High winds that rocked Midland Wednesday made walking difficult for some Midland pedestrians. At the intersection of Wall Avenue and Big Spring Street, two men help a woman across the street in the wind and blowing dust. Wednesday's peak gust was 61 mph and the high winds are predicted to continue at least through Friday. See related story, Page 2A. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

Search is fruitless No sign of missing woman

By KAY HORD
Staff Writer

A systematic search Wednesday by 30 to 40 police officers, sheriff's deputies and Texas Rangers through tumbledweed- and brush-covered fields in north Midland turned up no evidence of Kristy Booth, 19, missing since Feb. 2.

Officers participating in the search volunteered their time and personal vehicles to comb the fields around the Dimensions Club, 411 Air Park Lane, where Kristy was last seen.

"We really didn't expect to find her there," said a police spokesman today. "We know she wasn't beaten and taken from the club or someone would have seen that. So she must have left voluntarily with someone or on her own."

It's that last possibility that led the law enforcement agencies to search the barren, empty fields surrounding the north Midland disco.

Before the search, Sheriff Dallas Smith pointed out that Kristy might have wandered out of the club on her own and died of exposure.

Conference committee considering tax cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new tax break of up to $400 a year for savers is a step closer to reality today, and across-the-board tax cuts for individuals and corporations could be just around the corner.

Despite opposition from the Carter administration, a Senate-House conference committee working on a "windfall" tax on the oil industry agreed Wednesday.

—On a two-year trial, starting in 1981, for a provision that would exempt from income taxes up to $201 of interest or dividends earned each year from savings accounts, stocks, savings bonds and other investments. A couple filing a joint return could avoid taxes on $400 of such earnings.

—That 60 percent of the revenues from the "windfall" tax should be set aside for income tax cuts. The tax is estimated to produce $227.3 billion in the 1980s; that would mean $136 billion for tax cuts.

The timing and shape of any tax cut would have to be decided in subsequent legislation. But the agreement opens the door for a tax reduction of about $16 billion as early as Oct. 1.

That same agreement would earmark an additional 25 percent, or about $57 billion for helping lower-income Americans pay their energy bills. The other $34 billion would finance improvements in the nation's transportation system and encourage home and business energy conservation and development of non-oil fuels.

The conferees' agreement would accommodate major parts of Carter's 10-year energy program. But their insistence on earmarking the lion's share of the money for tax reductions likely will mean other energy projects may have to be financed out of income taxes, rather than from the new "windfall" tax.

With the support of the Carter administration, the conferees voted to extend through 1992 the current four-cent-a-gallon tax exemption allowed gasoline. That and other parts of a gasohol-incentive package would cost the treasury about $2 billion in lost taxes in the 1980s.

Still to be considered by the conferees are several Senate-passed tax credits designed to help businesses make better use of energy. An effort on the House floor to force House conferees to accept the Senate's $25.6 billion package of energy credits for individuals and businesses failed Wednesday on a 207-195 vote.

The conferees had agreed earlier to delete most of the Senate-approved credits for home energy conservation. The effort on the House floor, led by Rep. Norman D'Amours, D-N.H., grew in part from the conferees' rejection of a credit of up to $300 for the purchase of wood burning stoves.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., claimed victory for his tax-cut efforts after Wednesday's vote to earmark 60 percent of the "windfall" tax for across-the-board reductions.

Return of shah again demand of militants for hostages' freedom

By The Associated Press

There will be no clemency for the U.S. Embassy hostages in Tehran until the deposed shah is returned to Iran, the Moslem militants holding the embassy said today.

The hard line statement came as the U.N. investigative commission on Iran remained stalled.

A co-chairman of the commission unexpectedly left Switzerland for New York today as agreement on a timetable for release of the Tehran hostages reportedly continued to elude negotiators. Iranian leaders denied there was any link between the commission's work and possible release of the approximately 50 hostages.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr also demanded the return of the shah, but the militants' broadcast statement was the only one directly tying the hostages' freedom to the return of the ousted monarch.

In a Tehran Radio "mobilization week" broadcast monitored in London, the militants said:

"Today is a day of mobilization of the Iranian nation against all aggressive occupationists, particularly America which must deliver up fugitive Mohammad Reza and the assets he has stolen.

"It must realize that the longer it delays the more it exposes its anti-human nature to the world.

"In the event of delay, any expectation of clemency for the hostages would be foolish."

In another development, the Moslem militants, holding the Americans captive at the embassy for the 110th day, declared that one of three U.S. diplomats in custody at the Foreign Ministry should be put on trial for alleged connections with an Iranian terrorist group.

The departure of U.N. commission member Mohamed Bedjaoui from Geneva was not explained. A U.N. spokesman in the Swiss city, Anthony Curnow, said Bedjaoui's business in New York was "apparently not associated with the commission's mandate" but that it was "most possible" he would meet with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim in New York.

Bedjaoui, Algeria's U.N. ambassador, is a co-chairman of the five-member commission, established by Waldheim as a "fact-finding mission" to hear Iran's charges of mass murder and corruption against the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and of U.S. interference in Iranian affairs, and American grievances over the hostage-taking.

The commission had been scheduled to fly to Tehran Wednesday but Waldheim delayed its departure until the weekend when last-minute problems developed.

The U.N. chief would not specify the problems, but one well-placed U.N. diplomat said the delay resulted from a lack of agreement on the timing of the Americans' freedom.

"That's the remaining thing to be worked out — as to when and where they are going to be released," said the diplomat, who asked not to be identified.

In a speech carried on Tehran Radio, Khomeini, Iran's ailing 79-year-old revolutionary leader, told his countrymen Wednesday to "forcefully demand from the U.S.A. and any other government which may have risen in defense of the criminal, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, that this criminal be returned to us together with the nation's lawful riches, and do not rest until final victory."

Afghans stage protest against Soviet troops

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Nearly all shops and stores in Afghanistan's capital city closed today in the most spectacular protest so far against Soviet military occupation.

Exactly two months after Russian troops first crossed the Afghan border in an attempt to put down a Moslem rebellion against Kabul's communist regime, a rebel leaflet urged shopkeepers to show their "unanimous condemnation" of the intervention by paralyzing the commercial life of this city of 1 million.

All but a handful of shopkeepers obeyed the call despite frantic efforts by the Soviet sponsored regime of President Babrak Karmal to force them to stay open.

Thursday, the eve of the Moslem Sabbath, is normally the capital's busiest shopping day, with shops closing on Friday. In street after street of downtown Kabul, most shop fronts were boarded up or closed by iron shutters. But shopkeepers said the rebel strike call was "indefinite" — and that the shutdown would continue Saturday.

Despite a steady drizzle, thousands of civilians stood in the streets to observe the success of the protest with evident glee.

"We have won a great victory today," one shopkeeper told a group of Western reporters. "We have shown the Russians what the Afghan people think of them."

Afghan police and army units were on alert throughout Kabul.

At several points, plainclothes police were seen trying to force shopkeepers to remove the boarding from their windows. The shopkeepers generally obeyed, but replaced their shutters as soon as the police had gone.

Western reporters saw a large black limousine escorted by police touring the main shopping areas. In the car, senior officials, including the Wali (governor) of Kabul, observed the shutdowns with looks of consternation.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met with officials in Paris and London today as he wound up a tour of major European capitals to coordinate a Western response to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Vance failed in Bonn on Wednesday to get West German support for a boycott of the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow and said after talks in Paris today that unspecified differences with the French remain.

In London, Vance was likely to get the most sympathetic hearing in Europe for President Carter's call for an Olympic boycott as a means of showing Western displeasure over the Moscow's military moves.

The Kremlin on Wednesday rejected the Common Market's proposal to get Soviet troops out of Afghanistan, suggesting it was inspired by the White House.

"The illogicity of such a proposal is obvious," the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said, adding that the Common Market idea was "borrowed from across the (Atlantic) ocean" in the United States.

The proposal, agreed upon Tuesday by the nine members of the Common Market meeting in Rome, was for an international guarantee of Afghanistan's neutrality in exchange for removal of Russian troops from the Central Asian nation.

Vance said during his own visit to Rome on Wednesday he was "in general agreement" with the idea, even as he was trying to get a tougher response from America's European allies to the Afghan crisis.

Minting of Anthony dollar temporarily halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Mint plans a temporary halt in production of the initially unpopular Susan B. Anthony dollar coin because of high inventories, Mint officials said today.

"We are still very committed to the coin," said Alan J. Goldman, deputy director of the Mint. "This is not all that unusual. We make pennies all the time. But we sometimes stop production of other coins for several months when inventories get high."

The Anthony dollar was introduced with much fanfare last July 2, but has met with resistance because some Americans fear it can be confused too easily with the quarter.

Goldman said the Mint has produced 785 million Anthony coins so far. Of that total, 285 million are in circulation and 500 million are in inventory.

Hospital trustees hear happy financial report

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Midland Memorial Hospital trustees smiled Wednesday when they discovered the hospital "was in the black" for January.

According to the financial committee's report, the hospital made a "profit" of $3,000 last month. In addition, the charge-off expenses, which include bad debt expenses and indigent care services, were $56,570.

In December, the bad debt expense was recorded at $88,000.

Also, the hospital used only $58,000 of the $130,000 transferred for February from the Midland County Hospital District.

The $72,000 balance was returned to the district. However, the trustees approved a request for $100,000 to be transferred from the district for March.

The committee also reported that Medicare sent a $165,000 tentative reimbursement check for Medicare services rendered for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1979.

In the future, it was reported, Medi-

"But he added that while sitting on the stage at Central High School waiting for his turn to respond to the first question, I kept hearing so much of my own answers coming back at me and so many of my own positions over the years coming back at me that by the time it got back to me, I was worried there wouldn't be anything left to say."

Secretary of State sees 'bright future'

Despite the pessimism that is gaining momentum over the land, the United States nevertheless faces a "bright future," speculated Texas Secretary of State George W. Strake in Midland on Wednesday.

Dick McManigle of Odessa and Maurice Simmons of Andrews. Aside from boosting hope in the future of the land amid inflation and threatening recession, dwindling national confidence, an ever-encroaching war, Strake offered a few boosts for Bill Clements, the laser-eyed Texas Republican governor, who put Strake, then a Houston businessman, into office in January 1979.

Texas Secretary of State George W. Strake speaks on the virtues of free enterprise and on a dire need for renewed national confidence at a gathering of Midland, Odessa and Andrews Rotarians at the 75th anniversary celebration of Rotary International Wednesday at Midland Regional Airport.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

President Carter lags far behind Richard Nixon as wood burner

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter and his aides are burning more wood than ever this winter, in a calculated effort to dramatize alternative energy sources. But they don't even approach the combustion record of Richard M. Nixon and his crew.

The General Services Administration expects to supply about 10 cords of wood during the current heating season for use in stoves and fireplaces in the east-wing and west-wing White House offices occupied by Carter, wife Rosalynn and their aides.

That's double last year's consumption. But it's still a far cry from the 50 cords burned one winter by Nixon and his staff.

CHIEF USHER Rex Scouten estimated this season's wood consumption in the White House living quarters at about four cords — about par for recent years.

The president is the chief personal wood-burner in the family quarters, lighting fires regularly in a new stove set into an old fireplace in his second floor study.

Otherwise, Scouten said, wood is burned mostly in fireplaces on the "state floor" — Red Room, Blue Room, etc. — during White House parties.

WHEN CARTER installed wood-burning stoves last fall at the White House and at his rustic hideaway at Camp David, Md., stove makers eager to donate their wares were warned, "No publicity."

In the end, Carter accepted six free stoves and, alas, the manufacturer of one promptly began advertising the fact that his product was being used at the White House.

Carter did not have the stove dismantled and shipped back to the donor but a presidential aide quickly dispatched what was described as a "rather nasty" letter demanding that the manufacturer cease his publicity-seeking.

"SELECTION of the stoves in no way implies any endorsement of superiority of these particular models or suppliers," said a White House press release.

One gift stove is in the Cabinet Room and another in Carter's second-floor study. Both were fitted into existing fireplaces.

Four stoves went to Camp David, including one for the living room fireplace at Carter's Aspen Lodge.

A PANEL of experts, gathered by editors of the National Wood Stove and Fireplace Journal, recommended that the industry provide Carter with a custom-made, state-of-the-art stove.

But the president wanted stoves straight off the shelf. The selected models carried retail price tags of $300 to $900.

Acquisition of the stoves came after Carter, during a speech in Iowa last May, said:

"I grew up with wood-burning stoves and open fireplaces, but the new designs of stoves are absolutely remarkable.

They burn not only the wood, but the gases from the wood. They are highly efficient, have automatic thermostats, and two or three oak logs or hardwood logs will last for as long as 8 or 10 hours."

At the same time, Carter announced, "I intend to install one quite soon, before the next winter, in the White House, and I will be using it next winter."

WHATEVER YOU DO, KEEP YOUR HEAD DOWN

ART BUCHWALD

Olympics put new faces on television commercials

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — There is a lot more at stake in the Winter Olympics than winning gold medals for one's self and one's country. The real reason for holding the Olympics is to find new champions to do TV commercials.

While most of the world is watching the athletes for their skill and grace under pressure, there is a small group of men and women who are studying them to see if they have what it takes to do a 60-second commercial.

J. Walter Batten, who represents one of the largest advertising agencies in the United States, made me aware of this as we watched a downhill racing event on the super television screen in his den. To me there is nothing as stirring in the world as a beautiful woman, dressed in a form-fitting stretch fabric, bent forward, plunging down a treacherous mountain, racing against the wind, risking her gorgeous neck to find the invisible red line and, finally, after getting to the bottom of the hill, ripping off her goggles, looking into the camera and saying, 'The thing we skiers worry about the most is chapped lips. Thanks to Crackproof, we don't have to worry any more.'

It's sheer poetry, I told Batten. What's your favorite Winter Olympic sport?

It's hard to say, he replied. There are so many of them, and they each have something to offer. For sheer danger, I guess I'm partial to the bobsled. I can never get enough of the four-man teams who, without any regard for their own safety, take the dangerous curves and straightaways at 90 miles an hour, knowing that just one mistake could send them flying off the edge in a jumble of broken bones and concussions.

That really turns you on? I asked. No. Not that part of it. What excites me is the thought of putting a camera on their sled and filming the run. Then once they reach the bottom, they all go into the ski lodge and order four steins of beer. I want them laughing and pounding each other on the shoulders and having a good time, while the music comes up and a voice-over says, 'When the race with death is done, it's nice to know the thrill is still there in a Mogen's beer.'

I think I'm going to cry, I told Batten. How do you feel about figure skating?

It has its place, if you've got the right client. I have to monitor the figure skating this year because I want to find a couple who have grace and dazzle. What we want to do is put a Quartex watch on the woman skater, and then have her partner swing her around by her legs in an arc, force her into a flying sit-spin, then have her do a double loop and, finally, fling her across the length of the ice-rink, and have her land on her wrist. Then we'll zoom in on the watch to prove it is still working and hasn't lost a second.

No wonder everyone tries so hard to win a gold medal in figure skating, I said. Do you have any interest in cross-country skiing?

Not really. Cross-country skiers don't sell anything for you. I don't know why the Winter Olympic Committee even bothers with them.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

1. I mean well, but while talking and praying for peace, we are preparing for war. Perhaps a rose bush does not grow thorns to hurt, but everything is concerned in preparing for protection. The ends of war are prophesied in Psalm 46:7-9, Isaiah 2:4 and Zechariah 9:10. Isaiah is more comforting. What does it say?
 2. Where did Jesus establish his residence and make his first public appearance as minister? Matthew 4:13-17.
 3. Why was the Sabbath instituted? Mark 2:27.
 4. From what city did Paul escape in a basket? Acts 9:22-25.
 5. Give one of the characteristics which make up The Armor of God. Ephesians 6:11-18.

OSHA change needed

For all the rhetoric in Washington about regulatory reform, precious little has actually been done to ease the economic burden of unwarranted federal intervention in the marketplace. Deregulation of the airline industry has been the sole significant exception to what is otherwise largely a status quo record for both Congress and the Carter administration.

Fortunately, lawmakers and the White House now confront an unparalleled opportunity to chop some bigger chips out of Washington's regulatory colossus.

In the decade since its creation, the Occupational Health and Safety Administration, better known as OSHA, has managed to alienate just about everybody. Its nit-picking inspectors have blitzed workplaces from Maine to California, measuring the distances between ladder rungs and perusing toilet seats to determine if they met OSHA standards.

Employers struggling to comply with the tens of thousands of health and safety rules faced the daunting task of deciphering suffocating bureaucratic gobbledegook. OSHA's electrical safety standards alone ran to 250,000 words. Fire safety rules were conveniently encapsulated in a mere 2,400 regulations.

The guidelines not only told employers what to do, but how to do it. And virtually nothing was overlooked. OSHA even had rules on how to select a toilet.

All this has cost the taxpayers more than $1 billion in salaries and operating expenses for OSHA's battalions of inspectors and bureaucrats. The indirect costs, measured in higher prices for goods and services attending these meddlesome regulations, are anybody's guess.

Have all this money and effort given us less hazardous workplaces and fewer occupational accidents? The answer is an unequivocal no. In fact, days lost because of job-related accidents increased 28 percent during OSHA's heyday from 1972 to 1978.

No wonder, then, that OSHA is under attack. The agency's belated efforts to streamline its rules and adopt some sensible priorities in deploying its 1,750 inspectors have come too late. For good reason, Congress is bent on rewriting OSHA's original 1970 charter.

Leading the charge is Republican Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania. His bill compels OSHA to concentrate its efforts on industries and individual enterprises with serious safety problems. The remaining 85 percent of the nation's workplaces would be largely spared the agency's ministrations. And Sen. Schweiker's legislation would also prune the jungle of health and safety regulations to manageable proportions.

Regrettably, much of organized labor has confused these overdue reforms with an imagined effort to sacrifice the welfare of workers on the altar of economy. The fact that the Schweiker bill is co-sponsored by Sen. Harrison Williams, the liberal Democrat from New Jersey who authored the original legislation creating OSHA, is a measure of how foolish these suspicions are.

Labor should eschew obstructionist tactics and cooperate in shaping a new and better health and safety watchdog. The alternative, as many in Congress recognize, is a likely effort to abolish OSHA altogether.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Thursday, Feb. 21, the 52nd day of 1980. There are 313 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Feb. 21, 1838, Samuel Morse gave the first public demonstration of the telegraph.

On this date: In 1885, the Washington Monument was dedicated in the nation's capital.

In 1916, the battle of Verdun, the longest and bloodiest of World War I, began in France. More than a million soldiers were to die in the fighting.

In 1965, black Muslim leader Malcolm X was shot and killed as he was about to address a rally in New York City.

In 1971, Israel said it would be willing to sign a peace agreement with Egypt, but would not withdraw from any captured Egyptian territory.

Ten years ago, sabotage was suspected in the explosion and crash of an Israeli-bound Swiss jetliner. All 47 people aboard died.

Five years ago, Nixon administration officials John Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Robert Mardian were sentenced to prison terms for their part in the Watergate cover-up.

One year ago, Egypt and Israel opened another round of peace negotiations under American auspices at Camp David, with events in Iran complicating the prospects for peace in the Mideast.

Thought for today: One thing you can still get for a dollar is an engraved portrait of George Washington. — Anonymous

Politics, not corruption, is real problem in Congress

By BENJAMIN SHORE Copley News Service

Benjamin Shore

WASHINGTON — The Federal Bureau of Investigation's "sting" operation that trapped some members of Congress in apparent bribe-taking naturally has led to all kinds of commentary on the collective moral standards of Congress.

Indeed, this commentary has been encouraged by congressional leaders and Ethics Committee chairmen who have wrung their hands in public and said what a terrible blow this has been to the integrity of the Congress.

Out of 535 members of Congress, we've got, say, a dozen in some kind of embarrassing trouble: eight in the FBI net, one or two with ethics charges, one or two with possible income tax evasion charges pending.

A dozen headline-making colleagues out of 535 is only 2 percent, hardly enough to blacken the institution's reputation.

It appears that the FBI's operation has provided a convenient diversion for the Congress, which would prefer that the public not know what's really wrong with the place.

It's not the 2 percent or even 4 percent who are facing their days in court or before the Ethics Committee that the public should be concerned about.

It's the remaining 98 percent or 96 percent who constitute the real scandal:

Congress is a poorly managed branch of government, unable to respond to the nation's pressing needs.

The public, in short, is not getting its money's worth.

Take the long-standing energy problem. Has an intelligent, all-encompassing, coordinated national plan emerged in a timely fashion from Congress?

And why not? Because Congress is dominated by politicians who don't realize that their old ways of doing business just don't measure up anymore, and they simply don't want to change.

What each House of Congress needs is one committee, and only one committee, handling energy legislation. Instead, we have a half-dozen committees and two dozen subcommittees each with a claim to a piece of the energy action. No wonder nothing of substance gets done.

The House leadership, responding to White House pressure, has suggested the creation of an energy committee, but the petty fighting over who would be on it and, especially, who would be its chairman is enough to make a president climb the walls.

Congress continues to hire more staff aides at ever-increasing costs to the taxpayer. Congress, still holding to the tradition of a comfortable private club, refuses to draw distinctions between working trips abroad, which should be encouraged, and junkets, which shouldn't.

Congress wants the executive branch to consult with it concerning intelligence operations and military crises. But until Congress can figure out a way to enforce some secrecy on Capitol Hill, it can't expect much cooperation from the White House.

(Indeed, Congress is such a rich lode of highly sensitive government secrets that foreign intelligence agents literally make the rounds on Capitol Hill easily cultivating aides and swapping information.)

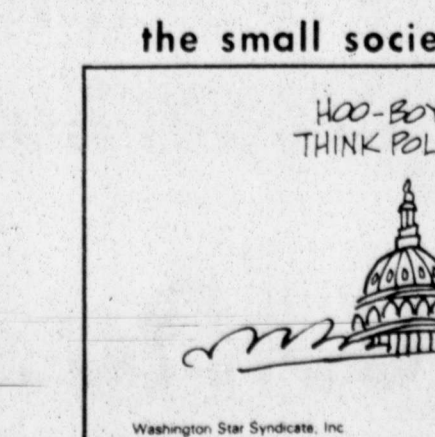

So don't be distracted by the spectacle of eight members of Congress threatened with indictments for influence peddling.

Focus instead on the real scandal on Capitol Hill, the one that involves the leadership and everyone else in Congress. That is cause for real hand-wringing.

Kennedy trying to outflank Jerry Brown

NASHUA, N.H. (AP) — With only six days left until the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primary, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is stressing his opposition to nuclear power in what aides say is an attempt to outflank California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., on the issue.

Declaring that nuclear power "has become an idea whose time has past," Kennedy repeated his call Wednesday for a plan that would enable existing nuclear power plants to be closed down by the end of the century as alternative energy sources become available.

"It is time to stop the rush toward nuclear power and to reverse our reliance on it. It is time to end the licensing of new reactors and conduct a case-by-case review of current plants to insure their safety," Kennedy said in a campaign speech to a college audience in Concord.

He also accused President Carter of failing to control the arms race.

"We may soon reach the awful moment when an obscure ruler, in an unstable country, in the midst of a local quarrel, will possess and use the power to trigger a nuclear confrontation that could bring the end of the world," he said.

Kennedy said the administration has given military and economic aid to Pakistan "without pressuring for safeguards" against the spread of nuclear weapons.

The Massachusetts senator scheduled several campaign stops today in his home state, which holds its primary March 4.

Kennedy has become more and more critical of the nation's reliance on nuclear power as he has pressed his bid to wrest the Democratic presidential nomination from Carter.

One aide said Kennedy decided to devote a speech to the issue because of strong anti-nuclear sentiment in New Hampshire, where the construction of the Seabrook Nuclear Power Plant has become a nationwide symbol for anti-nuclear groups.

Jury rules wiring not cause of supper club fire

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — After 36 days of testimony and five hours of debate, jurors hearing the first case stemming from the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire concluded aluminum wiring was not to blame for the 1977 blaze that killed 165 people.

"It's disappointing, that's all I can say," Ron Schuman, whose wife and four friends were among the victims of the fire, said after the verdict was handed down Wednesday. "I thought we had it."

"We're very happy," said Alex Rose, who had presented final defense arguments. "There's no way you can measure the thousands of hours that we've put in."

The defendants in the case were 22 aluminum wire and electrical device manufacturers and an independent testing laboratory. The trial was seen as significant litigation in the area of products liability, and was the first jury test in a case stemming from the Memorial Day weekend blaze. All other cases have been settled out of court or are pending.

If the jury had returned a guilty verdict, a second phase of the trial would have been necessary to determine if companies on trial had conspired to cover up alleged problems.

Stanley Chesley, attorney for the plaintiffs — representatives of those who died in the fire and many of the persons injured — said the verdict would have to be evaluated before any decision could be made on whether to appeal.

"We felt strongly that aluminum wiring was at fault. We still feel that way, but the jury has spoken," Chesley said. "This is a setback, but everything we can for representatives of those who died in the fire and many of the persons injured — said the verdict would have to be evaluated before any decision could be made on whether to appeal.

Parapsychology pioneer, Rhine, dies at age 84

HILLSBOROUGH, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Joseph Rhine, who coined the term "extrasensory perception" and endured years of skepticism because of his research in parapsychology, has died at the age of 84.

"The work that everyone around the world is doing is only expanding on the map that he had drawn for us," Dr. K. Ramakrishna Rao, director of the Institute for Parapsychology that Rhine founded, said after the death Wednesday of the pioneering researcher.

Rhine and his wife, Louisa, came to Duke University in 1927 to begin research in parapsychology. In 1933, he shocked the scientific world with the results of studies of unexplained human behavior. In an experiment at Duke, a divinity school student was able to predict with 40 percent accuracy the symbols on cards being flipped in a building 100 yards away.

Rhine said such experiments proved that man had access through an "extrasensory" factor to knowledge, facts and ideas other than those in his own memory.

His experiments were immediately attacked by the American Psychological Association, which accused him of faulty research and inconclusive evidence.

"We lived with the criticism," recalled Dorothy H. Pope, an associate of Rhine's for 41 years and editor of the Journal of Parapsychology.

"Dr. Rhine was not impervious to it, but he wasn't bothered by it. He'd say, 'We haven't got time for this stuff. We've got research to do,'" Ms. Pope said.

Savings, Loan League reports home loan drop

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Home loans in Texas dropped 21 percent last year as savings associations lent $1.6 billion less than in 1978, a Texas Savings and Loan League report shows.

League officials say they have little hope of improvement soon because consumers are seeking fewer mortgage loans and savings are shifting into high-interest accounts.

"The consumer is hollering calf rope," said Pat Malone, administrative vice president of the league.

Kaplan, Smith & Associates Inc. of Pasadena, Calif., did the report for the league.

The report shows deposits grew 10.3 percent during the year — from $22.8 billion to $25.2 billion — but not as fast as the 13.2 percent inflation rate.

Savings shifted dramatically from low-interest passbook accounts and long-term certificates of deposit to high-interest, short-term jumbo CDs and money market certificates.

Malone said lenders are squeezed between what the money market dictates they pay to attract savers and what homebuyers are willing to pay for loans.

Kaplan, Smith & Associates surveyed lenders with 44 percent of Texas savings and loan assets to get a closer picture of the situation for the league.

Between September and December, passbook and long-term CD deposits dropped $551 million at savings and loans surveyed, while jumbo CDs and money market certificates rose $773.9 million.

Hispanic-American group promoting Lenten fast to highlight 80s movement

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Hispanic-American activists and ministers are promoting a Lenten fast in hopes of bringing attention to their civil rights movement during the 1980s.

The fast started Ash Wednesday in at least six cities and will end on Easter Sunday, April 6.

Pablo Sedillo of the U.S. Catholic Conference said Lent was selected to promote fasting for civil rights because of the historically important part religion plays in Hispanic culture.

Participants in the fast are being encouraged to choose their own method, either using a liquid diet for the entire 47 days, choosing a particular week, designating one or two days a week, or going without a particular meal.

The fast started today in Washington, New York, Miami, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Antonio, Texas.

Supreme Court OKs church school aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A deeply divided Supreme Court, citing the need to sacrifice "clarity and predictability for flexibility," has given states more authority to help parochial schools.

By a 5-4 vote Wednesday, the court upheld a New York law that provides up to $10 million a year in direct cash aid to private schools — most of them church-affiliated. The money is reimbursement for teacher time spent in giving and grading state-required tests.

In 1977, the high court allowed Ohio to provide state money to parochial schools if students, rather than the schools themselves, were the beneficiaries.

But until Wednesday, the court had never approved direct payment to non-public schools without neutral organizations serving as buffers to ensure the constitutionally required separation of church and state.

"None of our (previous) cases requires us to invalidate these reimbursements simply because they involve payments in cash," Justice Byron R. White wrote for the court Wednesday.

Since 1973, a series of Supreme Court rulings on aid to parochial schools has provided a confusing patch-quilt — some forms of aid are allowed, others are not.

"Our decisions have tended to avoid categorical imperatives and absolutist approaches," White said. "This court sacrifices clarity and predictability for flexibility."

White's opinion was joined by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist.

In a dissenting opinion for himself and Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall, Justice Harry A. Blackmun objected to "direct aid for ostensibly secular purposes." He said any such aid has the primary, impermissible effect of advancing religious-affiliated schools.

In a separate dissent, Justice John Paul Stevens said the court's ruling could encourage bolder state attempts to help parochial schools.

"In groping for a rationale to support today's decision," he said, "the court has taken a position that could equally be used to support a subsidy to pay for (parochial) staff time attributable to conducting fire drills or even for constructing and maintaining fireproof premises in which to conduct classes."

Sen. Daniel Moynihan, the New York Democrat who is seeking a system of federal tax credits for parents who pay parochial school tuitions, called the ruling "encouraging." He said it suggests "there are other services and other circumstances which would also lead a majority of the court to find constitutional sanction for state or federal reimbursement of costs associated with education in non-government schools."

The Supreme Court struck down a predecessor to the current New York law in 1973 after ruling it authorized state financing of teacher-prepared tests which might be used for religious instruction.

In 1974, the New York Legislature enacted a revised law limiting cash reimbursements to tests prepared by the state. The new law also added provisions for regular state audits to make sure parochial schools are being reimbursed only for non-religious operations.

Insides of Nashville sewers new TV hit?

By KEN RENNER
The Nashville Banner

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The city pays Water and Sewer Service Department employee Calvin Harris to watch television eight hours a day.

But Harris' viewing fare isn't likely to make soap opera producers worry about their ratings. All Harris sees are the insides of the city's sewers.

"When I tell people what I do for a living, they think I'm pulling their legs," the portly Harris said as he tuned in the picture. "People think fixing the sewers is nasty work but I tell them it's not too bad when you do it with TV."

He's one of about a dozen men who operate six television sealing units the city uses to repair cracked lines.

Bob Wingo, the engineer in charge of the $1.2-million-a-year program, says the city has used the picture-esque method of patching for nearly 12 years. It is a response to federal regulations requiring sealing of sewer lines to eliminate the infiltration of outside water.

"We have a sausage-shaped, closed-circuit TV camera mounted on skids which is lowered into the sewer, then pulled by winches from one manhole to the next," Wingo said.

"Following behind is a sealing unit that has inflatable bladders on the front and back. The bladders are inflated around a crack to keep out water, then a chemical grout is pumped through the center to seal the leak."

Charles Gundlach, an engineer who works with Wingo, said the unit eliminated much excavation for repair of minor sewer leaks.

"If the pipe is collapsed, you'll still have to dig it out and fix it," he said. "But this TV method is used to fix all the small leaks and cracks around the joints in the sewer lines."

Each unit — complete with a hydraulic sewer-cleaner truck that flushes the sewer before the camera is lowered, a truck to carry the TV unit and all the hardware — costs $100,000.

But Gundlach says the equipment more than pays for itself by saving excavation costs, inconvenience to motorists during repairs, and a hefty repair bill when private contractors accidentally damage sewers.

"A lot of times we videotape when people are doing construction work near the sewers," he said. "Then we go back and make another tape when they are done."

"If we have to go through legal proceedings to get someone to pay for damage to the sewers, we have the videotape evidence in black and white."

Harris says watching sewers is dull. It could be more interesting, but the necessary equipment is under lock and key.

Executive extolls free enterprise

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Using a "little red hen," Joseph A. Tierney illustrated the plight of free enterprise in fighting rapidly-increasing government regulations during his talk at Free Enterprise Day.

The day-long session was held Wednesday in Chaparral Center and attracted about 600 area high school and Midland College students in social studies classes. Speakers discussed "Oil, Energy and the Future of Free Enterprise" in three sessions, including a panel discussion where students could question participants.

Tierney, director of personnel and industrial relations with Michelin Tire Corporation in Greenville, S.C., quoted a recent U.S. News and World Report story in which hamburger was said to be subject to 41,000 federal and state regulations.

"That's taking it all the way from the cow to your mouth," he added.

Government regulations, he said, are increasing in the hopes of bringing America to the utopia of a perfect society. As a result, 25 percent of the country's Gross National Product is government.

And another large percentage is traced to non-productive industry requested by the government, Tierney claimed.

Taxes, meanwhile, "are a means of fueling this bureaucracy," he said.

Looking back in history to the time in England when serfs worked the land, Tierney said serfs then were only required "to work a quarter of a year for their feudal lord."

That situation hasn't changed much today as the privileged middle class gives about a fourth of their earnings in taxes, according to Tierney.

Recalling a story about a Little Red Hen, Tierney began with the hen who was scratching about in the farmyard and discovered some grains of wheat. She asked her friends help her plant the wheat.

But they all declined, citing various reasons.

The hen proceeded to plant the grains. When no rain came, she asked her friends for help in watering the plants. Again, they said no.

The wheat grew tall and the hen asked for help in reaping it. No, her friends replied. And the answer was the same when she requested help in baking bread.

But when the five loaves of bread came out of the oven, her friends all demanded their share. This time, it was the Little Red Hen who said "no."

Hearing the commotion in the farmyard, the "uncle" farmer investigated the situation, then told the hen to share her bread with the four other animals.

"That's the beauty of the free enterprise system," the farmer told the hen. "Anyone can make as much as he wants."

Tierney concluded his story by saying the cow, duck, goose and pig always wondered why the hen never again planted wheat and baked bread.

The free market system, Tierney contended, provides the incentive and rewards those with initiative. "The free marketplace is needed for growth of the nation," he said.

He admitted that a certain amount of legislation over business is inevitable. "but we don't need overkill."

The country today should begin studying free enterprise and seek solutions to putting it back on the right course, according to Tierney.

He recommended against compromising the principles of free enterprise and called for fighting off attacks by special interest groups and passivism.

"If we don't do this now, we should ask: is this dictatorship of bureaucracy different from dictatorship of proletariat?" Tierney said. "Be sure you understand the plight of all of us little red hens."

"The free marketplace is needed for growth of the nation," said Joseph A. Tierney. He admitted that a certain amount of legislation over business is inevitable, "but we don't need overkill."

Midland firm announces acquisition

DENVER (AP) — A $54.5 million deal involving the acquisition of Energy Minerals Corp. of Denver by MGF of Midland, Texas, has been reached in principle, the companies say.

A spokesman said Wednesday that the proposed merger is subject to the signing of an agreement and to approval by directors and stockholders of both companies.

Energy Minerals reported net income of $1.9 million on $6.6 million in sales for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1979.

MGF is an oil and gas exploration firm and a contract drilling company that has 670 employees. Last June, MGF acquired Beaver Mesa Exploration Co. of Denver for about $14.87 million in cash, the spokesman said.

Money saving ideas given little chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congressional Budget Office outlined today 56 ways for the federal government to save money and move rapidly toward a balanced budget. But the proposals are so controversial no one gives more than a handful of them a chance in Congress.

The CBO's list includes major changes in such politically sensitive programs as Social Security, food stamps, unemployment insurance, MX missile construction, farm subsidies, student loans, federal highway aid, revenue sharing, the Postal Service and water projects.

Many government programs would be phased out or severely reduced under the suggestions that, if followed, would shift many responsibilities from Washington to individuals, state and local governments, and private industry.

One source on the House Budget Committee said that while the list was requested to give committee members an idea of where savings could be made, no one seriously believes that more than a few of the proposed changes can be achieved.

The CBO, which by law cannot recommend action, also cited 16 ways to reduce federal tax breaks ranging from an end to tax-exempt bonds to repeal of oil industry tax advantages to limiting the home mortgage interest tax deduction.

The CBO said it could not project what the total savings would be if all the possible changes were enacted into law, because some of the suggestions overlap. However, several individual proposals would save more than $30 billion over the next five years, CBO said.

Late last year, eight members of the House Budget Committee asked the CBO to conduct a review of possible areas of savings in view of the "difficult and complicated decisions" in drafting a budget for fiscal 1981, which starts next Oct. 1.

Last month, President Carter proposed a $616 billion federal budget that contains a $16 billion deficit, despite Carter's 1976 campaign pledge to eliminate red-ink spending during his first term.

Although some members of Congress have pressed for spending cuts to balance the budget this year, most observers believe strong pressure for increased military spending makes a balanced 1981 budget highly unlikely.

Congress also has resisted cost-cutting measures like hospital cost containment, one of the potential savings included in the CBO's list.

"If the Congress were to adopt no new programs, but simply continue current programs and policies, federal spending would probably continue to rise in real terms (after discounting inflation) during the next five years," CBO said in its study.

"The main reason for the growth is that the number of people receiving Social Security and other federal retirement benefits will increase."

The biggest possible savings would come in changes to the Social Security system, such as a $39.6 billion, five-year savings that could be achieved by increasing benefits by 85 percent of the inflation rate instead of 100 percent, CBO said.

Taxing some Social Security benefits could bring in $36 billion in government revenues over five years, CBO estimated.

CBO grouped the possible spending cuts into five categories: management efficiencies, better targeting of programs, shifting responsibilities to local and state governments, reducing federal subsidies of private industry and revising judgments of what can be afforded.

DPS troopers transferred five months after request

JOURDANTON, Texas (AP) — Two controversial state troopers here have been granted routine transfers — nearly five months after they were the center of a dispute in which Atascosa County officials evicted the Department of Public Safety from its county-owned office.

The transfers were requested by patrolmen Albert Rodriguez and Earl Conaway long before the controversy erupted, Capt. Randol Gilmore, DPS district commander, said Wednesday.

Conaway was transferred Feb. 1 to San Antonio and Rodriguez has been tentatively approved for transfer April 1 to Austin, Gilmore said.

Conaway, who is black, and Rodriguez, a Mexican-American, were instrumental last year in a crackdown on drunken driving.

Labor turns toward Carter, not Kennedy

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — The Kennedy campaign bandwagon that all the nation's union leaders were supposed to jump on has become stuck in a rut.

President Carter has surprised labor observers by matching the Massachusetts senator in union endorsements for the Democratic presidential nomination. And there are signs at the AFL-CIO leadership conference here this week that Carter's support is growing while Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's drive is sputtering.

The change in attitudes among labor leaders parallels the sharp decline in public opinion polls that Kennedy has suffered since challenging Carter for the party nomination last fall.

"Ted Kennedy the non-candidate seemed invincible. Ted Kennedy the candidate seems very vulnerable," said one top official of the AFL-CIO.

A year ago, when they met here, relations between Carter and labor were at a low. Union leaders were furious with his anti-inflation wage guidelines and predicted they would all run to Kennedy if he only would enter the race. With his long and strongly pro-labor record in the Senate, Kennedy seemed the ideal labor candidate.

Since then, union leaders said, Carter has made his peace with the AFL-CIO and Kennedy has made some mistakes.

"Kennedy took the labor movement for granted when he should have been wooing and cooing it," said a labor official who is backing Kennedy. "Carter, meanwhile, cooed and wooed the hell out of them."

An official with the 1.2-million member United Food and Commercial Workers, which is working for Carter, said a lot of union leaders are unwilling to oppose a sitting president unless he appears to be a sure loser, which is what Carter seemed like to some of them last year.

"The power of incumbency is the biggest issue," said the official. "Plus Carter has been more responsive to the needs of the labor movement in the past year." None of the officials wanted to be identified by name.

Carter and Kennedy have endorsements from 15 unions each, but the unions backing Carter have 6½ million members, to about 4½ members in those supporting Kennedy.

Most labor leaders agree that Carter's comeback with them began last fall, when the White House and the AFL-CIO reached a national agreement to end their fighting over Carter's anti-inflation program and cooperate more in developing economic policy.

Kennedy has alienated many unions in the construction industry with foreign policy views they consider too dovish and because of his stand against new nuclear power plant construction.

The competition between the pro-Carter and pro-Kennedy forces has stayed on a friendly basis so far and does not compare to the bitter fight within the movement in 1972, when the AFL-CIO refused to endorse the Democratic nominee, George McGovern.

Once the Democratic nominee is selected this year, whether Carter or Kennedy, labor leaders say they expect to rejoin forces as they do in most elections and work hard to keep a Republican out of the White House.

Marina fire loss near $2 million

TEQUESTA, Fla. (AP) — An early-morning fire, caused by an accidental electrical short, destroyed $2 million worth of boats and other equipment in a South Florida marina, fire inspectors say.

Four teams of firemen — from south Martin County, Hobe Sound, Port Salerno and Jupiter — worked until Wednesday afternoon to control the blaze at the Conch Cove Marina, about a mile north of here. They had answered the alarm at 3 a.m., when security guard Howard F. Reiss spotted smoke pouring out of the roof.

"This is probably the biggest fire since the jai-alai fronton last year in terms of volume and damage," said Assistant Chief Bill Bartlett of the South Martin County department.

The $8 million Palm Beach Fronton was leveled Dec. 26, 1978, in a fire blamed on arson. That case has never been solved. The state has taken action against some of its employees for allegedly destroying betting records.

"When we got here, the fire was in the main storage building and we were able to contain it there. We protected the offices and all the boats not already in the fire," said Lionel Smith of the south Martin County fire department.

Bill Sawyer, manager of the marina, suffered the only reported injury. He injured his leg attempting to salvage equipment, authorities said.

Feminists knock draft

'Makes war thinkable and acceptable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Feminists arguing against draft registration say it will not improve military readiness but could lead the United States closer to a war.

"Women have always led anti-war movements and we are speaking out now against efforts to make another war thinkable and acceptable," former New York Rep. Bella Abzug said Wednesday.

Testifying before a congressional panel, she said any debate over registration has to start with "the recognition that registration is a prelude to the draft and the draft is a prelude to war."

Judy Goldsmith, vice president of the National Organization for Women, said NOW opposes registration "precisely because it is a response which stimulates an environment of preparation for war."

Both women argued against registration of men as well as women. But, if men are registered, both said, women must be included too.

Excluding women from either registration or the draft "ultimately robs women of the right to first-class citizenship and paves the way to underpaying women all the remaining days of our lives," Ms. Goldsmith testified.

They appeared before the House Budget Committee task force on defense and international affairs. Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas, said the panel is interested in the cost of renewed registration — but there was little testimony about that aspect.

President Carter has said he will use existing powers to resume registration of men and has asked Congress for the authority to include women. He has also asked for a $45 million appropriation over two years to reactivate the registration machinery.

Carter has said he has no intention of implementing a draft and foresees no need for one.

He calls renewed registration a signal to the Soviet Union of U.S. strength, and has said it would "permit us to save 90 to 100 days, weeks or even months in a mobilization effort."

Ms. Goldsmith said, however, it would save "only a few days." Ms. Abzug and Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., testified it would save 13 days over other mobilization plans.

"It is a security blanket full of holes. It is a hollow, empty symbol," said Ms. Schroeder, a member of the House Armed Services Committee.

Kathleen Teague, representing the newly-formed National Coalition Against Drafting Women, said the group has collected 200,000 signatures on petitions opposing inclusion of women in registration or the draft.

"Registering and drafting women would be a tremendous signal of weakness to our enemies," she said. "Drafting women would reduce the combat-readiness of our armed forces."

Rare sheep die after roundup

ALTURAS, Calif. (AP) — A roundup of rare California bighorn sheep came to a grim end after five of 10 sheep herded into a relocation pen died of exhaustion, fright and hyper-ventilation, authorities say.

"This is the worst setback regarding sheep in the history of the state Department of Fish and Game," Richard Weaver, a wildlife biologist for the department and the coordinator of the roundup, said Wednesday.

A force of 40 men from five state and federal agencies, several trucks and a helicopter took part in the roundup.

GRAMMER-MURPHEY

Two chapters to host program on ERA

It's finally possible to clear the confusion and learn what the Equal Rights Amendment really means. And the Uptown Chapter of the Business & Professional Women's Club, along with the League of Women Voters, wants to help.

They will host a luncheon Wednesday at the Midland Hilton from noon to 1 p.m. The topic of discussion is "ERA Means Equal Rights for Men and Women."

Individuals and organizations are invited to attend, according to Karen Jones, legislative chairman, B&PW Club.

CHARLENE ROSEBERY, president of the B&PW local chapter, will speak.

"Our aim is to clarify the objectives of the Equal Rights Amendment, what is to be achieved by its ratification and perhaps dispel some of the misconceptions surrounding this issue," said Ms. Jones. "Men are especially welcome, as we feel they will find it very informative."

"This program will not be a pro versus con issue. We merely intend for it to be informative," she said. Pamphlets on the ERA will be distributed at the luncheon.

Ms. Rosebery is currently a public relations consultant and a free-lance writer. She has years of experience as a secondary school teacher and has worked extensively with youth.

SHE HAS BEEN A member of the League of Women Voters of Midland since 1973 and was board member in the Chair of International Relations. She also served on the multi-national study committee. She and her family moved to Midland in 1976.

She has served here on the finance committee, as membership chairman and president of the League.

Ms. Rosebery has also been involved in several volunteer programs, including elementary and secondary school PTAs, Rape Crisis Center, at St. Ann's Church and Women's Golf Association of Midland Country Club.

She obtained her bachelor of science and master of arts degrees from Memphis State University. Her emphasis has been in history, journalism, English and secondary education.

IN ADDITION TO THE luncheon and program, a member from the League of Women Voters will be present to register voters before the April 5 city elections.

Reservations for the luncheon are available by calling Karen Clark at 683-5412 or Ms. Jones at 684-7701 before Tuesday. Luncheon is $5.

...IN A PROGRAM designed by the Museum of the Southwest, Midland high school English students are participating in docented tours to better understand self-expression and the use of the senses.

During this week, 240 students are taking part in activities in the galleries of the museum, designed to show how artists arouse the senses and how they achieved the effect of warmth, how they tell stories, how they get the viewer to ask questions and how they tell about personality.

The docents leading these classes in their activities are volunteers from the Las Manos organization. They have participated in training sessions which concentrated on the historical aspect of paintings, the elements of design, and the background of each painting, the artist and the subject.

Other groups interested in docented tours of the Amodio Collection should contact Denise Eschberger at 683-2882.

AT WIT'S END

Just bridge, please

By ERMA BOMBECK

In the beginning was a bridge club.

Two tables of women would gather on the first Thursday of every month to play bridge. Around ten o'clock, Phyllis, the hostess, would set out a few nuts, make a pot of coffee, and plan to meet next month at Marge's house.

Marge loved bridge, but she wasn't into "nuts." They lodged behind her fake tooth and were high in cholesterol. When it was her turn to hostess, she made a small un-iced spice cake which she served from the pan with coffee. They made plans to meet at Phoebe's house.

The spice cake had kept Phoebe awake all night. Besides, as long as you were going to bake something it might as well look festive. While eating the strawberry shortcake, piled high with fresh strawberries and a glob of whipped cream on it, they made plans to meet next month at Bobbie's house.

Bobbie had a dessert recipe she was dying to dazzle a party with... it would make Phoebe's strawberry shortcake look like a stalk of celery. It was a six-layered torte with homemade butterscotch between the layers and slivered almonds on top, and for those watching their weight, she added a light crabmeat salad with a few crackers. The pressure was on Juanita who was next month's hostess.

Juanita wasn't "into desserts." Her forte was Cornish game hens, stuffed with wild rice. You obviously couldn't go to bed on it, so she served it at 7:00 and then they played bridge for two hours and a half. They were to meet next month at Peggy's house.

Peggy hadn't realized Juanita was going to serve an entire dinner, so she had eaten before she went. That couldn't happen again so she covered both ends of the evening by serving beef stroganoff before bridge and apple pie with cheese slices after they quit playing.

It went on this way for nearly a year. By the time Phyllis was hostess again, she had to get a sub. She just had too much to do to play bridge. There was the silver to polish, the caterer to check on, the fresh flowers to pick up and the table to put leaves in and set. Following the appetizers and the full-course meal, there was the baked Alaska that required split-second timing, followed by pizza to take the sweet taste out of everyone's mouth.

Phyllis broke out a deck of cards and said, "Anyone for bridge?"

Two said, "I'm stuffed."

Four said, "I'll take it home and eat it tomorrow."

Juanita passed her plate.

Ex-Midland teacher has co-authored book on exceptional children

Dr. Bernice Marian Swanson, former Midland school teacher, now psychology professor at Northeastern Oklahoma University at Tahlequah, Okla., has co-authored a book entitled "Understanding Exceptional Children and Youth."

During her 10 years of employment with the Midland public school system, Swanson served as teacher for the first class of mentally-handicapped children.

She subsequently taught regular 4th and 5th grade classes at Lamar Elementary School, and later became principal of North Elementary School, as well as director of Midland's expanding special education services for exceptional children.

A recent review of the book cites the text as "excellent." Comprehensive coverage of handicapped as well as gifted children and youth is covered in the publication. Adoption orders have been received from over 60 colleges and universities throughout the United States, including two Texas facilities, McLennan Community College at Waco and Trinity University at San Antonio.

Dr. Swanson, past president of Midland's Epsilon Eta Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, resides with her husband in Muskogee, Okla.

She is listed in Who's Who of American Women and the National Health Register of Health Service Providers in Psychology.

Rand McNally College Publishing Co. of Chicago, Ill., publishers of the book, has contacted the authors to plan material for a second textbook dealing specifically with children and youth exhibiting emotional or behavioral disorders.

Dr. Swanson was honored with an autograph party in Midland for her first book, "Ginger and the Little Lost Kitten," published by the Hoffman Printing Co. in Muskogee. Central office of the Midland Independent School District and the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma co-sponsored the party.

Scientists find how our genes are copied

NEW YORK (AP) — Johns Hopkins University scientists believe they have located the part of a cell which makes copies of its genes in order to pass along the "blueprint" for life to succeeding generations.

experiments show the replicating machinery is fixed to the nuclear matrix. The Johns Hopkins scientists believe the DNA is reeled through the fixed replicating machinery like clothesline through a fixed pulley.

Three scientists from the university's Oncology Center told reporters the discovery should yield new insight into the mystery of how cells divide and reproduce.

"In the old view, it's as if you strung out recording tape and then moved the tape machine along it, rather than reeling the tape through the machine," said Dr. Bert Vogelstein, an assistant professor of oncology.

Dr. Donald Coffey, professor of pharmacology, oncology and urology, said it appears the gene-copying structures are part of another structure called the "nuclear matrix" which is like a skeleton or scaffolding of support for the cell nucleus.

The scientists proved this by letting rapidly dividing cells make DNA from material that was spiced with radioactive tritium. They then showed that the newly made DNA — which was now itself radioactive — was attached to isolated replicating sites on the nuclear matrix.

The nucleus is the part of a cell that contains the DNA, or deoxyribonucleic acid, a long molecule made up of the genes that are the blueprints for all living things.

"It appears the DNA is attached to the matrix as a continuous series of small loops... Each nucleus contains many thousands of these loops and replicating sites, and this configuration allows the cell to duplicate its DNA in an orderly manner," Coffey said.

When cells divide, Coffey said, the cell nucleus must make an exact copy of this DNA to pass along to the new cells.

The scientists discussed their work at a news conference organized by Bristol-Myers Co., which sponsored the research reported in the February issue of the journal Cell.

He said the most common theory of how this happens has assumed that the copying apparatus moves along the long DNA molecule like a pulley along a fixed line.

Instead, he said, the Johns Hopkins

PILLOW SOFT. One of today's most popular trends, especially in contemporary furnishings, is upholstered pieces or groups featuring super-comfortable, thick pillow seats and backs. Creature comfort is the big virtue of these furnishings, along with a casual look that is very welcoming. Whether March winds keep you indoors, or you spend a lot of time sitting and relaxing, or in casual entertaining, you and your guests will enjoy the bonus in comfort.

Pillow-style upholstered furniture, with big plump cushions, tends to be on the large size. For bigger rooms, large pieces or groups on this style, perhaps with a colorful cotton print, help to make the rooms seem more in proportion and thus more livable. If the room is small, you won't want to overdo this look. But even a smaller home or apartment can function beautifully with one or two large key pieces, or a coordinated grouping covered in neutral or natural tones that offers lots of seating in a concentrated arrangement.

Quality fabrics, padding and materials and not only to comfort but also the lasting value of upholstered furniture. You'll find that building quality in our complete collection of fine home furnishings. Come in soon!

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Leo) was having an affair with his secretary, and I found out about it. He broke it off, and we are now getting counseling. Leo says he wants to make our marriage work, and I believe him.

I was (and still am) devastated by this affair, and want to do everything I can to restore our once-wonderful marriage since we have a beautiful family.

I told Leo that I cannot feel comfortable as long as that woman is his secretary. He tried to get rid of her, but she threatened to sue the company if her job is changed in any way. (Can she do this?)

Abby, I simply cannot tolerate this woman in my husband's office! Is there any way he can get rid of her without causing a nasty law suit? She was working elsewhere in the company when the affair began, and she asked Leo to hire her as his secretary.

Beds secretary, now she's boss

Please advise. — NO CITY AND NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: There is nothing to prevent a person from SUING. Win or lose, the suit alone in this case could initiate some embarrassing publicity. Consult a lawyer, and let him guide you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is crazy about my feet! He gets turned on just playing with my toes.

I do have pretty feet, but I never thought my feet would be sexually stimulating. My husband is a kind, gentle and loving man, but this thing he has about my feet puzzles me.

I wonder how many other men are turned on by women's feet? Is it

normal? — PRETTY FEET

DEAR PRETTY FEET: It's normal for a person with a foot fetish, and your husband has one. According to Freud, the foot is a primitive sex symbol.

There are more foot freaks around than you suspect. Ask any podiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 19-year-old girl who wears contact lenses. I recently spent the weekend at a girlfriend's house, and her little sister was fascinated as she watched me put in my contact lenses. She had never seen anything like that before, so I very carefully explained that contact lenses were "little eyeglasses" made especially for me, and she should NEVER put anything into her eye that was not made especially for that purpose!

I made sure she understood me because I once heard of a child who had often watched her mother put in her contact lenses. The child found a small piece of broken glass and, wanting to imitate her mother, stuck the broken glass into her eye and subsequently lost the sight in that eye.

I hope you find this worth passing on, Abby. — LAURIE

DEAR LAURIE: I do. Thanks for writing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FACTS, PLEASE!": A 32-year-old male cigarette smoker, healthy enough to qualify for standard life insurance, has an average of 40 years to live. His non-smoking counterpart has 47.

That's what the State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America has found after following death statistics of smokers and non-smokers covered by life insurance for the last 15 years.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STEADY READER IN KANSAS CITY: No one described "friendship" better than George Eliot: "Oh, the comfort, the inexpressible comfort, of feeling safe with a person, having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words, but to pour them all out just as they are, chaff and grain together, knowing that a faithful hand will take and sift them, keep what is worth keeping, and then, with the breath of kindness, blow the rest away."

Chapter DD, PEO Sisterhood hears about four projects

Chapter DD, PEO Sisterhood, met recently at the home of Mrs. Richard Stump, with Mrs. Mary Louise Whitely as assistant hostess.

A program on the four different educational projects sponsored by the Sisterhood was presented by Nova Jane Moore, Mary Eimers, Celia Bowden and Betty Sharpe.

The PEO Educational Loan Fund was established in 1904 and has helped more than 20,000 women. Presently, there are 2,400 women holding loans, including 14 from Texas.

Ms. Eimers brought the chapter up to date on Cottey College, which is owned and operated by the PEO Sisterhood. Today there are girls represented from 40 states, plus students from overseas. Thirteen girls from Texas are attending Cottey. Of the girls attending the college, 90 percent continue on in a four-year college.

The Continuing Education Program was established in 1973. The success of this program is the result of the wholehearted involvement of PEO chapters, and their recognition of the need for continuing education for women. Fifty-two women from Texas have been recipients of the program's grants.

The International Peace Scholarship was established in 1950. The project has had world influence with its message of peace and understanding through education.

The chapter entertained their husbands and-or guests with a Valentine progressive dinner, with the John Oschners, Mark Martins and Jerry Barnes acting as the host couples.

Cut up and cook—picnic shoulder

Thanks to the pork producers of this country, we have all been able to eat high-on-the-hog for the past few months. Pork has not only been reasonable in price, but it has come as close to being what could conceivably be called cheap as anything since stone soup.

The best pork buy in my part of the world recently has been fresh picnic shoulder. Several markets have had them in their ads "On Special — 69 cents lb." That's pretty cheap pork. Many people pass up a good buy on a fresh picnic because it's more meat than their family can eat at one meal and all they can think is, "What will I do with all of the leftovers?" With a little pre-planning and the ability to do a bit of cutting-up before you cook, there needn't be any leftovers.

The picnic shoulder is the front leg of the pig. Most often the picnic is smoked and sold as a Picnic Ham. As such, it can provide some inexpensive and delicious smoked pork, but for a gold mine of good fresh pork, keep your eye open for fresh picnic shoulder. You can turn one into all manner of good, imaginative and inexpensive meals.

A fresh picnic shoulder will weigh between four and six pounds, and with a little cutting-up, you can quite easily turn one into three or four meals for three or four people. At 69 cents or 79 cents per pound, that figures out to some very inexpensive meals by today's high-cost-of-eating standards. When you see them on special in your market, don't hesitate; take one home, get out the cutting board, sharpen up your boning knife and cut-up. It's a great way to cut-down on your meat bill.

First, remove the hock. That's the small end of the picnic just above where the "trotter" (pig's foot) was removed. This can be done most easily by cutting down to the bone with your knife, then using a meat saw to cut through the bone. It can, however, be done without a saw. There is a space between the joints where the hock is attached. Just wiggle the hock a little and probe with the point of your knife to find the joint, then cut through the joint. Fresh hocks can make a great winter meal, cooked in a pot of beans or sauerkraut.

After the hock has been removed, the only bone left is the arm bone. Taking that out is a snap. Simply cut down to and along the bone from one end to the piece back together for a great pork roast — if company's coming and there are lots of people to feed. Or divide the meat into smaller pieces by separating along the natural seams. Use the larger muscles for small roasts, or cut them across the grain into cutlets to be breaded and fried. The smaller muscles can be cut into cubes for kabobs or stewing, or cut into thin strips for stir fry or saute.

No matter how you cut it, a fresh picnic shoulder can provide some high-on-the-hog eating at some low-down prices. Here are a few recipes to spark your creative imagination.

JUDY'S PORK STEAKS 4 pork shoulder steaks 4 T. butter 2 large onions, coarsely chopped Few drops Worcestershire sauce 2 T. prepared Dijon mustard 1 cup consommé or stock 2 T. flour Salt, pepper to taste

Use a little pork fat to grease lightly a heavy skillet large enough to hold meat in one layer. Brown the steaks slowly in the greased skillet, on both sides, then turn heat low, cover pan and cook gently for about 20 minutes, adding a few drops of water to pan if necessary to keep meat from drying out.

Melt the butter in a saucepan and cook the onions in it gently until just golden. Add 2 or 3 drops of Worcestershire and the mustard. Cook down a little, then stir in the flour and cook and stir to blend and thicken slightly. Add consommé and salt and pepper to taste. Stir to mix well and cook down until of a good sauce consistency. To serve, simply spoon sauce over cooked pork steaks on serving plates Serve 4.

other, then cut around the bone and lift it out. Save the bone to add to your bean pot, or use it to make stock. Pork bones often are eliminated from the stockpot because they tend to give a sweet flavor to the stock that may be undesirable in some dishes. But for fish it is ideal. One of the secrets of the great flavor of Chinese fish, shrimp and lobster dishes is using pork bones in the stock in which they are cooked. So save the bones.

After the bone has been removed, the meals to be made from a picnic shoulder are limited by little but your imagination. Trim off the skin and tie the whole

Jerusalem artichoke not an artichoke

They are a lot more nutritious than any potato.

In some areas of the country they are grown for market sale, and once in awhile you will find them in your market. Cook up a batch, and serve them boiled or mashed like potatoes, with a sprinkling of parsley and butter.

This vegetable was used by Indians as a part of their staple food supply. They store well and are not starchy like ordinary potatoes.

Calling all Cinnamon Kugel fans

By CECILY BROWNSTONE AP Food Editor

Rhoda Zicht, who is in her early 70s, is as active today as when she was many years younger. She works full time as an accountant and often gives parties for 20 to 30 friends.

"Entertaining comes naturally," she says. "I've always loved having company." Mrs. Zicht restricts her parties to Saturdays and Sundays because after weekdays in her office she's a little tired — but only a little.

One dish her friends always expect "Aunt Rhoda" to serve at supper parties is Cinnamon Kugel. When she makes it ahead — say on a Saturday or Sunday morning — she lets it stand at room temperature. Before serving, she dots the top of the kugel with butter, covers the baking dish with foil and reheats it in the oven. The top isn't so crisp as when the kugel is made and baked just before serving, but her guests say, "It still tastes good." When we tried a small-size version of the Cinnamon Kugel, our tasters asked us whether we could wangle them an invitation to one of "Aunt Rhoda's" parties.

RHODA ZICHT'S CINNAMON KUGEL

8-ounce package broad egg noodles 3 large eggs 8 ounces cream-style cottage cheese 1/2 cup commercial sour cream 4 tablespoons butter, melted 1/4 to 1/2-cup sugar 3/4 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind 1/2 cup golden raisins 1/2-cup corn flake crumbs

Cook noodles according to package directions; drain, rinse and turn into a large mixing bowl. In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs lightly; add cottage cheese, sour cream, 2 tablespoons of the melted butter, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and lemon rind; beat gently but thoroughly; stir into noodles along with raisins. Turn into a buttered 2-quart cake dish (8-by-8-by-2 inches). Stir together the remaining 2 tablespoons melted butter and the corn flake crumbs; sprinkle over noodle mixture. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 20 minutes. Let stand at room temperature 10 minutes. Serve as a main-dish accompaniment or a dessert. Pass sour cream.

Virgin honey one of three types

Copley News Service

Honey is naturally manufactured from not only the blossoms of fruit, but also from the flowers of vegetables.

There are three major types of honey. There is the virgin honey, or superfine, extracted from the honeycomb by exposure to the sun or gentle heating. There is the common or yellow honey, which is extracted under specific processing conditions. This is the largest commercial type honey in use. There is the brown honey, which is a residual honey of the lowest grade in purity for commercial baking, mostly.

Honey in all of its form is extremely rich and sweet and is classed as a concentrated food. One hundred grams of honey contain about 321 calories. The sweetening effect of honey is similar to sugar, but the human system seems to be able to digest honey better and more easily than sugar. Honey is also a mild laxative.

The quality, aroma, taste and color differ according to the area from which the honey comes, and the blossom from which it was taken by the bee.

Delectable fungus' growth improves

By TOM HOGE TAP Wine and Food Writer

About three decades ago, America's annual commercial mushroom crop was a little less than 75 million pounds. Now the figure hovers around 400 million pounds.

It's come a long way, this delectable fungus that was once raised in cellars and caves. But it's still a difficult crop to produce, with the yields measured in pounds per square foot rather than tons per acre.

Farmers wearing mining helmets with battery-powered lamps work in pitch-dark, windowless buildings to produce the white or cream-colored mushroom that is most often sold in this country. Mushroom size is no measure of quality. The large ones taste the same as the small, but they look more luxurious and many people seek them out.

The fungus can be prepared so quickly and easily that even the fresh ones are considered convenience foods.

Sihanouk seeks Cambodia peace meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Cambodian leader Norodom Sihanouk is seeking Carter administration support for an international conference to bring peace to his war-ravaged homeland.

Sihanouk arrived Wednesday night for a 17-day visit to the United States and planned to meet today with assistant secretary of state Richard Holbrooke. A meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is set for next week.

Since Sihanouk's ouster from power in a 1970 coup, Cambodia has been wracked by war and starvation. He believes his countrymen may face extinction unless peace is restored.

State Department officials, who asked not to be identified, said Wednesday that the time is not ripe for an international conference because Vietnam has shown no interest in participating.

Without the participation of Vietnam, which has 200,000 troops deployed in Cambodia, the convening of an international peace conference would be pointless, one official said.

Sihanouk plans to stay in Washington for 10 days, meeting with administration and congressional leaders and with Cambodian exiles. He will meet with other exiles early next month in Colorado and California.

He plans to go to Canada March 8 after a brief return visit to Washington. Recently, Sihanouk has been living in exile in France.

Within weeks after his March 1970 ouster, Cambodia became engulfed in the conflict that was raging in neighboring Vietnam.

North Vietnamese troops were using Cambodian territory as a springboard for launching military strikes into South Vietnam, and the United States sent thousands of troops into Cambodia in April 1970 to eliminate these sanctuaries.

Since then, several million Cambodians are estimated to have died from fighting or starvation.

A year ago, the regime of pro-Vietnamese leader Heng Samrin took power with the help of the Vietnamese army, deposing the pro-Chinese regime of Pol Pot.

The State Department says Sihanouk, who steered a neutral course during his 29-year rule, could have a role in a future political settlement.

But it insists the United States does not have a candidate who would assume power under a compromise arrangement.

Few sparks fly in GOP debate

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — In a debate with little discord, George Bush, Ronald Reagan and five rivals for the Republican presidential nomination joined in criticism of President Carter's foreign and defense policies, and in a call for federal thrift to combat inflation.

The one real debater in the seven-way forum Wednesday night was Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, who said he kept hearing old platitudes instead of new ideas from the other candidates.

Indeed, there was more argument offstage than on, and the subject was not campaign issues but the question of which candidates will take part in another debate Saturday night.

Bush and Reagan, rated the leaders in public opinion polls in advance of New Hampshire's presidential primary election next Tuesday, are due to meet one-on-one in that debate, sponsored by the Nashua Telegraph.

Their rivals say it isn't fair for the former California governor and the former United Nations ambassador to have the stage to themselves, three days before the election.

Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas and Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee both have lodged protests with the Federal Election Commission over the issue.

Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally said the exclusion of other candidates from the Bush-Reagan meeting was arbitrary, unwise and "out of bounds."

"Look," said Bush, "on that debate I was challenged by the Reagan forces. I don't see what's wrong with me doing a one-on-one."

And later, in Birmingham, Ala., Reagan said he was invited by the Telegraph, adding, "They can invite anyone they want. They can invite Jimmy Carter. I'd be delighted."

Bush said the Republican Party was the real winner in Wednesday night's debate.

Rep. Phillip M. Crane of Illinois agreed: "The Democratic Party lost because they chickened out in presenting their case to the American voter."

But Bush acknowledged that the debate didn't "break any particularly new ground."

Nor did it do much to spell out differences between the candidates, save those Anderson voiced.

Defending his proposal for a 50-cent gasoline tax to cut consumption and provide funds to ease Social Security taxes, the Illinois congressman said, "We've got a real problem on our hands. We need some new ideas, and all I keep hearing are the old platitudes."

The forum, sponsored by the League of Women Voters, lined up the candidates on the stage of a Manchester high school auditorium. It was broadcast on radio, televised on a delayed basis.

The 80-minute debate was, in large measure, a replay of the one that matched six Republican candidates Jan. 5 in Des Moines, Iowa. The major difference was in the roster, since Reagan missed the first debate on grounds it would be divisive. He changed his mind after losing the Jan. 21 Iowa GOP caucuses to Bush.

Six of Wednesday's seven debaters agreed that there should be substantial increases in defense spending to strengthen the U.S. line against Soviet interventionism like that in Afghanistan.

Anderson said he does not favor sharp increases that aren't tied to specific and essential weapons systems.

The candidates also chorused criticism of Carter foreign policy. Baker said it flip-flops, Bush called it vacillating.

There were differences among the candidates, but not the kind campaigns turn on. Typically, the response to a question was a chorus, with variations.

For example, the candidates agreed that federal spending should be curbed and deficits ended to combat inflation.

Bush said income taxes should be indexed, so wage increases produced by inflation would not thrust people into ever higher tax brackets. Dole and Reagan favored that; Baker disagreed, saying that with indexing "inflation feeds on itself." Connally agreed with Baker.

To a man, the candidates agreed that the government should take steps to safeguard the financial future of the Social Security system, although they didn't spell out specific measures.

Bush said Social Security has become "a welfare program." The Reagan camp said that comment was a blunder.

Among other points the candidates made:

—Bush said he favors affirmative action programs as a remedy for past racial discrimination and "a good safeguard for fair play," but opposes quotas for minority employment.

—Anderson alone spoke out for "freedom of choice" for women on abortion and for the licensing of handguns. Both are sensitive issues in New Hampshire and on both, the other candidates take the other side.

—Reagan said one of his first acts as president would be to clamp a freeze on federal hiring.

—Connally said he wants to do away with the new Department of Education; Crane said he would abolish that agency and the Department of Energy as well.

Questioner gets Reagan to explain ethnic joke

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — The last questioner in the Republican presidential debate popped an unauthorized question and forced Ronald Reagan to explain once more an embarrassing ethnic joke.

Vincent Galati had submitted a question about the Equal Rights Amendment that was cleared by the League of Women voters, which sponsored the debate.

"I had another question," said the Durham stockbroker when his turn came, "but I must ask you this:

"Recently you told a story implying that Polish people and Italian people were either fools or gangsters. ... The question I have is, does ethnic humor of this kind or any kind have any place in the campaign for the highest office in this land?"

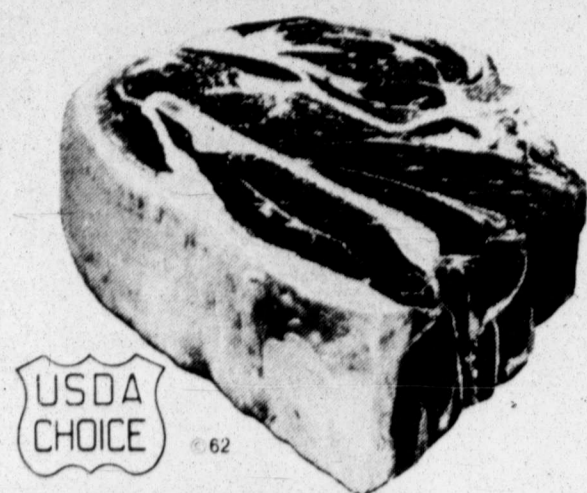

The former California governor again said he did not tell ethnic jokes. He repeated his earlier explanation, saying he had told the story to close associates to illustrate a point during a discussion about ethnic humor. The story was overheard by a reporter.

Thomas Wesley Nulty told police a hanging bag and suitcase were missing.

Market Summary

Summary of market trends, including volume, price movements, and analyst observations.

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph was one of the notable losers today as the stock market abruptly turned downward again.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial was down 10.24 at 876.62.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 2-1 margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

AT&T shares led the active list, down 1 1/2 at 48 1/2. On Wednesday the company, the nation's most widely held stock with nearly 3 million shareholders, decided not to raise its dividend, declaring only the regular $1.25-a-share quarterly payout.

AT&T has increased its dividend every year since 1971. But early this month the Value Line Investment Survey reported:

"A dividend hike may not materialize in 1980. AT&T has dedicated itself to maintaining its shareholders' real dividend income against inflation, but with $5 billion of debt to raise, uncertain prospects for earnings, and a need to convince regulatory agencies to increase its rate of return, it may be reluctant to vote a dividend hike at this time."

The yield on the stock at its current level of payouts is better than 10 percent. But lately yields on competing bonds have climbed well above that level.

The NYSE's composite index lost 4.0 to 66.21. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 1.64 to 296.59.

Volume on the Big Board came to 22.80 million shares at noon, against 19.90 million at the same point Wednesday.

Business Mirror

After all, what is a depression?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With prices, interest rates, unemployment and taxes rising, and real incomes, savings rates, housing starts and confidence falling, could recession be worse?

In fact, will anyone even recognize that we missed a recession — if we do? Or spit it if it comes?

The questions are provoked by a peculiar situation that has developed over the past year or so. It is this: Good news is often bad news, and official economic expansion quite often means personal recession.

While people rejoice in having averted the onset of official recession, their economic lives have deteriorated steadily. So much, that economists and laymen ask what greater damage could a recession do.

The answer to that question lies in the future, but the damage resulting from the so-called economic expansion cannot be denied.

Incomes are rising but buying power is shrinking. Statistics say families are well off, but families feel deprived. Lenders say people are borrowing to live it up, but borrowers say the money is for basics.

The odd situation is not difficult to understand, but it may be more difficult to explain. The plausible explanation is this:

People are making lots of money but inflation and higher taxes, partly for Social Security, are taking it away. They do have material comforts, but they have to borrow and cut into savings to achieve it.

Rather than going into a shell of depression, families are maintaining economic activity, perhaps because they feel that is the way out of the trap. Money is circulating. Economic activity is fairly strong. And the official measures of economic activity reflect this activity.

The measures of economic activity, therefore, remain this side of recession, even though it is taking a terrible consumer toll to keep them there. A toll that might be too great to be maintained.

Many economists warn that families are losing the ability to maintain buying activity. They have tried mightily; they have strained their resources, and still they cannot make headway.

As they run out of financial and psychic energy, the consumer economy could take a tumble, and there is little evidence that other areas of the economy — government excepted — can step in to fill the gap.

The result, say pessimists, is that things could get even worse, with unemployment rising more sharply while prices remain high — kept there by forces such as oil that do not quickly react to supply and demand — and interest rates continuing to rise before falling back gradually.

Questions beg to be answered:

Is it logical therefore to talk about the recent expansion as if it were the opposite of recession? Because the statistics say the economy is expanding — and therefore not in recession — should we applaud?

For individuals, the best measure of whether times are good or bad is not the official pronouncement that we do or do not have a recession, but the immediate condition of the pocketbook and the savings account.

And their condition, and that of the credit account as well, are generally in pretty poor shape. Worse, perhaps, than in many an official recession.

Dallas banks hike prime

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas banks have raised their prime lending rate to an all-time high 15 1/2 percent, meaning it will cost more for consumers to borrow money.

The increase was in line with similar rate increases put in force by other banks around the nation.

Financial observers said the latest round of prime rate increases follows last Friday's action by the Federal Reserve Board to raise the discount rate to 13 percent.

The Dallas banks' new prime rate is 15 1/2 percent, up from 15 percent. Other banks in the area have raised theirs to 15 percent or 15 1/4 percent.

The increase in the prime rate will affect the rates on many types of loans, including auto loans, credit cards, and personal loans.

Consumers are expected to feel the pinch of the higher rates, particularly those with large balances on credit cards or who are carrying high-interest debt.

The Dallas Fed Reserve Bank said it was not commenting on the banks' actions.

New owners wouldn't change Edd's Trading Post

First, there was Edd Handley when Spraberry was the center of a roaring boom field early in the 1950s. And along came Henry Ford after the gushers had been tamed. And finally, Jerry Gay,

SPRABERRY — The sign behind the counter at Edd's Trading Post says enough and no more:

If the prices don't agree with you, this store can be bought.

Thanks

But Jerry and Louise Gay have no intent of selling out and losing a country store which Edd Handley ran back in the roaring Spraberry oil boom days of the early 1950s and kept for 15 years and which Henry Ford took over for 11 years before the Gay family got ahold of the place 2½ years ago.

It's no gold mine at the crossroads of the Garden City Highway and a spur road, which heads south toward St. Lawrence, Stiles, Big Lake and passes alongside many an oil field patch and ranch spread in a country which seemingly has more pump jacks and heads of cattle and coyotes than people.

And the trading post, too, is not jam packed with goods, but occasionally it is packed with people heading to and from work or just taking a break.

"This is kind of empty right now," said 16-year-old Sherry Gay, the second of five children of Jerry and Louise Gay, as she leaned behind the counter and gazed over the shelves, where goods had plenty of elbow room. She had just returned from school at Greenwood and had taken over "minding" the store from friends Charles "Red" Flanagan and his spouse, Delores, and was waiting on customers while her mom was busy in town. Sherry's father was driving a dump truck for earnings to pay the bills and to support the family.

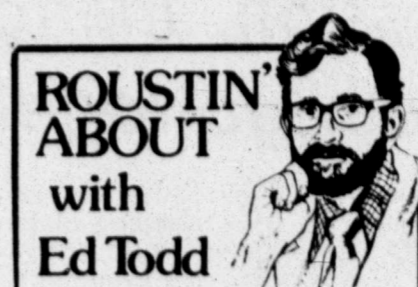

INDEED, THE STORE was a bit scarce of foodstuff, but, then again, the store doesn't even faintly pretend to be a mecca of wares, groceries, and exotic foods; if it did, it would be a dismal failure.

Stop-by traffic is fairly slow at mid-afternoon but picks up later in the afternoon, when workers head home from a day in the field. Too, early mornings are busy, when the trading post converts to a coffee shop.

Oil field hands, truckers, ranchers and the like stop by for snacks, such as dried beef jerky and crackers, soft drinks and milk, sandwiches and the such, smoking tobacco and snuff, and, when work is almost over, a six pack or so of beer.

Soon, Sherry's brother, Little Jerry, 8, joined sister at the counter and alternating drank from a can of Coke and chewed bubble gum.

There are five children in the Gay household: Terry, 18; Gina, 15; Leslie, 9; and then Sherry and Little Jerry. There's a strong family resemblance.

"We look like our dad, really," opined Sherry.

"Uh huh," Little Jerry sort of agreed. "We ain't got no beard."

The Gays have lived out here since they fled the city — Midland — in 1977, and moved their house out here. Right now, it's being restored, and it'll be awhile before they move into it. It's a good country mile from the store. Meanwhile, the family is living in a trailer house and what Gay terms a "lean-to" right behind the store.

WHAT MAKES THIS PLACE so livable is the relative quietness and unhurriedness of rural living and the unrushed friendliness of the people.

"It's wonderful weather," happily announced Randy "Willie" Williamson of Odessa, as he and co-worker Bruce Milliken of Midland stepped into the store for milk and a can of Dr Pepper.

"I always stop here when I'm in this part of the country," said Williamson. "Boy! It's a pretty day." Indeed, the weather was almost spring-like, and particularly was refreshing in the wake of a frigid and snowy weekend.

Presently, J.T. Britt drove by in his pick-up truck in making his oil field rounds, and refreshed himself with a cold 7-Up.

SOON AFTER he left, a stranded trucker — Allan Woods of Wicklet — call to Midland, popped open a can of RC cola, and sat down at the domino table.

He was waiting on a co-worker to bring him a five-gallon can of fuel — just enough to carry him the 20 or so miles into town.

"My tractor's five miles down the road," said Woods. He drives for Southwestern Explosives. "I was heading back to switch tractors; I've got a couple of holes in the fuel tanks."

Nevertheless, he figured that he should have made it the 120 miles into Midland from San Angelo, where he had hauled the tanks with 20 gallons of fuel. His trailer was empty; he usually hauls dynamite, blasting caps and similar explosives but shys away from "that funny stuff."

"I figured I could make it, but I didn't," Wood lamented. "I was bucking head winds all the way in."

He eased over to the cooler and fetched another can of RC.

"I should have had enough fuel to pour in a quart jar when I got there," Woods reasoned. But he didn't, as it became all too obvious.

In short order, his fellow worker drove by, picked up Woods and drove him five miles down the road, where Woods wetted his tank. He blew his air horn and waved as he passed by the trading post.

All the while, fellows were dropping by the store — that still bears Edd's name and much of the rustic, wood-environment atmosphere. The new addition is beer, which both Ed and Elvessa Handley and later Henry and Meschael ("Henryetta") Ford shunned.

And the Gay family is trying to keep Edd's old trading post intact.

"A lot of people come in here just to see if it's changed," Mrs. Gay said. "But if we changed it, it just wouldn't be the same."

Connally accused by Iran of insulting foreign minister

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran's Ali A. Agah says Republican presidential hopeful John Connally insulted the Iranian foreign minister when he characterized Sadegh Ghotzbadah as "probably a KGB agent" and "at least a Marxist."

Agah, charge d'affaires at the Iranian embassy here, leveled the accusation shortly after the Republican presidential candidates' debate was telecast Wednesday from New Hampshire.

Connally made the remark when asked whether he believed the Soviets planned "attempted toppling" of some shaky governments in the Middle East and Asia.

The former Texas governor said he believes the Soviets consider Afghanistan, which they occupied late last year, "a way-station on their way ... to the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean."

Connally said, "I think they have their people in Iran right today."

Connally said, "I have always thought that Ghotzbadah was probably a KGB agent. If not, he was at least a Marxist."

Agah said Ghotzbadah "has always been a Muslim, a true Muslim, and in fact, this is an insult to our foreign minister and I really question the honesty and integrity of Mr. Connally."

Depression, menopause far from go-togethers

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am in my late 40s and belong to a group of women of similar age who meet weekly...

who were of menopausal age, when compared with those who were either younger or older.

hand, I notice that whenever medicines are prescribed for my children, they contain sugar.

children under six years of age who had been taking sucrose-based medicines for at least six months.

Dear Mrs. J.: You have a point, and some physicians are recommending that liquid medicines either be unsweetened or sweetened with a substance that does not cause cavities.

While a spoonful of sugar helps the medicine to go down, it apparently also helps the number of cavities to go up.

Doctors at St. George's Hospital in London, England, studied 44 children...

Dear Mrs. S.: While the group to which you belong may have been particularly euphoric on that day, depression is not necessarily a characteristic of menopausal women.

For many years, it was assumed that women had a greater risk of depression during the menopausal period and, previously, the depression was considered a distinct clinical entity...

A community survey which extended over several years and which was conducted by Yale University in New Haven, Conn., showed no evidence of increased depression among women during the menopause.

Thousands Across Nation Now Using Ohio Man's Sure-fire Way to Get Rich Quick

You can make $100,000 in a matter of weeks, or days In some cases money starts in hours. Here's how it works...

1. Complete 2. Preliminary steps of the system are done only one time. 3. Mail In Parts A and B Or Phone Them In 4. In a matter of days or weeks, depending upon which system you do, you can receive $100,000 for each system.

What took so long to create and perfect the system? Mr. Swarez explained, "I started out trying to make extra money like everybody else. First I worked extra jobs, then I tried to start standard businesses which failed, then I read every get rich book on the market and found out that they were nothing more than franchise schemes, stupid real estate schemes which take forever to make money, or selling jobs. I finally determined that nothing existed that would fill my needs. I needed a way to make a lot of money quickly. I didn't have any money to invest. I had little time to devote to it and I wanted something that I wouldn't have to leave my home and family to do."

"Then my wife and I went on a shopping spree for clothes. We had been making do with old clothes for so long they had become worn out. She always had to shop for clothes with very little money. I always joked with her that 'If I gave you $5,000 to spend on clothes could you do it in one day?' She used to say 'I could do it in a couple hours.' So that's what I did. I gave her $5,000 to go out and buy clothes. It ended up taking all day and she said she relished every minute."

"Never before have I bought a product that was so fantastic that I felt the urge to write a testimonial, but your 7 Steps to Freedom made me do it. It is such an excellent product that anyone who can read and follow instructions can be a millionaire. I am 25 years old and with very limited funds I have started applying the 7 steps. I know I will be a millionaire. Thank you very, very much. P.S. I mean it. You have a GOOD product."

"I have just received your system and I must say that I think that you have a lot of guts for a man! I have taken your system to college and it has really lifted some eyebrows especially the first and last parts. I think your story is one of the best rags to riches stories that I have ever heard. A couple of my friends have already ordered your system."

"This seemed like a tall order, but the proverb 'necessity is the mother of invention' is true. One day, of all times, when I was exercising this phenomenal idea to get rich quick with little investment came rolling out of my head like a ticker tape. My original idea would take a lot of perfection to get it to a working system. But, I knew the basic concept was sound. It took me four years to perfect it, using the hard road, of trial and error. However it was worth it. This system had it all. You can do it with little or no investment or experience and you can do it while you work a full time job and you make money fast — no waiting for years and years like other investments such as real estate."

"In some cases you can assemble a system one afternoon and have spendable money in your hands the next morning."

"I have just received your system entitled 7 Steps to Freedom and all I can say is that it should rightfully take its place in the entrepreneur's Hall of Fame as a bible should in church. Adjectives alone cannot describe its hidden wealth. After many years, much money and a bellyfull of frustration, I believe I have found an honest man, and yes I truly mean it."

WARNING: There has been a lot of fly-by-night imitators of Mr. Swarez's system who have run ads and given customers a hastily prepared unworkable product. However, these imitators by law cannot use Mr. Swarez's name. If you ordered such a get rich system, check the name on it. If it was not done by Benjamin Swarez, it is not Mr. Swarez's system.

"I've done it 14 times in a row and made an average of $100,000 each time. I taught my young brother and brother-in-law and they've already made over $500,000 each."

How much money can you make and how fast can you make it? Mr. Swarez averages around $100,000 for each system he produces. He says doing a system to make $10,000 or $20,000 is literally duck soup. "I have these available to me all the time and don't even use them," he says.

"I have just received your very enlightening system, 7 Steps to Freedom. I am convinced that my long search for a second business activity has ended with one in which I can make some good money and feel satisfaction in its accomplishment. I am at age 52 and one of those almost dead-broke retirees you mentioned. Fortunately, I still have a keen desire to try again. My admiration of you and your accomplishments are galvanized because of similar circumstances in earlier years. I came up through the 30's on a farm swinging a hoe and a cross-cut saw; finished high school, did a five-year stint in the Air Force during the 40's, finished college and entered the public education field for a career. Here our similar experiences end — I am still poor. From my view, I am convinced that you are a man who imports truth gained by the hard knocks of experience — a very rare commodity in this day."

For those who wish to purchase the N.P.G.S. System, called "7 STEPS TO FREEDOM", it is being distributed by mail only for the present by a well known established distributing company called P.C.A. in Canton, Ohio. Mr. Swarez has kept the price of the system low so those who most need it can afford it.

Mr. Swarez's first successful system netted him $80,000 clear. What's it like to get $80,000 almost overnight in one lump sum? "It's almost impossible to verbalize. My wife and I just stared at the check for a long time. We had a two day celebration with a dinner and party. It's a fantastic experience to go into work and tell them you quit. I had a little fun doing it. The chance to say what you truly feel to people who have had you under their thumb for 10 years is truly a pleasant release of frustration."

"Who all can do it and how sure fire is it? Mr. Swarez says, 'I've done it 14 times in a row now. I taught my younger brother and brother-in-law the system and they've already made over $500,000 each. All you need is the ability to follow simple directions, common sense, and the ability to see a job through to completion.'"

"Received your system, 7 Steps to Freedom. I have gone over and over it and think it is one of the most valuable products I have ever purchased. I can appreciate the time and work involved with such an undertaking. It is well worth the money. Your system has given me a new incentive to make money on my own. I am tired of working for a bureaucratic organization with overeducated, over-degreed, and over-engineered departments. It has always been my contention, if you must work you may as well work at something which will give the most money in the least time. Your system does exactly that."

Or, if you want us to start processing your order immediately, phone in your order as follows: (1) Dial 1-216-494-4282 and ask for operator (60). Operators are on duty 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, Monday through Friday. This number is not toll free, but the average one minute direct dial call only costs 50¢ or less from anywhere in the country. We found toll free lines added more cost to the product. (2) Say the words "7 Steps to Freedom" (3) Give your name and address (4) Give the operator one of your following credit card numbers: Master Charge or Visa (also include your Interbank number). No C.O.D.

"The first thing I did was pay off all my bills. Then I paid off my house. I took the money to the savings and loan company who held the mortgage personally to see the looks on their faces. The teller did a double take. The manager came out and smiled insincerely and said 'We don't get too many people paying off a $20,000 mortgage all at one time.' Then we had a 'burn the mortgage' party. Then I went to the showroom of the local Lincoln-Mercury dealer and laid down the cash for a brand new Mark. I never had a new car in my life. I never even had the experience of a new car even as a kid at home."

This system is also perfect for people who are confined to homes, such as housewives. Mr. Swarez named his system "7 Steps to Freedom". He has been selling his system to others for a year now. The reason? "Why not?" he says. "First I thought I'd have to keep it secret. But then I found out the system can't be saturated, so why not sell it and make money by selling the system on top of the other money I am making using it."

People from every state in the union have purchased Mr. Swarez's system. What do these people have to say? Here are just a few comments:

Beth finally wins medal

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Young Beth Heiden finally has her Olympic medal — just in time — and the fired-up, undefeated United States hockey team is in position to claim one of its own as the 1980 Winter Games head into the homestretch.

Heiden, overshadowed until now by her superstar brother, Eric, finished third in the 3,000-meter speed skating, her final Olympic race, Wednesday and then emotionally revealed ever so briefly just how much the pressure of these Olympics have affected her.

"It got in the way of our family," said Beth, tears welling in her eyes. "That's what really got me mad."

Eric Heiden, who already has captured three golds, went after No. 4 today in the 1,500-meter race. Still ahead for him is the 10,000 Saturday. For Beth, however, the 3,000 was her last chance at a medal after finishing seventh, seventh and fifth in her earlier events. And she made it count.

Norway's Bjoerg Eva Jensen won the 3,000, timed in an Olympic record 4 minutes, 32.12 seconds. East Germany's Sabine Becker took the silver medal in 4:32.79 with Heiden getting the bronze in 4:33.77.

The exciting American hockey team, which has captured the imagination of fans here, swept into the medal round of the competition, defeating West Germany 4-2 and completing its preliminary round with four victories and a tie. A sellout crowd jammed the Olympic field house and the fans waved American flags and banners madly to salute each U.S. goal.

It was not an easy victory. The Americans roared from behind with four consecutive goals, two of them by Rob McClanahan, to erase a 2-0 deficit.

Also advancing in the hockey tournament were the Soviet Union, Sweden and Finland. Sweden eliminated Czechoslovakia 4-2, the Russians beat Canada 6-4, and Finland routed Holland 10-3. In other first round hockey, Norway tied Romania 3-3 and Poland downed Japan 5-1.

The defending champion Soviets were forced to come from behind for the second time in the hockey tournament and scored four goals in the final period, two each by Boris Mikhailov and Aleksandr Golikov, to beat Canada.

Trailing 3-1 with 13 seconds left in the second period, they rallied. Aleksei Kasatonov's goal made it 3-2 before the end of that period and then Mikhailov and Golikov scored 12 seconds apart early in the third for a 4-3 Russian lead. Dan D'Alvise tied it for Canada but then Mikhailov and Golikov scored again to give the Soviets their victory.

The United States will face Russia and Sweden opposes Finland when the hockey medal round begins Friday.

Besides speed skating, Wednesday's only other medal event was the men's 4 x 10 kilometer cross country relay race won by the Soviet Union. Anchored by 30-kilometer gold medalist Nikolai Zimjatov, the Russians were timed in an Olympic record 1 hour, 57 minutes, 3.46 seconds. Norway took the silver and the bronze went to defending champion Finland.

In other action, Liechtenstein's Heidi Wenzel grabbed the lead in the first heat of the women's giant slalom, timed in 1 minute, 14.33 seconds through the 50 gates of the 1,170-meter Whiteface Mountain course. Two West Germans, Irene Epple and Christa Kinshofer, were 2-3 with respective times of 1:14.75 and 1:15.19.

Wenzel, who won the silver medal in the women's downhill earlier this week, was pleased with her first outing on the giant slalom course. "I noticed some little mistakes," she said, "but in general, it was a good run."

Epple recovered quickly after nearly losing a ski at the top of the course. "Without that mistake, I could have been closer," she said. "I don't know how much it cost me, but I know that I really wanted to attack after that."

Annamarie Moser-Proell, winner of the downhill, was seventh after the first run of the GS and appeared out of the medals chase.

American Linda Fratianne was third following the compulsory portion of the women's figure skating, trailing Annet Potzsch of East Germany and Dagmar Lurz of West Germany. The compulsories count for 30 percent of the competition and Fratianne will need outstanding freestyle performances in today's short program and Saturday's long program to overtake the Germans.

"She'll have to do a super job now," said Linda's coach, Frank Carroll. "She'll have to not miss anything in the short program and skate the best in the long program. If she makes any mistakes, she's out."

With four days of competition remaining, the Soviet Union and East Germany were tied in the medal count with 17 each, although the Russians lead in golds 8-6. Three countries, Austria, Finland and the United States, have six medals each. All of America's have come from speed skating and four of them belong to the Heidens. Without them, the United States would be tied for seventh instead of third in the medal standings.

Yet, for Beth, the Games have been something of a disappointment. More had been expected from the petite 20-year-old, partly because of her brother's achievements and partly because of her own accomplishments which included the world championship last year.

Norway's Jensen suggested that

Beth had lacked some of the fervor in these Games that she had displayed last year.

"I would agree with her that I don't have the same fighting spirit," Heiden said. "I like to skate for myself. This year, I sort of had the feeling I had to skate for the press, you know. To hell with you guys!"

Heiden, who earlier in the Games had said she wished she could change her last name, was hustled out of her press conference after losing her composure.

Jensen, the gold medalist, skated in the day's first pair with Heiden. "I got off to a fast start," she said. "With three laps to go, I knew Beth could still beat me. I made extra power."

Asked what she thought had happened to Heiden, Jensen suggested that Beth might have done too much training. "Maybe she burned out," the winner said.

Meanwhile, President Carter's deadline for withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan passed and Hodding Carter, a spokesman for the State Department, said in Bonn, West Germany that the United States would not participate in the Moscow Games this summer.

There was no confirmation of that from United States Olympic Committee officials here, who repeated their earlier position that no formal decision could be made until mid-April when the body's House of Delegates meets in Colorado Springs.

Wichita Falls captures District 6-4A cage crown

WICHITA FALLS — The Wichita Falls Coyotes downed the Wichita Falls Rider Raiders, 66-50 here Wednesday night to win the District 6-4A basketball crown for the second straight year.

The Coyotes will meet the winner of the Midland-Odessa Permian game which is being played in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum in Big Spring Friday night in bi-district play next Tuesday.

Ricky Cobb, Wichita Falls' 6-foot-8 center, dumped in 13 points, but it was the 18-point performances of forwards Tony Knight and Van Anderson, that helped the Coyotes to the championship and their 25th victory against eight losses on the year.

Last year, the Coyotes lost to the Midland Bulldogs, 59-56, in the bi-district game in the Taylor County Coliseum in Abilene.

Boosters pick officers for '80

Bob Henry was reelected president of the Midland Cubs Booster Club at Wednesday's meeting while other officers for the 1980 season will be Mike Bradford, treasurer; Ann Smith, secretary; and Gene Drummond, vice-president.

Midland Cubs General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., announced that the annual spring Booster trip to Scottsdale will be March 20-23. "We will leave Midland at 4 p.m. Thursday and leave Phoenix at 1 p.m. Sunday. The Chicago Cubs will be playing home games in Mesa Friday and Saturday."

Rigney said the cost is $250 for roundtrip plane ticket and motel.

Rigney also revealed that the famed San Diego Chicken will appear at Cubs Stadium June 8.

Wittenberg accepts

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Wittenberg University's Tigers, top ranked nationally with a 23-1 regular season record, have accepted an invitation to play in the NCAA Division III Basketball Tournament, a school spokesman announced Wednesday.

Rice Owls on way back in SWC

Longhorns facing tough chore Friday

HOUSTON (AP) — A lonely blue banner that hangs above the scoreboard at Rice University's Autry Court is inscribed reads "SWC Champions 1970."

It is a monument to Rice's last major achievement in basketball.

The Owls, 7-17 going into their regular season finale against Texas Friday night, won't be adding another championship banner this year.

But Owl Coach Mike Schuler and his vastly improved team may want to add a sign that reads "Rice 81, Houston 74, 1980."

The Owls proved they were at least on the road back Tuesday night when they defeated their crosstown rivals for the first time ever after losing 17 in a row over a nine year period.

It was another step in what has been a steadily improving Owls team since Feb. 3 when Schuler chastised his players for what he thought was a sub-par effort.

"We had a meeting following that game and I got some things off my chest," Schuler said. "I told the team

I thought they could play better than they seemed to think they could play."

Schuler must have been right. Rice responded in its next game by defeating Wright State, then the No. 2 nationally ranked NCAA Division II team. The Owls followed that with a 10-point victory over Texas Tech for their only back to back wins of the season.

Rice then lost its next three games but the Owls' aggregate loss margin was seven points. Southern Methodist beat the Owls by one point in overtime; the Texas Aggies could muster only a two point victory in College Station and Arkansas had to struggle for a four-point victory in Fayetteville.

It had been a case of wilting under pressure—until Tuesday night.

"We never ever shook tonight," Schuler said proudly. "That's a credit to us. We'd had trouble in several games of shaking when things got tight but we didn't tonight and that was the key."

Schuler, completing his third year at Rice, has knitted together a blend of talent from a nationwide recruiting campaign that took him from Walla Walla, Wash. to nearby Deer Park.

At the suggestion of Baylor Coach Jim Haller, Schuler signed sophomore Ricky Pierce of Garland, Texas after he had played one year at Walla Walla Junior College. He got freshman Robert Shaw from Deer Park.

Pierce has been named SWC player of the week for two straight weeks and Shaw was the primary "unshakable" against the Cougars, scoring 20 points in his best performance of the season.

In another first for the Owls against the Cougars, John Mott, the team captain and inspirational leader, got into the game in the final 13 seconds to chants of "We Want Mott!"

Mott got a chance to show his appreciation with three seconds left when he sank a free throw for the final point of the game and his first point of the season.

Rice's improvement has had an effect on the small but creative group of fans that come to cheer the Owls.

Two students showed up at a game last season dressed as officials. One carried a cane and led the other, who pretended to be blind.

At recent home games this year, members of the Owl football team have shown up at the game to supplement the cheerleading corps. They formed welcoming lines to bring the team onto the court. They jeered loudly any call against Rice.

When the Rice band could not be present for Tuesday night's game, the Houston band was not allowed to perform either. The Cougar band showed up anyway—playing their kazoo.

And the Owls and Cougars may not be finished with their on and off the court hilarity this season.

If the Cougars finish the regular season in fifth place in the SWC stands-and-Rice-finishes eighth, the two teams will meet at Houston's Hofheinz Pavilion Monday night in the first round of the SWC basketball tournament.

Chaparrals face Wranglers tonight in key WJCC tilt

Going into Monday's game, the Midland College Chaparrals were thinking in terms of first place in the Western Junior College Conference basketball race, if they could beat Western Texas College, the nation's No. 1 team, in the Tall City next week.

Now the Chaps' primary concern is to retain sole possession of second place against Odessa College when the teams meet at Odessa College 8 p.m. tonight.

BOTH THE CHAPS and Wranglers were upset victims Monday. Midland lost 65-63 to Frank Phillips College in Borger while Howard College pulled the rug from under OC, 70-60. That preserved the status quo in the battle for second, the Chaps remaining one game up on OC, but WTC took advantage of its faltering rivals to stretch its league lead to what probably is an uncatchable two games with a 96-89 victory over Amarillo College.

Midland won the previous meeting between the Petroplex rivals, 74-70, but it wasn't easy. The Chaps trailed by 11 at one point in the first half and by seven at intermission. They fell back to nine behind in the second half before beginning their winning drive.

THE FIELD GOAL shooting statistics told the story of the second half as the Chaps got tough defensively to limit OC to 10 field goals in 31 attempts while hitting on 15 of 19 shots of their own.

Robert Tate's 22 points, 12 of 13 from the line, were a big factor in MC's win while John Savoie with 17 and James Ivy with 14 led OC.

However, that was at Chaparral Center and the atmosphere at OC tonight will be more hostile.

IN ANY CASE, both OC and MC have nailed down berths in the Regional Tournament to be held at Chaparral Center in early March while the fourth and fifth place positions are being hotly contested with Howard and Frank Phillips currently tied for fourth at 8-7 while New Mexico Military Institute and Amarillo College continue to hang tough at 7-8.

Aggies bag limit in schoolboy bluechippers

By The Associated Press

Opposing football coaches thought Texas A&M had bagged its limit of bluechip recruits last week on Southwest Conference signing day, but when the Aggies weighed in with their national letter-of-intent signers, the string resembled a record catch.

The Aggies added tight end Mark Lewis of Houston Kashmere and lineman Keith Guthrie of Tyler. John Tyler to Coach Tom Wilson's gang of prizes.

Of the 16 top-rated players in the state, the Aggies signed six. The Aggies also released the names of some highly rated junior college talent in offensive lineman Tommy Thompson of Contra Costa, and receivers Jim Beautrow of Santa Barbara and Larry Edmondson of Ranger.

WILSON WENT AFTER Lewis hard. He and Guthrie did not sign a week ago on Southwest Conference letter-of-intent day.

The Texas Longhorns beat Southern California in snagging running back Terry Orr of Abilene Cooper then went out of state to land linebacker Jeff Leiding of Tulsa, Okla., defensive back Mossy Cade of Eloy, Ariz., and center Mike Ruether of Shawnee Mission, Kan.

Leiding and Cade were tops at their position on the Parade Magazine All-America team. Ruether also was listed on the team. Leiding came to Texas despite a strong push by Oklahoma's Barry Switzer for his services.

Southern Methodist pulled in the services of tight end Ricky Bolden of Dallas Hillcrest, a bluechipper.

Texas Tech grabbed a prize in All-America running back Norman Hill, 6-2, 215 of Nashville (Hillsboro), Tenn., the younger brother of Eddie Hill of the Los Angeles Rams.

BAYLOR KEPT its impressive catch intact, including the No. 1-rated quarterback in the state, Alfred Anderson of Waco Richfield.

Texas Christian went to Pennsylvania to reel in 6-2, 255-pound lineman Zygmunt Chorosky, a national magazine blue-chipper from Valley Forge.

Coach F. A. Dry also was delighted to get impressive John Nichols, a 6-2, 195-pound linebacker from Tyler Lee.

Houston scored big as usual with wide receiver Lloyd Archie of Huntsville, a 6-2, 195-pound wide receiver who should help Coach Bill Yeoman's passing attack hum.

RICE DID WELL, signing two excellent quarterbacks in Phillip Money of Edinburg and Doug Johnson of Pasadena Doble.

Johnny Holley, quarterback of State 4A Champion McKinney, picked Texas Southern over Oklahoma State.

Arkansas signed some top prospects including quarterback Bill Pierce of Crossett, Ark. and running back Eddie White of Camden.

Rebels, Bulldogs open track season Friday

FORT STOCKTON — The Midland High Bulldogs have a head start on the field, but the District 5-4A head knocking in track will begin in earnest here Friday and Saturday in the Comanche Relays.

Midland High, under new head coach Johnny Williams, made a trip to Houston for a meet in the Astro-dome last weekend, so they already have their feet wet, so to speak.

But the Comanche Relays will be the stepping off point for other members of 5-4A. Only Odessa High from 5-4A will not be in this meet. It could be a good preview of how the 5-4A track season shapes up. At least, it will give district runners a look at how much they will have to improve through the season.

JOINING MIDLAND High and Midland Lee will be five other 5-4A teams and Roswell Goddard of New Mexico is the only stranger in the Division III competition.

Friday's events begin at 2:30 p.m. with running preliminaries starting at 3:30 p.m. Saturday's action begins at 9 a.m. with the conclusion of the field event finals and running finals are set for a 1 p.m. start.

There will also be two other divisions of competition, running the number of teams in the meet to 32 teams.

In the Division II competition, teams from Monahans, Snyder, Pecos, Lake View and Sweetwater will join host Fort Stockton in a battle for that crown.

The largest field will be the 18-team

Division I field that features teams from Crane, Stanton, Reagan County, McCamey, Rankin, Marfa, Iraan, Van Horn, Denver City, Persido, O'Donnell, Seminole, Kermit, Sanderson, Alpine, Wall, Ozona and Eldorado.

MIDLAND HIGH'S David Simmons could be one of the main attractions of the meet after winning two firsts in Houston last week. Simmons won the discus with a 153-10 and took the shot put with a heave of 60-4.

MHS should also be strong in the sprints with Jeff Robnett and Billy Taylor while sophomore Chris Yates will be in the long jump. He was near 20 feet at Houston.

James Lary will also be in the weight events as he begins his quest for another regional track berth.

Other Midland High athletes expected to be strong are Jay Motter and Jim Kemper in the pole vault, Bruce Fisher and Scott Yocham in the hurdles and Greg Sotello in the mile. Elston Montgomery, Robert Crawford and Danny Caldwell will add to the Bulldogs' relay strength.

The youthful Rebels of coach Sam Volpe will be wearing the distinction of defending 5-4A and Comanche Relay champions.

relay, which placed second at state last year. But that is about the extent of the Rebel experience.

JUNIOR DAVID PICCOLO is looking good in the hurdles and the mile could be in good hands with Robert Schooler, a transfer from Snyder who was competitive in cross country this year. Robert Samuels and David Williams will help there also.

Senior Kevin Harper will join Butler in the 880, which could be a strong event for the Rebels. Sprinters who will help are Michael O'Neal, Darrin Williams, Steve Waldron and Troy Barber.

Mike Ybarra holds the key in the long jump while the improving trio of Larry Ledbetter, Scott Stovall and Sheldon Smith will be in the high jump.

Much more will be known about the two local teams after Saturday's action, and no guess work should be done at this point. However, this meet could prove to be a good gauge of talent available for 1980 since they will be competing against teams they will have to beat in district.

Maryland clinches ACC basketball championship

AP Sports Writer

The Maryland Terrapins have had a string of good players and good basketball teams bouncing around the Atlantic Coast Conference for some time now — but a history of rarely living up to potential.

This year is different, however. They supposedly don't have the talent, but they do have the title.

"We're probably the Cinderella team in the country," said Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell after clinching the regular-season championship with an 83-77 victory over Wake Forest Wednesday night. "We were picked to finish sixth in our own league. Any time you're picked sixth and finish first, you have to be elated."

The title was only their second in ACC play, the first one coming in the 1974-75 season.

Appropriately, Maryland's way was paved by Albert King, who has been doing this sort of thing all season for the Terps. The high-flying forward sank 9 of 10 shots in the second half and finished with 32 points.

It wasn't easy for the ninth-ranked Terps, though. They lost a 16-point lead, then had to battle back at the end.

"We've had a lot of games like this," said King, "where we had the lead, lost it, but kept our composure and came back to win."

Wake Forest played without its 6-foot-10 center, Jim Johnstone, who injured an ankle in a game against Georgia Tech on Saturday.

"That hurt us," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy, "but we compensated for it with our overall play."

In other games involving the nation's Top Twenty teams, No. 3 Kentucky beat Mississippi State 71-65; No. 4 Syracuse routed Niagara 107-82; North Carolina State upset No. 8 North Carolina 63-50; No. 10 Notre Dame stopped Xavier (Ohio) 85-72; No. 17 Duke tripped No. 12 Clemson 87-82 in overtime; and No. 13 Missouri beat Oklahoma 81-69.

Three field goals by Kyle Macy sparked a decisive 12-4 rally in the second half, helping Kentucky beat Mississippi State. The Bulldogs'

Rickey Brown led all scorers with 35 points.

Erich Santifer scored 20 points and led six players in double figures as Syracuse overwhelmed Niagara. Hawkeye Whitney had a game-high 26 to lead North Carolina State past North Carolina.

"This was a great game by a tremendous bunch of guys," said Wolfpack Coach Norm Sloan. "They've got togetherness, love, affection on this team. They helped each other win the game."

Tracy Jackson scored 24 points and Kelly Tripucka added 20 to lead Notre Dame over Xavier. The Irish's 20th victory marked the fifth straight season that they have reached that plateau.

"I think it's obvious we're in the NCAAs," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps, shooting for his seventh straight NCAA tournament.

Mike Gminski collected 29 points and combined with Gene Banks in overtime to lead Duke over Clemson. Steve Stepanovich's 20 points paced Missouri over Oklahoma as the Tigers clinched a tie for the Big Eight title.

DENVER (AP) — After amassing first-round singles and doubles victories, Gene Mayer, the No. 2 seed in a $125,000 men's tennis tournament here, finally could unwind a little.

Mayer arrived in Denver on Tuesday for the tournament after leaving rain-drenched Palm Springs, Calif., an earlier stop on the Volvo tennis circuit. There were delays along the way, and Mayer and his wife arrived in Denver without their luggage.

"I feel strange, I haven't slept in five nights," he said after defeating Rod Frawley of Australia 6-4, 6-7, 6-2 Wednesday.

Later, he teamed up with Butch Waltz to claim a 6-3, 7-6 doubles victory over second-seeded and defending champions Stan Smith and Bob Lutz.

"I wanted to hit last night (Tuesday night) but I didn't have any clothes and there were no places open," Mayer said, adding that he was able to practice before his match with Frawley.

Ranked eighth in the world, Mayer, 23, served for the match at 5-3 in the second set, but lost his service and eventually the tiebreaker, 8-6.

In the third set, he got service breaks in the third and fifth games and countered Frawley's aggressive net play. At one point, he reeled off 15 straight points.

Bird, Johnson sparkle during NBA contests

By The Associated Press

Standout National Basketball Association rookies Larry Bird and Earvin "Magic" Johnson put on a couple of Rocky Mountain highs Wednesday night.

In Salt Lake City, Bird scored 33 points to lead the Boston Celtics to a 105-98 victory over the Utah Jazz. Meanwhile, in Denver, Johnson scored 30 points, grabbed 12 rebounds and put on a dazzling second-half display to rally the Los Angeles Lakers to a 116-103 triumph over the Nuggets.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Kings reopened Kemper Arena by nipping the Seattle SuperSonics 107-105, the Atlanta Hawks edged the Milwaukee Bucks 106-103, the Indiana Pacers buried the New York Knicks 131-86, the San Antonio Spurs downed the Chicago Bulls 125-117 and the Golden State Warriors beat the Houston Rockets 115-102.

Boston led Utah by 23 points early in the third quarter. The Jazz narrowed the gap to 85-79 early in the final period but Bird and Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell combined for six points to pull the Celtics away again. Adrian Dantley paced the Jazz with 31 points.

"Bird is a great player already," said Utah Coach Tom Nissalke. "He's the best to come into the pros since Bill Walton."

Los Angeles trailed Denver 57-53 at halftime but Johnson ignited a 15-3 Laker flurry in the first 4:12 of the third period.

Kings 107, SuperSonics 105

Phil Ford sank a 20-footer with one second remaining as a record crowd of 16,886 welcomed the Kings back to Kemper Arena and saw them rally from an eight-point deficit in the final three minutes. It was the first game in Kemper since the roof collapsed during a storm last June 4. Otis Birdsong led Kansas City with 24 points while Fred Brown had 27 for Seattle.

Hawks 106, Bucks 103

Eddie Johnson scored 24 points for Atlanta, including two free throws with 12 seconds remaining as the lead changed hands four times in the final minute. John Drew, who had 20 points, put Atlanta ahead for good 104-103 with a 12-foot jumper. Bob Lanier scored 23 for Milwaukee.

Pacers 131, Knicks 86

Billy Knight came off the bench with 26 points as the Pacers posted the largest margin of victory in their 13-year history. The old mark was a 124-80 rout of Kentucky in the now-defunct American Basketball Association.

Spurs 125, Bulls 117

Larry Kenon scored 24 points, Kevin Restani added 20 and six other Spurs were in double figures.

San Antonio's George Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer at 33.7 points per game, was held to 19, breaking a string of 47 consecutive games in which he had scored 20 or more.

Warriors 115, Rockets 102

Purvis Short, over a recent attack of the flu, came off the bench at the start of the second quarter and scored 17 of his 27 points in that period. He hit seven of 10 shots as the Warriors outscored the Rockets 35-26 to take a 57-46 halftime lead.

Golf teams see action

Fresh from its resounding victory last weekend in San Antonio, the Midland Lee girls' golf team hits the road again this week for a stop at the Big Spring Invitational, which began today and continues Friday.

Also in the field will be Midland High, which finished thirteenth at San Antonio.

Meanwhile, the Midland High boys' team, which staged a remarkable turnaround last week at the Odessa Invitational to finish fourth, will be at the Del Rio Invitational. The Lee boys, eighth at Odessa after a brilliant start, have an open-date scheduled and are expected to renew action Feb. 29-March 1 at the Sweetwater Invitational.

Both boys' teams junior varsity squads will complete a 36-hole dual match today. The Midland JV will travel to Sweetwater next week.

On the tennis scene, Midland and Lee will compete in the tough San Angelo tournament Friday and Saturday.

Midland's last outing was an easy dual meet victory over Lee while the Rebels are coming off a dual meet with Odessa High.

Nancy Lopez Melton bypasses tournament

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Nancy Lopez Melton, who won her first professional tour event two years ago, is bypassing the Ladies Professional Golfers' Association tournament that got underway today.

"One player doesn't make a tournament," said Cyndi Cook, director of the $100,000 Bent Tree Classic. "It's a shame Nancy won't be here, but more than half the events on the LPGA tour will have to do without her this year."

Melton, who won the first of her 18 LPGA titles as a rookie here in 1978, once promised she would play the event "as long as I'm able to play golf."

But her commitment to her husband, Tim Melton, has meant a cutback in her golfing career.

Leading the field for the 72-hole event is defending champion Sally Little, along with JoAnne Carner and Jane Blalock, who won the first two events on this year's tour.

Wadkins unhappy with Glen Campbell

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defending champion Lanny Wadkins, after blasting the tournament host, hoped to open a successful defense of his title in the $250,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament today.

Wadkins was unhappy because singer Campbell didn't show up as scheduled to play with his group in Wednesday's Pro-Am prelude to the 72-hole tournament.

"He didn't grace us with his presence and I feel kind of slighted," said Wadkins who won the Los Angeles event with a 276 last year.

"I feel sorry for the Junior Chamber of Commerce people because this was a slap in the face to them," Wadkins said.

Former President Gerald Ford was also supposed to play in the Wadkins group but couldn't make the trip from his home in Palm Springs because of inclement weather. This was understood by Wadkins. Andy Robertson, chairman of the LA Open last year, took Ford's spot. Nobody replaced Campbell who said:

"My alarm didn't go off this morning or it ran down. I didn't hear it. I looked at it and it was 'on.' I owe Lanny an apology. I regret it."

Rain, forecast much of this weekend, forced an end to the Pro-Amateur at mid-afternoon. Campbell had joined a group playing with Jack Nicklaus, a fact that Wadkins brought up in his denunciation.

"I came out and was going to join Jack on the backline," Campbell said. "Somebody didn't show up and I got in on Jack's group at the start."

Wadkins' group started at 8:30 a.m. as a courtesy for former President Ford who had an evening engagement in Phoenix. The Nicklaus group didn't tee off until 11:36.

Play in the 72-hole Los Angeles Open is over the 7,029-yard Riviera Country Club, a demanding championship course with par 35-36-72.

Wadkins said the course remained in good shape despite a week of rain but added that the rough was high and the greens were heavy because of the water.

Wadkins finished with a 71 in the Pro-Am and Campbell said Nicklaus, making only his second start of 1980, was even par through 14 holes when play was ended because of the rain.

Wadkins will be making a comeback of sorts since he has been bothered with tendinitis in his left thumb. He missed the cut at the Hawaiian Open and didn't play at Tucson.

"The thumb feel good, but I haven't had enough practice," he commented. "I was helped by the orthopedic man from the Dallas Cowboys, Dr. Pat Evans. I wore a splint for about seven days."

Calvin Peete posted the best individual score in the Pro-Am, a 69. Tommy Aaron and Rod Curl each had 70 and Alan Tapie and Wadkins were at 71. Because play was halted, each competing pro received $156.25.

Alcorn State still having tough time winning friends

AP Sports Writer

Let's see, now, Alcorn State leads the nation in scoring, scoring margin and rebound margin and has the country's top rebounder in Larry Smith. This is a basketball team that has lost but two games in the last two years.

But this is a team that is struggling...for image, that is. Though winning games, Alcorn State is having a tough time winning friends.

"It's been pretty tough getting recognized," says Davey Whitney, who coaches this high-powered, low-profile team. "All we can do is keep winning."

Which Whitney has been doing as well as anyone. This is his 11th season at Alcorn State and in that time, his teams have compiled a stately 251-71 record, including 53 victories in their last 55 games and a 24-1 mark this year.

Last season, Alcorn State went through the regular season undefeated, winning the Southwestern Athletic Conference title along the way, and lost its only game in the second round of the NIT, a close one to eventual champion, Indiana. This year, Whitney's team has only a three-point loss to Mississippi State to mar its record. And, the Braves have been winning the hard way — away from home, for the most part.

"We only have eight home games this year," Whitney emphasizes. "We couldn't meet our quota of Division I games any other way."

Alcorn State, a longtime Division II school in Lorman, Miss., made the jump to Division I status three years ago and is completing its probationary period for the NCAA this season. In enlarging their Division I schedule, the Braves have necessarily been taking their show on the road.

What kind of team does Alcorn State have this year?

"We're not exceptionally big," says Whitney. "but we're tough and wiry and go to the boards well."

The best of these board players is Smith, a bullish, 6-foot-8 forward who currently leads the country in rebounds with a 15.3 average. Smith also scores more than 20 points a game.

Smith's potent teammates include Clinton Wyatt at the other forward, Eddie Baker at center, E.J. Bell and Joe Jenkins at the guards and super-sub Willie Howard.

They have combined their multi-faceted talents to help Alcorn State average a nation-leading 91.1 points a game, a scoring margin of 18.3 and a rebound margin of 17.8.

"We aren't as deep as we were last season," says Whitney, who lost four players to graduation. "But we may be quicker and better rebounding."

Whitney has accomplished all this magic in the backyard of the Southeastern Conference, a tough league to recruit against.

"I don't have any special goals," says Whitney. "just to win every game."

Which he has done the past two seasons — almost.

Roth takes Start is important in tourney in bobsled action

NORTH OLMSTED, Ohio (AP) — Mark Roth, of North Arlington, N.J., came on strong in the second set of games Thursday night to take the lead after the first day of competition in a $100,000 professional bowling tournament here.

Roth averaged 229 in the second six-game block for a two-round total of 2,875 and a 43-pin edge over Tim Miller of Dallas, who was helped by a near-perfect 299 game.

First-round leader Jeff Morin of Cleveland fell to third place with 2,804, followed by Butch Soper of Whittier, Calif., and Ed Wallace of Tulare, Calif., tied for fourth at 2,477.

One more round of qualifying remained Thursday before the field of 192 was to be cut to the top 24 scorers for 24 games of match play. The top five bowlers in that phase will advance to Saturday's nationally televised (ABC) finals to roll for the $15,000 first prize.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The Olympic bobsled course on Mt. Van Hoevenberg is 1,557 meters long, but Coach Gary Sheffield is convinced that Olympic medals will be won in the first 50 meters.

"The start is a gift. They can't take it away from you. If you have a good start you can falter a little in the upper portion of the run and get away with it," says Sheffield.

Driver Bob Hickey agrees. "It helps so much to get a good start. You can relax and take it easy. If you don't have a good start, you won't be there at the end anyway."

Unfortunately, the Americans have been having problems getting off to a fast start during this week's practice runs down the Adirondack mountain.

Hickey's sledmates were selected mainly for the speed and strength in the start. Hickey has Jeff Gadley, a decathlon champion, Willie Davenport, a former Olympic hurdling champion, and Jeff Jordan.

But even with all that strength and power pushing his sled off the starting line, Hickey's sled has been plagued with slow starts. On Wednesday, Jordan slipped on the ice and it took the No. 1 American sled a long five seconds to travel the first 50 meters and the sled finished the run in 1 minute, 2.03 seconds. That compares with the 1:00.89 drive by the favorite Erich Schaefer who had his Swiss sled off to a 1.84-second start.

Today is the last day the Americans have to work the kinks out of their start before the Olympic four-man bobsled races begin on Saturday. The Americans have not won a medal in bobsledding in 21 years and they have hopes of ending that drought in the XIII Winter Games.

Sheffield's attempt to improve the starts of his bobsleds has sparked a bit of controversy. He took Dick LaVigne out and inserted Joe Tyler in the No. 2 American sled driven by Howard Siler and that sled has improved its starting times to the point where it was beating the No. 1 sled out of the first 50 meters.

Sheffield wanted to try juggling the lineup in the No. 1 sled by taking the inexperienced Davenport and Jordan out of the sled, but Hickey said he wanted his sled intact.

After the start it is the driver's skill that gets the sled across the finish line, and even when Jordan slipped, Hickey's sled had faster times than the No. 2 sled. America's best hopes for a medal appear to be with the sled driven by Hickey, although Siler was only 75-hundredths of a second away from a bronze medal in the two-man bobsled races.

Sheffield remained convinced that the American sleds would challenge for a medal Sunday, even though his sleds were a full second slower than most of the Europeans in Wednesday's practice runs.

KENNY REDIN'S
Fin & Feather

The hottest thing going near the Midland region in the way of fishing these days is some striper action on Robert Lee's E.V. Spence Reservoir.

Those cold, cloudy days when only the most avid fisherman would attend a fishing trip in West Texas in February are the ones catching strippers and sandies.

In recent days, a lot of anglers have reported encountering excellent striper and white bass fishing action on Spence.

JUST THIS past week, several West Texas anglers visited Spence for about five hours of fishing. In that time, they caught a limit of strippers up to 11-pounds, and 40 white bass to three-pounds. Reports of this nature have been coming into my desk quite frequently lately.

The cold, windy, overcast weather doesn't seem to bother strippers or white bass feeding spees. As a matter of fact, with Spence being so clear in these late winter months, the overcast days are perfect for finding schooling strippers on top of the water's surface. Reason being is huge schools of shad will congregate at or near the water surface for feeding purposes. In turn, that generates a lot of enthusiasm into the striper and white bass schools. They must feel they can get many mouthfuls of tasty shad as the tiny baitfish schools near the surface. Clear, sunny days, the shad will stay in deeper water and not be in larger schools.

THOSE WHO'VE been posting good results on recent fishing trips have been applying a variety of methods of catching strippers and sandies.

Fishing for large strippers, anglers have been doing the best by trolling magnum-sized hellbenders. Another good method to catch the larger strippers has been used by live-bait fishermen, using either goldfish or live bream for bait. This is a relatively complicated method, but it does pay off at times.

Take a No. 1 or 2 size live bait hook. Both Mustad and Eagle Claw brand hooks are good for live bait. Tie the hook directly to the end of some stout 17 or 20-pound test line, monofilament preferred. About 12-14-inches above the hook, place a rubber core sinker on the line. Depending on how deep you are fishing will determine the size of the weight you might need. Anything from 1/2-3/4-ounce sinkers will do the trick.

Watching your graph recorder or depth sounder, or watching diving gulls, is good insurance for finding fish. After finding a good location, drift in the immediate area of spotted fish. Place the live goldfish or bream on the hook by inserting the hook's point just under the dorsal fin.

LET THE bait down into the water gently. Don't cast live bait long distances. Let the bait and weight down to the depth you might think you've got the fish located.

Strippers take live bait a lot different than they do artificial baits. If you feel a slight tug on your line and see it moving out, immediately suspect a fish is mouthing the bait. Wait about 15 or 20-seconds, then set the hook with vigor.

Best results for catching limits of strippers have been reported by anglers who've been using the slab spoon, bounced up and down off the bottom.

The strippers and sand bass should continue to run throughout this month and March. Take a trip to Spence and catch a boatload. It can be done!

Olympic officials hoping to save Summer Olympics

By GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — President Carter's deadline has come and gone, and Olympic officials could only hope for unforeseen, unexpected developments to save the Summer Olympic games in Moscow.

"The Games will go on and I hope the majority of National Olympic Committees will be with us," said Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC). But he acknowledged the absence of the United States would be a severe blow.

"It will be a very sad thing for the Olympic movement if the United States is not there," he said.

Carter's spokesmen say that because Soviet troops are still occupying Afghanistan the Americans team will not compete in Moscow.

Apparently, only a dramatic change in the world situation could send American athletes to Moscow, and it would need to happen quickly. The U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) has seven weeks until April 11, when its House of Delegates meets at Colorado Springs to decide on whether to go along with Carter, and three months until May 24, when entries have to be sent in for the Games.

After White House officials announced the United States would not send a team to Moscow, Robert Kane, president of the USOC, issued a statement Wednesday night hinting that a decision might still not be made at the April meeting.

The statement said: "The House of delegates meets in Colorado Springs, Colo., April 11-13, at which time the question of accepting or rejecting the invitation will be addressed. According to the rules of the IOC, the USOC has until May 24 to indicate whether or not a team from the United States will participate and what the makeup of the team will be.

"Regardless of the outcome of these deliberations, a United States Olympic team will be selected to recognize the athletes who have been training as Olympians."

A USOC spokesman said its position was unchanged, but it was conceivable that the House of Delegates will vote to put off a decision to May 24.

The USOC said nothing to contradict a pledge that Kane has made from the start of the crisis — that the committee will follow President Carter's advice on what is best for the country.

If the United States does not go to Moscow, moves are expected to stage alternative games — either an International Free World Games, as suggested by Carter, or a U.S. national games.

Kane has said he would not favor the USOC having anything to do with international games held in direct competition with the Olympics. That plan could run into difficulties with the 26 Olympic sports federations which have to sanction international competitions. They regard the Olympics as their most important event.

The executive board of the IOC is due to meet with the federations at Lausanne, Switzerland, in late April.

The USOC would be entitled to hold a national sports festival without seeking permission from any authority.

The Carter administration claims 50 governments around the world are ready to follow the United States and boycott Moscow. But only National Olympic Committees which have thus far said they will stay away from the Games are those of Mainland China, Malaysia and Kenya.

Even the evidence on governments' intentions was contradictory.

In Lake Placid, where the XIII Winter Games are in progress, Willi Daume, IOC member in West Germany, said his National Olympic Committee agrees with the West German government that a boycott would be the wrong course.

But in Bonn Hans-Dietrich Genscher, West German Foreign Minister, said it would be unthinkable for a West German team to participate in Moscow if the United States was not there.

IOC sources claimed most of the 140 National Olympic Committees are still loyal to the Olympics and are expected to compete. They have doubts about the Moslem countries.

Most of the 73 members who took part in the IOC meeting in Lake Placid last week, when the decision was made to go ahead with the Games in Moscow, have gone home. They are hand picked by the IOC to be its ambassadors in their countries, and many have been in contact with their governments by telephone from Lake Placid.

Killanin said: "I have asked them all to keep in touch with me and report on the position of their governments."

The first U.S. government announcement that an American team would not be sent to Moscow was made in Bonn by Hodding Carter, a State Department spokesman. It was then repeated in Washington, where Lloyd Cutler, White House counsel, said the United States will boycott and the government expects the USOC to go along with that decision.

"The 1980 Games will go on with or without the United States," continued the ex-high jumper. "If (the United States government's position) is disgusting, Marsh, a world-class steeplechaser, said he agreed with President Carter's position.

"I believe the top priority is world peace and that takes precedence over the Olympics and the training that the athletes are doing," he said.

He emphasized, however, that the United States should not use the word boycott, because such an action would take the nation out of the Olympic Movement. "If we simply don't enter a team (by the May 24 deadline), then we can remain in the Movement," said Marsh.

Al Oerter suggests one-year delay

By The Associated Press

Al Oerter suggested a one-year delay in the Summer Olympic Games. John Thomas called the United States' threat not to participate in the Games "disgusting." Henry Marsh said the "top priority is world peace.

Linda Cornelius Weltman said her five years of training for the Moscow Games ended Wednesday. And Roger Council said American athletes would regard competition anywhere except the Olympics this summer as "lackluster."

All were reacting to a White House call for the United States to boycott the Games because the Soviet Union failed to meet President Carter's deadline for withdrawing its troops from Afghanistan.

"Obviously, I've been a supporter of a boycott all along," said the 43-year-old Oerter, the Olympic discus gold medalist in 1956, 1960, 1964 and 1968 and a serious candidate to make the American team this year.

"The hope now is that we look for alternatives," he continued. "One thing would be a one-year delay in the Games. It seems to be within the statement of the President. I don't think many people would be upset about it. It seems to be a viable situation."

"I think we should go to Moscow... but next year," Oerter said. "Realistically, I don't believe the International Olympic Committee will change the date or the place of the Games."

"I think the Games will take place in Moscow this year. Perhaps the only way to change the IOC's mind would be if 70 or 80 countries said they were not going."

"I think the athletes will have to content themselves with international competitions spread over the globe for their sports."

Thomas, the former world record holder in the high jump, the first to clear 7-foot indoors and the winner of Olympic silver and bronze medals, said a boycott would be "meaningless."

Davis Cup opening on Friday

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States and Mexican Davis Cup tennis teams confronted each other today at a table for the draw that most experts agree won't determine the outcome of their zone final, but could determine which matches will be crucial.

Mexico's only hope of prolonging the best-of-five series beyond Saturday's doubles between John McEnroe-Peter Fleming and Raul Ramirez-Marcelo Lara appears to be in Friday's first day match between its star Ramirez and U.S. singles player Vitas Gerulaitis.

Ramirez has beaten the New York tennis whiz several times in international competition.

But McEnroe has yet to be beaten in ten Davis Cup matches and if he is matched Friday against Ramirez, Mexico's chances of making a contest of the North American final seem pretty slim. Lara is not a world-ranked player and Gerulaitis should not have too much trouble with him.

A McEnroe vs Ramirez and Gerulaitis vs Lara situation Friday would probably mean a 2-0 U.S. lead going into Saturday's doubles match, which would then be the clincher.

The doubles team of McEnroe and Fleming is the No. 1 ranked pair in the world, and would be strongly favored over the Mexico duo of Ramirez and Lara.

Though none of the U.S. players seem too upset about Mexico City's 7,300-foot altitude, that still will be an unknown factor in the three day series. The thin, highly-polluted air can tire even well-trained athletes.

A tennis ball has a tendency to be a little bit more lively in the thin air even though a heavier ball is to be used.

Another factor will be the clay courts used for the tournament. They are in the Chapultepec Tennis Club and are extremely well-cared for.

The U.S. team, captained by Tony Trabert, has been in Mexico City since Monday practicing on the courts and trying to get used to the high altitude.

Astros, Mets trade promising prospects

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets traded minor league outfielder Keith Bodie to the Houston Astros for catcher-first baseman Reggie Baldwin, the National League club announced Wednesday.

Badlwin, 25, appeared in 14 games for the Astros last year, batting .200 with one run batted in. At Charleston, he batted .272 with five homers and 33 RBI. He was assigned to the Mets' International League farm team at Tidewater, Va.

Bodie, a 24-year old native of Brooklyn, N.Y., batted .260 last year with five home runs and 37 RBI for the Mets' Jackson (Tex.) Class AA

Gowdy loves Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Gowdy has done everything a sportscaster could ask for in his career. Super Bowls, World Series, NCAA basketball championships. And Olympics.

The Lake Placid Games are Gowdy's fifth in a row. Even though he works for NBC, not ABC, Gowdy is handling the luge and bobsled competitions at the XIII Winter Olympics due to a special clause in his contract that frees him for such assignments. The fifth time around for Gowdy is just as thrilling as the first.

"Anyone who says he wouldn't want to do an Olympics has something wrong with him," says Gowdy, perhaps the best known play-by-play sportscaster in the business. "It's a happening. It has all that special buildup to it and is something very special."

It's been special for Gowdy since 1964 in Innsbruck, his first Olympics.

"In 1964, things sure were different," says Gowdy. "There were three announcers at Innsbruck — Jim McKay, Jim Simpson and myself. We ran around like mad. Sometimes I did three sports in one day: hockey, speed skating and skiing.

There was no host; just the three of us at the events keeping track of it all.

"Of course, we weren't on the air as many hours, the equipment was crude, we couldn't get any background or research material from foreign countries. And the events were shown the next day in the U.S."

"Still, the coverage won all kinds of awards."

The coverage from Grenoble, France in 1968 "was a real miracle," Gowdy notes. "The equipment was top grade, a broadcast center was set up and each night at 10 p.m. we gathered there to beam the program up to the satellite. It's amazing to see how its grown and the technology has been advanced."

The Sapporo Games were Gowdy's least favorite, only because "I never saw them. I spent all my time in the studio as host. I could have been in downtown Cheyenne, Wyo., or Boston."

"By then, we had the 24-hour satellite and our people were really taken by the Japanese technology. You should have seen them rushing around, buying up all the Japanese equipment they could get their hands on. 'Made in Japan' items became a passion."

The XII Winter Games at Innsbruck "were the big upset," says Gowdy. "For the first time, Olympic coverage vaulted up in the ratings. It gave ABC a tremendous push."

"Viewers got to see some wonderful winter shots and were taken by the beauty of Innsbruck and the Games."

The main attraction of the Games to Gowdy is the unique competition.

"There is something special about country vs. country, plus you know you're seeing the best athletes in the world," he says.

An added thrill for the veteran announcer is working with his son, Curt, Junior, who is producing the luge telecasts at Lake Placid.

Another of ABC's Olympic veterans is Chris Schenkel. Except for a bout with the flu that sidelined him earlier this week, Schenkel has been announcing the ski jumping.

"I have to do a lot more educating on it," admits Schenkel, who also worked the 1960 Games at Squaw Valley, Calif., and the '68 and '76 Olympics. "You have to go into details more often, give features of the sport, the hill, the distances and speed involved, the aerodynamics of lifting off the jump.

"Still, we talk a little less than on other events because the picture captures so much. With the videotape replay we can do profile shots, stop motion to show how high and far they go and why."

"But you have to remember we're talking about maybe eight seconds per jump and it's hard to get across in just eight seconds the coordination and timing involved."

In 1960 at Squaw Valley, Schenkel covered alpine skiing and the jumping. At Grenoble in 1968, Schenkel served as anchorman and handled the figure skating and ski jumping. He did the figures at Innsbruck.

Sports in brief
U.S. GOVERNMENT spokesmen said in Lake Placid, N.Y., Wednesday the United States boycott of the Moscow Olympics is now officially on. But Olympic officials still hedged.

RINGING THE BELL

Black experience on visit to Haiti

With BOB TIEUEL

Dear Bob:
Joe Walker, who is chairman of arts, business and humanities at New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs, recently visited Hispanola, an island in Haiti, as a part of the 17-member group representing Methodist churches in New Mexico, Texas and Colorado.

He described Haiti as "one of the poorest countries in the world," where Christianity taught by the many religious groups which maintain schools there is mixed with "an age-old practice of voodoo."

According to Walker, the average income of the Haitian is $400 a year, and usually a family has only one meal a day except for possibly a little coffee and a scrap of bread in the morning.

Meals are served to the children in the church schools, and Haitian "cafeterias" are open-air affairs with a big pot of whatever is available (it was beans and rice that day) cooked over a charcoal fire similar to a campfire. The group was accompanied by a medical doctor and three nurses.

Walker said there was no water inside the homes of the poor and thus no plumbing, and there is no electricity. He said 10 percent of the population is wealthy, the rest poverty stricken. School water supplies come from wells fitted with hand pumps.

There is no spare food for pets. Walker said the party saw no birds, which he speculated were killed and eaten as soon as they reach sufficient size. He believes the plight of the people would be even more desperate if many kinds of fruit and coconuts did not grow wild in the lush and beautiful vegetation which covers the land.

Walker said the Haitians are black and speak a mixture of French, English and Spanish, mostly French, which he described as a "melodic language."

Some Americans, Walker said, live in Haiti, mostly retirees who have been attracted by the low cost of living there. The group was impressed by the magnificent scenery but repelled by the unsavory conditions under which the poor must live. — Kathryn Morris, a bellringer.

LEST WE FORGET, the reigning Miss World is Gina Swanson from the black island of Bermuda. She is a statuesque young vine expert, 21 years old, and was crowned last November over a field of 70 international beauties. She has brown eyes, dark hair and measurements of 36-24-38. She once attended the University of Wisconsin. And believe it or not, third runnerup was another black island representative, Carolyn Bobbie Campbell, an 18-year-old student from Jamaica. As Miss World, Gina received $10,000 in prize money and a guaranteed work contract for one year amounting to some $35,000.

WILLIAM P. CLEMENTS Jr., the first Republican governor in 105 years, is getting high marks from concerned Texans for his equal employment opportunity practices in appointing black Texans to high positions in his administration. In a little more than six months, it is reported that Clements has appointed 30 blacks to positions, with a net gain of 24 new appointments.

Ray Zauber, fearless and independent editor of the Oak Cliff Tribune, recently wrote: "Instead of holding the line on prices, operating conservatively and seeking modest increases in earnings, some of the oil moguls have gone absolutely wild.... What could happen is the nationalization of the oil and gas industry and even other energy-related businesses."

Zauber is a dedicated disciple of the free enterprise system, and when he writes like this, perhaps somebody should take another look at our failings.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Don't Be Too Plain

By Alfred Sheinwold

"I'm a plain man," South insists. (Nobody ever says she's a plain woman.) "If I need a trump finesse, I lead a trump." Don't be too plain.

South ruffs the second diamond and leads the ace of hearts. West discards a diamond, and South must think.

If South leads a club to the king and returns a trump he can finesse with the ten and draw trumps. But dummy is then out of trumps, and South surely loses at least one trick.

CASH SPADES

South must cash the ace and queen of spades before leading a club to dummy. Then he leads dummy's king of spades.

If East doesn't ruff declarer continues spades and discards clubs. He can then lead a trump for the finesse.

If East ruffs a spade, South overruffs. This is not plain, but it is a finesse, and South draws East's trumps. The difference is that one trump is still left in dummy. South cashes the ace of clubs and ruffs a club, and dummy wins the rest.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer you hold: ♠ K J 7 6 4 ♥ 8 6 4 2 ♦ K 3 ♣ K 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. You have 10 points in high cards and two points for the doubletons, enough for an optional opening bid. You decide not to bid because your spot-cards are worthless. If you had tens and nines in your long suits you would open the bidding with one spade.

Teenagers gather evidence in 'Beerscam' investigation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Abscam and Briab, the FBI's investigations of official corruption, haven't touched West Virginia. But Beerscam — a "half-pint sting" by teen-agers — is growing.

Seven underage students on a high school newspaper purchased beer Saturday at 15 stores in the Charleston area and reported that not one turned them away. And earlier, a 16-year-old made purchases at 26 of 30 stores, including five state-operated liquor stores.

Shocked at how easy it was to buy beer, the students are taking their evidence, including pictures by an undercover photographer, to the police and state officials. In the wake of the so-called Beerscam disclosures, the state senate president says the drinking age should be raised from 18 to 20.

In the first sting, Huntington police chief Ottie Adkins used a 16-year-old to see how easy it would be for someone underage to purchase beer or liquor. The operation resulted in misdemeanor warrants against 26 persons, he said.

In the second sting, the high school reporters fanned out to test 15 stores' adherence to the law.

"From conversations I had with some other students, I expected it would be fairly easy to buy beer," said Alan Browning, editor of the X-Ray newspaper at South Charleston High School.

But he didn't know how easy. "I was shocked when all 15 would do it," Browning, a 17-year-old senior who thought up the scam, now wants some action. "If some student gets hurt as a result of getting beer, the responsibility to a large extent rests with the storekeeper," he said.

Browning said Freeda Bailey, deputy commissioner of the Beer Commission, is meeting with him Friday to review the findings of the investigative reporting team.

The owners of stores that sold beer to the teens could lose their licenses, Ms. Bailey said Wednesday.

"If I can get the names of the stores and I can get concrete proof, then they will be called in for a hearing," she said. Underage beer sales are "everywhere around here," said South Charleston Police Chief Roger Crawford. "And I think it's a good sign that at least some kids are concerned about it."

"The answer to the problem is to raise the drinking age to 20," said state Senate President William Brotherton. Last Thursday, he said state liquor commissioner Norwood Bentley, was "incompetent" and said Bentley should have fired the liquor store clerks who sold alcohol to the 16-year-old.

Bentley said he was surprised that Brotherton had made his remarks without first telling him of his displeasure.

Unexpected raise

HOUSTON (AP) — Police got an unexpected raise during a city council meeting, but officers probably aren't rushing right out to spend the money.

Francis Jones, a former Houston resident who now lives in Harris County, handed city council members $8 — one for each of her children and grandchildren — and said she wanted to improve police salaries.

She made the donation, she said, because the officer who ticketed her 19-year-old son last week for his car's defective headlight "was just as kind as he could be."

She said she wanted other grandmothers and mothers to follow suit and asked the council to annex the area where she now lives.

"I would love to pay city taxes," said Mrs. Jones, who lived in Houston for 20 years. "I always knew my city taxes were the best bargain I ever had."

Connecticut lawmaker censured for remarks

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — State Rep. Russell Reynolds went before the House of Representatives to ask forgiveness for a racial slur and became the first lawmaker in Connecticut history to be formally censured by his colleagues.

On a vote of 87-50 Wednesday, the House condemned Reynolds' response to a questionnaire in which he said "put the niggers back to work."

And while angry lawmakers withdrew a motion to have the former Roman Catholic priest expelled for the rest of the session, a mayor in Reynolds' district said he would seek the legislator's resignation.

"I offer my apology and regret to all the groups that I have offended," Reynolds told the body Wednesday. "No one has the right to expect to be forgiven, but as a man I must ask."

The West Haven Democrat also quoted from Saint Paul: "For even though the desire to do good is in me, I am not able to do it. I don't do the good I want to do; instead, I do the evil that I do not want to do."

"I cannot forgive or forget his racist slur," said Rep. Maurice Mosley, D-Waterbury, chairman of the legislative black caucus. But the caucus' expulsion resolution was withdrawn because caucus members conceded, there were not enough votes to pass it.

Several of the five black House members backed expulsion while others balked at the censure move, questioning whether the House had the power to punish a member for remarks made off the floor.

"Representative Reynolds is not worthy of protracted debate on the floor," said Mosley. "Representative Reynolds is only a microcosm of the real problem. The real problem is the atmosphere in the Hall of the House, the state and the nation — an atmosphere that allows racial slurs to flourish."

Once the expulsion motion was withdrawn, the censure motion offered by Majority Leader John Gropo became embroiled in a lengthy debate. Several lawmakers questioned whether Reynolds had been given due process or whether the House had the authority to censure him.

"I don't believe the House can go into the business of policing every remark made by every member off the floor of the House," said Rep. Andrew Glickson, D-Norwalk.

"Free speech doesn't permit anyone in an official position to open the floodgates of racial hatred," argued Rep. Rosalind Berman, R-New Haven.

Reynolds had no comment after the vote.

Bomb scare used in bank extortion

FRANKSTON, Texas (AP) — East Texas authorities have begun the tedious task of finding an anonymous caller who used a bomb threat to try to extort $40,000 from the First State Bank of Frankston.

But V.E. Humphrey of the Anderson County Sheriff's Department says, "We've got nothing. No clues, no suspects, just a telephone call."

"It sounds like a real amateur. But you can say one thing, it sure set the town humming," said Humphrey.

The extortion attempt failed when two men from Ft. Hood's bomb squad dragged a bag containing six highway flares, a flashlight battery and a switch from the building, Humphrey said.

The ordeal in this tiny East Texas community began shortly before noon Wednesday when the caller said he wanted $40,000 delivered to a roadside park west of town, or he would set off a bomb hidden in a bank restroom.

Police, sheriff's deputies, FBI agents and Texas Rangers searched the men's room, found the parcel and evacuated the building.

"It looked like two sticks of dynamite with a timing device attached," said police chief Hubert Johnson.

Anti-nuke protestors arrested

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Nineteen anti-nuclear protesters, including anti-Vietnam War activists Daniel Ellsberg and Daniel Berrigan, were arrested early today for refusing to leave the University of California president's office, campus police said.

All were cited and released on their own recognizance at the university's administration building between midnight and 1 a.m., a police spokeswoman said.

The protesters, members of the Graduate Theological Union, began the sit-in in Dr. David Saxon's office Wednesday afternoon to protest the school's ties with the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

Petroleum financing can be a waiting game. Your banker plays for time until he gets your property evaluation, and his staff's analysis. That's expensive. Also, time-consuming.

At The Midland National Bank, we'll show you how to get the jump on your competition. We know that financial timing is critical. So our petroleum bankers are also professional petroleum engineers who personally analyze your collateral.

We'll use our in-house computer and the latest petroleum evaluation techniques to determine your recoverable hydrocarbons, projected cash flow and the loan value of your properties. Ms. Reagan, J. Niland to host arthritis special Maureen Reagan, daughter of actress Jane Wyman and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, will co-host the 1980 Arthritis television special Sunday with John Niland, former all-pro offensive lineman for the Dallas Cowboys.

The six-hour special will begin at noon Sunday on KMGD-TV, Channel 2. Contributions received from the Permian Basin area will support the Arthritis Foundation West Texas-Chapter programs of research, patient service, public health information and education and professional education and training, organizers said.

Ms. Reagan and Niland will conduct a number of interviews with physicians who specialize in rheumatology and orthopedic surgery. Interviews also will be conducted with professionals in other medical and therapy disciplines involved in the care and treatment of people having arthritis.

Arthritis is often called "everybody's disease," foundation spokesmen said. There are more than 100 identifiable types of arthritis which can affect persons of all ages.

The physicians being interviewed during the Sunday special will provide information on the current techniques in diagnosis, treatment and surgery of arthritis.

Ms. Reagan, an actress and singer, has been involved in Republican party activities and is editor of Showcase U.S.A., a publication designed to sell American business and industry to the world market.

Niland, a No. 1 draft pick for the Cowboys in 1966, was named all-pro for five consecutive years from 1969 to 1973.

BBCO, SRSU music department to present 'Once Upon A Time'

ALPINE — The Big Bend Chamber Orchestra and the Department of Music at Sul Ross State University will present a children's concert, entitled "Once Upon A Time," at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Alpine Junior High School Auditorium.

Designed for the entire family, the program features three musical pieces and should "awaken pleasant childhood memories and stimulate the imagination," according to orchestra director Dr. T. Rex Wilson.

The program begins with Miklos Rozsas' "The Jungle Book," a suite based on Rudyard Kipling's popular tale of the Indian jungle. Mrs. Audrey Painter narrates Mowgli's experiences in the jungle, including his confrontations with Shere Kahn, the tiger. "The entire story is vividly portrayed through Mrs. Painter's narration and the descriptive and colorful orchestration," Wilson said.

The orchestra will also perform Bernard Roger's "Five Fairy Tales." The tales include "The Tinder Box Soldier," "The Song of Rapunzel," "The Story of the Darning Needle," "The Dance of the Twelve Princesses," and "The Ride of Koschei the Deathless." The pieces are not narrated.

Four sections from Sergei Prokofiev's "Summer Day Suite for Children" will complete the program. The program is free of charge and everyone is invited to attend.

'Changes' doesn't equal 'Umbrellas of Cherbourg'

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — I, pardon the personal reference, am always game for a good jazz musical, and had high hopes for a new one called "Changes." Alas, the hopes have expired. The show isn't very good.

It's about two modern couples, one white (Larry Kert and Kelly Bishop), the other black (Irving Allen Lee and Trina Parks), and how each couple's relationship changes in a year's time.

The entire story is sung, as was done last year in a nifty sort-of-jazz musical here, the Public Theater version of Michel Legrand's "Umbrellas of Cherbourg."

But "Changes," bowing Tuesday off-Broadway, lacks certain things that made "Umbrellas" shine — such as a solid book, brilliant songs, ear-catching orchestrations and deft direction.

The new entry, conceived and directed by Dorothy Love, offers little excitement. Even its small-combo jazz arrangements are ho-hum. They sound like station-break music on Art Linkletter's old "House Party."

"Changes," which runs without intermission, opens on New Year's Eve at a night club. There, Lee and Miss Parks, cast as unwed lovebirds who live together, play matchmaker for two unmarried friends.

One is Kert, essaying an awkward, ill-at-ease divorcee victim. The other is Miss Bishop, who plays a bored sophisticate. Naturally and unaccountably, they fall in love and stay in love.

Naturally and predictably, Lee and Miss Parks, as the year wears on, squabble and part, leaving only Couple No. 2 present to celebrate the next New Year's Eve blast at the same club.

This, neighbors, is the plot, save for in-between frills and hoofing that add little in the way of character and story development.

Now there are rare times when heroic efforts in song, orchestration, dance and even performance can redeem a tiny book. Sad to say, not much of that kind of redemption lurks in this production.

Ronn Forella's modern dance routines are stock, ditto Larry Fallon's jazz arrangements, which are played by a five-member on-stage band (piano, bass, drums, vibes and tenor sax) that rarely rests.

As for the show's 19 or so tunes (music by Addy Fieger, lyrics by Danny Apollinar), they tend to be minor-key items that, to put it as kindly as possible, sound alike.

There are exceptions, including "The Ideal Deal," a pop number in which Kert, a fine singer first heard in the original "West Side Story," loses some excellent scat-singing in a duet with Lee.

A ballad, "Merry Christmas To Me," also is nice, although Lee's version of it is a bit lugubrious. And there's a fair ensemble effort on another pleasant ballad, "All of a Sudden It's Spring."

But that just about sums up the good in the show. The rest is mundane, a pity considering all the work the players put in to master a difficult but going-nowhere score.

They try hard, but "Changes" has a terminal case of the feebles.

What other critics said: John Corry, New York Times — "The underlying concept of "Changes" seems to have been neatness, balance, no loose ends and everything in place.

Freed writer gets 10 years for new slogans

PEKING (AP) — A man who recently finished a 10-year prison term for writing "counter-revolutionary" slogans has been sentenced to another 10 years for committing the same offense again, a Chinese newspaper reports.

The Hainan Daily of Hainan island in the South China Sea said the man was sentenced recently at a rally attended by more than 3,000 persons. It did not specify what the slogans said.

The paper said the man once had been sentenced to labor reform for robbery and after being released, "not only did not repent, but slipped off to Guangxi and other places and wrote counterrevolutionary pamphlets."

Museum of Southwest to conduct self-expression, senses-use tours

In a program designed by the Museum of the Southwest, Midland High School English students will participate in doctented tours to better understand self expression and the use of the senses.

During this week, 240 students will take part in activities in the galleries of the museum designed to show how artists arouse the senses and how they achieve the effect of warmth, how they tell stories, how they get the viewer to ask questions and how they tell about a personality.

The artists' works used in this program from the Amodio Collection of European paintings date from the 1400's to the 1800's. Students will compare how they must learn to "read" a painting to understand it, just as they must learn to read to understand a short story.

The doctents who will be leading these classes in their activities are volunteers from the Las Manos organization. They have participated in training sessions which concentrated on the historical aspect of paintings, the elements of design, the backgrounds of each painting, the artist and the subject.

Other groups interested in doctented tours should contact Denise Eischberger, 683-2882.

Reports indicate bad news for petroleum independence

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is bad news on several fronts for the U.S. goal of increased domestic petroleum production and lessened dependence on foreign suppliers.

Reports indicate U.S. dependence on Persian Gulf oil is growing as domestic production slows down. And as Canada continues to raise the price of U.S.-bound natural gas, federal officials report cost problems will delay completion of the natural gas pipeline from Alaska's Prudhoe Bay oil fields for a year.

Deputy Energy Secretary John C. Sawhill told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday that U.S. dependence on oil imports from Persian Gulf countries may increase from 31 percent of total imports in 1979 to 34 percent by 1985.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the panel's chairman, called Sawhill's testimony "a shocking statement." Sawhill, testifying as the committee began hearings to assess U.S. foreign policy and national security interests, said U.S. production is expected to decline or "at best remain fairly stable" through 1985.

Meanwhile, the Energy Department approved Wednesday the temporary payment of a 30 percent price increase for natural gas already being imported from Canada.

However, it barred new gas imports at the higher price.

The department said the price increase was unreasonable but must be paid to prevent disruption of the supplies. It said it would review the situation and decide whether to extend the authorization beyond the May 15 expiration date.

The decision by Douglas G. Robinson, deputy administrator of the department's Economic Regulatory Administration, noted that Canada's export price for natural gas, set by its National Energy Board, increased from $1 per million Btu (heat units) in November 1974 to $3.45 per million Btu in November 1979.

Canada then raised the price to $4.47, effective this Feb. 17.

Robinson said the amount of gas involved totals some 2.4 billion cubic feet a day, about 5 percent of the nation's total gas supply.

And in a gloomy report from the domestic front, federal inspector John T. Rhett Jr. of the Alaska Natural Gas Transportation System says problems in finding private financing will hold up construction of the $23 billion Alaska natural gas pipeline for a year.

Rhett said investors may ask Congress soon to lift legal prohibitions on government aid for the project.

Rhett told a House Appropriations subcommittee it now appears the schedule for completion "will slip by approximately one year, from November 1984 to November 1985."

When completed, the 4,800-mile pipeline from Alaska through Canada to the United States is expected to provide 5 percent of U.S. natural gas needs for 25 years, replacing the equivalent of 400,000 barrels of imported oil each day.

Casing set in Tom Green

Operators are waiting on cement after setting 5.5-inch casing in American Trading and Production Corp. and Tipperary Corp., both of Midland, No. 1 Rust Estate, indicated multiphase discovery 13 miles north of San Angelo in Tom Green County.

The project is bottomed at 7,090 feet in the Ellenburger, and the casing is cemented at 6,447 feet, the plugged back total depth.

The wildcat has been drilled stem tested in the Canyon, Strawn and Ellenburger.

A one-hour test from 5,832 to 5,852 feet recovered 930 feet of oil-cut mud, 540 feet of free 42-gravity oil and no water. Flowing pressure ranged from 632 to 810 pounds and final shut-in pressure was 2,146 pounds.

A second one-hour drillstem test in the Canyon, from 5,852 to 5,872 feet recovered 4,648 feet of salt water.

The upper Strawn was drillstem tested from 6,400 to 6,420 feet. The tool was open one hour, and gas surfaced in three minutes at an unreported rate. Recovery was 1,020 feet of oil-cut mud and 830 feet of salt water. Flowing pressure ranged from 1,322 to 2,225 pounds, and final shut-in pressure was 2,366 pounds.

A one-hour drillstem test from 6,727 to 6,747 feet in the Ellenburger surfaced gas in five minutes at an unreported rate. Recovery was 3,712 feet of 46-gravity oil at 68 degrees, and 1,117 feet of salt water. Flowing pressure ranged from 1,122 to 1,481 pounds, and final shut-in pressure was 2,353 pounds.

A second drillstem test was taken in the Ellenburger, also open one hour, and recovery was 5,570 feet of gas in drillpipe and 1,665 feet of gas-cut salty, sulphur water.

The project is 2,648 feet from north and 2,382 feet from west lines of San Saba County School Land survey No. 963. It is five miles southeast of the Higgins Ranch (Canyon oil) pool of Coke County.

The formation tops have not been released by the operator.

American Trading and Production and Tipperary have built location for No. 1 Sutton-Hillyer and on last report was waiting for rig. This project is one mile north of No. 1 Rust Estate and 467 feet from south and 3,000 feet from west lines of section 9, SA&MG survey, abstract 1953. It is contracted to 6,800 feet.

Holly completes Pecos well

Holly Energy Inc. of Dallas finished the No. 1-A-13 University, replacement well for the No. 1-13 University, as the second producer in the Putman, East (Wolfcamp) field of Pecos County, eight miles northwest of Girvin.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 11 barrels of 33.1-gravity oil and 11 barrels of water, through perforations from 4,676 to 4,790 feet, which was acidized with 7,000 gallons.

Scheduled as a 6,500-foot replacement wildcat, it drilled to 5,600 feet, with 4.5-inch casing at 5,599 feet. Plugged back depth is 5,410 feet.

Location is 724 from north and 967 from east lines of section 13, block 20, University Lands survey.

More storms due as cleanup continues

By The Associated Press

As millions of dollars' worth of crops rotted in sodden fields, Southern Californians shoveled mud out of their homes and eyed the skies for signs of yet another rainstorm. The unrelenting rains have pushed Idaho and Utah reservoirs to the limit and forced schools in Arizona to close.

At least 30 persons have died in California, Utah, Arizona and Mexico since the storms began last week, and loss estimates now exceed $355 million.

A sixth Pacific weather front in eight days slammed into water-logged Southern California on Wednesday, ending a few hours of sunshine with an expected 1 1/2 inches of rain before the forecast arrival of a seventh storm tonight — and perhaps more later.

"The northern Pacific Ocean remains quite chaotic with a series of storms stretching from the West Coast to Japan," said the National Weather Service. The Mission Valley area of San Diego — which includes the city's major hotels, largest shopping center and offices of two daily newspapers — was put on alert for possible evacuation early today after the San Diego River rose seven feet in four hours to six feet over normal levels.

THE WATER receded slightly and officials said they were waiting to see if there was any further rise before taking action.

In Northern California's Lassen National Park, rangers pushed through four feet of new snow in search of four missing campers. Meanwhile, one man was presumed drowned Wednesday when floodwaters swept him off his horse as he tried to rescue cattle near Patterson Calif., and the body of a surfer was recovered near Santa Cruz. The storms have pelted Southern California with more than a foot of water since Feb. 13, causing flash floods that have destroyed 110 homes and damaged another 1,350. More than 5,000 people were urged to leave their homes as mountain slopes turned into avalanches of mud.

"The sound of earth moving is a frightening sound," said Tarzana resident Yuki Morita, whose home was destroyed by a collapsing hillside. "If it had happened at night I'd be under nine feet of mud. The incredible force drove the walls straight up into the air."

Lambert appears today before Brilab grand jury

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Amid reports he has been offered immunity for his testimony, unsuccessful 1979 Louisiana gubernatorial candidate Louis Lambert is appearing today before a federal grand jury investigating political contributions in the FBI Brilab operation.

In a copyright story, the New Orleans Times-Picayune said today that Lambert had been offered immunity by U.S. Attorney John Volz's prosecution team.

The newspaper, which did not identify its sources, said Lambert's testimony was being sought to implicate Gov. Edwin Edwards in the Brilab investigation.

Edwards, who has said he met with an FBI undercover informant but took no money, could not be reached for comment.

The prosecutor was unavailable for comment, and two assistants refused to comment.

"I do not want to comment on that because of the pendency of the grand jury's investigation," said Robert N. Habans Jr., Lambert's new attorney.

Lambert, chairman of the state Public Service Commission, was told last Thursday to come back today because there were more witnesses than the panel could hear at its first meeting.

After Lambert's appearance last week, his attorney said FBI undercover informant Joseph Hauser bought $10,000 worth of tickets to a testimonial last November for Lambert.

Lawyer Camille Gravel said Hauser's $10,000 purchase was not included on campaign finance reports because Louisiana law does not require it. Gravel has since left the case.

Hauser, a twice-convicted California insurance promoter, has been identified as the Brilab contact man used by the FBI to offer money to union and public officials in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

About four miles away, Paul Kang shoveled rocks and mud out of his home and into a five-foot hole outside. And in Topanga Canyon, at the foot of the Santa Monica Mountains, voluntary evacuations began Wednesday as other residents complained of looting. Sheriff's officials denied reports of widespread theft.

DAMAGE IN six counties — Los Angeles, Orange, Ventura, Riverside, San Diego and San Bernardino — hit $267 million and Lt. Gov. Mike Curb urged President Carter to declare them a major disaster area.

Meanwhile, in normally arid Arizona, officials tallied $90 million in damages in counties hit by a record eight days of flooding. Gov. Bruce Babbitt asked business to begin staggered working hours as only two of the 10 bridges over the Salt River, which divides Phoenix, escaped the rampaging waters.

Another storm was expected to hit Arizona today and a still-stronger storm was forecast for Saturday.

Pounding surf battered homes along the California coast as a fifth storm in a week moved into the northern part of the state, packing 50 mph winds. Some 40 residents of Novato, north of San Francisco, were forced to leave their homes late Wednesday as farmers in the southern part of the state reckoned crop losses at $26 million.

In Idaho, officials in the tiny community of Malad breathed a sigh of relief as water stopped rising in a saturated earthen dam to the northwest. State Water Resources experts had said a heavy rain could push the 30-year-old structure to the breaking point.
