Carter likely to suggest registering women

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is proposing that men and women aged 19 and 20 be registered for a military draft, probably beginning this summer, White House officials say.

However, the president is unlikely to advocate changing the law banning women from combat roles.

Furthermore, the White House staff considers the question of drafting women into the armed services hypothetical "and likely to remain so," according to an official, who did not wish to be identified.

An announcement detailing the president's recommendations was expected at the White House later today.

Carter's recommendation to register women for the first time in the nation's history is expected to face trouble in Congress. It will be requested in separate legislation so as not to jeopardize early implementation of registration for men.

Administration officials envision the male registration program as beginning this summer, probably at post offices around the country.

There was no telling when or if Congress would order women to register.

Although White House officials acknowledge the female registration issue will be controversial, they are not ready to buy House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill's argument that it would never pass.

"It will be very controversial," one official said Thursday. But he refused to predict that it would die automatically.

The official said that in deciding whether to include women, the White House considered a possible court challenge if the program were limited to men only.

"There is a substantial body of opinion that registration could be stymied by a legal challenge," he said. The official pointed to fears that a suit challenging a male-only program as unconstitutional would "be successful in blocking the program."

While the issues of registering and drafting women may be linked in many minds, they are being treated separately at the White House.

For instance, the possibility was raised that women, even if they register, never would be drafted.

"It would be unlikely that you would need to draft women even if you chose to do so, because at this point the first thing you would need is people for combat duties and there is no thought of changing that," an official said.

"Right now the volunteers among women are more than adequate to meet their (military) needs," he said. "The actual fact of drafting women — the question in real terms — is mostly hypothetical and is likely to remain so."

All of the White House officials willing to discuss the proposals did so on the condition they not be identified by name.

The president announced his intent to resume draft registration last month in his State of the Union address, citing an increasing threat from the Soviet Union.

He is asking for an extra $10 million for the Selective Service to implement the new program.

Though Carter currently has authority to order draft registration of men, he needs congressional approval for his suggestion to include women.

The current law calls for registration of men between the ages of 18 and 26. However, there are an estimated 16 million men and 16 million women between the ages of 18 and 26, and the military reportedly only needs a pool of 4 million to 6 million persons.

More bones unearthed Scientists sift ashes in prison ruins

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — While scientists uncovered more bones in the ruins of New Mexico State Penitentiary, a corrections official said there appeared to be no truth to reports that a bloody 36-hour uprising at the prison was sparked by racial tension.

"This is one of the least, least, least racially tense institutions I have ever been in," Joanne Brown, administrative assistant to the director of corrections said Thursday after Jessie Wright, a black inmate, told a reporter the weekend riot in which 33 prisoners died had "turned into a racial thing."

Meanwhile, University of New Mexico scientists raking through rubble in the prison's burned-out gym and found bones, but officials were uncertain whether they were those of some of the dozen inmates still unaccounted for.

Deputy District Attorney Dick

Baker said the remains of three bodies were removed from the gym earlier this week, but it had not been determined if the bones discovered by forensic anthropologists were from those bodies.

Ms. Brown said the dead inmates had about the same racial mix as the overall prison population — 60 percent Hispanic, 29 percent white, 10 percent black and 1 percent Indian. Only one of the dead identified was a black inmate, she said.

Black inmates have been segregated from other inmates in the prison since police and National Guardsmen on Sunday ended the siege that left much of the prison a shambles and some inmate victims mutilated beyond recognition.

"We seen plenty of killings," Wright said earlier this week. "It was just senseless, brutal massacre — butchery, just all-out butchery. They were actually stacking bodies on the stage in the gym and burning them. That's why they'll never get a full count."

Authorities do not have a complete list of prisoners because some of the 1,000 survivors are refusing to give their names. Officials have been fingerprinting and interviewing them in an attempt to get an accurate count.

Prison Warden Jerry Griffin said he would not know whether any more bodies would be found in the prison until "every single inch is examined with a fine-tooth comb."

Prison officials planned to bring in a police special weapons team to search the entire complex to see if inmates could be hidden somewhere, Baker said.

Two buses carrying about 40 black inmates left the prison Thursday morning for transfer to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

Congress moving toward accord on income tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate House conference committee inched toward agreement early today to set aside most of the money from the new "windfall profits" tax on the oil industry for general income tax reductions.

The shape and timing of the tax cuts, which would total $114 billion or more in the 1980s, would be decided by later legislation.

One option is a tax reduction that would take effect a month before the Nov. 4 elections and would be worth at least $10.4 billion in 1981.

The Carter administration opposes any tax cut now, fearing such a move would worsen inflation and deepen the federal budget deficit. Unless spending programs are reduced, any 1981 tax cut would expand the $15 billion deficit foreseen in President Carter's 1981 budget.

But Carter could be either forced to accept some type of tax cut package or else risk loss of the "windfall" tax — a key element of his energy program.

Before ending a 14-hour session shortly after midnight Thursday, the conferees took no final vote on the tax cut provisions. Because of next week's congressional recess for Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, the conferees put off consideration of the bill until about Feb. 20.

But their discussions indicated that across-the-board tax relief would take 50 to 60 percent of the $227.3 billion that the oil tax is expected to bring the government during the coming decade.

Another big chunk of the money would be used to help lower-income Americans pay rising energy costs. That, along with the general tax reductions, would leave considerably less money than Carter had requested to develop synthetic fuels.

In addition to the income tax cuts, another unsettled issue is how much of the tax revenues should be spent on incentives for energy conservation and development of non-oil energy sources.

Major winter storm expected in the Basin

A major winter storm was expected to move into the Permian Basin area today, bringing with it snow, rain, colder temperatures and hazardous driving conditions.

But as of early this morning only a trace of moisture had been recorded at the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport. Elsewhere in the area, however, rain and sleet were reported at Big Spring, while other Permian Basin communities were reporting light rain, high winds and cold temperatures.

The forecast issued by the NWS is calling for cold temperatures tonight and Saturday with an 80 percent probability of snow tonight. Accumulations of two to three inches are expected by Saturday morning, the weatherman predicted, and will cause hazardous driving conditions.

A travelers' advisory is in effect through Saturday morning, according to the weather service.

Skies will be partly cloudy in Midland on Saturday afternoon, the NWS said. Low temperature tonight is expected to be in the lower 20s and the high on Saturday should be no more than the upper 30s.

Winds tonight will blow out of the northeast at 5-10 mph.

Around the area this morning light rain was reported at Lamesa and Rankin reported a heavy mist. Big Lake reported receiving .12 inch of rain. Other area communities reported high winds and cold temperatures.

High temperature Thursday in Midland was 61 degrees and low this morning was 27.

Record high for Thursday's date is 83 degrees set in 1932. Record low for today's date is minus 11 set in 1933. According to the NWS, that minus 11 reading is an all-time low for Midland.

One killed in I-20 wreck

STANTON — Alvin Lynn Matthis, 29, of Big Spring died in a one-vehicle accident near Stanton late Thursday night.

The accident occurred at 10:55 p.m. two miles west of Stanton on Interstate Highway 20.

Matthis was eastbound on I-20 when he apparently lost control of the vehicle, crossed the median and rolled over two and a half times in the westbound lane, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said. Matthis was thrown from the vehicle. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Martin County Peace Justice Jimmy Matthis. The body was taken to Gilbreath Funeral Home in Stanton.

The accident was investigated by DPS Trooper Tim Baker.

George Bush says he's 'clean, clean, clean'

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Republican presidential hopeful George Bush says he is "clean, clean, clean" and that his campaign for the GOP nomination won't be hurt by disclosures that he received $106,000 from a secret Nixon White House fund 10 years ago.

Bush told a news conference Thursday he didn't violate any federal or state laws when he received the campaign money during an unsuccessful 1970 race for a U.S. Senate seat from Texas.

"The money that we received in that campaign, we were told who it was from, and it was reported in accordance with laws in existence at the time," Bush said.

The 1970 gift would be illegal now, but it was legal then. Federal election laws limiting the money a candidate may take from a donor and the strict requirements on reporting contributions were not enacted until 1972.

In a fast-paced trip Thursday in four different towns across New Hampshire, Bush, seeking to win the Feb. 26 primary, continued to draw capacity crowds that gave him warm receptions and, in some cases, standing ovations. He signed autographs for school children and parents, kissed mothers and drank beer.

Many in his audiences seemed unaware of the controversy. Only once, at a high school in Hampton, was he asked about the secret fund.

"I did not receive any money from an illegal fund," he told the standing-room-only crowd of more than 500 students and parents.

"I received money, and accurately reported it. That matter was looked into by Leon Jaworski, the special Watergate prosecutor, by the secretary of state of Texas; then (again) when I went up to be confirmed by the Senate (to be the director of the Central Intelligence Agency in 1976) and the message came back, clean, clean, clean."

"I believe that that matter is thoroughly investigated. Let them investigate again. I think the same answer will be out there, clean, clean, clean."

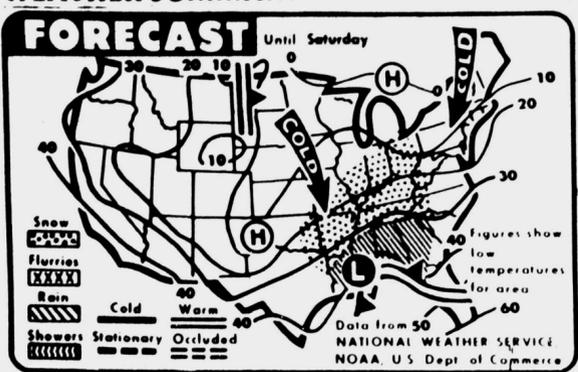

Jaworski is a member of Bush' national steering committee and campaigned for Bush last month on the day Bush upset Ronald Reagan in the Iowa precinct caucuses. Bush' press secretary, Pete Teeley, said Jaworski will campaign again for Bush.

Asked at the news conference whether he felt his campaign will be hurt by the report of the fund published in the Los Angeles

"I believe that that matter is thoroughly investigated. Let them investigate again. I think the same answer will be out there, clean, clean, clean." — George Bush

Times, Bush replied: "My record is clean. No story like this is going to have an adverse affect on it. I have had a record in public life for complying with the law. Nobody's unfair enough to go by allegation. My record in public life is one of integrity and it's not going to be destroyed by some vile last-minute charge being dredged up."

President Abolhassan Bani Sadr consolidated his power in Iran today and intensified his crackdown on the young militants holding some 50 Americans hostage in the U.S. Embassy.

Hopes increased for the release of the hostages soon. But the ruling Revolutionary Council said the crisis would be considered after an international panel is set up to probe its charges against the shah.

Tehran Radio announced the elevation of the president from acting chairman to head of the council with the consent of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the 79-year-old leader of the Iranian revolution.

Hasan Habibi, the council's spokesman, said Bani Sadr would chair the policy making council's sessions, exercise the council head's legislative and executive powers and "harmonize proceedings" with government ministers who are not members of the council.

Habibi indicated that this setup would continue until a Majlis, or parliament, is elected March 7.

The announcement confirmed Bani Sadr, who got 75 percent of the vote in the presidential election Jan. 25, as Iran's second most influential leader after the aged, ailing Khomeini, who is convalescing after a heart attack.

The president demonstrated his growing clout by attacking the militant young students occupying the American Embassy as tyrannical, lawless foes of the government for the second straight day Thursday.

"Why do those students who call themselves followers of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini violate the constitution by their illegal acts?" he said in a new attack on the militants for engineering the arrest of Information Minister Nasser Minachi by broadcasting charges that papers found in the embassy linked him to the CIA.

"Is this Islamic or Stalinistic?" he asked in an interview with the Tehran newspaper Kayhan.

Bani Sadr cracks down on militants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress are pressing for a first-hand look at the FBI's evidence in the congressional bribery investigation, despite the Justice Department's refusal to cooperate.

With seven representatives and one senator implicated in the government's widespread corruption case, Rep. Peter Peyster, D-N.Y., introduced a resolution of inquiry in the House Thursday.

"Congress cannot wait for a grand jury investigation or for a trial. We must know now what happened," he said.

Reza Pahlavi was returned to Iran for trial, they were becoming increasingly isolated. Expectations grew that the president would soon take decisive steps to end the hostage crisis.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim told reporters in New York that Bani Sadr was setting the stage for their release and that he believed this could happen before the election.

Waldheim's spokesman, Rudolf Stajduhar, said the secretary-general was closely following developments in Iran "which indicate that the authorities are trying to stabilize the situation under the presidency" of Bani Sadr.

Waldheim was trying to get Bani Sadr to replace the embassy captors with regular Iranian troops, that the number of militants had dwindled from 100 to 50, and that the release of the captives was "imminent."

"I can tell you the hostages are all very well and there has been no change in our position," the spokesman told a Western reporter by telephone.

Recreation, culture topics for Leadership Midland

"Recreation and Culture" will be the topic of the Feb. 14 Leadership Midland program, sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce and Midland College.

Representatives of the Midland Park and Recreation Department, YMCA, Chamber of Commerce Sports Committee, City of Midland Swim Team and the Midland Cubs will hold a panel discussion to begin the day-long session.

Also on the agenda for Thursday will be visits, followed by discussions, at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Lancaster Garden Center, Blakemore Planetarium, Haley Memorial Library and the Museum of the Southwest.

Joan Baskin and Harriet Herd are co-chairmen of the "Culture and Recreation" session.

The next Leadership Midland program will be March 13 on "City and County Government" and "Our Criminal Justice System."

Rep. Elliott H. Levitas, D-Ga., chairman of the Public Works subcommittee on public grounds and buildings, said he was concerned about possible favoritism in the award of a $2 million contract to Olympic Construction Co. for work at the National Zoo here.

And in New Jersey, FBI agents questioned members of the New Jersey Casino Control Commission, which figured in the allegations against one of the eight legislators, Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.

In Philadelphia, the City Council voted 10-4 against a resolution to remove three council members from leadership positions after the three were involved in the investigation.

According to published accounts, the three council members were videotaped receiving cash payoffs from FBI agents posing as representatives of an Arab sheik. The sheik was purportedly planning a hotel development in Philadelphia.

The Washington Post reported today that the bribery investigation is one of about 50 major FBI undercover operations against organized crime, in a departure from traditional bureau work under former Director J. Edgar Hoover.

But Assistant Attorney General Philip Heymann already has told House members they won't get the FBI evidence because, "There is one nightmare picture for all of us... one in which we get entangled in each other's feet."

$1.82 million suit filed against Rep. Craddick

By SUSAN TOTH Staff Writer

Two people filed a $1.82 million negligence suit against State Rep. Tom Craddick and a business associate in 238th District Court Thursday in connection with the death of a pregnant woman and her unborn child Feb. 10, 1978.

Tom Craddick and Russ Craddick, who do business as Craddick Properties and Craddick, Inc. are named in the suit filed by Louis Wright and Mary Ann Eubank.

The suit contends the Craddicks owned rental property at 2913 W. Louisiana St. which was "dangerous and hazardous because of gas leaks and the presence of carbon monoxide."

The suit contends Wright and his wife, Sharon Delores Wright, the pregnant daughter of Mrs. Eubank, came into their apartment at 2913 W. Louisiana St. early in the morning of Feb. 8, 1978 and retired for the night.

Later, they became violently ill and called an ambulance which took them to the Midland Memorial Hospital emergency room where they were treated and released for an unknown illness.

After returning to the premises and retiring for the night, they both lost consciousness and were found the next day when they were again rushed to the hospital, the suit said.

Mrs. Wright and her unborn child died in the hospital Feb. 10, according to the suit.

The suit contends owners of the property "knew or in the exercise of ordinary care should have known that the escaping gas and the presence of carbon monoxide constituted an unreasonable danger to anyone occupying the leased premises, but none the less failed or refused to correct the dangerous condition and make the premises safe."

Breathing the escaping gas resulted in "extensive damages" to the lungs of the Wrights, Mrs. Wright died as a result of the injuries, and "the unborn child died as a result of the injuries and death of its mother," according to the suit.

The suit contends the plaintiffs or their agents had been warned of the dangerous conditions but failed to warn the Wrights.

The suit asks $800,000 for suffering and anguish of Wright and Mrs. Eubank because of Wright's injuries and the injuries and death of Mrs. Wright and the unborn child and $600,000 for the suffering and anguish of Mrs. Wright and the unborn child before their deaths.

The suit also asks for $420,000 for Wright for "recovery of the losses of the services and earning capacity of his wife."

The suit also asks for $6,425 for medical and burial expenses. Craddick had no comment to make on the suit today.

Korea, Romania bucking Soviet position

By The Associated Press. North Korea and Romania have joined Yugoslavia in the maverick communist camp bucking the Kremlin's military intervention in Afghanistan.

from 12 communist nations in the Bulgarian capital of Sofia, Tass said. It listed Cuba, Vietnam and South Yemen among those supporting the Karmal regime.

The Soviet intervention shortly after Moscow began pouring 100,000 troops into Afghanistan on Christmas Day in an effort to prop-up the Karmal regime in its war with anti-communist Moslem rebels.

Yugoslavia's foreign minister, Josip Vrhovec, reiterated his government's condemnation of the Soviet intervention in a joint communique with his French counterpart, Jean Francois-Poncet. The communique, issued Thursday, capped two days of talks between the ministers in Belgrade.

"The latest developments in Afghanistan afflict a severe blow to the policy of detente and could lead to grave dangers," the joint communique said.

In Tokyo, Japanese official denied press reports that Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira's government has decided to freeze investments in the Soviet Union to protest its moves in Afghanistan.

The United States has asked Japan and the Western allies to join in punitive measures against the Soviets to protest the Afghan intervention. The allies are scheduled to meet in Bonn, West Germany on Feb. 20 to coordinate their response to the Soviet intervention.

Meanwhile, sources in the Afghan capital of Kabul said Moslem rebel snipers have killed about 40 Soviet soldiers over the past three weeks in the streets of Taloqan, the capital of Takhar Province near the Soviet border in northern Afghanistan.

No permit, no cookie sales

HOLLY, Mich. (AP) — Girl Scout cookie sales may be a national tradition, but that doesn't exempt them from permit requirements in this village of 4,300 — and a violation could mean 90 days in jail or $500 fines for the scouts.

Scout leaders are in an uproar since the village council stopped the sale because a troop leader forgot to apply for a permit. But overall sales seem to be doing fine — outside the town limits.

Meanwhile, one scout's parent, a member of the village council, says the young peddlers may learn something from the ban.

An ordinance in this community south of Flint forbids non-commercial groups from selling goods in public places without a permit. And only one organization can get a permit at any given time. A local fifth-grade class got the cookie permit first.

Janie Armstrong, head of the 200-member scout troop, said she forgot to ask for a permit although the ordinance appeared in the classified sections of five newspapers that circulate in Oakland County. A permit must be requested 10 to 30 days in advance.

Village President James Herrington gave the Scouts special permission to sell their cookies last week after getting several complaints from local residents. But the village council rescinded the action after three days.

"Some of the kids didn't know what to do," Ms. Armstrong said Thursday. "I've heard of three different girls where some people at the door said 'Do you have a license for this?' I think it kind of hurt the girls; it scared them."

Another scout leader, Linda Brown, said some of the girls, who range in age from 9 to 17, could not meet the quota that would win them a trip to summer camp as a result of the ban. She said the controversy had created "a lot of tension."

"We are tremendously sorry (the ordinance) has brought such pressure on the Girl Scouts, but it has taught the girls a lesson in civics," said council member Ardath Regan. Her daughter, Angel, is a scout.

Meanwhile, Ms. Armstrong said the three-day sale before the ban and sales outside the village seem to have pushed overall cook sales above last year's 1,500 cases.

"With the publicity, I think it helped," she said.

Europe facing flood threat

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Two of Europe's mightiest rivers, the Rhine and the Danube, are on the rampage, flooding many towns and threatening worse destruction. So far, however, no casualties have been reported.

Heavy rains and mild temperatures in the Alps melted snow and swelled the rivers and their tributaries during the past week, and more of the same weather was expected throughout most of West Germany today.

That spelled possible trouble for Cologne, a major industrial city with a population of about 850,000, where on Thursday the Rhine was only inches below the top of dikes in the old part of the city. Officials there said rising waters could spill into the commercial district today.

Fast-moving waters have already spilled over the banks and flooded many towns along the river, causing extensive property damage and forcing the evacuation of hundreds of homes.

Partially under water were such low-lying Rhine towns as Koenigswinter, Linz, Neuwied and Koblenz. Federal highways along the river's banks were closed because of high waters, officials said.

In Bonn, the West German capital, high waters lapped at the parliament building, flooding the building's riverside entrance and blocking streets by the river.

The Rhine measured nearly 28 feet there Thursday, three feet lower than it was in 1970 when major flooding occurred along much of the river's 820-mile, south-north path that takes it from the Alps to the North Sea through the borders of six countries. The Rhine is the longest river in Western Europe.

Conditions forced the suspension Thursday of barge and ferry traffic on the Rhine, and also on the Danube and Mosel rivers because wooden debris swept down river by the fast-moving current threatened to damage transport vessels.

The Danube runs west to east through eight countries from West Germany, through Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania, Bulgaria and into the Ukraine in the Soviet Union. Measuring 1,750 miles, it is the second longest river in West or East Europe, after the 2,290-mile long Volga.

Controllers placed jet in danger

NEW YORK (AP) — Four traffic controllers at Kennedy International Airport have been reassigned to administrative duties during an investigation of how a jet carrying Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin was ordered to the wrong altitude, officials say.

The reassignment was described as temporary, and the Federal Aviation Administration said Thursday the four will receive full pay while the investigation into the Jan. 18 incident continues.

The FBI has been checking the possibility that someone deliberately tampered with a computer identification symbol, causing an unwary controller to bring Aero-Flot Flight 315 in at an altitude that was reserved for other aircraft.

The four-engine, Ilyushin-62 jet was flying down the length of Long Island en route to Kennedy when it was ordered to descend from 8,000 to 4,000 feet. The airplane, carrying 125 passengers, flew about six miles at the wrong altitude before the mistake was discovered.

New Mexico lesson

As the United States watched in horror earlier this week, prisoners in the New Mexico State Penitentiary at Santa Fe virtually took control of the prison during a riot.

What followed was both frightening and appalling as the prisoners turned on each other with anything that could serve as a weapon. When the siege was quelled, at least 36 prisoners lay dead — many of them victims of the brutality of fellow inmates.

It's difficult to imagine that human beings can be that inhumane to other human beings. The wholesale nature of the torture and killings is what proved so shocking for a society that considers itself truly civilized.

And yet, in our hearts, we know that many of the individuals sent to prison are incarcerated for crimes of murder and rape. Many have proven to authorities that they are incapable, apparently, of existing harmoniously in our society.

The sad fact is that the unbelievable occurrences at Attica a few years ago and now at Santa Fe this week can be repeated time and again unless society takes the steps to prevent it.

Prisons are not intended to be and should not be allowed to become private social clubs with bars on the doors and windows. In the truest sense prisons are intended to serve as sites of rehabilitation for some criminals while society is protected from them — and perhaps the prisoners from themselves.

In some instances prisons serve merely as "human cages" for those criminals who have repeatedly refused to let themselves be rehabilitated. Hopefully, however, that isn't the case too frequently.

But prisons do not have to be hell-holes which serve to dehumanize inmates.

New Mexico had a warning. A few weeks back the New Mexico Attorney General's office issued a report that warned of danger in the prison created by overcrowding. That report noted that prison guards were poorly trained, poorly paid and too few in number.

It's a sad and frightening indictment of our time that many other jails and prisons throughout the United States suffer from similar conditions.

Statistics indicate that one-third of the states have been sued by inmates complaining that prison conditions are dismal enough to be considered inhumane. In still other states orders have been issued to improve prison facilities.

As long as there is a society there will be criminals and, most likely, prisons in some form.

Prisons are ugly places. But they do not have to be inhumane. The sad occurrence in New Mexico is a horrifying but necessary lesson for states that have been unwilling to upgrade their prison systems.

Texas is fortunate to have a good prison system, but one not without room for improvement. As recently as 1978 there was a riot in the Texas prison system and prisoners have brought class-action suits aimed at improving the penal system.

It's imperative that the people of Texas and the rest of the United States closely observe their prison systems and make improvements when those improvements are needed.

Hopefully through vigilance we can avoid a recurrence of the rioting witnessed in Santa Fe.

INSIDE REPORT:

Kennedy dinner guest felt 'kind of sorry for Teddy'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A prominent Democratic politician invited to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's rambling McLean, Va., home for dinner before his Jan. 28 attack on President Carter described the scene as "kind of sad and lonely."

Present in the senator's house were only Kennedy's campaign manager, brother-in-law Stephen Smith, and a servant. Kennedy's wife, Joan, lives in Boston. His children were not in evidence.

Kennedy's dinner guest said later he felt "kind of sorry" for his old friend Teddy and the "ineptitude" of his race for the nomination. Many other Democrats agree.

This was one of a series of McLean meetings between Kennedy and leading Democrats, most of them fellow liberals. He was looking for advice on how to revitalize his disintegrating presidential race. Out of it all came little more than the standard Kennedy fare, spiced by tight economic controls to stem inflation.

FRASER'S ADVICE TO TEDDY

Liberal labor leader Douglas Fraser did not extract a pledge from Sen. Kennedy to come out for wage and price controls as the price of his important endorsement, as many Democratic politicians believe.

Fraser, president of the United Auto Workers (UAW), was surprised that Kennedy was so specific about controls in his Georgetown University speech Jan. 28 seeking to recapture the initiative in the presidential campaign.

Evans

Intimates of Fraser say that the labor leader expected only that Kennedy would declare a willingness to freeze wages and prices — plus rents and interest rates — if inflation was still roaring along when he took the oath of office. Instead, Kennedy came out for complete government controls now, including controls over profits (which he did not fully explain in his speech).

VP RUMSFELD?

Just as campaigning gets serious for the crucial Illinois Republican primary March 18, Ronald Reagan's operatives are floating the name of a distinguished Illinois Republican as his possible vice president: ex-Rep. and ex-Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld.

Rumsfeld, now a Chicago industrialist (president of G.D. Searle and Co.), is widely viewed as a leader of Republican fortunes in Illinois once he returns to public life. What's more, his closest friends and supporters in the state Republican party vigorously oppose Reagan for president. Hints of a Reagan-Rumsfeld ticket could conceivably cool their opposition.

Rumsfeld's closest political ally, Gerald R. Ford, is adamantly anti-Reagan. That's why Rumsfeld surprised listeners at one private meeting when he revealed he does not oppose Reagan's nomination. He has also allowed in private that he considers Reagan, Sen. Howard Baker and John B. Connally as the three most serious presidential contenders. The notable omission: Rumsfeld's colleague in the Ford Cabinet, George Bush.

SEAR'S EX-FRIEND

Harsh words by key Bush political operative David Keene against his former friend and colleague, Reagan campaign manager John Sears, surprised many politicians but in fact climaxed a steady deterioration of their formerly close relationship.

During Ronald Reagan's 1976 bid for the presidency, Keene was Sears' trusted lieutenant. But ever since Keene accepted a top spot in George Bush's campaign last year, Sears has referred to him privately in condescending terms.

At the Southern Republican Conference in New Orleans recently, Sears greeted Keene coolly without a word of congratulation for Bush's victory in the Iowa caucuses less than two weeks earlier. It was shortly thereafter that the Washington Post quoted Keene as saying: "I sometimes think that George Bush and those of us who work for him have far more respect for Ronald Reagan than Sears does."

BUSH'S CLIMB

George Bush's quick climb in the polls after his smashing win in Iowa was evident even in the Deep South state of South Carolina, where the transplanted New Englander has never been strong.

A telephone bank installed by Reagan forces in the 2nd congressional district showed Bush tripling his strength after the Iowa caucuses from 6 percent just before the caucuses to 18 percent right after.

Reagan declined only marginally, which demonstrates his grass roots appeal. John B. Connally, who has made special efforts to win the March 11 South Carolina primary, stayed level — just under 18 percent. Most of Bush's growth came from the undecided vote, which diminished from 35 percent to 22 percent. Reagan phone banks in other South Carolina congressional districts showed similar results.

CHARLEY REESE

Politicians are shielded by automatic forgiveness

ORLANDO, Fla. — President Jimmy Carter and his chief Democratic rival, Sen. Ted Kennedy, provide good examples of one of the major defects in our political system.

In the private sector, when people consistently make mistakes or display bad judgment, they are fired or demoted. In our political system, we provide our politicians with automatic forgiveness.

In the private sector, we at least demand an admission of error before a pardon. Even God expects public repentance. Not so in politics. The politician simply says today the opposite of what he said yesterday and nobody so much as flicks an eyelid.

Can you believe President Carter and Senator Kennedy are out actually talking about national security needs? They are two of the reasons we aren't secure.

Before President Carter recovered his inordinate fear of communism, he: (1) successfully lobbied against the B-1 bomber; (2) cut the Navy shipbuilding program in half; (3) torpedoed the construction of a new nuclear carrier; (4) refused to proceed with the production and deployment of the neutron warheads; (5) slashed the projected defense budgets of his predecessor; (6) delayed the MX missile project; (7) delayed development of the cruise missile; (8) pardoned draft dodgers and deserters; (9) presided over the final destruction of the CIA as an effective organization, and

(10) negotiated a SALT II treaty which would guarantee Soviet military superiority.

For the sake of space, I won't list his political actions which also had a negative effect on the nation's security.

Senator Kennedy is exceeded only by Sen. George McGovern in the contest for recorded votes against a strong defense for the United States.

The American Security Council, which is a non-partisan, non-ideological organization concerned with defense issues, maintains a National Security Index. On these 50 roll call votes, Kennedy voted 49 times against strengthening the national defense. On 55 roll call votes to fund strategic nuclear forces, Kennedy voted yes only four times. On 68 roll call votes to fund conventional forces, Kennedy voted yes only 13 times.

This research into his record was done by a Democrat, Joshua Muravchik, former executive director of the Coalition for a Democratic Majority.

Nor is the senator a whiz at foreign policy analysis. Everyone rightly ridiculed former President Ford's stupid gaffe about the state of Eastern European freedom during the 1976 debates, but Kennedy made an equally stupid statement and did it in writing. In the book, "Decisions for a Decade," Kennedy said, "Today with the exception of East Germany, Russia has no more satellites."

In view of the recent events in the Persian Gulf area and the now generally conceded point that our defenses are pretty weak, I'd say these two guys have made mistakes. I'd say neither one has shown very good judgment. I'd say the voters ought to fire them both.

But let me never leave you with the impression that there is anything exceptional about these two guys. Reversing positions or changing colors is a common practice. Some of the most vitriolic critics of the Vietnam War were those who voted to start it. Some of those who weep the loudest for the plight of the Cambodians are those who helped install the Pol Pot regime by voting to cut off all U.S. aid to Cambodia. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, set a new record for hypocrisy when he discovered 3,000 Soviet troops in Cuba for Church has been one of Fidel Castro's most ardent apologists.

It goes without saying that most of the congressmen out campaigning against inflation, high taxes, over-regulation of business, and the weakened CIA are those who voted the deficits, the high taxes, the regulations, and the CIA's castration.

The point? American voters are either too tolerant or have too short memories. If you owned the stock of a business which was going bankrupt and producing a defective product, you'd never get anywhere as long as you continued to rehire the same management. Yet 95 percent of all incumbents are regularly re-elected.

It's got to change, folks. Let's leave forgiveness of sins to the Almighty and throw these bums out of office in 1980 before our dear Republic sinks completely out of sight. Look at their records and disregard entirely their campaign speeches and position papers. The speeches and position papers are tailored to the latest public opinion poll. The record gives you a much better insight into their true colors.

Heroin seized at D-FW; Three Iranians arrested

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Federal agents who discovered $10 million worth of heroin concealed in hidden compartments of a crate that arrived at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport from Iran today held three Iranians as drug smuggling suspects.

The illegal narcotic was stashed in secret compartments of a display case that held a Moslem holy book. Three Iranians, two men and a woman, were ordered to appear in court today for arraignment on charges of smuggling.

A U.S. Customs agent making a routine check opened a wooden crate he selected at random and discovered the compartments filled with a brown powder Jan. 29. The powder weighed 4.4 pounds and lab tests showed it was 72 percent pure heroin. Authorities then had to wait a week for someone to claim the crate.

In the meantime, Drug Enforcement Administration agents poured out the powder and replaced it with Nestle's powdered chocolate and tiny electronic transmitters that emit beeps so the location of the crate could be tracked.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Conard

Florence said after several days elapsed they were worried the smugglers may have become suspicious and decided not to pick up the crate. But then, Tuesday, Florence said an Iranian woman identified as a Texas Women's University student claimed the crate and drove to Denton, where agents said in an affidavit that she removed it from the trunk of her car and carried it into her apartment.

The federal affidavit said an Iranian man, the woman's brother, picked up the crate Wednesday night and drove to a restaurant where another Iranian, a 38-year-old Florida resident, put the crate in his Blazer and then drove a circuitous route all over town.

Finally, the agents said, he went into a motel room where, according to the sound from the electronic beepers, he opened the crate. That's when he apparently saw the transmitter and realized he had been tricked, agents said.

"Almost immediately thereafter, (he) ran out of the room and tried to get into the Blazer," the affidavit said.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John

Sweeney of Fort Worth said agents who had him under surveillance then moved in and arrested him.

"We don't know at this time what (he) planned to do with the heroin. Since he lived in Florida, it may be that he intended to take it to that state and turn it over for others. We don't know. But there was obviously some big money involved," he said.

One official estimated the street value of the seized heroin at $10 million.

Shipping records show the crate was flown from Shiraz, Iran, to Tehran Jan. 19. Then it was flown to Paris and from there to Houston. A truck transported the box from Houston to the Customs Service center at D-FW Airport, where it was checked Jan. 29.

How do you move a stubborn elephant?

LONDON (AP) — "How do you get a two-ton elephant out through a door if she doesn't want to go?" the Daily Mirror asked its millions of readers. The letters flooded in from all over Britain, suggesting what to do about 12-year-old Dali, who for nearly four years has refused to leave her 25-by-20-foot stall at the Edinburgh Zoo.

ever since she arrived at the zoo in Scotland's capital in 1976. She paces back and forth in her enclosure and at feeding time stretches her trunk just far enough to seize her dinner. But her back legs stay anchored safely inside the stall. The keepers even called in a hypnotist but to no avail. "A big animal with a big problem always strikes a chord in people's hearts," said the tabloid Mirror today as it published some of the replies to its question. "First, there were the nasty remedies — hot potatoes or stinging nettles to her behind. But animal lovers would protest. Women readers recommended a male elephant — "young and glamorous," "dishy" or "ardent." Parade him back and forth outside the stall to lure Dali out, said Chris-

How about a bucket of beer — which would get most Britons out in a hurry. Or a radio in her stall to keep her company? Or a brass band? Not practical, said Dali's adopted parents. Then the zoo needs a crane, a tractor, or a helicopter to get her out, readers wrote. "Or roller skates and push her out!" was the advice from Mrs. W. Taylor of London's Streatham district. "Knock the elephant house down!" advised D.M. of Liverpool. "Subtly knock down her stall around her ears — so to speak," advised Elsie Ainsworth of Blackburn. Another suggested building an adjoining room. "Any sort of construction work is out of the question," said the curator of the zoo, Miranda Stevenson, because all that noise and commotion might scare the neurotic elephant even more. "Dali's a very big and powerful animal and it would be far too dangerous," she said. Miss Stevenson said one suggestion appears feasible — tranquilize Dali and winch her out. "That is what we'll probably have to do," said the curator. "We'll try it when spring comes."

Guilty pleas entered in Midland court

Three men entered guilty pleas in Midland's 238th District Court and were sentenced by Judge Vann Culp Thursday. Carl Willie Lewis, 20, was given 10 years probation after pleading guilty to the sexual abuse of a child. The probation was conditional on Lewis' receiving treatment at MH-MR. He was charged with the sexual abuse of a 7-year-old student at Anson Jones Elementary School Nov. 2. Lewis had been employed at the school as a janitor.

Richard Lonnie Sullivan, 19, received five years probation after pleading guilty to burglary with intent to commit theft.

He was charged with the Dec. 18 burglary of Tall City Pharmacy, 210 N. C St.

Manuel Marroquin, 21, was assessed two concurrent five-year sentences in the Texas Department of Corrections. He pleaded guilty to the Nov. 26 burglary of LaSirena Cafe, 303 N. Terrell Ave., and to the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle Nov. 25.

San Diego skies record another near-collision

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Pacific Southwest Airlines jet with 83 persons aboard came close to colliding with a small plane in the latest of a series of near-misses over the crowded San Diego skies, the airline says.

PSA Capt. Dave Sheridan said Thursday that a Cessna 152 was so close to his 727 jet on Sunday that he could see the other pilot's sunglasses. "It was identical with (Flight) 182," Sheridan said.

Sheridan was referring to the air disaster of September 1978, still the worst air collision in U.S. history. A total of 144 persons died in that crash between a PSA jet and a private plane.

According to a PSA spokesman, Sheridan sighted a plane to his right and suddenly found himself on a collision course with another small plane to the left.

A San Diego television station said the pilot banked the plane sharply, missing the second Cessna by "50 to 100 feet."

Sunday's incident was the fourth near-miss over San Diego involving jetliners since November, an Federal Aviation Administration official said.

A spokesman for the San Diego-based airline said the jet, non-stop Flight 386 from San Jose, had been cleared by air controllers to descend to 5,000 feet.

"The controller called (noted) traffic at between 1-2 o'clock at 7,000 feet just to the right of the cockpit," PSA spokesman Bill Hastings said. "The crew plus an FAA controller in the jump seat were looking for the traffic, and the captain just happened to look left and see an additional aircraft climbing at the plane."

"The pilot took evasive action by a climbing right turn."

After talking with members of the PSA crew, television station KFMB said the jet was making an approach turn over Montgomery Field, a general aviation airport in northeast San Diego "when the controller at Miramar Naval Air Station warned to watch for a Cessna at 11 o'clock high."

PSA said the plane on the right was at a safe distance and had made radio contact. But the second plane, which was within 500 feet and closing, was not in radio contact with the FAA tower, a spokesman said. The pilot saw the second aircraft "maybe two seconds," according to PSA. "If evasive action was not taken, the Cessna would have gone over the top of the jetliner."

PSA denied a report by KFMB that a flight attendant and several passengers were thrown across seats.

Winds gusting up to 60 miles per hour battered Southern California today, toppling trees into houses and cars, as firefighters struggled to control a 100-acre blaze near Ojai, about 100 miles north of Los Angeles.

Roofs of two houses in Toro Canyon, where the fire began, were damaged by the blaze. Firefighters remained on patrol in the area.

Under 1970 federal law Bush gift legal

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $106,000 gift George Bush took from a secret White House fund for his unsuccessful 1970 Senate race in Texas would be illegal now, but it was perfectly proper at the time.

Federal election laws limiting the money a candidate may take from a donor and the strict requirements on reporting contributions had not been enacted in 1970.

Bush gave up almost certain re-election to his House seat to run for the Senate at the urging of people in former President Richard Nixon's administration.

The 1970 campaign contribution from the Nixon White House to Bush was resurrected Thursday by the Los Angeles Times, which said it had obtained documents confirming the receipt.

The Times also alleged that more than half of the money — $55,000 — was in cash and went unreported.

But in Manchester, N.H., where he was campaigning in his current bid for the Republican presidential nomination, Bush said the gift was legal and he did report it under state regulations.

At the federal level in 1970, the only relevant law was the Corrupt Practices Act of 1925. This law did have a reporting requirement, but it exempted committees operating only in one state, which was the case for Bush's Senate campaign.

In 1972, the citizens group Common Cause sued Nixon's re-election committee under the 1925 act on grounds the Nixon committee was a national effort operating in several states and therefore was required to report.

Disclosures resulting from that suit led to some of the "Watergate" prosecutions, including some for illegal corporate contributions.

But that legal battle drew attention to the difficulty in enforcing the old law and the fact that it apparently failed to cover most federal campaigns. A result was the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1972 which placed limits on the size of contributions a candidate may accept.

Before 1972, the only restriction had been a ban on political contributions by national banks, corporations and labor unions. No individual may give more than $1,000 to any one federal candidate per election. No political committee or fund may give a single candidate more than $5,000.

Police close drug 'supermarket'

NEW YORK (AP) — A small army of police officers has shut down four shabby tenements on Manhattan's Lower East Side that were part of an alleged $250,000-a-day "one-block supermarket for drugs" serving as many as 500 buyers an hour.

Fifty-seven persons were arrested — and nearly 30 families were left homeless — as 150 officers armed with sledge hammers, axes, crowbars and shotguns tore away doors and walls in their search for drugs, money and suspects.

Police Lt. Louis Sciscioli of the Street Enforcement Unit, which coordinated Thursday's raid, said those arrested ranged from addicts who became involved in the operation "to feed their habits," to relatively "clean," or drug-free, persons.

The operation was the biggest in the history of the New York, New Jersey and Connecticut area, officials said.

Suspects, some chained to each other and manacled, were being booked early today on charges ranging from loitering for drugs and sale of a controlled substance to possession of deadly weapons.

Police said the supermarket operated 15 hours a day from 15 locations in the four buildings, where narcotics were cut in one area, packaged in another and sold directly to customers from yet another stall.

Customers came from throughout the metropolitan New York area and New England, Sciscioli said. They represented all economic groups, officials said.

Confiscated was an estimated $100,000 worth of heroin and cocaine, a rifle, two handguns and $2,780 in cash, said Sciscioli. Lt. Richard Doran said the value of the drug inventory, cash and paraphernalia probably would be at least $250,000 to $300,000 at the completion of the investigation.

"It was like Iwo Jima. It was a real surprise attack," Capt. James Power said of the raid after police swooped down on the squalid area in rented vans and smashed doors to storefronts and apartments.

No one was hurt in the raid, but police said they shot and killed a dog, a Doberman pinscher that guarded one of the apartments, when it attacked two arresting officers.

Police could not say where the drugs came from or whether the operation was connected with any other known drug rings, but they said it had been doing business in the area for several years.

The kingpin of the operation was arrested as he walked down the street with his dog, said detective Joe Garcia, while an unidentified officer cornered and held at bay 25 persons who tried to sneak out the rear of one of the buildings.

Meanwhile, about 100 residents of the tenements were without heat or hot water after officers ripped out plumbing and electrical boxes in their search for drugs.

"Maybe they (police) got carried away," said Pedro Gonzalez of Action for Progress, a group that aided the displaced residents.

"In some ways, it may be a blessing," added Arthur Baer, director of the group. Three of the tenements had at least 80 housing code violations, he said, and now because of their emergency needs, the families will have priority for city housing.

Migration to suburbs to intensify

WASHINGTON (AP) — The energy crisis won't lead many suburbanites back into the cities, as some expect, says the director of the Census Bureau.

In fact, the massive migration to the suburbs should intensify in the 1980s, leaving many cities with poorer residents and a smaller tax base, the director, Vincent Barabba, said Thursday.

Speaking to a group of urban experts, he painted a generally grim outlook for the nation's cities, although he pointed to some bright, localized signs of metropolitan rebirth.

"Some have conjectured that shortages in the availability of gasoline could lead to a return to the city," Barabba said. "But most of the nation's commuting flow is from suburban houses to suburban employment," he noted.

"And gasoline shortages, as a first step, are more likely to lead to increased use of carpools and public transportation, wherever possible, rather than to migration back to the cities."

The census director also said many city dwellers now are commuting to suburban jobs. "The importance of trips oriented toward the suburbs continues to increase," he told the National Urban Policy Roundtable.

Barabba played down a back-to-the-city movement led by young adults seeking downtown amenities.

"There seems little doubt that some movement, especially on the part of young whites, is indeed taking place, at least on a selective basis," he said. "But this movement is not apparent from our sample survey estimates for the United States as a whole," Barabba stressed.

"The possible return to the cities of higher income groups has apparently been quite localized and in no way offsets the more massive outmigration of the more affluent to the suburbs," he said.

Central city populations, after growing by 0.6 percent a year in the 1960s, declined by 0.4 percent a year in the 1970s, Census Bureau figures show.

That hemorrhaging could intensify in the 1980s, according to Census Bureau soundings, as many young, childless adults now enjoying inner-city amenities move to the suburbs to raise their children, Barabba said.

Barabba said the number of school-aged children will fall, and this should reduce city expenses for education.

However, this tax savings will be offset by a decrease in the number of 35-year-old to 64-year-old residents — the age group with the highest incomes — and a marked increase of the elderly, who demand more services, buy less goods and pay relatively little taxes, Barabba said.

Moreover, urban unemployment is worsening. "The most pernicious aspect of this high unemployment rate, and the aspect most corrosive for the future of our cities, is the fact that the unemployment rate is much higher for blacks than for whites, and cities are becoming increasingly black," said Barabba.

"Population projections indicate increasing births in the 1980s, as the women of the baby boom years move through their own childbearing years, and more children will likely mean more families looking for suburban housing," he said.

In the meantime, many cities, particularly in the Midwest and Northeast, will continue to deteriorate because the income of an average resident will decline, weakening the tax base.

Soil loss to urbanization reaches millions of acres

About three million acres of soil are lost each year to urbanization, Dick Hagelstein of the Soil and Water Conservation Service told Midland Rotarians Thursday at the Midland Hilton.

Hagelstein stated that soil and water are just as important in Texas as oil and gas, the leading natural resources in the Permian Basin.

The Sul Ross graduate presented a 20-minute slide show depicting the various soil and water conservation activities in the 200 soil and water districts in the state.

A notable activity near the Midland area is in the North Concho Soil and Water Conservation district. Ranchers near San Angelo have developed a mesquite eradication program which turns mesquite-infested land into productive, grass-grazing pasture.

Another benefit of this program is the replenishing of the water supply in Rock Creek. Since the mesquite scrub requires large amounts of water, the plant would have some effect on the area's water table, the presentation said.

However, once the mesquite is removed, the water table rises and Rock Creek again flows at a rate of about 1,200 gallons of water per minute.

Hagelstein added that efforts in soil and water conservation affect everyone's future. The price of food is an indication of how soil and water conservation affects the consumer, he said.

Hispanic leader wants joint effort with blacks

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Blacks and Hispanics, both on the losing end of "gut economic issues," must put aside bickering and join forces to deal with economic problems and the 1980 election, says the president of the nation's oldest Hispanic organization.

Top Hispanic and black leaders have already allied, but must now attempt to resolve bickering on local levels between the predominantly poor minorities forced to compete for federal funds and a limited number of jobs, said Ruben Bonilla, who heads the League of United Latin American Citizens.

Bonilla made the statements at a news conference Thursday to open a quarterly meeting of the LULAC national executive board

K-Mart store work to begin

Construction on a K-Mart store in west Midland should begin in two weeks, said a spokesman with Clark Development Co. in Houston.

The store, to be located on the same block as M-System on the corner of Midland Drive and Illinois Avenue, will have 84,180 square feet. It will be a one-story structure expected to cost $2.1 million.

Site plans show 533 parking spaces which include two for handicapped persons, a garden center and auto shop.

The Houston spokesman said the store should be ready to open by this fall.

Chance of averting Olympic boycott fade

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — One day after a judge admonished that the Olympics "should not be used for political purposes," members of the International Olympic Committee executive board are hearing an appeal that the Summer Games be moved from Moscow for the Soviet Union's occupation of Afghanistan.

The full IOC, which opens its 82nd session on Saturday with remarks from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, is almost certain to reject the Moscow proposal from President Carter.

The IOC philosophy was expressed Thursday by Judge Norman L. Harvey of the county Supreme Court in nearby Plattsburgh in a lawsuit filed by Taiwanese athletes preparing for the Winter Games here.

"The Olympic Games should not be used for political purposes," he said in ruling that Taiwan's teams could compete as the Republic of China and carry its traditional flag in opening ceremonies.

"However," the judge added, "the IOC failed to show that degree of courage when it considered the two-China issue. It made the political decision that there is no Republic of China."

The IOC has ruled Taiwan's athletes cannot use the name China. The People's Republic of China, which is competing in the Winter Games for the first time, has that right. It has the China seat in the U.N. and is recognized by the United States as the government of China. Michael Lee, secretary general of the Taiwan committee, said Harvey's ruling was evidence that "we can count on the system of fair play and justice in this country."

There was no comment from Peking. The lawsuit was filed against the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee, which is conducting the Winter Games. Officials said Harvey's decision would be appealed.

Meanwhile, members of the U.S. Olympic Committee were meeting in a closed session today with the IOC executive board to outline Carter's proposal that the Summer Games be moved, postponed or canceled if the Soviets do not withdraw from Afghanistan by Feb. 20.

IOC President Lord Killanin has insisted the Moscow Olympics will go on as planned. Most IOC members who had arrived by Thursday rejected moving them. And the Americans on the IOC, Julian K. Roosevelt and Douglas F. Roby, were among those who reject the plan.

In addition, USOC President Robert

Kane and Executive Director Col. F. Donald Miller were not enthusiastic about the proposal, and USOC sources said they would act today out of a sense of duty.

Carter has urged that American athletes boycott the Games if they are held in Moscow, and claims to have lined up support for such a move among 30 nations.

Vance is expected to meet with Killanin in a private session this weekend. Carter and the British peer have had no contact since the president's recommendation was made.

In such a meeting, Killanin could be expected to express his view that a boycott would damage the Olympic movement, which is organized independently of world governments.

For example, if the U.S. did not send athletes and NBC-TV thus pulled out, the IOC would lose about $12 million, which normally would be used to pay administrative costs during the four years between games.

Most public buildings here in compliance with EPA rules

Most of the 20 public buildings in Midland and Odessa checked in December by a team of Department of Energy investigators were in compliance with the federal Emergency Building Temperature Restrictions Program.

Harriett Hahn of the Dallas DOE office, which is in charge of inspections in Texas, said owners or managers of buildings not in compliance were willing "to make some changes."

Odom Fanning, manager of the program in Washington, D.C., said that more than 80 percent of the first 5,000 buildings inspected nationwide were found to be in compliance with the temperature mandate.

Fanning added that of the 20 percent of buildings found not to be in compliance "there are a number of reasons including lack of familiarity with the program, because it's new, or failure to pay attention to it or, in some cases, difficulty in adjusting the heating system to comply with the 65-degree maximum."

Public buildings are required to keep the thermostat set at 78 degrees or higher during summer months. According to Hahn, no list is kept of those buildings which have been inspected or which ones were not in compliance.

Most of the owners of buildings in Midland and Odessa found to not be in compliance didn't know about the program, according to Hahn.

No fines for non-compliance have been issued in Texas, partly because Gov. Bill Clements decided against accepting a federal grant which would have allowed the program to be run by the state energy office, according to Fanning.

Clements supports wire taps

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements law enforcement officers need wiretapping authority to combat the "most cancerous and insidious situation" in the state — Texas' $3 billion illegal drug trafficking business.

In a wide-ranging speech to county judges and county commissioners meeting in College Station Thursday, the governor said he will give the next Legislature a bill to authorize wiretapping by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"This is the most cancerous and insidious situation in our state. It's a must that we have the right of surveillance to deal with drug traffic," the governor said.

"If this invades the right of privacy of those engaged in drugs, then I want to lock those people up," he added.

Speaking before about 800 county government officials at their annual conference, sponsored by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, the governor also:

—promised to seek passage of a bill enabling hospital districts to charge counties for services rendered to residents of those counties. He said some hospitals are serving multi-county areas but aren't being reimbursed.

—reiterated his opposition to nuclear wastes from other states being dumped in Texas. He said he's all for nuclear power, including construction of more nuclear plants in Texas, but "will fight in every way possible" nuclear waste from other states being brought into Texas.

—unveiled plans for a long-range statewide program, "Texas 2000," "to see where we've been, where we are today, and where we're going."

Weizman warns Syria, Soviet Union against starting war on Israeli border

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Defense Minister Ezer Weizman today warned Syria and the Soviet Union against sparking a war on Israel's northern frontier and cautioned them that "we don't respond as others do." "If Syria goes to war it will be as a result of Soviet pressure to heat up the (Arab-Israeli) arena," Weizman was quoted as saying in an interview with the Israeli newspaper Yediot Aharonot. "Both the Russians and the Syrians know that we don't respond as others do, and I hope that they will read us correctly," the defense chief said. Weizman was reacting to Syria's decision to pull its 5,000-man peacekeeping force out of the Lebanese capital of Beirut and concentrate them in an area of southern Lebanon near the Israeli frontier.

His statement came one day after Prime Minister Menachem Begin expressed concern over Syrian troop movements in Lebanon. Speaking to foreign correspondents on Thursday, Begin also pledged to defend Lebanon's Christian minority if the Syrian withdrawal from Beirut leads to new fighting between the Christians and the alliance of Moslem leftists and Palestinian guerrillas.

"If the Christians, either in the south or in the north, are being attacked, Israel will not be passive," Begin warned.

Weizman said Israel has been monitoring the redeployment of Syrian troops in Lebanon.

"If I can use this opportunity to convey a message to Damascus," he told the newspaper, "I will say this: We have no desire and no plan to attack Syria. If what is happening today in Syria is a result of fear of us then the Syrians should relax."

"There are some who believe the Soviet Union needs this (a confrontation between Syria and Israel) in view of its difficulties in Afghanistan. I'm not so sure of this," Weizman said, adding: "Even the Russians know that Israel is not Afghanistan, with all due respect to Afghanistan, of course."

Meanwhile, the military correspondent for the English-language Jerusalem Post said the "implications of Syria's latest troop movements are still not clear."

But, he added, "There is a profound belief among many top military men in Israel that the Syrians are preparing to launch what they foresee as a protracted war of attrition with Israel."

In Lebanon, the Syrian troop shift has touched off fighting between rival Christian militia forces in the north, a new round of sniping and mortar exchanges between the Moslem and Christian enclaves in the capital, and artillery battles between Palestinians and Israeli-backed rightist Christian forces in the south.

The clashes between rival Christian factions continued for a second day today. Government sources said the fighting so far has claimed five lives and left eight persons injured.

Police reported two women were killed by snipers in Beirut overnight and three persons were hurt in mortar duels.

Authorities in southern Lebanon said one woman was killed and five persons were wounded in the overnight shelling of the guerrilla-held market city of Nabatiyeh.

200,000 auto workers idle after GM layoffs

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. layoffs have pushed the number of U.S. auto workers to be idle next week past 200,000 for the first time since mid-January, company reports say.

Total layoffs for the five domestic producers will be 211,825 next week, up 14 percent from the 186,275 reported last week. Of next week's total, 174,500 workers will be on indefinite layoff, with the remaining 37,325 out of a job for a week or two, the automakers said.

The new GM total results from previously unannounced layoffs at its component plants, the carmaker said Thursday.

GM said some 3,900 workers will be idled next week at two plants, one of them a Chevrolet special truck chassis plant in Detroit closed because of a now-settled strike at Indiana's Union City Body Co.

The Detroit plant should resume production Feb. 19, GM said. The largest U.S. automaker reported 1,700 temporary layoffs this week. Indefinite layoffs rose from 70,800 to 92,100.

GM announces assembly plant layoffs each week, but said headquarters does not get reports from other plants until the end of each month.

Meanwhile, Ward's Automotive Reports said U.S. car production this week would dip 2.8 percent to 141,858, compared with 145,929 cars made last week. This week's production is 29 percent below the 187,627 cars made the same week a year ago, the industry journal said.

Chrysler auditors claim record loss of $1 billion

DETROIT (AP) — Struggling Chrysler Corp. lost money last year at the rate of $3 million a day — for a record total of more than $1 billion — and it's not in the clear yet, its auditors say.

The nation's No. 3 automaker expects the losses to continue at about the same rate during the first three months of 1980 as it tries to put together federal guarantees designed to keep it afloat — something Chrysler's auditors said was not assured.

In a report released Thursday, Chrysler listed a 1979 loss of $1.097 billion, more than any U.S. corporation had ever lost in a single year and $24 million more than the company had predicted. The loss amounted to $17.18 a share, compared with a loss of $3.54 in 1978.

The report also disclosed that Chrysler had not repaid loans of $70 million, that it had current liabilities greater than current assets in the amount of $111 million and that Canadian banks had restricted its use of $68 million in deposits.

Congress in December approved loan guarantees totaling $1.5 billion, but Chrysler has not yet arranged them. Company officials said they hope to complete the guarantee requirements, including a financing package, before issuing the first quarter shareholders report.

While it arranges long-term financing, the company must keep going. On Wednesday, Peugeot agreed to lend Chrysler $100 million, using Chrysler's Peugeot stock as collateral. Still, more short-term help is required and some assets may have to be sold and negotiations are continuing, the company said. The report also carried a statement from Touche Ross & Co., the automaker's auditors, who warned Chrysler is "significantly weakened."

"Because the achievement of these plans is dependent upon future events, there can be no assurance that the necessary interim or long-term financing can be arranged, that future operations will occur as planned, that there will be no need to significantly restructure Chrysler's product programs or that the anticipated commercial and industrial arrangement with Peugeot will be achieved," it said.

Suppliers have agreed to let some January bills slide until April, and Chrysler also has received union contract concessions worth $462.5 million over three years.

When 1979 began, Chrysler predicted a break-even year following losses of $205 million in 1978. But the collapse of the U.S. auto market dragged Chrysler's sales from 2.2 million vehicles worldwide to 1.8 million, and revenues from $13.6 billion to $12 billion.

Fourth-quarter revenues sagged from $3.99 billion to $3.05 billion, resulting in a loss of $376 million, or $5.77 a share, compared with a profit of $43.2 million, or 61 cents a share, a year earlier.

The earnings statement from Chairman Lee A. Iacocca and President J. Paul Bergmeyer said Chrysler "expects that its losses in the first quarter of 1980 will continue at about the same rate as the losses of the fourth quarter of 1979."

Prime minister says Thais can't be told

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan, whose government has approved the sale of about $85 million worth of grain to the Soviet Union, declared today that Thailand would make its own trade decisions.

"We are an independent country and no one can tell us what to do," he said. Kriangsak was responding to reports that the United States disapproved of Thailand's decision to sell grain to the Soviet Union. The shipments began last month.

The United States imposed a partial grain embargo on the Soviet Union after the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan. It called on its allies to cooperate.

Pol Pot envoys don't want Viets

SINGAPORE (AP) — Representatives of Pol Pot's deposed Cambodian regime indicated they would accept any government that took power in Cambodia as long as it does not include the Vietnamese, Singapore Foreign Minister Sinnathambay Rajaratnam said.

Rajaratnam met with six officials of the deposed government during talks earlier this week, according to a report published in the Straits Times.

Pol Pot was ousted by Vietnamese invaders 13 months ago. There are still thousands of Vietnamese troops in Cambodia, and Pol Pot's forces are fighting a guerrilla war against them.

Human rights group frightened

MOSCOW (AP) — The banishing of dissident physicist Andrei D. Sakharov is a frightening example of the abuse of Soviet law, a Russian human rights group that includes Sakharov's wife said.

In a statement distributed Thursday to Western correspondents, the panel said Soviet law does not provide for the form of "administrative exile" without trial under which Sakharov was sent to Gorky last month.

"The pride and conscience of our country is proclaimed a criminal and subjected to criminal punishment in violation of the law, the constitution and international agreements on human rights," the group said.

The statement was signed by Sakharov's wife, Yelena Bonner and five other members of the group.

Czech dissidents accuse British

LONDON (AP) — Charter 77, a human rights organization set up by Czech dissidents, accused the government there of ruthlessly and illegally repressing "even the most modest attempts at independent human and civil existence" and said it now realizes any hope of a dialogue with the state is "illusory."

Palach Press, a Czech dissident agency based in London, said the Charter 77 statement was released in Prague on Thursday and telephoned to it.

Charter 77 was set up in January, 1977. It said it "lives on... despite the constant and recently escalated attempts by the state authorities to destroy it."

Tribunal clears Somoza supporter

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — For the first time, a special tribunal has cleared a defendant accused of war crimes for supporting deposed President Anastasio Somoza.

Jacinto Cruz Ibanez, 39, was found innocent of charges of complicity in murder and of being an agent of the former national security office.

More than 70 prisoners have been declared guilty of crimes against the Nicaraguan people since the civilian tribunals began operating last December. They have been sentenced from two to 30 years in jail. There is no death penalty in Nicaragua.

Somoza was overthrown last July.

The intended victim, Lady Sugden, escaped with a broken jaw Wednesday.

Persistence pays off in wild goose chase

WAYNE, N.J. (AP) — A four-month wild goose chase has ended for a persistent New Jersey housewife who finally freed a Canada goose from a plastic six-pack wrap that had become entwined around its neck and head.

Joyce Shapiro, 55, had tried since October to help the goose that fed along with hundreds of others outside her lakefront home in this suburban community of 49,000.

Her vigil paid off Tuesday when she managed to trap the goose in a makeshift cage, cut off the plastic noose and release the animal unharmed.

"He flew out of the cage as free as a bird," she said Wednesday. "It was just marvelous."

The long-necked bird's predicament was discovered last fall by a golfer at the Pakenpack Golf Club, near Mrs. Shapiro's home. The unsightly plastic collar seemed to frighten other geese and made it hard for the goose to eat.

"He could only open his beak about a quarter of an inch," the woman said.

Golfers and bird watchers tried in vain to capture the foot-high goose and feed him. Game wardens were stumped. State officials, contacted because the breed is protected in New Jersey, advised leaving the goose alone as long as he could walk, fly and eat.

While others gave up, Mrs. Shapiro continued her quest. Each morning, she scattered cracked corn in her backyard on Lake Pakenpack. And she built a gated six-by-six foot chicken wire cage to try to confine the bird.

"I was looking out the window yesterday, when I saw that the goose was actually sitting all the way in the cage eating the cracked corn," Mrs. Shapiro recalled excitedly.

"I started to pull the string to the gate, which ran through the window of my husband's study. Of course, the goose heard me but I climbed out the window and managed to force him back. It must have been quite a sight."

Students taking leisure seriously

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — In these parts, no discussion of "good work if you can get it" is complete without mention of Edward J. Mahoney, Ph.D., assistant professor of leisure.

Mahoney teaches at the University of Massachusetts, where students are breaking down the doors of the Leisure Studies Department to enroll in courses like "Philosophy of Leisure," "Introduction to Recreation" and "Leisure Activity Analysis."

But the Leisure Studies Department's course offerings are neither created for nor taken by 250-pound football linemen who don't feel up to the study of intersubjectivity.

"We've limited ourselves to 115 majors. They must have had a B average as freshmen to join the program, and we turn away more students than we accept," says the 29-year-old Mahoney, sitting in his office on the UMass campus.

Leisure is serious business for Mahoney, his colleagues and his students, who are betting that the leisure industry boom of the past 15 years is just the beginning of a great, post-industrial American playtime.

"As people begin to work three- or four-day weeks, get more vacation, retire earlier and live longer, they're going to have more leisure time."

Yet many Americans, says Mahoney, don't even know what to do with the spare time they have now.

"We haven't replaced the work ethic with a leisure ethic," he maintains. "Many people have an aversion to leisure and can't deal with it."

At UMass, one studies the business and the philosophy of leisure. The theory courses are complemented by others in business administration and fiscal management.

As ever, employers like the YMCA, the Boy Scouts and municipal park departments need professionals who know how to organize recreational activities. But they now are being joined in the search for leisure professionals by businesses like ski areas and resort hotels, Mahoney says.

Still, "We encounter a lot of skepticism about the program," Mahoney admits. "The hard science people often don't see the importance of understanding leisure."

Nor would they appreciate the role of professional "leisure counselors," who help those convinced that idle hands are the devil's tools.

And there's always the student's first telephone call home to Mom and Dad, who, when told of their offspring's choice of major, wonder, "Why are we spending money to send you to school to study leisure?"

Leisure study is not concerned with hoisting sail or watching film. Instead, students learn to organize a youth baseball league, motivate beginners or compute a season's receipts.

WASHINGTON TODAY

Reagan counting on debate

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Ronald Reagan, who once shunned campaign debate, now is counting heavily on a televised confrontation with his Republican presidential rivals as a way to come back before it is too late.

The Reagan campaign is not going according to plan, so the plan has been rewritten to include at least one New Hampshire debate and possibly two. In contrast to the rationed campaign Reagan ran in Iowa — where he lost — the former California governor plans to spend at least a week, and probably more, hunting votes for the Feb. 26 presidential primary election.

"I'm going to be here quite a bit," he said. "On the night of the 26th I'll even help count the votes."

The debates and the emphasis on personal campaigning are in marked contrast to his course in Iowa. Reagan's national campaign manager, John P. Sears, said before that caucus contest that his candidate was the leader and therefore in a position to shape the campaign. He said it was the job of the other candidates to make Reagan turn around and confront them.

Former U.N. Ambassador George Bush beat Reagan in Iowa, and all that changed. "You're still considered the front-runner," a supporter told Reagan in Franklin the other night. "I am?" he replied with mock surprise.

He is not acting the lofty role of the leader any more. He has, indeed, turned around to confront the other candidates, particularly Bush. Should there be a second debate in New Hampshire, it probably will be a one-on-one meeting between Bush and Reagan.

Bush has sought all along to make himself the prime challenger to Reagan and leave the rest of the field behind. Reagan strategists now say that, at least for the moment, he has succeeded.

He has the edge, although narrowly, in a Boston

Globe poll of candidate choices among New Hampshire Republicans. He is drawing bigger campaign crowds than is Reagan.

Hence the Reagan decision to join in a seven-candidate debate in Manchester Feb. 20, at a forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters. The same campaign realities make it likely Reagan will agree to face Bush alone Feb. 23, as proposed by the Nashua Telegraph.

Reagan's managers still see television as his strong suit. The all-corners debate will be televised across New Hampshire, and they want similar coverage should they decide to meet Bush.

Hospital cuts off emergency cases

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Bexar County Hospital will accept no more emergency surgery cases because of a severe nurse shortage, officials said Thursday. The indefinite ban includes major trauma cases such as victims of car wrecks and shootings.

Officials of the financially strapped county hospital district issued the order after deciding to close 24 of the 60 surgical care beds. The ward has only seven of the 17 nurses it is supposed to have.

The hospital usually handles 60 percent of the county's "code three" or major trauma emergency cases.

The city-county Emergency Medical Service, which transports those cases, has been instructed to take such cases to other San Antonio hospitals, said hospital spokesman Nestor Reyes.

In the unlikely event a major trauma case arrived by another means of transportation, Reyes said doctors would decide on a case-to-case basis.

Dr. H. David Root, the hospital's chief of emergency room services, said surgery could still be performed on such patients, but they would have to be moved to another hospital as soon as possible.

"There are no immediate plans for reopening the emergency room for patients requiring emergency surgery," said Root.

"It's a crisis situation," said Tom Fordyce, board chairman of the Bexar County Hospital District.

There are dozens of nurse vacancies throughout the hospital, he said.

The hospital district, which raises its money through taxing property owners, has projected a $5 million budget deficit next year. Bexar County commissioners set the tax rate the district is allowed to charge.

Fordyce said the money problems prevent the hospital from paying competitive salaries to nurses. Publicity about the district's money problems also scares off some potential applicants, he added.

There is also a nurse shortage throughout Texas, Fordyce said.

"The problem is money," he said. "We don't have the funds to operate the way we should."

Historic silver dollars on sale through April 8

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are being given an opportunity to purchase nearly a million silver dollars minted in the late 1880s at Carson City, Nev.

The sale of the "cartwheels" lasts through April 8, the General Services Administration announced.

In addition to making the historic coins available to the public, a set of the dollars is also being presented to the Smithsonian Institution's coin collection.

These coins, and a smaller collection of more rare ones to be auctioned later this year, are all that remain of federal holdings of Carson City coins. The coins are 90 percent silver and experts have estimated the value of silver in each coin at about $25. They are, of course, of increased value to collectors.

Currently being offered for sale are coins minted in 1883 at $65 each; those from 1884 at $60 each and mixed coins minted between 1878 and 1885 and 1889 to 1893 at $45 each.

Persons interested in buying the coins should call their nearest Federal Information Center for details. The centers are located in 38 cities and can be reached by toll-free tie lines from other communities. They are listed under U.S. Government in the telephone directory white pages.

Top charismatic tells followers 'stay in church'

DALLAS (AP) — A leader of the nation's growing charismatic movement has advised his colleagues to stay within their churches and work for reconciliation with those who oppose them.

"God will ultimately give you the confidence to win your church," David DuPlessis, a representative of the Assemblies of God, based in Springfield, Ill., told members of the Charismatic Leadership Convocation.

Mark of the Master

When today's hand was played some years ago, Los Angeles expert Meyer Schleifer showed the mark of the master at the second trick. The average West would lead a second heart at the second trick, and South would ruff. Declarer would draw trumps and lead a diamond from dummy.

Declarer took the ace of clubs and led a diamond. East rose with thinking and led another club to the king. When East got his ace of diamonds he could lead a third club to head the contract.

Vietnam cleans out 'old guard' government

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A sweeping government house-cleaning announced today by Vietnam probably was due to inefficiency, old age and poor health, analysts of the situation in Indochina said.

Most noted of those being replaced is Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap, the 67-year-old architect of Vietnam's battlefield victories over France and the United States.

The Vietnamese news agency said Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, economic czar Le Thanh Nghi and a number of other key officials also were being replaced. However, it said Giap, Trinh and Nghi would continue to be deputy vice premiers.

There was no change in the top command, made up of Communist Party chief Le Duan, National Assembly Chairman Truong Chinh and

Gas prices jump by 53 percent

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Gasoline prices in greater Manila soared by as much as 53 percent today to a peak of $2.76 a gallon as the government hiked taxes and increased oil company profits in a bid to cut consumption in this energy-starved nation.

Ponciano Mathay, chairman of the government energy board, said prices would be slightly higher in the provinces.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos announced the increases Thursday and said they would be implemented by the weekend. The government later announced they would take effect at noon today.

Some service station operators jumped the gun, changing their pumps early today, while others turned away prospective customers claiming their stations were out of gas. Long lines developed at the few stations that were operating in the capital.

been free of purges and dramatic changes.

Most of the men of the old guard — including Giap, Dong, Duan and Chinh — shared a long revolutionary past of fighting under the leadership of the late President Ho Chi Minh against the Japanese in World War II, the French in the 1950s and the Americans in the 1960s and '70s.

"It's an effort to sort of whip things into shape," said one Western diplomat in Bangkok, noting that Vietnam is suffering acute economic problems and is bogged down in a war in Cambodia. "Younger blood is being brought in, but it's just as tough and hardline as the people they are replacing."

An initial assessment by several analysts was that Vietnam's general policies were unlikely to change.

"Instead of changing policies they've changed the men," said another analyst in Bangkok. "They've clearly moved up more vigorous men. But I wouldn't write all the old ones off."

The announcement broadcast from

Hanoi said President Ton Duc Thang ordered Giap replaced as defense minister by the army commander-in-chief, Gen. Van Tien Dung, who directed the final victorious 1975 offensive in South Vietnam. Giap, best known for his defeat of the French at Dien Bien Phu, has reportedly taken a less active part in the running of the Defense Ministry in recent years.

Trinh, 79 and in poor health, is succeeded by 54-year-old Nguyen Co Thach, who has been Vietnam's foreign policy spokesman for the past year.

While Giap and Trinh may have been asked to step down because of age and poor health, some analysts believe Nghi was replaced as chairman of the state planning commission because of the government's poor economic performance. One of his deputies, Nguyen Lam, is taking his place, and two new vice chairmen were also named, Tran Quynh, who had been chairman of the state commission for sciences and technology, and Tran Phuong, who replaces Nguyen Huu Mai.

"Economic planning has been terribly rigid, but I don't think any planner would have been able to do any better with the kinds of strains that are being put on the budget," a Western diplomat said.

Vietnam had to fight a costly border war with China a year ago and still has 200,000 troops fighting the Khmer Rouge in Cambodia, 13 months after it invaded the neighboring nation to install a pro-Vietnamese government. And the devastation of the long war against the United States, a series of natural disasters and difficulties in integrating South Vietnam into the socialist system have resulted in vast agricultural deficits and poor performance in many industrial sectors.

Other changes announced today included: —Interior Minister Tran Quoc Hoan, a tough secret police chief, replaced by Deputy Premier Pham Hung, the No. 4 member of the party politburo and a former Viet Cong leader in the South;

—Lam, the new economic boss, and To Huu named deputy premiers, bringing the total number to nine.

—Tran Quang Huy relieved as minister to the premier's office in charge of culture and education and named minister-chairman of the law commission.

—Phan Trong Tue replaced as minister of transport and communications by Dinh Duc Thien.

—Dang Viet Chau replaced as minister of foreign trade by Le Khac.

Man charged with murder in Joy Adamson's death

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Turkana tribesman who worked briefly for Joy Adamson has been charged with the murder, apparently for revenge, of the conservationist and author of "Born Free," an official in the Attorney General's office said today.

The official said the accused man was Paul Nakware Ekai, 23. A friend of Mrs. Adamson said she fired him after an argument with him at her camp near Mount Kenya where she studied leopards.

The friend said he did not know the cause of the argument, but "it certainly appears to be a revenge killing. There seems to be no other motive."

Ekai was brought in for a preliminary court appearance Thursday before Chief Magistrate Patrick O'Connor in Nyeri, 100 miles north of Nairobi. He was ordered held for further investigation and another court appearance on Feb. 20.

Ekai was not required to plead to the charge, court sources said, because consent to prosecute him has not been received from Attorney General Charles Njonjo in Nairobi. The consent was expected to be a formality.

Ekai was believed to be among three former employees of Mrs. Adamson who were detained for questioning after the mutilated body of the 69-year-old woman was found on the night of Jan. 3 about 100 yards from her camp.

Initial reports said she had gone out for her usual evening walk and had been mauled to death by a lion. Police began searching for a murderer after medical experts determined her wounds were not consistent with those made in a lion attack.

A month before the slaying, unofficial sources said, a burglary occurred at the camp, and another took place at the time of the killing.

Mrs. Adamson's death shocked conservationists and her many readers around the world. Her body was cremated and the ashes were scattered over the Meru National Park where her camp was located.

A native of Austria, she emigrated to Kenya in 1937, painted animals, flowers and tribesmen, married game warden George Adamson, and with him began rehabilitating wild animals born or raised in captivity for return to the wilds.

"Born Free," her best-seller on the motherless lion cub Elsa they adopted and returned to the wild, won international acclaim. The book was made into a movie and a TV series. The proceeds financed further experiments with cheetahs and leopards in which Mrs. Adamson reared orphan cubs, observed their behavior and returned them to life in the bush.

She and her husband had lived apart for some years although they remained good friends. He is continuing his own studies of lions in a reserve in northern Kenya

Bombs burn official, wife, baby

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Attackers hurled gasoline bombs into the home of one of Robert Mugabe's party officials early today, severely burning the official, his wife and their 3-month old daughter.

A police spokesman said between three and five bombs were thrown through the bedroom and living room windows of the house of Mobile Chikwata.

He and his wife, Anna, were hospitalized in very serious condition, and their child suffered burns on 20 percent of her legs, face and one arm.

The attack was the eleventh in eight weeks on political figures as parties step up their campaigns for the Feb. 27-29 parliamentary elections that will establish black-majority rule and independence sanctioned by Britain.

Mugabe, the Marxist guerrilla leader who fought a seven-year war against white minority rule, escaped an apparent assassination attempt Wednesday when a grenade exploded outside the security wall around his residence.

Another official of his Zimbabwe African National Union Party was seriously injured in a separate attack the same day.

Mugabe blames irregular security force auxiliaries said to be loyal to former Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa for the attacks on his officials.

But Muzorewa, supported by British Commonwealth troops monitoring the five-week-old Rhodesian cease-fire, maintains most violence and truce breaches are by Mugabe's guerrillas.

More than 800 persons have been convicted of political violence since December, most of them Mugabe supporters or party officials.

Britain's interim governor in Rhodesia, Lord Soames, signed an ordinance this week giving him the power to ban political meetings.

The Midland County Library was the site of a recent meeting of the Midland American Association of University Women.

John Deats, head librarian, explained the different departments of the library and other services the library offers to AAUW members.

Deats told the members he was impressed with the number of people who read at the library during their coffee and lunch breaks. He also said "How To" books were very popular as well as applied sciences, psychology, geology and business books.

Future plans for the library include the use of the VFW building, which the city owns, according to Deats.

Next meeting of AAUW will be reading of original poems by Mrs. Lloyd Lewis. Meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 14 at the home of Mrs. A. J. Tisdale, 3103 Shell St.

Brushing secret to daily removal of plaque

EDITOR'S NOTE: The 32nd annual National Children's Dental Health Week is being observed this week. As part of the week's activities, The Midland Reporter-Telegram, in cooperation with the Permian Basin Hygienists' Study Group, is publishing six articles on dental health. This is the last in a series.

QUESTION: Although I brush my teeth at least three times a day, I still have tooth decay. I'm beginning to wonder if my brushing is effective. Is there a recommended brushing method?

The point of a daily home oral hygiene program is to thoroughly remove plaque — the sticky, colorless adhesive film containing harmful bacteria that constantly coats the teeth — from all surfaces of your teeth. While you may be brushing your teeth properly, there are other factors to consider for complete oral care.

First of all, check to be sure your toothbrush is not worn. If your bristles are bent, frayed or broken, replace it. A worn brush cannot adequately remove plaque and bent bristles can harm your gums. It is a good idea to replace your toothbrush at least four times a year. The brush you use should have soft, end rounded bristles, a flat brushing surface, a straight handle, and a head small enough to reach every tooth.

With regard to a recommended brushing method, the following is one that is currently being suggested for the removal of plaque:

Place the head of your toothbrush alongside your teeth with the bristle tips angled against the gum line.

Move the brush back and forth with short (half-a-tooth wide) strokes several times, using a gently "scrubbing" motion.

Brush the outer surfaces of each tooth, uppers and lowers, keeping the bristles angled against the gum line.

Use the same method on all of the inside surfaces of your teeth, uppers and lowers, still using the short back and forth strokes.

Scrub the chewing surfaces of all the teeth, uppers and lowers.

For the front teeth, brush the inside surfaces of the upper and lower jaws by tilting the brush vertically and making several gentle up and down strokes with the "toe" (the front part) of the brush over the teeth and gum tissues.

Another important component in plaque removal is flossing. The only way to remove plaque and other debris from between the teeth, especially near the gum line where your toothbrush can't reach, is to floss.

DEAR ABBY

Gives her ex a 'Z' rating

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and have been divorced from my ex-husband for over 20 years. All that time I have been bombarded with letters from him telling me he has never stopped loving me — even during his marriage to a French woman while he was stationed overseas.

He has constantly written that he has never known genuine love and sexual satisfaction with any other woman, and I am the only one for him. Abby, such letters would come every day for weeks, and never less than 20 letters a month!

I replied with love and friendship — knowing he was living with another woman in Florida. He phoned me two months ago, saying he couldn't live without me, that he would tell the woman he was living with that she would have to leave, and begged me to join him. (I was in North Dakota.)

I quit my job, packed all my belongings in an enormous U-Haul, and drove to Florida. It took eight days. I called his home, and a woman answered, so I checked into a motel and called him again. He came right over and told me not to worry — the woman was leaving.

He stalled me one day at a time for two weeks. I finally had to find an apartment because I couldn't afford the daily motel rates.

Meanwhile, it became clear to me that the woman was not leaving. He would come to see me, professing his love and wanting sex, but I said not as long as that woman was living with him.

I feel like a fool. I asked him why he asked me to come to Florida while he was still living with another woman. He had no answer. Since I'm not a wealthy woman, I must find employment. I have to find activity, interests and friends or I'll go out of my mind.

I've had crying spells and I'm lonely and depressed. I broke up my home and life to be with this man, and it's turned out to be a disaster.

He's 60, retired from the Air Force and works for the state.

Abby, what should I do? Should I confront him and the woman he lives with? — DESPERATE AND BEWILDERED

DEAR DESPERATE: Don't confront anybody. Admit that you made a big mistake when you disrupted your life to join him. Tell him you never want to see him or hear from him again. Then either go back to North Dakota where you have friends, or try to make a new life for yourself where you are.

DEAR ABBY: Are Americans growing selfish? I see so many letters in your column from people who resent drop-in guests. Why?

If a friend came to my front door, and apologized for coming without an invitation, I would throw my arms around her (or him) and say, "Anybody who wants to see me does not need to wait for an invitation. I feel complimented that you wanted to come."

And I would mean it sincerely. As a newspaper reporter and editor for many years, I have lived, worked and vacationed all over the United States. I have been told repeatedly that I have more friends than anybody else in town.

You see, I share my love, and am repaid with love. — THELMA HALL QUAST, MONTROSE, GA.

DEAR THELMA: Beautiful. (How big is Montrose?)

'Sing-a-grams' started with Lucy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trivia buffs swear it all began when a Western Union operator named Lucille Lipps sang a birthday message to Rudy Vallee.

Nearly half-a-century later, the singing telegram has finally come of age. And just about anything goes — just about anywhere.

In Southern California, the revival of a tradition that Western Union ended six years ago features singing gorillas, tap-dancing birthday cakes and drooling Draculas delivering messages in spots ranging from the poshest restaurants to the barest nudist colonies.

And people are shelling out anywhere from $25 to more than $500 to send greetings for every occasion.

"We once went out on a call and it turned out to be one of those luxury-type kennels," said Karen Crosse of Live Wires.

"It was pretty hard trying to hold the attention of eight dogs wearing little birthday hats," she said.

It wasn't the first time the industry had gone to the dogs.

Singing telegrams have fallen flat at least three times since Ms. Lipps supposedly introduced them in the 1930s.

During and shortly after both World Wars, "telegrams were associated with bad news — boys dying — and they just didn't do them anymore," said Ms. Crosse.

At least one disappointed Western Union customer wasn't about to take the bad news sitting down.

An out-of-work actor who wanted to send a musical message found out Western Union would no longer do the job. So Donald Currie did it himself.

But once was not enough and Currie in 1975 founded Western Union, the firm credited as the first in a new generation of singing telegrams.

Threats of law suits forced Currie to later change his company's name to National Singing Telegrams, said promotions and advertising director Mark Williams.

Today, Williams said, the San Francisco-based firm delivers more than 10,000 singing telegrams a month all over the world.

Expansion has put offices in New York, Los Angeles, Washington, Philadelphia, Chicago and Sacramento. There are also branches in Portland, Minneapolis-St. Paul and San Jose.

Hotline receives 400 calls after four months of service

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A worried young woman is talking graphically about venereal disease with a stranger — a young man with a pleasant voice.

He stems the caller's embarrassment with humor, introducing gonorrhea, for example, as "one of our best sellers this year."

But the anonymous counselor turns serious when telling the caller that an infection she has described can be passed to her boyfriend.

"One good thing about the phone is you don't see me blush," said the man after a compliment on his direct yet warm approach.

The woman obtained advice, encouragement and, above all, answers, by dialing, toll-free, the nation's only "VD hotline," operated by 30 volunteers who work out of their headquarters in this suburb about 25 miles south of San Francisco.

Since the service began last October, daily calls have jumped from 200 to almost 400, according to Bea Mandel, hotline director.

Facing a VD epidemic, the American Social Health Association decided to fight back with a two-pronged attack, said Samuel Knox, national program director for ASHA, which funds the hotline.

One goal, Knox said, is to cut the time between "when a person gets a glimmer something is wrong and when he comes in for treatment."

"If we do it through the mail, it's a day or two that's lost," Knox said. "The hotline is the only rapid and reasonable way to do that kind of service." The second target is to provide women with a "resource that's anonymous, confidential and readily available to test their assumptions and get the callers in (for treatment)," Knox said.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: This year could carry you to the top in business. Finances will be in better condition by year's end. Unexpected gains will come from outside income, possibly in the spring. Change could mark your employment situation. It may be unsettling at the time, but will work in your favor later on.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your company will be much in demand this weekend. You may break through the hard shell an individual has developed. Happiness and love can be order of the day. Reach for the rainbow.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Today you may be given the chance to build constructively for the future. Let loved ones pitch in and help. Love is particularly happy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You desire little more than to be with person who has captured your heart. Do not be extravagant when entertaining. A relative deserves greater understanding.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A financial matter should be cleared up today. Good news may come from official source. Be thankful for helpful neighbors. Keep things harmonious on home front.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Some family affairs may be baffling. Talk things over to find out what is bothering your loved ones. Creative work is rewarding, especially if you are a writer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Younger person looks at you in new light. If married, take something home as a gift. Your surprise will be most appreciated. Singles will enjoy romantic encounters tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Teamwork can have a beneficial effect on your pocketbook. Go along with others' suggestions. Give-and-take attitude pays off handsomely now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Save time for yourself today. News from a distance may be unreliable—check it out. This evening, seek companionship and fun with old friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Co-worker, partner may not be in a cooperative mood. Do not worry if attempts to make peace are not immediately successful. Dress with style if you go out tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be tolerant of those within family circle. Flowers or a box of candy may mean much to someone you love. A hunch gets all relationships back on the right track.

New discrimination in books

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With publication of his seventh book, "Rushes," John Rechy hoped for the impossible — that critics would forget to categorize him as "the homosexual author."

It was a vain hope in view of the book's subject matter — the seamy ritual of "cruising" in a waterfront gay bar.

"I do have a sort of exotic life I guess," Rechy concedes. "But I'm as good a writer as anyone writing now."

"The problem is the homosexual in literature is still viewed as an adjunct, an appendage, not part of the whole flow."

Rechy tells of an effort by his publisher, Grove Press, to win recognition for "Rushes" in a major book review publication.

"Their attitude was, 'We know Rechy is a very serious writer, but we'd have to have two other homosexual books to write about,'" he recalls. "It was as if three homosexual books equal one heterosexual book."

Even now, 17 years after he published his first treatise on homosexual life, "City of Night," Rechy is infuriated at discrimination in the literary marketplace.

"What's amazing," he says, "is that after seven books, after being translated into 12 languages in 20 countries, after teaching at colleges and lecturing at universities, after having my books taught in literature classes, I still have to fight the exact battles I fought with my first book. Censorship still exists."

Some libraries refuse to stock his books. Others keep them in "special collections" not for public display.

"In our time, you'd think the whole thing would have settled down," says Rechy. "But people can't get past it — just the fact that a book deals with homosexuality."

"It's true for all homosexual authors," he adds. "I can understand why Gore Vidal and Truman Capote have just decided to stay away from it — to simply not write about the subject at all."

For Rechy, now in his 40s, homosexuality is a fact of his literary life. He has been writing about it since 1963 when "City of Night" became an underground sensation and was received by critics with undisguised venom.

"When 'City of Night' came out, you can't imagine what I was getting," he says. "The New York Review of Books called it 'a fruit salad.' The Los Angeles Times called it 'a thing.' Someone even suggested I was an accidental writer, for God's sake."

But the book became a best-seller. Rechy says it has now sold over a million copies, and there have been 10 printings in paperback. It was even published in Braille.

"I think 'City of Night' was the book that helped many homosexuals come out of the closet," Rechy says. "Its theme became almost a cliché — a journey of discovery and the discovery is found in the journey itself."

Rechy's own journey to sexual identity began in El Paso, Tex., his hometown. The son of a Scottish musician father and Mexican mother, he knew early discrimination because of his mixed race.

"I didn't fit in," he recalls. "Later I would be a homosexual who didn't conform to what a homosexual was supposed to be. So again I didn't fit in."

He began writing as a small child, attended what is now the University of Texas at El Paso on a scholarship, studied English and French literature and edited the campus literary magazine.

He did not know he was a homosexual.

"After college, during the Korean War, I enlisted in the Army. It was then that I began thinking about homosexuality."

Press says social workers 'gambled with death'

LONDON (AP) — Fourteen-month-old Malcolm Page died hungry, cold and rotting with gangrene in an unheated bedroom. His parents were sentenced to one year in jail for neglect.

Claire Haddon was not yet six weeks old when she died of a fractured skull. Her father was sentenced to life imprisonment for her murder.

In both cases, social workers knew the babies were in trouble, but decided it was best to keep them with their parents — a "gamble with death," as the British press is calling it.

"It was not that no one cared," wrote the London Daily Mail, which accused the social workers of "arrogant complacency."

"They probably did. It was that no one was prepared to move from what the textbooks teach and what ordinary common sense and experience show."

British legislators are demanding a public inquiry into the handling of the cases, both of which were tried in January. Several members of Parliament are pushing for a welfare services shake-up.

The English incidents bring to mind the case in Tennessee of 4-year-old Melisha Gibson, who was tortured and beaten with a baseball bat before her lifeless body was found on Oct. 13, 1976.

Her stepfather, Ronald Maddux, and mother, Wanda Maddux, had served brief terms for abusing her when she was 11 months old. Social workers returned Melisha to the home five months before her death.

The Madduxes were sentenced to 99 years in prison for murder. A new state law requires approval of the Tennessee human services commissioner before an abused child may be returned to parents.

But social workers in Britain, unless armed with court warrants, have no powers to demand anything for a problem family. Some say their main priority is to keep the family together. That policy is at the heart of the controversy.

Despite 48 visits from the Essex County Social Services Department, Malcolm had been so neglected he was near death when finally brought to a hospital.

Five of his toes were gangrenous. His legs were purple with ulcers. The rest of his body was covered in sores and burst blisters, and the thin romper suit he was wearing was soaked in urine.

He had lain on a stinking mattress in an unheated bedroom during Britain's coldest winter in 10 years. The baby died of hypothermia and malnutrition, said prosecutor Kenneth Zucker.

The Pages pleaded guilty to cruelly neglecting Malcolm and to willfully neglecting their 2-year-old daughter, Suzanne. They pleaded innocent to charges of manslaughter in Malcolm's death.

Suzanne and the other Page children, including an infant born after Malcolm died, are now in foster homes, but British legislators want to know why they were not removed from their parents' care sooner.

"We believed the Pages loved their children and that they were in no emotional danger," said social services director Maurice Hawker. "We felt the children were in no physical danger. We were wrong and naturally we regret it."

The evidence presented in court portrayed the Pages as a deeply troubled couple whose children became their victims. Social workers first became concerned in 1978 after some minor problems.

The family had no beds, although Page brought home $160 a week as a storeman. The Pages slept on the floor of a filthy house. Malcolm's diapers had not been changed for days.

In May 1978, the agency decided to place the children in foster homes. But when the Pages cleaned their house, the agency decided to return the children.

"It became a proper home, one where the family could live as a unit," said Susan Riches, 24, the social worker on the case.

From that point, Miss Riches visited once a week and arrangements were made for a family service helper and health visitor to call in.

In the end, it wasn't enough. The judge was openly critical of the social workers, but the Essex County staff denied they were to blame.

"I have no reason to feel guilty," Miss Riches said after the trial. "There is nothing on my conscience."

In the Haddon case, social workers in Birmingham had several warnings the parents were not fit to care for their daughter. But they decided to allow the child to stay at home.

The girl died on Feb. 18, 11 days after Malcolm Page. A pathologist said at the trial that it appeared she had been picked up by the legs and swung against a wall.

Robert Haddon, 23, was sentenced to life in prison. The mother, whose name was not released because of her age — only 15 when Claire died — pleaded guilty to causing the girl grievous bodily harm.

The mother first came to the city Social Services Department's attention as a 13-year-old truant. At 15, she was found living with Haddon in a squalid one-room flat whose toilet was a bucket in the middle of the floor. She had become pregnant.

The baby was born on Jan. 9, 1979. Although social workers knew the state of the flat, they decided to permit mother and child to return. They said they didn't want to break up the mother's relationship with Haddon because it gave her "stability."

"A decision was made, and a carefully taken decision, that these two people had one thing — each other's care and concern," the social services department told the court. "The decision was made not to attempt to break up the relationship but to support it."

On Jan. 24, a health services official called on the Haddons. She found Claire lying wet and half-dressed beside an open window. Calling the 15-year-old mother "a child herself," she recommended the baby be put into a foster home.

But the social services department maintained the baby was well fed and warm. She was killed 25 days later.

His now dimmed memory used to dazzle them all

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — There was a time, before age dimmed his memory, when Chief Coy dazzled the boys at George the Greek's shoeshine parlor.

The chief had a marvelous memory. He could name the 48 states and the capitals, all the presidents of the United States, the first 50 popes and a string of other such facts — in four minutes flat, every time.

He never used a missal for Mass at Sacred Heart, the brown stone Catholic church where he went every morning. And once Coy claimed he'd never been asked a question about the Bible or ancient history he could not answer.

"He was a smart man," said George Manias, who is still shining shoes in his shop on Fulton Street. "He never drink or smoke or chase the women or that stuff, but he know a lot." The chief developed his great memory after quitting the ring. He quit the ring after beating everyone, an impressive skein of wrestlers and boxers the likes of Cyclone Miller and the Texas Bull Dog and even Knockout Brown, whom he knocked out in three rounds.

The readers of the National Police Gazette called him the most popular welterweight in the country in 1929 and gave him a silver watch. Readers voted for him because of his gumption and because of his face.

Chief Coy had an awesome face. The right side was paralyzed, frozen in place like the last days of a punchdrunk fighter. But his disfigurement happened long before he stepped into the ring. And as he grew up, his great, slanting face became his trademark as a fighter and later as a strongman, marathon runner and memory expert.

Coy will be 78 years old this month and doesn't live anymore in his old room at the Jefferson Hotel where on the walls he had a picture of Jesus and a picture of himself. He lives now at Pavilion Arms, a nursing home.

"You know my records?" he said recently, sitting by the window in the sun. "I got records'll never be broke."

In his prime, Coy bent steel bars into three-leaf clovers and ripped tobacco tins in half with his teeth. A brochure he had printed years ago proclaimed him "Robert 'Chief' Coy, The World's Most Versatile Athlete."

There was the time he played 1,000 holes of golf without stopping, 51 hours straight, at the Madison Golf Course in Peoria. Once he played the piano in the window of a local music store for 118 hours, mostly "Blessed Jesus, Keep Me in Your Heart" and "Till We Meet Again."

"It was election time," George laughed. "He'd get politicians to pay him to put up their posters next to his piano. Chief Coy didn't tell them he was putting their opponents up, too."

Sometimes barefoot, sometimes in pouring rain, Coy would run long distances just to show he could do it. And once, on a $25 bet, he says he turned over a Model T Ford coupe, then upright it, tied a rope to the front end, slipped a loop around his fireplug of a neck and pulled the car around the block.

But for the locals, Coy's greatest achievement was the great pocket billiards marathon of 1930 at at George Chiamas' pool hall downtown. Coy vowed to play billiards longer than any human being in the history of the world.

Newspaper stories recorded the event. Coy began at midnight and as the week wore on, crowds came and went. After a couple of days, Coy started mistaking the nine ball for the cue ball, but otherwise kept on his feet.

Middle-class area is featured in guide for the best in city

NEW YORK (AP) — People usually think of the Michelin Guide as a beacon for tourists, diners and others looking for the best in a city.

So it was more than a little intriguing when the Michelin people were recently persuaded to put out one of their little "green books" featuring, of all places, Washington Heights-Inwood: a quiet, somewhat drab-looking middle-class area in the northern-most reaches of Manhattan.

If tourists are tempted at all to visit the area, it usually is to see the Cloisters, a monastic-looking museum that houses a wealth of medieval art.

The area is an urban textbook of contrasts, surprises and contradictions, perhaps the biggest of which is how its ethnically diverse middle-class residents have teamed up with banks, universities and other powerful neighborhood forces in the past year to make this once declining area suddenly come back strong.

It may, in fact, be the very last genuinely middle-class neighborhood in "Fortress Manhattan" that will stay that way in the next decade. All other areas have become either very rich, or very poor.

So the hope of tourism wasn't the main reason for persuading Michelin to write them up. Neighborhood activists wanted somehow to tell the rest of the city that the area is doing fine, thank you, in large part because the community found common ground with banks and other powerful forces that are located there.

Consider the odds: to the south of Washington Heights-Inwood is Harlem. A stone's toss across the Harlem River to the east is the South Bronx. Adding to the jitters in recent years was a rise in arson, and rapid population changes with new immigrants coming in and the middle class moving out.

And the changes were coming at a time when New York neighborhoods were pretty much left on their own to survive because the city government was busy struggling against its own near-bankruptcy.

Reflecting on this a year or so ago, Carol Parry, vice president of the Washington-Inwood branch of Chemical Bank, wondered if her bank and other powerful institutions with a stake in the neighborhood could be of some help in stemming the decline by banding together.

"We wanted to get the message out that the neighborhood is not as bad as everyone thinks," Ms. Parry said in a recent conversation.

She was able to build a 39-member consortium of the area's most mighty, including hospitals, universities, religious and cultural groups, and even banks that were sometimes accused of redlining the area.

Then came the more delicate task of convincing a sometimes skeptical community that this consortium was not interested in a local power grab, but was truly sincere in wanting to upgrade the area.

Judging from talks in the neighborhood, they've succeeded.

Says John Fiorillo, an assistant vice president of Columbia University which owns considerable property in the area: "We reached a conclusion that our survival as an institution implies the survival of the place we're in. We joined this effort as a matter of self-interest, not altruism."

What the consortium gave Washington Heights-Inwood was clout. Partly through its efforts, 10 percent of the area's housing stock has been rehabilitated with an additional $50 million of work scheduled for the next several years.

Recent public-private ventures include renovation of a 96-apartment building, purchase of new trash baskets and the creation of a new public mall.

The clout has also been felt in City Hall. Last year, for instance, a private developer wanted to buy a vacant parcel of city-owned property in the neighborhood to build a roller disco. The neighborhood, however, had hoped to use the parcel for a hotel or a shopping mall.

Members of the consortium lobbied hard against the roller disco in a Board of Estimate meeting — the board being the city's most important legislative body. And the board was so astonished to see community bankers and hospital and university representatives fighting for a neighborhood that they won their fight.

Kennedy wants strong Israel

By STEPHEN C. SMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — American interests in the Persian Gulf can best be protected by a strong Israel and a drastically reduced thirst for Mideastern oil, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy told a Jewish group here.

"Above all else, we must strengthen our alliance to Israel," the Democratic presidential contender told the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith Thursday night.

Speaking at the fashionable Breakers hotel, the Massachusetts Democrat said pressure on U.S. policy in the Persian Gulf from the Soviet Union and from oil producing countries can only be stopped by "putting our energy house in order."

The crowd of Jewish leaders from throughout the United States bestowed its most enthusiastic applause on Kennedy when he called for strong U.S. support of Israel. There is no "stable and democratic nation in the region besides Israel," Kennedy said.

Kennedy was particularly critical of Saudi Arabia, which he said wants sophisticated weapons but refuses to sell the U.S. oil to build up petroleum reserves.

"It's intolerable when Saudi Arabia has questioned whether it will sell us oil to fill our strategic reserves," Kennedy said, his voice rising in anger as he departed from his prepared text.

Saudi says oil glut possible

DAVOS, Switzerland (AP) — Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said Thursday there are signs of an approaching oil glut.

He mentioned as probable causes the increased Mexican and North Sea output, falling consumption in industrialized countries and reduction of stocks.

At the same time, Yamani said oil producing nations might cut back production if they can not be assured of a "reasonable return" to offset inflation.

But he was convinced, he said, that a likely East European oil shortage in the second half of this decade was a major reason for the recent Soviet intervention in Afghanistan — putting Russians closer to the Middle East oilfields.

"If the Soviet Union marches to the oil fields there will be a third world war, because it will be met by the armies of the United States, Western Europe and Japan," Yamani told an international business symposium here.

Yamani said Saudi Arabia has secondary oil fields whose development could increase oil supplies by about 20 percent and set back the date when oil is expected to be used up by about 30 years. But he said the investment

Strike passes 30-day mark

DENVER (AP) — The nationwide strike against oil refineries by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union passed the 30-day mark with a seventh independent coming to terms with strikers and another one rejecting a union offer.

Total Petroleum Inc. of Alma, Mich., settled with OCAW on Thursday, said Jerry Archuleta, an OCAW spokesman. He said Total Petroleum has 180 union refinery workers in Alma and three at a marketing terminal in Lansing, Mich.

Archuleta said that Total Petroleum workers were expected to vote on the agreement today.

The agreement meets a union counteroffer calling for a guaranteed $1-per-hour wage increase, $125 per month for medical-insurance premiums, $20 per month for dental insur-

Schlesinger says 'deployment' needed

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger said Thursday protection of the Persian Gulf oilfields will require a "major redeployment" of U.S. forces into the Indian Ocean.

Schlesinger, who also served as America's first energy secretary, told reporters West Germany should boost its military forces in central Europe substantially to free American troops for duty near the Persian Gulf.

"If we are to preserve access to the Gulf in the course of the decade ahead, it will require a major effort on the part of the West and particularly on the part of the United States," Schlesinger said. "This will require a major redeployment of U.S. forces into the Indian Ocean."

President Carter said in his State of the Union address last month the United States was prepared to defend the Persian Gulf oilfields militarily if necessary.

Schlesinger, here on a private visit, said the idea that the United States could defend the Gulf by "intermittently sending its forces into the area" on naval task forces "is based more on wish than realism."

He said rapid deployment forces being planned for movement to world trouble spots "are not a substitute for forces in the region."

BUSINESS MIRROR

Despite law, people retiring around age 65

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When the mandatory retirement age was raised to 70 years from 65, effective Jan. 1, 1979, concern developed among some executives that corporate mobility would be slowed.

That's a considerable worry in some companies, one arising from the belief that if old-timers linger in the push jobs at the top they'll clog up the advancement routes for younger executives with new ideas.

A bottleneck of that sort could have immediate consequences, forcing innovative young men and women to leave, perhaps slowing productivity growth and weakening competitiveness.

So what, the late-retirement advocates said, at age 65 a worker often is healthy, generally useful, and sometimes in need of the money that goes with a job. He and she is not to be cast aside as all worn out.

There was power behind the movement. Consumer representatives, self-appointed, had learned how to get their way in Washington. And the geriatric generation was growing as a proportion of population.

The arguments sounded very logical and eminent-fair, but they may not have served the need. This facet of "retirement revolution" seems to have become a fizzle, or so the early reports would indicate.

Workers continue to retire in their mid-60s, regardless of their right to continue on to 70. Retirement is as before. The usual rites of the event — the watch, the luncheon, the little check — remain unscathed.

In responses from 267 employers, the Bureau of National Affairs found only a fifth had an increase in workers staying longer than before. The law, said the bureau, a private business research organization, "had no or very little impact on the vast majority of employers."

The survey was conducted last August, when the amendment to the Age Discrimination in Employment Act was in force less than a year, so the early results might be somewhat skewed. Workers who years earlier had made their plans, for example, might have been unable to change.

But there may be positive reasons too. With Social Security indexed to reduce the impact of inflation, and with retirees permitted to earn a bit more income than before, the financial terrors have been lessened.

Some retirees have been getting bigger checks than before, not just in dollar terms but in buying power too. The consumer price index, for example, includes several percentage points that many retirees do not incur, especially if they own their houses outright.

Retirement also has become more institutionalized. It is hardly the haphazard experience it was 25 years ago. Retirement homes, community-supported gathering places, and travel, sports and social events are part of the scene today.

Future polls might revise these early findings, but there does seem to be the suggestion that age 65 retirement, in spite of the rhetoric, may be the liking of retirees.

If so, the worries may have been overstated.

Corporations need not have worried so much about lowered productivity, younger workers need not have worried about their careers being slowed, and some of the so-called public interest advocates need not have worried so about the retirees.

Today he lives in this quiet East Texas town and walks with a cane. But he remembers well the days when he lived by a simple code: "I never shot anybody that didn't need shooting."

Van Zandt, born in Tennessee and reared in Fort Worth, said he left home at age 18 and worked as a cattle guard on a Mexican ranch. He said that's when he killed his first man, a Mexican soldier trying to steal a cow. But he found himself in deep trouble because of a cow.

"I had two choices then. Join the Mexican army or be arrested and shot," he said. He joined the army, but escaped by stealing a colonel's horse and riding for 32 nights — sleeping days — crossing back into Texas just east of El Paso.

He was wounded in France in World War I, and, after recovering, became one of 33 Texas Rangers, earning $90 a month and providing his own horse and guns. Van Zandt's territory stretched from San Antonio to El Paso.

GARAGE SALE

Patrol Sale: Yard Sale whatever term you use, it's an enjoyable and profitable experience. It's your opportunity to "clean out" while you "clean out." You'll become re-acquainted with your neighbors and meet new friends, and the fresh air is good for your health.

Check your attic, basement, garage and closets for good, but no longer used items - furniture, tools, the list goes on and on. Every item should be priced, of course. You may want to combine your sale with a friend or neighbor. Choose your day, get your signs ready and place your ad in the Classified section. Your ad should list a few key items, give the date, time, and good directions.

A friendly Classified Ad Visitor will help you word your Garage Sale ad for maximum results.

Midland Sports Banquet II: A rousing success

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

After the first Midland Sports Banquet, everyone wondered what Midland Cubs General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., could come up with as an encore worthy of Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, last year's feature speaker who went over like a grand slam in the last of the ninth with the home team three runs behind.

Strange as it may seem, Bill came up with Tom Gorman, a retired National League umpire of 25 seasons, who ranks in the same league with the ex-New York Yankee pitching great as an after-dinner tale teller.

After absorbing an evening of umpire barbs, Gorman delighted close to 375 fans at Midland Country Club with "The Other Side", tossing anecdotes and one-liners with an easy abandon that would make even a Henny Youngman marvel. "I wish I'd said that."

Gorman was the feature speaker on a night in which baseball Hall of Famer Warren Spahn, two-time Indianapolis winner Johnny Rutherford, Midland Cubs Manager Randy Hundley, Texas Rangers' third baseman Buddy Bell and ex-SMU-New York Giants' great Kyle Rote shared the rostrum. And with Chicago Cubs General Manager Bob Kennedy forced to attend a National League meeting in New York City, unexpectedly, Chicago Farm Director C.V. Davis filled in as a pinch-hitter.

And as Rigney promised, there were as many dignitaries in the audience as at the head table, including pro football Hall of Famer Dante Lavelli of Cleveland Browns immortality; Midland's own Jim Hall and Tom Brahaney; Texas coaching legend Darrell Royal; Bobby Layne, the Texas Longhorn-Detroit Lions quarterback; ex-Texas Aggie and Detroit Lions back Bob Smith; Texas Rangers owner Brad Corbett; and Mrs. Vivian Smith, whose husband was an original investor in the Houston Colt 45s, now the Houston Astros.

But, of course, Gorman was the night's star, emphasizing the lonely plight of the man-in-blue with an introductory "A lot of people don't think we were born."

In an explanation of why umpires are the way they are, he enlightened the harping critics by pointing out, "Whether it's the hot sun, good lights or bad lights, we spend the game behind the plate and it's the same thing for nine innings...ball-strike-ball-strike..."

Gorman observed for their efforts, they get nothing but complaints. When Yogi Berra, a notorious bad ball hitter, was up, "If he didn't swing, it was a strike. One time he complained, 'Where was the pitch?' I said, 'Guess.'"

Gorman didn't spare Spahn either. "Once on a close pitch, Spahnie complained 'Tom, I think the pitch caught a corner.' I told him, 'Tonight we're using a round plate.'"

Gorman went on, it's amazing how many times we're right on close plays at first. We can't yell it, so any time we get a bang-bang play at first, the batter is out...it gets the game over faster."

In rating his managers, Gorman said "Casey Stengel was never abusive. Leo Durocher was heartburn. Gene Mauch had a beautiful vocabulary...I never heard of some of the words he used."

But Gorman asserted, he got along with managers, even Leo Durocher. When he heard Leo had recently had a bypass heart operation in Houston, he called him up. "Leo was amazed. 'You are one of the few people who have called. I didn't expect this, Tom, because I know you put me out of a couple of games.' I told him it was 18. 'Why did you call?'"

Tom evened a few old scores by replying, "I wanted to see if you were dying."

Former major league baseball umpire Tom Gorman couldn't have been a better choice as feature speaker for the second Midland Sports Banquet, held Thursday night at Midland Country Club. Gorman kept the large crowd at bay with a bundle of baseball barbs, and often, his actions spoke louder than words. (Staff Photos by Brian Hendershot)

Struggling Owls Pierce Red Raiders, 71-61

By The Associated Press

Texas Tech, on the heels of the season's biggest upset, stumbled against eighth-place Rice Thursday night, 71-61, and Red Raider coach Gerald Myers confessed later, "I can't predict what this team's gonna do."

Asked if he had ever had such a hot-and-cold team, Myers responded, "Just this one."

Tech knocked off Texas A&M by 10 points in Lubbock Monday night, inflicting the first Southwest Conference loss of the season on the Aggies.

Rice led virtually all the way Thursday night. The Red Raiders played probably their best defensive game of the season against A&M. Their defensive effort against Rice, Myers said, was one of their worst.

IN THE OTHER SWC game played Thursday night, Arkansas pulled away from a 26-26 halftime tie and defeated Baylor 70-51 to move back into a tie with A&M for the conference lead with a 10-1 record.

A&M beat SMU 67-56 and Texas beat TCU 90-62 in games played Wednesday night.

Rice's victory over Tech threw the battle for third place and a bye in the post-season tournament wide open again. Tech and Texas now are tied with 7-5 records.

Rice scored 10 straight points in the first half to take a 32-26 halftime lead, then widened its lead to 42 when the Raiders went the first 4:52 of the second half without scoring.

MYERS DREW TWO technical fouls in the second half, but Rice lost a chance to break the game wide open when Bobby Tudor missed all four free shots.

"When Bobby missed those shots, I walked over to our trainer and said, 'It's not in the cards for us to win,'" Rice coach Mike Schuler said.

"But I told our kids just to pull up their shorts and don't let this happen to us," Schuler added.

Tech staged a mild rally to close to within three points, but Rice went into a delay game and held on for the win.

ARKANSAS HELD Baylor to 27 percent from the field the first half and 31.9 percent for the game. After a sluggish first half, the Porkers cruised to an easy victory.

"Our offense was too passive in the first half, and we did a much better job in the second period," Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton said.

"Terry Teagle is a great player, and we knew he'd get some points. But we did a great job of stopping the other guys who can hurt you," Sutton said.

Teagle, the conference's leading scorer, hit 26 points, more than half Baylor's total.

Bear coach Jim Haller said Arkansas didn't look much different the second half.

"We just shot poorly. I thought it was a miracle we were tied at halftime because we shot only 27 percent."

McGill, Tate combine to dump NMMI

Chaps raise mark to 22-2

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

Midland College had Robert Tate and Chuckie McGill while New Mexico Military Institute could have used Lewis Lloyd.

The nationally-ranked Chaparrals took a narrow 68-66 victory over the young Broncos with Tate and McGill paving the way Thursday night in the Chaparral Center.

TATE FLIPPED in 19 points and McGill 14 as Coach Jerry Stones' outfit chalked up their 22nd victory against two losses and brought their Western Junior College Conference record to 11-1 with the win.

NMMI, now 11-11 on the season and 4-6 in WJCC play, didn't play like they were out of the race.

Of course, Lloyd is now playing his college basketball with Drake and is the No. 3 scorer in the nation and also one of the top rebounders too.

Anyway, MC seemed a little too confident during the warmups and Stone even saw that at halftime when he said he felt his team was in too festive of a mood with a 39-34 lead.

NMMI only has two sophomores on its roster and one of them — Carlos Judkins, a 6-foot-4 center from Newport News, Va., and 6-5 freshman Joe Brown from Philadelphia, Pa., almost pulled off the WJCC upset of the year. Judkins netted 18 points and Brown 16 before both left the game with five fouls late in the second half.

While the two postmen were scoring well inside, it was 5-foot-9 freshman guard Shannon Lilly, a Dallas native, who gunned in 20 points with eight of those coming from the free throw line where he was deadly. In fact, he connected on eight-out-of-eight at the charity line.

FREE THROWS kept the Broncos close and the New Mexico team even went ahead, 42-41 with 16:08 left in the second half on Lilly's driving layup. A slam-dunk by Brown gave NMMI a 44-41 lead, but this seemed to wake up the Chaps. Kenneth "Bigtime" Young hit a basket and teammates Charles Johnson and McGill, fired up MC for a 47-44 lead with 13:58 left in the game.

It was nip-and-tuck the rest of the way and when MC took a 52-48 lead with 10:58 left, Stone ordered his team into a delay game. It was tied on four more occasions and the Broncos took a 60-58 lead on a slam-dunk by Judkins with 5:32 left in the contest. He was whistled for a technical on the dunk when he hung on to the rim and Tate took advantage, hitting the free toss to cut the lead to 60-59.

McGill went to work by hitting consecutive buckets for a 63-60 MC lead with 4:32 left.

NMMI came within one point when Ralph Mack sank a pair of free throws to make it 63-62, but Tate came up with the key defensive play of the game when he blocked a shot attempt by Brown and the Chaps got the rebound with 1:04 left and called time out.

YOUNG, WHO didn't start and only scored four points, hit a very important basket with 1:01 left on a determined drive to make it 65-62 and McGill's two-pointer made it 67-62 with 28 ticks left on the clock. Tim Shelby connected with a free toss for a 68-62 advantage with 15 seconds left and it was Lilly who scored an amazing four points in the final six seconds that made the finish very close indeed.

Midland College travels to Amarillo Monday for another tough WJCC game. The Chaps have beaten the Badgers by one point in Amarillo in a tournament early in the year and then they took an overtime win in the Chap Center on Dec. 10.

MIDLAND COLLEGE (8) — Jeff Ray 20-14; Tim Shelby 23-29; Robert Tate 7-5-3-18; Chuckie McGill 7-9-2-14; Charles Johnson 6-1-4-9; Scotty Tutwiler 0-0-0-0; Kenneth Young 2-0-1-4; Derrick Wilson 3-1-0-7; Kevin Williamson 9-0-0-0; Ernie Tate 1-0-0-2. Totals: 29-18-13-48.

NEW MEX. MILITARY (8) — Shannon Lilly 6-4-20; Chris Richardson 2-2-4; Brian Summers 1-0-1-2; Carlos Judkins 9-0-1-18; Joe Brown 8-0-5-16; Ricky Abreu 0-0-0-2; Ralph Mack 1-2-0-4. Totals: 27-12-17-48.

Halftime Score: Midland College 29, NMMI 24. Fouled out—Brown, Judkins, NMMI.

Landry holds firm on Henderson; Troubled linebacker may join Saints

DALLAS (AP) — Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson says he would like to play for the New Orleans Saints since the Dallas Cowboys remain unwavering in their decision to have nothing more to do with the flamboyant, outspoken linebacker.

Henderson and Dallas Coach Tom Landry met for a half hour Wednesday, with Landry rejecting Henderson's plea for reinstatement.

The 26-year-old five-year National Football League veteran retired after Landry announced Nov. 19 he was placing him on waivers for being a disruptive factor on the team. But he later changed his mind and requested Wednesday's meeting with Landry.

After Landry turned him down, he asked "out of frustration" if Landry would sound out New Orleans Coach Dick Nolan about his playing there, he said.

Oh no! Here come the Bobcats again

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Those pesky San Angelo Bobcats are coming to town again (8 p.m. today at the Chaparral Center) and Midlanders are hoping that the old Bobcat's foot has run its string of lucky punches in boys action.

Of course, both sides of Midland have come to know and fear the Bobcats this year. They handed Midland High an upset loss in the first half, and thanks to that effort, the Bulldogs find themselves in the current state of affairs — trying to keep on winning while hoping someone beats Odessa Permian along the way.

Midland High, thanks to that first half loss to San Angelo, tied Permian for the first half title. Then the Bulldogs lost the second half opener to Permian, leaving the Odessa team in the driver's seat for the second half title and the playoff berth. Midland High must force at least a second half tie with Permian to gain that sought after playoff spot.

San Angelo is no friend of Midland Lee fans either. The Bobcats defeated the Rebs in overtime in the first half and have moved the Rebels into a tie for second place in the second half with a convincing win over Lee at the Chaparral Center. San Angelo then turned around the next night and lost to Abilene Cooper. Whatever the Bobcats have, they seem to have it best against Midland teams.

The Lee Rebels travel to Big Spring today and should maintain at least a share of second place, but both the Rebels and Bulldogs will be keeping an ear out to the happenings in Odessa where Permian is entertaining Cooper. A Cooper upset could lift both local teams into a share of the second half lead with the Panthers.

Radio Station KBAT is carrying the play-by-play of the Reb-Steer game.

Big Spring has not won a 5-4A game this year in 10 attempts, so hopefully, the Rebs will use this one to warm up for Tuesday's last stand "Alamo" battle with Permian at the Chap. If the Rebs are to earn a shot at the second half title, that game with the Panthers will be the "must" win of the year.

Meanwhile, Midland High doesn't have it so easy with San Angelo. The Bobcats are an unpredictable breed.

NEW YORK (AP) — So many disappointments have plagued baseball's long struggle to get the A's out of a money-losing situation in Oakland and into a potentially profitable one in Denver that American League President Lee MacPhail is refusing to be optimistic about the latest development.

League clubowners at a meeting Thursday agreed to a request from the Oakland Coliseum board of directors to keep alive until Tuesday a $4 million offer to buy out the remaining eight years of the A's lease.

It has been the board's refusal to release the A's from the lease that has prevented Charley Finley from selling his team, plagued by low attendance, to Denver oilman Marvin Davis.

When it was suggested that the request for an extension of the buyout deadline might be an indication of a willingness by coliseum officials to make a deal, MacPhail said: "It's possible. But things are so confusing out there I couldn't hazard a guess whether or not they will be able to meet our time deadline."

MacPhail indicated the offer would have been withdrawn had the extension not been asked for, because, "we're running out of time as far as the 1980 season is concerned. If the team is moved, as we want it to be, there are certain things that must be done in Denver to prepare for a new team."

The $4 million offer includes contributions from the league, Finley, Davis and the National League's San Francisco Giants, who share the Bay Area market with the A's.

The AL owners met separately in the same hotel as National League owners who gave expected approval to the sale of the New York Mets for a record $21.1 million to a group headed by Doubleday and Co., book publishers.

Nelson Doubleday, president of the publishing concern, and now chairman of the board of the Mets, who put the bulk of the money, said the purchase was a "sound business investment for Doubleday." The Mets, before their recent decline in the standings and at the gate, were considered one baseball's most profitable franchises.

Another member of the purchasing group, Fred Wilpon, an executive of a real estate investing firm, said work would begin immediately on rebuilding the Mets. Wilpon, now the club's president and chief executive officer, confirmed that Joe Torre would remain as field manager, but said no decision had been made on Joe McDonald's status as general manager.

McDonald, who conceded he has had discussions with the Texas Rangers, said he has roots in New York and with the Mets and had asked to stay on.

Club owners from both leagues were briefed on contract talks with the Players Association by Ray Grebey, their chief negotiator. Chub Feeney, NL president, said there was reason for optimism about a settlement, but added, "Of course, I don't know what's in the other side's heads."

Midland boxers breeze in Golden Gloves tilts

ODESSA — Midland boxers had an easy time of it Thursday night in the second round of the 34th annual Regional Golden Gloves Tournament in the Ector County Coliseum.

The Fort Stockton team failed to show when its members had four flat tires trying to get to the tournament.

Midland boxers won seven bouts, but three of those decisions came on defaults to Fort Stockton fighters.

In the Junior High School Football Division, Tall City fighters won sixfights with Jody Gill, 92-pounder, winning over Tommy Brooks of Monahans while Kenneth Johnson, a 102-pounder from Midland won by default over Fort Stockton's Pete Celya.

Felix Munoz of Midland won by default over Rankin's Randy Dan Fulton while Jerry Colazo, a 110-pounder, took a decision over Eddie Garcia of Bowie. Felix Hall, 160, defeated Hood's Richard Tedford and Ruben Tegel of Midland, competing in the 155-pound division.

In the High School Football Division, Cedrick Green, 136 of Midland, won by default over Fort Stockton's Steven Williams.

There are 48 bouts on tap today with the first one beginning at 7:30 p.m. with more fights Saturday and the finals are scheduled for Monday night with the Open Division fighters advancing into the State Tournament in Fort Worth in March.

Lee Rebel girls are close to securing playoff spot

The Midland Lee girls are within one victory of nailing down a state playoff berth after drubbing Big Spring, 62-24, Thursday night at the Lee gym.

Midland Lee, needing only a second half tie to gain the playoff spot for District 5-4A for the third year in a row, got some help from Abilene High Thursday when the Eagles defeated second half leader Odessa High, 59-56, in Odessa. Lee and Abilene High now share the second half lead with 5-1 records while Odessa slipped to 4-1. Lee can win the overall title Monday by defeating Odessa Panthers in Odessa. A Lee loss, however, could force a district playoff.

Gale Wilson led the Rebels over Big Spring with 21 points while Judy Taylor added 11 and Leshia Watkins 10. Pam Banks led Big Spring with 11 points.

The Lee defense was superb in this one and ran to a 30-4 halftime lead. Big Spring scored only two points in the first period and two in the second quarter.

Lee is now 24-7 on the year while Big Spring fell to 6-22 on the season and 0-6

Burns tied at Hawaii

By The Associated Press

TENNIS — Third-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia eliminated Roberta McCallum 6-2, 6-2 in the quarterfinals of a $125,000 women's professional tennis tournament.

In the other quarterfinals match, No. 2 seed Tracy Austin scored a 6-0, 6-1 triumph over Carolyn Stoll, who didn't win a game until the fifth game of the second set.

GOLF — George Burns fired a 7-under-par 65 to tie Leonard Thompson for the first-round lead in the 72-hole, $325,000 Hawaiian Open golf tournament at the Waialae Country Club.

Tom Watson, shot a 67, while Jerry Pate finished his round with an even-par 72. Defending champion Hubert Green, who won the Hawaiian in both 1978 and 1979, the latter with a record 287, required four shots to get out of a bunker on the 166-yard, par-3 hole and shot a 39 for the first nine and a 76 for the round.

FOOTBALL — Ara Parseghian, whose lifetime victory total at Notre Dame was exceeded only by Knute Rockne, was elected to the National Football Foundation's Hall of Fame.

Parseghian compiled a record of 170-58-6 in 24 seasons of college coaching, including 95-17-4 in 11 years at Notre Dame.

Lowly Canucks humble Flyers

By The Associated Press

The Vancouver Canucks had won only once in their previous 13 games. The Philadelphia Flyers were unbeaten in 26 home games. So, naturally, the lowly Canucks went into Philadelphia and knocked off the high-flying Flyers 4-1 Thursday night.

"The streak meant nothing to me," said Vancouver Coach Harry Neale. "To win is the important matter."

Rick Vaive's two goals helped the Canucks end the Flyers' home unbeaten streak eight games short of the Montreal Canadiens' National Hockey League record.

"We're really glad the streak is over," said Flyers' Coach Pat Quinn. "It actually takes some pressure off us."

In other action, the Buffalo Sabres crushed the Pittsburgh Penguins 9-0, the Boston Bruins outlasted the Toronto Maple Leafs 8-6, Montreal edged the Colorado Rockies 4-3 and the New York Islanders downed the Los Angeles Kings 4-1.

Vancouver's Vaive tallied his eventual game-winner midway through the second period when his slap shot deflected off the stick of Flyers' goalie Phil Myre. His second goal came into an empty net with only 44 seconds remaining.

Sabres 9, Penguins 0

Danny Gare's three goals — he has 35 for the season — supported the shutout goaltending of Don Edwards while Ric Seiling added two goals and Gil Perreault, Craig Ramsay, Tony McKeegney and John Van Boxmeer also tallied.

Canadiens 4, Rockies 3

Rod Langway's second goal of the season with 5:34 left gave the Canadiens their fourth consecutive victory. Langway, playing the left point, took a cross-ice pass from Larry Robinson and fired an off-balance shot that fooled goalie Hardy Astrom. The Canadiens jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first two minutes on goals by Mario Tremblay and Guy Lafleur but the Rockies took a 3-2 lead before the period ended on two goals by Jack Valiquette and one by Rene Robert. Pierre Mondou tied it for Montreal late in the second period.

Islanders 4, Kings 1
Mike Bossy scored his 36th and 37th goals of the season and tied Bryan Trottier's club record by scoring at least one point in his 18th consecutive game. John Tonelli and Billy Harris scored the other New York goals while Los Angeles' Marcel Dionne got his 41st goal of the season, tops in the NHL, with 6:12 remaining. The Kings suffered their seventh consecutive setback and are 1-11-1 in the last 13 games.

Seattle SuperSonics ride defense to easy victory

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

The Seattle SuperSonics are defending champions of the National Basketball Association. And, according to Coach Lenny Wilkens, defense and intelligence are the big keys in their retaining their crown.

"Until somebody dethrones us, I know we're the best team," Wilkens said. "We don't take anything for granted."

That's where the defense and intelligence came in handy Thursday night when Seattle stopped the Detroit Pistons 119-102.

"We win on the road because we know what it takes to win and we play with intelligence," Wilkens said. "It's our defense which really makes the difference. Even when the offense seems to fall off, we know defense will keep us in the game and that's half the battle."

"We tightened up on defense in the last quarter when Detroit failed to score for six minutes and we did the right things at the end."

In the only other games played in the NBA Thursday night, Indiana crushed Washington 134-104 and Atlanta edged Utah 92-90.

The Seattle-Detroit game was close most of the way as the Sonics lead 61-57 at the half and 89-85 lead going into the fourth quarter. But James Bailey scored six points to lead a 21-8 spurt during the first 10 minutes of the final period as Pacific Division leading Seattle went on to crush the Pistons.

After Detroit managed to cut the gap to 110-102 with 40 seconds remaining, the Sonics scored the game's final nine points.

Dennis Johnson paced Seattle with 23 points and Jack Sikma added 18 points and 18 rebounds. Detroit was led by John Long's 24 points.

Pacers 134, Bullets 104

Indiana went on a 20-2 burst in the fourth quarter to break open a close game en route to a rout of Washington.

Billy Knight scored 33 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead the Pacers' victory. George McGinnis, playing his second game since being traded to Indiana, added 19 points and 11 rebounds. Kevin Grevey scored 21 for the Bullets.

There were 63 fouls called in the contest, 37 against Washington.

"It was one of those bang-em-up games," said Pacers' Coach Bob Leonard.

Hawks 92, Jazz 90

Eddie Johnson's 23 points paced Atlanta to its win over Utah. The game was up for grabs with two minutes left and the Hawks leading 91-89, but Atlanta's John Drew and Utah's Ben Poquette traded free throws for the only scoring. The two teams continually traded turnovers as the game ended.

Utah's Adrian Dantley led all scorers with 28 points and teammate Terry Furlow added 21.

The Bucketeers

Meadowlark assembles his team

By RICH ROBERTS
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Few would believe that Meadowlark Lemon's 22 years with the Harlem Globetrotters weren't just fun and games, that to the Clown Prince of Basketball life was anything but a layup and a laugh.

But then, who would expect the Globetrotters, symbols of what little is right and wonderful in the world, to have labor problems, or the star to split over a simple matter of money?

Being funny, sometimes, is a serious business. Lemon, who left the Trotters in 1977, now has his own team, the Bucketeers. Like the Globetrotters, they play the game for laughs. And in one area they have set a new standard for outlandishness.

Lemon designed uniforms with a Three Musketeers motif, costumes in effect. The colors are red and yellow, with flowing warm-up capes, striped shorts and floppy red hats the size of extra-large pizzas, topped by yellow plumes.

The team also features Wilt Chamberlain, who will play selected engagements that don't conflict with his social calendar, and other former Globetrotters including the well-traveled Marques Haynes, who by now must have dribbled a distance equal to the moon and back.

So here they are, folks, the three Bucketeers, still going strong, and you haven't seen anything until you have beheld the 7-foot Chamberlain in a red cape and giant plumed hat.

Wilt played for the Trotters in 1958, the year after he dropped out of Kansas University and before he could sign with the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association.

"I really enjoyed it," he recalls. The Bucketeers played a lightly promoted dress rehearsal in San Jose, Calif., selling only 143 tickets but attracting another 1,261 spectators on complimentary passes.

They did even better with two games at the Long Beach (Calif.) Arena several weeks later: by box-office count, a total of 10,319 for the separate shows, 897 of whom bought tickets — one of the most ambitious jobs of papering a house on record.

All credit should go to NBC, which taped for later showing and needed some live fans to show on camera. Tickets were handed out at boys clubs and shopping malls. NBC has Lemon under contract — he's a regular on the "Hello, Larry" series — and plans three specials on the Bucketeers over the next two years.

After the people were urged to sit on the side opposite the cameras "so you can be on television," the Bucketeers did their warmup routine, which is embarrassingly similar to that of the Trotters, to the beat of their team tune, "Here Come The Bucketeers," not unlike "Sweet Georgia Brown."

Copies of the record were on sale for $2 each, along with glossy photos of Lemon for $1.50. Business was brisk. They probably took in more money on concessions than at the gate.

It's pretty much the same schtick as the Trotters. The comedy is concentrated on Lemon and his defensive foil, player-coach Glen Kolmics of the "opposing" California Coasters. The flow of the game doesn't break up completely, which is the way Lemon wants it.

Despite the big push by NBC, the Bucketeers may not be an easy sell, judging from attendance at the debut games.

Lemon talks of playing 20 games over the next two months, but a spokesman says there is no firm schedule.

Haynes, for one, sees no problem attracting customers. If you have a good show, he says, people will come.

Haynes has played before crowds of from 20 to 20,000. "I played before 16 people with the Globetrotters in Lemmon, South Dakota. It's a very small town and we were there on a Christmas Eve. We almost froze to death because they didn't have any heat in the building, but the show went on."

Lemon is confident that his new club will go on, too. "We're ready for anything that happens," he says. "It will be tough, mainly because the people don't know what the Bucketeers are all about. We're going to have some lean crowds, some good crowds and some great crowds. But whether we have two or three people in the building or 20,000, we're going to entertain 'em."

For the moment, the team is built around Lemon, 47, Chamberlain, 43, and Haynes, who won't say how old he is, although estimates run to the mid-50s. It looks like basketball's version of the Over-The-Hill-Gang.

Lemon laughs. "They'll have to see us out there in action before they can say that. We are far, far from being over the hill."

The act also includes Alan Winder from Houston University, who is certain to be a standout because he is the only white player on the team. His nickname: "Blue Eyes."

Lemon: "I'm gonna get the best players I can. I don't care who they are, where they come from or what color they are."

The game format will be similar to that of the Trotters — some serious basketball keyed to Meadowlark's comedy. But he intends to have a stronger definition.

He left the Trotters, he says, because of "several things...one thing was money. But also, the team that I once knew no longer existed. It had lost so much."

A Globetrotters official says it was an "amicable separation, with a mutually agreeable settlement" — and that the following year the team had its best year in history.

Davis overtakes Aulby to lead PBA tournament

PALATINE, Ill. (AP) — Sparked by a 276-254 victory over Mike Aulby in the third game, Dave Davis of Tinton Falls, N.J., regained the lead he had surrendered in the $125,000 Professional Bowlers Association tournament. Davis, an 18-time champion on the PBA tour, led after two rounds of play but slipped to fifth place Thursday afternoon by averaging 202 in the third session of qualifying. The 37-year-old left-hander regained his best form in the evening match play, winning five of eight games with a 232 average to climb back on top by 15 pins. Two more rounds of match play remain Friday. The top five bowlers advance to the finals Saturday. The winner gets $20,000.
