Guerrillas holding U.S. ambassador, others in Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Leftist guerrillas holding the U.S. ambassador to Colombia and some 60 other hostages at the Dominican Republic Embassy said today they would release all women and two wounded hostages. But they warned they were ready for a long siege

Earlier, a Colombian Cabinet minister said the guerrilla band lifted a 10 p.m. EST deadline it had set for the government to meet its demands -$50 million, the release of 311 political prisoners, publication of an anti-government manifesto in major foreign newspapers, and safe passage out of the country

The guerrillas have threatened to kill their hostages, who include U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio, the papal nuncio to Colombia and at least 14 other ambassadors or acting ambassadors, and several Colombian diplo

Approximately 25 women and 35 men were taken captive when the 30 raiders stormed into the Dominican mission during a noon diplomatic reception Wednesday

A guerrilla spokesman, contacted by telephone by The Associated Press late this morning, said two wounded hostages would be freed immediately and the women might follow before noon But Mexican Ambassador Ri cardo Galan, one of the hostages, said by telephone that as of 11 30 a m EST neither the women nor the wounded had been released.

The guerrillas said Wednesday the acting Paraguayan ambassador and another, unidentified civilian were wounded. "The situation in the embassy is one of complete calm," Galan told The AP. "The guerrillas have treated us well. They (the guerrillas) don't appear to be nervous. The raiders, members of the M-19 guerrilla organization, also said one of their men was fatally wounded in the assault, and the government said three policemen were wounded.

The guerrilla gang's leader, "Commander No. 1." told The Associated Press by telephone, "We are prepared to remain here one or two months if necessary. It all depends on whether the government wants to negotiate or not

The guerrillas said they were armed with pistols, rifles, grenades, bombs and abundant ammunition.

A Colombian radio reporter said they set a deadline of 10 o'clock EST tonight for their demands to be met.

The Cabinet minister who an nounced the suspension of the deadline also said the mediation efforts of Rafael Vasquez, a former foreign minister and head of the Colombian

Human Rights Defense Commission, had ended, but he did not explain why. Vasquez has been a critic of the gov ernment's anti-guerrilla tactics.

The official did not say what the next steps would be in negotiations with the 30 guerrillas

Asencio telephoned the U.S. Embassy at 8:30 a.m. today, embassy spokesman Larry Estes said.

'The ambassador was in good spirits," Estes said. "He said there was no urgent need for medical care at the embassy

"Commander No. 1" also said the guerrilias would hold a news conference at 9 a.m. today at which they would hand over the anti-government manifesto and the body of the dead guerrilla to four reporters. But by late morning there was no word that such a meeting had taken place

Austria, whose ambassador was among those held, called on the Colombian government not to order an assault on the besieged embassy, and the Dominican government urged the Colombians to "do all possible" to protect the hostages' lives

Search for Kristy continues despite rumors, police say

By KAY HORD

A rumor that 19-year-old Kristy Booth, missing since Feb. 2, has been found is false, police say

Following a statement made by a potential witness earlier this week, officers searched a field north of Midland. But all they found was an empty hole that had been dug. The witness reportedly had been at the Dimensions Club with Kristy when she disappeared

Kristy was last seen Feb. 2 at the club. She left home earlier that night on her way to work, but went with friends to the disco instead. She left her shoes and coat at a table while dancing and never returned, her friends later told police

The 19-year-old's parents reported her missing Feb. 4 to the Midland. County Sheriff's Office, when sheriff's deputies found Kristy's car abandoned on the Rankin Highway On Feb. 7, they reported her missing to the Midland Police Department.

Police have since determined that the abandoned car played no part in Miss Booth's disappearance. She apparently lent the car to a friend. The car broke down on the Rankin Highway and the man left it there, Kristy's parents told police she had never before left home without notifying them of her whereabouts.

Police said she took no clothes or makeup with her.

Miss Booth is a white female, 5foot-712-inches tall, 120 pounds, with reddish brown shoulder length hair and blue eyes. Tom Booth, Kristy's father, described his daughter as someone who was shy around people but who had a high temper when

She was a completely independent individual, or as much as they can be

Volunteer police officers, sheriff's deputies and Texas Rangers recently offered their time and personal vehicles to comb the fields around the north Midland club where Kristy was last seen.

We are continuing to check every lead," Gideon said, "but we have just about exhausted every avenue."

Pearson outlined each segment of the major thoroughfare Wednesday for the Midland Chamber of Commerce board of directors at their monthly luncheon.

Preliminary drainage work along Holiday Hill Road north from U.S. Highway 80 West should be completed in two weeks. After that, bids for a frontage road from Highway 80 to the Andrews Highway will be opened March 12 and the contract awarded, he said.

The next segment will be for two frontage roads from Andrews Highway along the proposed Loop route to FM 868 and ending at Lamesa Road. This should be completed by September 1981.

Total cost of the project is $15.5 million, Pearson said. However, the Highway Department only allocated $8 million for the highway two years ago. But, Pearson said, this is a priority project and he foresees additional funds coming.

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — When Ursula Beckley cracked an egg on Oct. 19, she expected the makings of an omelet to spill out. Instead, she says, she got a snake, and she's suing for $3.6 million.

'I was almost hysterical. I haven't been the same since. I have a thing about rodents and snakes." she said

The 36-year-old woman filed suit Wednesday in state Supreme Court against Dairy Barn Stores, contending a six-inch, grayish-black snake crawled out of an egg she purchased at one of the chain's stores.

Mrs. Beckley said she has been seriously ill since the incident and becomes ill whenever she sees an egg.

Her attorney, Ralph Franco, said Mrs. Beckley is suing on the grounds that the stores "failed to comply with the New York State Agriculture and Marketing Law that requires eggs sold be fit for human consumption.

Clements' campaign plans find 'stumbling block' in law

Clements' plans to campaign for the Republican presidential candidate and against Jimmy Carter may have stumbled over a quirk in federal elec-

Jim Francis, the governor's chief political fund raiser, said Wednesday he will delay registering the Governor Clements Committee - Federal Political Action Committee with the Federal Election Commission until the problem is worked out.

Francis said the Clements organi zation has retained Gaylord Marshall, an oil company lobbyist and expert on campaign finance laws, to

Francis said Clements' federal PAC would raise $25,000 to $50,000 in contributions of up to $1,000 - the federal maximum — to finance Clements' travel around Texas on behalf of the GOP presidential candidate, who ever he turns out to be Francis said anyone who raises or against a presidential candidate must file reports with the Federal Election Commission Clements would fit in a category for expenditures made independently of a political party or a candidate's own organization.

But, Francis said, federal law as interpreted by the commission says. an individual may not spend independently once he or she has "consultation" with the presidential candi

Does that mean the governor can't appear on a platform or fly on a plane with the candidate?" Francis said. If so, we may have to scrub the

own campaign treasury

He also denied reports that Clements would travel about the nation in his quest to unseat Carter.

Psychiatrist describes Gacy's personality as 'powder keg'

CHICAGO (AP) - John W. Gacy Jr. "is a powder keg and will erupt under stress and tension of certain situations," a psychiatrist has testi-

The defense hopes to use the testimony of Dr. Robert Traisman and other witnesses to convince the Circuit Court jury that Gacy, accused of murdering 33 young men and boys, was insane and therefore should be found innocent.

A second defense witness, Dr. Richard Rappaport told the seven-manfive-woman jury on Wednesday he diagnosed Gacy as having a borderline personality

Gacy showed both a psychopathic personality and paranoid schizophrenic behavior — aggressive and hostile, Rappaport testified.

The prosecution maintains that the 37-year-old remodeling contractor planned the killings and deserves the death penalty

Traisman, who estimates he has evaluated 2,000 cases in his 21 years in the profession, said he tested Gacy in his Cermak Hospital room for 312 hours on May 10, 1979, and concluded he was a paranoid schizophrenic.

Gacy has a superior intelligence, he testified, but standardized tests showed he had "deep homosexual conflicts, lack of feeling for other people, lack of emotional control under stress and dangerous im-

Describing drawings Gacy made, Traisman said the defendant "drew me...which showed a defensive act on his part" and then drew a woman with arms of a football player and a very masculine appearance. A third drawing was of his home, which was highly detailed.

Cattlemen vote, reject beeferendum

DENVER (AP) - The National Cattlemen's Association says a random sampling indicates that cattlemen voting in a referendum have rejected a move to spend $40 million to promote the beef industry

Cattlemen throughout the country have been voting since Feb. 19 on the 'beeferendum.' Ballots were sent to county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service on Wednesday. Results will be forwarded to the U.S. Agriculture Department, which is expected to release the official vote Monday.

Roger Berglund, vice president of communications for the cattlemen's association based in Denver, said Wednesday that a poll of scattered county offices indicated that the beeferendum would lose

We know that certain states, such as dairy states and Southern states, were expected to vote 'no'," Berglund said. "In order to pass, there would have to be a strong 'yes' vote in certain beef states.

Berglund said the preliminary poll indicated approval of only about 40 percent in such states as Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri, with slightly higher percentages in Arkansas and Colorado. He said Montana and Mississippi appeared to be strongest in favor with percentages of nearly 60 percent while one of the most important states, Texas, showed only a 30 percent acceptance.

"Based on those results, it appears it will not receive the required majority," he said Berglund read a statement by Jo Ann Smith, chairwoman of the Beeferendum Advisory Groupfrom Micanopy, Fla., in which she called the proliminary results "unfortunate."

The need for such a program remains very great," Ms. Smith said. "However, it is clear that most producers do not want the proposed plan. We hope that those who voted against the uniform collection plan will now join in providing increased support for existing beef research and promotion programs

Initially, the program would have permitted cattle ranchers to contribute 20 cents per $100 of beef sold. The USDA estimated about $40 million would be raised to go for beef research, promotion and foreign mar-ket development

Prince Charles dates new girl

LONDON (AP) — A hunt-loving English debutante is the new girl in Prince Charles' life, according to British newspapers.

And at least one gossip columnist here—Nigel Dempster of the Daily Mail—reports that 25-year-old Anna Wallace is causing "quite a ripple" among her rivals "because she just might be THE one" love of the heir to the British throne.

The couple were seen in public over the weekend when they rode together in a hunt organized by the Cheshire Hunt at Beeston. The two were staying at the nearby home of Lord Tollemache, who would only say about Miss Wallace:

"She's a friend of both of us." As for Miss Wallace herself, who has known the prince for two years, she would not comment on the

An excellent rider, Miss Wallace is 5-foot-7 and blonde. She was educated in France and now works as a secretary in London. The British press described her as "discreet and rather disdainful" as well as "eminently suitable" as a wife.

Her father, Hamish Wallace, is a prominent English landowner and gentleman farmer.

Critics question whether President Carter has overreacted to the Afghanistan crisis by his announcement of a Carter Doctrine, involving the defense of the Persian Gulf area against any outside aggressor.

Opponents of draft registration applaud when they hear Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., declare that the blood of not a single American boy should be spilled in order to keep the oil flowing in the OPEC pipelines.

There is always a danger of overreaction in a democratic country especially in an election year. Jingoism is never far from the surface. We are not advocating war over the Persian Gulf. We don't want to overreact. And we don't think the president has overreacted.

Making it clear to ourselves and to all other concerned nations that we have a vital strategic interest in the independence of the oil-producing countries of the Persian Gulf is not, as we see it, a step toward war. Instead it should contribute to the stability and peace in that region.

What is likely to happen, in any case, is not a full-scale Russian invasion of Iran or Pakistan or any other nation in the region. Instead we can expect infiltration, power by governments influenced by and favorable to Moscow. That is the way it started in Afghanistan, and the Russians invaded only when it appeared that they had lost control of their puppet government in Kabul.

subversion and the seizure of

We don't want to interfere in the internal affairs of Iran or Pakistan or any other nation in the Persian Gulf region. We are about to make a public statement renouncing any such intention as part of the deal for the release of our hostages in Tehran.

But we cannot allow the Soviet Union, by any means it may seek to employ, to gain control of the richest oil-producing region in the world.

Why not? Because we must have the gasoline for our recreational vehicles and gas guzzlers? No. Because we must defend the interests of the American oil com-, panies in the OPEC oil lines? No.

We could survive a loss of 31 percent of our total oil imports by gasoline rationing and other belt-tightening measures. And the oil companies could survive too. But what of Europe, dependent upon the Persian Gulf for 63 percent of its imported oil? And Japan, totally without domestic oil supplies and even more dependent upon the Persian Gulf? Their economies would stagger. Unemployment would be catastrophic. A worldwide depression could occur, just such a depression as brought about World War II.

The alliances that have kept the peace in the 35 years since the war would almost certainly crumble. A dangerous instability would threaten the relationship between the nuclear superpowers, and the United States could find itself relatively isolated as it faced the aggressor.

Our national security establishment cried, 'Wolf,' over Vietnam. We lost Vietnam, and now is appears that we really had no vital strategic interest in that country. So some Americans are disinclined to believe we have any vital strategic interest in the Persian

Their skepticism is easy to understand. But it is far off the mark. The Vietnam era has ended. Our policy must be fresh and new and realistic. It must address the present and the future, not the past, the conditions existing in the Middle East, not the conditions that once existed in Southeast Asia. We cannot allow ourselves to be haunted by the ghosts of Saigon, Hue and Dienbienphu.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

'Forgotten hostage' returned to U.S.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - The incredible behind-the-scenes story can now be told of the dramatic rescue of the Forgotten Hostage. He is Richard Starr, a 32-year-old Peace Corps botanist who spent a grueling three-year ordeal in the mountainous jungles of Colombia

As the White House quietly negotiated with the new Iranian government for the release of 50 American captives in Teheran, we were secretly bargaining for the return of the unfor-. tunate Starr.

The balding, bespectacled scienist's nightmare began in the early morning of February 14, 1977, when armed communist guerrillas from the Revolutionary Armed Command of Colombia (FARC) attacked the village of La Macarena, where Starr was a volunteer. After a pre-dawn shootout which left at least three dead, the guerrillas picked the still sleepy Starr from the crowd of cowed villagers. When Starr, whose Spanish wasn't yet fluent, couldn't give his answers quickly enough to suit the gun-toting outlaws, he was tersely ordered to pack his bag. "You're

Stuffed with pesos and stolen booty, the revolutionaries retreated casually into the jungle confident that neither the police nor the army would be able coming with us," he was told.

to track them down in the tropical undergrowth. It was the prelude to more than 1,100 days of cruel interrogation, psychological torture and unrelieved boredom for the Seattle, Wash., native.

Starr lived under a plastic tarpaulin, strung between two trees, and was constantly birddogged by four or six guards. He spent most of his time gathering botanical samples, listening to the radio and sleeping the long hours from dusk to dawn.

His only friendly companions were two exotic birds which he named after the famous Soviet dissidents Alexander Solzhenitsyn and Andrai Sakharov. The names were deliberately chosen to irritate his captors. But the insult seemed to go over the heads of his illiterate abductors, even though they constantly spouted communist

More than 2,000 miles away, meanwhile, my associate Jack Mitchell was negotiating with FARC intermediaries for Starr's release. Mitchell went to Mexico City last September to meet secretly with the chief intermediary, a Colombian native whose identity we can't reveal.

Throughout the fall of 1979, we bar gained with the elusive FARC guerrillas through their representative, who continuously stonewalled us on positive proof of Starr's well-being. Their primary interest wasn't political but pecuniary - the guerrillas wanted American greenbacks and lots of them. Starr's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Jensen, was on the edge of nervous exhaustion when a long-awaited breakthrough occurred during the last week in January. Our contact confirmed that the revolutionaries had made their demands clear to him via short wave radio. They wanted $250,-000 in cash and a quick consummation of the deal - no more negotiating.

Although we realized the danger of acceeding to ransom demands, the length of Richard's ordeal indicated that buying his freedom was the only way to secure it. Time meant nothing to the FARC guerrillas; they would hold him for years if necessary. So I called on a friend in the business world who prefers to remain anonymous. He generously offered to lend us the full $250,000 on my personal pledge I would return it in full regardless of the outcome of our negotiations with Starr's captors. Mitchell had to visit three bank branches in order to gather sufficient cash the evening before he left for Colombia. He concealed it in a nondescript canvas duffle bag.

Mitchell and a Spanish-speaking adviser, John Longan of Bentonville, Ark., flew to Colombia on February 2nd. They arrived in Bogota at night and checked into a hotel where they could be easily reached.

After a series of clandestine meetings, involving whispered conversations over pay telephones and predawn rendezvous with several contacts, Mitchell was instructed to fly in the single engine airplane of an intermediary to Neiva, a city 130 miles southwest of Bogota.

On Feb. 7th, Mitchell arrived in Nieva and registered in a designated hotel in the city square. He was soon welcomed by other members of the conspiracy. They expertly repackaged the money in a small plain box.

Two hours later, the bag man arrived. He was a handsome Colombian who swallowed a beer in three quick draughts. He assured Mitchell that Starr would be released in three or four days then quietly slipped out five minutes after his younger partner had left with the box of money

Finally, after four days of agonizing waiting and several coded phone calls, Richard Starr appeared outside Mitchell's hotel. He was accompanied by two intermediaries and a Colombian military officer in mufti. Following some polite questioning, the officer assured the delighted rescue party they could leave for Panama.

The following morning, an estatic Charlotte Jensen broke into tears as she saw her son for the first time in over three years as he strode across a runway at a U.S. Air Force base near Panama City.

Only 'unwary innocents' can escape entrapment's snare

By BENJAMIN SHORE Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - "Entrapment," former U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren once said, "deals with unwary innocents.

A federal grand jury here will decide within a matter of months

whether any of the persons apparently caught in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Abscam" investigation were indeed unwary innocents. Until then, the individuals, their lawyers, FBI officials, members of Congress, editorial writers and many others will have made clear their views on whether the FBI over-stepped its legal bounds when it had agents pose as wealthy Arabs and offer bribes to public officials. The prevailing view among lawyers who know the entrapment law — both as prosecutors and defenders — is that the FBI likely is on firm constitutional ground. One clue that surely has not escaped the "Abscam" victims is that FBI Director William H. Webster, 55, is a former federal appelate court judge who dealt with many entrapment cases while on the bench. Furthermore, Webster or top aides personally observed his agents offer bribes over the same concealed television and sound system that produced the videotaped evidence.

Webster, according to reports. would telephone his agents in the rented Washington house and direct changes in their bribe-offering technique so the evidence would not only be convincing but also stand the entrapment test that he knew would come. The test, when explained by Samuel Dash, a professor of constitutional law at Georgetown University here and former chief counsel for the Senate committee that investigated Watergate, is quite simple:

"Did the police induce the defendant to commit a crime he otherwise would not commit? If so, it's entrapment. But if the person is predisposed toward crime, it cannot be entrapment. Dash's summary of entrapment law is not disputed by Justice Department prosecutors. The predisposition test, Dash said in an interview, tilts in favor of the prosecution. A defendant does not have to have a criminal record to establish a predisposition to crime, he said.

"The person's reputation, even if he's never been convicted or even charged with a crime, often can be enough to support an indictment and prosecution.

This means that a defendant - such as one of the eight members of Congress widely publicized as "Abscam" victims — who pleads entrapment and who does not have a criminal record can expect the government to trot out all kinds of witnesses and evidence to establish that he had a reputation for being predisposed to crime. On top of this, Dash explained, prosecutors will be able to simply play for a grand jury and a trial court the Webster-directed videotapes of the bribery event itself. "The circumstances surrounding the incident in question can be used by prosecutors to attempt to prove predisposition,'

When the "Abscam" headlines broke and alleged victims immediately screamed "entrapment," there were some congressional colleagues, federal prosecutors and reporters who knew right away some of the victims would fail the predispositionto-crime test, even though none has a criminal record. The FBI also is prepared to lay before a grand jury ample evidence that the government did not deliberately set out to see which members of Congress could not pass a temptation test, Justice Department officials say.

The FBI already has said its undecover investigation into the sale of stolen securities and paintings led, admittedly circuitously, to certain members of Congress. And when they found that their informants were about to bring the undercover investigators into contact with powerful and highly respected members of Congress, the federal agents did not back away discreetly.

But there is one interesting theory circulating to explain why the "sting" operation was leaked to the press, thus bringing "Operation Abscam" to an abrupt close: high administration officials began to get nervous over the prospect that if the FBI kept going, too many members of Congress would be implicated. That theory is supported in part by the fact that this is a potentially tough re-election year for President Carter, who will need all the friends he can find on Capitol Hill, and in part by the fact that seven of the eight legislators feeling the FBI's

As the dust from the initial uproar was settling, the last word was that the FBI had strong cases against five of the eight legislators, not-so-strong cases against two, and likely no case against the eighth. When these cases go to trial (and Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti has promised Congressional leaders the government will move swiftly so the large cloud of public suspicion will not unduly linger long over the entire Congress), federal prosecutors will have not only impressive visual and aural evidence but also solid legal precedents to fend off defendants' entrapment pleas.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled consistently over the years that the basic rules on entrapment are constitutional. A 1973 decision sanctioned the role of an undercover agent in the commission of a crime for the purpose of catching the real criminals involved. And a 1976 decision, the most recent dealing with entrapment. upheld a conviction stemming from a 'sting" operation in which the FBI actually provided the illegal ingredients for a clandestine narcotics fac-

Federal law today is weighted so heavily in the government's favor that investigators can come up with the idea for the crime, provide the opportunities and methods, and still win convictions if it can prove the defendants were predisposed to crime. As the late Chief Justice Warren said, only "unwary innocents" can escape the trap.

Playboy model thinks of herself as 'a good sailor'

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Lisa Ann Woolf, in hot water with the Navy for posing nude in Playboy magazine, prefers to think of herself as "a good sailor" who spruced up the swabby's image.

'Before I joined up I thought all women sailors were big, ugly and had hair on their chests," said the 5-foot-2, 110-pound Miss Woolf, a machinist aboard the San Diego-based Samuel Gompers, a destroyer-

"Maybe this will show the men that there are some pretty women in the Navy," said Miss Woolf, who last year was among the first women stationed aboard a Navy ship.

Because she and a friend, Susan Gage, are among six military women featured in next month's Playboy, the Navy has launched an investigation that could cost them their jobs.

The controversy erupted last week, forcing Bambi Lynn Finney, 22, out of the Marine Corps on an early

A total of six women representing the Navy, Army, Air Force and Coast Guard appear in Playboy's April edition.

The fate of Miss Woolf and Miss Gage, a 22-yearold interior communications technician, will be determined by their respective commanding officers, a Navy spokesman said.

Both are scheduled to be promoted, but, because of the investigation, Miss Woolf said she has been advised that her promotion has been held up. "They have to decide whether it's degrading to the service," she said. She accepted the magazine's offer to be in the pictorial layout after answering a newspaper ad "I called my mom and dad before I posed and they said go ahead. We were not raised to be ashamed of our bodies," she said. 'Why do people automatically think you are some floozy or something?" asked Miss Woolf. "I didn't do it for dates. I have a steady boyfriend and I love him very much. It was an exciting thing to do, an

Plenty of gasoline for summer driving

WASHINGTON (AP) - There will be plenty of gasoline this summer, but American drivers will be using less as prices push toward an expected yearend high of $1.50 per gallon, the Energy Department is predicting.

In a 12-month outlook of the nation's energy situation, department economists took a more optimistic position on gasoline prices than many private analysts, who are forecasting even steeper increases during the current year.

Because of the higher prices and increased automobile fuel efficiency, the agency is estimating Americans will use 6.8 million barrels of gasoline daily in 1980, compared to 7.03 million barrels a day

"The refining industry should have little difficulty in meeting this level of total requirements, but problems in distribution may develop in providing the growing portion of unleaded gasoline," the report said.

The report said that stocks of gasoline are expected to be 21 million barrels higher in March over a year ago and thus indicate a "relatively comfortable balance of motor gasoline supply and demand at the beginning of the peak driving season.

The report predicted the price for regular leaded gasoline at full-service stations could be as high as $1.52 by the end of 1980.

The American Automobile Association said its latest spot check on prices showed motorists are already paying an average of $1.21 a gallon for regular. Some industry analysts have said regular will climb to $1.84 by the end of the year.

Consumption of all petroleum products is predicted to drop from last year's 18.3 million barrels daily in 1979 to 17.6 million barrels a day in 1980. This will contribute to a drop in oil imports from 7.7 million barrels a day in 1979 to a projected 7 million barrels a day in 1980.

The report said world oil supplies "appear adequate for current needs" even though several producing countries were threatening to cut back their production levels as a way of keeping prices high.

The agency said its optimistic supply predictions would not hold up if there were serious cutbacks in foreign supplies this year and it warned that "even greater disruptions of oil supply, higher energy prices and lower economic activity are possible. The agency also forecast higher prices for home heating oil, saying that by next winter homeowners could be paying as much as $1.14 a gallon. Heating oil is currently selling for about 90 cents a gallon.

Independence day to prompt variety of fetes by UT exes

AUSTIN (AP) — Ex-students of The University of Texas will celebrate Texas Independence Day with recorded Willie Nelson music in Holland, chili in Cyprus, meat pies and wine in Chile and a full day of activities on the main campus here.

The annual celebration, which begins Friday, is the 84th renewal of the celebration that this year will be observed in more than 200 communities, including 50 foreign locations.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements has declared Sunday, March 2, "Texas Exes Day."

"March 2 is the date the Republic of Texas offi-cially took responsibility for the education of its citizens and we should pause on this day to consider our heritage as alumni of the 'university of the first class," said John Stuart, president of the UT Ex-Students' Association.

At noon Friday, 500 orange and white balloons will be released from the UT Tower, and the world's largest Texas flag will hang from the president's

Carter eyes options to fight inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is considering a wide range of economic options to help battle inflation, including credit controls, budget cuts and action to slow the automatic increases in government spending, government sources say.

One congressional source said Wednesday he believed Carter would make major changes in the budget for fiscal year 1981 that he sent Congress last month. It has been reported Carter may try to cut $10 billion from the $616 billion he has proposed.

But 42 senators introduced a resolution in the Senate Wednesday demanding that Carter cut his budget by $25 billion, to $590 billion. The resolution, which would not be binding on the administration, calls for a limit on federal spending equal to 21 percent of the nation's gross national product. Carter's proposed budget equals about 22 percent of the GNP. One of the sponsors, Sen. Bill Roth, R-Del., said he favors a filibuster if necessary to win enactment. other sponsor, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. said he opposes a filibuster, but believes a cutback in spending would be the most logical and least painful way to fight inflation.

Alternatives such as continued tightening of the money supply and mandatory wage and price con-trols are "so bleak" that they should be resisted, he

Carter, who on Monday declared that inflation has reached the "crisis stage," has ordered a review of his economic policies. He met with his top economic advisers Sunday and another meeting is planned later this week.

The government reported on Friday that consum-er prices increased 1.4 percent in January. If continued for a 12-month period, inflation for the year would total 18 percent.

While it has been learned that a wide range of options are under consideration to strengthen the administration's fight against inflation, the president and his advisers have taken pains to let it be known that mandatory wage and price controls are not among them.

But one congressional source speculated Wednesday that if inflation continued to rise at an 18 percent annual rate for the next few months, Carter might not have any choice but to propose controls, as the Congress and the public might demand them.

He said he believed the administration would give serious consideration to credit controls, which it already has authority to impose.

The purpose of credit controls would be to take pressure off prices through such actions as requiring higher down payments for consumer purchases. However, Paul A. Volcker, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, which would administer the controls, said earlier this week he opposes credit controls and thinks they could be counter-product-

Also high on the list of Carter options, the congressional source said, is an effort to reduce federal spending in both 1980 and 1981. Carter sent his $616 billion budget for fiscal 1981, which includes a deficit of $16 billion, to Congress last month.

Homebuyers face another rate hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - Homebuyers, beginning today, will have to pay up to a record 13 percent interest for government-backed mortgages. It's the second increase in less than three weeks. Acting simultaneously, the Veterans Administra-tion and the Federal Housing Administration on Wednesday increased the maximum interest rate they charge on home mortgages by 1 percent.

Meanwhile, the government temporarily put a lid of 12 percent on the interest earned on 2½-year savings certificates bought in March — despite a formula providing for interest of up to 13.5 percent.

Wednesday's announcements, which can within three hours of each other represent a different content.

three hours of each other, represent additional reactions to the Federal Reserve Board's tight-money policies, aimed at cooling inflation. The VA-FHA action follows a Feb. 11 boost from 11.5 percent to 12 percent for single-family mort-gages and from 11 percent to 12 percent for multi-family mortgages

Interest rates were also increased for mobile-home loans, from 14.5 percent to 15.5 percent; for mobile homes with a lot, from 14 percent to 15 percent, and for property improvements, from 14 percent to 15.5

"With the prevailing mortgage rates and the re-cent action of the Federal Reserve Board, we had no alternative," said Moon Landrieu, secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

BUSINESS MIRROR Inflation making good investments hard to come by

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - As inflation devours assets, and high interest rates make it impossible to replace them, fewer and fewer sound investments can be found. Many people, in fact, say they can find

None, that is, that combine the usual features of a sound investment, that is, the likelihood of a decent return for the level of risk that is assumed.

Eliminated from consideration are most savings instruments. Relatively riskless, to be sure, they are also very unprofitable, providing returns ranging downward from under 15 percent to 5.25 percent.

If inflation were 2 percent a year, an investor could eke out a tiny reward before taxes. But the annualized inflation rate in January was 18 percent, a rate that could grow appreciably in the next few

Housing prices may have peaked for the time being, frustrating the hopes of thousands of inves-tors. Simultaneously, fuel bills on rental properties have put pressure on operating profits.

Seeking returns greater than the inflation rate, millions of people have returned to the stock market, theorizing that stocks — often selling below book value — have the potential to move up sharply.

Some have. Low-priced over-the-counter stocks + those not listed on major exchanges - have sometimes risen 50 percent in a single day. And some oil stocks have doubled in the past year or so.

In turning to such investments, however, individuals usually incur greater risk than in savings. Some low-priced stocks have fallen almost as spectacularly as they rose, stranding those who rode them.

The same quest has forced people who ordinarilly dealt only with banks to buy metals, diamonds and various commodities. Again, the risk-reward ratio prevails; what floated like air sometimes falls like

Depending upon the investment, certain expenses must be subtracted from the gains: brokerage fees, storage fees, insurance, and inevitably, taxes. As a result, net profit may barely resemble gross. In speaking with people you quickly detect that hope is mixed with desperation, and that desperation shades into despair. Helplessness, an un-American trait, is conceded by President Carter. Speaking to editors this week, Carter said, "It would be misleading for me to tell any of you there is a solution to it." We are caught, he said, "in circumstances over which we have very little con-

Many people dispute that view, noting that even with energy prices eliminated from the consumer price index the nation still has double-digit inflation. Inflation, they maintain, is restrainable.

But, with the President confirming their own feelings of inadequacy, investors don't feel so good these days. They search for ways to preserve their assets, but instead of security they find greater

College student's words carry plenty of weight

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP) - Anytime he wants, Kenneth Ewers, a computer science major at Minot State College in Minot, N.D., can be sure his words carry a lot of weight. Consider the birthday greeting he wrote his father. It weighed 30 pounds.

"My husband was just amazed when he opened the box," Mrs. Ewers said Monday. "We waited until after supper and cleared the table and put the box on. When Bob opened it, he just laughed and started reading it and kept laughing." The letter was written on a computer with two letters to a page. It contains 2,812 pages and is 2,566 feet long and 13 inches thick.

Last season, Shofner's gin turned out 9,700 bales. His mother, Fred Ella, assumed ownership of the gin after her husband, Clebern, died in 1978.

"We had a good year," he figured. He and his crew could have turned out more bales if they had the means to haul those compacted modules from the farm to the gin; but that would take an $80,000 piggy-back, modulehauling truck.

"If we had had a truck, we could have hustled up some more cotton, but we had a good year, so we just the farmers brought in via trailers. Reid did the same. But he only processed something less than half of what his competition did.

We was down a lot for repairs after Lonnie (Kemp) passed away,' Reid said. Lonnie Kemp, a partner with the Sweetwater Cotton Oil Mill Co., died last year. And his widow, Mary, took over the Sparenberg side of the partnership.

After the ginning is done, Sparenberg's business activity dies down. The gin keepers, though, have to round out their paperwork and make necessary repairs on the ginning machinery, while the farmers return to the fields for plowing and cultivating in readying their land for next season's crop.

More than anything, Sparenberg is a couple of gins in a sea of cotton, speckled by oil field pump jacks and farm houses. Once, there was far more, but after the rural Sparenberg school was closed in 1948 in a countywide consolidation move that affected other rural communities, the Sparenberg community was ushered into relative oblivion.

"We had a blacksmith's shop, but he (blacksmith Cecil Teal) stopped working and closed down several years ago," Shofner said.

And not long ago, Maximo Rodriquez closed down his cafe, which specialized in chili and hamburgers. 'Age caught up with him, too," Shofner said. And the Butchee Grocery Store closed.

Like his twin brother, Bobby, Billy Shofner has quite a few seasons left before he even considers retiring to the proverbial rocking chair. The brothers, though unaware, first saw the light of day in 1946, and except for Bobby's moustache, they look alike.

And work-wise, the Shofner brothers play different roles. Bobby is a hog farmer; Billy, of course, runs the

Studio 54 denied new liquor license

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York State Liquor Authority, citing the activities of two of Studio 54's owners, has refused to renew the liquor license of the trendy Manhattan nightspot.

The ruling Wednesday means the disco will be prohibited from selling alcoholic beverages as of March 1, although it can remain open.

Attorneys for Studio 54 could not be reached for comment and employees at the club said they were unaware of the ruling.

Lawrence J. Gedda, spokesman for the five-member authority, said the action was taken following the imprisonment of owners Steven Rubell and Ian The two reported to federal authorities earlier this

Hooded bowman suspect in 'hit'

NEW YORK (AP) - A man who was seriously wounded when a green-hooded bowman leaped from a van and shot a 27-inch hunting arrow into his back is a key witness in a former policeman's attempted murder trial, authorities say.

Michael Gentile, chief of investigations for Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold, said there was "absolutely no evidence at this time that this was a 'hit' or related in any way to the prior trial."

However, one investigator who declined to be identified called it "a definite hit."

The victim, Alexander Hudson, 36, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital after surgeons removed the arrow that had lodged six inches in his body, narrowly missing his

Police said the arrow had three prongs made of razor blades attached to the shaft by wire.

Afghan rebels plan attack on Soviets

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Rebels planned renewed attacks on Soviet and Afghan army units in Kabul on Friday, the Moslem sabbath, rebel sources said today, despite the civilian militia's reign of terror on the capital's rebel strongholds.

At least 300 persons died last Friday in six hours of street battles after anti-Soviet demonstrations by worshippers emerging from midday prayer in the city's mosques.

Soviet and Afghan troops were reported on the alert throughout the city to prevent a recurrence of last week's violence. The troops were backed by the ruling Khalq (People's) Party's undisciplined militia force of about 2,000 men, assigned to patrol duty in districts regarded as particularly sympathetic to the rebels.

The militiamen had virtually unlimited powers under martial law regulations, including the authority to set up summary courts martial, diplomatic sources said. They estimated that dozens of alleged rebels or rebel sympathizers had been killed in the past week by militiamen seeking revenge for last week's well-organized insurrection.

An Indian and a French diplomat said they saw the militia gunning down unarmed civilians at the height of the fighting.

Sporadic bursts of machinegun fire still rattled through the streets of the mile-high capital today, and tanks remained on guard at the headquarters of the pro-Soviet Afghan government as well as at the Soviet Embassy and several housing compounds used by Russians and East Europeans

But many of the Soviet and Afghan army tanks and armored cars that lumbered into the streets after the fighting broke out last Friday were withdrawn and the streets in front of government offices were reopened to traffic

Kabul's merchants shut their shops last Thursday and kept them shut for six days to protest the Soviet occupation. The general strike halted business in the capital and triggered two days of anti-Soviet rioting and street battles between Moslem rebels and Soviet and Afghan troops last Friday and Saturday in which the 300 civilians were reported killed and thousands injured. Military casualties were not known.

The communist government decreed martial law and rounded up large numbers of Shiite Mmslems, most of them from the Hazara Tribe, on suspicion of instigating the disturbances, sources said.

The Associated Press of Pakistan reported Afghan authorities carried out widespread executions following the street warfare. The report, which could not be independently confirmed, quoted diplomatic sources as saying an Islamic scholar was among those killed.

Another unconfirmed report by the Pakistani news agency said there was

"bitter fighting" between the Moslem rebels and Afghan government troops in the past-few days.

In one incident, it said, rebels "killed 400 troops and destroyed a number of armored vehicles" when they ambushed a government convoy on the road between Jalalabad, in eastern Afghanistan, and Kabul.

On the diplomatic front, there were signs from two directions that the Soviet Union might be seeking a way out of Afghanistan.

The London Evening Standard reported sources close to Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev proposed a force of U.N. troops be sent to Afghanistan to hold elections. But the sources said the Russians would not agree to an anti-Soviet government.

American industrialist Armand Hammer said Brezhnev told him during a meeting in Moscow that the "problem could be solved" if the United States and Afghanistan's neighbors "guaranteed they would use their influence" to end interference in Afghanistan's internal affairs.

Hammer also said Brezhrev liked his suggestion for "immediate" talks between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko aimed at ending the crisis, which began in December when the Soviets poured an estimated 70,000 into Afghanistan to prop up a new

Fugitive bank teller 'gives up'

By YVONNE CHILIK

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - After living for four years "like a fugitive, looking over her shoulder and jumping at the slightest sound," a former bank teller emptied $52,500 from a laundry bag onto a U.S. Magistrate's desk and surrendered, officials said.

Margaret Veca, 28, disappeared in 1976 with $95,000 from a Hoboken bank where she had been entrusted with a vault key, authorities said. She turned herself in Tuesday. She has been sought by the FBI since June 1, 1976, when officials at the Washington Savings Bank discovered money from the vault she was to lock up before the Memorial Day holiday was missing.

She appeared Wednesday before U.S. Magistrate Serena Perretti with her family, a 31/2-year-old son and William Kelly III, her boyfriend with whom she disappeared.

Federal authorities, unsure why she abruptly reappeared, say the pressure of hiding may have reached the breaking point.

"She looks like she's 40," said a federal official who asked not to be identified

'They lived like moles for the past 31/2 years. They never went out into the sunlight, they were afraid to go anywhere because they might have been recognized," he said. The couple moved from apartment to apartment, officials said, living in three different places since their disappearance, including Long Branch and Bradley Beach. Mem

Ms. Veca is charged with embezzling the funds on May 28, 1976, after she was told by bank officials to lock the vault and set time locks before leaving for the holiday weekend

When officials returned the following Tuesday, the time locks were off and the money was gone, according to a complaint signed by Perretti.

Order in the Corps

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Really, something must be done about the bumptious behavior of the White House press corps at presidential press confer-

All this shouting out and jumping up and down for recognition is quite unbecoming.

The flower of American journalism should devise a more orderly method of going about its business. The other evening when Jimmy Carter favored them with a half-hour of his valuable prime time in a year of world crises and presidential elections, the media mighties were leaping up and pawing the air like touch football players scrambling after a long

Quite often they blocked the television cameras with their boisterous scrimmaging to be favored by the president for a question.

A little decorum is needed here. Such self-assertive carryings-on more properly belong under a basketball backboard.

Perhaps the denizens of the West Wing of the White House might emulate the audience at a London auction gallery like Sotheby's or Christie's. Here the patrons make their presence known and have their million-pound bids recognized by a nod of the head or a quick flick of the catalogue. The economy of motion contributes greatly to the profoundness of the proceedings, creating an atmosphere of hushed, almost unbearable suspense.

I can see UPI's Helen Thomas sedately flicking her notebook, while NBC's John Palmer oh so slightly nods his noble Roman profile to seek presidential recognition as the brothers Kalb of CBS attempt a two-on-one with a discreet click of their ballpoint

In my infrequent associations with the White House correspondents, I have seen the likes of the stately Miss Thomas and the stylish Lesley Stahl and the erudite Godfrey Sperling of the Christian Science Monitor vault over campchairs like Olympic hurdlers and scatter Secret Servicemen like nine pins in their fervor to keep up with the presidential cavalcade.

I wouldn't put it past the lot of them to upend wheelchairs and send canes, crutches, braces, and aluminum walkers flying in a stampede to the phones if President Carter announced he was changing his hair style again in the course of a visit to an old folks home.

Such zeal is understandable. News is an exciting, demanding, highly competitive business. So the selection method to ask the president a question at one of his rare news conferences should have an aura of excitement about it.

Agreeing on the names in advance or employing a rotation system would rob the event of its drama. Besides, deciding on a list of inquisitors could take longer than the SALT negotiations. Picking the names out of a hat or using a cage of Bingo numbers, like the old Selective Service moguls used to spin for the draft, might stir some suspense and audience interest, but the whole proceedings could degenerate into another television game show. Gambling interests might even start laying odds or which names would come up and before you know it the fix would be on. Also, the media heavies from the big networks, the news services and the mass circulation dailies say nothing of Jody Powell - would never allow the wheel of fortune to allocate prime time questions to the part-time stringer from the East Overshoe Gazette or the disc jockey-news director from powerful little five-watter down in Skunk Hollow. When the presidential finger points, the audience, not the answer, is uppermost in his mind.

Here's an idea that might liven up the scene and still do away with the unseemly scrimmaging and shouting. Suppose everyone, ladies included, wore bowties that light up, after the manner of the Italian contract bridge team that was thrown out of an international tournament for flashing various polka dots patterns to indicate three hearts, four no trump,

AP could flash a blue tie, the New York Times gold, ABC orange, the Boston Globe green, NBC a peacock pattern after its house symbol, and so on, allowing the president to choose whichever color or questioner struck his fancy. On color TV, the effect should be electrifying.

AP's Frank Cormier, the dean of the White House correspondents who has been covering the West Wing for two decades, already is famous for his bow ties. Frank and all the rest could be wired for instant recognition. Just plug them and let them

To preserve decorum, however, the bulbs in the bow ties, like the correspondents themselves would flash a controlled brilliance. No strobe lights or psychedelic effects, please. This is a press conference, after all, not a cellar disco.

'Astrology defense' planned for rapist

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It was written in the stars that Mark Quinn Denton would commit rape, robbery and assault, says an attorney who plans an "astrology defense" for his 23-year-old client.

"This will be a case of spirit versus matter," said Miami Beach lawyer Jack Nageley. "It was the law of karma. He has no control whatsoever over his behavior.

Denton, paroled from prison last March after serving 18 months for sexual assault and kidnapping, was arrested again after two men terrorized a couple in a Plantation, Fla., townhouse on Sept. 22.

The man's hand was slashed with a knife, obscenities were scrawled on walls. The couple was tied and the 56-year-old woman was raped, police said.

Denton was arrested leaving the townhouse wearing a brassiere on his head. Thomas E. Sheridan, 21, was arrested inside the home. He faces the same charges as Denton.

Nageley, in what he calls an unprecedented legal strategy, says he'll bring astrologers and star charts to court for Denton's trial on April 1.

He said he won't try to win freedom for Denton. The lawyer said his client admits committing the crimes and has a long history of using LSD and other drugs. But Nageley said he'll argue innocence by insanity, that Denton deserves hospital treatment, not jail.

"It could revolutionize criminal defense," Nageley

Assistant State Attorney Marshall Pratt said. "To my knowledge, astrology has never been used in the state of Florida to prove insanity. I don't think it can Nageley said he would call three astrologers to testify, including Zoltan Mason, operator of a Manhattan bookstore specializing in the occult.

Rental housing outlook gloomy

WASHINGTON (AP) - The latest jump in interest rates will surely worsen the nation's already severe rental housing crunch, Housing and Urban Development Secretary Moon Landrieu predicted Wednes-

Meanwhile, administration officials indicated that January's shocking rise in the inflation rate makes it even less likely that President Carter will support the immediate spending of billions of dollars to help people buy homes at low mortgage rates.

Even before the government announced a 1.4 percent rise in consumer prices last month, the Carter administration warned that injecting so much money into the economy to subsidize high-cost mortgages would fuel double-digit inflation. Builders and labor officials have urged the administration and Congress to spend $10 billion in emergency funds for mortgage subsidies, in an effort to revive the housing industry, which is suffering under the weight of record high interest rates.

Those interest rates rose even higher in the last two weeks in response to worsening inflation news. First the Federal Reserve Board increased its lending rate from 12 percent to 13 percent, and commercial banks then boosted their prime loan rates to 16

"That certainly puts a damper on any plans to construct rental units," Landrieu said at Senate

Landrieu told a Senate Banking subcommittee that builders will start "fewer than 50,000" private multi-family rental units this year, compared with

"And this estimate does not take into account the most recent jump in interest rates," the secretary stressed.

Many contractors already pay more than 20 per-cent interest on construction loans. "As long as inflation and energy cost (rises) are deemed to be given...then investment (in private rental housing) becomes very unattractive," the secretary said. Landrieu said he sees the "private sector moving out of the rental market altogether," as prospective owners weary of rent controls, strong tenant rights movements and rising operating costs. The nation's rental market faces a bleak future. Vacancy rates are at an historically low 5 percent; and in some cities, fewer than 2 percent of rental units are unoccupied.

Engineers say best cars made in Japan

DETROIT (AP) - Almost half the U.S. automotive engineers responding to a trade journal survey say the best cars are produced in Japan.

German auto quality ranks right behind Japan's in the opinion of 250 engineers responding to a survey by Ward's Automotive World. And among those who develop products for the five domestic automakers, only 27.2 percent say America's cars are the best-

Half the engineers polled responded to the survey Results appeared in the March issue.

Ward's said the engineers called Japan's cars superior not because of better technology but because of "better workmanship on the production lines, attention to fine detail and rapport with management that lets voices from the assembly line be

Lee Caudill, senior engineer at the General Motor's Corp. Fisher Body Division, said Japan's cars got his vote for three reasons:

"The conscientious effort of the (Japanese) assembly line worker to follow engineering specifications exactly; if something is wrong in design, the assembly-line worker suggests a change and management investigates; through cultural education, both quality and pride of workmanship are a way of

The engineers appear to agree with the American public, who told Consumer Reports' annual subscrib-er questionaire that they wouldn't rate a single U.S. car among 471 models as "much better than average" in quality. But 32 Japanese cars among 112 models made that grade, the magazine's 1980 Buying Guide said.

recent Tri-State Regional in Port Chester, N.Y., was Jaime Ortiz-Patino, president of the World Bridge Federation. He took time off from a business trip to the United States to partner Bridge World editor Edgar Kaplan in the Men's Swiss Teams. Despite his heavy involvement in bridge organization, Ortiz's skills as a player are undiminished. After East made a normal

(for tournament play, that is) preempt of three spades in first seat, West tried to muddy the waters in an attempt to buy the hand undoubled. But there was no denying North, who doubled and then doubled the escape to four spades. Sitting South, Ortiz elected to try for the vulnerable game rather than accept what might have been an inadequate penalty.

West led the jack spades, won by the ace - ace of diamonds and another would have scuttled the contract, but we haven't yet reached the point where we play with see-through cards. Since the contract would be hopeless without a 3-3 trump played ace, king and another heart. East won and forced declarer with a spade. The contract now hinged on declarer holding his diamond losers to one-something that would not be easy to accomplish. One way would be to play a defender for a doubleton ace of diamonds by leading to a diamond honor and then playing a low diamond from both hands. However, before committing himself to this line, declarer set about learning something about the hands.

He cashed three top clubs, and when East showed up with two, the count of the hand was complete, though inferentially. East should have seven spades, and had shown up with three hearts and two clubs, for twelve cards. That left room for only one diamond.

Now the spot cards in diamonds came into play. The only hope for the contract was that East's lone diamond would be the ace (unlikely in view of the preempt) or a singleton jack or ten. So declarer led a diamond to the king, and wasdelighted to see East follow with the ten on the trick. West won the ace and exited with a club, won in dummy, as declarer shed a diamond He returned to his hand with spade ruff and confidently ed a low diamond to the eight. When that held, the contract was home.

Runaway may be capped soon

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State Department is telling senators that the runaway Ixtoc I oil well may be capped "in the very near future."

'Two relief wells have been drilled, designed to bring the Ixtoc I well under control, and according to reports from Mexico, both have now intersected the Ixtoc I formation," J. Brian Atwood Jr., an assistant secretary of state, wrote to Sen. Edward Zorisky, D-Neb.

'Mexican authorities have expressed the hope that the relief well operations will permit capping of Ixtoc I in the very near future," he wrote.

Zorinsky had written to the State Department requesting an update on the well as part of a compromise reached to keep Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., from trying to cut off federal funds to Mexico.

Atwood's reply was submitted to the Congressional

'We do not have exhaustive information on the cleanup operations which have been undertaken by the government of Mexico in response to the Ixtoc I spill," Atwood wrote. "Large-scale efforts have been made to disperse oil at the well site using chemical

A spokesman for Pemex, the Mexican national oil monopoly, said earlier this week that workmen were getting closer to the goal of shutting off the well.

Coast Guard Cmdr. Joe Valenti said Wednesday he had received a report from Mexico that Pemex was targeting Friday as the date for the next attempt to cap

The attempt would be contingent on weather and other factors, he said.

At first glance, using conventional X-ray techniques, it appeared he had a malignant tumor. However, a three-dimensional look at the "tumor" using computerized axial tomography showed the mass to be an entirely different disease, one that did not require dangerous surgery and could be treated with drugs and radiation.

Robinson said he is now cured. The difference between the two diagnostic techniques "may have saved my life," he said during an Accident 'won't delay licensing'

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nuclear Regulatory Commission says this week's nuclear malfunction in Florida probably won't delay plans for the resumption of licensing of atomic

But Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., chairman of a Senate subcommittee on nuclear regulation, says a major new investigation may be warranted one that could require the shutting down of some existing plants. Hart, in a prepared opening statement for a hearing today on Tuesday's accident at the Crystal River power plant, called the event disturbing — especially since it involved a Babceck & Wilcox reactor. The same company designed the unit at Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island, site of the nation's most serious nuclear accident 11 months ago. The Florida accident showed "the continued apparent susceptibility of Babcock & Wilcox reactors to minor plant disturbances," Hart said. "Similar mechanical malfunctions have occurred at B&W plants on 10 other occasions, including the Rancho Seco plant in California," Hart claimed.

At Crystal River, an apparent instrument panel power failure led to a shutdown of the power plant's reactor and the flooding of the reactor's containment building with 43,000 gallons of radioactive water.

"A minor event at Three Mile Island resulted in very serious consequences," Hart said. "At Crystal such a review." The NRC has called the Crystal River incident "an electronic failure of some type." No radioactive material leaked outside the building, according to both the NRC and Florida Power, the utility which operates the Safety systems at the Florida plant worked as planned after Tuesday's accident and damage to the plant seems limited to the accumulation of radioactive water in the reactor containment structure, NRC commissioners told another Senate panel, the Appropriations Subcomittee on Energy, on Wednesday.

Did electrician cause nuclear plant shutdown?

CRYSTAL RIVER, Fla. (AP) -Florida Power Corp. officials refused comment on a report that the Crystal River nuclear generator was sent into emergency shutdown by an electrician working at the plant.

"I can't make any judgmental statement on that," utility spokesman Bill Johnson said Wednesday. "We're still going through the studying pro-

Nuclear Regulatory Commission chairman John F. Ahearne told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee in Washington on Wednesday the loss of power to control room instruments at Crystal River apparently was caused by an electrician working at the plant.

Asked if he had any reason to doubt the officials' comment, Johnson said:

Subcommittee chairman Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., said the Crystal River mishap may warrant a major new investigation of nuclear plant safety that could require some generators to be shut down

Also in Washington on Wednesday, the Union of Concerned Scientists, a private nuclear safety group, said all nuclear generators designed by Babcock & Wilcox should be closed until proven safe.

In addition to the Crystal River facility, there are eight B&W plants in the United States, including the Three Mile Island reactor in Pennsylvania which neared a disastrous meltdown after an accident last March.

Earlier Wednesday, officials at the plant said they did not know the cause of the electronic failure and a sevenminute delay in a backup power system which they said triggered the accident. Twenty-one NRC experts were investigating the mishap.

"It was an electronic failure of some type," said James P. O'Reilly, the NRC's division director from Atlanta. "It could have been a switch or something in a small console.'

As O'Reilly and utility officials briefed reporters at the Gulf Coast site 60 miles north of Tampa, the generator's nuclear core remained awash in 43,000 gallons of water. The water - highly radioactive at one point - gushed onto the floor of the reactor containment building when automatic safety devices sensed a loss of plant controls about 2:40 p.m Tuesday

No radioactive material leaked, the utility said. But O'Reilly said radioactivity on the containment building floor once reached an estimated 50

Fifty rems is about 10 times more than the normal allowable level of human exposure for an entire year. There were no reports of workers in the plant suffering hazardous exposure, however.

The NRC team was working to devise a safe process for draining the water away.

O'Reilly said it would be "at least a week" before the plant could be restarted. Johnson said the wait might be even longer, and that in the meantime the utility might have to purchase power from other companies, resulting in higher bills for custom-

The plant provides about 20 percent of Florida Power's generating capacity. The utility serves approximately 725,000 customers in 32 counties.

Money market funds still mystery tor many savers

By GLENN RITT

WASHINGTON (AP) - Their growth is as meteoric as the nation's inflation rate. Yet, they remain a mystery to many savers who are searching for an investment that withstands withering price in-

The new investment is called money market funds. Their attractiveness should be no secret — they're paying interest rates of 12.8 percent or more, a far cry from the maximum 5.5 percent earned on passbook sav-

On top of that, some funds offer checking privileges, something that many savings accounts do not now

THUS, MILLIONS of Americans, including small savers, are turning to money market funds. In a marketplace dominated by the stock market, savings certificates and savings accounts, the funds have become the nation's fastest growing investment. 'What we have here is a vehicle that provides the small saver with the same kind of sophisticated cash management tool and inflation hedge that large financial institutions rely on," says William Donoghue, publisher of Donoghue's Money Fund Report, an authoritative industry newsletter.

Donoghue says the growth in fund deposits is a direct result of inflation. With inflation running at 13 percent, savings invested in passbook accounts are losing buying power. "The average person no longer can afford to be lazy about his savings," says Donoghue.

MONEY MARKET funds are so new that many people confuse them with money market certificates, or mutual funds.

Here's how money market funds work: The funds pay about the same yield as six-month money market certificates or Treasury bills. But those investments require minimum investments of $10,000 - and money market funds take investments of $1,-000, and sometimes less.

In addition, fund investors can withdraw their money anytime, without penalty. The certificates, which proved popular after they were introduced by banks and savings associations in 1978, charge a high penalty for deposits that are withdrawn before six months.

Also, the nearly 80 money funds carry small service fees charged by the stock brokerage firms or mutual funds that arrange the deposits and handle the accounts.

MANY MONEY funds also offer checking privilege, although there usually is a mininum requirement of $250 or $500 per check.

In most cases, the funds can be redeemed by phone, making them as liquid as a checking account.

By Feb. 6, more than $55 billion in money funds had been sold, up from $10 billion as recently as early 1979. In continue, causing "slow or possibly the 37 days from Jan. 1, 1980, to Feb. 6, investors poured more than $10 billion in the money funds.

In the past year, the number of shareholders increased by 350 percent to two million people.

Until recently, the funds were allowed only to run small, tombstone ads that carried little useful information. Following regulatory action, the funds now can stress their yields and checking features.

They even have discovered televi-

"THESE SPOTS have not been limited to programs such as 'Wall Street Week,' which might be expected to reach sophisticated investors, but have been aired on such shows as the "Muppets," says the American Bankers Association, a group that is deeply threatened by the funds. The ABA, in recent congressional testimony, said if interest rates remain high through 1980, the growth of money market funds is certain to even negative growth in the deposits' of banks and thrift institutions.

In fighting this threat, banks and thrifts note that money market funds are not insured by the government, as are passbook accounts and higher-yielding certificates of deposit. In addition, the certificates sold by banks and thrifts guarantee a particular interest rate. In contrast, funds advertise their current yields, but pay investors the prevailing interest at time of redemption.

That could mean a lower yield than expected. But it also could mean higher interest.

A SPOKESMAN for the savings and loans warns that, "there are periods when, conceivably, the funds experience loss of principal, or, at least, abrupt fluctuations in investment re-

There also are reports that the growth of the funds has overwhelmed fund managers, causing delays in servicing fund accounts.

The funds note that while they are not insured by the government, they boast many safeguards to protect their customers' investments. A money fund pools investors' dollars and invests in a wide portfolio of certificates of deposit, commercial paper, bankers' acceptances, and other high-yielding, short-term vehi-

THAT DIVERSITY minimizes the threat of one poor investment. Moreover, the funds use methods to calculate yields that virtually guarantee little fluctuation over a six-month period, says the Securities and Exchange Commission, which regulates the funds.

In January, the SEC completed a study of the money market funds and gave the funds a relatively clean bill of health:

"Inspections revealed isolated problems with respect to the operations of some money market funds,' the SEC said. "Most of the problems have been corrected."

Rail service possible

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Texas Triangle between Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio would fall within the congressional guideline for ridership if rail service were expanded, says a report by Amtrak and the Department of Transportation.

The area also would meet the congressional standard for the projected ratio of revenue to expenses.

The Texas Triangle was among 18 corridors studied for possible expansion of rail service. All of them met the congressional guidelines...

"As rising fuel prices and continuing shortages change the transportation makeup in this country, we must be prepared to offer the public attractive alternatives to the automobile," Amtrak President Alan S. Boyd said in submitting the report on 13 of the corridors to Congress.

"Amtrak is convinced that these developing corridors can provide such alternatives, where trip times and frequencies are competitive with the automobile,"

Amtrak and DOT prepared the report at the request of three congressmen last fall. It was submitted over

The Texas Triangle was the longest, with 772.2 miles, and the least densely populated, at 10,124 persons per mile, of the 13 corridors studied first.

Amtrak estimated that it would cost at the most $1.2 billion for track and signals on the route if trains traveled at 79 mph maximum speed. The cost for grade crossings would be $99.6 million.

Those figures were by far the highest of the 13

Passenger trains now running in the Texas Triangle include the Inter-American between Dallas and San Antonio once a day and the Sunset Limited between Houston and San Antonio three times a week

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - With 32 charged with delivering a controlled persons in custody, El Paso police today continued a roundup of about 100 more suspects in a "sting" operation officers say netted more than $2.1 million in stolen property.

Late Wednesday night, police said they had arrested 32 of the 139 persons sought in the second phase of the operation, which began 18 months

The persons in custody all listed addresses in the El Paso area and ranged in age from 18 to 56, police

The first phase of the operation, dubbed "Alpha," resulted in 84 arrests last year, and of that number, all but one suspect has been convict-the U.S. Customs Service. About $144,000 in "buy money" was used by undercover agents to buy the stolen goods. The transactions were secretely videotaped, and Agan said the evidence of the tapes accounted for the high conviction rate of those arrested in the first phase.

The roundup, which began Tuesday, was conducted by about 40 federal, state, county and city officers. Most of the suspects had been arrested by noon Wednesday, Agan said. The first phase of operation Alpha ended last April when a police captain and a Customs agent posing as buyers engaged in a shootout with five men who apparently decided to rob the two men buying their stolen goods.

"They did not know they were dealing with undercover agents," Agan

The two officers were shot and seriously wounded, but they managed to shoot back. Two of the thieves were killed, and a third one was wounded

State employee supports human sterilization

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The chairman of the Texas Board of Human Resources says a person should lose the right to have children if he or she can't support them — much as a prisoner loses rights by breaking society's rules.

"I've always felt when you cannot support yourself or your family that you give up certain rights. One of these is bringing in more children," Hilmar Moore of Richmond said

By ERMA BOMBECK

I don't expect anyone to get too choked up about this, but we are in the middle of National Letter Writing

I don't know about you, but I'm going to observe it by sitting right down and calling my friends whom I haven't written in three years.

My reluctance to write letters is based on several reasons:

(a) I never have anything to report that is worth 15 cents; (b) when I read them over, I sound like a shut-in and get very depressed; (c) I never remember to mail them and find myself going through them months later, changing "The baby is walking" to "The baby is married" or "I am on a diet and must lose 15 pounds" to "I am on a diet and must lose 15 pounds over each knee.

I am intrigued by letter writers. . what prompts them to write, how much they write, and their system for replying.

My mother runs her correspondence like a railroad. Upon receipt of a letter, she will sit right down that

The intriguing thing about the postal system is its optimism toward its future. They not only assume they'll have one, but they're already figuring out how it will work. The letter of the future will be sent electronically via satellite.

They are studying a system that will transmit a message to a post office where it is transformed into digital data at the rate of 10 pages per second, then beamed to a domestic satellite for instant transmission to a receiving post office. There it would be reconverted into printed form, automatically folded, and inserted into an addressed envelope at the speed of four to six letters per second.

I'm not sure, but I think they've just invented the telegram.

Updating her "refunding game" Euda Lee Kemper also shows off some of the merchandize she has gotten through this game. Mrs. Kemper began saving coupons and using forms in July and says this is not just for housewives. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

Euda Lee Kemper may have answer to those escalating grocery prices

By SANDI BREEDEN Lifestyle Writer

No one needs to be told of the escalating prices of groceries. However, there's help for those who want

At least one Midland woman is doing something to help cut those costs: she has joined what is nationally known as the "refunding game."

"Why should I throw away that stuff (packaging material) when I can make money off of it," asked Euda Lee Kemper, 2011 Princeton.

In order to play the "refunding game", according to Mrs. Kemper, a person should save all packaging that products come in, labels off of cans, jars, cigarette packages, etc. "A person never knows what part of the packaging the company is going to ask for in order for them to get the refund," she said.

How does the refund game work? According to Mrs. Kemper, the first step is to start saving the packaging material. Then, save coupons and forms. Many coupons and forms are for receiving money from the company who sponsored the coupon or form. Some offer merchandise at a low price, plus some proof of purchase of a certain product.

"I have been doing this for about a year," said Mrs. Kemper, "But I didn't really get into it until July. Now my three-year-old is even asking 'Mommy, do you need this,'" she said with a laugh.

The penney-wise woman said that after a person starts mailing in the forms and coupons, it takes about a month to receive the money or merchandise. "But after a person gets started, depending on how many coupons and forms they mail out, they can receive something everyday,'

"I do this through necessity," said

Mrs. Kemper. "I first read about it in a publication and now I am deing

Mrs. Kemper's system of keeping up with the forms and coupons consists of two file boxes. "I keep one file with forms and coupons I know I will use. I file these by expiration date. The other file has coupons I do not use but may trade with someone for another coupon, and coupons I have too many of," she said.

"This is not just for housewives," said the working mother. "This is for thousands of people. One person saved money from the coupons and forms and took a trip to Bermuda. I'm saving to take my family to the Smithsonian Institution.

That may not be such an impossibility either with methods like a tripleplay in existence. A triple play works like this: a person goes to the store and purchases an item that is on sale, uses a coupon for that item to receive further reduction off the price and then sends a proof of purchase from the item to its manufacturing company and receives money for having purchased the product.

One story in a well-known paper-back about the refunding game told of the author getting $129 worth of groceries for seventy-nine cents.

Many companies have coupons that read, "send two top labels off this product and we'll send you $1." Or, get a coupon by mail good for a free package of this product when you

All of these "earning money" ways are very common, according to Mrs. Kemper. "Many people want to know why companies will give customers money for just sending some paper. This is their way of introducing their food and an advertising agency's way of seeing how well the product is

Turkey time is any time the big, old bird is cheap

By MERLE ELLIS

One of the best buys you're apt to find in your butcher's meat case this time of year is that big old bird you usually don't think much about this time of year — TURKEY.

on special at one market in my neighborhood last week for 69 cents a pound. That's too good a buy to pass up. Yet, many people do pass up such a bargain because they think of turkey only in terms of "roast turkey with cornbread stuffing, cranberry sauce and candied yams.'

There are hundreds of things to be done with a turkey, besides what you do at Thanksgiving, if you'll take one home and take it apart. The turkey industry is doing marvelous things with the bird. You can now buy turkey parts in most markets, and boneless turkey breast rolls, ground turkey and turkey steaks. You can even buy turkey hot dogs and ham, but the best buy usually is the whole bird. With a little cutting-up-in-the-kitchen, you can take advantage of a bargain-buy on whole turkey and fill your freezer with meat for all manners of inexpensive meals.

Cutting up a turkey is very like cutting up a chicken, except for the obvious difference in size. And, because the average turkey is a bit more mature when it comes to market than the average chicken, there is not quite as much "space" (soft cartilage) between the joints for the knife to slide through. It will, therefore, undoubtedly take a little longer. However, it is a feat easily accomplished

- particularly if you have been practicing from time to time on a chicken

It is important to remember that if the bird is frozen when you buy it and most often it will be - you should thaw it out in your refrigera-USDA grade A frozen turkeys were , tor, not on the kitchen counter. Cut it up while it's still a little frosty and get the component parts back in the freezer as quickly as possible. There is no reason why you can't refreeze turkey if you keep it cold in the cutting process.

To cut up a turkey, first put the bird on the cutting board and examine it for a moment. Wiggle a wing, tug at a leg, determine where the parts are attached, then take it apart. Start by turning the bird on its side. Hold the wing and cut down on the joint where the wing is attached to the breast. Cut through the joint and remove the wing. The wing can be divided into three parts by cutting at the joints. The two meaty parts from each wing are great for frying or barbecuing: the wing tips have little meat so save them for the soup pot.

Next, remove the leg and thigh. First cut the skin between the thigh and the body of the bird. Then bend back the leg and thigh to expose the joint. Cut through the joint with the tip of your knife. Be sure to remove the choice "oyster" that lies along the back along with the thigh.

To separate the leg from the thigh, simply push back the skin on the underside of the leg. Every turkey I have ever known marks the joint where the leg is attached to the thigh with a line of fat. Find the line and cut through the joint. The legs can be used along with the wings for a meal of fried or barbecued turkey

The meatier thigh can make a meal by themselves. Cut down along one side of the thigh bone, then around both ends, so that the bone can be lifted out. The boneless thigh meat can be used for a variety of different dishes. Slice it thin for stir fry dishes, cut it into kebabs or roll it into a small turkey roast. Two thighs can be rolled together for a larger roast, with or without a stuffing.

To remove the breast from the body of the bird, rest the bird on its back and cut down along one side of the breast bone to remove half of the breast. Do the same on the other side and you have two large meaty pieces of white turkey meat to do all sorts of things with.

Each half of the breast contains a muscle called the flet or tenderloin. These can easily be removed to provide some delicious filets for sauteing. Cut them about an inch thick and pound them slightly, just as you would a pork tenderloin. The rest of the breast can also be cut ino slices, if you like, to be fried, sauteed or used in any recipe that you might normally use for veal. Turkey breast is a great substitute for the far more expensive

Or you can tie the two halves of the breast together to make a marvelous turkey roll roast. If the roast is too large for your famliy, simply divide it into two smaller roasts, or even cut a few extra cutlets out of the

The rest of the carcass, the boney back, the wing tips, the neck and the giblets (except for the liver) should be used to make a great pot of turkey soup — and enough of it so you can invite company in.

As you can see, there are many things to be done with a turkey besides roast it, if you're willing to do some money-saving cutting-up-in-the-

Forecasters predicting large turnout at election

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - A huge turnout in the three-day Rhodesian election was predicted today after nearly a third of the black voters cast ballots on the first day. Three persons were killed at one polling station, but little other violence was reported.

"The general picture is of very heavy polling, which has gone well in most areas. It has been orderly in most places," the British elections commissioner, Sir John Boynton, told a news conference.

He said more than 886,000 of the nearly 3 million eligible blacks voted by midafternoon Wednesday. Police reported 15,000 people were waiting in a line four miles long at one polling station.

"If this goes on, it's going to be a big poll," said Boynton. Reports from around the country indicated that twice as many persons voted than did so last April on the first day of the election that gave Rhodesia its first black-majority government after 90 years of white rule. The difference apparently was due to the participation of guerrilla leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo and their parties, who were excluded from

Police said three Mugabe supporters were killed when they attacked a mobile polling station in the Enkeldoorn district 70 miles south of Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital.

In other incidents around the country, Mugabe supporters threw stones at police vehicles at various places; a crowd beat up a Mugabe man accused of poisoning the water, and troops used teargas to drive back partisans of another faction, and police in Salisbury broke up a band of Mugabe supporters who were stoning supporters of Bishop Abel Mu-

Generally, however, the first day of voting was "very quiet," said a spokesman for the British governor, Lord Soames. Armored cars and troop carriers loaded with armed soldiers patrolled urban and rural areas, and teams of foreign observers toured the 650 polling stations.

During the five-day election last year while the guerrilla war was still on, 218 guerrillas and 43 black civilians were killed. The blacks are voting to fill 80 of the 100 seats in the new Parliament, the other 20 having been filled by the white minority in an election earlier this month. The results are to be announced Tuesday, and Soames will ask the leader of the party winning the largest number of seats to form a government.

Nine parties entered candidates, but the parties led by Mugabe, Nkomo and Muzorewa were expected to divide most of the 80 seats, finishing in that order. However, none was expected to win a majority, and the leaders of the neighboring black countries that backed Mugabe and Nkomo in their guerrilla war against white rule were urging them to form a coalition government.

Police arrest two leftist leaders

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Two leftist leaders missing for two days were under arrest and charged with weapons possession and occupation of public buildings in connection with the seizure of two embassies and city offices, police reported. They said a third was being detained.

The action was expected to heighten protests at an anti-government rally

The leftists were taken before a special judge who is studying the charges against them, police said Wednesday. Police did not say who the judge was or when he would rule on the cases.

Earlier, police officials had denied arresting Juan Chacon, leader of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc, and Carlo Argueta, an official of the February 28 Popular League, although the Bloc had claimed they were both in police custody

Police said League leader Jose Guillermo Canenguez was also being held, although the leftist groups had not mentioned him.

Authorities alleged Chacon was instrumental in the mid-February occupation of the city's water and sewer service offices and that the other two leaders organized this month's occupations at the Spanish and Panamanian embassies

Hostages were taken in each case, but none was injured and all three buildings were vacated after the government freed political prisoners demanded by the leftists. The Spanish Embassy occupation was the longest,

The LP-28, named for the date in 1977 when soldiers fired on a massive anti-government demonstration, resulting in the deaths of a number of leftists, planned a big march today to downtown San Salvador. Civilians here said they expected the leftists' arrests to make the marchers more forceful than usual For months, leftists have seized buildings and taken hostages to back their demands for government reform. They seek redistribution of wealth and farmland in the Central American country, which has a population of 4.3 The leftists want a Marxist government and the resignation of the present civilian-military junta, which last October toppled Gen. Carlos Humberto

Romero. Salvador's military opposes the left and has said it supports the junta.

But there have been unconfirmed reports that talk of a coup is continuing among rightist elements in the military. In a public announcement, the junta asked the military to criticize leaders who may have considered staging a coup. Last week, the United States threatened to cut off aid to Salvador if the military seized power.

Coup leaders postpone elections

PARAMARIBO, Surinam (AP) - A leader of the army sergeants who seized power in Surinam says next month's scheduled national elections have been postponed, possibly for as long as four years.

Sgt. Laurens Eduard Neede announced the postponement in a telephone interview Wednesday with Radio Curom on the island of Curacao in the Netherlands Antilles.

Asked when elections would be held, Neede said, "It could be one year, two years, three years, four years. It depends on the situation." He did not elaborate.

Neede said life was returning to normal in the former Dutch colony on the northern coast of South America, following the Monday coup by eight army sergeants angry at the previous regime's refusal to let them form a union. Between 10 and 15 persons were reported killed in the power struggle. "Heads of departments are working and everything goes on," Neede said.

Stores and government offices reopened Wednesday in Paramaribo, the capital, and cars returned to the streets. Authorities said the Paramaribo airport and public schools would reopen today.

Authorities said a civilian council has been appointed to carry out administrative tasks under the jurisdiction of a military council made up of the sergeants who led the coup against former Prime Minister Henck Arron. Neede refused to answer questions about the whereabouts of Arron and he would not comment on the political leaning of his regime. Earliers reports received in the Netherlands Antilles said Arron was believed in rebel

House passes Nicaragua aid bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's request for $75 million in U.S. aid to keep Nicaragua from going communist appears assured of congressional approval after winning passage in the House by only five votes.

House supporters claim the money will help prevent Cuba from influencing Nicaragua's new Sandinista government to turn Marxist, although opponents of the proposal say the aid package is too late.

The House approved the aid authorization 202-197 Wednesday after attaching two restrictions wanted by opponents. One would prevent any money from going to Cuban teachers now in Nicaragua and the second provides for a cut-off of the aid if Nicaragua denies freedom of the press or speech. Congress must appropriate the money in a separate bill. That could happen as early as next week because the funds have been added to a $8.1 billionforeign programs appropriation bill now ready for final action.

The bill's floor manager, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., told the House before passage that the aid will help democratic forces in Nicaragua maintain "independence from international communism."

Zablocki said he couldn't guarantee that Cuba might not yet succeed in influencing Nicaragua to become communist. But he claimed House rejection of the aid "would be abandoning the field to (Cuban President Fidel) Castro

Zablocki contended U.S. AID TO Yugoslavia has-helped that eastern European nation maintain some independence from the Soviet Union. But a leading opponent, Rep. Robert B. Bauman, R-Md., said in the debate that the aid is too late because Nicaragua's government "is already ... communist." Other opponents also said they believe it is too late to prevent

The restrictions against use of the money to aid schools in Nicaragua which employ some 1,200 Cuban teachers was approved by 235-166.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE White House having its problems with rat packs

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The demolition of old buildings in downtown Washington, to make way for new, is confronting White House groundskeepers

So many displaced rodents roam the neighborhood that some of the most stately White House elms have been ringed with sandbags - to discourage the rat packs from taking up residence.

One enterprising magazine photographer invested in a pound of hamburger meat, to feed to the rats in broad daylight in Lafayette Park, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the presidential mansion. He figured the feasting rats would stand still long enough for him to photograph them with the White House in the background.

The rats did not cooperate.

WHEN PRESIDENT AND MRS. CARTER threw a Valentine's dance less than two weeks before the New Hampshire primary, Mrs. Carter's office told reporters there would be guests from 27 states.

For reasons not explained, New Hampshire was omitted from the list, although a number of Granite State Democrats were among the guests.

Perhaps the White House crew is becoming sensitive to complaints by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and others about the use of the powers of incumbency to boost Carter's political fortunes.

Many of the 250 couples who showed up for the dance came to the White House hungry, having been told a buffet would be served in the State Dining Room. The menu included steamship rounds of beef, carved roast turkey and

But, alas, no plates. Guests were free to take all they could eat - so long as they could hold it in their palms on dainty cocktail napkins.

A REPORT IN THIS SPACE LAST WEEK about the widespread use of fireplaces and wood burning stoves at the White House prompted questions as to whether the practice saves either oil or money.

The quick answer is that it's difficult to say. But Carter aides emphasize that the motive for installing two wood stoves was to help focus public attention on the search for alternative energy sources — not to save money.

The Energy Department estimates that the heat from a cord of hardwood, when burned in an efficient stove, is about equal to the warmth generated by 130 gallons of fuel oil. Since heating oil now sells here for about 95 cents a gallon, a cord of wood destined for an efficient stove - like those in the White House - should pay dividends if it costs less than $123.50. The low bid on the latest delivery of cordwood to the General Services Administration, which supplies Carter's office, was $115 for a cord of seasoned

That would seem to make wood-burning economical — except that most of the wood consumed by Carter and his aides feeds fireplaces, which are not as efficient as the new stoves.

The White House is supplied with steam heat by two generating plants operated by the GSA. The plants, which use both oil and coal, heat federal buildings throughout the city.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

More pain killers not always best

Dear Dr. Solomon: I cannot understand why terminally ill patients are not given huge amounts of pain killers. When my father was dying of cancer and pleading for greater relief from pain, the hospital staff was concerned that he might become addicted to morphine if he were given larger doses of the drug. Does this make any sense to you? Why worry about addiction in a terminally ill patient? —

Dear Mark: The medical profession is neither unaware nor unconcerned about the dilemma you point out. However, there is evidence that increasing the amount of morphine given a patient may not have the desired or expected effect.

Researchers at the University of California, San Francisco, found that morphine apparently provides all-ornothing relief. While larger doses permit a greater number of patients to obtain relief from pain, they do not increase the degree of relief achieved by a particular person. Moreover, exceeding an appropriate dose only makes the patient more vulnerable to possible harmful side effects.

While this particular study dealt only with morphine, one questions whether this all-or-nothing phenomenon may be true of other pain killers as well.

Although physicians would like to be able to completely ease the suffering of terminally ill patients, there often are limitations to how much they are able to do — even apart from the legal and ethical considerations that might be involved.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been on anti-hypertensive medication for almost a year. Recently, I heard about biofeedback, and I was wondering if it would be possible for me to substitute some kind of biofeedback for the pills.

Dear Ed: Although biofeedback can be used in the treatment of high blood pressure, the technique apparently does not work as well in actual life as Researchers at Rockefeller University have found that patients with high blood pressure can learn to control it through biofeedback; however, the scientists were less successful in treating hypertension on a longterm basis. The reason is that in actual life, patients are being continuously subjected to a wide range of stimuli and pressures, with which biofeedback training cannot prepare them to cope.

Dear Dr. Solomon: In one of your columns, you wrote about the way in which blood pressure is read, and you explained both the systolic and diastolic figures. What I'm wondering about is this: Which figure is more important in determining the possibility of a man having a heart attack? -

Dear Mr. H.: Recent studies evaluating high blood pressure as a risk factor for cardiovascular disease have revealed a surprising difference based on age. For men over 45 years of age, the systolic pressure (the upper figure) is the stronger risk factor; for those under 45, the diastolic pressure (the lower figure) is the more important risk factor.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Charter tour operators sued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board and the Justice Department filed suit Wednesday against two of the nation's largest charter tour operators, alleging they violated board rules intended to protect the money of consumers who purchased tours from Boston to Las Vegas.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Boston, cites Carefree Travel, with headquarters in New York City, and David Travels, with main offices in Miami. It also named two Boston wholesale travel agents as defendants, Travelot Ltd. and Pathmark Tours.

The complaint seeks to hold Carefree and David liable for money lost by tour purchasers and their retail travel agents when Pathmark, which had been selling Carefree-David tours from Boston to Las Vegas, went bankrupt in 1978. The money lost might be as much as $100,000, the board said.

The suit says Travelot assisted Pathmark in the sale of these tours.

The complaint alleges that if the passengers' money had been placed in an escrow account as required by CAB regulations, it would have been protect-

Reuben Robertson, director of the board's bureau of consumer protection, said the case is significant because of "the problem of tour operators marketing their tours through several layers of intermediaries and then disclaiming responsibility if consumers are harmed.

'Tour operators must recognize that if they choose to market their tours in this manner they are still responsible for violations of the board's consumer protection rules and they have an obligation to take all reasonable steps to ensure that violations do not take place," Robertson said. 16 Word with year

Englishman playing Abraham Lincoln on Broadway

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) - Roy Dotrice is his name. He's an English actor. And he turns in a brilliant, masterful solo performance in an improbable role for an Englishman. He plays Abraham Lincoln in "Mister Lincoln.

He and this one-man play, by Herbert Mitgang, a veteran New York Times reporter, bowed Monday on Broadway for a six-week run. The run should be extended. The show is good, Dotrice is superb.

Though the play at times makes Lincoln a bit too saintly, too noble, the Dotrice version of the nation's 16th president is anything but a stiff, stock historial character. His Lincoln is a creature of flesh and blood, a man of deep passion, great humor and greater sorrow

The play is done as a narrative account of Lincoln's life, times and thought, spoken by him to the audience, to his wife, Mary, to his long-time law partner,

The president, bearded and somber, sits in an old rocking chair, talks wearily of the details of his own assassination by John Wilkes Booth on April

There also are the memorable speeches and jokes of his campaigns, the editorials that assailed him, his hot anger at the Senate for slandering his wife, and, of course, the famous Gettysburg Address to which Dotrice brings a quiet, 14, 1865, at Ford's Theater in Washington, D.C.

"The calender called it Good Friday," he says in slow, measured cadences, a man worn down by the agony of the Civil War and killed by a madman he calls a fusebox of hatred trying to explode.'

Somehow, this opening scene works, despite a my-life-flashed-before-myeyes cliche. We go to the early days of Lincoln in New Salem, Ill., then work forward with quick sketches of his public and private life.

Dotrice, exiting the rocking chair, gradually and smoothly becomes the younger Lincoln, lively, animated, full of jokes and good humor that saved him in his repeated bouts with "my old malady" - depression.

THE ACTOR DOES A SUPERB JOB of shading Lincoln's emotional highs and ever-increasing lows as he progresses from country lawyer to President, from amateur soldier to firm-willed Commander-in-Chief not afraid to put down unruly generals in need of putting down.

And, naturally, there's the constant issue of slavery. This play's Lincoln has an unbending hatred of it: "If I ever get the chance to hit the institution of slavery, I'm going to hit it hard.' He vows this as young man. Later, he keeps the vow with the Emancipation Proclamation. Whether he always did hate slavery so fiercely no doubt will be debated by historians who see this show No matter. It's an engrossing night, smoothly directed by Peter Coe and performed on David Lovett's fine wood-panel set that holds, among other things, a writing table, rolltop desk, lectern and rocking chair. All are used by Dotrice in what could have been a dull, static historial tableau, but never is. With only a tiny occasional trace of his English accent slipping into his Yankee character's speech, he makes the drama come

NEW YORK (AP) ABC won the networks' prime-time ratings race for the week ending Feb. 24 with plenty of help from the Winter Olympics, and despite an unexpected rush from NBC, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The week was NBC's best in the ratings in 15 months, though the network has finished first in the competition twice this season.

ABC, winning for the third time in a month, had four of the 10 highest-rated programs, all prime-time coverage of the Olympics from Lake Placid, N.Y.

NBC's thrust after several weeks in third place included five of the Top 10 shows, including the TV premiere of a theatrical movie, "Harper Val-ley PTA," in first place and another movie, "The End," in third.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For a man who writes such wildly comical books, Joseph Heller leads a surprising well-ordered existence.

He has been married to the same wife for 30 years He has lived in the same Manhattan apartment building for 30 years, works out at the same Y ("I like the monotony of indoor jogging"). He avoids the cocktail party circuit of literary New York because "you have no real conversations and form no real friendships."

What he does mostly is write - and brilliantly "Catch 22," has been recognized as the classic novel of World War II. Sales now number 10 million worldwide ("I recently got two checks totalling $12,000 from Yugoslavia").

Thirteen years after the first novel came "Some-thing Happened," in which Heller managed to find humor in the plight of parents with a retarded child. The writing pace picked up, and three years later he produced "Good as Gold," now out in paperback. It concerns a Jewish intellectual who becomes a Nixon adviser (chapter heading: 'Invite a Jew to the White House and You Make Him Your Slave'').

"Every Jewish actor between the ages of 30 and 70 wants to play the role of Bruce Gold," Heller reported during his visit here. "As yet it hasn't been sold to movies because producers ask, 'How can we adapt it?' I know how to adapt it, and so I am going to write a treatment. But not the script. Screen writing is more difficult than most writers realize.'

Heller, 56, admitted that his novels aren't easy to adapt to the screen. He observed that "Catch 22" failed as a film because Mike Nichols "had too much !

Lee boys head Tall City swim assault at regional

LUBBOCK — The awesome Midland Lee boys' swim team heads up a group of Tall City swimmers that will be here Friday and Saturday for the Class AAAA Region I championships.

Lee also qualified a large number of its girls' team while Midland High's tough girls' crew is well represented, as are the Purple Pack

Swimmers advanced to the region meet by placing in the top six at district tournaments. The top two placers in each event at region advance to the state meet

Topping the Lee qualifiers is Cleve Carrens, who won both the 200 individual medley and 100 butterfly in the District 5-4A meet. Freestyler Robin Franke, a winner in the 200 free, will be in that event and the 100 free. Jon Franke is set for the 100 free and the 50 free while Scott Beatty's in the 100 backstroke and 50 free, Paul Friemel's in the 100 back and 200 IM, John Kimberly's in the 100 back and 50 free, Mark Solari's in the 200 free and 500 free, David Fishel's in the 100 breaststroke and Mike Alvarado's in the 200 free. Also, Lee won both the 200 medley relay and the 400 free relay.

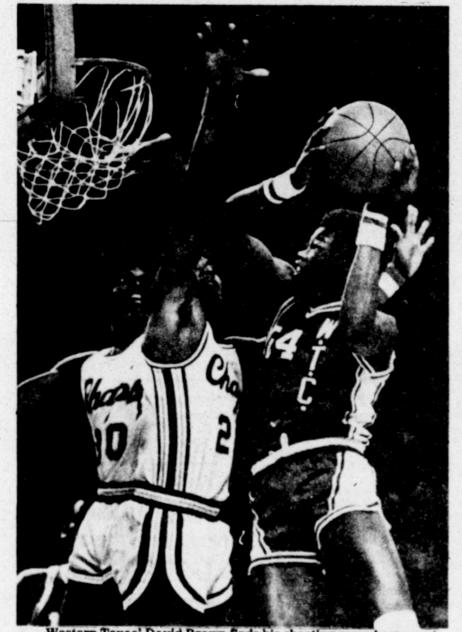

The Rebels won the 5-4A boys' meet and are the defending regional

For Midland High's boys, who tied for fourth at district, Tony Gunn will be in the 100 breast, Bobby Stephen in the 100 back, Wade Vinson in the 100 fly and Billy Worley in the 200 IM. The Bulldogs also qualified both

Midland High's girls, paced by dynamic sophomore Carrie Mayes, finished second at district and are sending a crack outfit to region. Mayes, who seems to break a record each time she dives into the pool, won the 100 breast and 200 IM at district and should be a good bet to annex Joining Mayes in both events will be Chrissie Faller. Also, Julie Spaugh will swim in the in the 50 free and 100 free, Sandy Snelson will swim in the 100 breast and 200 free, Diane Flaten will swim in the 100 breast and Janie Dowdle will swim in the 100 fly. Midland also qualified both relays teams, including the winning 200 medley quartet.

The Lee girls, third at district, will have Patti Bruton in the 100 fly and 200 free, Meg Harrington in the 50 free and 100 free, Doreen McGookey in the 100 fly and 500 free, Emily Murrah in the 100 breast and 200 IM, and Lisa Breen and Sara Stone in the 100 back. Lee also qualified

Chaps, Wranglers tied for second in WJCC race

The top three Regional tournament berths have been nailed down, but sole possession of second place remains a bone of contention as the Western Junior College Conference enters its final night of regular sea-

Midland College and Odessa College are locked for second with 13-4 records and both play on the road tonight. The Chaps, losers of their last three in a row, travel to Clarendon College, a team that is 0-17. OC will be at Hobbs, N.M., to play New Mexico Junior College, 3-14 in WJCC play.

The battle for fourth and fifth place goes right down to the wire with Howard College, 10-7, currently holding the edge. Frank Phillips and Amarillo College are both 9-8.

Western Texas College, meanwhile, is 29-0 for the year and not only WJCC No. 1 nationally

The regional tournament begins at Chaparral Center Monday night with 10 teams entered, five from the WJCC and five from the Northern Conference. Monday's games will be a qualification round in which the fourth place team from one conference plays the fifth place team from the other to advance to Tuesday's round. Four games are on tap Tuesday, two in the afternoon and two at night, to qualify for Wednesday's semifinals. The tournament concludes Thursday with the inter-league all-star game followed by the championship contest that will send the winner to the National Junior College tournament in Hutchinson, Kan. Irish destroy Demons' streak

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

"Don't play Notre Dame when you're No. 1 and unbeaten."

Digger Phelps has a point. Five times in the 12-year history of Notre Dame's Athletic and Convocation Center, top-ranked college bas ketball teams have found their Waterloo there. On Jan. 23, 1971, UCLA had a 48-game, non-conference winning streak snapped at the ACC. Three years later, UCLA's monumental 88-game string went down the drain. In 1977, it was unbeaten San Francisco, and a year later defending national champion Marquette. Wednesday night, it was DePaul.

"That's what freaks me out about this place," said Phelps after his Fighting Irish took a 76-74 doubleovertime victory over the nation's No. 1 team Wednesday night, snapping the Blue Demons' 26-game streak dating back to last year.

"All I could say to Ray after the game was that I was sorry," said Phelps of DePaul Coach Ray Meyer, who has won 622 games in his career at the Chicago school. "He's done so much for college basketball."

Meyer, though, didn't particularly feel sorry for himself. As a matter of fact, he was kind of relieved after carrying the albatross of an unbeaten

"I've been asked 10 times in the last two weeks about being No. 1," he said. "I didn't ask to be No. 1. It was voted, and so what! I'll send congratulations if there is another team voted No. 1 after this game. He can have the monkey.' I don't want it."

Kelly Tripucka led Notre Dame with 28 points and Orlando Woolridge added 16, including the two winning free throws for the nation's 14thranked team with 19 seconds left in the second overtime. Mark Aguirre; voted the game's most valuable player, scored 28 for DePaul.

Elsewhere, Auburn defeated Georgia 79-71 and Florida upset Vanderbilt 72-71 as the Southeastern Conference

Lee, Midland continue pursuit of Permian at Pecos

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

PECOS - It looks like Midland Lee and Midland High will be chasing Odessa Permian again here Friday and Saturday in the West of the Pecos Relays, but both teams appeared to be geared for a solid showing.

Permian was a bold winner at the Comanche Relays last week in the opening meet of the season, and it looks like the Lee and Midland High teams will be the major competition for the Panthers in the narrow six-team field here this weekend. Odessa High, El Paso High and El Paso Coronado will join the Division III field.

But this meet also marks the beginning of the track season for both the Lee and Midland High girls and they will face a strong 12-team field.

Permian, Odessa, Ector, Fort Davis, Hobbs, Sanderson, Pecos, El Paso, El Paso Coronado, Van Horn, Seminole and Dell City will join the local girls in the Division I

Division II will be made up of boys from Pecos, Balmorhea, Sanderson, Fort Davis, Valentine and Fort Stockton winner Van Horn.

The meet begins at 2:30 p.m. Friday with all boys field event finals and running preliminaries. Saturday's action begins at 9:30 a.m. with preliminaries and field event finals for the girls. All running finals will begin at 1:30

Midland High will try to get a big jump on the field Friday in the field events, where the Bulldogs scored 30 points last week at Fort Stockton.

David Simmons, who is considered one of the best weightmen in the state, is heavily favored to capture both the shot put and discus. Simmons had a 180-2 in the discus last week and won the shot put with a 59-3. He has been over 60-feet already this year, however.

James Lary, a regional berth winner last year in the discus, is expected to give the Bulldogs more points in the same two events while Jim Kemper is a pole vault threat after a 13-0 jump last week.

The Bulldogs are also considered to be strong threats in both the 100 and 200 meter dashes with Jeff Robnett and Billy Taylor. Robnett won the 100 at Fort Stockton last week with an 11.14 while Taylor was a winner in the

The Bulldogs also have hurdle strength with Bruce Fisher and Scott Yocham, but the two hurdle events could be the most competitive races of the meet.

Lee's David Piccolo is one of the reasons for hurdle strength. He was a surprising winner in the intermediate hurdles with a meet record of 40.57 last week in Fort Stockton. He was also second to San Angelo's Dennis Nolder in the 110 meter high hurdles last week.

Lee will also rely on senior Phil Carleton for points. He placed second in the 200 last week with a 22.75 and anchored both relays.

Kevin Harper is also a help on the Lee mile relay team and placed second in the 800 meters with an outstanding time of 1:58.3 last week. He is the favorite here to win the first varsity race of his career.

Lee assistant coach Eddie Wolski has promised a surprise or two from the Rebels after some apparent maneuvering during the week

The MHS girls of coach Helen Barton return six point earners from last year. Susan Shoemaker will be strong in the hurdles along with 400 ace Jana Trolinder. Eleanor Scott will be in the 800 while Donna Repman and Lisa Harrison return in the 1600 meters. Karen Kuykendall will be back in the high jump.

Other Bulldogs are DeNette Parker, high jump and long jump; Jenna March, 200; Sara Smith, high jump; Terry, Flak, triple jump and long jump; and Millicent Meroney,

The Lee girls of coach Linda Caraway appear to be strong in the sprints and hurdles. Sprinters Cathy Olson and Arlene Butler have looked impressive while the hurdles seems to be in good hands with the likes of Terry

Williams, Lori Breeding, Ora Bell and Allison Hatfield. Pam Roberts will be in the long jump. This meet will show just how strong the girls will be this year. They have not competed in a meet this season and there are no times to evaluate right now. However, Repman is the defending mile champion and district record holder and should be in for a good year. She is also the 5-4A cross country champion.

Mustangs worry Tech's Myers in SWC tourney

By GREG THOMPSON SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech Coach Gerald Myers wishes things had been a little more peaceful this season for the Southern Methodist basketball team.

The Red Raiders go against SMU tonight in the Southwest Conference post-Season basketball tournament. And Myers is worried that the Mustangs will benefit from season-long "win or else" pressure and last week's resignation of SMU Coach

Sonny Allen. "I think they have some extra incentive. They probably will be more relaxed and play better because of the pressure they've been under all year. That pressure's off now," Myers said Wednesday at the coaches' press conference. "But our team has plenty of incentive. We've had a lot of disappointments this year, and our players feel they have a chance to salvage a little bit.

SMU athletic officials delivered Allen a "win or else" ultimatum before the season. The Mustangs won their first seven games. But they floundered to a 7-9 record in the SWC, splitting two games with Texas

Allen resigned last Friday, saying it was "best for the school and best for myself." The Mustangs then dispatched Baylor 86-83 Monday night to earn a berth in tonight's second

LEVELLAND - The 28-4 Greenwood Rangers begin their quest for a state basketball tournament berth here Friday when they square off against Nazareth, 25-6, at 2:30 p.m. in the first round of the Region I Class B playoff tourna-

The single elimination, eight team tournament will be held at the Texan Dome on the campus of South Plains College.

Southland will go against defending champion Channing at 4 p.m. while Sands will tangle with San Elizario at 7 p.m. First round action Friday will end with an 8:30 p.m. contest between Hedley and Motley County.

The winners will advance to Saturday's second round while the losers will be eliminated from playoff action.

Action begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday with the winner of the Greenwood-Nazareth contest going against the winner of the Southland-Channing matchup.

lost glory GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - Norm Sloan and Bill teamer Banks would opt for the National Basketball

Foster could very well be opposing each other for the final time when their teams meet tonight in the third game of opening-round play in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament.

Sloan already has announced he will leave North Carolina State to return to his old job at the University of Florida. Meanwhile, Foster will neither confirm nor deny reports he will replace the legendary Frank McGuire at South Carolina once Duke's season has

"I don't know what the coach is going to do," Duke forward Gene Banks said Wednesday at a press conference he called to announce he would return to fulfill the final year of his collegiate eligibility

Banks was considering turning professional follwing his junior year. And while he admitted Foster's status has not influenced his decision, perhaps his will have an affect on Foster. Duke, a team once rated first in the nation, has suffered crippling injuries and fallen from the polls. Faced with the prospect of All-ACC center Mike Gminski's graduation and the possibility second-

Association, Foster appaeared to be all but gone.

Now, reports have circulated that Foster may remain at Duke. The Blue Devils, 7-7 in the ACC and 19-8 overall, show promise for next season with Banks returning .

Sloan, a veteran of 14 seasons at N.C. State, made his decision in spite of the returning talent on the Wolfpack team. He would be especially blessed the presence of talented freshmen Sidney Lowe and Dereck Whittenburg.

Lowe, who has been described by Sloan as being "poised and steady," joins first-team All-ACC choice Hawkeye Whitney when the 19th-ranked Wolfpack meets Duke at 7 p.m.

Sloan, who led N.C. State to three ACC crowns and a national title, has been especially enthusiastic about the team, which has posted a surprising 9-5 conference record and an overall 20-6 mark. The teams traded victories this season, with both

Hartford Whalers sign ice Famer Bobby Hull

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) -The Hartford Whalers continue to construct a modern day Hockey Hall of Fame in the National Hockey League. The Whalers announced Wednesday night they have signed all-time great Bobby Hull of the Winnipeg Jets for 'future considerations.

"They tell me he is full of enthusiasm and wants to play," Hartford Coach Don Blackburn said of Hull, who joins 51-year-old Gordie Howe and 39-year-old Dave Keon. "If he can contribute, it will be a big plus for us down the stretch. The 41-year-old Hull has been sidelined since he suffered a shoulder injury Dec. 12 as he rushed a comeback try with Winnipeg. He has been recuperating in Florida and will skate with the Whalers at a practice today. Club officials said Hull probably will be in uniform early next month. The "Golden Jet" is one of only two men in professional hockey to score at least 1,000 goals each in major league hockey when their scoring in the defunct World Hockey Association is combined. Howe is the other. Hull began his 23-year career

Atlanta enjoys biggest NBA lead

By The Associated Press

Don't look now but the Atlanta Hawks, who haven't won a title since the National Basketball Association went from two to four divisions in 1970-71, have the biggest lead of any NBA division pacesetter heading down the homestretch.

'Now we're six up and 17 to go and that's just great," Coach Hubie Brown said Wednesday night after the Hawks defeated the Indiana Pacers 116-111 and opened a six-game Central Division bulge over the San Antonio Spurs, who were beaten by Boston 130-125, and the Houston Rockets, 110-97 winners over Washington. 76ers 101, Sonics 98-Julius Erving scored 23 points, including the goahead basket in overtime. Erving's 17-foot jump shot 39 seconds into the extra session put the 76ers on top 97-95, Bobby Jones' 18-footer increased the edge to 99-95 and Maurice Cheeks' two free throws with five seconds remaining clinched the Sixers' eighth victory in the last nine games. The Sonics dropped 11/2 games behind Pacific Division-leading Los Angeles.

Rockets 110, Bullets 110-Moses Malone scored 33 points, including 21 of 23 free throws, and got into a late-game shoving match with Washington's Elvin Hayes. The Rockets trailed until late in the third quarter when Allen Leavell's layup gave them a 67-65 lead. Malone hit six of his free throws in the final 31/2 minutes. With less than two minutes left, Hayes knocked him to the floor and Malone came up pushing. Players and coaches from both teams separated the two players.

Bucks 119, Suns 110-Junior Bridgeman scored a season-high 35 points and Marques Johnson added 25 as Milwaukee moved within two games of first-place Kansas City in the Midwest Division. The Bucks trailed by eight points with 5:26 remaining in regulation time but outscored the Suns 14-6 with Bridgeman scoring six of the points to knot the game at 102. Hank Parker, Clover, S.C., is all smiles over this $25,000, being held by Mrs. Parker, for winning the Bass Masters Classic at Lake Texoma in September.

KENNY REDIN'S

Fin & Feather

If you like bass fishing competition, then take a look at two organizations that have spawned national bass fishing tournaments in recent years and are experiencing great fisherman participation, plus paying top prizes in the thousands of dollars bracket.

But first, let's tell you a little about what you can expect from fishing a major tournament, the benefits and drawbacks.

Professional bass tournaments have grown by leaps and bounds in the last eight years in the United States. The southern states once dominated most major tournaments, but within the past three years, big money tournaments have cropped up in the west, north and east.

Tournament fishing is a way of life with a lot of anglers. Some are sponsored by boat manufacturers, lure companies and the like. But the majority are fishermen just like you and I. We are entering these tournaments for fun, fellowship, fishing and a chance to win some money. We normally don't win any money, but it's still a great experience and provides the opportunity to learn from the

When you think about it, it's really a bargain. For instance, if you acquired a guide service for two or three days, it would cost roughly $80 a day and more. Entry fees in major tournaments range from $140 to $300. And in these tournaments, you don't even have to use your own boat. You can be paired with a different angler each day. You're actually saving money fishing when you enter a major money tournament. And if you are skilled or lucky enough, you can make a little spending money.

Those are advantages, but there are drawbacks. If you don't like to fish eight straight hours, then you don't need to enter a tournament. When it comes to fishing for big money, those entered do fish hard. If you don't like fishing with strangers, that's another drawback. Each dayyou are paired with a different partner. You do what he wants half the time and the other half you are the big

Two major organizations stand out in my mind as producing the finest, safest and most respected tournament circuits in North America. One is the Montgomery, Ala., based Bass Anglers Sportsman Society of America. In 1980 their circuit is split in two divisions, east and west. This permits anglers to fish closer to home and gives more anglers an opportunity to qualify for the Bass Masters Classic in September.

A West Texas fisherman entering a BASS tournament would probably enter the West Division. Lakes and dates include: Lake Sardis, Miss., March 26-28; Missouri Invitational Lake of the Ozarks, April 23-25; Texas Invitational at Toledo Bend, June 25-

Twenty anglers from each division qualify for the Masters. Fishing the BASS circuit will, in the West, require a $300 entry fee per tournament. For more information, write Bass Anglers Sportsman Society, P.O. Box 17900, Montgomery, Ala., 36117.

Another organization catering to West Texans is Western Bass, a newcomer to professional bass fishing, based in Newport Beach, Calif. They host two-day tournaments with a $140 entry fee and offer three divisions.

The Eastern circuit should appeal to West Texas and Eastern New Mexico residents. First tournament is at Elephant Butte Lake, Truth or Consetournaments are at Conchas Lake, May 3-4, and Ute Lake, June 7-8. The final event will be "common" to Eastern, Northern and Southwestern regions and will be at Lake Mead near Las Vegas, Sept. 12-13. The top 10 percent of competitors will qualify for the Western Bass Tournament of Champions in October.

Hogs' Sutton devises scoring efficiency system

By HARRY KING LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — For Eddie Sutton, scoring averages produced a fuzzy picture.

He began piddling around with figures, looking for something that would shed more light on the ability of his University of Arkansas basketball

The end result - a scoring efficiency system.

"When you look at the point aver-'M a guy averages 25 points a game and he shoots 15 times a game and another guy averages 25 points a game and shoots 25 times, that's a lot of difference

"What it does show you is that a guy who is scoring 17 or 18 points per game might be much more valuable than a guy who is scoring 20 or 30 points," Sutton said.

SUTTON determines the efficiency rating for a player by dividing a player's total points by his field goal

That makes for some interesting statistics.

For example, Ricky Pierce of Rice is second in the Southwest Conference in scoring with an average of 18.8 points per game. However, he is seventh among the top 10 under Sutton's system with an efficiency rating of

That means that every time Pierce

shoots, the Owls can expect 1.18

A perfect score would be 2.0, although it would be mathematically possible to do better.

Ironically, the league leader under Sutton's system would be Arkansas center Scott Hastings.

Hastings is averaging 17 points per game, fourth best in the league. His scoring efficiency is 1.51 points per

Sidney Moncrief - a member of the Milwaukee Bucks - set the Arkansas standard when he averaged 1.65 points per shot as a senior last year. Hastings has scored 442 points, but he has only shot 293 times. His number of attempts is lowest among the league's top 10 scorers. "Hastings is high because he gets so many free throws," Sutton said. 'Most people's offensive philosophy is to get the ball in close. The percentage is higher and there is a good chance you're going to get fouled.

Here are the scoring averages of the SWC's top 10 and their scoring efficiency: Terry Teagle, Baylor, 22.5, 1.39; Ricky Pierce, Rice, 18.8, 1.18; Ron Baxter, Texas, 17.9, 1.25; Scott Hastings, Arkansas, 17.0, 1.51; Brad Branson, SMU, 16.0, 1.08; Ver-non Smith, Texas A&M, 15.9, 1.10; Rob Williams, Houston, 15.7, 1.25; John Danks, Texas, 15.5, 1.27; Ken Williams, Houston, 14.4, 1.02 and Rynn Wright, Texas A&M, 14.2, 1.28.

Fishing in wilds worth the effort

Fort Hope is north of Nipigon, about 1 1/2 hours flying time from Thunderbay, Ontario. An alternative route would be the Albany River by Canoe from Highway 599 about 60 miles to the west. The rivers are the roads in Ojibway country.

Once in Fort Hope, booking agent Louis Waswa of Ojibway Country Indian Camps obtained food and supplies and a selection of lures from the co-op store, introduced me to guide Ananias Papah and arranged float plane transportation to camp on Purchase Lake. Within three hours, we were unloading our gear at Purchase Lake on the Wabassi River.

Ananias and I were the only, two here. The camp consisted of a spacious cooking and dining cabin, equipped with fridge and propane stove, guest cabin, guide's cabin and icehouse.

We stowed our gear and while I sorted out my fishing gear, Ananias 5 trout. cleaned the cooking cabin and prepared a sumptuous steak dinner, complemented with two veg and a pudding dessert.

Except for a congenial grin and a gracious nod when we were introduced by Louis Waswa back in Fort Hope, we had flow in, set up camp, dined, done the dishes and were out on the lake fishing and Ananias had spoken only two words.."eat" and

Our score for two hours on the shallow widening of the Wabassi called Purchase Lake was a couple of five pound northern pike and three two pound walleye pickerel. Nothing to get excited about except for the fact there was a lot of fish to be caught in the Wabassi.

When I noted the foam sleeping pads were all rolled up and stored in the freighter canoe the next morning, I assumed that we would be tenting out on the river. I broached the question and received a confirming nod. When I didn't voice or otherwise indicate any objection to this splendid idea, Andy proceeded with prepara-

My impressions were confirmed by a man I met three days later back in-Fort Hope, who remarked, "that man Ananias, he doesn't talk much."

We were running down river and every few hundred meters there would be a stretch of fast water or a small rapids where we would pause for a few casts. Invariably we would hook and release two or three walleye, two to three pounds, and a few heavier, hard-pulling northern pike.

We finally encountered full grown Class II rapids and while I walked down the shoreline to lighten the canoe, Andy poled down by using a long paddle. In spite of the tricky narrow channels, he may have nudged a rock occasionally, but he never hit one.

Between motor and paddle, Andy could thread a needle with that big wood and canvas chestnut canoe.

The rapids formed a large placid pool at the bottom end so after I was back aboard, we tried our luck for a bigger than average walleye.

Something belted my yellow squid and took off upstream into the fast water where it proceeded to make a stand in the shelter of a deep eddy—unusual battle tactics for a walleye. My all-purpose eight pound test eventually proved too much for my gallant opponent and he was brought to net...a whopping five pound speckled Babbling incoherently, I held my prize aloft to share with Andy the glory of the moment. He smiled and nooded, "lunch"

We camped that night on a high bank overlooking a bend in the river. After pitching our tents, Andy cooked up a voyageur's feast of chops in mushroom sauce, pan fried potatoes seasoned with a smidgin of onion and topped off with canned pears for dessert with the traditional staunch bush

Our run back upriver to camp the next day was a rerun of the downstream trip, starting with good speckled trout fishing, gradually convert-ing to pike and walleyes as we ap, proached Purchase Lake. We didn't score on the big pike that are known to rule the shallow lake but we found prime walleye waters two-thirds of a mile beyond the cam-p on the upstream side.

Ojibway Country Indian Camps are divided into three geographical re-gions and offer a wide variety of sportfishing combined with wilderness travel. The Purchase Lake Camp, which I enjoyed, is only 30 miles by air northwest of Fort Hope and is only one of six sites, most of which are closer to

John's Olibway Wilderness Camps include Washi Lake, Tebeau Lake, Nottick Island and Pym Island, noted for walleye, northern pike and brook trout fishing as well as moose hunting

'Hunters' given life in slaying

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) - Citing a "total wanton disregard for the right of another to live," a judge sentenced two young white men to terms of 25 years to life - and recommended no parole - in the murder of deaf black man solely for sport.

Butte County Superior Court Judge Jean Morony recommended Wednesday that Marvin Dean Noor, 19, and James Thomas McCarter, 20, "be kept in prison for life without any parole whatsoever at any time" for killing Jimmy Lee Campbell when they could find no animals to shoot.

The killing and its handling by prosecutors outraged the black community, and after the sentencing Campbell's sister screamed a racial insult at District Attorney Will Mattly.

The state Board of Prison Terms could parole the two after 16 years and eight months. Morony said he made his recommendation because he would be retired when the two came before the parole board. Because of a court gag order, details of the case surrounding the 22-year-old Campbell were not revealed until Jan. 30 - a year after the killing in Chico - when Noor and McCarter pleaded guilty to charges of first-degree murder.

The two and Dani Lee Shope, 24, Noor's girlfriend, had originally been charged with the special circumstances of killing a person because of race, a death penalty offense.

Mattly told the judge that the pair's youth and intoxication at the time were reasons he chose to accept the plea bargain instead of seeking the death penalty at a trial.

He said a death penalty conviction is impractical until the state Supreme Court makes a strong statement that it will be used.

Mrs. Shope pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree murder last July. She was sentenced to 15 years to life.

After the sentencing, the Sacramento Association of Black Attorneys told reporters it will ask the U.S. Justice Department to prosecute the three on federal civil rights charges. Attorney Ramona Armistead said the maximum federal sentence could be life imprisonment. During the sentencing, Campbell's sister, Patsy Campbell, 24, broke into tears. She shouted at Mattly outside the courtroom.

Butte County has about 2,000 black persons among a total population of about 30,000.

Mrs. Shope said the shooting occurred after the three had driven around, drinking and smoking marijuana, looking for a deer or a cow to shoot with a 30-30 Winchester hunting rifle.

They spotted Campbell walking along a railroad track and shot him, referring to him as "dark meat,"

The two blamed alcohol for most of the crime. "I got drunk, lost touch with reality and participated in the murder of another human being," Noor said. "Besides being an alcoholic at the time, my four years before 900 people at the temple's Jonestown, Guyana, settlement followed the Rev. Jim Jones in suicide in November, 1978. The deaths came after a Califoria congressman and three newsmen, investigating reports by the Mills' and others of mistreatment and brainwashing at the outpost, were slain at a nearby airstrip. In the last tape recording he made from the camp, Jones blamed Rep. Leo Ryan's visit in part on Mrs. Mills, and warned: "The people in San Francisco will...not take our deaths in vain, you know."

"Our entire family still lived under the conscious awareness that every member of the church would feel justified in killing any of us because were are considered to be traitors," Mrs. Mills said shortly after the death ritual in Guyana.

The body of Mills, 51, shot in the head, was found in his bedroom in the family's cottage near a rest home. The body of his 40-year-old wife, also shot in the head, was discovered in an adjacent bathroom.

The couple's 15-year-old daughter, Daphene, was in critical condition and officials said her chances of recovery were slim.

The Alameda County Coroner's office said there were no signs of a struggle and did not rule out the possibility of suicide. Berkeley police questioned the couple's 17-year-old son, Eddie, who told officials he had been watching television and had not heard the shootings. Neighbors also said they heard no distur-

Sting suit dismissed

DENVER (AP) - A federal judge has dismissed a $16 million suit against two police departments and a federal agency, ruling police did not violate the civil rights of a slain man whose car was purchased by police during an undercover "sting" operation.

The ruling of U.S. District Court Judge Jim Carrigan held essentially that police do not have to arrest immediately persons suspected of selling stolen

Carrigan, in a recent ruling that first came to public attention this week, advised the brother of one of the slain drivers his suit might be brought more appropriately to state courts as a wrongful death
