to make lasting friendships with the other state winners,

In the 18 years the VFW has been sole sponsor of the VOD program, more than 3,000,000 high school students have participated. Participants write and then tape-record a three to five minute broadcast script expressing their views on their role in America's future. From among the state winners, five national winners are chosen to receive a total of $22,500 in scholarships.

"One of the greatest benefits to young people who take part in the program is that by thinking, writing and speaking up for their country, they gain a better appreciation of their obligation to maintain our nation's freedom heritage," Commander Phariss said.

Second chance at happiness

DEAR ABBY: Two and a half years ago I married a lovely girl named Ramona. She was 20 and I was 26. It was the first marriage for both of us. On our honeymoon, Ramona was killed. (Thank God it wasn't my fault. Ramona was driving.)

I am getting married again. It will be the first marriage for Suzie. She wants a big wedding, which I

After Ramona's funeral I asked everyone if they wanted their gifts back, and they all said no. Also, should I send a wedding invitation to Ra-

Kellogg agrees to settle sex bias case

WASHINGTON (AP) - Kellogg Co. of Battle Creek, Mich., has agreed to a $575,000 settlement of government allegations that the cereal company discriminated against women employees at its Omaha, Neb., plant, according to the U.S. Labor Department.

The company awarded $155,950 in back pay to 287 women, 140 of whom will divide an additional $141,-750 as incentive pay for taking jobs traditionally held by men, the department said Wednesday.

The remaining money will be spent on affirmative action efforts to encourage women to take jobs previously held only by men, said the department. Specifically, Kellogg promised to attempt to fill 40 ING IN INDIANA percent of new openings for mechanics and laborers

DEAR GETTING: Don't put "no gifts" on your wedding invitations; leave it up to the guests. (Even though your friends and family gave once, this is Suzie's first marriage, and discouraging gifts would be unfair to her.)

Tell Ramona's folks personally - and soon. If they're still grieving, don't send them an invitation to your wedding. Good luck. I wish you joy.

DEAR ABBY: Before my husband married me, really don't want. But, for her sake, we are he had a girlfriend who was the ultimate in charm, beauty, manners, etc.

Lest I forget this, my mother-in-law reminds me

Finally, one day, when I had it up to here, I said, "Listen, Barbara is gone, and I am here, so you can shut the hell up!

My husband agrees that I am the injured party, but he wants me to apologize. But don't you think his mother was wrong in the first place? - SUCCES-

DEAR SUCCESSOR: She was wrong, but you were rude. Apologize.

DEAR ABBY: God bless you for saving not only my sanity, but my life.

A little more than a year ago you suggested I come to terms with a serious drinking problem and seek out Alcoholics Anonymous. It turned out not only to be a life-saver, but also an entirely new life and serenity I never knew before

With my brothers and sisters in AA, I have learned I am not alone as I once so deeply felt. But most importantly, I have learned how to care for others and myself and maybe for the first time in my life, I know how to love another human being

I took you up on your suggestion of AA, Abby, and with the fellowship's help and my staying with my Higher Power, I celebrated a complete year of sobriety this January!

Of those readers going through the hell of alcohol addiction, please tell them what AA has to offer, that it is there for the taking with no questions, dues and fees. And what AA has to offer is LIFE, not only a sober one, but a beautiful one.

Thank you again for my life, Abby. - RECOVER-

WESTERN FINISH DEAR RECOVERING: Don't thank me. I merely threw you a lifeline; YOU caught it!

Tips for all you lucky ladies who received new sewing machines for your 1980 sewing: 1. Do not panic than never to have loved at all. This has necessitated insurance companies for the first time to put an estimate on the worth of a woman who runs a household, raises children, tends a husband, cooks, does laundry, and directs finances. They have come up with a figure of $355 a week as a minimum wage for a full-time wife.

As I look around me, the problem of "spousal maintenance" becomes a simple matter of mathematics. At $355 a week, the yearly cost of a wife amounts to $18,460. With the national income averaging far below that amount and with the rising costs of food, utilities and clothing, it must be apparent to you as it is to me that too many men have wives whom they cannot afford. Despite the fact that women are the biggest bargain going today, men are living above their

Now I'm not suggesting that wives be declared a luxury to be enjoyed only by the rich. Most of us are reasonable and would like even the working man to benefit by our wonderfulness. One solution might be to employ wives on a part-time basis.

Affairs of the heart have always captured the attention of poets and novelists. Sentimentalists have ordained the month of February in celebration of St. Valentine as the occasion for exchanging vows of affection. # MHS CHATTER Catoico first, then Valentine's Think back on your childhood days when Valentine's Day meant white sacks lined up on the window sill, homemade valentines, school time taken out for a party of cookies, punch and candy hearts, and best of all, getting to chew gum during class.

We all know how we celebrate St. Valentine's Day in the United States, but other countries celebrate Feb. 14 differently. In Italy a feast is held; people in Denmark send pressed snowdrop flowers to special friends; in Great Britain, special songs are sung.

In one English town a young man secretly leaves a basket of gifts on his loved one's doorstep, then knocks on the door and runs away. How many of you guys have tried this one? Most Valentine's Day customs are concerned with romance or the choice of a mate. Single girls have many ways of learning the identity of their future husbands.

Here at MHS we have our own special way of celebrating Valentine's Day. That's right: The National Honor Society telegram sales. A reminder: You can also send revenge telegrams. Go by the trophy toom either lunch and write them yourself. If you are really sweet on someone, send a red carna-tion. MHS will deliver.

Play your cards right because starting Monday, all membership cards will be checked when entering the Youth Center. "If you need a replacement, get it before Monday. We are having too many non-members coming in and tearing up the place and equipment," says Rasco.

AT LAST, WINTERTIME is here with a glistening celebration in Winter Wonderland brought to MHS in the form of CATOICO! Coronation starts at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the auditorium with the crowning of the queen and presentation of the other court members and their escorts. Then the entertainment takes place with lots of singing and dancing. That's not all. The favorites will also be presented.

The price of coronation is $1 for students and $2 for adults. You wouldn't believe how great the set looks. The art department is so proud of its work, and you will, too, when you see it.

Following coronation, everyone will be floating behind the angels to the Youth Center, where the band of Crystal Image (the great band brought back by popular demand from the Homecoming performance) will be playing. It will be worth going just to see the court waltzing with their dads. The dance is from 9 to 1 at $7 a couple.

ALL 100 CLUB, Junior Council, Student Council reps. Cabinet members and anyone else who would like to help decorate for the dance, come to the Youth Center at 9 a.m. Saturday. It has to be decorated, so please help. And then, after you've had the best time of your life, come on back to the YC and catch up on the night before while you clean up at 2 p.m. Sunday. Rasco says, "I think it is time everyone did his share of the work and not just enjoy what a few do to make it enjoyable for all. Let's all work together for a

RINGING THE BELL He believed in freedom

"He believed in freedom," declares an editorial from the Hobbs News Sun. "Only once in a century, maybe less frequently, comes there a man, or woman, so dedicated to freedom and the rights of other human beings as was the late Justice William O. Douglas, who died recently at the age of 81. While most of us in the free world believe in freedom in a general way - that is to say we are for it, but do precious little to preserve it for ourselves and others — this rare commodity was the speical preoccupation of Douglas.

"For 36 long years on the high court he ruled on the side of justice for minorities, the downtrodden, the poor and the disinherited. He believed, as our Constitution conclusions. stitution so clearly states, that all people who live under the protection of this nation must enjoy the rights its most revered document guarantees.

"Freedom, in his view, was not merely for the majority, the powerful, the rich or the privileged; and he lived up to this belief as have few leaders in history, not too long before his death, Douglas declared that the United States is admired by other nations not for its military might on its vestite and the residence of the military might on its vestite or the residence of the military might on its vestite or the residence of the military might on its vestite or the residence of the military might on its vestite or the residence of the military might or its vestite or the residence of the military might or its vestite or the residence of the military might or its vestite or the residence of the military might or its vestite or the residence of the military might or its vestite or nations not for its military might or its wealth or scientific achievement, but for the First Amendment to our Constitution — the guarantee of freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of the press ....And again he was stressing these rights for all Americans regardles of their color, their political affiliations, their religious beliefs, or the lack of

"It is unfortunate that Douglas' life and example are not better known to more young Americans. Almost as an ironic footnote to his life, work and beliefs, a poll taken among America's high achieving teen-agers reported recently that 65 percent of them across the nation believe in censorship of the nation's free press."

Otchids to the News Sun for this tribute.

ON THE CONTROVERSIAL Rufus Shaw and his book, "How to Be a Rich Nigger": The Southern Methodist University graduate (Masters degree) recently signed to appear weekly in a new talk show segment on television's The Midnight Special. Says Shaw: "I've always felt that you can make enough money to finance everthing you do. But one of the hardest things in the world is to get a black person to finance another black person's project."

The Dallas-born black continued: "We have to concentrate more on what we are doing to hold ourselves back. Our ignorance of the capitalistic system, our ignorance of economics, our lack of desire to be involved are some of our biggest prob-

RECENT GREAT QUOTES — "Kennedy's trou-bles are further heightened by the decision of some black opinion makers to withhold their endorsements until after a February convention that will try to develop a black agenda.....Kennedy's 17-year Senate record gives him a claim on the votes of issue-oriented black Democrats, but the contest for black votes is still unsettled." — Julius Bond in a recent syndicated column.

New York Freedom House, a New York national organization, has issued an annual report and found 1979 to be a year of "expanding freedom," grading 42 percent of the world's population as "not free," 37 percent "free" and the remaining 21 percent "partly free." South Africa is defined as a "partly free" country, although a black might expect to find more individual liberty in a "not free" country like Hungary or Yugoslavia. Until later, peace.

South should take the first trick with the nine of hearts and return a diamond for a finesse. If this works, South has ten easy tricks.

REGAINS TRICK

The finesse fails, and West returns a trump. South cashes the ace of diamonds, leads a club to the ace and discards a club on the king of diamond regaining the trick lost by the diamond finesse.

Now South can take the king of clubs and ruff a club. When the clubs break favorably, South leads a third round of trumps to dummy and discards a spade on the South would need the head-on play in spades only if the diamond finesse lost and the clubs broke unfavorably.

FCC says repeal of 'equal time' law not needed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Communications Commission's general counsel told a House subcommittee today that repeal of the so-called 'equal time' requirements might be unnecessary.

Robert R. Bruce said the FCC has limited the definition of a qualified presidential candidate in such a way that broadcasters are not likely to face dozens of requests for equal time.

"To be legally qualified nationwide, candidates for the presidential and vice presidential nomination must meet state qualifications for the ballot in at least 10 states," Bruce said. "Since only candidates who have 'legally qualified' are entitled to 'equal opportunities,' this has the effect of narrowing the obligation imposed by the rule."

The "equal time" provision is a section of the federal Communications Act. It specifies that if a candidate for an office obtains air time, all candidates for the same office must be given "an equal opportunity" to present their views. It covers both free and paid time.

"The public needs information to vote intelligently," said Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., the communications subcommittee chairman and one of the bill's two sponsors.

'The broadcast journalist needs the freedom to provide that information with no other restrictions than editorial judgment.

Van Deerlin's subcommittee also heard today from Patrick J. Lucey, the deputy presidential cam-paign manager for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Lucey said Kennedy supports the bill because he believes it would lead broadcasters to devote more free time to campaign coverage.

Van Deerlin's bill would apply only to presidential and vice presidential campaigns. It would not affect the provisions governing air time sold to candi-

The bill would make it possible for the broadcast media to air debates, documentaries and other programs on some candidates without having to air comparable programs on the other candidates.

The idea is not new. Congress temporarily suspended the law in 1960 to allow the television networks to cover the Kennedy-Nixon debates. And in 1971, both the House and Senate agreed on a repeal measure only to see it vetoed by then President Richard M. Nixon.

The Federal Communications Commission has also amended the original interpretation of the law to allow coverage of debates sponsored by third parties, such as the League of Women Voters, the backer of the 1976 debates between President Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

Public interest groups have attacked the bill because of its effect on third-party and minor candi-

Heidi P. Sanchez of the Media Access Project said in a statement, "This bill will not facilitate robust debate. It will authorize broadcasters to increase their domination of the minds of the listening and viewing public by discriminating among political opponents and advancing the candidacies of anyone the broadcasters choose."

Mermaid statue may be crude, but it's noticed

GARLAND, Texas (AP) — If a crude statue of a mermaid erected atop a seafood restaurant was put there to attract attention, it has to be considered a success.

But some local residents consider the eight-foot, topless mermaid - whose breasts are tipped with bright red paint — atrocious and want it removed from their community.

The restaurant owner, Bob Flanigan, admits he brought the controversy on himself, hoping to boost business. He even admits the mermaid is "ugly."

In fact, Flanigan said he called Dallas television stations and newspapers himself, posing as an irate citizen complaining of a "naked woman" atop his

He claims since then a lot of people have called to complain.

"That's what I expected. That's why I put it up there — to create a lot of noise," Flanigan says. The Garland Daily News reported it has received periodic calls from residents complaining of the mermaid, but so far city officials have not received a formal complaint.

It has not been determined that the statue breaks any law. A city ordinance bans the public display of "female breasts of the adult human body.

But Flanigan says, "Me. maids aren't human. They're creatures.'

Farmers may learn of U.S. help soon

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — A decision will be made soon on whether to start an additional paid diversion program for farmers to help cut next year's corn production in light of the Russian grain embargo. says Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

"We've already announced set-asides in which all growers who stay within normal crop acreages are entitled to price supports," Bergland said Wednesday. "What's currently under study is whether or not to have a paid diversion program to reduce the corn acreage modestly. If we do, it will target on erodable

At a news conference, Bergland said if the new program is approved, the decision would be made locally on which land it would include, largely by Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service

Bergland, who was on the second day of a campaign swing through Illinois on behalf of President Carter, defended the president's embargo of grain against the Soviet Union. He said a decision will be made by March 1 whether to start the new program.

"Exports are booming," he said. "We're going to ship more corn overseas without the Russians this year. Exports of soybeans will break all previous

He said the export business around the world is continuing to grow despite the ban on sales to the Soviet Union. This year's exports are 150 million tons of grain, an all-time high, he said.

"The Russians are not that important. The Japanese will buy twice as much as the Russians and that goes without much fanfare, but we've got this obsession with the Soviet Union that has given them more leverage and clout than they're worth.' Bergland admitted that the United States is still committed to selling Russia another 8 million metric tons of grain next year, the fifth year of a five-year grain exporting contract, regardless of the embar-

Birds talk with learned symbols

By DANIEL Q. HANEY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Ever wonder what birds would say if they could talk? Well, judging from the first known bird conversation on record, their chitchat probably would include food. In an experiment directed at Harvard by noted behaviorist B.F. Skinner, "two pigeons engaged in a sustained and natural conversation without human got his own grain reward. intervention," says a scientific report The discussion, of course, involved bird feed.

The scientists say that as far as they know, this is the first time that birds - or any of the lower vigorously pecked at the restraining partition," they animals other than chimps - have talked to each noted. other through the use of learned symbols.

Pecking away in adjoining cages, the birds were able to award each other handouts of grain by correctly identifying hidden colors.

The adventures of this boy-girl team of white Carneaux pigeons, named Jack and Jill, were described in a report in the journal Science.

'One pigeon can transmit information to another entirely through the use of symbols," the researchers concluded.

The experimenters set up the feathery conversation by placing the birds in side-by-side cages separated by a Plexiglas partition.

At this point, Jack hit a button labeled "thank you," and a bit of grain poured out in Jill's cage. Then Jack pecked a color-coded button in his cage that corresponded to the letter pressed by Jill and

"It all depends on how you define communication," Skinner said in an interview. "If you define it properly, then I think this would be an example. I think this is the kind of thing that goes on with human verbal communication.' Skinner's work over the years has demonstrated how behavior is controlled by reinforcement.

Ags rebound against SMU

By JOE STROOP Associated Press Writer

Texas A&M's "Great Wall," which showed some cracks against Texas Tech, apparently got quick fix from Coach Shelby Metcalf and 48 hours later was as solid as ever.

The Aggies lost a 10-point game to the Red Raiders in Lubbock, but manhandled Southern Methodist at College Station Wednesday for a 67-56 win and a temporary half-game lead in the Southwest Conference race.

Junior forwards Rynn Wright and Vernon Smith combined for 37 points and sophomore center Rudy Woods collected ten points, nine rebounds and five blocked shots in the win.

In the only other SWC game Wednesday, Texas Christian played a generous host to Texas, as the Longhorns breezed to a 90-62 win.

Tonight, Arkansas visits Baylor and Tech

The Aggie win gives them a 10-1 SWC mark, while Arkansas stands at 9-1.

The difference in the A&M win was a scoring spurt early in the second half, as the Aggies outscored the Mustangs 14-6 in the first 10 minutes and SMU, which had hit 55 percent in the first half, could collect just two field goals in 15 tries during that stretch.

"SMU played a good game, very deliberate, and they made us work for the win," said Metcalf, but he pointed out a second-period defensive change as the difference.

"In the second half we dropped back and stopped their penetration," he said, as the Aggies forced SMU into some low-percentage perimeter shots. "When we stopped their penetration we moved out in front.'

SMU coach Sonny Allen, who drew a technical foul protesting an offensive goaltending call, saw the same result from a different perspective.

"The second-half cold streak got us behind early and we had to battle back all of the second half," he said. "If we got a break we still had a chance. A couple of goaltending calls and missed shots got us behind."

In Fort Worth, though, the Horned Frogs could not get within shouting distance of Texas once the second half was underway.

"We played them well for a while but we finally just wore out," said TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth. "Unless we hit 60 or 70 percent from the field we're not going to beat a team like Texas. They're just better than we are."

But Texas Coach Abe Lemons said his two starting seniors, Ron Baxter and John Danks, are the prime reason for that.

"I think what Killer (Killingsworth) said is true - you take away Baxter and Danks and we're pretty much even," he said. "It makes a lot of difference when you've got some seniors on Danks hit 22 points against the Frogs and Baxter added 10.

The win raised Texas' league record to 7-5, while the Froggies dropped to 2-10. SMU is now

Abilene could give Lee hopes shot in arm

Tonight's District 5-4A basketball slate could be just what the Midland Lee Rebels have been waiting on.

Lee (4-1), the winner of the first half chase, has been waiting for Odessa High (4-0) to stump its toe in the second half, but the Bronchos keep on winning. But this could be the part of the schedule the Rebs have been waiting on. Odessa High hosts Abilene High tonight and that could be a tough one for the Bronchos. AHS is coming off an impressive win over Midland High last Monday and the Eagles, also at 4-1 in the second half, still have playoff hopes of their own.

Lee, meanwhile, hosts Big Spring at 8 p.m. in the Lee gym and Big Spring has not had a victory in five outings of the second half. Lee needs only a share of the second half title to earn the playoff berth since they won the first half outright. So, at this point, the Rebs are not concerned with Abilene High, but they desperately need someone to knock off the Bronchos in the second half or they will face a district playoff for the right to enter the state's run for roses.

Good things came in small - and - packages for the Kentucky Wildcats Wednesday night. And once they unwrapped Kyle Macy and Sam Bowie, the party was over for the Mississippi Rebels. Macy scored 28 points and Bowie collected 15 more and blocked six shots as fifth-ranked Kentucky defeated Ole Miss, 86-72.

"Macy was playing with great con-fidence," Mississippi Coach Bob Weltlich said of Kentucky's fine guard. "There isn't much you can plan against a player like that. We just tried to do the best job we could in guarding him.'

Macy scored eight of his gameleading points in an 18-2 second-half run that helped Kentucky break the game open against Mississippi. John Stroud, the Southeastern Conference's leading scorer, had 27 points for the Rebels.

Sampson scored 16 of his points in the second half, and the Cavaliers needed just about every one. Virginia's 7-foot-4 center contributed several key baskets, including a layup with just under six minutes to go, to boost the Cavaliers into a four-point lead they never lost.

Derek Smith scored a career-high 26 points and Darrell Griffith scored 13 and became the first player in Louisville history to hit the career 2,000-point level in the Cardinals' victory over Cincinnati. Griffith finished the game with 2,005 points for his four-year career.

"I think Louisville's defense is built on quick spurts. You've seen that all season," said Cincinnati Coach Ed Badger. "Our game plan was not to get into a running match with them. We started out and got behind them and wanted to attack.

Midland College, 10-1 in league and 21-2 for the season, is a game behind Western Texas College, 23-0 and ranked No. 1 in the nation. Coach Jerry Stone's Chaparrals need a win over the Broncos to remain in hot pursuit of Western and also to keep Odessa College, yapping at their heels, at bay. OC is 9-2 in WJCC

NMMI is 4-5 in league play and involved in a battle with Frank Phillips, Howard College and Amarillo College for fourth place and an invitation to the Regional Tournament to be held in the Tall City in March.

Joseph Brown leads the Institute in scoring with a 15.9 average and Carlos Judkins is NMMI's top rebounder with 9.1 per game. Robert Tate's 18.2 per game leads MC and is sixth best scoring average in the league. Tim Shelby and Jeff Ray are No. 3 and 4, respectively, in assists while Tate's 55 of 67 from the line ranks in second in free throw percent-

Some 76 of the 89 members of the self-elected, self-perpetuating IOC, the ruling body of the Games, are expected for the Lake Placid session. Some have already arrived and have indicated they are backing killanin and standing firm against Carter's boycott call.

Killanin arrives at Lake Placid to fight boycott

Julian K. Roosevelt, one of the two IOC members from the United States, kept up his campaign to keep the Olympic Games in Moscow, despite the world reaction against the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

"I have heard it said that a boycott of the Olympics would be the strongest weapon we could use against the Russians," Roosevelt said before Killanin arrived. "If that is the strongest thing we can do, we have no Washington.

'The United States would be a bunch of cowards if we stayed home. The only way we can stand up to the Soviets is to go over there and beat them in Moscow this summer."

Killanin plans to meet Friday with Robert Kane and Col. F. Donald Miller, president and secretary, respectively, of the U.S. Olympic Committee, which has promised to pass on Carter's call for moving or cancelling the Killanin told the news conference he is ready to

George Burns takes golf lesson for Hawaiian

HONOLULU (AP) - George Burns, having just won his first big professional golf tournament, says he'll be taking a lesson today. "I'm paired with Tom Watson and Jerry Pate in the first round of the Hawaiian Open and I can learn from each of them," said Burns, who comes off victory in the tough Bing Crosby event at Pebble Beach, Calif., last weekend.

"I'll watch both of them closely. I'll be taking some mental notes and I'll learn something. I played with Ben Crenshaw in the team championships last year and I learned a lot."

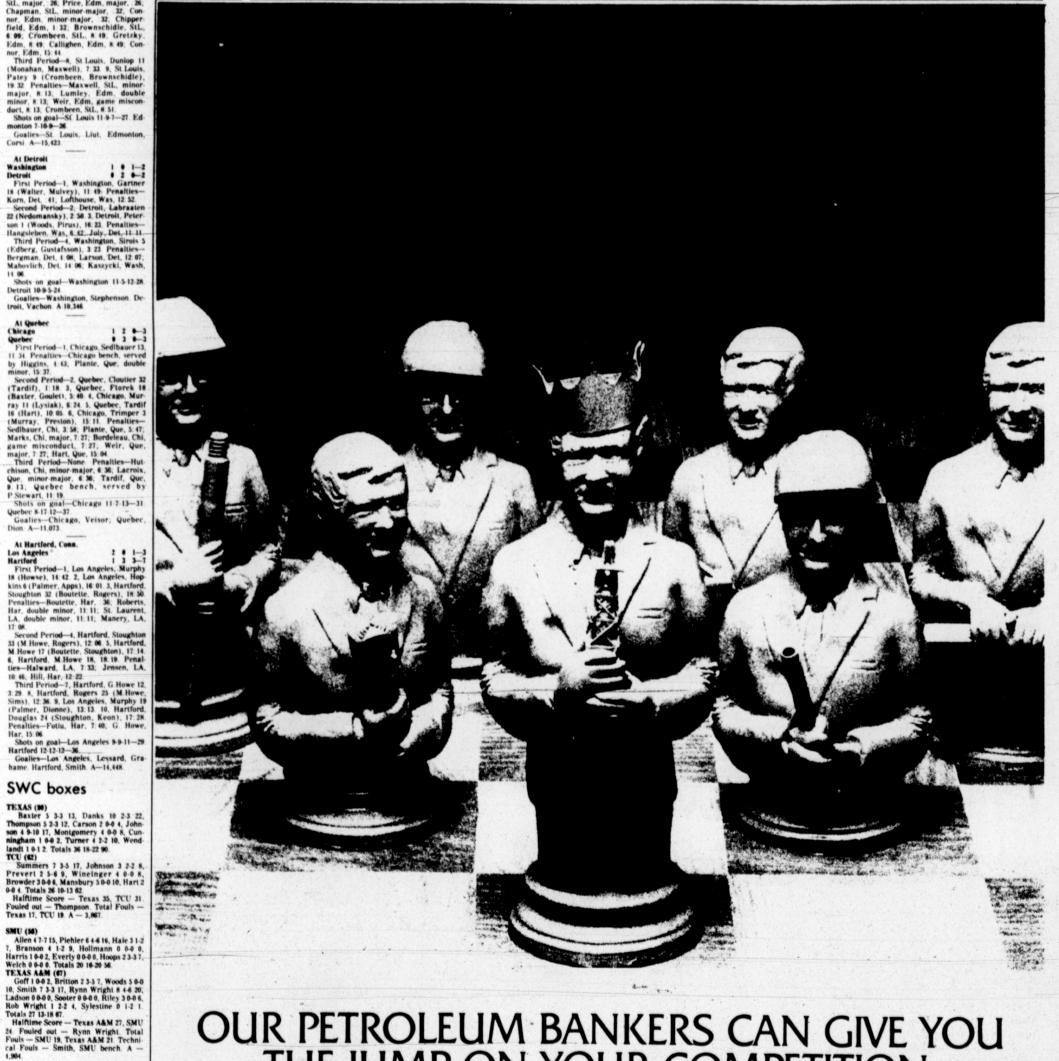

Burns and Crenshaw won the team title. "I'm still searching for a lot." Burns said. "There is no such thing as instant success.

The 210-pound former University of Maryland golfer joined a field of 144 in the $325,000 Hawaiian event with its $58,500 first prize. His victory at Pebble Beach was worth $54,000. Even without an individual victory in 1979, he collected $107,830 in prize money. The 72-hole event includes Hubert Green, who won on this 7,234-yard, par 36-36-72 Waialae Country Club course the last two years.

Burns had a special reason to be pleased to be in the threesome with former U.S. Open champion Pate and Watson, the leading Professional Golfers Association money-winner the past three years.

'This is the first time I've been paired with such winners. I consider Watson the greatest player in the game today," said Burns. "He's got to do something I can use to my benefit. Anybody who earned one-half million dollars in a year, with the kind of competition he had, has to be some sort of a player."

Whether you know it or not, striper fishing in most Texas reservoirs is now happening.

That means the month of February can, and usually will, produce more stripers in larger sizes than most months of the year. It also means that you can actually freeze your "can" off while on the lake chasing the striped bass.

Latest striper fishing reports from Latest striper fishing reports from around the Lone Star State find that most lakes that have ample striper populations are now producing tons of trophy-size stripers.

We are going to take a look at Texas striper lakes that are currently producing nice catches, but we first need to take a look at how stripers are being caught.

In most cases, it doesn't matter about the technique for catching stripers in most Texas lakes because they are basically the same. So for good measure, we will discuss various methods of catching stripers that will, on most occasions, produce for you.

IN FEBRUARY, stripers tend to school in large concentrations. The method of finding surface schooling stripers is by far the best method. Once these schools are located, then it's just toss and reel, toss and reel. It's a sure fire bet, of course, to find out first from marina operators and striper fishing experts about vicinities where the lake stripers have been schooling before launching the boat. This is usually no problem since most marina operators keep up with a fish bite. It is also great to watch the diving and feeding seagulls. Feeding birds will follow schools of shad and this is what stripers tend to forage

The schooling striper, once on the surface, will hit just about anything thrown. But some good baits for those schoolers are large topwater poppers, topwater stickbaits and long shadtype crankbaits. The crankbaits can either be a shallow runner or deep diver. It usually doesn't matter.

This is the best method of catching some nice striped bass, but stripers don't always school on the surface. The next best method of locating stripers is by use of a depth sounder or chart recorder. Here again, some information from lecal fishermen or marina operators comes in handy. They generally know what region of the lake the fish have been caught. So, rely heavily on their suggestions.

THE DEPTH sounder, or graph recorder, is an almost must in locating suspended or bottom feeding striped bass. Following main river channels, or other creek beds, is a good procedure to follow. Keep that fish finder on at all times. Anything that looks unusual on either the chart recorder or depth sounder is a good bet of stripers below. At this time of year, most other species of fish do not school like stripers. So once you think you have spotted schools of fish below on the fish finder, give it a try. In most cases, you can find out quickly if they are stripers and if they are interesting in biting.

Gas

Type of baits used in deep water fishing are normally slab spoons for bottom feeding stripers and lighter bucktail and feather jigs for suspend-

Working a heavy slab spoon off the bottom is a good bet to limit in a hurry. Drop the slab to the bottom and retrieve with upward jerking motions by rod handling. Slabbing is a popular family fishing method. Most members of the family can perform the art of slabbing and sometimes catch a limit of big stripers.

For suspended fish, try lighter jigs, either the feather or bucktail jigs. These baits tend to flutter more and will not sink as fast as slab spoons. Perform the same basic artwork as you might do in slabbing, but remember your jig is not being bounced off the bottom. You are jigging in open

ANOTHER GOOD method of locating and catching stripers is by trolling. For those without depth sounders or chart recorders, this is by far the most popular method of catching

Deep diving hellbender and bomber ·lures are ideal baits for trolling. Troll slowly along creek and river channels. Stripers seem to follow these river beds in search of food. The magnum-sized baits are the best. They will work deeper.

Don't forget to try the two lure method of trolling. Take a magnum hellbender or bomber and remove the back trebel hook. Take a piece of 30-pound monofilament line about 30inches long and tie on a jig or grub. Tie the end onto the eye where you removed the back trebel hook. This makes an ideal trolling rig. And in most cases, the striper will be taken on the leader. The front lure serves as a downrigger. This is relatively a new method, but has been working on most Texas reservoirs.

If you've got all these basic striper techniques down, then all you have to do is locate stripers. If they are cooperating at all then these three methods are surely going to produce for you. Several lakes in Texas offer great February striper fishing. By fishing the methods described above, you can find biting stripers. We'll now take a look at the state's best winter striper

WHITNEY: This Central Texas reservoir, relatively a new lake for stripers, is now producing a lot of stripers in the five to 10-pound category. However, the chances of latching onto one considerably larger is possible. Favorite methods of catching stripers on Whitney is by hunting for schooling stripers and trolling.

TEXOMA: The state record striper still holds at this Oklahoma-Texas border lake, but Texas Parks and Wildlife biologists are predicting a new record to come from Texoma this Popular fishing places on this lake are Eisenhower Point, Preston Point and a place called "Striper Alley" an area situated in the deep water near the lake's dam. Trolling is the preferred means of locating Texoma AMISTAD: The upcoming new reservoir, half on Mexico land and half on Texas soil, is now producing some of the finest striper action in the state. H.C. (Smokey) Janes, professional fishing guide on Amistad for seven years, thinks Amistad is on the verge of a striper explosion. So far, this winter striper fishing has been superb. A lot of 10 to 15 pounders have been taken and February should be even better.

Most striper action centers in the Rio Grande arm of this sprawling reservoir and in front of the dam. Favorite method is slabbing over deep water creek channels. TOLEDO BEND: If you can take your mind off crappie and bass fishing long enough, this East Texas water impoundment can offer some of the state's finest striper fishing. The state record has been jiggled back and forth from Toledo to Texoma. They are predicting a new record here too.

JIM MURRAY Winning, not records, only concern of Wszola

By JIM MURRAY Los Angeles Times Syndicate

All over the world, athletes, Olympic gold medal winners and Olympic gold medal hopefuls, are plunged in gloom. For years they have painstakingly pushed their best personal records to world or Olympian heights with a view to a glorious culmination on a victory stand in Moscow in 1980 where their achievements could finally be enshrined in gold. For months they have been praying that armies won't march, fleets won't sail, regimes won't fall, diplomats won't blunder, embassies won't be stormed, borders won't be crossed and rockets won't rattle. Because, while peace conferences may go on, the Games

In the midst of the uncertainty, sincere training is the first casualty of political confrontation. Sports in a free world is a sacrifice. In a police state, it's a privilege. It's hard to maintain your form when you think your work may have a character of uselessness.

At least one holder of the Olympic gold, won at Montreal in 1976, does not have to worry if the Soviet armies plunge clear down to the Arabian Sea or if its gunboats appear off the Gulf

If you are not an athlete, you might have felt sorry for Jacek Wszola (pronounced "Schola"), brought up in Warsaw which, even in summer, is hardly Santa Barbara. But, if your heart's desire is an Olympic gold medal in this Year of Our Lord, it's good to be in a part of the world the U.S. Congress or State Department or White House can't touch, no matter how bad the weather or how cruel the secret police. The rest of Poland may well wish it were answereable only to the Congress instead of the Politburo. Poland is not a country, it's a partition. Poland has been partitioned off more times than a one-bedroom apartment over the centuries by Napoleon, the Germans, the Russians, even the Swedes, and it's been a bloody corridor between warring powers since medieval times. Like all countries where the Romans never went, it has always been a century or so behind, fighting horses with knives at one time and tanks with horses

BUT IT has had impressive successes in Olympics in recent years. despite its benighted political status. In 1976, Poland had its greatest success ever in the Games, three gold medals, two to the men and one to a woman. Wszola won the high jump, and Padeusz Slusarski, the pofe vault, and Irina Szewinska, the women's 400

Joke in the press box ("He can't even climb 7-6, was the witicism"). He was only sixth in the world and the event was supposed to belong to that eccentric old Harridan of the high jump, Dwight Stones. When the event was over, however, Stones was no better than third, and Wszola had directed a canny, well-thought-out campaign of jumps. The 19-year-old Pole disagreed with those who thought the rain had cramped Stones' style at Montreal. "Dwight," Jacek said, "was poor in competition. Because of a weak mind for it. He is strong where nobody is strong except him, but he is not so strong where everybody else is strong. He jumps for a record. I jump

Milers, sprinters, even hurdlers and pole vaulters may rejoice in the absence of Western athletes at Moscow this July, but Wszola sees his task as no less formidable despite the putative absence of Stones, and the silver medalist at Montreal, Greg Joy, and the American, Franklin Jacobs. "European jumpers are better than Americans now," he insists. "In Europe, we have eight jumpers over 7-6 1-2. I'm not worried about American jumpers. West Germany had four guys over 7-6 1-2, and one guy

Nor is it likely that 7-4 1-2 will win the high jump again as it did in Montreal, even if West Germany declines the issue. This is because Russia has two plus 7-6 1-2 jumpers, including Vladimir Yashchenko, who holds the world record at 7-8 12.

HIS PROSPECTS do not dismay Wszola, a slim youth who looks as if he'd spent his entire childhood playing the angel in the Christmas play. There is a phenomenon around a horse track every horse player knows. This is that records are relative. A horse may smash a track record and run a 1:33 mile against cheap horses. That same horse, thrust in with stouter-hearted horses. often falters — and may lose the race to a winner who only runs, say, 1:36. Wszola thinks this applies to him. "They worry about me when we were at the start line," he explains. "In a meet in Bremen last summer, there were two guys who had set 7-6's in competition. But I won with 7-4 3-4.

and the other was third with only Wszola competes against Franklin Jacobs in the Times Indoor Games Friday night in what may be one of the very last confrontations between East and West. # Hartford lands on Kings

By The Associated Press

The roof fell in again at the Hartford Civic Center Wednesday night but this time it landed on the Los Angeles Kings and it won't force the Hartford Whalers to find a new home.

"We were feeling our way around the rink and we were a little uptight in the first period," said Coach Don Blackburn. "We have a lot of new players who have never played here before and the new building had something do do with our start." .

After nearly two years of playing at the Spring field, Mass., Civic Center, 25 miles north of Hartford. the Whalers returned to their repaired coliseum for the first time since its roof collapsed under the weight of snow and ice two years ago

They fell behind 2-0 on goals by Mike Murphy and Dean Hopkins late in the first period. However, a power-play goal by Blaine Stoughton at 18:50 woke them up and they went on to defeat the Kings 7-3.

It was all Hartford after the first period against the slumping Kings, who have a 1-10-1 record over the past three weeks. Stoughton tied the score on a power-play goal and Mark Howe then scored two goals in a span of 65 seconds.

In the third period, 51-year-old Gordie Howe fired home a slap shot. It was his 12th goal of the season

Chicago tied it just 44 seconds later on Murray's rising shot from just inside the blue line. Marc Tardif tipped Gerry Hart's pass behind Chicago goalie Mike Veisor at 10:05 for a 3-2 Quebec lead but the Black Hawks used a penalty on Hart to tie the score again. Trimper scored on a rebound of a shot by Murray at 15:11, seven seconds after Hart was sent off.

In 1975, the year leading up to the Innsbruck Games, Klammer dominated downhill skiing. He won six World Cup downhills consecutively, and eight of nine. He was a world champion in downhill before he ever donned his country's Olympic uniform. hero, absent this time

WHEN KLAMMER began to prepare for his assault on Innsbruck's awesome downhill, he lived with the pressure of seven million Austrian partisans who had not seen a countryman win the Olympic downhill since 1964 in Innsbruck. The mighty skiing power of Austria was not satisfied to place its pride in Egon Zimmermann.

"I felt the pressure so badly, I could hardly concentrate," Klammer said. "Thank God I got it back in the race. There were so many people and so much fuss all around me.

After the Games, Klammer finally was able to emerge from a week of self-imposed seclusion in the athletes' village. He had been besieged by reporters, wellwishers and autograph seekers.

"Sometimes I think I can't stand it," he said. "But then I think, 'I can't let them down.'

He had won his first World Cup downhill in 1974 in Schladming, Austria, and two years later he was the best there was.

The following year, a readjustment of the rules made it possible for Klammer, skiing only in downhill, to challenge Stenmark for the overall World Cup title. It went down almost to the wire.

FOR WEEKS, the International Ski Federation debated where to move a downhill that couldn't be held in Sun Valley, Idaho because of lack of snow. The Austrians, understandably, wanted the race moved to Europe. They suggested Innsbruck or Schladming. World Cup officials, though, wanted to hold a downhill in the United States, where they have always felt they needed exposure. They settled on Heavenly Valley, Haaker remarked that the course was so slow an elderly woman walked down past him.

It was not Klammer's course. After a dismal effort, he sat on a hay bale at the finish line and wept. "I have lost the World Cup. I have lost the World Cup," he said again and again.

Last year, he came to Lake Placid to preview the course and to "improve my English." He had not won a World Cup downhill race since March 11, 1978 in Laax, Switzerland. He may never win another, and now the Olympics has lost him. It would have been worth the price of admission just to watch him glide through the finish line at Whiteface Mountain this month. Instead, younger skiers, some Austrian, will vie for the downhill medal, but they will not replace Franz Klammer.

In 1968 at Mexico City, Willie Davenport won a gold medal in the hurdles at the Summer Olympics. Now, at 36, Willie hopes to add a Winter gold to his collection as a member of four-man bobsled team. (AP Laserphoto)

No, it isn't toothpaste that makes them gleam

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jimmy Carter, owner of the most prominent set of teeth in the land, is being told by his dentist that he need not use tooth-

The dentist, Navy Capt. William H. Maastricht, said that when Carter sought his views on toothpaste, "I told him not to use any, unless he wants the taste.

Maastricht agrees with a sizable body of his colleagues in dentistry that the important thing is to move the bristles of a toothbrush over teeth and gums. Toothpaste is very secondary.

How does the president preserve his gleaming grin?

Maastricht related that he urged Carter to use waxed dental floss regularly, and added: "The next time I saw the president he hadn't missed a single surface. He had flossed so hard he'd caused abrasions.'

Mrs. Carter, the dentist confided. "is as meticulous about her teeth as the president is, but not so much to the nth degree.'

The 17-year Navy veteran discussed his dealings with his most famous patients with reporter Meryl Harris for a recent feature article in the weekly ADA News, the official organ of the American Dental Association.

Maastricht, whose regular assignment is as head of the staff dental clinic at the National Naval Dental Center, Bethesda, Md., sees Carter at the White House every three months.

The White House has its own small dental office, including a lean-back chair and all the accoutrements for drilling and, heaven forbid, yanking

Maastricht, who jogs about five miles daily, says they often discuss their mutual interest in running. Carter's zest for jogging has been well publicized, and he did nothing to deflate reports of his athletic endeavors when he appeared recently at a physical fitness conference. After speaking of his "strenuous exercise program," Carter told the conferees, "I have done this to an even greater degree during the last few months when I have had additional problems and burdens and responsibilities.

The president also reported:

"I can say with utmost truthfulness that very often my running, either within the White House grounds or alongside the canal on the towpath, is the high point of my day.

Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra hosts gifted violinist Mark Kaplan

The Midland-Odessa Symphony has been host to several extremely gifted young violinists during recent seasons. And certainly not the least of them, from the standpoint of talent or technique, is the most recent visitor, Mark Kaplan.

Kaplan came here this week for appearances with the orchestra in its fourth pair of season subscription concerts - Monday night in Odessa, Tuesday night in Midland's Lee High auditorium.

Kaplan, in his mid-20s, displays remarkable stage poise and presence. But, more important, he displays excellent technique and a commendable devotion to the task at hand, namely, making beautiful music.

Kaplan and the orchestra collaborated splendidly in that task, so that the Max Bruch Concerto No. 1 in G minor, Op. 26, came forth with great brio and considerable dimension and depth.

The concerto's three movements, Allegro moderato, Adagio and Allegro energico, were well-wrought by the guest artist and the orchestra under the baton of Dr. Tom Hohstadt.

This is a "warhorse" of a concerto, true, but it nonetheless has beauty and style; Kaplan, with his formidable talent, and the orchestra's instrumentalists proved that conclusively.

Kaplan offered Paganini's Caprice No. 24 as an encore to the audience. which had applauded long and loudly to the Bruch concerto. The concert here Tuesday night had a fine beginning with the orchestra's presentation of the Beethôven "Egmont" Overture. This. splendidly melodic work was given a good reading, I thought, by the various segments of the orchestra.

The second offering of the evening, Debussy's evocative and haunting Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun, was performed with requisite delicacy and lyricism, but at the same time the piece emerged with the strength it needs. The tonal subtleties of this work were effectively presented by woodwinds and strings.

Another "warhorse" on the program - ever so familiar to the ear and yet so pleasing to hear once again - was Mozart's grand and glorious Symphony No. 40 in G minor.

This work came forth beautifully in all its four movements. I thought the first movement, the Allegro molto, emerged particularly well. The Menuetto allegretto was also well done, and the concluding Allegro assai movement tied the whole thing up in splendid fashion

The final offering of the evening, the Four Scottish Dances by contemporary British composer Malcolm Arnold were unremarkable. although interesting and melodic. But these pieces have been done here within recent memory, I believe, and so I gave them only token attention. After all, there had been far more splendid things to enjoy earlier in the program!

- ROGER SOUTHALL.

Video cassette rock operas to be next rage, says Barnes

COLUMBUS, Ohic (AP) — Marshall Barnes is preparing for the day when teen agers go out to buy video cassettes of their favorite rock operas as easily as they now purchase stereo recordings.

Barnes, 20, has spent the last several months writing, directing and producing what he says is the first "video rock" album. With the help of several teen-age friends, Barnes has formed his own production company, Cowtown Records and Video Works. His first project, a 90-minute cassette, features local performers in a science-fiction plot. The program is expected to be ready by late February for airing on cable TV systems throughout Ohio and the Northeast.

Barnes said the production, entitled "Christopher," is the story of a future space traveler who is killed in outer space and then reincarnated as an American teen-ager.

As Christopher experiences life in the United States, his mind has dreamlike flashbacks to his earlier existence. Those flashbacks are portrayed in song and graphic design through the use of video computer techniques, Barnes said.

Barnes said he wants to make the album a "social commentary" with which teen-agers can identify.

I really got into music and drama in elementary school," he said. "They had an arts impact program where we'd get to meet performers and learn the business firsthand. After that, I formed a rock band and started writing and producing on my own.

The Columbus native is no stranger to television production. He's worked on several local cable programs. On one, "Marshall Barnes and Friends," he was host of a forum for local rock bands.

WALKING TALL-PART 2

Gere good; 'Gigolo' fair

By BOB THOMAS

'American Gigolo" is a murky morality play about a mindless whore who is bewildered when his profession lands him in deep, deep trouble. Richard Gere is a Los Angeles hustler who services rich women for money and humanitarian reasons as well, he says. His life among the rich is portrayed in slick, sensual style by director Paul Schrader, but writer Schrader has burdened the film with an ambivalent central character, as well as such lines as, "Some people are above the law," and,

'You ain't talking money, you're talking murder." Lauren Hutton plays a senator's wife who dallies with Gere: she is strangely unconvincing, as is the happy ending. The film may find a market because of its heavy sex, thumping music and especially Gere, an appealing actor who thus far has dealt only with the externalities of his screen characters. The R rating is warfanted by nudity, wide-ranging sex and blunt language.

David Williams of Sonoma, Calif., displays one of the colorful and imaginative tapestries which go on exhibit Friday in the McCormick Gallery at Midland College. The tapestries were woven by Egyptian children in the village of Harrania. Williams will present a special program on the tapestries Friday night in the Midland College recital hall. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

OC to host three members of UTEP music department

ODESSA - Three members of the music faculty of The University of Texas at El Paso will be guests of Odessa College in a recital of operatic arias and duets Friday night.

The 8 p.m. program in the Fine Arts Building recital hall at Odessa College will be free to the public.

The musical evening is being presented under sponsorship of the UTEP Music Department.

Scheduled to perform Friday night are Dr. Hugh Cardon, tenor, who has taught at UTEP since 1963 and currently is head of vocal studies; Dr. Arryl Paul, a UTEP faculty member since 1966 who currently serves as head of the university's piano department; and Thomas Allen, baritone, who came to UTEP in 1978.

Currently,he is assistant professor of music at the El Paso school in addition to maintaining a busy schedule of recital, operatic and oratorio

The recital program will feature operatic duets for tenor and baritone from such well-known operas as "La Boheme," "The Pearl Fishers," "Don Carlo" and "La Forza del Destino."

In addition, there will be operatic solos from "Tosca," "Andrea Chenier" and "Rigoletto," among others. The vocalists' piano accompanist, Dr. Paul, will perform the first movement from Grieg's Piano Sonata, Opus 7.

Red exports may show decline

TULSA, Okla. - Soviet oil exports to other nations in the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance (CMEA) appear to be headed for a decline, the Oil & Gas Journal

The Journal says a steadily worsening oil supply problem within the Soviet-dominated CMEA as a whole seems inevitable unless the USSR can achieve absolute control over a major Third World producing country and integrate its energy resources into the Soviet

The Soviet Union, however, will retain its role as a major energy exporter via increased exports of natural gas and electricity to Poland, East Germany, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania.

Other CMEA nations are Cuba, Viet Nam, and Mongolia.

Soviet oil deliveries to European-client states during the 1980s are expected to fall below the 1979 level of about 1.5 million barrels of oil a day despite ambiguous statements to the contrary by Soviet officials, the Jour-

At present, the USSR provides about 80 percent of the petroleum consumed by other CMEA members. The figure would be considerably higher except that Romania doesn't buy Soviet oil.

The Journal said the USSR wants to maintain maximum feasible oil exports to developed western nations to obtain foreign exchange for use in purchasing advanced technology. Even so, Soviet crude and products deliveries to non-Communist countries during the early 1980s are expected to skid from the recent level of 1.3-1.5 million barrels of oil a day.

The 10-nation CMEA is counting on nuclear power, natural gas, coal and strict conservation to insure its energy self-sufficiencey. Exotic energy sources are given short shrift by Communist planners in preparing for an oil-short decade, the Journal said. And, at least for the public record, the Soviet bloc expresses little interest in importing much more oil from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries through 1990.

CMEA nations have agreed to make intensive use of "absolutely safe" nuclear power and domestic lowgrade coal to generate electricity and provide space

Strict energy conservation measures have been decreed by all of the organization's members, with special emphasis on limiting petroleum products consumption. Despite harsh restraints on petroleum use, it is expected that most CMEA members will be forced to import a greater proportion of their oil requirements from sources outside the Soviet bloc during the 1980s. This poses serious financial problems for the small Communist countries, the Journal said. These nations are strapped for funds to purchase Soviet petroleum at discount prices using soft transferable rubles. Deeply in debt to developed capitalist nations, they would be staggered by the added burden of spending their extremely limited hard currency reserves for large volumes of OPEC oil at prevailing world prices.

It is estimated that total CMEA indebtedness to the West has leaped from less than $7.5 billion in 1971 to more than $50 billion.

Whatever their military, economic, and political contributions to Soviet power, the smaller CMEA nations represent an enormous drain on Soviet hydrocarbon resources and sharply limit the USSR's potential for hard currency earnings from foreign oil sales, the Journal said.

Saudis threaten crude cutback

DAVOS, Switzerland (AP) - Saudi Arabia and other oil-producing nations might lower production unless they are assured of a "reasonable return" to offset inflation, Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said

Yamani said the current rate of return on the investment of dollars earned by Saudi Arabia was "below zero" because of inflation and added:

"Unless we assure ourselves of a reasonable return over and above the inflation rate, I do not think we will continue to produce at the current

This view, Yamani told an international business symposium here, is shared by the other oil-producing states in the Arabian Gulf.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices advanced steadily in heavy trading today, carrying the market's early-1980 rally to new highs.

No bank worth its deposits is without a staff of its own. Consulting services thrive. Writers of economic letters, often claiming a unique insight, cash in on the everlasting quest to know the future.

Ironically, the very unfathomability of today's events seem to assure a future for forecasters, including those who deal with the economy in general - and gold, commodities, interest rates and the

NRC cites builders of nuclear plant

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) - The builders of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant near here have been cited for a construction violation because they failed to install a required floor support.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, in a report released Wednedsay, said furthermore that the builders, Brown & Root Inc., approved the error after the work in the area had been finished.

The floor supports were designed for an emergency control panel at the $1.7 billion plant. The panel would be used to-operate controls one of the reactors if an emergency slutation kept operators from using the main control room.

Dave Chapman, quality assurance manager for the utility company financing the project, said, "It's kind of hard for us to see how any important function of the plant could be compromised in this in-

Chapman said "the safeguarding of the reactor would not be compromised" if the omission of the floor supports had gone undetected.

Sears opens new store in Odessa shopping mall

ODESSA - Sears Roebuck and Co. Wednesday opened its new store in the Permian Mall here. Harold Bates, manager of Sears operations in Odessa, said the two-level structure has 146,300 gross square feet of space, including a 15-stall, 9,500-square foot attached Automotive Center. The store also has approximately 800 parking spaces. The Odessa project is one of nine stores the company plans to open in the Southwest in 1980. It also is part of the company's national expansion program over the next five years, which includes 239 retail stores at a cost of $2 billion. West Texas is a major factor in Sears' expansion plans, according to W.C. Lochmoeller, executive vice president for Sears' 11-state Southwestern Ter-"The company's store expansion program has been Sun Belt-oriented over the past few years," Lochmoeller noted, "and that trend is going to continue. In West Texas, for example, we opened a new store in Lubbock in 1977. San Angelo and Abilene opened new stores last summer and Sears in Midland Mall will open this July. In addition, we have announced a new store for Amarillo to open in

Teachers, Clements clashing over right to strike proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements has sent the Texas State Teachers Association a simple message about their 1981 legislative effort to gain teachers the right to bargain collectively and strike.

'If the Legislature passes it, I will veto it," Clements said Wednesday while the TSTA outlined its legislative program for reporters elsewhere in the Capitol

"I am absolutely opposed to it and will oppose it in any way I know how. ... I think they (TSTA) are making a mistake. To borrow a phrase, I think they've shot themselves in the foot," Clements told a news conference.

TSTA leaders said their 118,000-member organization is not abandoning its insistence it is not a union, despite the new push for collective bargaining rights.

We are a professional organization," said president Cecile Russell of Amarillo, who contended this makes TSTA different from the rival Texas Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

Major items in TSTA's legislative program are:

- Job security - similar to tenure at colleges - for teachers who satisfactorily complete a 1-1/2-year probationary period. When lay-offs are necessary, senior teachers would go last. - Collective bargaining, with teachers receiving a right to select by majority vote an organization to negotiate wages and working conditions with school boards. - Higher salaries, but the amount of increase TSTA will seek has not been decided. Executive secretary Jim Butler said Texas teachers average $13,038 a year, compared with a national average over $15,000. A statewide group health insurance program for teachers and retired teachers that will cost $288 million per biennium "Because many teachers cannot afford or obtain health insurance, they are reluctant to be absent. So they teach when they should not. That hinders education," Mrs. Russell said. TSTA's collective bargaining proposal leans heavily on binding arbitration to resolve impasses with school boards. It opposes strikes that

"present a danger to public health or safety. 'I really feel there is not a teacher in this state that would like to strike. But when we are looking at the needs and concerns of our students, that would be a possibility," Mrs. Russell said. At a Dallas news conference Tuesday, she said strikes would be useful to upgrade districts with "deplorable" conditions and in "situations where there is a lot of fear and concern on the part of teachers.

She said 70 percent of Texas teachers polled by TSTA support collective

Mrs. Russell said teachers will be asked to support legislative and congressional candidates who endorse the TSTA's goals. But, she said, there would be no insistence that House candidates commit themselves to Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, for speaker. Bryant supports higher pay for teachers and has allied himself with TSTA in the past.

Butler said TSTA members will be asked to contribute $12 to the association's political action committee, $9 for legislative candidates and $3 for

Philly police, firefighters start marches to protest layoffs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — As police union leaders urged members to continue a job slowdown that has reduced the number of traffic tickets handed out, police officers and firefighters began protesting layoffs of public employees in the nation's fourth largest city.

Mayor William Green announced Monday the layoff of 1,219 city workers to counteract a $167 million budget deficit. The layoffs will include 748 police officers, recruits and civilian police employees, plus 246 firefighters and 10 civilian fire department employees.

Lodge 5 of the Fraternal Order of Police, which represents the city's 8,000 police officers, and Local 22 of the City Fire Fighters Association, which represents Philadelphia's nearly 3,000 firefighters, met Wednesday to discuss Afterwards, union officials said police officers and firefighters would join forces today and march to City Hall. They said union leaders would seek a meeting with Green.

John A. Reilly, president of Local 22, estimated 5,000 persons would take part in the demonstration.

Meannwhile, FOP president Charles Gallagher urged members not to repeat Wednesday's outbreak of "blue flu" in the 17th police district, where 29 of the 40 officers scheduled to report for the 4 p.m. to midnight shift called in sick. A police spokesman said early today that the entire midnight to 8 a.m. shift reported for duty. All of the approximately 120 officers assigned to the 17th were hired within the last three years, making them the most vulnerable to Gallagher urged his members to continue Tuesday's boycott of writing tickets and making vice arrests. Almost no traffic or parking tickets were written by officers between midnight and 8 a.m. Wednesday and about 50 percent fewer tickets were issued between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., officials said. Green threatened disciplinary action Wednesday against sergeants and lieutenants in those districts where no tickets were issued, arguing that it was the supervisors' responsibility to make sure their subordinates were doing the

"They have, it seems to me, failed to do their duty last night," Green said. "The police and fire department have not been asked to take an unfair burden," the mayor added. "We have endeavored to keep those cuts in those departments to a minimum.

Public safety employees, such as police and firefighters, are barred from striking by state law. But asked Wednesday about the possibility of a strike, Gallagher said, "We won't strike yet, but tomorrow you may be writing about

Schools ask pupils to return; Teachers defy court order

CHICAGO (AP) - Striking teachers are not returning to class in the nation's third-largest public school system despite a court order to do so, a teachers' union spokesman says

"Stay on the picket lines in the morning," President Robert Healey told members of his Chicago Teachers Union Wednesday after a judge issued a preliminary injunction ordering a halt to the strike. As the walkout by 25,500 teachers went into its fourth day, school administrators said the 475,000 pupils should report to class for the first time this However, interim Superintendent Angeline Caruso said students may be sent home if principals and district supervisors determine that there are not enough supervisors and teachers to handle classes. Circuit Judge Richard Curry ruled Wednesday that teachers, as public employees, do not have a right to strike. The continuation of an illegal strike is not the stuff out of which dignity is forged," Curry said. He said his decision was not based on the merits of a union argument that its contract was broken. Teachers refused to obey a temporary restraining order Curry issued Monday. His injunction could clear the way for the board to ask that union leaders be held in contempt if the order is defied. "I do believe I would face whatever Judge Curry feels, in his mercy, is necessary," Healey said. School officials, saying they were concerned about possible violence, kept the schools open during the first three days of the strike but urged parents not

Schools were open last week also, but teachers stayed off the job because they had not been fully paid. Paychecks were issued Friday.

The school board and the teachers union have been negotiating the restoration of 1,600 jobs eliminated as part of a $60 million budget cut and extension of the school year to make up for last week. Healey said Wednesday the board had turned down a union offer made late Tuesday'

Meanwhile, talks were to continue today between firefighters and city negotiators in an effort to avert a strike. The 4,300 firefighters, who have worked on a handshake basis in the past, want their first contract.

A bargaining session that ended about 11 p.m. Wednesday involved wages, the size of the bargaining unit and staffing levels, said Frank Muscare, president of the Chicago Fire Fighters Union.

Union officials say they will postpone calling a strike as long as they believe the city is bar gaining in good faith.

Legislature's special session to be set later, says Clements

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The much-discussed special session of the Texas Legislature definitely will be held in August, says Gov. Bill Clements.

"I just don't think September is an appropriate date because of the nearness to the general election," Clements tolds newsmen Wednesday. "I'm saying it will be in August. The date will be set later ... I hope it will last less than 30 days.

The National Democratic Convention is scheduled Aug. 11-14 in New York. Normally, many of the Legislature's predominantly Democratic members and the House and Senate leaders attend the national meeting.

Clements has said since the end of the 1979 regular session that he planned to call a special session to consider initiative and referendum, wiretapping for drug control and tax relief. The Republican govenor, Texas' first in 104 years, gleefully hinted at times he would pick a date as inconvenient as possible for the Democrats.

At first he said it would be March, August or September. Later, it became August or September, and Wednesday was the first time for him to narrow the date to one month. Clements, obviously pleased by the political filings this week, predicted to reporters that Republicans and conservatives will show a definite gain in the 1981 Legislature. 'We will have a more conservative House by at least 15 or more votes," Clements told reporters. "The Senate will have a change of about four on the conservative side.'

Clements said he "guessed" the 25 GOP state representatives would grow by about 10 after the general election. He said there might be an additional GOP senator added to the current five Republicans.

On another much-discussed subject, the governor said he is in the process of collecting results of his demands that state agencies reduce payrolls by 5 percent over a two-year period, "But I am satisfied we will meet our goal.

He said agencies have "put in some ifs, ands and buts when they passed resolutions (pledging themselves to the 5 percent goal) which is all right with me, so long as we meet our goal." On other matters, Clements said:

- He agreed with Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Austin, that New Mexico prison inmates should not be sent to Bastrop, as first planned by federal authorities. "That is a low security-type prison and it is questionable it would be suitable for the type of characters just coming out of the New Mexico riot. Bastrop was not intended for that type prisoners.

He plans to appoint Sen. Bill Braecklein, R-Dallas, to some nonpaid volunteer job in state government. Braecklein switched from Democrat to Republican last year, then decided recently not to run for re-election. "I am going to appoint him to something. I am now trying to decide just where we can use him best. He will make a fine contribution to state government as a volun-

He thinks the Texas GOP presidential primary will play an important part in selecting the national Republican presidential nominee. "History says that no Democrat can be elected president without carrying Texas and I don't think any party can win without carrying Texas," he said. "I think Texas will be terribly important to both parties ... I still think we wil! have about 1
