Planes collide

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two small planes collided in mid-air and crashed Friday near Los Angeles International Airport, narrowly missing a 650-room hotel, authorities said.

Three people were reported killed in the 2 p.m. collision and six on the ground were injured, two critically, authorities said. Two of those injured had "very serious" burns, said a spokeswoman for Centinela Valley Hospital.

Identities of those killed were not immediately available. Two of them were in the plane that smashed down on busy Sepulveda Boulevard in front of the Hacienda Hotel, according to El Segundo Fire Department Battalion Chief Elder Thompson. The other was in the second craft, he said.

The plane that crashed in front of the hotel had lost a wing in the collision, said airport spokeswoman Virginia Black.

The other plane came down a half-mile south of Imperial Highway near Sepulveda, Ms. Black said.

In that crash, six employees of C.L. Peck Contactor were injured when struck by parts of the plane. They were working in the vicinity of what is to be a new facility for Hughes Aircraft. No Hughes employees were hurt, said a Hughes spokesman at the scene.

Extradition sought

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Police believe they know who killed actor Bob Crane here 19 months ago but are unable to get county help to extradite the suspect from outside the state, a newspaper said Friday.

"We believe we have physical evidence to link the No. 1 suspect to the scene...and have enough information, based on probable cause, for an arrest," police Lt. Ron Dean told the Scottsdale Progress.

With help from federal and local law enforcement agencies and an Arizona criminal psychiatrist, police say they are certain their top suspect killed Crane, the newspaper said. Police refuse to disclose further information about the suspect except to say the person lives outside Arizona and was not part of a conspiracy.

However, Scottsdale police need county and state help in obtaining a criminal complaint, arrest warrant and extradition. The Maricopa County attorney's office remains adamant against this course of action in the belief Scottsdale authorities don't have enough evidence to warrant extradition, the newspaper said. Larry Turoff of the county attorney's office declined to specify what type of evidence Scottsdale police still lack.

'Disregard' noted

MOSCOW (AP) — The emergency jettisoning of bombs during an Air Force training flight near Las Vegas, Nev., indicates that American authorities are disregarding the safety of innocent citizens, Tass said Friday. The Air Force said the bombs were dropped at an "appropriate" site on its own property.

Tass, the official news agency, said Las Vegas residents were "panic-stricken" when they awoke to the noise of heavy bomb explosions Thursday. It quoted an Air Force spokesman as saying the two F-4 jets had to release the bombs before landing because of fuel-line problems.

At Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada, spokeswoman Capt. Wanda Whitney said a dozen 500-pound bombs were dropped in an area known as Jettison Hill, which she said is Air Force property and is considered "an area appropriate for emergencies." She said the weight of the fuel, combined with the weight of the bombs made it unsafe to land, so the explosives had to be dropped.

Hostages receive new visitors

By The Associated Press

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's son and a Greek bishop visited the U.S. Embassy hostages in Tehran Friday and said they found the Americans held captive for 97 days in "perfect health." They were the first known visitors to the embassy compound in more than a month.

The Moslem militants occupying the embassy remained defiant in the face of a campaign of pressure mounted by Iran's newly elected president, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, to undermine their strength in apparent preparation for resolving the embassy crisis.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said in a television interview that if the ruling Revolutionary Council decides to take the embassy away from the militants, force would be used "if necessary."

He told Independent Television News of London that force "isn't really necessary at this time. But if any time that the Revolutionary Council, with the backing of the imam (Khomeini), decides anything as such, it will be exercised with, obviously, discussion and persuasion and if necessary with force."

There are generally around 100 radicals inside the embassy compound, standing guard in shifts over the hostages and the buildings.

A spokesman for the young radicals, speaking by telephone with a Western reporter, denied reports that the release of the hostages was imminent. He repeated the demand that the ex-shah be extradited to Iran in exchange for the hostages, and said the militants would obey only revolutionary leader Khomeini, who is recuperating from a heart attack in a Tehran hospital.

Khomeini's son, Ahmad, seemed to back their demands.

He told some of the hostages, "The U.S. government has not yet come to its senses, otherwise it would have extradited the criminal Mohammad Reza and would hand over his plundered wealth so that the hostages could be set free." Tehran Radio reported.

The militants also received a vote of support from Iranian soldiers who rallied in front of the embassy.

The government radio said the visits by the younger Khomeini and Greek Catholic Archbishop Hilariou Capudji were made separately with an unknown number of hostages.

The last major visit by outsiders was at Christmas, when U.S. clergymen conducted services at the embassy. In early January an American Indian activist, John Thomas, said he met with one hostage.

Capudji, former archbishop of Jerusalem, spent three years in an Israeli jail after being convicted of smuggling guns to Palestinian militants. Since his release in 1977, he has maintained close ties to the Palestine Liberation Organization, and he was in Tehran to take part in activities marking the first anniversary of the Iranian revolution.

Despite the poisonous American publicity, the hostages were in perfect health," Capudji was quoted as saying after the visit.

The radio report said Ahmad Khomeini, who has acted as his father's emissary at times, told the hostages they should compare their "Islamic treatment" by the militants with the treatment given Iranian students, blacks and Indians in the United States.

Despite the contradictory signals from Iran, U.S. officials have expressed guarded optimism about the secret efforts to negotiate an end to the crisis.

American U.N. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry, speaking at Indiana University on Friday, said the effort to establish a government "where decision-making can be centered" was a "hopeful sign."

Role of women soldiers debated

By ANN BLACKMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — If America goes to war, women soldiers will share many of the same risks and hardships as their male counterparts, a Defense Department official says.

M. Kathleen Carpenter, deputy assistant secretary of defense for equal opportunity, says women soldiers might not be in foxholes, but they would be firing long-range missiles and high-altitude anti-aircraft guns, driving trucks and performing other jobs in support of front-line troops.

"Women won't be in hand-to-hand combat," she said. "They'll be missilemen, firing Pershing missiles. And where do you think the direct hits will be?"

Despite President Carter's decision Friday to ask Congress for authority to register women for the draft, most experts say it is unlikely that women will be drafted. Congressional leaders doubt that Congress will approve the legislation to register women, much less change laws that generally bar them from combat operations.

Carter made it clear he does not want women registered for potential combat duty.

But in an interview in her Pentagon office, Ms. Carpenter, a lawyer, said Americans are kidding themselves if they think women soldiers, even in support positions, might not be in dangerous situations.

"The whole idea of warfare today is to cut off the supplies first, then the front-line troops," she said. "It's not a question of whether our women will be shot at. There's no question they will be. The question is whether they'll be able to shoot back."

It's not unusual for military women to be exposed to danger, Ms. Carpenter said. "During World War II and in Vietnam, the worst place to be was on a transport ship. The object was to sink the transports, and that's where all the nurses were."

Ms. Carpenter said that in a modern war, female civilians also would be exposed to risks "given the nature of nuclear warfare," and that they should realize this.

"I suggest women in the United States measure the risk they'll be exposed to," she said. "Everyone will be at risk. Put me on a carrier. Don't leave me here in Washington. I'd rather be prepared to be able to do something about aggression."

By law, the Navy and Air Force bar women from combat. But in 1977, the Army expanded the number of jobs available to women. The Army secretary has authority to put women in some combat situations.

Ms. Carpenter cited an Army personnel letter stating that current Army policy precludes assigning women to units engaged in close combat. However, the letter says, "This does not mean that women soldiers may not be required to engage or be engaged by an enemy with individual and crew-served weapons, experience physical contact with enemy personnel and experience a high risk of capture."

Ms. Carpenter said women and men receive identical training for such assignments and an identical starting pay of $410 a month.

If the population were immediately mobilized, Ms. Carpenter said, she would not recommend putting women in the infantry because "a large number would be unable or unwilling to perform."

But if women ever are drafted, she said, they can expect to be trained in almost as many jobs as men: as carpenters, aviation mechanics, electricians, pilots or divers.

Ms. Carpenter added that a new Army study shows that military women who spent much of their time typing and doing other clerical work learned to use 105 and 155 mm. howitzer cannons as well as men.

"The study showed they could not only perform the same functions of lifting and loading, but they could do it with the same frequency and accuracy as males," she said.

Registration of women faces opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's proposal to register women for a possible draft faces powerful opposition in Congress, while registration of men seems to have broad support, officials said Friday.

There were widespread predictions that Congress would refuse to force women to sign up. Indeed, most members of the Senate and House Armed Services committees oppose including women in registration, although they have been pressing for a program to register young men.

"I'm sure he realizes it will not pass," Rep. Richard C. White, D-Texas, chairman of the House Armed Services manpower subcommittee, said of Carter's proposal to include women.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill made a similar prediction earlier in the week.

"I think I can safely say that his proposal (to register women) will be rejected by the Congress, as it should be," added Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery, D-Miss., another senior member of the House Armed Services panel, who supports registering men.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., second ranking Democrat on the Senate Armed Services panel, agreed that Congress would go along with registering men but would kill the proposal for women.

Jackson said inclusion of women makes no sense and added: "The effect of it will be to kill whatever chances we had of getting ERA (the Equal Rights Amendment) through."

Opponents of registering anyone — men or women — agreed that Congress will not go along with registering women.

"It is nothing but rhetoric. He knows the Congress will never give serious consideration to that," said Barry Lynn, spokesman for a coalition of more than 40 groups opposed to registering or drafting men or women.

"He knows it is just too controversial an issue," Lynn added.

David Landau, staff attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, vowed that his organization would file suit if Congress goes along with registering men but excludes women. The ACLU opposes registering anyone.

Landau argued that Carter included women merely to make that issue the center of controversy, diverting attention from registration of men.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., an opponent of registration, said the plan to compel male registration "will go sailing through."

She said refusal to register women could doom registration of men. Pentagon lawyers drafted legal briefs last year saying that if women were not registered along with men, "the whole registration system will be thrown out" in a court challenge, said Ms. Schroeder.

Rep. Jim Weaver, D-Ore., said he would try to amend Carter's proposal to replace a mandatory registration program with a voluntary registration plan.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., pledged to lead a filibuster against any registration plan. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., also said he would fight registration.

Unusually shy Edgar "Scooter" Drake isn't likely to escape his mother's affection after what he did at breakfast Friday — he administered the Heimlich Method, saving his mother, Mrs. Kathryn Drake, from choking on a bite of toast. (AP Laserphoto)

He's a real life-saver Ninth-grader rescues choking Mom

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A 14-year-old boy, terrified at the sight of his mother choking on a piece of toast, said he used a method observed in a classroom film to dislodge the obstruction and save his mother's life Friday.

Mrs. Kathryn Drake said she was having breakfast alone when a piece of toast became lodged in her throat. "I tried putting my arms over my head, everything I knew," she explained. But the toast remained firmly lodged.

"I couldn't talk, I kept thinking 'I can't breathe, I can't yell and I can't do anything about this,'" she said.

Mrs. Drake said she attracted her daughter's attention by pounding on the laundry room door.

"She screamed about three times," said Mrs. Drake. "She was the one who yelled for Scooter."

Edgar "Scooter" Drake ran into the room and tried the Heimlich Method for dislodging the toast. The ninth grader put his arms around his mother and pulled back and up, pressing on his mother's stomach, trying to force the air trapped in her lungs out.

"When it really scared me was when it wasn't working the first few times," said Drake. "Just think if your mom was dying."

But Mrs. Drake moved his arms higher and when he repeated the method a third time it worked.

The younger Drake said he learned the method from a film he had seen three years earlier in a sixth grade class.

"The thing that pleases me most is that my kids thought so quickly," said Mrs. Drake. "Still, I'll probably never eat by myself again."

Intervention in Afghanistan debated in communist bloc

By The Associated Press

In a break with the rest of the communist bloc, Romania and North Korea refused to endorse the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, the Soviet news agency reported Friday. The United States was also having trouble with a balky ally — France — over the Afghan situation.

The French announced they would not attend an upcoming meeting of Western foreign ministers, designed to coordinate the U.S.-European response to the Soviet move, because it would not "reduce international tension."

A Soviet newspaper, meanwhile, denounced as a "myth" reports that hundreds of thousands of Afghan refugees have crossed into Pakistan. It said the Afghans are nomads who cross the border every year at this time. And the International Red Cross announced that IRC observers had visited political detainees at an Afghan prison.

Sources in Kabul, the Afghan capital, have reported continuing small-scale attacks by the anti-communist Afghan rebels against Afghan and Soviet troops in several northeastern provinces.

An estimated 90,000 Soviet troops have poured into Afghanistan since late December, when Soviet forces ousted one Marxist regime and replaced it with another. The Soviets then turned their guns on the rebellious Moslem tribesmen who had successfully resisted the communist government in Kabul for almost two years.

The Romanian and North Korean delegations to a communist parliamentary conference in Sofia, Bulgaria, refused Thursday to sign a statement of solidarity with the Soviet-backed Afghan regime, the Tass news agency said.

Ten other nations — members of the Warsaw Pact alliance, and Vietnam, South Yemen, Cuba and Mongolia — did endorse the statement.

Several weeks ago Yugoslavia, which has long been independent of the Moscow line, was the first communist nation to attack the Soviet intervention. Romania, frequently a maverick among the Warsaw Pact states, later expressed criticism of the Soviet move.

North Korea, which traditionally has been closer to Peking than to Moscow, had not previously indicated opposition to the Afghan operation.

France's rebuff of the United States came in connection with a foreign ministers' meeting scheduled for Feb. 20 in Bonn, West Germany.

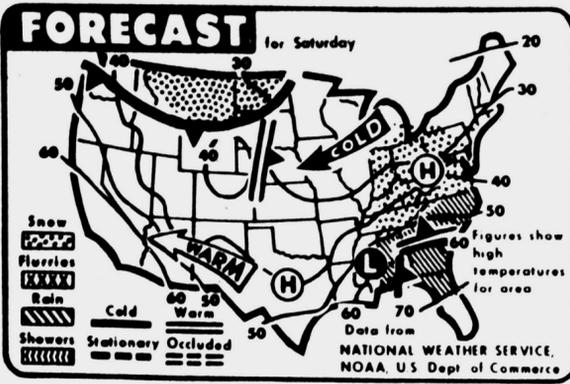

It had been expected that Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance would confer there with his counterparts from France, West Germany, Britain and Italy to come up with a joint response to the Soviet intervention.

Reaction to President Carter's calls for strong Western retaliatory steps against Moscow have ranged from support by Britain to reluctance on the part of the West Germans and France.

A French government spokesman said in Paris Friday that while France "is disposed to continue its consultations with its partners on the different aspects of the international situation," it does not favor a joint meeting.

Christians urged to unite by Charismatic leaders

DALLAS (AP) — Leaders of the charismatic movement Friday urged the nation's Christians to set aside personal and traditional differences and unite on the foundation of Jesus Christ.

The 360 people who attended the first round of workshops outlined problems and goals of the conference, sponsored by the John 17:21 Fellowship.

Charismatics, they said, should unite first on a local level and concentrate on spiritual growth rather than on spiritual experience.

More than 400 Catholic, Protestant and Pentecostal leaders from across the United States are attending the three-day convocation that opened Thursday. Guests include representatives from Canada, Australia, Sweden and the Philippines.

The workshop participants said leaders of congregations must consider themselves servants, avoiding competition with other churches. They said relationships should be stressed above success.

Other denominations' leaders must be accepted and loved as they are, the charismatics said, adding that future success hinges on a commitment of time and effort.

"Everything that can be shaken will be shaken," one participant said. "And we'd better be ready and together."

Juan Carlos Ortiz, a charismatic from Argentina, said President Carter exemplified "the law of the cross" at a Thursday prayer breakfast in Washington "when he said the (Iranian religious leader) Ayatollah Khomeini was at the top of his prayer list."

Ron McConnell, senior vice president of the John 17:21 Fellowship, said results of 34 workshops being held in the conference would be compiled and a comprehensive statement issued Saturday at the end of the conference.

"The workshops will all start with the same material — an affirmation of unity on a Biblical basis," said McConnell of Albuquerque, N.M. Then problems will be defined and goals outlined, he said.

The charismatic movement which began in the 1950s has grown within "mainline" denominations in the last two decades. Charismatics believe in the use of spiritual gifts such as speaking in tongues and healing and say they have been "filled with the holy spirit."

In a report on Christianity in Asia, McConnell said Chinese Christians are totally non-denominational and are praying for the United States.

Prejudice, however, has "gone all the way across the ocean" and has resulted in a splintering of Christianity in other parts of Asia, he added.

"A broken, divided world sees no hope in a broken, divided church," he said.

State employees overpaid, Clements tells UT students

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday he believes many state employees are overpaid and would make less in the "cold, cruel free enterprise world."

Clements, speaking to business students at the University of Texas, had even more unkind cuts for the state bureaucracy.

He also warned that the Department of Public Safety, with his support, is stepping up enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit and said he favors a bigger highway patrol.

The governor said he disagreed with Comptroller Bob Bullock's public statements that state employees are underpaid.

"Some are overpaid. I don't think a lot of state employees could make as much out in that cold, cruel, free enterprise world as they are making from the state," he said.

Clements said he wanted to manage state government in a businesslike way and some of his tools included zero-based budgeting, management by objective, personnel evaluations and reduction of the state payroll by 5 percent.

"How much resistance are you getting from the existing bureaucracy to these programs?" a student asked.

"Some of the state agencies and departments are nothing less than enthusiastic for these programs..."

On the other side of the coin, some agencies are dragging their feet all over the place. And we are talking to them — communicating with them," Clements said.

The governor said he is working toward making bureaucrats more accountable to the public for their actions.

"It is amazing how in a bureaucracy there...is no lack of people wanting responsibility but amazing how little you hear about them wanting accountability," Clements said.

He urged the students to vote in November for a constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to pass laws giving the governor budget execution authority.

"For the first time ever, the governor and the governor's office will have the authority to track appropriations and see that those sums were spent for programs they were appropriated for... A good many of those funds are not used as they are intended to be used. They are diverted," Clements said.

Returning pay 'is a bum idea'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements found Friday that University of Texas business students aren't afraid to ask a governor hard-nosed questions bordering on the personal.

And the students found Clements ready with quick, blunt answers.

"Why not reduce government spending by returning your own salary to the government?" one student asked the economy-minded governor, whose salary is $71,400.

"I want to be completely honest with you," said Clements, a multi-millionaire. "I think that is a bum idea."

Families of dead, missing gather for memorial rites

By MAX B. SKELTON

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — The Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn, that sank quickly Jan. 28 near Tampa, Fla., with a loss of 23 lives, was described at a memorial service Friday as the finest ship that ever sailed.

Lt. Cmdr. G.S. Sepel, the buoy tender's commanding officer, said his men got tired of his saying the Blackthorn was the best ship on which he had ever sailed.

"I kept repeating it, I meant it, and I repeat it here today," Sepel said.

The Blackthorn had been stationed in Galveston since 1976 and the memorial service here drew a standing room only assembly at the Moody Memorial First United Methodist Church.

Survivors and families of the dead and missing occupied 15 rows in front of a huge anchor, the only floral tribute.

After Sepel's brief tribute to his crew, Rear Adm. Paul A. Yost, Coast Guard district commander from New Orleans, presented him with the last flag to fly aboard the Blackthorn.

"Keep this flag in remembrance of the finest ship that ever sailed," Yost said.

Adm. J.B. Hayes, Coast Guard commandant from Washington, said the 23 dead and missing gave their lives to God and their nation while serving missions of saving lives and property at sea.

Hayes read a message from U.S. Department of Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt joined in "extending our sincere sympathies."

"The accident that took the lives of your comrades reminds the public of the risks taken each day by gallant men and women of the Coast Guard," Goldschmidt said.

Rear. Adm. R.W. Trower, Coast Guard chief of chaplains, said there are risks, hazards, fear and loneliness in serving at sea.

"We're coming through this tragedy only because of the things we believe in, hope for and die for," Trower said.

Sepel read the 100th psalm and thanked all those in attendance.

"It means a lot," he said.

"If I had about 10 hours I couldn't tell and express thanks to all the people who have come to our assistance, not just on the night of the rescue but afterwards throughout these past difficult days. I couldn't begin to list them and I wouldn't want to for fear of getting someone," he said.

The Blackthorn sank within minutes after it collided with the oil tanker S.S. Capricorn in Tampa Bay.

Coast Guard officials say the loss of 23 crewmen made the accident the worst peacetime collision in Coast Guard history.

Twenty-seven survivors were pulled from the water, the crew of a shrimp boat was credited with rescuing 22 of the sailors. The bodies of nine Blackthorn crewmen have been recovered, 14 others are still missing.

The cutter had left Tampa and was bound for Galveston when the collision occurred.

The Marine Board of Inquiry is conducting hearings on the collision in Tampa.

WINDOWS OF THE SOUL

Eyes have been called the windows of the soul. Clarity, expression and size — all of these are supposed to reveal character. A child's eyes seem innocent. But small, closely-placed eyes may also indicate deception. Some even say that you can tell a criminal by his eyes.

Calling it nonsense, even scientists find it hard to dispel the old wives' tales that have persisted for centuries. Eyes, in a certain sense, can be the windows of the soul — precious windows through which you look at life. Don't judge another man by his eyes. Look instead through eyes of understanding and compassion for in God's sight we are all equal. If your inner vision has been a bit faulty lately, why not start going to church next Sunday?

North A Street and West Illinois Avenue. Members of the ensemble are pictured with members of the East of the Altar music group.

MHS to host free 'Dogwood' concert

Dogwood, a contemporary Christian music ensemble from Nashville, will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Midland High School auditorium.

The concert will be open to the public at no charge. However, a free-will offering will be collected.

The ensemble currently is completing a Texas tour after playing to sold-out houses in Dallas, Houston and elsewhere. The group will travel to California from Midland to give a series of concerts.

With four LP albums to its credit, the Dogwood ensemble is recognized as one of the foremost ensembles in the field of contemporary Christian music. In an earlier concert appearance in Midland, the band played to a full house in Theatre Midland. The group's blend of contemporary music with a wholesome message is enjoyed by people of all ages.

Dogwood originally was made up of Steve and Annie Chapman and Ron Elder. The group began performing in a Christian coffee house on Nashville's famed Music Row.

With the aid of Grammy Award-winning writer-producer Chris Christian and singer Pat Boone, the trio toured nationally and recorded three LP albums — "After the Flood, Before the Fire," "Love Note" and "Out in the Open." Later, after the original three were joined by Ken Fletcher and Mike Upshaw, the ensemble made another LP, "Ordinary Man," which was released on Myrrh Records, a division of Word, Inc., of Waco.

BBBA to hold first conference

ALPINE — The Big Bend Baptist Association, composed of Southern Baptist churches in the Alpine, Marfa and Fort Davis areas, will hold its first Evangelism Conference Feb. 15 and 16.

Featured speakers at the conference will include the Rev. Bill Cathey, former pastor of Midland's Fanning Terrace Baptist Church and now a member of the staff of the evangelism division of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, and the Rev. Lenard Hartley, pastor of Odessa's Sherwood Baptist Church. Cathey will be the conference preacher and Hartley will serve as the Bible teacher for the conclave.

Special music will be provided by a massed choir from First Baptist churches of Marfa, Alpine and Fort Davis. The ensemble will present the musical, "Reach Out," at the opening session at 7 p.m. Friday in Alpine's First Baptist Church.

Additional conference sessions are scheduled for 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Feb. 16.

The public is invited to attend any of the conference sessions, or all of them.

Bishops condemn 10 movies

DALLAS (AP) — Methodist bishops in the Southwest have condemned the use of 10 movies showing explicit sex acts, which an agency of the United Methodist Church has approved for limited use.

The films in question were produced by a California minister and intended for use in sex counseling and training sessions for counselors.

But the College of Bishops of the Southwestern Area unanimously passed a resolution Wednesday to withdraw the films and make new ones "clearly within the Christian context."

Bishop W. McFerrin Stowe of the Dallas-Fort Worth area admitted he had not seen the films — "but I think I can understand them without seeing them."

The movies show sex acts of masturbation and male and female homosexuality, and they are used by many major Protestant denominations and in medical schools.

But Stowe said they were "used beyond that point in at least one instance."

"We have a need to be giving counseling and guidance in sexuality, but I question the need for showing explicit sex acts," he said.

Immigration of Soviet Jews drops sharply

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The number of Jewish emigrants from the Soviet Union dropped sharply in January to a 15-month low and sources involved in resettling them said today they have no ready explanation for the sudden downturn.

Graham made his comments in a telephone interview from his home at Montreat, N.C. He departs this week for 19 days of lectures and discussions in England.

Choice between energy program, inflation war due?

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barring some last-minute accommodations by Senate and House conferees, President Carter may have to choose between continuing his anti-inflation policies and winning the most important element of his energy program.

The conference committee working on Carter's "windfall" tax on the oil industry is placing considerably more emphasis on cutting income taxes than on financing the president's 10-year energy program.

But an income-tax cut flies in the face of Carter's economic policy. The president's advisers say any action now to cut taxes would worsen the budget deficit and feed inflation.

Before adjourning early Friday for what is likely to be a 12-day recess, the conferees indicated at least half the money from the oil tax will be set aside for income-tax reductions for individuals and corporations. The tax cut could total $125 billion or more in the 1980s, depending on how quickly oil prices rise.

If Carter's feelings against a tax cut are strong enough, he could veto the bill. But that would delay — and could kill — the entire "windfall" tax, which is the financing mechanism for the president's energy program and the sugar-coating for his decision to end price controls on U.S. crude oil.

More likely, Carter could accept the package and focus his efforts on delaying or watering down the subsequent legislation that would actually reduce taxes. For example, Congress could vote a tax cut in this election year but delay its effective date until January 1982. That could deliver the promise of tax relief without worsening the $15-billion budget deficit forecast for 1981.

Here is roughly how most conferees want to spend the estimated $227.3 billion that the new oil tax would produce in the 1980s:

- 55 percent, or $125 billion, for individual and corporate tax cuts.
- 25 percent, or $56.8 billion, in grants to help offset the soaring energy costs paid by welfare recipients. Another $5 billion, or 2 percent, would provide similar relief, through tax credits of up to $200 a year per family, for working households with annual incomes of up to $22,000. The president had recommended that 17 percent of the tax be used for lower-income Americans.

- 10 percent, or $22.7 billion, in income-tax credits aimed at encouraging individuals and businesses to conserve energy and switch from oil to other fuels.
- Another 10 percent, $22.7 billion, for government grants and loans to encourage production of synthetic fuels and to finance improvements in the nation's transportation system.

This would provide considerably less money than Carter suggested for energy. His $142-billion plan recommended, for example, $88 billion for development of synthetic fuels and $16 billion for transportation improvements.

Parts of Carter's energy plans are included in other legislation, although generally at lower spending levels than he recommended. But House conferees on the "windfall" tax are stiffly resisting most of the spending provisions as unjustified.

The Senate's $25.6 billion in tax incentives for conservation and development of exotic energy is likely to be trimmed by at least half.

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said any package that doesn't include a big tax cut "won't work, it won't fly."

State role in spills suggested

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, told Coast Guard officials Friday he thinks the state might be able to provide quicker action than the Coast Guard when oil spills threaten the Texas coast.

Schwartz, who has been critical of Coast Guard efforts in two recent spills, told Adm. Paul Yost the state perhaps should be the first on the scene of a spill.

"It's possible we ought to take a stronger first response role and then accede to the Coast Guard or the owners of the vessels," Schwartz said during a meeting of the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

Schwartz, the committee chairman, said the state highway department could be used to haul state equipment to the scene.

But Yost said the problem is not in getting containment booms to the site — the problem is getting equipment in the water. The admiral said the Coast Guard does not have the needed tug boats and barges and must charter that equipment.

"There are more tugs and barges in the Gulf Coast area than anywhere in the world," Yost testified. "But it takes days, not hours, to get a charter."

He added, "Chartering vessels from owners who may not want oil slop in their barges" is the biggest obstacle in a spill battle.

Yost also cautioned that the seagoing equipment is expensive to rent.

"At $800 an hour it doesn't take long for even the state of Texas to go broke," Yost said.

"It's like a firetruck. You don't need it a lot but when you need it you need it bad," he said.

Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa, asked about the availability of Navy tugs for use in spills.

"I know we have tugs in the Navy that are sitting around the world and rotting," he told Yost.

But the admiral said none of the tugs could get to the Gulf coast fast enough to be of help.

The admiral also told the committee the Coast Guard has no firefighting capabilities. Schwartz has been critical of efforts to put out a blaze caused by the November collision of the tanker Burmah Agate and the Mimosa near Galveston. Thirty-two men died after the collision.

Yost said federal officials have said there are no plans to give the Coast Guard increased ability to battle fires at sea.

Yost also testified about the Mexican oil spill that damaged Texas beaches last year after a well blow-out in June. He said "oil impacts on the Texas coast during June are considered a certainty, based upon historical current and weather data, if the well is not capped by March 1."

He said a Wednesday flight over the well showed "visibly less oil coming from the well."

The committee also heard testimony about a Schwartz proposal to extend the offshore limit where a harbor pilot boards ships to guide them into the port.

Texans pay at least $1 per gallon

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas motorists are having a hard time these days finding any grade of gasoline selling for less than $1 a gallon.

That was the report Friday from the American Automobile Association's Texas Division in its monthly report on gasoline availability and prices.

The AAA said price hikes the past month averaged 8.5 cents a gallon for full-service gasoline and 7.5 cents for self-service, boosting statewide averages from a low of $1.07.2 for self-service regular to a high of $1.17.2 cents a gallon for full-service premium and premium unleaded.

A survey of 378 stations indicated 30 percent of the stations are operating after 8 p.m. week-nights, 48 percent pumping after 6 p.m. Saturdays, and 42 percent operating on Sundays.

Bulldogs slay Bobcats' jinx with 67-61 victory

Purple Pack still half game behind Permian in 5-4A race

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

An emotional pack of Midland High Bulldogs ended the San Angelo myth Friday at the Chaparral Center with a 67-61 District 5-4A basketball win over the Bobcats.

The victory came over the same team that has dealt the Tall City miseries this season. San Angelo has defeated Midland Lee twice this year, and this is also the same team that put Midland High in the 5-4A predicament they now face with an upset over the Bulldogs in the first half.

But Friday, all that ended as the Bulldogs used scorching streaks in both the third and fourth periods to ignite the victory. Midland High is now 3-1 in the second half chase and 27-6 on the year. The Bulldogs are still a half-game behind Odessa Permian, whose game with Abilene Cooper was postponed until Thursday, Feb. 21.

San Angelo, meanwhile, all but fell out of the 5-4A race with a 2-2 second half record and a 19-12 season mark. They will still have a big say in the district race since they host Permian in this half.

The Bulldogs started their road to victory in the third quarter when they came out from a 34-34 halftime deadlock to knock the eyes out of the bucket with seven straight shots from the field without a miss for 48-40 lead. The Bulldogs hit seven of 10 shots in the period.

Then in the final quarter, the Bulldogs hit seven of 13 to put the game away after running to leads of 10 points on four different occasions.

Herbert Johnson sparked the offensive movements of the Bulldogs with 25 points while guard Perry Bolger hit for 14 and Darrin Matlock 10. San Angelo's soft shooting Charles Bishop led all scorers with 28 points and Paul Hayes had 20 in the loss, but those were the only two Bobcats in double figures.

It was a different story in the first half, however. Midland held onto an 11-10 lead at the end of the quarter after spurting to a 6-0 lead while San Angelo was hitting only three of 11 from the field.

A Hayes bucket with 5:36 left in the second period gave San Angelo its first lead of the night at 18-17 as the Bobcats went on a 10 of 14 shooting binge. From there the score was tied eight times, including the 34-34 halftime score. San Angelo held the lead four different times and Midland High also had four leads during that span.

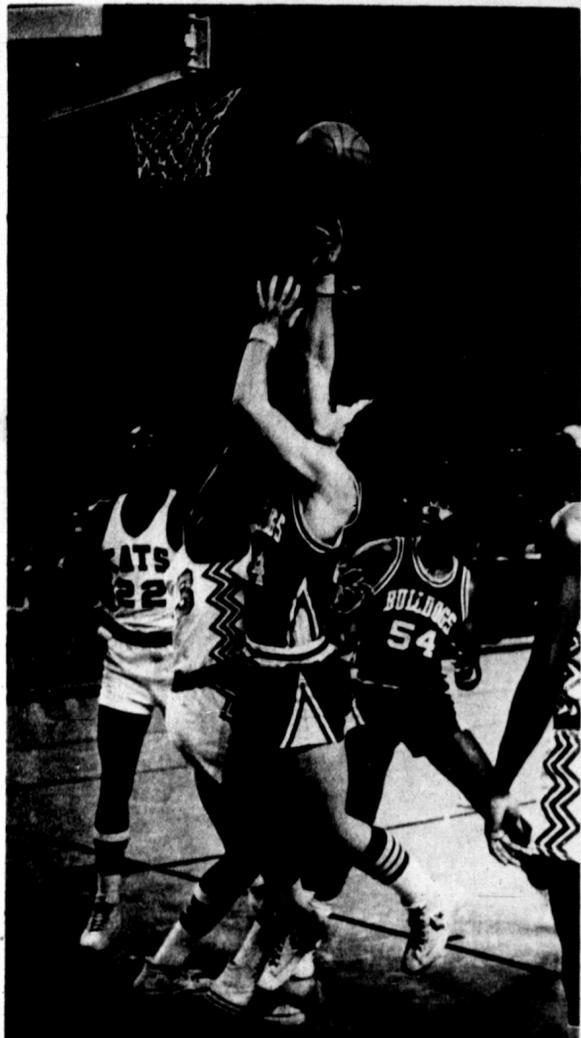

The second period was when Bishop, one of the premier players in the league, got hot with four of four from the field and four free throws for 12 points. Johnson had eight for Midland High and Bolger six to keep the Bulldogs in the fight, however.

Bishop was the key for Midland High against San Angelo as he is for any 5-4A opponent and it was the first and fourth quarters that made the difference. Guard Pat Hickey held Bishop to two points in the first period and to only six in the final quarter. That could have been the most important factor of the contest because Bishop can kill you if you turn him loose. Hickey was on the bench much of the second period when the bomber did most of his damage.

Horace Brown also came off the bench for six points, four big ones in the fourth period, to help the Bulldogs' cause. But Johnson was the key man offensively as he dominated the inside game for the Purple Pack. San Angelo just couldn't handle him underneath and he was a consistent scorer despite missing one of his patented dunk shots.

The MHS junior varsity ran its record to 27-5 for the year by skating past San Angelo, 83-58. Steve Henry led the charge with 15 points while Steve Miller had 12, Wes Williams 11 and Mike Velasco 10. San Angelo's Trent Mullins led all scorers with 24 points, but MHS JV coach Eddie Shirley used a phenomenal 24 players in the game.

Lee thumps Big Spring, 69-36 Rebels keep 5-4A cage hopes alive

BIG SPRING — The Midland Lee Rebels kept their District 5-4A basketball second half championship hopes alive here Friday night with a sound thumping of the Big Spring Steers, 69-36.

Lee's victory gives the Rebels a 3-1 second half record and a second place tie with Midland High. Lee and Midland High are one-half game behind idle Odessa Permian, whose game was postponed with Abilene Cooper until Feb. 21.

LEE WILL face Permian in the Chaparral Center Tuesday in a crucial showdown between the two teams. That will be a must victory for the Rebels if they are to have a shot at the second half crown.

Tim Fisher led the Rebels with 15 points while Norris Lane had 11. David Keys and Danny Rabb both chipped in with 10 points each as Lee raced over the Steers. Lee is now 16-13 on the year while Big Spring fell to 0-4 and 5-21. Big Spring's David Carlisle was the only Lee opponent to hit in double figures with 13 points.

LEE RACED to a 17-7 lead in the first period and held a 35-15 margin at the half in the run-away. It was just a matter of time from then on for a Rebel victory. Nine Lee players got in on the scoring act.

Pintor, Sandoval battle for WBC bantam crown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alberto Sandoval and Lupe Pintor, two fighters who've struggled in different ways to make it to the top, will battle Saturday night for the World Boxing Council's bantamweight crown.

Pintor, the 24-year-old champion who lives in Mexico City, got his first taste of fighting on the streets of his native village of Cuajimalta. He eventually graduated to being a stablemate and sparring partner of Carlos Zarate.

Last June in Las Vegas, Nev., Pintor scored one of boxing's biggest upsets in years when he took the bantamweight title on a 15-round decision over Zarate, who owned boxing's most impressive knockout record.

Sandoval, also 24, has toiled long hours, both at jobs and in the gym, for the big chance he'll be getting when he goes into the Olympic Auditorium ring against Pintor.

"I've worked hard and sacrificed a long time for this," said Sandoval, from Pomona, Calif. "This is the payoff. Pintor will bring a 40-7 record with 33 knockouts into the scheduled 15-rounder at the Olympic. Sandoval is 32-3, with 21 knockouts.

Midland boxers impressive in GG

BY BOB DILLON
R-T Sports Writer

ODESSA—The Midland Boxing Club is making quite a name for itself. Competing in the 34th annual Regional Golden Gloves Tournament in the Ector County Coliseum Friday night, Coach Rick Fleetwood's crew won five out of eight early bouts.

With the eight victories, his team had won 21 of 27 fights going into the late card, which included the high school football division.

In the junior high football division, Felix

Hall, 160, scored a TKO victory over Bill Rogers of Nimitz. Hall scored his victory with a hard fight to the jaw with 16 seconds left in the second round.

Kevin Taylor, 137-pounder from Midland, also scored a victory over Hood's Dean Delao. Taylor scored heavily in the final round with several solid jabs and left counterpunches to the body and had Delao on the ropes at the finish.

Ruben Tagle also joined the winner's circle by defeating Kenneth Lisnbe of Crockett. Although outweighed some five pounds, Tagle scored an impressive victory over the Odessan.

Benny Long, a classy 112 pounder, had a knockout victory in the first round over Fort Stockton's Gerald Belezquez. Another Midland victory came when Gerry Collazo disposed of Steve Dandridge of Bonham.

Kenneth Johnson, 102, Midland, suffered a TKO defeat in the second round to Hood's Roy Munoz.

With the 49-bout, Midlanders still had six fights in the high school football division with Rick Randolph, Chris Parker, Rick Sessions, Kevin Tarver, Paul Talge yet to step into the ring.

In the junior high football division bout, Midland's Bill McFarland lost a third round TKO decision to Danny Gonzales of Andrews while in a regular high school division bout, Armando Jimenez of Midland lost by default to Pecos' Ismael Juarez.

In the high school football division, Paul Tagle, Chris Parker and Rick Sessions all took victories with Tagle defeating Webbie Walker of Ector, Parker taking a split decision over Johnny Herrera of Odessa High and Sessions besting Robert Lujan of Ector.

In the college division, Midland's Richard Robertson, a stocky 161-pounder, took an easy victory over Odessa College's Bill Blount.

Mustangs win 2-AAA

ODESSA — The Andrews Mustangs nailed down the District 2-AAA title here Friday night with a 77-74 victory over the Odessa Eagles.

The Mustangs are now 26-3 on the year and 3-0 in the second half 2-AAA race. Andrews won the first half title outright and the worst they can do in the second half is tie for the title. So Andrews moves to the playoffs.

Gary Alaniz led the Mustangs with 23 points while Keith Brooks chipped in with 19. Robbie Jones hit for 14 and Brian Templeton 10 in the high scoring attack.

Ector fell to 17-11 and 3-1 for the year and lost their playoff hopes. Bruce Allen led the Eagles with 28 points while Kevin Butler, Marcell Simit and Cranston Parks each had 12 points in the loss.

Decker just misses 4-minute mile

By BERT ROSENTHAL
NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Decker, the world outdoor record-holder in the women's mile, smashed the indoor best for 1,500 meters and missed the four-minute barrier by less than a second at the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Decker, making her first New York appearance in six years — since she was a 14-year-old wearing pigtails — shattered the world indoor best of 4:03.0 set last year by Natalia Maracescu of Romania with a scintillating time of 4:00.8.

Meanwhile, Stephanie Hightower broke the indoor best for the women's 60-yard high hurdles and Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan won the Wanamaker Mile for his 14th consecutive indoor triumph.

Decker's performance in the 1,500 meters was so impressive that she knocked exactly nine seconds off the 11-lap American indoor record of 4:09.8 established by Francie Larrieu in Richmond, Va., five years ago. Her time also was faster than the best American outdoor performance in the 1,500 — 4:02.6 by Jan Merrill in the 1976 Olympics.

The 20-year-old Decker, who set the outdoor mile mark of 4:21.7 in Jan. 26 at Auckland, New Zealand, took the lead from the outset in the 1,500 and ran virtually by herself. At the finish, her closest rival, Cindy Bremser of Wisconsin, was nearly 12 seconds back.

Decker also holds indoor records for 880 and 1,000 yards.

Coghlan turned on the speed with 1 1/2 laps remaining to win the Wanamaker Mile.

Among the other record-setters were Joni Huntley in the women's high jump, Tony Darden in the men's 400 meters and Gwen Gardner in the women's 400.

meters or the mile since 1977, had hoped to smash his world best of 3:52.6. But a slow early pace, including a 63.5 quarter-mile and a 2:04 half-mile, ruined his chances.

The redoubtable Irishman, winner of 27 of his last 29 indoor races, was content to let John Gregorek, Ray Flynn and Craig Masback exchange the lead early in the race.

Then, with 1 1/2 laps to go in the 11-lap race, he burst ahead of the field. With a half-lap left, it appeared he had an insurmountable lead. At that point, Coghlan looked over his shoulder at the field, which was far behind.

However, Don Paige of Villanova then came with a rush around the outside and Coghlan needed all his strength to withstand Paige's late kick. Coghlan was timed in 3:58.2 with Paige second in 3:58.3.

Masback, formerly of Princeton, finished third in 3:59.8, his first sub-four-minute mile indoors.

While Coghlan continued his domination of the mile, there were several surprises — and records of various kinds.

Hightower, the intercollegiate champion from Ohio State, upset high school sensation Candy Young in the women's hurdles in a sizzling 7.47 seconds. The time broke the world indoor best of 7.50 set by Young in last year's national AAU championships. Young also ran faster than her previous record, finishing second in 7.48.

Huntley, a 1976 Olympian but hampered by recent injuries, showed she was back in top form, winning the women's high jump at 6 feet, 4 1/4 inches, one-quarter inch above her previous American record.

Darden, an upset winner over 1976 Olympic champion Alberto Juantorena of Cuba in last year's Pan-American Games, shattered the American 11-lap indoor record in the men's 400, winning in 48.25. Willie Smith, the old record-holder at 48.28, finished second in 48.46.

Gardner, with a sprawling finish, and June Griffith of Guyana dead-heated in the women's 400 in 53.31. But only Gardner, of Los Angeles, will receive credit for bettering the American 11-lap indoor mark of 55.41 established by Pam Jiles last year.

Tanzania's Suleiman Nyambui continued the spate of record-breaking performances, winning the men's 5,000 meters in 13:39.2. His clocking bettered the 11-lap indoor record of 13:47.9 by Rodolfo Gomez of Mexico at Portland, Ore., two years ago.

Paul Cummings, the sixth-place finisher in the 5,000, also broke the American 11-lap indoor record, clocking 13:43.5.

Not only were individuals breaking records, so were teams. In the women's one-mile relay, Tennessee State University's foursome of Debra Jones, Helen Blake, Chandra Cheeseborough and Ernestine Davis broke the world indoor best with a time of 3:41.6. The previous best was 3:43.0 set last year by Prairie View A&M.

Other record-setters included: Madeline Manning, the 1968 Olympic champion, with a Garden record of 2:05.6 in the women's 800 meters; Kenya's Peter Lemashon with an arena mark of 1:48.4 in the men's 800; Texas-El Paso's Bert Cameron, a meet record 56.0 in the men's 500-yard race, and Maryland's Chris Person with a meet record 1:09.4 in the men's 600-yard event.

The victories by Manning and Person left the capacity crowd of 18,310 with mixed emotions.

Manning, who will be 32 on Monday, put on an unexpected kick in the women's 800, overtaking 21-year-old Robin Campbell in posting her first Millrose triumph since 1969. The victory proved extremely popular with the fans.

Rose hopes there's no strike

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies star Pete Rose says he's hopeful there won't be a baseball players' strike at the start of the 1980 season.

"A strike or a lockout would hurt us all, players and owners, and would turn the fans on us. We're all in this business together. I hope a settlement can be reached," said Rose.

Rose, appearing as a guest on an Akron radio show, said a majority of the players don't want to strike and are hoping owners won't lock them out of spring training camp even if a new collective bargaining agreement hasn't been reached.

Commenting on the high salaries that free agents are getting, Rose said players are being paid now for their potential rather than their past performances.

Soviet writers unhappy with accommodations

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet correspondents at Lake Placid reported Friday that Soviet athletes face an "extremely unfavorable atmosphere" and prison-like living conditions at the site of the Winter Olympics.

Writing in the newspaper "Soviet Culture," Vladimir Kikilo accused the Carter Administration of using the remaining days before the start of the Winter Games to "create an extremely unfavorable atmosphere of psychological war" for Soviet athletes.

Kikilo suggested the Soviets could become "objects of various sorts of provocative and unfriendly acts."

Another report in the same newspaper declared that the rooms in the Olympic village were so bad, that "from such a room, people say, you badly want to run away."

Describing a small room with a window "a cat couldn't pass through," writer Eduard Baksakov said the dormitory "really resembles a prison" — a reference to future plans for the Olympic Village to be turned into a penitentiary.

Baksakov said the Olympic facilities were riddled with defects. He cited reports that there had been 40 mishaps in practice runs on the bobsled track, that gas was leaking into gyms and that the ski jump was unsafe.

Meanwhile, the newspaper "Trud" reported that most Olympic athletes were staying away from the village until the last moment, "seeking to limit their stay here to a minimum and hoping that the excitement of athletic competition will keep them from thinking about the condition of their temporary quarters."

Kikilo's article in "Soviet Culture" also strongly attacked the American campaign to stay away from the Summer Olympics. "Americans I know don't remember a psychological war of this scope in the past," he wrote.

..But other nations disagree

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — While the Soviet press condemned the athlete's village for the Winter Olympics Friday as forbidding and inhospitable, athletes from other countries said they liked their quarters and the food and entertainment available to them.

Another report in the same newspaper declared that the rooms in the Olympic village were so bad, that "from such a room, people say, you badly want to run away." But one of the world's top bobsled drivers, Erich Schaerer of Switzerland, labeled as "pure politics" the Soviet allegation and said, "The Olympic Village is very beautiful." He is Switzerland's top pilot and the current European four-man champion.

The village, built for the Winter Olympics, is destined to become a minimum-security federal prison after the Games. It will house up to 2,000 athletes and officials. As of Friday, there were more than 800 people moved in. The Games start Tuesday.

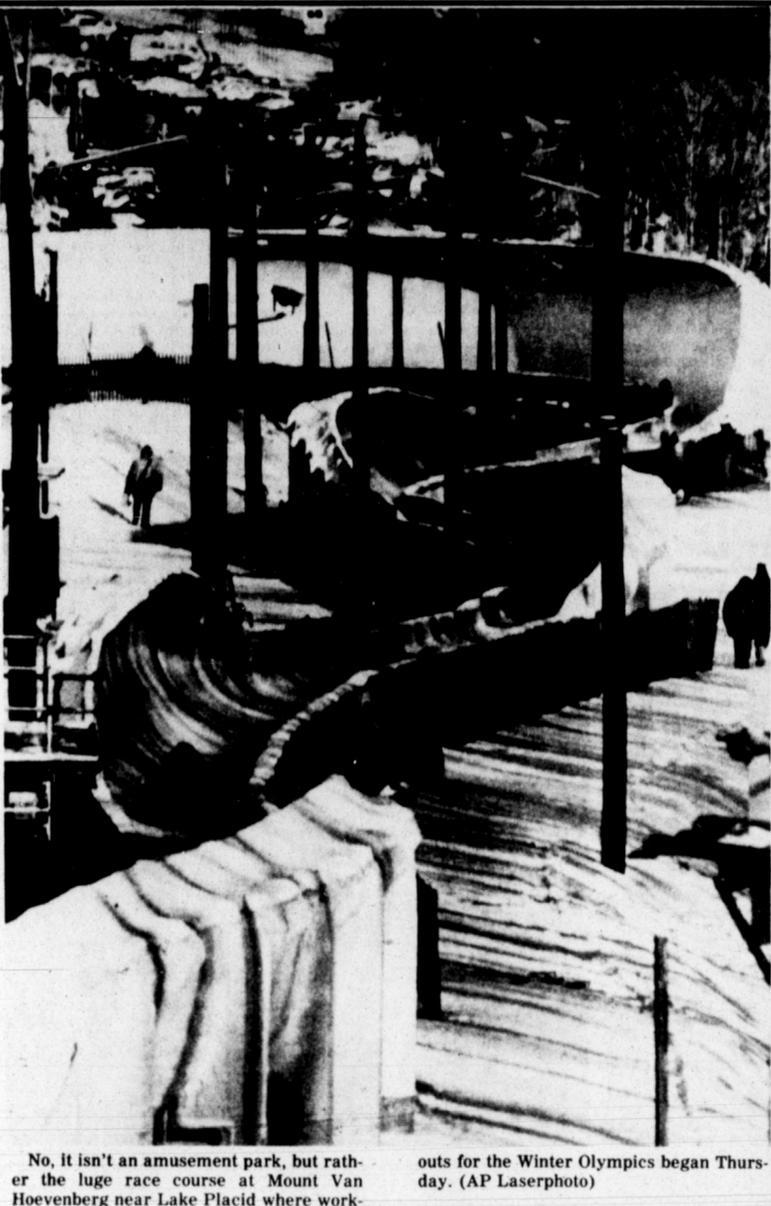

"I like to come to Lake Placid. It's better here than at Sapporo or Innsbruck (sites of the 1972 and 1976 Winter Olympics)," Schaerer said.

The comment, made during an informal Associated Press survey on athletes' food and eating preferences, was made the same day that Soviet correspondents at Lake Placid reported that Soviet athletes face an "extremely unfavorable atmosphere" and prison-like living conditions during the 1980 Winter Olympics.

He suggested the Soviets could become "objects of various sorts of provocative and unfriendly acts."

Soviet writer Eduard Baksakov mentioned reports that the Olympic facilities were riddled with defects — among them gas leaking into gyms and ruts in the bobsled run.

Officials said they had been no reports of gas leaks in any of the facilities. However, several months ago air tests in the field-house showed unacceptably high levels of carbon monoxide.

No, it isn't an amusement park, but rather the luge race course at Mount Van Hoevenberg near Lake Placid where workers for the Winter Olympics began Thursday. (AP Laserphoto)

USOC requests Games shift

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Robert J. Kane, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC), Friday formally requested that the Olympic Games be moved from Moscow.

Kane went before the executive board of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and argued that the Games should be moved or postponed because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

"In my view and, I believe, in the views of all right thinking people, the 1980 Olympic Games cannot be held in Moscow if the ideals of Baron de Coubertin, the founder of the modern Olympic movement, are to be upheld," Kane told the board at a closed meeting.

The IOC, which has been firm in its determination to keep the Games in Moscow, meets in full session from Sunday to Tuesday. The XIII Winter Games in Lake Placid open Wednesday.

Speed skating preview set

MILWAUKEE (AP) — With officials anticipating big crowds of skating fans, final preparations continued Friday for the weekend's World Sprint Championships, a preview of the Winter Olympic speed skating competition.

Nearly 100 of the top speed skaters in the world, including U.S. skating superstars Eric and Beth Heiden of Madison, Wis., are to compete today and Sunday.

The site of the competition is familiar territory for the U.S. skaters. Members of the U.S. squad have trained for years on the Olympic-style rink at the Wisconsin State Fairgrounds in suburban West Allis.

U.S. faces Soviet skaters

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Olympic hockey team, with plenty of confidence to gain and plenty of money to lose, faces the Soviet Olympic team at Madison Square Garden Saturday in an emotion-charged finale to its pre-Games exhibition schedule.

As of Friday, barely more than half of the Garden's 17,500 seats had been sold for the contest — the final tuneup for both teams before the 1980 Winter Games begin Tuesday at Lake Placid, N.Y. Slow sales were attributed by a Garden spokesman partially to the political tension over the Soviet military action in Afghanistan and partially to concern over possible demonstrations both inside and outside the New York sports emporium.

Biathlon team announced

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — American Olympic Biathlon skiing coach Arthur Stegen Friday revealed the names of team members selected for the individual 20 and 10 kilometer races.

Stegen, 33, of New Platz, N.Y., told the Associated Press the 20 kilometer team will include Lyle Nelson, 30, of Olympic Valley, Cal.; John W. Ruger 31, of Eldorado Springs, Colo.; and Glenn Jobe Jr., 28, of Alturas, Cal.

He said the three men selected for the 10 kilometer sprint are Donald M. Nielsen Jr., 28, of South Stratford, Vt.; Peter Hoag, 25, of Minneapolis, Minn.; and Martin O. Hagen, 25, of Jackson, Wyo.

Biathlon is on the Olympic Nordic skiing program. It involves cross-country skiing and 22-caliber rifle shooting at static targets 50 meters away. In the 20 kilometer event competitors race five loops, stopping to shoot twice in the prone and twice in the standing position at approximately 4.8, 12 and 16 kilometers. Penalty time is added for misses.

Rote recalls how it was with the NY Giants

When Kyle Rote was a three-sport all star in high school in San Antonio, he broke "a record or two in basketball that had been set by Frank O'Connell", but it wasn't until almost 40 years later that the two met...Thursday night at the Midland Sports Banquet.

TED BATTLES BATTLE SCENE

Recalling his football days with the New York Giants, Rote remembered, "During the season we stayed up near Yankee Stadium in the Concourse Plaza Hotel, but the night before a game, 'We'd go down to Toots Shor's restaurant to eat. It was okay as long as we were back by 11 p.m."

"One night before a game with Detroit, we saw Bobby Layne (the Lions' quarterback) in the bar and offered him a ride back up town," since the visiting teams also stayed at the Concourse Plaza. "But Layne turned us down. He wanted to stay at the bar a while longer."

Foiled again, "It was our theory," noted Rote, the not-so-good samaritan, "that if we ever got Bobby out of the bar and into bed by 11, a good night's sleep would so ruin his timing we wouldn't have to worry about him."

WHILE KYLE, Sr., and his football feats remain fresh in the memories of the older generation, the Kyle Rote the younger set is familiar with is the famous soccer player.

"It's not easy to be the father of a famous son and walk in his footsteps," Kyle, Sr., said sadly.

"He won more in the Superstars TV competition a few years ago than I earned in 11 full seasons with the Giants...and he did it in just eight days."

Rote confessed, however, that "When I signed with the Giants, it was for $110,000...not bad, in fact, I think I negotiated the first 11-year contract in pro football."

Over the years the attitude has changed in pro football, Rote observed in recalling a 1962 game with the Green Bay Packers. "We were trying to get within field goal range late in the game and I caught the pass from John Conery that got us where we wanted to be. Back up field, there was a flag for unnecessary roughness. It was before the electronic devices by which officials blab the culprit's identity for all in the stadium to hear, so I asked the ref who it was on. He said No. 69, who was big Rosey Grier, our tackle."

"I asked Rosey what happened," Rote went on, "And he said indignantly, 'It all started when he hit me back...'"

DURING the get together before the dinner, Van Herder, a guest of Max Christensen from Nebraska, kept dragging people over to meet Hall of Fame pitcher Warren Spahn. They had all mistaken the guest for the famous lefthander.

"It happened 10 times," complained Spahn, who blamed it on the similarity of noses. "I thought when Jimmy Durante died, I might be No. 1."

While playing service ball at Randolph Field during World War II, Spahn recalled that he was hit by a line drive that broke his nose and admits he could have had it reshaped...but didn't. "The same thing happened a little while later to Johnny Bernadino, the old St. Louis Browns infielder. And the same doctor restyled his nose...Now, he's a star on the daytime soap opera, The Doctors, and I'm a pitching coach."

Although he was wearing a gold star on his lapel that was given to him by Pittsburgh Pirates' World Series hero Willie Stargell at the Dapper Dan dinner in Pittsburgh a few nights before, Spahn expressed puzzlement at Baltimore's pitching strategy against the Buc slugger last fall.

"I couldn't believe they kept giving him breaking pitches," reasoning that as hitters age they pass up the fastball on which they once thrived, but no longer can get around on, and wait for the curve.

Moose Stubing, the former El Paso Diablos manager, put in a surprise appearance at the banquet, excusing himself from officiating a SWC basketball game Thursday night just so he could make it. "I wanted to be her. Midland's one of my favorite places."

This year, Moose will be managing the Angels' AAA club at Salt Lake City in the Pacific Coast League. "I didn't want to leave the Texas League. My home is in El Paso and I like the league and the people in it. You won't find folks like you have in Midland any place else. But I'd turned it down once before and I knew if I didn't take it this time, I'd never get another chance. And moving up to the majors eventually is what it's all about. That's where the money is."

And as an after-thought, Moose predicted the Diablos would be rougher than a cob this season. "With all the free agents the Angels signed, that means a lot of players who should be in triple-A this season, will be playing at El Paso."

Blalock's course-record 66 leads LPGA

NORTH MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jane Blalock shot a course-record 66 Friday to take a five-shot lead after the second round of the $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament here.

Blalock had six birdies and no bogeys as she broke the 6,211-yard Turnberry Isle Country Club record of 68 set last year by Pat Bradley and Alice Miller.

The veteran pro was 8-under-par on the par-72 course going into Saturday's third round. Defending U.S. Open champion Jerilyn Britz was five shots behind after carding a 2-under 70 Friday for a 141 total.

Tied for third at 142 were Joyce Kazmierski, JoAnn Washam and Kathy Postlewait. Defending champion Amy Alcott shot her second straight 73 Friday.

First-round leader Silvia Bertolaccini shot a 74 to wind up tied for sixth after 36 holes. The cut in the 72-hole tournament came at 152.

"It was a round that seemed easy," said Blalock. "I hit it close and made putts. It's the best round I feel I played since the first of last year."

Blalock attributed her record score to a minor adjustment in her swing that she claimed gave her 10 to 15 extra yards off the tee. She didn't miss a fairway all day Friday and missed only one green.

"I was just guilty of poor posture," said Blalock. "After hitting balls for an hour Thursday night, I felt I had the knack of it."

Starting on the back nine Friday afternoon, Blalock birdied the 10th, 13th, 14th and 17th holes to turn in 4-under 32. She birdied holes 4 and 6 to return to the clubhouse in 34.

Britz overcame a double bogey on the front to finish at 35-35.

"If it wasn't for the double bogey and a couple of four-footers that I missed, I'd be right there," Britz said. "There's still two rounds of golf to play. Anything can happen. Today was Jane's day, tomorrow may be mine."

Grand Jury probes Davis

OAKLAND (AP) — A Las Vegas grand jury is investigating the financial records of an Oakland shopping center owned by a former Las Vegas casino owner and Oakland Raiders managing general partner Al Davis, according to the manager of the center.

Michael Lapin, manager of Eastmont Shopping Center and attorney for Allen Glick, said Thursday that the center's records had been subpoenaed by the grand jury, which is investigating Glick's past and present business enterprises.

Those enterprises include Argent Corp., which until last fall owned the Stardust and Fremont hotel-casinos. The San Jose Mercury reported Friday that the grand jury was investigating the alleged flow of thousands of dollars to the mall from Argent and the transfer of thousands of dollars from the mall to a Tennessee bank to pay back loans.

"I assume they wanted to see if anything was going out of the mall to Mr. Glick's Las Vegas businesses," Lapin said. "Of course, there wasn't."

The Eastmont Mall, which is near the Oakland Coliseum, was bought by Glick in 1974.

Spahn pulls no punches when discussing 'his' game

BY RICHARD VINCENT
R-T Sports Writer

Hall of Famer Warren Spahn isn't about to bite the hand that's fed him for most of his adult life, but the former Milwaukee Braves lefthander who also spent a half year with the New York Mets, pulls no punches when talking about the game he loves.

"There's been a big difference in athletes," said Spahn Thursday night while in Midland to attend the second Midland Sports Banquet. "I think that athletes are bigger and stronger than when I played."

But Spahn, in his second year as minor league pitching coach for the California Angels, sees another difference in today's athlete, a difference more mental than physical.

"They're very opinionated," he said. "It seems to me every young guy out of college wants instant success. I don't feel they give of themselves. They want things to come the easy way."

For Spahn, however, things didn't come quite as easily. He said, "When I was in high school, we were playing five days a week and I was pitching about four of them. We couldn't afford to have a sore arm."

He may have traveled a rocky road to the top, and he may be a little miffed at the attitude of some young athletes, but it doesn't mean he can't relish — and he seems to — working with the kids, such as during his five-year stint as manager at Tulsa.

"I enjoy teaching," he said, "and I get satisfaction out of sending kids to the majors. I win and lose when they win and lose. I've found there are rewards from what I've tried to do."

When Spahn hung up his spikes in 1965 after logging 363 victories, 63 shutouts and a Cy Young Award, he said he underwent a minor adjustment.

"SURE, IT'S tough to get used to," he said of his retirement. "You get used to a way of life. But really, I've never been away from the game. The only year I was out of baseball was 1966." With salaries skyrocketing to six figures, does Spahn, who said his top stipend during a brilliant career was $87,500, begrudge the Pete Roses, Keith Hernandezes, Dave Parkers and Jim Palmers? Nope.

"I don't care how much money a guy makes," he said, then added, "It also buys less."

If Spahn has a qualm with today's hurlers, it has to do with their repertoire of pitches.

"So many people," he said, "from the majors down, have gone sinker-slider. Pitchers don't throw as hard. They're lacking velocity. Hitters are more comfortable at the plate. When I was a player, a .250 hitter was a lousy hitter, now he's a superstar."

Then what's the recipe for being a good pitcher? "Every hitter that walks up to that plate is a tough out," he said. "But the secret is getting the mediocre hitter out."

Beside his pitching prowess, Spahn gained some notoriety when he played the part of a German officer in the "Combat" television series. He didn't win an Emmy, mind you, but he said, "I still belong to the Screen Actors Guild."

ALTHOUGH he couldn't recall the year the episode aired, he did recollect an interesting anecdote. "Selmer Productions called me and asked me to do it," he said. It just so happened that the day Spahn was on the set, he was also scheduled to pitch later that night. Spahn said he rushed to the ballpark, still in makeup and army boots. "I was pitching against (Don) Drysdale. It was a long day, but I remember I pitched a shutout."

Warren Spahn was ready to meet any challenge, any test. He still is, for that matter. And the gold star — a gift from Willie Stargell — he wore on the lapel of his blue suit Thursday night couldn't have looked brighter anywhere else.

Taiwan athletes wait to see if decision stands

Olympic officials appealed a court ruling Friday which would allow Taiwan to compete in the XIII Winter Olympic Games as the Republic of China. Happy Taiwan athletes waited to see if the decision stands up so they can move into the Olympic Village. "I will try to contact my lawyer and see what steps should be followed," said Michael Lee, of Taiwan's National Olympic Committee. "Since there is a legal issue that involves a question of appeals, we are just waiting..."

Metro Conference officials will investigate a fracas between Memphis State basketball Coach Dana Kirk and referees at Florida State that led to a forfeit by Memphis State, Metro Commissioner Larry Albus said Friday. With 15:40 left and MSU leading 54-53, Kirk and assistant Larry Finch rose to protest failure to call a traveling violation. Borg dazzles Vilas, 6-2, 6-1

BOCA WEST, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Bjorn Borg mixed a steady backcourt game with some explosive winners as he advanced to the finals of the $300,000 Grand Slam of Tennis Friday, whipping Guillermo Vilas 6-2, 6-1 in a match spiced with long topspin rallies.

urday's showdown between Americans John McEnroe and Vilas Gerulaitis. At stake will be $150,000, the biggest top prize in tennis.

Borg, the winner here the last three years, patiently exchanged deep, looping topspin shots with Vilas, then jumped on any short ball with vicious outright placements.

"I wouldn't even steal a piece of private-label stereo equipment. That's what the people who sell it are doing," said Jerry Dyer when asked why only name-brand stereo is found in his hideouts. "With private-label merchandise, the dealer can put whatever 'list price' he chooses on it. So they all mark them way up so that it looks like you're getting a big discount. But really, the discount is as big a fake as the 'list price' Dyer explained. "With name-brands the list price is set by the manufacturer. The dealer has nothing to do with it. Three Iranians arrested for smuggling heroin

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Federal agents who discovered 4.4 pounds of heroin in a crate at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport used powdered chocolate laced with electronic transmitters to arrest three Iranians.

The two men and a woman were to be arraigned Friday on smuggling charges.

The illegal narcotic was stashed in secret compartments of a display case that held a Moslem holy book. It arrived here Jan. 29 after a journey that started in Shiraz, Iran.

U.S. Customs agent Terry M. Cromer was making a routine check that day. He opened a wooden crate he had selected at random and discovered the compartments filled with a brown powder.

Lab tests showed it was 72 percent pure heroin. One official said the street value was $10 million.

Then the trap was set.

Drug Enforcement Administration agents poured out the heroin and replaced it with the powdered chocolate — as well as tiny transmitters that would enable them to track the crate.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Conard Florence said that after the trap was set, several days elapsed. Agents worried that the smugglers might have grown suspicious and decided not to pick up the crate.

But on Tuesday, one week after the heroin had been discovered, an Iranian woman identified as a Texas

Woman's University student claimed the crate and drove to Denton. She removed it from the trunk of her car and carried it into her apartment, according to an affidavit filed by the agents.

The federal affidavit said an Iranian man, the woman's brother, picked up the crate Wednesday night and drove to a restaurant where another Iranian, a 38-year-old Florida resident, put the crate in his vehicle and then drove a circuitous route all over town.

Agents tracked the car and crate to a motel room in Greenville, 60 miles east of Denton, where it was opened.

That is when the man apparently saw the transmitter and realized he had been tricked, agents said.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Sweeney of Fort Worth said agents moved in and made the arrest. The woman and her brother were arrested later in Denton.

"We don't know at this time what (he) planned to do with the heroin. Since he lived in Florida, it may be that he intended to take it to that state and turn it over for others. We don't know. But there was obviously some big money involved," he said.

Shipping records show the crate was flown from Shiraz to the Iranian capital of Tehran Jan. 19. Then it was flown to Paris and from there to Houston. A truck transported the box from Houston to the Customs Service center at the airport.

Florida prosecutor doesn't foresee extradition of Bundy

By MATT BOKOR

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Colorado isn't likely to get its hands on Theodore Bundy, according to Florida's top prosecutor.

Bundy was convicted of a third Florida murder on Thursday and "I just wouldn't think Florida would give him up, particularly with the history of escapes," Attorney General Jim Smith said.

With two Florida trials over and convictions in, Smith was asked if the former Utah student will be extradited to Colorado, where he is charged with murdering another young woman, a vacationing Michigan nurse.

"That's really a question the governor would have to answer," Smith said. "Traditionally, they just don't give them up."

Bundy, a 33-year-old law school drop-out, was convicted in Orlando of kidnapping and murdering Kimberly Diane Leach, who disappeared from her Lake City junior high school in North Florida two years ago.

A jury is to decide Saturday whether to recommend life in prison or death in the electric chair for Bundy, a former Tacoma, Wash., resident who also has been convicted in the kidnapping of a suburban Salt Lake City woman.

Bundy already is under the death sentence in Florida for the murders of two Florida State University students, Lisa Levy and Margaret Bowman, who were slain in their sorority house beds in January 1978 — just weeks before the Leach girl was kidnapped, raped and murdered.

Smith defended sending Bundy to trial in the Leach case, even though a Miami jury last summer already had convicted him of murdering the two university students. For one thing, he said, the trial eased the uncertainty of the Leach girl's parents about who killed their daughter.

Asked if that also wouldn't hold true for the survivors of Caryn Campbell, the Dearborn, Mich., nurse murdered at a Colorado ski resort in January 1975, Smith replied: "There you got me on an inconsistency."

Victim's girlfriend of Gacy 'friendship'

CHICAGO (AP) — The girlfriend of one of the victims found buried under the home of John W. Gacy Jr. sobbingly told the jury Friday of having a passing acquaintance with the defendant.

Gacy, who sat expressionless facing the judge, is charged with the sex-related murders of 33 young men and boys ranging in age from 15 to 21. He has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

Mary Jo Paulus said she had first encountered Gacy at a Northwest Side lounge in 1977 before she had met and started going with William Kindred, 19.

Miss Paulus was asked by the prosecution to identify a chain and a picture of Kindred. She broke down after telling the jury that the chain was one she had given Kindred. On it was a religious medallion and another medal.

As Miss Paulus tried to control her tears, Kindred's mother, Lola Woods, wept in the spectators' section and buried her head in the lap of a friend.

Before Miss Paulus broke down, she told the court that she was in the lounge when she was approached by a man she came to know as Gacy.

"He sketched my picture and came over to me and handed it to me," she testified.

She said that she had run into Gacy four or five other times and in November of 1978, about 10 months after she had last seen Kindred alive, Gacy asked her "if I was interested in coming to a party at his house, where very important people would be ..."

She said the party was to be on Dec. 21 of that year — the day, it turned out, Gacy was arrested.

Miss Paulus left the stand when she broke down, but returned a short time later and asked the judge to have Gacy stop staring at her. Gacy turned his eyes from the young woman.

Chain letters really 'fading rainbows'

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

Make $200,000, $500,000 — who knows? It's easy money. Just invest $100 — and follow instructions in this chain letter exactly.

Give $50 to the person who hands the letter to you, place another $50 in an envelope and mail it to the first person listed in the letter. Copy the letter, remove the name of the person at the top and add your name to the bottom.

If the 12 people on the list follow the rules, each will receive more than $200,000 in approximately 12 days. Get rich quick. Right. There's a sucker born every minute.

Participants all over the country say chain letters such as "Circle of Gold," "Business List" and "Platinum Pyramid" are fun and fruitful. Prosecutors condemn them as fraudulent and harmful. "People don't understand that the money has to come from someone else's pocket," said Victoria Vreeland, an assistant attorney general in Washington State. "It doesn't grow on trees."

The New York attorney general's office calculated the odds for an "investor" in the above list. Even the 13th buyer would be in trouble because each person ahead of him involves another 12 names, who themselves involve dozens of people. The entire population of New York State would be exhausted by the time the last buyer reaches the top of the list.

As far back as 1906, the Wisconsin Supreme Court condemned chain schemes as "evil." It spoke of "a series of constantly multiplying endless chains with nothing but fading rainbows as the reward of those who are unfortunate enough to become purchasers the moment before the collapse of the scheme."

In the 1920s, Charles Ponzi gave his name to pyramid-type chain schemes that paid old investors with money from new investors. In the decades since, imitators have duped even the most sophisticated investors.

Wayne Kidd, manager of the U.S. Postal Service's fraud bureau, said the postal service tries to discourage chain letters by prosecuting participants under federal lottery and mail fraud statutes. Those who avoid the mails come under consumer protection laws in most states.

Despite official displeasure with the chains, supporters are coming into the open. They sponsor huge rallies, advertise in newspapers and paste bumper stickers on their cars.

Rhode Island authorities shut down a $1,000-a-shot scheme last April, but only after realizing that people in the block-long cue outside a Woonsocket storefront were lined up hoping for payoffs of $31,000.

"They thought they were helping each other," said Walter Stone, an attorney for the operators. "All I could see was that they were circulating the same money."

Alex Sylvia, a real estate salesman who was president of the "club" that ran the scheme, said perhaps 600 people took part and they were "making thousands of dollars in less than a week." He said some of his friends made up to $10,000.

"It was an incredible experience, seeing people come together. I saw a lot of happy people, a lot of excited people," Sylvia said.

Oregon is seeking to halt the Business List. "We felt we were not breaking the law," said Laverne Pace, a sometimes blackjack dealer and mother of three from Myrtle Point, Ore., who said she had made $3,700 from the Business List. "It was our $100. We worked for it, we paid taxes on it and it's our business what we do with it."

With apparent reluctance, unemployed Myrtle Point logger John Loors conceded he had received "in the neighborhood of" $25,000 from participation in the Business List.

Most people get back their original "investment," according to research analyst Josh Holtzman of the National Association of Attorneys General, but profit is another matter.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

The Value of Speed

By Alfred Sheinwold

Some players are noted more for speed than for their good play. Don't complain. At least they get the agony over quickly.

South took dummy's jack of hearts and fired back the king of spades. East won and returned the ten of hearts. West took four hearts, and South was down one.

Clearly, West had led from long hearts headed by the ace-queen. South should have known that West couldn't also have the ace of spades since West hadn't bid one heart over one diamond.

MUST FINESSE

South must therefore try for five diamonds and three clubs. At the second trick declarer should lead a low diamond from dummy for a finesse with the jack.

When this works, South returns a diamond to the king and switches to the queen of clubs. It would be equally correct to lead the queen of clubs at the second trick to make sure of three clubs before starting the diamonds.

The important point is to leave the spades alone.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one notrump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: ♠ A 7 6 ♥ 10 8 3 ♦ Q 7 3 ♣ K 9 8 4. What do you say?

Flood ruled competent for trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., is mentally competent to be retried on bribery and conspiracy charges, a federal judge ruled Friday.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch said Flood's once "exceptional mental ability," though now obviously impaired, is adequate to enable the ex-congressman to help lawyers prepare a legal defense.

"It is clear that this impairment of his mind does exist. It is not clear that his mind has deteriorated the point that he lacks present ability to assist his counsel," Gasch wrote in a 17-page opinion.

The judge said the 76-year-old Flood should be able to participate in trial proceedings under "flexible conditions," with frequent rest periods.

"Though the defendant (Flood) suffers from many physical ailments, the court does not feel that a trial in which proper consideration is given to the defendant's physical needs should involve undue risks to his health," Gasch wrote.

Garbage man longtime outsider

By JULES LOH

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Everyone has heard, of course, how difficult it will be for an outsider to find a place in this little village when the Winter Olympics comes to town Feb. 12.

Ted Cave will tell you that at one time, years ago, in another, sadder way, it was even more difficult for outsiders.

"To some old timers in Lake Placid," he said, "I will always be considered an outsider even though my children and children's children were born here. I know what rejection is, and so do they. It is the price we pay for my being what I am."

He was a natural-born ice skater, and soon combined the two talents for touring ice shows.

That was years ago. Today, he is a little round man of 67 winters with a face like a toby mug, pink and smiling. The smile, like that of the court jester, is sometimes a mask for grief.

This is why:

"When I first came to Lake Placid, in 1934, I was something of a celebrity. I was with the Gay Blades and we were here for rehearsals. We were more than welcome.

"I fell in love with Lake Placid, and also with one of its beautiful women. We were married."

"We toured together with the show — New York, Chicago, Boston, all over the country, living in hotels. We had a baby, and the baby went, too. It was an exciting life: lights, music, crowds.

"When our second baby was born, we decided it was time to settle down. We came home to Lake Placid.

"Those were hard times. I took what work I could find. I washed dishes, did some gardening. Finally, I bought a truck for $50 and began collecting garbage.

"That was when I discovered I was an outsider in this small, close-knit town, and outsiders weren't particularly welcomed.

My wife and I have taken up square dancing. We go to dances all around the state. Square dancers don't seem to care how you make your living.

"From time to time, I also strap on my blades, go out on the ice and do a little clowning, just myself, no audience. That helps, too.

"I have found a way.

"When I'm square dancing or clowning, I forget my troubles. I'm in another world, and all is bright and beautiful again."

Filmed dog shooting produces outrage

NEW YORK (AP) — A 30-second film of the shooting death of a dog — part of an art series funded by national and state arts councils — can't be disguised as art, says the head of a group that promotes citizen access to television.

A film, which showed the shooting of the dog 60 times in a half-hour, aired on Manhattan Cable Television on Christmas Day.

Called "Shot Dog Film," the mini-movie was produced and directed by artist Tom Otterness for a 26-week series of videotape and film by artists called "Redcurtain." It showed the black and white mongrel being chained to a post and shot. Otterness has refused to comment on the film but has acknowledged shooting the dog.

Money for the series, produced by an art center, Collaborative Projects, came from the National Endowment For The Arts and the New York State Council On The Arts.

Bill Clark, vice president of Friends of Animals, has protested the film and the system which produced and aired it. "Something like this slips by and next thing somebody else tries to outdo it," Clark said.
