Swearing in set

OTTAWA (AP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau said Friday he will be sworn in as prime minister March 3, two weeks after his Liberal Party defeated Joe Clark's Progressive Conservatives in national elections.

The 60-year-old Trudeau, who regained the post he lost to Clark nine months ago, told reporters he expected to make his first appearance before the newly elected third Parliament in early April.

Robber killed

RI DEDWOOD (AP) — A bank robber was shot and killed Friday as he fled a bank with hostages after a two-hour standoff in which one bank teller was killed and another was wounded, police said.

Police Sgt. Don Kelly said the unidentified gunman, who appeared to be in his mid-30s, was hit by a shot fired by an FBI agent of another bank in a drive-by shooting with a high-powered rifle at 821-000.

Suit filed

SARASOTA (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board has filed suit in U.S. District Court here to halt a long-term boycott of the state's major oil and gas companies.

The suit was filed in compliance with a court order in a previous case and is the first time the board has taken the initiative to file a suit against an association of employers.

The suit is against the union for its refusal to handle Soviet cargo shipments to these ports as part of an ILLA boycott action of 1977, from Miami to

San Francisco, San Diego, San Juan, and

'No change' seen

EL PASO (AP) — A new law will speed a decision on whether to grant a pardon to a man who served 10 years in prison for a 1961 assassination attempt on President Dwight D. Eisenhower, but officials here see no change in the man's status.

The man, who was named for the first time that he was using an artificial kidney machine to breathe, had been in the hospital since 1971. Parham, 58, had been in the hospital since 1971. Parham, 58, had been in the hospital since 1971. Parham, 58, had been in the hospital since 1971.

Supporters sought

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rep. Ronnie Cook, D-Mo., is seeking support for a 1981 bid to become speaker of the Texas House, should Congress hold a special election to fill the seat vacated by the late Sen. Dan Claitor.

Back in the Texas House, Cook told the Governor's Finance Committee that he would like to see a special election to fill the seat vacated by the late Sen. Dan Claitor.

Cease-fire observed

SALISBURY (Rhodesia) (AP) — Guerrilla leaders have agreed to order their soldiers to stay in cease-fire camps after blacks finish voting in Rhodesia's independence elections, a British spokesman said Friday.

There has been concern about a possible breakdown in the British-sponsored truce in the seven-year war if the 27,000 guerrillas should leave the camps after the Feb. 29 parliamentary elections, but before a black majority government is installed.

Afghanistan under martial law as resistance to Soviets spreads

By The Associated Press
KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — The Soviet government has imposed martial law in Afghanistan as resistance to its occupation forces spreads. The government said Friday that it had declared martial law in the capital, Kabul, and in several other cities. It said that the situation in the countryside was becoming increasingly unstable.

Afghan diplomat resigns post

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Afghan diplomat said in a two-hour news conference here today that he had resigned his post because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan. He said he had been in Kabul for several years and had a good working relationship with the Afghan government. He said he was resigning because he could not support the Soviet occupation of his country.

U.N. commission to travel today; Role still uncertain

By The Associated Press
The five men selected to hear charges against the deposed Shah of Iran are expected to leave for Tehran today. The United Nations announced Friday that the commission would travel to Tehran to begin its work. The commission's role is still uncertain, but it is expected to investigate the charges against the Shah and his family.

San Salvador police, activists trade gunfire

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — Police traded gunfire with leftists Friday and two of the activists were killed, authorities said. The fighting broke out in the capital city, San Salvador, and spread to other parts of the country. The police and the leftists traded gunfire, and several people were killed.

Deal with Chicago's striking firefighters in works Friday

CHICAGO (AP) — A deal that would get firemen back on the job and send them back to the bargaining table was being worked out Friday night, as the city's top labor leaders tried to play peacemakers in a bitter one-day-old strike. The deal was expected to end the strike and get the firefighters back to work.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Showers are due today along the coast of the Pacific Northwest, according to the National Weather Service. Some rain may be expected in Utah and adjoining areas, rain from the Gulf into Pennsylvania and snow in the central Great Lakes area. (photo Map)

Sunnier skies, cooler temperatures forecast for Permian Basin Sunday

Today's partial cloud cover should give way to sunny skies by Sunday, but the temperature may dip a little, the weatherman said.

Partly cloudy today, becoming fair tonight through Sunday is the official forecast from the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

High today should be in the mid 60s, while Sunday's high is expected to be only in the low 60s, the weatherman predicted. Tonight's low should be in the low 40s.

DEATHS

L. Richardson

MONAHANS — Services for La Shawn Richardson, 13, of Monahans and formerly of Midland will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the First United Methodist Church of Monahans with Dr. Ed Lang, pastor, and the Rev. Bruce Coker, the girl's uncle, officiating.

Graveside services will be at 10 a.m. Monday in Evergreen Cemetery in Ranger directed by Wilson Miller Funeral Home.

Charlie Thomas

She died Thursday from injuries received when she was struck by a pickup truck at Monahans Junior High School.

She was born Aug. 26, 1966, in Odessa and had lived in Monahans most of her life. She was active in school activities at Monahans Junior High School.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richardson; her grand mother, Louise Richardson of Monahans; her grandparents, Joe B. and Naomi Hamilton of Lubbock, and a brother, Michael Richardson of the home.

William Riley

CORPUS CHRISTI — Services for William J. Riley, 68, of Corpus Christi, father of Mrs. John Greer of Midland, were Friday in Radney Funeral Chapel in Alexandria City, Ala.

He died Tuesday in a Corpus Christi hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was born in Ashland, Ala., and moved to Corpus Christi in 1942. He was an independent oil and gas producer and founded and operated the Ranquette Gas Co. and Marco Gathering System, Inc. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and the Civitan Club and was an honorary member of the Navy League.

Man charged in stabbing death

A 19-year-old Big Spring man was charged with murder Friday in connection with the death Thursday night of a Big Spring man.

Ismael Iniguez Jr. was charged with the stabbing death of Dean Moya, 19, of Big Spring.

Moya had been at a birthday party and apparently had been involved with a vehicle. The body was found about 10:30 p.m. Thursday on a road in north Big Spring.

Iniguez and a female companion were arrested in Midland early Friday after Midland police noticed a car matching the description transmitted by Big Spring officers.

Tumbleweeds toasted as neighbors battle city trash ordinance

A group of neighbors on Thornberry Street in northwest Midland took matters into their own hands Friday night.

Faced with backyards filled with tumbleweeds from the last wind storms and city regulations against stuffing city dumpsters with the windblown weeds, a "pretty big crowd" piled their troubles in the middle of the street and started a tumbleweed bonfire, a fire department spokesman said.

The initial blaze of a pile — estimated by one witness to be as tall as a house — left a foot of ashes in a 10-foot circle, according to a Midland fire department spokesman.

A second pile "about as tall as a firetruck" was set later. The incident drew a fire marshal, fire truck and a police patrolman who dispersed the crowd with no trouble, according to a Midland police spokesman.

Iranian, Arab students released from Austin jail

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Twenty Iranian and Arab defendants were released from jail Friday following published reports their dispute with the University of Texas might harm negotiations to free the American hostages in Iran.

They were released after some confusion and carried off on the shoulders of their companions, who were chanting as they went, said County Court at Law Judge Tom Wisser.

Man jailed for solicitation

ODessa — An Odessa man was in Federal Court Friday night in lieu of $100,000 bond on two counts of solicitation of capital murder.

Claude Eugene Stephens was arrested Friday after allegedly trying to arrange the murder of Jerry Davis, an investigator for Fort Bend District Attorney John Green and an oil and gas executive.

According to charges filed with Texas Justice Virgil Lumpkin, who set bond on Stephens, the man allegedly approached an undercover Department of Public Safety officer and tried to arrange the murder.

He allegedly paid the officer $1,000 to do the bargaining after agreeing to pay $5,000 for Davis' life and $5,000 for the death of Denny Simpson.

The arrest came after a two-week investigation by DPS officers and Odessa police, Lumpkin said.

Stephens allegedly wanted Simpson killed because of a disagreement the two men had, Lumpkin said. Police allege Davis was chosen as a target, Lumpkin said, because Stephens feared if Davis was arrested Fort Bend County Sheriff in the November election "Stephens' self-interest would be affected."

Police probing theft of beer

Midland police are looking for a determined beer drinker who broke into the Texas Oil Drive-In, 301 E. Louisiana Ave., sometime Thursday night by breaking through a sheet metal wall with a broom.

The thief or thieves broke a large hole in the sheet metal wall of the common restroom in the building, police reported, and ran off with a sheet of steel.

An attempt apparently was made to break in through the men's room wall, but that effort was thwarted by a water heater, the report noted.

Damage to the walls was estimated at $700.

The incident was reported to Midland police by a customer Friday.

Bush committee members named

A steering committee of Next Leaders for George H.W. Bush for President has been announced by its top official, a Dallas chairman.

Members of the committee are Lt. Adnan, Maj. Brockwell, George W. Bush, James Bush, and Jeff Applegate, Donald J. Evans, Tom Sawyer, a Dallas attorney, David A. Jones, Dallas, Robert B. Blair, Dallas, D. Kennedy.

Also on the list are James Edwards, George Stanley Moore, William H. Albright, D. Charles Crutcher, Sally Reicher, J. E. Sawyer, Oliver Walker, and Dr. Charles A. Springer.

Bush is a former Midland and Odessa resident. He served as governor of Texas from 1975 to 1979.

Anti-nuclear protesters listen to panel's pro-nuclear report

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Anti-nuclear protesters sat quietly in the Senate hallway Friday as the Advisory Committee on Nuclear Energy presented its pro-nuclear energy report to a council chaired by Gov. Bill Clements.

Clements emphasized that the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council was merely agreeing to look at the report — and was not accepting or approving it.

Earlier Friday the protesters picketed in front of the Capitol and performed anti-nuclear dances in the Capitol rotunda.

At a press conference before the ENRAC meeting, spokesmen for the protesters complained about the publicity hearings held before ACNE prepared its report.

Sammie Ritter of the Texas Mobilization for Survival said the ACNE policy recommendations "have been subject to public scrutiny only once — at a poorly advertised public hearing in September 1979."

"We, as rate and tax payers, are sick and tired of having no say in where our energy and tax dollars are spent," Ritter said.

He charged that ENRAC was "rubber stamping" the ACNE report, which favors nuclear development in the state.

A report prepared by the Coalition for a Nuclear Free Texas cited scientific information countering the ACNE report.

"It has become apparent from the making of the committee, the hearing process which the committee used to obtain citizen input, and from the report ACNE has produced, that ENRAC is not receiving a fair assessment of the nuclear energy issues facing Texas," the Coalition said.

However, Clements stressed that ENRAC would study the report before accepting it.

Summary hearing scheduled April 1

RANKIN — Judge Larry Fuller of the 143rd Judicial District in Monahans will hold a summary hearing on April 1 to consider a lawsuit filed by members of the Upton County Landowners Association who are seeking to be exempted from the Upton County Water District.

The landowners contend that they will be unduly taxed, will not be benefited from the water district and will face the threat of eminent domain taking over their water rights in supporting water field developments to benefit the 1,600 residents of McCahey and Rankin. Both towns are facing a water crisis.

The hearing was postponed after 112th District Court Judge Troy Wil-

Chanting demonstrators await the release of 22 Iranian and Arab defendants from the Tarrant County Courthouse, where they have been jailed since last week. (T. J. Larson photo)

Reagan to pick up debate tab

By MERRILL HARTSON
Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan offered Friday to foot the bill for his debate with Republican presidential rival George Bush, who quickly accepted by saying he was pushing the limit on spending in New Hampshire.

The agreement came as the pair bypassed New Hampshire temporarily in favor of Florida, where one of several key Southern primaries is slated next month.

Reagan told news reporters in Palm Beach, Fla., he was willing to pay the entire $3,500 tab for the debate, scheduled for Saturday night in Nashua, N.H.

After first saying, "I have agreed to pay my share," he was asked whether he'd pick up the entire expense if Bush balked.

"Yes," Reagan answered. Campaigning on the other side of the state in Naples, Fla., Bush said he was willing to accept Reagan's offer because "it's appropriate under the circumstances."

Asked to spell out what he meant, the onetime CIA director said his campaign is "up against the limits on finance" in New Hampshire.

Bush was then asked whether he regarded Reagan's willingness to foot the bill as an indication that the former California governor feels he's in greater need of the debate.

"Four months ago, I'm not sure Ronald Reagan knew I was in the race, but that's changed now," Bush said. "That has something to do with it."

Bush also said he thought it was generous of the Reagan campaign to pay for the event because "it helps me financially."

The question of sponsorship surfaced after the Nashua (N.H.) Telegraph abandoned on Thursday plans to pick up the costs. After that happened, the Federal Election Commission dismissed complaints that had been filed by Sens. Howard Baker and Bob Dole and Rep. John Anderson, who also are vying for the 1980 GOP presidential nomination.

The trio had argued that the newspaper's decision to provide Bush and Reagan with an exclusive forum three days before the primary amounted to an illegal political contribution by a corporation.

Reagan said he was willing to pick up the costs because the people of New Hampshire had been promised a debate and "no one could anticipate the decision" of the FEC.

While Reagan and Bush were settling on who would pay for the debate, Dole vowed he would make another effort to force his way into the forum.

The Kansas senator said in Washington that he planned to file a new complaint with the FEC.

Agency spokesman Fred Eiland said, however, no such petition had been filed by late Friday. It also was known that all but one of the six members of the FEC had left Washington for the weekend, depriving the agency of any quorum to act on such a complaint.

Elsewhere on the campaign trail: —Reagan swept to an easy victory over Bush in a non-binding straw poll conducted by Alaska Republicans.

With more than 3,000 of the state's 18,000 registered GOP members participating in the poll conducted Thursday night, Reagan collected 58 percent of the vote compared with 26 percent for Bush. Reagan picked up 1,853 ballots to 852 for Bush. Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally had 322, Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, 106, and Baker, 37.

"I'm grateful. ... I'm feeling it's a very good morning indeed," Reagan said as he arrived in Florida.

—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, campaigning in Manchester, N.H., for the Democratic presidential nomination, renewed his assault on Carter administration economic policies.

Pointing to the January Consumer Price Index, which showed prices rising by 1.4 percent, Kennedy said, "This means the president is playing a loose hand fighting the battle against inflation. He is ignoring the important warning signal of the economy."

—California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., stumping for votes in Concord, N.H., said he would borrow money if necessary to keep his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination alive. But the governor hotly denied published reports that he'd taken out a personal loan of approximately $50,000.

Singer Linda Ronstadt toured Brown's New Hampshire regional campaign headquarters, seeking to rally his campaign workers. She said she was getting actively involved in politics because "I think we might go to war."

"I feel it is important to have someone around who is saying that we can conserve gasoline instead of going to World War III," Miss Ronstadt said.

Miss America of 1975, Shirly Cothran, has a new role — that of mother to David Kyle Barret. She and husband Richard Barret welcomed the infant at a Denton, Texas, hospital on Thursday. (AP Laserphoto)

Bergland wants farm program developed before next session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told farmers Friday they should not expect to return for another working session with him until they develop a program.

"You don't produce; you just talk," Bergland said at a meeting with five members of the American Agriculture Movement.

"None of this dream-world business. Examine this thing in the cold light of day," he said during the one-hour session in his office. "The burden's on you to tell us what you want."

The farmers last week rejected Bergland's offer to address them during their third annual convention in Washington, calling instead for a working session to discuss agricultural policy.

Bergland said he was distressed by the farmers' no-show Thursday at a session the Agriculture Department set up to discuss gasoline. "We had a working session yesterday," he said. "We had experts there and y'all didn't show."

The agriculture secretary said he preferred not going through "that kind of nonsense" again.

Marvin Meek, national chairman of AAM, replied that no insult was intended.

Meek told Bergland the farmers' main goal was getting the government's loan price support program for feed grains increased.

The rate is currently set at 51 percent of parity and AAM is calling for a raise to 90 percent of parity.

The parity index is a theoretical measure of buying power based on the farm economy of 1910-1914.

"Our return from our investment is so low that you're driving us out of business," Meek said.

Offer of 'immunity' denied

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A report that Louis Lambert, loser in Louisiana's race for governor, was offered immunity to prosecution in exchange for damaging information against Gov. Edwin Edwards was denied Friday.

"The U.S. attorney has not offered Mr. Lambert immunity in return for his testimony against anyone," said Robert Habans, Lambert's lawyer.

Lambert himself has little to say when he emerged from the federal courthouse. He had been summoned to tell a grand jury about a $10,000 cash contribution he got from an FBI undercover man in a "sting" operation named Brillab.

Brillab (bribery-labor) was an FBI probe of reports of bribes or kickbacks on massive insurance policies covering state or municipal workers in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

"Habans is going to speak for me," Lambert told newsmen.

The statement read by Habans said the denial was necessary "because of erroneous reports by the news media, allegedly leaked by sources close to the federal investigation."

"Louis Lambert has done nothing improper or illegal," Habans continued. "He has violated no federal or state laws. We are confident that the federal grand jury and the federal prosecutors will reach the same conclusion, if they have not already done so."

A report that the U.S. attorney offered Lambert immunity in return for cooperating in a federal investigation of Gov. Edwards was carried in a New Orleans newspaper, The Times-Picayune.

Presumably, Lambert, chairman of the state Public Service Commission, testified before the grand jury during his 1½ hours in the courthouse.

but there was no way to be sure of that since newsmen were barred from that floor.

In a previous appearance, Lambert's lawyer acknowledged that Lambert got $10,000 from Joseph Hauser, the federal undercover man, but said it was not a bribe.

Attorney Camille Gravel who has since been replaced by Habans, said Hauser bought $10,000 in tickets to one of Lambert's fund-raising functions.

The $10,000 was not mentioned on a financial statement filed in Baton Rouge, although state law requires candidates to report any contributions over $1,000.

Wichita florist reports order from 'The Poet'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The man police call "The Poet" has sent $5 to a flower shop, ordering a black flower for a woman he has harassed and threatened for two years, officials say.

Police Capt. Mike Hill said the Wichita florist notified police after he recognized the printing on a letter as that of "The Poet." The letter included a sealed envelope with a note for the woman, Ruth Finley, Hill said.

"This man is dangerous and needs help," Hill said of "The Poet."

In two years, nearly 30 letters have arrived at the 49-year-old Mrs. Finley's home, and she has been abducted and assaulted. Police say they have few solid leads in the case.

The latest letter, the 13th "The Poet" has sent this year, consisted of a rambling, threatening poem, Hill said.

Part of it referred to the flower, which Hill said was intended as a symbol of death: "Yur as useless as this flower that's meant for pleasures... You are vexed by my clever wait. Dark shadows surround me so in not late."

Last weekend, Mrs. Finley received a threatening Valentine's Day poem, police said.

Police say "The Poet" abducted Mrs. Finley in Wichita in 1978, but she escaped unharmed. Last August, she was stabbed by "The Poet" in a shopping center parking lot, police say.

Officials believe the threats and attacks are linked to a 1946 incident at Fort Scott when the woman, then aged 16, was branded on both thighs with flatirons by an assailant she couldn't identify.

No one was arrested. Police don't believe "The Poet" was involved, because one of his letters indicated he found a newspaper clipping about the assault while helping tear down a house.

Southwestern Bell to sponsor seminar for science students

Solar cells and laser light are among developments in telecommunications to be discussed March 12 in Midland at a Southwestern Bell seminar for outstanding math and science students.

The annual event, known as Science Recognition Days, is held near Alexander Graham Bell's March 3 birthday to honor the telephone's inventor and to inform and encourage future scientists.

Some 100 students, their teachers and principals are scheduled to attend the seminar at Holiday Inn Country Villa, according to Clay Stiles, district manager for Southwestern Bell.

Tom Davis, general manager of switching services for Southwestern Bell in San Antonio, will deliver the keynote address.

Featured speaker will be Dorothy Kirby of the microprocessor systems development department at Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill, N.J. She will speak on microprocessor development and application.

The company's science demonstrator, Bill Haehnel, will explain Bell's early experiments with a device he called a photophone. The photophone transmits sound over a light beam. Haehnel will show how the device has affected modern telecommunications.

Dr. Dillard Carter of Texas Tech will discuss mammalian communications systems.

Girl Scouts' Thinking Day celebration to be held today

The Thinking Day celebration for all Girl Scouts in Midland will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. today in Alamo Junior High School.

The ceremony will open with a parade of flags from other nations as well as the United States. After the parade, Junior Scouts will present skits or dances from different countries, and the Brownies will sing songs.

Following the entertainment, Cadet and Senior Scouts will hold a tasting tea featuring foreign foods. All proceeds from the tea will go to the World Friendship Fund.

Midland has 1,300 registered Girl Scouts.

The U.S. was one of the founding members of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts. On Feb. 22, the mutual birthday for Lord and Lady Braden-Powell, founders of the WAGGGS, is worldwide Thinking Day for all members of the association. Girl Guides and Girl Scouts everywhere think of each other with love and friendship.

The entire month of February is designated as International Month and is a time when groups celebrate through songs, games and dances from other countries.

Special girl wins part in play

Handicap adds 'awareness' to Keller story

CORSICANA, Texas (AP) — Ruth Ann Hargrave had to compete with 25 other girls for the lead role of Helen Keller in the local production of "The Miracle Worker," but won the part.

It was three days before the 16-year-old found out whether she got the word, but director Ross Brady said he "knew right away" he wanted her.

"Because she is deaf, she brought her awareness into the part — she can relate to Helen," Brady said.

"I feel the same way Helen Keller felt in many ways. Deaf people want to know what's going on, and they try very hard to find out," says Ruth Ann.

"I admire the way Helen helped deaf children. She made people want to understand them."

With her handicap, she feels she understands her role — that of the blind and deaf girl who later became a renowned writer and lecturer.

Ruth Ann's mother, Lois Hargrave, says watching her daughter in the performances has brought back memories.

"There are a lot of things in 'The Miracle Worker' that I went through with Ruth Ann. I remember her wanting so badly to learn to talk."

Ruth Ann was 2 before it was discovered she was deaf. Her mother took her to a doctor, who said he felt she was deaf, because she didn't mind well.

"She was playing with the drawers in the doctor's office and I told her 'no,' and she just didn't pay any attention. I went up to her, and then I realized I had been going to her more than she'd been coming to me," said Mrs. Hargrave.

A year later, her parents took her to the John Tracy Clinic in Los Angeles for six weeks, and there, they learned how to teach their daughter to talk.

Mrs. Hargrave said she feels her daughter's role in the Corsicana community production "has made Ruthie better aware of her emotions and feelings."

Brady interviewed Ruth Ann before watching her perform, and one of the things he asked her to do was to express certain emotions, such as anger and love, without words.

The director said he, and the rest of the cast, learned many things as the rehearsals got under way.

"We have become aware of the problems deaf people face. She's been helpful to us all," he said.

Ruth Ann faced special challenges when rehearsals began. To communicate with her, everyone had to make sure to speak directly in front of her so she could read their lips.

She also had to add the appearance of blindness to her character. To achieve that, she said, she just focuses on a point and stares.

"When she's not smiling, her face has a very blank look, like that of a blind person," Brady said.

Since she couldn't hear oral cues, the 13 other cast members made up visual instructions. When she's supposed to leave the table, one of the actors will pat his mouth with a napkin.

The hardest part of the play, which began last week and ends Saturday, was the fight sequence, Ruth Ann says.

In it, Helen and Annie Sullivan are sitting at the dinner table and Helen throws her spoon on the floor. Annie forces the kicking girl to pick up the utensil, and Helen throws it again.

Said Brady: "We had to rehearse it and rehearse it and rehearse it, but Ruth Ann loved that. It's her favorite scene."

Ruth Ann agrees.

"I got bruises all over because I kept running into the furniture, but it was fun," she said.

Thousands learn of sterilizations

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Last summer Doris Buck Figgins, 67, learned that the "appendectomy" she had undergone 51 years ago in a Virginia mental hospital was in fact a sterilization.

"I broke down and cried," said Mrs. Figgins. "My husband and I wanted children desperate. We were crazy about them. I never knew what they'd done to me."

"We sort of gave up trying," said Mrs. Figgins' husband, Matthew, of Warren County in northwest Virginia.

Across Virginia, thousands of men and women were prevented from becoming parents because, like Mrs. Figgins, they were sterilized in state mental hospitals between 1922 and 1972.

The mass sterilizations, records show, were performed over the half-century with the idea of ridding Virginia of "misfits" and preventing "racial degeneracy."

And they were perfectly legal, performed under a section of the Virginia Code, adopted in March 1924 and subsequently upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The sterilizations, championed in the name of eugenics, continued until 1972 when the state Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation forbade the practice.

The portion of the State Code permitting them is, however, still on the books — and some Virginia legislators, who had been only dimly aware it existed, indicated Friday a repeal move may be made.

"I find the situation shocking," said state Sen. Hunter B. Andrews of Hampton. Andrews said he would favor repeal of the law, if not at the current General Assembly session, then later.

"I thought we had done that years ago," he said.

"I am appalled," said state Sen. Joseph V. Gartlan of Fairfax. "If I could figure a way to do it (repeal) at this session, I would put in a bill to take that law off the books. It is a lingering manifestation of another era and we ought to erase it."

The American Civil Liberties Union of Virginia called the sterilization program "morally reprehensible" and offered legal assistance to those seeking redress.

A spokesman for the state attorney general said the code states that before being sterilized a patient must be declared legally incompetent by a court — but that anyone, including a hospital director, can petition the court to declare incompetency.

Revelation of the mass sterilizations came from Dr. K. Ray Nelson, director of Lynchburg Training School and Hospital, who said he had learned that 4,000 patients were sterilized at that institution alone.

"A tragedy... fraud," said Nelson, who has headed the Lynchburg institution since 1973 and tracked down many of those who were sterilized there.

He said the program was a product of the times it was conceived, the 1920s.

Sul Ross to receive $31,703 in state ad valorem tax funds

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock announced Friday that Sul Ross State University will receive $31,703 in ad valorem tax funds collected by the state in 1979 for construction at the school.

Sul Ross is one of 17 universities which has used the state ad valorem tax for construction.

That tax was abolished, for all practical purposes, by the 1979 Legislature, which reduced the assessment to 0.0001 per cent of appraised value.

A total of nearly $10 million was collected for 1979.

Greenhouse construction OK'd

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Board of Regents of the Texas State University System has approved the purchase and construction of two greenhouses at Sul Ross State University.

The greenhouses will cost $75,000. The board also accepted as complete alterations to the electrical distribution system and the central water chilling plant at Sul Ross.

The board also approved the twelfth class day, small class and teacher load reports for the spring semester.

Television's '60 Minutes': The tube's page one

Editor's note: Once a week, television audiences sit back to enjoy "60 Minutes," the first — and only — news program ever to top the "top ten" ratings. But are they really seeing what they think they're seeing?

By Mort Young
Assistant National Editor
The Hearst Newspapers

NEW YORK — Every Sunday 50 million viewers turn on their television sets to watch what network vice presidents always insisted they weren't interested in.

News.
But on a news program with a difference: "60 Minutes."

The cast is all-star: Dan Rather (sexier than Suzanne Somers), Morley Safer and Harry Reasoner (wittier than Laverne and Shirley), Mike Wallace (tougher than Lou Grant).

What makes "60 Minutes" tick so well?

It's sensational.
For another, the television audience is led to perceive, incorrectly, that the four correspondents — Dan, Morley, Harry and Mike — really dig up those exposes, injustices, human interest features and juicy interviews.

They don't. But the perception that they do is carefully nurtured. The four newsmen aren't given time to develop their own stories. The rare exceptions are interviews with politicians and show business personalities, and some of the "soft" features.

WHEN THIS SEASON'S ratings are added up, the CBS show is certain to be regaled as the most-watched weekly TV news broadcast. It may well rise, like rich cream, to be the top-rated television habit of the year.

Advertisers think so. A commercial minute on "60 Minutes" sells for $285,000, about $100,000 more than it costs to put each program on the air. And six such minutes are available. That's $1.7 million a week.

The show's profitability is why vice presidents at ABC and NBC hurriedly devised "20/20" and "Prime Time," their versions of the CBS success. Eventually, say the staffers at "60 Minutes," the competition will get it right.

"60 Minutes" doesn't try to provide a panoramic view of any one news story. It doesn't try to penetrate deeply below the surface. It doesn't offer self-important investigative journalism. It specializes in lifting one corner of the rug, vicariously allowing the audience to imagine how much dirt might have been pushed farther in.

TOO MANY FACTS make for a dull story. "60 Minutes," unlike most news programs, entertains.

And it is a happy place to work, say those who work there. Ambitions don't clash. Everybody works together. Teamwork is a byword.

Teamwork is also a problem.
Each of the star correspondents is assigned five producers, actually reporters, who go out and film the stories, interview many of the people involved, organize the telling and do much of the writing.

Twenty-one editors cut and splice, making sense out of miles of videotape, and then put it together again coherently.

A star correspondent flies to the scene armed with a packet of information compiled by a researcher and questions suggested by the producer. He conducts the major interviews. Then he flies off to do the same on the next scheduled assignment.

When a producer conducts an interview, he makes sure to stay out of the shot. When it is used on the show, there is no implication that a correspondent was the interviewer. But there is no indication who did the interview. That is left to the audience to figure out.

THE CORRESPONDENTS' tight schedules are adhered to eight months of the year, each man doing 30 stories a season. It is an exhausting effort for which each is paid at least $200,000 a year.

On Fridays, they converge in the studio at CBS News headquarters on 57th Street in Manhattan. The correspondents tape their lead-ins — the introductions to their individual segments for next Sunday's program.

Rather, Reasoner, Safer and Wallace have become stars of television journalism. They are superb. Their participation in a broadcast is a stamp of excellence.

Nonetheless, because they are such valuable properties, their presence on camera requires so much of their time that they have little left to actually perform the grinding, time-consuming duties journalism often demands off-camera.

For the sake of high ratings, it is more important for them to be seen on the screen. No four human beings could do the 120 stories "60 Minutes" televises every season.

The stories are culled from about 100,000 pieces of mail received during the year, from the producers, from local newscasters and newspapers. Some 20,000 story ideas emerge from the unsolicited mail. The supply, says Senior Producer Palmer Williams, "is inexhaustible."

"OUR HIGH VISIBILITY brings in public relations men hoping to get their clients on the show," said Williams. "Publishers want to get their authors and books on it."

Once a story is selected, he continued, "a researcher may be sent out or we might use a stringer who's already at the scene. The producer shoots the background stuff. '60 Minutes' is very much a producer's show. He uses the correspondent as best he can. The correspondent is needed for interviews with major figures in the story."

The correspondents are "good, quick studies, good at picking up the threads of a story and putting them together," Williams said.

The people involved in a story, according to Williams and others, can cause an assignment to be rejected if they are wooden.

"A major element is the casting of a story," agreed Harry Moses, one of the show's producers. He works with Rather and Wallace. "It's not enough to find someone who knows the facts. You must locate the most articulate person to present the best case, and who's a good film character."

"If you don't cast it properly," Moses added, "the show won't be interesting."

NOTHING IS WRONG with "getting the best people, the strongest, rather than the weakest characters," as Moses said. It's good television.

"We go up to the edge of the line separating show business from the news business," explained Don Hewitt, the program's originator and guiding hand. "The trick has always been to pay attention to what makes television work without harming your integrity as a journalist. '60 Minutes' has been able to walk that tightrope."

Hewitt claims he "stole the idea for the show from Life Magazine. We walked into the vacuum created by the deaths of Life and Look. I can compare '60 Minutes' to the Sunday newspaper supplements. 'I like to think we've raised the art of the Sunday supplement.'"

Hewitt, a 30-year veteran with CBS News, defined news as "anything that's happened, is happening, will happen, that people are interested in hearing about first or in hearing more about. What kind of stories do we go for? Good ones, well told."

He stressed that there are "no sacred cows except to be fair and honest."

"A story is never turned down because someone thought it wasn't proper," Hewitt continued. "We went after the sugar industry, after Ford. Both remain major sponsors. We reported on press junkets, focussing on our own network."

FINAL APPROVAL of what is seen on the air comes from Robert Chandler, the CBS News vice president. Those at "60 Minutes" point out that Chandler has never killed a story because it might offend a sponsor or network executives.

Putting a story on the show, however, requires that at least four people do like it: the producer, the correspondent, Williams and — most important — Hewitt.

Teamwork starts with the germination of the idea. The producer and correspondent must be enthusiastic about a story. The collaboration is close.

"This is the personification of team journalism," said Dan Rather, who joined the program in 1975 and is the newest correspondent. "I have five other experienced reporters to work with. They're called producers but I call them reporters."

At 47, Rather seems younger and, in person, handsomer than he looks on the screen. He's also gentler than his television image suggests: he takes time to praise people. It has been announced he will be the replacement for Walter Cronkite. Both NBC and ABC have offered him lucrative contracts.

PRODUCERS ON "60 Minutes" describe it as a producer's show, but grant that the real power rests with the four correspondents, they present the stories on-screen, it is they the viewers expect and want to see.

"We're not just pretty faces," Rather said, bristling. "If that were so, I wouldn't be here. None of us would. I don't want to be a star. The truth is, we work our backsides off. The job is a logistical and scheduling nightmare. It takes simple, peasant stamina."

Even so, the nearly constant travel from locale to locale can't leave much time to work on a story; the correspondents' main task is to report them on television.

Rather said he works for two to three weeks on a story. "but I have more resources than the print journalist. I have two or three people to help me."

He conceded that "I feel as if I'm spreading myself too thin. There's got to be another way to live. But the addiction is there — and you go out for another week, another year."

HARRY REASONER AND Mike Wallace are the show's old hands. They were the original on-screen correspondents 12 years ago when "60 Minutes" began. They are urbane, self-assured professionals.

Reasoner, at age 56, wears a wryly amused expression. His writing skills and aura of solidity are made less weighty by an easy humor. He returned to the show in 1978 after eight years as an anchorman, the latter part with co-anchor Barbara Walters at ABC.

"It was poignant, leaving an anchorman's salary. But doing your own legwork, your own reporting again, is delightful," Reasoner said. He was reputedly making $500,000 a year at ABC. "At '60 Minutes' there's always something different to do."

Reasoner writes more now than he did when anchoring ABC's news. How much depends on the story, whether it's more the producer's story or his own. He turns out his 30 pieces a season spending three to seven days, he said, on each.

IN ANOTHER, SIMILAR office with a similar picture window overlooking the Hudson River — the correspondents' offices have precisely the same dimensions; Hewitt personally measured them to ensure equality — Mike Wallace ate a sandwich a secretary brought in.

The 61-year-old Wallace, his unlined face and slicked-back, dark hair denying his age, evidently is enjoying himself. A millionaire, Wallace isn't doing the show for the money alone. He wants to.

No interviewer is more feared than he. Wallace has been criticized as much as he has been praised for his piercing questions, his refusal to take "no comment" instead of a direct answer to a direct question.

He doesn't regard himself as a tough interviewer. "A little more persistent than others, perhaps. I got a lot of mean mail about my interview with John Connally, that it was a hatchet job," he said, slightly amazed.

"It's a searching, well-researched interview on tape. It took about an hour. Out of that, we showed five minutes."

Morley Safer: "I wish I had more time to do the things I really want to do. I like what amuses me, what keeps me un-depressed. But I get enough time on a story."

SAFER, TOO, HAS A reputation as a writer. The 47-year-old Canadian joined the show in 1970. Before that, as a TV correspondent in Europe and Asia, he ran his own life.

"Journalism is sensationalism," Safer noted. "We cover the sensational. It's a perfectly legitimate word. Cheap sensationalism is something else. An Icelandic dog-killing festival is not good visually."

And so Rather hastens off to interview a presidential contender. Reasoner jets to Libya. Wallace lands in Paris. Safer is back from or en route to wherever the schedule orders.

In July, "60 Minutes" will fall quiet. The reruns roll. In August, the teadmill cranks up again.

And on Fridays, Hewitt is in the control room overseeing it all, turning away from the monitors and shutting his eyes to hear the correspondents taping their lead-ins.

"I listen to the inflections, the pauses," he says with enthusiasm. "They're television's colons and semi-colons. I'm not mesmerized by pictures. Television is a vehicle for television journalists, just as a print journalist uses a typewriter."

"The big question was always, 'what's the newspeg?' A strange thing has happened to us," Hewitt comments. "Now the newspeg is that '60 Minutes' did the story. '60 Minutes' is a topic of conversation. The revelation became the newspeg — not the thing being revealed."

"We're page one of the newspaper," Hewitt says.

Walter C. Jones, 107, bypassed a rest home for the motor home in which he has traveled more than 2 million miles since 1975. Jones, who supports himself on Social Security and payments from odd jobs and magic shows, has visited all 48 contiguous states. (Los Angeles Times Photo by Tom Gorman)

Roamer still prowling U.S. highways at 107

By TOM GORMAN
The Los Angeles Times

ESCONDIDO, Calif. — Walter C. Jones, 107, has bypassed rest homes in favor of a motor home. He is a loner who looks for people. He travels in the country, handing out souvenir brochures of himself by day, and parking his motor home in front of grocery stores by night. "They're glad to have you at the supermarkets," he says, "because the longer you're there, the more you buy from them." Take it from a man who knows Jones says he has not spent much time at home — Tacoma, Wash. — since June 1975. That was a year after his wife, Ella, died of pneumonia at the age of 86.

HE DECIDED to take to the road and, more than 2 million miles later, he is still driving around. He was in Escondido recently, making plans to drive "to Riverton or Riverside or some city like that up the road." He'll pass through Tacoma later this spring, he said, on his way to Alaska. He has already driven through the other 48 states on the continent. On the way, he supports himself with his Social Security income, $1 donations in exchange for the brochure of himself and, if he can line one up, "variety-magic shows" at various Masonic lodges across the country. "BUT WHEN I give a show, I'll only accept enough money to meet some expenses," he said. "I don't want any more than that, 'cause then Uncle Sam will just take it away and send it away to foreigners." He said he has never encountered any problems because of his age and boast that, as a jack-of-all-trades, he has always been able to find odd jobs ("I've dug ditches when I've had to") and maintain his motor home ("I hope it lasts as long as I do"). He said he does not reminisce much about the past or wonder about the future "because yesterday is gone and tomorrow never gets here. I just live for today." AMONG the two difficulties in life, he said, are telling jokes and understanding women. "If you don't tell a joke just right, you spoil it," he remarks, "and I just don't understand women." He said he ran away from home when he was 15 "and on my way to Sunday School I just kept on going." A steam engineer at one time, he has also worked as a barber, butcher, carpenter, farmer, mechanic, dog catcher, constable, magazine salesman, wire stringer for Western Union and, until he took to the road five years ago, an advertising man specializing in calendars, ballpoint pens and other promotional gimmicks. "NOW I'M just loafing," he said. Jones always was a traveler, he said, and tells stories of riding atop railroad cars, "pulling the coat over my head and sleeping all night long while the train rolled down the tracks. "I never fell off," he boasts. However, he prefers the comforts of his motor home.

GM calling back workers ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — About 2,000 workers — who have been laid off their jobs at General Motors' Arlington plant since Christmas — are expected to get the word they'll be put back to work soon. An official with the Texas Employment Commission in Arlington said a plant official called him earlier in the week and asked him to start testing and referring new employees to replace former workers on the afternoon and evening shift who have found other jobs.

Israeli woman traded for two Palestinian lifers

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A woman in Palestinian hands for six years accused of being an Israeli spy was swapped Friday for two Palestinian guerrillas serving life sentences in Israeli jails.

The exchange was carried out under strict secrecy and security precautions at Larnaca airport, 25 miles from Nicosia.

The Cyprus government confirmed the swap after it was completed, saying it was carried out at the request and under the supervision of the International Red Cross. Both the Red Cross and the Cypriot authorities refused to identify the three.

Informed sources on Cyprus and in Beirut said the woman was an Israeli who posed as an Arab while working in Beirut as a psychologist. She was arrested there in 1974. Beirut is the headquarters of the Palestine Liberation Organization, headed by Yasser Arafat.

The sources said one of the exchanged guerrillas is William Nassar, a Christian Palestinian, arrested in Jerusalem in 1968. Nassar was one of the first operatives of Arafat's then underground Fatah group to be arrested. His release had been demanded repeatedly by Palestinian airline hijackers during the past decade.

The sources identified the second guerrilla only by his code name, Abu Ali, and said he was arrested in the Israeli occupied Gaza Strip in 1974.

Larnaca airport was cordoned off by armed Cypriot troops and police backed by armored cars. Passengers and airport employees entering the terminal were searched. Cars on approach roads were checked.

Reporters and photographers were not allowed to enter the airport, which remained open throughout. Observing the scene from a distance, reporters saw a twin-engine jet land, taxi to the end of the runway and park next to two white cars marked with large red crosses.

Two men got off the jet, entered one of the Red Cross cars and were driven to the airport terminal building. The same car returned a few minutes later, a woman got out and entered the jet, and it took off.

The sources said the woman arrived in Cyprus from Beirut the previous night with International Red Cross escorts who stayed with her at an undisclosed location overnight.

The two Palestinians left Larnaca shortly after their arrival aboard a scheduled flight for Beirut, also escorted by Red Cross officials, the sources said.

Two years ago the airport was the scene of a sensational Palestinian hijack operation that ended with the deaths of 17 Egyptian commandos. The Egyptians flew into Larnaca and were shot by Cypriot troops when the commandos tried to storm a hijacked aircraft and seize the two hijackers. The hijackers earlier had murdered Youssef El Sebael, a former Egyptian minister and close confidant of President Anwar Sadat.

State officials criticize federal Indian fishing rules

By JENNIFER GAVIN

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. William Milliken and other state officials on Friday criticized federal regulations allowing Indians to snare fish with gill nets.

The rules "condone the depletion and collapse of Michigan's Great Lakes fishery," Milliken told officials of the U.S. Department of the Interior. He also said they will disrupt Michigan's careful plan to restock the lakes with trout, highly desired by sportsmen.

He called for the rules' immediate withdrawal and replacement by others banning use of large-mesh gill nets—which ensnare sport fish as well as other, commercial stocks pursued by Indians.

Michigan Indians who live in the state's far northern regions argue that fish represent their livelihood, and that use of the gill nets is a traditional practice protected by century-old treaties.

The federal rules were issued last November, after state officials said members of the Bay Mills Indian Community and Sault Ste. Marie Chippewa bands were robbing the Great Lakes of trout.

Friday's hearing was to determine whether the rules, which were issued on an interim basis, should remain in effect permanently.

The state is still contesting in the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati last May's ruling by U.S. District Judge Noel Fox. In that decision, Fox said an 1836 treaty guaranteed the two tribes unlimited fishing rights in the upper Great Lakes.

Michigan officials want to regulate the tribes' fishing as the state regulates sport fishing, setting limits on when, where and how fish are pursued and caught.

"Over the past several years, it has become increasingly clear that state, federal and international efforts to re-establish a productive Great Lakes fishery are being threatened," Milliken said.

The U.S. Interior Department disregarded the state's views in drawing the regulations, despite state figures showing declining Great Lakes trout stocks, Milliken said.

School closings advised

DALLAS (AP)—A citizens' task force has recommended that eight low-enrollment schools in Dallas be closed or consolidated by the end of the 1981-82 school year.

In guidelines released Thursday, the committee said schools should be reviewed to see if they should continue to exist whenever they fell short in any two of seven areas:

- marked declines in student test scores.
- enrollment so low that different grades had to be combined into one classroom.
- per pupil costs that exceed by 10 percent the district-wide average.
- enrollment decreases of more than 3 percent in three successive years or more than 10 percent in any one year.
- enrollment at less than 80 percent of building capacity.
- need for less than 75 percent of its classrooms.
- need for immediate capital improvements of more than $50,000.

It's still boom, bust in Yukon

DAWSON, Yukon (AP) — The prospectors and dance-hall floozies are long departed, but it's still boom or bust for the remaining residents of this historic Klondike gold-rush town. Local politics are still wild and woolly.

Last year, two different town councils collapsed after failing to raise a quorum. Each time, the territorial government appointed an administrator to run the town in conjunction with a five-member advisory committee of townspeople.

That arrangement will continue at least until another election is held.

It is Dawson's rich past that has jeopardized its future political independence. Each summer the lure of the past draws 50,000 tourists who provide paychecks for most of the 700 permanent residents but also require big-city services from a small-town tax base.

City Manager Andre Carrel noted that at the height of the gold rush in 1898, Dawson had an estimated 30,000 residents. The town's old boundaries include nearly 10 miles of roads to be maintained, although some streets may have only one occupied house on them.

Local residents apparently recognize there's little their elected officials can do. There are seldom enough candidates to fill the seats on the Town Council. Most eldermen are elected by acclamation.

Rob McWilliam, the current administrator, sees the political instability as a symptom of split identity — crowded boomtown during the summer and sleepy, snowbound hamlet in winter.

His predecessor, Joe Oliver, agreed. "The evolution of Dawson into a summer town reliant upon tourism and placer mining is continuing, with parallel erosion of the community's year-round tax base," Oliver said.

McWilliam's mandate as administrator called for an analysis of the problem. His preliminary study suggests creation of a Klondike trust area encompassing the town and surrounding areas.

Responsibility would be divided between the local council and trust administrators to ensure that the area's historical lure for tourists is protected and developed.

Supported by federal and territorial money, the trust would handle services the town couldn't afford by itself.

Carrel, hired as city manager in late 1976, fired once and now back on the job, says the proposal has been well-received.

"That paper is one of the first documents to come out that recognizes the problems we have up here are a result of a condition that cannot be handled exclusively by Dawson from within," Carrel said.

Permian edges Midland, 83-82, for 5-4A title

Aggies clinch SWC cage title

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas A&M forward Vernon Smith peppered Houston's defense with 26 points and guard David Britton fueled an early second half spurt as the Aggies defeated the Cougars 82-72 Friday night and clinched the Southwest Conference basketball championship.

The victory gave the Aggies a 14-2 SWC record and eliminated the possibility that Arkansas, 12-3, could tie for the title with a victory Saturday over Texas Tech.

Houston, trying desperately for an upset, opened the game with a four-corner offense but it proved no problem for the Aggies as Smith and Rynn Wright popped in 10 straight points for a 10-2 Aggie lead in the first three and one half minutes.

The Aggies used the same strategy to start the second half with Britton penetrating for easy jump shots and layups. Britton scored six of his 12 points in the opening minutes of the second half.

The Cougars once again were cold at the free throw line, hitting only eight of 19 shots for 45 percent.

The Aggies, who won their 11th SWC basketball crown and their first since 1976, led 29-17 with 8:22 to play in the first half before suffering their only cold spell of the game.

The Cougars outscored the Aggies 10-2 over the next one and one half minutes and pulled within 41-39 at the half.

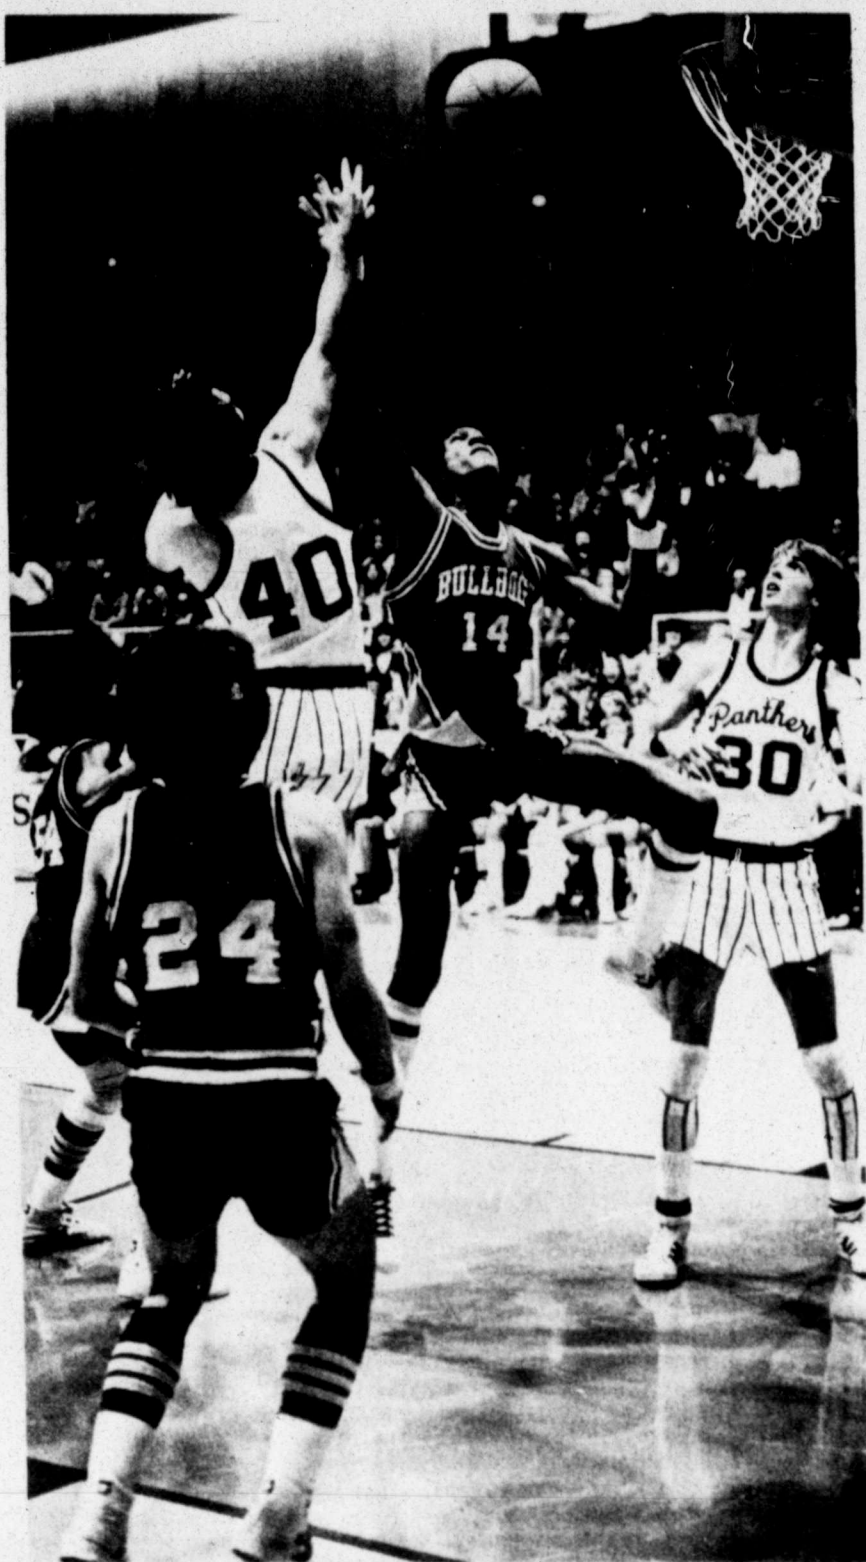

Houston, 8-8 in SWC play, made one more run at the Aggies in the second half. Larry Rogers, who led Houston scorers with 17 points, hit two jump shots that narrowed A&M's lead to 63-61.

But Marshall Sauls fouled out with 6:42 to play and after a basket at 6:20 by Kenneth Williams, the Cougars went two minutes without scoring another point.

That allowed A&M to jump to a 74-63 lead and the Aggies were never tested again.

Wright contributed 19 points for the Aggies and Kenneth Williams finished with 10 for Houston.

The loss will send the Cougars into the first round of the SWC tournament Monday night against the Rice Owls at Hofheinz Pavilion.

Johnson's 36 not quite enough

By BOB DILLON

BIG SPRING — Odessa Permian overcame a brilliant 36-point performance by Midland's Herbert Johnson Friday night to down the Bulldogs, 83-82, for the District 5-4A basketball championship before more than 3,000 fans in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Johnson, a 6-foot-9 junior, was tremendous, hitting 18 field goals for his 36 points but the difference in the game came at the free throw line where the Panthers hit 19 charity tosses to Midland's six.

It was a classic and probably one of the better high school games played in this part of the state for years with both teams shooting and rebounding well.

The victory for Coach Charles Pattillo's Panthers moves them into the AAA bi-district playoff game against Wichita Falls next Tuesday in the Taylor County Coliseum in Abilene.

While Johnson was putting on his fine shooting performance, teammates Darrin Matlock and Perry Bolger also scored in the double figures with 21 and 15 points, respectively.

BRAD KERLEY, Permian's gifted 6-6 center, tallied 27 points while Duane Adams scored 20 more. Ken Wigley chipped in with 19 and Scott Wynne added 12 more to the balanced Mojo attack.

The victory gives the Black Cats a 24-9 record going into the state playoffs while Midland ends a great season with a final 30-7 reading.

It's a shame that somebody had to lose in this one as both teams pulled out all the stops in a real thriller.

Permian took a first period lead of 22-21 and it was 48-39 in favor of the hot-shooting Panthers at halftime.

Midland came back to outscore Mojo 22-14 in the third period to cut the Panther lead to 62-61 going into the final eight minutes of action-packed play.

The well-played contest had the crowd roaring throughout the evening as the two evenly-matched teams and two rookie coaches took turns trying to outdo each other. Midland Coach Jack Stephenson had nothing but praise for Permian and Pattillo the same for Midland and in a true display of sportsmanship, Johnson hugged Pattillo after the game even though it was a heart-breaker for the talented junior.

MIDLAND LOST the services of both Johnson and Bolger late in the game. Bolger went to the bench with his fifth foul with 1:50 left in the game and Permian holding on to an 82-78 lead and then Johnson picked up his fifth foul with one second left in the contest.

The Bulldogs never did go ahead of Permian in the final period, but pulled to within one point on six different occasions.

It was a great comeback for the Tall City team after being down 11 points—52-41 with 6:26 left in the third period. Kerley picked up his fourth foul with 6:02 left in the third period, but managed to last the rest of the way.

The Panthers took a 70-67 lead with 5:41 left in the game when Wynne hit a pair of free tosses, but Midland came back on a basket by Johnson to cut it to 70-69. Midland and Permian traded four baskets to make it 74-73 with 4:05 left and then Kerley hit two straight baskets for a 78-73 advantage with 3:13 left on the clock.

HORACE BROWN, a 6-5 junior, hit a key basket for the Pack and Johnson countered with another to cut the lead to 78-77 with 2:16 left, but Adams scored his 20th point of the game on a basket to make it 80-77. Matlock hit one free throw to make it 80-78 with 1:58 left, but once again, Mojo increased the lead to 82-78 on Wigley's bucket.

Wigley hit the final point for Permian with 1:50 left, completing the three-point play which wound up being the margin of victory.

Matlock hit from close in for the Pack with 40 seconds left to make it 83-82 and with five seconds left, Johnson was fouled, but missed the front end of the one-and-one with Permian getting the rebound. Johnson fouled out with one tick left on the clock and the championship was nailed down by the Panthers as Wigley missed the free throw and the buzzer went off, ending the nail-biter.

MHS hit six of 14 free throws while Mojo hit 19 of 23 charity tosses and that was the difference.

MIDLAND (82) — Herbert Johnson 18-0-36, Perry Bolger 5-3-15, Anthony Carroll 3-0-3-4, Darrin Matlock 10-4-21, Pat Hickey 0-0-3-0, Horace Brown 2-0-4, Justin Morett 0-0-0-0, Steve Miller 0-0-0-0. Totals: 80-62.

Finland ties Sweden, 3-3

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP) — Mikko Leinonen's second goal of the game, a 10-foot backhand at 7:59 of the third period Friday night, offset a late Swedish rally and gave Finland a 3-3 tie with Sweden in a medals round hockey playoff game at the Winter Olympics.

The deadlock left Sweden with two points in the standings and Finland with one. Thus the United States, which has three points after its stunning victory over the Soviet Union, can win the gold medal Sunday with a victory over Finland.

Sweden, with two points, can win the gold Sunday with a victory over the Soviet Union if Finland beats the U.S.

Finland had taken a 1-0 lead just three minutes into the contest when Leinonen tallied, and made it 2-0 at 7:06 of the second when Jukka Porvari took a pass from Karl Eloranta, skated around the left defenseman and sent a short shot past Swedish goalie Pelle Lindbergh.

But Sweden pulled within one on a power play goal by Ulf Weinstock at 10:25 of the session and went ahead on goals 50 seconds apart early in the third period.

Weinstock was given credit for the power play goal when a Finnish defenseman, trying to stop Weinstock's shot, instead deflected it past goalie Antero Kivela.

Tomas Jonsson tied it at 5:24 of the third period, sending a 50-foot shot that glanced into the cage off Kivela's left pad and Mats Waltin put Sweden in front at 6:14, sending a rising 35-foot shot over Kivela's left glove.

Teagle sparks Bears

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Terry Teagle poured in 31 points, a career high, to spark the Baylor Bears to a 67-59 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Texas Christian Friday night.

The Bears finished 6-10 in the SWC and 12-15 on the season while TCU was 2-14 in SWC play and 7-18 for the year.

Deckery Johnson led the Horned Frogs with 17 points while freshman point guard Darrell Browder added 12.

Longhorns top Rice

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas clinched third place in Southwest Conference basketball Friday with a 76-56 victory over Rice in a game that marked the final regular season home appearance for seniors Ron Baxter and John Danks of Texas.

The victory was the 1,000th for Texas Longhorn basketball teams dating back to 1906.

Baxter, who is Texas' leading all-time scorer, and Danks both had 16 points.

Alamo to host volleyball play

Midland's Alamo YMCA will host its second annual Regional Power Volleyball tournament today at the Alamo Y and Alamo Junior High gyms. Play begins in the women's division at 9 a.m. and the men's competition will get underway at 11 a.m. Finals are tentatively scheduled for 8 p.m.

Some 20 teams from Fort Stockton, Big Spring, Odessa, and Midland will compete, although defending champion Brownfield will not be back.

Guy Fish of the Alamo Y explains that "Power volleyball is considerably more competitive than the recreational volleyball most are familiar with. It is closer international rules and it is definitely not a game for recreational type players."

Time will heal wounds of defeat

TERRY WILLIAMSON

Permian coach Charles Pattillo said after the game. "But I'll tell you one thing, I would like to take that Johnson kid with us to the playoffs. He is one heck of a player. He's a winner."

There's no better tribute than an opposing coach to say such things.

"Our team is hurting in there (the lockerroom). Herb is hurting." MHS coach Jack Stephenson said. "But we just have to pick up and start all over. Permian is going to represent this district well. They have a fine team. They shot the eyes out of the bucket against us."

"I'm thrilled to have been a part of this team. These kids worked hard. There were no losers out there tonight. It was one of the best games I've ever seen. People are crazy if they didn't like this game."

Herbert Johnson now feels the pain of defeat. The Bulldogs feel the pain of defeat. The pain will go away eventually, and at some future date, all concerned will be able to tell the story of one of the greatest 5-4A battles of all time. This one will never fade from memory even though the thought will hurt for some time.

There was not a player on the court who did not give of his best. To have tried and failed with your best effort is no sin. It's the stuff real champions are made of. Herbert Johnson and the Bulldogs are champions in their own right.

BIG SPRING — With five seconds left in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum basketball shootout between Odessa Permian and Midland High, Herbert Johnson's world fell apart. It hurt. And it will hurt for some time.

Injuries heal in proper time. A sense of failure takes longer. And it just shouldn't be that way.

Johnson, the giant 6-9 junior center for the Bulldogs, went to the free throw line with five seconds left in the game, with the Bulldogs trailing by an 83-82 margin. His first shot arched toward the basket, only to hit the back rim and sky toward oblivion. Since it was a one-and-one situation, Permian had won the right to move into the state playoffs. Midland High stays home with a 30-7 record.

So, if you're one of those sadistic maniacs who has to find a goat in every situation, then Herbert Johnson is your man. But you had better stop and think a while before you hurl any barbs in public.

Herbert Johnson scored 36 points, hitting 18 shots from the field. He missed all three of his free throw attempts and will nail at his insides for a long time. He felt bad about it. He scored 36 points — his season's high — and he had to come out feeling like a loser. He has no right to feel like a loser, but he does. He just couldn't talk after the game, so senior teammate Perry Bolger had to talk for him.

U.S. stuns Russia, 4-3, in Olympic hockey

By FRANK BROWN

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP) — Skating to a continuous, roaring chant of "USA! USA! USA!" the young American hockey team scored a spectacular, comeback, 4-3 upset victory over the Soviet Union in the Winter Olympics Friday night.

The triumph, secured on a pair of third period goals scored only one minute, 21 seconds apart, touched off a wild series of celebrations in this mountain village and prompted a telephone call from President Jimmy Carter.

The call came to the team's dressing room to congratulate Coach Herb Brooks and his players on the stunning triumph that kept alive U. S. hopes for its first Olympic hockey gold since 1960.

"The President did call," said Brooks. "He said we had made the American people very proud, and reflected the ideals of the country and what we stand for.

"And he invited us to the White House for a couple of cases of Coke on Monday," said the coach, who looked totally dazed by this remarkable triumph over the team that has won the last four Olympic golds and was heavily favored to do it again.

Later, it was announced the entire American Olympic delegation had been invited to Washington, and the group had accepted.

Brooks said his pep talk to the team before the game had been a simple one.

"You're born to be a player, you're meant to be here. This moment is yours. You're meant to be here at this time. Let's have poise and possession with the puck. That's all I said," said Brooks, holding up a folded piece of yellow paper that had included his remarks.

THIRD-PERIOD goals in a 1:21 span by Mark Johnson and Mike Eruzione had sparked the comeback triumph, the key to which, Brooks said, was "staying with the tactics that had gotten us here."

Those tactics were to try and keep possession of the puck and to forecheck the Soviet defensemen into mistakes.

The tactics paid off, as was noticed by Soviet Coach Vladimir Urzinov.

"I think the victory of the American team is quite fair — in tonight's game," he said through an interpreter. "We wanted to play a little more strict in defense, and our anticipation was that our forwards would play a better game."

He added, "Everybody knows the people will be upset in the Soviet Union with the result of tonight's game, because ice hockey is very popular in the Soviet Union."

But right now, if the reaction of the crowd in Lake Placid is any indication, the sport of sticks and pucks and skates has never been more popular in the United States.

"It was just 20 guys pulling for each other," said Eruzione, captain of the U.S. squad. "We just played 60 minutes of strong hockey."

THE TRIUMPH before a frenzied crowd of 8,500 moved the United States into first place in the medals round. And a Finnish victory in the second medals round game later Friday could assure the Americans of no worse than a bronze.

The loss, the Soviets' first since a 5-4 defeat by Czechoslovakia at Grenoble, France in 1968, did not ruin Soviet chances for a gold. But it also left them in danger of missing a medal completely if Finland wins twice.

When the clock ran out, the Russians stood glumly on their blue line awaiting the traditional closing, ceremonial handshake with their opponents.

The Americans were much too busy, tackling each other in sheer joy, waving to a delirious crowd and whooping their sticks into the air. Outshot 39-16 by the unseated Soviet juggernaut, it was a celebration the youngful Americans had earned.

The Soviets, winners of the last four gold medals since the Americans won at Squaw Valley, Calif., had taken a 3-2 lead on Aleksandr Maltsev's goal on a power play at 2:18 of the second period.

But no team in these Games has been as strong in the second and third periods of a contest as this youngest American Olympic team ever. Entering the game they had outscored opponents 21-4 over the last two-thirds of their five games.

And this time, they got those two late goals for yet another upset victory. They had toppled the Czechs 7-3 in a game few expected them to win in their second contest of the Games.

Johnson, who had scored his first goals of the game with one second left in the first period, added his second at 8:39 of the third period. A Dave Silk pass bounced off the skate of Soviet defenseman Sergei Starikov, and Johnson — five feet to the right of replacement goalie Vladimir Myshkin, rammed in a shot.

THE CROWD went crazy at 10 minutes even when Eruzione, whose name is the Italian word for "eruption," took a Mark Pavelich pass and sent a 25-foot shot past defenseman Vasili Pervukhin and the left leg of Myshkin.

Andrews defeats Reagan at Center

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

Jerry Alaniz scored 18 points and Robbie Jones and Keith Brooks added 16 and 12, respectively, as the Andrews Mustangs geared up for their bi-district confrontation by defeating Reagan County, 69-57, Friday night at the Chaparral Center.

District 2-3A champion Andrews increased its record to a glossy 28-4 as the Class AAA state-ranked Ponies prepared for Tuesday night's bi-district battle with Borger at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview. Borger will bring a 29-3 ledger, into the game.

Reagan County, 24-7 overall, received a 19 point outburst from Donald "Duck" Williams and a 17 point assault from James "Slick" Phillips. Reagan County coach Barry Voss said the Owls, winners of District 9-A, would play either Dublin or Early in a bi-district tussle Tuesday night.

Both coaches used the contest as a testing ground, but that didn't keep either team from putting on a decent show.

An excellent first half concluded with Reagan County getting a bit sloppy and falling behind 35-28.

In the third quarter, Voss shuffled in most of his reserves and the Owls nearly were buried, the quarter ending 61-33. During the frame, the Owls failed to score during a 3:42 stretch.

But in the final quarter, with Voss using mostly regulars and Andrews coach Frank Bice shuffling players, Reagan County definitely had some bright spots.

With 5:20 remaining, it was 63-43 Andrews and Bice recalled his starters. More subs came in and it was 65-51 with 2:30 to go.

When Phillips literally powered to the backboard with a follow shot at 1:37, it was 65-55, but that was it for the Owls.

Nolan confident he can come back for Padres

Gary Nolan, twice a 15-game winner for Cincinnati, believes he can "be the same kind of pitcher" for San Diego. The 31-year-old right-hander with a 110-70 major league record hasn't pitched in three years because of a shoulder injury. Nolan's optimism stems from having a torn rotator cuff repaired six months ago by Dr. Frank Jobe, the noted orthopedic surgeon. Nolan plans to quit his job as a dealer in Las Vegas, Nev., to join the Padres at spring training next month. "If everyone will be patient with me, I believe I can be the same kind of pitcher I was in 1975 and 1976," said Nolan. Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner, sidelined when Gardner suffered a groin injury, were named for unofficial consolation medals in the XIII Olympic Winter Games, and the IOC prepared to read the Riot Act. A clothing firm included the unlucky American figure skaters in a list of eight athletes to receive its consolation medals. But an IOC spokesman said: "We have already told them several days ago they must stop doing this. Nobody outside the IOC has any authority to award medals in the Olympic Games. We are surprised to hear they are still talking about it." The firm said it was handing out a medal for each day of the Games, to the athlete who suffered the worst stroke of bad luck...

The University of Southern California fired a debate coach and suspended an academic advisor in the athletic department after learning that 34 athletes were to receive credits for courses they were not taking. The LA Times reported that many of the athletes involved were members of the school's 1980 Rose Bowl-winning football team. The revelation follows by just days the newspaper's allegation that football players at UCLA were credited with courses at Los Angeles Valley College that they did not take...

Simmons takes discus, shot at Fort Stockton

FORT STOCKTON—Midland High's David Simmons won both the discus and shot put events in the first day of the Comanche Relays here Friday, but the bulk of the titles will be decided today.

Simmons uncorked a heave of 59 feet three inches to win the shot and then flipped the discus 180 feet, two inches. Midland's James Lary took a third in the event with a 51-1 and Midland Lee's Keith Brown was fifth. Lary also took a fifth in the discus and Lee's Clyde Smith was sixth.

In the pole vault, Midland's Jim Kemper cleared 13 feet for a fourth. Midland qualified nine individuals and its 1600 meter relay team for today's finals with Jeff Robnett and Billy Taylor both qualifying in both the 100 and 200 meter sprints.

Midland Lee's 1600 meter relay team turned in the fastest qualifying time, a 3:25.8 to lead nine Rebels plus the 400 meter relay team into today's events.

David Piccolo and Jerry Spaulding both qualified in the 120 meter high hurdles and the 300 meter intermediate hurdles for the Rebels.

Midland's 1600 relay team of Scott Yokum, Bruce Fisher, Robert Crawford and Elston Montgomery didn't qualify, but turned in its best time, 3:34.

Pole vault—4 Jim Kemper, 13-0. Shot put—1 David Simmons, 59-3. James Lary, 51-1. Keith Brown, 49-3. Discus—1 David Simmons, 180-2. James Lary, 153-1. Clyde Smith, 114-1.

Ranquello doesn't care who it is

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — It makes no difference if it is Mike Rossman or last-minute replacement Michael Spinks. Light-heavyweight Ramon Ranquello is anxious to fight somebody this Sunday.

"Whoever they want me to fight, I'll fight," said Ranquello, 15-6-3 as a pro. "That's what I came here to do and that's what I'm ready to do."

Ranquello, 26, of Union City, N.J., was to take on Rossman in a rematch of last September's fight at Giants Stadium, when Ranquello stopped him in the sixth round.

On Tuesday, Rossman told New Jersey boxing officials that he was recovering from a 10-day bout with bronchitis and could not properly train for the fight.

Rossman, 23, had a note from his personal physician. But the state's doctor said Rossman seemed healthy to him and then ordered chest X-rays, which showed no congestion. Angry state officials suspended Rossman indefinitely, saying the Turnersville, N.J., fighter should have tried to train for Sunday.

The winner of Sunday's 10-rounder at Resorts International Hotel Casino was to get an eventual shot at one of the light-heavyweight crowns.

Holding air time on national television, nervous promoters quickly called on Spinks, 23, a 1976 Olympic gold medalist and brother of former heavyweight champion Leon Spinks.

Watson makes big move

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Watson, the reigning money winning king of professional golf, staged his big move in the second round of the $250,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Friday and grabbed the midway lead by one stroke.

Watson, who won $462,636 in 1979, fired a 5-under-par 66 over the Riviera Country Club course for 135 at the 36-hole point of the 72-hole tournament as he stood 7-under-par.

"This was the best round of my four tournaments this year," said Watson, who won the San Diego Open.

Pressing Watson, attempting to become the first double-winner of the year, with 36-hole scores of 136 were Bob Gilder, who also had a 66 on Friday; U.S. Amateur champion Bill Sander and 50-year-old Don January.

Sander shot his best round, a 65, just one short of the tournament record. January failed to tie for the lead when he missed a 5-foot putt on the final hole.

"I three-putted a couple of greens, including the final one, but I was pleased with my round," said January, who shot a 67.

Watson, who looks much younger than his 30 years and was 6 years old when January started on the pro tour, has won 15 tournaments since the start of 1977. He says his aim this time is to win the United States Open.

At 137 came Bobby Walzel, 69, with the 138 group including Jay Haas, 68 on Friday's round, Stan Lee, 70, and first-round leader Tom Weiskopf, 71.

Scott Simpson, 67, and Jim Pooley, 70, were at 139, and John Fought posted his second straight 70 for 140.

At the end of Friday's round the field was cut in half to the low 70 and ties. It took a score of 147 or better to stay in. Ousted were last year's runner-up, Lon Hinkle, with 150; Al Geiberger, 149; Craig Stadler, winner of the Hope this year, 149; Pat Fitzsimons, the LA winner in 1975, 150; Bob Lunn, the champion in 1971, 150, and former U. S. Open champion Jack Fleck, 159.

Bertolaccini moves intotie for first

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Steady 20 mph winds disrupted most of the golfers, but hard-hitting Silvia Bertolaccini ignored the weather conditions Friday to move into a tie with Sandra Post for the second-round in the $100,000 LPGA Bent Tree Classic.

Bertolaccini shot her second straight 70 to tie Post, who carded a 71, with 4-under-par 140s. Janet Coles fired a 6-under 66 to move into a three-way tie for second, one stroke back, with Barbara Mizrahe and Beth Daniel.

"The wind is catching up pretty strong," said Bertolaccini, an Argentine who has won three Ladies Professional Golf Association events.

"The players in the afternoon Saturday are going to have a rough time at it," she said.

Post entered the round tied for first with Mizrahe, Bonnie Lauer and Lynn Adams. Adams shot a 73 after an opening 69 to fall into a tie for fifth with Beth Solomon.

"Silvia is the greatest in the wind," Adams said. "She's proved it so many times."

The fifth annual tournament saw last year's final round, won by Sally Little, played in raging winds and rains. After near-perfect weather Thursday, the winds disrupted play.

Daniel, the 1979 LPGA rookie of the year, didn't seem bothered by the weather but lost a chance to move into the lead because of erratic putting. She made just two birdies.

Stenmark beats Mahre for second Alpine Gold medal

By HAL BOCK

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark became the first man to win more than one Olympic Alpine gold medal since 1968 when he roared from behind Friday to overtake American Phil Mahre and capture the slalom race at the 1980 Winter Games.

Mahre, the leader after the first heat, hung on for a second place silver, only the third Olympic Alpine medal the United States has ever won. Jacques Luethy of Switzerland won the bronze medal.

Stenmark, who earlier won the giant slalom here, posted a combined time of 1:44.26, a half-second ahead of Mahre's 1:44.76. Luethy was timed in 1:45.06. It marked the first time since the 1968 three-race sweep at Grenoble by France's Jean Claude Killy, that a man has won more than one Alpine event at the Olympics.

In Friday's only other medal event, the Soviet Union won the 4 x 7.5 kilo meter biathlon relay in 1 hour, 34 minutes, 3.27 seconds. East Germany finished second for the silver in 1:34:56.99 with West Germany third for the bronze in 1:37:30.26.

East Germany continued to lead the Soviets in the total medal race 20-19 with Russia ahead in golds, 9-7. The United States is third in gold with four — all of them won by speed skating superstar Eric Heiden. Mahre's silver gave America nine medals overall, tied with Norway for third place among the 37 nations competing in these Games.

Stenmark's slalom gold made him only the third man in history to win more than one Alpine event at an Olympics. The only others were Austria's Toni Sailer, who swept the three events in 1956, and Killy, who repeated that feat 12 years ago.

What made Stenmark's Alpine accomplishment so impressive was that he zoomed from fourth place after the first run down the Whiteface Mountain course, posting the fastest second run time of 50.37 to steal the gold from Mahre. It was the same formula he had used to win the giant slalom earlier this week. In that race, he was third after the first day's heats and had to wait overnight before the second heat. This time, he came right back to make his run at Mahre.

The American had the lead after the first heat with a time of 53.31 seconds compared to 53.89 for Stenmark. To win the gold — no American man ever has done that in an Olympics — Mahre needed only to stay within 58 hundredths of Stenmark. But the Swede was simply too good and the 22-year-old from Yakima, Wash., had to be satisfied with silver.

"I had a very good second run," said Stenmark, evaluating the race. "As far as I know, I made no mistakes. Mahre could have won. I think this proves I can control my nerves in important events."

Stenmark had come into the Olympics with a score to settle. He had been expected to win Alpine gold in the 1976 Games at Innsbruck and when he missed, there was great disappointment. Now he has made up for that, not once, but twice. Still, he shrugged off the piece of Olympic history that his victory had given him.

"I had already won one gold medal, and that should be quite enough," the Swede said. "History is not important. The most important thing is that I am satisfied with myself."

Mahre was excited about winning America's first Alpine medal of these Games.

"I feel pretty jubilant," he said, "but I wish I was No. 1. The important thing was to win a medal for the United States."

Mahre's finish matched the best Olympic Alpine performance ever for the United States men. Billy Kidd won a silver in 1964, the same year Jimmy Heuga captured a bronze. No American has won an Alpine medal in the 16 years since then.

Its victory in the 4 x 7.5 kilometer biathlon relay was the fourth straight in that event for the Soviet Union, which has never lost the race since it was added to the Olympic program in 1968.

Golfers urged to carry copy of '80 Rules Book

BY REX WORRELL
Hogan Park Golf Pro

The Rules of Golf for 1980 are now available at area golf shops. Every golfer is encouraged to carry one of these rules books in their golf bags. The rules are revised or changed every four years and 1980 was the year for change.

The principal changes since 1979 are listed on pages 90 through 92.

Definition changes are: 6. Lost ball— Amended to provide that provisional ball becomes ball in play if played from point nearer hole than place where original ball likely to be, rather than a point beyond where original likely to be. 13. Ground Under Repair— Amended to provide that stakes and lines defining margins are in such ground, rather than not in such ground. 14. Hazards— Amended to provide that stakes and lines defining margins of water and lateral water hazards are in such ground, rather than not in such ground. Recommended colors for such stakes and lines specified.

Two of the most important rules changes are: 9-2 Indicating Line of Play— Amended to permit a mark to indicate line of play provided mark is removed before stroke played. 31-2b (1) Relief from Immovable Obstruction through the Green— Amended to require player to drop ball within one club length of nearest point of relief, rather than two club lengths. Rules 32 and 35-1j similarly amended.

There are several more changes in the rules and if you look inside the front cover of the 1980 Rules Book, you will find an easy way to understand the rules.

THE HOGAN Hazards Division of the women's golf association held a Guess Your Score event Feb. 14 with Barbara Larsen winning and Rita Boe finishing as runnerup. On Feb. 21, a Low Putts event was held with Rita Boe taking home top honors.

The 18-hole division of the women's golf association will hold a Penalty Play event Thursday with the following pairings:

SMU's Sonny Allen quits

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist basketball coach Sonny Allen resigned Friday amid speculation he would lose the job at the end of a disappointing Mustang season.

SMU President James Zumberge said the resignation was submitted at an early morning meeting where Allen said: "It's time for a change ... for me and for the University."

The Mustangs finished sixth in the Southwest Conference with a 7-9 record, 15-11 on the season. In a spectacular game Monday night — the last regular game of the season — the underdog Mustangs beat Arkansas 62-58, knocking the Razorbacks into second place.

A spokesman for the university said Allen would tell team members at the end of Friday afternoon's workout.

Zumberge said the university would honor Allen's contract to the expiration on May 31, 1982. But a university spokesman said Allen told Zumberge the resignation would take effect at the end of the last SMU game in the 1980 Southwest Conference finals.

'Inflation is starting to explode'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices surged upward 1.4 percent in January, the worst rate in 6½ years, leading a top administration official to warn Friday that "inflation is starting to explode."

The jump prompted one congressional leader to call for a fresh look at wage and price controls. But despite Friday's bleak report, the White House stood firm against mandatory controls.

The January price increase, an annual rate of more than 18 percent, compared to 13.3 percent for all of 1979, was partly due to another steep jump in fuel and housing costs. The price of gasoline rose 7.4 percent, the most ever, to an average of $1.11 per gallon for all types.

"It is beginning to appear that the underlying rate of inflation is starting to explode," said Robert Russell, director of the administration's anti-inflation agency. He said "an explosion of wage increases" also is probably inevitable.

Meanwhile, reacting to worsening inflation and the tighter money policies of the Federal Reserve Board, several major banks hiked their prime lending rates to 16½ percent, a record. Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth largest, went first and was quickly followed by Bankers

Trust Co. and Crocker National Bank.

The increase in prices, the worst for any month since August 1973, came despite a 0.2 percent decline in grocery store prices, and showed how bad inflation has become in the rest of the economy. Prices in January were 13.9 percent higher than a year earlier, and the annual rate of increase for the last three months was 15.6 percent.

Rep. Henry R. Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said the Carter administration "had abdicated its responsibilities" by letting inflation get out of hand.

"I think Congress would respond very fast indeed" to a comprehensive attack on inflation that included a balanced budget and mandatory wage and price controls, Reuss said. But he added that controls by themselves would be "a disaster."

Lane Kirkland, president of the AFL-CIO, warned that organized labor's patience with the administration's voluntary wage and price restraint program "is withering away unless some further steps are taken to control the real sources of inflation," which he said are energy, high interest rates and housing costs.

Kirkland said if the voluntary program fails then the administration should turn to a mandatory controls program.

White House press secretary Jody Powell told reporters Friday that anti-inflation policies "are under review as they are constantly," but he added flatly that "mandatory wage and price controls are not under consideration."

The White House spokesman did say the administration is considering how to counter an inflationary psychology that leads to greater inflation.

A number of private economists have said in recent weeks that mandatory controls may now be needed as part of a broader anti-inflation strategy. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who is a presidential contender, also has called for wage and price controls.

Associated Press-NBC News polls have repeatedly shown that most Americans favor mandatory controls even though a majority doesn't think they would work.

However, the administration voiced strong new opposition to controls, despite January's price report. Charles L. Schultze, the president's chief economic adviser, said controls can't be maintained long enough to be effective and they are likely to harm the economy.

"In my judgment, mandatory wage and price controls are neither a quick nor a sure way to reduce inflation," Schultze told a conference in Miami, Fla. sponsored by the Miami News.

The Senate Banking Committee is scheduled to hold hearings on wage and price controls next month, even though its chairman, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and most other members are on record against controls.

The 1.4 percent increase in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index in January was the worst since August 1973 when prices rose 1.8 percent as former President Richard Nixon began dismantling the nation's last controls program.

Prices increased 1.2 percent in December and 1 percent in November. Prices in all of 1979 rose 13.3 percent, the worst in 33 years. The administration is officially forecasting an increase of 10.1 percent this year, although this appears optimistic now.

Russell told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress that because of rising interest rates, Americans "can expect continuing large increases in home mortgage costs." Housing prices, which include the cost of mortgages as well as other expenses, were up 1.4 percent

Israel introduces new currency

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel introduced the shekel Friday as its new currency, worth 10 times more than the Israeli pound, and announced a major crackdown on tax evaders in an effort to bring runaway inflation under control.

Finance Minister Yigal Hurvitz said after an emergency Cabinet meeting that the Israeli pound, or lira, will be phased out over the next three months to be replaced by the shekel, the unit of currency used in Biblical times.

Hurvitz also said wealthier Israelis will be required to declare the net worth of all their property in a move to expose untaxed income from what he called "the parallel economy" which remains hidden from the tax collector.

Each new shekel, comprised of 100 agorot, will be worth 10 pounds. The pound, which floats against other currencies, is now worth 2.6 U.S. cents.

The Israeli pound was equivalent to the British pound when it was established as the official currency in 1948. It now equals just over one British penny. The Hebrew name lira was adopted from the Turkish currency and originates from when Palestine was part of the Ottoman Empire.

The changeover to the new currency was expected to have little direct impact on inflation, which last year reached 111 percent. But Hurvitz said the government wanted to inspire confidence in its currency and eliminate the fantastic amounts involved in ordinary transactions.

"I believe the shekel will strengthen and become stable," Hurvitz said in a news conference carried on television and radio. New shekel notes will be distributed to banks Saturday night and go into circulation Sunday, a normal business day here. Both the lira and the shekel will be legal currency for at least three months.

Quarterly price hikes proposed for OPEC

LONDON (AP) — Six OPEC members, in a move the Venezuelan energy minister said would "protect the purchasing power of the petrodollar," on Friday proposed raising the cartel's oil price every quarter.

The quarterly price increases would be pegged to fluctuations in the value of the dollar and 11 other major currencies, and to consuming countries' inflation and economic growth rates.

The plan, which is expected to be presented to oil ministers from all 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries at a special meeting early in the spring, was passed at a two-day session here of OPEC's strategy committee.

Venezuelan Energy Minister Humberto Calderon Bertl, regarded by observers as an OPEC moderate, said the panel also recommended keeping the cartel's 30 million to 32 million barrels-a-day oil output unchanged, except for unspecified technical adjustments, "for the next few years at least."

Oil analyst William Rando of the brokerage house of Salomon Brothers in New York called the production pledge "a peace offering to the industrialized countries in return for seeking it to us on prices."

The strategy panel's meeting was chaired by Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, whose nation accounts for one-third of OPEC's oil production.

The committee also includes oil ministers from Algeria, Kuwait, Iran, Iraq and Venezuela. All the nations but Algeria are founding members of the 20-year-old cartel.

The committee's plan seeks to restore a unified price system for the cartel's next decade, replacing the leapfrogging price increases of the past year, when average OPEC prices doubled to around $30 per 42-gallon barrel.

The panel also called for a series of talks with consuming nations on technology exchanges, and backed new financial assistance to help developing countries meet the rising cost of imported oil.

Kuwaiti Oil Minister Ali Khalifa Al Sabah said the plan would be presented to an "extraordinary"

OPEC oil ministers' conference that "certainly would be held before" the ministers' next regularly scheduled meeting in Algiers, Algeria.

The date and place of the special meeting are still to be decided. Al Sabah said United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mana Saad Otaiba was asked by the panel to tour OPEC nations to seek support for the plan.

The Gulf News Agency, reporting from Abu Dhabi, said the minister would start his tour Sunday. OPEC's ministers were unable to resolve their differences over prices at their most recent meeting, held in Caracas, Venezuela, last December.

OPEC's 1979 output has been estimated at 30.8 million barrels daily, the third-highest production level on record. The cartel accounts for about half of the world's oil production, and provided 30 percent of U.S. oil needs in the first 10 months of 1979.

OPEC prices jumped late last year and in early 1980, with the increases often led by Libya, Nigeria and Algeria, as consuming countries feverishly built up oil stockpiles after last winter's Iranian revolution and seven-week oil industry shutdown.

The increases are expected to swell OPEC's international payments surplus — the difference between members' revenues and spending — to $100 billion or more this year from $5 billion to $10 billion in 1978.

The past year also saw differentials — the premiums over the Saudi benchmark price OPEC members post to account for quality and other factors — widen from a maximum of $1.47 to a current top of $11.21 in Algeria's case.

"These differentials need not be higher than $1 or $2 a barrel, not the $6 or more practiced today," said Calderon.

The price of Saudi Arabian oil rose from $13.34 a barrel at the beginning of 1979 to $26 today. Its latest $2-a-barrel boost came Jan. 28 and was followed by hikes by 10 other OPEC members that lifted the cost of a barrel of high-quality crude oil from Algeria — the cartel's most expensive — to $37.21 or nearly 89 cents a gallon.

Dispute prevents final action on windfall tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dispute over which House committee should distribute energy assistance for lower-income Americans prevented final action by a conference committee Friday on a "windfall" tax on the oil industry.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the House-Senate conference, adjourned the meeting until Monday afternoon after it became clear no agreement could be reached.

However, he and staff aides insisted the stalemate would not delay congressional action on the tax, which is a major element of President Carter's energy program. And Long added that "we don't expect to pass a tax bill without some relief for low-income people."

The conference already has agreed on every issue concerning the tax itself and has solved every other problem except how to help lower-income persons cope with rising fuel costs.

Technicians will require 10 days or so to put the bill into shape for final congressional consideration. And they can do that work even while conferees are trying to solve the low-income question.

The conferees have decided that 25 percent of the $227.3 billion that the oil tax is expected to produce in the 1980s should be set aside to help poorer Americans deal with soaring fuel prices.

Senate delegates to the conference suggested that the temporary program in effect this winter be continued for 1981. After that, Congress could see how the program has worked and determine whether changes should be made.

That stance was rejected by the House delegates, mainly because the current program is under the jurisdiction of the Labor and Education Committee — not the Ways and Means Committee, whose members make up the tax conference.

Senators then offered to drop the lower-income issue from the tax bill and attach it to subsequent legislation. The tax bill would be held hostage until aid to lower-income people was assured.

But Reps. James Corman, D-Calif., and Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., insisted that if that approach was taken, they would not agree to the compromise tax bill. And such refusal could jeopardize the tax itself.

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said the issue of committee jurisdiction over the program was far less important than what he called "proliferation of welfare programs."

Gibbons expressed fear that if the current temporary aid program is continued — as the Senate wants to do, at least for another year — it would become a permanent welfare program.

The "windfall" tax would take back from the oil industry an estimated $227.3 billion of the $1 trillion that Americans are expected to pay in the 1980s as a result of Carter's decisions to end federal price controls on U.S. crude oil. After existing taxes are considered, the oil industry would be left with about 22 percent of the $1 trillion "windfall."

Adequate summer supplies of oil foreseen by industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans should have sufficient supplies of gasoline this summer unless there is a substantial interruption in foreign oil imports, a top oil industry spokesman said Friday.

Charles DiBona, president of the American Petroleum Institute, said he was optimistic that Americans could get through the summer without a recurrence of last year's long lines because prices have forced demand down and there currently are record levels of crude oil stocks.

The API reported Thursday that crude oil inventories climbed to 356.9 million barrels for the week ending Feb. 15, their highest point since the trade association began keeping records in 1971. The API reported that gasoline stocks being held by refiners were at their highest level in more than two years.

DiBona said the record stockpiles were the result of a fear among oil companies "that there is a real danger of a very substantial cutoff of supply, no one knows where or when."

But DiBona said if such a supply interruption doesn't occur in the upcoming months, he is "optimistic" for getting through the summer without gasoline lines.

"Demand is down and the starting stocks are very high," he said, pointing out that some refiners have already switched from producing heating oil to increasing gasoline production, something that often doesn't start until April.

Amoco continuing its tests on Utah natural gas wells

CHICAGO (AP) — Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) said Friday that tests have shown its Amoco Production Co. subsidiary found a "significant" natural gas well in northeastern Utah. It said Amoco is conducting further tests on a second well in the area.

The wells are located in the Overthrust Belt, a Rocky Mountain geological formation that some analysts have said may become a major future oil and gas source in the lower 48 states.

Last week, Indiana Standard said it had found substantial amounts of natural gas in a new well in the Wyoming portion of the belt, about 30 miles northeast of the Utah find.

That announcement sparked speculation that the company had discovered evidence of a vast, 50-mile-long gas field in the area.

pushed the price of its stock up by $14 a share to $118.25 in New York Stock Exchange trading. Union Pacific Corp., which owns a minority interest in both wells, was ahead by $2.875 to $99.125 at the NYSE close.

Carl Meyerdirk, a spokesman for Indiana Standard, said flow tests Thursday proved what Amoco had suspected when it began drilling one of the wells last year — that the company had found a well capable of producing large commercial quantities of natural gas.

The company announced in a statement that, in a 12-hour flow test, the well produced 12.45 million cubic feet of gas from a depth of about 12,000 feet. The well's total depth is 17,314 feet.

Such a flow over a 12-hour period indicates the well is a "significant" find, Meyerdirk said.

ENGINEERS

GULF SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY, one of the operating companies of the GULF OIL CORPORATION, has a job opening for an engineer desiring to join a reservoir and formation characterization group. This group provides special well and reservoir evaluation services to GULF's worldwide production operations.

The position requires a degree in Petroleum, Mechanical, Electrical or Chemical Engineering. Responsibilities for the job include maintaining and operating custom designed logging units, and performing unique transient pressure tests. The successful candidate would be in charge of designing, conducting, analyzing and reporting the test projects. Onsite work at worldwide locations may consume up to one half of the engineer's time.

The group is based at our Southwest Houston location, away from the downtown congestion. Qualified applicants are invited to submit their resumes to the address below. The interviews will be conducted in Odessa, Texas.

Our Used Cars Are Sold With As Much Pride As Our New Cars.

Many people are not aware that on many occasions we spend good money and time on the used cars we sell.

Those trade-in cars that do not meet our standards never appear in our used car department. The newer model trade-ins in fine condition, get a quick check, a lick and some polish...while the good older ones do get fixed up, if we feel they are worth the money.

That's why we offer every used car with pride.

Opposition to special legislative session seen

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday that most of the people he has asked for advice about an August special session are against it.

"I am still reconsidering and re-assessing," Clements told his Capitol news conference. "I have not made a decision yet but I have asked the opinions of a lot of people."

"Most of the people I have talked with are of the opinion I should not call the session," he said.

Clements said those advising him say "they do not feel the issues I want to bring up will receive proper attention due to the speakership situation ... I am afraid the session would get involved in (Speaker Bill) Clayton's troubles."

Recently Clements said he was reconsidering an announced August special session of the Texas Legislature to consider tax relief, initiative and referendum and wiretapping. He said he was prompted by Clayton's acknowledgment that he received $5,000 from a Houston labor leader and an FBI informant after talking about an insurance contract covering state employees.

Clayton has denied any wrongdoing and said he intended to return the $5,000 "political contribution." He is scheduled to appear before a federal grand jury in Houston in mid-March.

At least three House members have begun campaigns for the 1981 speakership, conditioned on a decision by Clayton not to run. Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, announced against Clayton before the FBI "sting" operation came to light.

If Clayton should resign before August, the first business of a special session would be to elect a new speaker.

Clements said Clayton's problems with the FBI, which reportedly include tape recordings and phone taps, have not changed his mind about asking Texas legislators for a wiretap bill to fight dope smugglers.

"There is no question in my mind that Texas taxpayers want surveillance to help control the drug traffic," Clements said. "I have made it very clear all along we are talking about drug problems. I can't see any connection in selling insurance and drugs."

On other subjects, Clement said: — Most of Texas will join five other states in the Ozark Regional Commission, which could help Texas meet its future water needs. "If we indeed are going to solve our water requirements in the future, we are going to have to make arrangements with other states in their water sheds," he said.

— He is not taking back a statement he made about C.C. "Jitter" Nolen, former president of North Texas State University, several days ago in Houston. "My statement stands," Clements said. "I said he may very well go to jail because there have been criminal charges in this case. I said 'may' not 'will.' " A House committee is investigating financial dealings at NTSU while Nolen was president and may report next week.

— He understands the runaway Mexican oil well is "on a razor's edge" of being brought under control. He said workers in the Bay of Campeche had been hampered by bad-weather technical difficulties. He said Texas has contingency plans to handle the expected flow of crude oil on Texas beaches if the well is not brought under control by March 3.

— He is still not ready to make a public choice in the GOP presidential race, when asked about a recent Texas poll that shows George Bush leading John Connally. "I'm just pleased that we have any Texas candidate making progress in the race," he said.

Judge misinformed, county official says of decision

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Cameron County officials say a federal judge relied on incorrect information in recommending that a key figure in a manpower scandal be allowed to resume his local union post.

Don Gray was forced out as business manager of Plumbers and Pipefitters Union Local 823 of Harlingen after pleading guilty to state and federal charges of theft.

A federal law prohibits persons convicted of theft, fraud or conspiracy to misapply funds from serving as union officials. Gray's lawyer is trying to win his client an exemption from the law.

After Gray pleaded guilty in 1978, he and his brother, Clarence, were ordered to pay $36,000 in restitution for the federal charge and $60,211 for the state conviction.

Administrative law judge John J. McCarthy of Washington recommended Jan. 28 that Gray be exempted by the U.S. Parole Commission. He said restitution claims had been dropped by the state.

However, $38,330 of the restitution is no longer due, according to county probation records. The amount had been owed to Gray's union, the Harlingen school district and Texas State Technical Institute.

State District Judge Harry Lewis, who sentenced Gray to five years probation and assessed restitution, said the payment claims still stand.

However, $38,330 of the restitution is no longer due, according to county probation records. The amount had been owed to Gray's union, the Harlingen school district and Texas State Technical Institute.

'Operation Cheap Sting' leads to arrest of 45 by Austin police

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Small-time burglars and car thieves who sold their loot to Satellite Salvage soon will see themselves on television — in a courtroom.

Satellite Salvage was a popular fence for five months and, police say, did 100 percent of its business in stolen property, buying but never selling.

True, it didn't pay much — once giving $300 for an $18,000 custom Cadillac — but it was quick and easy and no questions were asked.

But Satellite Salvage was run by undercover policemen, who videotaped each transaction in a massive "sting" reminiscent of phony fence operations in Fort Worth and Washington, D.C.

The Travis County grand jury returned 80 indictments naming 45 persons Thursday, and arrests were made Friday.

"We are talking about career criminals. Three-fourths had prior convictions," District Attorney Ronald Earle told a news conference.

The seven policemen who ran Satellite Salvage spent $17,000 — cash that was confiscated in a gambling raid — on stolen property, including 51 cars, worth $300,000.

"Because we didn't have much money, this operation was nicknamed 'Operation Cheap Sting' by the grand jury," Earle said.

Police Capt. Gilbert Miller, who directed the operation, said customers openly asked if Satellite Salvage objected to buying stolen property.

"We said, 'Just don't tell us.' Word spread around that we were easy," Miller said, and every item sold to Satellite Salvage turned out to be stolen.

Assistant District Attorney Larry Black said Satellite Salvage was closed Wednesday "when we realized more people knew about it (the sting operation) than we would like."

Black said owners of virtually every item of stolen property — ranging from television sets and stereos to a $3,000 sword — have been identified. The cars already have been returned, including 1980 automobiles bought for as little as $50 or $60.

Clements wants aliens identified

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Contending Texas needs the information to redistrict the Texas Legislature, Gov. Bill Clements has added his voice to those urging the Census Bureau to identify the number of aliens — both legal and illegal — in the 1980 population head count.

Clements wrote Vincent P. Barabba, director of the Census Bureau, and asked that census workers ask each person if he is a U.S. citizen.

Present plans include no provision to provide a breakdown on the number of aliens in the nation. The bureau has said it plans to ask some, but not all, about their citizenship.

A redistricting plan drawn up without knowing the number of aliens would probably violate the one-man, one-vote mandate of the Supreme Court, Clements said in the letter, dated Feb. 13.

"Once the number of aliens is excluded from the full count, then state redistricting authorities would have an accurate citizen count with which to redraw district lines," the Texas governor wrote.

House Study Group says plan to reduce payroll 'a failure'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House Study Group said Friday that Gov. Bill Clements' state employee reduction program was a failure during the first five months of the current fiscal year.

Clements, who has asked state agencies to trim their payrolls by 5 percent, responded quickly at his Friday news conference when told of the report.

The report said, "No overall reduction has occurred yet, in the first five months of the fiscal year. Some agencies are planning reductions, but most are saying that they cannot cut employees by 5 percent and maintain current levels of service."

Clements, referring to the report's comments on the program so far, said, "I'm sure the numbers will not confirm that statement."

He said his office's reports on the program are not yet available. He maintained his optimism about the program.

The House Study Group report said if Clements succeeds in persuading state agencies to cut payrolls by 5 percent, Texas would have the fewest state employees per 10,000 residents in the nation by 1982.

The governor's project would lead to 140,587 state employees in 1982, which would return state employment to 1974 levels, according to the report.

"Employment per 10,000 residents would decline from 127 in 1978 to 100 in 1982 (assuming a population increase of 250,000 persons each year)," said the report prepared by Gary Keith.

"That decline would reduce the employment-per-10,000 to its 1970 level. Illinois now has the fewest state employees per 10,000 population of any state, with 101," said the report.

Keith reported state employment grew by 111 percent from 1965 to 1978.

"Whether the growth is too fast or not depends on one's point of view. Those who believe that public services were of poor quality a decade ago may consider that the services have 'improved.' Others would say that if employment has grown faster than population, inflation and work load, it has grown too fast," Keith wrote.

Clements' proposal has met with varying response. Some agencies have said employee cuts would hurt efficiency. Others report their facilities could lose accreditation if forced to reduce payrolls.

Compared with all other states, Texas state employee numbers rank 40th, but Texas state government employs more persons per 10,000 residents than any of the other five states with more than 10 million citizens.

"However, Texas still spends less money per capita than any of the other five largest states," said the report.

First United Methodist schedules workshop

A creative teaching workshop will be held Sunday from 2:30 to 8 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, Main Street and Illinois Avenue. Methodist churches within the Big Spring District are invited to participate. The workshop is designed to help all teachers, youth counselors and administrative personnel.

A special feature of the workshop is dedicated to the 200th anniversary of the Sunday School. The celebration is scheduled at 6 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall.

Following the meal, there will be the singing of Sunday School songs, telling of stories regarding incidents in Sunday School and an address by the Rev. Dr. Roy H. Ryan of Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Ryan is the Director of Church School Development with the Division of Education of the Board of Discipleship of the United Methodist Church at Nashville, Tenn.

His topic will be "Celebrating Our Heritage; Choosing Our Future." On Sunday morning, he will be the preacher at St. Paul United Methodist Church at 4501 Thomason Drive.

He will also lead the Sunday afternoon class for church school administrators at 2:30 p.m.

Other classes in the Workshop include "Teaching Younger Children," "Teaching Younger Elementary" (grades 1-3), "Teaching Older Elementary" (grades 4-6), "Teaching Youth" and "Teaching Adults."

Rev. Dr. Roy H. Ryan

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A study for the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith finds that extremist movements fomenting civil strife in the Third World are prone to anti-Semitism.

Reporting on the findings, Rabbi Leon Klenicki, co-director of the ADL's Interfaith Affairs Department, told a seminar that Latin American rightist movements with a "national security" ideology view Judaism with a "distrust that tends to anti-Semitism."

On the other hand, he said "liberation theology" which is stirring Third World masses uses the Jewish exodus from Egyptian slavery to justify all sorts of liberation movements but denies it applies to liberation of Jews to Israel.

Atheists want police to fire their chaplain

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Local atheists want the Charlotte police department to get rid of its chaplain, the Rev. Dennis Whitaker, 38.

The Mecklenburg County chapter of American Atheists, headed nationally by Madalyn Murray O'Hair of Austin, Texas, has filed a suit in federal court, claiming the chaplain arrangement is unconstitutional because it entangles church and state.

"I believe this may be the first case filed in the United States dealing with the constitutionality of police chaplains' positions," says Charlotte assistant attorney Richard D. Boner.

Under the arrangement, the police department shares costs of Whitaker's $20,000 annual salary half-and-half with Baptists — Charlotte's Providence Baptist Church and state and national Southern Baptist agencies.

St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton Ave., will present a series of Lenten study discussions based on the film "The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe," beginning Wednesday, March 27. The weekly discussion series will continue through March 26.

The discussions will be centered around the film, which is taken from the book of the same name by C.S. Lewis.

The programs will begin with a soup supper at 6 p.m. in the parish hall and end with compline at 8 p.m.

Discussion leader will be the Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Schley Jr., rector. The public is invited.

TRUTH to present concerts

BIG SPRING — The singing group TRUTH will present two concerts March 2 at the First Baptist Church, 705 W. Marcy Drive, in Big Spring. The first concert is scheduled for 6 p.m., with the second set at 8 p.m.

TRUTH has recorded 19 albums and has appeared regularly on the P.T.E. Club and the 700 Club. The group is composed of four brass players, four rhythm players, a woodwind player, plus electric keyboards.

The group started as a youth choir in Mobile, Ala., where the founder, Roger Breland, was serving as minister of music at a local church.

Each performance will include from 10 to 18 songs and the public is invited to attend.

Lent services scheduled by St. Luke's

St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave., will have a special worship service each Wednesday evening from 7 to 7:30 p.m. throughout the Lenten season.

The services will be held in the sanctuary of the church and will include a time for prayer and meditation and a short pastoral message.

Retired bishop to be speaker at St. Nicholas

The Rt. Rev. George H. Quarterman, retired bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas, will be guest preacher at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. services Sunday at St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton Ave.

The public is invited.

Tom R. Roberts named FPC minister of music

Tom R. Roberts was recently named the minister of music at First Presbyterian Church of Midland. He comes to Midland from the First Methodist Church of Roswell, Ga., where he had been minister of music since 1976.

Roberts, known as a conductor and program builder in the area of church music, did undergraduate work at Georgia State University and has studied toward a master's degree at Florida State University.

He has served as guest conductor of numerous state, regional and national choir camps, college orchestras, musical clinics and community choruses. He is also an active member of the American Guild of Organists and Choir Masters, American Guild of Handbell Ringers, National Union for Music Conductors and the American Choral Directors Association, among others.

Over that past nine years, he has directed approximately 50 music workshops and has composed and published eight anthems for mixed voices, 14 handbell compositions and three compositions for brass and organ.

St. Luke's Church to present dedication of Wilkinson Memorial instruments

Dedication of the Wilkinson Memorial instruments will be presented at the Sunday morning service in St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

The service will begin at 10:45 a.m. with a 10-minute quiet prayer service observing the first Sunday of Lent. The prayer service will end with a choral call to worship by the Wesley Choristers, a St. Luke's children's choir.

During the service, the Wesley Choristers will present the first public performance using the Orff instruments.

These instruments were donated by the church in memory of St. Luke's former pastor, William W. "Billy" Wilkinson, who died in January, 1979.

Orff instruments were designed by the German composer Carl Orff. He developed them as aids in working toward a systematic music education program to give each student the opportunity to develop individual talent and feelings.

The instruments promote rhythmic and melodic awareness while building music concepts and skills.

SMBC youth to conduct Sunday night services

The youth of South Memorial Baptist Church, 1700 W. Carter Ave., will conduct the 6:30 p.m. services Sunday.

The Rev. Keith Potter from Westside Free Will Baptist Church will be the speaker. Burton Stovall and Whit Shields will offer special prayers.

A special music service will be performed by the young people. A pizza supper will be served following services.

The general public is invited to attend the services.

Craftsman finds work has a point

By MICHAEL DONAHUE
Memphis Press-Scimitar

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Hobbyist Jim Cunningham can be found almost any day making a point — and when he finishes the point he makes the handle.

Cunningham is a knifemaker. What began as a hobby four years ago is serious work. Cunningham spends 25 to 45 hours making each knife. Cunningham's knives range from 6 inches to 16 inches and include hunting knives, skinners for hunters, folding types and collector knives.

Since adopting the hobby, he's made 50 knives, some of them taking up a week of his time. "It's gotten to be a second vocation," said Cunningham, a camera repairman by trade. "I do custom work. A lot of people will specify the kind. They will send in drawings, real elaborate, down to 1,000th of an inch.

"Ninety percent of my knives go to collectors and investors. Knives are a good investment." But Cunningham, who has sold his knives to customers in Memphis, Florida, New York and Alaska, isn't limited by gender when it comes to selling his knives.

"Forty percent of my knives are sold to women," he said. "Many are collectors. Many buy for their husbands."

The best-selling knife among the women is a knife Cunningham calls the "Doxy" — which is a copy of the knife ladies of the evening used to carry in their garters.

"I've sold a lot," he said. "I didn't realize how many women carry knives in their purses."

There are legal restrictions on Cunningham's hobby. Tennessee law prohibits carrying knives with blades exceeding 4 inches with the intent to go armed. Under the law, knives cannot be sold to anyone under the age of 18.

Manufacture of switchblade knives also is taboo. "You can't even repair them," Cunningham said. "There is a $5,000 or $10,000 penalty besides a jail sentence."

His knives range in size from a 6-inch showpiece he calls the "Rhode Island toothpick" to the 16-inch Bowie knife.

"In our age the Bowie knife is nothing but a collector's item — a longer knife than usual and considered the biggest knife," he said. "However, I've seen people make knives 4 feet long."

All of Cunningham's blades are made from stain-resistant steel. The handles can cost from $75 to $100 and the material used in them ranges from ebony to pearl to ones made from the horn of an India deer raised especially for that purpose, he said.

This winter there's no business for Chicagoans in snow business

By JAMES LITKE

CHICAGO (AP) — The full-pitched battle Chicagoans waged last year against mountains of snow and temperatures that made the air crackle has de-escalated to a skirmish this winter.

Everyone is grateful — except the folks in snow business.

Richard Czeck, president of RMC Enterprises, one of the area's biggest snow-removal firms; has $250,000 worth of brand-new snow-fighting equipment and no snow to fight.

Czeck can't meet the interest payments on his new machines, but he still scans the want ads because many competitors are worse off — and selling equipment at offers even a man in hock finds hard to refuse.

Steve Breault, a local snow blower retailer, was doing fine last fall as people anticipated another severe winter — "then November came and phffft, business dropped dead."

THE VILLA OLIVIA Country Club and Ski Resort in nearby Bartlett has as many golfers these days as skiers making do on artificial snow.

A good portion of the country, stretching from the Midwest to Maine, is normally buried in snow by this time each winter. This year has been almost snow-free. Ski resorts from the Poconos to the Green Mountains are struggling to survive this winter.

But in this metropolises, people are relieved to get a breather from shoveling and shivering.

The National Weather Service said last year's was the worst winter since the agency began keeping records in 1870.

IT WAS THE SECOND coldest winter on record

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Custom Is Expensive

By Alfred Sheinwold

It's customary to set up a long suit by taking your high cards first and making plays with the low cards later. As Poor Alfred's Almanac observes: "Doubtful customs and bad advice, follow them and pay the price."

South took the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart with dummy's deuce of spades. East overruffed and returned a trump, so that South eventually lost another heart trick.

"Very bad luck," South complained, and everybody agreed that in a civilized community the hearts would break no worse than 4-2.

EARLY RUFF
South should ruff the first heart in dummy with the deuce of spades and lead a trump to his hand. He can then ruff low hearts with the ten and queen of spades, after which he can get back to his hand to draw trumps.

Only then is it right for South to take a trick with the ace of hearts. This leaves West with only one heart. South gives up one heart trick and claims the rest.

and the snowiest ever: 87.4 inches overall, including a one-day depth of 29 inches, and 94 consecutive days with an inch of snow or more on the ground.

As of mid-February this year, the temperature was averaging 4 degrees above normal and 15 degrees above last year.

"Last winter was more of a panic than anything else and people were talking 200 inches of snow this winter. Boy, were they ever off the mark," said Czeck. "I know three, maybe four people who thought they'd build empires overnight with a jeep, a plow and a couple pieces of equipment."

Czeck's fleet moves when three inches of snow falls. An average season means seven or eight plow jobs. Last winter, RMC's fleet responded 20 times — including major storms of 8, 10, 11 and 16 inches.

"I BOUGHT UNLOADERS. I bought payloaders. I bought plows," said Czeck. "My customers told me point blank after the winter that if I wanted to keep the account, I'd better get this stuff."

RMC has hit the streets just five times this winter. Total snow accumulation? Just 19.4 inches.

This winter, tension in Chicago has come from teacher and firefighters strikes. Last winter, it was the snow and cold.

A snowplow driver, after 18 straight hours on the job, drove his vehicle into dozens of cars, killing one man.

One man froze his neighbor's car inside solid ice because the neighbor took the man's parking spot. Peoples Gas, Light & Coke Co., the city's major supplier, said current orders for natural gas are down by 10.5 percent.

MELTED AWAY with the anger and frustration is "cabin fever," the shut-in phenomenon that made eating and sleeping major indoor sports in Chicago and produced a minor autumn "baby boom."

Social service agencies like Little Brothers of the Poor, which last winter handled three times the normal 1,400 calls from elderly shut-ins, are breathing easier.

"Calls are still up above average, but nothing like last year," a spokeswoman said. "A lot of what we do are home calls and last year we got snagged just trying to get essentials to people that desperately needed them. This year, we get out a little more."

But others bemoan the mild temperatures and snowless skies.

"THIS HAS BEEN the most devastating year you could dream of," said Dan Corrado, owner-manager of the Bartlett ski center. "If there's a bright side to this — and you wouldn't think so if you could see the linings of my pockets — it's that we've got as many people playing golf here now as skiing."

Breault said it wasn't long ago that customers lined up outside Southwest Lawn Mower and Snow Blower Co. to buy snow blowers right off the truck.

"Actually, we sold three times as many this year as last. ... Everyone armed themselves during the summer and fall months. ... Nobody wanted to get caught without 'em," Breault said.

"The snow throwers go maybe two a week now. Service is down even more. But it's got to snow sometime."

MAYOR JANE BYRNE certainly thought so. For $15 million, the city bought 60 highlift trucks, 20 snowblowing trucks, 200,000 tons of rock salt, 125 tow trucks, 90 plows and 165 four-wheel drive vehicles with small plows for residential streets.

The sight of sanitation department crews going through their paces in a parking lot on a warm, dry fall afternoon left little doubt as to where priorities lay.

So far, the highlifts and snowblowers haven't been touched. Only 40,000 tons of rock salt have been spread and the four-wheel drive vehicles have been used just once.

"When it comes to predictions, only the Lord knows," Czeck said with a laugh. "If I did, I would have bought silver and gold. Who needs snow?"
